Smell of safety

DACCA, Bangladesh (UPI) — A 50-mile stretch of highway, scene of a number of fatal accidents in the past 20 days, was doused with gallons of scented rose water Friday to remove an evil spirit believed to be causing the accidents. Special prayers and readings of the Holy Koran also were organized as part of the propitiation ceremony. The Central Transport Association of Bangladesh which sponsored the event believes an evil spirit has descended on the road. There have been eight accidents on this stretch this month, killing 20 persons and injuring 300 more. The association said the road had been relatively free of accidents.

Carter drafting Viet pardon

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter's chief spokesman said Saturday the president-elect, following through on a campaign promise, is preparing a blanket pardon of Vietnam draft evaders and will issue it during his first week in office. Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter also plans to make the basic decision at the first of the year whether to ask Congress for a tax cut. He said, however, it may be later before Carter decides specifically what to ask for should he decide on a cut. Carter himself spent a foggy, rainy South Georgia day at home working on his new administration and taping a television interview. His only other appointment of the day, with aide

Hamilton Jordan, was canceled after Jordan became ill. Powell said Carter will move quickly to follow up on his campaign promise to pardon draft evaders. He said the president-elect already has a group of staff members preparing the pardon order. "He said he was going to do it during the first week, and he'll do it," said Powell. "We've got some people working on it." In charge of the Carter draft evader pardon is David Berg, a Houston attorney who now is with the American Civil Liberties Union. He is in charge of Carter's transition liaison with the Justice Department. Berg, rumored to be in line for a job as White House Counsel, is coordinating the effort to be certain that the pardon is worded properly. Powell said, however, that Carter still believes deserters — as opposed to those who ducked the draft — should be dealt with on a case-by-case basis. "He sees the need to make a distinction between desertion and Selective Service violations," said Powell. "There are varying degrees of circumstances." On the tax cut issue, Powell said Carter would "make some basic sort of determination at the first of the year, after he has seen what is happening to the economy at that time. Once during the campaign Carter said a tax cut was "inevitable," but he almost immediately backed down. Federal Reserve chairman Arthur Burns and various key congressmen have warned against a premature decision. Powell also said present plans do not call for formulation of a "Carter budget" to replace the one now being formulated by President Ford. He said present thinking calls for amendments to the Ford budget, and the extent of those amendments is yet to be decided. Carter's office announced that the president-elect will address the Denver meeting of the National Black Caucus of Local Elected Officials by telephone Sunday night at 10:30 p.m. EST.

Despite past help, co-op deep in red

By JEFF SHER Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Consumer's Co-op has received $17,683 in federal grant money, an estimated $1,500 profit from an investment in a bean farm, and thousands of hours of volunteer labor since its inception in 1973, yet is on the verge of economic failure. Ken Thacker, a member of the co-op since its beginning, said the co-op has lost money due to poor management and lack of communication among workers in the co-op's store coupled with the fact that the co-op store has had difficulty competing with larger commercial food outlets. The government's investment of $17,683 is equivalent to 23.9-cents-for-every-dollar-of merchandise sold by the co-op from September, 1973, through October, 1976. If the amount sold is calculated using $2,000 per month average sales for the 37-month-period, the $2,000 figure exceeds the highest estimate given by any co-op member of average gross-sales for that period. Although the co-op has lost money, Kay Visie, executive director of the South Central Community Action Agency (SCCAA) which administered the grant money, said she feels the co-op programs made possible by the grants have been successful. She said the government's money has been well spent because the existence of the co-op has provided a valuable learning and motivating experience for the people who were involved in it. The co-op is currently operating in the red, and co-op members agree that the co-op will soon go out of business if it continues to lose money at the present rate. The co-op's sales for the month of October totaled only $500. Since the co-op's markup on its goods is only five per cent, monthly sales of $2,000 to $3,000 are needed to cover operating costs of $130 to $150 per month. Thacker estimates the co-op currently has assets of about $7,000, including $2,000 worth of equipment, $1,000 in cash and $4,000 in inventory. If Thacker's estimate is accurate, the co-op has lost approximately $15,000 in three years, not including any money that may have been realized from membership payments. It is difficult to verify Thacker's figures, however, since thus far co-op members have not been willing to release information regarding income, expenses or the current financial position of the co-op. Michele Markiewicz, chairman of the board of directors of the co-op, said she could not give detailed accurate information about the financial status of the co-op at the present time. No swine flu epidemic, medic says NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — A medical researcher said Saturday there may be no need for the nationwide swine flu immunization program. Dr. Robert Simpson of the Rutgers University Waksman Institute of Microbiology predicted "there is not going to be a swine flu epidemic." Another researcher, Dr. Walter Schlesinger of the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, said he also opposed the swine flu inoculation program because it was conceived in "an artificial atmosphere of crisis."

Hunter finds Sandpoint crash site SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho authorities have found the body of a pilot whose plane crashed a week ago three miles northwest of Sandpoint. A bear hunter stumbled onto the wreckage Saturday morning. Fred Nordmark of Sandpoint called the sheriff's office about his discovery. The Civil Air Patrol reported that Chris Warner of the Olympia area was dead.

Reds propose nuclear arms agreement C.N.Y. Times Service BUCHAREST — The Soviet-led Warsaw Treaty Organization Friday proposed that the West join in an accord to prohibit the first use of nuclear weapons by either side in a conflict. The proposal was made as the leaders of the seven-member nations completed a two-day political consultative session in the Rumanian capital of Bucharest. A communiqué said that a draft of the proposed treaty would be sent to all the other states that signed the European security conference document at Helsinki 10 months ago. This would include the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

First woman governor turns 100 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nello Tayote Ross, who was elected in 1924 as the first woman governor in U.S. history, sipped champagne at her 100th birthday party Saturday. Wearing a blue chiffon gown that matched the penetrating blue of her eyes, Mrs. Ross sat regally in a high-backed chair at her lawyer son's Northwest Washington home and received hundreds of guests one by one with smiles and thanks. "I have no aches or pains," she said when asked how it felt to be turning 100. Her birthday is Monday.

Nuclear explosion fear brings sailor demotion

By FRED DODDS Times-News writer

WASHINGTON — A sailor at the Nuclear Reactor Testing Center near Idaho Falls has been demoted and transferred because he refused to increase power in a reactor he thought was unsafe. Alex Williams, now serving out of San Francisco, said he felt there was the danger of a nuclear explosion at the facility near Idaho Falls. However, Navy officials in Washington feel differently.

of writing his objections down in the daily log, but refused. "He was then ordered a second time to increase the power, advised the other meters showed the reaction was safe, and advised what action to take." "He refused the second time." Williams, a third class petty officer at the time, was brought before Capt. H. R. Hughes, commanding officer at the time, and reduced in rank to seaman. (Continued on p. 11)

And because Williams was reduced one rank because of his actions, the American Civil Liberties Union is looking into his case. The uproar is beginning to reach Washington, D. C., where at the Capitol Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, said he knew nothing of the incident "but in cases like these it is always wise for Congress to take a look." The incident happened last May. Williams, being trained at the testing center, looked at a reactor, called an SL-1. He said he saw a meter "bouncing back and forth" indicating it was not safe to increase the amount of atomic power being generated in that reactor. A Navy official who refused to be identified, said, "It was just one meter. One of several safety devices on that reactor. He had the option

Lab closed by hazards

DENVER (UPI) — A regional pesticides sampling laboratory of the Environmental Protection Agency was closed last March by federal officials who discovered the health of employees there was endangered, according to a federal report.

The report by the U.S. General Accounting Office said two investigating agents last February found "many health hazards" in laboratory 45C at The Denver Federal Center. The report said they found "reasonable expectation that exposures to toxic substances, dangerous fumes, dust or gases may cause irreversible harm so as to possibly shorten life."

EPA officials immediately closed the lab and began looking for contamination in other areas of the facility, the report said. The lab was reopened after a decontamination program. Chemists at the lab analyze pesticide samples and determine if they contain ingredients stated on labels, and whether they are too strong for public use. The Denver Post, in a copyrighted story in its Sunday edition, said the EPA's regional administrator, John A. Green, later created a board of inquiry which condemned management procedures in two separate divisions. "Severe" disciplinary actions were recommended by the board for four EPA administrators but none were ever carried out, said the paper. The Post said two of the four EPA administrators who were recommended for disciplinary action received their regular incremental raises which come only after a supervisor has written a satisfactory job performance report on them. Green had no comment on the newspaper's accusations concerning the raises.

Cold day for sale

BUNDLED against the chill, some of the buyers at the Tuana Farms auction near Hagerman Saturday listen as auctioneer Jim Messersmith calls one of the units of farm equipment on the block. For some who braved the cold, it was a good day for a hot bargain.

Cold no deterrent to bargain hunters

By KEN HODGE Times-News writer

HAGERMAN — A large custom farming operation, feeling the squeeze of rising production costs and sagging farm commodity prices, held a sale Saturday expected to gross more than half a million dollars. Tuana Farms, a five-year-old outgrowth of G.T. Newcomb, Inc., custom farmed about 4,800 acres for eight owners of desert entry parcels in the Bell Rapids Project last year, according to Don Robertson of G.T. Newcomb.

Next year, in order to cut back on rising overhead in its farming operations, Tuana will farm only about 2,000 to 2,500 acres, Robertson said. "Right now the farm economy is bad," Robertson said. He said the corporation was forced to cut back and sell some of its equipment. More than 1,500 persons braved the icy clear day after Hagerman's first snowfall of the year to attend the sale for bargains including farm equipment of every description. The sale, conducted by Messersmith Auction Service, had grossed more than $200,000 by noon on a fleet of 26 tractors and was about to auction off a large caravan of heavy-duty farm trucks. Auctioneer Jim Messersmith guessed the sale was probably the largest one he had ever held. Farmers from all over the Magic Valley parts of Washington, Oregon and Utah attended the sale. Tractors sold at prices from $36,000 down to $500. Hundreds of pickups and cars lined the usually quiet roads past the Tuana headquarters on the bluffs over the Snake River in the Hagerman Valley. Although farmers throughout the Pacific Northwest are feeling the bite of a depressed farm commodity market, the farm equipment brought prices only slightly lower than normal, according to an auctioneer employed by Messersmith.

TF tax assessments rise

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — More than 21,000 Twin Falls County real and personal property owners who received their tax notices in the mail last week are facing higher assessments this year despite a drop in most levels. County Treasurer Ruth K. Jones said the total tax bill this year on real property alone is $8,069 million, and shows an increase of $596,389 over last year. Total figures on personal property were not available from the county auditor's office Friday. Mrs. Jones said public utilities will pay $1.166 million of the total real property taxes. Idaho Power Co., the single largest tax-paying utility in the county, will pay $523,517.41. The county tax books are now open and will be open for 1976 payments through Dec. 20. Any payment offered after Dec. 20 cannot be accepted until Jan. 24, and must be accompanied by a penalty of 2 per cent and interest at 8 per cent, according to state law. Mrs. Jones urged any taxpayers who do not receive their notices to contact her office. She urged taxpayers to make their payments as early as possible to avoid the deadline rush. This year marks the first year the county tax notices reflect the new property values established during a five-year re-evaluation program. New assessments were made on all property, both real and personal. County

Auditor Harold Lancaster, said this is one of three reasons the tax bills are higher this year. He said Twin Falls County elected to hold back tax assessments on the re-evaluations completed during the first four years so all taxpayers would be assessed at the new rates at the same time. State law requires a re-evaluation each five years of all property. Another five-year program will begin this year on properties revalued five years ago. Other reasons for the higher taxation, Lancaster said, include the move from 16.5 per cent to 17 per cent of the true market value as an assessment basis, and normal growth and improvements in the county. ## Vivian K. Mulder

TWIN FALLS — Vivian K. Mulder, 56, Twin Falls, died Saturday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital after an extended illness.

Born Jan. 1, 1920, at Burley, she was raised in Oakley and attended schools there.

She married Bernard Mulder Feb. 27, 1965, in Elko, Nev.

Mrs. Mulder was a member of the LDS Church. She had worked six years as a teller at Fidelity National Bank—and in 1959, was employed as bookkeeper for Western Music and Cactus Pete's. She continued to work for Cactus Pete's following the separation of the two offices.

Survivors are her husband; three daughters, Mrs. Ed (Mary Ann) Robertson, Jerome; Mrs. Dave (Suzie) Pember, Glens Ferry, and Mrs. Bernadine Olson, Twin Falls; her mother, Mrs. Vida Kidd, Twin Falls; four brothers, Thurman Kidd, Burley; Garnet Kidd, Kimberly; Jasper Kidd, Hagerman, and Orlin Kidd, Portland; one sister, Dorothy Kidd, Caldwell, and seven grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by two grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mulder will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at White Mortuary Chapel by Bishop Richard Stoshek. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the chapel until 9 p.m. today and Monday and until service time Tuesday.

Beauty pageant open to MV women

BURLEY — The Miss Mini-Cassia Beauty Pageant has been thrown open to candidates from Twin Falls, Jerome, Gooding and Lincoln counties.

Wayne Matthews, candidate committee chairman for the sponsoring Burley Rotary Club, made the announcement Saturday.

The deadline for entry in the contest is Dec. 5.

Matthews said the pageant, in its second year, has drawn only four candidates thus far from Cassia and Minidoka counties.

They are Tanny Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Alma Harris, Acequia; Susan Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bowers, Burley; Cindy Harding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Harding; Heyburn, and Laurel Lee Isola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Benhoechea, Burley.

Matthews said the selection committee is interviewing other prospective candidates and will announce all candidates about Dec. 10.

The pageant will be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 23 in the Burley High School auditorium.

It is an official preliminary of the Miss America contest, with finals at Atlantic City, N.J., next fall.

The opening of local pageants to outside contestants already has precedent in the Magic Valley.

Two years ago a Heyburn girl won the Miss Twin Falls title, then went on to become Miss Idaho. She was Terri Harding, older sister of Cindy Harding, one of this year's Mini-Cassia candidates.

Matthews said the committee hopes to present 9 to 10 candidates in the pageant. They must be between 17 and 28 years old, never married and of high moral character.

Interested candidates who qualify can contact Matthews in Burley by phoning collect to 678-7332 or 678-4411.

Five trophies will be presented to top finalists, with scholarships of $350, $225 and $125 to the top three girls. Rubert Hamblin is general chairman of the pageant, with Rotary President De Nelson as assistant. Mrs. Dennis (Corky) Curtis and Diane Woodhouse are acting as pageant advisors.

Other committee members on the project include Harry Carpenter, Ed Mitchell and John Anderson for publicity and awards; William MacKnight, program design; Dick Hulinga, program ad sales; Donald Westfall and Ed Hartman, accounting and finance; "Jack Snow," billing; Steve Sams, stage manager, and Fred Schloss and Nick Cozakis, ticket sales.

Mary Napton Gundelfinger

HAZLETON — Mary Napton Gundelfinger, 89, former resident of Hazleton and Twin Falls, died Saturday in her home in Monterey, Calif., after a long illness.

Born July 25, 1887, in Hugotonia, Mo., she moved to Fayette in 1926. In 1928 she moved to Jerome where she was assistant postmaster for four years at the first Jerome post office.

She graduated from Boise Business School and was employed at the Hazleton State Bank until 1922 when she went to Berkeley, Calif., where she worked for the Fidelity Building and Loan Association for 11 years.

In 1931 she went to work for the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank in Berkeley where she was employed for nine years. In 1942 she returned to Hazleton where she was employed at the Hazleton State Bank. She married H. E. Gundelfinger on Aug. 14, 1954. They made their home in Hazleton until Mr. Gundelfinger's death June 20, 1969. Mrs. Gundelfinger moved to Twin Falls in August of that year.

A member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., she was also a member of the Christian Science Church in Twin Falls. A life member of the Twin Falls Music Club and a member of the Berkeley Women's Club. On the Jerome Civic Club's 50th anniversary, she was given an honorary life membership in the club.

Mrs. Gundelfinger's survivors are a niece—great-niece and three great-nieces.

Funeral services will be announced by White Mortuary.

Margaret J. Robertson

TWIN FALLS — Margaret J. Robertson, 71, former resident of Twin Falls and Buhl, died Wednesday at a rest home in San Diego, Calif., where she had lived the past four years.

Born Sept. 7, 1902, in the Halley-Alturas Lake Area, she married Joseph William Robertson in 1922 in Gooding. He died Aug. 9, 1953.

Mrs. Robertson was a member of the Christian Science Church and a past president of Idaho Who Growers Auxiliary.

Survivors include one daughter, one brother, two granddaughters, one grandson and two great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by one son and two granddaughters.

Memorial services for Mrs. Robertson will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at White Mortuary Chapel.

Dorothy A. Joslin

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Dorothy A. Joslin, 51, Twin Falls, died Saturday afternoon at her home after a long illness.

White Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Thomas E. Piper

JEROME — Thomas Edward Piper, 70, died Tuesday in a Southern California hospital following a stroke.

He was born in Chicago, Ill., Feb. 26, 1906, and grew up in Jerome. He graduated from high school here and was graduated from the University of Wyoming in 1932.

Mr. Piper was prominent in the field of chemical and metallurgical engineering, and contributed widely to the improvement and development of materials and methods used in building aircraft. One such aircraft was the famed B-49, flying wing fighter bomber, and the P-61, black widow night fighter.

Mr. Piper served on the war metallurgical committee, was a member of the American Society for Metals, a consultant on materials to the Department of Defense and a registered professional engineer in California.

He was also a member of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity and a member of the Masonic lodge, Laguna Beach, Calif.

Surviving are a daughter, a son, and a sister. He was preceded in death by his wife, Virginia.

Gravestone services will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in the Jerome Cemetery with Rev. W. Daniel Klingler officiating. Hope Funeral Chapel is in charge of arrangements.

Friends and relatives will meet at the cemetery at the funeral time.

Crime story erred

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Uniform Crime Reporting Service statistics show 401 burglaries this year here compared to 378 last year, and 366 burglaries this year compared to 473 a year ago.

An article in Thursday's paper incorrectly stated burglaries had dropped from 401 last year to 378 this year and that larcenies had risen from 336 last year to 373 this year.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said Thursday the reason for the increase in burglaries and decrease in larcenies was partially caused by a change in the way the department counts major crimes.

Thefts from automobiles are now considered burglaries, whereas before they were considered larcenies, he said.

TF hunter missing

ATLANTA — Saturday afternoon a search for a missing Twin Falls hunter was going on in the rugged mountains east of Boise.

New recruiter's 'seen the world'

TWIN FALLS — When Neil Cederstrom graduated from Twin Falls High School 20 years ago he wanted to find a good job and see a little bit of the world.

Today he considers he's got the best job there is, and he's seen most of the world.

He is the new recruiting officer for the U. S. Navy in Twin Falls. His rank is chief petty officer and has been for the past 13 years. He could have retired last December but decided to hang on because I wanted to come back to my home town.

Right now a house is being built for the Cederstrom family and Chief Cederstrom is meeting with men of enlistment age, telling them about the opportunities he found the last 20 years.

He's served in Hawaii, Texas, Idaho Falls, California — between stints on the ocean or "the pond" as he calls it — and has been trained at various radio schools on the east and west coasts.

Chief Cederstrom served in Vietnam, holds four good conduct medals, a Navy unit citation and a combat action ribbon.

When Apollo 15 returned from the moon, Chief Cederstrom was aboard the USS Okinawa—and watched—the space capsule drift from the heavens.

He married the former Betty Brush of Twin Falls and they have three children, girls 19 and 16, and a boy 11.

"The Navy has been good to me. I've been to most places in the world, so has my wife. I have a good income and even though I'm a young man I can retire and live a good life here in Twin Falls."

He said he wants to pass this message on to young men who aren't certain what they want to do after leaving high school.

Ford, aides meet

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — Nearing the end of perhaps his last holiday at this tightly guarded presidential retreat, President Ford bade farewell to visiting relatives Saturday and got back to work on 1978 federal spending proposals.

Bright, warm sunshine flooded the mountaintop Camp David compound and Ford swam in the heated pool outside his rustic lodge before meeting for almost four hours with budget experts and White House aides who flew up from Washington by helicopter.

The session with chief economic advisor Alan Greenspan, Budget Director James Lynn and others followed two similar meetings Friday designed to help Ford draft the fiscal 1978 spending proposals he must send Congress in January.

As the President tended to business, members of his family headed for home after an extended Thanksgiving get-together. Those departing included daughter Susan and three of Ford's brothers, who returned to Michigan.

The President, Mrs. Ford and son Steven were expected to remain at Camp David until Sunday — with plans to relax and make the most of a tranquil atmosphere there they might not enjoy again before Ford's term expires January 20.

He will take his family to Vail, Colo., for their annual Christmas-New Year's skiing holiday, and aides said he would have no plans for another Ford visit to Camp David.

Aides said Saturday's budget meeting focused on spending by the Transportation Department and some regulatory agencies.

Ford is in the process of making tentative budget decisions and plans to complete the process before leaving for Vail about Dec. 18.

Aides to President-elect Jimmy Carter said he will submit a revised version of Ford's proposals, shortly after he takes office.

A White House spokesman said the Ford family spent Friday night watching "Silent Movie," the comedy film starring Mel Brooks. They said the President was likely to watch some of the football games on television during the weekend.

Bank orders cash, gets cut-up paper

CHICAGO (UPI) — A sealed canvas sack supposedly containing $55,000 in cash was opened Saturday by employees of the Beverly Bank who found only bundles of sliced up newspapers, police said.

The money was ordered from the La Salle National Bank in Chicago's Loop Friday and the money pouch picked up and stored overnight by Purolator Inc., a bonded delivery and security company, authorities said.

The theft was discovered about 10 a.m. when employees of the Beverly Bank, on the South Side, broke the seal inside the bank's currency counting room. Instead of $55,000, they found newspaper cut to the size of dollar bills and tied in six bundles.

"Whatever happened, happened outside the Beverly Bank," said Andrew Moore, bank president.

Police and the FBI began an investigation.

"It has got to be a theft," said police Lt. Leonard Casey. "It just shows there's another way to make a dishonest buck."

George H. Childs, Purolator regional vice president, said all his employees who came in contact with the money pouch would be given lie detector tests.

"I'm not sure where it happened," said Childs. He said the switch could have occurred in either of the two banks, in the Purolator vault or in the armored truck.

A Purolator vault was opened Oct. 20, 1974, and thieves made off with a record $4.3 million. Four persons were later convicted although some of the money is still missing.

Teachers eye sexism

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Council of Teachers of English voted unanimously Saturday to open a three-year program to make teachers and students aware of the signs and damages of racism and sexism.

By a closer vote — 102 to 96 — council members at their annual business meeting passed a resolution to eliminate discrimination against homosexual men and women.

In its action on racism and sexism, the teachers called on the council's executive committee to tell council groups their responsibility for curricula for teachers, emphasizing "the development of abilities necessary to help teachers and their students to deal effectively with racism and sexism."

Ex-agent outlines '63 trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Responding to a congressional subpoena, former CIA officer David Phillips told a closed session of the House Committee on Assassinations Saturday about 1 1/2 Harvey Oswald's Soviet and Cuban contacts in Mexico City.

After almost four hours of testimony, Phillips emerged and told reporters he had given the committee "what I knew" about the trip Oswald made to Mexico eight weeks before President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in 1963.

Phillips was involved in CIA surveillance of the Cuban embassy at the time Oswald visited it. He refused, however, to disclose what he had told the committee about Kennedy's accused assassin.

"I told the select committee what I knew about the visit to Mexico City of Lee Harvey Oswald," he said. "It was an executive session. Under the circumstances I believe it would be wrong to say what I said and I know it would be illegal."

In response to a reporter's questions, Phillips said he had not pleaded the Fifth Amendment to the committee. Under the law he was "advised to be available in case he had to be recalled in future days."

According to the curator of the Miami Seaquarium, goby fish establish "dental clinics" where they pick particles from the teeth of nearby fish.

Juvenile rights before court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court is preparing to weigh the rights of juveniles to obtain contraceptives, the rights of illegitimates to inherit from both parents and the rights of children whose parents want to put them in mental institutions.

Cases dealing with those issues are among a string of important arguments scheduled for the two-week court session beginning Monday.

The new justices will hear a businessman's challenge to the enforcement of federal safety laws, a Florida death sentence case and a case involving New York laws which can be used to jail debtors without court hearings.

Yet another case before the court concerns a Jehovah's Witness couple who insisted for religious reasons on blocking out the "Live Free or Die" motto on their New Hampshire auto license plates.

The court began showing an increased interest in juveniles in 1967 when it decided minors facing confinement for wrongdoing qualify for many of the basic constitutional rights afforded adults.

Last term, the justices ruled parents have no absolute veto power over an untried minor daughter's abortion.

Under Pennsylvania law, minors may be committed subject only to the approval of a licensed medical facility, mental health agency and the admitting hospital.

Also been challenged is an Illinois law which allows illegitimates to inherit from their mothers but not their fathers. Laws of this kind exist in 21 states.

Print, TV split effects on politics, study says

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Preliminary findings of a national study on voters' choices in the 1976 presidential election indicate newspapers exert more influence than television on what people think is important, but television is better at arousing interest.

David Weaver, associate professor of journalism at Indiana University, Bloomington, one of the researchers, said in an interview that the formal report on the study, which began in January and goes through December, will not be ready until next year.

A preliminary report from Weaver and Maxwell McCombs, professor of journalism at Syracuse University, contained some tentative conclusions based on in-depth interviews through July. Also working on this research project is Lee Becker, assistant professor of journalism at Syracuse.

The Syracuse and IU schools of Journalism and the University of Illinois, Chicago, Circle campus, are the three units sponsoring the study. Indianapolis, Evansville, Ill., and Lebanon, N.H., are interview locations for the study.

"In this study we have been asking what issues are most important to them and also asked about the candidates what kinds of things they would tell a friend that has been away for a long time," Weaver said.

"What we found was that those people who relied most on newspapers for political news tended to be concerned about the same issues. Newspapers seem to have a more powerful effect on their concern over certain issues than does television," Weaver said.

"People who relied most on newspapers for political news had very stable issue-agenda. Those who relied mainly on television had the least stable issue-agenda. The issues they were concerned about tended to change from month to month."

"Those who rely mainly on both newspapers and television were closer to the newspaper people than to TV," Weaver said. "That suggests newspapers have more influence on what people think is important than does TV. But you find that those people who relied mainly on TV are the most highly interested. It seems TV is especially good at raising people's interest in politics."

Carter aides eye military spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Carter administration planners are looking at military personnel costs — including such "sacred cows" as the $2.5 billion yearly retirement system — as an area where defense spending can eventually be cut, informed sources said Saturday.

Military and civilian payrolls, retirement and related costs such as military housing and schools for service dependents comprise about 55 per cent of this year's $111.09 billion Defense Department budget.

A Carter transition team headed by Richard C. Steadman, 44, a New York investment banker who served in the Pentagon during the Johnson administration, will look at major Defense Department decisions that must be made in the first three months of the new administration.

"Those decisions include such items as whether to proceed with the $2.5 billion bomber program and what alternatives to immediate production of the bomber might be available."

But the entire defense budget for the 1978 fiscal year, which the Ford administration will submit before leaving office, also will be examined to identify "problem areas," sources said.

"No defense secretary is going to influence manpower and management problems in his first few months in office," said one Carter source. "But if half the budget is there, that is where you are certainly going to have to look for possible judgments."

Saudi Arabia holds ace-in-hole

By PETER J. BERNSTEIN
Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — "Saudi Arabia holds the trump card," says John Lichtblau, head of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation. "There can be no major oil price hike without a go-ahead from the Saudis."

That assessment of the world oil situation by one of the most knowledgeable of energy analysts reflects both a grudging respect for the economic power of Saudi Arabia, and suspense as members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) prepare to set new oil prices.

It's a foregone conclusion that some oil price increase is coming, but the questions are how much and when.

Officially, OPEC's 13 states are to decide the size of the price increase at a ministerial meeting scheduled to begin Dec. 15 in Doha, Qatar, a sheikdom bordering Saudi Arabia on the Persian Gulf. But some OPEC ministers have suggested delaying their session until after President-elect Jimmy Carter takes office.

Price increases of between 10 per cent and 20 per cent are expected, although the talk has been about increases as high as 30 per cent, much to the dismay of oil-importing nations like the United States which fear that a major price hike could have a disastrous impact on the world economy.

The State Department is trying to persuade OPEC members that moderation is in order. U.S. diplomats are warning OPEC members that a 15 per cent increase would have the same impact on the industrialized world today as a 30 per cent increase three years ago. If OPEC were to impose such a hike now, the strain on the world economy resulting from increased inflation—and renewed recession could be unbearable, they say. Together, the inflation rate of the top seven oil importers could climb 1.5 per cent, and their economic growth could slow down by an average of 1 per cent, causing increased unemployment and payments deficits.

Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil producer, is generally considered the kingpin of OPEC and the final arbiter of the world oil price. Saudi Arabia reportedly agrees with the U.S. position that anything greater than a 10 per cent increase would have disastrous economic repercussions. In the current issue of Business Week, Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zakii Yamani said his country "will accept nothing above 10 per cent" and added, "we are flexible, and it could be below 10 per cent."

But, as has happened before, Saudi Arabia appears to be under strong pressure from some of the more militant OPEC countries, such as Iran, Iraq and Libya, to impose a larger increase. The Shah of Iran has indicated that 15 per cent is the absolute minimum Iran is prepared to support.

Yamani said Saudi Arabia "alone" can stop an OPEC price increase because OPEC prices are pegged to Saudi Arabia's light crude. However, he also cautioned that because Saudi Arabia needs OPEC, the organization's decisions represent compromises.

OPEC has not increased its prices since October, 1975. International oilmen believe that if the Saudis and the more moderate OPEC states prevail, there will be an increase of about 10 per cent. That would raise Arabian light oil to about $12.66 a barrel from the current price of $11.51.

If the more aggressive cartel members prevail, the price could soar to more than $13 a barrel. According to some energy analysts, OPEC might announce only a modest price increase of less than 10 per cent at its December meeting with a promise to consider an additional increase next year. OPEC is being urged to hold out the threat of such a two-phased price hike by a number of Third World countries who are awaiting the outcome of a meeting due to begin in Paris on the same day as the OPEC meeting.

The Paris meeting is the scheduled culmination of a year-long dialogue between 27 representatives of rich and poor nations. They are trying to agree on demands of the Third World for a better break on their raw material exports and on their debts to wealthy countries.

To the Third World, some of whose members are petroleum producers, such as Nigeria and Indonesia, the oil price weapon represents a threat to rich nations, one that shouldn't be lifted until after rich nations make their intentions clear in Paris. The upshot is that some OPEC countries are seeking a postponement of the OPEC meeting on Dec. 15 on grounds that their representatives want to attend the Paris session too.

Despite uncertainty over the size and timing of oil price increases, oil-importing nations are currently building up their stocks and increasing their refinery runs. Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, two of the biggest suppliers, reported that they produced more oil last month than in any month in their history.

The United States is using more petroleum again with the step-up in the economy. As demand for oil has risen, the nation has been forced to import increasing amounts of the costlier foreign oil because domestic oil output has been declining since reaching a peak in 1970. The United States currently imports more than 40 per cent of its oil, compared with only 29 per cent in 1973, the year of the oil embargo. Shipments from the Arab OPEC countries are up a whopping 85 per cent, despite all the hullabaloo a few years ago about "energy independence" and energy conservation.

A study done by the International Paris-based Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development shows that the United States ranks 14th among Western industrial countries in taking effective steps to reduce oil consumption.

The United States currently is consuming about 16.8 million barrels of oil a day, some 4 per cent above demand a year ago. For all of 1976, the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation estimates that total demand will average about 17 million barrels a day. This would still be below the 17.3 million barrels consumed in 1973, but the next year's demand is expected to be as much as 17.8 million barrels daily.

Maurice Granville, chief executive of Texaco, said recently that the United States must keep importing large amounts of foreign oil "for many years to come." Industrial countries in Western Europe, which are almost entirely dependent on imported oil, would require still greater imports as their economies expand.

OPEC members are closely watching the rate of increase in demand for oil. For this is the key factor in determining the size of price increase. As demand for oil has risen, the nation has been forced to import increasing amounts of the costlier foreign oil because domestic oil output has been declining since reaching a peak in 1970. The United States currently imports more than 40 per cent of its oil, compared with only 29 per cent in 1973, the year of the oil embargo. Shipments from the Arab OPEC countries are up a whopping 85 per cent, despite all the hullabaloo a few years ago about "energy independence" and energy conservation.

Europeans are particularly worried about an oil price increase, even if it's only 7 or 8 per cent. This is especially true of Britain, France and Italy, all in economic trouble.

U.S. and European officials are counting OPEC's argument that oil prices must rise because the cost of Western-made imported goods is rising. A study made by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development found that dollar prices of exports from Western industrial countries to OPEC nations had risen only 5 per cent since September, 1975, the date of the last oil price increase.

The Petroleum Industry Research Foundation said OPEC can justify a price increase of only 2.7 per cent to 7.3 per cent on the basis of increased costs of their imports.

The OPEC import index used in the calculations of the New York-based foundation's study is entirely in dollar values. "This fact, more than any other, explains why OPEC's import costs showed such a minute increase in the last 12 months despite continuing substantial inflation in many industrial countries," Lichtblau said. "Since all OPEC oil prices are set in dollars or dollar terms," he added, "the strengthening of the dollar during the last 12 months has largely protected OPEC from the impact of world inflation."

Environmentalists misjudged Andrus

Some of the nation's largest environmental and wildlife preservation groups apparently don't think Cecil Andrus would be a good Secretary of the Interior in the Carter administration.

In a letter signed by such heavies as the Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth and Defenders of Wildlife, Andrus was left off the list of 11 men and women who the environmentalists thought they could support.

Perhaps Andrus wouldn't make a good secretary of the Interior.

But the basis on which his name was withheld from the list of acceptable candidates by the environmental interests is flimsy and only shows how uninformed Washington-based groups can be.

Andrus was dropped from the list of acceptable candidates primarily because wildlife groups didn't like his stand on predator control. Groups like the Defenders of Wildlife questioned the governor's support of coyote population reduction.

Most of the groups who opposed inclusion of Andrus' name on the list of possible secretary of Interior candidates have never met Idaho's governor. Most have never been to Idaho.

If these groups came West they would be hard pressed to say coyotes are on the verge of extinction. The coyote population fluctuates from year to year. Currently, the coyotes are on the upswing because of the good number of rodents available for them to eat.

Andrus hasn't said much about predator control. His office refers questions about predators to the Department of Fish and Game. Andrus yearly has decided to leave the predator issue up to the legislature and the ranchers, a politically astute move in Idaho.

But on other wildlife issues such as protection of Idaho's salmon and steelhead fisheries and rebuilding the state's big game herds, Andrus has taken an active role.

In addition, he is one of the state's most vocal supporters of expanded wilderness areas to provide a better habitat for game and fowl.

On other issues which relate to the Secretary of Interior's job, Andrus consistently has maintained a reasonable balance between environmental interests and other interests.

He's supported a national park in part of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area, while at the same time recognizing the need to allow lumbering in additional forests.

Andrus opposed the coal-fired Pioneer plant and endorsed a plan to give Idahoans a tax break on home insulation and alternative sources used for home heating.

In total, he's shown about the right kind of balance needed for the Secretary of Interior job. He's not a diehard opportunist nor is he an uncompromising environmentalist.

The Interior job requires a man who isn't strictly a preservationist. The western lands under jurisdiction of the Interior Department cannot remain untouched if this nation is to meet its energy needs. To utilize western coal, oil, and water will require some disturbance of the natural landscape.

Protecting ranchers' interests also will require some reasonable type of predator control.

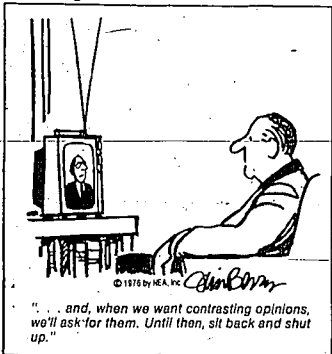

A man like Cecil Andrus can recognize the need for a balanced approach in management of western lands. He's done it in Idaho.

Certainly there are other men who share Andrus' vision of how the western lands should be managed. Tom McCall of Oregon is such a man, along with Dan Evans of Washington.

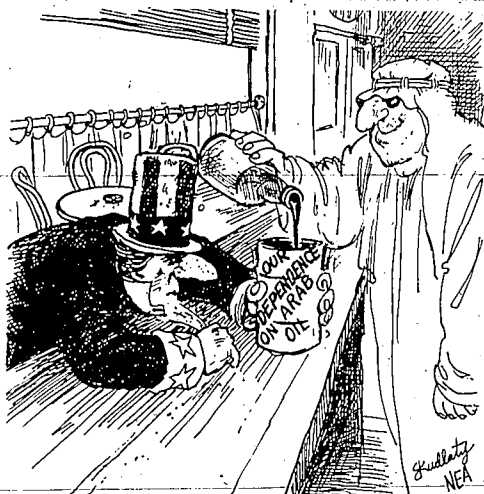

Both of these men were on the approved list of the environmentalists. But neither of these other former governors has done more for preservation of the environment in their states than Andrus has done in Idaho.

Andrus is a man who could do the job at the Department of Interior. It's unfortunate the nation's major environmental groups by-passed him when asked for recommendations on the most important environmental job in the nation.

Farmer's column challenged by newsman

Editor, Times-News:

A recent essay by Orval Hymas presented a case for rapid development of new land irrigation in Southern Idaho. It was a well-written article.

Some of the assumptions and conclusions, however, must be questioned.

First, it is suggested that the only way to save the Snake River from California diversion is to virtually dry it up. We must dry up the river to save it.

There is no imminent threat of diversion to the Southwest, as suggested by an engineering scheme in 1963. The cost of such a scheme would be extremely high, perhaps prohibitive. There are lower cost alternatives: better use of existing water in the Southwest; desalination of sea water, and more use of Northern California water.

Idaho can make an overwhelming case that there is no surplus water in the Snake River, now or in the future. There are conflicts over uses in Idaho, for power, for water quality, for irrigation.

The environmentalists castigated by Mr. Hymas would be in the forefront of the fight to prevent any such diversion. Environmentalists have helped call attention to the excess costs of many water projects, including Tejon Dam, Jimmy Carter, considered a friend of conservation and a foe of pork barrel public works projects, would be a likely opponent of diversion.

Proposals for extensive Carey Act or Desert Entry, development of new land pose two immediate problems.

1) They require the residents of southern Idaho to pay an enormous subsidy—in the form of higher power rates.

Testimony of Idaho Power Co. spokesmen indicated that water for the irrigation of 490,000 acres of new land would wipe out 2 1/2 billion kilowatt hours of generation per year from existing dams on the Snake River.

To make up that lost generation, and to pump the water on the land, would require the equivalent of a 500-megawatt coal or nuclear plant, which costs $400 million to build.

The PUC decision on Pioneer indicated that each 500-megawatt unit would cost at least $100 million per year in finance and operating costs. This means adding more than $100 million per year to southern Idaho electric bills. Each $100 million is equivalent to a six-cent addition to the statesales tax.

In other words, irrigating that much land would cost southern Idaho residents no less than the equivalent of adding six cents to the sales tax. The subsidy is approximately $800 per acre for each acre irrigated.

Existing farmers, who may be near the break-even point now, would pay much higher electric rates to subsidize the irrigation of new land—whose production would help hold down the price for the commodities they produce.

A free market approach to the irrigation of the new land would suggest that it be required to pay its way—the full cost of the new power supply. That would eliminate the subsidy.

So far none of the supporters of the rapid irrigation of new land has come forward to suggest that it should not be subsidized by all the residents of southern Idaho. Vern Rysenroff and others apparently support a doubling of electric rates to accommodate this development.

2) The second problem is the possibility of virtually drying up the Snake River at Murphy in low water years.

One way to avoid that, as Mr. Hymas suggests, is additional storage. Added storage in off-stream reservoirs would be particularly desirable. Let us not have dams that flood high-quality valleys.

The problem is that the cart is being put before the horse. Irrigation development is proceeding that can 1) greatly reduce the Snake River flow; 2) wipe out an important power generation resource; and 3) help double electric power rates.

It is proceeding without the off-stream storage that would make it possible to irrigate new land without depleting the river. Our water policies ought to support such off-stream development, together with the principle that new irrigation development should pay its own way.

Mr. Hymas suggested that environmentalists are "anti" because they oppose the Pioneer power plant. The primary reason that the people of three counties, voted, no was probably because building Pioneer would mean a 154 per cent rise in electric rates. The issue was not simply a coal plant and pollution, but a fantastic rate of expansion proposed by the power company (a 130 per cent increase in generating capacity in 10 years) and bi rate increases to pay for the expansion.

The additional dams suggested below Hells Canyon would not be worth building if the Snake's flow is to be seriously depleted. You have to have water to turn the generators. But the applicants who would have built the dams planned to market most of the power in Oregon and Washington, not in Idaho. The canyon would have been exported.

Figures were cited showing the loss of 40,000 acres of irrigated land in Idaho in recent years while population grew at 130,000. This means an average of a little more than three people per acre.

Since most of the people are settling in urban areas, we should be able to make better use of land. It shouldn't require 40,000 acres of farm land for every 130,000 people—with proper administration of local zoning.

Most environmentalists I know would like to see Idaho remain an agricultural state. It is not the environmental movement which threatens farmers so much as the high cost of running a farm, and the modest profits for farm commodities.

If you double existing farmers to pay doubled electric rates to help irrigate another 400,000 acres of land, thus holding down the prices they receive, you aren't helping the existing agricultural economy.

The Idaho legislature has so far refused to approve a law allowing the designation of a "minimum flow" to be maintained in the Snake. After all existing water rights are satisfied, a minimum flow would help protect the public's investment in existing power dams.

Eventually, as upstream storage was developed, additional land would be irrigated. But there would not be a sudden explosion of new land irrigation to push electric rates up and depress farm prices.

The legal designation of a minimum flow would also help protect the water from diversion. It would give formal, legal recognition to the fact that there is no surplus water in the Snake River for diversion to another state.

Zook-i-ness? the times remembered

TWIN FALLS — Going to high school is a lot like hitting yourself over the head with a hammer — it feels so good when it stops.

No one will convince me my three years of adolescent torture were really fun.

What's so fun about walking around school all day and then discovering at bedtime your pants had been ripped in the crotch for God knows how long?

How keen was it moving your desk up next to the teacher because you couldn't keep your mouth shut in English class?

Who wants to return to those thrilling days of yesterday when having fun meant downing a quart of homemade rot gut wine and dirtying up the front seat of dad's Buick?

The demented dreamer who said high school days are the best years of your life must have been an eighth grade dropout. He couldn't have lived through those blunder years and called them great.

But high school goes on and on. It's the one institution most Americans have in common. Even the rich and famous often remember high school with a grimace.

Dustin Hoffman had acne and braces.

Richard Nixon lost his bid for student body president.

All McGraw never had a date.

We've all gone through the grinder. Who hasn't been puffed up about wearing a letter sweater or felt deflated about not having one?

High school may be bad on our psyche but it's great for the manufacturers of Clearasil and Jade East aftershave.

You say you don't remember high school? You can't remember sneaking glances at the girl of your dreams who happened to be the superstar of 100 other dreamers, too?

C'mon.

How about those hours in front of the mirror trying to decide how to part your hair?

And the car.

Never has a 1961-51 Studebaker seemed so good except when your dad first pointed it out in the garage.

The radio button was already set on the rock 'n' roll station. The seats reclined. And those baby moonhubcaps were outslight.

Still don't remember anything about high school?

Then there's something you don't want to remember about high school. The pain must have been too much.

Maybe you didn't go to the prom. Maybe it was the braces. Maybe you were an outsider and didn't work on the Junior class float.

Is that what's troubling you about high school? Were you a creeper?

Ah-ha!

It's time we had a talk.

No sane human being should feel bad about being a greasball in high school. We all felt like greasballs at one time or another.

Even today, greasballs live on.

But the greasballs of yesterday are the zooks of today.

Zooks? It rhymes with dukes, or kooks.

If you are over 25 it's time to add a new word to your vocabulary when talking about high school.

Zooks are the turkeys and the nards of bygone classes.

At least that's the word from Jackie Rohweder's positive action and psychology classes at Twin Falls High School.

They told me about the zooks. They know some of these strange creatures.

According to the TFFHS students, zooks are the outlies, the ones who look like they have been living on a diet of Hershey bars and Coke for the last six months.

But the zooks aren't any one group.

The jocks think the hoods are zooks, the hoods think the jocks are zooks.

The quiet, studious types think everybody is a zook.

Eat differently, the zooks are the ones who don't fill in.

Filling in is all important in high school, remember?

A zook is a guy who wears a pair of double-knit slacks to school when everybody else is in jeans or cords.

A zook still has a flattop.

A zook doesn't go to the keg parties out in the South Hills.

Almost nobody escapes periods of zook-dom.

Earlier this year one Twin Falls High School kid put his head in his locker and got it stuck. He was a zook.

Another girl set a record for breaking test tubes in chemistry class. Zook all the way.

What causes zook-i-ness isn't clear at 17, but older folks should know what the problem is.

It's high school. Zook-i-ness lives in the teenage mind, along with hot cars and new threads.

Remember the zooks in the class of '68, or '87? They were there, just like today.

The zooks were all of us kids in grown-up bodies, stuck in a high school together, torn by a flood of new emotions, feebly wrestling with maturation and the first signs of adulthood.

Zook-i-ness was, and still is, a second infancy. We briefly turn into zooks on the way to becoming men and women.

High school is the zook breeding ground.

Just be thankful zook-i-ness isn't terminal.

There's no cure for being a zook, but it miraculously disappears a few years out of high school.

But almost everybody carries a scar or two from the experience.

'The Family Unit' draws criticism

Editor, Times-News:

As a family-oriented Christian, I was happy to see the insert in today's Times-News entitled "The Family Unit..." I already back President Ford and Governor Andrus in their efforts to proclaim this "National Family Week." My reason for being happy about the newspaper section, however, is not for reasons which you may think. As a non-Mormon who has lived a lifetime in Twin Falls, I am glad to see which merchants would sponsor such one-sided rubbish and now I know which businesses in the community to boycott. I have previously been guilty of patronizing several of them but I will now stop the practice and I hope others will also. I would also boycott the Times-News for allowing such to be printed, but since it is the only newspaper in the community, and thus has a monopoly, I will have to continue taking it if I wish to subscribe to a local paper. I have my own religion and I plan to keep it. I am tired of having Mormonism pushed down my throat. The last time my family stayed here for an evening together, we were rudely interrupted by two very insistent, very pushy Mormon Missionaries who came calling. Religion is a private matter and should be kept such... even in Southern Idaho.

T-N editorials blasted

Editor, Times-News:

Now that the mud has stopped flying and the public has decided to return George Hansen to Congress for another term, I would like to reflect for a moment on the Times-News editorial coverage of this congressional election. My comments will be limited to your editorials of October 27 and October 31, 1976.

The major point of the October 27 editorial is that the news media is not trying to ruin George Hansen; but the rhetorically defensive nature of the editorial immediately calls into question this major point. If the media is "clean" why do you stumble over yourselves in this editorial in a rush to defend your clientalism?

George's tax returns are called in this editorial "private" and then "legitimate news"; you say that reporters must not assume the "worst without proof, but they 'sense' that something is wrong; reporters must not bully, but they must pursue the truth "unhindered." I do not know what journalists call this kind of writing, but political philosophers, like myself, call it "polluted rhetoric" — or, to use the more common term, BALONEY. But baloney has certainly come to be an accepted form of journalism, so your first editorial, though morally questionable, is probably professionally acceptable (and this acceptability is surely in itself an indictment of today's news media).

However, the news media must be held morally responsible for its lies, even if it is not presently responsible for its rhetoric; and surely the editorial of October 31 in which you endorse Stan Kress moves beyond the realm of baloney and approaches the realm of lying. Let us examine this second editorial point by point and determine in which realms the reasons you used in making your decision in favor of Kress rest.

1. You claim your decision is made with "some reservations". The editorial four days before was obviously a calculated move on your part to "prepare" the readers for your "heart-wrenching" decision.

2. You claim that in the past Mr. Hansen's voting record "deserved the voters' support," but this same record now makes his voice "ineffective". What do you take your readers for — mental incompetents? This is a glaring contradiction, and very poor political rhetoric. It is obviously your view of Mr. Hansen that has changed — not Mr. Hansen.

3. You claim that George Hansen is: a) not honest, b) lacks personal integrity, c) has little leadership quality.

What has George ever been dishonest about? Was his campaign financing in 1974? No, he was found not guilty of any intentional crime. In what way does George lack personal integrity? Is it because he failed to make public his income tax reports? No, even you said in the October 27 editorial that this was a personal matter; and besides, there is no evidence of any illegal activity. The third claim, that George Hansen has few leadership qualities, is patently absurd — How do you explain his popularity with Idahoans for over a decade?

4. You claim that Mr. Hansen has shown an "inability to avoid personal and public misconduct." Mr. Hansen has only been accused of public misconduct once, and this accusation was asserted by the infamous whore-monger — Wayne Hays. Are you claiming that a "Wayne Hays" is capable of determining criteria for public conduct? Furthermore, as far as I know, Mr. Hansen has never been accused of private misconduct. (Unless you are implying that there is something wrong in his taxes — but how could you possibly know that unless you have broken the law and examined Mr. Hansen's personal records?)

5. You assert that Mr. Hansen's stature in Congress is "minimal". Mr. Hansen is coordinating a national spot OSHA drive which is supported by a number of conservative organizations, including the prestigious American Conservative Union. He is also currently formulating plans to mount similar drives against HEW and other federal monstrosities. He is the ranking minority member on an important banking sub-committee. Even the Intellectual National Review calls Idaho "enviable" because it has Mr. Hansen in Congress.

6. Your defense of Stan Kress in the editorial is equally ridiculous — especially your juggling of percentages in which you claim only 30 per cent of Kress' money came from big labor. You surely know that nearly 60 per cent of Kress' money came from either labor or labor associated special interest groups — a not too subtle twisting of the truth on your part. I thought you people were supposed to be honest about these kind of things.

7. Your editorial concludes by saying there is a need to restore integrity and leadership to Idaho's second congressional district office. My reply is that all you did in your editorials was try to make this appear to be the case; and my own opinion, having watched carefully the development of the media's treatment of this campaign, is that integrity and leadership are missing in a place other than Congressman Hansen's office.

Stamp use not excessive

Editor, Times-News:

According to Poverty in Idaho, a 1975 report to the Governor by the Department of Health & Welfare, only 18 per cent of the estimated number of persons who are eligible for food stamps in this eight-county region (Region V) were actually receiving the stamps. This figure means many Magic Valley residents old and young, are nutritionally deprived, and it is in sharp contrast with Northern Idaho. Participation rates for Regions I and II are 53 per cent and 41 per cent, respectively.

One reason for this difference is the failure by the regional Health & Welfare office to competently execute a legally mandated outreach program.

The main reason, however, is intimidation. Food Stamp recipients here are too often hassled in many little ways by grocery clerks and other customers. I am optimistic that these problems will dissolve culturally with time as the outdated American work ethic dissolves. The food stamp program is necessary because our economy simply does not provide a fair distribution of wealth without it, no matter how hard one is willing to work.

BEN MCKELWAY
Twin Falls.

But the intimidation that bothers me the most is the kind I hear from the very administrators who are paid to supposedly help the underprivileged. Dennis McDermott, Health & Welfare director for this region, has made public statements that some parts of the food stamp program are "not conducive to the way we live here, to what we want to do here" (reported by the Times-News September 22). I don't know if this statement means Mr. McDermott has plans to block the enforcement of specific food stamp regulations or not, but even if it is just rhetoric the remark was an awful thing to hear from a man in his position.

And Scott Cunningham, regional head of administrative services for Health & Welfare, has publicly boasted that the department underexpend its 1975 budget in this region by $70,000. I am not convinced this is something to be proud of. How many people could have been helped with that $70,000? We shouldn't forget the people who are eligible for food stamps but don't know how the program works or, out of fear or embarrassment, do not apply. What did they eat in 1975? Cake, perhaps.

Volvo meets test

So it appears that any cries from the American automobile manufacturers that they cannot meet the standards that have been mandated by the people is hogwash. The truth seems to be that while Volvo and Engelhard Industries were hard at work trying to meet the requirements of the act, the big four were spending their time and putting their money into fighting, rather than complying.

I think it is about time that American car manufacturers begin to show some social responsibility by producing an automobile that will help reduce air pollution. I suggest you write your senators and representative and encourage them to recommit the nation to the goal of producing clean cars. Volvo has demonstrated that the Clean Air Act of 1970 is both a desirable and workable law.

Prayer for today

Thank you, God, for the gift of life.

By giving us life, you've given us the chance to see the beauty all around us, to hear the sound of loved voices, to feel the warmth of the sun and the cool evening breeze. You've given us minds with which to learn and understand.

With life, you've given us the ability to love and be loved. Best of all, with our gift of life, you have given us the capacity to worship and find joy in fellowship with you.

Help us, by our lives, to show the depth of our gratitude. —Uletta Martin

Las Vegas benefit show straight off movie script

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — "I'm dreaming of a White Christmas." Bing Crosby crooned. "Just like the one I used to know... where the children glisten and tretoops listen..."

With those words, even though slightly transposed, the 77-year-old legendary singer brought down the house with cheers and applause Friday night, his first—and maybe his last—appearance in Las Vegas, an appearance that could have been taken straight from the pages of a Hollywood musical.

Consider the plot: A Catholic priest comes to Las Vegas to find he has been given a parish, but no church. So "Father Ben" talks the owner of a country-western bar on the poor side of town into letting him hold Sunday services there.

But the owner of the bar is finding money, so he changes the format to feature topless dancers.

Each Sunday, the topless dancers go out and the stained glass windows and alter go up as the go-go joint is transformed for a day into the Holy Family Catholic Church.

Fired of conducting service amid "the rancid fumes of beer drinking and topless dancers," the Rev. Ben Franzinelli sets out to raise $750,000 to build a real church.

"I know, we'll put on our own show," the script might have read.

But this is no Hollywood musical. The plot is real and recently Frank Sinatra and Crosby agreed to put on benefit performances to help build the church.

Crosby, appearing before some 6,000 persons at the Aladdin Hotel Friday night, raised more than $75,000 for the church—and Sinatra, scheduled to perform here Jan. 5, was expected to put even more into "Father Ben's" collection box.

Backed up by his wife, Kathryn, three children, and Rosemary Clooney, Crosby performed for 2½ hours, singing a medley of tunes ranging from "Sweet Lullaby," "Old Cowhand from the Rio Grande" and "Blue Skies" to his all-time hit, "White Christmas."

He drew repeated applause and a standing ovation at the conclusion.

Crosby, famed for his movie roles as a young priest in "Going My Way" and "Bells of St. Mary's," is himself Catholic.

"From one holy family to another, thanks for the help," said Father Franzinelli to the Crosbys at the end of the concert. Then the priest led the audience singing the finale, "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands."

Pen return not likely for man, 91

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Johnson Van Dyke Grigsby, 91, may be free after more than 67 years in prison, an Indiana parole official said Saturday.

"I'll not be back. I feel like I've been born again," Grigsby declared when he left the prison Wednesday.

At that time, officials said it was only a Thanksgiving holiday leave to see if his new home would work out. But Grigsby may have been right.

Indianapolis' area Parole District Supervisor Howard T. Tyler said Saturday that he has recommended Grigsby never be returned to prison.

"I doubt seriously if he'll go back," Tyler said. The official decision by his superiors likely will come Monday, he said.

Health reasons and a good adjustment to outside life were cited as the reasons for the extension.

Posing leads her from bank to modeling

LONDON (UPI) — Shama Katkar, 25, a Bank of England investment adviser, was fired for posing nude for a girls magazine.

Miss Katkar apparently thought the Bank's decision reasonable because now she's looking for "other modeling jobs."

But would other employers have reacted in the same way? The Daily Mail newspaper polled other businesses to find out what they would have done.

Marks and Spencer's Department Store: "Our directors are very broad-minded. If they knew one of our girls was posing for magazines, I'm pretty sure they'd make arrangements to visit her branch quickly."

Barclays Bank: "Imagine the cashier who serves you at lunch time and takes her clothes off for you at night. I don't know what action we'd take, but we wouldn't like it. The bank's permission is required before any member of the staff takes another job which involves remuneration."

Tesco Supermarkets: "What our girls do after work is entirely their own business and jolly good luck to them: The only snag is that if one of our checkout girls could earn good money as a stripper, she'd probably give up checking out and then where would we be?"

SHAMLA KATKAR ... new career

Salvation Army: "Girls who wished to do that sort of thing would have left years before. We take vows."

Midlands Region Nursing Office: "As long as the public reads such magazines there will always be a demand for pretty girls to pose for pictures. And nurses are as pretty as any."

Post Office: "We have no blanket coverage policy. If you'll forgive the pun, if it was felt that the girl was bringing the Post Office into disrepute, the case would be examined."

Miss Katkar was paid $50 for the nine-picture magazine layout.

The Bank of England did not discover the pictures of Miss Katkar happened to be looking at that issue of the magazine.

Offers flooding in

SOUTHGATE, Mich. (UPI) — Wyandotte General Hospital officials said Saturday they have been flooded with calls asking adoption information for a baby boy found Tuesday in a Salvation Army donation collection box.

"I can't begin to tell you how many calls we've had about adoption, but we just refer them to social services. We haven't named it yet, but the nurses just love it," a hospital spokesman said.

The infant was found by three workers unloading the suburban Detroit shopping center "dump box." After heaving a paper bag into their truck and hearing a squeal, they found the baby wrapped in a blanket and stuffed into a paper bag.

Police said the child had been in the box about 24 hours and donated apparel piled on the grocery bag probably saved the infant from fatal exposure in subfreezing temperatures.

On bail, Patty confined amid luxury

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst is out on bail, but the 22-year-old newspaper heiress is almost a prisoner in a luxury apartment atop Nob Hill, with the tantalizing sight of San Francisco fanning out below her window.

As changing cable cars lapped with tourists lurch up Powell Street near her high rise sanctuary protected by a force of bodyguards, it seems likely that cranks and former radical underground associates also may be watching and waiting.

Miss Hearst, 22, convicted of robbing a bank with the Symbionese Liberation Army that kidnaped her almost three years ago, is getting "used to death" threats and is steadfastly attempting a life with some semblance of normalcy because she has no place to hide, a family spokesman says.

She was released Nov. 12 on $125 million and still faces trial in Los Angeles Jan. 10 on charges stemming from a shooting incident with SLA members William and Emily Harris.

Her family reportedly is paying more than $700 a day for her private bodyguards. She has the luxury that can be provided by her parents, with whom U.S. District Judge William Orrick Jr. ordered she must live pending appeal of her conviction.

The family can offer her other residences than the Nob Hill apartment, including a castle on a 66,000-acre estate at Wynnton near the California-Oregon border. But a source conceded that her movements may well be under constant scrutiny by cranks and enemies, so the idea of a "hideaway" is virtually out of the question.

Her lawyers say she has "no place to run," and one of her attorneys, Albert Johnson, said she "will not run away" from fear.

She tested her situation last Monday night when, three days after her release on bail, she walked across the street from the family apartment, with Johnson and bodyguards, to the famous penthouse cocktail lounge in the Mark Hopkins Hotel, the Top of the Mark, for an after-dinner drink.

She was barely there when the hotel began receiving bomb threat calls from a gruff-voiced man who said he belonged to the SLA. Miss Hearst and her party returned to the apartment, but those close to her say she will make—and perhaps already has made—other public outings.

But her movements and protection are shrouded in the utmost secrecy. An executive of the Mark Hopkins Hotel, where security was increased after her visit, said the newspaper heiress "security is really incredible. We understand they're working in witness in other government cases, but her security arrangements have been made by her family on a strictly private basis.

U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr., who prosecuted Miss Hearst, said no federal marshals are involved in her protection. He said he knows nothing about the private security arrangements and does not want to be so that his office is not responsible if something goes awry.

Johnson will not discuss the size of Miss Hearst's protective force. But according to Police Department spokesman Michael O'Toole, "The only way she could have more protection would be if they ringed the building with a battalion of Marines."

According to Johnson, Miss Hearst is spending her time reading, cooking, watching television and talking on the phone with friends and relatives.

One of her visitors reportedly has been her old school chum Trish Tobin, whose spiky, lapped jailhouse conversations with the heiress shortly after her capture were used effectively by Browning in his prosecution.

Miss Hearst, sentenced to seven years in prison, is eligible for parole in 14 months in the bank robbery case, but faces potentially sterner sentences if convicted in the Los Angeles trial, in which she faces charges of assault, robbery and kidnaping.

Fire wrecks town

BEILT, Mont. (UPI) — Acting Gov. BILL Christiansen declared a state of emergency Saturday in the farming town of Beilt, population 700, where mysterious explosions and fires injured 20 and left two persons missing.

Two 30,000-gallon propane tanks exploded Friday, and 27 cars of a 12-car Burlington Northern freight train derailed, destroying a farm cooperative grain elevator, a lumber yard, a newspaper office and at least 10 homes.

The heat was so intense it set fire to asphalt on the street.

The missing were believed working in the cooperative at the time of the explosion.

On Saturday investigators still did not know which occurred first — the first propane explosion or the train's derailment along the tracks.

Viet pleads innocent

BOISE (UPI) — A Vietnamese refugee charged with second degree murder of a woman who had reportedly rejected his marriage proposal pleaded not guilty Friday and said the shooting was an accident.

Binh Cong Pham, 26, Meridian, has been charged with the Oct. 3 shooting death of Phuong Nguyen, 25, near Boise home.

Boise Police said Pham was shot once in the chest with a .22-caliber rifle. Binh acknowledged bringing the rifle into the house.

Oneida candidate demands recount

MALAD, Idaho (UPI) — Jay Baker of Holbrook wants a recount of the three votes by which he lost to his opponent in the race for Oneida County Commissioner from District Three.

He has filed $200 with the Idaho Attorney General for a recount of the votes in Malad precincts two and three.

Baker received 843 votes in the general election earlier this month while his opponent, incumbent George Neal, had 845 votes.

Driest November?

BOISE (UPI) — This month is likely to be the driest November Idaho has had in more than 30 years, U.S. Weather Service meteorologist David Olsen said.

Olsen said a typical November in Boise records a mean 1.2 inches of precipitation, but this month only about .33 of an inch has fallen. The record low for November is .35 of an inch.

"It is not extremely unusual not to have snow in the valleys by this time, but it is relatively unusual for the mountains not to have recorded some snow," Olsen said.

Olsen said a high pressure ridge over the west has pushed the jet stream farther north than normal and "the normal moisture we would have gotten has been shunted over the top of the state."

There is no indication when the ridge will break up and allow storm clouds, Olsen said.

Solar home slated

BOISE (UPI) — A $7,000 Department of Housing and Urban Development grant to build a solar-heated home in Pocatello was announced today by Intermountain Gas Company in Boise.

Larry Lucason, manager of Solar Systems Sales for the HomeGuard division of Intermountain, said the grant is part of a $41 million program by HUD to encourage solar heating by "demonstrating its practicality."

Lucason said he not only was delighted with the award but also with HUD's commitment to the solar-assist concept.

This is the second of such grants, and in total represents a tenfold increase in the number of units to be built nationwide," he said.

"This will result in a larger stock of demonstration homes and clearly show the advantages of such a system which will lead to general acceptance of solar concept."

Lucason said HomeGuard would supply the entire solar heating plant from stock parts for the Pocatello solar home. He said other than the special routing of heat ducts and hot water piping, the house will be quite conventional, built to meet the present desire of home buyers.

McQuade resigns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry F. McQuade Jr., of Boise, Idaho, has resigned as deputy administrator for police development in the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the White House said today.

President Ford accepted the resignation and said no successor has been chosen. McQuade has been in the post since March 29.

Board due to get Gem vo-ed report

BOISE (UPI) — Results of a series of public hearings to determine whether current vocational education programs are meeting local training needs will be presented to the Idaho Board of Vocational Education Dec. 1 in Boise, it was announced Friday.

The Idaho Advisory Council on Vocational Education will review for the board public testimony gathered in hearings at Lewiston, Caldwell, Gooding, Burley, Coeur d'Alene and Pocatello.

Those sessions included discussion of whether local training needs are being met, whether the training is satisfactory and assessing problems local administrators face in providing vocational-technical education.

The December meeting also will include the financial needs of vocational education and total needs of education in Idaho. In addition it will discuss a proposal to support partial funding of university administrative costs from vocational education area school budgets, various approaches to make vocational education training more accessible to more people and a proposed integration of vocational education curriculum planning.

Naturopath appeals

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Dr. Roscoe A. Kellogg, a Nampa naturopath, is appealing his conviction of possessing herbicides, amobarbital and secobarbital.

Use of drugs contradicts the naturopathic creed that the body heals itself and Kellogg's attorney said Kellogg believes the capsules found in his roltop desk drawer had been planted there.

Kellogg was given a six-month suspended jail sentence, a $500 fine and two years probation after a jury in Third District Court convicted him on the drug possession charges.

Kennecott reopening smelter

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Federal Judge Roger Foley Friday granted Kennecott Copper Corp. a preliminary injunction against the Environmental Protection Agency in a dispute over emission controls at the McGill smelter.

Kennecott announced it will resume mining and concentrating operations in Eastern Nevada, and will be calling back about 600 employees out of more than 900 who had been laid off, many since February.

The injunction permits Kennecott to resume operations under a variance and regulatory amendments granted by the Nevada Environmental Division Oct. 1. Division General Manager Dean Kerr said just when smelter operations will resume depends upon available supplies of concentrates and manpower. About 300 smelter workers have been laid off since that phase of the operations was shut down Aug. 1.

Company officials said many employees had left town during the long layoff to find work elsewhere, and there was some doubt how soon the mine at Ruth and smelter at McGill could be started up. Some work had been done at the mine in the interim.

Gov. Mike O'Callaghan urged Kennecott to get workers back on the job as soon as possible.

The sooner Kennecott gets these men and women back to work, the better it will be for all concerned," he said. "The opportunity for them to work before Christmas would be a real blessing for Nevada."

Big farmers yield lands

CULIACAN, Mexico (UPI) — Outgoing President Luis Echeverria was credited Saturday with persuading big landowners to surrender 29,309 acres to landless peasants in northern Mexico, averting a possible bloody confrontation on the eve of the inauguration of his successor.

The agreement was announced Friday by Gov. Alfonso Calderon of Sinaloa state shortly before a 5 p.m. deadline by 20,000 peasants who said they would occupy 195,300 acres in this rich Pacific coast area. Many were standing by with trucks ready to move into the disputed lands.

Calderon said the agreement did not mean the peasants would not get the additional land they demanded. But he said this would be decided by the courts.

A hearing on the issue is scheduled for Dec. 9 by federal district Judge Jose Galvan Rojas.

Associated press reports

In Mexico City said Echeverria had called Calderon and representatives of the landowners and peasants to the capital and suggested the owners immediately give up 29,309 acres to the peasants.

There was pressure on the government to avoid any violent confrontation between the peasants and landowners since foreign dignitaries have started to arrive for Wednesday's inauguration of President-elect Jose Lopez Portillo.

Last week the government expropriated 215,000 acres of farmland in Sonora, which borders Arizona, and distributed it to peasants.

Echeverria told newsmen Friday, saying the opening of an international bridge between Nuevo Laredo and Laredo, Tex., that the expropriation of the land in Sonora was legal. Asked why it was done during the last few days of his administration, he replied that the legal work took until then.

Thousands join Ulster peace march in London streets

Rally seeks end to N. Ireland violence

N. Y. Times Service
LONDON — Thousands of marchers, singing "We Shall Overcome," and "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," joined a mass rally in Trafalgar Square Saturday, urging an end to violence in Northern Ireland.

The heavily guarded march was the largest so far in Britain since the peace movement began in Northern Ireland three months ago, led by two Belfast women, Mrs. Betty Williams and Mrs. Mairead Corrigan.

"We have lived with violence for seven years and not one single life was worth it," Mrs. Corrigan told the rally. "We now say to the people outside Northern Ireland, the people of the world, we say look to Northern Ireland and never make our mistakes."

Nearly 15,000 persons attended the march and rally, many from Northern Ireland, the Irish Republic and Britain, as well as West Germany, Norway, Denmark, Holland and the United States. The aim of the march was to cement international support for the peace movement in Ulster and, for many of the scarchers, to show the British that numerous Roman Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland abhorred the terrorism in the province.

"We may not win but, by God, we'll give the terrorists a good fight," said Gloria Kirkwood, a Belfast stenographer, walking through Hyde Park with the demonstrators as marchers sang. "It's a Long Road to Tipperary."

PLO keeping weapons

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Palestine Liberation Organization, under pressure from Syria to curb its guerrilla operations in south Lebanon, is resisting an order for it to turn over its heavy weapons, Palestinian sources said Saturday.

The PLO declared the turnover to the Syrian-dominated Arab peacekeeping force of heavy weapons should apply only to the Muslim leftist and Christian rightist groups in Lebanon, the sources said.

The development came as Syria appeared to have arrived at a tacit understanding with Israel that a token Arab peacekeeping force could be sent to certain parts of south Lebanon if Syria curbed the operations of the Palestinian guerrillas.

But the PLO reportedly told Col. Ahmed Al Halj—military commander of the multinational Arab army in Lebanon—that the demand they give up their weapons would be a violation of the 1969 Cairo agreement governing the scope of Palestinian activities in Lebanon.

S. African cops, blacks in battle

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — South African police would not get the additional demonstrators Saturday in the first serious disorder since the nationwide bloody riots of last summer.

Police with truncheons flailing charged the black demonstrators, many of whom raised the anti-apartheid black power slogans.

"Are the whites the only people created by God?" asked one placard. Another said: "They killed more than 100 in the whole of South Africa."

Official police figures put the total deaths in last summer's rioting at 376.

Saturday's confrontations were the first serious demonstrations since summer's riots, which were the first since the white-ruled apartheid system.

Six uniformed policemen confronted the marchers after they brought Saturday rush traffic to a halt on Burg street, across from a downtown square in this harbor city.

Police jumped from a truck and charged into the shouting blacks, truncheons swinging. The demonstrators scattered into side streets but about 20 regrouped in a residential street, the main white shopping area.

A white motorcyclist sped into the group but the blacks dodged the vehicle. Blacks riding in buses cheered the demonstrators with more black power salutes. The group swelled to about 60.

More placards appeared: "To hell with Bantu (African) education," and "We want majority rule."

When the police approached the protesters a second time one black youth who was clubbed struck back at the policeman.

Game loss alarms Kenyans

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — The government is allowing foreign sportsmen to hunt illegally in Kenya's game reserves and vast herds are being wiped out, politicians alleged this week.

Charging that some of the world's last great wildlife herds are "faced with total extinction in about five years," legislators demanded establish an independent committee to probe the activities of the Ministry of Tourism and Wildlife.

Members of parliament said there were discrepancies in ivory export figures, foreigners were being encouraged to hunt illegally and that elephant, rhinoceros and lion were being wiped out by poachers.

Independent wildlife experts have warned that Kenya's elephant herds are endangered by large scale poaching, some of which was encouraged by powerful Kenyan figures.

The experts have warned the elephant herds will be wiped out within five years unless action is taken to stamp out the poaching.

Quake toll at least 35,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least 35,000 persons — and possibly two or three times that number — have died in earthquakes around the world this year, the U.S. Geological Survey reported Saturday.

USGS officials said the death toll makes 1970 the worst year for earthquakes since 1970, when 67,000 persons died in quakes in Turkey and Peru, and perhaps the worst in more than 50 years.

A spokesman said the 35,000 figure included a preliminary count of 3,500 fatalities from Wednesday's earthquake in Turkey. Turkish officials reported Saturday they confirmed toll had risen to 4,000 and might reach 7,000.

The USGS said its worldwide count was far from complete.

No official fatality reports have been received from significant earthquakes that occurred in July and August in China and in April and May in the Soviet Union, the agency said.

In addition, it said, the count did not include any deaths from a June 25 earthquake in which agency officials believe up to 6,000 persons may have perished in western New Guinea.

Opposition organizing to reforms

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Leftist and middle-right political forces made plans Saturday to organize opposition to next month's referendum on parliamentary reform.

Representatives of the leftwing Democratic Coordination alliance met with public relations specialists to decide on slogans for their campaign to convince Spaniards to abstain from Dec. 15 vote.

In the referendum voters will indicate whether or not they want the one-party state of the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco to be replaced by the government's plan for a multiparty parliamentary system based on universal suffrage.

Much of the opposition argues that the people did not participate in the elaboration of the new plan and that it does not guarantee democracy.

Buildup completed

TEL-AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israeli military reinforcements, including mobile anti-aircraft artillery capable of hitting targets up to 15 miles away, have completed their deployment along the frontier with Lebanon, the state radio reported Saturday.

The unusually highly publicized military buildup was carried out despite reports of a Syrian agreement to restrain Palestinian guerrillas from resuming attacks from southern Lebanon against the Jewish state.

According to the Israel radio, the reinforcements now include self-propelled long-range artillery. Military sources said they can fire shells against targets along the Litani River, believed to be the Israeli-set limit for hostile Arab forces. The state television had previously shown films of tank and armor units in position at key points in the border area.

The radio report indicated the military buildup was unlikely to call off the partisan alert for some time.

Despite Israeli efforts to sustain tension over the southern Lebanon issue, Western diplomats excluded the possibility of an immediate Israeli-Syrian confrontation.

Despite help, co-op nears failure

Markiewicz said co-op members have decided to commission an audit of the co-op's records to obtain an accurate assessment of the financial position of the co-op. She said the members also decided not to release any financial information until accurate information was available.

A brief history of the co-op partially answers how the co-op lost $15,000 and how it qualified for federal funds.

The co-op began as a gardening club in April, 1974. A group of low-income people traded produce throughout the summer and then decided to form a buying club. In August, 1975, the group was incorporated as a non-profit organization and applied for a resale license.

The co-op applied to the SCCAA for a federal grant.

The co-op received a grant of $10,000 in early 1974 through the SCCAA under Office of Economic Opportunity, now the Community Services Agency (CSA), programs designed to assist low-income individuals improve their standard of living.

The SCCAA administered the grant money, approving and funding co-op expenditures which furthered progress toward the goals in the co-op's application for the grant.

The co-op's stated goals were to provide low-cost nutritional food to senior citizens, to increase membership especially among low-income families, and senior citizens, and to provide means of generating capital for a store and eventual self-sufficiency.

According to Viste, the unstated goals were to provide low-income persons, senior citizens and welfare recipients a chance to better their material conditions through their own efforts, thus, in theory, achieving greater stability and motivation to become involved in active participation in the community.

The co-op initially met with some economic success.

Part of the first grant was used to purchase equipment necessary to operate the store. $3,000 was invested in a bean farm and $2,000 was invested in an egg farm.

Thacker says in 1974 the co-op sold $9,000 worth of beans from its 15-acre farm, realizing a profit of $4,500 on the investment.

For the $5,000 invested in the egg farm (which was operated by one of the members and continues to be profitable to this day) the co-op received 9,000 dozen eggs, according to Thacker, the last of which were delivered this fall. The eggs were sold to co-op members at prices substantially lower than those charged in commercial food outlets, and the co-op thereby recovered its investment in the farm.

In 1975 the co-op invested in the bean farm again, Thacker said, but bean prices were down that year and the co-op made only about $100 profit on the investment.

The food buying and selling operation, on the other hand, has operated in the red since it began, Thacker said.

The co-op never made good enough wholesale buying connections to be profitable, he explained. The co-op often found the wholesale case rates it had to pay for canned goods were higher than the per can cost of the same goods on the shelf at Safeway.

Thacker said competitive prices could have been obtained if the co-op's buying volume had been $100,000 a year (the minimum amount necessary to buy through the Independent Grocers Association), but the co-op's total purchases rarely exceeded $2,000 a month.

The store also lost money through spoilage, spillage and undercharging, Thacker added.

He said so much money was lost on spoilage that the co-op finally decided not to handle perishables at all.

Because turnover among participants in the store was so great, and because so much of the labor was on a very limited part-time basis, Thacker claimed, many of the volunteers were often unaware of the right prices to charge for the goods they sold.

He also maintains there was not enough control over the labor among workers in the store, and no established accounting system. "An accountant was hired to set up a system, and then no one followed it," he said.

Accounting problems were intensified when, in 1975, a second outlet was opened in Burley with part of a second federal grant received through the SCCAA that year.

During 1975, $4,860 of the second grant of $10,900, was used to rent a building and provide an inventory for the Burley outlet.

A store manager was hired near the end of 1975 to help solve the co-op's problems. Grace Crawford was paid $92 per week to operate the Twin Falls store and keep records for both the Twin Falls and Burley stores.

According to Thacker, however, it was never possible to "reconcile the amount of commodities sent to Burley with the amount taken in at Burley," nor was there any "reconciliation of purchases with inventory in Twin Falls."

Crawford worked full-time for the co-op until late in the summer of 1976.

Crawford said sales during the time she worked averaged from $1,800 to $2,500 a month, although the store was open five days a week. Since the co-op makes approximately $50 on every $1,000 of merchandise sold (a mark-up of five percent), income from the store was not even sufficient to pay her salary.

Despite the co-op's past losses and current economic crisis, Viste feels the government's investment in the co-op was reasonable and worthwhile.

The co-op was funded through a program which was intended to help low-income persons help themselves, and Viste feels the co-op program achieved those goals.

Viste maintains people became involved in the co-op who would otherwise never have had any exposure to operating a business, government operations, or any form of involvement in community action.

She says the co-op program was valuable as a learning experience for the people involved. She feels the money spent per individual participant in the program was not excessive "when you consider that college costs $3,000 a year."

She claims the experience also provided motivation for many of the people involved to better their material condition. She says that at least a few of the people who were totally dependent on the welfare system when they first became involved with the co-op are now well on their way to becoming self-supporting.

As further evidence of the positive effects of the co-op experience, Viste said $3,277 of the second grant was never spent by the co-op.

Viste maintains that helping people become contributing, active members of the community is a worthwhile government investment.

Currently the co-op has no ties with the SCCAA, Viste says, however, if the group continues to be comprised primarily of low-income people and senior citizens, "we will maintain interest," she added.

The SCCAA "will require a financial statement on CSA funds from the co-op," she said.

"IT WAS love at first sight," said Glen D. Post, 105, of his new bride Velma Marie, 28. They were married Friday by a Columbus, Ohio, municipal court judge minutes after receiving their license and having the five day waiting period waived. (UPI)

Taped plea likely

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The fiancée of a condemned killer Gary Gilmore, may send her lover a recorded plea from the State Mental Hospital that he be exempted from the nine-day hunger strike, his son said Saturday.

"They're going to try to make a tape of her voice and let him hear it," said Mrs. Vern Damico. She said Dr. Roger Kiger, director of the mental hospital, had agreed to the plan.

Gilmore again refused food in his isolation cell at the Utah State Prison Saturday in protest of the official wall of silence between him and Mrs. Gilmore, a 29-year-old divorcee.

Hospital officials have refused to let him telephone her, refused to accept bouquets of flowers Gilmore has sent and refused to discuss her status.

Reactor station sailor demoted

The charge was of disobedience of a direct order.

Williams was transferred to San Francisco later, but no link has been established between his reported actions and the transfer.

The Navy official said, "We feel the reactor was safe for operation, that no explosion or runaway was possible. We also feel the young man in question should consider what would be the outcome if he were in charge of a reactor aboard ship, and that ship was out of commission. Would he refuse to ignite a reactor under these circumstances?"

Rep. Hansen said he would look into the matter closely this week, contacting other members of Congress, and let the public know if a Congressional inquiry is underway.

Reactors at the testing station are considered safe, with a runaway explosion "a thousand to one against this ever happening," the Navy official said.

The reactors there are monitored 24 hours a day, and, according to officials, have various safety devices on each of them.

Nuclear reactors contain elements which can be controlled by experts. Nuclear fission, the atom bomb, is when the atoms split, causing a chain reaction resulting in an atomic explosion.

Nuclear fusion, or the basis of the hydrogen bomb, is controlled by a reaction of elements such as hydrogen, helium and tritium, which are reduced in mass.

In both cases, matter is turned into energy. The result is a gigantic blast. In the atom bomb, "an explosion," and the hydrogen bomb, an explosion.

The latter is considered far more powerful because matter is drawn to the center of the blast rather than blown away.

Navy officials also said Williams was being trained in operation near the epicenter of Wednesday's quake, which measured 7.6 on the open-ended Richter scale.

Rescue officials said strong winds, blizzards, landslides and temperatures from 22 degrees down to 14 degrees hampered any rescue attempts which still had not reached dozens of remote villages in the quake zone near the Soviet and Iranian frontiers.

A number of nations besides the United States were sending in such aid as blankets, heatable tents, gasoline and medicine.

Britain was sending 5,000 blankets, Saudi Arabia pledged $5 million, West Germany was dispatching tents, heaters and medicine worth more than $400,000.

Turk quake death toll may hit 7,000

VAN, Turkey (UPI) — The death toll from Turkey's worst earthquake in nearly 40 years may reach 7,000 when rescue workers finally are able to count casualties in villages cut off by landslides and a blizzard, Turkish newspapers said Saturday.

Burhan Yavuz, deputy governor of Van province, announced that more than 4,000 persons were confirmed dead.

Officials at a makeshift aid and rescue headquarters in Van said an estimated 1,200 persons were seriously injured, at least 20,000 homeless, and 60 mudbrick villages confirmed destroyed.

Relief officials said a fleet of 25 U.S. C-130 turboprop transport planes began delivering relief supplies to Incirlik airbase in southern Turkey Friday night. Other planes hauled the supplies to Van for trucking into the devastated areas.

Another seven U.S. C-130s were maintaining an air bridge from Pisa, Italy, directly to Van, located on the eastern shore of Lake Van.

More than 500 of those killed were from the town of Muradiye, where only three buildings were left standing.

Other hard-hit towns included Caldiran, Isdiyadin and Erzurum, all near the epicenter of Wednesday's quake, which measured 7.6 on the open-ended Richter scale.

Rescue officials said strong winds, blizzards, landslides and temperatures from 22 degrees down to 14 degrees hampered any rescue attempts which still had not reached dozens of remote villages in the quake zone near the Soviet and Iranian frontiers.

TF tax assessment figures show rise

The total assessed valuation of the county is now $12.42 million, compared to $70.78 million last year, a major increase for one year's time, Lancaster said.

In 1982, all counties of the state must be assessing property at a rate of 20 percent of true value. Assessor Ron Taylor said if the one-half of one per cent increase is made each year, Twin Falls County will come out at the existing 20 per cent on the given deadline.

In past years only about one-quarter of one per cent increase was being made to keep the ratio low "as long as possible for the benefit of county residents."

Lancaster said because of the increased growth and other factors raising the county's total assessed valuation figure this year, it has been possible to lower the levies for nearly all taxing units of the county. This trend will probably continue, Lancaster said, as long as growth and the percentage figure continue to climb.

Lancaster said some property values were established many years ago resulting in properties being under-assessed for years. In the revaluation program, he said, efforts were made to establish the market value of the property at as true a level as possible to keep the tax burden more fair to all county property owners.

As a result, some property owners who have been under-assessed for a number of years may find this year's tax bill has increased considerably.

Land deeded to God

BLACKVILLE, S.C. (UPI) — There's an acre of land deeded to God near this little South Carolina community.

"The land has 'healing springs' and 'there are some people who believe that water can do everything but walk,'" said the Rev. Robert Frederick, whose Baptist church is 150 yards down a wooded road from the springs.

"Late," Boylston, the last private owner of the land on which the springs are located, deeded the land to God in 1944. He said he was turning over "the most precious piece of earth I ever owned ... to be used by the sick and afflicted."

WINTER PARK, Colo. — It used to be that whenever snowmaking machines were suggested for this lofty Rocky Mountain state's ski areas that such a notion would be met with smug indifference. Colorado, with its heavy wintry storms, it was felt, needed snow machines the way tropics needed heating systems.

But those days are gone forever. Million dollar snow making plants are now functioning at two ski centers — Winter Park and Keystone — while nine other resorts in the state have snow manufacturing facilities. They range from token ones — for patching up purposes — to sizable ones.

Winter Park, located just west of the Continental Divide's Berthoud Pass, introduced snow making at a cost of $1.2 million only last month. The innovation proved instantly popular, particularly since Colorado's resorts, this fall, had received only slight help from the heavens. As of Wednesday, ski centers not equipped with snowmakers, remained closed.

"Our snow machines are the greatest thing to happen to us since we brought in our first chairlift 14 years ago," said Steve Bradley, the former Dartmouth College four-event star, who has been Winter

Park's director since 1950. "Now we don't have to wait for winter. In years to come, we'll be able to offer skiing with reasonable certainty by mid-November."

Lulls at such major resorts as Aspen, Crested Butte, Vail, Steamboat Springs and Breckenridge, among others, have been idle. In contrast, upsy rides at Eldora, Keystone, Winter Park and Loveland have been playing host to sizable crowds. What's made the difference? Man-made snow.

"I can recall one season when we were open only 22 days," said Joe Fox, who manages Eldora, located at the city of Boulder's back door.

USC edges Irish

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Vince Evans and Rob Hertel each passed for touchdowns and Glen Walker kicked a 46-yard field goal as No. 2-ranked Southern California defeated No. 11 Notre Dame 17-13 Saturday in the regular season finale for both bowl-bound teams. Evans and-split end Randy Simmrin teamed on a 63-yard scoring pass on the fourth play of the second half which put the Rose Bowl-bound Trojans ahead 14-0. Notre Dame sophomore quarterback Rusty Lisch scored on a one-yard keeper with four seconds remaining, but the Irish's two-point conversion attempt by Al Hunter failed. It was USC's 10th victory in a row after six opening season losses to Missouri while the Irish finish their schedule with an 8-3 record. Hertel, Evans' backup, was sent into the game to put some zip into the Trojans' offense in the second quarter. He passed six yards to Shelton Diggs for a touchdown 31 seconds before intermission. Walker kicked his longest field goal of the season to put USC ahead 17-7 with 7:47 remaining. The Trojans, who beat UCLA last weekend to win the Pacific-8 conference, intercepted three Notre Dame passes and recovered two fumbles. Lisch had two aerials picked off and lost a fumble. A Los Angeles Coliseum crowd of 76,561 watched the Irish, headed for the Gator Bowl, get back into the game when they scored their first touchdown with 51 seconds gone in the final quarter. Lisch, who took over for Rick Slager in the second quarter, and Vargas Ferguson combined on a 17-yard scoring pass to make it 14-7. In his final game as a Trojan at the Coliseum, All-America tailback Ricky Bell needed 127 yards to pass former Trojan Anthony Davis and become the greatest career rusher in Pac-8 history. But Notre Dame's tough defense held him to 75 yards in 21 carries. With both regular fullbacks Most Tatuqo and Dave Farmer sidelined by injuries, the Trojans were forced to use Bell at fullback during part of the game. Freshman Charles White played at tailback on those occasions. Four of Notre Dame's turnovers came in the opening half. Fumbles by Hunter and Lisch capped Notre Dame drives that reached the USC 14 and 25 in the second quarter. USC, which had just one first-down in its first seven possessions, marched 67 yards in 10 plays for its first score. Hertel completed five passes in the drive, including a 27-yarder to tight end William Gay, for 61 of the 67 yards. After receiving the opening second half kickoff, the Trojans took the ball to their own 37 in three plays. Under heavy pressure, Evans rolled to his right and fired a strike down the sidelines to Simmrin, who made the reception on the 25 and scored the second USC touchdown. USC will face No. 3-ranked Michigan at Pasadena on New Year's Day while Notre Dame will Penn State at Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 27.

ISU drops opener

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Brigham Young held Idaho State's seven-foot center Steve Hayes to just one field goal on the way to a 102-64 win in the first basketball game of the season for both teams Friday night. Hayes, a two-time all-Big Sky Conference pick, got in foul trouble early and was held to just seven points before fouling out. Jay Cheesman also picked up three early fouls against Hayes but finished the night with 21 points. Mark Hardy was high for the game with 25 points for the Cougars. ISU jumped out to an 8-0 lead in the first three minutes but two minutes later the Western Athletic Conference Cougars tied it at 10-10 and never trailed again. Handy's 16 first half points sparked the Cougars to a 52-38 intermission lead. Coach Frank Arnold played all 13 Cougars with only Veryl Layu fouling to score. Also in double figures for BYU were Vern Thompson with 14 and Vance Law with 17. Yugoslavian transplant Misho Ostarevic hit for eight while getting used to American college rules. For Idaho State, Brand Robinson hit 18 from the forward slot. Ed Thompson hit 16 from the guardline and Scott Gould added 10 backcourt points. ISU set a school record by committing 36 fouls.

Middies win fourth in row over Army

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Joe Gattuso, son of a former Middle Broer, scored three touchdowns Saturday to lead Navy to a 28-10 victory over Army and its fourth straight triumph in the traditional service academy rivalry. The 20-year-old Gattuso, whose father, Joe, was the leading rusher for Navy in 1953 and 1954, scored on runs of two, 20, and one and had over 125 yards rushing in the game in which Navy scored 17 points in the third quarter to turn the nationally televised contest into a rout. With his proud father, a teammate of Navy Coach George Welch, among the 77,612 in the stands for the 77th renewal of the rivalry, Gattuso scored on a two-yard burst in the first quarter. That climaxed a 51-yard drive in which Gattuso, a junior, had 32 yards. The Middies were ahead 14-10 when they took the second half kickoff and marched 75 yards on seven plays in a drive that ended when Gattuso burst through tackle for a 29-yard touchdown run to make give Navy a 21-10 lead. The next time the midshipmen got their hands on the ball, they marched in for another score with Gattuso going over from the one. "He's doing real well today," Gattuso's father, the outstanding player in the 1955 Sugar Bowl, calmly remarked while watching his son play. The victory was the fourth straight over Army for Welch and enabled the Middies to retain possession of the Commander-in-Chief's trophy, symbolic of football supremacy among the three major service academies. It was the third loss in a row for Army Coach Homer Smith. Navy finished with a 4-8 record, including three straight wins after sophomore Bob Leszczynski was inserted as quarterback. Leszczynski threw two touchdown passes in Saturday's game.

Looking for daylight

NOTRE DAME'S Al Hunter runs for a short gain on this play against USC. Hunter became the first back in Notre Dame history to gain over 1,000 yards in one season. USC, however, won the game and kept alive their chances for a national championship. USC, 10-1, will face Michigan, 10-1, in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

Sloppy CSI wins over icy Bobcats

TWIN FALLS — The CSI Golden Eagles put on one of the least impressive performances by a CSI team in a long time, but still scored an easy 90-61 victory over a cold-shooting Central Oregon Community College team. The game was tied only once, 2-2, and from there CSI steadily built up their lead. At the half, CSI led by 14, 38-24, and the second half was more of the same. The players from both teams seemed to spend more time shooting free throws than actually playing, as 52 fouls were committed in the game, 21 by the Golden Eagles and 31 by the Central Oregon Bobcats. Coach Goyd Grant said after the game that his team's performance was one of the poorest home-court showings by any CSI team he has coached. Grant said, "If the opposition had shot better in the first half, we'd have been in trouble." CSI was outboxed in the first half 21-10 by the Bobcats, and only the Cats inability to pit the ball in the hoop allowed CSI to build up a lead. Central Oregon continually got open for good shots but could not convert them. CSI, on the other hand, abandoned their pattern offense and were just coming down the court and shooting without looking for the open man. But the Eagles shot well enough to slowly build up their lead over the icy Cats.

Mont. St. advances

BOZEMAN, Mont. (UPI) — The Montana State Bobcats withstood a last-quarter rally to defeat New Hampshire 17-16 Saturday in a first round NCAA Division II football playoff. A missed extra point following the final Wildcat touchdown was the deciding margin. The Bobcats, with a seemingly safe 17-3 lead early in the fourth quarter, saw quarterback Jeff Allen of the Wildcats fill the air with football in the final 12 minutes. Allen guided his team to two touchdowns within five minutes and kept the New Hampshire team in contention until the final 30 seconds. MSU, after a scoreless first quarter, got on the board first on a one-yard sneak by quarterback Paul Demmy. The touch-down was set up by a 26-yard pass from Demmy to Len Kelly and a 29 yard run by Kelly. Moments later the Bobcats cashed in on a fumble recovery when Tom Kostbra dashed 40 yards to set up a 21-yard field goal by Jeff Muri. The Wildcats got on the board shortly before the half on an 18-yard field goal by Sam

Tate wins, US boxers lose

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — John Tate, America's representative at the Montreal Olympics, reversed a TKO loss to Russian Evgeny Gorskov Saturday but the Soviet Union notched a 6-4 victory over the United States in an all-heavyweight boxing card. Knocked down in the second round, Tate, a 156-162 pounder at Cincinnati last year, rallied in the third round and repeatedly stung the Soviet fighter with right hands to earn a unanimous decision. The other U.S. winners included Louisville's Greg Page, whose style is similar to heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali. Page won on a decision over Viktor Terechenko.

Antonio Martin led the Eagles with 20 points, and Kim Goetz added 16. Central Oregon was led by Webb with 14, Grozback with 12, and Jeff Enman pipped for 11 before fouling out with 6:30 to play in the game. Two of the Bobcats fouled out, Enman and Don Haynes, and two others, Webb and Grozback, picked up four fouls apiece. Antonio Martin and Scott Labrum both committed four fouls for CSI, and Kim Goetz and Oscar Sprulli had three fouls each. The Eagles, now 4-0 on the year, will go against Columbia Basin Junior College on Dec. 2 at the CSI gym.

LSU crushes Utah

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Senior tailback Terry Robiskie scored two touchdowns and set a Louisiana State career scoring record in a 35-7 win over Utah Saturday night. Robiskie, who earlier this year set a school record for career rushing, broke the 165-point record set by Doug Moreau in 1963-65 when he scored on a one-yard plunge on the first play of the second quarter to tie the score 7-7. That touchdown gave Robiskie 170 points. His second touchdown came midway in the third quarter on a nine-yard run. Robiskie ended his college career with 2,515 yards rushing and 176 points. The victory gave LSU a 6-4-1 mark. Utah ended the season with a 4-7 record. Utah scored first late in the initial quarter on a one-yard run by fullback Mike Moseley that capped a 76-yard drive in nine plays. The drive, engineered by quarterback Pat Degan, took less than three minutes during which Utah was never forced into a third-down situation. Degan threw 30 times and completed 18 with two interceptions for 199 yards, the most this year against LSU's third-ranked pass defense. The Tigers held previous opponents to an average 79.8 yards per game passing. But Utah never put together a solid ground game on the wet, rain-swept field. Sophomore tailback Charles Alexander scored the go-ahead touchdown on a six-yard run in the second quarter that came five plays after linebacker John Strecte recovered a Steve Peate fumble on the Utah 24. Alexander, the Tigers' leading ground gainer of the night with 142 yards in 22 carries, scored again in the third period on a one-yard run capping a 36-yard drive set up by another recovered fumble. Safety Jackie Casanova recovered a fumble by Dan Derbits on Utah's first play after receiving a Mike Conway kickoff. Tiger fullback Thad Minaldil accounted for the Tigers' other touchdown on a seven-yard run. Minaldil was the first LSU fullback to score this season.

N. Carolina upset

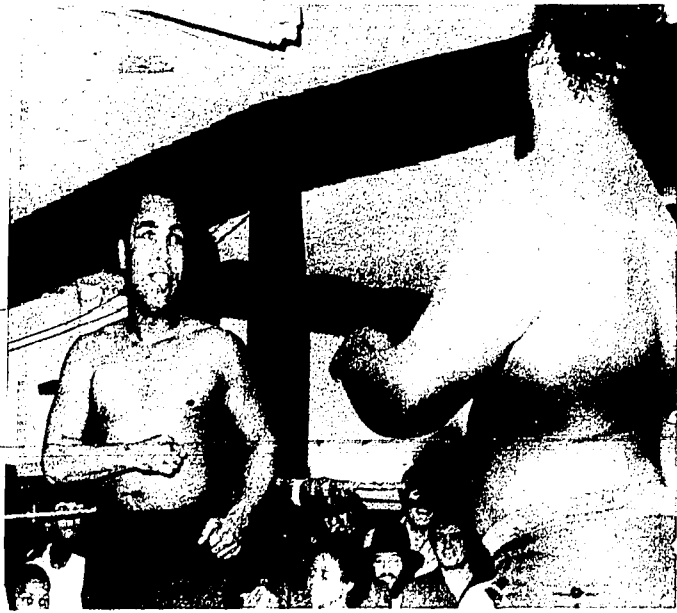

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Senior guard Tate Armstrong scored 23 points and sophomore guard Jim Spankoff added 21 Saturday night to lead Duke to an 81-82 upset of 14th-ranked North Carolina State in the consolation game of the Big Four Tournament. Third-ranked North Carolina met defending Big Four champion Wake Forest in the second game Saturday night to decide the tournament championship. The Wolfpack beat a chance to send the game into overtime when forward Kenny Carr came down with a rebound and passed it off to guard Al Green, who missed a five foot jumper as the buzzer sounded. The contest was a see-saw battle in the first half, and Duke led 44-42 when the teams went to the locker room at the half. The Wolfpack led 70-64 with 10:18 remaining in the game. But Carr, who led the scoring with 25 points, went out for about four minutes late in the game, and Duke built up an eight point lead 80-72 with 5:37 to go. The Wolfpack came to within one point, 83-82, with 1:03 left, but was never able to recapture the lead. Armstrong went to the line on a 1-1 with six seconds left in the game, but hit only the first shot to set Carr's rebound.

ND faces Mont. St.

RICHMOND, Ky. (UPI) — Freshman quarterback Steve Campbell scored on a three-yard run and Canadian soccer-style kicker Mike McTeague booted a 39-yard field goal to give North Dakota State a 10-7 victory over Eastern Kentucky in the NCAA Division II first round playoffs Saturday as the Bisons survived three Eastern threats in the closing minutes. North Dakota State, the champion of the North Central Conference, advances to the Grantland Rice Bowl semifinals next Saturday against Montana State.

WAC may lose two teams

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The Arizona Board of Regents voted 7-2 Saturday to allow Arizona State University and the University of Arizona to seek entrance into the Pacific 8 Conference, and both schools indicated they would if a Pac 8 meeting in San Francisco on Dec. 14 produces a formal invitation.

Spokesmen for the two Arizona schools expressed confidence they would be extended an invitation. "After all, they asked us to go this far," said one, who requested anonymity.

The president of the University of Arizona, John Schaefer, said, "I am delighted with the Board of Regents' action, and I'm looking forward with anticipation to the university's becoming part of the Pac 8."

Others were not so enthusiastic.

Stan Bates, commissioner of the Western Athletic Conference, in which both Arizona schools now belong, said the WAC was disappointed.

"We've always hoped they wouldn't go," he said, but Bates added that it will be up to the Presidents' Council of the WAC to decide whether to let the two Arizona schools out of their conference commitments, running the next 5 to 10 years. An Arizona spokesman indicated the two schools would buy up their commitments, if need be, but hoped it wouldn't come to that.

The plan now is for Arizona and Arizona State to compete in football in a new Pac 10 starting with the 1978 season and in basketball with the 1979-79 season.

"Our lawyers have told us these are binding commitments," Bates insisted after being told the regents' decision. Bates said the WAC Council probably will call an emergency session to discuss the plan to reduce the WAC to six schools, but he said it probably would not be until after the Pac 8 decides on whether to admit the Arizona schools.

The Pac 8 meeting in San Francisco is to agree on issuing a formal invitation to Arizona and Arizona State. It would take a unanimous vote of the eight schools — Southern California, UCLA, Stanford, California, Oregon, Oregon State, Washington and Washington State — to invite and there is no guarantee all eight schools will approve. Reportedly, one school has not been in favor of inviting the two Arizona schools right from the start.

If the WAC holds to its scheduling agreements, even assuming the Pac 8 admitted the two Arizona schools, it could be years before either qualifies for a conference championship and a Rose Bowl bid.

"This (the WAC) is a growing conference, and I hope they'll give it some hard thought before leaving," Bates said.

One report has it that San Jose State, now in the PCAA, and Independent San Diego State have agreed between them to petition for WAC membership, and presumably they would take over the Arizona and Arizona State commitments.

While Arizona State has been lukewarm about bolting to the Pac 8, Arizona Athletic Director Dave Strack is enthusiastic about the proposed and hoped for move.

"I'm convinced it will enhance the growth of the athletic program, and I promise you we'll be a very competitive member of the conference," he said.

ASU's football team was ranked No. 2 last season after beating Nebraska in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe but has fallen on hard times this year with a 3-7 record going into Saturday night's game against Arizona, which had a 5-6 season going against ASU.

For ASU's Frank Kush, it was his first losing season since he took the head job nearly 18 years ago. He says it will be his last one no matter what. There are a number of people in the Pac 8 who are lukewarm at best about Kush joining their conference. Their complaint, reportedly, is over Kush's recruiting methods.

This year's Arizona State team includes 53 players from out-of-state, and many of these are from as far away as the Eastern Seaboard.

Denver rolls on

DENVER (UPI) — Guard David Thompson scored a game high 37 points and teammate Gus Gerard added 21 to lead the Denver Nuggets to a 122-113 victory over the Indiana Pacers Saturday.

High point man for the Pacers was guard Mike Flynn with 24 points — more than double his average. Billy Knight scored 21 for the Pacers and Dan Roundfield added 20 as Indiana, which led by one point at halftime, fell to 8-10.

Thompson and Gerard each tied season highs with their point totals. Dan Issel and Bobby Jones each had 20 points in the Nugget victory. Issel had 13 rebounds and Jones added 11 as the Nuggets dominated backboard play.

Atlanta wins

ATLANTA (UPI) — John Drew scored 22 points, 13 of them in the first quarter, to lead the Atlanta Hawks to a 109-94 victory over the Buffalo Braves in a National Basketball Association game Saturday night.

The start of the game was delayed an hour and a half due to the late arrival of the Hawks. Heavy fog at Atlanta's Hartsfield International Airport had forced the team to take a bus, which broke down en route to Atlanta.

Atlanta held a 14-5 lead with 8:16 left in the first quarter and then scored 11 straight points in about three minutes just before the end of the first period to take a 33-13. Buffalo closed to within 36-20 at the end of the quarter. Atlanta expanded its lead in the second quarter to 51-30, but Buffalo narrowed the lead to 59-42 at the half.

Buffalo's Bob McAdoo led all scorers with 23.

Atlanta is now 7-12 in the NBA's central division. Buffalo is 8-11.

North Carolina upset

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Wake Forest center Edward Skilton hit two free throws with one second remaining Saturday night to give Wake Forest its third straight Big Four Tournament championship with a 97-96 upset of 3rd-ranked North Carolina in overtime.

In the consolation game of the two-day tournament, Duke handed 14th-ranked North Carolina State an 84-82 upset.

Center Larry Harrison put the Deacons ahead 95-94 with five seconds remaining in the overtime and then Brown sank two free throws before North Carolina center Tommy Lagarde dunked the ball just as time ran out.

Wake Forest led most of the way before North Carolina tied the game 87-87 at the end of regulation time. North Carolina's Phil Ford lost the ball on a drive to the basket just as the buzzer sounded.

Jo Jo White leads

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boston's Jo Jo White scored a game-high 36 points and his backcourt partner Charlie Scott registered 25 to give the Celtics a 123-109 victory over the New York Knicks Saturday night.

Earl Monroe scored 31 points for the Knicks, while guard Ticky Burden had a season-high 21 points.

The Knicks played without Walt Frazier, Jim McMillian and Bill Bradley, all injured. Spencer Haywood left with a leg injury in the first period, but returned to the game later. John Havlicek, injured in the Celtics' game against Cleveland Friday night in Boston, also did not play.

The Celtics, trailing at halftime 61-48, got to within seven, 63-56, with nine and a half minutes remaining in the third quarter. But Boston ran up a 23-12 streak to ice the game with a 29-point lead, 88-68. In the spurt, White scored nine points in three minutes.

Suns take Sonics

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The Phoenix Suns scored 17 straight points during a 4-45 span in the fourth quarter to pull away from Seattle and score a 119-107 NBA victory over the SuperSonics Saturday night.

After trailing from the opening two minutes, at one time by 16 points, the Suns tied the score at 83 at the end of the third quarter. The score was tied three more times before the Suns broke from a 90-90 deadlock to a 105-90 lead with 6:13 remaining.

Six Suns scored in double figures, led by Paul Westphal with 25. Gar Heard had 21, Ricky Sobers 15, Curtis Perry 13 and Dick and Tom Van Arsdale 12 apiece.

Nets slip by Bucks

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Nate Archibald poured in 29 points to spark the New York Nets to a 97-91 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks Saturday night.

The loss was the ninth in a row for Milwaukee, which trailed 44-37 at the half.

With nine seconds left, Don Nelson, the Bucks' new head coach, drew two technical fouls, an automatic ejection.

New York led 54-53 with six minutes left in the third quarter, but scored eight straight points, four by John Williamson, to pull ahead 62-53.

The closest the Bucks could come after that was three points with about 35 seconds left.

Williamson scored 16 points and Rich Jones 15 for New York. Bob Dandridge paced the Bucks with 22, while Bryan Winters had 16.

Dandridge scored six points as Milwaukee jumped to a 21-16 first quarter lead.

Arizona in final

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — With nothing but pride left to salvage from this season, Arizona State closed its campaign by crushing arch rival Arizona 27-10 Saturday night.

An old Arizona nemesis, split end John Jefferson, ranged at will throughout the Wildcat secondary to pull the Sun Devils from a 7-0 deficit to a 13-7 lead at halftime.

Jefferson, whose impossible catch in the end zone last year kept Arizona out of the Fiesta Bowl and put the Devils in, caught eight passes for 121 yards. Nearly every reception was crucial.

The Sun Devils thus finished out a disappointing season with a 4-7 record and the world's largest supply of "We're No. 1" bumper stickers, acquired with high-hopes after last year's No. 2 ranking nationally.

Arizona, also with expectations of better things, finished at 5-6 with Coach Jim Young spending so many sleepless nights over injuries that he simply moved his bed to the Wildcat locker room.

Arizona scored its only touchdown on the game's opening drive behind freshman quarterback Jim Krohn, who mixed clutch passes with the running of fullback Dean Schock to guide an 80-yard march.

Tailback Allen Glasenapp scored from the 14 on a pitch-out.

Four third-down passes from Fred Mortensen to Jefferson for a total of 47 yards enabled the Devils to use up seven minutes on an 80-yard drive in the second quarter that tied the score.

N. Mich. tips Delaware

NEWARK, Del. (UPI) — Quarterback Steve Mariucci's 35-yard touchdown strike to Greg Grigsby keyed a 21-point Northern Michigan fourth quarter to beat Delaware, 29-17, Saturday and advance to the semi-finals of the NCAA Division II football championships.

Northern Michigan, defending Division II champion, plays Akron next Saturday in the Knute Rockne Bowl in Akron, Ohio. The winner advances to the national finals.

Northern Michigan, 11-1, trailed 17-14 midway through the fourth quarter when Grigsby left the Wildcat huddle. He lined up near his bench — just in bounds — and was ignored by the Blue Hens. At the snap, Grigsby broke down the sledlines and caught Mariucci's pass for the go-ahead score.

The Wildcats had closed within four points of the Hens earlier in the last quarter when Randy Aveyrey capped an 86-yard, 13-play drive with a 1-yard scoring drive.

Northern Michigan put the game out of reach when Joe Stemo intercepted a last minute Delaware pass on the Blue Hen 20. Three plays later, Reggie Webster scored his second touchdown on a 5-yard run.

Delaware, 8-3-1, jumped to a 10-0 first half lead on a 30-yard scoring pass from Jeff Komo to Craig Carroll and a 25-yard field goal by Hank Kliff.

The Blue Hens muffed several first half scoring tries when drives faltered on the Wildcat 31, 4 and 7 yard lines.

Denver U. loses

DENVER (UPI) — Senior guard Fred Anzures scored 15 of his game-high 23 points in the second half in helping Colorado State University to a 77-68 season-opening basket ball win Saturday over the University of Denver.

Anzures, who was 8 for 18 from the floor, was helped by 6-9 center Larry Paige with 20 points and eight rebounds.

Sophomore guard Jim Ranson had 16 points and sophomore forward Bob Heaton had 14 points and six rebounds for the Pioneers, who opened their season Friday with a 113-88 win over the College of Santa Fe.

DU hit 29 of 46 shots from the field for a 63 per cent average, but turnovers hurt the Pioneers. They committed 13 errors in the second half to the Ram's side.

The Pioneers saw a 23-15 lead midway through the first half dwindle to a 33-33 deficit at intermission. The Rams built their lead to 51-33 and DU never again was able to close the margin by less than four points.

ISU smashes Ohio

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Centers Steve Hayes and Stan Kios combined for 40 points and 22 rebounds Saturday night to lead Idaho State to a 97-63 win over Ohio Northern.

The visiting Polar Bears stayed close in the first half, trailing 21-13 with eight minutes to play, but Hayes, the 7-footer, got hot and slammed dunked the Bengals to a 44-23 halftime lead.

The senior pivotman sat out most of the second half but wound up with 22 points and 14 boards. He also blocked four shots. The 6-7 Kios came off the bench and hit 9 of 11 from the field in the final 13 minutes to finish the night with 18 points.

ONU was led by 6-5 forward Brad Longberry, who hit 20 points and brought down seven rebounds.

ISU took advantage of a 54-33 rebounding edge and an alert full court press which forced 20 Polar Bear turnovers. The Bengals came up with 17 individual steals, led by Ernie Wheeler with five.

Also in double figures for ISU was Greg Griffin with 12, Reese Whetsel had 11 and Mark Henschen 10 for the Isers.

Weber blasts BYU

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — The Weber State Wildcats got 58 points from their three new players and blasted Brigham Young 96-75 Saturday night to win their opening game of the basketball season.

Stan Mayhew, a junior college transfer from Trinidad, Colo., led all scorers with 24 points. Freshmen Bruce Collins and Mark Mattox hit 22 and 12, respectively. Center Jim Erickson added 15. Mayhew also pulled down a game high 15 rebounds.

Weber led by only two at halftime, 40-38, as Vance Law and Milho Ostarevic each hit 10 first half points. As the second half started, BYU's Jay Cheesman hit six of the Cougars' first eight points as BYU stayed close.

But Cheesman fouled out with nearly 12 minutes to play and from then on it was all Weber State. The Wildcats built a 27 point lead at one time and coasted to the win.

BYU committed 34 fouls and the Wildcats converted 32 times from the line to only 15 charity points for the Cougars. Weber also outrebounded BYU 47-33.

Top scorers for BYU were Vern Thompson with 14 and Ostarevic, Mark Handy and Vance Law, each with 12.

76ers lose

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Campy Russell equaled his season high of 25 points and Austin Carr added 19 Saturday night as the Cleveland Cavaliers led from the opening tipoff enroute to an 111-104 NBA victory over the Philadelphia 76ers before 19,548 fans.

With Carr and Russell combining for 19 points, the Cavs opened up a 33-22 first period lead and had a 36 point bulge with eight minutes left to play in the fourth period before both coaches cleared their benches.

The Cleveland bench outscored the Philadelphia reserves 33-20 during the first three periods but Fred Carter and Lloyd Free led a Philadelphia surge that outscored the Cavs 38-9 in the final eight minutes.

With 22 left in the game, the Cleveland starters returned to action and protected the Cavs' 14th victory in 18 outings this season.

Mont. St. loses opener

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — Ken Koenigs led a 21-0 first-half Kansas spurt that put the game out of reach in a 104-47 rout over Montana State in the season-opener for both teams Saturday night.

Montana State trailed 13-10 with 15:53 left in the first half when Kansas exploded for 21 straight points. During the blitz, Kansas held Montana State scoreless and Koenigs scored 12 of his 16 points in the opening period.

Kansas built a 57-36 half-time lead, shooting 50 per cent

Blazers win over Bullets

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Superb second-half shooting by Maurice Lucas and Bill Walton propelled the Portland Trail Blazers to their 11th straight home victory of the season Saturday night, a 103-95 decision over the Washington Bullets.

Lucas had a season high 30 points and 13 rebounds while Walton scored 26 points and pulled down 17 boards.

Phil Chenier led Washington with 25 points while rookie Mitch Kupchak added 19 points.

Walton and Lucas did the most damage in the second half. Portland had taken a 51-45 halftime edge after leading by 16 in the second period, but the Bullets came storming back and got within six after three quarters, 79-73.

Washington's momentum continued in the final period when they went ahead 87-85 with seven minutes remaining, but Lucas and Walton led the Blazers back into the lead which they never gave up.

Lucas was 8-8 from the floor in the second half and 14-20 for the game while Walton was 7-8 in the second half and 10-16 for the game.

Houston to Cotton

HOUSTON (UPI) — Junior ruffing back Alotis Blackwell and Dyral Thomas each rushed for more than 100 yards and combined to score five touchdowns Saturday, carrying seventh-ranked Houston into the Cotton Bowl with a 42-20 Southwest Conference win over Rice.

Houston, in its first year in the SWC with a football team, clinched at least a share of the conference championship with the win. Its eighth against Rice loses 3-1 for the season.

Houston overpowered the Owls despite allowing Rice quarterback Tommy Kramer to throw for 409 yards and three touchdowns.

Texas Tech can join Houston as co-champion with a victory over Baylor next weekend.

Houston, however, would hold on to the Cotton Bowl best because of the Cougars' 27-19 win over the Red Raiders.

Houston, stopped on its first offensive drive of the day, broke loose for 19 points in the final eight minutes of the first quarter. Blackwell, who rushed for 153 yards, scored touchdowns on runs of nine and two yards in that period and Houston added a safety on a blocked punt to Lennard Coplin's 41-yard field goal.

The Cougars scored early in the second quarter on Thomas' three-yard run before Rice got on the scoreboard on the first of their many trick plays.

Rice running back Joey Di Quinzio ran 62 yards for a touchdown with a Kramer pass after appearing to go off the field for a substitute and stopping just on the playing surface.

Thomas, who rushed for 110 yards, added his second touchdown on a seven-yard run 3:25 before halftime. The Cougars led at that point 33-6.

Oklahoma St. romps

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Oklahoma State running back Terry Miller fell short of the Big Eight season rushing record but did score three touchdowns and gained 110 yards to lead the Cowboys to 42-13 victory over Texas-El Paso Saturday.

Oklahoma State, a Big Eight tri-champion with Colorado and Oklahoma, broke out to a 21-3 halftime lead on touchdown runs of eight and 15 yards by Miller and a three-yard plunge by fullback Robert Turner.

The Cowboys, now 8-3 and bound for a Tangerine Bowl appearance against Brigham Young, added 21 more points in the second half.

Turner scored from four yards out, quarterback Charlie Weatherlie dashed in from the three and Miller had a 10-yard scoring run. Abby Daigle kicked all six extra points.

Miller, an All Big Eight selection for two years now, needed 233 yards to establish a new season yardage total. His 110 yards on 24 carries gave the Colorado Springs, Colo., junior 1,541 yards for the season.

Weatherlie, who had his best day as a rusher with 182 yards on 12 carries and was the game's leading ground gainer, engineered the powerful OSU ground game which amassed 388 yards. He also completed three of 10 passes for 59 yards.

UTEP rushed for 221 yards but was hindered by three lost fumbles and two interceptions.

The Miners got their points on field goals of 40 and 31 yards by Miguel Alvarez and a 13-yard run by Robert Elliott.

Tide routs Auburn

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Elusive Tony Nathan scored two touchdowns and ran for 141 yards Saturday to lead the Liberty Bowl-bound Alabama Crimson Tide to a 38-7 rout of puncheon Auburn.

Nathan, a speedy 201-pound sophomore, scored on a 14-yard run in the second period and a 10-yard run in the third as Alabama, headed for a Dec. 20 meeting with sixth-ranked UCLA in the Liberty Bowl, closed out regular season play with an 8-3 record.

Alabama, overcoming a bad case of the fumbles in the first half, got its other scores on a one-yard plunge by fullback Rick Watson, a 42-yard pass from quarterback Jeff Rutledge to Ozzie Newsome, an 11-yard run by Rutledge and Bucky Berrey's 47-yard field goal.

Auburn, ending Doug Barfield's rookie season as head coach with a 3-8 record, got its lone score on a one-yard dive by fullback Foster Christy late in the fourth quarter.

Alabama's rugged defense, which held Auburn to 138 yards passing and only 91 yards on the ground, was led by safety Murray Legg, who intercepted a pass, recovered a fumble and made several key tackles. The offense picked up 302 yards rushing and 139 passing.

The Crimson Tide wishbone attack spluttered most of the first half as Alabama coughed up three fumbles in the first quarter and one in the second period, but Auburn was unable to convert any of the turnovers into a score.

Legg, a sophomore, set up Alabama's initial score when he recovered a fumble by Joe Cribbs at the Trier 40.

Rutledge passed 12 and 17 yards to Thad Flanagan and Watson smashed over left tackle for the touchdown on a fourth-down play at the one-yard line.

Alabama struck for another score late in the first half on an 89-yard drive featuring a 42-yard halfback pass from Watson to Nathan. Nathan then went 14 yards around right end for the touchdown and it was 14-0 at intermission.

Auburn's Neil O'Donoghue missed three field goal attempts from 47, 32 and 29 yards in the first half.

Red Raiders win

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Quarterback Rodney Allison fired three touchdown passes and fullback Larry Isaacs scored once to lead 10th-ranked Texas Tech to a 30-7 victory over Arkansas Saturday to keep the Red Raiders' hopes alive for a share of the Southwest Conference title.

The Bluebonnet Bowl-bound Red Raiders only have to defeat Baylor next week to clinch a title share with Houston.

Allison, a smooth operating junior from Odessa, Tex., passed eight and 17 yards to Godfrey Turner and 27 yards to Billy Taylor. Isaacs dashed three yards for his touchdown. Brian Hall chipped in a 25-yard field goal.

Arkansas' only score came with 9:24 left in the game on a five-yard run by fullback Willie Farris that climaxed a 60-yard five-play Razorback drive. That was only the first time the Razorbacks had crossed midfield in the game.

The victory improved Tech's season record to 9-1 and to 6-1 in the conference. Arkansas dropped to 5-4 overall and to 3-3 in the SWC. Arkansas closes its season next week against Texas.

Allison moved Tech to a 7-0 lead with 3:16 left in the first quarter, climaxed an eight-play, 77-yard drive with an eight-yard toss to Turner. About midway in the second quarter Tech drove 56 yards in eight plays with the payoff coming on a 27-yard screen pass from Allison to Taylor.

Tech made it 17-0 just before halftime on Hallis' field goal, which came after Arkansas punter Steve Little dropped the snap on a punting attempt, giving the Red Raiders the ball on the Arkansas eight with 10 seconds remaining.

A fumble at the Arkansas two-yard line late in the first quarter cost the Red Raiders another scoring chance.

Rojas wins AAU cross-country

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Rick Rojas of Los Alamos, N.M., held off fast-closing Terry Cotton Saturday to win the National AAU Cross-Country Championship in the record time of 30:23.8 over the 10,000-meter Belmont Plateau course.

Rojas, representing the Colorado Track Club, took the lead about halfway through the race but had to sprint the last 800 meters to hold off Cotton, of the Jamal Toads club of San Diego, finished 10 yards behind in a time of 30:26.

Jeff Bradley of the Reading, Pa., Track Club finished third; Kirk Pfeifer of Jamal Toads was fourth and Barry Brown of the Florida Track Club was fifth.

Jamal Toads captured the team championship with 45 points. The Colorado Track Club finished second with 63.

The times of Rojas, Cotton and the 21-men finishing behind them all broke the course record of 30:58 set last week by Paul Stemmmer of the Miltany Valley (Pa.) Track Club. Stemmmer started fast Saturday but finished 36th.

Jackson ready to sign with Yankees

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UPI) — The New York Yankees have reached agreement with slugger Reggie Jackson and will sign him to a multi-year, $3 million contract within the next 72 hours. It was learned Saturday upon the best possible authority.

The 30-year-old Jackson, who played out his option with the Baltimore Orioles last season, will become the second free agent from the re-entry draft signed by the Yankees in the past two weeks at a total cost of $5 million. The Yankees signed ex-Cincinnati pitcher, Dan Gullett, to a $2 million, one-year contract on Nov. 18.

To get Jackson, the Yankees had to beat out the Montreal Expos, San Diego Padres and, surprisingly, the New York Mets. The Mets, who had taken a low key approach in the free agent bidding, were ready to make a very sizeable offer to Jackson comparable to that offered by the other clubs.

But, where all others failed, Babe Paul and George Steinbrenner succeeded, just as they did in getting Jim "Catfish" Hunter two years ago. The Yankees also were nearly successful in signing Andy Messersmith last spring before the deal fell through. Messersmith eventually signed with Atlanta.

Until a couple of days ago the Padres appeared to have the inside track on Jackson, but San Diego owner Fay Kroc lost his patience with Jackson's agent, Gary Walker, and gave up on signing the slugging outfielder.

Kroc said Jackson's agent revised aspects of his offer after the Padres had agreed to it. The Padres' owner also was angered at Walker's failure to return his telephone calls. After the Padres gave up on Jackson they turned their attention to relief pitcher Rollie Fingers and were successful in signing him.

Jackson, the fifth round pick of the Yankees in Nov. 1961, was the first annual free agent, will assume the club's long ball role which was noticeably missing when New York lost the World Series to the Cincinnati Reds in four games. The Yankees hit only one home run in the series.

Jackson batted .277 over 128 games last season after joining Baltimore in a blockbuster spring training trade which also sent Ken Holtzman and Bill Van Bommel to the Orioles for Don Baylor, Mike Torrez and Paul Mitchell. Jackson hit 27 home runs and knocked in 91 runs despite missing the entire month of April while haggling contract with the Orioles.

He joined Baltimore in May after receiving an extra $60,000 from the Orioles even though he still had not signed a contract. That caused a plethora of resentment by Baltimore players who were similarly playing out their options but without an increase in pay.

Jackson was the American League's most valuable player in 1973 when he led the league in home runs (33), RBIs (117) and runs (89) in directing the A's to the third of five straight Western Division titles while he was with the club.

The Wynote, Pa. native was signed by the then Kansas City A's out of Arizona State in 1966 and came to the Yankees in Oakland history as the club's all-time leader in home runs, extra base hits and slugging percentage.

Jackson thus joins former A's pitchers, Hunter and Ken Holtzman, on the Yankees, who won their first American League pennant in 12 years this season. Hunter was the original free agent and signed with the Yankees two years ago and Holtzman was acquired in a trade with the Baltimore Orioles last season.

Women invited to Crosby
 PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Another sportswoman came tumbling down Saturday when it was announced two women amateurs have been invited to play next January in the time-honored, 99-hole Bing Crosby Memorial Amateur Golf tournament. Tourney officials said they have invited Donna Horton, current U.S. Women's Amateur Champion, and Nancy Lopez, current Women's Western Amateur Champion, to play in the event Jan. 20-23.

No way to get off welfare

By MIKE ROYKO
CHICAGO—The lady at the employment agency was hoping mad.
 "This woman had come in looking for work. Let's call her Sue.
 Sue is 22, divorced, no job skills or work experience, a high school graduate. She has a 2-year-old child.
 That's not much on an employment background, but Sue seemed intelligent so the agency looked for something.
 "They found her a job at Foote, Cone & Belding, one of the city's top advertising agencies.
 The job was as a beginning clerk in the accounting department. She would start at $450 a month. After six months she would get a raise to $485 a month. At the end of her first year, she would go to $520 a month.
 In addition, she would receive free major medical insurance, a free life insurance policy, bonuses, and after one year she would be eligible for profit sharing of about $1,000 a year.
 Also, after one year, the ad agency would pay for her tuition if she wanted to go to night school to learn something that would help her advance in her job.
 Sue said she would take it. Her baby would be no problem because she lives rent free with a married sister who is home during the day.
 A couple of days ago, Sue was supposed to start work. She didn't show up. The lady at the employment agency called her home. That's when she got mad.
 "She told me that her welfare caseworker told her not to take the job, that it wasn't worth it because it didn't pay enough, that she should stay on ADC.
 "I was livid! They're not supposed to perpetuate lifelong dependency. I called the Loop ADC office and asked them what they do about things like this. Some man there said: 'Well, it's hard to control.'
 "I called the Roseland office, which handles her case, and they told me that I was wrong, because that's not what her records showed. When I told them that the records were wrong, they gave me some kind of incompetent minor rundown. They talk their own language, and it is impossible to understand them."
 "The counselor said that Sue told her that between her ADC check and food stamps and the $120 she gets each month from her ex-husband, and free medical care from welfare, she doesn't see any point in going.

 And, if she wants to go to school and learn to type or take shorthand, she can get that free, too.
 "I really don't know," the employment counselor said, "and her sister told me the same thing — that the caseworker told Sue to turn the job down."
 So I called Sue to ask her about it. At first she didn't want to talk. Then she denied that her caseworker had discouraged her from taking the job.
 "She didn't tell me to take it or not to take it. She told me I should do what was best for me. But when we figured it out, I decided that it would be ridiculous for me to work for that money."
 "By the time I pay my transportation to get downtown and back, I'm not doing any better than I am now, between my welfare check and food stamps.
 "Sure, they'll pay my tuition if I want to go to school at night. But not until I've worked a year. If I want to go to school now, welfare will pay for it.
 "As far as the free medical coverage goes, I get that now, too.
 "I mean, I wouldn't mind working. But not for that money. As I said, it's ridiculous."
 You would think that the people at the welfare office would encourage recipients to take jobs, even when the pay is "ridiculous."
 But it is difficult to understand just what the welfare workers do. This was how Sue's supervisory caseworker explained it — so help me:
 "The caseworker didn't tell her that (not to take the job). She told her she could go to work and go to school, too, but she had to do it through the WIN program."
 What is that?
 "The WIN incentive program. It's a federally funded employment program. In fact, the caseworker advised her to go ahead and work."
 If she advised her to work, what is this about the WIN program?
 "The WIN program refers people for jobs."
 But she already found a job. Does her job have to be approved by WIN?

"No, if she finds a job, she may take it. But she'd have to go through the WIN program for the job she wants to take."
 Huh?
 "The caseworker has to refer her through the WIN program." But if she has a job, why does she have to go through the WIN program?
 "I really don't know."
 Now, if you can figure that out, you could be a success in the field of welfare management.
 "I can't believe Sue. There's no point in working if somebody is willing to give you as much money as you'd earn on a job. And we are willing."
 But somewhere out there is this guy. Call him Charlie. He works every day in a factory and he always will. He pays his taxes. He wants to send his kid to college, but he can't afford it. His kid, however, can't get a scholarship because his father isn't poor enough.

 And it is this Charlie's taxes that are making their way through the bureaucracy and winding up being used to support Sue, so she doesn't have to take a "ridiculous" job. And to give her free schooling. He wants it.
 Charlie's neighbors taxes are being used to pay the salary of that incomprehensible supervisor at the welfare office.
 I guess this is social progress. In the old days, if Sue didn't want to work, she would have had to find herself a rich sugar daddy to pay the bill.
 So look at it this way, Charlie. You are not a downtrodden taxpayer. You are an honorary sugar daddy.

Baby born drunk
SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Dr. Sterling-Clarren said he could smell the alcohol on the breath of a baby he delivered last month.
 "The mother of the child was a heavy drinker," said Clarren, professor of medicine at the University of Washington. "And she continued to drink during pregnancy."
 Clarren, in Spokane recently for a conference on birth defects, said the child was born deformed and mentally retarded.
 "The child was not horrible looking. But it was something you would recognize," he said.
 Clarren said the child's eyes were small. His nose and cheekbones were flat. The child's growth was stunted — he weighed 14 lb under five pounds — and the joints got stuck. He couldn't move his fingers.
 "The problem was dubbed fetal alcohol syndrome by Dr. David Smith of the University of Washington in 1973. It occurs when a woman continues to drink heavily during pregnancy.
 "National statistics reported fetal alcohol syndrome occurred in one of every 4,000 births. Clarren said a new study at the University showed the incidence was closer to one of every 500 births.
 "Even at conservative estimates the syndrome is the third most prevalent cause of retardation," said Clarren.
 "Numbers one and two are Down's syndrome or mongolism and Spina Bifida, a defect in the spinal cord. Both are hereditary diseases.
 "Fetal alcohol syndrome is completely preventable," said Clarren.
 "It is a very common cause of retardation that would be wiped out if women wouldn't drink while they are pregnant, or would not have children if they want to drink."
 Clarren said alcohol destroys the early development of the fetus. He said the damage occurs by the first 60 days of pregnancy. But said there was no way of detecting it until after birth.

Overcome gravity?
BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Every now and then part-time inventor Richard Foster turns to his rotary motion converter and muses at the possibility of flight without jets, wings or propellers.
 "Thinking ahead you may not need a multi-story Saturn to get things into space," he said.
 Foster hesitates to apply the term "anti-gravity" to his patented idea, preferring to describe it as "converting rotary motion into unidirectional motion."
 "The gravity is still there but you are overcoming it," said Foster, a 55-year-old chemical engineer.
 The idea is to harness the equal and opposite forces of spinning gyroscopes forced out of their natural plane of rotation. The harnessed force then can be concentrated in any direction to provide locomotion.
 "It would be a third way to go," he said. "The other two are push-pull, or eject mass such as a jet or rocket."
 Foster has spent 14 years of part-time work developing the idea, getting help on model construction from a brother and a machinist nephew.

What the others are saying,
we've already demonstrated.
 • Better engine protection. • Increased fuel economy. • Better high-temperature performance. • Fast sub-zero starts. • Less oil consumption. • A cleaner engine. • 25,000-mile oil change.
 Too good to be true? No. Because thousands of AMS/OIL users have already experienced these extraordinary performance features. AMS/OIL was first to commercially market an SAE 10W-40 synthetic engine oil to meet API Classification SE, which means AMS/OIL can be used in any car. # The Green Thumb offers advice on nutty subject

By GEORGE ABRAHAM
WALNUT NOTES

This has been a good year for all kinds of nuts. Remove the husks as soon as possible and dry the nuts.

A black, slimy area on the husk is caused by the walnut husk fly larvae which have burrowed into the husk and released black flies that stain the shell. The maggots do not penetrate the hard shell of a walnut and lodge in the meat. But if the husk is left on the shell and moisture is present, the dye can work through the shell and discolor the nut meat.

Correct temperature is the most important point to remember in home drying of walnuts. As long as the temperature is not too severe almost any area around a furnace or heating place will satisfactorily dry walnuts. Best drying temperature is between 90 degrees to 100 degrees, never above 110 degrees.

High temperature will cause cracking of the shell and rancidity of the nut oil after the nuts are stored. Dry the nuts for 48 hours. Drying walnuts at too low a temperature where air is cool can result in moldy walnuts. Mold will grow fast on walnut nut meats when the temperature is too cool. Spread the nuts out in a thin layer on a tray near or over a furnace for a better product.

We feel drying should begin within 24 hours after walnuts fall. Most gardeners wait too long to dry them. Nuts can be dried in the shell or they can be shelled and then dried. Shelling them first will save drying time and heat.

Want to make your walnut shells nice and white like those in the stores? Then try bleaching them. Take a common household bleach and mix it with water at the rate of one quart to two and one-half gallons of water.

Make sure the walnut shells are thoroughly dry, then place into the bleach solution, gently stirring. Keep them in contact with the solution for three minutes. After this drain the walnuts, rinse with fresh water and place the nuts in an open tray to dry for 24 hours with air circulation.

Do not dry them in sunshine as this may split many of them. By the way, if you want stain-free hands, be sure to wear rubber gloves.

SELF-BLANCHING CAULIFLOWER

A good many readers took our advice last spring and raised a cauliflower called "Self-Blanche." It's unique in that you don't have to tie the jacket leaves over the heads to blanch them. When grown to mature in fall, its wrapper leaves curl over the heads automatically. The quality and texture are great.

ORCHIDS INDOORS

For some reason home gardeners like to challenge themselves and grow orchids indoors. No reason why you can't grow them, with a little proper care. There are over 24,000 species, with some growing on rocks, in tree limbs, tree trunks, or some on the ground.

Orchids make good house plants if you pay attention to the rooting medium (must have good drainage and aeration), high humidity, sufficient light and give a steady supply of water during periods of active growth.

Select orchids that need a 65-70 night temperature and a 70 to 85 degree day temperature. Best root-and-ready species include Cattleya, dendrobium, Epidendrum, Phalaenopsis and Vanda.

You can buy established flowering plants or you can start your own from seed. It takes four to eight years for orchids to bloom from time of seed germination. Growing media is important. Combinations of fir bark plus redwood bark and some coarse perlite are often used in place of osmundia fiber.

Osmundia is excellent for orchids but not readily available. Sunlight is needed for growth and flowering. A bright-south window is ideal. During summer plants may be put outside and given light shade. Fluorescent lighting can be used to supplement daylight during the fall and winter.

Some people are afraid to water orchids. We grow ours by drenching and allowing to dry a bit, and yet there are others who have good luck keeping the plants moist all the time. Either way works fine.

When it comes to feeding, many brands of water soluble fertilizers are used. We apply a 23-19-17 formula with water once every seven days to three weeks.

AFRICAN VIOLETS

Before repotting, allow plants to magic somewhat dry or limp. Then the leaves will not break. Do the same before separating a plant. Also be sure to turn your violets a little every time you water them. They grow toward the light and turning them every now and then will give them better shape, without producing lopsided plants.

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D.E. of Shoshone: "We saved seed from some of our vegetable plants. Will they come true if we plant them next year? We think vegetable seed is expensive."

True, vegetable seed is somewhat expensive, but when you realize the amount of labor that goes into production, it's still reasonable. They are still the cheapest item in gardening. Some seed can be saved, but never a hybrid.

When seeds of first generation hybrids are saved and planted, you get a shabby collection of plants with poor quality, yields that are low. If you like hybrid seed, leave it up to the plant breeders to produce it.

Even "open pollinated" or non-hybrid crops are tricky to save over. Each variety must be isolated to avoid "mixing." For example, a Crimson Giant radish cross pollinated with wild radishes will produce a long, narrow purple root which is inedible. The bees don't distinguish between the two.

There's also an insect and disease problem. Large vegetable seeds (beans, corn, etc) are easily infected with weevils and maggots which kill the embryo. If you collect seed from some fruiting vegetables there could be disease organisms inside the seed as well as on the surface. Also, unless vegetable seeds are harvested at the proper stage of maturity, they will have very low germination. Once harvested the seeds must be stored in ideal temperature and moisture conditions. The home gardener isn't equipped to do the job properly. So, unless you have something "real special," we think collecting your own seed is risky business.

W.S. of Buhl: "Please tell me what causes the leaves on our house plants (especially African Violets) to wilt."

Wilting can be due to many causes. Fertilizer excess, disease and insects, poor drainage, dry soil, to name a few. African violets will readily die due to damage to root hairs and tissues, as a result of poor drainage and disease.

Allowing the soil to go dry can damage some root hairs. As the plant wilts, the small pores (stomata) in the leaf close, greatly reducing water loss and allowing the plant to survive temporarily. With closed pores, food production is limited, since photosynthesis needs carbon dioxide which enters the leaf through the pores.

Wilting, therefore, reduces the plant's food supply, reduces cell enlargement, and growth and eventually puts an end to the plant's usefulness. So, try not to let African Violets get to the wilting stage. Keep the plants uniformly watered, but not overwatered.

GETTING into shape for a trip across Death Valley on roller skates, Linda Reingold, 27, Malibu, Calif., skates through Santa Monica, Calif., shopping mall. A supporter of President-elect Jimmy Carter, Miss Reingold promised voters she would roller skate through Death Valley if he were elected. She plans the trip for next week.

Burglar plays Goldilocks

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — It was almost like "Goldilocks and the Three Bears."

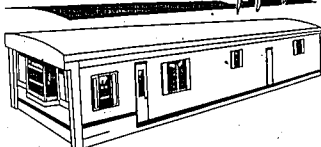

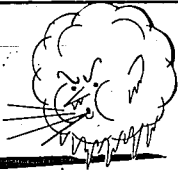

A Ross Township family returned home this week after a three day absence to find someone had been eating at their table.

They looked in the living room and it, too, had definitely been lived in. It was ransacked.

So they took a look in the bedroom and, sure enough, someone had been sleeping in the beds.

But unlike the fairy tale, the intruder was not caught fast asleep. The thief had made off with about $200 worth of luggage, clothing, liquor and other items.

Remedies for cat's stains and spot odors suggested

By LINDA MERRY DVM
Question: My problem comes from a has-been cat. We had a tom that started spraying the family room carpet and he must have soaked several spots before we discovered what he was doing. The cat is no longer a problem as he was sprung over and killed but his presence lingers on in that carpet.

Merry Pet

I've tried every home remedy and shampoo I know and nothing has helped for any longer than it takes the deodorant to wear off. Can you give me any advice before we bury the carpet beside the cat?

Answer: I can give you half a dozen more remedies to try but do try them on a scrap or sample of the carpet first. Cleaning agents vary in their acidity or basic properties. So do carpet dyes and a white spot on a red carpet won't be much more appealing to the eye than cat urine to the nose.

Little girl's dream

EVERY little girl likes to play with dolls, especially if there is a three-story doll house such as this one made by Joe and Patty Marshall. Three-year-old Shannon Kelly gets a preview by Patty Marshall of the doll house that will be sold during the Episcopal woman's Christmas fund raising event Dec. 3 and 4.

Holiday special

SPECIAL handmade gifts for little people and big people abound at the Episcopal Church storage room in preparation for the annual holiday country store and crafts sale of the Episcopal Women. Hara Frada Ward, general chairman, displays a tiny hand-embroidered shirt.

MV craftsmen to offer wares

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Several hundred items the man or woman who "has everything" is sure not to have will go on sale Dec. 3 and 4 in the Episcopal Church of the Ascension in Twin Falls.

Few people already have a two-foot-high hand-carved owl, complete in detail to the lines of every feather. Or maybe someone needs a gift item made of hand-carded and knitted wool. There will be numerous attractive and useful items for the home, such as wall plaques that can't be duplicated in any commercial shop.

All items are original and have been designed and made by the 20 to 30 artists and craftsmen who will be selling them in the annual two-day event sponsored by the Episcopal Women of Twin Falls.

The special sale will begin at 10 a.m. Friday and continue until 9 p.m. while Saturday hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the auditorium of the church on Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Parking is available at the church via Ash and Elm streets. The rear door of the church will take shoppers directly to the auditorium.

Freda Ward, chairman of the year's event, said some of the merchandise offered this year is being introduced for the first time.

"We have had lots of artists in the past, but we think this year's merchandise is the most outstanding and unique we have ever had," she said.

Each year prior to Christmas, the Episcopal Women offer artists and craftsmen of Magic Valley an opportunity to sell their handmade articles at their own price through the church's unusual bazaar.

Some 30 persons have rented table space for their articles, all being offered at reasonable prices. Items range from handmade quilts, pillows, rugs, clothing items to handmade wooden owls, ducks and picture frames.

Wall plaques made of toile painting, dried flowers and weeds, miniature figurines and oil paintings and many other items will be available for inspection and purchase.

There will even be a dog house and a doll house. The doll house is a three-story sturdy structure complete with opening doors, window boxes and a mansard roof. It was made by Joe and Patty Marshall and miniature furniture will be made by Larry and Judy Watson.

Virginia Westergren is making a large assortment of butterflies which are used for window hangings or to place in flower pots. The butterflies for window hangings are made of Lucite, cut on a special saw and colored to catch the light from any window. There are also flowers, birds and even a smiling sun in her collection.

Kenneth Henderson, Filer, who is well-known for his wood carvings of American eagles, is offering a large owl, hand-carved from poplar wood, a number of life-sized carved ducks and a number of other items.

Many other equally talented artists will be participating with everything from hand-knitted hats, scarves and sweaters to home canned jellies and jams.

The country store will feature cooked foods and antiques. There will be a hot lunch counter for the shoppers and many useful clothing items. Several hand-embroidered shirts and dresses for small children will be available.

Among the unusual items is a large denim cloth, lined with checkered gingham which holds paper plates, table service and the picnic lunch. It fits into a picnic bag and opens up to be a picnic tablecloth. Mary Ostrander made several of these along with other handmade items for the sale.

Prices are modest. One artist said she probably works for about 10 cents an hour, but each item is something the artist enjoyed making so the price is not important. Most of the craftsmen say their prices are designed to help them buy material for items they will make for next year's Episcopal sale.

Variety aplenty

HARD work and talent are combined by some 20 to 30 Magic Valley artists and craftsmen in preparing their special items for the Dec. 3 and 4 Episcopal Women's holiday sale. At right, Virginia Westergren makes one-of-a-kind window hangings from lucite as one of her many specialties.

Hand-carved wooden articles such as the owl at left and a walnut oasel have been prepared by Ken Henderson, left, and require some 50 hours each of labor, but Henderson says it is not work, but recreation. The owl and ducks are carved of poplar wood with burl providing a variegated pattern.

Other items offered during the two-day sale will include handmade Christmas wreaths, pillows, quilts, baby and children's clothes and even hand-carded and knitted woolen items. The event provides craftsmen who make various types of articles as a hobby an opportunity to sell them and gain a small profit. It also gives shoppers an opportunity to purchase something special for those on their Christmas lists.

TF business firms join program

TWIN FALLS — Twenty-one business firms and agencies in Twin Falls are cooperating with students of the Twin Falls High School in a special business occupation program.

Through the program students in business classes at the high school have an opportunity to attend classes one hour a day and put their training to practice during a four-hour-a-day office job.

Dorothy Pressley began the office occupations program in the school in the 1963-64 school year. Businesses joined the program with a desire to help the students reach an acquaintance with the real business world. Each year the program has grown in popularity by both students and business firms.

A highlight of the annual program is a banquet sponsored by the students to show their appreciation to the employers and supervisors who provide valuable training throughout the year.

Businesses cooperating this year include the Idaho First National Bank — both the main bank and Blue Lakes branch, Obenchain Insurance, Twin Falls City, Water Department, Social Security

Agency, Twin Falls County offices, Engineering and Construction Co., Twin Falls School District 411, Farm Home Administration, Bank Data Center, Twin Falls Clinic Hospital, Twin Falls Credit Bureau, Globe Realty, Amfac Electrical Supply Co., University of Idaho's Cooperative Extension Service, Paul Taber Insurance, Shane's Furniture, Gem State Paper, Idaho Bank and Trust, Cain's Furniture and Parry Robertson, Daly and Larson law offices.

Student officers of the business occupations program include Lori Snow, president; Suzy Moore, vice president; Jayne Devine, secretary; Roxie Rider, treasurer, and Pam Hillman, historian.

Hubby 'whips up' sandbox to save money

By ERMA BOMBECK

I saw our youngest, Bruce, digging in the shrubbery the other day with a soup spoon stuck in his hand. "Bruce needs a little sand-box."

I saw one in the toy department at Crooks for $12.88 with a little seat in each corner, a red and white fringed awning over it and a sand pail and a shovel.

My husband snatched a cheap little smile and said, "Surely, you're making mock. I can whip him up a sandbox for a fraction of that price."

The first night we drove 20 miles across town to a dump in search of a semi-truck tire. It cost $3.

The second night, we drove to the lumber yard for $5 worth of scraps to construct a platform to keep the semi-truck tire from killing the grass.

The third night after dinner was spent painting the platform and semi-truck tire with paint leading $2.50.

The next evening, we backed up the station wagon covered with $1.50 of wall-to-wall plastic and loaded up 300 pounds of white sand at $1.65 per hundred pounds.

Since the sand wasn't deep enough to write your name in, we returned the next night for another 300 pounds at $1.65 per hundred pounds.

The tire was still without shade, so we invested in a large beach umbrella ($5.95) and threw in a shovel and pail for $1.25.

Friday was a big night for us. The sandbox was finished.

Right after dinner, we took our coffee into the yard to see how Bruce was enjoying his Sandbox Hilton.

We tilted the umbrella and peeked into the semi spare tire. A cat had littered in it. We found Bruce sitting in the dirt digging in the shrubbery with a soup spoon.

Now, there are times when a wife knows she should keep her mouth shut and other times when it's worth the cost of a lawyer to open it.

"Let's see," I said. "$3 plus $5, plus $3.50, $9.50, $1.50, $5.95 and $1.25 comes to $30.10. What fraction is that of $12.88?"

I haven't seen that look on my husband's face since the Christmas Eve he assembled the tricycle and I asked him why he had a chain and three wing nuts left over.

Metric changeover confuses drinkers

© Chicago Daily News

CHICAGO — Half pint (small), Pint (medium), Fifth (regular), Quart (large), Half gallon (party size).

Got it? That's a big part of what the changeover to metric sizes in bottles of booze — soon to begin here — is all about.

Instead of a half pint, or eight ounces, one will ask for a small bottle, of 6.8 ounces, or 200 milliliters.

Customers will order a medium bottle, or 16.9 ounces, or 500 milliliters, instead of a pint, or 16 ounces.

"There already is a lot of confusion," said a spokesman for the Foremost Liquor Store chain. "It's even confusing for the stores."

But it really isn't. Ready for more?

Instead of a fifth, or 25.6 ounces you can ask for a regular bottle, or 25.4 ounces, or 750 milliliters.

You can ask for a large bottle, or 33.8 ounces, or one liter, instead of a quart, or 32 ounces.

And instead of a half gallon, or 64 ounces, you can ask for a party-size bottle, or 59.2 ounces, or 1.75 liters.

Best of all, there are a few weeks yet during which customers can consult the above information to memory before they will need to begin using it on trips to liquor stores.

"We don't expect to have anything in the metric sizes up to the first of the year," said Nick Lipnes, president of the Armanetti chain. "At that point, we'll probably begin being shipped the metric sizes."

And another piece of good news is that the changeover will be on a gradual basis. Charles W. Bryant, vice president of the Distilled Spirits Council of the U. S., headquartered in Washington, told the Chicago Daily News:

"Under federal regulations, the metric sizes became available on a voluntary basis beginning Oct. 1, 1976," he said. "They will be mandatory Jan. 1, 1980. You will be seeing more and more of them as time goes by."

Bryant said the new sizes were approved by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. In addition to the five sizes listed above, there is a sixth, but it is no problem at all.

Miniature, the size served on airlines, will still be called miniature. And, at 50 milliliters, it will contain exactly 1.7 ounces, as it does now.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M. D.

Dear Dr. Lamb —

I'm sure my husband or I need help. I have been married 34 years and my marriage is falling apart.

We argue over nothing. It is mostly about his brother, who had surgery. He always refers to 'my brother.' He acts like the sun rises and sets in him and his whole family! He even kisses the sister-in-law on the mouth when he sees her. He acts like she is so attractive and she doesn't look any better than I do.

Everything their children do is great. Everything our children do is wrong. I know you are going to say I'm jealous, but I have heard it so much I'm tired of it all.

I have always been able to cope with this until our sex life went to pot. And this isn't my fault. I enjoy sex! He is tired. He works too hard. He is impatient. He is in his late 50s. I have begged him to talk this over with his doctor. He says nothing is wrong. He takes Aldomet, Valium, water pills daily and aspirin.

He has a nasty disposition and sudden changes in personality. You never know what to expect. After our last argument I moved out of his bedroom, and I really think he is glad.

Marriage in trouble

Dear Reader —

You both need help. To begin with look at your letter to me again. You refer to "I have been married" and "my marriage." It is WE and OUR. That may have something to do with your relationship with your husband.

Your husband has high blood pressure problems, and that is why he is taking medicine. The medicines may control his blood pressure but decrease his sexual capacity. His high blood pressure and medicines may also have affected his personality.

You may be able to help him by improving his life style. You can help him lose any excess weight he has. A gradual loss of any fat around the middle or elsewhere may lower his blood pressure.

The best effect is obtained by getting rid of ALL the excess fat, not just part of it. That could decrease his need for medicines. Also eliminate any of the stimulating drinks that contain caffeine, such as coffee and tea. If you take an interest in his problem, help him with his diet and encourage enjoyable physical activity. It may improve his attitude toward you.

Because of your husband's medical problem I agree that he should talk over his loss of interest in sex with his doctor. It is not an unusual symptom, I think you both should try to see a marriage counselor, but he should be made aware of your husband's medical problems.

Nothing is so wrong between two people they are not likely to be compatible in the bedroom for long either. You can't fight all day and expect your husband to switch off his aroused feelings, and love you tenderly at night. In many ways most people get out of marriage exactly what they put into it.

Remember that your husband's brother and sister-in-law are no threat to him. With his decreased capacity, you as a wife are. You will need to develop a helpful attitude if you want to get your marriage back on the track and encourage him to treat all of you better.

Your whole problem is not your husband's impotence, that is just a symptom, but to give you more helpful information I am sending you The Health Letter number 312, Impotence. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101.

Grinsteds observe golden anniversary

KIMBERLY — John and Mildred F. Grinsted will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house at the Methodist Fellowship Hall, 205 Madison St. here from 2 to 5 p.m. Dec. 5.

Married in Shoshone Dec. 4, 1926, the couple first lived in Twin Falls. Grinsted worked as a baker for about 13 years, before he bought a gas station in Kimberly.

The couple moved to Kimberly in 1952 and operated the station until 1968 when they retired.

The Grinsteds have two sons, Carl Grinsted, Pocatello, and Clifford Grinsted, Boulder City, Nev.; a daughter, Marie Grinsted Fisher, Filer, 12 grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Friends and relatives are invited to attend. The couple prefers no gifts.

© N.Y. Times Service
NEW YORK — Impotence, the inability to achieve or sustain an erection, is a far more common problem than most men realize.

An estimated 10 per cent of men are impotent all the time and as many as 50 per cent have potency difficulties some of the time.

Impotence can be one of the most emotionally devastating things to happen to a man. The problem may result in severe anxiety, depression, marital discord, and may even lead to suicide.

While it is a fairly common complaint, however, impotence is among the most treatable of sexual problems, often through brief therapy.

Potency is the result of a fragile reflex response. An erection results when spaces inside the penis fill with blood as a result of psychic, sensory and neurologic stimuli. It is an automatic response that cannot be willed. But psychological factors such as fear, guilt or hostility can inhibit it, as can physical disorders that distort hormone levels or impair the blood supply or the transmission of nerve message to the penis.

Nearly every man, at one time in his life, finds that his body refuses to cooperate with his emotions. Stress, worry and fatigue are frequent causes of such "transient" potency problems. They are so common as to be considered within the range of normal sexual functioning.

Unfortunately, many men think they are the only ones to whom this happens. The first time it occurs a man may become anxious and begin to question his manhood. In his next sexual encounter, his anxiety about what happened the previous time may actually cause a pettition of the difficulty; setting up a vicious cycle of psychogenic — caused by the mind — impotence.

Most cases have a psychological root but, as the following cases illustrate, the causes are varied and complex.

— A 32-year-old sexually inexperienced man married and found he was impotent. Afraid that he could not satisfy his wife, he did not even attempt intercourse. His problem was solved by lengthy discussions with a physician who tried to enhance the patient's sexual knowledge and instill confidence in his sexual ability.

— A 51-year-old man gradually lost his ability to maintain erection, though his sexual desire remained strong. He had no sexual difficulty in 30 years of marriage. He continued to be happy in his marriage and his job. Medical evaluation showed that his difficulty was a consequence of diabetes, which had damaged his nerves.

— Another man had a blood vessel disease that was apparently contributing to intermittent impotence. However, he became completely impotent after learning that his wife was unfaithful; he also became angry, anxious and depressed.

When impotence is caused by emotional difficulties within the individual or associated with the particular relationship, the problem usually can be corrected through psychotherapy.

In at least 10 per cent of the cases the cause is "organic," or physical — the result of some underlying disease, surgery, the use of certain drugs, including alcohol, or the physical degeneration that comes with old age. In some of these situations, too, impotence can be cured — for example, by stopping the use of the drug.

The treatment of impotence should begin by establishing the probable cause. If the man still has sexual desires but is impotent under all circumstances — with all partners and during masturbation, and fails to have erections during sleep or upon awakening — it is likely that the problem has an organic, or physical, basis.

Potency-reducing drugs include alcohol, heroin, morphine, injected estrogens, reserpine and related drugs (used to treat high blood pressure), barbiturates, high doses of such tranquilizers as chlorpromazine and other phenothiazines, MAO inhibitors, and according to some reports — cigarettes, smoke.

Aspirin subs pose liver harm threat

© Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — The growing popularity of over-the-counter aspirin substitutes poses a new risk of severe and even fatal liver damage in cases of overdoses.

The aspirin substitutes — the drug, acetaminophen sold under various trademarks — are more difficult to manage in cases of overdoses than ordinary aspirin because there is little a physician can do to save a patient with acute liver failure.

Although the aspirin substitutes have been available in this country for many years, they had until recently been used mainly by those with ulcers, asthma, blood clotting problems or other medical conditions that ruled out the use of aspirin for minor pain, usually at a physician's suggestion.

But advertising for the aspirin substitutes has recently moved from medical journals to prime time television, and their popularity has been growing among those who dislike the sour stomach that can come from using ordinary aspirin.

A report of a fatal overdose of acetaminophen in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) said that in Britain acetaminophen poisoning was now one of the most common causes of liver failure.

According to a spokesman for JAMA, fatalities per 1,000 overdoses are running as high as 20 per cent, and that deaths from as little as 10 grams of acetaminophen had been reported.

In the case reported in JAMA, a 24-year-old woman reported to an emergency room complaining of stomach pains after taking 13 grams (about 40 tablets) of acetaminophen. She did not reveal that she had taken an overdose in a suicidal attack of anxiety and depression. She was sent home, but was readmitted to the hospital later in a coma and died of liver failure after seven days.

The author of the report, Dr. Brittain McJunkin, said that the lethal consequences of acetaminophen overdoses must be more widely recognized by emergency room personnel so that steps to empty the victim's stomach and therapy to reverse liver damage are prompt.

Rosalynn Carter visits Stevens

© Washington Star
WASHINGTON — They will be mightily disappointed at Stevens Elementary School if, after all the buildup, Amy's parents decide not to send her there.

Monday, for instance, when Rosalynn Carter looked at the school for the first time, she was given a batch of about a dozen "letters to Amy" from her daughter's potential classmates in the fourth grade.

Each letter-writer among the class of 30 — including one from India, one from Pakistan, from Chile, Rumania, Bolivia and Bangladesh — invited Amy to the school and told her a little about his or her life.

The teacher, Verona Meeder, herself wrote a letter to Amy last week, offering the 9-year-old one of nine Springer Spaniel puppies born the same night Jimmy Carter was elected President.

On the wall of the big, sunny, yellow-walled classroom was a drawing of the 108-year-old school by one of the students, which was duly pointed out to Mrs. Carter. A newspaper photograph of Amy was affixed firmly in the middle.

While Mrs. Carter made no commitment, she did ask Ms. Meeder when she might bring Amy to visit the school. Stevens was the only school Mrs. Carter visited while in Washington and there are no indications that she plans to visit others. And she left Stevens with several registration forms to fill out.

While Mrs. Carter wanted to visit the school privately when she arrived from Blair House Monday, accompanied by her son, Chkp, and her press secretary, Mary Hoyt, a battery of reporters was waiting in the chill wind outside Stevens, which is on 21st Street SW between I and K.

The future First Lady murmured quietly, "I'm going to visit the principal." And disappeared for half an hour.

When she came out she said she'd had "a very interesting discussion with the principal" and added, "I'll talk to Jimmy about it and we'll make a decision in a few days."

There is no truth to a rumor that they are thinking of sending their daughter to National Cathedral School for Girls, she told a questioner. She reiterated the Carters' intention to send Amy to public school: "We are really just trying to decide what to do. We have not made a decision. We have always said we would send Amy to public school and we have never deviated from that," she said.

In her wake she left Principal Lydia Williams and Counselor Jane Harley somewhat overwhelmed and slightly confused.

Ms. Williams was so excited, she said, that she forgot to have Mrs. Carter sign the guest book. "We got that book especially for this," Williams sighed, "and then we forgot to have her sign it."

But the school officials did remember that Mrs. Carter behaved like any other parent. She asked about the number of classes, the number of students. She said that Amy was fond of science, that Amy likes to read and is reading more and becoming more sophisticated, although she still devours every comic she can lay hands on.

After hearing the school officials' explanations about the virtues of Stevens — which is 60 per cent black and has children of 26 nationalities — Mrs. Carter visited the fourth grade.

The children grinned at her and answered in unison when she greeted them: "Good morning, Mrs. Carter."

Her next stop was to see one of the expensive modern toys of education, a space-ship-like plastic dome robot connected with a computer terminal. The machine, called "the Turtle," is supposed to help children learn science and math, "solve problems" and help with sentence structure.

Mrs. Carter left several different impressions on the students:

"She was pretty," said 8-year-old Pamela Rollins.

"I think she's a good lady," said Izhar Syed, also 8 years old.

"She didn't say much to us," said Theron Hector, aged 9.

"All she said was 'Hello,' and then when she left, she said 'Goodbye.'"

Later in the day Mrs. Carter joined her husband for an engagement that outshone anything else she was doing in Washington, even granting the importance of Amy's future education. It was tea at the White House with Betty Ford while the President and the president-elect met in the Oval Office.

League elects officers

TWIN FALLS — New officers of the Writers League were elected during the November meeting, with Jewel Von Ins becoming president.

Others are Francis Harris, vice president, and Betty Sligar, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Sligar and Pearl Campbell reported their publications during the month. Mrs. Sligar's article was published in the Forest Service magazine, "Old Timers' News" and Mrs. Campbell had items published in the Northside News.

Members will meet Dec. 11 at Mrs. Sligar's home for a potluck dinner and gift exchange. Gifts will bear original verses.

Mrs. Sligar presented a program on helpful hints for beginning writers and read an original manuscript of the events of her grandmother's life and another on an early pioneer of Halley.

Court of honor held

HAGERMAN — A court of honor was held by Boy Scouts of Troop 35 of the Methodist Church in Hagerman with nine boys receiving awards.

Dr. Joseph Marshall, Twin Falls, former chairman of the Snake River Area of Boy Scouts, was a special guest of the evening. Joseph Marshall, Jr., Scoutmaster of Troop 69 in Twin Falls and Jim Archibald, Jerome, Northside District commissioner also attended. Joseph Marshall, Jr., addressed the Scouts on the rewards of Scouting.

Tony Billard was master of ceremonies and in charge of planning the court of honor. Refreshments were served by Scout mothers. Boys receiving badges and awards included Robert Sandy, Royle Owsley and Tony Billard, star awards, Mike Billard, life, and Brian Clifford, Bobby Jay, Tim Peterson, Mark Moreland and Irwin Baker.

Hammert man honored

HAMMETT — Bill Clark, owner of Lanco Farms, Hammett, received a letter of commendation from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, signed by the governor.

The commendation was for his participation as a roving outdoorsman with the Bicentennial Wagon Train.

As an outrider, Clark rode up and down the train on the lookout for runaway teams, loose wheels, loose rims, etc. He also served in the capacity of counselor for the many young people who accompanied the wagon train.

The wagon train made its way through Glenns Ferry Aug. 6, 1975. It was then that Clark joined the 222 wagons on their journey along the Oregon Trail.

Bridge winners listed

BURLEY — Dan Mehl and Willey Burton, Twin Falls, were overall winners in the 1976 Continente Charity Bridge game held at the Burley Elks Lodge to support the Arthritis Foundation.

Second place winners were Martha Watson and Bernice Johnson, Twin Falls; third place went to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Butler, Jerome, fourth to Mr. and Mrs. L.C. Hunter, Burley; fifth to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Brown, Burley, and sixth to Cheryl Hutton and Lavada Moore, Burley and Herton.

Other winners were Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkening, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Lester Saunders and Mrs. Harold Grant, Hazelton.

Twelve tables of bridge players completed.

three diamonds which became the final contract.

Against the normal lead of the nine of hearts (no one had tried the lead of third best from three back then) East would try to cash three heart tricks. South would ruff, draw trumps and wind up with game and rubber.

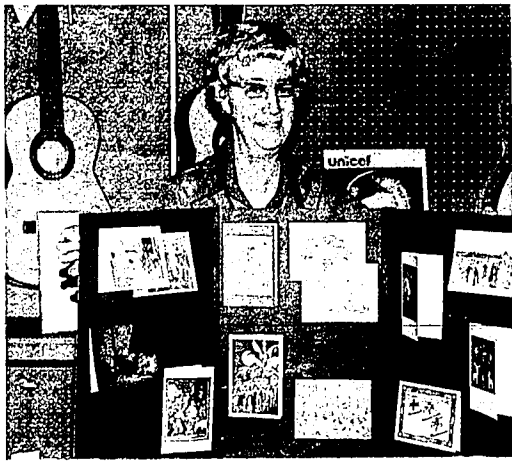

The normal lead was not made. Walter led his ace of spades first. Then he shifted to a heart. East won and led back a spade. It was obvious to East that Walter had led a singleton ace. It was equally obvious to South who played low. Walter took his queen, put his partner back in with a second heart and set the contract by means of a spade ruff.

Ask the Jacobys

We continue to get questions about how far the bidding should be carried when there is a part score and the opener makes a forcing two bid.

The answer to this question is that responder must bid once but may pass opener's minimum rebid of his own suit.

UNICEF helps over 100 developing countries launch and sustain important long-range projects in the fields of health, education, nutrition, clean water supply, and social welfare services.

Santa's phone disconnected

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — The phone company was disconnected Santa Claus' phone. They say he was just too popular.

Merchants at the Towne East shopping center set up a telephone line for children to call Santa and leave recorded messages with their Christmas lists.

But the line was swamped with so many calls the first week that other telephones in the area were knocked out of service. The company decided Santa had to be disconnected.

When the service began Nov. 17, only one line was installed. About 1,500 calls per hour were received on the first day so another line was installed. The more lines that were added the more popular the service became.

By Wednesday 7,000 calls per hour were logged on the five lines, which had a capacity of only 420 calls per hour. Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. was receiving 200 complaints per hour from persons with no dial tone, misdirected calls and out of service telephones — all because of the Santa calls.

The service was closed at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

MR. AND MRS. DARL MESSNER

TF miss, Messner exchange promises

TWIN FALLS — Coralyn Sue Bodenstab, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Bodenstab, Twin Falls, and Darl Hoy Messner were married Nov. 12 at the First Christian Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Messner, Kimberly.

The evening ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. Bill Bodenstab, Randle, Wash.

The bride wore a Victorian-styled gown, floor length with matching mantilla in shergona and Venice lace. The dress featured a mandarin neckline, lace bodice and bishop sleeves.

The veil was edged with smocking lace falling from a victrola caplet. She carried a bouquet of baby pink and red roses with baby's breath.

Julie Theibert was matron of honor, with Judy Duke, sister of the bride, and Sharlot Hilliard, sister of the bridegroom, as attendants.

Ray Messner, brother of the bridegroom, was best man with Brian Schmidt and Ed Guggall as attendants and ushers.

Flower girl was Shawna Hilliard; ring bearer, Lance Hilliard, and Barry Messner was candlelighter.

The bride's table was decorated with pink satin bows. A three-tier heart-shaped wedding cake with four heart cakes at the base of the cake centered the table. The top cake featured a white bell with white lily of the valley hanging from the center. Each base cake had a small white bell with pink lily of the valley hanging from centers.

Teri Bodenstab and Becky Bodenstab, sisters-in-law of the bride, cut and served the cake.

Becky Bodenstab, Randle, was special soloist for the wedding. She was also in charge of the guest book. Betty Messner organized the reception.

The couple took a brief wedding trip to Sun Valley and now lives in Twin Falls.

Lingerie patterns available

Chicago Sun-Times CHICAGO — Lace-trimmed lingerie can be costly. So it makes sense to sew your own bras, panties and slips.

A new book, "The Undies Book" by Nanette Rothacker (Charles Scribner's Sons, $7.95), tells you how.

Mrs. Rothacker, who has taught sewing for more than 23 years, says you can sew two or three slips or five or six bras for the price of one store-bought version.

The book also includes step-by-step projects for making chemises, pettipants, camisoles, body suits, pant liners and a long-leg party girdle. There are 25 patterns in all to be enlarged to your particular size.

Only a small amount of soft, pliable fabric is needed to create an item of underwear. Bikini panties take 1/2 yard of nylon tricot. A contour bra needs 1/2 yard of two-way stretch fabric, and a bias-cut slip calls for 1 1/2 yard of woven fabric. Tools needed include a tape measure, pattern paper, scissors, transparent tape, ballpoint pins and a No. 9 ballpoint sewing-machine needle.

She also suggests using a narrow zigzag stitch on tricot seams, rolling seams for a finished look and top-stitching bras and girdles for added strength.

Nurses set luncheon

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Idaho Nurses Association in districts 1 and 11 will host their legislators at a Tuesday luncheon noon at the Blue Lakes Inn.

Each nurse will host an individual legislator.

Roale Action, Boise, chairman of the INA Legislative Committee, will present issues affecting nursing and health fields to the group and help in discussing priorities in nursing today.

All nurses in the districts involved are urged to attend.

Meanwhile, nurses from district 11 will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the Shields Building on the College of Idaho campus to talk about nursing and legislation affecting their profession.

MR. AND MRS. OSCAR HIGGINS

50th anniversary open house set

KIMBERLY — Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Higgins will be honored on their golden wedding anniversary with an open house Dec. 4 at the Kimberly Community Center from 6 to 9 p.m.

They were married Dec. 6, 1926, in Pocatello, and have lived for the past 25 years in Kimberly where he operates the Higgins Welding Shop.

The open house is being given by their four children and husbands and wives. They include Mr. and Mrs. Terry Coleman, Clarkston, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Prescott, Soda Springs; Mr. and Mrs. David Higgins, Buhl, and Mr. and Mrs. Kent Brown, Sandy, Utah. They also have 14 grandchildren, and 18 great-grandchildren.

All friends of the couple are invited.

Faulty fuse boxes

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — More than 112,000 fires in the United States this year will be caused by faulty electrical systems, with a loss of more than $253 million. These figures were cited by Wallace A. Warren, an engineer who plans the electrical systems for a tobacco company here.

Warren said the main causes of home electrical fires are faulty fuse boxes or circuit breakers.

GF miss, Anderson marry

GLENN'S FERRY — Karen Phillips became the bride of Airman 1c Larry L. Anderson on Nov. 13 at 5 p.m. at the LDS Church, Glenn's Ferry.

Bishop Larry Stevenson performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride wore a blue street dress with a rounded neckline, long sleeves with long cuffs and carried a bridal corsage of blue orchids.

Joece Wheeler, King Hill, was maid of honor. Lowayne

Barnes of the Mountain Home Air Force Base, was best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harriett Thompson, Glenn's Ferry, and Leonard Thompson, Pocatello. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vandell Anderson, Center, N.D.

After the ceremony a barbeque reception was held at the home of the bride. A two-tiered cake centered the bride's table, which was covered with a lace cloth. The cake was blue with white ribbons on top.

Men from the altar party assisted with the barbeque.

Dennis Murphy, Mountain Home Air Force Base, cut and served the wedding cake; the bride's mother served punch and the bride and bridegroom opened their gifts.

Birth expectations surveyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Today's young married women expect to bear two children on the average, according to a Census Bureau survey.

That figure is down from 1967, when young brides were more likely to say they planned to have three babies.

A sample survey conducted by the Census Bureau last June found that wives 18 to 27 years old expect to have an average 2.1 children. This was unchanged from findings in a 1975 survey. But it represented a sharp decline from 1967, when young married women said they anticipated an average 2.9

New report

UNWANTED teen-age pregnancies in America are at epidemic proportions, Planned Parenthood Federation of America declared Friday in a new report and appealed to President-elect Carter for aid in reducing the problem of "children-bearing children." This chart is based on 1974-75 figures. (UPI)

Teen-age mothers newest epidemic

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Planned Parenthood Federation of America today appealed to "the Carter Administration" for help in curbing the nation's new epidemic — "children-bearing children."

Unwanted teen-age pregnancies in America now are at epidemic proportions, the federation said in a new report — "11 Million Teen-agers."

The number refers to sexually active adolescents between the ages of 15 and 19: 7 million male and 4 million female.

Only one fifth of the states requiring health education in the schools include sex education.

Planned Parenthood's President Jack Hood Vaughn said he hopes the problem of "children-bearing children" will be "a first order of business for the new Carter Administration and for state and community leadership nationwide."

One in 10 teen-agers becomes pregnant each year. The teenage pregnancy rate in America at 58 per 1,000 females 15 to 19, is higher than in 18 countries.

Japan, at five per 1,000, is lowest. Other low-rate nations include Russia, France, West Germany, Sweden, Israel, Hungary, the United Kingdom and Norway.

Vaughn said. "With a concerted effort to reduce adolescent pregnancy, his administration would be seizing the opportunity to pursue both these goals simultaneously."

The report, which includes an eight-point plan for action, shows two-thirds of the more than 1 million teen-agers who become pregnant each year do not want to be pregnant.

From the planned Parenthood research department, the Alan Guttmacher Institute, the report is based on government and university surveys, public health and social statistics.

Almost one-half of the 4 million teen-age girls estimated at risk of unwanted pregnancy — due to their sexual activity — have no access to the most effective birth control methods and no reliable sex and birth control education in school or elsewhere.

The facts are unsettling to Dr. Daniel J. Callahan, director of the Institute of Society, Ethics and the Life Sciences at Hastings on Hudson in New York, a think tank dealing with bio-ethics.

"The principal ethical premise of children-bearing children, according to Callahan, is that 'at the very least, teen-agers should have as much knowledge of sex, as many and as good service available, and as good choices open to them, as do adults.'"

"One of the main difficulties of being a teen-pregnant, is at once a great discovery, a great mess, a great pleasure, a great frustration, and an all-around great middle."

The eight-point action plan includes: Adequate pregnancy counseling services, including early determination of pregnancy, and even-handed, unbiased information on all options open to the pregnant teen-ager.

— Accessibility of legal abortion to all adolescents, giving them equal opportunity to exercise their constitutional right to end an unwanted pregnancy.

— Educational, employment, and social services for young parents, including day care and provision of some support where necessary.

— Coverage of fertility-related health services under health insurance programs.

— Expansion of biomedical research in the quest for new, safe and effective techniques of fertility regulation compatible with adolescent needs.

Studies show the consequences of the high rate of adolescent pregnancy in the United States include: Risks to the health of mother and child (especially among young teen-agers); forced marriages; foreshortened education; dashed career hopes; increased risk of welfare dependency; and other damaging social and economic results.

Further, other studies show: — Maternal death risk is 60 per cent higher for teen-age mothers than for those in their 20s.

DEAR ABBY: I know I should be grateful that my 13-year-old daughter is healthy and bright, but she is so ugly that it's hard to love her. I am often cruel to her, and then I feel guilty because I know it's not her fault that she's not better-looking.

Both my husband and I are fairly attractive. We've done everything to help her—teeth straightened, good hair cut, nice clothes, treatment for acne, etc., but she's still a very homely girl.

I find myself bitter and resentful of my friends' attractive children because my daughter is so ugly. What can I do?

CRUEL AND FEELING GUILTY

Values twisted

DEAR CRUEL: If you condition your love on the cosmetic qualities of your daughter, you are the ugly one, only your ugliness doesn't show.

I regard your frank confession as a cry for help. Get into therapy before your "bright and healthy" daughter suffers serious psychological damage from your cruelty and sandy twisted values.

DEAR ABBY: My husband went on a 10-day business trip recently, and he wrote me three letters. He addressed the first one to "Mary Smith," the second to "Mrs. Mary Smith," and the third to "Ms. Mary Smith."

I have a friend who studies psychology, and she told me that my husband's addressing me as he did—carefully avoiding using "Mrs. John Smith"—was his way of "de-wifing" me.

I should add that when my husband returned from the trip, he was as affectionate and loving as ever, and he certainly didn't "de-wife" me then.

What do you think of my friend's theory?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Not much. And if I were you, I would "de-friend" her.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for four years, but my husband still maintains the bachelor apartment he had before he married me. (He and I are now living in my apartment.)

We are in need of a new TV. He has a very good one in his apartment, which is hardly used and was purchased just before we were married, but he refuses to move it over here, even though nobody is getting any use out of it where it is.

This is only a minor issue. Why he needs to keep that apartment is what really bothers me. He keeps kidding me about wanting a place to go in case we have a fight or decide to separate.

I care for him a lot and would hate to break up over his keeping that apartment. How do you figure this?

IRKED IN N.J.

DEAR IRKED: Your husband's insistence on keeping an apartment suggests that your marriage is near its end. Why not ask him to rent a "retreat" for you? His excuse is as flabby as the idea is shabby.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lusk Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Party rules listed

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER
© Chicago Daily News

In a booklet, "Drinking Etiquette," the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism offers these 10 rules for promoting party togetherness while keeping things under control:

1. See to it that the bar is in the hands of a discreet person. An eager volunteer bartender may turn out to be a pusher who uses the role to give every glass an extra shot.

2. Pace the drinks, serving them at regular, reasonable intervals.

3. Don't double up. Many people count their drinks. If you serve doubles, they'll be drinking twice as much as planned.

4. Don't push drinks. Let the glass empty before you offer a refill. And then don't rush, especially if someone comes up empty too fast. When a guest says, "No, thanks," don't insist.

5. Push the snacks. Food slows down the rate of alcohol absorption into the blood stream.

6. Serve nonalcoholic drinks, too, like fruit and vegetable juices.

7. Offer more than drinks. Stir up conversation and draw out "guests' talents. When guests focus on drinks, the party is slipping.

8. When a guest has had too much to drink, you can politely express your concern for him by offering a substitute drink—coffee, perhaps. This is a gentle way of telling a guest that he has reached the limits you have set for your home.

9. If it's a dinner party, serve before too long. A cocktail hour is supposed to enhance a fine dinner, not compete with it. After too many drinks guests may not know what they ate or how it tasted.

10. Decide when you want your party to end and then give the appropriate cues by word and action.

Four TF area students enrolled at Utah school

MAGIC VALLEY area students Four Twin Falls area students are currently enrolled in the University of Utah College of Medicine, and an agreement between the state and the university may mean more Utah-trained physicians for the Gem State.

The four are freshmen Alan Olmstead and Bob Babel, Twin Falls, Junior Wendell Robison, Jerome, and senior John Ruffing, Twin Falls. The agreement, which went into effect this year, calls for the admission of five Idaho students in each entering class.

Utah has a history of providing medical training and specialized care for Idahoans over the years," said Dr. John A. Dixon, university vice president for health sciences. "Because of our close regional ties, we feel an obligation to continue that relationship until the state can assess its own medical needs."

Through the agreement, the state will pay a portion of the students' college of medicine expenses in the hope they will return to their home areas to practice following graduate training. The medical center treated nearly 1,000 Idahoans during 1975-76, including 238 from the Twin Falls area. They were referred to the center for highly specialized care found in such units as the Intermountain Burn Center and the newborn intensive care center.

The college of medicine has trained 11 current Twin Falls area physicians over the years.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. T. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I know I should be grateful that my 13-year-old daughter is healthy and bright, but she is so ugly that it's hard to love her. I am often cruel to her, and then I feel guilty because I know it's not her fault that she's not better-looking.

Both my husband and I are fairly attractive. We've done everything to help her—teeth straightened, good hair cut, nice clothes, treatment for acne, etc., but she's still a very homely girl.

I find myself bitter and resentful of my friends' attractive children because my daughter is so ugly. What can I do?

CRUEL AND FEELING GUILTY

Values twisted

DEAR CRUEL: If you condition your love on the cosmetic qualities of your daughter, you are the ugly one, only your ugliness doesn't show.

I regard your frank confession as a cry for help. Get into therapy before your "bright and healthy" daughter suffers serious psychological damage from your cruelty and sadly twisted values.

DEAR ABBY: My husband went on a 10-day business trip recently, and he wrote me three letters. He addressed the first one to "Mary Smith," the second to "Mrs. Mary Smith," and the third to "Ms. Mary Smith."

I have a friend who studies psychology, and she told me that my husband's addressing me as he did—carefully avoiding using "Mrs. John Smith"—was his way of "de-wifing" me.

I should add that when my husband returned from the trip, he was as affectionate and loving as ever, and he certainly didn't "de-wife" me then.

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Not much. And if I were you, I would "de-friend" her.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for four years, but my husband still maintains the bachelor apartment he had before he married me. (He and I are now living in my apartment.)

We are in need of a new TV. He has a very good one in his apartment, which is hardly used and was purchased just before we were married, but he refuses to move it over here, even though nobody is getting any use out of it where it is.

Middleman's share jumps

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The middleman's margin jumped nearly 2 per cent last month and pushed the farmer's share of the consumer food dollar down to its lowest level in nearly six years, Agriculture Department officials say.

Marketing spreads — which cover both costs and profits in processing, handling and distributing foods — rose sharply for pork, eggs, allseed products and lettuce, officials said. The spreads were 8.2 per cent higher in October than a year earlier, while farmer's returns for foods in a typical market basket were 14.2 per cent below a year ago.

Because the middleman's bite rose while farmer's returns dropped, officials said the farm share of the consumer food dollar slumped again in October to 37.6 cents — the lowest since January, 1971.

Last month's estimate compared with a farm share of 38.9 cents in September and 42.2 cents in October, 1975. The only comforting note for farmers in the report was an estimate that the prices they have to pay for production supplies declined by 0.5 per cent from September to October.

James Donald, a department food economics specialist, said the farm share of the food dollar for all of 1976 now is expected to average about 39.5 cents — the first time it has been below 40 cents since the 38 cent average for 1971.

In 1977, Donald said, the farm share of the dollar probably will remain close to this year's level with continuing increases in marketing costs, such as processing and supermarket labor, offsetting any gains in prices of raw farm products.

Donald said 1977 retail food prices are expected to move about 3 to 4 per cent above this year's levels — about the same as the "moderate" 3 per cent increase recorded between 1975 and 1976.

The decline in the farm share of the food dollar to a little under 40 cents this year brings it close to the averages recorded in most of the past 15 years.

With the exception of farm shares of 46 cents in 1973, 43 cents in 1974 and 42 cents last year, the producer's portion of the retail food dollar has been hovering at or a shade under the 40 cent mark in most recent years. It was 40 cents in 1972, 38 cents in 1971 and 39 cents in 1970, for example.

An Agriculture Department food marketing spread report which included the October farm share figures also noted marketing margins on pork have widened dramatically in recent months.

Between July and October, the report showed the farm value of one pound of retail pork fell 33 per cent to 57.6 cents a pound. But retail prices fell only 12.2 per cent to $1.25 a pound because the middleman's margin widened 20.4 per cent to 67.2 cents a pound.

The $1.25 a pound retail average for pork was 21.4 per cent below a year earlier, officials noted. But the Agriculture review showed consumers would have gotten a much deeper price cut if a 44.6 per cent drop in the value of live hogs had not been partly washed out by a 22.9 per cent increase in the farm-to-retail spread.

Hearings scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — The State Department of Water Resources announced today public information meetings and formal hearings on the draft state water plan for the Bear River Basin will be held next month in four southeastern Idaho communities.

Recommendations contained in the draft plan will be discussed by the department at information meeting in Malad, Montpelier, Soda Springs and Preston.

The first session will be in Malad, Dec. 9, followed by Montpelier and Soda Springs, Dec. 6, and Preston, Dec. 7.

Two days of formal hearings then will be conducted by the Idaho Water Resources Board in Malad, Dec. 9, and Soda Springs, Dec. 10, the department said. Both meetings will begin at 1:30 p.m. and continue until all oral testimony is received.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The world's largest working windmill will be tested soon in a small New Mexico town where the government hopes the winds of the Great Plains will help generate electricity for 3,000 residents, federal energy officials said Friday.

The site for the new windmill, Clayton, N.M., is the first of four to be chosen by the Energy Research and Development Administration to test wind generation of power as an alternate energy source.

ERDA plans to begin operating a 200-kilowatt windmill, formally known as a "wind turbine generator," at Clayton late next year.

Mounted atop a 100-foot steel tower, the windmill will have two-bladed propeller 125 feet in diameter.

It will start turning when the wind hits eight miles per hour, stopping automatically for safety reasons if the wind exceeds 40 mph. Changes in the pitch of the blades will keep the windmill turning a constant 40 revolutions per minute in any wind between those speeds.

"In terms of generating capacity, it will be the largest working windmill in the world," said ERDA spokeswoman Leslie Braunstein.

The Clayton municipal electric utility will operate the windmill, officials said. They said the machine will be capable of supplying between 5 and 15 per cent of the town's electric power demand on a windy day.

ERDA has tested since last fall a 100-kilowatt prototype near Sandusky, Ohio. A larger 1.5-megawatt windmill one is being developed as part of ERDA's program to investigate potential use of wind power.

The Clayton experiment will be the first use of a large, utility-run windmill in more than 30 years for generating electric power for public consumption in the United States, ERDA said.

The town of 3,000 in northeastern New Mexico is in a part of the Great Plains known for high average wind speeds.

ERDA said other sites being considered for field testing experimental windmills through 1979 include Cold Bay, Alaska; Point Arena, Calif.;

San Geronimo Pass, Calif.; Kaena Point, Oahu, Hawaii; Russell, Kan.; Holyoke, Mass.; Ludington, Mich.; Kingsley Dam, Neb.; Montauk, Long Island, N.Y.; Boone, N.C.; Boardman, Ore.; Island of Culebra, P.R.; Block Island, R.I.; Huron, S.D.; Amarillo, Tex.; and Augsburger Mountain, Wash.

Modern picker works pineapple field in Hawaii

Ugly duckling now gold

HONOLULU (UPI) — Pineapple, the ugly duckling of Hawaiian agriculture, is now laying the golden eggs.

And the same economists who forecast continued disaster for Hawaii's sugar industry see only continued profits for pineapple.

"We're making so much money it's embarrassing," said the summation of one pineapple company executive.

And all this from an agribusiness that less than 10 years ago had bankrupted scores, closed seven major companies, threw thousands out of their jobs and in the opinion of just about every economist was a cadaver ready for burial.

It was agreed that Hawaii's high labor and production costs had priced the canned fruit and juice out of the market. Everywhere in the world — even in Honolulu — Malaysia, Australian or Taiwanese canned pineapple could be bought cheaper than the American brands.

Hawaii's surviving pineapple growers still blame Washington for their post-World War II disaster. America, in its anxiety to get the Asian economies back on their feet, encouraged the development of the pineapple industry in those tropical countries suitable for planting.

American personnel, machinery and know-how were exported to Taiwan, the Philippines and Southeast Asia and financed by State Department monies. Hawaii's pineapple producers eagerly accepted the invitations. Stung by the clout of the powerful International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union for higher wages, the big producers opened foreign subsidiaries. Del Monte put in a growing and packing operation in the Philippines as did Castle & Cooke Foods, the world's largest packer of pineapple.

Of the three surviving pineapple companies in Hawaii, only one, Maul Land and Pineapple, has limited its acreage to Hawaii.

Paul & Cooke (former Dale

Co.) and Del Monte claim they never could have survived the starvation years had it not been for their Philippine plants which helped to average down the higher Hawaii production costs with the cheap wages and lower costs overseas.

First Hawaiian Bank economists say several factors are responsible for the revival. The most important has been the reduction of pineapple acreage by two of Hawaii's biggest competitors, Taiwan and Malaysia. Economist Thomas K. Hitch doubts if either country will return to its previous high production levels because of increased industrial use of land and the rising costs of labor and fertilizer.

Increased efficiency by Hawaii's producers has also been a big factor. The small, marginal operations have disappeared. As Hitch said, "Only those companies that have adjusted to the new market forces have survived." The inability of most of the Hawaii growers to meet the lower-cost competition killed them. Development of new markets, aggressive sales campaigns and continuous campaigns to cut costs have resurrected the industry.

First Hawaiian's researchers say Taiwan packed only 1.7 million cases last year "and probably will not grow pineapple in the volume they once did." Seven years ago some five million cases of Taiwanese pineapple were being produced annually, most of it exported to the U.S. in direct competition to the Dale and Del Monte labels which had previously dominated grocer's shelves.

Labor shortages in Asia have been a big factor in the drop in pineapple production. Dr. Hitch said plantation workers are moving into factories where they can make more money. No matter where pineapple is grown, it requires large amounts of hand and stoop labor in both the planting and picking operations.

The increased costs of the petro-chemical fertilizers have hurt the Asian producers more because of their less efficient production methods. Equally important has been the increased demand on the American Mainland. Hawaiian pineapple has always had to compete against locally grown fruit crops and nearly always at a disadvantage because of shipping and handling costs. But recently there have been droughts, crop failures and labor strife that have made Hawaii's pineapple prices much more attractive.

One of the biggest shots at pineapple for the industry has been the fresh fruit program. It now accounts for 12 per cent of the harvest. The container shipping program and air freight now put fresh pineapples in stores from Maine to California 12 months of the year.

Produce Quality Crops and Satisfied Customers

Here are a few comments from area farmers . . .

VERN KOHNTOPP, Jerome, Idaho
Owner of three VALLEYS — One Corner System

Performance:
"I would say that the Valley Corner System would be about the only way to go on new land. Actually, as far as I'm concerned, there's no other way to irrigate, 'cause one man can do so many acres and not have any problem with it, it's just fantastic."
"We ran it for 60 days steady. Everything worked just great."

Service:
"Service-wise this summer was no problem at all. Had very little wait, maybe a couple-three hours at the most."

Crop:
"Even with two frosts and Sencoring in cold weather, we still got a pretty good production out of the deal. I think the end result is we got a good quality crop."

Water Pattern:
"It's got a good water pattern."
Structure:
"They're well built."
Terrain:
"We run our pivots over terrain that most people wouldn't even ride a horse."
GARY MARTIN, M & G Farms, Burley, Idaho
Owners of 3 VALLEY Corner Machines

Satisfaction:
"We had a few problems when we started up, just general start-up problems, since then there's hardly been a problem. We have no complaints. This has turned out to be by far the best way to pick up those extra acres. It doesn't leave much of a corner."
Crop:
"We're very happy with the crop yields. We see no difference in the corners as with regular machines. I think the water pattern was pretty even clear through the machine. We had an exceptional crop this year."

DAN SUHR, Jerome, Idaho
VALLEY CENTER PIVOT Corner System Owner

Water Pattern:
"We took some infrared pictures of the circles, it was under a watering program with 'Computerized Farming', and fertilizer program, and that particular field had a better water pattern than any other pivot I had on the program."
Crop:
"It was off like everybody else's this year — we made around 350 cwt. Nothing spectacular, but that one freeze hurt us."
Terrain:
"That thing will crawl in and out of canals without any problem. We bridge in three spots and the rest of the canal we do not bridge and it walks in, through the canal, and back up — no problem. The end tower walks through the worst part of the canal with no problem whatsoever."
Performance:
"The machine performs the same in forward or reverse."
"The corner machine, as far as I'm concerned, is the only way to go."
Tracking:
"The thing that amazed me on the Corner Machine was its ability to track — it's only off a half a track in either direction — forward and reverse."

SCOTT WESTON, Rockland, Idaho
Weston Farms

Satisfaction:
"We have 7 Valley systems and two of those are Corner machines. We've had good luck with the machines and we've had real good service."
Performance:
"Advantages of a corner machine — There's the extra acres, like Kechter Bros. told us when we bought them and more production. I think they've been a big advantage to the system."
Service:
"The main reason that we decided on Valleys was the dealer, when we needed service they were right there — most of the time the same day if it was at all possible, and this is real important, concerning the down time."
Future:
"We've ordered all the machines we have right now with the capability of being converted to corn ers, so it's a possibility of the whole farm being with corner machines."

JEFF MARTIN, Tuttle, Idaho
SanTan Ranches

Performance:
"We have eight Valleys, we have three corners and 5 of the regular 10-tower Valleys. Our best potatoes this year have been under Valley sprinkler pivots. Our worst yield this year under a Valley has been 406 sacks."
Service:
"We've had real good luck with Valleys. Towards the first part of the year there were a few problems, in the last two months of irrigation we only had two service calls on eight pivots."
Satisfaction:
"The main reason we bought corner machines is to do away with labor and putting pipe in the corners, and buying pipe for the corners. This was our first experience with corner machines. We're well impressed with them."
PAUL KOYLE, Tuttle, Idaho
Farm Manager, SanTan Ranches

Performance:
"We got along real good with them."
Service:
"Kechter Bros. have been real good in servicing them, and taking care of them. They're good machines. Service has been excellent."

DAVE DAUCH, Wendell, Idaho
KECHTER BROS. MANAGER

"If you're going to buy a Center Pivot — see us at Kechter Bros. for the best equipment available at fair, competitive prices, guaranteed quality installation and quality service after the sale."
"Not all fields are suited for a Cornag/System, some are best suited for a Standard Valley. All Valleys are built rugged and are quality equipment that makes for profitable farming operations."
"Before making a sizeable investment in just any of pivot — talk to Kechter Bros. — we will advise you on Valley Corner Systems and Valley Standard Systems and on which systems can do the best for your particular field or fields."
"We work hard for our customers before the sale and we provide the 'Best Service in the Business' after the sale."

Paring car weight cuts down guzzle

NEW YORK — An extra mile can be squeezed from a gallon of gasoline for every 400 pounds cut from the weight of a car, Detroit says.

So it has gone on a more rigorous diet — more aluminum and plastic and less steel — to take more guzzle out of its cars.

Increasing use of aluminum and plastics is the industry's principal answer to consumer and federal government pressure for better gas mileage. Under the Energy Policy Conservation Act, new cars made in this country must average 20 miles per gallon by 1980 and 27.5 miles by 1985 — in addition to meeting stringent emission standards.

The average 1977 model in dealers' showrooms contains about 97 pounds of aluminum and 170 to 187 pounds of plastics. The 1977 models have added about 10 to 12 pounds of plastics to the amount used in 1975, automobiles.

The increase in aluminum was 15 per cent and for plastics 6 to 7 per cent, but this addition of about 300 pounds of plastic and aluminum permitted manufacturers to reduce the weight of selected 1977 models by 600 to 1,000 pounds. For every pound of body weight that is reduced, car makers can cut chassis weight by two pounds.

The substitute materials are being used in top-of-the-line models as well as in compacts, and by 1978, all top-of-the-line models are expected to be about 1,000 pounds lighter than today's models. The medium-size compacts are expected to weigh 500 pounds less, and sub-compacts 275 pounds less.

than 1977 counterparts.

Aluminum is finding its way into air conditioning, automatic transmissions, bumpers, clutch housings, electrical systems, many engine components, mufflers and tailpipes, radiators, steering and brake components, trim, wheels and wheel covers, doors, fenders, heat shields, hoods, load floors, rear deck lids, rear doors for station wagons and hatchbacks and disk brake splash shields.

Plastics, which are making bigger inroads than substitute metals this year, can be found in bumpers and bumper energy absorbing systems, fender liners, seats, interior trim, front ends, headlamp and fender extensions, tail lamps, under-hoods and shift console areas, instrument panels, pollution control systems and even radiator and transmission supports, doorbeams and bumper back-up bars.

The glass division of PPG Industries, Inc. has shaved as much as 20 pounds from a car's glass through the use of a thinner tempered glass. This has produced savings of 60 pounds per vehicle.

Trade publications concede that to date nobody has tried to use in any one experimental vehicle every weight-saving method or materials combination that is available. In 1975 the Pontiac division of General Motors Corp. worked with other divisions of the giant automaker and PPG Industries and other suppliers on the experimental Phoenix study project which sought ways to cut auto weights.

They succeeded in reducing a standard Ventura model's weight by about 700 pounds without radically changing the car's appearance or exterior dimensions.

Store's new look

EXTENSIVE remodeling at the Lynwood Shopping Center Safeway Store will provide 9,000 extra square feet when completed. New display cases, checkstands and registers are planned for the building. A new storeroom is being added in the back, and the current storeroom will be converted to display area. Plans are to move the bakery and locate a produce section in that section. No completion date has been set.

Banks again target for new laws in 1977

CHICAGO — Banks will be a target for new laws in Congress again in 1977, according to the former U.S. controller of the currency.

But the action won't happen for several months, and during that time bankers should consider how to respond, says James E. Smith.

Smith took a post as executive vice president of First National Corp., the holding com. ny of First National B. of Chicago, after resigning this year as controller, a job he held for three years.

Smith said proposed financial reforms during 1976 that failed to pass Congress were met with "an uncompromising no" from banks. He suggested that such a response might be unsuccessful in 1977.

Because of the change in the President, cabinet and other federal-officeholders, and because initial attention will focus on reducing unemployment and probably "some unforeseen international events," legislation affecting the banking industry would come later in 1977, Smith said.

"That offers the bank industry a rare opportunity to think away from the fire and smoke of battle," he said. "Smith, who said he was 'thinking out loud,' said that the laws of the 1930s that insulated the banking industry from the 'free flow of competition' in order to guarantee stability may become 'barriers to us in five to 10 years.'"

Smith said that again in 1977 the thrust of change would be "legislation that will intensify competition" and also legislation that would promote more governmental intervention, such as expansion of consumer protection laws and consolidation of bank regulatory functions.

Next year should bring "more positive" events in the electronic funds transfer field, the bankers were told during a poll taken during the conference seeking opinions about economic conditions in 1977.

About 687 persons representing banks in more than 40 states as well as branches of foreign banks located in this country replied.

For inflation, 49 per cent said 4 per cent to 6 per cent, 46 per cent said 6 per cent to 8 per cent. Long-term interest rates: 43 per cent said 7 per cent to 8 per cent, 51 per cent said 9 per cent to 10 per cent. The Dow Jones industrial index: 41 per cent said between 800 to 1000, 35 per cent said 100 to 1200. Carter's election: 63 per cent said it would mean greater inflation. The prime rate by mid-1977: 30 per cent said 7 per cent, 26 per cent said 7 1/2. About 61 per cent of those responding worked at a bank with total deposits under $100 million.

WILLIAM M. BUNCE ... heads council

Filerite council chairman

FILER — William M. Bunce, Filer, is the newly elected president of the Idaho Employers Council. It was announced Friday in Boise.

Bunce is general manager of Acme Manufacturing Co. in Filer and is serving his fourth year as a member of the board of directors.

The new vice president of the council is Wayne Van Engelen, owner of the Fargo Department Store chain which is based in Pocatello. The new treasurer is Miles Wallace of Wallace Plating Co. in Boise. Tom Hazzard continues to serve as executive secretary.

Members-at-large of the executive committee of the council for the coming year are Bob Mox of American Fine Foods, Payette, and Al Hansen of St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise.

Members elected to serve the 1976-78 term are Ron Hamilton, Idaho Fresh-Pak, Lewisville; John Priest, M.B. Priest and Sons, Boise; Chuck Marshall, Security Industries, Boise; Dane Watkins, Snake River Equipment, Idaho Falls; Bill Martin, Evergreen Tire, Lewiston, former Sen. Len B. Jordan, representing the public, Boise; Ted Denison, Hewlett-Packard, Boise, and Keith Stein, Stein Distributors, Boise.

Directors continuing to serve are Harold Wiseman, Honstead Motors, Nampa; Roger Fleener, Mercantile Stores, Boise; Dale Patterlo, Partner Steel, Pocatello; Ralph Shoemaker, Shoemaker Trucking, Boise, and Jack Zimmer, Zimmer Motors, Moscow.

The council serves the state of Idaho and portions of surrounding states. Reports given during the annual meeting show that the council has reached new highs in membership and services rendered.

Remodeling done

BANNER FURNITURE has completed its first remodeling since construction of its store in 1961. The extensive remodeling now brings the building up to all the latest life safety code requirements and includes a new employee and customer lounge and all new interior decorating. Pictured is Robert Gillespie, vice-president and manager of the firm.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, NOV. 28, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An upsetting day when all kinds of odd conditions could be occurring. You would be wise to make a point to really live the Golden Rule today in your relationship with others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study the lofty principles you believe in. Use particular care in handling a personal matter. Think constructively.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to be with friends as much as possible today since they can be of great help to you. You can easily gain a personal aim now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Outside duties can take up much of your time, but must be handled well now. Make an effort to improve your image.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study new outlets that will help you advance in your line of endeavor. Make plans for the days ahead.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find more satisfactory methods for keeping any promises you have made to others. Show more devotion to loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be more considerate of associates and gain their goodwill today. Figure out a better way to handle outside affairs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use any spare time you have to show others how much they mean to you. Take time to rest and rebuild your energies.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study philosophical matters early in the day. Later give more thought to creative pursuits that interest you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk over with kin how to improve your relationships. Evening is fine for entertaining good friends. Be clever with money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study spiritual and ethical matters that can aid to your well-being. Take time to engage in your favorite hobby.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A time to study the practical side of your life and know how to improve it. Make long-range plans for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Steer clear of influential persons today and then the planets are favorable for whatever you have in mind. Express happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will need good training in ethical and spiritual principles early in life and great heights can be reached. The character here is of a high degree, as well as the intellect. The motives behind any action will best be understood later in life.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Consider these three film characters: Frankenstein's monster, Dracula and the Wolf Man. Do you have some kind of mental picture of what each is supposed to look like? So do I. Their images are standardized now. Credit for that the late Jack Pierce, a longtime makeup artist at Universal studios. He literally stitched, padded, pasted, sculpted and painted each of them to the specifications of his own imagination. Writers variously described them, true. But it was Pierce who created what we all envision when their names come up.

In the cynical lingo of the door-to-door salesman, a "mooch" is somebody who's easy to sell. Not a fool or a dumbbell or a sucker, exactly. Just a person who tends to listen, understand, believe, accept and sign on the dotted line. It's widely known that a lot of good salesmen themselves are mooches. It's also claimed that a disproportionately high number of mooches share another common-characteristic. They're ticklish.

KURT RUSSELL

Q. "How old is that actor Kurt Russell in the TV show called 'The Quest' and what was his first movie?"

A. About age 20, Belling, He was 13 when he got his first part in a Walt Disney picture named "The Absent Minded Professor."

Q. "In racetrack parlance, what's a 'morning glory'?"

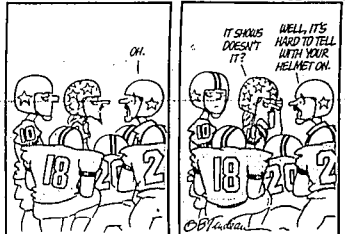

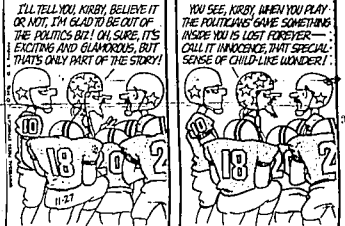

A. A thoroughbred that runs faster in the workouts than in the races."

LOVE AND WAR

Our Love and War man says he can think of no job wherein a young lady is more likely to meet interesting men than that of secretary to a U. S. senator. No reference is intended here to those Washington, D. C., helpmates who can't type. The average senator gets about 60 callers a day, almost all of them men. The true secretary, if she so wishes, winds up in conversation with them, briefly or at length, whichever. One report indicates she may be asked for dates about five times a day. Bear in mind, a lot of these visitors are from out of town, most especially in a mood for entertainment.

Why cigar smokers seem to handle their liquor better than smokers of cigarettes and pipes is baffling, if true. But that's the contention of a bartender of lengthy experience. Said cigar smokers may, at a little sily, but rarely do they cause any real trouble," this authority avers. The cigarette smokers, on the other hand, are unpredictable, he claims, and the pipe smokers need to be treated with caution because that sort gets overly sensitive.

Potato futures go wild

 CHICAGO — Potato futures sped a wild day Friday, trading 5.66 cents.
 Commodity News Service said that volume 1,519 cars were in the new May. Most sources credit that contract with the renewed interest in spuds. In its fifth day, the new May 1977 contract, bettering the old May's top price.
 April and new May reached limit up on short covering, then slid down the limit on profit taking and trade selling. The session ended mixed, off 11 cents to 22 cents higher. Chart action and evening up were major influences.
 Live cattle traded over a narrow range in a slow holiday market, dipping up to 40 cents per hundredweight, then recovering to close from up 7 cents to down 20 cents in Friday traded December '77. Turnover was 6,550.
 Live hogs settled slightly lower, in the middle of narrow price spreads and dull trading. Volume was light, at 3,121 contracts.
 Pork bellies closed near the day's lows after sharp declines in a thin, weak market. Closing prices were 185 to 185 cents, off February leading the decline. Volume was placed at 2,500 contracts.
 Evidence of increased export competition, moisture to benefit the domestic winter wheat crop, and denials of reports of grain negotiation with China and the Soviet Union were major negative factors in wheat. Active spreading and mixed trading led to a close 3/4 to 4 cents lower.
 Speculative liquidation following morning hedge selling in the corn pit, which ended with prices a penny to 2 1/2 cents down.
 Enthusiasm was lacking in the soybean complex, where bears were near the low end of the day's range, 2 1/2 to 8 1/2 cents down. Speculative moves in product pits mirrored beans, with meal closing 30 cents to 2.30 lower, except for September which was 20 cents higher. Current oil contracts were 20 to 15 points down, October and December ending 12 and 10 points up.
 New York Sugar 11 closed mixed, mostly 9 to 24 points higher on 1,200 lots. Trading was primarily technical. The 100 cent domestic contract was mixed, from up 45 points in November to 15 off in May on a trade of 15 lots.
 The world spot price was unchanged at 7.35 cents a pound, while the domestic spot price was 10 points higher at 10.65 cents a pound.
 New York Cotton silver came under heavy liquidation pressure on the first notice day for December contracts, closing 1010 to 1080 points down, was estimated at 10,600 tons.
 International Monetary Market gold plunged as much as 4.20 from Wednesday's close, as chart trendlines were punctured. The break spurred commercial buying and prices closed as much as 1.00 off the lows, but finished with net losses of 1.90 to 3.60. Volume was heavy at 1,190 lots.

Carpenter Says

Carpenter's Imported Automobiles took on the Mazda line knowing Mazda made good cars and pickups... but, we honestly didn't realize we could offer such great values.

Our Mazda pickup looks about the same as Toyota and Datsun; and that figures because the Japanese have always been known as great copiers. It was pleasant to discover that our Mazda pickup costs quite a bit less than those two other pickups which we can hardly tell from our own model.

Not only is the list price substantially lower, but I am very boldly knocking off $509.00 from the lowest priced pickup of all. That makes the price $3198 - that is not a typographical error... the Tab is only $3198. If you can beat the price, I guess there isn't much we can do about it except save the Japanese Christmas tree lights we are giving away with each sale.

QUESTION: How do you feel about the slump in farm prices?

Rosemary Olivas, Twin Falls:

I'm not in favor of it. I think the farmer should get more for his crops and his milk and everything else.

Dairrel Olsen, Twin Falls:

I don't think it's really that great. I think farmers really deserve more than they're getting. Prices in the store are ridiculous compared to what they (farmers) are getting for them.

Mike Robinson, Richfield:

I don't care much about it. It hurts the farmers ... I'm not farming right now.

Jim Barton, Carey:

I think it's going to hurt the farmers because of what they have to pay to run their place to start with. It costs more to run the machinery and to run the place than what you get out of your product.

Bruce Kulm, Jerome:

That's a good question ... It's a real sad thing. I don't know what to say about it on account of there's nothing to explain it. They always blame it on the middleman ... I feel it's a pretty bad deal because the farmer's getting the short end of the stick ... It's going to correct itself or short-change — there's no other way.

Jack Savon, Alaska:

I think it's all right. If they're going down on the prices and the food, I think it's all right.

Ken Roberge, Twin Falls:

I think it's bad on the part of the farmer because prices, on the part of the consumer kept going up, where the farmer's getting shortchanged, I think.

W. A. Simon, Fairfield:

I feel bad. I've noticed a considerable decrease in this year's income compared to last. It can't continue for very long or we can't continue producing.

TV star scene

Valerie Harper escapes for a night from her marital troubles as Rhoda, only to have to flee for her life in an upcoming NBC Movie of the Week: "Night Terror," set for Dec. 1. . . . The recently resurrected series Bibbiville has a few interesting guest stars lined up. Among them are: Richard Kiley and Juliet Mills as a brother- and sister, George Hamilton as a doctor who wants to get involved in politics (do you believe it?), Dina Merrill as a once-rich woman, Jack Carter in the serious role of a blackmailer, Bob Crane as a heartless newsman and Ironsides' alumnus, Barbara Anderson, as the wife of aspiring race car driver. . . . George Burns joins CBS' all-Christmas lineup on Dec. 1 with the "George Burns Comedy Special." Joining him will be such spotlight stealers as Johnny Carson, Walter Matthau, Madeline Kahn and the Osmond Brothers. . . . Sir Gielgud and Julie Andrews will be off-camera participants in the Hallmark Hall of Fame production of "Peter Pan," starring Mia Farrow and Danny Kaye. Gielgud will be the narrator, while Andrews sings one of the original songs — "Once Upon a Bedtime" — during the prologue to this musical adaptation of the Barrie story. Music and lyrics are by Anthony Newley and Leslie Bricusse.

Christmas 'tis the season to be jolly? Now perhaps, but being jolly was against the law 400 years ago. The Puritans in several American colonies strictly forbade the celebration of Christmas — levying a fine on anyone caught so busy as baking a mince-meat pie. This and other bits of Christmas history will decorate "A Christmas Celebration," starring Richard Kiley. The PBS special airs Dec. 20 nationally.

A relatively unknown actor, Tommy Lee Jones, who was last seen in "Jackson County Jail" has landed the part of billionaire Howard Hughes in a four-hour special set for next season on CBS, "Howard the Amazing Mr. Hughes." . . . Oscar winner Shirley Jones has been signed to play the lead in "Yesterday's Child," an NBC made-for-TV picture. . . . The film deals with a woman whose daughter was kidnapped at age 3, then 14 years later, the woman is confronted by the guardian of a 17-year-old who claims the girl is her kidnapped daughter.

More disasters are waiting in the wings at NBC, as that network starts work on two pilots dealing with such audience-grabbing delights as floods, fires, plane crashes and earthquakes. In one, "Flight to Holocaust," Patrick Wayne and Chris Mitchum follow in the brave footsteps of their fathers' (who knew enough, however, to stay away from TV), as a couple of professional troubleshooters working to rescue occupants of a plane that crashes part way through a skyscraper. You'd think they would, have enough sense to take the elevator down. The other pilot takes the paramedic theme and mixes it with aeronautics, to come up with "Aeromedcs." Such lunneries as John Bennett Perry, Lauren Tewes, Carl Anderson and Ellen Donald (remember Betty in Father Knows Best?) will star in the 30-minute show.

General Electric wants to put Barbara Walters' name in lights, so they've purchased full sponsorship for four specials starring ABC's very own anchorwoman. The first "Barbara Walters Special" will air Dec. 14 over ABC, and will feature interviews with people in the news from all fields — including politics, sports, and especially entertainment. All the interviews will, however, be done on location.

Crime on TV studied

© Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — Skillfully produced television commercials can be more captivating for children than TV programs and are likely to create a more lasting impression, according to a Canadian psychologist.

"Studies of children aged 5 to 11 indicate that attention levels 'sharply increase during commercial breaks' and that retention of information is significantly higher for commercials than for programs, Dr. Kenneth G. O'Bryan of the University of Toronto has told the Federal Trade Commission. . . . Once learned, commercials may be repeated many times 'without loss of impact or acceptability,'" he said. . . . In effect, the TV commercial is the single best method of mass implantation of an idea, belief or short-sequence behavior pattern."

O'Bryan testified at hearings on the commission's proposed trade rule on food advertising. Hearings on the rule are scheduled to run seven weeks and involve more than 90 witnesses.

O'Bryan based his conclusions on laboratory studies examining the viewing patterns of children. The researchers recorded the children's eye movements and administered pre- and post-viewing tests to measure learning. . . . O'Bryan found the technique of presenting commercial messages is more important than commercial content in determining what viewers learn, and that advertisers have learned to manipulate children by using cues to direct their attention. "Cueing is a most powerful determinant of looking behavior," he said, and the attention pattern is derived from "the nature of the cue and the strength of its delivery."

Sailing, sailing

Wind currents in the Ketchum area provide just the right source of power for the sport known as "hang gliding." More and more people are taking up the hobby-sport. Two men in Ketchum are not only avid chasers of the winds but teach others to hang from a kite in the air and glide like a bird.

Simone Signoret

Simone writes

The French actress Simone Signoret lives and works in Franco. Her extremely frank and candid autobiography has just been published and is the rage of Paris. After a year's work with a collaborator she threw the manuscript out and wrote her story herself. For the latest in who's doing what, see p. 15.

Up, up and away in a beautiful . . . hang glider

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN

Times-News writer
KETCHUM — At about 10 a.m. on Sunday, Goodfellow and Rob Kells look out their apartment window at an American flag that hangs in front of the Tyrolean Lodge across the street from them. It flutters gently in the breeze. The wind is blowing from the north-northeast and they look away from the window.

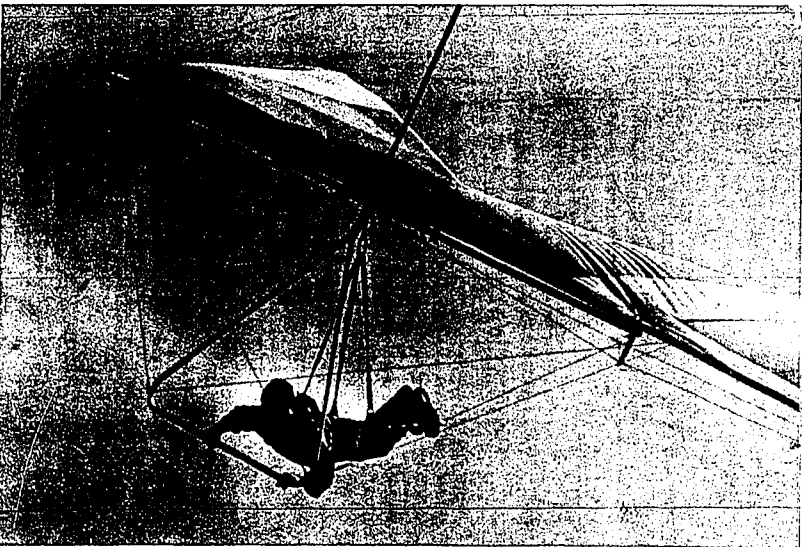

For the next hour and a half they periodically look out the window and note the position of the flag. By about 11:30 a.m. the flag has made a 180 degree turn. The wind is blowing from the south and Goodfellow and Kells get ready to leave their apartments. They dress warmly because in a little while they will be flying in a kite in the air, hundreds of feet off the ground, often sharing with hawks and other birds an air current that blows strongly up the face of a mountain.

Hang gliding . . . it's the closest man has ever come to actually flying.

With the rapid development of hang gliding kites in the past five years, a dream which has persisted in the minds of men for centuries has virtually come true. Or, at least for Goodfellow and Kells, who own and run the Soaring Emporium West hang gliding school in Ketchum, is seen flying a Kestral high performance kite at Buttercup Mountain in Halley.

'Look ma, no hands'

MIKE GOODFELLOW, part owner and an instructor of the Soaring Emporium West hang gliding school in Ketchum, flying in a "hike" position at Buttercup Mountain in Halley.

With nothing more than an aluminum frame and a colorful dacron sail, they have flown in the air, soaring at cloud base, riding an updraft air current, with birds less than 100 feet off their kite wings.

"Flying is just something that everybody has thought about at one time or another," Goodfellow, a 21-year-old Ketchum resident, says. "But now you can do it."

"When I was a kid, my view of flying was that of dreaming," he says reflectively. "But now you can do it. It's reality. Flying for me is like reliving my dreaming."

Hang gliding is not to be confused with flying by power planes, or sail planes. It's something entirely different and, according to Goodfellow and Kells, it's much better.

"I've flown all three worlds," Kells, also a 21-year-old Ketchum resident, says proudly. "I've flown power planes, sail planes, and hang gliders and there's . . . just no comparison. The first two are controlled by one hand and your two feet, whereas a hang glider is controlled by a totality of body movement. Your kite is basically a part of you, more so than power or sail flight."

A hang glider looks something like a huge kite. It's a thin, kite-like sail, constructed with a supporting frame that will carry a rider. By taking this kite to any hilltop or mountain, where uplifting air currents blow up the ridge face, a flier can launch his kite. At the top of the hill or mountain, he runs down the slope, into the uplifting air current, and is swiftly and effortlessly swooped up into the air.

Expert fliers use the air currents for everything they are worth, cutting back and forth and turning their kites to remain in the breath of the uplifting current. This way they can soar thousands of feet up in the air, often to cloud base, along with birds and other aircraft.

With the development of new high performance kites, people are making flights up to 30 miles in distance, Kells says. And the world's record for a sustained flight in a hang glider is 32 hours. This record was set in Hawaii where the breeze blows off the ocean and up the face of the island's dormant volcanoes creating the best ridge lift situation in the world, according to Kells.

One doesn't have to fly on the Hawaiian ridge lift current to obtain a good flight, though. Both Kells and Goodfellow have had flights that can be described as nothing less than spectacular.

Goodfellow described a flight he once had while living in the East.

"I was working ridge lift," he recalled, "and there were two hawks — a large red tail hawk and then a smaller one — and they were flying the ridge too. I tried to get close to them and couldn't at first. But after they got used to me, after I'd followed them around for about a half hour, they would come right underneath my wing."

"They were five or 10 feet away and stayed there, beneath my wing, for about 10 or 15 minutes," Goodfellow said. "And I had a piece of gum that I'd been chewing and when I throw it out, the larger of the two hawks went over and picked it right off."

"Birds are the best to watch when you're soaring," he remarked. "You can get amazing flights by watching them." Some good flights can be had in Idaho as well, according to the two avid fliers. In fact, Goodfellow says his first "excite" flight was in Idaho.

My first exotic flight was 20 miles south of Arco, out in the middle of the desert. In 1974," Goodfellow recalled nostalgically. "Big Southern Butte is the name of the place. It used to be an old volcano but there's a water station at the top now."

"I met a guy out there in Idaho Falls and we drove right to the top in an old van I used to have," Goodfellow continued. "At the top the wind was fairly strong. I'd say about 25 to 30 miles per hour. Take off from the top is 2,500 feet. It's a 2,500 foot cliff and I took off from there and gained 1,200 feet altitude over the top. I was up almost an hour."

"It was the best rush I've ever had in my life," Goodfellow said convincingly. "It was the biggest thrill. There were a lot of hawks and birds in the air there and that was the closest I'd ever been to a bird that's flying."

"I just landed and to this day I can still remember every minute of that flight because it was so intense," he added ecstatically. "There was another guy up too. All times we were close enough to talk to each other. We usually just screamed obscenities to each other. We couldn't believe what was going on. We did a lot of screaming. That was the first dream come true right there."

The first kite for hang gliding was designed by Francis Rogallo in 1948. Goodfellow and Kells worked for NASA and was researching methods of re-entry from space when he designed the hang gliding kite and then scaled it down to human size.

Hang gliding began with Rogallo, according to Goodfellow. They call him the father of hang gliding, Goodfellow says. He came up with the basic design and now even has a school in North Carolina where the Wright brothers worked. It's called the Kitty Hawk Kite School.

Goodfellow was the first of the two friends to begin hang gliding. It began for him in 1972 when he saw an issue of "National Geographic" containing an article "on some things the kids in California were doing."

One of those things was experimenting with hang gliding kites, and soon after reading the article Goodfellow was doing the same. He sent away to a firm in California and got plans to build a kite.

Through a series of trials and errors he built his own kite and taught himself how to fly, he says. His first flight was in the early spring of 1972.

With his new home-made kite he hiked to the top of a reservoir in Syracuse, N.Y., and attempted his first flight.

"The first attempt was from about 65 feet up," he recalls. "It was off the top of a reservoir. I crashed in that first attempt and broke the control bar right in two."

"The first flight" was like a glide, Goodfellow says. "I really didn't know what I was doing. It was trial and error. I got a few scrapes and bruises, but you don't crash more than 30 mpa."

"I was thinking that something was wrong plus a lot of other profanities," he remembers about that first glide and crash off the reservoir. "In those days you had to make sacrifices."

This urge to fly runs in the blood of the rest of Goodfellow's family too.

"My father is a pilot and my uncle is a pilot and my grandfather was a pilot also," Goodfellow says, "and I just like to fly."

Through continued experiments Goodfellow refined his kite and his flying technique and in 1973 Kells joined him.

"I got into it by watching Mike," Kells says. "We used to ski together and I saw him fly and right then I knew I had to do it too."

The two of them have been flying together ever since then. They've gone hang gliding in over 15 states across the country, ranging from all the New England states south to Tennessee and Georgia and west to California, Idaho, Oregon, North Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado and Washington.

The travel and shared experience of hang gliding has cemented their friendship in a way which otherwise probably would have been impossible, the two fliers say.

"This has made us closer friends than we ever would have gotten any other way," Kells admits. "It's hard to put. But it's given us an intimate relation to each other that we probably would never have had any other way. It definitely has made us a lot tighter. I can understand the excitement when he's flying or talking about something to do with flying."

Now, for the time, the two have settled in Ketchum and set up their school giving hang gliding lessons and selling kites.

For $35 they will provide a student with equipment and instruction and, so they say, they can teach anyone how to fly.

"It depends on the student," he says, "but with a good, strong, athletically inclined person it takes about four days of hard work under strict supervision and he or she can fly off a fairly major peak."

If you are not strong, aggressive and athletically inclined, Kells and Goodfellow say they will work with you as long as it takes to learn the essentials of flying and to be able to fly safely.

The horror stories you hear over the news and read in the papers about hang gliding accidents inevitably involve inexperienced fliers who took on more than they were ready for, Goodfellow and Kells say.

"The newspapers are always looking for a story that's dramatic or is a horror story," Goodfellow commented in a slightly defensive tone. "But anybody who has been hurt hang gliding . . . it's been their own fault."

"Between the two of us, we've spent about 80 to 100 hours in the air and we've never been hurt or injured at all except for a few scrapes and bruises acquired while learning," Goodfellow added. "And back then you had to learn on your own. Now there's no excuse for not learning through someone else."

"With over 100 hours of air time, the two still haven't grown a bit tired of the sport."

"Every flight is wild," Kells commented. "There's always something significant in each flight."

After their stay in Idaho, Kells and Goodfellow say their next adventure will be to travel to either Europe or North America to fly there. But, deep in the back of their minds, is a dream, which perhaps may come true some day. That dream is to fly a hang glider from the top of Mount Everest.

"Our dream is to fly Everest," Kells revealed. "It is possible to do. No one has ever flown it. It's not flyable for more than a week out of the whole year."

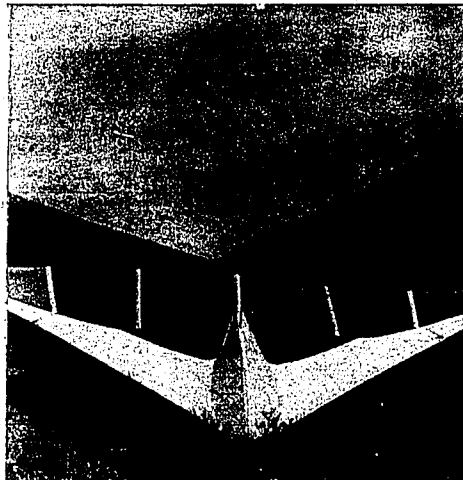

"We'd need a lot of sponsorship," he acknowledged. "It's a 30 day hike just to the base camp. It would be an expedition and there'd be a lot of training. We'd have to be flown half way up the mountain and then hike the rest."

"It would take a year to do it because we'd have to wait for the right day," he said, his voice rising with enthusiasm. "We'd have to be waiting on the mountain, which is almost 30,000 feet high. We'd do it in the dead air and I'd estimate a couple of hours in the air."

By ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

Q: One of my favorites has always been the French actress, Simon Signoret. What has become of her? — H.L., Austin Tex.

A: Simone lives and works in France. Her autobiography has just been published and is the rage of Paris this month. The actress spent a year working with a collaborator on the book and then threw the entire manuscript away and wrote her story herself. The autobiography is extremely frank and candid and tells tales about everyone, including her husband, Yves Montand.

A: Some are just as rough the newest time around. For instance, Dani Greco (Buddy's Lauren Bacall and Barbra Streisand). Charles was quoted as saying that he met both actresses and was "too nervous to talk to Lauren Bacall," and as for Streisand, he said "I couldn't look into her eyes."

Q: Has Muhammad Ali really been bitten by the acting bug, or is the Champ just going to do his own life story and then get back to sports? — M.D., Chicago.

A: All feels his real calling is the ministry and that will be number one in his life. However, the acting bug may have gotten to him for a little nip, because he says he wants to do a movie a year. Muhammad says Egypt and Libya are putting up $14 million for him to do a film about a black slave in ancient Egypt who becomes a warrior.

Q: Don't you agree that Roger Moore has settled nicely into his James Bond action thriller rule? Will he keep on being 007 forever? — D.L., St. Paul.

A: We don't think so. Moore has finished up his three-contract deal on the Bond series and is getting very restless. The producers would have to come up with a lot more money (he's been getting half a million per film) to tie up the 49-year-old actor in any more of the Bond pictures.

Q: We were intrigued by the news that Grace Kelly is now a member of the board of directors of 20th Century-Fox. Is this a volunteer job, or does Princess Grace get a salary? — V.J., New Haven, Conn.

A: The Princess confines her charity work to Monaco and gets about $2,000 a year plus another $20 for each Fox board meeting she attends. Grace is trying to do a responsible, professional job, although we're sure all Fox had in mind was to add a touch of class to their board of directors.

Q: What's the status on that scandalous romance between playwright Harold Pinter and Lady Antonia Fraser? — M.H., Knoxville.

A: Lady Antonia, daughter of Lord Longford, England's most vocal anti-porn campaigner, left husband Hugh Fraser, a member of parliament, to go and live with playwright Pinter. Fraser, being a staunch Catholic, would not consider divorce. However, we hear he recently changed his mind and will file suit very soon. Meanwhile, the almost-engaged lovebirds are busy with Pinter's latest project — directing the hit comedy, "Otherwise Engaged," which they brought to the U.S. from London.

Q: Now that casino gambling has been approved for Atlantic City, N.J., do you think it will cut into Las Vegas businesses? — T.P., New York.

A: Some insiders predict the competition will be very keen when Atlantic City gambling starts up in 18 months or so. Las Vegas biggles may not be anticipating trouble this soon but one thing is sure: They're cutting their entertainment costs. Debbie Reynolds is getting $107,000 a week at the Riviera — a lot less than she got at the Desert Inn. Glen Campbell is also singing for less. And we hear Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme are on the lookout for decent cars.

... a screaming match

Q: Will we get the uncensored version when the Tennessee Williams play "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" is shown on TV? — H.H., Boise, Idaho.

A: Well, not quite. Seems two versions of the play were done, which stars Laurence Olivier with Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner. One is cleared up for U.S. TV and the other is more explicit for Europe. NBC will air the show Dec. 6.

... Richard did it for her

SCANDAL TIME: Everyone is worrying about a celebrity marriage because the bride is seeing too much of another man. What has been overlooked in all this fretting is that the bride prefers girls and the groom has been keeping a male lover in Malibu for the last ten years.

Q: I just finished Anne Baxter's autobiography, "Intermission." What are her plans now that she's left Australia? Will she go back to acting? — C.Y., Ashville, N.C.

A: Anne would like to resume her career and there's an extraordinary possibility ahead. Joe Mankiewicz, who did "All About Eve" remember Anne playing the ruthless Eve Harrington in that? Well, like to do "Intermission" as the sequel. This would be what happens to Eve after she leaves the theater. And Anne, of course, would like to star.

Q: How come a movie has never been done on the life of that all-time great boxing champion, Jack Dempsey? — R.R., Burlington, Vt.

A: Because Dempsey has spurned all movie offers for the past 30 years, that's why. However, this is one role that actor James Cagney has always wanted to play, and we hear from a close associate of Dempsey's that he just may permit Cagney to be the one to do his life story.

Q: How does Liza Minnelli feel about the movie she did with her father, Vincente Minnelli? — L.A., Kansas City, Mo.

A: Liza thinks "A Matter of Time," with ruined in the editing. She's gotten her friend Martin Scorsese, who directed her in "New York, New York," to help her form a protest group against American International Pictures claiming that the company ruined the film in the final editing.

Q: Now that Warren Beatty seems to be occupied with other women, what about his former flame, Julie Christie? — F.L., Portland, Ore.

A: Julie has been seen in Malibu with a very handsome, very athletic, very blond young man. She's still as reclusive as ever, and no one at the beach colony knows who her friend is. Some who have seen them afar think he's a Hollywood stuntman. We'll keep you posted.

Q: Is it true that Jason Roberts Jr has a drinking problem? — T.Z., Coral Gables, Fla.

A: Roberts used to have a drinking problem, but not any more. About three years ago, he decided to try to pull his life together. With the help of psychiatry and hypno-therapy, he managed to quit and has been dry ever since.

Q: What was the nature of Richard Harris' illness that he had to drop out of the Ingmar Bergman movie that he was signed for? — P.B., Seattle.

A: As it turned out, Harris wasn't ill after all; he was trying to hold his marriage together. His wife, model Ann Turkel, has ambitions to be a movie star and Richard promised to do a film with her. When he accepted the Bergman assignment, "The Serpent's Eye," with Liv Ullmann, which he was eager to do, Ann was upset. So Harris gave up the part which was then given to David Carradine.

BILL COSBY
... commercials in seven figures

Q: Now that he's recently stashed himself up in rustic Vermont, what is Alexander Solzhenitsyn doing with all his money? I hear he's getting big bucks in royalties for his great novels like "The Gulag Archipelago." — A.A., Alexandria, Va.

A: We can tell you something you don't know about a cool half million of it. Solzhenitsyn has just used that sum to buy a rare Stradivarius cello from his friend and fellow dissident, the great Russian cellist, Mstislav Rostropovich, who is permanently "on leave" from the Soviet Union.

ex) married David Janssen about a year ago. The other night he had a very hostile screaming match at L.A.'s posh celebrity restaurant, La Scala. Onlookers felt Janssen was replaying his old role from the movie "Once Is Not Enough."

Q: How can a terrific comedy star like Bill Cosby find time to do all these commercials on TV? Seems to be that every time I switch on the set I hear Bill peddling something or other. — S.P., Harrisburg, Pa.

A: Well, money just might have a wee bit to do with it. Bill's doing lucrative spot ads for an auto company and several food processors. He tells a friend his annual take is now seven figures. Bill has found time also, believe it or not, to write a thesis that earned him a Ph.D. from the University of Massachusetts. In his present hometown of Amherst, it's on the use of media in communications.

BOOK OF THE WEEK: The big talk in London is about a book called "Confessions of a Society Photographer," by Allan Warren. In it, he quotes Prince Charles about his two favorite actresses. They're

Series actors absent

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some of the actors in "The Moneychangers" mini-series never spoke to each other — in fact, they never even met.

Ralph Bellamy explained why during an interview, shaking his head ruefully as he contrasted television movies with the golden days of Hollywood.

Bellamy is one of the all-star cast in the six and a half hour television version of Arthur Hailey's best-selling novel that NBC will show in four parts.

The two-hour opening episode premieres Dec. 4, 9-11 p.m., Eastern time, and is to be followed by 90-minute segments as part of the Big Event on Dec. 5, 12 and 19.

The cast is headed by Kirk Douglas as Alox Vandervoort, Christopher Plummer as Roscoe Heyward, and includes Helen Hayes, Jean Peters, Anne Baxter, Lorne Greene and Timothy Bottoms.

"The Moneychangers" took about three and a half months to shoot and the only people who were there throughout were Douglas and Plummer," Bellamy said. "It's because of the budget — it's the only way a feature film can carry the cost.

"Almost all of us knew each other, but we never met unless we had scenes together. I've known Helen Hayes for years, but we didn't get to see each other.

"That's not the way it used to be. In the Hollywood movie days it was an easy, comfortable thing, compared to the pressure today. It seems to me we got so much done, and we had more fun doing it. There was a relationship between cast and crew that photographed some way or another.

"Today, as opposed to this, you see an uptight cast wondering if they are going to get this speech out."

Bellamy made an exception for Ross Hunter, who produced "The Moneychangers," adding that a producer tended to bring his own atmosphere with him onto the set, and Hunter primarily is a movie producer, even when producing movies for television.

The Hailey novel is the story of two vice presidents struggling for the presidency of a banking empire, with Bellamy playing the retiring vice president who acts as caretaker.

Bellamy's Broadway credits include "State of the Union" and Franklin D. Roosevelt in "Sunrise at Campobello."

Discover Litton's new world of microwave cooking

Litton Combination Microwave Range Model 610 suggested price $849**

Combination, Microwave, Conventional.

This new Litton combination microwave range lets you select the one best way to cook your favorite food — better.

Combination of Microwave and Conventional Cooking.

Why microwave and conventional cooking in one oven? Simply because the two in combination cook better as one. Microwaves penetrate and cook the food quickly; conventional heat browns in crispness. And saves time and electric energy, too.

Microwave Speed.

Conventional Heat.

Yet, the Litton combination microwave range can also be used as a conventional oven, or for smokeless, closed-door broiling. And it's available with a self-cleaning oven system that removes even the toughest baked-on stains.

Two Combination Models.

Model 630 with deluxe coil-cooktop as shown, or Model 610 combination microwave range with continuous cleaning oven. You'll find other innovative and energy-saving ways to cook in Litton's complete line of countertop microwave ovens, combination and double-oven microwave ranges.

Model L610

Litton Micro-Browner™ . . . exclusive with Litton microwave ovens. (limited quantities)

Introducing Litton microwave cooking and micro-browning

Your microwave oven and kitchen remain cool, yet you enjoy the appetizing appeal of conventionally broiled foods.

With the Litton Micro-Browner, you'll have light, golden brown pancakes and French toast, crisp hash browns, sautéed steaks and chops — foods with results never before possible in a microwave oven.

Now you can use your Litton microwave oven 95% of your everyday cooking — without the use of your conventional broiler or griddle.
