Carter starts transition task

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Saving triumph in the warmth of his hometown, Jimmy Carter invited Walter Mondale to join him today in a joyful reunion before holding their first news conference as president and vice president-elect.

The Democratic victor planned to meet this afternoon with his running mate, who was flying down from his home in Minnesota, and then to escort Mondale to the now-familiar abandoned train depot for a 5:30 p.m. MST question-and-answer session with reporters.

Aides said Carter and Mondale would use their first post-election meeting to go over plans for their transition to power next January after getting President Ford's promise to provide all assistance possible. Carter scheduled earlier transition talks with his own staffers and planned to spend several hours alone with Mondale later.

Pastor draws line on bias rule

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — The pastor of President-elect Jimmy Carter's Baptist church has told members of his congregation they will have to fire him if they want to keep the doors closed to blacks.

"There's a moral principle involved and I will not walk away," the Rev. Bruce Edwards told an emotional prayer meeting Wednesday night.

Edwards, 30, a native Southerner who has been pastor of the Plains Baptist Church for two years, called a meeting for Nov. 14 for the 250-member congregation "to decide whether I will be pastor of this church."

Campaign officials say they still expect to make the $115,000 campaign goal and urged all businesses and individuals to complete their collections as soon as possible and return them to the United Way office in the Boy Scout building.

Money problems worry 'Y'

By NANCY KELLEHER

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls YM-YWCA service center reportedly is currently operating at a $700 deficit monthly. Board members of each organization are now determining means to cut costs, including possible fee increases and service cutbacks, according to YMCA director Chuck Upton.

Although the YMCA and the YWCA are separate organizations, they took a joint loan from Sierra Life Insurance Co. last year for the addition of a wing housing a swimming pool. The pool addition to the existing 12 year old building cost $305,000. The two organizations jointly borrowed $140,000 from Sierra Life Insurance Co. to finance the building project. The loan was made by the insurance company in April, 1975, at an interest rate of 10 per cent. Monthly interest payments are $1,166.67, and the lump sum of $140,000 must be paid by June, 1985, or before. Since the swimming pool was opened on May 1975, the service center has been plagued by financial trouble, according to a spokeswoman for the YWCA. Each organization pays a monthly use fee of $1,350 to a fund for the entire building. This fee covers such costs as custodial services, secretarial salaries, supplies and utilities.

In addition, each organization pays one-half of the $1,166.67 monthly outlay to Sierra Life. The combined expense is about $1,933 per month for each organization.

Income for each organization comes from membership fees, program fees and contributions of the United Way.

The combined use fee of the two organizations totaling $3,700, plus income from fees paid to the building fund from non-membership activities such as diet workshop, are meant to cover the total expenditures of the building. However, income has fallen below expenses, according to Upton.

For the first seven months of the 1976 fiscal year which started in March, total income was $46,243.41, of which $20,250 came from the use fees paid by each organization during those months. Total expenses for the building were $50,993.11. This leaves a deficit of $4,749.70 for the first seven months of the fiscal year, or almost $700 per month.

"In a nutshell," said Upton, YMCA director and service center manager, "the overhead on the building is greater than we anticipated."

At the end of October, the service center had outstanding obligations amounting to $8,287.64.

The YM-YWCA was advised by the regional office it takes three years for a new facility to pay for itself. The problem with the Twin Falls facility, according to Upton, is the pool has not had enough use during the winter months. October through January, to meet operating costs, Upton said that this winter, extra pools for and more group participation and school district participation in the pool's use.

As the only pool facility in Magic Valley, the YM-YWCA service center pool should be getting a lot of use, according to a YWCA member. She attributes non-use of the facility to "poor management, but both organizations are working to improve this."

Deficits in the service center's operation are three-fourths of the problem, according to a spokeswoman for the YWCA. She claims the YWCA is having additional financial difficulties. Because the YWCA has more adult members, she feels it can raise more money than the YMCA which treats more to youth programs, a less dependable source of income.

Hansen, Kress fire parting shots

By CHRIS PECK

TWIN FALLS — Although the election is over, bitterness still surrounds the race between re-elected congressman George Hansen and defeated challenger Stan Kress.

Both candidates aired parting shots today.

Kress today spoke harshly about the "filthy days of the campaign and said Hansen lied and distorted the truth to get elected.

"I don't mind a strong difference of opinion," Kress said from his Fifth farm this morning, "but when out-and-out lies are being told about you that are little hard to swallow."

Hansen's claim that Kress received 60 per cent of his campaign contributions from labor drew especially strong words from Kress.

"He knows these ads weren't true," Kress said, "but he said it long enough and loud enough that a few people got scared."

"All he had to do was frighten six tenths of one per cent of the people to win. He tried to link me up with Cesar Chavez which was the farthest thing from the truth," Kress added.

Hansen won re-election by about 2,000 votes out of a total of nearly 150,000 cast.

"Idaho shouldn't have people in Congress who will say anything and do anything to be elected," Kress continued, "I think one of these days people are going to wise up in the second district."

The Democratic candidate also said Hansen workers in Magic Valley told some LDS voters that Kress was a "Jack Mormon" and not a good member of the LDS church.

"They were spreading stories that I was a 'Jack Mormon' and not a good member of my church," Kress said, "and while I'm not perfect I consider myself a good member of my church."

"He was willing to say and do just about anything when he got into a corner," Kress said.

In Pocatello, victor Hansen also had some parting shots for the Democrats and the news media after the tough campaign.

Hansen hinted he will soon release information about his back income tax returns which will fill in some blanks in the story printed earlier in this campaign that he failed to file back tax returns on time.

And, Hansen suggested he may soon file legal action against the Lewiston Morning Tribune over the tax story.

"There is an awful lot of apparent breaking of the law in Idaho," Hansen said, "I'm talking about invasions of privacy in terms of taxes and credit ratings. We've got to be dealt with and I'm going to get around it."

The four-term Republican also reiterated his claim that outside labor interests were trying to buy the Idaho election.

"There were some powerful outside interests in this election and it's about time somebody started talking about who is trying to buy Idaho's elections," Hansen said.

By the weekend Hansen will have left Idaho for Washington.

Defeated candidate Kress also will leave Idaho soon, not for Washington, but for a week's vacation in Disneyland with his kids.

"I've got a two year vacation from politics," Kress said today, "and we've a couple of years to think about what political future I have. There's no need to rush into any big decisions 24 hours after an election."

Hansen, who happy to the returning to Congress, terms the coming four years a "disaster" under newly-elected President Carter.

"This is going to be a disaster," Hansen said, "I don't know if people realize how long these four years are."

"If Carter tries to implement everything they promise in the platform, I think this country is in for some real inflationary troubles," Hansen said.

Kress is undecided about his future. He may return to his post as Fifth superintendent of schools but hasn't definitely decided to return to his old job.

Child's death staggers Jerome sheriff

By LORAYNE O. SMITH

JEROME — A 2-year-old Jerome County child was crushed to death Wednesday noon underneath the wheels of his father's tractor.

It was the second instance of a child being fatally run over within the county and the fourth child's death in a month.

The victim was Jeffrey Andrew Huettig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Huettig, who live four and one-half miles south of Hazelton on the Murtaugh road.

Sheriff Eliza Hall said the child was riding in the cab with his father, who was hauling a trailer behind the tractor. The door of the cab came open and the child fell out onto the ground and was run over by the tractor wheels.

Last Sunday another child was killed in a similar accident when Tristan Larson, 2, fell from underneath a truck where he had hidden on the spare tire rack. That death occurred in Jerome city limits.

Two other small children from Twin Falls were killed Oct. 6 at a rural intersection southwest of Jerome. Sherrill Buck, nearly 3, and Lorna Lee Buck, 6, were the victims of a two-car crash.

"In the first nine months of this year we only had two fatalities," Hall said, "but within the last four weeks seven persons have been killed. In highway accidents, four of them children."

"What am I doing wrong?" Sheriff Hall asked. The official, visibly upset over the increasing number of such violent deaths, said he would sure like to know the answer.

He also disputed a recent news report from Roy Thomas, head of the Idaho State Police, that more accidents occur on county than state roads.

In Jerome County, Hall said, there are "close to 900 miles" of county roads, compared to only 80 miles of interstate (including both directions of the 40-mile stretch of freeway through the county) and about 30 miles of highways 93 and 25.

Yet with nearly nine times as many miles of county roads, only three of the seven fatalities in the past four weeks have occurred on county roads, Hall said.

Three of the road deaths have occurred on the interstate and one on the city.

"Furthermore," Hall said, "the state has some 20 men and I have three deputies to patrol 900 miles of county road."

The sheriff stressed there is much greater potential hazard on county roads in the area simply because there are intersections nearly every mile, compared to only off ramps on the interstate.

He said for the 30 miles of interstate across Jerome County there are seven sharp curves and these do not pose nearly the hazard as intersections.

There also has been criticism that stop signs are lacking or difficult to read, but Hall maintains the county commissioners are "doing a good job" of replacing damaged stop signs.

But it's a losing battle, the sheriff said. One weekend 15 to 16 new signs were installed but "they're stolen as fast as they're put up," he said.

Gem hatched whooper dies in Colorado

PORTLAND, Ore. — A juvenile whooping crane, hatched by foster sandhill crane parents and raised successfully for almost five months, died recently from injuries received when it flew into a rancher's wire fence in Colorado's San Luis Valley.

According to the Department of Interior officials, Portland, the whooper was one of four which hatched from eggs transplanted into nests of sandhill cranes in a joint U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service-Canadian Wildlife Service project to establish a second wild flock of the endangered birds.

The eggs were taken from the whoopers' nesting grounds in northern Canada and placed in nests of sandhills at Gray's Lake National Wildlife Refuge in Idaho. Four other whoopers were raised in the project last year.

The 4 1/2-foot bird weighed 11 pounds and had a wing span of more than 7 feet. It was the largest, most robust and appeared the healthiest of the birds hatched this spring. It had migrated Oct. 5 to the Monte Vista National Wildlife Refuge in Colorado — 200 miles from Gray's Lake. Monte Vista is in the midst of the San Luis Valley — a favorite resting stop for migrating sandhills.

The incident occurred as the whooper and its foster parents were moving out of the refuge to feed. Refuge personnel, who had been watching the family since its arrival, observed the whooper fly over one 4 1/2-foot wire fence bordering the refuge and skim along the brush just off the ground. Then it smacked into another wire fence about 4 feet higher. Private property about 70 feet from the refuge. The fence was evidently obscured from the bird's view because it blended with sagebrush and other vegetation in the background.

As one of only 58 wild whoopers in existence, the bird was watched closely for several days from a distance, and was flown to a veterinarian at Colorado Springs after showing signs of distress. It died several hours later. The veterinarian reported that although the bird had no broken bones, its wounds had become so infected that there was no circulation in its left leg.

"The area where the whoopers were transplanted to is agricultural and ranching country with many fences," said Keith Schreiner, associate director of the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. "We've removed as many unnecessary ones on refuges as we can. But the entire whooping crane transplant experiment is based on the premise that the birds must learn to survive in a modern world. And fences are a fact of life. This is one of the hazards you have in trying to raise whoopers."

Two Boise stores robbed

BOISE (UPI) — Men with guns robbed a fabric shop and a 7-Eleven store in Boise Wednesday night, and police said the holdups apparently were unrelated.

Tina Nuttall, 22, a clerk at David's Fabrics, Inc., said a man in his mid 20's with long, black hair came into the store about 7 p.m. and said he wanted money.

When she questioned him the man showed her a small handgun in the waistband of his pants and said, "This is no joke." She gave him about $150 from the cash register and he fled on foot.

About 11:30 p.m. a boy about 17 went into a 7-Eleven store on State Street, took some beer from the store cooler and brought it to the cashiers' desk. Then, he pulled a handgun and a small paper bag from his coat and told clerk Chuck Skiles, 24, to put money into the bag.

The robber fled on foot but apparently lost his foot. His hat and the cash were found near the store where he apparently dropped them, police said. The robber was said to be about five feet, four inches tall. He had long, brown hair and a beard.

Architects sue

BOISE (UPI) — Architects are suing the Harry W. Morrison Family Foundation for $97,582 they contend still is owed for their work on the ill-fated performing arts center planned for Ann Morrison Park in Boise.

Cline Small Hamill Associates of Boise brought the action in Fourth District Court Wednesday. They said the fair value of their services and expenses is $297,982 and that the foundation has refused to pay $97,582 of it and has paid nothing since February of 1975.

Architect Glenn Cline said the architects do not know why the foundation has refused to pay. He said, "They just haven't acknowledged our billings."

Richard Thomas, secretary-treasurer of the foundation, said the foundation owes nothing to the architects.

The foundation had agreed to donate $3.5 million for the proposed performing arts center — contingent on the approval of a $1.4 million bond issue. Voters rejected the bond issue twice.

Flag, 86, given to museum

BOISE (UPI) — A Rigby couple who made the complete four-month journey from Fort Laramie, Wyo., to Valley Forge, Pa., on the Bicentennial Wagon Train have presented an 86-year-old flag to the state museum.

Grace and Fred Ritchey said the American flag was a gift from a man they met in Pennsylvania and was made in 1890, the year Idaho and Wyoming entered the Union.

They said they were in Montana when the man came up to them and asked if they were "true people from Idaho." When they said they were, the man said, "I have something for you."

The Ritchey's said the Pennsylvania, Jack Meredith, returned with a flag he said he bought years ago at an auction. It had been lying in a box in his basement and Meredith told them he felt the Idaho delegation should have it. "We decided that our state should have it," Mrs. Ritchey said when she and her husband presented it to the Idaho Historical Museum this week. "It's a big flag. It belongs in a museum."

October auto sales dip

DETROIT (UPI)—The U.S. auto industry is counting on a strong strike-rebound effort by the Ford Motor Co. and labor peace at Chrysler in November to avoid another monthly sales decline.

With Ford sales in October off 27 per cent from a year ago, the industry reported Wednesday that October auto sales slipped 2 per cent below last year's level. It was the first monthly decline since September 1975 and broke a string of 12 consecutive plus months.

The Ford decline was offset by a 10 per cent sales jump at General Motors and a 13 per cent increase for Chrysler. American Motors, caught in a small car sales slump, slipped 15 1/2 per cent from a year ago.

"The decline was largely attributable to the fact that Ford still hasn't been able to meet demand for its cars and rebuild a depleted stock of 1977 models," one analyst said.

But analysts said the company's main problem was a lack of 1977 model cars. One analyst estimated Ford would have sold 65,000 more cars than the 165,000 cars it did sell in October if it hadn't been for the strike.

But even taking the Ford drop into account, sales by the other companies at the start of the 1977-model year weren't all that spectacular.

The four U.S. companies sold 730,216 cars in October compared with 773,623 a year ago, when there was one extra selling day. The percentages are computed on a daily sales rate.

While the domestic auto sales slumped, imports, bolstered by record-and near-record sales by the Japanese automakers, posted a 22 per cent jump in October. The Japanese models accounted for 70 per cent of the 135,000 imports sold during the month.

Honda sales were up 85 per cent from a year ago, Toyota was up 51 per cent and Datsun 30 per cent — its best October effort. Volkswagen, the leading European import, sold 13,170 cars, down 11 per cent and low enough to push it into fourth spot among the imports.

Union negotiators busy

DETROIT (UPI)—United Auto workers negotiators are busy on two labor fronts — trying to settle a day-old walkout by 14,000 Ford of Canada workers and avoid a strike by 118,000 Chrysler Corp. workers on Friday.

In both instances, UAW officials were publicly optimistic. But they'll have to make a decision by the end of the day whether a marathon, all-night meeting will be worthwhile to avoid a Chrysler strike on both sides of the border.

"We're making some progress," UAW Vice President Douglas A. Fraser, head of the union bargaining team at Chrysler, told newsmen late Wednesday.

"There's still time and we'll pull in all the hours we feel necessary," he said. "There are some very difficult questions we haven't resolved."

The union has set a 6 p.m. Friday deadline for settlement of a new contract for Chrysler's U.S. and Canadian workers. Like the Ford of Canada dispute, the contract will be based on the one worked out during the 28-day strike at Ford's U.S. operations.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said union bargainers in Toronto also "are serious about resolving the issues that remain." He said the fact that bargaining resumed late Wednesday, less than eight hours after the walkout began, was a "good sign that both sides want the dispute to be short one."

The strike by Ford's Canadian workers began at 10 a.m. Wednesday and was the second major UAW strike in the 1976 round of contract talks for 730,000 U.S. and Canadian auto workers.

Both UAW and Ford of Canada sources indicated the strike probably would be short, since it involved local, in-plant issues. The basic economic package was worked out with Ford in the United States.

Once it completes the Chrysler and Ford of Canada negotiations, the UAW will turn its attention to General Motors for separate contracts covering 390,000 U.S. workers and 26,000 workers in Canada. The last to negotiate is American Motors, with 12,000 workers in the two countries.

Hold lifted

NEW YORK (UPI)—The State Republican Committee's request for impoundment of New York State's voting machines has been withdrawn with a concession that a recount probably would be "an exercise in futility."

Democrat Jimmy Carter was more than a quarter million votes ahead of President Ford when the decision was made not to bother, and state GOP Counsel Tom Spargo said the margin was increasing as the state's last districts reported.

Ban fails

BOSTON (UPI)—Massachusetts voters Tuesday rejected the first statewide ban on handguns proposed in the United States.

Partial returns showed the proposal going down to defeat by a 3 to 2 margin.

The proposal would have outlawed private possession of weapons with barrels of less than 16 inches.

Anderson in line

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Gov. Wendell Anderson will be Minnesota's next U.S. senator unless one of the state's political elders talks him out of it.

Anderson, 43, long has been considered the most likely successor to the Senate seat which will be vacated by Vice President elect Walter Mondale.

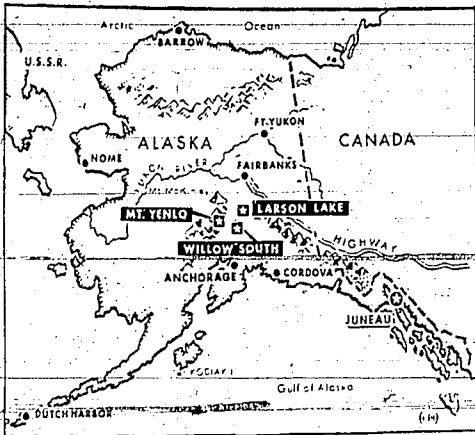

"I will make the decision some time in November," he said. "The sooner the better. I would kind of like to get it behind me."

Juneau loses out

ALASKA VOTERS chose a site at Willow, about 70 miles north of Anchorage, for a new state capital Tuesday. The site will replace Juneau in southeastern Alaska, which is far removed from the state's population centers. Other sites trailed by a wide margin in the voting with about 75 per cent of the returns in (UPI)

Vote pleases Nader, pals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The people who have made a profession of representing the American consumer — from Ralph Nader on down — think Jimmy Carter's election is a big boost for their movement.

For one thing, having the Georgia Democrat in the White House probably means victory in Nader's four-year battle for creation of a consumer lobbying agency within the government.

Carter has endorsed the idea where President Ford's opposition killed it earlier this year after Congress gave it preliminary approval.

It may also mean a bigger voice in government for Nader and others like him. Carter huddled with Nader shortly after his nomination and addressed a meeting sponsored by the advocate.

Nader came away obviously impressed — more perhaps by the fact that the meeting took place than by whatever it accomplished. He pointed out to reporters that he hasn't been inside the White House in years.

But Carter's prime impact will be on the kind of appointments he makes along the top line of the federal bureaucracy — not just in the broad areas of economic and jobs policies but in the very specific corners of government where decisions are made every day that affect everyone's health, safety and pocketbook.

During the campaign Carter talked about the need for making the regulatory agencies more responsive to the consumer.

Carter will have the immediate opportunity — for instance, to fill one vacancy at the Federal Trade Commission and to declare that nominee chairman if he so desires. The present chairman, Calvin J. Collier, has been on the job only briefly, and Carter may want his own man to take charge of the consumer protection and business regulation agency.

Early B-1 deadline for Dems

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One inflexible deadline for decision faces President-elect Jimmy Carter 12 days after he takes office on Jan. 20 — the B-1 bomber.

If he maintains his opposition to the multi-billion dollar project to replace the aging B-52 bomber fleet, Carter will refuse to authorize funds to put the supersonic, four-jet B-1 aircraft into production — and that will end it.

In approving defense appropriations for fiscal 1977 on Sept. 9, the House limited funds for the B-1 bomber to $87 million per month through Feb. 1.

That was to take care of continuing testing and work on the first three prototypes but hold in abeyance for the next president to decide whether or not to go ahead with production of 241 B-1s at an estimated cost of $23 billion.

Other estimates to purchase, maintain and deploy the aircraft over a 20-year period range up to $100 billion.

Carter, said during his campaign that he was opposed to funding the B-1 program.

"The B-1 bomber is an example of a proposed system which should not be funded and would be wasteful of taxpayers' dollars," he said.

But an President, exposed to the full rationale by the Pentagon of the need for a manned bomber and the "true" picture of Soviet capabilities, Carter may have second thoughts.

The B-1 is part of the Pentagon's Triad strategy. This envisages a U.S. nuclear strike force of three weapons delivery systems — land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles, submarine-launched missiles and long-range bombers.

Triad is based on the assumption that one or more parts of the system could survive a Soviet first strike against the United States. It could not wipe out a U.S. counter-strike capability.

The U.S. has spent an estimated $3 billion on the project so far.

Letter to Jimmy from the West

Dear Jimmy, Well, the 1976 presidential election is over and you've won. Congratulations from some people who you don't know very well. We're the western states. Our names are Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Alaska, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona, and New Mexico...

Soviet scientists suffer persecution

WASHINGTON — A ringing challenge to the Western scientific community to take a stance of "uncompromising protest" against Soviet "persecution" of leading Russian scientists has

Now that he has taken his case daringly and publicly to the West, he has probably secured all chance to emigrate to Israel. Ambulance facts questioned

Editor, Times-News: In response to Gooding County Commissioner Nelson King's remarks at the Wendell Chamber of Commerce meeting, we the undersigned would like to take this opportunity to elaborate on his remarks. the scope of an emergency or accident. In response, we understand that on more than one occasion it has taken longer than the suggested 10-15 minutes for the ambulance to arrive at the county hospital from the sheriff's office for transfers. In closing, we would like to direct the following questions to Commissioner King: 1. Were bids for the county ambulance service advertised through the proper channels? 2. Is the back-up ambulance always operated by qualified personnel? 3. Don't you agree that the sheriff's deputies have their hands full without being called on to drive the ambulance? Are they adequately paid for this service? 4. Since you state that emergency service is only 10-15 minutes away, do you feel that perhaps the Wendell Fire Department should also be based in Gooding? Humane Society takes knock

Editor, Times-News: We have often heard it said that a certain thing is not what it's cracked up to be, well, I'm here to say that I definitely do not think this so-called Humane Society is what it's cracked up to be. When it comes to torturing little animals and pets five minutes before they will die — I don't go for that in any way. We know that five minutes worth of torture that's bad enough to cause death would seem like hours to a human being and it's no less for these little helpless animals. When I saw in the Times-News how these little puppies were being killed, it didn't look very humane to me! At first I thought it was horrible to have these pictures in the paper for pet lovers and children to see, but the more I thought about it, the more I thought it might be all right for people to see just where their money was going when they donate to the Humane Society. One could take care of their own animals with a lot less pain and cost, if it has to be done. I don't ever plan on donating one dime for such torture. THELMA CLARK, Buhl

Rhodesia vote call issued

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — A black nationalist leader said today the talks on moving Rhodesia toward majority rule were "very threatened" by the departure of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Smith, frustrated with what he said was the slow pace of the conference, left Geneva Wednesday saying, "We've made no progress."

Nationalist leader Bishop Abel Muzorewa, who called a news conference to demand the immediate election of a new prime minister on the basis of one man-one vote, criticized Smith for leaving hardline Foreign Minister Pieter van der Byl in charge of negotiations.

"I think the talks are very threatened by the absence of Smith and the presence of Mr. van der Byl, very threatened," Muzorewa said.

"This is because of the man he is — rough, uncooperative, and too right-wing. He is still living in the fifties while we are in 1976."

Muzorewa said it would take only 14 days to organize a referendum in Rhodesia in which a prime minister of an interim government would be elected.

Muzorewa acknowledged he had not discussed his proposal with rival black nationalist leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo, who have formed a common Patriotic Front at the conference.

"But I want to believe that this is what I know Zimabwans (Rhodesians) have been trying and fighting for," Muzorewa said. "My hope is that they (Mugabe and Nkomo) share this view."

Conference chairman Ivor Richard of Britain meanwhile conferred with legal experts on preparing a document outlining the legal and constitutional steps necessary in setting up independence.

Smith returned to an escalating guerrilla war at home saying he would come back "as soon as I'm satisfied there is something to come back for."

Nkomo said of Smith's departure: "It's not our problem if part of the British delegation wants to go. We are dealing with the head of the delegation, Mr. Richard."

The blacks say Smith, who unilaterally broke from Britain 11 years ago, is a rebel not legally entitled to sit separately at the conference and that Britain should take responsibility for the transfer of power.

Hijackers draw death penalty

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — A military court today sentenced three Filipino Moslem men to death by firing squad for the hijacking of a Philippine Air Lines jetliner last May.

The three were among six self-proclaimed Moslem rebel commanders who commandeered the PAL aircraft in Zamboanga City, 500 miles south of Manila, and fought government troops in a gun battle on the ground two days later.

The three other hijackers and 10 passengers were killed in the shootout.

Maling Tawrac, 21, Liling Radin, 27, and Miki Radin, 25 were convicted of hijacking, multiple murder and illegal possession of firearms and explosives.

"Let this decision be banded around and loudly proclaimed to the entire world to serve as the harsh, yet imperatively necessary deterrent to future crimes not only against persons and property but all mankind," said Col. Francisco Romualdez.

Beirut shelling erupts; Arab units stalled

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Leftist and rightist today fought duels with artillery, tanks, mortars and machine guns in southeast Beirut and new hostages delayed deployment of an Arab League peacekeeping force.

Rival factions battled in the capital overnight and fighting army units moved onto vital access roads in Christian-held east Beirut after clashes during the day.

Hostages over how the Arab League's proposed 30,000-man peacekeeping force will be composed and deployed delayed the force's arrival.

Arab League sources said the force would not assume its positions until at least Friday.

Leftist-held Beirut Radio earlier had quoted Arab League sources as saying the first contingents were scheduled to take up positions today.

Hope for peace had rested on the quick arrival of the peacekeeping reinforcements to bolster the two-week ceasefire.

Some sources said the first new contingents to complement a token peace force of 2,300 Arabs could arrive by late this evening from Syria. Their first task was expected to be reopening the main Beirut-Damascus highway.

Heavy shelling of residential districts, especially in southeast Beirut, increased during the night as the ceasefire entered its 15th day. Some tank battles also were reported.

The country's other war-torn fronts were reported calm.

Rightist sources said about 1,000 rightist army troops moved onto Beirut because of reported clashes Wednesday between rival Christian factions.

Beirut newspapers said today President Elias Sarkis who will have overall command of the Arab intervention force was determined to put the Arab troops to work by Sunday at the latest, with or without the agreement of the rival factions.

The leftist newspaper Al Moharrer said two-thirds of the 30,000-man force will be drawn from the 22,000 Syrian troops already in Lebanon.

It said the remainder will consist of soldiers from Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, the Sudan and Libya.

Arab League mediator Hassan Sabry El Kholy had met with the Christian chiefs

Wednesday and had — at the time — persuaded most of them to accept at least some Arab troops in their areas.

But rightist sources said powerful militia chief Camille Chamoun apparently still held out against stationing the peace force, to be made up mainly of Syrians, in any areas controlled by his "Tigers" gunmen.

Civilian aid sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy has hired a civilian salvage ship to try to accomplish something its own craft haven't been able to do — raise from the ocean floor an F14 Tomcat fighter plane that rolled off an aircraft carrier Sept. 14.

The civilian salvage ship Taurus, described as a "heavy grab" vessel, will attempt to lift the plane from 1,500 feet of water in the Atlantic about 100 miles off Scotland's Orkney Islands.

The Taurus will be moored over the recovery site, and a manned observation chamber will be lowered to the bottom to grab jaws around the aircraft.

The navy says the massive lifting jaws might damage the plane's fuselage, but the main thing is to get possession of the plane with its sophisticated equipment.

Two earlier attempts to raise the plane failed when cables attached to it snapped because of heavy waves.

The vessels which took part in the earlier recovery attempts, including the nuclear powered research submarine NR1, have left the scene. The NR1 last weekend recovered a top secret Phoenix missile which jarred loose from the plane when it went overboard.

Word war heats up

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Thailand and Vietnam, who agreed to work toward better relations before a Thai military coup, today exchanged harsh words in an escalating propaganda war.

A Thai Foreign Ministry spokesman said the kingdom was disappointed at Vietnam's "malicious propaganda attacks" against Thailand.

Hanoi's army newspaper, in its harshest attack yet on the new military-backed Thai government, compared the Bangkok regime with "Hitler Nazism."

The new Thai government, installed following the Oct. 6 military coup, is stressing an anti-Communist stand that most observers believe will bring a serious deterioration in relations with Vietnam.

The Vietnamese attacks have been increasingly bitter during the past several weeks.

Bus strike ends

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Madrid bus workers ended a week long strike today with a promise from the municipal bus company to reopen negotiations on their demands for more pay and fringe benefits.

The 7,000 drivers, conductors and mechanics reported to their depots and began substituting for the military and police drivers who had been driving buses to maintain a skeleton service.

One factor in the decision was that the company had been withholding the October pay of strikers. Many had run out of money, and under Spanish law they could be fined for taking part in an illegal work stoppage.

Students get snacks back

CANTON, Conn. (UPI) — Canton High School students and faculty protested the sudden removal of "junk" foods from the cafeteria and will get back their favorite snacks.

School officials today returned such snacks as fruit pies, potato chips and candy bars to the cafeteria after about 600 of the school's 800 students signed protest petitions Wednesday.

About 30 faculty members also signed the petition, said a protest organizer.

The Canton Educational Research Committee had discussed a program to improve the quality of food in school by removing "junk" food, according to teacher Joseph Rice.

"On Monday the junk food was there. Tuesday it was gone. I guess it was sort of a traumatic event for kids that have grown up on it," Rice said.

A similar plan that removed the snacks for one month in a Middletown school was called a failure by officials. They said when junk food disappeared from the cafeteria in September, students began to bring in their favorite snacks in paper bags in larger quantities than ever.

One-legged thief winner in chase

NORTH WOODMERE, N.Y. (UPI) — It could have been a scene from the Keystone Kops — four men chasing a one-legged purse snatcher on crutches and the purse snatcher giving them the slip.

Policia in North Woodmere, N.Y., said Mrs. Rosalyn Tillman, 26, was shopping in a supermarket Wednesday when a man with his left leg amputated below the knee asked directions to the store's meat counter.

She turned to point the way, and he grabbed her wallet from the seat of her shopping cart.

Mrs. Tillman's screams attracted her husband, who was in another part of the store, and several store employees.

They chased the purse snatcher down a street, but he managed to outdistance them and disappear with the wallet.

The one-legged thief got $125 in cash and food stamps worth $25 for the efforts.

Reese sues

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Singer Della Reese has accused her former business manager, Lee Magrid, of fraud and is suing him for $100,000.

The singer charged that during Magrid's 22 years as manager of her financial affairs, he took a larger percentage of her earnings than was agreed, and kept the master recordings for two of her records.

MONTREAL, N.C. (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham says that President-elect Jimmy Carter "has my prayers, wholehearted support and personal friendship."

A spokesman at Graham's Montreal office said the two had been "friends for a number of years."

"If President elect Carter will continue to pray and trust in the Lord, and I believe he will, then we have a leader we can trust and follow. God bless Jimmy and Rosalyn Carter," said Graham.

Schmitt to Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt, who defeated Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., in the election, will be the second astronaut and first moon walker in the Senate.

Writer robbed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Movie writer and director Richard Henry Morris told police he was awakened at his home by two burglars who tied him up and stole $23,000 worth jewelry, silverware, paintings and other valuables.

Morris wrote "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and "Thoroughly Modern Millie" and numerous television shows.

He said the two robbers backed a van up to his house so they could haul away the loot, including a $10,000 tapestry.

He later freed himself and called police.

Lansky trial sought

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The Justice Department is pressing its efforts to bring Meyer Lansky, the reputed financial kingpin of organized crime, to trial despite arguments that he is too old and sick.

The U.S. attorney's office says that under orders from Washington it will appeal a federal court judge's ruling dismissing an indictment against Lansky for allegedly taking part in casino skimming schemes — siphoning off cash from the gambling take before reporting the income for taxation.

Judge Roger Foley dismissed the indictment in August.

Atlantic City action sought

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — The race to turn the declining convention town of Atlantic City into a "bustling" casino gambling mecca got off to a fast start.

Card-dealers and land investors began making inquiries Wednesday on how they can get in on the action now that New Jersey's voters have legalized casinos to compete with Las Vegas.

Before gambling can begin, however, the legislature must pass enabling laws; the governor must select a gaming commission. Licensing procedures must be established and hotels must be refurbished. It could be about a year before any gambling starts.

The Committee to Rebuild Atlantic City and local legislators sat down Wednesday to map plans to make the town's dream come true.

Resorts International, the Bahamian gambling concern, said it would begin restoring the sprawling Chalfonte-Haddon Hall hotel and close a multimillion dollar deal on a 56-acre parcel of urban renewal land near the Boardwalk.

Resorts also reported a flood of calls from "interior decorators, card dealers" and other prospective job applicants seeking to work in the casinos.

Both Loew's Inc. and Hilton Hotels Inc. also are scrutinizing business deals, and the Marriott family — who are Mormons — has talked with Gov. Brendan Byrne and told him they, too, are interested in coming to town.

Byrne ordered state Attorney General William F. Hyland to start "head-hunting" for an executive director of the gaming commission and said the State Commission of Investigation would oversee the operation of the casinos.

"I want all of the information out front and available to the public so there is an assurance that casino gambling is being run on the up and up," Byrne said.

Kepono poisoning victims tested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thirty-two Kepono-poisoning victims are being tested to see if lowering their bodies' cholesterol levels can clean the poison from their systems, researchers said today.

The patients were exposed to large quantities of Kepono for four weeks to a year while working at the now-closed Hopewell, Va., plant that produced the pesticide.

All showed such common symptoms of Kepono poisoning as tremors, mild liver problems and decreased sperm production. Most are being treated as outpatients.

An intensive year of the clinical study by the Medical College of Virginia was presented to a meeting of the American Association for the Study of Liver Diseases in Chicago by Dr. Philip S. Guzelian, a liver specialist at the college.

It was also disclosed by the National Institutes of Health, which has supported research to find a way to rid the body of Kepono.

The four-month study, scheduled to end in January, will try to determine if the cholesterol lowering drug cholestyramine can help eliminate Kepono from the body, NIH said.

Make room, guys

LONDON (UPI) — Stand back, gentlemen at the bar; the ladies are coming through!

Figures released by the Wine Development Board Wednesday showed British women have overtaken men when it comes to drinking table wine and women are also drinking more glasses of sherry and port.

Board Chairman Peter Noble said women now account for 42.3 per cent of all table wines consumed in Britain plus 55 per cent of sherry and 54 per cent of port in a dramatic change in the country's wine drinking habits over the past five years.

Total wine consumption in Britain has doubled in this period from 4½ bottles per person to nine bottles. This could double again within the next 10 years, but Britain still had a long way to go to catch the average Italian consumption of 153 bottles per year, the French at 143 bottles or the Spanish at 104, Noble said.

LONDON (UPI) — On only his third attempt at Britain's weekly football pool, 16-year-old supermarket checker Anthony Boyle won $813,001 by forecasting the only six scoring ties in last weekend's major league soccer games.

Boyle, who only became old enough to bet on the soccer pool Sept. 13, when he turned 18, bet $1.08 on his predictions and Wednesday collected his winner's check.

The Dundee, Scotland resident, who makes $13.20 bagging groceries, said he might buy a set of golf clubs and a "small car" with his winnings.

State tracks absent fathers

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

BUHL — Welfare payments in Idaho are being substantially reduced through a new collection program under the Department of Health and Welfare (HAW).

State Sen. John M. Barker, Buhl, chairman of the Senate Committee on Health and Welfare, said the program represents a savings to Idaho taxpayers and at the same time provides necessary income to the mothers of dependent children who are receiving welfare assistance.

The committee, chaired by Barker, recommended the program in 1972 after meeting with Washington state officials. Washington was one of the first states to adopt the plan, Barker said.

In 1972, the first year, the welfare department recovered $168,000 in support payments from delinquent parents. Now the figure is $1.56 million.

When the program began each of the Health and Welfare Regional offices in the state hired an attorney to assist with making collections.

Now the state has found the program pays 400 per cent of its own way, and additional employees are being hired to continue the collection portion of the effort.

Barker said in effect each of the seven regional offices will be hiring one full-time "collector." The appointments will be on a trial basis for six months. If the worker can bring in at least $3 for every $1 of his or her salary, the job becomes permanent. If returns fall below this the employee will be dismissed at the end of the trial period.

"This is a measure to guarantee the collections continue at a profitable level for the state," Barker said. "It should be relatively easy, considering there is a $4 return for each $1 spent by the department at this time."

The senator said HAW goes after the parent who is ordered by the court to pay child support but is not doing it, but but if the case involves only state aid to dependent children.

If we are paying welfare money to a mother of several children and find the father is supposed to make child support payments each month but is not doing so, we attempt to make those collections. This means if the support money comes in the welfare checks can be reduced accordingly and a saving realized.

Regional offices collect from local delinquent parents and also work with other regional offices to make collections from fathers or in some cases mothers, who may be living in their region but owe support money for children living in another region.

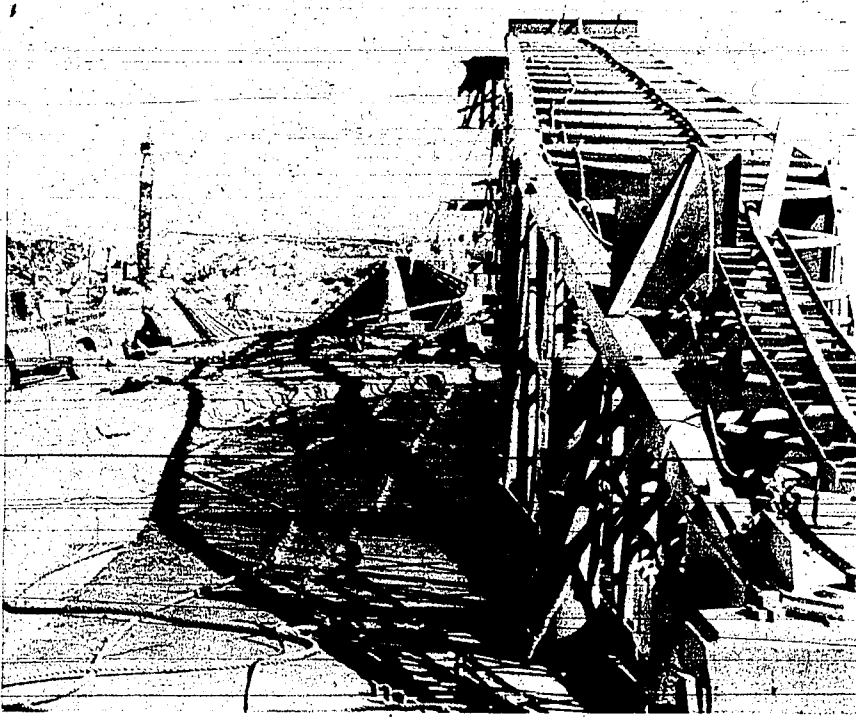

The system also crosses state lines, Barker said, and Idaho authorities are cooperating with those in other adjoining states.

The senator said a recent legislative audit has been completed and is expected to recommend several similar money-saving programs be undertaken in Idaho.

"I am told this is one of the recommendations, so apparently not too many people or even state officials are aware we are already doing it and with what we feel is a good degree of success," the senator said.

Under state law prosecuting attorneys in various counties enforce court orders for child support payment and the funds are collected at the county clerks' offices and sent to the recipients.

"If they don't make the payments, and if they move to some other area, there isn't much the prosecutor is able to do. These children then show up on the welfare rolls and these are the ones the state agency will be going after," he said.

Tower goes up — The first step in the demolition of the old Perrine bridge was taken Tuesday with the raising of a tower on the north side of the bridge. Traffic was rerouted as the tower went up. This tower is one of two which will support a cableway to lift pieces of the old bridge as it is dismantled.

15 apply for TF post

TWIN FALLS — About 15 persons have applied for the new assistant city manager position city officials hope to create next year.

City Manager Jean Millar said Wednesday he will continue accepting applications until Jan. 1, 1977.

The City Council is expected to pay the new assistant from $1,500 to $1,700 per month. The assistant is expected to have a bachelor's degree in public administration, advanced academic training public administration, and a minimum of three years of municipal experience in charge of a finance or personnel department, Millar said.

The duties of the new assistant would include directing the computer programming of the city's billing system, streamlining city accounting practices and evaluating city hiring practices.

TF files answers in spillage action

BOISE — The city of Twin Falls says it did everything to prevent the discharge of sewage into the Rock Creek Canyon several months ago.

The city filed an answer to U.S. charges in U.S. District Court here this week.

The answer comes to a complaint filed last month by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) asking for up to $70,000 for violating federal pollution standards.

The complaint charges the city illegally discharged pollutants from its Rock Creek lift station on six days in May, July and August and illegally discharged sand and silt mixed with sewage sludge from its sewage treatment center into the Snake River Aug. 26.

Without admitting raw sewage spilled into either the Snake River or Rock Creek at any time, the city also argues:

- The complaint should be dismissed because both parties have reached "an accord and satisfaction in full" settlement of all claims asserted.
- City Atty. Charles Brumbach said Wednesday the city received a letter August 20 from the EPA saying an interim solution to the Rock Creek sewage problem would satisfy any short-term problem that may have existed at the lift station.
- Any violations of pollution standards were caused by the EPA's own negligence. Brumbach said when the city first applied for EPA funds for the city's waste water treatment facility, it forgot to file for funds to improve the Rock Creek lift station. He said when the city requested funds later, the EPA's grants division turned the city down because the grants division said, improvements at the Rock Creek lift station could not be considered part of the waste water treatment facility project.
- However, EPA's enforcement division later claimed the lift station was a part of the treatment facility project, according to Brumbach.

Bid OK expected from TF aides

TWIN FALLS — An apparent low bid of $11,752 for the first phase of a recreation development at Murtaugh Lake is expected to be accepted today by Twin Falls County Commissioners.

Five bids were received Wednesday by the county. The first phase of the project will involve road construction within the proposed recreation area. Work specifications call for a road base and gravel at this time. Gravel will be provided from a Bureau of Land Management pit near the lake.

The apparent low bid was submitted by Gordon Paving Co. Other bidders included Mosper Concrete, Fair Winn and Co., Buhl; Peter Klewitt Co., and Beymer Paving, both Twin Falls.

County Commission Chairman Merl Leonard said the later phases of the improvement will include boat docks, landscaping, parking area and other facilities.

About 15 acres at the east end of the lake are designated for recreation improvement to serve water skiers, fishermen, hunters and picnickers.

The land is under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management and BLM approval has been given the county's plan for development.

If the finished project meets BLM approval, the county will be able to purchase the 15 acres as part of the county park system.

Members of the county Parks and Recreation Commission have long urged development of the popular Murtaugh Lake area.

All five bids were taken under advisement following the bid opening with a contract awarding set for today.

TF man charged

TWIN FALLS — A 24-year-old Twin Falls man has been charged with embezzling close to $800 belonging to Alexander's Men's Wear.

In a complaint filed in Fifth District Court here, Ward Lewis Hamilton, 24, is charged with embezzling $754.40 on July 25 while he worked as a clerk at the store.

Hamilton has been released on his own recognizance.

Medicos 'shocked'

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's top health officer said today President-elect Jimmy Carter's selection of national health insurance as a number one priority came "as a bit of a shock."

Dr. John Ashley, Idaho state health officer, said the thrust behind Carter's selection of health insurance as a top priority had more to do with health costs than with adequate or inadequate health services.

"The issue is only one and that issue is cost," Dr. Ashley said.

Noting the federal and state governments will spend $100 billion on health care this year and will spend up to $200 billion by 1980, Dr. Ashley said, "The medical budget is eating the Department of Health and Welfare alive."

Idaho's top health officer told an audience studying medical economics at Magie Valley Memorial Hospital "just as predicted government lost its shirt in health care" after the institution of Medicare and Medicaid in 1965.

"The thrust of a national health insurance program, he said, is to reduce growing government costs. He said such a program "has for several years been given top priority by federal health agencies."

"Government is now paying the piper, and I'm afraid more and more calling the tune," Dr. Ashley said.

As part of a state effort to hold down costs, Dr. Ashley said, HAW hopes to start a computerized medical management system (MMIS).

High court sits in TF

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Supreme Court entered its third day of Twin Falls hearings today, considering a case involving a tractor and automobile accident.

In the accident, the 13-year-old son of Ms. Sandra S. Goodfellow was killed when the tractor he was riding in was hit by a car driven by Jack Sheldon Oggburn.

Ms. Goodfellow is appealing a jury verdict that the son's negligence was greater than that of Oggburn.

The high court is also scheduled to hear an appeal of an earlier decision by Fifth District Judge James M. Cunningham.

In the appeal, Leo Bastian claims that the judge applied the wrong legal theory in the original case. In the complaint, Bastian claims he prepared plans for the construction of a building and that he was not paid for his services.

Money problems worry 'Y' center

In August the YWCA was $1,400 behind in its use fee payments, more than one month's worth of payments, according to the center's operating statement. In August and September, the YWCA paid one month's fee in advance to cover for the YWCA's inability to pay, according to the September statement and the YWCA spokesman.

As of last Friday, however, the YWCA is paid up to date, according to Upton.

The YWCA did have problems meeting its payments one month this year, according to Upton, but managed to straighten out the problem. Neither organization will have a problem paying the use fee for the remainder of the fiscal year, he said.

"We're not in a horrible situation at this moment," he said, "but we can't continue in this trend or we will be in a bad position."

The YWCA operated at a deficit one month this year, but had no trouble meeting its use fee payments in spite of this. They expect no further deficits, and attribute one such problem to the turnover—between an old and new administration.

To date the YW-YMCA has not been delinquent in payments to Sierra Life, although they owe utilities, materials and other bills. At some point within the next nine years, however, they must come up with a lump sum of $140,000 to pay the principle back.

The YWCA and the YMCA are meeting weekly to pinpoint the financial problems. Upton said Upton expects one result of these meetings will be a decision to save money by raising fees and cutting services.

YWCA board members are currently coming up with ideas for funds. They will propose a joint garage sale to the YWCA board as one means of raising money. They are also considering television advertisements for their programs.

A YWCA spokesperson emphasized the importance of financial problems at this time, but added: "There's no way this place will ever

Board tours Gooding school

GOODING — The State Board of Education will tour the Gooding School for the Deaf and Blind today as part of meetings which conclude Friday in Twin Falls.

The board will meet Friday at the College of Southern Idaho for an all-day session on the public school budget and recommendations on vocational education.

The meeting at CSI will begin at 8:30 a.m. in Room 119-120 of CSI's new Vocational Center.

Morning topics will include recommendations from state vocational education officials for revisions in the state programs and a presentation by Joint Sessions of the Eastern Idaho Vocational Technical School.

The morning will also include board consideration of requested policy changes at most of Idaho's four-year colleges, including the University of Idaho, Idaho State University, Boise State University, and Lewis-Clark State College.

The Friday morning sessions will conclude with the first of a lengthy presentation by the State Department of Education on the Idaho public school budget. Board consideration of the budget is scheduled to last until about 3 p.m. after a noon break for lunch.

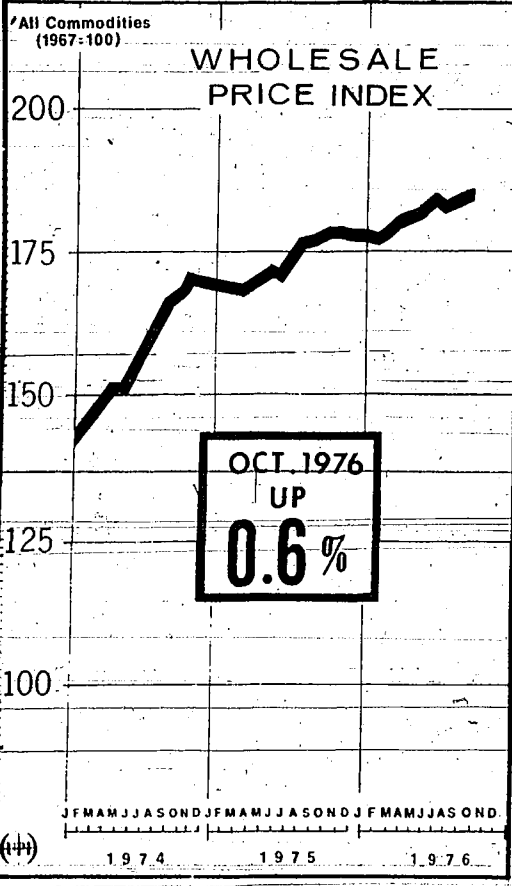

The board will end its meeting at 4 p.m.

The meeting at CSI follows a board tour today of the State School for the Deaf and Blind at Gooding. That tour will begin about 2 p.m. after a short board discussion of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Gold miners rush out of activity

LONDON (UPI) — The gold rush is on.
 But, unlike the historic California Gold Rush of the last century, this time it is out of gold mining, not into it.
 The reason is the price of gold, which, though recovered slightly from the depressed levels of a few months ago, in some mines has made the expense of producing the precious metal greater than the current market price.
 Gold, after a breathtaking rise to nearly $200 an ounce, currently is trading around $122.
 As a result of this drop — in a little over a year — a number of marginally profitable South African mines have given the required three-month notice that they intend to close down.
 Two companies, East Daggafontein and South African Lands, have said they definitely intend to bow out of gold mining.
 South Rooderpost has said it is selling out. And Mariveale, Venterpost and Vlakfontein have given notice of intent.
 East Daggafontein and South African Lands both are "golden oldies", in business for some time, but it now costs these companies more to produce gold than it will bring on the market.
 Most South African gold is mined from deep in the earth in very hard rock and an average mine has to break, transport and treat three tons of ore to produce one ounce of gold.
 East Daggafontein spends about $175 to produce an ounce of gold. And that does not include finance charges, gold sources said. The figure for South Rooderpost is reported to be $143 an ounce.
 Most mines will hang on as long as possible, but bullion dealers speculate as to how long such mines as West Rand, which reportedly requires $220

Maine spuds close mixed

 CHICAGO — Maine potato futures picked up in volume in Wednesday's trading but finished the day mixed.
 Cattle futures advanced but hogs were weaker, grains reflected uncertainty and sugar declined.
 Commodity News Service said Maine spuds showed the best volume in recent sessions at 754 contracts. Brokers attributed increased activity to approval of the new May contract. Liquidation of speculative November shorts and the long March and April, November moved closer to cash prices, firming up 2 cents at the close, while March and April lost 12 and 8 cents respectively.
 A sharp upward of receipts at six markets and improvement in cash trade — not election results — brought the gain in live cattle. December closed 50 points — higher. February up 42 and April up 23 on a trade of 11,281 contracts.
 Profit taking and speculative selling pared some gains.
 Feeder cattle gained 25 to 50 points in active months but most months were near the day's lows at the bell. Trading was light at 225 contracts.

Proposal for stimulating home building set forth

NEW YORK (UPI) — An interesting proposal for bringing down the interest rates on mortgages and stimulating the homebuilding industry was advanced at a recent meeting of the Urban Land Institute in Palm Beach.
 Max H. Kari, president of MGIC Investment Corp., Milwaukee, suggested an emergency tax incentive measure that would make exempt from income taxes the first 5 1/2 per cent of savings and loan and other thrift institution passbook accounts drawn by the lending institutions put the deposits into home mortgages.
 "At JFRA's Blush, Kari's proposal would appear to mean an irrevocable loss of tax revenues. But he says in practice it would not do so.
 "What would happen, he said, is that interest rates on new home mortgages would drop from present levels of 9 or 9 1/2 per cent to 7 1/2 or 7 per cent. Home owners, thus would not be able to claim as much tax deduction for interest paid and the government, in 'would' recapture the lost tax revenue that way.
 "Kari told the Palm Beach meeting his plan would increase total savings and fight inflation because it would make thrift institution savings accounts draw a veritable flood of funds.
 "He said it would increase homebuilding by enabling more Americans to afford a new house, he said.
 "It is a sad commentary on our housing economy that only 30 per cent of the homebuyers who purchased their houses 10 years ago could qualify for mortgage loans today."
 He also said his tax exemption plan would give depositors, including institutions, the equivalent of a pretax return on their money. This would raise the effective return on all savings deposits 20 to 50 per cent without raising the interest cost of home mortgage money.
 He pointed out, however, that a higher return on money still is possible on municipal bonds and selected stocks, therefore his savings interest tax exemption should not have a disruptive effect on the money market.
 Another good feature of the plan, Kari said, is that it requires no funds from the budget of the federal government.

Mixed results for Nevada

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Lincoln County voters narrowly favored legalizing prostitution, Carson City rejected a move to license cats, Eureka County residents rejected a land zoning plan, and White Pine retained a gun-control ordinance.

In other local issues in Nevada's general election, Reno voters approved $7.2 million in bonds for sewage facilities, Elko voters approved $2.5 million for a convention center, and Lincoln County turned down a $1.75 million school bond issue.

Prostitution has been tolerated in Lincoln County, but officials said they had been having trouble polling two brothers near the Clark County line, so they decided to ask the voters for advice. The voters virtually split on the question, but unofficial returns showed 675 favored legalizing prostitution and 671 opposed it.

White Pine voters decided whether to retain an ordinance prohibiting discharge of firearms at night, with certain exceptions. They kept it by a margin of less than 100 votes.

Indian Summer-like days continue

Twin Falls, North Side, Burley-Rupert area: Fair tonight through Friday. Overnight lows tonight near 30, highs Friday in the lower 60s.

Saturday's outlook — little change.

Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley: Fair tonight through Friday. Overnight lows in the teens. Friday's high near 60.

Saturday's outlook — little change.

Synopsis: Wednesday was another in a long series of fine fall days. Temperatures rose into the mid 60s across the valley and Hagerman topped it all with a warm 70.

With the help of light winds and clear skies, temperatures this morning dropped to near 30 and Rupert reported a cool 24 degrees.

This fair weather pattern is the result of a high pressure system located over the intermountain region.

Although fair weather will continue into the weekend, a Pacific storm will be moving into Canada by Friday. Norain is expected from this system, but increased cloudiness over the weekend is likely.

The extended outlook for Saturday through Monday is generally fair and dry along with slightly cooler temperatures. High temperatures in the 50s, lows in the 20s.

Andrus cites confidence

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Wednesday Jimmy Carter will be the most fiscally responsible president in any party and the governor does not foresee more difficulties for himself than usual in dealing with the enlarged Republican majority in the Idaho Legislature.

Andrus told members of the Idaho Press Club at a noon meeting he has "every confidence" Carter will "put forth the programs" he promised "within fiscal restraints."

"I foresee Jimmy Carter as the most fiscally responsible of any president of any political party," Andrus said.

He said Democrats will no longer be able to blame a Republican executive branch, adding: "Democrats now have the opportunity and the responsibility to get America on the move" to adopt "fiscal sanity" and to attack unemployment and inflation.

In regard to speculation that a cabinet post may be in the offing for him, Andrus said, "none has been offered and none are pending."

Asked if he would rule out a position if it were offered, he said, "I don't think anyone in my position would rule out a possibility in that regard."

Andrus said he did not see "limited handgun control as a real possibility under the Carter administration, predicting "it won't be given a Congressional mandate."

He predicted an improved economy under Carter would "have an effect on Idaho unemployment rates" as Carter supports "stimulation and acceleration of the homebuilding industry."

Turning to election results in the state legislature Andrus said although the "balance is different and the personalities are different" he does not anticipate more conflicts than usual with an increased Republican majority in the House.

Pioneer hearing set

BOISE (UPI) — The Public Utilities Commission will hear Monday Idaho Power Company's application to amortize up to $164 million in costs associated with the Pioneer power plant.

Idaho Power seeks to spread out over a number of years $6,578,500 for design, engineering and environmental studies associated with the application, up to $9.7 million in cancellation charges from suppliers.

The application requests an amortization period of ten years beginning Jan. 1, 1976.

Another question that will eventually be dealt with is whether the charges will be an expense to stockholders or rate payers.

The public hearing will be conducted in the commission hearing room, 472 W. Washington St., Boise, at 10 a.m.

Family must meet health regulations

RUPERT — LDS Church intercession brought a reversal from the Rupert City Council Tuesday night, allowing a family two more weeks to meet health regulations regarding septic facilities at a rural mobile home.

Over the objections of Councilman W. F. "Bill" Whitton, the council voted 3-1 to table an application by Ephraim Rodriguez for a mobile home permit in the Rupert buffer zone.

Two weeks ago the council ordered a 10-day notice to Rodriguez to meet health requirements or vacate the premises. Rodriguez had been living in the mobile home without a permit or septic facilities approved by the health authorities. Dale Rasmussen told the council Rodriguez and his family use facilities at the Rasmussen mobile home, but neighbors complained two weeks ago of human waste in the irrigation canal.

Jack Strauss, owner of the property on which Rodriguez is living, told the council Tuesday that the man has joined the Mormon Church and the bishop has agreed the LDS Church will put in the septic tank.

William McClung, zoning administrator and building inspector for the city and county, reminded the council Rodriguez has not paid the $25 application fee, has no valid application and is without the required septic facilities approved by the state.

However, the council tabled any action, with Whitton voting against the motion. McClung was directed to notify Rodriguez of the two-week extension by having the sheriff's department take the notice to him, since the family reportedly does not pick up its mail every day.

The council approved mobile home permits for Strauss and Rasmussen. All three had moved onto the property without permits or water and septic facilities.

McClung's office and health authorities gave their first notice of the permit and health requirement on Aug. 4. Since then, Strauss and Rasmussen have met the requirements, but Rodriguez has not.

McClung told councilmen he believed the applications had the required signatures of property owners within 100 feet, although property ownership has been questioned.

Whitton argued that the council explicitly notified Rodriguez "I would cooperate with him only if he met the requirements within 10 days. He reminded, I follow him and neighbors had complained and said, 'I think it's time to take the next step.'"

Strauss admitted, "I had the intention of him leaving before he joined the church. This threw a different light on things."

"I condemn it," Whitton said. "It's time we took action. We have enough problems on zoning and land use."

"They're human beings who need a roof over their head," Councilman Clark Cameron argued. "They have to have a place to live. I think they should be given an opportunity."

"They've had it since August," Whitton interrupted. He urged that the council support its zoning administrator and predicted the same problem will arise again.

Councilman Dwinelle Alfred said he would favor the two-week extension if all the neighbors have signed the application, but warned the council "should make sure, if we give them any latitude now, that it does not set a precedent."

Strauss objected to the signature requirement. He claimed one neighbor pried into his personal business and another wanted money to sign the application.

Alfred said the ordinance required the signatures. He added Heyburn is "very strict; you can't have one (mobile home) there."

Councilman George MacDonald seconded Cameron's motion to table the matter for two weeks.

The council also approved two mobile home permits within the city limits, one for Dr. R. C. Phillips on 1 1/2 lots with 10,500 square feet and an existing home.

The other was for Hamilton & Voelker, the city's engineering consultants, on a lot the firm purchased under pressure after a lift station in the city sewer system was mistakenly placed on the corner of the lot.

The lift station took 150 square feet of the property. The property owner, a serviceman in Alabama, demanded purchase of the whole property and a negotiated sale was arranged.

Flags hoisted by electronic poles

WASHINGTON Star — By the dawn's early light, and with the help of a small electric motor and a device called a photosensitive cell, the Stars and Stripes is hoisted up 117 flagpoles across the United States each morning without benefit of protocol, ceremony or human hands.

And at the twilight's last gleaming, down they come. Automatically.

For the last five years, the General Services Administration has been quietly installing Electronic Flagpoles on federal office buildings, post offices and courthouses, at a considerably higher cost than the traditional hand-hoisted flagpole.

No one took much notice of the new device until the GSA installed a 20-foot electronic pole in front of a new federal office building in Syracuse, N.Y., recently.

Rep. William F. Walsh, the local Republican congressman and something of a traditionalist about such things as raising the flag with proper ceremony and respect, knows a good campaign issue when he spots one.

He made a few inquiries, learned that the automatic flagpole in his district cost $10,429 compared to $4,000 for a traditional pole of similar size, and reacted with predictable outrage. "The entire situation is absurd," he said. "Is our federal bureaucracy now so fragile — or so lazy — that it can't handle the strenuous job of raising and lowering the flag at federal installations?"

Properly done, with all the respect called for under national customs, traditions and federal laws, flag raising and lowering shouldn't take more than a few minutes a day.

The GSA says the Syracuse flagpole was unusually expensive because of high installation costs.

Spanish class schedules trip

By BARBARA COTHERN
Times-News writer

CASTLEFORD — Last spring Ila LaGrone suggested a trip to Mexico City.

The response from students in her Spanish class was immediate. Several fund raising projects got off the ground then. One included providing refreshments for parents and other visitors at the Castleford High School exhibit day.

Car washes have also been held.

Enthusiasm for the trip did not fall off during the summer. Two girls, Mary Zamora and Emile Fabelá, earned plane fares before school opened this fall. Most of the boys worked on farms during the summer. Some students did babysitting, others did office work.

For the most part, parents of the students who have expressed a desire to go to Mexico have been strong in their support of the trip.

One mother, Betty Baughman, feels the experience will be "memorable" for her daughter, Tammy, and is pleased the opportunity for such a trip was created.

Mrs. LaGrone is still working on routing and rates for the trip. The group plans to leave March 11, a Friday, and return March 20. Estimates on the round trip fare range between $270 and $290.

While in Mexico the students and their adviser will be housed in private homes. Two former exchange students at Castleford High School, Eve Hernandez and Silvia Castro, are handling living arrangements for the Idahoans. Ac-ording to Mrs. LaGrone, these girls along with their families have been hospitable and gracious in efforts to place the students.

The trip to Mexico will not be a new experience for Mrs. LaGrone. She has traveled to central Mexico by car and plane three consecutive summers. Judging from her own experience she feels living with a Mexican family for a week will provide her students an excellent opportunity for insight into living conditions and culture of the Mexican people.

Mrs. LaGrone has been a teacher for 17 years and initiated the Spanish program at Castleford. Originally available to only high school juniors and seniors, the program has since been expanded to three years and Spanish is now offered to seventh, eighth and ninth graders. As she is able to determine, the trip to Mexico will be the first attempt in this area to offer this type of learning experience.

Any student in the school who has completed three years of Spanish is eligible to go on the trip. Until now, extra-curricular activities for Spanish students included visits to a local Mexican cafe for dinner and parties involving Spanish-speaking people in the local area.

In addition to Tommy Baughman, Emile Fabelá and Mary Zamora, other students planning to participate in the Mexico trip include Tom Quigley, Craig Pierce, Danny Talbot, Sandy Cox, Debbie Graybeal, Darla Graham, Bill Cothern, Lynn Talbot, Debbie Daise, Mike Bulkeley, Pat Cothern, Jayna Green, Mary Easterday and Lisa Easterday.

Details discussed

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-H. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower, age 41, with two small boys, ages 6 and 11. My wife was killed three years ago in an auto accident and because I was driving, I needed professional help to get over the feeling of guilt.

I have recently hired a young babysitter to look after the house and boys. Her name is Maria and she is a very sensible, intelligent and mature 15-year-old.

Maria's mother, who has never been married, plans to marry next month. She came to see me and begged me to let Maria live in my home because her future husband refuses to have Maria live with them after they're married. She said Maria is willing to live with me. I said I would have to think it over.

Maria is a lovely girl, but she looks like a 20-year-old woman. If you know what I mean, I fear that if I let her live here, my reputation and hers might be ruined by evil-minded people. My parish priest advised me to take her in, and not to worry about evil-minded people. My mother-in-law, who is too old and sick to look after the boys, agreed with the priest.

He's afraid of gossip

The boys love Maria, and I must confess that I adore her in a fatherly way. Would I be inviting trouble to take Maria in? I have more than enough money to send her to college when the time comes. She wants to be a doctor.

MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST KNOW: Maria sounds like a serious-minded, ambitious, intelligent girl. If you're certain that your attitude toward her is fatherly, don't worry about what evil-minded people think.

DEAR ABBY: Seems to me I've read a lot lately about people "dying" for a few minutes, coming back to life and living for years. I've begun wondering how many people have been "buried" alive, which has developed a fear in me that I might be buried alive one day. It's giving me nightmares!

Abby, who is supposed to make absolutely sure a person is dead before he's buried? The doctor or the mortician?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Most state laws require that a death certificate be signed by either a medical doctor or the county coroner, and the latter are being replaced in some states by "medical investigators," who must be licensed physicians. Relax. Your chances for being buried alive are zilch.

DEAR ABBIGAIL VAN BUREN: Again it's come up in your column I refer to the confusing business of the proper use of "Ma."

Why not just drop the Ms., Miss or Mrs., and simply address the person by name as I have done in addressing you? In this day of liberated womanhood and personal rights for everybody, why can't we be who we are without the gobbledygook of Mr., Ms., Miss or Mrs.?

The Mr. before a man's name is useless since it applies to both married men and single men. And to label a woman by her marital status is an invasion of her privacy. Whose business is it whether she's married, single or using the "Ms." to disguise one or the other?

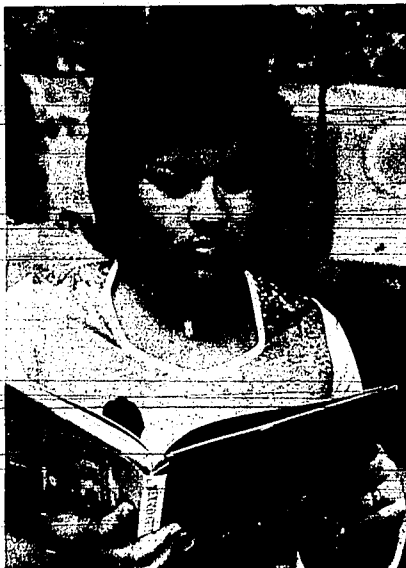

FRANKLY FRANK

DEAR FRANK: Thanks for a sensible suggestion. For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

your health

Does Dr. Lomb

... 21 and my husband is 33. When my husband was 15 he caught the mumps and they went down in one terrific day. We have been married for two years and have been trying desperately to conceive a baby and I have had no luck.

About a year ago my husband went to see his doctor about it and he told him, this did not mean he was sterile (as we had thought). It just meant our chances of conceiving would be smaller and that all of our children would be of the same sex. A year and half has passed and still I'm not able to get pregnant. I have a child by a previous marriage. What I'd really like to know is, what are our chances of having a baby?

Sterility possible

Does Reader

... use that mumps that involve the testicles can cause a man to be sterile. However, many times the man recovers entirely and he is just as able as the next man to father children.

The involvement of only one testicle would suggest that the other one would be normal. In fact, as occurs with many paired organs the uninvolved one may enlarge to compensate for the weak one. Will you see this in a couple with one kidney, for example, the other kidney may be larger than normal.

There is absolutely nothing to the statement that all your children will be of the same sex. A man does not produce sperm for male children from one testicle and females from another. That is about as far fetched as the city kid's idea that one leaf of a cow is for chocolate milk, another for cream, another for buttermilk and the last for whole milk. I am sure you have misunderstood what the doctor said.

There is only one good way to find out what your chances of having a baby really are. Your husband should have a sperm count. If he has sufficient or even a borderline amount of healthy sperm cells the chances of your having a baby are pretty good. Sometimes improvement in overall medical conditions can improve a person's fertility - male or female. Men or women low in thyroid may benefit from thyroid medication.

There is also evidence now that men will benefit from taking the fertility pill often used in women who do not ovulate. This would probably be most applicable to the man with some but not enough healthy sperm cells. Apparently the fertility pills stimulate an increased production of sperm in the male just as they increase the production or release of ova from a woman's ovaries.

And to increase the sperm count somewhat. If there are healthy sperm, it is well to limit the attempts to get pregnant to every other night. When a doctor does a sperm count he wants a specimen after abstinence for two or three days. Why? To get the best specimen with the most healthy sperm cells. For pregnancy it is best to produce an equally optimal specimen. The sperm cells live for two or three days in the woman.

Finally, don't overlook the possibility that even though you have had one child that you may not be as fertile as you once were!

Impotence can be caused by diseases and hormone deficiencies and other factors. For more information on this problem send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 412. Impotence. Porpoises protected in tuna fishing halt

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A federal judge has upheld the government's right to halt all fishing by U.S. boats for yellowfin tuna for the rest of the year to protect porpoises. Tuna fishermen have had their best year ever, and the forced layoff will not harm the industry irreparably, U.S. District Court Judge William B. Enright ruled Tuesday. But to give the fishing industry time to appeal, Enright extended until Friday a temporary order restraining the government from enforcing the ban. At issue is a new policy by the National Marine Fisheries Service, pushed by Congress and environmentalists, setting a limit on the number of porpoises that can be accidentally killed by tuna fishermen. The service recently set the annual quota at 70,000, declared it had been reached and ordered all fishing for yellowfin tuna to cease for the rest of the year. Although they attempt to avoid porpoises, fishermen inevitably snare the air-breathing mammals in their tuna nets. The fishermen have filed suit, demanding that the regulation be overturned or they be paid $300 million in compensatory damages.

Court orders execution to proceed

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (UPI) — The first execution in Utah in 16 years is scheduled Nov. 15 and all principals expect it to proceed. Gary Gilmore, a 35-year-old convicted murderer who killed only three months after being paroled to Utah from Oregon, withdrew his motion for an appeal Monday, clearing the way for the execution. Fourth District Court Judge Robert Bullock ordered a psychiatric evaluation of Gilmore which officials at the Utah State Prison said would be completed by Thursday. The court order for the execution was received at the prison Tuesday.

Under a Utah law passed since the last execution in 1960, the warden of the prison is responsible for naming the five-man firing squad. Previously, the sheriff of the county in which the crime was committed appointed the squad. Warden Sam Smith was out of town on business until Friday and Deputy Warden Leon Hatch said Wednesday he did not know if Smith had made any preparations for the execution. A deputy attorney general said as far as his office was concerned, the execution would go on as scheduled.

Utah gives its condemned prisoners the choice of hanging or shooting. Gilmore chose shooting and Monday told the judge he would rather keep his date with the fifteen than "tanguish" in jail during the usually extended appeals process.

Gilmore was convicted last month of killing Bennie Bushnell, a 23-year-old Provo, Utah motel clerk. At the sentencing hearing following his conviction, Gilmore admitted he had put a bullet in Bushnell's head the night of July 22.

When he admitted to the none-woman, three-man jury that he was guilty, Gilmore said, "I felt like there was no way that what happened could have been avoided. There was no other choice or chance for Mr. Bushnell. It was something that couldn't be stopped."

Gilmore was scheduled to go on trial this month for another robbery-killing in which a young service station attendant was shot to death in Orem, Utah, the night before the Bushnell slaying.

Gilmore was paroled to Utah from Oregon where he had served 12 years for robbery. He was out of the Oregon prison only three months before the Utah killings.

The last execution in Utah was the shooting of James Rodgers, March 30, 1960. He was convicted of killing a fellow uranium miner in southern Utah during an argument over the best way to grease a scoop shovel.

Since 1852 there have been 44 executions in the state. Many of the earlier ones were by the then-traditional hanging or shooting at the scene of the crime and it was not until 1903 that the prison became the site for all executions.

The last hanging was June 7, 1958 when Barton Kirkham died of a heart attack in the municipal jail. The firing squad consisted of five persons with 30-caliber rifles, one of which is loaded with a blank. Theoretically, the members of the firing squad do not know which rifle contains the blank shell.

Deputy Warden Hatch said on previous occasions when it appeared there would be an execution, there was no lack of volunteers for the firing squad. But he said he did not know if the warden had received any applications for the Gilmore case.

It took 15 months work for 12 minute conviction

Chicago Daily News — You can get married in 12 minutes and you can get divorced in 12 minutes. You can be born, you can die and you can almost renew your driver's license in 12 minutes if you're in short lines.

James Williams, 21, was found guilty — attempted murder and attempted armed robbery in 12 minutes.

Nobody's — sure — whether that's a record, but no one at the Criminal Court building can think of a faster verdict.

At 10:59 a.m. Friday, after a four-day trial, the 12 members of the jury left Judge Benjamin S. Mackoff's courtroom to deliberate Williams' fate. Then they elected a foreman, discussed the case, wrote their decisions on 24 pieces of paper, looked at the results and each juror signed his name to each of two forms indicating guilty verdicts on both charges.

At 11:11 a.m., they were finished.

Asst. State's Atlys. John Mellen and Greg Schlesinger were as shocked as everybody else at the quick verdict.

"When the jury went out, I stayed a few minutes in the courtroom, then I came downstairs," said Schlesinger. "I walked into the office and the phone started ringing. The bailiff said, 'They've got a verdict.'"

"That was it," Williams was accused of trying to rob and kill George Thomas in a White Castle restaurant on Aug. 3, 1975.

Thomas testified that he was sitting in his car while his wife was buying hamburgers when Williams stuck a gun through the window.

"Get out of the car," Williams muttered, "give it up!"

Thomas lunged open the car door and lunged at the gun but missed. Williams fired six shots as Thomas dove behind another car, but Williams didn't hit anyone.

When the gun was empty Thomas grabbed Williams and held him until police arrived.

Williams had no defenses. Only two months before he had been released from prison after a conviction for carrying a sawed-off shotgun.

It took almost 15 months to bring him to trial, but only 12 minutes to convict him.

Canadian auto aides on strike

DETROIT (UPI) — Some 14,000 Ford of Canada workers went on strike today after marathon bargaining sessions in Toronto failed to reach agreement on a new contract.

The workers at eight Canadian facilities left their jobs at 10 a.m. In the second walkout by the United Auto Workers this year. The parent U.S. Ford auto company was closed for 28 days in a nationwide strike and the dispute in Canada could force some U.S. plant shutdowns within a week.

"We're still moving toward a settlement," a Ford spokesman said in Toronto following an all-night bargaining session. "Now, there's more urgency to it."

Bridge bid opening today

TWIN FALLS—Twin Falls County commissioners will open today for construction on the new bridge to be built between Twin Falls and Gooding Counties.

According to County Commissioner Meel Leonard, the county has extended invitations and advertised in local newspapers for bids from construction companies on the new bridge, which will cross the Snake River directly south of Bliss.

Engineer Gerald Martens, who helped design the bridge with Twin Falls engineering firm Edwards and Howard, says invitations for bids were extended to five construction firms in Twin Falls and Salt Lake City, Utah, and there will be at least five bidders for the contract.

Martens said it is the policy of construction companies to hold their bids until the last hour before bid opening, making it impossible to report how many bids will be received.

The bids were to be kept in sealed envelopes until today when commissioners will open them at the Twin Falls County Court House, according to Martens.

The new bridge will be a two span, pre-stressed concrete bridge, according to Littlefield, another of the bridge's designers. It will be 190 feet long, Littlefield says. The two spans will run 70 feet and 120 feet respectively.

Leonard says plans for the bridge were first formulated last February when county commissioners began collaborating with Gooding County and the respective highway districts.

The bridge will serve for the growth of the area west of Twin Falls, according to Leonard.

"There are only two bridges crossing over the Snake River that service the entire agricultural community on the west end of Twin Falls County which extends from the Snake River in Gooding and Elmore counties on the north to the Nevada state line on the south," Leonard says.

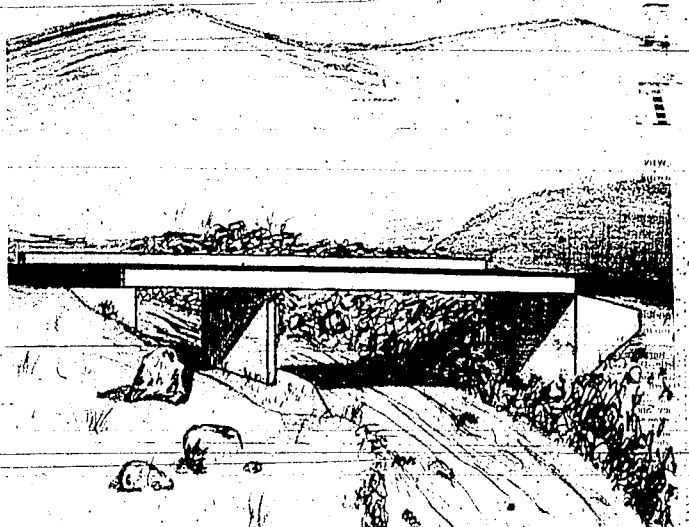

The new bridge will replace the old Bliss Bridge, an antiquated, steel overhead bridge built near the early 1900s, on which the load limit and safety factor have been reduced to five tons gross, he says.

According to Martens, the new structure is legally permitted a load limit of about 79,000 pounds or more than 33 tons, and it will be 32 feet wide to allow two lanes of traffic.

The main flow of traffic over the bridge will be trucks transporting agricultural products, Leonard says. The bridge will allow a direct route to Interstate 80 or access back through the Hagerman Valley to the city of Buhl.

In addition to the agricultural flow, the county anticipates there will be some permanent residents, schools and mail routes in the area in the future, according to Leonard, and the bridge will serve this future growth.

When the contract is awarded and construction begins, Martens and Littlefield estimate the project will take six months to complete.

Carter benefits from fence sitters

Washington Star
NEW YORK—The pieces of the electoral puzzle that finally fell together for Jimmy Carter Wednesday morning included voters who were young, black, union members and those who have had a tough time making up their mind.

According to an NBC news election poll taken of 16,000 voters as they left the voting booths Tuesday, 20 per cent of the nation's voters appear to have remained undecided until last week.

Carter was the major beneficiary of the fence sitting, with 53 per cent of those who made up their minds last week opting for him. Those who agonized over it until the weekend broke for Carter by a margin of 56 per cent. And the coin flippers, the ones who decided who to vote for on the way to the polls, gave 61 per cent of their votes to Carter, according to NBC.

NBC analysts said younger voters who consider themselves to be Independents may have added the "key" element to Carter's victory. He was able to attract sizable numbers of younger Independents and kept most of his party from straying, while Ford was unable to get the Independents and Democrats whose help his minority party needed.

Labor performed well for Carter, with 63 per cent of union families supporting him compared to a 36 per cent labor turnout four years ago for George McGovern.

While labor returned to the old Democratic coalition with considerable enthusiasm, other blocks ought to be traditionally part of the Democratic fold did not respond as warmly to Carter.

For example, Irish-Americans, once the shock troops for Democrats in the big cities, managed to give only 51 per cent of their vote to Carter. And Catholics struggled to give Carter 56 per cent of their votes. This is higher than George McGovern's 48 per cent rating among Catholics in 1972, but it was a far cry from Lyndon Johnson's 76 per cent or John F. Kennedy's 78 per cent.

Italian-Americans, according to NBC, gave Carter 57 per cent of their vote on a nationwide basis, but did not perform uniformly well for him on a state-by-state view. Part of Tuesday night's suspense over New York, for example, came because a majority of Italians appeared to have voted for Ford here.

But Polish and Slavic groups, thought to be only lukewarm toward Carter, gave him a strong showing in Milwaukee, leading to a victory in Wisconsin.

Slightly more than 50 per cent of the nation's blacks voted for Carter and 75 per cent of Jewish voters gave him their support. These two blocks helped give Carter 70 per cent of the votes in the nation's largest cities, tipping several key states his way.

Pastorini wants out of Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini Wednesday said he has asked to be traded but that he did not expect coach "Bud" Phillips to take action on his request until after this season.

"Bud's the reason I didn't want to leave earlier," Pastorini said. "I had had high hopes when I came here (in 1971) that we'd build something, maybe a dynasty. We haven't built anything."

Pastorini's disaffection came to light with the Oilers, 4-4, in a three-game nose-dive and the temperamental quarterback in conflict with other Houston players.

Pastorini berated a teammate on the sideline at Baltimore Monday night, causing Phillips to bench the quarterback during the third quarter.

Phillips, who has staunchly defended Pastorini against critics for the past two seasons, said he was looking for disciplinary reasons and not because of his performance. Phillips would not discuss it further.

"It was an outburst that I regret now," Pastorini said. He refused to say why he wanted to leave Houston, but he ruled out personality conflicts as the reasons.

"This isn't an emotional thing," he said. "We've had problems in the past. I've always wanted to help solve them. I've never wanted out before. This team just isn't working together."

Pastorini, billed as a prospective superstar when drafted from Santa Clara, is contracted to the Oilers until May, 1972. Should a trade not be made and Pastorini remain in the NFL, he could play out his option after next season.

Phillips would not say he will oblige Pastorini's request. "When somebody comes to me asking to leave, I ask him to give me a year," Phillips said. "Then we can talk about it. I don't have my year yet. We've got six games left. We've got a chance to be 10-4. It might not be a good chance, but it's something we can do."

Valley, Glens Ferry to settle Big Six title as prep grid season winds down

Glens Ferry hosts Valley in the last game of the season that really counts in Magic Valley while a total of eight games are played in football's last regular season appearance.

Only the Big Sky Conference title remains in doubt — and from three sides — and it is not unusual to find that Glens Ferry again is a key figure in the decisive game. The Pilots have served in that role for years, dating back to the heyday of the Wendell Trojans.

What it amounts to is this: A Valley victory loses the championship with an undefeated record — a Glens Ferry win would bring the Pilots into a tie with Valley and Glens Ferry for the crown.

At that point some method of determining the champion would have to be devised. That is nothing new to this league. The winner will entertain "HomeDate" in an "A-3" playoff the following week at the Magic Valley champions' home field.

If there is one truth to this showdown game, it is the fit of opposites. Glens Ferry's opposing coaches believe it is imperative to jump out on the Pilots early. Several teams have been able to do that. What makes it imperative is that the Pilots usually come bouncing back strong in the second half.

Valley has been pretty consistent in getting the early — or first quarter — score. The second truth is it should be a defensive battle. Valley must watch the explosive, long-scoring speed of Tom Wichter. Glens Ferry must watch for Bryan Human. In between there should be a lot of banging.

Buhl takes its undefeated juggernaut to Burley in search of a 10-0 record. Coach Jon Jund doesn't really know what to expect.

"We've seen them play when they look like they could be anybody. Then they turn around and make a mistake that really hurts them. We scouted them against Caldwell and we felt they played well enough to be ahead — but were down something like 21 — because of a couple of defensive mistakes. We're going up there on the assumption that they will play — to their capabilities and not give us anything." Coach Jund said.

That game time has been rescheduled for 8 p.m. by agreement of the two schools, as of Monday. It had been pencilled in for 7 p.m.

Jerome and Filer wind up their SCIC schedules in an afternoon game, starting at 11:30 p.m. Actually what fans will see is a bunch of pretty good backs who will be capable of breaking big runs. Brad Carpenter and Marty Humphreys of Jerome are scrabbles while Brian McGregor, Craig Lincoln and Tom Williamson (if healthy) are the Filer runners.

This could very well be the last football meeting between the two in the foreseeable future since Jerome now has gone to the Cross State as its major conference, and Filer is calling the Big Six its first home. They are in the SCIC now, but Filer has stated it will not continue there another year.

Jerome has dominated the thing, not losing to the Wildcats since 1965. Since then Jerome has won eight games, and the teams didn't play in two seasons.

Gooding and Wendell wind down last seasons at Wendell. The Senators carry a 2-7 record into the fray while Wendell is winless. There are few teams either likes to beat as much as each other, however, so a win by either side will produce a little salvo.

Kimberly travels to Shoshone for a defensive battle which will see the Bulldogs sticking largely to the ground, and Shoshone using the air a little more often.

In another afternoon game, Mackay's Miners will invade Hansen where the Huskies are trying to get their offense clicking again after losing two of their last three games.

Following this Friday the only regularly scheduled game will find the Minto Spartans traveling to Bannockville.

Saturday Camas County takes on Cambridge for the eight-man state championship at Boise (6-7 p.m.) and Wednesday Hagerman and Oakley travel to the mindome to meet Aberdeen and Westlake, respectively. Buhl will be at Bishop Kelly next Friday at 7:30 p.m. for an A-2 playoff.

Bruins host Borah, I.F. invades Minico

Two of the three Southern Idaho Conference co-leaders will play in Magic Valley this weekend.

The steadily improving Borah Lions — and they didn't need much — will be in Twin Falls at 5 p.m. Friday while the point-matched Idaho Falls Tigers will invade Minico at the same time.

It will be the final game of the season for Twin Falls, which due to SIC reorganization, was left without a "traditional" Veterans' Day windup opponent. In the future it probably will be Nampa, but the schedule could not be re-worked for this year. Nampa, however, cancelled its game (the last of the year) with Pocatello Friday due to the death of halfback Casey Hennessy last week.

The outlook indicates nothing new to Twin Falls. The Borah Lions are perhaps bigger than they've been in a while. And they have returned to a grinding, ball-control type offense that has just started to click following early season injuries that took away their speed in Cedric Minter and quarterback Kyle Blackstaff.

The Lions have started crunching like Borah of old on the back of 195-pound fullback Steve Saleen, who in the past three weeks has jumped his rushing record from 278 yards to 672. He also has scored 48 points during that time.

"Borah can really work you over while they're scratching," Bruin Coach Penny Almqvist said. "They have linemen like 6-6, 235 and 6-5, 225 and 6-4, 225. Then Saleen has that good size and he has good speed. He can be a punishing runner."

We watched them against Idaho Falls (Borah's only league loss) and they took seven minutes to score on their first drive and used up eight minutes scoring on their next possession. (Idaho Falls took only seconds nullifying them, returning two kickoffs-for-touchdowns-for the final point spread.)

"We're excited about having a chance to have a say in the final conference standings," he continued, referring to his club's 3-5 record. "We opened the season with two straight wins, and it would be great to close it the same way. Of course, we'd like to have done better in those middle five, too."

Coach Almqvist sees the key as keeping the defensive troops as fresh as possible. That means the offense will have to control the ball. Last week Twin Falls, for the first time in a long while, scored after a seven-minute drive, and it was the longest rest the defensive unit had had all season. Coach Almqvist saw that as a key reason for Twin Falls' ability to stop Skyline in its final two possessions last week.

No one knows exactly what to tell Minico to expect. Idaho Falls just scores points. So far they've racked up 212 in seven league games and 14 has been the low. The Tigers have scored three times on kickoff returns, all by Dan Knudsen, and once on a punt return by Dave Tobin. They've returned only three punts all year.

Back at the scrimmage line, the Tigers boast an outstanding athlete in Don Baldwin who engineers the widebunch wheel. The Tigers throw sparingly, only 23 times this year and completed only six of those. But five have gone for touchdowns and three were intercepted.

Idaho Falls has piled up 258 yards per game rushing in the league. They have a total 2,686 yards on the ground and 327 in the air.

Scratch bowlers to vie at Magic Bowl

TWIN FALLS — A $3500 purse is offered this weekend when the Idaho Scratch Bowlers Association meets at the Magic Bowl.

The purse, boosted by added money from Cactus Pete's, will help draw most of the top bowling talent in southern Idaho. The association boasts 200 members and its last outing in Pocatello drew 153 competitors.

The tournament will follow its usual format of eight-game qualifying sessions at noon, 4 and 8 p.m. Saturday, and 9 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Sunday. The top five qualifiers meet in head-to-head competition to decide the champion about 5 p.m. Sunday.

Ken Howard of Nampa is the defending champion in the Magic Bowl ISBA tournament and currently is the leading money winner in Idaho.

A total of 18 local bowlers will participate in this event, headed by John Irwin of Twin Falls who fired a record 1832 qualifying mark in finishing second in Pocatello last month.

Free agents find worth today

NEW YORK (UPI) — The cry of "What am I bid?" began in earnest for 21 free agents players who have played out their options. The bidding may not be on quite the wide scale as originally speculated. In fact, the players' own union chief, Marvin Miller, has predicted that most of the 24 eligible players will wind up back with their original clubs.

"I'm reasonably sure of it," said Miller. "Some players didn't sign their contracts and became free agents because they felt 'what have I got to lose at this point? What am I worth of the open-market?' — Meaning, that 'open market' may also be seriously reduced in the wake of some owners' refusal to take part in the bidding. Cincinnati's Bob Howsam and Minnesota's Calvin Griffith have openly expressed their desire not to participate, while other less affluent clubs are likely to make selections simply to mollify their fans."

Jim Packard selected as golf director for Canyon Springs

TWIN FALLS — Jim Packard has been elevated to the position of director of golf activities at Canyon Springs Golf Club.

Owner Joe McCollum said Wednesday night Packard, who served as assistant pro this season, will be in charge of all golf activities, the pro shop and the club house.

Packard's position will not be the same as that of Pro Mike Sessions, who is leaving the course but indicates he plans to remain in the pro business. Sessions said he has had discussions on at least two positions that are expected to be announced in the next several days.

As director, Packard's duties will entail more than the usual pro guidelines although he will fulfill those duties as well.

"We are especially pleased to secure the services of Jim following the decision of Mike Sessions to not return in 1977," McCollum said. McCollum said he was enthusiastic over the promise of a director beyond that of a regular professional.

Packard said Wednesday night, "Right now we don't have many concrete plans. I'm trying now to reorganize the system to one that I prefer. It will take probably a week. After that we can start working toward finalizing more plans for next year's activities."

He said he already has curtailed the number of Idaho Golf Association events to three, a spring best ball, the two-day major medal play tournament and a Chapman event later in the year.

"We can't start too early because of the frost and anyone teeing off after dark doesn't have much chance of finishing before dark this time of year," Packard explained. "We've set the times just to let the people know that a weather-permitting days, six days a week, they can get in some winter golf if they want to."

In completing his announcement, McCollum noted, "Gus Monagone, our course superintendent for the past 12 months, will continue his present assignment. I feel that Jim and Gus along with their staff, will give Canyon Springs a fine golf program in 1977."

Reviewing the immediate past season, McCollum said the new course, completing only its second year, had drawn about four-times the play it had in its inaugural season.

"We're still losing money," he lamented the question, "but as we progress and learn things and get people to help us like Jim and Gus, I can't help but feel that in another few years we're going to have a course, the whole community is proud of and wanting to play. I believe there is a need now, that will continue to grow for another course in our area. But I'll tell you, I'm concluded with a smile, 'I've had a whole new college education in the past two years.'"

Sooners seek plain talk on NCAA probe

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) —

The president of the University of Oklahoma Wednesday asked the NCAA for confirmation "in plain language" that the NCAA was investigating reports of players sold game tickets at inflated prices.

NCAA executive director Walter Byers said earlier in the day the NCAA was making a preliminary investigation of OU, but university president Paul F. Sharp said the school had not been notified.

Byers said the NCAA was investigating charges Oklahoma coaches scalped tickets to provide football players with extra money.

OU vice-president for the university community J. R. Morris criticized Byers' statement, saying to reveal an initial inquiry to the press was "highly irregular" and a violation of NCAA procedures.

"Please provide by return telegram collect a copy of alleged prepared statement. Further, by return telegram collect, please state in plain language whether or not the University of Oklahoma is under official investigation by NCAA enforcement program, NCAA Manual, 1976-77," Sharp's telegram said.

OU officials said Tuesday they had never been notified of an NCAA investigation although the Oklahoma City Times reported Oct. 25 such an investigation was underway.

"Is there or is there not an NCAA investigation into OU's football program?" said

Morris, who is heading an internal investigation of the charges.

He said prior to any action by the committee on infractions to decide if an inquiry is to be made and then to let the chief executive officer of the school involved.

He said prior to any action by the committee on infractions an "initial inquiry" may be conducted by the investigative staff.

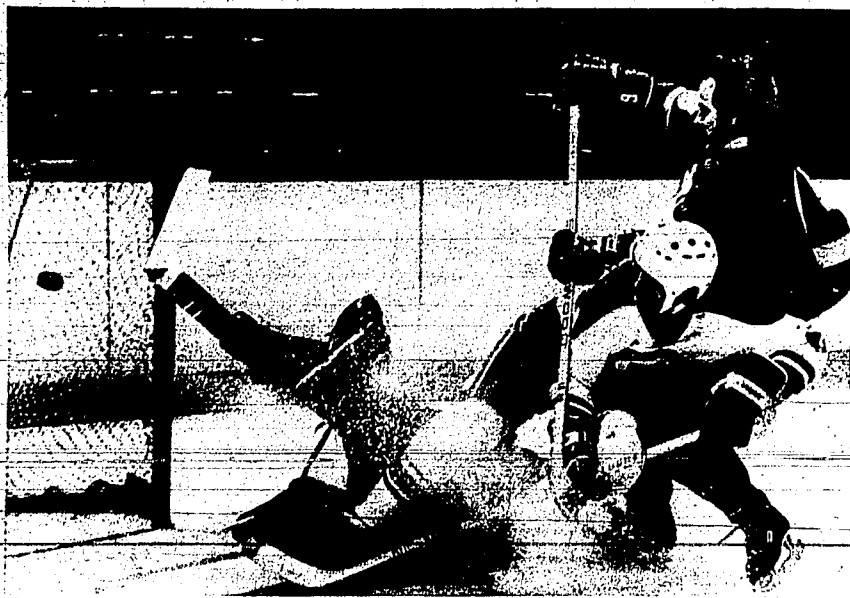

Morris said Warren Brown, NCAA chief compliance officer, told him Oct. 25 that a complaint had been received and certain "sources" were being consulted to try to evaluate the complaint, but no decision had been made to investigate OU.

"It is a matter of fact that the committee decision had not been made on Oct. 25, and so far as we know, has not yet been made," he said.

Byers' prepared statement, issued at the NCAA office in Mission, Kan., said the investigation began before the Oct. 25 newspaper article.

Insult and injury

TF's McFarland third in SIC rushing

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls halfback Scott McFarland has pulled to 147 yards of the South Idaho Conference rushing leadership.

The youngster, now with 725 yards and just four yards out of second according to statistics from conference coaches, needs a huge night against co-leading Borah Friday, however. He and the Bruins have played eight conference games and complete their schedule on the home field Friday night. All teams but Twin Falls and Nampa have traditional season-enders next week. Two other Bruins show up in the statistics. Senior wide receiver Kenny King is fifth in catches with 24, worth 299 yards and two touchdowns. Quarterback Kenny Samac ranks seven in passing with 577 yards and is eighth among quarterbacks in total offense, with 539 yards. Senior Bob Latham, one of the leaders with five pass interceptions, ranks third in kickoff returns and second in an air-right punt return challenge.

Minio's best showing is made by Kody Thurston who is second in kickoff returns with 334 yards. As a team, Twin Falls ranks seventh in rushing and passing while Minico is last in both categories. Defensively, Minico is fourth best against the pass, giving up 724 yards while Twin Falls is fifth. The Bruins rank eighth in rushing defense.

Looking for driving room

Celtics receive Texas summons

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two Boston Celtics players and coach Tom Heinsohn Wednesday night were served with summons ordering them to appear at a hearing in a Texas State District Court regarding a fight with a Houston Rockets' fan last season. A Harris County sheriff's deputy served the papers at half-time of the Celtics' game with the Houston Rockets. After the Rockets won in overtime, 117-111, Heinsohn was angry about receiving the summons. "How ridiculous is this?" he said. "Some drunk guy runs on the basketball court, kicks (Dave) Cowens, sues and then gets the sheriff to serve us with summons? What can I say?" James C. Bates, 34, filed a $1 million damage suit after the Feb. 11 incident. Also named as defendants were Celtics president and general manager Red Auerbach, the Boston Celtics Inc., and the Summit Inc.

David whips Goliath again

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Rockets 5-foot-9 guard Calvin Murphy, giving away 60 pounds, bloodied 6-foot-9 Sidney Wicks' nose and sent the Boston Celtics' forward to the locker room during a violent third quarter fight in the teams' NBA basketball game Wednesday night. Wicks, 225 pounds, was not seriously hurt. He returned to the court three minutes later with a bandage across the bridge of his nose and re-entered the highly charged game. Murphy, 165 pounds, was not hit, but was charged with two personal fouls and Wicks with one during the near-melée which occurred after the two players began shoving each other near the Rockets' basket. Wicks shoved Murphy away from a loose ball with his left arm and seconds later, when Murphy moved through the lane, he purposely ran into Wicks and began shoving him. The two traded shoves and then Murphy attacked the taller Wicks with a series of right hand blows to the face. Murphy then wrestled Wicks to the ground and continued to hit him before being pulled off by teammates.

New York learning how to play again without Julius Erving

By FRED DOWN, UPI Sports writer
It's a new game for the New York Nets without Julius Erving and they're gradually learning to play it. "We have changed from a fast-break team to a control team," said Coach Kevin Loughery Wednesday night after the Nets scored a 100-96 victory over the Buffalo Braves. "It's a big adjustment to make, but we're getting there." "We have proved that we can maintain our respectability on the road. I'm satisfied with our defense — and now our offense is beginning to come along." John Williamson scored 36 points and led a 26-point third-period burst, which opened up a nine-point lead, as the Nets broke their three-game losing streak and dealt the Braves their fourth straight loss. Tim Bassett shared honors with Williamson by scoring 20 points and grabbing 12 rebounds while Rapsy Smith led the Braves with 21 points. Bob McAdoo, the NBA's three-time scoring leader, started his first game for the Braves this season and scored 13 points. He conceded after the game that his timing was off and that he still wasn't in shape. The Denver Nuggets defeated the New York Knicks, 119-110; the Houston Rockets beat the Boston Celtics, 117-111, in an overtime game marked by a fist fight between Calvin Murphy and Sidney Wicks; the Washington Bullets topped the Milwaukee Bucks, 117-105; the Kansas City Kings downed the Seattle SuperSonics, 126-106; and the Indiana Pacers scored a 113-97 triumph over the San Antonio Spurs in the other NBA games.

Nuggets 119, Knicks 110: David Thompson, the ABA's rookie of the year a year ago, scored 24 points to lead the Rockets to their fifth straight victory. Dan Issel scored 19 points and had 11 rebounds as the Nuggets jumped to a 37-22 first-period lead and enjoyed margins of as much as 24 points in the fourth quarter.
Rockets 117, Celtics 111: Guard Mike Newlin scored 17 points in the fourth period and a five-minute overtime as the Rockets rallied from a 58-46 halftime deficit for their triumph at Houston. Murphy wrestled Wicks to the floor in the third period and received two personal fouls while Wicks was charged with one — after which the previously sluggish Rockets came to life. Charlie Scott led the Celtics with 28 points.
Bullets 117, Bucks 105: Elvin Hayes scored 31 points and Len Robinson 24 as the Bullets snapped a three-game losing streak. Hayes had 17 points and Robinson 15 in the first half, during which the Bullets took a 65-51 lead, which was never seriously threatened. Kevin Restani scored 22 points for the Bucks.
Kings 126, Sonics 106: Ron Boone scored 26 points, Jim Eakins 23 and Brian Taylor 19 for a total of 67 for the former ABA players in the Kings' victory at Kansas City. Fred Brown led Seattle with 16 points. Seattle Mike Green had 10 rebounds.

Advancement for women pressed

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senior officials at the Agriculture Department have been told bluntly they're not doing a good job of getting women into high ranking posts in the department's agencies.

"The department has made very little gain in improving the status of women during the past 18 months," Acting Secretary John A. Knebel complained in a memorandum circulated recently to agency heads.

"We have much to do to increase the status of women. We cannot condone a business as usual attitude in this matter. We must clearly demonstrate our recognition of the equality of women by making greater use of their skills and knowledge at all position levels," Knebel said in the memo.

Department records, according to Knebel, show that nationwide employment of women in Agriculture agencies rose from 24.63 per cent of the total department work force in December, 1974, to 24.66 per cent last June. Despite the slight gain, the department continued to lag far behind the "governmentwide" female employment percentage which stood at 42.1 per cent when measured in October, 1975.

Officials conceded, meanwhile, that they were even more dismayed by their failure to make greater headway in boosting the percentage of women in higher-ranking and high paying jobs.

Records show the percentage of women in Agriculture jobs in civil service grades 7, through 12 rose from 9.88 per cent to 11.01 per cent between the end of 1974 and mid-1976. But governmentwide, women held 25.8 per cent of these jobs which carry starting salaries from $11,523 annually in grade 7 to $20,442 a year in grade 12.

"We have made the least progress at the grade 13 and above level, moving only from 3.33 per cent to 3.36 per cent in the 18 month period. Government-wide, as of October, 1975, women held 5.1 per cent of these positions," Knebel said. The grade 13 and up careerservice jobs pay from $24,308 to $35,604 a year.

Paul Bolduc, assistant secretary of agriculture for administration, said in an interview the department's poor showing in upgrading female employees was partly due to the same factors which have also slowed efforts to increase minority employment. Among other things, he noted, departmental employment has not been expanding in recent years, and turnover in higher ranking jobs has not been prevalent.

But in some respects, it has been even harder to win improved status for women than for minorities, Bolduc said.

"We've got to be realistic enough to realize that a number of male managers have not yet adjusted themselves to an environment in which they work with or for females," the official said.

Bolduc said top level administrators are determined to keep pushing for full equality for women. He said no numerical targets are being set, but he added he saw no reason why the department — which ranks in 36th place among 51 federal agencies in its percentage of upper-grade women — should not do as well as other agencies.

If major progress is going to be made in opening good Agriculture jobs to women, Bolduc added, some changes may be needed in civil service procedures — especially in the system which gives armed service veterans a priority on appointment rosters.

At present, Bolduc said, the use of the automatic veterans preference system almost guarantees that when the Agriculture Department tries to fill a high-paying civil service post, candidates at the top of the appointment roster will all be men.

The official said, however, he has been told that the Civil Service Commission is planning to review proposals to allow "more flexibility" in appointing women in competition with men who have veterans status.

American Farm Bureau sets meeting in Honolulu

PARK RIDGE, Ill. — Government farm programs, taxation, spending, inflation, international trade, and the adverse impact of federal regulatory agencies on food production are expected to be the major policy issues discussed at the 58th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Honolulu Jan. 9-11.

With the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 expiring with the 1977 crop year, more attention will be devoted to Farm Bureau recommendations to the administration and Congress for programs designed to promote a market-oriented agriculture.

The convention is expected to be the largest ever for the organization with an anticipated attendance of 15,000 farm people.

Policies on both national and international issues will be adopted by the voting delegates representing 49 state Farm Bureaus and Puerto Rico. The federation is the largest general farm organization in the nation with more than 2.5 million member families.

Guest speakers at the Jan. 10 and 11 general sessions in Honolulu's Blaisdell Center will include Ambassador Frederick B. Dent, U.S. special representative to the general trade negotiations in Geneva, Switzerland, and Shirley Temple Black, chief of protocol for the Department of State, and former U.S. representative to the United Nations.

Ambassador Dent will address the convention on Monday morning. Mrs. Black will appear before the Tuesday morning general session. AFBF President Allen Grant will give his annual address Monday morning. The federation's chief administrator and secretary, Richard W. Owens, will present his annual report Tuesday morning.

The convention will open with vesper services at 4 p.m. Sunday, January 9, led by the Rev. Dr. Abraham K. Akoka, Hawaiian clergyman, Pastor of Honolulu's historic Kawaiahae Church. Dr. Akoka is a graduate of the University of Chicago and has long been prominent in Hawaiian church affairs. The choir from the Kawaiahae Church will provide music for the services.

The American Farm Bureau Young Farmer and Rancher Committee will hold its discussion meet beginning Sunday afternoon at the Surfside Hotel. Selection of four national winners will be Sunday evening in the Sheraton-Waikiki's Hawaiian ballroom. Approximately 25 state Farm Bureaus have indicated that they will have representation in the contest this year.

Jan. 10 will be devoted to special interest conferences, as well as the American Farm Bureau Women's annual conference.

Dr. John Hannah, former president of Michigan State University and presently executive director of the World Food Council, and Edward W. Cook, chairman of Cook Industries, Inc., will be speakers at the commodity and marketing conference. Dr. Hannah is expected to discuss some of the food problems facing developing nations, while Cook will discuss ways for American producers to sell in world markets and marketing problems in less developed countries.

In the insurance conference, three outstanding financial and insurance executives will talk of opportunities and problems in the field of insurance. They will be Vestal Lemmon, president of the National Association of Insurers; Lester Rawls, Oregon insurance commissioner; and Larry Hinson, retired senior vice-president of the First Hawaiian Bank.

At the organization conference, Charles B. Shuman, Sullivan, Illinois, former president of the American Farm Bureau, will discuss the importance of good volunteer leadership in Farm Bureau programs.

Beginning at noon on Tuesday, the voting delegates from member state Farm Bureaus will begin consideration of the report of the Resolutions Committee. The business session of the convention will continue through Wednesday morning.

Role ready for horse

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Some farmer with a pregnant horse may have a budding movie star on his hands.

Columbia Pictures officials announced Wednesday they are looking for a mare due to foal next month for a key sequence in the motion picture "Casey's Shadow," a film about quarter horse racing, starring Walter Matthau and Alexis Smith.

A spokesman said a pregnant horse is hard to come by this time of year because mares generally foal in the spring.

Luncheon set

JEROME — Dean Falk, extension dairy specialist, will speak at noon Friday at the Wood Cafe in the first of a series of monthly luncheons on dairy problems, sponsored by the University of Idaho.

Falk and Jesse Wilson, Jerome County agent, will discuss dairy cattle nutrition. The program will center on the use of hay, grain and silage. All dairymen are invited to attend.

Idaho slaughter declines

BOISE (UPI) — Commercial slaughter of cattle, hogs and sheep in Idaho during September was below a year earlier by the State Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, said today.

Although the September kill was 377 million pounds was the second largest September slaughter on record, the service said it was five per cent below last year's record.

The cumulative slaughter through September remains just shy of the record setting pace of 1974 and at 261.8 million pounds is one per cent ahead of last year's pace, the service added.

During September cattle slaughter totaled 49,500 head, a 3,000 head drop from last September.

The state agency said a slight increase in average liveweight over last year — six pounds — brought the September 1976 average to 1,097 pounds per head.

Hog slaughter was 21 per cent above last year, but the service said even with the larger September kill the total hog slaughter to date remains only 82 per cent of last year's comparable total.

The average liveweight of hogs at 231 pounds remained the same as the September 1975 figure.

Sheep slaughter remains considerably below last year and is only 70 per cent of the number slaughtered through September of last year, the agency said.

Budget, filling key posts due Carter's attention

Thursday, November 4, 1976 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 29

ATLANTA (UPI) — In the 11 weeks before Inauguration Day, President-elect Jimmy Carter will give priority attention to the budget for the next fiscal year and to finding persons for nearly 200 key policy positions.

Transition Chief James Watson has worked since August on the Carter Administration's first steps. Carter himself said he would start concentrating on transition duties in a couple of days.

One thing Watson learned in his early study of fiscal matters is that Carter can't keep his promise of balancing the federal budget by 1981 without a healthy and sustained rise in the nation's economic growth rate.

The 37-year-old Atlanta lawyer said in an interview that Carter will have a White House staff smaller than President Ford's. Vice President-elect Walter Mondale will have a "greatly expanded role," he said, in "moving the administration's legislation through Congress."

The transition staff, housed in Watson's downtown law office, has been financed by $150,000 in campaign funds but now will be eligible for a $2 million congressional appropriation, Watson said.

"thousands of people" have been consulted since August.

Watson said Carter cannot meet his unemployment and reduced inflation goals and shoot for a balanced budget by 1981 with the economic growth rate continuing at its projected 4 per cent.

"Gov. Carter" has said in numerous speeches that he's shooting for a growth rate of between 5 per cent and 6 per cent, between 5.5 per cent and 6 per cent, really.

Watson said Carter can make his own fiscal 1978 budget proposals to the Congress between Feb. 15 and March 1. He said "a lot of work" must be done but "we're not trying to construct a whole budget."

Watson said the fiscal 1978 budget has been "75 to 85 per cent locked in" by Ford's budget.

Watson said the fiscal 1978 budget has been "75 to 85 per cent locked in" by Ford's budget makers "so that there's really only about a 20 per cent area of latitude where either President Ford or President-elect Carter have some elbow room to maneuver."

Watson said Carter's first major budgetary briefing "will be shortly after Thanksgiving."

Americans 'fed up'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said Democrat Jimmy Carter won the presidential race because American voters were fed up with eight years of Republican administration.

"The first analysis of the results shows that the electorate voted against, rather than for," Izvestia's Washington correspondent reported. "They opposed the economic, moral and political consequences of the eight year Republican government."

Swensen's Markets bring you the

POST ELECTION PORK BARREL

Pork Barrels have always figured prominently in national politics. Just to review, pork barrel legislation is like when Frank Church votes for some $23 million government project in Massachusetts, in consideration of which the Massachusetts Senator will vote for some $50 million Government project in Idaho (read Teton Dam). Besides making Senators popular, at taxpayers' expense, pork barreling also exhausts the National Treasury faster. Swensen's are sure that this year's election will undoubtedly produce BIGGER AND BETTER PORK BARRELS, BROKER TAXPAYERS, and SVAVER, SMOOTHER Senators and Representatives.

SO IN SYMPATHY WITH ALL PORK BARRELED CITIZENS WHO HARDLY HAVE THE DISCRETION OF SPENDING THEIR OWN MONEY ANY MORE, SWENSEN'S MARKETS ARE STAGING A LITTLE PORK BARREL SALE, featuring . . . what else: Fresh Pork at prices considerable lower than you've seen since the last election.

Big crowd welcomes winner

SEVERAL hundred of his friends and relatives surround President-elect Jimmy Carter Wednesday on his return to his home town of Plains, Ga., from campaign offices in Atlanta. Some of the group had waited up all night for Carter's arrival. (UPI)

Quick ouster

WASTING NO time in removing Gerald Ford from his group of American presidents was Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum in London. President Ford hadn't conceded yet to Democrat Jimmy Carter when the museum replaced him with a likeness of Carter. (UPI)

Silent listener

SOMBER - President Ford, flanked by son Steve and daughter Susan, listens as his wife, Betty, reads his message of congratulations to President-elect Jimmy Carter Wednesday in the White House Press Room. Ford is virtually voiceless as a result of rigorous campaigning. (UPI)

Heirs win

TWO heirs to famous family fortunes won gubernatorial races Tuesday. They are Republican Pierre DuPont in Delaware, above, and Democrat Jay Rockefeller in West Virginia. Rockefeller became the third member of his family to be elected a governor. (UPI)

Battle's at end

DEMOCRAT Donald Riegle Jr. smiles and salutes his supporters in Detroit, Mich., after winning a seat in the United States Senate. "This is the hardest battle I ever fought," Riegle told supporters at a victory party. He succeeds retiring Sen. Philip Hart. (UPI)

Happiness is upset victory

EMBRACING his wife, Kate, after scoring an upset victory in Puerto Rico in San Juan Mayor Carlos Romero Barcelo of the pro-statehood New Progressive Party. He defeated incumbent Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon. (UPI)

Neighbors win, keep seawall

COEUR D'ALENE (Idaho) (UPI) — Two neighbors on Sanders Beach may have won a test of endurance against Kootenai County to keep a seawall built six years ago.

Dr. E.R.W. Fox, his wife and neighbor Carmela K. McDonald laid the foundation for the seawall in 1971. The county brought suit one month after the breaker went up.

It extends 250 feet along private beach front. Sanders Beach has been open to the public for years.

Boise workers seek pay hike

BOISE (UPI) — A 10 per cent increase over the next 21 months has been agreed to by the Boise City Employees Association.

Roy List, president of the 200 member employees association, said such a settlement probably would ruin city employees' incentives. He said the 10 per cent increase will be given to each employee regardless of merit.

The association had to settle now because the city did not want to negotiate further. List said, adding the association has no contract and has no authority to bargain.

Meantime, settlement has not been reached between the city council and the city firemen.

The city has offered the firemen either a 10 per cent increase over 21 months or a seven per cent raise over one year. The firefighters are requesting 10 per cent for one year.
