TWIN FALLS — A 17-year-old Buhl boy is being held in Twin Falls County Jail on a charge of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of another Buhl youth early Sunday morning.

Nunan Aguller, 17, Buhl, was killed about 1 a.m. Sunday at Olson's Apartments. He was shot in the head by a pistol.

The other boy was arraigned in Twin Falls Magistrate Court Monday. He is being held without bond.

Spray can warnings sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration today proposed putting warning labels on an estimated 1 billion aerosol spray cans to tell consumers they contain fluorocarbon gas which may harm public health and the environment.

The warning label is an interim step designed to take effect until the FDA eventually places a ban on all nonessential uses of fluorocarbons in food, drug and cosmetic products.

The labels would read:

Warning: Contains a chlorofluorocarbon that may harm the public health and environment by reducing ozone in the upper atmosphere.

The labels would apply only to products under the FDA's jurisdiction, but that includes about 80 per cent of such fluorocarbon-using aerosols. Of the 2.4 billion pressurized containers sold annually in the United States, the label would have to be applied to 1 billion of them, the FDA estimated.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission moved Monday against fluorocarbon aerosols in its jurisdiction, largely household cleaners and automobile degreasers, by proposing an eventual ban on them. It has not proposed an interim warning label.

"The purpose of this warning is to encourage self-restraint by consumers in purchasing spray products containing chlorofluorocarbons and to encourage them to seek alternative products," said FDA Commissioner Alexander Schmidt.

"Our goal is to reduce the use of chlorofluorocarbons in aerosols until they are phased out."

The agency cited the controversy over the impact of the gas on the Earth's protective ozone layer as the reason for its move.

"This action is unique and should represent the first of a worldwide series of actions by all nations to limit the release of chlorofluorocarbons into the atmosphere," he added.

The warning labels would be required 30 days after the FDA issues a final regulation on the matter — thus the effective date is uncertain.

Gilmore hearing set Nov. 30

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The State of Utah wants Gary Gilmore dead before Dec. 7 to avoid legal questions over the timing of the condemned murderer's execution.

Gilmore, five days into a hunger strike to force state officials to allow him to telephone his fiancée, remained under heavy guard today at the Utah State Prison Hospital. He has lost eight pounds since refusing his noon meal Friday.

The state Board of Pardons and the urging of the Attorney General's office and the county attorney who prosecuted Gilmore, Monday moved up its special hearing on the case to Nov. 30. It had been scheduled Dec. 6.

US asylum sought for Chinese

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom, director of the Illinois-based "Remember the Pueblo Committee," asked the U.S. Embassy today for political asylum in the United States for two Chinese Communist officials now in Mexico.

Both Chinese, identified by Lindstrom only as "associates" of ousted Chinese Vice Premier Chang Chun-chin, have information on "several hundred" U.S. prisoners of war — captured in Laos and North Vietnam — who allegedly are being held in China, the Prospect Heights, Ill., minister said.

Airport panel ponders image

BURLEY — The Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority (SIRAA) will make a major effort to increase public participation, particularly in the Mini-Cassia area, retiring Chairman George Forschler said when the board met here Monday night.

Due to the lack of a board majority, those present held a public relations discussion.

The discussion covered lack of public attendance at SIRAA board meetings in the Mini-Cassia area, the lieutenant governor's apparent lack of knowledge of SIRAA status and a charge that Forschler had lied.

The written charge that Forschler "must have been lying" came from Stu Murrell, Idaho Fish and Game representative on the SIRAA's technical review board.

He referred to Forschler's reply earlier this fall on a question regarding the necessity of conducting an election before any additional money is spent for construction of the airport.

Hospital costs to jump?

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital administrators unveiled a preliminary hospital budget Tuesday night which calls for a 20 per cent increase in spending and would see the average patient's bill rise to about $166 a day.

Hospital Administrator James Rosenbaum said he expects the budget to be revised downward before hospital board approval on Dec. 13 before sending it to the county commissioners for final action.

In its present form, the preliminary budget calls for:

- $8.5 million operating expenditures during 1977, compared with $6.6 million projected for the current year.
- An increase of 80 full-time hospital employees, to a total of 536 full-time-equivalent workers. During 1975, the last full year with complete records, there were 411 full-time equivalent employees. Fifty-five of the new people would be on the nursing staff.
- The average patient will be billed in the neighborhood of $166 a day for all hospital charges. This compares with a projected $147 this year and $123 in 1975.

Contrary to budget expectations at the beginning of this year, the hospital should end the year with a large surplus. Patient revenues are now projected to be $636,000 more than expected, but hospital expenses were only $53,000 greater.

This means if the projections are accurate, the hospital should end the year with $583,000 in unexpected money. When added to county tax support, the hospital should end 1976 with a surplus of more than three-quarters of a million dollars.

— Under the proposed budget, there would be no room charge increases.

— However, according to Rosenbaum, there probably will be rate increases for X-ray, laboratory, operating room, recovery room, nuclear medicine, EKG, EEG, IV therapy, ancillary services and respiratory therapy.

— The number of outpatient visits would continue rising, as would the cost per visit. There will be an estimated 96,227 outpatient visits this year at an average patient bill of about $34. Next year, there would be 88,200 visits with an average bill of about $38.

— The new budget projects the average length of a patient's stay will rise significantly from 4.3 days this year to 4.8 days next year, an eight per cent increase.

— Partly as a result, the average daily census, the number of people in the hospital at any one time, would rise to 126.3 a day from the current rate of 114.3, an increase of 10.5 per cent.

The proposed budget also reflects widespread growth in services provided to the community.

For instance, it sets aside $221,500 to bring in a team of emergency room doctors to cover the hospital's emergency room on a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week basis.

As a result of the expanded emergency room staff, the budget expects the number of emergency room visits to rise from 9,400 this year to 14,400 next year.

Other fast-growing departments include the laboratory, which would perform an estimated 456,000 exams, an increase of a third over 1975's total.

The budget does not include several areas of expenditure.

Under a new agreement with the hospital's radiologists, the X-ray physicians will bill separately. Their income estimated well in excess of $300,000 is not included in the 1977 hospital's budget, although hospital patients will pay that bill.

In addition, there is no provision in the budget for capital spending requests of $472,000, a sum which probably will be cut in half, Rosenbaum said.

Trustee R. W. Pierce, Filer, pointed out another set of costs not included in the proposed budget. He said the budget fails to include any money for the hospital's building program, particularly expansion of emergency room facilities.

County Commissioner William Chaney challenged new construction. He asked Pierce "with no more money than you're going to put together than you show here, where are you going to get the money for expansion?"

Pierce replied "we would borrow this money... the only way we can finance this project is borrow money and charge the patient an extra fee for the brick and mortar for that expansion."

Pierce said he doubted any expansion could be begun until late in 1977 and would not affect hospital rates during that year. Rosenbaum said he doubted any building project could be started before 1978.

Sandpiper license OK'd

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — In a controversial action Monday night at City Hall, the Twin Falls City Council granted a liquor license to James Koutnik doing business as the Sandpiper Restaurant.

Police Chief Frank Barnett earlier questioned the legality of granting the license to Koutnik if he was not the owner of the establishment.

But Barnett settled the matter upon investigation.

"Koutnik is the owner of the business in as much as he has leased the bar from the Sandpiper," Barnett said, indicating that Koutnik had met the ownership requirement.

Fred Plankey, Twin Falls attorney, however, termed the ownership of the bar "a funny situation."

"I doubt Koutnik is going to be tending bar out at the Sandpiper," Plankey said.

Another legal question about the liquor license, however, is yet to be resolved, according to Plankey.

Plankey, representing local citizens who oppose the issuance of another liquor license in the city because they say Twin Falls has not met population requirements set forth in Idaho Code, filed suit in district court Monday for an injunction to prevent issuance of the license.

The case is set for tentative hearing on Dec. 6. Section 23-903 of the Idaho Code requires Idaho cities to have a population of 1,500 people for each liquor license issued within its city limits.

The code also requires official proof of such population based on a United States census.

Plankey's clients say the city of Twin Falls has not officially reached the population needed to support an additional liquor license.

Plankey said there are presently 15 liquor licenses in the city. Another man has applied for the 16th and Koutnik's would make a total of 17 in the city.

Seventeen licenses could only be supported by a city population of 25,500, according to code. Plankey's clients say that population has not been substantiated by a U.S. Census.

"I personally feel the restriction limiting the number of licenses based on population serves a legitimate public interest in that we as parents in the city of Twin Falls do not wish to expose our children to a bar on every street corner in town," Plankey said about the law.

In other action Monday night, the council decided to take no official action on a controversy in the Lynwood Subdivision over a foot bridge constructed by Golden Bennett.

The council heard both sides of the argument. Some of Bennett's neighbors say the bridge which connects their neighborhood to the Lynwood Shopping Center across the Perrine Coulee will make a thoroughfare of the area and may increase vandalism.

City manager Jean Millar told the council the city's only interest in the matter is to seeing that Bennett has the proper building permit for the structure.

The council also approved an ordinance allowing construction of a 100-unit motel and apartment complex on 2.8 acres at 688 Blue Lakes Blvd. N.

The city added several conditions to the ordinance which will protect nearby residents' privacy.

The council also approved the Plainview Subdivision and decorative sidewalk encroachments in the 400 block of Main Avenue.

Sun Valley's pre-season bookings up 23% over '75

SUN VALLEY — Advance bookings for Sun Valley's 41st ski season show a 23 per cent increase over last year's pre-season reservations, the Sun Valley Co. announced Monday.

Although skies were sunny Monday and temperatures in the 50s, resort officials were optimistic that the increase in pre-season reservations from last year is an early indication that Sun Valley will experience its best ski season ever.

The expanded ski terrain on the mountain and increased air service to this area were cited as the probable reasons for the jump in pre-season reservations.

"The increased bookings, the majority of which are first-time guests, is due to the tremendous impact our new intermediate ski terrain has had on pre-season reservations," Vice President of Marketing and Sales John Sturney said.

"Sun Valley" has been rated as an "intermediate to expert" ski resort, Sturney said. This year 75 per cent of the ski terrain in Sun Valley is classified in the novice to intermediate range due to 10 miles of new intermediate terrain on Seattle Ridge, Sturney said.

Increased air service also has had a positive effect on advanced bookings, according to Sun Valley Publicity Director Shannon Besoyan.

"New flights have made possible non-stop service into Idaho from San Francisco, Minneapolis and Seattle, she said.

These announcements from Sun Valley were made in the wake of last week's postponement of the resort opening, originally scheduled for Nov. 19. The opening date is contingent on the weather.

Unusually warm weather for this season, due to a high pressure ridge across the western United States, has troubled a number of western ski resorts.

Sun Valley has not had any snow yet this year and temperatures have been too high to allow the Bald Mountain's ground crews to make much artificial snow.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nuclear power plants, contrary to industry claims, are so uneconomical that more attention should be given to alternatives previously downgraded as too expensive, a public interest group said Monday.

The private, nonprofit Council on Economic Priorities said atomic power plants are forced to shut down so frequently for maintenance and repairs that nuclear energy is less economical than coal everywhere except in the U.S. Northeast.

Large new plants have a worse reliability record than small ones, the report said, but "most nuclear plants under construction and almost all currently planned are greater than 1,000 megawatt capacity."

The 24-page report said nuclear plants under the 800-megawatt size operated at only an average 64 per cent capacity from 1968 through 1975. Larger plants, it said, averaged 51 per cent.

By contrast, it said, coal-fired plants operate at 80 to 90 per cent.

The report, entitled "Power Plant Performance" and described as the first complete comparison of nuclear and coal plant performance, found that coal-generated electricity would be competitive with nuclear power in the Northeast and up to 20 per cent cheaper elsewhere.

The study projections of capacity factors below 20 per cent for conventional coal-fired plants and below 60 per cent for nuclear plants "improve the economic feasibility of alternatives such as energy conservation, solar energy and advanced power technologies," CEP said.

Claims that nuclear power was cheaper than coal are based on assumptions the plants will operate at 70 to 80 per cent, the report said.

The report said the nuclear industry uses such projections as the basis for estimates of nuclear power cost advantages in licensing applications and for assertions "that each 100-megawatt nuclear plant will displace present use of 11 million barrels of oil per year."

It said, however, that actual operating experience shows existing commercial nuclear plants average a capacity of only 59 per cent and "new large nuclear plants are more likely to operate at 45 to 60 per cent" of their capacity.

"Nuclear and coal together account for slightly over half of current U.S. electric generation and their share is increasing rapidly," the report said.

Carter, Ford discuss changeover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For a little over an hour, Jimmy Carter visited the office of President Ford in the company of White House staff.

The President-elect prepared all day for the meeting with Ford and other administration officials. He was up at 6 a.m., reading documents.

Carter talked about living in the White House. Carter and Ford, surrounded by photographers, walked to the Oval Office. They sat in the orange armchairs by the fireplace. Carter showed his famous grin. Ford was serious, his jaw set.

White reporters were still allowed to look in. Ford and Carter talked about the series of international economic meetings held in France and Puerto Rico, and the one expected to be held soon in Japan.

Another economic meeting like the one you had in Puerto Rico," asked Carter. "It might be desirable," said Ford.

"I do thank you again, President Ford, for making it possible for me to learn in this way and for being so hospitable to me and my wife," Carter said.

Carter and Ford pulled their chairs close to the fireplace in the Oval Office Monday and shared the secrets of presidential White House press secretary Ron Nessen wouldn't say what they talked about and Carter spokesman John Powell would only characterize it as "a very substantive discussion." He added that most of the time was spent on foreign affairs.

Budget director James Lyons, Treasury Secretary William Simon, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary David Matthews, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld all paid calls, discussing transition issues in the relaxed atmosphere of the Blair House library.

Carter and his wife Rosalynn were met at the South Portico by the First Couple. Carter kissed Mrs. Ford on the cheek as if he were greeting an old friend.

White House staff and Mrs. Carter talked about the budget, which he must present to Congress before leaving office.

After about 40 minutes of private discussion, White House transition aides Richard Cheney and John Marsh came in, along with Carter's main aide Watson. They talked another 15 minutes. Ford and Carter were alone again.

"It is my judgment that the transition is working smoothly," Ford later told reporters, "but we will maximize our efforts to continue that and it has been a real privilege for Mrs. Ford and myself to have Governor Carter and Mrs. Carter as our guests."

Castle Patty's retreat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst may take up residence during her bail freedom in a castle at a secluded mountain retreat, but her family said it does not want to be made public for security reasons.

Siskiyou County Sheriff Bud Taylor said Monday that his office was contacted by a Hearst family representative about the possibility of Miss Hearst's staying at Wynton, located 25 miles north of San Francisco near the Oregon border.

An explosive device was found on the property earlier this year, and it was presumed by investigators to have been planted by terrorists.

Miss Hearst's father, San Francisco Examiner President Randolph Hearst, said it had not been determined whether she would stay in her family's heavily guarded Nob Hill apartment in San Francisco or move elsewhere. He added any move would not be announced for security reasons.

Wynton is a replica of a Bavarian village, in a vast woodland. It was assembled by Miss Hearst's grandfather, the late William Randolph Hearst, as a family vacation spot.

The estate consists of a large stone and timber castle, "The Gables," and three smaller castles on the banks of the McClellan River surrounded by 200-foot firs. The smaller buildings were named "The Bear," "Cinderella" and "Angel House" by Hearst.

Miss Hearst was released on bail Friday, pending the appeal of her bank robbery conviction to the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. She had been sentenced to seven years in prison.

In Los Angeles she faces a variety of state charges stemming from a shooting incident at Mel's Sporting Goods Store in Inglewood in May 1974. She is scheduled to go to trial on these charges in January.

Fallout clouds return

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The fallout cloud from the latest Chinese nuclear explosion, its health hazard diminishing by the day, is expected to reappear over the West Coast about Wednesday and then stretch harmlessly across the country.

The Environmental Protection Agency reported Monday the cloud dusted parts of the United States with above normal but still very low levels of radiation when it drifted east from coast to coast last weekend.

The highest level of radiation from the cloud was picked up at Cheyenne, Wyo., which had a reading of 21 picocuries, described as insignificant from a health standpoint.

EPA said the cloud has now stretched out and become more like a hand around the earth, the leading edge of which will reappear over the West Coast about Wednesday.

But by then the cloud will be twice as high as it was last time — 60,000 feet above the earth's surface compared to 30,000 in the last pass — and the health hazard will be even more remote.

The atmosphere will continue to show higher levels of radioactive material than usual for several weeks, EPA says, as the material continues to circle the earth.

The 20-megaton Chinese hydrogen bomb was exploded last Wednesday. The cloud appeared over the Pacific Northwest on Saturday morning and left the country Monday.

Higher than normal radiation readings were detected in eight cities across the country last weekend. Thirty-three other air sampling stations reported no increase.

The cities where an increase was measured were Cheyenne, Flaegstad, Ariz.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Las Vegas, Nev.; Denver, Boise, Lincoln; Topeka, Kan.; and Lincoln, Neb.

McClure said he introduced the legislation to protect the Pliocene fossil beds.

"The hearings will hopefully allow us to discuss my proposal with local landowners and users so that we can provide the kind of protection needed with the least amount of interruption of other legitimate uses of the land," he said.

McClure said the Senate Interior Committee will conduct hearings on the proposal to establish the national monument to protect, interpret and display the area, limiting it to 5,500 acres.

Rosalynn tours family quarters

Chicago Daily News — Mrs. Betty Ford gave Mrs. Rosalynn Carter a quick-tour of the family side of the White House Monday while their husbands discussed the burdens of the presidency.

Mrs. Carter and her husband Jimmy Carter were downstairs in the Chief Executive's Oval Office for an hour's conversation on the transfer of power Jan. 20.

Mrs. Ford said Mrs. Carter was very curious and had a number of questions to ask," reported Sheila Weidenfeld, press secretary to Mrs. Ford.

First stop on the tour were the ground floor rooms — the library, diplomatic reception room and the China room, where dishes used by past Presidents are on display.

Then, taking the tiny elevator to the second floor family quarters, Mrs. Carter was shown the Lincoln bedroom and the Queen's room where visiting royalty has stayed.

Mrs. Ford did not take Mrs. Carter on a tour of the rooms now occupied by the Ford family. But she did provide her with an album containing color photographs of the furnishings in every room and floor plans for all of the rooms.

A few household staff members — the head usher and the maitre d' — were introduced to Mrs. Carter. They will remain to serve her family.

Mrs. Ford said Mrs. Carter did not need any advice since she had been in charge of an official residence when her husband was governor of Georgia, Mrs. Weidenfeld added.

Mrs. Carter stayed about an hour but left before her husband, saying she had to go back to her Plains, Ga., home. "It was a friendly visit," said the spokesman for Mrs. Ford.

Executions set for trio

By United Press International
Two men in Texas and one in New York Monday were sentenced to die in the electric chair, and the New Jersey Assembly overwhelmingly approved a bill to bring back the same form of capital punishment in that state.

In Dallas, execution dates were set for two convicted murderers, Doyle Boulware, 47, and Mark Moore, 23. Officials said, however, both men have federal appeals left and are in no danger of imminent execution.

In New York, Joseph James, 23, was sentenced to die Jan. 9 for the slaying of a corrections officer during an escape from a dental clinic. At the time he was in custody awaiting trial for another murder.

In neighboring New Jersey, the state Assembly, after an emotional three hour debate, passed a death bill by a 58-16 vote and sent the measure to the Senate along with the Model Penal Code, which would overhaul the criminal justice system.

"More than 70 per cent of the people in New Jersey say they want capital punishment reinstated," Assemblyman Richard J. Coday, the bill's sponsor, said. "I think it's time we listened to them."

In Texas, Boulware, convicted in 1974 of murdering a Dallas policeman, was told he would die Dec. 27. In a different court about five minutes later Moore, convicted of murdering a woman, was sentenced to die Jan. 14.

Both men have exhausted state appeals, leaving only appeals through the federal courts.

The most imminent execution in Texas is that of Robert Excell White, who is scheduled to die Dec. 10 for murdering three persons during a $50 robbery. Though White has said he wants to die, his attorneys say they will appeal through the federal courts.

In New York, James' lawyer, Sara Halbert, compared her client to Gary Gilmore, the convicted murderer in Utah who asked to die and then tried to commit suicide.

"They want him to be sane and they want him to be healthy so he can fry in the electric chair," she said. "Death in the electric chair is premeditated murder."

In the Gilmore case, meanwhile, officials convinced state Board of Pardons to move up its special hearing on the case to Nov. 22, so that a decision can be made within the 60 days that Gilmore was sentenced, and follow legal guidelines.

Muskie for Henry?

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, appears to be the frontrunner among candidates for secretary of state in the administration of Jimmy Carter, it was reported today.

The Boston Herald American, basing the report on information from a "senior Carter aide," said along with Muskie, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., and former State Department official Cyrus Vance "are among a handful of finalists."

"This was disclosed yesterday by a senior Carter aide who himself is slated for a top-level appointment in the new administration," the newspaper said. "Muskie is believed the frontrunner for the post held for the last four years by Secretary of State (Henry) Kissinger."

"Muskie, who was among the final three candidates Carter considered for vice president, reportedly has impressed the president-elect with his sharp, analytical mind and with his grasp of the central issues in the Middle East," arms control and southern Africa," the report said.

"Sen. Cranston also reportedly impressed Carter with his outspoken views on the need for lighter controls on the spread of nuclear weapons and fissionable materials," the article related. "A long-standing Carter position first spelled out by him in a UN speech last spring."

"Young's reputation in the House is a solid champion of civil rights who frequently cites the gains that have been made in the South of which he's evidently proud," the story said. "Young also has traveled to southern Africa and met black leaders in white-ruled South Africa."

Vance, the article noted, "earned a solid reputation as a trouble shooter during a previous Carter and Turkey crisis over Cyprus."

Missouri reports 'mild' swine flu

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Missouri health officials reporting the first case of swine flu in the United States since February said the discovery means immunization levels should be increased.

State Epidemiologist Dr. Denny Donnell said Monday the virus that gave a Concordia, Mo., man in his 30s a mild respiratory disease about Oct. 10 was swine flu. He said it was the first case of swine flu in the nation since the disease killed a 19-year-old Ft. Dix, N.J., soldier in February.

But officials at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, have hesitated to confirm Donnell's diagnosis.

Donnell based his swine flu claim on blood tests. But Dr. David Sencer, director of the CDC, said the blood tests have not persuaded him the virus was swine flu.

"We had a rise in antibodies but that is not to say it is a case of swine flu," Sencer said.

Sencer said a federal team of infectious disease specialists would go to Missouri to investigate.

Donnell said he would not argue with the CDC's caution.

"The kind of caution that they are using is, I think, appropriate," Donnell said. "I'm just saying what it seems to me to be. I have no argument with them if they use a different level of caution."

or interpretation of the results."

The 11 cases reported earlier this year at Ft. Dix prompted the current nationwide immunization program against swine flu.

But CDC officials said the percentage of persons taking immunization shots has been disappointingly low, around 14 per cent nationally.

One spokesman said the percentage would have to increase greatly in the next several weeks before the normal start of the flu season.

A flu virus thought to have been swine flu, or a mutation similar to it, killed 20 million people in 1918 in a worldwide pandemic. In the U.S. 548,000 persons died.

Donnell said the Missouri case did not mean an epidemic was near. He said he had negative results on blood specimens obtained from about 20 Concordia persons who were tested about the same time as the man who had swine flu.

"At this point, our tests did not show substantial evidence of swine flu virus in the sample of others in the community," Donnell said.

"I don't think this is cause for danger of alarm, but I do hope more people would take the vaccine," the state epidemiologist said. "At this point, we're concerned, but it is not an epidemic."

Repair job first order

WASHINGTON — The incoming Carter administration's first foreign affairs matter actually will be a domestic repair job, strange as that may sound, according to Joseph J. Sisco, former assistant secretary of state and right-hand man to Henry A. Kissinger.

It will be the "restoration of good relations" between the administration and the Congress, so that foreign policy can be carried out successfully, he said.

Even so, explained Sisco, now the head of American University, after his departure from the State Department earlier this year, it won't be a foreign policy honeymoon for Jimmy Carter and the 535 members of Congress.

"We can expect that regardless of the fact that we will have a Democratic Congress and a Democratic President — the historical duel will continue."

Ford has eye on GOP lead role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford evidently intends to try to remain a leader of the Republican party after leaving the White House, perhaps to counter any move to put the GOP on a more conservative course for the next elections.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen signaled Ford's general plans Monday in saying that the President "certainly considers himself to be the head of the party" now and expects to retain that position in private life as a not-so-elder statesman for the GOP.

A few hours later, Ford conferred with President-elect Jimmy Carter for the first time since the election and pledged afterward "to cooperate 100 per cent" in efforts to complete the transition of power "in the best interests of the American people."

Ford's schedule focused again today on preparation of the 1978 federal budget proposals he must submit to Congress before Carter's inauguration.

Most observers agreed that Monday's encouraging rally in municipal notes was at least in part a result of Friday's court ruling, which erased doubt about whether any municipality — not only New York — will be forced to pay off its notes when they come due.

But traders also said they were encouraged by a lowering Friday of the federal discount rate and the prime lending rates of many large banks.

"It really is a mixed bag."

Ruling on NY bond seen aiding market

NEW YORK (UPI) — The court ruling striking down New York's debt repayment moratorium could eventually aid the municipal bond market.

You can't extrapolate one from the other," said Anthony Naylor, vice president of First of Michigan Corp.

But there was no doubt in the mind of New York state Comptroller Arthur Levitt, who said: "The damage that was done to New York State's credit and the credit of local governments generally has been repaired."

The ruling by the State Court of Appeals left Mayor Abraham Beame with the problem of raising about $1 billion to pay off debts that he hoped could wait for another two years.

Beame, however, still has enough time to work out a new aid plan with the federal government.

'Hot' water into river

RICHMOND, Wash. (UPI) — An estimated 45,000 to 60,000 gallons of water containing a very small amount of radioactivity leaked into the Columbia River from a broken tube at the N-reactor on the Hanford Nuclear Reservation, it was reported Monday.

The leak released only 40 curies of radioactivity, said Ron Robinson, president of United Nuclear Industries, which operates the reactor for the federal government.

Robinson said, the magnesium isotope released into the Columbia had a half-life of only 2 1/2 hours. At its strongest, he said the isotope carried radioactivity equal to only one hundredth of the amount every person receives each year as normal background radiation.

The N-reactor was originally built to provide nuclear materials to the government and now also provides steam used to generate electricity for the public.

Disease continues to baffle science

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Investigators are still baffled by the Legionnaires Disease that killed 29 persons four months ago.

Rep. John Murphy, R-N.Y., head of a special congressional subcommittee investigating the illness, said today, "after all the searching, investigating, theorizing and handwringing, we have no idea what the epidemic was, or what to do if it happens again."

Murphy, here for two days of subcommittee hearings, said, "I believe it is safe to say that all of the ongoing investigations are at a dead end."

Sixteen persons were expected to testify about the illness that claimed 29 victims, sent 151 others to hospital, and forced the elegant Bellevue-Stratford Hotel to shut its doors.

Most of the victims had attended a state American Legion convention at the Bellevue in late July.

Murphy's subcommittee already has produced a background paper which blamed health officials for bungling the investigations. The report, leaked to the press, brought a swift rebuttal.

The report said the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta took immediate steps to stop an outbreak of what it thought was swine flu, but now scientific evidence was weighted toward a toxic substance.

"I don't think this is cause for danger of alarm, but I do hope more people would take the vaccine," the state epidemiologist said. "At this point, we're concerned, but it is not an epidemic."

Quake hits LA region

MALIBU, Calif. (UPI) — An earthquake centered under the ocean just offshore gave the Los Angeles area a brusque, but apparently harmless, shaking Monday.

The Caltech Seismological Laboratory in Pasadena said the quake registered a moderate 3.8 on the open-ended Richter Scale at 9:55 a.m.

It was centered in the ocean about seven miles south of Malibu and 12 miles off the coast of Santa Monica, about 25 miles west of downtown Los Angeles.

It was felt in scattered locations from southern Ventura County on the north to northern Orange County on the south, more strongly in some areas than others.

Police departments and sheriff's offices throughout the county reported receiving calls from citizens, but no reports of injuries or damage.

Rich Americans don't pay dues

About 194,000 American families are considered to be millionaires.

These super rich make up only 3 per cent of the total number of families in the nation.

Yet this tiny fraction of wealthy people control an incredible 15 per cent of all the wealth in this nation.

In other words, a rich family has about 50 times more money to spend than an average family.

Those Americans who aren't wealthy generally don't speak badly of their neighbors who make it big.

But one complaint the not-so-well-off voice is that the wealthy manage to dodge tax burdens, and otherwise avoid shouldering a fairer share of the load for maintaining a big federal government.

The three-tenths of one per cent of the population which control 15 per cent of the personal wealth in this nation doesn't pay 15 per cent of the tax bill. Under current tax laws, according to economists Joseph Pechman and Benjamin Okner, authors of a book called "Who Bears the Tax Burden," a millionaire in the U. S. pays only three percentage points more in taxes than a man who earns $20,000 a year.

Pechman and Okner figured out the tax loopholes available to families in every salary bracket from $3,000 a year to over $1 million a year and concluded the very rich have the most advantageous tax position of any income group.

For example, very wealthy people can buy large numbers of tax-free municipal bonds and earn a steady income off the interest without paying any taxes at all.

While the municipal bonds technically are available to anyone, middle income earners cannot buy the bonds because they cannot afford to have their nest-eggs tied up in long term notes that pay only seven and eight per cent return.

Americans aren't particularly angry at the rich. We're a nation that still believes a man can become wealthy by working hard and using his head.

But Americans, from the President on down, should ask their rich neighbors to pay more for the social programs this country endorses.

"The rich shouldn't be allowed to use their money to escape the tax system of the nation which allowed them to become wealthy.

In early 1977 President-elect Carter pledges to push for a tax reform package in Congress. One of the major thrusts of this legislation should be to find a way to equalize the tax burden between the wealthy and the not-so-rich.

Hearings not set

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has not yet set a date for a hearing on the possibility Idaho Power Company will ask consumers to pick up the tab for the development costs for the Pioneer plant.

Garth Andrews, public information officer for the PUC, said Monday Idaho Power has not yet asked for a rate increase hearing to consider the question of whether consumers should pay for the costs of developing Pioneer.

Therefore, Andrews said the public has more than a few weeks to give an opinion on whether Idaho Power should pass the $16.9 million in development costs on to the public.

An editorial in last week's Times-News suggested consumers had only three weeks to send in written comments about the $16.9 million bill.

The subject is nudity

... male nudity, to be precise, and the questions are whether it

- 1) turns women on in this liberated era, and
- 2) sells magazines.

ELLIE GROSSMAN bares some more facts in the continuing controversy.

By IRA BERKOW

If we are known by the horses we keep, then knowledge of Admiral Hyman George Rickover tells us much about Jimmy Carter.

"Admiral Rickover had a profound effect on my life — perhaps more than anyone except my own parents," Carter writes in his autobiography, "Why Not The Best."

The title of the book is in fact taken from a remark by Rickover when interviewing Carter in 1954 for a job in the latter's Navy nuclear submarine program.

They sat alone in a large room and talked for two hours. Rickover allowed Carter to pick the subjects that he felt he knew best. Whatever it was, from gunnery to music, "Rickover soon proved that I knew relatively little about the subject I had chosen."

"He always looked right into my eyes and he never smiled," wrote Carter. "I was saturated with sweat."

"Finally, he asked me a question in which I thought I could redeem myself. He said, 'How did you stand in your class at the Naval Academy?' ... I had done very well, and I swelled my chest with pride and answered, 'Sir, I stood fifty-ninth in a class of 129.' I sat back to wait for the congratulations which never came."

IRA BERKOW

"Instead the question: 'Did you do your best?' I started to say, 'Yes, sir,' but I remembered who I was, and recalled several of the many times at the Academy when I could have learned more about our allies, our enemies, weapons, strategy, and so forth. I was just human. I finally gulped and said, 'No, sir. I didn't always do my best.'"

"He looked at me for a long time, and then turned his chair around to end the interview. He asked one final question, which I have never been able to forget — or to answer. He said, 'Why not?'" I sat there for awhile, shaken, and then slowly left the room." Carter got the job.

Rickover is now 76 years old and apparently as tart, demanding and piercing as ever. He still does not court friends. And if there is one overwhelming difference between Carter and Rickover it is in their smile. Carter is forever rubbing his ivory for public display. Rickover is zipper-lip.

The admiral is a short, small-boned man, about 5-4, 120 pounds. He has snow-white hair parted nearly in the middle and tufted in front. His nose is hawk-like. He walks rapidly and starchy upright. He has been described as "thin-lipped" and "wisp" and "a slight, spare human tornado." He eats sparingly to stay trim and energized.

He is known to be indelible and single-minded in pursuit of a goal, like Carter. He is considered a genius electrical engineer; he was a pioneer and prodder of the turgid Navy in developing the nuclear submarine.

When the Nautilus, America's first atomic submarine was first unveiled in 1952, Secretary of the Navy Don Kimball presented Rickover with a gold star and citation. Kimball said, "He has accomplished the most important piece of development work in the history of the Navy."

It wasn't easy. Rickover was born in Russia and came to America when he was five, after his father had been here for several years, and earned enough money to send for his family. Rickover grew up on the West Side of Chicago, the son of a poor tailor. He was a Western Union messenger boy. A friend of his knew the local congressman, Adolph J. Sabath, and the two boys attained appointments to the Naval Academy. For Rickover, this was a particular blessing. He said in later years that without that appointment he would never have been able to attend college — his parents certainly were too poor to send him.

Rickover did not go swimmingly through

Should fig leaves be abandoned?

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK — (SNA) — It was clear-cut back in the Fifties when Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey was exploring human sexuality.

Nobody published nude magazines for women, he pointed out, because women didn't find photographs of nude women arousing. They wouldn't buy them. So a profit wasn't to be had.

Then the Sixties applied a psychological air hammer to the American psyche. Women were "liberated," and in 1973, Playboy and Viva appeared on the newsstands, exposing the male body to the female eye. Women did respond to male nudity, it seemed.

But 18 months after initial publication, Viva discontinued male nudity because, said Kathy Keeton, editor, "We got a lot of women saying they were bored by it."

That left Playboy in a niche by itself. Marj Scott Millam, Playboy's editor, says she felt it was time to find out once and for all how women felt about male nudity.

"Viva was launching a lot of publicity relative to the fact that women were not responding to male nudity, and since we're the only magazine for women featuring male nudity, we felt we should respond to this."

The magazine engaged Hang Associates, Inc., a marketing research firm, to do a survey. The company, in turn, hired Dr. Veronika Elias, Associate Professor of Sociology at California State University, Northridge, to conduct it. The findings were published on June 15, 1976.

Five hundred females divided among five major American cities were shown slides of male nudes and asked to rate them "on both personality traits and physical characteristics."

"Approximately two-thirds (63.3 per cent to 73.7 per cent) found the frontal nudes arousing," Dr. Elias reported. Not only that, in response to the question, "Do you enjoy looking at male nudes a great deal, somewhat, a little, or not at all?," she wrote, "While 81 per cent of the females indicated that they enjoyed looking at male nudity, 62 per cent responded that they enjoyed it somewhat or a great deal. This is further support that females enjoy male nudity."

A look at other experiments in the field indicates there's still a great deal of ambiguity surrounding the question.

In 1970, at Hamburg University in Germany, 50 male and 50 female students viewed pictures of various sexual types and rated them according to sexual arousal and favorableness and unfavorableness.

"Pictures of seminudes and nudes were judged by the women as much less sexually stimulating and as much more unfavorable than by the men." But, the researchers continued, that could be because women weren't used to seeing male nudity. And when they did see it, society expected them to react negatively.

In 1971, the Technical Report of the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography noted the reactions of 42 married couples at Purdue University to photographic, literary and imaginary sexual stimuli.

"Women are relatively less likely to purchase hardcore pornographic pictures or books ... because of social pressures and custom. When asked whether they are frequently stimulated by such material, they indicate they are not — because they are seldom exposed to such stimuli."

"On the other hand, when they are presented with erotic stimuli, as in an experiment, they are sexually aroused as are males."

Dr. Joyce Brothers, the psychologist, explains: "We still have an attitude of sexual repression toward women. Women and men respond equally to erotic material but women's verbal responses are not necessarily the same because in many cases, they're not aware they're aroused. We've made women feel their erotic responses are wrong and they misinterpret their responses."

But, she continues, "Men are still more interested in nudity than women and while a man may respond each month to a picture in Playboy, that's not necessarily true of a woman reading Playboy. There's a much quicker satiation rate with women looking at pictures of male nudes."

Finally, the Winter 1976 issue of the Journal of Communication contained the findings of two professors at Babson College in Babson, Mass., who studied the reactions of 100 male students to Playboy, and 100 female students to Playboy.

"Almost twice as many men as women gave (the photographic features) high ratings. None of the men rated them low, while 14 per cent of the women did."

Again, the professors said, that might be because women weren't used to the terrain. Only 52 per cent had ever read Playboy, while all the males had seen Playboy before.

How did the students feel after reading the magazines? Eighty per cent of the men reported favorable reactions; one-third of the women reacted favorably, one-third unfavorably, and the final third was caught in between.

And, as far as buying future issues of Playboy, 80 per cent of the women said they would not, and only 34 per cent felt people would approve of their reading it.

So, do women enjoy male nudity? The answer seems to be: It may be too soon to tell — society is still reverberating from that psychological air hammer.

Rickover sees enemy as mediocrity

Annapolis. He was never gregarious. In later years, some who worked on the Nautilus project with him said, "He's a great man, but he's got the personality of a prune." He did not take part in athletics, did not frolic with the girls in nearby Baltimore on weekends. He studied.

After, he commanded small ships until he was appointed to head the nuclear project at Oak Ridge.

Getting the plant assignment was difficult. For one thing, the Navy was notoriously anti-Semitic. For another, Rickover never hesitated to step on a toe if a toe was lagging; nor did it matter to Rickover if the appendage outranked his own. And some brassier Navy men thought the nuclear submarine was a waste of time and money, anyway.

The project was completed in six years, less than half the time expected. For Rickover's tenacity, he was rewarded — the day after the unveiling of the Nautilus, in fact — with the news that the Navy Selection Board had passed over him and thus did not promote him. (He was then a captain.)

Israel bolsters border

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — High-ranking military sources say Israel is moving reinforcements of armor, artillery and infantry to its northern border to warn Syria and the Palestinians to stay out of southern Lebanon.

Israel is arranging its forces according to developments, Defense Minister Shimon Peres said after a tour of the frontier Monday.

"Talks are continuing at several points along the border fence so they will be visible from the other side, the sources said.

"Peres said there is no line on a map beyond which Syrian intervention would trigger a military reaction.

"But we have made known some points that are very sensitive and we think the Syrians understand this," he said.

The military sources said the Syrians have moved up to 35,000 men into Lebanon, together with 300 to 400 tanks.

Peres said there has been no indication so far that Syrian forces have crossed the Litani river, which is believed to mark off the region Israel wants to remain free of hostile forces.

The sources said it was likely that small numbers of Syrian troops would be allowed to cross the Litani.

"It all depends on the quantity — I don't think there would be any problem with symbolic forces," one source said.

Visitors to the border region said it was quiet Monday despite tension about a possible Syrian move.

Military analysts said they did not see the situation as explosive and felt there was little chance of hostilities breaking out.

In other developments, officials in Jerusalem said Israel instructed its U.N. ambassador to agree to renewing the mandate of U.N. peace forces on the Golan Heights.

Ambassador Chaim Herzog will also tell U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim that Israel is ready to negotiate with Syria on an end to the state of war between the countries in accordance with U.N. resolutions, the officials said.

The mandate of the 1,350-man force was due to expire at the end of the month. Syria announced Saturday it was ready to renew the agreement as a step toward a "just and durable" peace.

ELISIO GUERREDO ... Angolan speaks

UN nod for Angola

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The U.N. Security Council has recommended that the General Assembly accept Angola as its 148th member, despite U.S. objections to the presence of Cuban troops in the west African country. The United States abstained in the voting Monday night.

Ambassador William Scranton, in addressing the council, reiterated the U.S. position taken June 23 when the United States vetoed an earlier application by the former Portuguese colony.

"We still have serious doubts about the true independence of the current Angolan government," Scranton said. "It is hard to reconcile the presence of a massive contingent of Cuban troops with the claim that Angola enjoys truly independent status."

The Soviet-armed Cuban troops backed the current Angolan leadership in defeating two pro-Western factions in the Angolan civil war that ended in February.

The council vote was 13-0. China did not participate.

The vote cleared the way for approval by the General Assembly, which planned to act before the end of its 1976 session next month.

Scranton told the Council the United States chose to abstain, rather than veto the application, out of deference to African countries.

But Scranton restated U.S. objections to the presence of the Cuban troops — which he called a "foreign, non-African force" — saying there were reports they had attacked undefended villages and towns in Angola.

"These reported attacks include the execution of men and boys, the burning of villages and the slaughter of the people's main source of food and livelihood, their cattle."

Cuba's Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon de Quesada said Scranton sounded as if he were speaking of American actions in Vietnam.

Scranton said that Cuban troops, far from being stationed on the border to protect Angola from foreign invasion, "were" largely stationed in the central and northern areas of the country "combating insurgency" from antigovernment forces.

Alarcon called Scranton's remarks "a repetition of South African propaganda."

Beirut denies forces on border

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Syrian-dominated Arab peacekeeping force has finished taking up positions throughout the country but has not stationed any troops near the border with Israel, the leftist-held Beirut radio said Tuesday.

The radio said the force had stayed away from the Israeli apparently to avoid giving Israel any pretext for military action. Reports from Beirut said the Israelis have moved reinforcements to the northern border with Lebanon.

Israel has said repeatedly it would not tolerate large numbers of Syrian-dominated peacekeeping troops near its border with Lebanon.

However, Palestinian official Hani Ismail said recently that the towns of Tyre and Nabatieh, further south toward Israel, would eventually be included in the security plan.

Although Ismail did not elaborate, there has been talk of sending "token forces" further south and Israel has said it would react according to whether it judged the presence of Arab troops to be engaged in "hostile" or "non-hostile" activities.

Leftist leader Kamal Jumblatt has also called on Arab heads of state to permit the positioning of troops further south.

On Sunday, Syrian troops of the Arab army rolled into leftist and rightist positions in the north and south, bringing nearly the whole of the country under their control.

But there was intense speculation over whether the Arab army would continue south toward Israel under the so-called "third phase" of the security plan elaborated by President Elias Sarkis and his military commanders.

The announcement that the "third phase" was finished appeared to be designed to emphasize that there would be no further movement toward Israel.

The Syrian advance south was halted at the oil refinery of Zahran, about 40 miles north of the Israeli border.

Fire damages theater

LENINGRAD, USSR (UPI) — A fire of unknown origin broke out on the top floor of the Hermitage theater today, causing at least one injury and smoke and fire damage to the building.

Eight fire trucks, including one hook and ladder, rushed to the scene shortly after noon to fight the blaze on the fourth floor.

At least one person — a middle-aged woman — was taken away by ambulance.

The building, used as a theater and lecture hall, adjoins the old Hermitage museum via an elevated passage which crosses the Winter Canal.

Korean aide recalled

© N.Y. Times Service WASHINGTON — The Korean Central Intelligence Agency has recalled to Seoul a senior officer here in an apparent effort to limit a federal investigation into improper Korean lobbying activities, according to a Korean with access to high-level decisions in Seoul.

The source said that the Korean agency had ordered Kim Sang Keun, who is listed as a counselor in the Korean embassy here, to return this week. Kim was said to be the chief contact with the special operatives in the Korean lobby and the No. 2 man in the KCIA apparatus here. The agency is a political arm of the government rather than a gatherer of intelligence.

The source said that Kim was also being withdrawn because he was being blamed for the exposure being given in the Korean lobby in American newspapers and in testimony before a federal grand jury sitting here.

Slight price hike due

© N.Y. Times Service PARIS — King Hassan II of Morocco has said officials of some petroleum-producing countries had told him there would be no important rise in the price of oil this year that could have an effect on the cost of energy or world price levels.

The king, who is due in France for a four-day state visit Monday, spoke in an interview with the Europe No. 1 radio station in Rabat Saturday night. He acknowledged in the interview that Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia was now in Morocco on a mission to seek reconciliation between Morocco and Algeria.

Smoking comment sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The public is getting another two months to say what it thinks of banning cigars and pipes — and perhaps all smoking — on commercial airline flights.

The Civil Aeronautics Board proposed a ban Oct. 5 on pipes and cigars and invited comment on the general issue of all smoking.

The deadline for public comment on the idea was Tuesday, but the CAB agreed to extend it 60 days — until Jan. 23 — at the request of Action on Smoking and Health, the group that asked for the cigar and pipe ban.

Baez sets concert in Ireland

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Folk singer Joan Baez says she will travel to Northern Ireland to perform a concert Dec. 2 in Belfast and participate in a peace march on Dec. 5.

She said Monday that she would also march in a peace demonstration in London on Nov. 27 at the invitation of a Betty Williams, a leader of the Women's Peace Movement in Northern Ireland.

She said women started the movement there because they were "tired of the bombings of schools and pubs."

Doris Day sues pet food firm

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Doris Day, well known for her efforts on behalf of animals, sued a pet food company Monday, demanding the firm stop using her name in marketing dog food.

Miss Day's Superior Court suit alleged that the officers of the Doris Day Distributing Co. absconded with $250,000 in advance payments and the firm is now unable to pay her the royalties due her.

Capote awarded 'sour apple'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Hollywood Women's Press Club Monday named author Truman Capote to receive its annual "Sour Apple Award" for what the club called "the worst acting performance of the year" for his appearance in the movie "Murder by Death."

Nominated for "newcomer of the year" award, to be announced next month, were Jodie Foster, 19-year-old star of "Taxi Driver" and "Bugsy Malone," Susan Blakely, Penny Marshall of "Laverne and Shirley" and Lindsay "Blonde Woman" Wagner.

Women recruited

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Highway Patrol, beset by the federal government and feminists, is stepping up efforts to recruit women troopers. But it's having problems.

A number have applied, but none has ever made it to the training academy.

One was rejected after she replied, "I'd probably drive off and leave him" when asked what she'd do if she stopped a drunk driver on a deserted highway.

Another backed off when she learned all troopers ride alone and have to take regular night duty, often on deserted stretches of country highways.

'Howitzer' blasts away

REDCAR, England (UPI) — Steel worker Stuart O'Halloran is "Howitzer O'Halloran" to his friends these days and $256 poorer because his homemade artillery was a little too heavy.

O'Halloran, 24, fashioned a homemade cannon out of tubular steel, loaded it with fireworks powder and a half pound lead ball, aimed it at the side of a portable lavatory on a building site and then lit the blue paper fuse.

O'Halloran told a court Monday he expected the shot to bounce off the iron lavatory wall.

Instead, the ball blasted through the portable structure and vanished out to sea.

The noise of the cannon brought six fire engines and police, who thought a bomb had gone off.

O'Halloran said he checked first to make sure nobody was in the lavatory.

Pleading guilty to possessing a cannon without a firearms certificate, and causing criminal damage, he was fined $256.

Latest Mt. Everest climb 'medically very dull': doc

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — The medical doctor for an American team which climbed 29,028-foot Mt. Everest in a bicentennial project said anyone who tried to scale the peak without oxygen might be successful, but would return a moron.

Dr. Dee Crouch, one of 12 members who made the successful U.S. Bicentennial assault on 29,028-foot Mt. Everest actually reached the summit, the climb was a success for everyone who took part in the venture, Crouch said.

"If you go out and climb blah-blah rock in Colorado, you've done it all yourself," Crouch said. "But that's not the case on Everest."

Another climber on the expedition, Gerry Roach, 33, of Boulder, said he was disappointed the public misunderstood the contribution of all the members of the expedition. Roach and his wife, Barbara, 32, were among those who were involved in the climb.

Chris Chandler, 29, of Seattle, and Bob Cormack, 29, of Boulder, reached the peak Oct. 8. Although other members of the 12-member expedition had hoped to reach the summit, they were unable to do because of problems with the "cavities" Himalayan mountaineers. Known as Sherpas, and threatening weather.

"The most important thing the press failed to report is that this was a group attempt," Roach said.

"The newspapers ran large pictures of the guys who got to the summit. That was very important. But so was cooking at base camp, so was Dee carrying loads to the South Col than 25,000 feet, the mail runners. Barb working full time packing food before the trip, and the other climbers."

"The Sherpas wouldn't carry in support of the second assault," he said. "They just walked off. The underlying factor was that the Sherpas were up there for the money — not for sport like we were — and it wasn't worth it to them to stay."

"I didn't feel that the mountain had defeated me. It was a bureaucratic foul-up.

Flying 'saucer' for real

ARDMORE, Okla. (UPI) — Citizens fearful of reporting a giant flying saucer that looks like a 30-foot hot dog need not worry. The thing really exists.

The hot dog, actually a 30-foot blimp, floated away from its mooring over an Ardmore restaurant during the weekend and police said someone apparently cut the line holding the $2,000 balloon.

Several hours later, the hot dog was spotted caught in a tree about 12 miles away. Police suggested they get a rifle and shoot it down, but the workers didn't want to ruin their pride and joy.

They climbed the tree and shook the blimp free. But it floated out of sight again, and police have been told to watch for the brown-and-white airborne hot dog.

Another climber on the expedition, Gerry Roach, 33, of Boulder, said he was disappointed the public misunderstood the contribution of all the members of the expedition. Roach and his wife, Barbara, 32, were among those who were involved in the climb.

Chris Chandler, 29, of Seattle, and Bob Cormack, 29, of Boulder, reached the peak Oct. 8. ## Baby sans immunity to undergo surgery

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — An 8-month-old boy born without a natural system of immunity will undergo surgery that may enable him to live a normal life, a University of New Mexico doctor said.

Dr. Shirley Murphy, a pediatric immunologist at the UNM School of Medicine, said Demetrius Varvarigos would be flown today to the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York, where he will be placed in a germ-free environment until surgery.

The operation, which involves the transplanting of cells from a miscarried fetus, was agreed on after an examination of family members for a possible bone marrow donor was unsuccessful. The transplanting of fetal cells or bone marrow are methods of reconstituting the body's system of immunity.

"Such a child, two or three years ago, without a bone marrow donor, would die or would have to live in a bubble," Dr. Murphy said. "Now, with fetal liver or fetal thymus transplants, his immune system can be reconstructed and he can be returned to a normal life."

Demetrius, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maria Varvarigos of Albuquerque, is a plump, outwardly normal baby, but he has suffered from persistent infections since birth.

He has responded to drug treatments, but his pediatrician was worried and referred the infant to Dr. Murphy.

"I became especially concerned about the baby when his mother told me that three of her brothers had died of overwhelming infections at about the age of 8 months," she said. "So we established complex tests to be conducted. From these tests, we were able to diagnose that Demetrius has no immune system."

"The immune system is what protects our bodies against foreign invaders such as fungus, virus and bacteria. It seeks out and destroys abnormal cells in the body, such as cancer, and also is responsible for rejecting transplants."

"This is one of only 10 to 15 such cases in the world," she said.

Dr. Murphy said the operation involves new surgical techniques.

First Game at the International YMCA Training School in Springfield, Mass., played the first official basketball game on Jan. 21, 1892. It was invented by Dr. James Naismith to provide indoor exercise between the football and baseball seasons.

GM to spread auto labor costs, company head says

CINCINNATI (UPI) — New car buyers won't necessarily foot all the bill for General Motors' anticipated $500-a-car labor cost hike over the next three years, says GM President Elliott Estes. In the past, the buyer has paid about two-thirds of such GM cost increases, but Estes said Monday it was too soon to tell what the future percentage might be. GM officials expect the additional cost of turning out cars because of salary hikes and other worker benefits contained in last week's three-year contract agreement with the United Auto Workers union. "The cost of our products will go up $500 over the next three years because of labor agreements, but it would be unfair to say the price will go up $500," Estes said at a news conference before addressing the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce. "The marketplace really determines our price," he said. "Our job is to make sure the price doesn't go beyond the marketplace." Estes said that during the past five or six years GM has been able to "recover" through price hikes, about 67 per cent of its labor cost increases. "That's our track record, but it doesn't necessarily mean that will hold true in the future," he said. "We'll have to wait and see." Estes added that he hoped to offset as much of the increased labor cost as possible through "improved efficiency" at company plants. The GM president "also predicted good cooperation" between business leaders and President-elect Jimmy Carter and forecast "record high" car sales in current 1977 model year sales.

Gasoline price lid lifting set

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The administration's anti-inflation measures, including federal ceilings, is planning to abolish gasoline price controls on President Ford's final day in office, the Los Angeles Times reported today. The Times quoted Frank Zart, head of the Federal Energy Administration, as saying the administration has begun work to present such a proposal when Congress reconvenes Jan. 4. By law, the price controls will be repealed unless Congress acts to disapprove within 15 days — making the deadline Jan. 19, the day before Jimmy Carter will be sworn in as president. "Our preliminary evidence indicates that there will be no adverse effect on price or supply," Zart told the Times, and decontrol will "restore some measure of competition back into the system." Because supplies are plentiful, compared to the days when the controls were instituted, "all over the country, gasoline prices this year have been under the maximums permitted by the controls," he said, showing that competitive pressures have already replaced the ceilings. The Times said Democratic members of Congress interested in energy affairs appeared surprised by the Ford initiative.

Guard proposed

WASHINGTON — Ford administration officials said Monday because of continued threats on the life of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, they were considering asking Congress for emergency authority to permit the Secret Service to protect him after he leaves office Jan. 20. The officials said that consultants were under way on the kind of legislation to propose so that Congress could approve it in the brief period between Jan. 4, when Congress convenes, and Jan. 20, when Jimmy Carter takes over as president and Kissinger and other Ford Cabinet officers leave their jobs. The present law does not permit the Secret Service to protect Kissinger once he becomes a private citizen.

New judge takes case

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Rufus Coulter, named last week to take over judicial duties in the trial of accused slayer John Harvey Adamson, was to hold his first hearing in the case today. Among the motions to be heard by Coulter is a defense request to dismiss the murder charge against Adamson, accused in the bomb death of Arizona Republic reporter Don Bolles last June. The hearing was ordered after Coulter conferred Monday with opposing attorneys.

Dallas recalls Kennedy

DALLAS (UPI) — With her brow wrinkled in concentration and her eyes shadowed in sadness, the elderly Mexican woman shuffled her rosary through her fingers in silent tribute to John Fitzgerald Kennedy. A few yards away at a memorial to the slain president, a crowd of 200 strained to hear the official speeches by the city's religious leaders, all but drowned out by the roar of diesels and the blare of automobile horns. A 10-minute service Monday was the first official event in Dallas, marking the day 13 years ago when Kennedy, traveling in an open motorcade, was shot and killed by Lee Harvey Oswald. There were other observances in Washington, Boston and Philadelphia. The Dallas service was hastily rescheduled at the last minute because of public protest about city officials' original decision to cancel the ceremony because of poor attendance in past years. Monday's crowd was composed mostly of neatly dressed clerks from the surrounding government buildings, a few shoppers and a handful of tourists. The crowd also included a scattering of blacks and three elderly Mexican women, chatting softly in Spanish. As the public prayer service began, one of the Mexican women remained apart from the crowd, knelt quietly at the six-foot-square black granite slab memorial, fumbled for her rosary and said her brief, private prayer. "Everyone here today is part of a memory...the citizens pray together and take stock that Dallas will always think of this day with great reverence," said Mayor Pro Tem Adlene Harrison. "Oh, God, who cannot make a good world, help us mind the spirit of him (and) complete the tasks that remain unfinished," said Dr. Paul A. Stauffer, executive director of the Greater Dallas Council of Churches. After the service, taps was played by a single trumpeter and a three-foot-tall wreath of carnations was placed on the black slab, unmarked except for Kennedy's name chiseled around the edges and filled in with gold paint.

"Smile, Walter, smile," a woman yelled from the crowd, urging her employer to present a beaming face for the cameramen. "This isn't a smiling occasion," he replied sternly. The slab was sprinkled with sprays of flowers and in one corner a handwritten tribute was anchored by a jelly jar containing six purple flowers. Less than two blocks away, a much smaller crowd milled around the grassy knoll near where Kennedy was shot. As the exact hour of Kennedy's assassination slipped by a few stard seconds at the new empty School Book Depository Building from which the gunshots came and which today carries a large "For Sale" sign.

Tanker blamed for ferry sinking

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A tanker was blamed for a Mississippi River collision which cost a ferryboat and killed 78 persons last month, according to Louisiana Attorney General William Guste. Guste said Monday specialists in admiralty law convinced him the 661-foot tanker Frosta violated shipping rules when it rammed the ferryboat George Prince in a predawn collision Oct. 20. "There is no question but that the Frosta violated a rule of the road," Guste said. Only 18 of the 96 persons on board the George Prince survived the collision. Coast Guard officials held a two-week formal board of inquiry into the accident, but neither Guste nor the Coast Guard can legally fix blame. "It would have to go to another court for that," said a Coast Guard spokesman. The Coast Guard still is preparing a formal report on the accident, but evidence at the hearing indicated the ferryboat captain had been drinking before the collision. A coroner's report showed Capt. Eugene Auletta had 99 per cent alcohol in his blood and would have been considered legally drunk in many states. In Louisiana, the legal intoxication level is .10 per cent compared to .07 in many states. The ferryboat was owned and operated by the State of Louisiana. Guste also announced Monday the state agreed to set up a task force to outline guidelines for legal settlements with the 78 victims and 18 survivors of the river collision. Claims totaling more than $2 million have been filed against the state so far as a result of the accident and Guste said he expected the figure to surpass $100 million. The attorney general will head the settlement task force and will submit a list of potential plaintiffs to the governor this week for his consideration. The governor will appoint the panel.

Alaska sets probe

© N.Y. Times Service
SAN FRANCISCO — The state of Alaska announced in Anchorage Monday that it had contracted for an investigation of the reasons for the cost overruns in the construction of the Trans-Alaska Pipeline. Terry F. Lenzner, 37, a Washington lawyer, has been signed to a $150,000 contract to examine the reasons for the cost overruns and report to the Alaska Pipeline Commission. It was announced by Dr. Harry J. Donahue, chairman. The commission expects Lenzner to identify areas where poor management was caused for running up pipeline costs. If such costs are identified, the Alaskan commission would attempt to block the use of the amounts involved in calculating a fair return on the pipeline. The study will be done, in a sense, in competition with the Interstate Commerce Commission, which will set the per-barrel tariffs for oil shipped out of Alaska.

Lease sale views asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interior Department is inviting public comment on a proposed second sale of oil leases on offshore tracts from New York to Virginia. The agency said it may take 19 months to gather comments and conduct environmental impact studies needed for the Interior Secretary to decide which offshore tracts to lease. The department announced Monday it will seek comments from industry, state and local governments and the general public on tracts from a 14.8 million acre area of the Outer Continental Shelf. The tracts will be put up for sale in 1977. Some of the tracts, off New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, also were included in the area for the original mid-Atlantic sale, which took place earlier this year despite legal challenges. The closest oil and gas tracts could be 15 miles from shore; the most distant, 110 miles out.

Road to Grandma's house 'cloudy'

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley, Rupert areas: Clear and cold tonight, improving cloudiness Wednesday. High temperatures Wednesday near 50. Overnight lows 20 to 25. Thanksgiving Day outlook - partly cloudy. Halley, Carnas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley: Increasing cloudiness Wednesday. High temperatures Wednesday near 50. Overnight lows 10 to 15. Thanksgiving Day outlook - snow showers with chance of snow covers over the mountains. Synopsi: The weather over the Magic Valley Monday was sunny and dry. High temperatures ranged mainly in the lower 50s. This morning the skies were clear and frosty. This fine weather is caused by a large high pressure system over the Pacific Northwest. This high pressure system will remain over Idaho tonight but is weakening and is moving slowly southward. During the past week Pacific storms have been moving well north of the Magic Valley into Canada. The next Pacific storm is expected to move through northern Idaho. This should increase the cloudiness over the Magic Valley but snow should be confined to the mountains north of Fairfield. The outlook Thanksgiving Day through Saturday is for a little cooler weather but mostly dry in the lower valleys and snow in the mountains. High temperatures in the 40s and overnight lows in the 20s.

Clean-up impact on farms light

DDT and several other pest control chemicals have been banned, for example. But substitutes were available for most of the banned materials. New pollution control regulations were adopted for livestock feedlots - but the rules were applied only to large lots which either already had installed needed equipment or could do so at a comparatively low cost per animal. In the future, however, Schertz said in a paper presented at the Agriculture Department's annual outlook conference last week, the choices may be tougher. "Environmental issues will not disappear. Today's society will not revert to the attitudes of indifference which prevailed two decades ago," Schertz said.

"But at the same time, the higher cost of energy, our need for more jobs, and concern for inflation will not permit our society to demand environmental improvement without regard for cost," the economist warned. In the future, for example, Schertz said the impact of banning additional pesticides will "increase substantially because fewer alternative chemicals will be available for use. The result could be an increase in farm production costs which, although inevitably, would mean higher food bills for consumers. "This is already happening," Schertz warned. "In the case of both the chlordane-heptachlor suspension and the DDT ban for agricultural uses, toxaphene was a major alternative for farmers. But the use of toxaphene is now being questioned." Also, the official said, programs to cope with "nonpoint pollution" - which basically means pollution caused by the normal runoff of water from agricultural land, carrying fertilizer nutrients, other chemicals and washed-away soil - could substantially affect the rural economy. Potential costs of tight control over nonpoint pollution are so great that federal, state and local governments may have to rely on education and incentive programs rather than mandatory controls, Schertz said. "And since use of incentives (subsidies) could be extremely expensive, society may have to settle for second or even third best approaches to these problems," he Agriculture Department official said.

Improving economy pares list of food stamp users

WASHINGTON (UPI) - An Agriculture Department official says that two million people left the government's food stamp program since early 1975, at least half because of an improving economy. Stephen J. Hiemstra said that food stamp enrollment fell from a record 19.2 million people in April 1975, to 17.2 million in September. Part of the decline was seasonal, but more than a million persons left the program due to the improving economy and declining unemployment, he said in a report last week to the annual agricultural outlook conference. The 17.2 million figure will probably stay for a while, Hiemstra said, explaining that even if the economy improves further in 1977, the total number of people who drop out when they get jobs by paying raises will offset by continuing "outreach" programs - publicly and personal contact to inform people about available stamp benefits and enroll a larger percentage of the eligible population. Under the stamp program, eligible people can buy a certain amount per month in federal food stamps - $166 for a family of four. That $166 worth of stamps is free for welfare families and can be purchased for lesser amounts by people who meet a complicated eligibility requirement. Agriculture officials recently announced that food stamp benefits levels and income ceilings will not change for the first half of 1977, Hiemstra predicted that when officials make their next review, based on retail food price trends through next February, they will keep the existing benefit rates. With food stamp enrollment and benefits remaining steady Hiemstra said, the cost of federal food aid programs is expected to be only slightly above the $8.5 billion estimated for the 1976 fiscal year. The increase, he said, will be due to rising costs in the school lunch program. Hiemstra estimated that Americans eligible for food programs ate about $14 billion of food last year, $6.7 billion of it covered in federal aid, state and local contributions and cash payments by program participants. That's about 7 per cent of the U.S. food bill.

Cattle price controls could wreck ranchers

DENVER (UPI) - The president of the American National Cattlemen's Association said Friday his biggest fear was politicians who fail to understand the nature of the cattle business and try to slap price controls on beef if consumer prices start to rise. "If price controls are put on beef, just as cattlemen are starting to recover, it will mark the end of their business for many," said Wray Finney. "And in the long run, that will mean less beef and higher beef price for consumers."

"Subsequently we have a reduction phase where, in response to adverse economic signals, the industry reduces total numbers of cattle. A single phase of the long-term cycle may last several years." One reason for the long economic cycle, Finney said, is the delayed reaction to a cattle man's business decisions. "The bankers who loan money know that most cattlemen have been operating in the red for the good part of three years now," Finney said. "They also know that the only way we can recover our losses and continue producing beef is to have a period of prices that more than cover our operating costs."

Farmers endorse power aide firing

COVINGTON, Ore. (UPI) - The Oregon-Washington Farmers Union approved a resolution Saturday that calls for the dismissal of Bonneville Power Administration chief Ben Hodel. The delegates to the biennial convention charged Hodel with "subverting not only the intent, but the substance of the Bonneville Act by maintaining that contractual commitments to industry prohibit the allocation of power to new public bodies." The delegates said Hodel has openly supported private utilities over their public counterparts. "The resolution called on President-elect Jimmy Carter to dismiss Hodel as one of his first acts upon taking office. In other action at the 67th annual convention, the delegates asked their officers to introduce new anti-corporation farm legislation in the Oregon and Washington Legislatures. Robert J. Elkins, Canby, Ore., was elected to his ninth two-year term as president of the Union. William Scott of Sannysside, Wash., was re-elected vice-president.

Gem snow needed

BOISE (UPI) - The Soil Conservation Service says irrigation water should be plentiful in Idaho next year if winter snows are near average. The SCS said 1976 water supplies were good to excellent thanks to an above normal snow pack last winter which produced near average to well above normal streamflow when snows melted in the spring. All major irrigation reservoirs were filled by the start of the irrigation season. The SCS said, Spring temperatures were very low and normal and spring rain was generally average or above - causing normal runoff without flooding.

Low prices hurt farms

DENVER (UPI) - Farm prices and unfavorable policies of the Department of Agriculture have contributed to a near collapse of farm and ranch economy in America, according to an official of the Rocky Mountain Farmers Union. RMFU secretary Clara Price said depressed market prices of red grapes were on a par with those paid during the Depression years of the 1930s. "Because a fewer people are farmers and ranchers (now), the problem gets little recognition," said Ms. Price. "In the 1930s, everyone was in trouble so we all had to do something. Now it is mostly the farmer that is suffering and he's being ignored."

Firm sends checks

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) - U and I Corporation reported today completion of the 1976 harvest of sugarbeets in Idaho and that it has mailed checks to contract growers totaling $8,341,100. Lloyd V. Olson, U and I Idaho district manager, said the checks represented the final payment on the 1976 and accounted for beets delivered up to Oct. 31. Payments for subsequent deliveries will be made in December, he said. Olson said the payment represents only part of the total crop value.

IF lambs hold steady

IDAHO FALLS, Ap. (UPI) - Approximately 1750 head of cattle were offered at the Idaho Livestock Auction Co. sale this past week. Lamb prices were steady with ewes up one cent from $1.85 and yearling prices were about steady with last week. Prices for 4.50 head of sheep included: light fat lambs, 30-41; heavy range fat lambs, 36-39; light feeder lambs, 40-42.50; heavy feeder lambs, 37-39; old rough feeder lambs, 36 and under; light fat ewes, 30-41; ewer ewes and bucks, 24. About 500 mixed one-eyes and lambs sold at $4.90 per head with young ewes selling at $5.00 per head. Hogs, with 215 sold, went for

Firm pays dividends

BOISE, Utah (UPI) - A common stock dividend of 75 cents per share has been declared by the Ainalgamated Sugar Co. The dividend will be payable on Feb. 1, 1977 to stockholders of record on Jan. 31, 1977. Company president A. E.

DEAR ABBY: PUZZLED IN NEW YORK couldn't understand why a nurse he was engaged to marry dropped him for a patient who was paralyzed from the waist down. He asked, "What good can he do her as a husband?" Well, I have news for PUZZLED.

I am married to a paraplegic. His spine was severed by a bullet that rendered his legs useless, but the rest of him is just fine. He is just like any other man in all respects except he rolls instead of walks.

And anyone who thinks that sex isn't a part of our marriage is really stupid. Paralyzed people need love, and they can give it too. And for the record, we are both 22.

HAPPY IN ILLINOIS

DEAR HAPPY: Read on for another interesting letter from a reader who also speaks with authority, with a view from a wheelchair:

Paraplegics plain talk

DEAR ABBY: May I answer PUZZLED IN N.Y., the healthy able-bodied man who was engaged to a nurse, but lost her to a policeman who was paralyzed from the waist down? PUZZLED asked, "How can he do her any good as a husband?"

DEAR PUZZLED: As a totally paralyzed person in a wheelchair, I think I can tell you a few things you ought to know. Just because a person's legs stop functioning, it doesn't mean his mind and heart stop also. He can still think, get angry, make decisions and love.

Perhaps one day you will be able to see things in a different light. I can assure you that seeing things from a wheelchair not only changes your level of viewing life, but also broadens your appreciation of it.

It is possible that your former fiancée's life with a paralyzed husband could be highly rewarding in all respects, and that means sexually, too.

I want to caution you about something. The possibility of your becoming paralyzed or suffering some form of disability is one in 10, and growing greater every year. Don't gamble your happiness on only being able to stand up.

WHEELCHAIR IN FORT WORTH

DEAR READERS: If you would like some excellent information and/or instruction on how to handle your sexual feelings safely through physical handicapped, get in touch with your County or State Easter Seal Society, also known as Society For Crippled Children and Adults.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—

My question is can a person have seven or eight strokes before final death. I heard if one has two, the third is fatal, and one does not know when these will occur until they happen.

Dear Reader—

There is no limit to how many strokes a person can have. Repeated small strokes may cause symptoms of short duration and may not cause any permanent damage. The small strokes are now thought to be caused by small bits of clots in the arteries in the neck. The small clots may temporarily obstruct an artery in the brain causing transitory symptoms. If the small clot moves on and ends up in a silent important part of the brain there may be no residual effects at all. A large clot can obstruct a major large artery to the brain and cause extensive damage or death in a very short time—sometimes even within minutes.

The difference is based on how large the artery is that is involved—or stated another way how large and important the area of brain is that is damaged for any reason. It also depends upon whether the brain damage is permanent or just temporary, causing poor function of the cells because of temporary swelling of the tissues.

Many patients who survive a stroke never die from a heart attack. The common forms of heart disease and strokes are both caused by the same disease of arteries—fatty cholesterol deposits—called atherosclerosis.

To give you more information about small strokes, big strokes and what we know about preventing them I am sending you The Health Letter, number 24, Strokes: Cerebral Vascular Accident—Cerebral Thrombosis. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Part of the problem may be in the definition of addiction. This word is used so loosely both in professional and public use that it means all sorts of things to different people.

If by addiction you mean a person will have discomfort and feel so bad when they stop a medicine that they will seek more of the medicine, it is addictive. If you mean sudden cessation of medicine may cause serious symptoms then alcohol is addictive.

Perhaps I can help by pointing out that codeine and morphine are both from opium. Heroin also belongs to the group. For your benefit, since you worked in a pharmacy, they are called alkaloids of opium. Certainly habitual use of the medication can lead to problems, and I would agree that no one should be taking codeine regularly—except under the most unusual circumstances.

Heads new chapter

New PEO chapter formed in TF

TWIN FALLS—A new PEO Sisterhood chapter was organized in Twin Falls Saturday night at the Valley Christian Church.

Beulah Bellwood was installed as president of the new BP chapter. Other officers are Zella Affleck, Marie Hargrove, Sandra McDermott, Elizabeth Sims, Elizabeth Molyneux and Janice Affleck.

Other chapter membership includes Maude Cartney, Barbara Kelly, Mary McClusky, Cleo Milrany, Clarice Potter, Peggy Fields, Hattie Fisher, Betty Olmstead, Margaret Perkins, Nelda Ronk, Maude Shotwell and Sonnie Strobel.

Ruth Turner, Twin Falls, state second vice-president and a member of Chapter BE, Twin Falls, installed new officers and presided at the organization meeting. Devotions were given by Julie Blomford with Martha Mead as vocal soloist. Doris Youzt was organist.

A reception followed in the Fellowship Hall under the direction of Joan Shotwell. President of the local chapters presided at the silver service. Other Twin Falls chapters are D, AI, AO and BE.

The new chapter is the 68th chapter in Idaho. The sisterhood is a philanthropic and educational organization interested in bringing to women increased opportunities for higher education, according to Donna Burdick, chapter member. It was founded as a college sorority at Iowa Wesleyan College, Mount Pleasant, Iowa, in 1869. Later members voted to retain its English letters and its off-campus chapters, thus changing from a college to a community group.

PEO Sisterhood maintains four educational philanthropies—the PEO, educational fund, Colby junior college for women, International peace scholarship program and continuing education program.

Guests attending the organizational meeting from many Idaho chapters, including past state presidents

One very refreshing thing about the expert of 1930 is that he was willing to discuss his own bad results.

Today's hand is taken from an article on slam bidding by Waldemar von Zedlitz. At that time Waldy was one of the five or six best players in the world. He made many real contributions to contract bidding. Today he is probably the best player in the over-60 class.

Waldy sat North and opened one heart. In those days if you had two biddable four-card suits, you opened the higher one automatically.

The rest of the bidding shows South leaping madly to six clubs.

At this point West, who had been sitting back waiting to see what would happen, stuck in a six-spade bid.

Waldy's comment was: "Believing the penalty would be insufficient to offset our slam, I bid six notrump. My bid had the opposite effect from the one desired as my

Granny's Barn opens Friday for Yule run

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

Buhl. — The Granny Girls of Buhl are hard at work again. On Friday the six young Buhl women who originated Granny's Barn as the area's most unusual gift shop a few years ago, will again open their special holiday shopping headquarters.

They are now receiving merchandise from some 90 artists and craftsmen in the area. Each has an unusual offering of handmade original items that can only be found at Granny's Barn.

The young women keep their shop open for only 10 days. It is located in an old stone barn with its own interesting history, and is situated two miles south and one quarter mile east of the Burley Corner. The Burley corner is the U.S. Highway 20, entrance to Buhl from Twin Falls and Filer.

The first time, the shop opened, four years ago, most of the items offered for sale were those made by the Granny Girls themselves and a few friends. Now persons from throughout southern Idaho contribute items. One lady made a few hand-quilted quilts the first year. Her husband died a year ago and she has kept busy quilting — the result being a large selection of beautiful quilts at the shop this year.

There are Christmas decorations for sale including pine cone wreaths, Christmas trees and balls, all from pine cones, tiny dolls and other, stuffed figures for the holiday trees, all made from gingham and handmade Christmas balls and other items.

Stuffed toys, children's knitted hats, mittens and slippers are also favorites of the children's corner. These are displayed in an antique baby bed which Antoinette Ayers purchased a number of years ago and refinished for her own child.

An antique kitchen cupboard with old-fashioned flour bins has been refinished for display of other items. The old stone barn which a rugged German immigrant of Buhl spent most of his life building by hand from rocks on his farmland is the gift shop's headquarters.

Not only do the artists who contribute their handwork represent a wide area, but shoppers keep the 10-day business operation in mind all year and come from as far away as Boise to select the unusual gifts.

The women who originated the gift shop include Antoinette Ayers, Sharon McClain, Kathleen Lunte, Florence Pierce, Dixie Landa and Georgia Thompson.

Each craftsman enters his, or her items for sale at his own price. Granny's Barn takes a 20 per cent commission on everything sold to help cover their time and expense.

"We do this mostly because we like to see our things

"Not only does it help those looking for the unusual in a holiday gift, or something for their own home, but it gives people who like to make things and who have a special talent an opportunity to sell them."

She said one man, a veteran of World War II, knits all types of children's and adults' hats and scarves. Without Granny's Barn he would have no means of disposing of one year's stock so he could start another.

Last year the theme of Granny's Barn was a Bicentennial one with all red, white and blue decorations. This year it is the American Heritage with a western decor.

The Granny girls wear long old-fashioned dresses during their 10-day operation, play recorded Christmas music and decorate a Christmas tree with all of the ornaments for sale.

Special dolls

ANTOINETTE Ayers, Buhl, shows the handmade dolls she sells at Granny's Barn. She was one of the organizers of the gift shop which operates only 10 days each Christmas season.

Decorate for opening

SHARON McClain, on ladder, and Antoinette Ayers decorate Granny's Barn in preparation for their Friday opening. Unique handmade gifts are featured.

Entering handmade gift items

MRS. Jerry Hawkins, left, Buhl, enters wall plaques and paintings she has made for sale at Granny's Barn during the 10-day holiday operation. Kathleen Lunte, one of the co-owners of the enterprise, accepts the items, above. The skillet with tole painting, left, is one of the many handmade items for sale.

Ponderosa Inn auction Dec. 15

BURLEY — The Ponderosa Inn in North Burley is scheduled to be auctioned off in a foreclosure sale on Dec. 15.

The way was cleared for the sale Monday when a California federal bankruptcy court dismissed a Chapter 11 reorganization petition of the California holding company listing a part interest in the Ponderosa Inn among its assets.

The Ponderosa Inn was originally ordered to be sold on Oct. 7. The order was handed down by Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood to satisfy loans totaling more than $1 million held by First Federal Savings and Loan of Twin Falls.

The October sale was blocked by a U.S. bankruptcy court in Santa Ana, Calif., after National Funding Corp. filed a petition for reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws. National Funding Corp. showed a part interest in the Ponderosa Inn acquired after Bellwood's order for the forced sale.

The wife of Floyd C. Anglin, president of Ponderosa Inns, Inc., is a stockholder in National Funding.

John Coleman, Twin Falls attorney representing First Federal Savings and Loan, said Monday that First Federal will bid on the hotel-motel-convention complex at the Dec. 15 auction at least to the amount of foreclosure action.

Under forced sale provisions, Ponderosa Inns, Inc., could redeem the facility within a year from the sale by paying the sale price, any additional cost incurred by the buyer after the sale and eight per cent interest.

Yost praises Gem tax structure

BURLEY — Idaho's tax structure received praise Monday from the executive director of the Idaho Taxpayers Association.

Max Yost told the Burley Chamber of Commerce that the state "has a pretty good tax structure and its comparison with other states is constantly improving."

But he urged the chamber to call a community meeting on the level-of-state spending and the levels of individual taxes.

"The cost of government continues to grow, probably soon to the breaking point," he warned.

Citing the Idaho Legislature's approval of a 40 per cent increase in the budget for fiscal 1977 to $516.5 million, Yost recalled his earlier assessment that the state could have a $5 to $8 million surplus.

He said October figures show a decline in revenues. If that trend continues, he said, the state will have trouble deferring the anticipated $251.8 million in general fund revenues.

Yost charged also that school districts are exaggerating their estimate of assessed property valuations to assure the state-established maximum levy of 27 mills.

Although the estimated money will not be received, the district realizes that and "no real commitment to employes or patrons was intended."

Yost said Idaho ranked 36th among states on per capita taxes in 1975 and 33rd in taxes per $1,000 income. He said it was ranked eighth a few years ago.

"Idaho government is run very, very well," he said, adding that the state is 33rd in property tax levels after having been 27th in 1973.

Yost also praised the increasing trend toward capital expenditures and education. He said the state jumped to 13th in capital expenditures in 1975 after its best previous was only 32nd.

In local expenditures on education, the state soared from 34th to fourth and from 31st to fifth in combined state and local education expenditures.

Taxes over the United States increased 125 per cent over 10 years, Yost said, but only 60 per cent in Idaho. He added that Idaho reduced its dependency on the property tax in that period, with its ranking dropping from 22nd to 28th among the states.

"The property tax is the most disliked tax of all," Yost said.

He added that the income tax could be the most disliked if the withholding provision were eliminated so taxpayers felt the brunt-of-the-payments.

Yost said the aggregate levy of 67 major cities in the state was just over 10 cents per $100 in property valuations in 1976.

But he would not be admitted, but explained that the assessed value of the property involved was up $141 million, thus increasing the tax.

He said the largest aggregate levy is in Boise, at 161 mills excluding sewer districts. Sewer districts would raise the high area to 188.75 per $100 assessed valuation, he said.

Burley Councilman James Roper pointed out that Burley's aggregate is only $10.39, the lowest of any similar-sized city in the state.

Asked about the reappraisals of property mandated by the state, Yost said the state averaged assessed valuation was only 121 per cent of market value in 1968 and still only 137 per cent last year.

Minidoka and Cassia counties are about 17 per cent. State law says all assessed valuations must be at 20 per cent of market value by 1982.

Burley speaker

MAX YOST, executive director of the Idaho Taxpayers Association, points out the increase in the state budget during the past four years, including increases in capital expenditures.

Rezoning action withheld at Ketchum

KETCHUM — The Ketchum Zoning Board heard two rezoning requests in its meeting Monday night but took no action on either request.

The first proposal came from Tony Raber. Because of a small buffer zone between property zoned for business use and residential property on Block 42, Raber requested certain property now zoned B-1 for high business use, be downzoned for less intense business use.

The second zoning request involved a similar issue of a limited buffer zone between residential property and property zoned for high tourist use.

Jeff Pfeiffer wants to build apartments on his property bordering the Trail Creek Lodge. The property is now a series of vacant lots. The GR-low zone only permits him to build duplex apartments where he would like to build four-plex apartments, which are permitted only in the higher density zones.

Pfeiffer argued the four-plexes would provide more rental units and so would be more appropriate because of the proximity to the city center and shopping and restaurant facilities in the area.

Board member Jake Trobonsha expressed some hesitation at taking steps to increase the population of the area; but advised, as did the rest of the board, that Pfeiffer submit plans detailing his request and call for a public hearing.

Mini-Cassia parole aide's caseload up

By SHANE O'NEILL

Times-News writer

RUPERT — The probation and parole officer in the Mini-Cassia area has a high caseload because of a frequent probationary sentences. The former head of those services says.

Del Hansen, Twin Falls, now probation and parole officer in the eastern part of the Magic Valley area, said the caseload is "well over 100" for Cassia and Minidoka counties.

"Your court here with Judge (Sherman) Bellwood has placed a lot of people on probation," he said, "far more than the other judges."

Hansen said Fifth District Court Judges in Twin Falls give probation usually lasting a year to 18 months, while Bellwood frequently orders probation on sentences of 2.5 years.

He added that Bellwood recently has replaced several criminals on probation even after they have violated their probationary conditions.

Replying Monday to questions by Minidoka County officials, Hansen emphasized he was speaking only from personal observation and not representing the Department of Corrections.

His comments came as he received a recommendation from the Minidoka County Board of Commissioners for a supervisor post at Twin Falls. The position is being vacated by Ray Stewart, who is transferring to a similar position at Coeur d'Alene.

Hansen was probation officer in the Mini-Cassia area from September, 1973, to December, 1975.

Hansen said Idaho has a major problem with handling its criminals because the state prison is at 113 per cent of capacity, with more than 600 inmates in a facility designed for about 550. He said double bunks are being installed in cells planned for one inmate.

The alternatives, he said, are to turn the criminal loose, hold him for a time and then turn him loose or ask the judges not to sentence him to the state prison.

He said the state is releasing some convicted of non-violent crimes earlier than it might otherwise release them, as well as some that are not repeaters in violence.

Hansen predicted the Department of Corrections will take over all youth services, including such facilities as the youth facility at St. Anthony.

"If we can't correct them there, then we can get them further on up," he said.

Hansen's remarks came as Minidoka County Clerk August Bethke questioned staffing of the Mini-Cassia office.

Bethke said the department is not furnishing fulltime secretarial office help. He said Minidoka County is paying a lot through grants for the parole and probation services, but "there wouldn't be a secretary if not for Minidoka County through the WIN program."

Hagerman plans vaccine clinics

HAGERMAN — Regular immunization clinics will be available in Hagerman beginning Dec. 1. Lucille Jacobson, supervising nurse for the South Central Idaho Health District, announced today.

In the past Hagerman residents have had to travel to Hagerman or some other community for Health District immunization programs.

The first clinic will be held Dec. 1, with others on Dec. 8 and Dec. 15. They will be held in the back room of the American Legion Building.

Mrs. Jacobson said in January the health district will decide on a regular schedule for the Hagerman clinics, probably two days per month.

The immunization programs in Hagerman will be the same as those offered in other communities and will provide all immunizations for children, including DPT, polio, measles, mumps, rubella and the shots for overseas travel which usually include small pox, typhoid and cholera.

Swine flu shots will also be available through the month of December in the Hagerman clinics.

Mrs. Jacobson said there is no doctor in Hagerman and the immunization service is needed for the convenience of Hagerman families.

'Sanitation' reason for land plan rule

TWIN FALLS — Comprehensive Plan designer Dennis Petrequin, Portland, said Monday his group recommended five-acre minimum on farm-residential areas because of "sanitary problems" which have historically occurred on similar lots of smaller size.

A five-acre minimum allows enough area to accommodate subsurface sewage disposal without fear of ground water contamination, and can be subdivided later into reasonable patterns for urban growth should that be necessary, Petrequin said.

Speaking at a special meeting of the Twin Falls County Joint Planning Council, Petrequin also explained how he decided which areas should be designated farm-residential. Those areas include patches north of Buhl, south and northeast of Twin Falls, between Twin Falls and Burley, and a small area northeast of Castleford.

Some of these areas are "already pretty well written off as far as agricultural land-uses," Petrequin said. In addition, some of the land has already been subdivided, he said.

Also because "fairly good ground water is available," some of these areas were designated farm-residential, he said.

Farm-residential areas are kept close to the cities in an effort to keep city services, which may still be provided to these areas, close by.

Petrequin said. The planner said he thought the "natural sequence of events" would be adoption of the plan and later changing of subdivision and zoning ordinances to comply with the plan.

On future growth of airport facilities in the area, Petrequin said, "I don't see how anyone can be talking about a regional airport."

"You should keep all options for expanding the present facility," Petrequin said.

He said the only problem he saw with expanding the current facility would be expansion of runways over irrigation canals. "And that's an engineering problem which isn't too difficult. If we can put landing ways over freeways, then we can put them over irrigation canals," he said.

Mrs. Cover said the council would still try to hold at least one informational meeting before Christmas.

The council plans four informational meetings: one for Kimberly Hansen and Murtaugh; one for Filer and Hollister; one for Buhl and Castleford; and one for Twin Falls.

Mrs. Cover said she hopes the first public hearing on the plan will occur in February.

She noted copies of the plan will probably not be available to the public until next week because the council has had trouble getting necessary items for bidding.

TF city, Ponderosa lease continued

TWIN FALLS — After a brief discussion at a working lunch Monday, the Twin Falls City Council decided not to cancel a lease agreement with Ponderosa Inns, Inc., as earlier planned.

The agreement reached between the city and Ponderosa in 1975 called for the firm to lease city land at the airport until 1983. Ponderosa was to provide a rental car service on the land.

Last month, under City Council approval, City Atty. Charles Brumbach sent a letter to Ponderosa, giving them 30 days notice of a cancellation of the lease.

Brumbach argued the lease should be terminated because the firm was subleasing the land to Budget Rent-A-Car for five per cent of the operating profits. Brumbach said the agreement between the city and Ponderosa called for the rental car service at the airport to be "owner-operated."

Brumbach also argued the agreement allows the city to expand the agreement if the firm files a petition in bankruptcy court. Ponderosa filed for bankruptcy under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act several months ago.

Further, Brumbach argued the Ponderosa had failed to get approval from the council for the subleasing of land to Budget.

At a City Council meeting last week, a Ponderosa attorney argued the alleged necessity of an "owner-operator" was irrelevant because city officials knew earlier of the sublease agreement.

City officials denied the attorney's statement.

At the luncheon, councilmen cited several reasons for not terminating the contract:

Ponderosa has said it will stop subleasing the property to Budget and operate their own rental car service beginning Dec. 1.

Ponderosa is providing acceptable rental car service now and will in the future.

Ponderosa's profit on the sublease agreement was only meant to cover additional initial costs the firm had accumulated at the airport rental car service.

TF city employes seek $100 increase to salaries

TWIN FALLS — Representatives of the city employes of Twin Falls Monday requested a $100 "across the board" increase to present salaries at a City Council lunch Monday.

Marvin Morrison, chairman of the employes committee, told the council "employes are generally satisfied with the benefits they're getting," but not with the salary.

The group is not seeking a percentage increase because "those on the low end of the pay scale aren't affected that well by percentage increases," Morrison said.

Employes making the least money need to have a higher base for pay before they can start requesting a percentage increase, Morrison said.

The employes are also requesting:

— "an incentive pay," an increase in monthly pay of $25 after an employe works five years;

— a bi-monthly pay period on the 1st and 15th of each month. (Employes are currently paid once a month.)

The employes committee presented wage and fringe benefit comparisons with other cities, including Idaho Falls, Lewiston, Nampa and Coeur d'Alene, showing, in general, Twin Falls employes are paid less.

However, employe representatives noted Twin Falls has different tax structures and different job duties under each classification than other cities so such a comparison may not be important.

"We based our request on our own need, not on what's going on elsewhere," Morrison said.

Lawsuit filed at Hailey

HAILEY — The firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill (SOM) filed suit in Fifth Judicial District Court Monday to foreclose a lien for over $500,000 on property owned by the Sun Valley Co. and Dwight, Fenton Co.

SOM claims in January, 1975, it entered a contract with the Dwight, Fenton Co., a California corporation, to provide planning, design and estimated costs for a master development plan for unimproved property in Sun Valley.

The work by SOM was done for Dwight, Fenton Co., with the support and "expressed enthusiasm" of the Sun Valley Co., according to SOM. The work entailed surveying, drilling test holes and testing, marking and staking land.

The costs and related expenses total $511,931, SOM says.

However, SOM claims Dwight, Fenton Co. breached its agreement with SOM and has not paid SOM for fees and reimbursement expenses.

On May 28, 1976, SOM filed liens on land owned or leased by Dwight, Fenton Co. in Sun Valley, where the work was done.

Because of Sun Valley's "expressed enthusiasm" about the Fenton project, SOM spokesmen say they believe Sun Valley Co. has become an agent with Dwight, Fenton Co. in the breach of contract action and SOM has included Sun Valley Co. as a defendant in the request to foreclose the lien.

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices opened mixed Tuesday in midday trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 1.17 to 954.70 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 115 to 75, among the 320 issues crossing the tape.

Analysis said investors are encouraged by the Federal Reserve Board's decision to make money easier to get by lowering its discount rate a quarter point to 6 1/2 per cent and cutting off the lagging economy.

Four banks lowered the prime rate they charge corporate customers a quarter point to 6 1/2 per cent and others expect most other banks to follow.

Back in the 1850s, the pickings were pretty slim in Pike County, Mo. So many a farmer thereabouts packed what little gear he owned in a wagon, abandoned his half-cleared acreage, and trekked west to Central California. He wasn't exactly known as a free spender, having lived at length without an penny to spend, but he gained the reputation of being a free drinker, providing somebody else bought the drinks. Now he's remembered merely as a pioneer, and that is as it should be. Nonetheless, our Language man says we allude back to that tight-fisted Pike County settler of yesteryear when now we refer to someone as a "piker."

ALPHABET

Q. "Why is our word 'alphabet' so called?"
A. Comes from the first two letters of the Greek alphabet, alpha and beta.

Professional photographer John A. Camera of Trenton, N. J., merits membership in the Proper Job Club, too, certainly.

That traffic offense most likely to be committed by women drivers, it's reported, is the switching of lanes without signaling. This is in the city, please note. The violation most common to men drivers is said to be the running of stop signs.

A butcher who has cut up countless beavers claims most cattle have loose kidneys on the left side, evidently Lucuzzi said critics tear those kidneys free by habitually getting up from a lying position left hoof first. Also, the left side of beaver, he says, usually have about 10 to 20 more pounds of excess fat. He contends the meat buyers, who tend to choose the right side, have a common saying: "The right side is the tight side."

HOTTEST PEPPERS

World's hottest pepper is called pili pili ho and one whiff of same is said to make you gasp and give your eyes a bright reflective glaze. No place else is that pepper grown commercially but on Zanibar. That's not what gives Zanibar most of its money, however. Cloves are its big deal. The typical dove farmer there pulls in about $5,000 a year.

That fish called the "barracuda" got its name from a Spanish word meaning "overlapping teeth." Incidentally, some barracuda, like some mushrooms, are labeled as excellent food; while others are regarded as poisonous. But which are which? I don't know.

The report that people of retirement age have lost 30 percent of their taste buds is what prompts a medical specialist to suggest that you serve your aging mom and dad sour pickles for dessert henceforth. They most probably no longer appreciate the sweet flavors of ice cream and cherry pie, contends this authority. The particular sensors that detect these tastes get lost with the years, says he. But he claims their tastes for dull and vinegar hang in there.

Futures score general advances

(Courtesy Sinclair & Co.)
CHICAGO — Advances across the board.

That was the direction the commodity futures market took Monday.

Commodity News Service said main potatoes sharply higher, 5 to 24 cents up on a volume of 1.53 cars. The new May traded limit up but profit taking toward the close brought the gain to 42 cents and a close at 83 per hundredweight. Traders said commission house buying in anticipation of a constructive disappearance figure spurred the trade and chartists to go along.

December live cattle bid limit up on the close and settled off the permissible high, while other nearby months showed strength in the closing minutes but stayed under earlier highs. Back months closed at or near the day's lows, though posting net gains for the day. Final prices were 147 points higher in December to 132 higher in February. The 1977-78 live hogs were 25 higher. Volume was placed at 12,886 contracts. Feeder cattle closed higher, most months settling near the

3,329 contracts. What gained 5 1/2 cents, closing on the higher to December price while boxcars remained nominally 10 cents under December.

Soybeans rallied to the day's highs on the close, 10 1/2 to 16 1/2 cents up. Export and professional buying of March contracts sparked short covering which sent prices surging upward. Meal also broke through technical points, and at the close was 2.50 to 5.50 higher. Oil failed to overcome crush selling pressure, closing from down 10 to up 1 points.

New York Sugar II closed from unchanged to 2 1/2 cents higher on a trade of 2.25 contracts, as commission house chartists were almost unopposed by trade hedge selling. The No. 12 domestic contract closed 35 points up to 38 points off. The world spot price was 1 cent higher at 93.3 cents a pound, with the domestic spot price up 45 cent at 10.85 cents a pound.

New York Cornes silver held to a narrow range in quiet trading before moving from the lower side to near highs in a hectic final half hour.

day's highs. Technical factors were the primary source of support. Higher live futures sparked short covering in the grains short at 85 points on a trade of 450 contracts. Live hogs finished strong despite a run of late liquidation which brought prices near the day's lows. The range was narrow, with most active February in a 50 point spread, with prices up 2 to 40 points on 2,847 contracts traded.

Pork bellies settled with moderate gains and near the lower end of the trading range. The short work week was the key to the lackluster February. Final quotes were 25 to 72 points higher, most active February leading in a trade of end of the days range for most options as tired local and speculative shorts covered. Higher corn and bean prices and wheat's resistance to break despite continued bearish fundamentals brought shorts in. Current firmness in corn and beans is expected to bolster wheat. Chicago buying basis was nominally unchanged at 2 cents under Chicago December for hard and soft red winter wheat.

Corn rallied near the top of the day's range when speculators bought in sympathy with beans. Lack of significant hedge pressure contributed to final advance of 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents. Chicago cash basis nominally rose a nickel

Utility pays

BOISE (UPI) — Inter-mountain Gas Co. directors have declared a one-and-a-half cent dividend increase for common shares stock. The increase brings the quarterly dividend to 34 cents, compared to 32 cents a year ago. President R.D. Grimm said the increase "brings the payout of Inter-mountain, closer to the industry average for utility companies of this size."

Dividend recommended

BOISE (UPI) — The Board of Directors of the Idaho First National Bank has recommended to its shareholders a five per cent stock dividend. Bank President Thomas C. Frye reported today. Frye said a good level of profits and strong capitalization over a period of years continue to make stock dividends possible.

The issuance of additional stock requires the approval of both the Comptroller of the Currency and the bank's shareholders, he said. Record and payment dates for the stock dividend will be set by the shareholders at the bank's annual meeting Feb. 17.

Sales, profits rise

BOISE (UPI) — Albertsons, Inc. said sales for the nine months ending Oct. 31 increased 16 per cent over the same period a year ago but profits increased only three per cent. Warren E. McCain, president, said sales for the nine-month period totaled $1,066,827,000. Earnings amounted to $12,739,066, compared to last year's $12,222,271.

Navy gets Goat

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Bill XX, a goat and the Naval Academy's mascot who has been missing since Oct. 9, has been returned to Annapolis.

The announcement that the white angora goat was returned Monday morning was made at a luncheon held in conjunction with this Saturday's annual Army-Navy football game at John F. Kennedy stadium.

A spokesman in the Naval Academy Public Information Office said, "All we know, he was returned this morning by West Point."

Bucks coach resigns

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Larry Costello, the only head coach the Milwaukee Bucks ever had, resigned under fire Monday night, just a few months after being awarded a new two-year contract.

Costello, whose team won only three of 10 starts this year, was in his ninth season at Milwaukee. He coached the Bucks to the National Basketball Association title in 1971 and his teams were in the playoffs in six of his first eight years — missing only in 1969 and 1975.

His 1976 team had a losing 20-44 record, but still won the NBA Midwest Division title, losing to Detroit in the first playoff round.

"In the best interests of the Milwaukee Bucks, their fans, myself and my family and everyone concerned, I'm announcing my resignation," Costello said. "This was inflamed by me."

Costello has been reported to be in jeopardy ever since the 1974-75 season, the last season Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was with Milwaukee. The big center was traded later to Los Angeles.

He was also under fire last season when the Bucks' owners began a battle for control. James Fitzgerald of Janesville, who eventually won the fight, had tried to dump him.

But, when the fans got word of the move and came to his support, Fitzgerald gave him a two-year pact.

Reds sign Geronimo

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds announced Monday that slick-fielding centerfielder Cesar Geronimo has signed a two-year contract, marking only the second time in recent history that the Reds have given a player a two-year pact.

Terms of the contract were not announced, but Reds' officials pointed out it does cover both the 1977 and 1978 seasons. Johnny Bench last year signed a two-year agreement covering 1976 and 1977.

Reds' officials, who have said in the past they are opposed to multi-year contracts, recently offered a two-year deal to ex-Red Don Gullett, but the free agent last week signed a six-year contract with the New York Yankees.

Other Reds reportedly are seeking multi-year contracts too. Geronimo this past season hit .307, the first time he has been over .300 in six full seasons in the major leagues. He also won the Gold Glove award for being the National League's best defensive centerfielder for the third season in a row.

Geronimo's signing brings to five the number of players the Reds have announced as being under contract for next season.

Gibson leads Seniors

LITCHFIELD PARK, Ariz. (UPI) — Duke Gibson, former head pro at Blue Hills Country Club at Kansas City, Mo., took a one-stroke lead Monday in the 20th annual U.S. National Senior Open Golf Tournament at Wigwam Country Club.

Gibson, 68, who played the easier Blue Course Sunday and tied with two others for the opening round lead at 68, only faltered a stroke on the tougher Wigwam West Course for a seven-under par 137.

He played a consistent 31-35 round which did not include a bogey. His longest putt was a 15-footer for a birdie on the 32nd yard, par for 11th hole. He also birdied the 49th-yard par five, fourth hole and the 40th yard ninth.

New Seattle coach

SEATTLE (UPI) — Jim Busby was hired by the Seattle Mariners Monday to coach third base for the new American League team in 1977.

Busby, 49, coached for the Chicago White Sox this past season. Prior to that he coached for Baltimore, Houston and Atlanta.

He played as an outfielder in the major leagues for the White Sox, Washington, Cleveland, Baltimore, Boston and Houston and made the All-Star team in 1951.

Newcombe withdraws

SYDNEY (UPI) — Three-time Wimbledon champion John Newcombe Sunday withdrew from next January's $32,500 Australian Open Tennis Tournament, raising speculation that his tennis career may be coming to an end.

In a telephone call to the Sydney Daily Telegraph from his tennis ranch in New Braunfels, Texas, Newcombe said he was also withdrawing from next month's $125,000 New South Wales Open.

"I've had enough—there's no point going on when I'm playing so poorly," the 33-year-old Newcombe said. "I've had a fabulous career. Why should I spoil my good name? I do have some pride in myself."

Newcombe's decision follows first-round eliminations in the Australian indoor championships and a tournament in Perth last month.

National Rodeo final

DENVER (UPI) — Tom Ferguson, reigning world champion all-around cowboy, will compete in steer wrestling and calf roping at the National Finals in Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 3-11, the Professional Rodeo Cowboys' Association said Monday.

Ferguson, of Miami, Okla., set a record for winning $67,908 in a single season. He also established a new earnings record in steer wrestling with $48,854.

A record $212,000 will be at stake in the National Finals, called the "world series" of rodeo. Qualifiers will compete in 10 events during the nine-day rodeo, and the biggest winner in each event will win the world title.

Junior Rose Bowl

IOWA FALLS, Iowa (UPI) — Ellsworth Community College, the nation's top-rated junior college football team, is expected to receive an invitation Tuesday to play in the Junior Rose Bowl next month.

Glenn Davis, a member of the selection committee, will be here to make the formal announcement. Davis, a star running back for Army and winner of the 1946 Heisman Trophy, is special events coordinator for the Los Angeles Times, sponsor of the Junior Rose Bowl.

The game, which pits a California junior college team against a school from another part of the country, will be played Dec. 11 in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. The California team has not been selected.

Ellsworth finished the regular season with a 9-0 record and was rated No. 1 by the National Junior College Athletic Association. The Panthers had been invited to the Wool Bowl in Roswell, N.M., but had to decline because they couldn't meet the travel expenses.

Coach Vern Thompson said Ellsworth would receive expenses plus $5,000 for playing in the Junior Rose Bowl.

Blocked kick lets Colts hold Dolphins

MIAMI (UPI) — Tackle Mike Barnes blocked a Gary Yepremian extra point attempt with 12 seconds to go Monday night to give the Baltimore Colts a 17-16 victory over the Miami Dolphins in the NFL's Monday night TV game.

The Colts now need to win only their two remaining home games with the New York Jets and Buffalo Bills to clinch the title in the AFC East. Their game in two weeks against the St. Louis Cardinals would then only have a bearing on the home field advantage.

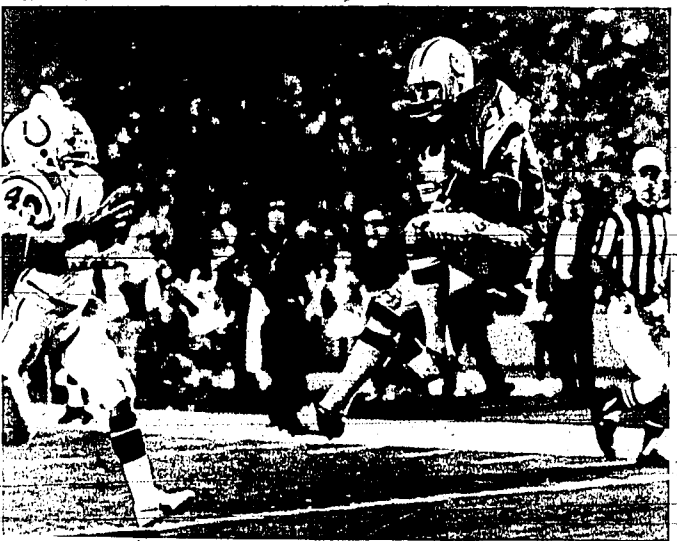

The Dolphins put a scare into the Colts by driving 69 yards in four plays to score what appeared to be the tying touchdown on a three-yard drive over right tackle by Benny Malone.

But then Yepremian, hampered by a bad snap, kicked the ball low into the middle of the Colt line and Barnes, a University of Miami alumnus, knocked it to the ground saving the win.

The big play on the Dolphins' last-minute drive was a 41-yard pass from Bob Griese to Darrel Harris to the three-yard line.

Baltimore scored on a six-yard sweep around right end in the first quarter, a 25-yard Bert Jones pass to Raymond Chester just before half time and on what had seemed to be a decisive 27-yard field goal with 1:32 left by Tom Linhart.

Miami's scores came on a 20-yard Yepremian field goal and on a 20-yard pass from Griese to Jim Mandich, both in the second quarter.

ALL ALONE at the goal line, Dolphins tight end Jim Mandich jumps for a Bob Griese pass and a touchdown in the closing seconds of the first half in their game Monday night with the Baltimore Colts. The Colts went on to win the game 17-16. (UPI tele)

Five of the eight participants have qualified. They are Mexico's Raul Ramirez, Spain's Manuel Orantes and Americans Connor, Eddie Dibbs and Roscoe Tanner.

Wojtek Fibak of Poland, Guillermo Vilas of Argentina and Harold Solomon of the United States are the sixth-through-eighth ranked players and will make the tournament unless the order changes in the final week.

Borg, who is not playing this week, could get in if Connors does not play and if Brian Gottfried, the 10th-ranked player, fails to reach the quarter-finals at the South African tournament.

Blocked kick lets Colts hold Dolphins

The linhart field goal was set up by a short 13-yard punt by Miami's Larry Settle to the Dolphin 25. Baltimore could only manage 15 yards in five plays, forcing the field goal.

Baltimore (9-2) appeared about to clinch the game earlier in the fourth quarter when the Colts rolled 88 yards to the Miami four. But on third down with 5:07 to go Bob Matheson and Randy Crowder sacked Jones, forced a fumble and Matheson recovered on the 15.

The Dolphins also threatened earlier in the frantic final period after defensive end John Andrews recovered a fumble by Lydell Mitchell on the Baltimore 32. But after the Dolphins moved to the 16, Griese threw an interception to safety Jackie Wallace who was tackled on the Colt seven.

Mitchell's fumble came after a gain of two yards which gave him the 61 yards he needed for a 1,000-yard season. He finished with 76 yards on 19 carries for the game and 1,015 for the season.

Baltimore scored on its first possession which started on the Colts' 21. A holding penalty pushed them back to the 12, but then the strong-armed Jones found Roger Carr on a fupattern for a 51-yard gain.

Two plays netted four yards and then Mitchell caught a Jones pass over the middle for 18. A quarterback draw gained six and then Mitchell loped untouched around his right end for the six-yard gain.

Miami then scored on Yepremian's field goal making it 7-3 while the Dolphin defense held the Baltimore ground game to a walk.

Then in the final 2:01 of the half, both teams opened up. Jones went to the air on a drive that covered 89 yards in nine plays — six of them passes. Chesler got open on a slant pattern up the middle and cruised the final five yards untouched for the score.

After the ensuing kickoff, Griese unleashed his arm on a three-play 63-yard scoring march that took only 33 seconds. Griese hit Darrel Harris on passes of five and 14 yards and then tossed 20 yards to Mandich who made a tumbling catch in the end zone.

Politics in Davis Cup

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Tickets for the 1976 Davis Cup tennis finals between Chile and Italy went on sale Monday in an atmosphere tinged by political overtones.

The finals are scheduled for Dec. 17-19 in Santiago. Communist sectors in Italy have mounted a campaign to prevent the Italians from playing in Santiago as a protest against Chile's military government.

The left-wingers in Italy also protested the site of the playoffs. Santiago's National Stadium courts, used by the military government to imprison on political prisoners shortly after the coup of 1973.

Chile reached the finals by defeating Argentina and South Africa in Santiago. They were also scheduled to play against the Soviet Union but the Russians refused on the same political grounds.

Reports that have reached Santiago recently from Rome have indicated the Italian government may intercede and ask that the playoffs be held in a neutral country.

Retirement off

UCLA player arrested in $7000 robbery case

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) — Patrick Maurice Schmidt, 20, a UCLA football player, and two other young men were arrested Monday and booked on felony charges in connection with a $7,000 robbery at an electronics store.

Schmidt, a first-string safety on the Bruins defensive unit, was released later on $5,000 bail and ordered to return to South Bay Municipal Court Nov. 30 for arraignment on a robbery charge.

The bail was arranged by attorney Dana Blatt and UCLA officials had no comment on the case. "We don't know anything about it," said Vic Kelley, manager of the UCLA Athletic News Bureau. Schmidt, a junior from Torrance who won a letter last season, intercepted a pass last Saturday when the Bruins lost to their traditional rival, the University of Southern California, 24-14.

UCLA Coach Jerry Donohue and Athletic Director J.P. Morgan were not available for comment. They were in Memphis, Tenn., making arrangements for the team's appearance in the Liberty Bowl.

Muhammad Ali set for rematch against Foreman

HOUSTON (UPI) — Muhammad Ali, who it seems consistently changes his mind about retirement, agreed Monday to a rematch with former heavyweight champion George Foreman at some point in the future.

The fighters, meeting at the Sam Houston Coliseum on a ringside set for a movie on Ali's life, signed a piece of scratch paper while movie cameras ran and reporters watched.

"He said he would fight me in three months and I'm going to look forward to it," Foreman said outside the arena. "I'll be where he can find me. He won't have to look for me."

"You never heard me say I was going to retire. You heard reports out of Turkey. But you didn't hear me say I was going to do. I do what I want to do."

Delaware lottery case to drag on

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — A decision on the National Football League's request for a permanent injunction halting the Delaware football lottery is not expected for several months.

The state of Delaware closed its arguments Monday in federal court after testimony by state Lottery Director Peter Simmons, the only witness called by state attorney.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn — who denounced all legalized pro sports betting — were expected to appear in the opening of the NFL season in September. Simmons has said lottery officials are considering expanding the game to other professional sports.

Pro golfers get new home

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A new Professional Golf Association headquarters, along with three golf courses, will be built in Palm Beach County within the next three years at the expense of a housing developer.

At present, the PGA is without a single golf course of its own. Agreement between PGA officials and developer E. Lloyd Eccleston Jr., on the $11-million, 625-acre complex was reached at 3:30 a.m. Monday in an unusual early morning meeting.

Schmidt, a junior from Torrance who won a letter last season, intercepted a pass last Saturday when the Bruins lost to their traditional rival, the University of Southern California, 24-14. UCLAs Coach Jerry Donohue and Athletic Director J.P. Morgan were not available for comment. They were in Memphis, Tenn., making arrangements for the team's appearance in the Liberty Bowl.

Also arrested in the case were Charles Comeaux, 19, and Steve Zak, 19, both of Torrance. Police said Comeaux was a former employe of Cash Electronics where the robbery took place late Sunday.

Redskins still want playoffs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With his hopes of making it to the NFL playoffs still alive, George Allen Monday called his team's win over the St. Louis Cardinals the "greatest win the Redskins have had since I've been here."

The 16-10 triumph puts the Redskins, 7-1, into contention for a spot in the playoffs, most likely as the NFL East wild card, and into the unlikely position of rooting for their arch rivals, the Dallas Cowboys.

A win by the Cowboys, 9-2, in Thursday's game at Dallas against the Cardinals would give the Cards an 11-1 record that Washington could equal on Sunday by beating the Philadelphia Eagles.

Lem Barney sets NFL fair catch mark

POINTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Veteran defensive back Lem Barney, the suspect of fan derision for his reluctance to return punts Sunday, set a league record of seven fair catches in the Detroit Lions' 14-10 victory over the Chicago Bears.

Spectators in the Silverdome became increasingly annoyed with Barney as he repeatedly called a fair catch regardless of the prospects for a return.

The seven fair catches broke the old mark of six for one game set by Jake Scott with Miami in 1975. "We told Lem we're going to get him a trophy with a man with his hand in the air," a team spokesman said.

The spokesman also explained that there was a valid reason for Barney's reluctance. As the grinding contest progressed, the Lions lost two defensive backs to injuries.

BOISE (UPI) — Five of the eight Big Sky Conference basketball schools began their seasons this weekend with the remaining three schools jumping into the action next week.

Idaho State University, the coaches preseason favorite, and Boise State University, defending champions, will play two games this weekend.

Idaho State plays at Brigham Young University and Boise State is at Seattle Pacific Friday. Saturday's action sees Ohio Northern at Idaho State and Boise State at Puget Sound.

Allen said quarterback Billy Kilmer "called an outstanding game" and claimed his refusal to name Kilmer as quarterback before the game was advantageous to the team.

Referring to three touchdown passes the team dropped, Allen said "if we had onto the ball, we win this halftime game going away. We dropped three touchdown passes and had another one called back because of a penalty."

Allen's news conference was held earlier than usual so he could attend the funeral of Wayne Miller, a Redskins scout.

Calling Miller the "top scout in NFL," Allen said Miller had been a top part of the organization for the last six years.

Texas El Paso tops Yugoslavian team

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Ron Jones scored 21 points Monday night to lead Texas-El Paso to 73-65 victory over the Yugoslavian national team. The Miners struggled most of the first half against the taller Yugoslavians but outscored them 12-4 in the final four minutes to take a 39-24 halftime lead.

Jack Poole added 11 points for UTEP. Olympian Drexan Daljagic led all scorers with 22 points. Zalko Jerkov and Soran Slavnic each had 14.

The Yugoslavian team will continue a tour of the Rocky Mountain area this week and will play all eight members of the Western Athletic Conference.

Kenyans shine in NCAA X-country

DENTON, Tex. (UPI) — Kenyans Henry Rono and Samson Kimomba, running for Washington State, placed one-two Monday in the 38th annual NCAA cross country championships, but Texas-El Paso also using four Kenyans — successfully defended its team title.

Rono covered the more than six-mile course in 29:06, but despite the 1-2 finish Washington State could finish no better than third in the team race. The University of Oregon placed second behind the champion Miners in the unofficial results.

The final results will not be official until a full study is made of the video tape records taken at the finish line.

Defending individual champion Craig Virgin of Illinois ran third behind Rono and Kimomba.

Texas-El Paso placed five runners in the top-20 and scored 62 points. Oregon finished with 116 while Washington State had 163. Brigham Young was fourth (187) and Illinois fifth (231).

Joshua Kimeta of Washington State set the early pace under ideal running conditions on the hilly course on the campus of North Texas State University.

But just short of the three-mile mark Kimeta fell off the pace. Rono and Kimomba steadily pulled away from Virgin down the stretch.

Kimomba finished in 29:16 while Virgin had a time of 29:16.6.

For Texas-El Paso, Wilson Waigwa finished sixth, Sammy Maritim eighth, James Munyala 10th, Kim Firma 15th and Juan Garcia — the only non-Kenyan among the Miners top five — was 20th.

Former Ali victim wants blood

GRAND-RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — When Donald Rutherford last stepped into the ring with heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, "bout" lasted three minutes.

Now, two years later, the 30-year-old student wants a rematch. Only this time he's after blood.

Rutherford, 31, was one of three spectators picked from a crowd at the Harbor in 1975 to do the boxing gloves and take on the champion, who was on a goodwill tour of the city.

All fought like a gentleman, Rutherford said, never hurting his novice ringmate and even allowing Rutherford a few free, but ineffective punches.

This week Rutherford sent a telegram to Ali challenging the champion to face him again "to see who can draw blood first."

"I challenge you to a rematch to see who can draw blood first," Rutherford said in the telegram. "We both donate blood at the same time and whoever is done first wins."

Although Rutherford is not affiliated with any blood gathering organizations, his donations is a personal one.

Three years ago, his newborn son, Paul, needed a transfusion to help correct a serious blood disorder. Because someone had donated, Rutherford said, his child's life was saved.

"I felt obliged to replace it," Rutherford said. "But I was scared to death. I've been afraid of needles all my life. When I did it, I found it didn't hurt or anything."

Now he is a regular donor, giving blood three or four times a year, convinced by his bout with Ali that there are no weakening side effects.

"I gave blood and then two days later stepped into the ring to fight Muhammad Ali," Rutherford said. "I had no physical difficulty — other than the very obvious one."

Dallas loss to Atlanta was needed shock

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys have finally done what they had been threatening to do the previous two weeks — lose.

Dallas has been in a state of semi-lethargy — for almost a month and that has to come to a quick halt Thursday if the Cowboys are to beat the St. Louis Cardinals.

"This loss woke us up for St. Louis," said defensive back Benny Barnes. "Something had to wake us up."

Before the trip to Atlanta, it seemed Dallas could not possibly miss the playoffs. After the 17-10 setback at the hands of the Falcons, however, it's possible for the Cowboys to miss out on the championship race.

Despite the setback, Dallas received some good news when St. Louis lost to the Washington Redskins Sunday.

"Had St. Louis won," said coach Tom Landry, "we would have been in a bad psychological situation coming off our loss. But now both teams are coming off a loss and you can never tell what might happen on Thanksgiving."

Dallas' chief priority in the Atlanta game was to beef up its running attack and the Cowboys did move the ball better on the ground than they had in the past few weeks.

"But the aerial attack went sour as Roger Staubach could manage only 134 yards for 12 yards. He was intercepted three times.

"The fourth quarter (in which all three interceptions came) was the worst quarter I've ever played," said Staubach, who seemingly could not be stopped early in the season but has now fallen into a slump.

Staubach was not the only one bemoaning the team's play.

"Isn't that ridiculous," said defensive tackle Jethro Pugh

Memoirs note Ike affair

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dwight D. Eisenhower had a romance, with his British World War II female aide, according to the memoirs written by the woman and published Monday in condensed form in the December issue of the Ladies' Home Journal.

The woman, Kay Summersby, now deceased, reportedly wrote the account of her relationship with Eisenhower while dying of cancer.

"I feel free to tell the story of Miss Summersby's life and the exclusively unprinted condensation of 'Past Furloughing, My Love Affair with Dwight D. Eisenhower.'"

"The general is dead," she wrote. "I am dying. Twenty years ago, anything that could have been construed as a shadow on the general's character would have been seized upon as a political weapon."

"But times have changed. I do not believe that anyone today will construe our relationship as shameful. It certainly can cast no shadow on the general's character. I believe that truth makes for letter history than evasions."

Miss Summersby was, according to the Journal, a fashion model who became a member of Britain's Motor Transport Corps and later a VAC officer. She worked for Eisenhower between 1942 and 1945.

In the article Miss Summersby tells of how her relationship with Eisenhower gradually developed from friendship to love while she was his aide and driver in Britain and North Africa.

Miss Summersby's account included several instances of kissing and hugging between her and the general but no statement that the couple had sex relations.

"For over a year," she wrote, "Ike and I had spent more time with each other than with anyone else. We had worked, worried and played together. Love had grown so naturally that it was a part of our lives, something precious that I had taken for granted without ever putting a name to it."

"She wrote that one day Eisenhower barked at her 'God-damn it, can't you tell I'm crazy about you?'"

"It was like an explosion. We were suddenly in each other's arms. His kisses absolutely unraveled me. It hurt, demanding. And I responded every bit as passionately. He between his hands, 'God-damn it, he said, 'Have you?'"

Miss Summersby said that on more than one occasion Eisenhower asked her if she would like to have his child.

"Actually," she wrote, "I was not too sure what he was talking about. Did he mean that he would try to get a divorce? I don't know. I want to think so. He was not a man to make careless promises."

In November, 1945 Eisenhower returned to the United States and according to Miss Summersby, the rest of his personal staff were notified they were to follow in 10 days.

Shortly afterward, however, Miss Summersby received a telegram saying she was dropped from the roster of those scheduled to leave for Washington. No reason was given.

Eisenhower wrote shortly thereafter in an impersonal way saying it was impossible for him to keep her as a member of his personal official family. She subsequently visited Eisenhower when he was President of Columbia University. There his last words to her were "Kay, it's impossible. There's nothing I can do."

Miss Summersby said that many, "probably most, of Ike's top staff officers had mistresses," and met "for assignment in hotel rooms, in rented or borrowed apartments, in this kind of liaison was not possible for Dwight David Eisenhower." He was a man of the utmost integrity...like always led a life that was above reproach — and it had to remain that way. I would not have had it otherwise. Ike could not have had it otherwise.

Plan for drawing

Parties instead of balls for Carter inauguration

ATLANTA (UPI) — There will be "parties" instead of balls for the inauguration of Jimmy Carter. Business suits will be fine for those without tux.

A staff member for the president-elect said Monday thousands of people from across the nation will be invited to the inaugural parties Jan. 20. The biggest contingent, predictably, probably will be from Georgia.

Dot Padgett, who ran Carter's Georgia campaign and is now a member of his inaugural committee, said some 8,000

Georgians — longtime supporters of Carter — will receive prized invitations to attend the $35-a-person parties.

The parties were chosen to replace the traditional "Inaugural Ball" in keeping with the Carter family's promise of a more informal inauguration.

Although some 300,000 and 400,000 persons will receive invitations to the inauguration, only 45,000 will be invited to the parties, Mrs. Padgett said.

"The Georgia list will be made up of people who have supported Jimmy as far back as the governor. Leland — the ones who contributed and the volunteers who worked," she said.

Some 21,000 names were on a preliminary list, and they will be sorted out by computer, she said.

Mrs. Padgett said a Washington hotel has booked a block of rooms for Georgians and the party for residents of Carter's native state probably will be at the same hotel.

Stephen Selig of Atlanta, treasurer of the 1977 Inaugural Committee Inc., said "anyone that writes" can receive an inauguration invitation but that will not secure admittance to the parties or even a bleacher seat on the parade route.

"The total cost will be less than the last inauguration, which was $3.6 million," Selig said.

Hardbound books giving a history of the inauguration will be given to party invitation recipients, Selig said.

Carter's long-time media adviser, Gerald Rifeason, will put together the book and the invitations from Washington. Plans called for the invitations to be in the mail by Dec. 15.

Rupert chamber ballots mailed

RUPERT — Ballots have been sent out for election of Rupert Chamber of Commerce officers for 1977.

Jay McBride, current first vice president, will automatically take over the presidency now held by Nephil "Red" Douglass.

Robert Cameron, chairman of the nominating committee, said Thursday that Dr. Dale Miles, now second vice-president, has been nominated for first vice-president in 1977.

Nominated for second vice-president are Wayne Ransstrom and James Miles. Larry Arnold has been nominated for secretary-treasurer.

Three directors are to be chosen from among June Donbeck, Robert Workman, Janet Cuffman, Tom Hainsworth, Dick Dalton and Judson VanEvery. The winners will serve for three years.

Dr. John Head and Glen McBride will vie for a two-year director's post and Diane

Smith and Red Marion have been nominated for the single one-year director's seat.

Ballots are to be returned to the chamber office before Dec. 25 when they will be tabulated.

Installation of officers is scheduled for the annual dinner on Jan. 27.

Election votes challenged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Labor Party, which ran its own candidate for president, said Monday it has joined with members of the Republican Party and the American Independent Party in court challenges of election results in New York, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

A spokesman for the fringe party said there was "massive evidence of voting irregularities" in those states that make the results uncontestable. He said the party is asking for recounts.

Minico nursing shortage?

RUPERT — A possible registered nurse shortage at Minidoka Memorial Hospital was discussed Thursday at a meeting of the hospital board.

Board Chairman Larry Duff appointed three members of the board to a special joint conference committee to meet in about two weeks and examine the claim.

Jackie Cushing, assistant director of nursing, will also serve on the committee. The remaining members of the nine-man committee will be chosen by the hospital staff.

The hospital may not have enough nurses for care of the critically ill, admitted Dr. F. J. Kassal, chief of staff.

He said the critically ill patient does not get the "one-on-one care" without decreasing the care of other patients. Without critical patients, he said, staffing is not a problem.

Registered nurse Cathy Keim contended that it is necessary to have two registered nurses on every shift. The hospital divides nursing duties by employing licensed practical nurses as well.

The nurses expressed feelings of over-responsibility during a discussion of a proposal to purchase a fetal-heart monitor.

Power firm seeks PUC rule change

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Power Co. is considering asking the Idaho Public Utilities Commission (PUC) to adopt a recent Federal Power Commission (FPC) decision which would allow the utility to include certain new construction costs in a rate base before the construction is completed.

Inclusion of these costs in the rate base could mean an increase in Idaho Power rates, Robert Brown, Idaho Power public relations director, said Thursday.

A headline in the Times-News-Friday incorrectly stated, "Idaho Power seeks cost shift to users." A better headline would have been, "Idaho Power may seek cost shift to users."
