Hunt for Idaho pilot continues
PRESCOTT, Ariz. (UPI) — A low cloud cover caused a two-hour delay in the fifth day of searching for a light plane, piloted by Ted Eberle, a Boise, Ida., attorney.
A Civil Air spokesman said search planes took off about 8:30 a.m.
Eleven planes and two ground crews searched the area between Kingman and Prescott without success Tuesday for the Beech Dornier.
Eberle disappeared last Friday on a flight from Boise to Prescott to visit his daughter. He was alone.

Spanish workers strike again
MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Prime Minister Adolfo Suarez canceled a trip to the Middle East today and met with his cabinet to seek an answer to the political violence that has plunged Spain into its worst crisis since the death of dictator Francisco Franco 14 months ago.
The strikes centered on Madrid, Barcelona and the Basque region, idling many of Spain's biggest industrial plants, shipyards and steel mills. They also stopped or slowed suburban transport in Madrid.

Dummar's tale brings warning
LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Melvin Dummar's third version of the origin of the disputed "Mormon will" of the late Howard Hughes caused Probate Court Judge Keith Hayes to explode Tuesday.
"You are a liar," he told Dummar. Hayes added if Dummar is perjuring himself, he would make it a specific project to see that Dummar goes to the Nevada State Prison.

Water ration plans pushed as 'standby'

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Standby water rationing plans should be developed to deal with possible severe water shortages later this summer, according to a resolution introduced Tuesday by the House Resources and Conservation Committee.
The resolution asks Gov. John Evans to request that managers of the state's irrigation districts "formulate criteria for conservation and standby plans for water rationing which could become necessary in the late summer months."
If no more snow pack develops "it's going to be dire," for farmers dependent upon reservoir storage, Rep. J. J. Vard Chaburn, R-Albion, chairman of the Resources and Conservation Committee, said.
Even with normal precipitation for the remainder of the year, he said, there will only be 20 per cent of the annual average run-off in the spring.
If Idaho has another dry year, water rationing is "a certainty," Chaburn said.
Chaburn said he thinks managers of water irrigation districts can develop compulsory water rationing plans for people in their districts.
He said, however, "we're not thinking of anything compulsory on the state level."
Water rights, he said, would remain in effect.

and rationing could be made compulsory in districts where everyone has an equal water right with the same priority date.
The resolution calling for standby rationing plans, he said, is "not primarily for pushing priorities on field crops rather than lawns and this sort of thing."
"It's more important to raise something that goes into the stomach than something that has aesthetic value," Chaburn said.
Implementation of water rationing plans, he said, would not necessarily mean rationing of water for farmland irrigation. But if another dry year occurs, he said, rationing probably will be necessary for farms as well as for the city use.
Chances are that water rationing will not be necessary this year "if people are careful and use their water wisely," Chaburn said.
He said, however, the situation already is dire. "In my particular watershed on the first of January, we had zero snowpack—whereas the average snowpack is 9.3 inches," he said.

Chaburn said the resolution was introduced by his committee with unanimous support. He expected it to pass the legislature.
Steve Letroy, spokesman for Gov. Evans, said the governor will pass the resolution before commenting on it.
Chaburn emphasized that water rationing is a "voluntary concept" and "not a dictatorial sort of thing" that could be imposed by the state.
If dry weather continues, he said, "it's going to be... fatal to the supply of irrigation water back in the valleys where we're dependent almost entirely on snow pack and there virtually is none."
"If the dry spell continues for another year 'til it's just like when we had the drought (from 1933-1934). We just won't be able to raise anything," Chaburn predicted.
Water conservation, he said, is necessary to keep water for farmland irrigation and for hydroelectric production.

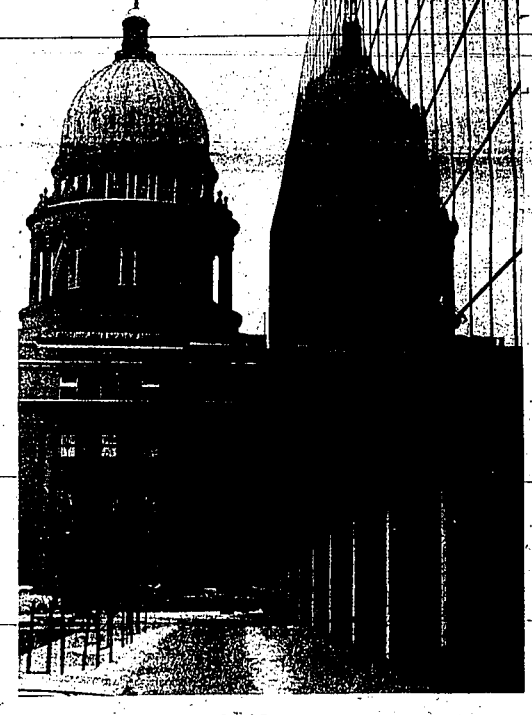

New course tried by coffee cartel

By United Press International
The International Coffee Organization, which is to the coffee break what OPEC is to the car pool, came up today with a Madison Avenue-style solution to the problem of escalating prices — get coffee addicts to swallow the price as well as the product.
In the United States, the coffee boycott spread to include a hospital in Chicago, a drug store in Mount Airy, Iowa, and a New York City delicatessen.
Representatives of the 62-nation ICO, comprised both of producing and consuming nations, have been huddling in London this week under the fire of worldwide outrage over coffee costs that have multiplied sevenfold in the past 18 months.
Tuesday, the ICO's 16-nation executive board ordered two new studies of the supply and demand situation in the world coffee market.
"To the extent that better information will affect or steady the market, this should help," said an American delegate to the summit conference.
Today, the ICO will map out a multimillion-dollar promotion campaign designed to convince consumers that coffee is good at any price.
That move — to be financed by both consumers and producers under terms of a six-year international coffee agreement that went into effect in October — followed general agreement that neither study will do much to halt the rise of coffee prices toward a predicted U.S. retail level of $4.25 to $5.00 a pound by the end of the year.

Just across the street from ICO London headquarters, a department store was selling instant coffee for $7.51 a pound — $1.88 for a four-ounce jar.
Mount Sinai Hospital and Medical Center in Chicago said Tuesday it will stop serving coffee in its cafeteria one day each week in protest of spiraling prices.
"By following this approach," said Steve Stefanski, director of facilities at the medical center, "we can hopefully work toward curtailing the trend in price increases."
George Grafein, who sells coffee for 30 cents a cup at his Second Avenue, Delicatessen in Manhattan, is pushing tea as a competitor at a nickel a cup.

Budget soars for Gooding

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer
GOODING — Gooding County's proposed budget for the first nine months of 1977 is up 54 per cent over last year's spending rate.
County Clerk Margaret Clements completed work on the $1,043,616 budget Tuesday. Expenditures for nine months in 1976 reportedly were $674,104. The total 1976 expenditures were $299,695.
A public hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m. Feb. 14 in the courthouse. The budget reflects salary raises of $40 per month for women employees and varying amounts for sheriff's deputies.
One of the largest increases is for indigent care with $71,388 budgeted compared to $39,694 for nine months last year. Mrs. Clements said the county expects to pick up what Medicaid does not pay on indigent nursing home patients.
The district court fund of $24,519 includes provision for a county juvenile officer. The junior college item of $16,000 appears twice that of the $8,040 for the last nine months, but the 1976 figure omitted one payment.
Two new items include $58,000 in federal grants which, if received, will be spent for a new senior citizens center, and $13,560 in anti-recession funds.
Another big increase is shown in the $88,108 for general and reserve fund, compared to $60,407. This reflects increased insurance and social security costs and $5,000 for a building inspector.
A breakdown of the current expenses shows $50,474 planned for the clerk, auditor and recorder this year, compared to $31,597 for nine months last year; $96,089 for the sheriff, compared to $60,494.

Idaho capitol warm inside

Gem offices warm

By CHRIS PECK
Times-News writer
BOISE — Five state buildings including the Idaho capitol are warmed to a toasty 72 to 78 degrees this winter and energy officials say there is no effort being made to conserve energy in the offices.
A temperature check in the capitol building, the Supreme Court Building, the Len B. Jordan Office Building, the "Hall of Mirrors" office building and the state library showed all five structures heated to at least 72 degrees.
One of the warmest offices in the capitol appears to belong to Gov. John Evans where a thermometer read a cozy 78 degrees Tuesday.
First of two parts
Other temperature readings in the capitol mall Tuesday were:

- Secretary of state's office, 78 degrees.
- Attorney general's office, 75 degrees.
- The state Senate chambers, 74 degrees.
- Len B. Jordan Building (which houses the state auditor and the superintendent of public instruction), 75 degrees.
- The Idaho Office on Energy has recommended homeowners in the state keep their thermostats set at 68 degrees to conserve energy.
- And, the day after he took office as president, Jimmy Carter lowered the thermostats in the White House to 65 degrees.
- But in Boise, administrators of the heating system for the capitol mall say too many complaints would be registered by state employees if interior temperatures were cut in the state buildings.
- According to Tom Payne, administrator of the Bureau of Business Services which is in charge of heating and cooling most state buildings in Boise, no real attempt has been made to keep thermostats below 72 degrees.

Mr. T-N says
Maybe some of that Stohausen heat is from the legislative chambers.

Editor resigns

KETCHUM — The Mountain Express, a weekly Ketchum newspaper, will lose its editor and founder, Steve Lathrop.
Lathrop, 36, of Ketchum, told the Times-News he has resigned for "personal reasons" and declined to discuss his plans.
Lathrop has been in the newspaper business since coming to Ketchum Tomorrow as a reporter in 1972. He became editor of that paper but was fired in November, 1974. After that, Lathrop founded the Mountain Express, which claims to exceed its rival in size.
When Lathrop was fired, six other members of the staff of the Ketchum Tomorrow quit and joined him in founding the Mountain Express two weeks afterward.
Evelyn Bachman, one of those who joined Lathrop, said, "I got off the ground right away."
Now the Mountain Express publishes an average 32-36 page paper, 4,500 to 6,000 issues, and distributes it at no charge.
Lathrop said, "We've tried to make the Express into as broadly-oriented a newspaper as we could. It had and I think will continue to have a particular concern for environmental issues."

Idaho ERA rescinder offered

BOISE (UPI) — After a seven-minute discussion, the House State Affairs Committee voted 12-5 today to introduce a resolution rescinding Idaho's ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.
This marked the fifth straight time the legislature will be considering a rescinder after initially ratifying the controversial amendment shortly after the Congress proposed it in 1972. All previous attempts at rescission failed.
Rep. Rusty Barlow, R-Pocatello, put the proposal before the committee, saying those who support the ERA "really do not understand what will happen in two-thirds of the states ratifying this amendment."
Speaking in procedure rather than merits of the issue, Rep. Patricia L. McDermott, D-Pocatello, said she felt the action was futile because the resolution was not in the form of those used to amend the Constitution.
She referred to the fact that a simple majority vote is needed to pass this resolution and a two-thirds majority is needed for the other type.

"We are here to make other state employees as comfortable as we can so they will work efficiently," Payne said.

Idaho office buildings plenty warm

Because of the antiquated heating system, energy costs are being doubled, Payne also said he doubted any money could be saved by lowering temperatures.
The system is so antiquated in the state office that there is no easy way to raise or lower the temperatures at all, he said.
A former state employee who studied the energy use in the state building disagrees with Payne's claim.
"I don't think there is any real conservation effort going on now," said Louis Epposito, who drew up a report on energy use in five state buildings last fall.
"I think we are conserving energy in there now, all they have to do is act on it," Epposito said.
"People can't feel they can call up the building services office and complain about it being too cold and have them do something about it," Epposito added.
Between July and September 1976 Epposito helped draft a report on energy conservation in state-office buildings.
Business services administrator Payne admits one of the main reasons he has not moved to lower the temperatures in state office buildings is because state employees complain about the lower temperatures.

Another man who works closely on heating state buildings, Don Radtke, said, "Whenever you lower, the temperatures will have people calling in sick."
Radtke, an air conditioning craftsman for the building services office, said, "I would say 95 per cent of the females will agree that when the temperature is below 70 degrees it is very uncomfortable."

"We're shooting for 70 degrees uniform temperature in the state buildings," Radtke added. He admitted some of the thermostats in "state buildings are set higher than that."
But higher temperatures in the other state buildings are the result of air conditioning systems not being turned on rather than higher heating costs, Radtke claimed.
But in the Idaho Office Energy, director Earl Adams charged the state could save "between 20 and 30 per cent" on energy costs if thermostats were turned down and some other conservation measures were taken.

Epposito agreed with Adams, saying he reasons the thermostats weren't lower in the state buildings was because "nobody has told them to do it."

Thousands idled by cold

By United Press International
Energy crises idled nearly 400,000 workers today and government agencies worked to bolster depleted gas supplies and provide economic relief for victims of one of the worst cold waves in history.
Temperatures had moderated over most of the ice-box East but a new storm brought heavy snow.
The bitter cold and subsequent energy shortages idled about 300,000 workers.
Florida Gov. Reubin Askew asked that the state be declared a federal agricultural disaster area when it became apparent the state could not assist up to 180,000 migrant workers left jobless by last week's freeze.

Florida officials said the immediate concern was housing for migrants — who usually live in housing owned by farmers, for whom they work but are being ousted as farmers close migrant camps because of crop losses.
Energy and gas cutbacks also idled some other 200,000 workers in Tennessee, Alabama, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida.
The U.S. Department of Agriculture said the cold wave cut into food production in the South and Midwest. The USDA said the cold heavily damaged citrus and vegetable crops in Florida and cut into tobacco and sugar cane production there. It also said cold weather left winter wheat dormant in much of the nation and left Midwest livestock producers hard-pressed — to feed — their authority to lift natural gas price controls to ease natural gas shortages.

The Federal Energy Administration said four refineries in Illinois and Ohio will cut back on aviation fuel production to increase heating fuel supplies in the Midwest.
An FEA spokesman said the switch will have little effect on commercial air travel.
Columbia Gas of Ohio said it would have to deprive 15,000 business customers of more gas, beginning Feb. 1. In a fourth round of cutbacks necessary to assure a million residential customers of adequate heat, Owens-Illinois in Toledo said the situation was "very, very serious," and could lead to heavy layoffs.
A new snow storm walloped New England, shutting down schools in Boston and from Connecticut to New Hampshire.
Southern New England was spared the full brunt of the latest storm, but northern New England — except Vermont — got six to 10 inches of snow.

Low income homes gain court's nod

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — The New Jersey Supreme Court, standing firm on its Mount Laurel edict, today ordered Madison Township to rezone specific sections of land to provide housing for families with low and moderate incomes.
The state's highest court stopped short of devising a formula to dictate just how many houses should be built to provide a "fair share" for the Middlesex region, but the justices said they would act as municipal advisers "deemed useful."
Justice Robert Clifford ventured to say that the court made its 4-3 decision with "fingers crossed."
Clifford said he was concerned that the court's ruling by a bare majority "is neither entirely satisfactory nor wholly successful."
In the landmark Mt. Laurel case in April 1975, the justices addressed themselves only to the theory of zoning.
They ruled that zoning designed to exclude low and moderate income families was illegal, and that developing municipalities must provide their fair share of inexpensive housing for the region.
In today's 259-page opinion, the justices gave a clearer definition of what constitutes a formula to "help" developing municipalities determine their "fair share" responsibility.
Basically, the court compared Madison Township's population and housing figures with those of the county as a whole. But the court said specific housing quotas and a formula for rezoning and the entire state should be worked out by the legislature.
Oakwood at Madison, Inc., has been fighting for nearly nine years to build on a 40-acre tract in Madison Township, but zoning laws prevented the compact, inexpensive housing.
The court ordered the township to specifically rezone the tract in favor of Oakwood; to allocate substantial areas of land for single-family housing; and to enlarge areas zoned for moderate-income housing and multi-family units.

Accident suit filed

TWIN FALLS — An Idaho couple is asking for more than $400,000 from the Jerome Highway District and the state transportation department for injuries and damages in an auto accident on State 79.

A car in which the couple was riding was hit by another car on State 79 last September. The other car, driven by Marion Sue Coopers, ran a stop sign and hit the Sauer car, the complaint says. The Sauer's alleged highway officials installed the stop sign in a negligent manner.
The couple is asking for $200,000 in damages sustained by Helen Sauer, $100,000 for damages sustained by Sam Sauer, and court costs.

Chairmanship denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats, under public pressure to demonstrate they will push for a strict new code of congressional ethics, voted today to deny Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes the chairmanship of a subcommittee he was accused of using for personal gain.
Sikes, 70, a veteran of 36 years in the House, lost an unsecret ballot vote in a party caucus.
The House voted 381 to 3 last year in reprimand Sikes for failure to reveal financial holdings in a bank and land development project which benefitted from legislation he either introduced or helped push to passage.
Sikes did not speak in his own defense in his drive to regain lead the Military Construction Subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee. Instead, he marshaled a group of members to argue on his behalf.

Evans' first address hits snag

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans has scheduled his "State of the State" address to the legislature for 1:30 p.m. next Monday and told everybody about it but the legislature.

Evans issued a press statement saying he had requested the legislature to gather in joint session to hear his address. But presiding officers of both houses said that was news to them.

President Pro Tem Phil Batt, R-Wilder, and House

Speaker Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, said it would be nice if the governor contacted them about the matter before putting out a press statement.

"Through his experience and through common courtesy, he must know he should send communications directly to the person involved, rather than let them learn the contents through the news media," they said in a joint statement.

"His predecessor, Governor Andrus, always recognized the need for legislative input into matters of joint interest to both branches of government. We had hoped for the same consideration from Governor Evans."

They said the work of the legislature is planned several weeks in advance and that the lawmakers took off a half day Monday "reluctantly" to hear Evans' inaugural address.

"We obviously have a full slate of activities scheduled for next Monday, which the governor has arbitrarily chosen to preempt for his message," they said.

Batt and Larsen suggested Evans consider submitting the message in writing and thereby obviate the need for a joint session.

Although the legislative leaders do not appear anxious to conduct a joint session Monday Batt said they will consider it "if he'll get in touch with us directly, instead of talking through the press."

Funds pegged

BOISE (UPI) — The House approved and sent to the Senate Tuesday concurrent resolutions setting next year's general fund revenue projection at $281.9 million and this year's surplus at $1,540,576.

The fiscal 1978 projection passed 70-0 and the surplus projection, 60-1, with Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, voting against the latter.

Written testing OK asked

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Transportation Committee voted Tuesday to introduce a bill to legalize written drivers' license examinations and offer an option of an oral test.

State law presently requires only that a driver must know the traffic laws of the state but does not specify a written test.

Jack Farley, administrator of the Motor Vehicle Division of the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement, said people have challenged the written test, given in nearly all of the state's communities, and have won.

Farley said some sheriffs, especially in the rural areas, don't give the exam and instead just ask the applicant if he knows the rules of the road.

Payoff terms asked

BOISE (UPI) — The House Business Committee approved for introduction Tuesday a bill to allow insurance companies to pay off large medical malpractice and other damage judgments on an installment plan.

Brought before the committee by Rep. Jack Kennevek, R-Boise, the bill would permit the companies to make periodic payments of damages if the awards are in excess of $50,000.

Kennevek said this would have the effect of holding premiums down — easing the pinch of large, unexpected damage awards by spreading the loss over a greater period of time without detriment to the injured party.

One feature of the bill provides that if the injured party dies before receiving all the judgment his estate will lose the remainder of the damages. A spokesman for the Idaho Medical Association said the intent of the damage award is to cover loss of income and pain and suffering and asked why the heirs should recover this.

But Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, said if the injured party dies as a result of the injury the family would suffer through loss of income.

Meanwhile, the committee held for 10 legislative days a bill which would authorize interest-bearing passbook savings accounts for county governments. Banking lobbyist Joe Schreiber asked for time for the Bankers Association and the county treasurers to sit down and possibly modify the legislation.

Teeth proposed for Idaho rights panel

BOISE (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee agreed 8-2 Tuesday to introduce legislation giving the Human Rights Commission statutory teeth to investigate and conciliate complaints of discrimination.

Explained to the committee by Commission Director George Kibbe, the bill would give the commission power by law to receive, initiate, investigate and conciliate complaints and tools to carry out that power.

Under the proposal the commission could require violators of the human rights laws to cease and desist unlawful actions, require them to take affirmative action to rectify what they have done, force them to make back pay awards for up to two years prior to the filing of a complaint and make periodic compliance reports.

To assist the commission in carrying out these powers the bill would give it power to make an investigative demand to produce evidence and take the matter to court for an order if the respondent refuses to comply.

It would give the commission subpoena power on its own motion to force witnesses to appear before it and produce documents, applying to the courts for an order if necessary.

Additionally, the bill would prohibit employers from retaliating against employees who produce evidence or give testimony, require complaints be kept confidential until they go to public hearing and provide a one-year statute of limitations for filing complaints. It also provides for judicial review.

Kibbe told the committee the commission is "faced with the dilemma right now (that) when we have a public hearing we have no power to order witnesses to show up."

"Sometimes it's very difficult to carry out the mandate of the commission if we don't have the power to make witnesses comply with orders of the commission," Kibbe said.

Rep. Mack Nebaur, R-Paul, said he felt the commission already has the means to carry out all of the provisions set forth in the bill. Kibbe countered that the amendments to the present law would allow the commission to function "more efficiently."

"Right now, if a respondent refused to answer any questions all we can say is, 'All right,'" Kibbe said.

He said the commission can waive the case to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission but said normally it takes the federal government two to three years to investigate.

Teton hearing slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Additional hearings on the Teton Dam collapse are scheduled in Idaho Falls Feb. 21 to take testimony from area residents. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said today.

Church said testimony received Monday before the subcommittee on energy research and water resources showed that the choice of design ultimately led to the failure of the dam.

The subcommittee hearing was conducted to review the findings of the independent investigating panel, and to question representatives of the interagency panel, the corps of engineers and the bureau of reclamation.

Church said the agencies are examining their procedural techniques and initiating changes to improve dam safety.

Brown may gain post

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans is expected to name Bartlett Brown, director of the State Department of Labor and Industrial Services, director of Administration today.

Brown would succeed George Neumayer who has served in the post as acting director since D. E. "Skip" Chilberg resigned from it last spring. Neumayer plans to return to his former position with the State Department of Transportation.

Evans indicates he will name a new legislative liaison later this week, succeeding William J. Murphy whom he has picked as his successor for lieutenant governor. There is speculation Evans may pick former Sen. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, for the liaison post.

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Public hearings are scheduled in Idaho Falls and Boise next week on the nuclear waste management program at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

The Idaho Falls hearing will be conducted Tuesday and the Boise hearing Thursday. Both will focus on the management program outlined in a draft environmental impact statement issued last July.

MARLETTE THE CHARLOTTE CAREGIVER

"NO, YOU TELL HIM THE VIETNAM WAR IS OVER!"

Eastern bloc nations rebel over rights

London Economist News Service A bomb on the Moscow metro; a civil rights manifesto from dissident Czechoslovaks; policemen firing the West German office in East Berlin where East Germans ask about the chance to go to live in the West. It sounds like an early confirmation of the prophecy that 1977 is going to be a difficult year for the governments of the Communist half of Europe.

They were the "foreign legion of the Western cold warriors." It's warning that "those who lie on the rails to stop the train of history must expect to get their legs cut off" has been widely followed by intensive police harassment of the manifesto organizers and their families.

and leader of the group that publishes details of the Soviet government's failure to honor the 1975 Helsinki agreement, had already been detained and questioned for several hours on Jan. 5.

can be argued, to make themselves look better before next June's Belgrade conference meets to check up on what has been done — and not done — to carry out the Helsinki agreement.

Handgun misuse can be tragic

An irate Cassia County father shot his 17-year-old son a few days ago as the two argued over the boy's tardy return from an LDS church meeting. The boy died, the father faced a coroner's jury.

The father involved in this case testified he fired his .357 magnum into the air over his son's head before the fatal shot was fired to show that he meant business.

If a word of advice is needed to other fathers who want to make a point with their children it would be that many acceptable alternatives to establish the role of authority exist — without resorting to gunshots over the heads of terrified children.

A loaded pistol accounts for more than 80 percent of the homicides committed in this country. The death of the Burley teenager, while an accident, only adds one more name to the list of people who will die in 1977 because of a misuse of a handgun.

Idahoans are not among those who generally favor stricter gun control laws. But incidents like the January 12 shooting in Burley give powerful ammunition to those who would say stricter gun control measures are needed.

The highly emotional Burley father who shot his son undoubtedly wishes he could relieve that painful evening. But that's the problem with mishandling guns. One mistake of judgment and tragedy like that which occurred in Burley all too often ends in a death.

Families who have handguns in the home bear a special responsibility to all gun owners not to use their weapons unwisely. Handguns aren't toys. They aren't a modern substitute for a spanking or sending a child to his room.

And, misuse of handguns will fast lead to stricter gun controls. More importantly, handguns will lead to continual unnecessary deaths unless parents and children alike recognize the need to keep pistols safely stored in the gun cabinet along with the shotguns and hunting rifles.

Punishing the father who accidentally shoots his son neither restores life to the dead boy nor lessens the problem of handgun misuse.

Magic Valley gun owners should remember this tragic case and make sure they don't have handguns in their homes which could mistakenly be used for a terribly wrong purpose.

Hardball begins for Jimmy Carter

By JAMES R. DICKENSON Washington Star WASHINGTON — There is every reason to believe that each modern day president-elect goes into his inauguration with the secret relief that he is the modern version of Alexander the Great.

thrown at his head while he's taking batting practice. Take that Democratic-controlled Congress; for instance, in his campaign Carter laid great stress on how a Democratic president working with the Congress would end the stalemate of the past eight years of Republican occupancy of the White House.

The other beamball thrown at Carter was Ford's budget plan, which was an interesting example of deadpan political unpopularity that was widely regarded as an attempt to embarrass Carter.

larger deficit than Ford projected. This, presumably, is what Ford had in mind. The tax proposal — while sounding good in theory, won't work in a constantly growing country and even the most straked-out balanced-budget mystic would have problems with it if it threatened his district's pet governmental programs or federal installations and payrolls.

A slightly stunned Harry Truman is the only man in memory who betrayed any notable doubt on assuming the presidency. "I feel as though the sun, the moon and the stars had fallen on me," he was quoted as saying.

When Sorensen finally withdrew, convinced that he might not be confirmed and that the fight could be potentially damaging to the administration, there were regrets, some sincere, some smacking of crocodile tears that Carter and Sorensen didn't fight for his confirmation rather than leave the field to the right-wingers and foreign policy hawks, who led the charge against Sorensen.

Carter said he would recommend restoring most of the cuts, which should be supported by most Democratic congressmen even though it could mean that the 1978 budget will have a

So, like batting practice, the Sorensen and Carter issues have been a potentially useful drill for Carter. Before the last inaugural ball hangover has cleared he will be playing for keeps. Beamballs will be coming at him harder and even more often than he may have imagined even during the worst moments of his long and arduous campaign.

Principal in OSHA case offers views of record

Editor, Times-News:

A friend recently sent a copy of Roy Slotten's latest opinion in the Times-News dated Jan. 18. I cannot recall in my more than 60 years, of anything so patently distorted and warped as Mr. Slotten's comments concerning George Hansen.

If Mr. Slotten had any intention of being fair or honest, he would have asked me about my case with OSHA instead of being a self-appointed, uninformed spokesman. Please allow me to set the record straight.

First of all, Mr. Slotten displays an abysmal ignorance of the proper function of government. I have read the U.S. Constitution many times and it does not allow the federal government to be in the areas of safety, health, education, agriculture or many others. I have read the ninth and tenth amendments.

Therefore OSHA is illegal to begin with. It should be abolished, not amended. A system of civil courts was organized for citizens to obtain redress from others who were negligent toward their fellow man.

Secondly, without George Hansen, this victory over tyranny would have been impossible. He deserves a good deal of credit. He has lived up to his campaign promises. He set up a nationwide committee that helped tell the truth about OSHA and to collect funds to help pay for the legal costs.

He has received credit for his part in the New York Times, The Today Show and other national news media while some of Idaho's newspapers have had a virtual blackout on his role in this battle.

If the case does now go to the Supreme Court, I won't need the help of Roy Slotten or Stan Kress. I'll need the help of Congressman George Hansen as I've needed it in the past. And I'll get it!

OSHA has been promoted by the labor union bosses, yet since its inception in 1971 it has made stupid and unworkable rules and conditions for the working man.

Dozens of thousands of jobs have been lost because businessmen couldn't comply and had to close up their places of business. The union men who work for me almost to a man have given me their support in this battle for individual rights and freedom.

OSHA supporters use figures to show the number of industrial deaths remain high.

But the government's own figures show that the number of deaths in 1971 was about the same as in 1953, even though the work force had doubled. In other words, the rate of industrial deaths had been cut in half!

The same government figures reveal that more than twice as many accidents occur away from the job. Think about it. Are you ready to have the man from OSHA inspect your house? Your car, boat, snowmobile or whatever?

The charge that Congressman Hansen is ineffective is so absurd it hardly deserves comment. Congressman Larry McDonald, Democrat-Georgia, recently stated that George Hansen was among the five best congressmen in the country.

And even though I am a Democrat precinct committeeman, this Republican Statesman has given me his total support as my representative. The people of Idaho's second congressional district will have a great congressman.

Thank you for the opportunity to express my views in your newspaper.

Coverage of tennis backhanded

Editor, Times-News:

Enclosed is a clipping in regards to the Avon Tennis Tournament that was held last week in Boise.

Two of the women in photographs in the full-page story completed at the Halley Woodside Racquet Club. Before they appeared at the Avon Tournament in Boise they had to qualify at Halley.

Saturday the 15th of January, the final day of Halley, there was not only Karen Sussman — 1962 Wimbledon champion, there was the number one lady from Israel, three women from Australia, two or three state championship winners from the U.S., not to mention a couple of ladies from the Virginia Slims circuit. They all competed against one another in some of the most exciting tennis competition I've seen.

Disposal hit

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — The disposal of biological warfare agents or nerve gas in Oregon would be prohibited under a bill introduced in the Senate Tuesday.

The bill is sponsored by Sen. Ted Hallock, D-Portland, and George Wingard, R-Eugene.

Vance to Middle East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter announced today that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will visit the six Middle East countries Feb. 14-21 to demonstrate the administration's concern about "making significant progress this year toward a just and lasting peace."

The White House said Vance's main purpose would be "to listen."

Portent in panel action?

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Some of the worst fears about the 44th Idaho Legislature may be realized if Tuesday's performance in the House Agricultural Affairs Committee portends anything.

Without a vote raised in protest, Chairman Carroll Dean, R-Nolus, conducted a secret ballot on the introduction of a controversial "right-to-work" bill that bans unionism from membership. Then he let two members take the paper ballots outside the committee room, count them and report the tally to the secretary.

Dean did give his members the option of signing the little slip of paper on which they voted. But he also gave them the option of not signing them. And, not until reporters raised the question with the House leadership did the committee rescind the action and take a roll call vote on the matter.

The leadership pointed out that under state law the Constitution and the rules of the House secret ballots in committee rooms.

What is more surprising even than the attempt of the committee members to hide their votes from public view is the attitude of the veteran legislator who instigated the secret ballot in the first place. Rep. Harold Reid, D-Craigmont.

"I think at times a secret ballot is necessary in government," Reid told reporters outside the meeting.

"Well, sir, for 'protection.' That's the way Reid views it. Otherwise, he said, lawmakers and other government officials could be — are you ready for this? — subjected to criticism.

Reid would not answer when a reporter asked him if he was afraid to "take the heat" from the public on the way he voted on introduction of the legislation. But when a roll call vote was taken in the com-

Brown ponders B-1 cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown said Tuesday he is considering cuts in the B-1 bomber program and other weapons purchases, but President Carter will decide in a defense budget report to be completed next month.

Brown, testifying at a Senate Armed Services Committee hearing, said he is discussing with military service chiefs a number of possible changes in the budget former President Gerald Ford submitted before he left office.

Under questioning, Brown said one option he got from Carter's Defense Department transition staff was to cut production of the controversial B-1 bomber from eight to five planes in fiscal year 1978.

Ford proposed spending $2.15 billion for the eight planes. The Air Force has proposed spending $2.3 billion for 24 planes by the mid-1980s.

"There have been no decisions made yet on these things," Brown said. "Many of them are being considered and conclusions will be reached in the next couple of weeks."

But he said Carter himself would make the final decisions, and he doubted the President's version of the defense budget would be ready for presentation "until the latter part of February."

Brown drew fire both from both opponents and supporters of the B-1 program.

When he said Congress had originally set too early a deadline — Feb. 1 — for a presidential decision on whether the B-1 program should go into its full production phase, Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, retorted: "Carter made a public pledge in July he was opposed to the B-1."

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., complained that, while delays in weapons programs could save between $2 billion and $3 billion next year, they would have to be made up later at greater cost.

The hearing was intended as a start to considering legislation authorizing the weapons purchases and troop strength levels proposed in the military budget. Ford's version of that budget totals $12.1 billion in required spending.

Brown conceded that reducing B-1 production would raise the cost of each plane.

He said other proposals under consideration were a slowdown in purchases of the Air Force's F15 fighter and reducing purchases of $100 million AWACS flying control centers for tactical air combat.

He said he believed continued increases were needed for development and purchases of weapons, but that some "savings" could be achieved by reducing civilian manpower at the Pentagon.

He also said unspent money from the Ford years may be an indication of poor management.

"I'm going to have to look at that and see if there has been some inefficiency and waste," Brown said. "My judgment is there may have been, looking at these unobligated balances."

Limousine service out

Washington Star

WASHINGTON — President Carter has eliminated door-to-door limousine service for White House aides, and the fleet of automobiles assigned to the presidential staff is being reduced by at least 35 per cent.

Even the four-wheel drive vehicle for getting aides to work through the snow is being removed from the White House.

In terms of the federal budget, this won't make much of a dent. But Press Secretary Jody Powell noted that there was more involved than a simple effort to save money.

"The other part of the rationale," he said, "is symbolic."

If the Carter White House expects federal agencies and the public to make sacrifices, it is incumbent upon us to make similar reductions in the benefits we might otherwise have enjoyed," Powell declared.

But that was only part of the symbolic value of Carter's action. The other part was that it, like much of what Carter has done in the first days of his presidency, served as a symbol of the kind of administration Carter wants the public to perceive.

Like other presidents in the early days of a term, Carter is involved in many activities that are more symbolic than substantive.

The elimination of limousine service, for instance, is a symbol for several things. "This action complies with a campaign promise made by the President," Powell said, and it is clear the Carter administration wants to be known as one that honors campaign commitments.

Mr. Powell announced the pardon of Vietnam war draft evaders, he stressed that it was fulfilling a campaign pledge. And Carter, while swearing in his Cabinet on Sunday, said he would give Cabinet members great independence, just as he advocated in the campaign.

The end of partial-to-partial limousine service also serves to symbolize a White House that is frugal and eager to wipe out "unnecessary privileges." Such a White House is, of course, the opposite of the universally disliked imperial presidency.

Jerome eyes recreation

JEROME — Bill Rutledge was named temporary chairman of the citizens advisory committee of the Jerome Recreation Commission Monday night.

This eight-member group will conduct an inventory of all existing recreational activities in the Jerome Recreation District which are not financed by governmental units.

Gayle Forsyth, commission chairman, said the board members have already discussed programs conducted by the county, city and school.

Members of the advisory committee include Judy Anderson, Marshall Everheart, Denzel Larson, Warren Ward, Jet Titus, Win Mohley, Sally Towle and Donna Suhr.

During Monday night's meeting a tentative list of some 50 possible recreational activities was compiled. Not all of these are currently taking place, but "they'd be amazed at the activities which do go on under private auspices," Mrs. Forsyth said.

She said the advisory committee's main purpose is to obtain specific data on each activity. These include what facilities are used, the date of the start and ending of the activity, sponsor, fees involved and what age groups and the number of persons involved.

The citizens committee also will ask the people involved in continuing their activities and what the recreation commission can do to help.

"We hope with this information to see just where we stand in Jerome," Mrs. Forsyth said, "and when we do hire a supervisor he will know what we already have and what we need."

The three-member recreation commission will meet next Monday with Lloyd Blackham and Jim Foulson as public service aides with the latter Parks and Recreation Board, to get pointers on setting up the recreation program.

The next public meeting of the commission will be Feb. 14.

'Ranch' auction opens with signs

SUN VALLEY — The first signs of the public auction of 93 condominium units at The Ranch at Sun Valley concerned just that — signs.

Davis Lawson, a representative from the Los Angeles-based real estate auctions firm handling the sale, appeared before the Sun Valley Planning and Zoning Board Monday to request permission to display several auction signs in Sun Valley before the event.

Lawson said the signs would be posted three and a half weeks before the auction, now tentatively scheduled for March 19. He said there would only be three signs posted in Sun Valley — off the Ranch premises, and they would be of a "recreational and advertising nature."

The city of Sun Valley, however, has strict ordinances governing signs and the proposal encountered opposition.

"You're coming into a little city that has a real problem with signs," board member Bill Janss commented. He later added, "If this [posting signs] cheapens the whole valley."

The board's initial opposition disappeared after discussion and assurances from Lawson concerning the specifications of the signs and that they would be removed immediately after the auction.

Elkhorn president John Harker, who was attending the meeting, commented, "I think one thing we as a community need to keep in perspective is that the only thing worse than an auction is an auction that doesn't work."

The board agreed and approved the signs with strict specifications.

TF reduces list

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls City Council committee has reduced to seven the number of applicants being considered for the new assistant city manager position to be created this year.

Mayor Paul Ostyn said the seven finalists picked from 168 applicants come from Colorado, Oregon, Washington and Kansas, and are from 28 to 43 years old.

The council received no applications from Idahoans.

The council is expected to pay the new assistant $1,500 to $1,700 per month. The duties of the new assistant would include directing the computer programming of the city's billing system, streamlining city accounting practices and evaluating city hiring practices.

Burley man arrested

BURLEY — The price of alfalfa hay apparently seemed attractive to a Burley man.

Denny Teal, 23, was arrested about 6:30 p.m. Sunday in a farmer's stackyard southeast of Burley.

He has been charged with grand larceny.

Cassia County Deputy Sheriff Terry Bingham said Teal was loading baled alfalfa hay into a pickup truck at the William Bowen stackyard when he was apprehended.

The deputy said Teal had taken four loads from the farm and was selling the hay. He said all the hay was recovered.

Rupert seeking lease

RUPERT — Rejected on a lease offer to the present user of the old city dump site, the City of Rupert will advertise for bids Luis reup on leveling about 20 acres at the site.

Mayor Wendell Johnson said Don Scudder, who has been farming the land, turned down a lease offer at $25 per acre.

The $25 per acre figure came from an appraisal on the east 26.32 acres of the old city dump area. The appraised sale value was listed at $7,000, but Mayor Johnson and the councilmen were reluctant to sell the land.

The land has no water right and is without easements or rights-of-way for access.

News of record

Twin Falls City Police — Craig Elgie, Twin Falls, told police someone took a tapedeck from a car parked at the College of Southern Idaho recently. He estimated the loss at $75.

ARRESTS — Joe Laragan Jr., 18; Chuck White, 19, and Victor Burg, 19, all Twin Falls, were arrested by sheriff's deputies on charges of petit larceny in connection with the theft of gasoline from a car in the parking lot of Southern Idaho College. They were being held in the county jail in lieu of $300 bond each.

VANDALISM — Charles "Jake" Jansson told sheriff's deputies that someone broke two windows at Jansson Auto Salvage on Addison Avenue West. Damage was estimated at $100.

ARRESTS — Joe Laragan Jr., 18; Chuck White, 19, and Victor Burg, 19, all Twin Falls, were arrested by sheriff's deputies on charges of petit larceny in connection with the theft of gasoline from a car in the parking lot of Southern Idaho College. Crowley decides to remove sign

TWIN FALLS — A local drug store owner has apparently changed his mind about fighting a city sign ordinance to become effective in March, according to City Manager Jean Millar.

Robert Crowley, Crowley Drugs owner, said last week he and several other downtown merchants would not remove signs in front of their stores, even though those signs will violate a city ordinance beginning March 20.

At a working lunch session of the City Council Monday, Millar said Crowley had called him and said, "He'd do what ever the law says ... reluctantly."

The law seems to be satisfactory to him," Millar said.

Crowley would not comment today on the sign ordinance or on why he apparently changed his mind.

The pharmacist said earlier Young Electric Sign Co. officials here had told him they would defend him and several other undisclosed merchants who lease signs from the company.

Sign company officials refused to comment.

At the council lunch, Millar disclosed he would meet with Robert Coppel, a Boise lawyer representing Cosgriff Outdoor Advertising Inc., to discuss the sign ordinance which calls for the removal of signs that extend perpendicularly from any building in the downtown area more than 18 inches.

Coppel could not be reached for comment. Local Cosgriff officials would not comment.

Darrell Howard, city building inspector and zoning officer, said a letter was mailed to 50 merchants here warning of the sign ordinance. He estimated 25 merchants had already taken down signs that could be violations.

Teen hurt

BURLEY — A Burley-area teen-ager accidentally shot himself in the leg Sunday morning while hunting birds on his parents' farm.

Dennis Burton, 17, was treated and released from Cassia Memorial Hospital following the accident.

Burton told a Cassia County deputy sheriff the .22 calibre rifle discharged as he was carrying it. The bullet hit him in the lower left leg.

BSU group seeks $50 fee increase

BOISE (UPI) — A committee of students, alumni and officials will ask the State Board of Education next month for a $50 per semester fee increase at Boise State University to raise $10 million for a multipurpose pavilion.

This is one of a number of recommendations included in a 39-page report prepared by the 15-member committee that for the past five months has checked into the need for such a structure. The report will be presented at the Feb. 3-4 board meeting in Boise.

Such a boost in student fees at Boise State would like them to $233 from $183 per semester. That compares with $205 paid now at Idaho State University, $217 at the University of Idaho and $160 at Lewis-Clark State College.

In its report, the committee also recommends Boise State seek private donations to build the pavilion and that the pavilion should be built on or near the BSU campus. The proposal calls for seating between 15,000 and 20,000 persons in the structure.

If the board approves the building this spring, work would begin next fall and the structure could be completed in about two years. If built, the pavilion would provide space for concerts, men's and women's athletic intramural activities, physical education classes, informal recreation and meeting rooms.

Judge erupts at Dummar

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — "Brother Dummar, I want the truth," the judge demanded of his fellow Mormon.

And Melvin Dummar replied with still another version — his third — of the origin of the disputed "Mormon will" that would leave him a windfall of millions of dollars from the fortune of Howard Hughes.

"If you are lying, your soul may be in jeopardy," he said. "But I'm not concerned about your soul. I'm concerned about your hide."

"I will make it my specific project to recompose your deposition time... you will go to the Nevada state prison... it's not a county club."

any part in preparing it. At the hearing Tuesday, he said a well-dressed man in his 40s appeared at the service station he formerly ran in Willard, Utah, on April 27, three weeks after Hughes died — and left an envelope behind after making veiled references to him and Hughes.

"What did I think of Howard Hughes dying? I remember him saying that," Dummar said.

After the man left, he discovered a sealed envelope on the counter, Dummar said. "I steamed it open," he said, "and read it and it has been a nightmare ever since."

Dummar was to resume testifying today, under the heavy skepticism of the judge.

"I believe the witness is lying," the judge told reporters during a recess.

"I don't think everything he has told us, other than the fact he delivered the will to the Mormon Church and the fact he had the will in his possession, has been lies."

Estes awaits parole decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Billie Sol Estes, jailed when his multimillion dollar empire of fictitious storage tanks ended in a nationally publicized collapse 15 years ago, today awaited the result of efforts to end his parole.

The U.S. Parole Commission was considering whether to remove parol supervision of the 51-year-old Texas farmer who built his $150 million empire by mortgaging non-existent fertilizer storage tanks and other equipment.

Estes' situation differed sharply from that of E. Howard Hunt, convicted Watergate burglar who asked the commission to free him from the federal prison at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., where he is serving 30 months to eight years.

The commission was expected to announce decisions late today concerning the fate of Estes, Hunt, and 30 other parol applications it considered in a two-day meeting.

Estes must file a written report with his probation officer each month, notify him of changes of job or address, get permission to leave the state, and risk being jailed if he violates a law.

Estes' downfall came when he induced farmers in 11 West Texas counties to sign mortgages on non-existent fertilizer tanks for anxious ammonias.

Working with the Superior Manufacturing Co. of Amarillo, which was supposed to make the tanks, he persuaded farmers to go through the motions of buying the tanks for about $1,000 each from Superior on credit.

Chamber selects leaders

BURLEY — New officers were installed Thursday night for the Burley Chamber of Commerce.

Robert Hilliard was installed as president of the organization for 1977. With him were De Nelson, first vice-president, and Faye Stoddard, second vice-president. Agnes Anderson is executive secretary.

Mrs. Stoddard was elected Wednesday by the board of directors. She replaces Dave Stephenson, who resigned from the board this week after having been elected second vice-president in the November-December balloting.

Hilliard appointed Ormond Burch of McCulloch's Funeral Home to take the vacant director seat.

Plaque presented

ROBERT HILLIARD, newly installed president of the Burley Chamber of Commerce, presents a plaque of appreciation to outgoing president, Shirley Foyles at the chamber's annual dinner Thursday night.

Minidoka studies dispute

RUPERT — A 19-page document covering findings of fact in the Minidoka County teacher-district dispute is being studied by both sides today.

The Minidoka County School District received its copy of the findings Monday. Larry Caldwell, president of the Minidoka County Education Association, received his copy over the weekend.

The findings will not be made public before next week. Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent, explained that the procedural agreement approved by the district and the MCEA in 1974 provides that findings will be made public if a dispute is not resolved within 10 days of the parties receiving the findings.

Lowder said the negotiating teams will discuss the findings this week.

Fern Hunter, Chairman of the School Board, said negotiating teams for the district and the MCEA will meet this evening on the 1977-78 contract. She said no special meeting has been scheduled yet on the fact-finding results and she did not know if negotiators would take up that subject tonight.

Mrs. Hunter said she could see no reason for withholding the results from the public for ten days, but said the district will abide by the clause in the procedural agreement.

Superintendent of Schools Darrell Hatfield said the recommendations of the fact-finders did not surprise him but cited the procedural agreement in declining to list them.

"Really, there wasn't anything unexpected as far as we were concerned," Hatfield reiterated that there were some disputes and they've pretty much given it back to us to work out those disputes."

Lowder and Superintendent Hatfield said Monday afternoon that they had not had time to study the findings and could not comment further on them. Caldwell was unavailable for comment.

The document includes findings on 27 points of dispute covered in hearings before George Hunt, federal programs officer for the State Department of Education, and Lloyd Eason, former superintendent and business manager of the Boise school district.

The findings are only advisory and are not binding on either party. But it could be the basis of agreement between the district and the MCEA on points that have been in dispute for more than a year and stemmed from contract negotiations for the 1976-77 school year.

Rupert drafts zone ordinance

RUPERT — Draft zoning ordinance provisions should be ready for Minidoka County commissioners by mid-February.

Robert Nielsen, legal counsel for commissioners, reported that he should complete a zoning draft within a couple of weeks to comply with the proposed city-county comprehensive plan.

Nielsen earlier had reported that it was difficult to draft the zoning ordinance revisions to fit the controversial plan proposal.

The plan draft was approved last spring by the Minidoka County Planning Commission. County commissioners have taken no action on it.

Lyle Barton, chairman of commissioners, explained Monday: "We have never known for certain the legal implications of some provisions within the draft of the plan."

He said he expects those implications to be clarified for commissioners when Nielsen makes his report.

Since presentation of the plan draft to the commissioners, the make-up of the board has changed. Earlier this month Max Garper, a strong proponent of the existing draft, replaced Elmer Kettinger, who had expressed doubts about provisions that he felt might prevent properly planned development in the county.

The plan is subject to the approval of the cities in the county as well as the commissioners. Under mandate of the 1975 Planning Act, the local entities must then adopt zoning ordinances in compliance with the adopted plan.

Cities and the county also are required to agree upon areas of urban impact surrounding the cities.

Commissioners urged Rupert officials Monday to complete their urban impact study by June 1.

Rupert officials earlier had expressed the hope that they could take until the end of this year, the full allowable one-year extension, to determine their impact area.

Mayor Wendell Johnson said the city is beginning the study now. The council last week authorized appointment of a committee specifically for that purpose.

Alta reports fair skiing

ALTA, Utah (UPI) — Alta Ski Resort says all six of its double chair lifts are in operation now, and will continue to run through the remainder of the winter season.

Alta general manager Chick Morton said skiing has been fair to good in operation now, due to careful grooming on all of the less steep areas. He said the lifts will operate this spring, "just as long as skiers make operation economically feasible."

Due to the lack of early snow, Alta opened officially Jan. 5 — the resort's latest opening in its 40-year history and almost two months behind normal schedule.

"Although we usually have approximately five feet of snow by now, the bulk of the snowfall arrives in March, April and May," Morton said. "Many skiers will find spring skiing every bit as fun and as challenging as winter skiing."

Gun theft, vandalism reported

RUPERT — A gun theft and two acts of vandalism have been reported to Rupert police.

Don Garcia said a .22 calibre pump-action rifle was taken from a gun rack in his pickup truck. He valued the gun at $80.

Trinity Lutheran Church reported that someone had used a crowbar to break the door and door jamb on the church.

A window on the Rupert library was cracked.

Meet beats out board

GOODING — The Gooding School Board did not meet Monday night because of a Speak-Up public meeting scheduled at Frank Junior High School.

Monday night had been discussed as a possible meeting night and some trustees were elected. The impression the board would meet there. It was not clarified until later in the day that the board would not meet.

Details meeting date has not yet been determined, according to the wife of board chairman Rod Glanzer. He was at work and could not be reached by telephone.

Senate debates, confirms Bell

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate's confirmation of Griffin Bell as attorney general left only one of President Carter's Cabinet appointments — Labor Secretary-designate Ray Marshall — still to be decided.

The Senate voted 75-21 Tuesday to confirm Bell, after eight hours of debate and despite accusations that the controversial choice was rooted in "cronyism" and "marred by the former judge's "mediocre" civil rights record.

Bell was scheduled to be sworn in at a Justice Department ceremony today, which Carter planned to attend. By that time the Senate was to be debating Marshall's nomination, which is far less controversial but not without opposition.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., announced he will vote against Marshall because of his support for repeal of right-to-work laws, "reorganization of the military, and common situs picketing of an entire job site by a union in a dispute with only the subcontractor.

Accusing Marshall of being "a tool of union bosses," Bellmon said the "designated labor secretary's ideas, if they should become law or national policy, would seriously inhibit the nation's economic recovery and hasten the return of inflation."

Bell, 58, who served for over 14 years on the 5th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals, was Carter's most controversial Cabinet appointment.

Senate opposition, largely from liberal Republicans, centered on objections to Bell's school desegregation decisions while on the federal bench, his work for segregationist Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver, his membership in segregated clubs and his relationship to Carter.

"I don't find in his record one action that encouraged the march of law toward equality and justice in a difficult time," said Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md. "I have to say he lacks sensitivity" toward blacks.

Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., the Senate's only black, and Don Riegle, D-Mich., said they were "bothered by the matter of cronyism," noting Bell's long association with Carter and his assistance as a speech writer, fundraiser and adviser in the campaign.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., citing the Watergate scandals, said he opposed Bell because the attorney general "should not be a close friend or close associate of the president."

But other liberals, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., defended Bell, saying their doubts about his civil rights record had been eased by his pledge to pursue school desegregation vigorously.

Kennedy, whose brother appointed Bell as federal judge, said "No one has challenged the positions he has stated he would pursue — including full enforcement of the civil rights laws."

Clammers accuse states of 'mess'

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — The National Sea Clammers Association is suing New Jersey and New York for $500 million, charging the two states dumped sewage in the Atlantic Ocean and triggered a "black mass" of algae last summer.

The association charged Tuesday that the states and nine municipalities have dumped toxic materials which fed the algae that blanketed the water from the southwestern portion of Long Island to Cape May, N.J.

"The sewage caused an ecological imbalance and a condition which interferes with the cleansing processes and capabilities of the waters," said the suit filed in U.S. District Court.

The association, which represents about half the independent clammers in New Jersey, said last summer the "black mass" of algae caused massive destruction of marine plant life, fish, clams, lobsters and the collapse of many industries which are dependent on marine life.

It said the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the New York Department of Environmental Conservation, New Jersey's Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers failed to take effective action to prevent and reduce the algae growth.

CHARGE of dynamite is set off in a carload in Baltimore, Md., by John D. Loizeux, head of a demolition firm, in an attempt to blast the frozen coal loose. More than 1,200 carloads of coal are backed up in the yard, their contents frozen solid by subfreezing weather. (UPI)

Auto makers encouraged by first '77 sales info

DETROIT (UPI) — U.S. automakers obviously are in a good mood over sales results so far this year.

Car sales are the best since 1973, truck sales are setting records, and cash rebates are cutting buying incentives of unsold small cars.

The four U.S. auto companies Tuesday reported mid-January new car sales were the fourth highest for the period in history — 15 per cent above a year ago. Truck sales broke the existing record.

The 222,922 cars sold in the Jan. 11-20 period was the highest number for a mid-

January since 1973, with all but Americans "Big Three" Corp. sharing in the bonanza. The four companies sold 171,890 cars last year as they recovered from a two-year sales slump.

Ford, with its strike recovery still producing higher than normal sales, reported a 24 per cent sales gain. General Motors, with Cadillac and Oldsmobile divisions setting records, was up 17 per cent. Chrysler was just under 4 per cent.

Despite cash rebates and price cuts, AMC sales were off 21 1/2 per cent from last year.

In the slumping small car segment, GM reported that $200 cash rebates had improved sales of two sub-compact models. Chevrolet sold 4,315 Chevettes in the mid-January period — a 20 per cent gain and nearly equalling AMC's 5,326 total sales for the period. Chevrolet Vega sales stood at 3,569 — up 19 per cent from a year ago.

The "Big Three" also reported record sales of 77,169 trucks and commercial vehicles.

"With both cars and trucks selling well, the total automotive market is at its strongest point since late in the record year of 1973," Bennett E. Bidwell, Ford sales vice president, said.

The Arab oil embargo triggered the industry's two-year slump in October 1973.

Aid backed

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — The 1954 U.S.-South Korean Mutual Defense Treaty should be reviewed and strengthened before any reduction of American troops in the country, the head of Korea's largest opposition party said Tuesday.

Rep. Lee Chul-sung, leader of the New Democratic party, told a news conference that any U.S. troop withdrawal without such a move could endanger the present military balance on the Korean peninsula.

Meany pays visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany had a one-hour breakfast meeting with President Carter today following charges by labor Tuesday that Carter has switched to "hesitant, timid" economic recovery programs.

Meany declined comment on the meeting as he left the White House.

"It's a long-standing policy that anything that is said has to come from here (the White House)," Meany said.

He was accompanied by AFL-CIO Executive Vice President Lane Kirkland, who released remarks Tuesday accusing Carter of abandoning his bold campaign promises for economic recovery.

Oil bill aid goal

NORWICH, Conn. (UPI) — The Chamber of Commerce has asked the Oil Producing and Exporting Countries to contribute to a fund set up to help low income families meet high oil prices.

In telegrams sent Tuesday to OPEC embassies in Washington, D.C., James F. Wadley, executive vice president of the Norwich Area Chamber of Commerce, wrote there is a crisis in Norwich due to the severe winter.

The telegrams say:

"Severe cold wave gripping our region has created crisis in Norwich, Connecticut. Our needy and poor unable to pay for...

"Local companies, utilities, businesses, residents are contributing to fund so poor, sick and aged won't go cold.

"As a supplier of our oil we were sure you would like to make a modest contribution to our local fuel drive. Whatever amount you feel would be appropriate would be appreciated.

'People issues' aired

WASHINGTON Star — Breaking with tradition, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff has used his annual report to Congress for a plea on "people's issues."

Gen. George S. Brown Tuesday presented a sober report on the state of world military balance, complete with non familiar silhouettes of towering Soviet missiles. But for the first time, he acknowledged, the report spoke of members of the Armed Forces as something more than numbers in the "strategic equation."

The primary "people issue" concerning Brown was keeping enough people around and ready to operate the armed services.

Court accepts maternity benefit cases

Wednesday, January 26, 1977 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 11

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court announced Tuesday it will decide whether employers can deny ordinary sick pay and possibly seniority rights to women on maternity leave.

The two cases from Tennessee and California differ from the recent General Electric case where the court held exclusion of pregnancy from employer disability insurance plans is not a violation of federal law.

The justices refused to reconsider the GE decision.

In another case important to women, the court rejected the request that it reconsider last term's ruling denying parents the right to veto abortions for unwelcomed minors.

In lawsuits involving school desegregation and housing from Indianapolis, Ind., and Toledo, Ohio, respectively — the justices ordered more proceedings in lower courts to determine whether there was intentional government discrimination. The court has held that a constitutional violation cannot be based solely on the effect of an official action.

The Indianapolis school order required busing of 6,533 black children from the city to predominantly white schools in surrounding Marion County.

But in another school case from Louisville the court rejected the appeal of the Jefferson County (Ky.) Board of education from a 1975 court-ordered desegregation plan adding 23,000 students to those being bused.

In the Toledo case a homebuilder and the local housing authority claimed discrimination when the city planning commission rejected plans for 140 low-income housing units in mostly white neighborhoods.

In the criminal field, the court ruled 6 to 3 that police warnings of right to silence and to have a lawyer are not required when a suspect voluntarily goes to the station house and admits to a crime after being questioned behind closed doors.

In other actions, the court:

- Agreed to decide whether city officials can be sued under federal civil rights law if the money sought as restitution comes out of public funds.
- Agreed to decide whether a criminal defendant may be tried before a jury of only five members.
- Agreed to decide whether federal judges may authorize FBI agents to record numbers dialled at a particular telephone, and whether the telephone company may be ordered to cooperate.

- Rejected an invitation to decide whether a state child custody order must be respected in all other states.
- Refused to schedule a quick decision on whether the government can go ahead with its efforts under antitrust law to dismantle the giant American Telephone and Telegraph Co. The issue in dispute — the jurisdiction of federal courts over the case — will come up by way of the U.S. Court of Appeals here.

Sakharov menaced

SOVIET dissident Andrei Sakharov was warned by officials in Moscow Tuesday any more "island visits" information about the Moscow subway explosion could result in his arrest and trial. On Jan. 14, Sakharov said he feared the blast might have been staged by KGB security police to discredit the dissident movement in the Soviet Union. (UPI)

US may pull Hanoi block

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, moving toward "some kind of recognition" for Vietnam, will not block the former foe from joining the United Nations, Andrew Young, the U.N. ambassador-designate, said Tuesday.

ANDREW YOUNG ... gains panel nod

Young, a black Democratic congressman from Georgia, was approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee following his testimony. The vote was 14-0 and Young was expected to be confirmed easily by the full Senate.

Young told the confirmation hearing that the Carter administration "has no objection to moving towards some kind of recognition of Vietnam and admission to the United Nations."

Young, a black who worked closely with the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., also strongly backed black majority rule for Rhodesia and South Africa, and said he will travel to Africa.

Young told reporters he will leave next week for Tanzania and Nigeria.

The issue of Vietnam was raised by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., who asked the United States would end its veto of the Southeast Asian country's U.N. admission.

"I certainly hope so," Young replied, "and it is the intention of the secretary of state and the President to move forth strongly in that direction. I hope we would improve our bilateral relations before that issue came up."

Young said he expected Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to initiate talks with Vietnam within 90 days on resolving the issue of accounting for Americans listed as missing in action.

On Africa, Young strongly backed the repeal of the "Byrd Amendment" which has allowed the United States to import chromium ore from Rhodesia since 1971 in violation of U.N. sanctions.

Young acknowledged there may be times when, as the U.S. envoy to the United Nations he will out of phase with the administration.

"I fully expect to stub my toe, make mistakes and, maybe, even be betrayed by the confusion of a tense moment," he said.

Rep. Larry McDonald, a strongly conservative Democrat from Georgia, opposed Young, saying his political views lay "outside the mainstream of American constitutional thought" and tradition.

Alan Ogden, spokesman for the U.S. Labor Party, denounced Young for participating in the Trilateral Commission — a body founded by David Rockefeller for improving commercial and diplomatic ties between the United States, Japan and Europe.

Chemical controls stir controversy

WASHINGTON — The Department of Labor is considering a comprehensive and controversial proposal for regulating cancer-causing chemicals in the workplace.

Which is designed to speed up the slow case-by-case regulatory approach followed in the past.

A proposal exceeding 200 pages, drafted by the department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration, would set new uniform standards for identifying and regulating all potential cancer-causing agents in hopes of reducing the time needed to consider individual chemicals.

Some 1,500 agents have been identified as potentially carcinogenic, but in its five-year history the agency has completed regulatory action on only 17 substances — including asbestos in 1972, a group of 14 January 1974, vinyl chloride in October 1974 and coke-oven emissions in October 1976. Some standards have been in the works for more than two years.

The proposal for speeding action was made publicly available Monday, although the outgoing assistant secretary for occupational safety and health, Dr. Morton Corn, had left the agency last week and his successor has not been appointed.

Corn — who said in an interview before leaving office that the proposal had his "endorsement" — had asked that the draft proposal be forwarded for review to the National Advisory Committee for Occupational Safety and Health, a 12-member panel with representatives from industry, labor and the public.

Deputy Assistant Secretary Bert M. Coneklin said Monday that the document would also be publicly distributed to "initiate debate" on what he characterized as a "major" policy change in the agency's "usual pattern of setting job health standards." The outcome of such a debate — whether a formal proposal would be submitted — "cannot be predicted," he said.

Prosecution ruled out

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho County Prosecutor Dennis Abers has determined there are no grounds for criminal prosecution of the owner of a dog who mauled six-year-old Darrell Emeking, Cottonwood Jan. 3.

The child died from the wounds, launching a three-week investigation into possible criminal charges in the case.

The 70 pound first grader, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Enckling, was attacked by a 100 pound male malamute while walking home from school.

Abers said there would be no criminal charges.

The owner — of the dog, Douglas Clark, has ordered that the animal be destroyed. Its carcass will be given to Washington State University's College of Veterinary medicine for study.

Wendell students test above US levels

By GEORGE WILEY

WENDELL - Wendell eighth graders ranked with other Idaho students but were often a year or more ahead of their national counterparts in a grade level achievement test administered last fall by the state.

If the Wendell students showed a weakness it was in math, where in one category they fell below the national norm and overall were just one month ahead of the national average.

The Wendell students failed to meet state averages in all but one of three math categories and overall ranked four months behind Idaho students in math.

The test, administered to selected fourth, eighth and eleventh graders throughout the state last September, was designed to establish grade level achievement norms for Idaho students compared to national students. The test covered basic reading skills, language skills, math, reference skills, science and social studies.

In the reading area of the test, vocabulary was tested by a student's recall of synonyms, the student being given one word and asked to pick the word of similar meaning from a list of alternatives. Students were also asked to pick correct spellings, find the correct answers to math problems, identify geometric relationships and so on.

The combination of scores for the reading, math and language tests resulted in a composite score for the basic skills. Social studies, science and reference skills were tested but not included in the composite score. The eighth graders at Wendell Junior-Senior High School were the only students from the Wendell district selected to participate in the test, which was voluntary with school districts.

The Wendell junior high schoolers ranked exactly with their state counterparts on the composite score for the test by hitting the same 8.7 mark - or 8th grade, seventh month - achieved by state students.

The score put the Wendell students seven months ahead of the national peers. The national average for all categories was 8.0. Each decimal point in the scores above or below that level represents a school month of advance or lag in achievement.

In the reading portion of the test, the Wendell students scored 9.4 in vocabulary, compared to the state's 9.0. The 9.4 scored in reading comprehension exactly matched the state average, while the total reading score for Wendell of 9.3

was a month ahead of the state's 9.2.

In the language area of the test, Wendell students scored more than two years ahead of the national average and a year ahead of the state average with a 10.4, which compared with the state's 9.0. In language expression the Wendell eighth graders were a month ahead of the state at 9.9 compared to 9.1.

In the mathematics the 58 Wendell eighth graders tested generally did less well than their state counterparts, although except for one category they stayed above national norms.

The Wendell students hit a low of 7.8 in math computation, which fell one month behind the state's 8.3 and one month behind the national 8.0. In math concepts the Wendell students scored 8.3 compared to 8.6 for the state, and in math applications they matched the state average with an 8.9. The total math score for Wendell was 8.1 compared to 8.5 for the state.

In reference skills the Wendell students' 8.6 was three months behind the state's 9.0. In science, however, the Wendell eighth graders beat even the state's strong showing with a 10.1 compared to the state's 9.7. The Wendell score was more than two years ahead of the national norm.

In social studies Wendell's 9.3 was one month ahead of the state's 9.2. Wendell counselor Doug Johnson said the district was pleased with the scores.

"I would say if you compared it nationally they're in good except for math computation," he said.

Johnson said he favored a continuance of the state testing in future years if the test results are used to upgrade school curriculums.

Hollifield pushes tax relief bill

By CHRIS PECK

BOISE - Idahoans will get some relief from property taxes if a bill sponsored by Jerome Rep. Gordon Hollifield becomes law. Hollifield's tax relief bill emerged from the House Revenue Committee this morning and now will be introduced to the full legislature.

Under this legislation, half of the money taxpayers currently pay for operation of county public schools will be removed from a homeowners property tax assessment.

Idaho law at present allows 8 mills of county property taxes to help fund public schools. A mill is equal to a 1/100 of a percent of every tax dollar.

Hollifield's bill reduces to 4 mills the amount of property tax paid by Idahoans into the school funding formula.

Statewide, this 4-mill reduction in the property taxes amounts to an estimated $7.82 million in tax relief.

However, the bill is written to insure county schools would still get the money which would be eliminated by this reduction in property taxes.

Hollifield said schools would still get the same amount of money because the reduction in property tax revenue would be made up by an appropriation out of the general fund of other Idaho taxes.

The state general fund primarily is composed of income and sales tax revenue and this year totals about $290 million.

What worries some critics of the bill is the Revenue and Taxation Committee is the possibility that not enough general fund money exists to continue funding to the local school districts without raising state income or sales taxes.

But Hollifield disagreed, saying the legislature could simply decide to cut out some other kind of state spending to make sure schools get money from the general fund rather than some other program.

Second jailer due for Cassia County

By SHANE O'NEILL

BURLEY - A second jailer will be added to the city-county jail staff here.

The 1977 proposed Cassia County budget includes money for hiring another custodial officer for the six-month old facility. Officials doubt that additional manpower will prevent jail incidents as the Jan. 2 sodomites to which two prisoners pleaded guilty last week.

Cassia County Sheriff Ray Mitchell said such crimes against nature are not a rarity in jail and are difficult to prevent.

Harry Yenor is the lone custodial officer for the jail, which is operated by the county under a joint agreement with the city of Burley.

"We're going to get one more after they pass the budget," Sheriff Mitchell said.

"He's going to have to present his own budget, we are not going to do it for him," Weldon Beck, chairman of county commissioners, said Tuesday. "But we've gone over it with him and know what he wants."

Beck agreed additional help is needed at the jail.

"They've got so many cases there, they've just got to have more help to run it," Beck said.

Of the sodomites cases, Mitchell said, "It's been going on ever since I've known anything about jails. Every once in a while a thing like that happens. It's nothing new in a jail - any jail - and you hear it all the time in the penitentiaries."

Burley Police Chief Richard May said he also has "heard of a lot in jails." He said it is difficult to stop such activities unless the prisoners are watched individually even while sleeping in their cells.

Fifth District Court Judge Sherman Bellwood said Tuesday that he does not think such cases are prevalent in jails.

"I think it comes up more between males and females," he said. "I think this is the first case of this kind I've had from a county jail. I've had cases like it out on the streets, but not in jail."

He said he has never heard of similar incidents in jails elsewhere.

Judge Bellwood is waiting for presentencing reports on Larry Goodine, Farnsworth, Calif., and Dewey Napier, Oakley, The two men pleaded guilty to a single count each of a "crime against nature" on charges involving a 19-year-old victim alleged to drink driving court.

Goodine was awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary on a sentence for robbery of a Burley tavern, although Bellwood had retained 120-day jurisdiction over the sentence. Napier was awaiting sentence on a charge of taking a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

"We try to take all the precautions we can," Sheriff Mitchell said. "We don't know the background well enough on most of these guys until they've been here awhile. We had a man on most of the time this was happening."

According to prisoners, the actual assaults upon the young victim occurred during Yenor's 12 to 2 p.m. lunch break and after Yenor locked up the jail for the night on Jan. 2.

Mitchell said a second jailer will help with supervision of the prisoners although it still will not cover the full 24 hours a day. He added the department still will have to fill in with deputies.

A joint contract between the county and city calls for the sheriff's department to operate the jail facilities in the new law enforcement building. Burley police man the communications center.

Close-system television cameras cover the hallways and garage area to warn officers in the communications center of any attempted escape. Mitchell and May said state law makes it illegal to use cameras to monitor prisoners in their cells.

The cells are monitored through an intercom system. Chief May said the officer on duty at the communications switchboard turns on the intercom for about ten minutes each hour.

"If I hear any commotion that shouldn't be going on, then we are to notify the sheriff's office," the chief said.

MV farmers attend meet in Burley

BURLEY - More than 200 farmers and businessmen attended the 1977 Potato School sponsored by the University of Idaho Extension Service here today.

"We had more than we expected," Ivan Hopkins, Lincoln County agent said at the two-day meet.

Dr. Robert McDole of the Aberdeen Research and Extension Center opened the program with a talk on foliar feeding of potatoes.

"There is no question about it," McDole said. "Foliar feeding is a definite method of fertilizing crops."

McDole said both N-30-pro-nutrients, such as zinc and boron, and macro-nutrients, such as nitrogen and phosphorus, can effectively be applied through foliar feeding.

He distinguished foliar feeding from the common practice of nitrogen, the application of fertilizers by overhead sprinkler.

He said foliar feeding is a valuable method for fertilizing fruit trees which have been growing for a period of years.

Gooding sets budget hearing

GOODING - The public hearing on the 1977 budget for the city of Gooding is scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday at the city hall. The $7.840 budget for the first nine months of 1977 is about 21 per cent over last year's spending. Of this amount $12,000 represents general grant money to finance studies of the city's storm water collection system, sewage system and airport.

Paul youth remains unconscious

POCATOLLO - A Paul area youth remains unconscious in an intensive care unit in a Pocatolillo hospital following a Monday morning accident in Burley. Michael Gallegos, 19, was listed this morning by St. Anthony's Hospital officials as in critical condition.

A hospital spokesman said Gallegos has not recovered consciousness since he was admitted there Monday suffering from skull fractures.

Gallegos was thrown about 75 feet on the pavement of Idaho 27 early Monday when his car skidded on ice and rolled twice just south of the Interstate 80 overpass.

TF man sentenced in heroin case

By BOB ZUCKERMAN

BOISE - A 23-year-old Twin Falls man has been sentenced to 12 years in prison for heroin trafficking, reportedly following the biggest drug bust in the state in the last four years.

U.S. District Judge Fred Taylor Tuesday sentenced the man, George Heinze, for his part in an attempted sale of $20,000 worth of heroin to an undercover agent in October, according to Acting U.S. Atty. Larry Westberg.

Heinze pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to distribute, four counts of possession with intent to distribute and three counts of distribution of heroin.

Others sentenced in connection with the case were: - Joe Oropesa, 27, Homedale, who received 20 years in prison and a $1,500 fine on one count of conspiracy to distribute - four counts of possession with intent to distribute and three counts of distribution of heroin.

- Mark Minton, 20, Boise, who received 10 years in prison on one count each of conspiracy to distribute, possession with intent to distribute and distribution of heroin. He also was sentenced on one count of a felon in receipt of a firearm.

Oropesa and Minton were convicted by a U.S. District Court jury here for their part in the October sale of about one pound of heroin at a Meridian shopping center, about nine miles west of here. Both have appealed.

Sentencing followed more than six months of work on the case, Westberg said. "Attempts were made to infiltrate" a group that was suspected of dealing in heroin last July, he said.

Not until October were undercover agents able to set up the sale, in a van belonging to Heinze in the Meridian shopping center parking lot, Westberg said. Minton was in the van with Heinze at the time of the sale, Westberg said.

Oropesa was in the parking lot watching for the police when he was apprehended, Westberg said.

Westberg said he did not know of a case in the last four years when so much heroin, "some of it 40 per cent pure," had been picked up. All together 1 1/2 pounds of heroin, valued at $80,000, was confiscated, he said.

The attorney said 20 law enforcement officials, including federal narcotics agents, officers with the Idaho Bureau of Dangerous Drugs and Narcotics, and officers from the Ada and Canyon counties' sheriff's offices worked on the case.

Fire call time differences confusing

By SHANE O'NEILL

RUPERT - Time discrepancies in the communication center logs of two counties here have created new confusion over a response to a December fire in Cassia County east of Rupert.

Different times logged by Burley and Rupert communications personnel prevent a clear determination of the sequence of calls concerning a Dec. 15 fire at the farm of Dana Schultz.

However, the events, as related by Ode McClane, Rupert fire chief and Minidoka County fire marshal, show confusion on the part of Schultz and a communications operator in Rupert. Following a complaint at last week's Rupert City Council meeting, Mayor Wendell Johnson moved quickly to eliminate confusion over fire calls and fire fighter responsibility for response.

Mayor Johnson directed McClane to solve any problem that might cause confusion in the minds of the public or at the city-county emergency communications center. Johnson and McClane met last Thursday with LaVern Montgomery, chairman of the Minidoka County Fire Protection Board, Ed Schiab, and Thane Taylor, fire chief and secretary of the Minidoka County East End Fire Protection District.

After the meeting, McClane promised any fire alarms, reported to the city-county communications center in Rupert will receive immediate response if they are within the fire protection area of any Minidoka County entity.

That includes the Jackson area just across the Snake River in Cassia County east of Rupert, where Schultz's farm is located. It is under East End protection due to an agreement with the North Cassia Rural Fire Protection District, which accepted responsibility for the Emerson area in Minidoka County.

Al and Dana Schultz, father and son, had complained about the difficulty of obtaining response to a fire early on the morning of Dec. 15. Their building and its contents were destroyed.

Dana Schultz, the only person home at the time, said he called the Burley Fire Department and was told the area was Rupert responsibility. He said he called Rupert and was rejected again, being referred to Declo.

All Ainsdoka County firemen are dispatched through a single communications center.

McClane admitted, "There was possibly a little confusion" through the communications center.

But he added the Minidoka County Fire District did answer the call with two trucks and 10 men, and spent two hours on the scene.

"The delay should have been very minor in regard to the response of the Minidoka rural department," he said.

Schultz said Declo was the first to have fire fighting unit at the fire, even though Declo firemen had to be notified by telephone because of an alarm system problem.

McClane's attempt to reconstruct the chronology of report and response is frustrated by conflicting times placed in the Burley and Rupert records.

The fire marshal stated, "They turned in the alarm, and they responded immediately," but his own account lists several contacts before the response came.

McClane said the Burley (and North Cassia) center received the fire report at 5:42 a.m., Dec. 15, and the caller was referred to Rupert. The Rupert records show a call there at 5:49 a.m., and McClane said firemen were dispatched "immediately."

However, McClane said early records show Rupert police contacted Burley police at 5:48 a.m. and said Rupert (Minidoka rural) was not responding to the fire call.

Burley police called the Burley fire center, which is manned 24 hours a day.

The Burley fire center then dispatched the Declo fire fighters, McClane said, before calling Rupert communications to explain that the Jackson area is Minidoka County responsibility.

McClane said the dispatcher then immediately turned in the alarm.

The fire marshal was unable to account for the time discrepancy or to indicate the fire call number and a map of the fire response areas.

Rupert City Engineer, Don Courtwright was assigned the task of drafting a new map of fire areas for publication.

"Maybe we've been a little lax in keeping the public informed on it," McClane said.

Markets

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed Wednesday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.83 to 965.99 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 140 to 84, among the 284 issues crossing the tape.

Analysts noted secondary issues have made sharp gains lately, while blue chips and glamors have run into selling pressures. Institutions appeared to be making adjustments among some of the higher priced issues.

Utilities and some energy issues have scored impressive gains the past few weeks as the worst winter of the century has increased fuel and power demand. But the overall impact of the winter crisis could be negative, analysts said.

The market did not react strongly Tuesday to President Carter's economic stimulus and energy plans. The President plans to propose tax credits for business as part of a two-year $31.3 billion economic stimulus program to be presented to Congress Jan. 31. Carter has decided on tax treatments of $50 to $200 for individuals.

Girl athletes speak out

By JEFF SHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A girl athlete in Twin Falls has a lot more to prove than a boy according to four Twin Falls High School girl athletes interviewed last week.

People don't expect women to be able to play games such as basketball which have traditionally been played only by men, observed Brenda Falash, a junior who plays basketball and runs track and cross country. Brenda feels that people often go to girls' games expecting to be entertained not by the girls' ability and grace but by their ineptitude and clumsiness.

"They think, 'Let's go to the girls' basketball game. That should be funny,'" Brenda lamented.

Marlys Mumm, a senior basketball and volleyball player, agreed that many people expect to see girls "drop the ball and kick it around."

"The girls don't like this attitude, but they respond to it with defiance and determination."

"When we play," stated Brenda, "we're under pressure to prove we're as capable as the boys. Girls have to be so good, better than people expect, because if you're only half good people say you can't do it at all. If you're not that good they expect you to fail."

"The girls are not dismayed by this treatment. They expect the boys to get more opportunity to get involved in competitive sports and more support when they do get involved."

The preferential treatment given the boys starts in grade school.

By the time they get to high school, "Boys are way ahead. Boys have been competing since they were little," Falash stated.

What starts in the lower grades continues in high school. "I've been kicked out of the gym many times," complained Elaine Hendrickson, a senior gymnast.

"When the boys come in, it's clear the court," exclaimed Mumm.

"The sophomore boys get more gym time than the girls' varsity," noted Patty Kasel, a junior basketball player.

"And we have to share the court with the sophomore girls," added Mumm.

Not only do the girls have an uphill struggle to change the athletic structure, but they also have to wade through more than their fair share of personal abuse from their high school peers.

"If you go to the weight room, they (boys) give you a hard time. They don't want you. It's not what they say to you, it's what they say to the other boys behind your back," Mumm added.

Why do some boys react this way to girl athletes?

Mumm thinks it's because "the non-athletes feel threatened."

Falash agrees. "You get that feeling from some. They're afraid we'll beat them. They don't want their ego deflated."

According to the girls, not just teenage boys but some parents of both sexes have not yet accepted girls' rights to get involved in competitive athletics.

Falash theorized that "some parents are afraid to let girls get involved in competitive sports."

Mumm said "some parents may be afraid you'll never get married."

But the girls don't spend too much of their time worrying or complaining about what other people think of them.

They haven't grown up always having the opportunity to participate in organized sports, and they don't take it for granted. They probably appreciate the chance to play more than the boys do.

Besides, the girls seem to enjoy their sports too much to do much complaining.

Mumm enjoys sports because "they keep you in shape." Falash feels athletics provide a needed balance in her life. Hendrickson derives self-confidence from her gymnastic competition, and Kasel feels her coordination has improved with competition.

All the girls say they just feel better when they are "in shape."

"They're not worried about their social image either. Mumm said, "Some boys think you have more in common if you're in athletics and they're in athletics."

Although the girls recognize the prejudices they have to contend with, they think their community is becoming more liberated.

Falash feels the boys "are getting more open-minded all the time."

But the girls wouldn't go so far as to say everything is peaches and cream. They would like to see some changes in the athletic program.

Falash received affirmative nods from the other girls when she said, "I'd like to see girls get just as much gym time, facilities and equipment as the boys. Girls' athletics is getting bigger. It's not fair that we should be second best. It's about time we started getting what we deserve. We work as hard as the boys." ("Harder," chimed in one of the other girls) and we deserve the same rights."

Fredrickson thinks everyone, not just the best girl athletes, should get more opportunity and encouragement to become involved in sports. "I wish everybody was given the chance to be in sports. Usually just the best go on and the others feel inferior and drop out," she remarked.

Mumm thinks "more intramurals" would help solve the problem.

Whatever you may think about girls playing basketball and other "boys' sports," the girls, having tasted the thrills of competition, are on the courts to stay.

Falash sums it up: "There's not much they can do about it. They're just gonna have to move over and let us in."

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Olympic skating champion Dorothy Hamill, national heroine and professional entertainer, sometimes wishes she could be left alone.

"I don't have a life to myself," the 5-foot-3, blue-eyed brunette celebrity with the short haircut said Tuesday. "Sometimes wish I did."

She has landed a lucrative contract with Ice Capades, has advertising agencies clamoring for her to do commercials, is constantly being asked for interviews by writers and broadcasters from across the country, and is working with a movie company trying to do a story of her life.

"I can't remember the last time I had two days off in a row," she said, blushing and nervously twirling her hands during a news conference in Hartford, where she is appearing in the ice show.

Hamill said she has been dating Dean Martin Jr. but has no plans for marriage and she denied reports she has tried to avoid friends, family and writers.

"I was with my parents in New York all last week. I'm being interviewed all the time and we've had lots of press conferences," she said.

"I do have more time now than I did while in amateur competition and I spend that time visiting my friends," said the Riverside, Conn., native.

Hamill said she was not aware of the excitement she created back home with her performance in the winter Olympics at Innsbruck that led to a gold medal.

"I'm still not used to all this attention. It was a total surprise to me to come home and find so many people excited."

Her still young professional career has not been boring.

"Professional skating is exciting and challenging to me. It's hard because I have to do my best every night and it's impossible to do your best every time you're on the ice," she said. "It's very difficult to do well when you just don't feel like sparkling."

"I get very nervous sometimes before I go out on the ice. Especially on opening nights."

She wished competitors in this year's world competition luck. The U.S. Figure Skating championships will be held next month in the Hartford Civic Center, where Hamill is appearing with the Ice Capades.

"For those in the nationals, it's time now to just go out and do your best. Either you know how to perform by now or you don't. Just don't get sick," she said.

Hamill said she would like to be able to watch the nation's top amateurs compete here next month but once again her whirlwind time schedule won't allow it.

"I'd like very much to be here, but..." she said, shrugging her shoulders.

McEnaney rips Eastwick deal

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Trading fellow relief pitcher Will McEnaney was an act of "stupidity," complains Cincinnati Reds ace reliever Nasty Eastwick.

"Meanwhile, Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson says he's going to ban clubhouse talk about money, contracts and playing out options on the first day of spring training."

"Eastwick, traveling with the Reds' 'Hedon' caravan," drumming up publicity surrounding cities this week, lashed out about last month's trade by the Reds that sent southpaw reliever McEnaney and first baseman Tony Perez to Montreal in exchange for pitchers Woodie Fryman and Dale Murray.

"I was surprised at the stupidity of getting rid of Will," the Cincinnati Enquirer quoted Eastwick as saying. "It kills me. Young pitchers are at a premium and he is only 25."

I know he had a bad year (in 1976), but he's a tough pitcher. Name me a better left-handed relief pitcher. There just aren't any around."

Eastwick, who hasn't yet signed his 1977 contract, also figured the Reds got Murray in case Eastwick plays out his option.

"I believe they got him only to back me up," he said.

Eastwick, who complained he was "underpaid" at $28,000 last season, said he is seeking a "four or five year" contract from the Reds.

"Talk like that will be banned from the Reds' clubhouse this season," says Anderson.

"That's one of the first things I plan to make clear when I meet with players the first day of spring training," the Cincinnati Post quoted the 42-year-old manager as saying. "If a player isn't happy with the contract he signed or the one that has been offered to him, the other players on the club shouldn't have to hear about it."

"My feeling is, he's play and settle our personal problems on our own time. As for myself, I don't know what players on the Reds are making and don't want to find out."

Lakers top Sonics

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 22 points Tuesday night as the Los Angeles Lakers posted an easy 120-109 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics in an NBA game.

The victory was the Lakers' 17th in a row at home, tying their all-time high set in their championship year of 1971-72.

All five Los Angeles starters scored in double figures and Jabbar was the leading marksman, hitting 10 of 13 from the field. It was the 24th consecutive game in which he made 50 per cent or better of his total shots.

Abdul-Jabbar hit all five of his tries in the fourth quarter, bombing off the beach after Seattle had cut a 22-point deficit in "half" with "10:55 remaining. Los Angeles restored the lead to 20 points, 100-80, with 5:50 to go.

Forward Cazzie Russell and guard Lucius Allen backed up Jabbar with 15 points and two reserves also enjoyed double figure nights for the first place Lakers.

Skater wins superstar

ROTONDA, Fla. (UPI) — Olympics speed skater Anne Henning won three more events Tuesday to capture the women's Super Stars competition and collect a total of $44,200. Henning, from Northbrook, Ill., won five and placed second in two of the seven events she entered over the two days of competition to amass a record total of 64 points. It was the second straight year she has captured the Super Stars title. Jean Balukas, the women's pocket billiards champion, finished second overall with 48 points and collected $28,400. Linda Fernandez, volleyball coach and star player, placed third with 41 points worth $27,500. Henning, competing in four events Tuesday, won the 60-yard dash, the three-quarter mile bicycle race and the obstacle course run. She placed second in the quarter mile run. On Monday, she won the swimming and rowing events.

Williams sparks win

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Guard Dwight Williams scored 17 points to lead 15th ranked Providence College to a 71-63 victory over a stubborn Niagara University team Tuesday night. The Friars, who won their 12th straight game, held a 31-25 halftime advantage before Niagara rallied. Guard Phil Scaffidi hit a jumper at the end of regulation to tie the game for Niagara at 56-all and sent the contest into overtime. Providence hit the first 10 points in the extra period and was never challenged. The Friars, 16-2 on the season, got 10 points from Joe Hassel and 13 points and 14 rebounds from Bob Miveclius. Vern Allen clipped in with 17 points for Niagara, now 9-9.

Spurs trip Suns

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Larry Kenon and George Gervin combined for 62 points to lead San Antonio to a 116-108 victory over the Phoenix Suns Tuesday night. Gervin hit seven of seven field goals in the third quarter when San Antonio outscored the Suns, 39-23, to move from a 57-51 deficit to a 90-80 lead. Kenon finished the game with 38 points and 21 rebounds. Kenon and Gervin each had 18 points in the decisive second half. Phoenix had one more field goal than the Spurs, but San Antonio converted 32 of 39 free throws while Phoenix was 22 of 26 from the line.

Suspension begins

ATLANTA (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has ordered Atlanta Braves' owner Ted Turner suspended immediately, a spokesman for the team said Tuesday. Kuhn upheld Turner's suspension "from management or advising in management of the affairs of the Atlanta Braves or engaging in any association whatsoever with any major league club or its personnel in the absence of prior authorization from this office." The Braves also lose their first-round pick in the June free agent draft. Kuhn said he would review the one-year suspension after six months. Braves' fans protested loudly over Turner's suspension for tampering in the Gary Mathews case. Specifically, Kuhn's original announcement of the suspension mentioned a statement Turner allegedly made to San Francisco owner Bob Lurie at a cocktail party. Turner was said to have told Lurie that no matter what he offered Mathews — then a Giant about to become a free agent — the Braves would top it.

Bears thump St. Mary's

BERKELEY (UPI) — Senior forward Ray Murry scored 10 points as California jumped to a 27-5 lead and the Golden Bears coasted to a 90-50 college basketball victory over St. Mary's Tuesday night. The win raised Cal's record to 5-11 and the loss dropped the Gaels to 7-9. Murry had 15 of his game-high 21 points as the Golden Bears took a 42-24 lead at half. Guard Steve Ransom then scored nine points in a 15-0 outburst at the start of the second half, making it 57-24 runaway with 14:40 remaining.

Pistons beat Celtics

BOSTON (UPI) — Chris Ford scored six straight points late in the game and Eric Money added two free throws in the final minute Tuesday night to lift the Detroit Pistons to a 91-89 victory over the Boston Celtics in a sloppily played NBA game. Boston was playing without center Dave Cowens, who suffered a twisted left ankle in Sunday's loss to Philadelphia. The Celtics, trailing early in the second quarter, overcame an eight-point, third-period deficit to jump ahead, 82-79, at 2:59 of the final period on John Havlicek's three-point play. But the Pistons scored 10 of the next 14 points, with Ford getting the final six, to surge back in front, 89-86.

Knieks belt Bulls

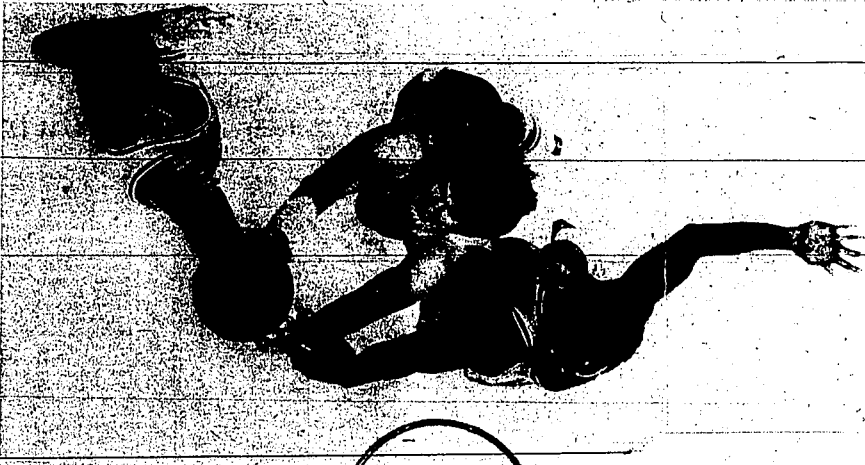

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob McAdoo scored 34 points Tuesday night to lead the New York Knicks to a 108-91 romp over the Chicago Bulls. McAdoo had 16 rebounds and seven assists as the Knicks ended a three-game losing streak. Artis Gilmore, who finished with 20 points, had 12 in the first nine minutes for the Bulls, but Tom McMillen replaced Lonnie Shelton and held the Chicago center to only four points the rest of the half as New York took a 54-38 lead at intermission. McMillen finished with 16 points and Shelton had 15.

Terps lose top gun

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — The Maryland Terps will not prove they aren't out of the Atlantic Coast Conference race at North Carolina State Thursday night, but they may have to do it without leading scorer Steve Sheppard. Coach Lefty Driessell told his weekly media luncheon Tuesday that Sheppard, a senior forward averaging 18.6 points per game, might not play because of an Achilles tendon sprain that has hampered him for two games.

Porter fined

DETROIT (UPI) — Guard Kevin Porter has been fined again by Pistons Coach Herb Brown after the two got in an argument which apparently led to a showing match which required the peacemaking skills of center Bob Lanier. "I don't want to talk about it," said Porter in a telephone conversation Monday with the Detroit Free Press. "I simply don't want to talk about the Pistons. If you want to talk about the Pistons, call Herb Brown, he's the coach." Porter did admit, however, that besides the $100 fine levied on him by Brown after he questioned why he had been taken out of Detroit's loss to Washington Sunday night, others were fined. The Washington Post reported that the 6-foot-10 Lanier stepped between Porter and Brown after Porter demanded to know why Brown pulled him from the game.

Oakley drops Minico

OAKLEY — The Oakley Hornets running game turned things totally their way in the opening quarter Tuesday night and they went on to whip Minico's Juniors 87-71. The Hornets came out breaking and in the first 73 seconds had racked up an 8-0 lead. The play also got Minico into foul trouble, which was doubled when the first five fouls — usually of the out-of-bounds variety — sent Oakley to the foul line. In the first period Oakley hit 12 of 14 free throw attempts and that helped pace the Hornets to a millicking 28-point quarter. Minico steeled thereafter but couldn't really dent Oakley's leads which reached 22 and 23 points on a couple of occasions in each half. Late in the fourth period Minico cut to within 11 points but Mark Swan hit a three-point play and Greg Gorringer plunked two field goals to stem the tide.

CBS withdraws from coverage

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS has concluded that three networks cannot find happiness as partners in an Olympic venture and has pulled out of a possible pool arrangement with NBC and ABC for coverage of the 1980 Moscow Games. CBS also announced Tuesday that it has scrapped any idea of buying sole rights to televise the Games. "On January 14, 1977, ABC, CBS and NBC sought a business review letter from the Justice Department so that the three companies could negotiate jointly for the right to cover the 1980 Olympics and further to pool the coverage of those events," said CBS President Robert J. Wussler.

imponderables, we have made the business decision not to pursue these negotiations on a unilateral basis. We believe that this unequivocal withdrawal is the right and wise course for us to take." ABC responded to the CBS withdrawal by itself pulling out of the current pool agreement in effect, but the network did not close the door altogether on a possible future pool arrangement with NBC. "In view of the CBS announcement today withdrawing from any participation in the 1980 Olympic Games, ABC considers the three-network request to the Department of Justice for a Business Review Letter concerning possible pooled coverage no longer applicable," said a network spokesman. "ABC will reassess the situation regarding coverage of the 1980 Moscow Olympics and review all courses of action open to the company. A further statement will be made at a later date." ABC has been televising the agreement with the Soviet Union to televise the Games... The SATRA agreement was seen, however, not as a granting of the actual television rights but more as a play to drive up their purchase price. The Soviets were asking $100 million for these rights—four times the $25 million paid for the 1976 Montreal Summer Olympics. NBC, however, said it believed the reasons for the pool agreement proposal were still in effect and hoped to keep the pool concept intact.

Feeder cattle growing

BOISE - Feeder cattle in Idaho as of Jan. 1 numbered 248,000, up 22 per cent from a year ago and up 33 per cent from the previous quarter.

Placements during the quarter ending Dec. 1976 numbered 153,000 head; while marketing amounted to 85,000 head compared to 95,000 for the same quarter in 1975.

Steers made up 64 per cent of the total, heifers 23 per cent, and cows and other, 3 per cent.

According to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, the number of steers in the 1,100 pounds and over class is down 9 per cent from the year before. Thirteen per cent of the total steers were in this weight group. Thirty-seven per cent were in the 900 to 1,029 pound group. Heifers 600 pounds and over numbered 24,000, 29 per cent of all heifers.

Ninety-eight thousand head of Idaho feeder cattle were marketed during the first quarter of 1976 while 130,000 are expected to be marketed the first quarter of 1977.

In the 23 major cattle feeding states surveyed on Jan. 1, 1977, by the USDA there were 11.9 million head of cattle and calves in feed for slaughter. This is 3 per cent fewer than a year ago, but 29 per cent more than on Oct. 1, 1976.

Placements in the 23 states totaled 8.75 million head for the last quarter of 1976, up 5 per cent from the same quarter of 1975.

Marketing of fed cattle for slaughter during the quarter were 5.7 million, 15 per cent more than the same period in 1976.

Steers and steer calves accounted for only two-thirds of the total on feed, the lowest in an 11 year period. Helters and heifer calves reached a record 4.07 million, up 2 per cent from a year ago, and made up 34 per cent of all feeder cattle, the highest Jan. 1 percentage in 5 years.

Valley fog prevents sight of Ol' Sol

Twin Falls, North-Side, Burley-Rupert area:
Extensive low cloudiness through Thursday with safety areas of morning fog. Chance of a few snow flurries at times. High temperatures Thursday, 25 to 30. Overnight lows tonight in the teens.

Friday's outlook, little change.
Canas Prairie, Halley and lower Wood River Valley:
Partly cloudy at times with areas of valley fog through Thursday. High temperatures Thursday, mid-20s. Overnight lows near zero.

Friday's outlook, little change.
Sunshine was quite abundant across Idaho above 6,000 feet Tuesday. Unfortunately in the valley areas fog and cloudiness was the same old story.

In the foggy areas temperatures slowly climbed to the mid-20s and the warmest spot in the Magic Valley was Hagerman with 34 degrees. The low aloft over Idaho continues out of the Northwest. This is being caused by a stationary high pressure system along the Pacific coast. This system will keep Pacific storms from entering Southern Idaho, however fog and low cloudiness is expected to continue through the remainder of the week.

The extended outlook for Friday through Sunday calls for mostly dry weather with some foggy areas. Temperatures to continue below normal. Highs 25 to 30 and overnight lows in the teens.

Idaho farmers propose rebates

HONOLULU (UPI) - Angry Idaho farmers Monday urged the National Association of Wheat Growers to offer housewives rebates for the wheat used in their expensive loaves of bread.

The Latah County delegation at the wheat growers meeting said they knew of no other way to combat the "cost, deception and misunderstandings that have blackened the reputation of America's wheat farmers."

Jay Nelson of Moscow, Idaho, said the repayment plan wouldn't cost much, "only about three cents a loaf."

Using Department of Agriculture statistics, the Idaho farmers said every 45-cent loaf of bread sold in Latah County contained less than three cents worth of wheat.

"If the housewife is paying more than 45 cents," said Don Morton, "somebody else is increasing their profit, as that loaf will still contain only three cents worth of our wheat — at least that's our share of the cost of wheat at its present $2.58 a bushel price."

Elvin Lindsay, who harvests some 800 acres in Latah County said if wheat prices were doubled to $5 a bushel, the cost to the housewife would increase but a penny a loaf. "That would be the additional cost of the wheat that went into her loaf of bread."

The delegation said the Agriculture Department statistics showed that when wheat reached the abnormal high of $6 a bushel two years ago, there was still only six cents worth of wheat in each loaf.

"The farmers have been maligned for the high prices of bakery goods," said Nelson, "and we have been unfairly blamed for reaping excessive profits while the truth is we are going broke. There is not a wheat farmer in America who is not losing money at the present $2.50 a bushel wheat."

To illustrate their point the Idaho farmers inaugurated a "cash for the wheat you eat program in Moscow. For every bread wrapper brought into the Chambers of Commerce, they repaid the bearer the price of the wheat contained in that 45-cent loaf — three cents.

"And that was a slight overpayment," Morton said, "as it actually was 2.9 cents per penny loaf."

Newspaper ads also urged Idaho housewives to "buy back all the wheat in the bread you eat" and a bushel basket of pennies was placed along-side the basket of wheat when the payouts were made. So far, they said, less than $30 had been paid out from the bushel basket of pennies.

"There always is a time lag in the price drop of a product compared to the drop in the raw materials," Lindsay said. "But the bottom dropped out of wheat prices more than a year ago, yet there has been no appreciable decrease in the prices of bakery goods. Denied if we know why. Somebody along the line must figure the people are used to paying high prices for bread, so they gouge them and then blame it all on the farmer."

Idaho pea crop declines in '76

BOISE - Idaho's pea crop declined again in 1976. Compared to 1975, last year's production of dry edible peas dropped 14 per cent. Austrian winter pea production fell to the lowest since 1953, and lentils output was down 17 per cent from 1975.

The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, in its annual summary released Jan. 19, put the dry edible pea crop at 826,000 cwt., down 14 per cent from 1974, but the 1975 yield was 1,720 pounds per acre, the highest since 1971.

The yield for Austrian winter peas was 620 pounds per acre, the lowest on record, which dates back to 1949. Production totaled 68,000 cwt. for 1976, greatly below the 270,000 cwt. produced in 1975.

Idaho farmers produced 248,000 cwt. of lentils, down 17 per cent.

Wrinkle seed pea production was 340,000 cwt., 47 per cent below that of 1975.

In Idaho and Washington, the Alaska pea crop totaled 1,775 cwt. in 1976, down 21 per cent from 1975, and "Canadian" peas totaled 375 cwt., down from 459 cwt.

Production of dry peas in both states, excluding Austrian winter and wrinkled seed peas, was estimated at 2,150 cwt., 20 per cent below 1975 and 31 per cent below 1974.

A cool wet spring last year delayed planting, but farmers made "excellent progress" following the summary said. There was a hail storm which caused some severe damage, especially in Latah County. At harvest some peas did not grade well because of bleaching from late rains, according to the summary.

Citrus shipments up

FRASNO, Calif. (UPI) - Citrus shipments from the San Joaquin Valley have increased briskly in the past few days, because of the freeze in the Florida citrus belt.

A spokesman for Sunbelt Growers said Monday Sunbelt was scrambling to meet the demands of fresh fruit retailers throughout the nation since Florida imposed a 10-day embargo on fresh fruit shipments because of last week's killing freeze.

Officials said there were three price increases of 25-cents a carton on California citrus since the freeze. But the retail price will not be drastically affected because there is so much fruit available in California, they added.

Cost cut focus for Monfort

GREELEY, Colo. (UPI) - Sam Addoms, president of Monfort of Colorado, said the company will concentrate on efforts to reduce some of its $75 million operating costs this year in view of the fact market prices for cattle remain down.

Addoms said about half of the operating costs were flexible enough for the company to have some control over them.

The operating expenditures listed by Addoms did not include corn and feeder-cattle costs, however, those costs have been largely responsible for the firm's losses in the past three quarters, he said.

Monfort reported a loss of $358 million in fiscal 1976 and a loss of $621,000 in the first fiscal quarter of 1977, which ended Nov. 27.

Addoms told stockholders at an annual meeting that the firm will work on cost reduction, controls and improvement of information, regardless of the market for livestock or finished meat products.

WE'RE SORRY ABOUT THE FRYERS!!

You have a right to know what happened to the fresh fryers we promised you for 39¢ a pound during the "Thank-you" sale.

Well in advance, our suppliers committed more than enough fryers to really cover the needs of our customers. Just hours before the sale was to begin, with the newspaper ad already published, only a small part of the fryers ordered had arrived.

A frantic check revealed that below-normal temperatures had frozen much of the fryer industry in the main producing areas of the Southeast part of the country to temporarily close down.

Our supply of fryers for the sale was cut off abruptly. We did everything we could, but could not combat the forces of nature to bring you the fryers promised. We're sorry and we apologize.

We gladly give rain checks when we run out of anything. I know you'd rather have had the chickens, but if you did pick up a rain check we'll honor it as soon as we get the product.

Our buyers have promised me another fresh fryer special just as soon as the industry starts moving again. Thank you for understanding. We want to be your favorite store.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a single 24-year-old woman who lives with her family. I love my family and they love me. I have plenty of room and I feel that I belong here. Some of my friends hear that I don't have my own place and they ask what's wrong with me. Why, why do so many young people leave perfectly perfect homes to move into a cramped, crummy apartment just to "get away" from home? I have a good job and insist on contributing financially to the home, so it's not as if I'm freeloading. I can move out any time I want to, but I like it here. There's something wrong with me? I know others who also live at home, but they seem embarrassed by it. LOVE MY HOME

'Home' preferred

DEAR LOVE: There is nothing wrong with you. And there is nothing wrong with people who prefer their own lives. Different strokes for different folks.

DEAR ABBY: I hope that you will print this letter to other working wives. My husband and I lived in a comfortable house in the suburbs. We have two young children.

For a long time I had asked my husband to hire a live-in housekeeper, but he was never very fond of the idea. Then one of the blues he suggested hiring this girl, (I'll call her Betty.) I thought she was too young, but my husband said it would be good for the kids. Good as she was for the boys she was better for him. We are now divorced. I hope you get the message. CLEANING ALONE

DEAR CLEANING: So what's the message? That no one can be trusted with a female domestic under 70? No, I don't buy it. The message I get from your letter is that YOUR husband can't be trusted, period.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who constantly complains about her health. She never feels "up to" doing anything, except when something comes along that she really wants to do.

She is constantly talking about her symptoms, medication and visits to the doctor. Her case is always the same, or the most complicated the doctor has ever seen, according to her.

I have listened to her for years and have had enough. I need to try to pick up her spirits, but it takes too much time and energy, and I just can't handle it. Believe me, I've tried. Others feel the same way about her.

How can I tell her without hurting her feelings that she is avoiding her because of her constant whining? Or do you think she's beyond help? HER NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Nobody is beyond help. At least make the effort. Tell her in the spirit of love and generosity. And give her this priceless poem by Wheeler Wilson, which I recently published in this column.

HEALTH
Talk health. The dreary, never ending tale of mortal maladies are worn and stale. You cannot charm or flatter or please by harping on that minor chord—disease. So, say that you are well, and all is well with you. And God will hear your words and make them true.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb,
Lately I have been on a diet, consisting of yogurt, diet cola and one meal at dinner time. I have lost some weight and my complexion is improving. Do you think that this unsupervised diet is wise?

Also, I recently read that washing one's face with plain yogurt can enhance the beauty of the skin and clear up blemishes, even more so than taking it internally. Do you recommend this sort of cleansing? Please tell me its value.

Dear Reader,
I am sure people who sell yogurt would be delighted with the treatment and it might help them a great deal. It would do nothing for you. You might get some moisturizing effect that you could get from any oil or cream. If you should be using such a substance at all.

Most complex problems in young people are related to acne problems. To clear up your skin from these problems you need to keep your skin clean, and keep it free of any oily creams or lotions. Acne can be treated in most cases and it may require taking medicine. To give you a better understanding of acne problems and to keep you from making it worse instead of better, I am sending you The Health Letter #2, Acne Can Be Treated. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10015.

Whether or not your diet plan is safe and sound depends entirely what is in that one meal a day you eat. There is a good chance that your diet is inadequate. The way to eliminate excess weight and keep it off is to learn enough about sensible dieting to be able to follow a balanced caloric control diet for life that fits with your lifestyle. I am sending you The Health Letter number 17, Weight Losing Diet that will help you.

Dear Dr. Lamb,
I am 62 years old and about four years ago I contracted a heart condition and can no longer work. My problem is this terrible cough I have. The doctors say it is due to a heart condition, but I can't see how because I have had this cough for 20 years and the heart condition is recent. I cough sometimes for hours until my chest is sore.

Would you please comment? Incidentally, I haven't smoked for over 20 years.

Dear Reader,
When the pumping action of the heart is not strong enough, fluid accumulates in the tissues. This can cause swelling of the feet and ankles or even the abdomen. When the left side of the heart is affected—and it is usually affected first in many forms of heart disease—the fluid accumulates in the lungs. The swelling of the lung tissues results in coughing to clear the lungs of fluid that has accumulated in the tiny air sacs.

I dare say your cough was not as bad 20 years ago as it is now or you would have done more about it sooner. Your doctors probably think that even though you have had a cough for 20 years that it is now worse because of your heart condition.

If your heart is the cause of your cough you should be on a salt restricted diet and should be taking medicine to help your body eliminate salt and also on medicine to strengthen your heart—the digitalis type medicines.

ANDREW Davis, Armington, Ill., brushes off the snow as he selects a log to take inside his cave home heated by a Franklin stove. Compared to a $167 monthly heating bill he received prior to moving into the home, Davis expects his costs this winter will be $129, the cost of gas, and all for his chain saw used to cut his wood. (UPI)

Fuel costs cut

ANDREW Davis adds a log to the only furnace in his cave home, a Franklin stove. Mrs. Davis and visiting grandchildren, Amanda, Travis and Marcy Demling, find the hillside cave with stone walls and carpeted floors comfortably warm. (UPI)

Cave home

Family rebels, moves to cave

Chicago Sun-Times

ARMINGTON, Ill.—Andrew Davis, a soft-spoken electrician, was shocked last winter when he received a $167 gas bill to heat his modest frame home. Now he lives in a cave with his wife, three daughters and son and pays his heating bill with pocket change.

"Davis' Cave," as the rockfall sign beside their hill proclaims it, has cave walls to cave wall carpeting, furlined archways from chamber to chamber, sunlight filtering through its stonewall ceiling and soft, comfortable cave couches to lie on.

"They haven't yet finished connecting their piped-in stereo. What started as an act of rebellion has evolved into their realization of the American Dream."

"The Davises built their home—a cave dug in the side of a hill of weeds—for about $15,000. "Five dollars will pay to heat this place for the winter," Davis boasted, as the wind chill factor hovered around 30 degrees below zero outside one day recently. "That's all it takes to keep my business running."

The two-bedroom cave home, heated by a wood-burning Franklin stove, stays a toasty 70 degrees, even in the dead of winter.

The Davises rebelled last February after receiving the big natural gas heating bill for their rented house in the middle of town.

"It was that hot day last summer when Davis had his brainstorm. "I was in some abandoned mining town in Arkansas," he recalled, "and it was more than 100 degrees out. I wandered into an old mine shaft and it was nice and cool."

It was then and there that Davis decided to go underground. "I came back home and sat in my chair for two weeks and just thought," he said, "There ain't no caves around here and nobody's done this sort of thing, so I have to design my own."

One step inside Davis' cave and his creativity and success become obvious. The home is dimly lit. Its walls of thousands of odd-shaped rocks set in concrete. Cow bones stick out of the bathroom wall, serving as towel racks and soap dishes near the black sunken bath tub. Small holes in the rock ceiling illuminate the large dining and living area, giving the appearance of sunlight filtering through the cracks of a prehistoric cave.

"Before we moved the furniture in, this place looked exactly like an old cave," Davis said. "I eventually plan on building my own wood furnace, maybe get a big flat boulder for the kitchen table."

His thick cave-man-like beard hiding his face, the 48-year-old Davis rested his legs on a tree stump footstool while explaining his cave motif.

"I wanted to make it as modern as possible and still have it look like a cave. The bones are part of it. Some folks thought it was in bad taste but we don't see anything wrong."

A large-screen color television is next to the cowbone footstool on the front door, and eight-foot archway covered with thick synthetic fur.

An electronic, radar range, dishwasher and garbage disposal give his wife, Margaret, the latest appliances in the cave kitchen. "She's raised nine kids," Davis said. "I wanted her to have it a little easier."

Just four children remain at home and they are enjoying their nontraditional dwelling.

"It hasn't changed the way we live one single bit," said Jim, 18.

"The girls were all upset about it at first," Mrs. Davis said. "They were worried about kids making jokes, calling them Flintstones and things."

But seeing the cave in a school newsreel made the girls—aged 14, 12 and 11—"proud of their home," she added.

If living in a cave hasn't affected the kids, it has their dad. He plans on selling his design and eventually going into the cave-building business.

Appearances on the major television networks led to a deluge of letters to Davis from as far away as Korea and Vietnam. The letters and visitors—more than 200 during some summer weekends—convinced Davis that cavehouses might be a remedy for skyrocketing fuel costs.

"We just wish we'd done it earlier," Davis said. "We'd be well-to-do by now with all the money we'd have saved."

TV networks juggle weekend programs

© N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK—For the millions to whom favorite television programs are visits to old friends, the social landscape of the weekend is drastically changing. "Kojak" and "The Jeffersons" have moved out. "Rhoda," "Phyllis," "Switch" and "Executive Suite" have all moved in.

"In the coming weeks a raft of new weekend shows will arrive, among them Nancy Walker's new situation comedy, "Mrs. Blansky's Beauties," and Abe Vigoda's spinoff from "Barney Miller," entitled simply "Fish." These will be ABC entries replacing "Wonder Woman" on Saturdays at 8 p.m.

Because of the new competitive maneuvers of the networks in their quest for rating points, devotees of television who found comfort in knowing that the same programs would appear in the same time periods weekend after weekend now must adapt to a new community of shows.

Viewing habits have been jarred by the networks many times before, but never on such a scale in the middle of a television season.

All the transplanting of shows may seem capricious to the viewer, but CBS programmers support each of their moves with a rationale. The problem with the previous weekend schedule, they say, is that the programs were not precisely compatible with each other—that is, they did not carry the same elements of the audience from one hour to the next. In the revised CBS lineup, critical attention has been paid to what the programmers call "audience flow."

Harvey Shephard, vice president of program planning for CBS and one of the network's principal strategists, observes that "60 Minutes"—which bloomed into a top-rated show this season—sets the tone for Sunday evening on CBS and is the key to the changes. In the original September schedule, the news-magazine series was followed by "Sonny and Cher" and then by "Kojak."

"The pieces didn't fit, didn't harmonize," Shephard said. "60 Minutes' attracts a mature and sophisticated audience—people over the age of 35, mainly—and it was wrong to follow it with 'Sonny and Cher,' which appeals to younger viewers. "We found also that the audience for 'Sonny and Cher' was not the ideal audience to bring to 'Kojak,' which is a realistic and serious police show."

"Kojak" has been disappointing in the ratings this season, and Shephard said the network still isn't sure why, but that it may have suffered from a poor lead-in or from the competition of NBC's "Big Event" and ABC's movie.

"It's still a well-produced show of exceptional quality, and we think we may be able to bring it back to form by putting it in on Tuesday nights at 10, where the competition is weaker and where it will have a strong lead-in from 'M-A-S-I' and 'One Day at a Time,'" Shephard said.

"Switch," a detective series with Eddie Albert and Robert Wagner, has replaced "Kojak" on Sundays because, Shephard said, "it is more lighthearted and probably more appropriate to Sundays as a night for family viewing."

"Kojak" had been the keystone of a successful Sunday night bill for CBS for three years. "Switch" was a Tuesday night entry.

To guide the flow of the CBS audience from "60 Minutes" to "Switch," the network strategists have tapped the established Monday situation-comedy parody of "Rhoda" and "Phyllis."

"These are sophisticated shows, more compatible with '60 Minutes' than 'Sonny and Cher' had been," Shephard said.

"We have a much better chance now of carrying the '60 Minutes' audience through the evening."

Friday night, he said, has been reorganized with a view to reaching younger people who predominate at the television set on an evening when older adults usually go out socially. The networks skip of Friday, demographically, as "heavy sitter night."

The new "Code 11" at 8 p.m. is intended as an action show for the young and "Sonny and Cher" in the next hour is considered likely to also carry along that program's audience. It is also expected to pass some of those viewers on to "Executive Suite," which now comes next in the schedule.

CB unit sets fete

HOLLISTER — The local chapter of I-80 Control, a national CB organization, will present a CB radio to the Hollister Port of Entry Friday at 3:45 p.m.

The gift is made possible by the donations of motorists who took advantage of the club's free coffee and cookies supplied at the port during holiday weekends last year.

The club meets at the old Grange Hall on Idaho-74 near Hollister every month. Volunteers from the group serve free coffee, punch and cookies to travelers at the port of entry at Hollister several holiday weekends each year. Other I-80 clubs perform this service at rest stops along the interstate.

I-80 Control also assists motorists who have mechanical troubles or need lodging or other assistance. The club also sets up weather watches and gives road conditions to motorists. Volunteers monitor the radio 24 hours a day to give out information and assistance.

Walt Hanby will receive the radio for the port, Hanby along with Mrs. Dale Eldredge, Buhl; Paul Selmitt, Buhl, and Mrs. Laurene Peterson, Filer, are representatives for the club. Mrs. Jean Burns, Twin Falls, the district representative for I-80 Control, will also attend the presentation.

A thought for the day: Irish poet, wit and dramatist Oscar Wilde said, "There is only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about."

KH miss to serve as Senate page

She is among eight girls and two boys selected from throughout the state of Idaho by the Senate members to serve as pages.

Each page is assigned to four senators on a regular basis and at times may work with as many as eight. They keep folders on individual bills up to date, running errands and messages, working as "portable" offices. They work about eight hours daily, longer if needed.

Knox, a senior at Glennis Ferry High School, gets her assignments on her school work on the weekends, and mails them in when completed, thus keeping up her educational requirements. She works on her studies during committee meetings in the Senate.

According to her mother, they feel that she is receiving a great learning opportunity through this experience.

Janie is living with her sister, Anna Knox.

Jerome couple exchanges vows in double ring rites

JEROME — Ramona Johnson Asplau and Carl Johnson exchanged vows in a double ring ceremony at the Moose Lodge in Jerome.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Asplau and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin D. Jones, all Jerome.

Maurice J. Reid performed the double-ring ceremony. Baskets of white mums and blue carnations, and decorations of crepe paper and wedding bells formed the setting for the wedding.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an evening-length gown of white satin with a shimmer overskirt. Venice lace trim offset the high fitted bodice and edged the hemline which extended to a chapel train. The butterfly sleeves were of shimmer oversatin.

Her mantle veil of tulle was secured by a headpiece of satin with tulle. Her hair was styled in blue carnations and white carnations.

The bride wore a blue stone necklace borrowed from her sister-in-law, Karrie Asplau. Sheila Goetz, Jerome, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Lynn Walker and Patty Pearson, both Jerome.

John Nutsch, Jerome, was best man and ushers were John Asplau Jr., brother of the bride, and Paul Jones, brother of the bridegroom, both Jerome.

Prelude music was provided by Ron Thorne. He also sang solo.

The four tiered white wedding cake which centered the bride's table was decorated with blue roses and blue trim. It was topped with a bride and bridegroom. The cake was made by the bridegroom's mother.

Mrs. Milton Olander and Mrs. Pete Arossa, aunts of the bride, cut and served the cake. Mrs. John Asplau Jr. was at the punch bowl with Mrs. Doug Pendleton, cousin of the bride, pouring coffee. Also assisting at the reception table was Ann Vaeder, cousin of the bride.

Ruth Henley was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Wesley Dryden and

Mrs. Roger Nutsch, sisters of the bridegroom, were in attendance.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Wood's Cafe in Jerome.

A pre-nuptial shower was given by Karrie Asplau. Out-of-town guests were from Wendell, Gooding, Hagerman, Twin Falls, Kimberly, Murlough, Shelley, Pocatello and Heyburn and Kearns, Utah.

The couple now resides at their home in Jerome.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Where lives there a man who can survive in the woods with nothing but a book of matches and a good sharp knife? That's what I asked. A Seattle gentleman says he will gladly accept the challenge. But without the matches and without the knife. With only a pair of overalls, in fact. Not even any shoes. "Nothing to it," says he, "after the first couple days, life would be fat and sassy."

It's commonly believed the Great Wall of China was built to keep the Mongolian soldiers out. That's not right, not quite. It was the Mongolian horses the Chinese wanted to keep out. Without their horses, those Mongolian soldiers weren't all that much of a threat.

GLASS

Q. "What's the difference between ordinary window glass and plate glass?"

A. When ordinary window glass leaves that long cooling oval behind the lehr, it's already finished, transparent, ready to be installed. But plate glass isn't. Its surfaces have to be ground and polished before it becomes transparent.

Q. "How many U. S. presidents served at one time or another without a vice president?"

A. Ten. First was John Tyler. Last, Gerald Ford.

Q. "What's the name Israel mean?"

A. Literally? "Prince of God."

THE HARD FACTS

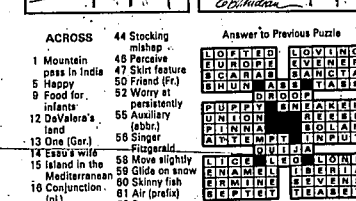

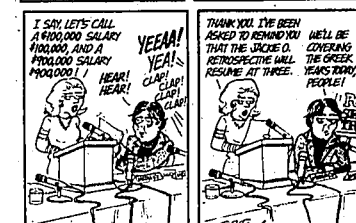

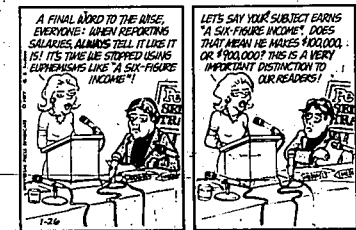

What are your statistical chances of being murdered? Just one in 20,000 now... If you ate like a hummingbird, proportionately by weight, you'd put away maybe 75 pounds of food a day... It was none other than Washington Irving who first described our coin of the realm as "the Almighty Dollar"... The American Medical Association estimates about 60,000 doctors nationwide "misuse" drugs personally... In Russia, reports our Language man, vodka is water and vodka is little water.

Inasmuch as his names were Dwight and David, it's a mystery why the late President Eisenhower was known by many as "Dauntless Don" during his West Point days.

When the queen-bee dies and no other queen shows up to run the hive, you can figure the workers and drones will only survive about six days. A keeper of long experience told me that. He says the forsaken insects forget to eat. In their grief, no doubt. Am passing the report along to our Love and War man for his birds-and-bee file.

System tested

KIMBERLY'S new 250,000 gallon water storage tank and the connecting distribution system were undergoing final tests last week. The system, financed with a $150,000 general obligation bond, is designed to meet community growth for the foreseeable future. The system was expected to be in full service early in the week, depending on tests and minor adjustments.

Gem project funds eyed

WASHINGTON — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, said today the Bureau of Reclamation is asking $1.275 million out of the new 1978 budget for advance planning projects in Idaho, and in portions of Wyoming, Montana, Oregon and Washington. Wholly within Idaho, feasibility investigation requests were made in the budget for a third power unit at Anderson Ranch Dam in the amount of $125,000; $150,000 for planning enlargement at the Mindoka Dam, and $100,000 planning funds for the Upper Snake River project. Hansen said the bureau asked for $250,000 for continuing water management studies in Idaho.

Partly within the state, the Bureau proposes $160,000 in feasibility study money for the Upper Snake River project (Oakley Fan Division); $250,000 for Upper Snake River Management study (Idaho and Wyoming), and $240,000 to study environmental and interagency coordination activities in the Pacific Northwest region including Idaho.

State tax intake increases in '76

WASHINGTON, D.C. — State tax collections in all 50 states totaled $89.3 billion in fiscal 1976, an increase of 11.3 per cent over the $80.2 billion collected in fiscal 1975.

According to a report issued Tuesday by the Bureau of the Census, sales and gross receipts taxes continue to be the major tax revenue source for states, amounting to $47.4 billion in 1976 or 53.1 per cent of all state tax revenue.

These were divided as follows: general sales and gross receipts taxes, $27.3 billion, and selective sales and gross receipts taxes, $20.1 billion.

State individual income taxes, the second largest source of state tax revenue, totaled $21.5 billion in fiscal 1976, up 14 per cent over 1975, the report said. Individual income taxes are collected in 44 states. Corporate net income taxes also increased to a total of $7.3 billion in 1976, up 9.3 percent from the previous year.

State motor fuel tax revenue increased by 4.9 per cent in fiscal 1976 compared to 0.6 per cent increase in fiscal 1974-75. More than one-half of all state revenue was collected in eight states: The leaders and totals collected were: California, $10.8 billion; New York, $9.8 billion; Pennsylvania, $5.1 billion; Illinois, $4.8 billion; Texas, $4.2 billion; Michigan, $3.8 billion; Ohio, $3.3 billion, and Florida, $2.9 billion.

Tax revenues increased in all states from fiscal 1975 to 1976 with 48 states showing gains of 5 per cent or more. This reflects a significant shift compared with data for fiscal year 1974-75 when two states showed decreases in tax collections and 12 states showed increases of less than 5 per cent.

AMC remains in trouble

DETROIT (UPI) — The meager $1.2 million profit recorded by ailing American Motors Corp. in the final three months of 1976 was a sharp reversal from earlier in the year, but the smallest of the U.S. automakers still is not out of the financial woods.

The firm had lost a record $51.1 million in the final quarter of its 1976 fiscal year that ended last Sept. 30 and was in the red for the full year by $46.3 million. Its report Monday for the first quarter of its 1977 fiscal year carried optimistic statements from Chairman Roy D. Chapin Jr. and President William Luneburg that actions in the past couple of months may restore the No. 4 auto company to profitability.

But at least half of the October-December profit — $600,000 — was due to fluctuations in the currency exchange rates that made its foreign operations more profitable than they might have been.

AMC still is faced with slumping sales of its small cars despite price cuts and cash rebates and must come up with enough cash by the end of February to pay off $20 million in notes to a Swiss bank. It is trying to sell a partially unused stamping plant in South Charleston, W. Va., to Volkswagen of America to raise the cash.

Statement available

BOISE — The proposed land use plan and draft environmental impact statement for the South Fork Salmon River Planning Unit are now available for public review and comment.

According to William P. Gee, planning coordinator, the proposed land use plan and draft environmental impact statement were transmitted by the U.S. Forest Service to the Council on Environmental Quality on Jan. 12.

A limited number of copies of the plan and statement, as well as a condensed popularized version or summary, are available upon request.

A surprise retirement ceremony was arranged for Chief Bradley by P.O. Joe Kurpaleski and C.P.O. Neil Cedstrom. He was presented a U.S. Navy Union Jack by local navy recruiters and the Magic Valley Mobil Fleet.

Chief Bradley enlisted in the navy in 1957 at Salmon, and served aboard the U.S.S. Kidd from 1958 to 1960, the USS St. Paul for the next two years and then the U.S.S. Kyes from 1960 to 1961.
