Carter sons tried pot

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — The three sons of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter tried marijuana when they were younger, but their mother, Rosalynn, says they no longer smoke it.

Mrs. Carter said the boys had admitted to her and her husband that they had tried the illegal weed. "I'm opposed to marijuana because we really do not know enough about its effects," Rosalynn Carter said in a statement issued through her spokesman, Mary Hoyt. "My boys do not smoke marijuana, but back when they were younger, they confided in us that they had tried it."

The three Carter sons, all married, are Jack, 29, Chip, 26, and Jeff, 24.

Philippine volcano erupts

MANILA, The Philippines (UPI) — Taal volcano erupted today after a six-year lull, spewing steam, gas and volcanic ash up to 5,000 feet into the air. Thousands of nearby villagers were evacuated safely two days ago.

Volcanologist Medardo Cardoso said the eruption was "relatively mild" compared to the last major convulsion in 1965 that killed 192 persons.

But, he added, the activity could intensify.

800 year life enzyme sought

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — People could live for 800 years if scientists could just find an elusive little enzyme.

Discovery of that enzyme, Dr. Johan Bjorksten said Thursday, would mean an average life expectancy of eight centuries. Bjorksten told the American Chemical Society convention here that aging occurs when two molecules in a gene become hooked together by a process called "cross-linking."

"If an enzyme could be found that would dissolve the bonds linking the molecules, he said, the process of growing old would drastically slow."

The Madison, Wis., scientist said researchers have already located an enzyme that seems to work in most cells, but he said it was a "miracle" if the first experiment provided the answer.

Cancer-producing soil?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The farmer's practice of plowing fertilizers and pesticides into the ground at the same time could result in a cancer-producing chemical reaction, according to a government chemist.

The chemist said "noxious nitrosamines, some of which are cancer causing" could result from chemical interactions between fertilizers and certain widely used pesticides.

Dr. Phillip C. Kearney, chief of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Pesticide Degradation Laboratory, reported on the potential new cancer hazard Thursday at the end of the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society. He said the significance of the discovery was still unclear and further studies were needed.

Speck parole protested

CHICAGO (UPI) — Richard Speck, sentenced to 400 to 1,200 years in prison for killing eight Chicago nurses in 1956, will ask a parole board Sept. 15 for freedom. Thousands of persons across the country have protested.

Tom Munro, assistant to the chairman of the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board, said Thursday the hearing at Stateville Penitentiary where Speck is imprisoned should take about an hour — about four times as long as the usual parole hearing.

Quake rocks Puget Sound

SEATTLE (UPI) — A three-second earthquake that measured 4.0 on the Richter Scale shook the northern Puget Sound area Thursday and caused only a few broken picture frames.

The epicenter of the tremor was pinpointed by University of Washington seismologists as 15 miles north of Port Townsend under the eastern reach of the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

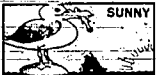

Nearby Whidbey Island got a sharp jolt as did Victoria, Canada. A woman in Fort Angeles, Wash., said the quake knocked some picture frames off her television set.

2 die in Guard plane crash

BOISE (UPI) — The National Guard phantom aircraft that crashed Thursday killing two guardsmen is the same plane Gov. Cecil Andrus flew Wednesday as part of a guard recruiting promotion.

The crash in Bear Valley killed Major Alton J. Bunderson, 36, Boise, and another as yet unidentified guardsman.

Lt. Dave Swanson said Andrus wasn't on the "orientation ride" in the HFAC jet before filming some television footage to recruit guard members.

Race riots grip S. Africa

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Riot police today fired buckshot and charged with batons into thousands of multiracial demonstrators who swarmed through Cape Town's main white shopping center, shouting antigovernment slogans.

The rioting, in its third day, flashed from downtown Cape Town to black and multiracial townships of Langa, Hanover Park and Matieland where police uncovered caches of gasoline bombs during the night. Police said they shot two unidentified multiracial rioters Thursday.

Cape Town hospital officials said a third man died Thursday of wounds inflicted during the rioting and police reported another man apparently injured himself in a prison cell soon after his arrest during the violence.

The violence, part of nationwide unrest that has left nearly 300 dead in 10 weeks, coincided with the start of Premier John Vorster's visit to Zurich, Switzerland, for three days of crisis talks on southern African with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Before his dawn departure from Johannesburg, Vorster said his mission was "one of the most important" a South African Prime Minister had ever undertaken. The two men will discuss specifically the volatile situation in Rhodesia and South West Africa (Namibia).

Cape Town's city center was cordoned off by traffic police who warned everyone to stay of the streets. Business and traffic came to a virtual standstill and police chased dispersing demonstrators down side alleys, clubbing some and throwing teargas after them.

Witnesses said one of Thursday's casualties was shot dead when police surprised him trying to set fire to the Hanover township library.

Friday police fired teargas grenades at thousands of blacks and multiracials milling around in Adderley street where the sidewalks were still littered with glass and bloodsmeared from Thursday's violence.

They also used teargas on the market square in front of the City Hall, two blocks from the Adderley street white shopping center, sending white onlookers, multiracials and blacks scurrying for the safety of side streets, their eyes streaming tears and with handkerchiefs clamped to their faces. Several persons, overcome by the blowing white gas, vomited on the sidewalks.

Police patrol vehicles chased groups of multiracials down the narrow streets and several times gasmasked policemen hurled teargas canisters after them, and dragged the fleeing youths from shops and arcades. Many businesses closed down and barred their windows.

All entrances to Cape Town were sealed off with traffic barricades. In Matieland, in the East of the city, police in camouflage uniform baton-charged stone-throwing crowds and used teargas to scatter multiracials screaming abuse at them.

THOUSANDS of blacks march in protest of strict racial policies of South Africa. The demonstration swept through downtown Cape Town's white sections. Police fired tear gas into the crowds of demonstrators as rioting spread through the exclusively white area. (UPI)

Racial showdown

LONDON (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union have established such a balance of nuclear terror that neither is likely to attack the other, the authoritative International Institute for Strategic Studies said today.

In its annual "military balance" survey, the institute said the Soviet Union has a 20 per cent edge in its arsenal of nuclear warfare delivery vehicles and "huge superiority in the overall nuclear punch it can pack."

But the United States, it said, has more than twice as large a stockpile of nuclear warheads and nearly three times as many long-range bombers as the Soviet Union.

"The overall balance is such," the institute said, "as to make military aggression appear unattractive."

The institute is an independent international center for information and research on problems of security, defense and arms control in the nuclear age. It is not subsidized by any government.

The survey made these other points: — The Soviets and their Warsaw Pact allies in Europe have a big lead over NATO forces in troop strength, tanks, guns and tactical planes.

But NATO's advantages are so strong that it would mean "incalculable risks" of nuclear escalation to attack them.

— Both the United States and the Soviet Union are fueling the continuing Middle East arms race, supplying huge quantities of weapons to Israel and her Arab foes. Britain and France also are heavily involved in supplying weapons.

— Israel and the Arabs are stepping up their military buildup and defense spending, while Middle East peace efforts remain stalled.

— China has exploded 16 nuclear tests since 1964 and probably has a stockpile of 200 to 300 atom- and hydrogen-bombs. China also is developing intercontinental missiles, including one giant rocket with a range of 8,000 miles.

The institute's survey reached no overall conclusion about a relative U.S. and Soviet arm-strengths. But it gave a number of indicators.

It said the Soviet Union has a total of 2,507 intercontinental and submarine-launched ballistic missiles and long-range bombers, a 30 per cent edge over the United States' 2,007.

But in strategic bombers alone the United States has a fleet of 387 compared with the Soviets' 135.

The United States, the institute said, has more than 8,500 deliverable nuclear warheads and the total may exceed 10,000 in the 1980s.

The Soviets, it said, have a stockpile of 3,250 warheads.

Rush to many MD schools hit

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The demand for doctors in the United States is decreasing and there should be a halt in the development of new medical schools, according to the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education.

The council also said Thursday that the United States should end favorable treatment for immigrating foreign medical personnel.

— A report in an extensive study of medical education, the council said the number of physicians per 100,000 population in the United States would increase from 174 in 1975 to 198 by 1980 and to 222 by 1990.

"This could ultimately turn out to be a conservative assumption because the number of developing schools may continue to increase if vigorous measures are not taken to stop the trend toward adding new schools," the study said.

In addition to 114 medical schools now in operation, at least 13 new ones are in various stages of development and many more are being proposed. The Carnegie group noted that the cost of starting a medical school runs as high as $100 million.

His political career starts at 80

By BOB ZUCKERMAN

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Juneau H. Shinn, Twin Falls, is beginning his political career at 80.

Despite his years, the well-known newspaper, television and radio newsmen thinks he has the spunk to be a politician and is running for state representative as an Independent in District 25, the eastern half of Twin Falls County. "I wouldn't have lied if I didn't," he says. "Age is of no consequence."

"Oldies seem to agree. "He's one of the nicest, grandest guys in town," says Charles Tuma, KLIX broadcaster and part owner. Juneau worked here and did a superb job.

Calling him the "daddy of Idaho journalists," Tuma says Shinn "has the enthusiasm of a five-year-old." At age 80, I know that's hard to believe, but it's true."

Shinn, an Independent, will face Republican T.W. Silvers in the Nov. 2 general election.

Shinn says there are no major differences between himself and Silvers. "Mine is a very low key campaign," he says. "It is in this as a matter of principle, to give the voters a choice."

How will the voters tell the difference between the two candidates?

"They know us both," Shinn says simply. As for any doubts that he is not really trying to get elected, he adds, "You can draw your own conclusions."

A resident of Twin Falls for about 20 years, Shinn has long been active in public affairs. He was editor and publisher of the Filer Record and on the Filer City Council in the 1920s. For the first seven years of the '30s, he was editor and part owner of the Idaho Evening Times. The Filer paper was later bought by the Fall Herald. The Times later bought the Twin Falls News, becoming the Times-News.

For at least 25 years, Shinn has been broadcasting his "Report to the Valley" on KLIX week days at 6 p.m. He also worked in the station's advertising department until he retired on his 80th birthday in March, according to Tuma.

Tuma says Shinn would make a good representative because he "knows the ins and outs" of Montpelier politics.

"He's a longtime resident who's very familiar with the problems," Tuma says. "He's very complaint of what's good and what is not so good."

Born in Cornish, Iowa, the candidate came to Idaho with his parents. He was educated at Filer High School and the University of Southern California. He served as the administrative assistant during the term of the late Idaho Gov. Barzilla Clark.

He has served as American Legion post commander and as president of the Historical Society. He also has been active in the Kiwanis Club, and served on the board of directors of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and Salvation Army.

Hospital eyes cut in staff

By GEORGE WILEY

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital now is considering cutting down the size of the hospital staff.

The cutbacks may be made in the service departments at the hospital which helped handle patients in the short term care unit.

In July, Magic Valley Memorial closed down the second floor short term care unit because of a shortage of nurses at the hospital.

None of the cutbacks in staff now being considered would involve nurses since a nursing shortage still persists at the hospital.

Service departments include business, public relations and dietary offices as well as laundry, laboratory, physical therapy and cardiopulmonary units.

Hospital Administrator James Rosenbaum said the needed to reopen the short-term care wing is "still being evaluated."

"We're still getting by and won't reopen it until we have to," he added.

The unit was closed in July when summer vacations for nurses cut into the already short nursing staff.

The unit was reserved largely for persons coming to the hospital for elective surgery.

While the unit's closure has not had a drastic effect on the hospital's healthcare, it has had an effect on the hospital's budget.

Rosenbaum said the hospital is staffed to handle about 85 per cent of its capacity. But for the last two months, he added, the hospital has been operating at only about 65 per cent of capacity.

While he wouldn't say the unit's closure had forced the hospital into the red, Rosenbaum did say, "It certainly is cutting down our margin."

He added the hospital is getting some pressure from physicians to reopen the wing so they can cut down on backlogs of elective surgery.

Rosenbaum said he had no idea how many elective surgery cases were being held back.

"They tell me there's a lot, but I don't know," he said.

He said staffing cutbacks, if they are made, "would be a matter of trying to reduce expenses, primarily payroll which is our biggest cash outlay, to get us back down to where we can live with the situation."

No date has been set for a decision on cutbacks, he said, but added, "If we don't get it opened pretty quick then we're going to have to do it."

The problem with the reopening is that the short nursing staff which forced the closure hasn't got any bigger.

"Although a salary increase for nurses was approved by the hospital board, the pay raise 'as of today' hasn't brought in another single nurse," Rosenbaum said.

He said the nursing staff remains "about even" with what it was in May when nurses began to complain publicly about being overworked.

Potato contract payments blocked

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal district judge has temporarily blocked brokerage houses and the New York Mercantile Exchange from paying $380,000 through several brokerage houses representing the contract sellers and distributing the funds to the buyers of 1,000 potato futures contracts.

Federal Judge Henry Weiker of the Southern District of New York issued a temporary restraining order late Wednesday in response to a similar complaint filed by J.R. Simplot and Peter J. Taggares, major potato processors and sellers of the futures contracts, and Hefield Commodities Inc., a commodities broker.

Pending a court hearing Sept. 8, the restraining order prevents the exchange from collecting $380,000 through several brokerage houses representing the contract sellers and distributing the funds to the buyers of 1,000 potato futures contracts.

Simplot and Taggares defaulted on their contracts on May 25 when 50 million pounds of Maine potatoes were not delivered to buyers as required, resulting in the largest futures contract default in history.

The trading price for the potatoes on the day of the default was $2.70 per 100 pounds but the exchange set a settlement price of $10.66, resulting in a difference of $880,000 the exchange said also was due the contract buyers.

Under pressure from the Commodities Futures Trading Commission, a federal regulatory body, the exchange set a Friday deadline for the brokerage houses to come up with the additional money from the sellers to pay the buyers.

But the order obtained by Simplot, for example, temporarily enjoins the exchange from collecting $380,000 for each May contract sold by Simplot through Clayton Brokerage Co. of St. Louis and Thomson & McKinnon, Auchincloss, Kollmeyer Inc. of New York, two of Simplot's brokers for the May futures contracts.

Whoa, Hossy! TWO New York City patrolmen made like cowboys and lassos Whitley, a 3-year-old pony, and brought her before the desk sergeant. They gave her some water and hoped the owner would call before nature did. (UPI)

Ed board policies clarified

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education advised Thursday local school boards to use their own discretion in determining their enrollment and tuition practices concerning non-resident students despite the attorney general's recent interpretation.

The board policy rejected the attorney general's interpretation of the residency and tuition procedures in a statement that read in part: "whether it is an opinion or a letter is immaterial since it is not accepted by the state board of education as an interpretation of existing laws."

Deputy Attorney General James R. Hargis sent a letter to Superintendent of Public Instruction Roy Truby stating school districts cannot require residence as a criterion for enrollment.

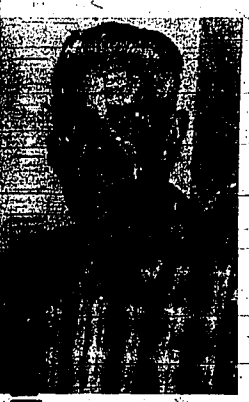

Attorney General Wayne Kidwell said Tuesday the letter was not a formal opinion or a day-by-day legal guideline for the department to use in that it did not contain the detailed formal analysis of an attorney general's opinion.

In further action the board voted to discontinue funding of new medical students entering the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education WICHE exchange program starting in the fall of 1977.

Idaho students already in the program at that time will continue to be supported and dental and veterinary students will not be affected by the cutoff.

The move is expected to save the state some $160,000.

RealLemon control 'diluted'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Federal Trade Commission judge ruled today that Borden Inc., makers of "RealLemon," has a monopoly in the processed lemon juice business and should be forced to license its brand so competitors can use it.

Administrative Law Judge Daniel H. Hanscom said RealLemon dominates up to 90 percent of the market for lemon juice and the company, through various anti-competitive practices, has made it impossible for new brands to get in on the business.

If the ruling is upheld by the full commission, Borden will be forced to permit other companies to use the RealLemon brand name to sell the product, thereby diluting its control on the market.

Borden said the decision overlooks "substantial evidence" that RealLemon is in direct competition with fresh lemons and with frozen lemon juice.

It also said the judge's order that Borden license the RealLemon brand to other companies wishing to enter the market "constitutes an unlawful confiscation of a valuable property right, and is beyond the power of the commission."

"The proposal emphasizes the trial judge's complete failure to understand the operation of the market place, or the function of trademarks," Borden said.

The company expressed confidence the full commission would reject Hanscom's findings.

The judge said: "The heart of the monopoly power preserved and maintained by Borden lies in the RealLemon trademark and its dominant market position. For competition to enter the processed lemon juice industry, the barrier to entry which inheres in the RealLemon trademark must be eliminated. As a consequence... the only effective relief under the facts shown by the record in this case requires the licensing of the RealLemon brand name."

Ex-PUC aides cite lack of direction

BOISE (UPI) — One of three top Public Utilities Commission officials to resign within the last month said Thursday he left because of the lack of responsible administration by commissioners.

Phillip L. Eades, director of the Transportation Division, said he resigned because of a "lack of responsible administration in setting out staff policies and procedures" and "conflicts between Commissioners Karl Shurtliff, Ralph Wickberg and Robert Lenigh, have resulted in more than two dozen resignations."

He said three of the four top executives resigned within a month and 21 other staff members have left since January.

"There are differing viewpoints" between the commissioners and I don't feel they can effectively administer the commission because of this," Eades said.

Eades said Commissioners Shurtliff and Lenigh (both Democrats) voted the same way while Wickberg (a Republican) dissents.

"I feel they sometimes sign and send out orders when Ralph Wickberg is out of the office and don't hold them for a long enough time to give Ralph a chance to vote," Eades said. "Ralph has been with the commission for about 18 years and if anyone knows the business he does," Eades said.

Shurtliff said Thursday "that is an outrageous assertion."

"Certainly cases are sent out with only two signatures, but the decisions have already been made at a meeting of all the commissioners," Shurtliff said.

"On occasions when only two commissioners make a decision, the third always has the right to dissent," Shurtliff said.

Eades said commissioners don't hold themselves out to hear staff problems and they have circumvented the authority of the division directors to set out policies for the staff, which makes it very frustrating for division directors and I believe this is the underlying reason for the resignations," Eades said.

"It certainly is the reason for mine."

Credit data alterations

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Six men accused of altering the credit ratings of persons considered poor loan and credit card risks have been indicted by a federal grand jury.

The indictment Thursday claimed the suspects charged fees up to $1,500 to "clean" the records of between 100 and 150 persons kept by the Credit Data Division of TRW, Inc., the consumer credit data bank.

Federal authorities said the potential of the operation from August, 1974 to March, 1975 was unlimited had not been uncovered by the FBI, and demonstrated how easily the nation's credit data banks could be infiltrated.

A spokesman for the firm in suburban Anaheim, which stores credit information on more than 50 million Americans, said the company is being checked securely and access to the records and improved its system of checking incoming data.

"We believe this kind of thing can never happen again," he said.

The indictment names Philip Kostoff, 31, of Mission Viejo as the leader of the ring.

In further action the board voted to discontinue funding of new medical students entering the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education WICHE exchange program starting in the fall of 1977.

Idaho students already in the program at that time will continue to be supported and dental and veterinary students will not be affected by the cutoff.

The move is expected to save the state some $160,000.

Company disconnects phones of 54 protesting customers

HICKORY CORNERS, Mich. (UPI) — The phones suddenly went dead in Hickory Corners — but not without warning.

A spokesman for the Hickory Telephone Company said Thursday the company had stuck to an ultimatum issued to some 75 customers who are protesting a 34 per cent rate hike.

They were told to pay their past-due bills or have their phones shut off.

"We had no choice but to follow through and disconnect their telephones," said Harold VanGundy, regional plant manager for Telephone and Data Systems, Inc., which owns the Barry County telephone firm.

He said the phones were shut off at the company's office but equipment in the subscribers' homes would not be picked up unless it becomes apparent they do not intend to restore the service.

"We don't want to aggravate matters," VanGundy said. "I don't want to be the bad guy any more than I am now."

About a dozen protesters formed outside the company's office Thursday. One of them stuck a bumper sticker on a company car that said "Support the Hickory Telephone Protest."

Jackie Regis, a housewife and leader of the organized protest group, said she was using her phone when it was shut off late Wednesday. Others found their phones were dead the following morning.

"A lot of people think a telephone is a necessity," Mrs. Regis said. "Well, sure. We can live without them, and if we have to, rather than pay those outrageous rates, we will."

The subscribers refused to pay a $16.35 monthly rate, the highest in Michigan, which the company began charging residential customers last December. Most of the protesters have continued to pay the old rate of $10.60 a month.

With the past-due accounts piling up, the company last week sent out pink slips giving the protesters five days to bring their accounts up to date.

The protesters have fought the rate increase since November when it was first approved by the Michigan Public Service Commission. They have sponsored car washes, auctions, dances, and paper drives to help pay the legal fees.

Although the protesters lost a court suit seeking to have the rate rolled back, they won a rehearing of the original rate increase proposal before the MPSC. A decision on that rehearing is currently pending.

Last December, more than 100 angry subscribers asked to have their phones disconnected in protest of the rate increase. Most of the phones were turned back on in April for a $15 reconnoiter fee.

VanGundy said the same fee will be charged this time around when the protesters ask to have their service restored.

The company won the 34 per cent rate increase in November by citing rising equipment costs and expanded service for its customers. The $16.35 monthly rate includes toll-free calls from Hickory Corners to Kalamazoo and Battle Creek.

Since then, the company has asked the MPSC for an additional increase that would boost the basic monthly residential rate to $21.15.

Phone rates protested

MRS. Jackie Regis puts a $1 bumper sticker on the back of an automobile that reads "We Support the Hickory Corners, Mich. Phone Rate Protest." Mrs. Regis, secretary-treasurer of the protest group, said they have many money-making projects to fight the high telephone costs. (UPI)

Ford urges firms 'speed up vaccine'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is suggesting that drug manufacturers put workers on overtime to speed up the packaging of vaccine for the nationwide swine flu immunization program, which is running behind schedule.

President Ford summoned officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to the White House Thursday to see what could be done about getting the program on track.

"I damn well better run right," press secretary Ron Nessen quoted the President as saying.

The program is supposed to reach 143 million Americans and HEW reported there is enough vaccine on hand in bulk to make up more than 100 million doses. The critical shortage is in individual doses.

Interpreted the "permissible date" of delivery of vaccine vials as Oct. 1, the effective date of insurance liability. Matthews said HEW had hoped for delivery by Sept. 15.

Cooper said the manufacturers told him there has been "no delay in production or bottling" but he asked them to consider giving overtime to workers to speed up the output.

Matthews, in a letter to vaccine manufacturers, estimated only 20.4 million individually packaged doses will be available by Oct. 1 when nationwide vaccination was due to start.

"Compared to earlier projections by industry," Matthews said, "this represents a decrease of 74.3 per cent."

The conversion from bulk to individual dose was delayed by the manufacturers until after Congress passed legislation to untangle insurance questions that arose over the program.

Manufacturers said that the conversion was far behind schedule by Aug. 11, when Congress resolved the issue. Industry spokesmen said the process of putting the bulk vaccine into vials takes about six weeks.

After meeting with the President, HEW Secretary David Matthews told reporters that Dr. Theodore Cooper, an assistant HEW secretary and chief of the vaccine program, has contacted all the vaccine manufacturers concerning a lag in vaccine production.

Matthews said the manufacturers had in-

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago police are looking for a jewel thief who may be using her "sign to get to women's purses."

Mrs. Bella Feldman, 44, Chicago, reported $14,000 worth of jewelry stolen from her purse in a women's washroom at O'Hare International Airport Wednesday.

Mrs. Feldman said she hung her purse on a hook next to a sign that said, "Hang your purse here," outside the stall. When she came out to collect the purse, she found it on the floor and her jewelry was missing.

Chicago Police Sgt. Phil A. Roda said there are no hooks in the O'Hare washrooms and no signs like the one Mrs. Feldman said she saw.

"The hook and the sign may have been provided by a thief," Roda said.

Cadet theft case reopened by AF

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UPI) — The Air Force Academy today said an investigation of a cadet theft and forgery ring, first discovered in 1975, has been reopened because of complaints the thefts still were going on.

"A full scale investigation ordered by Academy Superintendent James Allen is underway," said Monty Blew, academy information officer.

"An independent agency is checking out all of the allegations."

Blew said Allen received a letter last week from Edward Joel Meyer, a Middleton, N.Y., attorney, who said he had evidence that an academy forgery ring involving at least four cadets might still be active.

"The academy spokesman said Meyer represented a cadet who was found innocent of charges stemming from the 1975 theft/forgery investigation and is presently enrolled at the academy."

Blew said in the spring of 1975, two cadets were charged with theft and forgery involving 11 fellow cadets. He said one of the cadets, Robert C. Stewart, a third class sophomore, was convicted of the theft and forgery totalling $532. The other cadet, who was not identified, resigned.

Blew said the offenses occurred between 1972 and 1975 and involved the theft of checks, deposit slips and identification cards used to cash forged checks.

"All that we can say right now is that we are looking into these new allegations and an announcement will be made once the investigation is finished," Blew said.

He said the new investigation was being handled by the Air Force Office of Special Investigation.

Phillips Co. aides face charges

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Phillips Petroleum Co., its board chairman and two former presidents face tax fraud conspiracy charges involving an alleged $2 million slush fund channeled through Swiss bank accounts.

A federal grand jury returned a seven count indictment Thursday against Phillips, one of the nation's largest oil companies.

One of the charges said part of the alleged slush fund was used to make payment to "certain foreign entities, which were not identified."

Named in the indictment were Stanley Learned, the firm's former president, chief executive officer and board chairman, William W. Kiser, who formerly held the three executive positions, and William Frederick Martin, current board chairman and a former president.

Martin said there was no basis for the charges against the firm, which has its headquarters in Bartlesville, Okla.

Phillips was accused of evading late payment with Triton Shipping Co., a New York-based foreign shipping firm, whereby income to Phillips in excess of $600,000 would be generated in a concealed manner and would not be properly recorded or reported on income tax returns.

The indictment said the firm arranged for $75,000 from Proconfrance, S.A. to be improperly recorded and improperly reported on Phillips' income tax return.

Murtur was accused of aiding and assisting in advice and preparation of a "false and fraudulent corporate income tax return filed in 1969 which failed to report $146,977 from Triton."

He also allegedly helped prepare a 1970 return which omitted a $98,285 payment from Triton, and a 1971 return which failed to mention

$104,077 from Triton.

The indictment said Phillips also failed to report technical service fees of $440,000 each in 1970, 1971 and 1972 from Cochlin Refineries, Ltd., a corporation created in 1963 to construct a refinery near Cochlin, India.

U.S. District Judge Allen Barrow scheduled arraignment for Sept. 13.

US unemployment rate up slightly in August

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate edged up slightly in August to 7.9 per cent, its highest level this year, the government said today.

Although last month's increase was smaller than in the two previous months, the 0.1 per cent rise constituted the third consecutive month that the jobless rate has come up, the Labor Department said. Unemployment went up 0.2 per cent in June and 0.3 per cent in July.

The overall 7.9 per cent rate is the highest unemployment has been since last December, when it was 8.2 per cent, the department said.

The latest jobless statistics cast some doubt on earlier administration predictions that unemployment will drop below 7 per cent by the end of the year. There will be only one more unemployment report before November's presidential election and those results could play a vital role in the outcome of that contest.

'Freebies'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Author Irving Wallace says former FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover was a notorious freeloader.

The author reportedly uncovered that fact of Hoover's character while researching for the book "The RRR Document," a fictional account of an FBI chief taking over the country through a constitutional amendment.

Wallace said he uncovered several instances in which Hoover took advantage of so-called "freebies," particularly will meals.

Miss Blake guest stars

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Amanda Blake, who played Dodge City's Kitty in the Gunsmoke series for 19 years, has filmed her first television appearance since the CBS show went off the air.

Miss Blake will guest star on a segment of a new NBC western series, "The Quest," to air Sept. 22.

McMahon sale 'on'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A federal judge has refused to block the sale of an Avalon, Ala., beachfront home where entertainer Ed McMahon's ex-wife and four children live.

Alvin McMahon and the children had filed suit trying to block the sale of the $200,000 home, property of a firm owned by McMahon.

U.S. District Judge Daniel H. Huyett III ruled Thursday the family had failed to prove "irreparable harm" would result from the sale of the home.

According to the suit, the house was to be sold to pay off debts and because creditors were threatening foreclosure on a second mortgage.

Campbell weds

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Singer Glen Campbell was married Thursday to Sarah Jan Davis, former wife of entertainer Mac Davis.

A spokesman for Campbell said the couple took out a marriage license in Carson City and were wed at an undisclosed location in Nevada.

It was the third marriage for Campbell, 49, divorced earlier this year. He was married to Mrs. Davis, 24, also divorced this year.

Betty poses

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — First Lady Betty Ford, preparing to end her two-week vacation in the Colorado Rockies, strolled through this resort village Thursday and posed for pictures with a young musical group.

Mrs. Ford, wearing a purple dress, watched briefly as members of the "Up With People" cast rehearsed in a green, striped tent and posed for several pictures with the young singers.

Emperor's reign

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's largest opposition party Thursday announced it opposes the government's plan to celebrate the 50th year of the Emperor Hirohito's reign Nov. 10.

A spokesman for the Japan Socialist party, which holds 118 of the 497 seats in the lower house of parliament, said to hold the celebration would ignore the emperor's responsibilities for World War II.

Hoover 'love' aired

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A 60-year-old former FBI file clerk and code-breaker has written a book describing the love she shared with J. Edgar Hoover.

Titled "FBI Woman," the book tells of the mostly Platonic relationship between the late FBI director, who never married, and Mrs. Blonnie Fowler, a divorcee who worked at the FBI's Washington headquarters from 1943 to 1952.

Mrs. Fowler, a resident of Jacksonville since 1960 and now employed in the city's legal aid department, said she decided to tell her story because "I kept hearing all this dirt about Hoover, especially about his immorality."

"I loved him for all the memories and a couple of scars," she said. According to Mrs. Fowler's account, Hoover and she were engaged in love making at one time, but she returned his ring following an argument in his office. On several occasions after that she said they discussed marriage.

"We were in love," she said. "Maybe we were a little old-fashioned but we were very close for many years."

They never married, Mrs. Fowler said, because of an ailment she suffered stemming from operations she underwent shortly after the birth of her daughter. Her only marriage ended in divorce in 1951.

She describes that final meeting in the book, 1000 copies of which are scheduled to go on sale in Jacksonville next week.

"At the hotel I sat still in the chair, moment looking at him. The moment was over and somehow he looked better. I felt relieved. It was going to be all right."

Samaritan tells ordeal

AN 86-year-old former school teacher said Thursday she was held prisoner seven months by a young man who she regarded as her son. Neighbors, concerned about Mrs. A.E. Dixon Ford, Houston, Tex., notified welfare officials who called police.

Laborer charged in Houston case

HOUSTON (UPI) — A 27-year-old laborer has been charged with keeping an 86-year-old woman prisoner in a waste-filled bedroom for seven months.

Mrs. A.E. Dixon Ford, a former school teacher, told police Thursday she had regarded Tommy H. Breedlove as her son.

Breedlove was charged with felony imprisonment. Neighbors concerned about the woman petitioned welfare officials who called police. The neighbors said they had been passing food to the woman through burglar bars on her bedroom window.

Breedlove told police he was protecting the woman from "undesirables" in the area.

Officers found the woman in a waste-filled bedroom, sitting on stained sheets. Officers said the temperature in the room was 100 degrees.

Another bedroom in the home, however, was clean and neat. It included a wardrobe filled with men's clothing.

G. Washington's doctors treated wrong problem

CHICAGO (UPI) — In the early morning hours of Dec. 14, 1799, George Washington awakened with a sore throat. Twenty-one hours later, the nation's first president, was dead.

Now Dr. Heinz H.E. Scheideggel, a Falls Church, Va., throat specialist, says the disease that killed Washington was wrongly diagnosed and treated and that Washington might have survived if the advice of a junior physician had been heeded.

Scheideggel, in the Archives of Otolaryngology, says a study of Washington's final illness indicates death was caused by acute epiglottitis — the suffocation-inducing swelling of the epiglottis, a flap that prevents food from entering the windpipe.

Washington's physicians listed the cause of death as "summer jaundice" — a severe sore throat, after discarding an initial diagnosis of a throat abscess.

Scheideggel said Washington got drenched by rain inspecting his farm on Dec. 13, 1799, and awakened between 2 and 3 a.m. to a severe sore throat and breathing difficulties.

Three physicians were called — including Dr. Ellis Cullen Dick, 72.

The treatment included heavy bleeding of the patient — a customary 18th century treatment — and medication that Washington almost choked to death trying to swallow.

New vaccine fights rabies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Scientists at the Wistar Institute say they have developed a new vaccine called "1" — the first major breakthrough in fighting rabies since Louis Pasteur developed his method in 1885.

He died at 11:30 p.m. on Dec. 14, 1799.

Dick had suggested a tracheostomy, making a surgical airway in the throat, but it had never been tried in America and the older doctors decided the risk was too high.

"It is of interest to note that in spite of all the advances of modern medicine in the last 200 years, this emergency would have been treated the same way then as now," said Scheideggel. "Only the rapid establishment of an airway guarantees survival in acute epiglottitis."

But, Scheideggel could understand the doctors' reluctance to try the operation, adding: "What would the world have said at that time if they had taken this chance and failed?"

Flu vaccine clinics set

BOISE (UPI) — The first public swine-flu immunization clinics will be held Oct. 11 in four Idaho cities, Robert Medlin, immunization program coordinator, said Wednesday.

The clinics, originally scheduled for September, were postponed because the influenza vaccines won't be available until Oct. 1, Medlin said.

Medlin said training of volunteers and staff to operate the free public clinics is almost complete.

Cost of the program is paid in part through a $107,000 federal grant for administration and implementation of the program, which Medlin said includes purchase of equipment and items needed for the clinics.

Medlin said the health department will probably seek an estimated $75,000 to $100,000 in additional funding from the state legislature.

Medlin said the influenza vaccine will be provided to private physicians free of charge and the doctors cannot charge patients for the vaccine, only for the cost of the service.

Vaccinations will also be given at already established public health clinics.

Medlin said clinics will be held throughout the state and dates are set by district health departments.

'Scale' violation carries $25 fine

CHICAGO (UPI) — A restaurant owner has been fined $25 for selling a "1-pound pizza" to his patrons without supplying them with a city-certified scale on which to weigh their meal.

The owner, Albert H. Beaver, was given the minimum fine after a jury found him guilty of violating a city ordinance that says anyone who sells food by weight must provide customers with a city-certified scale for weighing. The two-day trial was held before Circuit Court Judge John J. McDonnell.

He testified that the "1-pound" weighed out at 1 pound to ounces. The agents testified that because the scale was not a city-certified scale they didn't bother to see what it weighed.

The restaurant's lawyer, Roy S. Lasswell, argued that if the pizza parlor must keep a scale, so must the 40 McDonald's restaurants in Chicago that sell "quarter-pounders."

Manual I. Port, assistant corporation counsel, said the city does require such scales of McDonald's.

But a spokesman for McDonald's and Terry Hoehn, a spokesman for the Department of Consumer Sales, Weights and Measures, both said McDonald's is not required to have scales.

The difference, said Hoehn, is that McDonald's "merely calls its hamburger a quarter-pounder but doesn't sell it by weight. Chicago Pizza, Inc. said, was fined because its menu states, "Pizza: $1.25 a pound."

He cautioned that the menu wording may be only a gimmick and that the restaurant does not actually sell by weight, but added, "If they advertise by the pound, they are going to be held to that. If they don't mean that, then they shouldn't say it."

City councilman J. Dennis Beaver said, "They can arrest us every day of the week, but until this case is appealed and settled, I'm not putting in a scale."

Idaho will install new Medicaid plan

BOISE (UPI) — A new Medicaid claims processing system that could reduce claims by as much as $1 million a year and be a safeguard against fraud is being installed in Idaho.

The Dept. of Health and Welfare announced the new computerized system, which will cost between $1.5 million and $1.9 million for a three-year pilot program, at a Wednesday press conference.

Federal funds will pay 75 per cent of the cost of the new system, with the state legislature allocating $200,000 to implement and operate the program for a year.

Department consultant Cliff Alyea said the system, operated by Electronic Data Systems of Dallas, Texas, will screen out excessive or improper billings made by health care providers for Idaho's 20,000 Medicaid clients and computerize payment of more than $32 million per year in medical assistance claims.

Alyea said the system is "an effect tool" to combat cases of fraud, as well as simple human errors sometimes made by claims processors.

The system will check the eligibility of both patients and medical service providers, while adding what Alyea said is a vital element — the system will review treatment and histories of patients, looking for consistency of diagnosis and treatment.

"For instance we found one doctor who consistently prescribed antibiotics for patients who apparently had strep throat, but he made the diagnosis without any tests," Alyea said.

"This system can find treatment patterns, pick out abuses of the system, check suspect practices of health care providers and can even detect drug abuses," Alyea said.

Alyea said the computerized system will process the estimated 400,000 annual Medicaid claims more quickly and more efficiently.

"A computer can correlate information on a claims form more efficiently than people can," Alyea said, a fact he believes will eliminate multiple payments for services, a problem caused by occasional duplicate billings.

About 14 positions will be eliminated or people will be transferred to different departments when the system is implemented.

The department considered bid proposals from four firms, including Blue Cross of Idaho which was the low bidder.

EDS was chosen over Blue Cross because Alyea said the firm had superior services and met federal guidelines, which fill 13 volumes.

"We want the best system at the most reasonable cost," Alyea said.

He said Blue Cross bid a per claim charge of 82 cents, compared with EDS's charge of $1.25 per claim. But Blue Cross needed $190,658 for installation costs, compared with EDS's $46,600.

Alyea said he doesn't think there is much Medicaid fraud in Idaho but he anticipates even more federal controls on the program because of abuses in other states.

"I expect this sort of service will be mandated throughout the country eventually to help prevent abuses," Alyea said.

Alyea said federal officials must now approve the department's selection of a contractor, which will release the 75 per cent matching funds.

Department officials hope to have the processing system in operation in March, 1977.

Forum Rules

Forum letters must be concerned with topics of general interest and must be of a reasonable length.

The editors of the Times-News reserve the right to refuse publication if, in their opinion, the subject matter is of a libelous nature, is not in good taste or is repetitious and has previously been thoroughly covered in the forum.

All letters must bear the signature and address of the writer. The name of the writer will appear when published unless there is a personal request that it be withheld and the reason for such a request stated. This request will then be considered by the editors and it will either be granted or the letter will be returned to the writer.

Beaver, a lawyer, contended the city weights-and-measures ordinance never was intended for restaurants and that scores of restaurants sell "quarter-pound hamburgers" and "5-ounce steaks" without providing customers with a city-certified scale.

He said he will appeal.

The city did not charge that the pizza bought by two inspectors from the Department of Consumer Sales, Weights and Measures weighed less than a pound.

Charles R. Smigel, manager of the Chicago Pizza & Oven Grinder Co., testified that two women agents came into the restaurant last May and ordered the 1-pounder. When it was put on the table, they demanded that it be weighed.

Smigel said he was incredulous, but when they insisted, too, the pizza and agents to the kitchen and weighed it on a kitchen scale.

FTC restricts ads for kiddie vitamins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a landmark decision that will affect the way vitamins and other drug products may be advertised for children, the Federal Trade Commission Tuesday slammed severe restrictions on advertising for "Spider-Man" vitamins.

Saying because of such "hero figures" can trade on children's trust and open the door to overblows, the agency announced that Hudson Pharmaceuticals Corp. has already consented after agreeing to drop the ads voluntarily.

The settlement bans the use of children's vitamin ads on television or in print if the "children appeal" is to children or if children make up half the audience of TV programs carrying the ads.

In addition, the company may not air children's vitamin ads before 9:05 p.m. local time if Spider-Man or another hero figure is used; may not depict a hero figure larger than half the size of the ad itself; may not advertise children's vitamins at all in comic books; and may not mail such ads directly to children.

Her 'Big Mama' TF's big roller

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS, — Manhandling a 20-ton steamroller over freshly poured asphalt in the blistering August heat — a job for a 250-pound lunk of a man with curly arms and a free trunk for a body, right?

"Wrong. The person cranking in a steamroller she calls 'Big Mama,' on Second Avenue West is none other than Farmer's daughter Leslie Carder, a 25-year-old Ellers woman who does her job with her straight blonde hair tied neatly in pigtails, one hand firmly grasping the gear shift and the other holding a tired lollipop.

The lollipop was just something she "got hungry for," Leslie says. "General I take along sunflower seeds."

The steamroller operator, whose job outfit includes a fisherman's hat with "Coors" written all over it, bell-bottomed red pants and hiking boots, says her machine "is simple to drive, just three gears. It's easier to drive than a car once you learn how to use it."

Leslie says when she was first offered the job about a year ago, she was "a little skeptical."

"I said to myself, 'Oh, no. I don't think I want to, but when I got on it, I found it was easy.'"

Leslie's been working around heavy machinery for a good part of her life. "I was raised on a farm. I've always been a tomboy," she says. "I helped dad run his tractors and stuff, lived on horses."

Leslie has worked in the construction business for the last four years. Before that she worked in a gas station, in an auto body and paint shop, and even made hand calculators for a while.

A high school graduate, Leslie tried college for a couple of months but found out "she didn't like it."

At more than $8 per hour, she says she's making just as much as a person with four or even eight years of college behind them.

Leslie says she's never flattened anything besides

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I signed a three-year lease for an apartment in a very expensive high-rise building, at which time the manager assured me that there would always be someone available to walk "Her Highness," my French poodle. I would not have rented the apartment without that stipulation, and it was my understanding that it was written into my lease.

Everything was fine for 14 months. The elevator man, the guard, the janitor or the manager himself would walk Her Highness regularly.

Well, the building changed ownership, and the new manager instructed all the help that they were not to walk any dogs on company time!

When I told the new manager that it had been written into my lease, he laughed and said I must be kidding. I then phoned my lawyer, who checked my lease, and he said it had not been written in!

What do I do now?

STUMPED IN CHICAGO

New owners won't comply

DEAR STUMPED: Make new arrangements to have Her Highness walked. Trying to hold the new management to an agreement you had with the old management will be a royal headache.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, and Rick is 20. We've been going steady for three years and planned to marry last Christmas. I had the wedding invitations printed and started making plans when Rick said he wanted to wait a while. No reason. He just wanted to wait.

At Easter we set the wedding for June. I had some more wedding invitations printed and had my wedding gown put on layaway. My girlfriends even had some showers for me. Then Rick decided to wait until autumn! Again no reason. He says he still loves me, but I'm starting to wonder now. I am so embarrassed and hurt. I told him if he doesn't go through with it this time, we're finished. He says he still wants to be his girlfriend, no matter what. Tell me what to do.

HUMILIATED

DEAR HUMILIATED: Face it, dear. Rick isn't ready for marriage, and you're lucky he had the sense and courage to admit it. Better a broken engagement than a broken marriage. Make a clean break, and don't be his girlfriend. It won't work.

DEAR ABBY: I have lived steadily with a man for over two years, but whenever I mention it, he changes the subject.

Exactly how long do people have to live together before they have what is called a "common law marriage?" How does a woman prove she's lived with a man if there is nothing in writing?

If it is a common law marriage, doesn't she get half of everything the man owns if they split up?

There are no children involved, but I think I'm entitled to something for being a wife to this man for two years.

TWO-YEAR HITCH

DEAR HITCH: The laws differ from state to state, so you will need a lawyer to answer your questions.

Why don't you just ask him how much he thinks your wily services were worth in dollars and cents? But prepare yourself for a big disappointment.

Palsy victim, 43, talks for 1st time

NAMPA (UPI) — A 43-year-old man born with cerebral palsy broke a lifetime of silence with the words "mama" and "dad."

Ralph Foote, who lives with his parents, Sam and Ona Foote, in Middleton, broke the communications barrier last Thursday with the help of Dantium, a muscle relaxant, and a bio-feedback machine.

"Both Ralph and his parents are walking on air," said Howard Hine, rehabilitation specialist with the state Division of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Foote's father is 78 and his mother, 76, and they were worried about his future when they no longer could care for him.

Now, Hine said, he can see no reason why Foote cannot become self-supporting.

Foote made the dramatic breakthrough during his 30-minute session on the bio-feedback machine at Nampa Mercy Medical Center's Department of Occupational Therapy.

Hine, who arranged for Foote to receive the bio-feedback therapy, said the machine is "sort of like a closed circuit television."

"It is plugged into the client's muscle," he said. "It shows up on a screen or you have a series of beeps. By this the patient can control the muscle movement."

Hine said Foote is speaking words and making sounds which he could not do prior to his training. He said Foote's mother excitedly called him with news of a later session after Ralph spoke his first words.

"The speech therapist would make vowels and say words and he would repeat them," Hine said.

Foote left the hospital Monday and will continue 30-minute training sessions three times a week as an outpatient. Hine anticipates other dramatic developments.

"After we have got him to where he can speak we'll see what we can do about sitting and try to get him to use a punch operator," Hine said.

"Since he can operate an electric typewriter I don't see why he can't operate a Reppunch machine. I don't see why he can't be self-supporting."

Concern grows over penicillin-resistant gonorrhea

ATLANTA (UPI) — Health authorities are on a worldwide alert today for a new strain of gonorrhea resistant to penicillin, the antibiotic used successfully since World War II to treat the venereal disease.

Authorities fear that if the new strain becomes widespread it could deal a severe setback to the national venereal disease control program.

The national Center for Disease Control, which issued the alert, said three additional cases of the new-type gonorrhea has come to its attention since the discovery of two cases of the disease last week, both involving men.

One of the earlier cases cropped up in California and the other in Maryland, with sexual contact believed to have been made in the Philippines.

Dr. Ralph Henderson, director of the CDC's

Venereal Disease Control Division, said Wednesday two of the cases were in California and one in Des Moines, Iowa.

"We have instituted a worldwide search for additional isolates through the World Health Organization," Henderson said, "and we've alerted all state laboratories and health departments of this finding."

He said the CDC was recommending that all patients with gonorrhea be checked seven to 14 days after completion of treatment to confirm cure.

The new gonorrhea-producing bacteria manufactures an enzyme that kills penicillin.

Henderson said that if the penicillin-resistant gonorrhea strain became widespread, it could mean a severe setback to the venereal disease control program.

He said health authorities hope that if cases of the new strain can quickly be identified and treated, widespread development of the new gonorrhea strain will be prevented.

"It is a little early to state with confidence what the extent of this problem might be," Henderson said. "We are greatly encouraged that so far we have only a total of five cases."

"We would probably have to change our therapy recommendations," he said. "There is no evidence that it is widespread. It looks like a very rare occurrence."

A comparatively new antibiotic, spectinomycin, was used to affect an apparent cure in the first two cases of the new strain and tetracycline was used effectively in another case.

But Henderson said penicillin remains the drug of choice. Treatment with other antibiotics, such as spectinomycin, if that becomes necessary, "would be several times more costly."

Gonorrhea has been classified as a national epidemic for the past four years, with 1 million cases reported in 1975. The disease is under-reported, Henderson said, and health authorities estimate there actually were 2 1/2 to 3 million cases in the United States last year.

Discovery of the resistant gonorrhea comes at a time when some success was being achieved in the drive to control the disease. Henderson said the annual increase in new cases of 10 to 15 percent had been reduced this year to a little over 2 percent.

Sex bias rule effectiveness monitored

CHICAGO — Women's organizations that have worked long and hard for legal protection from sex discrimination are taking their battle one step further.

Here in Chicago, in Atlanta, Cleveland and San Francisco, they are going into federal regional offices and reviewing each complaint of sex bias filed by women employed in or students enrolled in primary and secondary schools.

In groups of two or three, the women go over each complaint, the single white girl from Illinois who wants President Ford to tell her why she cannot play basketball with the boys. The pregnant woman who says that her school will not let her use accumulated sick time for maternity leave. The Indiana high school boy who wants to take a lawmaking course, and cannot, the female athletic coach who gets a lower salary than her less-experienced male counterpart. The names and other the places have been removed to protect the privacy of the complainant.

The monitors use the government's own standards in determining how well federal investigators are implementing a fairly new statute that prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in educational institutions that receive federal funds.

This law, Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments, while it has been on the books for four years, the implementing regulations were not completed until July, 1975. School systems across the country were given a year to comply with the law.

The grace period ended last week. The women have been organized and briefly trained for the last four weeks. They have, in turn, left their homes one morning a week and slipped into their roles as watchdogs, operating one of the most intensive citizen reviews of government function ever conducted.

Their findings to date are mixed.

When they finish, however, the results from the four cities, which reflect the federal enforcement efforts in 17 states, will be included in a report on the status of enforcement of Title IX.

The monitoring project was originated by the Project on Equal Education Rights (PEER), a program of the NOW Legal Defense and Education Fund. PEER has mustered the help of the League of Women Voters, the National Organization for Women and the American Association of University Women in recruiting mentors, who are reimbursed for baby-sitting and carfare costs but work without pay.

In Chicago, the group, led by Diane E. Lucas, a NOW member and suburban Glen Ellyn, is made up mostly of women who have worked and are now raising children and who are active in civic affairs.

The monitors are working for a variety of reasons, all of them good," said Cella Steele, associate director of PEER, who has organized and is running the national monitoring program.

"Besides having an immediate stake in the idea of educational equality for women, they are concerned, as all I, that the government be responsible to us women, as citizens."

Jane Wood of Glenview, a former grade school teacher, said she was participating to see that her two little girls "have more alternatives in life than I had in my time."

Elinor Egan, president of the local League of Women Voters, said she was taking part to try to learn "how to maintain a federal agency."

One reason Title IX has generated concern in women's groups is that it is general, leaves much room for interpretation and leaves heavily in the hands of educational institutions the right thing if their mistakes are pointed out to them.

"Often schools don't know if what they have been doing in the past that is social or cultural in nature is also illegal. Many times it is," said Beverly L. Walls, who coordinates Title IX activities in the Chicago regional office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which is charged with enforcing the law.

"It is a touchy issue," as was seen last month when President Ford declared that federal bureaucrats had gone too far in banning, as discriminatory, father-son and mother-daughter events.

"The implementing regulations met a great deal of resistance in Washington from athletic departments that did not want to allow girls to participate in sports and from the victims who complained a year ago that what was the most educated and most vocal objects of discrimination who are protected by law, were flooding the enforcement machinery, taking valuable resources away from more oppressed groups."

The groups and the women, all of whom were suing HW for nonenforcement of the law, forged a coalition that was partly responsible for a congressional and now timetable for investigations that put into effect last month.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb: What effects do nitroglycerine tablets dissolved under the tongue have on people with heart trouble? It seems to bring relief. I would like to know how this is brought about and how much is safe to take.

Dear Reader: The principle use of nitroglycerine tablets under the tongue is to relieve transitory chest pain from heart disease. The tablets lose their effectiveness quickly if not stored properly.

They should be kept in a tightly sealed glass bottle from your pharmacist. A plastic container will not do. When the bottle is opened, take out a few for your needs and keep the rest in a tightly closed bottle inside the refrigerator. A fresh, workable tablet should produce a distinct burning sensation under the tongue. Never use tablets that have been removed from the bottle for longer than a week.

Nitroglycerine causes muscle fibers to relax, mostly the type of muscle we call smooth muscle. Those are the involuntary muscles that are in the walls of the blood vessels and also in the digestive tube.

As the tiny smooth muscles in the veins relax, the veins expand and trap a larger amount of blood. There is less blood returned to the heart from the veins. The heart doesn't pump as much blood as before and the heart muscle works less.

REBECCA TUPPER names date

Tablets lose effectiveness

The heart pain is caused by the heart muscle working too hard in comparison to the amount of circulation it is receiving. When the heart work is decreased the pain goes away. You are right. It works and is effective medicine.

Nitroglycerine also has other effects — some minor decrease in tone of the large arteries, and it even affects the mineral migrations, particularly potassium, in the cells of the heart muscle during an attack of heart pain. It will also reverse the changes in the electrocardiogram that are associated with some attacks of heart pain.

Sometimes the effects of nitroglycerine can mislead the doctor. The emphasis is on its role in relieving heart pain. It will also relieve pain from esophageal muscle spasm. Since esophageal spasm causes chest pain similar to heart pain it may cause a fall into the trap of thinking the relief of pain proves it was heart pain when in fact that may not be the case.

Occasionally nitroglycerine can cause a major drop in blood pressure. This can be an adverse reaction at the onset of a heart attack. For this reason nitroglycerine should only be used by the patient to relieve short recurrent anginal pains or to prevent them.

I do not recommend that a patient take them when they have chest pain for the first time in months or the chest pain lasts more than seven or eight minutes. Take only one. Two often new or different or prolonged pain is a full blown heart attack and not just angina. The thing to do is call your doctor, not try to treat yourself.

To help you separate the differences between heart attacks and the transitory anginal pains I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-10, Heart Attack, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1534, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Birthplace different

TALIHNA, Okla. (UPI) — Twin sisters born on different days and in separate states are doing well, although they have not met, their mother said Thursday.

Jan-Elle Wallace said she and her husband, Ricky, were not expecting twins when she entered the Indian hospital in Talihna Sunday. The first child, Rikyta Jeanne, was born at 12:30 p.m. Sunday and weighed five pounds, two ounces.

But doctors thought the second birth might be difficult, so the Wright City woman was transferred to Sparks Regional Medical Center in Fort Smith, Ark., 75 miles from the eastern Oklahoma community.

The second child, whose name has not been chosen, was born in Fort Smith at 12:13 a.m. Monday. She weighs five pounds, eight ounces.

Mrs. Wallace left the Fort Smith hospital Wednesday to return to the Talihna hospital, but the twins remained separated in the two hospitals.

Miss Hawkins, Lisle wed

KING HILL — Bonnie Hawkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hawkins, Mayfield, married Webb Lisle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lisle, Aug. 14 at the King Hill United Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Archie Thornton, pastor, performed the ceremony before a large gathering of guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white silk crepe-satin floor-length dress. The princess-style gown had a V-neckline trimmed in lace, fitted sleeves with long, fluffed cuffs with lace trim and a full skirt.

The illusion net cap veil was shoulder length with white satin ribbon trim and a bow on the top of the cap. The bride's corsage was made of white daisies, pink roses and baby's breath, with pink and white satin ribbon streamers.

The twin sister of the bride, Mrs. Eyan Griddle, Rye Grass, was matron of honor. Jack Lisle, brother of the bridegroom, acted as the best man.

A reception was held in the King Hill Grange Hall, following the ceremony by the bridegroom's aunts, Mr. William Arlough, Glenns Ferry, and Mrs. D. O. Decker and Mrs. Cecil Bott, King Hill.

The bride's table was covered with a white-green cloth made by the great-grandmother of the bridegroom. It was centered, with a three-tier white wedding cake decorated with pink flowers, topped with a miniature bride and groom and trimmed with ribbon and net.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Pine and Feather Falls. They will be at home on the Pritch-Fork, Phelps Ranch, northeast of King Hill, where the bridegroom is employed.

The new Mrs. Lisle is a 1975 graduate of Wendell High School. Webb is a 1975 graduate of Glenns Ferry High School.

Special guests attending were the grandfather of the bride, Clarence Parris, of Raleigh, Calif., and the grandparents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Verle Meadows, King Hill.

The bride's corsage was made of white daisies, pink roses and baby's breath, with pink and white satin ribbon streamers.

The twin sister of the bride, Mrs. Eyan Griddle, Rye Grass, was matron of honor. Jack Lisle, brother of the bridegroom, acted as the best man.

A reception was held in the King Hill Grange Hall, following the ceremony by the bridegroom's aunts, Mr. William Arlough, Glenns Ferry, and Mrs. D. O. Decker and Mrs. Cecil Bott, King Hill.

The bride's table was covered with a white-green cloth made by the great-grandmother of the bridegroom. It was centered, with a three-tier white wedding cake decorated with pink flowers, topped with a miniature bride and groom and trimmed with ribbon and net.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Pine and Feather Falls. They will be at home on the Pritch-Fork, Phelps Ranch, northeast of King Hill, where the bridegroom is employed.

The new Mrs. Lisle is a 1975 graduate of Wendell High School. Webb is a 1975 graduate of Glenns Ferry High School.

Special guests attending were the grandfather of the bride, Clarence Parris, of Raleigh, Calif., and the grandparents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Verle Meadows, King Hill.

Declo LDS boundaries shifted

DECLO — A number of changes in ward boundaries have been made in the Declo LDS Stake with President Joseph A. Gillett in charge.

The Declo ward was divided and the Almo and Vest wards were combined.

Boundaries for the new Declo first and second wards are marked by the Downard Bridge and the Main Street of the city of Declo.

Members living west of the bridge and south of Main Street are in the first ward and those east of the bridge and north of Main Street are in the second ward.

Leo W. Hurst was retained as bishop of the first ward while his counselors, Lyle Woodbury and Clayne Zollinger, were released. His new counselors are Earl J. Darrington and C. Douglas Lind. Dan Darrington will serve as ward clerk.

Brent J. Peterson was sustained as bishop of the second ward with Odell Panchar and Dell B. Garner as counselors and Donald Barron as ward clerk.

A/G missionary to speak

HAZELTON — Rev. R. H. Cavanaugh Jr., an Assemblies of God missionary to Indonesia, will be guest speaker Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Hazelton Assembly of God, Pastor Wesley Johnson says.

Cavanaugh and his wife Avelone are veteran missionaries of over 30 years. Their current area of ministry covers about 1,000 square miles and includes nearly 1,000 islands. They are the only A/G missionaries for the 300 inhabited islands and the 1.25 million people in this region, and they serve as advisers to the denomination's churches in their district.

A highlight of this special missions rally will be a multi-media presentation with the use of four synchronized projectors and a 24-foot-wide screen. The timed sequence cycling of the projectors gives an unusual, fast moving, informative and inspirational view of Indonesia today.

The public is invited to attend, says Pastor Johnson.

Stake confab held at Declo

The business part of the conference was conducted by Coltrin. Earl J. Darrington, Galvin Webb and Brent Peterson were released as stake high councilmen, and George K. Darrington was sustained as stake youth leader.

Pontiff prays for bishop

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI urged Roman Catholics Wednesday to pray for traditionalist priests and for continuing to defy the Second Vatican Council's updating and streamlining of the liturgy.

"Obviously we cannot but deeply deplore this case," the Pope said. "But now we are inviting you and all faithful and true Catholics... to pray to the Lord that he may inspire (Lefebvre) and all who follow him with better advice and real faithfulness to the holy Catholic church."

In 1970 the Pope abolished the church's traditional 16th century liturgy, known as the Tridentine rite, and replaced it with a shortened and implied version which can be celebrated in Latin but usually is now said in the vernacular.

Lefebvre, despite Vatican warnings to desist, has continued to celebrate Tridentine rite masses in Latin and to ordain priests trained in the traditionalist ways at a seminary he established in Ecône, Switzerland.

His latest defiant mass, which the Pope called a challenge to papal authority, was Sunday in Lille, France. Lefebvre said he would celebrate another this Friday in Stein, Holland and then ordain a traditionalist priest Sunday in Besancon, France.

In his Lille sermon, Lefebvre said the Ecumenical Council's outlawing of the Tridentine rite mass was a serious mistake and ruptured the church's 2,000-year-old tradition.

He said that he was not a separatist but a traditionalist. He said he was not a separatist but a traditionalist. He said he was not a separatist but a traditionalist.

Sister becomes Marine sergeant

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Sister Edward Joseph left the convent three years ago because "there wasn't any challenge in it."

Today, she's Marine Sgt. Pat Kumiega.

"I just wasn't finding it going to church, teach school and not go out and ride a bike or bowl or something," said Miss Kumiega, 29, who commutes daily from her parents' home in suburban Glenwold to the Naval Base in Suitland, Philadelphia.

She entered the convent one year after graduating from high school. During most of her six years as a nun, she taught school.

"But I didn't want to be a school teacher," she said. "There's wasn't any challenge in it."

So in June 1973, Miss Kumiega left her convent in Valley Forge and joined the Marines. She was stationed in San Francisco for two years before being transferred to Philadelphia where she is a legal clerk.

"I went down and picked up different brochures on different services and found the Marine Corps offered the most opportunity and greatest challenge," she said. "I like it very much. There's always something new."

"Right now I want to make a career out of the Marine Corps and just take life as it is," she said.

Although she's removed from the life of a nun, Miss Kumiega said she continues to follow a strong ethical and moral code. She would not undergo premarital sex but does approve of birth control.

"I don't see anything wrong with that," she said, adding that one day she would like to get married and adopt a child.

"Instead of having a family of my own I'd rather adopt one," she explained. "I just don't feel like I would want to have any of my own. There are enough kids in the world who don't have any family, and would be glad to have one."

Former nun loses annulment appeal

MONTREAL (UPI) — A 47-year-old former nun lost her appeal for a marriage annulment Wednesday on the grounds of her husband's impotence.

The woman, who married after spending 17 years in a convent, lost her appeal for a $13,000 damage action against her husband. Part of the damages were sought on the grounds that her husband knew he was unable to consummate the marriage although he knew she had left the cloistered religious life out of her strong desire for male companionship.

As a result, the woman claimed, she suffered emotional trauma and reduced remarriage prospects.

The Superior Court Justice Marc-André Gauthier ruled that the impotence of a psychological origin was acceptable grounds for separation or divorce, but not for annulment.

The judge said no evidence was presented that the husband's impotence was physical in nature, which would have been permissible grounds for annulment.

Drivers injured, two cars totaled

TWIN FALLS—A Filer woman and a California woman were injured and their cars totaled in a three-car accident at the intersection of U.S. 93 and U.S. 30 three miles west of here, early Wednesday morning.

Debra J. Fansler, 23, Filer, suffered facial bruises when her car collided with one driven by Elmer Wardell, 61, Sacramento, Calif., about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Wardell was treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for minor cuts and released.

Fansler, who spent Wednesday morning in the emergency room, was listed in good condition today, a hospital spokesman said.

State police said Wardell was attempting a left turn from the westbound lane on U.S. 30 to U.S. 93 when her car collided with the Fansler car, and a pickup driven by Elmer McCauley, 59, Filer, both traveling east on U.S. 30.

McCauley was not injured, police said. His pickup suffered an estimated $300 damage.

Traffic on U.S. 30 was held up for nearly an hour as officials worked to remove the wrecked vehicles. At one time more than 20 cars were held up on U.S. 30, police said.

Fansler was cited for driving without a valid driver's license and Wardell was cited for failure to yield while making a left turn.

Facilities rated

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — The Magic Valley's mental health facility has been rated above the national average in two treatment areas by a federal site review team inspecting the unit.

The team, which recently inspected the mental health facility, rated the unit high in offering a variety of diversified services and in its special programs for children.

Dennis Murray, Oregon V mental health director, said the overall rating given the Magic Valley unit exceeds the national average.

The rating is in contrast with the one given a year ago when many deficiencies were pointed out, he said.

Murray said the unit was commended for "trying to break out of the traditional one-to-one relationship into programs which would better meet the people's needs."

The director said the agency also rated well in its "relationship with other community agencies."

Study favors televising debates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Far from turning the chamber into a circus, televising Senate debates would reduce the publicity edge built up by the White House and "develop greater public understanding of and faith in the Senate."

That's the conclusion of a special study just made public by the Commission on the Organization of the Senate, established early this year to propose ways of modernizing Senate methods. The commission took no stand on the proposal, saying it merely was seeking reactions.

But the author, former ABC news executive Len Affelt, said Congress has been writing on the issue for 30 years while "the White House was labeling on enthusiastically to the vast potential of this new technology for selling things to the public."

He said the Senate should now "explore all feasible means of giving the widest possible distribution of Senate floor coverage via national and local broadcasters. The underlying aim would be to develop greater public understanding of and faith in the institution of the Senate."

Countering fears that television cameras would highlight traditions and lead to a circus atmosphere, the study pointed to favorable public reaction to the televised Nixon impeachment hearings and previous investigative spectaculars.

"Obviously, the everyday pettiness of the senate could hardly match the fascination of a Joe McCarthy, a Frank Costello, a Jimmy Hoffa, or a John Dean, or the drama of an up or down vote to launch the process of ousting a sitting president," the study said.

"Still, the cumulative effect of showing the public regularly how the Senate grappled with the basic issues affecting every American might invoke a sharper perception of the Senate as an institution."

Allen, a former commission consultant now with the Radio Television News Directors Association, said Senate sessions could be televised any one of several

School transfers may cause boycott

SHOSHONE, Idaho (UPI) — The transfer of four high school students from District 1 to Shoshone could cause a boycott of Shoshone merchants by neighboring District 1 shoppers.

The decision of District 1 students to attend Shoshone schools this year has angered some members of the District 1 community located eight miles south of Shoshone.

Shoshone, the county seat, boasts the largest school district in Lincoln County but for the past several years has been experiencing a decline in enrollment figures.

Although Shoshone school officials deny the charge, District school patrons have expressed concern that Shoshone may be attempting to force consolidation of the two districts.

Shoshone School Superintendent Kenneth Crothers said the Shoshone schools merely accepted the applications from the District 1 parents for their children to attend school in Shoshone.

One District 1 resident, Lincoln County Commissioner Walter Bowman, said "unless they leave our students, alone District residents will not patronize Shoshone merchants."

Crothers said no enrollment were solicited.

Two of the four District students transferring to Shoshone schools indicated they did so to play football since District has no football team.

Wayne Perron, District Superintendent, said the high school only has 21 students enrolled and that's a gain over last year.

Britain found guilty of inhuman treatment

LONDON (UPI) — The 17-nation Council of Europe's Human Rights Commission Thursday found Britain guilty of "inhuman treatment and torture" of prisoners in Northern Ireland in 1971.

In a 569-page report released simultaneously in London, Dublin and at the Council's headquarters at Strasbourg, France, the Commission said "The Commission is of the opinion, by a unanimous vote, that the combined use of the five techniques in the cases before it constituted a practice of inhuman treatment and torture in breach of Article 5 of the European Human Rights Convention."

The "five techniques" referred to were prolonged standing against walls, hooding, noise, deprivation of sleep and deprivation of food and drink during interrogations.

The Irish government has referred the Commission's findings to the European Court of Human Rights.

Merlyn Rees, Britain's government minister for Northern Ireland, said the events took place five years ago and the torture techniques have been stopped indefinitely by the British government four years ago and victims compensated financially.

Can plants produce gasoline?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nobel Prize winning chemist Melvin Calvin wants to plant and farm experimental "gasoline" trees in an arid area of Southern California.

Calvin, who in 1961 discovered the complex chemistry of photosynthesis, says he believes gasoline for running cars and trucks can be produced in abundant quantities from certain plants.

He told a meeting of the American Chemical Society Wednesday that such trees could grow in areas unsuitable for crops and estimate a possible gasoline yield of 25 barrels per acre per year.

The University of California chemist says the fuel could be made from plants of the genus euphorbia, which produce a milky, juice-edded latex of hydrocarbon chemically similar to petroleum.

He cited the rubber tree as an example of the family of plants that could be grown in oil plantations in the southern United States and in other countries with tropical and temperate climates.

Rock group

TARWATER, one of Idaho's best known country rock bands, will play at the "Country Music Jamboree" Sunday at Nat-Soo-Pah. The concert is one of many Labor-Day activities planned in Magic Valley this weekend. In Kelchum, the Wagon Days celebration resumes Saturday and Sunday for the first time in five years.

Parade, jamboree highlight MV fetes

By PAIGE CHERNO Times-News writer
MAGIC VALLEY - A big parade in Kelchum Saturday morning and a country music jamboree at Nat-Soo-Pah Sunday will highlight Labor Day activities in Magic Valley this weekend.

The country music jamboree will be held from noon to midnight Sunday as scheduled, now that the Tree of Life organizers have paid a $15,000 bond required by Twin Falls County. Tickets are on sale for $5 each at Mark's Music and the Leatherman and a limited number will be available for $6 at the door, according to Rick Frantz, Tree of Life president.

The jamboree will feature the hard country rock of Tarwater, a Boise group; Blackhawk County and the Snake River Country Band; featuring the Braun Brothers.

In addition, banjo picker Mike Wendling will perform his music. In the style of Leo Kottke and Hodge Robbette will play folk country music. Jon Reynolds and the Country Boys, featuring Jim Moran, will perform hard country music while Jubilee will present additional country rock numbers.

No camping will be allowed in the park Saturday and Sunday. Parade entries from across the state will accompany fire wagons down Kelchum's Main Street Saturday as part of the Kelchum-Wagon Days celebration. The parade will begin at 11 a.m., after a breakfast from 7 to 10 a.m. in the Bank of Idaho parking lot. The breakfast will be held Sunday morning also.

The Wagon Days events begin tonight with a shootout on Main Street at 7 p.m., followed by a street dance. After the parade Saturday, there will be a fiddlers' contest from noon to 7:30 p.m. at Trail Creek, continuing at 10 a.m. Sunday. An all-day carnival in Kelchum Saturday and Sunday will feature rides for youngsters, while tennis tournaments take place at Elkhorn and Warm Springs.

Believe will save its celebrating for Labor Day. A parade beginning at 11 a.m. Monday will be followed by a Main Street shootout and a lamb and beef barbecue at 1 p.m. in the city park.

Activities in Bellevue City Park Monday afternoon include street sports, concerts by the Old Time Fiddlers and local musicians and a carnival for kids.

Southwest National Forest officials report, campgrounds in the South Hills area and the area south of Burley are all open and campgrounds facilities should be available in all northern areas of the Sawtooth over the weekend.

Fishing is reported good in the Little Smoky and Big Smoky areas north of Burley. This weekend will be the last this year for scheduled programs at Wood River campground and the Alturas Lake and Redfish Lake areas.

Weather conditions in the high country have been comfortable during the week, but forest officials recommend campers and hikers bring warm clothing for the rest of the season, as temperatures are likely to dip to near freezing levels at night.

Fire danger is reported down somewhat at the present time, but campers are reminded to make sure campfires are completely out before leaving campsites. All Sawtooth roads are open, but officials warn most are getting somewhat rough and dusty and Labor Day weekend travelers are likely to encounter logging truck traffic going over Couch Summit and along the South Fork of the Boise.

Locally, state police say they will "adapt the manpower to the traffic and have as many men as we can on the major throughways" over the weekend. The state police expect CB radio groups to man rest stops off U.S. 93, and I-80N providing coffee and donuts over the weekend as they have over the past three long weekends.

City employes, insurance suit dismissed by judge

By BOB ZUCKERMAN Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS - A four-count suit involving 30 city employes, including the police chief, parks and recreation director and the street superintendent, has been dismissed in Fifth District Court because it was filed too late.

The suit's first count alleged that an Aetna Life Insurance Co. representative told several city employes any time the city switched from an insurance plan with Aetna to a state retirement plan, the city employes' money would be refunded.

In January, 1971, the city changed to a state retirement plan but money was not refunded. According to J. Dee May, attorney for the employes, the case was dismissed Friday because the complaint was not filed in time to satisfy the Statute of Limitations. Under the statute, a complaint must be filed within three years of the discovery of an alleged fraud.

The suit also alleged: -A contract with Aetna Life should be rescinded because one party, the employes, had been mistaken about the terms. -Under the contract, the employes had a right to be insured up to their reasonable expectations. -And that the money was wrongfully taken by Aetna Life and should have been returned.

During the 2 1/2-day trial last week, 28 of the plaintiffs testified, including Frank Barrett, police chief; Tom Hansen, parks and recreation captain; Chad Browning, park and recreation department director; and Elyth Hand, street superintendent.

Though not a plaintiff, Elyth Kooz, city clerk, also testified. Attorney May said the plaintiffs would consider an appeal. James B. Lynch, Boise attorney representing Aetna, declined comment, saying the suit is still pending.

Banks loan AF dam funds

TWIN FALLS - Two Idaho banks have agreed to loan $10 million at 4.5 per cent interest as interim financing for the new American Falls Dam.

The $10 million loan will be used to finance construction at the dam until permanent construction bonds are sold. John W. Barker, president of the American Falls River District board of directors, said the money is the cheapest possible for the interim purposes. Barker said the two banks making the loans were the lowest bidders at a bid opening August 27 at the district office.

Repayment of the interim notes is due Jan. 1, 1978, or may be repaid earlier from the proceeds of the sale of the permanent bonds. Payment of the interim notes is guaranteed by the Idaho Power Co.

Barker said the construction site at American Falls is "a veritable activity." Gordon Ball Construction Co. will build the dam. Barker said Morrison-Knudsen Co. is also present with some equipment helping with preliminary work at the site. Eighty percent of the district loan was pledged with the completion of the interim notes to allow the project to proceed. The permanent bonds will be sold at higher interest.

Big spud crop may 'travel'

By KEN HODGE Times-News writer
JEROME - A large potato crop in Idaho and the U.S. this year and drought conditions in western Europe causing low spud yields has prompted the Potato Growers of Idaho (PGI) to seek avenues of export for Idaho potatoes in an attempt to bolster prices at home.

"We will be in a position to supply potatoes for processing to Europe," Jerry Murphy, general manager of PGI, said Wednesday at a PGI meeting in Jerome.

Murphy described the "small" size and low quality of the European potato crop and characterized the crop in Holland as "pitiful." England may import U.S. spuds for food processing, Murphy said. "Belgium and Holland may ship their spuds to England and take ours, he added.

The idea behind the export efforts, according to Murphy, is to ease the pressure that will almost surely be created by a large yield of spuds nationwide this fall.

"If we move more potatoes quickly," Murphy urged the potato growers at the PGI luncheon meeting. "We could get back to an attractive price."

The sale of growers must ship U.S. 2's or better and they could expect $2.75 a hundredweight for early digging of their crop.

Earlier this summer, PGI officials under the supervision of the Idaho Department of Agriculture initiated an inspection program for field certification of Idaho potatoes to be exported to Europe.

"We wanted growers to have the opportunity to qualify those potatoes they want to export," Murphy said.

There was some opportunity last year to export potatoes, according to Murphy, but it developed after harvest and many growers were not able to take advantage of it. Murphy reminded farmers who wish to export spuds to make sure the PGI is notified at harvest so inspection officials can witness transfer of the tubers to storage.

"We want to be sure the same spuds we held inspected are the ones that go into storage," Murphy said.

"Growers will have to participate directly in loading," Murphy continued. He urged growers to become directly involved in the exporting process, since "there is a lot of work to be done."

Burley treasurer resigns her post

BURLEY - Burley City Treasurer Dorothy Bonner will leave her post about mid-September.

Mrs. Bonner, who took over the treasury in 1974, said she has taken a job with the South Idaho Press.

She said she will leave her office this week as she completes the balancing and posting for this month. She estimated that would be about mid-September.

Mayor Chuck Shaddock said the city has not decided upon a replacement.

Rupert chamber all set to fire mortgage Thursday

By SHANE O'NEILL Times-News writer
RUPERT - The Rupert Chamber of Commerce will burn mortgage papers on its office building during a ceremony here next Thursday.

Chamber President Neely "Red" Thurgass announced Thursday the burning ceremony will be held at the office following next week's luncheon at the Fells Lodge.

The chamber's rodeo committee made a payment of $7,471 following this year's Fourth of July Rodeo celebration to clear the mortgage from the two-year-old building.

The chamber offices opened in the new $20,000 building March 5, 1974. The original mortgage was for $10,000. The rest of the cost was paid for through donations of cash, materials and labor according to Secretary LaVonne Colbert.

"The chamber secretary said the rodeo committee 'helped in the beginning to get it down to where we could get going on the building.' Various merchants in the area pledged amounts to help pay off the mortgage. The chamber made annual payments until the mortgage was cleared.

Mrs. Colbert said the rodeo committee also helped purchase the equipment for the offices. "Practically everything was new," she said. Mrs. Colbert praised the rodeo committee and the Rupert community for support of the Fourth of July celebration, which raised the needed money.

The chamber secretary said the program for the mortgage-burning ceremonies has not yet been completed. The chamber also is receiving help from the city in getting the office lot prepared for grass seeding northeast of the building.

The building committee, headed by chairman John Cameron and Director Hans Boettcher, plans to erect signs at the chamber office.

Harold Purvey, director of the advertising committee is working with the building committee on that project. The advertising group also plans to erect welcome signs at the two highway entrances to Rupert.

The new signs will list the service clubs in the city. They replace earlier signs, one of which was blown down in the spring of 1975.

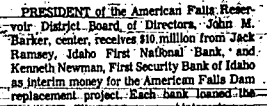

Sun Valley site of arts conference

SUN VALLEY - The Fourth Biennial Governor's Conference on the Arts will be held Sept. 30 through Oct. 2, at Sun Valley.

The Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities and the Idaho Commission on the Arts and Humanities will host the event. The Governor's Awards Luncheon will be held October 1.

Gov. Cecil Andrus will present awards to Idaho persons who are distinguished in the arts and/or support the arts in this state. The Conference Banquet the same evening will feature John Lozan, a national figure in theater.

Tickets are priced at $10 and must also be ordered and paid in advance.

PRESIDENT OF THE American Falls River District Board of Directors, John W. Barker, center, receiving $10 million from Jack Ramsey, Idaho First National Bank, and Kenneth Newman, First Security Bank of Idaho as interim money for the American Falls Dam replacement project. Each bank loaned the district $5 million at a 4.5 per cent interest.

UPI WEATHER FORECAST

Ol' Sol will warm fall weather

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley, Rupert area:
Fair tonight, sunny and warm Saturday. High temperatures in the mid-80s, overnight lows 45 to 50.
Sunday's outlook: sunny and a little warmer. Spraying and dusting conditions good during the morning and evening hours, fair during the afternoon due to locally gusty winds.
Halley, Camas Prairie, lower

Wood River Valley:
Fair tonight, sunny and warm Saturday. High temperatures near 80, overnight lows 45 to 50.
Sunday's outlook: sunny and a little warmer.
Synopsis:
A dry cold front moving eastward through Idaho on Thursday dissipated as it approached the eastern border of Idaho. A high pressure ridge aloft moved rapidly behind this front, causing some gusty warm winds. This high will continue to dominate the weather pattern through Sunday.
This means a continuation of warm, sunny days and light winds in the Magic Valley. However, a Pacific cold front now in the eastern Pacific will be moving inland by Sunday. As this front moves across Idaho Monday and Tuesday, much cooler air will flow into the Magic Valley area along with chances of showers. Maximum temperatures will be dropping into the 70s and lower 80s Monday and Tuesday. Overnight lows will generally be in the 40s.

Park plan gets cool reception

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Ford's national parks expansion proposal is getting a frosty reception from key congressional Democrats, who claim it's aimed solely at winning election votes.
Chairman Henry Jackson, D-Wash., of the Senate Interior Committee said yesterday the entire $1.5 billion Ford requested for parks already had been authorized by Congress but the President didn't include any of it in the budget he sent to Congress early this year. Jackson also said Ford administration officials had threatened a veto of pending legislation to increase the $300 million Land and Water Conservation Fund for buying parklands.
"The effect is to force the Congress to look like pikers by failing to enact the very proposals the administration threatened to veto a month ago or spend-thrifts by breaking their own budget resolution," Jackson said.
Sen. J. Bennett Johnston of Louisiana, chairman of the panel's parks and recreation subcommittee, told Interior Secretary Thomas Kleppe the evidence was "almost overwhelming" that Ford's proposal was "political hypocrisy" and intended only "to deceive and mislead the American people until after the election."
"The time frame makes it look like political hypocrisy, but I deny that," replied Kleppe, testifying in behalf of the proposal.
Ford's 10-year "Bicentennial Land Heritage Program," announced Sunday at Yellowstone National Park, would provide $141 million to buy land for parks, wildlife refuges, recreation areas and historic sites.

School aides to use discretion

BOISE (UPI)—The state Board of Education rejected Tuesday a letter written to the state superintendent of public instruction concerning the enrollment of non-resident pupils and the "chabing" of tuition.
The board, meeting in Boise, adopted a policy advising local school boards they may exercise discretion in both the enrollment of non-resident students and in asking tuition from them.
"The state board reviewed Wednesday the correspondence between the state superintendent of public instruction and the attorney general's office dealing with the subject.
"Whether it is an opinion or a letter is immaterial since it is not accepted by the full board of education as an interpretation of existing laws," the board said.
Deputy Attorney General James C. Harjes sent a letter to Public Instruction Superintendent William H. Stalling stating school districts cannot require residence as a criterion for enrollment.
"Attorney General Wayne

Disputed timber deal said legal

BOISE (UPI)—Boise Cascade Corp. said late Wednesday it was acting in accordance with agreements made with the state in a disputed harvest of some 300 acres allegedly outside the boundaries of a timber sale contract signed in June, 1971.
The corporation has agreed to cooperate in an investigation of the matter if asked to do so, but a spokesman said the company has not been informed of any legal proceedings.
Corporation spokesman Sam D. Johnson issued the following statement late Wednesday afternoon: "While we have had time to only quickly review the facts and documents concerning this timber sale, it appears at this time that our actions were not inconsistent with our agreements with the state.
"The state's agent approved road locations and granted permission to cut all timber harvested. It is our understanding the agent filed regular inspection reports to his supervisor.
"Payments were made for all timber harvested."
"Our personnel believed the state agent was acting within his authority.
"We have advised the state we are fully prepared to cooperate in a review of this matter but at this time have had no official notification concerning legal action."
State land officials are investigating the possible quarter-million-dollar timber trespass by the corporation on state endowment lands near Donnelly.

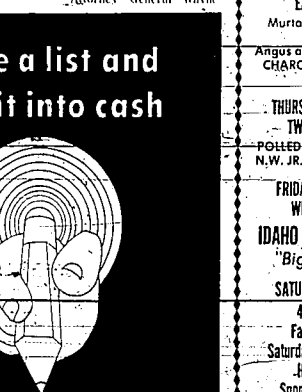

Restriction urged over use of spray can gas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—One of the originators of the idea that some spray can gases threaten Earth's ozone radiation shield says the theory has weathered two years of study and it is time to start thinking about restricting their use.
The National Academy of Sciences plans to issue a major assessment of the threat next week in Washington and the government is awaiting that report before considering possible regulatory action.
"We do have enough information to make an assessment right now," said Dr. Mario Molina, who with Dr. F. S. Rowland at the University of California, Irvine, raised the issue in 1974. "The risk is substantial," he said in a paper presented to a member of the American Chemical Society meeting Tuesday. "I'm not advocating a ban (tomorrow) on spray cans. I think it's very reasonable to talk about regulation by 1978."
Dr. Fred Kaufman of the University of Pittsburgh and a member of the Academy panel, said he favors labeling products that use the gases "to advise people what they are doing."
Dr. Peter Jenson of the Dupont Co., which makes much of the Freon-type gases, disagreed with Molina and said 18 to 21 months more study is needed to answer some of the many questions that remain about the workings of the upper atmosphere.
"I'm suggesting you don't go around banning products until you determine if they are causing some harm," Jenson said.
Molina estimated that the chlorine atoms released by the fluorocarbon gases will destroy 7 to 13 percent of the 10 to 40 mile high layer of ozone by the year 2000 if the gases continue to escape into the environment. Jenson said his calculations show only a 2 percent change by the year 2100.
"The ozone protects Earth from most of the harmful ultraviolet radiation from the sun. An increase in ultraviolet rays hitting earth's surface would increase the incidence of skin cancer and might disrupt weather patterns and affect growth processes."

Exposure effect studied

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI)—The lead physician treating a man found with skin cancer from americium and nitric acid said he knows what long term effect, if any, the exposure may produce.
Dr. Bruce Breitenstein of the Hanford Environmental Health Foundation told a news conference Wednesday that no human ever has received as much radiation from americium as did Harold McClusky, 64, of Prosser, Wash.
McClusky was working at an Atlantic Richfield Hanford Co. plant where americium is separated from nuclear wastes. On Monday a chemical explosion blew out a protective glass panel and sprayed him with the radioactive solution. The plant is on the 575-square-mile Hanford Atomic Reservation in eastern Washington.
Breitenstein said McClusky suffered first degree nitric acid burns on his face and shoulders and minor cuts from flying glass.
"The doctor said the problem in evaluating McClusky's case was that no one before has been exposed to as much radiation from americium, a relatively new man-made element similar to plutonium.
"It's not so much a problem right this minute," Breitenstein said. "What we are concerned about is the effect over time. Once we get a real good fix on his dose, then we'll be able to either relax or get a lot more nervous. At this point, you wouldn't know if he had anything on him—because nobody has ever had his amount of americium, we can't say. It may end up not bothering him at all, but I'd be fitted to say this is not a very serious matter."
The doctor said he and others at the foundation were consulting regularly with national experts on radiation contamination.
He said it may be necessary to start a long-term contamination process for McClusky for another one to three weeks.

Brazil is nice, but, oh, you U.S. of A.

TWIN FALLS — "I don't know if it means anything but did you ever see 11 basketball players kiss the ground at Los Angeles airport?"

"No, we didn't have any detectors."

That's the way Coach Boyd Grant and his CSI players, returning from the Pan-American junior basketball tournament in Brazil, felt about getting back to the United States Thursday.

Dog tired and all about 10 to 15 pounds lighter than when they left, the CSI portion of the team rolled into Jovlin Field about 3 a.m. Thursday.

"I didn't leave anything in Brazil. I don't think I'll be going back," said incoming sophomore Craig Everett. "It was a good experience but one trip is enough."

"It wasn't bad during the time of the tournament but after that was over time really dragged," said Ernie Hovey, leaving his final affiliation with CSI and now heading for NCAA ball at Denver University.

Sophomore Kim Goetz, allowed he probably was never going to eat rice and chicken again.

"That's about all they served us for every meal," he said. "I'm really glad to be back in this country."

All stated they were as royally treated as Brazil could make it. But it wasn't like being at home, of course, and the customs and foods were different.

Most of the incoming CSI freshmen players were on hand to greet their teammates-to-be at the airport.

In the continuing portion of the story, Hovey returned with his basketball shoes.

"One guy said he'd buy them but he brought the whole family up to my room to look at them first. I told them, 'forget it, they're not for sale,'" he said. "I hadn't even laced them yet."

And Charles Boyner, father of Dennis, he of the blonde hair that took the Brazilian teenyboppers by storm, reports Dennis had two postcards from Brazil arrive in the mail Wednesday.

Hill, Murakami share first-round lead in golf world series at 67

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Dave Hill and Takashi Murakami were surprised to find themselves sharing the first-round lead Thursday in the World Series of Golf — but for Jack Nicklaus, only a stroke behind, it was just another day of frustration.

Hill, the game's newest millionaire, and Murakami, a Japanese player with a millionaire's touch around the greens, shot a three under par 67 to head an exclusive field of 20 World-Class players shooting for a record $100,000 first prize.

"Nicklaus was the only one of the 20 to avoid a bogey but he was able to produce only two birdies in a round of 69."

"I wasn't too happy with my swing, but it was a good round," said Nicklaus, who suffered a painful series of near-misses on the greens, leaving several birdie putts just a turn or two short of the hole. If they all had dropped, it would have been an excellent round.

"The greens are good—but they seemed a little slow for Firestone," Nicklaus said.

That's the way it has been all year for Nicklaus, the game's greatest player. He heads into the final weeks with only one victory and a fifth place standing on the tour's money list, and both of those showings, if he doesn't improve on them, represent record low points for his unparalleled career.

Ray Floyd, The Masters Champion, was the only other player under par, shooting 69. Tom Watson, who held a sixiron for an eagle at the 465-yard six, got home in two on the famed 16th hole, shortened by 575-yards to encourage a approach over the water and made birdie and was at 70 with J.C. Snead, David Graham and Buddy Allin.

In nearly 6,000 previous tournament rounds on Firestone's south course, only two players reached the 16th green in two shots when they played off 625-yards.

Jerry Pate, the 22-year-old U.S. Open champion, was at 71, one over, with Lee Trevino, who made five par putts of eight feet or longer, Hale Irwin and Hubert Green.

Dave Stockton, the PGA champion, had 73. Johnny Miller cut a low 68 but the penalty for two missed short putts on his son's 28-inch putter somehow turned up in his bag, and shot 76. Ben Crenshaw, the leading money winner on the tour this year, had the day's highest score 78.

Murakami, 32, qualified for the World Series as the leader on Japan's Order of Merit, even though he is not a particularly long hitter he was able to master the long and tough Firestone course with a brilliant short game.

"It'd like to be able to chip and putt like he does," said Nicklaus who has played with Murakami in the past.

He once putted 10 times and needed just 25 putts in the round including a 15-footer for an eagle at the 500-yard second hole where he got home with a three wood.

"Almost everything went right for me," Murakami said through an interpreter. "I'm very surprised to be leading, but I don't feel any pressure yet. Maybe tomorrow."

Hill, who last month became the 11th player to reach $1 million in earnings on the tour, never has played Firestone particularly well with only four sub-par rounds in nine tournaments. His 67 included six birdies and three boges, all the result of bunkered approach shots and knocked two strokes off his previous best here.

"I drove the ball well, which was surprising," said Hill, who had been having his problems off the tee until he took a couple of practice range tips from a tour official and a television producer.

"I had the feeling I might go for 69 because this golf course is absolutely very long for me," added Hill, who missed only two fairways.

This is the inaugural World Series in an expanded 72-hole format with a total $300,000 prize money at stake. In the past, these have been 36-hole exhibitions staged primarily for television among the winners of the four major championships with a $50,000 top prize.

The new format has spurred excitement and many of the players seemed to agree with that thinking.

Miller absorbs penalty

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — A putter belonging to his six-year-old son cost Johnny Miller a tournament penalty Thursday in the first round of the $100,000 World Series of Golf.

Miller, who found the shorted putter in his bag on the 15th hole, was assessed the maximum two-stroke penalty for two holes when he reported the discovery after completing his round.

The penalty strokes turned a two over par 72 score on the Firestone Country Club South Course into a 74.

"I knew they were going to penalize me," said Miller. Seven times it was Mickey Moore, Biggley had no choice."

Miller, however, refused to fault his caddy, Andy Martinez. "It's easy to do it, really," said Miller. "The Martinez is very reliable when it comes to counting runs. He uses a reticule. He never fails."

Hill blasts out

Defending champion, Siderowf advance in national amateur

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Defending champion Fred Ridley, a tall and talented golf marksman from Winter Haven, Fla., made the fourth round of the U.S. Amateur tournament Thursday with a 2 and 1 victory over Fred Cook of Wethersfield, Conn.

Ridley, a 24-year-old law student at Stetson State University, made his game early on the par 50, 550-yard Bob-Air Country Club Course.

"I hit my tee balls better than on Wednesday," he said. "I can hit my one iron 230 yards on the level and I used that club for three tee shots and my four wood for the tee five times."

Ridley was one of 32 players advancing to Friday morning's fourth round.

Two rounds will be played Friday and Saturday and the final match, 18 holes more or less, is set for the Sunday.

British Amateur champion Richard Siderowf, a Westport, Conn., stockbroker, advanced to the fourth round by beating Edward Barnes of Kingston, Ga., 5 and 4.

Siderowf stroked into an early 3-put lead and was even par for the day. His best shot came on the sixth, where he holed out a 20-foot bunker blast for a birdie three.

"I played better today," he said, "than during the first two rounds, but I'm still not satisfied with my game."

Siderowf's opponent, Friday morning will be C. Parker Moore of an Laurens, S.C., who sidelined Gregory Farrow of Alveston, N.Y., 4 and 3.

Another strong title contender is Mike Reid, a former all-American golfer from Brigham Young University who was low amateur in the 1976 U.S. Open Tournament. He moved up with a 3 and 1 victory over Gilbert Castagnoli of Jericho, N.Y.

Four up through 11 holes, the lean, full-swinging Reid led the 12th and 15th holes but triumphed with a 20-foot chip-in birdie at the 17th.

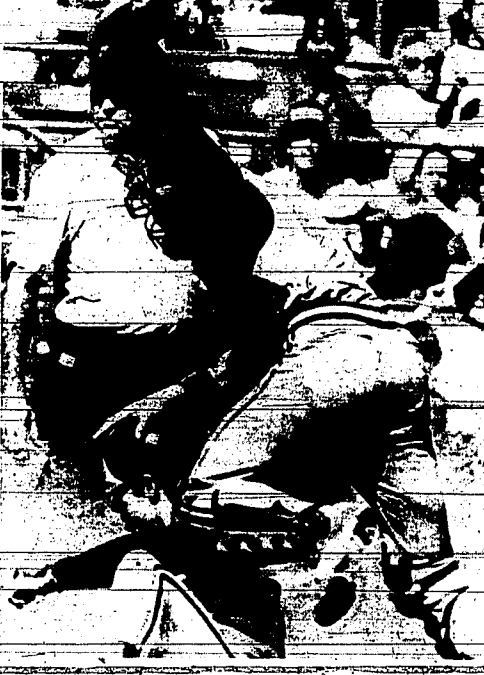

Among other second round winners was Allan Strange of Portlansett, Va., twin brother of 1974 national college champion Curtis Strange, now a pro.

Steve Ishiguro was one over par when he ousted Mark Boyalick, a Belleville, Ill., resident who reached the quarterfinals of this annual tournament last year. The score was 3 and 2.

Michelle Powers of Oakland, Calif., who plans to turn pro soon, knocked out Lindy Miller, the Big B conference champion from the NCAA champion Oklahoma State team, 2 and 2.

Powers said he is "playing better every" after downing Miller, a College All-American.

Slender Mary Tindor of Monterey, Calif., who has honed his accurate waltz on the difficult Pebble Beach, Calif., Links, posted the day's first victory in the 12 match field.

Colleges introduce three new coaches

By United Press International

The college football season opens this weekend with a handful of games scattered across the country and the inaugural weekend will be highlighted by the debut of three new major head coaches and the appearance of one of the leading candidates for the Heisman Trophy.

The season officially gets underway Friday night at Dayton, Ohio, with the Flyers entering Eastern Kentucky and there are 11 more major games on tap for Saturday. Only one of the top 20 ranked clubs in the preseason ratings is scheduled to begin play Saturday, and that's 20th-ranked Kansas, which will go against Oregon State at Corvallis, Ore.

Oregon State is one of the clubs which will be sporting a new head coach. He's Craig Peadar, a former star quarterback at Southern California, who is replacing Joe Kuhse. Peadar takes over a team that was 1-0 a year ago but a very successful recruiting season has made Beavers' fans optimistic that the school can once again become competitive in the Pacific Eight Conference.

Other head coaches who will be making their debuts Saturday are Robert "The Brain" at North Carolina State and Bruce Snyder at Utah State. Reih takes over from Lou Holtz, who left to take the head coaching job with the New York Jets, and Snyder replaces Phil Krueger, who rejoined Southern Cal Coach John McKay at Tampa in the National Football League.

North Carolina State, which became a national power under Holtz, opens against Furman while Utah State takes on Southwestern State.

Fans at North Carolina State were treated to a passing game while Holtz was there, but under Reih the Wolfpack is expected to run more.

"He had his program. I have mine," Reih said, referring to Holtz. "I guess I'm a little bit more conservative. I believe in having the running game get things established first. But I'll say this, it's better to come to an established program than to have to build one."

Wolfpack enthusiasts will not see as much passing this year. For one thing—Dave Buckley, who quarterbacked the club in national prominence the past two seasons, has graduated and in his place is Johnny Evans, who is more of a runner than a passer. Evans is considered exceptional at running the veer offense.

"One of the most exciting runners in the country is a quarterback, and he will be an asset for Kansas Saturday night" against Oregon State. He's Nolan Cromwell, an exceptional all-around athlete who last season became only the fourth quarterback to NCAA history to gain more than 1,000 yards rushing in a season.

A former defensive back, Cromwell made his collegiate debut at quarterback against Oregon State last year and broke Gale Sayers' school single game rushing record by gaining 291 yards. He is being tabbed this year to give Southern Cal's Ricky Bell and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett a run for the Heisman Trophy.

In other major games Saturday, Virginia Tech is at Wake Forest; Appalachian State at North Carolina; North Texas State at Mississippi; Mississippi at Memphis; State Normal of Ohio at North Carolina and Richmond at Tulane.

Detroit mauls Colts 24-9

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Rookie linebacker Garth Ten Napel keyed a 21-point third quarter Thursday night with a blocked punt and interception to help Detroit's "kiss and make up" Lions close their exhibition season with a 24-9 thrashing of the Baltimore Colts.

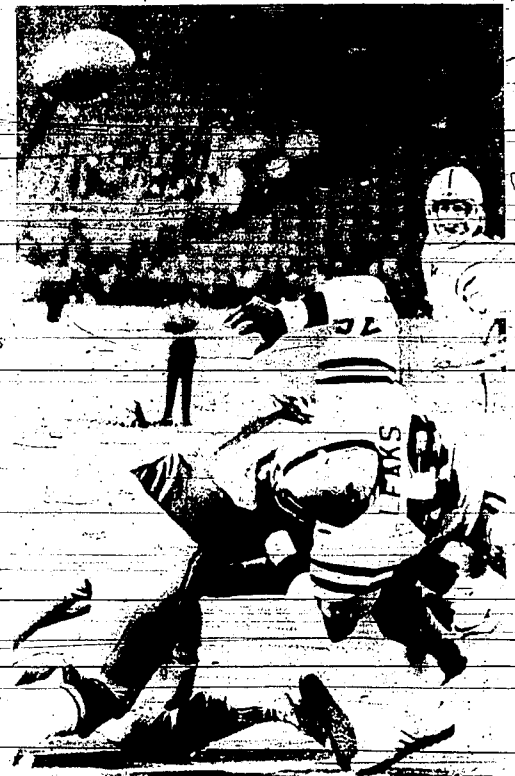

Detroit ended the exhibition season with a 3-4 record but has now won two in a row — both after internal friction between Coach Rick Forzano and his players spilled into public view.

Ten Napel, a seventh-round draft choice from Texas A.M., blocked a David Lee punt six minutes into the third quarter, scooped it up on the 29 and carried it in for the first touchdown of the game. Ten Napel intercepted Bert Jones, as the period was coming to an end and returned the ball 36 yards to the three. Three plays later, Dexter Bussey gave Detroit a 24-0 lead with a one-yard touchdown run. Jones, betrayed by his receivers in the first half as they continually dropped his passes, was sacked six times for 81 yards as Baltimore lost its fourth consecutive exhibition game after two wins.

HARD HIT Roosevelt Leaks (48) of Baltimore coughs up the ball as he is drilled by Detroit's Paul Nuumoff during exhibition play Thursday. Detroit won 24-9. (UPI telephoto)

Inter-city standings tighten

TWIN FALLS — Canyon Springs, trimmed Rupert's Magic Valley women's inter-city series lead to three strokes when Jean McCallum and Judy Lawley led the team to a 12-point day.

The Canyon Springs girls picked up three points on Rupert over their home course but these three points mean large as the final match is slated for Rupert Sept. 28. (Tea-off 9 a.m., coffee and rolls at 8 a.m.)

The team points for the day included Canyon Springs 13, Burley 12, Buhl and Rupert 10, Jerome 9, Gooding 3, and Twin Falls did not participate due to a conflicting tourney on its home course.

The season's totals now read Rupert 207, Canyon Springs 197, Buhl 45, Burley 41, Gooding 35, Jerome 31, and Twin Falls 29.

Mrs. Lawley led the gross division with a 94, followed by Lenore Kasworm, Rupert; 95; Dorothy Zahn, Jerome; 97; Catherine Neher, Jerome; 99; Delores Barr, Buhl; 106; Jerry Hutchinson-Burley; 107.

In net Mrs. McCallum carried a 71, followed by Dol Melton, Canyon Springs; 77; Colleen Kerbs, Rupert; 77; Mardene Gottland, Rupert; 78; Midge Sellers, Canyon Springs, and Faye Stoddard, Burley, both 81.

LA takes pair from Expos

MONTREAL (UPI) — Bill Buckner drove in two runs for the nightcap to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-3 victory over Montreal and a doubleheader sweep against the Expos Thursday night after winning the opener, 2-1, on the strength of Ron Simons's 17th victory.

Pirates claim 7th straight

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Larry Demery pitched a five-inning no-hitter and doubled home two runs and stole home Thursday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates blanked the San Diego Padres, 5-0, for their seventh straight victory.

Twins drop Brewers 3-4

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Butch Wynegar had four singles, including one during a four-run sixth inning Thursday that carried the Minnesota Twins to an 8-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Murcer bats SF past Mets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bobby Murcer drove in five runs Thursday and Mike Caldwell pitched five strong innings of relief for his first victory this year after seven losses to lead the San Francisco Giants to 10-7 victory over the New York Mets in a rain-delayed game.

Upset hits U.S. net open

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — The U.S. Open Tennis Championship lost one of its most glamorous stars Thursday when third-seeded Martina Navratilova, the Czechoslovakian slud-maker who defeated the U.S. during last year's tournament, was upset, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3, in the first round of the women's singles.

Navratilova, who shed 25 pounds of excess weight by staying off the junk food she enjoys so much, was given a good start at the title held by her friend Chris Evert, and she appeared in some of the best tennis of her career.

There the real fun in and Martina's right hand came out as she cried uncontrollably for nearly five minutes before a crowd of approximately 8,000 fans who had braved near-day-long rain in the hope of seeing some tennis.

The crowd had not bargained for such a stunning upset, especially as the 5-foot-7, 140-pound, Newberry, of La Jolla, Calif., only returned to the circuit three weeks ago after undergoing an operation on her left knee in February for the removal of cartilage.

Newberry, 23, tried to console her 20-year-old opponent, but nothing she said made any difference. Martina just cried.

She had lost herself back into the match by breaking service in the seventh game after holding in the eighth. In the ninth game she saved three match points and held two break points of her own, but she could not wriggle out of the hook Newberry, who served 10 double faults during the ninth game, gained her fourth match point with a forehand down the line and then clinched her victory with a service ace, the only one of the entire match.

Navratilova's manager, Fred Berman, said Martina had nobody to blame for her loss but herself.

"I've got to have a serious talk with her," he said.

"She has got a learn discipline. She could be another Billie Jean King and it would be a shame to let such talent go to waste."

What King never saw, however, was for the lady spectators, who had a high night with Newberry's stunning victory and that of second-seeded Bjorn Borg, which followed in the men's singles.

Borg, fresh off his third straight victory in the U.S. Professional Championship and victories in the Wimbledon and WCT finals, defeated an outclassed Phil Letcher of Australia, 6-2, 6-2, in his opening round match.

It was repeating the fourth-ranked 18-year-old and 16th-seeded Steve Niekirk of Baltimore, 6-2, 6-2, to become the first man into the men's third round.

Borg said he likes playing under floodlights but that did not stop him dominating his match against Letcher despite a rain-soaked drizzle.

"This could turn out to be my greatest year," Borg offered

"After winning Wimbledon, I set my sights on Forest Hills and I am determined to do well."

Gerulaitis, of Kings Point, N.Y., reached the third round for only the second time and said he would be ready for Jimmy Connors after one more game.

A young man who enjoys the good things of life, including a white Rolls Royce convertible, Gerulaitis said he has been going to bed early. "I never check back to be a record for me," he said.

Filer collects volleyball title

FILER — The Filer Wildcats rallied in sudden-death Thursday night to win their own girls volleyball Invitational championship.

The Wildcats, with senior Tammy Gardner, continuing her journey-long brilliance, dropped the first match of the evening to Millico 15-10 and 15-13. But then bounced right back, after some intermission words from Coach Julie Astorguia, to defeat the Spartans 15-5, 15-5 and collect the title.

The final session opened with Jerome outstanding Kimberly 6-15, 16-14 and 15-10, the closest series of the meet. Milico then sent Jerome to the sidelines 15-8, 5-15 and 15-12 to set up the rematch with Filer.

Filer takes its title team to a regular season triangular meet at Burley Tuesday night. Burley and Buhl also will participate.

Phil pact

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies Thursday signed first baseman Dick Allen, one of four members of the team playing without contracts, to a one-year agreement.

The Phillies declined to disclose terms of the contract but said that under the new pact, Allen still could become a free agent at the end of the season.

They had been reports Allen received $250,000 last year after his acquisition from Atlanta and was asked to take a one-year season.

Center fielder Gary Maddox, second baseman Dave Cash and pitcher Wayne Twitshell also have been playing without contracts this year and could become free agents at the end of the season.

Allen has been out since July 26 with a disabled leg. He comes off the disabled list Friday and will join the team in New York for a series against the Mets.

Sonics buy center, sell veteran guard

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Seattle SuperSonics picked up a 6-foot-11 journeyman center Lorne Martin from Portland to back up Tommy Burleson and sold veteran guard Herm Gilliam to the team's blazers in two separate deals Thursday.

However, Seattle's general manager Bill Russell indicated he might not be through altering the team roster with the start of training camp less than a month away.

"There is such an incredible surplus of players in the NBA that more deals should be expected," Russell said, although he would not speculate whether Seattle would be involved in any of the action.

The Sonics also continued negotiations with Mike Green, a No. 1 draft pick of a few years earlier who played

Jazz buys Wicks

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The New Orleans Jazz Thursday obtained NBA All-Star forward Sidney Wicks from the Portland Trail Blazers in a straight cash deal.

Wicks was the second major player obtained by New Orleans in three weeks. Last month the Jazz signed All-Star forward Gail Goodrich from the Los Angeles Lakers.

Wicks became expendable when Portland obtained Moses Malone in the American Basketball Association trade dispersal draft 22.3 points and 1.3 rebounds for Portland and was selected to the NBA effort to significantly upgrade our ball club," said Barry Mendelson, Jazz executive vice president. "Sidney is one of the spikiest big men in the NBA and will immediately make us a more physical team on the backboards. Our recent last season and the acquisition of players such as Wicks and Goodrich should indicate to the people of New Orleans we are not content to sit still."

Wicks, 6-foot-9 and 225 pounds was a first-round draft choice of the Blazers five years ago. He averaged 22.3 points and 1.3 rebounds for Portland and was selected to the NBA

what's what

It has been explained repeatedly that a mugwump, no, he is a political animal that sits on a fence with his mug on one side and his wump on the other. But a client wants to know what mugwump meant originally. That's the word the Indians up around Massachusetts used for "captain." It didn't take the definition of "an independent politician" until it was so applied to those disloyal voters who bolted the Republican Party in 1884. Today, according to the pollsters, the mugwumps outnumber the Republicans.

It was old Ed Howe who first noted: "News is anything that makes a woman say, 'For Heaven's sake!'" Far more married than single women suffer overmuch from that melancholia called "the blues." Statistically, your chances of never catching a cold improve considerably, if you don't go to work on Mondays.

METHODIST PIONEER

Q. "Who was Peter Cartwright?"
A. An early Methodist pioneer. Among the several things for which he became noted was his observation when a highly religious lady in his church screamed, "If I had one more feather in the wing of my faith, I would fly away to my Savior!" Said Cartwright: "Stick in the other feather, Lord, and let her go."

The medical experts still insist it's better to nap before meals than after. Maybe so. But what's wrong with both before and after? Personally, I also like to take a little nap right before bedtime.

BAD WHISKEY

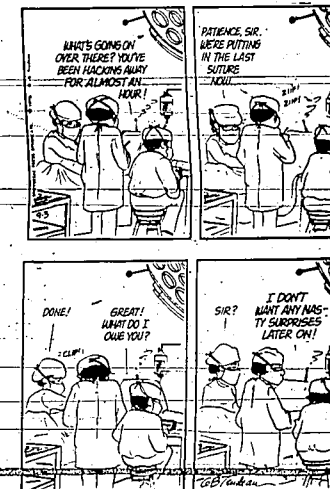

When a man became sick during the Prohibition days, he was quite likely to explain by saying, "I got some bad whiskey." And he probably wasn't wrong. Much booze now as then, is distilled through old car radiators. It oftentimes carries a considerable amount of lead and other poisons. Maybe a little doesn't kill, but a lot does. And countless grave nationwide contain the remains of citizens nevertheless dead of liquor-lead even though their tombstones don't read: "... of bad whiskey."

The increased activity of the thyroid gland after the third month is what makes expectant women perspire more. Realize this isn't the sort of observation you'd want to engrave on wedding invitations. But it's noteworthy nonetheless, I think. Don't you?

If a single woman goes with an eligible man for three months, chances she'll marry him run about two to five, says our Love and War man.

Farm

Grain system plan dropped

—WASHINGTON—Advocates of federalizing the nation's scandal-ridden grain inspection system are now seriously considering dropping the issue until next year because of an impending House and Senate farm state legislators.

Democrat Sen. Dick Clark of Iowa, the foremost proponent of federal control, said in an interview that next year he may have a more sympathetic president and a new chain of bribery indictments to bolster his case.

Delegations from the House and Senate went into conference last May to seek a direct federal inspection of grain at export ports and at the 25 largest inland terminals, and House bill requiring federal control only at export sites.

While both sides have drafted "compromise" bills, the House has refused to judge from his insistence that the state and private agencies that currently handle grain inspection remain intact.

"If the House holds out for all of the House provisions, we're going to hold out until next year," said Clark.

One of the influential House members, Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., when asked if the House conferees intend to remain adamant on their version, replied, "That's about the size of it."

In their last compromise offer — which a Clark aide called "final" — the Senate conferees agreed to let existing state-controlled inspection agencies continue in the new system.

That concession was designed primarily to pacify House Agriculture Committee Chairman Thomas Foley of Washington State, who has been protective of the existing systems.

Foley said last week he does not object to such a compromise. "But there are other issues in the bill," he added.

The major "other issues" are the inland terminals, run in states like Nebraska and Texas by private inspectors, according to committee aides. House conferees Thone, W.R. Poage, D-Tex., and Eljio de la Garza, D-Tex., refuse to give in on their states' private inspectors.

The aides said Foley is opposing the compromise because Poage — his predecessor as chairman and still a potent force in the House — opposes it.

"His basic feeling is, if it's not agreeable to Mr. Poage, we won't do it," said an aide. "He won't take on Poage. He wants a consensus."

Another conferee, Rep. Keith G. Sebelius, R-Kan., refuses to cross Thone. That makes an alliance of five House members who can block any agreement.

"I don't have problems" with the last Senate offer, said Sebelius, whose home state has state-run inspection. "But I'm sticking with those who do. We've worked as a team on the House side."

The drive for federalization grew first as an investigation by the U.S. General Accounting Office, which claimed widespread irregularities in the inspection and weighing of U.S. grain.

A follow-up report cited specific problems at 19 inspection terminals.

The move to put Uncle Sam in charge received added impetus from indictments and convictions of inspectors in several cities for accepting bribes to give false high ratings to grain samples. Most of the prosecutions took place in Texas and Louisiana.

Defenders of the existing inspection system maintain that most of the irregularities are relatively insignificant, or would not necessarily be solved by federal intervention, and maintain that criminal activity has been confined to few export ports.

In July, Clark gave reporters an Agriculture Department letter citing ongoing investigations into grain marketing irregularities at 49 sites.

Shortly thereafter a Justice Department letter leaked to the press claiming "documentary evidence" exists of bribes in several ports.

Defenders of the existing system say they won't believe it until they have seen the evidence — and some members of Congress, such as Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., scolded Justice for tossing out charges before it was ready to go to court.

"I thought for a minute there was that kind of mischief in the domestic inspection system," said Thone. "I'd agree with Mr. Clark."

The drive for federalization has been so strong that the House group even more determined not to give in.

"It did get their backs up," said a House aide. "It was a useless exercise on the part of Dick Clark."

Clark accuses Thone and the other House holdouts of being wedded to their own states' systems and unconcerned about what is best for the country.

Specialist warns on aphids

TWIN FALLS — Potato specialist Dr. Richard Olms Wednesday cautioned potato growers to check their fields for green peach aphids which may spread infestations of leaf roll virus to crops before harvest.

"We don't want to start a panic," Olms said. "Any grower should be aware of the amount of leaf roll he has in his crop."

Olms said that heavy flights of the aphids near Bell Rapids, Wendell, Hazelton and Jerome could cause spread of the disease if early applications of insecticides have worn off.

He warned farmers to watch for the insects and spray further if they do not plan to start harvest until Sept. 20 or later.

"If you are going to kill the vines on the 9th or 10th, forget it," he said. "A treatment of monitor would be in order for those spuds going into the cellar and having infestations of the aphid."

He also cautioned farmers to store spuds whose fields have been affected "in a part of the cellar where you can get it them."

"Tissue necrosis can be especially bad in affected spuds," he said, "and stored potatoes should be sold as soon as possible."

USDA to allow continued use of meat with bones

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said Wednesday it will allow processors to continue using meat containing ground-up bone in hot dogs and other foods despite a federal judge's ruling.

District Judge William Bryant earlier issued a temporary restraining order against enforcement of the April 27 Agriculture Department regulation which allows use of "mechanically deboned meat" and meat mixed out of fat scraps — in hot dogs, pizza, chili, lunch meats and a long list of other meat products.

A consumer coalition spokesman said the regulation on mechanically deboned meat which actually contains small portions of ground bone, announced he will try to arrange for separate legal action to force the producers of the market until their future is settled by pending Agriculture Department proceedings including a public review process.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard Ferner told (UPI) "we do intend to continue" allowing processors to use the deboned meat because "we have no basis not to."

Rooney E. Leonard, head of the Community Nutrition Institute which brought suit against the ground-bone regulation because it allegedly was issued illegally, said "if it takes another suit to stop it, that's what we'll have to do."

The department regulation on mechanically deboned meat was announced as a temporary measure to remain in effect only until permanent rules are issued. Government attorneys said Bryant's order, which is to be effective pending the outcome of a hearing set for Sept. 9, did not legally require the government to take the congressional products off the market.

Breakfast plan expanded

SAN FRANCISCO — Residential child care institutions are now eligible to participate in the School Breakfast Program under regulations announced recently by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The eligible institutions are public or licensed nonprofit private residential child care centers, such as homes for the mentally retarded, orphanages, temporary shelters for abused and runaway children, juvenile detention centers, and others.

Previously, only public or nonprofit private schools were eligible.

As participants in the breakfast program, residential child care institutions now can receive federal reimbursement for breakfasts they serve which meet minimum nutritional standards. Breakfasts must include specified amounts of milk, vegetable or fruit juice or fruit-and-bread or cereal to qualify.

Inclusion in the program allows child care institutions to receive additional cash reimbursements for breakfasts they serve free or at a reduced price to eligible children. The institutions also can receive USDA-donated foods and technical and supervisory assistance from the state or federal agency administering the program.

According to the regulations, schools should plan breakfasts on a daily participation basis, with the goal of providing one breakfast per child per day in order to avoid preparing excessive amounts of food to keep plate waste at a minimum.
