Carey woman killed on highway

PICABO — A Carey woman was killed Thursday night two miles west of here as she attempted to move a camper shell from the highway.

Vonda Simpson, 56, was struck by a car driven by a Twin Falls man, Howard King, who was west bound on State 68 about 9:45 p.m. According to police reports, the camper shell had blown off the pickup driven by Larin Simpson, the woman's husband.

The couple stopped to move the camper shell out of the road when King hit the woman.

The camper shell apparently had blown into the westbound lane.

US budget — $413 billion!

WASHINGTON — Democrats in Congress won their battle for the big budget Thursday, obtaining House approval for a new federal budget of $413.2 billion for next year. Only relatively minor differences remain to be ironed out between Senate and House conferees.

Both House and Senate versions call for about $9 billion more spending than sought by President Ford.

(See story, p. 3)

Leaker eludes committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It now appears that House investigators never will establish who leaked intelligence reports to CBS reporter Dan Schorr. They failed Thursday in an effort to get another $100,000 to keep trying.

The House Ethics Committee, which has spent five months and nearly $200,000 hunting Schorr's source, asked the House Administration Committee for the money.

The administration committee voted 8 to 7 to reject the request. It suggested using funds the panel already has on hand for work other than the Schorr inquiry.

Formosans cheer Mao death

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — Newspapers and school children cheered the death of Mao Tse-tung today, but the government ordered that the Chinese leader not be officially condemned in death.

Official sources said Premier Chiang Ching-kuo has decreed that no government communique be issued and that no government official be allowed to attack Mao so soon after his death.

Saccharin risks cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators say the Food and Drug Administration is exposing the public to unnecessary risks by permitting use of the artificial sweetener saccharin.

Tax bill hits every pocket

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After almost three years of effort, congressional tax writers have produced the final version of a major tax revision bill that will touch every American's pocketbook.

A conference committee completed the task of reconciling the differences between House and Senate versions of the massive bill Thursday night after a flurry of last-minute decisions, including a surprise decision to include significant estate tax revisions.

The legislation, which will be passed in the next few months, will raise a net $16 billion in new federal tax revenue.

In 1978 and later years, as estate tax changes come into play, the federal revenue gain will drop to about $9.5 billion a year.

Dozens of special interests, ranging from railroads to working parents, will benefit from the bill while dozens of others will lose, such as wealthy professionals who have used tax shelters to avoid taxation on their excess income.

Work began on the legislation in early 1974 under former House Ways and Means chairman Wilbur Mills. It died at the end of the 93rd Congress in late 1974 but the same bill was revived in 1975.

Despite the publicity the measure will receive, it is so complicated and contains so many provisions that taxpayers are likely to confront many surprises — some pleasant and some not so pleasant — as they calculate their taxes in the years to come.

Tax Cuts — All current tax cuts for individuals and industries are continued at least through 1977.

Minimum Tax — The minimum tax on individuals and corporations is increased.

Shelters — Cuts are placed on tax shelters in real estate, farming, oil and gas, movies and other industries.

Individual tax changes — New or expanded tax breaks are allowed for child care, health care, allowing parents to work, alimony deductions, moving expenses, prepaid legal services and others. Other current tax breaks, such as the sick pay exclusion, are eliminated or cut back.

Homes — Business deductions for vacation homes are harder to claim, as are deductions for a home or portion of a home used as an office.

Estate and Gift — Estate and gift taxes are lowered over a five-year period.

Capital Gains — The required holding period to receive lower capital gains tax rates is increased from six months to 12, and capital losses may be used to offset $3,000 of regular income by 1978.

Investment Credit — The 10 per cent investment tax credit is made permanent. Additional credits of up to 1 per cent are allowed if the employer places the proceeds into an employee stock ownership program.

Taxpayer Rights — Taxpayers are given new rights to sue in court to force the Internal Revenue Service to follow the law.

Social Security Numbers — Social Security numbers may be used for tracking down runaway fathers.

Others — Hundreds of other changes are made involving both domestic and foreign income, both individuals and corporations.

Tax reform groups called for the legislation's death when it first cleared the Senate with so many special interest tax cuts that it lost $300 million in its first year.

TF teacher talks tense

By GEORGE WILEY

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls teachers were back in the classroom today following a demonstration march Thursday in support of their negotiations team.

There was little indication real progress had been made in yesterday's day-long negotiating session with the school board.

Instead, the negotiations appeared to have fallen into a state of limbo as teachers and the board jockeyed for primacy in the dispute over salaries and working conditions.

"We have not set a time for our next meeting," said teachers' negotiator Gary Folwell, "but they (the board team) have not said they aren't going to set a time."

"I'm the one who is taking a positive attitude all the time," Folwell added.

The dispute was complicated by a self-imposed gag agreement which kept both parties quiet.

Bob Lus, head of the Twin Falls Education Association (TFEA) team representing the teachers, refused to comment on whether he had been contacted by the board about setting up future negotiating sessions.

Kris also declined to comment on any progress having been made in yesterday's negotiations which began about 10 a.m. and concluded about 6 p.m.

Asked if the TFEA and the board team would make a joint statement, Kris said there had been "no mention of any joint press release at this point."

Board negotiators also refused comment.

"We don't have anything to say," board attorney Fred Decker said tersely at the conclusion of yesterday's sessions.

Decker, who has taken the leading role as board spokesman, then issued a "no comment" on a series of questions about the results of yesterday's meeting and plans for the future.

Board negotiators Ruth Day and Tom Kiely were silent except for a suggestion by Kiely that data marks be used to record Decker's "no comments."

A check late this morning at the school administration building showed negotiations had not resumed.

The TFEA has called a teachers' meeting for tonight at 6:30 p.m. at which a strike vote conceivably could be taken but no one was saying whether it would be.

African violence claims 22, school

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) —

A high school for colored students was burned down today and police dispersed demonstrating students with tear gas, a day after police killed at least 22 persons in the worst explosion of anti-apartheid violence in Cape Province.

The fatalities occurred amid rioting and looting by colored (mixed race) demonstrators and some blacks in the townships and suburbs in the southern peninsula in the wake of Prime Minister John Vorster's warning that police would get tougher unless rioting stopped.

The rioting marked the worst explosion of anti-apartheid protest since July when the racial riot that began near Johannesburg in mid-June spread to the Cape Town area. At least 257 persons have been killed in the violence since June 16.

One-fourth of mankind grieves Mao

HONG KONG (UPI) — China began an unprecedented period of mourning today for Mao Tse-tung, the farmer-son who became one of the world's greatest revolutionaries and founder of Chinese communism.

Mao, who died early Thursday at the age of 82, was the last — and most beloved — of the "big three" leaders of the Chinese Communist revolution to die this year.

Although the formal mourning period had not yet begun, thousands of weeping Peking residents poured into the streets to mourn the death of the only leader they had known since the People's Republic of China came into being Oct. 1, 1949, after Mao's forces drove Chiang Kai-shek from the mainland.

Some bowed silently before his portrait in Peking's Tian An Men Square, where an unprecedented mass memorial service was scheduled for Sept. 14. Others shouted Mao's praises, Peking residents said in a telephone call to Hong Kong.

Flags were flown at half-staff on all public buildings, other public places and on many private homes. This, too, was unprecedented. When Chou and Chu died, specific places where flags were to be flown in half-staff were designated by the leadership.

The death of Mao, the supreme ruler of one quarter of mankind, was almost certain to deepen a divisive power struggle that he launched early this year after Premier Chou En-lai died of cancer.

Marshal Lin Biao, the other member of the "big three" leaders who died this year, the 1976 March of Communist guerrillas and eventually defeated the Nationalist Chinese forces, died July 6.

Government and party leaders called for unity and immediately declared they will continue the policies Mao laid down in domestic and foreign affairs.

But it appeared a tumultuous struggle was in the making, with Premier Hua Kuo-feng, Mao's potential successor and now the highest-ranking government leader, seeking to hold his status against more conservative opponents.

China analysts predicted Mao's death will strengthen the hand of the moderates, advocating less political struggle and more emphasis on the economy. They argue that Mao's doctrinaire policies — adopted by Hua — have undermined economic development in this nation of 800 million.

It appeared the military will play the decisive role in determining Mao's successor since no leader can take and hold that key post without the backing of the military establishment.

Hua headed the funeral committee, which numbered almost 200. Some of the teachers and almost midnight Thursday in the Great Hall of the People, where Mao's body will lie in state for a week beginning Saturday.

Radar shows Venus extremely rough

BOSTON (UPI) — The first detailed radar pictures from the planet Venus show a large portion of the surface to be extremely rough with ridges which may have been caused by mountain building activities similar to those which shaped the Earth and moon.

The findings were reported today in this month's edition of "Science," a journal published by the American Association of Science.

The pictures, which suggest that processes at work on Earth and on the moon are also acting on Venus, were made from the Arcecho Observatory of the National Astronomy and Space Administration Center (NASA) in Puerto Rico.

Using a radar system provided by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, scientists were able to cut through the thick, clouded atmosphere of the planet and survey a region of Venus about four million square miles in size.

Scientists S.B. Campbell and R.B. Dyce of the NAIC staff and G.J. Pettengill of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology were involved in the project.

The pictures cover a region of Venus from 46 to 75 degrees north latitude and extending 80 degrees in the longitude.

Venusian features as small as 12 miles in size can be made out.

Within the region the radar picked up a large basin about the size of the "Maria" impact basin on the moon. The basin is bounded on the north, south and northeast by rims which may be a series of sharp ridges several hundred miles long.

To the south of the basin are located regions resembling what are known as "scabland blankets" found on the moon. They are regions covered with debris thrown from crater holes, when meteors hit the surface.

Three men hijack Indign airplane

LAHORE, Pakistan (UPI) — Three men hijacked an Indian Airlines plane carrying 84 persons over India today and forced it to land in Pakistan. They began releasing hostages who became ill after being confined in the plane in sweltering heat for more than five hours.

The hijackers, who apparently wanted to fly to Libya, hijacked the Boeing 737 during a flight from New Delhi to Bombay and forced it to land in Lahore, Pakistan, airport officials said.

The hijackers, believed armed with pistols, released a German couple along with their child. The woman was sick.

Another passenger listed as an Indian was released when he reportedly fainted. Two other Indians were also released, with one of them suffering from a heart condition.

The Boeing 737 stood on the airfield tarmac with all its doors open to improve ventilation. Flight security was clamped in the airport and officials revealed little information, according to a Pakistani newsmen in Lahore.

Airport authorities provided the plane with food at the request of the hijackers.

Among the passengers on the plane was at least one unidentified American, the U.S. embassy in New Delhi said. There were also 11 West German tourists, including the three released by the hijackers.

The three men, who spoke among themselves in English, Bengali, and Urdu, apparently wanted to be flown to the Moslem Holy City of Mecca in Saudi Arabia and then on to Libya. The plane was refueled at Lahore at their demand.

Official sources here said they had no idea of the identity of the hijackers.

Pakistan Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto was on his way to this city. 200 miles northwest of New Delhi, to supervise negotiations with the hijackers, government officials said.

Yankees establish third base camp on Mt. Everest

KATHMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — The American bicentennial Mt. Everest expedition pitched a third base camp today in a new advance toward the summit of the world's tallest peak.

The 'Nepalese' foreign ministry quoted a radio message from the team as saying four of its 12 members, with the aid of two Sherpa guides, established the camp at a height of 23,000 feet — less than 6,100 feet below their base camp. The camp is located in a valley that separates Everest from its sister peak, Lhotse.

Two explosions rock buildings in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two bombs shook a hotel and a building housing the Puerto Rican Labor Department's Chicago offices early today shortly after a woman called UPI to report that a Puerto Rican terrorist group had set the explosives.

The explosions shook a post-Holiday Inn on the near North Side and a five-story building on north LaSalle Street, police said.

despite bad weather, which has hampered visibility throughout the week. The base camp three days ago at a time when the mountain was blanketed by dense fog.

The team now requires only three more high altitude camps before making the final assault at the peak, expected at the end of the month.

If it succeeds, the team would become the third expedition to scale Everest in the autumn since the mountain's first conquest in 1953.

Daylight hours are considerably shorter during the fall and snow accumulation during the season poses the threat of avalanches. Thus far only two teams, one from Britain and the other from Japan, have reached the summit in autumn.

There were no injuries and damage was described as moderate.

Police said the explosions occurred at a building housing the Commonwealth of Puerto Rican Department of Labor and on the 2nd floor of a Holiday Inn, at a post-revolving restaurant overlooking Lake Michigan.

The bombings occurred just a few hours after Democratic

2 planes hit, 169 killed

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — A British and a Yugoslav airliner carrying a total of 169 persons collided in the air today northeast of the Yugoslav city of Zagreb and both planes crashed into cornfields.

Spokesmen for Zagreb hospitals said there were no survivors.

The British Airways Trident jetliner with 63 persons aboard and a Yugoslav DC9 airliner of the Inex-Adria line with 106 persons collided late this morning above the village of Vrhovac, about 20 miles northeast of Zagreb, the capital of the Yugoslav republic of Croatia.

The British plane, flight BE476, was a regular scheduled flight en route from London to Istanbul-Turkey, with 54 passengers and a crew of nine, British Airways in London said.

Yugoslav authorities said most of the passengers on the Yugoslav plane, en route from the Yugoslav Adriatic port of Split to Cologne, were German tourists.

A Zagreb radio reporter said wreckage and bodies were scattered in cornfields for a distance of several kilometers.

Legion deaths may be from allergies

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The disease which killed 29 persons and made another 150 ill this summer at the American Legion convention in Philadelphia may have been caused by an allergic reaction, perhaps to a man-made substance, according to Dr. Jonas Salk.

Hypothesizing on the "Legionnaires' Disease" during a news interview, Salk said the ailment may have been caused by a long-fused immunologic reaction in the victims, that is, activation of a delayed hypersensitivity common to them.

Symptoms may have been triggered by the lungs' reaction to a compound, possibly a manmade substance, Salk said.

Such an allergy can be as deadly as that to penicillin except the hypersensitivity to penicillin is immediate and the symptoms of the allergy Salk conjectured about could be delayed for days, he said.

Commenting on the idea of investigators at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta that a direct poison was involved, Salk said the theories are compatible.

"Whatever noxious influence there was took place at one time, infected only the victims and not beyond, and it was selective in its effect, selective in the sense of susceptibility," he said.

Newsmen supported

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Church, labor and media groups are rallying around the four Fresno Bee journalists who are serving indefinite jail terms for refusing to reveal a news source.

A religious group of 800 persons from San Francisco, carrying placards reading "free press-free America" caravaned to Fresno Thursday for an around-the-clock demonstration in support of the "Fresno Four."

Bee attorney Philip C. Fullerton, meanwhile, went to court again asking for an evidentiary hearing to free the newsmen.

Fullerton said the petition was filed in the court of Superior Court Judge Hollis Best. It asked for a hearing to determine if there was any likelihood that further jail time for Bee Managing Editor George Gruener, ombudsman James Bort, Jr. and reporters William Patterson and Joe Rosato would induce them to reveal their sources.

President woos bishops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, in favor of a constitutional amendment to let states control abortion, sought support today from Roman Catholic leaders dissatisfied with Jimmy Carter's stand on the "right-to-life" issue.

Ford arranged a private White House meeting with the executive committee of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, including Terrence Cardinal Cooke of New York and Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Cincinnati. Ford aides said the abortion issue topped a broad agenda of subjects to be discussed.

In advance of the session, Press Secretary Ron Nissen said Ford would not alter his longstanding opposition to a proposed constitutional amendment to ban abortions because the President "approved of them in cases of rape, incest and danger to the life of the mother."

Automaker eyes offer

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. said today it would consider the United Auto Workers today with a second wage offer. UAW leaders can head off an economy-wrenching strike by 100,000 workers at 11:59 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

The automaker, with memories of a 66-day national strike in 1967, asked for a 9.30 a.m. meeting after two days in which no bargaining sessions were held.

Union officials complained Ford's delay might not leave enough time to resolve outstanding issues and avoid a strike.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock Thursday said the new offer will. "In practical terms, put us back at square one, day one, with no idea of what will happen."

US budget posted at $413 billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats in Congress won the great debate over the budget hands down. In fact, when it came to the final moment, there was almost no debate.

The House, by a vote of 227 to 151 Thursday, approved $413.2 billion in spending by the federal government for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The Senate, by a vote of 53 to 23, approved $412.8 billion.

A House-Senate conference committee planned to iron out relatively minor differences between the two proposed budgets and send the final version back to both houses for final passage next week.

Both the House and Senate version call for about $19 billion more in spending than President Ford proposed in January and some $14 billion more than Ford's budget revised at midyear, which reflected some congressional decisions Ford had opposed.

The House and Senate version would increase the money Ford requested for defense more than he asked, for jobs and other domestic programs, and they reject $10 billion in new tax cuts he proposed.

All year long, Ford and his aides had told Congress the budget it was fashioning would run the risk of re-igniting inflation, slowing economic recovery and worsening unemployment.

Democrats in Congress contended their budget would create a million more jobs than Ford's without risk of new inflation and would be a step toward a balanced budget and "full employment," usually defined as 4 per cent unemployment by 1980.

When the issue reached the Senate Thursday no

Republican rose to state Ford's opposition, although some speeches were prepared for later insertion in the Congressional Record.

In the House, Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio, offered an amendment for a 5 per cent spending cut and restoration of some of Ford's proposed new tax cuts. He didn't bother to ask for a roll-call and was defeated by voice vote.

Both the House and Senate versions would produce a budget deficit slightly over $50 billion, Rep. John W. Rostenkowski, D-Ill., proposed spending cuts to reduce the deficit. Rostenkowski was voted down 240-160.

Democracy reels in Indira's India

The flame of democracy which has never burned very brightly in India seems on the brink of being extinguished if the party of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is successful in making a series of amendments to its constitution.

Democracy was dealt a blow in June of 1975 when Mrs. Gandhi declared a state of emergency and suspended civil liberties and jailed thousands of her enemies.

At that time she also imposed censorship on news and crippled that nation's newspapers. Delaying tactics by censors have made it difficult for the papers to go to press on time and meet their delivery schedules.

The new proposals rewrite the preamble and fifty-nine articles of the constitution. It would arrogate to the executive branch, which Mrs. Gandhi heads, practically all power in the government.

It would strip the judiciary of its power to enforce civil liberties and review legislation, including constitutional amendments.

Indeed it would provide that for a two-year period Mrs. Gandhi could review and amend the constitution as she saw fit.

Also under the new amendments India's judges would not be permitted to issue writs, including habeas corpus, that might delay a "matter of public importance."

That would mean that a person jailed on charges of "antinationa" action could be kept in jail indefinitely without being brought to trial.

The right of habeas corpus is one of the most fundamental civil rights in a democracy.

The amendments are being proposed by Mrs. Gandhi as a means of effecting a socio-economic revolution in the country to end poverty, ignorance, disease and lack of equal opportunity.

Opponents of it, however, see it as another device to strengthen the authoritarian government towards which Mrs. Gandhi has been leading the nation.

We agree with opponents of Mrs. Gandhi. Her latest move is another ploy grab to cement her hold on the nation. No matter how worthy the alleged motives are, loss of liberty is too great a price to pay.

We remember when Mussolini's dictatorship in Italy was justified by some, because he made the trains run on time.

Not too far from India the Arab country of Kuwait has just suspended its constitution and the National Assembly, its legislative body. This was the only democratic country in the Arab world.

Internal troubles and the presence in the emirate of a large body of Palestinians are believed to be part of the cause of the abandonment of free government.

Here again, as is always the case, the decree ending democratic government gave the executive the power to suspend publication for two years of any newspaper whose "policy contradicted national interest."

The lesson is plain. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Democracy must be nurtured and protected or it will not last.

Standard jokes, punchy one-liners draw laughs

By MARTHA ANGLE
Washington Star

WASHINGTON — Remember the bear, that many old trouper of yesteryear?

He's back again, drawing a bigger yuk than ever for GOP vice presidential candidate Robert Dole.

"Ever wondered how many presidents and vice presidents we've had since the last election?" Democrat Walter F. Mondale knows, and he's worked it into a laugh line.

They may pose no immediate threat to Mark Russell, Washington's resident political comic, but the two vice presidential contenders are providing the only discernible humor of Campaign '76.

And after the unrelenting grimness of recent elections, a little bit of fun is a welcome relief on the political scene.

Dole and Mondale have polished up a few standard jokes that they repeat at almost every stop, and both have displayed a talent for one-liners to suit almost any occasion.

Dole's favorite joke, for which he has yet to find a reliable moral, is the old story about the bear who goes into a bar, plunks down a $5 bill and orders a beer. The flustered bartender races into the back, tells the owner about his unusual customer, and asks, "What do I do?"

"Give him back a nickel. He'll never know the difference," the owner advises.

The bartender gives the bear a beer and a nickel. Overcome by curiosity, he slides up to the animal and says, "You know, we don't get many bears in here."

"It's no wonder," the bear replies, "at $4.95 a beer."

The bear story never fails to break up an audience, despite Dole's grinning admission that, "I still haven't figured out the moral of the story."

No one misses the point of Mondale's most treasured gag line.

"The Republicans, he says in tones of awe, "have done something that's never been done before. They've given us two Presidents and three vice presidents in two years with only one election."

Mondale, in fact, is getting a lot of mileage out of Watergate without ever mentioning the scandal by name.

Every time a microphone screeches, the lighting fails or a waiter drops a tray, the Democratic candidate quickly suggests that "Segretti's back in town" — a reference to Nixon dirty-trickster Donald Segretti.

"Crime has been a major concern throughout the country. Do you have any plans?" Mondale was asked at San Francisco last week.

"No," he replied, grinning. "I plan to depart from the recent tradition."

Dole and Mondale kid themselves as often as they take pokes at the opposition.

Dole, who was chairman of the GOP National Committee during Watergate, acknowledged in Carbondale, Ill., last week that "it was a very tragic time in our history." But the Republican party, he added, was not involved in the scandal. "The fight of Watergate was my night off. In fact I think I was in Chicago on a job."

The GOP nominee told the same audience he remembered the 1972 party convention all too well. "The most exciting thing that happened in the convention was the group photograph," he cracked.

"I'm very proud to be here," he said. "Being a Republican, I'm proud to be anywhere."

After a stop in Topeka, Kan., Dole returned to Kansas City, the site of this year's GOP convention, and said he had checked the Crown Center hotel for "any delegates who hadn't gone home yet. I found four uncommitted delegates and Harold Stassen," he quipped.

Mondale, speaking in Harrisburg, Pa., two weeks ago, was accompanied by Gov. Milton Shapp, who disappeared into the smoke from Jimmy Carter's banqueting early in the presidential campaign.

"I ran for President myself a while back," Mondale recalled. "What you didn't know is that when I withdrew, I threw all my support to Mr. Shapp."

Shapp, he added, "is the first person I know of to go to a hotel with his wife and make a national news story of it." This was a reference in Shapp's visit to Philadelphia's Bellevue Stratford after the outbreak of "Legionnaire's Disease" there.

Mondale told an audience at Eau Claire, Wis., that some critics have charged that his proposed tax credits for dependents would increase the size of families.

"That's interesting, (pause) because I don't remember discussing tax policy at the time," he said, to delayed laughter from the college crowd.

Nothing is quite so tempting a target as the opposition, however.

Adapting an old joke once aimed at Hubert H. Humphrey, Dole said he had been in the Senate chamber recently just as Mondale was saying, "Let me tax your memory for a moment."

Teddy Kennedy jumped up and shouted, "What a great idea! Why haven't we thought of that before?" Dole recounted.

Mondale has his own zinger. "The other day," he said, "a lot feasted into the Oval Office and the President voted it before they could get it away from him."

Next step in Mars probe may be tracked Viking

By WALTER SULLIVAN
© N.Y. Times Service

PASADENA, Calif.—The Viking 2 lander has focused its television eyes on the eastern horizon of Mars and has revealed in the images received here Monday and a series of distant, flat-top hills.

It has gazed more closely than before at the nearby hills, many of which resemble weathered coral but are thought to be of volcanic origin.

Yet because of the lander's limitations, the hills cannot be explored and the rocks brought back for study. One of the project scientists, Dr. Elliot C. Morris of the U.S. Geological Survey, said Monday he felt like a child with its nose pressed to the window of a candy store.

Nevertheless, the landers can collect and analyze soil samples. Sunday night the Viking 2 sample collector jettisoned the protective cover of its telescopic arm in preparation for its first grab on Saturday. A variety of soil tests will then commence with attention focused on the search for molecules of biological origin. Its initial results should be received a week from Wednesday.

It is strongly suspected, however, that the analysis by this lander or its sister, 4,000 miles away on the opposite side of Mars, will not settle the question of whether life exists or once existed here. Debate, therefore, has already begun of the most logical next step in exploration of that planet.

One scheme, favored by many geologists and other scientists who have been studying the more rugged features of Mars seen in photographs from orbit, would be to put wheels or tractor treads on a lander and roam across Mars much as the remote-controlled Soviet Lunakhod has moved about on the moon.

Such a vehicle could be landed in a relatively flat, smooth and safe area—as were the Viking 1 and 2 landers—and then driven into the regions of mountains, canyons, and craters that are probably far more dramatic on Mars than any such features on Earth.

Because of the great distance between Earth and Mars, the driving would have to be done in fits and starts. After advancing a short distance the driver on Earth would have to wait 15 or 20 minutes for a television picture to arrive from Mars showing where the vehicle was. A similar lag would occur before the commands for the next advance reached the vehicle.

The vehicle would also have to be able to cope with the extremely rocky terrain that has been revealed in the lander photographs.

James S. Martin Jr., the Viking project manager, believes such a vehicle could be launched in 1981 and land on Mars the following year. A spare lander, now in environmentally controlled storage at the Martin Marietta plant in Denver, Colo., where the other landers were built, could be modified to make it mobile. An orbiter, such as the ones that were mated to the Viking landers for the flight from Earth, and have remained in Martian orbit, is in storage at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here.

The laboratory is the control center for the Viking missions, which are under over-all management of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Langley Research Center in Virginia.

The panoramas viewed through the television cameras of the two landers have shown a rock-strewn plain in such vivid detail that one had the sensation of standing there, yearning to walk out and see what lay beyond the horizon. It was particularly compelling in view of the knowledge that scenery elsewhere on Mars would be far more interesting.

The motivation is more than scenic. Some areas are more likely than others to sustain life, or to have once been habitats for life, and a mobile lander might be able to seek them out.

A number of biologists participating in the project, including Dr. Harold R. Klein, leader of the biological team, are not enthusiastic about a rover for the next mission. They would prefer to conduct a far more elaborate analysis of Martian material than is possible with the Viking landers, hoping thereby to resolve some of the paradoxes that have arisen from the current surface tests.

There are two ways in which this could be done. One would be to devise a lander that, in addition to on-sight observations, could collect a substantial amount of Martian material and bring it back to Earth. To this end, according to Klein, "several kilograms" (about 10 pounds) of soil may be needed to provide enough of it so that trace components can be extracted and identified.

It may be that only in such traces will the clues to past or present life forms be found. Or only in this way may it be possible to trace the paths of chemical evolution on Mars even if such evolution never crossed the critical threshold to organisms that are "alive."

An alternative strategy, Klein believes, would be to land a laboratory far larger and more elaborate than the miniaturized ones that are crammed into a container no larger than a breadbox on the Viking landers. The analysis, as in the current mission, would be done on Mars and the results radioed to Earth.

A 1981-1982 mission is being considered by NASA, according to Martin, and an elaborate "ChemLab" to follow on the Viking discoveries has been under development for several years.

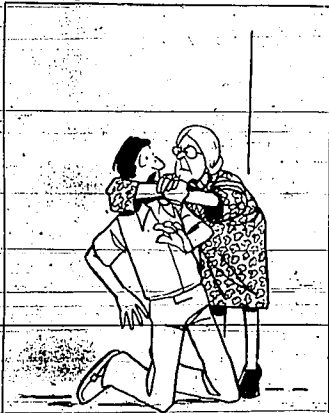

A feasibility study conducted in 1974 estimated the cost of another landing mission to be launched in 1979 at $200 million.

It is too late for such a launch now and Martin suggested that, allowing for inflation, a mission launched in 1981 would cost from $350 to $450 million.

This does not include the cost of launching the vehicle from Earth, which, it is assumed, would be done by the space shuttle now under development in combination with the Interim Upper Stage rocket being produced by the Air Force. This rocket would also serve to push communications and other types of satellites into orbits high enough that their orbital speeds would match Earth's rotation, keeping them seemingly stationary.

A more long-range scheme for Martian visits would use the pressure of sunlight acting on large sails to provide the needed energy, once the vehicles had been lifted free of Earth.

NASA officials are currently considering such a project, but it has not yet been approved or received funding. It would be launched in 1981 at the earliest. (UPI)

Army key in China future

HONG KONG (UPI) — The military will play the decisive role in determining the successor to Chinese Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

No leader can take that key post and hold it without the backing of the military establishment or a major part of it.

Premier Hua Guo-feng, who rose from relative obscurity to the No. 2 position in the country only a few months before the death of Mao, is the No. 1 man in the party now that the chairman is dead. But it is far too early to determine whether his role is merely transitional or permanent.

This is not likely to be decided until some key meetings are held to discuss the succession issue and fill other vacant posts in the top leadership lineup.

Seizure of power by some military strongman or a civilian with the backing of the military could settle the issue quickly. But it is more likely the post-Mao power structure will not become clear until the party's central committee takes up the issue in a full plenary session or calls a new party congress.

The importance of the military was underscored by the fact that the announcements relating to Mao's death were issued in the name of the military commission of the central committee as well as in the name of the committee itself, State Council and National People's Congress.

This was the first time the military commission has been included separately in such announcements.

The fact that Hua was named first vice chairman of the party, and premier last April, when Teng Hsiao-ping was dismissed from party, state and military positions, makes him the most likely of several possible successors.

SOVIET Air Force Lieutenant Viktor Ivanovich Belenko was the first off the plane at Los Angeles International Airport. He defected, flying a new MIG-25, Russia's most sophisticated fighter aircraft. (UPI)

California hides Soviet defector

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Russian air force officer Viktor Ivanovich Belenko, whose defection in a MIG-25 Foxbat almost certainly handed American intelligence a close look at one of the most secret and sophisticated weapons in the Soviet arsenal, was apparently hidden somewhere in Southern California today.

It was believed he would be taken to Washington soon.

Belenko arrived in Los Angeles Thursday night, sequestered in the club lounge of a Northwest Orient Airlines 747 on a flight from Tokyo.

Defense Department escorts whisked him off the plane and out of sight.

"He was off the airport and gone less than five minutes after the plane touched down," an airport spokeswoman said.

Other passengers — who never knew he was aboard — were held on the plane while the 29-year-old jet pilot, reportedly wearing a wig, hustled out a rear door with two other men into waiting cars.

Three police cars escorted the two beige Defense Department autos swiftly off the runway.

A police spokesman said later the patrol cars dropped away after the cars left the airport, and police did not know where Belenko was taken.

Air Force and Defense Department spokesmen refused to discuss Belenko's whereabouts or plans to move him.

Belenko, a first lieutenant in the Soviet Air Force, was granted political asylum in the United States after landing in Northern Japan Monday, taking off from his base in Siberia and flying under Japanese Defense radar.

His MIG-25 Foxbat is the most advanced plane the Russians have, possibly the most sophisticated jet fighter in the world. The chance to examine one first hand presented U.S. intelligence agencies with a windfall.

The plane still was in the hands of Japanese authorities in Hakodate, 500 miles north of Tokyo, where he landed, and the Russian government was insisting it be returned immediately.

Ford hails Mao

By United Press International

Mao Tse-tung, his impact belittled by the United States a generation ago, was hailed by America's leaders on his death as a "remarkable" man who transformed his nation and steered it on a steady course of peaceful coexistence with the Western World.

President Ford, who visited with China's ailing leader late last year, said Thursday Mao was "a most remarkable and a very great man. He had the vision," Ford said, "and the imagination to open up the doors so the United States and the People's Republic of China could do things in a new era and a new day."

Richard Nixon, Ford's predecessor and co-architect of the rapprochement between the two countries, said the Chinese leader held a "profound understanding of the objective realities of the world situation."

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, whose efforts toward peace ended 1970 administrations, said the Chinese leader was "an historic figure who changed the course of events in the world." Kissinger added that it was "extremely difficult" to predict what his successors will do, but the basic interests of Chinese policy have been dictated by the fundamental interests of China.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. Mills E. Godwin has been named honorary chairman of the Virginia President Ford Committee, and Ford campaign officials say they expect him to be a big help in the South. James A. Baker, the President's campaign manager who announced the appointment Thursday, said Godwin will play an important role in the campaign as an adviser and influential governor. "We are fortunate indeed that Governor Godwin is joining President Ford's campaign," Baker said.

Susan moved out of the White House last week and is sharing the suburban townhouse with three junior college classmates: Sheila Ruth Wetzel, Betty Ford's press secretary, said Thursday the President's 19-year-old daughter made the move with the approval of her father and will remain in the townhouse until she starts college in January at the University of Maryland. "I'm not talking about the future," Mrs. Ford said. "It's what I want to do."

Sidewalk audiences hear Bible lessons

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Enticing the average high schooler away from his lunch break for a sidewalk lesson on the Bible is no elementary task.

When Harry Zain hunted listeners Thursday, he was greeted by embarrassed smiles, cigarette smoke, outright refusals and an occasional "maybe another time."

Undaunted, he plans to take his bicycle and eight paperback Bibles to the sidewalk in front of the school each day this term.

Some of these kids have never heard anything from the Bible," says the 23-year-old Zain.

An anti-abortion figure, Zain tried to get a foothold in Kanawha County politics this year, but ran into a cool reception from both parties.

Putting politics aside, Zain has returned to the streets. His second day out was a disappointing one, even though he attracted a small audience at his first appearance.

Zain said his efforts might partly soothe hurt feelings precipitated by the 1974 text-book revolt, when many Kanawha countians protested books they felt were fraught with anti-Christian and un-American teachings. "I just hope this is one good solution to the textbook crisis," says Zain. "They're teaching anti-Christian thought, anti-Semitism, socialism and everything else. If they can learn all that in schools, why not the Bible?"

Zain and his Bibles must keep their distance. School officials have politely warned him to stay off school property, and Zain has religiously complied, walking up and down the sidewalk, seeking converts.

"I tell them not to be ashamed of the Bible," he says. "You know who's the most receptive? The athletes. The football players. They're the ones who really take this seriously. People who are most against Bible teaching in schools are the people who yell the loudest in favor of freedom of speech."

Capsule sealed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — One hundred years from now, whoever unearths the long metal tube might wonder about a pet rock, a dress worn by Cher Bono, a pair of pantyhose and a skate board.

Those and other items, including Los Angeles Lakers coach Jerry West's old No. 34 basketball jersey, a comic book, pan-pipe and a pair of pants, were sealed in a capsule on July 4, 1976, were buried Thursday in an old propellant tank from a 1971 Mariner mission to Mars.

The time capsule was sponsored by the Los Angeles Bicentennial Committee.

The inscription on the plate sealing the capsule reads: "Tomorrow's past — tricontennial time capsule — a sampling of Los Angeles lifestyle 1976 for the citizens of 2076."

West, who attended the ceremony, said he'd like to know if his old jersey would fit anyone in 100 years.

"People are getting bigger all the time and they'll probably be giants by then," he said.

Judge quality surveyed

By STEPHEN M. AUG

WASHINGTON Star

WASHINGTON — Several thousand lawyers are being asked by two Senate committees to rate the quality of federal regulators before whom they practice — apparently the first time such a survey has been undertaken.

The four-page questionnaire, mailed to about 3,500 lawyers who practice regularly before nine regulatory agencies — and to the administrative law judges employed by the agencies — is part of an extensive examination by the Senate Commerce and Government Operations committees.

The questionnaire asks such questions as how much confidence the individual answering has in the regulators' judgment, technical knowledge, legal ability and integrity. Further it asks how much confidence they have that the current commissioners-board members are working very hard at their jobs.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a man I thought was together. He's 29, handsome, a smooth talker and single. The relationship went fine until I caught him in a few lies, then I did a little detective work.

I became suspicious when he told me he had a "weekend" job. I discovered that he is engaged to another woman. He told her if anyone contacted her and asked her any questions about him, not to give out any information because some "nymphomaniac" was chasing him!

Meanwhile, he checked up on me to find out what my assets are. (I'm a widow and well enough off, so I don't have to work, but I'm not rich enough to support him, which I'm sure he had in mind.)

Should I let him know I am on to him? Or give him enough rope to let him hang himself?

DISGUSTED IN DIXIE

Companion prevaricates

DEAR DISGUSTED: Never mind the rope. He's already hung himself where you are concerned. Cut him down.

DEAR ABBY: My 79-month-old child, whose name is not given, and she chews and bites everything in sight. Pam was crawling around on the floor with my sister's little boy who's 8 months old, and she bit him. Naturally the boy was frightened, so he screamed.

My mother-in-law, who was there at the time, became furious and ordered her 9-year-old to bite Pam. The girl bit Pam on the arm, leaving teeth marks, and Pam screamed so hard, she nearly went into hysterics. (Pam didn't leave any teeth marks on her cousin.)

When I told my husband about this, he sided with his mother, saying it was an old-fashioned remedy for breaking children from the habit of biting.

My mother is old-fashioned in many ways, and she said she's never heard of this remedy. Have you? Thanks for your opinion.

PAM'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: No. But I have heard that a human bite can be more dangerous than an animal bite if the skin is broken. Teething children should be provided with teething rings—not cousins.

DEAR ABBY: My youngest daughter is going to be married soon. Her father is completely paralyzed and can't give her away. I was teasing her and said that I would give away, and she said she would love it because she has two brothers and she would rather not choose between them.

The lady who directs weddings said it would be all right. I need your opinion. Should I give my daughter away? Or would it look silly?

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: It's your daughter's day. Let her do as she wishes. I think it's a wonderful idea.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—

There's so much talk about the flu. I am over 70 and had it real bad when it was here before.

I got it being in the big parade, November 11, when World War I ended. I was living with my grandparents. They said it was a punishment for all of us. We should have been on our knees, not out enjoying ourselves when other people had such heartache.

Well I sure did have a bad time of it. No doctor came to houses. Hospitals wouldn't take any more patients. Relatives and friends didn't go near each other. We didn't have pain pills in those days. It was castor oil, baking soda, electric oil, camphorated oil, even coal oil.

I am told I was out of my head. One of my uncles left a bottle of dark rum, heavy kind, on the step. My grandfather had to look after me and grandpa, who had caught the flu from me. Pa was afraid because grandfather couldn't even make a cup of tea. Being from the old country he sure cured both of us. Grandmas in three days and weeks later for me.

Look at flu 50 years ago

Here's the cure. Laugh if you like but it did the trick. He put camphorated oil in goose grease, heated it and rubbed over chest. Then he mixed up mustard and put the oil and goose grease in it between two sheets of red flannel. My chest was red for awhile; it sure was hot. Here's what he gave us for medicine. He took heavy old-fashioned molasses and put the rum in it. He put some in a cup of hot water and it really made me sweat.

Today all these old-fashioned remedies are laughed at, but it worked. I'm still around. My grandparents died when they were over 70. The old boy knew his onions, even though he couldn't boil water. What I'd like to know is what was in the dark molasses and dark heavy rum? Was it a case of get better or die? It sure was hard to take after you got on the mend.

Dear Reader—

Thanks for giving us a colorful picture of the flu more than 50 years ago. From the volume of letters I have received from people who lived through the first worldwide flu epidemic it seems the treatment you described was pretty standard, with emphasis on rum and whiskey.

Alcohol is still used in the treatment of colds and flu by many people as a home remedy. It may be a sedative and help people to feel better in that sense but it does nothing to combat the virus infection causing the illness.

"The only way to treat the flu properly is to prevent it and we can do this today even though that was impossible with the epidemic you survived. That is why vaccinations are so important."

Some of the older medicines may help shrink the nasal lining and make breathing easier. Supportive care in terms of adequate fluids and nourishment is the best that can be offered. The rest of the treatment is for complications. Bacterial complications, such as some pneumonia, can be treated and that will help a lot if there is a worldwide epidemic.

For more information about flu and related cold-like illness readers can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 32, Colds and Flu Group, Prevention and Treatment. Send a Joug, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Idaho City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Karen Robertson participates fully in new way of life in Idaho by learning to milk family pet goat

TF counselor stresses awareness

By IRENE LINK

Special to Times-Town

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley seems to attract unique people. Many residents feel that we are especially fortunate to have an abundance of distinctive individuals who make up our population.

One such special person is Karen Robertson, who has established Southern Idaho as her home since last January. A native of Louisiana, she has made a smooth transition from New Orleans to Twin Falls.

Coming to Twin Falls was the result of marrying another transplant from Louisiana, Clay Robertson, who was already settled here. Clay is the substance abuse manager for Region 3 of the Department of Health and Welfare for the State of Idaho.

Robertson's agency provides treatment services to abusers of alcohol and other drugs in this area. He encourages and works with high schools in edited prevention programs and is available to speak to any church or civic group on substance abuse problems.

As a professional in a similar field, Ms. Robertson is a psychiatric-social worker—her specialty is dealing with mental health problems. She earned her B.A. in sociology-psychology at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge and her M.A. in social work at Tulane University in New Orleans.

Eleven years of experience behind her include work in a private psychiatric hospital, counselor in a mental health clinic, group consultant to a state-mental-health-agency, teacher of medical psychiatric residents at Tulane University, in group theory, instructor in a "Black and White Dialogue"—an attempt in trying to solve some of the community problems that exist between blacks and whites and a private practice in psychiatric social problems.

Along with most professionals, Ms. Robertson feels it is important to belong to professional organizations in order to keep abreast of information in her field.

She is a member in good standing of the National Association of Social Workers, and chairperson of the Magic Valley branch of this organization. Other memberships include a clinical member of the International Transactional Analysis Society, the American Academy of Psychotherapists, and the American Group Psychotherapy Association.

How does Ms. Robertson approach helping her clients solve their problems? "My philosophy is to help a person rediscover his basic integrity and to feel free to be himself with others. I also try to help him respect and recognize the integrity of others as well."

"The approach I like best is to deal with basic communications. First, one must learn true self-awareness. Secondly, it is important to learn how to express directly to others how we feel and think. And thirdly, I try to teach people how to listen—really listen—to others."

"We communicate not only with words, but with our entire bodies—posture, tone of voice, eyes—and we must be aware of how we are using these tools and how they affect others. I try to help my clients become alert to how they come across to others."

Ms. Robertson is currently developing her practice in the Twin Falls area in teen-age counseling, marriage counseling, divorce counseling and family counseling. She states that, "It is ideal to have some total family sessions, but if only one individual is willing to take counseling, then progress can still be made."

Psychiatric social counseling can be used by people with a great variety of unresolved conflicts. Often the sessions are held in addition to medical treatment.

Ms. Robertson states, "I am very concerned that my client that comes to me has had a recent physical examination, particularly if some of their complaints are of a physical nature such as headaches, stomach aches, chronic fatigue, and other similar problems. While these can be signs of depression, they can also be signs of problems beyond depression."

With divorce in America so common, Karen Robertson feels there is a great need for counseling in the problems prevalent in divorce. "I am a very strong believer in divorce counseling, especially where children are involved, so those entangled can make clear decisions and have a simple working relationship over the years."

"A divorcing couple can use advice about how to deal with the problems that naturally arise with children such as hostility, anger, fear, loss of appetite, and a host of other emotional maladies. They nearly always need help in dealing with their own emotions as well."

Already, enmeshed as a member of the community, Ms. Robertson is on the Board of the League of Women Voters, on the Advisory Board of the Rape Crisis Center and a member and instructor at the YWCA.

In fact, the YWCA will be featuring four classes taught by Ms. Robertson, all beginning this month. "One of the classes, which she will co-instruct with Marie Scott, is entitled "Assertiveness Training" and is designed to train people to be agreeably assertive. It can help those who have difficulty saying "No," those who are too timid to disagree or state their own opinion, those who have trouble standing up for their rights, and those who find it difficult to "hold their own" in encounters with others."

If you would like to "Introduce Yourself to Transactional Analysis," Ms. Robertson will be teaching this class at the YWCA also. It is a basic psychology course which will facilitate understanding of one's self and increase one's ability to communicate more effectively with others. This class is open to adult men and women.

A similar class called "Transactional Analysis for Teens" will be taught by Ms. Robertson. This is an introductory course focusing on increasing self-esteem and learning to communicate well with others.

A fourth class which will be instructed by Ms. Robertson is simply called, "Effective Parenting." It is a combination of parent effectiveness training and Transactional Analysis. It is an educational experience which will provide parents with specific skills and methods to improve communications within the home and facilitate the development of successful problem solving and self-confidence in children. Couples with children could benefit from this practical course in how to be good parents.

These classes at the YWCA afford the public an opportunity to meet Karen Robertson. Besides teaching these courses, she states, "I am now beginning to expand my private practice in the community and look forward to working with the medical and legal professions, wherever indicated."

Ms. Robertson believes that a well-balanced life of work and play contribute to happiness. Taking her own good advice, she enjoys Creole cooking and baking, horseshack riding, modern dance, tennis and a variety of activities with her husband, Clay, and stepdaughter, Susan.

One tempting idea that the Robertsons are considering as part of their new life here is the possibility of opening a restaurant in Twin Falls that would feature the classic Creole dishes of their native Louisiana. Pecan pie or gumbo, anyone?

Wendell pair recites vows

WENDELL — An evening wedding at the United Presbyterian Church, Wendell, was the setting for the Aug. 27 ceremony uniting in marriage Gwen Scott and Kipman Dennis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ishmael Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. Arlin Dennis, all Wendell, are the parents of the bridegroom.

Rev. Robert Van Nest of the Twin Falls United Presbyterian Church performed the double ring ceremony before the altar with a background of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown which was made of bridal tulle with a long train trimmed in lace. Her veil was attached to a crown and was made of net and lace. She carried a cascade-styled bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with ivy as greenery.

Debra Langelier, Boise, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Lee Ann Mason, Vicki Goodhart and Pam Parr, all of Wendell, friends of the bride.

Candlelighters were Tracy and Blaine Scott, brothers of the bride, Magic Four Ranch, Wendell. Groomsmen were Kelly and Kirk Dennis, brothers of the bridegroom, and Rick Moore, Kalspell, Mont. Bruce Fagg, Halley, friend of the bridegroom, was best man.

Ushers included Mark Miller, Don McCloud and George Ambrose, all of Wendell; Mike Eaton, Boise, and Ray Hansen, Glenn Ferry, friends of the bride.

Mrs. Glenn Bright, Wendell, played traditional wedding music preceding the ceremony. Bruce Fagg, soloist, sang, accompanied by Mrs. Bright on the organ.

A buffet reception honoring the newlyweds was held in the social hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered white cake with fresh white daisy arrangements on the top and in the middle of the cake. It was created and baked by Mrs. Evelyn Davis, Wendell. The tablecloth was white lace with a pastel underskirt. The appointments were a crystal punch bowl, silver coffee service, bouquets of white daisies and crystal nut and mint dishes.

Mrs. Janet Dennis, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, presided over the ceremony. She attended the guest book. Kathy Messick, Karen Briggs and Cheryl Higa, all of Pocatello, were bridesmaids.

After a honeymoon trip through eastern Idaho the young couple plans to live in Pocatello where Dennis is a senior at the Idaho State University. He is majoring in marketing in the college of business. He belongs to the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity and is on the ISU football team.

The bride is a graduate of the ISU Cosmetology Department and is employed at Dorothy's House of Beauty in Pocatello.

Out-of-town guests were from Nevada, California, Oregon, Idaho Falls, Pocatello, Boise, Fairfield, Halley, Hagerman, Jerome and Twin Falls.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at their home in Wendell.

Britain sex law changes suggested by committee

LONDON (UPI) — The difference between streaking and indecent exposure in Britain should be roughly $180 and three months in jail, according to a government committee recommendation.

A Home Office committee report on changes in Britain's sex laws was released Wednesday. It suggested several changes in sex laws and the government of Prime Minister James Callaghan has accepted them in principle.

"We think there is a case for trying to distinguish sexual activities — exposure — from streaking etcetera, both to prevent dilution of the concept of the former as a sexual offense and to avoid for the relatively innocent prankster the stigma of conviction for indecent exposure," the report said.

It suggested $180 fines and three months in jail for indecent exposure, but only nominal fines for streakers.

The report also suggested listing as new offenses dealing with female nudity in public in circumstances likely to offend others.

"Our own view is that some sanction against women appearing naked in public is necessary, given the volatile state of social mores and the numbers of people still likely to be strongly offended by such conduct," it says.

"For example, it would be absurd if a couple were sunbathing in a public place and causing offense to others if the woman was nude, but the woman was immune," the report said.

The committee turned down a suggestion to extend the offense of indecent exposure by men to cover both sexes and said, "The anatomical differences are an obvious obstacle."

Male motorists convicted of "curb crawling" — driving slowly along a street in an attempt to pick up women for sex purposes should be fined, $180 or jailed for three months, or both, the report said.

The report opposed proposals to extend laws covering prostitution to men as well as women since a section of the Sexual Offenses Act of 1956 is available against male prostitutes.

It said male prostitutes who make themselves available to women do not solicit or "litter obscenity in the streets."

But it suggested increased fines for street prostitutes to $45 for a first offense.

The committee suggested banning indecent movie posters showing peepshow machines showing pornography, with violations carrying $720 fines, and or three months in jail.

On laws relating to vagrancy it said provisions relating to fortune-tellers, peddlers and other obsolete offenses should be abolished and not replaced.

Anyone convicted of causing a nuisance by sleeping in the street or begging should be liable to a maximum penalty of $30 and or one month in jail, it proposed.

The laws on vagrancy date back to 1824, and even those had their origins in laws of the 14th Century.

another club. Lo and behold East, who had dropped the jack on the first club, played the queen this time and South was in business.

He led the good 10 of clubs. East made his best play by ruffing with the 10 of trumps and South carefully undertruffed. This left East on lead with the last diamond and the Jack of spades. South held the queen of hearts and queen of spades while North held a spade, heart and club.

If East led a trump, South would just take the last three tricks. If he led the last diamond, South would discard his high heart, ruff in dummy and claim.

Activities for 'seniors' outlined

TWIN FALLS — Thomas L. Moreland, area planner and director of the senior citizen program at the College of Southern Idaho, last week addressed about 80 retired Magic Valley teachers at the Turf Club.

Other programs for senior citizens in the area include a low-cost Meals on Wheels program and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) which currently involves 255 Magic Valley residents. Volunteers are needed to teach ceramics, knitting, woodwork, painting and other crafts.

Moreland encouraged participating in the existing programs, adding that he and his associates will advise anyone who would like to set up additional programs under guidelines established by the 1965 Older Americans Act.

They are the only Assemblies of God missionaries for the 300 inhabited islands and the one and a fourth million people in this region, and they serve as advisers to the denomination's churches in their district.

In addition, Cavanaugh is co-director of the Sekolah Teoretik, a Bible school of the Assemblies of God Bible School on the island of Ambon, and both he and Mrs. Cavanaugh teach at the school. They were also involved in Bible school work, literature publication and evangelism.

On their return to the mission field, Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh will resume their activities in Indonesia.

President seeks Catholic support

© Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — Bidding for support from Roman Catholic bishops and voters, President Ford says abortion should be a campaign issue.

He claimed he is more up-to-date than Jimmy Carter.

Ford challenged Carter's statement that "both presidential candidates are equally anti-abortion." "This position and mine are not identical," Ford said yesterday. "I don't think the American people expect candidates for office to duck any issues just because they are intense."

Ford reiterated that he favors a constitutional amendment giving states the right to set their own abortion policies. Carter opposes any amendment, but defends the right of citizens to seek enactment of one.

A spokesman for the National Conference of Roman Catholic Bishops, which favors a constitutional amendment banning all abortions, said Ford's position "is closer to ours" than Carter's "but we are not completely satisfied."

The spokesman, Russell Shaw, said the bishops disagree with Ford on other issues, including economics, food policy and relations with dictators abroad, and have no intention of endorsing either candidate. Leading bishops are to meet with Ford tomorrow, as they did with Carter last week.

Continuing to campaign by staying close to home, while Carter tours the country, Ford made these other points in an outdoor press conference at the White House.

Carter "trip-topped" and showed "lack of compassion" in criticizing FBI director Clarence M. Kelley's receipt of government "paid" furnishings for his Washington apartment.

"I hope that Gov. Carter understands the 'terminal cancer' at the time of the cabinet and window valances were installed," Ford said. "Ford contended that Carter contradicted himself in saying that Kelley should be fired, but refusing to commit himself to fire Kelley if elected President."

Despite a rise in the unemployment rate for three straight months, "The American people are more knowledgeable, more sophisticated" than he held Ford responsible politically.

"They know that employment is going up every month," he said.

Prospects are "gradually improving" for a strategic arms agreement with the Soviet Union, perhaps before the November election.

"The decision on whether such an agreement is signed will have no relevance whatsoever to this current political campaign. We hope that such an agreement can be achieved as soon as possible."

Poor attendance charged by Kress

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Second District Democratic Congressional candidate Stan Kress began his general election campaign in Twin Falls by charging incumbent George Hansen "has missed more votes in the House Banking, Currency and Housing Committee than he has cast."

Kress, who has been campaigning at the Twin Falls County Fair, said, "The people elected George Hansen to go to Washington to do a job. That job has not been getting done. During the first 18 months of the 94th Congress Hansen was absent from 58 per cent of the roll call votes in his major committee."

"Only two congressmen on the committee missed more votes and 37 of the 40 committee members serving full terms have a better attendance record," Kress charged. "George Hansen certainly does not have a record of conscientiousness on Capitol Hill that Idaho can be proud of."

Hansen responded to Kress' charges in the same caustic manner that the charges were made.

"He is obviously way off base," Hansen said. "He doesn't understand how the system works. There are a lot of things that need to be done for your state and they don't all happen in one committee."

Hansen's explanation for his imperfect attendance—record—at the House Banking, Currency and Housing Committee was that he has assignments with many committees, and task forces often meet at the same time.

He says it's impossible to attend all the committee meetings at once.

"You have to go where the action is," Hansen said. "Anybody who is just trying to run up an attendance record is probably missing a lot of action that's for the good of his state."

"There are a lot of things that need to be done for your state, and they don't all happen in one committee," Hansen said.

committee," Hansen said.

Hansen stated what one gets done is what actually counts, and then he added, "My attendance on the house floor has been well over 90 per cent for the first session, and I am always available for business in committee."

The Kress camp struck firmly to their charges after Hansen's response.

Chris Smith, a press secretary at Kress Headquarters in Pocatello, asked why so many other members of the Banking, Currency and Housing Committee are able to have such a significantly better attendance record than Hansen.

Kress criticized Hansen campaign literature which stresses the incumbent's record on the committee. In Hansen's campaign brochures the congressman emphasizes his membership on the "powerful banking committee."

One brochure states, "Hansen's votes turn the tide." On at least four occasions in the banking committee the American public has been protected from serious distortion of our credit and monetary systems by a one-vote margin—George Hansen is that vote."

Kress charges, "In his propaganda Hansen says on four major occasions he cast the deciding vote on the committee."

"What Mr. Hansen is not telling the people is that on another five occasions when he was not there, issues were decided by either ties or one-vote margins. If Mr. Hansen had been in attendance the people of Idaho could have had a major voice in making twice the number of decisions."

Kress continued his attack saying, "Congressman Hansen particularly let the people down when it came to voting on matters to report bills out of the committee to the whole House of Representatives for a vote. During the committee's 25 sessions 25 motions to report bills to the house were offered. Mr. Hansen missed 13 of those votes and of the 12 times he voted he voted 7 times against the majority."

Judges' salaries too low: Kramer

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — The quality of judges in Idaho will decline unless judges get paid higher salaries. Fifth District Judge Douglas Kramer charged today.

Two other district judges in Magic Valley echoed Kramer's feelings which are in a letter sent to Idaho legislators and county commissioners.

"I felt it was about time that the facts were pointed out," Kramer said today. "Kramer said Magic Valley judges now receive $28,500 per year and magistrate judges $23,000 per year. He said a person with about the same legal background could make two to three times that amount in private practice as a lawyer."

In a letter addressed to legislators, the magistrate's commission, county commissioners, candidates and judges, Kramer says by the year 2000 another three district judges and nine magistrate judges will be needed.

"Since Idaho's judicial salaries are 40th from the top in the nation, it is probable that we will be able to attract the same caliber of people in the future unless more serious consideration is given to judicial pay," the letter says.

Each of the four Fifth District judges in the Magic Valley handled about 350 cases last year, according to Kramer. Judges should receive a higher salary because of such a heavy caseload, he said.

Fifth District Judge Sherman J. Bellwood, Rupert, said today he "is in complete agreement" with Kramer's letter.

When asked why he thought judges should be paid more, Bellwood said the public "is working us too hard."

Bellwood said he is aware legislators gave judges a $1,500 pay raise effective July 1, but complained judges will only "keep a little over $100 of that."

The rest will be eaten up in taxes, he said. Fifth District Judge Theron Ward, Twin Falls, said, "Those are Judge Kramer's ideas and I don't disagree."

"I guess everyone would like to get a pay raise," Ward said, but added he's "not dissatisfied" with his salary.

Ward said he preferred not to comment further. Fifth District Judge James M. Cunningham, Twin Falls, could not be reached for comment.

Kramer also notes in his letter that district judges in other areas often receive aid from county personnel which judges in the Fifth District don't receive.

"In the Ada County area, for example, all the district judges each now have law clerks, secretaries and bailiffs to help," the letter says.

"The judges in the Ada County area are very efficient at saving taxpayers' money," and the judicial system in the long-run saves the public money in crime prevention.

Responding to criticism that the courts are "too lenient" in the field of criminal law, Kramer says locking criminals up does not seem to be the whole answer.

"What I'm suggesting is that crime continues to increase even though we put more people in jails, and therefore more jails doesn't appear to be the answer," he says.

He points to the success probation and parole systems have had in the past.

GOP hopeful will move

GOODING — The Republican candidate for first district Gooding County commissioner said Thursday he will move into the district from the second district before Oct. 2 to stay in the race.

"I'm going to move, and I'm going to run," says Donald "Jim" Wilkins, a local Realtor who lives south of Gooding in an area that was part of the first district until January.

Wilkins said, "a lot of confusion" arose out of boundary changes affecting the three commission districts in Gooding County.

He found out after winning the nomination in August that he lived outside the district.

Gooding County Clerk Margaret Clements informed him he could still qualify for the general election in November if he moved into the district at least 30 days prior to the election.

The county clerk said Thursday Wilkins has not yet informed her of his decision to move into the first district.

Wilkins is opposed by Thelma Ferguson, who is running as an independent, and by Democrat Robert R. Fredericksen.

Minidoka zoners criticize concrete plant proposal

By SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer

RUPERT — A proposed dry-mix concrete plant ran into criticism Thursday night by members of the Minidoka County Zoning Commission.

A trucking company which objected to the plant is also facing heavy investigation by the county zoning administrator.

Western Dry Mix, Inc., Salt Lake City, last week asked for a change of zoning on two acres of residential-agricultural land to allow industrial use in the north end of the area.

A representative of the Wilcox Shave Frozen Food plant appeared at the Minidoka County Planning Commission meeting last week, and strongly objected to the additional heavy trucking use the road serving the area would receive.

Shaw maintains a truck turn-around terminal in County Zoning Administrator William McClung said Thursday he has checked several years of building permits and cannot find record of a permit for the terminal building.

Zoning commission member Alex Rohmer said he could not recall the trucking company ever appearing before the zoning commission.

He said, "I just went by one day and there was a building and some trucks."

Henry Schodde, another member of the firm, said he was sure the trucking firm had not brought the industrial use before the zoning commission for approval. He said the terminal has been there for eight years or more, but definitely came after Minidoka County passed its zoning ordinance.

The zoning commission has not formally received the request for the zoning change, but discussed the matter, which came before the planning commission last week.

Chairman Roy Williams called the area a "poor place for industrial" use. He said he might agree to a commercial establishment, but could not support any further industrial development there.

Schodde agreed the rezoning would center industrial plants in a basically residential and agricultural area.

Commission member Art Smith commented that the dry-mix company had agreed to purchase the property only if the zoning change could be obtained.

Few flowers shown at fair

FILER — Flower displays, usually among the major attractions during the first several days of the Twin Falls County Fair, just aren't up to par this year.

Department superintendents say creative weather throughout the current season and damaging hailstorms hit flower growers hard this year.

Hall in both the Castleford and Kimberly areas wiped out some of the flowers which were carefully being grown for flower exhibits and superintendents the flower show say a number of organizations which normally prepare booths have not exhibited this year.

Mrs. Floyd Hendy, Twin Falls, longtime member of the Rowland-Blossing Club, said the organization has a good rose booth this year. She said some of her own flowers are not as good as usual but others have turned out well including some experimental lilies she hopes to have ready for exhibit next year.

Fair goers say the flowers which are exhibited are good but the numbers and varieties are less.

Geraldine Williams, member of the Twin Falls Garden Club, said the club did not enter a booth this year, but a number of individuals worked up flower displays. She and Maxine Nelson prepared a special Bicentennial exhibit of red, white and blue flowers at the rear of the produce building, which has brought many commitments to the department.

Lone gunman robs Heyburn couple

HEYBURN — A lone gunman held up a Heyburn couple in their bedroom this morning and got away with more than $100.

Charles and Nancy Vincent were awakened in their home at the Starlite Motel about 2:10 a.m. The bandit was masked and carried a revolver. He was described as white and about 30 years old.

The Vincents told Minidoka County Sheriff's deputies the gunman walked into the unlocked house and robbed them in their bedroom. They said they did not see any car which the culprit might have used.

The loot included a $100 bill and other money.

'Ketchum Tomorrow' hearing set

HAILEY — A hearing is scheduled in Fifth District Court today to appoint a guardian to manage the 60 per cent interest in Ketchum Tomorrow and the estate of missing Ketchum newspaper publisher Sam Sullivan.

Larry Sullivan, father of the 32-year-old publisher, has petitioned the court for the guardianship.

Sam Sullivan has been missing for over a month after disappearing Aug. 3. The only clues to his location have been two American Express credit card vouchers from Minneapolis, Minn., bearing Sullivan's signature.

One voucher was dated Aug. 5, two days after Sullivan disappeared for a hotel room in Minneapolis.

The other voucher was dated Aug. 21, according to a reliable source, for a room in a Holiday Inn there.

Reportedly, two people occupied the room.

The company pickup, last seen being driven by Sullivan, was found in Missoula, Mont.

Bellevue liquor agency gets nod

BELLEVUE — The Bellevue City Council has given permission for a local man and woman to open a state liquor agency in the old post office here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Guffy, Bellevue, told the council they have received permission from the state to operate an agency.

The council gave permission to the two Bellevue residents to sell beer and wine as well as bottled hard liquor supplied by the state.

Some of the money spent at the agency will be returned to the city treasury from liquor taxes.

Guffy said a liquor dispensary differs from a liquor agency. As an agency, Guffy will receive a salary based on the percentage of liquor he sells rather than have a set salary under a dispensary operation.

The two also told the council they would like to put in a flower shop in the post office.

Guffy will remodel the old post office, a historical landmark in Blaine County, this fall.

Soleitors need sanction

TWIN FALLS — If some children come to your door to collect for Easter Seals, make sure they are properly sanctioned and if they are not, tell them to go to the Easter Seal Center for sanctioning.

"We don't do door-to-door collecting this time of year," said Merle Stoddard, Easter Seal Center official.

She said reports had reached the center Thursday that small children were collecting money from residents in a can with "Easter Seal" written on it.

But the children are not properly sanctioned by the Easter Seal Center, according to Mrs. Stoddard.

"Sometimes we have had little children come in and give us some money and say they collected it for us," Mrs. Stoddard said.

She said she did not want to discourage children from collecting money for the center. However, she said she wants residents to inform children of proper collection procedures.

"People should know that when somebody comes to the door," she said, "to tell them to call the Easter Seal Center and get sanctioned."

Lincoln planners slate meet

SHOSHONE — The Lincoln County Planning Commission has completed work on subdivision ordinances for the county and will present them to the public at a hearing today, at 8 p.m. at the courtroom in Shoshone.

The planning commission is composed of people from the county who were appointed by the Board of County Commissioners to act without pay. Those people, according to their secretary, Joyce Bernard, have spent many long hard hours to do the job.

They urge people and the county to attend this meeting to learn what has been done and why, and to state their position on the matter.

The commission hopes the courtroom will be filled to capacity.

Windy politics

DEMOCRATIC congressional candidate Stan Kress blew up about 1,000 balloons Thursday at the Twin Falls County Fair. In the meantime, Kress took a shot at Rep. George Hansen, claiming Hansen wasn't a conscientious member of the House Banking Committee.

Cuzco, Peru—a capital of the Inca Empire dating from 11th century—is the Western Hemisphere's oldest city.

Beetles turn up

RAMSGATE, England (UPI)—A colony of 150 Colorado beetles was discovered in a potato field on the English Channel coast Monday, the first time the pest has appeared in this country for 24 years.

The insect, which can reproduce at the rate of 500 a month and ravage potato crops, is rife in France. Agriculture Ministry officials discovered the black and yellow insects during a routine check at a potato farm. The area was sprayed from the air with a powerful insecticide.

The officials believe the insects were carried into England accidentally by automobiles using the nearby cross-channel hovercraft service and thrived during Britain's unusually hot, dry summer.

AUCTION CALENDAR

TF gun club sets 'sight-in' day

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Rifle and Pistol Club will hold a sighting-in day for all area hunters 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Club members will be on hand all day to help hunters properly sight-in their rifles.

The service is part of a nationwide program conducted by the National Rifle Association. A correctly sighted-in rifle is an important step to safe and accurate shooting and increases the percentage of clean kills, says Mr. Marvin Poulos, secretary-treasurer of the local club.

Detailed information on sighting-in techniques and firing points for zeroing in will be available at the range.

Hunters are requested to have all firearms unloaded and actions open when entering the range area.

To help defray range expenses, a fee of $1 per gun will be charged.

KC denies trade of Archibald to Nets

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Kansas City coach Phil Johnson denied Tuesday night the Kings and the New York Nets have agreed to a trade involving the Kings' star, Archie Archibald.

Johnson said the two teams have been talking about a swap.

A New York Nets official also denied a deal had been made, at the same time confirming talks were under way.

"We have had lengthy discussions with New York," Johnson said. "That's about all I can tell you at this point."

"There won't be any announcement tomorrow unless something goes a lot faster than I think."

Johnson said Kansas City general manager Joe Axelson was in New York Thursday night.

Archibald, a native of New York, had asked to be traded to the New York Knicks last year. The diminutive Archibald, nicknamed "Tiny," made the National Basketball Association's All-Star team last season and has been one of the league's leading scorers the past few seasons.

BSU's hopes for fourth title, Vandals' dream of big year ride on Saturday tilt

BOISE — A pair of sophomores will carry the burden for the opening football game of the season for the Boise State Broncos and the University of Idaho Vandals Saturday night in BSU's Bronco Stadium.

Dee Pickel, a 6-1, 186 lb. quarterback from Caldwell, Idaho will start for coach Jim Criner's Broncos. Rocky Tuttle, 6-0, 180 lbs. from Gold Beach, Oregon will get the nod from Idaho head coach Ed Troxel.

The game, which is a sellout, with 20,000 fans expected, will start at 7:30 p.m.

The series record between the two schools stands at 3-1-1 in favor of the Broncos. Last year in Moscow, the game ended in a 31-31 tie. Boise State will be starting a quest for its fourth Big Sky football title. Last year, the Broncos were 5-0-1 in league action and 9-2-1 for the season counting their NCAA playoff loss to Northern Michigan. The Idaho Vandals finished fifth in the Big Sky in 1975 with a 3-2-2 mark. They were 4-2-2 for the year.

"The team and the coaching staff are very excited that the opening game is finally here," Criner said. "The Idaho Vandals are a very fine team, and we've worked hard in preparing for the game. We're concerned about testing our inexperienced defensive line against a very big offensive line of the Vandals. We will be playing against a much bigger and more physical team, and I'm worried about controlling the line of scrimmage," he said.

"If we are to beat the Vandals, it must be done with proper fundamentals and techniques. You must have balance in your attack. You have to keep them off-balance so they can't use their size to their advantage," Criner said.

The new Bronco head coach will begin his first game as a collegiate head coach with an offensive lineup of three seniors, five juniors, two sophomores and one freshman.

There are five letterman in that group. They are Mike Holton, wide receiver, Sal Falla, wide tackle; Everett Carr, strong guard; Terry Hunt, wide receiver and Fred Goode, running back. On defense the Broncos will have four seniors, three juniors, three sophomores, and one freshman starting. Among that group will be light varsity letterman. They are Alva Liles, noseguard; Larry Polowski, Dave Williams, Kirk Strawser, and Kauli Hooking, all linebackers; Lester McNeely and Gary Rosolovich, cornerbacks; and Sam Miller at strong safety.

Idaho State begins Big Sky loop race at Northern Arizona

POCAHELLO — "We've practiced long enough," says ISU football coach Joe Pascale. "It's time to get into a game. We don't know how good our team is, and it's time to find out."

Pascale will find out Saturday in Flagstaff when the Idaho State University Bengals challenge Northern Arizona at the historic Lumberjack Stadium at 2:30 Mountain time.

KSEL Radio and the Bendal Network will carry the opener and all ISU football contests. Larry Kekenode mikeside. Saturday's sports-cast starts at 2:10 in Idaho.

As anxious as Pascale is to have a game, his players are just as anxious. "We've been working since August 18th," Pascale says. "and it's always more fun to play a game and get into the season than to practice every day. The team is in real good condition. Our days of pounding the turf 30 minutes a day for conditioning are over."

Pascale says ISU will be minus only one

MOSCOW — Is 1976 the Year of the Vandals? University of Idaho football fans believe this is the year their team will put it all together and register a winning season and lay claim to the Big Sky Conference football championship.

The defending champions—Boise State's Broncos—are hoping to set an unprecedented record by winning four straight league titles. However, if they are to do so this year, they must do it with a new coaching staff and a revamped lineup.

Both teams will get an opportunity to take a giant step toward a successful campaign when they square off against each other in the state's capital city on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. (MDT). A sellout crowd of 20,000 fans is expected for the Sept. 11 opener at Bronco Stadium.

"We'll be ready for this one," Idaho mentor Ed Troxel said as he looked to the start of his third campaign as the head coach in the Palouse Country. "Our people have worked very hard in preparing for this season, but more importantly for this week's opener."

"I am enthusiastic about the progress of both units," Troxel noted. "The strength of our defense will be our key in the game against Boise. They have great skill people who are three to 15 yards from anywhere on the football field and who must be contained."

The silver and gold leader is concerned about playing such a stiff opener without knowing too much about the opposition.

"They have a new coaching staff which I am sure will provide the program with new philosophy on the game," the Vandal boss said. "They are going to face us with new personnel and a new offensive offense. They'll definitely have an edge on game preparations since they should have a good book on our program which we installed three years ago."

Jim Brown, who replaced former head coach stand-out Tony Knap as head coach for the Broncos last February, has decided to start sophomore Dee Pickel from Caldwell rather than senior Greg Stern from Coeur d'Alene.

Troxel is impressed with both athletes. "We don't know too much about (Dee) Pickel since he joined the program in the spring after playing JC ball at Walla Walla (Wash.) Community College last fall. I remember seeing him play high school ball and was tremendously impressed with his talents."

"Pickel is more of a scrambler, the type that makes things happen. Stern is a better pure passer, who has good speed and is a very strong runner," the UI coach added.

The silver and gold also will have a new field general this year. All-Big Sky quarterback Dave Cismock has graduated to low school at Gonzaga University — and his backup — Ron Schrom has given up the sport to concentrate on professional baseball career.

The opening nod is up for grabs but sophomore Rocky Tuttle from Gold Beach, Ore., has the apparent edge entering the final week of preparations. The 6-0, 180-pound athlete came on strong last spring and finished the workout with a 170-yard effort in the Silver-Gold Bowl.

Tuttle is a more exciting runner than his teammate Craig Juntunen, a junior college transfer from California. Juntunen, a 6-2, 190-pound native of Saratoga, Calif., is a better passer although Tuttle has shown marked improvement this fall.

Dankworth-led UCLA tarnishes Arizona State's 7th ranking

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Senior quarterback Jeff Dankworth, in the fourth start of his collegiate career and first since 1974, ran for 155 yards and scored two touchdowns to lead 14th ranked UCLA to a 20-10 upset of No. 7 Arizona State in the opener for both teams Thursday night.

Sophomore Theotis Brown added a pair of touchdowns as Terry Donahue became the first Bruin head coach since 1949 to have been selected to win his debut—Brown finished with 127 yards on 22 carries.

Dankworth, backup to John Schlarra in 1975 after starting three games in 1974—came out running the option at the Sun Devils, who were undefeated and second ranked at the end of last season. He had 102 yards, five short of his 1975 total, and touchdowns of 32 and 15 yards, both at the end of 80 yard drives, for a 14-3 lead by halftime.

Brown took over the Bruins' scoring in the third quarter. He climaxed a 79-yard drive with a three-yard run with 8:20 remaining. Dankworth contributed a 44-yard run to launch the drive after recovery from the fumble.

A short time later, after Harold Hardin intercepted a pass at the UCLA 40, Brown capped a 60-yard drive — engineered by Dankworth's replacement, Steve Buehler — with a 26-yard, sprint-around right end.

Frank Corral kicked all four extra points for the Bruins.

December 'bad blood' flows on NFL's first weekend

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The bad blood usually reserved for December will flow early this season.

The Pittsburgh Steelers and the Oakland Raiders, who have waged some of the epic battles in National Football League playoff competition, get to tangle early as the 1976 season starts.

Sunday

The Steelers are opening their bid for an unprecedented third straight Super Bowl title while the Raiders are looking for their fifth straight. Pittsburgh is a three-point favorite.

The clubs last met in the bitter cold of Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium last January, with the Steelers winning 16-10 for the AFC title.

But neither team had improved this season. Terry Bradshaw was superb in leading the Steelers to a 41-6 romp past the New York Jets in the final exhibition game last week, hitting 17 of 20 passes for 245 yards and two touchdowns.

"Oakland couldn't be a better test for us," said Bradshaw. "We're going out to their place to play under the most adverse conditions you can imagine. We've beaten them a couple of times in key games in the past couple of years, so you know they're going to be up for the game. They're going to be looking for blood, really, they're high."

"I think it's a good way for our club to open. We have to play them—we can't change the schedule—and their training isn't any further advanced than ours. We—I'm just rarin' to go. I'm tired of the exhibition season. I want to play some games that count."

The rest of the American Conference schedule Sunday has Baltimore at New England, Denver at Cincinnati, the New York Jets at Cleveland, San Diego at Kansas City and Tampa Bay at Houston. In the NFC, Detroit is at Chicago, Los Angeles at Atlanta, Minnesota at New Orleans, the New York Giants at Washington, Philadelphia at Dallas, St. Louis at Seattle and San Francisco at Green Bay. Miami is at Buffalo in the first nationally televised Monday night game.

Sunday marks the official debut of the NFL's two new franchises, Tampa Bay and Seattle. John McKay heads the Tampa club and Jack Patra is in charge of the Seahawks.

Five other coaches also will be making their debuts: Sunday Hank Stram at New Orleans, Lou Holtz with the Jets, Dick Vermeil in Philadelphia, Bill Johnson for Cleveland and Monte Clark at San Francisco.

In late developments Thursday, the attorney for Jim "Yazoo" Smith said that a federal judge's ruling striking down the NFL's college player draft could lead to successful lawsuits by every player drafted in the past four years.

U.S. District Court Judge William B. Bryant ruled Wednesday that Smith, Washington's No. 1 draft pick in 1967, was entitled to treble damages totaling $276,000 from the league and the Redskins plus court costs.

Bryant called the NFL draft system an outright refusal to deal with college stars chosen by the 28 pro teams, and therefore a "most pernicious" anti-trust violation.

"Any player drafted in the last four years has a potential lawsuit if he has a grievance," said Smith's attorney, Stewart H. Johnson of Washington.

The statute of limitations would preclude suits from players drafted earlier, he said.

Also, running back Alvin Taylor, traded to Houston last month, failed his physical with the Oilers and was returned to Detroit.

Three share lead in world golf tourney

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI) — Tom Watson, George Burns, and Bob Smith, all looking for their first tournament victories this year, fired six-under-par 65s Thursday to share the first round lead in the $200,000 World Open golf tournament.

Burns and Smith, neither of whom have ever won a tournament, said their rounds included some of the best golf they have ever played.

Watson, winless since taking the Byron Nelson Golf Classic and the British Open last year, said, "It really wasn't my greatest round of golf, but I got the most out of it."

One stroke behind the leaders were Gary Brewer and Forrest Frazier. Another three-way tie developed at 67 with U.S. and Canadian Open winner Jerry Pate, Jerry McGee and David Graham all negotiating the 7,007-yard, par-71 Pinehurst No. 2 course at four-under-par.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus went three-over-par on the front nine and ended up one at 72.

Masters champ Tony Fland was grouped among six golfers at 69. PGA winner Dave Stockton had an even-par 71, and Hale Irwin was among five golfers at 68.

The midweek rounds are probably the best time holes I've ever played in my life," said a learning Smith as he recounted the round.

Smith had seven birdies and finished the round with only 25 putts. He had 12 one-putts, one of them from 45 feet out. "Every time I looked up my caddy was going to the hole to get the ball, saying 'good putt,'" Smith said.

Burns had nine birdies and three bogeys. He hit consistently close to the pin on approach shots, but also made birdie putts of 15, 17 and 12 feet.

Sunday

The Steelers are opening their bid for an unprecedented third straight Super Bowl title while the Raiders are looking for their fifth straight. Pittsburgh is a three-point favorite.

The clubs last met in the bitter cold of Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium last January, with the Steelers winning 16-10 for the AFC title.

But neither team had improved this season. Terry Bradshaw was superb in leading the Steelers to a 41-6 romp past the New York Jets in the final exhibition game last week, hitting 17 of 20 passes for 245 yards and two touchdowns.

"Oakland couldn't be a better test for us," said Bradshaw. "We're going out to their place to play under the most adverse conditions you can imagine. We've beaten them a couple of times in key games in the past couple of years, so you know they're going to be up for the game. They're going to be looking for blood, really, they're high."

"I think it's a good way for our club to open. We have to play them—we can't change the schedule—and their training isn't any further advanced than ours. We—I'm just rarin' to go. I'm tired of the exhibition season. I want to play some games that count."

The rest of the American Conference schedule Sunday has Baltimore at New England, Denver at Cincinnati, the New York Jets at Cleveland, San Diego at Kansas City and Tampa Bay at Houston. In the NFC, Detroit is at Chicago, Los Angeles at Atlanta, Minnesota at New Orleans, the New York Giants at Washington, Philadelphia at Dallas, St. Louis at Seattle and San Francisco at Green Bay. Miami is at Buffalo in the first nationally televised Monday night game.

Sunday marks the official debut of the NFL's two new franchises, Tampa Bay and Seattle. John McKay heads the Tampa club and Jack Patra is in charge of the Seahawks.

Five other coaches also will be making their debuts: Sunday Hank Stram at New Orleans, Lou Holtz with the Jets, Dick Vermeil in Philadelphia, Bill Johnson for Cleveland and Monte Clark at San Francisco.

In late developments Thursday, the attorney for Jim "Yazoo" Smith said that a federal judge's ruling striking down the NFL's college player draft could lead to successful lawsuits by every player drafted in the past four years.

U.S. District Court Judge William B. Bryant ruled Wednesday that Smith, Washington's No. 1 draft pick in 1967, was entitled to treble damages totaling $276,000 from the league and the Redskins plus court costs.

Bryant called the NFL draft system an outright refusal to deal with college stars chosen by the 28 pro teams, and therefore a "most pernicious" anti-trust violation.

"Any player drafted in the last four years has a potential lawsuit if he has a grievance," said Smith's attorney, Stewart H. Johnson of Washington.

The statute of limitations would preclude suits from players drafted earlier, he said.

Also, running back Alvin Taylor, traded to Houston last month, failed his physical with the Oilers and was returned to Detroit.

FILER — Dale Machau of Redmond, Ore., turned in a sharp 70-point ride on Little Ole Thursday night to take the lead in the bull riding for the Twin Falls County rodeo.

Nastase advances into semi-finals

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Nobody but Ilie Nastase will ever know whether his complaining at a crucial point in his match with Dick Stockton was a premeditated "psyche" but it sent the enigmatic Romanian rolling toward a 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4 victory Thursday and a semifinal showdown with Bjorn Borg at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

The second-seeded Borg, who defeated Nastase for the Wimbledon title, held off a charging Manuel Orantes, the defending champion and sixth seed, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4. In a match in which Borg's youth, speed and iron nerve led him to survive the affable Spaniard's comeback from 0-4 in the fourth set.

In the other semifinal, topspeeded Jimmy Connors, 1974 champion and the only American survivor in the last four, meets third-seeded Guillermo Vilas.

Friday's semifinals in the women's bracket have Chris Evert and Mima Jausovic in one match and Evonne Goolagong and Dianne Fromholtz in the other. Both men's semifinal matches will be held Saturday afternoon.

With Stockton serving at 15:11 in the 10th game to stay in the set—the games went to service through the first nine—Nastase reproached the photographers for the first time. Stockton got to 40-30, then to advantage, but Nastase brought it back to deuce with a winner.

Nastase continued to complain, while Stockton stood ready to serve again. Stockton then served a doublefault and on the next point, Nastase hit a blistering backhand cross-court to break the break and the set.

Stockton, who beat Nastase at a similar stage at Wimbledon in 1974, admitted his concentration had been broken.

"I think his timing was pretty poor. I had to play with the same photographers and they bothered me. You don't like them being where they are but that's where the photographers always sit," said Stockton.

Asked if he thought Nastase's action was deliberate, Stockton said, "You'll have to ask him. But I hope not."

Nastase declined to discuss the incident.

"I have put everything out of mind," he said. "I'm not going to say anything to anyone. I'm going to try and win with my racket."

The 30-year-old Romanian said he feels he is playing well enough to win the tournament and the $30,000 top prize.

"I like the court. It's faster than it used to be and faster than I was in Europe."

The losing quarterfinalists each received $3,500.

Camp security stirs animosity

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) — An uneasy peace has been established between the security guard, the police and the campers at the Grossinger camp.

All-in challenger Ken Norton, training at Grossinger's for his "rubber match" with Ali in New York's Yankee Stadium on Sept. 28, has set up strict security precautions. Higher than measures ever encountered by the Ali entourage.

The first day Ali spent at his nearby Concord Hotel training site, two carloads of his company, wearing ten-gallon hats purchased at their previous Arizona camp, pulled up to Norton's camp as the challenger was about to start his session.

Ready for any possible invasion, Bob Adams, a Los Angeles Police Department security aide for Mayor Bradley on loan to Norton, headed them off before they could get into the training quarters.

"You're all going to have to leave," said Adams firmly. "I don't mean you can stay outside. You'll have to get off the premises!"

The crew stamped the dirt, knocked on windows and screamed in a fashion only associated with Ali and his company. After another bit of friendly persuasion from Adams, fellow security men took Adams and a uniformed security guard they departed.

The following day, a pair from Ali's camp came by to greet Norton. Again, they met with stern security measures, now in the form of a barrier at the parking lot entrance with a uniformed guard.

"Nobody in here but guests or press with proper credentials," stated the guard firmly.

That same evening, Angelo Dundee, Jimmy Ellis and Gene Kilroy from Ali's camp drove to Norton's hotel to see a stage show. They were stopped at the main gate and denied entrance on the grounds of the huge complex.

"What is going on here?" asked Dundee, who really wanted to see the show. "This is ridiculous. Norton's not working out now, we're not here to see him."

"We have our orders, Mr. Dundee," stated the security man. "Bill (Norton) told us that no Ali personnel are to be allowed on the grounds. There will be no exception."

Bill Norton's trainer, confirmed that this policy has been established and will be strictly enforced.

"I don't care what they want here," stated Slattery.

Wicher, King lead Pilots to 34-0 win

GLENNES FERRY—Seniors Tom Wicher and Kevin King scored twice each Thursday night to lead the Glenns Ferry Pilots past the Mountain Home Jayvees 34-0.

While Glenns Ferry's defense didn't allow the young Tigers anything in the way of a threat, the offense moved the ball well.

Wicher scored on runs of 35 and eight yards while King scored on a 30-yard rollout and added another on a seven-yard quarterback sneak.

Larry Crane got another Glenns Ferry touchdown on a 20-yard game romp and Rowdy Steen, who quarterbacked for two quarters, picked up a fourth-quarter touchdown on a sneak.

King booted four of five points after.

Gooding beats Bliss

BLISS — The Gooding girls-volleyball team swept two matches from Bliss Thursday night.

The varsity collected its decision in straight 15-10 and 15-8 while the Jayvees were even more dominating, winning 15-0 and 15-3.

Gooding joins with Buhl for a triangular at Twin Falls Tuesday night.

TF sophs drop Boise

BOISE — Defense and misplays set up all the scoring Thursday afternoon when the Twin Falls sophomores dropped Boise's sophs 17-14.

Boise scored twice in the second period, moving 15 and 20 yards after a blocked punt and fumbled punt, respectively.

Twin Falls got one back in the second quarter when, after a fumble recovery, Mike Ferrell hit Curt Rosenow with a 30-yard touchdown pass. Bad snaps from center gave the young Bruins two safeties in the late third and early fourth quarters.

Twin Falls led 10-0 when Curtis Grant burst 70 yards in the final period, after another fumble recovery at about the Boise 20.

Decision nears deadline

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — The fate of six suspended Michigan State football players, hoping to be reinstated for the season opener Saturday against Ohio State, won't be decided until two hours before the Spartans leave for Columbus Friday.

A two-day federal court hearing on suits filed by the six players against the NCAA, the Big Ten and the MSU athletic department seeking to overturn the suspensions concluded late Thursday, but the judge said he would not issue a ruling until Friday morning.

Soviets drop U.S.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Boris Alexandrov scored a pair of goals Thursday night to lead the Soviet Union to a 5-0 rout of Team USA.

Alexandrov scored two goals and an assist, Vladimir Viktorov a goal and a 2-1 record and Viktor Zhukov a goal and an assist to give Russia a 2-1 record and kept alive the Soviets' playoff hopes going into their final tournament game Saturday night against Canada at Toronto.

Knieks buy McMillan

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks Thursday purchased forward Jim McMillan from the Buffalo Braves. The transaction was to be announced at a Friday press conference at Madison Square Garden.

McMillan, a 28-year-old former All-America at Columbia University, became expendable when the Braves selected Notre Dame's Adrian Danley in this year's college draft.

Cards thump Montreal 6-1

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Lynn McChotten pitched a four-hitter and drove in three runs with a pair of singles Thursday night to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-1 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Redlegs edge Astros in 11th

HOUSTON (UPI) — Second baseman Alex Taveras committed an error in his first major league game and pitcher Bob Bailey drove in the winning run in the 11th inning to lift the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros Thursday night.

Joe Morgan, whose two-run single in the ninth inning tied the score, at 3-3, scored the winning run in the 11th. With one out, Ken Griffey hit an easy roller to Taveras, and the rookie threw the ball to the dugout for a two-base error.

You've long known that bamboo is a kind of grass. But were you aware that some bamboo only blooms every 60 years? What's mysterious about such is why every member plant in those species no matter where in the world it will put out its blossoming tassels at exactly the same time.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "What's the preferred way to save turnips?"
A. Depends on the nationality. The Egyptians like them pickled. The Italians, stuffed. The Greeks, raw. The Chinese, stir-fried. The French, braised. And there are those who'd rather see them dished up as pork chops after having been fed to the pigs.

Q. "How many patents are there for perpetual motion machines?"
A. None. The law says you can't patent any device that doesn't work, that's why.

Q. "Which has the best chance statistically of making a success out of a second marriage, widow or a divorcee?"
A. A widow.

Q. "Do Siamese twins always go to sleep and wake up at the same time?"
A. No, unfortunately. Their internal clocks are not always in sync.

Fresh storm engulfs sanitation service

HEYBURN — Teal's Sanitation Service weathered a brief storm in Burley Tuesday night to run into hurricane warnings in Heyburn Wednesday.

The Burley City Council rejected a proposal 5-1 Tuesday to set a hearing on revocation of Teal's contract in that city for refuse disposal. But Teal's garbage crews ran into strong criticism Wednesday night in Heyburn. They were charged with consistently missing pickups, speeding through the city and even raiding local gardens.

Bill Teal's garbage crews ran into strong criticism Wednesday night in Heyburn. They were charged with consistently missing pickups, speeding through the city and even raiding local gardens. "The tomatoes, cucumbers and corn have just about disappeared," said Heyburn Mayor Harold Hurst, referring to city resident charges that the garbage crews had picked gardens in the city. Councilman Earl Rose and the city offices have received several complaints about the service. Rose said the trucks apparently are not picking up trash regularly in the isolated areas.

One woman told the council the trucks went by too fast for the men on it to see whether or not there is any garbage. "I don't care if we only get it picked up once a month if that's all we're paying for," she said, "but if we're paying for once a week, I want to get it."

Mayor Hurst commented, "I think it could be greatly improved, especially the way they drive."

Hurst was assigned to discuss the problems with Veillon, Teal-owner of the business. The sanitation service has come under fire several times before the Burley council and Councilman Cloyd Taylor tried to bring the matter to a head Tuesday.

He charged that "Teal has not been living up to his contract" and called for a hearing to show cause why the franchise contract should not be revoked.

Heyburn courts get use, abuse

HEYBURN — The new tennis courts here are receiving heavy use, but also some abuse.

Mayor Harold Hurst has told the city council he observed three bicycle riders on the courts on Labor Day.

Hurst said the youngsters were riding their bikes into the nets to see how far back they could bounce.

The city has a ban on any wheels on the courts, which were completed earlier this summer.

In answer to a question by Councilman Earl Rose, Hurst assured that the tennis courts are well used. He added that the tennis players patrol the area well themselves, reporting any abuses. He said two small children tried to climb the fence earlier this week and could not get down again. They had to be helped from their perch.

Utility systems on drawing board

HEYBURN — Consulting engineers for Heyburn are drafting plans for a proposed municipal water system and for the already-approved new sewage disposal plant.

The date for start of construction on the new sewer plant, according to an Environmental Protection Agency schedule, was Sept. 1. Mayor Harold Hurst said Wednesday that planning and the testing of these plans is proceeding. He said the engineers think the plans will be ready to present for approval by Oct. 1.

He said the plans call for a lower-type plan that will be all-mechanical. He added that such systems have been approved by EPA.

The engineering firm also is running tests on plans for a municipal water system through a computer at a Boeing Aircraft plant.

The city has no central water system and residents must rely on individual wells, primarily sand points.

Hurst said the engineers are doing the drawings and developing every detail, including cost, time, quality, connection, fees and estimated monthly charges.

He warned, "The people will not vote for this unless they know every detail."

A cursory survey taken by inclusion with electrical billings showed most residents opposed to the water system without further information.

Burley sidewalk inventory slated

BURLEY — This city will undergo a sidewalk inventory.

The city council has agreed to have the building inspector inventory streets to determine which ones have sidewalk on at least one side.

That move was made after Councilman Cloyd Taylor complained that a corner duplex at the intersection of 24th Street and Oakley Avenue here has sidewalk on the east-west street, but none on the north-south street.

Shoshone puts OK on pool contract

SHOSHONE — A supplemental lease agreement covering operation and maintenance of the Lincoln County swimming pool has been approved by the Shoshone City Council and submitted for council action.

The Shoshone council reviewed the agreement and voted to accept it, pending similar approval by the Lincoln County Recreation District.

The pool was built by the district and is located on property owned by the City of Shoshone. The agreement covers an indefinite period of time.

Mayor Elwood R. Werry told council members an application has been submitted by the city for assistance from the Wood River Resource Conservation and Development Association in rip-rapping the Little Wood River where it passes through a part of the Shoshone City Park.

Members of the city park advisory board recommended removal of a large tree near the curb and upstream east of the pump house in the park. The tree appears to be dead.

The board report stated: "Several other large trees need to be trimmed and dead branches removed. The board reported. Spraying trees in the park for insects and disease was also recommended."

In other business, the council accepted an audit report on city revenue sharing funds for 1975 as prepared by Peterson, Scammon, Stacey and Hancock. Twin Falls certified public accountants. The firm was also awarded a contract for the city audit for the coming year.

Purchase of a non-lifting leveling tripod was approved for the city street department.

Experts predicting changes for China

By United Press International
A China without Mao Tse-tung at the helm is headed for change, according to experts whose lives are devoted to studying the world's biggest nation. The question is whether the change will be gradual or wrenching, perhaps violent.

Few were willing to venture a guess as to who would succeed Mao as No. 1. If, indeed, there is to be a No. 1 in the sense that Mao made it.

Professor Ezra Vogel, director of Harvard's East Asian Research Center, put the problem succinctly: "When it comes down to knowledge, about top leadership in Peking, we are all very ignorant."

China "watchers" interviewed by UPI Thursday cited the many factors in the equation — the behind-the-scenes maneuvering so much a part of China politics, the role of Mao's widow and the radical forces she heads, the fact Mao himself never designated a clear-cut successor.

Former U.S. diplomat John S. Service, who spent four months with Mao in the period before the Communists took over China, foresaw a fairly smooth transition, possibly toward "some kind of collective leadership."

"I don't expect China to fall apart," Service, now living in Berkeley, Calif., said. "This (Mao's death) has been expected. There has been government functioning there without his active leadership. There is no reason for any great crisis or turmoil."

However, he added, "The people of mainland China are in for a rather rough period."

Dean Rusk, secretary of state under presidents John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson and University of Georgia law professor, said "I don't think we have any way of knowing what is ahead. The end of the Mao era is a very important change in China and the history of the world."

Rusk declined to speculate on the matter of Mao's successor. "Now that I'm a private citizen, I don't have to be a prophet," he said.

Professor Merle Goldman, a research associate at the East Asian Center at Harvard, said he expected "disarray in the upper levels of the leadership."

"There are two groups in China — the moderates and the radicals," Goldman said, "and because of that there has been no legitimate successor appointed to succeed Mao."

"Both groups have different interests and leaders they would like to see take charge," he said. "There is bound to be conflict between these two groups."

Vogel said Mao himself may have been at least partially responsible for the succession problem. "He has systematically gotten rid of the No. 2 men, perhaps because he became jealous of their power," he said.
