

Charges heat Michigan scene

DETROIT (UPI) — Morris Udall wants Jimmy Carter to repudiate the suggestion by a key Carter backer that the Arizona congressman supports the racial doctrines of the Mormon Church.

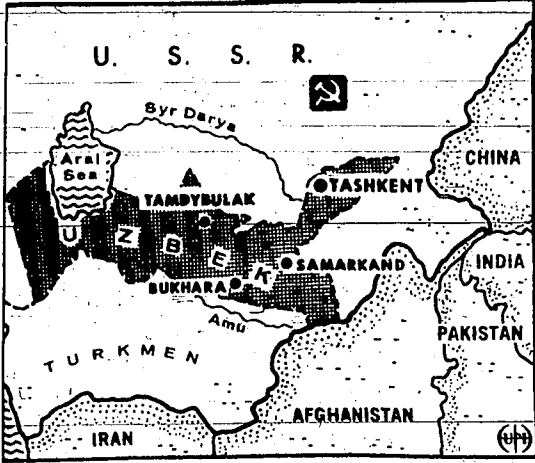

Carter today said "I don't have any inclination to criticize the tenets of the Mormons" and went on to criticize Udall for "running a negative campaign."

"I haven't got a damn thing to apologize for," Young, a Carter supporter, said.

The battle between Carter and Udall in Tuesday's Michigan primary has been overshadowed by President Ford's about-face in his home state to stop Ronald Reagan's conservative crusade for the Republican presidential nomination.

Udall scheduled a dawn-to-dusk election-evening campaign today, taking him to several parts of the state. Carter planned to fly in to Michigan at midday for about four hours of campaigning.

Interest in the Democratic primary was sparked when Young asked a largely black group of ministers: "Do we want to support a person from Georgia who helped open up the churches to you, or the man from Arizona whose church won't even let you in the back door?"

Where big quake hit Soviet Asia

Giant quake jars Soviet Asia areas

MOSCOW (UPI) — A major earthquake several times more powerful than the quake that devastated northern Italy smashed across large areas of Soviet Central Asia today, causing serious damage and apparently inflicting some casualties.

The official Tass news agency said the quake measured 8 to 9 points on the 12-point Soviet scale, ranking it as "destructive" to "devastating."

According to preliminary data, the earthquake caused material damage in some places. Tass said "Prompt measures are being taken to eliminate the aftermath of the quake and to give relief to the quake victims." Tass did not say how many persons were injured or killed.

Moscow radio reports monitored in London said the quake caused serious destruction.

The most severe shock was felt at a point 100 miles north of Bukhara—the same general area near the Afghanistan border that received a milder shock April 8.

Tashkent, about 240 miles east of the epicenter, almost was destroyed by an earthquake in 1966.

It was not known if more complete details of the earthquake would be released. Soviet officials are reluctant to give details about natural or man-made disasters.

In Tashkent, a hotel official said there were some American tourists in the city.

"They are fine, they have no complaints," she said.

Tass said the ancient towns of Samarkand and Bukhara, along with Gazli and Tindubulak, as the areas most affected. They are about 240 miles west of Tashkent. The heaviest shock was noted at a spot 100 miles north of Bukhara.

The Moscow evening newspaper Izvestia said telephone communications between Gazli and Bukhara and between Gazli and Gazi and gas fields to the north were disrupted. Helicopters were using radios to communicate with the gas field workings.

"Urgent measures are being taken to help those who suffered," the newspaper said.

It said the quake registered force 6 on the Soviet scale in Bukhara and Samarkand.

A hotel official in Bukhara, reached by telephone from Moscow, said no structural damage was caused to the city.

Man killed at Buhl class party

By GEORGE WILEY Times-News writer

BUHL — A fight between two "party crashers" at a Buhl High Senior Class party reportedly led to the death of a 22-year-old Buhl man.

Ve Keen, 19, Buhl, was arrested at about 10:30 a.m. today and charged with first degree murder in the incident, according to sheriff Paul Corder.

The name of the victim was withheld today, pending notification of relatives.

None of the high school seniors reportedly was involved in the incident.

County Coroner Cloyce Edwards said the victim died at about 7 a.m. today of injuries received when he was struck twice in the back of the head with a blunt instrument.

Edwards said an autopsy was being held today and an inquest into the death probably will be called later.

The incident occurred at a Buhl High School Senior Class party held on the farm of Fred Kippes, Buhl.

Kippes said today he had given permission for the party because his daughter is a member of the senior class. He said the party was held near a creek on the farm and was quiet until a fight allegedly erupted between Keen and the victim. That fight reportedly was the first of two between the men.

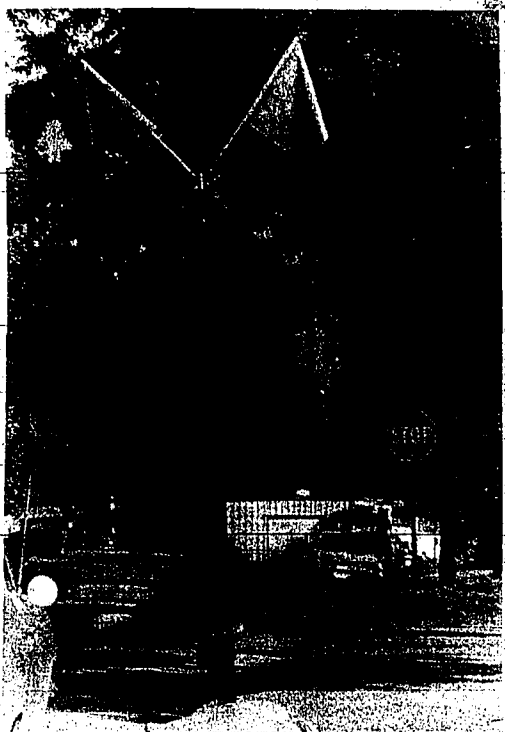

According to Keen, who was reached by phone shortly before his arrest this morning, the two men "had words" and then the victim allegedly hit Keen in the head with a board, requiring Keen to be taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for stitches.

It was after his release from the hospital, Keen told the Times-News, that he returned to the party and the second incident took place.

The first, Kippes said, took place between the two older men who had "crashed" the party along with other older persons.

Kippes said he went down to the scene of the party after the first incident and found the activity orderly. He said both Keen and the victim had left the party and there was no indication that either of them would return.

Sheriff Paul Corder said Keen is being held without bond.

Advance warning

NEW STOP SIGNS have grouted at various intersections in Twin Falls. The city will install 25 new signs throughout the city this summer under a federally-funded safety project. Yellow warning signs with red banners have been put up near the intersections to help motorists get acquainted with the new stops. The project also includes replacement of several existing stop signs and installation of some new speed, parking and school crossing signs.

Ford welcomes Giscard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today welcomed French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing to the United States and said close cooperation between the two countries "is more crucial than ever."

In response, Giscard told Ford during a ceremony on the White House South Lawn he had come to make clear to Americans "that the France of 1976 is as much committed to the struggle in the defense of liberty as she was, along with you, two centuries ago."

Giscard, who arrived with his wife, Anne-Aymone, at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., aboard a Concorde supersonic jetliner, will be in the United States for six days in an attempt to bolster France's image with the Ford administration and the American public.

political challenges facing all democracies today close cooperation is more crucial than ever. We can successfully meet these challenges.

"You have come to the United States at a very historic time," Ford said. "Your visit is a very special, and very fitting gesture" in view of France's role in the American Revolution 200 years ago.

Ford said the United States and France were "still steadfast allies and still defending the same ideals. We cooperate in peace as we have in war to preserve our heritage of freedom."

Giscard, speaking first in French and then translating his own remarks, said "It is my sincere wish that this bicentenary meeting should be for our two countries, for France and the United States, a festival of liberty, that principle of democratic liberty which, if we have the determination, will continue to shape the destiny of the world."

Giscard said that in the course of two centuries the United States and France have remained friends.

Vote panel picks made

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said today he would renominate five members of the Federal Election Commission and name former Federal Power Commissioner William Springer to fill the sixth seat on the reconstructed panel.

The commission will choose its own chairman.

President Ford was required to fill all six seats on the FEC under a new law, which was passed last month by a Supreme Court ruling that the panel's former composition was unconstitutional.

Because Congress failed to meet a deadline for action imposed by the court, the commission March 22 lost its authority to provide matching federal campaign funds for presidential candidates. Once Ford's nominees are confirmed by the Senate, the FEC can resume its funding operations.

More than $3.4 million in applications for presidential campaign subsidies have accumulated at the FEC since it lost its grant-making authority, and many candidates have said they were extremely hardpressed financially because of the developments.

To be renominated under a new law signed Tuesday by Ford are: Joan D. Aikens, a businesswoman from Swanton, N.Y.; Thomas E. Harris, an AFL-CIO official in Washington D.C. for 20 years; Neagle B. W. Thomson, a former Wisconsin congressman; and Robert O. Werman, a former Rhode Island congressman.

All five have been members since April, 1975.

Henry looks to leaving post

WASHINGTON — Henry A. Kissinger said today he hopes to resign as Secretary of State regardless of who is elected president in November.

In an interview with NBC's Barbara Walters on the Today show, Kissinger was asked if he would remain at his cabinet post if Ford wins the election.

"I don't want to let the conduct of foreign policy to me personally," Kissinger replied. "If a foreign policy is well-designed, then it should be able to be carried out by many people. So, on the whole, I would prefer not to stay."

Demos pick Anderson chairman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota was elected permanent chairman of the Democratic Platform Committee today when Gov. Philip Noel of Rhode Island was named temporary chairman for comment about blacks.

Members of the committee applauded Noel, the temporary chairman, when he announced his decision not to take the job permanently.

Japanese volcano erupts

TOKYO (UPI) — Mt. Sakurajima volcano on the southern tip of Japan erupted today, belching a smoke column 16 miles into the air, the Meteorological Agency reported.

There were no reports of injuries.

'Sequence' accurate, Henry says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today the "sequence of events" was accurate in the controversial book that describes he and Richard Nixon praying and weeping together in the White House during Nixon's last days as president.

But "many other aspects of the book I consider factually inaccurate," Kissinger said. He did not detail which aspects he meant.

According to "The Final Days," written by Washington Post reporters Carl Bernstein and Robert Woodward, Nixon asked Kissinger during one of his last days in the White House to kneel and pray with him, then the President sobbed as Kissinger held him in his arms.

An interview aired on NBC-TV's "Today" show, Kissinger was asked if the story were true.

Kissinger said he would not comment on incidents in the book.

7 TF districts to 'polls'

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County school patrons vote Tuesday for school trustees in all seven school districts.

In addition to voting for trustees, voters in the Kimberly School District will be asked to approve a special funding override tax levy of six mills. The Kimberly district currently is bound by law to a 27-mill maximum levy. The override provision would add six mills to that figure, bringing the total levy to 33 mills.

According to Kimberly School Supt. Vernon Exner, the override is being requested to meet inflationary costs in the district and to purchase new textbooks and a boiler for the junior high school heating system.

Polls for the school district elections will be open from noon to 8 p.m. Tuesday.

In Twin Falls School District #11, only one of two open seats is being contested. KFTF radio manager Richard Ryall, appointed October 6, fills a vacancy on the board, is running unopposed for his seat from Zone 1.

In Zone 2, incumbent Byron Snyder is being challenged by farmer Gary Custer.

Ryall is seeking a three-year term, Custer and Snyder are seeking a two-year term.

C. Davis, Western Equipment Co., employe, and Lanny Wooten, farmer and fertilizer, are candidates—Incumbent Jack Claiborn is not seeking re-election.

Robbie G. Collins, fertilizer dealer, is running unopposed in Zone 3. Incumbent Holland (Holly) Houtburg is not seeking re-election.

At Filer, only one position is to be filled Tuesday. In Zone 2, Everett Andrews, incumbent, is running unopposed. The polls will be open from noon to 8 p.m. at the high school.

"A Murrain" woman is running to fill the unexpired term of her late husband, Miriam Alfred was appointed to serve until the next election after the death of her husband, Robert Alfred.

Allen Cummins is seeking the post in Zone 2 with J. Jensen, considered a write-in candidate, incumbent Earl Wright is not seeking re-election.

Buhl Trustee George Atkins is unopposed in his bid for re-election in Zone 5. Only one post is up for election Tuesday in the Buhl district.

Two trustee positions will be filled at Castleford. John Cothern, a farmer, is unopposed in Zone 5. John Ensunosa and Ken Tvedy are competing in Zone 4. Neither of the incumbents, James Wheeler and Marvin Cusick, filed for re-election.

At Himesed, two men are vying for the open post to be filled in Zone 5 Tuesday. Candidates for the three-year term are George Peters and Virgil Pace. Incumbent Ted Crockett is not seeking re-election.

Snooping possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate Intelligence Committee staff report says the military might again spy on civilians if the United States undergoes another era of domestic protests like those which marked the Vietnam war.

The report, the latest in a series issued by the committee on its 15-month investigation of U.S. intelligence agencies, said the only significant limits on military surveillance of U.S. civilians are self-imposed and could be rescinded by the Department of Defense at any time.

Spain bans rally by rightist group

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — The Spanish government today banned a right-wing rally to commemorate the death of Generalissimo Francisco Franco and protest planned democratic reforms.

An announcement by the interior ministry said the rally, scheduled for Thursday, was banned because of "the risks of disturbances of the peace."

The half-million-member Federation of Civil War Veterans, in what was seen as a direct challenge to the reform-minded government of King Juan Carlos, scheduled the rally to be held six months after the Nov. 20 death of Franco. It was to be held in the Plaza de Oriente which faces the royal palace in Madrid.

The banning of the rally was seen as an expression of the government's determination to be as tough on right-wing street protests as it has been on leftwing demonstrations.

The sources said rally sponsors, who had been denied by many prominent right-wing figures, were first advised by the government to move their rally from Madrid to Franco's grave in the Valley of the Fallen, 40 miles outside Madrid.

The veterans rejected the suggestion and then told that their rally had been banned.

Right-wingers scattered leaflets Sunday calling on the people of Madrid to attend the rally.

France used the Plaza de Oriente, a tree-lined square that can accommodate a quarter of a million people, to rally his supporters at times of national crisis.

In Aranjuez, 30 miles south of Madrid, paramilitary Guardia Civil police Sunday night detained about 20 persons among 7,000 members of Madrid neighborhood associations holding an open-air meeting.

Police Sunday also scattered pro-amnesty demonstrators in Bilbao and arrested an unknown number of persons. In several parts of the Basque city, demonstrators tried to build barricades and blocked traffic by moving parked cars.

Print backlog bogs US court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court skipped its usual Monday announcements today because of a backlog in its basement print shop.

That was the word from the court spokesman, although its orders list is always mimeographed, not printed.

Printed matter frequently is attached to the orders, but the court declined to separate the two to get part of the announcements made in the usual way.

The justices hold their usual private weekly conference on Saturday instead of Friday, another factor slowing things down. Nobody would give the reason for the change. Explanations are rare at the court either for important or unimportant matters.

The court sat for a few minutes this morning to admit attorneys to practice and then adjourned Wednesday when several actions are expected.

West Bank unrest flares

KALANDDIA, Israeli-occupied Jordan (UPI) — Israeli troops killed one Arab youth today and arrested dozens more in violent demonstrations that flared across the occupied West Bank of Jordan.

The death of Abdallah Mustafa Hawas, 17, came in one of several clashes that followed the slaying Sunday of 18-year-old Lena Hassan Nabulsi, who was shot by an Israeli soldier on the steps of her home in Nabulus.

Arab witnesses said Hawas was shot as he watched other youngsters throw rocks at an army truck passing through this town on the road from Jerusalem to Ramallah. A military spokesman said he was one of the demonstrators.

The spokesman said two soldiers opened fire after an angry crowd blocked the road, threw rocks at an army truck, broke windows and threatened the passengers. One of the shots fatally wounded Hawas.

Authorities imposed curfews on Jenin, the cashah market district of Nabulus, and Balata refugee camp outside Nabulus after youths threw rocks at occupation forces. Troops also broke up a demonstration in Ramallah.

Soldiers brought in a water cannon and sprayed demonstrators in the main square of Nabulus with dye to mark them for later arrest. Some of the youths wore black hoods over their faces to mask their identity.

Explosions hit paper

PARIS (UPI) — Two explosions extensively damaged administrative offices at the Paris daily newspaper L'Aurore early today.

No injuries were reported and editors said the damage would not interrupt publication of the newspaper.

No group immediately claimed responsibility for the explosions. L'Aurore generally follows a conservative, pro-Israel editorial policy.

The explosions came 10 minutes apart. One interior wall 10 inches thick was blown out.

Write-in votes urged

TWIN FALLS — Republicans have filed 527 petitions for the office of precinct committeeman in Idaho, while Democrats have filed 428 petitions and the American Party 58, according to Vernon Ravenscroft, state Republican chairman.

He said there are 809 precincts in Idaho and urged write-in selections made in unofficial offices in the May 25 primary election.

Under the new Idaho law, Idaho Republicans have petitioned to make their precinct committeemen the only officers who may serve as voting delegates at the legislative district and county conventions.

Iranian police, guerrillas clash

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iranian police battled terrorists Sunday in series of shootouts in which 11 guerrillas and four policemen were killed, a police spokesman said today. A fifth policeman was seriously wounded.

The shootouts occurred almost simultaneously during raids on three terrorist hideouts in Tehran Sunday. The spokesman said it was believed to be the worst day of terrorist violence and death in Iran since the Tudeh Communist party was outlawed 22 years ago.

Acting on tips, police surrounded houses in three widely separated districts and ordered the occupants to surrender. But instead they opened fire. One witness said a woman terrorist fired a machine gun from a rooftop for 30 minutes non-stop.

The four policemen killed included the chief of a district station. The terrorists killed were not immediately identified by name or organization, but in past incidents of the kind, police have described the terrorists as Islamic Marxist guerrillas, trained and supplied by a foreign power.

Since March 21—the start of the Iranian New Year—police have reported five similar shootouts; most of them with two or three terrorists killed and an occasional policeman dead or wounded.

Ghah-Lam, Hassan Shakerati, an employee of a state-owned pharmaceutical plant living in a house next door to one of the hideouts involved in Sunday's raids, told reporters the hideout house had been rented about three months previously by a family of four who appeared to be "quiet and unobtrusive."

New round of fighting claims 750

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A savage day and night of fighting between Christian and Moslem forces left 750 dead and wounded in devastated Beirut today. The fighting later shifted to the eastern mountains where rival militias fought furious artillery duels.

Libya's prime minister made a surprise appearance in Lebanon in the wake of the worst night of fighting in months that saw more than 1,000 rockets, mortar bombs and artillery shells crash into residential areas of Beirut, leaving the city dazed and deserted.

Most of those killed or wounded were non-combatants. Ten children died when an artillery shell crashed into their classroom in a Palestinian refugee camp near Beirut, and other citizens were killed in the streets or in their homes during the terror bombardment.

The shelling subsided in midmorning, but in the Mt. Lebanon region east of Beirut, artillery duels continued between Moslem leftists in Aley and right-wing Christian forces in Kahlahah. Sporadic exchanges also erupted further north between leftists in Tripoli, and rightists in the neighboring town of Zgharta—the home of President Suleiman Franjich.

My 10 year old son refuses to accept the fact that his father has died. From your experience how do you think I should cope with this?

Answer...

This is an extremely sensitive area and although we know the reaction may occur in a decision.

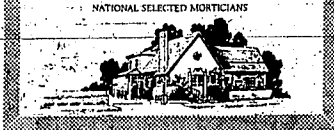

Dr. Edgar N. Jackson is the author of "Telling A Child About Death". Dr. Jackson writes, "If there ever is a time when 'Telling' is imperative it is when a child faces an emotional crisis." "There can be no better way to start the task of building more solid foundations for a philosophy of life than by handling and wisely facing the questions children ask when they have their first encounter with acute loss.

Your son's teachers and your clergyman can be very helpful in working out a solution to this problem. Telephone us now and we will give you an excellent pamphlet entitled "Some Questions and Answers About Your Child and Death."

Church scores Reagan tactics

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Democrat Frank Church attacked Republican front-runner Ronald Reagan Sunday, saying "contrived controversies" such as the Panama Canal are harmful to the nation's foreign policy.

"No American president, Republican or Democrat, is going to give away our interests in the Panama Canal," Church told a hometown, airport news conference.

He said Reagan, by raising the question in his presidential campaign against President Ford, is seeking voters by "playing on the latent fears of the people" and said he deplored such tactics.

"This kind of leadership has done grave harm to this country," he said. "I will avoid contrived controversies."

"The kind of debate that could ignite violence, bloodshed and war..." he said. "We have already had violence, serious violence, and bloodshed in Panama two years ago."

Church arrived by commercial airliner from Spokane, Wash., and Lewiston, Idaho, after campaigning in Montana. He passed up a chance to appear on Sunday's "Face the Nation" on CBS to keep a longstanding commitment to make a commencement address at Boise State University Sunday afternoon.

Both at Boise and at Lewiston Church hammered at the Nixon-Ford administrations, tying the incumbent president to the man of succession and then resigned in disgrace.

He chided fellow Democrat candidates for bickering with one another instead of "facing the facts of the Nixon-Ford years." He said cynicism renews fear in the nation and the general "disgruntlement towards politics" runs so deep that only one in five voters has cared enough to vote in the primary elections.

"That's the legacy of the years of leadership of the Nixon-Ford period — leadership corrupt followed by leadership that's weak," Church said.

By having to "bend" in the face of attacks by Reagan, he said, Ford has suffered defeats in recent primary elections.

"Despite his one per cent victory over Jimmy Carter in Nebraska, Church said he is an underdog in the Oregon primary — one of three in which he is entered May 25. Idaho and Nevada also have primaries that day.

In addition, he said, he has only $20,000 to spend on media advertising in Oregon — "peanuts" compared with what others have to spend, he said.

Nevertheless, Church said he expects to make a "come-from-behind" victory in Oregon and to win big in his home state of Idaho.

Supporters of California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. recently mounted a write-in campaign for him in Oregon. Church said whether this will further "fragment" party support there remains to be seen.

Church urges candidates to halt bickering

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church called on fellow Democratic presidential candidates Sunday to stop bickering among themselves and focus on the faults of the "Nixon-Ford Administration."

But the Idaho Democrat stopped short of labeling the Ford Administration as a continuation of the administration of Richard Nixon.

"I would like to express my hope that the other Democratic candidates would stop bickering against one another and focus on the faults of the Nixon-Ford Administration," Church told reporters.

"We have suffered under two presidents — one who was corrupt and one who was weak."

Church, who won last Tuesday's Nebraska Democratic primary in his first outing, accused Ford of bending to pressures from the cabinet of the Ronald Reagan.

"Democrats should look at the fault of the GOP Administration to provide jobs and justice for the American people."

Church also was critical of Ford's pardon of Nixon.

"I regard it as unequal justice. I don't see how you can pardon Nixon and then let his lieutenants go to jail."

Church, who gained notoriety through his involvement with the Senate Intelligence Committee, said he doubted recent revelations regarding the assassination of President Kennedy would affect his campaign.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., a committee member, said last week that the CIA and FBI lied to the Warren Commission about the assassination and suggested that some "hot leads" be pursued.

Schweiker and Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., are expected to deliver a written report to the full committee later this month, but Church cautioned that there has been no evidence to conclude that the Warren Commission was wrong.

"I want to say that there should be no false hopes or expectations on that report."

He said the report will coincide with the responsibility of the committee to examine the internal proceedings of the FBI and CIA.

Church was also asked about his stand on nuclear energy, which has become a key issue in California, a primary state, because of a controversial initiative dealing with power plant safeguards.

"This is a matter that should be left to the individual states. Meanwhile, the federal plant governor should move forward on a crash program to develop fusion."

Unlike the fission concept of splitting atoms that is currently employed in nuclear plants, fusion involves the fusing together of atoms to create heat in the same manner as the sun.

Most scientists believe it will be at least 50 to 60 years before fusion is ready, but Church said he believes a "crash program" could shorten the gap and solve many problems since fusion results in less radioactive waste.

Church also noted that since the Project Independence energy program launched by former President Nixon, the United States has become even more dependent on foreign energy supplies.

Pony Express ride scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho horsemen and women will have a chance to ride with the Pony Express, or at least a reasonable facsimile, when "Pony Express '76" crosses Idaho June 24-25.

Local horses and riders are being recruited to ride in the 10-mile segments between relay stations that will be spread across the state.

David Thompson, trails coordinator for the Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation, said that in individuals or clubs could request to be responsible for the segments. The only requirement is that riders adhere to a stringent time schedule.

The ride will leave Mount Vernon, Wash., at 9:45 a.m. June 22 and cover the 200 miles to Valley Forge, Pa. by 12 noon, July 4, a time-lapse of 12 days, a replica of the original Pony Express mail pouch will carry letters from President Gerald R. Ford, 34 state governors and about 300 private individuals.

Fifty-four minutes are allotted to cover each ten-mile segment and 40 segments are designated across Idaho. Thompson said there is no fee

Explosion interrupts rally

BOISE (UPI) — A cherry bomb explosion at a Church for President rally in Boise Sunday siphoned the attention of well wishers and stopped Church in mid-sentence during what could have been a relaxed get-together with old friends.

Boise City Police didn't know where the explosion came from or who set it off but the blast hit the target of fear that is central to the campaign of every presidential contender.

A number of secret service agents responded by tightening ranks around the candidate while others joined local authorities to search the area for the bomb and the culprit.

Strained eyes scanned the crowd during Church's speech in which he berated Republican candidates for preying on the "latent fears of the people."

Those fears surfaced when the explosion captured the attention and apprehension of the 500-600 Church supporters on the old library grounds where he spoke.

Church addressed the remainder of his remarks to the backs of heads and craning necks that appeared to be fearful for his safety then joined in the street square dancing with his wife, Bettine.

But the point was made, in the underrcurrents of expectant worry, that no national candidate can escape the price that must be paid.

Andrus addresses graduates

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told the 1976 graduating class at the University of Idaho Sunday there can be no return to the "simple life of yesterday."

"It is a complex world you are entering today — more complex than any era in all of recorded history," Andrus told the 1,067 graduates at commencement exercises. "If we lack confidence in ourselves we will permit these complexities to overwhelm us."

But there is no return to the simple life of yesterday," he said. "We cannot retreat to the draws and valleys of Idaho and live the simple life of our ancestors."

"Such escapism is an abdication of our responsibility to society and to one's fellow man. It is a confession of weakness: More than that, it represents a fear of the future and our nation was not built by men and women who feared the future."

Andrus said the four years leading up to the nation's bicentennial have been fruitful years.

as our economy struggles to regain its balance.

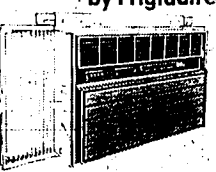

"We have been shocked by the abuses of our police and intelligence agencies."

He said there is evidence, especially in the presidential primary election campaigns, that the American people distrust big government in Washington and are cynical about politicians.

A dumb idea on matches

The Consumer Product Safety Commission seems to have forgotten that the basic purpose of a match is to burn. Its proposed standards for the paper matchbook industry would require that the match go out within 15 seconds, burning no more than half an inch on the stem.

A 15-second match is no good for lighting a pipe, changing a fuse, or findings the car keys you dropped in the dark in the parking lot.

Manufacturers are not sure they can design a cover tough enough to foil juvenile safecrackers. And they do not know where they are going to get the money to pay the extra costs.

All this might be too trivial to matter if it were not one more case of governmental regulations carried with all good intentions to the point of absurdity and beyond. The safety commission points to the 10,000 match-related injury cases a year as justification for tightening up.

The safety commission's job is to do what it can to reduce risks at acceptable costs. It should get over the idea that it can turn the complex modern world into one great padded cell where even an idiot can do himself no harm.

High cost of education

New York Times

In announcing his intention to leave his post of United States Commissioner of Education on Aug. 1, Terrel H. Bell cited as a major reason for his departure the imminent prospect of having to support three sons in college.

Coming from this high-ranking federal education official, an otherwise very personal decision makes a point of considerable public interest. It underscores the damaging impact of the appalling inflation in college costs.

Is it too much to expect that the Education Commissioner's personal experience might persuade the Ford Administration to open its eyes to a clear and present danger — that college gates are being shut to increasing numbers of able, middle-class young people on economic grounds alone?

By NEA/London Economist News Service WASHINGTON (LENS) — Sen. Frank Church's committee (the Senate "select committee to study governmental operations with respect to intelligence activities") concluded its work last week with a massive report and a difference-of-opinion about whether Book I should or should not reveal the total amount of the intelligence budget of the United States.

At the last moment before releasing Book I, which deals with foreign and military intelligence, Book II, deals with domestic activities.

the committee had to meet and vote on the matter; by six votes to five it decided to put the question to the full Senate.

If anybody wants to know, the figure is approximately $4.7 billion if only the direct expenditures of the Central Intelligence Agency, Defense Intelligence Agency, National Security Agency and National Reconnaissance Program are counted.

If tactical military intelligence is added in, together with the cost of services provided to the intelligence community by the military and other departments, the figure has to be about doubled to provide a total of, very roughly, $9.4 billion.

All this is concealed under different headings in the federal budget, chiefly in the defense budget, thus, as the committee points out in its report, making it difficult for Congress to ascertain whether the money is being used to the best advantage.

The large and scholarly report on external intelligence would have been very larger if the committee had not yielded to the entreaties of the administration to delete three chapters entirely, together with two sections of a fourth and various passages.

The original texts of these deleted and bowdlerized passages carefully guarded offices of the now moribund select committee, and so it may take a little time before they see out to the general public.

In place the effect is tantalizing. To take an example, one section of the Central Intelligence Agency has been to subsidize the writing and publishing of books helpful to American policy as it happened to be seen at any particular moment. More than 600 such books were published before 1967 in many languages, a quarter of them in English.

A former chief of the covert action staff of the CIA called books "the most important weapon of strategic propaganda." It is enchanting to learn from the Church report that on one occasion "a book written for an English-speaking foreign audience by one CIA operative was reviewed favorably by another CIA agent in the New York Times."

Agency-promoted books intended to enlighten or bamboozle readers were first given a domestic distribution to make them respectable, so that they enlightened or bamboozled American readers as well. These are the kind of books that journalists and politicians draw upon as a preliminary to quoting each other as authorities.

The CIA promoted a Vietnamese publication which was much drawn upon by members of Congress as a source for what was really happening in Vietnam.

While the report lacks major disclosures (such matters as poison guns, attempts to assassinate foreign leaders and subversive efforts in Chile having been disclosed previously), some of these minor disclosures are of high quality, or would be if, at the crucial moment, the text did not indicate that men from the CIA had persuaded committee staff members to fudge it.

One is thirsty to know which CIA book got the CIA review in the New York Times. One even would like to know if it really was the New York Times, since it is at just that point, on page 454, that the italics commence; how to tell whether the words "New York Times" are there in italics as a matter of printer's style, or as a result of rewriting by the bureaucracy.

Would you believe the U.S. intelligence budget totals $4.7 billion?

Or would you believe $9.4 billion?

Both figures are approximately correct, which says a lot about why Congress is having difficulty getting the full story on intelligence operations despite the marathon select committee investigation.

Americans want old and true or new

James Reston, in one of his routine exercises in indelicacy, has announced to the American public that Henry Kissinger, having been dispatched from time to time to brief Gov. Ronald Reagan during the Nixon days, "testified last that seldom in his long experience as a teacher had he come across a more gullible pupil."

Concerning that statement, a few observations: 1) Did Kissinger say that to Reston? Certainly Kissinger has never "testified" on the question of Reagan's gullibility, else his plain-folks would have heard about it.

I wonder whether other friends of the Secretary of State should feel free to reveal positions Kissinger has "testified" to Reston, whose cosmopolitanism contrasts so sharply with Reagan's gullibility. It is a man who having got his appendix taken out successfully in China, came back with praise for that totalitarian state which would have embarrassed Edgar Snow.

2) Though it is true that Mr. Kissinger, like so many intellectuals, is a man of considerable personal impudence with those who either fall quickly to grasp his point, or else proceed to disagree with it — Harold Wilson is a little bit that way; he's always assumed that people who disagree with him are just not quite bright enough surely not "gullible" to "gullibility" of Reagan. After all, if Kissinger is calling Reagan gullible, what do you suppose Le Due Tho is calling Kissinger?

3) The "gullibility" of Reagan is based on the United States' assertion that the United States has "full sovereign powers over the Panama Canal." As a matter of fact, Reagan is technically wrong.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Reston says that "Reagan couldn't pass a test he does about American rights in Panama. If that is so, as much could be said of former secretary of state and later Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who in 1923 wrote, 'It is an absolute futility for the Panamanian government to expect any American aid'

I think even gullible people, reading those words, would be entitled to say that we have effective sovereignty over the Panama Canal. Reston says that "Reagan couldn't pass a test he does about American rights in Panama. If that is so, as much could be said of former secretary of state and later Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who in 1923 wrote, 'It is an absolute futility for the Panamanian government to expect any American aid' administration, no matter what it is, any president or secretary of state, ever to surrender any part of these rights which the United States has acquired under the treaty of 1903.

4) Since Reston is having so much difficulty understanding the rise to political eminence of "wee Jimmy" and of the former governor of California, whom Reston calls with just wit, "the old trouper," I'll tell him what's going on.

These men are making headway because judges numbers of American citizens review a scene in which for a generation or two the Restons of this world, strutting their sophistication, had the critical hand in shaping. The statesmen who turned on the Restons, gave us a couple of world wars, slave empires that stretched from East Europe to Indochina, a passion for decolonization that has all but extinguished human freedom in yet another large continent, and, at home, a thorough demoralization of the spirit.

They want something old and true (Reagan), or something — anything — new (Carter).

the CIA. We are told that the Agency runs hundreds of journalists, 50 of them Americans around the world but this number is going down, since a new regulation says the American ones must be freelancers. But this is all in italics; the report, as published, does not say any of them are or what organs publish their work.

Muted and in places deliberately fuzzy as its report is, the committee makes no bones that the intelligence community started to go beyond its charter soon after the CIA was established by act of Congress in 1947. That a convention of ignoring the statutes was firmly established in the stress and excitement of the cold war and that the habits then established persisted. President Ford has already imposed restrictions and made changes in the system of control by executive order, but the committee wants these embodied in acts of Congress.

It runs into difficulty in trying to lay down how far the acts of Congress should go. Amid heated argument on the side of requiring covert interventions in foreign countries to be reported in advance to the committees of Congress. Two Republican committee members, Sen. Barry Goldwater and the vice-chairman, Sen. John Tower of Texas, refused to sign, partly because of this proposal — through characteristically, Goldwater, grumbling about "new isolationists and demagogues," added that the whole report "probably should never have been written."

The muted tones and the willingness to compromise in the administration about the text are essentially an effort to persuade not the administration, but Congress, that the legislative proposals which the Church committee puts forward are moderate and reasonable. How much success this effort will be, not clear, but it will certainly not be complete.

The demand for prior notification of covert operations to Congress has been considered and dropped already by the government operations committee of the Senate. Another main committee, the new intelligence oversight committee or committees which Sen. Church and his colleagues want to establish should have authority over the intelligence budget, is opposed by the Senate armed services committee.

There is no sign of any willingness to compromise in the House of Representatives, which showed its impatience with investigative zeal earlier and more definitely than the Senate has done; indeed, the House report of the parallel House of Representatives committee got suppressed by vote although it was promptly leaked to the Village Voice.

There is no sign of any willingness in either chamber to concentrate congressional control of the intelligence community in any one parliamentary body.

letters Sign display right backed

Editor, Times News: I am a customer of Vic's Tommyknocker Inn on the Mall where, by the way, the best food in town is served. It seems that some controversy has come up over the sign, "Jesus is Lord" that has been displayed in the restaurant.

It is ironic that Rex would stencil the bible scripture "Give us this day our daily bread" in wood at the front of the restaurant, but when Vic placed a sign quoting another scripture "Jesus is Lord" in his restaurant, he would be told to take it down or lose his lease.

As a businessman and citizen of Twin Falls, I stand behind Vic's right to display this sign in his restaurant. Those who oppose the sign have the same right to boycott as we have the right to patronize.

'Imperial dynasty' running China

© Chicago Daily News HONG KONG — China is being run more like an imperial dynasty from a bygone era than a modern Communist state, the dean of American China scholars says today.

Putting China's current political turmoil in historical perspective, Harvard Historian John King Fairbank Likened 25-year-old chairman Mao Tse-tung to an aging emperor subject to manipulation by his scheming wife, Chiang Ching-kuo.

"All the trappings of imperial rule are present in Peking today, including the secrecy and the palace intrigue," Fairbank said. He was commenting on the fall of senior party leader Teng Hsiao-ping and the sudden elevation of a unknown, Hua Kuo-feng, to prime minister and No. 2 man after Mao.

China has a constitution which requires that party and people's congresses be held to ratify decisions by the leadership, Fairbank said, but the constitution is ignored.

Despite all the talk about a "mass line," there is no "mass line" and the people are not consulted on what they want, Fairbank said. All major decisions are made in secret by a few unknown men.

"One only view with alarm and dismay what is happening in China today," Fairbank said. "There is every possibility of disaster including the eruption of violence" in a country where there are hundreds of thousands of ambitious, newly educated young people who suffer frustrations, he said. Fairbank was a friend and admirer of the late Prime Minister Chou En-lai, whose death in January caused the current power struggle between "radicals" and "rightists" to break into the open.

Liu Shao-chi, who after serving the Chinese revolution for 40 years was accused of betraying it and purged during the Cultural Revolution of the 60s.

"When the Cultural revolution got out of hand, Mao had to call in the army to restore order, and Lin Piao, the army commander, became Mao's chosen heir. But in 1971 Liu reportedly died in a plane crash after plotting a coup against Mao."

"So another heir has the chair," Fairbank said. The latest casualty was Teng Hsiao-ping, who was disgraced during the Cultural Revolution, was rehabilitated by Chou, and quickly rose to the top again — only to be cut down by Mao a second time.

Senator gives warning

CARLSLE, Pa. (UPI) — Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., warns that criticism of government by political leaders and candidates could be harmful.

Stevenson, speaker at Dickinson College's 233rd commencement exercises during the weekend, cautioned against a danger "that we may turn an ancient, healthy skepticism toward politics into a deadly cynicism."

He said his concern was not with extremists, but "with some who profess to stand in the mainstream of our national life. Some of our leaders, and would be leaders ... are leading an attack on the very institution they seek to head, the national government."

Challenge seen

INDIANA, Pa. (UPI) — Former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger says U.S. power and prestige is on the decline while the Soviet Union's is on the rise.

"In recent years," he told a graduating class at Indiana University of Pennsylvania Sunday, "the power and prestige of the Soviet Union have grown, while concurrently American prestige has suffered for a variety of reasons — some external, some domestic."

Schlesinger said, "The United States faces an even more difficult test of providing prosperity and protection so that we can reasonably feel at home in the world."

ERA Day

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actresses Lee Grant and Jane Fonda joined a second march of thousands of "bread and butter" women celebrating Mayor Tom Bradley's proclamation of "Equal Rights Amendment Day."

Both women also spoke at a rally supporting passage of the ERA amendment, and Miss Fonda urged American women to fight for other causes as well.

"Women need to seek support for such issues as social security for women who work in the home, for workmen's compensation for injuries in the home, for more community-controlled child care centers and for legalized abortion," she said.

Moynihan's view

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — Daniel Patrick Moynihan says the United States should be accentuating the positive values of democracy to impede what he called the rising force of totalitarianism in the world.

The former United Nations ambassador told the graduating class of St. Anselm's College Sunday internal failures such as Watergate and the recent disclosures of CIA and FBI wrongdoings were brought about by a decline in moral leadership. But he predicted continuation of U.S. leadership in the world was "politically and morally viable."

"The loss of a democratic India, if permanent, has a quality about it that seems almost irreparable," Moynihan said.

Ehrlichman comments

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Former White House adviser John Ehrlichman, saying he feels "enormously sorry" for Richard Nixon, believes he might have been to "derail" the Watergate scandal that forced Nixon to resign the presidency.

"I feel enormously sorry for him," Ehrlichman told the newspaper Sacramento Bee.

"There were times when if I had gotten involved in things I didn't consider business, I perhaps could have derailed it (the Watergate scandal)," Ehrlichman said.

Rare blood 'available'

FULTON, Mo. (UPI) — An automobile mechanic with a rare blood-type says he will donate as much of his blood as necessary to save the life of an 8-week-old Auckland, New Zealand, boy.

The baby is being watched closely in an Auckland hospital where Alan Atterbury, O-type blood containing no Rh factor is being used to fight a rare antibody attacking the child's red blood cells. Hospital spokesmen say without transfusions the disease could be fatal — to Emerson McClood.

The baby was reported in fair condition at the New Zealand hospital today.

"I'm glad to help out if I can save somebody's life," said Atterbury, 51. "You don't get much opportunity to do that. It makes me feel all right."

The rare blood has been found only in two other persons besides Atterbury and the New Zealand boy. One, a Japanese, donated a pint to the baby, but Atterbury's pint-donation was found more suitable against rejection by the baby's body.

Atterbury said he did not realize he had the rare blood until about seven years ago when he was asked to donate blood for a niece injured in a car accident.

Crash wrecks bedroom

NEW LENOX, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Robert W. Harding heard a crashing sound, ran to check it out and found an airplane in her bedroom.

A small single-engine plane had crashed into the room. The pilot, Dan McGarry, 38, Olympia Field, escaped with minor injuries and Mrs. Harding, 36, and her son, Dean, 12, were not hurt.

They were in the living room Saturday watching television when they heard the crash.

"I knew it was an airplane," she said later.

She said she ran into the bedroom to find it "full of airplane." McGarry was stuck in the wreckage, but said he was sorry after firemen freed him loose. He was taken to a hospital for treatment of cuts.

Emmy awards set tonight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Adams or Abraham Lincoln? Eleanor Roosevelt or Babe Didrikson? American history — fictionalized, romanticized, commercialized — became a prime time subject in the first of television's two biennial seasons and many of the historical portrayals are up for top awards in tonight's Emmy telecast.

"Eleanor and Franklin," the ABC theater biography of the pre-presidential Roosevelt family captured seven awards — Saturday in the Television Academy's prelude honoring creative arts. The two-segment production had 16 nominations in all, several of them in tonight's awards-for-best shows, acting, directing and writing.

The most-nominated show is "Rich Man, Poor Man," the serialized account of Richard Irwin's novel about the American people from VJ Day to Vietnam. The eight-episode ABC series has 23 nominations.

Other favorites built around historical themes include "The Adams Chronicles," the PBS account of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their kin, with 11 nominations; "Babe," the CBS biography of the nation's greatest woman athlete, with eight; and "Jennie: Lady Randolph Churchill" the PBS story of Sir Winston's American-born mother, with six.

Several of the competitors for individual acting awards would present interesting historical match-ups.

For instance, George "John Adams" Grizzard and Jai "Abraham Lincoln" Holbrook are nominated for Outstanding Lead Actor in a Limited Series against Nick Nolte and Peter Strauss of "Rich Man, Poor Man."

A tight race among the ladies matches Susan "Babe Didrikson Zaharias" Clark and Jane "Eleanor Roosevelt" Alexander for Outstanding Lead Actress in a Drama or Comedy Special against Sada Thompson of "The Entertainer" and Colleen Dewhurst of "A Moon for the Misbegotten."

Not all the season's shows were historical, of course, and many nomination went to shows portraying modern life — "All in the Family," the Mary Tyler Moore Show and "MASH" of CBS are up against "Welcome Back, Kotter" and "Barney Miller" of ABC for Outstanding Comedy Series.

"Police Story" and "Colombo" of NBC and "Baretta" and "The Streets of San Francisco" of ABC are competing for Outstanding Drama Series; while "The Carol Burnett Show" on CBS and "NBC's Saturday Night" were nominated as Outstanding Comedy-Variety or

Concert planned at Filer

FILER — The Filer High School music department will present its spring "Pops" Concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the high school auditorium.

"The concert check will go to 'Life is a Song Worth Singing,' by Bell-Creed and arranged by Lojeski; 'Come Saturday Mornings' by Previn-Cassey; 'Time,' by Legrand-Cassey; 'Climb Ev'ry Mountain,' Rodgers-Hammerstein, concluding with 'Halls of Ivy,' the traditional farewell to senior members of the group.

The girls chorus will present "Beauty" by Gerhard Schroth and "Matchmaker" by Book-Harnik.

Jim Stoenholm, bass, will present "Invictus" by Huhn; "The Lord's Prayer" will be sung by Mary Waters and Bonnie Luker; Shirley Reed, soprano, will present "The Way We Were," and Alice Reed, pianist, will play a medley entitled "The Homecoming and Feelings."

Accompanists are Mrs. John McCalfee, Phyllis Ramsey and Kathy Jones. Mrs. Claire Thomas is director.

The band will play "Belmont Overture," Hermann; "Spiritual From Symphony Number 5 and a Ball," Gillis; "English March," for an American Trumpet, King, with Richard Melton, soloist; selections from the Carole King Tapestry; "Windsor Overture," Browne, and "Aloette March," Carroll.

The band will be under administration charge. The public is invited. Ron Kofoed is band director.

GF school receives bank fund

GLENN'S FERRY — James Kevin has presented a check for $1,000 to School Spots, George Powell from the Idaho State Bank.

This is the fourth year the bank has donated funds to the school district to be used in anyway the district chooses. Funds so far have been used to build the edifice which will contain the bells from the old Hammitt and King Hill school.

Powell says he does not know how this year's check will be used by the school, but expressed his appreciation for the donation.

The bank also donates to the Hagerman, Fairfield, Kuna, Melba, Midvale, Cambridge and Bliss schools, all communities served by the Idaho State Bank.

A letter accompanying the check reads: "This gift is in honor of our graduating seniors of the Class of 1976... to be used at the discretion of the school board and the Superintendent for any purpose they so designate."

Sportsman club meets

SHOSHONE — An organizational meeting for Shoshone Rod and Gun Club will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the courthouse in Shoshone.

According to David Porter, Grant Sanborn, Twin Falls, a regional director for the National Rifle Association will be the guest speaker along with Don Wright, Shoshone, Idaho Fish and Game conservationist.

All interested persons are invited to attend this meeting. Porter said.

Shoshone students plan play

SHOSHONE — A biennial play will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Lincoln Elementary School auditorium by the fourth grade class.

The play is entitled "The Battle of the Little Big Horn. The Way it may have Happened."

There is no nomination for the guest speaker along with Varty Hebbel. Parents and interested persons are invited to attend.

Javits endorses Ford

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nomination of Ronald Reagan for president would endanger the existence of the Republican party, Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said Saturday.

He said the selection of President Ford as the party's nominee is "essential to the survival of the Republican party and of the two-party system."

In a speech to an issues conference of the Ripon Society, a liberal Republican group, Javits said the "Republican progressives, liberals and moderates" is to assure President Ford's nomination.

"Without that, the eroding structure of the two-party system will suffer again to serious a shock as could topple it altogether."

He said nomination of Reagan would be worse than what happened in 1964, when conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater was crushed by President Lyndon Johnson in a landslide that swept Republicans out of office at all levels of government.

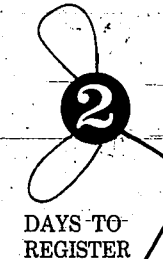

"The choice between Ford and Reagan is clear for those whose concern is the survival of the Republican party and of the two-party system nationally," Javits said. "For us, Ford must be our man."

He said the "grim facts" are that two conservatives are vying for the party's presidential nomination.

"One of them, by far the more moderate, is today President of the United States and he is the candidate in serious danger of losing his office to a candidate who has adopted positions so extreme that they would alter our country's very economic and social structure and our place in the world to such a degree as to make our country's policy at home and abroad, as we know it, a thing of the past."

He said Reagan "would instill a lack of governmental concern for the poor, including the aged poor, the disadvantaged and the unemployed in domestic policy, and he would instill an uncompromising hard line in foreign policy."

TWO GREAT GERMAN-ENGINEERED CARS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE

Most people can only dream of enjoying legendary German engineering; it can cost $13,000 or even a great deal more.

The Audi 100LS is $17,250* roughly half the Audi Fox is $5,250*, an extraordinary value.

The basic thing of these German-engineered cars have in common is the attention to detail, the identical thinking and feeling about how a car should be made.

So it's no wonder that both of our Audis share safety and performance and handling features with the most expensive German cars.

Delegates become name of political game today

By United Press International
Delegates were the name of the political game today. Totals piled up, candidates talked about them, campaign workers sought them out. On the Republican and Democratic side of the ledger, well over half the delegates to the national conventions have been chosen. Republicans have selected 1,183, with 1,130 needed to nominate. By UPI's fabrication, Ronald Reagan has 491, President Ford, 387, and "liberal" Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, 169, with 1,505 needed to nominate. Jimmy Carter leads with 608, Morris Udall is second with 210; there are 314 uncommitted and the remainder are scattered among 11 other hopes. A total of 104 were chosen over the weekend, most of them Republican. Reagan won 46 to Ford's 10, but another 16 were reported leaning to the President among the remaining uncommitted. Only one state — New Mexico — chose Democratic delegates. Carter won eight and Morris Udall, 6 with 4 uncommitted. But much more than delegates are at stake in Tuesday's primaries. President Ford must not only win his home state of Michigan, but win handsily if he is to restore momentum to his campaign against Reagan. And in Maryland, California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. hopes to score against frontrunner Carter, whose momentum was only nicked last week by Frank Church's upset win in Nebraska. Carter said in an interview on local television (WTOP-TV's Washington News Conference) that he would not consider a loss in Maryland a "severe setback," and explained: "If I should be defeated in a state here and there by someone who concentrates their effort just in that one state, I think the voters would understand. I can't expect to win every time. I'm accumulating delegates." But the importance he attaches to the Maryland race was demonstrated Sunday when he forsook his normal day of rest in his Plains, Ga., home to pursue votes in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C. Brown, making his first entry Tuesday, has the backing of most of the state Democratic organization and is reported to have generated considerable excitement in his expensive ($123,000 as of May 1) campaigning, in Maryland. He told a crowd in a black section of Baltimore that he hoped they would send him to Washington "so I can bring that spirit and energy that Jack Kennedy brought to this country." In a joint appearance with Brown on television Sunday (ABC-TV's Issues and Answers), Morris Udall said he has no intention of withdrawing from the race regardless of what happens against Carter in Michigan. Anyway, he said, "We may win there...I'm going to get a bundle of delegates in Michigan." Church, campaigning in his home state of Idaho, lashed out at what he called "unwarranted belittling" of U.S. military strength and said the people should be wary of the political statements that the United States is falling behind the Russians.

Mo's goal more elusive

REP. MORRIS UDALL... another crossroad

DETROIT (UPI) — Morris Udall reaches another crossroad Tuesday on his only quest for the Democratic presidential nomination, a goal which seems to become more and more elusive with each succeeding primary. After two years and $2.5 million, the liberal congressman from Arizona appears to be a loser who still, at least publicly, refuses to concede defeat. And Tuesday's Michigan primary offers no solace for the 53-year-old political veteran making his first plunge into the presidential primaries. Udall talks of "closing the gap" and picking up a "bundle of delegates" but the odds are heavy that he is going to finish, once again, second to Jimmy Carter. Yet, with the primaries well past the halfway mark, Udall refuses to accept the possibility that his only role at the national convention in July may be to listen to Carter's speech accepting the nomination. "This thing is wide open," Udall said. "I'm going to the end of this road." But the figures undercut Mo. Udall's arguments. Udall has never won a primary and Carter has won most of them. Udall has the second largest number of pledged delegates but Carter has three times as many. What went wrong? At the outset, Udall said, there were "just too many candidates" and too many of them were lunched on the left side of the political spectrum. In those early primaries "a big smile and a personality is all you need," Udall said.

How about Tarzan?

SAGINAW, Mich. (UPI) — President Ford was asked Sunday what he thought of Ronald Reagan's old movie. "I've never seen one," the President replied. Reagan, former California governor and one-time actor, is Ford's opponent for the Republican presidential nomination.

FBI kept secret death file

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI has a secret file with an "assassination heading" which it did not give Senate intelligence investigators despite a request for all material on that subject, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said Sunday. In a television interview (CBS-TV's Face the Nation), Mondale said the committee has asked the Justice Department for the missing information. Mondale, a member of the panel, said intelligence agencies generally have been "quite forthcoming" about providing an unprecedented amount of material about their secret operations to the panel. But he added, "There is some evidence we haven't seen everything." "For example," he said, "we've just come across some files in the FBI with an assassination heading we did not know about, even though there had been a request for nearly 15 months to the bureau for all files relating to that issue." Committee staffers found a reference to the file while working on the investigation of John F. Kennedy's assassination, he said. "It apparently was labeled 'Assassination: Mr. Castro,' or something like that," he said. "Attorney General (Edward) Levi has been written asking that those files be produced and also asking why on earth we weren't told about them," said Mondale. No reply has been received. Massive reforms already have been brought about by disclosure of past abuses of the intelligence agencies, he said, and a pending Senate committee for a proposed intelligence oversight committee "is a fundamentally, very solid improvement." "Will it (abuse) happen again?" asked Mondale. "The answer is that every generation had better watch out."

'Free' info cost $52 million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It cost the government almost $52 million last year to get "free" advice on a variety of subjects. Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., said Sunday that while members of government advisory committees often donate their services, the advice Uncle Sam gets from them is far from free. Metcalf's Senate Government Operations subcommittee on reports, accounting and management is examining the advisory committees to see if they spend their money wisely. There were 1,267 of them as of Dec. 31, 1975 — up a bit from the previous year. "The federal government pays top dollar for the 'free' advice it obtains from advisory committees, although it is true that many advisory committee members donate their services," Metcalf said. "Advisory committees issued 1,070 reports to federal agencies and officers last year, and no doubt made countless other informal recommendations at a total federal cost of $51.8 million." The money goes to pay salaries and travel expenses for staff members, occasional paid consultants, or contractors hired for specific projects. The expenses of the members also is paid.

DEAR ABBY: I have to comment on your recent reply to a letter complaining about the "no children" request on wedding invitations.

The sad part is that the great majority of today's children are undisciplined, ill-bred, ill-mannered, uncivilized, noisy, crude, destructive, dirty little horrors whom even their parents don't want anything to do with. When they become teenagers, they add dirty clothes and filthy living habits to their repertoire. If their own parents can't stand them, why should others have to put up with them?

That's what two decades of liberal, modern upbringing and education have accomplished.

It is not entirely the fault of the young people; the parents will have to share the blame for allowing them to grow up like animals and permitting the kind of educational system we now have.

HERBERT E. GORDON, S. EASTON, MASS.

Abby backs 'good kids'

DEAR MR. GORDON: The dictionary defines a "lament" as "a lamentation, a lugubrious complaint." It also defines a "beast." You conspicuously ignore some admirable qualities and praiseworthy contributions of today's young people while stigmatizing all of them for the acknowledged faults of a few. And I object!

DEAR ABBY: After 14 years of marriage, Howard asked for a divorce. I had a feeling that he had been fooling around, but then nobody's perfect.

He said he fell in love with a woman he had met at work. She is 44 and divorced. Howard is 38.

I told Howard I wanted to meet the woman, and if I thought she was good enough for him, I'd sign the papers. Well, I met her and she was a mess, so I told Howard that I didn't want to sign any papers so he could marry THAT.

Howard forbid him from seeing her; I just let the affair burn itself out. Sure enough, in three months it was dead as a doornail.

Now Howard is thanking me for being so sensible. Maybe other women with the same problem can use my solution.

SMART MAMA

DEAR SMART: What will cure some patients will kill others. All generalizations are worthless, including this one.

DEAR ABBY: May I second your excellent recommendation to NERVOUS WRECK, whose ill-humored husband stopped marriage counseling, was walking all over her and was teaching her son to do the same.

We had a similar situation at our house. I finally sought counseling alone because my husband not only refused to go with me but also tried to talk me out of it.

Several sessions with a psychiatrist relieved my depression, and at the doctor's suggestion I signed up for a course in assertiveness at a nearby mental health clinic. Well, Abby, our marriage is on an entirely different footing now. In counseling I was treated as a rational, sensitive person whose feelings are important, and I came to view myself that way.

Because I changed, my family's reactions toward me did, too. They found that I would firmly reject disrespectful attitudes and actions and that I demanded my rights in any situation.

My husband now seems like a different man, and we are back 100 per cent happier. As for me, I'm...

NO LONGER A WRECK

DEAR NO LONGER: Thank you for supporting my constant recommendation to "get counseling." To some it may sound like a broken record. To others, a cop-out. But mental health clinics across the nation continue to provide life-saving support for troubled people at a price everyone can afford to pay. If your marriage is in trouble and your mate refuses counseling—go alone!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

MR. AND MRS. JIM GIESE

Couple married in Boise

GOODING — Nickle Carpenter and Jim Giese were married in a 5 p.m. ceremony May 1 at St. Paul's Catholic Center, Boise.

Filter Perry Dodds conducted the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Carpenter, Meridian. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Giese, Gooding, and the grandson of Mrs. Joseph McClair and Mrs. Herman Giese, both Twin Falls.

The bride wore a floor length gown of lace styled with a fitted bodice and long fitted sleeves. The flared skirt was edged with a lace ruff and swept to a full cathedral train. The high neckline was finished with a standup collar of lace.

Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was held by a lace headband. She carried a nosegay-style bouquet. Sharon Baracart was matron of honor. Tony and Carol Wing were bridesmaids.

Jerry Giese was best man. Ushers were Johnny Giese, Chuck Caboon and Steve Capps.

The couple were honored at a reception at St. Paul's Newman Center. Assisting were Mrs. Carol Stringfellow, Mrs. Marge Keene and Mrs. Sandy Finch.

The bridegroom's parents were hosts for a rehearsal dinner at the Sandpiper, Boise.

Guests attended from Twin Falls, Gooding, Meridian and Boise. Following a wedding trip to Canada, the couple lives in Boise, where the bridegroom is employed at Boise Building Supply and the bride is employed at Grand Oaks Healthcare.

SHARON ALLISON engaged

Couple plans June rites

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. R. Roger Allison, Lewiston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon, Twin Falls, to 2nd Lt. R. Michael Schwenk.

Lieutenant Schwenk is the son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. A. G. Schwenk, Stuttgart, Germany. He graduated from Arizona State University where he majored in nuclear engineering. He is stationed at Aberdeen, Md.

Miss Allison received a degree in mathematics from the University of Idaho and teaches at Robert Stuart Junior High School. The couple plans a June 12 wedding at the Lewiston Grace Lutheran Church.

Golden anniversary to be feted in Buhl

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Moffett will be honored next Sunday during an open house celebration at the Lincoln Courts Hall.

The event, hosted by relatives and friends of the couple, will begin from 2 to 5 p.m.

The couple were married May 19, 1926 in Denver, Colo. and moved to Colorado and Nebraska before moving to Idaho in 1956. They operated a farm until retirement in 1969, when they moved to their present home in Buhl.

The couple have one son, Terry, who lives in Florida and six grandchildren.

Friends and relatives of the couple are cordially invited to the celebration.

Mrs. Moffett request no gifts.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I have friends who have gone to doctors with various complaints and have come away saying, "My doctor says it's my nerves."
I have always understood that the nerves were a complicated communication system between the brain and various parts of the body. Apart from an injury, or a disease such as shingles, is there any complaint that can be called "nerves"? — B. R.
That's a difficult question.
I agree with your brief description of the nervous system. You wisely distinguish between nerve injury or disease and what doctors perhaps too often "diagnose" as "nerves."
True neural ailments are those like Parkinson's disease, Bell's palsy, shingles, sciatica and such. So why the confusion?

'Nerves' can affect body

It arises because man is often beset by emotional factors — tension, anxiety, fear, love, hate. These, of course, can exist without any physical ailment. But patients turn to doctors with unexplainable headaches, assorted aches and pains, digestive problems. We know the nervous system you speak of controls the various organs and glands, and that these organs can be affected by the emotional factors.
If an outwardly healthy patient complains of symptoms, but examination fails to come up with a physical cause (as, for example, a bowel disease as a cause of constipation) then emotional factors may be suspected. The patient is told: "It's your nerves," or "It's all in your head." That doesn't mean the symptoms aren't real; it's just that the cause may be emotional.
Granted, that is not a satisfying diagnosis, at least not for the patient. Sometimes a mild tranquilizer is the best "treatment." And often, persistent examination and tests will either reveal a physical cause or at least assure the patient that everything is being done.

Patients with no obvious ailment may launch long and expensive searches for a doctor to "find" something wrong. These are called hypochondriacs. They suffer from that chronic all-purpose ailment called "nerves."
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me why I get deathly sick about an hour after eating oysters? It lasts several hours. First I vomit, then I have diarrhea. I can eat anything as a rule, but the last three times I have become terribly sick and had cramps. — Mrs. M. W.

You should be convinced by now that you are allergic to oysters or perhaps to whatever is used for cooking or for dipping them in. Usually a person allergic to a specific food cannot eat that food at any time. If you can eat oysters sometimes and then not at other times, you might suspect a sauce. These can vary from restaurant to restaurant.
Another possible factor is contamination.
"Isolated" allergies are common among food groups such as shellfish. This means a person may be able to eat clams, but become violently ill after eating, say, lobsters. Fish can cause particularly violent reactions among those sensitive to it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is vitamin B-12 used for, and what does it do? Can it be taken in any way other than by injection? I mean in tablet form? — J. P.
It helps in the making of blood cells and in keeping the nervous system healthy. A lack of it, either because the body can't absorb it or because it is missing in the diet, can lead to pernicious anemia.
Injections are preferred in pernicious anemia because the vitamin is not absorbed easily from the intestine. It is available, however, in tablet form.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a worried mind. I have to have a hysterectomy soon. Now I hear that you can get high blood pressure from this and also gain weight. Is it true? — Mrs. J. P., Not true.
There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Thosteson's new booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES C. ANDERSON

Miss McKeith weds in Salt Lake City

GLENNIS FERRY — Lynn McKeith, a former resident of Glennis Ferry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin T. McKeith, and Charles C. Anderson, son of Mr. Theodore C. Anderson and Mrs. Florence Anderson, Boise, were united in marriage May 1.
The ceremony was performed in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple.
A reception was held May 8th in the Boise Eighth Ward LDS Cultural Hall.
The bride chose a white nylon organza floor-length gown and long sleeves and a high neck trimmed with silk lace. She wore a semi-train and large white floppy hat covered with veiling and large white roses. The veiling fell down her back to the waist.
She carried a bridal bouquet of satin roses and orange rose buds with long white ribbon streamers made by Mrs. McKeith.
Jill Paek, Glennis Ferry, was maid of honor. Ami Squires and Pam Jefferies, both Boise, were bridesmaids.
John Anderson, Salt Lake City, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. David Anderson, Pocatello, brother of the bridegroom was an attendant.

A four-tiered cake centered the bride's table, which was covered with a white lace cloth. The cake was decorated with orange, daisies and green leaves and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

The hall was trimmed with flowers, greenery and a flowing fountain. Baskets of flowers filled with orange and white daisies were on the tables which were covered with white lace cloths.
Mrs. Dennis Janousek, Boise, and Mrs. Larry Brown, Meridian, sisters of the bride, cut and served the cake and the punch.

Mini Murphy, Boise, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book. April Anderson, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the gift table.

The couple planned a honeymoon trip from Salt Lake City to Brigham City and Provo, all in Utah.
The couple will be at home in Boise, where Anderson will be employed.

Club plans May trip

TWIN FALLS — The Boondockers Club planned its May outing when members met Thursday evening at JB's Big Boy Restaurant.

Four-wheel drivers will go to the Brown's Bench and Jockpot area May 23 with Gary Auderfeldt, Ray Ulrich and Ruffen Llerman as leaders. The members are to meet at Hallister and leave at 9 a.m.

Several changes were made in by laws. The former limit of 20 vehicles for membership was increased to 30 vehicles so new members wanting to join the group should contact Dean Fisher, president, or one of the members.

A membership chairman and sergeant-at-arms will be elected at the June meeting when other new officers are elected. This person will be in charge of keeping a record of members attending meetings and outings, will report delinquent members, and will enforce the by laws and rules of driving.
The monthly meeting date also was changed and the group will now meet at 8:30 p.m. the second Tuesday of the month.
The June 8 meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Harttruff and the July 13 meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ulrich. A trip to Silver City is planned in July.

Winds to diminish Tuesday

Tuesday, low temperatures tonight near 30. Highs Tuesday near 65. Light to moderate precipitation near zero through Tuesday.

Synopsis: A dry Pacific cool front swept across Idaho early Monday but the air mass was so dry that no clouds of any importance were reported south of the Salmon River. Minor cooling behind the front will drop low temperatures tonight into the middle or upper 30s with damaging frost not likely. Another warming trend will begin Tuesday. Spraying and dusting conditions will be better Tuesday morning due to lighter winds. The evaporation rate will average around one-third of an inch per day and irrigation requirements will be a little heavier than usual at this time of year. The extended outlook for the last half of the week is for temperatures to average near the season normals which are highs in the lower 70s and lows in the lower 20s.

Salmon runoff above normal

SALMON — Runoff on the Salmon River at Whitebird for the May-September period in forecast at 7 million acre feet, which is 111 per cent of the 6.311 million acre feet average, the Soil Conservation Service reports.

Galena Summit on April 26 had 82 inches of snow with 27.9 inches of water compared with 36.5 inches of water last year and 26.0 inches average.

Mill Creek Summit on April 29 had 80 inches of snow with 29.7 inches of water compared with 29.8 inches of water last year and 25 inches average.

Lenhi Pass on the same date had 42 inches of snow with 14.4 inches of water compared with 16.0 inches last year.

Globon Pass on April 25 had 72 inches of snow with 30.1 inches of water compared with 33.9 inches water last year and 24.2 inches average.

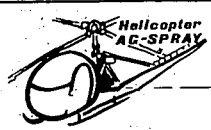

On the Lenhi drainage, above Gilmore on April 25 had 41 inches of snow with 13.7 inches of water, which compares with 10.7 inches average. Meadow Lake had 75.1 inches snow, 23.4 inches water, 22.3 inches average.

Bale hazard cited

CHICAGO — The large, round bales made by new farm balers may be hazardous to unwary handlers, warns the National Safety Council.

The main problem comes from transporting, and handling the large bales after they are dropped in the fields. Satisfactory handling devices for the big bales are now being manufactured, but many farmers are continuing to improvise handling devices that equipment they already own until new equipment can be purchased.

Present farm equipment is often ill-adapted to handle the bulk, shape and weight of these bales that may range from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds. The weight of a large bale is generally within the carrying capacity of a front-end loader attached to a tractor.

However, when a dense, conventional load such as manure is replaced by a less dense but equally heavy bale, the tractor's center of gravity shifts forward. This can cause a sudden instability when the vehicle is on rough ground, or if the rear wheels strike an obstacle.

Similar instability occurs when a large bale is lifted high off the ground. Loading bales on trucks or gaining better visibility may be the reason for raising the bale. This shift in center of gravity can cause the vehicle to overturn when cornering, moving over rough terrain, or operating on a slope.

Water supply prospects good for most of Idaho

TWIN FALLS — The 1976 water supply outlook is good to excellent for most areas of Idaho, according to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Seasonal streamflow is forecast for above average on all watersheds of the state except the Wood and Lost Rivers, which are forecast to flow at 80 to 95 per cent of average, the agency's May report states.

Streamflow during April was above normal on all major drainages and reservoir storage is generally above average. Many reservoirs are being drafted to make room for anticipated high volume runoff during the major snowmelt period.

April precipitation was slightly below average in the southwestern portion of the state, above normal in the eastern section and near normal in the panhandle area.

April temperatures were cooler than average throughout the state. Reservoir storage in 1,000 acre-foot increments on May 1, followed by the 1956-72 averages, include Jackson Lake, 500.1; 501.7; Palisades, 1,177.2; 1,089.7; Island Park, 93.7; 132.1; Salmon Falls, 144.9; 59.4; Magic, 191.5; 170.2; and Little Wood, 27.8, 24.6.

Water content readings in inches compared to the 1956-72 averages are Galena, 16, 15.5; Galena Summit, 27.9, 26; Minn, 12.6, no average; Mount Baldy, 20.8, 22.7; Howell Canyon, 31, 23.6; Cedar Creek, 2.3, 3.1; Deadline, 27, 19.5; Goat Creek, 24.4, 20.1; and Magic Mountain, 23.3, 15.9.

Soil moisture readings in inches compared to two years ago are Mill Creek Summit, -4.4, 6.6; Howell Canyon, 9.3, 11.9; Deadline, 7.4, no reading; and Patrick Ranch, 7.1, no reading.

Snake flow given

IDAHO FALLS — The Snake River water report from the State of May has been released by Arthur L. Larson, watermaster.

Reservoir contents are given in acre feet with comparisons to a year ago for Jackson Lake, 445,600, 568,700; Island Park Reservoir, 107,600, 110,700; Teton Reservoir, 43,900, plus 188,070 A-F dead storage; Palisades Reservoir, 173,000, 256,000; Rice Lake, 17,800, with 10,000 A-F dead storage; American Falls Reservoir, 22,800, 11,200; Lake Walcott, 97,100, 95,800.

Stream flow amounts are given in cubic feet per second with comparisons to a year ago for Moran, 4,080, 4,650; Henry's Fork below Island Park Dam, 357, 301; Henry's Fork near Rexburg, 7,000, 7,110; Heise, 17,800, 8,900;

Fourteen TF youths selected to attend Boys State

TWIN FALLS — Fourteen Twin Falls High School students will attend Boys State May 20 through June 5 in Boise.

Kenneth Shew, Boys State chairman for the Twin Falls American Legion Post, said the unusually large local delegation was made possible this year through sponsorship by numerous business and service groups and through a sizable American Legion fund. The legion post will sponsor 6 of the 14 Boys States.

Shew said a large number of highly qualified young men applied for the Boys State program this year and the post voted to send as many of the outstanding applicants as possible.

Selection of the candidates was based 40 per cent on leadership, 25 per cent on honors and awards won and 10 per cent on athletics. Another 15 per cent was based on written essays submitted by each of the candidates, and the remaining 10 per cent on extra curricular activities at school, hobbies and career choice.

Subjects for the essays, from which the applicants selected their choice, included presidential candidates, the increasing crime rate and what police or courts can do to correct it, or the individual's hopes for his future life style. Nearly all of the applicants chose the crime rate as their essay subject. American Legion Post Commander Frank Mogenssen said.

Boys State delegates, their parents and sponsors include Bill D. Henscheld, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Henscheld, Twin Falls Kiwanis Club; David Robert Morris, Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Morris, Twin Falls Republican Central Committee; Bryan L. Crockett, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Crockett, Twin Falls Association of Insurance Agents; John P. Gibney, Dr. and Mrs. John Gibney, Twin Falls Rotary Club; Kenneth A. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. L.W. Freeman, Twin Falls Lions Club; Dan Munger, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Munger, Lloyd Hamilton Insurance Agency; George "Tony" Onaida, son of Mrs. Edwin Prater, and Jay Paul Dodds, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Dodds, Berg Insurance Agency.

Those sponsored by the American Legion include Bradley Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary B. Peterson; Scott Herzinger, son of Mrs. Carolyn Herzinger; Vernon Lee Platt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Platt; Peter G. Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Newton; David C. Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moss and Rich G. Bevan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross B. Bevan, Alternate is Craig Nelson.

Most of the young men submitting essays with their applications for Boys State, chose the subject of crime, the courts and law enforcement.

One of the writers said he would like to see the death penalty restored by the courts, adding it would be a strong deterrent against violent crime. He also stated citizens should try to assist former convicts in obtaining jobs.

Another writer urged police to take more interest in potential criminals, saying when a young man is arrested, the officer should show professional compassion and "an honest interest in that person."

More and better educated police officers for the city and state was the recommendation of another writer. He also urged more strict penalties for crimes.

"We are way too lenient on criminals offenders. A man can kill someone and go to prison for 15 or 20 years and then go out on probation and do the same thing again," the student wrote.

Another young man stated, "The police should have the authority to carry out what they have been trained for. It seems like citizens have no respect for the officer and the officer's hands are tied in many instances," the applicant said.

He also called for stiffer laws and penalties. Another youth urged citizens to take a more active part in crime prevention. He said they must accept jury duty, come forward as witnesses and otherwise assist. "The criminal justice system in the United States is also in need of pay for law enforcement officers, said more consideration should be given the nation's poor. He said society pays $5,600 a year for the criminal in jail, but far less for a family of four living at the poverty level.

"As for the courts," he wrote, "They are merely men passing judgment on other men. They are human. Mistakes will be made."

Another who wrote on crime said, "I am not going to try and tell the police or the courts how they can better their job. It is my honest belief they are trying to do the best they can, but we can help them if we just cooperate."

He urged citizens to take action to keep their property from being stolen and not give the burglar an invitation.

Improvement," he said.

The writer criticized delays in bringing an offender to trial saying many times a criminal gets away without penalty because his case is "lost in red tape."

"Nearly all of the writers urged more interest on the part of citizens in helping cut crime.

In outlining his hopes for the future, one youth wrote of plans for maintaining an interest in his government, becoming a medical doctor and, "must, imperatively, want a life that revolves around a family."

"I plan a modest number of children — to allow me time with each of them and I plan to be part of the movement that makes the world a little brighter for them, too," he said.

"Another youth said he does not blame the police but rather the forgiving attitudes of the courts and the thoughtlessness of citizens."

The guarantee cards are an excellent device by which the customer can show his or her reliability and a device by which the businesses will take less risk in accepting and cashing checks.

An acceptable alternative to the check guarantee card if your bank does not provide it, would be two forms of identification, preferably a form of I.D. with a photo such as a driver's license plus a major credit card with your signature.

EXPENSIVE new fire-fighting equipment such as this $25,000 LeFrance pump is being tested by Twin Falls firemen, standing, Ken Thompson, left, and Dale Plett, and David Wilson in truck. It is one reason the Fire Department is considering shifting fire protection costs to the public. Story at right.

Firemen draft TF safety plan

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — More "built-in" fire protection in large buildings may be recommended in a master fire safety plan being drafted by the Twin Falls Fire Department.

If adopted, the recommendation probably would require installation of sprinkler systems in business buildings exceeding 20,000 square feet, according to Fire Chief Bobby Bopp.

"The Falls firefighters would have a tough time extinguishing a blaze in structures larger than that," Bopp said.

"We have got a force here of just so much equipment and manpower," he added. "We can take care of buildings up to a certain size with that force."

"When a building larger than that catches fire and has a working fire to blaze well under way by the time firefighters arrive, we're not big enough to put it out."

Bopp said the city actually has three options: More built-in protection can be required, taxpayers can pay more for additional firefighters and equipment or "we can continue to go the way we are now and let the buildings burn down."

Bopp said the city has just taken delivery on a new LeFrance fire engine. Cost of the unit is $56,000. It has a pumping capacity of 1,500 gallons of water per minute. This gives the fire department six pumps — including a ladder truck with an 85 foot reach.

Bopp said the city has a 1961 LeFrance ladder truck with 1,000 gallon capacity pump, a 1971 1,000 gallon capacity pumper and the new unit for front line service. The front line units will answer about 97 per cent of the city calls, he said.

In addition the city has a 1940 Seagraves with 750 gallon capacity and a 1946 Seagraves 1,000 gallon capacity unit both in reserve and a 1,500 gallon capacity 1948 LeFrance pumper which may be abandoned if repairs prove too costly.

"Twin Falls is scheduled for a fire department rating review in September of this year. The Idaho Surveying and Rating Bureau will send a team to Twin Falls to inspect all fire equipment, facilities, manpower, training programs and records for a new insurance rate for the city."

"The previous rating was made in 1970 and since that time the city has added two new fire engines and an all new fire station."

Bopp said Twin Falls currently holds a rating of five, which is midway on the rating scale of one to ten.

"I am hopeful of getting down at least to a 'four', but there are a lot of things to consider such as the growth of the city since 1970," Bopp said.

The rating bureau limits out deficiency points for recommended standards of which a city falls short and computes a rating. Based on this rating all fire insurance premiums are set in the city. Bopp said dropping down one point on the scale could mean a major saving to property owners in Twin Falls.

For Twin Falls the bureau recommends a total pumping capacity of 5,000 gallons per minute. Front line equipment provides about 3,500 gallons total capacity, the fire chief said. A 50 per cent credit is given for all equipment beyond the front line force. This brings the city close to the recommended capacity, he said.

If it appears feasible the old engine which the city retired temporarily with delivery of the new engine this week may be repaired and returned to standby or reserve service. The repairs hinge on cost and availability of parts and life expectancy of the unit if repairs are made.

Had the new fire station not been added and the new fire engine purchased, Twin Falls' rating would probably have gone to a "six," Bopp said.

In addition to the equipment and manpower at the main fire station and the Falls Avenue sub-station, the city has three units at the City County airport.

Bopp said by the time the taxpayers purchase $250,000 of new equipment six man crew to man it the five-year operation cost can easily run to a half-million dollars.

Bopp said a new structure in Twin Falls is insured for about $1,000 per $100 on the structure and $1.45 per $100 value on contents. If there were no sprinkler system in the building, with a sprinkler system the insurance costs are reduced about 65 cents on the structure and 45 cents on the contents on each $100 of value, per year. On a $50,000 to $100,000 investment this amounts to a worthwhile annual savings, the chief said.

"While we may not get a call until the building is in flames and smoke coming from the roof, a sprinkler system is a 'no delay' fire control measure," he said.

A new fire alarm system in the new station has further helped reduce insurance costs for companies taking advantage of the service.

Firms may wish smoke detector alarms to a control panel in the new building with firemen and equipment responding immediately when the alarm is sounded.

Sierra Life Insurance amends complaint on T-N

TWIN FALLS — Attorneys for Sierra Life Insurance Company, Twin Falls, have amended their lawsuit to include a charge of negligence against the Times-News.

The 16-page document goes into more detail than the original complaint. It specifically alleges the false nature of some of the 62 articles which the Times-News has published to date, which Sierra alleges to be untrue.

The new complaint departs from the previous charges by adding the charge that "all of the Canal break repaired

ROGERSON — Water in the Salmon River Canal began flowing again Sunday afternoon after a crew of volunteers repaired a break in the canal.

Larry Ragain, manager of the Salmon River Canal Company, said that 13 ranchers and their trucks started hauling gravel from the company's stockpile to fill the hole Saturday afternoon and had the work completed by 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Women at the site Sunday estimated that at least 300 yards of gravel were needed to fill the holes causing the break in the canal on Saturday.

No one knows yet where the water which flowed into the holes went. Ragain said that if the repairs hold, farmers will get their full allotment of water Tuesday.

All unauthorized fences and other enclosures, not utilized by the BLM management program, would be ordered removed. The proposed plan would also require all excavation sites to be restored and all unauthorized dumping sites cleared. The BLM would initiate a program to clean up, rehabilitate and post these dump sites.

All types of withdrawals of National Resource lands would also be reviewed to determine if withdrawals are still necessary and are being used for the original purposes. Inappropriate withdrawals would be revoked.

Other parts of the plan call for a study of all valuable minerals within the area and the maintenance of such minerals for exploration, development and use.

Expanded and improved parking and camping at Mormon Reservoir, better access and sanitary facilities along the Richfield Canal, acquisition of private land around Thorn Creek Reservoir for recreational development and maintaining the Priest Campground on Silver Creek for public fishing access are other provisions.

Public meeting bid on Minidoka agenda

By SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The Minidoka County School Board will be asked this evening to schedule a public meeting to gain in part on school facilities needs.

James Smallwood, architect with Thompson-Kolbo and Associates, Boise, will ask that a meeting be set up soon to gain public views on the district needs in renovating and adding school facilities.

The board has retained Smallwood to make recommendations on priorities concerning capital expenditures for school facilities.

The board will also be asked to give a 30-day extension on completion date of the vocational education building at Minico High School.

Donald Nielson of Idaho Construction Co. earlier asked the school administration for an extension until June 1 for completing the "voced" building because the heating system has not been delivered.

School Supt. Darrell Hatfield said he will also present a resolution for declarations of emergency closure for the four days that Minico High was closed earlier this year. The closures were Dec. 1 and Jan. 13 because of snow, and Feb. 18 through 19 because of furnace problems at the school.

Dr. Hatfield also plans to report on the applications for a new principal at Minico High to replace Glen Maughan. Maughan, who was only four years until retirement as an educator, requested reassignment in March.

Hatfield said he had received 52 inquiries for the position and is narrowing down the applicants. He said he wants direction from the board on when it would like to interview applicants.

Hatfield also is requesting leave for four weeks during the summer to fulfill U.S. Army Reserve commitments.

Hatfield said his first tour of duty in summer encampments is from June 6 to 19 at Fort Sill, Okla., and the second is at the University of Nevada, Reno, from June 27 to July 9.

Hatfield said he will recommend approval of $60 expenses for Kathryn Payne to attend a hot lunch convention in Hawaii. Mrs. Payne, head of the Minidoka County Schools lunch program, has been selected to represent the state at the convention.

"I feel Mrs. Payne has run a very efficient hot lunch program," Hatfield said, "and is deserving of board approval."

The board is also to receive recommendations from principals Gene Snapp and David Gordon, who will head the summer education program for employees on the summer migrant program.

Hatfield said he will also recommend rehiring of five teachers and hiring of four new teachers this evening.

Test hole drilling slated

HAMMETT — The State Water Resources Board has signed a contract with Northern Testing Laboratories, Boise, to begin test hole drilling at Indian Hills today.

The 5,000-acre project is being studied by the Water Resources Board in connection with its pending application to the U.S. Reclamation Bureau for Federal loan funds to aid further development of this Carey Act project.

Stephen Allred, Administrator, Division of Planning, said today that the studies which will be made by Northern Testing Laboratories will include test drilling at both river level and higher plateau elevations. The studies will disclose the type of drainage conditions present and must be completed by July 1.

"We are getting ready to select an engineering consultant firm," Allred said in explaining the further steps which will be taken by the Water Resources Board to bring the project to completion.

Allred said the state is not sitting back waiting for Federal loan funds, but is spending state money to proceed with the planning phase of the project.

Bennett, Timmerman hearings May 25

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — An open house and an informal public hearing are scheduled May 25 to obtain public input on a proposed land use and management program for the Bennett Hills and Timmerman Hills public lands areas.

The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) staff of the Shoshone District is inviting the public to review tentative recommendations for the two planning units. At the open house staff members will explain the area involved and tentative management recommendations. The meeting will be held in the BLM district office in Shoshone from 1 to 4 p.m. An informal hearing will follow at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln County Courthouse in Shoshone.

Charles J. Haszler, district manager, said the staff will discuss in detail with interested persons, any phase of the proposed plan and answer questions on an individual basis.

The Bennett Hills and Timmerman Hills planning units cover a large rectangular area of public lands running east-west between King Hill and Richfield.

The area is bounded on the south by Bliss, Gooding and Shoshone, and on the north by Hill City, Patfield, cutting below Mackay Reservoir and up again to Piacabo on the northeast corner.

National Resource Lands (formerly called public lands) within the two units, will be prepared following a review of public input received in the May 25 and previous hearings. Written comment will be accepted until June 1.

The initial plan calls for revisions and regulations in connection with minerals, grazing, recreation, watershed, big game and other wildlife uses.

BLM calls for retaining 200 acres of land west of Bliss along Interstate 80 North and U.S. 30 for expansion of the community. Bliss and Richfield are the only communities inside of the area of the proposed plan. Other towns are adjacent to the boundaries.

Another 400 acres would be retained for development as recreation sites or for use as refuse disposal areas, according to the plan.

The plan suggests that lands which have high irrigable potential be sold to the public for agricultural use, except for irrigable land which might have higher public use value.

Utility corridors would be designated for expansion along existing systems, and a communication site on Davis Mountain would be retained, according to the plan. A future communication site is designated for Johnson Hill.

Protection costly

Kimberly — A high school prank proved costly to a Kimberly man.

Dennis Crumbliss, 19, has been fined $100 on charges of destruction of public property and $50 for trespassing as the result of an attempt to paint class numerals on the Kimberly City water tank.

Crumbliss pleaded guilty in magistrate court late Friday to charges of trespassing and damaging public property. He was also assessed court costs of $7.50 on each charge.

Kimberly police officers arrested Crumbliss earlier in the week. Four juveniles, ages 16 to 17, were also apprehended in connection with the same incident. The juveniles were reprimanded and released to their parents. No charges were filed.

Kimberly police said Crumbliss climbed to the tower and was in the process of repainting the large "72" currently lettered on the tower.

Police Chief James Campbell said only Crumbliss climbed to the top of the tower and the four juveniles waited on the ground. He said the tower is extremely dangerous for climbing; a slip could mean a serious injury. The tower is about 100 feet above the ground.

Dedication set Friday

RUPERT — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will dedicate a gymnasium at the Idaho Youth Ranch in Rupert at 2 p.m. on Friday, May 21. An open house for inspection of the gym will be held from noon to 5 p.m. on May 21.

TF hospital to participate

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital is one of more than 450 hospitals in the U.S. participating in a postgraduate educational television program.

During a two-week period, which began May 10, nearly 25,000 physicians around the country are expected to view the program which deals with anaerobes, a bacteria which can live without oxygen.

The video-cassette program entitled "Medical/Surgical Rounds: Anaerobic and Mixed Aerobic/Anaerobic Infections," was produced by the Network for Continuing Medical Education.

Debate first reported

RUPERT — Calvin H. Short, Rupert, recently won first place in the American Issues Tournament debate held at Eastern Washington State College in Cheney, Wash. Short was a member of a two-person team which was the only team in the tournament open division to go undefeated.

TF police probe thefts

TWIN FALLS — The reported theft of several guns from a Twin Falls residence was being investigated today by Twin Falls police.

Burton Webb told police Sunday that several firearms were taken from a back bedroom of his residence at 1725 3rd Ave. East.

Webb reported the guns taken between noon Saturday and 11 p.m. Sunday. He reported the value of the guns at about $1,200.

Public hearing set tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Department of Health and Welfare will hold a public hearing, at 7:30 tonight at South Central District Health Department here.

Ulisse Pardin, health planning supervisor for the state health and welfare department, said his department is holding six public meetings throughout the state to discuss planning for health services, manpower and facilities.

Representatives of the state health and welfare department will describe activities the department has planned to initiate the federal Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974.

DOWNHOME

Orphan mustangs find new homes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A pair of wild mustangs orphaned at birth in the parched Nevada desert are enroute to new homes in Illinois and New Hampshire.

"A man found their mothers down," Mrs. Velma (Wild Horse Annie) Johnson said. "The range is so poor and they were in such poor shape that they died giving birth. He found the mother down and the little thing beside it."

The little horses leave behind, according to Bureau of Land Management estimates, 2,000 free mustangs and 3,500 cattle competing for a dwindling supply of natural feed in the Stone Cabin-Valley of central Nevada.

A western drought and too many animals have nearly depleted the Indian River, Gallego, and Needle and Thread grasses which sprout each spring and are covered forage for horses and range cattle in the 600,000 acre valley.

Mike Mitchell, BLM wild horse specialist stationed in Battle Mountain, Nev., says the grasses usually carry mustangs and cattle through mid-summer. But already the livestock have been forced to turn to brush—the Shad Scenic, Four Wing and Salt Bush—vegetation that browsing animals usually don't need until late July and August when the grasses curl under the blazing sun.

In fact, the sparse feed situation is hitting hard throughout the 11 western states. The situation has brought defenders of the free range horses, government land managers and cattlemen into uneasy agreement—that they must take joint action or lose the valuable range land.

The BLM estimates 50,000 free horses roam the West. The figure is considered much too high by defenders of the mustang, but they too agree that the wild horses, whatever their actual number, have proliferated to the point that they must be thinned on some open ranges along with a proportionate number of cattle.

And so Las Vegas fireman Thomas Warr was commissioned last year to take 400 of the Stone Cabin Valley mustangs off the range and the ranchers were instructed to reduce their herd in the area.

The government, through the Reno-based Wild Horse Organize Assistance (WHOA) founded by Wild Horse Annie, puts the captured horses up for custodial adoption. Mustangs trapped by authorities are free to persons willing to take care of them under provisions of the 1971 Wild Horses and Burros Act, but ownership is retained by the federal government.

The animals cannot be sold or given away by their new masters.

Annie says 230 Stone Cabin Valley mustangs were caught in water-hole fence traps last year by Warr and all were adopted. One even went to a family as far away as Long Island, N.Y. WHOA has more than 600 applications for the 170 horses scheduled to be captured this spring, she said.

Included are the two baby orphan horses traveling east with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Cushman and their daughter, Kyle, 12 of Cambridge, N.H.

Mrs. Cushman, a member of the New Hampshire legislature, said she had been on WHOA's adoption list for more than a year. When she heard about the orphans the family booked a two-horse trailer to their pickup and started the 2,500 mile trek to Nevada.

They picked up their mustangs, a 2-week-old stud colt and a 4-week-old filly, on May 10 and started the week-long trip home, stopping every three or four hours to feed the younger horse with a quart milk bottle topped with a nipple.

"We'll keep the filly," Mrs. Cushman said. "We plan to drop the colt off to Beisy Parks in Princeton, Ill., who has been on WHOA's adoption list for a long time too." The BLM estimates that Nevada has 20,000 horses on the open range; New Mexico—7,500; Oregon, 5,265 and Wyoming 4,411. California has about 3,000; Utah 1,000; Colorado and Idaho about 500 each; Montana 300 and Arizona about 100.

Stockmen and some government officials fear current efforts to keep herd populations down is not enough: They say the horses are using up stored resources built over many years. It could take decades to rebuild the damage. The problem is how many unbranded horses and burros are too many. And how can their populations be humanely controlled.

"Nevertheless," the adoption process is making a lot of people happy.

Candy Hennessy, 14, of Elk Grove, Calif., has always said going with her little mustang filly, "Blue Dawn," captured last November in a water trap on the Nevada range.

"She's a little bit small," says Candy, "but she might be a jumper-some day. I can't ride her until she's older, but I go out and see her and stuff — brush her out and pat her. She's beautiful."

"Nevertheless," the adoption process is making a lot of people happy.

Candy Hennessy, 14, of Elk Grove, Calif., has always said going with her little mustang filly, "Blue Dawn," captured last November in a water trap on the Nevada range.

"She's a little bit small," says Candy, "but she might be a jumper-some day. I can't ride her until she's older, but I go out and see her and stuff — brush her out and pat her. She's beautiful."

Dam sites on Owyhee stir fears

ONTARIO, Ore. (UPI)—Concern over possible future use of two spots on the Owyhee River for irrigation dams was voiced Thursday night in a public hearing on a proposal to place 170-miles of the river in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

Malheur County Judge Roy Hiral, speaking for irrigation interests, asked the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to leave the river alone so that dams could be built at Duncan Ferry and Three Forks if they are needed.

The same opinion was expressed by two members of the Owyhee Irrigation District: Hal Hentgen, a Kenna attorney and Tom Cotton of Caldwell, Idaho.

Hentgen also objected to a portion of the federal-state study on the proposal that said a dam at Duncan Ferry was not economically feasible.

"The state highway department had demanded a $4 million road in connection with the dam. That made the whole project unsound," he said.

Also present at the hearing, which was attended by about 20 persons, was Mrs. S. Hogue of Wells, Nev.

Stock buyer enjoined

WASHINGTON — Carl Robbins, operator of R.C. Cattle Co., Logan, Utah, has been permanently enjoined by a federal court from further violations of the registration and bonding requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

Robbins purchases livestock throughout northern Utah, southern Idaho, and western Wyoming. He has now completed with the registration and bonding requirements.

The U.S. District Court for the District of Utah, Northern Division, permanently enjoined Robbins from operating as a market agency or dealer without being registered and maintaining a reasonable bond.

Africa's Kalahari Desert covers more than 100,000 square miles, from South Africa to Botswana and Namibia, or South-West Africa. During a mass trek of South African settlers to Angola in the 1870s, hundreds of people and thousands of cattle perished of thirst in the Kalahari.

We'll be in our new house soon now. It's a move we've worked and planned for, over a period of six or seven years. We did more than plan... we've been saving.

The money we saved in our First Federal account each month, together with our profit from the sale of our first house, gave us enough for the down payment on our new home. We even had enough left over for landscaping!

No, it wasn't easy to save, but it sure was worth it in the end. Our First Federal account earns 5 1/4% interest... and whenever we build up $1,000 over our basic savings account, we put it in a higher-interest Certificate account.

We're going to have our new home several years sooner... because we've been saving.

WARRIORS Rick Barry is dumped on his backside after a rebound attempt in the final game of the NBA western division playoffs. Suns Curtie Perry runs down court past the sprawling Barry. The Suns went on to upset the defending NBA champions 94-86. (UPI/tele)

Upset

Suns upset Warriors for NBA western division title

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Phoenix Suns, led by old pro Paul Westphal and Garfield Heard along with rookie-of-the-year Alvan Adams, scored the biggest upset of the NBA playoffs Sunday by whipping the defending champion Golden State Warriors 94-86 to win the Western Conference title.

The Suns shot close to 50 per cent in the second half while the Warriors made good on only 39.9 per cent. In the first half the two clubs were close with Golden State holding an edge of less than one per cent with 13.

Golden State, with Rick Barry and Charles Johnson doing most of the scoring, raced off to a 26-22 lead in the opening quarter, but Johnson ran into foul trouble in the second quarter and did not score a point while the Suns, playing coolly and making the most of their opportunities, finished the half trailing by only six.

Johnson played sporadically while Heard and Westphal got hot to boost the Suns in front. The Warriors went ahead by a point, 59-58, early in the final period but then started missing shots, rebounds and passes to fall behind and never again got close as time ticked away on the defending champions.

Barry, held scoreless in the third quarter, finished with 20 points to lead Golden State while Phil Smith had 18.

Celtics whip Cavaliers, grab 3-2 lead in NBA East series

BOSTON (UPI) — Injured John Havlicek, benched until the final shot, sank two free throws with 11 seconds left Sunday to give the Boston Celtics a 99-94 nationally televised win over the Cleveland Cavaliers and a 3-2 lead in their NBA Eastern Conference series.

The teams play Game No. 6 Tuesday night in Cleveland and will return to Boston Friday. If necessary, for the final contest of the best-of-seven series.

Cleveland held its last lead with three minutes left, 86-85, on the last two of Campy Russell's 17 points.

But Dave Cowens hit two free throws and a pair of baskets and Charlie Scott added a pair of foul shots as Boston opened a 93-88 lead. Jim Cleamons, scoring 12 of his 18 points in the final period, got the only Cavalier basket in that run.

John Lambert, inserted after Nate Thurmond fouled out with 5:03 remaining, hit two baskets to pull the Cavs within one, 93-92. Then Paul Silas Upped in a rebound with 24 seconds to put Boston on top 95-92.

Austin Carr scored with 15 seconds remaining before Havlicek, running on a sore left arch, was fouled by Cleamons with 11 seconds remaining.

The 14-year Boston veteran coolly converted both free throws for his only points in the game, bringing the home crowd to its feet, and Jo Jo White added two more foul shots with four seconds remaining.

Cowens, moving to the outside for more shooting room, paced all scorers with 26 points. Charlie Scott added 22, while White had 17 and Don Nelson 15. Boston's lead was 15-10 at the end of the first quarter, which missed three key free throws early in the fourth quarter, finished with 13 points. Carr had 10.

The Cavs also were unable to convert on three technical foul shots during the game, two of them called on Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn. Heinsohn was ejected after the second call by referee Richie Powers at 11:01 of the third period.

Assistant Coach John Killilea took over the team, with an assist at the start of the fourth period from general manager Red Auerbach. It was Killilea who put Havlicek into the lineup when Thurmond fouled out for Cleveland.

It was Cleveland's lone technical, called on Thurmond as he fouled out, that started the Cavaliers on their demise.

Trevino wins Colonial, ends dry spell

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Lee Trevino took advantage of a lucky bounce on the 16th hole, ran in a birdie putt and survived a head-to-head duel with Mike Morley Sunday to win the $200,000 Colonial National Invitational—his first tour win in 14 months and his first ever on home soil.

one challenger after another falling off the pace, shot a three-egg-par-73 Sunday for a 72-hole total of seven-under 273 over the always-difficult Colonial Country Club course.

Morley, 29, was paired with Trevino for the final round and he caught and passed Trevino on the back nine. But Morley could not produce the spectacular shot that could have put him away and settled for a round of 69 and a six-under 274.

The turning point came at the par-3 16th, where Trevino's tee shot started toward the right side of the green and two imposing bunkers. But the ball bounced off a slope alongside the traps, kicked straight left and finished only 12 feet from the pin. Trevino then ran in the putt for a two to break a deadlock with Morley and move in front for good.

Trevino won $40,000 and Morley, who has never won in his six-year tour career, picked up a $22,800 second place check.

four tour starts in Texas.

And for a brief while it appeared Trevino, who claims to be in his prime but as he did in big years early in this decade, would be frustrated again.

Although he opened with a three-shot lead Sunday, he began playing overcautiously and after making a double bogey at the seventh hole, his lead was reduced to two shots over Morley.

In the meantime, most of his other challengers were involved in a self-destruction project. January double-bogeyed the sixth hole

Jimmy Connors wins Las Vegas Classic

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, a tennis millionaire at 23, added another title Sunday by winning the $150,000 Las Vegas Classic, 6-1, 6-3, over 41-year-old Ken Rosewall.

Connors earned $30,000 first prize money and collected a new car. Rosewall took home $15,000.

Rosewall kept his sense of humor, saying, "That's a fourth motor car Jimmy's won from me. I'll just have to take the taxi, I guess."

Connors needed only 1 hour 45 minutes to put Rosewall away. In the first set, Connors won the final four games. In the match, Connors broke Rosewall's serve five times while losing his own once.

"I like to play Rosewall," Connors said. "It's exciting to be on the same court with a player like him. He was playing Wimbledon when I was born."

"Against Rosewall, you don't have to watch him until the last point."

Asked about the possibility of more challenge matches in Las Vegas, Connors replied, "There are a lot of possibilities." He then mentioned the names of Bjorn Borg and Arthur Ashe.

Connors never has lost a singles match in Las Vegas—three of them challenge matches. He won five matches in straight sets in his Las Vegas Classic debut.

"I like the atmosphere here," he said. "I'm treated very well and I like all the aspects of the town."

More drivers make list for Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Mike Mosley, a once-retired race driver-on-the-comeback trail, led qualifiers Sunday for the Indianapolis 500, leaving only 10 positions open for the million-dollar Memorial Day classic.

None of Sunday's 14 qualifiers came close to the speed of nearly 189 miles per hour for Johnny Rutherford, who gained the pole position for the second time Saturday when nine cars qualified.

But two rookies, including Australia's Vern Schemm, nailed down starting positions and Mosley's speed of 187.588 was the third fastest of the weekend.

Bobby Unser, last year's race winner, qualified second fastest Sunday at 187.520 and another Speedway veteran, Roger McCluskey, was third best at 186.500.

The first 23 qualifiers averaged 183.862, two miles slower than last year.

The field will be completed next weekend, with the 33 fastest cars starting the race.

Bobby Olivero, another Californian, was the first rookie to qualify, at a speed of 180.288.

Other Sunday qualifiers, in order of their speeds were: Johnny Parsons, 182.843; John Martin, 182.417; Dick Simon, 182.347; Schuppman, 182.011; Bill Putterbaugh, 182.003; Gary Bettenhausen, 181.791; Bill Simpson, 180.406; Jan Opperman, 180.045; Tom Bigelow, 179.991; and Jim McEneaney, 179.122.

The track was closed for about an hour because of rain showers before Simon made the last of the Sunday qualifying runs.

Unser, who blew an engine while trying to qualify Saturday, Martin and Schuppman made the field on their second attempt.

Mosley, who twice wrecked in the 500, announced his retirement several months ago and then changed his mind to qualify for his ninth Speedway race. McCluskey qualified for his 15th, Unser for his 14th and McEneaney for his 12th.

An estimated 28,000 fans watched Sunday's trials.

Sue Roberts records LPGA win

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Veteran Sue Roberts, winning her first tournament in more than a year, Sunday fired a two-under-par 70 to capture the $45,000 American Defender Golf Classic by a stroke.

Roberts, leader of the interrupted first round and second after Saturday's second round, had a 54-hole total of 211 to earn the $5,400 prize.

"I'm glad I didn't have to go into a playoff," she said. "I've never been in a playoff."

A shot back were LPGA Hall-of-famer Kathy Whitworth with a 70, defending champion JoAnne Carner with a 68, third-year pro Hollis Stacy with a 68 and Californian Carole Joe Skala with a 71.

Betty Burfeindt, a New York native now living in California, had an even-par 72 and also interrupted the first round of the winning pace, over the 6,193-yard North Ridge Country Club course.

Second round leader M.J. Smith, a New Zealander who celebrated her 24th birthday two days ago, skied to a 75 and finished with a 214 total, a stroke ahead of Mickey Wright, an LPGA Hall-of-Famer who closed with a 74.

Amy Alcott, last year's LPGA Rookie of the Year, posted a final round 73 and was in a group at 216.

Bunched at 217 were leading money winner Judy Rankin, closing at 74 and Jan Stephenson, rumpier up at the Women's International week.

She finished the first round with a 73.

Roberts, a 27-year-old native of Oak Park, Ill., who makes her home now in West Palm Beach, Fla., started the first round two strokes off the pace and birdied three of the first four holes.

She seemed to be running away with the tournament before making a bogey on the par-4 fifth hole where she threeputted.

Mets and Reds split pair

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cesar Geronimo and Dave Concepcion drove home seven runs between them to lead the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-1 victory over New York in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday after the Mets won the opener 7-5.

Don Gullett picked up his third victory against two losses but needed help from Pat Darcy, who hit his neck stiffened during a 45-minute rain delay after five innings.

The Reds scored six of their runs, including three in the first inning off Craig Swan. Sacrifices flies by Mike Lum and Geronimo accounted for the first two and Concepcion doubled home the third. The Reds added three more runs in the fifth when Geronimo tripped home two and then scored on a Concepcion single.

A bases-loaded single by Concepcion off Hank Webb carried for the Reds' last two runs.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 18, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can now think in terms of what you most want of a personal nature; it would be wise to use some spare time for this. Got in touch with friends and work together for mutual wishes that lead to happiness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over ambitions with good friends and influential persons and they show you how to gain them. Accept social invitations.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get in touch early with persons who can assist you with vocational, public and cultural affairs. Handle credit matters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have excellent ideas so you can expand where your finest interests are concerned. Make the right contacts toward such ends.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle obligations and they are soon behind you. Try to please your attachment and have greater rapport. Discuss finances.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listening to what associates with unique ideas have to suggest brings fine results if you cooperate with them. Do civic work.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Persevere in handling work and you get it done quickly, gaining benefits therefrom. Take health treatments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get together with good friends for recreation. Don't neglect to get some important work done first. Show mate more loyalty.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Do something to make those who dwell with you much happier. Stop criticizing them. Entertain at home in evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get information needed to operate more successfully in future. Take time for amusement that will relieve tensions; make you happier.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can have greater success now if you use a more up-to-date system; moderate your appearance, also. Improve budget.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get into whatever is of an intimate, personal vein early and accomplish a good deal along such lines. Enjoy recreation.

PIGSES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get into plans to make the future more successful. Concentrate on what you do best. Show your true love.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she, will be liked by others because of an innate liking for others, a desire to be helpful to everyone, and a knack for solving problems. Encourage this cooperative spirit early. Slant education for personnel, government, or charitable and philosophical work; for both results throughout the lifetime, which can be long and most successful trusty.

The old liquor drinking traditions of the Papago Indians in southern Arizona are gone now. Those people no longer gather once a year to get drunk in a special rain-making ceremony. They used to do that, though. And their custom called for them to stomp the soles of their feet with bright hues, so that when they fell over, the ceremonial grounds would be spotted with color.

The professional chef refers to his stove as his "plano." The official state mineral of Missouri is fool's gold. Truman Capote has never received a rejection slip. . . Venetian blinds in Italy are called Persian blinds. . . Pay tolls in public places are outlawed in Iowa.

JUNESQUE
Q. "Why are well-upholstered women sometimes described as 'Junesque'?"
A. That alludes to the goddess of marriage and fertility, Juno, who generally was depicted as full-figured. It was supposed to be the way for a fetching girl to look around A.D. 264. At that time, in fact, slender young ladies purposely were fattened up for festivals.

You've seen films of sharks waving their heads from side to side as they swim. What their heads is sniffing. As they hunt, they rely on their sense of smell. They constantly check which nostril is getting the strongest odor by that head waving.

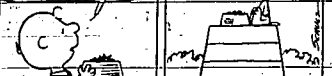

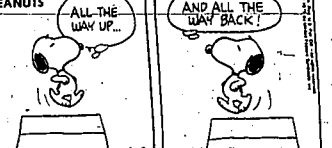

BLIND DOG FUND
Don't believe I ever told you about the Blind Dog Fund. In some English pubs, there's a quaint custom called "atten". Barkeeps there are not allowed under the law to serve drinks after the official closing hours in the afternoon and late evening. They are allowed under the law, however, to entertain friends. If checked out by the police after closing, the barman keeps can defend themselves simply by stating the first and last names of all the persons who still happen to be on the premises. As for that Blind Dog Fund, it's a special dish into which the after-hours customers put the equivalent cost of the drink they're having. One or another of those customers on any given day holds the office of "barman" and it's his "barman's duty" to identify the particular blind dog for which the money is collected. He's likely to say: "We're planning ahead just in case one of our dogs goes blind." That raconteur Chas L. Switell told me about it.

DOONESBURY

Radio 'og' fouls appearance

LONGMONT, Colo. (UPI) — Misuse of a Citizens Band radio, the latest "in"-thing among fact-free Americans, may have contributed to the death of a retired Denver police sergeant.

Cecil Curtis, known as "Loneseam Cecil" or "L.C.," to his CB friends, had a history of heart trouble and retired last October after 21 years on the force. On May 7, Curtis suffered an attack in the living room of his rural Longmont home.

Mrs. Windsor said the FCC could not conduct an investigation into the Curtis incident because an official may have contributed to the "and even if we could, it probably wouldn't do any good. There's almost no way we could find out who threw the carrier. But if we could, the penalties are most severe."

Fire permit law in force

TWIN FALLS — Closed fire season begins May 10 in all areas of Idaho outside cities.

Gordon Trombley, Idaho Department of Lands director, says after this date it is unlawful to burn on forest or range lands without a burning permit.

"Burning permits, when conditions are safe, can be obtained from the offices of the Department of Lands, U. S. Forest Service, Bureau of Animal Management and the Idaho Department of Agriculture."

Radio 'og' fouls appearance

LONGMONT, Colo. (UPI) — Misuse of a Citizens Band radio, the latest "in"-thing among fact-free Americans, may have contributed to the death of a retired Denver police sergeant.

Cecil Curtis, known as "Loneseam Cecil" or "L.C.," to his CB friends, had a history of heart trouble and retired last October after 21 years on the force. On May 7, Curtis suffered an attack in the living room of his rural Longmont home.

Mrs. Windsor said the FCC could not conduct an investigation into the Curtis incident because an official may have contributed to the "and even if we could, it probably wouldn't do any good. There's almost no way we could find out who threw the carrier. But if we could, the penalties are most severe."

Fire permit law in force

TWIN FALLS — Closed fire season begins May 10 in all areas of Idaho outside cities.

Gordon Trombley, Idaho Department of Lands director, says after this date it is unlawful to burn on forest or range lands without a burning permit.

"Burning permits, when conditions are safe, can be obtained from the offices of the Department of Lands, U. S. Forest Service, Bureau of Animal Management and the Idaho Department of Agriculture."
