Syrians invade Lebanon, demand end to civil war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Several thousand Syrian troops spearheaded by 200 tanks invaded eastern Lebanon today with an ultimatum to warring Moslem and Christian factions to surrender or be captured. Most surrendered without a fight, but the Syrians captured two Palestinian guerrilla units.

The invasion was Syrian President Hafez Assad's second operation in 24 hours to impose peace on Lebanon, torn by 14 months of civil war. A force of about 2,000 Syrian troops with 50 tanks moved into northeastern Lebanon Monday night and lifted a leftist siege of two Christian villages.

(Israeli officials said in Jerusalem they are watching developments in Lebanon but they refused to comment on Syria's large-scale intervention. There were no signs of any Israeli military preparations although Israel warned months ago that Syrian intervention could mean a new Middle East war.)

Both Palestinian and Christian spokesman said between 2,000 and 4,000 Syrian troops had 200 tanks crossed the border at 10 p.m. and moved west through the Bekaa Valley to within 4 miles of Zahlé, 30 miles east of Beirut, where they halted in the afternoon.

Rightist spokesman said they complied with the Syrian order to surrender or give up their positions, but a Palestinian spokesman said two guerrilla units were captured after they refused the ultimatum. Others apparently fell back before the advancing Syrians.

Lebanese and Palestinian leaders met in hurried council in Beirut to consider the new crisis and leftist sources said a decision whether to accept the ultimatum or — "declare a general mobilization against the Syrian invasion" would be taken.

Today's invasion coincided with the arrival in Beirut of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin. Diplomatic sources said Kosygin was displeased about the invasion but that the 3 a.m. move to increase Syrian influence in Lebanon was carried out before his plane arrived in Damascus.

VIEWS VARY ON IMPACT OF DEFAULT

TWIN FALLS — The Potato Growers of Idaho (PGI) and a Twin Falls brokerage firm disagree on what impact last week's default on Maine potato futures will have on Idaho.

A week ago, 99 contracts for a total of 50 million pounds of potatoes fell into default when no potatoes or money for the contracts appeared on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

As a result of the default, general manager of the PGI says Idaho potato growers have a reduced opportunity to protect their potatoes from wild fluctuations in market price.

Because of the massive default on Maine potato contracts, the New York Mercantile Exchange (NYME) has limited the amount of potato contracts which now can be sold on the exchange.

Begiming today, the NYME instituted a new trading policy which is aimed at reducing speculation on potato futures.

The new regulations are designed to end speculation on potatoes which do not actually exist.

According to Gerald Murphy, general manager of the PGI, the new regulations and the default will lead to "a reduction of confidence in futures trading."

But according to Ed Smith, Hornblower and Weeks Twin Falls brokerage firm, the results of the default will not drastically reduce confidence in future trading.

It is difficult to tell what the effects of the default will be, Smith commented, until the decisions about policies are made.

"The May contract has 12 months to go before maturity," Smith added. "That should provide enough time to restore any confidence that has been lost over the weekend."

He said that it is out-of-place to ridicule the exchange over such a default. "It is up to the client to initiate liquidation," he added. "And not the exchange."

Clean air appeal accepted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether the Environmental Protection Agency can force a state to set up an air pollution control system for private vehicles.

Under the Clean Air Act, the EPA issues standards of its own for states which have submitted plans deemed unsatisfactory.

The 4th and 5th U.S. Circuit Courts of Appeals have held that the act does not authorize EPA to compel states to pass laws and finance programs to carry out the government's substitute, although EPA itself could proceed with enforcement.

The circuits thus avoided what they saw as a serious constitutional question involving the power of Congress to tell the states what laws to enact.

EPA told the Supreme Court if it cannot compel state enforcement of federal programs, the air pollution caused by motor vehicles will remain substantially uncontrolled, since the agency does not have the funds or personnel to do the job itself.

Court rejects Wyoming appeal from poison ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today rejected a claim by Wyoming and its sheep growers that the government made a procedural mistake in 1972 when it banned three poisons used against coyotes and other predators.

In a brief order the justices denied an appeal from a 2-1 decision in the government's favor by the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The case now goes back to U.S. District Judge Ewing T. Kerr of Cheyenne for consideration of other aspects of the growers' complaints.

The state and the industry contend that the Environmental Protection Agency should have accompanied its ban with the kind of environmental impact statement required of all government agencies when taking a major action.

But the 10th Circuit said EPA's activities necessarily concern the environment and it "need not stop in the middle of its proceedings in order to issue a separate and distinct Impact statement just to be issuing it."

The opinion said it was not deciding whether the agency "is forever and under all circumstances exempt" from this duty but only that it need not have done so in this case.

The Circuit Court noted that EPA had the help of the so-called "Cain Report," a study of predator control prepared by a committee sponsored by the Interior Department and the Council on Environmental Quality. This material could serve the same purpose as an environmental impact statement, the opinion said.

It emphasized that the merits of the ban itself were not at issue.

The Cain Report said the poison program, although administered by the federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, primarily served sheep-growers. It recommended repellents and live trapping among other alternatives, and a federally-based insurance program as less protection.

Desert plan stirs controversy

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A new generation of pioneers wants to transform more than a square miles of desert west of Salmon Falls Creek into lush agricultural land.

Their controversial plan would expand the Twin Falls irrigation tract to the west as originally envisioned 70 years ago by Twin Falls founder L.B. Perrine.

The developers, Canyon View Irrigation Inc., plan to siphon water across the 400-foot-deep Salmon Falls Creek-Canyon to change more than 20,000 acres of the sagebrush infested fields of potatoes and other crops.

According to Dick Kerbs, Canyon View president, the company has purchased enough Snake River water rights to turn the desert green.

Company water rights, some with priority dates as early as 1895, entitle the company to 92 cubic feet per second of Snake River natural water flow and about 16,000 acre-feet of storage space in three reservoirs, according to John Howorth, Canyon View attorney.

Canyon View's plan is to transport the water from the Snake River at Milner Dam through 80 miles of the Twin Falls Canal Company's canal system to the Salmon Falls Creek gorge, he says.

Canyon View plans to build a $1-million "siphon" across the gorge which will connect with its own proposed canal system, Kerbs says.

First of a series

The $500,000 proposed canal system would distribute the water to the desert land, he adds.

Canyon View proposes to transport its purchased water through Twin Falls' canal system at a rate of .300 cubic feet per second, a rate which will, in some narrower canal sections, raise the water level beyond canal capacity.

Canyon View has hired U-B Engineers, Inc., who say they have determined a way to increase the canal system's capacity where necessary.

Engineer Bill Block says U-B has developed two ways to increase the capacity of Twin Falls' canal system.

The first alternative is to add earth to the downhill bank of the canal, making the bank higher and thicker (see diagram, p. 18).

This method could be used on the upstream part of the High Line Canal where the canal is narrow enough to hold additional water without highfilling Block.

This method might also be used on some downstream portions of Twin Falls' Main Line Canal, he says.

The second alternative is to cut into the uphill bank of the canal to broaden it and add volume (see diagram).

KING CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Favorable winds helped fire fighters to contain a 12,000-acre blaze burning through dry brushland in the Los Padres National Forest along the Central California coast.

The winds were expected to remain moderate and the army of 1,000 fire fighters on the lines would close a four-mile-long gap in their circle around the blaze by nightfall.

Church may score primary gains today

By United Press International

President Ford and Ronald Reagan were expected to break even in today's Montana, Rhode Island and South Dakota primaries while other candidates fought to beat front-runner Democrat Jimmy Carter in the three states.

For candidates in both parties, the three primaries were just a warmup for next week's show-down in Ohio, New Jersey and California where one-third of the delegates needed to win the Republican and Democratic nominations will be selected.

Since there were only 56 Democratic delegates at stake today, Carter still will be the big frontrunner. But he could suffer psychologically if liberals Frank Church and Morris Udall beat him in two or all three of the contests.

Church was assured of winning Montana, and was presiding Carter in Rhode Island. Udall stood a chance of winning his first primary in South Dakota.

Carter has lost five of the last nine primaries — three of them to two California Gov. Jerry Brown Jr. The former Georgia governor cut short his weekend to launch a primary-eve blitz in Rhode Island and South Dakota.

Reagan and Ford virtually have ignored the three states. Ford was favored in Rhode Island, South Dakota was a tossup and Montana was expected to go for Reagan.

As of today, Ford held an edge in delegates of 794 to 650 for Reagan, with 1,130 needed to:

nominate.

Carter has won 17 primaries and is far ahead with 85 of the 1,156 delegates needed to win the Democratic nomination. Udall was second with 301.

Carter remained optimistic about his chances as he campaigned Sunday and Monday in Rhode Island and made a stop also in South Dakota on his way to California.

He called Rhode Island a key state but said, "There's no cause for concern."

"I have a good chance to win Rhode Island," Carter said. "I would be disappointed and surprised if we should lose here."

But Carter declined to make a similar prediction for South Dakota and Montana. The Georgian, who has not fared well in the West, said he hopes for a "reasonable showing" in both states.

Carter expressed gratitude to Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., for firing two aides who had been active in a "stop Carter" campaign. The senator recalled the "stop McGovern" movements of four years ago and said that "to try and stop someone is a mistake, whether it would be myself or someone else" this late in a campaign.

Both McGovern and South Dakota's junior senator, James Abourezk, favor Udall in their state's primary but McGovern has made no general endorsement.

In Rhode Island, where 22 Democratic delegates were at stake, Carter faced both Church and Brown, who was not on the ballot but:

has campaigned hard for an uncommitted slate. Udall was given a chance to win in South Dakota after a saturation campaign that kept him in the state host of the past four days. The state will elect 17 delegates and has no beauty contest.

"Watch me tomorrow night," Udall said campaigning in Cleveland. "I think I'm going to win in South Dakota and that will give our campaign a boost."

Udall said he hopes to put his supporters together with those of Sen. Harry Jackson, now an inactive candidate, into a coalition that could win the Democratic nomination. He also said he would win in Ohio next week.

Ford was considered a top-heavy favorite in Rhode Island and had a chance to pick up all of the 19 delegates. The battle for South Dakota's 20 delegates was considered a tossup.

Montana Republicans were holding a non-binding "beauty contest" primary and Reagan, considered strong in the western states, was favored. The state's 19 delegates will be elected at a convention the last weekend in June.

Memorial Day road death figure exceeds estimates

By United Press International

The death toll from wallowing times of service stations and the return of long lines of holiday traffic on the nation's highways helped push the Memorial Day weekend toll past preliminary estimates.

The death toll for the 78-hour holiday weekend climbed past the 400 mark Monday night as holiday revelers headed home. Ten highway-bound travelers were killed in two separate plane crashes in Illinois Monday night.

A United Press International nationwide count showed 411 persons dead in traffic accidents during the three-day weekend that began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ended at midnight Monday.

The National Safety Council had estimated between 340 and 400 persons could die in traffic mishaps during the holiday period. A breakdown of accidental deaths:

Traffic	411
Drowning	56
Planes	19
Total	466

reported no traffic fatalities.

California reported 55 traffic deaths, Michigan had 95; New York, 24; Florida, 10; Ohio, 17; and Texas, 14. Four states — Alaska, Delaware, North Dakota and South Dakota — matched during the holiday period.

Kent Milton, California Highway Patrol spokesman, said the state's death toll of well over half a billion reflected a resumption of heavy traffic flow after the gasoline-shortage years, the occurrence of multiple-death accidents, and a disregard of the still existing 55 mile per hour speed limit.

"In 1974 and 1975, traffic was down because of the shortage, especially in 1974," Milton said. "But now we're back to the 1973 level of traffic or above. So I sure we're seeing that in relation to Memorial Day — the increase in traffic."

"The third reason is more speed. People are ignoring the 55 m.p.h. speed limit."

A Michigan State Police dispatcher said bad weather may have helped keep the death toll down.

"Normally, when the weather is bad and the roads are bad there aren't as many fatalities," he said.

late July or early August, possibly in the Virgin Islands. Among initial planning to participate were France, the United Kingdom, West Germany, Italy, Japan, plus Canada which was not at Ramboville.

The President spent a quiet Memorial Day playing tribute to the nation's war dead at a ceremony in Arlington National Cemetery. He also worked in the Oval Office and relaxed on the golf course.

On the political front, Ford was keeping track of the primaries today in Montana, Rhode Island and South Dakota. He telephoned supporters in Rhode Island Monday to urge them to "work hard" (or his election).

A White House advance team was to leave today to schedule Ford appearances in Ohio and possibly New Jersey, next weekend in a last campaign effort before the grand finale primaries of June 8.

Ford books reform meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford plans to break from politics before the Republicans' national convention in August to meet with other Western leaders to discuss the economy and monetary reform.

Deputy White House press secretary John Carlson confirmed Monday the United States is conducting exploratory conversations with the governments involved for a summit gathering.

He said it would be "a continuation of the Rambouillet summit," held outside Paris last fall, which reached agreement for monitoring currency changes and coordinating monetary fluctuations.

Participants agreed then to hold more meetings from time to time.

"After the details have been worked out there will be a formal announcement," Carlson said. Other sources said the meeting may be held in

Holiday traffic kills 9 in Idaho

By United Press International

Idaho drivers racked up one of the worst traffic fatalities in Memorial Day history.

Nine persons died on Gen-

State highways — six in two separate accidents, including four Utah residents and two from Washington.

David Gordan Labrie, 26, and his wife, Christine, 23, of Newman Lake, Wash., were killed when their car left the road Saturday afternoon one-half mile north of Avery and plunged into the St. Joe River.

The accident was discovered Sunday.

State police said the body of Mrs. Labrie was recovered Monday but a search still was in progress for her husband's 20-year-old son.

The four Utahans who died in a single car accident in Fremont County were Eugene B. Thomas, 50, his wife, Joyce, 52, and Gerhard Dillmann, 65, and his wife, Dagmar, 61, all Salt Lake City.

Officers said the Thomas car plunged into a canal 1½ miles northeast of St. Anthony. The two couples were reported missing overnight Saturday by relatives in Teton City.

Deputy Sheriff Terry

Gardner said the car hit the canal bridge and flipped into about 10 feet of water.

In other holiday weekend traffic fatalities:

Bernardo Cordova, 38,

Middleton, was killed Sunday when a car driven by his wife, Maria, 23, hit a parked semitrailer at Greenleaf. The woman was in critical condition at a Caldwell hospital.

Robert Glen Leonard,

Pottatch, died when his motorcycle collided with a four-wheel drive vehicle on a forest service road.

Robert Banfill, 45, Boise, was killed when his four-wheel-drive vehicle struck a soft spot on Idaho 103, three miles north of Gardena.

Purchase advised

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's top defense administrator today told a parliamentary committee investigating the Lockheed scandal the Tokyo government should buy a sophisticated antisubmarine aircraft developed by the U.S. company.

Michita Sakata, director general of the defense agency, told an upper house special committee he would "try to obtain the government's approval for the purchase of the Lockheed P3 Orion by the end of this year."

Sakata stressed the need for strengthening Japan's antisubmarine capabilities in the face of the naval buildup in the Far East by the Soviet Union. He said Japan did not have the technical know-how to develop an antisubmarine aircraft similar to the P3C.

Storms drench nation

By United Press International

Driving rains sent floodwaters sweeping through parts of the nation in Tulsa, Okla., Monday, causing almost $12 million in damage and claiming two lives.

Downpours from Michigan to Texas put a damper on Memorial Day parades and left 1,000 travelers with a weekend to remember.

Fog was blamed for a plane crash near Chicago that killed seven persons Monday night.

"A fog-shrouded 10-foot triple helped the Chicago White Sox to a 9-4 win over the Texas Rangers Monday night."

"I've seen a ball lost in a rain squall but I never saw a ball lost in the fog before," said White Sox owner Bill Veeck, a 50-year veteran of baseball.

Rain-glutted Mingo and Joe creeks in eastern and southeastern Texas fed by a Sunday night downpour, swelled over their banks Monday and poured up to five feet deep through surrounding homes.

The National Weather Service said the flooded part of the city could have received as much as 10 inches, although the official city total was 2.6 inches.

Waters destroyed 100 trailers and damaged 972 houses, 390 trailers, 465 apartments and 20 businesses, the Red Cross said.

Mayor Robert LaForte asked Gov. David Boren to request "federal disaster assistance."

Freak accidents took two lives today night.

One person was killed when the motor home in which she was riding was picked up by a tornado — bumped into a stalled wagon and hurtled to the other side of the road? A college student pushing a car on a flooded street at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa stepped into an open manhole and drowned.

More than three inches of rain drenched Clear Lake State Park in Michigan Monday.

Angola due Soviet aid

© N.Y. Times Service

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union has agreed to provide Angola with further military aid in the wake of the massive support it gave the Luanda authorities during the civil war last winter.

A joint communiqué issued Sunday night on the basis of talks here reported that "an understanding was reached on certain measures aimed at giving Angola assistance in consolidating its defensive capacity." No details were given on whether this aid would involve new more sophisticated weapons systems or merely replacements for arms provided during the fighting earlier.

The announcement was made as Prime Minister Jose da Nascente wound up a week-long visit to the Soviet Union that was clearly aimed at strengthening ties between the two countries.

Russ talks concluded

MOSCOW (UPI) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines ended two days of talks in the Kremlin today, Tass the Soviet news agency said.

Describing the atmosphere as "friendly and businesslike," Tass said the two sides discussed "specific measures aimed at development of relations between the two countries in the spirit of the times, above all the efforts of states and peoples for security and cooperation."

Bilateral and international issues were raised and the two sides discussed joint documents they plan to sign, Tass said.

Marcos arrived Monday with his wife, Imelda, and a number of cabinet ministers for an eight-day visit during which he is expected to meet David L. Bishai, general secretary of the Communist

Thais order last US base pullout

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Thailand today ordered the closing of the last U.S. spy base in the country by July 30, pulling out any American military presence except the 220 advisers who will remain after the deadline.

Foreign Minister Bhihak Rattakul, in a taped interview for national television, said he had turned down a last-minute proposal by U.S. Ambassador Charles Whitehouse to allow some American personnel to remain in the Ramasun base.

But he said some of the equipment there would remain and would be operated by Thai nationals.

The base in northeast Thailand was used extensively during the Indochina war to coordinate U.S. communications and during the past year monitored radio traffic in Laos, Vietnam and Cambodia. It also was part of the U.S. satellite-tracking network.

"The United States personnel and the equipment at Ramasun will be moved out of Thailand completely by July 30," Bhihak said in this statement.

He said both the Thai national security council and the government had agreed "by unanimous vote" to the shutdown order.

There had been reports from official sources that American military personnel in civilian clothes would remain at Ramasun, but Bhihak's statement and cabinet decision squelched the reports.

"The present government will not change the decision of the former government on the Ramasun program," Bhihak said.

The government of former Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj ordered the withdrawal of the U.S. forces last March.

Thailand has been under pressure from its Communist neighbors — Laos, Vietnam and Cambodia — to oust all vestiges of American military power.

"To keep the Ramasun project in Thailand would create some doubt among neighboring countries about our seriousness in maintaining friendship with them," Bhihak said in his statement.

Columbus' steps lure Juan Carlos

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — King Juan Carlos, the first Spanish head-of-state to visit the Western Hemisphere, came to the New World to retrace the footsteps of Christopher Columbus.

Covering the almost 500-year-old route by air, the king and his wife, Queen Sophia, arrived Monday at Santo Domingo, once the environmental of Spain's flourishing New World colonies.

Their two-day tour of this island nation preceded a flight to Washington for a four-day bicentennial visit when they will pay an official Spain's priceless Columbus exhibit.

The Dominican Republic occupies the eastern two-thirds of the Island of Hispaniola, named by Columbus in 1492. Haiti occupies the western third.

In his arrival speech Monday, the king called for common goings between Latin America and Spain.

"Our future, with so many things we can do together, is based not on nostalgia but in a profound solidarity with the peoples of this continent, which makes us live very close to their sharpest problems—economic and political independence, developmental desire for greater social justice, and the ideals of liberty," he said.

The royal visit included a trip to Santo Domingo Cathedral, the oldest in the hemisphere where Columbus' remains are reported to be buried.

At night they attended a reception in the national palace headed by 85-year-old President Joaquin Balaguer.

Technical and economic agreements between the two nations were signed two weeks ago in Santo Domingo.

The royal couple's visit to Washington, although unofficial, will include a full welcoming ceremony Wednesday by President Ford.

The Columbus exhibit they brought includes the original first map of the New World drawn by the master of the Santa Maria on Columbus' first voyage.

Kosygin visits Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin arrived from Baghdad today for a four-day state visit and talks with Syrian leaders.

Kosygin was met at the airport by Syrian Premier Mahmoud Avioubi and other officials. Damascus was the second stage of the Soviet premier's Middle East tour and followed a four-day visit to Iraq.

Political sources said his talks with President Hafez Assad, and other Syrian officials would cover a wide range of economic, commercial and military topics.

Kosygin's schedule called for a sightseeing tour of Damascus and a visit to the wrecked city of Kunneitra on the Golan Heights. A communiqué issued at the end of Kosygin's visit to Iraq said both sides pledged continuing support for the "Palestine resistance movement... regarding it as an integral part of the Arab and worldwide national liberation movement."

Hays scandal won't change government

Although Rep. Wayne Hays made headlines because of his $14,000 affair with an office secretary—the Ohio Democrat stands an excellent chance of being reelected to Congress.

Voters in Hays' Ohio legislative district have rallied behind their Congressman and pledged continued support for him through the primary and general elections.

Some members of the House, fearful that the Hays sex scandal will cast a pall on all incumbent candidates this fall, have "called for a major investigation into congressional seaminess and have suggested Hays resign."

Voters may well turn out some incumbents this fall—but it seems unlikely the Hays sex scandal will be the cause.

Rising taxes, inflation, ineffective government bureaucracy are the issues which irritate voters.

The Hays scandal, good for a few days of oohs and ahhs, ultimately doesn't change the status quo of government very much.

Because Hays used $14,000 of taxpayer's money for his affair the incident will trouble some people. But after a few days, the $14,000 Hays paid Elizabeth Ray melts into the background as just one of a dozen examples of government abuse of tax dollars.

Congress and the public shouldn't condone the actions of Wayne Hays. The House ethics committee already is investigating the Congressman's affairs and probably will take some punitive action against the Ohio Democrat for his expensive affair.

If Elizabeth Ray is correct in her charge that a dozen Congressmen pay for sex out of government funds then the Hays scandal may well turn into a major smudge.

Probes into the private lives of Congressmen make hot copy.

In the end, however, the Hays sex scandal will react any differently than today's government very much.

Even if Hays is stripped of his powers in Congress, one wonders if tomorrow's bureaucracy will react any differently than today's government.

Annals of America

Encyclopaedia Britannica

Peter Henry was a most influential member of the 1778 Virginia Convention. He fought—and won a bitter verbal battle for the addition of a Bill of Rights at the end of the new Constitution.

"It was expressly declared in our Confederation that every right was retained by the states, respectively, which was not given up to the government of the United States. But there is no such thing here. You, therefore, by a natural and unavoidable implication, give up your rights to the general government."

"If you give up these powers, without a Bill of Rights, you will exhibit the most absurd thing to mankind that ever the world saw—a government that has abandoned all its powers—the power of direct taxation, the sword, and the purse. You have disposed of them to Congress, without a Bill of Rights—without check, limitation, or control. And still you have checks and guards; still you keep barriers—posted where? Pointed against your own body? propped up? Enclosed within your government? You have a Bill of Rights—posted against the state governments—which is bereaved of all power, and yet you have none against Congress, though in full and exclusive possession of all power!"

Bahl seniors aided injured

Editor, Times-News:
As a parent of a Buhl High School senior, I feel perhaps a comment on the Times-News editorial of May 19 is in order. Our son was one of those seniors in attendance at the tragic senior party, although he was not one who witnessed the fight.

Your writer was very critical of those students who made no attempt to stop the altercation between two young men, not of their peer group.

I wonder how many parents would encourage their 17 and 18 year old sons to become involved in such a vicious fight between men four and five years older? I wonder if your editorial writer would want his son to have become involved.

I am not condoning in any way this particular activity so popular among our graduating seniors, and I regret most sincerely this tragic incident. However, for one certainly am not critical of those attendants for not becoming involved in "the incident" between older and uninvited persons.

Perhaps it should also be noted that when it became obvious that medical help was needed, no "friends" among the party crashers could be induced to become involved and the "injured" were taken for help by members of the senior class.

War dead honored

PRESIDENT FORD spoke at a ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery Monday at which the nation's war dead were honored. He said the nation "must renew our resolve to use both our moral leadership and our material strength to keep the peace." He also placed a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier. (UPI)

Warm reception for Hays in Ohio; probes hinted

BANNOCK, Ohio (UPI) — Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, his voice breaking, talked to his constituents about the old swimming hole and his war buddies, not sex scandals and congressional investigations.

Quinlans' request to board

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — The Morris County Welfare Board today took up Joseph and Julie Quinlan's request that their comatose daughter, Karen Ann, 22, be moved into a nursing home.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has authorized the Quinlans to end the extra-ordinary medical care that has kept the brain-damaged young woman alive in an irreversible coma and allow her to die with "grace and dignity."

Karen, who lapsed into a coma April 12, was admitted to a private room at St. Clare's Hospital in Denville, N.J. Her parents want her moved, reportedly because hospital doctors refuse to operate with the Quinlans in carrying out the court's ruling.

Once transferred to a nursing home, Miss Quinlan will be cared for by a team of seven doctors.

County Freeholder Alphonse Scerbo, a member of the board, said today's meeting was called by Welfare Board Director Celeste Kalina, because she wants to talk over the Quinlan matter.

The county's Morris View Nursing Home was asked by the Quinlans last week to accept their daughter, but officials have declined to discuss the case.

Family attorney Paul Armstrong, of the firm that accepted Karen, will be asked to form an ethics committee to supervise the carrying out of the court's decision allowing the Quinlans to return Karen to a "natural" state.

The March 11 ruling stated that a medical ethics committee must be convinced that Karen can never regain consciousness before her parents will be allowed to end the daily intravenous feedings and antibiotics she now receives.

Drs. Robert Morse and Arshad Javed, who have been treating Miss Quinlan at St. Clare's and who opposed her family in court, have been reported unwilling to take any steps which would lead to her death.

Morse and Javed, disabled on May 10, when Quinlan was able to breathe without the aid of a respirator, which had kept her alive for 13 months—Previously it was thought she could not survive without...

Groups opposing urban N-plants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission should ban construction of nuclear power plants within 50 miles of major cities according to a coalition of public interest groups.

Meanwhile, a California congressman promised to demand answers from the NRC about why it called for beefed-up security at the country's existing 50 nuclear power plants.

Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., a member of the Nuclear Oversight Committee, said the NRC maintained a "coy approach" Sunday when it announced its security alert but gave no reasons for it.

Utility authorities said they received reports that unnamed extremist groups planned to seize a plant by June 4—the date California votes on a proposal requiring certification by the state legislature of the safety of any nuclear plant in the state.

"The longer the NRC maintains this approach," Miller said, "the more needless speculation and hysteria will develop."

Forty-five groups—many of them Ralph Nader-organized Public Interest Research Groups—said in a petition it sent to the NRC Monday that nuclear power plants "...anywhere are a looming hazard to the lives and safety of citizens."

But the petition asking for a new rule said, "as long as utilities are building and operating reactors, they must ensure that nuclear facilities be sited safely. In low population areas..."

"In this way," it said, "as few people as possible will be forced to live under the shadow of a potential nuclear catastrophe."

The petition asked for a ban on nuclear plant construction in any area with over 400 persons per square mile "averaged over any radial distance out to a distance of 40 miles."

An NRC spokesman said commission policy allows applicants to build in areas with 500 persons per square mile—or less because lower density areas are difficult to find. If a utility wishes to build a nuclear reactor, it must prove alternative sites are unavailable.

Anti-bias law ignored by lenders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the past eight years it has been illegal for lenders to discriminate against minorities seeking home mortgage loans, but a Senate Committee says the law is never enforced by federal banking agencies.

A report by the Senate Banking Committee, based on studies taken during the past four years, concludes that lenders consider the potential borrower's race and the racial character of where he wants to buy a house when considering loan applications.

Despite the 1968 Civil Rights Act, which forbids lenders to discriminate on the basis of race, sex, religion or national origin, discrimination by mortgage firms is widespread," the report said.

It said none of the four agencies responsible for regulating banks and other lending institutions had enforced the law. The agencies are the Federal Reserve, the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Nonetheless, despite a formal finding of discrimination, none has referred a case to the Justice Department, none has required a lender to adopt an affirmative action program and none requires that mortgage records be kept by race so discrimination can be detected, the committee report said.

It appeared likely to decide to postpone any action, however, pending completion of a current Justice Department investigation and grand jury inquiry into the case.

Crash claims 7

WEST CHICAGO, Ill. (UPI) — A twin-engine private plane crashed into a fog-shrouded swamp east of DuPage County Airport Monday night, killing all seven persons aboard, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said.

The victims were not identified and the cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

Authorities said the plane was flying into heavy fog at the time of the crash and theorized the fog may have been a contributing factor.

The FAA spokesman said the Beechcraft was en route from International Field, Minn., to the DuPage airport in Chicago's suburbs.

Fire officials said the plane crashed and burst into flames.

Wilson signs contract

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Harold Wilson has signed a contract with David Frost and a commercial television station to narrate 13 documentaries about former British prime ministers.

A Yorkshire Television announcement today saluted 80-year-old Wilson, who resigned as prime minister in March, will give three-hour-long interviews about his own life in politics and narrate 10 other programs in the series.

No fee for the television series, to be screened nationally next fall, was disclosed but the series is budgeted at around $1 million.

Pope-Hennessy moves

LONDON (UPI) — Sir John Pope-Hennessy, director of the British Museum, decided to leave the museum at the end of this year to work for the Metropolitan Museum and City University in New York.

A colleague of the 62-year-old art specialist said Pope-Hennessy will take up the post of part-time principal consultant for European paintings at the Metropolitan Museum and professor of fine arts at City University.

Hope speaker

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Comedian Bob Hope, delivering the commencement address at Princeton University's Westminster Choir College graduation ceremony Monday, laughed at his own musical "inadequacies" before an audience of serious musicians.

"I feel as out of place as President Ford at a Reagan-film festival or Phyllis Diller at a Miss Universe contest," Hope told 2,000 persons in the Princeton Chapel.

"I have not always been involved in good music," he said. "I was the one who loaned Bing Crosby some money for his first music lesson."

Bella presses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Bella Abzug called on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday to make former U.N. Ambassador Daniel Moynihan substantiate his charge that votes are bought in the world body.

Last week, Moynihan told a television interviewer delegates for some member nations at the U.N. sell their votes for $2,000.

"If he knew about this when he was being our spokesman ambassador to the U.N., why didn't he say so then?" the New York Democrat said. "If he knew about it then, the whole world should have been told."

Echeverria opens confab

VANCOUVER, Canada (UPI) — Mexican President Luis Echeverria has demanded a major strengthening of the United Nations to reflect a new awareness of the developing nations.

Echeverria, speaking Monday at the opening of the largest United Nations conference ever held — a 12-day search for solutions to an exploding world population — said the international community had undergone a radical change since the U.N. was formed 31 years ago.

He said since then, more than 100 territories have thrown off colonial rule and achieved independence.

"Now, faced as we are with a transformed reality, the criteria that prevailed in the postwar era cannot be applied," he said.

Pentagon relaxes security

By DAVID BRAATEN Washington Star

WASHINGTON — With remarkable lack of fanfare, the Pentagon has relaxed its security for the first time in four years to let Bicentennial tourists look around the famous office building.

About 200 visitors a day are taking advantage of the opportunity, and when word of the new policy gets around, Pentagon officials expect they'll be handling about 700 a day.

In the old days it was no big deal for anyone to wander into the five-sided building. Passes were technically required, but checking was kept to a lax.

Then, however, came the peace demonstrations and the bomb scares, and security was tightened and only the megashopping concourse has left easily accessible to the public.

Now, in honor of the Bicentennial, the Pentagon has been reopened — not to casual strollers, but to guided tour groups of 30, mostly arranged in advance.

The four, which are spaced 15 minutes apart between 9 a.m. and 3:15 p.m. weekdays, include a 10-minute film on the history of the 33-year-old building and a 20-minute walk through the Hall of Heroes and corridors specially decorated with paintings, photographs and models. The tour winds through two of the building's five above-ground floors.

Members of tour groups are subjected to security checks of handbags and parcels, and cameras must be left at the assembly area.

Services slated for Martha

NEW YORK (UPI) — Martha Mitchell, the Arkansas girl who became one of the more colorful and controversial figures of Nixon's Washington, but died destitute and alone, will be buried in her hometown of Pine Bluff, Ark.

Mitchell, estranged wife of former Attorney General John Mitchell, died Monday. She was 57.

Mrs. S. Ray West of Pine Bluff, a close friend of Mrs. Mitchell, said services Thursday will be lead by Rev. Richard Dodds and Rev. W. L.

McGowan at the First Presbyterian Church in Pine Bluff, with burial in Bellwood Cemetery.

The Campbell Funeral Home, handling the New York end, said it had no immediate information as to when the body would be flown to Arkansas.

Mrs. Mitchell, who never lost her soft southern drawl even while delivering verbal punches at the Nixon Administration during the Watergate scandals, died of a rare strain of bone marrow cancer, multiple myeloma. Death came less than 24 hours after she was admitted to a hospital.

Only her physician, Dr. Klaus Mayer, was at her side.

Despite phone calls from administrators and her doctor, that she was "very gravely ill," neither her former husband nor their daughter, Marty, 14, came to her bedside.

Mayer told a news conference Mrs. Mitchell was dependent toward the end. He said she "fell asleep out of her own volition."

The doctor "said her last words to him before she lapsed into unconsciousness were, 'I have to go to the hospital. I'm sick. I really feel awful.'

In recent months, Mrs. Mitchell had received chemotherapy treatments and had been "doing quite well" at home, where she was attended by two nurses, Mayer said.

But, he said, during the weekend "there were complications from her disease."

Mayer said he had notified her husband by telephone of his estranged wife's condition and that Mitchell was "very upset and concerned."

The Campbell Funeral Home, handling the New York end, said it had no immediate information as to when the body would be flown to Arkansas.

William Herman, described her as "desperately ill" without funds and without friends.

According to friends, Mrs. Mitchell was "spoiled rotten" in the best Southern tradition during her Pine Bluff girlhood.

Report reveals US women outlive men

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The Census Bureau says women outlive men in America, probably because they are generally slimmer, take better care of themselves and until recently have shunned the more rugged male occupations.

But even the trend toward similar roles and lifestyles among men and women isn't likely to change things, the bureau said. Biologically, women have always seemed more inclined toward longevity than men.

In a special report Monday on the U.S. population of 22.4 million persons aged 60 or older, the Census Bureau said women outnumber men among the elderly by 4.1 million last year, and the gap will widen to 6.5 million by the end of this century.

There were 100 elderly females for every 99 elderly males last year, compared to a nearly equal ratio just 10 years ago.

The gap between male and female life expectancy is steadily widening, the bureau said. Biologically, women have always seemed more inclined toward longevity than men.

DEAR WANTS: Tell her you're going to the hospital for minor surgery. Period. (P.S. And if she presses for more information, tell her it's a personal matter.)

DEAR ABBY: In response to DISGUSTED IN CHICAGO, who complained about the service in a restaurant: Not Walking toward the door without paying will not do it.

Last year, my husband and I waited one-half hour for the bill in a fashionable Palm Springs' restaurant. In desperation, my husband finally went to the waitress herself. She said "she'd be right over."

We waited for another 15 minutes and he again went to the waitress, this time through the kitchen window, telling her to help. Finally after waiting for another 15 minutes, we got up and stood by the exit door for five minutes. Everyone was looking at us and knew what we had in mind, but when the waitress still didn't come, we walked out without paying our bill for $25.

It was not even a busy evening. I hope she had to pay for our bill. What would you have done?

MADELEINE

DEAR MADELEINE: I'd have located the manager, paid my bill (tips) and told him why he shouldn't expect to see us again.

DEAR ABBY: A quote from your column, "Violence begets violence," calls to mind the words of the late Martin Luther King Jr. from his book, "Stride Toward Freedom": "To retaliate in kind would do nothing but intensify the existence of hate in the universe. Along the way of life, someone must have sense enough and morality enough to cut off the chain of hate."

Thanks for trying, Abby.

Ask the Jacobs

Several readers have asked the meaning of "Tetacee."

A tenace is any combination of two cards of the same suit with one intermediate card missing. Ace-queen is sometimes called the major tenace. If you hold a tenace and the intermediate card is to your left, your lower card will be a loser. If you can get it to your right, the card is to your right; you can turn to your tenace and score your lower card.

At table one East decided to ruff low, so as not to have to discard a diamond or spade. South cashed three rounds of trump, led a spade to dummy's king, cashed his ace and king, led his last trump and discarded the last spade of spades from his hand. West was caught in a criss-cross squeeze. He decided to un-

Filer reception honors newlyweds

FILER — Mr. and Mrs. Kent Edward Henslock were honored at a reception May 15 following their marriage in the Mandt, Utah LDS Temple.

The bride is the former Donna Rae Reichek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Reichek, Filer, and the bridegroom is the son of F.R.C. Henslock, Hollister.

The reception was held in the Filer American Legion Hall where the couple greeted their guests before a backdrop of white over yellow sheer Austrian panels, accented with swans caught by satin bows and greenery. The backdrops were flanked by tall baskets of large yellow spider chrysanthemums.

The bride wore a traditional Oriental gown of pale pink satin accented with panels of Venetian lace. The chapel train was enhanced with appliqued flowers of lace, each centered with a tiny pearl. The gown featured a wedding ring necklace and long sheer sleeves with lace inserts.

Her elbow-length veil of English silk illusion was held by a bandage of satin trimmed with lace and pearls. She carried a crescent bouquet of yellow spider mums, yellow roses and baby's breath.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over yellow and draped with yellow satin bows and flowers. Silver candelabra, belonging to the bride's grandmother in Spokane, held yellow tapers and flowers. The second-tiered wedding cake was decorated in yellow roses and topped with satin bells, white doves and yellow flowers. The cake was circled with greenery and yellow flowers, and flanked by heart-shaped cakes bearing the names of the bridal couple.

Guests were seated at quartet tables covered with white lace over yellow and centered with brandy snuffers decorated with white satin bows and flowers. Silver candlesticks and floating yellow flowers. The small tables were arranged around a large round table skirted in white lace over yellow and featuring an orange flowing fountain.

Presiding at the refreshment table the first hour were Mrs. Roy Grubb and Mrs. Stanley Walters serving cake, and Tamie Reichek and Mrs. Zina Walker, sisters of the bride, serving coffee and punch. The second hour Mrs. Luther Pierce and Mrs. Clinton Dougherty served cake, and Mrs. Rex Reed and daughter, Lauren, served coffee and punch.

The round guest book table was covered with lace over yellow and centered with a brandy snuffer arrangement. Mrs. Mildred Reichek, grandmother of the bride, registered the guests. Lisa McCullum, cousin of the bride, was gift carrier.

The bride was honored at pre-nuptial showers given by Mrs. Berry Gines and Mrs. Brent Gines, Hollister, and Mrs. Duane Ramseyer and Mrs. Rex Reed, Filer.

The newlyweds will reside in a farm southwest of Twin Falls, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Female delegate promotion slips

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both Democratic and Republican party officials say the percentage of female delegates to the national convention will drop below that of 1972 despite their best efforts to encourage them.

Mary Jane Smith, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Scott Lant, director of credentials for the Democratic National Committee, said in separate interviews the 1976 is a distinctly different year from 1972 and women may not fare as well as a result.

Both parties are using an affirmative action program instead of a "quota" system for representation of women, minorities and other traditionally under-represented groups.

As Lant put it, "Affirmative action is not an instant success story. It takes some time and some cultivation. We are attempting to provide the means for all Democrats to participate, but it takes time."

Mrs. Smith said: "We have done a tremendous amount of work and have made a great effort to do the things that we felt were necessary to encourage women to become delegates. But the two things we can't control is how many women run and what the results of the elections are."

The National Women's Political Caucus (NWPC) released statistics last week showing both parties behind their 1972 pace in the number of women delegates. So far, Republicans have about 29 per cent women compared with 30 per cent in 1972, while the Democrats have about 20 per cent compared with 30 per cent in 1972.

The NWPC expressed disappointment with the figures and said they hoped the situation would be remedied.

Mrs. Smith said a big problem on the GOP side is the close presidential race. "Because there was no contest in 1972 there was 'some tendency' for less junior-represented groups to go to the convention," she said.

"This year, we're part of a contest and we're running the strongest delegates, those with party ties. They're not going to look at just is it a woman to balance the delegation but can that person get elected as a delegate. This situation is beyond control," Mrs. Smith said.

Lant said more women have run for Democratic delegate slots this year than in 1972 but as many have won. About one-third of the Democratic delegates are yet to be picked.

your health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Two years ago my 12-year-old son broke his arm while playing in baseball. It was called a stress break.

For a while every time he pitched his arm fell sore. It was heated nicely, and now, at 14, he is wondering if he can pitch again. How do you feel about this? — Mrs. J.S.

A fracture in a youngster's arm should be well healed after two years. The soreness he had could have been in the muscles. It didn't have to be related to the fracture.

A stress fracture occurs when, in your son's case, the arm cannot stand the constant strain of a vigorous use.

I believe most of these injuries are not so much due to the actual strain of throwing as to improper use of the arm.

Watch the professional pitchers. You will note that the arm is only a part of the total picture in throwing. There is a graceful use of the entire body. Youngsters often do not have enough coordination to accomplish this. As a result, the pitching arm bears most of the burden.

the pros

If your son is going to return to pitching, he should understand this.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor told me I don't digest my food fast enough. It lays there and ferment, forms gas and makes me bloat. I'm constipated all the time.

I don't have any luck with enemas, and laxatives are habit-forming. Is there anything I can do? — A.P.

Let's clear up any possible misunderstanding about the term "habit-forming."

It doesn't mean laxatives are habit-forming in and of themselves. They aren't "addictive."

However, long-time continuous use does make the bowel dependent on them. That is because laxatives deprive them of necessary work. They become "lazy," and I think that is a better word for it. Overuse of enemas can have the same effect.

Now, to your question.

Just knowing that food stays in your stomach isn't enough.

You have to eat healthy.

There could be a defect at the stomach outlet, which, of course would interfere with emptying.

If the gall bladder is diseased there might be a lack of digestive juices, that would interfere with digestion, especially of the fatty food.

You should have x-rays of the entire digestive tract. A problem anywhere along its length could indirectly hinder stomach function.

There are many other possible causes of your indigestion and constipation. Too numerous to list here. I suggest you have the examinations I mentioned. Knowing how the digestive system works is important in understanding such problems. Perhaps my booklet on constipation will give you some other leads.

If you'd like, copy and send 25 cents to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large stamp, self-addressed envelope, to cover printing and mailing costs.

Remember, laxatives properly used do have their place. Misuse usually means unnecessary use.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

After an eye examination my doctor said I had nuclear sclerotic. Please explain this? — D.E.B.

The word "sclerotic" should tip you off that a hardening of something is taking place. When eye doctors use the term they refer to hardening of the center portion of the lens of the eye.

That is the "nucleus."

The center of the lens is normally somewhat harder than the surrounding material. However, as we grow older, this tends to harden further.

The process is usually quite gradual, but when it speeds up cataracts can result. The hardening rate usually increases after age 50.

Years need to develop to the point of cataracts. Your doctor can tell you how long it will take.

Are you having a gall bladder problem? To find out how the gall bladder works and what kinds of trouble to look for, read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your and Your Gall Bladder." Write him in care of this newspaper for a copy, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes readers' letters; questions are incorporated in this column whenever possible.

Pact on Turkish bases due congressional test

WASHINGTON (UPI)

Administration and congressional exports agree a proposed agreement on bases in Turkey in trouble even before it arrives on Capitol Hill.

Turkey's ambassador says official State Department and White House assessments agree with Brademas. They said opposition to the two agreements centers on three areas.

Constitutional, since members of Congress will oppose any multi-year arrangement. The two agreements run for five years.

because that would deprive

Congress of its right annually to oversee expenditures by the U.S. government.

Legal, because Brademas and others insist Turkey violated U.S. aid regulations by using American weapons in Cyprus.

There has been no substantial progress in the Cyprus negotiations, which means the U.S. arms embargo against Turkey remains in force.

U.S. government officials argue that supplying arms to two antagonists, such as

Greece and Turkey, simply escalates the arms race in the eastern Mediterranean and increases the chance of war.

Strategic, with opponents arguing that supplying arms to

two antagonists, such as

Greece and Turkey, simply

escalates the arms race in the eastern Mediterranean and increases the chance of war.

But there are planks in the opposition front. Rep. Steven

Solomon of D.N.Y., one of the freshman congressmen who voted for the Turkish arms embargo in 1975, has changed his mind and will vote for the agreement. "Because to do otherwise would leave the southern flank of NATO in tatters."

That is the same line of reasoning used by State Department officials and Turkish diplomats.

The 26 U.S. bases in Turkey, now in a state of suspension, supply intelligence about the Soviet Union. The United States considers it to be irreplaceable.

Turkey, which has 300,000 men in its armed forces, is the main force of the southern flank of NATO.

State Department officials anxious to send the two agreements to Congress say they have not been able to shake them out of the White House.

Slum experiment fails crime test

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — The improvement of conditions in slum areas has failed to reduce crime and, in particular, murder, according to Stanford University homicide specialists.

Donald T. Lunde, a psychiatrist who at the request of the court examined Patricia Hearst before her bank robbery trial in San Francisco, said social planners in the 1960s "erred in assuming that improving conditions in high-crime areas of cities would lower the crime rate."

"If the standard of success for urban renewal was lowering of the crime rate and the murder rate in particular, then these programs obviously failed," he said. Sunday in a report conducted on high-gangs across the United States.

"There never was any proof of a causal relationship between poor housing, poor education, poor health, and the murder rate," he said.

Lunde also said that murder rates were highest on holidays, and weekends with the alcohol a common denominator for both the killers and the victims. But, he said, "most of these people are not alcoholics."

The South has the nation's highest murder rates and the Northeast the lowest, the doctor said.

Although the rate was 8% times higher among blacks than whites, the main factor "was not socio-economic status among blacks; but the culture in which they had been reared" regardless of where they currently live. Blacks raised in the North had the lowest murder rates, and blacks raised in the South had the highest, he said.

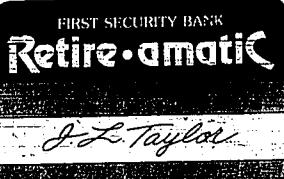

Lunde noted that FBI 1973 U.S. murder rates showed the South with 12.0 per 100,000 population; the West, 7.8; the North-Central, 7.6; and the Northeast, 7.1. The psychiatrist said the national rate, 9.3, in 1972, will rise to 10 murders per 100,000 persons this year.

Lunde also said there is no significant correlation between the threat of the death penalty and the murder rate.

"Few murderers ... consider beforehand what they will do or what might befall them after their crime," he said.

Bids sought

BURLEY — The city has called for bids to be opened in June on four contracts involving two city construction projects and a materials purchase.

One of the projects is the opening of Alton Avenue between 14th and 15th streets and the paving of the parking lot at the new city-county law enforcement building.

New bids on construction of curb, sidewalk and driveways will be opened at a special meeting June 10.

The council rejected earlier bids when it met earlier this week. The rejection was on the grounds that the low bidder had made an error preparing his bid.

Bids on the asphalt overlay mats for the parking lot and Alton avenue will be opened at the City Council's regular meeting three days earlier.

It will also consider bids on purchase of water systems materials that night to replenish the city's stock.

The work around the law enforcement building is a joint project involving the city and Cassia County, with the county participating in the cost of some of the pavement and street improvements.

The council is scheduled to open bids on June 21 for electrical undergrounding and a cable crossing at the Burley-Paul bridge over the Snake River.

Suit yields $18,000

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Judicial District Court jury has awarded $18,500 to three persons in a damage suit heard in Twin Falls.

The three brought action against Grover Cleveland Beem, Twin Falls, as a result of a traffic accident at the intersection of Pole Line Road and Blue Lakes Blvd. North more than a year ago.

The plaintiffs, Floyd A. Cuff, his wife, Alma Cuff, and their daughter, Marceline Cuff, had asked more than $133,000 in general damages, medical expenses and other costs.

Jurors deliberated only about one hour Friday morning before reaching the verdict. In the complaint, the Cuffs charged the defendant's vehicle crashed into theirs at the stop sign on Pole Line Road, causing injuries, suffering and other losses.

Judo awards given at potluck dinner

TWIN FALLS — Magistrate Judge Dan Mehl was master of ceremonies at the annual Twin Falls YMCA-College of Southern Idaho Judo potluck dinner.

Mehl commended the Judo groups for completing the YMCA Judo mini gym during the past year with special recognition to Jim Brennan, Judo president.

Wiley Dobbs, Jay Henley and Bill Benkula earned their black belts (shodan), and Frank Hirai, second degree (nidan).

Tim Voyle was awarded a trophy for best attendance; Perry Cowell, most improved Judoist, and Wiley Dobbs, outstanding Judoist of 1976. Dobbs placed first in every tournament he entered, except for a second place in Spokane, Wash.

Benkula, Wiley Dobbs, Greg Dobbs and Tracy Benifer were commended for their participation in the high school national tournament and their "excellent demeanor" while playing "standup" Judo.

Awards were presented by sensels Guy Matsuoka and Wes Dohse.

Boyd Grant, CSI basketball coach, was speaker of the evening and spoke on "attitude."

Matsuoka was presented a gift by Cjini Treadwell as top junior Judoist.

The Judoists' wives brought special dishes for the meal.

An election of officers for next year will be held June 1 at the YMCA.

Sobers, Stacom tell fight story

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Depending on who's telling it, the brawl between Ricky Sobers of Phoenix and Kevin Stacom of Boston in game three of the NBA championship series was either deliberate or a quirk of an aggressive game.

Sobers, maintaining that he did not throw the first punch, and Stacom were ejected in the second quarter of Sunday's game.

"I got slapped in the face," Sobers said. "That's all I know. I slapped him after he hit me, but I got hit in the face first."

"I don't even know what happened," Stacom said, adding the fight was unintentional.

"He was telling me pretty much," said Stacom. "He was getting away with it, you know. It's part of the game."

Before the fight, Phoenix had built up a 35-21 lead, largely on the strength of a 19-2 first-quarter spurt. Later, they built up a 23-point margin, but the Celtics spurred ahead to cut the gap to only two points before the Suns pulled out their 105-98 win.

The Phoenix win cut Boston's lead in the best-of-seven series to 2-1. Game No. 4 will be played Wednesday night at Veterans Memorial Coliseum.

Suns' captain Dick Van Arsdale said the loss of Sobers "hurt us quite a bit."

"It put a lot of pressure on us to get the ball up the floor," said Van Arsdale. "It's not a half-ball guard and Paul Westphal [that] doesn't like to bring the ball up that much either. Ricky does a better job at that than either of us."

Sobers grabbed Stacom in a headlock and got in two uppercuts and an overhand right before the fight was broken up.

"I cut him off on the baseline and the next thing I know, I've got a fist in the face," said Sobers. "I'm not gonna stand there and let anyone take advantage of me like that."

"It was just two youngsters involved," said Phoenix coach John MacLeod. "One rookie and a second-year man; both with short tempers. I don't think you saw many veterans in fights because you don't win ball games with fights."

The game had been rugged and referees Ritchie Powers and Paul Mihalak called 46 fouls, plus technicals against Boston. Coach Tom Heinsohn and Boston players Charlie Scott and Dave Cowens were ejected.

Heinsohn was upset with the officiating, claiming it devastated the tempo the Celts had at the start of the game.

"There we're working so hard in the backcourt and then all the calls went against us," Heinsohn said. "It's hard to play that way."

MacLeod said the Suns played the way he wanted them to, "I don't think we were trying to play Boston style, although if I might have looked that way, it just happened that we did the chance to run a little more."

"In order to play against them effectively, we have to play rough, too," said Westphal, a former Boston guard.

"If we didn't play like they play," said Curtis Perry, "we would've gotten run out of our coliseum."

Olympic basketball team opens tryouts

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Tryouts for the most powerful U.S. Olympic basketball team got into full swing Monday at North Carolina State University with a series of appointments for Coach Dean Smith.

After putting 53 of the nation's top amateur basketball players through three half-game scrimmages Sunday night and a tough physical workout Monday, Smith said he was disappointed with some of the candidates' physical condition and enthusiasm.

But Smith's comments at a news conference following Monday's mile runs and wind sprints centered as much on who wasn't at the tryouts as who was.

"This isn't a good morning to talk to me," the North Carolina coach told newsmen. "When you go down the list of All-Americans, not many of them are here," he said glancing through his roster of players.

One of the biggest disappointments to Smith was the absence of Alabama's 6-10 Leon Douglas, who unlike some other top players, had at least accepted the selection committee's invitation and had received an airplane ticket.

"Leon wanted to play bad. I haven't heard from him, but I feel sure something must have come up," said Smith. "The team will be hurt mostly in terms of size by the players who decided not to come," Smith said. Of the four big men who were consensus All-Americans, only North Carolina's Mitch Kupchak made it to the tryouts.

Smith blamed himself as much as the players for what he called a "lethargic" workout Monday in which players were tired, the wind, mile sprints and underwent tests for their vertical jumping ability.

"I was very disappointed this morning," said

Smith. "But I think I can blame myself as much as the players for putting them through those half-game scrimmages last night."

Smith also expressed disappointment in some of the players' enthusiasm. "You expect them to be great players, and I'd like to see them be more enthusiastic."

The schedule for this week includes scrimmages for the next few days, leading up to Sunday's announcement of who will make the 15-man team which will work together until the Games at Montreal in July.

Jenkins, King pair for scotchball win

GARY Jenkins and Wayne King parred the last hole Sunday to claim first place in the Memorial day scotchball elimination derby.

Jenkins and King took the edge when the runner-up duo of Dick Reed and Jack Carlton were stymied after their drive on the ninth hole and had to chip back into the fairway. Meanwhile, Jenkins hit King's drive about 15 feet above the pin and they too putted to nail down the decision.

The championship dual twice had to chip off, the first time on No. 4 when King, hitting last, split eight and four-foot preceding chips. On eight, Jenkins nipped Kevin Packard in a chip-off by three inches.

It was the third straight year Jenkins has played in the derby and the first time he's won it. He was in the second place tourney two years ago and was eliminated on the first hole last year.

Packard was paired with Bob Meehl to complete the third-place twosome.

US players out of French Open tennis

PARIS (UPI) — Seven U.S. players, including veteran Tom Gorman, were eliminated Monday on the controversial opening day of the $210,000 French Open tennis championships.

The championships, the second leg of the grand slam that includes the Australian, Wimbledon and Forest Hills, attracted 114 of the world's 140 top ranked stars, but also considerable criticism for the use of low-pressure tennis balls.

Only Jimmy Connors, who said he wanted to practice on grass for Wimbledon, and Ilie Nastase, tied to the Hawaiian Leis of World Team Tennis, are skipping the French tournament.

The strong draw was tailor-made for giant killers and the first to strike was Rolf Norberg, a Swede noted primarily for his ability in doubles. The 24-year-old dumped Gorman, 64, 7-6, 6-2, after being substituted for a non-arrival at the last moment.

"They call these guys lucky losers; but they often turn out to be lucky winners," said Gorman. "They play as though they have nothing to lose."

"I haven't been here long enough to acclimatize myself and these heavy balls make things very difficult."

Americans Mike Cahill, George Hardie, Tim Gillikson, Steve Turner, Jim Delaney and John Andrews also made quick first-round exits.

Giles tries to repeat as British champion

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) — Defending champion Vinny Giles and fellow-American Dick Siderow Monday made sound starts in the British Amateur Match Play golf championship over the 6,914-yard St. Andrews old course.

Giles, a 23-year-old attorney from Richmond, scored a 3-and-2 first round victory over 17-year-old Hogan Stolt, a former England schoolboy international.

"That was a pretty tough match coming out of the box in the first round," the red-headed Giles commented. He was generally in control, however. Two up after five holes, he lost the sixth, but then birdied the next two holes, with putts of five and 10 feet.

Out in 34, two under par, Giles was pulled back to two up when Stolt birdied the 12th, but the teen-ager blundered his approach at the 14th, lost the hole, and two halves gave Giles the match.

Siderow, the 1973 champion, scored 3-1 over young Sean David Carrick, The Westport, Conn., stockbroker was two under par for the match.

He won the first hole with a birdie, sinking a 20-footer, and went two up with a par at the fourth. Another birdie at the ninth, where he ran in a 15-foot putt increased his lead to three.

Siderow forced to the 10th, lost the hole, and two halves forced the 12th, where he sank a 12-foot putt.

A canning par at the next hole put him four ahead and halves at the 15th and 16th were good enough to wrap up the match.

Former Wimbledon tennis champion Bob Falkenburg won through against Massimo Mammoli of Italy on a 14-hole playoff.

The 50-year-old Brazilian, now based in Los Angeles, was two up coming to the 14th, but lost three holes in succession, three-putting the 14th, finding a bunker at the next and losing the 16th to his opponent's birdie.

Both players found the road behind the green at the 17th, but the Italian failed to recover as well as Falkenburg and the match was square again.

They holed the 18th hole, but a 10-footer for a birdie ended the match at 19½.

Freddie Sullivan from Hatchet, Fla., looked ready to spring an upset when he fought back to square his match against seeded British Walker Cup player Ian Hutchison.

Hutchison was three up after five holes, but then lost the eighth, the 11th in a birdie, and the 12th.

An eagle, however, went lost ground on the 13th, which Hutchison birdied, and then lost the next two holes in pair to drop the match at 19½.

Half of the 32-Americans in action Monday reached the second round.

The rest of the 64-strong U.S. force goes into action Tuesday, including the highly favored Chris Strange. The 24-year-old from Pensacola, Fla., placed well in the U.S. Masters.

At the 18th hole, Strange, who had been 10 up, lost the last four holes to drop to 14½.

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices edged uncertainty higher early Tuesday in spite of the rally on the New York Stock Exchange. There was little news to "stir" the market in either direction.

Rising interest rates depressed investors somewhat. A number of banks, following the lead of major last week, raised their prime lending rate to 7 per cent from 6½ per cent.

Federal fund rates that banks charge each other on overnight loans rose slightly in the morning. Money-watchers use these rates to gauge Federal Reserve Board policy, which has been tightened recently in light of a surge in the nation's money supply. The money supply did level last week, however.

Major firms' investors, who made huge commitments during the first two months of the year, appeared to be contented with what they had and were unwilling to make further purchases in light of a lack of stimulating news.

Thus, the Dow Jones Industrial average was up 16.69 points to 976.91 shortly before noon EDT. Of the 1,579 issues crossing the tape, 645 advanced, 306 declined and 448 remained unchanged.

TF students start school

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Summer school for Twin Falls elementary and high school students began today.

The elementary school program will be funded by state and federal governments; funding for the high school program comes through student tuition.

No summer program for junior high school students is scheduled.

In addition to the elementary and high school classes, the school district also is conducting a special five-week program for children from migrant families at Bickel School. This program also receives federal funds.

According to Doyt Simcoe, District 411 director of special education, about 220 elementary students, kindergarten through sixth grade, began special sessions today at Morningside Elementary School.

The elementary program will run for five weeks, from today through July 2. Simcoe said, "It will focus on aiding low-income students to raise their ability level in math and reading and will also try to show the students that school can be exciting and a place to achieve success," Simcoe added.

The class sessions run from 9 a.m. to noon and are taught by regular district teachers paid $900 for the five weeks. In the afternoons, the teachers receive training to develop their skills in diagnosing learning problems.

Class sizes for the elementary program average about 10 students per teacher, Simcoe said, except for special gym classes.

Students are selected for the program after learning problems are identified by teachers. Participation in the program is voluntary.

To receive the federal funds, the school district isolated three elementary schools, Bickel, Morningside and Lincoln, as "target" low-income schools based on free-lunch records. Simcoe said, Students from those schools were then given the opportunity to participate in the program at Morningside.

The school district, Simcoe said, will receive about $20,000 to administer the program.

Although O'Leary Junior High School was also isolated as a target low-income school, Simcoe said, no program is being run for junior high students. Simcoe said only about 18 students from O'Leary expressed interest in a program. Regular teachers were not available to give the instruction, he added, so the program was not instituted.

"It would have been better to have the staff familiar with the kids due to the time limitation of summer school," Simcoe said.

He said there has never been a summer school program for junior high students in Twin Falls.

At Twin Falls High School, an estimated 195 to 220 students paid $20 per class to begin special summer instruction today for either regular class credit or to upgrade their skills.

Two-hour classes at the high school were being conducted in American history, language skills, American literature, government, math and science.

Students from all Magic Valley high schools are eligible for the classes, Buijn said, adding that many students from schools outside Twin Falls do attend.

Bikers hold massive party

HAGERMAN — Four or five hundred motorcycle club members from throughout the western states roared out of Hagerman Monday, leaving a long weekend of music and beer drinking behind them.

"You should have been there," one leather-jacketed club member said, "we really had a good time."

The massive party, sponsored by the Boise chapter of Brother Speed, drew participants from as far away as Florida and southern California.

The bikers assembled at Niagara Springs at the invitation of Idaho Power Co. The event, which has been held on Memorial Day for the last several years, was switched from Thousand Springs to Niagara because of the larger size of the later park.

According to Boise Brother Speed president Kevin "Mouse" Anderson, Hagerman merchants were notified weeks ahead of time to expect a large crowd and to stock up on extra food.

The event came off without violence. Music was provided by Salem Man and Buckshot, among other groups.

"We drank 52 kegs of beer," a member of the Portland, Ore., Outriders said.

Trees planted

IVAN C. HOPKINS, Lincoln County extension agent, shows newly planted shade master Locust tree, that was planted this past week at the Sheboe City Park. This tree plus a Schubert Maple and Mountain Ash were all planted by friends and relatives of deceased persons. They are located to the west of the Rotary Club Park Shelter.

Lawsuit dismissed

By SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer

RUPERT — A $3.6 million lawsuit by a former employee of the City of Rupert was dismissed Friday in U.S. District Court at Boise.

Judge Blaine Anderson dismissed the lawsuit by Donald Haussmann after hearing arguments by the plaintiff, acting as his own attorney, and Don Chisholm, city attorney for Rupert, on a motion for summary judgment.

The lawsuit involved the dismissal of Haussmann in January of 1975.

Haussmann filed the suit against Elmer Schenk, public services superintendent; Mayor Wendell Johnson; George MacDonald, city councilman; Dwinnell Alred, and Clark Cameron, Chisholm and Sherman Bellwood, Fifth District Court Judge, also were included in the federal suit, but Haussmann later dropped Bellwood from the case.

Haussmann claimed the city violated his civil and constitutional rights by dismissing him on a residency requirement. Haussmann did not live within the buffer zone surrounding Rupert.

Haussmann originally filed suit in state court, but Judge Bellwood granted a motion for summary judgment. The fifth district city commissioners appealed that decision, but filed a motion in U.S. District Court in Boise.

The former Rupert employee contended that the residency requirement is unconstitutional and was not uniformly applied. Rupert has had some employees living outside the city limits.

Chisholm said some of these were probationary and would be required to move within the city if they were retained for permanent employment. He said others are CETA II employees and are exempt from the requirement by federal law and by the fact that they are temporary.

Haussmann also contended that Schenk had given purged testimony in an affidavit before the state court.

Judge Anderson ruled that, if this were true, Haussmann should have countered it with testimony at that level and was precluded from challenging the testimony in federal court in a new case.

Schenk had stated he did not feel Haussmann would be employed beyond the probationary period even if he met the residency requirement, because his abilities failed to meet the city standards.

Anderson also pointed out that Haussmann himself was still under the six-month probationary period, having been hired on Nov. 1974.

He agreed with Chisholm's argument that a probationary employee does not have the same rights or protection of his job under the law as does a permanent employee.

Cassia plans interviews

BURLEY — Cassia County school board will interview applicants for Burley High School head basketball coach this evening.

Howard Blauer, superintendent of Schools, said the board will probably interview four men for the position. He said that includes at least three coaches from within Idaho and one from the Midwest.

Blauer said the district received about 10 or so applicants for the position including several from outside the state. The applicant from furthest away was from Maryland.

Among other items on the agenda for the 8 p.m. meeting is the opening of bids for removal of the old Declo elementary school structure.

The school board has approved an addition of three to four classrooms and space for the principal and his secretary at the Declo High School.

The board will also hear a report from Attorney Herman Burke on the lawsuit involving construction of Burley High School. The suit, filed by Mitchell Construction Co. when the contract for construction was not awarded to that firm.

The board is scheduled to canvass the May 18 trustee election and the vote on a five mill override levy for maintenance.

The date also is expected to be set for opening of bids for laying of asphalt at Burley High School. Blauer said the asphalt would be placed between the present asphalt strip and the fence.

Other items listed include approval of five to six new teachers and a request for Edith Dilie to attend the national food service convention in Hawaii.

Reservations soar for river floating

CHALLIS — Reservations for floating the Middle Fork of the Salmon River already have filled the river from June 19 through Aug. 28, Sam Warren, Middle Fork District ranger, says.

A June trip may be impossible or extremely hazardous due to high water conditions, he said.

A snow pack in the Middle Fork drainage is slightly above average and is approximately the same as last year. Anyone planning a June or early July trip should check the Middle Fork District ranger office on water conditions before starting out!

Warren said that due to the heavy demand for Middle Fork trips, drawing for reservations will be held next year.

The Forest Service program on the Middle Fork will be essentially the same as it has been the past few years.

Ted Anderson will be responsible for crew supervision and overall river management.

A boat patrol will run down the river each week as well as a two-man kayak patrol. The boat foremen will be Johnny Joe Bryan of Salmon and Andy Olavaria of Twin Falls.

The kayak foreman will be Mike Schulz of Flagstaff, Ariz. The main duties of the boat crew are cleanup and maintenance of the campsites and fire prevention work. They also do some public contact and public information work as well as enforcing the management regulations.

This will be the 12th year of the Middle Fork boat patrol and during this period of time the boat crews have hauled out close to 15 tons of garbage. The main duties of the kayak patrol are fire prevention and control, public contact and information work and enforcement of management regulations on the river.

Permits are required for all Middle Fork float trips.

According to Block, this method might be used on the downstream portion of the High Line Canal where the water may rise as much as 18 inches should Canyon View water run through it.

The Main Line Canal meanders west from Milner Dam, through Murtaugh Lake to a point south of Hansen. At its west end, the High and Low Line canals begin. The High Line Canal wanders north and then west, decreasing in size until it ends near the rim of the Salmon Falls Creek Gorge.

"Any combination of the two alternatives may be used along the Twin Falls system," says Block, depending on which combination is most cost and volume efficient.

Block emphasized, however, that engineers to make as few changes to the Twin Falls system as possible.

J-U-B is making a detailed plan which will outline what construction would be necessary at each point on the Twin Falls system to prepare for added water, Block said.

The first step in the planning process, already completed, was to place white markers at 900-foot intervals along the canal banks and take aerial photographs of the entire system, Block says. The white markers show up on the pictures, allowing engineers to measure distances accurately.

Using the aerial photos and a stereo plotter, an unusual device which uses red and green lenses similar to those once popular at 3-D movie theaters, engineers can project a three-dimensional picture of the canal on a screen, Block says.

Block says a stereo plotter allows engineers to produce an accurate trapezoidal cross-section representation of the canal at any desired point along its length.

From the representation, engineers can determine the volume of water the canal now carries, the water level when the canal is full in the summer, and the total capacity of the canal.

In either case, Block says Canyon View will fill to a maximum of 15 feet, which he estimates would cost $1.5 to $2 million.

(Tomorrow: The project's financial feasibility).

Gem irrigators back Pioneer

BURLEY — The 6,500-member Idaho Irrigation Pumpers Association has supported Idaho Power Company's proposed Pioneer confined plant.

"Idaho's farmers are greatly concerned about the future of Idaho Power Co. Is it possible to fulfill its responsibility to provide adequate supplies of electricity?" according to Mark Moorman, Miller, president of the group.

Copy of the organization's resolution supporting the plant have been sent to Gov. Cecil Andrus and the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, Moorman said.

"We see no reason to doubt that Idaho Power is telling the truth when it says more energy will be necessary in the future," Moorman added.

"We are convinced that growth now taking place will continue in the future whether Pioneer is built or not and Idaho Power must be able to supply the new customers or someone is going to have to do without electricity."

In its resolution, the group said more electricity will be needed as farmers put additional acres under sprinkler irrigation.

They claimed that new land development and conversion of farms from gravity systems to sprinkler irrigation have added more than 400,000 acres of irrigation pumping load to Idaho Power's system since 1970.

Admitting that electricity rates will go up if Pioneer is built, the irrigators said they are confident that Idaho Power will do its best to prevent rates from increasing any more than necessary.

The group said Pioneer's effect on the environment is a "minor concern" compared to the impact power shortages would have on Idaho citizens.

Any hydroelectric capacity that is economically feasible should be developed to the "fullest possible extent," the resolution says, adding that the irrigators recognize the cost would be high and supplies would be limited by the amount of water available.

"Without a vigorous agricultural base tourists will not come to Idaho," the resolution states. "Mark Buell, city administrator, said Tuesday,

"The group also wonders why the state would allow a new hotel complex in Elkhorn and a large condominium development in Sun Valley but restrict a five-story plant in Ketchum."

"It looks like they want to put us in an adversary position," said Mark Buell, city administrator, said Tuesday.

The regional HAW department notified a local developer last week no connections to the plant involving addition of sewer lines would be allowed.

"We can't approve additional connections to the Ketchum waste water treatment plant until evidence is presented showing us that it's additional waste water from the proposed subdivision will not cause the Ketchum waste water treatment plant to exceed the limits set forth in their NEPA permit," the letter said.

Sun Valley and Ketchum will appear in Environmental Protection Agency's permit in July before an administrative judge. The EPA has set a limit which plant has exceeded on its casualty.

Buell said today the 1973 state Anti-Degradation Act on the issue, which will be contested. The ad-hoc state committee can be part of the solution to what was occurring in 1973.

"I think it's the case that every city in the state is in violation," Buell said.

He said HAW is reacting vindictively because Ketchum and Sun Valley have decided to challenge the EPA permit. The state sets discharge limits and the EPA generally adopts those regulations.

Anderson also pointed out that Haussmann himself was still under the six-month probationary period, having been hired on Nov. 1974.

He agreed with Chisholm's argument that a probationary employee does not have the same rights or protection of his job under the law as does a permanent employee.
