

Herbicide kills fish

DEAD trout, carp, and suckers line the east bank of Rock Creek, four miles south of Kimberly. Hundreds of fish died in the creek after the Twin Falls Canal Co. dumped a toxic herbicide into the Low Line Canal south of Kimberly Tuesday.

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — Hundreds of dead fish have been found floating in Rock Creek and the Idaho Fish and Game Department is trying to determine what killed them.

Carp, suckers and some trout were found dead in the creek earlier this week by residents living in Rock Creek Canyon southwest of Kimberly.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department is investigating the possibility the fish died after the Twin Falls Canal Co. dumped a toxic herbicide into the Low Line Canal south of Kimberly Tuesday.

The Twin Falls Canal Co. admits dumping a toxic herbicide into the Low Line Canal near where the dead fish later appeared, but denies any leakage from the canal into Rock Creek was responsible for the fish kill.

According to Bill Webb, supervisor for Region IV for the Fish and Game Department, water samples from the Rock Creek kill site have been sent to Boise for analysis, but the results of that analysis may not be available for two weeks or more since the lab is backed up with water samples from the Teton Dam disaster.

"If the toxicant can be pinpointed and if it appears that the Canal Co. was responsible, a damage suit could result," Webb said.

But Webb said a suit against the canal company is far from certain without further investigation.

"They (the canal company) can treat their own canals," Webb said. "Once it gets into public waters they are liable for damages, if we can prove damages." The big problem is pinning down who did it and the toxicant.

Webb said Fish and Game would also have a hard time putting a value on the number of game fish killed, since the waters of the creek are riddled by irrigation run-offs and fish are hard to see.

"We know there are a lot of game fish in Rock Creek though," he said, "so if we can pin it down and get the figures and so forth we'll have a case."

Twin Falls Canal Co. manager Clifford Montgomery denied that the canal company was responsible for the kill, although he admitted a chemical called Magnat-H was dumped into the Low Line Canal Tuesday morning to clear moss from a siphon which crosses over Rock Creek.

The dead fish spotted by residents along Rock Creek extended below the siphon for at least a quarter mile. Most of the fish in evidence Wednesday were suckers, carp and other trash fish with only a few dead trout seen.

According to Webb, however, if the toxicant will kill carp, "it will certainly kill trout."

Montgomery said he had not heard of the Rock Creek kill until asked about it by the Times-News this morning. He said the Magnat-H used to clear the siphon had been used previously by the canal company. "The toxicant he added works by taking all oxygen out of the water" for a short period of time.

He admitted, though, that he didn't know how long the effects of the herbicide actually last.

He denied that the canal company was responsible for the Rock Creek kill or for any fish kills.

"As far as the canal company is concerned, we did not kill any fish," he said.

Webb, however, said that there have been several fish kills this year and that Fish and Game thinks the herbicides used by the canal companies may be responsible.

"We are swamped with a lot of fish kills all over this year because of the canal treatment," Webb said. He said there had been previous kills reported on Rock Creek and on a drainage near Buhl and in the Hansen and Bliss areas. He also said the Idaho Trout Processors farm near Buhl had suffered extensive kills which might be tied to canal company use of herbicides.

The canal companies use different toxicants, Webb said, and the one being used this year "appears to be emerald."

Webb said Fish and Game had tried to put mesh boxes containing live fish in canals in the area to test toxicity and to analyze the toxicants. But that the Twin Falls Canal Co. had refused to let Fish and Game officials trespass to install the boxes.

Asked to confirm this, Montgomery said, "I have no comment on that."

Montgomery said there "had been discussions" concerning the hatchery kills near Buhl, but he refused to discuss the matter "because we didn't kill any fish."

According to Mrs. Gerrie Dickard, whose husband works along the east side of Rock Creek on property adjoining the Low Line siphon across the creek, a canal company employee dumped chemicals in the water early Tuesday to clear moss from the tube.

She said she didn't know if the siphon leaks, but she said a spillway headgate from the canal does run into Rock Creek near the site where the chemicals were placed and that water was leaking through the headgate.

Mrs. Dickard said funds from the toxic application forced her to leave her home.

Kidnap suspect nabbed

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — A second suspect in the hijacking of a Chowchilla, Calif., school bus loaded with 26 children was captured today while driving a van on a busy street near his San Francisco peninsula home.

James Schoenfeld, 24, was arrested without resistance by police. He was booked in the San Mateo County jail in nearby Redwood City.

His brother, Richard, 22, who surrendered last week, was en route to Chowchilla where he was to be arraigned today on charge he was one of three men who kidnaped the 26 children and their bus driver on July 15.

The sheriff's office in Madera County said James Schoenfeld probably would be brought there so that the two brothers, sons of a well-to-do physician, could be arraigned together.

Search continued throughout the nation for Fred Woods, 24, the key suspect in the case.

Authorities, who had traced the older Schoenfeld to the Canadian border earlier this week and to Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, turned their search to the San Francisco area during the night. They had received a report that the suspect had been seen driving a van on the peninsula which extends south from San Francisco.

After dawn the van was spotted again. Patrolmen trailed it north on U.S. Highway 101 into Menlo Park, a quiet residential community near Stanford University and adjacent to Atherton, where the Schoenfelds lived.

Carl Kounity, who runs a gas station in the town, said he saw three patrol cars converge on the van.

"The next time I looked up the officers had this fellow over the hood to frisk him," he said. "Three of them held him down. He seemed to resist a little, not much."

Officers Gary Lackman, Larry Shannon and a woman officer, Sarita Lister, who made the arrest, said Schoenfeld offered "no resistance." He was unarmed and no guns were immediately evident in the van, which was packed with camping equipment and extra gasoline tanks.

The arrest was made at 6:50 a.m. in broad daylight on Marsh Road, a tree-lined main thoroughfare while early commuters were en route to their offices in San Francisco.

Authorities said Schoenfeld had purchased the 1950 Chevrolet van in his own name in Coeur d'Alene after abandoning a car in which he had tried to cross the Canadian border.

A bulletin describing the vehicle had been issued Wednesday night and the search concentrated on the San Francisco Peninsula after police received the report it had been seen.

Richard Schoenfeld, who surrendered voluntarily last Friday, faced arraignment on 43 counts of kidnaping and robbery in the bus hijacking.

An FBI spokesman said Schoenfeld may have intended to give himself up as his brother had earlier.

"That's a real possibility," agent Frank Perrone said.

Another FBI agent said the fugitive may have returned to his home territory because he "didn't know where else to go."

Timean had been purchased in Coeur d'Alene a week ago Tuesday.

"Further investigation by us revealed that the carry-all had returned to the San Francisco Peninsula," Perrone said.

"A Menlo Park police department unit was alerted at 6:45 a.m. P.M. by a private citizen who had heard an early morning newscast about the all-points bulletin," he said.

A reporter who arrived on the scene first and got a look in the van, said it was loaded with breakfast food, canned goods, camping gear and a boat auxiliary gas tank. Three extra gas tanks were lashed to the outside of the vehicle.

No weapons were evident, the reporter said.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Walter Winters, 70, isn't going to let those young whippersnappers on skate boards show him up.

Winters, a retired tree surgeon, can be seen gliding along downtown alleys on his board.

"It's gotten to the point where I hardly do anything else," he said. "I have a couple of skateboards now — one for speed and one that turns a little better. And I'm good about practicing every day."

"I'm lucky — nothing broken."

TF engineer takes post in Arizona

TWIN FALLS — George P. Michael Jr., Twin Falls city engineer since 1970, has been appointed city engineer and director of public works in Sierra Vista, Ariz.

Michael was offered the job earlier this week. Michael learned today a letter offering him the job is en route to him at this time.

He will accept the appointment effective Sept. 1, if it is ratified by the Sierra Vista city council.

He said the appointment was approved by the city manager in Sierra Vista, subject to ratification by the governing body.

Michael said he has not resigned but has advised City Manager Jean Miller of his application for the position.

Michael said he will be making the change for several reasons.

The salary is higher, reportedly $19,000 per year, and Michael's parents reside in Tucson, Ariz., about 70 miles from Sierra Vista.

Sierra Vista, about 15 miles north of the Mexican border, is a city of about 23,000 population including the military base of Ft. Huachuca. Without the military base the city has only about 12,000 persons.

Officials in Arizona said one of the reasons Michael was selected for his background in urban planning.

Michael joined the city of Twin Falls Sept. 11, 1967, and became acting engineer in December, 1969. He was appointed city engineer in March, 1970.

Michael and his wife and six-year-old daughter plan to move to Arizona by Sept. 1.

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — The U.S.S. Coronado, carrying more than 300 American and other foreigners from Beirut, arrived today in Piraeus, the ancient seaport of Athens.

Aboard the Coronado were 117 Americans and 189 other foreigners who spent the two days at sea lounging on helicopter flight decks happy to be listening to the sound of the sea instead of the thunder of war.

Truce slows fighting in Lebanon
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A truce agreement between Syria and the Palestinian Liberation Organization reduced fighting in Beirut today, but for the sixth time Red Cross personnel failed in their attempt to evacuate 1,000 wounded from a besieged Palestinian refugee camp.

Christian forces, who have refused to join any truce, have pounded the Tal Zaatar camp in southeastern Beirut for 30 days.

House votes to reprimand Sikes
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted overwhelmingly today to reprimand Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., for failing to disclose private financial holdings. It was the first time a congressman had been disciplined since Adam Clayton Powell was expelled in 1967.

The committee, in a 498-page report, recommended Sikes be chastised on two of three complaints filed with the panel by Common Cause, the citizens advocacy group.

Strong quake jars USSR
MOSCOW (UPI) — A strong earthquake rocked a mountainous southern region of the Soviet Union Wednesday night, sending residents scrambling into the streets, but causing little damage, officials said today.

There were no immediate reports of injuries.

The tremor struck at 11:17 p.m. Moscow time (2:17 p.m. EDT) in Chechjelo-Ingushskaya, an autonomous Soviet republic 800 miles southeast of Moscow in an oil-rich region of Transcaucasia.

Game thinks the herbicides used by the canal companies may be responsible.

British tea time fading

LONDON (UPI) — That great British institution, afternoon tea, appears to be losing popularity with everyone but the tourists who are willing to pay $1.50 for a cucumber sandwich and even endure the occasional teabag.

For years, high tea has been declining among Britons too busy to take time out for a mid-afternoon meal.

But the tea business is booming among tourists in exclusive hotel hotels—even when cucumber sandwiches cost as much as $1.80 apiece.

David Billeter, who has surveyed hotels throughout Britain for the Overcast and Hotelkeeper magazine, said, "Most British people are not interested. It is the American visitors who are keeping the meal alive."

Despite the decline of the afternoon tea, Britons still enjoy their daily cup—more than 100 cups of tea are drunk in the country every year.

"The sad truth is that afternoon tea, possibly the last remaining British culinary experience simply is not a good enough profitmaker to justify its perpetuation," Billeter said.

J. Lyons, whose chain of Corner Houses made afternoon tea famous, agrees it is a dying meal.

The firm started phasing out scores of its tea shops in 1959, and does not regret it.

But at the Ritz Hotel, the world-famous Palm Court is booked full daily for the $3.25 tea — a selection of finger sandwiches, pastries and pots of tea.

"There has certainly been no fall-off," a spokesman for the Ritz said. The Dorchester Hotel, recently taken over by an Arab consortium, also is doing good business.

"It remains one of our busiest meals. People come here specially for our tea," said Portman and Mison.

Another top hotel, the Portman, started afternoon teas as an experiment two years ago. And at $2.45, it has proved popular.

But some hotels use teabags, which, according to the experts, is really the end.

Boise man loses jewelry

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise man says four robbers stopped his car as he drove into town from the municipal airport and stole $1,400 worth of jewelry.

Stanley Bloom, 46, said men in two pairs boxed him in as he drove north on Van Avenue and then forced him to stop near Cherry Lane. A tall, heavy-set black man got out of the car in front and told him, "You wrecked my car," and then hit him in the face.

He said the men took a solid gold bracelet, a gold watch, a gold chain necklace and a diamond ring.

Canyon County sheriff cleared

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Canyon County Sheriff George Nourse Wednesday was cleared of allegations that he beat a prisoner on the third floor of the county jail.

Jim Morfitt, prosecuting attorney, said he considered the case closed because an investigation failed to produce any evidence of misconduct by the sheriff.

At a Wednesday morning news conference Morfitt said there was no indication of Nourse physically abused, mistreated or assaulted inmate Floyd Darbin last March 30.

Darbin, 20, of Caldwell, had earlier written an informal complaint to Morfitt, accusing Nourse of striking, kicking him and knocking his head against the steel walls of the county jail in Caldwell.

Ada girl locked in closet

BOISE (UPI) — Ada County sheriff's officers are looking for a gunman who tied up a 14-year-old Boise girl and locked her in her closet Wednesday.

The girl, who asked that her name not be used, said she was talking on the telephone to a friend when she looked out the window and saw the man outside her mobile home northwest of Boise.

She said the man forced his way into the home and ordered her into the closet. She said he was about six feet tall, had blond hair and blue eyes. He wore blue jeans but did not have on a shirt, she said.

The girl said she was in the closet about a half hour before she finally managed to open the door and notify authorities.

Off-road vehicles may roam BLM land until regulated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Under rules proposed Wednesday, off-road vehicles such as dune buggies and trail cycles could roam most federal lands administered by the Bureau of Land Management until each area is designated as "open," "closed" or "regulated" for use by off-road vehicles.

The Bureau of Land Management administrators about 70 million acres of federal land out West, including grazing lands and forest lands.

Larry Young, an outdoor recreation planner with the Interior Department, said the government estimates about half of the 10 million off-road vehicles in America at times use BLM lands.

The bureau proposed revised rules governing their use to comply with a May 4, 1975, U.S. District Court decision in a case brought by the National Wildlife Federation, which was concerned the recreational vehicles were damaging the environment.

The court said earlier rules violated a 1972 presidential order calling for management of off-road vehicles and did not sufficiently consider alternatives to leaving most areas open to their use.

"There is just a little bit of shift in emphasis," Young said of the revised rules.

The present rules say most of the BLM lands are open to use until designated.

"The proposed rules say they would be 'undesignated' until reviewed and listed as open, closed or restricted. The lands still could be used by off-road vehicles until classified.

So far, only about 15 million to 17 million acres have been designated, with about 10 per cent of this area closed to ORVs.

The bureau said top priority in designating BLM lands will be given to southern California, problem areas in Alaska, southern Nevada, western Arizona and central Utah.

A draft environmental study prepared by the Interior Department says there will be no off-road use in "wilderness areas, primitive areas, historic or archeological areas, or areas of unique natural, wildlife, aesthetic or recreational values unless done so without adverse effects."

States to pay 2 per cent of food stamp program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Agriculture Committee voted 20 to 15 Wednesday to require that states pay 2 per cent of the cost of federal food stamps beginning in October, 1977.

The amendment, by Rep. Walter B. Jones, D-N.C., could cost states $110 million a year or more.

Committee members added the state-sharing amendment to the omnibus overhaul of the food stamp program it has been putting together since early May. The panel earlier this week agreed to a final vote on the stamp bill Aug. 5.

A draft environmental study prepared by the Interior Department says there will be no off-road use in "wilderness areas, primitive areas, historic or archeological areas, or areas of unique natural, wildlife, aesthetic or recreational values unless done so without adverse effects."

Backers of the plan to require states to pay for part of the food stamps given to about 18 million needy Americans have contended the action would give the states—which handle local administration of the program—a greater incentive to control operations, closely and prevent over-payments and frauds.

Critics, however, have voiced fears that some needy people could be cut off from aid if state legislatures were unable or unwilling to come up with their share of program costs.

States already are required to pay half of their administrative costs for operating the program—a combined state, bill of about $300 million a year, Agriculture Committee aids said.

The Jones amendment would require states to pay, in addition, for 2 per cent of the "bonus" food stamps given free to qualified needy people.

Embargo removal favored

TWIN FALLS — Glen Messer said Wednesday he would support removal of present trade barriers and restrictive practices of commodity output and price.

"Attempts to use foreign agricultural markets in international economic negotiations distorts commodity marketing in this country," the Second District Republican congressional candidate said. "This is reflected in lower prices and higher production costs to the farmer."

"American grain growers should not have to pay the tab for concessions from the Russians in strategic arms talks by having their grain exports embargoed," he said.

Case of the 'sugar spy'

New York Times

What can there possibly be of a security or classified nature about sugar-beet refining, wherever it is done? The question arises inevitably in the wake of Leif A. Toth, the almost year-long imprisonment in Yugoslavia of a naturalized American citizen, Laszlo Toth, allegedly for having taken pictures of a sugar-beet refinery...

But dispatches from Belgrade suggest that there may be more to these differences than just the Toth case. There are hints that Ambassador Silberman may believe that overall United States policy is too conciliatory toward Belgrade, even that it may be a mistake to encourage so much economic and other forms of cooperation with Yugoslavia...

It has been a long time since there was much discussion or debate in this country about policy toward Yugoslavia, so it is useful that Ambassador Silberman, even if only indirectly, has acted to encourage another look. In any event, the Toth incident calls dramatic attention to problems in Yugoslavia-American relations that can no longer be swept under the rug.

On both sides, old suspicions and new fears have been quickened which may damage the efforts that many patient negotiators have been making for many months to foster a "south-south" dialogues in various international forums about the shaping of a new and mutually helpful relationship between the West and the Third World.

Whether President Amin's actions are to be seen as irrational or conspiratorial, there can now be no doubt that he and his men cooperated to some extent with the hijackers of the Air France airliner and had a hand in Mrs. Dora Bloch's disappearance and presumably violent death. And there can be no doubt that the wisest course now for the British government, would be to persuade as many as possible to leave quietly before President Amin makes hostages of them, and only then to remove its diplomats from Kampala as well.

Public anger has been loud in Britain because Mrs. Bloch was British and because of President Amin's record of harsh actions against British citizens (though nobody forgets that they have been less harsh than against his own). But there has been anger—in almost all other Western countries too, for the good reason that President Amin's government was seen as having gone farther than any other towards active partnership with the common enemy of all innocent travellers, the terrorist hijacker and hostage-taker.

President Amin is not even popular among his fellow African heads of state, and among the Arabs he has identified himself too closely with Colonel Qaddafi of Libya to make much appeal to the colonel's numerous antagonists.

But in the eyes of Africa's many vulnerable small states, only a few years after the departure of their former white rulers and with white rule still fastened on the south the argument that a military incursion like the one at Entebbe would be intended only to save lives does not carry the weight it should.

Many Africans pick on the fact that these lives were white lives, and that the rescuers, to the process, took lives and humiliated a black government. So President Amin's case has been espoused at least for public purposes, and with varying degrees of enthusiasm, by other African states as well as by Arabs always willing to support a charge against Israel. In the Security Council the Tanzanians—who have little cause to like him and indeed once allowed their territory to be used for an invasion to oust him, helped to back his claims; even the Kenyans confined themselves to rebutting his accusations against Kenya, not those against Israel, and making counter-charges about brutalities committed by his regime against Kenyan citizens.

Too many Africans forget the hijacking and President Amin's part in helping it. On both sides, anger and fear have prompted a search for allies and stones that could be thrown rather than for means of tackling the problems from which these events arose. The African governments demanded a condemnation of Israel by the Security Council—knowing they could not get it. In Britain, there have been more calls for the railing of verbal restriction on the offending heads than audible enthusiasm for the Anglo-American bid-in-the-council to make this the occasion for improving international action against terrorist hijacking.

A second African action at odds with the West is President Agostinho Neto's Angola. As with President Amin's actions, albeit with more calculation, there can be little doubt that President Neto's decision to authorize the execution of four British and American mercenaries was a political move; the one American, who was not proved to have done any fighting in Angola, was evidently chosen for execution because of his nationality, and Neto has explained that the executions were intended to deter other potential mercenaries from taking part in future wars.

Despite his now higher standing, only a few months ago Africa was sharply divided over President Neto's Popular Movement's claims to legitimacy; those claims came to be accepted not only because he was seen to be winning the civil war, thanks to Soviet and Cuban help, but also because Soviet and Cuban troops had already been sent into Angola to try to prevent him winning.

For all that, Mr. Neto touches a chord that vibrates throughout black Africa when he says that mercenaries are criminals, and it was probably a mistake for the British government to get the Queen to sign the appeal for the execution of four British and American mercenaries, even the Kenyans confined themselves to rebutting his accusations against Kenya, not those against Israel, and making counter-charges about brutalities committed by his regime against Kenyan citizens.

Britain's action seemed to give weight to Neto's claim of an official connection between Britain and the mercenaries. At such moments there are bound to be differences of perception between a largely white West and a nascent black Africa that feels wounded by its former links with the West. If there is any common ground, it has seemed to be a general inclination, on both sides, towards the kind of "frustrated" jingoism that Joseph Chamberlain expressed so well in the 1906 when he wrote: "It is not care which of our many enemies we defy, but let us defy somebody."

Jingoism, black or white, is not going to solve the real problems—the deterioration of terrorism, the longer-term partnership between black and white in and out of Africa, and the attempt to make sure that Africa's political problems can be solved without any outside intervention at all.

Tactics deployed in TF sheriff bid

Editor, Times News: In a recent radio interview and a series of statements to the Times-News Ivan Kistler has unfairly tried to discredit our local law enforcement agencies and the many fine men and women who work there.

"It is a great burden of 'seasonal self-righteousness' he has heaped on Sheriff Corder, almost every aspect of his career—consider himself to be more knowledgeable about burglary than Tim Qualls who has been a detective and a darn good one in this county for over twenty years, depicted other officers in the Tower of Jerms and has shown total disregard for the citizens who have given moral and financial support to law enforcement on many occasions."

Some statements contradict each other, some tell part of the truth, some tell none of the truth, but all say that "dirty tricks in politics" were used in Washington and landed in Twin Falls for awhile.

On radio, Mr. Kistler accused the Sheriff of standing by and forcing the desolate deputies to hire an attorney to get themselves a wage increase. He must have forgotten the very large citizenry group that met with the county commissioners at the request of Sheriff Corder and urged them to grant raises to the deputies.

It was, Paul Corder himself who called and asked me to help. In his usual calm and courteous manner, he outlined both the need and the justification for salary increases for his staff.

He thought that since I was the widow of a long-term Twin Falls County deputy it would be helpful for me to state first hand the financial plight that deputies and their families face when county salaries lag behind those of city and state law enforcement agencies.

I was a very active member of that group. The commissioners heard our pleas and granted the raises. We thanked the commissioners and Paul Corder thanked us.

This was only 2 1/2 years ago, and it seems incredible that Ivan Kistler has already forgotten it.

However, it is also incredible that Mr. Kistler would go on radio and depict his former fellow workers as a mass of warm bodies that crawled through the door of the sheriff's office those observed by Tim Qualls over the past 20 years, but we're not supposed to notice that until after the Aug. 3 primary election.

Perhaps we are also not supposed to notice that Mr. Kistler makes a point of "not making a point" of the sheriff's past illness.

The sheriff's illness and subsequent surgery one year ago was not kept secret from the public. Neither is it a secret that Paul Corder put the "call clear" go-ahead from his physician to run for sheriff again and pursue all the duties of that office.

What apparently was kept secret were a few discrepancies in prisoner's funds that went on behind the sheriff's back at the time of his surgery and were kept there to be "sprung" on the public one year later, just before the election.

We still have some time to go before the election. I certainly hope that the rest of this campaign takes place on a higher moral level—one in which the sheriff's age is not altered to make him retire in two years, instead of eight—one in which past and present deputies are not slandered—and one in which we don't have to be subjected to any more "set up" situations staged just for election time.

The citizens of Twin Falls County are proud and citizens—proud of their communities, jobs and homes, and especially proud of all the dedicated law enforcement agencies that protect them. The deplorable low-level type of campaign waged against Sheriff Paul Corder brings shame to us all.

One week later Mr. Kistler in the newspaper has magnificently converted all but two of these wiffling warm bodies to depressed, but well-trained professional deputies.

Two deputies got subtracted from the three that worked the night hours in Twin Falls County to make room for his statement that only one deputy works the "peak" crime hours. Of course, his peak crime hours are not the same as Boris, how could you do it?

Los Angeles Times

To: Boris Ushchenko Soviet Fencer Moscow, U.S.S.R. or Siberia

Dear Boris, You can imagine how shocked I was to read in the newspapers last week that you were caught cheating in the fencing competition at the Olympic in Montreal last week.

How could you do it, Boris? How could you rig your epee electrically so you would be given credit for touching your opponent when you were actually stabbing him in the back? What possessed you to throw away a gold medal and a promising career by wiring your sword on AC when the rules called for you to be on DC?

How can a Russian cheat in fencing? Boris in America because no one in his wildest dreams could ever imagine a Russian resorting to tricks to win an athletic competition. But the ramifications go far beyond sports. Boris, do you know what you've done by your cheating? You've sown seeds of distrust and despair.

There are some people in this country who feel that because of your sword, we can no longer trust the Soviets on SAMT and disarmament. At this moment, as I write to you, Henry Kissinger is sitting in his State Department office saying to himself, "If they're wiring their epees electrically, why couldn't they be wiring their missiles?"

Over at the Pentagon generals and admirals are gathered in the hallways saying to each other, "Is this the Soviet Union we always knew and believed?" And on housewives all over the Potomac congressmen and senators are saying to their secretaries, "Honey, you and I are going to have to take another peek at détente."

Yes, Boris, when you plugged in your epee last week, you sent an electric shock felt round the world. Every country is asking itself, "How many Ushchenkos are there in the Soviet Union waiting to fence with us with a phony sword?"

ART BUCHWALD

In the United Nations, the Third World powers are asking, "Can we vote with a country that sometimes had wiring up its athlete's sleeve?"

I know you must have an explanation for what you've done. They certainly didn't teach you cheating at the Karl Marx Elementary School in Kiev. And God knows your Communist teachers never taught it at the First of May High School in Leningrad. And certainly they had no lessons code at Engels Military Academy in Smolensk.

The idea must have come to you from some other source. Perhaps you had a coach who told you,

"Winning in everything," or another who said to your mistress, "She's a phony mistress."

It's not for me to conjecture where you picked up your bad habits, Boris. All I can tell you is that we Americans must now face up to the facts of life and insist on safeguards to prevent dreamed of before. These include on-site inspection of all your nuclear warheads, a renegotiation of any future wheat deals and a new look at your intentions in the Middle East.

We would never have thought of these things had we not been witness to your deceit in Canada.

I'm sorry I had to lay it on the line, Boris, but I thought you'd rather hear it from me than from one of your own people. We Americans are trusting souls. But we can be picked just so far.

When we see a fencing match on television and lights flashing when no one has been touched, even we know there is something rotten in Montreal.

I don't know how you can redeem yourself. If you are honest, I'd suggest you put on a ceremonial robe, remove the cotton tip and fall on your epee.

But since you're a Russian, you're going to have to figure out some other way of reclaiming your honor. Perhaps you can find yourself a good honest electrician in Moscow and get yourself rewired in time for the 1980 Olympics. I hope so, for your sake as well as ours.

Have a nice day. Your friend, A.B.

Search for bus kidnaper ends in California arrest

Northern California authorities Wednesday night issued an all points bulletin for Schoenfeld, 24, who was supposedly spotted driving a 1956 Chevrolet carry-all van in nearby Menlo Park.

The bulletin said Schoenfeld bought the vehicle in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, under his own name. Its Idaho license plates read K50718.

The new search area was northwest of Chowchilla, the central California town where 26 children and their driver were kidnaped July 15. Schoenfeld's "sister" brother, Richard, 22, who surrendered voluntarily last Friday, was expected to be whisked in and out of Chowchilla today for arraignment on 43 counts of kidnaping and robbery.

A car belonging to James Schoenfeld was found Wednesday in Coeur d'Alene. Alameda County Sheriff Tom Houehins said it was likely the suspect had camped out in the Northwest since he was known to have backpacking equipment with him and had been denied entry to Canada.

Chowchilla police confirmed that a shotgun blast was fired through the windows of the abandoned old justice court Monday night. Today's arraignment was to be held in the new justice court before Judge Howard Green in a courtroom with 49 seats.

Houehins, in discussing plans to move Schoenfeld to Chowchilla said, "we are not too much in fear of a lynching," but authorities named a special security force, including SWAT sharpshooters, to guard the suspect.

Sheriff Ed Bates said he expected a crowd of several thousand people even though the total population of Chowchilla is 5,500. But both Bates and Green said the town was calm.

"I think the people around here are more concerned about having a fair trial than anyone else," said Sheriff Bates.

Judge Green said, "I believe the people here in Chowchilla want to see justice done. I don't think the people here have considered taking the law into their own hands."

"He's scared of going there," said attorney William Gagen of his client. "He fears for his personal safety because he knows feelings there are running very high. Whether he is innocent or not does not seem to matter — he is going and he is the only one in custody."

Gagen said his client will plead innocent.

The FBI said James Schoenfeld's car was found abandoned shortly after midnight on a residential street in Coeur d'Alene by police on a routine patrol.

Federal court holds up natural gas price hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New natural gas rates, which would have cost the average American household $15.60 more a year, have been postponed at least temporarily by a federal court.

The federal circuit court of appeals for the District of Columbia agreed late Wednesday to grant a stay pending further order, which could come next week.

A coalition of consumer, labor, and government groups sued for an indefinite stay of the new rates which were announced Tuesday by the Federal Power Commission.

The coalition also asked the FPC formally for a delay and a rehearing of the interim rates.

A few hours after the suit was filed, clerks for Judges Charles Fahy and Spottswood Robinson II notified lawyers in the suit that the court would grant a brief stay.

The suit was filed by the Energy Action Committee, the Consumer Federation of America, the state of Minnesota and its Public Service Commission, the United Auto Workers, the U.S. Conference of Mayors, and several other organizations and government entities.

They contended if the new rates were allowed to be in effect while an appeal is pursued, American consumers would pay more than $100 million a month in higher rates that could turn out to be disallowed.

The FPC announcement Tuesday set a new national ceiling of $1.01 per thousand cubic feet for gas dedicated to interstate sales between Jan. 1, 1974 and Jan. 1, 1975, and $1.42 per thousand cubic feet for gas committed to such sales after that time.

China noted quake signs

NEW YORK (AP) — American specialists in earthquake prediction who returned last month from a visit to China were shown, while there, evidence of ominous magnetic changes in the Tientsin area and were told that a major quake was expected in Northeast China before the 1980's.

Radio stations in Peking and Tientsin began warning the population last year to prepare for a quake, but there is as yet no evidence that a last-minute evacuation order was carried out.

Such an order, on the eve of a great quake that struck China's Liaoning Peninsula on Feb. 4, 1975, is thought to have saved thousands of lives. The Peking and Tientsin broadcasts followed that event and were apparently based on fear that a new quake might occur along a fault running southeast from Peking toward Tientsin.

The quakes of the last two days did occur in the area, apparently near the city of Tangshan, which has a population of one million.

The Americans, who visited the Liaoning earthquake area as well as Peking, were led by Dr. C. Harry Raleigh, Australian-born geophysicist with the United States Geological Survey center in Menlo Park, Calif. He and others of the group described their visit in telephone interviews Wednesday.

They were told that a study of earthquakes over the last several centuries indicated an ominous migration of activity toward northeast China. For this reason, it was said, a great quake was expected there before the 1980's.

The Americans visited China to study the events that led up to last year's prediction as well as sociological problems involved in alerting the populace and persuading people to leave their homes at the critical time. Perhaps the most remarkable phenomenon reported to the visitors was the occurrence of "earthquake lights" or "ground glow."

One Chinese scientist reported that he happened to be looking toward the epicenter of the quake when it occurred. For several seconds the region was illuminated from the ground to a height of about 1,500 feet by a glow as bright as that of a flash bulb, he said.

The illuminated area was about three miles wide, as seen from his position, he added. Dr. Raleigh described the account as "absolutely fascinating." The phenomenon may have been caused by a discharge of electricity, he added, and was of special interest with regard to releases of electrical energy that may be associated with great earthquakes.

Changes in local magnetism and electrical conductivity of the earth's crust are both being investigated as possible preliminary signs of such quakes.

The visitors were also told of so many reports of unusual animal behavior before the 1975 quake that they found them hard to dismiss. According to Chinese accounts, the evidence that animals can sense an impending quake was manifest, for example, before an earthquake that shook Tientsin on July 18, 1969.

Two hours before the quake, according to a keeper in the Tientsin Zoo, tigers began acting strangely. Other signs, according to a Chinese report issued recently in Paris include the panic of chickens, pigs refusing to enter pig sties, horses and sheep running about in a frenzy, rats and mice leaving their holes, and hibernating snakes slithering out onto the ice.

Early in 1975 enough warning signs had been observed for the Chinese to expect a large quake in the Liaoning area. In the 18 hours before it occurred there were several shocks, five of them greater than the third magnitude on the Richter scale — enough to be widely felt.

These foreshocks were concentrated near the communities where the quake was to occur, precipitating the evacuation of homes, shops and factories. As a result it is believed that many thousands of lives were saved.

The best data on the activity of the last two days available to Dr. Raleigh and his colleagues is from the seismic station at Palmer, Alaska. It does not show any foreshock greater than magnitude 4.5, but this does not mean lesser warning signs were observed, he said.

Earthquakes of magnitude 7 or greater, when they occur in remote areas, may do little damage, but where population density is high, as around Tangshan, the area, in Dr. Raleigh's view, "must have taken a terrible beating."

Striking miners defy work orders

By United Press International

Striking coal miners defied court and union back-to-work orders today to press for an end to injunctions against coal strikes and for a probe to determine if federal judges are bribed to issue back-to-work orders.

On the brighter side of the nation's labor picture, a possible strike against Western Union was averted and the union representing 5,100 Trans World Airlines flight attendants removed the threat of a Sunday strike by agreeing to submit the airline's latest contract offer to its membership.

At a rally outside Charleston, W. Va., Wednesday, striking miners drew up demands to present to the company officials. Miners sought a meeting today with coal company officials to force an across-the-table settlement of their disputes.

Their demands include an end to the use of federal injunctions in the mines; a probe for miners involved in the work stoppage and an investigation of the economic interests of all coalfield judges.

The miners said they believed U.S. District Court judges in coal states may be receiving bribes from the coal industry for a quick issuance of injunctions.

Judge rules diary not usable evidence

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI) — A judge has ruled singer Claudine Longet's diary inadmissible as evidence in her trial for the shooting death of her lover, rock singer Vladimir "Spider" Sabich.

Miss Longet, 35, has pleaded innocent to a charge of felony manslaughter in the case, and is scheduled for trial Aug. 30.

District Judge George Lohr Wednesday also ruled as inadmissible the blood and urine tests given the singer the night Sabich was shot.

Sabich, 31, died in a death minutes after being shot in the stomach March 21 at the $250,000 luxury mountain chalet the couple shared for two years near Aspen.

Attorneys for Miss Longet contended at a three-day hearing on suppression of evidence last month that a search warrant used by investigators was invalid because the affidavit was not signed by a judge.

A county judge testified he did not remember making a police investigator swear to the truth of the affidavit but said his "overall impression was that I gave the oath."

The jury reportedly detailed a deteriorating relationship between Miss Longet and Sabich. Miss Longet had testified her affair with the pop singer had soured.

Defense attorneys had dropped a motion to suppress a 22-caliber pistol as evidence, along with statements she made to police the night of the shooting. Lohr was required to rule on the motions and decided they were admissible as evidence.

District Attorney Frank Tucker had criticized Lohr for delaying his ruling about a week.

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Attorney General Edward H. Levi Wednesday night declared that no electronic surveillance against a U.S. citizen is being conducted without a court warrant.

"A year ago I publicly stated that there were no outstanding instances of warrantless taps or electronic surveillance directed against American citizens. There are no such instances now," Levi said in an address to the Ninth Judicial Conference.

"In 1965 there were 231 telephone wiretaps under this program and 67 microphones," Levi said. "In 1975 there were 122 telephone wiretaps and 24 microphones."

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Bess Truman, widow of President Harry S. Truman, has asked for an absentee ballot for the Aug. 3 state primary, a family friend said Wednesday.

Mrs. Truman, 91, is in Research Hospital undergoing treatment for arthritis. Her condition remains good.

"She's cheerful and doing very well. She asked me to get her an absentee ballot and I've arranged for it," said Rufus Burris Sr., an attorney and a friend of the Trumans for many years.

Cornfeld's gold

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Millionaire Bernard Cornfeld was sued for $12.5 million by the federal government Wednesday for alleged illegal possession of gold.

The civil suit said that Cornfeld's Fund of Funds, operating in Canada in 1968, acquired $2.2 million in gold.

"Since the Fund of Funds was controlled by a U.S. citizen, the acquiring and holding of said gold... without a license issued by the secretary of the treasury... was unlawful," the suit said in requesting damages of double the value of the gold.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Genevieve Cranston, wife of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., filed a petition in Superior Court Wednesday for a legal separation from the senator after 36 years of marriage, on grounds of irreconcilable differences.

Mrs. Cranston, 64, is partially paralyzed from a stroke suffered more than six years ago.

Doctor accused

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The former team psychiatrist to the San Diego Chargers has been accused by the California Board of Medical Quality Assurance of gross negligence and incompetence for allegedly prescribing large quantities of pep pills for the pro football players.

The board charged Dr. Arnold J. Mandell, co-chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of California at San Diego, had prescribed 400 amphetamine pills for one player alone and from 80 to 200 for others.

Mandell has written a book, "The Nightmare Season," about his experience with the team in 1974, when the National Football League disciplined eight players and the management for violations of drug rules.

Mandell's attorney said he will ask for a public hearing into the charges.

Smog smothers holly in California desert

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Silvery-leaved desert holly, admired by Southwest residents for its tight, to-beautifully stark, arid environment is being smothered by Los Angeles smog which is drifting into the plant's native Death Valley.

A scientific study released here Wednesday showed the holly may be in danger of extinction in some areas because of high ozone pollution.

Biology student Frank Fisher conducted the study for the National Park Resources Studies Unit at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. It showed air pollution moved more than 160 miles from Los Angeles to Death Valley and appeared to be killing the fragile desert holly plants.

Fisher, assigned to determine why desert holly was on the decline, said he traced the cause to high levels of ozone in the air during summer months. He said during August the ozone level in Death Valley is twice the national standard for plant survival.

"It's hard to predict a thing like that, but plant life in the desert has a delicate balance. The plants have to be tough to live in that environment, but at the same time, they are living under stressed conditions," he said.

Desert holly is a small brittle bush that ranges from six inches to three feet in height and has pointed, silvery-white leaves.

"During the summer months the plant is under stressed conditions because of the shortage of water and at this time the ozone level is particularly dangerous to the plant," said Fisher.

Air traffic controllers asked to work by the book

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Because of a pay dispute, union officials are asking air traffic controllers to work only according to the book, raising the possibility of massive traffic jams at every major airport in the country.

A Federal Aviation Administration statement Wednesday told controllers to ignore the order.

"We ask (controllers) to stop extending themselves in providing services above and beyond what the rules require," said John Loyden, president of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization.

"We anticipate this will result in delays in the movement of air traffic in this country. None of these delays adversely affect air safety. We hope that the traveling public will understand despite the resulting inconvenience."

A spokesman said the slowdown would go into effect "as soon as the word is spread."

"We are dismayed by the union's action, calling for the introduction of unnecessary delay in air traffic transportation," said FAA chief John McLucas.

McLucas messaged all air traffic control towers saying: "Ask each of you to carry out your responsibilities to the American public and its service."

Look to your continued strong support of providing the American public with the high level of air traffic control service.

Carter aide sees possible trouble

Washington Star
 WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter's chief economic adviser, Lawrence R. Klein, Wednesday predicted continuing brisk growth of the economy into next year, but warned of potential trouble in late 1977 and 1978.

The economy appears to be heading for a growth slowdown and accelerating inflation at that stage, he testified before the House Banking Committee.

Klein, a professor at the University of Pennsylvania, avoided specific prescriptions for countering the trend. He implied, however, that higher priority on reducing unemployment than on fighting inflation, but he has indicated a leaning toward moderate policies.

budgetary and monetary action to spur the economy's advance.

If such measures heighten inflationary pressures, he said, a wide variety of government policies could help hold down the price spiral. It would be a mistake to focus on policies aimed at slowing the economy to fight inflation, he said.

Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, has advocated stimulative budgetary and monetary policies in the period immediately ahead to step up economic growth and reduce unemployment. He has put a higher priority on reducing unemployment than on fighting inflation, but he has indicated a leaning toward moderate policies.

Steady authority to impose selective wage and price controls would be helpful, Carter has said, although he doubts that controls would be needed.

Klein is a leading econometrician. That is, he uses mathematical equations or "models" to forecast the economy.

Relying on the model he developed at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School, Klein predicted that economic growth will continue for a few more quarters at rates far enough above 4 percent a year to produce a "gradual downward slide" in the unemployment rate.

Among the assumptions in this forecast, he said, is a federal budget for next fiscal year about $15 billion above President Ford's estimate, and slightly more expansionary monetary policies than the Federal Reserve is projecting.

Beyond 1976, Klein testified, "1977 promises to be a slower recovery year, with some additional inflationary pressure."

Growth-of-output probably will fall below 4 percent during 1978, he said, implying that unemployment may stop declining and may rise.

Starting near the end of 1977 and continuing into 1978, he said, inflation may accelerate because most industries will be operating at more than 90 percent of capacity.

The inflation rate could rise from about 6 percent currently to 8 or 9 percent in 1978, he said. However, he said, "serious inflation of the double-digit variety together with a boom-bust scenario is not at all inevitable."

Spiro joins

N. Y. Times Service
 NEW YORK — Former vice president Spiro T. Agnew has taken over the presidency of a non-profit educational foundation that advocates a build-up of American nuclear arms, is critical of America's policy of aiding the State of Israel, and expresses sympathy for Palestinian refugees in the Middle East.

The foundation, Education for Democracy, was formed in Indiana in 1971, and its legal papers were drawn up by Tom Charles Huston, the former White House employe whose name was mentioned often in impeachment inquiries because of his authorship of the so-called "Huston Plan" in 1970 of gathering intelligence of domestic radicals through electronic surveillance, break-ins and reading of mail.

Success predicted

COMMERCE Secretary Elliot Richardson said in Washington Wednesday President Ford has "clinched" the Republican presidential nomination, partly because of Ronald Reagan's "cynical" selection of Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., as his running mate. (UPI)

FBI agent admits burglaries

Washington Times Service
 WASHINGTON — An agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation has testified under oath that he participated in "between 50 and 90" burglaries of the Socialist Workers Party headquarters in New York City, according to a deposition made public Wednesday.

George P. Baxtrum, Jr., a special agent since 1946 and now attached to the Milwaukee FBI office, said that between 1958 and 1965 he had made "surveillance entries" into the party's headquarters in Manhattan to search desks, photograph documents and place microphones for electronic eavesdropping.

Baxtrum, in the deposition taken in New York last June, said he had been told that FBI headquarters in Washington had approved each entry.

It was the first time an FBI agent admitted under oath participating in burglaries, although the bureau acknowledged the illegal entries in the Socialist Workers case earlier this year.

Baxtrum is one of the defendants in a $37 million damage suit filed by the Socialist Workers against present and former government officials including John F. Malone, special agent in charge of the New York FBI office during the period of the burglaries.

Mississippi swings to Ford

By United Press International
 President Ford may pick up most of Mississippi's 30 convention votes as a result of the delegation leader's switch to him from Ronald Reagan. But Reagan's forces counter with claims they have eroded Ford's strength in Pennsylvania.

The two states currently are center stage in the battle for the Republican presidential nomination. In both cases, Reagan's announcement that he would name Richard Schweiker, R-Ia., as his running mate makes the difference.

Reagan has lost at least four delegates since picking Schweiker, and may lose more in the conservative South. But surveys in the Far West showed the California support holding firm despite open unhappiness over Schweiker by many of the delegates.

A better picture of the Pennsylvania situation emerges today when the 103-member delegation caucuses on Capitol Hill, talks to Schweiker, and visits the White House to meet with Ford in late afternoon.

Meanwhile, in Plains, Ga., Jim Baker, Carter, and his Democratic running mate Sen. Walter Mondale got a foreign policy briefing from CIA Director George Bush, and scheduled an end today to their four days of intensive issues studies in various fields.

After completing the economic session Wednesday, Carter outlined some of his goals, which include reducing inflation to 4 per cent a year and stabilizing the economic growth rate at 4 to 6 per cent annually.

Schweiker claimed Wednesday he had converted six Ford delegates to Reagan in Pennsylvania and "in excess" of 13 others have moved from Ford to the uncommitted column.

Drew Lewis, Ford's Pennsylvania chairman, discounted the claim and asked Schweiker to name the delegates to back up his statements.

UPI shows 80 votes for Ford, eight for Reagan and 15 uncommitted in Pennsylvania.

Mississippi was once considered strong Reagan territory but a survey by UPI of 54 of the 60 delegates who will cast half votes at the convention showed a surge of Ford strength there.

Ford had only 3 of the 30 Mississippi votes in an earlier UPI survey, but jumped to 27 in the latest tally. His total could go higher as a result of the Wednesday night announcement by leader Clarke Reed that he has decided to support "Ford instead" of Reagan.

Reagan, who had 24 in the earlier count, now stayed up with only 9. There were 52 uncommitted, and 6 delegates representing 3 votes could not be reached.

Both Ford and Reagan have scheduled trips to Mississippi in personal efforts to woo the delegates. Ford Friday and Reagan next Wednesday.

In its nationwide delegate count, UPI showed Ford at 1,119, or 11 short of the number needed for nomination. Reagan had 1,028 and there were 112 uncommitted.

Mississippi's votes were counted as all uncommitted by UPI since neither candidate had a majority of the delegates. A majority is needed to invoke the state's unit rule — under which the delegates have agreed to cast their votes as a bloc for one candidate.

Utah's Moss flays Medicare abuse

Chicago Sun-Times
 WASHINGTON — Doctors and others mulling the rich pay dirt of Medicare and Medicaid have virtual licenses to steal and have little punishment to fear, according to the Senate Finance Committee has been told.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, principal witness at a hearing on legislative proposals to tighten up an fraud and abuse in the two big federally financed health programs, said yesterday the report system is so open to riffs that "it is a bit curious to me that more physicians do not choose to cheat."

Moss, chairman of a select Senate committee on aging that has heard widespread abuse in both Medicare (the health program for the aged) and Medicaid (health program for the poor), offered new data on swindles by health-care professionals.

He set the amount of fraud in Medicare along at $1.5 billion a year, $300 million of it "stolen by comparatively few physicians." The Medicaid program, which is administered on a state-by-state basis rather than nationally through the Social Security Administration, is riddled with even worse fraud, Moss added.

Moss' committee on aging has cited fraud in Chicago — particularly in Medicaid — where collusion and kickbacks between doctors and medical laboratories were reported to be the rule rather than the exception.

In his Finance Committee testimony, Moss also outlined chicanery in several other states, including New York.

Newsman face jail terms

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Four members of the Fresno Bee newspaper may be sentenced Friday to indeterminate jail sentences for refusing to reveal a news source.

The newsmen have exhausted their court appeals, and their only chance to escape jail appears to be to reveal the source of a news story. They insist they will not do it.

Clipping immunity under the California shield law, which protects newsmen from revealing their sources, are Bee Managing Editor George Gruner, reporters William K. Patterson and Joe Rosato, and former City Editor James H. Bort, Jr., now an ambassador dealing with complaints and comments from readers.

The case began in November of 1974 when Superior Court Judge Denver Peckinpah, brother of movie director Sam Peckinpah, sealed a Fresno County Grand Jury transcript involving bribery charges against Fresno City Councilman Marc Stefano and developer, Julius Alulst. The judge also placed a gag order on all officers of the court.

Stefano was acquitted in a trial held outside Fresno County but Alulst was convicted.

The Bee obtained copies of the transcript and printed portions in January of 1975. Peckinpah called Rosato into court and demanded to know where they got the information.

Index goes up slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government said today its forecast of future economic trends — the composite index of leading indicators — rose only 0.3 per cent in June, its smallest advance in seven months.

The slight increase followed a May figure of 0.7 per cent, which was revised downward, and was the smallest rise since last November when the index moved up only 0.1 per cent.

Originally, the Commerce Department had put May's increase at 1.4 per cent. However, the department today cut that figure in half, saying current data indicates that new business for the month was less than previously thought.

For the second quarter of the year, as a whole, the index advanced 2 per cent compared to 2.7 per cent rise in the first quarter, the department said.

The June rise, however slight, marked the eighth consecutive month the index has increased, the department said. The index stood at 108.6 per cent of its 1967 base of 100 in June, well below its pre-recession peak of 126.6 per cent recorded in mid-1973.

The index measures 12 sectors of the economy. By charting them on a percentage basis, government economists say future industrial production and employment trends can be forecast usually five to six months in advance.

The Commerce Department said only 11 indicators were available for June. Five of them showed increases, four declined and two remained unchanged.

New orders for plant and equipment contributed the most to the overall increase. Vendor performance, the change in total liquid assets, the change in sensitive wholesale prices and the index of stock prices also showed improvement.

Of the declining indicators, the money balance, dropped the most. Net new business formation also declined as well as new orders for manufacturers and building permits.

The average workweek and the "hiring" rate were unchanged. The change in inventories was not available.

Troops to withdraw?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. analysts believe that despite an earlier promise to withdraw them, Cuban troops will remain in Angola for the indefinite future.

Officials say Fidel Castro has been making public indications in this direction but the clearest indication comes in an interview by Agostino Neto in an Algerian magazine, "Affluence".

Neto says in a translation made available by officials here, "We will no longer need our Cuban comrades when our armed forces have mastered modern military techniques and when our army has mastered the technology of sophisticated arms and 20th Century warfare."

It is thought to be significant that Neto does not link the continued presence of the Cubans with any immediate military threat as he did in the past. In the interview, in fact, he says that the various enemies of the Angolan regime have been withdrawn or have been conquered.

Officials believe that Neto who showed open annoyance in the interview with Fidel Castro for his earlier promise that the Cuban troops would be pulled out — relies on the Cubans as a cadre to build up one of the most modern military forces in central Africa.

Castro had said in a letter to Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme made available to U.S. government officials that the Cuban troops would be gradually withdrawn.

U.S. leaders linked any possible improvement in U.S.-Cuban relations with the removal of those troops.

Intelligence estimates now say that there are about 15,000 Cuban troops in Angola, the approximate number that was there at the peak of the recent war.

Capt. James Cook, discoverer of the Hawaiian Islands, named his discovery the Sandwich Islands, after the first lord of the admiralty.

Hearst marshal quits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Janey Jiminez, the federal marshal who escorted Patricia Hearst during her bank robbery trial, is abandoning her law enforcement career to write a book about the newspaper heiress.

Miss Jiminez' attorney, Duncan Barr, said Tuesday she has been offered "a minimum of six figures and probably well into '70" to author a book about her relationship with Miss Hearst.

The 23 year old woman was assigned as Miss Hearst's escort just three hours after she was sworn in as the first female U.S. marshal in Northern California.

The book offer, Barr said, was only one of many "screwball as well as legitimate things" proposed to Miss Jiminez after she became known as "the woman beside Patty Hearst."

Barr said Miss Jiminez plans to resign at the end of the month.

Federal judge delays ATT ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge Wednesday took under advisement President Ford's contention that it would be an "unacceptable risk" to give a House subcommittee access to records of national security wiretaps.

After hearing arguments from administration lawyers and counsel for the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce subcommittee, U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch said he would rule later on whether to enjoin the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. from complying with the panel's subpoena for the records.

Gasch earlier temporarily restricted ATT from supplying records on the taps conducted without warrants.

The Justice Department obtained the order from Gasch after the company indicated it would turn over the documents despite the President's orders to the contrary, citing national security considerations.

"At the Wednesday hearing, Assistant Attorney General Rex Lee told Gasch that surrendering the records to the panel headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., would entail an "unacceptable risk."

Lee, countering subcommittee claims that the documents would be kept under the tightest security, said House rules would automatically give all 135 House members and their aides access to the materials.

Subcommittee attorney Joseph Hassett said Lee was asking Gasch to rule in effect that members of Congress are "less sensitive to the needs of the country" than executive branch officials. FBI agents and large numbers of ATT employees who have seen the secret documents in the course of setting up the wiretaps for the government.

Hassett said the power to tap the telephones of private citizens is a "power too great to be left in the hands of one branch of government" and "certainly I know of no case that holds that Congress cannot be trusted."

Michael Lemov, the subcommittee's chief counsel, argued: "We have a proud record of security, fairness and responsibility. The security precautions that we have available are as good as those of the FBI and better than those of ATT."

Lemov also challenged the government's claim that the panel does not really need the ATT documents.

He said the subcommittee needed to see if any of the surveillance targets happened to be "Senator X," a disarming person, someone who annoyed the FBI.

Dedication planned

Perrine Bridge dedication contest deadline Friday

TWIN FALLS — The deadline for entering the dedication festivities for the new Perrine Memorial Bridge north of Twin Falls is Friday at 5 p.m.

Jim Newton, Twin Falls, chairman of the event, said there will be events for children and adults. There is no restriction on entries, he said. Dedication is scheduled for Saturday at 1 p.m.

There will be a bicycle steeplechase in which the rider will ride the length of the bridge from north to south. Riders will have to get off of their bicycles and lift the vehicles over the bridge supports jointly because of the construction of these structures. It is not possible to ride the bicycles over them.

Youth foot races will be held from the north end of the bridge to the midpoint. The bridge is 1,500 feet long.

Other events will include a golf driving contest with golfers driving from the back of a flat-bed truck into the east canyon. Entry fees will be $1 for this event. There is no charge for other contests.

A demonstration will be given by the Elkorah Magic Motors mini-bike group of the local Shrine club.

Prizes to winners will include certificates for triple ice cream cones and hamburgers from Baskin Robbins and McDonalds.

Persons may sign up for the bicycle races at Western Auto and A and H Cycle Sales in Jerome; and Valley Skiwin, Spoke and Wheel, Olson's and Newton's in Twin Falls. Pool racers may enter at the Jerome Chamber of Commerce and Penney's in Jerome and at Harmon Park in Twin Falls.

Entry in the golf driving contest may be made at Sherwoods, Newton's, the municipal golf course in Twin Falls, the North Side News and Jerome Country Club or at other golf pro shops in the Magic Valley.

Scofflaw fined

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Chicago scofflaw, who is also a former policeman, has been fined a record $13,500 for his 943 unpaid parking tickets.

Traffic Court Judge John H. McCollom told Anthony Kreiser, 34, Tuesday that he was a discredit upon himself and the city and the Chicago police force. Kreiser could have been fined $235,750 for the tickets, Ronald J.T. Banks, the chief corporation counsel at traffic court, said.

Voter turnout 'light'

BOISE (UPI) — Citing voter apathy, Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa today predicted a "very light" turnout of voters in Idaho's primary election next Tuesday.

"There doesn't seem to be any interest," Cenarrusa said. He said not only is there not a full statewide ballot in this election but the public seems to be "disillusioned with politics and big government in general." He blamed this in part on Watergate and other political scandals, adding:

"Another factor is that people are preoccupied with trying to make a living to pay their bills and their taxes."

Only 36.8 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots in Idaho's presidential primary May 25.

Machine donated to MVMH

TWIN FALLS — An Alabama couple whose son died at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital following a traffic accident last year has donated a respirator to the hospital.

Renald and Lorraine Bouchard, Anniston, Ala., made the donation Monday at a special hospital anniversary honoring their late son, Renald II.

The 22-year-old U.S. Navy machinist's mate died July 26, 1975, after spending about three weeks in the MVMH intensive care unit. He suffered severe head and chest injuries in an auto accident between Jackson and Wells, Nev., on July 9, 1975, and never regained consciousness. — He had been stationed at Arco prior to the accident.

According to Mary Goe, MVMH public relations director, the Bouchards became aware the hospital needed a respirator when the continued use of such a machine by their son required the borrowing of another machine for a different patient.

After returning to Alabama, the Bouchards began a fund drive to purchase a respirator as a memorial to their son.

Monday the respirator, which cost about $5,200, was donated.

Attending the ceremony in addition to the Bouchards were young Bouchard's widow, Debra, and his son, Renald III. Also in attendance were John and Claudette Pollard, Twenty-Nine Palms, Calif. Mrs. Pollard is the late Bouchard's sister. The Pollards' four children also attended.

Police aid British vagrant

NORTHAMPTON, England (UPI) — In Britain's welfare state with protection for every one from the cradle to the grave, police said Tuesday the only way they could help a penniless vagrant was to charge him with stealing six pods of peas because he was too proud to claim social security.

Sidney Letts, 33, unemployed and of no fixed address, admitted stealing the peas, valued at two pence, 1.8 cents, and said he had also stolen an apple and a peach.

"We felt bringing it to court was the only way we could help Mr. Letts," a police inspector told the court. "When he was arrested he was weak under nourished and so thin and weak he could hardly stand. If he is not helped some ill will befall him."

The magistrate ordered him held in prison until Aug. 10 for a medical report after Letts told the court, "The first thing everybody in financial trouble does is to scrounge off the Social Security. I was trying to do it the other way."

Reassurance plan scheduled

TWIN FALLS — A telephone reassurance program headed by Romaine Oliver and Lena Wahl is being sponsored for Twin Falls County seniors by the Twin Falls Senior Citizens.

The program is designed to provide a daily check on elderly shut-ins and also to give them contact with the outside world.

A person wishing to participate in this program is asked to sign a contract giving his permission for a member of the committee to call him each day. If he does not answer within five rings, the caller will wait 10 minutes, then call back and wait five more rings.

If the person does not answer, the contract gives the sponsor written consent to contact someone of the participant's choice to investigate.

Activities planned at Twin Falls Senior Citizens Center

TWIN FALLS — The coming proceeds will go into the building fund.

The Twin Falls Senior Citizens Center include bingo nights at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 5 and Aug. 26 at the center, 421 Second Ave. W.

The public is invited. All event can be made by calling the center, 734-5084

The monthly trip to Jackpot is scheduled for Aug. 12. The blood pressure clinic is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Aug. 17, at the center. A two day trip to Boise is being planned for Aug. 19 and 20.

A luncheon will be served at noon Aug. 23 on the grounds of the Twin Falls County Historical Society Museum at Curry, followed by a tour of the

Folklore 'in' style

PARIS (UPI)—The high fashion collection of Designer Emanuel Ungaro Wednesday looked like a bunch of rich hippies trekking in from Lhasa via Katmandu.

The Ungaro winter show was all folklore which the designer said was inspired by Tibet.

Yves Saint Laurent based his April winter ready-to-wear show on Soviet Union folk costumes. Now Ungaro has joined the trend with even more wearable peasant garb. Sleeveless capes went over little quilted jackets and full or pleated skirts, all edged with braid and in different prints to follow Ungaro's traditional mixprint idea.

Right out of the Himalayas were braided or embroidered belts, peasant blouses with enormous sleeves and square necklines, embroidered blouses, skull caps. The Ungaro girls wore their hair in tiny strands wound with Tibetan beads.

Gray or rust-chenille coats, the material looking like plush seats on a slow train to Lhasa, went over billowing dark paisley-wool dresses.

Ungaro's evening wear vibrated with exotic temple colors for printed satin, or velvet coats over printed satin dresses and for hooded chiffon evening coats like robes of the Dalai Lama.

After an array of taffeta ball gowns embroidered with ribbons and glitter beads, the stunned audience scarcely blinked when a woman glided out in a gold lame skirt, brass slave collar and nothing else.

24 awards earned by Filer team

FILER—Five young Filer High School students have returned from a three-state drill team competition at the University of Idaho with 24 awards.

Two trophies were won by the Filer drill team members including a first place in the small dance competition and a superior trophy for drill team performance.

Members of the team included Tamí Reichert, Camille Allen, Debbie Nelson, Vana Thornton, and Cyndi Mueller. The small dance group included Miss Reichert, Miss Allen and Miss Nelson.

Individual awards won by the girls included Miss Nelson, four superior and one super sensational "a special award"; Miss Allen, four superior ratings; Miss Reichert, four superior ratings; Miss Mueller, one superior, two excellent, one outstanding and a third place in drill down competition; Miss Thornton, three excellent, one outstanding and a third in drill down.

Miss Nelson is captain of the group and Miss Allen, co-captain. In the four-day training session and competition, the girls competed with others from throughout Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Montana. In addition to drill teams, cheerleaders and song leaders also participated.

FILER Drill Team members display the two trophies and 22 ribbons they won in a three-state contest held at the University of Idaho last week. From left, top, Vana Thornton, Hollister; Cyndi Mueller, Twin Falls; Tamí Reichert, Filer; and bottom, Debbie Nelson, Hollister, and Camille Allen, Filer. The girls attend Filer High School.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is married, has four children and was separated from her husband when she went to live with a divorced man. (I'll call him John.) She lived with him for 14 months, then he never killed.

After John died, my daughter claimed that she was his widow, and now she is receiving his Social Security, which amounts to a lot of money.

I am worried sick about this. Doesn't the Social Security Office check these claims? And if they do, and it becomes known that she was never married to John, what can they do to her?

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLEASE

Serious offense

DEAR NO NAME: The Social Security Office requires that each certificate of all the children if the woman is claiming benefits for them, plus a marriage certificate to prove that she is indeed married to the man. Your daughter must have forged these documents.

If the S.S. office discovers a possible fraud, they turn it over to the District Attorney's office for investigation and possible prosecution. If found guilty, the accused must repay all of the money and possibly face a fine and/or imprisonment.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to give my girlfriend a diamond soon, but here's the problem:

Her father is in the jewelry business, and I don't know whether I should buy the ring from him or not. I'm afraid if I go to him, he might think I'm expecting a better price, which I assure you I am not.

If I buy the ring from a competitor, I'm afraid my girl will be hurt.

What should I do?

BUYING A DIAMOND

DEAR BUYING: Buy the diamond from your future father-in-law. If he offers you a special price (and he probably will), don't be a schnook — accept it.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 19, I married a man who was 27, and we were so much in love we never thought we would have any problems. We have been married two years, and I am miserable.

He is a professional man, and I never got past the ninth grade. He is always correcting my English and has even suggested I go back to school and graduate.

Abby, I feel that he thinks I am not good enough for him. If he loved me as I was, why is he ashamed of me now? What should I do?

UNEDUCATED

DEAR UN: Get in touch with your public education system and resume your schooling where you quit. It can be done by mail or in evening classes with other adults. Your husband loves you, or he wouldn't encourage you to graduate. There is no shame in not knowing — only in refusing to learn.

Orientation scheduled

REXBURG, Idaho (UPI) — Orientation classes for Ricks College freshmen and transfer students is scheduled Aug. 24, followed by registration Aug. 25-27.

The first day of classes is set Aug. 30.

The school is the largest privately owned two-year college in the country. Enrollment is expected to be about 6,000 students compared with 5,816 last fall when Ricks had its largest registration in an 8-year period.

John C. Barton, coordinator of admissions and records, said enrollment is running ahead of those being received at the same period last summer.

Campus expansion includes installation of steam lines and the creation of malls.

A fine arts building is in the final planning stages to house a theater, recital and concert halls and classrooms. Work on the building should begin this spring with the completion of electrical work for the four-year-old gymnasiums built more than 55 years ago, will be destroyed this winter to make room for the fine arts building. An additional 16,000 square feet will be attached to the science building.

Miss Drown, Lanting recite nuptial vows

KIMBERLY — Marela Rae Drown and Gregory Lyle Lanting were married July 17 at the Kimberly United Methodist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tim J. Drown, Kimberly, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Lanting, HONOLULU.

The Rev. Darwin Secord performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with vases of red, white and white daisies enhanced with floor baskets of red and white gladiolus, greenery and white bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white crystalline nylon with an empire line bodice. The gown featured a sheer yoke stand-up collar trimmed in daisy lace with double rows of shirred lace encircling the hemline and a floor-length train edged in lace.

Her fingertip veil had a daisy-trimmed headpiece. The bride carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies, red carnations, blue bachelor buttons and baby's breath encircling a single white rose bud.

She wore her Grandmother Moore's ruby and pearl necklace and her Grandmother Drown's blue garler.

Mrs. Jeanette Goffart was matron of honor and bridesmaid, were Mrs. Betty Kauffman and Debbie Knott.

Best man was Mark Huston, John Lanting and Jay Miracle were ushers.

Dale Drown, brother of the bride, and Louis Anderson, cousin of the bride, were taper lighters. Mrs. Beverly Crothers was organist, Eileen Lanting, sister of the bridegroom, was pianist and Mrs. Susan Gates was soloist.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the fellowship hall of the Kimberly United Methodist Church.

The bride's table was decorated with silver candelabra, belonging to the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. W. J. Lanting; red candles and ribbons and white net flounce outlined in red ribbon. The punch bowl was used at the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Drown Sr., the bride's grandparents.

The four-tiered white wedding cake was accented with fresh flower nosegays of red, white, blue and yellow. The cake was baked by Mrs. Charles Robinson, Twin Falls.

Linda Silkworth attended the guest book. Mrs. Wilma Pierson, Mrs. Julie Mitchell, Ruth Cox, Paula Remealey and Jo Ann McClure received gifts.

Reception assistants included Mrs. Maureen Fleener, Mrs. Georgia Layton, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Patty Fuller, aunt of the bridegroom and Mrs. Laurel Sliagar, aunt of the bride.

Out-of-state guests were from Washington, California, Utah, Oregon and Nevada.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents at their home in Honolulii.

The bride was joined at showers given by Linda Noble and Margie Gibbs and by Mrs. Maureen Fleener and her daughters, Katie, Helen and Sally.

The bride is a 1975 Idaho Economics Education graduate of the University of Idaho and the bridegroom is a 1976 Social Science Education graduate of the University of Idaho.

After a wedding trip to Yellowstone and Jackson National Parks, the couple will reside in Twin Falls. The bridegroom is employed by Filer School District as a teacher, and coach and the bride is employed by the Hensen School District as a teacher.

New tricks bound to improve game

By ERMA BOMBECK
So many people have been asking me if I am playing better tennis this year. Mainly, they have been the people who played me last year.

I am happy to report that although my form is much the same, I have picked up a few tricks of the court that I have seen professionals use, which is bound to improve my game.

I have finally mastered what to do with the second tennis ball. Having small hands, I was becoming terribly self-conscious about keeping it in a can in the car while I served the first one.

I noted some women tucked the second ball just inside the elastic leg of their tennis panties. I tried, but found the space already occupied by a leg. Now I simply drop the second ball down my cleavage, giving me a chest that often stuns my opponent throughout an entire set.

Next, I have learned how to stall — thus throwing my entire opponent's game off. It's called "the old tie-the-shoelace trick." When your opponent is ready to serve, simply drop to your knees, untie your shoe, rearrange its tongue, and tie it again. Baseball players use the old stall all the time.

Cincinnati Reds pitcher Pat Zachry recently swallowed his chewing tobacco and threw up against a dugout wall. I asked the student.

"Yes, but good play would have saved you. At trick two you should have ruffed a club, then a spade lead to dummy ruff of another club, a second spade lead to ruff the last club and then you could have gone after the diamonds."

"East would collect his two diamond tricks, but then he would be stuck. If he led a club, South would get a ruff and a heart bluff to hold his heart losers to one. If he led the king of hearts, South would let it hold and he would either have to give that ruff and sluff or lead a second heart to dummy's ace, Jack."

So as to forestall letters, the hand can also be made against a heart opening lead.

Ask the Jacobys

A Maine reader wants to know what the chance is that if you hold eight trumps, the opponents five trumps will split 3-2.

The answer to that one is that they split 3-2 about 68 percent or just over two thirds of the time.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—

I hope you can help me. I have a rather different problem. I am a fearful person.

I stopped smoking in 1969 when the report came out about cancer because the thought terrified me. Now, since I've learned that the percentage of cancer in the wives of un-circumcised men is higher, I'm afraid of that. I was always bothered by bleeding vaginal ulcers but since I've kept away from my husband I haven't had any.

My husband doesn't do anything about getting circumcised. I am also terrified of pregnancy and that's another reason.

My husband smokes and I have tried to talk to him about it because our two daughters and I don't and he fills the house with cigarette smoke and endangers us.

Counseling advised

I don't think it's fair. When I say something he makes a nasty remark about giving up every thing, or not doing anything else referring to sex. He knows about my fears of cancer and pregnancy, yet he's so nasty about it.

What can we do? I can't enjoy sex with these large fears and how can I get him to quit smoking? Please answer either way as I consider it a major problem in our lives and I have no one else to talk to. I am also deathly afraid of contraceptives of any kind so don't suggest these.

Dear Reader—

Let me say at the outset that you could benefit from some professional counseling. I think your fears in so many areas are a sign you need help. They may also be camouflaging the real problems you may have in your marriage.

Despite the fact that widely syndicated advice column recently stated that un-circumcised men increase the chances of their wives getting cancer of the cervix, the information is out of date and incorrect.

More recent studies have shown that the relationship to cervical cancer is more complex. Girls who have multiple sex partners and start sex lives early are more prone to cancer of the cervix. Even a virgin can develop it, of course, but her chances are far less. The danger of cancer is to the un-circumcised male, not his partner.

There are some relatively safe contraceptives. You can consider an IUD, or if that frightens you, you and your husband are, through having children, you could have a tubal ligation. Then you would be free of side effects of any contraceptive and free of danger of getting pregnant.

I agree that it is most disagreeable to live with someone who smokes when you do not. You could compromise though and your husband could smoke outside the house or he might even be willing to quit if you would make an effort to correct some of the problems between you.

Buhl miss, Schulz exchange promises

BUHL — Karen Wetstein and Michael Schulz were married July 13 at the Buhl Catholic Church.

Father McNeil officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Wetstein, Buhl, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schulz, Twin Falls.

The bride wore a traditional chantly lace wedding gown featuring a high old-fashioned neckline, Renaissance sleeves and an empire waist line. A cathedral train was accented with satin bows and pearl clusters.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, blue French carnations, baby's breath, ming fern, satin streamers and a rosary entwined throughout.

Sue Williams, Buhl, was maid of honor, and Pamela Wetstein, Kingman, Ariz., was bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaid was Terry Schultz.

Best man was Ritchie Schulz, and John Beckwith was Best Man. Ushers were Brian Schulz and Greg Schulz.

Richie Thorpe was ringbearer and Angie Foster was flower girl. Jackie Harner and Mark Drain were altar boys.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church multi-purpose room.

The bride's table was decorated by Mrs. Pat Foster, sister of the bride.

Glenda Jacobs attended the guest book. Cake was served by Mrs. Shirley Wetstein and Mrs. Carol Wetstein. Mrs. Melanie Wetstein served punch and Mrs. Pat Foster served coffee.

After a wedding trip to Minnesota, the couple plans to reside in Twin Falls.

Report weighs 'pill' benefits, risks

CHICAGO (UPI) — Despite an increased risk of blood clots and heart attacks in women using birth control pills, the death rate from the pill is lower than pregnancy itself.

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists says.

The organization's recent technical bulletin, distributed to more than 18,000 obstetricians and gynecologists, said despite some recent controversy, the benefits of oral contraception far outweigh its possible risks.

One of the main points in favor of the pill, the bulletin says, is that the death rate from the pill is lower than from pregnancy itself.

"No known contraceptive at the present time has a death rate comparable to that of pregnancy," the bulletin said.

The bulletin, a comprehensive compilation of the latest thinking on oral contraceptives, includes information on the pill's side effects, major complications and risk-benefit ratio. It also includes advice to physicians on matters like choice of dosage and patient counseling.

The bulletin reports that an increased risk of thromboembolic diseases — blood clots — has been established with the use of the pill. Also, recent studies have shown an apparent increase in the risk of myocardial infarction, or heart attacks, in women taking the pill.

The bulletin also warns that possible risks of birth defects may be increased in babies born to women who became pregnant shortly after discontinuing use of the pill.

However, you must realize that when you are afraid of sex, afraid of pregnancy and then also want him to quit smoking, he might have legitimate grounds for complaining. Your letter shows that you expect him to make the changes, get circumcised, and quit smoking, yet you don't want to use contraceptives. I don't doubt that these problems are straining your marriage.

L.M. Boyd

Question arises as to whether Ivan the Terrible was all that bad. He sure was. Never mind the thousands and thousands of other people he killed. What about his own son? He told the young man he didn't like the low cut on the dress of the lad's wife. The son objected to the criticism, insolent kid. So the old man brained him, correct, killed him, with an iron rod. Ivan admitted he was sorry about that, though.

You know ab. at sea, but do you know what a "doo" is? The purple fruit of the blackthorn tree. Dooes are used to flavor such liquor. Most-gin-not-so-named-is-flavored-with-jumper berries; instead.

Peculiar thing about U. S. President Martin Van Buren is that not even once did he mention his wife, Hannah in his autobiography.

SILVER ASH

"O' Baisball" bat used to be made of silver ash. Now wood-gin bats are white ash. How come? "A. Foresters over-harvested. The silver ash was thought to be extinct. Until recently, a stand of 15 silver ash trees has been discovered in a remote section of Virginia. Good news, what? That dandy timber may make a comeback, if the scissor-bills don't decide it's best for skateboards.

If the ratio of people per square mile were the same in New York City as it is in Alaska, there would only be 14 residents in Manhattan.

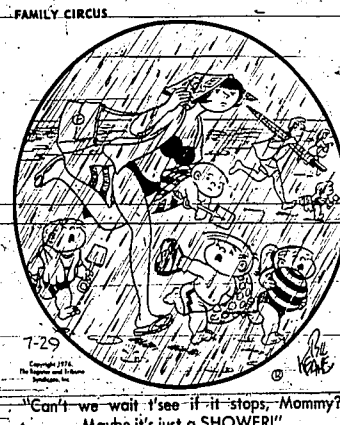

No! It's not at all out of the question for a top jockey to make $500,000 a year, sir.

BREAKFASTS

What certain U. S. presidents liked for breakfast: Washington, thick porridge doused with milk, Jefferson, beef steak with fried potatoes, Van Buren, strawberries and cream over breaded, jackson, spider cake, a corn cake cooked in a frying pan with legs, and blackberry-lym. Lincoln, oyster and ham pie. Grant, thick bacon with fried apples; Madison, potato pancakes with cherry sauce. The elder Adams, stale bread pudding with ginger-current sauce. Tyler, an omelet with yeast cake. Truman, scrambled eggs with cheese and a side of fried noodles. Coolidge—He rarely varied—polish sausage with horseradish.

"Hippopotamus" came from the Greek words for "river" and "horse." "Fox" came from the Icelandic word "fax" which meant "hair mane." And "bull" came from the Anglo-Saxon word "belian" which meant "to bellow."

Idaho taxpayers build patio on governor's mansion

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho taxpayers are building a new, two-story patio, complete with sundeck — on the back of the governor's mansion. The cost: nearly $10,000.

"It's being put in at the request of Governor and Mrs. Andrus," the governor's administrative assistant, John D. Hough, said, "to meet a very obvious need for more space."

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus referred a reporter to Mrs. Andrus for comment about the patio. Mrs. Andrus was not immediately available by telephone.

To be built of concrete and steel with a metal hand rail on the upper deck and sundeck, the patio will be accessible to the house through a sliding door from the upper level. Brick edging is planned for the lower deck.

Hough said the patio, being built under emergency provisions of Idaho law, has been in the idea stage for at least a year. He could not say what constituted the "emergency" that allowed the state to get some bids by telephone and authorize immediate construction.

George Neumayer, acting director of the Department of Administration, said the "emergency" was the need to carry over funds from last year's budget before the new fiscal year began July 1.

"The 'emergency' nature of the work was simply that the thing was in process prior to the 'Teton Dam situation,'" Neumayer said. "All our inspectors at Public Works were called to deal with the 'emergency' nature was to get the money encumbered before the end of last fiscal year."

"The term 'emergency' as you and I use it — it wasn't an emergency ... in the true sense. They should have thought this long before they did. But they put it in the last priority in the work of that department and then got caught by the Teton disaster."

"One of the other reasons why they wanted to go ahead with this (at this time) ... was that the governor was out of town as well and they wanted to get the sliding door done while he was out of town. That door now is in."

Neumayer said about every other one of these projects of a "small nature" is called an emergency.

"This is done so the administrator of public works can go to the phone instead of going to all the expense of advertising and everything," he said.

The state authorized Ernst & Payne, Inc., Caldwell, on July 29 to begin the work and gave the company 15 days to complete it.

Ernst & Payne submitted the lowest of three "bids," records in the Division of Public Works showed, offering first to do it for $6,221 and shaving off $200 if the state would take care of landscaping around the lower portion.

In addition, architect Gilbert A. Wickman has submitted an $180 bill for 40.5 hours at $20 an hour. The sliding door, installed, cost $780.18, Neumayer said, and the railing — which is not yet purchased or installed — will cost between $1,500 and $2,000.

Work began last Thursday, a building services source said. A building permit in the files of Public Works was dated Tuesday of this week.

Hough said there was $1500 in unused capital outlay funds in last year's maintenance and operation budget for the governor's house. That, he said, was encumbered for this fiscal year.

"In addition to that we encumbered $1,198 in other current expense category in funds appropriated for operation and maintenance of the mansion. So that's a total of $6,698 encumbered from last fiscal year. In addition to that amount we have capital outlay budget for the current fiscal year of $1,500."

"We have more than sufficient money to build the facility," he said, adding that "is a traditional portion of that budget and it has been used for minor construction work and furnishings and other items needed at the mansion."

New, small $1 coin would aid vendors

WASHINGTON Star — The Treasury Department is strongly considering issuing a new, smaller $1 coin, primarily for use in vending machines — further proof that a dollar isn't what it used to be.

In size and weight, the new coin would be between today's 25-cent and 50-cent coins. It probably would be thinner than either of those coins and would look a good deal different.

"The current $1 coin, the Eisenhower dollar, is 'too big and bulky; it just doesn't circulate,'" says James Parker, a spokesman for the U.S. Mint.

"Leading the cheers for the new coin are the makers and operators of vending machines, since an 80-cent sandwich or 60-cent pack of cigarettes could be purchased with less fumbling."

"I think a new coin would be good for the whole country as well as our industry," said G. Richard Schreiber of the National Authomaté Merchandising Association. "So many things are at a point today where a dollar coin makes sense." He added:

"We've done studies that have proven conclusively that a single-coin purchase will outsell a two-coin purchase, that a two-coin purchase will outsell one requiring three coins and so on. The new coin would certainly help sales."

According to banking industry sources, an unreleased report by the Research Triangle Institute recommends mining the coin. Research Triangle recently completed an 18-month, Treasury-financed study of the U.S. coinage system.

The Treasury Department is expected to announce its recommendation to Congress, which must approve all new coins next month.

George appointed general of armies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional subcommittee today voted to grant George Washington a posthumous appointment as general of the armies, a move some conceded would add little honor or stature to his reputation.

The House Armed Services subcommittee unanimously voted for the bill, sponsored by Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., who said "despite all that George Washington did for America, he has not been recognized as the 'highest' ranking military official, an honor I feel he richly deserves."

Rep. Robert Daniel, R-Va., laughed and said, "I don't know we are doing anything of high value in trying to enhance the stature of George Washington."

Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., chuckled when voting favorably, and said, "This couldn't add any lustre" to the nation's first president and commander in chief.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown said the secretary of the Army, and the Pentagon had no objection to the bill, but noted it "may result in a movement to reevaluate the ranks of all notable military personnel of the past solely upon the basis of the present Armed Forces grade structure."

Biaggi said: "Only from July 2, 1798, until his death in December of 1799, did Washington enjoy the distinction of being this nation's highest ranking military official, lieutenant general and commander of the Army."

"The passage of time has eroded this distinction and today, scores of military men outrank George Washington, a fact of history which at long last must be corrected," he said.

"The only other person to hold the rank of general of the armies is World War I hero Gen. John Pershing, given him as a new designation by an Act of Congress in 1919, Pentagon officials said.

Eight other persons have been given the lesser rank of general of the army — Generals Ulysses S. Grant, William T. Sherman, Philip Sheridan, all of Civil War fame, and World War II Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, George Marshall, Douglas MacArthur, Omar Bradley, and H. H. "Hap" Arnold, according to the Pentagon officials.

Biaggi said that during this bicentennial year "legislation has been passed to honor special Americans, including Thomas Jefferson and General Robert E. Lee, who was awarded citizenship posthumously."

Biaggi said he was proposing a special honor for Washington because "this founding father surely gave more to his country than he has thus far received. No higher tribute or belated debt of gratitude could be paid to this exemplary American, than designating him as general of the armies of the United States."

Biaggi said, "Washington, validated his positions as officer and commander in chief of the Armed Forces equally with this position as President."

Biaggi said that an earlier effort by the 3th Congress to honor Washington as general of the armies of the United States was never put into effect by President John Adams, who succeeded Washington in the White House.

Biaggi said it was the intent of that Congress that the title "apply solely to George Washington. However, in a park of history, President John Adams never carried the necessary appointment and the act was soon superseded by the Military Reorganization Act of 1802. As a result, the new commission became null and void and George Washington died with the rank of lieutenant general."

West urged to modify fishing laws

By BART QUESNELLE
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Western states will have to start implementing quality fishing regulations, according to a fishery biologist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service managing Yellowstone Park waters.

John Varley, participant in the Western Fish and Game Commissioners meeting here, said hatchery stock fish are becoming unacceptable to the public and will continue to be more and more expensive to raise.

Many Western states continue to pour large portions of their budgets into hatchery programs instead of fostering native fisheries which will produce on their own.

Varley said Yellowstone Park waters have not been stocked since the 1950s. Surveys showed, he said, that up until 1970 the native fishery had survived even with sustained pressure.

In 1969 the park changed to artificial lures and flies only regulations and in 1973 the first catch-and-release methods were introduced.

Through the 1960s, Varley said, there was an average of one-half fish per hour caught on the Yellowstone River. After the three years of catch-and-release on the river since 1973, the catch rate has gone to three fish an hour on the average, according to data collected by fish managers.

Varley readily admits the artificial lure regulations "is a discriminatory thing" to give bait fishermen.

"But you don't allow elk hunting seasons in the spring when they are calving," he said. "The thing that needs to be talked about and reversed is this need to kill fish."

The argument that a resident should be able to limit out each time he fishes, contending that it is economical, is false, according to Varley.

The cost of gear, gas, equipment and so forth to go fishing makes the idea of economy "insane," Varley said.

Fish and game commissions and departments across the West will be forced from increasing costs of hatchery fish production and the growing demand for native fisheries to identify those waters where stringent regulations will work, he said.

Committee favors school auditorium

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A citizens' school board committee last night reacted favorably to building some sort of fine arts facility in conjunction with a new junior high school.

About 20 persons attended a meeting to voice their opinions on whether the new school should include an auditorium.

According to committee chairman Dan Slavin, no vote was taken on the auditorium issue, but Slavin added that the committee is in favor of an auditorium type facility for the performing arts.

The question of a bonding limit for the proposed new junior high also did not come to a vote, but Slavin guessed that the limit would be $4 million.

Previous estimates of the cost for a new junior high have been in the $3 million to $3.5 million range. Estimates of an auditorium have added an additional $500,000 to the cost.

The proposed "junior" high school would be located on property the Twin Falls school district already owns on the southeast corner of Eastland Drive and Elizabeth Blvd.

The citizens' committee was organized in response to recommendations on the construction of the junior high to the school board. The committee's decisions would not be binding on the school board but would take the form of public input only.

The proposed junior high would replace the aging O'Leary Junior High which has been condemned as a fire hazard by the city, but which will be reopened for up to five years once a sprinkler system is installed this fall.

The school district plans to double-shift the 900-plus O'Leary students in afternoon sessions at the high school while the sprinkler system is installed.

The proposed junior-high school would provide academic facilities for about 1,000 students, Slavin said last night, and would contain support facilities for the arts and athletics with a capacity for about 1,200 students.

In its earlier decision on the O'Leary reopening, the city indicated it would like to see the school district include in the junior-high bond-issue funds necessary to bring other old schools in the district up to life.

Despite this, Slavin said the question of including such funds was not raised at last night's meeting.

The citizens' committee reacted warmly to a statement by Assistant School Supt. Cameron Meyer that it should concentrate on the facility it wanted and not on that facility's cost.

Meyer told the group he felt the public would vote for a bond issue which laid out plans for an adequate facility, but he added cost apparently would be a less important factor with voters if the facility was well designed to meet community needs.

Slavin said the bonding capacity of the school district is about $5.3 million. He said he doubted the bond issue, stated to come before voters in October, would approach this upper limit.

Decision expected on athletic coach

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls school board expects to make a decision soon on an athletic director for the school district.

Board chairman Howard Honk said Wednesday the decision will hopefully come within two weeks.

The school district is considering three candidates for the post. Two of them local men and the third a former Oregon coach now studying at Brigham Young University.

According to Assistant Supt. Cameron Meyer, the three candidates are Roger Michener, James McClellan and Giles Parker.

High School and later Buhl High School principal, Meyer said.

McClellan coached in the Nampa school system before he took over as principal of Kimberly Junior High, Meyer added.

The third candidate, Parker, taught and coached at Beverton, Ore., before going to BYU where he is now working on a doctorate in physical education, Meyer said.

Meyer declined to disclose any preference among the three, saying the decision was up to the board.

D. J.'s Lounge robbed

TWIN FALLS — Two men, one of them armed with a handgun, Wednesday, robbed D.J.'s Lounge on Blue Lakes Blvd. N. of approximately $500 and escaped leaving few clues as to their identity or whereabouts, police said.

According to Detective Captain Tim Qualls, the incident occurred at 4:20 p.m. when few customers were in the establishment.

Qualls said his officers coordinated a road block effort, but it was unsuccessful because officers did not have enough information about the criminals to identify them.

Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department cars and Idaho State Police cars participated in the road blocks on Highways 20, 74 and 83 leaving Twin Falls but the road block was called off later in the day.

Qualls said an attendant at the lounge said the two men wore masks when they entered the establishment.

Qualls said his department is continuing investigations into the crime.

HUD grants Twin Falls funds for environmental development

TWIN FALLS — The City of Twin Falls will receive a $190,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, according to Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho.

The grant will be used to continue community development activities designed to improve the environment and housing stock of Twin Falls, McClure said.

Community Development Director Lamar Orton said the bulk of the funds which he expects will become available next week, will go to the Rock Creek Canyon project designed to change the canyon to a city park. The city plans to spend $90,000 to acquire property in the canyon for the project. He said "An additional $16,000 would be used to build or paved bike path through the canyon, according to Orton.

The city plans to spend $25,000 to buy and rehabilitate unoccupied and deteriorating houses and property in the South Park and on the west side of the Rock Creek Canyon.

The city will buy five houses, he said.

"The five I've got in mind right now will probably all be torn down," he added.

Another $20,000 will be allocated to continue a program for the elderly and the handicapped, Orton said.

Under the program, the elderly and handicapped may apply to the city for funds to rehabilitate their homes, according to Orton.

"Generally, low income people, who are already property tax exempted, would be eligible for the program," he said.

An additional $20,000 will be used for administration purposes, including his salary, wages for a student helper from the University of Idaho, Moscow, and supplies, Orton said.

The rest of the money, almost $19,000, will be used for contingencies, Orton said. The money "will allow some flexibility in the budget," he said.

Unclaimed tools fill police bin

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — More than $1,000 worth of merchandise at the Twin Falls Police Department may remain there indefinitely because it has never been claimed or even reported stolen.

"We have tools here I'll bet have been here for years," Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said today.

The articles, including television, stereo equipment, guns, hand tools and power tools were confiscated by officers from apprehended criminals or recovered in other ways, according to Qualls. The items must remain in storage at the station until they are identified by the owners, he said.

Some of the items are being held as evidence for court cases, he added, but the majority will simply remain at the station indefinitely "until the city has a legal way to dispose of them."

Qualls said he thought it was an unfortunate situation, because the articles, surely being in someone's hands, have invested money in them.

Indicating one box of tools in one of the three storerooms where the items are kept, Qualls said, "Whoever that belongs to should miss it." But he added that no one ever reported the tools missing.

He said the only way for the department to dispose of the items would be to have the owners to report their missing or to come down and claim them.

"If we could get the public to report to us what they lost and identify or describe it to us," Qualls lamented, "we might have it down here."

And "the department has about 25 bicycles on hand in its warehouse which no one has reported missing, either, he said. "Bicycles are like bird dogs in hunting season," Qualls said. He said during certain times of the year, bicycle thefts occur with greater frequency.

Referring to the bicycles in the police warehouse, Qualls said, "If people will mark their possessions, we'll even give them the electric pencil to do it with. They can check it out."

He added that a piece of merchandise does not have a serial number on it, engraving with an electric pencil is the best way to mark it for identification.

Qualls said the bicycles could be disposed of periodically at public auctions whereas the other items could not.

He said when the number of bicycles in the police warehouse "builds up" the department holds a public auction to dispose of them.

Buhl High biology teacher receives stage recognition

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

BUHL — A Buhl High School biology teacher, whose philosophy is to let students learn, by doing and not by listening to lectures, has won state recognition for this teaching method.

Henry Savage, who joined the faculty of the Buhl high school 10 years ago, has received the title of Idaho's outstanding biology teacher of the year.

He received a plaque from Gov. Cecil Andrus and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Roy Traub. In addition to the plaque, he was awarded a binocular microscope.

Savage, 36, teaches saphagore biology. He is a graduate of Northwest Nazarene College and received his master's degree from the University of Mississippi at Oxford, Miss., in 1973.

Savage developed his own teaching methods with full approval of his superiors. He never gained a lot from the lecture classes he attended, the teacher recalls.

"I checked out by reading by letting the students do things and inventing procedure on their own."

Savage says his method apparently works because Buhl High School graduates have gone into science classes and professions with outstanding success.

Many, he said, are in pre-med studies and plan to become doctors. Others have gone into other science fields.

"I think Buhl has one of the most modern science departments and programs around. We employ all of the modern age up-and-coming science programs," he said.

The Buhl schools have a five-acre center, TOMIRRY Terrace's farm labor camp. Students use the center, the adjoining city park, and a stream for environmental studies and experiments.

Savage says this is the environmental center established in the elementary classes and the whole system use the five-acre environmental center, not just the biology classes. "Savage said.

Savage's biology program also includes a nine-week enrichment block during time each student selects a project he or she enjoys and pursues it, using imagination and individual talents.

Students may make models and posters, build small structures or group plans.

"Education has to be fun as well as work," Savage says.

He said he spent considerable time preparing lecture notes when he became a teacher. But then, he says, he began thinking about his own training and remembered he gained more from experiments and doing things he enjoyed.

Savage said his method consists of spending a few days orienting students to the course, stressing pride in the school, equipment, community and in themselves and their work.

He then divides the classes into groups of four and names a chairman for each group. This chairman is the leader and has the responsibility for his group. This post is then rotated during the school year by elections among the students.

The award is sponsored by the National Association of Biology Teachers with selection by the Idaho Department of Education.

Openness characterizes 'new form of politics'

By CHRIS BOGAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "I think there is a new era of politics today," seventh district Republican congressional candidate Glen Wegner told the Twin Falls Rotary Club Wednesday.

Wegner said this new era of politics was characterized by "a new, open form of government."

Wegner's remarks took a critical jab at Rep. George Hansen, the incumbent who is running for reelection in the second district.

There is a "difference in styles," Wegner said, between himself and Hansen.

Wegner claimed the difference is pronounced "especially in terms of openness."

Wegner said one of the first acts of his campaign for Congress was to make his personal financial records for the last ten years available for public scrutiny in an effort to demonstrate his absolute openness with in the public domain.

Wegner also commented there has been a tendency for "overpromising on the part of politicians."

He feels it important to deal with the "substantive issues" which he sees as inflation, unemployment, agriculture, health care, the environment and social security.

Our communities can't survive without the small businesses, Wegner said. They provide essential jobs, products and services.

Consequently, Wegner says he opposes the federal government interfering in business and so hindering innovation and growth through excessive regulations.

Wegner advocates alleviating government restrictions on industry, business and farmers and increasing the country's output in order to deal with unemployment.

"Any able-bodied person who can work should work," Wegner said.

On the issue of food stamps Wegner said the "truly needy," those who absolutely cannot provide for themselves, should be helped and help should be given in a dignified way.

But there is no reason why the "less energetic" should be able to get through food stamps "pre-packaged, high cost, convenience foods" which are paid for by harder working men and women, according to Wegner.

The candidate claims the federal government has too extensive, today and says nationalization of the health care program would simply serve to increase federal controls while decreasing the quality of medical services.

Mondale foresees 'broad role'

Diet may cause cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some medical researchers now believe cancer is so closely linked to people's diet it may be possible to treat tumors by "starving" them, cancer experts testified Wednesday.

Dr. Eric R. Gori of the National Cancer Institute told a Senate committee, recent experiments had raised "the intriguing possibility" of using nutrition as a direct form of cancer therapy.

"It is known, he said, that tumors compete for nutrients in the body and their nutritional needs differ from those of the host."

"It appears that it may be possible to adjust available nutrients in the diet so that the host may be fed and the tumor may be starved," Gori told the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs.

Gori, deputy director of NCI's division of cancer cause and prevention, said one of the major goals of current research is to determine the role of nutrition in the cause and prevention of cancer and disease in general.

Expert witnesses at the hearing generally agreed nutritional deficiencies and excesses, and specifically a high fat diet — appear to play a key role in cancer of the colon, stomach and breast.

Dr. Ernst L. Wynder of the American Health Foundation said — colon cancer was relatively rare in Japan until the Japanese began consuming more fat and cholesterol.

"Colon cancer is also rapidly increasing among Japanese migrants to the United States, and again this finding is consistent with the adoption of American eating habits," he said in citing a recent study made in Japan, Hawaii and California.

Wynder also noted vegetarians have a lower rate of colon cancer. He said a similar situation existed with breast cancer, a disease relatively rare in Japan but increasing among Japanese-American women.

Gori noted similar findings among Polish immigrants to the United States and among Jewish immigrants to Israel.

The NCI official said there was "a worldwide correlation" between colon cancer and fat consumption — with mortality rates high in such high meat-consuming countries as the United States, Scotland and Canada — and lower in Japan and China.

Gori said Seventh Day Adventists and Mormons, who eat less fat and meat than their neighbors, also show lower rates of colon and breast cancer.

Holl-Gori and Wynder played down the significance of contaminants and additives in foods as causing cancer in humans despite laboratory studies showing they cause cancer in animals.

Councilman stays on

SALMON, Idaho (UPI) — Mayor Don Vial said he has not received the resignation he expected from City Councilman Bill Smith and Smith has advised him he intends to continue on the council.

Smith told the council at a May 17 meeting that he was resigning in opposition to the appointment of Charles Bloodgood to the council. Vial said at the time he would await a formal written resignation from Smith but never received one.

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Sen. Walter Mondale says he is convinced he would have a "broad role" in domestic and foreign affairs as vice president if Jimmy Carter wins the presidency.

"It has to be said that there's only one president. It would be President Carter, and in his administration, there's not going to be an alternative president," Mondale said.

"I understand that and so does he."

"But what I'm talking about is having access to fully participate in the policy questions, being fully advised of the key issues that affect the country and being given the functions to perform in the Carter administration, both domestic and foreign fields."

In an interview with UPI Tuesday, Mondale said strategy talks with Carter this week reaffirmed the nominee's promise to make the vice-presidency a "something" office with a "broad role" in the administration.

"For example," Mondale said, "in all of these briefings, I've been in on all of it. I've been encouraged and have participated in all the discussions. We've had many private talks, with his family, with him personally, and in all of them I've been a full participant."

Mondale indicated Carter would want him to restore a "decent relationship" with Congress.

Mondale, sitting on the back porch of the "Pond House" outside Plains, owned by Carter's mother, said, "The Congress and the President both going different ways led to this deadlock of democracy, and we've all paid a tremendous price. We hope to end that deadlock."

Mondale said he will make a few trips in August.

Firms aid victims

BENBURG (UPI) — Two $5,000 checks have been given to Ricks College to assist in the Teton Dam Relief program by an Idaho Falls company and an Ohio firm.

The Post Register, publisher of the Post Register in Idaho Falls and operator of RIFTV, Channel 8 contributed a $5,000 check to the LDS Church-affiliated college.

E. F. McDermond, Post Register publisher, wrote to Pres. Henry Eyring of Ricks, "we admire the great work that has been done in behalf of the victims of this tragic affair, and sincerely hope this check will assure you of sincere appreciation of the work done by so many to relieve suffering and want."

"It is truly an outstanding effort and we hope this will make us partners, in a small way, in your great effort."

The chemical firm, DuBois Chemicals of Cheucham, Utah, also has given Ricks College about $5,000 in chemicals for victims of the dam disaster.

The cleaning materials were sent to the school to replace some of the items used by the school since the dam collapsed. They are being used on campus in the laundry, cafeteria and dormitories.

Economic growth seen for US, partners

Thursday, July 29, 1976 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 21

Chicago Daily News.
PARIS — The United States and its major trading partners will enjoy sustained "real economic growth of about 4.5 percent for the next 12 months," the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) reported Wednesday.
 Economic forecasters at the 24-nation "club" of industrial nations have cast aside the gloom of last year. They even look ahead to a possible OECD nations payments surplus with oil producers and other outside regions by 1980.
 OECD experts assume, the oil cartel nations of OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) will stick by their pledge to keep prices steady through December, 1976.
 After that, economist John Fay said, "we assume crude oil prices will move parallel with prices of manufactured goods."
 By keeping their own factories "brudal," OECD nations can hope to avoid another "great speculative oilburst" in oil prices, said Stephen Marris, an editor of OECD's twice-yearly economic outlook bulletin.
 Inflation, now running at 8 to 9 percent under 7 percent in the United States, and unemployment are expected to decline, but not far enough.

 "For the area as a whole, unemployment may fall to around 4.5 percent by mid-1977," the forecasters say.
 There are wide differences among OECD countries, with the United States, West Germany and Japan leading the recovery. France also doing well so far, while Italy and Britain are much weaker.
 Some OECD economists worry that expansion could be stymied by "profit inflation" as some businesses rush to raise prices to make up for losses during the just-ended recession period.
 Unless there is overheating, which governments hope to avoid, wage demands aren't seen as a major problem. In a period of expanding production, unit labor costs are actually going down in West Germany, for example.
 Recent wage agreements in the United States, Germany and Japan in the 7 to 8 percent range are considered "moderate."

 However, Britain and France have been experiencing inflationary wage hikes in the 16 to 17 percent range, and price-indexed Italian increases were also high.
 Fears that the recovery in the first half of this year is about to "fizzle out" aren't backed by the evidence, OECD said. Even the drought which has hit France and parts of Britain severely is compensated for by good harvests expected in the United States, India and a "less bad" crop year in the Soviet Union, they said.

ODGEN (UPI) — First Security Corp. said its total resources, deposits, and in-corporate first six months of 1976 were off records.
 George S. Eccles, chairman of the bank holding company, told the directors "First Security held $2.16 billion in resources as of June 30, 1976 — up $34.1 million from the second quarter of 1975."
 Eccles also said First Security's member banks held total deposits of $1.75 billion.

Low bidder
 BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Transportation Department announced Tuesday the apparent low bidder for a road project in Bonneville County.
 Lone Pine Equipment Co., Inc., Kimberly, submitted the low bid among five contenders for the amount of $149,026.10.
 The project involves flattening back slopes, fill slopes and extending pipe culverts on 3.94 miles of U.S. Highway 26 at Antelope Flat.

Increases for Skaggs reported

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Skaggs Companies, Inc., reported second quarter sales of $183.6 million and earnings of $3.8 million for the three-month period ending June 30, 1976.
 The Intermountain area drugstore chain said sales were up 25 percent and earnings increased 36 percent, compared to the 1975 second quarter. Quarterly earnings per share of outstanding common stock were up 11 cents to 48 cents per share.
 Skaggs also said sales for the first six months of 1976 totaled $350 million — up 26 percent. Earnings for the two quarters totaled $6.47 million, or 84 cents per share of common stock.
 The firm operates 175 stores in the West and Southwest, including 66 in joint ventures with Albertson's Food Stores.

Congressman HANSEN

Now serving his third term in Congress, Congressman George Hansen was recently named chairman of a House Republican Task Force to investigate ways to reduce the size and scope of the Federal bureaucracy. He promised Idahoans two years ago he would help "cut down big government," and he is working around the clock to do just that.

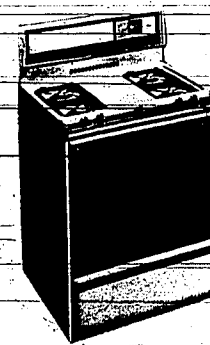

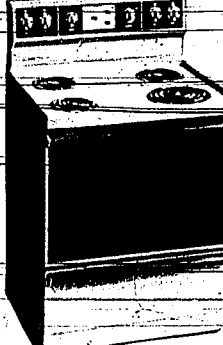

In addition, he is a ranking subcommittee member of the powerful banking committee, where he is able to deal directly with the great problems plaguing the nation — that of interest rates, monetary policy, credit, and housing. He also serves on the Veteran's Affairs Committee and has past experience as a member of the House Agriculture and Interior Committees where he still wields considerable influence.

Keep George in Washington. He gets things done.

Carter advises push food, fiber reserve plan

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) —
Advisers drafting farm policy suggestions for Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter want him to back plans for a national food and fiber reserve which would be kept in the hands of farmers.
The proposal was one of a number of farm policy issues discussed in a "draft position paper," which, sources said, was prepared by members of Carter's agricultural council committee headed by

"In effect, it will be a stockpile-management program in the hands of farmers, with rules for building up, maintaining and releasing stocks well known in advance and fair to both producers and consumers," the paper said.
The document gave no specific details such as the quantities which might be set as reserve goals, or how high market prices might have to go before farmers could be compelled to move the reserves to market.

went 40 per cent above the support floor, with additional grain being recalled at higher price levels.
The draft policy paper skipped specific examinations on where farm price support floors should be set, but indicated clearly they should be above current levels.
Agriculture Secretary Earl
L. Butz has warned strongly that pushing supports too high could create surpluses and force a return to federal production controls. But Carter aides insist controls would not be needed, and the policy draft recommended:

... an incentive to earn a profit from the marketplace whenever possible, but a fallback level of price and income protection that will assure the farmer's return covers at least his minimum production costs.
Many farmers have been skeptical of commodity reserve programs, especially those involving direct government control of stocks, because of fears that federal officials could dump large volumes of grain to break prices.

Agriculture Secretary Earl
L. Butz, a sharp critic of plans to build government-controlled reserves, has maintained consistently that normal free market operations will keep stocks at adequate levels to protect consumers without the risk of government dumping.

The Carter paper argued, however, that creation of a reserve program based on release-price levels set far above support floors and published well in advance would be welcomed by farmers.

analysis

P.R. Smith of Winder, Ga.
Top Carter staff aides have reviewed the draft, and sources said Carter was expected to issue his own farm policy statement after further review.
A copy of the initial draft obtained by UPI said adoption of the reserve plan would give farmers "the tools to store adequate supplies of food and fiber to meet minimum foreseeable needs of the marketplace — assuring that we can maintain our reliability as an exporter and meet the needs of domestic users of our farm products."

One source said, however, that commodities might be moved into farmer-owned or controlled storage during periods of heavy production by offering growers the support loans at levels higher than those currently in effect, which would run for several years.
While the growers held the grain or other crops, the government would pay storage fees. If market prices rose far above the support price, the Agriculture Department would have authority to terminate the loans, thus forcing the growers to either sell the grain or turn it over to the government for resale.
One potential plan, the source said, might involve
"calling" perhaps 25 per cent of the grain loans if markets

Weather threat to corn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's record corn crop remained in generally good condition last week but dry weather is threatening to cut yields in several major producing states including Iowa, the Agriculture Department says.

Officials added that poor pasture conditions caused by drought in some areas, have forced some farmers to buy supplemental feeds for livestock and led many South Dakotans to sell off their animals.

The crop report plays a key role in shaping future prospects for domestic food prices and price reports are considered the biggest source of livestock feed for producing meat, milk and poultry flocks.

On the basis of July 1 conditions, the Agriculture Department had reported that although carryover reserve corn stocks this fall will be down to the lowest level in nearly 30 years, the 1976 crop appeared to be heading for a record of 6.6 billion bushels, up 14 per cent from last year and well above prospective domestic and export needs.

The department's weekly crop weather report Tuesday, while noting the crop was still in "generally good condition" through last Sunday, warned that "some major corn and soybean states reported potential yield reductions because of a moisture shortage."

"The dry spell in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota stressed the corn crop and caused losses to curtail," the report said. "Continued moisture shortages may well reduce yields in these states," officials added.

In several other major corn states including Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, however, the report said that while the pace of development of the crop was behind last year it was "well ahead of normal."

Nationally, officials said pasture and hay conditions varied greatly depending on moisture supplies. In the midwestern and western states, the report rated pastures as mostly poor to fair and said farmers in some Nebraska and Iowa areas had to buy supplemental feeds.

Officials said the soybean crop was still mostly "good" although threatened by moisture shortages in some areas. The condition of cotton improved and was classed as "fair to normal" and the sorghum crop was reported in "reasonably good" condition.

Potatoes, meats stage recovery

(Courtesy Sinclair & Co.) CHICAGO — Potato and meat futures staged a recovery Wednesday.

Grains, however, showed little change after the day's trading.

Commodity News Service said Maine potato futures advanced 5 to 10 cents on 49 1/2 lbs. 18 traders attributed the gains to commission houses position taking in hopes of a fall export market.

Live cattle closed on their highs with gains of 12 to 60 points despite weaker fundamentals. Broadly based short covering followed a lower opening, prices ending over low for the day's lows. Turnover was estimated at 10,877 contracts.

Live hogs settled slightly higher after several early attempts, after picking up momentum from a lower opening. The close was 10 to 62 points up with nearby leading. Volume was moderate at 2,738 contracts.

The general market tone was improved with moderate demand in the fresh pork trade.

Pork bellies closed lower after recovering from early limit declines on the strength of midday local short covering.

Most active August had a decline of 42 to 43 points. An estimated volume of 6,429 contracts.

Wheat closed fractions above and below the previous day, after local and commission house liquidation took prices off earlier highs.

Early commercial "test" buying brought the day's highs 4 and 5 cents over Tuesday. Prices slipped late in the day when soybean prices fell. Chicago buying basis was nominally unchanged, hard winter at 8 under Chicago September and sold 23 under.

Corn followed, soybeans patterns but to a lesser degree, moving 4 to 1 1/2 cents above the previous close, then rising back to end a penny higher unchanged. Hedge selling appeared in the corn-belt with country purchasing in northern Iowa gaining with recent rains. Chicago buying basis was nominally unchanged, with boxcars a nickel over September and hoppers a dime over.

Early soybean trading excitement fizzled, with gains of 15 to 18 cents trimmed to 4 to 5 1/2 cents by the close. Local liquidation was triggered by the professional and commission house selling. Product pits had heavy commercial buying, with spreading featured. Meal settled 70 cents higher, 50 cents lower with off-ending 30 to 42 points higher.

World sugar 11 opened slightly lower, rallied near midday on industry buying, then declined in the absence of support. Prices closed off 15 cent to 36 cent on 5,590 lots. The world spot price was off half a cent at 12 cents a pound with the domestic spot off 35 cent at 13.25 cents a pound.

New York Cotton Silver was cited to soybeans again. With the sell-off in beans prompting sympathy liquidation. The close was just off the lows, 160 to 220 points down, on 9,690 lots. Locals dumped holdings into a thin market at the session's end.

International Monetary Market gold failed to attract a following among commission house traders and prices ended unevenly lower. Net changes ranged from 20 cents to 1 1/2 cents a heavy turnover of 1,322 contracts.

Beef bargains on August market

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers can pick up bargains in beef these days because farmers are losing up to $100 on every grain-fed steer they send to slaughter, the Agriculture Department says.

Department marketing officials, in a special "Food Marketing Alert" report urging consumers to buy more beef through August, added that farmers are reacting to the current period of heavy supply and low prices by cutting back on the number of cattle moving into feedlots and reducing the sizes of their herds.

As a result, officials said Tuesday, beef supplies are likely to run 19 per cent above year-carrier levels in the July-September quarter but probably will decline in later months.

In a companion report, meanwhile, economists said that while farmers' prices for live beef cattle in June were 26.5 per cent below a year earlier, retail beef prices were down only 10.8 per cent from June, 1975.

Consumers got the benefit of only a portion of the farm decline because middlemen's margins in June were 26.5 per cent higher than a year earlier, the report said.

Officials said retail prices for choice-grade grain-fed beef averaged $1.41 a pound in June, down 0.6 per cent from a month earlier. They said the farmer's return for each retail pound of beef fell to 80.6 cents, down 0.7 per cent from a month earlier while the middleman's share was 60.2 cents, down 0.5 per cent from a month earlier.

Spokesmen reported that middlemen's charges for a typical market basket of farm-produced foods in June rose 0.1 per cent in June and were 5.7 per cent above a year earlier. Farm returns for the marketbasket foods, meanwhile, rose 0.8 per cent in June but were about 4 per cent below a year earlier.

In another food supply note, Agriculture officials said Tuesday that summer fresh vegetable supplies, including onions, probably will be "very close" to year-ago levels with increased onion, pepper and celery production offsetting declines for lettuce, cabbage and tomatoes.

Experts said grower prices for fresh vegetables are substantially below a year earlier and warned farmers that "the usual summer season (price) decline will seem longer" this year.

The report added that total supplies of most important canned vegetables will be "ample" because big carryover stocks will offset major cutbacks in 1976 production of many items. Supplies of processed sweet corn and snap beans may be smaller, but stocks of canned peas will be bigger than needed for normal use, experts said.

Eased estate tax on farms OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee Tuesday approved legislation to ease estate and gift taxes on family farms and small businesses but lighten the levy on certain other bequeathed real estate.

The panel estimated that the overall dollar effect would be a first-year loss of $15 million in tax revenue, amounting to a high of $92 million in 1980. But it said over an 18-year stretch, a net revenue gain of $73 million could be expected.

Provisions in the bill would become effective after Dec. 31, 1976.

The National Federation of Independent Business praised the committee action, saying it would "effectively eliminate federal estate taxes for those married small businessmen and women with estates of less than $100,000 and who leave their property to their spouses."

Major features of the bill include:

• A unified credit for both estate and gift taxes, rather than the separate $60,000 and $50,000 exemptions, respectively, under current law. The effect would be to exempt from taxation the first $120,667 of the combined value of the estate and lifetime gifts. The exemption would grow to a permanent level of $151,750 by 1978. The current provision excluding the first $3,000 a year from the gift tax would continue.

• The first $250,000 of the value of a property left to the spouse would be tax exempt, rather than the current one-half the value.

• A change in valuing property for estate tax purposes, which is the major aid in the bill for family farms and small businesses.

TF tests listed

TWIN FALLS — There were 25 herds with 1,283 cows on production testing in June. Testing Supervisors Ike and Linda Smith, Kimberly reported that the 25 herds totaled 1,219 cows milking and 164 dry cows, said Donald Youtz, county extension agent.

Production averages for June are listed with the highest daily production herd first and the rest in sequence noting the number of cows milking, number of dry cows, total cows, average daily milk production and average daily butterfat production of each herd.

Bass leaves Redskins

CARLISLE, Pa. (UPI) — Washington coach George Allen was under increased pressure to swing a trade Thursday because of the sudden retirement of defensive cornerback Mike Bass, a mainstay of the Redskins' secondary.

Bass' decision to quit football because of a neck injury sustained last season created another major hole to be filled in Allen's already shaky defensive lineup. Listed as backups to Bass are a nine-year veteran, the Redskins have three untied players—Spenner, Thomas, with two years' experience, and rookies David Thomas from Texas Southern, and Walter Tullis from Delaware State.

Washington's other regular cornerback, Pat Fischer, is hobbled with a leg injury and probably won't play in the first Redskins pre-season game against Atlanta Saturday night.

Crenshaw made favorite

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Ben Crenshaw comes into the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Classic on top of the golf world — a position that has been predicted for him since he entered the pro golf tour in 1973.

The former NCAA golf king from the University of Texas, the favorite in the 72-hole event that starts Thursday, moved into first place in 1976 earnings last week with a total of $190,401.

His first tour appearance came at Pleasant Valley Country Club in 1973 and he won $206.

Since that time he has improved steadily, last year earning more than $100,000 for the first time.

76ers sign Jones

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia 76ers, a National Basketball Association team with a wealth of centers, Wednesday announced the signing of center Caldwell Jones, formerly of the now-defunct American Basketball Association, to a multi-year contract.

The 6-foot-11 Jones played for San Diego, Kentucky and St. Louis in his three years with the ABA.

Sixers General Manager Pat Williams said Caldwell was put in a special category and was not signed under the ABA dispersal draft.

Pruitt signs new pact

KENT, Ohio (UPI) — Cleveland running back Greg Pruitt, only the third Browns' player ever to crank out 1,000 yards in a season, Wednesday signed a long-term contract with the National Football League club designed to have him finish his professional career with owner Art Modell's team.

Gilmore's heart condition may influence NBA draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — Artis Gilmore, the 7-foot-2-inch center who is expected to be the top selection in next Tuesday's dispersal draft, has a price on his head and some unanswered questions about his heart.

The National Basketball Association Wednesday announced that they are checking into rumors that Gilmore, a center with the defunct Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association, may have a heart condition but that has turned up nothing to confirm such speculation.

"We have found absolutely no substantiation for the rumor, no basis in fact," said Simon Gourdin, the NBA's Deputy Commissioner. "However, we are checking it because we believe that it is our duty to the NBA teams which are interested in drafting Gilmore."

The rumors on a possible ailment of Gilmore were very sketchy, with no idea of just what sort of heart problem Gilmore is supposed to have had, said Gourdin. "We are still investigating but have found nothing. If we find anything at all that might warrant it, we could ask him to submit to a physical examination, but I don't know how that could compel him to take any action."

Gilmore is one of 20 players who will be up for selection on Tuesday. All either played for the Kentucky Colonels or the Spirits of St. Louis last season. Both clubs of which were not included in last month's NBA-ABA merger, Kentucky felt the $3.2 million price to add the St. Louis franchise which had moved to Utah prior to the merger.

The Chicago Bulls will pick first based on having finished with the worst won-loss record in the NBA last season. The Bulls, in dire need for a dominant center, were expected to select Gilmore, who the league has determined will cost $1.1 million dollars. That money will be used to pay off legal obligations to the defunct ABA clubs as well as other debts and obligations. It is exclusive of money to be paid to Gilmore upon his ratification of a contract with the Bulls.

Gilmore averaged a career high 24.6 points a game last season, fourth best in the ABA. In addition, he averaged 15.5 rebounds per game and was named to the All-Star team for the fifth successive season.

Gilmore was named both the ABA's Rookie-of-the-Year and the league's Most Valuable Player for the 1971-2 season.

Kuhn foresees NL expansion and says baseball will curb violence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn predicted Wednesday the possibility of new rules being formulated to crack down on fights such as that which erupted between the New York Yankees and the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday night, causing slugger Reggie Jackson to be sidelined for several days, and also forecast two new expansion teams for the National League.

Asked about the incident in a reappearance before a special House Committee on Professional Sports, Kuhn said he had not yet gotten the full facts.

But he said he wanted "to make it clear I don't condone intentional violence in baseball and if, as it is possible, we need to strengthen the rules, that will be done."

He also forecast an expansion of the National League to match the new 14-team format of the American League, with the likelihood of expansion returning to Washington.

Asked about the prospects of a team in the nation's capital in the near future, the commissioner replied, "If you mean in 1977, I would say it is difficult for me to say that that is the year. But baseball is funny and anything can happen."

Kuhn added, however, "It is only a matter of time" before the National League adds two teams.

He declined to flatly guarantee an expansion team for the city but told the House group: "If the National League expands and the quality of ownership available that I think is here and a suitable stadium lease can be worked out, then it is my judgment the National League will go to Washington.

Rather than, saying I guarantee it, I can only say I'll do everything in my power to bring it about. That's a better way than trying to do it by fiat."

About the banning of Jackson by Yankee pitcher Dock Ellis and the retaliatory hitting of New York's Mickey Rivers by Baltimore's Jim Palmer, Kuhn said he had instructed the Rule Committee to look at the problem when there was a flareup of similar incidents earlier in the season. He said he thought some recommendations would be forthcoming shortly.

Earlier, Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, testified that the pro football owners had rejected a no-strike pledge by the players this season in return for a resumption of payments into the pension fund and reinstatement of a dues checkoff for members.

"As matters now stand, the players are free to strike," he said. "Whether there will be one, I don't know."

Garvey also told the committee that the "horror stories" predicted by the owners when the Rozelle Rule was struck down and 24 players became free agents had been proven false.

He recalled management claims that the rich owners such as Lamar Hunt, Clint Murchison and Bud Adams, or the glamor cities such as Los Angeles and New York, would land all the free agents.

Instead, the union spokesman said, Hunt didn't sign a single free agent for Kansas City, Murchison's Dallas Cowboys lost two players and signed only one and Adams' Houston Oilers only attracted one.

In addition, Garvey noted, Cleveland and Minnesota were able to sign up free agent stars.

Sun Valley hosts cup races

PARK CITY, Utah (UPI) — U.S. Ski Team alpine coach Hank Tauber said Wednesday Sun Valley, Idaho, and Heavenly Valley, Calif., will host the two 1977 World Cup ski races in the United States.

Tauber, who had just returned from visits to the two western ski resorts, said preparations for the two weekend racing series are underway. He said more than 100 of the best alpine skiers in the world will compete in the two World Cup races.

"Sun Valley has a classic downhill course," Tauber said. "It drops more than 1,000 meters, and will offer high speed with wide turns. It will provide a good test for the skiers."

TF hosts Burley in Legion opener

TWIN FALLS — Coach Jim Bianchi's Twin Falls Legion team will host Burley at 7:30 p.m. Monday to kickoff the "A" district tournament at Jaycee Park.

The Twin Falls-Burley game winner will go against heavily-favored Minico Sage Friday evening. The two once-beaten teams will play Saturday and the tournament will conclude perhaps with a doubleheader — Sunday. All games are slated for the Twin Falls park.

Twin Falls concluded its regular season with a doubleheader split with Pocatello. Scott Williams twirled a four-hitter and collected three hits to pace the attack. Tim Crist rang in with four straight hits and Jay Yeggy and Gene Turley had two each as Twin Falls claimed the opener '73.

But Pocatello won the second game 9-1, most of the runs coming on defensive lapses. Three of the runs came when a pop fly — with two away and the runners moving — wasn't handled by Twin Falls.

The lone Twin Falls run came when Crist tripled and scored on losing pitcher Rocky Brown's single.

Liese emerges as slowpitch contender

TWIN FALLS — Liese's of Sun Valley, runner-up in district a year ago, emerged as a strong challenger in the lower bracket, Wednesday night when the district men's slowpitch tournament finally ended its first round.

Liese's pummeled the Bowladrome, Twin Falls, 2-1 in sharp enough fashion that most watchers anticipate a First Federal-Windbreak-Liese semi-finals in the bottom bracket next week.

So far the tournament has lasted through 18 games and three days and everyone is still alive. That will start changing when action resumes at both Harmon park fields Thursday night. All six games will be played in the loser bracket and all losers will conclude their competition for the year.

In other action Wednesday night, Parks and Sons-Matchbook of Twin Falls, edged Burley Beverage 8-7 while Farmers Union of Rupert slipped past Idaho Bank and Trust of Twin Falls 4-2. Snake River Tire thumped Keebler Brothers of Wendell 10-5 and Skaggs of Burley put down a last-inning threat by Ace Hansen and Threeds held McDaniels to two hits in coasting to a victory.

The schedule for Thursday night includes:

- Diamond one, 6:45 p.m., Project Mutual of Rupert vs. Northwest Plywood of Twin Falls; 8 p.m., Cain's of Twin Falls vs. Ace Hansen-Cove of Twin Falls, and 9:15 p.m., A.C. Drive In of Burley vs. Marshall Warehouse of Jerome.
- Diamond two, 6:45 p.m., Budweiser-Klöver Klub vs. A.C. Houston of Twin Falls; 8 p.m., Twin Falls Bank and Trust vs. Depot Grill-Turt Club of Twin Falls, and 9:15 p.m., Sewer and Water Specialty of Twin Falls vs. Olympia Beer.

The championship bracket will resume play with two games at 8 and 9:15 p.m. Friday — following four more laser games. The winners will head off a full weekend with action starting at 9 a.m. A total of 18 games will be played Saturday.

There will be no action Sunday and six games Monday evening, two of them in the women's tournament. Following Monday's play, the meet will take a vacation until winding up with full schedules Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Morton injured

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y. (UPI) — First-string quarterback Craig Morton of the New York Giants suffered a pulled muscle in the left calf in training Wednesday and may be unable to play Sunday in the Giants' opening pre-season game against the New England Patriots.

Linebacker Brad Van Pelt also may miss the game. His father, Arnold Van Pelt, died of a heart attack Tuesday night in Owosso, Mich., and the funeral was set for Friday.
