

TF gets funds

SEATTLE — Brent Gilhousin, Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) attorney, said today the agency has decided to release 97 per cent of more than $300,000 impounded funds to the City of Twin Falls.

About $287,000 will be released to the city, while about $13,000 will still be withheld, he said. The EPA earlier impounded the funds for use on the city's sewage treatment plant which is almost completed, to force Twin Falls to stop pumping raw sewage into Rock Creek, according to Gilhousin.

He said for about two months, an estimated 500,000 gallons of raw waste was flowing into Rock Creek per day because of machinery failures at a sewage pumping station near the creek.

City Manager Jean Miliar announced earlier this week new pumps correcting the problem began working Friday. An EPA inspector checked the new pumps Monday and found them working satisfactorily.

Abortion foes win skirmish

(Combined news services)

KANSAS CITY — Anti-abortion forces were winners in the first round of Republican platform skirmishing with an overwhelming subcommittee vote recommending a plank endorsing efforts to win a constitutional ban on abortion.

The action took place late Tuesday by a vote of 13 to 1, when the subcommittee — accompanied by enthusiastic cheering from the audience — voted to recommend the plank to the full platform committee.

The vote was a lopsided victory for the forces favorable to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who has expressed strong opposition to abortion.

President Ford has said he would favor a Constitutional amendment if it left to the states the decision on regulating the matter.

The tally was also significant inasmuch as subcommittee chairman Charles Pickering, of Mississippi, who voted with the majority, had indicated earlier in the evening that the subcommittee was split about even with Ford and Reagan adherents.

The lone vote against the proposed plank was cast by delegate Barbara Gunderson of South Dakota.

Pickering, an attorney, was formerly identified as a Reagan-leaning delegate, but with the California's selection of Pennsylvania Sen. Richard Schweiker as a vice-presidential running mate, Pickering had openly voiced his concern and Ford forces considered him uncommitted.

The subcommittee later deadlocked 7 to 7 on endorsement of an Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) and decided to allow Delegate Silvio Conte of Massachusetts, an absent member, to break the tie.

Rep. Conte, a liberal House member who has bucked both the Ford and Nixon administrations, is considered to be favorable to ERA.

He had been appointed chairman of the subcommittee before its deliberations, but was knocked out in a surprise vote Sunday as a result of Reagan sympathizers' successful efforts at changing the rules to allow panel members to select their own leaders.

Meanwhile, hopes for a tough, but honorable settlement of Republican platform differences were further jolted today with the emergence of a conservative "manifesto," embodying 22 points that could lead to bruising floor fights.

The recommendations, many of which are considered palatable enough to be included in any platform written by followers of Ford, originated with supporters of Reagan.

today in brief

No clue yet in mystery illness

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Health officials say the results of hundreds of tests still have not provided a solid clue to the nature of the mystery illness which killed 27 persons who attended an American Legion convention in Philadelphia last month.

Scientists working in laboratories to crack "the Pennsylvania incident" are as baffled as ever.

Soviets OK 2 nuclear treaties

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government has approved two treaties with the United States setting limits on underground nuclear testing, Pravda said today.

The Communist party newspaper reported the action with no mention of speculation by U.S. nuclear experts that two Soviet nuclear tests last month may have exceeded the treaty yield limit of 150 kilotons.

Paris hotel fire claims 11 lives

PARIS (UPI) — Eleven persons died today in a fire that raged through a six-story lodging house that had no fire escape. The victims included a woman who leaped from the top floor with her infant daughter in her arms, killing them both.

Police said the unidentified woman and child plunged into the hotel's cobblestone courtyard.

Nine persons were injured, four critically.

Rightists hit Beirut refugee camp

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Right-wing forces launched another heavy assault on the Palestinian camp of Tal Zaatar today in what appeared to be a final bid to capture it after a 53-day siege.

Pushed back into a far corner of the camp with their heavy machine guns said to be critically low, the Palestinian defenders were reported to be crumbling under a heavy Christian rocket and mortar assault from three directions.

Abernathy raps Carter vagueness

BLOOMING, Miss. (UPI) — Southern Christian Leadership Conference President Ralph Abernathy says Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter is "not as specific on the issues as he ought to be."

"It may be that even though he is from Plains, Ga., and does know something about peanut farming, he does not know enough about the problems of the poor community," the long-time civil rights leader said Tuesday.

Henry in Holland for NATO talks

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UPI) — Expressing support for European unity, U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in the Netherlands today for talks on the quarrel between NATO allies Greece and Turkey over oil rights in the Aegean Sea.

In a brief plane-side statement, Kissinger, looking tanned, said he had come to Holland because the United States and The Netherlands thought "that it was important that we meet early in the presidency of The Netherlands of the European Economic Community."

Unfited push by miners needed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A United Mine Workers official said today he believes it will take "a massive move by the majority" to end a bitter strike that has set miners against miner in the nation's coalfields.

Games at TF's Harmon Park draw strong backing

Knothole baseball games involve entire families

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It's the bottom of the last inning in the Atlantic League playoff game in girls slowpitch softball.

"A's Aquarius is at bat and they trail the defending champs, the Idaho First National Bank Greenbacks. The score is 7-3 and there are two runners on base with only one out. The sun is beginning to set. The stands are full, but perfectly quiet."

The young girl at the edge of the pitcher's circle takes her windup and releases the plump, white ball. It arcs in, toward the batter. The catcher crouched behind the plate can be heard chanting, "Hey batter, hey batter, swing!"

And the batter does swing. There's a crack of the bat and the erowit which was hushed breaks into shouts and cheers.

This is Knothole softball in Twin Falls. The city has worked hard to develop and improve its recreational baseball and softball program, which Chad Browning, Twin Falls director of recreation, says was established somewhere back in the early 1950's.

This year alone more than 1,200 boys and girls played on Knothole teams.

"In Knothole softball there were six leagues with 60 teams for youngsters between the first and sixth grades.

The baseball is primarily for boys, although there were four girls who played on baseball teams this year.

In girls' Knothole slowpitch softball there are five leagues and 35 teams for girls between the fourth and ninth grades. According to Browning, more than 400 girls played this season.

Watching one of the Knothole games, one quickly comes to understand why baseball is the national sport. The fans who lounge on the grass and fill the stands around the three-Harmon Park baseball diamonds seem to enjoy themselves as much as the youngsters playing.

"In Knothole softball game at Harmon Park finds many mothers and fathers behind the backstops. They've come to watch their children play, and with the parents come younger brothers and sisters. Knothole is self-perpetuating. The whole family, become involved in one way or another — the youngest and the oldest.

TF, Gem plumbers strike

TWIN FALLS — Union plumbers in Twin Falls, Boise and Pocatello went on strike against contractors today after their contracts expired at midnight and agreement for a new contract could not be reached.

About 400 plumbers in two local unions of the United Association of Plumbers and Pipefitters, AFL-CIO, are affected by the strike. The two unions, UA Local 296 and UA Local 618, are based in Boise and Pocatello respectively.

Ronald E. Post, the executive vice president of the Idaho Mechanical Contractors, Inc., estimated the strike will affect about 200 construction projects in Idaho.

In Twin Falls construction work at Idaho Frozen Foods, the Twin Falls courthouse, Albertson's and other smaller projects.

Other construction projects affected by the strike include St. Luke's Hospital, Boise State University's new education building, the Idaho National Engineering Laboratories in Arco, a city-county administration building in Boise, and large developments in Sun Valley and Elkhorn.

The strike is over contract disputes primarily concerning wages and fringe expenses. Post said.

The Contractors and Plumbers have been negotiating since February and March of this year but have been unable to reach a contract agreement suitable to both parties. Post says the management has made five separate offers to the laborers and the laborers have made two counter proposals during the past months of negotiation.

The union plumbers contract originally expired in June. It was extended for 60 days by a court order.

Bid call set on sprinkler

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls school district is following a hurry-up course on installation of a sprinkler system for the vacated O'Leary Junior High School.

Beginning Thursday, the first legal call for bids will be made. That call will set a deadline date of Sept. 10 for bid opening.

James Smallwood, board member, said at their regular monthly meeting last night they will require all bidders to contract for a Dec. 15 deadline for completion of the exposed automatic protection system.

Bidders are being asked to deposit $50 to receive a set of specifications for the system. Architect James Smallwood, whose firm of Thompson/Kelso and Associates is designing the sprinklers, said the specifications should be completed by Aug. 26 and may be ready before that date.

"We're pushing very hard," Smallwood told the board last night. "I would say we're making darn good time."

He said the sprinkler system will be an exposed system, with pipes open beneath the present ceiling. Such an installation, he said, will mean the system can be dismantled and at least in part be used again in bringing other old schools in the district up to fire code once a new junior high school is built and O'Leary is no longer needed.

The cost of the sprinkler system has not been planned down and won't be until bids are opened, but previous estimates have run in the $150,000 range, and Smallwood said last night that figure is probably a conservative estimate.

If the sprinkler system is completed by Dec. 15, the school district will be able to end the double-shifting of O'Leary students at the High School which is scheduled to begin when school starts later this month.

The school district chose installation of the sprinkler system as the least expensive and most effective way of providing extra space for O'Leary students after the junior high was condemned as a fire hazard by the city earlier this summer.

OSHA fines light in Idaho

By DAVE HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Critics who claim the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) is a money-hungry bunch of bureaucrats bent on destroying businesses would be hard put to prove it in Idaho.

Figures provided by OSHA's state office in Boise show fines imposed on employers during the last year averaged less than $30 per violation of labor safety laws.

"In fact, the OSHA office in Boise cited for violations about 1,000. A criterion frequently serves only as a warning to correct bad working conditions.

The claim that OSHA has dozens of agents who haphazardly invade small business and assess huge fines for technical violations also falls to land water in Idaho.

"In fact, the OSHA office in Boise is understaffed, according to Richard Jackson, state director of the agency.

The staff recently was expanded to 15 people, but 11 more are needed to handle the job load in Idaho.

"I should have approximately 26 on the staff, but we have to work within the budget," Jackson said.

OSHA is responsible for enforcement of the Occupational Safety and Health Act, a federal law enacted in 1971 to guarantee good working conditions for employees.

The agency can inspect the operation of most businesses and levy penalties for violations of the safety and health regulations.

According to Jackson, and most of those involved checks of large manufacturing or construction firms.

About 600 of the inspections were part of OSHA's "general schedule," according to Jackson. The rest were performed as a result of fatal accidents on the job or complaints from employees or were follow-up actions prompted by previous inspections.

Penalties in Idaho totaled $137,321 during the last year, Jackson said. The fines were assessed for 4,785 violations — an average of $29.19 per violation.

OSHA inspectors have concentrated on firms that have a history of employee accidents. "The squeaky wheel gets the oil," Jackson said.

The odds that a "little guy" with a hamburger stand will be inspected are "quite small," he added.

'Fool's gold?'

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists sifting through "sizzling and exciting" data gathered from the Viking 1 experiments on Mars are unsure whether the abundance of oxygen and radioactive material found earlier in their samples means life or a kind of biological "fool's gold."

Project officials may have to wait weeks before any firm conclusions are reached, perhaps, until more information is gathered from Viking 2, now in Mars orbit and scheduled for a Sept. 4 landing in an area considered more favorable for finding life.

A forum of six scientists gathered at Jet Propulsion Laboratory Tuesday to review findings of Viking 1's microbiology experiments. They grappled with the question of whether their unusual findings lead to the discovery of life on Mars, a nongaseous chemical reaction, or both.

Andrus scores trustees

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus was critical Tuesday of Idaho's local school boards which have failed to institute kindergarten programs in their districts.

Andrus had planned, to tell this to the annual meeting of the Idaho School Trustees and Administrators in Star Valley last week. He was prevented from delivering his remarks, however, because bad weather made it impossible for him to attend the session.

The governor said it was hard to understand how a district such as Meridian, with its growth problems, could respond to the needs of its children and institute state-funded kindergarten, including transportation of the children — while other districts chose not to participate.

Andrus said some district sent questionnaires to school patrons regarding their desire for kindergartens. But he said the questions asked sometime were not objective.

He said they included such questions as: "Do you want bigger classes throughout the district in order to start a kindergarten program?" Or, should the overall quality of the district's education decline a little in order to start up a new and costly kindergarten program?

"Without fall these so-called unbiased polls fail to explain to the district's patrons that the money for kindergartens comes only if the district undertakes kindergartens and can be used for nothing else," Andrus said.

"Clearly, he explained to a district's patrons that the district's administration simply does not have the will to utilize an additional source of funds that would enhance the educational opportunity of that district."

Andrus said his journeys around the state have convinced him that Idaho's middle class is getting tired of hearing excuses regarding the kindergarten program.

"They see Head Start programs for the disadvantaged and they see private kindergartens for the rich, and in too many districts they see nothing for their children because of superintendents or trustees who simply do not have the will to find a way," Andrus said.

Buckley pushed as compromise candidate

© N.Y. Times Service
 NEW YORK — Sen. James L. Buckley said Tuesday he had been urged by "several" conservative Republican senators and representatives to consider becoming a compromise Presidential candidate in the event of a deadlock between President Ford and Ronald Reagan at the Republican National Convention next week.

The move, with which Sen. Buckley was cooperating, was viewed as a part of conservative Republican pressure on Reagan to accept 22 platform planks proposed by the conservatives Tuesday in Kansas City, Mo.

While the New York Conservative-Republican tacitly agreed to the idea of running, which was "streeted" enthusiastically by many of his fellow Republicans, he threw cold-water on a possible vice-presidential candidacy, even though it appeared to have more substance than the presidential suggestion.

Sen. Buckley was seeking re-election, said Iain Philip W.

Buchen, counsel to President Ford, had telephoned him on Monday and said that he was included on the President's list of vice presidential possibilities.

The senator said that he has cut short Buchen's request for financial and health data by declaring that he could do more for New York in the Senate.

"A senator from New York can do a lot more than a vice president," he added.

Would he rule out the nomination?

"I don't want it, but I don't know whether anyone can say he would absolutely refuse under any circumstances," Buckley replied.

The 53-year-old senator was more receptive to the presidential suggestion by Republicans than he had been.

"They wanted to let the waters and they urged me not to close the door and to keep an open mind," he said, adding that he would do "nothing to force or encourage" any connection with the Buckley enterprise.

"I still got to a deadlock, Jim Buckley would be a splendid alternative," said the conservative Republican, who has called on Reagan to fight for a more conservative platform.

Sen. Helms said that Buckley had sufficient stature to be a viable Presidential candidate, then added:

"He's well regarded throughout the country, and he's a fresh face. It starts off with integrity — he's a man of complete integrity. He's intelligent, and he's far and ahead better qualified than the

Abort funds lose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the third time in two months, the House has voted to bar use of federal funds to perform abortions. The proposal faces a doubtful fate in the Senate.

The House voted 223 to 150 Tuesday to place the abortion ban in a $2.6 billion appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

The bill was sent to the Senate, which earlier rejected the abortion ban. House-Senate conferees must agree on the issue. The House had insisted on the ban by votes of 299-133 and 297 to 167.

The Senate can either accept the House ban or go back to a conference and seek a compromise. That action will not come until after Congress returns Aug. 21 from its recess for the Republican National Convention.

The compromise measure is $1.4 billion over President Ford's budget request and, if passed by the Senate, faces a certain veto.

Talks on mate planned

WASHINGTON — President Ford will consult Ronald Reagan and other Republican opponents of the President's candidacy before making a final selection of a campaign running mate, authoritative White House officials said Tuesday.

The senior aide said that the consultation, meant to foster party harmony, was a central reason for Ford's refusal to designate a prospective running mate, as Reagan has done, before the Republican National Convention.

The disclosure of the President's planned overture to the Reagan forces came as one close associate of Ford identified seven Republicans as leading prospects on a list of potential ticket mates.

The seven were said to be Sens. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, Pete V. Domenici of New Mexico and Bob Dole of Kansas, Govs. Robert D. Ray of Iowa, Christopher S. Bond of Missouri and Daniel J. Evans of Washington and a former deputy attorney general, William D. Ruckelshaus.

Reaganites unveil planks

CHICAGO (Sun-Times) — Reaganites who are ready for ideological combat at the Republican national convention next week, Reagan delegates unveiled 22 platform proposals strongly at odds with several Ford administration positions.

Contrary to reports that the delegates were acting as "rebels" or "renegades," it was learned that the proposals were drafted with full advance knowledge of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan's staff.

Four top Reagan aides attended a mid-July strategy conference in Atlanta that set the groundwork for platform challenges to the Ford record on defense, the Panama Canal, Africa, China, school busing, affirmative action and gun control.

In the last month, other Reagan emissaries have negotiated platform issues in such a way as to convince Ford aides and national committee officials that the Reagan camp wanted a minimum of warfare at the convention.

It remained unclear today whether Reagan intended to throw his full weight behind his combative delegates or to use them to force President Ford to the right of potentially divisive issues. However, associates of the delegates vowed to carry their fight to the convention floor if thwarted before the platform committee.

In other pre-convention action here Tuesday the Republican National Committee's rules committee strongly endorsed a proposal designed to prevent Reagan from stealing delegates committed by state laws to Ford.

The so-called Justice Resolution was expected to come under stronger challenge by Reagan forces later this week in the convention's rules committee and again on the convention floor.

Under the resolution, 100 delegates from 10 states, including Indiana, covered by state laws will be recorded as voting for the candidate to whom they are committed even if they attempt to bolt for another candidate.

Abort foes win skirmish

(Continued from p. 1) — Conceding "there are differences among us," Mary Louise Smith told the final meeting of the Republican National Committee today those problems must be solved for the party to keep the White House.

Mrs. Smith, the GOP national chairman, did not mention the vigorous struggle between President Ford and Ronald Reagan for the presidential nomination or the possibility that Sen. James Buckley's name might be placed in nomination.

"I would ask each of you in your own way within your state delegation and within this convention — to do all that you personally can to make certain Republicans leave here a united party, ready to work and ready to win."

"There are differences among us," she said, but "if the party wants to keep control of the White House it cannot let those differences continue after Kansas City. We must keep in mind the greater role."

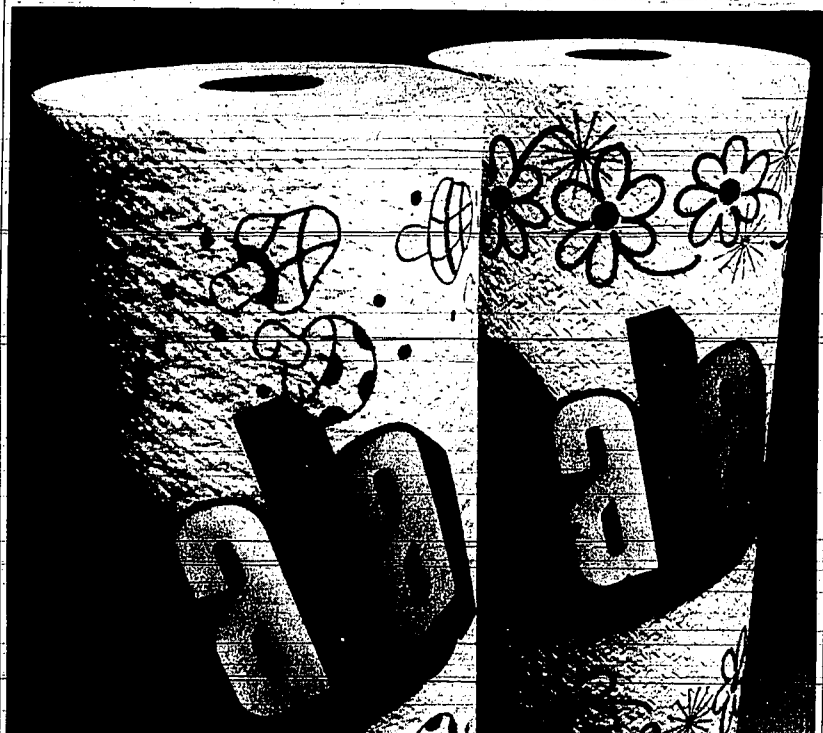

In addition to the possibility of another presidential aspirant, the party was faced with: — An all-out effort by the same group, ignoring compromise efforts of both the Ford and Reagan camps, to give the 1976 platform an ideological conservative imprimatur, including strong planks on abortion, busing, and the Panama Canal.

A storm over convention rules, with the biggest controversy over a Ford proposal to block defections by delegates sent to the convention under state laws "instructing" them to vote for a particular candidate.

The national committee, which watched the party plummet from the heights of the 1972 Nixon landslide to the depths of the Watergate scandal, goes out of existence after today's meeting. A new committee will be chosen next week and hold its first session the day after the convention closes.

Jail conditions related

Editor, Times-News:
I am writing this letter in hopes that the 'Times' newspaper will have the courage to print this letter which deals in an area where we cannot find anyone else with the gumption to repeat our feelings.

I have been incarcerated in the county jail for one hundred days and feel it is time for someone to enlighten the public as to the conditions here. Since I have been here there has not been any hot water. This not only includes bathing water but also dishwashing water.

The subject of this letter concerns is the landing of the Viking I on the planet Mars.

There have been three cases of plaria (the gum disease) break out since my arrival. Two of these people were told that they would be getting out in a few days so they could worry about it themselves. I myself have been asking to see a dentist for three weeks and still no action has been taken.

Congress passes flu measure

Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — In a sudden spurt of activity in the final hours before adjournment, Congress voted to approve emergency legislation to get President Ford's stalled swine-flu vaccination program back in motion.
A day of feverish movement in Capitol Hill saw opponents of the legislation outnumbered on three separate occasions, once in the Senate and twice in the House.
Final approval came on a voice vote in the upper chamber and on an electronic roll-call vote of 259 to 83 in the lower.

The bill then was sent to the President.
The bill would allow the government to be sued under the Federal Tort Claims Act for all problems associated with administration of the vaccine. It also would prevent plaintiffs from suing anyone else.
Where negligence of some other party to the suit — manufacturer, doctor or nurse — was proved, the government could sue that party in turn.

Administration officials said that without this arrangement it would be impossible to carry out the inoculation program that Ford says is needed to protect the public from a possible epidemic of a new strain of influenza.
The bill would prohibit drug companies from making a profit from manufacture of the vaccine. It also requires that each person vaccinated must first be given an explanation of the risks and benefits from the vaccine and sign a consent form.

The last-minute rescue of the swine-flu program provided a substantial boost to Ford's shaky prestige on the final day of congressional action before the Republican-National Convention, which begins Monday.
For this Ford had to thank the "Demby" leadership of both houses: Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (Mont.) and Whip Robert C. Byrd (W.Va.) in the Senate and Speaker Carl Albert (Okla.) and Majority Leader Thomas (Tip) O'Neill in the House.

The legislation — rammed through the Senate without a hearing and through the House without even the formality of distributing printed copies of the proposal — drastically altered the government's role in insuring drug companies against liability.
It extended from the swine-flu program to the general area of vaccines and other drugs, opponents warned, the measure could make the federal government the defendant every time a citizen suffered a bad reaction from a vaccination.

Carter outlines office reforms

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jimmy Carter, saying post-Watergate America has failed to come up with new standards for morality and justice, told the nation's lawyers today he intends "to take a new broom to Washington ... to re-establish confidence in the American system."

In a speech prepared for delivery to the American Bar Association convention, Carter proposed a series of reforms including:

- A comprehensive "sunshine law" to open governmental proceedings to the public;
- Barring officials from accepting gifts of value;
- Requiring officials to make complete disclosure of all business and financial involvements;
- Ending "sweetheart arrangements" under which regulatory agencies and the industries being regulated exchange positions;
- More thorough control of lobbying;
- Public financing of congressional campaigns;
- Universal voter registration;
- Removal of the attorney general from politics;
- Selection of all federal judges, diplomats and other major officials on "a strict basis of merit."

Carter's organization announced Tuesday that he would speak in Los Angeles Aug. 22 during a major two-or-three-day West Coast trip.

Public jobs bill zips past Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A public service jobs bill which the White House had opposed zipped through the Senate Tuesday with no organized Republican opposition.
The bill, passed by a vote of 67 to 11, would extend through September, 1977, a recessionborn public service jobs program which now employs 260,000 persons.
President Ford had proposed continuing the program at its present level only through January and then phasing it out by the end of September, 1977.

Although there were 11 individual "nay" votes, no Republican rose on the Senate floor to speak against the bill.
Several factors may have brought this about.
Administration sources said there had been no official change in the White House position but that officials were focusing Tuesday on swine flu immunization legislation and failed to notice the jobs bill.

A number of Republican Senate leaders, particularly assistant leader Robert Griffin of Michigan, who normally is on top of such matters, were in Kansas City for preliminaries of the GOP convention.
Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., floor manager of the bill, attributed the large vote and lack of opposition to constituent pressure to do something about unemployment.

Some Senate Democrats had sought to double the number of jobs in the program, and such an increase was provided for in the fiscal 1977 target budget approved by Congress in April.
The Senate bill technically authorizes doubling the program, but only if Congress in a separate action appropriates extra money to do so.

Sen. Jim Buckley, R-N.Y., said he had no objection to the bill. He said he had no objection to the bill. He said he had no objection to the bill.

'Fleece' comes home

WASHINGTON — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has turned the tables on Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., awarding him the "Golden Fleece" — a citation Proxmire invented to ridicule federal agencies that squander taxpayers' money.

Goldwater says Proxmire deserves the "Golden Fleece of all Golden Fleeces" as the result of a Senate decision to pay Proxmire's legal expenses arising from a libel suit against him.

Proxmire was hit with the libel suit after he awarded the Golden Fleece to the National Science Foundation, which had given $500,000 in grants to Dr. Ronald R. Hutchinson of Michigan State Mental Hospital to study why monkeys clench their teeth.

Hutchinson is asking for $6 million in damages because Proxmire said he had "made a fortune from his monkeys and in the process made a monkey out of the American taxpayer."

On Monday, the Senate voted 56 to 20 to pay the costs of defending Proxmire, a step Goldwater calls "arrogant and presumptuous," and therefore worthy of a Golden Fleece.

Proxmire didn't like receiving the Golden Fleece any more than Dr. Hutchinson did.

Environmentalists score

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House victory behind them, environmentalists seeking to protect the ancient New River in Appalachia from a hydroelectric dam project must wait until after the Republican National Convention for Senate action.
But the Senate has scheduled swift floor action when its returns, with the New River legislation expected up for a vote before Labor Day.

The river, flowing through North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia, is regarded by geologists as the oldest in the Western Hemisphere and the second oldest in the world, having escaped advancing glaciers of the Pleistocene era.

The House voted 311 to 107 Tuesday to revoke portions of a Federal Power Commission license for a dam on the river which would inundate a 26-mile segment of the river in North Carolina which has been declared part of the Wild and Scenic River System.

Belle fizzles to drizzle

By United Press International
Hurricane Belle lived less than four hours after it hit land, but it was long enough to raise havoc in New York and over a wide area of New England before it fizzled to a drizzle.

The season's first hurricane landed on Long Island with 90-mile-an-hour winds early Tuesday. The storm killed four persons — one on Long Island, two in Vermont and one in Connecticut — before breaking up in New England.

Thunderstorms that buffeted portions of Minnesota Tuesday night were more fearsome than the remains of Belle.

Eisewhere, potent thunderstorms battered the upper Midwest and a record August could snap sent a shiver through Dixie.

Belle brushed New York City, swept over western Long Island and into Connecticut, knocking out power to nearly a half million homes and businesses. Its dying gasps of torrential rains brought some of the worst flooding in 30 years in Vermont.

Vermont Gov. Thomas Salmon alerted the National Guard and said he may ask President Ford to declare southern Vermont a disaster area.

Weathermen said Tuesday the reason Belle lost its punch

IRS probes not harmed

WASHINGTON Star
WASHINGTON — Action the Internal Revenue Service took against a Teamsters' union pension fund has not impaired other federal investigations, Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald C. Alexander says.
Alexander's assertion at an interview Monday was an oblique defense of the controversial manner in which IRS withdrew the tax exemption of the Teamsters' Central States Pension Fund on June 25.

The Labor and Justice Departments, which are conducting a joint investigation of the fund under new federal pension legislation, received no advance notice.

Point probe asked

WEST POINT N.Y. — A board of high-ranking officers at the United States Military Academy here moved unexpectedly Tuesday somewhat in the manner of a grand jury, to recommend a major investigation of "widespread cheating."

The move surprised Army lawyers, who had not expected any of the officially distanced panels of officers, formed to hear cadet appeals, to support repeated calls by cadets and lawyers for an official inquiry into the cheating scandal.

Nearly 200 members of last year's junior class have been implicated so far in unauthorized collaboration on a take-home test last March. Cadets, lawyers and instructors have testified that more than 400 cadets probably were involved.

The five-man board of officers forwarded its recommendations for an investigation with two routine guilty verdicts to the superintendent, Lieut. Gen. Sidney B. Berry. He was asked to establish a committee "to determine the root causes of widespread cheating and toleration of cheating."

Attorney confident of new Harris trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Four alternates to be questioned about allegations of bias.

Their testimony confirmed earlier reports that a prospective juror had constructed a miniature gallows out of a pencil, eraser and paper clip during selection proceedings, and indicated three of the jurors had seen it.

But Brandler determined the incident had no impact on them.

Weinglass later said the jurors' "instinctive" feelings were not influenced by the incident was further proof of "innocence" in the case. He said he plans to appeal the convictions on several grounds, including charges of misconduct by the jurors, sheriff's deputies and Brandler.

Weinglass moved for a mistrial because of juror prejudice.

The trial of the Harrises, charged with Patricia Hearst on 11 felony counts involving a two-day crime spree in the spring of 1974, ended Tuesday with an unusual post-verdict court session to consider allegations of improper activity by jurors.

The jury found the defendants guilty of kidnapping, armed robbery and "with intent" charges Monday, and innocent on six charges of assault.

Miss Hearst's trial on the same 11 charges in January.

The 12 jurors who returned the verdicts after nine days of deliberation were brought back to the court along with

NEW YORK (UPI) — "We expect the very best from you. You look great. I know you'll be great."

The former student of Martha Graham then went before the audience.

"This marriage of the music of Duke Ellington and the dance of the Alvin Ailey company celebrates what America cherishes most: those who reach for the stars in music, in dance and in life," she said. "I am delighted to be part of this program."

Ailey was not present for the performance, which he choreographed over a period of three years. He is recovering from an emergency appendectomy.

Wearing a pink Albert Einstein Manhattan-style gown, she danced with ballerina Judith Jamison, and received generous applause from the group, press and dignitaries.

"Isn't it satisfaction enough to dance?" Mrs. Ford asked.

Arts Council appointees

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey announced Tuesday the selection of former actress Kitty Carlisle Hart to replace Joan Davidson as chairman of the state council on the Arts.

Ms. Hart, widow of playwright Moss Hart, acted in musical comedies and movies and was a panelist on the television show "To Tell the Truth" for several years. She has served as a member of the Council on the Arts for five years.

Among those named or reappointed were composer Peter Duchin, actress Geraldine Fitzgerald, former New York county affairs commissioner Bess Myerson and author Kurt Vonnegut Jr.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Country music singer Tammy Wynette, hospitalized for the fourth time in three months, is recuperating from lengthy abdominal surgery.

The singer, recently married for the fourth time, complained of severe stomach pains Thursday. Surgeons operated for two hours Friday and removed her gall bladder.

"At this time we are uncertain how long Tammy will be recuperating," said John Lantz, live-in lawyer and manager. Normal hospital stay for such surgery is about two weeks.

Graham crusade

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he will open his latest evangelistic crusade Friday night with a political sermon "Born Again Christians."

Noting the religious leanings of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter and the two Republican contenders, President Ford and Ronald Reagan, Graham said he will not make any personal judgment until election day.

Asked at a news conference which city he thinks most needs a crusade, Graham replied, "Washington, D.C."

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — Charles Edward Allaway, charged with killing three persons at a university shooting spree last month, was arraigned Tuesday on seven counts of murder and four of assault.

He remained in custody without bond pending another hearing August 21 to enter a plea.

Allaway is accused of shooting down the victims in the library on the Fullerton campus at California State University because he was upset over a pending divorce.

Book on Asian Americans termed 'racist' and 'elitist'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A study by the Asian American Children's Book Project shows, with few exceptions, books about Asian Americans studied over a 10-year period are "racist, sexist and elitist."

"The major conclusion was that with only one or two exceptions, the books are racist, sexist and elitist and that the image of Asian Americans they present is grossly misleading," the group said.

The one-year study, released Tuesday, was sponsored by the Council on Interracial Books for Children, Inc.

The books examined were published from 1945 to 1975, and included one or more Asian American characters.

"A succinct definition of the image presented in the books would be: Asian Americans are foreigners who all look alike and choose to live together in quaint communities in the midst of large cities and cling to 'outworn' alien customs."

The report also criticized what it said was the books' failure to depict Asian American culture as distinct from Asian culture or the culture of white America.

Jean Bond, a spokeswoman for the Council, said the report was designed as a "guide" for librarians, teachers, parents and writers. "We are trying to raise people's consciousness about the matter," she said. "It is not in anyway an attempt at censorship."

The report said the books are "biased" because "they misrepresent Asian American cultures, emphasizing exotic festivals, ancient superstitions and costumes and, by contrast, boost the American Way of Life.

Among the children's books getting bad reviews: "The Cable Car and the Dragon" — a fantasy about Charlie, a bored and exploited cab car who jumps his tracks one day to see Chinatown, meets Chin Chin Chow, the Chinese New Year dragon, and takes him for a joy ride. "So Ling Finds a Way" — a little girl's efforts to save her grandfather's laundry business.

New York cab driver runs over two firemen

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City cab drivers argue their temperamental reputations are unjust, but stories like this one won't change many minds.

Police say "cabbie" Eduardo Guerra, 38, of Manhattan, enraged because a firetruck blocked traffic while pulling into a firehouse, ran over two firemen directing the vehicle.

Police said Guerra stopped a police van after the incident Tuesday and turned himself in.

Fire Capt. Joseph O'Neil of Engine Co. 16 said Guerra became angry when his cab was stopped by Firemen John DiNoia, Jr. and Joseph Mulroe, 35, who were directing their truck back into the firehouse — after returning from a false alarm.

"I heard him say 'you're not policemen, you're firemen,' and then hit them. It was deliberate," O'Neil charged.

O'Neil said the fire engine chased the taxi, which "sustained a passenger, but lost it in traffic."

Buhl High School project complete by month's end

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

Buhl — The Buhl High School auditorium remodeling project is nearing completion and should be ready for use by Aug. 30. Dan Mabe, told the board of trustees Monday.

He said a teachers meeting is scheduled in the auditorium for Aug. 23 at 9 a.m. Mabe said the new seats have been installed and accepted and carpeting is nearly finished. Some work is yet to be completed on electrical wiring display cases, doors and the control system. He said stage draperies are expected to arrive soon and will be installed as soon as possible.

Board members authorized the superintendent to proceed with an agreement for sandblasting the front of the high school and the Seventh Street side at a cost of $251,000. George Atkins, board chairman, reported there has been little progress with the teacher negotiations and the court is apparently still of the same opinion that the board has the authority to send out and receive contracts. He said there is some question about what period the current negotiations are to cover in view of signed contracts.

A call for bids for transportation insurance and another for milk for the hot lunch program draw no response. John Barker of Barker Insurance Agency, Buhl, met with the board to explain his company's position. Board members authorized the school superintendent to negotiate with Barker for coverage.

Hen fruit stolen, thrown

BURLEY — An egg farm south of here is missing some of its products, while a Burley farmer received unwanted attention.

The Cassia County Sheriff's Department received a report that 90-100 dozen eggs were stolen Sunday night by thieves who broke into a cooler at the farm and ran one-half mile south of Burley.

Burley police arrested two teenagers shortly before 1 a.m. Monday on charges of malicious injury to property in the Dennis Circle area. They were released to their parents. The 14- and 16-year-old boys were charged in connection with throwing eggs at a parked car.

He told the board the nation wide trend to curtail the event of any accident by causing insurance companies to shun school bus coverage, especially in cases such as Buhl School District where the district does not own the buses.

Barker said his company did not submit a bid because the only coverage he could obtain reflected about a 30 per cent increase over last year's bid which was not the lowest bid at that time.

Last year the Buhl district paid about $1,243 for the coverage and Barker Agency bid $1,402.

"This year," he said, "it looks like if we gave a figure at all, it would be in the neighborhood of about $2,100."

Barker said the insurance companies are looking at the coverage situation where school bus accidents are involved and are not able to consider the safety records of an individual school district such as Buhl.

In other business the board approved recommendations of the superintendent for filling of six teacher vacancies accepted the resignation of a teacher whose husband has been transferred from the community, discussed janitorial salaries for the coming year and hears a report to Title Nine programs from High School Principal Dale Thornberry.

Paul teenager remains 'poor'

POCATELLO — A Paul teenager remained in "poor" condition Tuesday morning at St. Anthony's Hospital here, five days after he underwent surgery for head injuries received in a motorcycle accident.

Kevin Kadel, 13, is in the intensive care unit. He was injured last Thursday west of Paul when a rope he was carrying tangled in the rear wheel of the cycle on which he was riding and tightened on his neck, flipping the machine.

Burley grants authority for new telephone office

By SHANE O'NEILL

BURLEY — A building permit on part of a $2-million project to install all-electronic telephone service to the Burley area has been given formal approval by the city.

A $16,000 permit was reported to the Council involving work for Mountain Bell Telephone Co.

Jerry Vegwert, manager of Mountain Bell in Burley, said the total project of $12 million will create an all-electronic central office.

Forms now are being constructed in an excavation that encloses half the company's lot at the intersection of 10th Street and Oakley Avenue. The forms are for pouring a solid concrete vault to house underground cables into the 64 by 64-foot central office building.

Vegwert said the all-electronic office should be completed by August, 1977. He said all circuits between Burley and Rupert's Project Mutual Telephone Cooperative Association will have to be modified to meet current standards.

Project Mutual and Mountain Bell are cooperating program that allows direct dialing between the Burley system including Heyburn and Declo and that of the cooperative in Mindokko County.

Vegwert said the new office, which will have no moving parts, will provide such services as touch-tone dialing, automatic number identification on long distance calls and a call transfer service (at additional cost), to allow incoming calls to be automatically transferred to another number.

Other services, such as holding incoming calls when all phones are tied up, may be made available later, Vegwert said.

Vegwert said the new Burley office will be the second all-electronic system installed by Mountain Bell in Idaho. The office at Meridian is already in operation.

The local manager added the new system should improve service to all outlying areas surrounding Burley.

Girl Scout volunteers needed in Twin Falls area

TWIN FALLS — Volunteers to assist with the Girl Scout troops, council members say there is also a need here for both men and women who are interested in program planning, training and consultant or organizing posts.

Anyone interested in working with young people on a volunteer basis is asked to contact Pat Labrum, neighborhood chairman in Twin Falls, at Cheryl Swan of the Girl Scout Service Center, 454 N. Garfield, Pocatello. Mrs. Labrum resides at 1402 Seventh Ave. E., and may be telephoned at 734-5369.

Twin Falls County is part of the Silver Sage Girl Scout Council with headquarters in Pocatello.

Mimi Jones, district public relations chairman, said the council is anxious to obtain a number of volunteers before school starts. She said a number of Twin Falls schools work in the program in general than with the Girl Scout troops, council members say there is also a need here for both men and women who are interested in program planning, training and consultant or organizing posts.

Twin Falls County is part of the Silver Sage Girl Scout Council with headquarters in Pocatello.

Mimi Jones, district public relations chairman, said the council is anxious to obtain a number of volunteers before school starts. She said a number of Twin Falls schools do not have any Girl Scout troops or Brownie organizations due to the lack of adult leadership.

She said the Girl Scouts will train adults to be leaders and those newly trained will assist other adult leaders in all phases of the program before becoming full-fledged leaders themselves.

Leadership training courses are available to teach the volunteer such things as where and how to obtain help for her troop, introduction to the Girl Scout program, troop management, program standards, finance and long and short term calendar planning.

Mrs. Jones said there is a special invitation open to those who have been Girl Scouts in their own early years and who have an interest in guiding and assisting young women and at the same time enjoying a rewarding experience.

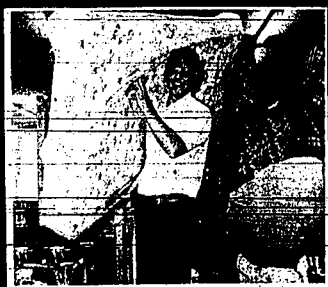

Murtaugh selects teachers

MURTAUGH — School board members of the Murtaugh district filled the final two vacancies in the system Monday night.

The board approved recommendations of Supt. Florin Hulise for the selection of Russell Delay Graham, Nampa, as English teacher in the high school. They also approved Patty Olsen as high school home economics teacher. She taught last year in the Lendora High School in north-central Idaho.

Hulise announced classes begin at Murtaugh Aug. 23 with half-day classes. Children in kindergarten and first grade classes will register Aug. 23 along with the other students.

Full day schedules will begin for all students in Murtaugh on Aug. 24. Teachers will meet at 9 a.m. Aug. 21 to prepare for the opening of school.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune. All Rights Reserved.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male who needs your help with an embarrassing problem. It's my behind. It is enormous! I'm 5 foot 8 and weigh 180. I work out three times a week at a health club and am in pretty good shape except for the aforementioned. I've tried every conceivable exercise and diet I've come across, but I can't seem to lose any of the fat back there. It's just plain fat, Abby, and no amount of exercise can firm it up. Someone told me that it can be removed by surgery. Is that so? I don't care if the operation is painful and leaves a scar. Anything would be better than hauling around this outsize cadavre all my life. I'm not exaggerating; I look practically deformed. It's so bad I hate to go to the beach. If this kind of operation can be done, who would do it?
A YARD OF LARD

Embarrassing problem

DEAR ABBY: I live in an apartment building. Directly above me lives a woman and her 11-year-old son. He takes piano lessons and hates to practice, so her idea of the ideal punishment is to make him practice "extra-time."

Lately he has been punished a lot, but I am being punished more. I have been hearing "The Blue Danube Waltz" in my sleep! The mother is a music lover, and she's decided that her son is going to learn-to-love-music-in-five-hits-or-it's-free!

Please print this. I know my neighbor reads your column, because every time it shows smokers she cuts out the article and sticks it in my mailbox. (I smoke.) Thanks a million.

HIGHLAND PARK HEADACHE

DEAR HEADACHE: If your neighbor wants her son to hate music, she's going about it in exactly the right way. Now, stick this in HER mailbox, and let's talk!

DEAR ABBY: Sunday evening at 8:45, my wife and I received a phone call from a couple who have been very dear friends of ours for many years. They asked us to please come right over for dinner because at the last minute, the couple whom they had invited couldn't make it.

Our friends live about an hour's drive from us. We weren't dressed and we all set for a quiet evening at home. Also, we needed a babysitter and had made no plans for one.

My wife thought there was nothing wrong with their invitation, but I was amazed at their chutzpah. Please understand that we have been their dinner guests many times, and I wasn't put out because we hadn't been invited initially. But to be called so late because, as they put it, "we have all this delicious food, which you would just love," was not a good enough reason for us to rush over there. We thanked them and declined.

How would you have responded to such an invitation?
ENCINO

DEAR ENCINO: The same way you did.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

CSI to offer class on English classics

TWIN FALLS — The Continuing Education Department of Idaho State University, Pocatello, is offering a course entitled "Great Books" at the College of Southern Idaho, beginning Sept. 9.

The three-credit course, English 511, will be taught by Delores Dudley, Twin Falls, from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Thursdays. She said the class is designed to familiarize students with classics. She said these books can be re-read with added understanding and enjoyment.

The class will examine the philosophical problems facing man when making decisions or facing defeat. Some of the works will be "Crime and Punishment," "Madame Bovary," "Tom Jones," "Sister Carrie" and "Asher Lev." In addition, students will read "The Last Unicorn" by Peter Beagle and two pieces of philosophical prose fiction. Philosophical information may be obtained from either Mrs. Dudley or Marvis Glasscock at CSI.

South played out the grand slam slowly, but most unsuccessfully. He drew trumps first and after that started had to fall back on the heart finesse. It failed as did South's tempo.

"Couldn't you have checked for kips and settled for six?" asked his partner. "Isn't game, rubber and a small slam enough for you?"

"Not when there is a lay-down grand slam," replied North. "If you had opened one diamond as you should have, I would have played and made the grand slam."

North was right. South can make the hand on a dummy reveal that succeeds as long as clubs don't break 6-0 or 7-0. South wins the ace and king of clubs, ruffs a club, enters dummy with a heart or diamond, ruffs dummy's first club with his ace of trumps, leads his last trump to dummy, cashes dummy's last two trumps while discarding two hearts and winds up with six trump tricks, one heart, four diamonds, two clubs and all the marbles.

your health

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Please print this letter. By doing so you might actually save some lives.

First, I've got to express the following thought which many people feel the same about. It is disgusting how many old people are smoking! Even on the street! That is ugly and bad enough but they - male and female - not only harm themselves but they cheap and smelly. They look like haggard old witches. The habit is also very expensive. Please, some strong words from you.

DEAR READER: A family has the right to see the standards for their own home. Not everyone who smokes is as bad-off as you describe your aunt but it is frequently a rather antisocial habit. It does aggravate non-smokers and also cause trouble in many cases, as my aunt did.

She is past 60 and nearly caused a tragedy. She smokes like a dragon. She also has so many wrinkles, coughs all the time and has a gravel-voice. Ugh! She fell asleep with a cigarette in her hand while visiting us. My husband, our children and I were watching TV downstairs. She was watching her favorite program upstairs.

Suddenly we heard a piercing scream. We rushed upstairs and she was pouring a glass of water on the beautiful new (never slept in yet) expensive bed to try to put out the small but spreading flame on the bedspread. We called the fire department because we couldn't control it. We got her out and were so glad she was not burned at all. She never apologized nor offered to pay for that damage. I hated to do it but I finally told her she would never be welcome again unless she stopped smoking. We never heard from her again.

A friend of ours had a real tragedy caused by a careless smoker. Five people burned to death. A house was completely destroyed. From a health and cosmetic view, why can't smokers realize the hazards of smoking? Women especially look hard, ugly.

4-H Club meets

FILED - The Six-to-One 4-H Club met Monday night at the home of Lori and Kelly Kohstopp. The meeting was conducted by Scott Moss, president of the group.

John Winkle, leader, showed the group how to handle a sheep. Lori gave a demonstration on mutton, and Kelly told the group why she is a 4-H member.

The next meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Jeff and Wendy Geist, Twin Falls.

Brushing up

TWIN FALLS students Todd Kuiken and Jeff Burdick, from left, brush up on their debate technique this summer at a two-week special institute sponsored by Boise State University. The 60 debaters from 22 high schools in Idaho, Nevada and Montana will end their stay at BSU with a tournament Friday.

Local photographer awarded high honor

Photographs by John M. Sinclair, owner of Sinclair Shutter, 637 Fremont St., Rupert, were accepted for inclusion in the general exhibit of the Professional Photographers of America, Inc. (P.P.A.). Fewer than 20 percent of the 4,652 photographs entered in the competition achieved this honor.

A specially qualified jury of selection rated the photograph on the basis of its total overall professional presentation.

The photographs, "Together" and "Pampered," were first displayed at the 85th International Exposition of Professional Photography and 24th National Industrial Photographic Conference, July 31 to August 3, 1976, Shearaton-Park-Hotel.

Washington, D.C., as a representation of the best of professional photography for 1976.

The P.P.A. is an organization of some 18,000 members striving to maintain highest professional standards. National headquarters is located in Des Plaines, Ill.

Clements, Haynes to wed in January

MISS CLEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Reed Clements, Lewiston, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth to Gregory P. Haynes.

Jerry Haynes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Haynes, former Twin Falls residents who now live in Farmington, N.M.

Miss Clements is a senior in dental hygiene at Idaho State University (ISI), Pocatello.

Haynes, a 1971 graduate of Twin Falls High School, attended the College of Southern Idaho and ISI. He is employed as an assistant manager of an auto parts store in Pocatello. The couple plans a Jan. 8 wedding.

Company van pools replacing car pools

N.Y. Times Service SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N.J. Van pool, son of car pool, is packing them in here at the Prudential Insurance Co. and a growing list of other locations around the country.

Each weekday morning, about 500 Prudential employees are picked up at or near their homes by 56 shiny blue 12-passenger vans owned by the company and driven by volunteers. At the end of the day, the vans carry them home again. The drivers travel free, and the other riders split expenses to repay the company for its nonprofit venture.

"It's the best thing they ever did," said Mildred Bohlander of the cost services department as she cut across the parking lot the other day to where the vans were clustered.

"I could just kiss the driver," she confided.

Second-generation offshoot of the car pool, which employs private autos, the company-sponsored van pool with its minibuses is fast emerging as one of the most promising of the ridesharing commutation programs designed to cut fuel consumption, pollution and traffic congestion.

With 43 coopers coast to coast now operating 390 commuter vans, the approach has won rave reviews. But bus companies have condemned what they call the vans' unfair competition, and executives have acknowledged that group-riding puts restrictions on employee overtime and other scheduling.

At the same time, some other unusual commutation experiments are under way.

In Hartford, the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company has been paying employees $1 a day not to drive to work - they are eligible if they come in by car pool, bus, bicycle, foot or any means other than behind the wheel. It has cost the company about $500,000 so far.

Throughout Connecticut, the State Transportation Department has been collecting employee rosters from business and matching the names by computer for car poolrides.

And in Knoxville, the transportation center of the University of Tennessee has received a $1 million Federal grant to set up a commuter-travel "brokerage" service. It will figure out the best way for you to get to and from work.

In the van pool universe, Prudential is only No. 2 - the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company of Minneapolis-St. Paul, which pioneered the concept in April 1973, remains in the vanguard with 92 vehicles transporting 1,000 employees daily.

September wedding for Miss Mogensen

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Mogensen, Jerome, announce the engagement, and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Dawn, to Ladd Hollibaugh Jr.

Hollibaugh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ladd Hollibaugh Sr., Twin Falls.

Miss Mogensen is a 1975 graduate of Jerome High School and is presently employed by Wills Construction, Inc., Twin Falls.

The couple plans a Sept. 17 wedding at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Twin Falls.

News of Servicemen

TWIN FALLS — Army Capt. Larry S. Maupin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Maupin, Twin Falls, recently completed Part II of a staff/officer course at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

The course command and general staff functions is divided into resident and nonresident studies.

Capt. Maupin received his commission through a Reserve Officers' Training Corps program and served in Vietnam.

He has two awards of the Bronze Star Medal, an Army Commendation Medal, and four awards of the Air Medal. He is regularly assigned to the Reserve Officers' Training Corps Detachment at the University of North Dakota.

A 1971 graduate of Twin Falls High School, the captain received a B.S. degree in 1967 from the University of Idaho at Moscow and attended the University of Texas Graduate School at San Antonio. His wife, Kathleen, lives in Grand Forks, N.D.

BUHL — Airman Marvin V. Clifford, son of Mrs. Beatrice W. Clifford of Buhl, has been selected for technical training at Sheppard AFB, Tex., in the Air Force aircraft maintenance field.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Airman Clifford attended Roy (Uiah) High School.

HEYBURN — Airman Jeffrey P. Greenwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hoss L. Greenwell of Heyburn, has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

Airman Greenwell will now receive specialized training in the aircraft equipment maintenance field.

The airman attended Minnie High School, Rupert.

HALLEY — Cadet Mark D. Thomas, son of Mrs. Sally J. Horn, Halley, recently completed six weeks of training in fundamental military skills at the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps basic camp at Ft. Knox, Ky.

The basic camp is designed to give junior college graduates and college sophomores who have not taken ROTC courses the chance to enter the program.

The camp also qualifies high school graduates for the ROTC program at any one of the nation's six military junior colleges.

During the encampment, cadets received training in basic rifle marksmanship, military drill and ceremonies, communications and individual and small unit tactics.

Cadet Thomas, a student at New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell, N.M., is one of more than 48,000 cadets from colleges and universities across the nation enrolled in Army ROTC training.

He is a 1976 graduate of Wood River High School, Halley.

GOODING — Steven Retherford, son of Mr. Max E. Retherford, Gooding, enlisted in the U.S. Air Force's delayed enlistment program.

Retherford, a graduate of Gooding High School, is scheduled for enlistment in the regular Air Force on Oct. 5.

Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week basic training course, he will receive technical training in the job of administrative specialist.

KING HILL — First Lt. and Mrs. Lynn Davis of Fort Greeley, Alaska, have been visiting the King Hill home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Watson, Mrs. Davis' parents.

Lt. Davis is on a 30-day leave from the U.S. Army. He has been in service for about 10 years, including four years in the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

RUPERT — Cadet William B. Hedrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.F. Hedrick, Rupert, is receiving practical work in military leadership at the Army Reserve Officer's Training Corps, advanced camp at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Cadet Hedrick, a student at Washington State University, Pullman, is one of more than 48,000 cadets from colleges and universities across the nation enrolled in ROTC training. He is a 1973 graduate of Mindoka County High School.

Alcoholic families

BAR HARBOR, Maine (UPI) — Children of alcoholic parents seem more likely to develop a drinking problem than those with a family history of alcoholism, a geneticist says.

"There are alcoholic families in whom there are presumably genetic dispositions to alcohol at work and other groups in which there are apparent genetic predispositions against alcoholism," Dr. Gilbert S. Omenz, Jr. said Monday.

Omenz, from the University of Washington, said social and environmental factors are also important but do not by themselves account for the increased amount of alcoholism.

Omenz said many studies bear out the contention of a genetic predisposition toward alcoholism but the particular genes have not been discovered.

"He said the people with a family history of alcoholism would be well advised to abstain from drinking and to discourage their children from alcohol abuse."

Research also indicates he said, that some genetic traits work against alcoholism. He said Dr. Peter Wolf of Boston Children's Hospital found 12 of 20 Chinese American babies he tested flushed visibly when fed a small amount of ethanol.

Workers switching from white to blue collars

CHICAGO — Increasing numbers of persons are giving up white-collar jobs and training to pursue blue-collar work.

Why are they switching from desk jobs to manual labor? They do it for any number of reasons, according to Victor R. Lindquist, associate dean and director of placement for Northwestern University.

Lindquist says there is an unusual phenomenon occurring in America that is causing some disruption of the traditional mores of society.

"It's been part of our heritage to work hard, study hard and be rewarded," said Lindquist. "Now if you work hard and don't study, you get better paychecks."

Lindquist said bus drivers in Chicago earn more money than beginning teachers. He also pointed out that it takes five years of college to train a teacher, but only days to train a bus driver.

"What does that do to an individual?" asked Lindquist.

Lindquist says some people throw in the towel because of the pressures of their white-collar jobs or because they want to have more time with their families or for themselves.

However, more money, relief from pressure and more time aren't always the result. Some college-educated men and women who are glad they switched to manual labor have experienced opposite results.

We talked to five people about their blue-collar jobs. Here's what they had to say:

Burton Richardson, age 31, would be a physicist for a large corporation today if he hadn't switched to wood turning. He started carving wood as a youngster.

"When I was in graduate school at Stanford University, I worked as a physicist," said Richardson. "While I was doing research, it occurred to me that I could not be happy as a physicist."

Richardson says he decided to trade his desk for a lathe and chisel. For the last 3 1/2 years he has been transforming hardwood such as teak, Indian rosewood or African and Stames paduk into wine goblets, bowls and toy airplanes which he sells at art fairs.

"I'm self-taught," said Richardson. "The kind of wood-working I do is something you cannot learn because there is no one out there to teach you." He taught himself with the aid of a book.

Richardson says he has less time and money now than he did as a physicist. He works longer, too. He's spent as much as 16 hours a day, six or seven days a week, at the workshop.

"There is no question that I'm happier," said Richardson. "I'm not making any money at this, but every month I learn how to make something new and better. It's gotten to be purely an ego thing with me."

What prompted 41-year-old George Davis to give up teaching industrial arts to drive a Greyhound bus in a 300-mile radius from Chicago?

Besides enjoying long drives, bus-driver pay looked appealing to him. He likes the pace better, too.

"The basic difference between teaching and bus driving is when you park your bus, you're through for the day," said Davis. "I'm happier now. It's important to me that I don't have to worry tomorrow about something I had to deal with today."

Davis hasn't given up teaching completely. On his days off, he fills in as a substitute teacher.

Couture creations displayed in Paris

PARIS — In case you're wondering where anybody wears all those Paris couture creations, one place is the city of their origin, especially during the time when the new collections are being shown. There's the need to change at least twice daily, for the daytime showings and the evening parties. Out of a sense of common decency, some women, of course, change more often than that, so they can match their couture label to the salon in which they are sitting. They even do so in the way as three times a day.

The experience is heady enough for droves of Americans, such as Deeda Blair of Washington, D.C., Lynn Wyatt of Houston and Peter Lander, the New York cosmetics queen, to interrupt their Riviera vacations for a week in Paris. Pat Kennedy Lawford left a yacht in the Mediterranean to make the showing of Jean-Louis Scherrer, her favorite designer.

Most of the Americans make sure they catch the Dior and Givenchy shows. Simone LeVitt was displeased that she had to wear a Givenchy suit to Dior, and went about remedying the situation. She has a lot of Givenchys, however.

For the French women who turned up in mannish-tailored pants, suits, Yves Saint Laurent's show-glorifying peasant power, a major revelation of their wardrobe was in order.

They said that by the next show in January, they would be wearing droll skirts and peasant blouses.

"And where is your big taffeta skirt?" Marc Bohan, Dior's designer, asked a guest at a dinner party the night of the Saint Laurent show.

The guest, who had arrived in instantly-passed clinging silk Jersey, said, "Wait until next year."

"It's very pretty. He does that sort of thing very well," Bohan said of the Saint Laurent look. "He should have stayed at Dior."

Bohan was Yves Saint Laurent's successor when the latter left to start his own house.

The big problem at the showings was keeping cool. Even though the Paris heat wave broke a week ago, several hundred people packed together in a crowded salon was too much for taken air conditioning systems. Dior passed out bequeathed red fans to the audience. A few women tried to cool their fevered brows with portable battery-run fans.

Chicago exchange probe moves into new territory

CHICAGO — The Chicago Mercantile Exchange says its system of requiring traders to indicate when a trade has been made should help in a widening investigation by federal officials into Chicago's commodities exchanges.

U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner said an investigation that started as a probe of a possible manipulation of the market for grain has been expanded and that the irregularities are "not isolated to one particular incident."

He said the dealings on the exchanges by individuals "has multimillion-dollar ramifications in the price of commodities as they are passed on to investors."

The alleged scheme reportedly involves tax fraud and mail and wire fraud.

Under the supposed scheme, floor traders either make trades to phony account nominees or trade among themselves late in the day with prices that occurred earlier in the trading cycle. In that way, the traders already know what the profit or loss is.

A spokesman at the Mercantile Exchange said it was the first commodities exchange to experiment with transactions bracketing, which hopefully will aid in the investigation of trading violations. "We have always vigorously enforced our rules and will cooperate with all investigations," he said.

The spokesman added that "if any wrongdoers are uncovered, they will be punished."

Trade bracketing requires each trader to record his transaction on a card that indicates the time span in which the trade was completed. "White trades with outsiders are time stamped, trades among brokers were not time recorded. Under the Merc's system, one-hour time frames are used."

Under the Merc's system, then a transaction later in the day would have the correct time stamped on it.

Skinner said at this point he does not believe either the Board of Trade or the Merc were directly involved in the fictitious trading, but rather that certain individuals were.

"It is impossible to say how widespread it is at this point," he said.

A special task force is working on the investigation, which is now before a federal grand jury. Included in the task force are two attorneys from the Commodities Future Trading Commission.

The Board of Trade declined comment.

Magic level declines

SHOSHONE — The Big Wood Canal Co. officials announced Magic Reservoir contained 103,744 acre feet of water Tuesday compared to 164,785 acre feet a year ago.

The Big Wood board of directors allocated five extra days to Magic users to be used by Sept. 30.

American Falls Reservoir contained 588,100 acre feet as of Aug. 6, but no figures for last year available for comparison. The Big Wood board voted to cut the American Falls users to 100 per cent use on Aug. 15. The cut is from 115 per cent the previously allotted.

Simplot project advances

HEYBURN — A production expansion construction project is nearly complete at the J. R. Simplot Co. food processing plant here.

Lugo Dalsoglio, vice president in charge of production, said three new production lines should be in operation about mid-September.

The company, which handles its own water, sewer and fire protection facilities, also is renovating its fire prevention system.

The fire system work includes installation of a three-quarter-million gallon storage tank, new fire lines and hydrants and other equipment.

Dalsoglio said the new production lines are in a building completed about a year ago, adjacent and connected to the east side of the old plant. Equipment installation has been going on for the last nine months, Dalsoglio said.

It includes a dehydrating frozen food line and two pre-formed product lines of production.

Dalsoglio said there is room for two more production lines to be installed in the building in the future.

The expansion is accompanied by shifting of some production from the old plant, which, Dalsoglio said, has become crowded.

He said the expansion "will help our overall efficiency."

Gem spud fields slated for check

BOISE — A cross section of fall potato fields across Idaho and the eleven other major producing states will play a significant role in determining 1976 yields and production.

Richard Max, statistician in charge of the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, said 350 sample fields selected at random in the state will be visited shortly before harvest to collect on-the-spot information about plant populations per acre and potato yields.

Similar work will be done in 2,100 fall potato fields in the other major growing states. The information gathered in the fields provides an objective evaluation of potential gross yields and production.

Following harvest, a small area in the sample fields is revisited and potatoes missed by the digger are picked up to determine net yields.

Potato estimates, based on this field project and facts provided by producers, will be published by the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service on Oct. 12 and Nov. 10.

Information about potato sizes and grades will be available later.

Idaho bee colony registry lagging

BOISE — Idaho beekeepers should register their bee colonies as soon as possible, a state agriculture official said today.

State entomologist, Dr. Robert Saunders, Boise, of the Idaho Department of Agriculture's bureau of plant services, said registrations are lagging far behind normal, with less than 100 registrations received.

"Last year at this time, we had over 300 registrants. While it is likely that some have gone out of business, we're sure there are apiculturists who just have not sent their papers in," Saunders said.

"According to what our inspectors are finding, we should have close to 300 registered," he added.

The entomologist said only 19,834 bee colonies have been registered so far this year, compared with a total of 101,289 a year ago.

"Deadline for registration is Aug. 15 — just a few days away," Saunders said. "Registration is an important aid in identifying and locating bee colonies for the purpose of inspecting for bee diseases and particularly to prevent the spread of 'foulbrood,' a serious disease of bees."

Idaho honey production in 1975 totaled 4.4 million pounds. The value of last year's honey is placed at $2.13 million.

He hates cats!

BUIH.—A Buhl man told the city council here Tuesday night the city is discriminating on the cat and dog level. Dave Langley asked the city council to adopt an ordinance licensing cats. He said he hates cats and has the misfortune of living next door to a woman with 18 cats.

THE MAN is Larry Lindstrand and the machine is an automotive simulator. Lindstrand is a representative of Buckner-Weberly Co., Inc., which manufactures tools and instructional aids for vocational students. The automotive simulator is designed to teach prospective auto mechanics how to isolate problems in automotive repair.

Officials in Hansen to study sewer lines

HANSEN—City officials in Hansen are attempting to find out why sewage is standing in the sewer lines of a new housing development in the city. Richard Vawser, city council member, said today the cause is unknown at this time but council members feel the lines may have to be replaced.

The housing project includes about 80 Regal Manufacturing Co. homes. The backed up sewer lines were installed by a subcontractor. Vawser said efforts have been made to contact the subcontractor for information about the installation but as yet no contact has been made.

The city also discussed application for Environmental Protection Agency funds which are available for expanding the city's sewage treatment facility. With the addition of the new housing development north of old U.S. Highway 30, and the mobile home park, the system is now operating at near capacity.

Citizens' Committee wants school poll

TWIN FALLS—The citizens' committee organized to study a bond issue to build a new junior high school wants to poll 200 Twin Falls families to find out what they want in a new school. The Twin Falls school board agreed last night to provide copies of such a poll which would be administered by local service groups.

Builders must provide subdivision utilities

BUIH.—Buhl City Council members Tuesday night called for an ordinance which will spell out the responsibility of the developer for providing the cost of utilities in all new subdivisions.

Mayor-Dale Christensen said the city must prepare an ordinance clearly stating the responsibility for such installations in the future, and requiring underground wiring for all utilities in new development.

Christensen said he also feels the city should be more stringent on street standards in new areas as some are breaking up after only two seasons.

Christensen announced the city planning and zoning committee has been organized and is now ready to begin meeting to review zoning matters within the city.

Fish and game director raps T-N wildlife story

TWIN FALLS—Idaho Fish and Game Department Director Joseph Greenley has charged a Times-News article of July 28 concerning management of state wildlife is "inaccurate."

Greenley specifically took exception with the headline in the Times-News North Valley Edition which read "Greenley admits mismanagement."

Idaho Republicans divide their support

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN Times-News writer

KANSAS CITY—Less than a week before the Republican National Convention begins in Kansas City, Idaho delegates committed to Ronald Reagan and President Gerald Ford know just why they support their respective candidate.

The Idaho delegates to the Republican Convention seem to agree the most important consideration is to elect a Republican as President in November.

What they can't agree on is just who would make the better candidate to realize that goal—Ronald Reagan or Gerald Ford.

The Reagan delegates are convinced their candidate, the former governor of California, is the better choice. They feel he is more "electable" than Ford.

Marj Miner indicated it was Reagan's strength of character and clarity in articulating the issues that won her support.

Rep. Tom Stivers, a Reagan delegate from Twin Falls, said he believes Ford is vulnerable in a race against Carter because the Democrats will attack him for participation in the Nixon administration.

On the other hand Reagan comes without the stigma of Watergate or the Nixon administration and has a very credible record as an able administrator, as a strong defender of our defense posture, and for his disagreement with the so-called détente syndrome.

On the other side of the Republican Party, however, the delegates are convinced Ford as the incumbent is the strongest and best candidate for the Republicans.

Another Ford delegate, Tim Hopkins from Idaho Falls, said he would vote for Ford because "in a nutshell he is the President and he is a Republican and I believe he's done an extraordinary job under the most adverse conditions."

Over 1200 boys and girls play Knothole softball and baseball

Most parents of Knothole players say they try to make it to all the games they possibly can. Mrs. Janet Jackman, whose son plays baseball in the Peasant League said she had never missed a game.

"The kids all live for the games," Mrs. Jackman says, and it may be the parents do too. A look into the stands when a game is tied going into the fifth and final inning shows the parents are perhaps more excited than the young players at bat and on the field.

There is something deeper and more complex, though, to the involvement of the people at a Knothole game than can be explained simply by the fun and undeniable enjoyment the game provides.

The parents say the kids are learning something while they play, and the parents believe it is something important.

"I think they learn how to have fun," remarked Mrs. Floyd Gambrel who has both a son and a daughter playing, "and they learn fun isn't always horsing around. It's achievement and doing something."

Gambrel added to his wife's comments that the kids playing in Knothole "learn how to set a goal and work for it. They learn what it is to reach a goal."

The parents seem to agree whatever it is the youngsters learn—a sense of the competitive spirit or a will and desire to achieve or the meaning of both success and failure—it's good for them.

It's good for them, Elaine Phillips, whose son plays Knothole baseball, said. "They learn sportsmanship and they learn to cooperate with other kids, their own ages. There's competition."

Sometimes, however, the question arises as to whether too much competition is too early an age might do more harm than good.

Most parents, though, say the kids deal well with the competition and don't generally take losing too hard.

The Gambrels commented the boys seem to take things a little more seriously than the girls. "They have a little more desire to win," they said. Gambrel attributed this to the fact the boys "have been at it longer."

Another parent, Grant Starley, said he doesn't worry about the kids taking the game too seriously and perhaps growing overly upset about a loss. "If they have a coach that teaches them how to lose."

"It teaches them that when they do lose, they have to try harder next time and that's the name of life," Mr. Starley said.

There are some losses in life that they make tougher, too," he observed. "I think it makes them want to excel and be successful."

The parents' praise for the Knothole program in Twin Falls is loud and clear. They say they are wholly supportive and enthusiastic of it.

And judging by the smiles and cheers from the kids at the end of a game—both the winners and losers—one must suppose they agree.

Athletic fees go up

TWIN FALLS—High school athletic fans will be paying more for their tickets this year. The Twin Falls school board last night approved the raising of adult season tickets from $20 to $25. The price of single adult tickets will go from $2 to $3.50. High school students will also be paying more to attend games staged by athletes from their student body.

Markets

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI) - Prices opened higher Wednesday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 0.59 point to 991.02 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines 145 to 50, among the 37 issues crossing the tape.

Bargain hunting among some reasonably priced blue-chips and glimmers carried the market Tuesday and made a factor in this session, according to many analysts.

Investors also apparently are anticipating a favorable Wholesale Price report out of Washington Thursday, which should keep inflation fears-in check. Inflation has declined sharply this year from the double digit levels of early 1975.

Wall Street observers said some investors Tuesday appeared to be banking on an up-swing in the stock-in-consumer buying. The Commerce Department Tuesday reported a 1.2 percent decline in July retail sales.

LET SMITH'S
LOCAL PRODUCE
FOR CANNING,
FREEZING

Carolyn Dutton
Consumer and Customer Advisor
with the President Smith's Food King

While some of you will be canning and freezing your own home grown produce, we think there may be a number of customers who would find it convenient to special-order local fresh fruits and vegetables for canning purposes right from our produce departments at Smith's Food King.

I've asked our head produce buyers to let our customers order fresh locally-grown fruits and vegetables for all canning and freezing needs - or to supplement them. We'll take every care in getting this produce to you rapidly after harvest. The minute it arrives at your Smith's store we'll phone you.

All you have to do is:

1. Contact the produce manager or manager of the store when the season is underway.
2. Place your order, specifying if you want one or more full bushel or a lot (approximately half a bushel). Leave your name and phone number.
3. If the season is under way give us about 2 to 4 days from the time you place your order, until it is in the store.

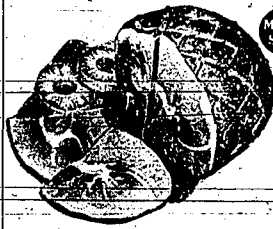

We will not go out of store for this produce. Only the best local sources will be used.

To get the most out of produce, be sure to keep it cool, use as soon as possible and follow up-to-date accurate instructions.

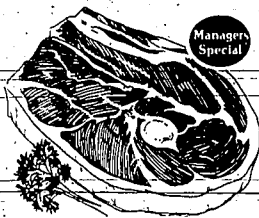

When you're in our store, visit our red and white Customer Centers and pick up the USU Canning Sheet, my latest Director of the Week Market News.

This is just another way to prove we really want to be your favorite store.

Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley: Increasing clouds Thursday with chance of afternoon thundershowers. High temperatures near 80, overnight lows 35-40.

Friday's outlook: chance of showers.
Synopsis:
A weak upper-air low pressure area moved slowly eastward over Idaho Tuesday with just enough moisture to produce some high cloudiness.

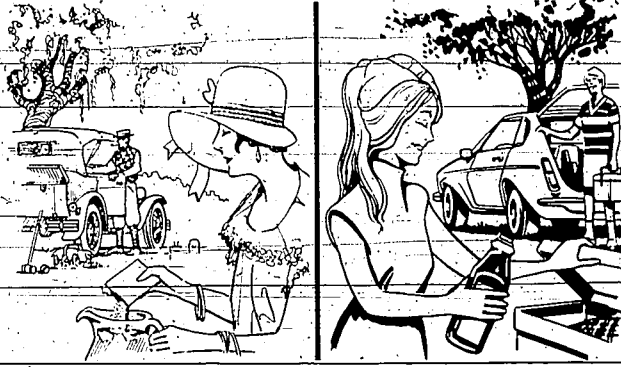

and isolated, mountain thundershowers.
Although temperatures climbed into the 80s in most areas of the Magic Valley Tuesday, they were still about 5 to 10 degrees below normal. A frontal system near the Vancouver, Washington coastline this morning will be moving inland today. This front is expected to weaken as it moves eastward but will still produce mountain thundershowers along with generally cloudy conditions in the Magic Valley area by Thursday afternoon.

Extended outlook for Friday through Sunday: chance of a few showers, mainly over the mountains Friday, then mostly dry. Temperatures near normal, with highs in the upper 80s and lows in the 40s.

Washington harvest resumes

RITZVILLE, Wash. (UPI) — Although the state's 145-148 million bushel wheat crop resumed Tuesday following the worst storm in 30 years and about a week of rain and drizzle that sent the moisture content of the crop too high for cutting.

Munkers added that although individual farmers suffered heavy crop damages — particularly in Asotin county — the effect to the state's projected crop of 145-148 million bushels would be on target.

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture projected the crop at 148 million bushels. I'm sure of 145 million bushels," Munkers said. Munkers said the maximum allowable moisture content is 12 and a half per cent.

The pickle that comes in two delicious flavors.

Pineapple is delicious. Pearl onions are delicious. Put them together in the same pickle jar and the flavors are almost mouth-boggling. Our six other kinds of pickles are no pickers, either. Try them. You'll taste why we call them the new, old-fashioned pickles.

Kokanee snagging illegal

Snagging kokanee at Anderson Ranch Reservoir or in any of the streams flowing into the reservoir will not be legal this year. The Department of Fish and Game has reduced the limit of kokanee during the migration period to 10 fish on the river and tributaries, and any fish hooked anywhere except in the head must be released.

Steve Mate, a fisheries biologist with the department, said a portion of the South Fork of the Boise River from the Pine Bridge downstream to the reservoir will be closed to fishing during the run.

In the past, anglers were allowed to snag the kokanee as the fish migrated upstream. There was a limit of 25 fish per day. Mate said, but last year 50,000 fish had been snagged by the 15th day of the season.

Large numbers of people taking advantage of the snagging brought an immense garbage and health problem, too many fish were being taken, and the Fish and Game Commission closed the snagging season, Mate said. Now, Mate said, Anderson Ranch Reservoir has a 25-fish per day limit and 50 fish in the possession. He said this will change August 20 to 25 fish per day and 25 in possession.

Mate said the reason for the closure on the South Fork below Pine Bridge is to let the department take fish at the new weir just below the bridge.

The new weir, he said, will let the department take kokanee eggs for stocking the fish in other waters of the state or for restocking at Anderson Ranch.

The snagging was allowed originally, he said, to thin the kokanee population in the reservoir so that the fish would not become stunted.

Mate said the kokanee at Anderson are beginning to turn red now. The migration up tributary streams usually begins the first week in September.

FIRST SECURITY BANK took the season and playoff titles for all six years of their Knothole existence under Coach Jerry Meyerhoeffer. T.F. offers physical exams

TWIN FALLS — Free physicals will be available at the Twin Falls high school for all students who will be participating in athletics this school year.

The check-up clinics will be held at the high school at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Boys and girls who will be participating in athletics this fall are urged to take the physical.

Olympic loans finalized

QUEBEC (UPI) — The Quebec government Thursday will conclude arrangements with Canadian and U.S. banks to borrow $700 million to pay the bulk of the $955 million Olympic Games deficit.

A provincial finance department spokesman said the seven-year medium term loans will rely on projected revenues from increased tobacco taxes as security.

The provincial government must come up with $795 million of the Olympic deficit and the City of Montreal will be required to pay the remaining $200 million, the spokesman said.

The largest loans, totaling $450 million, will come from American banks and from Morgan Guaranty Co., which will provide two loans.

Eight Canadian banks will provide loans totaling $250 million with the largest portions coming from the Bank of Montreal, the Royal Bank and the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Interest rates charged by the banks will be less than one per cent above the prime lending rate, now 10 1/4 per cent. The rate is the charge the banks give to their best commercial customers.

With $700 million in loans, the provincial government intends to raise the remaining $95 million of the deficit through short term loans and resources.

The finance department spokesman said the government is also studying the possibility of applying increased taxes from hotel and restaurant revenue to the Olympic deficit. Olympic crowds substantially increase the revenue volume.

The tax increases on cigars and tobacco will be paid directly to the Olympic Installations Board.

Stalley, Shaub lead swimmers to fourth

TWIN FALLS— Sherry Stalley took six firsts and set two records and Tim Shaub was in individual age group point honors during the Idaho state swim finals at Blackfoot over the weekend.

The two youngsters led the Magic Valley Swim Club to fourth place in team standings and the club was awarded the sportsmanship trophy.

Boise Y took the title, followed by Coeur d'Alene and Blackfoot.

Stalley, setting records in her specialty — the butterfly — won the 9 and 10 girls' 100 and 50 freestyle, 100 and 50 butterfly, 50 breaststroke, and 100 individual medley. That, of course, made her the high point girl in the division.

Shaub won the boys 8 and under point trophy, with fifth in the breast, third in IM, second in back, first and second in two frees and first in the butterfly. Ryan Kerbs was sixth in the butterfly.

Jayce Sudweeks was second in the 100 IM, fourth in the 50 breast; third in 50 back, fifth in 100 back, fifth in 100 fly and third in 100 back.

In 11-12 boys, Doug Wright was fourth in 50 free, third in 50 back, fifth in 100 back, sixth in 200 free and sixth in 100 free. Chris Williams was sixth in 100 back, and Mark Harris was fifth in the 50 and 100 breast.

Janet Stalley took several ribbons, including sixth in 200 back, fourth in 200 fly; fifth in 200 free, sixth in 100 fly, sixth in 500 free and sixth in the 1650 yards. In the boys 13-14, Chris Harmonson was sixth in the 100 free.

Boys 15-18 placers were Rusty Lloyd, third in 100 back, fourth in 50 free, and Brian Marton, fifth in 200 breast and fourth in 100 breast. In men's 19-24, Brooks Holland was third in 200 IM, third in 50, 100 and 200 free, and second in 100 breast. Tim Schmidt was fourth in the 50 free.

Twin Falls shifted to SIC west group

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Bruins have been moved to the western division of the Southern Idaho Conference for all sports effective this fall.

The decision, made at the annual principals' meeting in Sun Valley, means the Bruins will replace Caldwell in the Boise valley lineup while the newly introduced Bonneville Bees will join the eastern division to keep the conference at six schools to a side.

Football is not affected by the new plan since the group last fall developed a football schedule not based on divisions.

In associated decisions, the principals voted to increase the ticket prices for all conference competition to $25-30 for adults and $15-20 for students. In similar action Tuesday night, the school board increased the Twin Falls-Bruin booster season pass from $20 to $25.

The principals also rescinded a decision of last year that called for a football playoff at the end of each season. From now on, a playoff will be held only if it is necessary to establish a conference champion.

In a controversial and hardly unanimous vote, the principals voted to have the athletic directors from each school vote on the conference all-star football team.

In other action, the principals drew up a recommendation to more equally divide the 20 class A-1 basketball schools for district tournament and state positioning seasons.

The recommendation suggests Mountain Home be added to the third region with Twin Falls, Burley and Minjoc. The first region would include Coeur d'Alene, Sandpoint, Lewiston and Moscow. Region two, Boise, Borah, Capital, Meridian, Nampa and Caldwell, and region four, Highland, Pocatello, Idaho Falls, Skyline, Bonneville and Blackfoot.

With the state A-1 finals currently slated for Pocatello in 1977 and Boise in 1978, the principals requested that when the Boise area is lost that region will have three representatives, north Idaho two, Magic Valley one and Eastern Idaho two, when at Pocatello, the lineup would be north Idaho, one, Boise area two, Magic Valley area two and Eastern Idaho three.

Frank Charlton, Twin Falls principal, was named president with Gary Higley, Bonneville vice president. Twin Falls' Norm Thomas was named secretary-treasurer.

Miller, Kidd take race main events

TWIN FALLS — J.R. Miller and Jim Kidd of Rupert took the main events in the weekend racing at Thunderbolt Raceway.

Miller won the modified division and Kidd took the J-stock although both types of racers participated simultaneously in the 25-lap event.

Miller also posted a 25.9 second time in the fast time trial.

The modified trophy dash was taken by Paul Werner, Paul, followed by Miller and Jan Waddell, Twin Falls. Kidd claimed the J-stock heat race with Adams again second.

Waddell won the modified heat race, finishing ahead of Lloyd Smith, Twin Falls.

The powder puff honors went to Faith Adams, Rupert, followed by Christy Hamilton, Twin Falls, and Kay Hinton.

Nicklaus feels he can win PGA title

BETHESDA, Md. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus claims he is primed to win his fifth Professional Golfers Association Championship, and one of his major obstacles was removed Tuesday when Johnny Miller withdrew with a hand injury.

Miller telephoned his regrets, citing a slight case of blood poisoning sustained last weekend when he fell off his motorbike near his Napa, Calif., home and ripped open his right hand.

Miller's doctors assured him there will be no lasting effects, PGA officials said, and Nicklaus said he felt bad for Miller.

"But you should ride motorbikes in the off season," he added.

Nicklaus played a practice round on the 7,023-yard, par-70 Congressional National Club course and pronounced it "a long, difficult golf course."

"It plays a lot longer than the yardage indicates," he said. "It's like a 7,200-yard golf course. But I think as the weeks progress, we'll see it play shorter. Right now, with the fairways damp, it's absolutely necessary to get the ball up in the air."

Another problem, he said, is that trees that were tiny when the U.S. Open was played at Congressional in 1964 are now larger.

"The trees don't usually come into play, but if you hit a hole wild, you could spend all day getting back," he said.

Nicklaus said he's not disappointed at being No. 5 on the official money list, but he wants a major championship this year.

"I'm always disappointed when I haven't won a major championship, and I hope to correct that this week by playing well."

Baseball apparently to lose its antitrust exemption

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It took only a suggested 26-word addition to a 1914 antitrust law to turn up the heat under major league baseball at a congressional hearing Tuesday.

Rep. Gillis Long, D-La., and three other members of a special House Committee on Professional Sports proposed an amendment to strip baseball of the antitrust exemption it has enjoyed for more than half a century. Within minutes, seven of the 11-member panel had indicated a measure of support.

Committee Chairman B. F. Skis, D-Calif., stopped short of committing himself fully but promised hearings on the antitrust status of baseball "as soon as possible." Senior Republican on the panel, Rep. Frank Horton of New York, interjected it was time "to take a real hard look at this exemption."

Rep. William Wylder, R-N.Y., recalled that eight years ago he had introduced a similar bill and said, "I thought it was a good idea then and I think it's a good idea now."

As he offered the first overt legislative move against baseball's immunity status at the closing round of the first phase of the committee's inquiry into professional sports — long already had the co-sponsorship of three committee colleagues, Reps.

Joe Fisher, D-Va., Ed Derwinski, D-Ill., and Gilbert Gude, R-Md.

"I think baseball has gotten away with too much," Gude commented in reference to the antitrust exemption granted under a 1921 Supreme Court ruling that it was a sport rather than a business.

In 1972 when former player Curt Flood challenged the reserve clause, the justices let the exemption stand, but acknowledged that while baseball was a business, Congress rather than the judiciary should place it under antitrust jurisdiction.

The Long amendment read: "The words 'trade or commerce' as used in any provision of the antitrust laws shall include the interstate business of any organized sport, including baseball."

The Louisianaan declared: "There is no evidence... that baseball has responded in kind to this federal favoritism by fulfilling the fundamental responsibility they have to the American fans of baseball."

To the contrary, the committee has received testimony that baseball's protection has resulted in unfair treatment of players and in a refusal to fill the void in American cities where the fans are begging for major league baseball.

He pointed to the absence of major league teams in Washington, D.C., and New Orleans and added: "This so-called 'all-American sport has received' favorite son treatment for a long time and I'm afraid it is beginning to respond to such treatment as many favorite sons do — as a prodigal son."

"In the final analysis," the commissioner told the committee, "the agreements represent attempts by basketball people to resolve basketball problems at the basketball bargaining table rather than by unnecessary wasteful litigation from which neither side could emerge victorious."

Kentucky drops case

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — before noon July 28 saving Bill Tolson, Terry Hayes and Warren Bryant" were harassing her.

After police arrive she also charged Tolson, Hayes and Greg Woods with raping her earlier in the morning at Tolson's apartment.

Fayette County Court Judge John Burrus dismissed the charges against three players and one former UK player on a motion by the prosecution.

Assistant Fayette County Attorney David Emerson said an investigation of the case showed there was no basis for the charges and no case to submit to a grand jury.

An 18-year-old UK coed called police to her rural Fayette County home shortly

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUG. 12, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day that can best be spent by making an honest appraisal of the past, and then making plans for having a more prosperous future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Find the data you need to make your operation more successful. Try to be more helpful to your mate. This will bring good accord.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take steps to be more cooperative with associates. Attend the social tonight and be charming with everyone. Show that you have poise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to contact influential persons who can give you the backing you need. Make sure you take care of credit affairs wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Obtain the information you need so you can be successful in your line of endeavor. Strive for happiness.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use your intuition and have better accord with mate. Handle those responsibilities in which you have been neglecting. Be more alert.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you tactfully ask direct questions to associates, you will come to a better understanding. Steer clear of one who opposes you.

LIBRA (May 21 to Oct. 22) Attend to routine tasks early in the day so that you will have time for leisure later. Show more cooperation with fellow workers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan the recreations you want to have for the coming weekend. A thoughtful gift for your mate will bring more accord at this time.

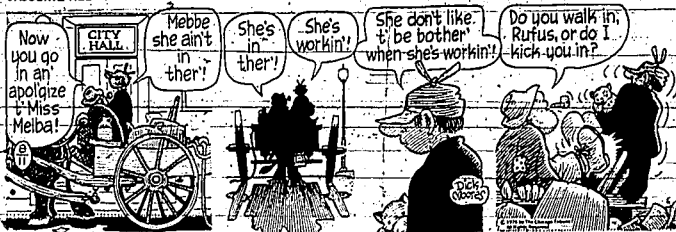

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan what has to be done to make your life at home more harmonious. Tone down any arguments that may arise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make those appointments that can be helpful to you in career matters. Use more teamwork and tact with family members.

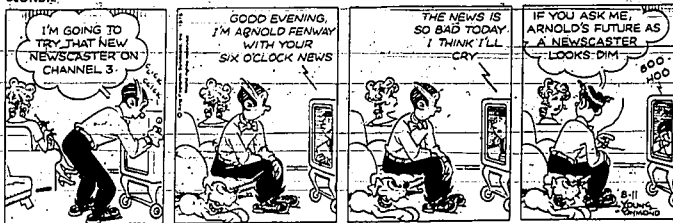

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Ideal day to get your monetary affairs in better shape. Cut down on expenses that are nonproductive. Stand up for your rights.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Personal goals can easily be attained now by using sensible methods. You need the help of a trusted friend to contact this person without delay.

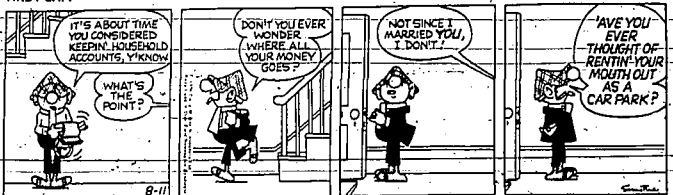

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will be one of those interesting young persons who early in life will need religious and ethical training in order to bring out the fine promise in this chart. A good environment is very important here. Permit to participate in healthful sports.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

The word "hoodlum" originated in San Francisco. You'll recall I couldn't tell you a few days ago exactly what went into the formation of those particular syllables. A client says a streetgang leader there many years ago was a tough customer named Muldoon. A local newspaper in its editorial satires of the fellow chose not to be sued for libel, so created a fictional name by spelling Muldoon backward and changing the n to h. Hoodlum eventually then came to characterize not just the leader of the pack, but any troublemaker therein.

SOUTHERN CONDOLENCES

Alabama, Mississippi, and Georgia, these are the states wherein the residents send the most sympathy cards, get well cards and cheer up cards. Or so report the greeting card folk. What is it about the southerners that makes them so witty with their condolences? Mysterious.

Read the following sentence, then count the f's in it—just once, please, no recounts. "Finished files are the result of years of scientific study combined with the experience of many years." How many f's did you find? Only three? Most people do. But there are six; it's because the f in sounds like v that we tend to overlook it; I'm fond.

Did I say ministers and their churches are tax exempt? Tut tut. Their churches maybe, but ministers are not repeat not tax exempt, the mall clearly indicates.

BETTY CROCKER

O. "How old is that famous fictional food fancier Betty Crocker?"

A. Just 55. She was dreamed up in 1921 by an adman of note named Sam Gale. The Crocker name was chosen in two respects: in honor of William C. Crocker, retired executive of the General Mills predecessor company, and because that was the name of the first flour mill in Minneapolis. Some of the foregoing has been reported previously here. Unmentioned earlier, however, is the fact she was called Betty because that was the most popular of all feminine monikers hereabouts in that year.

The hair on the head of the average American is getting just a little bit darker with each passing generation; according to that can be made a study of such matters. Also the shoulders are said to be getting broader, the hips narrower.

Two more nominees for the Proper Job Club are those fellows named Slater in Olympia, Wash., who run different roofing companies.

A barbarian in the original Greek meant a stammerer, so called because said barbarian's language was incomprehensible.

Why, pray, do we say "unloosen" when "loosen" means the same thing?

Camas aide to attend workshop

FAIRFIELD — Camas school trustees approved sending the district's bus supervisor to a transportation workshop at the University of Idaho.

Harold Lee will attend the workshop on safety and then conduct a similar training for the district bus drivers, according to Supt. Harold Stroud.

In other business at the monthly meeting Monday night, trustees hired Mrs. Marilyn Brewer to teach English and Journalism. She will replace Mrs. Fran Wallace. Scott Johnson was hired as elementary school custodian.

Freeway shutdown ordered

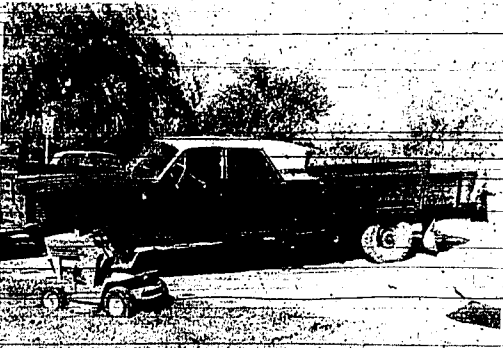

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — State officials have been ordered to shut down the Diamond Lane commuter project on the city's busiest cross-town freeway by Friday because they never prepared an environmental impact report on the controversial experiment.

The Diamond Lane experiment, begun March 15, reserves the inside lane of the freeway but never starts a morning and afternoon rush hour for buses and cars with three or more passengers on weekdays from 6:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Federal Judge Matt Byrne Monday ordered the state Transportation Department to discontinue the project on the Santa Monica Freeway after the Friday evening rush hour until the necessary environmental studies are completed and filed.

A spokesman said the state will appeal Byrne's decision after his order is recorded, apparently on Thursday, and ask the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals to delay the ruling for 30 days.

"We regret the decision," spokesman Jeff Rupp said later. "We would like to caution the public that the decision was based on the lack of an environmental impact report, not the merits of the case."

Strange contraption

A MERCURY body (without its rear wheels) and a trucked extension make up this weird vehicle put together by John Hench, Tupret.

The combo has two transmissions and reportedly will climb just about anything not upside down.

Dietrich school opening delayed

DIETRICH — Dietrich school opening will be delayed one week to Aug. 30 while Supt. Wayne Perron goes to Arkansas to bring back a new bus.

He said delivery had been promised on the bus by Aug. 15, but now that date has been postponed until Aug. 26.

Dietrich school originally was scheduled to open Aug. 23. Now Perron and his wife will leave about Aug. 17 for Conway, Ark., where they will pick up the new bus and drive it back, towing their own car.

Wendell buses run same

WENDELL — Bus routes for the Wendell schools which open Aug. 30 will remain the same as last year, trustees decided Monday night.

Supt. Lawrence LaRue said any new students who want to know the bus schedule should call Richard Eaton, bus contractor, at 336-2307.

Trustee Evelyn Campbell and LaRue reported on the educational leadership conference held at Sun Valley, recently for school administrators and trustees. The session dealt with legal issues in the governing of public education. LaRue said

Registration dates set at Valley HS

VALLEY SCHOOLS — Registration dates for students at Valley High School were set by trustees Monday night.

School begins Aug. 30, with registration scheduled Aug. 23-25. Seniors will register from 9 to 11 a.m., and juniors from noon to 2 p.m. Aug. 23; sophomores, 9 to 11 a.m., and freshmen, noon to 2 p.m. Aug. 24.

Eighth graders will register from 8 to 11 a.m. Aug. 25. All other children, from kindergarten through seventh grade, may register when classes begin Aug. 30 according to Supt. Arlyth Boddy.

School will be dismissed at 3:20 p.m. this year instead of a p.m. The dismissal time has been extended to allow time for class and activity meeting, so students will not have to miss class time, Boddy said. Students not involved in meetings will remain in classrooms and receive extra help from their teachers.

Trustees approved increases for the school hot lunch. They increased prices a nickel for students, making the cost 45 cents for elementary and 50 cents for high school students, and hiked prices a dime for teachers, to 75 cents.

The trustees adopted a new policy requiring two more credits for graduation by 1979. Seniors next year can graduate with 17 units as in previous years, but 1979 graduates will need 19 units, and by 1979 19 units will be required.

Trustees set activity and yearbook fees at $10 each.

Hagerman trustees approve new policy

HAGERMAN — Hagerman school trustees will eliminate any student-driving-in-school-involved trips, according to a new policy approved Monday night.

A 10-passenger mini-bus will be furnished by the bus contractor for any out-of-town trips; and the vehicle will be driven either by a teacher or some other adult, eliminating use of student driven cars.

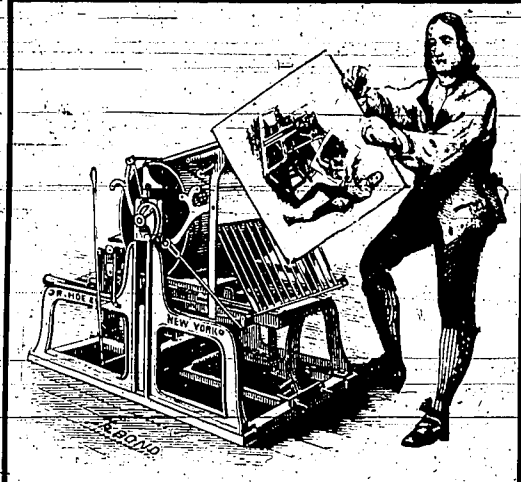

Laura McNulty, board clerk, said trustees also have eliminated any dress code from the current policy manual. The only stipulation is that students must wear socks with sandals as the health precaution, she said, and girls may not comb to school hair.

"In other business" trustees hired Edna Werth as the "overflow" teacher in the elementary grades. She will divide her teaching between sixth and second grades.

Kindergarten class will be held in the afternoon again this year, beginning at 12:30 p.m.

The board adopted Schedule 2 of the federal guidelines on hot lunches, providing for both free and reduced prices for needy students.

Fees were set for $1.50 for material for kindergarten through third grade students with 50 cents for assembly. Fourth through sixth graders will be charged a $2 book refund and 50 cents for assemblies.
