

Woman found guilty of shooting mate

BLACKFOOT—Idaho UPPI—A Seventh District Court jury of 10 men and two women convicted Thelma Griffiths, 37, Shelley, early today, of involuntary manslaughter in the shooting death of her husband.

The jury returned the verdict at 3:25 a.m. after 11 hours of deliberation. Judge Arnold T. Beebe scheduled sentencing for 2 p.m. Aug. 26. Mrs. Griffiths remained free on her own recognizance.

Joseph Griffiths, 42, was shot to death in the couple's home on the evening of last April 29, culminating an argument over another woman. Mrs. Griffiths testified she was in fear for her life and that he had beaten and abused her on several occasions.

Her attorney, Dean Williams, contended she was so frightened at the time of the shooting she actually blocked out and was not rational. Griffiths was shot four times, once in the chest and three in the back as the couple struggled from the bedroom through the hall to a bathroom where Griffiths died.

Mrs. Griffiths originally was charged with second-degree murder.

Jim Sorenson, deputy prosecutor, said fear for the defendant's life was no defense for the killing because the victim was "unable to inflict grievous injury" after the first shot.

Judge withholds $16,000 from political parties

BOISE—UPPI—Some $16,000 in undesignated funds will be temporarily withheld from Idaho political parties Tuesday as a result of a decision made in the ninth district circuit court of appeals Monday afternoon.

Federal Judge Fred Taylor decided Monday the funds continued to unspecified political parties and collected with the 1975 income tax returns will not be distributed Tuesday with the money designated for use by a particular political party.

Funds designated for a specific political party will be distributed Tuesday by the secretary of state's office to the parties listed on the 1975 income tax returns.

Contentions given to an unspecified party on the return will be withheld until Taylor determines whether or not a three-judge court will have to decide the constitutionality of Section IV of the Idaho Code's election law.

Attorneys for both sides stipulated to the decision.

Section IV specifies that 50 per cent of the undesignated donations will be distributed to political parties in proportion to the number of registered voters received in the previous election provided no party receives more than 50 per cent of the available funds.

The 10 per cent reserve and the funds left from the highest vote getting party over the 50 per cent maximum is divided equally among all parties.

After hearing arguments by the American Party of Idaho asking for a restraining order against the Gov. Cecil D. Andrus the judge said, "the only question in the court's mind is whether Section IV of the act might be constitutional or unconstitutional under the Fourteenth Amendment."

Swan Falls plan proceeds

BOISE (UPI)—Designation of Swan Falls Dam as a national historical site will span the $90 million Swan Falls-Gulley project, according to the state historical preservation officer.

The dam was designated an historical site July 6. Last week, the State Water-Resource Board agreed to proceed with the long-delayed Swan Falls-Gulley project.

"The intent of designating a structure as a historical site is to make sure some thought is given before changes are made in such a structure," preservation officer Merle Wells said.

He said any project involving a site listed on such a register must be evaluated by the Federal Power Commission for its historical impact on the site. The FPC then submits a plan to the Interior Department's Advisory Council on Historical Preservation for its consideration.

Wells said the Swan Falls Dam was designated an historical site because it was an early industrial site on the Snake River.

The project planned for Swan Falls-Gulley includes raising the height of the existing Swan Falls Dam and building a new one on the Gulley site.

TAKING A break during their efforts in the Big Thompson River canyon are a group of rescue workers at Loveland, Colo. Bad weather delayed rescue and recovery attempts for a time Monday. But work resumed late in the day after the weather improved. (UPI)

Seeding report checked

DENVER (UPI) — Gov. Richard Lamm said Monday he received unconfirmed reports of possible cloud seeding operations near a northern Colorado canyon where a flash flood killed at least 76 persons. But federal officials said they know of no recent cloud seeding activity in the area.

Lamm said residents of Boulder, Colo., reported sunburst clouds in the area of the Big Thompson Canyon shortly before Saturday night's 10-inch downpour which caused a 10-15-foot wall of water to crash down the narrow canyon, leaving bodies and recreation vehicles strewn for miles.

"We have not been able to confirm any of that but the possibility has come to our attention and we will pursue it," said Lamm. "We certainly will check it out."

Pat Hurley, director of the Bureau of Reclamation's Department of Natural Resources, said he was "absolutely sure" his agency has not conducted any cloud seeding operations this year.

Carl Posey, information director for the National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration, said the NOAA has never done any type of weather modification.

Posey explained a sunburst is an optical effect caused by ice crystals in a cloud, and occurs naturally without seeding.

"The way they are arranged, and reflect in the sun give them a mother-of-pearl glow," he said. "More often than not, sunbursts are caused by nature although they do occur in cloud seeding experimentation."

Infant, parents united; man faces bleak future

LOVELAND, Colo. (UPI) — There was a happy ending to the story of the 5-month-old baby rescued from a rock in the middle of the swollen Big Thompson River. Eddie Thompson, 84, also survived, but he faces a bleak future.

The child, dubbed the "miracle boy" by rescuers, was reunited with his parents Monday. The baby was rescued from the middle of the river Sunday, but rescue workers could not explain the child's presence on the rock.

The child was taken, with two other infants without parents, to McKee Medical Center in Loveland. "The parents came in and picked him up Monday," a hospital spokesman said.

Officials still did not know the child's name and didn't have time to find out how the baby was stranded in the flood. The parents of the other two children also claimed their babies Monday.

It was one of the happier moments for the flood survivors.

Thompson won't be going back to his retirement home along the Big Thompson River. He plans to spend the rest of his years in a home for the elderly.

Thompson, a white-haired World War I veteran, said he was preparing for bed Saturday night when a neighbor warned him of a coming storm.

"I was a damn fool for not getting out," said Thompson, who lost his false teeth in the flood. "By 9 o'clock water was coming in under the door. Before I could get my shoes on the water was up to my knees."

Grabbing the few necessities: Thompson hurried to a home located above his residence but returned for his electric razor. By then the water was waist deep.

As the water rose, Thompson hooked his cane over a curtain rod, which broke.

"The bed was floating. So I pulled, using my cane and crawled on top," he said. "From there I could reach the top of the ceiling with my arm's length."

He spent the night there, watching the hours pass on his watch. At dawn, he crawled outside, where rescuers found him.

"I'm not going back. There's nothing to go back for. I'll just go to an old age home someplace," he said.

Thompson and about 1,000 other vacationers and a few residents escaped the floodwaters with their lives, but little else. Many were taken to Loveland High School, where they were given clothing, hot food and shelter.

The Red Cross, swamped with more help than they needed, asked volunteers to stop bringing food and clothing.

"We would like to discourage this," National Red Cross volunteer John DeHaver of Minnesota said. "We don't need these things now. It is counterproductive."

The evacuees, carrying belongings they had snatched from their homes or trailers, were calm and in good condition.

Disaster's sounds lasting

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — The raging waters of the Big Thompson River spared Dottie Searl's trailer and her life but the sights and sounds of the Saturday night disaster will be with her a long time.

"When the wall of water crashed through Saturday night, Mrs. Searl watched cars floating by with her headlights still on and heard propane tanks from campers exploding and spewing gas.

"We could hear the people yelling and screaming for help, but there just wasn't anything we could do," she said. "The water just carried them away."

"That's the thing I'll never forget — I can still hear them screaming."

Stranded

A FRAME HOME swept off its foundations by the Big Thompson River, rests in shambles on one of the few bridges remaining in the wake of the weekend flood in Colorado. (UPI)

Society all the remaining survivors were evacuated Monday night by huge transport helicopters skimming the 60-foot canyon walls. But 135 homeowners and campers refused to leave.

"We've got everybody out who wants out," Deputy Sheriff Dan Pinsky said today. "But we're going in again to check the ridges and high places to see if there are some that need help."

The Larimer County sheriff's office said 700 to 800 boys staying at a summer camp near Estes Park above the canyon would be evacuated.

"The boys aren't stranded or in any danger, but their parents from back East have been really worried about them," a dispatcher said. "We've had many parents driving in from back East."

Pinsky said there had been some looting early today by people who liked or drove in over night, but most are four-wheel drive vehicles.

Volunteers and deputies set up roadblocks to stop the waters, who pulled materials from clothing torn from the victims and rummaged through the debris for jewelry and other valuables.

Four ground units moved into the canyon from the west and set up camp Monday night. Ham radio communication was set up between Estes Park and the mouth of canyon 33 miles downstream.

The Colorado State Patrol said bulldozers would try to open a little-used dirt road that climbs down into the canyon.

Some of the canyon, one group of 12 survivors, who refused to leave stayed all night in an undamaged home.

"We're pooling our food and sleeping with each other," summer resident Helen Avery said.

The group had electricity supplied by a gasoline-powered generator. Some began cleaning up the mud and debris.

Fluorence Kratzer said she and her husband saw the floodwaters and began climbing up the canyon walls.

"We saw a man and a woman and dog in a yellow jeep down below and we yelled at them, but it was too quick," she said. "The water caught the jeep and it started going out over and they were gone."

Twin engine Army helicopters, glimpsing a break in the heavy clouds, swept into the area Monday and plucked 140 survivors from the canyon. Another 135 homeowners and campers elected to stay in the canyon.

Larimer County Sheriff Bob Watson said an estimated 1,000 survivors had been rescued in two days by the CH-33 Chinook troop carrying helicopters. He said others had taken out by themselves.

Flood victims everywhere

LOVELAND, Colo. (UPI) — It was not a pretty sight.

The victims of the rampaging Big Thompson River were found grotesquely tangled in tree roots, crushed by shattered homes and trapped in the twisted cars and trucks strewn along a 35-mile path of destruction which once had been a scenic canyon drive.

Rains tapered off Monday allowing searchers to drive a few miles into the narrow, winding canyon seeking more bodies. The air was thick with the smell of propane gas from tanks exploded by those marooned in the river.

One house sat in the middle of the river, an American flag still hanging on a pole from the back porch. The flag apparently was put up by owners in honor of Colorado's centennial anniversary Aug. 1, marking its admittance to the union.

Recovered bodies, including four members of a college church group caught by the flood while camping in the canyon, were taken to a makeshift morgue at a hospital in the city of 20,000 persons. The corpses were tagged with a white ticket and covered with sheets.

"There are other bodies up there in the canyon but we can't get them," Sheriff Bob Watson said.

"We're not going to count them unless we have them. The water may shift and move them."

By United Press International
Ronald Reagan has picked up three uncommitted delegates in the Northeast — the first fruit from his selection of Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania as his potential running mate.

The three named Monday by the Reagan forces were the first positive response to the Schweiker selection, which by UPI's count has brought seven delegates into President Ford's camp.

Reagan's campaign manager John Sears told a Washington news conference the California picked up a dozen new delegates. But UPI and other news organizations had been counting nine of them in his column since before the Schweiker announcement.

Only two of the 10 he named in Pennsylvania and one from New York were actually new Reagan delegates. Some of those he claimed in Pennsylvania had left UPI shortly after the state's April primary they were for Reagan, and one he claimed in West Virginia had been in his camp for two weeks.

UPI's latest tally shows Ford's strength unchanged at 1,122, Reagan with 1,031 and 106 uncommitted.

Ford's chief delegate hunter James Baker said the new Reagan support was "substantial in our opinion" and added that by claiming 12 new delegates he was "recounting some of his own votes."

Sears predicted Reagan would have 1,040 delegates when the roll is called in Kansas City. This is the same number of delegates he claimed Reagan had in a news conference before Schweiker's selection.

Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter was flying from his Plains, Ga., home to Manchester, N.H. for a rally today in the state that gave him his first primary victory. Carter was to meet later in the day in Washington with the Democratic National Steering Committee, and attend a fundraising reception and dinner in the capital.

Four states hold primary elections today and most of the interest focuses on Michigan and Missouri where there are contests for Senate seats held by two new voters.

Congressional contests highlight the ballot in Kansas and Idaho.

Rep. James Symington is in a tough fight with another congressman, Jerry Linton, for the seat held by his father, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., for the past 24 years.

In Missouri, Democratic Richard H. Auslin, the 63-year-old secretary of state, was a favorite for his party's Senate nomination, while Rep.

Marvin L. Esch was given a solid edge in the GOP contest. They are seeking the seat being vacated by Democrat Philip A. Hart.

Republican state chairman from the northeast, Bruce Harber, Maine, with Vice President Nelson Rockefeller Monday and most of the talk was about a running mate for Ford.

New York State chairman Richard Rosenbaum said the group prepared a list of eight possible names, including Rockefeller. He refused to list the others.

Rockefeller predicted Ford would beat Reagan and then defeat Carter in November. "He is ahead, he will win the nomination and I think he will win the election," he said.

In Atlanta, Ford's former campaign manager said Carter would win the presidential election if it were held today, but a campaign attack on Carter's "vulnerabilities" could turn the tables by November.

Howard "Bo" Callaway also said he thought a running mate for Ford like John Connally or Sen. Howard Baker and William Brock of Tennessee would help him counter Carter in the South.

Reactor sale about set

©N.Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — A top State Department official told a Senate committee Monday that the United States had virtually completed negotiations for the sale to both Egypt and Israel of nuclear power reactors under strict safeguards to prevent their diversion to atomic weapon production.

Alfred L. Atherton Jr., assistant secretary for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, reportedly told the Foreign Relations Committee that the identical accords are the most comprehensive ever devised to ensure that the nuclear reactors cannot be used to manufacture material for atomic explosives.

But despite Atherton's assurances, several of the senators present told reporters later that they were skeptical about the value of the proposed sales, which will each cost Egypt and Israel more than $1 billion.

Bell breakup proposal turned down by judge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bell Telephone's size "simply does not call for the altogether extreme and revolutionary remedy" of breaking it up to increase competition, according to a ruling by an administrative law judge.

The ruling by Federal Communications Commission hearing judge David I. Kraushaar, was the latest development in an investigation of the American Telephone and Telegraph company the FCC ordered in 1971. The case is still under litigation.

"In competition with the U.S. Postal Service, which faces continual financial distress, and the railroad industry, which has required a government bailout, the telecommunications industry stands as a monument to capitalistic success," Kraushaar said in his ruling Monday.

In late 1974, the Justice Department filed suit to break-up AT&T on antitrust grounds, charging the company had conspired to eliminate competition from private systems in order to monopolize the communications equipment market. Bell is an AT&T subsidiary. The FCC's trial staff recommended that Bell divest itself of Western Electric and the greater part of Bell Laboratories, which provide it with equipment and services.

But in his 536-page decision, Kraushaar said, "The problem of managing Bell's 'bigness' simply does not call for the altogether extreme and revolutionary remedy of divestment and splinterization in the holy names of 'competition' and 'free markets'."

The judge, however, did suggest that there should be more competition for some of the system's services.

He said the FCC should carefully monitor Western Electric's cost and pricing practices "so as to provide assurances, ultimately, to the consuming public against rip-offs, whether intended or otherwise, and to the competition against unfairness and so-called predatory business practices."

Kraushaar-based his recommendations on 105 days of FCC hearings into the operations of AT&T. Kraushaar's ruling could go into effect in 50 days if not challenged, but it is all but certain to be appealed.

Burglary charge probe widening

©N.Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — The Department of Justice has drastically widened its investigation of all allegations that the Federal Bureau of Investigation burglarized the homes and offices of militant political figures during the last five years, informed FBI and department sources said Monday.

According to those sources, Justice Department lawyers contacted some 50 agents late last week, warned them they were under investigation in connection with the burglaries and advised them they might be called to testify. This brings to more than 75 the number of FBI agents and officials now under scrutiny in the burglary investigation.

The Department of Justice began the investigation earlier this year after finding records in a secret file in the New York office of the FBI that indicated agents had made "surveillance entries" into homes and offices of leftist suspects and anti-war radicals as recently as 1975 and nine years after the former director, J. Edgar Hoover, had ordered the technique discontinued.

The investigation has centered on the New York office, but knowledgeable bureau and Justice sources said the technique of "surveillance" entry for intelligence gathering was used in several major field offices across the country including Washington, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Last week's moves by Justice Department lawyers in the Civil Rights Divisions under Asst. Atty. Gen. Stanley Pottlinger seem to be the first steps in broadening the investigation.

Prejudice hearing looms for jurors

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — One of the jurors weighing the guilt or innocence of William and Emily Harris today faced a possible post-trial hearing for prejudice.

Ronald Prunyn, juror unaware of it because work on charges from the sequestered jury until they reach a verdict on them against the Harrises, Symblite Liberation Army members on trial for an alleged SLA crime spree with Patricia Hearst.

Prunyn's remark was among several incidents cited by defense attorneys in a multipronged legal effort to halt the trial.

Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler, denied all the defense motions Monday, but said if the jury finds the Harrises guilty, he will question the jurors about possible prejudice and consider a mistrial motion.

The defense based the motion on reports by two women, prospective jurors not chosen for the panel, that Prunyn said to other prospective jurors testimony began that "we already knew the way this thing is going to go."

The defense also cited reports another unchosen prospect hanged paper effigies of the Harrises on a mock gallows built out of interstranded paper clips in the jury room.

The defense asked that a mistrial be declared, or Prunyn be replaced by an alternate, and that Brandler disqualify himself or appoint another judge to hear the Prunyn complaint.

The defense alleged misconduct by Brandler for waiting two weeks to investigate and notify attorneys of the Prunyn charge, misconduct by a sheriff's deputy for failure to report the following incident and misconduct by a bailiff for delaying word of a 21-year-old newspaper headlining Hearst kidnapping developments was found in the jurors' bathroom.

The judge said the "unseemly delay" by the two women, Jeanette Barton and Corinne Hansen, who did not report the alleged remark for more than two weeks, "at the very least lessens their credibility."

Kekkonen visits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Finnish President Urho Kekkonen arrives in Washington today with full military honors, including a 219-gun salute.

The 76-year-old president, arriving for a bicentennial visit, will celebrate an anniversary of his own Sept. 3 — his 30th year as president of Finland. He is being received by the White House as one of the nation's honored guests for his country's long record of friendship and assistance in the political arena.

Following talks with President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in the Oval Office, Kekkonen will address a luncheon of the National Press Club.

Will not attend

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Rep. Allan Howe, convicted on a misdemeanor morals charge, apparently will not meet with state Democratic Party leaders Saturday to discuss his political future.

Democratic State Chairman Justin Stewart said Monday he dissuaded Howe from attending the meeting for fear the news media might turn the Sundance ski resort meeting site into a "three ring circus."

A meeting of the July 29 member state Central Committee is set for Aug. 14, and the matter of Howe's continuing presence on the ticket will be on the agenda.

To cover anniversary

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Elizabeth Hay, the former Washington secretary, who publicized Capitol Hill sex scandals, probably will be covering the Republican National Convention for a girls magazine.

Norman Hill, executive publisher of Genesis magazine, said Monday he expects to obtain Miss Hay a perimeter pass, which would allow her to enter the security areas of Kemper Arena, but not the arena itself. Miss Hay had been retained earlier as a convention reporter, Hill said.

'It's unflattering'

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., thinks it "unflattering" to be discussed for the vice presidency.

Buckley, concluding a two-day campaign stop, said, "As far as I know, these rumors are manufactured by political reporters and there's nothing to them," he said. "Furthermore, I find the formulation unflattering."

He said reporters "say to themselves, 'Let's find somebody who's from the Northeast, who's conservative, who's Catholic and who belongs to an ethnic group.' And they cast around and eventually come up with my name."

Risner retires

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Brig. Gen. Robinson Risner, believed to have been a prisoner of the North Vietnamese for longer than any other American, has retired from the Air Force, ending 31 years' service.

Risner, whose last post was special assistant to the commander of the Tactical Fighter Weapons Wing at Nellis Air Force Base, was a POW for seven years, four months. Retirement ceremonies were being held at Nellis during the weekend.

Doubleday must pay $125,000 libel award

NEW YORK (UPI) — A judge has ordered Doubleday and Company to pay a $125,000 libel award to author A.E. Hotchner for publishing a book that damaged Hotchner's reputation as an expert on Ernest Hemingway.

On a jury in Manhattan, Federal Court found that the book, "Hemingway in Spain" by Jose Luis Castillo-Puche, libeled Hotchner by attacking his worth and status as an authoritative authority.

Hotchner, who says he was a close friend of Hemingway's, has adapted many of Hemingway's stories and novels into movie screenplays and is the author of a book about his own relationship with the late author, entitled "Papa Hemingway."

His most recent book is an authorized biography of movie star Clark Gable.

Doubleday called for a new libel trial on general grounds and the ground that the award

Tiny horse

INMAN, S.C. (UPI) — How do you describe a horse who stands all of 14 inches high and is called Little Pumpkin?

It's called Little Pumpkin, a baby, but not a long one as it is said by C. Williams Monday. He should know because Little Pumpkin is his horse.

"I thought I had the smallest one in the world until I found Little Pumpkin," Williams said. He bought it to give his son a horse.

Williams said the only risk with breeding small horses occurs at birth.

"We had one born eight inches and one 11 inches, but they're called 'the smallest' and 'the biggest' and we're not keeping them either that small."

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (UPI) — Documents found by investigators in the Chowchilla kidnap case contained bizarre references to Satan and a $5 million, unmet ransom note was signed "Beelsabub," it was reported.

"Beelsabub" was an apparent misspelling of Beelzebub, a New Testament name meaning "prince of the devils."

The Fresno, Calif., Bee said Monday that it was informed by investigators some documents contained "strange" references to "Satan" and others were coded in Sanskrit.

The documents were found on the 100-acre estate of the family of Fred N. Woods, 24, one of the three suspects in the July 15 kidnap of 26 school children and their bus driver here. The victims were placed in a truck van buried in a quarry owned by Woods' father near Livermore in Alameda County. They dug their way to freedom.

The two suspects were James Schoenfeld, 24 and his brother, Richard, 22, both of Atherton, Calif. The younger Schoenfeld surrendered on July 23 while Woods was captured in Vancouver, B.C., last Thursday and the older Schoenfeld was arrested in Menlo Park, Calif., the same day.

"Maybe one of them, or all three of them, were into the occult," one investigator said. "But recall or not, it had nothing to do with the kidnaping of those children and the fact the auditors wanted $5 million."

All three will appear in Justice Court here Wednesday. Woods and the other Schoenfelds will be arraigned on kidnap and robbery charges. All three will ask for a reduction in their $1 million bail.

The suspects were held in the Alameda County Jail in Oakland.

Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates, whose department covers the farm community in the San Joaquin Valley, said he expected a grand jury indictment against the three young men soon. This would eliminate the need for a preliminary hearing in Justice Court and move the case directly into superior court at nearby Madera, the county seat.

In a related development Monday, Justice Court Judge Howard C. Green granted a defense request to extend a gag order sealing details of evidence found by investigators. The order was issued 10 days ago and was expected to remain in effect for at least another 10 days.

However, there have been several reports on evidence found by investigators. Included were documents, in part to exchange the children for money, a paper bag list of the victims' names.

Synopsis:
Scattered thundershowers, a few producing heavy rain and strong gusty winds, occurred Monday. Hail along with gusty winds estimated at 30 miles per hour occurred near the Snake River Research Center near Kimberly about 12:30 p.m. Monday.
Hail size ranged up to five-eighths of an inch in diameter and still covered the ground about three hours later. It's still a little too early to estimate crop damage in the Kimberly area. Moist, unstable air continues to flow into southern Idaho. Scattered thundershowers occurred this morning in the Kimberly-Twin Falls area, but there were no reports of hail.

Very little change is expected to occur in the air mass over southern Idaho during the next few days. Therefore, thundershower activity is expected to continue.
Extended outlook for Thursday through Saturday: unsettled conditions with chance of scattered showers during the afternoon and evening hours. High temperatures in the 80s; lows in the 50s.

Peking quake exodus continues

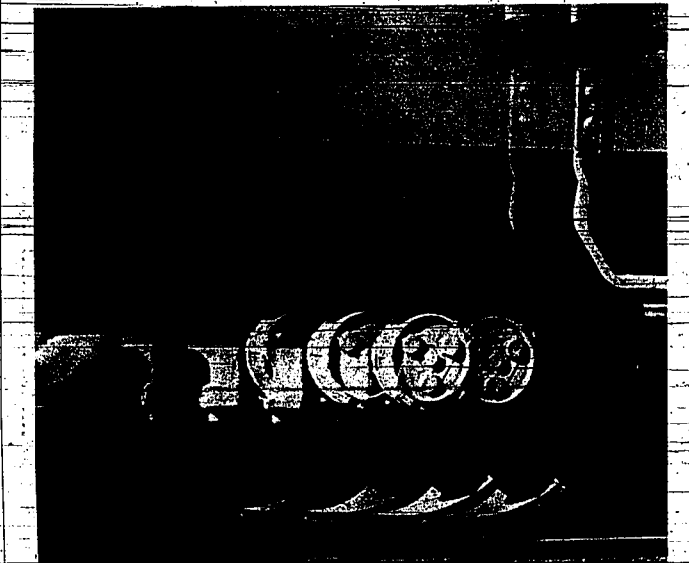

HONG KONG (UPI) — The last dependents of American diplomats evacuated Peking today, leaving behind hundreds of thousands of Chinese camping in the streets awaiting an earthquake that may never come.
Large numbers of other foreign diplomats, their dependents and foreign residents also continued to leave the capital in an exodus that began last Sunday at the request of Chinese authorities.

The government is afraid new aftershocks from last Wednesday's earthquake could produce major new damage.
Hundreds of thousands of temporarily homeless Chinese spent their Saturday morning in tents and makeshift shelters as the only protection against a light to moderate rain.
An official of the United States Liaison Office in Peking told UPI by telephone today that the last three American dependents left for Tokyo aboard a morning flight.

Fuss brews over US arms offers

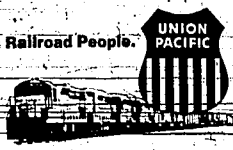

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Offers of arms made to other countries in the closing days of the Nixon presidency are being defended by the State Department but questioned by Congress.
Two offers are involved: a 1974 proposal to sell Egypt and Israel nuclear reactors and a 1972 presidential order to sell Iran all the arms she wanted.
The Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Monday it would hold closed door hearings on the decision to sell Israel two nuclear reactors and Egypt a similar one.
The original offer was made in June, 1974, during President Richard M. Nixon's Middle East trip. Less than two months before his resignation, the United States has negotiated restrictions on the reactors and fuel more stringent than the safeguards set up by the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The Foreign Relations Committee questioned Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs Albert Atherton Monday and sources said some members expressed fears the safeguards were not adequate.
Committee Chairman John Sparkman described the subject as "very, very delicate" and said the hearings would be conducted in closed session.
The State Department said the offer to give Iran easy access to the American arms market — as ordered by Nixon in 1972 — was not "uncontrolled" as a report by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee claimed. The department said each Iranian request was reviewed.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column about visiting the elderly in nursing homes prompts my first "Dear Abby" letter.

I agree, it's a great service to visit an elderly friend or relative in a nursing home, but consider this: Instead of going there to sit with him while you both look at the same four walls he looks at day in and day out, why not give him a change of scenery?

Take him for a little drive and stop for a bite to eat. Or take him window shopping. Or treat him to a home-cooked meal with the family. Just being away from the institution will relieve his boredom and lift his spirits.

If he isn't able to walk, be aware that they now make lightweight wheelchairs that can be easily folded and tucked into the trunk of the car.

Abby, this is a plea to your readers who visit someone in a nursing home. Please turn those routine duty visits into special events by treating the patient to an occasional outing. It will do wonders for him. And for you, too. I know. I've been a volunteer in such a home for over 10 years.

BESS

Happy suggestion

DEAR BESS: What a pity you'll never know how much happiness your suggestion will bring to countless residents of nursing homes throughout the nation! Bless you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I am so glad I can write to you with this problem because it has bothered me for years and I can't go to anyone else with it.

You see, my parents were never married, which makes me illegitimate, right? I'm not exactly proud of it, but I don't let it bother me too much because there is nothing I can do about it.

I married a very nice man and we have two lovely children. I want so much for them to be legitimate, but if I'm not, then THEY can't be either, and that is my problem.

What must I do to make my children legitimate? Thank you.

MEMPHIS MOM

DEAR MOM: You did it. You married their father. All children born to a married couple are legitimate, regardless of the legitimacy for illegitimacy of their parents.

DEAR ABBY: I'm planning my wedding. I want my bridesmaids to wear southern belle-type dresses and enter carrying parasols instead of flowers.

I want them to walk down the aisle with their parasols open, until they reach the front of the church. Then they would turn to face the congregation and close their parasols, keeping them closed for the duration of the service. My fiance and his mother say this would look stupid. What do you and your readers think?

BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: I think it might look as though you were trying to create a Broadway musical production of "Aida" for those who are superstitious. It's bad luck to open an umbrella indoors.

MR. AND MRS. MARSH

Miss Worstell, Marsh marry in Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS—Wendy Sue Worstell and David W. Marsh were united in marriage Saturday, July 17 in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Worstell, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Marsh, all Twin Falls.

The Rev. Erwin Bernthal performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white sheer gaza and re-embroidered lace. The bodice was of the re-embroidered lace and started with a Queen Anne neckline, edged in "kisses" of white pearls.

The best princess style waist and vertical lines of semi-cathedral sheer gaza skirt were edged in lace as were the bottom of the skirt and back vertical line of the sheer gaza waistcoat train. The bishop sleeves, sheer gaza, had wide lace cuffs.

The bride wore a chintilly lace Juliet cap with white pearls and pearl accents. The Juliet cap was finished in a two-tiered fingertip veil.

She carried a colonial bouquet of Tropicana roses and baby's breath with matching ribbon streamers. The bride wore her mother's necklace of wedding pearls. Sharon Worstell, sister-in-law of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Marsh, sister of the groom, and LuAnn Siltes, both Twin Falls. The bride's three attendants all wore long, flowing, peach-colored dresses of fluid polyester knit with rippling cape collars and picture hats dyed to match.

Erwin Bernthal, Twin Falls, was the best man and the groomsmen were George Marsh, brother of the groom, and Keith Brown, Twin Falls. Soloist was Ruth Heller and organist was Eria Bernthal.

James Worstell, Moscow, brother of the bride, was acolyte.

Elizabeth Almy attended the guest book and Janene Holm assisted at the gift table.

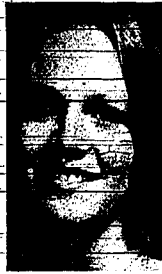

A reception following the ceremony was held in the parish hall.

Serving coffee was Myrtle Johnson, Twin Falls, president of the bride and serving punch was Edna Belle Odum, Twin Falls, a longtime friend of the bride and her family.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were from Hawaii, California, Utah, Oregon and Washington.

The bride and groom are 1976 graduates of CSU, after a week-long honeymoon trip to San Diego and Disneyland, the newlyweds will reside in Twin Falls where both are currently employed.

Miss Howard to wed Meierhoff Saturday

SELENA HOWARD

BUHL—Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Howard, Buhl, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Selena, to Dale Meierhoff.

Meierhoff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Meierhoff, Buhl. Miss Howard is a 1976 graduate of Castleford High School.

Meierhoff is a 1973 graduate of Buhl High School and is presently employed by Amalgamated Sugar Co., Kimberly.

The couple plans an August 7 wedding in the garden of Miss Howard's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Howard, Twin Falls.

He won the second spade and led back the 10. West won and could have beaten the hand by leading anything but a spade, but West was a firm believer in the principle that a trick in the hand is worth two on the table. He cashed his last two spades.

South chucked a heart and diamond while dummy shed red cards. East chucked a heart.

West led the queen of hearts. South won and played his second-high heart to squeeze East. He had to unguard either diamonds or clubs and South had his ninth trick.

Ask the Jacobys

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South let West hold the first trick with his queen of spades after East followed with the eight. West continued with the 10 and East played the king.

South had a problem. Assuming West had led from a six-card suit he could duck that second spade, take the third, play three rounds of diamonds and hope that East would have exactly three diamonds. South saw that that play would fail if spades were 5-4 and decided on another line.

A California reader wants to know if we ever underlead an ace against a suit contract. The answer is that we do make such a lead—but we don't make it more than once in a lot of deals. It is one play that won't really hurt you if you never make it.

Boise spud hearing set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hearings will be conducted in Boise this month by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission on the proposed revisions in the Idaho Potato Futures Contract of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, the commission announced today.

All said the hearings will be at the Rowley Inn, commencing Aug. 30 at 9:30 a.m.

The Chicago exchange has requested commission authorization to revise present potato future contracts so that it will become an "Idaho, Midwestern and Western Russets, Burbank Potato Contract," instead of a contract exclusively for Idaho potatoes.

The exchange seeks to revise its delivery points for contract contracts to accommodate the new states whose potatoes would be eligible for delivery under the revised contract.

Currently, the contract has only two delivery points — Pocatello and Nampa. Under the revised contract, Pocatello would be the only Idaho delivery point. It would remain the primary delivery point for the contract.

Other delivery points would be Pásto and Obthello, Wash., Klamath Falls and Imke, Ore., Monte Vista, Colo., at an allowance of 75 cents per hundredweight, Stevensport, Wis., and Iron Mountain and Greenville, Mich., at an allow of 15¢. Grand Forks, N.D., at $1.25 packaging restrictions would be revised. Shippers now limited to use of the new 25-pound parishes also would be permitted to use all oranges, all tangerine or all red mesh 10-pound bags. At the seller's option, new 100-pound barrel bags may be used but with a $2.50 per hundredweight allowance reduced price to the buyer. Both truck and rail delivery would be permitted.

The contract would continue for the delivery of a unit of 80,000

The Mercantile Exchange would retain the daily price limit of no more than 50 cents per hundredweight above or below the previous day's settling price, except on the last day of trading in the delivery month. The limit that day would be increased from its current 60 cents to 61.

Delivery months would remain November, January, March, April and May. Trading would terminate on the 10th calendar day of the contract month.

The hearings will enable the commission to receive testimony in Idaho from people directly affected by the contract revisions.

All persons wishing to make an oral presentation to the commission at the hearings are requested to contact JIS Lane Stuckey, director, Office of the Secretariat, Commodity Futures Trading Commission, 2033 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20541 by Aug. 16.

All presentations will be limited to 15 minutes.

Statement

harm hit by cowman

SILVER CITY, Idaho (UPI) — A Nevada cattlemen told the 98th annual reunion of the Owyhee County Cattlemen Association Saturday that environmental impact statements on federal land could put cattlemen out of business.

Referring to recent environmental impact statements ordered by federal court for the 112 Bureau of Land Management grazing districts, John Marvel, president of the Nevada Cattlemen's Association, said he's scared.

"Under new BLS regulations could put us out of business," he said.

He said cattlemen wind up paying for new regulations on grazing policies that could wreck their business.

"We're paying very dearly in grazing fees right now," he said. "And yet, according to federal rulings, writing those statements—writing us—a physical range improvement."

"Cattlemen have to stick together," he said. "We're second-class citizens now and there's been a prostitution of public lands in excess of 50% in Washington, D.C."

"We have to get our message across to those bureaucrats east of the Mississippi and we can't do it by maintaining a long organization."

"The cattlemen passed a resolution protesting the $80,000 cost of a statement, prepared for the Challis district, saying the document has proved to be virtually worthless and adding they dislike its use as a model for other statements.

BOISE — The Idaho Potato Commission has re-elected its chairman and vice chairman for the coming year.

At a meeting in Burley, the Idaho industry's promotional body re-elected Lyle Taylor, Lewisville shipper, and Del Raybould, Rexburg grower, to their jobs for another year.

When asked what his plans were for the coming year as chairman, Taylor said — "To assist the Idaho potato industry in an orderly and profitable marketing program of the upcoming crop. Our objective, remains basically the same — it's outlined in the law that created the commission."

Taylor said advertising, field merchandising, to-fresh produce and grocery trade factors, and a national educational and public relations program are conducted with money collected from Idaho potato growers, shippers and processors. "Our programs keep potato buyers and consumers abreast of the quality and nutritional value of Idaho potatoes in fresh and the many processed forms produced in the Gem State," Taylor said.

When asked about recent statements by spokesmen for the Washington potato industry about taking the number one position away from Idaho, Taylor commented. "Those statements are largely promotional talk. We have been hearing them every year for at least 30 years, because the media pick them up and Washington gets a certain amount of publicity as a result of the claims."

Taylor said Washington's marketing strategy is one of trying to reposition Idaho in the minds of potato buyers. "A long time ago they adopted a policy of trying to go to market on Idaho's coattails, and this is just a continuation of the same effort," Taylor said. "The fact remains that Idaho potatoes are the only ones that are consistently identified as the housewife knows where they were grown. Idaho has become a brand as well as a production area, and that's an enviable position to occupy."

PROSSER, Wash. (UPI) — A Washington State University study shows that most varieties of wine grapes could survive all but the harshest Yakima Valley winters.

The study says few other areas have the winter supply, long growing season and sunny days needed for top wine grape production.

The study is based on the research of Dr. Walter Clore, who retired recently after 31 years at the WSU Prosser Research and Extension Center.

The study says promising red varieties are Cabernet Sauvignon, Early Burgandy, Limberger and Merlot. Promising rose types are Chardonnay, Gama, Beaujolais, Gamay, Pinot Meunier and Pinot noir.

Operators accused

WASHINGTON — Lynn W. Rose, Elko, Kent Whipple, Hiko, Nev., and George D. Putnam, American Falls, have been charged with selling feeder cattle on the basis of false weights and falsifying accounts and records to conceal the deception, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) said today.

The respondents were charged under the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

Rose had been charged earlier with operating as a livestock dealer while his current liabilities exceeded his current assets. That complaint was amended to include the new charges against Rose and to include Whipple and Putnam as co-respondents in the false weight charges.

Bosox nip Indians

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Rick Wise tossed a five-hitter and Carl Yastrzemski drove in a pair of runs Monday night, upping his career RBI total to 1,306 to spark the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Red Sox and Manager Don Zimmer, who prior to the game was given a contract to pilot Boston for the 1977 season.

Boston pushed across an unearned tally in the first inning and rode the lead into the seventh on a RBI single by Cecil Geiger and Yastrzemski's sacrifice fly that sent starter and loser Pat Dobson to his 10th defeat against 11 victories.

After one out in the first, Denn Doyle walked and went to third when first baseman Duane Kuiper booted Cooper's grounder and threw the ball into the Indians' dugout. Yastrzemski followed with a single that scored Doyle. Wise, making his 22nd start, which includes a pair of one-hitters, struck out four and walked two in picking up his ninth triumph against eight losses.

Alomar doubled and advanced to third on a groundout. It was Alexander's fourth near no-hitter since joining the Yankees from the Baltimore Orioles in a 10-player trade June 15.

Box score for Boston Red Sox vs Cleveland Indians. Includes batting and pitching stats for both teams.

Yanks top Tigers
NEW YORK (UPI) — Doyle Alexander pitched a perfect game until Rusty Staub's single with two out in the seventh inning and wound up with a two-hitter Monday night to lead the New York Yankees to a 1-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Area Y will install solar heat system

By CHRIS BOGAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The gas bills for the Twin Falls YM-YWCA have more than tripled in the past year with the opening of the pool.

The facility is making plans to install a solar power system to conserve both energy and dollars.

The solar power system was designed by Del Butterfield of Falls.

Butterfield's system is a special "panel system." Chuck Upton, the "Y" director said.

It consists of 38 panels of a special plastic material and is mounted on the roof of the "Y." Upton said. Each panel is four feet by eight feet.

"It's a very simple thing," according to Upton. Water from a reservoir in the "Y" is pumped through pipes up to the roof. There, the water circulates through several channels. In the panels and is heated by the sun's heat. The panels serve to focus and concentrate the heat of the sun. The heated water is then pumped back to the storage reservoir.

"The first solar power system will only be used to heat the pool," Upton said.

The system has no heat storage facilities, according to Upton, so it will have to be supplemented by natural gas heat on days when there is no sun.

"If the system is successful, the "Y" plans to expand it to heat the shower water, according to Upton.

The estimated cost for the solar power system will run between $6,000 and $7,000, Upton said.

Most of this money the "Y" hopes to raise through an Aquation.

"An aquation is like a walkathon," Upton said. "People get sensors for swimming laps in our pool."

The sponsors donate a certain amount of money for each lap person they are sponsoring swims, Upton explained. There is a limit of 200 laps in the pool.

Upton said the "Y" hopes to raise somewhere between $5,000 and $6,000 through the aquation.

The "Y's" solar power system is primarily designed for the winter months, according to Upton.

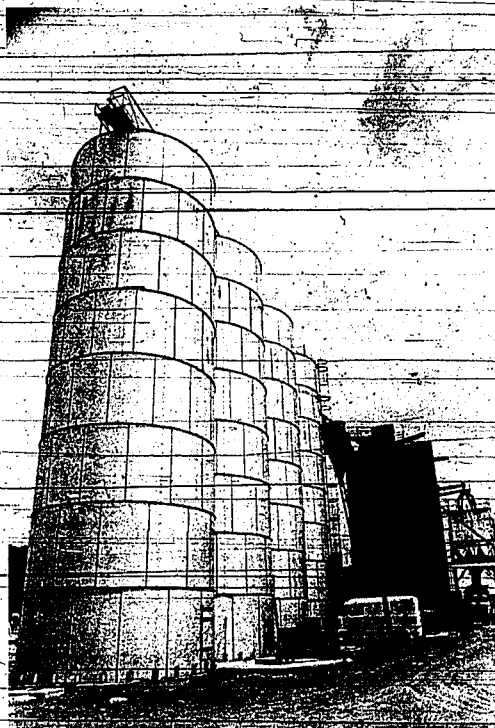

The system's panels will be set at angles to take maximum advantage of the sun's rays as they hit the earth in the months of Dec., Jan., and Feb., Upton said.

"With the sun shining on the panels, the solar power system will be able to raise the pool's 62,000 gallons of water five degrees in an eight-hour period, Upton said.

The "Y" figures if it can recoup $7,000 dollars from heating bills in a period of five years through the solar power system, the system will be worth it.

"Our gas bills have more than tripled with the opening of the pool," Upton said. "We feel this would be a very wise move to make — not only with conserving energy but with conserving our dollars."

The "Y" hopes to begin installation of the power system as soon as it has the money, according to Upton.

Storage needed
LOCAL wheat farmers must find storage space in Idaho for their 1976 crop as a result of new rules imposed by West Coast storage companies who say they will not take Idaho wheat on consignment this fall. The regulations may pose a hardship on some Idaho growers who have not yet found storage elevators for their crop.

Grain elevators will store less

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho wheat farmers may have difficulty this year when harvest time rolls around due to changes in the policies of large terminal grain elevators on the West Coast who say they will no longer store grain on consignment.

Wendell wheat farmer Joe Klimes expressed concern about the situation and what it will do to small wheat farmers who do not have their own storage.

Klimes said until this year he could harvest wheat and take it to the West Coast elevators on consignment. He could keep it there until he felt the time for selling was favorable.

Now, however, due to an unusually large wheat crop and about a 663-million-bushel carryover crop from last year's harvest, terminal grain depots on the coast say they do not have the room to store wheat.

Ferrellgas in Portland, Mr. Cartright, Cooke, Louis, Dressfus Corp., Bunge Corp. and Continental say a farmer must sell his wheat to them when he brings it in to the elevator or they cannot take it.

Robert Enloe, area manager of Continental Grain Co. in Seattle said, "In the past, the industry over here has taken grain on consignment. Most of us are not taking grain on consignment this year because we just don't have the room."

"We are not in the storage business," Enloe continued. "They will either have to send it with it or find some place else to store it."

And Klimes, although he knew about the situation far enough in advance to rent storage space for wheat, Klimes wonders what other farmers who did not know about the situation will do.

"You'd be surprised at how many men don't know how the grain is going to be accepted," Klimes said.

He wonders why farmers were not given more of a warning about the situation.

"Why didn't they bring this out in good bold print?" Klimes asked. "He said if farmers had known about the new policies ahead of time, they might have been able to provide their own storage and not have fallen to the mercy of terminal elevators."

Klimes even went so far as to suggest that large grain terminals may be trying to get control of the market by forcing farmers to sell at harvest instead of when the price is right.

"If I go in with my grain and I don't want to take the price that day," he continued, "what am I going to do?"

"I've got to take the price," he added. "I can't hold it this grain and they know it."

"There are people that are going to lose that can't afford to lose," he said.

But still the fact remains that grain acreage is up and the total crop in this country will be about one billion bushels larger than in 1972 when there was a large surplus some of which was exported to Russia, according to Ralph McEwan, administrator of the Oregon Wheat Commission.

Klimes asked where the wheat was stored in 1972 and why it couldn't be handled like it was then without changing the elevator policies.

But McEwan said that the large surplus of wheat was not stored that year, "they shipped it real quick."

"We are producing more now than in 1972," McEwan said. "It is 2 billion 700 million bushels nationwide about a billion more bushels than in 1972 with the carryover from last year."

Another factor is a decrease in export demand which may cause west coast terminals to become clogged with grain.

Harold West, Idaho wheat commission, said, "It looks right now like the market and export situation is not as active. The terminal facilities in Portland and Vancouver will be filled with early wheat. There won't be any of that terminal storage available to Idaho when we begin harvest."

McEwan cited some USDA statistics which show that expected crops will exceed storage facilities on the west coast. The USDA said Oregon has storage for 13.6 million bushels of wheat and that Washington has storage for 41 million.

Idaho's crop of wheat is expected to be 62 million bushels, Oregon is forecast to have 56 million and Washington will have about 142 million.

TV thief draws prison
TWIN FALLS — Robert R. Hammond, charged with grand larceny and assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the theft of a color television from the Purple Sage Motel, was sentenced to five years in the state prison.

He entered a plea of guilty to the assault charge and Judge James M. Cunningham, Fifth Judicial District court, dismissed the grand larceny charge.

Sentencing was continued for one week. Hammond pleaded guilty to threatening Duwayne Anderson of the motel with a .22 caliber gun on July 7.

Judge Cunningham sentenced James Perry Draper, 41, Twin Falls to 90 days in the county jail on a forgery charge. Draper faces two counts of forgery and a second was dismissed.

Charges reduced in Buhl case
TWIN FALLS — Victor Keen, 20, Buhl, has pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of voluntary manslaughter in the May 17 death of Terry Brannon, 22, at a Buhl high school graduation party.

Keen pleaded innocent to first degree murder in the baseball bat slaying of Brannon, but changed the plea to guilty on a reduced charge Friday in Fifth Judicial District Court.

Judge Theron W. Ward granted a pre-sentence investigation and withheld sentencing until after the investigation report is received.

Brannon died of head injuries following a quarrel with the defendant at a party of Buhl High School graduates. The altercation occurred May 16 and the victim died the following morning at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Highway hearing set Sept. 9
TWIN FALLS — A public hearing before the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission is scheduled September 9 in the Twin Falls Judicial Building at 9:00 p.m.

The public hearing, which was rescheduled from August 12, will discuss reordinating the Official Highway Designation Maps into County Zoning Ordinance 21 and propose the establishment of the highway setback standards for buildings on major highways.

All persons interested are invited to attend the public hearing.

Councilman files suit

TWIN FALLS — Henry Woodall, a Twin Falls city councilman, and his wife are asking $50,000 damages in a suit filed in Fifth District Court here against K-Mart.

Woodall's complaint alleges he slipped and fell in the Twin Falls store of K-Mart Enterprises of Idaho, Inc., July 22, 1976, suffering serious injuries.

The complaint charges negligence on the part of the store owners in allowing the liquid substance to remain in the aisleway of the store where customers were walking.

Woodall and his wife ask $5,000 in medical expenses; another $5,000 for future medical expenses and loss of income and $40,000 general damages.

$225,000 fund transfer made by TF city council

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council Monday night approved a short-term fund transfer of up to $225,000 to the city's sewer treatment plant.

The fund transfer, approved for up to two months, could cost the city from $300 to $500 per month in interest payments, according to City Manager Jean Milnor.

The funds will be transferred from several city funds to the city's sewers and treatment fund, depending on which transfer will cost the city the least money, Milnor said.

He said the transfer was necessary because the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) did not send the city $300,000 as scheduled. The city needs money to pay contractors bills which are due this week, he said.

EPA officials said earlier federal funding was delayed because the city was not in compliance with the federal Water Pollution Control Act.

Specifically, EPA officials complained of raw sewage which has been overflowing from a city lift station into nearby Rock Creek since May.

Despite city efforts to repair two broken pumps at the lift station, the pollution problem still exists, EPA officials said.

Federal funds will not be sent to the city until the problem is corrected, according to Milnor.

Meanwhile, EPA officials have asked the U.S. Attorney's office in Boise to investigate possibility of taking legal action against the city to force compliance.

The city could face a fine of up to $10,000 for each violation of the act, according to a spokesman for the attorney's office.

Milnor said he thinks the city will have new pumps installed and the sewage problem corrected by the end of this week. He said he hopes the EPA will release the funds within a month after that.

When asked why he called for the fund transfer, Milnor said, "I can't fight the feds when they hold up funds. We can't tie up payments to our contractors just because they (EPA officials) tie up our funds."

Milnor agreed the city was violating the act but said he felt the withholding of $300,000 was "excessive."

Only City Councilman Leon Smith voted against the transfer of city funds. He said he based his decision on an opinion of City Attorney Charles Brumback. Smith referred all questions on the opinion to Brumback. Though this funds transfer was possible by statute, Brumback said, "In general, I don't like inter-fund transfers."

In other action during the one-hour meeting, the council agreed to ask the city attorney to draw up an ordinance modifying existing ordinance on public sewers.

According to a draft of the ordinance brought before the council, "the purpose of this ordinance is to allow a direct building connection by an adjacent property owner to a publicly funded sewer."

Jury awards Bastians $334,000 damages

TWIN FALLS — Damages totaling $334,000 have been awarded Arlon and Una Bastians in connection with land condemnation at the Albertson's store at West Five Points in Twin Falls.

The verdict by a fifth district court jury ruled in favor of the Bastians, defendants in the condemnation proceedings brought by the Idaho Department of Highways (now the Highway Division, Department of Transportation).

Juries found the Bastians had been damaged $2,480 for actual value of the property taken for the widening of U.S. Highway 83 on Addison Avenue, and an additional $331,520 damages to the remaining real property they own and on which the Albertson's store is operated.

The defendants had declined to accept offers by the Department of Highways for the strip of right-of-way needed for widening the street. As a result a complaint was filed against them by the state agency.

Earlier a district court jury ruled in favor of the defendants, but granted only $144,932 in damages including $2,213 as value of actual property taken by the state, $69,719 for Albertson's, Inc. for their damages as the leaseholder, and $66,000 to Bastians as owners of the property. Albertson's accepted the verdict, but the Bastians' appealed their part of the case to the Idaho Supreme Court.

The high court returned the case to the district court for additional proceedings, after ruling in favor of the defendants.

The verdict Friday followed the additional district court proceedings in the case.

Court records show the original proceedings to obtain the land were filed by the state Oct. 29, 1973.

Several other condemnation proceedings are currently before the court in an effort to clear right-of-way for widening of U.S. Highway 83 from the West Five Points to the North Five Points intersections.

Primary balloting today in Idaho, 3 other states

By United Press International
 Voters in four states are casting ballots today in primary elections for congressional seats, gubernatorial races, and state legislative races. In Michigan, Missouri, Kansas and Idaho, those party candidates in elections spotlighted in two states by hotly contested races for Senate seats held by powerful veterans who are leaving the political arena.

In Missouri, the son of Sen. Stuart Symington is vying for the seat his father has held for 24 years. Rep.—James W.

Symington is in a tight struggle with another Democratic congressman.

Editorial writers earlier predicted that the younger Symington's initial lead by coming up with a progressive campaign that cost nearly $1 million and produced a dent in the opinion polls.

"We expected this from the beginning," Symington said Monday. "Every political expert said the great misson of money would narrow the gap. But I feel confident of winning."

Former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes is seen as a possible spoiler in the 11-member Democratic contest, where only a plurality is needed to win.

Attorney General John C. Dunfee faces only nominal GOP primary opposition for the Republican nomination for the incumbent Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond faces a major challenge for the GOP nomination.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 4, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to be articulate and express your views and opinions. Also a good day to see new places and meet with persons of different background and viewpoints from your own.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can advance via new situations that come up and will bring you closer to your goals. You are able now to get at the sources of data that have been closed to you before now.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Tap your subconscious and know what is best for you to do in important matters. A good one looks upon you with more favor.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to reach more accord with associates if you are willing to meet them halfway. Get into some civic work that brings fine results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 31) Handle routine tasks carefully, and you accomplish a good deal in a minimum of time. Come to a better understanding with associates and fellow workers. Be happy with kin in evening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take time for amusement and relaxation to relieve tensions. Avoid those who are not congenial, although little risks can be taken.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make changes at home that will bring more harmony and contentment there. Some out-of-town interest can bring you benefits you had not counted on.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Thresh out any points on which you do not agree with associates and reach a better understanding for more success in the future. Make projects more productive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Work out some plan that will help you gain the goodwill of a successful person who can be of help to you. Pay bills on time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are now able to gain some cherished wishes with ease, if you make right plans early. Avoid one who has an eye on your job, assets.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be thorough in working every angle of practical affairs so that they are successful. Try to please loved one more. Avoid a troublemaker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Research information you need for business and personal matters and then make good use of it. You have good ideas and can convince others easily now. Try not to be extravagant in any way.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle vocational and credit affairs well although you may encounter a few stumbling blocks in the path of your progress.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will understand what is going on in the world and will become an active participant. World travel indicated in this chart so give as fine an education as you can. Don't neglect sports and religious training.

HAW will tell firms how much they owe

SUN VALLEY — Idaho's Health and Welfare Department (HAW) from now on must notify private firms and individuals how much money will be needed from them to comply with state environmental restrictions.

The HAW board has decided that economic impact statements will aid industry.

The new policy will apply where there is "significant waste or pollution from the state of Idaho," according to board members.

Only the cost of pollution control equipment will be included in the economic statement. The policy gives discretion to the director of HAW to decide if regulation would be "significant."

The board also ordered R.T. French Company to correct water pollution problems at its Shelley potato processing plant.

Waste water from the plant accumulated in nearby fields in the past, creating noxious odors, according to the board. Effluent also overflowed on two occasions onto neighboring property, causing damage to wells, septic tanks and potato cellars, the board said.

Adequate dikes must be erected around the treatment fields and the company must plant grass or vegetative crops to absorb waste water, the board ordered.

The company is to provide water in adjacent fields, the board has also decided.

Bunker Hill Co. in the Kellogg area must cease emitting sulfur dioxide gas from its stacks in excess of established limits.

HAW filed charges four months ago charging the company with 198 violations of air pollution control regulations.

Excessive sulfur dioxide gas was emitted from smelter stacks, and air standards were being violated, the board ruled.

Newest republic

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad and Tobago (UPI) — Trinidad and Tobago formally renounced its allegiance to Queen Elizabeth II Sunday to become the world's newest republic.

The changeover, ending 178 years of British sovereignty, announced last week by Governor General Sir Ellis Clark, occurred at the stroke of midnight, and this two island nation in the southeastern corner of the Caribbean Sea became the Democratic Republic of Trinidad and Tobago.

Martian surface 'peeling sunburn'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Mars can be pictured as having a bad sunburn that is peeling, according to a scientist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. Robert L. Huguenin said Monday data returned from the Viking 1 lander on Mars supports the theory, developed from his laboratory studies at MIT in 1972, that iron-bearing minerals in the surface alter to ferric oxide (rust) and several other substances by interacting with ultraviolet sunlight, atmospheric oxygen, carbon dioxide and frost.

"One can visualize the surface as becoming sunburned and peeling as a result of exposure to ultraviolet light," Huguenin said.

In addition, he said, produces fine scales on rock and mineral surfaces that are easily unstirred by wind-blown dust and sand.

ENERGY FACTS IN A NUTSHELL

How many nuclear reactors?

- The U.S. currently has 60 operable reactors and a total commitment including those planned or under construction of 228 reactors.
- There are 18 countries outside of the U.S. now producing electricity with nuclear power, a total of 43 countries committed to nuclear plants.
- There are 112 operable nuclear plants outside the U.S. and a total commitment including those planned or under construction of 454 plants.

ENERGY TIP: Improper wheel alignment can increase gasoline use 0.3 miles per gallon. Correct alignment means safer driving, less tire wear, and saves up to $10 a year in gasoline.

IDAHO POWER COMPANY — A Citizen Wherever It Serves

Israeli troops block militant Jews' entry

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli troops Monday turned back a group of "right-wing" Jews, led by militant U.S. Rabbi Meir Kahane, founder of the Jewish Defense League, who were trying to form a settlement near Jericho on the occupied West Bank of Jordan.

Troops — manning an army roadblock — stopped a bus and car convoy of more than 50 would-be settlers at the West Bank town of Taylitha on the road from Jerusalem to Jericho.

Army troops also sealed off Jericho, stopping all buses, cars and taxis trying to enter and leave the West Bank town near the northern shore of the Dead Sea.

Members of the convoy included American born Kahane, founder of the militant Jewish Defense League, and Hanan Porat, leader of the nationalistic Gush Emunim Band of Believers movement.

Gush Emunim said the group had asked for permission to set up a camp near Jericho for 48 hours but the Israeli government ignored the request.

Some would-be settlers wanted to set up a "religious settlement" near Jericho. He said he planned to teach a course at the settlement.

Gush Emunim, whose right-wing members have been pressuring the government to keep the West Bank as part of a "Greater Israel," set up an unauthorized settlement last spring at Kadim near Nablus.

The divided Israeli government has criticized the Kadim settlement but has not moved against the camp, apparently because of fear of angering rightists within the ruling coalition.

The Jewish Agency, which oversees immigration to Israel, announced plans Monday to settle a half million persons in agricultural and industrial towns in the northern Galilee region, the southern Negev desert and the southern section of the Golan Strip.

A spokesman for the Jewish Agency said there was little need to settle occupied Arab lands such as Jordan's West Bank, Syria's Golan Heights, and Egypt's Sinai desert.

The West Bank, scene of violent unrest during the spring, was crippled Monday for the second day by a shopkeepers' strike to protest a new Israeli sales tax.

The 8-per-cent tax on all goods except fruit and vegetables was imposed on the West Bank Sunday, a month after consumers began paying the levy within Israel's 1967 borders.

Bridge engineer now Magic Valley citizen

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley not only has gained a new and unique bridge but it has also gained a new citizen.

Ken Upton, a native of the midwest, came to the area in September, 1973, as chief engineer for the Fortne Memorial Bridge project. He is employed by Allied Steel Co., general contractor.

During his three years, Upton says he has grown to like the area.

"Now I'm a homesteader," he laughs.

Upton has purchased a farm at Murtaugh and hopes in the future to spend his days in various parts of the United States on construction projects.

"I don't know what I will do immediately after the bridge is finished. But I am now a citizen of Twin Falls County. At least I am a landowner, and this is what I call home. I plan to return to my Murtaugh farm in the future and to live in this area," Upton said.
