VICTIM OF killer earthquake which struck the southern Philippines today is removed from the rubble of a building in Colobato City. The tremor toppled concrete buildings, spawned 18 foot tidal waves, and killed over 1,300 persons. Heavy aftershocks continued today. (Story, p. 2) (UPI)

N. Korea pushes pullout demand

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — North Korea today urged the Fifth Summit Conference of Nonaligned Nations to demand that the United States remove its troops and nuclear weapons from South Korea. Prime Minister Pak Songchul demanded that "all means of war, including nuclear weapons, introduced into South Korea be eliminated, all foreign troops be withdrawn from South Korea, the foreign military bases be abolished and the Korean armistice agreement be replaced by a peace agreement."

Mondale wants worker on Fed board

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Board, in need of more worker representation, is to blame for inflationary policies and high unemployment, according to Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter F. Mondale. "There is not a single union leader or any advisory board in the whole Federal Reserve System." The Minnesota senator spoke Monday to a convention of the United Association of Plumbers and Pipefitters of the United States and Canada. After his speech, more than 7,000 delegates of the 340,000-member union gave a standing vote endorsement for the Carter-Mondale ticket.

S. Africa blacks continue unrest

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Stone-throwing black schoolchildren smashed the windows of a bus near Pretoria today in protest against the detention of their headmaster by security police, school officials said. The violence erupted while anti-government demonstrations simmered in black townships in various parts of the country after two months of unrest in which 217 persons have died.

China tremor causes slight damage

HONG KONG (UPI) — The second major earthquake to hit China in less than three weeks caused only "very slight" damage because Chinese seismologists accurately predicted it. The New China News Agency said tonight. In an announcement issued almost 24 hours after the quake struck, NCNA said it was centered in the Sogangpingwu area in northern Szechuan province. The magnitude was 7.2, the agency said. But it did not indicate what scale of measurement was used.

UAW ready to name strike target

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers, whose plan to give workers more time off the job already has been labeled "featherbedding," next Tuesday will choose one of the three major auto companies as its "strike target." Selection of the "target," the company that must offer a pattern-setting agreement or face a strike Sept. 11, will start the intensive phase of auto contract talks that began in mid-July.

Kin hiring at Gooding defended

By LORAYNE O. SMITH Times-News writer GOODING — Gooding Mayor Don Morrow, strongly defended hiring his brother-in-law for the city police force during Monday night's city council meeting. He also attacked what he called the "childish, petty" attitudes of various city councilmen and employees which has caused a long standing contention between city and county law enforcement departments at Gooding. "There's no need to criticize the sheriff's department," Morrow said. "I get along well with them. Love them, nothing and they owe me nothing." He said "we've got a job to do" referring to widespread requests from merchants for more police protection. No one responded to the mayor's remarks but Georgia Echeverri, councilwoman, said "it takes two to tango." (See related story p. 15) "Whether we like each other is beside the point," the mayor said. He called "for an end to backstabbing." The sheriff's department is willing to help the city, Morrow said, but "each time they do they get criticized."

Viking II turns up more puzzles in Mars photos

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Viking I, trying to find life in the cold dry Martian surface, would have as much luck digging through some areas of the Antarctic, a scientist said Monday. Viking 2, photographing possible landing sites, has turned up more geological puzzles in the northern latitudes. Dr. George S. Collins of Viking II mission control said soil samples were collected from a number of spots around the world and tested in an instrument similar to the one on Mars. "Among those with the lowest concentrations, were soils obtained from the dry valleys in south Victoria Land," he said. That is an area adjacent to McMurdo Sound. The instrument in question, an organic molecule analyzer, was looking for complex carbon compounds, the building blocks of life on Earth. None were found above the concentration of one part per million. "It does not exclude the possibility there may

Floor fights looming as Ford adds votes

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — President Ford made the big breakthrough today, gathering in the vote needed for a first-ballot victory over Ronald Reagan. There was a chance of slippage, however, and the outcome Wednesday remained uncertain. Ford hit the magic figure of 1,130 needed to capture the GOP presidential nomination in the wee hours of the morning, after adjournment of the first night session of the Republican National Convention, when Mississippi delegate Doug Shanks told UPI he would defy his state's unyielding rule. "Come hell or high water," said Shanks, "I'm going to vote for President Ford." (Related story p. 5) A Virginia delegate switched earlier. And late this morning state Sen. C.E. Hughes of Delaware announced he had gone from uncommitted to a pledge for Ford. This, according to UPI's state-by-state poll, gave the President 1,131 delegate votes to 1,036 for Reagan and 92 still uncommitted. Ford's chief delegate counter, James Baker, put the total for the President at 1,149 — 9 after the number required. The President exuded confidence as he met this morning with happy regional whips who spent a long, grueling Monday morning for delegates in hotels, on the street and on the sweltering convention floor. Ford also chatted with reporters, and predicted he would go over on the first ballot in Kemper arena Wednesday night. But Reagan forces continued their fight, and the Californian's campaign manager, John Sears, questioned the vote count by the President's camp. And Sen. Paul Laxalt, Reagan's national campaign chairman, said he believed the gap would be closed by Wednesday. He put Reagan's total at between 1,090 and 1,110. Sears looked to tonight's convention session, when the Reagan forces try to put over platform and rules changes designed to cut into Ford's strength. "The atmosphere at and around the convention was growing increasingly bitter as pressure built up and the intensive delegate searches continued. The FBI was investigating charges by two Ford delegates from Illinois that Reagan operatives try to buy their votes. Reagan said there was "absolutely nothing to it" and that he felt "surprise and disgust" at former Gov. Richard Ogilvie, a Ford supporter who initiated the charges. The two candidates' battle for a winning edge, however, thin, was undiminished by conservative New York Sen. James L. Buckley's decision to abandon his brief flirtation as a third prospective nominee. One of the Reagan floor strategems was a platform challenge of Ford-Klissinger foreign policy.

TF delegate gains word on Ford 'win'

By ROSEMARY HALEY and CHRISTOPHER BOGAN Special to the Times-News KANSAS CITY — Twin Falls delegate Noy Brackett, himself a Reagan supporter, may have been the first to obtain information suggesting that Gerald Ford will win the Republican Party nomination on Wednesday. Brackett said he was told by a member of the Mississippi delegation, Margaret McClamrock, that there are 14 votes for Ford in that delegation, and 12 for Reagan. Mississippi has been considered the key to Ford's chances for a first-ballot victory. The Mississippi delegation has not revealed how its delegates will vote, and has been counted as 30 undecided votes in most delegate polls. With Ford only a handful of votes away from a first ballot victory, the 18 Mississippi votes would be enough to ensure Ford's nomination. "Tensions between Reagan and Ford supporters rose markedly Monday night when speakers repeatedly were drowned out by chants of 'We want Reagan.'" The tensions between the two camps in the nearly deadlocked convention reportedly sparked angry outbursts in other state delegations, but in the United States delegations were carefully lanked. Reagan supporters are predominate in the Idaho delegation, with 17 of the 21 delegates in the Reagan camp. One Twin Falls delegate described the comparative harmony in the Idaho delegation this way: "Sure we feel strongly, but we know we have to go back and live together."

Withdraws SEN. JAMES Buckley of New York gestures during an address before the Republican national convention Monday. He said that he would not permit his name to be placed in nomination, ending a boomlet and assuring a showdown between Ronald Reagan and President Ford. (UPI)

Illness takes 26th victim

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — State health officials said today a Northumberland County man has become the 26th victim of mysterious illness that struck American Legion convalescers. Robert Costello, a Health Department spokesman, said Harold Stump, 53, died Monday night at a Danville, Pa., hospital from the pneumonia symptoms that characterize the disease. Costello said Stump attended the convention in Philadelphia July 21-23. It was the first death since Saturday. A total of 170 persons have come down with the malady's flu-like symptoms. Stump's death came as federal safety officials experienced in dealing with industrial poisons joined the search in Philadelphia today for the cause of the disease. Dr. Denis Lucey, the Health Department's commissioner for health planning and resources development, said Monday the investigators for the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health are experts on industrial toxins and may be able to come up with something others have missed. Lucey said that while bacteria and viruses have not been ruled out as causes, investigators are concentrating on toxins, which are natural or man-made poisons.

CSI boosts local taxes

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho local taxes will rise this year. CSI trustees Monday night unanimously voted to raise a total of $950,000 in local taxes, an increase of 17 per cent from the $810,000 total sought last year. Part of the increase would come from more property on the tax rolls, but about nine per cent of the increase is expected to come from higher levies. The taxes will be split between the two counties which make up the college district. Twin Falls County taxpayers would be taxed a total of $661,800, an increase of 15 per cent. Jerome County taxpayers would pay $288,192, up nearly 22 per cent. The changing ratios of tax contribution to the college reflect changing assessed valuations in the counties. CSI President James L. Taylor said today the increased taxes are caused by three factors: inflation, increased enrollment and use of college facilities, and additional costs of 160,000 square feet of additional instructional space added to the college. An example of rising costs is increased utility bills. Taylor said utilities "went up 75.9 per cent in January."

AAAaaaaaaaugh!

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Yvonne Holl stepped out of her bathtub, heard a funny noise and saw a nine foot python curled up in the toilet bowl. "She let out the damndest scream," said her husband Jerome. The snake is named Killer and is owned by a neighborhood boy. Killer escaped last week when it was placed in the owner's bathroom while his cage was being cleaned. The non-poisonous native of Southeast Asia apparently made its way through the sewer to the Holl's bathroom one block away. Mrs. Holl said she was just getting out of the bathtub Sunday night when she heard a noise "like a sewer backing up." She said she started to get dressed and then saw Killer. He had made the "backup" noise while entering the bowl. "I nearly had a heart attack," Mrs. Holl said. She said she slammed the bathroom door and she and her husband tried to decide what to do with the unwanted guest. "Then I remembered that some kids in the neighborhood kept snakes, so we called them to see if they were missing one," she said. "Thank God they were."

Killer earthquake hits Philippines

MANILA, The Philippines (UPI) — A killer earthquake struck the southern Philippines today, toppling concrete buildings, spawning 18-foot tidal waves and killing more than 1,000 persons — many swept away from coastal homes.

A combined official count by the government National Disaster Coordinating Center, and the Red Cross listed 1,310 killed, many of them drowning victims in tidal waves that swamped coastal homes following the earthquake.

A strong tremor also shook China Monday night, but there were no immediate reports of casualties.

Dr. Vicente Galvez, Red Cross secretary general, said casualties from the Philippine quakes could surpass the nation's death-toll during World War II if reports of fatalities continued to pour in at the same rate.

Disaster officials said hundreds of homes were destroyed as the waves slammed into coastal towns. Most of the victims lived on the island of Mindanao, 500 miles south of Manila, where the epicenter was believed located.

According to telephoned reports from the major southern seaport city of Zamboanga, a popular tourist center, the hardest-hit areas were in "a state of fear" following the quakes.

Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos proclaimed a state of calamity for the region.

The quake struck 77 minutes after midnight (10:11 a.m. EDT Monday), sending hotel guests in the city of Davao screaming into the streets. Many were dressed only in their underwear.

The tremor — which registered 8.0 on the open-ended Richter scale, according to the National Earthquake Center at Golden, Colo. — was followed by at least 10 aftershocks.

The strongest, which registered 6.7 on the Richter scale, rocked the mountainous island of Jolo, a sparsely populated region inhabited mostly by fishermen.

There were no immediate reports of injuries from the aftershocks, but Marcos warned residents to be alert for more tremors in the next two days.

Speaking in a nationwide broadcast, Marcos said 19 persons were buried alive by falling buildings in Cotabato, a city of 100,000 nestled on a curve in the Iliano Bay.

A span on the Iliano Bridge, linking Cotabato with Davao on the opposite side of the island, collapsed, as did two multistory hotels and a department store.

Look-a-like

RICHARD M. Nixon may be the invisible man at the Republican Convention — but Walter Rogglien can shock them out of their socks when he's around.

Rogglien is a 63-year-old Southern Californian, a life-long Republican, and fate dealt him a rare hand. He is also a dead ringer for Nixon.

"One fellow came up last night — and I just heard him talk about Nixon not being here — then he turned and saw me," recalled Rogglien.

"He said, 'Ah, that so-and-so, he's here after all.'"

And so it goes day in and day out for the 63-year-old Rogglien.

Dead ringer for R. Nixon attends Republican confab

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon may be the invisible man for Republicans at their 1976 convention — but Walter Rogglien can shock them out of their socks when he's around.

Rogglien is a 63-year-old Southern Californian, a life-long Republican, and fate dealt him a rare hand. He is also a dead ringer for Nixon.

"One fellow came up last night — and I just heard him talk about Nixon not being here — then he turned and saw me," recalled Rogglien.

"He said, 'Ah, that so-and-so, he's here after all.'"

And so it goes day in and day out for the 63-year-old Rogglien.

year-old Rogglien an alternate delegate pledged to Ronald Reagan. He is really not too worried about the people who think I look like Nixon," said Rogglien. "It's the ones who think I am Nixon. He has a big beard, and I don't, you know what I mean?"

Although he hardly walks anywhere without being beset by people who mistake him for the former president, times have been worse for Rogglien than they are here.

During Watergate, with the tide of public opinion overwhelmingly against Nixon, Rogglien remembered, "I became quite concerned about my future."

But he added, "Nixon is not thought about much now."

So Rogglien, who operates a Los Angeles-based manufacturers representative service, tolerates the inconvenience for now and even seems to enjoy the attention as a conversation starter.

But he is wary that more is in store for Walter Rogglien.

"I fully believe Nixon will be back in politics," he said. "I think he'll run for the Senate. I really do."

Pocatello man sues railroad

BOISE (UPI) — A $150,000 suit has been filed in Federal District Court at Boise by a Pocatello man who claims he was injured on his Union Pacific Railroad job when the company failed to prevent horseplay by another worker.

Forrest O. McClain claims a co-worker "goaded" him while he was working in a contracted position in September, 1974, at the Union Pacific yard in Pocatello, causing him to twist and turn rapidly and injure his lower back.

The suit contends the railroad "failed to properly supervise the plaintiff's fellow employees to prevent them from engaging in injurious horseplay."

The suit also claimed McClain's back was injured twice previously in work accidents at the yard, where he worked as a machinist, and Union Pacific negligently failed to provide a reasonably safe work place.

Legion band sets concert in Buhl

BUHL — The American Legion 1975 national champion street marching and field band, from Chaffield will be in Buhl Wednesday for a performance and an overnight stay en route to Seattle to defend their national title.

The group is composed of 92 members between the ages of 15 and 18 years. The band will give a free performance at 8:30 p.m. on the Buhl High School football field.

Police check robbery report

TWIN FALLS — Police reported two managers of the Turf Club were robbed of an undetermined amount of cash after closing hours early Sunday morning.

The two men, who wish to remain anonymous, told police a man forced them to hand over all their cash at gun point in the park outside the restaurant about 2 a.m. Sunday morning.

Police are still investigating, according to Twin Falls Police Det. Capt. Tim Qualls.

Blast shakes Guadeloupe volcano; fumes rising

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (UPI) — The summit of fuming La Soufriere volcano, spewing ashes and geysers of fire, exploded Monday night with a ferocity that set off tremors equal to major earthquakes.

There were no immediate reports of injuries. Officials had earlier evacuated residents in the "death zone" around the 4,900-foot mountain when scientists warned an eruption of atomic-bomb-intensity was inevitable.

It was not clear if the volcano — its name means Brimstone Mountain — had actually erupted since clouds and darkness obscured the summit.

"There were no immediate reports of poisonous gases, rocks or lava spilling over the surrounding area."

One government official on this French Caribbean island said the initial tremor set off by the explosion measured "6 or 7 on the Richter scale" equal to a major earthquake.

Small tremors could still be felt more than four hours later across Basse Terre, the westernmost portion of this butterfly-shaped island.

Enormous subterranean forces ripped open a 500-yard crack in the side of the volcano Monday, releasing roaring geysers of fire and steam. Ashes, and choking fumes wafted over mountain villages, deserted except for a few stray animals.

Officials, warning an eruption was imminent, said none of the tens of thousands of evacuated villagers — estimates ran as high as 130,000 — will be allowed to return to their homes.

Most had moved in with friends in outlying areas or taken shelter in empty schools or vast tent camps set up by the French armed forces.

Several dozen tried to get back Monday to check on their possessions but army and police patrols turned them back, drawing guns at one point to hold back a group of islanders armed with machetes.

Volcano expert Prof. Pierre Brousse told a news conference Monday "the volcano had reached the point of no return."

"I have never seen such volcanic activity in the Caribbean islands," he said.

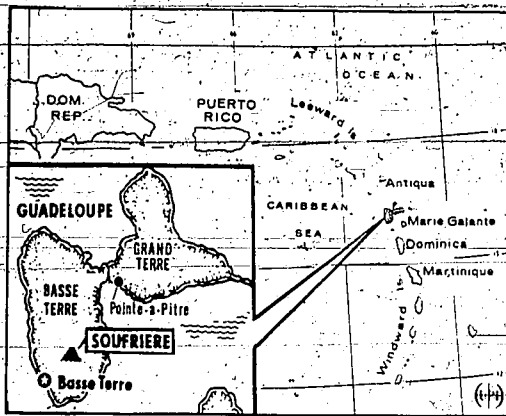

Security chief Max Vincent, who headed the evacuation effort, said, "We have passed 11-hour for the eruption and the process is irreversible."

Convoy of trucks picked up government records and archives from the capital city of Basse Terre — the capital and the island have the same name — and transferred them to Pointe-A-Pitre, about 40 miles away.

As the islanders prepared for the blast, the volcano rumbled beneath a carpet of dirty gray clouds. Its slopes sometimes totally obscured by rainstorms. Volcanic tremors shook the area constantly.

Experts said the main danger was not an eruption of rocks and lava but the explosion of a cloud of burning gas that could asphyxiate every living thing within its range.

Brousse said wet weather over the past two days probably helped ease the pressure of the gases building up, but experts noted the situation appeared to be changing constantly and it was impossible to predict exactly what would happen.

Syrians tried up drive

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian and Palestinian leaders today considered a new cease-fire proposal, but rightist and Syrian troops stopped up battles to drive the Palestinians from their last footholds in Christian territory.

Hardline Christian President Suleiman Franjeh Monday called for a "general ceasefire" to allow his successor, President-elect Elias Sarkis, "to build the foundations of a new regime."

Egyptian Maj. Gen. Mohammed Hassan Ghazal, commander of the 3,400-man Arab League peacekeeping force, was attempting to mediate the cease-fire between leaders of the Palestine Liberation Organization and the rightwing Phalangist party. It would be the 54th cease-fire of the 16-month civil war.

But rightist forces shelled Palestinian outposts in the rugged country northeast of Beirut and massed more troops in a major push to oust the guerrillas from their strongholds.

Palestinian leaders vowed to stand and fight, without yielding "a single inch." But sources said they had already considered their dwindling troops were vastly outnumbered and were looking for a way to withdraw.

"The Palestinians were caught in a pincer between tanked Christian forces and Syrian troops who were reported advancing on their rear flank."

PLO information chief Yasser Ahd Rabhou called for a "general mobilization" of the 400,000 Palestinians in Lebanon to protect "our national existence" in a reflection of the Palestinians' dire military situation.

But he also told reporters the PLO would withdraw from the area if a general cease-fire were concluded first and Arab League troops stationed in the area.

In his nationally broadcast speech, Franjeh attacked the Palestinians, saying they "have prepared themselves for a war against the Lebanese ever since they came to Lebanon."

Cosmonauts fly on

By United Press International
MOSCOW (UPI) — Two Soviet cosmonauts passed the half-way mark toward breaking the U.S. endurance record in space today, and officials said their biggest problem was psychological.

The cosmonauts began their 43rd day in space today. They must stay up until Sept. 28 to beat the U.S. record.

Flight control center said Col. Boris Volynov, 41, and Lt. Col. Vitaly Zholobov, 32, "feel good" and carried out their scientific and medical-historical experiments aboard the Salyut 5 space laboratory.

But the government newspaper Izvestia reported they are suffering from a psychological problem, "a state of sensory deprivation, a sort of sensory hunger."

Hope lost for plane

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Authorities have given up almost all hope of finding a jet airliner that disappeared Sunday in the Andes Mountains with 59 persons aboard.

The domestic SAETA airplane, a four-engine Viscount made in Britain, left Quito at 4:00 a.m. Sunday on a flight to Cuenca in the southern part of Ecuador.

Rescue teams flew over the route, known as "Andes Alley," in two fruitless days of searching, but were hampered by bad weather.

Authorities said it is almost impossible that the plane could have landed safely in the area because of the mountainous terrain.

Welfare reform attitudes 'key'

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter says prevailing attitudes that the welfare system is wasteful and unfair will be more serious to deal with than the cost of the system itself.

"The Democratic presidential nominee said Monday a key to solving these welfare attitudes would be through getting employable people, now on welfare, into jobs."

Carter denied Republican charges that his domestic proposals would cost $200 billion a year. He declared he could keep federal spending at its current level and balance the federal budget by the end of a first term as president.

Carter met with more than a dozen domestic advisors Monday in the fourth of a series of briefings on campaign issues. He was to meet with energy specialists today at the White House's "Round House."

A reporter asked Carter at the end of the domestic briefing whether the matter of volatile attitudes about welfare reform and payments to the unemployed was an economy or a welfare reform.

"Yes, it is," Carter replied.

He added: "The most prevalent attitude that hinders the welfare system is a belief on the part of taxpayers that their money is wasted, a belief among welfare recipients they are not treated fairly, the great complexities of the present system that have been accumulated over a long period of time... and the insensitivity of the programs for those who honestly need help."

All these factors cumulatively create a great distrust of the fairness or the compassion within the welfare system," Carter said.

He said one key was to remove the employable people from the welfare system, put them in a separate category, give them education and training opportunities — and then "match them with a job."

"We ought to emphasize the right of people to a job," Carter said. "It is a good investment for the future. It cuts down all the auxiliary cost of government — welfare, workmen's compensation and other aspects that are so very costly."

Carter said that all federal programs now make up "roughly 20 per cent" of the Gross National Product.

Oil fight goes on

NEW YORK (UPI) — The federal government says drilling the ocean floor off the mid-Atlantic Coast could tap billions of dollars worth of new energy resources. Coastal communities fear it could ruin the environment.

As of early today, the government had the upper hand — court permission for the Interior Department to sell oil and natural gas exploration leases for more than 875,000 acres of submerged land off the coast.

The sale's opponents — New York state, Long Island's Nassau and Suffolk counties and the National Resources Defense Council — said they would appeal on an emergency basis to the Supreme Court before Interior Department officials began reviewing bids today from more than 60 oil and gas companies.

The sale covers 154 tracts in the Baltimore Canyon off Delaware, New Jersey and Long Island.

The area in the continental shelf — 476,750 acres — is said to contain 400 million to 1.4 billion barrels of oil worth from $5 billion to $17 billion and 2.6 trillion to 9.4 trillion cubic feet of natural gas worth $1 billion to $13 billion.

On Monday, a three-judge panel of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals threw out a lower court injunction against the sale.

Canal issue docketed

COLOMBIA, Srt Lanka (UPI) — The agenda before the Fifth Summit Conference of nonaligned nations today included proposals ranging from the expulsion of Israel from the United Nations to demands the United States return the Panama Canal to Panama.

The summit meeting of Third World countries, representing 85 nations and more than half the world's population, opened Monday.

One proposal demands that Israel withdraw from occupied Arab lands. Another would endorse the use of force to overthrow white minority governments in South Africa and Rhodesia.

GOP philosophy requires leader

In his old-fashioned, fire-and-brimstone political keynote speech at the Republican National Convention last night, Watergate star Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee said some predictable things. He managed to lay all of America's problems at the feet of Democrats and place all of the solutions in the hands of Republicans.

But beyond the predictable political bombast, Baker still made sense on a few key points. Like every keynote speaker, he tried to show the differences between the Republicans and the Democrats, and then demonstrate that his own party is the better.

Put another way, the Democrats are concerned with the multiple problems besetting the American society, and propose and fund a program to meet each need. Big government is the inevitable result.

And sadly, despite their rhetoric, the Republicans also seem to go along with big government in altogether too many areas.

Still, the level of alarm over the big government undoubtedly is higher among Republicans than among Democrats. The distinction between the parties, although shaky, stands.

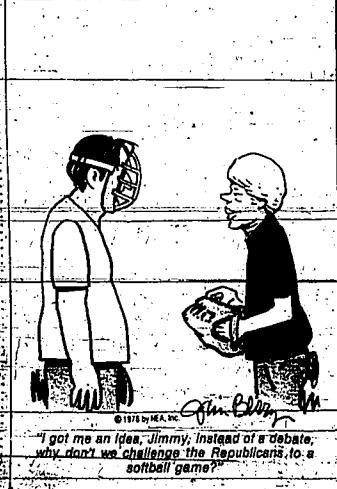

Even though the majority of the American people probably share the Republican distrust of government, that majority probably will vote for a Democrat president this Fall.

The problem for the Republicans is to choose a leader who can translate those Republican goals into facts, a leader with enough clout to say "no" and survive.

Perhaps that is too much to ask. It surely is easier to be perceived as a strong, uncompromising president when you say "yes" to people. It is harder to come across as a contributor and a leader when you say "no" most of the time.

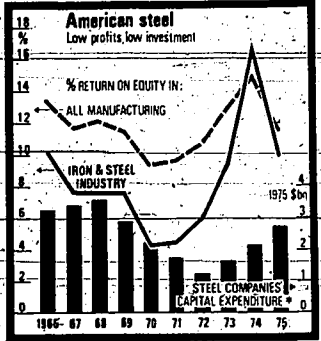

If the notion of limited government is to be restored in America, the country will have to have stronger leaders with more legitimacy than provided by the current crop.

Berry's World

What does a Baptist call an SOB?

By NEA/London Economist News Service
NEW YORK — (LENS) — The Ford administration is congratulating itself on a well-balanced economic recovery. Wall Street thrives on a thoroughly orthodox bull market backed by investors who have ditched their go-go stocks in favor of "smokestack America."

More important, the companies managed last month to push through price increases averaging 6 to 7 per cent on flat rolled steel without intervention from the Ford administration or Congress. The government does not want the capacity shortages of 1973 to reappear, traditionally hostile to the steel industry.

In his report to the council on wage and price stability Marshall estimated that the steel industry needs to invest an average of between $4.5 billion and $4.8 billion a year in constant 1975 dollars between 1975 and 1985 if it is to meet demand. He guessed that on present policies, investment will fall short of that by between $700 million and $1.5 billion a year.

Disunity stalls African moves toward close ties

TUNIS — Across North Africa political and intellectual leaders still talk in hopeful terms of the Maghreb, a community of North African nations, but rarely has the ideal been so compromised as now.

Fear, suspicion and recrimination mixed with armed conflict, backbiting and plotting mark the relations of Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Libya and Mauritania. Surveying the scene recently in a speech, Premier Hedi Nour of Tunisia remarked ruefully that "the problems are too complex to solve at the present moment."

The disunity is based to a large extent on the takeover of the Spanish-held Western Sahara by Morocco and Mauritania after an agreement reached with Spain. The Algerians were infuriated by a move they had sought vainly to stop. They had no territorial claims of their own, they said, but were an interested party and were seeking to uphold the principle of self-determination, which they asserted the agreement flouted.

In the Moroccan view the Algerians reached so strongly because they always saw themselves as the dominant power in North Africa and resented the Moroccan expansion, particularly when the territory includes one of the richest deposits of phosphates in the world.

Relations between Algeria and Morocco are suspended, and in both Rabat and Algiers the possibility of a full-scale war is talked of as real and imminent.

Little Tunisia, wedged between Algeria and Libya and not on good terms with either, has not known what attitude to take on the Sahara question. Statements have given support to both sides.

Both Morocco and Tunisia became worried when President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria and the Libyan leader, Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi, suddenly met to form an alliance of Socialist revolutionary regimes. In Rabat it looked as if it was directed first of all against Moroccan forces in the Sahara. However, little appears to have come out of it except some money for the hard-pressed Algerian treasury.

In March, a few days before Tunisia independence Day on the 20th, three Libyans were arrested in Tunis and charged with a plot to assassinate Nour, one of the leading opponents of a short-lived union with Libya. There followed an outpouring of bitter attacks on Qaddafi.

The plot was admitted by the defendants, at their trial, but they insisted that it was to have been carried out to compromise the colonel in Tunisian eyes, not on his orders. No one in Tunis believed this story, and relations are still cold.

The Libyans would like to warm them.

because there are large oil deposits on the continental shelf off the Tunisian-Libyan coast that Tunisia would like to exploit to finance development. The Libyans are disputing the Tunisian claims, and efforts to find a method of settling the dispute have come to naught.

Tunisia and Morocco, in turn, are blocking two of Algeria's major development projects. A pipeline to supply Italy with natural gas through a pipeline that would run across Tunisia has met with a Tunisian refusal. Similarly, a project to supply Spain with gas through a pipeline across northern Morocco is being held up by Rabat.

Still, the idea of a Maghreb community has not died. A major opposition leader in Rabat, Ad-derrahim Bouabd, suggested in an interview that it might have to go through a trial-by-fire before it triumphed. He said his party, the Socialist Union of Popular Forces, planned a meeting next month to draw up suggestions for moving ahead with unity plans and would invite other North Africans to participate.

American wit pleases top humorist

Editor's note: Carol Feibel is director of the American Library Association's About Books.

By CAROL FEIBEL
Our forefathers were the most humorless people imaginable.

In fact, they were exported for their lack of humor, not for their kinky religious preferences, according to Richard Armour, a funny and prolific man.

But in spite of this country's dour, dead, Armour — author of more than 50 books of humor — believes that America's sense of humor and satire is the sharpest in the world.

The U.S., he points out, is one of the few countries where the high and mighty are by no means safe from the cutting edge of the satirist's sword. In Russia, for example, no one above the rank of supervisor need fear being cut down to size. In Great Britain, satirizing members of the royal family is just plain taboo, not to mention in terribly poor taste.

Although Armour's humor is fresh and his satire is right on target, at nearly 70 years old, there's something old-fashioned, even quaint about the man.

Similarly, Robert Benchley, James Thurber,

RICHARD ARMOUR ... worse brings better

Fred Allen, products of the economic depression of the '30s, helped lift the accompanying emotional depression.

It's that irrepressible American ability for debunking pomposity and deflating pretension that keeps American humor healthy and keeps Armour, who has lectured and taught all over the world, anchored in southern California.

Working all day every day in his "Word Shop," Armour has written thousands of newspaper and magazine articles, the latter ranging in style and audience from the Saturday Evening Post to Playboy.

literature, art, sports, sex, education, war and the absurdities of adolescence and old age.

His latest, "The Happy Bookers," a history of books, libraries and librarians, was published this summer to coincide with the twentieth anniversary of the American Library Association and the Dewey Decimal system.

The book is also a lesson to a life spent as much in the company of librarians as in "my favorite people," Armour says, as in the company of his family.

In typical Armour style, this light history is the product of some heavy research and reading.

Armour, who has a Ph.D. from Harvard and whose first published work was a "publish or perish" bibliography of a minor English poet, "not worth writing about," explains the method of his madness.

The "Happy Bookers" features the same laughs at ancient Egyptian librarians plagued by patrons literally chewing and digesting new-fangled feather-bound books (the stone variety didn't prove as appetizing) and learns about scrolls and hieroglyphics.

On this day in history:
In 1915, a devastating hurricane struck Galveston, Texas. The death toll reached 7,755.
In 1933, first baseman Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees set a major league record by playing in his 1,308th consecutive game.

In 1965, after 34 persons had been killed in six days of violence, the curfew was lifted in the Watts section of Los Angeles.

In 1974, invading Turkish troops cut Cyprus in two and then declared a cease-fire.

Thoughts for today
A thought for the day: American author Silas Weir Mitchell said, "Death's but one more tomorrow."

GOP'ers keep fingers crossed as

By PETER LISAGOR
 © Chicago Daily News

KANSAS CITY — Fingers remain crossed, tongues dry, and expectations relentlessly optimistic as the contest for the Republican presidential nomination moves toward Wednesday's climax.

President Ford's managers claim they have the requisite 1,130 votes for the prize their man chased uncommitted delegates with shameless abandon.

Challenger Ronald Reagan's lieutenant's claim they have "muscle" among the delegates, but need momentum. This, they hoped to achieve in convention floor battles on rules and platform today, in which they hope to "expose" weaknesses in Ford's support.

The Ford camp, for all its avowed strength, plainly is afraid the Reagan strategists might detonate a bomb, plainly is unafraid and hard to counter.

The Reaganites planned one more test on a rule requiring the President to name his vice presidential choice by 9 a.m. Wednesday, before the presidential balloting begins in the evening. They lost to the Ford forces in the rule committee, but hope to carry the day in the plenary session.

They also will seek adoption of what they call "the morality amendment" on foreign policy, which is fairly mild as a potential bomb. It praises Soviet dissident author Alexander Solzhenitsyn for his "compelling message that we must face the world with no illusions about the nature of tyranny."

It is faintly critical of the policy of detente toward the Russians, toward the Helsinki accords, and toward "secret agreements."

Secretary of State Kissinger and the President could accept the language of the amendment without swallowing too hard.

The GOP convention oratory last night signaled what kind of a campaign the Republicans intend to conduct in the fall.

If the signals hold, it will brand the Democrats as the "of war," attack the Democratic Congress as "thrill and immoral, and saddle Democratic nominee Carter as a closet Socialist who, as keynote Howard Baker, would make Franklin D. Roosevelt look like a piker."

Baker, the Tennessee senator and a son-in-law of Illinois Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen, whose name he had in the evening's main oration, is a potential mate on ticket, and the diminutive Tennessean gave it all he had to he could carry the battle to the Georgian Democrat.

He accused Carter of advocating "more programs, more controls, more spending, more taxes, more government."

And then in a passage reminiscent of Dirksen's pointed exhortation of Gov. Thomas Dewey at the 1952 convention, for leading the party to defeat twice, Baker his finger and declaimed:

"It is the same old road. And we have been down it and we have seen where it leads, and don't you let them us again."

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, who will be temporary chairman of the convention until House Republican leader John R. Dingell installed as the permanent chairman, also delivered an attack on Carter to the Congress, calling Carter a "political change artist" and describing the Democratic platform as a collection of deceptions.

Ford hits delegate numbers

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — President Ford now has 1,131 delegate votes — one more than the number he needs to beat Ronald Reagan for the Republican presidential nomination in the first ballot — if his delegate strength holds firm a UPI survey showed today.

Ford hit the magic number of 1,130 delegates late Monday night, less than 48 hours before the first roll call, and after a grueling seven-month battle that cost both contenders the $12 million limit established in the new election reform law.

Ford gained one more than the number needed today when state Sen. C.E. Hughes of Delaware announced he was moving from uncommitted to Ford because he felt the President has a better chance of winning the election.

UPI's latest survey gave Ford 1,131 first-ballot votes, and 92 uncommitted.

The count was compiled through interviews with all 2,259 delegates to the Republican National Convention. The interviews started on a weekly basis back early in the primary season and continued on a daily basis when the delegates arrived in Kansas City this week.

In some cases delegates were bound by state law, and had to be checked only occasionally. Others jumped back and forth from Ford to Reagan and uncommitted several times.

UPI counts delegates bound by law to a candidate, or who have made public statements committing themselves to a candidate. There are six "leaning" delegates counted in the Ford column — but these are individual cases where the delegate was firmly for Ford, but wanted to be called "leaning" because he or she had been selected as uncommitted.

Bribe target

OFFER of a $2,500 bribe by a man identified as a Reagan worker was reported by Marie Goodson, 45, Chicago delegate to the Republican national convention. She said she was asked to vote in favor of a resolution forcing President Ford, whom she supports, to name his running mate before Wednesday's balloting. The FBI is investigating the charge. (UPI)

Hays' job peddling next probe target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry Kissinger has ordered an investigation into reports that Rep. Wayne Hays used his influence with the State Department to get federal jobs and contracts for friends and relatives.

The Washington Post said Saturday that Hays used his position to have an old Ohio friend and former department store owner, Orlan C. Ralston, made deputy assistant secretary of state and chief of the State Department office that supervises $3 billion worth of real estate owned by the United States in other countries.

State Department spokesman Frederick Z. Brown said Monday, "Secretary of State Kissinger has ordered the Inspector General of the Foreign Service to make an immediate investigation. When the investigation is completed it will be made public."

Hays, chairman of the House International Relations subcommittee which oversees the State Department budget, announced his retirement from Congress Friday. He cited "ill health" and "the harassments my family and I have taken from the Washington Post."

Earlier this year Hays admitted he had had a "personal relationship" with Elizabeth Ray, a worker in his office. Miss Ray charged the Ohio Democrat had placed her on the government payroll to be his mistress.

Citing documents obtained under the Freedom of Information Act, the Post said Ralston, as chief of the Foreign Building Office, improperly favored Marcos Russek, a contractor who says he is a friend of Hays. The paper said Hays confirmed that he promoted Russek because "he does good work."

California poll favors Demo ticket

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jimmy Carter could easily defeat either President Ford or Ronald Reagan if an election were held in California right now, according to the California Poll.

The poll, released today, showed Carter with a sizeable lead among California voters over either Republican.

The interviews in the last week of July and the first week of August gave Carter a 53 to 33 per cent lead over Ford, and 53 to 32 per cent over Reagan.

The poll also said 65 per cent of the California Democrats who supported Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s presidential bid are ready to transfer their backing to Carter if he faces Ford in the general election.

will brand the Democrats as the "party of immorality-controlled Congress as spend-it-saddle Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter who, as keynoter Howard Baker put it, "D. Roosevelt look like a piker?"

The convention indulged itself in a nostalgic bath as both Sen. Barry Goldwater, of Arizona, the 1964 nominee, and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller addressed the delegates. Goldwater was introduced by his son, Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. of California, who praised his father lavishly, and Goldwater Sr. delivered his usual strictures against socialism and abandoned liberties brought on by the Democrats.

Panel squeelches morality effort

Chicago Daily News
KANSAS CITY — Harold Sterling, a Memphis real estate man, is no political innocent.

He just thought it might be a good idea for the Republicans to deplore immorality and crookedness in government.

But his effort didn't get off the ground when he offered an amendment to the platform condemning Watergate and recent sex scandals involving Democratic congressmen.

He was politely but firmly squelched by the platform committee.

Sterling, who serves in the Tennessee Legislature and is an ardent supporter of Ronald Reagan, says he was treated curiously because people "don't want to hear unpleasant things. They hope they'll go away."

Sterling, a sober man in a lively checkered sports coat seemed surprised when it was suggested that only an innocent would inject the morality issue into a national political convention of either party.

The New Yorker's attempt at a self-denigrating humor warmed up the crowd and then he served up a haul of patriotism that echoed the late Dwight D. Eisenhower, for whom he once worked as an adviser, of tributes to the free enterprise system, and condemnation of the Democrats, big government, big spending, and Jimmy Carter.

"Of Carter, Rockefeller said:

"You know, he really belongs on that TV program called 'What's My Line?'. Here's a fellow that one time calls himself a Georgia 'Redneck,' and just last week in Washington, at Ralph Nader's shindig, he tried to pass himself off as a Nader-Day Saint." The pan-drew a muted chuckle from the delegates.

Alf Landon, the Kansas who was defeated in a landslide by Roosevelt in 1936, was introduced as an "elder statesman." The spy-ridden gent made a brief speech on how elections are won.

Bears injure 3 at Yellowstone

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. (UPI)—One elderly man was seriously injured and two young men lightly bruised over the weekend in two separate encounters with grizzly bears.

Melvin Ford, 68, of Salt Lake City, Utah, was mauled as he attempted to chase away a group of cubs that were foraging with their mother inside an ice chest left beside the man's campsite.

John Townsley, park superintendent, said the man apparently did not notice the mother was accompanying the cubs, the superintendent said.

Rangers who heard the incident at Fishing Bridge Auto Campground in the southern portion of the park, scared the bears off with lights, Townsley said, but Ford had already received severe head injuries and body lacerations.

Townsley said rangers had asked Ford, who was traveling with his daughter and son-in-law, to put the fruit chest inside his vehicle before going to sleep.

He was originally taken to Lake Hospital in the park and then transferred by air to a Salt Lake City hospital.

In another incident in the Pelican Creek area of the park Sunday, two 20-year-old youths from Missouri who were returning from a fishing expedition, avoided serious injury because they lay on the ground and played dead.

Dwight Husam, of Sedalia, and Greg Stober, of St. Joseph, were rolled around by another family of sow grizzly cubs also with their mother. The men received only scratches and bruises.

Rangers attributed the light injuries to their knowledge of methods of defense against bears.

Rangers are conducting an intensive campaign to prevent bear attacks in the park including patrolling areas for bears, installing bear-proof garbage bags in the camp sites and reminding campers it is unlawful to leave food on the outside tables, Townsley said.

The superintendent said the number of bear-human conflicts have been significantly reduced since the program was initiated.

In both incidences, the mother bears were acting from natural instincts, Townsley said, and no action was taken against the bear in the Pelican Creek incident.

Pearl on stage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Singer Pearl Bailey will headline something to do a salute to the American worker in a new production which will open Labor Day in a free concert at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

A Labor Department spokesman said the department's bicentennial event, written by lyricist Carolyn Leigh and composer Morton Gould, "expresses what contemporary people feel about their jobs and working in general."

CHICAGO (UPI)—Joan Wrigley, wife of William Wrigley, president of the Wrigley Gum Co., will receive $4,000 a month in temporary support and maintenance until her divorce suit is heard.

Mrs. Wrigley, 41, filed suit for divorce or separate maintenance in Cook County Circuit Court on June 10 on the ground of abandonment and said her husband deserted her on June 3.

However, on June 3, Wrigley filed suit for annulment in Walworth County, Wis., saying he is not validly married because she did not receive valid divorces from two previous marriages.

Shepherd to MGM

CULVER CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Producer Richard Shepherd Monday was named senior vice president and worldwide head of production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc.

MGM President Frank Rosenfeld said Shepherd, presently at 20th Century Fox studios, will take over his new position Sept. 13.

Shepherd recently completed production on the movie "Alex and the Gypsy," starring Jack Lemmon and Genevieve Bufile. His other credits include work on "Breakfast at Tiffany's" and "The Sandlot."

Stage left

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Efrem Zimbalist Jr. says Hollywood actors jeopardize their careers by being Republicans.

Zimbalist, who starred for nine years in the television program "The FBI," and is a California delegate to the GOP National Convention, said Monday, "Today Hollywood is firmly in control of the left. I've had well-known actors come up to me and say, 'I'm 100 per cent for Reagan. But I can't say so because I wouldn't be able to find work.'"

Neighbors donate funds

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Charley Crayton has lived all his 54 years on the same tiny plot of land in first one, then another tiny frame house never wired for the luxury of electricity.

But, four weeks ago, the Franklin's discovery suddenly became a necessity. Crayton, discovered he had emphysema.

For relief, he would struggle out of bed in the middle of the night during straggling attacks, grab a white metal machine and take to the streets in search of an electrical outlet.

The Social Security pensioner used electricity from a neighbor for a while, plugging his breathing machine into a 50-foot extension cord for his three-day treatments.

The box, donated by a church, forces air into his diseased lungs, causing them to expand and allowing more carbon dioxide to be exhaled.

But three weeks ago the neighbors moved. Crayton again had to "bill" the streets. Now he walks either a block to his neighbor's home or five blocks to his sister's house to operate the machine.

The Craytons cook with a gas stove, keep their food in a cooler full of ice "we got a refrigerator but no juice" and use gas heaters and a wood-burning stove to heat the house in the winter. They have a telephone.

Local newspapers published articles telling of Crayton's plight.

Within a week charities and a savings and loan institution donated funds to provide electricity to the house.

"I feel real fine about the electricity and I thank all the people that helped," Crayton said.

"I'm going to use it for the machine and the ice box. It gets a little expensive, but it's worth it."

Neither Crayton nor his wife, Christine, 54, is able to work. Crayton also suffers from a heart disease, diabetes and arthritis. His wife has heart trouble and high blood pressure.

"When it gets real hot it sure is bad," he said, wiping perspiration from his forehead.

"When it's 100 degrees outside, it's 200 in here."

Crayton, a former roofer and mechanic, built two rooms of the house about 30 years ago after his first home was destroyed by fire.

Detroit vows crackdown on teen-age gang violence

DETROIT (UPI)—Vowing to wipe teen-age gangs off the streets of Detroit, city officials Monday ordered 450 laid-off policemen back to work and clamped a 10-p.m. curfew on all youths under 17 years old.

Gang violence that has plagued the city throughout the summer erupted in what one top city official called "something close to a riot" Sunday night. An estimated 200 to 300 black youths attacked a rock concert audience both outside and inside cavernous Cobo Hall.

The Police Department, admittedly caught off guard by the attack, promised to put an end to the violence and to begin rounding up known gang leaders.

"We're no longer going to walk for an invitation from anybody," said Police Chief Philip Tamlin.

He also newly beefed-up police patrols would fan across the city over the next 24 to 48 hours arresting gang leaders.

Police arrested 47 persons

11 of them juveniles, following Sunday night's attack on Cobo Hall during a concert by the Average White Band and Kool and the Gang. The audience was largely white.

Witnesses said the black youths broke into the downtown convention center, assaulting and robbing dozens of rock fans as they fled into the streets. One woman was stripped and raped on the sidewalk. Police said at least two other women also were raped.

Deputy Mayor William Beckham Jr., speaking on behalf of vacationing Mayor Coleman A. Young, said the 450 policemen called back to their jobs would be assigned to a special gang squad.

"We're going to take the city back — beginning now," Beckham said.

As part of the crackdown, Beckham said all persons under 17 would be required to be off the streets by 10 p.m.

"Someone's going to be hurt, beginning tonight," he said. "Don't let it be your child."

He said it will cost the city $420,000 to rehire the 450 officers, two weeks ahead of schedule, a situation that will mean drastic budgeting. The mean delinquent budgeting, part of a massive payoff in July, were scheduled to return to work Sept. 1 under the federal jobs bill.

Thieves hit vault

PARIS (UPI)—Thieves tunneled into the vault of a Paris branch of the Societe Generale bank and ransacked 191 safe deposit boxes over the weekend, exactly a month after an identical burglary of another branch of the same bank in Nice, police said today.

A statement by the bank said the thieves used blowtorches to tunnel through a reinforced concrete wall from the sewers and into the deposit vault of the Societe Generale's Ile Saint Louis branch.

Police said they were unable to determine the exact time of the break-in, which was covered by last weekend and a public holiday Monday. The bank said its automatic alarm system operated normally, but the crime was not discovered in time because of "human error."

It did not disclose the names of the thieves or the amount of the loss. Goods stolen were believed to include cash, gold, securities and jewelry. The bank assured customers they would receive compensation.

In a "carbon copy" of the Nice operation, which was also launched from the sewers, the thieves took their time. They equipped their tunnels with ventilation outlets and came prepared with food and drink.

Association finds regulation 'danger'

The Idaho Hospital Association has "determined that government is dangerous to health," testified John D. Hutchison, executive vice president of the association, before the Council on Wage and Price Stability. The institutions are suffering under a bureaucratic blanket and may not survive, Hutchison said.

The institutional members of the Idaho Hospital Association have collectively identified the intervention of the federal government into the voluntary health care system as the number one problem facing the industry, in terms of both rising costs and in terms of providing future services for Idahoans, Hutchison said during Council hearings held this past week in San Francisco.

"The health industry is, today, one of the most regulated of all industries. With that in mind any assessment of today's health care costs must include an analysis of the cost of compliance with the myriad of regulations required for hospital participation in federal programs," stated Hutchison.

Attempts to protect the impact of some federal legislation for the period beginning July 1, 1976, were made in the May Issue of Hospital Financial Management, the Journal of the Hospital Financial Management Association. The article suggests that Maximum Allowable Cost (MAC) may cost $10 million, Professional Standards Review Organizations (PSRO) may cost $200 million and health planning may cost $100 million. There is considerable future expense which the private health sector and the public have yet to experience, said Hutchison.

Recommendations of the Idaho Hospital Association concerning the problems of rising health care costs included:

—A comprehensive and accurate study of the expenditures appropriated by Congress for health care to be conducted or supervised by the Council on Wage and Price Stability.

—Requirement that sponsors of any new health legislation submit to Congress a fiscal impact note outlining expected financial impact of the legislation on providers and the public prior to consideration by Congress.

—Congressional development of a National Health Policy to determine the percentage of the Gross National Product (GNP) that should be spent on health care outlining how these resources would be spent.

—Adoption of philosophy taking into special consideration the uniqueness of the small, rural-based hospital, by creating separate Medicare-Medicaid conditions of participation.

—Testing, in various situations and areas, by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of the effects of newly passed legislation to assure its effectiveness before blanketing the nation with stringent regulations and requirements.

—Passage of legislation requiring the committee originally composing a piece of legislation to review the regulations that transpire after passage to ensure that the intent of the law is met.

—Congressional requirement of all federal programs, not only those that are health related, to be reviewed and assessed periodically to assure that the conditions for their original enactment continue to exist and that such programs are cost effective and are meeting planning intentions. In this fashion, program performance could be measured by the Congress rather than by an area of the executive branch of the federal government.

Honeymoon in KC

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — New Jersey alternate delegate John W. Markert didn't think much of the preparations for his honeymoon.

He got married just before the Republican National Convention, and his state's delegation wanted to surprise him with a special suite in Kansas City.

The Breckenridge Inn readied its most luxurious quarters. The run-of-the-mill furnishings were replaced with the exquisite, and plush rugs covered the floor.

Markert walked his bride into the honeymoon suite, looked around and quickly ran down the eight flight of stairs of the main lobby.

"Where's Kean, where's Kean," he screamed, referring to delegation leader Thomas Kean. "They moved all that stuff in and forgot the bed."

Welfare specialist visits with Carter

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter, keeping a low political profile while the Republicans chose his opponent, began a new series of expert briefings Monday to help shape his campaign positions.

A host of specialists on health, education and welfare matters arrived at Plains for a four-hour session with the candidate. Carter planned to meet Tuesday with energy experts and Wednesday with leaders in the field of international economics.

Marion Wright Edelman, director of the Children's Defense Fund, told reporters as she arrived that the government must eliminate or change programs that have the effect of actually hurting children.

Mrs. Edelman, a black mother of three sons, criticized programs in which aid to dependent children is not given to families where a father is in the home.

She also was critical of the government for paying more money to place children in institutions than to keep them at home and for paying more to a non-relative than to a relative for looking after a child.

"The government should not act in ways to hurt children," she said, endorsing Carter's Manchester, N.H., speech in which he said the federal government must assess every program in terms of its effect on the family.

Carter has said he wants to move toward increasing federal aid to education, although he has not set a time goal for doing so.

California Schools Supt. Wilson Ryles, also a black, who was to advise Carter on elementary and secondary education, said only 13 percent of the federal budget now is directed toward that kind of education.

In Florida, meanwhile, Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, also criticized present government activities in the field of education.

Tanaka out on bail in bribe case

TOKYO (UPI) — Former Premier Kakuei Tanaka, once hailed for his rise from poor farm boy to international leader, was freed on bail today after being indicted for receiving a $1.66 million bribe from the Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

A black sedan carrying the conservative politician sped past a crowd of about 1,000 spectators who stood at the iron gate entrance to Tokyo Detention Center craning their necks for a peek at the man who led their country from 1972-74.

Tanaka, released after his lawyers posted a $666,666 bail, was driven directly from the jail to his palatial home in Tokyo where he arrived about 30 minutes after his release.

Tanaka from his 40-square-foot cell following 21 days of detention and questioning on his role in the $12 million Lockheed payoff scandal.

Tanaka was indicted Monday for accepting $1.66 million from Lockheed in return for influencing Japan's argost domestic airline, All Nippon Airways, to buy 21 Tristar jetliners from Lockheed in 1972 instead of McDonnell-Douglas DC-10 jetliners.

He was accused of receiving the money from Lockheed through Marubeni Corp., one of Japan's top-three general trading firms. Marubeni acted as Lockheed's agent in Japan before the scandal broke last February.

The Tokyo District Court decided to release the 58-year-old

2 grand marshals picked at Burley

BURLEY — Walter Amende and C.W. "Tuff" Matthews have been named joint grand marshals for the Bicentennial Cassia County Fair and Rodeo Parade.

Parade committee officials said they know of no other instance where two marshals have been named in Cassia County.

The parade will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday, starting at the Overland Shopping Center on South Overland Avenue and moving through downtown Burley to East Park.

The theme of the parade is "Beautiful Red White and Blue."

Amende moved into the Albion Valley in 1908 and homesteaded north of Albion. He handled a small herd of cattle and raised wheat, working in the grain harvest for 50 consecutive years.

He was honored in 1971 at the Burley Chamber of Commerce's businessman-farmer banquet for his contribution to the wool industry in dryland farming. He was one of the original committee members of Cassia County's Agricultural Conservation and Rehabilitation Committee.

He and his wife, Bessie, have two sons, Robert of Twin Falls and Keith of Albion, and daughter, Maxine Bolden of Albion.

Matthews is a native of Oakley, where his parents were pioneers. He has served as mayor of Oakley and on the Oakley City Council.

He is past president of the Cassia County Fair Board and served many years as a board member. He also has been a member of the Idaho State Horse Racing Commission.

Matthews ranged sheep in the regular area and owned cattle feedlots.

'Marijuana dealers' donate $10,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A man walked in off the street and anonymously donated $10,000 to the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws.

Keith Stroup, director of NORML, said he was in the group's office "Sunday" when a man, dressed in sport shirt and slacks, rang the door bell.

Stroup said the stranger asked for some information about the organization dedicated to the "decriminalization" of marijuana laws.

It took Stroup several minutes, he said, to go to another room and gather some literature. When he returned, the man was leaving but said he had left a contribution and a note.

By the time Stroup counted the "packages" of money, the man was gone. The note said the donation came from an association of independent marijuana dealers calling itself the "confederation."

Although he has never heard of such an organization, Stroup said he has heard rumors of loose-knit associations of marijuana dealers.

Chinese-crewmen will be returned to homes

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Twenty Chinese crewmen who claimed they were mistreated by the captain of a British merchant ship will be flown home within four days, a representative of the ship's owner said.

A spokesman for Canadian Pacific Bermuda Ltd., owner of the ship J.V. Clynne, said Saturday the men would be flown to Hong Kong following an agreement reached with the ship's master, Capt. Austin Magrall.

Replacements would be sent out from the Philippines, the spokesman said. Fifteen other crew members remained aboard the ship, which arrived here Friday night after Magrall radioed the U.S. Coast Guard about a possible mutiny.

IDAHO POWER COMPANY — A Citizen Wherever It Serves

Fire danger ahead

TWIN FALLS — Twenty-four "statistical" fires have occurred in the Sawtooth National Forest this year, 18 man caused.

Fire Dispatcher Robert Powers said all of the fires have been small with the exception of one in the Black Pine division at the south end of the forest. It covered about 450 acres within the Sawtooth.

Powers said the fire on the Black Pine division started on Bureau of Land Management land in Utah and spread into the forest.

The dispatcher said 15 of the 24 fires were in the Sawtooth National Recreation Area and nearby. He said the Forest Service crews are continuing to suppress fires in all wilderness areas within the Sawtooth Forest in spite of the new policy of letting nature take its course in wilderness and other unimproved areas.

"We may soon begin allowing these fires to burn themselves out, but at least for the present, we're attempting to control and suppress them," he said.

Powers described this year's fire season as moderate thus far with no major burns other than the Black Pine Fire.

"We still are facing the most critical two months of the season," he said. "If we have some more hot weather and continued winds we may be back in the very high to extreme conditions, especially on the south end of the forest."

Powers said there have been some hot dry days but generally cooling trends have occurred to break up the warm periods. The cooling trends have occurred along with rains which have helped keep the fire rangers relatively low.

Powers said most of the fires in the forest have been caused by visitors leaving campfires that are not dead when they break camp or building campfires in unsafe areas. Many are caused by smokers and nearly all have been around recreation sites or along roadsides.

Fire crews dispatched out of Twin Falls have been busy in spite of the relatively calm season at home. The inter-regional crew is currently on a fire in the Uintah Forest of Utah and four crews were in Washington for five days two weeks ago on forest fires.

Temporary paralysis part of dreams, scientists say

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Researchers say people are virtually paralyzed while they dream, apparently nature's way of keeping a person from leaping out of bed during a vivid nightmare, but that sometimes such paralysis can occur during waking hours.

Many scientists believe thousands of Americans suffer from temporary paralysis for a few seconds to a minute while working, driving or even making love, according to Dr. William Orr, a faculty member at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center and research psychologist at the Veterans Administration Hospital. The victims are conscious, but cannot, for instance, respond to questions.

Orr says a condition which brings about overwhelming urges to sleep during the day and severe bouts of drowsiness is called narcolepsy. "It affects about 25 persons for 11 this year," Orr says. "Although many people's symptoms may be very mild and infrequently spaced, most of the patients we see here have been really suffering." Orr says. "Some of them can't keep a job because their narcoleptic symptoms are so severe."

Only about 30 per cent of narcoleptics have collapsing attacks, he says, but all have severe bouts of daytime drowsiness.

"This drowsiness occurs periodically, generally three to five times a day, and can be relieved by simply taking short naps," he says.

Another sign of narcolepsy is that victims fall immediately into a deep sleep associated with dreaming rather than into the normal first stage of semi-sleep, he says. Also, many of their dreams are fearsome and threatening.

Since the cause of the condition is unknown, treatment is symptomatic, Orr says.

"If they will live a highly regimented life, waking up and going to bed at about the same times and napping regularly, too, then they generally can lessen the effects of the drowsiness episodes," Orr says.

Orr says imipramine, a medication used to treat depression, works well to relieve the collapsing attacks but after a time its effectiveness ebbs as the individual develops a tolerance for it.

Seet members need permit

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — The controversial Hare Krishna sect may soon be thrown out of Evanston if the city council's planning and development committee gets its way.

The six-member committee plans to submit a proposal to the council Aug. 23, which would deny the Hare Krishnas a special use permit they need to continue living and working in an converted YMCA building in the north Chicago suburb.

Some 40 members of the sect have been inhabiting the building for more than four years without the permit. But those days are numbered.

"The Krishnas are now illegally in Evanston," City Manager Ed Martin said Saturday. "Though the city zoning board has recommended the sect be allowed to stay in the Evanston Temple, the planning committee thinks there are at least two reasons why not."

"The big problem," planning committee member Arnold Winfield said, "is that across from the temple is a home for the elderly with 107 apartments. The temple is a seven-day thing and they conduct business out of it. There's a traffic impact... and over the past year and a half it have received a number of complaints about noise at hours of the night when the elderly should be asleep."

Winfield said the group submitted a plan to deal with the on-street parking situation but "the impact of the noise — no one has come up with a solution for that."

Krishna spokesman Uttamasloka Das says the real issue is "prejudice and nothing else."

"Our temple room is a gymnasium and half of it is underground. There's no chanting outside and certainly we're not any more disturbing than the trucks and cars that go down Evanston streets."

"They don't have much of a case," he said. "They just don't want us here."

DEAR ABBY: My 14-year-old stepdaughter became pregnant five months ago. (She was actually only 13 then.) She is very immature, but insists that she wants to keep her baby. My wife and I managed to get her into a good "home" close to where we live, and she seems to be maturing some, but not nearly enough to raise a child.

Her 16-year-old boyfriend has completely dropped out of the picture.

We've considered keeping the baby and adopting it, but we have five other children, my wife isn't well and I can't see our taking on this added responsibility.

I have a medium income, but money isn't the biggest problem. We're more concerned about the future of our daughter and her unborn child. It seems unfair for the child to be raised by an unwed mother who isn't even through the eighth grade.

Please tell us what you would do.

THIS unusual cactus with four giant pink flowers...bloomed Saturday for only the second time in the nine years Mrs. Verla Ford has owned it. The blooms last only about 18 hours and open all at the same time. This plant began blooming at 9 p.m. Friday and blossoms closed at about 3 p.m. Saturday.

Adoption suggested

DEAR DAD: I would choose the alternative that would be best for the baby. Every child deserves to be wanted. Instead of accidentally conceived and raised by a mother who herself is still a child.

For you to adopt a baby you don't really want would be unfair to you and the child. Your daughter needs to grow up before assuming the responsibilities of motherhood.

Thousands of couples are waiting to give that baby every advantage in life. I vote for adoption.

DEAR ABBY: I'm tired of the ignorance of those who assert that the word "man" applies only to males. My dictionary has several definitions of which the first two are:

MAN: (1) A human being; person, whether male or female. (2) The human race; mankind.

So why don't we stop all this asinine changing of words, such as "mankind" to "personkind," and "chairman" to "chairperson?"

And what about the word "woman"? It has "man" in it, too.

FRANK M. IN BEVERLY HILLS

DEAR FRANK: I'm willing. I think the most asinine of all is calling a manhole a "personhole."

DEAR ABBY: Concerning FOREVER SORRY, whose mother never let her forget that she (the daughter) "disgraced" the family because she had been a pregnant bride: Although fortunately I was never in that situation, I, too, was the victim-of-such "holier-than-thou" preachings.

However, in tracing our family history, I discovered that my extremely pitiful grandmother gave birth to her first child six months after her marriage.

This was documented by her marriage certificate and the child's birth certificate. The problem was neatly solved by changing the "birthday" of the child to a more "proper" date.

Aerialists claim record

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—Two high wire aerialists claim to have taken the world distance record from Karl Wallenda, who set the mark of 800 feet last year at age 79.

Wallenda's 26-year-old grandnephew, Stephan, and Steve McPeak, 31, walked 1,000 feet Sunday across a cable stretched 70 feet above the Santa Cruz boardwalk.

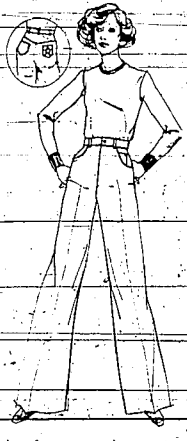

McPeak, an ex-juggler from Olympia, Wash., walked a wire 2,265 feet above Yosemite Falls on July 12, for which he received a $500 fine and a 10-day jail term.

Sunback dress 'hot' item

© N.Y. Times Service
PARIS—Thanks to the heat wave that turned this city into an inferno through June and the first half of July, the women of Paris are swinging along the streets in the most comfortable-looking fashion anyone can remember. It's a billowing sunback dress, made out of any kind of cotton fabric and instantly dubbed "the chain-de-soliel" (the sun-bath). It requires little or no undergarments. It could double for a maternity dress. And craves of it appeared in the myriad-shops of Paris with price tags in the 100-to-200 franc range (about $20 to $40).

When a fashion catches on like this in Paris, it does so with a vengeance. This one was typically based solely on comfort.

The prototype had a full band at the bustline, thereby eliminating the need for a bra, and was loose everywhere else—some versions had wide canvas straps at the shoulders and three buttons at the back. Some tied at the shoulders like children's rompers. Some were open almost to the waist at the back like a swimsuit, while others came up to the shoulder blades.

The dress was picked up by everyone from teen-agers to grandmothers.

Twin Falls couple to observe golden wedding anniversary

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Ted Albers will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at an open house hosted by their family Sunday, 2 to 4 p.m. at the Carillon, 200 3rd Ave. N., Twin Falls.

The Albers were married Sept. 9, 1926, in Trinity Lutheran Church, Campbell, Neb. They moved to Idaho in 1937.

Albers was employed by School District No. 411 until his retirement. He is now employed part-time at the Twin Falls Bank and Trust.

The Albers have four children: Jerry, Jerome, Burnett, Columbia, S.C., Beverly Gernar, Burley, and Dennis, Twin Falls. The couple also has 12 grandchildren and two great-grandsons.

The family invites all relatives, friends and neighbors to the open house and requests that visitors not bring gifts.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb:
I love grapefruit juice. If I drink some before meals or after meals will that cut down on the calories that I have just eaten?

I would like to lose 10 pounds. I am 55 years old, 5 feet-2-and-a-half inches tall. How much overweight am I? I am in pretty good health and I also walk a mile a day.

No, the grapefruit juice or grapefruit will not affect the

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, "Weight Losing Diet to give you a basic diet plan you can use to have a balanced diet and lose weight safely. Others who want this information can send a long-stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it.

Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure and keep on walking and perhaps increase your exercise for the best results from your weight control program.

there is one thing I do know: The chances that it can be something serious are so great that no one, absolutely no one, should ever neglect a finding of blood in the urine.

The first thing anyone with this condition should do is get to the doctor promptly. And by prompt I mean the next day if at all possible or certainly as soon as the doctor will take you.

In the event that bleeding means a tumor of the kidney — and I'll be blunter, I mean cancer — the chances of a cure are dependent upon how quickly it is treated. If it is something less serious, such as an inflammation of the prostate, early treatment certainly won't do any harm. Don't wait another minute to see about getting medical attention. calories in the food you have already eaten. You may save money in the long run, but you decrease the bank balances to take it out to spend. You will need to spend those calories you ate either through the body's use of calories at rest (basal metabolism) or through physical activity.

Grapefruit or grapefruit juice before a meal might fill you up and make you less hungry. In that case you will eat less, and it might help that way. But the final answer is always how many calories in and how many calories out (used).

I can't say how much you should weigh because pounds don't really count. What really matters is how much fat is under the skin. My guess is that you're about 20 pounds overweight. If you lose 20 pounds and still have evidence of fat rolls you need to lose more.

Dear Dr. Lamb:
I contacted a doctor and yesterday I passed blood in my urine but it quit in two or three passages. This morning, no blood, but the urine was somewhat cloudy. What are the possibilities, if any?

Dear Reader:
It always distresses me to get a letter such as yours. There is a list of things as long as your arm that can cause a person to pass blood in the urine.

The list starts with an infection of the kidney, the bladder, the prostate or the seminal vesicles. Beyond that is the possibility of a stone in the kidney or bladder — they are not always painful — and then you move on to the possible tumors. It can even be a result of damage to the kidney from diabetes.

To make a long story short there is no way anyone can tell what blood in the urine means without that information only. But developed from seed brought by Mennonite immigrants from the Ukraine in the 1870s, bore prodigious yields in the Great Plains and made Kansas, the leading wheat state. Now the Soviet Union is buying it back.

South looked over dummy and remarked, "I can't resist cigarettes, temptation or fire-finesses." Then he reached over and played dummy's jack of diamonds.

East produced the queen and it turned out that there was nothing free about the finesse. When the smoke of battle had cleared away, South had lost two spades and a diamond and North had lost his temper.

North said, "I am not going to get into an argument about whether or not cigarettes are bad for your health and I can see nothing against being tempted at the right time, but if you would just keep your mouth shut and your mind open you would have refused that free finesse and made you a loser."

North was right. The finesse of the diamond jack would allow South to collect an over-trick if diamonds broke 3-3 with the queen on side. But South wasn't interested in an over-trick; he wanted to make five.

That four-spot lead looked a lot like a singleton and it was. South could play low, take his ace, draw trumps, ruff out his two clubs and finally play ace and another spade. The defense would take two spades and give up - if West took the second spade, he would have to give South a ruff and a sluff. If East took it, he'd have to lead into dummy's king, jack of diamonds or concede a ruff and a sluff.

Continuing with point count, it is most important to remember that cards, not points, take tricks. The great value of point count is to enable a partnership to explore game and slam possibilities with general success. You start by counting your high-card points. Then you add extra points for short suits in your early valuation. These additions are three for a void, two for a singleton, and one for a doubleton.

Northeast gas supplies may fall short of need

The Oil and Gas Journal says interstate natural gas pipelines serving 14 states are expected to fall on to 60 per cent short of delivery contracts this winter. Alabama, Louisiana, North Carolina and South Carolina are expected to be hit hardest, with pipelines to distributor reductions near the 60 per cent level, the industry publication reported in this week's issue.

A 40 per cent shortage of pipeline gas was predicted for Virginia and 30 to 40 per cent shortages were foreseen for Arkansas, California, Florida, Indiana, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Canadian areas served by United States pipelines.

The Journal said the shortages may affect industrial plants, businesses and even a few residences.

The forecasts were based on a normally cold winter, the weekly magazine said, and winter shortages the past three winters were less severe than anticipated because of unseasonably mild weather in many areas.

However, the prediction for the 1976-77 winter is the highest yet, and serious enough for the Federal Power Commission to schedule meetings next month with the 19 gas pipelines which expect curtailments of 20 per cent or more.

The interstate pipelines and FPC will explore alternatives, such as the use of coal and heating oil to replace gas in industries, in an attempt to prevent shortages from affecting homes, the Journal said.

Also to be considered is FPC authorization for the pipelines to make emergency purchases of natural gas which normally would be sold in interstate markets.

The Journal said not all pipelines share in the dismal outlook. Some expect no curtailments this winter and others will have only slight shortages that probably will not affect end of the line users.

Idaho's treasurer files first report

BOISE (UPI) — State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon said today she was the first state elected official to report her office's fiscal year purchases under Idaho's new purchasing disclosure law.

The law applies to the constitutional officers in the executive department of state government.

Miss Moon filed with the Board of Examiners a list of her office's major expenditures, both purchases and rentals, for the period of July 12, 1975, to June 30, 1976.

copy of the disclosure went to state Purchase Administrator Dan Pilkington.

She listed $46,588 as her total major expenditures during the year for capital outlays, rentals, supplies and services covered by the new law.

Of the total, the largest part, $27,413, went for computer rental, with another $1,260 spent for keypunch rental and $1,699 for computer paper for the data processing division of the treasurer's office.

The largest capital outlay purchase during the year was $1,115 for a microfilm camera to film office records.

State pays

BOISE (UPI) — State Auditor Jack L. Williams issued today the largest single check ever issued by the State of Idaho.

Williams said he issued a check for $12,283,729.50 as the state's second quarter social security payment.

"We will pay over $50 million this year for public employees of the State of Idaho," Williams said.

The previous largest single check was $11 million, issued securely for the first quarter at $11.8 million.

Dreary, cold weather hangs on

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley-Rupert area:

Partly cloudy, with showers and thunder showers developing late this afternoon and evening, decreasing slowly Wednesday. Continued cool with highs near 70.

Overnight lows mostly in the 40s at night.

Thursday's outlook: fair and cool.

Spraying and dusting conditions fair to good during the morning and evening hours with winds under 10 miles per hour. Conditions becoming fair to locally poor during the afternoon, with winds near 15 miles per hour.

Hailey, Cassia Prairie, lower Wood River Valley:

Showers and thunder showers developing this evening, decreasing slowly.

Wednesday. Continued cool with highs mostly in the 60s, overnight lows upper 30s to mid-40s.

Thursday's outlook: fair and cool.

Synopsis: During the past week the weather pattern has changed very little. A large low-pressure system off the Pacific Northwest coast continues to bring cool, moist and unstable air into Idaho.

This has caused temperatures to average well below normal with above-normal precipitation.

Daytime temperatures this month have yet to reach normal, and precipitation is well above normal, with a total of 1.73 inches at the weather service office in Kimberly.

The normal mean monthly precipitation for August is 2.9 inches.

However, this system appears to be weakening and should be out of the area by Thursday. This should result in some drying in the Magic Valley area, but the temperatures will warm slowly.

News move to drop probe of Texas solon

WASHINGTON — Federal prosecutors have found no evidence of fraud on the part of Rep. John Young, D-Tex., who is accused by his former secretary of paying her $250,000 a year.

Miss Gardner's claim that she has been sexually available to Young in order to keep her job, she was not given the opportunity to use all of her office skills.

Miss Gardner, 30, was quoted in The New York Times, which first published her story, as saying, "it wouldn't have been so hard to go to bed with him if he'd at least have let me work, but he wouldn't. Basically, he tried not to give me any work. He did not want me to have any definite responsibility because he wanted me to be available to him whenever he wanted."

Three years ago, Miss Gardner went to the U.S. attorney's office here and similarly alleged that Young had attempted to exert pressure on her to have sexual relations with him, but she was unable to supply prosecutors with any evidence to corroborate her charges.

At that time, she quit her accusations against him were "spangy" and denied any wrongdoing.

Miss Ray had charged that she was not required, but did not have the capability, to perform office duties.

At that time, she quit her $250,000-a-year job, but returned to Young's staff a year later. When she quit again in March, just before making her allegations public, she was earning nearly $26,000 a year.

Miss Gardner said she is receiving unemployment compensation and has been denied jobs because of the adverse publicity generated by her allegations.

In a telephone interview Sunday night, Gardner said she was unaware that the inquiry has been all but concluded. "I was under the impression that I had a case," she said. "I think I did the right thing by telling my story."

Included in the evidence turned over to prosecutors by Gardner were a number of tapes she made of telephone conversations with Young without his knowledge, and a personal log she kept of times and places when she allegedly met Young in motel rooms.

But, sources familiar with the inquiry said, there was nothing in the materials suggesting that she was not doing her job or that she was coerced into the alleged intimacies. Thus, no fraudulent activities could be shown.

One source said that, while investigators from the outset had no suspicions of wrongdoing on Young's part, they were obligated to investigate Gardner's story because her charges overlapped those of Miss Ray's.

In the interview, Gardner said that she found it "impossible to believe" that the documentary material she presented to the prosecutors was insufficient to warrant a case.

Norway, Soviets facing growing conflict chance

OSLO — Norway and its superpower neighbor, the Soviet Union, face "increasing possibilities of conflict" in the "hostile" Arctic waters they share, Norwegian Foreign Minister Knut Frydenlund said in an interview last week.

Sovereignty over much of the area, which includes the Barents Sea and continental shelf off the Norwegian archipelago of Svalbard, has never been established. Until now, the area did not seem important enough for anyone to stake claims.

The seas there, however, have become increasingly important to the Soviet navy as a strategic door to the Atlantic Ocean, said Knut Frydenlund, and the Soviet Union fishing rights there could soon be in dispute, along with rights to as yet unknown offshore oil deposits.

"So far," Frydenlund said, "we have had a short and manageable border with the Soviet Union. But with the extension of activity, our points of contact are greater and there arise increasing possibilities of conflict."

He was confident, however, that serious clashes could be avoided. "This need not become a problem if we develop rational ways with the Russians to solve these problems."

The toughest issue is the one the Norwegians cannot do much about — the apparent expansion of the Soviet naval base at Murmansk on the Kola peninsula, about 100 miles east of the 100-mile-long border with Norway.

"We don't look at this as primarily directed against Norway," Frydenlund said. "We see it as part of their global buildup."

However, many Norwegians fear that Norway could be trampled in a dispute between the Soviet fleet and Norway's allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, including the United States.

The country's concern over the matter, rarely far beneath the surface, was heightened in recent days by news photographs of the Soviet's aircraft carrier, the Kiev, operating in northern waters.

A great concern, for Frydenlund, is the issue of disputed offshore boundaries. He and Soviet officials have met twice so far to try to determine each country's territorial rights in the Barents Sea, but they remain far apart.

"As the negotiations have developed," he said, "we hope for, but we don't foresee, a rapid solution."

Even tougher will be Norway's efforts to assert its rights over Svalbard, a remote group of islands over which Norway has sovereignty but to which 20 other countries, including Russia, the United States and Britain, have been allowed certain rights under a post-World War I agreement.

Security costs

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UPI) — There's a guard shortage at the Washington State Penitentiary here and it's costing the state a lot of money in overtime to keep the prison patrolled.

In July alone, the state had to put out over $25,000 in overtime payments.

Adult Corrections Administrator Bill Norway said they were asking the legislature for 48 additional guards in their 1977-78 budget request.

New US regulation may plug import law loophole

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Monday announced a proposed new regulation designed to plug what officials call a loophole in the government's beef import control program.

Officials took the step after a Commerce Department move aimed at halting circumvention of the import control system was temporarily stalled by a federal court order.

Agriculture spokesmen said the proposed new regulation would count beef imports from Australia and New Zealand for processing in a free trade zone at Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, as part of the quota accepted by the two in voluntary import-restraint agreements.

The controversy arose because some beef from Australia and New Zealand — which would be counted as part of the import quota under normal shipping arrangements — had been routed instead to the Mayaguez trade zone where it was processed into chunks and other forms before entering the American market.

Since the processed form has not been covered by the import quotas, officials said, the beef flowing through Mayaguez was not counted against quota limits and became — in effect — a method of slipping over quota imports into the American market.

Under the proposed regulation, beef which enters a free trade zone in Puerto Rico, reaches a U.S. Foreign Trade Zone after Tuesday will remain subject to quota when it leaves the zone for regular American markets — even if it has been processed into another form while in the zone.

The U.S. Foreign Trade

Zone Board earlier had scheduled an administrative hearing on proposals to declare circumvention of import ceilings to be against the public interest.

That proceeding was temporarily sidetracked, however, when a federal court at Roanoke, Va., granted a temporary restraining order sought by the Bunker Hill Packing Co., Bedford, Va., which owns a processing subsidiary at Mayaguez.

Coverage requested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An estimated 1,300 homes in southeastern Idaho received furnace damage as a result of the "Teton Dam flooding" but they "were not a part of the repairs" covered by the flood assistance programs, Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said today.

McClure urged immediate action by the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration to include the repair of furnaces in the relief efforts.

Warring farm factions close ranks on issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican and Democratic farm campaigners already are making unflattering remarks about each other's agricultural policies, but their party platforms indicate there still are some issues on which the warring farm factions close ranks against "outside" critics.

Some farm cooperatives, for example, have come under fire in recent years because of an alleged trend toward monopolistic control in marketing of milk and some fruits and vegetables.

But the draft of the Republican platform scheduled for adoption this week in Kansas City pledges the GOP to "reaffirm our support of the Capper-Volstead Act," the half-century old law which "allows cooperatives to do business without antitrust prosecution as long as they do not create monopolies and artificially inflate prices."

The Democratic platform went even further, although the difference may be only semantic: It promised flatly to "support the Capper-Volstead Act in its present form."

The two parties, predictably, took sharply different stands on issues like farm price supports, with the GOP advocating continued use of the current system of relatively low supports. The Democratic platform did not mention specific support levels, but it talked in general terms of assuring farmers a chance to cover their costs plus a reasonable profit, and party farm advisers said this would include more increases in workers in fields ranging from housing to education; and the GOP made no mention of that issue.

On subjects like estate taxes, however, farm belt voters may need a party button to tell the Democrats from the Republicans.

The Democratic platform calls for overhauling the inheritance and gift tax structure "to alleviate some of the legal problems faced by farm families who would otherwise be forced to liquidate their assets to pay the tax."

TV auction scheduled

BILLINGS, Mont. — The Montana Feeder Cattle Contractors Association will conduct a television auction of 14,700 head of mature feeder cattle at the Public Auction Yards arena on Sept. 7.

Instructed with two year old steers and heifers and yearling steers and heifers.

Patrick K. Guggins, association co-auctioneer, says this will be the first such television livestock auction utilizing both video and audio technology in America. Instead of cattle being transported bodily to the auction arena, they will be merchandised through the use of massive television screens upon which will be shown the livestock as they were filmed on the ranch.

Stockton makes good on PGA prediction

BETHESDA, Md. (UPI) — Golfers from Jack Nicklaus on down will tell you the game is more mental than it is physical, and that's exactly why Dave Stockton thinks he is the PGA champion for the second time.

Stockton took the lead midway through Monday's windup of the rain-delayed 58th PGA, and even though, as he admitted later, "I was hitting my driver everywhere and had no idea where it was going," he won.

"I won, he thinks, because he believed."

"I told my wife going down the 10th fairway that I was preparing my acceptance speech," he said. "She didn't believe me."

Three days ago, Stockton had said the same thing to a reporter.

He wasn't believed then, either.

But while Charles Coody, Nicklaus and Don January, all of them, like Stockton, pressure-tested veterans who have won major championships before, took turns giving the championship away with double bogeys, Stockton never let go once he got his hands on the lead.

"When I get in the lead, I very seldom fold," said Stockton, 34, who had won 10 previous tournaments, including the 1970 PGA title, in a dozen pro seasons.

This year's PGA won't be remembered as one of the classic performances in golf because of the way the field kept backing up Monday, but the finish certainly will be remembered as among the most exciting ever.

At the end, there were 17 players within three shots of Stockton, who produced a final round of 70, even par. His winning total, 281, matched the highest winning score in the tournament's 19-year stroke play history.

January and Ray Floyd shared second place a stroke back at 282. U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, Nicklaus, John Schlee and David Graham were at 283, and Ben Crenshaw, Tom Weiskopf, Jerry McGee, Gil Morgan and Coody were at 284.

Six of those players had a piece of the lead at various points Monday, but only one of them all lost their grip on it.

The question was why, and Stockton provided the answer.

"Let's face it," he said. "It's a major championship. You start choking — not because you're thinking about the $40,000 (he received $45,000, actually), but because you're thinking about all the other things, the World Series of Golf, the five years in the Masters, everything that it means."

"My problem is just that I don't get in the lead enough."

—Stockton hopes now that he will receive the recognition he feels he should have gotten before.

"A lot of great players have never won major championships," he said. "They say 'I only win one, you're lucky. Well now I've won two. I'm over that hurdle.'"

"And I've won on some very tough courses. Congressional next, Southern Hills in Tulsa, the 1970 PGA, Riviera (Los Angeles). People write about Hale Irwin, how he has won on some tough courses. Well, I've won on tough courses, too."

Jackpot hosts Idaho cup meet

JACKPOT — Idaho's professionals will take on a group of Boise-area 500-rated amateurs in the annual Idaho cup matches Thursday and Friday at Jackpot golf course.

The tournament will have the field playing 36 holes Thursday and 18 Saturday. On Thursday, the individuals will be paired off for scotchball competition in the morning and best ball action in the afternoon — all based on match play.

Friday's final will have head-to-head match play. Each of the competitors will earn points for the teams.

Members of the amateur team are Bill Stanwood and Joe Lodge, both Caldwell; Dave Mottler, Craig Collins, Wally Lowe, Jeff Thomas, Tom Smith and Grant Erickson, all Boise; Joe Malay, Weiser, and either Phil McRoberts or Gary Duncan, both Twin Falls.

Competing for the professionals will be Dave Berrett, Blackfoot; Jerry Brear, Ken Sparks and Lenny Stroup, all Boise; Mike Certeilo Jr., American Falls; Bob Eames and Mike Renshaw, Idaho Falls; Al Jones, Rupert and Billy Downs and Clyde Thomsen, Jackpot. Pro alternates are Earl Simpson, Burley, and Nate Ross, Twin Falls.

Bighorn death cause announced by F&G

BOISE (UPI) — A combination of carbon monoxide and stress caused the deaths of six big horn sheep last January, the Idaho Department of Fish and Game said Sunday.

The sheep were trapped in the Panther Creek drainage of the Salmon River and hauled about 700 miles to Hells Canyon for release.

Tests conducted after the sheep-die showed that carbon monoxide leaked into the truck hauling them but "capture myopathy," or stress, was also a factor.

The department said some changes will be made in future transplanting operations to prevent a recurrence.

Deer, Elk tag sales cut-off dates set

BOISE (UPI) — Sales of deer and elk tags will end in several weeks, the Department of Fish and Game said Sunday.

No tags will be sold after the cut-off dates, except to those who qualify by age or residency after the cut-off date and to Idaho service members who leave and tag after the cut-off.

All elk tag sales and deer tag sales in Boundary, Blaine, Kootenai, Shoshone, Benewah, Latah, Clearwater, Nez Perce, Lewis and Idaho counties will stop at midnight Sept. 28.

Sale of deer tags in the rest of the state will end at midnight Oct. 12, the department said.

Controlled hunt permits mailed out

BOISE (UPI) — Controlled hunt permits were mailed to hunters by Aug. 4 and hunters who drew them should have received the permits by now, the Department of Fish and Game said Sunday.

The permits were mailed out within two days after the Aug. 2 drawing in Boise.

The department mailed out 8,200 deer permits, 133 moose permits, 2,905 elk permits, 1,920 antelope permits, 102 big horn sheep permits and 276 mountain goat permits.

Uniforms available

TWIN FALLS — All O'Leary Junior-High School football players may pick up their uniforms Wednesday or Thursday at the Robert Stuart Junior-High School.

Those obtaining uniforms will be required to have insurance and to have completed a physical exam. Uniforms will be handed out from 9 a.m. to noon weekdays.

Girls planning to play volleyball must also have physical examinations—school officials said.

Landholder-sportsman meet set for Boise

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council will meet in Boise Aug. 31 at the Idaho Fish and Game Department office.

J. Ward Chatburn, council chairman, said the 7:30 p.m. meeting will be a planning session for the council's fall work. The council brings sportsmen and landholders together to discuss hunting and fishing on private lands, Chatburn said.

Browns rip Vikings

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Greg Pruitt, Cleo Miller and Larry Poole all scored on short runs in the second quarter Monday night to give the Cleveland Browns a 31-7 preseason victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

Pruitt gave the Browns a 7-0 lead on a one-yard plunge to cap a 12-play, 69-yard drive and Cleveland followed with two touchdowns in its next two possessions.

Female dragster YAAA! Yaaa!

TWIN FALLS — Barbara Dey of Twin Falls was runner up in the street eliminator class this weekend at Rexford Rasmussen's Fifth Annual Night Five 500 Races Saturday, near Boise.

Her time for the quarter mile was 15.5 seconds. She was traveling 92 mph at the finish line.

The performance, her best of the year, gave her $100 in prize money.

Hooray, I won!

DAVE STOCKTON gives a victory yell after staking a putt for par on the 18th hole in the final round of the PGA tournament Monday. Stockton took the $45,000 first prize with a one-over par 281, good enough to win by one stroke over Ray Floyd and Don January. (UPI/tele)

Cross country track team to begin workouts Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — The first practice session of the Twin Falls High School boys and girls cross country teams will begin at 8 a.m. Wednesday at the high school.

Coach Jerry Kleinkopf said pre-school practices will be held twice a day at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. After school begins on the early class schedule caused by double shifting, the cross country practice times will be less certain.

Kleinkopf said he expects practices to be held in the early afternoon shortly after the end of the school day and in the early evening.

"They're going to have to get up at six to get to school on time," Kleinkopf said, "and if we're still working them out at six, that's quite a commitment of their time."

"It's a new situation and until you've tried it once it's really difficult to say exactly what's going to work," he said.

Around 20 to 25 boys and about 15 girls are expected to attend the practices. Those attending are asked to bring their physical examination reports and insurance forms with them to practice.

Connors cops clay court win

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, rapidly regaining the form that made him the world's No. 1 tennis player only two years ago, crushed Poland's Wojtek Fibak 6-2, 6-4 Monday night for his second National Clay Court championship.

The victory was worth $2,000 for the hard-hitting Belleville, Ill., left-hander, who has won the last three tournaments.

It was the second week in a row that the rapidly improving Fibak lost in the finals. He was runnup to Harold Solomon at Louisville last week.

The top-seeded Connors, the U.S. Clay Court champion, needed only 45 minutes in his first set off the first set. He broke service in the first and seventh games and won the eighth game at love.

Fibak won only 14 points in the first set. There was only one service-break in the second set, Connors winning the very first game at love. Connors also had a golden opportunity to break service in the seventh game when the score was love-40 against Fibak, but the Polo won the next five points to hold service.

Taking a quick 40-love lead and permitting Fibak only one point, Connors ran out the match in the 10th game.

Connors won at Washington and last week at North Conway, N.H., before taking Monday night's Clay Court crown. He said he would take next week off and "probably" play at Boston before the U.S. Open at Forest Hills.

Fibak, a surprise finalist, is on the summer tour for only the second year. He was seeded 11th here and upset No. 1 Guillermo Vilas of Argentina in the semifinals to qualify for the closing tournament, the $15,000 purse, Aug. 21-22.

"They're going to have to get up at six to get to school on time," Kleinkopf said, "and if we're still working them out at six, that's quite a commitment of their time."

"It's a new situation and until you've tried it once it's really difficult to say exactly what's going to work," he said.

Around 20 to 25 boys and about 15 girls are expected to attend the practices. Those attending are asked to bring their physical examination reports and insurance forms with them to practice.

Orantes opens Canadian Open with win

TORONTO (UPI) — Manuel Orantes of Spain successfully began defense on his back-to-back Canadian and U.S. Open titles with a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Columbian Jaime Velasco Monday night in the opening round of the $155,000 Canadian Open Tennis Championship.

Orantes, the defending champion and second seed, had little trouble with the Velasco, who tried to compensate for a weak serve with an assortment of drop shots and lobs.

But Orantes, starting to return to the form that earned him $265,835 last year and six tournament wins, including the Canadian and U.S. Opens, was too strong and steady for Velasco.

He broke the Columbian's service three times in the opening set and twice in the second, where one of the breaks, in the second game, went to duce nine times before Orantes put it away.

The clincher, for the 27-year-old Orantes came on the first point of the final game when a long and exciting rally ended with the Spaniard just reaching a Velasco drop shot and guiding it "cross-court for a winner."

He said after the match that although he sweated during the conditioning phase of the Pan American basketball tournament Monday night and prepared to use his energy to start Monday's match for the international games.

The Blue unit, headed by returning CSI top gun Kim Goetz and incoming fresh Antonio Martin who split 56 points, downed the White unit 90-73. That prompted Coach Grant's remarks about offense. But the same number of points worried him on defense.

"Right now I'd say it was just a matter of conditioning. Our guards got extremely tired in the second half," he said.

"We've been stressing the quickness and movement of the international game to the team (during the four days of training) and we haven't had much time to stress any defense. I hope we will be able to watch a couple of games before we have to play down there. That will give us a little time to adjust to the international game and the way it played and the idea that we're there to play competitive basketball."

"We might have to play a little more conservatively against them. Like tonight, our statistics showed we had 25 per cent turnovers during the first half. The wider three-second lane gave us trouble tonight. We haven't worked on a conservative offense but I think we can do it if we have to," he said.

The team was scheduled to fly out of Twin Falls Tuesday morning to become a 10-hour flying trek that would land them in Los Angeles, Lima, Peru, and Rio de Janeiro until the final hop to Sao Paulo.

Coach Grant also said the group had been changed. "The U.S. is bracketed with Mexico, Argentina and the Dominican Republic. I have been told that Mexico will be a very strong team while Argentina is always decent and sometimes very good. We don't know what to expect from the Dominican Republic. But all of them will have that organization going for them against us."

Other seeded players advancing from the first round included No. 9 Jan Nedez, who defeated Gerald Batrick 6-4, 6-3.

Other top seeds, including top-seeded Mike Cunniff, Wes Clark and Ed Waters, Guillermo Vilas, third-seeded Raul Ramirez, fourth-seeded Jaime Filoll and fifth-seeded John Newcombe play their opening-round matches Tuesday.

Offense strong, defense big questionmark for Pan-Am team

TWIN FALLS — "It will take a lot of organization to stop us from scoring, but defensively I don't know."

With that statement Coach Boyd Grant wound up the conditioning phase of the Pan American basketball tournament Monday night and prepared to use his energy to start Monday's match for the international games.

The Blue unit, headed by returning CSI top gun Kim Goetz and incoming fresh Antonio Martin who split 56 points, downed the White unit 90-73. That prompted Coach Grant's remarks about offense. But the same number of points worried him on defense.

Other countries in the tournament will be Puerto Rico, Brazil, Canada and Uruguay.

In Monday night's exhibition, the white team which had Goetz and Martin plus NIAA all-stars Mike Cunniff, Wes Clark and Ed Waters. The team had the height and also the hot shooting hand.

The whites jumped off to an early lead and expanded it to 27-12 until Rito-Hovey scored 10 points in a four-minute spurt and Larry McGee came up with four points to trim the deficit to 35-30.

But Martin hit twice and Goetz three times in the closing two minutes to send the whites ahead 45-34 at intermission.

The white team dominated the boards and its fastbreak consistently beat the blue team back in the second half. It was never close after the first couple minutes of the last half.

Area slowpitchers fall in tourneys

Magic Valley slowpitch teams sailed into state tournaments over the weekend and came away with the cry "wait till next year."

In the men's tournament, played in the wind and rain at Pocatello, Lisee Insurance of Kelchum had the best showing but ended up behind champion Mel Sports of Boise. Lighthouse of Coeur d'Alene, and Sandpoint Merchants, Beyer Paving-Miller Construction, Twin Falls, was sixth in the meet.

In the women's meet at Kellough, Turf Club won two and lost two, alternately, while Wuthrich Concrete Forming was eliminated in two games.

Professional Pharmacy of Twin Falls was third in the girls 14-16 age group competition. They finished behind two Coeur d'Alene teams.

Yanks top Rangers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Hunter scored a seven-hit and Micky Rocco home runs Monday night to highlight the New York Yankees' 5-1 victory over the Texas Rangers. It was the sixth win in the last seven games for New York.

Hunter, 34-12, struck out three and walked one in going the distance for the 17th time in 28 starts. The right-hander, who had a shutout until the ninth, now needs only two more victories to reach the 30 mark for his career. Gaylord Perry pitched into the eighth inning for Texas, allowed five runs on 13 hits and absorbed his 40th loss in 42 decisions.

Boxer defeat White Sox

CHICAGO (UPI) — Seven straight singles produced six runs for the Boston Red Sox in the third inning Monday night to spark a 12-5 triumph over the Chicago White Sox, breaking a three-game losing streak.

The hits were by Rick Burson, Deany Doyle, Fred Lynn, Carl Yastrzemski, Jim Rice, Cecil Cooper and Carlton Fisk. All of them hit Fisk scored with Cooper following the sixth run on Earl Johnson's wild pitch.

The Red Sox also scored five times in the eighth on singles by Lynn, Cooper and Bill Stein on two hits. Johnson's error, Cooper's triple, an intentional walk to Fisk and singles by Dwight Evans and Bert Hoson.

Johnson took his 11th loss against nine wins and Red Sox starter Luis Tiant got his 10th victory against his first with Bill-less pitching-four-innings in relief.

third. With runners at first and third, Gary Sutherland sacrificed Johnson to second. Bernie Carbo was walked intentionally to load the bases before Joshua's single.

Danny Friesella picked 1-1-3 innings and struck out five. Friesella was demoted to one-loss game. Tenace-planned his 13th homer.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Adrian Devine took over with two runs in, a runner on third and two out in the eighth inning Monday night to retire Tony Perez and preserve Atlanta Braves right-hander Carl Morton's 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Vic Correll's leadoff homer in the seventh off starter and home run proved to be the deciding run. Correll's homer was one of five hits Norman yielded before departing for a pinch-hitter in Atlanta.

Atlanta Braves pitcher Steve Carlton pitched a four-inning relief game for the Braves, allowing three runs on four hits and two walks.

the eighth after striking out 10 batters. Taps for a Red pitcher this year.

An error by shortstop Dave Concepcion, two walks and Willie Montanez' infeld hit gave the Braves one of two runs in the fourth. A second came home when Darrel Leard hit a sacrifice fly. After George Foster followed with a triple, Devine replaced Morton, who gained his third triumph in 12 decisions.

Lum touched off the Reds' two run rally in the eighth. Pete Hose followed with a bunt single and when Morton overthrew first, Cincinnati wound up with runners on second and third. Lum talked on an infield out and Joe Morgan sent home a second run with a sacrifice fly. After George Foster followed with a triple, Devine replaced Morton, who gained his third triumph in 12 decisions.

Twins whip Orioles

BLOOMINGTON — Minn. (UPI) — Ken Singleton's three-run homer and Mark Belanger's two-run double Monday night carried the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Ross Grimsley, 6-5, worked 2 1/2 innings to receive credit for the win, which was Baltimore's fourth in its last five games. He was relieved by Fred Holdsworth, who pitched the last 2 1/2 innings and gave up two runs on a ninth-inning single by Red Carew.

Belanger doubled in Baltimore's first two runs in the second inning off starter and loser Steve Luebber, 3-4. Belanger went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Rick Dempsey's single.

Singleton slugged his sixth homer of the season in the fifth inning off Twins reliever Tom Burgmer.

Brewers nip A's

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Van Joshua, who hompered in the first inning, lifted a batted single to tiefield with one out in the ninth inning Monday night and lifted the Milwaukee Brewers to a 4-3 win over Oakland snapping the A's winning streak at nine games.

Sixto Lezcano led off the inning with an infield single and took second on a throwing error by Bert Campaneris. Tim Johnson sacrificed and was safe when pitcher Rollie Fingers elected to throw to

Indians defeat Royals

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Amos Ota and Tam Poquette belted two-run first inning home runs Monday night to back the three-hit pitching of Marty Pattin and send the Kansas City Royals on their way to a 6-1 win over the Cleveland Indians.

Pattin, a rookie, won his first complete game of the year, faced only 29 batters and did not give up a walk in winning his fifth game against 10 losses. George Hendrick's 20th home run, which came with one out in the second inning, ruined Pattin's bid for a shutout.

Ota's homer, his fourth in seven days and 10th of his career, came after Al Cowens walked to open the first inning against Jackie Brown and two outs later, Hal McKee singled and Poquette followed with his second home run of the season.

The Royals, in winning their third straight, chased Brown with two runs in the fourth when Poquette, who walked in

Padres thump Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Willie Davis doubled home two runs with one out in the ninth inning and Enzo Hernandez added a two-run triple Monday night when the San Diego Padres scored eight runs to score an 11-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

After Davis' liner over rightfielder Willie Crawford's head made it 7-6, Mike Ivil was intentionally walked and Ted Kubiak singled off reliever Mike Wallace for another run. Hernandez' triple capped the rally.

Reliever Dave Freisleben, 8-10, was the beneficiary San Diego's last-inning rally, while Bill Greif, 2-8, was tagged with the loss.

Lou Brock had five singles and stole two bases for the Cardinals.

Cubs outlast Astros

HOUSTON (UPI) — Rob Sperring's two-out, two-run, ninth-inning single following a throwing error by Houston second baseman Bob Andrews Monday night lit the Chicago Cubs to a 5-3 victory over the Astros.

Pete LaCock and Manny Trillo singled leading off the ninth inning, but Houston starter and loser Larry Dierker, 12-11, apparently had LaCock picked-off second base. Andrews' throw to third, however, hit the Cub base runner in the back and he was safe.

Dierker then walked Steve Swisher to load the bases and Sperring, who entered the game at shortstop in the seventh inning, singled on the first pitch to send home the unearned winning runs and help reliever Bruce Sutter, 3-3, gain a victory.

Through five innings, Dierker allowed only one hit and faced the minimum number of batters. But he could not hold a 3-0 lead as the Cubs scored one run in the sixth on Rick Monday's sacrifice fly and two more in the seventh on RBI singles by Trillo and Swisher.

uncertainty of the kind of economic policy still to be faced with in the winning administration.

Investors also continued to be concerned by the slowed growth in the economy, part of which has been caused by political uncertainty.

Monday showed the nation's balance of payments deficit rose by $1.40 billion in the second quarter.

Also, the Census Bureau reported the average price for a new one-family home rose to $49,000 during the second quarter, from $46,000 in the first.

Rupert bank opens

RUPERT—The First Security Bank of Idaho opened its new facility here for business Monday.

The bank held a grand opening for public viewing Saturday afternoon at the new site opposite the northeast corner of the city square. More than 2,000 people toured the facilities following opening ceremonies.

Main speakers for the grand opening ceremonies were Rupert Mayor Wendell Johnson, Ted Ellis, Pocatello, First Security senior vice president and head of the eastern regional division and Rupert bank manager Dwinelle Allred.

Other officials on hand included Ralph Comstock, Boise, president, and Orson Brown, Salt Lake City, vice president in charge of marketing.

On display was a collection of counterfeit money and an exhibit of all the currency printed by the United States. The coin collection of Roy Sorenson, Preston, was also shown.

A glass-paned pile of money, both currency and coins, drew guessers on the amount of money. A color television set, a citizens band radio, a slow-cooker and a toaster will be awarded this week to those coming the closest to the correct amount in the pile.

Manager's welcome

DWINELLE Allred, manager of the First Security Bank of Idaho in Rupert, welcomes the public to the grand opening celebration Saturday for the bank's new offices opposite the northeast corner of the Rupert town square.

Bowling winners honored

TWIN FALLS — An open house and awards ceremony will be held at the Bowladrome Sunday August 22, at 1 p.m. in honor of Idaho's first national bowling tournament winners.

Margaret Bolyard and Kay Larson, both Hansen, who won the women's doubles championship in Colorado at the national women's bowling tournament, are the first Idahoans to make a showing in a national tournament.

The awards ceremony will begin at 2 p.m. Refreshments will be served and there will be a drawing for door prizes. The facility will be open for bowling all day.

Youths go on spree of vandalism in NYC

NEW YORK (UPI) — Youths barred from a "disco party" went on a spree of robberies and vandalism in midtown Manhattan Sunday, assaulting pedestrians and smashing windows. Ten persons were arrested.

Police said more than 30 robberies were reported and several windows were smashed by bands of youths roaming the area from Manhattan Center, two blocks from the site of the recent Democratic National Convention, to Times Square. The youths had been denied admittance to the center, police said.

Four teen-agers were arrested by city police and charged with robbery, assault and disorderly conduct. Transit Authority officials arrested another six on charges of looting concessions in the subways.

The Manhattan Center had been rented for the night by a group sponsoring a "disco party," a spokesman for the building said. He said the suspects refused to pay the $6 entrance charge and began "making trouble" outside the building.

Police said the youths began roaming the streets in small groups, robbing passerby of wallets, watches and other valuables.

Doctors say flu vaccine safe, effective, necessary

ATLANTA (UPI) — Americans can put aside any inhibitions concerning the nationwide swine influenza vaccine program to begin this fall, according to the national Center for Disease Control.

"A lot of people have a poor opinion of the flu vaccine and may decide not to take it. They feel there is something bad about it. Of course, this is not the case," Dr. Donald Millar, director of the CDC's bureau of state services, said Saturday.

Federal health officials plan a concerted effort to point out to people that the vaccine not only is safe and effective but seems to be a good bit better than the other (flu) vaccines," Millar said.

Millar said he was concerned the public may have formed a bad opinion of swine influenza vaccine because of the prolonged controversy in Washington over an insurance program to protect vaccine manufacturers from lawsuits.

The adverse reaction to the proposed swine flu shots generated by the insurance controversy "is more ominous to me than the delay" of the program, Millar said.

He said the CDC will know within a few days when the vaccine will arrive at state health departments.

Four drug companies already have manufactured 120 million doses and Miller predicted the $135 million federally funded mass immunization program will get underway with luck in some states by the last week of September. Many states will be starting their programs the first week of October. Persons getting the free shots must sign an "informed consent" document which explains the benefits of the vaccine and warns of possible side effects.

Dismissed pilot gains support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A veteran Navy pilot who said he was dismissed from active duty because he criticized an admiral's personal use of military aircraft has gained the support of Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo.

An aide to Mrs. Schroeder said the congresswoman would contact Navy Secretary William Middendorf this week to ask that Duane Blankenship be reinstated.

Blankenship, who lives in Denver, was released from active duty in June, 1974. His dismissal after 18 years service made him ineligible for 20-year retirement benefits.

Blankenship, now a real estate salesman, claimed he was dismissed because he "strongly disapproved" of the personal use of military aircraft by Vice Admiral Malcolm Cagle, his superior officer at the time. Blankenship, who served as one of Cagle's two personal pilots, reported the misuse last summer to Mrs. Schroeder.

A congressional investigation was called and, as a result, Cagle was ordered to repay more than $5,000 for 53 unauthorized flights made in 1973 while he was chief of naval education and training at Pensacola, Fla. The repayment figure was based on a "minimum cost" of $100 per flight.

It's like having a brand new house after all these years! We remodeled the kitchen, converted our spare bedroom into a study and television room, hung new draperies and bought some new furniture.

We didn't borrow to do it all... we're saving.

Our First Federal savings account has helped us accomplish many things in the past, and now we have used money from it to do our redecorating and remodeling.

We didn't really want to buy a new home, but thanks to our savings we have one... without having to increase our house payment one penny!

I know we've been able to live better because... we're saving.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are logical in your thinking today so take advantage of it. Finalize some plan for the future. Be expansive.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are now able to help others gain their ambitions and they in turn assist you with your own. Take that little trip so you can gain information you need, and then use it wisely. Be alert while driving.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) You now understand how to add to your present income appreciably so that you need not worry so much in the future. Cut down on some expense, also. Avoid a spendthrift who could turn you into one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are charming today and can make headway with others, especially higher-ups. Cultivate only those friends you like and admire.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Put more thought into what you want in the future. Contact those who have the data you need and will give it to you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use a positive approach in whatever personal aims are yours and get right results. Be charming with new contacts and gain their favor.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Take care of annoying tasks early in the day. Later, a visit with a bigwig proves helpful. Make the evening a sociable, effective one.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Good ideas come to you, but you are apt to toss them aside instead of doing something constructive about them. A new ally could prove quite helpful to you. Socialize in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep promises you made conscientiously and gain the goodwill of others. Make a loved one happier and be happier yourself.

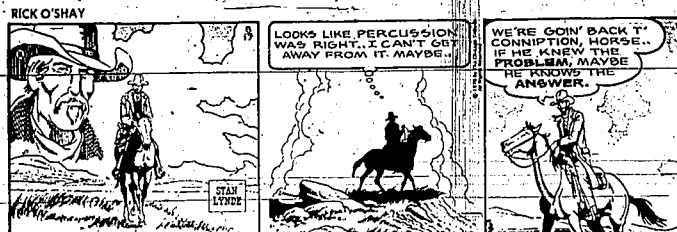

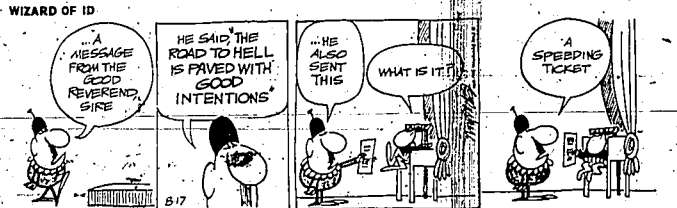

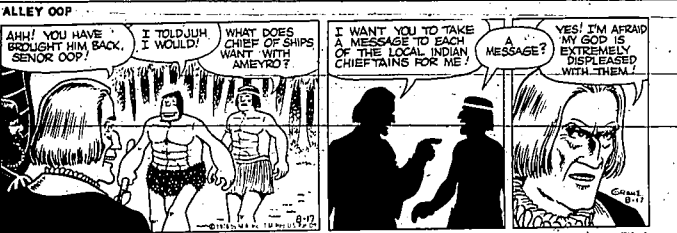

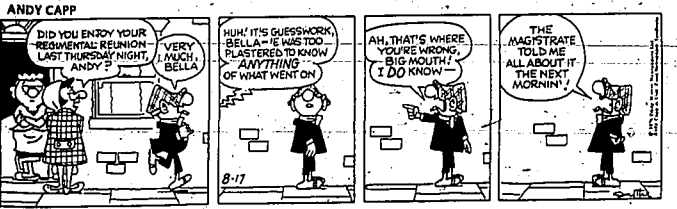

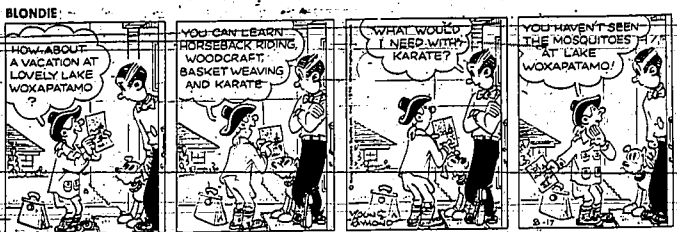

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talking over policy affairs brings good results today and in the future. Be alert to new conditions and know how to profit from them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Tackle chores early and efficiently and you have more time later to renew your energies for the rest of the week.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make plans early for amusements that appeal to you so that all goes smoothly later. Show more affection for your closest tie.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make improvements at home that you have been contemplating for a long time. Entertain a bigwig who is able to help you in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will understand what is going on around him or her, so be sure to plan the finest education you can for this gifted child. There is an inventive mind here also that should be encouraged for a greater success.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

"What's the largest number of people ever killed in a snow avalanche?" inquires a client. Don't know about a single avalanche, but 10,000 died in one day of snow slides. On Dec. 13, 1916, that was. In the Alps. Austrian and Italian soldiers were in battle when the packs of snow all around them started slipping. At least six times that many were killed in such avalanches thereabouts throughout World War I.

The four characteristics of a lady have been described as serenity, sincerity, sympathy and simplicity. But nowhere can our language men find a quartet of traits commonly attributed to a gentleman. Why not?

Everybody knows chocolate came from the Aztecs of Mexico, but few are aware that the word chocolate itself came from Indian words that meant "sour water."

JUST 200 YEARS AGO
Q. "Average age of the American today is 28.9 years, I've read. What was it 200 years ago?"
A: Just 15.9 years.

Q. "What proportion of the airline passengers go first class?"
A. Just one out of every 10 on domestic flights.

Slr, do you realize there are approximately 868,000 unmarried women nationwide each with a net worth of more than $100,000? Considerable more than the 347,000 unmarried men likewise worth that much. And that's just the well-to-do. Consider the very rich. There are at least 2,000 women with a net worth of $5 Million, but only about 800 men with that much money.

FAIRY-TALE SYMBOLS

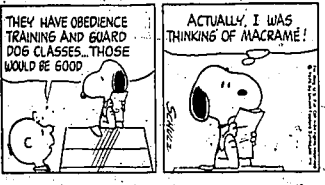

When Little Red Ridinghood hooted it out through the woods, those woods represented her subconscious mind. The giant that Jack killed actually was a father figure. And the frog that turned into a prince symbolized the deep hunger for a little romantic action. As for Cinderella's slipper, I won't even tell you what that really was. Too bashful. But a certain early classic scholar, less timid, has solemnly explained the foregoing about fairy tales. And it makes you wonder how long you ever let your kids read all those dirty books. Nuts! What a pity our letter heritage is so tormented by the unintentional whimsy of witless jacksasses!

Item No. 516C in our Love and War man's file labeled "Kiss" is this quotation from Arturo Toscanini: "I kissed my first woman and smoked my first cigarette on the same day. And since, I have never had time for tobacco!"

Termites are said to air condition their tunnels, although I don't know how.

NEW BARE CLOSET

Cuppett will head Board of Realtors

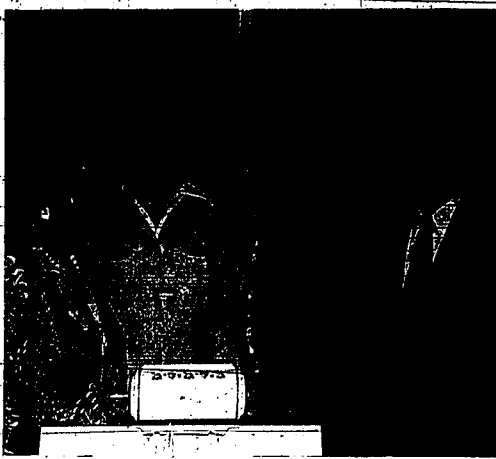

TWIN FALLS — C. Jack Cuppett will head the Twin Falls board of Realtors for the coming year.

He was installed Friday night in the annual banquet of the association. About 200 persons attended the dinner in the Holiday Inn with Magistrate Court Judge Dan Mehl administering the oath to new realtors.

Serving with Cuppett will be Joseph Young, vice president and directors: Carletta Cox and Young, newly elected, and Art Ireland, Arvilla Robbins and Cuppett, held over. Joan Brawley is executive secretary.

Nevada actions now focal point

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The battle in California over the estate of Howard Hughes will take a "back seat" pending the outcome of court proceedings in Nevada over the authenticity of a purported 1964 will of the late billionaire, a Los Angeles judge ruled Monday.

Superior Court Judge Neil Lake presided over a hearing attended by more than a dozen attorneys representing claimants to the fortune estimated at $3.5 billion.

The judge continued various motions by county public administrator Bruce Altman, former Hughes' right-hand man Noah Dietrich and California special administrator Richard Gano until Jan. 7, 1977.

Out of more than 20 purported Hughes' wills, only one has been deemed remotely as possibly authentic. It is a 1968 document titled "up the fortune among 16 persons and institutions and naming Dietrich as executor."

Harold Rhoden, the attorney representing Dietrich, said that on Aug. 27 he would move for a jury trial in Las Vegas, Nev., on the "legitimacy" of that document. Rhoden said he would seek a Nov. 3 trial date.

Rhoden said he has hand-writing experts from Europe and the United States prepared to testify that the will, discovered April 29 in the Salt Lake City headquarters of the Mormon Church, was written by Hughes.

Judge Lake said he did not want any "race to justice" between the California and Nevada courts.

"If Nevada goes forward, we'll wait," he said. "But if Nevada doesn't go forward, I'll become very impatient and we will go forward."

Texas authorities, including state attorney general John Hill, were present at the hearing. They contend that court hearings over Hughes' estate should be held in Texas because that was his legal domicile.

Also represented at the hearing were attorneys for the Boy Scouts of America, actress Terry Moore, the Mormon church and the Hughes family.

Builders seek ruling reversal

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — The North Idaho Building Contractors Association has begun a battle to reverse recent action by the Panhandle Health district to protect the aquifer under Rathdrum Prairie.

The Association has filed a motion in a lawsuit against the district and the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare claiming the PHD has refused to approve subdivision developments on the Prairie.

District director Larry Belmont said the PHD has issued permits for septic tanks and drain fields on individual sewage disposal systems on the Prairie but has refused subdivision applications unless they have developed collection and treatment systems.

The aquifer feeds that area and Spokane with its drinking water. The Health district has protected the aquifer under Rathdrum Prairie.

District director Larry Belmont said the PHD has issued permits for septic tanks and drain fields on individual sewage disposal systems on the Prairie but has refused subdivision applications unless they have developed collection and treatment systems.

The aquifer feeds that area and Spokane with its drinking water. The Health district has tested the water extensively and determined that septic tanks are contaminating the drinking water.

In Spokane, meanwhile, plans are being drawn up for an extensive test of the aquifer below the valley.

A study by the Army Corps of Engineers two years ago found extensive seepage in the aquifer and speculated that the septic tanks were the cause.

But county officials ordered the testing to make sure.

The valley may be ultimately faced with an estimated $66 million sewerage project in order to protect the source of drinking water.

By United Press International

Firefighters were letting a 400-acre blaze burn itself out in the steep Moonshine Draw area of Dinosaur National Monument because it's too dangerous to send men and equipment into the rugged canyon.

Fire control officer Denny Davies said the flames were contained behind a perimeter and the crews expected the fire to be controlled by Tuesday night.

The fire was burning in a region of Douglas fir pines in a canyon with 45 degree slopes, making it extremely dangerous to enter the area.

Disease traced to cheese

DENVER (UPI) — Cheese manufactured in Horton, Kan., was the source of a salmonellosis outbreak in two Colorado cities which affected 160 persons, a state health department spokesman confirmed Monday.

Dr. Thomas Vernon, director of preventative medical services for the department, said laboratory confirmation was made by collecting about 11,200 lbs. of the cheese from area restaurants and allowing the organism to develop on several samples.

He said the Colorado Health Department, the Pueblo, City-County Health Department and the Federal Center for Disease Control participated in the test and confirmed the diagnosis.

Vernon said the cheese, which was collected from seven restaurants in Denver and two in Pueblo, has been embargoed.

"At this point we don't know how much of the embargoed cheese is contaminated but we are continuing our laboratory analysis to determine that," he said.

Vessel coming up

BROWN'S FERRY, S.C. (UPI) — A leader of an archaeological diving expedition attempting to raise a pre-revolutionary War ship from the Black River said today the vessel probably would be hoisted out of the water late this week or early next week.

Alan B. Albright of Columbia, the project director, said divers will begin putting 12 cinches around the 45-foot vessel Tuesday morning. The cinches will be secured to a crane which will pull the vessel out of the water.

Albright and Dr. Newell Wright, who is heading the University of South Carolina archeological group, are confident the condition of the vessel is good enough to enable it to be raised in one piece.

SCHWINN

BACK TO SCHOOL IN STYLE ON A NEW SCHWINN . . .

The tradition of riding off to school on a Schwinn is over 80 years old. Styles of bikes have changed in these past generations but the quality, workmanship, and reliability of the fine Schwinn line of bikes has not. Whether it's off to College, High School, or just High, there's a Schwinn just waiting. We have a complete line of these fine bikes on display, and will be glad to explain why more students want Schwinn bikes than any other. Best of all, every Schwinn bicycle is assembled, adjusted, and ready-to-ride . . . at no extra cost.
