Oil magnate buys resort

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Oil and hotel magnate R. Earle Holding today purchased the Sun Valley resort and immediately pledged an infusion of energy and money to improve the world-famous resort.

As part of the transition, all Sun Valley Co. employees were notified they had lost their jobs. Although most were expected to be rehired by the new owner, there were no public promises made.

Former Sun Valley owner William Janss, president of Sun Valley Co., and Holding, announced the purchase after "final sales" agreements were signed and closed at about 6:30 this morning.

The purchase price was not announced. Holding is the principal owner of Little America Travel Centers and the Sinclair Oil Corp.

Coming out from two weeks of intensive negotiations behind closed doors, Holding today revealed his ambitious plans for the resort's future.

"We are committed to implementing an ongoing multi-million dollar program developing Sun Valley's recreation facilities, vacation packages, and its growing meeting and convention trade," Holding said in a press release announcing the sale.

"Sun Valley's tennis and golf complexes will receive extensive landscaping before the summer holiday season begins on May 20," the new president of Sun Valley Resorts, Inc. noted.

Holding intends to try to "stabilize" the resort and the community by making it a full year operation and much less susceptible to seasonal winds, according to L.E. Simmons, Holding's investment banker and spokesman in the purchase.

"One of the problems we are deeply concerned about with the community and the resort is stabilizing the whole thing so that it's not subject to when it snows or when it doesn't snow," Simmons said.

"We want to stabilize the employment in the community and stabilize the resort, and to do that we plan several million dollars in capital expansion in snow-making and skiing and recreation facilities." "Immediately our plan is to convert the spring and summer seasons to make them longer."

To accomplish this, Simmons says Sun Valley Resorts, Inc. will replace Exhibition and Dollar Mountain ski lifts as well as install snowmaking equipment to run to the top of Baldy Mountain. The new ownership and management of the resort is effective as of today. Ken Knight, a senior executive with Little America, will be the executive officer in charge of operations here.

Late Thursday afternoon, just before the deal was to be consummated, Janss sent a letter to all Sun Valley Co. employees announcing the sale and telling them they were no longer employed.

"In view of all the recent publicity it will come as no surprise to you that the assets of our company have been sold," Janss wrote. "Accordingly, effective as of the close of business today, your employment with Sun Valley Co., Inc. is terminated."

"An era is passing at Sun Valley," Janss told his employees. "All of you worked so hard to make Sun Valley one of the world's great resorts. This became a people place. Unfortunately, we could not anticipate what would happen in this winter of 1976-77."

"Sun Valley Co. revenues this winter were reported to be down by about $6 million.

Simmons said Sun Valley Resorts Inc. officials have been and will continue to be interviewing Sun Valley Co. employees for jobs with the new company.

Simmons would not say, however, how many employees would be rehired. He said they would staff as needed.

"This year was very tough around here," Janss told the Times-News today. "Mr. Holding is a very fine businessman. He is going to bring in fresh capital that will make the job secure."

"When I came here it was a challenge and I was warned by many friends it would be tough to take on a company of this size," Janss said.

"I really feel it has been a challenge for my family and myself." "Thorough negotiations it was speculated that a $32 million lawsuit pending between Sun Valley Co. and the Dwight, Fenton Co., a development firm, could complicate a Sun Valley sale by tying up company properties until the case was settled."

The suit involves Sun Valley Mall and some village center properties.

However, Simmons said, Holding's purchase of Sun Valley Co. includes virtually all the company's assets.

"We've reviewed all the possible outcomes," Simmons said about the sale. "And we are comfortable with moving ahead. It's a situation that involves the former Sun Valley Co. and not us. We went ahead and purchased all the assets of Sun Valley Co."

The Sun Valley Resort was founded in 1936 by Union Pacific Railroad. Janss acquired Sun Valley from the railroad in 1964.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, mindful of a 1.1 per cent increase in wholesale prices last month, will announce a new anti-inflation package early next week, his chief spokesman said today.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell also said Carter does not believe his proposed $50 tax rebate for taxpayers will add to inflationary pressures — but thinks an immediate permanent tax cut proposed by Republicans would.

"We do not believe the $50 tax rebate is going to be inflationary," Powell said. "It is because of our concern of long-term inflationary pressures that we have proposed two stages — a one shot tax rebate and a permanent reduction."

"Ours will not add inflationary pressures next year when hopefully unemployment will be in better shape," Powell said. But he said a permanent tax cut now, as proposed by the GOP, "will bring us severe inflationary pressures next year."

Powell, noting that wholesale prices increased 1.1 per cent in March, said "the administration is and has been concerned about inflation," and will "proceed in a balanced manner," to deal with it.

Hazelton woman eludes killer

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

JEROME — A Hazelton woman kidnaped at gunpoint by a man believed to be a paroled murderer on a killing spree was safe here today after dropping the man off at a bus depot in Utah.

The woman, Mrs. Grace Davis, about 60, was abducted Thursday morning at gunpoint by an Oregon ex-convict allegedly suspected of murdering two other persons and kidnaping a third, according to wire service reports.

Jerome County Sheriff Elga Hall said this morning the ex-con, Michael A. Olds, 34, abducted Mrs. Davis and a car from her home Thursday morning, apparently leaving another vehicle there which he had been using for transportation.

Jerome County Prosecutor Gene Frederickson said a warrant has been issued here for the arrest of Olds, a paroled murderer on a second-degree kidnapping charge. The wanted man was sentenced to two life terms in the Walla Walla, Wash., state penitentiary in 1962 for first-degree murder and robbery. He was paroled Dec. 21.

Olds is allegedly wanted in the connection with the kidnaping and murder of a Washington cab driver and an Oregon woman.

Steven F. Schmeier, College Place, Wash.,

was kidnaped from Walla Walla, Wash., Sunday, police reported. He was found dead in his car halfway to Pendleton, Ore. on Tuesday, wire services reported.

Two days later, state police found Mrs. Mary E. Lindsay, 78, lone, Ore., dead near the small eastern Oregon town of Juntura. Both were found shot to death.

Mrs. Lindsay and Marion Riley, 72, Pendleton, were reported missing on Wednesday. When Mrs. Davis was abducted Thursday, Riley was still in Olds' custody, the Jerome Sheriff said.

Riley and Davis escaped their abductor in Brigham City, Utah, after Olds stepped out of the car.

"He stepped out of the car for some reason and Mrs. Davis, who was behind the wheel, took off," said FBI agent Peter Welsh.

When Mrs. Davis was abducted Thursday, Mrs. Davis drove back to Idaho with Riley and called police.

The Jerome sheriff and prosecutor would not comment this morning on why Mrs. Davis did not go straight to Utah authorities.

The prosecutor and sheriff said they did not wish to release more details because Olds was still in 1968.

Utah highway patrolmen and FBI agents said today Olds, a paroled-murderer, may be headed back to Idaho.

A patrol spokesman said the suspect, was last seen Thursday afternoon north of Brigham City hitchhiking on Interstate 15.

The FBI and patrol have alerted all law enforcement agencies in northern Utah, southeastern Idaho and southwestern Wyoming. He is described as "armed and extremely dangerous."

Federal agents said Olds is 5-foot-9, 180 pounds with short brown hair. He was last seen wearing a white and pink shirt, with brown pants and a brown jacket. He was carrying an army duffel bag.

The breakup of his marriage may have influenced murder and kidnap suspect Michael Olds to pursue his violent course, acquaintances of the 34-year-old former prison inmate say.

A story in the Walla Walla Union-Bulletin depicted Olds as a willing employee and family man who became "very lonely" after separating from his wife.

"He was an awful sweet guy while he was here," Olds' landlady, Frances Banks, told the Union-Bulletin. "I'm surprised, I thought a lot of him. I just can't figure it out."

Banks added that Olds lived alone in his kitchenette and room with few visitors. "He'd come down and talk to me sometimes and watch television," she said.

Last fall, the Union-Bulletin reported, Olds moved from Washington to Wisconsin with his wife and her children by a previous marriage. Several months later, Olds returned to Walla Walla alone and went back to his old job at a pet shop.

"They were getting a divorce," Mrs. Banks said, "he says that she nagged him all the time."

Pet shop employes who worked with Olds described him as "dependable" and a willing employee recruited. "We just thought Mike would be the last one to steal from us."

Olds' parole officer, Al Shaw, told the Walla Walla paper the suspect, was released from supervised parole last December after going more than two years with only a traffic violation.

"We've known Mike a long time," Shaw said. "He got out, got married, bought a house. My own thought is that he moved back to Wisconsin. I moved back here alone and was separated from his wife. He was a very lonely guy, and he probably just went off the deep end."

Gunman worried about woman's heart

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

HAZELTON — The kidnaper of Mrs. Grace Davis said he was concerned about the woman's heart and asked her to keep taking her pills while she was being abducted.

Mrs. Davis, about 60, was back home in Hazelton today. The woman was forced at gunpoint to drive a convicted murderer from Hazelton to Brigham City, Utah, Thursday.

Her abductor has been identified as Michael Olds, 35, an ex-convict released from the Washington State Penitentiary in December.

Mrs. Davis, told police she answered a knock at her door about 11 a.m. Thursday and was met by a man with a gun in his hand.

"He told me he was going to take me and my car, and if we cooperated he would let me go," she said.

The woman, shaken by her experience, said she told the man she had a heart condition.

"He was concerned about me and told me to take one of my heart pills on the way," she said.

During the drive to Utah Mrs. Davis told her abductor she couldn't take the pill with her, he offered her so they stopped and he bought her a soft drink and asked her to take the pill.

The woman said she drove Olds and another man he had with him (Marion Riley, 74, Pendleton, Ore.) to Brigham City, Utah.

The suspect told the woman he had killed before and would do it again if she did not do as he told.

He told her if she would drive to the bus depot at Brigham City, he would let her and the other man go, but she was not to contact anyone until she returned to Hazelton.

Mrs. Davis said when the suspect left her car at the bus depot, she immediately drove off, and she and Riley returned to Hazelton, as told, before contacting police.

Officers said they checked with bus depot employees in Brigham City but the man did not purchase a ticket or board a bus there Thursday morning.

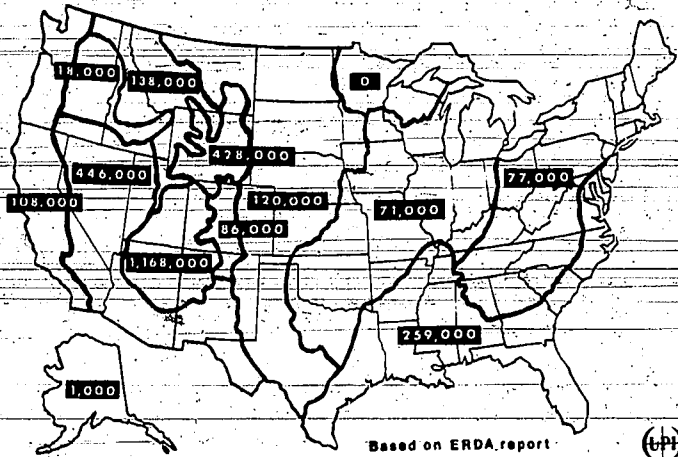

Mrs. Davis indicated she cooperated with the man in fear of her life.

Her home is located on a farm outside of Hazelton. Mrs. Davis said the man told her he came to her two other farm houses before he came to her, but there was no one home at either place.

Mrs. Davis suspected of killing two Washington residents before he started his kidnaping rampage through Idaho and Utah.

Congress quits for Easter holiday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is off on its traditional Easter holiday, leaving behind an untold number of bewildered taxpayers who won't know until after the April 15 filing deadline what they should be claiming.

Congress adjourned Thursday for its second recess called Non-Legislative Days by the Senate and District Days by the House — and will not return until Monday, April 18.

Most lawmakers headed home to mend political fences, feel the pulse and meet with constituents. But some are going to more exotic places — China, Australia, Mexico, Jakarta, Bangkok, Tokyo, even East Timor. Before leaving, Congress failed to take final action on legislation vitally affecting taxpayers who were sick last year or who worked abroad.

The Senate Wednesday

adopted a House-passed bill which would grant a one-year delay in terminating tax deductions that sick and disabled workers have received for the first $100 a week of sick pay.

But they also adopted an amendment to grant a similar one-year delay — from the 1976 to 1977 tax year — on a reduction from $20,000 to $15,000 in the amount U.S. workers overseas may exclude from income tax.

The House promptly rejected that proposal, sent the bill back to the Senate, and left town. No conference was possible, so the bill was left hanging.

The left-affected taxpayers a choice according to debate on the Senate floor: They can either file by April 15 and then seek a refund when Congress acts, or they can seek an extension of the filing deadline.

When Congress took off, it also temporarily abandoned work on President Carter's two-year, $31 billion program to stimulate a stagnant economy on which he asked quick action more than two months ago.

So far, Congress has not completed work on any part of the Carter package. The proposed $50 tax rebate is in serious jeopardy in the Senate and the proposed $4-billion public works job program is bogged down as Senate-House negotiators battle over the unrelated issue of water pollution control projects.

Other parts of the package are moving, but slowly.

Law said helpful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Thursday the drought legislation signed into law by President Carter "won't work miracles" but will alleviate problems in many areas.

The new law contains a plan to allow irrigation districts in Idaho and the West to defer payments to the Bureau of Reclamation during a drought emergency, he said.

Church said the bill also allows the Secretary of Interior to purchase water from individuals willing to sell for redistribution to users in critical need. Persons seeking water also may qualify for loans to purchase water obtained by the Interior Department.

The purchase and redistribution plan contain "iron-clad" guarantees, Church said, to respect state and individual water rights.

"There can be no purchase without a willing seller and any redistribution of water must be carried out in strict conformity with state water law," Church said.

Congress shelves public works bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Action by one U.S. senator — Edmund Muskie, D-Maine — was a key factor in the congressional delay of the $4 billion public works job bill, part of President Carter's economic recovery package.

House and Senate negotiators failed to reach agreement Thursday on the interlocked issues of jobs and clean water.

They went home for an Easter recess, telling their staffs to keep working on the problems and to meet again when Congress returns April 18.

Muskie explained his position to the negotiators this way:

"For two years he and other senators have been working toward comprehensive legislation on two big environmental issues — clean air and clean water. It will take several months more to get a major water pollution bill to the Senate floor.

Meanwhile, Muskie said, his state and 33 others are running out of money to build sewage treatment plants under an existing federal program. So weeks ago, he attached a $9 billion extension of sewage construction funds to the $4 billion public works job bill, moving quickly through Congress.

The jobs measure passed the House but Muskie's sewage plan extension attached.

"The House passed a somewhat different jobs bill with no such extension.

The House then passed an $18-billion, three-year clean water bill, not as comprehensive as the one Muskie wants eventually, and containing provisions he and other environmentalists don't like.

"For example, it would delay deadlines for halting river pollution and leave some wetlands unprotected by an pollution laws.

All these job and clean water proposals landed in the House-Senate conference.

House negotiators urged the issues be split. They said the two sides could quickly settle their differences over jobs and Congress could send Carter a public works jobs bill soon after the April recess, lacking clean water shortly afterward.

Muskie said that would cause Maine and other states to run out of sewage plant funds, missing this summer's construction season. He said many jobs are involved in building these plants, than in the jobs bill.

"There is no way I could go back to my state with such an agreement," he said.

He accused the House of trying to "pressure" the Senate to accept its water program.

Rep. Harold Johnson, D-Calif., the chief House negotiator, offered to include in a jobs bill a temporary extension of sewage treatment construction.

It appeared for a moment, this would settle it, but Muskie parried the offer, saying he hadn't seen it in the form of a proposal.

The House side then said if Muskie wouldn't agree to decide jobs first and then clean water, how about agreeing on water first and then jobs?

Muskie said there were "too damn many issues" in there that he isn't prepared to take a position on, but that he was "willing to talk." However, the most that came from this approach was to outline water issues on the agenda.

During the conference there were moments of tension. Muskie questioned the "good faith" of the House negotiators. Each side accused the other of contributing to delay, of holding the other's position "hostage."

Muskie was a one-man show. None of his fellow Senate negotiators once challenged his position, though they didn't specifically support him either.

Inspection sought for all US dams

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, introduced two bills Thursday requiring inspection of all federal dams at least every five years.

Any problems identified in the inspections would require immediate repair under the legislation McClure said.

The measures also would help states establish safety programs for non-federally funded dams.

"It is absurd that the United States has no functioning national dam inspection program now. It is time Congress takes some preventive action to insure that dams are inspected regularly and that necessary repairs are mandated," McClure said.

Where the trimming ax should fall

A couple of days ago President Carter signed into law a reorganization bill aimed at slimming down the obese federal government. The bill gives Carter authority to transfer, consolidate or abolish many government agencies. One of the places the President might want to begin sawing away is in the White House. In his first 90 days in office, President Carter has expanded his White House staff by 30 per cent over the staff employed by former President Ford. Carter's White House now employs 665 people compared to 510 employed by Ford in his final days. Carter, you remember, often criticized what he called the "bloated bureaucracy" during his two-year run for the White House. And, the new President promised to cut the White House staff by 30 per cent if elected. Instead, he has increased the staff by 30 per cent. The President added 100 people to his staff simply to answer mail. He tacked on 20 more to handle appointments, and 40 more to draft his energy plan. Taken individually, these additions might seem justified. Collectively, they increase slow once again the apparent inability of even the most well-intentioned bureaucrats to control government growth. On Capitol Hill, the support systems which cater to the Members of Congress and the U.S. Senators also should absorb some strokes of the trimming ax. The cost of running the U.S. Congress steadily has increased since 1960 as Senators and Representatives add more advisors, assistants and secretaries. An estimated 19,000 workers with average salaries in excess of $12,000 now support the daily operations of Congress. Today's U.S. Congressman employs three times the staff a Congressman in 1955 had at his disposal. Senators have twice the staff they did in 1960. And, the Congress has found other ways to spend money on themselves in recent years. For example, the Congress spends an estimated $1.2 million a year delivering an average of one plant a month to the 535 congressional offices on Capitol Hill. They spend between $27,000 to $31,000 a session refurbishing their offices, according to a recent article in New Times magazine. The Senate also maintains 67 semi-private Post Office workers at $11,000 a year salaries to handle their correspondence. To keep these postal workers busy, each Senator is given a $6,500 annual allowance to buy stationery. Trimming the size and expense of the White House staff and congressional staffs might serve as an example to government agencies elsewhere. If Carter can't trim his own staff and the staff of the congress, then Americans shouldn't generate much enthusiasm for the prospects of the federal bureaucracy shrinking in the coming four years.

NEW YORK — He was Ernest Hemingway, Edward R. Murrow and William L. Shirer. The very mention of his job recalled the liberation of Paris, the Spanish Civil War and the foxholes of World War II. His work suggested red plush bars in the grand hotels of Europe; ringing dispatches with executive datelines and, of course, Burberry raincoats. He — and occasionally, she — had the ultimate sly job in journalism — the Foreign Correspondent. The Burberry lives on. But possibilities for wearing it on foreign assignment are dwindling rapidly. A 1975 survey by the Overseas Press Club shows 247 foreigners working for American news organizations around the world. This is a 16 per cent decrease from 297 correspondents in 1972 and a 28 per cent drop from the 929 reporters working for American companies abroad in 1969. The drop is predominantly a reflection of the sharp increase in costs in recent years for tax laws, unfavorable rates of exchange with foreign currencies and general inflation. Kelti Fuller, general manager of The Associated Press, estimates that three years ago, it cost the news agency about 20 per cent more to keep a correspondent abroad than to support a domestic correspondent. Today, the cost is double. Other news executives say that the cost of maintaining a bureau overseas runs between $85,000 and $115,000 a year. The decrease in American correspondents abroad also reflects what many see as a general turning inward of the American people since the end of the Vietnam war. They see the ups and downs of the economy, Watergate and the concern with good government that followed in its wake, and the pursuit of leisure as having taken priority over people's concern with world news.

What the SALT talks really mean

By RUSSELL BAKER
N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — Stocking though it may seem, the Soviet Union and the United States now have enough salt to ruin every bowl of soup on earth 36 times. It is this grim statistic with its nasty implications for the palate of mankind that has led to the salt talks between Moscow and Washington. Contrary to popular notion, the talks do not aim at abolishing the salt piles of either power, as pointed out by Central European professors, the only persons on earth with minds dense enough to understand the talks, the goal is not desalination, but only limited salt control, or, as it is called by the experts, a weak salt solution. In short, if you believe the salt talks will relieve humanity of the threat of the sodium-chloride saltcast, you are grossly deceived.

The present aim is merely to slow the insane pace of the salt race. This began at Potsdam in 1945 when Stalin learned that President Truman had secretly cornered salt and didn't intend to give him any. Since then, both nations have been laying in salt like drunken hoarders at the supermarket. Behind this madness lies neurotic fear of surprise attack. The Russians fear that unless they match the Americans in saltleg power, a lightning attack like Hitler's of 1940 could rain all the borshcht in Mother Russia. The Americans, mindful of the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor, are determined that even in a sneak Soviet attack overalls every muskled potato in the United States, they must still have saltine retaliation capability. Moreover, the Americans say, since they will never be the first to resort to salt warfare, they need more salt than Moscow, so they can take the first shock and still salt back. This is known as the doctrine of counter-salt. Because of the economic burden of the salt race, however, both sides would like to stop it before they go bankrupt. Unfortunately, there are problems. In both nations, powerful salt lobbies are opposed to agreement. Congressmen from the big salt-producing states fear economic losses for the folks back home. Strategists in salt, fear they will lose cachet in Washington. Similar forces are at work in Moscow. Even greater are fears in each country that the other cannot be trusted. Sensible and eminent senators in Washington demand to know what safeguards the United States will have against Soviet stockpiling of condiments not covered by the salt talks. There has been alarm in Washington, for example, over recent evidence that Moscow is secretly developing pepper, which, with its high susceptibility to wind currents, might be blown over the United States in such megatonnage that it would blot out not only rain the scrambled eggs from east to east, but also the nation population with itself using flits, thus leaving the Italian powers to defend itself against a massive oregano attack. This worry has produced a hardening in the United States position, with powerful senators demanding that pepper and oregano be covered in any salt agreement.

The Russians are unwilling to talk about pepper and oregano unless the United States agrees to bargain about mozzarella cheese. American technologists have been developing quantities of mozzarella which, when production hits its peak, can be used to cover the earth's entire land surface. Its advantages as a retaliatory device are evident. If, for instance, a massive pepper attack were momentarily to paralyze the American population, an automatically fired barrage of mozzarella covering the Eastern Hemisphere from France through Soviet Asia would leave the Red Army gulf motionless to the ground. The Soviets had they might be willing to discuss controls on pepper and oregano if the Americans will discuss controls on mozzarella cheese. Strategists at the Cheesagon are objecting, however, on the grounds that mozzarella is not a condiment like oregano, pepper and salt. The President is reluctant to press the Cheesagon for concessions, for fear that the more warlike elements in Congress, who are known as "hard cheeses," will accuse him of being a "soft cheese." In Washington parlance, "soft cheeses" are thought to be sissies, which is bad for Presidential images. The summer makes clear, little progress is likely to be made before the century is out. The choice seems to be between spending the next 30 years worrying about salt or hitting the vanilla extract right away.

Few foreign correspondents remain

NEW YORK — He was Ernest Hemingway, Edward R. Murrow and William L. Shirer. The very mention of his job recalled the liberation of Paris, the Spanish Civil War and the foxholes of World War II. His work suggested red plush bars in the grand hotels of Europe; ringing dispatches with executive datelines and, of course, Burberry raincoats. They see the ups and downs of the economy, Watergate and the concern with good government that followed in its wake, and the pursuit of leisure as having taken priority over people's concern with world news.

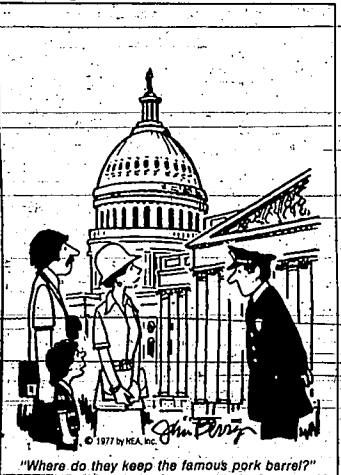

However, the figures about the decline of the American press corps overseas may be deceiving. The rise in costs may have made it prohibitive for smaller organizations to maintain correspondents abroad, but interviews with 14 of the major news organizations that maintain foreign bureaus indicate that all but two of them were either thriving steady or increasing their personnel abroad. The Chicago Daily News, which had been known for its distinguished foreign service, has closed its four overseas bureaus, situated in Hong Kong, Paris, London and Nairobi. According to James Hoge, editor in chief, this will mean an annual saving of $400,000, but he says that the newspaper will continue to maintain an extensive overseas network of stringers or part-time correspondents. The Daily News also subscribes to a number of news agency services, which will provide it with extensive foreign coverage. "When things settle down here, we plan to send out former foreign correspondents for major swings through the areas which they covered," Hoge said. The Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. restructured its Washington and foreign news operations last year because of rising costs. It closed its overseas bureaus and engaged Associated Press Radio and AIC Radio to supply it with international news for its seven radio stations. Both Time and Newsweek said that they had no plans at present to change the site of their foreign staffs. They said that they were printing approximately the same amount of foreign news as they had been for the last few years. The Baltimore Sun and The Christian Science Monitor each have eight overseas bureaus, approximately the same number as they have had for the last five or six years. The Monitor also has a correspondent, James Nelson Goodsell, who lives in Boston but has been covering South America for 14 years by taking long trips there to do interpretive stories. The Washington Post has 13 bureaus overseas. The Los Angeles Times has 18 bureaus and says it is pouring more money into its foreign coverage than in the past and giving it better display in the newspaper. The Wall Street Journal has added a reporter in London and one in Tokyo for a total of 13 overseas bureaus. The New York Times now has 31 correspondents abroad, having fluctuated from 20 to 34 in the last few years. Both the wire services, or news agencies, which furnish news to members of subscribers, have added to their staffs abroad recently. The Associated Press has added 10 American correspondents, bringing its total to 81. Three months ago it had 464 foreign nationals working as A.P. correspondents in their own countries and now there are 473. United Press International has 67 American correspondents, a figure that includes reporters, photographers and editors, and 173 citizens of the countries where they work. The major radio and television networks have also remained more or less steady. ABC has 16 full-time correspondents abroad and NBC has 15. CBS declined to give the number of its correspondents but the network has 14 overseas bureaus, with one correspondent in each. The important thing is that two or three correspondents in major centers. The networks say that there have been no overall surveys on whether more or less foreign news is presented on the air than in the past. The key question about all of this is whether foreign news coverage is better or worse than it was years ago. Quality is impossible to measure, but there is no question that most newspapers are printing different kinds of articles from abroad than they were 10 or 20 years ago. There is much less emphasis now on coverage of daily events or even on what is happening in just one country. There are more reports of trends — articles on how the energy crisis is affecting Western Europe or on arms sales throughout the Middle East. There are also more articles of a sort that the average American can relate to, dealing with such subjects as what the average Indian does with his income after the or the mounting cost of housing in Britain. "The farther you get away from news about this country, the more descriptive and colorful, and impactful it has to be for the reader here," says Hoge. The Chicago Daily News editor in chief, "You want stories about people and what their life is like. My feeling is that this kind of reporting does a strong readership. The Associated Press Managing Editors Association, whose members represent newspapers around the country, report in its 1975 yearbook that many newspapers had cut back on foreign news for economic reasons. This was attributed to a reduction in overall space for news in many newspapers as well as to a feeling on the part of many editors that interest in foreign news was declining. "We seldom get reader comment on foreign news, unless it affects readers directly (an air crash with Americans abroad, etc.)," wrote one editor. "It seems our readers are far more concerned now with pocketbook stories." Most news organizations said that they did not keep track of the amount of space they devoted to foreign news, so that it was not possible to determine whether they were carrying more or less than they had in the past.

Not exactly a second Watergate

By MIKE ROVKO

CHICAGO — I really hope O'Brien made it home all right. Undercover work can be risky. But let me start at the beginning. The phone rang at about 5 p.m. The operator said it was a lady from O'Brien. I wasn't expecting a call from anybody named O'Brien. So I asked her where the call was being placed. "In Chicago," she said. I accepted. "My name's O'Brien," he said. "You want a big story?" I'll take a little story. What is it about? "Bribe. Corruption. Payoffs." Where, what, where, how? "O'right, take this down. I just got off work. I'm sitting in a bar. And I just saw a cop take a payoff. I don't like it. So I got his badge number. It's — Got that?" Got it. How big was the payoff, could you see?

"Yeah. What happened was this. He came in here, and told the bartender he wanted two packs of Winstons. The bartender gave him the Winstons, but the cop didn't give him any money. I was watching. Not a cent." Cigarettes? "Yeah, two packs." Well, look O'Malley. "It's O'Brien." Sorry. But two packs of smokes isn't really that shocking. "What ya mean? I pay for my smokes, let him pay for his. Are you condoning it?" Absolutely not. Thank you for the information. "Don't mention it." The phone rings a half-hour later. The operator said it was another collect call from O'Brien. "I forgot to tell you where the tavern was," he said. "And I got the bartender's name. It's Eddie. I heard a guy call him that." Eddie. "Right. I'll call you again later." An hour later the operator called collect again. "I heard O'Brien said, 'It happened again. I just saw it. Except it was worse.'" More cigarettes? "An cigar. This time it was two packs Kools and one pack Luckies, and two cigars. He tin pay anything. The dirty croak I got his badge number. It's — Thanks, O'Brien. But why don't you call it a night? Go home to your wife." "To tell with the wife, I'm on to this thing now. I'm not going to quit Jus when it's gettin' good." But you snuggled O'Brien. Your speech is even slurred. "Don't worry 'bout me. Jus you sit tight. I'm on these guys."

Another hour went by before the next call. "O'Brien here. G'nother one." Another cop? "Right." More cigarettes? "What, a drink. Dit' pay?" "A drink." "Uh-huh." What kind of drink? "Ornjuce." Orange juice? "Glass ornjuce." Are you all right, O'Brien? "Din get badge number. Too dark, but I can tell you what he looks like." What does he look like? "Big. He's big." Call it a night, O'Brien. "Ne'r mind. I'll get more." The last call came at half-hour later. O'Brien was shouting. "The down his badge number!" More orange juice? "No. They throw me out. I called 'em chiselers, and they threw me out. Two of 'em." O'Brien, get home. It's late. "O'Brien, I'm in the bar. I'm not taking this from chiselers. I'll call you when I'm done with 'em." That was the last I heard of O'Brien. "So I'm writing this because I want Mrs. O'Brien to know why he was out late. She should know that he was trying to root out corruption." I mean, in case she thought he was just goofing around.

Rupert urban impact map gains commission praise

RUPERT — A proposed area of Rupert urban impact received praise Tuesday night from the Minidoka County Planning Commission.

In contrast with ambitious impact maps drafted by other cities in the Magic Valley, the proposed Rupert impact area is confined primarily to those areas that could be served immediately by city services. In no place does it reach beyond the one-mile buffer zone that the urban impact map will replace.

Fred Dayley called the map drafted by the Rupert Planning Commission "somewhat realistic," compared with those drafted by Heyburn and Paul.

Frank Garner said he would like to have studies a map of existing development in the area immediately north of the city, but said the area designated by Rupert officials "looks pretty good."

Minidoka County Planning Coordinator David Abo said, "It's the most conservative one so far."

Frank Mackley, member of the county planning commission, voiced the only concern regarding the map. He feared the high-density housing that has been proposed for the area immediately north of the city limits, and pointed out the county planning commission has proposed low-density residential zoning there.

Abo pointed out that Rupert has only one type of residential zoning.

Abo said adoption of a new zoning ordinance in Rupert depends upon the city-county comprehensive plan being adopted.

"They can't rezone until that is adopted," Abo said. "Until they have a new zoning ordinance, they can't stop anything from going in there."

Abo agreed that the area around northern Rupert is being impacted with high density and Rupert faces the problem of public service costs rising in that area. He said the city was unable to present Devoe, Inc. of Boise, from developing high-density, low-cost housing in north Rupert because the city has only one residential zone.

Mackley was particularly concerned because of a proposal for 24 units of senior citizen housing in the same area. He said there has also been discussion of constructing a mobile home park north of the city limits.

The proposed impact area, which has not yet been considered by the Rupert City Council, has a northern boundary 300 feet north of 300 North Road. The western boundary north of Baseline Road is 300 feet west of 100 West, south of Baseline Road.

It follows 100 West Road to Idaho 24, which creates the boundary in the southwest corner.

The east boundary in the northeast corner is about a half-mile east of Meridian Road, then follows Idaho 24 back to the existing city limits.

And turns south near the Minidoka Irrigation District Canal to Baseline Road.

South of Baseline Road the eastern boundary between Baseline Road and east First Street, the east boundary again is about one half mile from Meridian Road. South from east First Street, the boundary is south "A" Street.

The southern boundary follows a canal to take in the Chapman subdivision, where four new lots were annexed Tuesday night, then cuts back north to run along 100 South Road (Ninth Street) south to about three-fourths of a mile west of Meridian Road.

CLYDE WHEELER ... district aide
JAMES V. OLSEN ... program director

Scout chiefs set

TWIN FALLS — Two new Boy Scout officials have been announced for the Snake River Area Council.

Del Hanks, council executive, said Clyde Wheeler has been named to serve as district executive in the north-side area and James V. Olsen will be program director for the council.

Wheeler will be serving the areas of Jerome, Gooding, Lincoln and Blaine counties. He is a former Eagle Scout and has been working in Las Vegas, Nev., as a Cub Scout specialist, and his wife Hilly will reside in Jerome.

He succeeds Ker Weybright who has transferred to Everett, Wash., and will continue working with scouting in that area.

Olsen, as the program director for the Snake River Council, will direct the camping program, Explorer program, council events, Order of the Arrow and coordinate all program committees.

Olsen comes here from scouting duties in Colorado and Utah and has worked in most scouting programs, especially camping. He and his wife Andrea and their daughter will live in Twin Falls.

Olsen succeeds Blain Shaffer as program director.

Residents favor riprap proposal

SHOSHONE About 10 Shoshone residents whose property faces the Little Wood River favor the City Council's proposal to riprap the river banks, Mayor Elwood Werry said today.

The mayor said 10 or about 14 property owners along the river attended the City Council meeting this week to discuss the project.

The city is developing a contract with the Soil Conservation Service, Werry said, wherein the city would pay only about 25 per cent of the cost of the riprap with the SCS to finance the rest with federal money. Total cost is estimated at $23,000.

The individual property owners will have to contract with the city to pay for their proportionate share of sharing up the river banks which are being eroded.

Werry said "We'll have to get them all. We can't fix one section and have someone in between the two pieces of property not have the ripraping."

The mayor said the city has installed some 600 feet of pipe in the city irrigation ditches and also has installed a flow meter to control the amount of ditch water used by city residents.

In past years the city has pumped water out of the river and much of it went right back into the river," the mayor said, because more water was diverted than was needed.

Now with the meter restriction, only the amount of water will be pumped "that is supposed to be pumped," Werry said.

The City Council authorized the mayor to sign a contract with J-U-B Engineers to drill a new well in the southwest part of Shoshone. The new well will supplement water from the two present wells on the north side of town.

The council hired Dean Larsen, Roberts, as policeman to replace Greg Bolton, who had to resign because he had too many traffic citations. The mayor said Larsen is a certified police officer.

The council also decided to install about four more picnic tables and place several benches near the swimming pool in the city park which attracts hundreds of tourists each summer.

Ranch ski facility survives

SAWTOOTH VALLEY — In spite of limited snow fall this year in the Sawtooth mountains, the area's newest cross-country skiing facility reportedly is off to a good start.

The Busterback Ranch, a sheep and cattle operation at the base of the Sawtooths in Stanley Basin, has added a winter operation in the form of a cross country skiing resort.

John H. Breckenridge, owner of the ranch, who also lies within the Sawtooth National Recreation Area said there is a real need for this type of recreation service and it is a use compatible with SNRA regulations.

This winter Jay Sevy, son-in-law of M. and Mrs. Breckenridge, took over the new winter facility with 20 miles of trails on the ranch land and adjoining National Recreation Area lands.

The old ranch house was converted to winter accommodations for 16 overnight guests and dining facilities for touring skiers and guests. In addition hot lunches are provided from sleep wagons stationed along the ski trails.

Once a week skiers may take a five-mile guided tour through the valley to the ranch, ending with a lamb dinner at the ranch house.

A variety of tours are offered during the day, day tours with meals and over night lodgings, one-day guided tours with meals, one-day tours without guides but with lunch at the sleep wagon, or just use of the trails or selection of individual terrain are included.

The ranch rents equipment and gives cross country ski instructions.

Summer months are still expected to be livestock operation and ranch hands move into the house for lodging and meals, replacing the winter skiers.

Breckenridge said he has great hopes for a winter operation as a means of opening the scenic mountain area for enjoyment by more people on a year-round basis.

He said the family is looking forward to more snow and a longer season next winter.

Utah's Sen. Garn marries

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, marries Kathleen Brewster Bingham, 47, ex-wife of his political rival, in a ceremony Monday. Garn, 44, has four children by his first wife, Hazel, killed in an automobile accident last August. Mrs. Bingham obtained a church-sanctioned divorce from her husband, Jeff Bingham, in January 1976. She has one child.

Lady Bird campaigns for Robb

LURAY, Va. (UPI) — Ladybird Johnson went underground to get votes for her son-in-law Charles S. Robb Thursday in Hills, northwestern Virginia town known for its natural caverns. The wife of the late President Johnson has been campaigning this week to drum up votes for Robb's bid for the state Democratic party's nomination for lieutenant governor. Mrs. Johnson and her daughter, Robb's wife Linda, attended a fund raising luncheon at the Luray Caverns and Coach Restaurant and afterwards made a brief tour of the caverns.

Fabian to give concert

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. says onetime rock 'n' roll singer Fabian will be honorary chairman of his program to have volunteers help in the state's mental facilities. Brown's office said Fabian Forte, 33, who 18 years ago rose to fame when he cut such records as "Turn Me Loose" and "Like a Tiger," would give a free concert in May for patients at Metropolitan State Hospital in Newport.

MANILA, The Philippines (UPI) — Thirty-five years after the infamous Bataan death march, Sig Schreiner remembers using stones to cover the eyes of 100-mile journey only to die in a prison camp. "I was a member of the burial squad. We buried an average of 50 men each day. They just couldn't make it any longer," said the 57-year-old resident of Norwalk, Conn.

Schreiner is one of about 150 American veterans who have returned to the Philippines for a "Reunion for Peace" with former Japanese and Filipino soldiers in commemoration of the 33rd anniversary Saturday of the fall of Bataan. Bataan, the decisive battle for control of the Philippines, followed a brutal three-month siege. About 48,000 U.S. and Filipino troops, including 5,000 American Marines, began the march to the prison camps.

"Nobody really knows how many of us survived the three-day death march to the prison camps. Entire units, sick and battle-weary troops, just disappeared into the jungles," Schreiner said. "Our guards — we shock troops who saw a lot of their buddies killed. They were itching to get us." "But it was in the camps that most of our guys died. They were determined to survive the march, but when they saw the conditions in the camps, the short rations and lack of medical supplies, many of them just couldn't go on. "The fellows who were very weak, we just laid them out in the yard and put stones on their eyes when they died." He said.

shot. "I owe this country (the Philippines) a lot," Ellis said. "I had lost a lot of blood, but this Filipino was able to get me a transfusion. I am proud to say that I have two pints of Filipino blood in my body." Ellis said he thought about 100 of the Americans survived the death march, but that nobody knows how many others died in the prison camps and while being transported to other camps in Japan, Korea and elsewhere. "We lost quite a few men being transported to Japan," Ellis said. "The ship I was on started out with 1,619 of us. We were nearly sunk three times. When we landed, there were 175 of us left. And the Japanese only tried to transport those of us that were the healthiest. Many others were left in the Philippines."

Consumers, industry not happy with government's ban on Tris

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government decision to ban children's sleepwear treated with Tris pleased neither the consumer group which pressed the issue nor the industry affected by the outcome. The Consumer Product Safety Commission Thursday ordered children's sleepwear with the allegedly cancer-causing hazardous flame retardant removed from the shelves. The Environmental Defense Fund said it is considering asking a federal court to expand the scope of the ban in such a way that every consumer who bought a

Tris-treated garment could get his money back — a $1.3 billion proposition, according to the industry. The American Apparel Manufacturers Association said the ordered recall of perhaps 20 million garments still on retail shelves and in warehouses is an injustice which will drive some companies out of business. Even the commission is divided on the issue. While the five members were unanimous in the vote to ban unsold supplies of Tris treated garments, as well as uncut fabric intended for children's wear, it split 3 to 2 on whether to recall every item ever treated with Tris. But it approved unanimously a semi-recall: If a garment has not been washed (washing supposedly removes Tris from the fabric), consumers would be allowed to return it to the store for a refund. Robert Rauch, EDF lawyer, said the commission's decision to include sold but unwashed garments "will allow us to argue that they have at least crossed the barrier of sale versus non-sale." "We think by taking that much action it does give us a better chance of getting a court to say that the washed versus non-washed distinction is not a good one, now that they've reached into the hands of consumers," he said. The suit EDF is "very disappointed" at the outcome. The group had petitioned the agency to crack down on Tris because of evidence it may cause cancer in test animals. The AAMA said the children's sleepwear industry "acted in good faith and on the basis of available knowledge" to meet government requirements to make children's garments safer. The industry has been phasing out Tris and only 25 to 40 per cent of the garments now on sale are treated with it.

Wounded eagle can fly again

CHICO, Calif. (UPI) — Delmos the wild Golden Eagle stretches his damaged six-foot wingspan and whistles through the sky, but he can't go far or fast enough — yet. A bullet snapped the main bone in his left wing more than half a year ago and the 3½-year-old eagle is being nursed back to health at the Birdwell Nature Center.

The bangs healed and now he flaps like a normal Delmos in the wilds, but he is tortuously slow on takeoff, making him easy prey for ground predators. And he may not be fast enough in the sky to compete for food. Center volunteers Russ Atkinson, Phil Diefenbaugh and Bill Bloomer take Delmos on daily exercise flights and had planned to release him last weekend. But at the last minute, said Bloomer, "We had some doubts." So they will continue to exercise him until early June. They hold Delmos on a glove first and the 30-pound lost-flying, limp-to-his-legs bird, then hurl the 10-pound eagle into the air. The line pulls freely from a spinning reel mounted on a stubby section of fishing pole as Delmos flaps away across a wide field.

But soon he is down and the volunteers follow the fishing line to the glowering bird and start the exercising process all over again. MOVIE GUIDE FOR FAMILIES: "General Audiences." # 82-year-old passes bar

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Edward Hampton Smyrl, who failed the bar exam three times in 31 years and decided to give up because of what he felt was discrimination, has been admitted to the Pennsylvania Bar — at the age of 82. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court, in a rare move, waived the required written examination because of his age and poor eyesight. The certification only made official what Smyrl had been doing for many of his 23 years at the Pennsylvania Bureau of Workmen's Compensation.

Quake toll reaches 150

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The death toll from the earthquake that rocked villages in central Iran today rose to 150, the government said, and the figure was expected to increase as rescue teams reached areas isolated by landslides and floods.

The government radio, which announced an additional 30 deaths during the night, did not say where the new victims were buried.

But the death toll was expected to rise as more bodies were recovered from the debris of mud-and-stone homes destroyed by a 6.5 Richter scale shock which hit the livestock-producing tribal belt southwest of Isfahan in central Iran Wednesday.

The Persian-language daily newspaper Etefakat said the Tehran Geophysics Center recorded "more than 20" tremors in south and central Iran since then.

Damage in cut-off villages was being assessed by officials from the air. Helicopters were flown to villages, including the market town of Shahr Kord, where roads had been blocked by landslides and floods triggered by the quake.

The village of Ardat was reported the worst hit, and officials said 30 bodies had been found by rescue teams sent by the Red Lion and Sun Society, Iran's Red Cross. The village was destroyed, they said.

In the neighboring village of Nahjan only about 100 of 150 houses were left standing, officials said. Red Lion sources said "several" residents had died there.

Israeli premier resigns in scandal

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin has resigned as head of the ruling Labor party and bowed out of next month's elections, abruptly ending a meteoric career over a scandal involving a $1-million U.S. bank account.

The 57-year-old general who turned to diplomacy and then to politics made the announcement Thursday on nationwide radio and television in what could spell a setback in U.S. initiated peace efforts in the Middle East.

Rabin's move reopened the struggle for leadership within the Labor party. The party's 415-member central committee was scheduled to meet Sunday to discuss a replacement.

Germany tightens security

KARLSRUHE, West Germany (UPI) — Police today tightened security around top government officials, taking seriously the threat of the terrorists who killed the country's chief prosecutor they will strike again.

Justice authorities withheld details, but said public buildings and top officials were being closely guarded through out the country. Armored cars and police on foot patrolled the government district in the capital of Bonn.

A left-wing terrorist group said it killed Prosecutor General Siegfried Buback and his chauffeur as they drove to his office here Thursday.

An anonymous caller who said he represented the "Ulrike Meinhof action group" told the West German news agency DPA, "There will be more assassinations."

Buback, 57, was the head of West Germany's prosecution staff. He was in charge of preparing cases against a left-wing urban guerrilla known as the Baader-Meinhof band.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My sister, who is a very attractive 47-year-old single woman, has been going with the same 50-year-old man for 15 years! He openly dates others, and my sister puts up with it.

He is a divorced man who plays the field, and he's convinced my sister that marriage at his age is a bummer and that all men need variety.

Our whole family has tried to make her see how foolish it is to waste her time on him, but she insists she "loves" him and is satisfied with things as they are. She could easily get someone else but she won't look at another man.

What is wrong with this dummy? And how can I convince her to break off with this heel?

PROBLEM SISTER

Values differ

DEAR SISTER: The man is apparently playing it straight with your sister so why is he a heel? And if your sister is so set on going with things as they are, why is she a dummy?

As I see it, even though you and your family mean well, you'd like your sister to live according to your values—not hers. It's her life, and she has a right to live it as she sees fit, get off her back.

DEAR ABBY: My father was a very successful businessman, and my mother came into a large inheritance soon after her marriage. They were regarded as "high society," yet I was constantly beaten, kicked and brutally mistreated all through my childhood. To this day I have a semi-crippled hand as a result of the beatings I received as a child.

Today I am 30, happily married with two children of my own. Long ago I broke off all relations with my parents, as I could never forgive them for the way they treated me as a child.

My wife is urging me to make friends with my parents who are now in their 60s, have begged to see their grandchildren and repeatedly asked us to visit them. I want nothing to do with them. Most recently they have bequeathed a large inheritance in front of us. My wife thinks it's crazy to pass up this fortune. She wants me to forgive and forget. I can't seem to convince her that I can't forget what they put me through and want none of their handouts now. Am I wrong?

LONG SUFFERING

DEAR LONG: Your feelings of resentment are understandable. However, if you want no part of a prospective large inheritance for yourself, you might consider it for your wife and children. And for them, it is not for your parents, letting bygones be bygones would seem to be a timely compromise.

DEAR ABBY: I have seen plenty of those so-called sportsmen at the store buying bullets and beer. A great combination—almost as good as drinking and driving. I've known a number of hunters who have been "hunted" by hunters who will kill other hunters by mistake. How many will have heart attacks from overexertion and have to be flown out of the mountains at the taxpayers' expense.

Anybody who wants to buy a hunting license can get one. I've known a number of hunters who have been "hunted" by hunters who will kill other hunters by mistake. How many will have heart attacks from overexertion and have to be flown out of the mountains at the taxpayers' expense.

THIS IS A GUY: I've never been hunting, and I don't care to go. The only kind of shooting I do is with a camera. That way I'll have something beautiful to remember—not the bloody, lifeless remains of a once beautiful animal.

HATES HUNTING

DEAR HATES: Well said.

your health

Dear Dr. Lamb— Could you clarify some points about the use of "salt substitutes" in the diet?

As a way of reducing salt intake, can a so-called healthy person begin to use the substitute?

Can an overweight person with high blood pressure (controlled by medication) use the substitute without causing a problem?

Can the substitute salt be used in cooking or only at the table?

When using the substitute, does one have to be concerned about a potassium deficiency? If so, how to remedy that situation?

I have received differing information on this matter and need to know what's what.

Dear Reader— Your body does not need to use any salt if it doesn't want it. Your body requires a normal intake of sodium and potassium. Vegetables, cereals, and particularly milk and meat products all contain sodium. When you don't have too much sodium in your diet, the body normally "conserves it" by decreasing the amount filtered out in the urine.

Fruit contains potassium, as do meat products. Potassium chloride is the main salt inside the cells—the muscle fibers. Sodium chloride is the main salt in body fluids.

A person who is sweating a lot, as a laborer in a hot environment, may lose excess salt and need additional sodium but otherwise a normal person will not have salt depletion if no salt is used at all.

It follows that you can use a salt substitute, which is usually mostly potassium chloride with some other chemical salts and contains no significant amount of sodium.

You can use the salt substitute if you are overweight. And it is a good idea for anyone with high blood pressure to avoid sodium in ordinary salt. One group of medicines used to manage high blood pressure really works by helping your body eliminate sodium.

Yes, you can use the salt substitutes for cooking or at the table. They will not cause a potassium deficiency since most contain potassium.

Low-sodium, potassium-deficient diets occur because the person is on a diet. In addition to eliminating sodium too much potassium is also washed out. Individuals taking such medicines are often on a salt (sodium chloride) restricted diet but it is the medicine not the sodium restriction on the salt substitute that causes the loss of potassium.

Individuals taking medicines to eliminate sodium salt from the body should still include plenty of fruit and fruit juices in the diet. Increasing the intake of potassium. A couple of glasses of orange juice a day will go a long way toward solving the problem.

If you need to use a salt substitute to avoid sodium intake you do not use Morton's Lite Salt. It is fine to cut down on the intake of sodium but it is still half sodium chloride salt and half substitute. That is still too much sodium for many people with medical problems, including high blood pressure, and heart failure, or any condition related to the retention of body fluid.

Food 'specialty' for Willetta

By IRENE LINK

TWIN FALLS—After "making" Willetta Warberg, I am convinced that the Magic Valley is full of exceptional people.

We have as many as, and probably more than any metropolitan center.

Willetta has returned to Twin Falls to live after 23 years. She is too young to retire, so she will continue her career with Twin Falls as her home base.

Her resume' is an outstanding list of accomplishments that reads like the blue book of success.

While in high school, Ms. Warberg was a student of Teala Bellini of Twin Falls. She majored in music at Colorado Women's College and graduated in 1950. Next followed four years at the Mannes College in New York, where she graduated in music. While at Mannes, she met and married David Bar-Ilan, who was also studying to be a concert pianist.

Willetta felt that one concert pianist in the family was enough, so she began on the long road to a completely different career in the food industry.

Her first job was assistant to the director of circulation promotion at Look Magazine. After a year of "learning the ropes," she spent five years as associate food editor of Look. From that point on, it was all up hill in terms of a blossoming career.

During the next four years, Ms. Warberg worked with leading photographers and advertising agencies to produce advertisements for newspapers, magazines and television. She acted as a consultant for restaurants for recipe and menu changes. She designed and prepared still-life food photographs for the Vincent Price Cookbook, a tome on food.

During this period, she established "Willetta Food Consultation Service." This business consisted of devising promotional programs for restaurants and food companies. She designed and prepared food illustrations and developed recipes for cook books for Green Giant Co., Seven-Up Co. and many others.

She was the stylist for Gourmet Magazine covers and editorial illustrations for two years and produced the photographs for Gourmet's Menu Cookbook.

Perhaps the most exciting thing that happened during this period was an assignment for the U.S. State Department. This consisted of preparing a one-year program for international promotion of Israel's restaurants and cuisine.

She was sent to Israel for six weeks to make a survey. She planned and executed the U.S. promotion for the Sheraton Hotel Corp., which was the first international hotel in Israel.

She also wrote menus and recipes for the Sheraton-Tel Aviv opening. In addition to that aspect of the project, she traveled to major U.S. cities as a hostess for press luncheons for the hotel promotion.

Next followed a year as food editor of Ladies Home Journal.

During the next few years, she re-established "Willetta Food Consultation Service" which had been discontinued while she was with the Ladies Home Journal. The consultation service included "work" in recipe development, food promotions, food writing, editorial consultation, food research, photographic styling for still and television cameras and package development.

Some of the assignments included work for McCalls, American Home, Cosmopolitan and Glamour. Food company assignments included Pepsi-Cola, Coca-Cola, Morton Salt, Campbell Soup and Kellogg's. The list goes on and on.

Recent years have involved more of the same thing with more and more clients being served.

Willetta's interest in food goes back to the time, when at 19 years of age, she took over the family's kitchen. Her mother was ill and Willetta, as the oldest child, took on the cooking duties for her parents, her younger sisters, Zoc-Ann and Sally, and her brother Bob, all of whom are living in Twin Falls.

A professional, Ms. Warberg has some very definite ideas on what it takes to achieve success in a career. "I do not agree with some of the 'women's libbers' who say that a young woman should not take a typing job. Typing is not demeaning work but a necessary skill in many kinds of jobs. And the ability to type often opens otherwise closed doors. I started at the very bottom. I worked for $5 a week and learned every aspect of the business. You have to be willing to work hard and do whatever it takes to make yourself knowledgeable and indispensable.

She admits that she, like many other women, has suffered discrimination in professional attempts. "Often when a woman is attractive, her other attributes are not taken seriously. She therefore has to work harder than a man of equal talent in order to make a convincing impression.

"Even now, with all the strides that have been made, there is some discrimination, but it used to be much harder to get a fair salary."

Does she support the ERA? "I think a person should get paid what she or he deserves. Some women have tried to use the movement to get more than they really deserve. They attempt to over-qualify themselves and then try to demand more."

Advice for young women who are seeking careers includes timeless suggestions. "I advocate a well-rounded liberal arts education. Knowing how to type is a must. I feel strongly that every woman should learn how to take care of herself—totally—before she marries. She should be able to earn a living and handle her own life."

For someone who has been in various aspects of the foods business for so many years, a natural question to ask is, "Are you tired of cooking?"

"I love to cook! There is such a difference, for instance, between playing classical music and preparing food. In food preparation, there are infinite variables. Each time you prepare a recipe, it is unique and can never be repeated exactly. It is an exciting creation dependent upon so many different factors," she said.

Her favorite foods are almost anything, except foods with a slimy texture such as turtle. She has at least tasted most things that are considered edible, and some novelty foods that most people would not consider edible such as chocolate-covered ants.

When time permits, what she most enjoys cooking is pastries and breads and decorating foods.

Why is Willetta Warberg back in Twin Falls? "I have been planning for some time to move back to Twin Falls and this just turned out to be the right time. Late in the fall, I developed pneumonia and because of complications was in a coma and in the hospital for a long time. As I began to recover, I felt that moving to Twin Falls immediately would give me a very peaceful atmosphere in which to recuperate.

"I plan to live here and continue work from my office in Twin Falls. I want to work throughout the Northwest and use this area as my home base.

"I have always loved Twin Falls. However it has changed a great deal since I lived here as a teenager. It has become more sophisticated, more active, more full of cultural things. The design of the business buildings and homes has changed. The entire atmosphere is prouder. I know I am going to like living here."

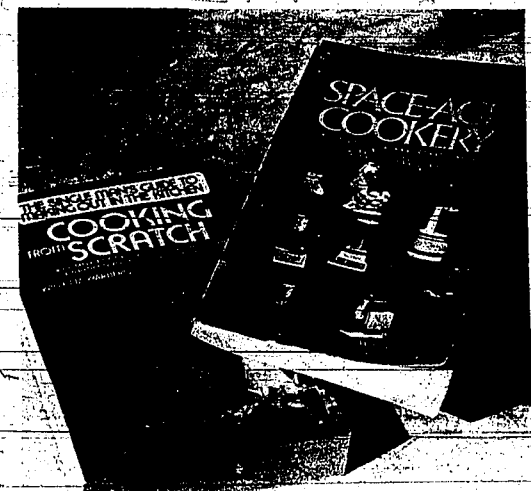

Ms. Warberg has two children—Daniela, 18, a sophomore at Barnard, and Jeremy, 15, attends a private high school in the East.

Her satisfactions in life have been many and varied. She says her children, of course, have been her greatest source of happiness. Professionally, her fulfillments are extensive. "I have been grateful to be healthy, and to be able to function optimally in my work. During the past eight years, after building a reputation, I have been able to do what I really want to do. It has taken a long time to get to that point, but it has been worth it."

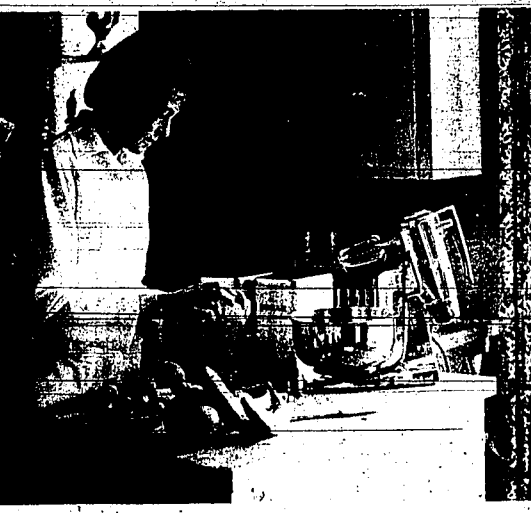

In view of the new surge toward using non-refined foods and learning more about good nutrition, would she consider writing a new cookbook around these concepts? "We are all becoming better educated and interested in simple, good nutrition. This is not a fad, but the coming thing. It will become more and more important to good health."

Future plans include more cookbooks, more work in food advertising and more magazine articles.

When asked what the greatest driving forces in her life have been, her answer was "an obvious explanation for her great success. I have been driven by the desire to be proud of what I do. I have tried to do the best I can and can be proud of my work. My parents can take credit for instilling that drive in me. However, I do not feel that I have attained it. No one ever does. The future is full of opportunity for improvement."

Willetta Warberg's latest publications

Real pro in kitchen

A REAL professional in the kitchen, Willetta Warberg, who has returned to Twin Falls after 23 years, prepares one of her favorite recipes. Willetta has an extensive background in food consultation, including recipe development, food promotions, food writing, editorial consultation, research and package development. All of the recipes in Ms. Warberg's two latest publications, "Cooking From Scratch" and "Space-Age Cookery" are original creations and have been tested by her.

Psychiatrists challenge Freud theories

NEW YORK—Freud got it the wrong way around, say psychiatrists, as now asserting about how life treats them.

This new movement in psychiatry, along with a strong challenge to it from a psychologist, was a major part of the fifth international symposium here of the Killyat Scientific Foundation. "Cognitive Defects in the Development of Mental Illness," which ended Tuesday.

A major factor in the new theories, according to Dr. George Serban of the New York University Medical School, has been an application of the pioneering research of Prof. Jean Piaget. A French psychologist, on the development of thinking patterns in children.

Piaget established that children do not think like little adults. Rather, their earliest thought patterns are "prelogical," or "preconcrete."

Causes of these relationships that "most adults see instantly are not obvious to them, he found. Instead, children often have a more magical interpretation of what makes things happen.

Children—also think of themselves as the center of the world and, somehow, as controlling it, according to Piaget, who has also shown that most children pass through the same sequence of stages of development on intellectual function.

Serban's theories—that a major factor in psychiatric illness of adults is the persistence of childhood thinking patterns in the interpretation of certain events in their lives. "The neurotic," he said, "evaluates a circumscribed area of reality on an egocentric, preconceptual level, distorting the logical conclusions about the event's outcome."

He gave the example of a person with a phobia about crossing streets. Because pedestrians are hit by cars, the phobic, maintaining a self-centered view of the world, is convinced that he will be the one hit by the car. Unable to weigh the more realistic probability that his chances of being hit are very small, the phobic's conflict between a need to get across the street and his fancifully mounting anxiety.

Serban said that a similar persistence or resurrection of childhood reasoning could cause depression when a personal loss which would cause a transitory depression. It is interpreted as a "catastrophic" significance in life and as being irremediable.

Serban notes that Freudian analysis make use of childhood memories with the assumption that the way they are remembered by the adult is the same as the way they were interpreted by the child. Dr. he said, the analysts "impute their own adult logic to the child, who surely was responding to a prelogical interpretation."

Serban observed that elements of prelogical or magical thinking probably remain with everyone, to be called upon when logical approaches fail. Hence, he suggested, the great popular following of astrology, parapsychology and the supernatural.

 The late James Crawford, one of the greatest of the greatest players of all time, used to show this hand as an example of how you could tell if a man knew how to play the dummy.

South wins the heart lead in dummy. You can't do anything else with a singleton ace. Then declarer should go after diamonds because if he can get four diamond tricks, he doesn't need more than three clubs. And if he can't get four diamonds, he can still hope that clubs will break 3-3.

At trick two South plays a dummy's ace of diamonds, and here is where the key play comes in. He must drop either the eight or nine. If he drops the four he is not only not a first-rate player but he has also lost his contract.

After dropping the nine, he leads a low diamond and sticks in the eight. If West takes that diamond, South has a tenace over West's remaining honor. So an alert West may refuse to

District meeting scheduled

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Garden Club met Wednesday at the YM-YWCA Sunrise room.

A program was presented by Ruth Duggan on care of house plants. She raises over 3,000 African violets and other house plants.

Duggan said the most common fault people have in raising African violets is overwatering, and fluorescent lights are excellent for house plants. Most plants should be repotted every two years, she said.

It is good to wash plants once in a while and to water with warm water, Duggan said. Violets like from 14 to 16 hours of light a day. She recommended using a clear plastic bag over small violets or when rooting leaves.

Duggan said geraniums like a cooler temperature and should be pinched back to become thicker, and geraniums need care similar to that of African violets.

Most homes do not have enough light for orchids, Duggan said.

Resolutions were served by Geraldine Williams, Jan Reynolds and Arvilla Cammiser.

The district meeting will be held in Twin Falls April 12 at noon at the George K's Restaurant.

A plant sale will be held at the YWCA at the May 4 meeting at 1 p.m. and is open to the public.

Committee reports were given.

CHERYL URIGUEN names date

April wedding planned

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Jerry Uriguen announces the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Cheryl Ann, to John Phillip Novis Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Novis Sr., Gooding.

Cheryl is the daughter of the late Abbie Uriguen.

An April 29 wedding is planned at St. Edward's Catholic Church.

Miss Uriguen is employed by Dr. I. C. Landwehr. She is a 1976 graduate of Twin Falls High School and attended the Idaho State University.

Novis was graduated from Camas High School in 1975. He will be leaving for the Air Force in May.

Officers elected for 20th Century

TWIN FALLS — The Twentieth Century Club's April general meeting held at the Blue Lakes Inn recently elected officers for 1977.

Mrs. W.O. Watts, president, opened the meeting with a poem followed by the good thought and an invocation by Mrs. Mark Knoll, Mrs. Lionel Dean gave a tribute to the flag and led the group in the pledge of allegiance.

A program of songs was presented by Carol Barsness and accompanist Phyllis Van Nest.

Officers elected for 1977-78 were: Maxine Larsen, president; Mrs. W.J. Moran, first vice-president; Marlan Langdon, second vice-president; Mrs. Dale Smith, recording secretary; Mrs. Lee Lucille, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R.O. Johnson, treasurer; and Mrs. Jo Shelby, auditor.

The new board of control members are Mrs. Morris Roth, Mrs. Christina Peterson, Mrs. H. Ted Roth, Mrs. Margaret Reddy and Mrs. W.O. Watts.

Mrs. Watts announced the district meeting at Albion on April 14 and the State Federation of Women's Clubs annual meeting to be held May 21-23 in Pocatello.

The next Twentieth Century Club meeting will be advanced a week to April 26 so it will not conflict with the state meeting. Speaker Mrs. Merrill Shotwell talked to the club about women of the United States whose names are less well known but who have contributed much to history and development in many different fields.

Mrs. J.W. Banbury provided for the luncheon decorations of elaborately decorated Easter eggs from Czechoslovakia.

Ask the Jacobys

A Maine reader wants to know the proper response to partner's one-pace opening bid which will cost him an unimpaired trick if clubs are 3-3, but give him game and rubber against the 4-2 division.

The correct response is to pass. This will work out best in the long run although not every time.

Filer Lutherans observe Easter

FILER — The Peace Lutheran Church, Filer, will begin Easter services this evening at 8 with Holy Communion. The sermon by Rev. H. C. Mully, "The Holy City," will be the theme. Easter Sunday services begin at 9 in the morning. Easter services on Holy Saturday, Christ is Risen! The choir will sing "The Holy City." Following the Easter Service there will be a coffee hour in the parish hall.

The young people of the Walthier League, assisted by the board of education and the youth counselors, will serve a breakfast fast from 7:30 to 8:15.

During the Easter festival service at 9, the congregation will celebrate the liquidation of its construction debt of 1966 when the church was built.

Baptist youths serve breakfast

TWIN FALLS — A trip to Oregon is in store for youths of Twin Falls First Baptist Church this summer.

To raise funds for the project the youths are sponsoring an Easter breakfast to be served from 8 to 9:30 Sunday morning in the fellowship hall.

Plans for the event are under the direction of Sheila Massey and the menu will include juice, ham, eggs, hash brown potatoes and hot muffins.

Donations will be accepted at the door and everyone is invited.

"Easter Praise," a mini-cantata, will inaugurate the 11 o'clock worship service Sunday at the church with both youth and adult choirs participating under the direction of Mrs. Willa Rider.

"Celebration of Life" will be the sermon topic by Rev. Gilbert Myers and the offering will feature a piano-organ duet.

In other activities the deacons and deaconesses will deliver Easter Bibles to shut-ins on Sunday, according to Sue Skinner, chairman.

LDS Church plans TF conference

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls West Stake of the LDS Church will hold its quarterly conference this Easter Saturday and Sunday.

The Saturday evening meeting will be for all adult members of the stake and the theme will be "Family Organization and Research." Meeting time will be 7:30 p.m.

Two sessions will be held on Sunday to accommodate the large crowd that usually comes to a conference. The early session will be at 8:45 a.m. for the Twin Falls second, fourth, sixth, tenth wards and college branch. The theme of both Sunday sessions will be "He Is Risen."

The later session will be at 11 a.m. for the Holtzler Branch, Filer. The two Bull Wards and Twin Falls eighth ward.

The public is invited to both sessions.

Easter sunrise service slated

TWIN FALLS — An Easter sunrise service at 7 a.m. at the Eastside Baptist Church will climax a week of pre-Easter events, according to the pastor, Dr. Robert Schreckenberg.

The speaker for this service will be Rev. Cecil Spunko, pastor of the Airport Road Baptist Church, whose congregation is also cooperating in the event.

The public is invited to the service and coffee and doughnuts which will be served afterward.

The Eastside church will have the regular 10 a.m. Sunday school followed by the morning worship at 11 a.m., but there will be no evening services this Sunday only.

Youths plan sunrise service

TWIN FALLS — Worship this Sunday morning at the Community Christian Church will begin with the youths' sunrise service around the campfire at 6:15.

Families and friends are then invited to a church breakfast at 7.

During the Sunday school hour, the youths will present a special Easter program under the direction of Jeanne Wilson, and featuring Cindy Bolton and the mystery Easter bunny.

Ernie Chamberlain from Boise Bible College will bring the message at the worship service and there will be junior church for the children during this hour.

Churches set sunrise service

TWIN FALLS — An Easter Sunday sunrise service will be held at 7 a.m. at the shared facility of Our Savior Lutheran Church and Valley Christian Church at 1708 Heyburn Ave. E.

Revs. Eugene Tjarks and Les Peterson will jointly conduct the service.

The Luther League will offer a breakfast immediately following the service for a free-will offering. "We cordially invite the entire community to attend," say the ministers.

The festival service for Our Savior Lutheran will be held in the sanctuary at 9:30 a.m. Valley Christian will hold its Sunday morning festival service at 10:45.

Human nature of Jesus studied

EDEN — The lesson at the Eden Seventh-day Adventist Church during Sabbath school this week will be "God With Us."

The lesson is based on Matt. 1:23 and deals with the human nature of Jesus Christ. Sabbath school begins at 9:30 a.m. under the leadership of Betty Carlson.

The worship hour will begin at 11 a.m.

The church's official paper, "Signs of the Times," is a Christian magazine that contains articles of interest to all Christians. Any person interested in receiving a complimentary copy can send a mailing address to P.O. Box 418, Eden 83225.

The church also prints several magazines on health, including "The Human Body" and "The Human Mind." This material is also available on request.

Catholics schedule Easter masses

TWIN FALLS — According to Father Perry Dodds, St. Edward's Catholic Church, there will be special Easter Masses at the church.

The Solemn Liturgy of Good Friday, the celebration of the Lord's Passion, is planned Friday; Easter Vigil Liturgy, Saturday, and Masses Easter Sunday at 8 and 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The Solemn Liturgy of Good Friday, and the 10 a.m. Saturday and Sunday Masses are with full choir.

Presbyterians set pancake breakfast

HAZELTON — Easter celebration at Valley Presbyterian Church will consist of a combined church school program and worship at 10:30 on Easter morning.

The service will be presided by a pancake breakfast, sponsored by the men of the church, beginning at 9.

Those with enrollment in the church's preschools will be asked to make a freewill donation to help provide scholarships to summer church camps.

Hazelton choir offers Easter music

HAZELTON — The choir of Hazelton Assembly of God will feature a morning of sacred Easter music on Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

"The Greatest Gift" consists of a variety of choir arrangements, solo duet and trios, many of these backed up by instrumental music. Mrs. Erlene Stone is choir director for the church and Mrs. Wesley Johnson, church pianist.

Jerusalem marks Jesus' final days

By REV. DR. G. DOUGLAS YOUNG
President, American Institute of Holy Land Studies

Mount Zion, Jerusalem

At Easter time our eyes and thoughts turn to Jerusalem, where scenes of the final days of Jesus are commemorated in churches as colorful as the city's 3,500-year-old history.

Jerusalem's skyline is distinguished by massive stone bastilles, delicate chapels, weathered ruins dating from the early days of the church, and strikingly modern 20th century structures — each closely linked with a New Testament event.

Inside the ancient city wall, at the Lion's Gate (also called St. Stephen's Gate), stands the Church of St. Anne, traditionally the home where Mary was born and reared.

Like many of Jerusalem's holy places, St. Anne's was destroyed and rebuilt more than once. Franciscan archaeologists, excavating next to this beautiful Crusader church, discovered, far below the present ground level, the ancient Pools of Bethesda.

Two other Jerusalem churches also honor Mary: the lovely crypt of the Dormition, on Mount Zion, where Mary resided in her final sleep, and the fifth century basilica just north of Gethsemane, the site of the Rock Tomb where early Christians believed Mary was brought for burial.

St. James, who led the earliest Christian community in Jerusalem, is memorialized in the Armenian Cathedral of St. James. A fabulous treasury and library and a newly built seminary are also located in the Armenian Quarter of Old Jerusalem.

Easter is beautiful in Jerusalem, coming after the cold, rainy winter, and heralding continuous sunny weather that lasts until October.

In springtime I climb the Mount of Olives to take in the breathtaking panorama of the Old City, and to visit the beautiful Russian church of Mary Magdalene.

Chaz Alexander III had this church, with its fantastic onion-shaped dome on high pedestals, built in a lush grove of pines and cedars across from the Temple Mount. Illuminated at night, Mary Magdalene is an exquisite gem on the velvet black background of the mountain.

US students dig outside Old City

Atop the Mount of Olives, east of the city, stands a Russian compound, with two unusual churches, built by the Czars to mark the site of the Ascension. Descending from the Russian compound on the path Jesus took the first Palm Sunday, one arrives at the Pater Noster church, erected in the last century by a French princess. A cloister adjoining the church is decorated with beautiful wall-size mosaic plaques each containing the Lord's Prayer in a different language.

Nearby, at the site where Jesus wept at seeing the Holy City is the classic Dominus Flevit chapel, built by Franciscans over an ancient church. The large western window looks out onto the Temple Mount and the Jerusalem that Jesus loved.

We cannot actually be certain of the exact spot where Jesus wept or where Mary was laid to rest. When Hadrian, the Roman emperor, destroyed Jerusalem in 135 A.D., and rebuilt it as a pagan shrine, Jews and Christians were banned from entering the city.

Two centuries later, under Constantine, Christians returned to build churches in Jerusalem. They were forced to rely on oral traditions to locate important New Testament sites. Modern archaeological findings seem to support most of the traditional sites and pilgrims experience a great spiritual uplift visiting these lovely, historical churches.

On a steep slope of Mount Zion, west of the Old City, is the Church of St. Peter in Callicantu. Here, before the crucifixion, Peter three times denied knowing Jesus. Stairs inside descend from palatial ruins to a stone courtyard and from there down into a deep dungeon.

Further to the west, at the top of Mount Zion, 12th century Crusaders built the Dormition Abbey, a shrine to Mary. Two centuries later Franciscans added a chapel to commemorate the Last Supper, which took place nearby. Arab rulers converted the site, revered by Muslims as the site of King David's tomb, into a mosque. Today, Christians, Muslims and Jews are all free to worship at the holy places of Mount Zion.

By Walking the Via Dolorosa (Way of Sorrows) in the Old City, one can reconstruct the events preceding the crucifixion. Although the original path to Calvary is buried deep under the rubble of 2000 years of war and destruction.

Rev. and Mrs. Orville Scantlin

Hazelton church plans celebration

HAZELTON — The 26-year birthday celebration of Hazelton Assembly of God will get underway soon with the return of pioneer pastors, Rev. and Mrs. Orville Scantlin, now pastoring in Lakeford.

The dates for the celebration are April 17-24. Both Sunday services (at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m.) will feature the ministry of Rev. Scantlin in the church sanctuary and Mrs. Scantlin, better known to everyone as "Aunt Sylvia," will be conducting services for the children.

Every day, April 8-22 from 5:30 to 7:30 a Friday Crusade will be held at the church. This will be for children and young people of all ages. There will be cars at both the Eden and Hazelton grade schools to transport children to the church. There will be action songs, illustrated stories, puppets and memory work. Prizes will be awarded at the end of the week.

Then besides the Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m., Rev. Scantlin will be preaching each weekday night, except Saturday, at 8 p.m.

The church is hoping to have all the former pastors here for services during this birthday year of 1977. Everyone is invited to share this week and year. Another special feature following the 11 a.m. service will be a potluck dinner in the church basement at 1 p.m. on April 12. Everyone please bring your own dishes.

Adventists select officers at meet

TWIN FALLS — Reports of a business session of Idaho Seventh Day Adventists have been given to the Twin Falls congregation by Pastor R. B. Leake who attended the meeting as one of the delegates.

Leake, pastor of the Twin Falls and Filer Seventh Day Adventist churches, reported that P. W. Bieber, Boise, was re-elected president of the Idaho conference. He will head the work of the church in southern Idaho and northeastern Oregon.

The election came March 27, at a triennial business meeting held at Gem-State Academy near Caldwell. Three hundred delegates from 24 Adventist churches heard reports from church officials and elected officers and department heads for the next three years.

A four-man slate of department heads was re-elected, but was the conference secretary-treasurer, Reuben Beck-Boise.

President Bieber told the delegates that the 3,600 members of the conference had given $3.9 million in tithes and mission offerings during the three-year period. This sum does not include donations to local church work.

A 13-member executive committee was also named. This group, headed by Bieber, will administer the work of the conference during the next three years.

Awana winners

MEMBERS of the Tyler Street Baptist Church Awana Clubs won two of the four trophies awarded in the statewide Olympic games held by the church last weekend in Boise. The Twin Falls athletes won first place in the Pals division for younger boys, and also a first place in the Guards competition for older girls. Both trophies were for top honors in ten indoor track and games events which comprise the Awana Olympics. Christine Osborn, Gary Lukes and John Royal, from left, each received an honor trophy during half-time for being outstanding clubbers in the Tyler Street Church Clubs this year.

Church brief

TWIN FALLS — The title of the lesson-sermon Sunday at the Christian Science Church will be "Are Sin, Disease, and Death real?" Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. and church services are at 11 a.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Wednesday at the church, 160 Ninth Ave. E. The Reading Room, 332 Main Ave. So., is open from noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

TWIN FALLS — First Church of Religious Science Easter service will be at 11 a.m. in the chapel in the "Y". Topic will be "More Than One Kind of Victory." Rev. Doreen J. Williams, minister, says all are welcome and nursery care is provided.

Immanuel Lutheran Church commemorates Holy Week

TWIN FALLS — Special services will mark this week, widely observed as Holy Week in the Christian world, at Immanuel Lutheran Church. The commemoration of the transition from the Old Testament-Passover meal to the Lord's Supper, inaugurated by Jesus Christ on the night prior to His death were observed with a special communion service Maundy Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The crucifixion and death of Jesus Christ will be commemorated on Good Friday today at 7:30 p.m. with a ten-hour service. Youth of the church will serve as lectors, acolytes and ushers in this traditional "service of darkness" in which the church nave is progressively darkened during the reading of the crucifixion narrative, antiphonal responses, hymns and prayers until worshippers sit in total darkness, except for the burning of the "Christ candle," which is also removed at a certain point, but returned again to signify the anticipated resurrection. The service will reach its conclusion in the celebration of the Lord's Supper. Two festival services will celebrate the resurrection on Easter Sunday. The sunrise service will begin at 6:30 a.m. in a church decorated by the youth of the congregation. "See the Place" will be the topic of the message brought by the Rev. E.J. Bernthal, pastor. An Easter breakfast will be served by the youth groups in the church's fellowship hall from 7:45 to 9 a.m. At 9:30 a second Easter service will be held. "He Is Risen" is the title of the anthem to be sung by the choir. Sermon topic, "The Hour of Triumph" by the pastor, will bring to a climax a series of seven captioned "Crucial Hours in the Savior's Passion" which were delivered during the pre-Easter season. The public is invited to any and all of the Holy Week and Easter events.

Cash grants may replace food stamps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Carter administration probably will propose phasing out the food stamp program and replacing it with straight cash grants as part of an overall welfare reform package. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Thursday.

Bergland, appearing before the Senate Agriculture Committee, urged a two-year extension of the current program, through September, 1979, but with elimination of a rule requiring needy people to buy more stamps for cash before they get allotments of free "bonus" stamps.

Switching to a system under which the needy would get stamps free, without having to buy additional stamps for cash, would be a stopgap on the way to a straight cash aid system, Bergland conceded under questioning by committee chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga.

Talmadge denounced the no-purchase plan and said if Congress is going to approve free stamps it would be better to move directly to an all-cash system. "Free food stamps is not reform of the program," Talmadge told Bergland. "It is destruction of the program."

Talmadge said he would try to retain the stamp program in its present basic form, with a purchase requirement, "to assure that needy people get adequate diets. He said if recipients do not have to buy stamps in addition to the coupons they now get free, it is "unrealistic to assume" that the cash now used to buy stamps will continue to be spent on food.

But apparently recognizing strong congressional support for the no-purchase plan, Talmadge said he would introduce a bill to extend the current stamp program for one year and then to convert its $5.1 billion in benefits into cash food grants to welfare recipients. Bergland, however, said he thought a separate food stamp program would be needed for about four years — two years to pass a general welfare reform law, and another two years to get it into full operation.

Bergland said he would open the stamp program to an estimated 2.9 million more needy people by dropping the purchase requirement. But to offset the $100-million cost of serving those people, the plan would chop that sum from existing participants by reducing benefits to some 5.5 million persons and eliminating about 1.75 million from the program entirely.

Idaho prices dip

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho farmers and ranchers received lower prices for their grain crops and higher prices for most other crops and livestock during the month ended March 15, a crop report said today. Wheat, oats and barley showed price declines during the month, the federal-state report said. But apples, potatoes, dry beans, dry peas and alfalfa hay brought higher prices than the previous month. Livestock and livestock product prices were steady and higher except for fluid milk which registered a slight decline. Prices paid by farmers for selected feeds in Idaho declined during the same period. Compared with the previous month there were price increases for each of the specified feeds except laying feed which showed no change.

Support compromise in offing?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland faced with mounting evidence farm bloc lawmakers are set to vote higher crop supports than President Carter has proposed, says he thinks Carter will be willing to consider some compromise.

Bergland told reporters he doubts Carter "will insist on sticking to his recently proposed four-year farm bill in all particulars." But Carter won't accept sharp increases which would boost government farm support spending to $6 to $8 billion compared to Carter's $500 million to $1.5 billion plan, the secretary said.

Bergland's comment came Wednesday as two House subcommittees — one of them overriding its chairman — voted tentative approval of substantial increases in grain and rice supports Carter proposed for the bill due to take effect in 1978.

A subcommittee on livestock and feed grants voted to set 1978 wheat and corn support target prices at $3.20 a bushel and $2.40, respectively, compared to the $2.80 and $2.40 Bergland proposed last week. The panel also voted to raise grain targets already set under existing law for 1977 crops — wheat from $2.47 a bushel to $2.90, and corn from $1.70 to $2.18. The targets trigger direct government payments to growers if market prices fall below the pre-set levels. Subcommittee chairman W.R. Foote, D-Tex., called the action "unrealistic" on grounds that while he expected the administration to compromise, he doubted Carter would accept levels like the proposed $3.20 wheat level for 1978.

The subcommittee proposals, which also include an increase in wheat crop support loan rates from the current $2.25 a bushel to $2.50, are to be sent to the full House Agriculture Committee "for consideration" after an Easter recess ends later this month.

Bergland, meanwhile, conceded to reporters the administration's initial proposals were factual. "I don't know anybody who really thought Congress would approve our numbers, as written," said the agriculture secretary who had argued with the administration for a 1978 wheat target of $2.85 a bushel. Bergland said he was keeping close touch with congressional farm leaders like House Agriculture Committee Chairman Thomas Foley, D-Wash., who had indicated earlier a plan to raise 1978 wheat targets to about $3.12 was under study.

Sugar help coming

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Wednesday there is a "good chance" President Carter will soon approve an interim program to support the incomes of hard-pressed American sugar growers while the government tries to negotiate an international sugar trade agreement.

A decision on the temporary program, which Bergland said would be in effect for no more than one or two years pending attempts to negotiate a trade agreement with international floor and ceiling prices is likely within a week, Bergland told reporters at an informal lunch.

Bergland said cabinet officials who will make a recommendation to Carter on sugar policy soon have reached no decision yet. But he indicated he personally favors a support plan which would have the effect of giving American growers 13 to 14 cents a pound for their raw sugar without raising consumer prices.

Under the plan, Bergland explained, the government would buy all domestic sugar offered at the support price and immediately resell it at open market prices which are currently slightly under 12 cents a pound.

If the government lost two cents on each pound in the effort to help growers who are currently selling sugar for less than production costs, the bill for taxpayers would be about $250 million a year, Bergland estimated.

The Agriculture Secretary said he saw no chance the administration would approve an International Trade Commission proposal to cut sugar import quotas to under 1.3 million tons as a means of raising domestic prices.

Instead, he indicated, officials may favor setting the quota — which is now 7 million tons — at a "non-restrictive" level of perhaps about 4.5 or 4.6 million tons. Experts believe processors objected to the idea of receiving multi-million dollar government checks, he indicated. The Agriculture Secretary said that if international negotiations scheduled to open April 18 in Geneva produce a global sugar trade agreement, the United States would then "abandon all quotas and tariffs...and go to a completely free trade policy" for sugar.

Talks will center on an international "price corridor" with a floor of 9 to 12 cents a pound and a ceiling of 18 to 20 cents, he said. Senators from sugar growing states, meanwhile, pressed President Carter at a White House meeting earlier this week for action to aid growers.

Sheriff warns Minidoka to expand jail

By SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Minidoka County Sheriff Ray Jarvis warned Thursday the county faces the possibility of lawsuits unless it expands jail facilities here.

Sheriff Jarvis called the administration of the county jail the "number one headache" among the duties he took over Jan. 10.

The sheriff also said law enforcement agencies are concerned about the current drought and the possibility of a resulting increase in crime.

Jarvis spent 13 years as a deputy here before he was elected sheriff last November. He spoke Thursday before the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

Jarvis said many people place too much reliance upon rehabilitation of criminals.

"They don't feel you should lock anybody up," he said.

But the sheriff said jails are necessary and the Idaho code states that prisoners must be segregated according to the seriousness of their crime.

"We can't do that," Jarvis said, adding that he fears the county may be sued for placing misdemeanor and traffic "weekend prisoners" in with "hardened criminals."

Jarvis said the jail now houses about 16 prisoners, but had about 38 in it until illegal aliens were removed by federal authorities Tuesday.

He said the jail averages 12 to 18 prisoners.

The sheriff wants to expand on the south side of the law-enforcement-building-in-Rupert and Minidoka County commissioners have been studying that possibility.

"It is strictly to keep us from getting sued sometime," Jarvis said.

The sheriff said his staff is "very careful in our jail" to segregate female prisoners from males in the county jail.

"We don't want anything like has happened in the past around here," he said.

The remark was in apparent reference to the alleged rape of a 13-year-old girl in the Cassin County jail four weeks ago by a 22-year-old male prisoner.

Jarvis said law enforcement agencies have been meeting with representatives of various organizations concerning the drought and the projected energy shortage in Idaho.

He said Minidoka County was one of those that experienced a slight decrease in crimes reported in 1976. "We want to keep it that way," Jarvis said.

He warned that, if there are severe energy cutbacks and numerous jobs are lost, "crimes bound to go back up."

Jarvis said law-enforcement agencies are concerned about the priorities for energy uses in case of cutbacks.

"It's kind of scary," he said. "It doesn't look good to me."

Jarvis said Minidoka County continues to have some problems with drug users. He said there will always be "a certain group of young people" that will use drugs no matter how serious the warnings of their effects may be.

"I don't think we'll ever get rid of the drug problem," Jarvis said. He cited congressional moves to decriminalize and make marijuana usage legal.

"They can't whip it, so they're thinking of joining it," Jarvis said. "I'm against it."

The sheriff said Minidoka County officials have asked the county for a school resource officer to work directly with schools at all levels.

He said county commissioners are skeptical of adding a school officer to the tax burden in the present economy, but are "checking" the possibility of federal funding.

"Local law enforcement agencies can only survive on cooperation between all law enforcement agencies," Jarvis said.

Hailey man loses truck

PAUL ZIMMERMAN, Hailey, assistant superintendent of private lands for the Sawtooth National Recreation Area, survived a 550-foot plunge off the side of Galena Summit just west of the overlook Tuesday afternoon.

After Zimmerman's pickup truck landed in a grove of aspen trees, he climbed out of the vehicle and back up the mountain side to the road where he hitched a ride down from the summit to Galena Lodge.

Zimmerman was in good condition Thursday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls, where he underwent five hours of surgery Tuesday night to repair a fractured jaw.

Zimmerman said he lost control of his truck when the steering wheel got stuck at the top of Galena Summit.

Investigating Officer John Shirts with the Hailey sheriff's department said the pickup truck bounced and crashed down the steep face of the summit, never once overturning.

Zimmerman said he never lost consciousness during the crash.

Ketchum building moratorium halt set

KETCHUM — A ten-month city-wide building moratorium on multi-family dwellings of three or more units officially began Thursday.

The Ketchum City Council adopted a resolution declaring an "interim moratorium" on the issuance of building permits for all multi-family dwellings of three or more units to be effective until Jan. 31, 1978.

The interim moratorium went into effect just as a 60-day emergency building moratorium declared on Feb. 7 expired.

The interim moratorium is Ketchum's approach to a state-imposed limit on sewage discharge from the city's sewage treatment plant.

This discharge limit necessarily limits the number of new sewer hookups available and the amount of new building possible this year.

The interim moratorium includes the following terms not already stated:

- The moratorium will not apply to those multi-family dwellings for which permit applications were on file prior to Feb. 7 when the recent 60-day moratorium went into effect.
- The moratorium does not apply to single family dwellings, duplexes and commercial buildings.
- There will be no limitation on the number of permits issued for commercial structures.

Burley jails 2 in yard brawl

BURLEY — Two Burley men were in jail today on "charges of assault" with a deadly weapon and disturbing the peace.

The relative superiority of axe and pry bar remains unsettled, as Burley police arrested the two men about 2:30 a.m. today.

Arrested were Merle Juliano, 22, and Don Harris, 23. They were taken into custody following an altercation in the Harris yard at 800 Miller St.

Police said Juliano was "wielding an axe and Harris had a pry bar."

Called to the scene, officers induced the two men to shake hands. Officers said Juliano started after Harris again and both men were then arrested.

Jerome reports juvenile fight

JEROME — Police Chief Howard DuBols said today he is investigating reports of a fight between three Jerome juveniles, and may file a petition on one of the three.

He said reports that a young man in Jerome had died of injuries as a result of a fight are erroneous.

"In fact, the young man in question was not even seriously hurt," DuBols said.

He said investigation indicates two young men engaged in an argument and one was struck several times. A third young man then entered the argument and the first individual was struck several times again.

DuBols said it appears the second argument developed and the young man was struck without provocation which may require that the attacker be petitioned into juvenile court.

Idaho Power to cut flow on Snake

TWIN FALLS — The Federal Power Commission Thursday approved on an emergency basis Idaho Power Company's proposal to cut minimum flow standards on the Snake River in Hells Canyon by more than 50 per cent.

The power company had made the request in order to boost storage water in its Brownlee reservoir which feeds a large hydroelectric power plant. Governors of Idaho, Washington and Oregon had endorsed the power company's proposal.

The FPC waiver, which relaxes the minimum flow requirements until July 1, permits Idaho Power to reduce flows to as little as 5,000 cubic feet per second at Johnson's Bar and increase fluctuations in the rate of flow to one foot in 20 minutes.

The commission also set a hearing in Lewiston for April 19 or 20 to take testimony on the waiver.

"We will make every effort to keep minimum flows as high as possible and to minimize fluctuations," Idaho Power Vice-President Logan Lanham said.

"This fast action by the FPC on our waiver request... will allow us to reduce flows during light load hours at night and give us a better chance to fill Brownlee," he said.

The power company, pointing out that Snake River flows are expected to be about 50 per cent of normal at Weiser from April to July, had told the FPC that it was "extremely doubtful" that the reservoir could be filled and held at its maximum elevation for power production this spring, summer and fall unless the waiver was approved.

On Wednesday, the reservoir was nearly 18 feet below its maximum elevation, representing more than 238,000 acre-feet of storage or about 134 million kilowatt hours of generation.

In supporting Idaho Power's waiver request, Idaho Gov. John Evans had said that one of the "trade-offs" would be reduced recreation and boating downstream.

Buhl aide quits

BUIL — City Councilman Ted Kostecka has resigned his position on the Buhl council effective the end of this month.

Mayor Dale Christensen said Kostecka is being transferred by his employer, Green Giant Co., to Genesee, Minn., where he will be a warehouse superintendent.

Christensen said he is now accepting all recommendations for filling the vacancy and hopes to appoint a new council member in the May 10 next council meeting, with approval of the council.

The successor will complete Kostecka's two-year term which expires Jan. 1, 1978.

Kostecka was elected to his current term, his first, in November, 1975. He serves on the city government committee, library board, law enforcement committee, fire department, and sanitation collection committees for the city.

Bancroft resigns post

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City Councilman Stephen R. Bancroft has announced he will resign for business reasons June 1.

In a letter to Mayor Paul Ostyn received earlier this week, Bancroft, who has been a councilman for years, said "Due to some major changes in my business which have caused a realignment of my responsibilities, I feel I cannot do justice to both the council and my business partners."

Mrs. Mary McCuskey, Twin Falls, will be appointed at the next council meeting to fill Bancroft's spot for the rest of the term which ends at the end of this year, the mayor said. The council unanimously picked her for the appointment from "about half a dozen names," the mayor said.

He would not release the other names.

The mayor said the certified public accounting firm Bancroft belongs to was planning to open a third office, and a senior partner in the firm was retiring.

Gooding slates hearing

GOODING — A public meeting to discuss the impact of the proposed new Senior Citizens Center in the former Safeway building is scheduled for 8 p.m. today in the Gooding courthouse.

The Gooding Senior Citizens

Organization has received preliminary approval for a $58,000 grant to construct a center which will serve not only senior citizens but provide arts and crafts and other activities for all ages, according to Thelma Ferguson, board member.

Buhl couple files suit

TWIN FALLS — Daiss Insurance Co., Buhl, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Daiss, has filed a lawsuit, asking for more than $1 million from AID Insurance Co., main office in Des Moines, Iowa, for terminating a contract.

In a complaint filed in Fifth

District Court, the Daisses charge AID with terminating an agreement under which Daiss sold AID insurance for 14 years.

The complaint asks for $1 million in punitive damages and $50,000 for loss of reputation and emotional stress.

Outage hits Rupert cable TV

RUPERT — Cable television viewers here suffered their second major outage in less than 30 hours Thursday night.

The city was without cable TV service for nearly two and a half hours, from about 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Ironically, the lengthy outage came less than 18 hours after first reading of a city ordinance that would give Burley Cable TV a revised ten-year franchise for cable service.

The franchise ordinance, drafted on proposals by the cable company, guarantees service return on an outage within two hours.

Richard Green, manager of Burley Cable TV, said the outage was a fuse blew on voltage lines of Farmer's Electric Co.

The blown fuse was on an electrical line west of the Minidoka Irrigation District Canal along Idaho 24 north of the Heyburn Interchange of I-80.

Green said he was notified of the outage about 8 p.m. He said the Heyburn electrical department repaired the electrical line by about 9:45 p.m. and TV service was restored by 10 p.m.

Green said he has a standby power unit for such situations but, by the time it had been moved, cable site Heyburn workers had replaced the fuse and restored electric service.

"It won't happen again, I guarantee it," Green said of the delay in moving the standby unit.

Cable TV service was interrupted about 4 p.m. Wednesday when a crane took out four spans of cable between Rupert and Heyburn.

Green said service was restored by 5 p.m.

The new franchise ordinance for Rupert TV service is similar to the one adopted last month by Burley and proposed for Paul and Heyburn to standardize the franchise in the four Minidoka cities.

It allows a maximum monthly rate of $7.75 without obtaining council approval. The current rate is $6.25.

The franchise ordinance calls for service to all residences where there are 15 houses within 1,320 feet. Burley cable TV would pay $2 to Rupert for each pole attachment, a 50-cent increase.

Green said Channel 3, Idaho Falls, will be placed on cable within the next two weeks and that Channel 8, Idaho Falls, will be added as soon as equipment arrives.

Channel 3 will be received on Channel 10 channel 8 will go on channel 12.

With channel 7, educational TV from Salt Lake City (shown on Channel 9), cable TV viewers would have a choice of eight stations.

The others are channels 2, 4 and 5 (all Salt Lake City), 6 in Pocatello-Blackfoot and KMYT of Twin Falls, shown on Channel 7.

Subdivision plan adopted

KETCHUM — After almost eight months of discussion and review, Ketchum adopted its new subdivision ordinance Thursday.

Ketchum has had only one subdivision ordinance since its founding. It has needed considerable reworking, according to City Planner Russ Pinto.

The new ordinance to regulate the subdivision of land represents that reworking.

Pinto says major changes in the new ordinance include the requirement that improvements such as streets and sewer and water hookups be provided by the developer, the recognition of the splitting into two bodies of the planning and zoning commissions, the appointment of an "administrator" from within the city government to watch over and help direct the subdivision process and numerous cosmetic changes.

Included in the ordinance is a statement of the ordinance's purposes and scope, its jurisdiction, definition, method of administration, procedures for vacations of plats and dedication of land.

Also included is a procedure for platting of lands with requirements for the contents of plat design standards, required improvements, hillside subdivisions, planned unit and condominium development and mobile homes.

Green needs Masters win for 'identity'

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — A victory in the Masters golf tournament would end Hubert Green's 'identity crisis,' and Green took a big step in that direction Thursday when he grabbed a two-shot first round lead with a 5-under-par 67.

Green is not exactly one of the faceless legions on the PGA tour with 11 tournament victories in six years, but then again, he's not what you would call a household name, either.

"That's because most of his victories have occurred in non-televised tournaments in which Jack Nicklaus—who was five shots behind him Thursday—did not play, and which hardly anybody saw. Green grabbed the headlines briefly last year when he managed to win three successive tournaments, but the streak ended when he took a week off and he has not won since.

Thursday, Green played nearly flawless golf, hitting 16 greens, using only 30 puts and, in general, hitting the ball "just about where I wanted it on every hole."

"The Masters is a very important part of our tour and of my life," said Green, who finished ninth here in 1974 and eighth in 1975.

"I've geared my game for the Masters. I've geared myself to win a major championship. I've won 11 tournaments on the tour, but I need to win the majors. That's where Jack and the rest of the top players stand out.

"Winning one major wouldn't make me a great player, but it would get me on the doorstep to it."

Don January, the 47-year-old hero of the geriatric set, shared second place at 69, three under par, with 24-year-old Bill Kratzert, who earned his invitation as a member of the winning team in the National Team Championship. January earned his share of second despite continuing problems with his aching back that forced him to stand all through a post-round interview "because if I sit down, I'll get stiff, and then I won't be able to practice."

January was the first player to tee off and Kratzert the last on a mild, sunny and breezy day at the Augusta National Golf Club course in this, the first of the year's four major tests of greatness that comprise golf's Grand Slam.

Five players were a stroke further back at 70—leading, myself winner Tom Watson, U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, Hale Irwin, Tom Kite and Rik Massalega.

Ray Floyd, the defending champion, and Ben Crenshaw, runner-up a year ago, shot 71s. So did two-time champion Gary Player, Gene Littler, Buddy Allin, Dave Hill and Mark Hayes, winner of the Tournament Players Championship.

Nicklaus, gunning for his sixth Masters and record 17th major championship overall, had to be satisfied with even-par 72 because of a balky putter. He took 38 puts on the "slow and sticky" greens and lost a chance for a better round by making three successive bogeys at the 9th, 10th and 11th holes.

The speed of the greens became a major topic of discussion

Borah ends TF's long home track mastery

TWIN FALLS — Borah's boys ended a long Twin Falls winning streak Thursday when they handed the Bruins their first home-track loss since who remembers when.

The teams were even in first place but Borah had superior depth to take the team 410-57-79-53 points while Highland, which failed to take a first place, wound up at 31.

The results were not surprising to Coach Jerry Kletnikoff. "This is the type of team that will be stronger in bigger meets. We just don't have the depth this year that some of the other teams do. Borah doubled up in several events (taking points from more than one place) and we only had a couple," he said.

"I don't know when the last time was that we lost here," he answered a question. "It had to be sometime before 1971 because I know we were undefeated that year. But whether we lost here in 1970 or 1969 I simply can't remember."

Meanwhile, Coach Bill Ingram's girls charged to another team victory but had some good competition in most events.

Senior Cedric Minter provided the spark that took Borah to the team title. The oft-injured Lion won the 100-yard dash, was second in the 400-yard dash, and started the winning 440-yard relay.

Because of his leg injury history, Minter took only one run down the Twin Falls runway (it proved too short for him) and sailed out 45-1. That was enough to tie the decision. The length between the take-off board and the landing pit wasn't enough for Minter to get his leg up and step in before the sand came up.

"We think he can do 48 feet at Boise State," Coach Lyle Petty said. "Don't talk about leg injuries. That poor kid (Minter) has never had a full season without something happening to him. But, boy, he was hot today, wasn't he?"

Minter, a four-footer, took the 100-yard dash, duel with Bruin junior Jay Meyer, who, thankfully, went without the knee-length red socks this time. Meyer was behind about three yards about 20 yards left from the tape and the finish came up too quickly for his patented burst. He was second by about a yard.

Minter surprised, however, in the 220 when he stayed within a step or so of Meyer. Meyer was expected to dust the Borah man a little better than that in the longer sprint.

Meyer again took the quartermile, easy along and moving when he needed to, in a career best, 51.4.

None of the sprint times came down to the areas expected, for although the weather was warm, the flickle Magic Valley wind suddenly shifted from west to east and all races ended into it. It probably was in the 10 to 15-mile area.

Priests' most impressive performance was turned in by Borah's Bruce Brizer who went under two minutes in the halfmile for the first time. He was clocked in 1:58.9. Bruin-Jay Dodds led that race most of the time but Brizer's strength in the last 200 yards was too much. Dodds wound up at 2:01.

Another person best was turned in by Capital's Mauri Lewis who sealed 14 feet for the first time in winning the pole vault. The top for men in that competition bettered 13 feet.

Bruin Tim Human also provided a best when he leaved the shot 56 feet, 7 inches. The Bruins set expected points in that event when Vance Wondertich scratched his last five throws and settled for fourth. He'd been over 50 feet in his last two outings and second — Thursday went for 48-11.

Wondertich also ran into problems in his specialty, the discus. Gilbert at Capital plucked the first defeat of the year, on him, at 160-2-1. Wondertich, who has been very consistent in the 160s, settled for second at 151.

Both Twin Falls and Borah had five individual firsts and won a pair of relays — but Twin Falls won the medley because Borah dropped the baton on the second exchange. The Lions still finished only 12 yards back.

Capital's Conkint took both hurdle events, the jigs in a stirring duel with Nicky of Borah and the intermediates with Cafferly just off his shoulder.

In the girls division, Bruin mile champion Debbie Brizee had some company all the way around for the first time in a long while. Kori Kauffman of Borah, whose brother Steve is a distance ace at CSI, shadowed the defending state champion throughout three and one-half laps and led for a while. But Brizee stretched away toward the end to win by 12 yards; the double effort pushing her to a 5:26.6 time, three seconds under her state record.

Bruin Brenda Falsh came back from a two-week layoff from a leg injury to win in 2:25 in the halfmile but afterward said the leg still isn't that good and it affected her performance.

Ethene Hougaard continued to dominate in the quartermile, turning a good 6:06. And Junior Patsy Kasek continued to lead the Bruins in scoring as she picked up firsts in the shot and discus and was second in the high jump.

Twin Falls' mastery came in everything over the quartermile as both Highland, headed by Goald, and Borah scored well in the sprint relays and dashes. Capital's heroine was Dvorak who took the 100 and 70-yard dashes and was second in the 100.

when many players in the select field of 77 noticed they were slower than usual for Augusta but as Nicklaus said, "I've been putting these greens for 100 years. They're always slow and grainy—until Saturday and Sunday."

Nicklaus left one long putt 11 feet short and Crenshaw, perhaps the tour's best putter, complained that he left a lot of putt short. "The problem is," said Jerry McGee, who shot 73, "that you make so many puts here (on memory). And memory of a Miller is of silk, quick greens, shaved to the consistency of a still-floor to make even the slightest downhill putt a test of nerves. As the tournament progresses through the weekend, the greens will be shaved to make them faster.

PGA champion Dave Stockton and Tom Weiskopf shot 73s. Arnold Palmer had a 76 and ailing Johnny Miller 78. Lee Elder, the only black ever to play in this tournament, shot 76, two shots worse than he had in the first round of his previous appearance in 1975, when he missed the cut.

In establishing his lead, Green used the same formula Floyd did to win last year. Floyd was a record 14 under par for the 10 par-5 holes in his four rounds, and Thursday Green birdied all four of them. He chipped or pitched close enough to one-putt three of the par-5 holes and on the fourth, the 520-yard 15th, he belted a three-wood second shot to within 15 feet of the cup and two-putted.

He birdied four of the last six holes.

Green had birdie putts of 20 feet or less on every hole except the 48-yard, par-4 10th, where he bunkered his approach and made his only bogey, and the 420-yard 14th where he sank a 6-foot putt to save par.

Suns oust Kings

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Paul Westphal scored 30 points as the Phoenix Suns eliminated Kansas City from a playoff spot Thursday night with a 121-107 victory over the Kings.

Alexis Adams scored 21 points for the Suns and rookies Ira Terecki and Ron Lee added 16 apiece. Richard Washington and Scott Wedman shared scoring honors for Kansas City with 20 points each.

Phoenix, leading 26-22 at the end of the first quarter, pulled to a 59-48 halftime edge.

To get in the playoffs the Kings had to win their last three games while Chicago had to drop its last three.

Norton takes precautions

GILMAN HOT SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Ken Norton, hoping to get another shot at Muhammad Ali now that the heavyweight champion has officially unretired, said Thursday he is taking nothing for granted as he trains here for his May 11 bout with Duane Bobick at Madison Square Garden.

"There has been a rumor floating around that I'm taking Bobick lightly," Norton said. "I want to set the record straight. I'm all added up over this fight. I'm in high gear over the prospects of getting another title shot if I beat Bobick."

"Bobick's won 38 in a row with 32 knockouts. Only a fool would take him lightly. I've never been a fool. I do think that I'm going to destroy him, but I can only accomplish that if I'm in top condition."

Marshall leaves Braves

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Atlanta Braves' relief pitcher Mike Marshall has quit the team — at least temporarily — to fight a new legal battle with Michigan State University.

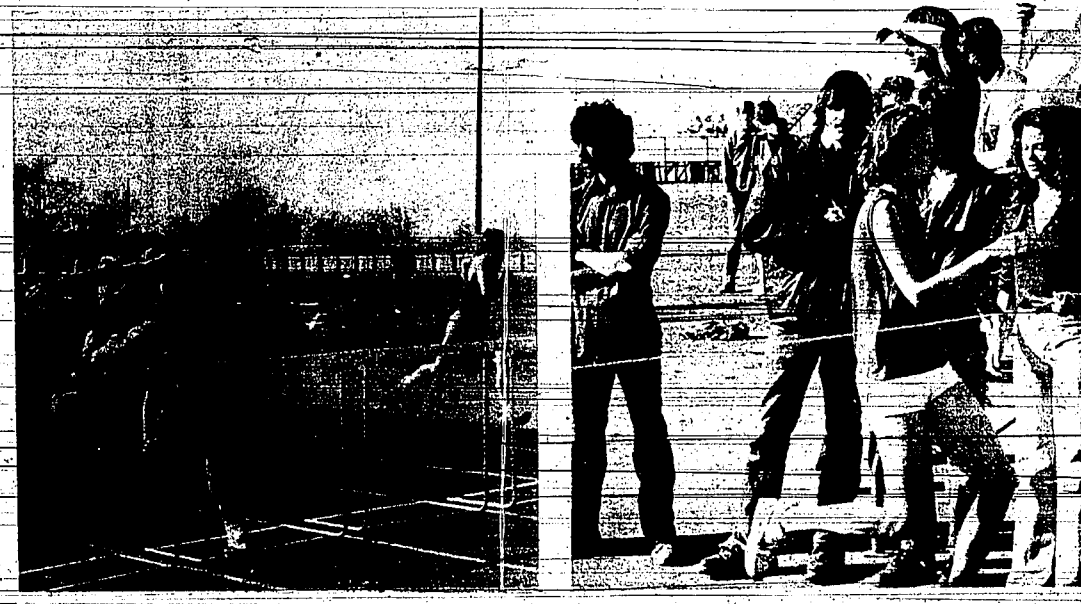

Marshall said Thursday he learned from Ingham County Prosecutor Peter Houk that university officials are contemplating assault charges against him for a March 23 incident at a university sports arena.

"I told (Atlanta Braves' owner) Ted Turner I can make no prediction or promise as to when or if I'll return," Marshall said.

The former Cy Young award winner has been embroiled in a series of legal disputes with MSU for more than a year, beginning with a confrontation early last year over the use of a batting-pitching cage in a turf arena on campus.

Company suggests electricity savers

JEROME - Clotheslines instead of dryers, cold-meals three-times weekly and short showers are among the recommendations for the Jerome office, told Jerome Chamber of Commerce members Wednesday noon the firm is even urging "Take a shower with a friend."

"Like a camel, Idaho Power customers will have to live off the water in their hump," Judd said.

If consumption is cut by 10 per cent and the remainder of 1977 is a normal water-year, "we might make it" without a cutback in service, he said.

Every time a customer draws one-gallon-of-hot-water, it takes 100 gallons of water going through the turbines. Customers are asked to reduce their thermostats to 68 degrees and not set air conditioning controls lower than 78 degrees.

Chamber members questioned Judd about details of the possible electric power rationing. He said electrical service will be cut off in certain sections of town two hours at a time. But areas serving public institutions such as the hospital would not be cut, he said.

Asked whether turning off noon signs would help, Judd said one horse power pump uses as much energy as 425 lighted signs.

Homeowners also can cut their heat losses in half by using storm-doors-and-windows, Judd said.

Judd and Vaughn Dettner, some manager, said the firm is planning to obtain an 18 per cent rate hike to offset the expected cutback in customer revenue and pay for expansion projects. He said the rate hike "has nothing to do with the Pioneer plan," which was turned down by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

Jerome designs sewage plant without creamery

JEROME - The city of Jerome is going to proceed with the design phase of the proposed new sewage treatment plant without the Idaho Creamery which closed its operation last month.

Ed Evans, city works supervisor, told the Council Tuesday night the engineering firm handling the sewer project has advised him that Jerome would lose its allocated federal funds for the plant if the city does not proceed with Phase 2 or the design portion of the project.

Council members instructed Evans to write the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the State Health Department, informing the city will fund the design phase without the creamery.

Part of the delay in the sewer project has been caused because city officials were trying to estimate costs of the creamery's share of the project. This cost reportedly was a major factor in why the creamery was not purchased by Cache Valley Creamery, Utah.

Evans said the decision to proceed without industry participation does not exclude participation of other industries "a year or so down the road."

If the creamery should get back into operation it still could hook on to the sewage system, but would have to pay for the engineering costs involved.

The major reason for the long delay in implementing plans for a new sewage plant

Food seminar slated

TWIN FALLS - The WYCA Women's Center is sponsoring a Health Awareness Seminar at the Y, April 14, 15, and 16.

This seminar has been organized to increase public awareness and knowledge about food and health.

Thursday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. the lecture topics are "Prenatal diet and Breast-feeding and food for the First year," by Lecturer Leanne and "Growing Healthy Children," by Jelene Tuma, R.N.

Friday night, from 7 to 10 p.m., "Home Storage of Food" by Paul Victor, "Food Allergies and Hypoglycemia" by Cheryl Hymas and "Diet and Its Effect on Disease" by Velva McBride of the Nutrition Shoppe, are on the agenda.

Saturday, the lectures and demonstrations will begin at 9 a.m. During the morning the topics covered will be "Spices, Wheat Grinders and Breadmaking" and "Juicers and the Benefits of Fresh Juice."

A healthy lunch will be on sale by the Women's Center from noon till 1 followed by lectures on "Preserving Food" by Pat Kleinkopf.

Professional Home Consultant - herbalist on "Wild Food" by Rosemary by Mark Miller, herbist. "The American Diet - its pros and cons" and "Book Reviews of Health Books" by Sta-Well Health Food Store.

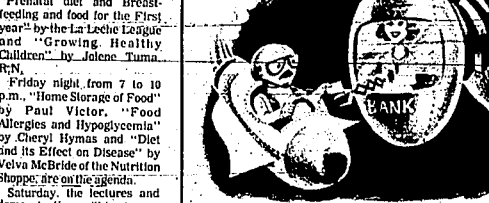

Tables will be set up all day Saturday with exhibits, information, books and products for sale by the Nutrition Shoppe, Sta-Well, La Leche League, Golden Grain Mills and the Mother Hubbard Store.

The cost is $1 per lecture or $2 for all three lectures on Thursday or Friday nights. On Saturday, attend all seven lectures for $5. Tickets may be purchased in advance at the WYCA or at the door.

Babysitters will be available for 50 cents per hour per child for the entire day.

CHIEFTAIN. - IT'S A CLASSIC!

The all new Winnebago Chieftain. The new Winnebago Chieftain is built in the style and tradition that launched millions of miles of motor home travel.

The Chieftain is designed and engineered to make you feel right at home while you spend many enjoyable hours outdoors with your new Chieftain.

Convenience for the Ladies:
Whether you prefer the front or the rear kitchen model - Winnebago's comprehensive protection package that travels with you. Chieftain, you'll find that they all are designed with your convenience in mind. From the 8-cubic foot, gasolene refrigerator to the 4-burner range with glass front oven, you won't want to be without when you're on the road. You'll enjoy being in a Chieftain kitchen.

Comfortable floor plans. The three Chieftain floor plans offer you a variety of comfort and convenience in motor home living. Each one is designed with its own unique features. There's a floor plan to fit your family's size and taste.

All this plus the Winnebago Homeowner's Plan.

Not only do you get comfort and convenience, you also get Winnebago's comprehensive protection package that travels with you. Ask us to explain the entire Winnebago Homeowner's Plan to you. It's something that you won't want to be without when you're on the road.

Take a look at the Chieftain. The new Chieftains follow the Winnebago tradition of being built from the inside out. They are designed to put every inch of TOGETHER to the best use, and you'll find that the Chieftain is spacious and comfortable. Take a look at a Chieftain soon and launching yourself into miles of traveling pleasure.

WINNEBAGO. The name that means the most in motor homes.

Courthouse plans near completion

TWIN FALLS — The half-million dollar expansion and renovation of the county courthouse may be ready for acceptance by county officials by the end of this month.

County Commission Chairman Merle Leonard said Architect Richard Heindel is meeting with the contractor and Heindel's engineers to complete a list of items which will be added to the building.

The project involved addition of 4,400 square feet of space on the judicial building to provide adequate office and courtroom area for the magistrate, court and more filing and records area for magistrate and district courts.

The judicial building annex has been in use for several months and is complete except for minor details.

In the courthouse expansion, the sheriff's office has expanded into the former driver's license department, giving the sheriff a booking area and holding cell.

The cell on the main floor of the building gives county and city officers an opportunity to house a prisoner waiting for court appearance or in transit without going to the fourth floor of the building.

The former automobile license bureau on the main floor is now used for driver licensing and the vehicle licenses are issued on the third floor adjacent to the other assessor's office.

A sprinkler heads. An entire new heating plant was installed in the old courthouse and it includes the air conditioning equipment.

Leonard said the county wants to know the air conditioning has been thoroughly tested and is going to function properly during coming hot weather before the contractor is released from responsibility.
