

Sit-down strike fails

SUSAN Halas, 33, reporter for the Maui, Hawaii, News, stages a sit-down strike Thursday in an attempt to block departure of a Navy helicopter for the restricted island of Kahoolawe because she wasn't allowed aboard. She was later arrested on a charge of trespassing after an alleged shoving match with Vice Adm. Sam Gravelly Jr., commander of the Third Fleet. The island is used for target practice, which native Hawaiians want stopped because of the island's historical value. A Navy official said Halas wasn't allowed on the helicopter because reporters had not been invited on the trip, made by a delegation of Navy officials and civilians. (UPI)

Inflation cut Carter goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today unveiled an antiinflation plan aimed at combating the "difficult and tenacious problem" with a cooperative and voluntary effort among government, business and labor. The main goal of the program, he told a nationally televised news conference, was a reduction in the inflation rate by two percentage points by the end of 1979. The current inflation rate is about 6 percent.

Saying there "are no magic solutions" to controlling the inflation rate, the President said the fight "can be won only by hard, day-to-day, unglamorous and often politically unpopular efforts, and by the voluntary cooperation and restraint of the American people."

Carter also said his antiinflation fight would not come at the expense of American workers' jobs.

"High unemployment is a morally unacceptable — and ineffective — way of combating inflation and I totally reject that approach. Inflation must not be attacked by causing additional human misery."

In a statement released before the news conference, Carter said his anti-inflation package would include:

- Voluntary wage and price constraints by labor and industry.
- A government crackdown on price fixing and monopolies.
- A reduction of federal regulation that contributes to inefficient business operations that are ultimately costly to consumers.
- Reform of rate setting regulations to encourage competition within regulated industries, including airlines.
- International agreements to make commodities available at lower prices and no protective action by the U.S. government to restrain cheaper imports.

During a question-and-answer session with reporters, Carter acknowledged his new energy policy, to be announced next week, will "be inflationary in nature." But he disputed predictions in news reports that the higher prices he will seek under the policy would fuel inflation by an additional 2 per cent or 3 per cent.

"We hope to be able...to hold down the impact on inflation to less than one-half of 1 per cent by voluntary conservation wherever possible," Carter said.

The President said in addition to conservation, he hopes to counter some of the inflationary impact of the energy plan by funneling money collected through energy taxes back into the economy in the form of offsetting tax reductions in other areas.

The inflation fighting package was the President's second major economic announcement in two days.

Carter dropped his controversial $50 per person tax rebate Thursday on grounds that it would be inflationary. He also conceded there were "political" considerations in his hard fight to get it through the Senate.

The President said that if Congress should approve the Republicans' income tax alternative to his $50 rebate — a permanent tax rate increase — "I would veto it."

He added, "I don't think Congress would take that action. It would be irresponsible."

Carter said there was a "sharp distinction" between his anti-inflation approach and the Ford and Nixon administrations.

"Their approach to controlling inflation was to deliberately dampen the economy" which in turn boosted unemployment, Carter said.

"We have tried to deliberately stimulate the economy" while combatting inflationary pressures and unemployment, he added. "I refuse to connect the two."

Business and academic economists have expressed concern over a renewal of double-digit inflation because of the two most recent government reports showing consumer and wholesale prices rising at an annual rate of about 13 per cent.

TWIN FALLS — A sharp set of energy conservation teeth is proposed for a regional power pooling plan being developed by an association of about 12 public and private utilities.

Regional mandatory conservation standards would be adopted by state legislatures under the plan, according to Earl Gjelde, assistant power manager for the Bonneville Power Administration.

Specific conservation standards (first would be developed by the governors of the states of Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Montana, Gjelde said.

Then, if any state legislature did not enact the standards into law, a 50 per cent surcharge would be slapped on to all energy going to that state, he said. "That would raise the retail price of electricity to the user by about 25 per cent, he said.

The surcharge would be possible because, under the plan, the Bonneville Power Administration would pool all electricity generated in the region and sell it wholesale to utilities serving the four states.

Gjelde said if the BPA had to levy the surcharge on a state which refused to enact the conservation standards, the extra money would go into a $300 million fund used to promote conservation.

Should the surcharge raise more than $300 million, he said, the extra money would be used to lower the cost of electricity in states which had adopted the standards.

"Our plan and hope is that the states would set standards and comply with them and that the surcharge would not be put into effect," he said.

Conservation standards initially agreed upon by the states "could be anything," Gjelde said.

Heavy Zaire clash

By United Press International

The Congolese National Liberation Front said its troops fought a heavy battle against Zairean forces west of Kolwezi today in fighting in which two of the soldiers killed were French.

The guerrilla report was issued in Paris where the French Foreign Ministry immediately denied it. "As there are no French troops in Zaire," a spokesman said, these two soldiers cannot be French nationals.

The front, which claims to represent the rebel invaders in copper-rich Shaba province, also warned France not to interfere in Zairean internal affairs.

Thursday the front said it inflicted a heavy defeat on government soldiers 16 miles west of Kolwezi, the strategic mining center of the province.

Deadline here for tax returns

TWIN FALLS — Employees of the Twin Falls office of the Internal Revenue Service are expecting another long busy today as taxpayers attempt to beat the midnight deadline tonight for filing 1976 income tax returns.

John Eastham, director, said the office has been busy since about Jan. 2, with a peak Thursday and today. He said between 200 and 300 taxpayers called at the office Thursday and today is expected to be about the same.

He said the office will remain open until 6 p.m. today to give taxpayers an additional hour of assistance.

All federal and state tax returns must be in the mail and postmarked by midnight tonight if the individuals are to avoid penalty.

Eastham said his office, now working with a full staff of about 10 full-time and one part-time employees, was busy during January and February with returns from persons who left they would have a tax refund. After a breather in March, the persons filing returns with payments began seeking assistance in April.

Kidnap suspect sought in Pocatello area

By CHRIS BOGAN
Times-News writer

LAVA HOT SPRINGS — An intensive search begun Thursday is continuing today in this area for a gunman believed to be the same one who abducted Ketchum Police Officer Jerry Engelbert Monday.

The gunman allegedly robbed a Pocatello restaurant earlier Thursday and took three employees hostage, later releasing them.

Bannock County law enforcement officers are looking for Arden Naillon, 36, who has warrants out for his arrest in Blaine County for second-degree kidnaping, resisting arrest, assault and two counts of grand larceny. He is also wanted in Canyon County, Salt Lake City and Twin Falls.

Thursday at 11:30 a.m. police received a CB radio report that the Grizzly Bear Pizza Parlor at 510 Yellowstone in Pocatello had been robbed and three hostages taken.

The suspect reportedly took $250 and abducted manager Steve Sulfridge and employees Darlene Davis and Bill MacEduiff in a car owned by the proprietor of the pizza establishment.

Officers said Naillon then drove the car out of Pocatello to Lava Hot Springs, some 35 miles to the southeast, where he released the hostages. Naillon continued farther in the stolen Pocatello vehicle before abandoning it and fleeing into the mountains, police believe.

David Evans, son of Gov. John V. Evans, who had been in Pocatello on business and was driving to Lava Hot Springs, found the hostages. According to investigator Lynn Harris, Pocatello City Police, the hostages reported that Naillon was very calm and polite.

"He was just talking and he said he had been the one who took the cup over in Ketchum, and he walked out through the hills past the police," Harris said the hostages reported. They also said Naillon seemed proud of having escaped the Ketchum searchers.

Naillon was reported to have pistol whipped William McEduiff on the side of the head. No cuts are said to have been sustained although McEduiff complained of a headache.

Police sent up a search plane Thursday to survey the mountains into which Naillon is believed to have escaped, and early this morning officers began the search again with bloodhounds.

Bannock County sheriff's officers said today they believed Naillon was still in the Lava Hot Springs area.

"I don't think he got out of the area, unless he's in the mountains traveling further up, and we're searching," an officer said.

Naillon has been charged with the abduction of Ketchum Police Officer Jerry Engelbert Monday and was the subject of a search north of Ketchum.

Blaine County officers called off the search

Wednesday and believed Naillon had escaped in a vehicle stolen late Tuesday night.

The 1972 International Scout stolen from Trail Creek Cabin in Sun Valley was recovered by Pocatello police a short distance from the scene of the robbery and abduction there.

Also, a holster which has been identified as belonging to Engelbert was recovered by Pocatello police.

Engelbert, who had been handcuffed to the back seat of his patrol car by the suspect, managed to call police on radio after the suspect fled into the mountains.

After being found, Engelbert said, "He told me when he left the car that he wasn't going back to prison, and nobody should come for him. He said something like he would stop anybody who would try to take him; my observation was that he would have been dangerous if I hadn't done what he said."

Carter encouraged on arms talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter said today he believes there is no reason to change the basic U.S. proposals for arms limitation, adding "it is far more important to reach a dramatic conclusion or dramatic agreement."

Carter, in his fifth news conference, said he would "welcome a chance to visit with a regular basis" with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

Carter said he has no plans to abandon the two basic U.S. proposals for the SALT talks. "I see no reason to change our proposals to rally the support of the friends of Vladivostok and a much more realistic reduction in overall arms," supplies the President said.

Soviet leaders have said any new agreement must be based on the 1974 Vladivostok accords signed by Brezhnev and President Gerald Ford.

The two nations continued their discussions in Washington today, the Soviet ambassador Anatoli Dobrynin meeting at the State Department with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and chief U.S. arms negotiator Paul Warnke. Asked what the subject of the talks would be, John Trainor, a State Department spokesman said, "You can deduce from the participants that the subject will be the arms talks."

It is the high level contact between Dobrynin and American officials since the end of the Moscow talks.

Carter acknowledged his new energy policy: to be announced in the next few days, will be "inflationary in nature." But he disputed predictions in news reports that the higher prices he will seek under the policy would fuel inflation by an additional 2 or 3 percent.

"We hope to be able to hold down the impact on inflation to less than one-half of 1 percent by voluntary conservation wherever possible," Carter said.

Carter said in addition to conservation, he hopes to counter some of the inflationary impact by funneling money collected through energy taxes back into the economy in the form of off-setting tax reductions in other areas.

On economic matters, Carter said that if Congress should approve the Republicans' income tax alternative to his $50 rate —

Reception Sunday

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Mother of the Year reception for Sadie DeGies will be Sunday in the First Baptist Church from 3 to 5 p.m.

A headline in the Times-News Thursday erroneously said the reception would be Saturday.

Mrs. DeGies, Twin Falls, leaves May 1 for New York City and the national Mother of the Year event. All seven of her sons and daughters will attend the reception which is sponsored by the Challenge Class of the First Baptist Church. It is open to the public.

Contributions to help pay her expenses to New York City may be made by contacting John Angerberger at the Twin Falls Bank and Trust.

Bender 'winds down'

BOISE (UPI) — John Bender said today he resigned as director of the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement to "wind down" and coordinate law enforcement efforts during the drought.

Bender said Gov. John V. Evans asked him to take the new post which would make it "impossible for me to do this and adequately fulfill the duties of director of law enforcement, therefore, I am stepping out of the directorship effective the first of May to fulfill the responsibilities of the coordinator's post — a temporary position — to deal with the drought crisis."

Utility official predicts dry reservoirs for Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — Streams and reservoirs in Idaho will be dry this fall, a spokesman for Idaho Power Co. said Thursday in U.S. Senate hearing on a national water policy at the Idaho Statehouse.

Logan Lanham, vice president of public affairs for Idaho Power Co., predicted water shortages so severe that they will leave streams and reservoirs empty.

Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, presiding over the hearing, summarized the situation, saying, "Even if we get through the irrigation season we will do so at the expense of empty streams and reservoirs in fall and winter."

Lanham said drought conditions "will not end after the irrigation season" but even with "normal precipitation in the fall and winter most of the runoff will be used to refill these reservoirs and, consequently, reduce the amount of power."

Idaho Power Co. asked the Senate committee to take the following steps:

- Make available to utilities funds which could be utilized to purchase high cost energy.
- Support Idaho Power's request for a variance to fill its

US, Hanoi set Paris talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Carter administration has accepted Vietnam's offer to hold high level talks aimed at improving relations. Officials say talks began next month in Paris.

The United States will be represented by Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke, the department's top ranking expert on Asia. The Vietnamese will be represented by an official of equivalent rank.

The United States has linked progress toward starting relations with Vietnam to Hanoi's cooperation in helping locate Americans listed as missing in action during U.S. military operations in the war.

The officials said that the United States proposed a meeting for late this month, but that the Vietnamese suggested May. The Vietnamese wanted higher ranking diplomats to be involved, the U.S. officials said, but the United States was not prepared to give the talks that kind of importance.

Word that a meeting has been scheduled signals that the administration is apparently satisfied that Vietnam is cooperating in the search for MIAs.

A U.S. delegation recently visited Vietnam and brought back the remains of 11 American servicemen. Upon its return, Carter said he would accept Premier Pham Van Dong's invitation to "re-ignite discussions" in Paris.

Next month's talks would be the first between the two countries at such a high level since the negotiations between Henry Kissinger and Vietnamese leader Le Duc Tho in 1974 before the fall of South Vietnam.

The U.S. delegation told Carter that "normalization of relations offers the best prospect for obtaining full accounting for our missing personnel."

The Vietnamese want $3 billion reparations for U.S. inflicted war damages, but Carter said last month, "I don't feel that we owe a debt nor that we should be forced to pay reparations." Hanoi, said, wants to reestablish relations with the United States and that the Vietnamese "have said they are not going to 'pursue past disagreements.'"

Carter plans England visit

LONDON (UPI) — President Carter will pay a four-hour visit to northeastern England May 6 along with Prime Minister James Callaghan. It was announced today.

The announcement from Callaghan's 10 Downing street office said Carter will travel through parts of the Tyne and Wear area, including Newcastle and Washington New Town before taking part in a seven-nation economic conference in London.

"This will be the first time that President Carter has traveled overseas since taking office and I know that the warm-hearted people of the north-east will welcome him on Friday, May 6," Callaghan said.

"When I visited the United States in March, I discussed with President Carter, the possibility of his seeing something of Britain outside London when he came."

Teamster fund gets exemption

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials indicate they likely will restore tax-exempt status to the Teamsters Central States pension fund by April 30, now that trustees of the fund have hired an independent investments manager.

Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons agreed to resign as a trustee of the $1.4 billion scandal-ridden fund once the tax-exempt status has been restored permanently by the Internal Revenue Service.

The Labor Department Thursday approved trustees' selection of Crocker National Bank of San Francisco as fund fiduciary to plot investment policies, appoint investment managers, allocate funds among investment managers and monitor investment results.

As a result, officials said "the outlook is very favorable" that the tax-exempt status will be restored by April 30. "These choices are fully satisfactory to the Labor Department," Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said.

The fund's tax exempt status was revoked by IRS last year on apparent evidence of illegal mismanagement.

Soviet vessel back on high seas

BOSTON (UPI) — The Soviet ship Antonas Shechuk was back on the high seas today minus some of her cargo and with strict orders from her homeland to observe American offshore fishing regulations.

The vessel, a 503-foot refrigerator-transport, was released Thursday with a civil citation for illegally processing fish protected by the new U.S. fishing law.

National Marine Fisheries Service officials said they must still determine what fine will be imposed. A single citation carries a penalty of up to $25,000.

Another Russian ship, the trawler Taras Shevchenko, was still tied up at the Boston Coast Guard station today while Fisheries agents examined its cargo.

The two Russian vessels were seized early this week in a White House-ordered crackdown on violators of the new law that took effect March 1.

In Moscow, meanwhile, the Soviet fisheries ministry gave Russian fishing captains sailing in American waters new instructions on "strictly observing" American regulations.

In a front-page story, the official government newspaper Izvestia said, "In connection with fishing incidents taking place recently the ministry of fisheries of the USSR considered in detail questions connected with this."

"Captains of fishing vessels have been given additional instructions on strict observance of fishing regulations" in keeping with the provisions of a Nov. 26, 1976, agreement between the United States and Russia.

"The leaders of fishery operations have carried out additional auxiliary work on explaining the regulations existing in the American zone of fishery control," Izvestia said.

The Antonas Shechuk was ordered into port at Boston Monday where 16 tons of its estimated 100 tons of fish were taken off the vessel, the Coast Guard said.

Because of a dispute with longshoremen, Coast Guardsmen finished the unloading operation Thursday and the ship steamed out of Boston Harbor to join more than a dozen other Russian vessels still working New England waters.

Transformer explodes

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A transformer blew up outside of a Pacific Gas & Electric substation late Thursday, knocking out power for more than 5,000 central Oakland homes. The terrorist New World Liberation Front later called a wire service and claimed credit for the blast.

There were no injuries from the explosion, which occurred at 11:36 p.m. at a substation in the Lake Merritt area. Residents in the area described the explosion as a big one.

Oakland police and FBI immediately closed off the site and launched an investigation, however police would not confirm that the explosion was purposely set.

Power was restored to all 5,263 customers within two hours, according to a PG&E official, who declined to estimate the cost of the damages.

The NWLF has bombed, or attempted to bomb, an estimated 40 locations in the Bay Area during the past three years in addition to threatening the lives of various San Francisco Bay Area politicians. As yet, no one has been injured from their attacks.

Joint push proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today said he has asked George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and Reginald Jones, chairman of General Electric Co., to coordinate anti-inflation efforts among government, labor and business.

"I expect this work to begin immediately," Carter said.

"While the collaborative effort ought to be a permanent one, I hope that some concrete approaches for private sector cooperation—in reducing inflation can be developed within the next several months," he said.

He said Meany and Jones will work with his economic policy group.

Quick Response unit helps save lives

Two Sundays ago a great wind swept through Magic Valley which closed I-80N, uprooted trees and generally tore up most of an afternoon.

The freeway running along the north rim of the Snake River became a wrecking yard that day with more than 60 people injured in accidents.

Some trucks, grove off the highway because they couldn't see the road. Other trucks flipped under the pressure of the 75 mile-an-hour winds.

Many motorists stopped on the pavement only to be rammed from the rear by drivers who blindly tried to escape the whirling storm.

Throughout that windy afternoon two new vans with Jerome County license plates could be seen touring up and down the highway helping victims of the windstorm.

Driving the relief trucks were members of the Valley Quick Response Unit, an organization in eastern Jerome County celebrating its first anniversary this month.

It's a worthy anniversary to note. The 32 active members of the Valley Quick Response Unit have earned a reputation as Idaho's best-organized emergency medical treatment team.

Many small Idaho towns have organized or are in the process of forming groups similar to the Valley Quick Response Unit but none have a unit which is better.

In somewhat isolated communities like Eden and Hazelton, ambulance calls generally are slow in coming. The nearest hospital may be 15 minutes to an hour away.

When an accident occurs, or an individual falls victim to a heart attack or suffers a broken limb, many towns had no local emergency treatment facilities available to help out.

Quick Response units fill this void. Technicians who serve in the Valley Quick Response Unit underwent 51 hours of emergency medical training for treating shock and a dozen other emergencies.

The response units don't transport accident victims to hospitals unless it's an extreme emergency but provides invaluable, immediate aid to injured or ill residents of their communities.

Most recently, the Valley Quick Response Unit probably saved the life of young Tamara Clark who was trapped in the back seat of her family's small car in the aftermath of an accident.

The girl's father was killed in the crash and Tamara, pinned in the wreckage, could have died from loss of blood if the Valley Quick Response Unit had not arrived on the scene and administered emergency first aid.

The men and women who participate in the Valley Quick Response Unit contribute greatly to the betterment of the Eden-Hazelton area. Their work saves lives.

Courts threaten secrecy of sources

London Economist News Service

One of the most acute causes of present conflict between the press and the law in the United States is the press' determination to protect its confidential sources of information. Reporters and editors argue convincingly that they cannot possibly dig into wrongdoing in centers of great power, either public or private, unless they get facts from insiders whose jobs or even lives might be threatened if their names became known - and who therefore must be assured anonymity.

The confidential source is at the heart of the current growth in investigative reporting. The famous example is "Deep Throat", who helped Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein in their Watergate stories for the Washington Post. The ace investigative reporter of The New York Times, Seymour Hersh, has had similar sources in his work on CIA abuses, and the same is true right down to exposure of graft in city halls.

The conflict arises when, for example, a newspaper writes about crime and corruption, the authorities begin an official inquiry, and they then subpoena the reporter to find out all he knows. The inquiry may be in good faith, or it may be political; in either case, most journalists make a point of principle not to testify beyond confirming what they have published.

Only that way, they contend, can they give their sources convincing assurance of confidentiality. Refusal to testify risks imprisonment for contempt - unless the press can attain privileged status.

At the urging of the press, many states have enacted legislation giving journalists a testimonial privilege under limited circumstances. In order to have more universal protection, the press has been pushing very hard for a constitutional privilege - one inferred from the First Amendment. But that presents difficulties.

One is that the general trend of the law has been to cut down on privileges against testifying and to open the courts to fuller evidence.

A second is that it is hard to distinguish between reporters and others in terms of need for this kind of protection of sources.

Suppose a Harvard professor had written a scholarly paper on Vietnam during the war, quoting unnamed American officials, and is then called by a grand jury and asked for his sources - should he be made to testify while a journalist is excused? (That case occurred, and the professor went to jail briefly for contempt.)

The First Amendment protects all kinds of expression, including scholarly work, and some doubt that the press should seek to be a special case.

In 1972 the Supreme Court, by a vote of 5 to 4, rejected the constitutional claim for press privilege. Of three cases decided, the best-known concerned a Black reporter for The New York Times, Eggar Caldwell, who refused to appear before a grand jury to tell about his interviews with leaders of the Black Panther party, then a militant group.

Justice Byron White, for the majority, relied on the tradition that a grand jury "has a right to every man's evidence". In a prescient footnote, Justice White noted

Chief Justice John Marshall's view of 1807 that even a president could be subpoenaed. The privilege doctrine was announced on June 29, 1972, just 12 days after the Watergate break-in.

Curiously, that Supreme Court judgment has not proved to be the last word. There was a certain ambiguity in it: one of the five in the majority, Justice Lewis F. Powell, wrote his separate opinion saying that "harassment of newsmen" would not be allowed and that judges should quash subpoenas endangering reporters' confidential sources "without a legitimate need of law enforcement."

Following those hints, lower courts have frequently excused journalists - from testifying in the last few years. Judges have balanced the claimed interest of the reporter against the particular need for his testimony. All this has been done without defining any general constitutional privilege, but simply by weighing the equities, case by case, as judges do.

Carter set to offend many supporters

By RAYMOND R. COFFEY
Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON - Over the next few months, Robert Strauss figures he may "offend just about every constituency" Jimmy Carter has - not to mention "just about every foreign country" the United States trades with.

Strauss, 58, the Texas millionaire lawyer-businessman who pulled the Democratic Party back together after its 1972 debacle and helped put Carter into the White House, is now the President's chief foreign trade negotiator.

And, for all the boisterous, energetic, gregarious, cocksure pragmatism that won him something of a reputation as a political maverick at the Democratic National Committee, Strauss has no illusions about his new assignment being an easy one.

Protectionist tariff-quota sentiment is rising among labor unions, industries and congressmen concerned about a tide of imported consumer goods like shoes, TV sets and sugar.

On the other hand, any shift away from America's longtime free-trade stance would inevitably mean higher prices to consumers, who are an increasingly vocal political constituency, and also would provoke anger and invite retaliation from U.S. trading partners.

Strauss describes himself as a committed "free trader," and all the evidence is that the Carter administration, like his predecessors, will also stick basically with a free-trade policy and try to finesse the protectionist demands.

But Strauss, understandably enough given his recent history, sees his job in more "political" terms than his predecessors and appears to feel some tempering or compromising is in order.

On the one hand, he said in a meeting with reporters Thursday, "something has to be done" about the situation in which Japan and West Germany manage one way or another to pile up trade surpluses year after year with little apparent regard to their impact on other countries' economies.

"Faciously," he added, "as I said the other day, we could have landed 100 tanks in Japan 60 days after Pearl Harbor easier than we could land a thousand Ford cars in Japan today."

On the other hand, he said, Americans "can't just say the hell with these foreigners - let's keep their stuff out of here. We have to let (the American) people understand what trade means to this country."

Strauss, sworn into his new job only this week, freely acknowledges that he has no mastery or vast experience of the "technical" side of negotiating foreign trade agreements.

But, not a man afflicted with any visible doubts about his own brilliance, Strauss feels his political talents may be of special value in his new job.

For example, he said, some labor leaders and other sections of the society feel "correctly and incurably" that "this country for too long has given away on economic issues too readily" for the sake of what "appear to be broader international issues."

"That, he said, is why, he has been given a "cabinet rank," to make it possible for him to "incumbent" to meet with the secretaries of state and defense, for example, to keep economic interest from losing out.

More broadly, he said, the role and importance of foreign trade in the U.S. economy is "ill perceived" among the American people generally.

For example, the growing protectionist sentiment about imported shoes and color TV sets is related to fears of domestic jobs in those industries being lost.

But on the other side of the coin, it is estimated that the jobs of about 9 million Americans depend on exports to other countries.

Hence, Strauss said, "one of the things he is determined to do" is "to get out of the office . . . and tell the story of what trade means to this country." He already has scheduled about a dozen speeches around the country.

One of his most immediate problems, Strauss said, is that he could not have taken on his job "at a worse time" - because the general sluggishness of the United States and other national economies is contributing to protectionist sentiment.

Thus President Carter faces an almost immediate decision on what to do about rulings by the International Trade Commission that U.S. shoe, TV set and sugar industries are being hurt by imports and deserve protection in the form of tariffs or quotas.

More than 10 congressmen are demanding such protection for the shoe industry - and though Strauss declined to discuss what the administration might do - the administration is apparently looking for some sort of compromise that would appease them without abandoning the traditional free trade posture.

Strauss noted at such a compromise when he spoke of offending domestic constituencies and foreign countries in the short run. But, he said, such short-term decisions should not be seen as "necessarily indicating (the administration's) long term goals" or as a drift toward protectionism.

It will be much easier, he predicted, to develop long-range policies and negotiate trade agreements with other countries a year from now when he believes the United States and other economies will be stronger than they are now.

America top-heavy with surgeons

By KATY GURLEY
Newhouse News Service

ST. LOUIS - Dr. Edgar Berman doesn't do his cutting with a scalpel anymore - he uses a typewriter. He doesn't mince words, either.

Berman, the physician who outraged feminists in 1970 by declaring that women were unfit for public office because periodic hormone problems hamper their ability to function professionally, now dishes out scathing insults to the very profession that once enabled him to live comfortably on $55,000 a year.

He's written "The Solid Gold Stethoscope" (Macmillan, $7.95), a look at the field of medicine that leaves 'em laughing, but a little concerned.

Not one to bite the hand that feeds him, Berman graciously bowed out of practicing medicine several years ago (except to remain Sen. Hubert Humphrey's personal physician) to devote time to writing and to charitable concerns within the medical profession.

In St. Louis to promote his book and to pass out more irrelevant remarks about a field he says is riddled with hypocrisy and corruption, he quipped: "Medicine today is sick."

The gray-haired former Marine surgeon says he is fed up with specialists who make $500,000 a year, won't make house calls or even phone calls and don't want to be bothered while vacationing in their Florida condominiums.

Exaggeration? Not by a long shot, according to the doctor. What's more, he believes, people don't need doctors as much as they think they do. "Over 80 per cent of the patients chancing a doctor's skills have little more wrong with them than what a considerable spouse, a kindly bartender, or a lieby raise in salary could cure," writes Berman. "Of the 20 per cent left, most are amenable to the old tried and true workhorses: milk of magnesia, aspirin, an ice bag. . ."

Berman noted that the American Medical Association estimates there are 25 per cent more surgeons than are needed in the United States. "I say 10-15 more like 75 per cent," he said.

What's more, Berman believes that these surgeons are performing operations unnecessarily.

"There are 3.2 million unnecessary operations in this country a year, according to Ralph Nader," Berman claimed. "And there are a half-million unnecessary hysterectomies." The doctor declared that a million and a half tonsils are needlessly removed each year; "Tonsillectomy is done for everything but tonsillitis. (No nose and throat man will touch a tonsil if it's inflamed.) Half a dozen antibiotic capsules work better."

With that kind of battling average, the surgeon's reputation, according to Berman, looks pretty grim.

He also writes: "There is an old proverb in football: When in doubt, punt. There's an older one in surgery: When in doubt, operate. . . Undoubtedly it's better to have cut and lost (I can never to have cut at all, which not only keeps the surgeon technically trim, but financially fat. The one word that makes it right with his conscience and the world is exploratory."

It aggravates Berman that the old-fashioned patient-doctor relationship has all but disappeared. Doctors are too busy these days to spend time with patients he maintains.

"The main trouble is they don't have time to tell you of the side effects of an operation or medicine," he said. "And then there's that certain mystique to the use of medical terms that confuse patients. Today, a patient doesn't know his doctor, and the doctors don't give a damn."

On the other hand, Berman said, the patient himself can be at fault. "With insurance, a shrewd lawyer and a considerable jury - bingo! You've got it made. Whiplash is no longer an injury. It's an annuity."

Insurance becomes a scandal on both sides of the fence, he added.

"Insurance is the greatest thing in the world and the worst. It's a terrible temptation for doctors to cheat. The patient doesn't care, and the doctor doesn't care."

The 66-year-old, author-doctor, has drawn sharp criticism from some colleagues, although his book and his generally cynical views on medicine have been applauded by reviewers and physicians alike.

He's married and lives on a Maryland farm with no children. Berman taught and did research at Johns Hopkins University, was the first doctor to perform a plastic transplant (oesophagus) on a human and the first to do an experimental heart transplant (on a dog), for which he received the Moscow International Fellowship Award in 1957.

He has worked with the late Dr. Tom Dooley in Laos and the late Dr. Albert Schweitzer in Cambodia, and has served as consultant on various medical matters to the State Department, the White House and Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.).

Berman lost interest in practicing medicine several years ago when he was a surgeon, doing the same patients while still going to know as 3-by-6-inch pieces of abdomen.

"I became less and less satisfied with what I was doing. Then I got an invitation from President Kennedy and Edward R. Murrow to come and work for the government," Berman explained. He gave up practicing then and there and swears he will never return to it.

"It's a fraud," he said. "For a proctologist to spend years in training just to match wits with an itching hemorrhoid is ridiculous."

He leaves not so much as a glimmer of hope. "Never underestimate the resourcefulness of a drunk and the physician," he writes. "History is with him. The medical system will be there, these selfsame physicians who've given us the nursing home problems, made a guaranteed annual income out of Medicaid, thrown Medicare into virtual bankruptcy, and almost alone have seen to it that Blue Cross premiums rise at least 20 per cent or so a year will, never allow the manner of life to which they have become accustomed perish from these shores."

Evidently Berman wants the American physician to hurt whether or not he laughs.

Phyllis George. Robert Evans

Miss George, Evans wed

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — CBS-TV sportscaster Phyllis George, Miss America of 1971, married movie producer Robert Evans Thursday in a ceremony attended by a few friends beneath a sycamore tree in the courtyard of Evans' estate.

It was the first marriage for Miss George, 27, and the fourth for Evans, 46, who once was married to actress All McGraw. Evans, a former actor and clothes manufacturer, headed Paramount Studios until he became an independent producer.

HEW decision reversed

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Robert Zysk, a music teacher in the Wethersfield, Conn., school system is ready to start again after a year-long hassle with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, claiming that his chair for fifth and sixth grade boys was de facto discrimination against girls.

Reversal of the HEW decision Thursday means the sound of music once more will be heard from the Wethersfield Boys Choir. (UPI)

Sense of outrage cited

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former New York Times foreign correspondent Gloria Emerson will join the editorial staff of Rolling Stone Magazine in May, Jann Wenner the publication's Editor announced today.

He said she will serve as Associate Editor responsible for the bi-weekly's News and Opinion section.

"Ms. Emerson," Wenner said, "has just the perfect sense of outrage which we want to bring to Rolling Stone's political coverage."

Anyone can goof

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — State Revenue Director Walter Skelton says it could happen to anyone — including himself. Skelton admits he used the wrong tax table in calculating his state income tax this year. Instead of the $180 claimed, auditors discovered Skelton is entitled only to an $80 refund.

"It's a traditional policy," said Skelton of the audit that caught his error. "We've got to be as clean as Caesar's wife."

Van Houten jury chosen

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A jury of six men and six women was chosen Thursday, ending 12 days of selection in the second murder trial of Manson disciple Leslie Van Houten.

The trial will begin Monday. Miss Van Houten originally was convicted, at her 1969 trial with Charles Manson and two other female followers, of taking part in the stabbing murders of Leni and Rosemary LaBianca two nights after actress Sharon Tate and four friends were slain.

Gerald Ford to pro-am

DUBLIN, Ohio (UPI) — Former President Gerald Ford has accepted an invitation to play in the second annual Memorial Tournament's pro-am event Tuesday, May 17.

"Mr. Ford is looking forward to being in Columbus and playing in the pro-am," said Major Robert Barrett, the ex-president's chief of staff, who telephoned the confirmation from Palm Springs, Calif.

Teen-ager accused of stabbing deaths

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A stocky teen-ager, with a "revelation for homosexuals" has been accused of being the "French Quarter Stabber" who murdered four men in the past two months, police report.

Warren Harris, 16, was booked Thursday for the four murders which occurred in French Quarter apartments within 18 blocks of each other. He originally was arrested Wednesday for the attempted murder of a French seaman. Police believe three of the victims were homosexuals and said Harris spoke of a "revelation for homosexuals."

Police Sgt. Clarence Giarrusso refused to discuss details of the investigation or arrest. To do so could jeopardize a trial because the suspect is a juvenile, he said.

He did say Harris made a statement to detectives. The suspect's mother and grandfather, a minister, were present during questioning.

The short, stocky youth was dwarfed by guards as he entered magistrate's court Thursday. He had been living less than a mile from the killings and had a transsexual roommate, police said.

"All indications are that he's not gay," said police spokesman Gus Krinke. "We don't believe that he was connected with the gay community at all."

Harris' mother said she did not believe her son was guilty.

"I know my child. He's no saint, but I don't honestly think he's capable of something like this," said Joyce Harris.

"He's a good-hearted child. He likes girls. He has a lot of girlfriends. He's not homosexual," Mrs. Harris said.

Mrs. Harris said Warren dropped out of school last year after eighth grade. She said he was confined to a state youth institution in 1974 for attempted auto theft and also had been arrested for theft and purse snatching.

"I know he'd do a lot of things — but not that (murder)," she said.

Five men who lived alone were stabbed to death in or near the French Quarter since Feb. 14, officers said, however, Harris was not involved in the death of James McClure, who was stabbed during a street robbery March 2.

The stabbings occurred in an area dominated by homosexuals and the slayings had terrified the gay community.

"They needed to catch him, but people are still going to be careful until he's been convicted and the evidence about him comes out," said Rusty.

"A gay French Quarter bartender who asked his last name be withheld.

"People have been thinking about it. We've stayed in groups of three or four at least (for protection)."

Bob agrees to pay

SEATTLE (UPI) — Actor Bob Cummings, accused of using an electronic device to avoid long-distance telephone tolls, has agreed to pay a "substantial" out-of-court settlement on a civil suit filed by Pacific Northwest Bell.

A Bell spokesman said Thursday the settlement would cover the "alleged" losses of revenue caused by Cummings in making illegal long distance calls.

The company originally sued for more than $100,000.

Neither party announced the amount of settlement, but Bell charged at the time of Cummings' arrest in late 1975 that a "minimum" of $4,500 in telephone tolls was bypassed by Cummings between October 9 and Dec. 15 of that year.

LDS dissident squelched

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Dissident Mormon Douglas Wallace's attempt to halt the president-of-the-church-intro court was quashed Thursday by Third District Court Judge Dean Conder.

Conder ruled that President Spencer Kimball was not the only person in the church structure capable of testifying and that Utah law allowed designated agents of the church corporation to represent the church in court matters.

Wallace's attorney Brian Barnard said after the hearing that his client would subpoena another agent of the church to testify at an April 25 hearing on why a temporary restraining order issued against Wallace should not be made permanent.

Wallace, who was excommunicated after attempting to ordain a black man into the Mormon priesthood in Vancouver, Wash., sent allegedly threatening letters to Kimball and is trying to hold an ecclesiastical trial to oust Kimball as president of the church.

Church attorney Oscar

McConkie argued that Wallace and Barnard were engaging in "harassing" tactics and asked Conder for a "protective order" to keep them from further harassment of church leaders.

"It appears to be harassment of an international church of some four million members," said McConkie. But Conder refused to issue a protective order.

Barnard claimed the court was helping the church deny Wallace his rights to an ecclesiastical trial by continuing the temporary restraining order which prohibits Wallace from entering Temple Square.

Heyburn may padlock water valves

HEYBURN — Mayor Harold Hurst says that Heyburn officials are threatening to padlock residential water valves if city irrigation water is not used properly in this year of drought.

Hurst's remarks were made at the Heyburn City Council's discussion of water and sewage problems Wednesday night.

He said it appears that the city will have to establish a rotation system for using irrigation water this summer. The Heyburn irrigation system is entirely under pressure, with water constantly available at the residential valves.

Hurst said city officials will warn residents that the valves will be padlocked if irrigation water is not used properly in this dry year.

"The mayor was to meet Thursday afternoon with a Boise representative of Farmers Home Administration regarding possible financing of a proposed domestic water system for Heyburn.

On another matter, Heyburn officials plan to move next week toward determination of the city's area of urban impact.

Already, the city council is discussing expansion of the area proposed a month ago by its impact committee.

Councilman Wilford Wilcox suggested Wednesday night that the impact area stretch north of the proposed Interstate 20 boundary to include the Hobson Trailer Court. He said several residents of the court have expressed interest in being part of the Heyburn impact area.

Wilcox's remarks came during the Heyburn Council discussed water and sewage problems Wednesday night.

Hurst remarked that the "padding" was odd, since so many Minidoka County rural residents are opposed to planning and zoning regulation. However, Wilcox explained that the trailer court has a sewage disposal problem and added that the drain fields of the septic tanks in the court are "saturated."

Heyburn is awaiting final environmental, Protection Agency approval on a half-million dollar secondary treatment plant designed to prevent any pollution of the Snake River by discharge from the sewage system.

Mayor Hurst said the city's consulting engineers Smith and Jewel of Preston have indicated the city can call for bids on construction of the facility within 30 days of final EPA approval.

Heyburn is discharging waste from its existing sewage treatment plant into the Snake River under a special permit that sets a May 1, 1977 deadline for upgrading treatment. The Mayor said he is sure the permit will be extended, since the delay in construction is because Heyburn is awaiting EPA action.

Hurst and councilman J. L. Brown cleared the death of a proposal four years ago for a plant, single lagoon sewage treatment system to handle municipal waste from four and possibly more cities in the Mini-Casela area. The proposed single lagoon system would have served Burley, Heyburn, Rupert and Paul, and possibly Declo in Cassia County and Arcequia and Minidoka in Minidoka County.

Both Brown and the mayor said the "plan" would have worked if officials of the cities had been willing to act cooperatively.

Brown said the large treatment system for the entire area would have solved the sewage disposal problem for the Hobson Trailer Court.

The trailer court also would have been served under one of two alternatives rejected by Heyburn for disposal of city sewage.

The rejected alternatives studied under EPA directive were the possibilities of piping Heyburn waste to either the Burley or Rupert sewage treatment facility.

The Hobson Trailer Court could have connected to the pressure line to Rupert if that alternative had been chosen.

Firm plans lay-off

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Severe reductions in electrical power have forced Pac Corp. to announce today it was planning to lay off 100 employees at its Pocatello elemental phosphate plant.

Company officials said the severe reductions in power available to the plant have forced corresponding reductions in production.

Richfield teachers ponder salary offer

RICHFIELD — Richfield teachers are considering a salary offer amounting to 3 to 4 percent increase, according to Supt. Neil Andreason.

The proposed increase would mean a teacher starting in the system would receive $8,100 yearly while the top of the pay scale would be $11,100.

He said negotiation for next year's contract is completed except for the salary proposal, which the teachers are considering.

Individual contracts were offered to all returning teachers at the Monday night school board meeting. Pat Aiken, fourth grade teacher, is moving to Lewiston. Trustees considered applications for her replacement next year.

Andreason announced that two trustee posts will be filled at the May 17 election. Voting will be held from 1 to 7 p.m. in the main foyer of the Richfield Grade School.

Terms are expiring for Board Chairman Jay Ward and Peggy Robinson. Ward is expected to seek re-election. April 29 is the last day candidates may file petitions for the trustee election.

Richfield High School basketball season is scheduled for 2 p.m. May 22, with graduation at 8 p.m. May 24. Both will be held in the high school gymnasium.

Eighth grade graduation exercises will be held May 23, Andreason said. Richfield is one of the few remaining communities to conduct eighth grade graduation rites.

State questions tax assessor's program

GOODING — Gooding County Assessor Wado Trounson said today the Idaho State Tax Commission has taken under advisement the question about whether he is complying with its rules on property valuation.

Trounson appeared Tuesday before the commission in Boise for a closed, administrative hearing on an order from the agency to explain valuations made in the Gooding revaluation program.

The Gooding assessor was accompanied by Gooding county commissioner and Pros. Atty. Phil Becker, who all voiced their reluctance to spend taxpayers' money on the revaluation program without justification.

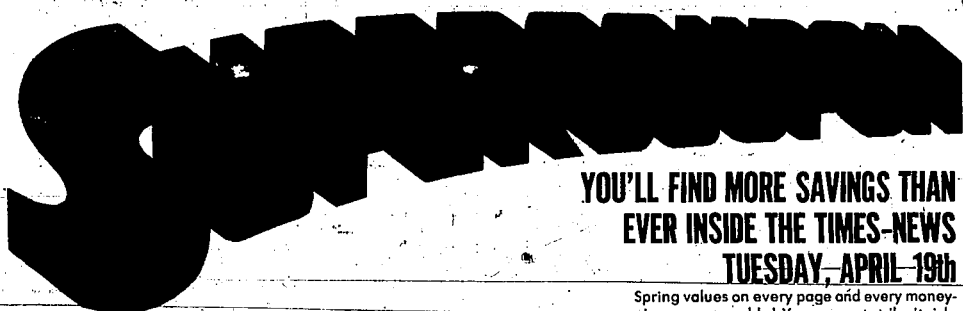

The good move in the tax disagreement is up to the state tax commission, Trounson said.

The Gooding assessor said during the Boise hearing that his ongoing revaluation program is in conformity with commission regulations. He was questioned by Clint Jacobs, commission attorney, Boise.

Trounson said today the commission's presentation was attempting to show a wide disparity through figures which do not necessarily represent facts.

Practically all the other counties have the same variations between rural, residential and commercial property, Trounson said.

DEAR ABBY: I have noticed that you frequently advise your readers to see a marriage counselor. A married friend of mine once went to a marriage counselor she found through an ad in the paper, and you wouldn't believe some of the suggestions he made to her. He told her to get herself a "boyfriend"—and the younger, the better. He also encouraged her to join a nudist colony.

He said HE was a member, and he even showed her one of the "camp" magazines. She paid him for a year's "counseling" in advance, and after five weeks she went to his office for an appointment and found that he had moved and left no forwarding address.

I am not saying all marriage counselors are like this one, but how is a person supposed to know the honest ones from the crooks? They all call themselves "Doctor" and their walls are covered with diplomas that look "real" to the average person.

MRS. H.W.S.

Counselors or quacks?

DEAR MRS. H.W.S.: Yours is an excellent question. If you are uncertain about the qualifications of those who advertise themselves as "marriage counselors," ask your family doctor, clergyman or the Better Business Bureau to recommend one. If there is a university in (or near) your town, write to the head of the psychology department for a recommendation.

If the above sources are unavailable to you write to The American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors, 225 Yale Avenue, Claremont, Calif. 91711, and ask them to refer you to someone in your area.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from Paul's wife, whose husband had the annoying habit of salting his food before tasting it reminds me of a supposedly true story.

A personnel director who was responsible for hiring executives would always invite the job applicant out for lunch as part of the interview. If he salted his food before tasting it, he deduced that he made decisions without first investigating.

M.E.H.

DEAR M.E.H.: Yes. And a reasonable conclusion, too.

DEAR ABBY: What is meant by "immediate family"? I say it includes mother, father, sisters and brothers. My friend says it also includes aunts, uncles and cousins. Who is right?

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: You are.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb: I have a foot problem: down by the side of my big toe that has been diagnosed as gout.

"Please give me a remedy, diet or what-have-you, for this condition. It is very painful and I feel like I really need some relief. Are there foods that I should not eat?"

Dear Reader,

"Gout is caused by an excess production of uric acid by your own cells. Because older concepts of the disease persist many people do not understand why the treatment has changed.

The old idea that a gouty individual ate rich foods, drank wine and was obese is not true. The diet is important, but it is less important than good medical treatment and regular follow-ups by your doctor.

The basic misconception is that the gout comes from what you eat. It did I suspect that most of our population would have gout from eating too much and eating the wrong foods.

Uric acid is a byproduct of the formulation of nucleic acids in the nuclei of the body cells. Since your cells are constantly regenerating and new cells are replacing old ones the formation of nucleic acids is a constant process.

Treatment updated

The medicines you need are those that prevent your cells from producing too much uric acid. That is the newest and in many cases the most effective treatment. The other methods of treatment include medicines that increase the elimination of excess uric acid by the kidneys (but if you have suppressed uric acid formation in the first place this may not be necessary) and medicines to relieve that severe pain of acute attacks such as you have now. The treatment of the acute attack is different from the long term prevention of future attacks and gouty arthritis. Everyone who has gout should be followed regularly by a physician and should take medicines as needed to keep the uric acid level down.

The most rigid diet may not decrease the uric acid level very much. But a gout patient should be on a diet that eliminates obesity or prevents it. The diet should be at least moderately restricted in fats, particularly saturated fats, and cholesterol. The diet is designed to decrease the high incidence of heart disease that occurs in gout patients.

A fasting diet, or too rapid weight loss, may cause muscle cell destruction and cause an acute attack of gout. To give you a better understanding of gout and what to do about it, I am sending you The Health Letter number 23, Gout, Uric Acid. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Dear Dr. Lamb, I have been using polyunsaturated oil for frying and have read that it becomes toxic when it is heated. Now I am confused. What can I use?

Dear Reader,

"Throw away whatever you are reading and use polyunsaturated oils if you want to. It is not true that heating polyunsaturated fats will make them toxic. It is not true as some "pseudo" health magazines have stated that heating will convert polyunsaturated fats to saturated fats.

If you reuse the polyunsaturated oils for cooking, eventually they will develop an unpleasant taste. This change will occur long before any other changes occur that would have any importance to your health.

75th year

THE HOME of James Cash Penney, founder of the chain bearing the same name, was moved last year from its original location to land owned by the town of Kemmerer, Wyo. Penneys, which first opened in Kemmerer celebrated its 75th anniversary Thursday. (UPI)

J. C. Penney Week marks 75th year

KEMMERER, Wyo. (UPI) — Residents of this small town seem to take it for granted that James Cash Penney founded his first store here 75 years ago Thursday. But 1,500 tourists every year come to pay homage, and maybe to make a purchase.

The anniversary officially is being celebrated with the arrival in Kemmerer of company president Walter Neppi and western regional manager William Howell. Gov. Ed Herschler, a former Kemmerer resident, has declared it J.C. Penney week in Wyoming.

David L. Harvey, store manager at the first link in the Penney chain, speaks with a combination of wit and reverence about James Cash Penney, a man he knew as a child.

"The last time I saw Mr. Penney, he was 94 years old and he carried on a conversation just as slick as a whistle," Harvey said. "At one time, he knew the names of every one of his managers, and that was when there were 800

1,000 stores."

Harvey, 42, grew up in upstate New York not far from Penney's farm. "We would farm the hay of his property," Harvey said.

"Mr. Penney was very thrifty. He never missed a chance to do anything to make money any way he could, but he'd always do it in an honest way. He was a shrewd geezer, I'll tell you."

Harvey tells a story of an undertaker coming into the store and buying a black piece of cloth to wrap around a casket. The bill came to a few cents under an even amount and Penney convinced the man to take his change in pennies.

In the early days, Penney used to keep the door open from dawn to dusk "until the last drunk was off the streets," Harvey said.

"He was an amazing man. He even built a lean-to for crates in the back of his house. He never let anything go to waste."

Harvey said his association with Penney in no way was responsible for his job, or for the assignment to the original store. "It's just a stroke of fate, but it is kind of special to my wife and I," he said.

Penney borrowed $1,500 from a bank and used $50 of his own money to open a Golden Rule Store in Kemmerer. Receipts from the first day totaled some $466, a tidy sum in 1902. Penney then began branching out. He opened another store in Rock Springs, Wyo., about 75 miles to the east. In 1913, the Golden Rule Stores became the J.C. Penney Co. and by 1917 there were 175 stores.

Penneys now controls an empire of more than 2,000 outlets—including Thrift-Drug stores in the East; the Treasury stores in Wisconsin, Tennessee, Georgia and California; and Sarmia outlets in Europe.

The mastermind behind the empire lived to the age of 95 before dying on Lincoln's birthday, 1971. His white, frame home in Kemmerer still stands and has been designated a national historical site. Penney lived there from 1902-1909.

Harvey, who had a hand in preserving the house, hopes it will open to tourists later this year. The town is becoming more and more of a tourist attraction because of store No. 1, he said.

"There's probably been 1,500 people at least who came through last year," he said. "It's just amazing to see the following the Penney Company has."

"The townspeople are not over excited about the anniversary. To them, it's really no different than any other Penney store."

The physical facility is the third in Kemmerer. It took only two years to outgrow the first store, and in 1904, a second Golden Rule was opened. Then in 1935, the present 7,000-square-foot structure was built.

Barbara Bel Geddes, who has not been seen on the screen or stage for years, is in Hollywood for the NBC-TV production of "Our Town" with Sada Thompson, Robby Benson, Hal Holbrook, Glynnis O'Connor and Ned Beatty.

Making up in her dressing room in Chicago before a performance of the hit play, "Vantiles," Elizabeth Ashley said, "I have a history of knowing when to get out of town." She was offered the part in "Vantiles" just five hours before she and Rex Harrison closed "Caesar and Cleopatra" in New York.

Nana Mousskouri will make her Broadway debut April 26. A truly international singer, the striking Greek-born brunette performs in English, French, Italian, German and Spanish.

Communist Party leaders in Madrid are planning a rousing welcome this week for Dolores Ibarruri, the legendary figure in the Spanish Civil War who was called "La Pasionaria" by her admirers. Nov. 83, she has been living in exile in the Soviet Union for almost 40 years.

The first woman to head the New York State Banking Department will be Muriel F. Siebert, according to industry sources. The New York Times indicates she has agreed to accept the position.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration ranks as one of the most unpopular health enforcement agencies in Federal government. Its new chief, Dr. Eula Bingham, former cancer and industrial health researcher at the University of Cincinnati, Gold Newbury, a newspaper located in Garden City, N.Y. — "Christ, there are so many programs here I can't believe it." Dr. Bingham has a program she hopes will improve the bureau's effectiveness when it comes to enforcing worker protection laws.

dummy's eight and East covered with the king, not the 10.

Had East played the 10, South would have no way to come to 12 tricks without trying the spade finesse, but that finesse would have worked for him.

After East played the king, South won with the ace and eventually had to decide between a spade finesse and a lead to dummy's jack-nine of diamonds. He finally decided that West had led from queen-10 of diamonds; tried the diamond play and was set.

Ask the Jacobys

A Missouri reader asks the score for making three notrump redoubled with three overtricks. Both sides are vulnerable.

The score is 2150: 400 below the line, plus 50 for making the contract, plus 1200 for the three-overtricks, plus 500 for the rubber.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care-of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North's four notrump bid was not Blackwood, but merely an invitation to South to bid a slam with a maximum notrump. South with 17 high-card points plus two 10 spots accepts the invitation.

Against any lead but a diamond, South would have time to take a safe spade finesse. The finesse would be safe because South would be sure of 12 tricks whether or not that finesse succeeded.

Unfortunately for South, West got his hand on the three of diamonds. South played

Proceeds donated

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Country Music Association has donated $1,000 raised at a show held at Filer in February to the Buhl Rodeo Club and the Easter Seal Center.

The group's elected officers for 1977 are: Treasurer, president: Jerome; Virgil Maritt, vice president; Buhl; Edythe Garrison, secretary; Buhl; Shirley Merchant, treasurer; Jerome; and Chuck Daniels, board member; Buhl.

The association will go to Boise April 24 for the annual show for the Veterans Hospital and Old Soldiers Home. A bus will be chartered for the trip.

The annual picnic for the group will be held at the Filer Fairgrounds July 17.

Any group or organization who would like to apply for the proceeds from the association's October show should get an application completed and returned by Aug. 15. The main criteria for the recipient of show proceeds is that the cause be beneficial to the community and used for a non-profit reason.

MR. and MRS. WILBUR HOOP JR.

Roberta Harbst, Hoop recite vows

BUHL — Wicker baskets of pink, blue and white carnations and fern, in front of a pond of tropical fish, formed the background for the marriage of Roberta Lynn Harbst and Wilbur Franklin Hoop Jr. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, USAF Co. (Ret) and Mrs. Kenneth E. Harbst, Buhl, on April 2.

Rev. George A. Trebough, United Methodist Church in Buhl, performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Franklin Hoop of Prescott, Ariz.

The bride, escorted by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of white plisse, with elbow-length cape sleeves of lace. The neckline was outlined with lace and satin ribbon and the bottom of the skirt had a deep ruffle and tulle. Her jewelry was a gold necklace with a turquoise pendant and a gold and turquoise bracelet.

Special wedding guests were the bride's sister, Mrs. Bobby Bradshaw and her two children from Tennessee.

There will be two 4-H camps this year — June 13 to 17 and July 25 to 28.

The group discussed the proposed Rock Creek project and a 4-H camp planning panel was set up to meet Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Valley weather outlook mild, dry

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley-Rupert area: Increasing high cloudiness this afternoon and evening. Mostly fair and warmer Saturday. Overnight lows, 30-35. High temperatures Saturday will be in the mid-60s.

Sunday's outlook, partly cloudy: Sprinkling and dusting conditions will be generally good during the early morning hours, becoming poorer during the afternoon due to windy conditions.

Hagerman-Camas Prairie, lower Snake River Valley: Increasing high cloudiness this afternoon, but generally fair through Saturday. Overnight lows will be in the 20s and high temperatures Saturday near 60.

Sunday's outlook calls for partly cloudy skies.

Synopsis: High pressure built in the Pacific Northwest from off the Washington-Oregon coast, bringing strong gusty winds and sunny skies to the Magic Valley Thursday.

Some ground fog in the upper Snake River valley near Idaho Falls was reported this morning after the area received 16 of an inch of precipitation Thursday.

A rapidly moving Pacific cold front has already spread rain over the Oregon and Washington coasts and high cloudiness into northern Idaho as of this morning.

These clouds will continue eastward during the day, however, rain showers will be confined to the central mountains and northward leaving the Magic Valley fair and dry.

Field preparation and planting outlook for Sunday through Tuesday calls for mostly mild temperatures and continued dry weather. High temperatures will be in the 50s and overnight lows in the 30s.

Bliss teachers get salary hike

Bliss — Bliss school teachers have received a 2.89 percent raise in the district's salary schedule, according to Supt. Burton Lenker.

The raise puts the starting salary for a teacher with no experience in Bliss at $8,265. The top step in the district's salary schedule is $10,305 for a teacher with 10 years experience and a master's degree.

Trustees approved the salary hike at the monthly board meeting Monday night.

Lenker said, "We feel the increase is needed most for the new teachers at the bottom of the salary schedule."

Since inflation hits everybody but is hardest for those earning the least the board decided on the across the board raise instead of doing it on a percentage basis, the superintendent said.

Lenker announced the combined graduation exercises for Bliss High School seniors and eighth graders will be May 22.

There are four seniors in school, with two others who completed their class requirements at midterm. There are 10 eighth graders.

Jerry Couch, who is rehired as head football and basketball coach. Trustees approved the school calendar for next year. Classes will begin Aug. 25 and end May 25, 1978.

Three trustee posts will be filled at the annual school board election May 17. Terms expire for Art Thompson, zone 1; Sterling Bray, zone 3, and Dick Geer, zone 4. Geer was appointed to fill an unexpired term.

Lenker said both Thompson and Geer have taken out nominating petitions, which must be filed by April 22.

The superintendent presented the elementary needs assessment study which has been completed under the direction of Bill Mikesell, guidance counselor. Parents and teachers participated in the evaluation which will now be sent to the Idaho Department of Education.

Drivers chapter disbands

TWIN FALLS — Patrick Montgomery, Hagerman, and a few other young men who reported they had formed a local chapter of Junior Diesel Drivers International, have decided to disband.

Montgomery said Thursday the group had decided to drop the idea as well as a planned trucking show.

Earlier, Jack Holmes, president of the Magic Valley chapter of Diesel Drivers International, a CB club, said that the Junior Diesel Drivers International chapter, which Montgomery reported forming in Twin Falls, was not associated with DDI.

"This has not been presented to anyone of our charters or the home organization," Holmes said. "It is not affiliated with Diesel Drivers International."

Montgomery also reported that his group was planning a trucking show, which Interstate Mack was helping to sponsor.

However, John Barrulla, general manager of Interstate Mack, Twin Falls, said, "All we did was supply one hat to him (Montgomery). He told us he had a club for young CBers, that was all. We're not sponsoring the Junior Diesel Drivers show."

Jerome man to face trial

JEROME — A jury trial is scheduled for May 23 for Gilbert Flores, 30, Jerome, on charges of second degree murder.

He is accused of the fatal shooting of Manuel C. Sols, 32, Kimberly, in a Jerome tavern Nov. 13, 1976.

Flores also is charged with assault with intent to commit murder in connection with the shooting-injury of a Wendell woman in the same incident.

Flores is free on $15,000 bond.

Jerome tries 2

JEROME — Joseph M. Severson, Jerome, pleaded guilty to first degree burglary in district court in Jerome.

Two other burglary counts have been dismissed.

Sentencing was delayed until a pre-sentence investigation is completed, Severson is free on $500 bond. He is charged with entering Dino Tavern at the intersection of U.S. 93 and Idaho 25 last Jan. 29.

Sentencing of Gen Clayton for forgery was delayed in district court Tuesday. The case was postponed for two weeks.

Clayton is in custody in lieu of $1,000 bond. He is charged with forging a check for $162 at Safeway Store Oct. 3, 1976.

Methodists to hear Texan

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Charles Allen, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Houston, Tex., will preach at worship services Monday and Tuesday evening at 8 at the Twin Falls First United Methodist Church.

Dr. Allen will be in Twin Falls in connection with the annual Circuit Rider Seminar Series. The seminar is sponsored by the conference board of the ministry and is designed to provide ministers with ongoing educational needs and for laypersons who will be interested in such classes.

Dr. Herb Lingren and his wife Jan will be leading workshops during the day Monday and Tuesday for pastors and lay people in the area of marriage communication. Dr. Lingren teaches sociology at Idaho State University. Mrs. Lingren is working on her doctorate in counseling and is a graduate assistant teaching early childhood education.

Presbyterian ministers exchange posts

TWIN FALLS — Sunday morning Rev. Robert Van Nest, Twin Falls Presbyterian Church, will be involved in a pulpit exchange with Rev. Curtis Page of the Big Wood Presbyterian Church in Ketchum.

Rev. Page will speak at the 11 service on the subject, "How's Your Love Life?"

Rev. Van Nest will speak at the worship service in Ketchum at 10:30.

Rev. Page is the moderator of Kendall Presbytery.

At 9:30 the regular church school program will be held and the adults may attend a discussion group in Rev. Van Nest's study on the subject, "Who Are We?" led by Elder Andrea Buck.

GFHS senior to be honored

KING HILL — A dinner Sunday at 12:30 at the King Hill United Presbyterian Church will honor Kevin Sherman, a Glenns Ferry High School senior graduating this spring.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Sherman of King Hill. The dinner will be potluck and people with flowers are asked to bring bouquets.

Paul LDS plan conference

PAUL — The Paul LDS Stake quarterly conference will be Saturday and Sunday at the Paul Stake Center west of Paul.

Theme of the Saturday night session is "our family organization and records." The 7 p.m. meeting will be for married couples and single adults.

A priesthood leadership meeting is set for 8 p.m., Sunday with Mission President Sherman S. Crump, Pocatello, attending.

The general session Sunday will begin at 10 a.m. with Stake President Keith Merrill presiding.

The general public is invited and Crump will be guest speaker. Special music will be under the direction of the Heyburn wards and Junior Sunday school will be conducted for children 3 to 6 years of age.

Filer Lutheran women hold meet

FILER — Group singing ended the April meeting of the Clover Lutheran Women's Missionary League at the school house.

Mrs. Judy Lierman led the topic study on "Family Worship," reading from a book "The Christian Family" by Larry Green.

The altar guild reported new church banners have been made for communion services, baptism, Easter and Lenten services. A special thank-you will be offered to Albert Schroeder for making a new banner pole.

KH Presbyterians plan newlon meet

KING HILL — Mrs. Rodney Ruberry urges all deacons of the King Hill United Presbyterian church to be present at the afternoon meeting on Sunday.

A session meeting will also be held with a potluck dinner preceding the meetings.

South African man takes Wendell post

Rev. and Mrs. Francis Hörner

WENDELL — The Wendell United Presbyterian Church will hold a potluck dinner and public reception at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the church for Rev. and Mrs. Francis Hörner.

An ordained Presbyterian minister, Hörner will serve for one year at the Wendell church. He succeeds Rev. Tony Gamley who is now serving in Presbyterian church in Johannesburg in South Africa.

Rev. Hörner and Rev. Gamley came to Wendell from South Africa.

Hörner, who moved from Britain to Africa in 1948, has been editor of the Joint Presbyterian and Congregational newspaper, "Christian Leader," since its inception in 1970. Before that he was editor of the old "Presbyterian Leader." He played a leading role in the amalgamation of the Leader and the old "Congregationalist."

Hörner says he may remain in the United States and become minister of a Presbyterian church here. He points out that this is the third occasion that the Wendell church has invited him to become its pastor.

Asked to comment on the fact that he was leaving South Africa at this point, Hörner said he felt sad for the country as he saw "a tremendous polarization of opinion."

He was not convinced that he could do much within the apartheid system as it ensured that one remained compartmentalized.

Referring specifically to the witness of religious media in the churches, Hörner said apartheid had resulted in a situation in which churches were now moving toward separate newspapers for black and white members of their denominations.

While he could understand the reasons for this, he believed it was nothing more than a perpetuation of the status quo in the country.

Hörner has been one of the relative few within the Presbyterian Church of Southern Africa who has vigorously voiced opposition to the apartheid policies of the country.

In a recent edition of his newspaper he wrote: "Let's do something about the injustice of a system that wants everything for, one section of the population."

"After all how in the world can we expect repentance from sinners if God's people will not repent? If we are not brokenhearted by the injustices around us, how can we expect anyone else to be moved by it? Judgment always begins at the house of God."

Doctor reclaims daughter from Moon sect

BERKELEY HEIGHTS, N.J. (UPI) — A doctor who reclaimed his "brainwashed" daughter from the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church says he did it to give her the choice of living a life of her own.

Dr. T. Airlie Brown and his wife Elizabeth said their anguish ended when their daughter Leslie 24, decided this week she would not return to the sect.

"My daughter is free. Believe me, she is free," said Brown as he sat in his comfortable suburban home here.

Brown's fight for his daughter, waged in a San Francisco courtroom, began three years ago when, he said, he realized she was the victim of a "mind control" movement which deprived her of contact with the outside world.

For months, he researched every article he could find about Moon and his followers and spoke to other parents and former followers.

"Brainwashing, mind control, programming, I don't care what you call it. They unequivocally lost their freedom of thought," said Brown, a physician.

In March, Brown joined a lawsuit with four other parents of "Moonies" who won the temporary custody of their children to give them the chance to be deprogrammed.

Although a California appeals court overturned that decision, Brown said his daughter's contact with the outside world during 11 days of hearings convinced her to leave the movement.

"Leslie needed some help at last to reassess her commitment in an arena where she would be free of Moon's influence," said Brown.

For four days, the Browns sat on a bench in California quietly and gently talking to their lost daughter.

"We talked about all the things that had happened to her. At first, she was defending Moon. We talked about things that were so obvious — the manipulation, the corruption, the recruiting," said Brown.

"Suddenly, it all clicked in her mind what had happened to her. There was laughter and tears for 15 minutes. It was absolutely fantastic seeing a warm, wonderful person emerge," Brown said.

Now, Leslie is staying at the Freedom of Thought Foundation, a non-profit deprogramming organization in Arizona.

"Right now, Leslie is using her own free will. She can go anywhere in the world she wants. She can bum around or she can go back to the church," said Brown. "If she had decided to go back to the church, I wouldn't have been happy, but it would have been a free choice instead of coercion."

Study set on Proverbs at Eden

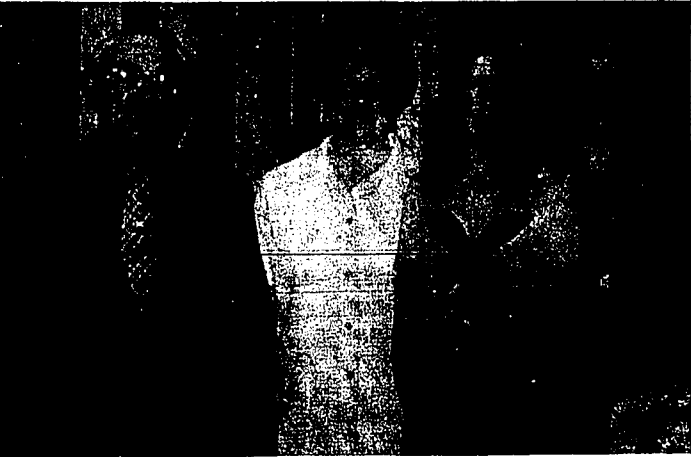

EDEN — The lesson study this week at the Eden Seventh-Day Adventist Church will be "Model Child and Youth."

The lesson is based on Proverbs 3:1-4 and deals with the life of Jesus as a child and young man.

The 11 a.m. worship hour speaker this week will be Hugh Cowles, pastor of the Jerome Seventh-Day Adventist Church. The worship hour this week will include the communion service.

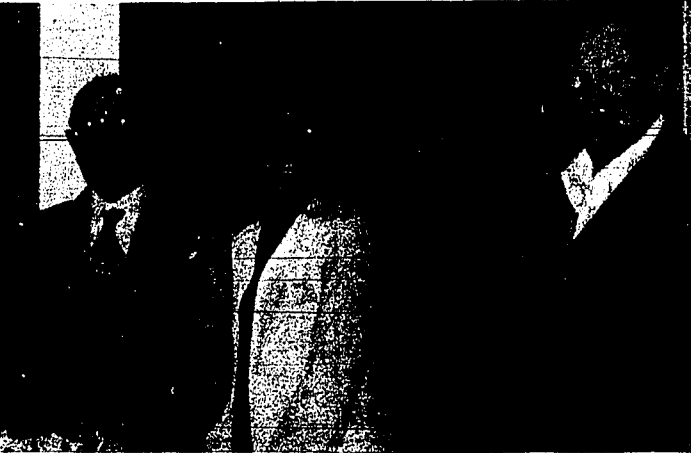

The church provides free material on "healthful living" and correspondence courses on church teachings. Most of the material is also available in Spanish. To receive the material send name and address to P.O. Box 418, Eden 83225.

California crop forecasts brighten

C.N.Y. Times Service
SAN FRANCISCO — Farmers in California, the nation's largest agricultural-producing state, may not be in such bad shape from the drought after all.

Despite the specter frequently conjured up in recent months by television, newspapers and magazines of a new Dust Bowl overtaking the Okies and others who fled to California from the old one of the 1930s, state water resource and agriculture officials have recently been revising their earlier pessimistic predictions to provide somewhat brighter forecasts for crops this year.

Although there has been some rain throughout the state since the last few weeks of the stubborn two-year drought has not been broken.

The vast reservoirs that have enabled the state, much of which is normally arid, to provide about 40 per cent of the country's fruit and vegetables and 25 per cent of its overall agricultural production are still standing at frighteningly low and steadily diminishing levels. And the runoff from the light snow pack in the Sierras is not expected to help much this spring as the dry earth soaks up much of the scarce water before it ever reaches the reservoirs.

But many of those who have been anxiously following the drought have become increasingly convinced that most of the farmers who depend upon surface water for much of their irrigation will be able to tap enough of the state's abundant underground water to bring in decent, if not bumper, crops.

"Chances are that there will be a lot of water from the underground so that drops will be close to normal," Ronald B. Robie, director of the Department of Water Resources, said.

"But the economic impact will be great," he added. "People are paying for water that they're not getting and then they've got to pay for ground water they're pumping out."

Assessing some of the gloomier "Dust Bowl" predictions that have been circulated recently, Herbert W. Gredynaus, chief of the division of planning of the Department of Water Resources, declared:

"I don't think it's that severe. You can find some people who will say that, but personally I don't think you'll see anything cut by as much as 5 per cent. We do have ground water and farmers are awfully innovative. The Browns, the Joneses and the Smiths are all going to put in their own little interconnecting pipes and help each other out."

Although San Francisco and most of the other cities of the Bay Area, as well as many other municipalities in northern California, have been forced to order cuts of 25 per cent or more in residential and industrial water consumption, it is widely agreed that the major economic impact of the drought in California this year will be on agriculture.

Last year farm losses were estimated at $500 million, mostly to cattlemen, who do not irrigate their thousands of acres of range land, and some to other dry-land farmers.

This year irrigated farmland will be affected, especially in northern California. And no one is predicting that the losses won't be heavier or that the situation is not serious.

After all, farmers normally account for about 85 per cent of the estimated total of more than 37 million acre feet of water used in California each year. (An acre foot is 225,851 gallons, the amount of water it takes to cover an acre of land to the depth of one foot.)

Earlier this year, Gordon Snow, special assistant to the director of the California Department of Food and Agriculture, said that the drought could cut farm production 20 to 40 per cent and cost farmers as much as $3.5 billion.

Later the department revised that estimate to between $700 million and $2.1 billion, placing the most likely loss at $1 billion.

But Snow, who is now working as a coordinator with the governor's Drought Task Force, told the State Board of Food and Agriculture that the "most likely" loss could well be as low as $1.4 billion from last year's gross agricultural income of $8.9 billion.

Snow said he was revising his estimates because it had been determined that 8,000 wells would be drilled in the Central valley this year. "That exceeded our projections," he said.

He estimated that 140 million acre-feet of water lay beneath the valley at depths that could be tapped by wells. That is more than three and a half times the amount used annually in the state and about four times the total storage capacity of all the reservoirs in California.

However, he also predicted that 39,000 agricultural jobs would be lost this year, most of them at harvest time. Ordinarily there are about 320,000 agriculture-related jobs each season.

Annual meeting set

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association will conduct its annual meeting and dinner April 23 at 6:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn here.

Moran Nelson, Boise falconer and conservationist, one of the featured speakers, will address the group on the subject of land use as it applies to grazing.

Jim Faulkner, Bliss cattlemen, will address the meeting on the Beef Research and Development Act. The referendum for the implementation of the act is expected to be held near the end of April.

Special guests of the meeting will include Bud Parry, Boise, president of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association, and Alan Saylor, executive secretary of the association.

Dinner tickets are $8 per person and the social hour before dinner will be sponsored. Tickets are purchased in advance from directors at the door. Dancing will follow the dinner.

Inflation, energy top challenges for ranchers

DENVER (UPI) — A cattle industry spokesman said this week the nation's ranchers and farmers face some big challenges in the future. In addition to continued inflationary pressures and trying to cope with a growing energy crisis.

Other problems facing the cattle industry, according to Tomper Thorpe, general manager of Cattle-Fax, include changes in world trade policies and changes in consumer demand.

"The beef cattle industry faces some big challenges and changes in the years ahead," Thorpe said. "But none of these challenges indicate unsurmountable problems for the cattle business. In fact, they represent great opportunities for the future."

"The successful producers will be those who plan, manage, produce efficiently and make use of the marketing tools available. Those who do not combine efficient production with an awareness of the total market picture will face a tough situation."

Thorpe said the financial outlook for ranchers involved in the cattle-raising business appears to be brighter in future months than it has been in the past few years. However, he said the single most important factor in determining how the cattle business will fare will be the end of the current drought.

"A normal moisture pattern is essential before the expansion phase of the cattle cycle can begin, he said. With normal moisture, he said producers would begin to keep herds that they have been selling as feeder cattle, and that will result in the number of cows beginning to stabilize.

Settlers' benefits fewer

BOISE (UPI) — Back-to-the-land settlers may pay fewer taxes but they also get fewer benefits from the taxes they pay, a recent University of Idaho study showed.

One out of every 10 farms or rural residences in Boundary County are inhabited by back-to-the-land settlers "whose major socio-economic objectives are self-sufficiency and independence from a highly organized society," the report said.

"Many in Boundary County have built their dwellings from materials taken from their own lands; others have renovated seemingly unrepairable structures," the study said.

The authors of the economic study were David P. Stubbs, former University of Idaho research assistant, and Dr. Gerald Maroušek, University of Idaho professor of agricultural economics.

"They said conventional rural households pay an average of $1,619 in federal, state and county taxes annually as compared to an average of $379 for back-to-the-land households in the county.

Vaccination time here

BOISE (UPI) — As warm weather returns so do mosquitoes that spread "sleeping sickness" that often kills or seriously disables horses, the Idaho Department of Agriculture said today.

"Mosquitoes will soon be out and they are the culprits that spread the disease," said Dr. A.F. Schneider, chief of the department's bureau of animal industries.

Schneider urged horsemen to protect their animals against the sickness by having them vaccinated.

"He said that birds seem to be the source of the virus disease which is spread by mosquitoes.

"It is not spread from horse to horse. The horse is actually the 'dead-end' for the disease," Schneider said.

Schneider recommended horse owners vaccinate their animals before the mosquito season arrives.

unrepairable structures," the study said.

The authors of the economic study were David P. Stubbs, former University of Idaho research assistant, and Dr. Gerald Maroušek, University of Idaho professor of agricultural economics.

"They said conventional rural households pay an average of $1,619 in federal, state and county taxes annually as compared to an average of $379 for back-to-the-land households in the county.

But for every tax dollar paid by settlers they receive fewer benefits than their more conventional counterparts.

For eight governmental services including health, education and waste disposal and solid waste disposal programs, "the back-to-the-land people paid 16 per cent more program costs in relation to benefits received than did conventional rural households," the study said.

Gem board allocates college funds

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — The State Board of Education authorized a shift in funds today that keeps on schedule Boise State University's bachelor degree program in nursing.

At the same time, the board decided for one year and called for further study of the proposed implementation of such a program at Lewis Clark State College in Lewiston. And it put off until its May meeting a recommended master's degree program in Nursing at Idaho State University.

When the board allocated $60,980,500 — including $5,204,400 in general fund monies — to the four institutions of higher education for fiscal 1978.

It also accepted reports on journalism and nursing programs in higher education. It confirmed the appointment of Richard Gibbs as president of the University of Idaho and authorized a five per cent cost of living increase for the nonclassified personnel.

Boise State's baccalaureate program in nursing early was in jeopardy because the legislature did not appropriate $61,900 to replace private Kellogg Foundation monies BSU will not receive next year.

BSU President John Barnes, incurring the wrath of some board members, and others, shifted $42,000 from the management and finance department and $19,300 from the economics department in the school of business to the nursing program. He made up the other $3,600 through a reallocation of next year's base budget.

The switch apparently will delay accreditation of the business school because the monies shifted away were needed to lower the student-faculty ratio in those two departments.

But the shift will help accreditation of the nursing program, which the university is seeking next spring. It will enable the university to include three faculty members that otherwise would have been lost.

There was no discussion of the shift when the board approved the budget.

In delaying implementation of the bachelor degree at Lewis Clark, the board made it clear it was not just putting off the program for one year but was genuinely taking another look at it.

A review of the nursing program in Idaho by the statewide curriculum committee says there is an urgent need to increase the number of nurses at all levels in Idaho. In all but one area, it said, nursing faculty and nursing service reported unfilled budgeted vacancies of as many as 24 in one hospital.

This review questioned a proposed Lewis Clark satellite program at North Idaho College in Coeur d'Alene in terms of cost, travel and division of campus.

In the report on journalism programs, the curriculum committee said they are seriously underfunded at Boise State and Idaho State. It also said Boise State should not enter into the area of broadcasting or film at this time because of class-lab space and equipment deficiencies.

It also recommended the institutions with journalism programs cooperate on joint research efforts.

The University of Idaho received the largest allocation of funds for next year, a total of $25,302,200, including $21,547,400 from the general fund. Idaho State received $17,010,400, including $15,478,400 from the general fund. Boise State got $15,842,900, including $11,822,900 from the general fund, and Lewis Clark received $2,860,000, including $2,312,700 from the general fund.

The board told Lewis Clark to report on the next meeting. It also requested detailed recommendations for spending $70,000 which it earlier had earmarked for implementation of the bachelor's degree program in nursing.

In addition, the board allocated a $264,900 fiscal 1977 supplemental appropriation among the four institutions of higher education and $203,400 in additional miscellaneous receipts among the universities. The University of Idaho received $99,300 in supplemental funds, Boise State $94,600, Idaho State $60,900, and Lewis Clark $10,100. Idaho got $11,600 in additional receipts.

Boise State $55,000 and Idaho State $12,500.

In other action, the board:

- Received a report saying no evidence could be found to support a Meridian Junior High School teacher's allegation that credits were "sold" at Boise State University.
- Appointed Dr. Ernest Hartung, retiring president of the University of Idaho, as director of the University of Idaho Foundation July 1 at a salary of $27,000.

- Authorized Idaho State University to proceed with plans to phase out the professional architectural program there in the Spring of 1979, allowing 11 students now in the program to complete their courses of study.
- Approved an enrollment next year of $1.32 increase in the uniform student fee at the University of Idaho to support the marching band.
- Authorized payment of an additional $17,386 to the University of Idaho health center physician to compensate him for additional work he had to perform when two other physicians left their positions last summer. The vote was 5-3.

Carter outlines Latin policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spelling out his "new approach" to Good Neighbor policy, President Carter said Thursday the United States will favor those nations that respect human rights and democracy in Latin America — where military regimes are in the majority.

The statement drew no applause from envoys of the Organization of American States assembled at the Pan American Union to hear Carter's first major policy speech on inter-American relations.

He also pledged the United States would work with Panama to establish "a neutral canal" open to everyone, would seek improved relations with Cuba and would respect the "individuality and sovereignty of each Latin American and Caribbean nation."

"We will not act abroad in ways that we would not tolerate at home," the President said.

The diplomats gave him standing ovations the next day after his 23-minute speech, and light applause when he promised to seek U.S. ratification of a hemispheric human rights convention and a treaty banning nuclear weapons from Latin America.

Carter said the United States is ready for a "new approach" to "wider and more flexible" hemispheric relations, based on three points — respect for sovereignty, respect for human rights, and mutual attention to "the great issues" of the region, including economic problems.

He made clear the human rights issue will be a cardinal principle of U.S. policy toward a region where more than half the nations are military-ruled.

"Our values and yours require us to combat abuses of individual freedom, including those caused by political, social and economic injustice," Carter said in spelling out the second of his three policy principles.

"Our own concern for these values will naturally influence our relations with the countries of this hemisphere and throughout the world. You will find this country eager to stand beside those nations which respect human rights and promote democratic values."

A number of Latin American governments have bristled at U.S. criticisms of their human rights records. Five of them — Argentina, Brazil, El Salvador, Guatemala and Uruguay — have rejected

U.S. aid linked to human rights requirements.

The President also commented on some specific problems of inter-American relations, including:

- PANAMA: "I am firmly committed to negotiating in as timely a fashion as possible a new treaty which will take into account Panama's legitimate needs as a sovereign nation and our interests in the efficient operation of a neutral canal, open on a non-discriminatory basis to all users."
- CUBA: He said the United States is trying "to determine whether relations with Cuba can be improved on a measured and reciprocal basis."

Auto makers look for good year

DETROIT (UPI) — With auto assembly plants running nearly continuously on overtime, the 1977 model year should be the second best in history, Ward's Automotive Institute said Thursday.

The institute's statistical prediction said the heavy production schedules should result in output of just over 9 million cars by the end of August, topped only by the 9.9 million cars built in the 1973 model year.

Despite shutdowns of four small car assembly plants this week, production by Saturday should reach 203,166 cars this week, 20 per cent above the same week last year when there were only four working days because of the Easter holiday.

Ward's said 21 auto and 12 truck assembly plants were slated for Saturday overtime to push production of cars and trucks so far this year to 3,516,386 units, 2 1/2 per cent ahead of the 1976 pace.

The four companies said all assembly plants would operate next week.

GM, however, faced possible shutdowns because of developing parts shortages caused by a strike by some 4,700 workers at the Delco-Moraine Division manufacturing plant in Dayton, Ohio.

Ford charts shift

DEARBORN, MICH. (UPI) — Henry Ford II, for 32 years the absolute chief of the company his grandfather founded, Thursday announced the establishment of a chairman group to ease the transition of control from the Ford family that has controlled the world's second largest auto firm for 74 years.

The 59-year-old Ford said he will remain chairman and chief executive officer for at least three more years and then retain the chairman's post until he reaches mandatory retirement on his 65th birthday.

He did not say which of the firm's top executives would become the first non-Ford to head the firm.

Ford, who suffers from heart disease, said the three-member "Office of Chief Executive" would be composed of himself, President Lee A. Iacocca and Philip Caldwell, formerly an executive-vice president and elected vice chairman by the board Thursday.

Ford emphasized that he will retain the final veto when the firm cannot reach a consensus.

Want to do your part for Energy and Water Conservation?

ONE FLOW CONTROL — UNDER EACH SPRINKLER CAN SAVE 10% TO 20% OF THE WATER YOU NOW PUMP!

... WHEN YOU PUMP LESS WATER, YOU USE LESS ENERGY!

Just by inserting a flow control, you can water your crops with more uniformity and control water flow on uneven terrain.

TWO SIMPLE WAYS TO DO IT!

Convert Existing Systems

Sprinklers with built-in flow control.

HOW IT WORKS

The Flow Control is a simple, self-cleaning device designed to deliver a constant volume of water from any outlet, whether the pressure is 15 psi or as high as 125 psi. The controlling mechanism consists of a flexible orifice that varies its area inversely with the pressure so that a constant flow rate is maintained. The diagram illustrates how a single orifice, for simplicity of explanation, changes shape to maintain a constant flow rate as the inlet pressure increases. We can supply you with a wide range of flow controls from 2 gallons per minute to 11.5 gallons per minute.

Melon Valley zoning proposals studied

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - Proposed zoning regulations to protect ground water supplies in the Melon Valley area near Buhl were taken under consideration Thursday night by the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Board.

mentations including one to increase minimum building site size there from 5 acres to 40 acres. She also submitted copies of petitions signed by long-time residents and many new residents, asking protection of water sources from the increasing number of septic tanks.

Idaho Health District and finds there have been no complaints of water pollution in the Melon Valley area. Mrs. Truscott said she believes the health officials feel Melon Valley land can easily handle septic tanks on 5 acre lots.

The board set public hearings for the May meeting on two subdivision requests and a conditional use request near Kimberly. The subdivisions are proposed on Gulch Lane near the golf course and on Addison Avenue East near the new Dan B Sales building.

TRENCHES, pipe and sprinkler heads currently dominate the landscape on the back nine of Twin Falls municipal golf course. But the course is unexciting on the front side and available to public play. In fact, the city fathers have endorsed a "remodeling sale," offering reduced week-day and weekend greens fees savings.

Open course

It may look like war but munycourse ready for play

TWIN FALLS — Although it reminds one of World War I battle scenes, Twin Falls municipal golf course is open for play and only nine holes are affected by the current sprinkler system installation. "It's really going to be a big help for this course," says Professional Don Hamblin of the sprinkler system. "But right now it seems that people drive by, see some of the trenching on No. 10 and No. 11 and assume the whole course is ripped up."

for the main line that crosses No. 1 fairway," he continued. "Actually, it's in pretty good shape. We've been watering with hoses and the greens are in pretty good condition." Ironically, the installation is hitting both Hamblin and the city right in the pocketbook. "We're getting very little play," Hamblin says, "and there's no reason for it. We have season ticket holders who haven't shown up. They can use their cards. And the daily greens fee golfers can get on without any problem. It looks a lot worse than it is."

To help rectify that, the city has okayed a "remodeling sale" at many with the daily greens fees at $2 and the weekend and holiday rates at $3. "I believe it is a very good savings for golfers," Hamblin says. Hamblin says he still has his two-man team tournament scheduled for the April 23-24 weekend. "The contractor tells me everything should be covered up by then and we should have the whole 18 holes available," he said. "The format for the tournament has been changed this year. The first day will be a Chapman competition with the second day a pure Scotchball. "We have several" entries from our association members and we'll run the tournament if we get some more in the next week or so," he continued. While the pinch is on now, Hamblin says the couple-month inconvencience will not compare to the total benefit. "People who have golfed this course for years won't realize just how much the sprinkler system will improve the course and play," he promised.

US opens Davis cup quest

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—The United States and South Africa's Byron Bertram, will face each other Friday in the opening Davis Cup singles match of the North American zone final. Thursday's draw was held at a private luncheon away from the Newport Beach Tennis Club playing site, which may be the scene of weekend demonstrations protesting United States participation against South Africa. California Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally and California Assemblywoman Teresa Hughes have called for cancellation of a boycott of the matches because of South Africa's apartheid policy. But W. E. heavily favored to advance past South Africa and meet Argentina in Buenos Aires April 29 in the American Zone final. Thursday's draw was held at a private luncheon away from the Newport Beach Tennis Club playing site, which may be the scene of weekend demonstrations protesting United States participation against South Africa. California Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally and California Assemblywoman Teresa Hughes have called for cancellation of a boycott of the matches because of South Africa's apartheid policy. But W. E. Hester Jr., president of the United States Tennis Association, said the United States Davis Cup Committee was bound by the rules of the competition to play every country legally entered or to withdraw completely. "We believe that in international athletics, each individual and team should be judged regardless of race, creed or national origin," Hester said. "It is increasing, rather than restricting, international athletic competition that human brotherhood is honored. To judge an athlete on a basis other than athletics would emasculate international athletics and also remove a potential means of promoting the fundamental dignity of each individual." Tony Trabert, coach of the U.S. team, said his players had held a meeting to discuss their responsibility. "We feel that the South Africa players don't run their government and we don't run ours," Trabert said. "We certainly don't believe in racial discrimination, but we feel that by not playing we wouldn't be helping anything. "The team sentiment is that the right to play tennis whatever the problems are in their country," Trabert said. Bertram's selection by South Africa Coach Claude Lister for the opening singles matches was somewhat of a surprise. Bertram has lost once to Lister and twice to Gottfried in recent years. Milton, who defeated Jimmy Connors among several major players last year, had been expected to be selected for the singles. Missing from the South Africa team is veteran Bob Hewitt, who was the backbone of that country's only Davis Cup victory in 1974. "The United States has the best time in 1974 when it defeated Romania in the finals.

Tennessee fans won't see instant grid turn-around

ATLANTA (UPI) — Those Tennessee fans who expect Johnny Majors to lead the Vols out of the football wilderness may be in for a disappointment unless they are patient. Majors returned to Tennessee with a bigger-than-life reputation — especially after his 1976 Pittsburgh team wound up third and top-ranked — but the odds against him reaching that same peak at Tennessee within the next few years, if ever, are astronomical. Spring drills are now underway at Tennessee and Majors, just beginning to put together his team for next fall, doesn't sound optimistic. "We've got a long way to go," he said. "We need 40 practice days instead of 20, and we need twice as many players. We've got to go out and do some great recruiting the next four or five years."

In the minority," he said. "Those who are realistic know that circumstances are different now than when I first went to Pittsburgh. "I have to accept the fact that I may never win another national championship. I'll be trying, of course, but the odds are against it." The rules were different four years ago. Majors brought in more than 75 recruits his first year at Pitt. The limit now is 30. Doug Diekey built Tennessee into a national power before switching to Florida after the 1969 season. "And, the Vols, with Bill Battle at the helm, continued to do well for several more years. But, once the last of the Dickey-era players graduated, the Vols started downhill — 8-4 in '73, 7-3-2 in '74, 7-5 in '75 and 6-5 in '76. Some insiders insist that Battle, who played for Bear Bryant at Alabama, had trouble recruiting at Tennessee because, in the eyes of Tennessee people, he was still an Alabama man. Majors was born and raised in Tennessee and ranks as one of the Vols' all-time greats, a Tennesseean through and through. "The NCAA 30 limit blocks any quick turnaround," said Majors. "We've got to take advantage of the talent that already is at Tennessee. We're going to have to spend our practice sessions getting together because this is a team that needs to be mean. If it's going to win any games next fall." "We want to look at some people at different positions," said Majors. "There are some people here who helped out by being moved in the past. Some more moves may be needed. That's part of the reason we could use more practice time. We simply won't know what we've got until we watch them perform on the field." For those who want to know when Tennessee will be a football power again, Johnny Majors has a straight answer: "I'm not going to set any timetable. I'm a hard worker, not a miracle worker."

That leaves Majors with only one quarterback with any experience, 5-10 Junior Joe Hough, who moved up to the No. 2 spot last fall when Ryan was hurt. But Battle left two bright quarterback prospects: who were freshmen last season — Jimmy Sreater and Willbert Jones — so don't be surprised if one of those two wind up running the split Veer Majors plans to use. "We want to look at some people at different positions," said Majors. "There are some people here who helped out by being moved in the past. Some more moves may be needed. That's part of the reason we could use more practice time. We simply won't know what we've got until we watch them perform on the field." For those who want to know when Tennessee will be a football power again, Johnny Majors has a straight answer: "I'm not going to set any timetable. I'm a hard worker, not a miracle worker."

Covens' relaxing trick found

BOSTON (UPI) — The king-sized cabbie's wasn't doing anything different, really. He merely was fulfilling his whim as he did three years ago in sleeping overnight on a Boston Common bench. Both the hackney experience and the park bench incident are facets of a private personality named Dave Covens, who uses his creative mind to relieve the frenzy of playing center for the Boston Celtics during the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Covens is the same man who left the team and his $29,000 annual salary eight games into the 1976-77 season, saying he was stale and unenthused by the life of the pro basketball player. The vacation — without pay — ended two months later and Covens came back to help the then-staggering Celtics slide into the playoffs. But with the playoffs come the same old pressure. In May 1974, after the Celtics had captured the NBA title in Milwaukee, Covens left the team celebration and headed for the comfort of Boston Common — the tree and benchmarked park in the heart of the city.

With his cabbie's hat laid over his face and his 6-foot-9 frame overfilling the long, green bench, Covens snoozed through his first night as a champion. To relieve the strangling feeling of this year's playoffs, Covens decided to get close to the people for a night — as John Q. Public rather than Dave Covens. He forsook the cabbie's cap and rented a friend's independent taxi Wednesday night, two days before the Celtics' second playoff game in San Antonio. Covens invented the

LEXINGTON, Ky (UPI) — Conceding an acute lack of depth, at Kentucky's quarterback position, Coach Fran Currel nevertheless critic reports he is trying to lure back Bill Tolson "strictly speculation, not necessarily true." Tolson, a junior next season, reportedly is planning to transfer to Western Michigan, but there have been reports the UK coaching staff was making a strong effort to get him back in school next fall. With Tolson and Mike Deaton of Green County quitting the team, the Wildcats have been left perilously thin at the position, although starting quarterback Derrick Ramsey returns. Currel, an advocate of shorter spring practice and earlier fall drills, says the current workouts have produced a mixed bag with some players looking better than expected but others falling to come up to expectations.

Pilot boys, Camas girls collect wins

GLENN'S FERRY — The Glenns Ferry Pilots, behind the usual four-first-place efforts of Tom Wicher, showed their Camas-County Mustangs Thursday to collect a four-way track victory.

The Mustangs piled up 97 points while Camas County had 62, Shoshone, 53 and Hagerman 44.

In the girls' division, Camas County continued unchecked with 67 points while Hagerman had 55, Glenns Ferry 48 and Shoshone 35.

Wicher again took the three dashes plus the discus in sparking the Pilots to their victory. Chris Black was a double victor in the two distance runs and John Wicher joined older brother Tom in the winners' circle by winning the half-mile.

Camas County's Jack Dalin posted three victories, taking both hurdles and winning the long jump. He also was second

CSI's Bond and Kaufman reach national qualifying marks in Oregon track meet

EUGENE — Sophomores Leo Bond and Steve Kaufman qualified for the national finals Thursday but it wasn't enough as College of Southern Idaho lost a tight decision to Lane Community College.

It nearly was a dual meet although Clarke Community College participated. Lane took the team title with 88½ points while CSI had 81 and Clarke 7½.

"It was as good a run at Lane as any junior college has mustered in several years," said CSI coach Jim Blaisdell. "Basically, I was really happy with our showing. We competed very well and most of the time that means more than team scoring."

Bond, who ran his first competitive half-mile last Saturday, cruised the 800 meters in 1:52.6. The 800 meters is within two feet of the American 800 standard and practically identical. Bond ran a 1:58.9 last week in Twin Falls against Rickie.

"I looked like he cruised it without a lot of effort. A couple of Lane runners came up on him at the top of the stretch and he appeared to kinda let go with a little more. I'd guess he won it by 15 yards. But the way he ran it leads me to think he could turn it in the 1:49s," Coach Blaisdell said.

The time easily qualifies Bond to run the half-mile in the national finals although he already is qualified — and ranked No. 2 in the nation — in the quarter-mile.

"This gives us a chance to look at the field in both the 800 and the quarter at nationals and then decide which way Leo should go," the coach said. "I had to let off four-year school coaches come down and talk to me about Leo after that performance."

Kaufman, a Borah product, placed second in the 5,000-meter run but his time qualified him for nationals, too. "Steve ran the equivalent of a 4:42—three—mile," Blaisdell said. "I feel his best race is the 10,000 meter run. He'll go for that Saturday. Paul Pilkington (third place) only missed qualifying by four seconds. We think we'll try him in the steeplechase Saturday (when the Eagles run at Oregon City) against six other junior colleges."

Frosh Drexel Lawson just missed the quarter-mile qualifying mark of 48.8 by running 49.4 in 400 meters.

Murtaugh freshman Dave Andersen came up with a pair of CSI victories in the distance jumping.

He sailed 22-1 in the long jump and captured the triple jump at 44-8½. Lawson, another CSI long-jumper, scratched out of his qualifying length of well over 22 feet and that fact hurt CSI's winning chances.

Tim Robinson, still hobbling a little from an ankle sprain, took the javelin and also placed in the discus and shotput.

Hurdler Joe Williams was strong in a 110-meter high hurdle race, winning in 14.9. He was overtaken in the stretch run in the 400-meter intermediates and just missed qualifying for nationals there by two tenths of a second.

Coach Blaisdell also was pleased with the metric mile victory of Manuel Montoya, who turned a 4:07.3.

CSI took nine of the 17 first places available—Hurdling the Eagles was the lack of a pole vaulter. Lane went one-two at 13-0 and 12-6, both modest collegiate heights.

Team scoring — Lane 89½, CSI 81, Clarke 7½.

Discus — Pitts, Lane, Tracy, Lane, Portland, CSI, Robinson, Lane, 142-7.

Javelin — Clarke, Pitts, Lane, 185-0.

Shotput — Lane, CSI, 37-0.

400 meters — Anderson, CSI, 1:58.9.

800 meters — Bond, CSI, 1:52.6.

1,500 meters — Bond, CSI, 4:42.

5,000 meters — Kaufman, CSI, 15:50.

10,000 meters — Kaufman, CSI, 48:8.

DISTANCE ACE Steve Kaufman of College of Southern Idaho qualified for the national 5,000-meter final Thursday by running a 14:58 during a triangular meet in Oregon. Kaufman will shoot for the 10,000-meter qualifying mark in another meet in Oregon City Saturday.

Fire in clubhouse halts horse racing

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) — Fire swept through the stands of Garden State Racetrack during the racing program Thursday, forcing 10,000 fans to flee. A fire chief died of a heart attack battling the blaze.

At least 18 persons were taken to hospitals for treatment of smoke inhalation, fractures and cuts and bruises.

The fire, which apparently began in the clubhouse kitchen, did not approach the area where the race horses are stabled.

The blaze, which erupted about 4:15 p.m. during the sixth race, was not brought under control until 2 hours 15 minutes later. It left the two-story clubhouse and the grandstand largely a mass of twisted steel. The remaining races were canceled.

Fire Chief John McWilliams, 56, of Mt. Ephraim, N.J., died at Cherry Hill Medical Center after suffering a heart attack.

Ten others were taken to that hospital while two other hospitals each treated four persons.

Many spectators, their way to the parking lots blocked by fire engines and other equipment, took refuge in hotels near the racetrack.

Power official asks Buhl to save electricity, jobs

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

Buhl—Lee Brandon, district manager for Idaho Power Co. in Buhl, asked city officials to help reduce power consumption 10 per cent to "save electricity, save water and save jobs."

He said nearly all major businesses in the district have been or will be visited by power company officials explaining ways to cut electricity without creating hardships. Similar visits will be made to homes in the district later in the year, he said.

He said the power company's goal is to reduce consumption to a level where less generation and can be retained in the reservoirs for irrigation.

Summer is the peak season of irrigation pumps, he said. As a result, Idaho Power Co. trades electrical energy with states such as Washington and Oregon where peaks are reached in winter months. Brandon said he does not see how Green Giant Manning Co. plant can shut down in Buhl, unless there is not sufficient water for irrigation of the corn crop.

"I don't think we can let the plant set idle with a corn crop ready to be processed. Certainly this is one of the critical needs," he told City Council members.

Brandon also suggested the city not consider cutting out street lights because of protection they provide citizens of the community.

"Whatever you do is up to you, we are only making some suggestions of ways we see in which electrical energy can be saved," he said.

He suggested all electrical equipment be turned off when not in use, including lights. Even if a room is empty for a short time the lights should be turned out. If the city could cut off the pump on one well for one hour a day, he said it would be able to reach the 10 per cent reduction in the community. Brandon said starting summer recreational activities such as softball and baseball games an hour earlier would reduce use of the large baseball field lights which consume a large amount of power. He also suggested use of air conditioning equipment only when the need is serious, saying this might be a point of cutback by the power company if summer shortages appear.

While Brandon said lights discourage crimes such as burglaries, he suggested night lighting could be reduced in many buildings without giving up the protection.

He said the company has an eight-point plan of action if conditions become critical. One step, he said, would be to rotate feeder divisions in the district. Customers served by one feeder would have all power cut for two hours, then go back on service with another feeder cut for two hours. This would exclude such services as hospital, police, communication and other emergency nature users, he said.

Brandon said he thinks the conservation measures are catching on. Many farmers are planting grain instead of sugar beets and similar crops which require a large amount of water. This will reduce reservoir use and will also mean a shorter irrigation season and less operating time for electric irrigation pumps, he said.

Milking machines, he said, are a major power use in this area. In many parts of the state—the milkers have auxiliary generators in case of power outages.

"I would think dairymen in this area would be looking to gasoline powered generators for their equipment. If you suddenly have no power to operate milkers and 40 head of cows waiting to be milked it could present a serious problem," he said.

Mayor Dale Christensen, Buhl, asked councilmen to give the energy problem, some serious thought and come up with recommendations for city measures to reduce electrical power use during the coming summer.

Illegals warning given

TUCSON, ARIZ. (UPI)—A federal official warns the flow of illegal aliens into the United States could easily wipe out the benefits of the Carter administration's plan to create an additional 400,000 public service jobs for Americans by the end of this year.

Charles Knapp, special asst. to the U.S. labor secretary, said it is important to develop a national dialogue on the illegal alien problem.

He told a conference on the illegal alien problem here Wednesday the administration will have to work with Congress, interested citizens and foreign countries on a program that will avoid having to "cram solutions down people's throats."

Knapp said the devaluation of the Mexican peso increased the flow of Mexicans into the U.S., seeking jobs and the overall impact of illegal immigrants is "adverse" for the U.S. job market. U.S. unemployment now totals 7.3 percent and that figure does not include discouraged job seekers who are staying home rather than looking for work, he said.

A cabinet level task force will present President Carter with a plan for dealing with the immigration problem within a four-month period. The program could include developing sanctions against employers who hire illegal aliens, providing identification for foreign workers and developing new immigration policies.

The task force includes representatives from the departments of justice, state, labor and health, education and welfare.

William H. Luers, dep. asst. Sec. of State for Inter-American affairs, said he is convinced the Carter administration will develop an immigration policy dealing with illegal and undocumented aliens that will not result in any mass deportations.

Luers believes the policy will contain a "strong, humane element" with amnesty for undocumented aliens already living in the U.S.
