

Carter apologizes to Lady Bird

By United Press International
 Jimmy Carter is voicing no concern over telling Playboy he looked at women in lust, but the Democratic presidential nominee says he regrets—saying that President Lyndon B. Johnson was a liar just like Richard Nixon.
 Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said Wednesday that Carter phoned Lady Bird Johnson Tuesday to apologize for telling Playboy "I don't think I would ever take on the same frame of mind that Nixon or Johnson did—lying, cheating and distorting the truth."
 "The governor expressed his regret for seeming to put Johnson and Nixon in the same category," said Powell.
 The apology came a day before Mrs. Johnson welcomed Carter's wife, Rosalynn, on a campaign stop in San Antonio. Mrs. Johnson didn't mention the comment, but elsewhere in Texas outrage was expressed by two of the state's major politicians.

"As far as I am concerned, Jimmy Carter has forfeited all right to the support of any Johnson Democrat—in Texas," said Texas Democrat Chairman Frank C. Erwin Jr.
 Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally, a Johnson associate who became a Republican in 1974, termed Carter's statement "reprehensible."
 "I am no longer a member of President Johnson's party, but my admiration and affection for him were not buried in the grave over which I delivered the eulogy at Johnson City," Connally said.
 Both Carter and President Ford let their running mates do the campaigning as they prepared for tonight's initial campaign debate, which will be televised at 7:30 p.m. MDT tonight from Philadelphia.
 Sen. Robert Dole, the Republican vice presidential nominee, campaigned in the Plains states, where he acknowledged the GOP has "some problems" because of low wheat prices. Dole said in Grand Forks, N.D., that embargoes on grain sales to the Soviet Union "are going to be a thing of the past in the Ford-Dole administration, unless there is a dire emergency."

 Sen. Walter Mondale, the Democratic vice nominee, defended Carter's Playboy remarks.
 "One of the most refreshing things about Governor Carter is that he answers questions when he is asked," Mondale told reporters in Chicago.
 Evangelist Billy Graham, like Carter a Southern Baptist, visited Ford at the White House but later said he would remain neutral in the presidential race. Graham said he would wait and read Carter's full Playboy interview before commenting on it.
 "I don't normally read Playboy," said Graham, who added that he would have someone buy a copy for him.

Vaccine delivery meeting schedule

ATLANTA (UPI) — The expected-delivery of swine influenza vaccine to 18 health departments by next week, virtually assures that the federal inoculation program will be underway by Oct. 1, according to health officials.
 The first shipments of vaccine went out Wednesday to 16 state health departments and two local health agencies. Delivery is expected this week or early next week.
 The national Center for Disease Control said the drug firm of Merck, Sharp and Dohme was shipping 1.5 million doses of both the monovalent and bivalent vaccine.
 The CDC said the deliveries will mean some states can start their inoculation programs on Oct. 1, the revised target date for launching the massive project.
 The program is six weeks behind schedule because of problems with insurance coverage for the vaccine.
 Dr. J. Donald Miller, director of the CDC's Bureau of State Services, said federal orders for another 23,216,240 doses have been placed with the four drug companies manufacturing the vaccine.
 These pending shipments have been approved by the Bureau of Biologics in Washington and will be made during the first two weeks of October, Miller said. They will consist of 11,255,700 doses of swine flu vaccine and

Steel firm paid Ford's Florida vacation bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, while serving as the House Republican leader, spent several short vacations at Disney World in Florida at the expense of U.S. Steel, according to industry sources.
 U.S. Steel's chief lobbyist, William Whyte, told UPI Ford made one visit to the famed amusement park near Orlando, Fla., that—visit, Whyte said, was in 1972 immediately following the GOP National Convention in Miami Beach.
 But sources in the steel industry told UPI that Ford was treated several times to vacations at hotels and a guest cottage they owned by U.S. Steel at Disney World. They said his family accompanied him on some of the stays.

 The White House had no immediate comment on the report.
 Whyte did not say whether Ford stayed in the Con temporary Hotel, the Polynesian Village or the corporation's guest cottage. He said the company no longer owns the facilities, which it built to house visitors.
 Former U.S. Steel employee earlier told UPI that Ford "frequently" was treated to expenses-paid vacations at the corporation's lodge at the Pine Valley Golf Club near Clementon, N.J.
 Ford and Whyte said they recalled only two visits, in 1964 and 1971, while Ford was a congressman. Whyte said U.S. Steel paid for "room and board" on both occasions.
 "The President is an avid golfer over the years," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, "and he never considered a golf game to be a gift of substantial value."
 "The President does not feel that it was wrong or he felt that it would have done it."
 Nessen said Ford "didn't ask who was paying for the trips."
 Ford's 1971 golf trip came after the House laid down a code of ethics in 1968 decreeing that "a member, officer or employee of the House of Representatives shall accept no gift of substantial value, directly or indirectly, from any person, organization or corporation having a direct interest in legislation before Congress."

Job bill signing prospects improve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prospects are that President Ford will sign at least one of two major jobs bills soon to him by Congress in the closing days of the session.
 The Senate, by vote and without debate, completed the final legislative technicalities Wednesday.
 One bill extends 250,000 existing public service jobs in state and local governments through the next fiscal year, with the possibility Congress later could expand the number to 500,000.
 It is widely supported by legislators of both parties, and all indications are that Ford will sign it, even though he originally proposed phasing out these jobs during the coming year.
 The program has been used to hire everything from policemen in Detroit to ballet dancers in Baltimore.
 The White House likes a provision in it that would begin gradually shifting the emphasis from skilled workers and retaining laid-off municipal employees to jobs for the long-term, low-income unemployed.
 The other bill is a $3.7 billion appropriation for public works construction projects, budget aid to state and local governments and construction of water treatment plants. Democrats claim it will create 300,000 jobs.
 Ford has said it would produce only half that number and would lead to "larger deficits, higher taxes, higher inflation and, ultimately, higher unemployment."
 "The three times vetoed authorization bills for the program, and Congress in July finally enacted it by overriding his veto.

FBI cuts political snooping

ON Y. Times Service
 WASHINGTON — Clarence M. Kelley, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, disclosed Wednesday that over the last three years the number of American citizens and organizations under investigation because of their political ideologies had declined from 21,414 to 626, for a drop of some 97 per cent.
 But under questioning before the new Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, Kelley conceded that—the small number of remaining "domestic security" cases were still being investigated under special criteria and not, as he had previously promised, like ordinary criminal matters.
 "In a statement before one member of the committee termed the first "routine public oversight hearing" into the FBI's intelligence operations in more than half a century, Kelley attributed the decline in the number of domestic security cases under investigation to a complex mix of factors.
 The end of the Vietnam War, he noted, had eliminated "a major cause for divisiveness in the country"—and "lessened the potential for violence" among groups that had opposed the war, with the result that "the FBI began closing thousands of investigations at that time."
 Other investigations, he said, had been closed after the Justice Department issued guidelines last March governing which groups and individuals could be investigated by the bureau and for how long.

Aid hiked
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford signed a bill Wednesday increasing Veterans Administration aid to state veterans homes.
 Under the legislation, the VA will boost its per diem payments to state institutions. The payments are retroactive to the start of 1976.
 Federal aid for hospital care will rise from $10 to $11.50 a day. For nursing home care, it will increase from $6 to $10.50. And it will rise from $4.50 to $5.50 for care at home.

Mum Schoor triumphant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Questions remained today over Daniel Schorr's future as a CBS reporter, but there no longer was any doubt that he had won his fight with Congress over the secrecy of a news source.
 The House Ethics Committee, avoiding a constitutional confrontation over free press issues, decided Wednesday to take no punitive action against Schorr for refusing to divulge the source of a leaked intelligence report.
 The panel lifted the subpoena it had placed against the reporter in an effort to determine who gave him a copy of the secret House Intelligence Committee report he had published in New York's Village Voice newspaper last February.

Lebanon leader sworn in

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian moderate Elias Sarkis was sworn in as president of Lebanon today despite a new surge of fighting across the country. He promised "genuine political reform" and urged fresh efforts to end more than 17 months of civil war.

Fighting started on several fronts and the residential quarters of Beirut came under mortar fire as Sarkis, addressing parliament 25 miles away in the Syrian-occupied town of Chataura, pledged to undertake "a positive dialogue" with Lebanon's warring factions "to produce real changes that will guarantee peace."

Deafening bursts of gunfire erupted across Beirut as Sarkis' pledge for political reforms was celebrated by gunmen by pumping thousands of rounds of bullets into the air.

Sarkis, 51, the Central Bank governor, received the seals of office earlier from outgoing President Suleiman Franjeh in a brief ceremony at the temporary presidential offices near the Christian port of Jounieh, 12 miles north of Beirut.

Shortly after the ceremony, Sarkis left for Chataura, 25 miles southeast of Beirut, for the swearing-in before parliament. It was the first time in 33 years of independence that parliament was convening outside the capital, where heavy fighting made it impossible for deputies to meet.

Moslem Premier Rashid Karami and leftist leaders boycotted the session because of the decision to hold it behind Syrian lines.

Sarkis, the Central Bank governor, was sworn in as Lebanon's sixth president at 1:15 p.m. after the start of the session was delayed for more than one hour due to the late arrival of deputies. A total of 67 showed up — 31 short of the House total but more than enough to ensure a quorum.

"Are we able to put out the fire that has consumed us for 17 1/2 months? The terrible destruction that has hit us makes it imperative that we try now, through positive dialogue, to make a fresh start," Sarkis said in his inaugural address.

"The first—and most necessary step now is to open the way for this dialogue that will lead to genuine political changes without impairing the Palestinian cause. The whole basis of our system of government must be revised to keep up with the times," Sarkis said.

Sarkis, aware that only the strict security provided by Syrian army tanks, troops and helicopters made Thursday's meeting possible, pledged to uphold and defend Lebanon's sovereignty and territorial integrity.

SENI PRAMOJ
...resigns

Thai chief quits post

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Prime Minister Seni Pramoj announced his resignation today following a morning-long attack in parliament on his "weak and indecisive" five-month-old government.

Radio Thailand announced the attack on the 72-year-old prime minister followed four days of unrest touched off by the return from exile of ousted Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn.

His eyes brimming with tears, Seni left the stormy parliament session and told reporters, "I have nothing to say at this time."

Seni's resignation was to become official later in the day in the form of a petition to be presented to King Bhumibol Adulyadej asking that he and his cabinet be relieved of their duties.

Payoffs charged

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israeli military police said today they have arrested two senior army officers on charges of taking bribes from an American firm in what could shape up as an Israeli-style Lockheed scandal.

"The military command said the suspects, identified only as Maj. Ze'evi and Lt. Col. Gravit, are accused of taking thousands of dollars in bribes from the American firm.

The military sources said the two men would go on trial "in the near future."

The military command did not identify the American firm but other sources said it was a major supplier of automotive spare parts to the Israeli army.

According to one report, the payments totalled between $10,000 and $30,000 and were disguised as consulting fees on the company's books.

Politics pays off

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Former military strongman Thanom Kittikachorn, now a novice Buddhist monk known as "One With the Name Revered by All," made his first "begging" rounds near his temple today.

Clutching a large brass bowl in which to collect food offered by the Buddhist faithful, Thanom made his first excursion from the pagoda grounds shortly after dawn.

Women along his route through a lower middle-class living area filled his bowl to overflowing. He was unable to escape politics completely, however.

One woman, just before she spooned some rice into his bowl, told Thanom, "You should go back to Singapore." — his home in exile until last Sunday.

His return to Thailand has sparked intense political debate and prompted Prime Minister Seni Pramoj to announce today he will resign.

Cosmonaut pair winds up mission

MOSCOW (UPI) — The two Soyuz 22 cosmonauts landed safely on target in the Soviet Union today after an eight-day mission in Earth orbit.

Moscow Radio said the cosmonauts softlanded at 10:42 a.m. (1:42 a.m. EDT) 93 miles from Tselinograd in the Republic of Kazakhstan.

The report described the mission as "successful."

Tass news agency said cosmonauts Valery Bykovskoy and Vladimir Aksenov "feel well."

Ground control gave the cosmonauts the okay to begin

Grenade wounds scores

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Terrorists tossed a hand grenade into the rear of a downtown police station today, wounding an undetermined number of police and prisoners in detention cells, police sources said.

The sources said two men, possibly using a grenade launcher, tossed the grenade from a building facing the rear of the fourth precinct, 15 blocks from the Casa Rosada presidential palace and then fled in an auto.

The grenade fell near the detention cells, wounding police and prisoners, the sources said.

The attack followed the pattern of leftist guerrilla attacks on police which have left 101 policemen dead this year. Political violence has taken a total of 927 lives, including hundreds of leftist guerrillas and sympathizers, in the same period.

Adjusts to change

AS AN offroad roughneck Charles Dannheim, Clarksville, Tex., used brute strength, now as a quadruple amputee he says, "I just grit my teeth and go on." (UPI)

Texas quadruple amputee adjusts to new life style

CLARKVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — As an offroad roughneck, West Texas high school football star and Army paratrooper, Charles Dannheim grew accustomed to facing muscle to accomplish his work.

As a quadruple amputee he had to find his strength elsewhere.

At 29, Dannheim is a new typical farmer, growing potatoes, mending fences and riding his favorite quarter horse. He drives a car, one of which he sold, and is studying for a degree in agriscience at East Texas State University.

He maintains a normal life with a cane and some special aids. 21 months, despite losing both arms and legs as a result of an electrical accident.

"It was Aug. 8, 1970, and I was helping my father-in-law pull down an old TV antenna in Madras, near Clarksville," he said. "I was standing on a four-inch-wide beam of the antenna pole slipped and fell into a power line. The current froze me there, but my father-in-law made a running block and knocked me free."

"I didn't really lose consciousness, but everything was pretty lousy. For some reason the breakers didn't open and I had the full 2,000 volts for about 15 seconds."

Dannheim was rushed to Parkland Hospital in Dallas where the amputations were performed. The electricity had caused the lower parts of his arms and legs. He stayed in Dallas about four months and was then transferred to the Veterans Hospital in Shreveport, La., for rehabilitation.

"At the time of the accident I had and I had been married only six months," he said.

Defense offered

BUEENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Former President Isabel Peron has been offered a woman lawyer to defend her against charges of fraud and misuse of public funds.

Silvia S. Ardy was named temporarily, as one of the public defenders to represent Mrs. Peron. The previous public defender asked to be excused from handling Mrs. Peron's case on the grounds that as a judge he once ruled against her late husband Juan Peron and could therefore be accused of being partial.

Several names of private attorneys have been sent to Mrs. Peron, but she has not yet reached an agreement with any of them.

The former president, who was overthrown by a military coup March 21, is confined to a mansion about 1,000 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Teen given death choice

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Her family gave her the choice of death by electrocution, poisoning or by being run over by a car. Sixteen-year-old Zahra chose the automobile.

At a court hearing this week, the girl said she had been sentenced to death at a family kangaroo court for her secret "marriage" and love affair with a Muslim clergyman.

After the "sentencing," she bid farewell to her mother and sister, who had concurred in the guilty verdict, and was taken to a deserted area outside Qazvin, 93 miles north-west of Tehran.

Townsmen found her several hours later with serious chest and pelvic injuries.

Zahra's father, uncle and her two brothers have been jailed in connection with the "death sentence."

The girl said her affair with Sheikh Yaddallah, 40, began when she was only 13 years old and continued with twice weekly visits at a mosque until the lovers were discovered by other worshippers earlier this month.

Yaddallah told the court he had secretly married the girl in a religiously sanctioned arrangement called nikaah — a marriage contract that can be periodically renewed or terminated at the discretion of the groom.

Yaddallah was also jailed at the hearing and mosque officials said they would conduct their own investigation.

Schedule outlined

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Betty Ford expects to remain at the White House to watch her husband debate Jimmy Carter on television tonight.

But she will accompany the President on the Mississippi riverboat trip Saturday and will spend the night with him in New Orleans before flying to Milwaukee, Wis., to participate in a German-American festival in the suburban Glendale area.

On Oct. 1, Mrs. Ford will help dedicate a Children's Museum in Indianapolis and then go on to Houston to join in the opening of the M.I. Anderson Cancer Center's new facility.

Mine workers immersed in 'reckless turmoil'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — The United Mine Workers, a union responsible for producing much of the nation's coal supply, has become deeply immersed in what one official described Wednesday as "reckless chaos and turmoil."

The situation reflecting a bitter struggle between two factions has reached such proportions that some government officials fear it might ultimately interfere with the nation's growing reliance on coal.

The outcome of this struggle will be shaped substantially by the union's 10-day convention beginning Thursday. Delegates representing some 277,000 union members will be asked to settle some major internal disputes and determine industry contract bargaining goals for next year.

Both President Arnold Miller and his opponents pledged to ask the convention for more control over union operations, particularly finances. Each side sees the gathering as a prelude to a bitterly contested election next year. Government officials view these events with some concern that continued dissension within the union might impede contract negotiations — causing a prolonged strike that would interrupt coal production.

Andrus names MV residents to council

MAGIC VALLEY — Two area residents have been appointed to the new Idaho Statewide Health Coordinating Council by Gov. Cecil Andrus.

E. Louise Rehnalt, Paul, was appointed to a one-year term and Ivan Ljal Stone, Jerome, was appointed to a three-year term.

The agency was created under terms of the new federal Health Planning Act. Members will serve terms varying in length from one to three years.

Skeleton chained to tree investigated in Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Agents of the Florida Department of Criminal Law Enforcement are attempting to trace the final movements of a young man who apparently starved to death after being chained to a tree and abandoned in a forest several months ago.

Skeletal remains were found in August by hunters in a wood hammock on Florida's West Coast, adjacent to the Pepperish Keys about one mile from the Gulf of Mexico and 10 miles west-southwest of Cross City.

They were identified through dental records as those of Douglas Ray Sumner, of Tampa, a former groundskeeper at the University of South Florida, who would have been 23 last June. A university identification card was found among the remains.

Sumner was reported missing in October, 1974, by his mother after he left alone for a camping trip to the Ocala National Forest and never returned.

An FDCLME agent said evidence at the scene indicated Sumner had been chained to the tree with a 14-foot heavy logging or tow chain that had been wrapped around his waist and then locked with a padlock.

He said partially gnawed roots indicated Sumner tried to stay alive by eating palmetto leaves and other vegetation.

"You could see where he'd dug a hole and dipped his shirt in there to get moisture out of the ground to drink," the agent said. "He also built a crude palmetto shelter."

Anthropologists and others who visited the scene speculated Sumner could have stayed alive for at least two weeks.

There was a small gash at the base of the tree where it appeared Sumner tried to cut the tree with the chain, and bark was scoured to feed on the tree as if he had tried to shinny over the top.

"It was a savage, perverted way to do away with someone," the agent said. "We are doing an extensive background investigation to try to learn the who, what, where, when and why of this case."

A pathologist said Sumner may have died as long as two years ago.

But the Tampa Times quoted an unnamed FDCLME agent as saying time of death had been estimated to have been several months before the remains were found — sometime last January.

The Times also quoted the agent as saying a former high school friend of Sumner had reported talking to him on a downtown street here last October.

The friend allegedly asked Sumner what he had been doing and what was wrong and was told "I'm just trying to get my head screwed on straight. Don't tell anybody you've seen me."

"We don't know if it involves a dope deal, a police informant, a love triangle or what," the FDCLME spokesman said. "We really have an open mind. It's a puzzle."

Ol' Sol, clouds play peek-a-boo

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley, Rupert area: Local clearing tonight and generally sunny Friday. Overnight lows tonight in the mid-30s, highs Friday in the mid-70s. Saturday's outlook: warm and dry. Halley, Camas Prairie, Lower Wood River valley: Partly cloudy through Friday with chance of a few light showers and thunder showers, generally over the mountains tonight. Overnight lows in the mid-30s, highs Friday in the lower 70s. Synopsis: High thin clouds covered the Twin Falls area today. This was caused by a weak weather disturbance moving northeastward across Washington and Oregon into northern Idaho. Except for this cloudiness, no significant change in the weather pattern is expected. Precipitation will be confined mainly to the mountain areas. High pressure building along the West Coast should produce mostly dry, sunny conditions. Twin Falls along with mild, seasonal temperatures throughout the rest of the week. The extended outlook for family activities for Saturday through Monday calls for dry weather and improving field conditions. The haying outlook will be generally good. Heavy dew during the night plus light winds will slow drying of hay somewhat. Daytime temperatures will be mostly in the upper 70s and lows in the 40s.

Carter strong, election tossup, publishers think

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jimmy Carter is the strongest presidential candidate now in the view of all, but one of 35 newspaper publishers responding to a special survey, but they give him only a 50-50 chance of defeating President Ford.

The survey was conducted by the Washington bureau of RKO General Broadcasting which sent questionnaires to 109 major newspapers throughout the country. Of the 55 replying, 31 said the Democratic nominee is "stronger at this time." Asked who would win, however, 17 said Carter; 17 said Ford and one said, "I do not know."

The publisher who considers Ford strongest now — Robert R. Feagin of the Jacksonville, Fla., Times Union & Journal — also predicted he will win.

Asked what they saw as the key campaign issue, 29 of the 35 publishers said the economy, one of Ford's big talking points, while 13 mentioned credibility, which has been strongly emphasized by Carter. Some mentioned more than one factor.

The survey reflected the views of 10 publishers in the Northeast, 11 in the South, four in the Midwest, five in the Southwest and five on the Pacific Coast. Nine requested anonymity.

Asked whether issues or personality will decide the election, 12 said issues and nine said personality. Twelve said it would be a combination and two did not answer.

Eleven publishers were from Carter's native South. Five thought he would win and six picked Ford. In the East, six thought Ford would win; three chose Carter and one was unsure. In the Southwest, it was three to two that Ford would win whereas three of the four Midwest publishers foresaw a Carter victory. Three of the five Pacific Coast publishers also anticipated a Carter win.

Wayne Sargent of the Nashville Banner predicted a Ford victory and wondered "why Ford does not rank higher?" Stating that "we threw (Richard M.) Nixon out and asked for a man who was totally honest," Sargent said Ford "is everything we said we wanted... why isn't he pleasing the majority?"

Frank A. Daniels, Jr., of the Raleigh News & Observer thought Carter would prevail because "folks want a change." He said Carter "will hang the Republican platform on Ford and push him further to the right than he really wants to go. Don't believe Ford will be able to make Carter angry during debates."

Henry Z. Urban of the Buffalo Evening News said, "The key issue which will give President Ford a close win is whether to keep an incumbent President with a good record which everyone knows, or to exchange him for an unknown quantity."

Gas shortage worrying feds

Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — The Federal Energy Administration (FEA) is uncertain about whether the nation can get through another winter without a serious natural gas shortage.

Somewhat less gas will be available in the coming winter than there was during the last heating season, but the extent of the shortfall will depend almost entirely on the weather, FEA officials say.

Some regions of the country will be hit hard by gas curtailments if their weather is especially severe, federal energy chief Frank Zarb said Tuesday.

But if the weather returns to normal — that is, if it's colder this year than the two previous mild winters, but not too cold — the nation will be able to get by without major problems, he said.

Homeowners can count on getting their usual gas supply no matter what the weather is, FEA officials said. But energy-intensive industries that depend on interstate pipelines extending from South Carolina to Massachusetts could face a serious shortage.

Such industries — ranging from cement producers to textile mills — have two choices: They can shut down or switch to higher-priced fuels like propane or distillate oil. Propane and distillate cost four times as much as natural gas.

Another alternative previously suggested by FEA — allowing high-priority industrial gas users to buy directly from producers or from interstate pipelines in gas-producing states — appears to have been ruled out.

Vikings find ice in Martian polar cap

O.N.Y. Times Service

PASADENA, Calif. — The Viking spacecraft have discovered that the permanent northern polar cap of Mars is composed entirely of frozen water, suggesting to scientists that the planet has much more water than had been expected.

This finding, announced Wednesday, led project scientists to liken Mars to a global freezer. They said that the North polar cap may be only the tip of the iceberg, with the rest of it, in the form of permafrost, submerged in a sea of dust and rock.

It was also announced that other Viking instruments had detected traces of the rare gases krypton and xenon in the Martian atmosphere. This gave scientists the first strong direct clue that the planet must have once had a considerably denser atmosphere, and that "it could" have been much like the Earth's had this planet not had an abundance of life and liquid water.

These discoveries were reported Wednesday at a news conference at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, where the Viking mission is being directed.

Dr. Gerald A. Soffen, the project's chief scientist, said that the detection of krypton provided a "major marker" with which scientists should be able to deduce the origin of the Martian atmosphere and that the discovery of water ice at the north pole resolved a long-standing scientific argument. Many had assumed that the polar cap was frozen carbon dioxide, or dry ice, since that gas is the principal constituent of the thin Martian atmosphere.

Two independent measurements made by sensors on the Viking II orbiter led to the discovery about the polar ice cap. It is now late summer in the north of Mars. The more extensive hood of ice that covers the northern polar region in the winter has melted, leaving only a residual ice cap about one-half mile thick and extending from the pole down to about 80 degrees north latitude.

Grain inspection measure settled

Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — House and Senate conferees unexpectedly agreed Wednesday on a reform measure to end corruption in the nation's grain inspection system.

The breakthrough came just after the failure of a parliamentary move in the House that would have broken up the conference committee and killed the inspection reform bill.

The agreed-upon compromise — which still must win final approval in both houses of Congress — would lock private agencies out of the grain inspection business at the nation's export ports.

It would make nine of the nation's state-operated grain inspection agencies eligible to continue inspecting grain at ports, but only if they can win the approval of a new federal grain inspection agency. The nine states are Alabama, Mississippi, Oregon, Washington, California, Minnesota, South Carolina, Virginia, and Wisconsin.

Sponsors said the plan is designed specifically to insure that Louisiana and Texas, sites of most of the theft and bribery scandals to date, would not be able to create state inspection agencies eligible for port operation.

Under the compromise plan, grain inspections at all interior points would be conducted by designated state and private agencies, or by federal officials if no other qualified agencies are in the vicinity.

Washington (UPI) — The U.S. armed forces got its largest appropriation in history Wednesday when President Ford signed into law a $18.4 military spending bill.

After eight years of decline, we are providing for real growth in our national defense efforts," Ford said at a White House bill signing ceremony.

"This bill reflects a new awareness that this country can no longer shortchange our national defense. I'm convinced that this new pattern must and will be sustained in future years, and I am personally fully committed to it."

Ford said he was "urgently" asking Congress to provide another $1.1 billion for construction of four frigates and a nuclear-powered strike cruiser.

The shipbuilding program is of critical importance to our ability to control the seas in the event of a conflict," the President said.

Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld said the bill puts "the United States on a path of providing annual, real increases to our defense establishment."

When Viking II flew over the cap, one set of sensors found an unusually high amount of water vapor in the atmosphere, and another sensor that took "the surface temperature - humid conditions warmer than had been expected.

Dr. C. Dreyer Farmer of the laboratory, head of the water vapor mapping team, reported that the spacecraft detected water vapor in amounts up to 99 molecules — a micron being one ten-thousandth of an inch. From this he concluded that the residual polar cap "was predominantly not ice, but totally water ice, not carbon dioxide."

Then the thermal-mapping team, led by Dr. Hugh Kieffer of the University of California at Los Angeles, observed temperatures of the ice cap that were clearly incompatible with frozen carbon dioxide.

United Way campaign aides named

TWIN FALLS — Four appointments of volunteers who will help direct the 1977 United Way fund campaign have been announced.

Pat Harder will serve as chairman of personnel and organization and John Gamble has been named chairman for the chapter plan section.

Betty Dameron, veteran United Way worker, will head the commercial division of the campaign, and Jack Muldoon will direct a speaker bureau to tell the United Way story to community organizations.

Mrs. Harder will be making contacts with all community clubs and organizations to obtain personnel for the campaign effort and assist chairmen of other divisions of the drive in filling teams and recruiting additional workers.

Gamble, who works as installation loan officer at the First Security Bank, Twin Falls, is currently recruiting 12 "loaned" executive team members from local businesses.

Gamble said the United Way loaned executive team has a challenging goal of $30,000 as its share of the $115,000 1977 goal.

Mrs. Dameron will be assisted by ten team captains in "covering" the commercial area of Twin Falls. Goal for her division of the campaign is $12,000. Those assisting her will include Dick Stosich, Hazel Wilder, Jerry Hillman, Peggy Curry, Gale Pippitt, Lavear Thornock, Opel Billings, Debbie McDonald, Bill Seck and Bob Wright.

As director of the speakers bureau, Muldoon will be contacting United Way volunteers to recruit a staff of competent speakers willing to meet with organizations and at public gatherings to speak on United Way and answer questions. He will also be responsible for setting up a schedule of appearances for his squad of speakers.

Rosenberg judge query sought

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Law professors from Harvard and elsewhere have asked the House and Senate Judiciary Committees to investigate the conduct of the federal judge in the espionage case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

The Rosenbergs were executed in 1953 following conviction in a U.S. District Court presided over by Judge Irving Kaufman, now chief justice of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

A co-defendant, Morton Sobell, was sentenced to 30 years in prison.

The request for a probe of Kaufman's behavior was made by Prof. Vern Countryman of Harvard Law School and 81 of his colleagues from across the nation in letters to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., Senate Judiciary chairman, and Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., House Judiciary chairman.

In a letter released Tuesday, Countryman said information in recently-obtained FBI documents raises "serious questions" concerning what could be "a shocking pattern" of abuse by Kaufman during and after the trial.

The letter details 10 items which appear to show improprieties by Kaufman, including repeated out-of-court discussions of the case and the making of numerous statements scolding bias in the case.

The letter said two weeks before the conviction, an FBI agent informed the bureau a Justice Department official had told him Kaufman would impose a death sentence "if he doesn't change his mind."

An FBI agent also is reported to have told the bureau Kaufman had described a motion to stay execution as "junk and will be handled accordingly."

Kaufman also is quoted in the letter as having made adverse comments concerning the treatment of the Rosenberg case in plays, Look Magazine, The New York Times, Esquire and two 1974 television shows.

Jerome City Council approves townhouses

JEROME — Jerome City Councilman gave final approval to the Fillmore Park Townhouse subdivision Tuesday night.

The project of 18 two and three-bedroom townhouses now nearing completion were originally the subject of considerable opposition from neighboring residents. The residents felt that construction of the townhouses would bring too many people into the neighborhood, according to city officials. But Richard Crister, of the Crister Land Survey firm which has been associated in the project, said "Now people seem to be glad to have them."

Coveted Boy Scout awards presented

TWIN FALLS - Five boys received the coveted Eagle Scout Award at the Sixth Ward LDS Church on Harrison Street night. Richard Crowley, 14; Darren Holman, 14; Tod Murray, 13; Bryan Oliver, 15, and Gary Van Orden, 14, all Twin Falls, will each receive an Eagle Scout medal, patch and special, bicentennial scout bank certificate.

The awarding of the Eagle Scout patch shows "perseverance on the boy's part because less than two per cent of the boys who go through scouting obtain Eagle rank," said Dick Patterson, Treasurer of the Snake River Council Boy Scout Troop 74.

Each of the boys who received the award completed a program which included obtaining at least 21 merit badges, according to Patterson. Merit badges are awarded for designated study in many areas including first aid, swimming, weather and aerodynamics.

In addition, each boy on his own managed a special project, Patterson said.

As their special project, Holman and Van Orden were responsible for painting the addresses of homes in Twin Falls on the curbs in front of the residences. Each boy was in charge of about four persons who painted roughly 300 addresses on curbs.

In a similar project, Crowley was responsible for a group that painted all fire hydrants in the city red, white and blue. Crowley said he received permission from the City Council and the fire department to paint the hydrants.

Oliver made and gave away several bedside games for children in hospitals. Murray raised about $56 through car washes and similar money-making projects. He donated the funds to Sky View Manor, a nursing home, to buy outdoor furniture.

The boys have averaged about six years in scouting each, according to Patterson.

'Project Sunshower' set

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) - San Jose State University students will be taking showers with sun heated water by early next year. Construction of the $125,000 solar water heating system atop three campus dormitories is expected to be completed by January, according to officials.

"Project Sunshower" is designed to keep 600 students in hot water for the next 20 years, no matter what happens to national energy supplies. San Jose students use 25 gallons of water a day, primarily on showers. That's twice the national average.

The solar project - second largest in the country - involves construction of heat collectors on top of the dormitories. The solar heated water, warmed to about 140 degrees, will be used to heat 15,000 gallons of tap water.

Elko bookmobile visits Jackpot

JACKPOT, Nev. - The Elko County Library bookmobile schedule had been revised to provide service to the Jackpot area each Wednesday from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Karen Smith, Elko library circulation director, said the opening of school necessitated some schedule changes and additional information is available by contacting her office at 736-3066.

Other Wednesday stops for the bookmobile include Contact at 1:30 to 2 p.m. and Wilkins 2:45 to 3 p.m. In Jackpot, the bookmobile will stop at the school.

Ms. Smith said the library has recently added a new shipment of large print books and a new package of 16 mm. films. The large print books designed for visually handicapped readers are supplied by the Special Services Division of the Nevada State Library.

The special film packages will be in the Elko County library until Oct. 25 and include more than 60 films which can be checked out for showing.

Reading gimmicks not needed

RUPERT - New materials and gimmicks are not needed to teach reading, Doris Wright told the Blaine County School Board Monday night.

Mrs. Wright said the task is one that teachers and parents can handle, she emphasized that the parental role in the process must be understood.

In a report on the district's effort to improve reading abilities of all students, Mrs. Wright said the major effort is to work with school children and possibly pre-schoolers. She said an elementary school needs study early this year showed most persons tell area children need to improve their reading abilities.

A district Reading Task Force has been formed, including one teacher from each elementary school and four parents. Mrs. Wright said they meet once a month to study possible aids to improve reading in the district. Mrs. Wright is holding workshops at all the schools. She said teacher attendance is voluntary, but the turnouts have been good. The teachers she said are particularly interested in diagnostic testing.

Tax Reform Act change sought by Sen. Long

Washington Star

WASHINGTON - Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, will seek to change a portion of the Tax Reform Act that would subject all race track winnings over $1,000 to a 20 per cent withholding tax.

Long said that the bill should have applied only to payouts of 200:1 or more, but the House-Senate conference committee had made a mistake.

"We ought to try to correct it before we go home," he said. "At a place like Churchill Downs on Derby Day," Long explained in a television interview, "they are going to have people by the hundreds standing in line. They will have to have 50 agents out there to be filling all these forms out if somebody wins a big bet."

TF residents report more spider bites

The difficulty with positively identifying the various cases as Brown Recluse bites is that the patients never produce a spider that could prove the Brown Recluse is in Idaho.

Because the bite itself is usually painless, victims are unaware when bitten and usually don't even see the spider.

Dr. Wright, however, doesn't feel this prevents the positive identification of the Brown Recluse bites on patients and so strong proof that the spiders have migrated into the Northwest.

"I would say that even in the absence of the actual villain it is a clinical diagnosis," Dr. Wright said. "There are no other insect bites or arachnid bites that cause deep ulcerating wounds."

Gamet is not the only patient Dr. Wright has treated for suspected Brown Recluse bites.

He treated another patient from Twin Falls before Gamet. Dr. Wright says he has heard from other doctors of several other cases in this area in the past four years which appeared to be Brown Recluse bites.

"I would guess that about one patient per year has been hospitalized here," Dr. Wright said.

However, Dr. Charles Baker, a professor of Biology who specializes in entomology at Boise State University and who two years ago researched reported incidents of the Brown Recluse in the Pacific Northwest, is skeptical that the spiders are in Idaho.

"I think we would have turned up a spider by now with all the state agencies and entomologists around," Dr. Baker said. He claims the nearest authenticated Brown Recluse was in Laramie, Wyo.

Dr. Baker believes there is another spider native to Idaho which has a bite like the Brown Recluse's. He says the conditions associated with the Brown Recluse were only discovered and confirmed in the late 1950s.

"I am hoping to start next year and get underway with a program to screen some of the local spiders," Dr. Baker said. "I want to see if we don't have another spider that is capable of causing a necrotic condition to a condition where local cell tissue dies off while still most of a living body."

Other cases of the suspected Brown Recluse bite on humans have been reported in Boise, and in Washington and Oregon. It is an eerie coincidence that Mrs. Spielman and Gamet live within three blocks of each other in Twin Falls.

Dr. Wright insists this is just coincidence and does not indicate the spiders are confined to just one area in Twin Falls. Rather he suspects they are all over the area, but undiscovered. Due to their shy and "reclusive" nature.

Dr. Wright says he has seen documentation of the spider's existence in Utah, and there are reportedly two documented cases of the spiders in Washington.

The Brown Recluse is believed to have originally been native to South and Central America, but for years, it was known to exist in the United States, although only in South, Southwest and Midwest.

Reports of the deadly spider, however, have begun appearing in both eastern and western states in recent years. Entomologists do not believe the brown, violin-marked spiders could migrate on their own, and they speculated that they probably are carried into other states by crawling into wadded newspapers, clothing, and blankets being carried there by cans, campers, trucks and trailers.

One undocumented report in Idaho involves a Boise man who was bitten while unloading wood from a truck that had come from Texas where the spiders are known to exist.

Although the Brown Recluse is a shy and retiring spider, it has been found to be very adaptable.

"The First Aid and Civil Defense Book," which has a section describing the spider, says the female may produce as many as 500 fertile eggs a year and that the mother protects her young until they mature. Experts believe 50 per cent of each generation reach maturity and each Brown Recluse can live for several years.

Moreover, "The First Aid and Civil Defense Book" reports the spiders can remain alive in temperatures ranging from 110 to 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Idaho and the other northwestern states would be on the periphery of the area where the spider could conceivably survive.

It is doubtful the Brown Recluse could live through a winter here outside. But if in a house or building it is possible it could survive, experts say.

Two extreme cases of the spiders establishing themselves and then proliferating are reported in Illinois.

In May, 1967 "The First Aid and Civil Defense Book" says, the Brown Recluse spiders were found in Eastern Illinois Laboratory School at Charleston, Ill. The spiders had become so numerous that the school was to be closed for several days while exterminators went through.

Then, in early 1976 "The First Aid and Civil Defense Book" reports the Maton Illinois High School was closed for an extermination program when the Brown Recluse spiders were found in lockers and halls.

Idaho nurses meet in TF

TWIN FALLS — Idaho nurses will attend a two-day Nursing Education Conference today and Friday in Twin Falls.

The conference, which will take place at the Blue Lakes Inn, is sponsored by the College of Southern Idaho, the Idaho Confederation of Health Education Consortia, the Idaho Office on Aging and the Idaho Nurses Association.

The two-day event will include 14 special seminars focusing on different aspects and issues of nursing. There will also be a banquet and fashion show.

The seminar program scheduled throughout both days will include programs entitled: Changes in Nursing Home Care; Nursing Homes as Separate Home Care Settings; Physical Assessment-Practical Application, Assessment Training, Legislative Action and Issues in Long Term Care.

Thursday evening a banquet is planned for the nurses attending the conference.

Constance Holleran, the executive director of the American Nurses Association for government affairs, will be the keynote speaker at the banquet.

Friday morning there will be a uniform-fashion show at a buffet-breakfast for the nurses.

The conference, which began this morning with the first seminar programs, will continue through Friday afternoon.

Hansen takes complaint to OSHA administrator

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A complaint about Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) inspectors went right to the top Wednesday when Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, handed it to OSHA administrator, Dr. Martin Carn.

The complaint, sent to Hansen by Richard Wheeler, secretary-treasurer of, Curl Manufacturing, makers of potato harvesting and handling equipment in Twin Falls, alleged inspections by OSHA men "bordered on harassment."

"In a letter to the editor of the 'Times-News,' Wheeler cited eight inspectors during the course of one year, violations which seemed trivial and cost his company 'thousands of dollars.'"

Hansen yesterday met with Dr. Carn and read Wheeler's list of complaints, according to a Hansen aide, as part of Hansen's task force on government agency review.

A Hansen aide said Wednesday Wheeler's letter is just the sort of example of unfair OSHA practices Hansen has been looking for to slow Corn.

Corn replied he has been in the process of "upgrading" OSHA field offices and inspectors to avoid future situations where inspectors make all the judgments on safety and health, according to a Hansen news release.

"It is a long road of upgrading our inspectors: constant upgrading of the hiring of all compliance officers," Corn told Hansen. "The course we're on will be a steady course. Have some faith, we hear you."

When asked if he thought it necessary for OSHA to "upgrade" its inspectors, Wheeler said today, "I certainly do."

Wheeler said the first inspector who came to Curl was "prerty others," but he could not say that about the others. He labeled the other inspectors "obstinate."

"The only way to rectify this situation would be more legislation," Wheeler said. "There is a bill in front of Congress now which would require the inspectors to consult with us on their inspections."

"They would have to make suggestions in us about improving our operation and give us time to fix it up instead of slapping the fines on us and giving us so much time to fix the violations or we are hung," Wheeler continued.

"I don't think anything is against making their place safe," Wheeler explained. "We are all willing to work with them."

Landfill contract renewed

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County last week renewed its landfill contract with Paul Welch for $104,000 for 1977, according to County Commissioner Meri Leonard.

Leonard said Tuesday Welch provides personnel and equipment to run the county's landfill sites.

"As a county we don't feel we can get into the heavy equipment of landfill," Leonard said. "And we don't want to compete with private enterprise."

The 1977 contract is identical to the 1976 contract, Leonard said. Both reflect a rise from the 1975 contract of $101,000, due to inflation.

There are two "approved" landfill sites in the county, according to Leonard. Black Bear is a 40-acre site west of Bull owned by the Twin

3 bond votes slated Oct. 12

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Three school districts in Twin Falls will be voting Oct. 12 on bond issues, having adopted a common date. Hoping one failure would not discourage support of others.

Residents of Bull, Hansen and Twin Falls will be voting Oct. 12 on various-sized general obligation bond issues. Both Bull and Twin Falls propose new buildings and Hansen is planning an expansion.

School trustees of both Hansen and Bull have stated they favored a common date because one failure might trigger defeat in later elections.

In the Twin Falls district, voters will cast ballots from 8 p.m. to 8 p.m. Bull will be open from noon to 8 p.m. in Bull and Hansen.

At a meeting held at the high school, Bull voters to approve a $4.3-million bond issue for a new inner high school building to replace the 12-year-old O'Leary building.

Voters in Bull District 412 will be voting on a $2.30 million bond issue which will, if approved, provide funds for a new three-year high school building. A bond issue of approximately the same size failed to pass last year by only a narrow margin.

In the Hansen district-415, where a new grade school building in use only one full year is already too small, voters are being asked to support a bond in the amount of $30,000 to build four classrooms and a multi-purpose room.

All three school districts already have property on which to locate their new or expanded buildings.

The new O'Leary Junior High School would be erected on property bounded by Elizabeth Boulevard and Eastland Drive. It would accommodate about 1,000 students allowing for anticipated growth in areas northeast of the city. The "core facility" in the new building would increase the capacity to 1,200 students.

Other building plans include a multi-purpose auditorium and a total of 108,000 square feet of interior floor space for classrooms and special facilities. Location of the new junior high school would require a realignment of junior high school boundaries, Slavin said.

One of the problems faced by the citizens committee for the O'Leary bond issue has been the Twin Falls teacher strike.

Dan Slavin, co-chairman of the citizens group, said this morning he feels the strike was sufficiently short as to cause no damage to the bond issue. He said that the strike continued over a long period, possibly to the first of October, it would have carried over to give schools in general a "black eye" as far as public sentiment is concerned.

"Certainly," he said, "this would have made a number of people turn against the bond issue as well."

"However, I do not think at this point we have been jeopardized," he said.

Bob King, co-chairman with Slavin, echoed the same views saying the citizens committee working to promote the coming bond issue purposely stayed clear of the strike issue.

Slavin said the committee will now move ahead at full speed to provide information to the public on the coming election. Pamphlets published by the architect are available and will be distributed in the near future. A slide show is being prepared by Dorothy Prater to present at public meetings or on request from service and civic groups.

The committee will also provide speakers who will give a resume of the proposal and answer questions from interested persons. Slavin, who said he does not know of any alternatives to the bond in meeting the junior high school space problem, said if there is one, it would probably be another bond issue at a later date and in a larger amount to cover climbing building costs.

Estimates of the costs of the O'Leary bond issue to the taxpayers of the district have been computed on a monthly and annual basis by the fiscal agent for the district.

The owner of a $20,000 market-value home in the district would pay $1.54 per month or $18.42 per year in additional taxes. On a $30,000 home the cost would be $2.30 per month or $27.63 a year. Owner of $50,000 in property would be paying $3.64 per month or $55.76 annually. On a $75,000 market-value home, the cost of the bonds. As the payments continue the annual figure would be reduced.

The owner of a $20,000 market-value home in the district would pay $1.54 per month or $18.42 per year in additional taxes. On a $30,000 home the cost would be $2.30 per month or $27.63 a year. Owner of $50,000 in property would be paying $3.64 per month or $55.76 annually. On a $75,000 market-value home, the cost of the bonds. As the payments continue the annual figure would be reduced.

The Bull district, proposing an 11 mill levy increase, estimates taxpayer costs for the new high school would run about $44.16 per year for the owner of a $30,000 market value home. This would increase to $66.12 on a $50,000 home or other property.

Bull trustees have been keeping the bond issue somewhat "low key" this year after an all-out effort to publicize the campaign failed to bring passage of the election.

Trustees in Bull feel they may have pushed too hard a year ago and voters tired of hearing about the bond issue prior to the election.

Bull too has no alternative but to continue to appeal for bonds in order to replace buildings dating back as far as 1908.

In all three bond issue elections, voters need not be property owners. Any qualified voter who is 18 years of age may vote in the elections in their districts.

In the Hansen district, two meetings are scheduled for the coming week for public discussion on the bond issue. One will be held at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday in the high school cafeteria, and the other will be Oct. 4 at 8 p.m. in the little gymnasium of the Earl Miller school.

Superintendent Garth Miller said estimates on the cost of the bond issue will be available at that time. At this time the district is estimating a 10 mill increase in the school levy.

Hailey airline use up

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — The total number of airline passengers landing and taking off from Friedman Memorial Airport is expected to increase nearly 10,000 this year over 1975's figure.

Friedman Airport is experiencing a growth in activity, but is probably under-utilized proportionally by any other airport in the state, according to manager Mont Stocking.

Key Airlines, the only major carrier, transported about 32,000 passengers last year. That number will zoom to an anticipated 48,000 passengers this year.

Key Airlines has been responsible for the major increase in air traffic although private craft and some small charters have also contributed to the load.

Brent Wiseman, a Salt Lake City marketing specialist with Key, said the airline and Sun Valley Co. have launched promotion campaigns which have included for passenger count jumps.

The winter alone, Wiseman said, there will be three times as many seats available on flights into Hailey as last year. On a busy Saturday, Key will be able to provide 950 seats during the winter, he added.

Next summer the airline plans to put one more Convair on the schedule from Salt Lake into Friedman, he said.

Private aircraft into Friedman are keeping pace with Key Airlines, Stocking said.

'Supreme Way' investigation begins

Lucero said people who habitually bought expensive items instead of less expensive substitutes would probably never "break even."

Lucero also said that the cost per item to "Supreme Way" members including the membership fee was greater than prices available in retail stores.

Lucero said that after the suit was filed in Denver, the majority stockholder in Miron Corp., a West German corporation named HUSTLE, declared its assets in jeopardy and called in its security interest in the Miron Corp., which included a $2.5 million loan to Miron.

Miron and consequently Supreme Food, which the Colorado suit alleges are one and the same, were forced to suspend operations in August. Many customers have not received any food from the company since then.

Lucero said HUSTLE then transferred the assets of Supreme Food to an organization known as Western Food Plan, Inc.

He said these assets amounted to $3.9 million; $2.3 million of this amount are monies still owed on membership fees by subscribers to the "Supreme Way" plan through Idaho and other Western States.

Western Food Plan circulated a letter in Idaho and other Western states dated Aug. 26 informing subscribers to the "Supreme Way" plan that "Although Western Food Plan has no obligation to provide food services to you...Western was, nevertheless, going to attempt to...be successful in providing home delivery food services at prices significantly lower than those prevailing in retail locations."

The letter also instructed members to continue making membership payments to Western Food Plan, Inc.

Sandy Alley, vice-president of Western Food Plan, Inc. and manager of the Western Food Plan Finance company in Denver, said Western Food Plan took over Supreme Food's business effective August 4.

Alley said Western Food Plan feels it can operate the business at a profit.

When asked why Supreme Food went out of business, Alley responded, "They just weren't making a profit."

The Colorado suit contends Western Food Plan and HUSTLE are one and the same organization.

Lucero said Colorado's information indicates Western is a wholly owned subsidiary of HUSTLE and all or most of Western's operating funds are provided by HUSTLE. Lucero said Western has received two $250,000 loans from Western.

Colorado is seeking to prove the transfer of assets from Supreme Food Co. to Western Food Plan, Inc. was fraudulent.

The Colorado suit also contends Western Food Plan, Inc. will be able to deliver home food services at reduced rates than was Supreme Food Co.

Lucero said Colorado's information indicates that Supreme Food's sales volume in May of this year was $1.6 million per month, and the firm was operating at a loss at the time.

According to Lucero, Western Food Plan, Inc. estimated their monthly sales would total only $250,000. He said Western intends to provide services to members in only four states — Idaho, Wyoming, Utah and Colorado.

Lucero said Western also estimated that their price to members on food items would be approximately 15 per cent over wholesale.

Lucero said his information indicated Supreme also sold food items to its members at wholesale plus 15 per cent.

Discount supermarkets in Colorado sold food to their customers at approximately wholesale plus 13 per cent, he said.

According to Lucero, Colorado will petition the Court to place the assets of the Western Food Company in receivership and to instruct the receiver to attempt to operate the business in Colorado at a profit or, failing that, to redistribute the assets of the Supreme Food Co. to individuals in Colorado making claims against the Supreme Food Co.

Lucero said that if the suit were successful, only those members of "Supreme Way" located in Colorado would be benefited.

(See Related Story p. 1)

Lucero said that Colorado is attempting to have the assets placed in receivership rather than asking the court to instruct Western to continue to provide services because it is Lucero's opinion that the business will not be profitable and that, therefore, the assets of the company will merely be dissipated. Colorado is seeking a temporary restraining order freezing the assets of Supreme Food Co.

Salmon River study funded by $1 million

POCATELLO (ISU) — Because it is largely in its original, unpolluted state, the Salmon River soon will become the center of intense research activity which is part of work being done with $1 million in National Science Foundation (NSF) funds.

Scheduled to study this Idaho river is a team of about 25 scientists from four academic institutions, according to Dr. G. Wayne Marshall, an Idaho State University (ISU) professor of zoology who is a co-principal investigator for the Salmon study, and Dr. Robert C. Petersen, a zoologist at the University of Idaho.

The problem today is to find the great rivers of our country and in most areas of the world are either dammed or polluted or otherwise in an unnatural state," he added.

"Once this condition is reached, it is impossible to determine how the basic river biology operates. There are, however, a few relatively undisturbed rivers. The Salmon River is one of these. Although man has been using the Salmon River for the last several thousand years, his effect on the river has been minor. Therefore, it is an ideal river to test the ideas we have about stream ecology and learn about big rivers."

"What our research will enable us to do is to help man to better use the environment. Before we use it, we must understand it and we are trying to understand it."

Among those who will find the research information gained useful are those taking part in decisions regarding sewage treatment, dam, forestry practices, recreational uses of rivers, fisheries management and land management.

"One use of our study will be to provide future scientists with baseline data on the river," explained Dr. Petersen. "In 10 years scientists may want to know if the Salmon River has changed. They can study it and compare their results with our 1977 data."

Those working on this project are from the ISU, the Biology Department, the Stroud Water Research Center of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, the Kellogg Biological Station of Michigan State University, East Lansing, and the Department of Fisheries and Wildlife at Oregon State University, Corvallis.

The co-principal investigators are Marshall, ISU; Dr. Robin Vanatta, director of the Stroud Center; Dr. Ken Cummins of the Kellogg Station; and Dr. Jim Sedell, Oregon State University.

"For the past 10 years," said Petersen, "a group of scientists whose main interest was understanding the biology and life-of-streams-and-rivers has been working in various parts of the country and coming together every so often to discuss their discoveries and unsolved problems."

"They realized that there are some basic similarities in the biology of streams no matter whether the streams are in the Western Cascades of Oregon, the deserts of Idaho or the eastern deciduous forests."

"They also realized that to achieve a better understanding of the biology of streams, a large-scale and intensive research project would have to be performed on a large river. Each had been able to make significant discoveries by himself on his local stream but realized that to find true universal concepts and to investigate larger rivers, it would take more than one investigator could provide.

"The researchers, therefore, joined together in what has now become called the River Continuum Project. This group of scientists forms an interdisciplinary team consisting of those in the fields of stream biology, chemistry, zoology, botany, geology, and systems science.

"The NSF was approached for supporting funds and agreed to finance the three-year research project. The NSF saw this project as an attempt to bring together a large number of scientists in an organized manner to conduct a much needed research study."

The research on the Salmon River will start at a location just above Challis Lake in the river to Higgins, above the confluence of the Salmon with the Snake River. The study includes the Salmon River portion running through the Primitive Area.

In late September of this year the co-principal investigators will meet for a conference and to visit "the Salmon to select" research sites. In April, 1977, the entire project staff will assemble for the research work.

In 1977 the team will spend one month in the spring, one month in the summer, and one month in the fall examining the basic biology of the river and looking at the interaction of the land and the river.

"It will be an intensive period of research with studies and measurements being performed continuously for the entire month," said Petersen. "It will require shifts of people to work round the clock."

Teams of scuba divers will sample the bottom of the Salmon River in the fast and turbulent waters using modified mountain climbing techniques adapted for diving on "the bottom" in swift currents.

"Other people," Petersen said, "will be looking at material being transported from the headwaters down the river and seeing what insects and fish feed on this material. Still others will be examining the river channel for physical changes that will affect the biology. In short, the complete anatomy and physiology of the river will be investigated."

Britain's economy continues to slump

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's economy, virtually under siege for the past year, has taken another battering with the pound hitting its lowest level on foreign exchanges.

The pound now has an effective devaluation against the currencies of Britain's major trading partners of 42 per cent on 1971 levels.

The latest bout of pressure on sterling has brought gloom to the city and led to speculation the government may have to seek loans from the International Monetary Fund to meet the crisis.

"We're drifting off our course," one newspaper said. "There is a real reason for concern."

The rate of inflation rose 1.4 per cent from July to August, giving an annual rate of 13.8 per cent. The increase, while only the first in 11 months, has increased the government's inflation target to 15 per cent.

Prime Minister James Callaghan admits the nation is walking an "economic high wire" but insists better times are coming.

"I believe there are rational grounds for optimism," Callaghan said. "Britain is better poised now to achieve a new industrial thrust and a new stable prosperity than it has ever been in my lifetime."

Callaghan's revenue expected from North Sea oil fields "could not be allowed to replace economic effort and sacrifice."

Callaghan has pinned his hopes on the government's social contract — with the unions to control pay increases and curb inflation.

But one CBI official predicted, "Things are going to get worse before they get better."

City schools seek funds for services

By United Press International
Squeezed between declining tax bases and increasing inflation, school systems in many cities find themselves hard-pressed to maintain a full range of educational services.

A UPI nationwide survey shows:

In New York City, the school system's 1.1 million students found 5,000 fewer teachers when they returned to classrooms this month.

Lacking school roofs in Los Angeles left unrepaid due to an $80 million backlog in maintenance work have forced cancellation of some classes.

The Detroit school district was able to continue football and girls' basketball this fall only through receipt of $500,000 from a bank, but no athletic extracurricular activities are out.

New York City has $44.6 million less to spend on educational programs this school year, according to board officials.

1978-79 school year in turn for a budget program envisioning a full school year. Chicago schools closed 16 days early last spring because of money problems. The tentative school budget has a $147.1 million deficit, largest ever.

The 235,000-student Detroit school system drew up a budget calling for half-day sessions in most schools, but the state Board of Education insisted on the full school day.

About 250 laid off teachers are being called back due to the state order.

Normal Fugua, executive deputy superintendent, says, "In no way are we offering an effective, normal program."

The Pittsburgh school board eliminated 224 teaching posts last fall. The cuts will mean an increase in average class size and the construction timetable has been stretched out. The board estimates that the school system, facing an $80 million deficit, dropped 2,000 teaching positions through attrition.

The teachers' union gave up an immediate salary increase.

The San Francisco school system is hard-pressed to do day-to-day repairs. The associate superintendent, Milton Reiterman, says that a "financial crunch" has necessitated shifting teachers around to fill gaps, causing "a lot of teacher unrest."

In Boston, court order "busting to achieve integration— affecting 22,000 of the 78,000 students—has created a fiscal problem.

"We spend $2,500 per student, and with that money we would be able to send the children to the best prep schools," said Mayor Kevin White.

to 42,000 teachers and other professionals—15,000 fewer than two years ago and a drop of 5,000 from last year—although enrollment is only slightly down.

Teachers did not receive a salary increase last year and cost-of-living and longevity hikes have been deferred.

The Los Angeles Unified School District, totaling more than 600,000 students over 710 square miles, now has schoolroom floors swept every other day instead of daily due to the loss of 627 janitors.

Superintendent William Johnson estimates that $300 million is needed for new construction.

Chicago teachers agreed to forego a salary increase in the

Tori Richter, 15-year-old Jerome student, and her instructor, Shepherd Reale, demonstrate self-defense techniques during practice session at 'Y' Photos and text by Irene Link

Value of self-defense skills aired

TWIN FALLS — Self-defense for women. Who needs it?

This very well may be the attitude of many women in our area. After all, we do not live in the crime-ridden metropolitan areas of this country where women must constantly be on guard.

Women in the Magic Valley would be naive to accept this attitude and go on assuming that "nothing will ever happen to me," according to law enforcement officials.

For one thing, assault on women does occur, here. Statistics from the Twin Falls Police Department show that during 1975, within the city limits of Twin Falls, there was plenty of crime which affected women. There were 7 cases of strong-armed robbery, which includes purse-snatching.

There were three armed robberies. There were 88 cases of assault and battery, which of course, included some domestic cases. There were 20 cases of assault. And, there were 11 cases of rape.

These are only the "reported" cases. It is general knowledge that, especially in the case of rape, many cases go unreported for various and rather obvious reasons.

Namely, many women erroneously feel shame and guilt over the incident and cannot face the prospects of the publicity and exposure in court that can follow the reporting of rape. This can be somewhat remedied when we accept the fact that rape is a violent crime.

In fact, the Magic Valley Rape Crisis Center is working toward aiding local victims of rape.

Because these statistics represent crimes reported only within the Twin Falls City limits, we know that these numbers would swell considerably if we could obtain accurate statistics that reflect the crime rate in this entire part of southern Idaho.

Once we accept the fact that assault upon women does occur in our relatively peaceful valley, we then, as individual women, must ask ourselves what we plan to do to protect ourselves.

Some answers to that question are easily apparent. It is not intelligent for a woman to walk down dark alleys at night. It is not wise to loiter in sleazy bars. It isn't very smart to hitchhike. And the obvious goes on and on.

Of course, a woman cannot lock herself within her home and draw the blinds in order to protect herself from possible assault. That wouldn't do much good anyway, since many attacks on women take place within their own homes by either strangers or men who know them casually.

Perhaps the best approach is the sensible approach. A woman can learn to protect herself by developing a few simple techniques that may help to repel would-be attackers. The ideal solution would be to achieve a black belt in karate. But, that is not really necessary. However, karate can offer some of the best techniques in self-defense.

The YWCA is interested in helping Magic Valley women gain a respectable degree of ability in self-defense techniques and have begun a Saturday program.

The instructors are Tori Richter and Shepherd Reale. Tori is a 15-year-old Jerome High School student who in 1975, has earned the first degree black belt with the guidance of her instructor, Shepherd Reale of Jerome.

Tori practices her skill at least 10 hours a week and has been at it for two years.

Reale is a full-time instructor in Karate and the martial arts in Jerome and Gooding with 14 years experience. Tori was his first, female student in this area and he is obviously proud of the results.

Reale feels that any woman of any age and any degree of physical ability could gain valuable knowledge and skills from a course in self-defense.

Learning to defend oneself against attack does not require great athletic talent.

"One of the biggest problems women have in protecting themselves is that they are too timid and meek, perhaps from traditional conditioning," states Reale.

"If a woman is able to handle self-defense techniques as well as the psychological aspect of being attacked, she has a good chance to come out of the attack without serious injury."

The self-defense course being taught at the YWCA combines techniques from all of the ancient martial arts which include judo, jujitsu and karate.

Reale says that, "Women are easy to teach. They have a lot of flexibility and coordination which gives them the ability to follow through with a series of movements. While women are often afraid to start a class in self-defense, once they are into it, they find that it isn't as hard as they thought it would be."

"We can show you how to use the power you already have. We can reinforce the ability you have to know logically what to do in case of an attack. It is logic that you already have but have never used or have never been required to use. But it can be applied to your own self-defense."

Reale finds that, "Gaining skill in the martial arts is a good way to keep people out of a box. It gives you immense self-confidence. It fosters respect. It is a marvelous opportunity for a person to master something. And it is within anyone's reach. Anyone of any age can learn some degree of skill."

It is absolutely imperative for a woman to know how to defend herself, whether she is ever actually called upon to use her knowledge or not. Of course, the best way to protect yourself is to avoid becoming a target in the first place. Always exercise reasonable caution.

If you do find yourself in a less-than-safe situation, think ahead! Mentally plan your moves. Be alert in public places.

And if you really want to be prepared, join the class at the YWCA on Saturday and learn Self-Defense for Women. Who needs it? Do you?

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune. T. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, Jimmy, a junior in college, has just informed his father and me that he is moving out of the house to live on campus, just 30 minutes from here. He plans to share an apartment with another college student.

"We can't understand why he wants to move. He has a lovely big room here, with all the privacy in the world; and it's free. He says he wants "total independence."

Jimmy has always worked and saved his money so we know he can handle it financially. He's a good boy, makes good grades and has never given us any trouble.

He says after he moves, he hopes he'll be welcome to come home for dinner maybe once a week. We assured him he'd be welcome for dinner anytime. Then he asked if he could bring his dirty laundry home for me to do. I said, "No, not as long as you're living somewhere else."

"Was I wrong? My husband agrees with me, but my sister doesn't."

Washington 'sex' scene described

NEW YORK — Young women in Washington, D.C. became "whores" without even knowing it, according to Washington Post reporter Sally Quinn who said today that "pimps" and "beards" are part of the "secret sex" scene in Washington.

Writing in the current (October) issue of Redbook magazine, just released, Ms. Quinn described a system of "procurement" used by some members of Congress, and said a son-of-a-bitch once tried to use that system on her.

"Discussing the various methods Congressmen use to conduct their illicit sexual affairs, including "a house on Capitol Hill," Ms. Quinn declared, "If a politician is well-known, usually he'll use what can only be called the pimp system." She said that aides and assistants make arrangements for their bosses with young women they have seen or met at parties and found attractive.

One senator's assistant once tried to arrange such a date with her by pretending the official business was important — sorry for her — Ms. Quinn reported. "I was so furious, at having been dragged down to the Hill just to be propositioned by some greasy senator's greasy assistant that I jumped up from the table, curtly thanked him for the lunch and left," Ms. Quinn said. "When I called my boss, however, I was glad it had happened. I had been given a firsthand look at the way the pimp system operates."

"Really funny," married politicians, who can't afford to be seen in public with other women, take a "beard" along, according to Ms. Quinn. "A beard," she explained, "is a friend or another couple who bring the congressman and his date to dinner. For all public purposes the woman is the beard's guest."

Some public officials even use disguises while conducting their affairs. Ms. Quinn disclosed, but she also said that the prevalence of sex in politics is not entirely the men's fault. "They can take advantage of women if the women let them," she remarked. "Why do they do it? The answer, of course, is power — the number one commodity in Washington," and the system won't change until women themselves change it.

DEAR ABBY: I'm with you. A totally independent person shouldn't rely on his mother for laundry service.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I plan to adopt a baby without friends and relatives knowing it. We feel that we would be shielding the child from the many embarrassing questions and remarks to which most adopted children are subjected. We plan to announce my "pregnancy" three or four months before we actually bring the child into our home.

Could you please tell us where we could buy some "padding" that actresses wear to make them look like they are carrying a child? Thank you.

DEAR FUTURE: Frederick's of Hollywood has foam rubber panties that look (and feel) like the real thing. Maybe they could come up with a foam rubber tummy.

DEAR ABBY: Where did the custom of kissing a lady's hand originate? And what is the purpose of it?

DEAR MADE: It originated in France. And I suppose it's as good a place to start as any.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Laaky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Contending in Redbook that "there isn't a woman working on the Hill who was surprised by the Elizabeth Ray-Wayne Hays affair," Ms. Quinn urged them to refuse to be exploited.

Views differ on family life behavior

NEW YORK — There's the modern parent. See him? He's the one trying so hard to look comfortable. He knows that parents often unwittingly convey their own anxieties, their own hangups to their children. So he tries to take it easy, even in such tension-filled areas as sexuality and nudity.

But while this parent goes about the job of being modern — undressing in front of his children, bathing with them, all the while appearing not to give it a thought — some traditional doubts persist in the back of his mind. Isn't parental nudity supposed to be dangerous for children's sex?

According to at least one line of thinking, it is. Orthodox Freudians are concerned "about child sexuality, the child's attraction to the parent of the opposite sex and rivalry with the parent of the same sex. It's the Oedipal conflict that is said to develop around 4 or 5, and the child needs to resolve it to pursue a normal life. Parents, according to this point of view, would be well advised not to complicate matters by being "overstimulating" to the child.

One prominent New York psychoanalyst the withheld his name because he felt it was inappropriate for his patients to know his thinking) answered a question about parental nudity this way:

"In general there is disapproval of such a practice because the sexual stimulation has an adverse effect on children's development. It is a fairly common finding that homosexuals were overstimulated by their mothers who exposed themselves, and the result was that they turned away from women and interest in normal sexual development."

"Keeping a child in a state of suppressed sexual excitement," the analyst went on, "can interfere with the development of talents and skills; sometimes language development is impaired."

But not all authorities on child development hold to this line. Dr. Sol Gordon, director of the Institute for Family Research and Education at Syracuse University, asserts that the notion of parents being too seductive or overstimulating is "one of the serious impediments to parents being sex educators."

"In all the studies we reviewed," he said, "less than 20 per cent of the parents were reported by their children to have been the sex educators of those children — and these parents aren't ignorant."

Dr. Gordon urges parents of young children to dress and undress in front of them, to bathe with them and to do those things even if they feel a trifle uncomfortable about it.

"In general, it's a good idea," he said, "because it's a marvelous opportunity for parents to be as close to their bodies."

There are lines, however, when parental nudity is inappropriate even in Dr. Gordon's eyes. If a parent is more than just a trifle uncomfortable, for instance. "If it paralyzes you," he said, "don't do it."

Also when some children are able to deal easily with parental nudity throughout their childhood, many others are not. At some point during the school years, Dr. Gordon said, many children become more modest and want to cover themselves up, and they wish their parents would, too.

How can a parent know for sure that that point has been reached?

"There's a clear signal — the sound of doors closing. Parents who insist on being casually naked around the house after that appear to the children, Dr. Gordon said, as "a bit weird," and it's embarrassing, perhaps the beginning of alienation of child from parent.

A psychiatrist who agrees with Dr. Gordon that parental nudity can be helpful in the early years is Dr. William Hetszner, professor of psychiatry at Temple University, where he trains child-care workers.

But Dr. Hetszner has a somewhat more traditional view of what often happens, especially as a child reaches puberty, a period of tumultuous sexual development.

He described the switch to pigskin privacy in the school years as similar to "the privacy of the mind" many children strive for. When it comes to the sensitive subject of nudity, he said, "the child may simply not want to be in on it."

At puberty, he said, parental nudity may indeed be too stimulating to deal with normally, or too threatening. "Children often compare themselves unfavorably to the parents of the same sex," he said.

Suppose a child seems embarrassed and the parents take the attitude, "Well, he'll just have to get over it," Dr. Hetszner believes that if such be the case, the parents are probably wrong.

He said they ought to realize that family life is a matter of social contract, with each member requiring certain kinds of behavior from the others.

Parental nudity, he said, "might very well be a good subject for renegotiation."

Thoughts for today

"Courage is the first of human qualities because it is the quality which guarantees all the others." — Sir Winston Churchill.

"Above all am I convinced of the need, irresistible and inescapable, of every human heart, for God. No matter how we try to escape, to lose ourselves in restless seeking, we cannot separate ourselves from our divine source. There is no substitute for God. — Arthur J. Cronin, British author.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—

I want to know about body temperature. Mine is never 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. When I am well it is always 98 degrees. Since my temperature is never 98.6 degrees I figure that I must have a mild fever whenever it is 98.6 degrees.

Dear Reader—

A 98.6 degree F figure is just an approximation. A person's temperature may vary as much as three degrees in 24 hours and be perfectly normal. The temperature is lowest in the early morning hours while you are sleeping. Since few people take their temperature at that hour this point is not generally recognized.

The temperature is highest in the late afternoon or early evening and it can be as high as 100 degrees F, particularly in active children. In the absence of any medical problem at all, many mothers get alarmed because their children have temperatures higher than 98 degrees in the afternoon when in fact it is perfectly normal.

I suspect that a temperature of 99 degrees F for you is quite within your normal range but you are correct in assuming that if it could be more important in your case than in others. To evaluate a temperature you must know what time of day it is taken and under what circumstances. Having just drunk cold water will lower it; having drunk or eaten hot items will raise it.

To give you a better idea about body temperature I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-6, Body Temperature and Fever. It will also give you some tips on the problems people have with thermometers. Others who want this information can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 56, Twin Falls, Idaho, TX 78292.

Dear Lamb—

I have some advice on kidney stones? What causes them? Can these be cured? Also what about a diet? I know a man who has been in and out of the hospital several times with them. The last time the stone could not be removed, but finally he passed it. I would appreciate whatever you can tell me.

Dear Reader—

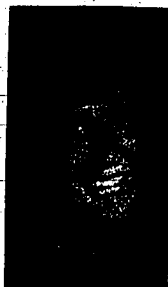

Anyone who has a kidney stone should have a complete medical examination in an effort to determine the cause. They can be caused by medical problems that in turn cause a high level of calcium in the blood. They can occur as a complication of kidney infections.

Other than those formed as a complication of infection there is usually little that you can accomplish by diet. Some doctors do recommend limiting calcium intake but if the increased calcium is from other causes, such as that dissolved out of the bones, that will not help much.

My best recommendation I can give to anyone with kidney stones is to get a complete evaluation, as to be sure to drink lots of fluids. If you drink lots of water all through the day so the urine is never concentrated you will have less chance of the minerals clumping and leading to the formation of a stone. How much water should you drink?

The important point is to drink whatever amount is needed to cause regular passage of large volumes of urine. In hot weather, or if sweating, that may mean drinking more water than you would on cooler days or when not working.

Miss Spencer is a 1975 graduate of Jerome High School and is employed at Tupperware Co., Jerome.

Thomas was graduated from Bull High School in 1973 and is employed at Green Giant Co., Bull.

A late October wedding is planned.

Woman places

FILER — Mrs. James Blakley won the "Mrs. Congeniality" award at the National Beef Cookout held over the weekend in Salt Lake City.

Named to the award by choice of the contestants of all the states represented, Mrs. Blakley was presented an arrangement of fresh flowers to bring home with her. She was also given a corsage as a gift from the Idaho State CowBelles.

First, second and third place winners were from Illinois, Ohio and Oklahoma. The 1977 cookout will be held in Ohio.

'Y' offers variety of programs

TWIN FALLS — Everything from dancing to self-analysis can be found on the activities agenda of the Y-M-W-C-A for the fall season.

A ballet dance program will be offered by Helen Ryall on Tuesday afternoons. The dance class begins at 4 p.m. to accommodate all youngsters six to 12 years old. Students will learn coordination skills and beginning ballet steps.

Modern dance will be available to everyone from one-year-old babies to adults.

Students in first through sixth grade will meet at 4:30 p.m. for one hour Monday and Wednesday; children ages one to four will meet at 3 a.m. Monday and Wednesday; teenagers will meet at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday and adults will meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

All of these courses are now underway and will cover a four-week period.

Belly dancing, which is not only a form of dance but a form of good exercise, according to instructor Joanie Cochrane, is now underway at 7 p.m. for an eight-week period. Interested persons should contact the "Y" office for additional information.

All interested women are invited to participate in the women's center program at the "Y" each Wednesday noon for a brown bag luncheon and informal discussion. The weekly luncheon gives women an opportunity to meet together and discuss topics of their own choosing.

There is also a monthly soup and bread luncheon at 5:55 per plate featuring homemade soup, bread and a beverage.

Other special programs of the YWCA include macrame classes for beginners, with Bonnie Barker as instructor. The class began Sept. 15 and is limited to 12 members. Advanced macrame will be offered in the spring.

There will also be a Christmas macrame class beginning Nov. 10 to help women with their holiday gifts and decorations. All macrame classes run from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Wednesdays.

The pool bridge play continues this year at 1 p.m. on Mondays. This is an informal bridge play for the enjoyment of afternoon bridge fans with $1 per player.

Other YWCA programs include an herb identification class covering all exotic herbs, which can be harvested. This class also opened Sept. 15 under the direction of Mark Miller. There will be three classes, including one full-day field trip.

A nutrition class will begin Oct. 11 at 7 p.m. It will feature demonstrations in bread-making, nutritional dishes and many other food hints. Bessy Kuest will be the instructor and the first class will be held at 7 p.m. Pre-registration is necessary. Call the "Y" office.

Lanaze training will continue this year with a seven week program offered at 8 p.m. Mondays and Tuesdays.

Career exploration will be offered Mondays from 3 to 4 p.m.

The little "parent, 'n tot" programs are scheduled each Thursday for six weeks.

High-level wellness is offered on Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. and a self-defense class for women Saturdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. (sponsored).

In addition, a number of exercise programs, swimming events, tennis instruction, and jogging and tumbling opportunities are available.

Additional information on cost of the various programs, registration and times of the classes is available by calling the "Y" office, 733-3381.

Gina Ostyn, Hankins wed

TWIN FALLS — The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Duane Hankins was the setting for the Sept. 15 ceremony uniting in marriage Gina Ostyn and Michael Hankins.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Ostyn, Twin Falls; and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Duane Hankins, Twin Falls.

Judge Reed Maughn, Twin Falls, performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, wore a wedding gown of creme colored muslin trimmed with satin and lace. She carried a crescent bouquet of yellow roses and daisies.

Dana Bowyer, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, George Dusold, Sugar City, was best man.

Five relatives were honored at a reception directly following the ceremony at the Blue Lakes Inn, where they were greeted by friends and relatives.

Helping at the reception were Julie Curtis, Twin Falls; Carrie Enlow, cousin of the bride, Boise; Mrs. Lawrence Curtis, Twin Falls; Mrs. Jim Berkeley, Twin Falls; Eldonna Ver Wey, Twin Falls, and Mrs. George Dusold, Sugar City.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with daisies. Lucille Robinson made it.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Taylor, Boise, grandparents of the bride; Mrs. A. Ostyn, Nampa, grandmother of the bride; Bruce Ostyn, brother of the bride, and Wayne Ritsley, both Eugene, Ore., and Mr. and Mrs. George Dusold, Sugar City.

One great advantage of using all four notrump calls as Blackwood is that you never get confused. Our recommendation for the ordinary player that he amend this so that a jump to four notrump directly after partner's bid of one or two notrump be the only use of four notrump as a notrump raise is almost as simple.

Experts go a lot further in complicating this problem. Some get good results, others occasional misunderstandings, but many frequently lack success.

The bidding of today's hand is typical of the every day American bridge game. North

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

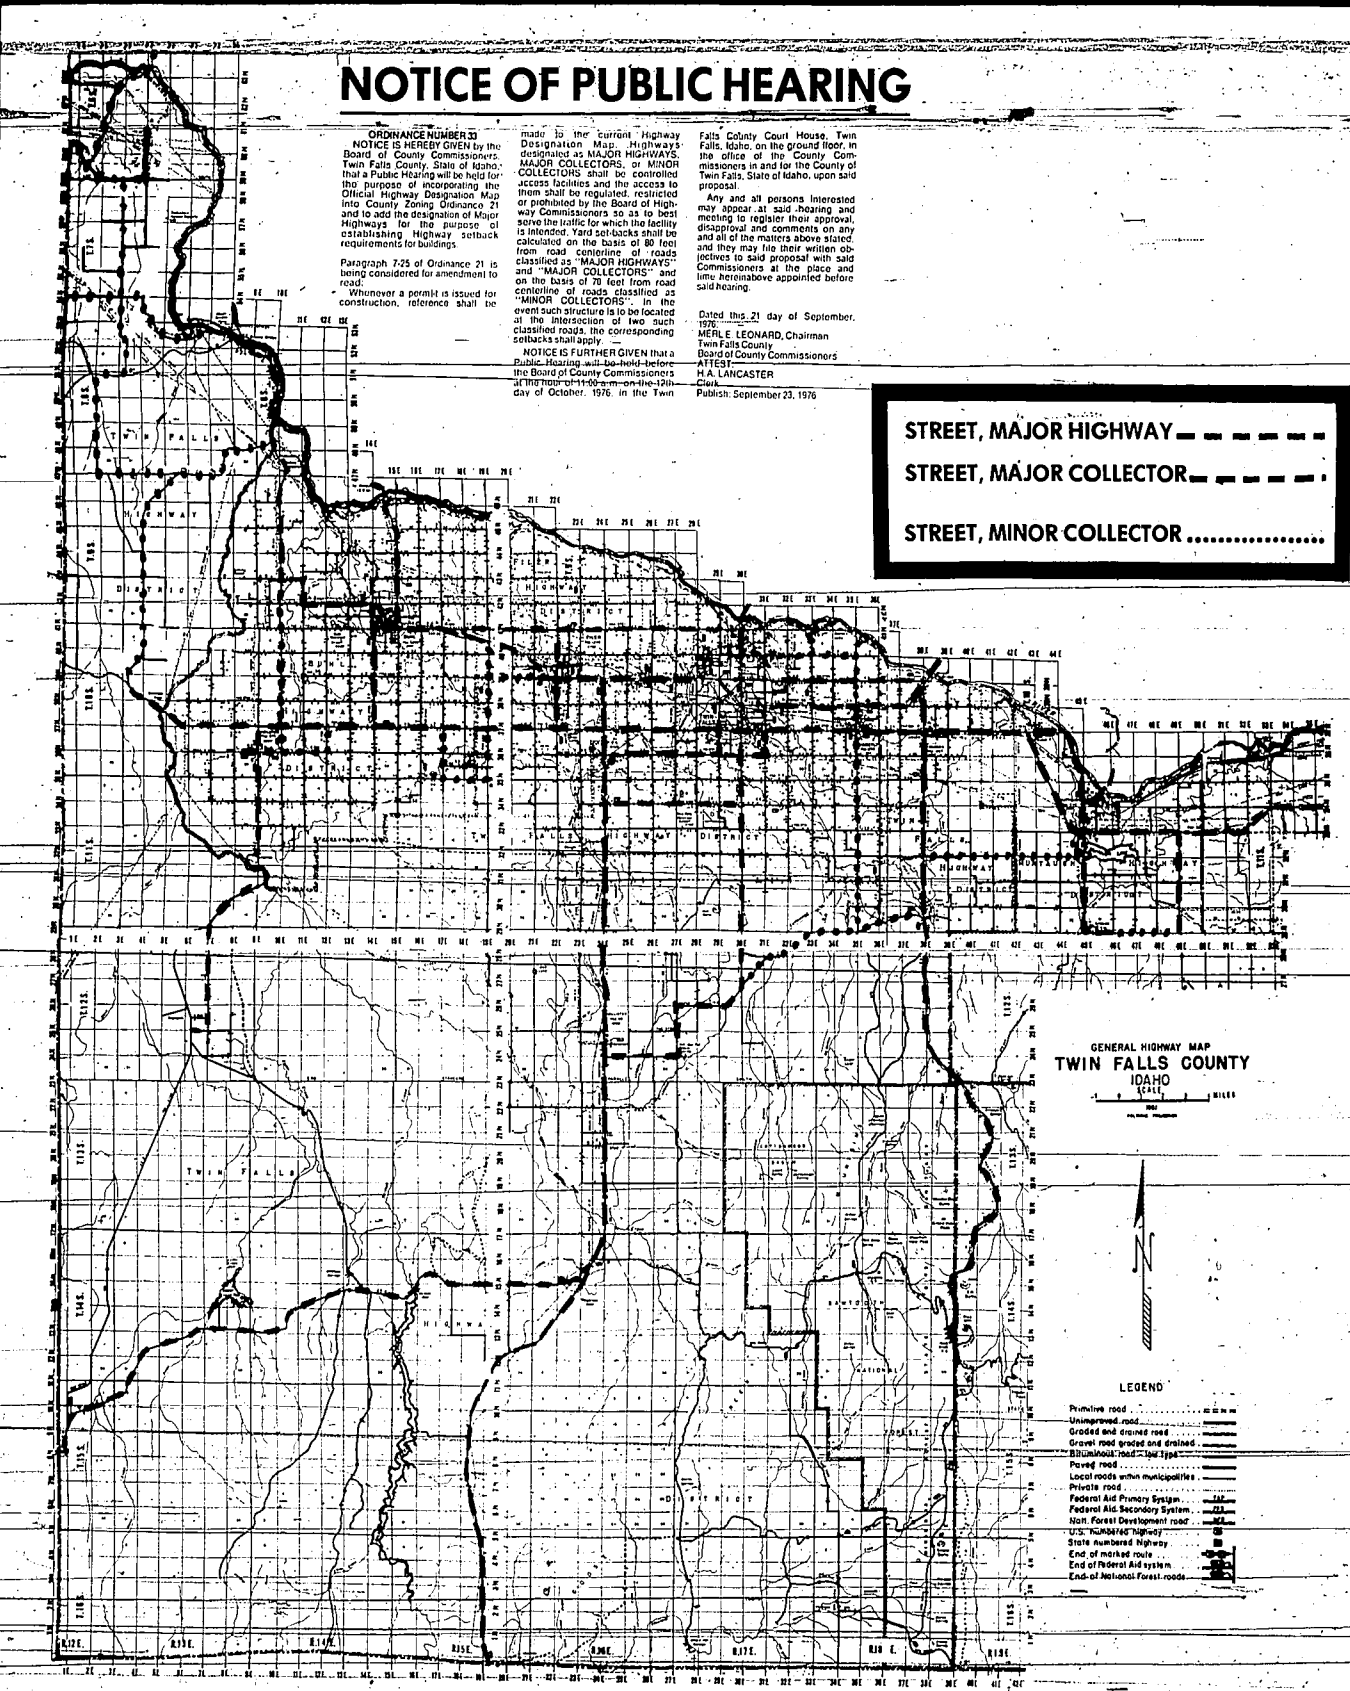

ORDINANCE NUMBER 33 NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the Board of County Commissioners, Twin Falls County, State of Idaho, that a Public Hearing will be held for the purpose of incorporating the Official Highway Designation Map into County Zoning Ordinance 21 and to add the designation of Major Highways for the purpose of establishing Highway setback requirements for buildings. Paragraph 7-25 of Ordinance 21 is being considered for amendment to read: Whenever a permit is issued for construction, reference shall be made to the current Highway Designation Map. Highways designated as MAJOR HIGHWAYS, MAJOR COLLECTORS, or MINOR COLLECTORS shall be controlled access facilities and the access to them shall be regulated, restricted or prohibited by the Board of Highway Commissioners so as to best serve the traffic for which the facility is intended. Yard setbacks shall be calculated on the basis of 80 feet from road centerline of roads classified as "MAJOR HIGHWAYS" and "MAJOR COLLECTORS" and on the basis of 70 feet from road centerline of roads classified as "MINOR COLLECTORS". In the event such structure is to be located at the intersection of two such classified roads, the corresponding setbacks shall apply.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that a Public Hearing will be held before the Board of County Commissioners at 11:00 a.m. on Monday, October 4, 1976, in the Twin Falls County Court House, Twin Falls, Idaho, on the ground floor, in the office of the County Commissioners in and for the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, upon said proposal. Any and all persons interested may appear at said hearing and meeting to register their approval, disapproval and comments on any and all of the matters above stated and they may file their written objections to said proposal with said Commissioners at the place and time hereinabove appointed before said hearing.

Dated this 21 day of September, 1976. MERLE LEONARD, Chairman Board of County Commissioners H. A. LANCASTER Clerk PUBLISH: September 23, 1976.

VW diesel tops EPA mileage tests

'Bear' located

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Volkswagen Diesel engine car being introduced next year has the best gasoline mileage — 52 miles per gallon on the highway — of any 1977 passenger auto tested so far, the Environmental Protection Agency said Wednesday.

The worst mileage — 9 m.p.g. in city driving — came in four Dodges and Plymouths with eight-cylinder, 440-cubic-inch engines.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said 1977 model cars will average 18.6 m.p.g., 6 per cent better than 1976 models and 34 per cent higher than 1974.

47 on the highway and 35 in town.

The company said the Diesels, its first, will turn up in showrooms about the middle of next year.

The agency has yet to test Honda, which ranked high last year — the Honda CVCC averaged 43 mpg on the highway and 32 in the city for an overall 36 mpg for 1976 models.

Also to be tested are two other Diesels — Mercedes and Peugeot. Last year the Mercedes 240D averaged 27 m.p.g. over all and the Peugeot 504D 30 m.p.g.

Volkswagen was a Rabbit Diesel which averaged 52 m.p.g. on the road and 39 in town for 44 m.p.g. over-all. Another Volkswagen Diesel, a Dasher model, took third place with 40 m.p.g.

The Volkswagen Rabbit Diesel was estimated to need $188 in fuel while the Dodges and Plymouths would cost $286, based on fuel costing 65 cents per gallon for unleaded gasoline and 55 cents for Diesel fuel and an average of 15,000 miles driven a year.

The top 10 cars and their average (city-highway) combined mileage:

1. Volkswagen Rabbit Diesel, 90-cubic-inch engine, 44 m.p.g.
2. Toyota Corolla, 71-cubic-inch, 41.
3. Volkswagen Dasher Diesel, 90-cubic-inch, 40.
4. Mazda 808, 78-cubic-inch, 38.
5. Chevrolet Chevette, 98-cubic-inch, 36.
6. Dodge Colt, 98-cubic-inch, 35.
7. Datsun B-210, 85-cubic-inch; Datsun F-10,

85-cubic-inch; Volkswagen Rabbit, 97-cubic-inch; Volkswagen Scirocco, 97-cubic-inch, all 31.

8. Chevrolet Chevette, 85-cubic-inch; Plymouth Cricket, 98-cubic-inch, both 31.
9. Subaru, 97-cubic-inch; Toyota Corolla, 97-cubic-inch, both 32.
10. Dodge Celeste, 98-cubic-inch; Plymouth Arrow, 98-cubic-inch, both 31.

The lowest ratings went to a Dodge Monaco, a Plymouth Fury, a Dodge Royal Monaco and a Plymouth Gran Fury, all with 440-cubic-inch engines and eight cylinders. They averaged 11 m.p.g. — 17 on the road and 9 in town.

EPA also released a separate list of mileage figures for California, which has tougher anti-pollution laws exist. The same Volkswagen topped that list with the same mileage figures.

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI) — Soviet trawlers which have been sweeping the floor of the Atlantic Ocean off the coast of Newfoundland for more than six weeks have located the wreckage of a downed Russian longrange military reconnaissance aircraft, the Maritime Command announced today.

A command spokesman said the first "significant pieces" of the missing plane, a TU95 "Bear D" class aircraft, were brought to the surface Tuesday from a depth of about 600 feet.

Large Soviet research trawlers located the wreckage some 230 miles southeast of St. John's, Nfld., where the aircraft was reported in distress before it crashed Aug. 4.

Section leader

ESTHER Simpson has been selected to serve as chairman of the Government Section for the 1977 United Way fund raising campaign. Assisting her will be Captains Clair Harkins and Jim Barnhart for the city; Bill Chavira for Postway; James McDermitt for state; and Larry Hacking and Carolyn Dalgh for federal. This United Way government team has a goal of $5,000 which will be its share of the United Way $115,000 objective.

Easing cigarette ad ban proposed

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — A member of the Television Bureau of Advertising called Tuesday for a partial lifting of the five-year-old ban on television and radio cigarette ads — in the cause of better health.

Bence McGorill, manager of WCHS-TV in Portland and a member of the bureau's national board, said statistics show the ban has not succeeded in decreasing the number of smokers in the United States.

Instead, McGorill said, it has simply decreased the public's awareness of new low tar and nicotine cigarettes on the market. He said these products have been proved less damaging to a smoker's health.

"I'm sure awareness is down," he said. "If something is not called to people's attention, they won't go looking for it."

He urged Congress to allow advertising of cigarettes with tar and nicotine levels which fall below certain limits. Those limits should be revised frequently to reflect new medical and market information, he said.

"If you allow just the narrowest number of low tar and nicotine cigarettes on the air, then you spur on others to get under that wire in order to compete," McGorill said.

He said the ban has made it difficult for new low tar and nicotine products to survive.

"In the five years since the ban was instituted, 105 new brands have been introduced, most low or lower in tar and nicotine," McGorill said. "Of the 105, only 33 have become national brands, of which only 13 are given credit for being successful."

At least one so-called "strong" cigarette has increased its share of the market by 50 per cent during the period, he said.

Prince gets raise

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UPI) — Prince Bernhard, forced by the Lockheed scandal to resign all his posts, will receive more government money next year, pending parliamentary approval, figures showed today.

Bernhard's allocation as prince consort will rise by 9.4 per cent, the highest percentage increase for any member of the royal family.

Newspapers publishing 1977 state budget figures criticized several expenditures but refrained from comment on the royal salaries, which Finance Minister Wim Duisenberg said would have to be adapted to the rising cost of living. The royal allocations are tax exempt.

Problems of raises included:

- Queen Juliana: up 8.5 per cent to $1,711,500.
- Prince Bernhard: up 9.4 per cent to $335,000.

Nuke power endorsed

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Dr. Edward Teller, a key figure in the development of atomic and hydrogen bombs, says dams are more dangerous than nuclear reactors and urges development of nuclear power to avoid an economic crisis.

Teller, associate director of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory in California and a professor at the University of California, told the Northwest Electric Light & Power Association Tuesday that as dams have become bigger, they have become more dangerous.

Throughout the world, he said, collapsing dams have killed thousands and have made tens of thousands homeless.

Oakland warns Royals it won't fall without fight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Oakland A's hopes for a sixth straight American League West championship may be nearly dead, but catcher Gene Tenace says he and his teammates are not going down without a fight.

"This club has too much pride to just quit when there is any hope," said Tenace. "Until we are officially eliminated we are going to go after the Kansas City Royals and they had better realize that."

If the Royals win next Oakland 3-1 Tuesday, did not realize that before, Tenace and company made "it" obvious Wednesday night when Tenace, Phil Garner and Joe Rudi all had home runs and Vida Blue pitched a six-inning

"We had to win this one to stay in contention," said Manager Chuck Tanner, who has juggled his starting rotation so that Blue will pitch against the Royals at Oakland next Monday and Mike Torrez will go Tuesday. "We have to rely on some other teams for help but we also have to keep winning ourselves if we are going to win it."

As well as the four remaining games with Oakland, the Royals have three games at Texas this weekend and close the season at home Oct. 13 with three games against Minnesota.

If we win Thursday we are in good shape," said Royals Manager Whitley Herzog. "If they win I think they will feel good about their chances of catching us."

The A's started the first with three runs in the first when Bert Campaneris reached second after Fred Patek dropped a pop-up and Tenace belted a two-run homer over the leftfield wall. Sal Bando then singled off Royals' starter and loser Marty Pattin (6-13), who gave up six runs but only one earned one in 5.1 innings, and Don Baylor doubled Bando home.

After adding a single run in the second, Oakland scored four more in the sixth after second baseman Frank White let a Ron Fairly ground ball go through his legs to set up Garner's three-run blast which hit the leftfield foul pole.

Rudi hit his 13th home run in the seventh after Campaneris walked to highlight a three-run rally.

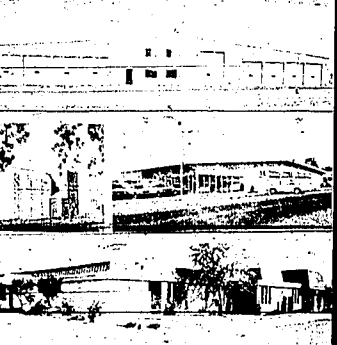

Kansas City's lone run came in the first when George Brett singled with two out and scored on Hal McRae's double.

"I was tight early in the game because it seemed a little cool," said Blue, who won only his third game ever at Kansas City's Royals Stadium on a night with the temperature in the 70s. "I was about ready to come out in the third because my shoulder was so stiff but then it loosened up and I didn't have any more trouble."

Phils need only .500 ball to outlast Pirates now

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies, who only a few days ago suffered his third loss against the Pirates.

by Dave Parker, Richie Zisk and Ed Ott. Kent Tekulve already have clinched the NL's Western title, defeated the San Diego Padres 4-3. The New York Mets topped the Montreal Expos 4-2, the Houston Astros downed the Atlanta Braves 5-2, and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the San Francisco Giants 3-1 in their NL games.

The Phillies tightened the mathematical noose around the Pittsburgh Pirates' necks Wednesday night when they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 9-4, after the Pirates dropped a 4-3 decision to the Chicago Cubs.

Should the Phillies win only six of the remaining 12 games, they would finish the season with 97 victories. The Pirates could then win all 10 of their remaining games and complete the season with only 96 wins.

"The right guys were in the right situations," said Manager Danny Ozark of the Phillies following his team's third win in its last four games. "The nice thing is that just about everybody on the club was involved."

The Phillies won like the champions they probably will soon be—scoring eight runs in the last half of the eighth inning to overcome a 4-1 deficit.

Dick Allen, making a key contribution for the second straight game, singled home three runs, including two to highlight the eighth inning which brought reliever Gene Garber his eighth victory. Allen's two-run single gave the Phillies a 6-4 lead, and Bob Boone's sacrifice fly added insurance runs.

The Cardinals knocked out Jim Katz with four runs in the first inning but failed to score the rest of the way against five relievers who allowed a total of three hits.

Joe Wallis singled with one out in the ninth inning, scoring rookie Jerry Tahb from second base and giving the Cubs their victory over the Pirates—who have lost five of their last six games. The Pirates had tied the score for the second time in the top of the eighth on singles

Fish-Game department disturbed by eastern Idaho impact statement

By ROYCE WILLIAMS

Idaho Department of Fish and Game
The Department of Fish and Game is submitting 41 pages of comments and corrections on the environmental impact statement (EIS) on phosphate mining in southeastern Idaho.

In a statement read at recent phosphate hearings, the department said the EIS contained "a profusion of omissions, errors and misstatements relating to fish and wildlife resources."

The department said it submitted a great deal of information to the task force developing the draft EIS but found a lot of "bad" information edited out of the draft.

Heading the long list of omissions, the department said, is "no direct mention of estimated losses of fish life."

"There are inferences that because a stream is not fished it does not have value," the department said, "but many of the small streams serve as spawning and brood areas. Fish produced in these streams contribute significantly to fisheries in the larger streams."

These streams also contribute to the general quality of water in the area.

"From information in the EIS, the department is convinced that the proposed mining measures will not be taken to maintain the integrity of today's water quality levels."

There is an indication that any secondary retaining dams "pinned" in those areas where accidental breakage would create severe damage to a stream and perhaps a river system, the department said.

Retaining dams should be built to prevent plant effluent from settling ponds from leaking into the streams of the area and causing widespread damage. For example, any detrimental effects on the fish population in the Blackfoot River will also have adverse effects on the Blackfoot Reservoir fishery, the department said.

"The breaching of retaining dams does occur," the department said, giving as an example the loss of a holding pond at the Baker plant near Conda earlier this year.

The department asked that mining plans be modified so that studies could get underway immediately that would supply specific information on population levels and habitat needs of some species and critical use periods and migration routes for big game animals.

"Depletion of available information on critical use areas and migration routes for big game and grouse is grossly in error," the department said.

Although the department is credited for the information, "most of the material supplied by the department is erroneously presented and must be corrected," the statement said.

The impact of more people in the southeast corner of Idaho "is lightly addressed in the EIS," the department said. With more people using the fish and wildlife resources, the need for more intense management and enforcement will be necessary, meaning higher costs to the sportsmen of the state.

The department was critical of the writing in the EIS when addressing the proposed phosphate and lithium. There is an attempt to soften the losses," the department said.

The department said "this kind of semantic manipulation results in the substitution of words like altered for destroyed, displaced for eliminated or removed, affected instead of removed, disturbed instead of destroyed."

"The terminology used may be partially correct but falls far short of adequately describing the impacts," the department said.

What the EIS says about compensation or mitigation for fish and wildlife losses caused by the mining expansion leaves the department in doubt about whether or not either will occur.

"We find a multitude of escape clauses, such as, to the greatest extent possible, as feasible and whenever possible, and this leaves us with the distinct impression there is no guarantee many of the proposals for reducing impacts will be carried out," the department said.

"It is important that the magnitude and diversity of the fish and wildlife resources of southeast Idaho be recognized," the department said.

In its conclusions and recommendations, the department said:

- Development of new mines, processing plants and transportation systems and their related sociological impacts will result in substantial losses to fish and wildlife.
- For the time being, alternative 2 to the proposed action should be adopted. This alternative would defer action until further, more adequate studies are conducted.
- Adequate studies should be done, and another alternative should be considered which would provide for regulated expansion of existing or new mines were opened at new locations.
- It strongly recommended no additional permits for prospecting, fringe area leases or competitive leases be approved at this time.
- It is opposed to construction and operation of any phosphate processing plants within the Blackfoot River drainage or any action which would result in the locating of such plants in the Blackfoot drainage.
- It wants a new development time frame that allows sufficient time for needed fish and wildlife research so that pertinent data will be available during the planning, decision-making and development stages of mining expansion.

Cards open wallet

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals may not spend $4 million on the free-agent market as suggested by August A. Busch Jr., but the team's president has received the go-ahead to join in the bidding.

The 77-year-old Busch wants to spend the money to bring another pennant to St. Louis in his lifetime. He made his proposal Wednesday to the team's board of directors immediately after a board meeting of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., which owns the Cardinals.

Both meetings were closed and representatives of the brewery and the ball club were tight-lipped about what went on.

However, a terse statement issued by the team said the board had adopted "an aggressive, broad-range strategy plan in regard to player procurement and development, free agents, promotions and other strategies to improve the standing and viability of the Cardinals."

Miller's off vacation; history says 'beware'

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — It's been three weeks since Johnny Miller played in a golf tournament. If form follows, he should win this week in the $175,000 Kaiser International starting today at Silverado.

Since turning pro in 1971 Miller has won 18 tournament titles, including the U.S. Open, Tucson Open, Bob Hope Desert Classic and the British Open this year. Seemingly, he has won after a long layoff except for a couple of events he won back-to-back.

"Almost every tournament I've won has been after I've come home to Napa and then gone back out again," Miller says. "I probably should go in a truck and find out the reason why. It's incredible, really, when I think of all the tournaments I've won in the last four years. The only ones I didn't win after a rest are the ones I won in a row."

Miller last played in the World Series. That was the tournament in which he was penalized for carrying more clubs than the regulation 14. While he was competing it was discovered he had several of his son's short clubs in his bag. The putter, for instance, was no more than two feet long and of no obvious value to Miller, but under the rules he had to be assessed four shots.

"It was my own stupidity," Miller said of the incident. "I should have checked my bag."

That incident, though, gives a clear insight on Miller's approach to golf. While the game has been good to him — he has career earnings in excess of $1 million — his family, it seems, means more to him. That's the reason for the long layoffs he has taken this year.

But the Kaiser is different. He has won this event the last two years and it is played practically in his back yard. Miller has a big home near the 10th green of Silverado's North course. Last year, more than 200 of Miller's friends and neighbors sat in his "front yard" to watch John play in the Kaiser.

"This is home for me," he says. "Naturally, I feel best playing in this tournament, and why shouldn't I? Everyone I care about is there and it's a chance for me to play and still be in my own bed every night. That's hard to beat."

Miller's earnings this year stand at $119,700. That's down quite a bit from the $225,021 he won in 1974 and the $226,118 he won last year. But John has a lot more outside income these days so his total earnings are comparable, while he has had more time to fish, drive his many cars and to spend with his wife and children.

Jack Nicklaus leads this year's money list with $266,438 with Ben Crenshaw second at $256,321. Both are among the missing this week along with Masters champion Ray Floyd and PGA champ Dave Stockton. But the 156-man field includes 13 of this year's top 20 money winners and Miller.

That means Hale Irwin, Hubert Green, J.C. Snead, U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, Don January, Tom Watson, Lee Trevino, Mark Hayes, Rick Massengale, Roger Maltbie, Tom Kite and Bob Gilder are on hand to challenge Miller, who is the favorite but says he doesn't have the winner's prize of $35,000 booked up.

"I like my chances," says Miller. "But there are a lot of guys out there who could win it. It's going to be quite a tournament."

Sox shoot for million gate

CHICAGO (UPI) — Short on player talent but long on publicity ideas, Bill Veck's Chicago White Sox are hoping one more big giveaway weekend will put them over the one million attendance mark this year.

The White Sox, who close out the season against the Oakland A's, need about 100,000 in the three game home stand to break one million and to lure the fans in, Veck is giving away a car, a week in Las Vegas, a week in Munich, West Germany, and, believe it or not, a weekend at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia, site of the mid-summer outbreak of "legionnaires' disease."

Miller claims baseball must lose immunity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional sports hearings concluded Wednesday with baseball players' union spokesman Marvin Miller predicting a "major confrontation" with the sport's owners should baseball retain its long-standing antitrust immunity.

Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, told the special House committee on professional sports that he foresees a disruptive labor dispute when the present collective bargaining agreement expires in three years. He testified that with their antitrust exemption, the owners probably will try to return to the previous rigid reserve clause system.

"I have learned that the owners with certain exceptions have a decided tendency to look backward, seldom any proclivity to look ahead," he said.

"That being so, there is a strong likelihood of a major confrontation three years from now with all the consequent disruptions caused by the owners' attempt to turn back the clock (if the unjustified exemption is permitted to stand.)"

He quoted Calvin Griffith, owner of the Minnesota Twins, as urging a return to the reserve system after the contract expires. Committee chairman Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., said there are no present plans to take away the exemption. The panel has no legislative authority, but will present a report to the new Congress in January which may include a recommendation on baseball's antitrust immunity.

Sisk has said publicly that the hearings have "turned me around" from his previous stand that the sport should retain its status quo. At least six other members of the 13-member group have indicated the same feeling.

Miller challenged Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's claim that baseball has acted responsibly in the public interest without being subject to antitrust restrictions.

The union official said of the owners: "Despite all the denials, deals are made to get around rules where one owner scratches another one's back and another scratches the first one's in return."

He testified that he had no firm evidence that there was deliberate collusion to limit the number of offers to pitcher Andy Messersmith when he became a free agent last winter, but added "I suggest the free market did not operate in that case."

Miller concluded by urging the committee to do its utmost to end baseball's antitrust status, adding: "I don't believe any of the dire predictions of the owners... of any substance whatever."

Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, sponsor of a bill which would apply the antitrust laws to all sports, testified: "Other segments of the entertainment industry have doubted that baseball to comply with the antitrust laws. I have no doubt that baseball can survive, too, if it is required to obey the antitrust laws."

Norton, Ali enter final countdown

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) — Fifty years ago Thursday, on Sept. 23, 1926, ex-Marine Gene Tunney challenged heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey, an 11-5 favorite, and won the title before the largest paid attendance in boxing history, 120,757 in Philadelphia's Sesquicentennial Stadium.

Next Tuesday, ex-Marine Ken Norton will try to capture the heavyweight title from Muhammad Ali, a 2-1 favorite, before a "live" international audience estimated by the promoters at 225 million watching on closed-circuit and satellite-relayed television.

"Maybe history will repeat itself," said Norton, who is guaranteed $1.1 million, or $200,000 more than Dempsey and Tunney received between them in their then record purse. Ali is guaranteed $6.1 million.

"I'm not counting on coincidence or luck, though," Norton said. "I'm going into this fight mentally and physically prepared."

Adding to the irony of the fight is the belief by both Ali and Norton that they are different fighters from the ones who divided a pair of decisions three years ago. In their first bout in San Diego, Norton broke Ali's jaw and took a close split decision victory. In the rematch, 57 months later, in Los Angeles, Ali evened the score with a controversial split decision triumph.

"I'm a much smarter individual now in the ring," Norton said. "I'm very ringwise. I know what I'm doing now. I'm not as green as I was then. I've improved in every fight since the Ali fight. Each time I've learned something. I'm counter-punching better, slipping punches better."

"When I first fought Norton, he was a nobody," said Ali. "I parried all night before the fight. I ate pancakes in the morning, coffee, sugar. I didn't train right."

Indians rally around Robinson

DETROIT (UPI) — Too bad for Frank Robinson that Jim Bibby doesn't own the Cleveland Indians. He probably would have been released as manager by now.

Bibby, who shut out the Detroit Tigers on three hits Wednesday, winning 3-0 to give Cleveland its first victory over Detroit in nine tries, didn't appear as a flag-waving Robinson fanatic but he sees no reason to get rid of him.

"I think he's helped this club," said Bibby, 136 and a positive contributor to the Indians' third-place standing in the American League East. The club is three games above .500.

"Every day brings someone that must elude" to being "cold-shouldered out the door as Cleveland's manager. It won't be fired so much as ignored away. A Detroit source said all the club's minor league managers have been pink slipped, an indication the main man is next in line.

"He's a good manager and a sensible baseball man," said Bibby, who has gone from being a thrower to a pitcher under the guidance of Robinson and pitching coach Harvey Haddix. "I like playing for him. But it's not up to me to say yes or no. I just go out and play."

"For sure the man is a capable baseball man," Bibby said. "And he's a knowledgeable person. But of course he's like any other manager. He's only as good as the ability of his players. If he ever makes mistakes, he's human."

"I think everybody on this ball club likes him," Bibby said. "He's a superstar. He's been there."

"Not that being a superstar makes you a good manager. I don't know for sure but others tell me Ted Williams was a horsemeat manager and he was a superstar."

"I don't know what they're thinking," first baseman Bolla Powell said of the club's front office. "I think he's done a helluva job. I think he's done a better job this year than he did last year."

"He's more familiar with the players and he's just doing a better job."

But, he added by way of a disclaimer, "when you come right down to it, what can any manager do? He's not going to win you a pennant. He's not going to lose you a pennant."

Feds reject coalition's meat product recall demand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Wednesday rejected a consumer coalition's demand for a recall of hot dogs, pizzas, chili, lunch meats and any other foods containing mechanically deboned meat.

The Agriculture Department last week ordered a production halt to use of such deboned meat, which contains powdered bone particles, following a federal court ruling Sept. 10 which said the meat could be adulterated.

A consumer coalition, in asking for the recall last week, had threatened to seek a court order forcing a recall if the department refused to move. But today the group said it would seek a further meeting with department officials.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard Felner, in a letter rejecting a recall petition, said the department had no power to make such a "sweeping move and that the current production stoppage "will lead to a complete cessation of the use of (deboned meat) ... in a relatively short time."

Felner also rejected a consumer request that the government publicly identify all specific foods and brands containing deboned meat. Compiling such a list would be time-consuming and costly and "we see no justification for the compilation of such lists," he said.

The deboned meat is made by crushing bones with attached meat fragments to rescue protein which would be lost in traditional hand deboning systems. The crushed material is then sieved to remove most, but not all, of the powdered bone and can be used in processed foods.

Carroll Righter

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPT. 24, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There are opportunities in the early part of the day to make definite plans with those of whom you very fond. However some adverse aspects could develop later if you are not careful. Be astute.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can reach a fine agreement with persons who can assist you to grow and develop. Control your temper at all times.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A new plan is needed where your regular work is concerned, so take steps in that direction. Improve your appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan recreation for the weekend and then put your personal affairs in order. Be more affectionate with mate and be happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make definite plans for the future and include whatever will make your life more interesting. A new project needs more study.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to cooperate more with allies and you will have more success in the future. Clarify your ideas with the aid of an expert.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do whatever will bring you the greatest benefit. Be realistic and do not allow the backing you need. Be more practical minded.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Take time to measure how far you have progressed in a new business interest. Plan the right kind of social life you want to enjoy in the days ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have the knack for getting at the truth in any matter and this can be most advantageous to you today. Try to please your mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take time to show your friends that you are devoted to them. Once your work is done, engage in the recreation you enjoy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle civic work you have to do early in the day and get excellent results. Consult a business expert for advice you need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look at all angles of a matter that arises today and you will know how to handle it. Don't neglect to pay an important bill.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study monetary matters well and become more successful. There are many needed repairs to make in your surroundings.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... ...he or she will want to cooperate with others and can thus live a most harmonious life. Ideal chart for the designer, the artist and the musician. Be sure not to neglect good spiritual training early in life.

The men who have been bitten by sharks outnumber the women victims by 13 to one. Client asks why. Clearly, because far more men than women get out there into the shark waters. The sharks themselves are not known to have any preference in the matter of flavor, texture or spiculating appearance.

Do you realize that noise called music put out by the Rolling Stones is only 20 decibels less loud than the superonic Concorde jet-75 by the Guinness records experts suggest the Stones are louder than any other rock group worldwide.

An accessory sold with the 1802 Packard car was an ammonia gun designed to ward off dogs that nipped at tires.

CATS

Q. "Were any sort of cats native to Australia?"
A. No, nor any sort of deer, either.

It's widely known that lightning does indeed sometimes strike twice in the same place. Less well reported is the fact that it sometimes strikes as many as 20 times in swift succession in the same place. But that happens so quickly that the bolts appear to be a single flash.

Men born under the sign of Aries are susceptible to flatfoot. They tend to believe the comments of bright blondes and smooth salesmen. Or so says our Zodiac expert.

Hardly any flowers that depend on bees for pollination are

DOCTORS' OATH

Another widespread misconception is that every medical doctor upon graduation takes the renowned Hippocratic oath. In fact, only 21 out of 84 U.S. medical schools use that oath. Another 41 employ various versions of the oath, both ancient and modern. Most common is the Declaration of Geneva adopted by the World Medical Association just 28 years ago.

How would you go about catching a cheater? Best way, according to wild game hunter Don Hunt-nee, too, belongs in the Proper Club—is just grab it by the tail and throw it in a box.

That item of feminine apparel known as the falsy finds a bigger market in the United States than in all the rest of the world put together.

Reason the experts tell you never to store your razor blades in a medicine cabinet with a loosely-stoppered iodine bottle is iodine fumes rust any type of razor blade.

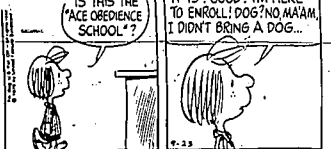

Odd thing called that bird called the swift is it flaps its wings alternately instead of simultaneously.

SWENSEN'S GREAT 1976 4-H SALE

Once again in 1976, Swensen's Magic Markets went to the 4-H - FFA Fat Stock Sale and supported the hard work and accomplishments of the next generation of livestock producers in Magic Valley by purchasing the...

GRAND CHAMPION HOG which was raised by TIM ZEBARTH, Route 3, Twin Falls, and a beautiful steer raised by DAVID GINES, Route 1, Twin Falls. Swensen's commend the young 4H and FFA people of Twin Falls County for the time, love and money which they invest in their projects without any expectation of government guaranteed profit, price supports, subsidy etc. It's all pure private enterprise!

DID YOU EVER WONDER...

What a juicy steak would taste like from one of the beautiful fat 4-H Steers when you saw them at the fair? Well, this week, Swensen's Markets have purchased half a dozen or so of the finest carcasses from the slaughtered 4-H Beef and SO NOW IS YOUR CHANCE to satisfy your curiosity and indulge your appetites with some of the finest, juiciest, most delectable tender U.S.D.A. Choice & Prime No. 1, Non-Wasty Beef at low prices that will give you peace of mind and tranquility, taste delicious and SAVE YOU MONEY!
