

Applause for Andrus address

IDAHO Gov. Cecil D. Andrus receives a rousing ovation from Lt. Gov. John V. Evans and other members of the Idaho Legislature as he addresses the House Chamber of the Idaho Capitol Monday for his "State of the State" address. For reports on the reaction of legislators and details of the address, see pp. 2 and 8.

Ford proposes single energy agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today proposed consolidation of key federal agencies and functions into a Cabinet-level "Department of Energy," saying the reorganization would help the nation meet a goal of self-sufficiency in energy.

Under Ford's proposal, the department would include operations of the Federal Energy Administration, the Energy Research and Development Administration, the Federal Power Commission and the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines and the Rural Electrification Administration.

Vance sees new issues to fore

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State nominee Cyrus Vance said today admitted in his Senate confirmation hearing he would be "a pure townhouse situation." Every unit will have its own ground entry so that "no one is above anyone else."

The project's 83 units would be housed in 16 buildings on about 6 and a half acres of land and will be called "Bonne Vie North."

Three different types of units are planned, Wright said, and the exteriors would be done with cedar or redwood, depending on the market.

Bell admits 'wrong' decisions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General-designate Griffin Bell today admitted in his Senate confirmation hearing he made "wrong" decisions on free speech and federal wiretaps while a judge on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Bell, most controversial of Jimmy Carter's Cabinet choices, was sharply questioned on the two matters by Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Brown favors emphasis shift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense secretary nominee Harold Brown said today he would like to see the "debate over" arms shifted from nuclear weapons to the needs of conventional weapons.

"The balance of conventional forces is at least as important, if not more important," Brown told the Senate Armed Services Committee, held an informal hearing on Brown's nomination which must be approved by the full Senate.

Elkhorn offers new condo plan

SUN VALLEY — Elkhorn at Sun Valley presented preliminary plans for a new 83-unit condominium project at the Sun Valley planning and zoning meet Monday.

The project will be a joint venture between Elkhorn and the Wick Construction Co., according to Elkhorn President John Harker. Elkhorn architect Neil Wright said the project would be "a pure townhouse situation."

After studying the preliminary plans, the zoning board directed Elkhorn officials to return again with more specifics.

And all autumn we were waiting so eagerly for winter and snow.

RUPERT — The second preliminary hearing on murder and kidnap charges stemming from the Easter Sunday 1975 chain strangulation death of a 77-year-old woman began here Monday with grisly testimony by the pathologist who examined the dead woman.

The former Twin Falls pathologist testified that Anna Marie Rufener died of strangulation and suffered a fracture of the thyroid cartilage. Dr. Dennis Venzon, who recently accepted a position as instructor at the University of Utah Medical Center, described the autopsy he performed on the 77-year-old woman nearly two years ago.

Supreme Court backs local zone measures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that local zoning laws may not be held unconstitutional solely because they tend to limit availability of housing for racial minorities and low income groups.

All eight justices participating in the decision agreed that impact alone is insufficient proof of discriminatory intent. Three justices dissented solely on the issue of whether the appeals court should be given a second chance to review the case rather than be reversed outright.

The decision was a major victory for the nation's suburban areas which use comprehensive zoning laws to maintain the character of their communities. It was a blow to civil rights groups in their continuing battle to open up the suburbs to low income families for housing and schools.

In another case, the high court ruled unanimously that an Otis school board was not barred from firing a teacher for legitimate reasons—although other reasons dealt with constitutionally protected free speech. The justices said if the main cause of dismissal was for non-speech misconduct, reinstatement was not required because he also was criticized for his speech.

Justice Lewis F. Powell, writing the court's opinion in the housing case, relied heavily on a decision last term upholding testing procedures by the Washington, D.C., police department. In that case, the court said merely showing more blacks than whites failed; the test was insufficient to prove race discrimination under the 14th Amendment.

Today's decision applied the same logic to zoning regulations in Arlington Heights, Ill., which declined to change property zoned for single family detached homes to multi-family units. The change had been sought by a developer seeking to build low and middle income housing.

According to the 1970 census, only 27 of Arlington Heights' 64,000 residents were black.

The U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago said since the impact of the zoning rules was to foster continued segregation in the village, the rules must fall. The court found no significant evidence the community was motivated by race discrimination.

The high court reversed, holding that "proof of racially discriminatory intent or purpose is required to show a violation of the Equal Protection Clause."

Justices Byron R. White, William J. Brennan and Thurgood Marshall did not disagree, but dissented on grounds the appeals court should be allowed to examine the constitutional issues a second time.

Idaho leads measles cases

By CHRIS FECK
Times News writer
BOISE — No swine flu developed in Idaho in 1976 but the state had the nation's highest incidence of measles, state officials said.

A total of 2,655 Idahoans contracted the "old fashioned" or "hard" measles during the year, the highest per capita rate for the disease among the 50 states, according to Bob Medlin, immunization coordinator for the Department of Health and Welfare.

Hard measles are the most serious type. In 1975 only 73 cases of measles were reported in Idaho, compared with three times more cases in 1976 than developed in the last five years put together, Medlin said.

Eight children were hospitalized and one died as a result of the high fever and rash which come with measles, Medlin said.

"A combination of things led to this outbreak," he said.

Older age groups didn't take part in measles immunization programs and then caught the disease in junior and senior high school," he said.

Measle immunization is possible but fewer Idaho children get measles shots each year, which has led to the higher rate of the disease today, Medlin added.

"Kids aren't following an appropriate schedule for the measles shots," he said. "Their parents are apathetic to the immunization program. To combat the rising reported cases of measles the Department of Health and Welfare is considering a two year program to encourage parents to have their children get measles shots.

"We've got to convince parents we mean business," Medlin said.

About one of every 200 school children caught the measles last year in Idaho. According to Health and Welfare statistics, about one in 1,000 cases of measles causes inflammation of the brain, which often leaves the child mentally retarded.

"We've got to provide Idahoans with a hell of a lot more information about this," Medlin said today.

Besides leading the nation in the number of cases of measles, Idaho kids contracted 455 cases of mumps in 1976, more than five times the total of the previous year.

Medlin blamed inadequate or absent school records for part of the measles outbreak. He said records on students, which makes it difficult for health officials to find kids who are likely to get the disease.

Evans sets closed visits with prospects for post

BOISE (UPI) — Lt. Gov. John V. Evans plans to meet privately with each member of his advisory commission to select the candidates for replacement when he succeeds Cecil D. Andrus as governor.

Evans said he wants to visit "confidentially" with each of those who recommended nine persons as potential appointees to learn their preferences and assessment of the candidates.

After that, he said, he will pick a new lieutenant governor. He said he still hopes to announce his choice by week's end.

Meantime, Evans said he is moving cautiously in selection of his gubernatorial staff — hoping to strike a balance between maturity and youthful enthusiasm.

"We're going to be very careful and cautious in the selection process," Evans said. "We think it's imperative we get the very best qualified for the jobs."

Murphy is one of the nine recommended by the advisory committee. He served Andrus for two years as administrative assistant before resigning and since "has served" as legislative liaison for him.

Evans said Murphy has agreed to serve in whatever capacity will help Evans launch his own governorship.

The lieutenant governor said work on his own State of the State address is in the preliminary stages and that his staff is researching programs and some approaches his administration will emphasize.

While he plans to deliver a mini-message to a joint session of the legislature after he is sworn in as governor Evans does not intend to try to improve on the message Andrus gave the legislature Monday.

"You're not going to improve on that State of the State message at all," Evans said. "It was excellent. If anything I'll be John Evans' style, John Evans' priority of needs."

He said he does not intend to echo the Andrus address although "we may re-emphasize some areas."

"Undoubtedly it will cover many of the same areas but with different emphasis," Evans said.

Rest revives

METULAH, Israel (UPI) — Pet owners in this small village thought their dogs and cats had returned from the dead.

Dozens of pets were carried off to the village dump Saturday after collapsing from the effects of eating poisoned meat and fish left around town as part of a campaign against rabies.

Most recovered after eight's rest amid the garbage and staggered home Sunday morning for a curative bowl of milk.

Andrus smiles

BOISE (UPI) — The governor smiled all the way to the treasurer's office today.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus received a $2,017,622 check as the second of two revenue sharing payments to the state and forwarded it to State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon.

Andrus also received a $176,645 payment under the Antirecession Fiscal Assistance program for the quarter beginning Jan. 1 authorized by Title II of the 1976 Public Works Employment Act.

Lanting chosen

HOLLISTER — William Lanting was elected to serve as president of the Salmon River Canal Co. for 1977 at the annual stockholders meeting.

Ralph Ward will serve as first vice-president, Vic Nelson will serve as second vice-president and George Humphries will be secretary-treasurer.

Lester McGrigor is director-at-large.

Chill grip persists

MAGIC VALLEY — A cold wave continued to hold the Magic Valley in its grip today, with temperatures dropping as low as 21 degrees below zero.

Little relief was in sight, as a Pacific Front soon is expected to bring more cold with it.

Farfield's minus 21 was the state's coldest temperature.

Elsewhere in the valley, temperatures were below zero.

Rupert had 6 below and Burley 1 below. Twin Falls and Jerome were 2 above zero, and Gooding reported 1 above.

Some light snow is expected by tonight, the National Weather Service reported today.

(For details, see p. 7)

Pathologist testifies at Rufener hearing

He said there were contusions on the front and both sides of the neck and on the front of the thighs, as well as blood on the woman's tongue, apparently from a cut lower lip suffered some time before her death. He added that he considered anatomical lesions on the front of the thighs as unusual.

Evans said he was particularly interested in markings around the neck. They were discolored rings with spots in the center of normal coloring.

"I've never seen anything like that," he said, giving "Bill" as the reason he took pathologists that were admitted into evidence despite defense objections.

Mrs. Rufener died on Easter Sunday, March 30, 1975, with a tow chain fastened around her neck and a bedpost. Despite the twisted chain she apparently had been trying to use a pot lid in the room for her toilet purposes.

Ernest and Gispelida Rufener, son and daughter-in-law of the accused, have been charged with first degree murder and second degree kidnapping in the death.

A second preliminary hearing on those charges began Monday in Rupert before Jerome County Magistrate Judge Russell Shaud.

The first preliminary hearing was held only two months after the death before Cassia County

Magistrate Judge George Gramata. Gramata ruled that the evidence was sufficient to proceed to trial. He, Bill Manning had the reduced counts dismissed, following that by re-telling the original charges.

Jose and Minerva Monreal, owners of the house in which the death occurred, also were arrested for preliminary hearing Monday on charges as accessories before the fact to both first-degree murder and second degree kidnapping.

"Admitting varying degrees of culpability," Manning agreed Monday to separation of the Monreals from the Rufeners in the preliminary hearings.

Gov. Andrus' last message brings good peer reviews

BOISE (UPI) — Both parties gave Gov. C. L. Andrus high marks for his seventh and final State of the State address Monday, saying even though he was leaving he still outlined problems facing Idaho.

But Republican leaders indicated Andrus and his successor, Lt. Gov. John V. Evans, both Democrats, probably will have a difficult time implementing some suggestions to the conservative-minded 44th Legislature.

Minimum stream flow, adoption of a State Water Plan without legislative oversight, creation of energy districts, reorganization of the Tax Commission and circuit breaker tax relief for elderly renters all appear headed for trouble.

Andrus was interrupted 12 times by applause during his 34-minute address and received a moving, 60-second ovation when he finished on an emotional note of farewell that put tears in many eyes — including the governor's.

But many legislative leaders in both parties called the address a fitting transitional speech for Andrus to give before leaving Idaho to become secretary of Interior under President-elect Jimmy Carter.

"I thought it was a good talk," House Speaker Allan F.

Larsen said. "It was a very appropriate talk. We all know he's leaving and perhaps for that reason it was a little more bland."

Larsen predicted trouble ahead both for reorganization of the Tax Commission and for adoption of a State Water Plan without legislative oversight.

Senate President Pro Tem Phil Batt, R-Wilder, called it a "very comprehensive and moving address."

"The obvious sentiment expressed by the governor was shared by all of us who have worked with him the past several years," Batt said.

Batt said he felt the request for tax incentives to further reduce pollutants will meet with "favorable consideration" by the legislature.

"I was particularly impressed by the hard questions put to the educational forces this morning," Batt said. "Obviously, although more money is needed for education, I agree with the governor for more accountability on how the money is spent."

Other legislative reaction:

House Minority Leader Patricia L. McDermott, D-Pocatello, the legislature "must implement" its recommendation to eliminate the corporation's operating-loss carryback or face real trouble on tax refunds. She said the "big thing is the distribution formula" for state aid to education, agreeing it must be changed.

Chairman Steve Antone, R-Rupert, of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee: There appears to be no chance of eliminating the loss carryback. It was tried and beaten soundly on the floor last year. There is not much future for circuitbreaker tax relief for elderly renters. But there is some hope for tax incentives for alternate energy sources.

John T. 'Jack' Peterson

BURLEY — John T. "Jack" Peterson, 98, retired Burley businessman, died Sunday at Cassin Memorial Hospital.

Born Nov. 9, 1878, in Sweden, he came to the United States at the age of 4 and settled in Ogden, Utah, where he attended schools. He moved to Burley in 1909 and married Luella Daven in 1916 at Burley. Mrs. Peterson died in 1959.

Shortly after moving to Burley, Mr. Peterson established a grain and coal business which he operated until his retirement in 1970.

He also operated, with members of his family, grain mills in Burley, Heyburn and Idaho and a seed store in Burley.

He is survived by one half-brother, Leonard Peterson and two half-sisters, Eva and Veda Peterson, all Ogden; many nieces and nephews, including Mrs. John Rye and Mrs. Truman Bradley, both Burley, and Mrs. Cecil Ferry, Paul.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Joseph Payne Memorial Chapel by Rev. Robert Bigler, Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in the Pleasant View Cemetery.

Friends may call at the mortuary today from 4 to 8 p.m. and prior to the services Wednesday.

City takes action in license hassle

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City Atty. Charles Brumbaugh said he will sign an agreement this week which would remove the city from a suit over the Sandpiper Restaurant's liquor license.

City Council members approved the signing of a council working lunch Monday.

Under the agreement, the city will revoke its license if the judge hearing the complaint rules that the state's license should be revoked. In return, lawyers representing the plaintiffs will delete the city from the list of defendants, thereby freeing the city attorney for other business.

The city action is the latest in a controversy which has been brewing for several months. In November, the state liquor board issued a state license to the restaurant after questions arose on whether such an issuance was legal under Idaho law.

The city of Twin Falls later issued a city liquor license. Both licenses are needed for a business to sell liquor.

Two Twin Falls residents, Eugene Kopp and Venita Beglan, filed a complaint in Fifth District Court against the state, county and city. The complaint alleges the state and city licenses should not have been issued because the city's population has not increased sufficiently.

The state issues licenses based on population increases. For every 1,500 persons, one additional license is issued.

Retired District Judge Charles Scoggin, Fairfield, has set Jan. 18 as a tentative date for continuation of the Sandpiper hearing begun last month.

The judge delayed the hearing so L. James Kounlik, who leases the state license to the restaurant, can hire an attorney to represent him in the case.

Panel to review assessor petitions

TWIN FALLS — Applications for Twin Falls County assessor will be reviewed by the Republican Central Committee at a special meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the courthouse annex.

Chairman to the committee, Earl Laird '68, four persons have applied for the post to become vacant when Assessor Ron Taylor retires at the end of the month.

In addition to the four applicants, three other persons have also shown interest in being appointed to the post, Noh said.

At the Thursday meeting, committee members will interview applicants and then vote on Taylor's successor.

The committee's recommendation will then go to the county commission for approval.

Taylor announced his resignation at the first of the month, citing heavy work pressure and a desire to return to private business.

Taylor is the second county official to retire in recent weeks. Twin Falls County Clerk Harold Lancaster of Lincoln retired at year's end.

Lancaster's replacement, Gary Witwell, was named by the county commission in December with the recommendation of the Republican Central Committee.

Ketchum police arrest man

KETCHUM — An Illinois man was arrested by Ketchum police Friday and accused of writing a check for insufficient funds.

Stephen Lewis Taylor was arrested Friday after allegedly writing a check for $184.71 at the Holiday Inn in Ketchum.

He was arraigned in Blaine County Fifth District Magistrate Court Friday. Bail was set at $1,000 and a preliminary hearing set for Thursday.

Evans drafts own views

BOISE (UPI) — Lt. Gov. John V. Evans plans to deliver a mini State of the State address of his own to the legislature when he becomes governor.

Evans will succeed Cecil D. Andrus as governor later this month or early next when Andrus resigns to become secretary of interior in the cabinet of President-elect Jimmy Carter.

"After I become governor I think it is imperative I ask the legislature to meet in joint session once again and I present John Evans' State of the State message," Evans said.

"For two years I am going to be governor of the State of Idaho and I am going to do my level best to implement goals I think are the most important for the state."

Evans said he will meet with legislative leaders to ascertain what priorities they feel he should set for legislation in the unprecedented second State of the State address.

While Evans plans to present a State of the State address to the legislature he does not plan to present his own budget address. He said essentially he will operate under the budget Andrus outlined to the legislature Wednesday morning.

The lieutenant governor said he "strongly supports" the major proposals made by Andrus Monday and was "very pleased" with the governor's seventh and final State of the State address.

It shows he is still very much aware of the people problems and the environmental problems of the State of Idaho," Evans said.

Innocent plea set

BOISE (UPI) — James Cole, a Boise warehouse foreman who disappeared last summer and for a time was believed kidnapped, pleaded not guilty to forgery charges Monday in Fourth District Court.

Cole's attorney asked the court for a change of venue out of Ada County and District Judge Robert Rowlett took the matter under advisement.

The Ada County prosecuting attorney's office is expecting a decision on the change of venue within the next two weeks.

Cole earlier pleaded not guilty to a felony charge of extortion.

The forgery charge stemmed from the sale of a motorcycle prior to Cole's disappearance in which Cole allegedly signed the title to the bike with the name of a co-worker.

Cole also was accused of attempting to extort money from Mountain States Wholesale Co., an affiliate of Albertsons' corporation, while he was employed as a foreman at the Mountain States warehouse in Boise.

Second Rufener hearing opens

Manning then offered to dismiss one of the two counts against each of the Monreals and negotiate for a plea on the other count if they would testify in the case against the Rufeners.

The prosecutor charged that his offer left defense attorney James J. May, Twin Falls, with a conflict of interests because acceptance of his offer would benefit the Monreals and could damage the Rufeners' defense.

Claiming that there was "extreme overcharging in the charges against the Monreals," May replied, "I feel the Monreals are guilty of nothing except letting the Rufeners use part of their house."

He charged that Manning's offer "borders on the nature of a blackmail effort" and said, "I intend to continue to represent them."

May said the Rufeners are "poor, uneducated and they might lack something in the IQ corner," but they were not guilty of premeditated murder. He argued that use of a chain to hold the elderly woman did not differ from old people being bound with nylon straps in rest homes.

The first degree murder count charged "prolonged, calculated, premeditated, malicious and systematic torture and 'repeated beatings'."

May moved for dismissal on the grounds that a second preliminary hearing violates both the state and U.S. constitutions and the crimes were "put in true perspective" by Granata's reduction of charges. He also argued that the state's first degree murder statute is unconstitutional and the second degree felony statute did not exist when the complaint was filed.

Shaud also pointed out that the state Supreme Court, although scheduled to hear arguments on legality of a second preliminary hearing, denied a motion for delay of the Rufeners' preliminary hearing last month.

The judge also denied a motion for change of venue, despite May's criticism that extensive news media coverage gave the defendants "no chance of fair treatment."

May's only success in pre-hearing motions came on his request for a continuance.

Judge Shaud said he would allow a continuance as of Wednesday noon so May could prepare to be a witness-in-an insurance case in Twin Falls arising out of the unsuccessful attempt of Evel Knievel to jet his cycle across the Snake River Canyon two years ago.

Medicaid review set

BOISE (UPI) — What could be a two-year review of the Medicaid program in the state will start Jan. 17, the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare said Monday.

A federal-state team will conduct the review of the medical assistance claims paid in Idaho.

James C. Wilson, administrator of the department's division of welfare, said the review is meant to determine the extent of fraud and abuse in the multimillion dollar program.

"Separate reviews will occur over what could be as long as a two-year period but the initial review will be of 25 physicians, 25 pharmacists and four independent laboratories," Wilson said.

Aid slashed

PAYETTE, Idaho (UPI) — A drop in average daily attendance may cost the Payette School District as much as $56,000 in state aid this year.

Superintendent Jim Fisher told the school board Monday that the district's average daily attendance is down 91 students from last year. If the reduction is maintained, he said, the district will lose $56,000 in state aid.

Should that happen, he said, the cut in aid will put "some real constraints" on the budget. He said 51 per cent of the general fund has been spent out of the budget.

Long engagement before marriage

President Ford's unexpected announcement that he would recommend to Congress legislation leading to Puerto Rico's becoming the 51st state has created a controversy both here and in the island as might have been expected.

In a referendum in 1967 Puerto Ricans voted 60 per cent to continue the present commonwealth status, with 39 per cent voting for statehood.

There has been since then no great groundswell on the island for becoming a state. Puerto Ricans have been citizens of the United States since 1917. This made possible the great migration of their people to the United States in the first half of the century.

But there are some important differences. Puerto Ricans do not pay income tax to the federal government, but do pay rather heavy taxes to their commonwealth government.

The island has been getting a large share of federal aid. There is a heavy distribution of food stamps on the island, probably due to the 20 per cent rate of unemployment which exists.

The economic boom which the island enjoyed when United States capital flowed in, because businesses on the island did not have to pay federal taxes, has now largely vanished and it has economic problems.

In making his announcement President Ford may have dispelled a feeling of some islanders that the U.S. would not accept Puerto Rico as a state, even if it wanted to take that step.

There is a strong but small group on the island that prefers independence. This includes the Socialist Party, which is Marxist oriented. It would not want to be tied even more closely to the United States.

Why would President Ford make the proposal? It has been speculated that it might be a message to Cuba's Castro that the United States has a strong aversion to his attempts to bring communism to the Caribbean.

Militarily it would be a flanking move which would strengthen the power of the U.S. in the lower Caribbean below Cuba. This together with our base in Cuba at Guantanamo Bay might preclude another installation of rockets by Russia such as happened in President Kennedy's years and led to the famous confrontation and backdown by Khrushchev.

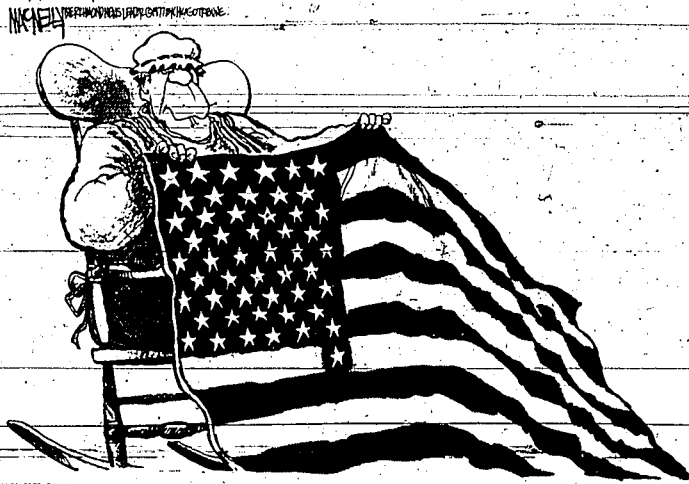

From the Puerto Rican point of view, we would see little incentive towards statehood. They now receive a disproportionate share of federal aid, pay no income taxes and have most of the benefits of citizenship.

They would, however, under statehood, be able to elect two members to the Senate and about five to the House of Representatives, which would give them more of a voice of United States affairs. They would be of no comfort to the already outnumbered Republicans.

Like marriage, entry into statehood should be done with the full consent of both parties, Puerto Rico and the United States. This would undoubtedly include a referendum of plebiscite in the island. And it would probably be a vote for statehood, or independence, or maintaining its present status.

If it were to be approved then Congress would have to reflect the wishes of the people of the United States as to inclusion or preservation of the status quo.

In our opinion this alliance should be preceded by a long engagement, before marriage takes place. Blade Tribune

Puerto Rican statehood needs serious attention

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON President Ford's shut-slope invitation to Puerto Rico to become the 51st State was the most sudden and surprising notion he has had since he liberated Eastern Europe from the Soviet Union, but it has certain possible advantages.

It could, but probably won't, make this city think again about its immigration policy, which is a mess: about the Caribbean islands in general, which are beautiful jungles of economic and racial tension; and about the awkward and even alarming economic, social and strategic problems of our relations with Mexico and Panama. All this and Cuba too is some challenge.

The main fact about the movement of people into the Continental United States is that it is out of control. Each year, more illegal aliens come into the United States, and remain here, than legal aliens. Even the official figures and estimates are staggering.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice estimates that there are now between six and eight million illegal aliens residing permanently in the United States — roughly as many as the total number of unemployed in the nation at the beginning of 1977.

These are estimates, but there are some hard facts. In fiscal year 1975, 855,814 illegal aliens were arrested and deported without formal hearings, and 23,438 were deported after judicial proceedings, most of them from Mexico. But this is a revolving door. The faster they are deported, the faster they return.

Mexico had a population of just under 20 million in 1945, at the end of the last war. It now has a population of over 60 million, with an unemployment rate of over 20 per cent and no effective unemployment insurance.

By its own official estimates, Mexico will have a population of over 100 million at the end of the century — former President Echeverria told me he expected the figure would be nearer to 127 million by that time — so this is an increasing problem, and there is no wall high enough along a 2,000-mile border that can keep them from coming from a poor country to a rich one.

The movement of legal immigrants is a different and more manageable question. This is determined by the Congress of the United States. The Congress established a quota system which until 1965 followed the trend of immigration in the first half of this century — favoring applicants from Western and Eastern Europe, according to the immigration patterns of the past.

Since 1965, different quotas have been applied to Latin America and Asia, and the official figures for fiscal 1975 indicate a dramatic shift in the human traffic from abroad. For example, 62,000 legal immigrants from Mexico in fiscal '75 — more than the total from Britain (12,000), Germany (5,000), France (2,000), Greece (10,000), Italy (11,000), and Portugal (11,000).

In this same year, of the total number of legal immigrants —

386,194 — 31,000 came from the Philippines, 28,000 from South Korea, 14,000 from India, 9,000 from Taiwan, 12,000 from Hong Kong, and 4,000 each from Japan and Thailand. By comparison: 11,000 from Canada, 25,000 from Cuba, 14,000 from the Dominican Republic, and 10,000 from Jamaica.

President Ford's suggestion of statehood for Puerto Rico did not affect this pattern. As citizens of the United States, Puerto Ricans have the same right of movement into the continental United States as the citizens of any state in the Union. But Ford ignored the larger question that must be faced by President-elect Carter in defining the economic and social problems of the future.

How to deal with the unemployment problems when there are more illegal aliens in the country than unemployed? How to analyze the effect on this nation of the shifting pattern of immigration from Europe to Latin America and Asia? And maybe more important, what to do about a nation with unacceptably high rates of unemployment that won't do its own work, but imports or tolerates an army of illegal servants to harvest its fruit and vegetables and serve its tables?

This is not merely a problem of hiring a new class of manual laborers, waiters, dishwashers, etc., to do the menial dog work of life in America, but even the medical profession is relying on immigrants to serve the hospitals of our great cities, and take jobs in the little communities of the nation that can't find American doctors and interns who will stick to the lonely but vaultant profession of village life.

Maybe we can't control the flow of illegal immigrants into the United States. In fiscal 1975 alone, over seven million nonimmigrant visitors came to the United States, and in a vast country it is almost impossible to find many of them who come as visitors but remain and are given jobs by employers who evade the law for convenience, or don't know what the law is.

In short, there are fundamental questions of domestic and foreign policy here which President Ford has touched on, almost frivolously in the last days of his administration. They are not primarily questions of the future of Puerto Rico, but of the future of the United States and its relations with its neighbors, the source of its immigrants, the integrity of its laws, the future of its economy, and the willingness of its own people to do its own work.

Whether Puerto Rico is a state or a commonwealth, these problems will remain — including the appalling problems of unemployment and exploitation of the Puerto Rican people in the island, and their life of welfare and food stamps here in the continental United States — but President Ford has at least given us a chance to turn our attention, long overdue, to the Caribbean and Central America, and it will be interesting to see whether Carter gives it the serious attention it has deserved for a very long time.

Factionalism divides GOP

By WARREN WEAVER JR.

WASHINGTON — The Republican party, still riven by factionalism, has made little or no progress toward choosing new leaders for the critically important years ahead in the two months since the disheartening 1976 election.

Two top posts are open — the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee and of a new policy or coordinating committee that will encompass a broader range of party leadership — but no sort of agreement has been reached on who should fill either of them.

At a White House meeting Wednesday, President Ford failed to win support from Ronald Reagan and John B. Connally for his choice for national committee leader, James A. Baker 3rd of Texas, his campaign manager in the 1976 general election.

As for the chairmanship of the proposed policy committee, Connally said Thursday that "I don't think any former president is going to be articulate, aggressive or combative enough to be a spokesman for the party."

Former presidents, he said, are "reluctant to speak out very forcefully."

The underlying Republican problem is that last year's bitter primary contest between Ford and Reagan divided the party nearly in half, with the defeated Reagan forces now demanding a change in leadership. Further complicating attempts at unity are moderates not content with Ford and conservatives insisting on more ideological purity than Reagan seems ready to promote.

The Republican National Committee is to meet here on Jan. 14-15 to choose a chairman to succeed Mary Louise Smith, who announced her resignation in the wake of the election as elected by the Kansas City convention delegates, the committee is closely divided between 1976 supporters of Ford and Reagan, with a small but far from conclusive margin for Ford.

According to Connally, who met with a group of reporters at breakfast Thursday morning, Wednesday's White House meeting between the President, Vice President Rockefeller, Reagan and himself, involved discussion of four possible candidates for national chairman.

These were: Baker, a former Democrat who headed the Ford delegate selection drive during the primary campaign; former

Sen. William Brock of Tennessee, defeated in the November election; Richard Richards, the Utah National committeeman who enjoys considerable support among Reagan backers, and Thomas Milligan, the Indiana state chairman, who is regarded as acceptable to party moderates.

Berry's World

"Say, whatever happened to the family unit?"

A new way to choose our judges

Special from Common Cause

With Congressional action expected early in 1977 on legislation to expand the federal district and appeals court system, President-elect Jimmy Carter may have the rare opportunity to have a huge impact on the Judicial Branch of government early in his term.

This year Congress came close to final passage of a bill creating nearly 50 new federal district court judgeships. The increase was recommended by the Judicial Conference of the United States and the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts in 1972 after a survey of federal judges' caseloads. This survey is conducted every four years, and the 1976 report of the Conference, to be released soon, finds that Congress needs to more than double that number, creating 106 new seats. Senate Judiciary Committee staffers familiar with the report say the expansion bill to be reintroduced this spring will adopt the new recommendation.

The 94th Congress also considered bills adding up to 22 new seats to the 11 circuit courts of appeals. A bill passed by the Senate but killed in the House would have added one seat to each of seven circuit courts; another bill which met a similar fate would have added up the nation's two largest circuits and added a total of 15 new seats to these benches.

If these bills should move quickly in the 95th Congress, they would give Carter 128 new judgeships to fill before the year is out. In addition, he can expect to appoint more than 20 judges to vacancies caused by death or retirement. Nineteen slots are already open, and more retirement announcements are expected this month.

Most incoming Presidents inherit a federal bench composed of their predecessors' political appointees until well into their term: Richard Nixon was able to appoint only 83 district and circuit court judges during his first two years in office. Carter won't have to face that. Assuming expansion plans are enacted, there will be 52 seats on the federal bench, and with 150 seats available to him, Carter could appoint almost a quarter of the federal judiciary before he celebrates his first Christmas in the White House.

The Politics of Judicial Appointments

The judicial appointments the new President makes may be a major source of tension between the White House and Capitol Hill early in his term. Carter expressed his belief repeatedly during the campaign that "all federal judges and prosecutors should be appointed on the basis of merit without consideration of political influence." And during the third televised debate he pledged to establish a merit selection system for federal judges similar to the one he created in Georgia for state court appointments during his term as governor.

Any selection system which substitutes merit for political considerations in choosing federal judges will face an uphill battle against Congressional custom. Congressional Democrats have delayed badly needed expansion bills in hopes that with a Democratic President they would have a greater say in the distribution of new judgeships. Senators, who have the Constitutional power to confirm federal judges, have often been given the virtual power of appointment for seats in their states. If they're not offered the opportunity to pay their political debts by installing their friends on the federal bench, they at least have the power to veto anyone else the President appoints. Their weapon is "Senatorial courtesy," a euphemism for political backscratching.

The traditional process works like this: when a vacancy on a district court occurs, either of the Senators from the state in which it is located is the President's party; the Senator sends the name of his personal candidate, or a slate of candidates, to the Justice Department for a routine FBI background check. A deputy attorney general forwards the names to the Standing Committee on Judicial Selection and Tenure of the American Bar Association. After making a series of phone calls, the ABA committee returns a report to Justice rating nominees "Extremely Well Qualified," "Qualified," or "Not Qualified." Justice recommends to the President any candidates who have escaped the "Not Qualified" rating — which is rarely handed out.

Often, the President simply chooses from the Senator's list, particularly if the Senator is a powerful committee chairman who has control over a big part of the Administration's legislative package. If the President has his own nominee, he is often forced to negotiate for the seat with some other political plum as a quid pro quo for the Senator's acquiescence in the appointment.

Senators gained this power over judicial nominations through two customs of Senatorial courtesy: the "blue slip system," which permits a Senator to veto a judicial nomination in his state, and the "right" of any Senator to blockball a Presidential appointee he declares "personally obnoxious" to him.

When the President sends a judicial nomination to the Senate, it is referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which sends a blue slip of paper bearing the nominee's name to the two Senators from his state. If either Senator objects by not returning his blue slip, the nomination is virtually dead, no matter how qualified the appointee may be.

Rumsfeld pushes US strength

NEW YORK — Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld said Monday the United States must act now to reverse what he described as the trends of the last 10 to 15 years toward Soviet military superiority.

The outgoing defense secretary, criticizing the idea that American military capacity and strength are "sufficient," said at a public affairs luncheon at the Union League Club that "the facts drive one to the clear conclusion that the United States must act now and in the future to reverse these adverse trends by providing real increases for national security."

While the Soviet Union has been expanding its strategic and conventional forces, he said, the United States has been doing the reverse — reducing defense budgets more than $8 billion in the last five to 10 years.

Rumsfeld's views, which he said were not "cold-war rhetoric," are shared by a growing number of professional military men and civilian experts on the military balance between the two powers.

They are disputed by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and others in the State Department and elsewhere.

The defense chief conceded that President-elect Carter can "of course" cut the defense budget by $5 billion to $7 billion, as he promised during the campaign. The results of that cut, Rumsfeld said, "would not appear in Carter's administration."

"We've been making such cuts for the past 10 to 15 years," he said. But he added that while such cuts would not affect current abilities, they would have long-term impact on the country's security position.

"The United States must pay for increased military capabilities."

The trends of the last 10 to 15 years, he said have been "decidedly adverse, quan-titatively and qualitatively as well as with respect to the key military balances."

Rumsfeld said, "The facts drive one to the clear conclusion that the United States must act now and in the future to reverse these adverse trends — by increases for national security," he said.

Expansion of Soviet nuclear and conventional force strength, Rumsfeld said, has increased the options for the Russians in any given international situation.

Paris court frees Palestinian leader

PARIS (UPI) — A French court today rejected West German and Israeli requests for extradition of Palestinian leader Abu Daoud and ordered him released immediately.

Daoud, a high official of the Palestine Liberation Organization, is suspected of masterminding the kidnapping of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympic games in 1972 which led to the massacre of 17 persons, including 11 Israelis.

Following the court decision Daoud, 39, was taken in a police van under heavy guard back to La Sante prison where he was expected to be turned over immediately.

The four-man panel ruled that the West German request was incomplete and that the Israeli request was legally deficient.

Ex-Ike aide hospitalized

LINCOLN, N.H. (UPI) — Former Gov. Sherman Adams, President Dwight D. Eisenhower's chief of staff for almost six years, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition today.

Adams slipped and struck his head on an icy walkway at the Loon Mountain ski area Monday. Loon Mountain General Manager Corky Cayton said the injury appeared to be minor.

A nursing supervisor said Adams, 78, would be held at least overnight.

Adams, who is president of the ski area, first was rushed 20 miles by ambulance through a heavy snowstorm to Littleton Hospital and later transferred to Mary Hitchcock in Hanover, 60 miles away.

Adams began organizing the Loon Mountain area shortly after he was forced to resign as Eisenhower's chief of staff in 1958 for accepting gifts, including a much-discussed vicuna coat, from Boston businessman Bernard Goldfine.

Adams was walking near the base lodge about 3 p.m. Monday when "he slipped in the snow and fell on a walkway and struck his head," Cayton said.

'Supremacy' concept out, Henry declares

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Monday he was confident no American president would ever allow the Soviet Union to gain strategic superiority over the United States and that the concept of "supremacy" made no sense in the nuclear age.

While not disagreeing with Kissinger, Secretary of Defense Donald H. Rumsfeld told a New York audience that the Pentagon was concerned that "the trends of the past 10 to 15 years have been decidedly adverse" to the United States.

He said the United States "must act now and in the future to reverse these adverse trends by providing real increases for national security."

The views of the Ford administration's top national security officials — both in their last 10 days in office — underscored the different approaches taken by the State and Defense Departments to intelligence reports of increases in Soviet military spending and superiority over the United States in some military areas.

Cyrus K. Vance, who will succeed Kissinger next week, told reporters after a closed-door session with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he believed in "general parity" between the Soviet Union and United States, although he conceded he had not been exhaustively briefed on the subject.

Addressing an overflow audience at the National Press Club in what was probably his last public appearance here, Kissinger said that "the American people must understand that strategic nuclear weapons confront all of mankind with a new circumstance, namely that for the first time in history, mankind can literally destroy itself."

Thai plane falls

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — A Royal Thai air force transport plane crashed in flames at Bangkok's Don Muang airport Tuesday morning, injuring all four crewmen aboard, military sources said.

The sources did not report seriousness of the injuries.

The C123 cargo plane, which was to take part in training aircraft to crash at Don Muang in less than three weeks, in less than three weeks.

Military sources said the pilot radioed shortly after takeoff that he was having engine trouble and was going to land.

Minutes later the plane crashed on the military side of Don Muang and burst into flames.

Ground rescue crews with 15 pieces of equipment freed the pilot, copilot, navigator and loadmaster and put out the flames in 10 minutes.

Dissidents freed

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) — Police have released seven dissidents they detained over publication of a manifesto of democratic rights, dissident sources said today.

Former Foreign Minister Jiri Hájek, writers Vaclav Havel, Ludvik Vaculik, Pavel Kohout and his wife, and professors Frantisek Kriegel and Milan Patecka, were all released late Monday after questioning the sources said.

Kohout said they were informed they were not questioned as suspects but as witnesses. He described their detention by police as "the calling of witnesses Bohemian-style."

The author said he would file a complaint for injury, since his wife hurt her knee when she was dragged against her will into an official limousine Monday.

Lance probe dropped

WASHINGTON — Just one day before Bert Lance was named by President-elect Carter to head the Office of Management and Budget, the United States attorney in Atlanta decided to end an investigation into a possible campaign-law violation by Lance and a bank that he controls, it was learned Monday.

The prosecutor, John W. Stokes Jr., said that the timing was merely a coincidence, and that the case should have been closed without prosecution months before. He added that only an oversight had caused it to "sit in the files" for more than eight months.

Officials at the Justice Department and the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency agreed that the case against Lance was weak and probably should not have been prosecuted. One ranking Justice Department official joined Stokes in denying that the dropping of the investigation was politically motivated.

Our peak gets bigger every year.

Your electric use is setting records — and causing us some problems.

On June 30, 1976, you and your neighbors set a record. You collectively used more electricity than you ever had before.

June 30 was a hot day. As temperatures climbed, irrigation pumps and air conditioners were switched on. Demand for electricity shot upward.

It was our "peak" day — the day of the year electric demand is highest.

At its greatest, the peak was 1,960,000 kilowatts. Our hydro plants were able to generate less than half that amount. More than one-fourth of your electricity at peak came from coal burned at the Jim Bridger plant. Other power companies were able to supply one-fifth of your electricity.

Even with those resources, we were hard pressed to meet all your needs for electricity on many of last summer's hottest days.

By the middle of July, river levels had dropped sharply, reducing our hydro capacity. Our hydro plants were producing only a third of your electricity. Imported power from other utilities was providing another third. The rest came mostly from coal at Jim Bridger.

Our 1976 peak was 145,000 kilowatts greater than our 1975 peak — an increase of 8 percent and a growth in your electric demand slightly higher than we had expected.

We're intent on providing you reliable and adequate electric service. And we'll do so if we can comply with all the environmental and regulatory requirements in time to construct new generating facilities to meet your growing needs.

Image-making eyed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The news media tends to build public figures up, only to tear them down again, newsman Edwin Newman says, citing Henry Kissinger and John Kennedy as examples. "I hope that news organizations will be sensible about Jimmy Carter," Newman said Tuesday at an NBC-sponsored luncheon. "I hope that he will not be followed minute-by-minute, inch-by-inch. I hope we will not find Amy Irresistible and that she will be allowed to be herself."

'Hit man' pleads guilty

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Max Korschner, who wrote three books about his exploits as an underworld "hit man," pleaded guilty in Federal Court Monday to evading $92,000 in income taxes. Also known as "Joey Black," Korschner, 44, was indicted last September on charges of failing to report $71,159 in taxable income for 1973 and another $20,732 for 1974. IRS agents arrested Korschner at his Seattle, Wash., home and he was transferred here for arraignment. He will be sentenced later in the U.S. District Court in Washington. Korschner wrote "Killer—Autobiography of a Mafia-Hit Man."

Arden to head campaign

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Eve Arden has been named honorary chairwoman of the 1977 Crippled Children's Easter Seal Campaign.

Miss Arden will organize a corps of more than 12,000 volunteers in this year's Easter Seal campaign, Crippled Children's Society President Mrs. Harry A. Mier said Monday. "It is through the efforts of these volunteers the Crippled Children's Society is able to use most of the monies raised to provide critically needed free services to the physically handicapped," Mrs. Mier said.

Psychotherapist files suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Psychotherapist Arthur Janov has filed a $7.1 million libel suit against Psychology Today because an article in the magazine said Janov's primal therapy was "jabberwocky." The suit, filed Monday in Superior Court, asks for $6 million in general and punitive damages for Janov and another $1.1 million in general and punitive damages for his Los Angeles-based Primal Institute.

Lee Templeton to Playboy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Lee Templeton, vice-president for marketing of the Knight-Ridder newspaper chain, will become a Playboy Enterprises, Inc., senior vice-president and group executive effective Feb. 1. Besides responsibility for all international publishing and distribution operations, licensing, franchising, product merchandising and corporate research, Templeton will carry overall responsibility for the company's new business development. Derrick J. Daniels, Playboy president, announced Monday.

Des Moines man sentenced

DES MOINES (UPI) — A Des Moines man received a one-year prison sentence Monday for falsely reporting an airplane hijacking. U.S. Magistrate Ronald Longstaff sentenced Constantine Gulans, 38, to the maximum term for the misdemeanor and ordered that he undergo alcoholism treatment. Gulans pleaded guilty in December. The U.S. attorney's office said Gulans called two airline offices last October and said his friends planned to hijack a plane to smuggle drugs.

$250,000 already advanced on Howard Hughes story

N.Y. Times News NEW YORK — The two personal attendants for the late Howard H. Hughes, who have disclosed a tragic story of his last secretive, ailing years, said Monday that they did so because their allegiance had been to him and because they considered that aides who directed the billionaire's empire had manipulated him — often without his knowledge. The men, Gordon Margulis and Mell Stewart, conceded they also had a "monetary interest." The 20-page book by James, Phelan, "Howard Hughes: The Hidden Years," for which they supplied much material and anecdote, has had advance earnings of $250,000 so far, even before the official Jan. 24 publication date, with proceeds being split three ways equally, Phelan said. In a news conference at Random House, publishers of the book, Stewart said that "the taxpayer has a right to know" what happened at Hughes Aircraft, the nation's eighth-largest defense contractor. He and Margulis said they doubted that there was any valid Hughes will, and Phelan said 70 per cent of the estate should belong to the federal government. In the book's introduction, Phelan termed as "pure myth" the idea that the Hughes fortune was a product of free enterprise. Rather, he said, Hughes for 30 years "siphoned huge sums out of the public Treasury" — $6 billion in federal contracts since 1965, according to records studied by Donald Parlett and James Steele of the Knight News Service. Margulis said he had been a waiter at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, Nev., when he first brought meals to Hughes' hideout penthouse, and was then hired to prepare the recluse's food. A Ramate student, he also served as bodyguard, and carried the dying billionaire to an ambulance in Acapulco, Mexico, last April. Margulis, who was born in Egham, England, on Oct. 12, 1931, said he quit school when he was 14 years old, worked as a dress cutter, ran a factory, worked on a construction gang and served for two years in the Royal Air Force as an instrument mechanic. He came to the United States in May 1965. Stewart said he had a barber shop in Huntington Park, Calif., in 1961, when he was called one day to trim Hughes' straggly hair and beard in the Beverly Hills Hotel. The visit brought him a $1,000 fee, and later standby payments of $75 a day — without much more bartering for Hughes, Stewart said, he sold his shop, started another in Kearns, Utah, and then, in 1966, decided to study as a male nurse and wound up working full time in that capacity for Hughes. Stewart was born Jan. 13, 1929, in Meadow, Utah. Like many other Hughes aides, he is a member of the Church of Jesus-Christ of Latter-day Saints. His wife, Florence had been a Mormon choir pianist.

Former policeman to face attempted murder charge

OXNARD, Calif. (UPI) — A former policeman, once selected Rookie of the Year, is accused of robbery and attempted murder in what the police chief described as "a vicious shooting" of a grocery store clerk. Donald Scott, 37, who was rookie of the year in 1970 and resigned from the police force the following year, faced arraignment today on the charges. "He was a nice kid with a church-going nature and a guy who didn't use bad language," said Police Chief Robert Owens. "I don't understand. This was a vicious shooting." Scott and a companion, Donald Lamorie, 37, Ventura, Calif., were arrested Sunday following the shooting of Earl Ballard, 32, a clerk in an allnight grocery store. Police said Scott and Lamorie went into the market Sunday morning and asked Ballard for a box of popcorn. Without warning, Scott pulled a gun and began shooting at Ballard, police said. Ballard managed to back away and with the gunman still firing, escaped into a rear store room. The suspects fled without taking any money. Ballard was in the intensive care unit of St. John's Hospital following surgery.

Won't mix

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Present pickets? Shoulder pickets? Chairman John Stennis of the Senate Armed Services Committee says "military units and labor unions just do not mix." He wants to forbid members of the military to organize and join labor unions. He said Monday his committee will hold hearings on it soon, and told the Senate "we must have legislation that will put a ban on these activities."

Clouds and warm air ahead of an approaching cold front helped keep the temperatures above zero over the southwestern part of the state. Boise reported 16 degrees at 8 a.m. which was six degrees warmer than the high reading for all of Monday.

Magie Valley temperatures were generally above zero except for five degrees below zero at Rupert and one below zero at Burley.

Rain and snow is moving inland over Washington and Oregon today with light snow expected over Idaho by this evening. This should diminish on Wednesday as a Pacific cold front moves through the state. Only light snow is expected with just minor help for ski areas.

The extended outlook through Saturday is for continued cold, and mostly dry weather. High temperatures 15 to 20 and overnight lows near zero.

'Owl-Face' leaves snow for sunny Florida home

MIAMI (UPI) — The ice and snow of Long Island's Ocean Parkway are all in the past for "Owl-Face" and the burrowing owl probably will be set free next week in his native Florida.

John Thomas of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said Thursday the rare "Stoody cuticularia" arrived in "great health" from New York aboard a jet, in the company of an airline executive.

Owl-Face will be examined by a veterinarian and an ornithologist at Miami's Crandon Park Zoo. He belongs to one of about 35 owl and eagle species protected under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1972.

"These are protected birds and it's our job to take care of them," Thomas said.

Just how a Florida bird which normally makes its home in underground tunnels wound up on the median strip of Ocean Parkway during a snowstorm Dec. 29 remains a mystery. About all the experts can agree on is that it hadn't been kept in a cage — its muscles weren't weakened as a caged owl's would have been.

"There's only a one-in-a-million chance it could have flown here," said John Bull, an ornithologist at the American Museum of Natural History in New York. "Burrowing animals don't migrate, and there was no hurricane that could have caught it either."

Court to settle disputes

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court sitting in Boise today will be asked to settle a number of disputes including a suit brought by State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon against the Investment Board of the State of Idaho.

Mrs. Moon is asking relief from the following practices of the board:

- The future transference of interest income earned by the Public School Endowment Fund into the board's expense fund.
- The future purchase of accrued interest bonds with the principal of the Public School Endowment Fund.
- The future reinvestment of interest income, except for the maintenance of state schools.
- Maintenance of two daily interest savings accounts for the Public School Endowment Fund.

The court also will hear oral arguments for the disbarment of Jay L. Depew, a Twin Falls attorney.

Teenagers befuddled by political facts

NEW YORK (UPI) — American teen-agers score high, when measured for "civics" about 70 percent, but they're befuddled by political facts of the American way of government, a Bicentennial school year survey on citizenship shows.

Those participating in the survey were given a quiz designed to show what they knew about the governmental process and their attitudes toward one another.

The Bicentennial survey conducted by the National Assessment of Educational Progress found:

- Most teen-agers, at least on paper, are concerned for "the well-being and dignity" of others. They recognize that discrimination is wrong. They do not think the color of a person's skin is a basis for choosing a friend. Most also support equal-housing opportunities.
- Fourteen-per cent of the 17-year-olds and 12 per cent of the 13-year-olds erroneously think the President of the United States does not have to obey laws of the land. Around the same percentage believe Army generals don't need to always obey the law either.
- When asked whether Congress or the president has the right to stop radio, television or newspapers from criticizing government operations, more than 80 per cent of the 17-year-olds and over 70 per cent of the 13-year-olds correctly said such an act is "against the rights of a free press."

Thirty-two per cent of the students do not think it important to vote in all elections for is it necessary to vote if it appears the candidate of their choice won't win.

Over 90 per cent of the 17-year-olds think a person should be able to vote and get the weight for his vote whether rich, poor, male or female. Only six per cent agreed with the statement: "Some people should not be allowed to vote because they are not smart enough."

The National Assessment findings on citizenship education are from a segment of a major assessment in citizenship and social studies to be published in mid-1977. The Bicentennial survey was given to 5,000 during the 1976 spring semester.

The measurement of citizenship education is one of many conducted over the years by National Assessment, a project of the Education Commission of the States and funded by the U.S. Office of Education.

The studies, ranging from probes of science education to reading and math, show shortcomings in educational offerings and are used by educators to improve content and direction of courses.

Lowest scores for each age group participating in the citizenship education assessment were in response to this question:

"Suppose the president sends troops to another country to fight. What action can the Congress take to stop United States participation in the fighting?"

Congress can exercise its power of the purse—strings by refusing to provide money for further military action, but this fact is known by only 16 per cent of the 13-year-olds and 22 per cent of the 17-year-olds.

The most common response from the students was that "Congress could declare the president's action unconstitutional."

Students also were asked if Congress has the right to pass a law setting up a national church. Eighty-two per cent of the 17-year-olds and 69 per cent of the 13-year-olds answered correctly: "No."

Thirty-five per cent of the students said incorrectly the president can appoint people to Congress.

"These figures are disconcerting when one realizes that, within a year, these students will be of voting age and the life-blood of our democracy is dependent upon an informed citizenry," said Marie D. Eldridge, administrator of the National Center for Education Statistics.

Andrus calls water storage 'vital'

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Monday, water storage was vital, "not only for energy, but to maintain minimum stream flow and help preserve aquatic life and to provide more water for irrigators."

protecting the state's water resources. Andrus said after more than a decade of water water Plan has been drafted and implementation of the plan will depend in part upon enactment of legislation which will come before the lawmakers. "The State Water Plan is designed to protect our water against waste and to see that it produces the greatest benefit for the greatest number of people," he said. Andrus noted the plan established minimum flow levels on the Snake River. "I feel the streams tributary to the Snake are being assured of minimum flows and to this end I am again submitting to the legislature a minimum stream flow bill," he said. "It is imperative that we take steps to protect instream values." The chief executive briefly discussed two off-stream and one on-stream storage sites because "average of surplus runoff water in the Snake River is of tremendous importance."

Discussed by Andrus were the Grandstone Butte-Sallor Creek and Deamon Creek offstream sites in Elmore and Owyhee counties with a total capacity of 550,000 acre and the Shoshone Dam on-stream site between Bliss and King Hill below the existing Bliss dam. Andrus said the Shoshone Dam site would have a capacity of 12 million acre feet and would add an average annual increase of 100 megawatts of hydroelectric generating capacity by the time the stored water flows through the last of the Snake River dams in the Hells Canyon complex. "This illustrates the value of upstream storage, not only for energy, but to maintain minimum stream flow and help preserve aquatic life and to provide more water for irrigators," Andrus said. Andrus also said he was submitting legislation to rehabilitate Barber Dam on the Boise River as a low-head hydro-power facility. "This project would be self-funding and would demonstrate the feasibility of low-head hydroelectric projects in Idaho," he said. "In addition, it would make the dam safe and make it possible to maintain and improve a high quality recreation and wildlife area use to Idaho's largest metropolitan area."

Church seeks repeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, reintroduced legislation to repeal restrictions on the sale of 22-caliber ammunition saying the regulations are "useless" in preventing crime. Church said the restrictions imposed by the 1968 Gun Control Act only encourage "slugging government" harassment and petty paper work. The legislation requires dealers to make a record of the name, age and address of the purchaser, Church said, in addition to other data concerning the ammunition and the purchaser.

Idaho lobbyists sign

BOISE (UPI) — The secretary of state's office reported Monday 118 lobbyists were registered by the first day of the legislative session, this year as compared to 68 who filed with the office by the opening day last year. The secretary of state's office said the 1976 registration for lobbyists terminated Monday.

Energy aid proposed

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus asked the 44th Idaho Legislature Monday to provide for creation of energy districts to develop solar, geothermal, hydro and other energy resources. Similar to water and sewer districts, the energy districts would be financed by property taxes levied by district commissioners. Their purpose would be to seek out and develop renewable energy resources in their communities. They would have authority to issue, refund and redeem general obligation bonds or revenue bonds and to set rates, tolls or charges for services or facilities they furnish. "Energy — its production, use and conservation — represents the single biggest problem this state, this nation or this world faces today and in the foreseeable future," Andrus told the lawmakers in his State of the State address. "I feel the streams tributary to the Snake are being assured of minimum flows and to this end I am again submitting to the legislature a efficiency information be furnished by real estate brokers to persons considering the purchase or long-term rental of a heated building in Idaho. This would allow a person to take into account future energy costs associated with acquisition of the property. Still another energy bill would direct state agencies to furnish information on energy costs and supplies to the legislature to enable it to establish a comprehensive energy policy for the state. Andrus also asked for legislation dealing with the siting of energy facilities, saying it should provide adequate lead time to study possible sites, for supply planning and public input and provide adequate funds to examine proposals.

Swifter cleanup of waters asked

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation will be proposed this session of the Idaho Legislature not only will accelerate the program of cleaning up the state's water but provide more jobs, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Monday. Andrus said the state has a considerable surplus in its water pollution control program because there have not been sufficient federal funds appropriated to match it.

legislation to use the surplus for the purposes intended. It would provide that the water pollution control fund can furnish 90 per cent of the cost of sewage treatment facilities and local communities the other 10 per cent, he added. "This proposal will not only accelerate the program of cleaning up our water, but will also provide more jobs in Idaho," Andrus said. Andrus said at his direction the bill also contains a modest amount of property tax relief. He said it would provide that the water pollution control refunding bonds be repaid from the water pollution control fund rather than from a state-imposed property tax. "This is the only property tax now levied by the state, and while it is small, it represents a nuisance to county officials," Andrus said.

"This situation exists even though there is great demand in communities throughout the state for water pollution control projects," he said in his State of the State message in the first regular session of the 44th Idaho Legislature. To alleviate this problem, Andrus said, the State Department and Health and Welfare would submit problems these governments will face. — To analyze their capacity to deal with these problems. — And to recommend ways and means for upgrading these capabilities of local governments. Andrus suggested that the task force report to the legislature at its 1978 session.

Local government problems to fore

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus urged the Idaho Legislature Monday to carefully consider problems local governments will face in the next 25 years and recommended a 15-member blue ribbon committee to study these concerns. In his State of the State address, Andrus said already in some instances growth has "strained the ability of local government to adequately deal with the problems caused by growth." He said others were moving toward that point. "We have the power, and the need exists," he said, "to strengthen local government."

legislation to use the surplus for the purposes intended. It would provide that the water pollution control fund can furnish 90 per cent of the cost of sewage treatment facilities and local communities the other 10 per cent, he added. "This proposal will not only accelerate the program of cleaning up our water, but will also provide more jobs in Idaho," Andrus said. Andrus said at his direction the bill also contains a modest amount of property tax relief. He said it would provide that the water pollution control refunding bonds be repaid from the water pollution control fund rather than from a state-imposed property tax. "This is the only property tax now levied by the state, and while it is small, it represents a nuisance to county officials," Andrus said.

Idaho

School funding changes sought

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus urged Monday an equitable formula to distribute state funds to Idaho's public schools and also endorsed creation of a School District Building Fund to assist school districts plagued by rapid growth. In his State of the State address, Andrus said this primary concern in education this year should be directed toward improvement in the distribution of funds to school districts and bettering the education process. "The quality of education is not improved by spending more dollars unless those dollars are used to provide better learning opportunities," the governor told the lawmakers. "Presently, he said, one of the principal problems facing the education system was an "inequitable distribution" of state funds to the districts, and he suggested the legislature provide a new distribution formula. "Another problem demands your attention," Andrus said. "Several school districts because of rapid growth, could use state assistance in construction programs." He said he supported a proposal by the Department of Education to create a School District Building Fund "which would provide assistance to those districts in great need." Andrus said $1 million would be diverted from the Water Pollution Control Fund and $200,000 annually from the surplus in the Liquor Fund for the building fund. The governor also endorsed a program which would require testing the proficiency of high school students in mathematics, reading, writing and spelling.

Governor, agencies propose 71 bills

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho legislators received two packets of bills from Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, containing 71 measures for their consideration during the first regular session of the 44th State Legislature. One packet contained 11 bills from the governor's office, while the remaining 60 proposals were from executive agencies. The number of measures presented by Andrus and his executive agencies this year fell far short of the 121 bill submitted at the end of the 1976 Idaho Legislature. The Andrus proposals related to: — Creation of an Idaho Tax

Court. — Reorganization of the Department of Revenue and Taxation. — Tax relief for elderly renters. — Minimum stream flow. — Creation of an Idaho Local Government Task Force. — Tax incentives for installation of alternative energy devices. — Low-head hydro-power development at Barber Dam and appropriating for the project. — Energy use information for buildings. — Annual energy information from state agencies. — Energy development districts.

Voting change eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Poor voter turnout at two Idaho elections last year prompted Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Monday to suggest a change in the state's election process. "Less than 37 per cent of those eligible voted in the Presidential Primary in May and only 30 per cent in the Primary in August," Andrus told Idaho legislators in his State of the State. He suggested the state's primary elections be held on the fourth Tuesday in May and be combined with the Presidential Primary in appropriate years to conform with dates for Presidential primaries in Oregon and Nevada. Andrus said this "might encourage a regional Presidential Primary." "In any event," he said, "I urge you to find some solution to this expensive problem." Andrus also said the lawmakers might consider the possibility of making election day a legal holiday "to encourage voter turnout by substituting election day for another legal holiday."

SOBRIETY MEANS FREEDOM

Barbara's quite a woman..

She's talented, bright and comfortable to be with. She's got it all together. But it wasn't always this way. When Barbara was drinking, home to her family meant a place to leave — not a place to live. Sobriety saved Barbara's life.

DEAR ABBY:—A recent copy of National Wildlife contained a story about "Rounding up Rattlers" in west Texas towns—an annual event, apparently, and one that stunned and shocked me.

The article tells how they put gasoline down the snake holes to force them to the surface. This produced 2,500 snakes last year. Here's what happened to them:

"Coiled snakes were putted like golf balls. Large snakes were 'juggled,' or tossed 20 feet into the air, then caught by the tail as they plummeted toward the cement floor. Some snakes were tossed the full length of the 30-foot enclosure...where they landed with a crunch."

The snakes are neither fed nor watered even though they may be kept for days or weeks.

Texas 'snake pit'

The writer of the article said, "It's not easy to feel sorry for poisonous snakes. But I witnessed the Big Spring round-up from start to finish, and by the time the last skin had been stripped from the last withering carcass, my sympathies were entirely with the reptiles."

I'm from New Hampshire, and our wildlife is something to be treasured, not to be used in this horrible manner. If the general public knew about this kind of torture, I wonder whether they would stand for it.

E.M.P.

DEAR E.M.P.: I'm told that of 2,400 kinds of snakes known to man, eight out of 100 are dangerous to man. Under certain conditions, the dangerous reptiles include the rattler. I'm told also that poisonous snakes are also helpful—killing rats, mice and other rodents that destroy crops.

Assuming the "rattler roundup" has a practical purpose, why is it celebrated in a carnival spirit escapes me.

DEAR ABBY: Our widowed daughter, approaching 50, recently remarried and moved halfway across the country. When we visited her recently, I noticed only two pairs of pajamas in the laundry and none in their drawers. Doesn't it strike you as odd, if not improper, for middle-aged people to wear night clothes only when they have guests?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: What people wear (or don't wear) to bed is between them. The only impropriety I see here is your concern about something that shouldn't concern you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOST HIM": I am not surprised. One of the biggest mistakes a girl can make is to start "improving" a guy after the second date.

If the romance is going to amount to something, save all those loving criticisms for later. They'll keep. At the beginning, love is the way he is, look for someone else who comes closer to your specifications.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb,

In the last two years I have noticed that the complexion of my nose has become red in appearance, and it has increased in size. I also have three to four visible veins at the bridge of my nose. It has become a concern to me and is giving me an inferiority complex because of my physical appearance.

I'm 62 years old, 6 feet 3 and weigh 210 pounds. I take Hydrodiuril, and my blood pressure is now satisfactory. I asked my doctor if the change in my nose is from high blood pressure, and he informed me it was due to alcohol.

I do not classify myself as a drinker. We have our four or five social parties each year; we have our drinks, but that is the extent of it. I was disappointed in the doctor's answer. On my last visit he looked at my nose and asked if I drink beer. I told him I drink very little beer as I am not fond of it. He didn't say anymore.

Do you have any information for me? I am not getting anywhere this way.

Reader's nose turns red

Dear Reader,

You must have a condition called rosacea. When it involves the nose, it can become large and red, with a pitted skin and may even become a long pedunculated, lobulated mass. This is a complication of rosacea, which is reddening of the skin over the face with dilation of small blood vessels. It is more common in women and more severe in men. One of the several factors that cause it is alcohol. That is why your doctor has centered on that, but many cases occur in people who do not drink at all.

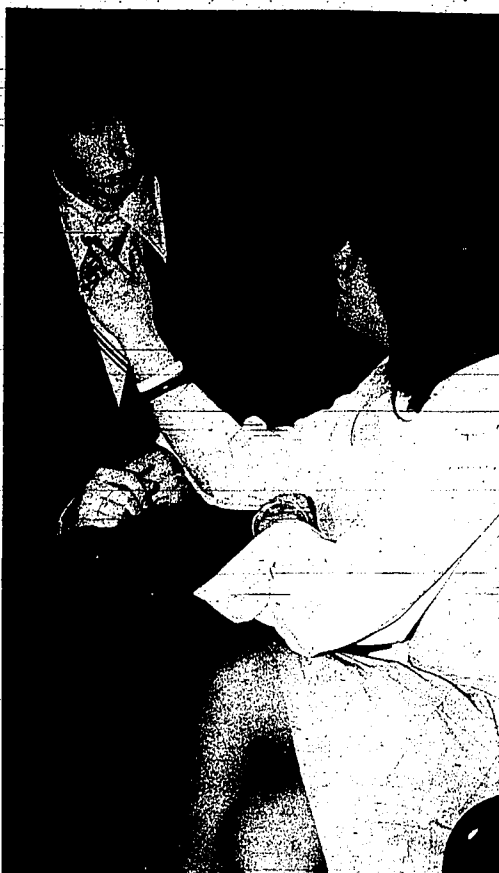

The condition usually begins with small dilated blood vessels apparent over the face—with a reddened complexion. It may never involve the nose. It may be related to using too much cleansing cream which may be why women have it more often. It can be associated with too much hot coffee, alcohol or spices, in short the things that dilate the small blood vessels. The change in circulation through the skin leads to the other changes.

I think you should ask your doctor to refer you to a dermatologist. In early cases involving the face, tetracycline pills (an antibiotic) taken daily seem to help stop the process. The reason for its action is not entirely clear. You will have a special problem here because Hydrodiuril is a diuretic, and tetracyclines interact with it to cause a rise in the level of blood urea to significant levels. There may be some problems in treating both your high blood pressure and rosacea at the same time. You may need to mention this to your dermatologist.

In the early stages the changes in the blood vessels in the nose can be treated with electrolysis. A small needle placed in the superficial vessels destroys them and helps stop the process. Later tetracyclines do not help, and the condition is too far advanced for electrolysis. In these cases it may be necessary to surgically remove the markedly deformed skin over the nose. A good plastic surgeon can usually do a remarkable job of improving the condition.

Rosacea may be associated with the development of acne of the nose, but the two conditions are different. Those who want information on the common acne problem can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number B-2, Acne Can Be Treated. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 226, San Antonio, Tx 78222.

TFHS play set in courtroom

TWIN FALLS—The Twin Falls Playhouse, under the direction of Karla Hendricks, will present a courtroom trial drama, "The Night of January 16," today, Wednesday and Friday.

The production, however, will not take place on any stage.

Instead the Playhouse, an all-school drama group from Twin Falls High School, will present the drama in the courtroom at the Twin Falls County Courthouse.

Juries for the drama will be selected from the audience and those selected will receive half the price of their show ticket for their services.

The drama revolves around the murder trial of Karen Andre, played by Claudia VanPatten, who is accused of murdering her lover, Bjorn Faulkner, after he jilted her for a wealthy socialite.

Her defense is that the body she was seen disposing of was not that of her lover but a cadaver stolen for the purpose of setting up a fake suicide by her lover. They were then to meet in South America where they would live in luxury on a fortune that he had established there.

Cast members include Claudia VanPatten, who plays the controversial defendant and whom the trail revolves; Carolea Webb and Doug Braley, defense and prosecuting attorneys, and Dan Munger, who plays the judge.

Witnesses in the case include: Larry Tymmerup, Kim Hart, Matt Frantz, James Stephens, Beth Allen, Yvonne Kole, Ron Piercey, Lynn Stosich, Randy Wentworth, Phil Nilsen and LaNae Mambert.

Court attendants, clerks and secretaries are Jolynn Whitaker, Steve Billings, Tenette Crandall, Karen Farmer, Brad Patterson and Darlene Davis.

Admission prices are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

All performances begin at 8:15 p.m.

Plaque presented

TF medical staff officers announced

TWIN FALLS — New officers of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital medical staff have been announced by hospital administrator, James Rosenbaum.

Dr. E. M. Wright will succeed Dr. James Spafford as president, with Dr. John McCain as president-elect.

The doctors elected Dr. Randal Slickers as secretary and also named four department chiefs.

These include Dr. Richard Worst, chief of the department of medicine; Dr. Thomas Mayer, chief of the department of obstetrics; Dr. John Affleck, chief of the department of surgery, and Dr. Lyle Wonderlich, chairman of anesthesiology.

All officers were named for a one-year term.

Rosenbaum presented Dr. Spafford with a past president's plaque in appreciation of his services during 1976. He said the medical staff officers contribute an important part in the hospital administration as they are responsible for the medical services.

By Oswald & James Jacoby.

There is a real blunder in the play of today's hand. A real blunder, but of the sort that almost everyone makes.

South won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs, led the six of hearts and finessed his queen. The finesse worked, but West dropped the jack. Now South couldn't lay down his ace and concede one trump trick. He had to lead a low heart, to dummy's 10.

East took his king and led the ace-king of spades. South ruffed the second spade; entered dummy with the queen of diamonds; led the eight of hearts and let it ride after East played low.

Now he tried to get back to his hand with a diamond, but East ruffed for the third defensive trick. South still had to lose a club and his contract.

Do you see where South made his blunder?

It was at trick two. He led the six of hearts from dummy. If he had led the eight when it came time to play that third trump from dummy he would have been leading the six. Then he could overtake with his seven, pluck East's last trump and chalk up the game.

Ask the Jacobys

A Mississippi reader asks what happens when the first defender fails to follow to the suit led by declarer, but discovers the error after dummy and the other defender have followed to the trick.

The answer is that the player announces, "I could have followed suit." Declarer may now demand that the offender play her highest or lowest card and then change the card played from dummy if he so desires. As for the other opponent, his card remains as played.

Spring wedding planned

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. John A. Doerr announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Kathleen Mary, to Charles A. Willard, Hesston, Kan.

Miss Doerr is a 1975 graduate of Twin Falls High School.

Willard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Willard, Buhl, is a graduate of Buhl High School and is a regional service manager for Hesston Farm Equipment.

The couple plans an April 14 wedding at St. Edward's Catholic Church.

New class scheduled for spring

TWIN FALLS — A class in North American archaeology will be offered through Idaho State University's Continuing Education program this spring at the College of Southern Idaho.

The course, Anthropology 314, Pre-history of the New World, will be taught Tuesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. beginning this week according to Bob Speyer, of OSU. The class will be held in the Shields academic building.

He said students may register for the class during the first meeting this Tuesday. Cost will be $50 plus a fee for books. For non-credit the fee will be $30 plus books.

Another ISU course will be offered in the Burley-Rupert area this spring semester. Sociology 101, entitled "The Community" will begin Jan. 19 at the West Minico Junior High School.

Classes will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Wednesdays. Cost for this course also is $50 plus books.

Ex-residents observe 60th

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mullins, former Twin Falls residents, observed their 60th wedding anniversary at the home of their son, Ronald E. Mullins, Torrance, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullins were married Dec. 25, 1916, in El Dorado Springs, Mo., and moved to Southern Idaho Jan. 10, 1917. They lived in the Twin Falls area for 53 years, moving to Carson, Calif., when they retired in 1970.

Mullins was a barber in Twin Falls and the couple belongs to the Mary Davis Art Club, Twin Falls.

Obscenity rule eyed by court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to look again at state compliance with obscenity guidelines it established in 1972.

Also accepted for review was the latest law channeling public funds to church-related schools, and a claim by a "human cannonball" that a Cleveland television station improperly filmed and broadcast his entire act without permission.

The justices tossed a small avalanche of announcements in pending cases as they returned to the bench for the January session. Opinions in cases already heard were expected Tuesday and Wednesday.

The obscenity case came from Illinois, where the law was upheld by the state's highest court. A special three-judge federal court has struck it down. The two tribunals disagreed over whether the statute is overbroad and specific as to the kind of core pornography not covered by the First Amendment's guarantee of free speech.

The Supreme Court's 1973 opinion included examples of what is forbidden.

The appeal was filed by Wesley Ward, sentenced in Franklin County Court to 30 days in jail and a $200 fine for selling two publications entitled "Bizarre World" and "Illustrated Case Histories, a Study of SadoMasochism."

The church school case involves a law Ohio enacted in 1975. The Supreme Court chief justice in earlier opinions declared that a earlier statute would be struck down. In its appeal, the American Civil Liberties Union called the law "a sham" and "an end-run" around the high court's prior rulings.

The law calls for furnishing nonpublic-school pupils with a wide variety of instructional materials and equipment as well as specific services. The plan also encompasses standard testing and scoring services and transportation for field trips.

The "human cannonball," Hugo Scacchi, who is shot from a cannon-like device at county fairs, sued Scripps-Howard Broadcasting Co. and WENS-TV, Cleveland. He alleged that the Ohio Supreme Court will strip the performer's right to control use of his act, hold that the station had a First Amendment privilege to broadcast the performance as news.

In other actions, the court: — Unanimously struck down, without opinion, a Georgia law under which a justice of the peace gets $5 for issuing a search warrant but nothing if he denies such a request.

— Agreed to decide whether wartime military service must be counted toward an employer's pension rights when he retires.

— Left intact appointment by a federal judge of a special receiver, the city superintendent of schools in South Boston, Mass., where racial desegregation has caused turmoil in the school and the neighborhood.

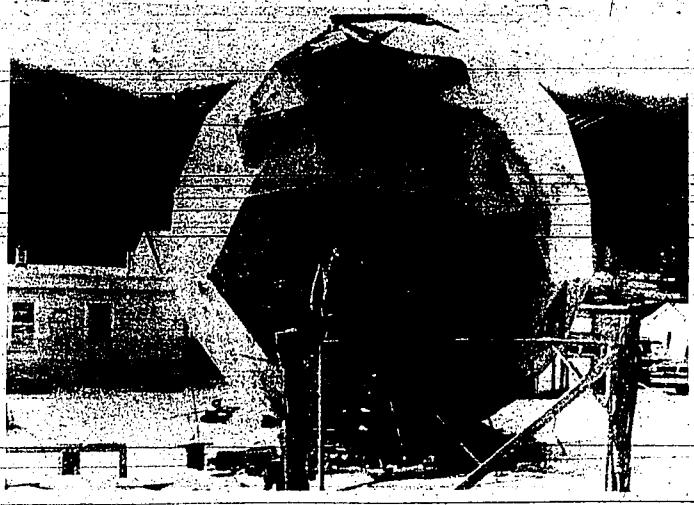

— Allowed Washington state to continue regulating oil tanker operations in Puget Sound until the Supreme Court disposes of the state's appeal from Krulung striking down its regulatory power.

— Struck down, without opinion, a New York law requiring contractors working for state and local governments to prefer as employees New York citizens who had resided in the state for a year.

— Rejected a challenge to a 1975 Florida law designed to take many medical malpractice suits out of state courts by substituting mediation.

— Rejected an appeal by former Rep. Andrew J. Hinshaw, R-Calif., who faces charges of conspiracy, fraud, misappropriation and grand theft for allegedly assigning employees of his county government to work on his 1974 congressional campaign.

— Pursuant to its recent decision, vacated two lower court decisions against excluding pregnancy from disability insurance plans, but did not act on two other cases involving denial of ordinary sick leave to pregnant women.

Train blast kills about six Russians

MOSCOW (UPI) — An explosion aboard a subway train killed about a half-dozen people, witnesses and residents reported Monday. Journalist Viktor Louis, an authoritative Soviet source, said a "terrorist's bomb" was responsible.

If a bomb was responsible for Saturday's blast, it would be the largest act of terrorism in the Soviet capital in recent years. Witnesses said three men placed a parcel under a seat and left the train before the explosion.

The official Tass news agency filed a brief report on "a small explosion" in the Metro system near the site of the 1969 Olympic village. Tass said there were "some victims," but it gave no specific figures.

Witnesses and residents of the area near the popular Tsimolovo Park said five to seven persons died in the blast and several others had been injured. They said the train was wrecked by the explosion between two stations on an elevated section of the line.

Congressional study asked by group of Soviet Jews

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — A group of Jews who say they have been refused emigration from the Soviet Union for "reasons of state," made available a letter Monday asking a U.S. Congressional commission to study what constitutes a state secret.

Saying that refusals to leave the Soviet Union are "basically motivated by reasons of state, by which it is understood that the petitioner or his relatives possess state secrets," the group asked for a five-point investigation.

The letter, signed by 29

Leningrad Jews, was mailed about 10 days ago to the U.S. Congressional Commission for Monitoring Fulfillment of the Helsinki accord.

It said up until now "no action has been taken on the international level to regulate the rights of a state to classify and set aside information or aspects of human activity as state secrets."

The letter said the American commission was the first "high organ" for monitoring the guarantees of human rights agreed upon at the Helsinki Security Conference in 1975.

It seems to us that it is necessary to work out universal criteria for that information which constitutes state secrets and to define the period for downgrading these secrets.

"Such a study and its possible international discussion would undermine the possibility of arbitrary disposition which any state can exercise over the individual," the letter said.

It said the Soviet Union signed the Helsinki agreement guaranteeing civil rights, but "with a vaguely formulated reservation mentioning interests of state."

"No legislation (in the Soviet Union) or even published instructions about leaving the country exist and even a list of that information which constitutes state secrets in itself a closed document," the letter said.

The document asked for the formation of a panel consisting of scientists, lawyers and engineers to investigate, among other questions, to what degree does the state have a right to classify information which constitutes secrets? and what aspects of human activity can be included among state secrets?

Industrial Services may inspect recreational vehicles manufactured in Idaho and attach a recreational vehicle sticker even to vehicles exported from the state if the state of ultimate destination has a reciprocal agreement with Idaho respecting such approval.

The opinion was issued in response to a question raised by Rep. Jack Kennedy, D-Rhode Island.

It said the stickers are required even if the vehicles are not being offered for rent, lease or sale in the state where they are being transported unless the other state does not have a valid reciprocal agreement recognizing Idaho inspections.

The purpose of such a reciprocal agreement "is to permit a state where recreational vehicles are manufactured to do the on-site monitoring and inspection of the manufacturing process rather than having representatives of the state of ultimate sale travel to the state of manufacture to do the inspection," the opinion said.

According to the opinion the Idaho Department of Labor

Prepared for disaster

JOE Campbell says it's only a matter of time — a catastrophic natural disaster is going to strike, and he's going to be prepared. Campbell is shown standing in the door of his "dodgecave," a 20-foot geodesic sphere which he built on his Nelson County, Virginia, farm at a cost of $22,000. Campbell says his cave, made of wire mesh and concrete, can withstand floods, earthquakes and tornadoes. "I'm perfectly willing to concede that I may be insane," says Campbell, "but I don't think so." In the meantime, he's using the structure as a guest house and office. (UPI)

Sen. McClure touts 'Sunset' legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Sunset" legislation "is our best method of reviewing each segment of the federal bureaucracy to see if it is doing its job," Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said today.

McClure joined today in introducing federal "sunset" legislation "in an effort to regain control of the federal bureaucracy."

He said the bill would require Congressional reauthorization of every federal program every five years or the program would be discontinued.

"Once we have established a program it is almost impossible to do away with it. Many programs have either outlived their usefulness or simply were not effective in the first place," McClure said.

Belly dancer tops record

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—Vikki Canale took up belly dancing for exercise after the birth of her third child because she was having back trouble.

She shook her hips with such fervor that she not only cured her back but also became a marathon dancer with claims to the world record for navel rotating.

Vikki, 32, of Lansdowne, Pa., who uses the professional name Sabra Starr, claimed the record Monday after 38 hours and 23 minutes of non-stop undulations at the Crab Claw Restaurant.

As of 1 p.m. EST she had reached the 50-hour mark and was still moving.

working shoes for support and consumed juice and steak and eggs for nourishment.

She said she began belly dancing four years ago as a therapeutic cure for a fracture in a lot of pain at the time," she said. "My doctor suggested strengthening my muscles, so I took up belly dancing."

Vikki said she got the idea for marathons dancing last year when the Guinness Book of World Records listed the mark at six hours. She broke that easily, and then went to 14 hours and 32 hours. Last summer, "in six days she and a friend danced for 38 hours and 22 minutes, but she fainted and her friend got credit for the record from Guinness."

Sore muscles weren't the only effect of her marathon dance. She also lost a few inches off her bustline.

"I know I've lost a lot of weight," she said, "because I'm not filling out my bra the way I did when I started dancing Saturday night."

'Artist' explains Dresco art form

DEERFIELD, Mass. (UPI)—Paul Drexler says his art collection is like "a rotten mackerel in the moonlight—it both shines and stinks."

Drexler, who coined the term "dresco art" to describe his collection, said "anyone can appreciate or be moved by dresco art, but some may be moved right out the door."

He explained the art form takes its name from a German word for the material used to fertilize fields.

One of his most popular items is three frogs dressed in Colonial garb and carrying the fife and drum of the Spirit of '76.

Then there is a bowling pin innap, a whiskey decanter that plays Beethoven's Fifth and plastic hors d'oeuvres picks shaped like wasps.

"Dresco art has been with us for many years. I just happen to recognize it," Drexler said. "It's taken me years of careful study and cultivation of no taste to be able to recognize this process."

He said some people confuse the art form with of-tensiveness, ugliness or simple bad taste. "It's difficult to get far enough below mediocrity to be dresco," he said.

"Usually it takes a combination of poor execution and poor taste and quillo often, time has something to do with it. After 30 or 40 years, something may begin to decay into dresco."

"There is no room in dresco art for mediocrity," Drexler said. "In this art form, the standards are stringently low. The work should have a certain purity of intent and an honest lack of taste is needed."

The most popular exhibit during an exhibit last weekend was The Submariner, a stuffed merman whose body is a scaled fish and whose head is a "very bizarre gargoylike creature" with bat's teeth and clawed fingers.

And, of course there was Blanche DuBois. She's the pitiful doll crafted from a coffee can that gave Drexler the inspiration for dresco art.

"The look in the eyes of that doll told me less than thirty worthless," Drexler said.

Argentina demands clean shaven men

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI)—It is now illegal for Argentine men to wear beards in their identification card pictures.

The new regulation, which went into effect last week, means that Argentines must shave before they go to the police photographer and must stay clean shaven if they want to avoid trouble at frontier airports, train stations, highway checkpoints and the dozens of other places in Argentina where authorities check credentials.

The regulation says that "all persons who wish to obtain documents will have to do so with birds shaved for picture taking." It apparently is aimed at making it more difficult for left-wing guerrillas to disguise themselves.

The independent daily newspaper Opinion commented, "It is reasonable to suppose that some valid reason exists" for the measure, but anyone who continues to wear a beard "will be regarded as a suspicious person by everybody else."

The English language Buenos Aires newspaper Buenos Aires Herald commented that although "the new law, if necessary, will be greeted with a spirited justification, it is quite obviously a response to the widespread prejudice among military personnel and policemen against men with beards."

No opposition seen in Kreps selection

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Commerce Department should stress a "free-market" economy, but push programs that create jobs and increase productivity, Juanita M. Kreps, Jimmy Carter's choice for secretary of commerce, said Monday.

The Senate Commerce Committee held an informal hearing on Mrs. Kreps' appointment, so that it can act quickly on the appointment once the president-elect is inaugurated. None of the panel members appeared opposed to the nomination.

"I support fully the public disclosure of boycott-related reports filed with the Department of Commerce by American business concerns," she said in response to a question.

Mrs. Kreps submitted a 83-page set of responses to the committee's written questions, then read a two-page statement.

"The broadest problem facing the department is development and implementation of policies and programs that will create employment and improve productivity, primarily by working with the private sector," she said.

The word "balance" recurred in her statements—balance of government with private enterprise, balance of production with environmental concerns, balance of reform with necessary regulations.

Mrs. Kreps is a 55-year-old vice president of Duke University, a member of the board of the New York Stock Exchange, and a board member of several corporations. She told the committee she will resign her board posts if confirmed.

TF Canal Co. holds stockholders' meet

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Canal Co. was holding its annual stockholders meeting at the College of Southern Idaho today.

According to Clifford Montgomery, canal company manager, the shareholders will hear an annual audit report to be presented by Gary Robbins, CPA; the annual report which Montgomery presents, and the attorney's report to be given by John Rotholt. The members were to see slides and a presentation about the new dam being built at American Falls and about operation of other reservoirs on the upper Snake River.

Montgomery said no one he knows of in the canal company is protesting the contract and construction of the new American Falls Dam.

Deputies surprise Easley burglars

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN Times-News writer

EASLEY — A routine patrol by deputies of the Blaine County sheriff's office Sunday uncovered a burglary in the process and resulted in the arrests of five Burley men, all of one family, and two juveniles.

Deputies John Shritz and Ray Wheeler were making a patrol about midnight Sunday about 14 miles north of Ketchum when they discovered a burglary in progress.

Five summer homes had been broken into and the burglars, five men from a Burley family, and two juveniles, had taken housekeeping goods from the homes.

The burglars were still on the premises and fled when the deputies arrived.

Later Monday, four people were arrested in the Stanley area and three north of Clayton.

Floyd Mitchell Walters, 31; Carl Walters, 31, and Dale Walters, 40, all Burley, and a juvenile were arrested by police in the Stanley area and charged with five counts of first degree burglary. Oliver Walters, 46, and Daniel Walters, 18, both of Burley, and a juvenile, were later arrested north of Clayton and also charged with five counts of first degree burglary.

According to officers, the seven burglars took off in two vehicles and drove north when the deputies arrived in Easley on patrol.

The burglars apparently stopped at the top of Galena Summit, officer said, and dumped goods stolen from homes in Easley. The goods were later recovered by sheriff's officers.

The officers discovered the goods when retracing the route from the Easley homes to the arrest scenes.

Buhl school bond sale set Feb. 10

BUHL — Buhl School Board members set Feb. 10 as the date for the sale of $3.5 million in bonds to cover construction costs of a new high school building.

The bonds were authorized in a special election in the district last Oct. 12, and will be sold at bid by the district's fiscal agent, Idaho First National Bank.

Two new faculty members were hired and a resignation accepted in the meeting which opened at 9 p.m. to allow board members to attend the annual chamber of commerce banquet.

The board hired Susan Jones, now employed in Pocatello, to teach physical education in the elementary school, Supt. Dan Mabe said she is a graduate of the Buhl High School and Idaho State University in Pocatello; she replaces Mrs. Carol Burkhardt who resigned several weeks ago.

Barbara Harner, Buhl, was hired to replace Mrs. Dolly Williamson as a part-time kindergarten teacher. There are now 96 children enrolled in the kindergarten program in Buhl.

The board accepted the resignation of Ron Retman as science teacher in the junior high school eighth grade. He is returning to Boise. Mabe said he is now searching for a replacement for the position.

Two students, Roger Shady and Darren Hawkins, were approved by the board for graduation with less than the required eight semesters attendance. They had been recommended for approval by the faculty.

TF sewage plant pipelines rupture

By BOB ZUCKERMAN Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — City officials say they don't know how much treated sewage and water spilled into the Snake River after two pipes at the Twin Falls Waste Water Treatment Center broke early Saturday.

"We just don't know when the lines broke," said Kim Durham, waste water department superintendent.

The lines apparently broke between 9 p.m. Friday and 6:30 a.m. Saturday, Durham said. Larry Fifen, operator at the plant in the Snake River Canyon, said he walked through the area about 9 p.m. Friday and didn't notice anything wrong.

Fifen, who lives near the plant, woke up about 6:30 a.m. Saturday to get a glass of water. He discovered that his house was without water and went over to the plant to find out what was wrong. He discovered the break shortly afterwards and called Durham.

"At first, there was so much water flowing, we couldn't really tell where it was coming from," Durham said. By 11 a.m., the broken lines, one water line connected to a fire hydrant and one treatment plant line which contains sewage already treated, were closed off, Durham said.

The water apparently leaked out of the two lines underneath an asphalt road at the plant. The water washed all the soil from under the road and the road collapsed. Carrying soil with it, the water rushed downhill into a building used for storage and as a shop, Durham said.

"The floor was flooded," he added. From the shop, the water spilled into the Snake River. Durham said officials still don't know what caused the break. Either the fire hydrant water line cracked and then leaked or the sewage line broke, he said.

He denied reports by workers, who asked not to be identified, that the fire hydrant line froze and then cracked.

City Manager Jean Miller estimated the total damage at no more than $10,000.

Miller said the city will repair the damage in two stages. First, the city will fix the two pipes in the next few days at a cost of about $2,000. However, he said the city would not be able to fix the road until next spring when the temperatures become warm again.

Marriage bias denied by state

By BOB ZUCKERMAN Times-News writer

BOISE — An assistant attorney general here said Monday he does not think a state welfare regulation discriminates against Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Moon on the basis of marriage.

In a class action suit filed in U.S. District Court here, the Moons have sued the state, the welfare department and Milton Klein, welfare department director, charging a welfare regulation discriminates against married couples and encourages them to become divorced.

James Wickham, assistant attorney general representing the state health and welfare department, said he thinks the Hollister couple is being treated fairly, though he agreed that under a current welfare regulation, a person can receive more financial aid if divorced than if married.

In the complaint, the couple asks for a discontinuance of the welfare department practice, saying the regulation violates the right to privacy in marriage guaranteed by the 1st and 14th Amendments.

Wickham agreed Monday privacy in marriage is a right guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution but said the Moon case contains special circumstances.

Wickham said he did not think a couple's income should be considered separately when determining "a standard of need."

"No court has recognized that the right of marriage is guaranteed by the 14th Amendment. Interfers with community property law," he said.

Under state community property law, a married couple's property is considered equally distributed between them, Wickham said.

The key question in the suit is whether the welfare department is operating a "guaranteed wage program of a welfare program," Wickham said.

The state guidelines in question set the Moons' living cost at $263, but the couple needs $470 a month to make ends meet, according to William "Bill" B. Latta Jr., lawyer representing the Moons.

In retirement and Social Security benefits, the Moons say they receive about $375 per month. The problem occurred last May when Mrs. Moon returned to the Skyview Manor, a Twin Falls nursing home. She was suffering from pneumonia; an inflammation of tissues under the skin and chronic obstructive lung disease.

The nursing home began charging the Moons $369 per month.

"We were just going broke," Moon said later. Latta called the welfare regulation "unreasonable" because it does not take into consideration all housing costs and other bills a married couple might have.

Wickham said Monday he thinks the Moons have the money to pay their bills, and even if they don't, Wickham said he does not think the state should be paying for the mortgage on their home.

"The Moons, in their 60s, have been married 37 years, Moon retired after working 27 years for a chemical company in California. Several years ago, they moved to Idaho.

The Moons receive $303 per month in Social Security benefits and $143 per month in retirement benefits.

His wife receives about $120 per month in Social Security benefits, he said.

Recreationists have fun, eat cake in Cassia County

BURLEY — Cassia County communities will have their cake and eat it too on recreation in 1977.

The situation might not be as easy next year. The Cassia County commissioners announced they have included a recreation fund in the preliminary 1977 budget, but without the proposed one-mill county-wide levy.

Commissioners say the money will come out of federal revenue sharing funds this year.

However, County Atty. Al Barrus said the revenue sharing funds are only a stopgap measure and none may be available next year. "Commissioners indicated they plan to provide about $46,000 for distribution to communities throughout the county for purposes this year. It will come out of approximately $300,000 the county receives in revenue sharing funds.

The decision to include the recreation funds was made tentatively by the old commission, which included retiring Orville Beecher. His replacement, Norman Dayley, said Monday that he would support the recreation funds if they are not from property taxes.

The commissioners' announcement came after a group of people appeared in support of the proposed one-mill recreation levy proposed by the City of Burley.

Barrus said the commissioners could not levy more than one-half mill, about $18,000 per year, under state law.

The county counsel said recreation districts are not allowed to levy a district could levy up to three mills.

Commissioner Weldon Beck said the board plans to seek passage of legislation for a "piggy-back sales tax." The proposal was part of a bill defeated in the 1976 legislature.

Beck said a one per cent county sales tax on top of the state's three per cent could net Cassia County $400,000 and would be more equitable than a property tax.

He said Cassia County purchasers now pay $1,842,957.81 on the state sales tax.

Magic Valley county aides take office

MAGIC VALLEY — Newly elected and re-elected county officials were sworn into office Monday throughout Magic Valley.

In Twin Falls County only one new official took the oath of office. Prosecuting Attorney Frank Dykas was installed to succeed William Hollifield, who did not seek re-election.

Mert E. Leonard was re-elected chairman of the board of county commissioners with William L. Chaney as vice chairman. Leonard and Commissioner Ann Cover and Sheriff Paul Corder, all re-elected, were sworn in for new terms. All department heads were reappointed.

Gary Whitwell, new clerk, administered the oath of office to Leonard who conducted the remaining ceremonies. Whitwell, who was appointed to replace retiring Clerk Harold Lanoaster, had previously been sworn into office.

John LeMoyné, holdover commissioner, was elected chairman of the Gooding County Commission after Rick Braliford and Jim Wilkins were sworn into office. Braliford defeated Nelson King, Wendell, for the third district seat, and Wilkins succeeds Ben Glauner, former chairman, who did not seek re-election. Wilkins' seating as commissioner was without incident despite efforts of a group of citizens to declare his election invalid because they claim he does not live in the first commissioner district.

S.A. Kolman, Jerome attorney, who says he represents 60 citizens, said today he planned to file court action.

LeMoyné, commission chairman, swore in Phil Becker and Gary Shaw as new Gooding prosecuting attorney and deputy attorney; The men will be backed up by Bill Stewart, who is the new county attorney and deputy attorney. The men will be backed up by Bill Stewart, who is the new county attorney for Lincoln County. The three men are in the same law firm in Gooding.

Jerome, Ray Cobbs was elected chairman of the county commission by the two newcomers, Henry Schutte and Mel Grindstaff. They succeed Claude Bernard, Hazelton, and Milford Jones, Jerome.

New Lincoln County chairman is Everett L. Ward. He was the only holdover member of that county group. New members taking office Monday were Burt D. Williams, who served previously, and J.O. Harris. Both are from Shoshone. They succeed Ward Mills, outgoing chairman, and Walter Bowman. Neither sought re-election.

Two land use planning foes were sworn in Monday as members of the boards of county commissioners in the Mini-Cassia area.

Norman Dayley became a member of the Cassia County commissioners.

He replaces Orville Beecher, who did not seek re-election. It is the first change in the Cassia commissioners in 14 years.

Veteran Commissioner J. Weldon Beck also was sworn to his Cassia seat after having won re-election in November. John Clark was not up for re-election.

Beck also was elected chairman of the Cassia board, replacing Clark.

Max Garner took his seat among Mindoka County commissioners.

Garner replaced Elmer Ketterling, whom he defeated in the August Republican primary and again when a write-in campaign appeared for the November general election.

Fred Maier took the oath for another term. Commissioner Chairman Lyle Barton has two years remaining to serve.

Maier and Garner later elected Barton to a two-year term as chairman of the commissioners.

Other new Mindoka County officials sworn Monday included Ray Jarvis as sheriff and Ron Bruce as magistrate judge.

Jarvis was elected to succeed the retiring Theo Johnson. Bruce was appointed by the Fifth District Magistrate's Commission to replace Magistrate Judge Jerry Wegman after the latter resigned.

Budget session

JOHN LEMOYNE, left, new chairman of the Gooding County Commission, and the two commissioners, Rick Braliford, center, and Jim Wilkins, were busy figuring Monday. Commissioners in all counties currently are struggling with the 1977 budgets.

Blue Devils ramble to 10th straight

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Tate Armstrong scored 28 points Monday night and Duke defeated its 10th straight win, defeating Lafayette 93-77.

The Blue Devils, 10-1, jumped out ahead 14-12 in the early going and led the remainder of the contest. The Leopards, 9-3, stubbornly fought back from a 20-point deficit to come within 10, 83-73, with 4:30 to go in the game.

The loss ended a six-game winning streak for Lafayette.

Armstrong, the leading scorer in the Atlantic Coast Conference, had 16 in the first half. Jim Spanarkol added 18 points for Duke; Mike Gminski and Mark Crow 14.

Kris Grunberg led Lafayette with 22, followed by Phil Ness and Kim Lundy with 17 each.

Sanderson sent to farm club

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Blues Monday sent flamboyant center Derek Sanderson to their Kansas City farm club in the Central Hockey League.

Sanderson, the team's third-leading scorer last season when he had a career-high 67 points, had only eight goals and 13 assists in 31 of the Blues' 40 games this season but still ranked sixth on the team in scoring.

Sanderson lost his spot as one of the Blues' three regular centers and last week the team promoted Doug Palazzari, asking waivers on the former NHL rookie of the year.

Francis said Sanderson will have a chance to rejoin the parent club.

"If he works, he'll have a chance to come back up with us," Francis said.

NEW YORK (UPI) — After more than a decade among college basketball's also rans, San Francisco and Cincinnati, two of the most formidable powers of the 1950s and '60s, are back at the top.

The unbeaten Dons, now 17-0, have been ranked No. 1 for two weeks and they increased their lead this week, pulling down 31 first place votes from the 27 coaches participating in the balloting for a total of 357 points.

Cincinnati, meanwhile, twice national champions during the Oscar Robertson years in the early 1960s, moved up from fourth to second while improving their win-loss mark to 10-0 this past week.

There was a mild shake-up among the top rated powers in the wake of Cincinnati's leap to the No. 2 spot.

Kentucky, ranked second last week, dropped a notch to third following hard-earned victories over Georgia and Vanderbilt; Alabama, another Southeastern Conference power, remained unbeaten with a trio of victories, and impressed the coaches who voted them fourth this week, an improvement of one notch.

North Carolina, looking more and more like one of Dean Smith's most formidable Atlantic Coast Conference powers yet, improved from seventh to fifth after one-sided wins over Clemson and Virginia. However, Michigan, third last week after being first for the previous two weeks, plummeted to sixth after struggling past South Carolina and Wisconsin.

Nevada-Las Vegas also improved a couple of places, jumping to No. 7 after victories over Colorado, New Mexico and Cal-Norridge gave the Rebels a 13-1 mark.

Wake Forest, which proved it must be taken seriously in the ACC this year by beating Maryland at College Park, made the biggest advance of the week, going from 13th to 8th, and Marquette, on the rebound after a pair of losses two weeks ago, moved back into the top 10 at No. 9. Arizona completed the top 10.

Unbeaten Minnesota, which got one first place vote, led the second ten followed in order by UCLA, Purdue, Louisville, Oregon, Arkansas, Tennessee and Providence. St. John's (N.Y.) and Holy Cross, a couple of independent eastern powers, tied for the No. 19 spot.

Fighter KO'd after bell

PARIS (UPI) — Jean Mateo was disqualified by the referee during a French middleweight boxing championship semifinal bout Monday night for knocking out Jules Bellaiche after the bell sounded the end of the first round.

The bout ended in confusion when the referee proclaimed Bellaiche the winner though Bellaiche lay unconscious on the floor after only three minutes of fighting.

Both Bellaiche and Mateo battled furiously throughout the first round. Both were recently decisively defeated by French middleweight holder Gratien Tonna and sought to regain their lost prestige.

Monday's bout was to designate the next challenger for Tonna. Bellaiche will meet Tonna sometime this spring.

The floor and three of four from the free throw line and grabbed 11 rebounds. Center Ricky Brown added 31 points and freshman guard Robert Scott 18.

John Billips had 23 points and Walter Actwood 21 to pace the Ole Miss attack.

Alabama ran its SEC record to 4-0. Ole Miss is 3-3 in the conference and 6-5 overall.

Wade advances, Durr upset

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — Chris Evert, playing her first tournament here, lost former Florida home since 1974, will face Julie Anthony in today's second round of the $100,000 Virginia Slims of Florida tennis tournament.

Second-seeded Virginia Wade came up an easy 6-3, 6-0 winner Monday night over young Zenda Liss in the first round.

Liss, rated the best 16-and-under player in the nation before turning 16 last month, was best-known for reaching the quarter-finals of the U.S. Open last year.

In another first round match, Kathy May of Beverly Hills, Calif., upset Françoise Duss of France, 7-6(7-6), but required two tiebreakers to win. In the first set, the tiebreaker was an easy 5-1, but in the second, Durr pushed it all the way before succumbing 6-4.

In other matches Monday, Wendy Turnbull beat Beth Norton, 6-2, 6-2; sixth-seeded Sue Barker of Great Britain won in three sets over South African Brigitte Cuypers, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3; Kathy Kyudental of Miami defeated Regina Marskova, 6-2, 1-6, 7-6, by winning a 5-0 tiebreaker in the final set; and in another match decided by a tiebreaker, Jo Anne Russell of nearby Naples, Fla., took Marise Kruger, 6-4, 4-6, 7-6, with the last set a 5-3 tiebreaker.

Alabama wins 13th in row

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Rugged sophomore Reggie King pumped in 31 points, including 20 in the second half, Monday night to spark fifth-ranked Alabama to a come-from-behind 101-68 Southeastern Conference victory over Mississippi.

The unbeaten Crimson Tide, setting its 13th win of the year, trailed most of the first half and the two teams battled on even terms until Alabama pulled away in the final seven minutes.

Mississippi took the lead 72-71 on a jumper by freshman Tom Warda with 10:03 remaining in the game. King sent Alabama back into the lead seconds later with a tip-in and the Tide stopped pulled away.

King, a 6-6, 225-pound forward, hit 14 of 21 shots from the floor and three of four from the free throw line and grabbed 11 rebounds. Center Ricky Brown added 31 points and freshman guard Robert Scott 18.

John Billips had 23 points and Walter Actwood 21 to pace the Ole Miss attack.

Alabama ran its SEC record to 4-0. Ole Miss is 3-3 in the conference and 6-5 overall.

Suns burn Hawks

ATLANTA (UPI) — Phoenix guard Paul Westphal dropped in four free throws in the last seven seconds Monday night to help the Suns snap a five-game losing streak with a 93-92 win over the Atlanta Hawks.

Phoenix held a comfortable lead through much of the contest but the Hawks, trailing 76-63 after three periods, rallied to go ahead 88-87 on two Joe Meriweather free throws with 1:07 left.

Phoenix center Alvan Adams quickly put the Suns back on top with a 15-footer and then, after an Atlanta miss, Westphal hit his first pair of free throws with seven seconds left for a 91-88 lead.

Atlanta's Lou Hudson and John Drew scored baskets around two more Westphal free throws in the closing seconds for the final 93-92 margin.

The win was Phoenix's first on the road in 10 tries, with the last road victory also over the Hawks Dec. 12. The loss was the fifth in a row and the 10th in the last 11 games for Atlanta.

Westphal led the Suns with 20 points, guard Ricky Sobers had 18 and forward Curtis Perry 17. Drew had 29 for Atlanta and Hudson 24.

Arkansas downs Texas Tech

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — Sidney Moncrief hit 23 points and grabbed 12 rebounds Monday night to lead Arkansas to a 60-53 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Tech, the first time the Razorbacks have ever defeated the Red Raiders. Twice in one season.

The victory gave the Razorbacks a 3-0 SWC mark and 11-1 season record. Texas Tech fell to 1-2 in the conference and 7-6 over-all.

Moncrief, a 6-4 sophomore guard, hit nine of 15 shots from the field and connected on all five free-throw attempts as the Razorbacks matched their second victory in seven days over Tech. Arkansas won 41-38 in its conference opener at Lubbock last Tuesday.

Mike Russell, Tech's 6-7 center, led the Red Raiders with 20 points and Mike Edwards had 11.

Arkansas broke out to an 18-6 lead midway through the first half and was threatened only once in the late stages of the game. Russell, who fueled a second-half Tech comeback, hit a pair of jump shots and Edwards connected on a 17-foot jumper to cut the Arkansas lead to four points, 48-42, with 6:35 left to play, but Arkansas scored eight of the game's next 10 points to seal the victory.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 12, 1977

GENERAL TRENDCIES: An unusually good day to contact those who may be in a position to help you with monetary problems. Also a good time to seek out any differences you may have with a loved one or co-worker.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Any little changes that need to be made where contracts are concerned should be handled today without fail. A disagreement with another should be patched up. Have fun socially in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make changes to appearance and home that could add greatly to charm and feeling of well-being. Be more understanding with co-workers.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to buy at business affairs of importance early. Then spend some time with friends for recreational fun. Show mates that you are truly devoted. Good responses will come from this.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can now make those changes at home that you have been planning for so long. Also look into new ventures that will improve your lot in life. Evening is best spent at home.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Consult with experts in your field of endeavor so that you can accomplish more, become more successful. Tackle correspondence you have been neglecting for so long. This will bring good results.

VRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A day to think big so that you can become big and take right steps in such directions. A monetary expert can give you good suggestions and advice that should be followed. Use your best judgment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are very magnetic today and can charm others and gain favor from them. Get into group affairs for best results. Fly bills on time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Waste no time in getting the data you need in order to handle all of your affairs more intelligently. You have a good plan your mate is willing to go along with.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can put that plan across with the aid of good friends and be very successful. You can make big strides socially, too. Take no chances where your reputation is concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Come to a better understanding with bigwigs and you gain their backing. Take part in some community affair that could prove to be beneficial to you and others. Show your finest talents.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are able to gain your aspirations more readily if you contact those whose background has been different from your own. Use your intuition in coming to right decisions for advancement.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try to help your mate gain wishes that mean much to this person and be happy together. Make sure you keep any promises you have made.

Most frequently mistyped words in English are "the," "to," "of," "and," "is," "which," "it," "that," "when," "with," "here" and "be." In descending order.

An informed that a lady named Mrs. Little Tree works as a secretary for the Falling Logging Company in Clallam County, Washington. Could this be true?

To what do you credit your success, Doctor? The Mayo brothers once said they owed theirs to the gift of a good microscope from their father.

Remember, if that whiskey is designated as a blend, it contains a touch of sherry.

DOUBTS

Q. "On Dinah Shore's TV show sometime back, director Josh Logan told how years ago he helped Mary Martin overcome her fear of failure by reciting a short poem to her just before the opening of a new show in London. What was the poem?"

A. Four lines from William Blake: "He who doubts from what he sees... Will ne'er believe, do what you please... If the sun and moon should doubt... They'd immediately go out."

In our Love and War Man's voluminous file on the differences between men and women is the observation by Theodor Reik: "I've never seen a man turn around and scrutinize his back. Yet women are quite preoccupied with this; are, wondering if their skirt is moist or their stockings wrinkled."

MUSICAL TRICK

Symphonic musicians, too, play tricks. If they want to, they can knock the conductor right off his podium, either forwards or backwards, without actually touching him. And they've done it to just about every big-name orchestra leader in the world. Here's how: The score calls for crescendo. The music builds towards the climax. The maestro, utterly concentrated, signals the terrific downbeat. It's met with absolute silence. By plan, the humorous musicians freeze. And there goes the conductor, zap, flat on his face. If they want him to fall backwards, they do their nothing thing on an upbeat.

Among those antique laws is a piece of legislation in Connecticut that makes it illegal for a woman to appear on a street with an arm exposed above the wrist.

Expanded crop supports, labor power bid scored

HONOLULU (UPI) — The President of the American Farm Bureau Federation called on Congress Monday to resist appeals for high crop supports, and urged farmers to rally against organized labor's efforts to win new powers.

Allan Grant warned in a speech prepared for delivery to the group's 88th annual convention that some politicians "use a lack of public understanding to call for federally controlled grain reserves and for excessively high crop supports."

"These interfere with market prices and blanket consumer pricing signals," he said. "They encourage government-owned surpluses, which may be manipulated to create an illusion that food is cheaper by transferring part of the costs to taxpayers."

Grant said farmers "should study the labor union agenda for the new administration and the 88th Congress, and stand ready to protect farmers' rights in those areas including agriculture."

The agenda includes several items which could hurt farmers including "more federal intervention in job creation and compulsory unionism for public employes," the farm leader said.

Other Farm Bureau leaders, in resolutions prepared for consideration at the convention, proposed abandoning the group's opposition to extension of the 1973 farm law

Egg use pushed for US

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While American egg producers launch a costly new promotional campaign in an effort to halt a long term erosion in sales, prospects for sharp increases in egg consumption in other countries are good, a government official says.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard Bell, in a speech Thursday to an egg industry group at Longboat Key, Fla., said egg production in the United States has increased 44 per cent during the past five years and is further 16 per cent gain is planned by 1980.

"Eggs provide one of the quickest means for countries to increase their average per capita intake of animal protein. The experiences of the Soviet Union and Japan (which also has increased egg use) will be repeated many times in the future, particularly in the developing countries," Bell said.

In the United States, however, per capita egg consumption has been declining steadily for many years.

Between 1964 and 1975, according to Agriculture Department records, total egg production remained fairly steady. But with the population growing, estimates of consumption for the average American declined from 318 eggs per year in 1974 to 278 in 1975, a 12.6 per cent decline.

Egg producers, in an effort to stop the decline, this year are launching an advertising campaign financed by a producer checkoff of five cents for each case of 30 dozen eggs marketed by commercial-scale (3,000 hens or more) farmers.

The checkoff is expected to raise about $6 million this year to promote the nutritional value and other attractive features of eggs, mainly through television advertising.

In a related development, a small British research center is conducting tests which could ease one of the concerns which some economists blame for part of the long downturn in per capita egg consumption — the cholesterol content of eggs.

At the Pye Research Centre at Haughley, Suffolk, researchers last year began testing methods of producing eggs with reduced cholesterol content by redesigning the diets of hens.

Colin Fisher, the Centre's director, said preliminary tests substituting unsaturated for saturated fats in the hen diets yielded eggs with a "statistically significant" reduction in cholesterol.

Fisher said he was confident the Pye studies will lead to development of new rationing which will produce eggs "with an improved ratio of polyunsaturated fats" but will not increase the cost of production.

While some American farm groups have contended in the past, there is no proof that eating eggs increases heart disease risks, the Federal Trade Commission has forbidden use of such arguments in advertising until more scientific data is on hand.

Fisher said the Pye studies were designed because, despite the cholesterol controversy, eggs contain large amounts of high-value protein. The best way to meet the cholesterol "attack," he said, is to "find out what we can do to reduce the hazard."

Farm Farmers' Union sets meeting

LOGAN, Utah — The Utah-Idaho Farmers' Union will hold its 24th annual convention Thursday and Friday at the Utah State University here.

According to Ted Roth, American Falls, vice-president of the two-state organization, the meeting is open to members and interested persons.

Speakers during the two-day event will include Roy T. Dethman, Denver, president of the NFU; Doyle Matthews, Utah State Agriculture dean; Al Osborn, vice-president of marketing for Conex; Ruth Kobell, NFU legislative assistant in Washington, D.C., and Don Glen Taggart, president of Utah State University.

Roth said 1,000 or more farmers are expected to attend the convention. He estimated there are about 1,500 NFU members in Idaho and twice that number in Utah.

Weather related price cycles initial target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The old saying complains: Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it.

The Agriculture Secretary-designate Bob Bergland, the top priority issue as the Carter administration gets under way will be to do something about it.

He is not looking for ways to produce rain during droughts, but for new farm policies to even out the boom and bust price cycles caused by erratic weather.

Bergland has broad authority under existing law to carry out some of the promises made in the Carter campaign, including increases in price supports where necessary to help farmers.

"I can recoup at least their minimum production costs" if the weather is good and crops are big.

The existing law expires with the 1977 crop season. One of Bergland's earliest jobs will be to prepare new legislation dealing with the level of future farm supports and plans for building up reserve stocks which can be tapped in years of poor crops.

Many other decisions facing the new Carter agriculture team are also dictated by the congressional calendar. Authority for the Food Stamp and Food for Peace programs expires this year, along with several rural housing programs and a number of child nutrition programs. Bergland will have to produce proposals for extending or revamping these laws.

The incoming team will face a bill, called the "weather policy" which will give major trade policy decisions to make. The Ford administration has opposed efforts to promote international commodity trade agreements which set price ceilings and floors, but Bergland personally favors such arrangements.

A test of the new administration's stand on this issue could come early. The United Nations Conference on Trade and Development has commodity agreement proposals on the agenda for an international meeting scheduled in March.

Other early challenges facing the Carter administration in farm and food areas include:

—Sugar. A report due soon from the International Trade Commission could propose reducing import quotas or agreements aimed at pulling raw sugar prices out of their current slump.

—Crop controls. Ford administration officials tentatively have ruled against use of acreage control regulations for the 1977 rice crop, but it will be up to the new administration to decide the production policy for rice and other crops.

Consumers. Bergland has said he will seek better relations with consumer groups which often duelled with former Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz. He may be tested early in decisions on authorization for the use of meat containing ground bone, and in continuing debate about the power of big dairy co-ops.

Idaho dean doubts Arab deal report

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Dr. A.M. Mullins, dean of the University of Idaho Agricultural College, has expressed his doubts about a proposed Arab wheat deal involving Washington and Idaho farmers.

Mullins said he contacted representatives of Arab countries in Washington, D.C. about proposals by Mohammad Abdul Gafour to guarantee farmers a 20 per cent profit on some 100,000 tons of wheat.

He said none of them nor the embassies involved knew of the proposal to buy wheat from the north.

Mullins cautioned farmers who want to participate in the sale to ask for Gafour's government credentials and for a letter of credit which would in effect represent a posting of bond for any sale consummated.

Washington State Agriculture Director Stu Bledsoe, meanwhile, said Gafour or his agents must obtain a license before doing business in Washington.

Bledsoe said before a license is issued, he would have to see irrevocable letters of credit insuring that a buyer purchasing wheat can and will pay for the crop.

Idahoan wins seat on board

ELECTED a director of the district farm credit board at Spokane, Wash., was Gene Davis, Arden. A farmer, rancher and feedlot operator, he was named to a three-year term on the board after serving since August, 1974, when he filled a vacancy. Davis is a past president of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association.

Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, Jan. 11, the eleventh day of 1977 with 354 to follow.

The moon is approaching its 1st quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.

American statesman Alexander Hamilton, first secretary of the Treasury, was born Jan. 11, 1757.

Also on this day in history:

In 1785, the Continental Congress convened in New York City.

In 1861, Alabama seceded from the Union.

In 1931, American aviator Amelia Earhart Putnam became the first woman to fly across the Pacific from Hawaii to California.

In 1964, Surgeon General Luther Terry released a report saying smoking cigarettes was a definite "health hazard."

A thought for the day: Alexander Hamilton said in 1781, "A national debt, if it is not excessive, will be to us a national blessing."
