© Chicago Daily News

OMAHA — Nebraskaans went to the polls today to render the first farm state verdict in the Ford-Reagan contest and to pass judgment on the late-budding presidential candidacy of Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

A record turnout of 415,000 voters was expected before the polls close at 8 p.m. MDT.

President Ford, who has called the Nebraska outcome "crucial and critical," was believed to be narrowly ahead of Ronald Reagan in the Republican primary. A top aide of Ford's national campaign staff predicted that fewer than 5 percentage points would separate the winner and loser.

Ford needs a victory here to break Reagan's winning streak in the last four primaries and to help erase his growing image as a vulnerable incumbent.

Church, ending his first primary campaign told reporters he needs to run a "strong second" to the national Democratic front-runner, Jimmy Carter, in remaining states in the later primaries. Church said he would make a "political miracle" for him to beat the former Georgia governor. The senator grinned and added "but miracles sometimes occur."

"I had only four weeks to come from nowhere," Church said, noting that he had to campaign "against the tide of national publicity" generated by Carter's success in the primaries so far.

Nebraska law prohibits crossover voting, in which members of one political party may vote in the other party's primary. Ford strategists blamed crossover for Reagan's recent victories in Texas and Indiana.

primary. Although Nebraska has 11 million eligible voters, only the 774,000 who are registered Democrats or Republicans were qualified to vote today.

Nebraskaans were selecting 25 delegates to this summer's Republican National Convention and 23 delegates to the Democratic convention. Reagan currently leads Ford nationally in the number of committed delegates.

Reagan was favored to win nine delegates from the largest of Nebraska's three congressional districts one covering the vast rural expanse in the western-most three-fourths of the state. Farmers in this region have been highly critical of Ford's agricultural policies.

Ford was expected to win eight delegates from the five county districts centering on Omaha on the eastern edge of the state, and eight delegates were up for grabs.

Reagan campaigns in TF

TWIN FALLS — Ronald Reagan wants to win Idaho's May 25th presidential primary to establish momentum going into the crucial California confrontation with President Ford two weeks later.

In an attempt to solidify Idaho support, the former California governor made a three-city swing through the state today.

Reagan, who only a month ago was running a poor second behind Ford for the Republican presidential nomination, suddenly has emerged as the frontrunner in the national GOP contest.

Coming to Twin Falls today, Reagan boasted a strong lead over President Ford in total numbers of committed delegates.

Reagan has 408 delegates pledged to him compared to Ford's 323.

A total of 1,130 delegates are needed for nomination at the Republican National Convention.

If Ford loses the nomination to Reagan he will become the first president since Chester Arthur in 1885 to lose his party's endorsement.

Reagan has opened up a substantial lead over President Ford in the race for Idaho's 17 national delegates who will be awarded to the winner of the presidential primary. Another four Idaho delegates will go uncommitted to the National Convention in Kansas City.

A poll by the Idaho Statesman shows Reagan leading Ford by almost 20 percentage points in Idaho.

Steve Symms and about 50 members of the news media, Reagan touched down in Twin Falls shortly after 1:30 p.m. today.

Bill Brennan, a San Diego attorney making final arrangements for Reagan's visit, said Reagan's trip to Idaho is tied to a western campaign strategy to win California's primary June 8.

"Winning Idaho's primary will help establish momentum going into California," Brennan said Monday.

"Idaho voters can help establish the credibility of the Reagan campaign at a very crucial time. California is the crucial test for Gov. Reagan. It's a chance for President Ford to embarrass him in his home state. We're doing all we can to win in California and Idaho's primary is part of our overall drive to take California," Brennan said.

Brennan is one of 20 national coordinators doing advance work for Reagan as he tours the U.S.

To better coordinate Reagan's California primary effort the national Citizens for Reagan committee will move to Los Angeles soon, Brennan said.

"A win in Idaho can help tremendously in California," Brennan explained. "There are a lot of fence-sitters out there and a string of primary victories prior to the California primary will help us get those undecided voters."

In Twin Falls Reagan planned an informal talk at the city park and answered questions during his 45-minute stop.

According to Boise tonight, Reagan will leave Idaho for Kentucky.

SHAWNO E. MAY protests performance

Campaign rally role protested

By BOB ZUCKERMAN Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — More than 15 of 30 student members of the Twin Falls High School Pep Band were expected to play one of the band's afternoon rally for Republican presidential primary candidate Ronald Reagan.

More than 65 students from the high school have signed a petition protesting band participation in the rally, according to Shawno E. May, Pep Band member and singer.

"This is taking politics into public education," May said. "I don't think we should be used as a campaign tool."

Del Slaughter, band director, reportedly told the band last week that they would play for Reagan. Slaughter said he was contacted directly to school principal Frank Charlton, but the "directive" was not repealed, May said.

"We try to stay away from politics," said Charlton, "but we have obligations to the community. I don't consider this a political action. We would do the same thing for both parties."

May also complained that Charlton had received a request for the band to play from Rep. Thomas Slivers, R-Twin Falls. The principal and state representative "are playing the game of 'You scratch my back, I'll scratch yours,'" said May. Slivers might not push for school funds. If the band doesn't play, May added.

"That's just not true at all," said Charlton. "May" also complained, "If we don't play, our grades will suffer."

Slaughter today said that "missing a performance is like missing an examination."

Charlton would not say what would happen should any band members refuse to play.

"It's a directive to play," he said. "We don't allow students to make administrative decisions. It's the same thing as a kid refusing to go to class or do anything else."

"Band members will play anyway because they are afraid that their grades might suffer if they don't," May said, adding, "I might even play willingly if I were being violent, but I resent the fact that I'm being forced to play."

Ford, Carter backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twelve Republican congressional leaders today endorsed Gerald Ford as the GOP presidential nominee while at least 19 members of the House Democratic freshman class announced their backing of Jimmy Carter.

"The House and Senate Republican leaders said they were supporting Ford because of his economic policies, his work for a strong national defense and his 'wise leadership' during 22 months in the White House.

A resolution said Ford "as President" and throughout his public career worked effectively for a strong national defense and a viable and sustainable economy."

IRS chief would destroy American citizens' files

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald C. Alexander said today he wants to make "the biggest bonfire" in Washington to destroy 11,500 IRS intelligence files for American citizens.

Available to the individuals concerned, but he was warned sternly against destroying the files at a hearing of the House subcommittee on government information and individual rights.

Alexander testified before the subcommittee following today's release of a Senate intelligence committee staff report which accused the IRS of "serious and illegal abuse" of the privacy of taxpayers.

That report said an IRS Special Service Staff heard about information on taxpayers "targeted" by the White House, FBI, CIA and other agencies in operations that involved wiretaps, bugs and break-ins.

The files also allegedly contained information on the sex and drinking habits of those investigated.

"What benefit would be gained from incurring the substantial costs which would be required to inform persons that they were the subjects of files?" Alexander asked the House subcommittee.

He said the files are "outdated, outdated and useless and would have been destroyed long ago" except for ongoing congressional investigations.

"I would like to have the biggest bonfire," he said, estimating it would cost $200,000 to keep the files and make them known to every individual involved.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., chairman of the subcommittee, branded and said, "I'm telling you right now that this is a congressional inquiry. And I put you on notice that those files better not be destroyed."

She said that citizens whose privacy rights had been illegally invaded over the years by the IRS should know about it.

Mrs. Abzug is holding hearings on a proposed bill which would require that all persons who were subject of improper or illegal intelligence activity by government agencies be given notice that they were targets and with the right to find out what the government was saying about them.

The Senate intelligence committee staff report said the IRS had carried out missions for the FBI, CIA and the White House.

Preparing for Reagan

BILL BRENNAN, advance man for Gov. Ronald Reagan, moves benches in front of the Twin Falls City Park Band Shell. Brennan arrived in Twin Falls Sunday night to begin final preparations for Reagan's 7 p.m. appearance at the park today. On stage, a clean-up man sweeps away accumulated debris.

Crash near Declo kills Pocatellans

DECLO — A Pocatello couple died in a head-on collision near here Monday night at a detour along Interstate 80.

Arlene Alyce McMaster, 40, was dead at the scene after she was thrown from a pickup when it collided with a grain truck. A Melvyn McMaster, 39, died at Minidoka Memorial Hospital shortly after the accident.

"She was dead, and he was still pinned, when I arrived," said L. R. Grimes of Salt Lake City, one of the first on the scene.

About seven members of a construction crew were not far away, according to Grimes. "This guy (McMaster) was still breathing," said Grimes, who asked the construction crew to get a crowbar.

When he got the crowbar, Grimes said, "I pried the door open carefully, got him out, placed him on the ground, and I administered first aid."

By then highway police arrived, Grimes said. Dale Calvin Whitmer, 23, Bountiful, Utah, was driver of the grain truck, a tractor-trailer rig. He and two hitchhiking passengers were treated and released from the hospital.

Whitmer identified the riders as William Jones, Phoenix, Ariz., and Richard McNaughton, Ft. Toro, Calif.

The wreck occurred about 6:15 p.m. Monday near the Twin Bridges over the Snake River north of here. A mile-long highway construction detour on Interstate 80 routes eastbound traffic onto one of the normally westbound lanes.

According to W. Dillon Jones of the Idaho State Police, the McMaster "pickup" had entered the detour from the west. Just before the accident.

Whitmer told police he was headed west at only 35 m.p.h. and repeatedly braked his truck to slow down behind a front-end loader. Trying to avoid hitting the slow-moving loader on the bridge, he turned the truck partially into the left lane.

Whitmer said the truck hit the left rear wheel of the loader and swung directly into the east-bound pickup.

The truck went on through the bridge falling, he said.

Gunman slays 3

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A gunman fired a volley of rifle shots about noon on Knoxville's main business street today, killing two women and an elderly man who ran into a store seeking help.

Witnesses said a tall, slender man who appeared to be in his late 20s opened fire without warning, killing two women sitting on a bench at a bus stop in front of the Kress store and wounding the man, then dropped his rifle and threw up his hands.

Bolivian envoy slain in Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Bolivian Ambassador Joaquin Zenteno Anaya, who as a military commander crushed Ernesto (Che) Guevara's guerrillas a decade ago, was assassinated in Paris today. Telephone callers said the "Che Guevara Brigades" was responsible.

Zenteno was gunned down beside the Seine river as he was getting into his car to drive home to lunch. Shortly afterward, Paris newspapers began getting telephone calls saying an underground organization calling itself the "Che Guevara Brigades" carried out the killing.

New tremor ripples Italy

UDINE, Italy (UPI) — Premier Aldo Moro appealed to Italy's politicians today not to make a campaign issue out of relief efforts for earthquake victims in northeast Italy. A new tremor rippled through the area before dawn.

The Udine prefecture unofficially counted the known dead at 914 and the missing at about 400. Police said 850 bodies had been recovered from the rubble of the Friuli region's 24 stricken towns and villages. They said 1,515 persons were known injured.

Compromise aid bill work starts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House and Senate today began a crash effort to complete work by Saturday on a compromise foreign military aid bill following President Ford's veto of such legislation last week.

Both the House International Relations Committee and a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee sought to combine 1976 and 1977 authorizations in a single piece of compromise legislation. The 1976 legislation authorized almost $4 billion in aid over a 15-month period.

New battles erupt in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — New fighting broke out in mountain areas east and north of Beirut today, hampering conciliatory moves by leftists toward Lebanese President-Elect Elias Sarkis.

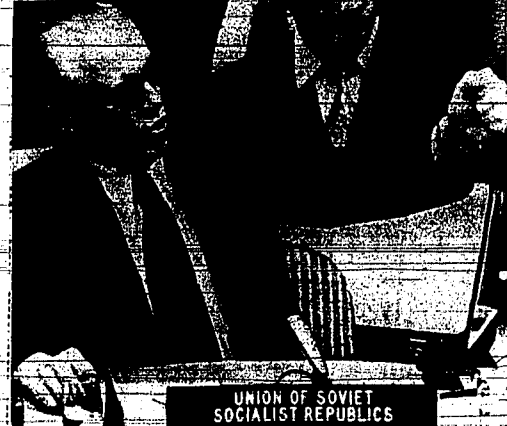

Ford expected to sign FEC bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican leaders met with President Ford today and they expected Ford to sign the Federal Election Commission bill after receiving "overwhelming sentiment" that he should approve the controversial measure.

UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS

SHAKING a clenched fist, Soviet U.N. Ambassador Yakov Malik, left, accused American officials of supporting anti-Soviet Zionist activities and charged that pro-Israel terrorists operate in New York without fear of punishment. Malik made the charges in the Security Council Monday. In reply, W. Tapley Bennett, right, said activities against the Soviets are "outrageous and disgraceful" and added that while the U.S. may not be moving as fast as the Soviets would like, "we do not plan to change our system of justice and law even if it is rather slow." (UPI)

Reds tangle over policy

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — China denounced U.S. and Soviet policies toward Third World countries today, and Moscow hit back with a charge that Peking is "the harbinger of a new world war against detente." The two Communist powers carried their ideological warfare into the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development, overshadowing for the moment the conflict between third world and industrial nations in the meeting. In the most scintillating speech heard at the conference, Chinese deputy foreign-trade minister Chou Hui-min said the "two superpowers" are still trying by hook and by crook to hold on and preserve the old international economic order. He accused the United States and Soviet Union of reducing poor countries to "sheer slavery." Soviet foreign trade minister Nikolai S. Patolichev's response was more muted than Chou's free-swing speech. "The vicious attacks by that country which is a harbinger of a new world war against detente scarcely deserves comment," Patolichev said. He accused China of seeking to undermine the cooperation of Communist and developing nations and the solidarity of forces fighting for the liquidation of the old economic order. Hatalovchev gave blanket endorsement to demands that Third World nations have said against western industrial countries. But he made no reference to demands that the third world has directed at the Communist bloc for better trade and aid conditions.

Campaign Newsman sues staff cut by Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's campaign committee is dismissing 62 workers — 25 per cent of the total staff — by June 1 in order to save money for the remaining primary battles against Ronald Reagan, a committee spokeswoman said today. She said the 207-member staff will be shaved to 152 by Saturday and to 145 by June 1. She said the cuts will save the committee $60,000 a month.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing "the cause of a free press," New York Times reporter Hedrick Smith and his family filed a damage suit naming Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger among officials responsible for wiretapping their home telephone in 1969. Smith's wife and children joined in the lawsuit, because, he said, many conversations about personal and family matters were overheard. Officials have testified that no classified material was overheard. Smith said Smith did not ask for a specific amount of damages, but left the matter up to the U. S. District Court here, where the suit was filed.

Marijuana may aid glaucoma treatment

RESTON, Va. (UPI) — Marijuana eye drops may be useful in treating glaucoma, the nation's third leading cause of blindness, a Medical College of Georgia professor said today. "Marijuana and the related drugs we have tested show greater potential for the treatment of glaucoma," said Keith Green, associate professor of ophthalmology at the Augusta, Ga. school. "Their use as a drug substantially enhances the possibility of use clinically since they would be easy for the patient to self-administer," he said. But eye drops are not the only potential for marijuana derivatives in treating the eye disorder that afflicts some two million Americans, 50,000 of them blind, said Green.

Jail death stirs fuss

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — Police headquarters said today 600 policemen were injured, two seriously, in fighting with demonstrators protesting the death in jail of urban guerrilla leader Ulrike Meinhof. About 600 demonstrators, shouting "Murder in jails," threw firebombs and rocks at police Monday. One firebomb caught Juergen Weber in his police patrol car and turned him into a human torch, police said. He lost 60 per cent of his skin and doctors were fighting to save his life. Mrs. Meinhof, a 41-year-old left-wing writer, was found hanged early Sunday in the Stammheim prison in Stuttgart, where she was on trial for taking part in a series of bomb attacks from 1970 to her arrest in 1972. Authorities said she committed suicide. At least five demonstrators were injured, police said, and 12 were arrested.

Other papers presented at the meeting said that a small number of children who suffer psychic disturbances, self-abuse or other signs of mental retardation, may in fact be suffering from the pain of congenital glaucoma. "A type of glaucoma occurring suddenly and extremely painfully in its victims and usually leading to blindness if not treated quickly, is now being treated successfully with laser light. The patient may be driven home immediately after surgery, and can resume normal activities the very next day," said Dr. Robert K. Abraham of the University of Southern California School of Medicine in Los Angeles. Green described experiments with liquid drops of synthetic marijuana derivative in rabbits and monkeys. The same non-euphoric synthetic is being used to relieve pain in some terminally ill cancer patients, he said in an interview.

Spanish rightists challenge Madrid

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Spanish rightists today challenged the government by calling a mass rally to honor the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco and to protest government promises to democratize Spain. The call was issued by the most powerful of the right-wing groups — the 500,000-member Federation of Veterans of the 1936-39 civil war that brought Franco to power. The appeal was issued without waiting to see whether the government of King Juan Carlos would give permission to hold the rally. The veterans said the rally will be held May 20 — exactly six months after Franco's death. They clothed their appeal in language highly critical of the government, but pointedly avoided mentioning the king, who is believed to be a driving force behind the plans for reform. "The government has announced plans to allow the creation of independent labor unions, to legalize most political parties and to create a two-chamber parliament that will be, for the most part, democratically elected. The reform proposals are to be submitted to a referendum. The right-wing appeal was issued after a weekend marked by political violence in several parts of Spain. In the restive Basque region, police said they killed an attempt to free political prisoners from San Sebastian's Martutene jail, arresting five alleged separatists.

Good wheat crop looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Monday estimated the 1976 winter wheat crop at 1.459 billion bushels, down 12 per cent from last year's record but big enough to promise abundant supplies and comparatively stable consumer prices for the coming year.

The new estimate, based on May 1 conditions, was down 192 million bushels from the 1975 crop of 1.651 billion bushels — largely because of a fall and winter drought in the southwest — and was just 37 million bushels below the initial 1976 crop estimate of 1.496 billion bushels issued last December.

In spite of the drought losses, however, officials say a combination of factors including smaller-than-predicted export sales from the 1975 crop and an expected upswing in production of 1976 spring wheat may lift total wheat supplies for the year beginning July 1 above the current season's 2.5 billion bushel total.

Agriculture analysts said a crop of the size now in sight could fill all domestic and foreign markets in the 1976-77 marketing year including sales to Russia with enough left over in the summer of 1977 to produce a second straight increase in reserve supplies.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Buttz says that if normal weather from here in permits farmers to harvest the currently predicted wheat crop and a potential record 1976 corn crop, overall American grain production will set another new record this year and retail food prices will be held to a 2-4 per cent advance in spite of recent additional grain sales to Russia.

In contrast, food prices advanced 8.5 per cent last year and 14.5 per cent in each of the two preceding years.

The crop report said the winter wheat harvest, which did not decline as much from the December forecast as feared earlier, would be the second biggest on record. The report said the crop made good growth in April and was developing ahead of normal on May 1 in many areas, especially the Great Plains.

In Kansas, the nation's top wheat state, April rains broke the drought. Kansas prospects were put at 302,400,000 bushels, up sharply from a forecast of 286,000,000 bushels on April 1. In December, the Kansas harvest had been estimated at 327,500,000 bushels compared to 350,900,000 last year.

Texas, another drought stricken area, also showed improvement during April.

Today's wheat crop estimate said nothing about spring wheat production which will not be officially estimated until July. But tentative projections by Agriculture experts have put the potential 1976 spring crop at about 500-600 million bushels compared with 485 million last year.

Adding a spring crop of that size to today's winter crop estimate would produce an all-wheat 1976 harvest ranging between 1.850 and 2.029 billion bushels compared with last year's record of 2.134 billion.

Total wheat supplies for the 1976-77 marketing season which opens July 1 also will include a reserve carryover currently estimated at 552 million million bushels. This is about 73 million bushels more than experts were figuring on before they trimmed back export forecasts last month, and is about 225 million bushels above the reserve on hand one year ago.

Another factor which makes the new 1976 wheat crop estimate appear big despite the decline from last year's total is the fact that experts are predicting an improved global wheat harvest this year. As a result, government analysts say demand for American wheat in export markets may dip from a predicted 1.2 billion bushels in the 1976-76 marketing year to between 950 million and 1.150 billion in the year beginning July 1.

Claim hit

NAVY Secretary William J. Blumenthal said Monday in Detroit there has been no indication of the Navy's estimates of spending on naval forces by the Soviet Union. Earlier, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., charged that the U. S. is spending far more than the Soviets on major surface warships.

Bias hangs on in unions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal laws and programs are unable to stop the discrimination against women and minorities by building trades and trucking unions, a Civil Rights Commission study said today.

The commission's report to Congress concentrated on discrimination in the Teamsters' Union and its building trades unions, all of which select members, screen apprentices and refer workers to high paying jobs — often through hiring halls.

The commission questioned the accuracy of government figures, but said the numbers clearly show that most of the women and minority members of these unions have been confined to the lower paying trades and positions. In construction, it estimated minority workers may comprise less than 5.5 per cent and women less than 1 per cent of all journeymen in the teamsters. It indicated minority men make up 10.3 per cent and women less than 2 per cent of all driver members and far fewer of the highly paid drivers.

Fewer returns filed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By the end of April, the Internal Revenue Service had received more than 80 million income tax returns — a drop of about one million from 1975.

The federal agency said Monday the decline could be traced to increased use of automatic deadline extensions and an increase in the gross income levels at which individuals must file returns. In 1975, about 7.4 million individual returns were filed after the April-15 deadline, mostly from taxpayers who were given extensions. This year, about 7.5 million are expected to file by using extensions.

Carter economic paper comes part way to earth

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter, to his credit, has begun to respond to demands that he come out of the clouds and get down to earth. In his first position paper, an economic policy, he descends from about thirty thousand feet to maybe five or ten. He has a way yet to go. The paper, taken as a whole, is a reasonably good effort. It contains some baloney, but not a vast deal of baloney. As a moderately liberal Democrat, Carter reflects his party's traditional faith in the wonder-working powers of the federal government. Carter adapts and embraces Gerald Ford's program of incentives within the private sector, but he proposes various stimulative programs within the public sector also. There is nothing in this paper that is shrill or doctrinaire — or original, either. In Carter's view, the major economic problem is not the risk of renewed inflation; it is "unacceptably high unemployment." He views the present situation in the worst possible light, which is fair enough in a political campaign.

With a flourish of Italian trumpets, he states his own goal: "We must give highest priority to achieving a steady reduction of unemployment and achieving full employment — a job for everyone who wishes one — as rapidly as possible, while reducing inflation." The comment may reasonably be ventured that this is not Jimmy Carter's goal since it is everyone's goal. It is the trick of the week. Surely it is the goal of the Ford administration. The problem is how to put more people to work without incurring the monstrous deficits that would send the cost of living up again. Carter's idea is to pursue "an expansionary fiscal and monetary policy in the near future, with some budget deficits if necessary." (Comment: A little baloney here. Carter knows deficits will be necessary under his program; there is no "if" about it.) Carter says that with a "progressively managed economy," we can attain a balanced budget within the context of full employment by 1982.

The foregoing sentence contains, with the gimickery that Carter elsewhere shuns, what he is talking about is the mythical "full employment budget." This is a legendary creature, like the unicorn, never observed on land or sea. It exists solely in the imagination of economists who observe that we could balance the budget if we had the revenues that we would have if everyone had a job. This is the dream of the two hungry hoboes; if they had some bread, they could make a ham sandwich. If they had some ham, they could make a ham sandwich. Carter would achieve his rapid reduction in unemployment, without reviving double-digit inflation, by first expanding the money supply, then creating incentives for private industry to hire the unemployed, and then enlarging the role of government. He says: The federal government has an obligation to provide funds for useful and productive public employment of those whom private business cannot or will not hire.

Pause: The federal government can provide such funds in three ways only — by taxing the people, by borrowing money outright, or by printing money. What's the answer, net — is Carter talking about how would he obtain them? Over what period of years would he provide these "meaningful public jobs"? What additional bureaucracy does he envision? The entire statement can be obtained from Carter headquarters, P.O. Box 1976, Atlanta, Ga. 30301. Those who are interested in examining Carter's ideas will want to obtain a copy and make up their own minds. This is a carefully composed document, presumably expressing Carter's best thought on how to solve the nation's economic problems. As the probable presidential nominee of his party, he has an obligation to speak deliberately and explicitly; and the rest of us have an obligation to listen to what he has to say. © Washington Star Syndicate

Olympic facilities could help U.S.

Ever since the first ancient Greek dash man took a drachma under the table to wear a certain brand of sandals, money has been an Olympian problem. Today, in preparation for the 1976 Summer Olympics, American athletes again are lamenting the lack of drachmas, dollars, or any other kind of money being channeled into the U. S. Olympic Team. In the Soviet Union and most of Europe Olympic athletes border on being professional runners and jumpers. U. S. Olympic President Philip O. Krumm grouches about the "32-year-old students" in the Soviet Union and so-called "factory workers" who draw a salary from the government and train 12 months a year for Olympic competition.

Still, Krumm doesn't think the U. S. Olympic team needs to receive federal subsidies. He points out that the U. S. athletes always hold their own in the Olympics against the amateurs from other nations, including the Soviet Union. However, Krumm thinks the government should help build Olympic facilities for training our athletes. A slatage of some facilities, namely bobbed runs, speed skating rinks and hockey arenas; make difficult for U. S. athletes to compete in Winter Olympic sports. In Summer Olympic events, such as soccer, fencing, and kayaking, the U. S. also has potential but lacks training facilities.

Putting some federal money into Olympic training facilities is an investment this nation should consider. Amateur athletes can compete with the best if they have the time and the place to prepare. American athletes train hard for the Olympics now, but could do even better if the U. S. had improved training grounds.

China riots big surprise

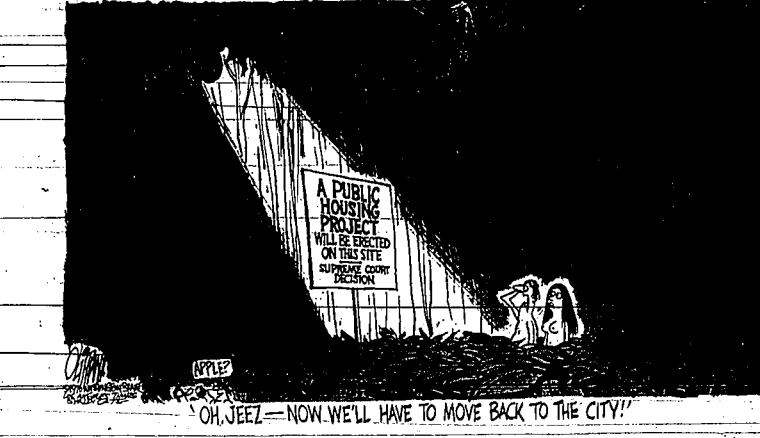

New York Times. Not since the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution of the mid-1960s have foreigners in China seen anything comparable to this week's events in Peking. China had seemed to be so orderly, so completely controlled in recent years, that the outside world was almost arguient that the Chinese, too, are quite capable of raising, damaging persons and property, and protesting against the established order as they did in the years 1966-1968. That is exactly what has now happened: and it happened in the central square of Peking, not in some provincial town of little importance. Moreover, the cause espoused by the protesters was symbolized by the late Chou En-lai, whose chosen successor, Teng Hsiao-ping, had just been seen or heard from in public since he denounced the struggle at Chou's funeral in mid-January. Teng is the unnamable but unmistakable target of a major press campaign that has dominated the Chinese media for the past two months.

The anti-Teng campaign in the press implicitly revealed a major rift in the Chinese leadership, but the stormy demonstration in Peking suggests a division among the Chinese people as well. Tens of thousands of citizens evidently were willing to line taken by those now in authority who claim to speak in the name of Mao Tse-tung. That is a disavowal in projecting the consequences of what has now occurred, for there were far worse disorders throughout China in the 1960's and yet it was possible, then to smooth over the disputes and restore tranquility. But it was Deng Xiaoping who was largely responsible for that gigantic accomplishment, and he is dead, while the faction now in ascendance seeks to repudiate his heritage. A Western correspondent in Peking who watched the protest demonstration was told by some Chinese to go away since "You have nothing to do here. It is a matter for the Chinese and the Chinese only." But anything of this importance obviously affects not only China, but all the world, who now can only wonder if Chinese political stability may once again be coming to an end.

Housing decision may nag candidates

By NEA/London Economist News Service WASHINGTON — (LENS) — The Supreme Court set a problem for presidential candidates recently. It unanimously upheld the right of federal judges to order a housing authority, found guilty of racial segregation, to build housing for poor, mainly-black, people in the white suburbs outside a city's boundaries. The ruling does not exactly ensure that racially mixed low-income housing will be built in city-while suburbs that resist it. It does, however, deprive public housing authorities of one excuse for refusing to build black housing outside the city ghettoes.

black complaints against public housing policy in Chicago 10 or more years ago. The Chicago Housing Authority had a policy of consulting the city alderman for the district where a housing development might be put, and deferring to his people as a result, housing for low-income black neighborhoods only. HUD, which was providing federal money, concurred in the practice and thus, the court found, joined in violating the law. The department's argument that a Chicago public housing development cannot go outside the Chicago city boundary has now been struck down. As the court pointed out, one difference between the Detroit schools case and the Chicago housing case was that in the Chicago case, the

Just what HUD will do in practice, now that it has been conclusively defeated on the principle, may take years, and some proceedings in lower courts, to establish. Another case that is relevant concerns Arlington Heights, a prosperous white suburb of Chicago (and home of a famous racetrack), which is being sued by the sponsors of a low-income housing project. The Court agreed last December to hear this case. It is not immediately clear how many large cities besides Chicago fall within the scope of this week's decision by the court, but it may be assumed that HUD will now be challenged in a number of places where it is suspected of having contrived to the pattern of segregated housing. In some other cities, such as Washington, D.C., public authorities already have plans with HUD to build a proportion of low-income housing in the suburbs. © The Economist of London of the federal government violated the constitution itself by "knowingly funding" segregated housing developments. HUD, therefore, can be required to provide a remedy for its own misdeeds. As a federal department, it cannot evade its pleaed helplessness to promote a housing development in a suburb, always assuming that it produces a project consistent with the housing plans and racial zoning rules of the suburban municipality itself. Of the two original defendants, the Chicago Housing Authority gave up before the case reached the Supreme Court, so that only HUD was left. Mayor Richard Daley has declared himself content with the judgment and, indeed, a firm believer in metropolitan solutions to the racial problems of his city.

Thoughts for today

"Sorely God would not have created man if he were as man, with an ability to grasp the infinite, to exist only for a day! No, no man was made for immortality." — Abraham Lincoln, 18th U.S. President. "Most of the grand truths of God have to be learned by trouble; they must be burned into us by the hot iron of affliction, otherwise we shall not truly receive them." — Charles H. Spurgeon, English theologian. "I believe the first test of a truly great man is his humility." — John Ruskin, English novelist.

Sgt. Henry E. Aguilar is charged with negligent homicide, lesser offense. Staff Sgt. H. C. Wallraft, the senior DI involved, is to be courtmartialed for violating orders and being derelict in duty. A similar charge has been brought against Capt. C. V. Taylor, director of the special training branch that deals with problem recruits. Very well, but will justice be done? I think not, because only the little guys will be hauled before the bench. For one thing, Col. R. A. Seymour, commander of the recruit training regiment, has been merely "disciplined" by Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Houghton, commander of the San Diego base where the fatal beating occurred. Under a nonjudicial procedure, Seymour received a letter or reprimand for "dereliction in the performance of his duties." For another, Capt. J. B. Ullman, assistant director of the base's special training branch, has told Houghton he will accept nonjudicial punishment rather than contest the charges against him in a courtmartial. It won't wash. The bosses are getting off easy. The average DI is cunning smart, as well as tough. He doesn't abuse a recruit unless he believes he can get away with it; that's Rule No. 1. So what about Brig. Gen. David M. Twomey, assistant commander at San Diego, who admits that he would fight for the rights to be added to motivational plan training? In effect, he gave DI's the right to take the chance of killing a recruit. What about General Houghton? He runs the base, and he is responsible for everything that happens within his command. For that matter, what about Gen. Louis H. Wilson, commander of the whole Marine Corps? The buck should stop with him; just as it stops at the desk of the President of the United States. But every time a sadistic DI tortures a Marine recruit by means contrary to the code of duty, we get all this wringing of hands from the President on down. For his own good, what the Corps needs is officers, from its commandant in Washington all the way down the line, who are ordered to "discipline" and "knock off" the Torquemadas staff — and make it plain they mean what they say.

Telling newsmen from agent tough

WASHINGTON — The Church Report on the CIA revealed that many newspapermen were on the CIA payrolls and some of them still are. The report refused to name names so one has only his own suspicions to go on as to who is still a journalist as well as a CIA agent. The object here is to tell the difference between a metropolitan newspaper, I glanced over the shoulder of a friend who was typing. "The quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog," the quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog, the quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog. "That's a pretty good lead for a story," I commented. "Where do you go from there?" He immediately covered it up with his arm. "You weren't supposed to see that," he said angrily. "Why not? I think it's a great story. I haven't heard of a quick brown fox jumping over a lazy dog in years." "It's not really a story about a quick brown fox. I just got a tip from Vice President Rockefeller's office that there are 400 Communists working in Sen. Everett Dirksen's office." "Yes, that's what makes the story interesting. Why would the Commies have 400 agents working for a dead senator?" "But how would the readers know the story about the quick brown fox has to do with the Rockefeller leak about the Commies?" "The copy boy decodes it." "You mean he works for the company's too?" "Sure, if he didn't and I heard in this dead fox throwness out the window. But for heaven's sakes, don't let on that you know because the news editor would get in terrible trouble with the company." "You carry cyanide pills?" "Doesn't every reporter? Suppose you were covering a fire and you were stopped by a fire marshal and he asked you what you were doing there. You'd get hit him or take the pill." "Doesn't it get confusing to work for two masters?" "No, not really. It works to your advantage. I got a Pulitzer Prize last year for this story." He showed it to me and I started reading. "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country, now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country, now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country, now is the time." "You got a Pulitzer Prize for this?" I asked. "Yeah, it's a cover story on the Glamour Explorer." "How would anyone know?" "Four of the five editors on the jury worked for the CIA and they figured they might as well give the prize to one of them."

ART BUCHWALD managing editor, who in turn would catch it from the editor." "Don't tell me they all work for the CIA?" "It's hard to say. My only contact is with the copy boy who picks up a page from the floor as I crumple it up and throw it away. Where it goes from there I have no idea." "Does the editor know you work for the CIA on the side?" "I'm sure. The other day he called me in and gave me a fountain pen that squirted LSD."

Lid on 'security' bugs gains backing in Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee is expected to approve and send to the floor a bill to outlaw all "national security" wiretaps and bugs installed without a judge's approval.

According to aides of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the chief sponsor of the new wiretap bill, the full Judiciary Committee is expected to "overwhelmingly" pass the bill this week or next because it has bipartisan support and the support of the Ford administration.

"Because the bill would require all wiretaps to be approved by warrants except in an 'emergency situation,' the bill would go far toward curbing the excesses of domestic surveillance which have occurred since 1946, as recently reported by the Senate Intelligence Committee."

Under the 1968 Omnibus Crime Bill, all wiretapping except "national security" wiretapping must be accompanied by a warrant.

The Senate Intelligence committee reported that the use of wiretaps and bugs without warrants grew out of a constitutional argument that presidents have inherent authority to protect "national security" without having to observe the privacy protections of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution.

"National security" came to be interpreted so broadly that warrantless wiretaps by the dozens were installed on civil rights organizations, anti-war movement leaders, violence-prone political movements, newsmen, former government employees and even a brigadier general in the Defense Department.

In 1972, the Supreme Court restricted domestic wiretaps without warrants to those "national security" investigations which involved foreign intelligence.

While FBI and Justice Department officials said the Supreme Court decision would sharply decrease warrantless wiretapping, the Senate report shows that warrantless national security wiretaps rose from 108 in 1972 to 130 in 1974.

Accord sought

WASHINGTON — Democratic presidential contender Jimmy Carter has started a policy of détente with the AFL-CIO and its president George Meany.

Carter has arranged to meet with Meany for the first time this Friday at the AFL-CIO headquarters.

Meany is not going to endorse Carter this week or at any time before the Democratic nominee is New York City in July. He is officially neutral.

But AFL-CIO support for Carter is regarded as inevitable if he continues his remarkable political progress and becomes the Democratic nominee for president.

Carter has been trying to improve his relations with the AFL-CIO and its political wing, the Committee on Political Education (COPE), for some time.

Fed aides rule out Patty-Harris trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Patricia Hearst will not be available to stand trial with Emily and William Harris "due to her mental and physical condition," according to federal officials.

The officials warned state prosecutors Monday that Miss Hearst may need more than the scheduled 90 days psychiatric examination ordered by a federal judge preparatory to reduction of her 35-year jail sentence on a bank robbery conviction in San Francisco.

The newspaper heiress will be brought to Los Angeles Wednesday from the federal Metropolitan Correctional Center in San Diego to enter a plea to 11 charges of assault, robbery and kidnaping, said Deputy District Attorney Sam Mayerson.

However, federal officials warned that she would be available only for short periods. He said, ruling out the possibility she could stand trial with the Hearsts.

Mayerson quoted a letter from Norman A. Carlson, chief of the federal Bureau of Prisons, saying the medical staff at the San Diego prison "strongly" recommends against her move at this time due to her physical and mental condition.

Carlson said Miss Hearst is still recovering from a physical illness and the 90-day period for psychiatric evaluation may have to be extended, Mayerson said.

The Hearsts, fellow fugitives of Miss Hearst in the Symbionese Liberation Army for a year and a half, are to go to trial June 1 on the charges based on an alleged crime spree in May, 1974.

Packer control 'front'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The quality control manager of a now-defunct Boston area meat packing firm says his company "could" have made nearly $200,000 a day in illegal profits by substituting cheap beef for top-quality cuts in military meat orders.

Edward Kehl told the Senate subcommittee on federal spending practices that his title of quality control for the G & G Packing Co. of Roxbury, Mass., was only a "front."

He said his actual duties involved covering up the plant's substitution of cheap, tough cuts and grades of meat for the expensive varieties the military thought it was buying.

The military ended-up paying nearly $1 a pound for beef worth several dollars less, so the profit was substantial, Kehl said.

If the military detected a problem, Kehl said, "I would try and cover up. I would lie to them and try to confuse them."

Kehl said in May, 1974, G & G began bringing ungraded cattle carcasses into the plant and using ungraded steaks, pot roasts and other cuts to fill military orders that specified graded beef.

By far the most profitable switch, he said, involved substituting beef knuckle for top sirloin butt. The military paid $3.85 a pound for sirloin butt orders but knuckle sold for only about $1.30 — a difference of $2.45 a pound.

G & G was producing some 80,000 pounds of knuckle a day at the peak of its operations. Kehl said, and substituting it for sirloin. He agreed with Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., that the switch could have yielded $192,000 a day in illegal profits. George Nishan, an instructor at the Army Academy of Health Services, held up a large chunk of meat and using a knife to cut it into two pieces. "This is knuckle," he said, "and this is sirloin butt. The subcommittee how the knuckle can be cut to look like top sirloin butt."

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — It was an unusual mother's day card. The $1 card said, "for a dear mother, God Bless you on mother's day—and always. It was signed by a satisfied customer." The card was sent to "Ma Bell" of the San Diego Telephone Co.

'Better image' needed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation needs a better image, according to FBI Director Clarence Kelley.

"I would certainly say it is my great desire to dispel any thought that the FBI cannot be trusted," Kelley told a press conference Monday. "I do want to destroy any lack of credibility that has been built up."

Kelley, in Nashville to tape a special 30-minute crime prevention show for nationwide distribution, cited an increase in terrorism as the greatest problem facing his agents.

"One of our greatest threats is the terrorist threat with the bombs which seem to be thrown with greater frequency each year, with the loss of lives and the injuries and the property damage," he said.

No apology

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Director George Bush says he feels no need to "say anything more" about past misdeeds of the CIA. He declined to follow the lead of FBI Director Clarence Kelley and make a public apology for past actions of his agency.

Kelley, in a Fulton, Mo., speech Saturday, said some FBI abuses which took place during J. Edgar Hoover's twilight years were "clearly wrong and quite indefensible."

"We are truly sorry we were responsible for instances which now are subject to such criticism," he said.

Old home week

YORKTOWN, Va. (UPI) — French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing will visit the Yorktown battlefield May 19 when his nation helped turn the tide of the American Revolution.

Yorktown is one of several "Bicentennial stops" the French president will make during a five-day visit to America May 17-22, the Independence Bicentennial Commission said Monday.

During the ceremonies, Giscard d'Estaing will present Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr. with markers and kiosks showing the route taken by George Washington and Jean Baptiste de Rochambeau in the summer of 1781 from Mount Vernon to Yorktown to defeat British Lord Cornwallis.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — As head of London's 17,000-man police force, Sir Robert Mark has dealt with airline hijackers and extremists holding hostages at gunpoint.

He recently said, "It is an important part of the police function to act as a shock absorber in protecting society from violence from any source and it is part of our tradition that we do this with the minimal degree of force necessary to deny the violent the achievement of their objective, whether criminal or political."

Sir Robert is attending the 25th annual International Press Institute assembly.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Betty Ford's Mother's Day gift from her family was a set of luggage, according to her press secretary.

Sheila Rabb Weldenfeld said Mrs. Ford celebrated the day quietly with the President and heard from all members of the family.

The First Lady, who has been doing a lot of political traveling in recent weeks, will fly to Michigan on the weekend to join the President in campaigning in their hometown of Grand Rapids.

Logs show Hughes 'home'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Howard Hughes did not leave his hotel suite for four years, including the day he was supposedly picked up in a desert by a man named in the purported Hughes will according to daily records kept by the billionaire's guards.

Hughes arrived by train from Boston on Thanksgiving eve, 1966 and left in 1970.

"The recluse moved into the ninth-floor suite atop the Desert Inn on the day he arrived, and did not leave the suite until aides carried him down a fire escape in 1970 when he fled to the Bahamas, sources with access to the guards' records said.

The logs show nothing to indicate Hughes was out of the suite at any time in January, 1968, when Melvin Dummar said he found a man claiming to be Hughes beside a desert road. Dummar, 31, who now operates a gas station in Willard, Utah, said he doubted the man's claim to be Hughes, taking him for a bum—and gave him a lift to Las Vegas. Dummar was named in the disputed Hughes will, found on a desk in Mormon Church headquarters, to receive one-tenth of Hughes' fortune, a share estimated to be worth about $125 million.

In other developments:

—Actress Terry Moore, through her attorney, asked the probate court to advise her of any developments in the processing of the will, claiming to be a former wife of the billionaire. Miss Moore, who did not ask for money from the estate, has made the claim in the past. Records show she was married and divorced to two other men during the eight-year period she said she was wed to Hughes.

—In Brigham City, Utah, the district attorney said he would not prosecute a charge against Dummar of buying a stolen deer rifle, saying there was no proof Dummar knew the rifle was stolen.

Sara faces kidnap charge

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The FBI is conducting a nationwide search for Sara R. Coner, who disappeared with two Vietnamese girls she had cared for while awaiting the arrival of their natural mother from Saigon.

A federal court Monday issued a kidnap warrant for the 28-year-old former U.S. Army nurse, assuming she had crossed state lines to evade Pennsylvania authorities.

Miss Coner, of nearby Phoenixville, Pa., and the girls—Mae Thi Phuong, 5, and Mai Yen Thanh, 12, were last seen April 27. Miss Coner's mother, Katherine, picked up Phuong at a day care center and took them into her parents' home.

Eight months later, Mrs. Nga made it out of her country and came here, only to find that Miss Coner wanted to adopt the children.

No changes expected

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Howard Hughes' glittering gambling empire is up for grabs but many of the employees who work in his casinos could care less.

"I don't think there will be any changes, no matter how the estate is divided," says Bob Knight, 44, a 21 dealer at the Landmark Hotel, one of the six casinos owned here by the late billionaire.

"I'm not worried," says Knight when asked if he was concerned about the possible loss of his job during the struggle for control of the billion dollar estate.

"I don't care if this is sold," says Carol Waterman, a cocktail waitress at the Silver

Slipper for the last four years. "Whoever buys it will still need some people to run it."

She has been working in gambling casinos for ten years and "nothing changes."

Other employees echo the sentiments of Knight and Mrs. Waterman: in a random survey, many are more interested in the arrival of the next "high roller" who might mean a bonanza in tips for them.

Others are more prone to talk about the recent strike in the gambling industry rather than discuss the upcoming struggle over who will wind up owner of the Nevada casinos. Although Hughes owned more casinos than any other person or company, his combined operation was not the most profitable. In 1970 he lost more than $42 million in the clubs. According to inside gaming sources, there has been a dramatic turnaround but not enough to show an overall profit.

The Landmark has shown more red ink than black since it was opened by Hughes in the late 1960's.

Airwest stock charges reinstated against trio

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Federal charges that stock manipulation was involved in the acquisition of Airwest Airlines by the late billionaire Howard Hughes have been reinstated against three defendants, government attorneys said Monday.

"This reinstates the indictment for trial," said Ray Pike, Assistant U.S. Attorney. "I guess not in the case of Mr. Hughes, but for the other individuals." The ruling was made by the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco May 7.

The federal indictment named Hughes; Summa Corp. legal counsel Chester Davis of New York; former head of Hughes Nevada Operations Robert Mahou of Las Vegas; and president of Four Star Productions David Charnay of Los Angeles. Hughes died April 5 enroute from Acapulco, Mexico, to a hospital in Houston.

The indictment returned in Las Vegas July 31, 1974, charged the defendants manipulated stock prices to give the Hughes' purchase of Airwest in 1968. The indictment also charged wire fraud and conspiracy.

U.S. District Judge Bruce Thompson heard arguments in Reno and "dismissed the indictment Nov. 13, 1974, on grounds it failed to spell out a public offense. Thompson said the Securities and Exchange Commission regulations did not say it was unlawful manipulation to cause blocks of stock to be sold in order to purchase stock at artificially depressed market prices and then to secretly agree to give the sellers a profit from the sales.

Thompson said in dismissing the indictment that although a great abuse of wealth may have occurred the charges did not constitute a criminal act.

Attorneys for the defendants can ask the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals for a rehearing and could carry the matter to the U.S. Supreme Court before it is remanded to the U.S. District Court for trial.

The Justice Department "appealed" Thompson's dismissal to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals in December of 1974. Earlier that same year a federal grand jury in Las Vegas had returned a similar indictment and Thompson also threw out the initial indictment terming it the worst pleading he had seen in 38 years.

Test first, then teach

BOISE (UPI) — Warden Richard Anderson says an Idaho State Penitentiary teacher will not be allowed to return to his job unless he submits to a lie detector test.

The teacher, a Boise State University employee, was suspended over a month ago after being accused by an inmate of an inmate of being a drug source and has refused to take a lie detector test on grounds it would be an invasion of privacy.

Prison officials said they doubted the charges, agreed with the teacher but prison policy mandated the tests to clear the record.

Agreement near

MERIDIAN (UPI) — Tentative agreement has been reached by negotiators for Meridian school teachers and the school board on a 1976-77 contract.

School Supt. August Hehn said Monday, however, both sides agreed not to release details of the new contract until it has been ratified.

Hehn said teachers began voting on the new contract Monday. Hehn said the school board had hoped to take action on the new contract at its regular meeting Monday night but voted to meet again tonight when it found out the teachers didn't have the results of their ratification vote tabulated.

He said the tentative contract is a compromise between what the teachers sought and what the board had been willing to give.

Families rescued

MURPHY (UPI) — An Air Force helicopter rescued members of two Mountain Home families from Whiskey Mountain near Murphy Monday after they spent a night at a cow camp when their pickup truck mired in mud.

Owyhee County Sheriff Tim Nettleton said Douglas Parsons, 37, Mountain Home Air Force Base, and two of his teenagers and Beverly Beljevec, 38, and two of her children had gone to the Reynolds Creek area, 14 miles from Murphy, to get a load of rock when their truck became stuck.

Owyhee County officers were notified by relatives after the couple and the children failed to return home Sunday night.

Best pick sought

BOISE (UPI) — The Executive Board of the Idaho Recreation and Park Society, in a letter to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, expressed concern about the selection of the Idaho Recreation and Park director.

The board pointed out that the department has "for the past five years" provided outstanding leadership to public and private sectors of outdoor recreation in Idaho.

The board urged the governor to "seek and select the best qualified park and recreation professional available in the nation," including criteria for the selection—in the letter—the board suggested that the decision be based on qualifications including:

- A bachelors degree in parks and recreation administration and preferably an advanced degree.
- No fewer than five years experience and demonstrated abilities for creative planning, development and organization of a major agency as well as a firm background in fiscal management.

Seat draws field of 4

SALMON, Idaho (UPI) — Four candidates have filed for a seat on the Salmon school board vacated by Gene Powers who will not seek re-election.

The candidates are Wilmer Rigby, Sue Sisson, Eugene Risbon and Gerald Stauber.

Rigby operates Rigby's Pharmacy. Mrs. Sisson is a housewife. Risbon runs Holland's Green House and Stauber manages the First Security Bank.

The election will be May 18 from noon to 8 p.m. at Pioneer School.

Residents of the Salmon town zone, which extends a mile outside the city limits, who are 18 years of age and older are eligible to vote.

Deportees 'drop in bucket'

BOISE (UPI) — Although 530 illegal aliens were arrested in Idaho and deported to Mexico during April, a U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officer says that's just a "drop in the bucket" in the number of aliens in the state.

Harry Rhodes, supervisory investigator for the service's Boise office, said Monday there's probably "three to five thousand" in southern Idaho.

Rhodes said winter is the only season in which Idaho doesn't have illegal aliens entering continuously. He blamed the influx on the availability of jobs and lack of prosecution of aliens.

He said the U.S. Department of Labor stopped issuing labor certificates and "they can't come legally so they come illegally because the jobs are here available to them. And as long as those jobs are available, they'll come."

Meantime, Idaho Department of Employment personnel reported illegal aliens were taking many of the farm jobs available.

Juan Amparan, migrant advocate in the Nampa employment office, said illegal aliens are a definite problem.

DEAR ABBY: That Montana husband probably wears a gold earring in his left ear for the same reason I have a gold tooth in front with a ruby in it. I like it!

AN INDIVIDUAL

DEAR INDIVIDUAL: I'm with you. A person's right to be himself is one of our cherished freedoms, so why should a person have to "explain" his reason for it? It's HIS ear and HIS business, and so far as I know, wearing an earring is neither immoral nor illegal. But there seems to be a variety of opinions. Read on.

MISS ZOLLINGER plans rites

Temple date set

SPRINGDALE — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Zollinger, Springdale, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Frank Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Clark, Ashton.

Miss Zollinger is a graduate of Burley High School and Brigham Young University, Provo. She majored in elementary education. Clark has attended Hicks College, Rexburg, and Brigham Young University. He is presently engaged in farming at Ashton.

Miss Zollinger and Clark both served missions in England for the LDS Church. The couple is making plans for a June 18 wedding at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple. On June 19 the couple will be honored at a reception in the Springdale Ward Cultural Hall.

CHICAGO — A swimsuit called the savage is the latest fashion sensation.

It's one of the most provocative one-piece suits to hit the beach and pool. Though it may not be as revealing as last year's Thing, which bared the buttocks, the savage is much more wearable and suitable to a wider variety of figure types.

The suit is based on the diaper-wrap concept. The bottom-shaped like a triangular scarf, wraps around the front and under to the back over the hips. Then the two ends are brought to the front and tied at about the navel area. The cut is high on the thigh in front, giving an extended line to the legs.

The top is a halter with deep V neckline, slashed almost to the navel in front. And it is daringly backless, scooped low in the rear. As one-piece styles go, it is a sensuous suit.

Controversy surrounded the suit as soon as it was introduced by New York designer Halston a few months ago. Frederick's of Hollywood, best known for its exotic, erotic lingerie, maintained that it was the first to introduce the look a couple of years ago.

Who was first with the savage seems to be irrelevant now. Other swimsuit makers have started to latch onto the look, and they're turning out adaptations to get into the market for summer.

DeWeese of California has come out with what it calls the scarf suit in nylon and Lycra in black or an abstract print in black, brown and beige. And Cole of California is planning to put one into production.

Butry Antoliet, manager of the Halston boutique here, says its savage suits in black nylon and Lycra, a $60, are checking out as fast as they arrive. "It's been a phenomenal seller," she says.

"I think it's popular because it has a new look and because it tends to elongate the entire figure. Many customers told me they think it's sexier than the string bikini and easier to wear. It's body-conscious and revealing in the right places."

Decoding symbol

DEAR ABBY: A Montana wife asked you why her husband suddenly started to wear a tiny gold earring in his left ear. (She asked him and he refused to tell her.) You said you didn't know, but if she ever found out, to let you know, I'm surprised that you didn't know. Abby, it means that he has become a member of the gay community.

HEP IN OAKLAND

DEAR ABBY: I'm a man who had his ears pierced four years ago, and you wouldn't believe the stories I've had from people because of one little speck of gold the size of a pinhead!

I've been accused of being a homosexual, a latent transvestite and just plain weird. I assure you I am as average as most men.

I attend college and see more and more macho guys wearing earrings on campus. I don't know if there is any significance to wearing only one earring in the left ear. I wear mine there because I am right-handed, and it's easier to put on. My buddy wears one in his right ear because it's not seen by the police if he's stopped for a traffic violation. Sign me.

PIERCED AND PROUD

DEAR ABBY: A sailor who has sailed three years on the coast of China wears a gold ring in his left ear to prove that he has been there.

RETIRED CAPTAIN — AGE 80

DEAR ABBY: Men have worn earrings for centuries. Shakespeare, Rembrandt and King James II, to name a few of the more prominent of them.

Ancient Greeks and Romans borrowed the custom from the Persian and Indian men. And our own American Indian braves also wore earrings. And how about the early African warriors? And the pirates?

Men wore earrings long before women did, so why all the ruckus?

LIVE AND LET LIVE

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who wears a little gold earring in my left ear because of my religion.

I am a Buddhist, and all Buddhists wear one gold earring — and always in the left ear.

I am surprised you didn't know that, Abby.

A BUDDHIST

DEAR BUDDHIST: And if you are really a Buddhist, I am surprised that you don't know how to spell "Buddhist."

DEAR ABBY: According to an ancient Chinese belief, the wearing of an earring in the left ear symbolizes that that person's life has been endangered, and to prevent a recurrence, an earring is worn. It is supposedly protection against bad luck.

AUDREY IN SINGAPORE

DEAR ABBY: A man wears a gold earring in his left ear to let the world know that he has crossed the equator.

OES unit installs officers

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Earl Goodson was installed worthy matron of Twin Falls Chapter No. 29, Order of the Eastern Star, in ceremonies Saturday evening at the Masonic Temple.

Beulah Schaefer, past grand matron, served as installing officer, while Oscar Bartholomew, past grand patron of Utah, assisting her; Maxine Machamer, grand marshal; Geneva Mense, grand chaplain; Leona Fuller, grand organist, and Mary Rumsdayer also assisted.

Other officers installed include Earl Goodson, worthy patron; Willa Rider, associate patron; Frances Rider, associate patron; Louise Montgomery, secretary; Marian Jenkins, treasurer; Gene Grose, conductress; Pamela Rearick, associate conductress; Cyda Fricolle, chaplain; Mavourneen Hall, marshal; Marilyn Hall, pianist; Marietta James, organist; Beulah Carter, Ruth Mae Mcnamer, Esther, Bernice Brown, Martha, Hazel Von Ins, Electa; Robert Sigman, warden, and Dave Lovelady, sexton.

OES leaders

Mrs. Mense, outgoing worthy matron, welcomed and introduced guests. Guests attended from Utah, California and other chapters in Idaho.

Special music was presented by the choir and Teddy Snow, vocal soloists, and Rosie Einar, flute soloist.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Willa and Fran Rider. The newly installed officers will conduct tonight's meeting.

Valley briefs

TWIN FALLS — The Alanoan group will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Fireside Lounge of the Presbyterian Church. Interested persons are invited.

FILER — Filer students attending the state student council workshop in Lewiston this weekend include Kathy Woods, Teresa Jones, Teresa Cristobal, Nancy Heaps and Pat Mahoney.

FILER — The Spanish Club of the Filer High School is sponsoring a Spanish fiesta at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Filer Elementary School. Mexican food and entertainment will be provided.

Scout plans studied

TWIN FALLS — The Snake River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, are making year-long activity plans for the more than 1,750 Cub Scouts in this area.

Gloria Katz, council vice president for Cub-Scouting, says suggested programs include things that grow, flags of America, Cub Scout chiefs, county fairs, American-Indian, Viking discoverers, genius night, customs of countries, transportation, Mardi Gras, communications and sea adventures.

More than 500 scouts are expected to take part in a week-long training session between July 4 and July 31 at Camp Bradley, Garryton, Idaho. Key staff members include Blaine Shaffer, Twin Falls camp director, and Ken Weybright, Jerome, program director.

In view of the many camping facilities of the Boy Scouts, inspections are being held to ensure that national standards are being met for facilities, equipment, staff services and program.

Here is a typical non-vulnerable preemptive three spade opener.

You expect to take six tricks with spades trump and no tricks with any other trump. The hand probably belongs to your opponents and this preempt may disrupt their communications and get them into the wrong contract.

Graduates honored

FILER — Filer Grange had an open meeting with a potluck dinner Friday in honor of eighth grade and high school graduates.

The invocation was given by Rev. Otis Hardin. The welcome was given by Harley Williams. The response for the graduates was given by Steven Boltemer.

Bridget Hardin gave a flute solo with Mark Hardin as her accompanist. Howard Moon, who has done research on the history of the Twin Falls tract and the school system, spoke. Mrs. Alfred Theoner, lecturer, was in charge of the program.

your health

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 Can you tell me something about infection of hair follicles. What causes it? Is it contagious? Can it spread to various parts of the body?
 I have been on an antibiotic for this and was told by my former doctor that it would clear up eventually. But when I stop taking the antibiotic it comes back in a few weeks. — Mrs. C.A.

Infection stubborn

Infection of hair follicles has to be distinguished from acne, which involves the skin's oil and sweat glands. But often it can be a complication of such a skin disorder.

Whitehead folliculitis is the 25-cent word for it; the staph germ is usually the cause. In one way or another the germ has invaded the follicle, which lies relatively deep in the skin layers. A rule: small doses of antibiotic will clear up the condition.

Perhaps in your case the medication "is not effective." A sample of the matter in the affected area should be tested to match it up with another antibiotic which might be more potent. Also, antibiotic use must be prolonged for the best results. You should be persistent and patient. Folliculitis is found mostly in males. Barber's itch is follicle infection in deep-laying follicles, as in bearded areas. It is contagious and an important part of the treatment is extraneous cleanliness.

You don't mention what hairy areas are affected. If it is in the armpits, shaving and avoiding deodorants will help some. You need another examination: If there are any abscesses there may be need for drainage. Don't let this condition fester.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I have rheumatoid arthritis and have taken 50 gold treatments with only a little side effect. I am a 77-year-old woman and do my own housework. Do you know about any vaccine Treatment Friends have suggested this to me. — Mrs. M.M.

There is no vaccine effective against arthritis.

Years ago typhoid vaccine was tried, but the results were poor. Now, with gold therapy, and the steroid drugs, this has been given up.

Aspirin and physical therapy, while not a cure, are still the mainstay of treatment. Gold salts injections have been effective for some but must be watched carefully for side effects. If this treatment has been effective for you, you should probably continue with it. You should report any side effects, such as rashes or upset stomach. My arthritis booklet, which you ask for, may help you understand the condition better. For a copy, other interested readers should write to me in care of this newspaper. Send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 Can anxiety make your cholesterol level rise? I took a test while I was nervous (before surgery) and it was up to 368. I took one after returning from a vacation, during which I ate all the wrong foods, and it was down. — Mrs. C.M.

Cholesterol levels are dependent chiefly on both the kinds and the amounts of food we eat. But it is also made by the body no matter what food we eat. Anxiety can raise the level. I had a personal experience after an automobile accident when my level shot upward. Presumably, this could happen just before surgery or in other stress situations.

The reason is unclear. One suspects some disturbance of organ and gland function. Liver and certain gland disorders can cause a rise.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I had a tube pregnancy last year. My other tube is badly scarred. I would like to know if the remaining tube can be repaired or replaced. — B.J.

It's doubtful the outlook for such surgery is not very good.

Also, women who have had such a problem in one tube are usually going to have it in the other.

start thinking adoption, if that appeals to you.

Although cholesterol has been implicated in heart attacks and other circulatory troubles, it is also vital to human life. For this reason Dr. Thosteson has entitled his booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly." For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents. Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Gem primary info ready

TWIN FALLS — Now that Idaho is about to have its first presidential preference primary election on May 25, how many residents really understand it?

The Twin Falls League of Women Voters, concerned about the answer to that question, has printed 3,000 pamphlets with questions and answers about the election, according to Billie Rogers, voter service chairman for the league.

The initiation of the primary election in Idaho came about as a result of S.B. 1105 passed by the 1975 Idaho Legislature.

The pamphlet provides such basic information as the date of the primary; the voting age; and how to register at your precinct registrar or call the county clerk, 734-3300.

According to the pamphlet, a voter may vote in either party he wishes but not both, regardless of his party affiliation.

If you wonder what effect your vote will have in the primary election, according to the pamphlet, the votes a candidate wins determine how many delegates will be committed to vote for him at the national convention.

According to Ms. Rogers, the Idaho Democratic Party will have 16 delegates to the national convention in New York City this July. The voters in the primary, by choosing a candidate, will commit 80 per cent of the delegate votes to a candidate at the convention.

The other 20 per cent of the delegate votes in the Democratic Party will be committed at the state-convention to be held in Twin Falls, Mo. Rogers said.

In the Republican Party, on the other hand, 20 per cent of the delegates will go to the national convention in Kansas City, Mo., with their votes uncommitted. The other 80 per cent of the delegates will be committed by the popular vote during the primary election, she added.

Democratic delegates remain committed to their candidate on "binding" ballots. Republican delegates must remain committed until their candidate releases them, according to Ms. Rogers.

Anyone who wants one or more copies of the pamphlets should call Ms. Rogers at 733-3019.

Brothers facing burglary counts

TWIN FALLS — Two brothers from Twin Falls were in jail Monday on first degree burglary charges after they were apprehended Sunday near the scene of an apparent jewelry store break-in.

Charged with one count each of first degree burglary were Leonard Moyer, 21, and Donald R. Moyer, 19.

The brothers were taken into custody about 3 a.m. Sunday after three police units responded to a burglary alarm at Benno's Fine Jewelry, 217 Main Ave. E.

According to police reports, officers first encountered Leonard Moyer behind the store but released him when he told them he was just going home.

Not sure apparently that a break-in had occurred, police then heard a noise on the roof, saw a gold alarm clock fall between the jewelry store and an adjacent building and observed Donald Moyer walking on the ground between the buildings.

Investigation showed the jewelry store had been entered through a roof window, police later said.

Store owner Benno Deter identified the clock found on the ground as from his shop, police added. The clock was valued at $20, and damage to the shop estimated at $100.

Leonard Moyer was being held Monday at the county jail. Donald Moyer remained in custody at the city jail.

Suit tossed out

WEISER, Idaho (UPI) — Third District Judge Gilbert C. Norris dismissed Monday a suit brought by a group called We the People seeking removal of two Ada County commissioners.

We the People sought to have commissioners Phillip Klefner and Vern Emery removed from office for misconduct.

Judge Norris granted, however, a motion of summary judgment in favor of the two commissioners. The motion for summary judgment was filed by Deputy Ada County Prosecutor James Harris.

In his motion, Harris contended that at no time had the commissioners done any illegal acts and that no illegal acts had been done willfully or in bad faith.

Norris said he could not find willful neglect by the commissioners in the performance their duties.

VW narrows choice

WOLFSBURG, West Germany (UPI) — The Volkswagen Automotive Co. has narrowed its choice for a plant in the United States to two sites, informed company sources said Monday.

The sources said Columbus, Ohio, is no longer in the running but that Volkswagen is still trying to decide whether to build at New Stanton, Pa., or Brook Park, Ohio, outside Cleveland.

Volkswagen recently decided to build a $20 million plant in the United States to produce the company's Rabbit model car.

The company said shorter vacations for workers in the United States and reduced shipping charges would help lower production costs.

COLFAX, Wash (UPI) — Whitman County Sheriff Ray Fjelland has launched a program to help citizens and officers better understand each other.

Fjelland says anyone over 18 who wishes may ride with an officer for four hours.

Prison and the program including citizens is similar to the department's new officer-sponse award practice.

The sheriff said spouses of officers may ride with them once every 60 days.

Bridger 4th unit under construction

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Work has started on a fourth 500,000 kilowatt generating unit at the Jim Bridger steam-electric plant near Rock Springs, Wyo., Pacifi Power & Light Company announced today.

The unit is scheduled for completion in 1979 and will help supply part of future electricity needs of Oregon and the Northwest.

The two-million kilowatt power project is being built jointly by Pacifi Power & Light Company and Idaho Power Company. Cost of the fourth unit is about $416 million. When the unit is completed, the total cost of the four-unit plant will be $1 billion.

Units 1 and 2 are complete and in commercial operation. Unit 3 is in final construction phase and is expected to be in commercial operation this summer. The decision for the fourth unit was made on economic and environmental grounds, said Eldon Drennan, senior vice president in charge of engineering for PP&L.

Surplus power from the Jim Bridger complex and other plants owned by PP&L in Wyoming is expected to be transmitted to customers in the Northwest if PP&L receives approval to build a 500 KV transmission line from Midpoint, Idaho to Medford, Ore.

The utility is seeking regulatory approval to construct the line to help ease anticipated power shortages in the region that could occur as early as 1978.

THE IDAHO DEPARTMENT STORE — ON THE MALL — DOWNTOWN, TWIN FALLS

Vote slated at Kimberly

KIMBERLY—The Kimberly school board Monday hired two new teachers and approved a salary increase for non-certified personnel.

The board also discussed upcoming trustee elections and a ballot measure to increase the school tax levy by six mills from the present 27 mills to 33 mills.

According to Kimberly superintendent Vernon Exner, the requested tax increase would be used to meet inflationary costs to the school system and to buy new textbooks for a systematic conversion to basic metric math. The money would also be used for new language arts textbooks as part of a move the school system is making to return to "the basics," Exner said.

The board approved the placement of Kevin Boer as a fifth grade instructor and the placement of Susan Montgomery as a third grade instructor.

The board also approved renewal of contracts for the rest of the system's certified personnel.

In approving a salary hike for non-certified personnel such as bus drivers and janitors the Kimberly board followed a guideline for wage hikes agreed earlier to certified personnel. The increases will raise salaries for non-certified employees about 8 percent, Exner said.

The board also discussed upcoming elections scheduled for May 18. In zone 2 three candidates are vying for a single seat. They are Tom Davis, Walter Slaughter, Jr., and Lanny Wooten. Robbie Collins is the lone candidate for the open seat from zone 3.

JOE BURG Y

TF man recalls romance with Nancy Davis (Reagan)

By DAVE HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It wasn't the stereotyped wartime romance, spurred by the fever of world turmoil, according to Joe Burgy.

"She was just a girl that I saw very fond of. It would have happened whether there was a war or not."

The time was late 1942 in Chicago. The "gal" was Nancy Davis, now Mrs. Ronald Reagan.

Burgy, now 62 and a television newsman in Twin Falls, was a Navy officer stationed near Chicago.

Miss Davis, the daughter of a prominent Chicago surgeon, had recently graduated from an exclusive college in the East.

She and Burgy, then 25, were introduced at a party. "I waited a couple of weeks before asking her out."

By 1943 the relationship had grown to an intimate engagement. "It wasn't one of those fancy things with a diamond ring," Burgy says.

"He was injured in an airplane crash and spent six months in a hospital. She visited me quite often. You don't drive 3,000 miles from Chicago to Great Lakes Hospital without it meaning something."

"We were really getting serious when I got out of the hospital. But, whether it was the war situation or not, I got back to duty and it was time for me to move on."

In early 1944 he was transferred to a base in California for two months before shipping out to the South Pacific.

"There were never any firm commitments about renewing the relationship after the war, according to Burgy.

"It was decided in a nice, friendly way. We said, 'We'll see what happens when I get back and we meet again.'"

She moved to New York City while he was gone. Nancy had always wanted to be an actress. So she moved to New York, took an apartment, and, as I remember, had a part in a couple of Broadway plays."

"I didn't see her again until the war was over and I went to New York. That was in 1946."

"There was no formal decision, but the close relationship—under there—'People change and conditions change. She was concentrating her efforts on the stage and was concentrating my efforts on getting back to work at Sun Valley. (He was director of outdoor activities at the resort before the war.)"

She later moved to Hollywood, appeared in several motion pictures, and married Ronald Reagan.

"The last time I had a chance to meet both of them was 12 years ago in Los Angeles." He visited their house "completely unannounced" on a Sunday afternoon.

"Ronnie answered the door. This was the first time I had met him. Nancy came out and I met the kids. We sat and ate and she mixed me a drink."

"At that time he was being mentioned as a candidate for governor and I said, 'Ronnie, why don't you give it a whirl.'

"Aid of course that's exactly what happened. He ran against (Pat) Brown and lost him."

The last time Burgy met Nancy Reagan was in 1970 at the Republican governor's convention in Sun Valley. He was covering the event as a radio newsman and talked with her briefly at the convention center.

"She came to Sun Valley as Mrs. Ronald Reagan and returned as a worn-out newsman."

Burgy isn't disappointed that Nancy Reagan was not continued. "But he always thinks of Chicago "with a warm heart and maybe with a little sentimental feeling because I had some great times there."

"You have a great time anytime when you're with somebody you like."

He figures his relationship with Mrs. Reagan may pay off in the future. "I had a close friend, a husband—16-oldest president."

"Should he be elected, I would like to receive an invitation to the inaugural ball—remembering that she was an excellent dancer."

Strong thief robs policeman

TWIN FALLS—Twin Falls policeman Jim Midon Sunday reported the theft of his three-and-a-half-foot high concrete urn statue of a lady pouring water from a vase.

Midon, a veteran of the uniformed division, told detectives the statue was taken from the lawn at his residence between Saturday evening and Sunday morning.

The statue, rigged as a recycling fountain, weighed about 200 pounds, Midon said, and was worth about $200.

TF hospital reports show savings on new contracts

TWIN FALLS — New contracts with pathologists and radiologists show a savings of about $26,570 during the first four months of this year over what previous contracts would have cost at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

In a report to the hospital board Monday night, Joe Savage, chairman, said the first four months of this year show radiologists were paid $72,543. Had the old contract been in effect the radiologists would have received $76,540 or an additional cost of about $3,997.

Projected on a full-year basis, Savage said this would amount to a saving of $11,983.92.

In the pathology department, the hospital paid $106,573 for the first four months. Under the previous contract the amount would have been $129,150, or an additional cost of $22,576. Projected for the full year on the same volume of business there would be a saving in the pathology department of $67,729.

Hospital Administrator James Rosenbaum

said there are now three pathologists in the hospital, the third having been added about a month ago. The new pathologist is Dr. Clifford Reusch. A fourth pathologist will join the staff in August, Rosenbaum said.

In the radiology department there are now two radiologists but a third will join the department in July.

New contracts went into effect in February, but the salaries were retroactive to the first of the year, Rosenbaum said.

John Hayden, hospital controller said radiology examinations in April of this year totaled 1,934 compared to 1,602 last year. For the year examinations total 7,418 compared to 6,599 a year ago, or about a 12 per cent increase.

Laboratory examinations increased about 13 per cent in the first four months this year. April of this year showed 38,369 examinations compared to 33,463 a year ago. For the first four months there were 127,380 examinations this year and 108,337 last year.

ALLEN QUINTERI plans for hospital

TF hospital plans move to 3rd phase

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital trustees Monday night authorized architects to draw final plans for the $1.5 million third phase building program.

The third phase of a five-phase hospital expansion program will include a new emergency room, and outpatient area on the main floor and expansion of the basement. In the basement plans call for enlarging the boiler room and adding space for electrical and other utility expansion to handle the total five-phase program.

Preliminary sketches of phases three, four and five were presented Monday night by Robert Hamill and Allen Quinteri of the firm of Cline, Smith, Hamill and Associates, Boise. The firm had been asked by the building committee and hospital board to complete preliminary plans for the overall expansion of the hospital, dividing it into phases which could be completed over a period of several years as funds are available.

"Financing of the third phase was discussed under two alternatives. The money could be borrowed or a bond issue could be attempted. Members expressed preference for borrowing funds for this phase, with a bond issue in later phases."

Administrator James Rosenbaum said if the work is financed through a loan, a 57 per cent rate increase would probably cover the costs. If a bond issue were approved rates would not be increased for the building program.

Rep. McHan has directed the construction of the $225,000 toilet with Idaho district highway engineer Howard Johnson in Shoshone but says there is little chance the money earmarked for the new toilet will be used elsewhere.

"Saying that the federal money isn't from Siam, but ours" McHan told the highway department there are many more pressing needs for improving Highway 93 than building a new rest room.

A new bridge at Cold Springs, more turnouts along the highway, and a new entrance into the new public airport at Gimlet are needed, he said.

"If they can't take care of this death trap (Cold Springs steel bridge) I'm not interested in taking care of their campers," McHan said.

"They're not going to do anything on 93 unless we let them build a four lane road," McHan said.

Food stamp bill rejected

BURLEY — Cassia County commissioners are ready to call the state of Idaho's bluff.

The commissioners agreed again Monday to reject a state claim for $154.58 to pay for January food stamp transactions in Cassia County.

The Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, which administers the federal program, has turned the bill over to the attorney general's office for collection following the county's decision to drop participation in the program.

Commissioners Monday received a letter from Bill F. Payne, deputy attorney general, requesting payment of the amount by May 1.

"I would take them to the wire," said Commissioner Weldon Beck, in charge of welfare programs for the county.

John Clark, chairman of commissioners, agreed, saying the county should call the state's bluff.

"If they have money enough to hire an attorney, they have money enough to pay the bill," Clark said.

The chairman added that commissioners were told during a recent trip to Washington, D. C., that food stamps are strictly a federal and state program.

The Cassia commissioners were in Washington as the only group to testify against the food stamp program in hearings before the House Agriculture Committee. Clark pointed out that the food stamp budget subsequently was cut $1.8 billion.

Cassia County battled the shift from commodities to food stamps at the outset in 1974, and moved to food stamps only under compulsion. They warned then that they would end participation by Jan. 1, 1976, and last fall served notice they would make good on that threat.

Participation consisted of an 85-cent fee for each stamp transaction at the Burley Post Office, the county's only stamp outlet. It ended when commissioners refused to pay the bill on January transactions.

HAW had said the county cost might be eliminated if Cassia County would wait until the 1977-78 fiscal year, when the state could try to budget for the transaction costs.

Beck said the county's position is based on principle, rather than the $2,000 annual cost.

In fact, commissioners served notice they were dropping the program when HAW officials met with them to seek a new contract under which the U. S. Department of Agriculture would have picked up half the transaction cost.

Minico commission sets hearing on beer sale law

RUPERT — Minidoka County Commissioner Fred Moler will chair a public hearing next month on an ordinance of sale of beer in the county on two Sundays.

County commissioners Monday set the hearing for 8 p.m. on June 7 in the meeting room of the judicial building here. The proposed ordinance would allow beer sales in the unincorporated area on the two Sundays during the Fourth of July celebration and the county fair.

Lytle Barton, chairman of commissioners, Monday named Moler to chair the hearing. Barton repeated that he would not sit on the hearing because of bias.

The chairman earlier had proposed an advisory vote of the people during the May 25 presidential primary on Sunday sales of beer in Minidoka County. Commissioners two weeks ago voted to set such a ballot issue, then rescinded the action because of concern it might affect an $800,000 bond issue vote on a geriatrics expansion for Minidoka Memorial Hospital.

"There's no hard feelings," Barton said Saturday of his refusal to chair the hearing. "Everyone has to go by his own convictions."

Mayer said he has had several calls on the Sunday beer proposal.

"I sure did want to defeat the hospital thing," he said. "I don't know whether it would have hurt it or not."

Commissioner Elmer Ketterling said he does not support year-round Sunday beer sales, but was not opposed to allowing people to vote on the issue.

"It would have moved a lot of people outside the cities," he said, referring to the local option which Minidoka is the only city in the county that allows Sunday beer sales.

"It might be appropriate for a couple of days," he added, "but where we're pushing the hospital bond anyway, why take a chance on hurting it?"

Ketterling said he doubted allowing Sunday beer sales would affect many people because a business would have to obtain a license in the unincorporated area.

Moler took the same position. He said he knew of only two bars and two grocery stores that would be affected.

They are the Ace of Clubs and Refler's Country Store at Norland, the Food Barn between Paul and Rupert and a bar between Paul and Burley. Another bar at Rupert-Heyburn highway has been closed and up for sale.

The Elks Lodge is allowed to sell drinks on Sunday, but only to its card-carrying membership.

Moler said the June hearing might give commissioners indications of whether or not they should put the matter of year-round Sunday sales on the August state primary ballot.

Either way, he added, "If the city wants to put in a beer ordinance, that's up to them."

Barton said he is not supporting Sunday beer sales, but feels that it is not equitable to allow sales at the fairgrounds only and for two Sundays. The countywide compromise still does not satisfy him and he feels the people should have a voice in the issue.

McHan blasts toilet plans

KETCHUM — State Rep. E. V. McHan has blasted the plans to build a new rest stop toilet in southern Blaine County.

Rep. McHan has directed the construction of the $225,000 toilet with Idaho district highway engineer Howard Johnson in Shoshone but says there is little chance the money earmarked for the new toilet will be used elsewhere.

"Saying that the federal money isn't from Siam, but ours" McHan told the highway department there are many more pressing needs for improving Highway 93 than building a new rest room.

A new bridge at Cold Springs, more turnouts along the highway, and a new entrance into the new public airport at Gimlet are needed, he said.

"If they can't take care of this death trap (Cold Springs steel bridge) I'm not interested in taking care of their campers," McHan said.

"They're not going to do anything on 93 unless we let them build a four lane road," McHan said.

Buhl schools get $1,000 donation

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

BUHL — Buhl school trustees, mixed in stalled teacher negotiations and worried over declining quality educational services, had a pleasant, if brief pause Monday night.

Dale Thornberry, high school principal, told school officials that an individual wanted to give $1,000 to the Buhl High School and "if they didn't know what to do with it, he had some suggestions."

The suggestions were to divide the gift between furnishings for the foyer of the auditorium now being remodeled and paying off the loan for improvements at the football field. A new fence, restroom—and concession stand have been added this past year.

Trustees agreed to the idea of dividing the money equally between the two projects.

The board also approved payment of $2,500 of budgeted funds on the bank loan of $3,205.70 remaining on the football field project.

Supt. Dan Mabe reported the school has received approval for Federal Title III funding of $16,188 for a reading program for seventh, eighth and ninth graders. In-service training will be provided for some 20 teachers who will eventually be involved and the English teachers most concerned with the project.

Mabe said the state funded vocational training program for the multi-occupation class, will be 75 per cent funded next year, making the district's 25 per cent share about $6,000. He said the class, where students get part-time jobs, is very successful and he expects the 35 some students to increase to 40 next year. Many of the youths have indicated they will work through the summer at their jobs.

John Jund, co-chair, outlined the athletic schedule for next year. "We're in the best shape we've ever been in as far as our athletic budget is concerned," he said. He said the $10 student activity tickets are about $5 below the cost in most other areas, school board recommended increasing them to $12 or $12.50.

Bids were opened on repair of the roof over the high school auditorium. The contract was awarded to Quality Roofing, Twin Falls, for $15,000. Other bids were received from United Roofing, Boise, $16,000 and Tolley Hughes Roofing, Boise, $13,200.

Thornberry reported $1,600 was raised from the school carnival last week and the faculty feels this is a better way to raise money than "go knocking on doors" selling things nobody wants.

He also discussed red tape involved in the Title 9 non-discrimination procedure. He said Buhl is "100 per cent in compliance with the requirements."

"We just need to do the required paperwork," Thornberry said. He said the school provides equal opportunity for both boys and girls in all its programs where there is interest—including sports.

The budget hearing was set for May 21 at 8 p.m.

Buhl High School graduation is scheduled for 2 p.m. May 16 in the high school gymnasium with Rev. Cosmas White as speaker.

Thornberry also reported plans are under way to begin a conservation project for some 25 students. If the program is funded it will begin this fall. The students would work for one week on a conservation project in the mountains in August and then continue their training for 10 consecutive Saturdays.

Fire burns lunchroom

BUHL — A building housing the employee lunchroom at the Clear Springs Trout Co. was destroyed by fire early Monday morning.

The structure was valued at $80,000, according to Larry Cope, vice president of the locally owned corporation which operates the trout farm. He said the building "was a nice facility for our people" and will be rebuilt "in the near future."

The fire was reported about 1:43 a.m. Monday when an employe smelled smoke. Fire departments from Buhl, Wendell and Hagerman responded to the call, according to Deputy Sheriff Bill Brun.

Burn said the Gooding County sheriff's office routinely investigates all large fires. Cause of the blaze is not yet known, according to what it started: "The family electrical wiring," Burn said, since the area where the heating and cooling systems were located showed "extensive burning."

Packing supplies for shipment of fish from the plant were stored in the basement of the building. The structure provided lunchroom and recreational facilities for employes.

Cope said the fire burned rapidly and "within 30 minutes it was pretty well gone."

Drag Races

Intermountain Raceway, Pocatello, will open the 1978 drag racing season Sunday with more than 100 racers competing for honors in Stock, Super Stock, Modified, Competition and E. T. Eliminator brackets.

Entries have been received from Montana, Utah and Idaho for the event. Time trials begin at 9 a.m. with competition getting underway at 2 p.m.

Detailed information is available thru Jim Hennessy, Pocatello, (208) 237-6749.

Favorites prepare for 102nd Preakness

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes, holder of the first gem in a 1978 bid for thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown, was expected to arrive on Maryland turf Tuesday to begin workouts for Saturday's 102nd Preakness.

Bold Forbes and trainer Laz Barrera were arriving at Pimlico Race Track from New York. Derby runnerup Honest Pleasure and trainer Lekoy Jolley came in from New York Monday.

The first heavy workouts are slated for Thursday, two days before the running of the Preakness.

Bold Forbes edged out favorite Honest Pleasure by a length in the 1 1/4-mile race in Louisville. Florida-bred Honest Pleasure, a 2-5 wager, was the heaviest favorite to run at the Derby since Triple Crown winner Citation in 1948.

It's Hope, which claimed first place by four lengths in the $125,000 Illinois Derby May 1, was also expected to arrive at Pimlico Tuesday. The Kentucky 3-year-old was also trained by Barrera.

Elocutionist, which ran third at Churchill Downs, was to be flown in from Chicago Wednesday.

Sixth-place Cokah, the only Maryland-bred horse in the Preakness, has been on the grounds at Pimlico for about a week. Jolley, disappointed when Honest Pleasure only placed in the Derby, was expected to give his jockey instructions to drive the horse out in front from the start of the race since the Preakness is shorter than the Derby at 1 1/4 miles.

If the spirit of betting in the Kentucky race is any indication of what might happen at Pimlico, records will be set. For the Derby race alone, the crowd wagered a record-setting $3,449,000. The 10-race card brought in a record handle of $9,485,600.

Havlicek to be OK for playoff game

BOSTON (UPI) — John Havlicek favored his left foot in practice Monday but said he plans to be ready to play Tuesday night when the Boston Celtics seek their third straight playoff win against the Cavaliers in Cleveland.

Havlicek, sidelined for three games of the Buffalo playoff series by torn fascia between his heel and arch, "heard something tear" in the third period of Sunday's 94-69 win over the Cavs.

He continued to play and finished with 20 points, although he limped noticeably after the game.

"But I'll be ready to play Tuesday," said the 36-year-old Havlicek after a Monday morning workout. "It doesn't feel as comfortable as I has but it doesn't hurt as much as I thought it would."

The Celtics have won the first two games of their Eastern conference championship series against Cleveland.

ABA drops Squires

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Basketball Association announced Monday evening the termination of the Virginia franchise after the Squires failed to meet a deadline imposed by Commissioner Dave DeBusschere for straightening out their financial difficulties.

The Squires had failed to meet their last two payroll obligations and DeBusschere announced Thursday the franchise would be dissolved if the matter was not rectified by 5 p.m. Monday.

Following the passing of the deadline, the ABA released the following statement:

"The Virginia Squires have failed to meet the deadline to cure its obligations to the American Basketball Association and to the players. As a result, the franchise has been terminated. A decision on the Virginia players will be made in a few days."

The Squires became the fourth ABA team to fold this season, following Baltimore, Salt Lake City and San Diego.

The Squires, whose existence has been one of almost continual financial turmoil, finished the season in last place with a 15-68 record.

There are five active franchises left in the ABA.

US team primed for British Amateur

RIFE, Scotland (UPI) — Defending champion Vinny Giles heads a powerful United States assault on the British Amateur Open Golf championships starting at St. Andrews May 31.

Ninety-nine foreign players, including 67 Americans, figure in the 256-strong field.

Giles, 23-year-old lawyer from Richmond, Va., is seeded to meet Walker Cup teammate Curtis Strange of Winston Salem, N.C., in the final.

Dick Siderowf, the 39-year-old Westport, Conn., stockbroker who won the title in 1973 and was a semifinalist last year, is also among the eight seeds.

Giles is in the top quarter of the draw where he is seeded to meet Scottish champion David Greig. They are in the same half as British Walker Cup player Ian Hutchinson and Jose Priscillo Diniz, Brazilian amateur champion for the last two years.

Strange is lined up for a quarterfinal meeting against British Walker Cupper Geoff Marks, while Siderowf is scheduled to face 18-year-old Sandy Lyle.

Sites set for NCAA baseball playoffs

MISSION, Kan. (UPI) — Teams and sites for four regional competition playoffs for the 1978 NCAA baseball championships were released Monday.

Named were six at-large teams and six automatic qualifiers who will be fighting for berths in the College World Series, June 11-18, in Omaha, Neb.

In the South regional, Florida State (39-14) is the at-large team and host for the May 21-23 games—Jacksonville (43-12) is another at-large team. Automatic qualifiers for the South regional are the winners of the Southeastern Conference and the Ohio Valley Conference.

South Carolina (37-12) is the host and at-large team for the Atlantic regional May 21-23 in Columbia, S.C. The other at-large team is Virginia Tech (31-8). Clemson, the Atlantic Coast Conference champ, and Furman, the Southern Conference winner, automatically qualified.

The Northeast regional May 28-31 in Middletown, Conn., qualifiers are Columbia (17-10), champion of the Eastern Intercollegiate League, and Temple (30-6), winner of the East Coast Conference.

South Central regional at Arlington, Tex. May 28-30 include 1975 Division I champ Texas (37-14), winner of the Southwest Conference, and Lamar (33-9), tops of the Southland Conference.

The AAU and Miami (Fla.) are at-large teams and will be assigned a region later.

Fred Lynn, Red Sox close to signing

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox and Fred Lynn are moving closer to signing a contract but no agreement has been reached yet, attorney Jerry Kapstein said Monday after a one-hour telephone conference with the team.

"I had an intensive conversation this morning with John Claiborne (Red Sox executive assistant) on the negotiations for Lynn, Carlton Fisk and Rick Burleson," said Kapstein in a telephone conversation from his Virginia office. "I think we are making progress—and this weekend I plan to have a major face-to-face meeting with Claiborne on all three contracts."

The discussion of Lynn's future with the Red Sox follows reports that the American League's Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year in 1975 could be dealt away if he fails to sign by the May 15 trading deadline.

"May 15 trading deadline," Lynn reportedly would like to stay in Boston but has said, "I'm aware of my market value."

Claiborne, who had handled negotiations with Oakland players for three seasons as an aide to A's owner Charles O. Finley, was quoted as saying that a trade for Lynn "is something we'd have to consider."

...If Lynn, who hit .331, with 105 runs batted in and 21 homers last season, does not sign a Boston contract, he would become a free agent at the end of the season.

"The talk of a trade does not intimidate us," said Kapstein. "We will continue to negotiate with the Red Sox and everyone else. The statement I've made before is that Fred is happy in Boston—he likes the fans and his teammates."

"We'd like to look at all options, but he's happy there and so are Carlton and Rick. I've been told in the past by Mr. Finley in negotiations for my Oakland players that he would trade them if they didn't sign the club's offer. But the players are too intelligent to believe that."

Kapstein said any club "has the prerogative" to trade any player. "But whenever you trade for a player, you have to get equal value."

Despite the Red Sox' current nine-game losing streak, Lynn is hitting .424 with two homers and seven runs batted in. The second-year player from the University of Southern California and El Monte, Cal., missed Sunday's game against the Texas Rangers because of back spasms but was expected to play Tuesday night in Cleveland.

Burleson hampered all spring by a sore shoulder, sat out Sunday's game but will try to play Tuesday. He has batted .222 in 19 games this season.

Fisk, bothered by a sore throwing arm, has averaged .250 and has hit three home runs.

Asked if any contract would be signed after the "When you sit down and talk, you hope the other side accepts your proposal. If the Red Sox agree to the proposals I stated today, then the contracts would be signed this weekend."

Kapstein said he has come down from his original offers in behalf of the three players and "the Red Sox have come up. Both sides have moved and we're getting closer."

The attorney declined to discuss particulars of the contracts but said there have been talks about multi-year agreements.

"There have been reports that Lynn was seeking $225,000 a year over three seasons, along with insurance policies and bonuses."

Dodgers top Cardinals 4-3

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ron Cey hit a two-run homer with one out in the ninth inning Monday night to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in a nationally-televised game for their 13th triumph in their last 15 games.

Dusty Baker opened the Dodger ninth with a single and was sacrificed to second by Steve Garvey before Cey connected off reliever Harry Rasmussen for his sixth homer of the year. The Cardinals argued that Cey's homer, which ricocheted back onto the playing field, had hit the top of the fence but third base umpire Jerry Date signalled the ball had hit a pillar above the fence for a homer.

The Cardinals, who got twofit pitching from starter Pete Falconer over the first seven innings, went ahead 3-2 in the seventh on doubles by Don Kessinger and Lou Brock and a single by Vic Harri.

Joe Ferguson gave the Dodgers a 2-1 lead at a two-run homer in the seventh after Cey reached base on a fielder's choice.

The Cardinals scored their first run in the fifth on singles by Hector Cruz and Kessinger and an infield out.

Mike Marshall, who relieved starter Burt Hooton in the seventh, gained credit for the victory.

Dunn to blast title from Ali

LONDON (UPI) — British European champion Richard Dunn flies out to Munich Tuesday for his "once-in-a-lifetime" May 25 title fight against World Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali in Munich will express instructions from manager George Biddles to "Crash and bash his way to the title."

Biddles said Monday "I'm not sending Muhammad out there just to survive. He could last 10 or 12 rounds by fiddling about, but that just won't do for us."

"We are not fooling ourselves, but the time is right for Ali to be taken. Richard is the great shape and on top of the world."

"The rewards that will follow a win against Ali are enough to motivate him."

Dunn and Biddles made a brief trip to Munich last week to look over training facilities and visit the Olympiahalle where the fight takes place in the early hours of May 25.

"It will be like fighting at home with all the support and backing we've got," Dunn, who started the patriotic kick when he defended his World Lightweight title against Hedgemon Lewis, added. Biddles, Dunn's 73-year-old manager.

"Richard will be singing the national anthem before the fight. If there were a special anthem for Yorkshire he would sing that as well."

Double play

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 12, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to refuse to get involved in entanglements that require you to be forceful with associates. You can quietly formulate a better set of circumstances under which to operate in the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take care not to argue with your mate or there could be unpleasant results following. Go over debts and credits and make sure there are no errors.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Associates may not see things as you do, but listen to their views. One who opposes you could cause trouble if you are not careful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan time to work out an intelligent schedule so that you can tackle the work ahead of you and make headway. Take health treatments.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure not to overpend where pleasure is concerned or you could regret it later. Show increased devotion to loved one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid ticklish subjects at home or you could start a severe argument. More study is required on a new plan before putting it in operation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study written reports carefully and make sure they are correct. Find a better way to do your shopping and get better results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) First analyze your monetary position well before going ahead with a plan you have in mind. Consult a business expert for advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Not a good day to go after that personal aim. Take time to improve your appearance. Take no chances with your good reputation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Attend to confidential affairs quietly for best results at this time. Show more devotion to family.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may want to contact friends for backing of a new plan you have in mind, but this is not the day. Relax tonight.

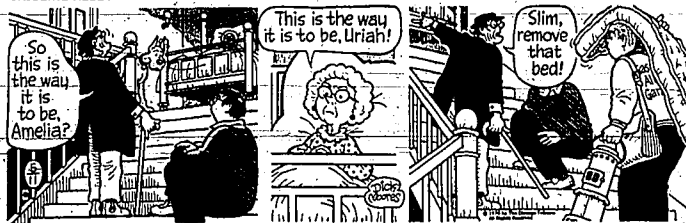

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to irk one who has power over your affairs. Handling credit matters wisely is most important at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make certain you study every detail of a new plan before taking action. Complete routine duties so you'll have more free time later.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have an indomitable will, so be sure that your progeny has the right training and that this fine quality is used in right directions. A fine leader here. Be sure to give ethical and religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Nifty piece of detective work, this. By a dentist, not a lawman. He was held up at gunpoint. The robber wore a half mask, but exhibited one gold tooth. The dentist recognized it as a phony. The police then picked up a number of men engaged in a certain line of work specified by the dentist. In the mouth of one, they found ticks of gold paint, and in his room, a stack of gold-leaf. As the dentist surmised, he, even as each of the other men in the lineup, was a signpainter.

What clinging parasites and chicken soup have in common is potterworth. I think something about their molecular structure lets them get hotter than most other foods and stay hotter longer.

NAMES

Q. "What does the name 'Hubert' mean?"
A. Bright in spirit. The name explains say men called Hubert are supposed to be happy, rollicking, jovial fellows. Watch this space for analyses of Henry, "home-ruler"; George, "tiller of the soil"; Morris, "dark, Moorish"; and Jimmy, "the supplanter." Exact, too, a rundown on Ronald, "mighty ruler"; and Gerald, "mightily spearman."

Not many women have used perfume as extensively in their amorous pursuits as did Cleopatra. When she set out to meet Mark Antony, history records, she even sprinkled it all over the sails of her barge.

World's first soldiers to wear helmets were Ethiopians who put horses' skulls on their heads. . . Two out of five school children in Asia drop out by about the sixth grade. . . That most common of cosmetic surgeries is the removal of excess tissue from baggy eyelids. . . Don't know exactly how hot 1,800 degrees F. is, but that's how hot those Fourth of July sparklers get. . . Why is it that people with high blood pressure rarely get cancer?

The fewer the women in a department store, the more likely they'll buy something.

How dandy it is to visit a sidewalk cafe, sit in the sun, and watch the passersby! Paris certainly is famous for such places, still. And they are popular in Florida, New Orleans, San Antonio and Southern California. But they do not pull in the money year-round that enclosed restaurants make. The best taco chain places in Milwaukee, where you sit in a heated interior, do a better dollar volume than the sidewalk taco spots in Southern California.

Jack Frost may brush Magic Valley

Twin Falls, Northalde, Burley, Rupert are in the path of a cold front tonight, with patchy light-rain-Sunny and a little warmer Wednesday. High temperatures Wednesday, 65-70. Overnight lows generally in the 30s.

The outlook for Thursday, mostly fair. Spraying and dusting conditions will be poor through tonight, improving Wednesday.

Hailley, Camas Prairie, Lower Wood River Valley: Fair tonight. Sunny and warmer Wednesday. Highs Wednesday in the 60s. Overnight lows near 20.

The outlook for Thursday, fair.

Synopsis: The cold front that moved through the Magic Valley area last night, produced showers and thunderstorms along with gusty winds. This front is located in Montana, Utah and Nevada.

Rain amounts were generally light, except for near thunderstorm activity, with 1.5 of an inch was reported at Hagerman and only trace amounts at Buhl and Rupert.

Today, high pressure is rebuilding over the Pacific northwest. This has brought rapid clearing to Idaho along with strong gusty winds. Another cold front is expected to weaken as it moves eastward.

The front should produce some high cloudiness in southern Idaho by Thursday, but no precipitation is expected.

Lemhi suit extension hearing set

SALMON, Idaho (UPI) — Judge Arnold T. Beebe will hear a motion asking for a time extension to file objections in the Lemhi River adjudication in Seventh District Court Thursday.

The motion asking for time until August 1, 1978, to file protests was filed on behalf of Steve Malanoff and the Lemhi Irrigation District and on behalf of all attorneys who entered an appearance in the pending court action.

The motion cited the following reasons for the extension:

- Some attorneys have not filed any objections because they are waiting for the completion of discovery to do so.
- Some attorneys have not filed objections because they have not received certain written reports requested of their expert witnesses.
- The interrogatories presented to the state water department by the protesters and their attorneys have not been answered and it is expected that when the reply is received—additional discovery will be necessary.

Butz says US grain reserve held in safe, privately owned stocks

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Critics who charge the United States lacks a grain reserve program because it does not have government-managed stockpiles don't know what they are talking about, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said Monday.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the National AgriMarketing Association here, Butz said the nation has a safe dual-reserve in the form of privately owned grain and the ability of farmers to — in effect — create stocks by slowing down the rate at which they feed grain to livestock.

"We do just have a grain reserve policy, we have one which is working exceptionally well," Butz said.

"Today, instead of a government eagle stamped on the steel grain bins scattered across the country, you see a private trademark or an individual farmer's name — that's the real difference," he said.

Butz contended the new system of private stock management is more efficient than past policies in which the government held large stocks.

Currently, the farm official said, privately owned stocks of wheat are expected to reach about 530 million bushels of "old" reserve wheat on June 30 just before the new 1978 crop begins its formal marketing season. This will be about double the reserve carryover of a year earlier. Corn carryover reserve stocks this fall also will be up from a year ago, he said.

In addition, Butz added, "The U.S. always has about a one-year food reserve on hand in the backyard and feedlot and on the range. If a short grain crop occurs, it only takes a little adjustment in feeding ratios and livestock numbers to absorb the shortfall."

Butz said some politicians and farm organizations are pressing for a return to "the old, outmoded system of high price supports and government held stocks."

He said such a policy change would be "a very dangerous thing in the increasingly affluent world of the seventies."

Poland visit set

MOSCOW — Rick George, 20, Murtaugh, is one of 45 Americans chosen to take part in an agricultural youth exchange program this summer between the United States and Poland.

Starting June 13, the Idaho youth will begin two weeks of intensive language training and orientation at the Experiment in International Living's School for International Training in Ashburham, Mass. If possible, a weekend stay with a family of Polish descent will be arranged for each delegate. At the end of June, delegates will leave for Warsaw for two more weeks of language and orientation training before being placed on collective or private farms. They will return to the United States on Dec. 7.

George is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard George. He is a graduate of Burley High School and currently is majoring in agricultural science at the College of Southern Idaho. He has had nine years of 4-H Club work and was a 4-H exchange to Japan in 1972.

Little gain seen for US in talks

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government farm officials who hope a current round of international trade negotiations can open up new foreign markets for agricultural products may fear the talks may produce little for American farmers.

Agriculture Secretary Earl T. Butz, more optimistic than some of his aides, said in a recent interview the negotiations currently underway in Geneva may produce some compromise progress toward liberalized farm trade when serious bargaining begins late this year or in 1977.

"But the progress has been slow and painful... too slow to suit many of us," Butz conceded.

One of his top aides said the slow progress has frustrated

Common Market would be willing to "abandon protectionist farm policies — viewed by the Americans as the heart of the problem — for years to come."

The so-called "Tokyo Round" of multilateral trade negotiations, named because the decision to hold the talks was made at a Tokyo meeting in 1974, involves all nations. The negotiations are designed to "seek agreements to liberalize both farm and industrial trade terms and have been underway in Geneva since early last year."

The strategy Butz wants to follow is, on the surface, simple. The United States has comparatively few remaining restrictions on imports of farm products. So, in order to win abandonment of foreign restraints on free trade in meat and fiber, Butz says American negotiators must be able to offer to lower not only its few farm import barriers but also some of its barriers to imports of industrial goods.

The problem for American negotiators with this policy is twofold.

First, officials say Common Market spokesmen want to negotiate farm trade terms in one package and industrial trade items in a second, completely separate package. If this is done, Butz said, the United States will be unable to "buy" many concessions for its own farmers because it has little to give beyond liberalization of dairy import controls and possible modification of domestic wool subsidies.

Butz, on a brief visit to Geneva last month, met with the American negotiating staff.

Slight increase in food prices?

© Chicago Sun-Times
CHICAGO — BEEF. Say good-bye to the "unusually low" prices we've seen in the supermarkets. But beef prices will move up only "slightly" as the year progresses.

— PORK AND POULTRY. Supplies of both should increase later in the year, making bargain prices available from time to time.

— MILK AND DAIRY PRODUCTS. Despite erratic increases this spring, prices could soften as herds are moved out on "the green grass of Wisconsin." Housewives are making cottage cheese a "strong comeback" item in the family diet, recognizing that it is a big provider of protein in relation to cost.

— CANNED AND FROZEN EGGS. Prices should be stable or a few more than present levels. Eggshells have a large carryover from last year's crops. The story for fresh fruit may be different. Drought in California will cut supplies and put pressure on prices.

The rundown is from William G. Mitchell, a man who had better know the trends in food prices and supplies. He's the chairman-elect of Beatrice Foods Co., the largest U.S. food company with total sales of something like $4.6 billion. Beatrice has some major non-food subsidiaries (e.g., Saxonite luggage), but more than 77 per cent of its volume is in food.

Over-all, Mitchell thinks food prices will be up no more than 4 per cent, 1978 over 1975.

He doesn't expect anyone to stand up and cheer at a 4-per cent increase. But, as he points out, it's not bad in comparison with what we've had these last few years — an increase of 7 1/2 per cent last year, 14 1/2 per cent in 1974 and 14 1/2 per cent in 1975.

Today's supermarket prices aside, Mitchell has some thoughts on food and the future that may or may not strike a happy note with you.

One of these days we're going to be staying healthy by eating soybean compounds. Because we won't be able to afford meat. Or as Mitchell, a 45-year-old native of Chicago who started out in the law, puts it:

"The day is coming when red meat will be too expensive for the average family to consume daily. Soy compounds will substitute for meat. Meat will be a luxury on the table, and soy substitutes will outsell meats."

For that and other reasons — the possibility of mass starvation in over-populated, underdeveloped areas of the world — Mitchell thinks new efforts should be made to encourage farming, including livestock and dairy farming, in this country.

Beatrice has a substantial stake in the meat business. It owns Peter Eckrich & Sons' line, which makes and markets some 150 varieties of specialty meats, such things as smoked sausages, frankfurters and luncheon meats under the Eckrich and Kneip labels.

But it is not into the soy field in any big way as yet. Apparently the giant company does not see a real need to get into soybean farming or into processing into oil or meal. By and large, the company's business is producing a consumer product for sale in retail stores.

And most immediately that's the way Beatrice is going when it comes to the soybean and the future.

Like a number of other companies, Beatrice is trying to develop an every-day drink, enjoyable to drink but providing a big dose of the soybean's high protein.
