

today in brief AF Dam challenge dismissed

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

SHOSHONE — A suit challenging the replacement of American Falls Dam has been dismissed by Fifth District Court Judge Douglas Kramer.

The suit had challenged the contract executed by American Falls Reservoir District No. 2 for repayment of bonds on the dam replacement project.

It further charged the president of the district board was illegally removed without judicial process and that no confirmation proceedings were held by the district on a Jan. 12 election that approved the bond repayment contract.

The suit was a major obstacle to the estimated $38 million project to replace the deteriorating American Falls Dam.

The reservoir storage capacity had been reduced by one third as a safety measure. The new dam would again permit full storage.

The complaint charged amendments were made to the repayment contract after elections, on the contracts were held. This placed a liability on the district that was not shown in the original contracts, plaintiffs charged.

These amendments, the complaint said, increased obligations of the water users beyond those at the time of the election. The plaintiffs asked the court to order the defendants to call new elections based on the amended contracts.

Some of the water users in Lincoln County also objected to the rates they would be charged for repayment of the bonds, saying their land is marginal and will not support such rates.

Judge Kramer filed an "order and judgment of dismissal" Tuesday after hearing arguments in the case brought by William Kerner and Charles Barnes as individuals and on behalf of stockholders of American Falls District 2. The suit was filed against Wendell R. Johnson, current president of District 2, and directors Cecil Trospier, Joe Pavkor, Robert Johnson and Charles Johnson.

Kerner is a former president of the board in District 2 and resigned before filing the complaint. He was replaced by Johnson. Cwell Hobey, Gooding attorney for the defendants, said he is pleased with Judge Kramer's decision and feels it is correct. He said he now sees no further obstacles in the way of the project.

Judge Kramer heard arguments in the case April 13. In his decision, the judge said the plaintiffs, although they propose to be acting for and on behalf of the American Falls Reservoir District No. 2, simply do not have the authority to do so.

Jamps Anest, Burley attorney for the plaintiffs, said he could not comment on the decision at this time. He said he has talked with his clients but as yet no decision has been made on whether or not to take further legal action.

"Judge Kramer said the legislature provided for "boards" to institute action in such cases. In the light of this, he said, it appears the plaintiffs do not constitute a board.

He said the court's ruling is a suit to enjoin the defendants from doing an unlawful act, and added whether the acts of the defendants are lawful or not will have to be determined in a confirmation hearing.

"This also, he said, is not a suit to require the defendants to proceed with confirmation proceedings. It is a suit against directors and not the district, and would appear to seek to declare the proposed contracts as void."

Judge Kramer said another judge might hear the confirmation suit. In his decision for dismissal, Kramer said he does not feel he should deal with issues which would come before such a judge.

"I realize the plaintiffs claim their defenses are restricted under a confirmation proceeding, but again this will be for another judge to decide," Kramer said.

The Burley Irrigation District entered the lawsuit as a "friend of the court."

Prices leap up in April

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices leaped 0.8 per cent in April, propelled by the biggest increase in farm and food prices in a year, the Labor Department reported today.

The increase, reflecting a nearly doubling of the annual rate of 9.6 per cent, brought an abrupt end to a virtual five-month lull in the wholesale market. But administration economists insisted it did not mean that inflation is heating up again.

President Ford's chief economic adviser, William Seldman, said in an interview the increases were "in line with our expectations."

He noted the administration had never anticipated prices to continue at the low levels established in the first quarter of 1976.

"Acknowledging the increases may pose immediate problems for Ford's economic policies in the presidential race, Seldman nonetheless reported that a new administration analysis of long-range trends show inflation will be "at or below our estimate (of 6 per cent) for the year."

"We can't expect that every quarter is going to be better," he said.

Administration economists do not expect farm price increases to exceed 3 or 4 per cent this year, Seldman noted. But industrial prices are bound to soar in the next few months as the result of announced increases in metals and wood products.

Led by livestock, eggs and green coffee, farm prices rose a hefty 4.2 per cent after declining sharply the previous three months. Processed food and feed prices rose 1.9 per cent — the biggest rise since November, 1974.

Combined farm and processed food prices rose 2.8 per cent. Not since April, 1975, have these prices taken such a large leap.

Despite already announced future price increases for steel, aluminum, copper, lead and some wood products, industrial prices rose a slight 0.3 per cent during March.

Poverty attack outlined

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today offered the Third World a sweeping program to combat poverty that could mean higher prices for U.S. and other Western consumers.

Kissinger spoke to the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development then flew to Paris at the end of a six-nation, 13-day African tour. He planned to return to the United States Friday.

In his 10,000-word address, which drew warm applause from many of the 4,500 delegates, Kissinger proposed establishment of a $1 billion international resource bank to encourage investment in development of raw materials resources in poor countries.

He also announced U.S. willingness to participate in an international stockpile program to guard against wild fluctuations in commodity prices. He proposed establishment of a privately financed "technology corps" to train Third World workers, and increased financial aid.

Experts in the U.S. delegation said the full program, if enacted, could result in slightly higher prices for commodities in industrialized nations, including the United States, for some of the things they buy.

They said some U.S. government agencies opposed this aspect of the program — but the State Department view prevailed. One expert called the program an insurance policy — bringing stability to the world's economy.

Kissinger predicted in an interview with the three American television networks that debate over his proposals "could become quite acrimonious here."

He said the Soviet Union might not support the program, but would have "no means of blocking it" because Soviet financial support is not essential.

Kissinger said his program tells the Third World nations "they should get off the slogans and get to work on a concrete program."

Dr. Robert D. Birch, 35, was acquitted in a decision by Judge Theron W. Ward, who then ordered him committed for psychiatric treatment.

Judge Ward said his decision was based on Birch's mental condition. He said three psychiatrists testified Birch was suffering from "mental disease as defect," which would require intensive treatment.

Birch was arrested in Twin Falls and charged with kidnaping his former wife, Patricia, at gunpoint. She escaped when officers approached the Birch vehicle which had become stalled in a borrow pit northwest of Twin Falls.

Twin Falls city police charged Birch with two counts of kidnaping. The complaint said he first kidnaped his former wife Oct. 9, 1975, and returned to Twin Falls last January when he took her from her home at gunpoint. He was charged with assault with intent to commit murder in the second incident.

FBI pushed gang fights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI provoked and encouraged bloody gang warfare between the Black Panthers and rival groups in hopes of neutralizing the organizations or killing off the leadership, a Senate intelligence staff report said today.

At least four gang-style killings in California in 1969 were linked to FBI provocation, and the bureau targeted the premises of a Chicago Black Panther apartment for a local police raid in which two died in a gun battle the same year, the report said.

The supplemental report, prepared by the Staff of the Senate Intelligence Committee, was titled "The FBI's Covert Action Program to Destroy the Black Panther Party." It cataloged FBI tactics ranging from anonymous hate letters and scurrilous propaganda to targeting Black leaders for killing by one side or the other.

Information on the FBI "marking" the Chicago apartment where two Black Panther leaders were killed during a raid apparently was not forwarded at the time to the Chicago District Attorney investigating the FBI's role in the operation.

Then director J. Edgar Hoover decided in September, 1966, the report said, that the Black Panther Party constituted "the greatest threat to the internal security of the country." By the following year the party was "the primary focus" for 223 of 295 actions against "black nationalists."

The report said the FBI used anonymous notes and informants to sow dissension between rival Black groups, and glowing tributes were cited between field offices and FBI headquarters when covert operations resulted in violence.

Art Jefferson, the committee staff member who compiled the report, told reporters that his investigations showed "FBI covert actions against rival Black groups 'clearly were aimed at continuing the conflict — to keep them busy fighting each other.'"

New stamp rules affect 500 in Valley

By KEN HODGE Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — About 500 Magic Valley people will lose their eligibility for food stamps when new federal regulations take effect July 1.

The remaining 2,200 people eligible will have to pay more for their stamps, according to state officials dealing with the program.

More than $20,000 of the $36,000 monthly food stamp subsidy for low income families would be cut. The reduction would be about one fifth of the total.

New regulations to be published Friday by the federal administration are designed to cut back nationwide spending in the food stamp program by $1.2 billion. "The most severe cutback in the social program in the 200 years of our nation's history," according to Jeff Kirsh, a spokesman for the Food Research Action Center (FRAC) in New York.

FRAC is expected to file suit against the Ford administration's new food stamp regulations as soon as they are published Friday, he told the Times-News.

"We will be filing a nationwide class action on behalf of numerous poor people throughout the country, over a hundred national organizations, and over 20 state governments seeking to join the department of agriculture from implementing these new regulations," according to Jeff Kirsh, FRAC spokesman.

According to Naomi Brown, spokeswoman for the Department of Health and Welfare, Twin Falls, nearly every good stamp recipient in the area will be affected by the cutback.

"There is no way of telling right now how much benefits will be reduced in Magic Valley," she said.

The new regulations have changed the base gross income figure to be used to determine eligibility, according to Mrs. Brown. A three-month average of income will be used to obtain the "adjusted gross" income and a standard deduction of $100 will be used instead of deducting doctor bills, shelter costs, child care, and school tuition.

And finally, food stamps will now cost a flat 30 per cent of the adjusted-gross income figure, she said.

Other eight "probably reflects a one-way flight to Idaho and a return trip by automobile, according to Bob Smith, Symms' administrative assistant. Congressmen get 20 cents per mile for travel by car."

Symms "would be penny-wise and pound-foolish" if he flew at the coach rate, Smith said. "Congressmen aren't real careful; they get so tired on weekend trips (not that their judgment is impaired) when they return to the House floor, he added."

"He tried to go tourist class during his first term and just decided it wasn't worth it. He couldn't get any rest and couldn't get any work done. It wasn't fair to himself or his constituents."

Symms "often works on his trip out and back," Smith said.

Gem congressmen fly first class

By DAVE HORSMAN Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Idaho's two congressmen regularly travel first class when they fly to Idaho at government expense.

Rep. George Hansen and Steve Symms, both Republicans, purchase first class airplane seats rather than "less-expensive coach seats" when they travel between Washington and Idaho.

The current difference between first class and coach fares is as much as $174 per round trip. The congressmen are allowed up to 26 trips a year at public expense, but they have not made nearly so many trips.

"In contrast, the state's two senators often fly at coach rates, according to press aides. Sen. Frank Church, "usually flies coach," according to aide Don Watkins. Sen. James McClurg buys coach seats about half the time, press secretary Tod Neunenschwander said today.

The government reimburses House and Senate members for official transportation expenses.

The latest available House records show that Hansen, representing the Second Congressional District, was repaid for five round-trip flights to Idaho during the last six months of 1975. The bills ranged from $400 to $492.

The current coach rate for United Airlines round-trip service between Boise and Washington is $330. The first class rate is $510, or 174 more expensive.

Hansen says he purchases the larger first class seats so he can work during the flight. It also allows him to stretch his 6-foot, 6-inch frame.

Norman Martin, Hansen's administrative assistant, says, "He just can't travel comfortably with his knees all doubled up into his belly."

"The only other reason I always carry about three bags of work with me," Hansen said Wednesday, "is get six or seven hours of work done going each way. I then you get your money's worth."

Hansen also files first class when he's paying the bill. "I try not to be inconsistent or hypocritical about anything I do."

Symms was reimbursed for nine trips to Idaho during the six-month period, according to the House records. His bills ranged from $233 to $745.

The $745 tab, which is much higher than the Soviet trade deficit $4.8 billion

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union ran a trade deficit of nearly $4.8 billion with Western countries last year, but "soft currency" trade with other Communist nations brought the overall deficit down to $3.6 billion.

The figures were contained in preliminary foreign trade estimates published in the newspaper Ekonomicheskaya Gazeta by Vasily A. Klochek, an official of the foreign trade ministry.

The deficit reversed a trend of increasing surpluses from sales of raw materials, particularly oil, gas and timber.

Obeyed 'duty'
BOSTON (UPI) — Marine Corps Pvt. Austin Hodge, Shelton, Wash., said here Wednesday he believed he had a "constitutional duty" to evade the Vietnam War by desertion after carrying coffee.

Prior to that, he said, he pictured war like the movies. Hodge was granted an undesirable discharge in an out-of-court settlement of suit against the military.

FEC recommends candidate funds
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Election Commission today recommended approval of more than $2 million in matching federal funds for presidential candidates — if President Ford signs a bill breathing new life into the FEC.

The FEC was rendered virtually powerless to distribute funds this year by the Supreme Court. After much delay, a bill cleared Congress this week which would make changes in the commission.

The President has not indicated whether or not he will veto the bill.

Rubber strike talks near stall
CLEVELAND (UPI) — Negotiators for the striking United Rubber Workers Union and the nation's leading tiremakers refuse to budge from their respective positions, so efforts aimed at ending the 16-day-old strike by the 70,000-member union have been slowed.

"Both sides are quite firm in their respective positions and where they want to go," Gayle F. Winkler of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, Washington, said Wednesday.

Not guilty
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore was found innocent of charges of extortion by a federal grand jury Wednesday.

The Republican governor and his administrative aide, William Lay, were acquitted after the jury deliberated more than seven hours. They were charged with conspiring to extort $25,000 from a loan company which had unsuccessfully attempted to obtain a bank charter in 1972.

Israeli ease curfew in Nabliss
TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Occupation authorities today lifted a five-day curfew on the teeming cash-district of Nabliss on the West Bank of Jordan, the scene of violent protests against Israeli rule.

The curfew was imposed after a clash between rock-throwing Arabs and Israeli troops Saturday and was extended to prevent further confrontations during Wednesday's Independence Day celebrations in the Jewish state.

Argentine clashes claim 6 lives
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Five presumed leftwing guerrillas and one Argentine executive of a ceramic factory were killed today in different parts of the country in the latest outbreak of political violence, police sources reported.

The sources said that early today an undetermined number of terrorists, believed to be leftwing guerrillas, attacked a police station near the International Airport of Riquena, 22 miles southwest of the capital, as they drove past it in two cars.

Curbs imposed

ROME (UPI) — Italy's lame duck government imposed a new curfew on Italy today to stop the lira's loss of money from Italy today to stop the lira's taint before an election showdown with the Communists next month.

Acting after the lira hit another all-time low of 916 to the dollar Wednesday, Premier Aldo Moro's caretaker government decreed that importers, Italians traveling abroad and Italians buying foreign currency or exporting lira must deposit 50 per cent of the operation's value in interest-free accounts with the Bank of Italy for 90 days.

Only when importers were exempted from the measure, which went into effect at midnight and will stay in force for three months.

The initial reaction of money markets was favorable. The lira, which has lost 35 per cent of its value against the dollar since January, regained more than one per cent, opening in Milan at 905 to the dollar.

Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — The Federal Bureau of Investigation carried on a six-year campaign to bring down the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. that was continued even after his death, according to the Senate select committee on intelligence.

FBI headquarters have also considered but rejected a proposal by the agency's Atlanta office to begin covert action operations against Dr. King's widow, Coretta Scott King.

The idea was suggested just one day short of a year following the black civil rights leader's assassination in Memphis in April, 1968.

The nature of the proposed program against Mrs. King has not been disclosed to the committee.

But it was to serve "in the interest of the public" to "entertain counterintelligence action against" her and — "The continuous projection of the public

J. Edgar Hoover rejected the idea, saying "the bureau does not desire... counterintelligence action against Coretta King of the nature you suggest at this time."

Elko pair found dead in shooting

ELKO, Nev. (UPI) — A man and a woman of four children, were found shot to death in a home here Tuesday after an apparent lovers' quarrel.

Coroner E. F. Lunsford said Wednesday preliminary reports indicate that Paul Kline, 51, fatally shot Marena Lucille Nolan, 40, in her home on the outskirts of the city. Kline then went to an adjoining garage-workshop and turned a gun on himself.

Authorities said the two had gone together for ten years and Mrs. Nolan, a cocktail waitress at a local hotel, ordered Kline to move out of her home last weekend. Kline checked into a local motel and paid a week's rent.

Mrs. Nolan's body was discovered by her ten-year-old daughter in a hallway in the home. Lunsford said two weapons were used in the shooting after a bolt on one of the guns jammed.

Travis and Elaviv, two anti-depressants were found beside the body.

Dr. Dennis Beck, attending physician, said Miss Lawler had been taking the medication to counteract depression. The drugs were to be taken in conjunction with psychotherapy, he said.

The woman had been employed at the Hiawatha Hotel since September. A friend visited her apartment Monday but left after realizing no response.

Her body will be transported to Rochester, Minn. to be claimed by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Lawler.

The committee, in its "case study," said it did not conduct an investigation into the assassination, but it added, "we came across no indication that the FBI was in any way involved" in the slaying.

"The same conclusion was reached. Justice Dept. officials said last week, by an independent study of their own of FBI harassment and counterintelligence against the Negro leader."

"That investigation has been widened from an examination of FBI files and interviews in headquarters here, to a combing of files in agency offices throughout the country, they said.

Which?

There are TWO roads which lead through Time and Eternity; You are walking one of these roads. WHICH?

- There are TWO deaths which people die — some "die in the Lord," others "die in their sin" — you will die one of these deaths. WHICH?
- There are TWO places to which people go — Heaven and Hell. You will go to one of these two places. WHICH?

The Two Roads — "Broad is the way which leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat." But "narrow is the way which leadeth unto LIFE, and few there be which find it." (Matthew 7:13-14)

The Two Deaths — "Blessed art the dead which die in the Lord." (Rev. 14:13) But "if ye believe not that I am He, ye shall die in your sins." (John 8:24)

The Two Places — "That where am I, as if I were dead." (John 11:11). But there ye may be cast into the lake of fire." (Revelation 20:15)

Demos talk about unity; Ford, Reagan draw lines

By United Press International
Suddenly, in a reversal of nearly all campaign predictions, Democratic presidential candidates are talking party unity while President Ford and Ronald Reagan knuckle down for a summer-long fight for the GOP nomination.

Jim Baker, who put front in the Democratic race, is calling for unity in talks with party leaders. He has talked by telephone this week with Sen. Hubert Humphrey, New York Gov. Hugh Carey and New York Mayor Abe Beame.

Udall, still struggling to keep his chances alive, told a Washington news conference Wednesday there will be "no bid on the floor" once the nomination is decided.

While the Democrats talked peace, Ford forecast a "tough race," but stressed he was confident of victory. No longer's GOP convention at Kansas City, Reagan expressed doubt that either will win on the first ballot.

"If neither of them makes it on the first or second ballot," predicted Sen. Howard Baker, R-Minn., "you can look for the awfullest bloodletting you've seen at a Republican convention in years and years and decades and decades."

Baker, who gained wide attention as vice chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, said he will enter the race himself if a nominee is produced on an early ballot.

Ford — now trailing Reagan in committed delegate-votes as a result of the challenger's victories the past few days in Texas, Georgia, Alabama and Indiana — told reporters he feels he hasn't got "the message" of his accomplishments across to the voters.
"We have resigned confidence and integrity in the White House, so our job apparently is to do a better job of selling it and we intend to do it," Ford said.

New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thompson, claiming the GOP would "commit national suicide with the Ford-Kissinger team," urged his fellow Republican governors to ask Ford to withdraw as a candidate. Several of those governors a few weeks ago asked Reagan to quit.

Reagan campaigned Wednesday for next Tuesday's Nebraska primary and scheduled a round of Louisiana appearances today. Ford heads west Friday for two days of campaigning in Nebraska and Missouri.

A Humphrey aide said the Minnesota senator, who decided last week against entering the Democratic race, will refrain from endorsing anyone as long as there's more than one active candidate for the nomination.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. opened a second four-day campaign swing through Maryland. Last week, in his first campaign effort outside California, Brown attracted large crowds and numerous endorsements for the May 16 primary.

Carter has reacted by beefing up his advertising campaign and scheduling more Maryland appearances.

Another late entrant, Democrat Sen. Frank Church, makes his primary debut in the Nebraska contest next Tuesday.

No retreat

DREENSE, Secretary
Donald Rumsfeld, Wednesday defended the Ford administration against charges by his predecessor, James Schlesinger, that it was retreating in its support of Israel. Rumsfeld said Ford is "committed to the security and survival" of the Jewish state. (UPI)

Mao ailing

Chicago Daily News
HONG KONG — Chairman Mao Tse-tung virtually was incoherent when he saw New Zealand Prime Minister Robert Muldoon during the latter's just concluded visit to China, diplomatic sources say.
Mao was irrefragable to utter only a few words, and the meeting ended when it was obvious he was unable to continue, diplomatic sources said.

Day care center compromise goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supporters of a vetoed bill to finance new federal standards for day care centers plan to let tempers cool and then seek a compromise to keep the facilities from closing down.

The Senate Wednesday failed by three votes to override President Ford's veto of the child day care center bill. The vote was 60-34. A two-thirds majority is required to enact the bill over a presidential veto.

The House earlier voted 307 to 107 to override. Since taking office, Ford has vetoed 48 bills but Congress has been able to override only eight of them.

The measure would have authorized $125 million to help day care centers around the country meet the costs of new federal staffing standards and state-imposed health and safety regulations.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and floor manager of the bill, said he planned "100 percent" to pass the bill for a few days, then we will try to come up with a compromise bill to deal with this problem."

Long added, "I've certainly don't want to deny the child care that is vital to so many thousands of small children whose parents must work."

The centers involved are those which qualify for federal aid due to enrollment of poverty-level children. Advocates said centers now serving thousands of poor children would be forced to close without the federal money.

The legislation would have suspended "until July 1" implementation of staffing standards which Congress approved last year.

Claim 'misleading'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A State Department spokesman has described as "misleading" a former diplomat's claim that the department ignored Saudi Arabian offers to reduce Soviet influence in Africa and help roll back oil prices.
However, spokesman Frederick Brown declined to comment in detail on the charge, made Tuesday in congressional testimony by James Akins, former ambassador to Saudi Arabia.
On the basis of published reports, Brown said, "I can say that the whole problem of the Horn of Africa... is considerably more complex than what we have seen in Ambassador Akins testimony. The inferences drawn from that testimony are misleading."

Transit drivers return

United Press International

San Francisco's Municipal Railway drivers have voted conditionally to return to work, and both sides in New York City's four-day apartment-strike have agreed to resume negotiations.

The drivers, who observed the picket lines of striking city workers since the walkout began 37 days ago, voted Wednesday night to return to work and get public transportation moving again provided two anti-labor propositions are removed from the June ballot.

Whether the 2,000 employees return to their jobs depends on the response of the city's governing Board of Supervisors. The board was asked to withdraw propositions which would make walkouts a first offense and extend craft workers' wage cuts over the next two years.

It was not clear how soon the transit system could begin functioning should drivers end their walkout.

Negotiators for New York City's Building

Workers' union, which represents some 22,000 apartment service workers, and owners of about 1,300 apartment buildings agreed to resume negotiations today.

The two sides had not met since the strike of porters, doormen and maintenance personnel began Monday. The negotiators agreed to open talks after meeting Wednesday with Mayor Abraham Beame.

Meantime, New York City's municipal hospital workers voted overwhelmingly to strike on May 24 to protest budget cuts, hospital closings and layoffs resulting from the city's fiscal crisis. Negotiations were expected to be scheduled before the strike deadline.

No progress has been reported in negotiations between the striking United Rubber Workers union and the motor manufacturers in that 16-day strike. The auto industry is starting to feel the effects of the strike. Three of the four major U.S. automakers have starting shipping out cars without spare tires.

Deluxe toilet a great mistake

A $225,000 toilet? With the help of the federal government, Idaho's highway department is building one...

Boasting a sewage lagoon-type treatment plant, more advanced than many municipal sewage plants in Idaho, the roadside reliever when completed will feature two huge lakes of sewage and large brick building for visitors to see as they enter the Wood River Valley.

Idaho's highway department fits a truck, which is paid for, and a driver who draws a small salary that together four central Idaho's rest areas, pumping the holding tanks at a dozen rest stops like the Timmerman facility.

Nobody has complained about the service, in fact, Idaho's rest areas are noted for being clean and well tended, without $225,000 toilets. Why in the name of sanity, has Idaho opted for a quarter million dollar commode when the existing restroom facilities are adequate?

First, the increasing summer traffic into Sun Valley has put a strain on the existing restroom facilities. The new plant is supposed to ease the pressure.

But for all its luxury, the $225,000 restroom has only three stalls. The existing privies provide two. That extra seat in the $225,000 restroom can rightfully be called a throne.

Second, the new restroom and treatment plant are designed to protect underground water which flows very near the surface at the rest stop.

Admittedly, lagoon systems do keep underground water from becoming contaminated.

Both of the existing restrooms, which have never contaminated a single drop of underground water, are a couple more cheap outhouses at the rest stop? Or even a dozen more.

For the cost of the $225,000 super-duper restroom with only three stalls the state could have made a lot of little kids happy by installing a few more outhouses which could service a dozen people with small bladders.

When Idaho starts building $225,000 toilets the priorities of this state and the federal government have become all twisted up.

Blaine County has a dozen more pressing highway projects than a new toilet at a roadside rest area. The bridge between Hailey and Ketchum on U.S. 93, for example, is a narrow skyline structure which has crumbled three times in the last two years.

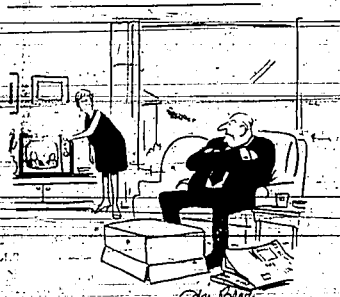

Checkholes big enough to swallow a pickup and the Badover Trail Creek Summit from Sun Valley to Mackay yet the state doesn't have the money to fill them.

Telephone poles sitting five feet off Idaho 23 between Bellevue and Gangett pose a hazard to all motorists. They stand as tall today as they ever have.

Instead of finding money to correct these hazards, Blaine County gets a $225,000 toilet.

That's what you call flushing money down the drain.

WASHINGTON — The Senate Intelligence Committee disclosed its 651-page report on a Monday night...

Yes, the report does contain some thoughtful observations... that our nation needs a foreign-intelligence service. Yes, the report calls attention to the dangers of Soviet espionage.

When these perfunctory platitudes have been acknowledged, little of value remains. The committee has raised a banner with a strange device: "Let It All Hang Out."

What is the first accomplishment of the committee's long investigation and report? It is to belittle the CIA, to stigmatize the honorable men who have served it, and to make the agency's successful performance vastly more difficult.

Consider, if you please, one legislative recommendation that provides an accurate indication of the tone and approach of the sunshine addicts in the Senate. Their idea is to consider...

prohibit virtually all covert actions; only in extraordinary circumstances involving grave threats to U.S. national security would they tolerate a secret operation.

That is inhuman, is it not? The director of the CIA would be required to lead to Capitol Hill, but in hand, and spell out his most sensitive recommendations before a gaggle of loose-jawed senators or congressmen.

Writing airplane and spear-throwers in miles of miles over Washington's Capitol in the past two years, the Congress has forfeited whatever confidence one might have had in its discretion.

JAMES KILPATRICK

True, that particular "prior notice" recommendation has been dropped — temporarily, at least — from oversight legislation now before the Senate Rules Committee.

In one of its lip-service moments, the report acknowledges that espionage directed against the United States is "extensive and relentless."

It is childish, or so it seems to me, to strike the virtuous pose that we must never, never emulate the Communist techniques. It is not wise, it is stupid, to suggest that the United States should go abroad in a dangerous world, accoutred like Little Lord Fauntleroy, to play make-believe with giants who fight with switchblade knives.

It will be a long time before the damage done by this report can be undone — before friendly nations will again cooperate with ours in intelligence service, before truly competent and dedicated men of intelligence openly arrive at the CIA.

Sen. Barry Goldwater refused to sign the report. "This is a report," he said, "that probably should never have been written. He had the last word."

Intelligence probe 'partial success'

By NICHOLAS M. HORROCK
WASHINGTON — The curtain has fallen on another congressional investigation. The television lights in the old Senate Caucus room are gone, the witness chairs are empty, the microphones are silent.

This past week, the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, which conducted half of a coordinated House and Senate investigation of the United States intelligence agencies, issued its final report, two fat green volumes containing 13 recommendations for reform and reorganization.

What is perplexing many in Washington as it must be perplexing many around the country, is just how candid the report is. On the day that the committee was publishing part of its findings, another Senate committee, the Committee on Rules, was dismantling the very legislative proposal to create the committee.

Since most of the select committee's recommendations rely for their implementation upon the good will of the oversight committee, the future of the entire legislative package seems in doubt.

In addition to possible legislative failure, the intelligence investigation was never good box office. If congressional inquiries were ranked as New York theater, the intelligence investigation would fall well behind Watergate and the Army-McCarthy hearings and somewhere between Sen. Estes Kefauver's organized crime inquiry in the 1950s and Sen. Edward W. Brooke's 1966 inquiry into government investment in private industry.

Not did the intelligence investigation create heroes. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who was chairman of the committee, has found the investigation a poor platform for his presidential race and a nuisance on the campaign trail.

The public image of the 17 other members of the committee is no better than that of its chairman, and a couple have wondered if their image is worse. This also holds true for the members of the investigating House committee.

The two main staff figures on the Senate committee, F. V. Schwarz Jr., the counsel, and William Miller, the chief of staff, had no national reputations when they started this investigation, and they have none now.

Many people in Washington came over the last decade to believe that a repressive, secret police atmosphere was a part of the atomic age. They held out little hope that anyone anything could change that.

Those with this view argued that Watergate provided a fortuitous wedge into the secret workings of government, like an opening in an overcast sky, and that the reformers would have a limited time in which to hammer into place protections against repression and a police state.

These people believe that the sky began to close when the public no longer appeared concerned about the Central Intelligence Agency's assassination plots, the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "Control Program," and the National Security Agency's electronic snooping.

Yet a third view of this year's investigation may be closer than the others to what really has happened. As one member of the Senate committee put it privately, "The Senate committee may have fulfilled its objectives, but the investigation did more harm than good by exposing national security secrets for no better reason than curiosity or hubridity and that the national defense may have been irreparably harmed as a result. This contention gets little general support, and even professional intelligence officers generally reject it."

There is also another remedy at work here, less easy to detect, the power of exposure.

The atmosphere of secrecy that surrounded earlier this year issued an executive order that appears to bar some improper practices and to center changes in the mechanics of how the intelligence community operates.

The intelligence agencies for three decades judged the men and women who worked in those agencies into the belief that their actions took place in a vacuum and would never be made public.

The President's efforts have been soundly criticized by some, but pragmatists on Capitol Hill like to point out that his reforms are all that is right now.

consider that any act they take in their official capacity may well end up in public view before a congressional committee or in the news media.

In the view of many legislators, particularly a law calling for strong congressional oversight, was a "very necessary for long-term change."

Miller and Schwarz suggest that the publicity stemming from the murder of Richard Welch, the CIA intelligence officer in Athens and the publicity from the unauthorized publication of the House Intelligence Committee's report were major factors in dissipating public and political support for intelligence reform.

Several committee members have said in interviews that from the beginning of the investigation the "quest" of CIA "political assassinations or FBI Control harassment of various groups have never caught fire among their constituents.

Without pressure from constituents, they suggest, Congress has little impetus to act.

The committee was unwilling from the beginning to operate in public or to confront and do battle with intelligence agencies that were reluctant to supply full and complete information.

The committee said that the assassination matters were too sensitive for public hearings. And it later bowed to administration wishes not to disclose matters on covert operations.

The committee, particularly toward the end of its inquiry, seemed intent on proving that Congress was as responsible in keeping secrets was the executive branch.

Strong reform legislation may well be a casualty of these tactical decisions.

Positive view

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Sweden's King Carl Gustaf said Thursday his visit to the United States had left him with a positive impression of the American people and denied Swedish news reports he acted "stiff" during the 29-day journey.

In an interview with the Stockholm newspaper, Svenska Dagbladet, the 59-year-old Carl Gustaf said that because of his position "maybe I am a little bit reserved and withdrawn. It is difficult for me to change. At times I was tense, but still... I have a difficult time understanding these critics."

Some Swedish newspapers and broadcast media have criticized the king for being stiff, cold and in some instances even snobbish during the trip.

When asked if it was hard to be a king, Carl Gustaf said, "No, not that hard, but it is time rather tricky."

He said his general impression of the United States had been positive. "Americans are tremendously spontaneous and easygoing and it was easy for me to communicate with them."

Carl Gustaf said in some places U.S. reporters had thought he would hold news conferences and were disappointed when he did not. He also said his tour through Chicago's art museum was too short.

THAT BY JURY Included in the Bill of Rights. Adoption of a Bill of Rights was initially rejected by the framers of the Constitution as an infringement of states rights.

Thomas Jefferson told the people were entitled to a Bill of Rights including a uniform trial by jury against "every government on earth" and stated his views in a letter to James Madison in 1787.

It was hard to conclude because there has been a want of uniformity among the states as to the cases triable by jury, because some have been so intractable as to dispense with this mode of trial in certain cases.

There is a bill of rights in what the people are entitled to against every government on earth, general or particular; and what no just government should refuse or rest on in its support.

And what have you learned from your wayward ways?

Reagan claims flayed

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Panamanian Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd today called Ronald Reagan a "jolly cowboy who doesn't appear to have gone to school" for his remarks on the Panama Canal.

Boyd, winding up a whirlwind visit to Colombia to seek renewed support for his country's claims on the canal, said Panama was worried about Reagan's recent primary victories and his statements that he would keep the canal forever and defend it with troops if necessary.

Boyd held two hours of talks on the Panama Canal issue with Colombian President Alfonso Lopez Michelsen and Foreign Minister Indalecio Llavano Aguirre Wednesday night after arriving in Colombia unannounced.

"President Ford has reaffirmed that the United States has a solemn undertaking to negotiate a new canal treaty and these negotiations are proceeding normally," Boyd said. "Reagan has said he will not return to the Canal Zone and lead of all under the threat of a dictator like (Gen. Omar) Torrijos."

IMF slates gold sale for June 2

WASHINGTON — The International Monetary Fund will sell 700,000 ounces of gold at its first auction of gold, scheduled for June 2, it was reliably reported Wednesday.

A formal announcement of the IMF's gold-auction plan was expected today. The executive directors of the fund gave final approval to the plan Wednesday.

World finance ministers had already agreed earlier this year in Jamaica that the fund would sell 25 million ounces of its gold over a period of four years, with the profits to go to the world's poorest countries. The profit will arise from the difference between the price received at the auction, presumably close to the world price, now about $127 an ounce — and the "official" price on the IMF books of $42.22 an ounce.

The gold markets have known for months about the IMF's intention of selling the 25 million ounces over four years and have presumably taken this into account in anticipating the total supply and future prices.

Wish granted

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — Mrs. Barbara Carter, 46, won a grant-a-wish competition and said she was fond of lions and would like to cuddle and stroke one. Now she wishes she had her wish.

Her visit to the Midland Safari Park Wednesday ended with 15-month-old lioness Suki putting her paws on Mrs. Carter's shoulders and grabbing her by the throat.

The chief game warden wrestled the animal to the ground and Mrs. Carter was rushed to hospital for treatment of shock, cuts and scratches. Her condition was described as satisfactory.

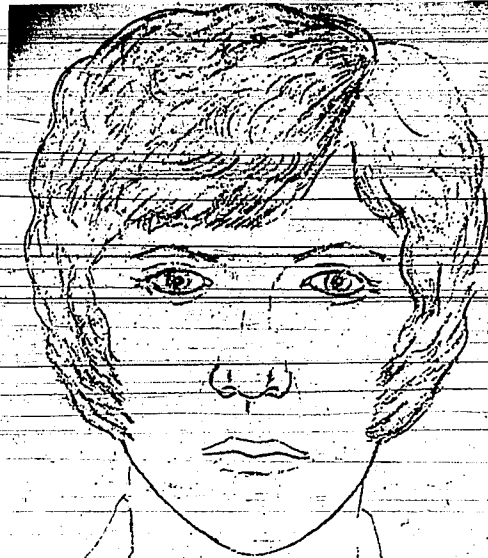

Humphrey OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey's doctor says a physical examination of the Minnesota Democrat showed no progression of a precancerous bladder condition.

Dr. W. Dabney Jarman Wednesday said the routine, six-month examination indicated "no progression of the bladder condition and on the basis of these findings no further treatment is planned."

Further diagnostic scanning studies utilizing radioactive isotopes were performed, Jarman said.

Argentina inflation

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — In most countries a 34.6 per cent monthly increase in the cost of living would be something of a disaster.

But for Argentina, which registered a 566 per cent inflation rate for the year ending in April, figure got signs of relief.

The 34.6 per cent figure announced Wednesday by Argentina's military government marked almost a four-per-cent drop from the 38.2 per cent registered in March.

Credibility on the line

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The National Conference of Editorial Writers says journalistic credibility cannot be maintained if the CIA persists in using newsmen as contacts.

A statement released Wednesday by John W. Zakarian, conference president and an editorial writer for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, said the group "opposes the randeinte employment of American and foreign journalists by the CIA, and urges that all such relationships be terminated immediately."

The group also said it opposes the CIA planting false or misleading information in the media.

The main reason for both concerns is to protect the integrity and credibility of both journalism and the democratic process, the release said.

Moynihan's view

BOSTON (UPI) — Daniel P. Moynihan believes American individualism is on the decline to the point that government is now shaping individual behavior instead of man shaping government.

Moynihan's view was outlined in a report for the Commission on Critical Choices for Americans. He theorized that American social policy has evolved from a "promise first" stage to a "give first" stage.

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Russian writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn is engaged in research in the Hoover library and archives.

Acting director Richard Starbuck confirmed Wednesday that the author is using the library collection in preparing a series of books on Russia, beginning with World War I.

Solzhenitsyn, who left his homeland after persistent persecution by Soviet authorities, has described the Hoover Institution "the richest archival material dealing with Russia."

Hughes name not on Scout record

NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — There is no indication that the late Howard Hughes was ever a Boy Scout, according to a spokesman for the youth organization to which the "billionaire" purportedly belonged one-sixteenth of his fortune.

Boy Scout spokesman Barclay Bollas said Wednesday that the Hughes will is "unauthenticated," the Boy Scouts' share of the $2-billion estate would be the biggestquest in the history of the 5.6-million-member organization.

Bollas said checks of membership lists of the scouting council in Houston, where Hughes grew up, revealed no evidence that Hughes had been a member of the scouting group, which has had 60 million members worldwide.

"He added, however, that records from the time when Hughes was of scouting age only list scouts who reached Eagle Scout rank.

"Apparently he was not" an Eagle Scout, Bollas said.

Bollas said the organization has been flooded with inquiries ever since the purported will surfaced.

"No comment," Bollas said when asked if such a request would make the scout group self-supporting indefinitely.

"No comment," he responded when asked if the scout group has asked authorities about the authenticity of the will.

The national council of the scouts, which has an annual operating budget of $14 million, would receive about $150 million if the will is accepted as genuine.

The bequest, if authentic, would be the largest in the 65-year history of the scouting group, Bollas said. Total annual bequests in the past have ranged from $1,000 to $2 million.

Bollas said there is no record of Hughes himself ever having donated anything to the scouts in the past.

Will called 'rank forgery'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Relatives of Howard Hughes, the Summa Corp., which holds most of his fortune, pressed separate legal attacks in three states today on his purported will, calling it a "rank forgery."

One group of claimants said the will could be a hoax like the phony Hughes autobiography written by Clifford Irving. Another demanded an FBI investigation and lie detector tests.

Action is pending in courts in Los Angeles, Las Vegas and Wilmington, Del., where Summa reportedly won a key legal victory, putting an ally, Hughes' relative in control of the firm.

Jack Harris, an attorney representing three sisters who said they are distant cousins of Hughes, said a handwriting expert they hired examined the will Wednesday and declared it "a rather poor forgery... in fact you might say it is a rank forgery."

W.A. Jones, an investigator representing three distant cousins, filed an appeal to delay a probate hearing scheduled here for May 21, and urged the FBI to determine if "interstate fraud and forgery" had been committed.

Jones called on Melvin Dummer, the Utah gas station operator named in the document to receive a multimillion dollar share, to submit to lie detector tests.

A Delaware Court granted a request by Summa to place William Lummis of Houston, Hughes' cousin, in charge of Summa, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

The move would be a victory for "the management of Summa, apparently allied with the Gano-Lummis family, in opposing a takeover by Noah Dietrich, the executor named in the hand-written will found in the Salt Lake City headquarters of the Mormon church last week.

Summa, incorporated in Delaware, appealed to the Chancery Court in Wilmington Tuesday, arguing that Delaware law should decide the "conflicting claims to control of the corporation while the fate of Hughes' estate is in doubt.

The sisters argued that Summa and others believe that the purported will "is not genuine" and the court granted the request to give temporary control to Lummis, the Los Angeles Times reported, quoting "sources in Wilmington."

Summa headquarters in Los Angeles confirmed that the request had been made, but not that it had been granted, nor the accusation that the will

praised by Carter

ATLANTA (UPI) — More than a year after he first announced his run for the presidency, Democratic frontrunner Jimmy Carter returned home and told his fellow Georgians they were the reason for his success.

"Throughout his entire year and all during last year, I had a tremendous advantage over all my opponents and that was my Georgia people who had confidence in me," he said at a victory party Tuesday night.

Carter said he got 90 percent of the vote in his home state's primary and also won in Indiana, which prompted his cheering supporters at Atlanta's Hyatt Regency hotel to thrust their index fingers into the air in a symbolic "No. 1" gesture.

Carter, backed by a large green and white "Jimmy Carter for President" placard, said trips made by Georgians to New Hampshire, Florida, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and other primary states pushed him to the top.

"As you know the first primary in New Hampshire and I was in trouble in the New Hampshire primary because some of my opponents had been working up there much longer than I had."

"And just when I was getting the most discouraged there was an airplane that unloaded about 100 Georgians and they slipped and slid through the ice and snow and knocked at every Democratic home, and when the returns came in we were first in New Hampshire thanks to Georgia people," he said.

"The former governor told his supporters, 'I don't intend to lose and with your help I won't lose.'"

"I want to conduct myself as a candidate for president in such a way that will always make you proud of me," he said.

Carter was joined by his family at the podium during his victory speech and to led the crowd when he first announced his candidacy in the newspaper.

An Atlanta newspaper headlined an editorial that said "Jimmy Carter's running for what?"

"I'm running," Carter said.

Carter said earlier that he talked to Sen. Hubert Humphrey by phone Tuesday and the Minnesota Democrat told him he would not do anything to hurt party unity at the national convention in July.

Boy found 'crawling' by river

FOLKSTON, Ga. (UPI) — The parents of an 18-month-old baby found crawling along the bank of an alligator-infested river in Georgia were arrested in a wrecked stolen car in Florida, authorities reported today.

The blue-eyed, blond boy, identified as Shawn Hendrix, was found Tuesday by a couple fishing along the river four miles south of Palmetto, Fla.

The child was crawling two feet from the water which forms the Georgia-Florida line.

Charlton County Sheriff Ray Gibson said the baby's parents, Larry Utsey, 35, Hendrix, 24, and Angela Judith Hendrix, 20, had been jailed at Titusville, Fla., on charges of possessing a car stolen at Fernandina Beach, Fla.

When the child was found, Gibson said, "he was on his hands and knees bawling his head off. He was close to the water. It's a wonder he didn't fall in." The spot is about 30 feet from U.S. 1, not far from the Okefenokee Swamps, infested with alligators, snakes and bears.

Gibson said the mother would also be charged with abandonment, a felony under Georgia law, and the father with possession of paraphernalia, which the sheriff described only as a drug-related charge.

"We have no evidence that the father was involved in the abandonment of the child," said Gibson, explaining the mother apparently picked up her husband after leaving the child. With the couple at the time of their arrest, another child, identified as Mrs. Hendrix's 25-month-old boy.

In Titusville, a sheriff's deputy said the boy has been turned over to the Department of Family Services. The parents, he said, had received minor injuries in the accident.

Files charges
 ACTOR Dustin Hoffman filed suit Tuesday in Los Angeles charging he is being cheated out of his five per cent share in profits from the movie "Papillon." (UPI)

'Papillon' charge filed
 LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Dustin Hoffman filed suit in Superior Court Tuesday charging he is being cheated out of his 5 per cent share in profits from the movie "Papillon."
 Hoffman said his contract called for him to receive 25 per cent of the first $500,000 in profits and then 5 per cent of all profits over $14 million. He charged the distributors with deducting improper expenses in figuring the income from the film.

Chairman Mao looks 'frail but coherent'
 HONG KONG (UPI) — The health of Chinese Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung is "very frail" but the 62-year-old leader still appears "frail but intelligent," New Zealand Prime Minister Robert Muldoon said today.
 Muldoon, completing a state visit, also said Hua Kuo-feng, China's new premier and heir apparent to Mao as first vice chairman of the party, lacked charisma in the Western sense and appeared not to grasp foreign affairs in depth.
 He said Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, was "intelligent, normal and relaxed" while watching a soccer match and fireworks display with Muldoon but that he had no insight into her political status.
 Muldoon told of his impressions of China's leaders at a news conference held shortly after his arrival from China at the end of a state visit that began a week ago and took him to several cities.
 Muldoon met Mao for only 15 minutes but he said their talks range over a variety of subjects, including "Australian opposition to China's continued nuclear weapons tests."
 "Obviously his health is very frail," Muldoon said. "He is a very old man and his condition and appearance is consistent with that."
 "He appeared coherent and intelligent. He was very aware of the issues we discussed and came through it all in a very clear spirit."
 Muldoon said the Chinese leader "had trouble speaking" at times and that he used a pad and pencil to write his replies on these occasions.
 Despite the brief meeting and Mao's difficulty in speaking, Muldoon said he "did, in fact, have an intelligent discussion."
 He told Muldoon that China still had some "experimenting" to do in nuclear testing in the atmosphere but "hopefully all China's nuclear testing would be conducted underground" before too long.
 "They say Chairman Mao suffered a stroke, not recently, but some time ago. His appearance certainly seemed to be consistent with that condition," Muldoon said. He did not clarify the word "they."
 During his stay in Peking, Muldoon held five hours of formal talks with Hua and spent another five hours with him at banquets and other informal occasions.
 "I get the impression that he essentially is a follower," Muldoon said.

Travel for 'free' benefit to Ford

© N.Y. Times News Service
 WASHINGTON — President Ford made political trips for three months this year without paying any travel bills, an advantage of his incumbency that has proved especially important because of the delay in allocating federal matching funds to the presidential candidates.
 Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter, meanwhile, have tens of thousands of dollars from their campaign treasuries continuously tied up in travel expenses.
 The President and his entourage travel on credit granted by the U.S. Government and commercial airlines, while the other candidates must pay cash in advance before their chartered airplanes will leave the ground.
 Ford's advantage is compounded by the fact that his travel arrangements and accounts are handled by White House employees on government time and government salary, while Carter and Reagan have several campaign staff members who work full time on such matters.
 Ford is doing nothing different from what other incumbent Presidents running for re-election have done, and he is abiding strictly by the requirements of the federal election law. But Reagan and his aides have been complaining loudly in recent days about the advantage the President is taking of his incumbency.
 Reagan, the former governor of California, is said by his aides to have a serious cash flow problem caused primarily by the delay in allocation of federal matching funds but exacerbated by the necessity to pay in advance for his travel and that of the reporters and secret service agents who travel with him.
 Carter, the former governor of Georgia, has solved his problem by obtaining a loan from a bank in Atlanta to cover travel costs, but his staff members said they, too, thought it was unfair that the President was granted interest-free credit by the airlines, while Carter was not.
 Officials of the airlines said Tuesday that they granted the President credit but made the other candidates pay in advance because Reagan and his aides had been complaining loudly in recent days about the advantage the President is taking of his incumbency.
 Meanwhile, as Reagan's criticism of the President surfaced, the President's staff began a counterattack.
 At the White House Tuesday, Ron Nessen, the press secretary, suggested that Reagan was reaping the benefits of "those slipping through loopholes in the law and spending money on his behalf" without having to account for it.
 "I suppose in some places, 80 per cent of the advertising for former governor Reagan is paid for by groups that say they are unauthorized or unofficial and therefore don't have to report their spending," Nessen said.
 The Supreme Court ruled in January that there can be no federal limitations placed on unauthorized spending on behalf of a candidate by person not affiliated with the campaign.

Arab visit 'mysterious'

WASHINGTON — A mysterious visit to the United States this week by Iraqi Foreign Minister Saadoun Hammadi is arousing "speculations in appropriate circles that the United States and the radical Arab state may be moving toward a gradual resumption of normal relations."
 The State Department has confirmed that Hammadi will be in Miami this week after completing visits to Cuba and Mexico but describes the trip as "unofficial, unofficial or not, it is considered highly unusual for a high-ranking Iraqi official to travel to any part of the United States except the United Nations because there are no diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Ford campaign pollsters misled in Indiana race

By FRED BARNES
 © 1978 Washington Star
 WASHINGTON — A few days before the Indiana primary, pollsters for President Ford's campaign came up with a telling finding. Their man had a comfortable lead over challenger Ronald Reagan in the state.

How could they have been so wrong? How could the pollsters have so drastically misgauged Reagan's strength in a Midwestern state that, by all odds, should have been captured handily by Ford?

The answer lies in Ford headquarters in that conservative Democrats who used to vote for Alabama Gov. George Wallace switched over to the Republican primary to side with Reagan. The indicator of a heavy turnout of Wallace Democrats was just too jumbled, said Morton C. Morton, Ford's national campaign manager.

Clearly, the crossover of Wallachites to the GOP primary contributed to Reagan's victory Tuesday in Indiana, as it did in Texas on Saturday. Just as clearly, the Ford campaign strategists don't know what to do about the crossover phenomenon.

"Asked what strategy the Ford campaign would employ to combat the Democratic votes for Reagan, Morton responded: 'I don't know.' Within a matter of days, however, Ford needs to come up with some tactic, for he will face Reagan in five more crossover states in the next four weeks.

At this point, he appears likely to lose four of them: Idaho, Arkansas and Tennessee on May 5, and Montana on May 1 — and could win over Reagan in his home state of Michigan on May 18 by an astonishingly small margin.

Should this occur, it would not ensure Reagan's nomination as the Republican presidential candidate but, at the very least, it would make the odds on Ford's nomination considerably slimmer. And even if he won the nomination, he would be severely damaged in the race against the Democratic candidate.

To deal with the crossover problem, Ford must first get off the defensive in the campaign. The issues connected by Reagan have dominated the recent primaries, and the President has spent most of his time tending off Reagan's charges, especially those alleging weakness in foreign and defense matters. The former California governor's hawkish stand on these issues seems to have been a major factor in attracting Democratic voters. Try as he has, Ford has not been able to propel issues and-answer technique about issues, like the nation's military strength or the negotiations over the Panama Canal, that have been injected into the campaign by Reagan.

Real-life trouble

LOUISE Lasser, Hollywood, the heroine of television's "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" series, has real-life problems of her own Tuesday — a charge of possessing cocaine and a Wednesday court date. She was booked for possession of the drug Saturday following her arrest during an altercation in a Beverly Hills dress shop. (UPI)

'Mary Hartman's' lawyer quits

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Louise Lasser's attorney quit Tuesday, saying her agents demanded an impossible guarantee that the star of the "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" television series would not have to go to court on a cocaine charge.

The lawyer, Robert Steinberg, said Miss Lasser's agents would not allow him even to speak to her.

The arrest spotlighted the long-standing popularity of cocaine in show business circles and opinions of drug researchers that its use is spreading to the upper middle class.

Miss Lasser, 40, booked Saturday on suspicion of possession of cocaine, was freed unless it was understood that she would not appear in court despite our explanation that it might be necessary for her to go to court.

The agents replied that they would prefer another attorney if he felt that way, he said, so he quit.

Miss Lasser was taken into custody following a fracas at the Ritz hotel in Hollywood reportedly because the store could not honor a credit card.

'A' behavior

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Students in suburban Wilkinsburg have received an "A" in good behavior and will be given a day off Friday.

Supt. Dr. William E. Hahn said Tuesday because students have behaved so well this year, he has decided to reward them. Besides, there is only one open day on the school calendar.

TF-Jerome groups plan joint bridge dedication

TWIN FALLS — Chambers of commerce in Twin Falls and Jerome are planning a joint dedication program late this summer for the new Perrine Memorial Bridge.

The new 1,600-foot span is expected to open for traffic in August, and the two organizations are working toward a special program to begin about Aug. 1, Roy Rostrom, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce manager, said.

Because the span over Snake River Canyon links Twin Falls and Jerome counties, committees from each area will work together on an official dedication, Rostrom said.

Ban Slayton, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce president, has appointed James Newton as chairman of the Twin Falls committee. Ken Baumgartner, Jerome, will head the planning committee for the Jerome chamber. He was appointed by William Hart, Jerome chamber president.

Rostrom said "no specific plans have been made as yet, although the two chambers' organizations met here Monday to discuss the event. An exact date will depend on completion of the $2.6 million project. Efforts will be made to have state dignitaries and local officials participate in the program, Rostrom said.

Real bear action in woman's yard

RAY CITY, Mich. (UPI) — The movie "Bad News Bears" was playing downtown, but the real action was in the borehole tree in Ruth Chappel's backyard.

Alerted by a neighbor, police arrived at Mrs. Chappel's home Tuesday to find a 300-pound bear snoozing about 30 feet up in the tree.

Authorities succeeded in getting the bear out of the tree by shooting him with a tranquilizer gun. The bear was put in a live animal trap for transport back to the Dead Creek wilderness area near Rosemont in northern Michigan.

About the only person in the area who missed all the excitement was Mrs. Chappel. She said she slept through it.

"I woke up at about 10 and saw them leaving," she said. "I asked them what it was, and they said it was a bear."

Chicago police guard OP Blue Eyes

CHICAGO (UPI) — Too many swooning women and even a few anonymous threats caused the Chicago Police Department to assign Frank Sinatra 24-hour police guard.

At least that's the reason Police Superintendent James Rochford gives for stationing a relief cop at the door of Sinatra's Ambassador East Hotel suite every eight hours, seven days a week.

"Blue Eyes is in Chicago for a nightclub appearance."

"Women go outside his hotel room and begin going 'tee-hee' and 'ohhhhh, Frankie,'" Rochford said. He also said there had been some anonymous threats, though he did not elaborate.

Ski equipment theft brings sentences

BURLEY — Two men received five-year sentences and three other people had sentences withheld Monday on the theft of ski equipment earlier this year from Fonerelle Ski Resort.

Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood maintained jurisdiction for 120 days on Raymond Jaynes, also known as Bob Parker, 31, Maryville, Mo., and Tommy Peterson, 25, Raymond, Neb., while handing down sentences of five years each on charges of grand larceny.

Bellwood withheld sentence on Marilyn Sue Jaynes, also known as Mary Parker, 26, Bellevue, N. M.; John Henry Richardson, 22, Liberty, Mo., and Stephen Ross Dyson, 20, Bellevue.

All three were placed on three years probation.

The five were found guilty of grand larceny in a two-day jury trial in late March.

They were arrested by Cassia County sheriff's deputies and state police on Feb. 8 after a roadblock in the Albion area.

Soviet crewmen's mutiny try failed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Crewmen aboard a Soviet naval vessel mutinied in the Baltic Sea last Nov. 9 and tried to take their ship to Sweden, but were captured and returned to Soviet territory, eastern and western diplomatic sources said today.

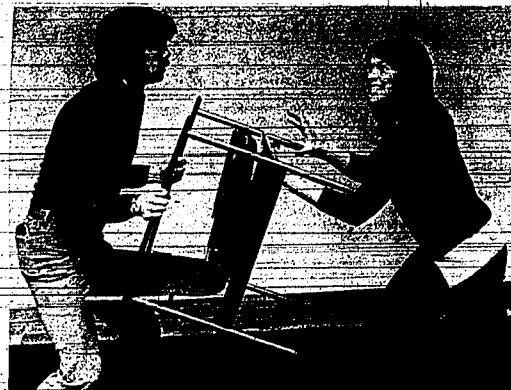

United Press International reported the incident in a dispatch from Stockholm Jan. 30, saying that the vessel involved was a submarine chaser, but other sources said today the ship was a destroyer with a crew of 250 men.

The new report could not be confirmed, but Swedish defense sources said monitoring stations had picked up "some strange signals" from the Baltic on the night between Nov. 8-9. They said an attempted mutiny may have been in progress.

Informants who included Eastern European, Western and neutral diplomatic and military sources, said the mutiny was thwarted when Soviet aircraft attacked the vessel. One report said about 50 persons were killed, but this could not be confirmed.

According to Eastern European sources the ship was on its way from Riga to Leningrad and once past Saaremaa Island at the head of the Gulf of Riga, it was supposed to turn east toward Leningrad.

Instead, the vessel turned west toward Sweden, the sources said.

Casinos remain in estate

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — There are no plans to sell off the seven gambling casinos or other Nevada property held by the late Howard Hughes, an official of the Summa Corp. said today.

"Nothing is up for sale," said Perry Lieber, general manager of Public Relations for Summa, the corporation wholly owned by Hughes. "We've got 8,000 employees in Nevada and their paychecks are very secure."

"The will will take years to clear probate and it will be business as usual at the Hughes' hotels and casinos," said Lieber. He said he was responding to some reports that the $20 million Hughes empire in Nevada might be broken up.

Domestic auto sales high, imports slip

DETROIT (UPI) — Domestic auto sales hit a 29-month high in April and imports continued to slip from the record levels they reached during the energy crunch and the recession.

The four U.S. auto companies, with only tiny American Motors showing a decline, Tuesday reported sales totaling 788,024 cars in April, a 52 per cent gain from last year's depressed level.

"With the economy improving even faster than anticipated and consumer confidence at near-record levels, 1976 could be a stimulating year for the auto industry," said Ford spokesman Walter J. Oben.

Chrysler, hardest hit by the two-year slump, said its April new car sales jumped 96 per cent. General Motors' sales increased 59 per cent, Ford was up 35 per cent and AMC, caught in the small car sales slump, slipped 21 per cent from a year ago.

Housewarming parties still popular in MV

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

FILED—A gracious old custom which has never lost its popularity is the neighborhood "housewarming."

When the country was first settled, friends usually gathered to help a neighbor build his new house, after which burning coals from one of the neighboring fireplaces were carried to the new home and all the friends stayed to celebrate with food and entertainment.

Today when a family builds a new home or does extensive remodeling on an older one, they are justly proud of their efforts, and the neighbors, who are glad for them, welcome a chance to attend a housewarming and see the new home. Sometimes the event is a surprise engineered by several friends who invite other close friends and neighbors to meet at the new home at a given time. Everyone brings refreshments and some bring gifts for the new house and gardens.

Mrs. Edna Bailey and daughter, Cheryl Cox, moved into their new home southwest of Filer this spring and were the honorees at a recent housewarming.

The white brick house is accented by Wedgewood blue shutters and the same shade of blue is repeated in the house in the draperies for the dining room, living room and family room with blue touches carried out throughout the entire house.

Focal points in the living room are two hand-painted pictures of former homes of Mrs. Bailey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark. The two houses, one in Cedar Creek and the other near Castleford, were some of the earliest homes built in the areas and finally succumbed to age, but each had been painted by local artists and Mrs. Bailey purchased them when she saw them on exhibit.

Daughter Cheryl's bedroom adjoins a den in which she keeps her large record collection and her house plants.

The full basement of the new house is devoted to Mrs. Bailey's antiques. Many have been brought from her ranch home on Brown's Bench near the Nevada line. She especially prizes the ornate pump organ which was given to her mother, Inez Braskett, on her 10th birthday in 1900. The organ remains in excellent condition and tone and is a collector's delight. Mrs. Bailey also has a large collection of Jim Beam bottles and pressed glass.

Guests at the party brought plants for the outside yard as well as house plants for Cheryl's collection, and Mr. and Mrs. Truman Clark, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Bailey, presented her with a complete set of Blue Moon china.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a lace cloth over blue and centered with a spring bouquet of yellow and blue flowers.

Unpacks gift

MRS. Edna Bailey unpacks a housewarming gift, a set of Blue Moon Noritake china, at a party held in her new home and hosted by friends and neighbors.

Antique

MRS. Edna Bailey and granddaughter, Showna Smith, stand before a 70-year old organ which had belonged to Mrs. Bailey's mother, Mrs. Frank Clark. Organs such as this are much prized by antique collectors and this one is an especially fine specimen.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune, N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I received the following letter in the mail:
Dear Mr. and Mrs. X:
Five months is long enough for anyone to wait for an acknowledgement of a wedding gift. In spite of my continual urging, my daughter, who incidentally was taught better, has not gotten around to writing her thank-you notes, so please try to forgive her laziness and accept my thanks for the lovely wedding gift you sent. Sincerely yours,
MRS. BLANK

Well, Abby, What do you think of the above? Sign me...
FLABBERGASTED

DEAR FLABBER: I think it's evidence that there is at least one mother who finally backed up her bark with a bite.

Mom sends 'regrets'

DEAR ABBY: When a boy asks a girl to the senior prom, how long should he be kept waiting for her answer? One son asked a girl, and so far she has kept him dangling for 100 days. I think she is keeping him dangling until she gets a better offer, and if she doesn't get any, she'll accept. So, Abby, how long should he dangle?
TONY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: After dangling for five days, Tony should consider himself cut down and free to ask another girl.

DEAR ABBY: This isn't the most earthshaking problem in the world, but it bothers me enough to write a Dear Abby letter. My husband always has to be reading something. He has to read a newspaper, a magazine or a book in his hand all the time. He even takes reading material to the table to read while we eat. Naturally, this precludes any conversation. He uses an electric shaver so he can read the morning paper while he's shaving.

When we're visiting friends or relatives in the evening, my reader picks up anything he can find to read, and he reads it for the rest of the evening. I know there are worst faults, but we've been married for four years and it's getting worse. Help me.
GREAT FALLS FAN

DEAR GREAT: I think your husband reads constantly to escape contributing to the conversation.

Plan event

DEANNA Vollmer, left, Twin Falls, and her daughter, Cherie, discuss YWCA's Mother-Daughter Brunch with Karon Prince, executive director of the Y. The brunch will be held Saturday at 10 a.m.

Furthermore, it's rude to read in the presence of others. If you can't get his attention long enough to tell him how you feel about his constant reading, write him a letter and ask him to read it.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (26¢) envelope.

'Y' now accepting applications for executive director post

KAREN PRINCE to leave

TWIN FALLS—The YWCA is looking for a new executive director.

Karen Prince, who has held the post for nearly two years, will leave at the end of July to attend graduate school. She plans to earn a master's degree in social work and take some courses in women's studies.

Applications for the opening are being taken now. Interviews will be conducted in June and a final selection will be made by July 1.

Ms. Prince says her replacement's primary responsibility will involve "juggling" the YWCA's "dual program orientation."

The Y provides a traditional program, including physical fitness courses, dance classes, a volleyball league, art and bridge classes and prepared childbirth instruction.

It also has the Women's Center, a year-old program encouraging women to gather to discuss common interests and problems.

The center is a by-product of Women's Awareness Week, held last year at the College of Southern Idaho.

Since then it has grown to include a weekly "brown bag" luncheon at the Y, special conferences on topics of interest to women and a bi-weekly talk show, "A Woman's Place" — on KEEB radio station.

Attendance at the lunches, held every Wednesday, has increased since specific topics have been selected for discussion, according to Ms. Prince.

A recent topic was sex role "scripting" in men and women. A special conference in June will deal with sexual assault and self-defense.

Ms. Prince says her work at the Y and with the Women's Center has been "most gratifying. I really feel I've been in a position to effect change on a community-wide basis."

"To see the rippling effects through the community — that's really exciting."

She also says the job "gives a woman a chance to establish or to enhance her administrative and program skills."

"This has been a very growth-producing time for me both personally and professionally."

"The universal frustration is that things never move fast enough. But maybe that's good. Things that happen too fast alienate a lot of people."

Another problem is gaining an identity for the YWCA apart from the YMCA.

"Probably the biggest thing is gaining recognition of the YWCA. It's very frustrating to have your programs credited to another group."

TF lodge adds new members

TWIN FALLS — Three new members were welcomed by the Women of the Moose at a formal meeting Tuesday.

They are Mrs. Betty Gay, Mrs. Dorothy Tomerup and Mrs. Marsha Lively.

Mrs. Rose Mattice, chairman of the Academy of Friendship welcomed them.

Mrs. Goldie Severt, deputy grand regent, expressed thanks to those who helped with the recent conference in Jerome.

Mrs. Antoinette Marinello, grand recorder, spoke on the purposes and ideals of Women of the Moose and how money sent to Moosehart and Moosehouse is used.

Nominations for officers for the coming year were announced by the senior regent.

Chapters attended from Jerome, Buhl, and Glenns Ferry.

Refreshments were served by the Academy of Friendship Committee.

Queen hopefuls urged to register

FILER — Young women interested in competing for the title of queen of the Twin Falls Sheriff's Posse are urged to get their entry blanks this week.

Preliminaries for the contest will be held at 7 p.m. Friday in the Tom Parks Pavilion at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds. Homecoming tryouts will be held Sunday, and a banquet is scheduled for Saturday night.

Unmarried girls between the ages of 18 to 23 years may compete. Girls must be 18 years of age by Sept. 1 to try out for the queen title. The winner will receive a nice assortment of gifts donated by Twin Falls merchants and she will be eligible to compete for the Miss Rodeo Idaho contest this fall during the Twin Falls County "Fair."

Entry forms may be obtained from Larry Bingham or Al Bolish.

Drugs loom as cancer weapon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is increasing optimism in the National Cancer Institute that drugs may develop into a major weapon in the battle against breast cancer.

NCI Director Frank Rauscher said if current good results in chemical therapy trials continue for a few more years, it may be possible to recommend drugs plus surgery less disfiguring than radical mastectomies to treat the disease that strikes 30,000 American women annually. "This is major progress, but it could take another 10 years to determine the best role of the various treatment techniques to produce cures with a minimum of surgery," he told a Senate health subcommittee Tuesday.

"I want you to know that the news, so far, is very good indeed," he said.

Rauscher said, however, that there are problems in using powerful anticancer drugs to treat breast cancer. Animal tests have shown that some of the chemical agents might be capable of causing cancer themselves.

But he said the number of secondary tumors that might be caused by drug therapy are far lower than the number of women who would benefit from them.

Dr. Sven Rister of Columbia University's college of physicians and surgeons questioned the use of drugs to treat breast cancer until more is known about their side effects.

"One wonders: am I morally justified to expose these people to these drugs which are not innocuous?" he said.

Rauscher also said that after another four-year trial, no differences has been seen in the effectiveness of the traditional radical mastectomy compared to less extensive surgery which amputates the breast only.

Police capture escaped convicts

BURLEY — An Idaho State Policeman captured two escaped convicts Wednesday afternoon near here. Les Stimpson stopped a stolen car about 1:30 p.m. about a mile east of the Ponderosa Interchange on Interstate 80. Occupants of the car were Larry E. George, convicted of first degree murder, and George Padgett of Missouri. The two men had escaped from Walla Walla State Penitentiary in Washington over the weekend. A warrant was issued for their arrest on Monday. Idaho State Police in Twin Falls had received a stolen car report from Walla, Nev., earlier Wednesday with the information that the car was thought to be northbound. Stimpson was patrolling I-80 at Burley when the car with Nevada plates passed him. Stimpson pursued the car driven by Padgett, and pulled it to the side of the road. The state policeman said the two men offered no resistance. They were booked into Minidoka County Jail. Stimpson said the two men were wanted in both Washington and Nevada and a charge of possession of a stolen vehicle will be lodged against them in this state. He said the two men are contesting extradition.

Any resident may buy state-owned land parcels

BY GORDON JUDD Times-News writer

Nowadays, Kestie's office receives more than 100 inquiries each year from persons interested in purchasing land. A "general information" letter is routinely mailed to all interested persons.

Among other things, the letter calls attention to the frequent inquiry from "persons who would like to find a tract of land that could be developed into a farm, ranch or just a little place where they can live and keep a few horses and perhaps raise a garden."

Kestie says persons should not expect to get a bonanza in "cheap state land."

In his job which ranges from that of an administrator to an auctioneer, Kestie says he often determines market value for state land in his district by actually walking on each parcel and by finding out what comparable land in the area has sold for.

"When more than one person applies for land that the state decides to sell, Kestie acts as an auctioneer. He says he doesn't attempt to flap his yap like most auctioneers.

"I let them (the bidders) take their time and figure out the price per acre in between bids," says Kestie, who notes that sometimes two or three minutes elapse between bids while bidders make computations.

Kestie says persons interested in buying state land can either watch for legal advertisements in newspapers, write him at P.O. Box 149 or call 934-5696 for more information.

Turning to portions of the plan dealing with school facilities and "safe-school linkages" of children to their elementary schools, the council heard from school district representatives Lawrence Knigge and Dr. Howard Ronk.

The council complimented both men for having held a preliminary meeting with school district personnel from all of the districts within the county. "That's planning as it should be done," one council member, and all present agreed.

One portion of the plan, developed by fired planner David Richey, deals with disposition of school buildings when they are no longer being used for schools. The group criticized the portion.

Richey said he believed, and made a part of the plan, a policy of offering school buildings to other government agencies for "possible use" rather than selling them at private auction.

Citing Washington School as an example, Dr. Ronk said that because ownership rested in District 411, not the County or State, school district heads had had "to be should get top dollar" for it by selling it at public auction, rather than transfer the facility to some other public agency, for the appraised value.

A discussion of a Richey provision concerning sewer and water systems outside city limits generated much discussion and was finally turned over to Marshall for his later help in drafting.

According to the way the current Richey draft reads, the Council would be favoring a policy of "considering applications for the extension of sewer and water systems by persons living outside the city limits."

Council members refused to encourage applications for such service, noting that present policy calls for applicants to pay a service charge double that which city residents must pay. This policy is not enough of a deterrent to the present "service" demands by "outlying residents, council members said.

At next Wednesday night's meeting, the council will review and hear comments from its Highway District members on the goals and objectives for transportation.

Teachers mum on wage action

By SHANE O'NEILL Times-News writer

RUPERT — Minidoka County teachers haven't decided how to respond to a unilateral pay increase which the school board adopted earlier this week.

Citing a May 1 deadline for settling salary disputes, the school board approved its own pay scale for the 1976-77 school year and then wrote the head of the Minidoka County Education Association (MCEA) informing him of the terms of the new contracts.

Milon McDaniel, president of the teacher's association, was tight-lipped Wednesday when asked how Rupert teachers will respond to the school board's action.

A teacher's meeting today and a legal session between teachers and MCEA attorneys Friday are scheduled to discuss the contract scale already adopted by the school board.

McDaniel received a letter Wednesday from school board outlining the terms of the new contracts established.

The new salary schedule, adopted unilaterally by the board, represents about a 6 per cent increase over last year, with a base of $2,175.

It also gives a 3 per cent increase for each year of experience and a 3 per cent increase for each 10 credits of higher education beyond the minimum required.

"I just have to wait and see until we meet with the members," McDaniel said. "All we do is follow their directive."

Rick Neill, head of the MCEA negotiation team, said the association is in contact with the Idaho Education Association and officials of the state group said they will send an attorney to Rupert Friday.

Neill also received a letter from the board Friday. It stated that the board does not intend any further contract discussions. The Minidoka School Board takes the position that negotiations have ceased because a contract settlement was not reached by the May 1 deadline set in a previous negotiated contract with the MCEA.

"Before we can go any further, we're having a session with our attorneys on Friday," Neill said. "After we get the interpretation from our attorneys, we'll know for sure what we're going to do."

MCEA officials say the board position is inconsistent, because the teachers declared an impasse in the contract talks during Monday night's negotiating session.

But the board's position is that the district must determine a salary schedule so that it can be worked into the budget for the 1976-77 year.

"We're just in limbo right now," Neill said Wednesday night.

Damage 'slight'

TWIN FALLS — Fire in a gas dryer at Troy National Laundry Inc., early today put the dryer out of operation and caused slight damage to the ceiling of the building.

Fire Inspector Clare Harkins said workers at the laundry turned in the alarm about 7:14 a.m. when the fire was discovered. A worker opened the dryer to remove laundry and discovered the contents on fire.

Harkins said the cause has not been determined, but said it is possible lint collected near the heat source. Two fire engines answered the alarm and were back in the station by 8 a.m.

Gravel pit decision due Monday

TWIN FALLS — County Commissioners in Twin Falls will announce a decision Monday on whether or not to allow a second gravel pit operation in the community of Rock Creek, according to Commissioner William Chaney.

Commissioners met Tuesday night for an appeals hearing during which 30 residents of the community protested the request of Neil Larsen for a gravel pit on his property.

The county Planning and Zoning Board had approved a zoning request for the gravel pit. This decision was appealed to the commissioners.

Protestors objected to the gravel pit on grounds it would create additional noise, dust and traffic nuisances.

Buhl teacher talks hit snag

BUHL — Teacher talks in Buhl reportedly are stalled with each side feeling the other "should give a little."

At last night's meeting between teachers and school officials, the board failed further discussion on the "no strike clause" according to teacher representative Greg Smith.

"I have no idea where we are heading," Smith said, referring to what it will take to break the present deadlock.

"We have met with all of our teachers and the only way we will accept a 'no strike' clause is if they will agree to binding arbitration," Smith said.

Smith said arbitration should be a procedure calling for both sides to select an arbitrator with the two arbitrators selecting a third neutral arbitrator, possibly someone like the American Arbitration Association.

Smith said that efforts to reach agreement on the "grievance procedure" also failed.

"We started on the grievance procedure and the board came back with their counter proposal, which we discussed in a caucus for about 30 minutes," Smith said.

Smith said the Board wanted to limit the teachers' right to use the grievance procedure to items dealing only with the package of benefits being offered whereas the teachers felt that "work conditions in the classroom, out-of-date textbooks and other conditions" should be subject to the procedure.

"The board told us they felt that negotiations is a give and take affair and that we should give on the procedural matters pertaining to the grievance procedure," Smith said.

He added that he felt the teachers had given on a lot of issues and that the "board's arguing over the definition of a 'grievance' was unfair."

Council continues land plan review

By GORDON JUDD Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Members of Twin Falls County Joint Planning Council continued their job of reviewing, and—sometimes rewriting sections of the comprehensive plan Wednesday night.

At one of their now-weekly work sessions, the council reviewed sections of the plan dealing with school water systems and waste disposal plans. The council also heard a report from its consultant planner.

The paragraph-by-paragraph review session was attended by consultant planner Pete Marshall and Dennis Petrequin, Stevens, Thompson & Ryan, Inc. (STR), Portland. The group was at the Twin Falls meeting with local officials to add them in their planning function.

Marshall showed the planners a tentative map on which he said he wanted to plot the size and amount of growth the council expected in the county.

The consultant planners also brought with them a "half-finished" Volume 1 of a "Planning Information Report" and asked council members if they could be ready to make some "alternative decisions" within two weeks.

Marshall said that he and his STR associates are working on a plan "proposing some alternative growth patterns for Twin Falls County." In turn, these plans will be available for public comment when the council holds another public meeting in June.

Marshall said he felt "we are obligated to develop at least three alternatives," referring to options that the public could choose from when that portion of the comprehensive plan is presented to them for comment.

Chairman Mrs. Ann Cover made it very clear that she favored this saying, "We want to go to a public information meeting in June with two, three or four plans. This plan is not for us. It's for the whole county."

The consultant planners said they had already met with many persons in the community and were going to tour the city Thursday morning and meet with Chamber of Commerce head Ray Frstrom before returning to Portland Thursday.

Wegner seeks George Hansen's seat

By CHRIS PECK Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Wearing cowboy boots and talking like Mr. Clean, Boise doctor and attorney Glen Wegner formally opened his campaign for the U.S. Congress in Twin Falls Wednesday.

With his 25-year-old daughter Lisa on his hip, Wegner walked into the Twin Falls airport 30 minutes late Wednesday afternoon to begin his campaign.

The Boise Republican wasted little time getting to the heart of his campaign strategy.

"I think George Hansen is the major issue in this campaign," Wegner told an airport news conference, adding, "The man has a cloud over his head."

"He is an embarrassment to his state and party," Wegner added.

In 1975, Hansen was convicted for violating federal election laws in connection with irregularities in his financial disclosure.

The 37-year-old Wegner blasted Hansen saying the Congressman's "credibility and believability are shot."

"He's failed us," Wegner said. "My campaign slogan will be 'Let's Get George Out of Washington.'"

Wegner is one of two Republicans challenging incumbent Hansen for his Second District congressional seat. Burley businessman George Forscheiler also has announced he is running in the August 3 primary race.

The 1976 congressional contest is Wegner's second try for elected office in Idaho.

In 1972 Wegner ran in a four-way primary contest for the U.S. Senate. Sen. James McClure won that primary and later was elected to the Senate.

A member of the Idaho bar and a licensed physician, Wegner is married and has two children.

"Saying he is a conservative on fiscal matters, Wegner pledged to work constructively for conservative causes in Washington — something he doesn't think Hansen has done."

"Hansen built up straw men and then destroyed them," Wegner charged.

"He said he would repeal OSHA, he didn't repeal OSHA and never will. He can't deliver," Wegner added.

Pledging a "new standard for credibility, believability, and accountability," Wegner dismissed allegations he is planning a smear campaign against Hansen.

"I want to give voters a chance to see which candidate is genuine," he said.

The Kendrick native stressed he would make full disclosure of all campaign expenditures and finances.

He said many southern Idaho Republicans have expressed support for his candidacy.

Wegner plans to spend $66,000 in his primary campaign, half of the total going for advertising.

Elaine Phillips, Twin Falls, will head up Wegner's local campaign.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
During the first few years of my marriage I have had two miscarriages (at three and four months). I have been told that because of an early spinal cord injury as a child, which left me paralyzed from the waist down, I have a very slim chance of carrying a child successfully.

Yet my obstetrician tells me that some spinal injury victims, who have also suffered nerve damage, have had successful pregnancies. I would appreciate any information you might have—I have had an X-ray of the uterus and no abnormalities were discovered. — R.N.

Most miscarriages are nature's way of preventing the birth of a defective child, of discarding a blighted ovum, etc. It can stem from an abnormality of the egg or sperm, or in the way the egg was implanted in the uterus. Most occur in the first three months of pregnancy.

It is impossible to comment on your specific case, not knowing the nature of the spinal damage you mention. It is possible for such damage to result in an incompetent cervix, which might not allow retention of the fetus.

In some miscarriages, some women a hormonal imbalance exists, and it is treated with hormone supplements to improve the site of egg implantation.

In most cases the cause of miscarriage is "obscure" and prevention is difficult. However, if none of the problems I mentioned above are present, there is no reason why you should not be able to carry a baby successfully. I assume as well that you and your husband have weighed the possible effects on your own health and considered the difficulties you might have in rearing a child.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I had a complete hysterectomy a month ago. How long should I wait before I can have sex? Also, please send me your booklet on vaginitis. I'm sending you 25 cents and a stamped and self-addressed envelope. — Mrs. M.H.

If there have been no complications it is usually possible to have sex from six to eight weeks after the operation. I'm glad you're not one of those women who feel sex necessarily "rends" with this operation. Of course it doesn't.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I am a 16-year-old girl and have had emphysema since birth. Can you tell me of any free clinics I can go to for help? Since my mother's third divorce nobody seems to care about my health.

Explain your situation to your school nurse. If there is none in your school, confide in a trusted teacher or a relative, who can find help for you.

You, more than the average youngster, need medical advice, especially if your emphysema is the rarer type related to fibrocystic disease of the pancreas. This stems from a birth defect, and health care many complications in later life.

There is no reason why a young girl like you should be cast as a drift medicinally, no matter how many divorces your mother has had.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
Many nights I awaken from sleep with the feeling that I should go to the bathroom to urinate. But generally I am so sleepy that I hesitate to go for fear of not being able to fall back to sleep when I return to bed.

My question: Is it damaging to the bladder to postpone emptying it this way? — Mrs. P.B.

The rule is to urinate when the urge is there. Chances are the relief offered would make sleep more likely than holding the urine.

Developing this habit of not urinating can produce problems later on — for instance, bladder infection, to which women seem most prone.

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung problem, write for a copy of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "How to Control Emphysema," care of this newspaper. Enclose a 10-cent, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Margaret smiles so often and so genuinely these days that hundreds of Wolverhampton housewives recently turned out to shout "We're on your side," Maggie.

Astonished police, overwhelmed by the demonstration, were thinking of calling for help.

The princess' estranged husband, the Earl of Snowdon, actually stopped his automobile while on his way to Queen Elizabeth's 50th birthday party at Windsor on April 20 and rolled down the window so the media would have a better chance to catch him with their cameras.

Can this be the dear sister of the Queen of the past few years? Can this be the withdrawn royal photographer, his brow creasing with the lines of unhappiness, too touchy for most reporters to approach without due warning?

Well, if that's what breaking up an unhappy marriage does for two basically nice people, maybe more couples ought to try it.

Thursday is the 16th anniversary of the Westminster Abbey wedding of Princess Margaret and the then Anthony Armstrong-Jones.

Superficially, it was a splendid occasion, with the Queen and the royal family and a congregation of distinguished Britons in the church and vast throngs of hundreds of thousands jamming the streets of central London outside.

But that didn't hide the truth — as a royal wedding it was a flop. European royalty stayed away in droves. Somehow they all found themselves terribly busy elsewhere on May 6, 1960.

Newspapers spoke bluntly of "snub" and "boycott." The implication was that commander Tony didn't fit.

It took seven years to prove the slay-avenging right. By 1967, Tony, created Lord Snowdon, had had it up to his size 11 collar with royal protocol, the difficulty of fitting in his desire to make his own living at the thing he did best with the feeling around Buckingham Palace, that he ought to be lending a hand with royal duties.

In March, with Tony in Australia on business, the friction over the days had known about for years broke into the open. Their lawyers went to Buckingham Palace to arrange a legal separation. Tony was emotional when he talked about it in Australia. Princess Margaret tried to smile but it was a vain effort.

Latest Russian grain purchase brings Butz policy test nearer

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another sale of American grain to the Soviet Union, announced Tuesday, has put Russian purchases close to the level at which Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz's claim of an open-market sales policy will be put to a test.

The sale covered 225,000 metric tons of wheat and corn, including 200,000 tons of 1975 crop corn for delivery before Sept. 30 and 25,000 tons of wheat and corn from the 1976 crop for shipment after Oct. 1.

The 1976 crop sales pose no problem for policymakers. They bring Soviet orders from this year's American harvests to only 2.2 million tons, well below the 3 million-ton minimum the Russians are committed to buy in each of the five years beginning Oct. 1.

The 1975 crop sales are another matter. Administration officials announced months ago, as a precaution, that they had "requested" the Soviets to consult with the U.S. government before purchasing 1975 crop orders above 17 million tons. For some months, it appeared that orders might not reach that level. But new Soviet purchases announced at the beginning of last week, including the latest deal announced Tuesday, have pushed total 1975 crop orders to 16.5 million tons. One more sizable order would bump against the tentative 17 million ton ceiling.

Agriculture Secretary Butz, earlier this week, told a news conference that big current stocks and prospects of another record total grain harvest in 1970 now make the 17 million-ton ceiling obsolete. Butz said further sales could be made safely without pushing this year's average food inflation rate beyond the 3 to 4 per cent level he predicted in a news conference Monday.

"So if the Russians want to buy more grain, Butz said, 'my personal attitude would be a very favorable one.' Butz, of course, is not the only official involved in such a decision. But he points out he is the chairman of the new agricultural policy advisory committee which would make recommendations to Ford on breaking through the 1975 crop sales ceiling.

"Let's put it this way — I think we will have no trouble" in getting further sales approved, Butz said. A congressional study earlier this week estimated that if a further 10 million tons in grain sales from the 1975 crop were approved, the result could be a 1 per cent increase in retail food prices over the coming year. But considering the capacity of Soviet farms to unload grain, Agriculture Department experts doubt that future Russian 1975 crop orders would come near level used in the congressional study.

Butz himself refused to speculate on just how far the government would permit Soviet 1975 crop orders to rise beyond the 17 million ton level.

"We will face that situation when we come to it," he said.

Costs of weight listing scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government plan to require labels listing the drained weight of canned fruits and vegetables would add $100 million to the consumer's grocery bill, the canning industry says today.

In addition, the National Canners Association said, such labeling would actually be misleading because different types of fruits and vegetables soak up differing amounts of water or brine after they are packed.

"The association told the Food and Drug Administration it would prefer to have 'solid contents' listed on the label instead. That figure, it said, would be the weight of the actual raw fruit or vegetable placed in the can before liquid is added and it is sealed and cooked.

The FDA's drained weight proposal, it said, would add about a penny a can — $104 million overall — to the price of canned fruits and vegetables because it would require batches of food to be stored for 30 days, sample cans opened and tested, and then the weight printed on the label.

"The equivalent of 16 million cans of food would be unnecessarily destroyed annually in this sampling effort," it said, while the "solid contents" weight information is already largely available and would add only about $14 million a year to the cost.

"The FDA proposal would give consumers a false impression about the quality of canned food items," it said. Small pieces and items bearing less moisture than larger, more mature and tougher products, it said.

But the labels of the less mature vegetables would list a lower drained weight than the other vegetables.

Sugar pricing changes caused by policy lack

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The president of Holly Sugar Corp. says he expects sugar prices to fluctuate wildly in the future because of the lack of a national sugar policy.

John H. Bunker Tuesday said domestic sugar prices fell from $12 a hundredweight on April 1, 1975, to $10 per hundredweight March 31. And he said he expected the trend to continue.

"In the absence of a national supply management policy, domestic prices will continue to follow erratic world sugar market pricing patterns," he said.

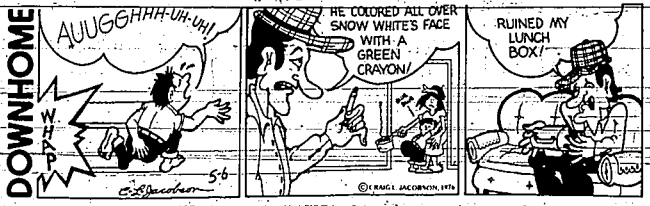

Bunker said the lower sugar prices and higher operating costs contributed to lower earnings last fiscal year than in the previous 12-month period. But he said the earnings were "gratifying" in light of the economic conditions involved.

Bunker said the company had earnings of $21.5 million on net sales of $29.9 million for the fiscal year ended March 31. That compared with record earnings of $29 million on net sales of $26.4 million during fiscal 1974, he said.

"This year's per-share earnings were $13.65 compared with $19.17 for the same period a year ago, Bunker said.

"These earnings are especially gratifying in a year when labor, materials and other operating costs were increasing and unit proceeds from sugar sales were declining," he said.

Bunker said the year's earnings were not affected by a $5 million conditional antitrust settlement paid by Holly and other sugar companies accused of conspiring to fix sugar prices. He said the settlement figure was charged to retained earnings for prior years.

Farm equipment safety plan asked

BOISE (UPI) — Administrator Pat Ehrlich of the Idaho Traffic Safety Commission urged the state's farmers today to plan for safety when they take equipment on the road.

She said National Safety Council statistics show 120 persons lost their lives in auto-farm equipment accidents across the nation in 1974 and 201 of those fatalities were operators of farm equipment.

The state safety official said a high priority should be given to advance planning that will have farm machinery off the road when visibility is poor. Planning is a vital part of safety, she said.

Syrup prices up from short crop

ALBANY — Consumers will have to pay more for the maple syrup on their pancakes later this year as a result of a poor 1976 crop and short supply of good quality syrup, according to reports from both producers and roadside stand operators.

In both New York State and Vermont, the major producers of maple syrup in the crop this year will be about two-thirds or three-quarters of last year's production of 719,000 gallons in the two states.

Prices in upstate New York for top quality syrup are $13.50 to $14 a gallon. Indications are that the price may rise as much as $2 a gallon by summertime.

"Producers are going to suffer more than consumers," according to Lloyd Sipple, who produces syrup and edits the National Maple Syrup Digest on his farm on the banks of the Susquehanna River in Banbridge, N.Y.

He explained that, like other producers, he set the price early in February, when the sap began to run, at about $13.50 a gallon for table quality syrup. That was the same price at last year.

"Until mid-March it looked like we were going to have a bumper crop," he said. "But then it stayed warm for a couple of days too long and the trees began to bud. Once the buds start, that's the end of a good syrup run."

Even though his production stopped early, Sipple has not raised his price.

"Sure, I can raise the price a little now for the balance of the season, but I've already sold half my crop at the lower price," he said.

At the Taconic Orchard-farm stand on Route 82 in West Columbia in Columbia County, Arnold Peller Jr. reported that his price was $11.13 a gallon.

"But I expect the price will be up at least $2 a gallon by the time summer comes around," he added.

Both in New York and Vermont, producers also reported that the quality of much of the maple syrup was lower than usual and darker in color, because of the unseasonably early spring weather.

Repairs slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Funds will be released Monday for repair projects in 10 hazard areas on the Snake River in the Blackfoot-Idaho Falls region of Idaho.

Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, announced today that the request for $743,000 was approved by R.N. Davis, administrator of the Soil Conservation Service in Washington under the Flood Control Act of 1950.

Creighton N. Gilbert, assistant state Soil Conservation Service administrator who confirmed the approval, said the hazardous conditions were created by high water on the Snake River in 1975 when "the river just came apart."

He said the areas extended from the mouth of the Blackfoot River upstream to Shelley, Idaho, near the Bonneville County line.

Field work, including a survey of the area, has been done on the hazard zone.

Mine safety given push

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Thomas S. Kleppe said today that increased coal production must "share" equal emphasis with mine health and safety.
 Kleppe's comment came as he asked Congress to reauthorize back Friday the United Mine Workers Union, to move federal mine safety enforcement powers from Interior to the Labor Department.
 Federal mine safety laws are currently administered by the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration, a division of the Interior Department.
 Kleppe told a House Education and Labor subcommittee the argument that Interior's encouragement of mineral production impairs its ability to operate effectively in mine health and safety was "not valid."
 "Rather it is precisely because of this broad technical expertise this responsibility has produced that mine health and safety programs could not be administered as effectively in another department," Kleppe testified.

"At a time when the nation is faced with an energy and minerals shortage...any disruption of federal capability to comprehensively plan program resource needs to alleviate the energy and minerals shortage would be foolishly short-sighted," he added.
 "To attract and keep men for mining careers, health and safety must share equal emphasis with the need for increased production," Kleppe said. "The point is that mine health and safety cannot be divorced from the mine productivity."
 The secretary said the coal mine disaster at the Scotta mine in eastern Kentucky last March, which claimed 26 lives, "reminds us that although we have made considerable progress, we cannot afford to rest."
 But Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., said a preliminary investigation of the tragedy "shows a very sorry state of affairs in that mine," and that mine had not been closed down by federal inspectors despite some 40 citations for alleged violations of safety laws.

IN UNISON Chuck Fahrner of Mountain Home and Jim Butler of Gooding step over the hind hurdle during the SCIC finals Wednesday. Fahrner won race 10 tape. Greg Larson, Jerome, palled down third.

A flick away

SOARING Jim Butler of Gooding came within a flick of his heels of clearing the eight inches in this high jump try Wednesday. He won the SCIC title at 4-7.

Curling over

STATE'S BEST girl high jumper, Colleen Reinstra of Buhl, cleared the bar at five feet Wednesday. She won a 5-2 1/2, four-inch lower than her seasonal high.

Buhl, Jerome collect SCIC track crowns

DASH CHAMPION Chris Bell of Buhl steps across the finish line just ahead of Gooding's Jim Butler for the SCIC 100-yard dash title.

Taking the tape

SCIC meet looms airtight

When the Southern Idaho Conference gets together at Bruni Stadium Friday to settle its annual track and field championship, the team title may be the least important thing available.

Because the meet brings together the top 12 schools (by enrollment) in the state, its biggest claim to fame is that it often is the most fiercely fought — event for event — meet including state. That is because there has been no real dilution of the talent available as is required under the district-state format.

Things begin at Bruni stadium at 11 a.m. Friday with the running of the girls' mile and boys two-mile run. After that will come preliminaries in the flat races with the field events going at 1 p.m. The running finals will start at 5 p.m.

Although there should be many hardfought events, the premier ones should come in the mile relay and the high jump.

For the most part, The half-mile duel heavily threatens the 1:57.9 record set by Gary Slevers, Twin Falls.

Twin Falls has been under the 1:31 mark for the 800-yard relay and the Bruins, along with Borah and Boise, could give the 4:35 quartet mile relay mark fits. The mile relay standard of 3:24.7 could fall but none of the teams has been within two seconds of it. Twin Falls has been within a second of the 3:40.5 medley time.

A good mile field, with Bruni Rick Murray and Skyline's Fred Stopen already having bettered it; eyes the 4:23.3 mile mark. Monson should be the lone asset — if it develops — in the quartet mile time of 4:9.5.

For the first time in a long while Twin Falls goes into this one without the "defending champion" status. Coach Kleinkopf is loathe to predict a title for his Bruins, although he admits they should be in the thick of things.

"I took the times and distances from last week's (qualifying) meets and just inserted people where they would have been at that time," Kleinkopf said. "Boise scored 107 points and Borah and scored 112. Of course, the actual point totals will be down from that, but it shows how tight the thing should be. I really believe that, on a good day, as many as six teams could come out with the championship."

"That being the case, the Bruins' hope for sixth team title in seven years would appear to rattle on the shoulders of distant ace Rick Murray — providing the other Bruins hold up their ends, which won't happen.

Murray was sixth in the two mile and second in the mile last week, continuing a down that started in the Boise relay. Medical examination indicates the youngster is plagued by a low-grade infection that is sapping his strength.

Coach Kleinkopf believes he is coming back but wonders if Friday isn't a bit early to expect a full return to form for the youngster.

On the girls' side, the team battle should wage between Borah and Twin Falls with Pocatello's Donita Thomas apparently the individual to watch.

Thomas tipped off-times like 8.5, 11.3 and 25.5 in the three short dashes and added a 17-10 long dash. That kind of performance could give Pocatello 40 team points but the Indians don't appear to have the depth to make a strong overall championship bid.

Thomas could help the Bruins in the sprints by displacing Borah points. Springs aren't a Bruin strong point. This spring, Mary Chase of Borah is second only to Thomas in the short dashes and Twin Falls would appreciate every point Pocatello could take from the Lions.

The mile and half-mile should be standouts in the girls' field. In the longer distance, Junior Debbie Brizez, trying to get back to form after a stress fracture, will be battling Val Jones of Nampa. They have turned 5:28.3 and 5:35, respectively, but Brizez's effort came before being sidelined for 10 days by the injury.

In the half-mile, Bruin Brenda Falash, with a best of 2:23.3 runs into Pam Hill of Capital. Harder Tracy Egelhart, Twin Falls, needs Julie Knapp of Highland in a two-tenths of a second rematch.

The girls' discus could become the first in which all six placing competitors best 100 feet.

TWIN FALLS — Buhl's boys vented their expected power and the Jerome girls again piled up big points in the distances, Wednesday to collect the South Central Idaho Conference track and field championships.

Buhl, with its manpower still withheld — speaking mostly of junior sprinter Chris Bell — piled up 166 points in taking the boys side against 142 for Mountain Home. The Jerome girls, although trailing badly after the first couple-three field events, closed hard on the track to decision Buhl 128-108 in the girls race for first place.

There wasn't much doubt as to the boys outcome. Buhl senior Mark Tappen ripped away on the last lap of both the mile and two-mile to record a double triumph. Bell won the 100 yard dash and started the Indian quartet relay to his 4:38 victory. But Bell didn't show up in any other individual sprints, contenting himself to run about a 5:10 quarter-opening leg in the second-place medley relay and grabbing a third in the high jump.

With Bell gone, Buhl's Kim Rodrig ripped the 220-yard dash in 22.9, running the first 100 yards like a dash for the first time this season.

And the Indians maintained their mystery in the distance jumping. The biggest win came in the triple jump where senior Brad Hellwig duelled Jerome's Rick Hillier through a couple of good series and finally won with a 43.6 mark.

"I didn't like track for three years and I didn't triple jump until three weeks ago," the new champion said. "I wish I was a freshman now."

Buhl took the top three places in the long jump with Buckendorf, Hellwig and Owen, and that accounts for all of the Indians' point purely over Mountain Home.

But probably the big news of the day was turned in at the high jump where Gooding junior Jim Butler scurled 6 feet, 7 inches, easily the best performance of his career.

Butler also gave Bell a hard time in the 100-yard dash, losing by about a yard, to account for 18 of Gooding's 31 points.

Hillier, pinned in the triple jump duet with Hellwig, also had to settle for second in a solid 2:02 half-mile race with Mountain Home's Hudson. Hudson wasn't slated to be in the race until the Mountain Home 800-yard relay team disqualified by running out of the exchange zone. That rather witted the Tigers' title hopes and they resuffed things to put Hudson back in the event he's best in.

Tappen contented himself to let Jerome sophomore Mike Thompson set the pace for most of the mile and two-mile. In both instances the Buhl senior uncoiled his trademark — the long kick — on the last lap to win easily.

In the distasteful Jerome didn't have its usual power play in the distances — giving up some of the intermediate, place points — but it was the mile and half-mile that swung things its way.

Jerome went one-mile-fourth-five in the mile and one-two-fourth-five in the half.

The girls provided two double winners. Buhl's Colleen Reinstra took the high jump at a subpar 5-2 1/2, and collected the hurdles title. She also anchored a winning relay effort.

Cavin of Mountain Home continued to look like a possible double champion in the state A-1 competition as she hurled the discus 129-10 and the shotput 37-8.

Bruins lose on playoff flip

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Bruins were named co-champions of the eastern division, SCIC, baseball season but given nowhere to go by a coin flip Wednesday.

Twin Falls, which dropped Skyline twice Tuesday to join Idaho Falls with 7-3 records, lost the flip which determined the team that would advance to the conference championship playoffs this weekend in Idaho Falls.

The unhappy Bruins thus wound up their season by sweeping 1-1 and 9-9 decisive over Rurley Wednesday afternoon.

Burley Persinger went the route in, claiming the first victory while Marty Lakey claimed the second.

Karate tournament slated for Gooding

GOODING — Most of the top Karate teams from the Intermountain west will gather in Gooding Saturday for a public tournament and exhibition.

The meet will start at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Idaho State school for the deaf gymnasium, reports Jim Dayton, Jerome, tournament chairman.

The Kokonoe tournament should feature experts from North Utah; throughout southern Idaho and parts of Oregon and Washington.

In conjunction with the second annual event, Gov. Cecil Andrus has proclaimed this Karate week for the state.

Andrus and Senator Art Linker, a former student of the Kodokan in Japan, is scheduled to attend. He is the head master of instruction in the International Karate and Judo association.

Of special interest will be the attempt of John Ribadoux, Gooding, to break the world jump kick record. He will try to leap over seven people and break a one-inch board in half with a kick.

The tournament also will include special demonstrations in brick and board breaking.

All-star staff named

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dick Nolan, former coach of the San Francisco 49ers, and Ron Waller, former coach of the Philadelphia Eagles in the World Football League, were added to the 1976 College All Star coaching staff Wednesday by head coach Ara Parseghian, former coach at Notre Dame.

Nolan and Waller were named to replace two Notre Dame coaches: Paul Shotts and George Kelly, who had to take themselves off the all star staff because they will be involved in coaching activities at Notre Dame in July when the All Stars will be practicing.

The Notre Dame training schedule called for meetings in July but was moved up when the Irish game with Pittsburgh was moved to Sept. 11 for television purposes.

Nolan played in the All Star game in 1954 and Waller played in 1955. Both later played in the National Football League, Nolan as a defensive back with the New York Giants and Chicago Cardinals, and Waller as a running back with Los Angeles.

Lead-off single stymies Palmer's no-hitter bid

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Jim Palmer gave up a first-inning leadoff single to Pat Kelly, and then no-hit Chicago until two out in the ninth Wednesday night in furling the Baltimore Orioles to a 2-0 victory over the White Sox.

In pitching the seventh no-hitter of his career, Palmer walked two and struck out six to run his season's record to 3-2.

Bert Blyleven struck out six and survived a 12-hit attack to even his record at 2-2, while Dave Roberts suffered his first American League loss after three wins.

Two scratch singles, sandwiched around a walk, fanned the bases for Ford, who triggered the third inning rally with a two-run single to break a 1-1 tie. Kustick then broke open the game with his first homer of the year in the third.

Ford rounded out the Twins' scoring when he connected for his fourth homer with Lyman Bostock on base and two out in the seventh. Dave McKay had singled home the Twins' first run in the second inning.

Ron Leflore—and Alex Johnson combined—for both Detroit runs. In the first inning, Leflore beat out an infield hit. Stole second, went to third on a wild throw and scored on Johnson's grounder. Then in the ninth, Leflore tripled—and scored—on Johnson's single.

Skate star assembles multi-million troupe

TORONTO (UPI) — Toller Cranston, Canada's flamboyant figure skating champion whose artistry has made him the top of the amateur ranks, announced Wednesday the formation of a "theater on ice" company that could earn him up to $3 million in three years.

Cranston, Canadian women's champion Lynn Nightingale and the American ice dance team of Colleen O'Conner and Jim Milne will head the cast in a new show that plans to debut in September in Halifax, N.S.

The tour will be presented by Hurock Concerts, the New York agency found by the late impresario Sol Hurock.

"The deal with Hurock was signed Tuesday and announced at a news conference here Wednesday. Cranston, who owns a share of the production company, said he is guaranteed nearly $1 million on his three year contract. But, if the show is successful, he said, "it would not be unrealistic for him to expect up to $3 million."

"Financially, I think it's very viable," said the 27-year-old Cranston. "Hurock's other ventures, like the ballet, can play to only 3,000 or 4,000 people. We can play to 20,000."

The bronze medalist at this year's Winter Olympics said after years of trying, and failing, to convince amateur skating that artistry was more important than skating disciplines, he decided only a professional career would suit his style.

"With the amateur world as it is," he said, "I could not continue any longer. But I was afraid to join the ice shows as we know them."

"I'm still very much in love with skating and this is a vehicle to house me and these other skaters. We can continue to improve, continue to be creative."

Milne agreed. "We've gone about as far as we could go in competition skating," he said. "Collective and I have the skating ability. Now we can concentrate on the artistic side."

Other staged members of the company are U.S. pair Emily Beisenon and Jack Courtney; Canadian partners Barbara Berzowski and David Porter and Candy Jones and Don Fraser; Cathy Lee Irwin of Toronto; Gordon McKellen, U.S. men's champion from 1973-75; and Canadian Bob Rubens.

Two more skaters, both Americans, currently are negotiating contracts to round out the company.

"Although the format for the show has not been set, an artistic director is yet to be hired — the show will concentrate on the artistry of skating and travel minus the props and scenery used in the traditional ice shows."

It was this emphasis on the artistic side of skating that convinced the Hurock agency to back the production, according to Michael Menzies, business planned for Hurock concerts.

"The art of ice skating is what we will be presenting," he said. "Altogether, a year of 250 performances is planned, with a maximum of three days in any one city."

Colonels' coach admits being finalist for Atlanta position

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky Colonels' head coach Hubie Brown admits he is among the final candidates for the head coaching job with the NBA Atlanta Hawks, but denies he has made any prior stipulations or agreement on terms.

"I've talked to them," Brown said. "I know I'm one of the final candidates, but not the only one."

A report from Durham, N.C., Wednesday indicated Brown had offered a four-year contract to coach the Hawks, and would take it if he can work out one stipulation — that he has the last word on trades. The report also said the Colonels' coach was to decide within 10 days on the contract.

"That's definitely an erroneous statement," said Brown, who had coached at Duke University in Durham. "It probably came out of Duke where a source has probably told a source."

He said he also questioned the report "due to the fact they are still narrowing down their choice."

"I definitely question the credibility of the report," Brown said. "Would I talk about a contract before I was offered the job? I certainly would not."

The Atlanta Hawks are in the market for a new coach after finishing last in the NBA's central division. Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons was dismissed before the season ended.

Brown led the Colonels to the ABA title last season but his club finished fourth in the league this year. Kentucky defeated Indiana in a best of three mini-series and battled regular season champion Denver in a close, seven-game series before losing to the Nuggets in the final contest.

Earlier, it had been rumored Brown was in line to succeed Larry Costello of the Milwaukee Bucks, where he was an assistant before coming to Kentucky. However, Costello is expected to be rehired.

Brown had reportedly been displaced with Kentucky owner John Y. Brown's deals during the year which saw starters Dan Issel, Ted McClain and Caldwell Jones traded.

Another factor is that ABA president John Brown has offered to sell the team to a locally based syndicate for the next season.

Chicago second baseman Jack Brohamer let in one run for Baltimore with a throwing error and pinch-hitter Tony Muser drove across an insurance run.

Singles by Paul Blair and Lee May in the eighth inning were followed by Reggie Jackson's sharp ground ball to Brohamer, who fumbles it and throwing on the run, hurled the ball over the head of first baseman Jim Spencer, allowing Blair to score.

Muser, pinch-hitting for Doug Mientkiewicz, grounded into a facemask, allowing Tim Lincecum, running for May, to score the game's second run.

Indians nip A's in ninth

OAKLAND (UPI) — Alan Aronson pitched a four-run ninth inning single off Oakland relief ace Rolfe Fingers to give the Cleveland Indians and right-hander Pat Dobson a 3-1 victory over the A's.

Yankees shell Angels, Ryan

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Mickey Rivers and Thurman Munson both hit two-run homers to highlight a six-run eighth inning Wednesday night which brought the New York Yankees and Catfish Hunter a 10-4 victory over the California Angels.

Chris Chambliss collected three singles and scored twice for New York in extending his hitting streak to 14 games.

After blowing a 4-0 lead, the Yankees came back with six runs in the eighth inning to send the Angels down to their ninth defeat in 11 games and deal Nolan Ryan his second loss against three wins. Ryan entered the game with a 1.42 earned run average and was charged with nine of the 10 New York runs.

Hunter, meanwhile, checked the Angels on six hits to even his record at 2-1. He had one hit during a going into the Angels scored four times in the sixth to tie the game. Rusty Torres' three-run homer was the key blow.

Chambliss' first single preceded a two-run homer by Oscar Gamble in the second inning. Then the Yankees scored twice more in the fifth when Jim Mason tripled in one run and scored on Rivers' sacrifice fly.

KC pins 6th loss on Sox

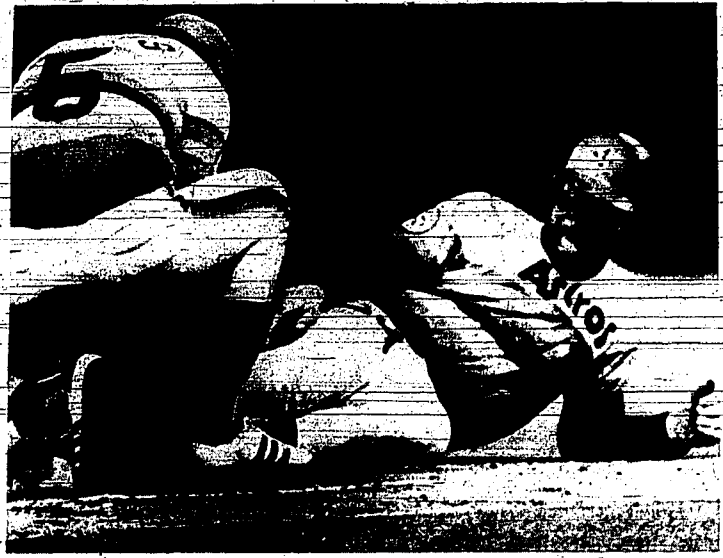

BOSTON (UPI) — Cookie Rojas smacked two singles and drove home three runs Wednesday night to spark an 8-4 victory for the Kansas City Royals over the Boston Red Sox, the sixth straight loss for the American League champions.

Rojas knocked in the winning runs in the seventh inning. Amos Otis, Hal McRae and Dave Nelson all walked off Boston reliever Tom House before Rojas stroked a two-run single to left, putting Kansas City ahead 5-2. Rojas sacrificed fly also capped a three-run ninth inning rally by the Royals.

The Red Sox threatened in the eighth when they loaded the bases. Deron Johnson and Cecil Upmeyer struck out. Fisk reached on an error by third baseman George Brett. But they were taken out of a big inning when Carl Yastrzemski lined into a double play. Jim Rice knocked in Lynn and Johnson's with a double to left with two out.

Twins rout Tigers 8-2

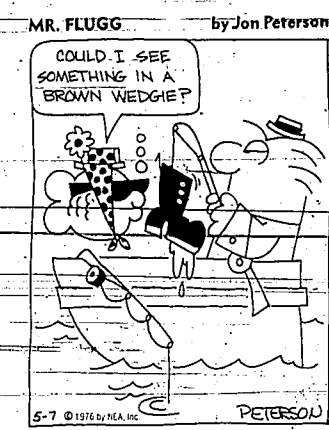

DETROIT (UPI) — Craig Kusick capped a five-run third inning with a three-run homer and Dan Ford drove in four runs with a single and his second homer in as many nights Wednesday to power the Minnesota Twins to an 8-2 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

GRIMACING Cesar Cedeno of Houston lies at first base in pain after sliding back to the base after his single to right field against Philadelphia Wednesday. Working on him is Astros coach Bob Lillis. Phillies won 6-3. (UPI telephoto)

Vandal spring drills please Troxel

MOSCOW, Idaho — "It was the best spring football season during my 10 years here at the university," Idaho head coach Ed Troxel noted upon the completion of Vandal spring football drills for the Vandals in 1976.

The silver and gold ended their allotted 20 days of workouts on Saturday night, May 1, with the annual Silver-Gold Bowl in Kibbie - ASUI Dome. Over 2,500 fans were on hand for the contest won by the Gold unit, 34-21.

Troxel, preparing for his third year at the helm, was pleased with the overall spring progress and especially the showing his athletes gave in the annual scrimmage. "I think we proved to the fans that we will be an excellent football team next fall," he said.

Freshman quarterback Rocky Tuttle from Gold Beach, Ore., moved into first place in the race for a starting berth by guiding the Gold to victory. He carried 10 times for 172 yards. His squad amassed 406 yards on the ground and passed for another 62.

"Yes, you must place Rocky No. 1 going into our drills in August. He really came on this spring and gave notice to Craig (Juntunen) and Kenny Schmitt that he wants the starting nod," Troxel noted.

"However, he'll have his work cut-out as I am sure his two challengers will work hard this summer."

Talking about his backfield always being a splinter to the Idaho coach's face, "I am so happy with all four of our backs," he said reflecting on the spring action. "They are good, tough, inside runners who can also go outside."

The four backs are Robert Taylor, Robert Brooks, Kevin McAfee and Tim Lappano. McAfee is the only senior while Taylor and Brooks will be juniors. Only a sophomore, Lappano has already placed himself in the Idaho and Big Sky Conference record books. He averaged 8.4 yards per carry as a freshman.

Although young, the Idaho receiving corps is improving rapidly. Freshmen Mike Hagadone and Riek Mayfield are battling for the tight end post. Junior college transfer Dan Cozzetto was in front until he sustained a severe ankle injury. He'll be ready for action next fall.

"The receivers did a fine job considering the limited time they had to work on timing on a marked field," Troxel pointed out. The Vandals didn't get to use their artificial Tartan field until the final 10 days of drills due to a student stadium board ruling. Therefore, a so-dit, bumpy grass area adjacent to the dome was utilized during most of the spring.

"Dan Davidson made some good catches even though his yardage wasn't great. So did Mike Hagadone and Riek Mayfield. They've made tremendous improvement."

Troxel said he would have been real pleased with the receivers if several tough catches had been held. He also noted the play of another frosh — Kirk Allen, a walk-on last fall.

"We need another week on the mat to get our timing down with the quarterbacks and receivers," the UI mentor remarked. "Well work hard on this phase when they report back."

Idaho's offensive line remains practically intact. Returning for another year together are tackles Will Overgaard and Greg Kittrell, guard Clarence Hurno and center John Yarou. In addition, several younger players give the team good depth.

"I think John (senior) John McMahon did a tremendous job with the young line this spring. The UI mentor stressed, "I am really anxious to see the films on this."

Idaho's ever attack set of offensive recruits during the past two campaigns and it wouldn't have been possible without the front line. The 6-5, 230-pound Yarou is a definite all-conference, all-regional and all-American candidate.

The 6-6 Overgaard, selected last week as the offensive captain — Kittrell and Hurno are also all-star candidates. Their chances will be enhanced by each Idaho victory.

Switching his thoughts to defense where the Vandals have been rather weak during the past two years, Troxel has an air of cautious optimism.

"We made some good strides during the spring, but we still need about 20 days work to really get the unit where we want them," the top Vandal noted.

"Our biggest plus is, of course, our good defensive ends and tackles. We have good depth behind the starters. The ends are bolstered by the return of injury redshirt candidate Chris Torney and freshman Robert Collins," he said.

"At tackle, Junior (senior) Pellegrini is the anchor. He's a definite all-conference and all-regional candidate."

DRIVING Jamaal Wilkes (41) of Golden State drove past Phoenix Suns' Curtis Perry on his way to a basket during NBA west playoffs Wednesday, Phoenix dropped the Warriors 108-101 to even the series at one each. (UPI telephoto)

Westphal, Phoenix tie Warrior series

OAKLAND (UPI) — Guard Paul Westphal made 14 of 19 shots and scored 31 points to power the Phoenix Suns in a series-securing 108-101 victory over the Golden State Warriors in their NBA Western Conference championship finals Wednesday night.

Westphal's torrid shooting Borg beats Dibbs

DALLAS (UPI) — Bjorn Borg, covering every inch of the court like a pesky water bug, finally wore down Eddie Dibbs Wednesday night to take a 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 victory and move into the semi-finals of the World Championship Tennis Tournament.

Borg reached one seemingly impossible shot after another, often turning them into winners, to move a step closer to the crown he has almost won the past two years.

Dibbs is winless in seven tries against Borg but for a while Wednesday night it seemed as if the 25-year-old New Yorker-turned-Floridian might break the string.

He made almost no errors in the opening set and twice broke Borg's serve while the Swede was hitting a matchful of careless shots in the opening set.

In the second set Dibbs immediately ran into serving problems, double-faulted once and lost his serve in the opening game. Borg served out the set with relative ease to draw even for the match.

The pressure came in the sixth game of the third set when Borg reached four shots that appeared to be Dibbs winners and finally broke Dibbs' serve when Dibbs put an easy volley into the net.

plus 23 points from fellow guard Ricky Sobers overcame a blistering 42-point outburst by Rick Barry, who connected on 17 of 31 shots and now has 82 points in the two games.

The best-of-seven series continues at Phoenix Friday and Sunday with the fifth scheduled for the Oakland arena Wednesday.

The loss snapped a three-game playoff win string for the Warriors, who trailed most of the game while failing to contain the penetrating and shooting of the Phoenix backcourt duo.

Conversely, the Warriors' guards were superb, leaving all the scoring pressure on Barry and Jamaal Wilkes, who scored 18 points.

The game was tied throughout the first half, Phoenix taking a 44-44 halftime lead. A 13-7 Golden State spurt midway through the third quarter made it a 73-73 tie.

But Phoenix, behind Garfield Heard's four points, outscored the Warriors 8-0 at the end of the quarter to take an 81-73 lead into the final period.

The momentum continued and the Suns were seldom threatened in the late going, despite 54 per cent shooting by the aroused Warriors over the last 12 minutes.

Center Alvan Adams, who didn't play well in the series opener Sunday, was a factor for the Suns with a game-high nine assists.

A capacity crowd of 13,067 was loudly critical of the officiating, as the Suns were not called for a foul in the final quarter until 2:57 remaining in the game.

Sutton talks it over with Chicago staff

CHICAGO (UPI) — It was "a joke and a farce," winning pitcher Don Sutton grumbled. "All I feel is coming to the Cubs pitching staff had to play 81 games here every year. They ought to put in a 3-and-1 rule for this park. Only three months and one month option and go to someplace else." The Cubs have got to have the gutsiest staff in baseball."

Sutton's Los Angeles Dodgers won a 4-1-2 decision over the Chicago Cubs and the two teams combined to hit nine home runs, only two short of the major league record. The Dodgers had seven of the homers for a club record, bettering their previous mark of six established in the same park on Aug. 20, 1974.

The home runs, of course, were wind-aided. The Cubs were wind-aided in their 3-11 per-hour game played from home plate when the game began. At times, the gusts reached 50 miles an hour.

While the conditions helped some of the homers, the unpredictable weather also made play hazardous in the outfield.

"I kept telling them to catch the ball when it was up in the air," Dodger manager Walt Alton said. "But despite the two or three snafus, the others were legitimate."

"It may be as many line drive hits as I've seen in a game in a long time and maybe six or seven of those home runs would have been out without the wind. I didn't feel secure until Mike Marshall got that last man out."

"I was the first man I've ever played in that kind of a wind," said Dodger right fielder Henry Cruz, who hit two home runs. "You had to walk and see where the wind was going to carry the ball and then start moving when you had an idea where the ball is going."

Sutton declared he was "doing exactly what I tell my family not to do. I tell them not to worry about something they can't control and here I am angry at conditions I can't do anything about. This park is a great place for the fans and the hitters. It takes the game out of the hands of the players and puts it in the hands of somebody bigger than any of us."

Reds nip Mets 2-0 in 11th

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Foster and Ken Griffey singled home runs in the 11th inning Wednesday night to give the Cincinnati Reds a 2-0 victory over the New York Mets behind the combined

seven-hit pitching of Gary Nolan and Rawly Eastwick. Nolan, starting the Reds' 11th by drawing a walk off reliever Tom Holland, with one out, stole second. Tony Perez was given an intentional walk but Foster felled the strategy by grounding a single to left fielder Morgan Griffey, a late inning replacement, followed with a line single to right to score Perez.

Eastwick pitched the final two innings in relief of Nolan to gain his second win in three decisions. Nolan went the first nine innings, allowing just seven hits, while striking out five. The Mets had a chance to win the game in the ninth but Jerry Grote grounded out a force out with runners on first and second.

Jon Fick, who had won the first three decisions, pitched the first 9 2/3 innings for the Mets, allowing six hits while striking out 11. He was forced to leave the game with two outs in the 10th when he developed a sore arm—the fingers of his pitching hand.

Padres rally past Montreal

MONTEREAL (UPI) — Doug Rader's three-run homer highlighted a four-run rally in the sixth inning Wednesday night that carried the San Diego Padres to a 6-1 victory over the Montreal Expos.

In squaring their season's record at 11-11, the Padres did all the scoring against Montreal starter and loser Steve Rogers, the winning rally coming with two outs in the sixth. Tito Fuentes doubled and scored on a single by Willie Davis to tie the score at 3-3 in the sixth. Willie McCovey, who had hit a two-run homer in the first inning, followed by a single before Rader hit his second home run of the season to put San Diego into a 6-1 lead.

Brent Strom started for the Padres but worked only five innings in gaining his second win in three decisions. Pete Mackenry upped his hitting streak to 10 games when he hit a solo homer for Montreal in the second inning. The Expos got their other two runs in the fourth when Larry Parrish doubled home Nate Colbert and scored on Rogers' single.

Cards blank Atlanta 4-0

ATLANTA (UPI) — Southpaw Pete Fackler picked up his first victory for St. Louis Wednesday night by shutting out Atlanta on four hits over 7 innings in a 4-0 Cardinals victory which handed the Braves their ninth straight loss.

Falcone, who came to the Cardinals from San Francisco in a trade for Atlanta third baseman Ken Reitz, had to leave the game with one out in the eighth when Jerry Royster ripped a double off his left leg. Although he insisted he was all right, manager Red Schoendienst brought in Mike Pech and later Al Hrabosky.

The Cardinals scored their first run in the first inning when Vic Harris reached on the first of his four hits in the game, advanced to third on Bake McBride's single and scored on a force out by Ted Simmons.

The Cardinals' other two runs came in the sixth when, first baseman Earl Williams bledched up a grounder by Willie Crawford, allowing Harris to score again and then McBride came home on a single flung by Tom Fark.

Dick Ruthven, now 3-3, gave up eight hits in eight innings while taking the loss. Falcons is now 1-2.

PHOENIX (UPI) — Sandy Hucul, coach of the Phoenix Roadrunners of the World Hockey Association, was dismissed Wednesday in an economic move which will find the new coach next season serving in dual capacity.

Karl Eller, representing the owners of the Roadrunners, told a news conference that the reasons for not renewing Hucul's coaching contract were "purely economic."

Eller did not name the new coach, but indicated it would probably be either Bill McFarland, who has served as president and general manager the past two years, or Al Rollins, who is director of player personnel.

Too late Oliver bats Bucs by S.F.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Al Oliver went three-for-three including a two-run homer in his first start since April 26, and Duffy Dyer also smacked a two-run shot Wednesday night to power the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Oliver, who missed six games with a heel injury, capped a three-run third inning with his homer. Kissau preceded the blast with a double and scored on Rich Hebner's single.

Dyer's homer in the ninth scored Richie Zisk, who had doubled and moved to third on a wild pitch. In the fifth, Oliver singled, moved to third on Willie Stargell's single and scored on Dave Parker's ground out.

Salt Lake City syndicate tries to entice Spirits from St. Louis

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A Salt Lake City businessman said Wednesday nine local investors have pledged more than the $500,000 necessary to move the Spirits of St. Louis of the American Basketball Association to Utah.

Earl D. Walters said he completed talks on the proposed franchise shift during the afternoon with Spirits' president and general manager Harry Weltman, who was making his third trip to Salt Lake City in two weeks to discuss the deal.

Representatives of Memphis, which is also seeking the franchise, met during the day in New York City with Dan Sulina, a co-owner of the Spirits.

Both Salt Lake City and Memphis are former ABA cities. The Utah Stars were one of three teams to fold during 1975-76. The Memphis franchise moved to Baltimore and folded before the season began.

"We're still got to close the agreement and that will probably take some time," said Walters. "But the local investment is pledged and ready. The difficulties will be working out

Monzon will take, not give crown

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Carlos Monzon will not put his world boxing association middleweight title on the line June 26 when he fights Rodrigo Valdes for the World Boxing Council title, promoter Juan Carlos Lectoure said Wednesday.

Monzon, of Argentina, meets Valdes, of Colombia, in a showdown in Monte Carlo billed as a natural to unify the world middleweight title.

"That will only happen if Monzon wins and takes Baldes' WBC title," said Lectoure, who is handling Monzon's business arrangements for the bout.

If Valdes wins, he will retain the WBC title but get no part of Monzon's WBA title, Lectoure said. The title situation will be back at square one.

Reds nipped by Mets 2-0 in 11th

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Foster and Ken Griffey singled home runs in the 11th inning Wednesday night to give the Cincinnati Reds a 2-0 victory over the New York Mets behind the combined

seven-hit pitching of Gary Nolan and Rawly Eastwick. Nolan, starting the Reds' 11th by drawing a walk off reliever Tom Holland, with one out, stole second. Tony Perez was given an intentional walk but Foster felled the strategy by grounding a single to left fielder Morgan Griffey, a late inning replacement, followed with a line single to right to score Perez.

Eastwick pitched the final two innings in relief of Nolan to gain his second win in three decisions. Nolan went the first nine innings, allowing just seven hits, while striking out five. The Mets had a chance to win the game in the ninth but Jerry Grote grounded out a force out with runners on first and second.

Jon Fick, who had won the first three decisions, pitched the first 9 2/3 innings for the Mets, allowing six hits while striking out 11. He was forced to leave the game with two outs in the 10th when he developed a sore arm—the fingers of his pitching hand.

Padres rally past Montreal

MONTEREAL (UPI) — Doug Rader's three-run homer highlighted a four-run rally in the sixth inning Wednesday night that carried the San Diego Padres to a 6-1 victory over the Montreal Expos.

In squaring their season's record at 11-11, the Padres did all the scoring against Montreal starter and loser Steve Rogers, the winning rally coming with two outs in the sixth. Tito Fuentes doubled and scored on a single by Willie Davis to tie the score at 3-3 in the sixth. Willie McCovey, who had hit a two-run homer in the first inning, followed by a single before Rader hit his second home run of the season to put San Diego into a 6-1 lead.

Brent Strom started for the Padres but worked only five innings in gaining his second win in three decisions. Pete Mackenry upped his hitting streak to 10 games when he hit a solo homer for Montreal in the second inning. The Expos got their other two runs in the fourth when Larry Parrish doubled home Nate Colbert and scored on Rogers' single.

Erving appears in one-man dual with Denver for title

UNIONDALE, N. Y. (UPI) — So far, the American Basketball Association championship series has been Julius Erving against the Denver Nuggets.

In two games, Erving has personally accounted for 36 points, 26 rebounds and 12 assists. He has hit 67 percent of his field goals and 85 percent of his free throws.

Denver has exhibited "teamwork" for two years — it-blended-through-the-regular-season schedules and, in beating the New York Nets in the second game to end the best-of-seven series at 1-1 Tuesday night, the Nuggets showed exactly why their style of play has been so effective. It isn't simply 20-20 points and 20 rebounds made 24 apiece.

The Nets can't be cited for Erving too much. Any player who can hit 67 per cent ought to be shooting as much as possible. Denver put its top defensive forward, Bobby Jones, on Erving, assigned "winger" players to help out, directed defenses to pressure him or keep him from the ball, but Erving scored as if he was alone on the court.

But the Nets, hoping for a home court victory tonight and a 2-1 lead in the series, cannot rely on Erving to win the championship. They know they have to do it themselves as a team, with balanced contributions. And they know they haven't been performing as well as they should be.

"We've got a good feeling," Erving said. "We can play better as a team. I don't know if they can."

While Erving has been bombing from three-point range and slamming in spectacular dunks, his teammates, especially the guards, have been performing like strangers to the hoop, contributing for a 39 per cent field goal percentage. Brian Taylor has hit only seven of 30 shots in the two games. John Williamson only 13 of 36. That's not good enough for a starting backcourt.

Denver on the other hand, has countered with a timely rebounding effort.

In the first game, which the Nuggets lost 120-118, Sunday, they placed seven players in double figures, with forward-guard David Thompson leading the way with 30 points. The Nets had three players in double figures.

In the second game, which the Nuggets won 127-121, they had four players over 20 points. Erving, with 36, was the only one over 20 points.

"The Nets feel confident after the split in Denver," the Nuggets are the toughest home court team in pro basketball. But the Nets will need stronger performances from Taylor and Williamson and better overall defense if they expect that slight advantage to mean anything.

Odom wonders how he finds himself back in minor league

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — John "Blue Moon" Odom, back in the minor leagues for the first time since 1967, still can't figure out just why he's there.

"I think I got a raw deal, I really do. On the last day of spring training, they popped me with the bad news and I didn't know what to do. I wanted to quit," Odom confessed.

The veteran pitcher, consigned by the Atlanta Braves to their AAA affiliate in Richmond despite several impressive spring performances.

When he was sent down, the 39-year-old Odom moped around for a couple of weeks, missing a few international league games, but finally decided to report.

"I know I got a raw deal and I want to prove to them that they were wrong. There will be a chance with one of these teams," he said, soaking his right elbow in ice in the dingy Parker Field home clubhouse.

"I just want to go out and pitch every four or five games and hope someone will want me," Richmond manager Jack McKeon said.

Odom's first two outings this season, both wins, were outstanding.

"He could pitch in the big leagues right now, and he'll be there next year for sure," said McKeon, himself a big league manager for 2 1/2 years at Kansas City.

Odom credited his improvement to advice from veteran pitching coach Johnny Sain, the Braves' minor league pitching instructor this season.

"He said not to change my windup. He talked to me about different windups and now I just throw the ball without a windup most of the time. I used to wonder why I was more effective when I threw on my base, and I figured out it was because I pitched from the stretch," said Odom.

"The new way has helped both my velocity and my control."

Odom, who needs just two more months in the minors to qualify for the pension benefits of a 10-year man, pitched parts of 11 seasons for the A's in Kansas City and Oakland. He had 15-6 seasons in both 1969 and 1972, but the A's soured on him after he posted a 5-12 record in 1973 and a 1-15 mark in 1974.

Odom said he "hardly ever watched" the Oakland base coaches' now but that he misses his former teammates — Joe Rudi, Sal Bando and the rest.

"They area great bunch of dudes out there, and they area gal along pretty good with townie Charlie Finley," he said.

Finley traded Odom to the Cleveland Indians, but he didn't last long there "because I just couldn't get along with the front office." When Odom asked to be traded again, the Indians sent him to the Braves, where he was 1-17 in 15 games with a 7.07 era, making his record for the year 2-9.

"Last year, my arm was coming around stronger, but the Braves wouldn't pitch me," he added. "If I can get back, maybe they'll pitch me more."

Injury shelves Cavs' Chones

BOSTON (UPI) — The Cleveland Cavaliers will be without starting center Jim Chones for the entire NBA Eastern Conference Playoff series against the Boston Celtics. It was announced Wednesday.

X-rays showed Chones, injured in practice Tuesday, suffered a broken little toe in his right foot. He broke the same bone in 1975. He now has had his foot placed in a cast.

"It's out, it's as simple as that," said coach Phil Fuld, who led the Cavs past Washington in a seven-game Eastern Conference semifinal series.

The former Marquette star averaged 15 points and seven rebounds per game against the Bulls.

When the series gets underway Thursday night at Boston Garden, Chones will be replaced either by veteran reserve Nate Thurmond or forward Jim Brewer, who is the same size as Boston's 6-foot-9 center, Dave Cowens. The Cavs also could start little used backup Luke Witte.

"Why did this have to happen to us?" asked Brewer, before adding more positively: "After looking at the whole situation, though, I still feel that all hope is not gone. We're just going to have to come up with a change in strategy."

Without the 6-foot-11 Chones, the Cavs will have even more than the expected-rebounding problems against Boston. The Celtics dominated Cleveland on the boards, 265-229, in five regular season games, with Chones averaging 5.5 rebounds per game. Silas led Boston with 11 rebounds while Dave Cowens averaged 10 per game.

"But I still feel the same way I did prior to this (Chones) injury, that we can beat them," said guard Jim Cleamens. "We are going to prove that our bench is deeper than theirs."

Gilliam signs 3-year Atlanta pact

ATLANTA (UPI) — New Atlanta Falcons John Gilliam didn't want to get into the hassle surrounding the signing of baseball's free agents "Cattfish" Hunter and Andy Messersmith.

"I wanted to play for Atlanta," said the 30-year-old former Minnesota Viking, who has been one of the top receivers in pro football for nearly a decade. "But if we couldn't work out a deal with the Falcons, then I would have returned to Minnesota."

Gilliam, who became a free agent Saturday, came to terms with the Falcons Wednesday.

"This is not a money thing," said Gilliam, who signed for three years in excess of $75,000 a year. "We didn't get into a 'Cattfish' Hunter thing with clubs, all around the league. We wanted to come to Atlanta was not for money. I have had my family and my business here since 1968 and I hope to finish my career in Atlanta. If I didn't signed with the Falcons, I would have gone back to Minnesota."

Wednesday was the second time within a year that the Vikings signed Gilliam, who scored 27 touchdowns the past four seasons. He played 1973 for Chicago in the now defunct World Football League, going back to Minnesota when the NFL folded.

"I've always wanted to play for Atlanta," said Gilliam, who also played for New Orleans and St. Louis. "I'd hoped I'd be drafted by the Falcons in 1967 but Saints Coach Tom Benson (who had been with the Falcons the previous year) grabbed me first."

Gilliam spent two years with the Saints, three with St. Louis and four with the Vikings. In those three seasons he caught 350 passes for 6,631 yards and 45 touchdowns.

"We have often been criticized for not going out and buying talent," said Falcons President Frank Wolf. "In 10 years, this is the first opportunity we have had to buy a football player and we made a hell of a purchase."

Gilliam, who caught 50 passes for 772 yards and seven touchdowns last season, said he couldn't expect to be able to continue playing.

"I'd like to play for 10 or 15 more years, but let's be realistic. I do feel I could still have five or six more good years."

General Manager Pat

Pepper said he talked about Gilliam with the Vikings and recognizes that the signing might be in jeopardy if there is a new ruling on the agency, especially in regard to compensation.

"We can't say it's all speculation," said Pepper. "We agree with the structure we had in the NFL, and this may be temporary, but as it now stands, the deal is bonafide. We'll by some more players if they are available."

The Falcons, 4-10 last year, said their No. 1 need was for a top receiver but didn't go for one in the college draft, thinking there was none available.

With John Jenkins on one side, Alfred Jenkins on the other and Jim Mitchell up the middle, (quarterback) Steve Bartkowski should have some people open this year," said Falcons' Coach Marion Campbell.
