Teton help OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill to compensate Teton Dam victims above the initial $200 million already approved was passed by the House of Representatives Tuesday.

Senators Jim McClure and Frank Church, sponsors of the bill, said it will now go back to the Senate for new approval because of slight changes made in it before House approval.

"It is obvious that the original $200-million appropriation will not begin to cover the total damages caused by the dam's failure," the senators said.

They said the new legislation picks up where the initial bill left off to insure a smooth flow of compensation money.

Guerrillas attack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian guerrillas attacked leftist and Palestinian positions around Beirut's race track today in a two-hour battle that left at least 12 stable attendants dead.

Nineteen racehorses also were killed as shells exploded around the stable, just south of the "green line" headquarters of Arab peacekeeping troops.

The death toll from overall fighting Tuesday rose to 123 dead and at least 220 wounded, hospital and militia officials reported.

Gunmen also discovered the bodies of 21 persons killed in earlier fighting throughout the capital and its suburbs.

Attention shifts

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, with no new biological data on Viking 1 to report, shifted their attention today to her sister ship, which is expected to land on Mars Sept. 3.

The "orbit trim adjustment" cue sends the Viking 2 spaceship over the planned landing site. A JPL spokesman said the ship will take some vertical pictures of the site, on a plane called Utopia.

Prisoner strike unsettled

ATTICA, N.Y. (UPI) — Inmate representatives at Attica prison met with state and prison officials all day Tuesday but failed to settle the prisoners' strike, entering its third day today.

The orderly inmate strike to press demands for parole and sentence reform was in contrast to the violent uprising five years ago which killed 43 persons in the nation's bloodiest prison revolt.

Polley shift

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A hard-line fighter leader has agreed to send a representative to Arab League peace talks Friday, a major polley shift that could lead to a lasting truce in the 17-month civil war.

An Arab League spokesman Tuesday announced the change in position by Camille Chamoun, who is both interior and foreign minister in the cabinet of lame-duck President Suleiman Franjeh.

Premier fired

PARIS (UPI) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing fired independent-minded Gaullist Premier Jacques Chirac today.

The move could force early parliamentary elections that might result in victory of a Communist-Socialist alliance.

Enrollment up in TF schools

TWIN FALLS — The pattern of declining enrollment in Twin Falls schools may be at an end.

Attendance figures for the first day of school Tuesday showed elementary and junior high school enrollment is steady with last year and indicated a big jump in the number of youngsters showing up for kindergarten.

According to Superintendent George Staudaher, the district's five elementary schools drew 3,292 students Tuesday. When grade school ended last May, 3,268 students were enrolled.

Staudaher said this year's attendance will rise as more students come in this week and after Labor Day.

Enrollment in the junior high schools was also nearly even with last year.

Total attendance Tuesday was 1,663 at both Robert Stuart Junior High and O'Leary Junior High. This was almost exactly the same as last year's attendance of 1,663, but again administrators expected the figures to rise as students trickle in from summer vacations.

High schoolers will complete registration today and tomorrow.

If enrollment is up overall in the district, there will be an increase in state matching funds which may have a beneficial effect on a district budget squeezed by double-shifting costs.

The big surprise was the growth in the number of kindergarten students.

Last year there were 397 kindergartners attending when school closed. Tuesday 521 pre-schoolers showed up for a half-day of classes, an increase of nearly 24 per cent.

The kindergarten increase coupled with a slight increase in first graders last year may mean the pattern of declining enrollment which has beset the school district over the last few years has come to a halt.

TWIN FALLS — A house and a small plot of land are not security for everyone.

To some that's a life without freedom. For people in the circus the only life they can imagine is a life on the road.

The circus was in town Tuesday. It was Big John Strong's International Circus, traveling Big Top circus in the tradition of Europe.

The show travels in a caravan of old trucks and vans painted bright red and blue. A painted lion's face decorates the side of one of the trucks.

They arrived in Twin Falls in the morning. Everyone worked fast and hard to raise the big tent, with the help of the circus's elephant.

After two evening shows in a parking lot, they'll be back on the road again the same night.

Big John Strong's International Circus plays mostly one night stands. Big John, the owner of the circus, says in the past 28 weeks the show has traveled 28,000 miles across America and Canada.

For most people such a vigorous life on the road would be too much. For the performers in Big John's International Circus, however, it is the freedom of this life of constant travel that is ultimately fulfilling.

Big John Strong has been in the circus all his life and wouldn't trade his life for any other. He has tried other lives. He's been a shoe salesman and a mattress salesman.

"I'm 56 and I was born in the business," Big

John says. "I was an actor once. I used to be in the movies 30 years ago. It never turned me on like the circus. Once you're in it you're not normal."

Big John claims no other way of life is as satisfying for him.

"I have been in other businesses," he admits. "But for me just collecting money for the rent and not doing it turn me on, the freedom and the ability to travel. Every day you meet new people. There is no chance for boredom. I never intend to retire."

Many people dream of a life traveling with a show across the country. Perhaps every small child has dreamed of a good time traveling.

Donald Young plays Pogo the clown. He gave up a more sedentary life for one with the circus.

Young is 30 years old. He grew up in Long Island, N.Y., and earned a Masters-Degree in Drama from Carnegie Mellon University in Pennsylvania. Young formerly taught drama and was struggling to get steady work in the theater. He was involved with several serious drama productions in New York City and Pittsburgh before he decided to abandon it all.

One day he packed up and joined the circus.

He's convinced now he did the right thing.

"I like it better than the theater," Young says. "It's giving people a good time traveling."

Young is no longer struggling to eke out a living, as he once was. His work is very different than before. It's no longer "serious drama."

But it has its compensations.

"It's just as important to make people laugh and make some money," he affirms.

In a moment of truthfulness he also admits there are psychological satisfactions in being a clown and making an audience laugh.

Young confesses he feels a thrill when his "top is blown by kids laughing."

Life with the circus, traveling almost every day and putting on shows at night, is not an easy life, though. It can be hard and trying at times.

Big John says there is a constant trial against winds and mud and rain.

"To me you could spend a lifetime in trouble. You could never make it a week if you didn't have it," Big John said.

For Young the worst part of circus life is the mud in the constant travel and raising and lowering of the Big Top.

"The worst thing about it is the mud," he says. "We can usually take the tent down in 1 1/2 hours. One night it took us 23 hours to take it down. The trucks were up to their axles in mud."

For a clown there are other trials besides the weather. Young says it's hard sometimes when he is tired after a show and he will have to drive a couple hundred miles before the night is through and a kid who saw the show comes up and starts bothering him.

"The kids will start pinching you," Young says. "It takes a deep breath and a thought to keep control. They think all clowns are indestructible."

There is a camaraderie among people in the circus which all the performers and workers talk warmly about.

Big John says the International Circus "is strictly a family type operation. Like it was 100 years ago." There are 34 performers in the show. Big John's wife works the concession stands and his own four-year-old son, Terrell, even has part in an act.

Young described the bond between members of the show as "a brotherhood."

"There's a brotherhood in the circus," he said. "That feeling holds throughout the business—a real camaraderie."

Young said circus people will generally have about one day off in a week. On that day off he'll go see another circus if he can.

"I've driven 300 miles to see a circus on my day off," he remarked casually. "It's like a big network of friends."

Big John Strong has spent most of his life traveling with the circus. He says he can't wait to retire.

Donald Young is still 30. He says he can't peer too far into the future. But four years from now he says he hopes to have four or five acts, a family this girlfriend is a troupe artist with another circus and they hope to join up in about a year, and be happy traveling with the road.

Life in the circus can be hard, tiring one. But for the people who make it, it's a free, happy life.

US urges Korea to punish offenders

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) — The United States called on North Korea today to punish those responsible for the killing of two U.S. army officers.

North Korea said only it would stand by an "entire expression of regret over the attack."

"The North Koreans, however, proposed that troops of both sides along the demilitarized zone border be separated to prevent a recurrence of such incidents.

"To remove the possibility of conflict — we believe it is most reasonable to separate security personnel of both sides," North Korean Army Maj. Gen. Han Ju-kyong told U.S. Navy Rear Adm. Mark Frudden, chief delegate of the U.N. Command, in a meeting of the Korean Armistice Commission.

The North Korean general said North Korea and U.N. command checkpoints in the Joint Security Area at Panmunjom should be separated so that no such posts exist in territory under control of the other side.

"It is regrettable that the recent incident occurred in the area," Han said. He said all incidents in the JSA in the past had occurred because the security personnel of the two sides could move around freely in the area.

Frudden promised to study the North Korean suggestion, which the North Korean radio termed a "reasonable proposal."

Frudden demanded firm assurances by North Korea for the safety of U.N. personnel along the border and said, "I have called this meeting for one purpose, and that was to inform you that our side calls for punishment of those responsible for the murder of the two U.N. officers."

But Han said a message sent Saturday by President Kim Il-sung expressing regret for the assault, contained his country's entire response.

"We consider this statement of yours a positive step," Frudden said. "However, the fact remains that two U.S. officers were brutally beaten to death without prosecution and that fact calls for punishment of those responsible for the act."

14-year-old TF boy dies after collapse

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Charles "Chuck" Van Eaton, a 14-year-old O'Leary Junior High School boy, died today after collapsing during a football practice Monday afternoon.

He filled out the required forms, passed a physical and obtained the necessary insurance, but he never lived to pick up his uniform.

Chuck was eager to play when he showed up for the first football practice of the year held at Robert Stuart Junior High School fields Monday, according to O'Leary coach Edward W. Arndt.

"He was waiting in line to get a uniform when he came up to me and said he had a splitting headache," Arndt said. "I had him lay down, and then (coach) Clarence Phillips went and phoned his sister to pick him up. I didn't know exactly what was happening so I had a boy staying with him."

"Next thing I knew they were taking him away, and I don't know if he was conscious or not," Arndt said.

Chuck arrived at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital about 4 p.m., according to Mary Goe, chief of hospital public relations. "It was obvious he had suffered a serious head condition, an attack of some kind," she said. Chuck never regained consciousness.

"When it became obvious his condition was deteriorating," a helicopter was called to airlift the boy to St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise about 7 p.m., she said.

Since no neurologist or neurosurgeons were on hand in Twin Falls, doctors apparently decided to send the boy to Boise.

He only lasted the night at St. Alphonsus before dying at 9 a.m. Tuesday, according to a hospital spokesman. Ada County Coroner Steve Jablonski released the results of an autopsy later the same day.

"He died of spontaneous cerebral hemorrhage," or internal bleeding in the head, Jablonski said. "There is no indication of foul play was involved."

Cerebral hemorrhaging is a natural cause of death, the coroner said. "It is a rare cause that comes without warning."

The coroner said he hadn't seen a similar case in six months.

O'Leary principal Carl Snow called the boy "an average kid, a nice boy, a big kid who was one of the largest kids in school."

Coach Arndt said the "big good-natured boy" was a strong prospect for the ninth grade team. "Most likely, he would have played quite a bit as a lineman," Arndt said.

Chuck was a starting defensive tackle for an eighth grade team last year, according to the coach. He also was the only eighth grade heavy weight wrestler last year, the coach said.

Arndt said Chuck never complained about dizzy spells or severe headaches before Monday afternoon. When the boy complained to the coach about his severe headache, the coach checked Chuck's physical report which the boy was carrying at the time.

"His blood pressure was normal, a little low in fact, so I didn't suspect anything," Arndt said.

The two Americans, Capt. Arthur Bonifas, 33, of Newburgh, N.Y., and 1st Lt. Mak Barrett, 25, of Columbia, S.C., were accompanying a tree trimming work party in the Demilitarized Zone Aug. 18 when they were beaten to death by North Korean guards. Both were buried with military honors Tuesday.

Police fire on blacks

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South African riot police fired on black gangs rampaging through the black township of Soweto today, killing two more persons in unprovoked violence just outside Johannesburg. Zulu tribesmen armed with clubs and long knives also attacked the roving gangs.

The latest victims raised the death toll to 10 in the latest outbreak of Soweto violence, witnesses said. African Police did not confirm the slayings and said bodies were still being collected on the third day of a strike by thousands of the 200,000 workers who daily commute to downtown Johannesburg jobs.

Witnesses said chanting gangs of Zulu tribesmen, in a bloody backlash against anti-apartheid demonstrators trying to enforce the strike, attacked homes with rocks and clubs and dragged away women.

Witnesses said chanting gangs were reported engaged in the bloody street clashes that police were unable to contain. The death toll was still rising, police said, and security forces were "collecting bodies."

Howe mulls political plans

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Rep. Allan Howe, convicted a second time of trying to buy sexual favors from two police deputy prostitutes, says he will need time to decide whether to seek reelection.

After a two-day trial, a jury of five men and three women deliberated only 22 minutes Tuesday before finding the freshman Utah Democrat guilty of the charges.

He will be sentenced today.

Upon hearing the verdict, Howe embraced his weeping wife, Mariene, and his five children. He said he had not yet decided whether to appeal the verdict.

He said he was "very, very disappointed" and would be "looking at a lot of problems this presents" before deciding whether to withdraw his candidacy for reelection.

Howe is looking the stand in his own defense for the first time Tuesday and testified he had gone to the West Side, June 12 and had talked to the two blacked-blood decoys. But he said their version was a "complete fabrication."

Circus road goes on forever

John says. "I was an actor once. I used to be in the movies 30 years ago. It never turned me on like the circus. Once you're in it you're not normal."

Big John claims no other way of life is as satisfying for him.

"I have been in other businesses," he admits. "But for me just collecting money for the rent and not doing it turn me on, the freedom and the ability to travel. Every day you meet new people. There is no chance for boredom. I never intend to retire."

Heat, wind sear upper US midland

By United Press International

A deadly combination of blistering heat and dry winds gripped the northern midlands today, feeding massive forest fires and shriveling crops.

"It's so dry in upper Michigan and a lot of Minnesota the air crackles," a National Weather Service spokesman said.

Hundreds of firemen battled the largest Michigan forest fire in nearly 50 years. The uncontrolled blaze blackened more than 16,500 acres of Upper Peninsula forest land and threatens even more. Officials said Tuesday more than 11,000 acres of the burned out land is in the Seney National Wildlife Refuge. The remaining acreage is state land to the south and west of the refuge.

The fire, apparently triggered by lightning in a peat bog near L. Smolander for about three weeks before taking off at a run Sunday, and growing to be the largest Michigan forest fire since 1929, when 15 square miles of Presque Isle County burned.

Serious injuries have been reported and officials said there is an immediate threat to private or public buildings.

Air tankers from Alaska were dispatched Tuesday to drop water bombs on the 3-week-old blaze.

Bogs and swamps proved an obstacle to firefighters.

"It's difficult for the men to get into many areas because they find themselves waist-deep in swamp," a spokesman said. "We just can't take our equipment into some areas."

He said a bulldozer sank in one swamp late last week.

Nearly 400 fire fighters tried to contain a fire that burned 2,500 acres in the Boundary Waters Canoe area in drought-ravaged Minnesota. The fire was one of 60 forest and grass fires in the dust-dry, heat-baked state.

One fire fighter fell onto a power line and was hospitalized in serious condition.

Splish splash

WITH Britain suffering in the worst drought in 250 years, thousands of precious gallons of water were lost Tuesday when a city water main in Sheffield burst underground, causing flooding conditions for homework-bound vehicular traffic. (UPI)

British government battles drought-caused problems

LONDON (UPI)—The British government, battling rising unemployment and the worst drought in 250 years, has promised water priority for industry to keep factories open.

After meeting with senior ministers Tuesday, Prime Minister James Callaghan appointed Sports Minister Denis Howell to coordinate relief efforts as the 15-month drought showed no sign of ending.

It has not rained in London since July 20 and the city's water supply is down to 90 days.

With the unemployment situation clearly in mind, Howell said families must cut water consumption by half to keep factories open.

The unemployment figures for mid-August topped 1.5 million for the first time since the start of World War II and showed a 6.4 per cent of the labor force is jobless — a higher percentage than for several of Britain's Communist market partners. West Germany has a 14.7 per cent unemployed, France 5.4 per cent, The Netherlands 5 per cent.

Industrial leaders have said severe water restrictions could shut factories for two or three days a week. Some might have to close permanently.

Eighty per cent of Britain's factories have their own sources of water, outside municipal systems, said John Metven, director general of the Confederation of British Industries.

But the combined effect of the drought and the unemployment figures depressed the Financial Times stock market share index 4.4 points to 357.6, its lowest level since 1974.

Warning that the drought was "serious but not yet critical" Howell pledged enough supplies to keep essential industries working.

But he also said citizens will have to make sacrifices.

"The flowers are going to have to wilt, the cars are going to have to remain dirty. Water used for bathing is also going to have to be used for flushing toilets. The washing machine is going to have to be used only once or twice a week," he said.

Average rainfall next winter will not ensure adequate supplies for next summer. If the drought is prolonged, the government is prepared to declare a state of emergency, he said.

In the worst area, southeast Wales, householders have water only seven hours a day. Supplies to factories there will be halved next week.

Wealthigenes see no break in the cloudless skies within the next month. The forecasters on television bare three familiar, and by now, unwelcome, words: "Dry, hot and sunny."

Pickup trucks collide

ACCIDENT — A pickup driven by Peggy Ann Watson, 536 Madison St., and a pickup driven by Clifford Brown, 20401, 261 Casswell Ave., collided about 5 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of Blue Lake Lakes North and Falls Avenue, police said. Damage to Stoker's car was estimated at $200. No damage was done to Erkins' car, police said. Erkins was cited for failure to yield right of way.

Police said Watson had been attempting to make a left turn from Washington when Zuff's pickup hit hers in the back. Police cited Zuff for following too closely. No injuries reported.

Soviet cosmonauts return to earth

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two Soviet cosmonauts reported suffering from "sensory deprivation" were back on earth today, ending a seven-week mission on the orbiting Salyut 1 space laboratory that fell far short of the American-held space endurance record.

"The cosmonauts' general condition is satisfactory," the official Tass news agency reported.

Tass said Col. Boris Volynov, 39, and Lt. Col. Vitaly Yevdov, 29, "landed smoothly" at 9:23 p.m. Moscow time (12:33 p.m. EDT) Tuesday at a pre-set area 124 miles southwest of the town of Khabarovsk in Kazakhstan, the Soviet republic on the Pacific coast.

The Salyut space station continued to orbit earth with all of its systems "performing normally," Tass said.

"The cosmonauts, who landed into orbit July 6 and docked with the Salyut the next day, fulfilled completely their assigned program, Tass said.

But their 49 days in space left them more than 4 months out of the record of 84 days set in 1974 by Salyut astronauts in the U.S. Skylab program. The longest Soyuz stay was 63 days, two cosmonauts aboard the Salyut 1 station a year ago.

The only hint of a problem aboard the 25-ton space lab came last week when the government newspaper Izvestia reported the cosmonauts were suffering from a psychological phenomenon it described as "a state of sensory deprivation, a sort of sensory hunger."

THEFT — Jerry Dellinger, 541 Sunnys Blvd., reported a white car from bench was taken from the front seat of his home during the weekend. He estimated the loss at $100.

VANDALISM — Allen Chapman, 243 Curney St., reported the radio antenna was broken off his car at his home during the weekend. He estimated the loss at $8.25.

ACCIDENT — A car driven by Sharon M. Patterson, 1429 Fourth Ave. E., and one driven by Michael W. Hadlock, Jerome, collided at the intersection of Blue Lake Boulevard North and Florence Avenue Saturday morning, police said. No injuries or damage was reported.

ACCIDENT — A motorcycle driven by Michael Dean Johnson, Jerome, and a pickup driven by Robert Lee, Bybee Rd., 2400 Falls Ave. E., collided on the 400 block of East-Lander Drive North Saturday night, police said. Johnson was charged with following too closely. Police said Johnson ran into the back of the pickup. Police estimated damage to the pickup at $50 and to the motorcycle $200. No injuries reported.

Senate intelligence panel probes Roselli death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Intelligence Committee is investigating on its own the murder of mobster John Roselli, seeking a link with CIA plots to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and possible Cuban counterplots against President Kennedy.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., reported to the committee in a bug-proof room Tuesday on a mission to Miami, where he consulted with the Dade County Public Safety Department on what he learned or suspected about Roselli's murder.

The body of the 71-year-old gangster was found two weeks ago stuffed in a chain-weighted, 55-gallon oil drum floating in a bay near Miami.

Roselli's name kept emerging in the strange circulation CIA plots to kill Castro.

And, again, in connection with Castro's reported schemes to "get even" by killing Kennedy, once he learned of the CIA "contracts" on his life.

The FBI at first would not enter the Roselli murder, saying police felt it was a "typical, gangland slaying." That was their attitude when Roselli, enemy, Memo Salvatore, "Sam" Giancana, was killed in his Chicago home in July a few days before he was to have testified before Senate intelligence investigators.

Giancana also was recruited by the CIA in the early 1960's, but the Justice Department said in February it was satisfied the killing was unconnected with Castro. The CIA added that any attempts to connect the agency to Kennedy's assassination were "purely speculative."

But under increasing criticism, Attorney General Edward H. Levi announced two weeks ago that the FBI would enter the Roselli case.

The FBI released Sunday a summary of a one-year-old interview with Edward Morgan, once Roselli's lawyer, which said his client believed Castro agents were involved in the Kennedy killing.

Morgan said Roselli, while recruiting Cubans in Florida to kill Castro for the CIA in the early 1960's, learned of Castro "teams of individuals who were dispatched to the United States for the purpose of assassinating President Kennedy."

Roselli testified in July about the roles he and Giancana played. He said they were recruited by Robert Maheu, a former FBI agent and Howard Hughes aide, to line up "hit men" in Florida. Maheu substantiated the testimony.

Roselli testified last year that Maheu gave him CIA-made poison pills and money in early 1961.

Roselli twice passed pills to anti-Castro Cuban agents. One got cold feet at the last minute, another never delivered.

These were part of eight "concretely evidenced" assassination plots against Castro which the intelligence committee traced to the CIA. The agency has admitted it supplied unworldly figures and various groups with high powered rifles, poisoned cigars, LSD-type chemicals, deadly bacteriological powders and other devices which strain "the imagination" to do away with Castro.

When Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, took over as chairman of the new intelligence committee in May, he said it might take up to six months before the panel decides whether to reopen the investigation into the Kennedy assassination and a possible Cuban connection.

Edited testimony nettles Georgian

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., says he intends to find out how far the President's budget office goes, and why, in editing the testimony of federal witnesses before congressional committees.

Nunn was angered Tuesday when U.S. Customs Com. missioner Vernon Acree told a hearing chaired by Nunn that his testimony about the Drug Enforcement Administration had been censored by the Office of Management and Budget.

The hearing was by the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations, which is examining drug trafficking enforcement.

Acree read a statement and then was asked by Nunn if any of it had been censored or deleted.

"There have been some parts that have been taken out," Acree said.

At Nunn's questioning, Acree said Joseph Mullnix and Roger Adkins of the OMB had phoned him, after seeing his prepared testimony, and told him to take out two paragraphs.

The sections dealt with the operation of DEA, an agency set up in a narcotics enforcement reorganization when Richard Nixon was president. Nixon's budget office supported the reorganization.

Acree said one offending paragraph led to the law number of drug seizures based on intelligence work of the DEA and the other spoke of customs being dependent on DEA for some intelligence that "has not been forthcoming."

Nunn said that if the OMB is going to edit testimony, "we might as well get the OMB user here to testify for everybody."

He added, "We are going to find out if we are going to have censored testimony or allow frank and candid testimony."

Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander testified that when tax laws are used against "narcotics kingpins," it is important the cases be sound rather than just a harassment weapon.

"If the IRS comes to be viewed by the taxpaying public as a weapon, tax administration may suffer," he said.

Acree said taking away penalties for smuggling small amounts of marijuana probably would not bring an upsurge in enforcement against "hard drugs" because "we still have to be out there, looking and testing."

"We don't know what we are going to find," he said.

Chemical guards may win passage

WASHINGTON — Comprehensive new legislation to protect human health and the environment from unnecessary exposure to hazardous chemicals — a measure which has been caught in Congressional controversy since 1971 — has a good chance of receiving final approval in the current session of Congress, according to Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., the bill's leading champion in the House.

Eckhardt's confidence lay in Monday's overwhelming House vote — 319 to 45 — in favor of a stronger toxic substances control bill than has passed that body in two previous sessions.

"Considering that vote, I don't think there is much possibility that a bill won't finally pass. We're in good shape," Eckhardt said in an interview after the House vote.

The House now goes to conference on the bill with the Senate, which passed an even stronger measure last March.

Enactment has been blocked in the past when toxic substance legislation got bogged down in conference disagreements, but Eckhardt predicted confidently that a compromise between the two chambers would be easier this year "because we're much closer together in the beginning."

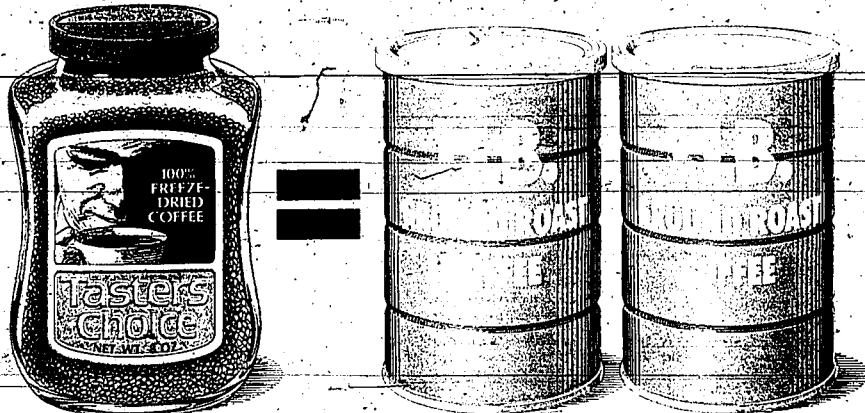

The Texas Congressman said that toxic substances control would become one of the "major pillars of environmental and safety protection" and perhaps the "most fundamental" in that it provides for the first time a means of preventing possible chemical catastrophes by keeping dangerous substances from ever reaching the marketplace.

Most of the major environmental and health measures — addressing air, water, the workplace and consumer products — have provided cleanup remedies after damage has already been done.

Norway on brink of oil riches

By PETER T. KILBORN
C.W. Times Service

Oslo — Norway is poised to become the world's richest country, surpassing all except the few Arab sheikdoms that float out.

It is oil in Norway, too. North Sea oil, that is pushing the country past Switzerland and neighboring Sweden, currently the world leaders in wealth per capita. But unlike Kuwait or Saudi Arabia, Norway's oil wealth will be relatively well spent.

The country's prosperity has spawned a new model of the welfare state, a prosperous model that is still the fulfilled goal of the Caucasian nations and a more generous and humane experiment, people here say, than the well known one of Sweden.

They have the distinct impression that Norwegians are satisfied with their lives," said Bjorn Holstad, head of the Norwegian Gallup Institute. "Quite a few people are saying they are too affluent and could do without." One Gallup study found that 76 per cent of Norway's 4 million people felt they were ten well off, in relation to the rest of the world and that an additional 22 per cent felt their living standard was satisfactory. Ninety per cent think they eat too much.

Norway's growing oil wealth has meant that the government can disregard the harsh methods other countries sometimes have to use to protect their economies.

Last year, when the worldwide recession forced nearly all other Western developed countries to accept high unemployment and economic decline, Norway enjoyed almost full employment and real economic growth Norway did by running up unprecedented debts in foreign loans, which will all be repaid, with little apparent pain from the coming surge in oil revenues.

Such policies are popping Norway ahead of the rest of the world. Just three years ago, before the first oil had come ashore, Norway ranked ninth among the 25 developed countries that make up the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development

By next year, Norway was third—its per capita gross national product then was $7,100. This was $50 more than that of the United States and about $1,300 behind Switzerland and Sweden.

This year, and well into the 1980s Norwegians expect their economy to grow at annual rates of 6 per cent and more. Switzerland's economy, by contrast, will grow only 1 per cent this year, the OECD predicts, and that of Sweden only 2 per cent.

Norway's prosperity is not the sort experienced by countries that blossomed earlier in the Industrial Revolution. It is not the lightning wealth of the relatively few that is apparent here.

There are few real equivalents of swank shops or plush homes, no private schools to speak of, no well-heeled teenagers in sports cars. The only Rolls Royce in Oslo is believed to be the British Ambassador's, and of the thousands of boats in Oslo Fjord, the only true big yacht belongs to the country's royal King Olav.

Norway's wealth, instead, is that of a sprawling middle class with paper-thin minorities at the extremes. Factory workers live nearly as well as their bosses. Every elementary school has a doctor, a dentist and a nurse. Up to half the population owns or has ready access to a second home, usually a modest, wood-frame cabin in the mountains or along the coasts.

Taxes are among the world's highest. They are a common source of complaint, and even so, there is a national sport. But it is the tax system, primarily, that has equalized incomes and preserved much of the traditional society. Taxes are used to subsidize farmers and fishermen.

The country's widely distributed prosperity has been hard on frugality. "Small boys," said Mrs. Tove Pihl, a school headmistress, "refuse to wear white undergarments. They have to be colorful. And you should see the standard of their bicycles, their skis and their ski boots." Despite their affluence, Norwegians have their worries, and their society has its flaws. There are still a few big businessmen—land owners and secretive shipowners—who have been able to beat the system. One shipowner paid no taxes at all last year because of business reversals, but at his home he built a tennis court, an indoor swimming pool and a garden.

At the other end of the social scale are the dropouts and the rejects, many of them dark-skinned immigrants—workers from Pakistan whom the homogenous Nordic race has been reluctant to take to absorb.

"In general," said Odd Steffen Dalgaard, one of the country's few psychiatrists, "Norwegians are happy to be Norwegians. But we are not a welfare state in that all our problems are solved."

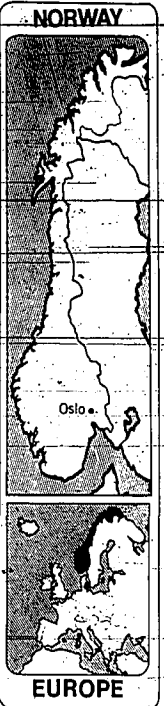

The urbanization of Norway, he said, seemed to be creating even more stress here than in other countries because until now Norway had been an unusually immobile, rural society.

"It seems to be," he said, "that people are less concerned with each other. There's a trend that problems should be met by some form of expert help. In rural areas, people are able to use their resources to help one another."

Flaws have crept into the economy, too. Inflation last year exceeded 10 per cent, and it is still above that level now. A higher level of inflation than most other countries are experiencing, means that eventually the prices of the goods Norway exports will exceed those of competing countries.

Oil is coming ashore at an annual rate of .16 million tons, twice the amount the country uses for its own purposes. By 1980, the rate will be 70 million tons. It will continue to flow into the next century. Revenues from the sale of oil then should be about $3.5 billion, or $90 per capita.

But even in the 1980s, oil will still represent only a quarter of Norway's exports. The other exports—lumber pulp, furniture, machinery, saildries—will have to sell at competitive prices to assure the country's prosperity.

Eroding farmlands a quiet threat

Since 1966, more than 22 million acres of farmland in the U.S. have gone into highways, housing developments and man-made lakes.

This erosion of farmlands isn't a widely discussed phenomenon in the nation, largely because America's phenomenal agricultural output continually provides food for millions of earthlings on five continents.

Still, preservation of productive farmland must be considered one of the most critical challenges facing American agriculture.

American farmers will be asked in coming decades to produce even more food for the expanding world population.

Yet American farmlands are being eroded at a faster rate today than at any time in the 20th century.

Suburbs keep chewing up the usable farmlands around every city; airports, highways and other manmade monuments chop up the fields in rural areas.

Idaho Sen. James McClure recognizes the need to preserve American farmlands. McClure helped organize a nationwide program called "Farm Line" which is designed to help American farmers talk with national political leaders about ways to protect farmlands from shrinking even more.

What Sen. McClure is trying to do is show farmers why land planning at the county and statelevel level must continue. As McClure sees it, farmers gain nothing by fighting land use planning while developers gobble up farmlands for urban needs.

Any good farmer plans ahead. The fundamental resources a farmer needs to make a living are land and water.

Today the pressure on farmland and water resources used in agriculture is mounting.

Clearly it is in the best interest of America's and Idaho's farmers to begin working on long-range plans to protect farmlands from further erosion.

B-1 bomber earns wings in series of air tests

(Editor's note: Dale D. Myers is president of North American Aircraft Operations of Rockwell International, Inc.)

By DALE D. MYERS

There is regrettable irony in the fact the Air Force B-1 bomber is the focal point of a tunding battle on Capitol Hill.

The Senate has recently decided to delay that decision until after Feb. 1, 1977. The delay was necessary to allow the newly elected president whoever he may be can further evaluate B-1 flight test data before deciding on a go-ahead.

There are two reasons a delay is unsound. First, after more than a year and a half of intensive flight testing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., plus years of ground tests, the B-1 already has demonstrated virtually all of its major design requirements. Air Force Secretary Thomas C. Reed recently pointed out that no new test information of significance to a productive decision will become available between November and February.

The second reason is that a delay now will cost millions of dollars to the program. The Air Force estimates that the additional cost could reach as high as $50 million.

It is ironic that the B-1 debate has created the image of a questionable product. Nothing could be further from the truth. It is over the United States, the acknowledged leader in the manufacture of fine military aircraft, that has produced a superior airplane.

Each of the four secretaries of defense since 1970 has supported the program after careful evaluation of its need. As secretary, James Schlesinger requested and defended the long lead procurement funds approved by Congress last year.

The B-1's performance in flight testing is so outstanding that former astronaut Maj. Gen. Thomas Stafford, commander of the Air Force Flight Test Center at Edwards said:

There is no feasible alternative to the B-1, as indicated in Congressional testimony by former Air Force Secretary John McLucas. A B-32 with modified engines would have substantial deficiencies in takeoff and in low-level capabilities compared to the B-1. Dr. McLucas said:

It would require ten times as many enlarged—or stretched—B-1's to do the job of B-1's. "A stretched version," Dr. McLucas said, "could not provide adequate target

In rebuttal, the Air Force points out that in terms of today's dollars, the total life cycle cost of the B-1 fleet is $26.8 billion." This cost encompasses, in addition to research and development work and the manufacture of 210 operational aircraft, the cost of fuel, crews, weapons, maintenance, and ground support equipment and personnel over a 20-year period of full fleet operations.

The B-1 research and development program, itself, has been a model of efficiency. In six years since the contract was awarded by the Air Force, the cost estimate, in terms of 1970 dollars, has increased by only 11 per cent, despite the complexity of the program. A full 89 per cent of the total increase is due solely to inflation, according to the Air Force.

Secretary Reed recently said: "The B-1 is one of the best managed programs in the history of the Department of Defense, a remarkable achievement when you consider the complexity of the work."

A persistent question is asked about the B-1. "Is it necessary in the missile age?" Gen. Russell E. Dougherty, commander of the Strategic Air Command, recently outlined 14 reasons why the answer is unequivocally yes. He points out that a bomber can be launched immediately in a crisis to provide high visibility of national resolve while providing precious time for peaceful negotiation. Most importantly, it can be recalled if peace prevails in a ballistic missile cannot.

In conclusion, Gen. Dougherty said: "A long-range, manned penetrating bomber offers a uniquely capable and dependable strategic delivery system that spreads itself reliably and capably across the broadest possible spectrum of those required military capabilities. When completely modernized and manned with skilled, ingenious military crews, such a penetrating bomber offers the United States an overall flexibility of choice and application that is unmatched by any other weapons system."

"Simply stated, I view the B-1 as the best candidate, while reasonably available, to satisfy the future requirement for a modern manned penetrating bomber — and to provide the U.S. with the diversified characteristics that are and will be needed in our complementary mix of strategic delivery systems. Not only do I view it as the best, I do not see any other comparable system that can reasonably be expected to do this job as I think it must be done for assurance — or for long-term economics."

GOP sears remain

© Chicago Daily News

The Republicans leave Kansas City with their slate complete and at least a few nubs in the direction of party unity. But the sears are still showing Ronald Reagan and his most fervent backers displayed more interest in continuing to fight for the cause" than in bringing their zeal to bear in a fall campaign to elect President Ford.

It is hard to see what strength Sen. Hubert Dole brings to the Ford campaign in these circumstances. His selection as the vice-presidential nominee seemed to surprise Dole as much as a dirt almost every body else. And while it may be that the dynamics of the convention precluded Ford from reaching out for a better-known, stronger running mate, or taking a dramatic gamble such as picking Ambassador Anne Arundine or Massachusetts Sen. Edward Brooke the choice he did make promises to add little luster to the campaign.

Dole is rated as a tough, sharp-tongued campaigner. He demonstrated those qualities to good effect in his own re-election campaign in 1974. His opponents in that race tried to beat him with the Watergate issue, but he turned it back on them with devastating effect. Dole was chairman of the Republican National Committee during Richard Nixon's 1972 campaign, but that committee was rendered almost helpless by the Committee to Elect the President (CEP), on which the name of Watergate fell so heavily. Dole was dumped as Republican chairman early in 1972, but nevertheless remained a staunch Nixon backer to the very end.

His record in Congress shows Dole to be right of center, but hardly what might be termed a "mossback." He has no apparent political liabilities unless a recent divorce and remarriage still count as such. But neither is it immediately apparent that he fulfills the first requirement of a vice-presidential pick: he is eminently qualified to step into the Presidency should the need arise.

Friendship and "compatibility," dating back to the days Ford and Dole worked together in the House, seem to have taken priority in this case.

Date apparently was acceptable to Ronald Reagan, who could hardly object on ideological grounds once he had chosen the most liberal Republican he could find. Sen. Richard Schweiker, as his own running mate.

Yet by picking Dole, a main White House staff member is writing off the South and perhaps much of the Northeast as well. In a race where the GOP starts so far behind Jimmy Carter and the Democrats, this strategy is itself a surprising

Speculation has arisen that the choice was dictated by Ford's desire to have a stronger tie to his side. Dole's speech as temporary chairman of the convention clearly established him in that role. He came out swinging at Jimmy Carter, referring to him as a "quick change artist" and as a man who is "a mass of contradictions."

This could become one of those "high road, low road" campaigns, with Ford remaining presidential while his running mate snags the opposition. But that assumes people pay no attention to what the candidates for the Nov. 2 spot say, which isn't necessarily true.

In any case, the stage is set for the final duel. The cast of characters is complete, and Election Day is only 11 weeks away. What matters most now is a full discussion of the issues, which have been too far overshadowed during the clashing of personalities.

In a letter to his wife Abigail, on July 3, 1776, John Adams called the Continental Congress' action declaring the colonies free and independent states as a most memorable date in American history.

"You will think me transported with enthusiasm; but I am not. I am well aware of the toil, and blood, and treasure, that it will cost us, to maintain this declaration, and support and defend these States. Yet, through the plea, I can see the rays of reviving light and glory. I can see that the end is more than worth all the means, and that posterity will triumph in that day's transaction, even though we should rue it, which I trust in God we shall not...The second day of July, 1776, will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forevermore.

Carter draws boos, cheers

By United Press International
 Jimmy Carter is finding boos as well as cheers on the presidential campaign trail.

The Democratic nominee drew heavy applause Tuesday night when he told farmers in Des Moines, Iowa, President Ford had vetoed four times as many bills as had Richard Nixon.

"Anybody who is four times as negative as Richard Nixon, I think he has stayed there too long," Carter said.

There also had been plenty of applause during Carter's speech earlier Tuesday to the American Legion's national convention in Seattle — until he paused and said:

"I want you to listen carefully for I want you to understand what I say. I do not favor a blanket amnesty but for those who violated Selective Service laws I intend to grant a blanket pardon."

"No! No!" shouted many Legionnaires. Boos went on for three minutes before Legion Commander Harry Wells gavelled the meeting to order.

But at the end of the talk, in which Carter advocated a strong military posture and a possible resumption of the draft, the former submarine commander got a standing ovation.

Ford, at his mountain retreat in Vail, Colo., proposed that the debate planned between him and Carter continue four rounds. Shortly after Labor Day, he said, they should debate defense and later have debates on domestic, foreign and economic policy — in that order.

Carter has yet to outline the type of format he favors, except to say he would like to have a cross examination by each candidate, and by reporters. Representatives of the two candidates will meet in Washington Thursday to discuss a format.

Two federal agencies and Congress must decide legal questions about the debate, including whether they can be televised and who can pay for them.

The Federal Election Commission will determine whether the debates, if sponsored as proposed by a group like the League of Women Voters, can be financed by private money. The new federal election law calls for the election campaign to be financed solely with federal funds.

Equal time provisions of federal broadcast regulations prohibit networks from staging and televising debates. Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., head of a Senate subcommittee which controls broadcast legislation, expressed doubt whether an exemption might be granted to permit networks to televise the debates.

In Hartford, Conn., former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota said he doesn't care whether his independent campaign for the presidency hurts Carter's bid.

"I can't think of a recent election in which I'd be less concerned as to whether I am being elected than I am in this one," McCarthy said.

No pressure seen in Eastland's call

HOUSTON (UPI) — Amid the national debate over whether to let Richard Nixon on criminal charges, Leon Jaworski received a telephone call from a powerful Democratic senator with a disturbing report on Nixon's condition.

Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., asked to meet with Jaworski, the Watergate special prosecutor. Eastland said the former president had called him from San Clemente, Calif.

"He was crying," Eastland said. "He said, 'Jim, don't let Jaworski put me in that trial with Haldean and Ehrlichman. I can't take any more.'"

Eastland shook his head. "He's in bad shape, Leon. Jaworski recounted the episode in his book, 'The Right and the Wrong,' which will be released in mid-September. Excerpts from the book were published Tuesday by the Houston Chronicle.

Jaworski said he did not feel Eastland was trying to pressure him.

"There was a touch of the pity he felt for Nixon in his voice, but not the slightest intimation that he was trying to twist my arm," Jaworski wrote.

"He was simply telling me something about a man in whom we both, for differing reasons, had a deep interest."

Sees gains

CHAIRMAN of the American Independent Party, William Shearer, said in Chicago Tuesday he thinks his party will benefit from a "substantial erosion" by the Republican Party and will also get a number of Democratic votes. (UPI)

Unsolved forever?

By United Press International
 Medical detectives have filled computers with information from the living and the dead, and chemical and biological warfare experts have joined the search. But one scientist says chances are increasing that the cause of the American Legion killer disease may remain a mystery.

The illness killed 26 persons and struck at least another 139, all of whom were connected with a state Legion convention in Philadelphia.

The convention was July 21 to 24. Since then, experts looking for the cause have checked scores of types of bacteria, viruses, toxins and poisons.

Today, they are as baffled as ever.

Dr. David Fraser, chief of special pathogens in the branch of bacterial diseases at the national Center for Disease Control's Bureau of Epidemiology, says that with each day that passes, the chances rise that the key to the "Legionnaire's Disease" will remain a mystery.

The mystery was not unprecedented. The Atlanta-based center completed a seven-year investigation into an illness that struck a large number of persons working in a single building in Pontiac, Mich., in 1968. It never found the cause of that disease, either.

A similarly fruitless investigation was conducted in 1965 into an illness contracted by 94 persons in a psychiatric hospital in Washington, D.C., where the death toll was 17 per cent.

Abort foes helped Dole

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — If-possible vice presidential nominee Sen. Robert Dole accepted help from an anti-abortion group in his 1974 senatorial campaign, a report on Federal Election Commission records shows.

The New York Times reported today that Dole accepted as a 1974 campaign contribution the cost of anti-abortion advertisements he said last Sunday he had disavowed.

Dole's opponent, former Rep. William Roy, said the anti-abortion campaign was a key factor in his defeat.

A leader in the anti-abortion campaign, Rev. Sterling Lacy of Topeka, acknowledged Tuesday that he did not file with the FEC records on the money spent in behalf of Dole. The FEC is investigating.

Bill Wolford, Dole's administrative assistant and 1974 campaign coordinator, said: "We were not making the abortion issue part of the formal campaign. It was not something we sanctioned or encouraged."

But former press aide Sam Richardson, who kept a file of news releases, said the Dole campaign never disavowed the anti-abortion efforts.

Lacy said Tuesday he spent more than $4,000 on a mass mailing, but set up his contributions and distributions as a one-man business to avoid campaign reporting requirements.

A marriage counselor and fundamentalist protestant minister, Lacy denied receiving any financial or other support from the Dole campaign organization for his mailing.

He would not disclose the contributors who financed the 1974 mailing.

McMahon hearing set

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A hearing will be held next Tuesday on a complaint by Alyce McMahon, former wife of television personality Ed McMahon, linking him to an alleged plan to sell — without her consent — a $200,000 home she and her four children own.

The home, in Avalon, N.J., was described in the suit as the asset of McMahon Productions Inc., Rosemont, Pa., headed by McMahon. Its value was set at between $175,000 and $225,000. Attorneys for Alyce McMahon obtained a temporary restraining order to block a special meeting of McMahon shareholders which they claimed was called to dispose of Parkbush's assets, including the home, with proceeds to be distributed to creditors.

Trudeau tour

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and his wife, Margaret, Tuesday toured the Jordan Valley area near the cross-fire line between Jordan and Israel on the second day of their three-day private visit.

The couple was accompanied by Lt. Gen. J. P. Sissani who gave a detailed guide of Jordan's latest development plans for the fertile region.

Nix from Nixon

VALE, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford did not receive any wire or consultative telephone call from his predecessor, Richard Nixon, after winning the GOP presidential nomination last week, a White House spokesman said Tuesday.

The spokesman said a search of the listening wires and mail stayed none from Nixon, who appointed Ford vice president and paved the way for him to become president in the aftermath of the Watergate scandal.

Baby Cuan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor James Cuan and his second wife, Sheila, are the parents of a 6 1/2-pound son, Scott Andrew. The baby was born Monday night at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, said Dr. Mervyn Silverman. Cuan has a daughter, Tara, 11, from his first marriage.

Property settlement pending

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Zsa Zsa Gabor's sixth divorce went off without a hitch but the still pending property settlement may call for a Solomon-like judgment.

The actress, 55, was granted a divorce in Superior Court Tuesday from millionaire inventor Jack Ryan, 50, after 20 months of litigation.

Still to be settled is determination of community property — Miss Gabor maintains he made $1.4 million while they were married — and Miss Gabor's demand that he make good a promise to build a nightclub in her home. Also involved is custody of their now dismantled Holly-Royce. Miss Gabor and Ryan each have some of the parts.

May's ex-wife robbed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Burglars stole more than $250,000 worth of jewelry and other valuables from the home of Marguerite May Sewell, former wife of baseball star Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants and New York Mets, police said Tuesday.

The burglars broke into the home she shares with her husband, real estate developer John Sewell, while they were away last week. The thief stole a diamond ring valued at $140,000, a $40,000 diamond medallion, a television set, rugs, cameras and guns.

Fonzie escapes death

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Fonzie, a skunk whose stink mechanism was rendered inoperable, has escaped the gas chamber.

Oran J. Center, a Hayward, Calif., truck driver, found Fonzie at an Oregon truck stop and brought him home. His neighbors complained and animal control director Charles Nalley took the animal into custody because it is against the law to keep skunks, who may be rabid, as pets.

Fonzie's fate had been death by nitrogen gas, but Nalley found a home for him at the Youth Science Center menagerie.

Prisoners transferred

REGGIO EMILIA, Italy (UPI) — Ten prisoners at a jail in the nearby town of Montecchio have been transferred to other prisons because the only guard was arrested.

Authorities did not disclose the charge against guard Enzo Regazzini, but police sources said it may have been that he had given the prisoners too many liberties, including unauthorized visits by women.

Experience recalled

SEATTLE (UPI) — Jimmy Carter's skill, to Seattle, recalled him of a brush with death he experienced as a Navy lieutenant aboard a submarine in the city's harbor more than 25 years ago.

As Carter stood shaking hands with Boeing Co. employees at a shift change Tuesday, he told a reporter of his experience on the deck of the USS Pomfret in 1950.

"It was foggy and my sub was tied up at Pier 21," he said.

Carter said he was on a portion of deck submerged in five feet of water when he looked up to see a large merchant ship "suddenly looming over his head and heard the order, 'Let go anchor.'"

"They probably thought they were out in the bay," he said.

"If the anchor had fallen, it would have been on my head. It would have killed me."

Carter said he began shouting until someone on deck heard him and said, "Submerge when they're there."

"They probably thought I was in a small boat," Carter said. "It was about as close as I ever got to getting killed."

Double eagle

STEVEN Markoff, chairman of the board of the A-Mark Coin Co., Beverly Hills, Calif., displays the most expensive single coin in history which he recently acquired. It's a 1907 Indian Head $20 U.S. gold piece, or "double eagle." The coin is valued at a cool $1 million. (UPI)

Winning tickets all in 1 family

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Though the odds may be one in a billion, three members of an Allentown, Pa., family have won a total $70,000 in the Pennsylvania lotteries during the past two months.

The winners include a lottery sales agent, his wife and father-in-law, and all the winning tickets came from the same place.

"The odds on that must be at least one in a billion," said Lottery Director Lynn H. Nelson.

All the winning tickets were bought at a cafe in Allentown.

Constance K. Wert, 37, wife of the lottery sales agent and cafe owner, Frederick C. Wert, 37, first won $10,000 on June 4, one day after the state's Bicentennial Lottery $1 instant game started.

A short-time laborer Mrs. Wert's father, Allentown bar tender Harold Haines, 50, Kutztown, won a Bicentennial Lottery reserve ticket — the same number for 21 straight weeks in the Double Dollars game. On Aug. 4 Haines' reserve ticket number won, him $20,000.

Five days later on Aug. 9, Wert won $10,000 in the West Virginia Bicentennial Lottery.

"The odds on any winning a $10,000 instant lottery prize are one in 170,000," Nelson said. "The odds on two $10,000 winners in the same family would be close to one in a million."

"As for three family winners, even including two different games, I've put the odds at one in a billion at least."

The cloud of poison gas over the Severa region of Northern Italy has caused more than $24 million worth of damage in the most seriously contaminated area — a regional official said Tuesday.

The toxic chemical containing the deadly chemical dioxin, escaped from the Swiss-owned ICMESA chemical plant at Seveso, north of Milan, on July 10 when a safety valve burst.

Camping trips lead to probe

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles police Internal Affairs Division is investigating reports of sex between officers and girl scouting helpers.

Police denied reports the activities included orgies with girls as young as 14.

The girls are members of the Law Enforcement Girls or "LEEGs" — affiliated with the law enforcement explorers of the Boy Scouts, not with the Girl Scouts of America.

The explorers, from 14 to 18 years old, study law enforcement and work with police, sometimes as a preparation for entering police work.

The San Fernando Valley News and Green Sheet reported this week that one of the girls, who said she was not involved, had accused up to 30 uninvolved officers of having sex with "a handful of girls" — some as young as 14 — on camping trips police took with the scouts.

A police spokesman, Cmdr. Peter Hagen, said Tuesday "nowhere near that number" of officers were under investigation, but would not say how many were involved.

Capt. Frank Isbell, Hollywood Division operations commander, said the reports came to his attention "as a rumor around here and we informed the investigation ourselves about a month ago."

The investigation "involves possible criminal action and administrative action" and is expected to take about another two weeks, he said. Only the Hollywood division is involved.

The main problem, one spokesman said, was separating fact from rumor. Isbell denied a report that "orgies" were involved, Isbell and other police sources said there were no grounds to believe the investigation would turn up a large sex scandal.

None of the officers under investigation "has been suspended," he said.

Oregon pushes 'borrow a bike'

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Straub took a spin Tuesday on one of the newest official state vehicles — a two wheel bicycle complete with the state seal.

The bicycle is one of 32 recently purchased by the State Department of General Services for use by state workers in the Capital Mall area.

Straub formally initiated the "borrow a bike" program by pedaling four blocks from the General Services Building to his office in the Capitol. For longer trips Straub plans to continue using his Lincoln Continental.

The bikes are assigned to buildings throughout the mall area and are loaned on a return trip basis to state workers with business in other state buildings. The "borrow a bike" program went into operation two weeks ago and appears to be working well.

Cassia projects win top awards

BURLEY — Mary Jane Rasmussen has received the top overall award in 4-H food projects at the Cassia County Fair awards ceremonies.

The junior division (ages 9 to 12) entrant won over top exhibitors in the older divisions.

Jullanne Jolley, last year's top livestock showman, received the top award for clothing projects.

Runner-up to Miss Rasmussen in the junior division of the food exhibits was Sherri Jackson. Jeanette Burch took third place and also won the food demonstration and all-American food award.

Trudy Glasmann had two top senior food exhibits with Carol Amende runner-up and Annalene Darrington third.

Marlene Wallner, who also won the top food preservation award, took top food honors in the intermediate division. Toni Stringham was second and Denny Rowatt was third.

Anne Gardner took the award for food, all seasons.

Second to Miss Jolley in the senior division clothing competition was Laurie Cole with Renne Mae Smith third.

Sherri Jackson was second overall for clothing exhibits and won the junior division. Debbie Clayville was junior runner-up and Michelle Mai was third.

Michelle Turner captured top clothing honors in the intermediate division. Denise Wolf was second and Toni Stringham was third.

The top clothing demonstration was also by Michelle Turner, who won the intermediate home economics exhibition from the previous year.

Jeanette Burch had the top demonstration in the junior division.

The Cassia County home economics judging team, in order of their individual awards, includes Cheryl George, Card Amende and Janet Gillette. Kent Bristol is the alternate.

Mary Hultinga and Sherri Jackson scored the same number of points in junior division home economics judging. The third girl on the judging team is Anne Gardner, with Terri Anderson as alternate.

Darin Cole won top awards on two projects, entomology and outdoor recreation and science.

Troy Anderson had the top art exhibit and Kirsten Hintze won the applied art award.

Brice Beck won the veterinary science winner.

Cheryl George was honored as top team leader and Toni Stringham for the best self-determined project.

Edith Markham won the knitting award and Brenda Wolf, the crocheting prize.

The family living award went to Denise Wolf with Troy Anderson runner-up. Carrie Ann Smith had the best child development project and Tanya Pandolis won the health award.

Lesla Smyer won the bicycle award and sister Debbie the gardening award. Trudy Glasmann received top honors in winter sports.

food firm reopens

TWIN FALLS — Vic's Tommyknocker Inn, 125 Main Ave. E., is open for business after being closed briefly.

Vic Fischer, owner of the business, said the restaurant will remain open from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily except Sundays.

He said he has now obtained the lease from building owner, Miles Browning, and is no longer operating under a sub-lease.

The restaurant came to the attention of the news media when Fischer and his wife displayed a sign saying "Jesus is Lord." A contract covering the sub-lease prohibited signs which did not pertain to food service. Fischer stood fast on the sign. It is still in the building and Fischer says it will remain.

Oil companies say gas supplies good

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Despite numerous trade reports to the contrary, many of America's major oil companies and the Federal Energy Administration are predicting no overall shortages of unleaded gasoline during the remaining weeks of summer, the American Automobile Association (AAA) said recently.

Some oil companies concede, however, that difficulties in distributing unleaded gasoline may result in temporary, spot shortages in various parts of the country.

Some distribution difficulties are caused by the current supply of facilities for handling unleaded gasoline, which becomes contaminated by lead if it goes into tank trucks, storage tanks or pipelines used previously for leaded gasoline. To avoid this contamination, oil companies must use separate, non-lead only facilities, the supply of which falls short of rising demand.

'Sunny the Bear,' bank caper star

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Only now is the full story emerging of the great "Teddy Bear Caper" at Crocker National Bank but it carries a message for those who would kidnap bears, money, kids, depositors, tellers and bank vice presidents.

The heroes of the piece for villains depending on how you look at it were those precious little stuffed animals with bright button eyes and a stitched smile who have long been the companions of countless little girls and boys.

"Countless" is the operative word in this case because when you get involved with numbers you find they have an affinity if not an obsession with numbers.

At any rate, just before the Christmas season last year the personnel department at Crocker — the nation's 15th largest bank with 358 California branches — came up with "Sunny the Bear."

The deal was that anyone who opened a new checking account of $100 or more would be given a bear.

But let Angela Bohning, then the new accounts girl at the Palos Verdes branch, pick up the story.

"It started out great but then problems began to arise," she recalled.

"There were the bears sitting on the counters cute as could be and everyone wanted one. Customers who already had accounts insisted they should get a bear. One man who had a $50,000 savings account threatened to take out his whole deposit unless he got a bear."

"We tried to tell them to just withdraw $100 and open another account and some of them did. Mothers would come in with two or more kids in tow and each child wanted a bear, of course. But it was one account, one bear, no more and no less so they had to open two or three checking accounts."

On top of everything there began to develop a bear shortage. The top brass sent down the word that there must be a strict accounting for each bear.

"It got so at our branch that we had a bear count at the end of business every day," Mrs. Bohning recalled. "The tellers had to balance their bears before they balanced their drawers."

"We finally had to appoint one of assistant managers as 'the bear man.' He was in charge of bears. He would count them and then lock them up in the vault at night."

As the bear shortage grew worse, various branches tried to "wheelie more 'Sunnies' from banks which still had a reserve and the Palos Verdes branch sent a pickup truck to an office in Orange County. There are rumors it carried an armed guard but Mrs. Bohning thinks that is untrue.

Finally, Crocker ran out of bears some time early in 1976 but it was weeks before the outcry subsided.

"I remember one woman marched in with a teddy bear she had bought at a department store," Mrs. Bohning said. "She said her son would have nothing to do with it because it didn't look like Sunny. She wanted to trade it in on a Crocker bear but the bears were all gone."

Cassia-Minico eye election tabulator

RUPERT — Cassia and Minidoka counties appear ready to add a vote tabulator to their joint election apparatus.

The two counties currently count ballots through a computer, but are eyeing a tabulator that would eliminate additional work in the election process.

Cassia County commissioners, with money available in this year's budget for the new machine, have voiced solid support for the purchase.

Minidoka County commissioners agreed Monday they will probably have to go along with the Cassia proposition, although Commissioner Elmer Ketterling said he would vote not to spend the money.

Minidoka County does not have money available in the 1976 budget for such a purchase. Ketterling, who was defeated earlier this month in a bid for renomination, said he will not vote to obligate anyone else for money in the 1977 budget.

The machine costs $13,000. Each county would pay half.

"What do you do when you're in with another county and they are all in favor of it?" Minidoka County Commissioner Chairman Lyle Barton asked.

"Minidoka County Clerk August Bethke said the tabulator is really not necessary, although it would eliminate posting ballot names on the computer vote figures."

He said Minidoka County had slipped up on its firms in the primary election, but these were easily caught because of the keys on the computer printout.

Bethke admitted, "In case of a recount, I suppose you can't beat it."

Log sawing contest winners announced

FAIRFIELD — Winners in the Cassia County log sawing contest were announced Monday by Jack Renfrow, American Legion commander in Fairfield.

George Harrison and Bruce Robbins were first in the cross-cut division, with Brent "Butz" Van Skike and Mike Gillescond and Bob Mullenberg and Dee Edwards, third.

In the chain saw contest, Edwards was first for small saws, with Tom Wokersen second and Kent Wokersen, Twin Falls, third. Berle Riese was first for medium saws, with Bob Mullenberg second and Joe Kelson third. Kelson was first in the large saw division, with Harrison second and Riese third.

The float entered by the Boys and Girls Staters won top honors in the parade Saturday, Renfrow said. The "Freedom of the Press" entry by the Sunnyside, Camas High School-community newspaper, was second and honorable mention went to the entry of the LDS Primary.

6% of households buy food stamps

WASHINGTON, D.C. — About 4.4 million households (6 per cent of the estimated 74 million U.S. households) purchased food stamps in July, 1975.

Four per cent of all white households, 22 per cent of all black households and 11 per cent of all Spanish — surname households were purchasers of food stamps that month.

These figures come from a report released last week by the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census on the socio-economic characteristics of households participating in the Federal food stamp program.

The data were collected in the bureau's current population surveys in May, 1973, July and December, 1974, and March, and July, 1975, under the sponsorship of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The report shows that among households participating in the food stamp program in July 1975 —

— The small accounted for a larger proportion of both total population (32 per cent) and total households participating (39 per cent) than any other region of the country. About a per cent of all Southern households purchased food stamps, compared with 6 per cent for the rest of the U.S.

— Sixty-five per cent were in metropolitan areas and 45 per cent in central cities of metropolitan areas.

— Fifty-eight per cent were headed by women and 30 per cent by women widowed or divorced.

— About 50 per cent were headed by persons who were not in the labor force and nearly 13 per cent were headed by the unemployed.

— Sixty per cent had annual incomes below $4,000, while 5 per cent had incomes of $10,000 or more. The report points out that since a household's eligibility to buy food stamps is based on monthly income, a household may have relatively large annual income, but when its income for a month is below the maximum eligibility levels, it may be eligible to purchase food stamps.

An average monthly bonus value of $68 was received by food stamp households. The food stamp bonus value is the difference between the program's maximum allowable income and their face value.

The 4.4 million food stamp households in July 1975 represented a 32 per cent increase over the 3.1 million in May 1974. The report says that the major factor contributing to this increase was an amendment to the Food Stamp Act which expanded the program to the entire nation by July 1, 1974.

Other factors which may have affected the increase include: 1) implementation of the Supplemental Security Income Program in January, 1974; 2) increasing unemployment in late 1974 and continued high unemployment during 1975; and 3) increases in the program's maximum allowable income standards resulting from semi-annual adjustments made to compensate for rising food prices.

Following are some of the changes in characteristics of food stamp households between May 1974 and July 1975 as shown by the survey data: — A drop in the proportion of one-person households and an increase in the proportion of households with two or more persons, resulting in an increase in the average size of food stamp households which rose from 3.19 persons to 3.47 persons.

— The proportion headed by persons 65 and older declined from 24 to 17 per cent — the number of these households remained about the same; the proportion headed by persons under age 35 increased from 30 to 39 per cent.

— The proportion with money income during the previous 12-month period of under $2,000 declined from 33 to 21 per cent.

OVER the weekend, four women cut and stapled paper strips to form a paper chain nine miles and two feet long for a new record. The event, held on a parking lot in Bellwood, Mo., raised $200 in pledges for the Greater St. Louis Diabetes Association. (UPI)

Oldest convict held

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The state Pardon and Parole Board has denied clemency for Oklahoma's oldest convict, and left him to die in prison.

Ardell Mestas, 87, who entered the penal system for the first time on Sept. 15, 1917, was convicted of using an ax in the slaying of his partner in Ponca City in an argument over $3 invested in the sale of a wagon load of apples.

The aging convict, told the parole board Monday of being frightened by modern buildings and fast cars.

However, he said, "No man wants to die on prison hill."

Mestas had gained freedom on three previous occasions but violated parole requirements each time and was returned to prison.

STORE THE FOODS YOU LIKE TO EAT!
 "I don't like it, but they say it's good for storing." Shouldn't the first rule for storing food at home be to store the foods you like best? Doesn't it make sense to carry on the supply of foods you are eating, enjoying, eating a number of larger size items such as meat, flour, sugar etc.?
 I'd like that, some customers are now buying these larger size packages because they save so much!
 When you're in doubt about a product, try some of it first. Most of our size 10 items at Smith's are in the shelves too, and you might want to take home a case or package and try it out first.
 There's a lot to try out, you shouldn't buy the foods you don't like, but you'll want to maximize their quality and that takes special care — you may have heard the following name three letters but you cannot possibly store foods without knowing them!
 • Plastic storage bags in your home that are used to hold and dry meat of the store. Some better foods are better stored where they're stored. You'll get a lot of plastic storage bags, it's a good idea to have a lot of plastic storage bags in your home.
 • A complete storage rack with all the shelves and compartments in place and a metal. A simple organized system that is constantly being replaced and you get it right.
 • I suggest that you get a group of "family freezer" name-brand your storage items. This has worked well for me and makes a storage plan more successful.
 • Some say you should use your canned foods within two years. Canned foods will last you up to 10 years. However, as long as the cans are not bulging after two years, the contents are still good and when opened, and are stored in a half gallon but when opened, it's pretty safe to say the protective vacuum was still in the can and the food should be safe to eat.
 Last, but not least, please check your storage questions... call me at the Red Letter. We'll call for me on how to store your food. We'll call you on the newspaper. We want to be your favorite store!

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune & N. W. H. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am terribly upset right now. I just asked a man whom I have admired for a long time if he was married, and when he said, "yes," I came into the house and had a good cry.

Abby, why doesn't a man wear a wedding ring if he's married? This one doesn't have the kind of job that would make wearing a ring dangerous because he is a postman. It seems to me that a married man—especially one who is out-of-this-world handsome—would want the girls he meets to know that he is already spoken for. Don't men who go around without a wedding ring realize that they are giving the impression that they aren't married?

Abby, please tell married men to wear wedding rings because I'm not the only girl who respects marriage. SINGLE AND 27

Should ring be worn?

(P.S. My mother says that the problem is with ME. I don't understand why. It's the MAN who gives the mistaken impression that he's available when he's not.)

DEAR SINGLE: Your mother is right, dear. Only a small percentage of married men wear wedding rings, so a girl shouldn't assume that the absence of a ring is an "all-clear" signal.

DEAR ABBY: I have a great idea. I think all the men who have had vasectomies should form a club (they could call it the "V" Society—for vasectomy) and carry a membership card signed by their physicians as proof that they're sterile. That way a girl wouldn't have to worry about getting P.G.

TRUDY

DEAR TRUDY: Right. Then, all she'd have to worry about would be getting V.D.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago my daughter married a young man with teaching credentials, but so far he's taught only one year.

He had several job offers, but he turned them down because they were in "undesirable" schools. He's supposed to be looking for another kind of job, but he'll never find one unless he meets someone on the tennis court who offers him one.

Meanwhile, my beautiful daughter works five days a week, and I look after her preschool child. If I say a word about her "tennis bum," she defends him. Abby, if a man refuses to support this wife and child, isn't that sufficient grounds for divorce? How can I get my daughter to see this?

TIRED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter wants a divorce, let her dig up her own grounds. The word from here is, don't meddle, Mama.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 6370, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclosures stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Outdoor clothes top list

© Chicago Sun-Times

Last spring it was work clothes—muck boots, coveralls, painters' pants, cobblers' aprons—that made the fashion big time.

This fall it's rugged outdoor clothes—quilted hunters' vests, campers' flannel shirts, hikers' knickers, fishermen parkies—that have climbed the status ladder in style.

What is interesting about the sports garb is that it is no longer just for hunting, camping, hiking or fishing. Heaven forbid it should be seen near—a campsite or a duck blind. Although it may look a bit incongruous in an urban setting, it will be making the city scene on young women with an adventurous attitude toward fashion.

The rugged gear will be worn by women who may have looked a man but never a fish. It will be worn by women who do their talking in the supermarket or to a friend.

Several designers have latched onto the rugged look, turning out quilted down jackets and coats; oaty wool jackets in red and black lumberjack plaids, sturdy corduroy and denim knickers and pants with large cargo pockets on the sides and hooded ponchos. Trained with accessories like lacred field boots, rubber fishing boots, clunkers, watch caps, crew hats and hunters' caps.

MR. AND MRS. CARL HAYDEN

Golden anniversary open house planned

BURLEY—An open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hayden on their golden wedding anniversary will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the home of Wayne Hayden, 10 south 180 east (two miles east of Safeway corner) Burley.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend. They request no gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden were married Aug. 28, 1926, at Oswego, Kan., and came to the Burley-Heyburn area in 1929 where they farmed until retiring in 1974.

They are parents of three sons, Marvin Hayden, Idaho Falls, and Wayne Hayden and Donald Hayden, both Heyburn. They have nine grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

points of his own and a five-card spade suit, but his 10 of clubs turned out to be the key card for the slam. That card gave South a sure 12 tricks against any combination of East-West cards since it gave him three sure tricks in each suit. Actually, it gave him four club tricks so that he would have made the slam without one of the other queens.

ASK THE JACOBY'S

A Texas reader wants to know the correct opening bid with: ▲ AK Q 10 8 7 6 4 2 W ♠ K 10 2 A — and if it makes any difference whether we are vulnerable or not in first, second, third or fourth seat.

In standard American you should open two spades. Playing two clubs as your only fore, open two clubs. The hand is too powerful to be opened with anything except a forcing bid. It also makes no difference where you sit or who is vulnerable.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

All jumps to game do convey the message that you want to play in that denomination. In case your partner has already limited his hand, you also expect him to stop. Thus, if you raise him from one to three notrump you are saying: "I have enough for game, but not enough for a slam and notrump is where I want to play the hand."

South's three notrump call with today's hand showed 19 or 20 points, preparation for any lead except that of his partner's suit and a desire to play notrump.

Reruns termed 'necessary' part of today's TV shows

By ERMA BOMBECK

Around this time of year, a lot of people complain that reruns are getting through to them. They say they feel the side-effects of watching the same TV shows again. Again. Again.

I don't know what they're talking about. I accept reruns as a necessary part of television to give performers some time off to give people a chance to see something they've missed, and of course, to keep the cost down.

A friend of mine confessed that he watched "The Wizard of Oz" for the 18th time the other night and this time when the tornado sucked up Toto and Dorothy, he actually cheered. "I don't know what I accept reruns as a necessary part of television to give performers some time off, did I say that before?"

When "The Maltese Falcon" was being shown again recently, I set a tuna casserole in front of the family and handed out TV trays.

"We had this casserole two nights ago and once last week," the family complained.

"But I always serve my tuna casserole when 'The Maltese Falcon' is being shown. It's tradition."

Some people complain reruns will eventually rip the American family to shreds. They cite the case of a viewer who isn't quite sure if he has seen a segment of "Medical Center" or not.

"Is this the one where Joe Gannon has the rich Arab for a patient who wants to buy him a hospital, but falls in love with the mother of a kid on a dialysis machine?"

"No, no. This is the one where the young girl patient is put in a home for the elderly."

"Sixteen years ago, Fred. You mean you're just noticing?"

"This is the first time I've looked at you since 'Gunsmoke' went into reruns. I don't know what they're talking about. I accept reruns as a necessary part of television to give performers some time off. To give people a chance to see... did I say that before?"

"You'll love it. The girl dies in the end."

One of the most dangerous side effects of reruns is that people tend not to watch them as closely as they did the first time. This can lead to all kinds of situations.

Wives-Self Help is the brainchild of feisty, glib homemaker-turned-writer Maxine Schnall, who started the foundation two years ago after she and some friends supported each other through marital difficulties.

"I peer counseling worked for us, why not others?" she asked herself. And she went to work on a telephone in her bedroom, which has "now your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb,
I need some information about my father, who is 63 years old, 5 feet 7 and 1/2 inches tall, 180 pounds. His blood pressure is 165 over 90. During a recent examination an X-ray showed calcium build-up in the aorta. Will you please give us your advice on this condition. He takes medicine for his blood pressure and eats a fat free, no salt diet.

Dear Reader,
The aorta is the large artery directly connected to the heart. It carries all the oxygenated blood out of the heart to the whole body. It arches above the heart and courses down along the spine until it divides into the arteries to the legs.
As people get older there is a tendency for the wall of this artery to calcify. This usually follows a build up of fatty-cholesterol substances in the wall of the artery - the process in arteries we call atherosclerosis. Because the aorta is very large the build up in it does not cause a blockage to the circulation, the way it does in smaller arteries to the leg, heart, brain or other parts of the body.

Aorta functions explained

Normally the aorta is very elastic. As blood squirts out of the heart into the aorta it just stretches to accommodate the increased blood. Then it contracts by its own elasticity, helping to propel the blood along for its own normal circulation.
This elasticity helps to keep the top blood pressure reading from becoming so high. But, as the elasticity is lost, the aorta behaves more like a rigid pipe. When all the blood squirts out, into the rigid aorta, the pressure rises immediately and higher than it would if the aorta were still elastic. So, your father's blood pressure is 165 when in a younger man it would be perhaps less than 120. This does increase the work of the heart some.
Because high blood pressure is associated with an increased risk of heart-attacks and strokes, I agree it should be treated. Moderate elevation such as your father has does not require heroic efforts though as the treatment may be worse than the disease.

Your father would do well to decrease the rate of development of fatty-cholesterol deposits in other arteries in his body. He needs to restrict his calories enough to make this possible.

I would also advise a daily walking program to help maintain his level of physical fitness and help him reduce. Everyone who can, should have an exercise program, even if it is just walking, to go along with a diet program when they need to lose weight.

You can't judge by pounds alone, but there is a good possibility that your father needs to lose as much as 30 pounds of fat. The program should be to go on a restricted calorie program with walking and keep on losing fat until there is no significant amount of fat under his skin, around his waist or other locations. It will take time, but he should get started with such a program without delay. If he likes to swim he should be encouraged to do so.

To give you more information on blood pressure I am sending you The Health Letter, number 14, Blood Pressure. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1851, Radio City Station, New York, New York 10019.

Money-saving tips outlined for cooks

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Fresh fruits and vegetables are so important in a good diet that it's well to make the most of them every day.

Sometimes people discard parts of vegetables and fruits - leaves, peel, stems - that can furnish fine food value and extra flavor if fully utilized.

The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association has some tips for using fresh fruits and vegetables wisely and well.

Many people discard the outer leaves of a head of lettuce when preparing it for storage in the refrigerator. Those leaves have important food value and are often richer in vitamin A than the paler, inner leaves. Next time, wash and reserve the outer leaves to shred as a base for salads, or to include in sandwiches.

The French take a whole lettuce leaf and lay it on top of green beans, peas, and other vegetables when they are cooking. It lends a subtle, fresh, sweet flavor.

The tougher, outer leaves of cabbage have excellent food value and flavor, too. Steam them tender and then use for stuffed cabbage with any favorite meat filling. This is like getting an extra, bonus dish from the head of cabbage that you buy. It's a saver in flavor, nutrition, and money.

When you're using apples in salads or fruit cups, don't discard the peel. Leave it on for a bright touch of color and for extra nutrition.

When some people buy fresh fruit, and they have nearly used up the lot and are down to one peach, pear, apple or other fruit, they sometimes discard it. Make the most of these fruit assets.

Combine a peach, pear, apple, or other fruit cut up to make a fruit cup, a fruit salad, or a cooked compote. You get an extra dish for your money, and it offers nice variety for a meal.

Orange rind is a delightful flavor asset to have on hand. Use it in desserts, pie fillings, to flavor rice, and in many other ways. When you squeeze oranges for juice, grate the peel before cutting open the oranges. Use some of the grated peel at once. Take the rest and freeze it for fresh orange-flavor ready to use at any time.

Both orange and grapefruit peel are nice to candy for a delightful confection. It's very pleasant, too, to eat citrus fruit in hull, scoop out the fruit, and use the shells to act as containers for salads or desserts. Discard as add elegance and flair to your menus in genuine gourmet style.

Parts of celery are sometimes discarded but never should be. The greener, more fibrous outer part of the stalk has delicious flavor for seasoning in your cooking, and the leaves are really a fresh herb when chopped fine and added to stews and soups. To remove the strings, cut the stalks in a half and just peel off the strings in a jelly.

The woody part of asparagus and broccoli stems can make excellent soup, particularly the creamy kind made with milk. The broccoli stem after cooking can be puréed in a blender and put back in the soup. Peel the stems first to remove the fibrous part, and then use for flavor and extra nutrition you may have been throwing away.

Most people prepare broccoli in a wasteful way. Just peel only the thinnest layer of the skin on the stems toward the flowers. The rest is tender and flavorful. If you have leftover broccoli after cooking, cut it up and put it in oil and vinegar dressing to marinate over night. You'll have a delicious salad to serve next day. This trick goes for many cooked vegetables that may be left over. It can be combined to make a delicious mixed vegetable salad, as it is called. Carrots, green beans, beets, and many others are all assets too this way.

Whenever possible, bake vegetables such as squash right in their peel. Then you won't discard any edible parts.

Rupert teenager awarded TV set

RUPERT — Richard Reed came within $2.00 of the exact amount of more than $1,600 piled in a glass-domed stand at the new First Security Bank of Idaho.

The Rupert teenager won a color television set for the closest guess to the exact amount of money placed under the dome for the building's grand opening 10 days ago.

Bank manager Duane Alfred awarded prizes Monday for the closest four estimates to the actual amount of $1,630.61. Reed guessed $1,627.94. He gave no reason for picking those numbers.

Blanche Gibbs received a citizens band radio for listing $1,625. Adabel Adamson received a toaster for her estimate of $1,624 and Harold Clancy's guess of $1,623 brought him a slow cooker.

Alfred said there were 1,237 entries in the contest, with one youngster guessing $10 million. The lowest estimate was $5.05. The bank manager said 22 people guessed $1,776 and 46 listed $1,976.

But Alfred said there was no system to the amount of money piled under the dome and no one knew the count until after the contest.

He said bank employees took $3,600 in various denominations of bills and coins from the bank vault. They then dipped from that amount without counting either the amount taken or what was left until the contest ended.

The bank also gave away 50 starter savings accounts of $5 each, announcing some winners every half hour. Alfred said many of those winners still have not been contacted.

The savings account winners included: Clayton Watson, Jud Zollinger, John Graham, Wanda Olmsjed, Magdalena Gray, Margery Erwin, Dorothy Corrick, Sandy Miller, Martin Widmeyer, Marvin Smith, Walter Wilcox, Lottie Martindale, Clara Seaman, Mary Merrill, Judy Thornton, J.C. Flood, Minnie Freese, Margaret Lampes D-E, Wilson and Danny Hener.

Others listed are Virginia Pruitt, K.C. Merrill, S.E. Walters, Rita E. Grindel, Holly Badger, Doris Bruns, B.H. Ellsworth, Dorothy Larsen, John S. Vivia, Charles L. Cole, Steve Westendorf, Jim Maxson, Delores Thate, Janice Peabody and Jody Furniss.

Other winners were Ron Phillips, Then Seal, Brent Barrus, Velma Hunter, Dorothy Hedrick, Shelley Jones, LeAnn Larsen, Barbara Barrus, Sandy Jones, Roscoe Acock, Charles Parker, Christine McBride, Clyde Cottle, Brent Browning and Joy Keny.

Good guessers

RICHARD Reed, second to the right, won a color television set for making the closest guess to the $1,630.61 piled under a dome in the new First Security Bank of Idaho branch in Rupert. Other winners, from left, were Harold Clancy, fourth; Blanche Gibbs, second, and Adabel Adamson, third.

Telephone industry supports new laws

BOISE — Legislation now pending in Congress could have an economic impact on telephone customers in Idaho and the nation, according to an Idaho Mountain Bell telephone official.

Charles F. Hall, Mountain Bell vice president and Idaho general manager, Boise, said the telephone industry, including 13 independently owned telephone companies in southern Idaho as well as Mountain Bell, is actively supporting the Consumer Communications Reform Act of 1976, new legislation before Congress.

Hall said that there are three versions of the bill: two in the House and one in the Senate, which have the support of more than 148 members of the House and 13 Senators.

His interpretation of these bills, Hall explained, "is a reaffirmation of what we think is the original intent of the 1934 Communication Act — that telephone companies provide universal service within the economic reach of virtually all Americans."

The Mountain Bell spokesman said telephone companies are seriously concerned about possible increases in telephone rates as a result of present and proposed policies of the FCC. These policies, Hall said, appear to encourage "continued competition" in the communications industry.

Oklahoma boy arrested — Twin Falls accident hurts three persons

CHICKASAW, Okla. (UPI) — A 16-year-old boy has been jailed on charges of writing more than $17,000 in bad checks, and police say the total of his bogus checks may reach $30,000.

Chief of Detectives Danny Miller said Monday the boy started his own concrete company in June and handled several construction jobs before he began forging payroll checks and writing bogus checks.

Miller said the boy's activities were discovered when he wrote a check for more than $7,000 to pay for 7,000 shares in an Oklahoma City nightclub syndicate last week.

The youth then deposited an $8,000 bogus check to cover the nightclub check, but bank officials in Verdon quickly investigated, found the $8,000 check was bad and notified authorities, police said.

Oklahoma City police arrested the boy Friday and he was returned to his hometown and arraigned on a lot check charge. Bond was set at $7,000.

TWIN FALLS — A Jerome woman was listed in fair condition Monday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital after the car she was driving collided with another in front of Northwest Crane and Rigging and Transport Co. on U.S. 30 Sunday.

Patriela Arrandondo, 22, suffering from stomach pains, was taken to the hospital along with Manuel Lopez, 71, a passenger in her car, and Mrs. Gladys Hartruff, 55, Twin Falls, driver of the other car. Police said Arrandondo is eight months pregnant.

Lopez, who suffered a shoulder injury, and Mrs. Hartruff, who suffered a neck injury, were treated and released.

Rains slow harvest

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Heavier than normal rains in August have slowed Magic Valley harvest operations because wheat and grain are too wet to put into storage.

Rainfall recorded at the Kimberly research center reached 2.03 inches so far this month, the highest in 30 years for 1968 when 3.23 inches of rain fell, according to Mike Faubion, meteorologist in charge at the center. The normal said the 30-year average for August rainfall is only 29 tenths of an inch.

"It has been a cool wet month," Faubion said. "There's no about that."

"The temperatures this month are averaging five to ten degrees below normal."

"It's eye-balling it, it looks like we are averaging about 80 percent this month," Faubion explained. "That compares to a normal average of 68."

"Although this August has broken no records in low temperatures or in rainfall, the effect on Magic Valley wheat and grain has been significant," said Mike Bland, spokesman at Shileids warehouse in Bull said of the late harvest. "We are just starting the harvest now. We would have a lot more wheat by this time if it had not rained."

"Farmers in the area have harvested only about 30 to 40 per cent of their crop so far, according to the spokesman.

"Usually we are pretty well tilling off by now," Mike Bland of Twin Falls Feed and Ice said. "I would say we're only about 40 per cent finished."

"I think we're a little bit later than normal," echoed Thorleif Rangen, Bull warehouseman. "I would imagine probably 60 percent of the wheat and barley is in."

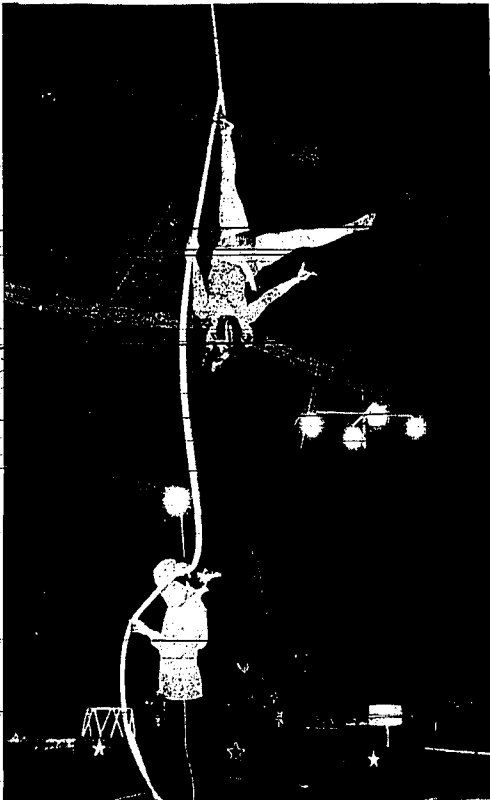

"Wet grain cannot be harvested, according to elevator operators in the area, because of the danger of mold, fungus, composition and insects.

"When grain is brought in from the farm, the men at the rebouse test it for moisture content. If it exceeds certain established limits, it either has to be mixed with drier grain or turned in the bins until it dries, according to Twin Falls county agent Don Youtz.

"We like 11.5 per cent moisture," Mike Bland said. "We live with 12."

"You can blend off a certain amount," according to Rangen of the rebouse. "But if you get up around 13 (per cent moisture) you could be in trouble."

Youtz said that due to the heavy rains this month, some grain brought to warehouses had as high as 16 per cent moisture.

Idaho, Carter may go together

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

ATLANTA, Ga.—Jimmy Carter's campaign officials believe the former Georgia governor can carry Idaho in a race with President Gerald Ford.

Once Idahoans have a chance to hear and know him they will be swayed, Carter officials say.

Betty Rainwater, a deputy press secretary at Carter headquarters in Atlanta says many people in this part of the country worry Carter will not be a friend to the farmer and will be a big spender on government money.

"They will abandon these worries, she predicts, when they have a chance to listen to the candidate.

And the Carter campaign intends to provide that chance to people in Idaho this fall.

"I think that when folks in your area (Idaho) who may not know him as well as they need to and they should, when they actually have an opportunity to hear him, they'll learn that he is very conservative fiscally and his record bears that out," Rainwater said.

"He has been a businessman all his life and his record as governor of Georgia shows his very deliberate and deep concern for fiscal conservatism, but that is balanced off by a general concern for providing services to people who need them and a sensitivity to the needs of the American people," she added.

Joe McCarter, the regional director of the Carter campaign in Idaho, agreed a careful look at Carter's record as governor of Georgia will show he is for "consolidation of agencies and general streamlining."

Lloyd Walker, a Twin Falls attorney who was the state coordinator of the Carter campaign in Idaho during the primary elections, foresees the issues in the upcoming presidential campaign in Idaho centering around agriculture.

Walker says Carter's main task will be to convince the people of Idaho he would not interfere with agriculture and would allow free trade if elected. He predicts President Ford's moratorium last year on wheat exports is going to be a key issue.

"We are an agricultural community and I think a sophisticated one," Walker commented. "and I think it is time we have a friend in Washington." He joked, "peanuts and potatoes both grow underground."

According to Walker, Carter's views are perfectly compatible with the views of most Idahoans, even those who accuse the Democrats of undermining individual freedom with programs that increase the power of the federal government.

"I don't think there is any problem of reconciliation," Walker said. Carter will work in the direction of "providing the basic necessities of life."

"I don't think this has anything to do with government control of our lives," Walker affirmed.

McCarter says Republican charges that Carter will be a big spender are weak, especially in view of the Republican record.

"The Democrats have historically always been blamed for this (big spending)," McCarter remarked. "but if you look at the Nixon and Ford administrations you see there has been a higher overrun as far as deficit spending is concerned than there has ever been. I think that is a weak attack point."

Walker staff—say they will be launching campaigns in every section of the country.

Gas tank, pump installation set

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS.—City workers will install two gas tanks and two pumps at the city maintenance shop on 8th Avenue West in the next few weeks. City Manager Jean Millar has announced.

The tanks to go next to a 10,000 gallon tank for regular gas, are being installed primarily for safety and convenience, Millar said. A 1,000-gallon tank to store unleaded gasoline and a 2,000-gallon tank to store diesel fuel will be installed, he said.

Total cost for the project is roughly $6,000, Millar said. The City Council budgeted the money for the project last year but, because of lack of time, has delayed the project until this year, Millar said.

Millar could give no estimates on how much the city could save, but said the new tanks "will save some money in that we'll be able to buy unleaded fuel in bulk quantities and might be able to save a penny or two on each gallon of fuel bought."

"Two old tanks will not be used any longer once the new tanks are installed, Millar said. One tank located near the old demolished fire station will no longer be used "because it remains remote from other city operations," Millar said. Another tank storing diesel fuel located outdoors at the city shop will no longer be used because it is a safety hazard, Millar said.

Millar said eventually a canopy will be erected over the tanks to protect them from the weather and a "key control system" will be developed so that city employees can obtain fuel anytime 24 hours a day.

Varsity football scrapped at Wood River High School

By BART QUENNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY.—Varsity football will not be played at Wood River High School this year.

A total of six senior boys, including only two starters from last year's roster, turned out for an organizational session last week. The remainder of the 15 boys who showed an interest were sophomores and juniors.

High School football coach Jerry Ennis said he felt many of the smaller boys would get physically hurt playing against larger, more powerful opponents.

Ennis and high school principal John Barton conferred Monday but could find no solution. Several boys were called but they were not interested.

Ennis had said before he would not beg for players.

He told the Blaine County School Board Friday he would rather concentrate on a good junior varsity team if senior boys were not interested in playing.

All but three of the Magic Valley schools which had been scheduled to play against the

School enrollment inches upward in TF

There are 10 kindergarten teachers, Staudacher said, two in each of the five elementary schools. The teachers hold a morning class, mostly for in-town youngsters, and an afternoon session, mostly for rural pre-schoolers.

Staudacher said the attendance was nearly split between the two sessions Tuesday, with 253 youngsters attending in the morning and 259 in the afternoon.

The district did not have a kindergarten program before last year.

In the elementary schools, Staudacher said, enrollments were about the same as last year. There was little change in attendance from school to school, he said, and the number of youngsters in each grade was not much different.

While comparative figures were not available, the attendance figures for Tuesday for the elementary grades in all schools was as follows:

First grade, 474 students; second grade, 495; third grade, 449; fourth grade, 429; fifth grade, 362; and sixth grade, 461.

In the junior highs there was a marked shift in the pattern of attendance, with Robert Stuart experiencing a sizeable growth in students while O'Leary showed a slight decline.

Both Stuart Principal Jack Watts and O'Leary Principal Carl Snow, however, said the change in attendance reflected an increase in home building in the Stuart district rather than an exodus to Stuart of O'Leary students, who are being double-shifted at the high school while a sprinkler system is installed in their old building.

Snow said 869 students attended afternoon classes at the high school Tuesday. This was a 1.5 percent decline from the 880 students attending O'Leary when school closed for the summer last May.

But Snow said the attendance figure would climb after Labor Day, when 30 to 40 students could be expected to come in.

Snow said he knew of only about a half-dozen students who had transferred from O'Leary to Stuart. He added that many out-of-state students had signed up at the school.

Watts was concerned enough about the influx of students at Stuart to indicate he might ask the school board for a rezoning to bring classroom crowding down.

Stuart's attendance Tuesday was 798, compared to last year's 755.

Watts said the school could handle about 780 students as long as it retained a six-period schedule, but he added some classrooms were crowded and that he might ask for a rezoning to send more students to O'Leary if the post-Labor Day influx into Stuart sends attendance much higher.

Last year Stuart was on a seven-period schedule, and according to Watts, was crowded with 755 students.

The cutback to six periods was made this year to ease classroom pressure and to allow for use of Stuart facilities by double-shifted high schoolers and O'Leary students, who can't schedule all their activities into the over-used high school gym.

Snow agreed Tuesday that O'Leary was designed for more students than Stuart and that the school had about six more teachers, but he added that a rezoning would be difficult before double-shifting ends.

School board members indicated earlier that they would prefer not to rezone until a new junior high school is built.

Stuart was designed to handle about 700 students. O'Leary's attendance in the old building has been running at 900 or more.

Classes scheduled

TWIN FALLS — "Image of Loveliness" classes, self improvement course for women of all ages, will begin 7 p.m., September 13, at the home of Mrs. Carol Brockway, 706 Sunrise Blvd. North.

Women are invited to attend the classes for instruction in walking, diet, exercise, personality development, hair and skin care and the art of conversing, said Mrs. Brockway, instructor.

The class will be held every Monday night for eight weeks. Other classes, one to begin at 12:30 p.m. and one to begin at 7 p.m., will be held September 14.

The complete course will cost $40 plus $4.25 per class.

Mrs. Brockway, a graduate of John Robert Powers Modeling School in Denver, said women can sign up for the course by calling her at 733-0938.

Gooding man, 22, injured

BURLEY — A Gooding man was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Cassia Memorial Hospital following a two-car accident on Interstate 80 Tuesday afternoon about two miles east of the Heiburn interchange.

Robert Reed, 22, was pinned in his car after it struck a car driven by Gaylen Edwards, 20. Gooding, as Reed turned out to pass the Edwards car.

Both cars were westbound on the highway when the accident occurred about 1:20 p.m.

State Police Officer W. Delon Jones said the collision knocked Reed's car off into the median and it rolled, landing on its top. The Edwards car went off the north side of the highway and also rolled, landing on its side.

Jones said Edwards was not hurt. Jones said no citations have been issued.

Jones said Edwards was coming from Pocatello, and Reed had been in the Salt Lake City area.

Mini-Cassia loses medical fees

BURLEY — A Cassia County native warned this week that the Mini-Cassia area is losing $1 million in revenue each year because it lacks full medical services.

Dr. Willis B. Gerrard, who joined the Cassia Memorial Hospital staff as pathologist on July 1, said the area "could keep that much more business at home" if it had more medical specialists.

"This is a very, very big business in the area," Dr. Gerrard told the Burley Chamber of Commerce.

He said the area needs a gynecologist, pediatrician, board surgeon and board urologist. He challenged businessmen in the community to help "recruit new, young faces into the area in medical specialties."

"He urged that biases and 'juvenile behavior in some of our communities in the area' be eliminated.

"When competition becomes destructive," he said, "it is no longer healthy."

Gerrard also urged young people be attracted to the medical profession.

The pathologist came to Burley this year after 17 years in Ogden and 21 years of practice in West Virginia. Born in Abingdon, he lived in Burley, Oakley, Malad, Shelley and other southern Idaho cities while his father taught in various schools.

He told chamber members he came "back home" because he likes the outdoors, the beauty of the state and because he wanted to "contribute something to my home state."

"There are many things I see that need correction, instigation and development," he said.

He called for replacement of county coroners with a medical examiner system.

"Idaho is one state where it would be very easy to commit murder and go undetected," he said. "With a little intelligence and care, no one would ever know it happened under the present coroner system in our counties."

Gerrard said he would also like to develop a center for cancer detection through community, professional and "possibly government" help. He said the pap test should be more widely used for both men and women and anyone that smokes should take a sputum pap test at least twice a year.

He called for public education concerning cancer to catch the disease through its early symptoms. He said many cases are "toilette, toilette."

Gerrard said that 90 per cent more information has been "gleaned and learned" to the last 30 years than was known before World War II. He said he would like to see "modern medicine come into this area in the next few years."

The pathologist called the Mini-Cassia area the geographic, cultural and economic center between Pocatello and Twin Falls. He said it has both the population and the financial ability to build medical services on a professional basis.

"If we have the backing and cooperation of everyone in these two counties," he said, "we can practice as good a medicine as they do in Boise—certainly, as good as they do in Twin Falls, in Ogden."

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower Wednesday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.28 point to 962.19 shortly after the opening. The blue chip average, which closed Tuesday at its lowest level since early June, lost 36.41 points in the past five sessions.

Declined advances, 200 to 91, among the 451 issues crossing the tape in the early going.

Analysts said selling seemed to accelerate late Tuesday after the United Auto Workers union said it had picked Ford Motor Co. as its strike target in current negotiations. The union said it found "no compelling reason" to pick General Motors or Chrysler as targets. The UAW contract expires Sept. 14.

They said Wall Street continued to be concerned over the slowdown in the economy, particularly in a corporate profits growth decline. An auto industry would damage the economy considerably, they said.

In a statement to the Senate Budget Committee made public late Tuesday, however, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said he believed retail sales would improve soon. Retail sales slumped 1.2 percent in July.

Wall Street, watching the race for White House between President Ford and Democrat Jimmy Carter, is anxious for the candidates to reveal specifics of their economic policies.

Futures hit downtrend

(Courtesy Sinclair & Co.)

CHICAGO — Lower across the board.

That's the direction the commodity futures market took Tuesday.

Commodity News Service said Maine potatoes closed to 10 cents lower as active months reflected weak cash, a situation typical of late August. Volume was unusually low at 207 tons. May, in liquidation, closed 9 cents up on 1 truck.

Live cattle settled lower after mostly dull, narrow trading. Cash was steady but with a softer tone than in recent days. The back months closed near the day's lows.

Final prices were from 72 not down in October to 57 lower in December.

Feeder cattle lost 40 to 80 points, with a soft cash trade and weakness in related futures producing a negative effect.

Pork bellies closed near the day's lows, after August expected unchanged at 70 after a 300 point trading range in the final minutes. Other contracts were sharply lower, with February and March leading the decline at 170 points. The pig was quiet.

Wheat spent the day on the defensive, prices declining but yielded a share of recent gains. Speculative liquidation was noted before beans ended 4 to 10 1/2 cents off, medium closed 2 to 4 1/2 down and oil finished 3 points higher at 17 points lower.

Rail merger plans OK'd

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Missouri Pacific Railroad will merge with the Texas and Pacific Railroad and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad Sept. 7.

The action was cleared during the week when the Interstate Commerce commission denied appeals from its May 10 order approving the merger. The ICC authorized the merger to begin 20 days from the date of its denial of the appeal.

The three railroads that will make up the new Missouri Pacific operate more than 12,000 miles of railroad in 12 states in the midwest, south and southwest, extending from Chicago to the Gulf of Mexico and from St. Louis and Memphis to Omaha, Pueblo, Colo., and El Paso, Texas.

Slow food price rise seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Food prices will go up at the "relatively slow" pace of 3 to 4 per cent through the first half of 1977, this year's crops are big as currently expected and livestock production stays near recent levels, the Agriculture Department says.

Monday's Agricultural Outlook Summary was the first to offer a specific estimate of 1977 food prospects, although it was similar to what department spokesmen had been saying in general terms.

The report said food prices probably will edge up moderately for the second half of 1976, ending

2 per cent above January's price level.

For 1976 as a whole, they said, the food price average will be 3 to 4 per cent above 1975, compared with last year's 8.5 per cent increase and the 14.5 per cent leaps of the two preceding years.

In the first half of 1977, the report added, most of the rise will be due to increased middlemen's margins and higher prices for fish, coffee and restaurant meals.

There will be ample food supplies through the rest of this year and early 1977, experts said. Per capita food consumption for this year is now expected to rise 2 per cent from last year and could break the record set in 1972.

The report, which stressed all forecasts depend on future weather conditions here and abroad, added that livestock food production for the last half of 1976 will be heavy. A sharp increase in pork output compared with last year will be combined with smaller rises for beef and broiler chicken.

Early 1977 beef production may decline as farmers react to recent low-cattle prices. But pork production may be up 150 per cent from the first half of 1976 and production of eggs and milk is expected to be up "slightly."

Durable but soft

HORSESHOE devised by Dr. William Chambers, veterinarian on Mackinac Island, Mich., is displayed by him. It lasts six weeks but won't tear up pavement on the island. (UPI)

Horses with new shoes seldom use smiddy path

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (UPI) — Horses are no longer beating a path in the black smith's door on this resort island where motor vehicles are banned.

That's because the island's resident veterinarian, Dr. William Chambers, has figured out how to make a horseshoe hard enough to last six weeks, but not so hard that it tears up the island's pavement.

The standard hard metal horseshoes, which last up to 10 weeks, are banned under a local ordinance.

Horse drawn taxis and bicycles are the only modes of transportation on Mackinac, midway between Michigan's Lower and Upper peninsulas.

Chambers has more than 60 horses to keep in shoes.

For more than 25 years, the Carriage Tours taxi service purchased rubber coated horseshoes from a Chicago foundry — the only known source of the product.

The foundry heated and forced fed liquid rubber around a metal insert in a mould, using an exclusive formula and bonding process that was scavenged from the foundry walls.

But it went out of business in 1968, and the company that took it over was unable to match the process. Carriage Tours bought up all the rubber coated shoes on the market, but the supply soon dwindled.

This caused a crisis on the island. Blacksmiths were suddenly keen deep in worn out horseshoes and putting in 70 hour work weeks.

Chambers started experimenting with chemists and plastic moulders in hopes of finding a solution. The island was "deluged" with samples from horseshoe inventors — some of which shattered before a horse had even left his stable.

Planning time arrives for harvest strategy

ABERDEEN — It's not too early to begin planning a strategy which will get all potatoes harvested and put into storage before the tuber temperature falls below 45 degrees, potato producers were reminded this week by Walter C. Sparks, University of Idaho research professor of plant science.

Sparks is serving as coordinator of an industry-wide campaign to reduce potato bruising in Idaho. He says the quality of potatoes will suffer if the tubers are harvested or handled when the pulp temperature is below 45 degrees.

Serious losses will occur if harvesting proceeds when the soil temperature is only 40 to 45 degrees, Sparks adds.

It will please specialists offers these suggestions:

The first step in a successful harvesting strategy is to determine the number of acres to be harvested each day. Allow a few days extra for breakdowns, colder rainy weather and other eventualities. After determining the total number of harvesting days, you can schedule a starting time that is realistic. The goal is to finish harvesting before the danger of field frost and low tuber temperatures occurs, which is usually Oct. 12-15 in the Snake River Valley.

Stop irrigation long enough ahead of time to kill 50 the soil moisture will be depleted to about 50 per cent field capacity at the time vine killing takes place. Depending on temperature, at least 10 to 14 days should be allowed after vine kill for the skins to set and the tubers to mature.

Just before harvest is started, the fields should be irrigated so the clods will be softened and the soil will be moist rather than dry. The number of days before harvest to irrigate and the amount of water to apply depends upon the type of soil involved. The soil should be moist but not wet at the time of harvest.

Remember that cold tubers bruise easily. Do not harvest and handle potato tubers when the pulp temperature is below 45 degrees.

Cutoff delayed

HOLLISTER — Water on the Salmon Tract will not be cut off Sept. 1 as formerly planned, according to Larry Ragain, manager of the Salmon River Canal Co.

Ragain said the water will be left on until a definite shut-off day which the board will decide upon when it meets for its regular meeting Sept. 7.

The gauge reading at the dam at the present time reads 49 feet or 91,150 acre feet in the dam, Ragain said.

Revenue check mailed

BOISE (UPI) — A check for $415,120 representing Idaho's share of Bureau of Land Management national resource land revenues for the past six months has been sent to the state treasurer.

The money will be distributed by the treasurer to the counties and to the State Department of Education.

Bill Matthews, Idaho BLM director, said the bulk of the money, $233,225, comes from mineral leasing receipts, including oil, gas and phosphate leases.

Livestock grazing fees account for $137,491 and the remaining $44,404 comes from sales of public lands and materials.

Rain plagues farmers

BOISE (UPI) — Rain is plaguing Idaho farmers.

The State Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Monday rain already has damaged potato and lentil fields in the northern half of the state and continued showers will damage ripe grain.

Rain has delayed harvest of grain, onions and hay in southwest Idaho and has delayed maturity of many crops in the eastern portion of the state.

"Dry weather is needed" throughout the state to mature and root harvest of Idaho's crops," the agency said, although it has helped range grasses provide good to excellent forage for livestock over most of the state.

Generally, the service said crop growth and production was ahead of last year, although it still lagged behind the 1974 growing season.

Hormone implants help

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. — Steers fed forage diets gained more weight on testosterone when they received monensin, or a hormonal implant or a combination of these additives, says Dr. David A. Dinius, an animal scientist with the USDA's Agricultural Research Service (ARS).

When monensin was added to forage diets, steers gained about 2.5 pounds per day, compared with 2.1 pounds per day for steers not receiving monensin. Steers receiving monensin also ate less feed. Monensin is an antibiotic which improves the efficiency of rumen fermentation.

At 14 weeks, steers with implants gained 26 pounds per day versus 1.9 pounds for steers not implanted. The implant is a natural estrogen-progesterone combination contained in a small capsule.

The effects of monensin and the implant were additive. That is, if a steer gained 0.2 pounds more on monensin, and 0.3 pounds more with the implant, using a combination of the two, a steer would gain 0.5 pounds more per day.

Dr. Dinius and his colleagues conducted the studies with forage diets at the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Md.

The scientists also studied the effects on feed intake of steers fed ground or pelleted forage.

Import quota sought

BOISE (UPI) — The value of the domestic honey industry was put at over $8 billion annually by Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, who asked President Ford to set a quota on inexpensive imported honey.

McClure told Ford in a recent letter, "there is a matter of protecting an inefficient industry from foreign competition."

The domestic honey industry not only supplies the nation with $100 million worth of honey annually but also provides pollination for most of the nation's crop lands."

McClure said, "the value of this service to U.S. agriculture exceeds $8 billion annually."

He said the U.S. Trade Commission had recommended on June 30 an import quota be established on foreign honey and the senator urged the President to approve the quota immediately.

New Gem phosphate mines due

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Mining Association predicted "four and possibly five new mines" could be opened before the year 2000, according to a survey of companies operating in southeastern Idaho.

The report showed, "those new mines will be opened only as the phosphate deposits presently being mined are depleted and as one new company begins operating."

"Last year the phosphate producers paid about $2.1 million in federal royalties and of that amount $7.5 per cent, or just under $1 million came back to Idaho," it pointed out.

The association said, "at the same time the phosphate companies paid a little over $1.7 million in various state taxes in Idaho."

Company officials reported property-tax assessments paid by the mining and processing firms make substantial contributions to the taxes in three counties.

"The most significant contribution" to the tax base reported by the mining association "occurs in Caribou County where phosphate companies operating both mines and processing plants pay a little more than 42 per cent of the total county assessment."

In Power County property taxes on two processing plants account for a little over 21 per cent of the county's tax base, it was reported.

But officials said some eastern plants have scheduled closings from three to six weeks.

Size drops

SPOKANE (UPI)—A U.S. Commerce Department report shows that the size of farms in Spokane County declined from 1969 to 1974.

The report says the average size of farms in the county declined from 561 acres to 519 acres.

Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valleys:

Increasing clouds with chance of thundershowers spreading over the area tonight. High temperatures Thursday mid-60s, overnight lows near 40.

Friday's outlook: partly cloudy.

Synops:

After a nearly perfect summer day Tuesday, which saw temperatures rise into the 80s in most areas of the Magic Valley, a Pacific cold front now nearing the Idaho border will put a stop to the warm weather on Thursday.

As this front moves through the Magic Valley area this afternoon or evening, thundershowers are expected to develop along with gusty winds near thunderstorm activity.

Cooler air will follow this front, which will bring temperatures down into the 70s in most areas of the Magic Valley Thursday. The outlook for the weekend calls for mostly dry conditions. High temperatures will be in the 70s, overnight lows in the 40s.

Mystery disease affects various organs

© N. Y. Times Service

HARRISBURG, Pa. — An intensive study of specimens from people who died from a mysterious disease in Pennsylvania is providing federal pathologists with a clear microscopic picture that shows that whatever caused the disease may have affected not just the lungs but also other organs.

The findings are leading medical detectives into a new phase of the investigation of the outbreak as pathology takes on an increasingly important role now that tests from several other scientific disciplines have been unable to identify the cause.

Next week, the pathologists, toxicologists and other scientists who have been working in the laboratory at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta expect to begin discussing their observations with a team of epidemiologists who returned to Atlanta Friday after completing their field work in Pennsylvania.

Pathology is the specialty of medicine that examines tissues of living and dead people under the microscope. It is not a precise analytic discipline. Its role in this investigation reflects that fact because the body can respond to injury in a limited number of ways and pathologists often cannot distinguish between damage produced by poisons and infectious agents such as viruses without the aid of supplemental tests.

The pathologic findings thus far hint that a poison or toxin caused the outbreak, but the findings do not incriminate any specific poison, according to pathologists at the Disease Center in Atlanta. Because these pathologists have received just a limited number of specimens, they have also examined specimens from eight other deaths, some of which were included in earlier versions of the official case list but that were later reclassified as epidemiologically unrelated.

According to the current definition, a case must have either fever and X-ray evidence of pneumonia or a temperature above 102 degrees and a cough.

The "inflike" respiratory nature of the disease has been emphasized by health officials. But the damage that Dr. Martin D. Hicklin, Dr. Renate Kimbrough and their staffs have found in a preliminary review of the pathologic materials tends to suggest that whatever caused the disease damaged a wide area of the body that just the respiratory system.

Hicklin and Kimbrough, who are pathologists at the center, said in separate telephone interviews that they had observed damage in the liver, kidneys and lungs of victims of the mysterious disease.

"There seems to be something in common in the appearance of the damage pattern of the lung, liver and kidneys but there are a lot of variables" that preclude making definite conclusions now, Kimbrough said.

THE CENTER PIVOT CENTER

CORNER CATCHER

The only center pivot in the world that hits the corners.

In a typical quarter section where a regular center pivot is irrigating 132 acres, you can now do about 150 acres. But the new Valley Corner System isn't limited to squares. Irrigate both ends of a rectangle. Irrigate odd shaped pieces of land too. It's an answer to getting valuable productive land that's been dropped, back under center pivot irrigation.

For flood irrigators, it's also the answer to automatic water and labor saving center pivot, without wasting valuable acres. No monitoring, no labor problems, no night work. But you have all the advantages of precise irrigation and fertilizer application through the system, that produces higher yields than ever before. It's a simple concept, precise in operation and engineered with quality of all Valley-built Center Pivots.

Buhl, T.F. women win at Jackpot

JACKPOT — Buhl and Twin Falls women took the distaff prizes while men teams from Ogden and Boise claimed top honors in the final two-person bestball tournament at Jackpot.

Sponsored by the 93 Club, the two-day tournament attracted 75 teams, the largest of the year. The county course's next big meet will be the $20,000 Cactus Pete's open next year.

Bella Wilson and Kathy Erb, Buhl, combined to win the women's gross division with a 278, followed by Dot Powers and Florence Abrams at 281 and Pauline Crooks and Shirley Campbell at 292.

Dot McLinn and Judy Lawley, Twin Falls, took the net prize at 130 with Cheryl Baldwin and Marge Baldwin, Wyo, four strokes behind. Jackpot's Linda Yearay and Dee Babb tied Maxine Hill and Sheryl Swaner, Ogden, for third at 139.

In men's gross, Bill Metcalf and Frank Huff and Ron Jewkes and Jim Hanson shared first place in gross at 139. Tied for second at 143 were Elvin Farris and Steve Farris and Phil and Jack Baldwin, Ely. Dave Nore and Porter Ingram, finishing in the dark both days, grabbed fifth at 148 while Jim Wood and Doyle Abrams and Tom Moran and Kent Morgan had 149.

Sharing eighth spot were Gary Peck and Widowson and Ed Scott and Burke Berry, both Buhl.

Harry Angelo and Dan Lewis of Boise, riding a blister first-day 19 under 53, took net at 114 with a four-way Jan developed for second in the net divisions. Among those tied were Eldon Hansen and Clarence Newman, George Ward and David Dalsoglio, Eldredge and Laster and Gary Swaner and Jim Hill.

Wes Startin and Ron Pope, Twin Falls, had 121, followed by Everett McNulty and Bill Brake at 122, Larry Whittle and Colman Panioque, 123, and Leon Engle and Larry McCormick 124.

Dom DiMaggio interested in buying Red Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — Former Boston outfielder Dom DiMaggio said Tuesday he was "very much interested" in buying the Red Sox but that he has not made any offer to the widow of Thomas A. Yawkey.

"We've had some people interested in buying the team for a long period of time," said the lifetime .298 hitter in a telephone interview from his Lawrence, Mass., manufacturing plant.

"But it's a little bit early (to make an offer) with Tom having passed away recently," he said.

DiMaggio, who played with Boston between 1940-1953, denied a published report that he had gathered a group of businessmen with the intent of buying the Red Sox in the near future.

The fate of the team has been in question since Yawkey, who owned the team 43 years, died July 9. His widow, Jean, last week was named president of the trust that runs the club.

"I'm sure Mrs. Yawkey is up to her neck right now," said DiMaggio, a longtime member of the Sox Boosters club.

"We have not made an offer but we sure would be interested in buying the team if that sort is not new."

"If Mrs. Yawkey decides she wants to sell the team, I'm sure she's aware that I have been interested for some time and I hope she considers me," said DiMaggio.

Reports also have circulated that Red Sox General Manager Dick O'Connell was trying to obtain funding to buy the club. DiMaggio, however, said he has had no discussion with longtime friend O'Connell on joining his group of prospective investors as a member.

"I may have said at times that I was interested in buying the club but I never approached O'Connell as a person who might be a buyer," said DiMaggio, owner and president of the Delaware Valley Corp., a manufacturer of automobile seat cushion foam.

Orioles seek end to player tampering

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Baltimore Orioles general manager Hank Peters said Tuesday he has asked commissioner Bowie Kuhn to discipline other clubs if they continue to indirectly "tamper" with unsigned Orioles.

"When I say tampering, I'm concerned primarily about statements appearing in the news and in radio and television interviews by those in major league baseball — from owners to field people — regarding their organizations, speculating what those players are going to get when they become available," Peters said.

"These are players on our reserve list. They say it's been generalized (talk)," Peters said, "but it has been going beyond that."

Peters sent a telegram to Kuhn and American League president Lee McPhail expressing concern over speculation by other clubs on the future of the Orioles' five unsigned players.

Reggie Jackson, Bobby Grich and Wayne Garland are "the ones most commonly mentioned," said Peters. Ross Grimsley and Tim Nordbrook are the two other unsigned players.

"These players are not free agents and they won't be until the season ends," Peters said Tuesday. "And until the season ends, no one has the right to make these speculations."

The Orioles general manager said he plans to discuss his complaint Thursday with Kuhn in New York.

Johnstone honored
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jay Johnstone's finest week of his career has earned him national league player of the week honors.

The Philadelphia outfielder raised his batting average to a league-leading .246 after hitting a torrid 583 (14 for 24) during the week of Aug. 16-22. During the six-game span, Johnstone drove in 11 runs with four doubles, a triple and home run.

Miami swaps Morris

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Chargers acquired Mercury Morris from the Miami Dolphins Tuesday night to help fill the void in the offensive backfield caused by the injury to top draft pick Joe Washington.

Morris, the No. 2 leading rusher in Dolphins' history, was acquired for an undisclosed future draft choice. Morris was originally waived Monday after Coach Don Shula announced he was unable to come up with a trade for the 5-10, 192-pound running back.

Washington, the fourth player taken in the entire draft last May, suffered an injury to his right knee in an exhibition game against the New England Patriots Aug. 6. He has not played in three preseason games since then and was scheduled to undergo surgery Wednesday.

Washington, from Oklahoma, is expected to be out eight weeks.

Shula did not elaborate on his reasons for waiving Morris and apparently withdrew the action when the Chargers made a bid.

Morris, an eight-year veteran, had a career total of 3,877 yards, a 5.1-yard average and 29 touchdowns. He ran for 1,000 and 954 yards in the two seasons the Dolphins won the Super Bowl and led the team in rushing last year with 975 yards.

Medical panel will aid U.S. Olympians

NEW YORK — Minutes after his second-place finish in the Olympic Marathon at Montreal, Frank Shorter was asked whether he might be tempted to try for a gold medal at the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

"Yeah," Shorter said somewhat cynically, "I find some good doctors."

Shorter's words may be answered. The U.S. Olympic Committee has quietly approved the formation of a panel of experts to study the scientific and medical aspects of sports and their effect on the performances of world-class athletes.

The success or failure of the panel could determine America's future role in international sports competition.

Coordinating the program will be Dr. Irvin Dardik, an aggressive 40-year-old cardiovascular surgeon from Tenally, N. J., who was a member of the Olympic committee's medical staff in Montreal and is understood to have the respect and confidence of many American athletes.

Dardik said the panel would be formed immediately and would explore a variety of areas — nutritional, pharmacological and advanced medical approaches to training. Prominent physicians, orthopedic surgeons, exercise physiologists and pharmacologists in the United States would be contacted about contributing knowledge and research to the program.

"We want to develop methods and modalities for working with athletes that would enhance their performance and be safe," Dardik said, during a recent interview. "We'll be reviewing as much information as we can in the European sector, directly and indirectly, and explore what's been done elsewhere."

"We'll be working predominantly from the medical side and dealing with the top athletes in all sports."

Dardik said the panel was prepared to "look into areas considered taboo" in sports and make judgments on the benefit or harm to American athletes. This would include extensive research into the effects of anabolic steroids and blood-doping on performance.

U.S. athletes have long contended that Eastern European countries had developed sophisticated sports medicine programs that contributed significantly to the performances of their athletes and placed Americans at a disadvantage. The gold-medal output of East Germany and the Soviet Union in Montreal reinforced this belief in the minds of many American competitors.

Although the study of sports medicine has increased in the United States in recent years, the U.S. Olympic Committee had considered its relationship with athletes more advisory than personal. With the blessing of Col. Don Miller, the USOC executive director, Dardik said the panel was prepared to assist any athlete.

Dardik said medicine is likely to assume an even greater role in future international sports competition, an opinion that is shared by Dr. John Anderson, another member of the USOC medical staff.

"It's become a medical Olympics," Anderson said, referring to the elaborate testing procedures adopted under doping control. "Twenty-five per cent of our time in Montreal was spent on trying to explain to athletes all the details of the tests and the drugs that they could and couldn't take. It's gone too far."

The random steroid tests in Montreal were conducted by the various sports federations. Anderson conceded that the emphasis was geared to weight-type events.

Dardik believes the panel will provide a resource unit for athletes. At the U.S. Olympic track and field trials, in Eugene, Ore., 23 athletes failed the doping control test.

Most of the positive results were attributed to pills for hay fever and allergy-related symptoms brought on by a high pollen count. Dardik stressed the need for a consistent policy in the future at all national championships and American trials.

"We've got to prepare our athletes the same way they would be treated at an Olympics," Dardik said.

Dardik realizes the panel will be on the spot in view of the publicity over drugs and the private theories surrounding the gold-medal performances of some European athletes in Montreal.

"This is not — I repeat — not going to be a committee that is being formed to take the heat off," he said. "I'm prepared to do whatever the athletes want to help them for Moscow. But we want to do it so that the athletes understand each step along the way."

Line experience good, depth suspect for Valley gridders

EDEN HAZELTON — If experience offsets lack of size and injuries stay away, Valley Coach Forrest Fomesbeck believes the Valley Vikings could have a very respectable football team this fall.

But the ifs remain big — considerably bigger than the lineups — although the ifs in letters remaining, the largest is 183 pounds.

"Our strong aspects will be an experienced line and the maturing of young backs from last year," he says. "Our weakness is depth and we will really be in trouble if we receive injuries in the line."

He said he hopes the Vikings can develop into a ball control team but notes the major part of the Viking schedule comes in the Little Five Conference and there are no breakers.

"They're all tough in the conference, especially Glenns Ferry, Kimberly and Shoshone," he noted.

Overall he lists team quickness as "pretty good."

Coach Fomesbeck can put two-year veterans at just about every line position, and these boys have learned their lessons with a few lumps.

The tackles are Buddy Bailey, 6-0, 175, and Paul Stewart, 5-9, 183. At guard are Lynn Sorenson, 5-8, 165, and Dan Gardner, 5-10, 164. Sorenson has lettered three times.

The center is 5-8, 164-pound Greg Rogers, while Chad Dixon, 5-10, 168, is the only veteran end.

Juniors with a year's experience, provide most of the backfield people. The exception is 5-10, 154-pound halfback Kelly Human, a two-year vet.

The juniors are Gerald Griffiths, 5-10, 145-pound tackle; John McBride, 6-0, 152-pound split end; Bryan Human, 6-1, 178-pound halfback; Phil Ellis, 6-0, 158-pound guard; Robert Perkins, 5-11, 156-pound halfback, and sophomore Tracy English, 6-1, 180-pound fullback.

Junior John Torres, who led the javobs last fall, is expected to handle most of the quarterbacking duties and Coach Fomesbeck expects help from 5-9, 142-pound sophomore halfback Ron Metcalf.

The Viking schedule includes Sept. 3, Mirtough at Valley; Sept. 10, Valley at Hansen; Sept. 17, Valley at Kimberly; Sept. 24, Wendell at Valley; Oct. 1, Hagerman at Valley; Oct. 8, Shoshone at Valley; Oct. 13, Valley at Filer; Oct. 22, Oakley at Valley; and Nov. 5, Valley at Glenns Ferry.

Team Canada whips U.S.

MONTREAL (UPI) — A pair of goals by Bobby Hull led Team Canada to a 7-3 win over Team USA in a Canada Cup exhibition game Tuesday night.

Phil Esposito added one goal and assisted on three others for Canada, with Hull assisting on two goals.

Team Canada controlled the opening half of the first period, outshooting the Americans 7-1. Hull opened the scoring at 3:58 of the first period, sliding a loose puck under American goalie Pete Lapeasi. With less than four minutes remaining in the period, Joe Norris led the score for Team USA.

Redskins, Oilers trade for proven NFL veterans

By United Press International

The Washington Redskins and Houston Oilers, two proven National Football League powers, stumbled through the current exhibition season, visited the trade market Tuesday and picked up some big name veterans in an effort to recast their courses for the regular season less than three weeks away.

The Redskins acquired disgruntled safety Jake Scott and defensive tackle John Matuzak while the Oilers picked up running backs Alvie Taylor and Joe Dawkins plus offensive tackle Dave Simonson.

Washington got Scott, who has played in five Pro Bowls during his six seasons, from the Miami Dolphins in exchange for safety Bryant Salter. In the 1972 Super Bowl, Scott intercepted two passes to help the Dolphins defeat the Redskins, 14-7.

"Salter has done a fine job for us and it's difficult to give up a solid guy like him," said Redskins' General Manager Coach George Allen. "But Scott is a big play guy, he has leadership and he wants to play for the Redskins."

"Normally, it's not my policy to make trades this late in the preseason, but to get a player of Scott's caliber I was willing to break a rule."

Matuzak, the former No. 1 draft pick of the entire NFL (1973), was picked up from the Kansas City Chiefs for a series of undisclosed future draft choices.

The Redskins also waived three veterans: running back Moses Denson, safety Spencer Thomas and linebacker Lonnie Warwick. Denson started eight games with the Redskins last season, but became expendable with Washington's off-season acquisition of running back James Harris and Calvin Hill.

The Oilers picked up Taylor from the Detroit Lions and Dawkins and Simonson from the New York Giants for undisclosed draft choices. Taylor is the all-time leading rusher in Detroit history while Dawkins started at fullback last year for the Giants and was their leading ground gainer.

Houston also waived seven players, including defensive end Bubba Smith.

On other fronts, the San Diego Chargers suffered a blow to their running game when it was learned that Joe Washington, their top draft pick from Oklahoma, must undergo surgery on his right knee. Washington was injured in a game with the New England Patriots Aug. 6 and has not played in any of the three exhibition games since then.

Fozano announced that Joe Reed would be the team's No. 1 quarterback, choosing the four year veteran over former starters Greg Landry and Bill Munson. Munson immediately asked to be traded and Fozano said he would try to accommodate him.

Detroit also lost running back Steve Owens, a former Heisman Trophy winner, who announced his retirement. Owens ended his five-year career because of knee injuries.

The New York Jets cut their punter last year, Greg Gantt, even though they do not have another punter on the roster.

USSR, Czechs leave tourney

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, in a move criticized as "most unsportsmanlike" by tournament officials, withdrew Tuesday from the Federation Cup tennis championships because of the participation of South Africa and Rhodesia, which do not permit multi-racial sport among citizens within their boundaries.

Derek Hardwick, president of the International Lawn Tennis Federation, announced the withdrawal of the fourth-seeded Russians and the eighth-seeded Czechs at a news conference called one hour after the teams' first-round matches were scheduled to begin.

Russia was to have met Uruguay and Czechoslovakia was scheduled to face Canada. Hardwick said the ILTF was giving the teams 24 hours to reconsider their decision "and keep them from making fools of themselves." But tournament observers were certain the teams would not play.

"This whole episode has been a clear case of the intrusion of politics into sport," Hardwick said.

Oilers drop Smith

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — The Houston Oilers Tuesday released popular defensive end Bubba Smith and seven other players, then shored up a hobbling backfield by trading for the Detroit Lions' all-time leading rusher Alvie Taylor and New York Giants' runner Joe Dawkins.

Head coach Bum Phillips dealt away only undisclosed draft choices in the two trades and he also acquired third-year offensive tackle Dave Simonson from the Giants.

The behind-the-scenes wheeling, most of it caused by recent injuries to running backs Fred Willis and Ronnie Coleman, forced Phillips to offer as many as five unnamed players up for waivers by an afternoon deadline.

Gal pros take Ford golfing

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford played golf with three top women pros Tuesday and admitted "I don't like to lose."

The President was teamed with Judy Rankin of Midland, Tex., the top money maker this year in the Ladies' Professional Golf Association. The other two women pros playing against them were Pat Bradley of Westford, Mass., and Joyce Nazemierski of Detroit.

Rankin, wearing a pink sweater, said that Ford was a good player.

But the President and his golfmate were losing on the first four holes and that was when Ford told newsmen, "I don't like to lose."

Bradley spoke enthusiastically about the President, saying she enjoyed the game "tremendously" and found the President "a down-to-earth guy."

"I wasn't nervous at all," she added. "He made us all feel comfortable."

Under questioning she said that his chipping needed improvement but added "it's a pretty tough course."

The foursome, with a bulk of the White House press corps following, played at the Vail Municipal Golf Course, with a backdrop of the Rockies. Ford wore gray slacks, a wine-red sweater, and blue shirt and white socks.

Ford had a five-stroke handicap on each 18 holes they played.

They made a lot of bets, mainly for a "$2 nassau."

At one point on the fifth hole, Ford spotted the two Secret Service teams playing touch football. His son Jack played on the family SS team.

Bill Hall, the ladies' PGA coach and the representative of the course they played on, arranged for the match between the lady golfers and Ford. The women were on tour.

Jets cut punter

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — Greg Gantt, the club's punter for the last two years, was among five players cut by the New York Jets Tuesday.

Also dropped by the Jets were offensive tackle John Adams, who had been acquired from St. Louis on waivers earlier this summer, and three free agents, running backs Bob Wyatt of North Texas State and Paul Rogers of Virginia Tech and offensive guard Paul Brock of Tulane.

Gantt, an eighth round draft choice from Alabama in 1973, averaged 36.5 yards on 59 punts last season, the poorest figure in the American Football Conference. He also had a conference high of three punts blocked.

LA pins 10th loss in row on Montreal

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ron Cey slugged his 21st home run and Davey Lopes stole his 38th base behind the seventh-pitching of Bert Hoslen Tuesday night in a 6-0 victory by the Los Angeles Dodgers over Montreal, the Expos' 10th straight loss.

Lopes led off the first with a walk, stole second and reached third on a ground-out, scoring on Bill Russell's sacrifice fly. Cey led off the second inning with his homer to right-center field.

Cowboy progress pleases coach

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry said Tuesday his defending NFC champion club was progressing satisfactorily through the exhibition season and he has no concern over selecting the right players to fill out the team's final roster.

"I'm worried most about working out the positions," said Landry, who trimmed his and there are a lot of close races on our club." "The Cowboys Tuesday placed wide receiver Percy Howard on the injured reserve list and waived defensive lineman John Bushong-Hineman, who caught a touch-down pass in the final minutes of the Super Bowl last season, has been bothered by a knee injury, which could require surgery.

The moves reduced Dallas' roster to 49 plus the players who were on the College All-Star team.

President Douglas Moore said Coach John Coatta had only 33 players out for Monday's practice session.

Moore said he shared the coach's feeling that the school did not have a sufficient number of football players to compete in the North Central Conference this year.

"We are not terminating the football program at MSU permanently and expect to resume the program next fall," Moore said.

Mankata calls season

MANKATO, Minn. (UPI)—Mankato State University Tuesday canceled its football schedule for this fall because not enough students turned out for the team.

President Douglas Moore said Coach John Coatta had only 33 players out for Monday's practice session.

Moore said he shared the coach's feeling that the school did not have a sufficient number of football players to compete in the North Central Conference this year.

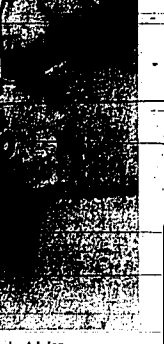

"We are not terminating the football program at MSU permanently and expect to resume the program next fall," Moore said.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUG. 26, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to make specific plans to have greater abundance in the days ahead. Make out a list of important things to be done. By carrying through without delay you can make rapid progress.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attend to duties you have agreed to perform but still have not started. Strive to be more cooperative with fellow workers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Show more appreciation for your mate and you will have greater rapport. Don't neglect to pay important bills.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You know what should be done to make your home more functional, but first discuss it with family members. Strive for happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Discuss with allies what should be done to make joint projects more profitable. Take time to visit friends.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen to what a financial expert has to suggest for your betterment. You can save more money and add to present security.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Doing the things you like to do can make this a most interesting and profitable day for you. A higher-up can give the backing you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have many duties to handle but be sure to handle them enthusiastically. Relax tonight and restore your energies for tomorrow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study what your true aims are and the best way to gain them. Engage in more social activities and make new friends.

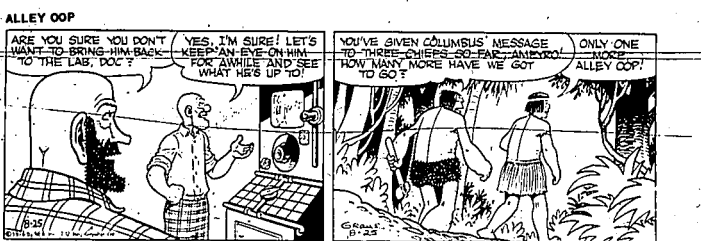

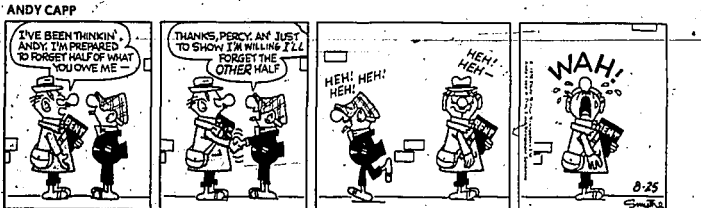

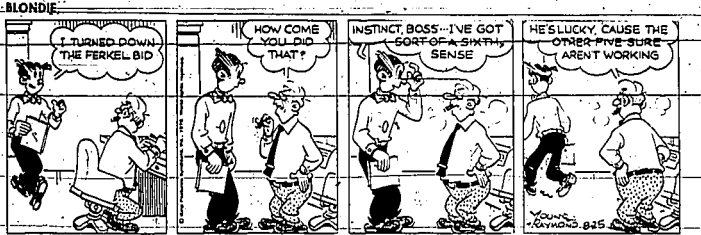

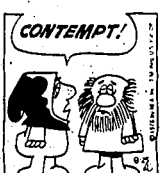

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Attend civic duties in spare time and get excellent results. Find new appliances that will help you to be more efficient at your work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A new project that appeals to you will require labor and true application to be successful. Follow suggestions of an expert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show that you are conscientious in handling responsibilities. Be more willing to help mate and have greater rapport.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Problems you have can be solved by talking them over with associates. Attending a civic affair can be beneficial to you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... ...he or she will be capable of trimming ideas to a workable success, so give as fine an education as you can, so that big projects can be handled with ease. Ethical and moral training is most important here. There is musical talent in this chart.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Among those people who are so fond of laying bets that they can be classified as gamblers: the Catholics outnumber the Jews, the Jews outnumber the liberal Protestants, the liberal Protestants outnumber the Baptists, and the Baptists outnumber the atheists. Or so a University of Michigan study suggests.

Average annual budget of the U. S. - Michigan in its first three years was the equivalent of $8 Million in today's money. "U. S. News & World Report" points out it would be just enough now to run the government for about 1 1/2 minutes.

Q. "What's the average length of the umbilical cord?"
A. About 22 inches.

THE SACK
During the Industrial Revolution in England, the men who worked in the factories there, at least those old boys with special mechanical skills, had to furnish their own tools. When such a fellow lost his job, his foreman let him know simply by handing him a sack to carry his tools. Our Language man says that's why when we're fired we say we got the sack.

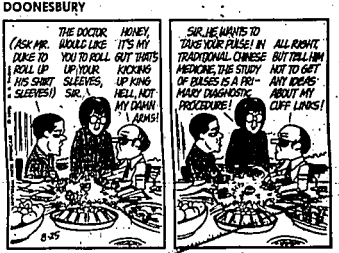

Those who claim to be color experts insist that red is the only hue that elicits a strong reaction in infants. Interesting, if true. All I know is that people who drive red cars have more accidents for some mysterious reason.

MOONLIGHT
Just as numerous young ladies today think it beautiful to tan themselves at length in the sun, so did the Italian girls of 400 years ago believe it beautiful to bathe their bodies in moonlight. Records of the time indicate they were convinced such lunar skin treatments gave their complexions a sort of translucent glow.

An attorney and a doctor were debating the merits of their respective professions. "I don't claim all lawyers are crooks," said the doctor, "but you'll have to admit that the practice of law doesn't make angels of people." "Quite so," said the lawyer, "you've got the best of us there."

In the days of old Rome, a clean-shaven face was the mark of a civilized man, please note. The words "beard" and "barbarian" come from the same root, in fact. Later, though, as recently as 100 years ago, neatly trimmed whiskers were a sign of a certain culture. As is widely known, Abe Lincoln grew his beard when first elected to the presidency. On the theory it would give him more dignity. These two viewpoints, the pro-beards and the anti-beards, remain opposed. What's your stand on this matter?
