Senate defents throwaway ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today soundly defeated a proposal to force an end to throwaway cans and bottles for soft drinks and beer by imposing a tax on such containers. The move, backed by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., in whose state a similar law has existed since 1972, went down on a 60-26 vote. It was the first time in four years of debate that either body of Congress has taken a vote on the issue.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. George S. Brown, under fire two years ago for saying Jews had too much influence over Congress, was approved for a second term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Tuesday despite a revival of the 1974 controversy.

The committee voted 13 to 2 to send President Ford's nomination of Brown to the full Senate for confirmation. Another senator, Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., was present but declined to take a position.

Ky sees war

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Former South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky says that a nuclear World War III "will happen" even, though most Americans to whom he has talked cannot face such a possibility. Someday, World War III, a nuclear war, will happen."

Ashes from Elmore blaze cover Valley

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

MOUNTAIN HOME — A large range fire has blackened more than 15,000 acres of range north of Mountain Home spreading a thick blanket of smoke and ashes over much of Magic Valley.

Bureau of Land Management officials in Boise and Shoshone reported more than 20,000 acres of range land has been charred by fires this week.

BLM officials in Boise said the Mountain Home fire, burning in the Saylor Creek gunnery range, was still out of control this morning and posing a threat to farm land several miles to the East.

Another fire in the Shoshone BLM district, covered 4,600 acres of range land before it was controlled about 6 p.m. Tuesday. It burned three miles west of Eden.

Michael Green, BLM fire control officer in Shoshone, said two other small fires occurred just north of the Snake River in Jerome County.

The first was reported about 3 a.m. when a car caught fire on Interstate Highway 80, just west of U.S. Highway 93.

The fire spread over about 90 acres before it

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In what he called the most difficult decision of his life, Sen. Barry Goldwater today endorsed President Ford over Ronald Reagan for the Republican presidential nomination.

In a letter to all delegates to the GOP national convention, the Arizona Republican and his party's 1964 presidential nominee, said both Ford and Reagan share almost the same conservative philosophy.

"My decision rests solely on the fact that at this time in our history I do not believe that our government can suffer through months and months of reorganization that would be necessary if we had a change in the office of Goldwater's successor."

"It is primarily on these bases that I have made my decision, the most difficult I have ever had to make in my life, and this is from one who has come out of the ring with sweat, dust and blood on him but who has come out of it determined to continue to fight for the interest of his country," Goldwater said.

Goldwater said that Republican presidential victories in 1952 and 1956 helped usher in an age in which more Americans are now conservative than ever before.

Recent nationwide polls have shown both Ford and Reagan trailing Democrat Jimmy Carter, who has virtually locked up his party's presidential nomination.

Further debate, Goldwater said, means "the GOP is risking" it all now over a hair-splitting debate within the party about which of two genuine and honorable conservative candidates is the more conservative.

"Many months ago, when the campaign started, I made the statement that I would not become involved in backing either candidate. Many of you will say that I have already done this by the position I took in favor of Reagan on Panama," he said. Goldwater called Reagan irresponsible for accusing Ford of moving to surrender the Panama Canal.

"I suppose that technically you are right, but today I have to take the last step, the same one that many of you have taken and many of our fellows Americans have taken and go on record as being in favor of President Ford," Goldwater said.

"I hope that you like me recognize that I am growing older." In essence, I want you to know that this is no reflection against Ronald Reagan whom I greatly admire.

"However, my concern for my country is so heartfelt that it has prompted me to write you this letter," he said.

In explaining why he prefers Ford to Reagan, Goldwater said:

"The next President will be faced with a Democratic Congress which has done more damage to the American concept of government and free enterprise than any other in my memory."

FIRE FIGHTERS battle a blaze near Red Bluff, Calif., that has consumed more than 65,000 acres of brush and timber, burning over rugged terrain and fanned by strong, gusty winds. More than 2,000 men were on the lines Tuesday and reinforcements were called in today. Several other fires in California were either contained or nearly so. (UPI)

Nebraska man on press struck down by US court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today unanimously struck down a Nebraska court's order preventing the press from reporting a confession and other testimony heard in open court in a sensational murder case.

In a major First Amendment ruling, Chief Justice Warren P. Burger refused to hold that court-ordered "prior restraint" barring publication of facts known to newsmen may never be upheld.

But he said that in the Nebraska case, less drastic attempts to ensure the defendant a fair trial should have been attempted, such as moving the location of the trial, delaying it or sequestering jurors in motel rooms.

Three justices went further and said the Constitution bars any form of prior restraint. A fourth justice said he basically agreed, although there might be extreme instances in which press restrictions might be warranted.

Nebraska news organizations brought the appeal after the state supreme court affirmed most of a sweeping order by Lincoln County Judge Hugh Stuart barring publication of information about the murders of six members of the Henry Kellie family in Sutherland, Neb.

Stuart said the order was needed to ensure that the man charged with the killings, Erwin Charles Simms, receive a fair trial with an unbiased jury.

News organizations asked the justices to hold that the First Amendment right of the news media to report is superior to a defendant's Sixth Amendment fair trial rights. But the high court majority refused to go so far in overturning the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Instead, Burger said "to the extent that this order prohibited the reporting of evidence adduced at the open preliminary hearing, it plainly violated settled principles of the First Amendment that proscribes the press from reporting events that transpire in the courtroom."

Although the ruling was a modified victory for the press, it separate actions the high court let stand California court orders sending reporters in Los Angeles and Eugene to jail until they disclosed sources of information which resulted in published stories.

The justices also declined to review U.S. Court of Appeals decision striking down Chicago district court rules barring lawyers from talking with reporters about cases before the court.

Fiscal 'no-man's land' starts tonight for US

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The country enters a fiscal no-man's land at midnight tonight. Fiscal Year 1976 ends Wednesday, but under the new Budget and Impoundment Control Act, Fiscal Year 1977 does not start until Oct. 1.

The period in between, from July 1 to Sept. 30, will go down in the economic record books as a hybrid called the "transition quarter."

The transition quarter will make little or no difference in the life of the average person although the changes in the fiscal year does have important implications for future federal budget-making.

"As a practical matter, I think it will be over before anyone knows it happened," said a staff member of the House Budget Committee.

Under the Budget Act, no new programs are supposed to be started during the transition quarter, nor are any programs to be expanded.

According to staff members of both the House and Senate Budget Committees, neither the administration nor Congress has tried to use the transition quarter for any purpose other than what was intended: a period of economic marking time.

"If anyone is playing tricks, they are minor ones," said a Senate staff member. "According to current estimates, $98.5 billion will be spending during the quarter."

The change in the fiscal year was made necessary by Congress' new effort to make sense of the federal budget-making process.

In the past, it was quite common for appropriations bills to be passed after the fiscal year for which they were intended had already begun. In some cases, the entire year has passed before the spending bill was passed.

Changing the beginning of the fiscal year to Oct. 1 was done to give Congress and the new budget committees time to complete the budget before it was needed.

Some fiscal years were considered when the law was passed in 1973, but were rejected for differing reasons, including a desire to have the fiscal year end in a election day.

Wrong payoff

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — A young Taiwanese man wrote love letters to his girl friend over the past two years proposing marriage. His persistence finally brought results.

A newspaper reported Monday the girl was engaged to the postman who faithfully delivered all the letters.

Frost sets Gem spuds back 10 days

BY KEN HODGE Times-News writer
BLACKFOOT — Saturday morning's frost throughout parts of southern and eastern Idaho caused a ten-day setback in growth for about 40 per cent of Idaho's potato crop.

According to Jerry Murphy, general manager of the Potato Growers of Idaho in Blackfoot, the amount of damage to the potato crop varied across the state, but "suggests the possibility of an eight- to 10-day drop in yield."

After driving across the state, Murphy said, 30 to 40 per cent of the potato crop appears to have been affected, while in the Aberdeen area, the damage amounts to about 60 to 70 per cent.

"Up around Bonneville County, it is worse than the Blackfoot area," Murphy said. "And north of Bonneville, in Jefferson, Madison and Fremont counties, the damage is almost total."

The larger plants tend to have less than half of their leaves, but it would still delay growth ten or more days," he said.

Murphy also estimated the freeze would have a "significant" effect on market prices if yields are actually depressed.

If the potato yield declines as a result of the frost, the total yield will probably be comparable to last year's, he said. If no damage had occurred, Idaho growers would have harvested more potatoes this year than last, he added.

Murphy said that as a result of the frost, damage and expected lower yield, this year's prices would probably approach last year's prices.

John Scott, assistant information director for the Farm Bureau in Pocatello, said the bureau had made no accurate study of the damage.

"I would say the damage as you drive through the Hagerman Valley over to Bruneau, was light to moderate," Scott said.

"Corn and potatoes seemed to be affected about," he said. "These crops will probably come out of it, unless the corn is frozen."

Scott cited some specific examples of damage in Magic Valley. He said one Farm Bureau member south of Jerome lost his beans and that bean damage occurred in the Hazelton area.

"It hit some and missed others," West said. "We understand there are some people picking up some damaged wheat in the Gooding, Shoshone, Wendell area, but that was done by the first frost about ten days ago."

West said the extent of the damage cannot be determined until harvest time, especially on wheat and other grains.

He said there is no way to determine how the market will be affected.

"I doubt our production here in Idaho in either grain or beans would be significant enough to cause a fluctuation in the market," West said. The beans that West said he had checked varied in the amount of damage sustained. Some were completely killed.

"I have heard of isolated cases in which it froze hard enough to require replant," he said.

Church files bill to save wilderness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Washington church has introduced legislation to "preserve the remnants of the wilderness upon which we founded our society and culture."
Titled the "Endangered American Wilderness Act of 1976," the bill would provide congressional protection for 18 wilderness areas threatened with developments in nine states.
Church said these areas of "defacto wilderness" are certain lands within the National Forest System which lack statutory protection under the Wilderness Act of 1964. In every other way, he said, they are of wilderness quality.
The bill designates new wilderness areas comprising some 1,089,044 acres in several western states and mandates, in addition, that six other areas, comprising 477,600 acres in three states, be studied for inclusion in the wilderness system.
Proposed wilderness areas in the bill are Wenah-Tucannon, comprising 200,000 acres in Washington and Oregon; Golden Trout, California, 240,000 acres; Pusch Ridge, Arizona, 56,510 acres; West Chichagof, Alaska, 405,000 acres; Lone Peak, Utah, 25,500 acres; Sandia Mountain, New Mexico, 30,200 acres; Santa Lucia-Lopez Canyon, California, 21,250 acres; French Pete, Oregon, 42,000 acres; and Ventana Wilderness Addition, California, 60,800 acres.
Proposed wilderness study areas in the bill include Holy Cross, Colorado, 146,240 acres; McGregor-Thompson, Mon-

Carter pondering early government shakeup plan

By United Press International
Even before he is nominated as the Democratic standard bearer, Jimmy Carter is thinking of asking Congress for power to shake up the federal government ahead of the inauguration in January.

In the plan from Milwaukee to Pittsburgh Tuesday night, Carter said that if he is elected in November he may ask Congress — before the inauguration — to re-enact — past — federal legislation allowing presidents to shake up the federal bureaucracy by executive order, subject to congressional veto within 60 days.

Then he grinned and said he wished he could withdraw the statement almost as quickly as he made it. He acknowledged there might be some protocol problems in asking Congress for such authority while President Ford was still in office.

"I wish I hadn't said it. I would be glad to withdraw that statement," said Carter, but then he smiled.

"No, I'm not withdrawing it. That's one of the questions that we are addressing now, and we're seeking advice on matters of that kind from the members of Congress."

Carter, in a speech to the U.S. Conference of Mayors in Milwaukee, Carter said he hoped to do for cities what Franklin Roosevelt did for rural America four decades ago.

"For eight years our cities and their people and their elected officials have too often been viewed by the White House as adversaries and used as political whipping boys," the apparent Democratic presidential nominee said.

Carter recalled the role Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps and Works Progress Administration programs had in improving rural conditions for the time and said "similar initiatives" on urban projects are called for now.

President Ford and Ronald Reagan pursued the GOP nomination from their homes. Both were in touch by phone with Republicans, hoping to line up more delegates. Ford was back in the White House, following a weekend economic summit conference in Puerto Rico, and Reagan was on his California ranch.

Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss said there isn't a state in which Carter's chances are poor.

"I think we could carry California against Reagan and I think we could carry Michigan against Ford," Strauss said.

But he added that Carter doesn't intend to slow his campaign effort despite polls showing him well ahead of either Republican. He said Carter will work "just as hard on the eve of the election next November as he did in the early primaries."

The Democratic Credentials Committee, meeting in Washington, was unable to determine which faction from Puerto Rico should be seated — a group backing Carter or one supporting Henry Jackson.

US casts veto

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — For the third time this year, the United States Tuesday voted to veto a Security Council resolution hostile to Israel.

Ambassador Albert W. Shorer Jr., deputy chief of the U.S. delegation, killed a measure upholding the Palestinians' right to self-determination, including national independence and return of property taken by Israel.

The vote was 10-1 in favor of the resolution, with Britain, France, Italy and Sweden abstaining. A negative vote by any of the five permanent Council members blocks adoption of a resolution.

It was the 16th U.S. veto in the U.N.'s 30-year history.

Privilege furor nearing climax

WASHINGTON — The furor over privileges and responsibilities of members of the House of Representatives reaches a climax Thursday in showdown votes that could damage the reelection chances of House Democrats.

Democratic Leader Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr., Mass., O'Neill, expected to succeed retiring Speaker of the House Carl Albert, D-Okla., next January, is the chief architect of Democratic parliamentary strategy in the current reform battle.

As party leader, O'Neill has been trying to prevent charges of sexual and ethical misbehavior by a few members from erupting into a major election issue that could damage the reelection chances of House Democrats.

And with Democrats set to nominate a presidential candidate, Jimmy Carter, who has made morality a campaign theme, O'Neill's problem needs a solution in a hurry.

Part of the answer was the resignation of Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, of the House Administration Committee, who allegedly paid Elizabeth Ray with public money to be his mistress.

Another part of O'Neill's solution came this week when the House Administration Committee and its new chairman, Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., approved a list of bookkeeping changes that will eliminate some financial benefits and tighten the accounting procedures of House members, each of whom receives up to $500,000 annually for staff and expenses.

The final part of O'Neill's solution is the subject of the vote Thursday — a resolution to strip the Administration Committee of authority to raise the allowances of House members.

O'Neill will try to obtain House approval of the stripping, resolving without reopening the package of reforms adopted by the committee.

A large number of Democrats objected to having the reform package handled solely in the Administration Committee.

Heating oil supply OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the Federal Energy Administration says there shouldn't be any shortage of domestic oil next winter.

Frank G. Zarb told a House energy subcommittee Tuesday that the FEA first forecast a milder-than-normal winter, based partly on incomplete figures. Then it updated the figures and made "slight changes," he said.

None of the changes, Zarb said, is "big enough to change the essential conclusion — domestic supply will be adequate to meet increased demand with no appreciable increase in imports."

But Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., the subcommittee chairman, said his staff concluded that revised demand estimates "demonstrate a potential major shortage of heating oil" next winter.

The FEA is asking to take federal controls off home heating oil prices. Dingell said decontrol could cause heating oil prices, in a time of short supply and high demand, to increase several cents a gallon.

Zarb said the worst that could happen would be a two-cent increase.

If neither House of Congress blocks the proposal, the FEA will free middle distillate oils, which include home heating oil, from the price and allocation rules July 1.

Is Henry Kissinger underestimating America?

A LENS Commentary on the Secretary of State, his policies and his critics.

By NEA London Economist News Service... Three quarters of the globe that is now lying about Henry Kissinger's ears is unjustified and undeserved... The starting point of Kissinger's policy towards the Soviet Union is entirely sensible... The Russians have now moved into the super-power stage of Soviet history, and there is little the United States could have done to prevent that happening...

its main intention... It was having a calming effect on the ungallop course of Soviet policy... The second complaint is that Kissinger's delicate policy of coexistence... The West could and should be urging a different course... The third is that he no longer seems to have the Kissinger bounce... To be sure, he has every reason to be tired and dispirited...

Join in the celebration

You'll never see anything like it again in your lifetime, so get out and enjoy the nation's bicentennial birthday party... Virtually every community in the Magic Valley will join in the celebration... There will be "fire" carnivals, street dances, performances of original plays, concerts, bicentennial queens, pancake breakfasts, sidewalk sales, free barbeque, Sargebrush Days, and an all-day sidewalk cafe... There will be prayer services, special breakfasts, caravan tours, parimutuel horse races, a beard-judging contest, the Intermountain Horse Pulling Contest and a thousand-pound beef giveaway... There will be movies, square dances, games for youths, equestrian exhibitions, an ice carnival, an arts and crafts fair, races for 10-speed and balloon-rite bikes, a mutton barbecue, political speeches, baseball playoffs, flags flying everywhere, and an old-fashioned cowboy shootout... There will be private moments of importance too. Friends will gather for fireworks displays and a few megalomaniacs... Families will relax together either in their cool backyards or by a good fishing stream... Kids of all ages will have the time of their lives... It is a rich fabric which America weaves. Garish colors, and tasteless commercialism, will somehow interlock with real patriotism, and gushing community pride... The celebration will somehow accurately reflect America's past and suggest its future prospects. Like America, it will be as big and wild and noisy and happy as the country itself... Join in. Have a good time at our party.

Carter outlines Diplomatic Ideas

New York Times... Jimmy Carter, who says he can "testify personally to the vigor of the Democratic process in our own country," wants to try practicing the processes of democracy in foreign policy as well... Through his policy statements so far, the presumptive Democratic presidential candidate is advocating a more open, cooperative approach to relations among nations... At least three themes of contrasting emphasis can safely be drawn between what Carter is saying and what Secretary of State Kissinger has been doing... The Democratic candidate and his advisers argue that top diplomatic priority must go to solidifying the links, both at policymaking and working levels, between his country and its principal allies, in Western Europe and Japan... Carter always seemed to proceed from the notion that the Soviet-American relationship came first, and from that would flow orderly relations with the Western allies... Secondly, as underscored in Wednesday's speech to the Foreign Policy Association, Carter seems prepared to address global economic problems in their own right... Finally, Carter stresses the importance of maintaining broad public support and understanding of foreign policy decisions... For all his criticism of Kissinger, Carter was ready to credit elements of the present administration's policy with which he could agree, specifically, Kissinger's new posture toward the nations of Africa... It is unreasonable to expect a candidate for high office to spell out exactly how he might respond to future contingencies... He has carefully reasoned statements so far... He has not, however, made any new, specific, long-range, far-reaching, or bold claims of familiarity with foreign policy challenges that would confront him as President.

Basic theme of American policy tapped once more

WASHINGTON - Jimmy Carter, who is not usually a frivolous man, poked fun at Henry Kissinger the other day as "the Lone Ranger" of American foreign policy... "The Silver" Carter said in effect... But the important thing about the governor's latest speech is not that he differed with so many of Kissinger's policies but agreed with so many of them... His emphasis was different: primarily for consultation with the allies rather than the Communists. His style, he indicated, would be different: not the spirit of domination but the spirit of cooperation. His appointments would be different: not star billing for the "Lone Ranger" Supor K, but a cast of thousands, all working together for a better world...

but carrying on the main policies of collective security among the free nations and co-existence with the Communists... Carter's differences with Ford and Kissinger are important, they may be difference of nuance, priority, and style, but it does matter if the secretary of state dominates the conduct of foreign policy, concentrates on relations with Moscow and Peking rather than London, Paris, Bonn, Ottawa, and the Latin-American capitals... It also matters if the foreign service of the United States, and the Congress of the United States, feel vaguely overwhelmed by a brilliant, but what he regard as an intimidating secretary of state, and Carter may be quite right to raise questions about the Kissinger era...

1952, stuck to the principle of the Western Alliance and prevailed over Taft after a battle not unlike the Ford-Reagan contest this year... Kennedy defeated Nixon in 1960, but just barely, arguing for American leadership in the world... Johnson, after the murder of Kennedy, won in 1964 against Goldwater, who seemed to be arguing for Reagan in a confrontation with the Communists; by appealing to the nation: "Let us continue..." Even Nixon won '68 and '72, not as the old anti-Communist Nixon of the 40's and 50's, but as the new Nixon who wanted peace and gent to Moscow and Peking... Accordingly, the theme of American politics and foreign policy in this turbulent generation since the war has not been one of fundamental disagreement between the major political parties and candidates over the policy of the United States toward the world, but since the days of Vandenberg and Dulles of compromise and basic agreement over strategy and objectives...

Levi fighting reform effort

WASHINGTON Star... The time has come," he told the Foreign Policy Association in New York, "for a new architectural effort, with a growing cooperation among the industrial democracies... Levi's sudden effort to derail the legislation, the major congressional response to the Watergate scandal, has surprised and dismayed its Senate sponsors, who had expected smooth sailing when the measure reaches the Senate floor next month... They are especially baffled because Levi and other Justice Department officials repeatedly ignored requests from key senators for comments and suggestions on how to improve the legislation... Justice Department opposition to the bill could prove politically awkward for President Ford, who can ill afford to appear opposed to Watergate reform legislation... Yet there are indications the White House may join Levi in fighting the bill in the Senate floor... The Watergate Reform and Reorganization Act has already cleared two Senate committees and is scheduled for floor action on July 19, the day the Senate will return from its recess for the Democratic National Convention... The bill contains three main sections, and Levi has directed most of his fire at the first crimes within the Justice Department to probe and prosecute most allegations of official corruption. It also would establish a mechanism to trigger the appointment of a temporary special prosecutor in extraordinary cases, such as Watergate, where the impartiality of the Justice Department itself might be in question in the public mind.

JAMES RESTON... Carter is now doing what must presidential candidates have done in the past: isolating years. He is criticizing past administrations...

Even Nixon won '68 and '72, not as the old anti-Communist Nixon of the 40's and 50's, but as the new Nixon who wanted peace and gent to Moscow and Peking... Accordingly, the theme of American politics and foreign policy in this turbulent generation since the war has not been one of fundamental disagreement between the major political parties and candidates over the policy of the United States toward the world, but since the days of Vandenberg and Dulles of compromise and basic agreement over strategy and objectives... Carter is following much the same line. On politics, he seems to be differing - and he is tactics - but the Ford, though not like Reagan, he is in tune with the melody of the nation's troubled search for peace over the last 30 years... Even when "the Lone Ranger" had Carter's New York speech read back to him in Germany, he was not disturbed... He has been telling people in Europe and elsewhere that, whatever happens in the election next November, American foreign policy will probably go along about as before, and while the personalities and emphasis may be different, he is probably right.

IRS to notify taxpayers if names on check list

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Internal Revenue Service has agreed to notify more than 700 taxpayers that they were among those singled out during the Nixon administration for special attention because of their political beliefs.

In a letter delivered Monday to Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander said that the notifications would be sent to some 775 individuals in those cases the IRS's former Special Service Staff had referred to field offices for some sort of action.

Mrs. Abzug, who heads a House Government Operations subcommittee on government information and individual rights, replied in a letter to Alexander that although she was "pleased that the IRS will institute this limited notification program," she would continue to press for notification of all 11,000 taxpayers and groups on whom the Special Service Staff maintained files.

In his letter, Alexander noted that the notifications were being sent pursuant to a request from the Abzug subcommittee, and he said that those notified would be able, with some exceptions, to obtain the information in their files for the asking. The IRS will also inform them of federal tax laws, which dates at least back to the Kennedy Administration, reached its peak under President Nixon, when the Special Service Staff was set up.

That unit, which from 1969 to 1973 collected information from other federal agencies not only about tax resistors but on various anti-administration groups, including several opposed to the Vietnam War, was described by the Senate committee in a recent report as "the principal instance of the use of the IRS for a fundamentally improper nontax purpose."

Mrs. Abzug has sponsored a pending bill that would require that individuals subjected to improper government intelligence activities be notified that files relating to them are in existence.

Besides the IRS, the only other federal intelligence agency that has agreed to such notifications is the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which is advising several hundred targets of its counterintelligence operations of actions taken against them.

The Central Intelligence Agency, which in the late 1960s and early 1970s collected about 10,000 files on domestic antiwar groups and their members, has declined Mrs. Abzug's request to provide similar notification. A subcommittee aide said Tuesday.

Some postal rates rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Effective next Tuesday, postal rates are going up by 3 to 20 per cent for certain types of second, third and fourth class mail.

The increases announced by the Postal Service Tuesday will bring in an estimated $1.5 million in additional revenue each week, a spokesman said.

The new rate schedule for second and third class mail mainly concerns commercial mailers.

Second class mail rates depend on weight, distance, whether it contains advertising, whether mailed for profit or non-profit, and whether it is classroom or agricultural science matter.

The changes for third class mail concern circulars, catalogues and books mailed by non-profit organizations.

Evacuation plans incomplete

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chief of the Civil Preparedness Agency announced today the Pentagon has not yet completed evacuation plans in case of nuclear attack and has marked only 188,000 shelters around the country.

But John E. Davis said national civil defense planning is "sound in concept" and has made significant progress in helping state and local authorities improve their disaster readiness.

In testimony prepared for the Joint Committee on Defense Production, Davis said his agency has established a national warning system to spread word of an attack to 1,200 warning points across the country and has distributed nearly 200,000 monitoring sets to check fallout.

But he also conceded a variety of shortcomings in the planning for atomic attack, which the congressional panel has been probing during three days of hearings.

Young says Carter alters perspective

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., told the national NAACP convention Tuesday that Democratic presidential frontrunner Jimmy Carter brings a new perspective to the problem of racial justice.

"I think that the experience of working together in the South has an experience the nation needs," said Young, adding Carter would "demonstrate something good can come out of the state of Georgia."

Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., backing President Ford, said his party "adheres to the heritage of Lincoln" and promised "a strong Republican platform plank with respect to human rights."

Young, a black, and Anderson, a white NAACP member, exchanged praise and ribbed on foreign policy, unemployment and taxes in their debate before the 10,000 delegates attending the convention.

Neither mentioned President Ford's antislavery proposal, which drew strong disapproval in a resolution passed Monday, although Anderson afterward told reporters he, like Young, opposes it.

During the discussion on foreign policy, Young was critical of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Tank design under fire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The General Accounting Office has criticized the Defense Department for rushing into development of a costly new main battle tank in the face of major uncertainties about the future of armored warfare.

The criticism comes as the Army is about to make a multi-billion-dollar decision on a future battle tank that would join the forces in the 1980s.

Within the next month the Army is to select a winner between competing prototype tanks developed by the General Motors Corp. and the Chrysler Corp. The Army plans to put the winning tanks into advanced development, producing 3,300 of the 60-ton weapons at a cost of $4.5 billion.

The GAO, the investigative arm of Congress, complained that the Army would be making this major decision based on incomplete inconclusive information about the need and role of tanks when antitank technology is changing.

The report was made public Tuesday by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., and Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., both of whom have raised questions about the cost and need of the new tank.

The GAO report said that recent advances in antitank weapons, such as the precision-guided missiles developed by the United States and the Soviet Union, have "made tanks more vulnerable in the past." It questioned whether the new antitank technology did not require a shift away from heavy tanks and increased emphasis on less expensive, lighter-armored vehicles carrying antitank weapons.

Basically, the Army looks upon the main battle tank as its major weapon to engage and destroy enemy tanks.

Ford calls for bells

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Ford is calling for two minutes of sustained bellringing across the nation at 2 p.m. EDT Sunday on the nation's Bicentennial Fourth of July.

"As the bells ring in our third century, as millions of free men and women pray, let every American resolve that this nation, under God, will meet the future with the same courage and dedication Americans showed the world two centuries ago," Ford said in a proclamation Tuesday.

Ford also urged all Americans to mark the country's 200th birthday by joining July 2 to July 5 in "an extended period of celebration, thanksgiving and prayer... for the future—safety and happiness of our nation."

Musician sets records

ROCHESTER, Mich. (UPI) — Jim Purul has drummed his way into the Guinness Book of World Records.

At 9 p.m. Tuesday night, the 23-year-old professional musician from Livonia, Mich., broke the old record of 248 hours of continuous drumming. He plans to make it an even 300 hours by keeping up the pace through midnight Thursday.

Purul's goal is to raise $500 for the Metropolitan Detroit chapter of the March of Dimes.

He said he decided to do the stunt because his family lost a niece to birth defects.

"This is something I've wanted to do for a long time," Purul said. "If many people have called and stopped in to encourage me, it's been tremendous."

Purul is doing his marathon drumming at the Library Lounge in Rochester.

Susan gets job

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Susan Ford plans to attend the University of Kansas next year and work at the Topeka Capital Journal where she was a photography intern last summer.

The newspaper said Tuesday the President's 16-year-old daughter will work as a part-time photographer for the newspaper while attending the university nearby Lawrence.

"She didn't get very much special treatment here last summer and she'll get even less when she comes to work here later," said her former boss, Rich Clarkson, Capital Journal director of photography.

Flamingo not retiring

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arthur Flemming, 71-year-old commissioner of aging, for the second time has been exempted from mandatory retirement.

President Ford said he was acting in the "public interest" by retaining Flemming on his job at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and at a second post as chairman of the Civil Rights Commission.

When Flemming reached the mandatory retirement age of 70 on June 12, 1975, he was given an exemption until the end of this month in an executive order. Tuesday Ford extended the exemption until the end of June, 1977.

Grasso will run

STORRS, Conn. (UPI) — Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso says she intends to seek reelection in 1978.

Mrs. Grasso's statement startled many reporters who had never heard her announce her political intentions. But news aide Larry DeBar said she has been saying that all along.

She was elected in November, 1974, in a landslide victory over former Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn.

Socialite charged

CHICAGO (UPI) — The wife of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana Board Chairman John Swearingin is to appear in court Tuesday on charges of disorderly conduct.

Wealthy socialite Bonnie Swearingin, when arrested June 20 at O'Hare International Airport, described herself to police as an unemployed civic leader.

Police said Mrs. Swearingin, co-chairman of the Chicago Bicentennial Committee, was arrested on the complaint of Harold Kabus, who charged that when he put his suitcases on Mrs. Swearingin's luxury automobile, Mrs. Swearingin threw them off.

Neither Mrs. Swearingin nor Kabus was available for comment.

Hitecock honored

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Film director Alfred Hitchcock was made a commander of the French Order of National Arts and Letters Tuesday for his contribution to the art of movies.

French Consul General Michel Toinonogou made the presentation to Hitchcock, who was named an officer of the order in 1969. Hitchcock said he always had a high regard for France and French culture, particularly French food.

Liberae fined

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Pianist Liberae was fined $25 Tuesday for possession of a slot machine.

Police found the illegal gambling device while inspecting his home in April after a burglar alarm went off. An attorney for the pianist entered a no contest plea.

The judge ordered the machine destroyed and the quarters in it confiscated.

Solo cleanup under way

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — The automotive age has left more than just beer cans and soda bottles along the nation's highways, according to a University of Minnesota student who is spending the summer in a solo coast-to-coast cleanup.

Mike Erickson, 26, a student of theater arts, is pushing a small carpet sweeper across the country.

In addition to the usual debris, Erickson is picking up what is left of animals struck by automobiles.

"By my count there were 12 possums, 16 skunks, 20 raccoons, 17 dogs, 12 cats and too many drugs and birds to count," Erickson reported Tuesday by telephone from Lexington, Ky., 600 miles into his journey.

Erickson set out June 15 from Norfolk, Va., with the two-and-a-half-pound Japanese-made carpet sweeper to prove that you can keep America clean without using expensive equipment. He is averaging about 30 miles a day and hopes to reach San Francisco about Oct. 1.

Hughes' last days probed

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Attorney General John L. Hill said Tuesday he is probing the last days of Howard Hughes to probe the millionaire recluse was a Texas resident at the time of his death.

Hill and other state officials are trying to prove Hughes was a Texas resident to have his will probated in the state and to collect state taxes on the fortune.

"The attorney general received a two-page fact sheet on information his investigators discovered about Hughes' last days.

According to Hill, Howard R. Hughes arrived in Acapulco, Mexico, by private aircraft Feb. 10, 1976, accompanied by nine aides, including two physicians.

Hughes was in poor health and was taken to a wheelchair to the Acapulco Princess Hotel, where he reportedly remained bedridden until he left the city April 5.

Hughes' entourage reserved the 20th floor of the hotel and the area remained under tight security, including board of minors.

"As far as we can determine, no one except Hughes' personal aides were admitted to the 20th floor until shortly before his departure when Hughes was examined by a local physician of Acapulco," Hill said.

Hill said Hughes apparently never was hospitalized while in Acapulco and no outside medical care was solicited, except for one trip report.

"The doctor who attended Hughes shortly before

Challenge dismissed on 'will'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Legal tangles surrounding the Howard Hughes estate were partially cleared Tuesday when a challenge filed by one of his distant relatives against the so-called "Mormon will" was dismissed in District Court.

Judge Keith Hayes granted a motion of dismissal sought by former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich. The contest was filed last month by nine persons claiming to be children of second cousins to Hughes.

The court said the contest was dismissed on grounds the self-proclaimed heirs were too far removed to inherit any of the Hughes $2.5 billion estate, whether the will were created genuine or not.

Attorney Harold Broden, Dietrich's lawyer, indicated Tuesday he would ask that a jury be selected for probate proceedings to determine if the will is genuine. The next probate hearing on the will is scheduled for July 30.

The "Mormon Will" was filed with the Nevada court April 26 after it mysteriously turned up in the headquarters of the Mormon Church in Salt Lake City. Since then more than 30 purported wills have been filed with the Clark County clerk, Lt. L. A. Vadas, many of them the obvious work of pranksters or cranks.

Oregon teen comes home

LA GRANDE (UPI) — Ida Mary Hays, the 15-year-old La Grande girl who underwent surgery in New York to repair her congenitally misshapen face, came home Tuesday.

She was provided with a police escort and as she passed through town every body waved. There were homemade signs saying, "Welcome Home, Ida."

A rodeo queen and city officials greeted her.

Ida also was reunited with her father, Bill, and her Calico cat, Stripes. The cat became "lost" at a veterinarian's home after she went to New York six weeks ago. It finally was discovered, lean but alive, hiding in the veterinarian's attic. Part of the ceiling had to be dismantled to rescue the cat.

LET US KNOW IF YOUR FAVORITE PRODUCT IS MISSING FROM OUR SHELVES.
Customers often call me on the Red Phone and ask why they no longer find certain favorite products on our shelves. At Smith's we try to stock a variety of nationally advertised brands in addition to our own private labels. Capital and Mader's. However, because of space limitations, it's impossible to carry every product that's manufactured in this country.
Right now, we stock over 25,000 items in every Smith's store -- with about 15 to 20 new items presented each week. The constant flow of buyers is constantly watching the demand for different products. When any product becomes a slow mover, it's taken down the shelves to make room for a new, more popular item. As retail stores, we're not making money on slow movers. It's better to get rid of them than to have them sitting on the shelves. I'm sure you'll understand the manufacturer's position. We'll try to get you a supply of the product you're missing as soon as we can. If you have any suggestions, please let us know. We'll try to get you a supply.
AT SMITH'S, WE REALLY WANT TO BE YOUR FAVORITE STORE. AND WE REALIZE THAT INCLUDES PROVIDING YOUR FAVORITE PRODUCTS.

Cassia aides approve fund applications

HURLEY — The Cassia County School Board approved submission of applications for more than $200,000 in federal funding of Title I educational programs Monday night.

Title I provides programs specifically designed to benefit disadvantaged children.

Although approving $51,000 for Title I migrant education and $168,000 for the regular Title I program, board members questioned instructional director Norman Hurst carefully.

Hurst told the board that the district has been participating in the two programs for special aid to migrants and to disadvantaged children for several years. He said some regular teachers objected because they failed to understand that the aides hired under Title I were hired strictly to provide additional help to students beyond the regular program the teachers themselves are to offer the students.

Trustee Gerald Frost wondered why the district was so deeply in trouble with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) over civil rights if it has been in the program for several years. Hurst explained that the bulk of the Title I program is for compensatory education to all disadvantaged children, without regard to race.

The district has been cited by HEW as discriminatory toward Mexican American students and, during the past winter, developed an affirmative action plan under HEW direction for elimination of any discrimination and for development of bilingual-bicultural programs for Mexican Americans.

Superintendent of Schools Harold Hurst said the application for a summer migrant program and supplementary help for five months of the regular school year, an migrant education has increased approximately 11 per cent from $45,000 last year.

Hurst pointed out that the $168,000, same as last year's funding, is up from $58,000 only about two years ago.

He said the emphasis in the program is on reading, language arts and math and it will be offered in six project schools determined by area incomes lower than the district's average.

The schools are Overland, Mountain View, Decio and Chinkley elementary schools, Springdale kindergarten and Barley Junior High School.

The determination was made on the basis of the percentage of students obtaining free or reduced price lunches at each school. Hurst said, on the average in the district, 28 per cent received the free or reduced prices. Those six schools had higher percentages, he said.

The students actually receiving the Title I help are those who test two grades below their actual level in any of the particular subjects.

Kennecott clearance sought by senator

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., has asked the Environmental Protection Agency to give Kennecott Copper "immediate" clearance to resume mining and mill operations in Eastern Nevada.

Cannon told EPA's San Francisco regional administrator Paul DeFazio more than 800 jobs are at stake. He said Kennecott has indicated it must decide in the near future whether to curtail its remaining McGill smelter operations.

He said 500 workers were laid off in early February, mostly because of the depressed copper market.

Larry Ek loses bike ... again

TWIN FALLS — Larry Ek, Twin Falls, has lost his three-wheel bicycle again.

He said the bicycle, his only form of transportation, was stolen Sunday morning from in front of his home. It has been stolen and recovered several times in the past.

Ek, who underwent a brain pacemaker operation last year, suffers from cerebral palsy.

Bootlegger sales brisk in fireworks

By United Press International

From Puyallup, Wash., to Perrine, Fla., there isn't a small boy who wouldn't give his eyeteeth for some firecrackers to do the Bicentennial Fourth of July up proper.

And from the premature bangs, sizzles and roars in communities around the country, it's apparent that fireworks bootleggers are doing a good business.

But it may be the last sale for the federal government's only soon crack-down on all but the finest crackers.

Except for places where fireworks are still legal, most kids and the old folks who still like to hold a burning punk to a skyrocketer's fuse will have to be content with watching the local July 4th display.

Some of them are going to be spectacular. In Washington, D.C., 33 tons of explosives, linked by 16 miles of wiring, will be detonated at the Tidal Basin in celebration of the nation's 200th birthday.

The Capital Hill display is touted as the biggest U.S. history featuring more than 20,000 rockets.

Not to be outdone, New Yorkers will send 67 tons of gun powder skyward in bursts and showers from 3,700 rockets around the Statue of Liberty which will be decked out with a red, white and blue lighting system for the occasion.

Hundreds of other cities and towns will light the night skies of Independence Day with their own celebrations, while folks in back yards, at picnic grounds and on beaches bring out their own illegal supplies and blast away.

Earl Keniston, investigator for the New Hampshire fire marshal's office, said the influx of illegal fireworks usually banks up two weeks before and after the Fourth.

"There's a tremendous amount of fireworks being brought into the state," he said. "There's so much of it that you can't control it."

Most authorities admit they are almost powerless to enforce the law. At best, offenders are charged only with misdemeanors.

Injuries from these bootleg fireworks have been mounting since late spring.

Capt. Norman F. Sanner, head of the Pittsburgh, Penn., fire prevention district, said he expects the rate of fireworks-related injuries to be three times higher this year than in the past, because of the Bicentennial.

In May, a New Jersey high school girl died to death from a slashed throat after a large firecracker exploded against glass covering a fire extinguisher.

A 16-year-old teen-age Ohio girl recently was burned so badly she needed skin grafts after someone tossed a powerful firecracker into her lap at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium.

"In Kansas, the legislature for offends is the legal sale, from June 27 through July 5, of bottle rockets, one or wheel set fire to the roof of a church Sunday."

"They just went on sale yesterday," sighed State Fire Marshal Floyd Diphern, "and they already got a church."

But still, it's hard as the nation's 200th birthday for a father of a boy holding a package of firecrackers he has traded his prized possessions for, and who pleads, "G'mon, Pop — please.

Heavy atoms found

LENZ, West Germany (UPI) — Two American physicists have discovered the heaviest atoms known so far, British Nobel Prize winner Paul Dirac announced today at a meeting of Nobel Prize winners.

Dirac said R. V. Gregory and T. A. Cahill made their discoveries two months ago during work at Dirac's research institute in Tallahassee, Fla. but waited until today to announce their findings to rule out the possibility of error.

The so-called "super-heavy elements," which for decades scientists all around the world have searched for, have atomic weights of 116, 121 and 126. The ten physicists have not yet named the new elements, Dirac said.

Dirac said the discovered elements had been found in natural minerals. Until now uranium, with an atomic weight of 92, was considered the heaviest natural element.

Physicists had thought heavier atoms could only be produced artificially and in fact have produced atoms with weights up to 106. But these elements were found to be unstable.

The American physicists claim the "super-heavy elements" have a life of about a billion years and therefore rate as stable.

Senate passes guards for income supplements

T.N. Phones 738-0931
(Or use our toll-free lines)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has approved two amendments to a tax bill, to protect aged, blind and disabled victims of the Teton Dam disaster from losing Supplemental Security Income benefits. Sens. Frank Church and James McClure said today.

Andrus backs measures fixing in lieu payments

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus added his support today to legislation pending in Congress which would provide payments in lieu of taxes on certain federal lands in Idaho. But Andrus urged amendments to the legislation in order to prevent a reduction in federal funds already being received by some Idaho counties.

In letters to Idaho's two Republican Congressmen, Steve Symms, and George Hansen, the governor said "the proposed law establishes a maximum payment of 75 cents per acre per year for all federally owned lands."

Under existing law, recipients' basic grants are reduced by one-third if they live in another's household or receive support and maintenance.

Without the Church-McClure amendment the recipients would lose $55.93 a month in retirement payments. In the case of qualifying couples, their monthly benefit would be cut back by $13.93.

These individuals already have suffered enough, Church said. "Our amendment can prevent further hardship, as well as provide well-deserved help for persons in time of need."

McClure said the flood victims "have suffered too much already. We have to make sure that federal government programs help them — and not to their problems. These amendments are necessary in our efforts to continue to try and relieve eastern Idahoans from the hardships this disaster has caused."

"Many Idahoans have already lost their homes, family possessions, furnishings and even loved ones," Church said. "The loss of reduction of SSI payments at this time can have devastating impact. They simply should not suffer further because of this disaster."

Nearly 1,000 benefit recipients reside in the three counties — Jefferson, Madison and Fremont — that were the most severely damaged by the flood. The Social Security Administration estimates one-half to three-fourths of these persons have been adversely affected by the disaster.

Andrus said, however, he was concerned by a limitation in the proposed law which would permit any one county to receive no more than $1 million. He said two Idaho counties have received more than that amount in recent years and another was near that limit.

In fiscal year 1975, Idaho county received $1,364,454 as its share of forest receipts and in fiscal 1974 Shoshone County got $1,345,758. Valley County received $907,433 in fiscal 1975.

"None of these three counties is heavily populated," Andrus said. "A $1 million limit would obviously hurt Idaho and Shoshone counties most years and a limit based on population might hurt other counties in Idaho."

Andrus wrote Symms and Hansen he liked "the concept" of the legislation "because I feel the federal government should pay something in the way of lieu of taxes." But he urged the two congressmen to work for revision along the line he outlined.

Sale total high

LONDON (UPI) — A sale of 27 impressionist and modern paintings from mainly French and Swiss private art collections totaled $2.8 million at Sotheby's Monday evening.

A painting by Vincent Van Gogh, "L'Heure de Midi au Jardin pres d'une Maison," was sold to an anonymous buyer for $861,000. The record price for a Van Gogh is $975,000 paid in New York in 1970.

A painting by Paul Gauguin entitled "Les Femmes Fleurs ou les Bretonnes aux Avines" brought $306,000.

Comments on proposed plan retained in Coeur d'Alene, Boise, for three years for review and will be made available to anyone at wide appropriate.

Differences between the proposed plan published March 29, 30, and 31 and the final plan are as follows:

- A new letter authorizing the Department of Health and Welfare as the responsible planning agency for the Title XX Plan has been inserted, as has a current letter of certification from the Attorney General.
- The wording describing eligibility in the second part of Section B has been changed to clarify eligibility requirements.
- The formula for calculating eligibility for families of more than ten persons has been inserted in Section B 2 of paragraph 6.
- In the section entitled "Services to be Provided," the fiscal year has been corrected to fiscal year 77.
- In the section entitled "Diagnostic Testing to Establish Case Treatment Plans" has been eliminated from the Plan. Comments were received indicating that the services described in that service definition could be provided under other service descriptions.
- Two new services were added to be provided statewide: State Youth Service Center Program and Disaster Relief Services.
- Child Foster Care Services were amended to: clarify the types of alternative care in which children might be placed; more clearly identify room and board as a specific service; identify shelter care services as a separate service; and to add minor medical and remedial care as a service for children in foster care.
- Emergency shelter care was eliminated under Child Protection since it is made available under Child Foster Care.
- The service description of Chore Services was reworded to clarify its meaning. No substantive change was made.
- Day Care Services for Children was amended as follows: an unclear description of the objectives of therapeutic child care was eliminated to avoid confusion; 24-hour emergency care was removed and is now available as a Child Protection Service as it was determined that 24-hour care should not be defined as a part of Day Care and this is how part of Child Protection services; emergency homemaker services are now part of the Homemaker Service description rather than that of the Day Care description; respite care for parents of emotionally disturbed children was eliminated due to financial constraints.
- The services described in Diagnostic Testing to Establish Case Treatment Plans have been eliminated from the Final Plan. Diagnostic services to insure appropriate care for children have been provided in Child Protection, and Youth Rehabilitation Services. Diagnostic services to supportive to insure appropriate placement is now described under Supportive Counseling Services.
- Family Planning Services has been rewritten to expand the number of persons to whom such services may be made available. The service definition has been amended to better clarify that services described are those Family Planning Services available under Title XX and may not be the same as those under Title XIX. The service description has been rewritten to make its meaning more clear. No substantive change in the service description has occurred.
- Grammatical corrections were made in the description of Supportive Counseling Services.
- The description of Youth Rehabilitation Services has been expanded to make its meaning more clear.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were so looking forward to having our first child. He was born a perfect little boy, but he died mysteriously when he was 16 days old. They said it was a crib death.

We are heartbroken and want to have another as soon as possible. We hope it will be another boy, and if it is, we want to call him "Robert Roy II" because our first son was named Robert Roy.

Please tell us what you think of this idea.

STILL GRIEVING.

Baby not replacement

DEAR STILL: I know how desperately you want to "replace" the child you recently lost in death, but please don't give him the same name. The new baby shouldn't be thought of as a "replacement" for another child in his own right, and he should be treated as one.

DEAR ABBY: Last week I got the shock of my life. My husband of 24 years announced that he doesn't want to be married anymore.

He is 51 and I am 49. We built a wonderful business together, and we're still in it. We have children and grandchildren.

He insists there is no other woman, and I believe it because he is hardly man enough for me. (I never complained. Why start now?)

He says he wants his own apartment, but he doesn't want a divorce; he just wants to be "free." He says if we get a divorce, it will cost us a fortune dividing up the assets, so we should stay married, remain business partners, but live apart.

I am still in shock. I don't want to stay married to a man who doesn't want to live with me, but what have I to gain by that kind of arrangement? I'd be married in name only, but not really free to look around. Help me.

IN SHOCK IN ORLANDO

DEAR IN: Tell your husband that you don't want an "in-name-only" marriage. But go slowly. Before you throw 24 years of marriage and what no identification on whether it's what you really want to do.

Men also go through a kind of menopause in their middle years, which could account for your husband's sudden decision.

DEAR ABBY: Last week on the way home from work, my husband and I saw a little girl on the side of the road who had just been hit by a truck. That was bad enough, but when the ambulance arrived they found no identification on the girl, and no one knew who or where her parents were, so all they could do was take her to the hospital. At the hospital they couldn't do anything without parental consent because she was a minor.

If that child had been wearing an I.D. bracelet or necklace her parents could have been easily located and treatment could have been started sooner.

We make sure our pets have tags because they can't tell people where they live, but a child who is unconscious can't talk either. Please print this.

J.L.E.

DEAR J.L.E.: Pets are tagged because it's required by law, but you make a good point. An I.D. bracelet or necklace would make an ideal gift for a child's birthday or Christmas. And include the child's blood type. It could be a life-saver. Think about it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ask the Jacobys

A Georgia reader wants to know the correct response to a one-diamond opening bid with:

This is a tough one. You prefer to respond in your longest suit, but with only nine high-card points you don't want to go to the two level. — Helen — your correct response is one spade.

Perfect technique in dummy play is something all experts strive to attain. Forty-five years ago no one had it, but Hal Sims came mighty close.

Today's hand shows Hal at work. Most players would simply go down one and complain about their "misfortune in the diamond suit. Hal made the hand without any ceremony at all.

Hal ruffed and promptly cashed all his trumps while discarding a diamond from dummy. West had to make

Marines cut quotas, faked test scores

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former government official told Congress Tuesday a quota reduced the number of black recruits in the Marine Corps from 22 per cent to 10 per cent in fiscal 1975.

Marine recruiters then made up the difference by cheating on mental test scores to bring in mentally unacceptable whites, Republican J. Brown told the House military manpower subcommittee.

Brown, who was associate director of the now-defunct Defense Manpower Commission, said staff members found the Marines adopted a policy under which the number of black enlistees "was the lowest acceptable mental category was to be limited to 10 per cent or less of the total of black enlistees."

"The same ratio was to be applied to white enlistees as well," Brown said, but Marine recruiters "were forced to make up the shortage by increasing the number of acceptable white recruits."

Brown said evidence from retesting of recruits after they entered the Marines showed that the number in the lowest mental category increased by 27 per cent, an indication there had been cheating on their original entrance tests.

"Evidence included in the data on test scores suggest that these recruiters were not able to make up these shortages without cheating on test scores," Brown said.

"In effect, the establishment of recruit quotas by race for the Marine Corps engendered shortages in Marine Corps accessions (recruitments) which had to be made up by recruiting a significant number of unqualified white recruits."

Iranian terrorists claim

TEHRAN, Iran — Iranian police killed 10 alleged Communist terrorists, including two women, in a gunbattle near Teheran's airport Tuesday, Iranian officials reported.

The shootout brought to well over 60 the number of terrorists who are officially said to have been killed or executed in Iran this year — and the actual death count is rumored to be substantially higher, not counting an unknown number of policemen who have been killed by terrorists.

Six of the alleged terrorists, including one of the women, were identified by the officials. Among them was said to be Hamed Ashraf, a man who was reported to have been involved in a terrorist attack on a rural police post five years ago.

Top MV nurse denies charges

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The director of nursing at the Valley Memorial Hospital said today he knows of no "flagrant" violations of the "nurses act" at the hospital.

He said, however, that in responding to a "life threatening" situation, that his staff personnel may perform medical acts they are not legally qualified to perform.

Seminar opens in SV

By BART QUENELL
Times-News writer

STAN VALLEY — The real western cowboy probably didn't know what a paradox is or how to spell it.

But writers and actors said here Tuesday the western hero was always in a paradoxical situation.

The first of six days of a western myth and images film seminar opened Tuesday with panelists presenting views of the west followed by a late evening showing of Clint Eastwood's new movie, "The Outlaw Josey Wales."

Jenni Calder, an Edinburgh, Scotland, author of "There Must Be a Lone Ranger," told a packed audience that "the western hero is a casualty of progress."

The hero can no longer function in a new society, she said, and since he cannot adapt, is no longer a hero.

At the same time Calder said the western movie hero is "a democratic individual and an elitist, a seeming contradiction."

"The frontier in many ways, did not want to be civilized but at the same time, it spawned a hero to tame it," she added.

Siew-Hwa Beh, director of the Women's Film Archive in Berkeley added to Calder's analysis that the hero goes out into the wilderness "seek control of an irrational world he cannot resolve. In trying to solve his problem, he gets farther and farther away from society."

Will Wright, western author and professor at Dartmouth College, added that "the western is the epitome of optimism."

Its popularity, he said, is because there is still a sense in the western of the individual being stronger than the bureaucracy.

Many newer films show people writing optimism in the face of today's problems, Wright said.

Western movie actor and director Clint Eastwood said the old classic, "Shane," is a good example of western themes and actions, which audiences like.

"Everybody is for vengeance and justice," Eastwood said, which is exactly what his new movie portrays.

Eastwood says the most successful movies end in violence.

Beh added that the strength of the western hero comes from not being able to resolve conflicts in life.

Women she said, try to deal within the community and without the self to resolve conflict. However, the eastern movie hero, she said, seldom can join a community, and is generally seen riding into the sunset at the end.

Peter Fonda, recently directed "The Hired Hand," said it is not necessary to be extremely accurate to explain the politics involved in a western.

TF youth escapes injury

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls youth escaped injury when struck by a vehicle Tuesday night while playing with a frisbee in the street.

City police reported John Lloyd Day, 17, Twin Falls, was in the street in the 100 block of Jackson St., when a vehicle driven by Elmer Everett Klasinger, 42, traveling north, struck the youth. Day was thrown into the air, came down and struck the windshield of the car, breaking it, according to the police report.

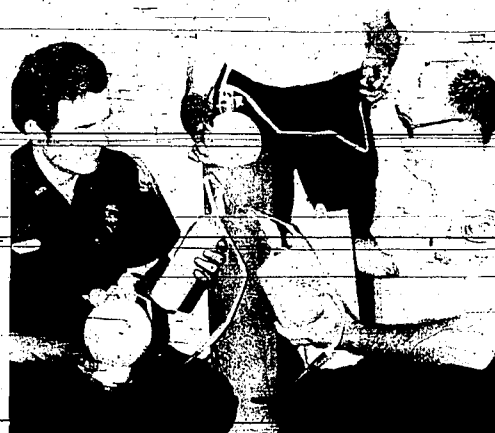

Officers said Day apparently struck his head on the windshield of the vehicle but did not require treatment.

Another Twin Falls youth, Paul Taber, III, 15, was treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Tuesday night and released after his bicycle collided with an automobile. Officers said a vehicle driven by Sherman Perkins, 55, Twin Falls, had stopped at a stop sign on Addison Avenue East at Syringa Street and was turning right when it collided with the bicycle which was traveling on Addison Avenue.

Fireworks checked

Largest fireworks display in TF history set July 4

TWIN FALLS — The largest fireworks display ever in Twin Falls is planned for Sunday night in the Bicentennial Fourth of July celebration.

Large aerial fireworks, representing a cost of nearly $5,000 and including 150 separate displays have been purchased by the city for the occasion.

Now locked in a fireproof room at the new Twin Falls fire station, the items include several multiple display "bombs" will be discharged from Frontier Field at dark Sunday night.

Members of the Twin Falls fire department will set off the fireworks by using large steel pipes buried partly in the ground. The fireworks will be dropped into one of the metal pipes and then lighted, sending it into the air from 500 to 1,500 feet, depending on the type of explosive.

The pipe is then cooled with water and ready for the next display. Firemen said both roads leading into Frontier Field will be blocked by police to keep the public at a safe distance. The parking lot at the College of Southern Idaho will be open for spectators and the lawns of the college and adjoining park will be ideal places to watch the display, Clare Harkins, fire inspector, said.

It has been about five years since the city provided a public fireworks display for the holiday and this is the largest ever obtained, Harkins said.

EPA evaluates Rock Creek sewage pump station in TF

TWIN FALLS — Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) officials at the Idaho Operations office, Boise, said today they are evaluating plans to rectify the overflow problem at the Rock Creek sewage pump station in Twin Falls.

City officials submitted plans during a meeting with EPA representatives Friday in Boise.

George Michael, city engineer, said city crews are working this week to repair the two pumps at the station to comply with EPA regulations. The volume of sewage carried by the Rock Creek line has increased in recent months, he said, to more than the two pumps can handle.

Overflow sewage has been seeping into Rock Creek and flows out into the Snake River instead of being pumped into the interceptor which carries it to the city's sewage treatment plant.

Part of the increase has resulted from Idaho Frozen Food dumping sewage into the city system this past spring, Michael said. Previously the processing plant waste went directly into Rock Creek.

While the current maintenance work is expected to bring the pumps up to present needs, a long-range solution will call for additional increase in pumping capabilities, as the flow increases from expected city growth, Michael said.

He said a possible solution will be the future installation of an additional pump.

Kress opens office in TF; lists labor contributions

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Stan Kress, candidate for the Democratic nomination for congressman in the Second District, said he has received campaign contributions totaling about $19,000, the biggest chunk close to $8,000 from organized labor.

Kress, state senator from Piler, said he has not received any help from paid labor union representatives, though he has received volunteer help during his campaign from members of labor unions.

Speaking at the opening of his Twin Falls campaign headquarters Tuesday, Kress said he will not be influenced by big incomes' support if elected as a congressman.

"And I'm no more embarrassed to have their support than I am to have the support of the farmers and the teachers," Kress said.

Hesaid, as of a couple of days ago, he also has received contributions totaling about $5,000 from farmers and about $3,000 from teachers. Of approximately 13,000 AFL-CIO members in Idaho, about 6,500 are in the Second District, he said.

Kress pointed to his "well-organized" campaign committee as a reason voters should nominate him in the Aug. 3 primary. Only a candidate with a well-organized campaign can beat Republican incumbent George Hansen in the November election, he said.

A candidate must conduct a "people-to-people" campaign, he said, adding a campaign director must have a strong organization to do that.

Kress said a telephone survey conducted in Twin Falls showed him leading his challenger in the Democratic primary, Kelly Penner, director of the Lava Hot Springs Foundation.

The poll, he said, showed him having the support of 55 per cent of about 500 polled.

Kress said four or five phones would be installed at his Twin Falls headquarters to allow his supporters to conduct a phone identification campaign in Twin Falls.

During his campaign swing through the Magic Valley earlier this week, Kress visited senior citizens centers in Piler and Kimberly. He also attended a Jerome women's club picnic.

He was scheduled to speak at noon before the Association of Idaho Cities' annual state convention in Coeur d'Alene at noon today.

Charges by two hospital nurses Monday night also complained that short staffing and limited training had led to instances in which nursing personnel had performed tasks for which they were not qualified.

However, Nursing Director Nancy Churchman said the hospital does need to develop a new nursing staff orientation program. She said the hospital nursing staff, including registered nurses (RNs), licensed practical nurses (LPNs) and aides and orderlies "know what they should be doing but they shouldn't."

I hope that they wouldn't be doing it performing functions beyond their level of training," she added. "But in a life threatening situation we all do what has to be done at that time."

Hospital Administrator James Rosenbaum said today he was not prepared to comment on the charges by two nurses.

Churchman and Rosenbaum's comments came in response to criticisms from the hospital nursing staff that LPNs, aides and orderlies were routinely performing functions they were not legally qualified to perform and which were banned by the Nurse Practice Act. Nurses said that care at the hospital had reached a point endangering lives.

"I don't know that there's any flagrant breaking of the law," Mrs. Churchman said.

She had said earlier that she did not think patients are being endangered by a nursing shortage at the hospital, which summer vacation including is expected to bring to a critical point.

Responding to charges that the hospital virtually has no orientation program for new nurses, Mrs. Churchman admitted that "we do not have what we would like to have" in the way of an orientation program.

She said new staff is now oriented "at the hospital on a one-to-one" basis, with incoming RNs being placed with an RN for instruction, LPNs being placed with LPNs and aides and orderlies being placed under the direction of other aides and orderlies at some higher level member of the nursing staff.

"We have needed these nurses so badly that we have gone to the one-to-one orientation, which is not the optimum way of orienting a nurse," Mrs. Churchman said.

Mrs. Churchman said she would like to communicate with the State Board of Nursing concerning the possibility of a staff audit to determine if nursing personnel are functioning within the bounds of the Nurse Practice Act.

Such an audit had been suggested at the special hospital board meeting called Monday to look into the nursing situation.

Mrs. Churchman said she would make no commitment to such an audit, however, until she had talked to the Nursing Board.

Administrator Rosenbaum said yesterday that he would also investigate the possibility of a Nursing Board audit.

Rosenbaum said he had never heard of such an audit but that he intended to contact the Nursing Board concerning such a review.

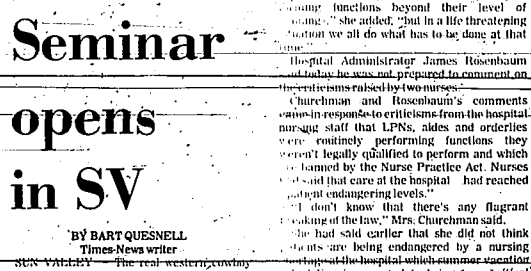

"I didn't know that such an audit was available or we would have already employed it, and I rather think that's a new wrinkle in their (the Nursing Board's) activity," Rosenbaum said.

Rosenbaum today refused to comment on the charges that nursing staff members are operating beyond their level of expertise.

"I won't comment until (the hospital) board has had their meeting on the 12th of July," Rosenbaum said.

The board is scheduled to hand down a decision on that date of a proposed salary increase at the hospital which would add close to $200,000 to the hospital's budget and increase room rates by $15 per day.

Rosenbaum said earlier that the hospital was looking for a director of staff development to begin a revamped orientation program at the hospital. Hiring of such a staff member was recommended earlier by the ad hoc nurses' committee appointed to look into the hospital's nursing problems.

Musical rehearsal

REV. Witherspoon (David Severe) gives spiritual guidance to Patience Little (Mural Demer) and Jessie Payne (Harlo Clark) during rehearsal for "The Title of Liberty," a musical drama, being presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Oakley LDS Stake at 9:30 a.m. at the Oakley rodeo grounds. Severe's son, Kent, is directing the production.

Woman copter pilot resigns from army

NUERNBERG, West Germany (UPI) — The first woman graduate of the U.S. Army's helicopter flight school said today she is resigning from the army because it refuses to allow her to join a combat outfit.

Warrant Officer Jennie A. Vallance Jr. said, "The army is discriminating against me because of my sex."

The 21-year-old helicopter pilot from Sumpter, Ore., disclosed she submitted her letter of resignation June 17. "Administrative sources tell me it will be accepted," she said.

She is assigned to flying helicopter ambulances for a medical detachment — "flying flights from point A to point B."

"I want to fly in a combat outfit," she said. "It is not that I want to kill anyone, but I want to have the opportunity to fly in a combat unit. The army is guilty of breach of contract in refusing to let me."

Gen. George S. Blanchard, the commander of the U.S. Army in Europe personally turned down her request for a transfer to a cavalry unit that sends helicopter patrols along the East-West border.

"I knew then the army discriminates against women," she said.

"When I joined up I was told sex would cause no problem and after completing training I would be treated like any other warrant officer pilot," she said. She wanted to fly in the same combat outfit as her husband, Warrant Officer George James Vallance Jr., 26, of Montgomery, Ala. He flies patrols of West Germany's borders with East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

"My husband approved of my request," she said. "But now I will go to his outfit as a wife."

Bottles water savers

BIG BEAR LAKE, Calif. (UPI) — To head off a threatened water shortage, the municipal water district in the popular Southern California mountain resort town of Big Bear Lake is distributing plastic bottles, not to carry emergency supplies in, but to put in toilets.

Firemen are distributing 10,000 plastic bottles to residents of the area, with instructions to fill them and sink them in toilet tanks.

The influx of tourists on Memorial Day weekend strained the town's water supply so severely that the areas were without water for two days afterward.

Senator raps wiretap bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John V. Tunney today leveled 10 criticisms at a proposed new wiretap bill, calling it a "masterstroke of omnigamy" which would allow U.S. authorities to spy on innocent American citizens.

"I hope that these hearings will make clear that this is a dangerous bill and a threat to our civil liberties," the California Democrat told the first meeting of the Rights of Americans subcommittee of the newly established Intelligence Oversight Committee.

Bul. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., author of the measure, differed categorically.

"This bill," Kennedy said, "constitutes a major step forward in bringing needed safeguards to the unregulated area of foreign intelligence surveillance."

The bill would require a judicial warrant for the executive branch to conduct surveillance efforts against agents of foreign powers engaged in clandestine intelligence activities, sabotage or terrorism.

Tunney charged that the bill suffered from vagueness in its definitions, unbalanced serious loopholes, and could pit friend against friend, or neighbor against neighbor as happened in Nazi Germany.

He also said the legislation would allow the National Security Agency, the nation's code-breaking unit, "to continue eavesdropping at will on our phone calls overseas."

"Tunney added that under the provisions, U.S. authorities could listen in on long distance phone calls of American citizens for 90 days without obtaining a warrant."

At a news conference Monday, officials of the American Civil Liberties Union were joined by former National Security Council staff member Morton Halperin in opposing the legislation.

Massachusetts pact set

BOSTON (UPI) — Negotiators agreed early today on a multimillion-dollar wage increase for state employees, ending a dispute which had resulted in a three-day strike.

The three-year pact approved by mediator Eric Schmirer at 2:30 a.m. EDT provides for salary and bonus benefits totaling $2,450 per employee. The average employee would get a raise of about 4 percent.

Wages would jump $150 in the first year of the contract, with the first $500 increment beginning Thursday.

The Alliance, which represented 50,000 state employees in the negotiations with the state which began March 22, won a significant victory by retaining current provisions for six salary step increments based on the years of service.

The proposal still faces a crucial ratification vote by the members of the seven bargaining units represented by the Alliance.

Though Alliance President Howard Doyle said he was confident of ratification, representatives of one unit, Local 750, representing engineers, scientists and technicians, objected to approve the package.

"It's going to be rough selling it," said one union official.

Hot issues awaiting AMA

DALLAS (UPI) — Federal drug control, national health insurance and medical discipline are the most controversial issues facing the policy-making body of the American Medical Association.

The 256-member House of Delegates, meeting in conjunction with the 125th annual AMA convention, Tuesday acted on about 150 minor resolutions but delayed the more controversial strands.

"There's really not that much happening now," he said. "It has been a very, very quiet meeting."

Before the delegates end their week-long session Thursday, they are expected to consider resolutions requesting a change in support policy on national health insurance. The Georgia delegation has asked the AMA's future stance on national health insurance to be determined by an opinion poll of AMA members.

The House of Delegates also will hear two resolutions on medical discipline and confidentiality of medical records. If passed, both proposed resolutions would be used as model legislation for state legislatures.

Other resolutions to be considered in the next two days include ones concerning unnecessary surgery and medical ethics concerning death and violence on television.

Andrus raps US for dam

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said the federal government is responsible for the failure of the Teton Dam and is obligated to restore the damage caused by the June 5 break.

Andrus said, "The one thing we must avoid is any attempt at retribution or showing those who opposed construction of the dam in the first place."

"Those who point to the dam's failure as vindication of their case will only do their movement irreparable harm."

"Also those who suffered as a result of the dam's failure cannot simply be left to fend for themselves. It is true that the federal government authorized the dam, prepared the plans and specifications for it and inspected the construction as it proceeded," the governor said.

"There can be no doubt that the federal government, if not liable for all damages, certainly is responsible with a moral obligation to restore the valley as completely and totally as possible," Andrus said.

He said, "I am sure many have been heartened by the prompt response of the federal government, not only in accepting the responsibility for the disaster, but also in its willingness to work with local and state officials and with authorities of the Latter Day Saints Church in meeting immediate needs of the homeless."

People's needs are the first consideration, and Andrus said the disaster "has provided an example of how government can function quickly in responding to those needs."

Teton claim paper completion advised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, urged today that those who suffered damage from the Teton Dam failure prepare necessary documents for establishing claims for reimbursement.

The House gave final approval today to legislation appropriating $200 million to compensate for damages caused by collapse of the dam.

"Regulations have already been written to enable claims processing to begin immediately upon the President's signature," Hansen said.

Hansen urged claimants to be cautious in compiling claims to enable them to take the time to include all losses in the claims forms since the intent is to provide total compensation for losses to the fullest extent possible.

He also urged claimants to review the regulations and ask for expert legal opinions on them to try to assure that these guidelines are as comprehensive and fair as possible," Hansen said.

In addition to preparing claims for reimbursement, he added, "I urge residents of the affected area to continue to use available emergency programs to prevent delays in getting their lives back to normal."

No objections to closed meet

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus was unaware a blue ribbon committee planned to conduct an investigation into the Teton Dam disaster in private, an aide said today, but apparently has no objection to it.

Administrative Assistant John D. Hough said he first learned of the committee's plans when a Denver newspaperman telephoned him about them Monday. He said he contacted Andrus, who was out of town, and apprised him of the committee's decision to do its work behind closed doors.

"His reaction was that if the committee chose to conduct its hearings in that fashion that was their right," Hough said. "When their report is made to him it will be made immediately available to the public."

Cassia aides call for property bids

BURLEY — Bids have been called on the sale of two school properties in Burley.

The Cassia County School Board voted Monday to seek bids on the old Miller School and the northeast corner of the former Burley Junior High School site.

The school board set Aug. 9 for opening of bids on both properties. It set the same date for bids on purchase of equal for the 1976-77 school year.

The administration was directed to investigate the possibility of selling two district owned property, equipment and other assets.

The district will also take bids on, or auction off, five school buses at the administration's discretion.

The Miller School property still has the elementary building. The superintendent of schools, Harold Blauer, said he did not know whether or not people would want to buy the property with the building on it, but suggested the district offer it that way in case someone felt the building was desirable.

He pointed out that, if the bids do not come up to expectations, the board does not have to accept them.

Chairman Dan Crane commented that the two and one-half acres of land are worth about $40,000, according to an appraiser he contacted. Blauer said the property would make 16 residential lots, selling at $3,000 each, that would make $48,000.

Blauer said the fourth half of the property could be used commercially. District administrator Norman Hurst commented that a previous potential buyer had turned the property down because the entire property is zoned residential.

The city of Burley had offered $2,000 for the northeast corner of the old junior high site for the development of a parking lot in conjunction with the city hall and the new city-council, law enforcement building.

The board had turned that offer down, despite an appraisal at that figure, because it felt the district could obtain a higher price than that.

Blauer said he did not contact both the city and county about the lot-block between 14th and 15th streets and both said they were not interested now.

The property under consideration corners on 14th Street and Hanson Avenue. The land is the building site of the old Burley Junior High School, which was destroyed by fire.

The school district will retain the remainder of the site to the south. That area includes the shop building.

Both Blauer and Hurst said they do not know how they feel it would be better to sell the lot-block as a single parcel, rather than cut it up into smaller real estate transactions.

Horse racing loses money in Mhidokta

REPORT — Horse racing is a losing proposition for the Shoshone County Fair Board.

Helen Cannon of Cannon and Cannon Accountants, Twin Falls, told the Mhidokta County commissioners Monday that the fairboard's racing account showed only a $300 profit in 1975, despite the fact it included income from stall rents at the fairgrounds.

Commissioner Elmer Ketterling had questioned placing stall rents in the racing account. He contended that money for construction of the stalls came out of the county mill levy and that the rents should not be in the racing fund.

Ketterling said the racing fund would be "well in the red" without the stall rents, which totaled $1,063 in 1975.

"It's a sure cinch racing is losing proposition and has been from the word go," Mrs. Cannon said. "They're barely able to manage to keep their heads above water."

Mrs. Cannon's presentation came in her report of the 1975 audit of fair board financial operations.

Elvis Presley show costly

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Scalpers are charging Las Vegas prices in the heart of Appalachia for a night with Elvis Presley.

Ads in local newspapers read: "$75 a ticket," and "best offer" for "good" to "excellent seats."

One scalper said he's sold one of two up-front seats for $100. He said he's been offered $75 for the other already. The tickets cost him $12.75 each and could be purchased only by standing in line.

"I've sold seven at $50," said a woman. "I hope you're not going to put my name in the paper."

"Yeah," she added. "That's $36 each."

"I had 20 tickets because my husband and I both stood in line. I stayed all night and got back in-line with him at 4 o'clock," she said.

Hundreds of people stand in long lines to buy tickets for Presley's now sold out July 21 concert. The demand was so great a second concert is planned and the rock and roll star sold out the house for three shows last year.

One woman said she's had 100 phone calls since placing her ad in the paper.

"We're asking $30 for the center up front seats," said another woman. "The ones that sold for $7.50—we're asking $20. A man from Marietta, Ohio, came by today and picked up two. Another woman bought six. We bought 14 altogether."

Rare ferret in Colorado

FORT COLLINS (Colo. UPI) — A rare black-footed ferret has been spotted roaming the grasslands of northeastern Colorado, and some wildlife experts are so excited, they're searching the area for the animal.

Officials said the sighting was the first in the state in 10 years and the first in the nation since August, 1974, when one of the rare animals was spotted in south-central South Dakota.

The black-footed ferret, a mink-like predator with a black mask like a raccoon, is considered on the verge of extinction.

The Colorado Division of Wildlife and Colorado State University researchers are continuing a search to confirm the sighting, which was made earlier this month. The location was not disclosed for fear of attracting sightseers.

John R. Torres, nongame species manager of the Division of Wildlife, said if the sighting can be confirmed, federal law could require that an area as large as several miles in diameter be declared off limits to humans.

Woman wins battles, but remains jobless

SEATTLE (UPI) — Mary Ashley is a victim of women's liberation. When the State Liquor Board changed the rules to rule out 55c bigs, she lost her job as clerk in a liquor store because she could not lift cases of bottles. She has been fighting the matter since through legal channels, while scrapping along on unemployment. Mrs. Ashley has won on every level, but the Liquor Board keeps appealing to higher authority.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Ashley's unemployment has run out. Mrs. Ashley, 53, had been a clerk for 13 years at one of the chain of liquor stores run exclusively by the state when the Board reworked sex bias from the rules. Among other things, that meant both male and female clerks had to do their share of stacking and lifting liquor cases, some of which weighed as much as 65 pounds. Mrs. Ashley suffers from diabetes and hypertension. She said she couldn't do the lifting and brought a doctor's note warning that the lifting might cause her to have a stroke. She said she would do more of the work she is able to do. But the Liquor Board didn't like that and fired her as "disabled."

Mrs. Ashley, who said there ought to be exceptions for both men and women, took the matter to the State Personnel Board—and won. But the Liquor Board didn't give her back her job. Instead, the board last summer appealed to Thurston County Superior Court in Olympia, where Mrs. Ashley won again. But the board was determined to keep fighting in the courts and took the matter to the Tacoma Court of Appeals. Meanwhile, Mrs. Ashley's $79 unemployment checks run out last Saturday. "We cannot concede and she's not going to concede," said John Hennan, Liquor Board attorney. "If she were put back to work now, there's a serious question of whether anyone can be made to work." One Liquor Board officer estimated as many as 100 of the 560 employees could come up with medical excuses. Hennan said the issue could go to court next March or April.

Dog back with blind owner

BRACKENRIDGE, Colo. (UPI) — A blind Colorado University student, whose seeing eye dog was stolen by a motorist who gave him a ride, has found his dog in a Summit County dog pound. "I really missed him," said Charles Wright, 23, of Denver. "I really found out how much I missed him." Wright said the 115-pound German shepherd dog was stolen earlier in the week when a motorist whom he knew only as "Ice Cream" gave him a ride home. The motorist asked if he could borrow the dog. Wright refused, but the motorist left with the animal anyway. Summit County officials said they impounded the dog Wednesday after arresting two Denver men for walking out of a Silverthorne cafe without paying their bill and for taking $20 from an employee of the restaurant. The dog was inside the men's car. Authorities identified the men as Wesley Franklin Word, 35, also known as "Ice Cream," and Lawrence W. Quilan, 31. They were held for investigation of misdemeanor theft, defrauding an inn keeper and suspicion of felony theft.

Deadlock break sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kans., Monday announced a compromise plan designed to break a Senate-House conference committee deadlock on proposed reforms in the nation's scandal-ridden grain inspection system.

A House member of the panel promptly called the Dole suggestions for a federal-state system of inspecting export grain "reasonable" and said they may form the basis of quick action to settle the dispute.

Dole said he sent the plan in hand-delivered letters to all other members of the conference committee which stalled earlier in attempts to iron out differences between inspection bills passed by the two chambers.

Under the Kansas proposal, the Agriculture Department would be made responsible for inspection of all grain flowing through ports into the multi-billion dollar export market.

In states which had their own inspection agencies in operation as of June 25 and met rigid federal standards, however, the Agriculture Department would be allowed to delegate its responsibilities to state agencies operating under close federal supervision.

The Senate, in its plan for cleaning up bills disclosed in investigations which produced more than 60 indictments on charges of growing out of irregularities in handling export grain, had called for all-federal inspection at ports. The House had insisted on a federal-state system.

Dole's compromise would preserve all existing state inspection agencies except in Louisiana where—a state agency exists but is currently temporarily out of operation. No new state units could be created, however.

Rep. Bob Bergland, D-Minn., a House member of the joint conference committee who had favored all-federal inspection at ports, said Dole's plan "sounds like a reasonable proposal to me."

Dole's plan would authorize inspection at major inland grain terminals by federal or state agencies, and at smaller inland points by federal, state or closely-regulated private firms. At present, all inspection — both at ports and inland — is handled by federally-supervised state agencies and private organizations including proprietary firms and Boards of Trade.

Andrus asks moderation on holiday

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil Andrus appealed today for moderation during the Fourth of July holiday in hope of reducing or eliminating the Idaho death toll.

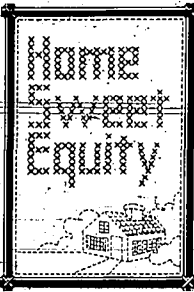

Andrus said the holiday period is particularly important this year because it marks the nation's actual 20th anniversary.

"If would indeed be a tragedy if as the result of an uproarious celebration the number of lives lost in accidents increased markedly," he said. "We can avoid that situation if we use moderation."

Although thousands will be traveling Idaho highways during the holiday period, Andrus said the death toll can be reduced or eliminated if Idahoans do three things:

- Avoid the excessive use of alcohol.
- Wear a safety belt.
- Drive no more than 55 miles per hour.

Could be our office

Turning to tranquilizers would be a bad precedent to set for yourself. And besides, it probably won't work — not in the long run.
Let me quote from a recent news release published by the American Medical Association on this very subject.
"Everyone would like to turn on contentment or excitement and turn off discomfort and boredom at will. Drug users think they can. But the fact is that reality cannot be changed with a pill or an injection. When the drug wears off, reality is still there."
The thought is developed further in an AMA pamphlet,
"Psychoactive Drugs."
"The drug use you are contemplating falls into the category called "circumstantial" — to cope with a specific problem.
That would be fine if it were not for the pattern that follows which may include intensified use or daily use to avoid daily situations, and finally, compulsive use, in which the drug dominates life and actually hinders social activities.
At this you are still forming your character. And this is formed as much by unpleasant episodes as by pleasant ones. What you get out of a pill won't substitute for what you can draw out of yourself during your troubles.
It seems obvious from your letter that you should start thinking of new employment. But meanwhile, try to accept things as they are, be determined to be as pleasant and efficient as possible under the circumstances.
You worry about getting an ulcer. True, ulcers can develop from the strains anxiety can place on such functions as digestion. But tranquilizers are no more a complete answer to that than they are for an emotional problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
Last summer I was bitten on the shin by a horsefly, and I suffered a reaction. My leg became flaming red and grossly swollen.
My doctor gave me antibiotics and a shot, but said there was no other medicine available for horsefly bite and nothing else he could do. In all, I had three such bites and three identical reactions last summer. I am expecting the same this summer.
Isn't there something else I can do? — Mrs. R. B.
The treatment you received was appropriate. But there is something else you can do. You should see an allergist about being hyposensitized (desensitized), as one would be for hay fever sensitivity or to bee stings. Also, avoid perfumed cosmetics. This will attract the little monsters.
Dear Dr. Thosteson:
Can one contract a flu virus from exposure to tobacco smoke?
C.J.P.
Virus is spread by droplet contact — that is by someone coughing or sneezing close to you — or through kissing an infected person. The virus could be present in tobacco smoke if an infected person were to cough some into your face. But it wouldn't matter whether smoke was there or not.
"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.
Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in this column whenever possible.

USS William W. Pratt in review

service news

TWIN FALLS — Navy
Interior Communication
Electrician 3C James L.
Snider, son of Mr. and Mrs.
James L. Snider of Twin Falls, is scheduled to participate in the International Naval Review in New York Harbor on July 4th as a crewman of the guided missile destroyer
USS William W. Pratt.
He is one of the 20,000
Navy personnel participating in the Navy's formal bi-centennial commemoration of our nation's Maritime heritage.
The review will include a total of 24 ships representing more than 20 countries.

This is the fourth International Naval Review sponsored by the U.S.; the last was conducted in 1957 in Hankow, Hainan, Yeh. His destroyer will join 21 other U.S. ships taking part in the review. This task force is composed of ships from the Atlantic Fleet and led by Vice Admiral John J. Flannahan, commander of the U.S. Second Fleet. Its participation in the review is one of the most significant events of an ongoing fleet exercise titled
"Operation 200."

"Operation 200," a seven-week exercise, includes fleet maneuvers and missile firings.
In addition, there will be amphibious operations, plus naval gunfire support and anti-submarine warfare training.
Many of the "Operation 200" ships will have midshipmen from the U.S. Naval Academy and Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC) units embarked. The midshipmen are undergoing summer training to learn shipboard routines and gain practical experience in seamanship, navigation, gunnery and communications.

A 1965 graduate of Paso
Robles Union High School, Paso Robles, Calif., he joined the Navy in December 1966.
His ship is homeported in Charleston, S.C.

WENDELL — Army Spec 4
Allen A. Stevenson recently participated in the 75th Anniversary Organization Day
Competition of his unit, the 1st Battalion, 25th Infantry, 1st Infantry Division in Goppingen, Germany.

The events of the competition ranged from horseshoe, armored personnel carrier pull, football and basketball to such events as jeep wheel change, machine gun assembly and drill and ceremony.

There was also an infantry ball, which was highlighted by a pageant in which soldiers wearing Argoy uniforms of the past depicted the history of the infantry soldier.

Spec. Stevenson, son of Mr.
and Mrs. Lynn Stevenson, is a passenger in a truck-vehicle driver in the battalion's Company B. He entered the Army in October 1973 and completed basic training at Ft.
Ord, Calif.

Spec. Stevenson is a 1973 graduate of Wendell High School.
JEROME — Army Reserve
Capt. Joseph E. Eyre of Jerome has completed Part II of a command and general
staff officer course, nonresident resident, at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College (CGSC),
Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

The graduates complete the first half of the course by correspondence — or through U.S. Army Reserve School attendance. They then attend a seven-week period of resident instruction at the CGSC. The resident portion is subdivided into three and four-week parts so students can either attend two successive summers or two sessions during the same year.

The course is designed to prepare selected officers for high positions at division and command levels.
Capt. Eyre, a 1956 graduate of the Caldwell High School, received a B.S. degree in 1961 from the University of Wyoming, Laramie. He is

and Mrs. J. B. Boutard of Hailey, has been meritoriously promoted to his present rank upon graduation from recruit training at the Marine Corps
Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

He received the early promotion for his superior performance during all phases of the 11-week training cycle which emphasized physical conditioning, self-discipline and teamwork.

Tanner shocks Connors at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — Regene Tanner, serving with awesome power and hitting some soft junk during the rallies, sent favored Jimmy Connors crashing to defeat Tuesday at the $280,000 Wimbledon Tennis Championships to become the sole American survivor in the semifinal round.

Tanner's 6-4, 6-2, 8-6 defeat of Connors, the 1974 champion who beat him in straight sets in the semifinals last year, was the major upset in 10-day tournament for Connors, who lost only 29 games in his previous four matches, appeared to be in an unbeatable form on the sun-baked grass of the all England club.

But Tanner, who fired 19 aces by Connors in one of the most awe-inspiring displays of serving the famed center court has ever seen in the late stages of the tournament, threw in some "little sloppy sort of shots" to make Connors appear unusually slow-footed and indecisive, much the same tactics Arthur Ashe employed in his upset victory in last year's final, and which Manuel Orantes used at Forest Hills in the final of the U.S. Open.

Tanner's semifinal opponent will be fourth-seeded Bjorn Borg, the WCT Champion, who showed no ill effects from a groin injury in turning back his friend, Guillermo Vilas, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 with a display of accuracy and top-spin hitting rarely seen on grass.

Tanner was the only one of 64 Americans to survive to the last four after seeded Vilas, Gerulaitis and Charlie Pasarell both fell.

Gerulaitis, who knocked out the top seeded Ashe on Saturday, fell to Ivan Ramirez, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, and Pasarell's power was not enough for the superb all-court craft of the Nastase, who advanced, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Nastase, with Connors agreeing, was immediately installed the favorite to succeed where he failed in 1972 when he lost a thrilling five set final to Stan Smith who he appeared to have won in his first set.

Bucser, one of the few people who believed he could repeat his Beckenham triumph, soon discovered Connors was vulnerable to short, soft returns of service and decided to play to this weakness. Connors began finding the net and soon Tanner had climbed back to 4-1 and won the set when Connors double-faulted on set point.

A set up, Tanner dug deep into his reserve of strength and began to serve 140 M.P.H. says. "The set was over before Connors could settle."

"I have never served harder than I did today," said Tanner.

"But Falso served intelligently. I tried to vary the pace of every serve."

"I played it very differently this year. I didn't try to match him for power. I tried to float the ball back and drop it short on him. It was a little sloppy sort of shots."

In the third set, trailing 2-5 and 0-30, Connors showed his determination and guts by saving three match points before hauling himself back to 4-5.

Tanner, visibly nervous, blew his service to allow Connors to come back 6-5-5-11 but in the 13th game he took a 7-6 lead by serving ace No. 19 on game point. A desperate Connors now made three uncharacteristic errors. He went for three balls which obviously would have landed out to allow Tanner to match point.

The 12,000 center court crowd, which included the Duchess of Kent, gave both men a standing ovation.

Connors refused to meet with newsmen and left the grounds in the company of his mother. Having lost in doubles, his Wimbledon ended with his loss to Tanner.

Borg, who recently turned 29, moved freely despite a strained groin as he wiped Vilas off court in one of the best matches he has played on grass, a surface which is not his favorite.

Borg broke in the fourth game of the opening set in what was to be the start of an 11-game winning streak. He hurled him through the second set 6-0 and took him to 6-0 in the third before Vilas managed to hold his service.

But then it was all over and the Swedish left-hander had only to serve out the match.

"I was moving well and playing well. Wimbledon and Forest Hills are the two I wanted to win," said Borg.

Gerulaitis, the fourth ranked American, fought for 133 minutes in a match full of good rallies but found that Ramirez, who has twice defeated the U.S. Davis Cup-Tenn-nimist single-handedly, had just too many moves for him.

Despite winning the first set, in which Ramirez served successive double faults in the last game, Gerulaitis could not stamp his authority on the match. Ramirez used his agile volleying and backhand, hit with heavy topspin, to a great effect.

Pasarell, who eliminated Adriano Panatta, the French and Italian open champion, and three-time winner John Newcombe last week, could do nothing with a nastase at the top of his form.

Nastase, whose lightning reflexes are matched only by his quick temper, outplayed him in every department of the game. All Pasarell had to offer his big service and that was not enough.

In Wednesday's women's semifinals, Chris Evert will face the doubles partner, Martina Navratilova, and Evonne Coolidge meets Britain's Virginia Wade.

Norton certain he can dethrone Ali

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —

Ken Norton, who will challenge heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali for the title Sept. 28, broke camp Tuesday to take potshots at the reigning champion and declare he can lick Ali.

Norton, 6-3, 225 pounds, has been training in Massacre Canyon at Gilman Hot Springs, Calif., and took the day off to hold a news conference to talk about his upcoming bout with Ali at Yankee Stadium.

"Ali is going to have to beat me with his fists, not with his mouth," said Norton.

"I'm faster, I'm stronger and I'm going to put the pressure on him all the way."

Norton, who defeated Ali for the heavyweight crown, in March 1973 by breaking his jaw, denied rumors that he underwent hypnosis that year to psyche himself up.

Six months later Ali regained his title.

Norton admitted the hypnosis rumor was a publicity gimmick, but said he wants to set his record straight by saying he didn't want impressionable youngsters and other athletes to be misled in thinking there's a trick to winning.

Smith Ridge acquisition seen as important to Dworshak mitigation

By ROYCE WILLIAMS
Idaho Department of Fish and Game

Rising 650 feet above the canyon floor east of Orofino, Dworshak Dam is a monument to two billion years of fish and game mitigation for development.

Mitigation can almost never return fish and wildlife to predevelopment levels and almost any portion of mitigation plans are subject to negotiation.

In September 1971, gates at the new dam were closed and 15,000 acres of white-tailed deer and elk winter range were under a 5-mile long reservoir.

The stream from the confluence of the North Fork and the main Clearwater River.

Early plans for the Dworshak and Penny Cliffs dams began in 1954, and now, nearly 22 years later, the long mitigation effort may begin to benefit deer and elk.

The State Land Board recently said it would consider proposals by the Department of Fish and Game and other agencies involved in the mitigation — proposals that would lead to an immediate land trade.

The trade, between Idaho and the Bureau of Land Management, would give deer and elk about 4,700 acres of land on Smith Ridge, key big game winter range lying north of the main arm at the upper end of the reservoir.

Joe Greenley, department director, praised the Land Board's action. "It has been a long and difficult process, but the board's action brightens considerably the big game picture in Northern Idaho," he said.

The long and difficult process began soon after the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers drew up preliminary plans for Dworshak in 1954. This brought a study of the dam's effects on wildlife by the Department of Fish and Game.

Three years later, the study findings ended in a recommendation that the dam should not be built, that the losses to fish and wildlife would be great.

Newspeople accounts of the Corps' response said the opponent's (department's) findings were not true, that they were not fair or completely ignorant, and that damage the dam would cause would be infinitesimal.

Today, the department claims substantial damage has occurred. In a report to the Fish and Game Commission, the department said "by December 1971 the upper pool was nearly full or frozen over. A flight on December 22 showed over 100 deer had fallen through the ice and drowned."

"During the balance of December, an additional 106 deer were seen dead on the ice," the report said.

Deer roasting on ice were being taken by predators, the department said, "an indirect effect of displacement of deer and elk from winter range they once depended upon along the old river course."

A number of proposals, counter-proposals, agreements and disagreements that stretched from 1954 until today has resulted in three basic recommendations:

- Cooperative agreement with the Department of Public Lands for management of 34,700 acres of state land in a large area (Heezen Block) surrounding the confluence of the North Fork and Little North Fork of the Clearwater.
- Cooperative agreement with Potlatch Forests for management of 2,000 acres around Gobbler's Knob on the Little North Fork.
- Acquisition of 5,120 acres in a "hard core" block immediately surrounding the confluence of the North and Little North Forks, Gobbler's Knob, hard core, and Smith Ridge are smaller areas within the Heezen Block.

The department's report to its commission says results of management under the first recommendation has not been satisfactory on the most important area, "a 4,500-acre block of key winter range on Smith Ridge immediately adjacent to the hard core area."

The department considers the Smith Ridge critical, because "the hard core block is actually three, separate units, separated by arms of the reservoir, and big game cannot freely move between the areas."

The west and south blocks are further divided by a road that eliminates big game use in the area between the road and the reservoir pool, the department said, and numerous logging roads bisect the area at elevations critical to elk.

Due to these problems, the department says the hard core area is limited in its value to elk. The only area, used substantially by elk is the north portion," the report said, making "the hard core area, one that alone simply cannot support the game herds during critical winter months."

"Smith Ridge generally has a south aspect and snow depth is minimal," the report says. A resident elk herd of about 100 animals exists, and the department says that through aggressive logging and winter range, the area could support up to 300 wintering elk.

This can be done, the department said, as long as road access is controlled and the area is kept free of excessive human activity.

In 1972, the department, along with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, proposed that Smith Ridge be set aside specifically for elk management, but the land is under jurisdiction of the Department of Public Lands, and state law says the land must be managed for maximum income to the Idaho School Endowment Fund.

"It is difficult to reach either goal when you are trying to make the most dollars and also grow the most elk."

Single purpose management for elk is almost a must on critical range. Logging can well be accommodated on other portions of the area," the department said.

The Fish and Wildlife Service and the department asked that Smith Ridge be traded by the state for Bureau of Land Management land of equal value. The proposal to come before the board at a later date will include the possible land that can be traded.

A second proposal, also made in 1971, involved plans for logging parts of the hard core area. The Bureau of Land Management was selected to plan the logging to enhance big game browse on 1,567 acres of the land.

State and federal agencies involved agreed on helicopter logging techniques, but no bids were received when the timber sale was advertised in 1973. No bids were received on a second advertisement that followed on the heels of the first.

Marshall feels he deserved more credit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Atlanta Relief Specialist Mike Marshall, who was acquired by the Braves from the Los Angeles Dodgers in a waiver deal last week ago, has lashed out at popular Dodger broadcaster Vin Scully.

"I think I'm free to say now what I thought all along," said Marshall, who returned to Dodger Stadium this week with the Braves.

"Scully is a complete, absolute bleep."

"Even in 1974, (when Marshall set a Major League record with 106 relief appearances and won the Cy Young Award) he never gave me an ounce of credit."

"I worked my tail off to help win a pennant for the Dodgers and Scully took away from it and decided what I did to Jim Brewer, who was injured for three weeks, and to Charlie Hough, who was still well behind the cars. He said they weren't getting enough work. Well, I was out there for one reason, The manager wanted to win games."

Marshall said his wife, Nancy, took notes of Scully's broadcast for him when the Dodgers were on the road that season.

"It got to where you couldn't stand listening to the games anymore," Marshall related. "He's very subtle. I think Scully would have been impressed with the way he was about Scully and backstabbed you at the same time."

The outspoken Marshall was booed heavily by Dodger fans when he went out to pitch in an Atlanta uniform here Monday night.

NBA puts $1.1 million price on Gilmore

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Chicago Bulls will have to shell out $1.1 million to obtain the signing rights to center Artis Gilmore and complete the missing link which will transfer them from cellar dwellers into instant playoff contenders.

The sum placed upon Gilmore's head by a joint committee of ABA and NBA representatives Tuesday when they established price tags for 20 players from the defunct St. Louis and Kentucky ABA franchises who will be placed in a special dispersal draft.

St. Louis and Kentucky were the only two of the existing six ABA teams not absorbed by the NBA in its latest expansion and those players will be drafted by the consolidated leagues — now gives Chicago first pick in the dispersal draft and a chance to assume Gilmore's ABA contract, estimated at more than $2 million over several seasons.

Gilmore averaged 24.6 points a game, his career high, and the fourth best in the league last season, and averaged 15.5 rebounds. He was named the most valuable player and the rookie of the year in 1974-75.

Along with holdovers Bob Love, Norm Van Far, Jerry Sloan, Mikey Johnson and John Laskowski, the addition of Gilmore and May gives new coach Jack Ramsay a solid

The latest twist of fate — the consolidation of the leagues — now gives Chicago first pick in the dispersal draft and a chance to assume Gilmore's ABA contract, estimated at more than $2 million over several seasons.

Gilmore averaged 24.6 points a game, his career high, and the fourth best in the league last season, and averaged 15.5 rebounds. He was named the most valuable player and the rookie of the year in 1974-75.

Along with holdovers Bob Love, Norm Van Far, Jerry Sloan, Mikey Johnson and John Laskowski, the addition of Gilmore and May gives new coach, Jack Ramsay a solid foundation to build a championship team.

The $1.1 million the Bulls will pay for the signing rights to Gilmore will go to a special dispersal draft fund. The money will be split between the ABA and the NBA. The ABA will use its share to pay off the contracts of players not drafted and pay the $3 million indemnity its teams must pay to the NBA.

Under terms of the dispersal draft, an NBA club must assume the contract of the ABA player.

The draft will not be held until agreements are reached and the court gives preliminary approval. In the proposed settlement with the ABA players and the NBA players association, that is expected to happen on July 16.

Marv Barnes of St. Louis was designated at a $500,000 price tag, the second highest. The cheapest player of any player was established at $15,000.

Ali says fight may have been dull but he's still 'greatest'

MANILA (UPI) — World heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali arrived in Manila Tuesday night and admitted he had a "dull" fight with Japanese wrestler Antonio Inoki but proclaimed "I'm still the greatest fighter of all time."

Ali flew here from South Korea for a 24-hour visit, primarily to inaugurate a shopping and theater mall named after him in a project which was conceived when he was last in Manila in October during his fight against Joe Frazier.

All, dressed in black, said he was prepared to fight Ken Norbin and then George Foreman and predicted that "I will destroy both of them."

Regarding his fight with Inoki, which many sports writers described as a fiasco and a ripoff, Ali said, "I was supposed to be a boxer and was supposed to be a rascal. I was not allowed to hit him because 80 per cent of the time he was on his back. I was disappointed that the fight turned out to be dull. But he was on his back all the time and this made the fight rather dull."

Ali acknowledged that he was hurt by some of the leg action by Inoki but that it did not affect his performance substantially one way or another.

"He was a rascal," he said, referring to Inoki. "But he was not rascal. He didn't do nothing. You can't believe that he did anything that's why it was dull."

Ali was asked about the action of the World Boxing Council depriving him of the title "Boxer of the Year" for his lackluster performance against Inoki in Tokyo last Saturday. Ali said "I'm the biggest of them all in the world."

"I don't need them. They need me," he said.

All arrived in the midst of rains Tuesday night and was to fly back to the United States after 24 hours.

After the news conference, Ali paid a 30-minute call on President Ferdinand E. Marcos at the Presidential Palace.

The meeting originally was scheduled for Wednesday morning.

Marcos said he decided to meet Ali earlier since he would not have time to meet him Wednesday.

Marinero signs one-year pact with Jets to replace Riggins

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (UPI) — Ed Marinero, a reserve setting rusher at Cornell University from 1969-71 but relegated to part-time duty in five years with the Minnesota Vikings, signed a one-year contract Tuesday with the New York Jets and is expected to fill the running back position previously held by John Riggins.

Riggins gained over 1,000 yards last season but, like Marinero, played out his option and became a free agent. Riggins signed this month with the Washington Redskins.

Marinero, 26, averaged 29 yards a game in college and was UPI's player of the year during his senior year but he was relegated to the status of Chuck Foreman's understudy on the Vikings.

While the Jets surely need a strong running back now that Riggins has departed, coach Lou Holtz denied that the Jets would try to make Marinero another Riggins.

"The jets will be able to do a lot of things," said Holtz, who, like the 6-foot-2, 210-pound Marinero, will be starting his first season with the club after coaching at North Carolina, State. "There are great opportunities for him."

Marinero primarily was a backup to be Ed Marinero. While some people may be looking to compare him with Riggins, I want him to do the things he can best.

"I was very excited about signing a player with such versatility. Ed is a solid runner, a good blocker and an excellent receiver from the backfield. He is durable and a pro player."

"It was four years of frustration with the Vikings," said Marinero, a product of New Milford, N. J. "I really have no complaints about the Vikings because you can't blame them for using a great back like Foreman instead of me. I was able to get in considerable time as a rookie because there were so many injuries. But when Foreman joined the club the next year (1974), he did most of the rushing."

"I just think I have the ability to carry the ball. I'm grateful to the Vikings for teaching me two things I never had an opportunity to concentrate on in college — blocking and pass receiving."

Marinero enjoyed his best year with the Vikings in 1975 when he carried the ball 101 times for 454 and a 3.5-yard average. He rushed for four touchdowns and grabbed 54 passes for 462 yards and three TD's.

Marinero will report with the other Jets vets at the team camp July 6.

Floridian still hopeful of moving Braves to Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — Diplomat hotel owner Irving Cowan said Tuesday he is still hopeful a deal can be arranged to move the National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves to the Hollywood Sportatorium despite court actions blocking the move.

In a statement released by his office, Cowan, who had been given an option to purchase the team, said things "look more bleak as time goes on," but said he is hopeful the situation can be "resolved in time."

The NBA agreed Monday it would not attempt to move the team, pending a move by Buffalo investors to buy the Braves from owner Paul Snyder.

"Because of all the roadblocks that have come up, there is much less likelihood than before that we will have professional basketball in south Florida next year," Cowan told reporters early Tuesday.

Federal and local court orders in Buffalo have restrained movement of the team, and the city of Buffalo has suits totaling $58 million on file against the NBA.

"I don't see much chance if the courts keep things going into next week. There would just be too much of a hassle," Cowan said.

Cowan Tuesday modified an earlier statement that he was not interested in any team except for the Braves. "I'm thoroughly enchanted. I feel if we don't get a team this year, we'll get one next year," he said.

"I'm a little surprised at the way Buffalo went to town and all about it like that," he said. "We started strong, but now a lot of fans have a sour taste in their mouths."

Cowan said he still has a little opposition to the move in Buffalo until the suits were filed. "The opposition was generated by the suits."

He said more than 7,000 pledges for season tickets had been received by the Sportatorium, but fewer than half the pledges have been honored and orders fell off immediately after the first of the suits was filed.

Jerome Legion nips Twin Falls by 3-2

TWIN FALLS — Rick Larsen beat out an infield hit while a run was scoring in the fifth inning to lift the Jerome Legion past Twin Falls 3-2 Tuesday night.

Larsen's hit plated Humphries who had singled and moved around on a passed ball and an infield out.

Jerome trailed only in the first inning as Clay Bingham started Twin Falls off with a triple and scored seconds later on a passed ball.

The lead was short lived, however, as Jerome capitalized on two throwing errors to move ahead 2-0. Humphries started Fourth with a hit and scored when Rick Hillier's bunt resulted in an overthrow at first base. Larsen's bouncer to shortstop brought another overthrow as Hillier brought in the go-ahead run.

Jerome extended that to 3-1 in the fifth when Humphries and Larsen collaborated on the run.

Twin Falls' best chance to win it came in the sixth, inning when singles by Tim Crist and Gene Turley and an error that let Clint Bingham live loaded the bases. CF1st scored on a passed ball but Jerome came up with a 1-2-3 double play to kill the rally.

Twin Falls will host Pocatello in a doubleheader starting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

provided the new Jaycee park lights are hooked up by that time.

Squeeze bunt lets Dodgers nip Braves

By The United Press
 Dave Kingman, the major league's hottest home run hitter, led his 27th home run Tuesday night to lead the Mets to their sixth straight victory, a 2-0 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Kingman's homer kept him 12 games ahead of Hack Wilson's home run pace when the Chicago slugger set the National League record of 56 homers in 1930. Only one player in the history has hit more homers than Kingman through the month of June—Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell, who had 28 homers through in 1974.

"I don't want to know anything about him," answered Kingman when asked if he knew of Wilson's record. "I don't want to know anything about statistics."

followed Joe Torre's double with two outs in the first inning and was his fourth in his last five games.

Mickey Lolich fashioned a hit shutout—his first in the NL and the 40th of his career.

Boston's Wise shuts out Orioles with single hit

By JACK SAUNDERS
UPI Sports Writer
 Boston Red Sox pitcher Nick Wise figures he's had his hottest hit for his lifetime.

Just shutting out a major league team is hard enough without throwing a no-hitter. Wise said, after blanking the Baltimore Orioles, 2-0, Tuesday night on just one hit.

"For most pitchers it's a once-in-a-lifetime thing."

Wise, who pitched his no-hitter in 1971 for the Phillies against Cincinnati, had a perfect game going until Paul Blair led off the sixth with a line single just behind second base.

Blair was erased immediately on a double play grounder by Brooks Robinson.

The only other runners to reach base of Wise's 6.5 were Reggie Jackson, who walked and stole second with two outs in the seventh, and Al Bumbry, who walked to lead off the ninth.

The Red Sox blanked for seven innings by Mike Cuellar, put together three of their seven hits in the eighth inning to score their runs. Dwight Evans led off with a single to left, advanced to second and Cooper's sacrifice bunt and winning run on a single by Tom Verzerly to help Detroit beat New York. John Wockenbutts singled, with one out in the seventh knocked out Yankee starter Dayte Alexander.

St. Louis' Steve Carlton pitched a pinch double to Ben Ogilvie before DeFlore tripled off the rightfield fence and Verzerly singled.

Angels 4, White Sox 1:
 Frank Tanana, starting for the first time in 15 days after being sidelined with a muscle strain in his left forearm, permitted seven singles and ran his career record against Chicago to 7-1 with his ninth victory. Dave Collins cemented the win with a two-run homer in the ninth.

Royals 1, Twins 0:
 Freddie Patek drove in Hal McRae with a 10th-inning sacrifice fly and Al Bumbry's 84, three-run homer against Minnesota to notch his fourth complete game. Melfe led off the 10th with an infield single, the third hit off loser Dave Goltz, moved to second on a throwing error, to third on a grounder, before scoring on Patek's fly to deep left-center field.

A's 8, Rangers 3:
 Sal Bando drove in four runs with a homer and a double and Rolfe Fingers pitched two innings to record his second save since returning to the Oakland roster and 10th overall. Bando's homer, his 14th, gave the A's a 2-0 lead in the first and his double highlighted a four-run third

Seven charged in Olympic conspiracy

MONTREAL, (UPI) — Seven persons were charged with fraud and conspiracy to commit fraud Tuesday in connection with construction of the Olympic village for the 1976 summer games opening here next month.

Among the seven named in documents turned over to prosecutor Claude Millette by the Quebec police force were the four builders who formed the consortium which built the 500 million-dollar village.

Quebec solicitor general Fernand Lalonde's office said the seven are to appear in court on the charges Aug. 5, four days after the Olympic games close.

Those charged included Joseph Zappala, Andrew Gaty, Gerald Robinson and Rene Lapine, who together headed the consortium which built the village. Les Therasse Zorogea.

The other three men charged were Jamish Juszczyk, Roger Ptasnik and Lucien Durand.

The Quebec police force carried out some 50 raids over a three-day period last November and seized tons of documents in an investigation into alleged fraud in construction of the village.

The QPF said at the time it was investigating allegations of fraud, kickbacks and inflated construction contracts for the village.

The original estimates for the construction costs of the village were around $35-million in 1974. The village to house athletes and officials to the games was completed last month at a cost of about $100-million.

Idaho fires expected

Anti-fire restrictions already in effect, McGuire noted, include statewide campfire and smoking restrictions ordered by the state of New Mexico and an Idaho ban on burning forests and rangeland without a permit.

The number of forest fires this summer could reach the most serious level in many years because spring droughts have left woodlands tinder-dry in some areas, the U.S. Forest Service warns.

John R. McGuire, chief of the service, said federal and state officials are adopting stepped-up fire prevention measures to meet the Labor Day when forests get the heaviest use from visitors.

Working on the premise that most fires are touched off by careless people, McGuire said officials may impose fire-smoking and public use restrictions in some areas or may close off some woodlands during peak danger periods.

McGuire said recent fires in California, Arizona and New Mexico "built up to major proportions as part of a pattern of extreme dryness developing across portions of the nation."

Officials said other areas of concern include southern Oregon, Idaho, southern Utah, the eastern side of the Rockies in Wyoming and Colorado, and parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin where this spring was the driest in records going back into the 1890s.

Reporter gives views of Teton Dam flood area

(Editor's note: James Warren is a reporter for the Newark, N. J. Star-Ledger. He visited the flood-devastated Snake River Valley in Idaho. By JAMES WARREN

to Newhouse News Service
REYNOLDS - What was once an emerald-green range of lush farmland is now an immense gray plain of misery. Heartbroken men row over land they've lost on far decades and occasionally turn their eyes from the harsh water-logged results.

They can't believe this happened to them.
 Three weeks ago the Teton Dam in southeast Idaho collapsed, smashing the start of a quiet summer in rural America. Eleven people died, 25,000 were left homeless and 20,000 cattle drowned as 25 billion gallons of water inundated through the Snake River Valley.

Newsreels flashed word of the dam break around the world as farmhouses, barns and apartments fell like card castles built by little children. Nothing is where it should be. Homes which rested in Rexburg (pop. 10,000) have been swept 50 miles away. Women roll their eyes in despair as they realize prized possessions, family histories and wedding albums are gone. And some cannot bear looking.

The death toll increased this week as a 29-year-old woman, 55, and her husband, 57, discovered the town of Wilford (pop. 300) completely wiped out. She drove home and shot herself rather than unemployed husband and four children looked on.

 Many are aware of the bitter controversy surrounding the 3,000-foot-long, 307-foot-high earthen dam and the many objections to its construction by the federal government for years ago. But few understand what the disaster means in the human of terms.

Imagination is needed. The water came from a 17-mile reservoir, reaching heights of 30 feet and speed of 55 miles per hour in the first minutes. It has now reached American Falls, 120 miles south.

People scrambled to the willow-batched highlands as four and five feet of water inundated 400 square miles. More than 300,000 acres of farmland are destroyed; the best topsoil has been washed away. Damage is estimated at $7 million and only a farmer has food to sustain.

Who needed flood insurance? asked a farmer from Roberts (pop. 200). "This area only gets six or seven inches of rain a year and the federal people assured us the dam would end all possible flooding."
 The majority have lost everything but what was on their backs when the dam broke. They may have hope for the future, but they are bitter toward the federal government. They are adamant that Washington must be held in reality on top of things. Now I have to start all over. It's hard to believe. There are those like Elmer Roberts, 68, of Sugar City. Roberts lost his gas station and is residing in a U-Haul propped on cinder blocks. He's hopeful of getting one of the mobile homes the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is bringing in at the rate of 40 per cent.

The work which must be done is awesome. Grandmothers sweat profusely trying to remove sections of wallboard and plaster to allow wall studding and interiors to dry thoroughly, a process which will take months. Children scrub mildewed floors with a mild alkali solution, continually wary of nails, splinters, holes in walls, falling plaster, undermined foundations and gas leaks. Plywood subfloors must be delaminated, heating systems must be cleaned and reconditioned.

And, while they work, mosquitoes, houseflies and rat-tat maggots breed, posing the threat of typhoid, dysentery and encephalitis. The valley, once a mountain retreat where Indians held councils and notorious outlaws established hideaways, is also home for rattlesnakes, now lured by the water and debris below.

Much of the air reeks with the smell of contaminated food and the bloated carcasses of the dead animals. The Utah National Guard has flown some out in slings. The rest must be buried. The threat of further contamination is too great to consider burial in the ground.
 Though Idaho is a huge state, two-thirds of its state troopers remain at the scene running checkpoints along Interstate 15. Wearing green baseball caps, they await the inevitable yellow jacket with one hand and check passes with the other. There is little chance for looting.
 "Sure, we realize people are breaking speed limits all over the state, said an aide to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus. "But does that matter at a time like this?"
 Driving toward Rexburg, the largest city affected, are diesel tractors bringing HUD's mobile homes, while going the other way are Army Corps of Engineers trucks loaded with tons of dirt and Idaho Falls sanitation vehicles with tons of garbage. Red Cross wagons and the pick-ups that are a way of life in southeast Idaho further clog the highways.
 On Main Street, visitors glimpse a business community that, in the words of the local hospital administrator, "is no more." Every single car from

Red Cross wagons and the pick-ups that are a way of life in southeast Idaho further clog the highways.
 On Main Street, visitors glimpse a business community that, in the words of the local hospital administrator, "is no more." Every single car from the large supermarket has been piled in the parking lot, a few drills and saws are scattered in front of the barren hardware store. Television sets, boilers, and couches are upside down in the gutter.

 The cars in the new-car dealerships look no different than those in the used-car lots. Many of the flourblades at Porter Printing, the nation's largest printer of wedding invitations, have collapsed. Walking through the front door would be like entering an empty elevator shaft.

Whole trees stick out of some buildings like toothpicks in an hors d'oeuvre. Several days ago a dead cow was found inside the Romance Theater, the city's largest movie house. The animal must have been carried several miles by the rising waters.
 On the hill, inside the field house at Hicks College, the primary disaster assistance center has been set up. While waiting in "Families" lines, people chew on some of the 100,000 sandwiches made by Red Cross volunteers.

They file for Small Business Administration (SBA) loans and get on the long HUD list for trailers. One farmer, a man who had recently put three new $10,000 irrigation systems on his land, signs up for emergency food stamps. There are many forms to fill and a lurking fear the federal government—somehow—won't pay for their losses.

 "They shouldn't have built the thing in the first place," said a 3-year-old mother of two. "I have a $10,000 home. Am I supposed to wait a couple of years for payments?"

9 Amfleet cars set for service

SPokane (UPI) — In an apparent effort to woo more people back to trains for travel, Amtrak will announce shortly that nine sleek, new Amfleet rail passenger cars will begin service between Portland and Seattle about July 20.

The Amfleet car is a shiny aluminum $400,000 per copy, 80-passenger unit, which features all electric heat and air conditioning, hot, fast food service and wider, more comfortable seats than the more conventional, steam-heating units now available.

The nine cars will be passing through eastern Washington July 12 on their way to full-time service on the Seattle-Portland run eight days later.

Amfleet will leave Seattle daily at 8:30 a.m. and arrive in Portland at 12:20 p.m.

The return train that evening will begin at 8:30 p.m. and arrive at Seattle at 12:20 a.m.

Paul Phillips, co-chairman of the Washington Association of Railroad Passengers WA-SHARP, which has been lobbying Amtrak for several years to provide better, more accessible train service to the northwest, hailed the new cars as a giant step forward in land transportation.

Phillips said he took Amfleet in the east and said the cars provide comfortable, smooth rides. I think it will be attractive to the public, draw them back to riding trains.

Amfleet trains are now in service in the Northeast corridor between Boston, New York and Washington, D.C. as well as between Los Angeles and San Diego.

Phillips noted that studies in the east with Amfleet cars showed they were extremely successful.

"Ridership was up 80 per cent between Chicago and Detroit. You could sit next to a smoker and not be bothered thanks to the new air conditioning."

Phillips was quick to note he's not dissatisfied with the current service provided by Amtrak.

He sees a need for scheduling improvements, but said he personally polled Amtrak passengers the last week in April and found that 90 per cent of those asked said they would recommend that mode of travel to their friends.

"These Amfleet cars will undoubtedly enhance that opinion, which is already good."

May tops charts for strike activity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Strike activity was higher in May than in any month since August, 1974, according to the administration's optimistic predictions for labor peace in 1976.

The Labor Department reported Monday that more than 100,000 workers were involved in 912 strikes during May, losing an estimated 4.6 million hours of work. The number of new strikes reached 653, the most since July, 1974.

About 40 per cent of the illnesses in May was caused by eight strikes involving more than 5,000 workers. One of them a strike of some 70,000 rubber workers against the Big Four tire makers.

According to a special-morale strike illness devised by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, the figure in May hit 0.24 per cent of estimated total working time — the highest since August, 1974.

This compared to 0.07 in the first three months of 1976 and 0.18 per cent in April.

Strike activity was unusually low during the first three months of 1976, a fact that prompted Labor Secretary W.J. Usery to boast about "the administration's outstanding record in bringing labor peace."

While observing that it was probably "too early" to make such predictions, he announced in a speech last April that "early developments provided grounds for optimism."

Bicentennial no big deal for some Yanks

By United Press International

Bicentennial or no Bicentennial, for many Americans it is going to be just another 4th of July, with no special plans in the works.

A nationwide survey by UPI indicated many will celebrate their nation's 200th birthday just about the way they have celebrated all the others—with picnics, backyard barbecues, fireworks, and a little travel as possible.

"I hope my wife will let me rest, but she usually finds something for me to do," said a Little Rock, Ark., mailman. "We're going to take a trip to Houston, but it won't be on the Fourth because of the traffic."

City Neighbors, a 28-year-old commercial artist in Kansas City, said water skiing, beer and "fireworks I'm lucky" will be on her 4th of July agenda at Lake of the Ozarks.

"That's what I do every Fourth," she said. "After all the Bicentennial stuff we've had like two years of it, anyway, for some reason this 4th of July doesn't seem any more catastrophic or whatever than any other."

For Larry Dreessen, a forester with the Texas A & M extension service in Houston, the 4th will be a time to get away from it all—but not on the highway.

"I'm leaving all the celebrating to the town people and going just fishing on a creek for three days," he said. "I'd rather find the gators and hot jans than the traffic."

Jack Woods, unopposed Houston candidate in November's general election for the never-before filled office of Harris County lide inspector, said he planned to ply his specialty among bikini-clad sunbathershipping at nearby Galveston beach "after a bit of private celebrating."

"The first thing I'll do on the 4th is sobor up from the 3rd," he said. "Then I'll go to Galveston and inspect hides."

Jack Nichols, of Spletón, Wash., said he and his wife will drive across the state's new north cascades highway and "stop at George, Wash., where we're going to eat some of that big cherry pie."

For several years, the apple-named little central Washington town of George has celebrated the 4th by baking an engineered cherry-chicken-of-george clam—it's the state's largest cherry pie and they share it every year with anyone who drops in for a visit.

Another citizen—also aptly-named—Mrs. George—of Washington, of Oklahoma City, Okla., plans an Independence Day celebration in the old-fashioned way.

"My husband is a retired pilot and he'll spend a quiet day at home," she said. "We'll probably make ice cream on the patio and a barbecue in the back yard. People from all over the neighborhood—they're the nicest people in the world—will be out here in my back yard. It's what we always do."

Farm

COMBINES owned by Carl and Dominick Peretta work in a field near the Executive Park development in the "east-bottoms" of Kansas City, Mo. Every new construction project in the area reduces the amount of land the brothers can plant to wheat and soybeans. They have been farming the land for about 40 years. (UPI)

Urban harvest

Flood loss high

MANAUS, Brazil (UPI) — Floodwaters from the Rio Negro caused the loss of 30 percent of the jute and malva fiber harvests and severely hurt the region's cattle production, the Amazonas State Agriculture Federation reported Monday.

The flood, the second worst in the Amazon region this century, destroyed 20,000 tons of jute and malva, the Amazon's most important product, and 500,000 head of cattle.

Although the Rio Negro, the Amazon River's largest tributary, has begun to recede, an estimated three million people in both a day, the river still remained well outside its banks.

Charter members of 4-H convene

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — The new international 4-H Club was born here in 1962, and this July, a six-nation organization's 103 charter members will be on hand for the bicentennial rededication of the building that housed the fledgling group.

The building, now known simply as County Building No. 1, will be renamed for A. B. Graham who founded the organization.

Graham was superintendent of Clark County schools in 1902 when he conceived the idea of an agricultural club for boys and girls.

He obtained permission from the county commissioners to meet in a room in the then newly constructed county building.

Graham and his 103 youthful followers cleaned out a room, which now houses the Clark County Commissioners, and began what now is known as 4-H.

Graham died in 1933 at the age of 67.

On hand for the ceremonies will be charter members Mrs. Douglas Neff, Ivan Wert, J. Lynn Baker of rural Clark County, Theodore F. Spears and Roy Dickerson of Springfield and Mrs. M. L. Biecke of Florida.

Sugar policy lack hurts all segments

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The failure of the United States to adopt a national sugar policy has hurt everyone, ranging from the farmer to the consumer, according to John B. Bunker, president of the Holly Sugar Corp.

Bunker issued a statement saying the "attendant uncertainties of the supply and price of imported raw cane sugar which sets the price of refined sugar in this country."

Bunker said the current administration has "shown no inclination to enact new sugar legislation which would protect the American consumer."

"The reason for this, Bunker said, was "the attendant uncertainties of the supply and price of imported raw cane sugar which sets the price of refined sugar in this country."

Filer sheep sale entries complete

FILER, Idaho — Entries are complete from purebred sheep breeders who have consigned their best rams to the state sale in Filer July 31.

Rams consigned to the Idaho Wool Growers Association sale receive the equivalent of three inspections before this sale to assure buyers that the sheep in their sale are of top quality and free from disease.

There are several firsts for the 55th annual sale. First, registered and stud ewes will be sold. Second, stud rams will be weighed at the sale and sealed by a committee including the three livestock specialists from the University of Idaho Extension Service and two sleepers.

There will be 363 rams and 22 registered stud ewes consigned to the annual breeders and association sale.

Breeders consigning this year's crop:

From central Idaho, Fred Lundvall, Carey, Joel Hillman and Jerry Panchari; Howe, George Babcock, Shoshone, Warren Cogdill, Gooding; Reed Hulet and James Pfinze, Wendell; Tom Jackson, Emil Klimes and Rodney Klimes, Jerome; Mrs. Mary Peterson, Filer; Marvin Cox, Amy Jensen and McCoy Saffolks, Buhl; L. ## Cattle feeder loses

GREELEY, Colo. (UPI) — The president of Montfort of Colorado, the nation's largest cattle feeder, Monday said his company suffered third quarter losses of $3 million despite record sales in previous reporting periods.

Samuel D. Aldous, who also is Montfort's chief executive officer, said the third quarter losses resulted in total losses for the first nine months of the year of $780,000.

He said losses during the third quarter which ended May 29, were due mainly to "characteristics in the cattle market, that have been unfavorable to feeding and to transaction on the futures market in late March to limit losses on an anticipated further declining market."

Resentment hurting Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lingering resentment by farmers over the administration's temporary embargo on grain sales to Russia and Poland last year is campaigning, according to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz.

Butz, however, predicted Ford will win the Republican presidential nomination, and that good economic conditions will help produce a heavy GOP vote in farm areas this fall.

The Agriculture Secretary, who has crisscrossed the country in recent weeks speaking before farm groups and campaigning for Ford, said in an interview he "still picks up a lot of resentment against our interference with exports last year."

"It comes up everywhere I go, and politically this has hurt the Ford campaign and probably has hurt the Republican party," Butz said.

"But it hasn't hurt us as much as some people believe," he said.

Washington officials earlier told Soviet leaders the United States will not object to allowing 1977 Russian grain orders to exceed a tentative 1 million ton floor set in a Soviet-American trade agreement.

The officials have not publicly estimated potential Soviet orders, although they have said they expect sales which reached 16.5 million tons for the current season — to top the 8 million ton level.

Butz told UPI he believes sales in the forthcoming season will reach 10 to 15 million tons.

Butz said one reason he's forecasting a heavy GOP vote among farmers is that "farmers are mad at George Meany."

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Everybody knows the word "hood" comes from the word "hoodlum." But nobody knows where "hoodlum" comes from. Except that it was first used to describe thugs in San Francisco. One of the vile hoodlums' pastimes (like, according to historical footnotes, was the stoning of Chinese immigrants).

On the photo department floor at the Jackson Daily News in Missoula is the sign: "Please keep your room door closed. If it is left open, all the dark leaks out."

That actor of world renown Clint Eastwood reportedly never has smoked a cigarette or any portion thereof.

HAIR REMOVER

That chemical hair remover known as a depilatory supposedly can remove the fuzz on a woman's legs. Why can't a man use it instead of a razor for shaving?

A. Too irritating. A daily dose on the face would make warts. The women don't need it that frequently. Besides, men's whiskers are so much tougher than leg hair that the stuff would have to be typed up to an intolerable strength.

Question arises as to which of our presidents knew the least about music. Nominate G. S. Grant. Was his claim that he knew only two songs. One was "Yalkee-Doodie," and the other wasn't.

If those two articles are as fresh as they should be, they'll squeak when you rob them together.

SMOKERS AND DRINKS

A bartender of extensive experience contends his years of observation indicate that cigarette smokers tend to down their drinks quickly. Cigar smokers "not so quickly but methodically." Pipe smokers, much more slowly. And the non-smokers, he says, usually just sip, rarely finishing one drink before accepting another.

Some surveys show that 30 per cent of the people who go to movies would rather be made to cry than to laugh. And no film character is said to be more popular than the one unjustly caught up in a lot of trouble so as to arouse in the audience great sympathy.

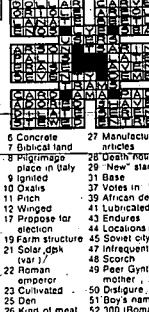

Surveys repeatedly indicate that few women object to baldness in men. They cite with large approval such personalities as Joe Garagiola, Telly Savalas and Yul Brynner. Still, a remarkable number of balding men remain unconvincing. Never before have the toupee makers, the hair wavers and the surgical transplanters done better business. Lord Chesterfield would have frowned on the whole thing, sure enough. He's the fellow who said: "A fly affection in man or dog indicates lack of understanding."
