

ONE OF the more serious in a rash of accidents caused by Monday's snow storm occurred this morning near the Malad-River Bridge near Tuttle in Gooding County when this 18-wheeler overturned. The driver, Carl Dudley, Salt Lake City, is in good condition at Gooding Memorial Hospital, Gooding County Deputy Bill Bunn investigated.

Fuel lid off?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford was ready today to send Congress a plan for removing federal controls on gasoline prices while protecting consumers and independent dealers against sharp changes later in market conditions.

Ford's proposal would take effect if neither House nor Senate reject it within 15 days. Gasoline prices, controlled in 1973 with other petroleum products, have gone up about 3 cents a gallon each year since then, mainly because the law allows higher costs for imported crude oil, refining and marketing to be passed along to consumers. Virtually all other oil prices have been deregulated.

Ford wheels out tax plans again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today recommended a $10 billion tax cut for individuals and a $2.5 billion cut for business in 1977. But he also proposed a substantial 1978 increase in the Social Security payroll tax.

The proposal, following through on a Ford campaign promise, is almost identical to the plan Ford proposed to Congress unsuccessfully during the last Congress.

Ford's proposal is expected to have little impact on other Congress tax-writing committees or on the recommendations expected from President-elect Carter later this week.

The cornerstone of Ford's plan is an increase in the current $750 personal exemption to $1,000, replacing the current tax credit of either $35 per person or up to $190 per family. A credit is subtracted directly from taxes owed while an exemption or deduction is subtracted from income before taxes are calculated.

The Ford plan would lower the corporate tax rate from 48 per cent to 46 per cent and would make permanent other business tax cuts and advantages passed last year.

Under the Ford plan, however, the tax rate for the Social Security payroll tax would increase from the current 5.35 per cent to 6.15 per cent in 1978. Under current law, Ford said, it would have gone to 6.05 per cent. Congress is almost certain to ignore this proposal.

Carter outlines divestiture plan

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter announced plans today to transfer to a trust his interest in the family-owned peanut farm and warehouse and sell his 1,056 shares of stock before the inauguration.

Carter's arrangements to turn his holdings over to a trustee were designed to insulate him from any financial gain or loss from any of the peanut company operations and avoid the appearance of a conflict of interest while he is president.

Under the plan, the trustee could lease or sell the warehouse but only rent the farm. Press Secretary Jody Powell explained that Carter "was not willing to give the trustee the right to sell his farmland," which has been in the family more than five generations.

At the same time, the president-elect announced strict guidelines for disclosure of sources of income and divestitures to be made public by his top level appointees shortly after the inauguration.

The appointees also must promise to refrain for two years from taking a position in private industry in an area in which they had jurisdiction while in government, or to make any contact related to their government service.

The president-elect said he is taking the following steps:

— All Carter's interest in Carter's Warehouse and Carter Farms, Inc., his father's estate and all property except his private home and personal items will be transferred to a trust with income or principal available to Carter only in cash.

— All common stock is being sold, consisting of 100 shares of Rich's, Inc., an Atlanta Department store, and 958 shares of Advance Investors.

— Carter Farms, Inc., comprising all farm land owned by members of the immediate family, will be retained by the trust but rented for an annual fixed amount. The annual after-tax income to Carter will not exceed the amount he receives during the first year, calendar 1977.

— Carter's Warehouse, a partnership consisting of Jimmy Carter, his brother Billy and his mother Lillian, will be either leased for four years for a fixed amount, or sold at the discretion of the trustee. (Continued on p. 3)

Storm leaves slick roads

MAGIC VALLEY — The winter's first snow storm left icy and snow covered roads throughout the valley Tuesday.

Law enforcement officers throughout Magic Valley reported many minor accidents, but there were few serious injuries.

Gooding County Sheriff's officers reported a large truck overturned this morning near the Malad Bridge at Tuttle, pinning the driver, Carl Dudley, Salt Lake City, inside for a short time. Dudley was listed in good condition at Gooding Memorial Hospital.

The storm, which dropped about six inches of snow in Halley and between four and five inches in Shoshone and other North Side communities, moved on to the Midwest today.

Snow continued to fall in northern and southeastern Idaho today, but the sun was shining in Twin Falls. No new snow was reported falling in Magic Valley areas today.

Idaho State Police said today all roads in this area are open but most are snow covered and icy. Chains are advised in the mountain areas.

Interstate-80 between Burley and Odega was closed Monday night because of low visibility and requests by the state police.

The delay in getting the route cleared closed by the State Division of Highways brought criticism Monday night from Burley Mayor Charles Shaddock.

Shaddock questioned the state's procedure, under which the State Division of Highways is the only agency with authority to close a road.

The highway division closed the interstate in the vicinity of Colter about 8 p.m. Monday but the Burley mayor felt it should have been closed sooner and with less confusion.

Shaddock said the highway division was contacted and officials there indicated about 4:30 p.m. they would send a man to the area to assess the visibility problem.

More than two hours later when the closure order still had not been made despite pleas by the state officer in the Colter area, Shaddock again tried to call officials at the Shoshone highway district office.

Shaddock said he finally contacted Mel Larraway, district engineer, who told him he would contact other officials and the road would be closed.

Shaddock said he received a call at 8:03 p.m. that the road closure had been ordered. He suggested the procedure is too complicated and questioned the need to send a state highway representative to the area after an assessment already has been made by state police.

"We've had too many slide-offs to count," Jerome County Sheriff Eliza Hall said this morning.

The most serious accident in the Jerome area occurred about 4:30 p.m. Monday when two cars collided head on on the Appleton Road two and one-half miles west of Jerome, injuring a Jerome woman.

Lee McCarley, 16, Jerome, was reported in fair condition today at St. Benedict's Hospital. He was a passenger in a car driven by Edward W. McKean, 16, Jerome.

Deputy Sheriff Larry Webb said the McKean youth lost control of his vehicle on the ice and the car collided with one driven by Ray Dewey, 25, Rouse's, Wendell.

Dewey was not hurt, but other passengers in the McKean car, Jerry McKean, 15, and Bobby Jean McKean, 12, were taken to St. Benedict's for observation.

Also hospitalized overnight in Jerome was Douglas Scott Richards, Magna, Utah, after his car overturned Monday about 10 p.m. on Interstate 80 near Milepost 164. Three other passengers in the Utah car were not hurt, Sheriff Hall said.

Burley Police Chief Richard May said the traffic problem "was not as bad as we thought it was going to be," although there were several minor accidents in the city.

The urban areas of Blaine and County reported only a couple of non-injury accidents. The Blaine County Sheriff's Department received no accident reports, and "The Cassia County counterpart reported only one minor accident."

In Twin Falls, drivers did remarkably well, according to Bill Stanem, Twin Falls City Police Identification officer. Only seven minor accidents involving no injuries on Monday when icy roads first began plaguing Twin Falls.

Truby advises schools ignore form deadline

By George Wiley Times-News writer

BOISE — State Superintendent of Public Instruction Roy Truby Monday advised Idaho school district officials to delay filing forms required by the federal Office of Civil Rights (OCR).

The forms contain close to 400 responses and ask school districts to detail various sorts of class enrollment by sex and race. The forms also ask districts to report the incidence of discipline by sex and race to provide a composite picture of class enrollment by sex and race for each school. Graduation requirements by sex are also checked for differences.

An OCR representative said this morning he was not sure he advised of Truby's action and did not know if the advice to delay would be a violation of federal statutes.

Truby said he was not sure he advised of Truby's action and did not know if the advice to delay would be a violation of federal statutes.

In advising the delay beyond the Feb. 1 deadline for the student-teacher report forms, Truby said the Department of Education was anxious to meet both the letter and spirit of civil rights laws, but he added, "These new forms ask school districts to provide excessive data, follow an impossible time schedule, and request redundant information."

Truby added the report forms also encourage arbitrary and inaccurate reporting which could lead to discrimination against students.

"As an example of the information requested by the Office of Civil Rights, schools are asked for a record of each child disciplined by race and sex over the past year," Truby said. "Most school principals would have difficulty remembering most any student discipline and the type of punishment administered."

He said the national Council of Chief State School Officers, the National School Boards Association and the Secondary Principals Association had all objected to the way the OCR forms had been written and the information requested.

Maintaining that the forms bear little relationship to the ideal of civil rights statutes, Truby added, "My office is perfectly willing to take the brunt of any negotiations with the Office of Civil Rights on behalf of the school districts if administrators fail to meet the reporting deadline."

Don Watkins, public information director for the Department of Education, said this morning Truby's advice to the districts did not amount to a violation of federal statutes.

"He's not telling them to violate any statutes," Watkins said.

US court cuts OSHA's search powers

By KEN HODGE Times-News writer

BOISE — A three-judge federal appeals court has overruled the power of Federal officials to search businesses without a search warrant.

The ruling, stemming from a case brought by a former Twin Falls man, shuts down non-voluntary U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) inspections in four northwestern states and has thrown the federal agency's powers into question nationally.

OSHA officials in Washington told the Times-News today the decision will be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Under the decision, Idaho businessmen are no longer required to submit to inspections by OSHA inspectors without a search warrant.

The far-reaching decision, handed down on Dec. 30, declared the OSHA law's mandatory inspection provision to be "unconstitutional and void in that it directly offends against the Fourth Amendment of the Constitution which protects citizens against illegal searches. Judges M. Oliver Koelsch, J. Blaine Anderson and Ruy McNichols, also ruled that OSHA inspectors and all others authorized by OSHA law are hereby forever permanently restrained and enjoined from making non-voluntary OSHA inspections without a search warrant.

Idaho Attorney General Wayne Kidwell termed the decision which upheld the rights of a Pocatello businessman "a triumph for individual liberty."

"It demonstrates the constitution is not dead as an instrument to protect people from an agency that thinks of itself as all-powerful," Kidwell said Monday.

The ruling came after more than a year's legal battles waged by a former Twin Falls man, Bill Barlow, now a Pocatello plumbing contractor, after he refused to allow an OSHA inspector to enter his place-of-business in September, 1975.

"They had no business putting a law like this on the books," Barlow said. "I was ready for them when they came. I had studied up on this."

The decision came more than a year after the nature of the court in which it was made, according to John Runtz, Barlow's Boise attorney.

The decision threatens OSHA inspections all over the nation, Runtz said, because lawyers all over the U.S. will begin citing this decision as precedent in their cases against OSHA.

"The fact it was made by a three-judge panel makes it very strong," Runtz said. "It was not merely a district court decision."

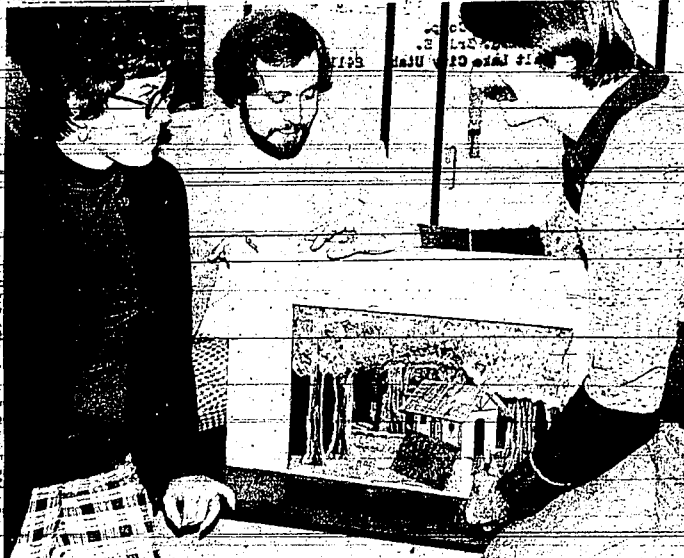

"This decision is now the law in Idaho," Runtz said Monday. "And in other States, the decision forms a precedent — and a pretty strong precedent."

Rep. George V. Hansen, R-Idaho, declared OSHA is out of business. For all intents and purposes, this unpopular, oppressive and unproductive act has been repealed.

Hansen said the veto is the most significant of a series of Fourth Amendment victories over OSHA.

TF eyes fire fighter gripes

By BOB ZUCKERMAN

Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council Monday night has allowed the city manager and fire chief three months at most to consider 54 grievances filed by city fire fighters.

Chief Robert Bopp would not take the full three months allotted by the council. "The time element is ridiculous," because the fire chief has already sent the association two letters saying he is against the concept, Vickers said.

Charles Brumbach argued the time extension was needed to consider each grievance separately. "While the grievances concern two basic concepts, each also concerns different persons, circumstances, which need to be considered separately," Brumbach said. "I feel an obligation to do it the way I've done it in the past," Millar said. "Each employee is entitled to as thorough consideration as possible."

In a related matter, the council voted 6-1 to approve a change in the city's grievance procedure ordinance which, in effect, will close all future grievance committee proceedings to the public and press.

The grievances, filed two weeks ago, concern two major issues. The fire fighters have asked that they be allowed to continue trading shifts with other fire fighters when they want to and be allowed to buy and sell shifts among themselves.

James Vickers, local fire fighters' association vice-president, called these "prevailing rights" which each fire fighter had had in the past. Because the fire chief had recently denied shift traders and sales, the fire fighters filed the grievances.

Councilman Leon Smith said allowing the grievance committee hearings to be delayed until June or July is game playing.

Jerome, Lincoln jobless benefit totals decline

JEROME (UPI) — The average number of persons receiving unemployment compensation in Jerome and Lincoln counties declined during 1976.

The local economy is doing well despite depressed farm prices, Skaugg said. Skaugg said some real problems developed with the closure of the Ida-Gem Dairy plant and a shortage of money experienced by area farmers.

The opening of the new Transport Tire Co. in Jerome will create an additional 20 jobs.

'Pagliacci' slated at CSI in January

TWIN FALLS — The Northwest Opera Association will present Lencorevalli's tragic opera, "I Pagliacci," to Twin Falls audiences in late January at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium.

Two matinees especially for Magic Valley students will open Jan. 26 and 28 at 1:30 p.m., and evening performance will open at 8:15 p.m. Jan. 29, and a final matinee will show at 2:15 p.m. Jan. 30.

The story of the opera centers around a traveling group of players who are to present a performance to the citizens of a small Italian village.

Simplot to oppose gambling

BOISE (UPI) — The J.F.R. Simplot Co. plans to fight a move to legalize gambling in Idaho, warning pro-gambling interests it will "vigorously" attempt to get a constitutional amendment through the legislature.

Lloyd E. Haight, Simplot senior vice president and general counsel, wrote to Terry Pederson, Coeur d'Alene, a representative of the programming group, Gaming, Inc., last month stating the Simplot opposition.

Pederson said the letter advised that "Simplot Industries, Inc., and all of its affiliated companies, together with the officers of those companies, will vigorously oppose any effort to amend the Constitution as you propose."

Haight declined to discuss the letter but Bill Maxwell, Simplot public relations director, said he wrote it after the company-owned Bannock Hotel in Pocatello was asked by Gaming, Inc., to donate to a petition drive.

Maxwell said he believed Simplot's would be as "influential as we possibly could" in opposing the move to legalize gambling.

Carter outlines divestiture plan

Statehood snags

© N.Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — The Ford administration might be unable to prepare legislation for Puerto Rico statehood before President Ford leaves office on Jan. 20, White House press secretary Ron Neseid said Monday.

Ford target of attack

MOSCOW (UPI) — In an unusual personal attack, the official news agency Tass accused President Ford of seeking to "step up the arms race" at the expense of social programs during his final days in office.

The Soviet press frequently criticizes the United States for its military spending but usually blames the Pentagon or unidentified "certain circles" in the United States.

An attack on the president is rare in these days of detente.

Tass based its criticism Monday on Ford's New Year letter to "Glas" with Time magazine.

"Ford alleged that in the last 10 years the United States has spent ever more resources on various social programs; which took up an ever increasing percentage of the federal budget and the gross national product," Tass said.

"At the same time Ford advocated that the United States step up the arms race. Further cuts in appropriations for social programs should finance the increasing military expenditures," it said.

Senate freshmen attack job bar

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twelve freshmen senators plan to challenge an "intolerable" proposal to bar them from committee assignments until the entire Senate committee system is reorganized.

The freshmen, called together by Sens. John Melcher, D-Mont., and Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M., unanimously agreed to raise the issue in Republican and Democratic caucuses today before the opening session of the new Congress. Six newcomers were absent.

Melcher said the freshmen have talked with the leadership of both parties and hope the squabble can be resolved. But Schmitt said they are prepared for a floor fight if their compromise is rejected.

The freshmen propose temporary assignments, which would remain in effect until adoption of a Senate reorganization plan revising the existing committee structure, Melcher said.

This would ensure them a vote on early committee business — especially confirmation hearings for President-elect Jimmy Carter's Cabinet designs.

Sponsors of the widely backed reorganization resolution plan to deny the freshmen committee assignments until the new structure is approved.

"An intolerable position," Melcher claimed.

The reorganization sponsors want the holdover committees — meeting with only their holdover members — to handle the Cabinet confirmations.

Under this plan, the freshmen would be invited to attend the hearings and ask questions but would not have a committee vote.

Loan OK'd to Britain

© N.Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — The International Monetary Fund approved late Monday a loan to Britain in various currencies totaling about $3.9 billion — the largest single credit in the fund's 30-year history.

The standby credit is to last for two years, with Britain allowed to draw only $2.26 billion during 1977. The announcement said the arrangement included "various performance clauses" of the British government (UNBCT) for strengthening the United Kingdom economy.

Auto plants turn out 8.5 million vehicles

DETROIT (UPI) — Bolstered by the best December in eight years, U.S. automakers built nearly 8.5 million cars in 1976 — a 2½ per cent gain over the previous year and the best since 1970, the year the Arab oil embargo threw the industry into a two-year slump.

The report from the four companies Monday represented a strong comeback from the worst slump since the Great Depression.

The automakers plan to start 1977 with the production of about 913,000 cars, a 21 per cent gain over last January's output and the best year-opening month in four years.

The strong pace will stand despite plant shutdowns already announced that will idle 39,000 workers for one-to three-week periods this month. The plant closings will trim output of some slow-selling small cars.

Only American Motors among the four companies reported a drop in 1976 output — 34 per cent — because of its continuing small-car sales slump.

The other companies, able to shift to higher production of larger models as consumer demand changed, reported strong gains over 1975. Chrysler was up 48 per cent, General Motors 33 per cent and Ford just under 14 per cent.

GM, the largest auto company in the world, accounted for 57.6 per cent of all U.S. auto production in 1976, a gain of nearly 4 points over the previous year.

While output of 8,492,843 cars was a 26½ per cent gain, a falloff in sales in the final three months of the year left the sales improvement at a lower level.

The sales tally for the year due Wednesday is expected to show the four companies delivered 8,562,000 cars in 1976.

Letters back smoking ban

© Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — Almost 23,000 letters have flooded the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) since it asked for public comment on whether all smoking should be banned on commercial airliners.

The letters — the most the CAB ever has received on a single subject — are running about 4-1 in favor of a total ban, according to an unofficial sample.

In almost identical terms, smokers and non-smokers alike are saying their constitutional rights are being infringed upon and they are tired of being pushed around.

Controls useless

© N.Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — An unpublished inter-agency task force report has concluded that federal price and supply controls "would not work" if there were another oil embargo.

After a detailed study of the Federal Energy Administration's regulation of crude oil and petroleum products, the task force concluded also that the cost of regulation to the public exceeded the "few" benefits conferred.

"Moreover," the report warns, "though the current regulations are totally unworkable to managing a future shortage, their existence may fill the American public into a false belief that a program now exists for the management of possible energy crises."

For this "false security," the report adds, the industry and the consuming public "incur higher costs than might otherwise be the case."

The report from the four companies Monday represented a strong comeback from the worst slump since the Great Depression.

The automakers plan to start 1977 with the production of about 913,000 cars, a 21 per cent gain over last January's output and the best year-opening month in four years.

The strong pace will stand despite plant shutdowns already announced that will idle 39,000 workers for one-to three-week periods this month. The plant closings will trim output of some slow-selling small cars.

Only American Motors among the four companies reported a drop in 1976 output — 34 per cent — because of its continuing small-car sales slump.

The other companies, able to shift to higher production of larger models as consumer demand changed, reported strong gains over 1975. Chrysler was up 48 per cent, General Motors 33 per cent and Ford just under 14 per cent.

GM, the largest auto company in the world, accounted for 57.6 per cent of all U.S. auto production in 1976, a gain of nearly 4 points over the previous year.

While output of 8,492,843 cars was a 26½ per cent gain, a falloff in sales in the final three months of the year left the sales improvement at a lower level.

The sales tally for the year due Wednesday is expected to show the four companies delivered 8,562,000 cars in 1976.

Controls useless

© N.Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — An unpublished inter-agency task force report has concluded that federal price and supply controls "would not work" if there were another oil embargo.

After a detailed study of the Federal Energy Administration's regulation of crude oil and petroleum products, the task force concluded also that the cost of regulation to the public exceeded the "few" benefits conferred.

"Moreover," the report warns, "though the current regulations are totally unworkable to managing a future shortage, their existence may fill the American public into a false belief that a program now exists for the management of possible energy crises."

For this "false security," the report adds, the industry and the consuming public "incur higher costs than might otherwise be the case."

Auto plants turn out 8.5 million vehicles

DETROIT (UPI) — Bolstered by the best December in eight years, U.S. automakers built nearly 8.5 million cars in 1976 — a 2½ per cent gain over the previous year and the best since 1970, the year the Arab oil embargo threw the industry into a two-year slump.

Dear Virginia:

I would like to tell you a little bit of the true story of PONDEROSA INNS, INC.

Ponderosa Inns, Inc. owed thousands of dollars to their suppliers carrying over from 1972 through 1974:

Bannock Motor Inn Owed	$179,171.69
(some of the bills like the Rawlins Dairy were over 4 years old).
Burley Ponderosa Inn	$199,717.55
Idaho Falls Ponderosa	$91,201.75
Ponderosa of Koval	$38,627.37
for a total of	$509,264.01

On top of this, the Internal Revenue Service was claiming in excess of $200,000 in back due taxes. Today Ponderosa Inns, Inc. has paid the Internal Revenue Service all except $28,000.

Ponderosa Inn does business with over 100 local merchants and pays every bill promptly. It has paid in settlement distributions to its past creditors of previous management over $109,000. It presently has on deposit in a Trust Account $130,000 which it anticipates will be distributed to suppliers shortly. Ponderosa Inns is continuing to deposit $30,000 every quarter against the previous bills incurred by prior management.

I think that everybody at the Ponderosa should be given a great hand of applause, don't you.

Oral history project needed

Less than a century has passed since the founding of most of towns in Magic Valley. For this reason, historians generally wouldn't consider southern Idaho a prime spot for research and study.

But the continued assumption southern Idaho is too new to have a history worth recording will result in further deterioration this year of one priceless kind of historical lore.

Inevitably, during this calendar year some of the remaining early pioneers of Magic Valley will die without having ever recorded their early recollections of his area.

In a matter of a few years it may become impossible to get a first person account of the early days of Magic Valley. Those who could tell remarkable tales of those early years will be gone.

A child who rode in a horse-drawn buggy to Bickel School in Twin Falls in 1905 now is 80 years old. Kids who gleefully sat around sagebrush Christmas trees in the first decade of this century also are aged.

Civic groups in Magic Valley would do well to consider starting oral history projects to record the stories of the remaining pioneers.

No widespread oral history taping projects currently are underway in either Jerome or Twin Falls counties.

The League of Women Voters in Twin Falls, the Idaho Historical Society and the Twin Falls Public Library periodically have tried small oral history projects but a chronic lack of funds and some confusion over how to choose who should be recorded has all but stymied these modest efforts.

With more volunteer help and some financial assistance a comprehensive oral history project could be started this winter by local civic groups.

The Idaho Historical Society can give some direction on how to interview pioneers and the Twin Falls Library could be a caretaker for the taped recollections of the early pioneers.

Magic Valley has changed much in 70 years. Today, the farms in southern Idaho are as modern as farms anywhere in the nation. The towns are filled with the same technology as any towns.

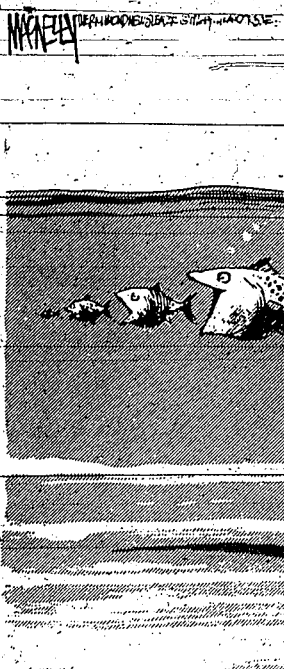

But unlike most of America, Magic Valley only two generations ago was a pioneer community carved out of arid desert along the Snake River. As the American frontier was closing Magic Valley pioneers were in the final chapter.

Some of the participants in that very historical time in Idaho are still able to tell their stories. For the benefit of later generations in Idaho these invaluable folk histories shouldn't be lost.

Carter cabinet disappointing

By WILLIAM J. EATON
Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — The Carter Cabinet is loaded with brains, lawyers and old Washington hands.

It has two women — or one more than any previous Cabinet in history. Two blacks will have Cabinet or Cabinet-level rank — another first.

Its makeup clearly was influenced more by blacks and the increasingly vocal women's movement than by organized labor or the additional power-brokers of the Democratic Party.

Yet, for differing reasons, most of Carter's supporters are not entirely happy about the results.

President-elect Jimmy Carter, they say, is the principal reason for their disappointment.

In his primary campaign, Carter presented himself as an ordinary peanut farmer, a Washington outsider who won applause when he said: "I am not a lawyer."

The Carter Cabinet and near-Cabinet, however, was formed by someone who took a differing view. It includes:

—Eleven persons with long experience in Washington, including six who held top posts in previous administrations.

—Seven persons with doctor of philosophy degrees, with five who specialized in economics.

The Cabinet group of 17 top officials is relatively young, with an average age of 49.5 years. Yet it seems to lack a spirit of adventure or the zest that marked the advent of John F. Kennedy's New Frontier team in 1961. It has been called plain dull.

Carter's selection process was heralded by him as a methodical search for the most talented persons in the nation.

Yet, he himself bypassed the process to make the most controversial selection of all — the choice of Atlanta attorney Griffin B. Bell to be attorney general.

In doing so, Carter seemed to break, or at least bend, his campaign pledge that he would take the Justice Department out of politics.

Bell is a personal friend, a political adviser and the law partner of Carter's closest confidante and strategist, Charles Kirbo.

In addition, Bell drew fire from civil rights leaders and consumer advocates for his record as a federal appeals judge. His support of

Supreme Court nominee G. Harrold Carswell in 1970 — anathema to blacks and organized labor — was defended by Bell in his first news conference after he was chosen for attorney general.

The unhappiness over Bell's appointment was intensified because Carter's leading black supporters had recommended that he name a black to fill the post.

Carter apparently tried to interest Vernon Jordan of the Urban League but was turned down. The names of federal judges Leon Higginbotham and Texas Rep. Barbara Jordan also were urged upon him.

The Atlanta Constitution reported, however, that Carter personally picked Bell for the job on Dec. 14.

The reaction from Clarence Mitchell, Washington director of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, was harsh.

"As usual in this situation, the President-elect placed trust above competence," Mitchell said. But Carter insisted that Bell's credentials were "superb" and predicted he would be hailed as a "great" attorney general.

The fact that Bell felt compelled to resign from three social clubs in Atlanta that excluded blacks and Jews only added to liberal Democrats' displeasure.

Devez and hardliners both had some regrets over the choice of the defense-state team. The critics of the Vietnam War wondered aloud why it was necessary for Carter to select Cyrus R. Vance, who was deputy secretary of defense during the height of the fighting in Southeast Asia, to head the State Department.

In the same way, the antiwar group was critical of Harold Brown, tapped for secretary of defense, because of his hawkish role as Air Force secretary during the Vietnam years.

The backers of Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., however, questioned whether Brown was too soft in talks with the Soviet Union on limiting nuclear weapons.

There was relatively little controversy over the choice of Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., for secretary of transportation or the selection of Rep. Bob Bergland, D-Minn., for secretary of agriculture.

Carter's appointment of W. Michael Blumenthal, Bendix Corp. chairman, as secretary of the treasury, was a surprise since he was not widely known in the financial community before the choice was announced.

AFL-CIO president George Meany and most other top union leaders were disappointed by Carter's decision to bypass Harvard economist John T. Dunlop and pick University of Texas economist Ray Marshall instead for secretary of labor.

The AFL-CIO hierarchy regarded the naming of Marshall as an effort by Carter to appease the blacks and women who had protested that Dunlop was adverse to their interests during his service as secretary of labor in the Ford administration.

Women's groups also were disturbed by the Cabinet-selection process because they felt they could not make their voices heard to the President-elect.

The most surprising selection of all was Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus to be secretary of the interior, a post that seems reserved for Westerners. Andrus, a former life insurance salesman with no college degree, may be the least educated of the Carter crowd.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's choice for national security adviser, seems like a Democratic counterpart to Henry A. Kissinger, who exercised vast power in the same post under President Richard M. Nixon. Brzezinski is a Polish-born scholar who has specialized in global strategy at Columbia University.

One of the most colorful of the Cabinet-nominees is Thomas B. (Bert) Lance, Carter's director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Lance, a self-made millionaire who married the banker's daughter, is an outgoing, political type who should have an easy time with Congress. As Carter's personal banker and a close friend of the new President, Lance also should do well within the administration on winning support for his ideas.

Charles Schultz, Carter's chief economic adviser, is a Washington veteran who served in both the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, winding up as budget director. He spent the eight Republican years in the "shadow government" at the Brookings Institution writing on government priorities.

The most prominent Republican on the Carter first team will be James R. Schlesinger, a utility insider of a man who impressed the President-elect with his brain power.

In the role of energy co-ordinator, and as the potential head of a new Cabinet department, the strong-willed Schlesinger may step on many toes in the Carter administration.

The third Georgian with Cabinet rank is Rep. Andrew Young, the black congressman who will be the American spokesman in the United Nations. Young, who gained a national reputation as lieutenant to civil rights advocate Martin Luther King Jr., may be the most visionary of Carter's advisers.

UN dull, but that's good

By PETER GROSE
O.R.Y. Times Service

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The General Assembly of 1976 scored one major success to help insure its own survival in world affairs: It managed to be dull. Compared with the bitter, fractious confrontations of the last two years, which threatened to tear the world legislature apart, this very dullness became a virtue.

A clear sense of relief and self-congratulation on this point was evident among delegates of all regions and ideologies as this year's General Assembly dropped through its final hours.

Viktor L. Jaračyan, director of the international organizations department of the Soviet foreign ministry, said that the session was "routine, dull, without sensations." And precisely because of that, he said, it was "businesslike and constructive."

"The whole tendency now is to get something positive done," Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said.

"I think we are on the beginning of an upbeat here in the United Nations," said the chief United States delegate, William W. Scrantom.

Part of the reason for this calming mood — one observer called it "benign tedium" — lay in the nature of this year's global developments.

In the civil war in Lebanon left the Arab world dispirited, diplomacy in southern Africa left the African bloc in suspense, and the economic troubles of the industrial nations weakened the developing world's demands for a more rapid transfer of resources.

But there was also some successful quiet diplomacy to avert sterile arguments over such issues as Korea, Puerto Rico or the Panama Canal.

Water diversion's possible, more storage needed

By ORVAL HYMAN

I was grateful for the support given to my remarks from Vern Ravenscroft in your Sunday, December 12 edition in his comparison with Ken Robison's. Ravenscroft said we "are poles apart" in my concern for developing new land with Idaho Water and the extreme view of the Statesman Editor Robison.

But there were some contentions raised by Mr. Robison which must be challenged.

He said "there is no imminent threat of water diversion to the Southwest" and contends that such a scheme once studied in 1963 is "perhaps" prohibitive now. Nothing could be further from the truth. Now that the $2 billion Central Valley Project is nearly complete and successful, there is no question but that the SW will look for more water in many directions. But the most likely is the Columbia Basin, from which millions of acre feet flow each year from the Snake watershed on down to the sea. It was feasible in 1963 and it's still practical today — cost means little when the price is free-flowing water such as the Snake. The Buckskin pipe line and lift from Lake Havasu now completed appropriated the last uncommitted rights of the Colorado. Desalination as a source for the SW, after years of study, amounts to hardly more than a capital compared to the needs. Mr. Robison for some unknown reason completely ignores the expiration of the ten-year moratorium which sheltered Idaho since 1967.

Somehow, the dirt farmers have more confidence in Sen. Len Jordan on the moratorium which he and Sen. Currier gained from Congress. Only recently in Hurley he said, "Watch out, Mr. Farmer, for an open hunting season to explore diversion not only from the Columbia Basin (which includes the Snake) but from all sources. Mr. Robison is guessing on this point which could be a calamity for Idaho if he was wrong and we relied on this false premise.

The Statesman and Mr. Robison and other groups contributed "perhaps" more to the creation of the Hells Canyon Recreation Area than any other force. At the same time, these people locked up 3 million kilowatts of hydropower generation from falling water — the lowest cost of energy known today which was an alternative? Must we wait until there's no more juice to turn the pumps, no juice to light our houses and no juice to turn your presses?

Robison laments on the inflation subject extensively. No one knows more about this than the farmer. They pay $25,000 today for a 90 HP tractor the dealers sold in 1968 for $9,000 and by 2000 AD, this similar tractor with a few more bells could cost $75,000 but should we quit now for fear of high costs in 1999? That seems to be Mr. Robison's contention and conclusion on the power problem. I prefer to cross these bridges when we come to them — not turn the clock back today. Agriculture has enjoyed its greatest growth with highest yields and best farm prices during greatest periods of inflation and we're still here. Mr. Robison can dig up thousands of statistics to prove that. But if it hasn't been easy and many a dirt farmer fell by the way side.

Robison talks of drying up the Snake downstream. With other environmentalists, he urges minimum stream flow. Upstream storage at such sites as the Lynn Crandall dam project could hold back 1.6 million acre feet of water. It would provide one-third as much power at Pioneer but Robison infers such projects which "flood high quality valleys" are taboo.

"The things Mr. Robison little realizes is that Idaho is generously wasting water today and will for some time unless we store above Milner dam. In the last 5 years, over 24 billion acre feet of water have spilled over Milner dam to the sea — this water flows down the Snake right past the noses of lower river people but too early to be used for mid-summer crops downstream and no place for upstream storage above Milner.

Robison talks of the need for minimum flow for the lower Snake, drying up at Murphy gauge. These people want minimum flow free. They want it given to them. No one yet has gotten anything from the Snake for free. So why don't the environmentalists pay for this water? Just like the irrigators have for 75 years? We could get some place on this basis.

While the environmentalists are paying for their water, don't you think they should pay a grazing fee for the thousands and thousands of wild horses that they want to feed on the public lands of the western states under the protection of certain groups? The stockman has been paying for grazing rights on these same public lands for many years. While they have their check books out, perhaps they should pay the stockman, and the fish and game department for the losses they endure from the protected coyote. When my dog kills the neighbors' sheep and calves it's my responsibility to pay the damages.

Robison says now that new irrigation development should pay "its own way". Since World War II some 1.4 million acres of new lands have been opened in Idaho — almost as much as we had before the war. There was only about 100,000 acres subsidized by pre-war legislation. The rest has all been paying its way.

Irrigation districts have been retiring debts for 75 years. Do you know that it was the people who built and paid for the American Falls dam in 1927? We raised the bond money and paid them off, and we're doing it again due to deterioration of the old structure.

On limiting acreage development, our writer supports controlled development. Years ago when the Hunt and Mindoka Pumping projects were opened, some objected saying these new crops would make a surplus, lower crop prices. Where would we be today with Idaho agriculture had some bureau told us how much land to develop? We'll still have our up and downs — low prices this year. But how would the Statesman like some bureau to tell them today that they must hold down circulation to 75,000 until the year 2000?

Our neighbors all around us are plunging ahead with new lands. The Second Bacon Lift on the Grand Coulee is being funded by Washington farmers and their state water board to open up half a million new acres. They will take our markets if we don't furnish the crops to serve it. In a nation growing with two million more souls each year and world balance of trade depending more and more on agriculture exportation of crops we have our best bet here.

Let's let time the Statesman editors looked upstream, met the Committee of Nine and decided soon to live and let live? Conservation, environmentalism and strong thriving agriculture is still Idaho's greatest boon for growth, prosperity for our new Generations.

DEAR ABBY: My mother always has something the matter with her. It's either a "splitting headache," "dizzy spells" or "something that they agree with her." She eats "pain-killers" like you would believe. If the directions say to take two, she takes four. She buys every kind she can get without a prescription. I've tried to tell her this is dangerous, but she won't listen to me. She reads your column faithfully and thinks you know everything, so maybe you can straighten her out. I'm not exaggerating, and I'm not a child. I'm a 30-year-old married woman who loves her mother and is worried sick about her.

DEAR WITHHOLD: Tell your mother that Abby said a "split" is Nature's signal that something is wrong. And to tell the pills and ignore the warning instead of seeing a physician is not only foolish, it could be fatal.

DEAR ABBY: I was invited to someone's home for dinner, and when I arrived, the stereo was blaring loudly. All during dinner and even afterward when we were talking, the stereo was turned up so high I could scarcely hear anything else, and I had to practically shout to be heard.

PAT FROM PARKLAND

DEAR PAT: I'll print it for those who aren't aware that loud stereo music is often more irritating than entertaining, plus those who timidly tolerate it rather than ask their host (or hostess) to please turn it down—a reasonable request.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a grown man who cheats at cards, and when confronted, throws the cards up in the air, runs to his room and broods for the rest of the evening?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: You should not have kept your mouth shut. But had you waited to tell him privately instead of humiliating him before the others, you could have avoided an ugly scene.

'76 big year in music field

By United Press International
The Bicentennial year was a memorable one, too, for the recording industry, which satisfied the musical tastes of all ages.
Rock, which had faltered in 1975, generated new interest in 1976, although it lacked the soul appeal of its offspring of the 1960s. With the help of Impresario Norman Graitz, modern jazz also moved forward.
In between rock and jazz were some fine recordings of movie music, mood melodies, pop instrumentals and comedy.
What were the best records of the year? The National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences will make it official with its Grammy awards next spring but all may not agree with them. To paraphrase a well-known saying, the beauty of music lies in the ears of the listeners.
It was a big year for Peter Frampton with "Frampton Comes Alive," possibly the best album of 1976. Although Led Zeppelin had another big winner in "Presence." And a new rock group named Boston caught on, quickly with a first album.

Frampton appeared to be in the lead for honors as the male artist-of-the-year, with Natalie Cole up next as best female artist.
Two veterans—Steve Miller and Rod Stewart—enjoyed a renewal of their popularity. Steve with "Fly Like an Eagle" and Rod with "A Night on the Town."
In this observer's opinion, the best single was "A Fifth of Beethoven" by Walter Murphy and the Big Apple Band. It rode high on the charts for a long time and it should get some recognition as the best instrumental of the year, too.
Another possibility as best single would be a soul tune, "Disco Lady" by Johnny Taylor.

Probably the most significant record of the year was "Convoy" by C. W. McCall because it gave impetus to the citizens band radio craze that swept the country. "Convoy" also should be considered among the best country records of the year. Dave and Sugar deserve some applause as a best country group for "The Door is Always Open" and John Denver's "Windsong" could be tapped for best country album.
Norman Grant produced many fine jazz albums; among the best being "Carter, Gillespie, Inc.," "Fitzgerald and Pops ... Again" and the Verve label released a complete recording of Grant's first jazz at the Philharmonic concert with Nat Cole, Illinois Jacquet, Les Paul and J.J. Johnson.
Stan Kenton, too, some raves with "Road Show," starring Aimee Christy. Gene May's "Dixieland Rhythms Kings" showcased jazz singer Claire Austin on "Going Crazy With the Blues" and also warmed up the turntables with "Country Goes Dixie."

Marion Marpartud, the queen of the jazz piano, teamed with the ageless Joe Venuti on violin with "The Maestro and Friend," one of the best records of the year. And don't forget Keith Jarrett for his fine work on "In the Light." "Pacific Overtures" was hailed by critics as the best musical on Broadway, but this is a visual show and the original cast recordings of "A Chorus Line" and "Me and Myself" with Linda Hopkins seemed more pleasing to the ear. There were several good motion picture sound tracks, but the best appeared to be "Barry Lyndon."
Richard Pryor emerged as a fine comedian after getting audiences attuned to his pornographic and scatological humor. He followed two earlier hit albums with a potential award winner with "Bicentennial Nigger."

Georgia flowers will decorate entire WH

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — At 12:01 p.m. EST on Inauguration Day Jan. 20, Ann Dodson of Plains, Ga., will begin decorating the entire White House with flowers from Jimmy Carter's Georgia.
"It's going to be prouder than the White House has ever been," Mrs. Dodson said in an interview.
Mrs. Dodson and a committee of 12 Georgia women will be able to work on the flower arrangements on the ground floor of the White House for three days before the Inauguration. But they will not start placing the bouquets around the State Rooms until after President and Mrs. Ford have departed.
Shortly after Carter's election last November, future First Lady Rosalynn Carter, a member of the Plains Garden Club, asked Mrs. Dodson to take over the decorations of the White House.
"I was so excited I couldn't say," said Mrs. Dodson, wife of Carter's Bible Class teacher Clarence Dodson. "I was thinking 'what a job!' But then I thought 'what have I got to worry about?' Many of my committee have been to flower shows in Paris and London."
She is the first president of the Plains Garden Club, which was founded 20 years ago, and is a master flower judge, as are several members of her committee.
Mrs. Dodson spent two days at the White House recently, going from room to room with chief White House usher Rex Scouten. Praising Betty Ford and the White House helpers, Mrs. Dodson said "I've never had anyone be as nice to us."
"I'm holding my breath Mrs. Ford will say 'come on over, and place the flowers' before noon Jan. 20."
Mrs. Dodson said that she will place small bouquets of carnations from Marshallville, Ga., "Emmett capital of the world" in the family quarters. "We'll use flowers best suited for each room," she said.
She has hired a refrigerated truck to transport plants to Washington on Monday, Jan. 17. She plans to keep replenishing the bouquets at the White House, particularly for the many massive receptions the Carters will have for several days after the Inaugural to thank their supporters and friends.
Mrs. Dodson was born in Flowery Branch, Ga. She said she was inspired to love flowers by her mother and that her father used to take her "rambling in the woods."
"There was never a time when we didn't have fresh cut flowers in our house," she said.

Aardvarks expect suitor

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Two female aardvarks at the Pittsburgh Zoo are expecting the arrival of a suitor from the Buffalo, N.Y., zoo this week.
The male aardvark is scheduled to arrive Tuesday or Wednesday, and Pittsburgh zoo officials hope at least one of the female aardvarks, Ailice or Aardmama, is pregnant when the visitor departs.
The loan of the Buffalo aardvark is part of a reciprocal program among major American zoos to enlarge captive populations of endangered species, according to Pittsburgh Zoo Director Howard Hays.
Obtaining endangered species is especially hard for American zoos in light of U.S. government importation regulations, Hays said. Compliance with the regulations costs importers thousands of dollars in quarantine fees alone.
"As an example, Hays said, a rhinoceros from Africa used to cost only about $4,500, but now the cost is $15,000."
"The animal quarantines in foreign countries and here — plus all the red tape — up the price," Hays said. "You take an animal like an antelope. He must be placed in quarantine in its native country to make sure his free of hoof-and-mouth (disease) ... and then he makes the trip and is again placed in quarantine here for 30 to 90 days."
Hays said zoos belonging to the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums try to cut costs by advertising in the association's monthly magazine.
He said there are no stud charges among zoos because any monetary transaction again would involve the federal government if the animals crossed state lines.
Transportation and care expenses are the only costs incurred in the exchanges, Hays said.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb: I have seborrheic dermatitis. All of a sudden, four years ago, my face broke out in a rash. It's between my eyebrows, but mostly on both sides of my nose.
At that time it only broke out occasionally. Lately it bothers me a lot. I can tell before it starts to break out. My face itches, and the next thing it gets red with oily scaly patches. My family doctor said it was hereditary and gave me some cream for it. The cream doesn't seem to help much now. Please tell me what can be done about this. At times I hate to even go out because of my red face. I wash my scalp regularly with Selsun.

Chronic condition

Dear Reader:
This is a chronic condition, and your treatment will have to be directed toward controlling the problem rather than curing it permanently. It is caused by overactivity of the sebaceous glands, with an excess production of sebum. The term seborrheic means this, and dermatitis merely means inflammation of the skin.
The lesions are as you describe them with red or scaly spots in the areas involved. These spots can be quite troublesome. They may extend to the eyebrows, the sides of the nose, over the center of the breast bone (sternum), under the arms, between the shoulder blades or in the groin area. The spots may be covered with yellowish-greasy scales. And they do itch.
The disorder may be associated with acne, but it is different in that it is more chronic in some instances. The greasy scaly lesions are distinct as opposed to blackheads, whiteheads and pustules. To give you a better idea about how sebaceous glands work, I am sending you The Health Letter number 82, Acne Can Be Treated. It deals with the rest of the problems not covered here — the common acne without the dermatitis. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.
The treatment must be directed toward the areas of involvement. Try to prevent oil from frequent shampoos. Selsun is used for this purpose if there is any evidence of dandruff. If it doesn't do the job you can use a tar shampoo such as Sebulex, Polysporin locon. If the scalp itches, you can use a hydrocortisone in an oil-based base such as Barbosol or Teacort Scalp Lotion. Do not use any greasy substances on your hair.
You should definitely NOT use any greasy products on your face. Your problem lies too much grease in the form of sebum. That's what your doctor is giving you must be in a water base or it will not help.
Do not use any greasy or oily make-up preparation whatsoever. Keep your face clean with frequent washing and try to keep it dry and free of grease or skin oils. In fact you will be better off not to use anything on your face but mild soap and water — two or three times a day and a white moist towel that your doctor may prescribe for you. That may be what he is giving you. The areas of involvement may be treated with hydrocortisone ointment, but a fluorinated one should not be used on the face.

Fabric flammability standards aired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An inquiry from Provo, Utah, "In our church ladies society, known as the Relief Society, we encourage the art of quilt-making, and older mothers teach the younger ladies all the different phases that go into this endeavor."
"One of our teachers selected four different samples at random of quilt batting, polyester. The samples were from rolls of different quality, judging from the price. She showed us a test where a match was applied to each swath in turn."
"The cheapest piece did not catch fire, and stopped burning, rather melting, when the match was removed. All of the others flamed up, the two most expensive burning fiercely until nothing but a hard black substance was left. We were interested at once as we are using these very flammable batts in all of our quilts."

"What guidelines do we follow to ensure safety in our unfinished bed covering? Is there a brand or brands that are better than others?"
A law passed in 1953 requires that fabrics which might wind up in wearing apparel, or in items such as the quilts you are making, must pass a flammability test — but it is nowhere near as severe as the match test in your experiment.
A researcher at the Consumer Product Safety Commission tells us that the test is sufficiently "strict" that almost all fabrics pass it. The test involves putting a flame near a fabric which is held at a 45-degree angle.
In point of fact, he adds, almost any fabric will burn if you touch a match directly to it. There are tougher flammability standards for children's sleepwear, however, and the government is working on upgrading its general apparel fabric flammability rules.

Decorations planned

The Product Safety Commission researcher suggests that if you are concerned about finding the least flammable batting, the one which you said burned — or rather melted — slowest would probably be the safest.
The reason different kinds of polyester batting burn differently is the varying amounts of acrylic resins manufacturers use to bind the fabrics together.
While we're on the subject of textiles, the American Textile Manufacturers Institute has announced a contest to collect ideas on how textiles can be used to save energy during the winter. They are interested in such things as new clothing designs, directions for making tea cozies — to keep teapots warm — how to make foot warmers, wall coverings and so on.
They say they will pay $5 for each idea accepted for inclusion in a consumer handbook on energy saving. You can make an entry by writing to: Energy Booklet, American Textile Manufacturers Institute, 400 S. Tryon St., Charlotte, N.C. 28225. Do not send your suggestions to Buyer's Billboard as that will only delay them.
Address your consumer inquiries to Buyer's Billboard, 315 National Press Bldg., Washington, D.C. 20045. We will try to answer as space permits.

Supermarket chains urge coffee boycott

By United Press International
Two major supermarket chains are urging consumers to boycott coffee by switching to substitutes in an effort to drive down coffee prices.
In Boston, Slop & Shop Inc., ran newspaper advertisements Sunday asking shoppers to try tea or fruit juice.
This week Shopwell, Inc., which operates 85 Dutch Shopwell Supermarkets in the New York area, is launching a similar newspaper advertising campaign and offering a 20-cent discount on the purchase of any size package of tea, cocoa or hot chocolate.
The Slop & Shop ads in Boston's major Sunday newspapers pointed out coffee prices will continue to rise in the wake of the July 1975 frost that destroyed a large portion of Brazil's coffee crop.

The ad said some relief may be in sight when Brazil, the world's largest producer of coffee, harvests next spring's crop.
"What can you do until then?" The Slop & Shop ads asked consumers. "Simple. Don't buy coffee! If the demand goes down, the price will go down."
The ads contained a coupon offering a 70-cent discount on a two-pound can of a nationally known brand of coffee.
"If you must buy coffee, buy it only when it's on sale," the ad said. "Most of us need to cut down anyway. How about tea or fruit juice once in while? That'll help you taper off."

The Dutch Shopwell ads contain a message from company president Martin Rosenberg: "The money you and I are being asked to pay for coffee is outrageous."
"My sincere recommendation to you is to limit drinking coffee and find a substitute."
Dutch Shopwell also is posting signs in its stores to discourage shoppers from buying coffee.
The coffee boycott first gained national attention when Elinor Gugginheimer, the consumer affairs commissioner of New York City, urged consumers not to buy coffee during the last week of 1976 and to cut consumption by 50 per cent.

The boycott action is well timed with retail coffee prices soon to break through the $3.00 mark.
Folger Coffee Co., the second biggest processor in the United States, boosted ground coffee prices to a record $3.08 a pound in late December. General Foods Corp., the nation's largest coffee wholesaler, raised ground coffee prices to $2.91 a pound, effective Jan. 3.
The latest round of price increases should be reflected on supermarket shelves within 60 days after the hikes take effect; the normal lag period before the wholesale price is passed on to the shopper.

All's wife granted divorce

CHICAGO (UPI)—The wife of Muhammad Ali has been granted a divorce from the world heavyweight boxing champion on grounds of desertion.

The former Mrs. Ali, Khalilah Tolona, received her divorce in a decree signed last week in Cook County Circuit Court. She will receive custody of the couple's four children, the family home, two cars, an apartment building on the city's South Side and an undisclosed amount of alimony for the next five years.

Rosalynn pushes ERA

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI)—Rosalynn Carter is lobbying with the Georgia legislature for its vote to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment which she said is "close to my heart."

Mrs. Carter sent a message to a luncheon promoting ERA sponsored by Georgia Sen. Peter Banks in Atlanta.

"The passage of the Equal Rights Amendment in Georgia is close to my heart," she wrote. "It is crucial for us to work together to pass the measure in our state."

Joint listing for a fee

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York Telephone Co. says it will offer husbands and wives a joint listing showing both their names in the telephone directory.

If approved by the Public Service Commission, the dual listing plan for two persons with the same last name (living at the same address) would go into effect on Feb. 6 on an optional basis.

The monthly charge would be 25 cents per listing.

Most watchable women

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Jimmy Carter and Robert Dole, who found little on which to agree during the election campaign, probably would agree on a new list of the World's 10 Most Watchable Women.

The International Society of Girl Watchers said Monday Rosalynn Carter is the world's most watchable wife and Elizabeth Dole is the most watchable mother.

heart and a club and a nice rubber bonus.

How about a match-point declarer play this dummy? Probably he should not try the safety play on the theory that he needed overtricks, but the rubber bridge player needs to win the rubber, not overtricks.

Ask the Jacobys

A Utah reader wants to know if overtricks ever counted 50 points.

The answer is yes. They counted 50 points from 1925 to 1950 when they were reduced to count 20 for minor suit and 30 for majors and notrump.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South analyzes West's lead as fourth best of his suit with two lower hearts, mistaking there is a good chance that it was fourth best of five or even six. All this doesn't affect South's first play. He puts up dummy's 7 after the spade is delighted when it holds.

The carefree rubber bridge declarer goes right after diamonds. Should the suit break 3-3 or the jack drop he will have a lot of diamond tricks. But West shows out on the third diamond lead so South goes after the spade. Again West shows out and all of a sudden our carefree declarer can only score eight tricks, which isn't quite enough for his contract.

A careful declarer might well give the hand a safer play. He leads a diamond at trick two, but plays his eight when East follows low. West takes his nine, but can't lead anything to hurt South, who will now collect four diamonds, three spades, a

Fairy tale experience

LONDON (UPI)—Svetlana Stalin, who defected to the West 10 years ago, said in an interview published today she had made $1 million from her two books but now she only had one-fifth of the cash left.

Svetlana, 50, the only daughter of the Soviet leader, spoke of her three-week courtship in the United States, her marriage, and her divorce in an interview with a Daily Telegraph reporter in Los Angeles.

"I've never made the millions which were attributed to me," she said. "I never knew exactly how much money I had because everything was handled by my lawyers."

"My book, 'Twenty Letters to a Friend' made money and I didn't interfere."

She said that at the time she married William Peters in 1970 she had "slightly more than $1 million invested."

"But now I have one-fifth of that left," Svetlana said.

She separated from Peters, whom she met in an architectural commune in Arizona, in late 1971 and was divorced in 1972.

"Now that I look back I have some sense of humor restored and it was a fairy-tale experience."

Family's 3 sons stricken

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—All three of Fred and Jo Olive's sons are suffering from Muscular Dystrophy, a crippling disease for which there is no cure.

Michael, 14, and Jason, 5, use wheelchairs. Son Michael will be confined to bed; Kevin, 6, still can walk without leg braces, but with greater difficulty every day.

Olive, a Navy artist, and his wife, a bank employe, work hard at making a family life for their disabled sons. They like to camp out in a tent that accommodates the two wheelchairs.

"When we pitch our tent," Olive said in a recent interview, "it looks like Ringling Brothers has come to town."

Each boy in his own way is facing the prospect of a shortened life.

Michael, who has only a little strength left in his hands, has been told that he will die.

Each boy in his own way is facing the prospect of a shortened life.

Without it. Like other six-year-olds, Kevin, the youngest of the Olive children, is missing two front teeth. But he is not as energetic as other children and each time he finds him weaker than before.

"He knows he can't run like he used to," Mrs. Olive said. "He knows he can't climb like he used to." It's only a matter of time now before Kevin, too, will have to get around in a wheelchair.

MD says the strength slowly from—the muscles—until—the patient is completely helpless.

The end comes when the heart, the most important muscle of all, is rendered helpless, too.

Athens closes 'Entebbe'

ATHENS, Greece (UPI)—Athens movie theaters Monday stopped showing Victory at Entebbe. The film had played to packed houses since Christmas but was stopped because police said they could not protect viewers from possible bomb attacks by anti-Israeli terrorists.

"The police said they could not guarantee the safety of our audiences from bomb attacks," a spokesman for the Embassy Cinema said.

The closing by the 11 Athens theaters showing the film since Christmas came approximately 48 hours after police defused homemade bombs set to go off at mallene showings in the Embassy and another movie theater.

The American-made movie is based on the Israeli raid on Entebbe Airport in Uganda last summer to rescue some 100 hostages held by Palestinian hijackers.

Snowy rounds

NEITHER rain nor snow kept this Twin Falls machine from his appointed rounds during Monday's snowstorm. Those moving about on wheels didn't fare so well, however, as roads throughout Magic Valley were slick with ice and snow.

Snowstorm pumps life into resorts

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

MAGIC VALLEY — The season's first snowstorm has given two ski resorts greatly improved skiing conditions and a third a promise of opening, possibly at the end of the week.

Both Sun Valley and Soldier Mountain, which were operating on artificial snow say the foot of new snow which topped the artificial base has resulted in "excellent" conditions.

Pomerelle, near Albion, also received a foot of snow and will probably operate this week if the storm continues.

Ski areas, suffering financial losses due to snowless Christmas and Thanksgiving holidays, are attempting to get into full operation as soon as possible.

Magic Mountain, south of Twin Falls, received nine inches as of Monday night and the storm was continuing. However, resort owner Stan Detweiler said it will take a lot more than a foot of snow before the resort can open because the snow is light and dry and there is no base.

"This is the base," he said, "and we will have to have quite a bit more before we can open."

The area hills are steep and more snow is required for a good base on steep than on more gentle slopes.

Dave Wheeler and Claude Hinkle, operators of Soldier Mountain near Fairfield, said the additional foot of snow gives them excellent skiing on both the J-bar and the lower chair lift.

The rope tow is also operating.

The resort has been open the past two weeks on artificial snow and had built up a good base on the lower chair lift. The rope tow is also operating.

The resort has been open the past two weeks on artificial snow and had built up a good base on the lower chair lift and J-bar. The additional snowfall, they said, gives a natural snow topping of powder. Wheeler said crowds have been only fair during early operation.

Soldier Mountain is now in operation on a full schedule Wednesday through Sunday with buses in operation from Buhl, Filer, Twin Falls, Jerome, Wendell, Gooding and Mountain Home.

"One more good snow storm and we will be able to open the upper chair lift as well," Wheeler said this morning.

Woody Anderson, owner of Pomerelle, said one more snow storm will put him in business, and it may be possible to open for the coming weekend if the present snow will pack.

He said there was a lot of wind with the snow and there are a lot of bare ridges, but the bowls and low areas are filled in.

"There is no way we can make up the loss of the Christmas and Thanksgiving holiday business, but we are planning to extend our season if possible to make up for some of the loss," he said.

With the addition of night skiing this year and the possibility of remaining open to a later date, he said, the ski areas will have an opportunity for a fair sized season and the resort may make up some of the loss.

Detweiler said he is going to wait for good conditions before opening.

"We have to be assured of a pretty good operation if we are even going to pay our insurance. Insurance has increased about 300 percent," he said.

Sun Valley, 2,000 to 2,500 skiers per day on two Baldy Mountain runs covered with artificial snow, reports excellent skiing. Lower Warm Springs and Flying Squirrel lifts have been operating and two additional lifts opened today.

Warm Springs No. 2 lift, which runs to the top of Baldy Mountain, opened for the first time today with Half Dollar opening to provide facilities for beginner skiers.

Suz Gillis, Sun Valley Public Relations representative, said more runs will open daily as they can be groomed and ready for skiers. With the opening of Warm Springs No. 2, skiers will have access to popular College run in addition to Flying Squirrel and lower Warm Springs areas.

Sun Valley closed the Sun Valley Lodge last week due to the lack of snow and customers. It is scheduled to reopen Saturday with as many of the employees returning to their jobs as can be used.

Jerome pupils free half a day

JEROME — Some Jerome students got a half day's vacation Monday on their first day of school in 1977.

Furnace problems, complicated by power outages, caused the early closing, according to Supt. Percy Christensen.

But the leak in the steam pipes in the Central Elementary School were repaired Monday afternoon and school was back in session today.

Christensen said the school was plagued with power outages throughout Monday morning so school was dismissed and buses took all students home about 1:30 p.m.

Mayor closes meet—abruptly

By LORAYNE O. SMITH

Time-News writer

HAGERMAN — The Hagerman City Council meeting was ended abruptly Monday night by Mayor Dean Holt when citizens complained about "double taxation" on city water.

Clyde Clifford, Hagerman, told the council he estimated Hagerman residents were paying about $26 per year in city taxes more than people outside the city who use city water, even though those outside pay $11 per month.

The mayor declared the meeting adjourned after the council.

Clifford asked why $5,000 was budgeted last year for water in the city water system is self-supporting. Citizens received a letter last month, along with their water bills, stating that the water system is self-supporting, according to Mrs. Dave Boutler.

Mayor Holt told the dissidents that money could be interchanged from one fund to another and "it helped make the books look better" if money was budgeted for the water system.

About 15 citizens attended the council meeting to again urge the mayor to adopt a plan whereby new developments wanting city water would be required to come up to annexation standards before the water is given.

The mayor told the group he didn't see why the new developments should have to have streets paved before getting water "because we don't have paved streets everywhere in town."

Holt told the Times-News this morning he foresaw no change in the water policy, set by a 1952 city ordinance which provides water to anyone who asks for it.

"These people (the dissidents) are in an extreme minority," Holt said. "The $26 in additional taxes is an imaginary figure which is not realistic," he added.

In other business Monday night, the council tentatively decided to use a farm four miles from town as the city dog pound, but no final agreement was reached, Holt said.

OSHA loses court decision

OSHA officials, who only learned of the decision last night, have already decided to appeal the case to the U.S. Supreme Court, according to James Foster, chief of media services.

"OSHA lawyers said this night they would appeal the injunction and seek a stay of execution," Foster said. "An appeal would take the issue directly to the Supreme Court of the United States."

"We consider the right of inspection to be absolutely vital in safeguarding employee safety and health and will take whatever steps are necessary to vindicate that right," according to OSHA chief Dr. Morton Corn.

So far the decision has not affected OSHA operations in Idaho, according to OSHA Director Richard Blanton.

"I haven't really changed a heck of a lot what I was doing last week," Jackson said Tuesday. "And I didn't go and get any warrants (for inspection) yesterday."

The 12 inspectors serving OSHA in Idaho are still "in the field," according to Jackson.

Funds limit Gem agencies

By CHRIS PECK

Time-News writer

TWIN FALLS — State government can't grow much bigger in Idaho in 1977 because the amount of money available to finance state agencies is expected to be only slightly above 1976 levels, finance experts say.

The Idaho Legislature's Joint Finance Appropriations Committee began listening to budget proposals from state agencies today in Boise but the "coordinator" of the committee emphasized the committee won't be receptive to expansion of state government programs.

"I'm not that gloomy about this year's budgets," Rep. Larry Jackson, R-Boise said. "We're going to have to be very restricted in our financing of state programs this year but it's only new programs which are going to be hurt."

"I honestly think any new programs will have to be created at the expense of existing programs," Jackson said.

Jackson and Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, the other committee co-chairman, will be watching closely the revenue projections for the remainder of fiscal year 1977 which should be made this week.

Judging from figures now collected by the State Tax Commission, the two major sources of revenue for state government will show an average 10 per cent increase over revenue last year.

Idahoans fund state government primarily through two sources, their state income taxes and sales taxes. Another $93 million came into the tax commission as Idaho sales tax.

In 1976 a total of $162 million were collected in state income taxes. Another $93 million came into the tax commission as Idaho sales tax.

Eighty per cent of the income taxes collected in Idaho goes into the general fund for state government. Sales tax revenues are mostly channeled into the revenue fund but some money goes to the state building fund, a 20 per cent allocation to counties, and for use in social security payments for state employees.

According to Dennison Ambrose, deputy director of the State Tax Commission, projected revenues from state income tax and sales tax will rise about nine per cent and 12 per cent respectively.

Compared to 1976, the overall increase in revenues this year will be smaller, Ambrose predicted.

Income paid by Idaho and non-Idaho corporations are markedly lower this year compared to last but personal income taxes paid are higher this year, Ambrose added.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Monday will announce his budget proposals for Idaho agencies.

Knowing the state revenues will only be about 10 per cent higher than 1976 the governor may announce a budget which is only 10 per cent higher than the $252.8 million appropriated last year, or about $275 million, according to the governor's office.

Seeing the tightness of the state budget, Idaho's state agencies collectively have asked for $290 million this year, only a few thousand dollars more than they requested last year, but still about $38 million above current spending levels.

Burley employees' pay hiked

By SHANE O'NEILL

Time-News writer

BURLEY — The City of Burley payroll went up about $11,500 per month Monday night.

The Burley City Council approved pay raises for all current regular full-time employees hired prior to Sept. 30.

The raises ranged from $50 per month to $200 per month.

The council also approved an interim budget of $1,328,000 to meet expenses for the first three months of the year until the annual budget can be adopted.

The assistant city engineer and the superintendents of the electric and water departments will receive 5 per cent raises.

Nine positions received $150 per month raises. They included the parks and recreation director, streets superintendent, cemetery sexton, fire department chief, police department chief, city clerk, city treasurer, city attorney and shop superintendent.

Among other employees, those hired between Jan. 1 and Sept. 30, 1976, received $50 per month raises. Those hired prior to Jan. 1, 1976, received $100 per month pay increases.

The City Clerk E. E. "Bud" Brinkgar said the city has about 110 regular full-time employees, nine hired since Sept. 30, 1976. He said about four or five present employees were hired earlier last year.

The breakdown of the interim budget showed $475,000 for general expenses, $395,000 for water and sewer, $295,000 for electrical expenditures, $70,000 in the inter-governmental account, $70,000 in the trust account and $23,000 for the library.

Water plan headed for trouble

By BILL LAZARUS

Time-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The State Water Plan appears headed for troubled waters at the Idaho Legislature this year.

According to Keith Higginson, director of the Department of Water Resources, the plan became effective upon its adoption last week by the Idaho Water Resources Board.

But some legislators are planning to introduce a bill to require legislative approval of the plan before it takes effect.

Second of a series

"I've got one all printed up and ready to go. . . I think it's necessary" considering some proposals in the water plan, Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, House Majority Leader, said Senate by wide margins at the end of the legislative session last year, but was vetoed by Gov. Cecil Andrus.

This year Little predicted that the measure will pass the legislature again and "will stand a better chance at the governor's office which will be occupied by Lt. Gov. John Evans after Andrus leaves for his new job as Secretary of Interior.

Little said he has not talked with Evans but said that "very possibly he'd be more receptive to it than Gov. Andrus was because he comes from a farming area."

Evans would not comment on the matter, saying he would not take a position until after the legislature decides its course of action.

Little said that one policy of the State Water Plan which would require a minimum flow of 3,300 cubic feet per second, in the Murphy gauge on the Snake River, for power production purposes is "in direct violation of the Constitution."

The Constitution provides that "the right to appropriate unappropriated water shall not be denied," Little said. He said agriculture has priority over power generation.

Water Resources Department director Higginson has said this policy does not need legislative approval since the 3,300 cfs flow at Murphy already has been appropriated to Idaho Power, although the power company has never chosen to maintain its water right against encroachment by farmland developers.

Rep. J. Vard Chaburn, R-Albion, chairman of a legislative committee which studied minimum stream flows two years ago, said he expects the legislature will pass a bill requiring legislative approval of the State Water Plan.

If vetoed by the governor, Chaburn said, there would be a good chance to override the veto with a two-thirds majority.

John Streiff, chairman of the Water Resources Board which adopted the plan, said he does not oppose requiring legislative approval.

"But what is the point of hiring a dog and then doing your own barking?" Streiff said.

He maintained the water board formulated the plan after several public hearings and a great deal of citizen input.

"I have no objections to the legislature requiring its stamp of approval on the plan. . . If the legislature won't accept what the citizens of the state have requested, the legislature will have to come up with an alternate solution," he said.

Streiff said that even as it now stands, the water plan essentially requires legislative approval since 19 out of its 37 policies "require legislative implementation."

Steve Allred, administrator of the Department of Water Resources' planning division, defended the plan.

He said it strengthens existing water rights. "I'd like somebody to show me . . . how the plan affects them adversely."

Allred admitted there is "some controversy" over establishing a minimum flow standard on the Snake River, but said this standard is there to protect existing power rights both at the Swan Falls Dam and downstream.

He said there is a public investment in the dams since Idaho Power customers have paid for them. "You can't afford to ignore" power production on the Snake River, Allred said.

He said it is time to get on with the third part of the water plan, technical planning, and not become embroiled in policy arguments which could stretch out for years.

"I'm one that thinks we shouldn't have any water plan become final and binding before the legislature adopts it," Vernon Ravenscroft, Tattle, director of the Idaho Carey Act Development Association, said.

Without legislative approval, Ravenscroft maintained the validity of the plan might be questioned in court.

He cited the ambiguity of the 1964 constitutional amendment which set up the water board.

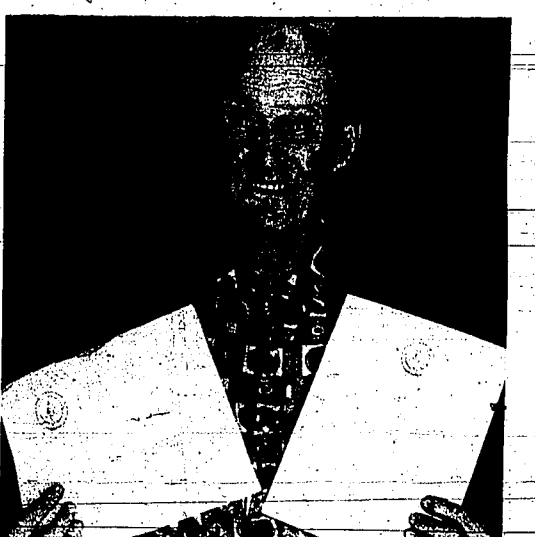

Inquest planned

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Coroner Cloyce Edwards said today he will call for a coroner's inquest into the Christmas Day shooting of a Hollister man.

The decision to call for an inquest followed more than a week of compiling evidence on the incident by the county prosecutor's office.

The victim, John H. Richardson, 31, was fatally shot in the back with a pistol about 12:45 a.m. Dec. 25, Edwards said earlier. Richardson, a truck driver for Nelson's Butcher, was shot from "close range" and was dead in his kitchen when the coroner arrived shortly after the shooting.

A sheriff's deputy reported the shooting was apparently the result of a family argument. Richardson, his wife, Penny and several of their six children were the only persons at home when the shooting occurred, the deputy said.

Invitation displayed

J. ERNEST Burgess, 92, Jerome, proudly displays his invitation to attend Jimmy Carter's inauguration in Washington, D.C. Jan. 20. Burgess now thinks he may try to attend the historic event. He said he was "short of cash, but could raise it." The retired farmer wrote to Carter last fall, wishing him luck and urging him to select Sen. Frank Church as his running mate.

IRREGARDLESS

Q. "Why do people say 'irregardless' when there's no such word?"
A. There's such a word, all right. But it's what the dictionary people call "nonstandard." And it most probably began as a cross between "irrespective" and "regardless."

IQ TESTS FOR DOGS

A canine psychologist devised a series of IQ tests for dogs. Steak bones were wrapped in towels, put under shoe boxes, skewered on head limbs, so on, and the dogs were rated on a scale of 0 to 10 as to their savvy in getting to the steak bones as quickly as possible. Bloodhounds came out on top, poodles at the bottom. Males proved to be smarter than females. And no difference showed up in this particular test between purebreds and mongrels.

Chester Gould submitted for 10 years all sorts of comic strips before he finally devised one in 1931 he called "Plain Clothes Tracy." Capt. Joseph Medill Patterson of the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, changed the name to "Dick Tracy." You may have heard of it.

Andrus, Kleppe confer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Thomas Andrus and Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus, Jimmy Carter's nominee for the job, met for an hour and a half Monday morning for a "very congenial" conversation, a spokesman said. "The secretary pledged his full support and said anything members of his staff could do to smooth the transition they would be more than willing to do," said an aide to Andrus. "The governor is very appreciative of the secretary's cooperation." The spokesman said Andrus arranged to spend the afternoon making courtesy calls on Capitol Hill to members of the Senate Interior Committee and others with whom he will deal in his new job. Andrus planned to formally resign his chairmanship of the National Governors Conference in a conference telephone call Tuesday morning to members of the conference's executive committee. "The committee then will vote on a new chairman," the spokesman said.

Court backs HAW ruling

BOISE (UPI) — The Department of Health and Welfare cannot deny a housing allowance to needy children just because they are living in their grandparents' home, the Supreme Court said today. The court affirmed the decision of Sixth District Judge George W. Hargraves in a case brought by Trudy Haggard against the department.

The lower court held that certain of the department's regulations, which had been utilized to eliminate a $76 housing allowance being paid Ms. Haggard under the Aid to Dependent Children program, were unconstitutionally vague and therefore void.

Some revenues exempted

BOISE (UPI) — Federal and certain other revenues of the University of Idaho are exempt from state budget procedures, Attorney General Wayne L. Kidwell said today. Kidwell rendered the opinion for State Budget Administrator "Hal" Turner. Turner had asked whether the University of Idaho must allot all appropriated and non-appropriated sources of revenue, whether the state treasury acts as custodian of these revenues and whether the university could spend them without approval of the state auditor or Board of Examiners. Federal and certain other sources of revenue are listed in university appropriations bills passed by the legislature. But the opinion said that just because the legislature lists federal funds and certain other revenues in appropriation bills it is not necessarily appropriating them. The opinion said the code exempts certain federal monies and certain trust monies of the university and case law exempts certain other fund sources from budget regulations. Therefore, the opinion said, the university must follow budget procedures in allocating monies appropriated from the general fund but is exempt from them in handling federal and certain other funds. The opinion said the answer to the first question renders answers to the other two unnecessary.

Gem budget limits proposed

BOISE (UPI) — Proposed legislation restricting the Idaho Division of Budget Policy Planning and Coordination in the number of full-time employees it could establish was presented to the opening session of legislative budget hearings today. A draft of the proposed legislation was presented by Legislative Fiscal Officer John Anderson to the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, which opened budget sessions prior to the convening of the 1977 Idaho Legislature next Monday. Agency budget hearings will begin Tuesday. Anderson's proposal to the committee would provide each appropriation bill would have a section added setting forth the number of positions funded by the appropriation and authorizing the budget bureau to establish that number and no more. He said under such a procedure, the complement of positions established may or may not be all funded for a 12-month period.

How your home uses energy

Space heating 53%    Water heating 17%    Food heating and cooling 13%    Lighting 4%    Other uses 13%

If your family is typical, the energy consumption pattern in your home is something like this:

- Heating and cooling, more than half of all energy used.
- Water heating, 17 percent.
- Uses related to food, 13 percent.
- Lighting, only 4 percent.
- Other uses, about 13 percent.

Exact percentages will vary according to size and location of home, number of persons and household habits, but the general pattern of use should give you an indication of where potential energy savings are greatest.

If you reduce lighting by one fourth, you'll reduce home energy consumption by only one percent. A one-fourth reduction in heating energy would reduce consumption by more than 13 percent, or 13 TIMES AS MUCH.

That's why we emphasize insulation, weather stripping and caulking. Turning out a light saves a little energy. Insulating the attic saves a lot.

For tips on how you can save energy, call one of Idaho Power's Energy Advisers.

Kuhn pleased by committee delay

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Monday he was "certainly pleased" the special House committee on professional sports found it necessary for further study of baseball's unique exemption from antitrust laws.

The committee declared Monday baseball's exemption from the antitrust laws is "unjustified" and "should be removed in the context of overall sports antitrust reform." But it did not advise immediate legislation and withheld a recommendation that Congress permit further study by a successor committee in the new session.

"I am certainly pleased the committee has recognized that more study is needed to determine how professional sports should be treated under the antitrust laws," said Kuhn. "I firmly believe that in the next Congress we will be able to persuade the committee through further evidence that baseball's present status is merited and should be continued."

"Of course, we will be cooperating fully with the committee in its further work in the 95th Congress."

Princeton upsets Irish

PRINCETON (UPI) — Princeton led a 10-point first-half lead and stayed on top to upset eighth-ranked Notre Dame 76-62 Monday night.

Forward Frank Gowski contributed 18 points to a well-balanced Princeton scoring attack that saw five players reach double figures.

With 6:36 left in the first half, center Bob Roma's 18-foot jump shot put Princeton ahead 25-23 and sparked a scoring surge that left Princeton ahead 35-25 at half time.

The Tigers maintained their two-digit lead through the second half as their aggressive defense held Notre Dame well below its 85 point scoring average.

Vols edge Vanderbilt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Sophomore guard John Darden hit six consecutive free throws in the final minute of play Monday night to spark Tennessee to a 73-69 win over Vanderbilt in the Southeastern Conference opener for both teams.

Darden, who had 14 points for the night, stepped up to the foul line with 57 seconds remaining and hit a leading 67-65, again with 23 seconds left and the Vols leading 69-67 and then sank the final two charity tosses with seven seconds remaining and the Vols nursing a 71-67 advantage.

Ernie Grunfeld had 23 points for Tennessee to lead all scorers while teammate Bernard King added 16. Charles Davis led Vanderbilt with 22 points despite sitting on the bench 12 minutes with four fouls.

Marquette romps

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Bulck Lee scored 10 straight points midway through the first half and 11th ranked Marquette went on to an easy 85-45 victory over Georgia Tech Monday night.

The Warriors, now 8-2, led at the half 34-20 but Tech pulled to within eight points at 48-40 with nine minutes left before Marquette scored 15 of the game's last 18 points for an easy victory.

Marquette led 14-10 when Lee hit four straight jump shots and added two free throws while Rob Noyes had a rebound basket for Georgia Tech to give the Warriors a commanding 24-12 lead. Gary Rosenberger followed with a pair of free throws and Ulise Payne had a base-line drive and Marquette drew away 28-12. Lee had 18 points to lead Marquette while Bo Ellis 12, Jerome Whitehead 11 and Jim Boylan 10.

S.C. edges Nebraska

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — South Carolina, crippled by the loss of captain and top scorer Nate Davis to an ankle injury, held Nebraska scoreless for the final six and half minutes Monday night to take a 54-43 win.

Freshman center Jim Graziano scored 18 points to lead South Carolina to its fifth victory against six defeats. Nebraska fell to 8-6.

South Carolina trailed 49-45 with 6:30 remaining, but two free throws each by Graziano, Jackie Gilloon and Karlton Hilton plus a field goal each by Graziano and Hilton gave the Gamecocks the win. The Gamecocks went into a stall offense with just over three minutes to go which Nebraska was never able to solve.

Bama nips Auburn

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Freshman guard Kent Looney made four free throws with less than a minute to go to bring 10th-ranked Alabama behind for a 74-71 win over Auburn Monday night in the Southeastern Conference opener for both teams.

Looney hit a pair of free throws with 34 seconds left to give the unbeaten Crimson Tide a 72-71 lead, then sank two more free throws with one second left after the Crimson Tide got the ball on a turnover.

Florida wins

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida, led by Al Bonner and Bob Smyth who combined for 45 points, pulled away in the second half Monday night to defeat Mississippi State 97-75 in the Southeastern Conference opener for both teams.

Bonner, a 6-6 junior, led the way with 26 points and Smyth, a 6-8 senior, had 20. The win was the Gators' sixth in a row while the loss was the second straight for the Bulldogs. Florida now is 8-1 and Mississippi State is 8-2.

Cards outlast Florida St.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Freshman Darrell Griffith, Louisville's super-sub, scored the basket that forced the game into overtime Monday night and added four points in the extra period to lead the 16th-ranked Cardinals to a 78-75 win over upset-minded Florida State.

Griffith wound up with a game-high 23 points before fouling out with 57 seconds remaining in overtime of the Metro 7 Conference game. Florida State's league debut.

Nets lose Archibald

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Nets, having lost the services of injured star Nate Archibald, are talking to a number of teams in the hope of strengthening their depleted backcourt.

"We're talking to at least four teams," said Nets' spokesman Jim Bukata, but would not say which clubs last placed New York Nets player Archie Gooden.

Bukata denied the Nets were interested in guards Dean Meminger and Jimmy Walker, both currently free agents. Archibald, the club's floor leader and second highest scorer, was averaging 21.0 points a game prior to Sunday's nationally televised contest against the Philadelphia 76ers when he broke a small bone in his left foot for the first quarter.

Rodgers signs contract with San Diego

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Johnny Rodgers, the 1972 Heisman Trophy winner who spurred the National Football League to play in Canada, signed a series of one-year contracts Monday with the San Diego Chargers.

Details of the contract were not revealed, but the pact is reported to be the richest financial package the Chargers have awarded since they signed quarterback Johnny Unitas in 1973 for an estimated $600,000.

Rodgers, the only Nebraska player ever to win the Heisman Trophy, was the first round draft pick of the Chargers in the 1972 draft but chose to sign with the Montreal Alouettes because San Diego was "offering fourth and fifth round money."

Turner buys Hawks to run during baseball hiatus

ATLANTA (UPI) — Ted Turner, the Atlanta Braves owner suspended for a year by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, jumped into another sports arena Monday when he acquired control of the Atlanta Hawks.

Turner acquired 55 per cent of the National Basketball Association team and his first official act was to name Mike Storen, a former commissioner of the defunct American Basketball Association, as president and general manager of the Hawks.

"I'm not running the team," said Turner. "That will be the responsibility of Mike Storen." But, then the outspoken communications executive noted that the suspension by Kuhn—on tampering charges involved in the signing of free-agent outfielder Gary Matthews—may leave him with more time for the Hawks than he had originally planned.

"I guess I'll have more time than I planned on," said Turner. "I may be spreading myself a little bit thin. Maybe, if they carry me off to Milldeville, (site of the state mental institution), I can watch the games on television."

"It's really fun to sit down with your new partner and learn he's been suspended for the good of sports," quipped Storen, who will also be a stockholder and managing partner of the Hawks.

Tom Cousins, one of the Hawks' principal owners since the NBA team moved from St. Louis to Atlanta in 1968, and Bud Seretean, wealthy carpet manufacturer who had been the Hawks president-general manager since mid-1975, will continue as "financially interested

Idaho State rips Bakersfield

POCAATELLO — Idaho State turned red hot in the second half and riced past Cal State of Bakersfield 88-73 Monday.

The Bengals, running their record to 7-3, trailed most of the first half but behind the sudden 14-point shooting of Greg Griffin took the lead at 50-48 and never looked back.

Bakersfield led by as much as nine points in the first half. It burst ahead 7-2 in the early going with Idaho State replying with the next points. The teams battled nearly evenly until Bakersfield moved ahead 18-16 and eventually pushed ahead 37-28.

In the final 45 seconds, Idaho State picked up four points, an omen of the second half.

Idaho State took the lead 50-48 when Jeff Cook took down an offensive rebound and mangled it back up for two points. Griffin and Hayes picked up two points each on Idaho State's next possessions before Bakersfield narrowed the count to four. Griffin extended the margin to 56-50 and started the break-away that eventually led to a 19-point bulge.

Idaho State enters Big Sky Conference play Friday and Saturday by traveling to Idaho and Gonzaga.

Washington St. drops Vandals

SPOKANE — Washington State used its big height advantage to control both backcourts and defeat the University of Idaho Vandals 69-66 Monday night.

Fresh James Donaldson, a 7-2 center, pumped through a career high of 18 points — most of them in the second half — while 6-10 senior Steve Puddokas paced the Cougars with 21 points.

Washington State, trailing outside shooting of transfer James Smith and his 26 points, gave the Cougars a better game this time around. WSU led almost all the time, but the Vandals managed to stay within hailing distance. Washington led ends up to 15 points several times over the first 30 minutes. Idaho made its last bid for respectability with about eight minutes left in the game.

The Vandals cut a 15-point deficit to 10 as James hit two field goals and Bill Hensing added three points. That made it 66-56 with 6:31 to play but Donaldson picked up four straight points and the Cougars erupted into a 76-56 lead before coasting in.

WSU travels to Stanford Thursday and California Saturday. Idaho returns to its home gym for only the second time this year Friday, hosting Idaho State, then Boise State Saturday to open the Big Sky Conference.

Charger President Eugene V. Klein, who said he's been negotiating with Rodgers for the past four years, said Rodgers will "put much in our offense — will win a lot more games than we did last year." The Chargers ended the season with a 6-8 record.

Rodgers said he began negotiating the contract with the Chargers about 10 days ago when the Alouettes gave him a 30-day option to either re-sign with the team, seek a contract with another team in the Canadian Football League, or return to the U.S.

Rodgers' agent, Michael Trope, said Montreal "made a stupid mistake that left him a free agent." He indicated the Alouettes probably will have to make a large cash settlement. "We had a lucrative situation in Canada," Trope said, "and we chose not to go back."

Rodgers said his negotiations with the Chargers were quite "fast." "I came down here, we talked and it was settled," he said. "I had to be new. If I ever was to come back to the NFL, it had to be now, because I would have had to negotiate a long-term contract in Canada."

The quick negotiations were quite a contrast for Rodgers, who felt insulted by his negotiations with the Chargers in 1972. "I couldn't believe it," Rodgers said of the Chargers shortly after he signed with Montreal in 1972. "I had just won the Heisman Trophy and they insult me like that. They were arrogant as hell."

"They needed me more than I needed them and if they weren't willing to pay the right money for what I could give them, then I didn't want to play for them. They made me feel as if they were doing me a favor."

Rodgers received a six-figure contract to play in Canada and rewarded the Alouettes by winning the rookie of the year award.

Rodgers signed a multiyear contract with the A's in 1974 that reportedly made him the highest paid player in Canada.

Rodgers led Nebraska to the national championship in 1971 as he set a school all-purpose rushing record with 2,213 yards. He caught a school record 11 touchdown passes and set another Nebraska standard with five kick returns for touchdowns that year.

Rodgers still holds a number of career records at Nebraska, including most points, most yards, most touchdowns and most pass receptions.

Money irrelevant in Finley's suit

CHICAGO (UPI) — U.S. District Court Judge Frank McGarr indicated Monday the only issue in the Charles Finley-Bowie Kuhn suit is whether Kuhn had the authority to void Finley's sale of three players last June.

McGarr said any attempts to determine Finley's financial motives for the sales or Kuhn's feelings towards Finley were irrelevant.

"Motivation is not relevant," McGarr said. "The question is whether he (Kuhn) had the authority or not. I'm not interested in whether he liked Mr. Finley or not. I'm interested in whether he had the authority to do what he did."

Finley was the only witness in the Monday afternoon session of the trial who testified that Kuhn had the authority to conclude, his attorney, Neal Papiano, said he would call no more than one additional witness.

Both Papiano and Kuhn's attorney, Peter Bleakley, said they would make their motions Tuesday before the defense begins its case.

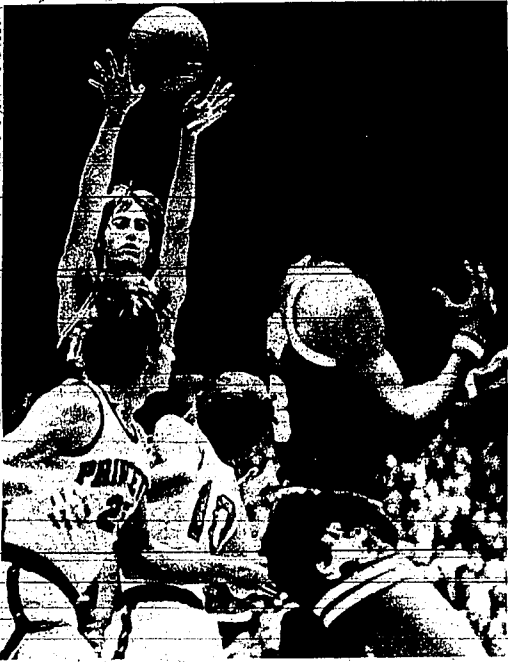

"We're going to move for a dismissal," Bleakley said. "There were no surprises in their testimony and I'm hopeful we're going to win."

"The gut question is still the judge's opinion on whether Kuhn has that authority."

Finley alleged in his suit that Kuhn exceeded his authority in voiding the sale of Joe Rudl and Rolfe Fingers to the Boston Red Sox for $2 million and of Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million.

Kuhn said his action was taken because the sales were not "in the best interests of baseball."

UPI confirms Pitt as No. 1 team

NEW YORK (UPI) — The University of Pittsburgh, which completed its perfect season and "rags to riches" football renaissance with a 27-3 Sugar Bowl victory over Georgia Jan. 1, Sunday became the first eastern school since 1959 to be named national champion by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The Panthers, who claimed victories over bowl-bound Notre Dame and Penn State along with Georgia in their 12-0 season, received an overwhelming 39 first place votes from the 42 coaches participating in the final UPI ratings to easily outpace runner-up Southern California, 416-376. The Trojans, whose 11-8 Rose Bowl triumph over Michigan completed a string of 11 straight victories and an 11-1 season, received three first place votes from the coaches.

Michigan finished third in the final balloting with 238 points, while Houston, which knocked Maryland from the unbeaten ranks with a 30-21 win over Maryland, was fourth with 249 points. — Both the Cougars and Michigan wound up the season with 10-2 records.

For Pittsburgh, which now faces the loss of Coach Johnny Majors to Tennessee and its star running back—Tony Dorsett to graduation, the No. 1 ranking culminates a four-year football revival which began when Majors took over a woebegone program in 1973. Prior to Majors' arrival, the Panthers were 1-10 in 1972 and not had experienced a winning season since 1963.

USF sits atop cage rankings

NEW YORK (UPI) — The University of San Francisco, which has not climbed to the top of the national ratings since Bill Russell led the school to the 1955-56 national basketball championship, achieved its first No. 1 ranking in 21 years Monday in balloting conducted by United Press International.

The Dons drew support from 21 coaches on the UPI ratings board while increasing their season's unbeaten string to 15 games.

The Dons took advantage of defeats to Michigan, last week's leader, and Notre Dame, to vault to the top rung as they beat St. John's (N.Y.), Arizona State and Houston to collect 365 points from the coaching board.

San Francisco, a sophomore-led squad, ranks among the top 10 offensive teams in the country. The team does not have a representative among this nation's top 25 scorers but presents a balanced attack led by Bill Cartwright, a 7-foot center trying to bring back the glory that Bill Russell provided San Francisco during the 1950's.

Kentucky second—and trying harder

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky basketball Coach Gene Hall says he would like to see his second-ranked Wildcats reach the top of the UPI coaches poll, but he also likes his team being in the position of shooting for a higher goal.

The Wildcats, fresh from an upset over Notre Dame, were ranked second in the latest UPI coaches poll, trailing top-ranked San Francisco. Notre Dame slipped from second to No. 3.

Wildcats slip past Georgia in overtime

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Forward James Lee converted a rare four-point play with 1:22 left in overtime to spark second-ranked Kentucky to a 64-59 victory over a surprisingly strong Georgia team in the Southeastern Conference quarter for both clubs Monday night.

Kentucky, now 8-1, led 56-55 when Lee stole a pass, scored a layup and was awarded two free throws after the referee called an intentional foul on Georgia. Lee sank both free throws to give the Wildcats a five-point lead. Lee, who scored all 10 of his points in the second half, added two more free throws 15 seconds later to ice the contest.

The Bulldogs, shot 67 per cent from the field in the first half and took a 25-24 lead into the locker room at intermission. Daniels, who led all scorers with 20 points, and Jackson, who added 17, gave Georgia a 49-45 lead with five minutes left in regulation.

But Kentucky's Rick Robey, who scored 17 points, sank four key free throws in the closing minutes of regulation to enable Kentucky to tie the score at 63-all heading into the overtime.

Carpenter Says:

Well, it's January White Sale time, and we don't want to be out-paced by Sears and Penney's . . . so, we are having our First Annual January White Used Car Sale. The prices are slashed just like all White-Sale-retailers. The problem is . . . we don't have any white cars; but, about every other color is on the lot - and, a worthwhile side benefit, if we all keep talking "white", maybe we will look out some morning and find that the elusive snow has finally arrived.

Here are some examples of White-Sale give-away prices -

1972 AMC GREMLIN X	$1650
1975 FIAT X-19	$3648
1974 FORD COURIER PICKUP	$2536
1974 MAZDA PICKUP	$2675
1970 CHRYSLER NEW YORKER, Was $999	$799
1976 HONDA CVCC	SAVE $$$

And . . . with every used car purchase, we will give some white goods . . . sheets, pillow cases, towels - that sort of thing.

China harvest called record

CHINA — China has reported that its 1976 grain harvest was an all-time record, with a majority of its provinces equaling or surpassing their totals for last year.

The Chinese press agency Hsinhua, gave no figures in making the claim, following a common Chinese practice.

Hsinhua said only that "China's grain output hit an all-time high in 1976, marking the 15th consecutive year of good harvest."

Analysts in Hong Kong, on the basis of still incomplete data from China's provinces, have estimated that this year's crop would be about 300 million tons, or roughly an increase of 4 per cent over last year's, which was also said to be a record. The analysts calculated the 1976 grain figure at 300 to 309 million tons.

China's exact grain production has become a subject of controversy among specialists in the past few years, given a lack of precise information and some conflicting Chinese claims. Some analysts in the United States Department of Agriculture and the Central Intelligence Agency reportedly believe that this year's harvest will be only marginally better, at most, than last year's and may be closer to 290 than 300 million tons.

China needs to increase its grain production by five million tons a year to keep pace with its annual population growth of about 2 per cent. Western estimates of China's population range from 850 to 950 million; Peking's figure is 800 million.

Hsinhua said Thursday the record had been achieved despite bad weather in some areas, including drought, waterlogging, cold spells, early frosts and earthquakes in 1976.

That the country achieved a record harvest in the face of such adverse weather suggests that China has begun to reap important benefits from a major program begun in 1972 to improve irrigation and flood-control facilities. In the past year alone, more than 100 million peasants are reported to have been mobilized in their spare time for irrigation work and reclaiming farmland.

Peking launched a nationwide drive last year to mechanize agriculture within five years and improve the performance of rural party units. According to Chinese figures, 1.6 million party and state cadres have been sent to work in the countryside in the past year to spearhead this drive.

Peking's new leaders recently reaffirmed their commitment to giving priority to agricultural development, at a national farm conference. Hua Kuo-feng, the new Communist party chairman, said in a major policy speech that China would follow the late Mao Tse-tung's program to "take agriculture as the foundation and industry as the leading factor."

Soviets buy breeding cows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet officials recently bought 300 head of American breeding cattle including their first purchase of female breeding stock from the United States, the Agriculture Department says.

The Foreign Agricultural Service said the Soviet purchase, shipped in late November, included Santa Gertrudis beef cattle and Holstein and Brown Swiss dairy animals.

The shipment included some bulls, but also included both unbred and bred heifers, officials said. Spokesmen noted that this "reportedly is the first time the Soviets have bought female cattle in the United States."

Cattle ailments on increase

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI) — Western State officials said a dry winter and drastic temperature drops during the nighttime hours caused an increase in respiratory ailments for cattle during the past several weeks.

Herman Soderquist of the TRRiver Extension Service at Delta, Colo., estimated hundreds of cattle deaths in the four counties he covered — Mesa, Delta, Montrose and Ouray.

"We've had probably hundreds of cattle deaths in my area, but it's not a disaster-type situation yet," Soderquist said.

But any losses are serious because of the already depressed economic conditions of the cattlemen," Dr. Jim Grady, a Grand Junction veterinarian, said the respiratory disease, sometimes called dust pneumonia, affects anything that breathes.

Wyoming funds earmarked

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (UPI) — The Beef Development Task Force Committee has proposed a program to spend $30 to $40 million annually for consumer education, research and foreign market development.

The funds would be raised by earmarking about three-tenths of the sale price of each head of cattle for the research program. Curtis Meier, state chairman of the committee, said only $3 million — about 2 percent of the total U.S. cattle sales — is invested annually in the three areas. Florida citrus fruit growers spend 2.5 percent on market development, he said.

An effective marketing research and development program to provide information on markets and the projected outlook would quickly repay the cattle raiser's investment in the program, Meier said. He said public education is needed to offset emotional arguments against eating beef.

"Cattle producers have faced many problems over the past few years, including meat boycotts, price control, cholesterol and cancer scares and eat-less campaigns," he said.

Research would help change such attitudes as well as create products with longer shelf life, said Meier.

"We're also interested in new combinations of beef and vegetable protein so we can place more beef within the means of more consumers," he said.

Aussie study slated

MOSCOW — Gerald Marousek, University of Idaho professor of agricultural economics, is departing for Australia soon.

As a Fulbright scholar, he will be involved in a research project in regional economics. The recipient of a Fulbright-Hays overseas study grant, Marousek will study farmers' income and expenditure patterns in southeastern Australia.

He will be stationed in Armidale, New South Wales, at the University of New England. Among Australian universities, this university rates first in the size of its agricultural economics program.

Marousek will resume his duties at Moscow in the fall semester. He has served on the University of Idaho faculty since 1962.
