Carter asks $14 billion Social Security bailout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today asked Congress to plan on spending $14 billion in income tax funds to help bail out the floundering Social Security system over the next five years.

At the same time, the White House reported that Social Security cash reserves could run out in the early 1980s at the current rate of spending and income.

Carter indicated in a message to Congress that the historic shot in the arm from income taxes may not be needed if nationwide unemployment falls below 6 percent, increasing Social Security payroll income.

But he proposed a carefully limited six-point program to make sure that money for more than 33 million retired, disabled and other Americans on Social Security does not run out because of losses during severe recessions.

Among the proposals is one to increase the contributions of employers into the Social Security program.

At the same time, the White House released the 1977 report of the Social Security trustees — the secretaries of Health, Education and Welfare, Labor and Treasury — which said existing Social Security cash reserves will run out in the early 1980s at current rates of spending and income.

The report tells us that the system critically needs financial support in the short term," Carter said.

"The high unemployment of recent years has curtailed Social Security's revenues, while benefits have risen with inflation."

Carter proposed six steps to solve the short-range financial problems of a system which this year will provide $9.4 billion in benefits to 33.4 million retirees, disabled and other Social Security recipients:

- Compensate the trust funds, or cash reserves, from general revenues for a share of revenues lost during severe recessions. These funds from the Treasury would be used to replace payroll taxes lost as a result of that portion of unemployment exceeding 6 per cent and would be used only in these carefully limited situations," the President said.

"Because this is an innovative measure, the legislation we submit will provide this feature only through 1982."

- Remove the wage-base ceiling for employers. Under this proposal the employer ceiling would be raised over a three-year period so that by 1981 it could be removed.
- Increase the amount of worker income — the wage base — subject to payroll taxes by $600 in 1979, 1981, 1983 and 1985, beyond increases already scheduled by law.
- Shift revenues from the Medicare hospital insurance trust fund to the old-age, survivors and disability insurance trust funds, a shift possible in part because of "substantial savings" anticipated by the White House if the President's hospital cost control bill is approved by Congress.

Idaho's Magic Valley is suffering from a drought. Here an iris growing near a canal bank soaks up some of the Sunday morning rain. Although scattered showers are expected to continue over the area for another day or two, the overall impact on Idaho's drought is expected to be minimal. (Times-News color photo by Charles Lemmon.)

Warning on Berlin from West's Big 4

LONDON (UPI) — The Western Big Four warned the Soviet Union today that any move against West Berlin would seriously threaten East-West détente.

Carter and the leaders of Britain, France and West Germany met shortly after 10 a.m. at British Prime Minister James Callaghan's No. 10 Downing St. official residence three hours before Carter was flying to Geneva for talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

In addition to Carter and Callaghan, the two others taking part were French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt.

This was the first time in recent years that the annual meeting in Berlin was held by the Summit leaders themselves.

But it is traditional that foreign ministers of the three Western allies, who are responsible for West Berlin, and of West Germany should meet on the eve of a NATO stock taking Council session to reaffirm their commitment to protect West Berlin against any Communist threat.

A four-power declaration issued after the 2½ hour meeting said the four governments pledged their co-operation in maintaining a political situation "conducive to the vitality and prosperity of the western sectors of Berlin."

Britain, France and the United States noted that "détente would be seriously threatened if any one of the four signatory powers (including the Soviet Union) of quadripartite agreements were not "respected fully."

"These agreements were "based explicitly on the fact that quadripartite rights and the corresponding wartime and post-war four power agreements and decisions were not affected," the declaration said.

"(The three western) powers will continue to reject all attempts to put in question the rights and responsibilities which France, the United States, the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union retain relating to Germany as a whole and to all four sectors of Berlin," it said.

Carter, smiling for reporters before leaving for London's Heathrow airport to fly to Geneva, said the talks had gone "very well."

Callaghan agreed that "it all went very well" and Schmidt said discussions had been "very satisfactory."

West German spokesman Klaus Boelling said the summit leaders agreed on "a very good" statement to be released later.

"Chancellor Schmidt is very satisfied," Boelling said.

He said they discussed the viability of isolated West Berlin and agreed it depends basically on a stable situation there. He said this in turn depends basically on the continued existence of the four-power agreement with the Soviets under which the Western allies remain responsible for West Berlin.

He said "the three Western powers and the Soviet government want the four-power agreement strictly observed and fully carried out."

Boelling said this applies particularly to the links between West Berlin and West Germany.

Moisture only dent in Valley drought

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — The weatherman says despite the two-thirds of an inch of rainfall since Thursday the new moisture has "by no means overcome the drought."

Maurice Faubion, meteorologist at the Kimberly Weather Station, said the 66 of an inch which has fallen in the Twin Falls area during May is four times as much as was recorded the entire month of April. There was 14 of an inch precipitation that month.

This brings the total moisture since Jan. 1 to 1.54 inches, and a total of 2.36 inches since the water year began Oct. 1, 1976.

Normally the area gets about 1 inch per month during the water year, "making us still short approximately 4 inches of moisture," Faubion said.

Spokesmen for several water districts indicated the recent rains have not changed their water plans for the season.

Rangeland in the higher elevations, to the north of Highway 88 in Blaine and Camas Counties, has been helped by the weekend storms, according to Mike Green of the bureau of Land Management district office in Shoshone.

He said there was some residual moisture left in the upper rangeland so that the rainfall the past few days will be more helpful than in the lower valley area.

The moisture could be beneficial in the lower elevation for perennial plants such as crested wheat grass, Green said, but as for annual vegetation, primarily cheat grass, "we really don't know what the response will be."

Forage on rangeland through Gooding, Lincoln and Jerome Counties has been under such stress there is no indication that the amount of rain occurring so far this month will make a great improvement, he said.

"We have a severe water shortage for livestock water on the range and the rain has not helped that," Green said.

A total of a half inch of rain has been measured at the BLM lookout station at Notch Butte near Shoshone from Friday through Saturday.

Burley received the most precipitation by Sunday's storm, with 23 of an inch reported. Rupert received 15 of an inch; Jerome, .08; Camas prairie, .06; Buhl, .03; Castleford, .05; and Gooding, .02.

Faubion said 11 of an inch fell in the past 88 hours at Kimberly, with 57 of an inch recorded in Twin Falls.

He said he understood it rained heavier in the South Hills and in Nevada, but there is no measuring station in that area.

Unirrigated land is still "powder dry" several inches below the ground, but the rains have been enough to keep irrigated ground moist, he said.

Probation for Patty

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A superior court judge, saying the decision was one of the hardest in his life, put newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst on five year probation today for her role in a Smithsonian Liberation Army shooting incident three years ago.

Judge E. Talbott Callister also ordered Miss Hearst to seek training or schooling and maintain a residence under the guidance of a probation officer.

Callister could have sentenced the 23-year-old Miss Hearst to a sentence of up to 116 months imprisonment on her plea of no contest to charges of robbery and assault with a deadly weapon for the 1974 incident.

But both the prosecution and Miss Hearst's attorneys asked for lenience and Callister agreed with them, saying he was convinced her safety would be jeopardized if she was put in prison.

Miss Hearst, dressed in a brown sweater and pink skirt and flanked by three security guards, spoke only once.

When Callister asked if she was ready to be sentenced, Miss Hearst replied:

"Yes, your honor."

She had her back to the courtroom and her reaction to the sentence was not known.

F. Lee Bailey, Miss Hearst's attorney, asked Callister to put Miss Hearst on probation without supervision but Samuel Mayersin, the prosecutor, recommended probation with supervision. Mayersin reminded Callister that she had been kidnapped by the SLA and was subjected to brutalization by her captors.

Only names change in new directory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Very few people read it from cover to cover. Most just glance at it.

The never-changing story inside is true: only the names have been changed to protect the incumbents.

But the publication, in its familiar blue cover, has been published anew and is ready to be plunked down on desk tops all over the nation's capital.

The 1977 Congressional Directory, listing congressmen, senators, staff aides and reporters — not to mention neat little maps of congressional districts in each state — numbers 1,126 pages this year. That's 20 pages fewer than last year.

The directory has biographies of each member of Congress and lines of agate type of election data.

It is also chock full of the bureaucrat's names, titles and phone numbers — work phone numbers, that is. Unfortunately, like the social "Green" book, listing phone numbers are in tandem with the less prestigious but less costly city telephone directory.

Last year's CD was a dark olive green, and preceding years' copies have been tan and red. But most often — and this year is no exception — the hardbound version is a dull government blue.

The members of Congress are listed alphabetically by state, by party, by delegation, alphabetically by name, by committee and by longevity. The book is generous with listings of staff aides as well.

The executive branch starts, of course, with a brand new biography of a brand new President — beginning with the fact that Jimmy Carter is "a town in the southwestern part of the State," and that his father was a farmer, his mother a nurse.

On the same page, we learn the press secretary to the President is named Joseph L. Powell and that assistant for public liaison Margaret (Midge) Costanza ranks on the list of aides below Zelig New Bresinski.

After the Cabinet departments, and their lists of secretaries, undersecretaries, deputy assistant undersecretaries ad infinitum, comes the independent agencies — from Action through the Water Resources Council.

Then comes the judicial branch, the District of Columbia government and a section on international organizations to which the United States belongs — such as the Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission.

The diplomatic corps is next, followed by the list of every entity to cover Congress for the print and broadcast press, and the maps of state congressional districts.

The 1977 Congressional Directory is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402; at $6.50 for paperback, $9.50 for cloth-bound and $12.50 for cloth-bound and indexed versions.

Snow, rain, wind pelt nation

By United Press International
A spring snowstorm plastered upstate New York Tuesday, turning expressways into lines of crawling automobiles, piling up to a foot of snow in the Catskill Mountains and bringing out fleets of snowplows and sanding trucks.

A snow shower accompanied by thunder and lightning swept across New York City, surprising shivering office workers who had left their topeats home.

Heavy, wet snow overburdened electric lines, knocking out power to thousands of homes and industries in the northern part of the state. Schools closed in New York's Columbia and Dutchess Counties.

The heaviest accumulations of snow were from central New York eastward. Eleven inches fell at Slide Mountain in the Catskills and there were unofficial reports of more than 20 inches in southern Albany County.

Electric power was off in many areas of Poughkeepsie. About 11,000 customers were left without service in Hudson and other parts of Columbia County.

A deputy sheriff in Steuben County reported "conditions are terrible" with high winds drifting snow. In Ontario County, a sheriff's department spokesman said, "We're having a blizzard."

The storm swept into the Northeast on a strong cold front. Winds gusted at 58 miles per hour in Washington, D.C. and there were unofficial reports of 70 mile gusts in the capital area.

In the Midwest, frost formed on flowering shrubs and wilted lawns in the Chicago area. The mercury dipped to freezing in Chicago and below the freezing mark in western and northern suburbs.

Savage thunderstorms swept across the South and Southeast Sunday, causing scattered damage.

Another storm brought violent weather and welcome rain to drought-dry California.

Coming apart at the seams?

London Economist News Service
Three of western Europe's biggest countries - Spain, Britain and France - are in danger of coming apart at the seams.

highly centralized Germany. Italy's postwar constitution also pointed the way to elected regional assemblies, even though these were not finally set up until 1970.

The countries which have always believed that devolution was unnecessary (France, Britain) or that it would lead to disintegration (Spain), are now facing the consequences of their inflexibility.

Nixon still doesn't understand his fall

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) - For one brief moment during his Watergate interview with David Frost, Richard Nixon addressed himself to what could be the worst thing he and his men did to the country.

the norm. When all the other excuses were stripped away, that was the defense. "Nixon told Frost that he had no intention to protect burglars and those who hired them.

CORRECT! CONTESTANT NIXON, YOU NOW HAVE THREE HUNDRED AND SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS!! - FOR ANOTHER FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS, ANSWER THIS QUESTION...

Jaworski says Public's interest in Nixon a surprise

Leon Jaworski, the former Watergate special prosecutor, was interviewed by Washington Star staff writer Walter Taylor.
Question: Are you surprised by the continuing fascination with Richard Nixon and Watergate?

was evident here he not only knew of the cover-up but he conspired with (H.R.) Haldemann to further it.
Q: He claimed that he was merely assuming the posture of the defense lawyer which any lawyer would do under the circumstances.

Q: On television, Nixon acknowledged that he did know on March 21 that the payment to Hunt's lawyer had taken place. Is that the first time he acknowledged that?

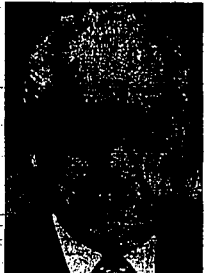

Postcard lobbying popular in D.C.

WASHINGTON - When the common site picketing bill was before Congress earlier this year, law-makers were inundated by thousands of postcards, letters and telegrams opposing the labor-backed measure.

Blank dictation belt among 'Gate info

HOUSTON (UPI) — The 18½ minute gap on a White House tape recording was not the only missing evidence subpoenaed in the Watergate investigation, according to former special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

LEON JAWORSKI
evidence missing

Jaworski said Sunday a Dictabelt recording subpoenaed from former President Richard Nixon also was virtually blank.

"We not only received an 18½ minute gap, but we also found the Dictabelt," Jaworski said in an interview on KPRC-TV.

"Mr. Nixon had a habit following telephone conversations. He would pick up his Dictaphone and dictate a summary of his conversation. This happened to have been a conversation with John Mitchell after the break-in. When we got that belt by subpoena, all it had on it was, 'Now, John. And that was it.'"

Jaworski did not elaborate on what might have caused the silence, did not say on what date the Dictabelt was made and he was unavailable for comment after the interview.

The 18½ minute gap on a June 20, 1972 Oval Office tape recording has never been explained, Jaworski noted.

He said had he known "who crased it, there would have been an indictment on that. This was one of the worst acts of obstruction of justice that one can be guilty of."

Jaworski said Nixon's televised interviews with David Frost may be financially helpful but "he is turning the matter (Watergate) up all over again. I think it's poor judgment. Now it might be financially gainful, and it apparently is, but from his own standpoint — his personal standpoint — it's unwise."

Jaworski, who refused to sign a proposed grand jury indictment of Nixon, said Nixon should have admitted in his interview with Frost that he was guilty of criminal acts as President. But he said he was glad President Ford spared him from the prospect of a Nixon trial.

"I know he (Nixon) wanted that pardon. He embraced it," Jaworski said. Jaworski said he did not sign the proposed indictment because "to indict the man in light of that process, I thought, would not have been quite fair to him. It would have prejudged him as far as the House Judiciary (Committee) was concerned."

Kid porn hearings pressed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Human Resources Committee has urged another congressional panel to hold hearings on legislation to ban the sale of pornographic pictures and films involving children.

Chairman Harrison Williams said Sunday. The New Jersey Democrat said his committee had adopted a resolution asking the Senate Judiciary Committee to hold hearings on pending bills to impose criminal penalties for the sale of photographs or films depicting "the sexual exploitation" of children.

The Human Resources committee wants the Judiciary Committee to take steps to stamp out "sordid pornographic activities which can permanently traumatize and warp the minds of the children involved," Williams said.

"It has come to the committee's attention that there is a substantial amount of trafficking in pornographic materials involving children," he said. "Sometimes children as young as 3 years old are used and exploited for pornography. Clearly this sick situation must be stopped."

Critic rapped

HOUSE Speaker Thomas F. O'Neill had little time in upbraiding Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., for his criticism of President Carter's economic and social programs, O'Neill replied in defense of the administration on a television interview Sunday, ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Legal drugs unlikely

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A former Nixon Administration official said Sunday American attitudes about drug use are softening, but the nation isn't yet ready for any plan to legalize most drugs.

Egil Krogh, President Nixon's chief advisor on drug policy and a figure in the Watergate scandal, was moderator of a panel at the National-Drug-Abuse Conference this weekend. "There has been a definite shift toward a decriminalization of drugs, particularly marijuana," Krogh said. "Five or six years ago, for example it was unheard of to talk about heroin maintenance (dispensing free heroin to addicts). But here, people are talking about it."

However, Krogh said he doubted if the public would accept such a program now. He did say drug use is a "condition of society" and he didn't expect it to subside.

ADA backs end of corporate income tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the nation's most doctrinaire political organizations has come out in favor of abolishing the corporate income tax.

The American Conservative Union? Young Americans for Freedom? No. Americans for Democratic Action, for 30 years the refuge of the nation's most convinced political liberals.

Although ADA ended its annual convention Sunday with resolutions that backed away from a number of long-held liberal policies, delegates insist their ideology remained pure. Conditions, they said, required new positions.

In addition to calling for an end to the corporate income tax, the convention also urged continuation of both tie electoral college — with reforms to safeguard against "faithless electors" — and the present payroll tax to finance Social Security — with help from general income tax revenues.

Its resolution on tax reform said the corporate income tax should be abolished and, so that everyone will pay a fair share of taxes, all corporation income, whether paid out in dividends or not, "allocated" among stockholders.

Filibuster issue revives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first partisan fight of the Senate session shaped up today over an old, familiar issue — the filibuster and how to stop it.

The Senate's first order of business this afternoon was a proposal by Democratic leader Robert Byrd to amend Rule 22, which governs filibusters. The amendment is designed to eliminate the delaying tactics available to opponents of a bill even after the Senate invokes cloture to limit debate.

Ironically, the proposal itself is subject to filibuster, under the old rules. Historically, efforts to revise the Senate's rules — particularly those dealing with the rights of a minority — have been as controversial as major legislation and Byrd's proposal is no exception.

The battle starts when Byrd seeks unanimous consent to make the rules change the pending business of the Senate. Republican Leader Howard Baker planned to object, forcing Byrd to move to bring up the rules change.

"That motion is debatable and subject to a filibuster, which Republican sources agree is likely. So it may be some time before the Senate can reach a vote on the proposal that is designed to cut delays and speed a vote on legislation once the debate-limiting mechanism of cloture is invoked.

Privations attacked in lawsuit

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Lawyers for antinuclear demonstrators still in custody in the National Guard armories say poor food, lack of shower and toilet facilities and other privations amounts to cruel and unusual punishment.

The lawyers have filed a class-action suit against New Hampshire, asking that conditions be improved and seeking more than $40 million in damages for the protesters arrested at the Seabrook nuclear power plant construction site. They planned today to ask U.S. District Court Judge Hugh Bowmes to declare the conditions unconstitutional.

The suit, filed last week by the Massachusetts and New Hampshire Civil Liberties Union, does not seek the release of the demonstrators. But Bowmes, who toured the armories Saturday, could order the protesters freed on personal recognition if he felt conditions warranted.

Almanac

By United Press International Today is Monday, May 9, the 129th day of 1977 with 236 to follow. The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus. Scottish novelist Sir James Barrie was born May 9, 1860. On this day in history: In 1502, Christopher Columbus set sail from Cadiz, Spain, on his fourth and final voyage to America. In 1928, Cmdr. Richard Byrd and Floyd Bennett became the first men to fly over the North Pole. In 1946, King Victor Emmanuel III of Italy abdicated, leaving the throne to his son, Crown Prince Humberto. In 1970, United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther was killed in a Michigan plane crash. A thought for the day: Scottish poet James Barrie said, "We never understand how little we need in this world until we know the loss of it."

Bargain begging

CHICAGO (UPI) — Coffee prices dropped to 7 cents per pound at one establishment during the weekend, but bargain hunters somehow failed to clear the shelves. To celebrate the opening of a branch in suburban Glendale Heights, the Central Du Page Savings and Loan announced it would sell one pound of coffee to each of the first 1,000 persons to show up at the new branch. But the brew drew too few, leaving the suburban branch with 300 pounds of coffee.

Ford to begin lectures

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former President Gerald Ford begins a series of lectures this week to University of Southern California history and political science students.

School officials said the former chief executive will speak to intimate gatherings of small — as 15 students — and larger ones of up to 200 beginning Wednesday.

Pope makes emotional plea

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI made an emotional condemnation of criminal violence, the arms buildup, abortion and kidnapping Sunday during the beatification of a 19th-century Spanish nun.

The pontiff said the life of Sister Maria Rosa Molas y Valve, declared a "blessed" of the Roman Catholic church, should remind the world of the sanctity of human life.

Her efforts should make the world reconsider, the pontiff said, the buildup of armaments, already capable of destroying humanity.

Trial delay sought

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An attorney for Roman Polanski says he will ask for postponement of the film director's trial on charges of drugging and raping a 13-year-old girl.

The attorney, Douglas Dalton, said Saturday that he will seek a continuance of the trial, set to begin Wednesday, pending a number of pretrial motions he wants heard by the court, including an inquiry into the girl's prior sexual conduct.

Health insurance eyed

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The president of the American Dental Association, Dr. Frank Shula, predicts the United States will adopt national health insurance within six years.

In an interview published Sunday in the New Haven Register, Shula said most dentists do not favor a health insurance plan.

But he added, "To be realistic, I must say that national health insurance is inevitable within the next four to six years."

Andy Devine remembered

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — A special cancer research fund has been established at the University of California in memory of late actor Andy Devine, who died of leukemia in February at 71.

"The Andy Devine Memorial Cancer Fund is the family's way of supporting further research on the causes and treatments of cancer," the late actor's son, Dennis Devine, said Saturday.

Contributions will be used to build facilities and purchase equipment for cancer research at the university.

More than they bargained for PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Some burglars who ransacked a home here may have gotten more than they thought — like a fatal dose of pesticides.

According to police spokesman John McAlister the burglars broke into the home equipped with a can of "fumigation tent" sometime Saturday and stole crystal and cash.

McAlister said the termite-killing chemical Methylobromide, which was being used in the house, could cause death in humans if enough of the pesticide is inhaled. The poison will at least make the thieves very sick, he said.

Mother's Day gift

NORA Eggers, 67, Boone, N.C., sits in her wheelchair in front of the church she used to attend from the time she was born. The church, however, has been moved from its original location near Trade, Tenn., to her backyard as a Mother's Day gift from her son, S.C. Eggers Jr., right, and her grandson, S.C. Eggers III, atorneys of Boone. (UPI)

113-year-old church fine Mother's Day gift

BOONE, N.C. (UPI) — Nora, South Eggers walked into her backyard Sunday to take another look at her Mother's Day present — the church built by her family in Tennessee 113 years ago and brought to her by her son and grandson.

"It brings back a lot of memories," said Mrs. Eggers, who moved to Boone in 1924.

Stacy C. Eggers Jr., her son, and Stacy C. Eggers III, her grandson, paid $475 for the unpainted church, had it disassembled in Trade, Tenn., and brought to their mother's yard.

A decline in membership had forced the Timothy Chapel Methodist Church to close. When the Eggers, both lawyers, found the church had been abandoned, they decided to save it.

"It all started when the lady who owned the building came into my office one day and asked if I wanted to buy the bell in the church tower," said Mrs. Eggers' son.

Since his ancestor had built the church, Eggers agreed to buy the bell and sent his son and another man to the Tennessee mountains to get it.

The younger Eggers was fascinated with the building and decided to buy it.

They had the church disassembled and transported to Boone where a local contractor rebuilt the church beside a small creek behind Mrs. Eggers' house.

"It looks like it belongs there — like it was always sitting back there," she said.

Cash, gifts found

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Investigators have found $5 million in cash and thousands of "gifts to God" in the declared home of a slain heiress.

Police said they had no firm suspects but several leads in the slaying of Marjorie V. Jackson, 66, widow of the former president of Standard Food Stores.

Firemen called to fight a fire at the Jackson home discovered the slaying Saturday. They said the fire was the work of an arsonist.

Mrs. Jackson was shot once in the stomach. A coroner said the shooting could have occurred as early as Thursday.

Police found no gun in their search of the house.

But they did find millions of dollars in cash — mostly in large, neatly stacked bundles hidden in tool boxes, grocery bags and even a trash container — and thousands of foil-wrapped gifts bearing such labels as "To Jesus Christ."

Police said they were searching for Marjorie Jackson or "To God from Marjorie."

A final tally Sunday showed $5,015,489.93 in cash and several thousand dollars in traveler's checks.

Authorities said — Mrs. Jackson lost more than $600,000 a year ago in a confidence game and had nearly $700,000 embezzled from a trust account into which a banker had persuaded her to place part of her husband's estate. Since then they said, she hasn't had much confidence in banks.

The foil-wrapped packets stacked from floor to ceiling along one wall in the house contained such items as perfume, earrings — even washcloths.

There were also several large stacks bearing religious inscriptions.

"Apparently she was just giving gifts to God," Marion County Police Lt. Robert W. Kirkman said.

No will was ever found, though observers estimated Mrs. Jackson's estate to total more than $20 million.

Police said one room of the house appeared ransacked, but that they could not be sure because of the clutter.

Menten trial starts

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (UPI) — Millionaire art collector Pieter Menten goes on trial today on charges he murdered hundreds of innocent persons in occupied Eastern Europe during World War II.

If found guilty, the 77-year-old former Nazi collaborator could be sentenced to death, although legal experts said the imprisonment probably would be the maximum sentence a Dutch court would impose.

Menten lived in semi-retirement in a 50-room mansion crowded with paintings and art objects, forgotten by almost everyone, when a newspaper article on a forthcoming auction of some of his treasures thrust him into the spotlight last year.

Israel revived long-buried accusations of war crimes and Dutch authorities launched an official investigation.

Menten is charged with participation in the killings of some 200, mostly Jewish, residents of two Ukrainian towns, then part of Poland, when he was attached to the Nazi SS in 1941.

Hans Knoop, editor of the Dutch magazine Accent, who personally investigated Menten's past and whose articles helped trigger an official investigation, quoted a Soviet official as estimating Menten was responsible for nearly 1,000 deaths. Knoop's own estimate was about 800.

Claudine greets visitors

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI) — Claudine Longet, dressed in the white coveralls of a prisoner, received Mother's Day hugs from her three children and former husband Andy Williams in the stark, booking room of the Pitkin County Jail.

While other mothers were escorted Sunday to church and dinner, the French-born singer and former Las Vegas showgirl waited in her cell for Noelle, 13, Christian, 11, and Bobby, 7. She received no flowers or gifts.

A spokesman said her only other visitor was a Catholic clergyman and she spent the rest of the day reading and listening to the radio.

Miss Longet, 36, was convicted of an allegedly negligent homicide in the March, 1976, shooting death of her lover, pro skier Vladimir Smiters.

Sablich, she was denied her bid to the Colorado Supreme Court to be out of jail in time for Mother's Day.

Deputy Sheriff Gary White said Sunday's meeting was held in the 10 by 12-foot booking area "where visitors always meet the prisoners."

He said the room, containing a desk and plain chairs, was void of painting or plants.

Williams and the children had a private visit of about 25 minutes, said the deputy.

While said the youngsters could not see the cell their mother beautified with blue, yellow and green paint and potted plants sent to her by friends. He said the cell was through two doors — down a hallway and around a corner from the booking room of the 90-year-old jail.

Miss Longet began serving a 30-day term April 18.

DEAR ABBY: I just came from a meeting in which the guest speaker was against the Equal Rights Amendment, and I must say now I'm more confused than ever.

She said if the ERA is passed, men will no longer be forced by law to support their families.

She also said with ERA, women would be drafted just like men, and they would have to use the same bathroom and sleeping facilities. Is that true?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: If the ERA is passed, the matter of supporting one's family will remain unchanged. According to the courts, a married woman living with her husband receives only what he CHOOSES to give her. Support will (as it always has) depend on LOVE, not LAW. You can't get blood out of a turnip.

ERA: Separate but equal

The ERA means that women will be subject to the draft. If we ever have one again—right now, we don't. If so, either or both parents could be exempt from service if it would be a hardship on the family, just as some men formerly were excused from serving if they had a legitimate reason.

And as for women being forced to use the same restrooms and sleeping quarters as men: That's so much hooey. The constitutional right to privacy will still justify separate restrooms, dormitories and barracks.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 10-year-old boy and my problem is girls. I have loved a lot of girls, but they never loved me. I gave them gifts, but they threw them away.

Last summer I went to camp, and there was this real pretty girl I liked a lot, and I thought she liked me.

At the first dance of the season, as soon as the music started, I went over to this girl and asked her if she wanted to dance.

She said, "Yes, but not with you!"

I got so mad I went straight back to my cabin and said, "That's the end—no more girls for me!" But, Abby, I can't seem to quit liking girls. Can you help me?

LONELY LOVER

DEAR LOVER: Time is on your side, and you have plenty of it since you're only 10. Maybe you come on too strong. Most girls are attracted to boys who don't seem to notice them. The word from here is, cool it, lover.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago we had a new heating system installed in our home. The two men who did the work cursed during the whole job. They even criticized my house—one of them asked, "Who designed this joint?" I proudly told him that my husband and I designed it. Then he said, "I knew it had to be something like that. I never saw such a monstrosity."

The other one asked me how much it cost to build, and when I told him he said, "You were robbed."

Abby, we like our home, and it wasn't their place to express such opinions.

We need air conditioning now, and my husband wants to hire those two ill-mannered thugs to do it. I don't want them in my house, even though their work was good and the price was right. What do you say?

HAD IT IN BEVERLY HILLS

DEAR HAD IT: I say, let your husband win this one. The men may be ill-mannered, but they're probably competent and honest, and they know where all the pipes are buried.

Little man makes hit with kids

By GEORGE WILEY

TWIN FALLS—"You must be Billy Barty!" A stупidly rhetorical question prompted perhaps by a moment of shock at how short he really is. He's just come out of the makeshift dressing room backstage and there's no one else around 3 feet 9 inches tall.

He cocks his balding head in a sideways movement and his upward glance takes in questioner and question. A flicker of disappointment in his eyes reflects the countless number of times he's heard the same words. "Nah," he quips automatically. "With Chamberlain."

His wrinkled face suddenly patterns itself in an impish smile which disappears as quickly as it came. Back in the dressing room a child-size tuxedo jacket hangs on a rack with other temporarily placed small garments.

Barty hoists himself onto a blue, cloth-covered chair and rests one arm on the piano which takes up most of the space in the cramped room. With the other tiny hand, he begins to tinkle aimlessly at the keys, singing a few bars to himself.

His feet, encased in bright little black shoes, hang midway between the edge of the chair and the floor.

"At that time I vowed never to return to show business," he says. He's talking about his college days, when he lettered in football and basketball and was studying sports journalism. "I wanted to be a coach. They wouldn't accept it in those days. Now, I think I might've stood a chance."

Barty began his theatrical career at the age of 3, during an era, he says, when most parents of midgets and dwarfs couldn't see a role for their children unless it was in show business.

"I've been performing off-and-on-for 108 years," he jokes. It's a slight exaggeration. Barty is 52 now.

It was during his late teens that he decided to escape the self-display of show business and pursue a sports career. As a half-back who could run 50 yards in seven seconds, he was hard to find and pin down on a football field.

"I had to outsmart the other guys instead of outstrength them."

He was equally adept on the basketball court, where he found it easy to break free in the melee for an outside shot.

"I was no good under the basket, but you try to dribble around me. I stole the ball quite a few times."

When his sports career didn't get off the ground, Barty returned to the stage and gradually made a name for himself. He's now appeared in about 120 movies and nearly as many television shows. He stars regularly on Dr. Shrinker, the children's TV show where he plays the part of a character named Hugo.

In one of his most recent movies, Day of the Locust, Barty portrayed a nasty little fellow whose fits of rage gave a special grimace to the theme of a morally corrupt Hollywood.

"I've tried to build a career on what talent I have," Barty says. He now lives in his own Hollywood home and three specially adapted cars which he drives.

But Barty hasn't spent all his time building a show business reputation. To help other midgets and dwarves overcome their physical stature and succeed in careers of their choice, he founded Little People of America, Inc., through which he later met his wife, Shirley, a Malad, Idaho, native.

One of Little People's aims has been merely to acquaint the normal-sized world with the problems faced by its smallest adult members—such as drinking fountains and telephones that can't be reached.

"They build a million-dollar building and you can't get a drink of water," Barty says, adding that some states are now requiring public facilities accessible to Little People.

The other part of Barty's theme is that if Little People stick together they can triumph in careers which they would have been barred from a few years ago.

"Only one per cent of us are in show business," Barty says, noting that most Little People are born to big people. "If you can help the parent, you can help the child. Don't over-protect them."

"It's not easy," he adds, "but if you think positive. It all boils down to thinking positive. Think Big. One of the jokes I use in the show is, 'We marched on Washington and nobody saw us.' You've got to make fun of yourself. If you can't make fun of yourself, who are you gonna make fun of?"

Barty swabs at his eyes: He's in Twin Falls to do two performances for Kurt Whinn's Vanguard '77, which appeared last week at CSI under the sponsorship of the Twin Falls Sheriff's posse. The drought-enlanced dust—from spring plowings is making his eyes never get up.

"It doesn't only boil down to Little People," Barty says, completing his statement on positivism. "It boils down to everybody. We're all Little People."

The band has been playing, and the preliminary acts have been taking their turns. Somebody sticks his head in the door and tells Barty showtime is near.

"Do big people make fun of him much?" he is asked.

"The kids do, but they don't know," he says.

"They say 'See the little man' or 'See the little daddy'—kids can be cruel."

The kids in the audience aren't cruel. They love him. They squeak as Barty goes through a comic routine with a microphone which has "deliberately" been left above his head. "Hugs, hugs— they cry, as if Barty will look out and recognize them individually from having peered at them so many times from inside a TV screen.

Barty is a fireball of professional energy. He jams a rumpled Stetson on his head, straps a pair of toy six-guns around his waist and goes through an imitation of the typical western movie hero—in minutes.

"LSMFT," he says, "Little Small Man From Texas."

A moment later he has dooned a wig and tails and is swooping through a Liberace imitation. Then it is Jimmy Durante. Barty makes fun of his own large nose.

When the cord on the hand mike comes apart suddenly, Barty does an effortless dance across stage and snaps it back together, as though it had been part of the act.

The children laugh and keep clapping. When Barty tries to end the performance, they applaud him back and keep time through an encore. Although it's all comic, it's as though being small themselves the kids understand Barty's frustrations.

After the show, they encircle the stage door in a crush, pressing forward in their eagerness for a Barty autograph.

Karl Winn himself comes out to warn them not to press forward too hard. Barty has been mobbed before.

At length, Barty appears and begins signing the slips of paper that are thrust forward.

At times Barty disappears completely from view. Even the children tower over him.

Sweet Adelines to compete in Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS—The Region 8 Sweet Adelines singing competition will be held in Twin Falls May 13 and 14 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium.

Quartet competitions will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. with Joan Nielsen, Bonanza, Utah, as mistress-of-ceremonies.

Chorus competition starts at 1 p.m. Saturday with Burt Hulsh, Twin Falls, as master of ceremonies.

The show Saturday night at 8 p.m. will feature the winning quartet, chorus and small chorus. The Twin Falls chapter of Sweet Adeline will participate.

Guest performers will be the "Star Spangled Sounds," third place medalist at International competition in 1976 and "Satisfaction Guaranteed" the regional 1976 winning quartet, from Denver.

Another feature will be the Bountiful Chorus, winner of 1976 competition, who will represent region-8 at International competition in London, England, in October. The "Common Titter," Magicard chapter of Twin Falls, will also perform.

Region 8 is composed of Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and Ely, Nev.

Tickets are $4.50 for each competitive event and $3 for the big show. Tickets may be obtained at the registration desk at the Holiday Inn or by calling 733-8998, 733-7949 or 733-3387 in the evenings. Some tickets will be sold at the door.

MR. and MRS. DEAN AMBROSE

BUIHL — Susan Wagner and Dean Ambrose, Bremerton, Wash., were united in marriage April 22 in rites in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wagner, Buhl. The bridegroom is the son of Chet Ambrose, Sunnyvale, Calif., and Bette Murphy, Twin Falls.

Mr. McNeill of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Buhl performed the double-ring ceremony in front of a candlelit fireplace decorated with straw flowers and silks in orange and yellow baskets.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian-style floor-length dress of unbleached muslin with lace overlay in front and long lace sleeves. The dress was also trimmed with beige maxi braid.

Her floor-length veil was of tulle and lace, made by Lorain Edmonds. The bride carried a few cascades of orange and yellow straw flowers, silks and wood flowers, with brown fern.

For sentiment she wore a Black-Hills gold-necklace given to her by the bridegroom.

After the wedding the bride and bridegroom presented their mothers with a yellow rosebud.

Alyce Wagner, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Rosemary Stovall of Ventura, Calif., sorority sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Brandee Mitchell, niece of the bridegroom, and Lacy Wagner, niece of the bride, were flower girls.

The bridegroom's brother, Ron Ambrose, served as best man, assisted by the bridegroom's cousin, Rick Grinstead, Twin Falls, as usher.

The wedding music was played by Debbie Foster at the piano and Scott Walden sang and accompanied himself on the guitar.

Grandparents attending were Mr. and Mrs. Allan Birdwell, Mrs. Annie Wagner, and Mrs. Sndie Ambrose, all of Buhl, Susan's god parents Mr. and Mrs. Greg Wasiko, Twin Falls, were present.

Family members honored the newlyweds with a reception at the home of the bride's parents, who were immediately following the ceremony.

The round oak table was covered with an aqua lace cloth, centered with a cascade of orange roses, crystal candlesticks, holding orange candles, crystal bride and bridegroom champagne glasses. Silver champagne bucket and silver coffee server flanked the cake. Kris Riekenbach and Maris Wing, sorority sisters, served at the table.

A reception was held April 24 at the home of the bride's parents, Cathy Wagner, sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the guest book.

A lace cloth, caught up at the corners with orange and yellow bows, covered the bride's table. The table featured a four-tiered, heart-shaped cake topped with orange and yellow straw flowers. Baby fern was arranged around the bottom of the cake which was baked by Mrs. Leonard Walcott.

Also featured on the bride's table were crystal candle holders with orange tapers.

Guests were seated at white tables covered with white lace cloths centered with wine goblets containing floating daisies of yellow and orange.

Serving the cake were Gloria Mitchell, sister of the bridegroom of Bremerton, and Rosemary Stovall, Ventura. Kris Riekenbach and Maris Wing of Salem, Ore., poured coffee and punch. Others who assisted at the reception were bridesmaids, Hattie Gleason and Lou Ayers, both Buhl.

After a short honeymoon to Sun Valley, the newlyweds will be in the Bremerton home of the bridegroom with Pan Am.

The bride graduated from the Buhl High School and the College of Idaho and the bridegroom attended high school.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb,
Two years ago my husband and I traveled to Colorado. Two days after we arrived my husband had a stroke. The doctors said it was probably hastened by the high altitude. He right side was paralyzed but since then he has regained his speech and can walk with a walker. He has no use of his right arm and hand.
Does this high altitude reason mean we can never again go to Colorado or would he have had a stroke wherever he was?
The doctors said it was a blood clot.
Dear Reader,

Exposure to high altitude does not cause a blood clot. The decreased oxygen in the air at higher altitudes may stress the heart and circulation.

If an artery in the brain was already narrowed so that there could be no increase in circulation when needed and the air was poor in oxygen it could lead to localized inadequate supply of oxygen to brain tissue supplied by that artery.

Since only part of the oxygen in the blood is taken out of the blood circulated to the brain there is some reserve oxygen available. Lack of oxygen leads to mental confusion. Patients with disease of the arteries to the brain are sometimes benefited by increasing the oxygen they breathe.

There are reports of decreased mental confusion in such patients after breathing air under increased pressure or increasing the oxygen in the blood stream.

If the damage has already been done and the rest of the circulation to your husband's brain is normal it is not likely that altitude will hurt him — provided he has a healthy heart and lungs and is not anemic.

I am confident he could tolerate altitudes up to 5,000 feet, about the altitude of Denver. The change in oxygen in air at that altitude is so minor as to be of little consequence. This altitude is often spoken as the physiological threshold, because one sees so few changes, if any, on exposure to altitudes up to this level.

People who have had strokes or who have vascular disease to the arteries to the brain should be certain that they have an optimal oxygen supply. An unrecognized anemia may be a factor in triggering a stroke? Why? Because the anemia may decrease the oxygen supply to the brain tissue and when that is combined with artery disease an area of the brain may be aged from lack of oxygen.

Since older people are sometimes prone to strokes it is important that they have checkups for factors that can contribute to a stroke. This includes evaluation for an anemia.

Smoking increases the chances of having a stroke. If your husband smokes he should stop entirely. The cigarette smoke increases the tendency for clot formation.

Hollister Grange honors local school graduates

HOLLISTER — The Hollister Grange 228 honored local and high school graduates of the area Wednesday.

Master Dwight Shaw opened the meeting and introduced program chairman William Lanting.

Grade school graduates honored were Brian Richardson, Lacey Thornton, Elaine Peters, Steven Webb, Jeff Lemke, Paul Miller, Nikki Humphries, David Christobal, Teresa Morse, Coleen Dennis and Ginger Lemke.

High school honorees included Cyndi Naclor, Teresa Christobal, Cindy Ryan, Lisa Rayl, Debbie Dekon, Tim Miller, Brian McGregor, Brent Kinstlinger, Jeff Shaw, Wally Tanner, Jim Blitzenburg, Bob Schutte and James Brady.

Howard Moon, instructor at Filer High School was commended for his authorship of the recently published book "Early History of Filer, Idaho School Communities."

A slide presentation given by Elmo Farrar, former manager of the Salmon River Canal Co. and Mrs. Farrar, was featured.

Songs entitled "Great Big Beautiful World," "Heaven in Hell's Canyon," "North Country," "When the Desert is in Bloom," "Oregon" and "The National Grange March" all written and composed by Mrs. Farrar were sung by Farrar, accompanied by Mrs. Farrar on the piano.

OES cites matron

FILER — A memorial tribute to Berniece Walters, past grand matron, was presented at the Wednesday evening meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star in the Masonic hall.

Mrs. Carmen Sharp, worthy matron, welcomed members and guests. The American Flag was presented by Sam Austin. Reports of special and standing committees were given and a silver drill was field.

Past Matron's Club will meet Friday in the Outlaw Inn.

Twin Falls Star Social Club will meet May 26 at the home of Mrs. Everett Bonnichsen.

Mrs. Duanne Ramseyer and Mrs. Ted Poppewell presented a tribute to mothers and gifts were presented all mothers present. Mrs. B. Hawkins presented the closing thought.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Dougherty, Emma Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Lancaster and Marinette Jordan.

Sheriff's posse to ride

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Sheriff's Posse is saddling up for the 1977 season and riding every Thursday at the Filer fairgrounds at 8:30 p.m.

The posse will welcome new members and offers a search and rescue team, rodeo and jamboree team and trail rides.

The posse will also be participating in county fairs and rodeos throughout the state.

Interested persons can contact Bill Cooper, captain, at 733-9900 or attend a riding meeting any Thursday at the fairgrounds.

Oswald: "The standard safety play is one of the simplest. It is illustrated by today's hand."

Jim: "South is interested in seven when he finds that his partner held three aces. He checks for kings and when he finds that the opponents hold the king of trump he abandons seven and settles for six."

Oswald: "Since he misses the king, jack and two other trumps he isn't sure of six, but has a very good play for it. He isn't going to bring the contract home if West holds king-jack-small or all four trumps in back of him, but there is a safety play at his disposal to bring the slam home against any other trump com-ination."

Jim: "He wins the club in his own hand and lays down the ace of spades. If an honor falls to fall he will go over to dummy and lead the second round of spades from there."

Oswald: "This time the king drops from West. Now South goes over to dummy, finessees against East's jack and makes seven."

Jim: "If South had won the first club in dummy, led a trump and finessed his queen he might still be there, worrying about what to do next."

We are vulnerable and our right-hand opponent has opened the bidding with one diamond.

The answer is that we would definitely overcall a club or heart opening bid, but prefer a pass over one diamond since our four diamonds are really worthless cards.

Dutch hotel fire claims 12

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (UPI) — Fire raged through the Hotel Polen at dawn today, killing at least a dozen persons and possibly trapping others under flaming rubble — when the building collapsed, police said.

"At least 12 hotel guests have died. Their remains are in various hospitals," Chief Police Inspector Jan Venstra said shortly after noon (4 a.m. MDT).

"It is not out of the question there were also bodies buried under the debris, he said.

Police and ambulance sources said eight persons, including one fireman, were missing.

The fire broke out at 6:30 a.m. local time as most of the guests at the hotel near famous Dam Square were asleep.

A number of persons leaped from windows or ledges and a city spokesman, said two guests were known to have died from injuries sustained in falls.

"Twenty-nine injured people and two bodies were taken away," Jan Allema, director of the Amsterdam Health Service, said. "I do not know if there are still more victims in the building."

A spokesman for the hotel owners said about 100 persons, most of them foreigners, were staying in the moderate priced hotel about 100 yards from Amsterdam's famous Dam square.

The hotel's blazing facade collapsed onto a fire engine and flames engulfed a bookshop next door.

Allema said most of the injured were taken to four Amsterdam hospitals, but three were sent to a special burn center in the town of Beverwijk, about 15 miles away.

"I was sleeping in my second floor (American third) when I was awakened by shouting and the noise of breaking glass," said Roy Acjon, 39, of London.

An unidentified American guest said, "My wife awoke from the smoker. We were staying on the second floor. Our escape from the hotel is an indescribable experience."

Jobs, price lid major features of plan

LONDON (UPI) — Getting the jobless back to work and holding down prices are the key features of a blueprint for world economic progress drawn up by a seven-nation summit during the weekend.

President Carter and the leaders of six of the wealthiest Western nations met for two days to discuss what progress the world economy has made since the 1973-74 recession, which was caused largely by the quadrupling of oil prices in 1974 by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Prime Minister James Callaghan was host of the conference, which also was attended by President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France, Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany, Premier Takeo Fukuda of Japan, Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau of Canada and Premier Giulio Andreotti of Italy.

"Our most urgent task is to create more jobs while continuing to reduce inflation," the seven leaders said in a "declaration of hope" at the end of the summit.

Unemployment among the young was seen as the most pressing problem and the seven pledged to exchange experience and ideas on ways to alleviate it.

Dozens of other problems — ranging from energy to international finance — were debated in the oak-paneled state dining room of No. 10 Downing Street, the historic home of Britain's prime ministers.

Among the major economic agreements reached were: A promise the seven would work together to get international talks back on track.

Protestant strike push fails

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Gangs of Protestant militants blocked roads with their bodies today in what government sources said was an unsuccessful attempt to coerce workers into joining a week-old general strike.

But the sources said Northern Ireland's 600,000 workers again defied the militant Protestant organizers of the strike and showed up for their jobs in near normal numbers.

Strike leaders had called for a total work stoppage as a show of opposition to government security policies.

Paramilitary organizations backing the strike warned the working population to stay off the streets for their own safety.

Freedom favored

DJIBOUTI, Afars and Issas (UPI) — The French Territory of Afars and Issas, a tiny but strategic strip of desert on the Horn of Africa, has voted overwhelmingly for independence, bringing an end to European colonial rule in Africa.

Unofficial election results released in Paris today said more than 98 per cent of those who cast ballots Sunday voted in favor of independence, with final returns showing 80,761 votes in favor, 205 against and 668 void ballots.

"That was out of a total of 105,000 registered voters and represented a turnout of 77.7 per cent, election sources said.

Polling was quiet and without incident in Africa's last European colony.

Under a program worked out in Paris, the territory, generally known by the name of its capital, Djibouti, will be declared a republic June 27 after 115 years of French control.

"Everything went off very well," said Abdallah Kamil, chairman of Djibouti's council of government. "These results are very positive for the future of the country."

Archers join war

Zaire

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — The Zairean government says warriors armed with poisoned arrows have been reintroduced in the two-month-old war against Angola-based rebels in southern Shaba province, formerly known as Katanga.

It did not say whether the recruits were made up of Congolese, who were said to have spread panic among the invaders three weeks ago, but were never seen by reporters touring the war front.

The invaders, mostly former Katanga militiamen who fled to Angola after Katanga's secession bid collapsed in 1963, now also are said to employ archers in the fighting.

A prisoner said to be a Katanga scout appeared in a Kinshasa television studio Saturday and said he had been carrying bow and arrows when captured.

On Sunday, the government radio said "a large contingent of men armed with poisoned arrows" had been sent back into the fighting on the loyalist side made up of government troops and 1,500 Moroccans.

Hard facts about frontline developments were difficult to obtain, although it appeared clear the government troops were advancing toward the Angolan border, driving the rebel forces ahead of them.

Reactions mixed for Japanese

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan today had mixed reactions to the recently ended London economic summit.

Toshiwo Doko, head of Japan's prestigious Federation of Economic Organizations (Keidanren), praised participating nations for resolving to work together for a world-wide economic recovery and called on Japan to do its part.

But Japanese opposition leaders claimed the summit failed to yield concrete results and said Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda did not successfully explain Japan's position on important issues such as nuclear power utilization.

Hideo Den, director of the Japan Socialist Party (JSP) International Affairs Bureau, said the summit only increased conflicts of interest among participating nations; He said the poor results show Fukuda lacks the ability to govern the country effectively.

Physics students make bottle music

TWIN FALLS — In one room of the CSI gym last week students were busily filling pop bottles with water to get the right notes for Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star.

On the balcony of the gym, another group of youngsters was packing eggs in boxes filled with popcorn and styrofoam, and letting the containers fall to the ground to see if the eggs could survive.

The students, all drawn from high school physics classes in Twin Falls, and Jerome, were competing in the first-ever physics olympics staged at the college.

Other events in the competition included a paper airplane flying contest where time of flight and distance determined winners; a slow bike race where the longest time won, and two separate physics quizzes.

Winners of the bottle music competition were Julie Fouts, Kili Gilks and Kit Gilks, who composed the Twin Falls No. 3 team; second place went to Larry Hunter, DeWitt Marshall and Ann Bertus of the Jerome No. 1 team.

First drop winners were Bryce Berry and Doug Egbert of the Jerome No. 3 team; second place went to Pete Newton and Wayne Herr of the Twin Falls No. 2 team.

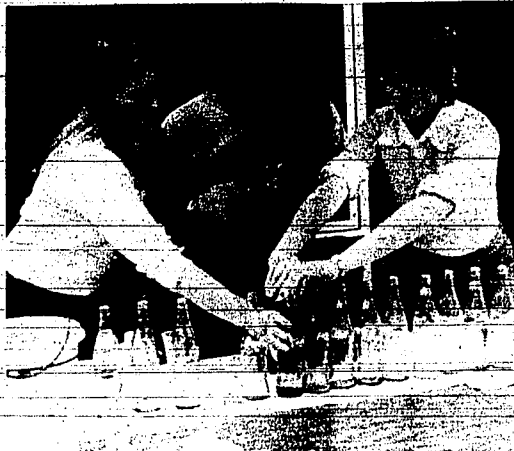

Winners of the slow bike race were Jay Yeggy and Scott Davis of the Twin Falls No. 3 team; second place went to Scott Jackson and Keith Harrell of the Jerome No. 2 team.

Don Allen and Larry Hunter of the Jerome No. 1 team won the paper airplane flying contest, while Scott Jackson and Kevin Vanlister of the Jerome No. 2 team took second.

Physics quizzes were all won by Twin Falls teams!

The overall championship was won by the Twin Falls No. 3 team.

Team advisors for the event were teachers Mickey Miller of Jerome and Gary Messinger of Twin Falls.

Swedish car firms unite

© Chicago Daily News
Sweden's two largest auto makers—Volvo and Saab-Scania—plan to merge.

The board of directors of both companies made the decision, announced yesterday.

A Volvo spokesman said the merger was motivated by slow economic growth during the recent worldwide recession, auto production overcapacity in Western Europe, and gains in sales of Japanese cars in Europe and United States.

He added that developing countries are starting to establish car industries, which will add to competition for sales.

"Certainly, there's excess production capacity in the European auto industry," Ron Glantz, an auto analyst for Mitchell-Hutchins in New York told The Chicago Daily News. "That's because most European auto makers have been too optimistic about demand."

"Most don't have economies of scale. Only Ford of Europe, Volkswagen, Fiat and possibly General Motors do," he noted.

Economies of scale are the lower production costs per unit that result from large-scale production. That's partly because the auto-making industry has high fixed costs—particularly for machinery—that don't vary much, regardless of output.

"I think it makes a lot of sense for Saab and Volvo to merge," Glantz said. "Some models would be eliminated and you'd have some gains in economies of scale."

Glantz noted there has been a trend towards merger in the European auto industry. Renault merged with Citroën; Lancia with Fiat; Audi and Porsche with Volkswagen; Morris and Leyland with Austin; and Rootes and Simca with Chrysler.

"Eventually, I expect about four major European auto makers and three or four smaller ones will remain. The rest will be merged-out of existence," Glantz said.

A Volvo spokesman said shareholders in Volvo and Saab-Scania would get the chance to transfer their shares to the new company, called Volvo-Saab-Scania, but first discussions are planned with employee representatives.

Federal aides investigate child pornography flow

© 1977 Chicago Sun-Times
CHICAGO — Federal agents are conducting an investigation aimed at stemming the flow of child pornography into dozens of U.S. cities, federal authorities have revealed.

The action, ordered by the Justice Department, has been conducted primarily by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in co-operation with local police here and in other cities.

Federal sources said yesterday a report of the investigation's findings is being prepared to be the basis for federal grand jury indictments in California and New York, where authorities say most of the child-pornography films and magazines are produced and shipped around the country through interstate commerce.

Child-pornography materials are sold in Chicago, primarily from the under the counter at so-called adult bookstores, but there is no indication any of the photography is done here, Lt. James Kieley of the police vice control division said.

Materials that surface here originated on the East or West coasts, in Florida or New Orleans, or are imports from Denmark or Sweden, Kieley said.

But Kieley and other investigators said the flow of child porn here recently slowed to a trickle for several reasons.

One is that crime syndicate involvement in the racket has been quashed, apparently by top mob figures themselves. An informant told investigators here that lower-echelon mobsters eagerly entered the lucrative child-porn market, but were ordered by their bosses to stop.

The informant explained that mob leaders not only were personally repulsed by the material but feared the heat its sale would bring from law enforcement agencies.

The focus of the investigation here has been the Capital News Agency distributor of pornographic material for the city's adult bookstores.

Its owner, Rubin Sternfeld, of Cleveland, is "a big advocate of child pornography," according to sources in Chicago city government. Under pressure from the city's licensing agency, Sternfeld's representatives promised to funnel no more of this type of pornography into Chicago.

Southern man sells $20 million in land

BURNSVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — E.L. Briggs is selling off 15,000 acres of land, reportedly valued at $20 million, because he's 74 and has no heirs—and that's too much property for an old man to own.

So what else promotional brochures are dubbing "North Carolina's sale of the century" is set for May 25.

Briggs' 29 parcels of land will go on the auction block at a Charlotte hotel.

Much of the land is located near Mount Mitchell in the old mountainous Yancey County. Other tracts are located in other western counties — Rutherford, Burke, Sampson, Mecklenburg and Avery.

A 3,200-acre tract in Rutherford County, known as the Vein Mountain Properties includes the largest gold field in the state, Briggs claims. Between 1800 and 1840, more than $2.25 million in gold was mined there by slaves, he says. The 2,385 acres in Yancey County, known as the Ray Boundary, and including Mt. Cole, contains more than 200 mica mines alone. Also in the package to be auctioned are oil and gas leases on 1,600 acres in Alaska, which Briggs says he won in a Department of the Interior lottery in the 1950s.

Briggs admits he doesn't really know just how many acres he owns. However, one of his Burnsville neighbors said, "You can't hardly buy any property in Yancey County that's not next to or across the road from something he owns."

Briggs, explaining the woes of a property owner, says, "Besides I'm getting tired of having to worry about whether everybody's toilet is working or whether they've got a broken pipe. Why, I've gotten calls at 3 o'clock in the morning from somebody saying something needs fixing.

"I've been a slave to the real estate for years and I want to sell it so I can retire from my law practice."

Briggs left Burnsville at the age of 15 to go to Detroit where he made $5 a day working for Henry Ford. He returned to the state to study law at the University of North Carolina. In 1926, Briggs says he left school with $3 in his pocket and went to Asheville to get in on the real estate boom. He made a fortune, but he says he lost it in the 1929 crash.

Justice Bird wishes for reporting work

© 1977 Chicago Sun-Times
SAN FRANCISCO — Even in her new celebrity status as California's first female chief justice, Rose Bird still wishes she were a foreign correspondent.

"Especially when I have to sit at a desk all day," said Ms. Bird, who carried a dream of overseas assignment through her college days, where legendary reporters, such as Edward R. Murrow and Elmer Davis, were her heroes.

There may still be a chance for travel, however, said Ms. Bird, because speaking engagements are pouring in at a rate of about 10 a day for the new head of the most prestigious state court in the country. "I got one from Kansas City the other day," she said archly, in an interview in her chambers.

It's likely those offers will continue to roll in for the 40-year-old chief justice of the California Supreme Court, who will Suse Sharp, 69, of North Carolina, is the only other woman ever to hold such a post.

People will be interested in her because she is a novelty, as she has been throughout her legal career. She was the first female law clerk for the Nevada Supreme Court and the first female assistant public defender in Santa Clara County, California, where she worked eight years on trial and appellate matters.

In 1975, she became California's first woman cabinet secretary, heading the agriculture and services agency, which deals with anything from farm labor and franchise taxes to veterans' affairs, retirement plans and consumer complaints.

She was appointed to the cabinet—and court—posts by California's young, maverick governor, Edmund G. Brown Jr., whom Ms. Bird met when both were students at the University of California at Berkeley in the 1950s. Born in Tucson, Ariz., and reared in upstate New York, Ms. Bird was studying political science. That led to a job as a legislative assistant in the California assembly, before the lure of law school ended her aspirations about foreign correspondence.

Few allies foreseen in US energy war

© Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — The United States will have no allies in the energy war until Americans, who consume a third of the world's oil, mend their "profligate" ways, according to senior U.S. officials.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher—in congressional testimony, said 18 other industrialized nations are jointly studying energy-saving plans of their own, but there is "no hope" of binding international agreements on conservation in the immediate future.

"The United States must show that it has the determination and the will to establish an energy program of its own before it can realistically expect others to join with us," Christopher said. "In many ways we are the most profligate of all."

Chairman Thomas L. Ashley (D-Ohio) of the House Ad Hoc Energy Committee told Christopher that the wait-and-see attitude of other energy-consuming nations troubles him.

"That really doesn't suggest a lack of urgency here in the United States," Christopher replied. "It's just that this particular international group

(the International Energy Agency) has not gone to the point of establishing any firm rules. Perhaps that's something that needs to be more fully explored."

Earlier, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance also discussed the attitude of other member nations of the International Energy Agency.

"While progress has been significant," Vance said, "other member countries have looked to the United States to take the lead in adopting a strong and comprehensive national energy program."

At a White House breakfast Wednesday morning, President Carter told members of the House energy panel that his energy program had been greeted by "almost unanimous acclamation" in Western European countries.

Ketchum may lose rail line

KETCHUM — The Union Pacific Railroad is considering the abandonment of several branch lines in Idaho, one of which delivers and picks up freight here weekly.

The railroad recently told the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) that several Idaho branch lines might "be the subject of abandonment applications" within three years, according to UP officials.

Under new ICC regulations, the railroad is required to inform the ICC of any branch line abandonment studies.

In mid-April the railroad published in state newspapers maps designating branch lines that might be affected in the future, according to C.R. Rockwell, public relations officer for Union Pacific.

Rockwell said the maps designated affected branch lines in three categories — first, those lines on which UP anticipates abandonment applications in three years, second, those lines potentially subject to abandonment but under a specific time frame, and third, lines for which abandonment applications had already been filed.

UP indicated it anticipates abandonment proceedings in three years on the branches from Richfield to Ketchum, Newdale to Buhl, Ararat to West Yellowstone and Wells to Rogerson.

Rockwell said ongoing economic studies are made of all the railroad's lines — and that no decision has been reached concerning the Ketchum line. He said the line does little business, with freight service here once a week and was probably operating at a loss.

"The ICC requirements have brought up a comment but no action on our part," Rockwell said. "A decision to abandon the line will depend on continuing economic studies, he said."

Under the second category, UP lists "all lines potentially subject to abandonment which the carrier has under study and believes may be the study of a future abandonment application because of anticipated operating losses or excessive rehabilitation losses as compared to potential revenues."

Those branches reportedly include Shoshone to Richfield, Richfield to Hill City, Rubicon to New Meadows, Alexander to Grace and Rogerson to Twin Falls.

Bliss names new mayor

BLISS — Roland Zollinger has been appointed mayor of Bliss, replacing Ray Armstrong who died last week of a heart attack.

Zollinger, who was president of the council, was appointed at the monthly meeting Wednesday, according to Mrs. Frank Jenkins, city clerk.

Councilman Vernon Behrens was named president of the council. The appointment to fill Zollinger's council seat will not be made until the June meeting, Mrs. Jenkins said.

The clerk said most of the discussion at the Wednesday night meeting concerned appreciation for the late mayor and the many projects he was promoting for Bliss.

"He was dedicated and loved his town," the clerk said.

Libyans return good will visit

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Following a goodwill tour made to Libya by a contingent of Idahoans in February, Libya could soon be buying Idaho wheat, peas and perhaps other U.S. products.

Residents of Idaho and Libya, separated by half the globe, traded good will visits this year to become better friends and to initiate economic ties.

Last week, over a luncheon of sheepherder lamb stew and sourdough bread, a contingent of Libyan scientists and officials visited the Laird Noh home, and were shown how an Idaho sheep farm operates.

The visit, a return gesture for one paid to Libya by Idahoans Cong. Steve Symms, Boise, Vern Ravenscroft, Tuffie, and others; is a first step toward establishing closer ties between the Libyan-Arab Republic and the U.S., especially Idaho.

Libya, a desert land in northern Africa, is becoming wealthy through vast oil sales to the U.S. and other countries and may soon be interested in purchasing U.S. wheat, peas and other commodities and products.

"We need to have some offers from the USA and will take them back to our country for evaluation by our officials," Mohammed-Burki, head of the North American section of the foreign affairs of the General People Conference of Libya, said.

Since the U.S. already purchases from one-third to two-thirds of the 1.6 million barrels of oil produced in Libya each day, the purchase of U.S. products by the Libyan government would help the balance of trade between the two countries.

In addition, Libyan agricultural experts, who are making a gargantuan effort to convert the sandy arid deserts of Libya to lush irrigated farmlands protected by extensive forested windbreaks, want to learn more about farming techniques used in Idaho and other parts of the U.S.

"I would like to see the transfer of technology," Dr. Abdalla R. Bubbana said in Twin Falls Friday.

Bubbana is director of research at Garyounis University, Benghazi, Libya.

He said Libyans are carrying out many agricultural research projects and the Libyan government is currently sponsoring about 2,500 of its students to attend universities in this country to learn about U.S. technology.

Currently, Libya is subsidizing compulsory education for its people and paying select graduate students as much as $1,000 a month to attend foreign schools, according to Ravenscroft.

Ravenscroft, president of the Carey Act Association, said the Libyans have launched a massive program to raise the standard of living in their country which includes free education and free housing.

Jim Araji, University of Idaho professor and former Libyan resident, said the Libyan government has allocated $7 billion for its education program over the next five years.

In addition, the Libyan government is contracting huge development projects within its borders and paying for them with money earned from its oil sales, according to Ravenscroft.

One such project, a $250-million desalination plant, takes the salt out of sea water, using petroleum power, and supplies the domestic water for the city of Benghazi.

The city does not waste any part of the water it reclaim from the sea, either. Sewage from the city is treated, the solid waste is used for fertilizer and the purified water irrigates ever-growing segments of the desert around Benghazi.

One huge irrigation project contracted to an American company, the Kofra Project, is already in operation and uses fossil water buried deep in the substrata beneath the desert to irrigate thousands of acres of heretofore arid lands, Araji said.

He said the Libyans are growing hay, barley and wheat on the lands they have reclaimed from the desert. Another project near Gheffara, may be used to grow potatoes. Other products being considered include sheep and cotton.

All of these projects are part of a plan to give some life to the Libyan economy which does not depend upon the sale of oil, according to Ravenscroft.

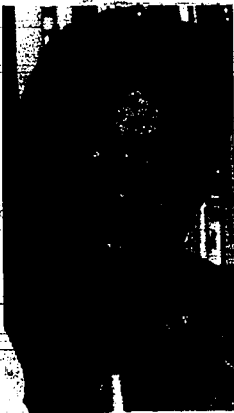

Bubbana said the Libyan government is aware of the temporary nature of its oil supply, although the country has one of the largest untapped supplies of it in the world.

"Our oil is the best in the world," he said about the low sulphur product native to his country.

He added the Libyan government has recently taken steps to reduce its annual sales of oil in an attempt to conserve the supply.

Last week's visit may mark the beginning of significant economic relations between Idaho and Libya, according to Bubbana.

Bubbana said visits such as this one are valuable in initiating economic ties because they are "important in terms of the intellectual process, people to people relationships."

Gem April jobless rate down slightly

TWIN FALLS — The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for Idaho dropped a tenth of a percent from March to April, the Idaho Department of Employment reported today.

The rate dropped from 6.5 per cent to 6.4 per cent, according to an employment department release.

"April marks the second month in a row Idaho's unemployment rate has declined," the release said. However, it noted, "the slight decrease does not signify any sizable improvement in the state's economy although it is moving in the desired direction."

Idaho's unemployment rate dropped three tenths of a per cent in March from 6.8 in February.

"This year's employment levels in the state continue to outdistance those for the same time periods of last year in most industries," the release said.

Although the spring breakup of roads caused a nine per cent decrease in logging activity from February through March, there were still 600 more people employed in the industry than at the same time last year.

Historically, March through May are the worst months for employment in the logging industry. "This year's drought conditions could alter this seasonal pattern substantially," the release said. "There have been rumors of closing down many logging operations for longer periods of time than is normal during the summer, because of dry forest conditions."

"Due to the lack of winter moisture, most forests are quickly reaching dangerous levels of dryness and could become potential fire traps by early summer instead of late summer or early fall," the release said.

The lumber industry as a whole is operating at 10.7 per cent higher than last year's levels at this time, the release said.

Most of this increase can be attributed to increases in uses of sawmills, according to the release. A "slight increase" has occurred in the manufacturing of mobile homes from lumber, the release added.

Employment has also risen 11 per cent above what it was last year, according to the release.

Minico plans orientation

RUBERT — Minidoka County schools will hold a pre-school orientation day next Friday for all children who will be 6 years old by Oct. 15.

The session will be from 8:30 a.m. to noon, with lunch available for children at 45 cents each and adults at 70 cents.

Floyd Merrill, district curriculum director, said each elementary school will have an orientation program to acquaint children with the school building, class routine and the hot lunch program.

Informational meetings are also slated for parents at each building during the morning.

"He said youngsters living on the bus routes are being encouraged to ride the bus to school in the morning, but parents will have to pick the children up at noon.

Students now in the first grade will not go to school that day.

Merrill emphasized "the importance of every child entering first grade being registered, so that sufficient supplies and materials can be ordered and on hand for next fall."

The one-morning session also is the only classroom orientation for most youngsters in Minidoka County.

The district does not have a kindergarten program. The school board has twice rejected efforts by parents to have a kindergarten program started in the district.

GEOMETRY Instructor Dan Nielsen of Twin Falls High School helps students get his kite off the ground. About 250 students from advanced mathematics and geometry classes participated in the annual kite-flying get-together.

The students both like and hate the designs they've been studying all year long. "It gives them a chance to relax a bit from the theories," says Nielsen.

Markets

Stocks at Midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market was slightly lower early Monday in slow trading of New York Stock Exchange issues. Despite optimistic economic forecasts, the market could not generate a rally because of interest-rate fears.

The National Association of Purchasing Management reported a 75-per-cent favorable outlook for the economy over the next 12 months among its members, the most optimistic appraisal in four years.

Yet, the investors failed to report in that outlook on the government report last week that unemployment dropped to 7 per cent from 7.3 per cent, the lowest level in 29 months.

Wall Street was disturbed that a surge in the nation's basic money supply would cause the Federal Reserve Board, which acted last week, to tighten credit further. That could cause interest rates to rise.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 6.70 points Friday, was off 3 1/2 points to 933.26 shortly before noon EDT. It gained more than 9 points last week.

Breadth figures reflected investor uncertainty. Of the 1,600 issues crossing the tape, 550 declined, 515 advanced and 535 remained unchanged.

Volume at the three-hour market amounted to about 6,000,000 shares, down from the $10.0 million traded Friday.

Sunflowers

New cash crop in the Midwest

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Just as smart as the sunflower. We shipped 250,000 tons of sunflowers to Europe last year.

"Sunflowers will return about $50 to $60 more an acre than wheat this year," grower Kieberg said.

Hayner reported that Europeans buy 50 per cent of the sunflowers raised for oil.

A couple of years ago, he said, the Soviet Union sold sunflower oil to Europe to raise money for wheat purchases from Canada and the United States. The European housewife liked the oil so well, he said, it is replacing traditional oil.

But, the U.S. sunflower oil market is still in infancy.

With the current low prices for both wheat and cotton, Kieberg's Herbert Steed said, farmers are looking to sunflowers as a cash crop. He said growers in the Red River Valley alone will plant 800,000 acres, up about 300,000 from last year.

"We are seeing more and more interest by farmers in southwest Kansas, western and southwestern Nebraska," Steed said. "There's also a lot more inquiries from Iowa and Michigan."

Zimmer said nationally 1.6 million to 2 million acres would be planted to sunflowers. He said there should be plenty of seed available but farmers may not get the particular variety they close. "I'm sure that sunflower is the best, corn is second and the soybean is a close third. "Peanut, palm and coconut oil have the most undesirable fats for the human diet."

For the farmer who has heard little of sunflowers, Kieberg said, the growing season is similar to corn. They can use a regular corn planter to seed the kernel, a corn cultivator to keep the weeds out, and harvest the sunflower seeds with a grain combine.

"Sunflowers grown in North Dakota and Minnesota produce about 1,000 to 1,100 pounds of seed per acre. The average return has been about 10 cents a pound, although the price this spring ranged between 13 and 17 cents."

The sunflower is considered a noxious weed in Iowa but in Kansas it is the state flower. Kansas Alf Landon campaigned with "sunflower buttons" in his 1936 loss to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Home-made and Cargill have test-marketed margarine and a cooking oil made from sunflowers. The oil, Hayenga said, is preferred by gourmet cooks who say flavorings can be added without adverse reaction.

Dave Zimmer of the U.S. Department of Agriculture office in Fargo, N.D., said his wife uses sunflower oil for everything from fried chicken to popcorn.

"If you leave a popcorn pan overnight said, "there is a smell of it," Zimmer said, "there is a smell. Sunflower oil doesn't have any smell."

Zimmer said sunflowers can be grown from Texas to the Canadian border "because it is a native Great Plains plant. It's drought-resistant. Sunflowers could turn into a major crop with the high prices of soybeans."

Record number of cattle tested for brucellosis

BOISE — Brucellosis testing of cattle in Idaho reached an all-time high during 1976 with a total of 410,639 checked for the disease — a 2.46, (1.0 per cent) of which were found to be infected.

The state veterinarian said an outbreak of the disease in eastern Idaho brought about a joint federal-state testing program for all female cattle and bulls in the 10 eastern counties. In the other counties of south Idaho, all known-infected herds and those herds which have had contact with herds known to be infected must be tested, he added.

Animals found to be infected are sent to slaughter and the owner receives up to $62.50 indemnity from the federal and state governments for the grade cattle in addition to salvage value paid by the packing house. Indemnity is twice that amount for purebred cattle, Schneider explained.

All cattle owners in the ten eastern Idaho counties are being required to test their cattle for the disease, according to Schneider.

In order to obtain grazing permits for state, BLM or Forest Service land, cattle must be tested for brucellosis, Schneider said.

News tips 733-0931

76ERS' Julius Erving soars head and shoulders above the Houston defense en route to the bucket in the first periods of their game Sunday. The Sixers seemed sluggish but countered the energy when they needed it to down Houston 104-87 and take a 3-0 lead in their best of seven series.

Sixers soar

Blazers edge Lakers 99-97

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Veteran Herm Gilliam hit a scoop shot with 1:03 to go and Lionel Hollins added a free throw with 11 seconds remaining Sunday to give the Portland Trail Blazers a 99-97 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers for a 2-0 lead by their NBA semifinal playoff series.

Gilliam, a backcourt reserve behind Hollins and rookie Johnny Davis, scored five crucial baskets in the last 5:30 as the Trail Blazers rebounded from a seven-point deficit in the fourth quarter.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Lakers won his personal battle with Bill Walton by pouring in 40 points to only 14 for the Portland center. But he missed a shot with five seconds left that would have tied the game.

Abdul-Jabbar made a stuff shot with 1:22 to play to put the Lakers ahead 97-96. But Gilliam, who finished with 24 points including 14 in the fourth period, put Portland ahead for good with his scoop shot.

Hollins, who led the Portland attack with 31 points, 22 of them in the first half, was fouled by Don Ford after Gilliam missed a shot and hit the second of two free throws to put the Trail Blazers in front by two.

Portland led 26-25 after one quarter and 54-51 at the half, but the Lakers, outscoring their opponents 16-2 in a six-minute stretch, went in front 69-60 at 4:58 of the third quarter. The Lakers held an 11-point lead, 77-66, with 37 seconds remaining in the period and took a 77-70 advantage into the final quarter.

In the fourth period, the Lakers led 91-84 after an Abdul-Jabbar layup with 5:50 left. But Gilliam then connected on three straight baskets to cut the lead to 91-90.

Abdul-Jabbar made a pair of free throws with 3:37 left to put Los Angeles up 93-90. But Gilliam hit a basket with 3:25 to go and Walton sank an eight-foot hook shot with 2:33 left to put Portland ahead 94-93.

Ford gave Los Angeles the lead again at 1:53 on two free throws, but Hollins took a perfect Walton pass and scored a layup to put the Trail Blazers ahead again 96-96 with 1:41 showing.

In the battle of the big men, Abdul-Jabbar and Walton each got 17 rebounds while Walton had two assists to one for Abdul-Jabbar and held a 4-3 edge in blocks and steals.

In addition to his 31 points, Hollins had seven assists.

Maurice Lucas, who scored 20 points in Portland's 121-109 victory here Friday night, settled for 15 in the series' second game while Cazzie Russell scored 21 for the Lakers.

Sixers go up two on Houston

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Darryl Dawkins again came off the bench Sunday and teamed with Julius Erving to lead fourth quarter rally that carried the Philadelphia 76ers to a 106-97 win over the Houston Rockets in the second game of the NBA Eastern Conference finals.

The victory gave the 76ers a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series with the two teams playing in Houston Wednesday and Friday.

The 76ers watched a 12-point halftime lead with 10:40 to spare at the end of the third quarter. The Rockets stayed within three points in the opening moments of the fourth period before the 76ers ran off eight straight points to take a 94-83 lead with 6:17 to play.

In the fourth quarter, the 26-year-old Dawkins, who also sparked the 76ers coming off the bench in Thursday night's win, hit two baskets, including a devastating slam dunk, and Erving and Henry Bibby added jump shots. Dawkins hit another basket and Erving a pair as the 76ers stretched the advantage to 100-85 with 3:20 to play and the Rockets were never able to get back to within nine points after that.

Before the fourth quarter rally the 76ers had to withstand brilliant third period performances by Rudy Tomjanovich and Calvin Murphy.

Tomjanovich scored 16 points in the quarter and Murphy added 12 of his game-high 32 points as Houston recovered from a 57-41 halftime deficit to tie the game twice, the last time at 75-73 on a jumper by Murphy with 2:46 to go.

Erving finished with 18 points, 10 in the fourth period, while Dawkins had six of his 13 points in the final period. George McGinnis led the 76ers with 21 points and Doug Collins added 20.

The Rockets tried to build a 14-point lead in the first half once they got their running game in gear. Houston's last lead of the game was 72-71 in the opening moments of the second quarter before Philadelphia ran off seven straight points to go up 32-32 with 8:24 to play.

Andretti captures Spanish Prix

MADRID (UPI) — American Mario Andretti won his second consecutive victory Sunday by dominating the Spanish Automobile Grand Prix from start to finish and winning by a 16-second margin from Carlos Reutemann of Argentina.

Andretti, 37, of Nazareth, Pa., won the United States Grand Prix West in Long Beach, Calif., last month. The repeat performance indicated that, at long last, an American might end European and South American dominance of Grand Prix racing.

"It was a fantastic performance," Lotus Team Manager Colin Chapman said.

"Very few drivers can do what Andretti did. He was fastest in the five practice sessions and he dragged them off the start. We will see him win some more races this season and he can certainly do well in the World Drivers Championship."

Andretti, who received the winner's laurels from King Juan Carlos, a driving fan, said he drove "the second man's (Reutemann's) pace. Now and then I tried to pick up a second, but I did not drive as fast as I could."

Andretti's Lotus MK3 covered the 75 laps (158.7 miles) of the twisting Jarama circuit in one hour, 42 minutes, 52.22 seconds, averaging 91.8 miles an hour.

Reutemann, driving a Ferrari, finished in 1:43:08.07 and Jody Scheckter of South Africa in a Wolf Ford was third in 1:43:18.73.

The Spanish Grand Prix was the first classic of the European season and the fifth counting toward the 1977 driving championship. The next will be held at Monte Carlo.

Andretti's victory gave him nine championship points, boosting his total to 28. This put him into second place behind Scheckter, who leads with 23.

Reutemann's 19 points put him into a third place tie with former world champion Niki Lauda of Austria, followed by defending champion James Hunt of Britain.

Neither Lauda nor Hunt were lucky in Sunday's race.

Lauda bumped a rib in a final untimed practice run a few hours before the race. He complained about pains and respiratory problems and withdrew, even though X-rays showed that nothing was broken. The mishap apparently affected the same ribs that Lauda broke when he fell off a tractor on his Austrian farm last year.

Mechanical trouble forced Hunt out early in the race when he was running sixth.

Another case of mechanical problems was Jacques Villeneuve of France, who started behind Andretti in the front line and held second place for the first quarter of the race before he pulled into the pits.

"I was worried at the start that Laiffe might beat me to the corner to take the lead, but he didn't," Andretti said.

He said he was sorry Lauda did not race. "I hate to see a competitor go off like that," he added.

How did it feel winning his second consecutive Grand Prix?

"Like making love," he replied with a grin.

"It's always like the first time. Winning is always sweet."

Andretti said his car was "working perfectly. I cannot thank the team enough. It's been so long since I was able to dominate a race like today."

Racing in Madrid, sunny weather before a crowd of more than 100,000, a total of 14 drivers in the field of 23 finished.

Riding Club meet set

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Junior Riding Club will hold its first meeting of the year Thursday at 7 p.m. at Qualls' Arena. Riders age 9-18 are invited to join the club but must provide their own horse and tack.

Riders interested in joining the club should attend Thursday's organizational meeting or call John White, 733-5294, or William Hill, 324-9070.

After Thursday's meeting the club will meet every Tuesday, and Thursday until after the fair.

To reach Qualls' Arena, follow Falls Avenue two miles east of the intersection with Blue Lakes Blvd. and then go three-fourths of a mile north.

Pirates seek grid foe

HAGERMAN — The Hagerman Pirates have an open date in the 1977 high school football schedule and are looking for an opponent.

The Pirates don't have a game scheduled for Oct. 21, according to Ron Knowles, head coach at Hagerman High School.

The Hagerman Pirates are an A-4 high school which plays 11-man football.

The coach would like to have a home game scheduled on the open date.

Interested coaches who would consider playing against the Pirates should contact Coach Knowles at 487-4572.

USC wins volleyball title

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Southern Cal trounced Ohio State 15-7, 9-15, 15-10 and 15-12 Saturday night to win the NCAA volleyball championship at Pauley Pavilion.

In an earlier game, Pepperdine defeated Rutgers 15-8, 15-6 to win third place.

The NCAA all-tournament team was selected. The members are Nestor Pawlowsky, Rutgers; Aldis Berzins, Ohio State; Mike Buckingham, Ohio State; Marc Waldie, Ohio State; Bob Yoder, USC.

Celso Calanche of USC was selected most valuable player.

BYU takes WAC golf

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Jamie Edman fired a five-under-par 67 Saturday to win the Individual crown and power Brigham Young University to a sixth straight Western Athletic Conference golf championship.

The victory on the 2,000-yard Riverside Country Club course was the ninth team title for the Cougars, and Edman's one-stroke win gave Brigham Young the medalist trophy for the fourth year in a row.

Danes hit birds best

MALMO, Sweden (UPI) — Denmark won both the men's and women's singles titles Sunday at the first World Badminton Championships.

Lene Køppen, a 24-year-old Copenhagen dentist, was the first to bring the 3,000 Danes in the crowd of 4,000 to their feet by defeating England's Gillian Gillis, 12-9, 12-18 minutes.

Fleming Delfs then defeated his 31-year-old compatriot, Svend Pri, 15-5, 15-6, to take the men's title.

Floyd nips Crenshaw for Nelson title

DALLAS (UPI) — Ray Floyd, trailing by three shots with four holes to play, rolled in an eagle putt on the par-five 15th Sunday; withstood the season's first hint of summer-like heat and outduelled Ben Crenshaw "down the stretch" to capture the Byron Nelson Golf Classic by two shots.

It was the first triumph of the year for Floyd, who last year fulfilled his potential by running away with the Masters and earning almost $200,000.

The 14-year-old veteran won despite the constant pressure being applied by Crenshaw, who to the delight of the partisan home state gallery, dropped an eagle putt of his own at the 15th to seize a brief three-shot lead.

Floyd, however, followed with his 25-foot eagle to cut the deficit to one, drew even when Crenshaw bogeyed the par-four 17th and vaulted in front with an eight-foot birdie putt on that hole. Crenshaw staggered in with another bogey on the final hole to leave Floyd a two-shot winner.

Floyd fired a two-under par 69 over the Preston Trail Golf Club course for a 72-hole total of eight-under 276, good for the top prize of $40,000.

Crenshaw, who also was looking for his first win of 1977, shot a 71 for a 278 and took home $22,800.

Andy Bean, who opened the tournament with a horrendous 79, put together a 67 Sunday and tied Lyn Lott for third place at five-under 279. Each earned $11,800.

Don January was alone at four-under while Jerry McGee, Kermil Zarley and David Graham all were at three-under.

"I'm certainly not very pleased, right now," Crenshaw said after his late-round collapse. "A lot of people were cheering for me and I sure hate to let them down."

Floyd and Crenshaw started the day tied at two under and Floyd quickly leaped in front by two shots, thanks to some spectacular recoveries.

He put his tee shot on the second hole in a fairway bunker, exploded out short of the green and then held a 7-foot chip shot for a birdie. On the par-five third hole Floyd almost knocked his tee shot out of bounds, gouged the ball out of the deep rough back into play, hit his third shot 15 feet from the hole and sank that for another birdie.

Suddenly he was two shots in front, but he bogeyed the seventh and eighth as Crenshaw was getting ready and when Crenshaw made his eagle at the 15th the tournament seemed over.

And Floyd's comeback not only gave him the Nelson title, but won him a place in this year's World Series of Golf. Floyd won the World Open after last year's World Series and winners of two or more events in a single season qualifies for that rich tournament.

The Nelson was the ninth tour victory for Floyd and boosted his career earnings to less than $45,000 away from the $1 million mark.

Leading money winner Tom Watson finished the event with a five-over par 289 while Loo Trevino posted a 282 and Gary Player a 283.

"It's been a long tough week and I am drained," said Floyd, who said the 93 degree heat and high humidity came close to taking its toll.

"I feel like I could drop," he said. "This is one of the few tournaments I can ever remember where I was just a few shots ahead or a few shots behind all week. And that takes something out of you. Usually when I win I kind of get out in front and gallop."

The victory brought several bonuses for Floyd.

"This gets me in the World Series, and it locks me in on the Ryder Cup team," he said. "I'm building a new house in Miami and it comes to mind that this will help pay for it."

Russell molded aloof Seattle image

By JOHN ENGSTROM
UPI Sports Writer

SEATTLE (UPI) — It began as "the greatest coach in sports history" and ended four years later with Bill Russell hiding his delicate ego from the public which had welcomed him in the beginning as a savior.

But then no one expected him to be "around when it came time to admit failure."

Russell built any image during his reign as the aloof and distant director of the Seattle SuperSonics. It was not the haughty, precisely tailored man of wit and intelligence that we so often pictured.

Mostly, it was the unqualified number, the empty office, the unanswered question, the closed door, and the unreturned call.

Mostly it was nobody at all.

So it was not surprising that Russell was represented by a written statement delivered by his lawyer which was "freed" from his duties as coach and general manager of the Sonics on May 4.

No one used the word "fired." He was "released" from his contract and "leaving."

But those were simply more comfortable words for a man who seemed always to need the appearance of total control over his own comings and goings.

How different that silent exit was from his first appearance on a late spring day in 1973 when his "toothy grin and stylish repartee" seduced a roomful of sports journalists.

His loud and distinctive laugh, something akin to a quickly gulped yodel — led a constant chorus of guffaws and grins. The reception painted a veneer of truth on Sonic owner Sam Schulman's claim to the coup which sports historians would put at the top of their lists.

"Bill Russell is a complete change with no interference from any levels tolerated," said Schulman as he created the post of dictator for the man who was to raise his franchise from the death of a 20-56 season.

That image of unquestioned power — and the resulting "uncompromised" responsibility — stuck in the minds of fans. It was tossed back at him in his past season when, after an unpopular trade, a banner in the Coliseum read: "Der Fuhrer Strikes Again — Trade Russell."

Perhaps the most confusing aspect of Russell's time in Seattle was the direct opposition between his life as a loner and his demand that Sonic players knit themselves into the solid fabric of a self-sacrificing, sensitive team — almost a family.

"Whatever we do we must do together," he said at the beginning. "Basketball is a team game."

Yet, were it not for the demands of his periodic presence at practice sessions and the spot reserved for him at every game, Russell would have made a perfect neighbor for Howard Hughes.

"I don't anticipate running into a player that I can't get along with," he said before his first season. Yet he made enemies among his players and then traded them away or bought off their contracts.

Others on the team complained they did not know what he expected of them, to which Russell answered:

"If there is a lack of communications between myself and my players, I am totally unaware of it. If there is a lack of communications, then I must be totally insensitive, which I don't think I am. But as far as I am concerned, there is no lack of communications and never has been."

That from a man chosen by Time Magazine in 1974 as one of 200 men and women expected to provide a new generation of leadership for the country.

It was leadership — demanding, motivating, unifying — which was so lacking in his final mediocre season with the Sonics. At the end he admitted "there wasn't a whole lot I could do."

Others felt there was much more he should have been doing all along, Schulman for one.

"My disappointment has reached as high as my own disappointment can be at this time," he said after the team failed to make the playoffs following two years of promising but short-lived season appearances.

"I just have a feeling of despair," he added. "Either you have a well-oiled, disciplined team that goes out to win every night, or you don't. We'll have to do whatever is possible to correct the problem."

KARL WALLEMDA, 72, a high-wire artist for 56 years, walked across Candelstick Park in San Francisco between games of a Giants-Mets doubleheader Sunday on a 500-foot wire strung between the upper decks in left and right bleachers. Wallemda completed his feat in 15 minutes. One can only wonder if he felt lousy some of the younger star athletes any longer.

Giants' pitchers silence Mets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — John Curtiss pitched a rain-shortened, two-hit 6-1 inning shutout Sunday in leading the San Francisco Giants to a 10-0 victory and a doubleheader sweep of the New York Mets.

Jim Bates, with help from Gary Lavelle and Randy Moffitt in the ninth, pitched the Giants to a 4-2 victory in the opener.

The Giants had 24 hits, 12 in each game and the sweep boosted them into second place in the National League West, while the Mets fell deeper into the East cellar. Tim Lincecum and Rob Anderson each had three hits in the nightcap as John Malack suffered his fourth loss in five decisions.

Anderson wound up with three RBI and four Met errors accounted for four other Giant runs.

Cards turn triple play

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Bake McBride hit a run-scoring single to tie the game in the third inning and then scored the winning run on Kelli Hernandez' single as the St. Louis Cardinals, aided by a triple play, downed the Houston Astros 2-1 Sunday.

The win went to reliever Buddy Schatz, now 0-1, who replaced St. Louis starter John D'Acquisto after four innings.

Horton homers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Willie Horton belted a pair of two-run homers, including a mammoth 420-foot shot in the eighth inning, to back the combined six-hit pitching of Bert Blyleven and Darold Knowles Sunday and slake the Texas Rangers to a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Carew leads Twins' win

TORONTO (UPI) — Rod Carew went 4-for-5, while Butch Wynegar doubled home a pair of runs to lead 3-1 hit Minnesota Twins to a 5-4 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Evans' homer drops Angels

BOSTON (UPI) — Dwight Evans hit a sixth-inning homer and Jim Willoughby turned in a strong 4-1-3 inning-relief performance Sunday as the Boston Red Sox edged the California Angels 3-2.

With the score tied 3-3 and two out in the sixth, Evans drove a two-ball, two-strike offering from Liger Gary Wall, over the left-field wall, his sixth homer of the year.

Hot Chisox top Indians

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Oscar Garcia, hitting at a .545 clip in his last nine games, belted a two-run homer and Chet Lemon banged out five hits Sunday to stoke the Chicago White Sox to an 8-3 victory and a three-game sweep over the Cleveland Indians.

With the score tied 3-3 and two out in the sixth, Evans drove a two-ball, two-strike offering from Liger Gary Wall, over the left-field wall, his sixth homer of the year.

Braves set loss record

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bobby Murcer's two-run triple highlighted a four-run, third-inning Saturday and helped to power the Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

The loss was the Braves' 14th in a row, setting a new Atlanta team record.

Stockton and Amritraj pocket largest doubles purse ever

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Dick Stockton and Vijay Amritraj won their first tournament together Sunday and captured the largest winner's purse in doubles history — $30,000 — by beating Vilas Gerulaitis and Adriano Panatta, 7-6, 7-4, 4-6, 6-3, in the nationally televised finals of the "WCT-World Doubles Championship."

Stockton and Amritraj captured a 7-1 first set tie-breaker and a 7-3 second set tie-breaker before Janetta, the nationally televised finals of the "WCT-World Doubles Championship."

Gerulaitis and Panatta, who had never played together before this week, Panatta was supposed to team with Jillette Nastase, but the Romanian withdrew because of Davis Cup commitments.

Stockton and Amritraj took home a $40,000 chunk of the $200,000 purse as the runner-up. Both sides held service throughout the first set to force

Czechs retain hockey title

VIENNA (UPI) — Team Canada crushed Czechoslovakia 8-2 Sunday, but failed to finish among the medalists or prevent the Czechoslovaks from retaining their "World Cup" Hockey championship crown.

In the final game of the championship, Sweden upset the silver medal and hand the gold to Czechoslovakia.

The Canadians still spent too much time in the penalty box, but the Czechoslovaks, unlike the Russians, failed to capitalize, even failing to score on two occasions when they had a two-man advantage.

They then got his second goal at 15:33 to make the score 4-2 going into the final period. The Canadians soon ended any hopes of a Czechoslovak comeback with one of the most spectacular goals in the tournament. The period was 3:08 old when Wilf Pavement and Larouche covered almost the length of the ice in a swift inter-change of passes, which ended with Pavement netting.

Bucs sweep Cincy series

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dave Parker doubled home two runs and Bill Robinson and Phil Garner hit solo homers Sunday to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-4 victory and a sweep of their three-game series with the Cincinnati Reds.

Yanks bomb ex-mate Ellis

NEW YORK (UPI) — Graig Nettles' three-run homer capped a five-run first inning Sunday of ex- teammate Dick Ellis Sunday and sparked the New York Yankees to a 5-0 victory over the Oakland A's for their 13th triumph in the last 15 games.

The Yankees sent nine batters to plate in the first inning and got four hits and a walk off Ellis, who suffered his fourth loss in five decisions and third straight since coming to the A's from the Yankees last month. Ellis, who was knocked out in the third inning after being charged with six runs, has now given up 18 earned runs in 7 1-3 innings at Oakland for a 22.19 ERA.

Stacy wins first LPGA tourney

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hollis Stacy, seemingly out of contention when she fell the first hole on a par 3, won her first LPGA victory Sunday by beating defending champion JoAnne Carner by one stroke.

Stacy, a 23-year-old Georgian who has been a pro for three years, began making up ground on Carner with birdies at the 10th and 12th holes, then forged into the lead with three straight birdies starting at the 15th. She finished with a 3-under-par 70 for the day and a 10-under-par 289 total to win the $7,500 prize in this $50,000 event.

Carner, who has won 16 pro tournaments and numerous amateur tournaments during her career but who has never successfully defended a tournament title, dropped out of the lead on the next to last hole when she took a bogey. She drove into the woods, put her first shot into a bunker and then played out poorly for a bogey six. She finished with a 71 for a 210 total.

Stacy, from Savannah, had also won second place finishes without a win as a pro. She started the final round tied with Carner for the lead but bogged at the third and sixth holes to let Carner take the lead and finish with a 71 for a 210 total.

Energy policy changes

PORTLAND — The Pacific Northwest is on the threshold of a new energy era, according to a report released Thursday by the Northwest Energy Policy Project (NPEPP).

The next decade will witness major changes in all of the region's traditional energy supply systems as well as in the public and private institutions that make our energy policies, the NPEPP report says.

NPEPP is a study funded by the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission (PNRC) which is composed of Gov. John V. Evans of Idaho, Gov. Bob Straub of Oregon, Gov. Dick Lee Ray of Washington and a federal co-chairman appointed by the President.

The report, entitled "Energy Institutions: Constraints and Opportunities," was prepared by the University of Washington Energy Research Center.

Some foreseeable changes in the Northwest energy supply system, described in the report include:

Electric energy prices will increase significantly for retail customers as a result of additional high-cost thermal generation needed to serve new loads, an increase in per capita consumption could boost prices even higher.

Natural gas supplies for the region appear insecure after Canadian contracts expire in the 1980s and before shipments of Alaskan gas, supplies of which are to be provided by means of terms not yet settled, and which may not be favorable for the region.

Oil tanker imports could increase dramatically in the northern Puget Sound, the only natural deepwater ports in the western United States, but there is serious public controversy over the environmental, economic and industrial impacts.

Coal offers the greatest energy security for the region at the lowest cost but might require lower state and local environmental standards if extensive use is to be made of the vast supplies in the Western U.S., Alaska and Eastern Columbia.

Institutional findings of the study include: The lack of coherent government policies is an increasing obstacle to the private sector, but there are which provide mass of the region's energy planning.

A fundamental issue before the region is the need for definition of government roles in energy development.

Inter-agency coordination in the Northwest today is confined largely to the private sector, except for electric power development where the federal government is the principal partner.

State institutions which have historically maintained a low profile in energy policy, are now facing major responsibilities for participation in energy decision-making. Among the Northwest states, Oregon has the most complete legislation to permit participation in electrical decision-making.

Man jailed on 3 counts

TWIN FALLS — Norman Lee Isabell, 22, Twin Falls, was in the Twin Falls County Jail Saturday in lieu of $15,000 in bonds on three separate felony counts.

Isabell was arrested Friday by Kimberly city police on a charge of first degree burglary. After being taken to the Twin Falls County Court-house for booking, the man allegedly attacked two officers. He was charged with resisting arrest and assaulting a police officer.

Deputy Sheriff Buddy Deavers suffered a head laceration. The wounds were allegedly inflicted when officers were attempting to put the suspect in a county jail cell.

Judge Daniel B. Beech set bond at $5,000 on each of the three counts.
