Tax, job bills face vetoes

BOISE—Gov. John V. Evans said Wednesday he will veto the bill to cut the eight-mill county school levy to four mills.

Evans also said he probably will veto a right-to-work bill if it reaches his desk.

Evans' bid to cut County Democrats' Wednesday he will veto the tax relief bill despite political maneuvering by Republican legislators who have pushed the measure.

But the sponsor of the property tax relief bill, Evans plans to veto, says the governor has in effect forced a tax increase on the Idahoans.

Rep. Gordon Hofffield, R-Jerome, criticized the veto and said the governor has gone back on his pledge not to increase taxes.

"On Feb. 2 Gov. Evans said we didn't need a tax increase," Hofffield said, referring to the governor's state-of-the-state message.

"Eight days later he vetoed the very thing he said he didn't want," Hofffield said.

The Jerome Republican claimed the veto of the tax relief bill will raise the property taxes paid by home owners. For each of the past three years, the legislature has passed temporary four-mill tax relief bills.

Evans said he felt the GOP was trying to sell him up politically to veto the tax relief measure as "the first major decision of his young administration and he said, 'TU do the job necessary — I'll like the ballot.'"

But Hofffield disagreed that the Republicans were trying to politicize the tax issue.

"Evans is the one who injected politics into this issue," Hofffield said.

The four-mill tax relief bill sponsored by Hofffield meant Idaho homeowners would pay between $14 and $30 less on their property tax if they lived in a house with a market value of between $20,000 and $40,000.

The major measure also meant that about $6.8 million which would have been raised by reinstatement of the four-mill property tax and given to public schools would have to have been taken out of sales tax and pro-income tax revenues.

Democrats in both houses of the legislature opposed the tax relief proposal, contending the $7.8 million it would take out of the general fund to replace revenues lost locally would go primarily to industry, utilities and large private landowners.

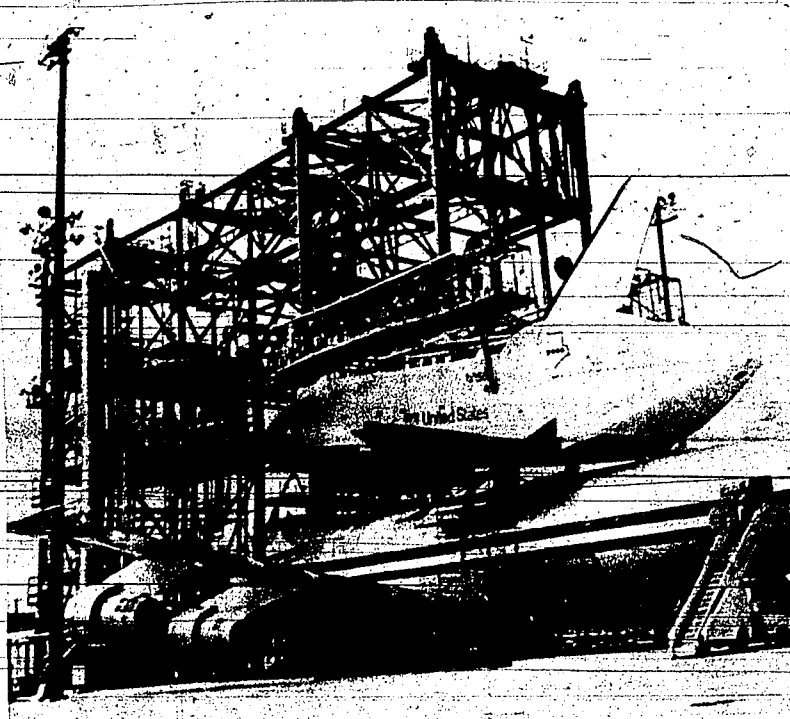

"They said the move would hurt educational appropriations and would serve primarily as a re-election gimmick for Republicans," Evans called for a strengthened statewide party organization but stopped short of calling for resignation of Chairman Debie Fleck of Idaho Falls. Earlier, Senate Minority Leader C. C. Chase, D-SI, Marles, said he felt she should quit the job.

Evans told some 300 union workers at a bean and barbecue dinner Wednesday evening they can "rest assured I'm with you all the way" on the right-to-work issue. Later he said that statement means he "probably" will veto the bill.

The dinner was held at the State AFL-CIO Labor Temple about three hours before a public hearing on the controversial right-to-work bill. Workers came from throughout the state to testify at the hearing.

"It's grand you can take time out of your job to show an interest in this matter," Evans told those attending the dinner.

SPACE SHUTTLE orbiter is fitted atop a modified Boeing 747 at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and will be flown to various National Aeronautics and Space Administration facilities around the country for a year-long flight-testing program. After that, it will be returned to Earth where it will land much like a conventional airplane. (UPI)

Oily dirt into pit

BLUM—Officials said today roughly 8,000 cubic yards of dirt, saturated with oil from a spill near here last month, is being buried in a gravel pit about six miles northwest of here.

A bulldozer, being used to clear land, cut a diesel fuel line which runs from Salt Lake City to Boise last month, spilling almost 100,000 gallons of diesel fuel. Some of the fuel reached the Snake River.

Mike Sawyers, Boise Bureau of Land Management official, said today workers for Chevron Pipeline Co., owners of the broken pipe, were using 10 dump trucks to carry oil-ridden soil to the 20 to 30 acres of gravel pits on BLM land about eight miles from the spill area.

The saturated dirt is being moved to prevent it from being later washed into the Snake River, he said. No leaching of the oil from the dirt is expected in the gravel pits, he said.

Chevron officials reported earlier they had managed to pump up some 42,000 gallons of spilled oil, leaving an estimated 54,000 gallons still in the ground.

Chevron officials earlier said they expect mop-up operations to conclude Friday.

After the spill about 12:30 p.m., Jan. 22, the fuel ran downhill about three-quarters of a mile into Mud Creek, traveling an additional 1 1/2 miles downstream to the Snake River.

Officials reported sighting oil from the spill in the Snake River as far away as the Oquillon Bridge near Hagerman, more than 10 miles from the break.

Pilot jolted

TWIN FALLS—A Twin Falls businessman flying his single-engine plane back home got a surprise when he landed at Twin Falls Wednesday night.

The plane's landing gear failed to come down, causing the plane to skid to a stop on its belly.

The pilot, David Hutchins, owner of Hutch's Building Emporium, said he doesn't know whether he forgot to put down his landing gear or whether the equipment malfunctioned.

No one was hurt in the 8 p.m. crash. There was no immediate estimate of damage to the $13,000 plane, which suffered a bent propeller and a scratched belly.

Anti-strike bill dies in committee

By CHRIS PECK
Times News writer

BOISE—The House Education Committee, including the president of the Idaho School Boards Association, today killed a bill designed to discourage strikes among Idaho school teachers.

The tough anti-strike bill died in committee this morning despite the pleas of its author, Twin Falls Rep. Tom Silvers.

Before the 107 vote to hold the bill indefinitely in committee, Silvers said he would be willing to soften the anti-strike provisions in his bill.

But the education committee wouldn't listen. One of those who voted against the bill was Rep. Lawrence Knigge, R-Filer, president of the Idaho School Boards Association.

Though remaining silent during the hearings afterwards Knigge said, "I didn't hear one bit of support for this bill in its present form from my district."

Silvers' bill severely limited the items which teachers could negotiate.

The legislation also spelled out stiff penalties if a teacher went out on strike. These penalties included:

- loss of job for the striking teacher.
- an salary increase for three years for striking teachers rehired by a school board.
- a five-year probation without tenure for any striking teachers in a school system.

Silvers today urged the skeptical Education Committee to allow his bill simply to be held for amendments in committee.

"Silvers said he realized his bill was too strong as written, but added, "If I had started with just a slap on the wrist, this bill wouldn't have gotten any attention."

"I'm perfectly willing to sit down and discuss with the committee ways to work out these problems," Silvers added.

But the Education Committee, which includes two school teachers, wouldn't have it.

Rep. Dorothy Reynolds, D-Caldwell, and Rep. Darryl Sallaz, D-Boise, bitterly opposed the Silvers bill.

Reynolds called the proposal, "an anti-people bill" and insisted that it be held in committee.

Sallaz, a Boise teacher, severely criticized the provisions of the Silvers bill which said selection of textbooks and curriculum were not subject to negotiation.

Sallaz called these provisions dangerous to students' freedom.

Rep. Lyndon Bateman, R-Idaho Falls, spoke on behalf of the bill.

Bateman, not a member of the Education

Committee, but a teacher at Bonneville High School, said he thought teachers were controlled by the Idaho Education Association, which he called a union.

While Silvers got the support of Rupert Rep. Mack Neuhar, one other Magic Valley legislator in addition to Knigge could not support the anti-strike bill.

Rep. Ernest Hale, R-Burley, told Silvers he didn't want to "start meddling" with the Idaho teacher negotiation procedures.

"Nothing we can do will work perfectly," Hale said, "but what we have now yurks pretty well in most cases."

Idaho law presently outlines no sanctions against striking teachers and does not address the question of what items are negotiable between school boards and teachers.

Tabasco taste turns off coyotes

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI)—Ranchers who want to protect their sheep from man-eating coyotes may soon be spraying their flocks with synthetic tabasco sauce.

Scientific studies indicate the coyotes like their mutton in the raw. They don't like it seasoned.

"The University of Wyoming, working with a $100,000 federal grant from the Agriculture Research Service, is developing the chemical seasonings, including the synthetic tabasco sauce. About 500 different chemical compounds have been tested so far, but only about to have actually been applied to sheep in test situations.

"The most successful chemical used so far is undoubtedly l-lysine, the synthetic compound which tastes like tabasco sauce.

Scientists theorize that once coyotes realize the mutton in the area has taken on a hot-bitter taste, they will move on to other game.

"The coyotes actually have to explore the sheep a little bit—not just smell," said Robert McCulloch, dean of the UW graduate school and supervisor of the project.

"They'll try to take a bite of the sheep and then immediately back off. If they get enough, they'll try to get water or try to rub their muzzle in the dust. Then they tend to leave that animal alone."

McCulloch said the researchers tried some other tastes, including some with bitter flavors and cinnamon oil.

But the compound similar to tabasco sauce was the most promising.

"It's the most stable," he said. "We've got it now where it can last for about six months."

The compounds are tested first by applying them to meat fed to the coyotes. If the meat is rejected, the compound is then sprayed on lambs which are released. Lambs with hungry coyotes. Those compounds which have been previously successful in tests in the pen are being tested further on sheep herds in their natural environment.

McCulloch said coyotes for the tests have been supplied by a rancher who provides the animals by "chasing their own sheep" and then releasing them. They are hungry, but they are manageable and wrestles them to the ground.

"He's got scars all over him, but he says he likes it," McCulloch said.

Almo rancher enters hall of fame

H.E. "TED" KING honored

TWIN FALLS—H.E. "Ted" King, 83, who operated a cattle ranch in the Almo area for 54 years, has been named to the Idaho Livestock Hall of Fame. He will be honored Feb. 22 at the annual Hall of Fame banquet here.

King, who started working for his father on several ranches and finally on the family ranch near Almo, took over sole operation of the ranch in 1924 and operated it continuously until his retirement in 1965.

Born Aug. 17, 1897, King was 90 years old this summer. He was born in Almo and has resided there most of his life. His father was a pony express rider who later settled at Almo.

Ted learned to play the piano and organ early in life and played his first piece in public with his sister Nellie pumping the organ pedals for him. He played the piano for dances during most of his life and recalls the day—there was a recall—a pillow fight.

He started milking cows for five cents a day, worked as a janitor at the local school for 50 cents a week and later as a cowboy for a dollar a day to get money to buy his first garden plot.

When he was 17, he went with his father to Raymond, Alberta, Canada, where the family homesteaded for three years. He completed a two-year mission for the LDS Church and returned to the family ranch at Almo, where he worked with his father until his father's death in 1924.

King operated the ranch after that, hiring help in the summer, and doing most of the feeding himself in the winter. He appreciated good cattle and continually tried to improve his herd—of 200 to 300 head. He purchased the best bulk available and sold many fine calves to 4-H youngsters in the area.

He was a member of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association for many years.

The King summer range was in the City of Rocks area and south of Oakley, King would ride all day on horseback without a lunch, working with the cattle. He had to ride a horse because until 1953 he never had a pickup truck.

In 1953, at the age of 56, Ted married Fawn Weaver of Bennington, Mrs. King is also a talented musician and she and Ted have enjoyed many hours playing the piano and singing together.

School mergers win Senate help

By CHRIS PECK Times-News Writer

BOISE—Parents in small school districts who would like to see their districts consolidated with larger, neighboring districts—gained some legislative help Wednesday in the state Senate.

Without a dissenting vote, the Senate passed a measure which bars school boards from unilaterally rejecting a bid for consolidation of two school districts.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Mike Black, D-Craigmont, says school boards presented with legitimate petitions asking for consolidation of contiguous school districts into a single district cannot toss out the request.

Instead, the bill requires school boards to send the plans for the consolidation on to the State Board of Education within three months of receiving the request.

In Magic Valley, the bill would have changed the process by which some Bliss Parents tried to get the smaller school incorporated into the nearby Gooding school system.

The Bliss parents petitioned the Gooding School board and the Bliss School board asking that the two districts be consolidated, but the request was turned down by the Bliss School board.

Evans proposes $3 million budget hike

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans recommended to the Idaho Legislature a budget increase of $3 million higher than the one proposed at the start of the session by then-Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

In his budget address to the legislature before he resigned to become Secretary of Interior, Andrus recommended a fiscal year budget of $273,173,000.

Collections since December, anticipated impacts of tax rebates and public service employment proposed by the Carter Administration now cause us to project revenues at $278 million," Evans informed the legislature.

He said that his requests would include additional monies for public schools and cooperative extension, create a disaster fund for emergencies and begin construction of a security unit for the Idaho State Penitentiary.

Evans noted that the revenue forecasts being submitted by him were $3 million lower than those projected by the legislature, which forecast $281.9 million.

"Although we are most concerned about the potential drought situation and possible loss of revenue, we must remain optimistic that our estimates are reasonable," he said. "I know you will agree that this is a time for exercising caution as we attempt to appraise realistically the resources available to state government and to use them to the greatest benefit during the coming fiscal year."

The governor recommended an additional $250,000 in general fund monies for public schools.

"This will increase the allowance for operating expenditures to about eight percent and increase state revenues allotted through the equalization formula."

Andrus had recommended $722,100 in general fund expenditures for public school support, which was well below the $108,100,300 requested by the Department of Education.

Noting the Idaho State Penitentiary is "seriously overcrowded," Evans requested an $800,000 appropriation for a security unit to house 192 inmates and provide a basic structure for adding other units as needed.

Evans said the prison was designed to house 400 persons but the average daily population of 650 is estimated to reach between 750 and 800 persons in 1978.

"This increase is expected to occur even if programs designed to reduce prison population, such as the 29-day remand program and supervised probation and parole, are stepped up," he said.

"Overcrowding forces major offenders to be placed in agricultural community throughout the state.

Citing the importance for Idaho to be in "a position to respond to disasters that imperil our state lands, natural resources and water supplies," the governor requested $500,000 for a disaster fund.

"His other request was for $177,000 for the Department of Revenue and Taxation for improvements in the state revenue collection system to produce increased audit collections."

Gem death penalty moving into line

BOISE (UPI) — By a vote of 31-4, the Idaho Senate took the first step today to bring Idaho's death penalty in line with decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Sen. James Risch, R-Boise, who carried the bill on the floor, said Idaho's death penalty was similar to one which was declared unconstitutional by the high court in another state.

He said this measure should bring Idaho's statute in compliance with the court's decisions.

Risch said the death penalty was something really needed but that it should be "dealt out very sparingly."

The bill is designed to send a "clear message" that murder during rape, murder of a police officer or in the commission of a heinous crime "will not be tolerated in this state."

Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, opposed the bill for three reasons, but primarily because he could not "reconcile the deliberate taking of human life."

Manley also said he felt there was no evidence the death penalty would act as a deterrent and that capital punishment was used for the "poor, the friendless and minority groups."

Several senators disagreed with Manley that the death penalty was not a deterrent.

Water board laxity hit

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, chastised the Idaho Water Resources Board Wednesday for not doing its job and said he was ready to introduce a bill which would make them more responsive to the waterusers of the state.

The southeast Idaho lawmaker said he would present to the Senate Resources and Environment Committee later this week for introduction a bill to put the board under the Administrative Procedures Act.

The legislation would set a definite period of time after hearings before the board can act, allowing the people to have input on board plans. It also calls for review of those plans every five years.

In the meantime, Budge said he would continue to oppose the reappointment of four members of the board. The Senate State Affairs Committee is scheduled to make a recommendation on confirmation of the four Friday.

"The Senator said the four should not be reappointed 'to a job they are not doing — representing the people of the state.'"

He said board actions of the past have cut out input from people most concerned and who could be hurt the most.

"This, in itself, shows evidence the board is not doing the job," Budge said. "It's absolutely criminal for a board to operate in this manner."

In the House, Republicans members of the Ways and Means Committee sent to the floor with approval Wednesday a Senate resolution to implement a new salary administration plan for state employees.

Just 24 hours after Speaker

Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, said he planned to let the proposal take its normal course through the House; the GOP leadership tried to move it onto the calendar with a procedure known as a "buck" slip.

A buck slip simply moves a measure out of committee by the signature of the members without a formal meeting.

Minority Leader Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, objected to this procedure and Chairman Wayne Tibbitts, R-Lorenzo, at the suggestion of the Republican leadership, called the meeting for late afternoon.

McClure returns airline check

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, returned a $100 check to American Airlines Wednesday after he was identified by the company as one of more than 65 U.S. Senators and Representatives who received illegal contributions in 1971 and 1972.

McClure said he was made aware of the contribution Wednesday when American Airlines filed a list of contributions and recipients with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

"This is the first I've heard about it," McClure said.

He said the donor and the amount were filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and his office traced the contribution in their records.

The contribution was made by James P. Bass who apparently purchased a $100 ticket to a fund-raising reception, the senator said, adding that he did not know the money originated from American Airlines at the time.

He said the contribution was considered illegal "apparently because they were corporate funds but if they were identified as illegal by the SEC that's enough for me."

Asked what procedure is used when contributions are received, McClure said, "If they make me a contribution I don't look at their pedigree. I don't ask them if they are honest or if this is their personal money. I'm certainly not going to look them in the eye and say 'Are you lying.'"

Discouraging words abound

Here in the West, where the skies are not cloudy all day, many a discouraging word is being heard. With longing glances upward, governors in California, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Colorado, Wyoming and Oregon are warning parts or all of their states face the worst drought conditions of this century.

That includes the dust bowl years of the 1930s. Idaho particularly will be hard hit if no rain or snow falls between now and springtime.

Half of the seven million acres of cultivated land in the state has to be irrigated. It's hard to irrigate with dust.

Snowpacks are so low this first week of February that only 10 per cent of the longterm average moisture content has accrued in the Wood River drainage and the South Hills.

To show how bad the winter of 1977 is, one just has to remember the winter of 1934 which was the worst on record.

In that year, the moisture content of major drainages statewide was 54 per cent of normal.

This could be a bad, bad year for agriculture. Right now farmers must begin planning ways to minimize the water shortage.

Twin Falls area growers are lucky because they have access to adequate water supplies. Even here, they would make good sense to chart a water conservation plan, just in case.

Governor John Evans has ordered the Idaho Department of Water Resources to draft a series of measures to help farmers.

These measures include: — advice on what kinds of crops may be substituted this season which demand less water.

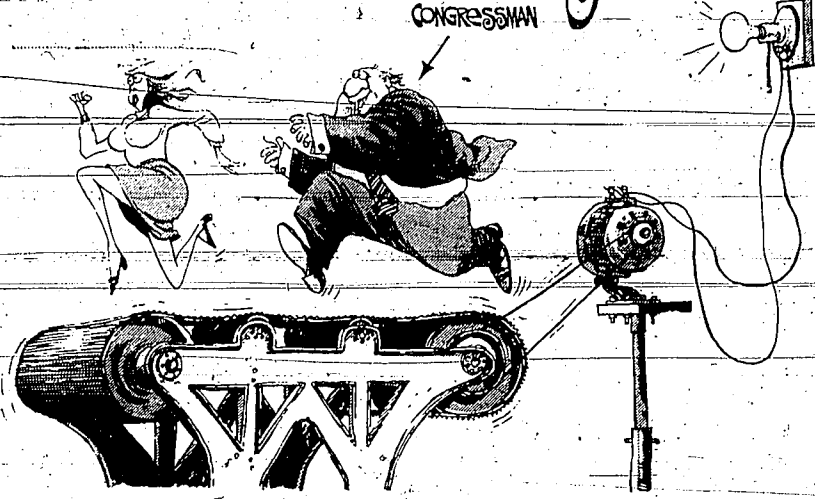

switching to sprinkler rather than flood irrigation.

— begin strict watering schedules to keep waste at a minimum.

But the most important suggestion made by Keith Higginson, director of water resources, is that farmers work with each other to help neighbors who might be low on water, perhaps sharing any excess water.

This spirit of good faith and friendship can minimize the effects of a light water year.

Bressette's writing 'fine'

Editor, Times-News: We moved to the Magic Valley only a few years ago from California. We want to let you know how much we enjoy the Times-News. Also, as we drive the great outdoors, we very much like articles on the outdoors and nature. One of our favorite writers is Don Bressette. He is an excellent writer—and we like his style of writing and he tells it "like it is."

Mr. Bressette's article Jan. 2 on "Poachers Bang Away Across Nation" was indeed very well written. However, any of Mr. Bressette's articles we ever read were always excellent. We hope to see more of this line writer's work. MR. and MRS. W. DON WILLIAMS Twin Falls

RTW opponent speaks out

Editor, Times-News: An editorial in the Twin Falls Times-News of February 2, 1977, correctly identifies the "Right to Work" bill not as a measure designed to promote individual freedom for Idaho workers but as one written to bust Idaho unions. The editorial goes on to support Rep. John Brooks' measure for two reasons: (1) That Idaho workers should not have to pay union dues if they don't want to; and (2) That the lower wages received in a "Right to Work" state would produce an climate favorable for the growth of Idaho industry and out-of-state investment, thus producing more jobs.

Each of these arguments is spurious. It has been my experience men and women working on a union job for higher wages pay dues willingly. Every two weeks they have concrete evidence in their pay envelopes of the benefits derived from the dues they pay. It becomes a matter of pride to contribute to the organization that made those benefits possible.

The increased investment more jobs argument raises more problems than it puts to rest. Wages in Nebraska—a state with a law similar to the one proposed for Idaho—were about $200 lower per hour on certain identical jobs in the construction industry. If you multiply this $200 by Idaho's approximately fifty thousand union workers who work at least eight hours per day, you discover a loss of eight hundred thousand dollars per day from Idaho's tax base and consumer economy. And it is that money that buys beef steak instead of hamburger, Chevrolets instead of Datsuns. It buys sporting goods, ski lift tickets, snowmobiles and fashion clothing which would not otherwise be purchased. In addition, the taxes on that income will have to come from some other source. Has John Brooks explained to the people in his district just what that source will be? The Farmers' Local Businesses? Perhaps he could tax the industries he is trying to attract to Idaho in the first place.

If more jobs are needed in John Brooks' and surrounding districts, let him author a bill placing a mandatory six-month jail term and ten-thousand dollar fine on any man who hires illegal alien farm labor. This should make hundreds of jobs available.

We are witnessing in Idaho an attempt by powerful forces to lower the standard of living of not only the workers of Idaho, but of the small shopkeepers, car dealers, and even newspapers.

for the benefit of a selfish few. The tragic irony of a "Right to Work" bill is that it becomes a work item for pretty much what it does: wages you want to pay him. That is a situation perilously close to slavery. CRAIG REMBER Halley

Gilmore execution justified

Editor, Times-News: I happen to know the parents of the fine upright young man that Gary Gilmore murdered. Little if anything has been said about the wife and small child and the unborn baby that he left behind when he was murdered by a criminal who was stalked and killed him.

It is no doubt high time to quit commenting on the subject. However in the Times-News, Jan. 27, an article appeared by R. P. Gilmore in which he criticized the attorney general of the state of Utah for taking a plane to Denver at 3 a.m. to have a lower court ruling overturned, a stay of execution that had been given by a judge on the phony grounds that to proceed with the execution would take too much of the people's tax money.

Mr. Gilmore called it a grisly tragedy and told they shot him four times through the heart. Nothing was mentioned about the much more grisly murder or how many times the innocent victim may have been shot through the heart or heart or whatever.

During the time shortly before the execution took place, among all the fanfare by the television and newspapers, I watched a young man interviewed on television who also is on death row. He raped and murdered a 16-year-old girl. They also interviewed his parents and of course, neither he nor his parents felt that he should be executed.

I wonder in as much as all the fanfare to get sympathy for killers was demonstrated, if perhaps it would be only fair if they could receive the gruesome crimes of these murderers.

At least one could have a better understanding of how much sympathy they would give to a killer.

The so-called American Civil Liberties lunch hurried to the scene and vowed they would not let the execution take place. The reasons that they gave were not sound and they were in direct conflict of the law and perhaps they were trying to get publicity.

In the face of all the efforts made by so many to curb justice, the attorney general of Utah and those who worked with him are very much to be commended for seeing that justice was carried out according to the law.

I believe that if the coward who killed Robert Kennedy had been executed forthwith that Gov. George Wallace would probably not be in a wheelchair today, he might even be president.

My sympathy does not go to the killers but to the victims and their families.

HOWARD BUEHLER Twin Falls

Research limits

N.Y. Times Service SAN FRANCISCO — California is considering proposals that would make it the first state in the country to exert statutory control over the controversial science of genetic hybrids known as recombinant DNA research.

A draft bill which is before the State Legislature and is favored by top state health officials, would require laboratories to register all employees, report the details of their research and submit to regular site inspections by the state health department. A maximum $500 fine and forced closure would be imposed on violators.

The proposed legislation is already the focus of debate and will undergo almost certain revision by legislators, according to Barry Keene, the Assemblyman who is chairman of a Joint Assembly committee inquiring into the potential benefits and hazards of recombinant DNA (Deoxyribonucleic acid) research.

Such research involves the extraction of genetic material from one organism and its insertion into another organism, such as bacteria. Critics of such research, who fear that it could create new and dangerous forms of organisms, have demanded safeguards here and at Harvard, Princeton and the University of Michigan.

Guidelines governing DNA research were set up by the National Institutes of Health last July. However, they apply only to federally funded research, primarily in university laboratories. Research in the private sector, such as in pharmaceutical companies, remains unregulated.

"I'm not fully reassured as to the adequacy of the NIH guidelines," Keene said despite recent testimony by a Stanford microbiologist, Dr. Paul Berg, who told legislators that the guidelines prescribed more than adequate safeguards.

Indeed, Dr. Berg believes that the NIH standards are in some cases unduly restrictive. "There are important experiments that can be done today but are proscribed by the guidelines," he said at a public forum on NA research recently at Stanford.

Stanford and the University of California have jointly applied for a patent on recombinant DNA techniques.

Berry's World

The French Hell's Angels

By ROSETTE HARGROVE PARIS — This City of Light has its Hell's Angels too. They are proving as great a problem to the city fathers as the traffic congestion, and no solution has yet been found. The young "motards" as they are known to the French — or sometimes the "blousons noirs" (black windbreakers) — take pleasure in defying many of the city traffic regulations, darting in and out of automobile lanes, accompanied by drivers' curses.

But for the 18-year-old the possession of a motorcycle license and the wearing of the red protection helmet (obligatory) is a sign of coming-of-age. It is a status symbol of a kind, at any rate for the blue-collar classes.

Another sign of the times is the number of high-powered machines — preferably British or Japanese — parked outside the lycées (high schools) next to which the girls' mopettes (mini-motor bikes), look very frail. Incidentally, an invitation to a girl to ride tandem is almost akin to an offer of marriage.

What the authorities are worried about is the weekly Friday night concentrations. Not so long ago the young "motards" discovered the Central Markets (Les Halles) which have been moved a few miles outside Paris and a bare mile distant from Orly airport.

These gatherings started some four years ago, simply by word of mouth. Official figures show between 15 to 18 deaths since 1972 but this does not account for deaths following an accident. The first meeting place was the Place de la Bastille—almost deserted at night, round and round which they thundered, sometimes hitting as high as 130 kilometers. When this improvised and totally illegal race course was placed out of bounds, they then emigrated to Rungis, the location of Les Halles.

There, apparently, the motards found a heaven-sent circuit—covering a couple of miles; not to mention one permitting feats of daring such as darting in and out and around the various great halls. From 10 p.m. to 1 a.m., hundreds of bikes of every caliber forage their way. Races are staged between two riders, watched by their "afficionados" standing or seated along the curbs. The performances are timed by the connoisseurs, as well as the manner in which a rider will take a particularly nasty curve, practically without slowing down. "Headlights dotted around the area, lit the scene, a few characters, the din of the motors mingling with that of the airplanes taking off from nearby. Orly. There are few girls in the crowd and none among the competitors.

"We come here to relax, to go all-out, just because we can't do that in Paris during the week. Like, for example, causing a shower of sparks by dragging one's exhaust pipe on the ground," said a 19-year-old apprentice chef.

Only recently, one of the favorite demon drivers killed himself at Rungis. But the circus went on the next Friday with daredevils still slaloming in and out of the hangars, just as though death was a matter of routine or luck.

These offshoots of James Dean (many of whom have never heard of him nor seen his movie, "Rebel Without a Cause") only fear one thing it seems — that the authorities ban their activities. "All we are looking for is liberty," said another youngster, who also defied death every Friday. "Too many people are against us. Anyway, THEY do not begin to understand!"

They are the oldersters, the authorities, the Red Cross who are concerned with these suicidal victims. When two onlookers were killed last September, Jean-Pierre Soloson, Sports and Youth Minister, announced the creation of four motorbike sports centers. There was already Montlhéry, where automobile races are held. This was scheduled to open in January.

Labor claim draws laugh

Editor, Times-News: I read with amusement the article in your Feb. 3 edition. It was about the union members who attended a public hearing about the Right to Work Bill.

I truly hope that all union members are not as ignorant as the construction worker named in the article as Jordan. His comment was: "The passage of the right to work bill would reduce the spending power of Idaho workers because unions could not bargain effectively for higher salaries. This is not an agricultural state, and the working class consumes the bulk of the food. When we can negotiate fair wages, we can eat steak. But, when the working class is put down, they can't buy the agricultural products which this state produces."

It is really so dumb as to believe that the farmer gets the major portion of the retail price? That is what his implications are. I would like to enlighten him and others that believe as he does. It is the "poor" working class and their tight unions that have added the major costs to the retail price of food. The other way is the union members that are causing other union members and everyone else to pay these outrageous retail prices we see. Some of the highest paid union workers in our area are the men on the kill floors of our packing plants.

I know a lot of references is given to the price of a loaf of bread. It is easy to explain and understand. A loaf of bread usually weighs one pound. I just purchased some bread for 59 cents a loaf. Now considering we farmers are getting 2.2 cents per pound for our grain, how can Mr. Jordan feel that he is giving so much support to our agricultural state. I would like him to explain to me where the other 56 cent cost came from if it is not for labor. I don't want to hear anything about equipment expenses of the different companies because in reality their cost can be traced back to the cost of labor. Equipment is expensive because it takes people to engineer, construct, transport, install and maintain it. It is not excessive profits for the bread companies as competition takes care of that.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has predicted an approximate 3 percent jump in food prices by the end of June. Farm prices have dropped drastically. On the average, 9 percent last year, and the trend continues. So, based on what the farmer gets for his commodities, your grocery prices should drop by about 9 percent... right? Wrong! Why an increase? Because of what happens to the food after it leaves the farm and before it reaches your table. There is a study that shows that in 1965 $23.4 billion of the total marketing bill for food went for labor costs after said food left the farm. By 1975 that figure had increased to $52.4 billion of the total marketing bill... an increase of 124 percent.

We farmers are the ones who are most aware of the increase in the price of our farm products. You see we are consumers too. We can verify that the cost increase in the products that we grow here within our state quite often exceeds three times as much as we are paid for the product.

So, you see Mr. Jordan don't make reference about the high cost of food or anything else because ironically you are actually complaining about what your labor unions are doing to the free enterprise system. If everyone demands a little less your inflationary circles will be slowed and you won't need such.

Common sense will tell you that the Right to Work Bill does not strip you of your almighty power. If working conditions are bad, pay little, and benefits poor, I am sure all workers in a certain trade can and will join together to correct the situation. What the Right to Work Bill actually does is to return the labor force to its proper place in supporting our free enterprise system. It will also help cut down on unemployment and our run away inflation. It will also stimulate new business growth.

O.N.Y. Times Service WASHINGTON — The major automobile companies said Wednesday that technology was now available to meet pending requirements for lowering pollution from cars.

Present at the hearings, held by the environmental pollution subcommittee of the Senate Public Works Committee, were representatives of utilities, steel companies and other heavy industry, coal and other mining interests, local governments, public health and environmental groups and other public interest organizations.

Fuel oil supply aid action near

O.N.Y. Times Service WASHINGTON — The government was reported Wednesday night to be on the verge of taking unusual measures to bring more heating oil to the East Coast from abroad without disturbing prices, already at record levels.

A second initiative for the action was to avoid reimposition of price controls on heating oil. They were suspended last summer, before it became clear that this would be an unusually cold winter.

Officials said that a co-sharing arrangement to be announced Thursday by the Federal Energy Administration could even lead to lower fuel oil prices in New England and the Middle Atlantic States if the rest of the winter should be just normally cold.

The New England delegation in Congress has been pressing the FEA to relieve upward price pressures and assure adequate supplies. The agency's responsiveness apparently is related to its desire to avoid a return to price controls, which are thought to inhibit adequate supplies, and to a promise given to Congress last summer

Opinions conflict on ERA action

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada assemblymen heard conflicting opinions Wednesday whether U.S. Gov. Bob Rose acted properly when he declared a tie vote on ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment and then voted to pass it in the Senate.

The Assembly heard Legislative Counsel Frank Daykin say the action was invalid. But two senators disputed his arguments. After hearing pros and cons on the validity of the Senate action, the Assembly scheduled a vote on Friday.

The Assembly voted in two past years to pass ERA but it was killed in the Senate. However, there were indications support for the amendment has dwindled, and that the Friday vote may be very close. Some "nose counts" showed it may lose.

The surprising outcome in the Senate Tuesday night occurred when it voted to approve S.J.R. 5, it voted against it. And 2 opponents abstained to prevent a tie, which might result in a court test of Rose's right to vote.

Rose ruled that under a rule which had been invoked prior to the debate, the abstainers had to vote for or against unless they received unanimous approval by the Senate. When they did not do so, he declared their votes

Union cuts better job incentive

Editor, Times-News: The pros and cons of freedom of work laws prompts me to answer.

The unions have done some good but they are guilty of some real sins and that is what I want to talk about. I have worked in union shops, paid dues and was foreman in a large steel mill and I know the only thing unions can give you is a little more money.

Until you can do a better job and give a little more of yourself, the satisfaction, you get is very little. Also you can never really advance to a real opportunity if you stay in a union. The union management does all that for you. Yes I am for the right to work if for no other reason than my own ability to do a better job at a smaller cost to the customer.

McClure opposes arms aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nomination of Paul Warnke as director of the Disarmament Agency and chief negotiator for arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union met with opposition Wednesday from Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho.

McClure told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Warnke is "singularly unqualified" for either position. The Idaho senator said his main objections to Warnke's nomination were his public statements disputing the need for a balance of strength between the two major powers which Warnke called "the numbers game."

McClure questioned how a man who has no faith in "numbers" can participate in negotiations which involve "very important numbers." He accused Warnke of "misunderstanding the concept of strategic balance." Opposing the development of a "nearby" system of defense that could have any meaningful bargaining power with the Soviet Union. "Wanting to cut the defense budget in order to increase funding of social welfare programs."

Hughes funds claimed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The University of Nevada filed a $2.2 million claim against the estate of billionaire Howard Hughes to recover funds allegedly promised for a university medical school.

The university's claim was filed Wednesday in Superior Court where proceedings for the Hughes estate are being handled. Chancellor Ned D. Humphrey said Hughes agreed to give $200,000 each year for 19 years beginning in 1972. So far the University of Nevada-Reno campus has received $1 million.

Seven warm ideas for winter's coldest days

- 1. Insulate. Check your attic insulation first. Be sure that you have at least 6" preferably 10". Then check out your walls and foundation for adequate insulation.
- 2. Weather Strip doors and windows. Cold air might be coming in through the cracks around windows and doors. You can stop it by weather stripping.
- 3. Storm Windows. They will cut in half the heat that is lost through the windows.
- 4. Close your fireplace when not in use. Better yet, consider installing glass doors.
- 5. Close draperies at night. A closed drapery will reduce the radiative heat lost through the windows at night. When the sun shines during the day, open them for solar heat.
- 6. Turn down your thermostat at night. There are automatic timer thermostats available that will take the chore out of this energy-saving tip.
- 7. Have your furnace checked for efficient heating. Call us for assistance and service.

Going for cash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., has been nominated to positions on the Senate Finance, Education and Public Works Committees.

The colorful Democrat nominated Wednesday by the Senate Democratic Steering Committee, has openly lobbied for the finance position.

During his election campaign he promised voters in financially strapped New York he would try for the post "because that's where the money is."

$5.5 million settlement

DETROIT (UPI) — The wife of Walter Buld Ford III, great-grandson of auto pioneer Henry Ford, was awarded $5.5 million in a divorce settlement Wednesday.

The eight-day hearing before Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman also provided a rare glimpse into the life of the wealthy Ford family.

Testimony revealed that Ford and his former wife, Barbara Fossell Ford, used to spend $6,000 a year on freshly cut flowers for their Grasse Pointe Farms home and $5,000 to show first-run movies at parties there.

Included in the award for Mrs. Ford was half of the household furnishings, valued at $2.6 million, and child support payments of roughly $2,000 a year for each of their four minor daughters.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Nobel Prize-winning economist Milton Friedman told a news conference Wednesday "there is no energy crisis" except for natural gas shortages caused by government meddling.

"Instead of energy legislation, the government should have abolished price ceilings," he said. "There is no energy crisis at the moment except as it has been produced by mistaken government policy."

Navajo chairman charged

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Peter MacDonald, the first college-educated chairman of the Navajo Indian tribe, was indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on eight counts of mail fraud, subscribing to a false income tax return and obtaining money under false pretenses.

MacDonald and a former assistant were accused of defrauding a power company that hired them to lobby for tribal permission to build a transmission line through the reservation.

Peace talks seen

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Chances for peace in the middle East are "much, much better now than ever before," former Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said in Memphis Tuesday.

Dayan said in Memphis Tuesday it was possible a Middle East peace settlement would be under negotiation within a month.

"Peace negotiations within 30 days and an Israeli embassy in Cairo is too good to be true and too much to expect," Dayan said. "But the chance for peace is much, much better now than ever before."

Robertsons split

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Dale Robertson, 53, was sued for divorce Wednesday by his fourth wife, Lulu Mae, 44.

They were married in 1959 and separated last September. Her divorce petition said they had reached agreement on property settlement and custody of their daughter, Rebel Lea, 16.

Ray Charles sues

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Singer Ray Charles filed suit Wednesday against producers of a television show, "A Touch of Gold II," saying they failed to pay him a $5,000 fee promised for appearing on the show two years ago.

Charles demanded $50,000 in compensation and damages from SRO Productions, Sam Riddle and Kip Walton.

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Locked in an apartment with what he said was 100 pounds of dynamite, a gunman said he would "sleep on" an offer of "total and complete" immunity for his actions, while his hostage is in police custody.

The offer of immunity was issued Wednesday, nearly 36 hours after Tony Kiritsis, 44, wired a "strut" to Richard Hall's neck and forced him to drive from his real estate office to Kiritsis' West Side apartment.

"I don't understand the grant of immunity. It's complete and total. If he releases the hostage unharmed," said Deputy Marion County Prosecutor George Martz, adding that Kiritsis "is wondering if it's real."

Martz said the acceptance of one of Kiritsis' key demands means he can walk out of that apartment a free man.

"We became convinced that was the only way that both of them were going to walk out of there alive," he said. "There was no other choice. It had to be done."

Kiritsis said he had wired the apartment in such a way that a siege would set off the charges. He complained Wednesday that warm temperatures had caused condensation on his windows, which he said could trigger the dynamite. But he and the man he says chained him in a real estate deal remained barricaded in the apartment.

Kiritsis has said he doesn't want to kill anyone and warned police to get out of the building at the Crestwood Village West Apartments when the condensation caused a threat of explosion.

Kiritsis has been described by his family and friends as an expert in explosives and munitions and was a small arms instructor of West Point in the 1950s. A spokesman at West Point said he could not confirm that Kiritsis had worked there, because personnel records only go back a few years.

Kiritsis borrowed $130,000 three years ago from Meridian Mortgage Co., which is controlled by Hall and his brothers and father — to buy a 16-acre plot for a "shopping center." The dynamite used to wire the apartment was purchased to clear the land for that center.

Kiritsis claims the Halls cheated him and steered possible tenants away from the property. He has demanded that his debt be canceled, and the mortgage company has agreed, if Hall is released unharmed.

GEORGE MARTZ promises immunity

Book 'dealer' finally pays dues

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — James Wilson-Mull, 29, loves rare and ancient books so much he paraded more than $400,000 worth from Stanford University's price Special Collection and sat by the fireplace at home, tumbling through them.

Then he got scared he'd be caught. So Mull traveled the world, selling such wares as the eight-volume "The Wilds" "History of the Greelan War." Using the name Langdon Towne St. Johns, after a character in "Northwest Passage," he became known by book dealers from San Francisco to London and Istanbul.

He was sentenced Wednesday to a maximum of 10 years in state prison after pleading guilty to one count of grand theft.

Mull told the court he sniped a lock in the fall of 1974, replaced it with one of his own in the library, then over a three-month period walked out with more than 198 rare books stuffed in his knapsack. It was a "horrendous crime," said the school's head librarian.

It wasn't the thrill of the theft, said Mull. Rather, it was the joy he received from possessing the rare volumes at home.

But in the spring of 1975 he began to fear detection. So Mull sold his house in Redwood City and began a global odyssey as a rare book dealer. After all, he had in his possession — to name a couple — such books as the 1929 edition of "Ulysses" by James Joyce and an 1825 edition of James Fenimore Cooper's "The Spy."

It all came crashing down when he was arrested in Zurich by a policeman investigating an unpaid hotel bill.

"There's a time and a place when you have to pay the price for non-violent crime," said Superior Court Judge John McInerney in handing down sentence.

Nearly all the stolen books have been recovered and returned to Stanford, authorities said.

New battery car booster

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Electric utilities and their customers may reap the first big benefits from super batteries now coming off the drawing board, but experts say the development of electric cars practical within a few years.

Authorities at the Energy Research and Development Administration say it may take a decade from the utilities where batteries can help solve power generation problems, to prompt construction of factories that ultimately would provide electric car batteries as well.

officials told a news briefing Wednesday, the government spent $5 million last year and expects to spend $10 million this year to spur the design and testing of new batteries.

ERDA's goal is to improve existing lead-acid batteries and create new batteries using other materials that produce more power per pound of battery weight, Pezdirtz said.

"Electric vehicles with these advanced batteries will have much better performance than anything we see today," said Dr. Albert Landgrebe, chief of the battery development program.

The typical electric car today has a range of 50 to 70 miles at a speed of 25 miles per hour, but can go only 25 or 35 miles at 50 m.p.h. It takes about 1,000 pounds of batteries to achieve that kind of performance in a 3,750-pound car.

Within five years, Landgrebe said, improved lead-acid batteries should let cars drive up to 100 miles on a single charge. He said that would allow serious testing of fleets of electric vehicles.

New battery materials such as lithium and sulfur may let cars run 180 miles between charges at 55 m.p.h. before 1980, Landgrebe said. Ultimately, he said, they may provide a 250-mile range.

Jordan's queen, 28, dies in crash

AMMAN: Jordan (UPI) — Queen Alia, the 28-year-old wife of King Hussein, died Wednesday in the crash of a military helicopter carrying her home from a hospital in a special tour.

QUEEN ALIA
... crash victim

Alia and Hussein, married for five years, had a son and a daughter.

Minister of Health Mohammed Al Bashir, an air force medic and the helicopter's pilot also died in the crash, which occurred during a violent rainstorm as they were returning to the capital from a visit to Taffia, about 140 miles to the south.

Flags were immediately lowered to half staff under gray skies and schools and government offices closed for a weeklong period of national mourning.

Alia, a striking, fair-haired woman, was some 13 years younger than her husband. She was devoted to public welfare, social work and child care and often visited social institutions and hospitals.

The former Alia Toukan, she was the daughter of Jordan's U.N. Ambassador Hala-Eddin Toukan and member of a distinguished Palestinian family from the West Bank town of Nablus.

Born in Cairo, raised in Rome, New York and other world capitals and educated at New York's Hunter College, the cosmopolitan Alia accompanied Hussein on many of his official trips.

The king said he learned the news of his wife's death after a meeting with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim in Amman on a six-nation tour of the Middle East.

King Hussein has lived a life marked by sadness, tragedies and violence.

At 16, he saw his grandfather, King Abdullah, gunned down by an assassin in Jerusalem, and himself escaped death only because a bullet hit a military medal on his uniform.

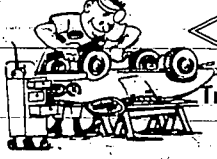

Arrested

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet authorities today arrested dissident leader Yuri Orlov, one of the most active human rights campaigners in the country.

It was the third arrest of a prominent dissident figure in a week.

Orlov, the head of a dissident group established to monitor Soviet compliance with the Helsinki security accords, was picked up at the apartment of Lada Alexeyeva, a fellow member of the group.

Israelis, UN chief confer

JERUSALEM (UPI) — U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim today held "frank and informal" talks with Israeli leaders "hostile to a United Nations role" in negotiations to end the Middle East conflict.

Waldheim said he had "an extensive exchange of views on the situation" with Israeli leaders, despite the "outright rejection of a U.N. role in reopening the stalled Middle East peace negotiations."

"The talks took place in a constructive atmosphere," he told reporters, "and they are frank and informal."

Waldheim flew to Israel today on a rare direct flight from Jordan. His two-engine, U.N. jet landed at Jerusalem's Atarot Airport, located just inside Israeli-occupied Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war.

Committee to select FBI chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will name a committee of possibly nine persons from across the nation to search for a new director of the FBI, Attorney General Griffin Bell said today.

Bell also revealed in a news conference that he is considering broadening the scope of FBI operations, including giving it the drug enforcement duties of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley has asked to retire Dec. 31 and Bell said he has sought a major portion of the time in seeking a replacement.

President Carter, possibly next week, will name a "search committee" to continue the hunt for a director, Bell said. The attorney general said he would make the final decision and that the process might take three months.

In his first meeting with reporters since taking over the administration's top legal post, Bell also said he was wading through...

WORKMEN on scaffolds began the task of caulking the Washington Monument Feb. 3 in Washington, D.C. CB radio transmitters might interfere with television reception, says FCC study

© 1977 Washington Star
 WASHINGTON — It may be that those Citizen Band radio transmitters are the real cause of interference in television sets — rather than poor design in the sets — according to preliminary results of a Federal Communications Commission study.

The FCC for years has been telling private viewers that such interference by CB signals is not the fault of the transmitters, but that the sets lacked the proper circuitry to filter out the signals.

That view has not been popular with viewers, some 100,000 of whom complained to the FCC last year about interference of one kind or another. Contrariwise, CB fans have contended that the interference was not their fault.

So now it appears possible that the FCC may have been wrong all this time — at least on the basis of the first part of an engineering study by the commission into the problem.

The first part of the study, examining 30 — randomly selected — cases of television interference, finds that in 24 cases the CB transmitter was to blame, with the TV receiver either partly at fault — for lack of a proper antenna or because of a generally weak TV signal — or not at all at fault.

In at least nine cases an illegally operated high-powered amplifier had been used by the CB operator and this was at least partly to blame. In 15 cases, however, there was harmonic radiation from the CB source, and in others there was undesirable radiation from the CB transmitter chassis. (A harmonic is a weaker signal that appears at a multiple of the fundamental signal.)

Two FCC officials, who asked that their names not be used, said they were aware of the study under way by the agency's Field Operations

Bureau, but they cautioned that it was incomplete. It contains an analysis of only 30 of the planned 72 cases nationwide.

One official said the study is undertaken because the FCC never had really good data on the cause for the interference. He said it "appeared" on the basis of preliminary data that faulty CB transmitter data may be "a bigger factor than we thought it was before. We don't think there's much question about that."

Archbishop Makarios ready to compromise with Turkish Cypriots to unite island

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — President Archbishop Makarios said Wednesday he is "prepared for a compromise" to create a federated Cyprus and grant Turkish Cypriots their own state in the north of the divided island.

"There is no disagreement between us on the question of a federation between the archbishop under Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot administration, while preserving Cyprus as a unitary independent state," Makarios said in an interview with United Press International.

"The difficult questions, the questions on which there is disagreement, are those of territory, freedom of movement and freedom of property," he said.

"I am prepared for a compromise," he said. "Any compromise, however, must not endanger the future of Cyprus as an independent state."

Makarios declined to spell out the details of the federation he said he and Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktaş had agreed on. But he indicated that the two sides agreed that a joint Greek-Turkish central government would have significant powers.

"I asked Mr. Denktaş if he meant a confederation and he said no, he meant a real federation," the archbishop said.

The archbishop said he expects his meeting on Saturday with Denktaş and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim to "define the framework within which Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot negotiators will move in the intercommunal settlement talks to be resumed."

Makarios and Denktaş met for the first time in 13 years on Jan. 27, breaking an eight-month Greek-Turkish deadlock on the island, and agreed to meet for a second time on Saturday.

At the first meeting, Denktaş offered to surrender some of the land seized in the Turkish invasion of Cyprus in 1974 to reduce the Turkish share of the island to 32.8 per cent. Makarios countered with a proposal that the Turkish Cypriot sector be reduced to 20 per cent of the country's territory.

"I believe that it would be reasonable for the extent of the areas to be proportionate to the numerical strength of each community. In keeping with this position, I proposed that 20 per cent of the territory be under Turkish Cypriot administration," he said.

But he said the Greek Cypriots had "a margin of negotiation."

The archbishop refused to name a figure for the maximum area under Turkish control that he might accept as a compromise.

New home sales up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Developers sold 17 per cent more homes in 1976 than in 1975 — at a median price of $44,200, a government report shows.

An estimated 635,000 new, single-family homes were sold last year, according to a joint study by the Census Bureau, the Commerce Department and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The median price of $44,200 was up 12 per cent from 1975's median price of $39,300, the study said.

Drought Conditions in the Western States

Pesticide school for TF, Jerome

TWIN FALLS—A school to train farmers to be able to purchase and use restricted pesticides will be held at the CSI Vo-Tech Building in Twin Falls on Feb. 16 and on Feb. 17 in the basement of the county courthouse in Jerome.

Both schools will begin at 1 p.m.

The school is to certify farmers wanting to use restricted pesticides. The EPA does not require a farmer to be certified until October 1977; however, due to the number of farmers the extension is to be given training this winter to make sure everyone has an opportunity to receive the training by 1978.

Those pesticides which will be restricted are primarily the highly toxic insecticides; however, there are a few of the commonly used herbicides which are also restricted. Dinitro, tordon and paraquat are herbicides which will probably be restricted and used a great deal by farmers.

Please contact your county agent to pre-register. The telephone number is in Twin Falls County 734-3300 ext. 46 and in Jerome County 324-0011 ext. 47.

Gooding FB holds February meeting

GOODING—The Gooding County Farm Bureau held a February dinner meeting at the Osborne Cafe in Bliss.

The featured speakers were Mrs. Francis Field and Cherie Hunt. Francis gave a report on their trip to the National Farm Bureau convention which was held in Hawaii. She also spoke on the purpose and activities of the Farm Bureau in Idaho.

Cherie Hunt, whose main activity is to lobby for the Farm Bureau involved when a new bill is drawn up and then presented to our legislators. She also spoke about several of the most important bills and what is expected to happen to them.

The three district directors each gave a short comment. It was announced that the county presidents and women's chairman legislative meeting will be held in Boise, Feb. 22, 23, and 24 at the Downtowner Stratton Hotel.

The election of officers and board members was held.

Subnormal snow

SALMON — Mill Creek and Morgan Creek snow surveys show depths and moisture contents far below normal.

Mill Creek had 12.2 inches of snow with 2.1 inches of water compared with 52 inches of snow and 17 inches of water a year ago.

Morgan Creek had 10.2 inches of snow with 1.5 inches of water compared with 27 inches of snow and 10.6 inches of water a year ago.

Glen Hunt, Challis, snow surveyor for the Soil Conservation Service, noted that the snow pack is about 60 per cent normal.

He said he was able to drive to the survey locations by pickup.

Idaho calf crop drops

BOISE (UPI) — The number of calves produced on Idaho farms and ranches was down by 40,000 head Jan. 1, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Tuesday.

But a one-per-cent increase showed up in the total number of cattle and cows on Idaho farms and ranches at the first of the year, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Tuesday.

Beef cows were down by 28,000 and milk cows were down by one percent as compared to a year ago at that time, the agency said.

Grain bin credit easing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland probably will soon expand government credit for building farm grain storage bins by cancelling many if not all restrictions placed on the program four years ago by the Nixon administration, government sources say.

One expert said the move could more than double the amount loaned to farmers to build on-farm facilities for storing corn, wheat and other crops.

Loans involved are granted by the Agriculture Department under a long-standing farm storage facility credit program. In the year ending June 30, 1973, the program was further restricted by two other steps.

Under a 1973 regulation which is still in effect, farmers were told they could no longer include in their loans the cost of concrete foundations and wiring needed in erecting storage facilities.

The amount of storage for which a farmer could get credit was reduced. Before 1973, a producer could borrow enough for facilities to hold two years production of corn or other crops. The current limit is one year's production.

Following the restrictions, lending on the program dropped from $156 million to a low of $23 million in the 1975 fiscal year before recovering to nearly $50 million in the year ending last summer. Loans for the current fiscal year — assuming program terms remain unchanged — have been tentatively forecast at about $60 million.

But if all the Nixon-era restrictions are canceled and the program returned to its pre-1973 level, one analyst said loans could bounce back to over $100 million.

Another expert said Bergland was considered likely to order a return to approving loans for two years crop storage and in drop or modify most of the other Nixon restrictions, including the liquidation-payment rule. There may be hesitation, however, to fully restore credit for foundations and wiring, the expert said.

Bergland also will have a chance beginning April 1 to reduce the current 7.5 per cent interest rate on the loans, experts noted. A source said

Bear River change eyed

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A bill modifying the Bear River Compact to allocate additional water to Utah, Idaho and Wyoming has been introduced in the Utah Senate.

The amendments to the 1956-old compact must be approved by the legislatures of the three states, Congress and the President before taking effect.

They were introduced in the Utah Legislature on the last day for filing bills without special permission and will be considered soon in Idaho and Wyoming.

Sponsors said they'll hold the bill in committee until a Feb. 17 meeting of the Bear River Compact Commission, which must approve a change in the amendments setting a minimum level for Bear Lake.

A commission committee tentatively set a lake elevation of 5,911 feet above sea level or 357,000 acre-feet of water — as the "cut-off point for new storage above the lake."

Wally Jibson, the commission chairman from Logan, Utah, said maintaining the lake at that level would provide a two-year water supply for downstream users on the Bear River in Utah and Idaho, including Utah Power & Light Co., which has five power generating plants on the river.

The minimum level for the lake, which straddles the Utah-Idaho border, was one of the demands made at public hearings on the compact modifications last fall.

Chief purpose of the modifications is to divvy up currently unallocated water from the Bear River Basin. Only about half the water below Bear Lake is allocated under the present compact with Utah getting 58 per cent, Idaho 34 and Wyoming 8.

Under the revision, Idaho would get first rights to 125,000 acre-feet, followed by Utah's claim to 275,000 acre-feet and the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge's allotment of 120,000 acre-feet. The next 150,000 acre-feet would be split equally between Utah and Idaho and any additional water would be split 70-30 for Utah.

Oppose Stewart Dam and the lake, the bill allows an additional 28,000 acre-feet of water to be stored annually — the provision that brought demands for a minimum lake level. Further upstream storage would be permitted on a formula tied to the monthly level of Bear Lake.

Unallocated water in the upper basin was split by giving:

35,000 acre-feet each to Utah and Wyoming and 7,500 acre-feet to Idaho. Any additional water stored above Stewart Dam will be divided so 47 per cent each goes to Utah, and Wyoming and 6 per cent to Idaho.

Utah has complained the modifications do not guarantee sufficient streamflow on the lower Bear River for its power plants — a position contested by Jibson, who insists the firm's rights are protected.

The study committee was unable to reach agreement with the electric firm on additional language the company demanded in the compact.

Governors of the three states approved the modifications last summer at the Western Governors Conference.

In Idaho, the changes provoked a political name-calling battle between former Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus and Republican State Sen. Reed Budge over whether the state was giving away its rights to additional Bear River water.

Cull onions pose threat

BOISE (UPI) — Improper disposal of this year's higher than-usual number of cull onions could lead to an outbreak of onion maggots resulting in extensive damage to the 1977 crop, a state agriculture official said today.

Thomas C. Saunders, Boise, entomologist with the Idaho Department of Agriculture, said onions can be disposed of by dumping them in pits and covering them with at least six inches of unincubated soil. The pits must be covered by March 15.

Any onions disposed of after that date must be covered within one week of the date they are dumped.

These feeding cull onions to livestock must remove and bury any onion debris by March 15, Saunders said.

Disposal regulations are available from the Idaho Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 790, Boise, Idaho 83701, or from county agents.

Idaho meat output up

BOISE (UPI) — Red meat production in Idaho in 1976 totaled 362.3 million pounds, setting a new record, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said.

The figure was almost one per cent higher than the previous record set in 1974. The service said cattle slaughter in Idaho also set a new record in December with 53,500 head being slaughtered.

That figure is a 16 per cent increase over the same month the previous year.

Funds usage aired

TWIN FALLS — No protests were heard in a public hearing this week on the proposed spending of $1.02 million in 1977 revenue-sharing money for Twin Falls County.

The county proposes to divide the funds with $701,175 going to capital outlay which can be used as needed by the county for completion of the courthouse remodeling, wells at the county landfills, maintenance programs and possible development of park and recreation facilities at Mountain Lake.

Other uses include $75,000 each to solid waste facilities and health services; $230,000 for bridges and transportation, $30,000 social services, and $70,000 for airport improvement.

Commissioner Chairman Mel E. Leonard said the county is required by law to hold a separate public hearing on revenue-sharing expenditures, and to account to the federal government during the year on the ensuing use of the money in accordance with the announced intentions.

He said the bridge and transportation funds will go for completion of the Bliss Bridge over Snake River, a joint project with the two adjoining highway districts and Gooding County.

Other transportation matters such as improvement of roads to the county landfills and in park areas.

Setbacks on 2 roads given OK

TWIN FALLS — Setback requirements for the airport road and on U.S. 30-93 between Twin Falls and Filer have been approved by the Twin Falls county commissioners.

The county will require buildings to be located 100 feet from the roadway in both areas. Previous requirements were for 70 feet, but possible widening of these main routes in the future could require additional space.

Commissioners said there were no protests to the proposed setback requirement during a public hearing on the matter this week.

Janitorial contract to TF firm

TWIN FALLS — Janitorial service for the county courthouse and judicial building will be provided by Better Bid, Twin Falls, during the coming year.

County commissioners awarded the contract for service to Better Bid this week in the amount of $22,524. This compares to the 1976 contract with Guardian Industries for $25,147.

Mel E. Leonard, commission chairman, said the county received five bids ranging from the low figure from Better Bid to a high of $27,300. The former contractor submitted the same bid as offered for 1976.

Leonard said the contract calls for daily cleaning of the county offices and court areas and requires washing of all windows inside and outside at least twice per year, and shampooing of carpets during the year as needed.

The contractor furnishes all equipment and supplies.

Queen sets out on tour

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth left Wednesday night for a seven-week Silver Jubilee tour of the commonwealth leaving the duties of the monarchy in the hands of the young man who will eventually inherit it, her son Prince Charles.

The 28-year-old heir to the throne was named to the Council of State which will act for the queen while she and her husband, Prince Philip, are visiting Tonga, Fiji, New Zealand, Australia and Papua New Guinea.

PART II A BEAN in the BIN is worth TWO on the BUSH!!

Since we ran out of everything we advertised last week (We mean everything), the only fair thing to do is run our "BEAN IN THE BIN SALE" again this week. We've really ordered plenty this week, so please come back if you still have empty bins.

... or HAPPINESS IS BEANS IN YOUR BASEMENT.

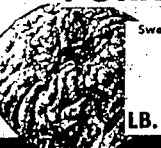

Local farmers would probably argue that it cost them more to put beans on their bushes than they're worth in anybody's bin today, yet the secure feeling derived from having 100 pounds of protein rich pintos or whites in your storeroom could equal a monetary value above the actual price of the beans themselves. Swensens' bean price this weekend probably makes them cheaper than they've been since Watergate, Pres. Nixon, the Walk on the Moon and the start of dirty movies on T.V. Beans can be used to make great soup (see bacon and ham prices in ad below), refried beans, pork and beans, sandwiches, bean dip, ~~pea~~ and many other uses.

Movie cameras roll at Ketchum

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times News Writer

Director Charles Dublin instantly stops the scene with these words bawled out into the crisp morning air. He leaves his position just off the set and out of camera view. He spotted a mistake and he'll have to shoot the scene again.

Filming of a Columbia Pictures TV pilot movie for NBC Television began here Tuesday at the Sky View Lodge, a small cluster of cabins just south of town on Highway 93.

The morning call for all actors and production crews came at 7:30 a.m., and everyone was on site at 8 a.m. ready to begin filming.

But the filming of the movie is not a smooth and easy process.

A minor hang-up in the first take of this scene has spoiled the scene's flow. It won't do.

Sun Valley police officer, Herb Wright, is one of 17 local residents cast for small roles in this movie. Called "Stedman," about a young Olympic skier who returns to his home town and becomes sheriff.

Herb plays the role of a policeman in the film. In this scene he is watching a roadway from inside a police jeep. When given the cue, he suddenly pulls out onto the road with lights flashing and drives a short distance to one of the Sky View cabins.

Then, he climbs out of the jeep, cautiously looks around, pulls his gun and darts behind the cabin, out of camera view. In pursuit of one of the movie's criminals.

The first take of this scene was spoiled by a locked jeep door. Herb accidentally locked it while driving, and when he tried to get out, he had fumbled with the door, and it looked clumsy.

Also, the cameraman spotted a woman watching the filming from one of the cabin windows. She was in camera view and would undoubtedly be picked up on the film.

When producer Robert Stambler was asked Monday what would happen on the first day of filming, he answered good-humoredly.

"Tomorrow the starting gun goes off and the dog starts chasing his tail, and he better not stop until the 26th."

So this is the dog chasing his tail.

It is still very cold out on the set. The sun hasn't had a chance to warm the air, and about 30 people are jumping up and down and bustling around to keep warm. "But when the order comes to prepare for the second take, everyone quiets."

The filming starts. The police jeep pulls out onto the highway and drives to the stop point. Herb climbs out of the vehicle and looks cautiously around.

"Dublin calls out orders from off the set. 'Pull your gun, Herb. Go after him.'"

Herb pulls his gun, looks about, and then darts out of sight.

"That was good," Dublin shouts. "On camera... okay."

But then the cameraman replies, "I didn't see him go behind the cabin." A car driving south on Highway 93 passed between Herb and the camera just as he rushed off the set.

"A mistake is sometimes a marvelous real event," Dublin observes.

But not this time. The scene will have to be shot again.

Instant inventiveness is a great paraphrase of what television is all about," Dublin says.

"They'll hold the traffic line time while they film."

"My theory about a director is that he is a storyteller," Dublin remarks about his job.

"Suspending the audience's disbelief. I have to do that. I have to tell stories. I have to work with actors and cameras."

Credit on a successful shooting of a scene must also go to the cameramen. And director of photography, Al Francis says it's a matter of "good coordination."

"It's like a guy hitting a ball," he says. "If his coordination is good, he hits it. If it's off, he won't."

Francis says there were times when a scene had to be shot 30 or 40 times.

Witness recalls victim's abuse

RUPERT — Ernest Rufener mistreated his mother, beat the 77-year-old woman and terrified her, a former Seattle neighbor testified Wednesday.

A life-long friend of the deceased Anna Marie Rufener told the court that Rufener refused to let his mother stay with her.

Ernest Rufener and his wife, Griselda, are charged with first degree murder and second degree kidnapping in the chain strangulation death of his mother on Easter Sunday, 1975.

Preliminary hearing on those charges is expected to end today. Mindok County Prosecutor H. Bill Manning indicated late Tuesday that he probably would rest his case when court resumed this morning; defense attorney James J. May, Twin Falls, doubted his defense would take half the day.

Jane Reiterstad, a neighbor of the Rufeners when they lived in Seattle in 1972-74, testified that she saw Ernest strike his mother with something.

She quoted him as saying, "You dirty pig; you dirty pig."

She also testified to seeing bruises on the elderly woman's arms.

She said the deceased had tried to leave the Rufener home, but each time was returned. On one of those times, the victim went to Mrs. Reiterstad and asked to be taken to the hospital.

"They're going to kill me; they're going to kill me," the witness quoted Mrs. Rufener.

Mrs. Reiterstad testified that she and other neighbors had an extremely low opinion of the Rufeners because of their mistreatment of the elderly woman. She said the mother was forced to work "as a slave" in doing the hard chores around the house.

Anna Marie Rufener was found dead in her unheated bedroom on March 30, 1975, strangled by a six-foot tow chain that was fastened around her neck and to a bedpost.

The prosecution has attempted to show a premeditated confinement and mistreatment that led to the woman's death.

In a previous preliminary hearing, the same charges were reduced by Cassia County Magistrate Judge George Granata, but Manning had the charges dismissed and filed new ones. A felonious embezzlement charge, involving the handling of a $53,000 estate, was dropped.

Rufener earlier testified that he confined his mother for her own protection because the family could not adequately watch over her.

Leopoldine Bodenstein, Burley, testified Wednesday that she had offered to take care of the friend she had known since first grade in Vienna, Austria.

Confronted with her testimony by Rufener, that she had said she did not want to see her elderly friend again, Mrs. Bodenstein exclaimed, "That's a lie!"

"I asked Ernie to let her stay with me," the woman testified. "He said, 'No.'"

She said the conversation took place at the Bodenstein home within a year of Mrs. Rufener's death. It was the last time she saw her friend, although she said Mrs. Rufener called her from "the old folks home" about a week later and pleaded, "This is Annie. Please come and get me."

In her broken English, Mrs. Bodenstein said that Mrs. Rufener had been wearing an old dress that smelled of body odors and she gave her another one. She said she also gave her friend a bath and took her to a Burley beauty salon, paying for a hair-do.

"When she was still married, she was very clean," Mrs. Bodenstein testified. "When she went with Ernie, she was always dirty."

TF County recall attempt fizzles

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

TWIN FALLS — An effort to convert a public information meeting on the proposed Twin Falls County Comprehensive Plan into a recall of the county commissioners failed here Wednesday night when the two men proposing the recall walked from the meeting.

About 70 persons gathered at the College of Idaho today for the second of four public information meetings called to gather public input into the proposed plan. The first meeting was the best week in Hansen.

Blair Durham, Twin Falls, who had spoken at length in the Hansen meeting, was advised he could not be called on until persons who had not been heard had an opportunity to speak. Another county commissioner and chairman of the Joint Planning Commission, conducted the meeting.

He called on Durham when there were no other comments offered. He reiterated his position that the plan is unconstitutional, listing points as a basis for his contention.

Jack Nuckolls, who lives south of Kimberly, tried to speak after Durham. He took the floor to make three proposals, including asking the county commissioners to leave the meeting so others could "get on with the business of dismissing the commissioners from office."

When the proposal gained only about a half-dozen supporters, he and Durham left the meeting, declining an invitation to remain and hear other comments.

County Commissioner William Chancey came to Mrs. Cover's defense, explaining the commissioners are attempting to carry out the laws of the state as best they can and for the protection of county land owners.

Several recalls spoke during the Twin Falls session. Blair Osterlout, Twin Falls, said he questions the plan's proposal for limiting land parcels to 5, 40, or 80 acres in various agricultural zones.

He said a 5-acre plot is too small to farm and too large to properly maintain as a home site. If it is a farm in one zone, it should be a farm in all zones, he added. Osterlout said many individuals have purchased farm land at several thousand dollars an acre for investment and future development.

The land would devalue this property, he said, as "about all you can pay for farm land if you are going to make it pay off is $1,000 an acre."

Several persons spoke against the plan on grounds they should be allowed to use their own land for its greatest value and said they resent any proposal that tells them how they can or cannot use land they own.

Robert Brailsford questioned the recreational designation in the area of Hagerman Valley along Snake River. He said he owns farm land there and would not want to be forced to convert to recreational uses. Mrs. Cover explained this would not require a change but would prevent changes other than of a recreational nature were he to sell the land for development.

Dave Chadwick of Hollister said he wanted to find out more about the plan as it pertains to farm land and endorsed the plan's proposal to preserve productive cropland in the county.

Reactor Robert Jones, Twin Falls, also voiced objection to the limitation of 5, 40 and 80-acre land parcels in various agricultural zones, saying there are small areas on many productive farms that are not productive and not suitable to anything but home building.

Flu virus closes Mini-Cassia schools

BURLEY — Cassia and Mindokla counties' schools were closed today because of a flu epidemic that hit the Mini-Cassia area this week.

Officials of both districts Wednesday ordered schools closed until Monday because of high absenteeism caused by various flu viruses.

Only the Oakley schools, with a low percentage of absenteeism, remained open today.

Norman Hurst, instructional director for the Cassia district, said Oakley had only a 4-6 percent of its students absent Wednesday. In contrast, Earl River High School at Malta had 26 per cent out and the elementary school there had 40 per cent absent.

In Mindokla County, West Minico Junior High School at Paul had 33 per cent absent Wednesday and Paul Elementary School had 30 per cent non-appearance. Minico High School reported 160 students absent, while the eastern part of the county showed nearly 20 per cent of the student body in school.

Cassia officials made their decision about noon Wednesday after County Health Nurse Millie Nielsen visited several schools and took notes.

Mindokla Supt. Darrell Hatfield made the same decision shortly after noon. He said Dr. Fred Kassis felt the closure might break the virus cycle if the students stay home.

Minico High hosted Idaho Falls in basketball games Wednesday night, but Saturday games against Stuyvesant were postponed to Tuesday. Dances at West Minico Junior High Friday and East Minico Junior High Saturday also were postponed.

Hurst said the Cassia district does not plan to call off any games or other weekend activities.

TWIN FALLS — A Utah hospital has filed a complaint against Twin Falls County for allegedly not paying for the medical treatment of a poor family's child as required by Idaho law.

In the complaint filed in Fifth District Court, here, the University of Utah Hospital, on behalf of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Harris, asks for $42,000 in hospital bills and $10,000 in attorneys' fees.

The Harris' infant girl, Sara, received emergency medical treatment at the hospital from October, 1975, to February, 1976, the complaint says.

The complaint also lists former county clerk Harold Lancaster and the county commissioners as defendants.

County Commissioner Anp Cover said the county has decided not to pay the Harrises' medical expenses because county officials feel the Harrises are not poor enough and because the couple did not apply for county help soon enough.

Harris makes about $300 per month, Mrs. Cover estimated. The Harrises could not be reached for comment.

Senior housing loan awarded

WASHINGTON — The Farmers Home Administration has awarded a loan of $117,100 to the Gooding Senior Housing Association to build additional low-cost senior housing.

Sen. James McClure announced the loan today. The 50-year loan at 9 per cent interest will provide funds for six one-bedroom apartments.

They will be built on land owned by the association at the corner of Third Avenue East and Wyoming Street.

The association already has 19 other rental units, according to Tom Miller, secretary-treasurer of the non-profit group which was formed in 1972.

He said R. M. Bell, Gooding contractor, is the apparent low bidder for the project. Work will begin as soon as the contract is signed. Completion date is set for Aug. 1.

Miller said the remains of the old building on the construction site will be burned by Fremont Monday afternoon. The housing association leases the rental units to the Gooding City Housing Authority which operates them.

In response to a question from a young Twin Falls man, Mrs. Cover said the plan and existing zoning regulations provide for relatives to build homes on farms such as those owned by their parents, grandparents or children without following the same rules.

Osterlout also questioned the plan's restrictions on lots of parcels, saying it would preclude any FHA loans in the county.

Adrian APT, Twin Falls, said the residents are caught up in too many plans, saying there are federal, state and now local "packages" designed to control the farm owners.

Several others favored the plan's attempt to develop land close to areas of natural, community growth for better fire, police protection and water and sewer services.

Peter Link, Hansen, reaffirmed his stand of last week, opposing the plan on grounds it restricts the land owner's freedom to use his property for full possible value.

Another informational meeting will be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Filer High School. A public hearing, probably early this spring, will follow the information meetings.

Boxing plans worry TF, Gem aides

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls bar owner who has announced plans to hold amateur boxing bouts in his bar, has some city and state officials worried.

Robert L. Skredersetu, owner of DJ's Lounge, on Blue Lakes Boulevard, announced recently he plans to begin holding amateur boxing matches in his bar on Wednesday nights, beginning Feb. 23.

Several city officials have lashed out against the proposed change at the bar, saying boxing will increase "crowd, parking and noise problems already occurring at the bar and could rouse drinkers into angry mobs.

Skredersetu and Dale Trumble, head of the Idaho Athletic Commission, on the other hand, disagree, saying crowd control plans and proper supervision of bar and boxing will keep the event safe.

At a city council lunch Monday, Police Chief Frank Barnett voiced his disapproval of the plans but noted his disapproval of the plan could stop the boxing.

City Atty. Charles Brumback echoed Barnett's sentiments, and agreed there was little if anything the city could do to stop the event since boxing was not ruled out in city codes. "My primary concern is if the participants are going to take their little match outside the bar," after the regulated match in the bar, Brumback said.

City Councilman Steve Lincoln said he was worried about how persons in a bar would react to an amateur boxing match. "The whole thing is just not compatible with a bar operation," he said. "You can whip up a helluva time."

Skredersetu Tuesday said he did not think his bar would become an uncontrolled battlefield when he begins offering boxing exhibitions. He noted officials at the Idaho Athletic Commission had verbally given their approval to the event.

Dale Trumble, Boise, head of the Idaho Athletic Commission, confirmed his support of boxing matches in bars. He said at other bars, one in Boise and one in Nampa, were already putting on boxing exhibitions with no problems.

Boxing is already offered at the Elks Lodge in Twin Falls. Trumble said, and "The main thing's no difference. Lumar is also served to persons at Elks Lodge boxing."

Skredersetu added he plans to follow Amateur Athletic Union regulations on amateur boxing events, including having a paramedic on hand in case of injuries and using regulation equipment. He said he will add an extra security guard on Wednesday nights to control the crowd.

Birds Eye sets closing at Nampa

NAMPA (UPI) — Financial difficulties will force the closing of the Birds Eye frozen processing plant in Nampa at the end of the fresh pack season expected Dec. 1, the plant manager said Wednesday.

Dean D. Sanderson told more than 150 full-time employees Wednesday morning the Nampa production at the General Foods Corp. plant will be shifted to other locations.

Sanderson said the plant will continue to operate on a normal basis throughout 1977 and that every effort will be made to sell the facility in another company to lessen the impact on employment and the local economy.

He said major changes in the business stem from unsuccessful financial performance in recent years. Sanderson said General Foods felt it necessary to require a major reduction in operating costs and financial investment in manufacturing and distribution.

Wrestlers begin district tourney tonight

JEROME — Bull is the overwhelming favorite in the B division while Jerome is expected to turn back Burley for a little for class A honors in the district wrestling tournament.

The tournament begins at 6 p.m. today at the Jerome High School gymnasium and will run through three evening sessions. At stake are four berths in the B state wrestle-offs and two spots in the A division. The state meet is slated Thursday through Saturday next week at the Boise State gymnasium.

Bull enters the B division with no one seeded worse than second. Coach Jerry Greer has five first place seeds. The battle in that division should be for second place between Kimberly and Eljer.

Filer has three first place seeds and five thirds while Kimberly has five second place seeds.

In the A division, Jerome has five first place nods against four for Burley. Minico has a pair and Twin Falls one.

The time schedule for the B wrestlers looks as follows: 6 p.m. Thursday, first round, which may be limited to about 14 matches due to byes; 8:30 p.m., Thursday, championship quarterfinals; Friday, 3 and 4 p.m., first two rounds of consolation action and 6 p.m., championship semi-finals; Saturday, 6 p.m., consolation followed at 8 p.m. by first-second and third-fourth championship finals. The possibility of a wrestle-off for fifth and sixth, which would go from 10 to 10:30 p.m., was suggested by Jerome Coach Skip Andrew.

Andrew said the state wants a definite alternate established through competition to move on to state if one of the upper four qualified wrestlers becomes ill, injured or otherwise unable to compete at state.

The Class A division first round will run from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday. The first round of consolation and the title semi-finals will go from 7 to 9 p.m. with the consolation semi-finals from 9 to 10. The championships and consolation finals will be fought from 7 to 8 p.m. with the wrestle-offs from 9 to 10 p.m.

Top seeds in the B division include: 101 pounds, Duff, Filer; 108, Head, Wood River; 115, Wolf, Bull; 121, Shore, Wood River; 129, Fullerton, Bull; 134, West, Deeter; 141, Stutzman, Bull; 148, Wagner, Bull; 158, Shay, Wood River; 170, Vortices, Bull; 188, Pields, Wendell; and heavyweight, Gurringer, Oakley.

Freeman hits 71 points

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Freeman Williams, the nation's leading collegiate basketball scorer, scored 71 points — the fourth highest single game total in NCAA history — to lead Portland State to an easy 142-85 win over Southern Oregon Wednesday night.

Williams hit 34 of 49 shots from the floor and was 8 for 9 from the foul line. Early in the second half he hit seven straight field goals.

Williams had an average of 37 points per game coming into the contest.

Southern Oregon tried to stop Williams first with a zone, then with a zone and extra man on the 6-foot-4 junior guard, then with a man-to-man. Williams scored 30 points in the first half and 41 in the second half.

Marquette beats Loyola

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Seventh-ranked Marquette scored 10 straight points early in the second half, including four each by Bo Ellis and Butch Lee, and went on to take an easy 81-71 win over the Loyola Ramblers Wednesday night.

Ellis and Lee scored 22 points apiece to pace Marquette to its 15th win in 18 games while Tony Parker and Andre Wakefield had 12 each to lead Loyola, now 11-8.

Marquette had a 40-37 lead in the early minutes of the second half when Lew and Jim Boylan hit jump shots. Lee put in two free throws and Ellis hit a basket and two free throws to lift Marquette to a 13 point lead at 50-37.

Irish whip Holy Cross

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Junior guard Don Williams connected on seven of nine second half field goal tries and scored a career high of 26 points Wednesday night to lead Notre Dame to a 91-73 college basketball victory over Holy Cross.

The Irish broke the game open in the first seven and a half minutes of the second half when they outscored Holy Cross 20 to 13 to take a 62-43 advantage.

N.C. drills Maryland

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — Twelfth-ranked North Carolina snapped out of its slump Wednesday night behind Walter Davis' 25-point performance to overwhelm Maryland 97-70 in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game.

The Tar Heels, who lost three of their last four conference games, led the contest all the way.

Davis was 12 for 20 from the field and led the rebounding with 12. The Tar Heels shot a blistering 57 per cent in the second half, and finished with 54 per cent for the night.

Cincinnati wins

RICHMOND, Ky. (UPI) — Senior forward Brian Williams scored 15 points and junior center Bob Miller had 13 to lead the Cincinnati Bearcats to a 78-69 victory over Eastern Kentucky here Wednesday night.

Miller's total put him over the 1,000 mark by three points; only the 20th player in Bearcat history to do so.

Steve Collier added 12 for the winners, who held a 40-26 half-time edge.

Freshman center Dave Bootcheck took game scoring and rebounding honors with 24 points and 14 off the boards. Kenny Elliott tossed in 16 for the losers, now 5-13.

Cincinnati, now 17-3, was leading by 29 at 67-38 with eight minutes left, when Bearcat Coach Gale Cattlett began playing his reserves.

Houston nears lead

HOUSTON (UPI) — Calvin Murphy's 25-foot jump shot lifted the Houston Rockets into the lead with two minutes to play and the Rockets, behind Murphy's 29 points, edged to within one half game of dividing Washington Wednesday with a 108-103 victory over the Chicago Bulls.

Chicago's Wilbur Holland was fouled on a tip-in and made the three-point play to put the Bulls in front for the eighth time in the fourth quarter at 99-88. Murphy's long jump shot returned the lead to the Rockets.

Louisville wins 15th

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Rick Wilson and Darrell Griffith scored 18 points apiece to lead the third-ranked Louisville Cardinals to their 15th straight win Wednesday night, a 102-82 decision over Southwest Louisiana.

A crowd of 12,645 looked on as Louisville ran its season mark to 18-2 and to the number of consecutive victories set by the 1971-72 team.

Southwest Louisiana, now 12-8, was paced by freshman Anthony Toney with 25 points and Calvin Crews with 22.

Louisville hit eight of its first 10 shots, breaking out to a 17-4 Louisville hit 15 of 18 remaining in the first half. The Ragin' Cajuns could get no closer, as the Cardinals hit on 65 per cent of their shots in the first period.

Louisville led 56-34 at halftime as 13 of 13 players saw action.

Mackay ends Hansen hopes

SHOSHONE — The Mackay girls dominated the first three quarters to whip Hansen 53-34 and claim a spot in the A-4 state playoffs in Twin Falls Tuesday and Wednesday.

This regional playoff between the fifth and sixth district champions saw Mackay dominate the boards and Hansen's usual-telling-passing defense didn't affect the Miners much.

Mackay will meet Salmon River at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the opener of the combined A-2 and A-4 state playoff. Cass County fourth district champion, is scheduled to meet the third district champion at 7 p.m.

Mackay did most of its damage to Hansen in the middle quarters. It boomed an 8-4 margin into 27-13 at intermission. In the third quarter Hansen missed several close-in shots at the outset. After weathering that, Mackay hit a long shot and over the rest of the quarter pumped through 18 points to make it 47-17.

Morse hit eight of her 10 points in the fourth quarter but Hansen was able to trim only a point off the final deficit.

Mackay 8 27 47 53
Hansen 4 13 17 43

Mackay — McInelly 13, Donouie 10, J. Ivie 6, Rosenkrantz 8, Silver 11, Jen Ivie 5, Hansen — B. Pearson 6, M. Pearson 5, Morse 10, Borah 2, Daws 2, Stanger 9.

Commission keeps house

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Fish and Game Commission concluded a four-hour executive session on personnel matters Wednesday afternoon with a decision to adjourn until Thursday morning.

Wednesday afternoon was scheduled with legislative confirmation hearings for commission member Keith Stonebraker, Lewis, and a meeting with Gov. John V. Egan.

Stonebraker was appointed to replace Wynne Blake, Lewis, who resigned from the commission in December.

The commission will meet at the Fish and Game Department building Thursday at 8 a.m.

Massengale grabs lead in Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, CALIF. (UPI) — Ric Massengale wasn't playing very well, so he did what made sense to him — take a week off from the PGA Tour.

In the past, that had always proved to be the tonic the 30-year-old Texan needed to snap out of a slump, and it worked again for him Wednesday in the opening round of the $200,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Massengale shot the best competitive round of his career — an eight under par 64 — for a three shot lead over streaking Bruce Lietzke and struggling Alan Tapin.

Massengale did not make a single mistake on a card of 32-32 which included eight birdies — some of them bordering on the unreal.

For instance, on the par three fourth hole at Indian Wells, Massengale sank a 45-footer, and on the par three sixth hole he made one from 30 feet.

He, whose best in four other tournaments this year was a tie for 19th place in the Phoenix Open, also made a 30-foot putt on the ninth and he had one of 20 feet on the 17th.

"Indian Wells is one of the toughest courses we play all year," said Massengale, "but that's my strength. Don't hit as long as some of the others but I keep the ball in play, and I know I can put 5 on desert greens."

In four starts this year, Massengale won only $6,778 after a 1976 season in which he earned $124,984 and placed 17th on the money list. After finishing in a tie for 62nd place in the San Diego Open, he went home to Texas while the Tour went to Hawaii.

"Normally I play better after taking a week off," he said, "and that seemed to be the tonic I needed now. I wasn't putting all that bad but I wasn't making any puts."

Lietzke, winner of the Tucson and Hawaii Opens and more than $100,000 in four tournaments, also played Indian Wells in the opening round of the 90-hole Hope and he put together a 67 for his 17th consecutive round this year at par or less.

Tapin, who won only $21,000 last year and desperately needs a victory to "prove" himself to stay affix on the Tour, shot his 67 at the tougher Bermuda Dunes course.

Tamarisk and La Quinta are the other two courses they'll use in the Hope tournament and generally, La Quinta is considered the toughest of the four courses.

Lietzke said he played in somewhat of a trance and he hopes he never comes out of it.

Bruce had seven birdies and two bogies and said despite the mistakes, he had no complaints.

Moore not too old for one last fight!

N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — According to the most reliable testimony, Archie Moore, nee Archibald Lee Wright, a.k.a. The Old Gray Monogoose, is either 60 years old or 63, give or take a decade. When he was light heavyweight champion of this many splendored world he used to tell people that he had arrived on the planet by way of Collinsville, Ill., on Dec. 12, 1916, about a month after American voters re-elected Woodrow Wilson because he had "kept us out of war." (World War I, that is.)

Archie was patient with his mother when she said the blessed event had really taken place in Bonoli, Minn., on Dec. 12, 1916. "Mother ought to know because she was there," he said. "But that would make me three years older when I was born."

Leaving that minor disagreement aside, we do know that 41 years have passed since Archie — a professional prize fighter, dismissed one Poco Kid in Hot Springs, Ark., that it took him 17 years and eight managers to win a championship and that nine years later he was still defending his title. He was in his 24th year as a pro when he got off the floor four times to knock out Yvon Durrelle and win the Edward J. Nell Award as the man who did the most for boxing in 1958. Even that, however, was almost 20 years ago. By now, surely, even this ageless gladiator must have settled down to a life of peace.

Not so. From the back country of Nigeria comes a tale of the Kid's Last Fight. The battle took place last Dec. 16 and is described by the winner in a letter to Jack Murphy, sports editor of the San Diego Union. (Archie has a home in San Diego but for the last several years has lived in Nigeria in a coach of the national boxing team.)

The letter covers 10 long yellow pages, the size used for legal documents. It is written in flawless script under a heading like this:

A True Story
New Kind of Predator
The "Sand Hawk"
By ARCHIE MOORE

After every few paragraphs there are subheads reading, "The Encounter," "Surprising Request," "Absolute Last Plea," and so on. This is Archie's story.

Riding through the country side in his chauffeur Peugeot, he came upon a bridge where men and women were digging sand from the bank of the Korodu River and loading it onto boats. "Now," he wrote, "these men and women are tremendously well built and strong. The work is killing heavy laden pans of tubs of sand on top of their heads, carrying it to the boats or storage piles. The work is very hard, so 'sand hawks' is the name I give these very rugged people."

Archie wanted a snapshot of the bridge and the scene beneath it, but as he adjusted his camera he heard a voice demanding, "Bring it!" (A Nigerian term, the letter explained, meaning, "Give it to me.") The speaker was the foreman, a young man of "five foot eight, well built, chesty, wasp-waisted, appearing to be about 35 or 38 years of age."

Laughing, Archie explained that he had not shot any film, but the foreman "advanced menacingly," saying, "you people come up here to take our pictures and then take them back and ridicule us poor people."

Archie offered to turn over the film, but the foreman demanded the camera. "I began to indignantly myself," Archie wrote, "by begging to be left to go my way, and since he refused the film I summarized all he wanted was what he was asking for. As a last try I attempted to hold the sand hawk's hand, as many Nigerian men do, signifying their friendship. He jerked his hand back."

Archie's driver told the guy he was dealing with a former champion. "I don't care who he is," the sand hawk said. "Bring it."

"I brought him a few choice ghetto names," Archie wrote, "they, facing my camera, only the back seat of my car. I proceeded to bring it. The left hook was sizzling as it struck him in the back of his head. The velocity was just a trifle under a 22 rifle's speed. Its tearing ability ripped open his top chopper as one of his front teeth dropped with him view."

"Surprise is an important component in competition. He had, to his credit, taken a shot harder than the one that poleaxed George Foreman in Zaire," but he was swaying as if he had drunk a pint of white lightning. The Old Gray Monogoose was on familiar turf.

As the hawk rushed blindly, Archie slapped his left hand down while the follow-up right uppercut to the rib cage nearly cut a smallish Hercules in two. The sand hawk attempted a right swing which missed at the exact moment the whistling hook of the old man's thudded flush into the youth's meaty lower mandible."

There were more blows before "an eerie smile appeared as his glazed eyes acknowledged all the fight was knocked out of him and he wanted to sleep." Now the foreman's followers intervened. A young cop stowed up and all principals rode to the police station in Archie's car. The sand hawk spent the weekend in jail and Archie went home with a bruise and in hand, for the flawless script remained flawless to the conclusion:

"If a man can bite my fist before I can get it out of my mouth, I'd better stop fightin' in the streets."

Kareem playing best now, all-star vote to contrary

N.Y. Times Service — Because the top of his head is less than 3 feet below the rim of the basket, many people shrug at Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's skill. But those people don't understand basketball.

"He has a tremendous burden," Jerry West, his coach on the Los Angeles Lakers, says. "He's expected to do more than anybody in the league — score, rebound and block shots."

And as he approaches his 30th birthday, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has turned that burden into a testimonial. He remains the National Basketball Association's most dominant player. He is second to Pete Maravich in scoring with an average of 27.2 points and second to Bill Walton in both rebounds with a 14.5 average and blocked shots with a 3.94 average. But those numbers are not why Kareem Abdul-Jabbar believes that he is playing better than he ever has in his eight seasons. Being 7 feet 2 inches isn't enough.

"I have more understanding of the game," he says. "The little things you have to do well. When to switch, when to go. When to help out, when not to. When to pass, when to hold the ball."

And when to be disgusted. When the NBA announced the starting teams for its All-Star game in Milwaukee next Sunday, as selected by the fans in conjunction with Trident chewing gum, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was not in the Western Conference center, Dan Issel of the Denver Nuggets was. David Thompson and Bobby Jones of the Nuggets were the starting forwards. Each team received 200,000 ballots but the Nuggets made the most of them. And if Gerald Ford had liked the Nuggets' campaign director, he might still be President because the Nuggets got out the vote: So on the San Antonio Spurs and the Philadelphia 76ers. But the Lakers didn't. Out of 1,254,551 ballots cast, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was designated only 146,126 — only about 25,000 more than Mike Gale, a Spurs' guard.

"It's their kitchen and they're the cooks," Kareem said of the NBC's all-star system. "If they don't like dinner, don't speak to me about it. The way it is now, we're just runners who carry coals in a lot of cities."

When the Western Conference coaches voted for the remaining seven all-stars, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was the only unanimous choice. And while the NBA players vote for the league's most valuable player, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is expected to win it for the fifth time, equalling Bill Russell's record total. He even won it last season when the Lakers missed the playoffs. This season, with Bill Sharman now the general manager and Jerry West having replaced him as coach, the Lakers are only one-half game behind the Portland Trail Blazers in the Pacific Division and they're the only NBA team to have beaten every other team.

Jerry West considers the playoffs "as part of the schedule. As a Lakers' player, he was on 14 playoff teams."

"When he got the job," Kareem said, "he called me up and told me he thought we could win, that we could have fun."

Jerry West is also puncturing the theory that a superbly skilled player cannot be a successful coach.

"Jerry has coordinated the talent a whole lot better," Kareem said. "He saw a lot we could do that we couldn't do. We have better balance now and better matchups. Lots of times last season the big guard on the other team killed us because we had Gail Goodrich and Lucius Allen out there. But now we've got Don Chaney and Lucius Allen out there. Don Chaney can cover that big guard. Gail didn't want to work that much. Bill Sharman was depending on guys to go out and work; sometimes Gail would, sometimes he wouldn't, but Sharman kept playing him."

Goodrich joined the New Orleans Jazz as a free agent but he's new out for the season following Achilles-tendon surgery.

"Sharman had over 15 different starting teams last season," Kareem said. "Things were just joo confused last season. We had six players last season that aren't here now and only one, Corky Calhoun, is still in the league."

As Portland's 11th man, The others were Cornell Warner, Stu Lantz, Cliff Meely, Don Freeman and Jim McDaniels — none of them are even in the league now."

Those six have been replaced by two rookies, Tom Abernethy from Indiana and Earl Tatum from Marquette, and four American Basketball Association alumni — Chaney, Bo Lamar, Johnny Newmann and Mary Roberts.

"And as a coach," Kareem said, "Jerry West is easier to accept than Bill Sharman was because as a person he's easier to know, easier to talk to. He also brought in two assistant coaches — one for offense (Steve Alford) and one for defense (Jack McCloskey). It's worked real well. It's more like a football situation. But when the game starts, Jerry is in charge."

So is Kareem, but the desperation of the NBA still try to drive on him.

"I don't think they'll ever stop trying," he said, smiling.

"Fred Carter of the Milwaukee Bucks, keeps telling me, 'Don't block my shot, and I tell him, 'Then don't drive on me.' And neither of us pay any attention to the other."

Abdul-Jabbar rejects one

Mahre, Preuss post victories in Can-Am races

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI) — U.S. Olympian Phil Mahre won his second men's Canadian-American Series giant slalom race in as many days Wednesday, salvaging some face for the national team.

And 15-year-old Helde Preuss, newly named to the U.S. Ski Team's "B" squad, continued her domination of the Can-Am races with a victory in the one-run women's giant slalom. She has now scored the maximum number of 75 points in both slalom and giant slalom competition in the series.

Mahre, 19, White Pass, Wash., was the only member of the U.S. Ski Team's "A" squad to finish in the top 10 Wednesday. The teenager had just returned from World Cup competition in Europe to also win Tuesday's giant slalom in the Can-Am Series and races for 1977.

The final races had been scheduled for Resland, British Columbia, but it was moved here due to a lack of snow in western Canada. The races here were run on man-made snow because of the snowless winter throughout the West.

U.S. Team members Cary Adgate, 23, Boyne City, Mich., and Greg Jones, 23, Tahoe City, Calif., were second and third respectively after the first men's giant slalom run on Sun Valley's Warm Springs Run. But both went off the course in the second run and failed to finish.

Mahre led in both runs and was the easy winner with a combined time of 2 minutes, 16.69 seconds.

Masami Ichimura led the Japanese skiers into the top 10 with his second place finish. Ichimura was tied with Jones for third after the first run. He finished second with a combined time of 2:22.35. Canadian Keith Humphrey, 22, Calgary, was third in 2:23.35.

Preuss, who had joined the U.S. Team in Europe for two weekends at World Cup races in late January, finished first Wednesday in the women's race in a time of 1:11.14. She had placed second in Tuesday's giant slalom.

Hometown racer Christian Cooper, 17, Sun Valley, was second in 1:11.54, and 1976 Can-Am women's overall champion Vicki Fleckenstein, 21, Syracuse, N.Y., was third. Fleckenstein, member of the national team, was timed in 1:12.33.

Manabu Sawaguchi of Japan finished behind Humphrey in fourth place with a time of 2:23.58. Sawaguchi was followed by Rob Sarraf, 19, Willimantic, Conn., 2:24.36; Germaine Barrette, 19, Causapsal, Que., 2:25.19;

Devin, 19, Winthrop, Wash., 1:13.78; Maggie Crane, 19, Plymouth, N.H., 1:13.97; Patricia Hellman, 17, Stratton, Vt., 1:14.06; and Kerol Cloutier, 20, St. Agathe, Que., 1:14.41.

The final Can-Am race of the year, a two-run slalom for both men and women, will also be Thursday on Warm Springs Run — the only slalom race in Sun Valley with adequate snow for FIS competition.

Both the U.S. and Canadian skiers will remain here through the weekend for the U.S.-U.S.-National Championships Feb. 14-15.

Colorado University's Stephen Heinisch of Seattle 2:25.40; Dave Stapleton, 16, Aspen, Colo., 2:25.53; Katsuki Ikeda of Japan, 2:26.07; and Jean Benoit, 21, Quebec City, Que., 2:26.61.

Vanita Haining, 20, Calgary, finished fourth in the women's GS in 1:12.83, followed by Leslie Smith, 19, Killington, Vt., 1:13.10; Sheila McKinnay, 16, Sun Valley, 1:13.30; Betsy for FIS competition. Both the U.S. and Canadian skiers will remain here through the weekend for the U.S.-U.S.-National Championships Feb. 14-15.

King sees no peer at playing forward

KNOWLEDGE, Tom (UPI) — "I'm the best basketball forward in America," says Bernard King, the 6-foot-7 New Yorker who has dominated Southeastern Conference scoring and rebounding for almost three seasons.

King is the best ball handler about boosting himself. The other day he told a writer for the Daily Beacon, the University of Tennessee's campus newspaper, that he is to basketball what Muhammad Ali is to boxing.

TWIN FALLS — Seven candidates for the Fish and Game Commission addressed a gathering of interested sportsmen at the college of Southern Idaho Wednesday night.

Vern Smith, Twin Falls, Marshall Everheart, Jerome, Tom Bush, Jerome, Bob Fredericksen, Gooding, Paul Beck, Twin Falls, Steve Herrett, Twin Falls, and George DeLong, Paul, aired their views on a number of controversial issues relating to the management of the F&G department and fielded questions from the audience of about 30 people.

All the candidates expressed general approval and confidence regarding the personnel and day-to-day operations of the department.

The candidates were unanimous, however, in calling for more communication between the commissioners and the sportsmen in their respective districts.

All the candidates indicated they would keep in close touch with local sportsmen's organizations regarding important decisions.

Smith also observed "If sportsmen don't go to meetings they probably don't have an interest other than

"I'll go out and get mine."

More field personnel and stricter enforcement of regulations were also given high priority by Herrett and DeLong. DeLong said he would support a policy of hiring more, less qualified enforcement personnel for less money.

Herrett said he would support legislation making poaching a felony and carrying a fine of up to $1,000.

DeLong, however, said he would prefer a mandatory jail sentence for poaching rather than felony classification.

The candidates were also in agreement that habitat improvement was needed to increase big game herds. None of the candidates were opposed to cutting back on the number of permits or length of seasons if necessary to increase the herds.

Everheart was particularly emphatic on the question of the responsiveness of the commission in the past, citing the closure of the Camas Prairie sage hen season and the redefinition of fly fishing without allowing for public input as examples of a commission out of touch with the public.

The candidates also agreed that the department needs more money.

Bush said he supported a license fee increase because he felt most hunters can afford a few more dollars for a license if they can afford a vehicle, a gun and the gasoline to get out in the field.

Smith reiterated his opinion that senior citizens and children should have to pay something to fish.

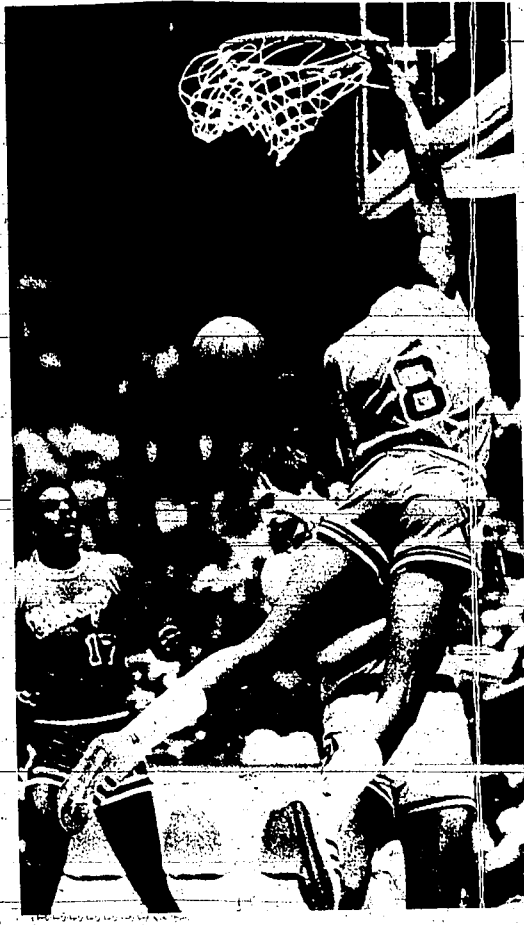

Beck mentioned his accounting background and said he would try to maximize the benefit in terms of available fish and game from every dollar.

Bush also called for long-range planning to anticipate the continuing influx of people into the area and increased development.

The candidates also agreed that the legislature's effect on the fish and game situation could not be underestimated.

Fredericksen noted that more commissioner contact with the sportsmen would provide the commissioners with more ammunition when they tried to get support in the legislature for needed programs.

Candidates and audience alike agreed, however, that if the turnout at Wednesday's meeting was indicative of kind of sportsman participation, the commission could expect to get in the future exercising any political power on the basis of popular support would be difficult, at best.

The Blue Devils led the contest all the way and four Virginia players fouled out down the stretch as Duke claimed its second conference win in eight outings this season.

LA ends loss spell
BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 30 points and Luceus Allen added 24 as the Los Angeles Lakers ended a three game losing streak with a 105-90 NBA victory over the Buffalo Braves Wednesday night.

Missouri bumps Kansas

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — Senior Kim Anderson scored a career-high 38 points and grabbed eight rebounds Wednesday night to spark 18th-ranked Missouri to an 87-79 Big Eight victory over Kansas.

Joining Anderson in double figures for the conference-leading Tigers were Clay Johnson with 14 points and 11 rebounds, Scott Sims with 12 points and Jim Kennedy with 11 points and 11 rebounds.

Junior guard John Douglas scored 23 of his team-high 34 points in the second half for Kansas and grabbed a team-high 10 rebounds as the Jayhawks fell out of a second-place tie and their conference record dropped to 6-4.

Missouri now is 18-4 and 8-2.

N.C. State whips Davidson

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — North Carolina State whipped Davidson 67-55 Wednesday night despite Wildcat guard John Gerdy's 37-point performance.

Cochair Dave Pritchett used only five Davidson players during the entire game and only three of them scored.

Kenny Carr led Wolfpack scoring with 14 points, followed by Al Green and Tony Warren with 12 points each and Brian Walker with 10 points. North Carolina State is now 14-7 on the season.

Providence tops DePaul

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Bob Cooper scored 24 points and Bruce Campbell added 20 Wednesday night as Providence College rolled over DePaul 81-73.

It was the 19th win in 22 games for the Friars, ranked No. 16 in this week's poll. DePaul now is 10-13.

After a score had been deadlocked eight times, Providence moved into the lead, 36-32, in the final 10 seconds of the first half and led throughout the second stanza.

However, DePaul trailed only 56-63 with 5:32 to play. Dwight Williams then ran off seven straight points for a 10-point Providence lead and the Friars were never threatened in the closing minutes. Williams wound up with 15 points while Joe Hassett had 18.

Dave Corzine had 16 and William Dice 15 for DePaul.

Marvin Lively added 12 and Rod Owens six as the Wildcats dropped to 5-17.

Gerdy scored eight quick points to send Davidson a 12-4 edge but the Wolfpack gained the lead with 8:19 in the first half when Green completed a layup to put the score at 21-20.

North Carolina State never trailed again, taking a 35-32 halftime lead.

Conference titles ride weekend games

Most of Magic Valley's conference championships could be decided on this the second-to-last weekend of the regular season.

The exception, of course, is the Magic Valley Conference which could well end in a tie. It would take upsets hereafter to break a deadlock there.

Build could wind up the final. South-Central-Idaho Conference chase although the Indians would play a league game. That would happen if Wood River should happen to knockoff the Senators at Gooding.

Filer is within two games maximum of nailing down its first league title in a long while — the Big Six. The Wildcats will travel to Kimberly Friday and host Wendell Saturday. A pair of wins would do it regardless of what second-place Glens Ferry does. Of course, if the Pilots should happen to lose Friday when they host Valley.

The lone confrontation for a title comes at Carey Saturday night when they host the Dietrich Blue Devils. This assumes neither stumbles Friday night against Camas County and Bliss, respectively.

Carey isn't in a bad spot either. It comes down to the Dietrich game. The Panthers nipped the Devils by two earlier and hold that one-game lead.

In the Light Magic Valley Conference race, Hunt River will be at Carey and the loss of that one will drop out of the three-way tie. The other member of the leading triumvirate is Murtaugh, which hosts Despo, capable of being a spoiler despite a losing record.

Magic Valley teams will participate in a total of 14 games Friday night.

Twin Falls will be at Capital while Minico is home to Skyline in a pair of Southern Idaho Conference games.

Burley is in the Cross State League, hosting the Caldwell Cougars.

Bohli, which had dropped its last two outings, will be at Shelley.

In the SCIC, Wood River will be at Gooding where the Senators must win this league finale and hope for help next week to tie Buhl.

The Big Six offers a full slate. Glens Ferry is home to Valley while Filer invades Kimberly. Shoshone takes the short hop to Wendell.

Castlerod will be at Hagerman in the lower Magic Valley Conference game that couldn't affect the league lead. The same is true on the Northside where only Richfield at Gooding State won't bear on that Dietrich-Carey battle Saturday night.

Saturday night finds Twin Falls at Nampa while Burley remains home to entertain the Jerome Tigers.

Filer meets Wendell at Filer in a Big Six game while Glens Ferry and Wood River in non-league competition. Richfield will be horrie to Camas County while Bliss, takes on Owyhee, Nev., on the Bears' away court.

Boise State must win at home to have Big Sky playoff shot

BOISE — Boise State head basketball coach Bus Connor and his team haven't given up hope for a Big Sky playoff berth.

Connor knows that a pair of home wins this weekend over Montana and Montana State will go a long way in helping the BSU cause.

The Broncos host Montana Friday night and Montana State Saturday night in a pair of Big Sky Conference encounters. Both games will start at 8 p.m.

BSU is now 6-14 for the year and 1-7 in the league after losing to Weber State 68-51 and Northern Arizona 66-85 in a pair of league road encounters last week.

"We need to win our last six games, and we'll have an outside chance to earn a playoff berth. Four of those six final league games are at home," Connor said.

"It's been that type of year for our team. We feel we are playing now as well as we can play. We'll work hard getting Montana for Montana and Montana State," Connor added.

The Grizzlies come to Boise Friday night with a 15-3 season and a 6-2 Big Sky record. They beat Utah State in Missoula Tuesday night in a non-league game. Montana's leading scorer is 6-5 Junior forward Michael Ray Richardson with 19.1 ppg, and 8.5 rbs. The other forward will be 6-7 senior Ben DeMers, 13.1 ppg, and 6-9 Junior Keith Johnson, 15.7 ppg, and 5-10 Mick Durkin, 14.7 ppg.

Montana State's Bobcats will play Idaho State in Pocatello prior to their Saturday night game against the Broncos. MSU is 8-17 for the season and 3-5 in league action. A pair of sophomore guards spark the Bobcats offense. They are 6-4 Craig Finney, 15.7 ppg, and 5-10 Mick Durkin, 14.7 ppg.

The center is expected to be 6-8 senior Michael John Richardson, 11.8 ppg, and 10.8 rbs.

Lee Johnson, a 6-10 sophomore, whose eligibility has been questioned could see action if a ruling is made in his favor. Johnson, who is averaging 14.6 ppg, and 9.7 rbs, would play center with Michael John Richardson taking Henkel's place at forward.

Montana State's Bobcats will play Idaho State in Pocatello prior to their Saturday night game against the Broncos. MSU is 8-17 for the season and 3-5 in league action. A pair of sophomore guards spark the Bobcats offense. They are 6-4 Craig Finney, 15.7 ppg, and 5-10 Mick Durkin, 14.7 ppg.

Idaho hopes to break losing streak at Weber, N. Arizona

MOSCOW, Idaho — The University of Idaho basketball team will be out to snap a six-game losing streak this week when they travel to Ogden, Utah, for a Thursday night (Feb. 10) game against Weber State, followed by a Saturday (Feb. 12) game against Northern Arizona University at Flagstaff.

Both games begin at 7:30 p.m. MST (6:30 p.m. PST). The Vandals dropped two games this past weekend in the Kibbie ASUI Dome.

losing Friday night to Montana State, 90-79, and experiencing a heartbreaking 69-63 loss to Montana on Saturday.

Adding to Idaho's misfortune was the loss of starting freshman guard Reed Jaussi in Friday night's game. Jaussi suffered torn ligaments in his left knee when he was kicked with less than two minutes remaining in "the game," Jaussi, now out for the remainder of the season, was averaging 6.5 points per game.

The Vandals will be hard pressed to pick up their first road wins of the year as Weber State has won 10 out of 14 games at home this season enroute to a 7-1 conference mark and 15-5 overall.

Four of the Wildcats' starters have double-figure averages including Big Sky Conference leading scorer Stan Mayhew.

Mayhew, a 6-7 junior forward, sports a 22.5 point per game average while coming up with 10 rebounds per game.

Ali seeks about to serve up another anonymous challenger

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Schutte of South Africa and Johnny Boudreaux of the United States, a pair of unnamed fighters, are among the five or six opponents being considered by Muhammad Ali for the next defense of his heavyweight title.

Sports promoter Paul Corvino revealed Wednesday that he and Don King, promoter of many of Ali's recent multimillion-dollar bouts, are negotiating for an All-defense which would take place in Seoul-Korea early next May.

Corvino did not identify the fighters under consideration but a source close to the promotion said that Schutte, who is white, and Boudreaux, who is black, were among the candidates.

The bout would be sponsored by Han Kook, owner of the Korean Times, and there appeared to be two reasons for staging it in Korea: (1) the desire of the South Korean government to show it has the technical know-how to produce a heavyweight title fight and (2) Ali's desire to show himself off to fans in foreign countries, thus bolstering his claim that he is the true "people's champion" of all time.

"President Park of Korea is a strong fight fan and supporter of Muhammad Ali," said Corvino Wednesday. "When I saw the possibilities of a bout in Seoul, I contacted Ambassador B.K. Han of the Korean mission to the United Nations and he expressed interest."

"I received copies of his Telex communications with president Park and was overjoyed when I saw Park's approval of the bout," Corvino continued. "Han told me a championship bout held in Seoul would show the social-political situation in South Korea is sound."

"Ali is [abuzz over the fact he can entertain] American soldiers in Korea who will be invited to the fight as Park's guests," added Corvino. "I've never promoted a fight but I lean heavily on Don King's experience."

All scored a controversial 19th round decision over Ken Norton in his last defense, Sept. 28, 1976, at Yankee Stadium. Since then he has announced his retirement and changed his mind repeatedly.

Bobick-Norton fight delayed

NEW YORK (UPI) — The light heavyweight bout between Mike Rossman and Mike Quarry, originally scheduled for a semifinal event before the Ker Norton-Duane Bobick featured heavyweight bout on March 2 at Madison Square Garden, will now serve as the main event on that date, it was announced Wednesday.

postponed when Bobick suffered an injury during training. It will be the third meeting between Rossman and Quarry, and the bout will be contested at 11 rounds, the first time in history a bout has been scheduled for that distance at the Garden. Quarry won the first match with Rossman on Sept. 30, 1974, and Rossman with the next one on Dec. 11, 1976. Rossman has a 28-4-3 lifetime record with 16 knockouts and Quarry is 58-8-4 with 15 knockouts. A spokesman for the Garden said two other 10-round bouts will precede the Quarry-Rossman match. The participants in those bouts will be announced at a later date.

Idaho Falls takes 61-50 decision from Spartans

RUPERT — The Idaho Falls Tigers closed the third quarter with a mild point flurry and carried it into the fourth Wednesday night to defeat the Minico Spartans 61-50.

Although the Tigers led almost the entire way, Minico closed early in the third period to twice take the lead. But Don Baldwin's three-point play and a close-in shot by Mike Mondada re-established the Idaho Falls lead and the Tigers moved out to a more comfortable margin.

Idaho Falls broke out to a 20-12 first-quarter lead and three minutes into the second period had inched that to 23-14. But Minico started back, hitting the next six points, with Seal and Quinn Hepworth picked up points.

Brad Zundel got Idaho Falls off 23 but Jerry Buerkle's late shot pulled Minico 40 within three minutes of halftime.

Minico took the lead at 39-29 as the third quarter started on a Hepworth shot and the lead changed hands twice before Baldwin and Mondada combined for a quick five points.

After a Minico free throw, Baldwin hit twice and Larsen once as the Tigers moved ahead 42-35 at the rest. Wright opened the fourth period with a three-point play and Larsen added another field goal to make it 47-35 and Minico was never able to come closer than nine thereafter.

Minico athletic officials reported that Friday night's game with Skyline has been moved to Tuesday due to the closure of school because of flu. The Ball River Trojans will play the Minico juniors in a preliminary to that Tuesday night SIC game.

The Spartans travel to Pocatello Wednesday night and wind up their season schedule next Friday by hosting the Twin Falls Bruins.

Vecek sets 'unsung hero' day

CHICAGO (UPI) — There will be no Hall of Fame game this year for Bill Vecek, nor an Old Timers game, either.

The head man of the Chicago White Sox celebrated his 63rd birthday Wednesday with an announcement that the club this year will honor "the unsung heroes" of baseball.

Then he sat around his birthday table and tossed out names of candidates.

Like Howie Judson, who in 1949 set a club record by losing 14 straight games.

And Paul LaPalme, who once was instructed by Manager Al Lopez to "throw the ball in the dirt or in the grandstand or just hold it, just don't let him hit it." LaPalme threw the ball anyway and it was a home run pitch, costing the Sox a victory in Baltimore seconds before the curfew.

Or Floyd Baker, who hit one home run in 13 years with the White Sox, and Bob Kennedy, now the general manager-base operations of the Chicago Cubs, who was with the White Sox three times as a player.

Even Paul Warner came up in Vecek's conversation. "He played left field with no shoes," Vecek said.

One name might not qualify for the unsung heroes, but Vecek found a reason to include him. Outfielder Al Smith, of the 1959 Chicago White Sox,

Why did Smith merit consideration? Because in the World Series, while going back to the left field wall after a fly ball, he was drenched by a paper cup of beer which a bleacher fan knocked over in his enthusiasm trying to catch the ball.

Vecek had a lot of names.

Pat Secoy, Zuke Bonura, Sammy Eposta, who rode the bench behind Nellie Fox, Chico Carrasquel and Luis Aparicio for seven years, Marv Robinson, Saul Rogovin, Willie Miranda, Jack Harsman, Les Moss, Red Wilson, Don Kolloway, and the White Sox' first bonus baby, Jim Baumer.

His manager for the 'unsung heroes' certainly will be Lew Fonseca, Vecek said. Fonseca, now the batting coach for the Chicago Cubs, managed the Sox in 1932-33 and part of 1934.

Fonseca's 1932 team lost 102 games, a record which stood until 1970, when the Sox lost 106 games.

"I can't say that was the worst White Sox team," Vecek said. "The 1948 team wasn't so great either." The 1948 team lost 101 games.

But all of the defeats will be forgotten when Vecek, baseball's promoter de luxe, puts on his "unsung heroes" game. It's scheduled for July 17.

WAC contenders risk road woes

United Press International. It's rerun time in the Western Athletic Conference basketball race, and a chance for some of the teams who enjoyed success at home to take their lumps on the road.

The second half of the league season opens Thursday night with league leading Utah, 7-1, at Colorado State and Brigham Young at Wyoming. On Friday, New Mexico is at Arizona State and Texas El Paso visits Arizona.

A full schedule of games on Saturday includes Utah at Wyoming, 4-3; Brigham Young, 1-6, at Colorado State, 3-4; New Mexico, 5-2, at Arizona State, and Texas El Paso 3-4, at Arizona State, 1-6; Utah, which played five of its first seven WAC games at home, now must play five of its last seven on the road in its bid to dethrone defending league champion Arizona.

The Utes, who were in the same position year after year, eventually lost the league title to Arizona on the final weekend of the season, have been the WAC's most consistent offensive team so far.

Coach Jerry Pimm obviously remembering last season's late season nose-dive, isn't taking anything for granted.

Both Wyoming and Colorado State have proven they can beat anybody in the league," said Pimm.

CSU gets a chance to average and overtime less it picked up at Utah earlier after blowing a seven-point lead in the final minute of regulation.

New Mexico, tied with Arizona for second, also plays the majority of its league games on the road and couldn't have picked a tougher place to start the stretch run.

The Lobos have lost six straight league games at Arizona State, have lost five in a row to Arizona and will be trying to break up Arizona's 22-game winning streak at McKale Center.

Arizona, led by center Rich Elliott, has won 14 straight league games at home. The 1,117-pound Wildcats are 16-4 this season and Elliott needs only 31 points to become the WAC scoring leader. Elliott now has 2,019 points, easily in range of Flynn Robinson's mark of 2,049.

New Mexico has lost four of its last five games to Arizona by a one or two points but coach Norm Ellenberger isn't concerned about those factors.

Olympic funds 'reprogrammed'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., said Wednesday his Senate appropriations subcommittee has approved the reprogramming of nearly $35 million for the 1980 Winter Olympics facilities in Lake Placid, N.Y.

The Commerce Department plans to use $30 million for the Winter Olympics site from Economic Development Administration funds. It will seek reimbursement in a supplemental appropriations bill.

The subcommittee also approved the temporary reprogramming of $4.7 million in Bureau of Prisons funds for construction of a juvenile offenders institution near Lake Placid which will be used first to house 1,800 athletes for the Games.

K-State tops Huskers

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI) — Larry Dassel scored 26 points and Mike Evans added 22 Wednesday night to lead Kansas State to a 67-62 victory over Nebraska.

Evans, bothered by the flu, hit his first five shots while Dassel sank nearly every shot he took in the second half. Together they hit 20 of 27 field goals.

Sooners beat Oklaks

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Oklahoma freshman Al Beal scored 29 points Wednesday night, boosting the Sooners to a 63-51 victory over Oklahoma State.

Aaron Curry and John McCullough scored 16 and 11 points for Oklahoma, respectively, and Ollus Holder was OSU's high scorer with 15. Andrew Jones had 12 for the Cowboys.

Red spying 'unabated' across US

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley said Wednesday Soviet spying "continues unabated" in the United States despite detente.

"The real world is not a double-dealing," he said. "It is one of spies, intrigue and double-dealing."

The director said the FBI faces a growing problem of "neutralizing" hostile agents because the number of Communist-bloc envoys in this country has more than doubled in the past 10 years.

"Our experience has shown us that a substantial number of these Soviet-bloc and Chinese officials are directly connected with their intelligence services," Kelley said.

"It must suffice to say that the intelligence initiatives of the Communist powers against the United States continue unabated."

He quoted a statement made nearly a year ago by Rep. Paul Findley, D-Ill., that a spy arrest of that time "swept away any illusions that Communist governments dropped their undercover work in this era of detente."

Kelley made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery Wednesday night before the Lawyers Association of Kansas City, Mo. The FBI in Washington released the text in advance.

While occasional arrests remind the public that "the real world is one of spies, intrigue and double-dealing," Kelley said, the FBI's counterintelligence operations are mostly "silent and unseen."

Offering an "inkling" of the job's magnitude, Kelley said the FBI received 57,000 counterintelligence matters for investigation in the last fiscal year.

"In the last 10 years, the number of Soviet-bloc officials in the United States has increased more than 100 per cent, from 806 in July, 1966, to 1,955 in December, 1976," he said.

"In the last two years the number of Soviet officials alone has increased 10 per cent. The People's Republic of China also has appreciably increased its official presence in the United States."

"Their daily endeavors include the collection of military, economic, political, scientific and technical information for use detrimental to our national defense and foreign policy."

Kelley said FBI agents are following new Justice Department guidelines that forbid such illegal practices as the unrequested opening of mail from the Soviet Union and China, which was done from 1953 to 1973.

"We must operate legally and in a manner consonant to American people," Kelley said. "But the fact remains, the hostile intelligence services we contend with are not bound by any such legal or moral obligations."

Cadillacs recalled

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The state Air Resources Board today ordered General Motors to recall all 1977-model Cadillac Seville manufactured for sale in California because the cars flunked state smog control standards.

Board chairman Tom Quinn said the Seville, one of the most expensive American-made cars, had "an 80 per cent failure rate" in smog testing laboratory tests. Quinn said the recall involved 3,300 of the luxury cars.

"General Motors is now in the process of rechecking its own testing facilities and I expect that this problem will not happen again," Quinn said in a news release.

Congress to fund public works jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rising unemployment is driving Congress to authorize $1 billion more for public works projects, and at a faster rate than proposed by President Carter.

Both the House and Senate Public Works Committees scheduled "markup" sessions today to try to conclude drafting respective bills for consideration by the full Congress.

A House subcommittee approved its version of the legislation Tuesday, calling for the full $1 billion authorization during the current fiscal year ending Sept. 30. The Senate committee started its work, but delayed further action until today.

President Carter acknowledged Tuesday there may be some disappointment with his program, but he told a news conference it was part of a "well-balanced" comprehensive two-year package.

"There is a limit on how much money you can spend on public works without wasting money," Carter said. While Carter's proposal also calls for the $1 billion authorization, he would double spending equally between this year and the fiscal year which starts Oct. 1.

Rep. Robert Roe, D-N.J., chairman of the House public works subcommittee, said he hoped the authorization would be followed up quickly with actual appropriation of the $1 billion so most projects could be started before next January.

The President said he had asked Commerce Secretary Jay Byrnes to seek legislation from Congress to change the allocation formula for the money — the target of considerable criticism.

Critics say the present formula deprives hard-hit unemployment areas of needed funds.

Carter said he hoped to "orient the available public works money much more accurately where the unemployment rate is highest and where the need is greatest."

Army hints fresh draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senior Army officials have joined lawmakers in talking about the possibility of re-imposing the draft, but have fallen short of saying the draft definitely is needed.

Army Chief of Staff Bernard Rodgers told the Senate Armed Services Committee Tuesday the Army's reserve forces face a serious manpower shortage and "if we cannot fill these reserve components, then very serious considerations must be given to implementation of a selective service."

Rodgers said a standby draft "is in a deep freeze" and it would take an estimated seven months to get the first draftees to combat units if mobilization were ordered.

"Russian troops are ready to attack with as little as 24 hours' warning in Europe and in any case would be unlikely to give more than 15 days' notice of an attack," Rogers said.

Rodgers said Soviet bloc units facing NATO in Europe are "in the main" more ready for war and U.S. troops in Europe are not prepared to defend against a chemical warfare attack.

Organized reserve units already have 80,000 men fewer than the peacetime quota and the ready reserve of replacement personnel could fall as far as 320,000 men below the required level for a theoretical European war two years from now, Rodgers said.

Rodgers said the Defense Department will give Congress proposals to ease manpower shortages in the reserves, but warned "but it will be very expensive."

Senators found Army Secretary-designate Clifford L. Alexander, Jr., more reluctant than Rodgers to endorse a possible draft even though Alexander acknowledged the reserve situation is a problem likely to worsen when military volunteers drop-off as the economy improves.

"At this point I would not commit myself to an involuntary method of bringing people into the reserves," said Alexander. "It was a matter of national defense would, but not until the need was perceived."

There has been no draft since the end of the Vietnam War in 1973, although the Carter administration inherited a proposal to set up a standby draft pool of 650,000 men.

House to probe S. Korean gifts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Wednesday voted without dissent for its Ethics Committee to investigate charges congressmen received thousands of dollars in bribes and gifts for their legislative support of South Korea's military government.

After more than an hour of debate, the full House directed the Ethics Committee to undertake the investigation.

The vote was 388 in favor, with Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., simply voting present. No one voted no.

The committee will investigate published reports that as many as 50 members of Congress accepted money, trips to Korea and gifts from Washington-based Korean businessman Tongsun Park and South government officials in return for using their influence for legislation favorable to Korea.

Several representatives criticized the Ethics Committee's report of inactivity and soft-pedaling in investigations of fellow members, but Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., assured the House. "We will not let our investigation run into a stone wall."

Rep. Floyd Spence, ranking Republican on the Ethics Committee, also pledged "we intend to show no favoritism, to tolerate no cover-up," regardless of who may be involved.

Flynt added, "I have no idea what this investigation is going to take. I think we can do it for $30,000. I don't know if we can or not. But I think we can."

South Korean officials have heatedly denied allegations President Park Chung-Hee might be involved. A member of the Korean Embassy staff observed the debate from the public gallery.

Five current or former House members have acknowledged receiving various benefits, but all have denied wrongdoing.

Flynt said his panel already has "a substantial amount" of evidence, but nothing suggesting 40 or 50 past or present members of Congress were implicated, as claimed by Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee during a Jan. 23 television interview.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38-year-old woman, and I'm still a virgin. The furthest I've ever gone with a man is letting him kiss me goodnight.

Don't get me wrong. It's not that I wouldn't like to go further, but I am too afraid of sex to let myself.

I am an attractive woman with a slim body. I've been on many dates that I know could have led to the bedroom, but I always broke it up before it got that far.

I am not really afraid of MEN. It's sex I'm afraid of.

Right now I am going with a very gentle and attractive man about my age. We are gradually dating, but I know he will want it to lead to sex and maybe marriage. What do I tell him? He will think I'm crazy. I'm not even sure that if I got married I would feel different about sex. Then what would happen?

I don't want to lose him because he's the first man I've ever cared for this much. If I need a psychiatrist, I couldn't afford one because I'm supporting my widowed mother who's an invalid. Help me.

"38 AND HOLDING"

Sex fear revealed

DEAR "38": You need to find out why you have been fighting your normal feelings. Please seek professional counseling. And don't delay. If you can't afford a private therapist, call your local Mental Health Association or Family Service. They charge only what you can afford to pay.

DEAR ABBY: A cousin of mine was killed while she was riding on the back of a motorcycle with a guy, so my parents made me promise I would never get on a motorcycle without their permission.

Well, last summer I broke my promise. Someone saw me and this guy on a motorcycle, so my parents heard about it. I know I should have told them the truth, but when they asked me, I denied it. I was being treated like a 3 year old.

Abby, if they would only give me another chance, I would break a promise or lie to them again. All I need is a chance to prove to them that I have learned my lesson and have grown up a lot since last summer. How can I get them to trust me?

DIANNE

DEAR DIANNE: If you're trying to live something down, don't keep bringing it up. Don't whine, nag or beg another chance. That's juvenile. Keep your lip zipped and take your punishment like an adult. You'll be trusted again when your mature behavior becomes apparent.

DEAR ABBY: What should you say to someone who you know has just had plastic surgery for cosmetic reasons? If you say, "It's a big improvement," they might be insulted because that means they didn't look so hot before.

If you say, "You look much younger," they could take offense because you're implying they looked "old" before.

If you don't say anything, it could be worse because they've spent a lot of money and gone to a lot of trouble hoping for a noticeable change, and if nobody notices, it would all be for nothing.

Isn't some kind of reaction in order when the bandages are removed and the thick and white face faded and all the swelling has gone down? But what?

LOST FOR WORDS

DEAR LOST: Just say, "You look great!" That will cover everything.

your health

Dear Dr. Lamb,
My husband was one of those unfortunate men who discovered he had cancer of the prostate last month.

He was only 51 and his last months were terrible, both physically and medically. I appreciate your warning the public about this. Isn't there some way the men can be made more aware of this danger?

Dear Reader,
I am sorry to hear about your husband. It is a needless waste in most instances. Cancer of the prostate can be cured if it is detected early enough — the outlook may be even better than the cure rate in early treatment of cancer of the breast.

The first step is public awareness. As I have mentioned before only five per cent of the men with prostate cancer found in civilian populations survive, while 50 per cent of those found and treated at Walter Reed Army Medical Center are cured. The difference is early detection.

In this regard I am disappointed in the American Cancer Society. Normally they do an excellent job and I am a strong booster of their efforts, but they have done almost nothing to educate the public about the third most common cause of death from cancer in men. There are more deaths from prostate cancer in men than from cancer of the uterus in women.

Yet, in an otherwise good publication, The Hopeful Side of Cancer, that points out how many people can be cured of cancer, there is no mention of cancer of the prostate at all or the best method to find it. The way to find it is with a simple finger examination of the rectum. Very little needs to know this and needs to know that he should have such an examination once a year after he reaches age 40. We are not going to save the thousands of men dying from cancer of the prostate until this is understood and accomplished. There is no useful public education program about it.

The American Cancer Society predicts the total of deaths from prostate cancer in 1976 will be 19,300 and only 7,700 from cancer of the cervix and 3,300 from cancer of the body of the uterus. With these kinds of figures why is there no program for public education and a program for early detection and treatment of prostate cancer?

There is also a great need for education of physicians about changes in treatment concepts. The old idea was to not try to cure or eradicate the cancer, but to give female hormones and use castration, if needed, to control symptoms from extension of the cancer.

Things have changed. If the cancer is found early enough, radiation treatment will cure the cancer completely and in some instances surgery may be used to obtain a complete cure. In these instances it is not necessary to have either a castration or take female hormone. Radiation even cures some cancers of the prostate that have extended outside the prostate gland.

The public needs to know about this. Any man who is not getting a finger examination once a year by his doctor needs to be sure he starts getting it.

The prostate is no more mysterious than the uterus. We should see to it that their husbands take the problem seriously.

Mexico souvenirs

SOUVENIRS by Beulah Stoddard, Twin Falls. After four or five years of helping Mexican families in Twin Falls, she is now expanding her volunteer services to help the poor in Mexico.

Making friends most rewarding

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Beulah Stoddard has become an "ambassador" to the Mexican families in the Twin Falls area and she says her volunteer services have been rewarded many times over.

This winter she had an opportunity to visit Mexico with a local family and to see much of Mexico that the average American tourist never sees.

About four years ago, Mrs. Stoddard, who has dining room, became interested in the Mexican families here. She is a Catholic and most of the Mexican people who come for farm work or other employment are Catholic. She began calling on them to invite them to her church and to assist them with transportation if needed.

She has organized a Junior Catholic group for all Mexican children in the community and arranged other activities in which they can take part. She helps the families with shopping problems or business they must transact in the community.

"I don't speak Spanish except for a few words but we seem to be able to communicate without any problem," she said.

Much of the interpretation she needs is provided by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Salinas and their 13-year-old daughter, Irma.

It was this family of nine that invited her to visit Mexico.

"They told me last April they were going to Mexico to visit relatives and asked if I would like to go along," she said.

"Of course I was delighted with the opportunity and we left Dec. 15, all 10 of us in the Salinas van."

"We covered some 3,000 miles—traded driving chores and eating sandwiches in the van along the way. We had a wonderful time," she said.

In Mexico, the family spent three weeks, most of it with the Salinas family and their relatives, showing Mrs. Stoddard around the country.

Mrs. Salinas' family owns a business in Mexico City and took the family, including Mrs. Stoddard, under their wing. Their seven-room home was crowded but comfortable, she says.

From the well-furnished and staid home of the Salinas relatives, Mrs. Stoddard was taken to some less pleasant surroundings. She saw the sights of the country, but she also saw the extreme poverty in which the country's poor live.

"Most tourists don't see the groups of cardboard shacks with dirt floors and no heat that some of these people live in," she said.

In spite of their situation, Mrs. Stoddard said they are a happy people and "beautiful."

"I love them all. I never have seen a sad Mexican," she said. "This was a marvelous opportunity and helped me get closer to the people. It also gave me an opportunity to find ways of helping them."

The economic conditions in Mexico are so bad now that many of the families are unemployed, living from day to day on what they can make by selling food and other items on the streets. The crime rate is high because so many people are desperate, Mrs. Stoddard said.

She and the Salinas family plan to work with Mrs. Salinas' sister in collecting and sorting clothing to be distributed to some of the poor families in Mexico.

Mrs. Stoddard said it was damp and cold much of the time she was in Mexico. In one hotel in Mexico City, a nice hotel, she said, it was so cold they all slept in their clothing at night to keep warm.

There are only two groups of people — the poor and the rich, she said, and the poor get help from the government or welfare, she said.

Mrs. Stoddard met one family of seven children in which a 14-year-old boy was the sole support. He had dropped out of school, to go to work when his father was killed and was trying to provide for the entire family.

In spite of the extreme poverty she saw everywhere, Mrs. Stoddard said she found Mexico a beautiful country and one she hopes to visit again in a year or two.

"I now have so many friends there. Everyone I met invited me back and asked me to share their homes. They are so wonderful. If they have only one slice of bread half of it is yours," she said.

Mrs. Stoddard brought a number of souvenirs home, including hand-made pottery such as bean pots used for cooking beans, planters and other hand-made and hand-painted items.

She said the American money was readily accepted but she had to go back into the cash travelers checks and convert them into Mexican pesos. While there the Twin Falls woman said she enjoyed everything she serviced.

"The Mexican women are wonderful. For the first time I ate fried goat and delicious. We purchased food cooked on the main streets of Mexico City and sold for a few cents. There is no resemblance to the served in restaurants here and advertised Mexican food," she said.

TF woman selected Gem Mother of Year

TWIN FALLS — Sadie DeGlee, a Twin Falls County employee, mother of seven children and active church and community worker, has been selected as Idaho's mother of the year for 1977.

Helen Henderson, Twin Falls, chairman of the state program's search committee, announced the selection this week. Mrs. DeGlee was nominated for the honor by the Challenger Class of the First Baptist Church of which she is a member. She will represent Idaho in New York City during the national mother of the year event later this year.

Born in Holland, Sadie came to the United States with her parents at an early age and in 1938 married Jake DeGlee, also of Holland. They operated dairy businesses in California and Arizona, then moved to Minnesota where they farmed for four years before returning to the west and settling in Idaho.

They farmed 20 acres in the Richfield area and milked 20 cows, working hard trying to buy a farm. Her husband was killed in an automobile accident in 1957, leaving Mrs. DeGlee and the seven children, some of them still pre-school age, to operate a dairy that had rented just two months prior to his death.

She continued to milk 30 cows and operate the dairy until the following year when she could sell the dairy cows and equipment at a price which would help pay off the family loan.

By hard work, she has been able to rear her family, teaching them the value of hard work, education, and enjoyment of life. All have achieved success and most have completed college.

Mrs. DeGlee presently works for Twin Falls County in the district court office. She maintains her home in Twin Falls and for several years has rented two apartments to college students or young working people. Her rentals are always in demand and she attempts to make a home away from home for the young students without interfering with their independence and privacy.

She never asks for deposits at the time of renting because most of her renters are having difficulty financing their educations or livelihoods.

Presently she is housing a foreign exchange student in her own home until he is able to find a suitable apartment.

Her sons and daughters include John Alan DeGlee, a construction crane operator and mechanic, having worked on the Alaska Pipeline, Perrine Bridge and currently American Falls Replacement Dam.

Jeanette Ann Sharp, married to an area rancher and the mother of three sons, lives in Twin Falls County. She is active in the Cowbelles, 4-H, church and other community affairs. Helen Jean DeGlee Davis is married to a lieutenant colonel in the air force and is the mother of two daughters. She has held many jobs, including teaching school overseas at Ramsey Air Force Base for three years.

Josephine Ruth DeGlee is also a teacher but works in special education in the Filer school system, and has also taught in other areas including Wyoming.

Patricia Lee DeGlee, a teacher of special education and child development, is presently teaching elementary school in Seldovia, Alaska.

James Charles DeGlee has a teaching assistantship in philosophy at the University of Utah, and is working toward his master's degree in philosophy.

Anna Mae DeGlee is an office personnel administrator for an engineering company in Alaska. She formerly taught school in Nevada.

TF drama students score high

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls High School drama students placed heavily among top award winners at a Theatre Arts Festival held recently at Boise State University.

Twin Falls High sent 42 students to the festival Jan. 27 through 29 and gathered seven top awards of those handed out to the best among more than 600 participants from 27 Idaho schools.

Out of 25 contestants, Twin Falls' Scott Malone drew top honors for men's oral interpretation of poetry. Malone was rated "superior" while Randy Wentworth drew an "excellent" rating in the same contest.

In women's poetry interpretation, top honors went to Beth Allen, who drew the superior rating. Darlene Davis was rated excellent. The women's contest had 52 participants.

In women's solo acting, Claudia VanPatten received an excellent rating out of 80 contestants.

In the duo acting category, Twin Falls' Doug Braley and Kris Strawser were rated superior out of 135 teams. Sheryl Hurt and Carolyn Webb received an excellent rating. According to Twin Falls High director of theater, Karla Hendricks, Twin Falls students scored more top honors than all other schools except Pocatello's Highland High School, which scored top overall honors along with Twin Falls.

Besides the competition, Hendricks said workshops in costume, reader's theater, fencing, creative dance, stage movement, lighting and mime were "extremely valuable to the students."

She said the students also met with stage and screen star Juan Fontaine, who gave the students insight into the professional acting world.

They paid a portion of their own registration fees for the event, while the drama department shared costs. A bus for travel was provided by the school district.

Hagerman citizens question police chief

HAGERMAN — The Hagerman police chief today said he did not go to a small farm fire Saturday night because he was taking a dog to the city pound.

Police Chief Frank Johnson also was criticized by several citizens attending Monday night's city council meeting for spending so much time drinking coffee at Bliss restaurants.

Dave Beutler asked Johnson why he had not responded to the fire alarm. He also asked the chief why he took the city police car to Bliss where, Beutler charged, "you drink coffee sometimes for an hour."

Johnson told the Times-News today "I don't have to go to fires, because it's a strictly volunteer deal." He said he didn't hear the Saturday night fire alarm because he was taking a dog to the city pound located on the Mickey Posa place on top of the canyon rim.

During Monday night's meeting Johnson first told Beutler "It's none of your business" in response to the charge about spending time in Bliss.

Mayor Holt said "We've spoken to Frank about this before and I imagine we will again."

The fact there is no telephone listing for the Hagerman City hall—despite there being two telephones in the office also brought questioning Monday night.

Mayor Holt said it would cost the city $25 for a business listing. He said the two phones in the office are extensions for Audrey Herrington, city clerk, and Johnson.

Mrs. Herrington said the city pays only the $4.90 for her extension but pays the entire bill for the telephone in the police chief's home plus the extension placed in the city hall.

Janice Arterburn asked what this costs the city per month, but no one seemed to know. However, estimated at $9 for Johnson's regular phone plus the nearly $5 for each extension, the total cost would be $19 or only $6 less than having the listing for the city.

Arterburn said.

Judge loses license

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The State Motor Vehicle Department confirmed today it has revoked the driver's license of Supreme Court Justice Gordon Thompson for two years.

Thompson pleaded guilty to a drunk driving charge last month and paid a $500 fine. A department spokesman said the revocation was automatic since this was Thompson's second drunk driving conviction within three years.

Congressman wants NYC declared disaster area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., said today New York City should be declared a federal disaster area because of widespread dope peddling and lack of prosecution of arrested drug peddlers.

Rangel is going to ask the Justice Department to consider New York as a federal disaster area and see if we can't get some help there in prosecuting a huge backlog of arrests," Rangel told a news conference.

Rangel, along with New York Reps. Herman Badillo, James Scheuer, Lester Wolff and Benjamin Gilman, the lone Republican, officially released a report on the findings of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse Control after an investigation into hangouts.

Wolff, chairman of the committee, acknowledged copies of the report have appeared in several New York newspapers in recent weeks.

The main conclusions are that New York is not spending enough money on enforcement and it lacks sufficient staff in the special prosecutor's office to bring arrested peddlers to trial.

"We've got a reign of terror up there," said Rangel. "Mayor Beame finally ordered a crackdown after we saw ourselves the opening peddling of drugs on the streets. We were known to the people as police and elected officials and the peddlers still came up to us to try and sell marijuana."

The report concluded that "New York City is in a crisis state because of drug-related crime and passive law enforcement, with implications for an unstable social order and lack of respect for law."

The report also said "the criminal justice system in New York City is in almost total collapse; the narcotics control has a backlog of 1,200 to 1,500 cases and even if street enforcement was vigorously pursued there would be inadequate prosecutorial and court facilities available to give speedy trials to the accused."

Old man Z who used to be the declarer in the old auction bridge column was engaged in a game of rubber bridge for a change.

Hence, when his partner gave him a positive response to his opening two bid, Z checked for aces and put the contract in seven spades to score the 100 honors in addition to the rubber and grand-slam bonuses.

West opened the queen of diamonds. Z played dummy's ace and remarked, "This looks a lot like a hand Sidney Lenz had me play in 1927. It looks as if East is going to show up with five trumps to the ten and I had better plan a double coup."

Then Z came to his hand by the new duplicate laws about reviews of the bidding are very complicated. They provide that at your turn to bid you can demand a review and that you can also demand a review when it is your turn to play to the first trick. Later on, any player may ask the meaning of any bid made by an opponent or may ask what the final contract is and if it is doubled or redoubled, but he may not ask who doubled or redoubled.

Few clouds but little moisture

Twin Falls, North Side, Burley-Rupert area: Mostly cloudy tonight through Friday. High temperatures Friday 45-50. Overnight lows tonight near 20. Saturday's outlook, partly cloudy.

Halley, Camas Prairie, Lower Wood River Valley: Mostly cloudy tonight through Friday, with a chance of a few snow flurries at times. High temperatures Friday near 40 and overnight lows near 10. Saturday's outlook, partly cloudy.

Synopsis: The persistent high pressure ridge over the Pacific Coast has weakened enough to let the first of a series of cold fronts enter the Northwest.

By mid-morning, clouds ahead of a rapidly-moving cold front had already moved into Idaho. As this front moves through the state tonight, strong gusty winds can be expected, but precipitation, if any, will be on the light side. Under cloudy skies, temperatures will moderate across southern Idaho as the storm front moves through the area.

Therefore, the extended outlook for the weekend calls for unclouded but near-normal temperatures. Highs will be in the 40's and overnight lows in the 20's.

Gem energy head resigns

BOISE (UPI) — Earl Adams, 47, director of the Idaho Office of Energy, resigned Wednesday saying he did so to neutralize a power struggle between the administration and the legislature.

"As far as my resignation is concerned I was only the pawn played in a power struggle. I am not a political person but the way I look at what the political people think will encourage passing the kind of legislation they want, it was a power struggle between the legislature and the administration," Adams said.

"The most important thing is to have an energy office and if my resignation would bring that about that's something I am willing to do," Adams said.

Adams, who was appointed by former Gov. Cecil D. Andrus last July, said there was some resentment in the legislature that the energy office was developed without legislative approval or funding.

The director said: "There is in the legislature this year a contingency that is not happy with the energy office."

The office was funded by the Federal Energy Administration and the Northwest Regional Council. That funding runs out in June.

Adams said the problem was one of "philosophy." His approach was "focused toward conservation and as nearly as I can tell, the legislature would like to see more emphasis in the supply area."

"The issue is they would like to see Idaho get very involved in generating more energy supplies."

"From my point of view we have to be very careful that we don't get involved in an energy strategy for supply that is too costly to the economy," he said.

Bill may protect bank funds

BOISE (UPI) — The state treasurer intends to propose a bill during the current legislative session to protect state funds while they are in Idaho banks.

Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon told a dinner meeting of Nampa Democrats Tuesday evening such a practice is "a matter of good business and simple fairness."

Miss Moon said the legislation would provide that banks must furnish collateral to cover public deposits of either time certificates or demand deposits above the amount already covered by federal insurance which now protects only about six percent of the state deposits.

But an Idaho bankers association said it would not support the bill nor propose one of its own, the state treasurer said.

"They said such legislation was not needed, that public deposits are what they called 'adequately protected,'" Miss Moon said.

"I think such legislation is needed because it is only good business. You don't buy car insurance because you expect to have an accident. You buy it to protect you in the case of an unforeseen emergency. And it's the same thing with providing protection for all the state and public funds," she said.

Feds trying to collect from John

Washington Star
WASHINGTON — For almost a year, the Internal Revenue Service has been trying to get former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to pay more than $21,000 in back taxes, but without apparent success. Now the IRS reportedly has turned the matter over to the Justice Department's Tax Division for possible civil court action, according to sources familiar with the case. As part of the action, the Tax Division is considering foreclosing on stock Mitchell owns in a New York City Cooperative apartment corporation to ensure collection of the back taxes. Mitchell's lawyer said Tuesday, Mitchell inherited the stock from his wife, Martha, who died last spring. Mitchell could not be reached for comment. However, his New York attorney, Marvin Segal, confirmed to The Washington Star Tuesday that an action was pending against Mitchell by the IRS and that it had been referred to the Justice Department for possible civil court resolution. Segal said, however, that discussions have been initiated between the Justice Department and him in hopes of reaching an out-of-court settlement.

Justice plugging for pay increase

Washington Star
WASHINGTON — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger Wednesday made a direct and rare appeal to Congress to raise the salaries of federal judges. In a letter to Rep. William D. Ford, D-Mich., Burger said the federal court system will lose "a substantial number of outstanding judges" if pay scales do not go up promptly. Rep. Ford is the chairman of a House subcommittee which is considering proposals by former President Ford for an increase in the salaries of top government officials, including all federal judges. Under the proposal, federal trial judges would get a pay raise of $12,500, appeals court judges would get a raise of $12,900, Supreme Court justices $9,000, and the chief justice $9,400. Those proposals are lower than had been suggested earlier by a presidential commission on government salaries. In his letter, Wednesday, Burger said the suggestions of the commission "should not have been reduced."

A new look at family exaltation
GOD'S GREATEST GIFT
 Theodore M. Burton $5.95
 In "God's Greatest Gift," Elder Theodore M. Burton discusses how eternal life is made available to all through the love of God for all his children, and how each person needs to accept personal responsibility for seeing that he himself, his family, and all his ancestors can receive this greatest gift. Elder Burton traces the scriptural and doctrinal principles of eternal life and exaltation and the responsibility every Latter-day Saint has to seek out information on his lineage and see that the necessary ordinances are performed for all his ancestors.

A new edition of a popular reference work
TEACHINGS OF THE PROPHET JOSEPH SMITH
 Joseph Fielding Smith, compiler $6.95
 This new edition of "Teachings of the Prophet Joseph Smith" is a valuable reference tool that belongs in the library of every Latter-day Saint. To be referred to and read for its insights into the subtleties of the gospel principles. The statements contained in this book are arranged by the period in which they were taught, and the reader can readily see the development of the Church as new truths were revealed. This new edition features a new comprehensive index and concordance prepared by Dr. Robert J. Matthews, a most helpful addition to this important publication.

Three New Releases from General Authorities

Bookscraft is pleased to announce the release of three new titles from General Authorities. The first, Prepare Now to Succeed on Your Mission, is authored by Loren G. Dunn, a member of the First Quorum of Seventy. He draws from his extensive experience in missionary service to help both young men and young women prepare for the realities of missionary life — both the "ups" and the "downs," the peaks and the valleys. This book is a fine aid in preparing for a mission, in adjusting to the mission field and to a companion, and in developing a testimony.

Goals is the fourth book authored by Paul H. Dunn and Richard M. Eyre. Readers will be intrigued with the creative and imaginative way in which the authors of this new book tell how to set goals and work toward them. Goals explains what needs an understanding goal-setting and knowing yourself and your workday, and shows in practical detail how to set up lifing goals and intermediate goals and how to adjust and update goals as changing conditions may require.

A third volume of Hartman and Connie Rector's popular series, No More Strangers, is now available. This third volume of conversion stories contains Connie Rector's story, plus the conversion accounts of a Lutheran minister, a Negro, a French musicologist, a Spanish writer, a psychiatrist, a Catholic nun, an enthusiastic Constitutionalist, a wanderer through the spiritualism "maze," and several "ordinary" people likewise possessed of extraordinary spiritual perception. All have gladly welcomed the gospel message and are "no more strangers and foreigners, but fellowcitizens with the saints."

Water shortage may affect MV

KEN HODGE
News writer
FAVILEY - Three valley communities are listed by a state as facing possible shortages, but residents of the communities may take corrective action.

Water Resources, named Bellevue, Ketchum and the View area southeast of Burley among 51 Idaho communities that may have problems getting water due to drought conditions in the state.

"We are primarily trying to analyze where the problems will be," Alfred said. "We don't know they are going to have a problem. They may feel they are all right."

Alfred said there are some 97 Idaho communities which rely on surface water for their water supplies and they may face troubles in the coming dry year.

But Ketchum water officials say their water supply does not rely upon surface, but upon deep wells and should not be in danger of drying up.

A spokesman for the Ketchum Spring Water Co., the firm which supplies well water to Ketchum residents, said, "We honestly don't think we will be affected by it—the drought because our wells are deep and we normally aren't affected by things like that."

"We have been on the same wells since about 1890," the spokesman said. "They are very good. And we even think they might be artesian."

And Orval Searle, View area resident, said residents of that community depend upon a spring from which they pipe water to the nearly 40 residents in the area.

"As far as I know it's normal," Searle said about the spring. "It doesn't seem to be going down."

When asked if there is danger of the spring giving dry later in the year, he said, "I imagine there's always that possibility. It never has, but it's never been this dry before."

"You just have to wait and see," he added. "We just hope it doesn't."

Bellevue officials have discussed the possible installation of an additional well to supply water for the city in case "deep" underground springs supplying the city go dry.

Bellevue Mayor L. T. Johnson said, "We don't depend upon surface water. This is from underground springs."

"We won't make a decision until about the first of March," he said. "We are waiting to see what happens before we do anything drastic."

He said the springs originating at Muldoon Canyon which supply the city have never gone dry in the past during short water years, "but the city is getting a bit warmer than it was then."

Any well the residents drill would be supplementary in case of emergency, he said.

"We don't want to wait until the last minute and then be late," Johnson explained.

Group OK's top light

RODING - Warning lights and a crosswalk have been approved for Roding's Main Street between the new Safeway Store and the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind.

Roding City Council members Monday night approved payment of about $800 for the "bouncing ball" sign.

The state school will pay for the other one. A warning light will face each direction on the street which is Idaho 46.

Roding Mayor Don Morrow formally appointed Bill Block, C-E-B Engineers as city engineer Monday night, with full approval.

The resignation of Bill Hart from the city planning and zoning commission was accepted and council members discussed possible new appointments. Councilwoman Tina Echeta was asked to contact interested persons and report back at the next meeting.

Working is the new Lincoln County prosecutor.

The council formally approved payment of $10,000 to Gooding County for one year for the city's share of support of the joint city-council law-enforcement facility in the courthouse.

Councilman Bob Moline said this figure was arrived at in a city meeting last week with county commissioners. Payment will be made $2,500 per quarter.

The financial arrangement will be renegotiated after remodeling is done at the courthouse to enlarge the floor space, Moline said. The city's present payment schedule is primarily for dispatch service.

John Prester of Hamilton and Voelker Engineering firm, Twin Falls, reported on the airport study financed by a federal grant. He said as soon as preliminary engineering work is completed a public meeting will be called to get citizen input into future airport development plans.

Danny Fouladpour, also of Hamilton and Voelker, updated the council on the federal grant to study problems with the city sewage system.

Junior high rolls expected to drop

BY GEORGE WILEY
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls school board faces a tough question with junior high school enrollment expected to fall off next year.

Assistant Superintendent Meyer told the board at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night that junior high enrollment is projected to continue dropping through the 1978-79 school year to about 1,515 students. Meyer added, "The decline will not only cost the school district about $62,000 in state funds next year. It raises the question of whether or not the district will fold a rezoning to align class loads at Robert Stuart and O'Leary junior high schools."

With a seven-period day, Wats has said, Stuart would have to use students to accommodate the increased classroom use.

O'Leary, which was designed for more than 2000 students, has already gone to a seven-period schedule and has the classrooms to handle more students.

The question the board faces is whether to stick with a six-period day at Stuart and forget the rezoning.

The question is complicated by Stuart parents who favor a seven-period day because the student gets in more subjects.

While no parents showed up for Tuesday's meeting, they have accused Wats in the past of dragging his feet on a seven-period schedule, and school board chairman Howard Runk said interest in the schedule is running high.

The board took no action on the matter Tuesday, but was advised by Meyer to give the question hard thought.

"You're going to have to make up your minds pretty quick on this," he said.

Meyer also outlined for the board changes in elementary class enrollments which will mean the switching of teachers from one grade to another next year.

According to a schedule prepared by Meyer, the district could accomplish the shifting at all grade schools without a change in the number of teachers and with little change in overall class sizes.

In other action at its meeting Tuesday the board:

— Heard a report from high school principal Frank Charlton that the high school principal, principal, Earl Charlton told the board the Northwest Accrediting Association had criticized the school for lack of space for audio-visual and P.E. programs. "It isn't recommended," an additional counselor, he said.

— Approved the building of school on Saturday, June 3, to complete the linkups of school in the new trustee from zone 4. Runk was named to the board last month to replace Tom Kieley, who resigned. Runk is an officer of Sierra Life Insurance Co. Kieley is an officer of Charter Research Co.

Buhl officials discuss parking meter bargains

BUHL — City officials in Buhl are hoping to take advantage of some bargains in parking meters offered by other cities which are going out of the parking meter business.

Mayor Dale Christensen said the city of Ontario is offering used meters at a price of $15 per head.

"We might be able to buy some a little closer to home in a few months when Burley begins removing theirs," he told the council.

Council members approved an inquiry to both Ontario and Burley about the condition and price of the used meters.

Police Chief Ben Ekert warned the council to forgo the bargains if the meters are not in good condition. He said they normally sell for much more and the city of Buhl has 14 single heads and one double head available for installation in critical areas.

"The mayor said there are a number of streets in the business area that could be metered to give additional control on parking. If the city had available meters, No estimate of the total number needed was available.

Jerome couple sues Cassia County pair

TWIN FALLS — A Jerome County couple is asking for more than $115,000 from a Cassia County couple for injuries sustained in a car accident more than a year ago.

In a complaint filed in Fifth District Court here, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. White charge Mrs. Karen Remetleria with negligence in driving a car which ran a stop sign in December, 1975.

The complaint says the running of the stop sign caused an accident in which Mrs. White, a passenger in the Remetleria car, was injured.

The Jerome County couple is asking for $100,000 for physical injuries and "lost earnings, $15,000 for Mr. White and $5,000 for medical expenses.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early morning is not a good time to make definite plans of action. Later you find that all kinds of opportunity are present to extend your business and to adopt a philosophy of life that can serve you well in the days ahead. Make sure you consider well any travel plans you may have.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Any new conditions that arise today can improve the future for you, so handle them wisely. Making a new contact who can be of assistance to you in the days ahead is good. Be clever.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Tap your subconscious and know what is best for you to do now and follow through on your plans. Avoid the limiting tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to understand better what your partners expect of you and cooperate more with them. A situation arises that gives you a clearer picture of your position within the community in which you reside.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get busy and clear up unfinished business, duties so that the weekend will be free of worry. Get into policy matters with co-workers also. Plan the weekend well tonight.

JEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day to handle duties well and that you can enjoy entertainment you like. Get together with congenial at creative activities. Do nothing of a dangerous nature.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Even if you have to be out in business, consider well the interests of home and kin; how to better them for the future. Study deeper into some new project that is interesting to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure you handle important correspondence immediately and it could bring you fine results now. Contact an expert for suggestions of ideas you need to become more successful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show that you have practical sense where finances are concerned and get good results in dealing with others. An expert in such can also be helpful if you contact early. Think constructively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan just how to gain your fondest aims in the shortest possible time and then take the right initial steps. Good planning for being with good friends for an enjoyable time together.

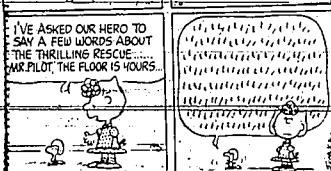

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get into policy matters today that are important and forget all that detailed work for now. Show more affection for mate and get fine response. Avoid a hypocrite who poses as a friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good day to express that gregarious quality for which you are famous and make new and worthwhile acquaintances. Get work done early and enjoy the social later.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact the most powerful persons you know and gain their support for any worthwhile plans that you may have. Get into public work also that can aid you in your career.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be very blunt in dealing with others and should be taught early to use tact instead. Your progeny will get into much trouble and accomplish very little if this is not done. There is the ability to think big and get big here and to become successful in whatever the forte may be.

Sombody just proposed that only French and Belgian typewriters be used at the European Community headquarters in Brussels, Belgium. Do you realize what this will mean? Such comes to pass. The French and Belgian secretaries employed there over the number of American and British girls, will suddenly have an enormous advantage. The typewriter keyboards are different. The French and Belgian secretaries would be mighty comfortable with the native typewriters. But the American and British secretaries would have to adjust, no easy chore for an experienced typewriter typist, or go elsewhere for work. The French and Belgian girls are said to be lobbying for the typewriter standardization to go their way, lobbying most heavily.

FOSSIL
Q. "How old does something have to be before it's called a fossil?"
A. "At least 10,000 years. That is, if you use the word to refer to the remnant or evidence of some sort of organism. But there are other kinds of fossils, too. Fossil words, for instance. Consider the phrase 'to and fro.' You never see the word 'fro' outside that phrase. It's a fossil."

Q. "Is there an ethnic group anywhere whose people don't get cancer?"
A. Only one. The Hounzas in the Himalayas north of Kashmir. No cancer case has ever been diagnosed among them. Correspondents insist that's not because their doctors just failed to identify the ailment. Western-trained physicians have worked there, too. The why of it all remains a mystery, although reporters think the fact that the Hounzas eat only fresh food they grow themselves might have something to do with it.

TARS
You know why the traditional seaman's uniform has a large square collar? Because seamen in bygone years braided their hair in pigtails and kept those pigtails from unraveling by dabbing the ends with tar. Those collars kept the upper part of the uniforms from turning black. No doubt you already knew that the afore-described, too, is why seamen were nicknamed "tars."

The Public Library in Bethlehem, N. Y., keeps on file the current menus of approximately 40 restaurants throughout the city. Not a bad notion. If you so wish, you can check out what's being served for how much all over the area before booking reservations or walking in to be seated.

You'll probably get it just about right if you reckon that the depreciation on your car costs you approximately five cents a mile. A little more than the cost of the gasoline itself, typically.

Ice has covered much of North America nine times in the last million years, and that's not counting this year.

After 38-year separation, Spain, USSR resume ties

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Spain and the Soviet Union Wednesday resumed full diplomatic relations after 38 years of estrangement. Right-wing extremists denounced the action as a "shame" and demanded the return of 510 tons of gold shipped to Moscow during the Spanish civil war.

The gold, worth nearly $2 billion on today's gold market and long considered an obstacle to the resumption of full relations, was not mentioned in the formal announcement.

But the government issued a note to quiet right-wing protests saying the normalization of relations does not mean the "renunciation of claims" by one side against the other.

"The establishment of diplomatic relations between Spain and the USSR will facilitate the further development of cooperation...for the benefit of the Spanish and Soviet peoples and in the interest of strengthening peace and security in Europe and around the world," the Foreign Ministry said.

Boris Pinar, appointed to parliament by the late dictator Francisco Franco and leader of the New Force Party, however, called the agreement a "shame."

The Foreign Ministry Wednesday also announced the resumption of full diplomatic relations with Communist Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

Francisco, whose forces won the 1936-1939 civil war and who ruled until his death in November, 1975, reportedly vowed that no Soviet ambassador would be accredited in Madrid as long as he was alive.

The dictator believed that a Soviet Embassy would support the Communist party, which he had outlawed.

Premier Adolfo Suarez's government Tuesday, however, handed control over the legalization of political parties, including the Communist party, to the supreme court in preparation for parliamentary elections expected this spring.

Relations between the two countries also were blocked by the gold issue. The Soviet Union, which received the gold in 1936 when it appeared that Franco's insurgents would win a quick victory, has said the gold was used to finance military aid to the Republican government.

Moscow has claimed that Spain still owes $30 million for that aid.

The agreements left only two major nations without formal links with Spain—Israel and Mexico.

District court delays ruling on Gooding rim development

GOODING — Legal action to force Gooding County Commissioners to limit canyon rim development has again been delayed in district court here until Monday.

A hearing on a writ of prohibition brought by R. W. Stevens, Hagerman, against the commissioners was scheduled for Feb. 7 but was continued for another week when his attorney, Lloyd Webb, Twin Falls, could not attend.

The commissioners, represented by Phil Becker, new prosecuting attorney, originally were scheduled to appear in court Jan. 31. That hearing was delayed until Feb. 7 when the case was continued a second time. Several people appeared for the hearing Monday.

Stevens seeks to keep the commissioners from approving any subdivisions, building permits or licenses along the rim until a decision is made.

He wants development restricted within 900 feet of the edge of the rim because of danger of pollution to the springs in the canyon wall which provide water not only for the city of Hagerman but for farming and the many fish hatcheries in the valley.

National A-Victoria epidemic held unlikely by authorities

ATLANTA (UPI) — An official of the national Center for Disease Control Tuesday said there is not much likelihood of a nationwide A-Victoria influenza epidemic this winter.

But Dr. J. Donald Millar, coordinator of the CDC's swine flu immunization task force, said he would "not rule out the possibility of localized outbreaks among susceptible people."

Millar said the "possibility of a major national epidemic is very low" because about half the population was infected with the flu strain last year and 40 per cent of the high-risk groups, which includes children over 65 and those with chronic ailments. The $135 million project was halted Dec. 16 because of a statistical association between the vaccine and the Guillain-Barre syndrome, a temporary form of paralysis.

He estimated 77 million doses of bivalent vaccine, which protects against both the swine and A-Victoria strains, were available in the various state public health facilities.

Forty per cent of the estimated 37 million persons in the high risk groups have already been immunized.

Medical authorities said persons who have contracted a specific flu strain build up an immunity to it and are not likely to become re-infected until a new strain comes along.

A-Victoria recently broke out at a Miami nursing home where some 57 elderly persons fell ill with influenza. Authorities believe the infection may have contributed to four deaths.

Federal health officials decided Monday to resume the nationwide influenza immunization program for high-

Woman sues Sears in TF

TWIN FALLS — A woman is asking for more than $23,000 for injuries the suit says she sustained in a fall at Sears, Roebuck and Co., Inc., a year ago.

In a complaint filed in Fifth District Court here, the woman, Mildred A. Beveridge, charges the store with negligence by allowing "slippery and hazardous" exits. She fell and suffered head injuries at the store on Jan. 6, 1976, the complaint says.

She asks for $200,000 for her injuries, $11,000 for the inconvenience and expense of outside care, $2,959 for medical expenses and $25,000 for attorneys.

Buhl meeting relocated

BUHL — The Feb. 23 public information meeting on the proposed Twin Falls Comprehensive Plan will be held in the R and R' Cafe in Buhl rather than the city hall.

This is one of four meetings scheduled around the county for public input and opinion. It is designed for residents of the Castleford and Buhl areas.

Mayor Dale Christensen said the meeting place has been changed as there is not enough room in the city hall to accommodate a large crowd and the Joint Planning Commission is hoping for a large turnout.

FACT:

Back in the "good old days," 1964 for example, the average buyer spent 5.1 months of his income to pay for a standard size car.

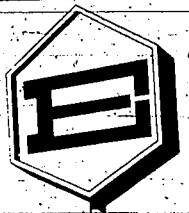

Today the same comparable car takes only 4.4 months to pay and the buyer gets a lot more automobile in the bargain.

Inflation has increased the value of your present car. It's worth more in FREE appraisal from any of the value-conscious local dealers.
