Charitable record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans contributed a record $29.4 billion to charity last year, an increase of 9.4 per cent over 1975 and for the first time in three years donations exceeded the rise of inflation.

The Commission on Private Philanthropy and Public Needs said Monday, however, that more is necessary to allow charities to maintain their programs.

In its 1975 report to the Treasury Department, the commission said charitable contributions must grow at an annual rate of 11 per cent in order to keep up with escalating costs.

Religion was last year's largest recipient category for American charity.

A total of $12.8 billion, 43.6 per cent of all the money donated in 1976, went to churches or other religious organizations — an increase of 9.9 per cent over 1975.

Amin wounded?

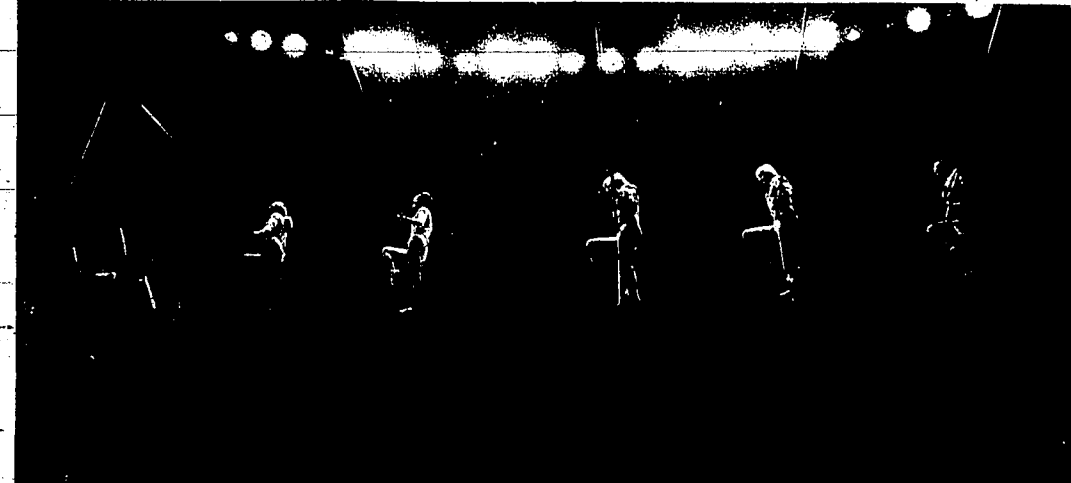

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Hundreds of Ugandans, including senior civil servants and army officers, have fled to Kenya to avoid a "massacre" taking place inside the country in the wake of an assassination attempt against President Idi Amin, the Kenya news agency said today.

"Hundreds of Ugandans, including military and civilian personnel, have defected to Kenya, running away from certain death during the current purge in Uganda following an assassination attempt on President Idi Amin late last week," the government agency said.

It said Amin had been wounded during the ambush and quoted sources close to him as saying he had been hospitalized in Uganda.

"Diplomatic sources in Kampala were quoted by the agency as saying there 'certainly is a massacre taking place here.'"

Fleeing refugees were also quoted as saying the dreaded State Research Bureau had embarked on "a rampage of killings of innocent people and members of the armed forces suspected of having taken part in the assassination bid."

US-Britain air trips near halt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation Secretary Brock Adams said today there is a 50-50 chance that the United States, unable to settle a dispute with Britain over aviation rights, will break off air service between the two nations at midnight.

"We are close to an agreement, and we're trying very hard, but each side is holding to its philosophical principles," Adams told reporters at the Capitol. "We just need that breakthrough."

"There is a very real possibility of service being broken off. We're trying to avoid it, but it is very real."

Asked to describe the chances of a deadlock, Adams replied: "50-50 right now."

In London, U.S. and British government officials went into a final make-or-break negotiating session with only 12 hours left before the deadline.

Earlier optimism of at least a one-day postponement of the midnight deadline faded.

Officials warned that if an agreement is not reached on four outstanding "gut issues" by 10:01 p.m. MDT Wednesday (5:01 a.m. London time), direct transatlantic service by U.S. and British carriers could be halted for weeks or months.

Washington officials said the United States was expected to suspend British licenses for U.S. routes if no agreement had been reached by midnight, and that Britain was expected to retaliate by suspending London and Hong Kong landing rights for Pan Am, TWA and other U.S. carriers.

The crisis blew up over Britain's desire to renegotiate a 30-year-old treaty on bilateral aviation rights, the Bermuda agreement, on grounds the existing treaty gives U.S. carriers an unfair share of the lucrative North Atlantic routes.

London wants a 50-50 split of transatlantic airline seats instead of the present ratio — 40 per cent British and 60 per cent U.S. — and also wants a limit set on total number of seats offered on transatlantic routes to London.

Officials said the four outstanding questions were total seating capacity and the number of aircraft allowed on North Atlantic routes, on which agreement was close, and routes and "charter linkage," on which major differences remained.

In London, officials said they were prepared to sit through until the deadline in their effort to hammer out an agreement. They said if they failed there was a possibility that a small number of flights in the air at the time of the deadline would have to be diverted to other countries.

Major British and U.S. airlines deployed personnel from London and New York to handle possible flight diversions to third countries. Pan Am and British Airways took big ads in British newspapers, advising potential travelers of alternate arrangements if the negotiations fail.

More calls to Dad

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fathers are becoming nearly as popular as mothers if Mountain Bell statistics are any indication.

In the past few years Father's Day telephone traffic has been catching up with Mother's Day calls in Magic Valley.

District Manager Kenneth Mann, Twin Falls, said 8,017 calls were placed Sunday, Father's Day, through operators in Twin Falls.

On Mother's Day, operator calls totaled 6,635.

However, direct dial calls on Mother's Day outnumbered Father's Day. A total of 18,292 direct dial calls were placed or attempted on Sunday compared to 21,641 on Mother's Day, Mann said.

"We have no way of knowing how many of these were completed. One individual may have placed four or five calls before completing one, but it would probably average out on both days," Mann said.

Christmas Day is still the busiest of the entire year for telephone personnel, but Mother's Day is second and Father's Day now runs a close third.

On any holiday, Mann said, the caller will have a better chance of getting through the busy circuits between the hours of 1 to 5 p.m.

Many calls are placed right after breakfast while many more are attempted in the evening hours.

It makes a difference where the call is going, Mann said. For instance, calls to the East will go through much easier at 10 p.m. in Twin Falls than calls to the west coast because of the time changes.

Mann said customers should take these factors into consideration in placing their calls.

Telephone greetings on major holidays, birthdays and anniversaries are getting more popular, telephone company officials say.

When the dutiful son or daughter forgets or neglects to send a gift or card, there's always the telephone to come to the rescue.

In addition it's something the caller usually enjoys almost as much as the one receiving the call and telephone company officials say they are not about to discourage the practice.

President doubts

he can avoid veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today told congressional leaders he doubts he can avoid a veto this session. And he later expressed "strong concern" about a massive HEW-labor appropriations bill.

While House Press Secretary Jody Powell passed that concern along to reporters at a news briefing, asked if it was a veto threat, Powell said:

"I'm not going to interpret it for you. It is an expression of strong concern."

The Senate Appropriations Committee Monday proposed increasing the HEW bill by $800 million more than Carter wants.

Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker earlier emerged from a White House breakfast meeting involving Carter and congressional leaders to report the President's remarks on possible vetoes.

Carter is "sort of singing our song" of fiscal restraint, said Baker, chief GOP spokesman in Congress.

"He said he hoped he didn't have to veto anything this session, but he doubted it," Baker said.

Carter has hinted he might veto several pieces of legislation currently before Congress, including a big farm bill, if spending is not cut.

Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., told reporters that Carter also made it clear that if Congress votes to go ahead with the Clinch River, Tenn., nuclear breeder reactor "the bill will be vetoed."

O'Neill said he was behind Carter "every inch of the way" on that one.

Baker and GOP Sens. John Tower of Texas and Ted Stevens of Alaska were asked about committee passage of the Labor-HEW bill.

"I think the President is right when he says we have got to try to keep that bill at manageable proportions," said Baker.

"The President is sort of singing our song. Many on our side stand up and cheer when he calls for a balanced budget and some restraint on spending levels."

Baker also indicated the matter of withdrawing U.S. troops from Korea came up at today's meeting. The Senate urged the President in a resolution last week to consult Congress on any such move.

"I think it would be in extremely poor grace if the President were to effectuate his own judgment without first permitting the Senate to express its judgment," Baker said.

Today's meeting came as Carter worked hard to cement his relations with a Congress dominated by Democrats.

But, Baker said, Republicans are being slighted.

"As far as the minority is concerned, we have absolutely no advance notice as to what the administration position is on most major issues."

Baker said he felt the White House meetings are a good idea and both Carter and congressional leaders "are getting better at it" at expressing their views.

A Carter aide said Monday Carter intends to spend increasing amounts of time with members of Congress.

Oil heading south

PRUDHOE BAY, Alaska (UPI) — It looked sort of...

About 10 gallons seeped the wrong way into pump station No. 1 Monday at the opening of the trans-Alaska pipeline. But crewmen quickly tightened the valves and with 300,000 barrels of oil expected to flow south each day from the nation's richest oil field, it will hardly be missed.

The oil continued its sluggish journey through the 800-mile pipe today. It should reach the southern terminus in the ice-free port of Valdez in about a month.

Until then, pipeline monitors will be closely watching its 1.1 mile-an-hour progress across the Alaskan wilderness.

"Nobody is celebrating yet," said a pipeline spokesman. "We don't expect anything to go wrong. But until the oil gets to Valdez and that first tanker pulls away, the whole system really hasn't been tested."

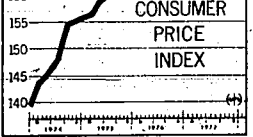

Once it reaches Valdez, the North Slope oil will be shipped to West Coast ports.

The supply eventually is expected to account for 15 per cent of U.S. domestic oil production, about seven per cent of domestic consumption.

The oil's flow down the pipeline, which took nine years to construct, is being monitored by ground tracking teams listening for noises that tell them whether the flow is unimpeded.

The opening of the $9.5 billion pipeline was a relief for oilmen Jack Turner, overseer of the pipeline for the federal government, said the start-up was virtually trouble-free.

"Everything looked beautiful," he said. "There was just one minor leak because a bolt on a valve flange was not tight. We fully expect that throughout the life of the pipeline we will get minor leaks such as this."

Prices keep on going up

ALTHOUGH some moderation in the recent surge in food prices was reflected by a reduction in its climb, the consumer price index inched up another six-tenths of a per cent in May, the Labor Department said today. (Story, page 2.) (UPI)

Weary fire crews mopping up

By United Press International
Firefighters, aided by a jump in humidity, today carved out another 22 miles of fire line in an attempt to contain an 11,000-acre blaze that burned to the edge of the Las Alamos, N.M., Scientific Laboratory.

Fire also destroyed thousands of acres of Arizona and Colorado forest and grasslands.

Before it was driven back, the New Mexico fire damaged a photographic laboratory and destroyed two small buildings on the edge of complex.

Forest Service spokesman Bruce Bundick said 1,100 firefighters had about five miles of fire line to build to encircle the six-day-old blaze.

"The weather gave us a break last night," Bundick said, adding the fire had been 60 per cent contained with full control expected some time Thursday.

Near Sierra Vista, Ariz.

crews clawed their way by hand through rugged terrain in a bid to close the last gap in a fireline circling a 3,000-acre blaze.

"We've built 16 miles of fire lines and that leaves us about three miles to go," said Doug Salyer of the Coronado National Forest. "But those three miles are on a high ridge and it won't be able to use bulldozers, so the work will have to be done by hand."

He said the crew had not estimate when the fire finally might be contained, but that a threatened hummingbird sanctuary had been saved, as were 30 to 35 homes evacuated Monday when wind-fanned flames suddenly leaped a fire line.

About 100 firefighters stood vigil over a 700-acre blaze firmly controlled on grassland normally grazed by elk and deer near Gunnison, Colo.

Another blaze from an unattended campfire blackened nearly 6,000 acres just east of Flagstaff, Ariz., in the northern part of the state, and three other fires blazed across New Mexico, charred 4,900 acres southward in the Organ mountains, and 120 acres in a game refuge to the north.

Survivors of crash sought

WAKE ISLAND TWIN — A four-engine Navy reconnaissance plane with 16 aboard crashed at sea off this mid-Pacific atoll early today.

Air and surface-rescue units rushed to the scene to look for survivors but their efforts were hampered by poor visibility and darkness.

The plane was attached to Reconnaissance Squadron Three based at Agaña, Guam. It had left Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii, Monday, on routine home.

The C-130 aircraft had refueled and taken off from Wake shortly before it crashed.

Residents of Wake reported seeing a flash of light on the horizon about midnight when the plane was believed to have gone down.

Officials said planes and rescue ships were taking part in a search for survivors. There was a report of a flare in the area, but it was not known whether it indicated there might be survivors.

A Coast Guard search and rescue plane also was dispatched from Honolulu, 2,000 miles from Wake.

"The search was being coordinated by military officials on Guam.

Wake Island was an important trans-Pacific refueling stop in the pre-jet age but is now used mainly by military planes.

Suspect at large

BOISE (UPI) — A murder suspect who saved his way out of the Ada County jail over the weekend continued to elude law enforcement officers today although deputies may have found his campsite along the river.

Acting on an anonymous tip, deputies found an abandoned campsite on a small island in the Boise River Monday. But, by the time they got there, Steve Wolf, 16, was gone.

Wolf, being held on a first degree murder charge in the death last June of Eric Flory, 76, Boise, escaped from a sixth-floor cell of the Ada County Courthouse late Friday or early Saturday.

Ada County sheriff's officers cite two reasons for the escape: inadequate facilities and failure of jailers to keep a close eye on Wolf.

"It's no use telling you we had him under close scrutiny because we didn't," Chief Deputy Alvin "Bud" Sims said.

Boise annexes area

BOISE (UPI) — The City Council Monday approved annexation of 183 acres for a proposed 1,241-unit housing development east of Gekeler Lane but refused to rezone adjacent property.

It authorized single-family and multi-family residential zones requested by Triangle Development Company. But it turned down a request to change zoning to limited industrial from residential on the adjacent Triangle Dairy site.

Mayor Dick Earley cast the tie-breaking vote by which the council rejected the company request, saying that type of zoning "could in fact allow a trucking terminal or something like that."

Food price surge eases, index shows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in May, reflecting some moderation in the recent surge in food prices, the Labor Department reported today.

Prices — increases — translated into a 2.7 per cent annual rate, somewhat lower than the monthly average since the beginning of 1977. Prices have been rising at an annual rate of nearly 10 per cent since January.

But the May inflation rate was still considerably higher than average increases in the last half of 1976, and offered little comfort to American consumers.

The 0.6 per cent rise in May compared to increases of 0.6 in March, 0.8 per cent in April and January and 1 per cent last February.

Food prices rose a moderate 0.7 per cent in May, less than half the increase recorded in April. This was attributed primarily to a sharp 13.5 per cent decline in vegetable prices.

Fuel price increases also were more moderate in May. Non food commodities rose 0.4 per cent for the third straight month, and service costs climbed 0.7 per cent.

The Consumers Price Index stood at 109.9 in May, reflecting a 6.7 per cent increase over the past year. This means that goods and services costing $100 in 1967, now cost $109.9.

Assassinations probers start out on trail anew

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Select Committee on Assassinations has hired a new chief counsel and announced it will investigate the murders of President Kennedy and Rev. Martin Luther King vigorously but under a new blackout.

But the future of the House panel appears tenuous; a bitter squabble between former chief counsel Richard Sprague and former chairman Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, led to the resignations of both early this year.

Such a restriction was imposed on the panel when the Maryland rule was challenged by Baltimore worker who had been denied payments because he had gone on strike in 1971. His case had gone to the Supreme Court twice before, but until Monday the court had not settled finally the government's power to leave it to the states to define unemployment for purposes of their welfare laws.

WASHINGTON — States are free to deny welfare benefits to children whose fathers are out of work because they went on strike, were fired, or quit their jobs, the Supreme Court ruled in a 5-to-4 vote Monday.

Heroin deaths decline

Bensinger said the purity of heroin has dropped to 5.8 per cent — only 6 per cent from the record low during the 1973 heroin shortage following the Turkish poppy ban; the death rate dropped 21 per cent from the first to the second six months of 1976 — the first such drop since 1973, and heroin-related injuries dropped 30 per cent in the last year.

Probation system needs revamping

Patty Hearst was given probation and so are most two-bit car-thieves, burglars and purse snatchers.

Probation, placing criminals in the community instead of in prison, is the most frequent sentence given in the United States. Nationally, more than 70 per cent of those convicted of criminal offenses are put on probation.

But probation isn't working. A national study by the Government Accounting Office concluded most state and county probation systems are not adequately protecting the public and rarely impress the criminal with his responsibility to stay out of future scrapes with the law.

The GAO study found 55 per cent of those placed on probation eventually committed another serious crime. The government report concluded the continued criminal activity by probationers raises serious questions as to the probation system's ability to help offenders make a positive adjustment in the community.

At least two factors contribute to the ineffectiveness of probation.

First, many men and women given probation are returned to society without any rehabilitation plan.

Too often, probationers are shoved back into community life without any significant steps having been taken to deal with the problems which got them in trouble in the first place.

A second, related factor contributing to the breakdown in the probation system is the excessive caseload many probation officers handle.

The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice recommended probation and parole officers handle an average of 35 cases each.

In Magic Valley, the three probation and parole officers are asked to handle about 80 probation cases each.

The result of this high caseload is that probation officers often lose contact with the men and women they are trying to supervise.

Months sometimes pass without probation officers seeing some clients. Those probationers having a hard time understandably are tempted to continue criminal activities. Often, they aren't discovered by the probation officers until the probationer's name turns up on the police blotter again.

Probation won't become an effective way to rehabilitate criminals until the probation system more effectively addresses specific problems faced by offenders.

Overworked probation officers who can't find time to deal with the cases they have now can't be expected to focus on the problems of probationers.

More officers should be added to the Magic Valley probation and parole staff.

But decreasing caseloads won't completely solve the problems associated with probation.

Probation systems must identify the reasons criminals commit crimes. Then, the system must try to help the offenders rehabilitate.

This means better treatment programs for alcohol and drug abuse offenders, vocational training programs for unskilled probationers, and other specialized services for men and women on probation.

Unless local and state officials recognize the need to spend more time and money rehabilitating probation cases, the same group of people repeatedly will turn up in court - examples of the failure of the present criminal justice and probation system.

Conversation based on conjecture

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Ambassador Andrew Young keeps insisting that no matter who he says publicly, President Carter never mentions it to him. This is hard to believe. Since we have nothing but conjecture to go on, as to what takes place in the Oval Office, we'll have to base this conversation on conjecture.

"What Andy, how's it going?"

"Very fine, Mr. President. I'm really enjoying my work. I didn't realize foreign affairs could be this much fun."

"Tell me about it."

"Well, you get to insult anybody you want to."

"Oh."

"You can't believe how many racists there are in this world. Do you know they have as many racists in Sweden as they do in Queens, N.Y.?"

"That many?"

"Maybe more. Of course, I haven't been to Sweden, and I don't spend too much time in Queens, except to go to the airport - but they're there."

"What seems to be our problem with Sweden, Andy?"

"Nothing, Mr. President. Things are fine with Sweden. At least they were until I called them racists. Now they're all upset."

"I don't see why."

"Of course, they're not as upset as the people in Queens. I didn't mean it the way they took it in Queens."

"How did you mean it?"

"Well, I was trying to make a point about Sweden and I had to compare it to something. My U.N. office overlooks Queens, so I just said Queens. I could have easily mentioned Brooklyn, the Bronx, Manhattan or Staten Island. They're racist, too."

"Is there anything I can do to cool things down in Sweden or Queens?"

"We could probably make it up to Sweden, but I wouldn't give New York another dime."

"Didn't I read somewhere that you called England racist also?"

"Yes, sir. They are, too. But they took that statement out of context. What I really meant to say was that all of Europe was racist. It's not their fault - that's just the way they are. I think it's America's job to point it out to them."

"Andy, do you believe it's advisable to go around the world and tell everyone they're racists? I know it's important, but it seems to me, and I'm new on the job, that the role of our U.N. ambassador is to make friends - or at least not lose the ones we've already got."

"Lincoln was a racist."

"I didn't know that."

"So were Kennedy, Nixon and Ford."

"But what has that got to do with foreign affairs, Andy?"

"It has a lot to do with Africa."

"But the Africans are mad at you also, Andy."

"Only the racist ones. The black countries have inverse racism there, and when I told them that they didn't like it. That's why I said Cuba was a moderating influence in Angola."

"You haven't said anything about Japan, China or Korea yet."

"I was planning to take a trip there."

"Do you have to?"

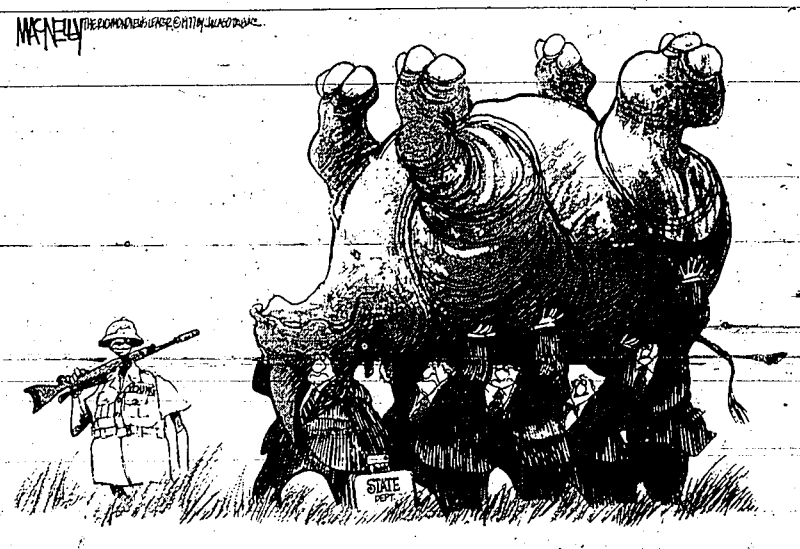

"Mr. President, anytime you think I'm not doing my job I'll be very happy to resign."

"I wouldn't want you to do that, Andy. I really wouldn't."

"Why not, sir?"

"If I accepted your resignation, everyone would say I was a racist."

Letter from Belgrade: prospects dim

By JAMES RESTON
© 1977 N.Y. Times News Service

BELGRADE - The Belgrade Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe has begun here in a vast and elegant new building and at a time when cooperation and security between the major powers are not very promising. So the prospects for this conference are not bright, but its purposes are admirable and in some ways unique.

The basic idea here is that international agreements, between nations, are carefully negotiated and duly signed by their responsible officials, and are not very useful unless they are carried out. Therefore, the commitment to general principles of decent human conduct must be examined periodically against the original promises if the integrity of relations between sovereign states is to be maintained.

The 10 principles of this "Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe" have been divided into "three baskets," probably because freedom is a basket case around here, are not new. Most were defined in the charter of the United Nations. They are:

- Sovereign equality and respect for the rights inherent in sovereignty.
-No threat or use of force between nations.
-The inviolability of frontiers.

- Territorial integrity of states.
-Peaceful settlement of disputes.
-Nonintervention in the internal affairs of other states.

- Respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms, including freedom of thought, conscience, religion or belief.
-Equal rights and determination of peoples.
-Cooperation among states, and
-Fulfillment in good faith of obligations under international law.

All these had been defined not only in the U.N. Charter but in the covenant of the League of Nations and even in the constitution of the U.S.S.R. What was unusual in the so-called final act of the "Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe," signed at Helsinki by the United States, Canada and 33 European nations, including the U.S.S.R., was that specific provision was made for "a thorough exchange on the implementation of the provisions of the final act" in Belgrade "in 1977."

The impression one gets from officials who have followed this problem for years is that the Soviet Union was so eager to get formal recognition of the borders or territorial gains it had made after the second World War that it agreed to the "human rights" without too much thought or preparation for the consequences.

Here again the history of this conference in Belgrade is significant. It was not the U.S. or its Western European allies, but the Soviet Union, that proposed a conference on European security and cooperation—originally in 1954. They wanted to exclude the U.S. and Canada. They were opposed to more liberal access between East and West Berlin, and originally they opposed mutual and balanced reduction of military forces in central Europe. But they finally agreed to all this "in order to get the conference in Finland."

The "human rights" draft of the Helsinki final act was written by U.S. Ambassador Albert W. Shearer Jr., who now heads the Washington delegation to the Belgrade conference, and supported effectively at Helsinki by Al Hartmann, the new U.S. ambassador to Paris. It was finally negotiated by Henry Kissinger, whose enthusiasm for the "human rights" basket was originally somewhat restrained.

Even so, Kissinger persuaded Gromyko to accept it and also to agree to the right of periodic review, and this is the process that is now starting in Belgrade to the distaste of the Soviet delegation. It is a very modest start. It is billed as a "preliminary meeting," whose job, as defined at Helsinki, will be merely to "decide on the date, duration, agenda and modalities" of the main conference to review the substance and the facts later this year. But officials are saying that this will take at least six weeks and may even go on until Christmas talking about "modalities," whatever they are, and talking about what may be talked about later on. The opening meetings here were surprising. They started almost on time, and the speeches were brief and unprovocative—an astonishing surprise.

The leader of the U.S. delegation, Ambassador Shearer and the Soviet chief, Yuri Vorontsov met and had what was described officially as a comparatively sensible and even amiable conversation.

But they are settling down here now to six weeks or maybe six months of debate over procedural questions, which, what could be settled in six days. And the first act of this conference on improving communications between East and West, was to banish the reporters from their discussions.

Even so, the Helsinki agreements are finally coming under some kind of orderly review. They have been left so far to the propagandists on both sides, without much benefit to either, but now, in the words of the Helsinki agreement, they will have to "declare their resolve," or, as Al Smith said, "look at the record."

Why new dictionaries keep appearing

By NORMAN NADEL

NEW YORK (NEA)—Americans love dictionaries. According to a Gallup poll four years ago, 87 per cent of the population have a dictionary at home, no matter how old, how small or how inadequate. Equally surprising, 40 per cent of the people had bought their reference books in the preceding five years.

That is only one of several good reasons why new dictionaries keep appearing on the market, and why publishers consider them a good investment of time, talent and money.

How come they're so popular? "Nobody knows" for sure, but Walter D. Glantz has an idea. A linguist fluent in a number of languages, and equally learned in science and mathematics, he is senior editor of the reference department at Bantam Books, Inc., and managing editor of "The Scribner Bantam English Dictionary," newly published (80,000 words, $9.95 plain, $9.95 thumb-indexed).

"When you start a dictionary, as we started this one 10 years ago," muses Glantz, "there are many motives; the profit motive, the scholarly challenge and figuring out how to make a dictionary not only different but better, more useful."

"In almost every country in the Western world there is a regulatory agency for language, the Academie Francaise in France, and similar bodies in Spain, Italy, Germany. But there is no such body in English. England does have an Oxford-Cambridge upper-crust orientation, as a kind of unofficial guide to what is right or wrong, in usage and pronunciation.

"In America there is no such orientation. My speculation is that the tremendous popularity of dictionaries here can be ascribed to the absence of a real authority. People almost stand in awe before the dictionary, which becomes the agency to determine spellings, meanings and usage."

An early and vital decision in dictionary-making is how big a book it should be. "It would have been easier, simpler and less expensive to do a dictionary 50 or 60 per cent larger," explains managing editor Glantz. "Keeping a dictionary down to 80,000 reference words takes more mental effort than doing one of 120,000 or 130,000. We thought there was little purpose in adding another longer dictionary to the several at hand."

Dr. Edwin B Williams, general editor of this new work, who died two years ago at the age of 83, had made a number of preparatory studies. He found out that in most cases people who have larger desk dictionaries still use no more than about 80,000 words for reference.

Glantz assumes, as did Williams, that if you don't find a word in the 80,000-word book you will go directly to the two biggest: Webster's Third (160,000 words) or Random House (26,000).

However, even 80,000 is far more than most Americans know and use. According to surveys, the average American recognizes about 20,000 words. Very few actually use more than 12,000 and the average for ordinary speech is under 2,000. In some segments of society it is under 500. Not more than 15,000 Americans know more than 100,000 words.

But great works have been written with relatively small vocabularies. The King James Version of the Bible gets by with 6,000 different words. Homer wrote his epics with 9,000. Milton used 11,000 and Shakespeare's dramatic vocabulary runs between 15,000 and 20,000. According to Glantz, the new Scribner Bantam has a number of "firsts," for example, he claims it is the first to define "alkaline battery" correctly: "dry battery, in which the positive pole is manganese dioxide, the negative pole zinc, and the electrolyte 30 to 40 per cent potassium hydroxide, and whose voltage is 1.5."

Among words included which previously had been in no other dictionary are: hightly food, psychosclerosis, tax loss, petrodollars, stagnation, videofisk, valet parking, Jimmy Carter, PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization), Benin (new name for Dahomey in West Africa), Belize (was British Honduras), Ho Chi Min (formerly the city of Saigon), and street name (Wall Street colloquial for a stockbroker who holds a customer's securities in his own name).

Its tone is conversational, but definitions given in what might be termed normal speech. For example, another dictionary defines "spade" as "A digging instrument adapted for being pushed into the ground with a foot."

Glantz claims that nobody speaks like that. In the new volume it is "a flat-bladed digging tool with a long handle," long handle."

He hopes the new reference book will be in use 30 years from now, but admits that changes probably will be made about every five years, as the language continues to change. "No other language I know has the flexibility and malleability of English," he says. "English can take any word and make it its own, by changing the pronunciation, or ending, or meaning, or spelling. English has been absorbing everything for centuries."

Currently it is absorbing computer language, such as "input," and slang on the order of "foxy" (pretty, sexy). Still, there will be new words or new meanings for old words, next year, next month—next week.

Begin slates US visit

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Right-wing leader Menachem Begin took over as prime minister today and announced he has "accepted a very warm" message from President Carter inviting him to Washington to hear his ideas on peace with the Arabs.

Carter's message said he wanted to join with Begin in "a partnership of principle," and added, "I am deeply committed to helping Israel and its neighbors seek a lasting peaceful resolution to the conflict between them."

"I am sure that this is an objective I share with you," the President said, "I would welcome your ideas on how progress towards peace can be achieved."

The message delivered by U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis congratulated

Begin on taking office and offered "the best wishes of the American people for the success of your government."

"Given the depth and range of our mutual interests, I believe it important that we meet at an early date to establish a personal relationship and exchange views on the regulation of a peace settlement and on other matters of mutual concern," Carter said.

"We both are blessed with the historic opportunity to give substance to the religious meaning of our societies," he said.

The text of his message was released in the Israeli capital after Begin appeared in Parliament for negotiations with the Arabs to end the Middle East conflict.

Blunt talk in Paris meeting

PARIS (UPI) — Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev and French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing squared off today in a blunt debate in which Brezhnev said disarmament talks with the United States are getting nowhere and accused France of floating back into the U.S.-led North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

A spokesman said Brezhnev expressed concern that President Carter's statements about Soviet observance of human rights threaten to restart the Cold War.

Giscard said just as bluntly that real détente means respect for human rights. But briefings by press spokesmen after the two leaders' 2 1/2 hour verbal exchange indicated neither took offense at the other's remarks.

Following the second of three daily sessions of talks at Rambouillet castle southwest of Paris, a Soviet spokesman said Brezhnev reacted matter-of-factly to Giscard's remarks about détente.

Belgrade conclave deadlocks

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — The 33-nation Belgrade conference to review the 1975 Helsinki Accords deadlocked today over rival Soviet and Western agenda proposals. U.S. and Western European delegates blamed the Soviets for the impasse.

"The Russians aren't moving an inch," said Spencer Oliver, a member of the American delegation to the preliminary conference seeking to set the agenda for a full-scale meeting to review enforcement of the accord's human rights provisions.

Diplomats who attended the closed-door meeting said neutral countries were working on a compromise between the Soviet and Western agenda proposals.

But Soviet delegate July Voronsov reportedly told the conference the Russians saw no reason to change their outline.

Neutral Finland, sensing a deadlock, suggested that the meeting move onto other subjects and return to the agenda later. But the Russians and their allies objected strongly.

"That brought things to a complete stop," one Western delegate said. "We don't plan to meet this afternoon, and we may meet only briefly tomorrow."

Baboon heart implant fails

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Dr. Christiaan Barnard said today his unprecedented attempt to implant the heart of a baboon into a human being was a "desperate attempt" to save a critically ill 25-year-old Italian woman.

The patient, who was not identified, died today at Groot Schuur Hospital, five hours after the 10-hour operation Monday, which attempted to graft the baboon heart onto hers in a "piggy-back" fashion.

Barnard told a news conference it could be argued that it was going beyond the function of a surgeon to perform a baboon heart transplant.

"But can you imagine turning off a heart-lung machine and letting the patient die? It is something really terrible," Barnard said.

Barnard said the woman's heart failed every time the surgical team tried to switch off the heart-lung machine at the end of an operation to replace a previously inserted aortic valve with a larger one.

Barnard said the machine "carried" the circulation of the woman's body and lightened the heart's load but could not be used indefinitely.

"The limit is about four or five hours," he said. "At that stage, I need another form of support."

After six hours, Barnard said only one possible solution remained — "A heart transplant, but no human donor was available."

"But I had a baboon with the same blood group as the donor and I transplanted the heart," Barnard said.

Barnard said the woman's husband knew the baboon's heart would be transplanted to assist her.

"I hoped that I would have been able to assist the circulation for two or three days until the patient's own heart recovered," he said. "The baboon heart would then have been removed, or if necessary, replaced with a human heart."

But Barnard said the patient's own heart failed and the baboon heart was unable to carry the full circulation.

"What I think I did wrong was that I waited too long," Barnard said. "But it was a new procedure and we decided to try everything else conventional before we transplanted the baboon heart."

"The lessons we have learned are that we waited too long...also we now know a baboon heart will not carry the full circulation of the patient," he said, adding that in the future he would use larger chimpanzee hearts in similar operations.

Thais seize 3 Yanks

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Thai police have arrested three Americans for possession of half a ton of hashish, police sources said today.

American authorities could not immediately confirm the arrests, which police said were made at the suburban seaport of Samut Prakan, 10 miles from downtown Bangkok, late Monday.

One of the Americans was identified by police as Phil Christiansen, a resident of Thailand. The others, presumed to be travelers, were identified as Ivan Charles Wilson and Bud Holmes.

Terrorists seize bus

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Four terrorists commanded a fully loaded bus Monday, fatally shot two policemen and a commuter, wounded another passenger and escaped in a hijacked car, the government said.

A spokesman said the latest incident in more than a year of political violence began when two policemen spotted three men and a woman distributing "subversive propaganda" near the presidential palace of this Central American capital.

Leaping on the passenger bus, the four guerrillas opened fire on the policemen with pistols from the vehicle's windows and doors, killing both of them, a government spokesman said.

He identified the policemen as Roberto Cruz Perez, 36, and Adolfo Linares Chinchilla, 30, who had been in the force for only 20 days.

Witnesses told authorities the woman guerrilla fired at the policemen from the door of the bus with a .45 caliber pistol, while terrified passengers scrambled for safety behind seats and on the floor.

Tomás Pineda Argueta, 28, a passenger on the bus, also was killed by two bullets through the throat, the spokesman said.

Papal warning labeled reply to liberal stand

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has warned Roman Catholic leaders to beware of challenges to the church's teaching on sexual morality in what observers said could be a reply to a liberal American Catholic document on sex.

The 79-year-old pontiff made his comments Monday in an audience with some 80 U.S. cardinals, archbishops and bishops who attended Sunday's canonization of America's first male saint, John Neumann.

"With a realistic awareness of certain challenges today to Catholic teaching," the Pope said, "and the least of which is in the field of sexual morality, we add — quoting St. Paul — far from being content with sound teaching, people will be avid for the latest novelty and collect themselves a whole series of teachers according to their own tastes."

Vatican sources said they thought the Pope might have chosen the opportunity of meeting the American bishops to insist on a publication titled "Human Sexuality, New Directions in American Catholic Thought," written by two Roman Catholic priests, a nun and two laymen.

Commissioned by the Catholic Theological Society of America, the 322-page report says that extramarital relations could in very limited circumstances be "creative and integrative for all involved and therefore morally acceptable."

It also says that church teaching that adultery and homosexual relations are totally forbidden is "woefully inadequate" and accepts sterilization as a legitimate form of birth control.

Although they have not commented directly on the report, the U.S. bishops said last November that sex is "a moral and human good only with marriage."

On Monday, the Pope exhorted the bishops to "humbly ask for strength so as not to be tossed here and there, carried about by every wind of doctrine."

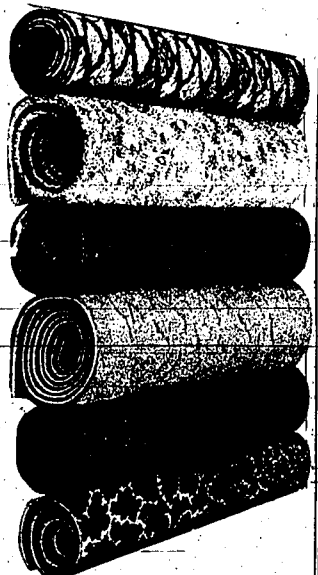

And he quoted St. Paul again as saying: "I put this duty to you — proclaim the message and, welcome or unwelcome, insist on it. Refute falsehood, correct error, call to obedience, but do all with patience and the intention of teaching."

Peck backs MacArthur views

NEW YORK (UPI) — Film star Gregory Peck — known as a political liberal — says Gen. Douglas MacArthur may have been right when he clashed with President Harry S. Truman and was fired for advocating expansion of the Korean War into China.

Peck — in an interview with the Ladies Home Journal — says he came to that conclusion while preparing for his portrayal of the maverick general.

GREGORY PECK

"According to many people in the State Department, the Chinese were not ready to wage a war in 1951," Peck said. "If we had taken a strong stand and established our authority in Korea, many things would be different today."

Mills negotiates for job

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilbur Mills, the former House Ways and Means Committee chairman who left Congress after a highly publicized affair with Argentine stripper Fanne Fox, may accept a position as a tax counsel for a prestigious New York-based law firm.

The New York Daily News reported that Mills is now negotiating with the firm of Shea, Gould, Chimenkos, and Casey for a position in its Washington office. A decision is expected by July 1.

The Arkansas Democrat, who publicly admitted his drinking problems before he left Congress, helped write much of the federal tax laws when he was chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

Polygamy movie ban denied

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Third District Court Judge G. Hal Taylor has refused to stop the showing of the polygamy movie "Alex Joseph and His Wives" pending the outcome of a $1.5 million lawsuit.

Taylor dismissed a motion for a preliminary injunction sought by Joseph, a polygamist with a dozen young wives. Two years ago, Joseph tried to homestead government land in southern Utah, but federal marshals ran him out.

Joseph participated in the filming of the movie, but then had a falling out with producer William E. Thrush and lawyer Boyd Jenitisch.

He now claims the filmmakers and producers used his life story and photographs without his permission and accused him falsely of killing polygamist leader Rulon Alfred. Alfred, one of the film's backers, was gunned down in his Murray, Utah, office last month by two women.

Chip Carter tours, listens

CHIP CARTER

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Chip Carter says he is touring the country "as my father's ears" to listen to the gripes of local government officials.

The President's son met Monday with County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn to discuss Los Angeles' water and transportation problems and is expected to meet with aides of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. He will spend a week in California.

"My function is to find out what's going on at the local level and take it back to dad and let him make up his mind," the younger Carter said.

Amarillo man still practicing law at 100

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — The sidewalks were wet and cowboys fired their sixshooters in the downtown streets when S.E. Fish started practicing law in this Panhandle city.

Today the sidewalks are paved and the cowboys burst of enthusiasm with a pistol are relegated to the open ranges. But Fish, 100, still practices law.

He has also served as special judge in surrounding communities so many times that he has earned the informal title of "Judge." And the State Bar of Texas this past weekend honored him for "untiring contributions to the legal profession."

Why hasn't a man who will turn 101 in August ever turned in his lawbooks for a fishing pole?

"I never wanted to. That (law) is the only thing to do. I would go crazy sitting around doing nothing."

Fish earned his law degree from the University of Missouri, then moved to Amarillo to earn money to pay off debts "in the early 1900s. He was a school principal until he brought into a law practice in 1909 and finally had a practice by himself in 1913.

He's always practiced civil law. "I do not intend to know very much about criminal law," he said in a telephone interview with his office.

Speaking in a slow, raspy voice, he said his biggest criticism of the judicial system today was choosing federal jurors at random rather than by a special selection committee as they did in the early 1900s.

"Now I don't like that because you sometimes get busy by men who are not qualified."

Fish, who rides the bus to work most days, said he doesn't think many clients have shied away because of his age. "In the last year and a half, I've had two very important cases. But I'm not overrun with business.

"He did what he felt was right, and he didn't ask anybody for pity," she said. "He has done what he believed to be right throughout the entire ordeal."

Imprisonment strengthens marriage, Mrs. Liddy says

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The wife of Watergate burglar G. Gordon Liddy says her husband's imprisonment since 1973 has actually strengthened their marriage.

Frances Liddy, who teaches mathematics to sixth-graders at a Washington school to support their five children, said she and her husband are closer today than ever before.

"There's nothing like putting a table down between two people who are in love and have been married for a long time and say, 'You can kiss, you can't even hold hands or see a girl or her visits with her husband."

"You either fall apart or you strengthen the relationship. In our case, despite the iron bars, or in some ways because of them, our relationship has been strengthened. We are totally committed to each other. And the children's loyalty to their father is very inspirational for me."

Liddy, 46, who initially was sentenced to 20 years in prison, is up for parole next month because President Carter reduced his sentence — the stiffest received by any Watergate defendant.

Liddy, who has never talked about his role in the Watergate scandal, also was disbarred and fined $10,000, far more than the fines imposed on any other Watergate defendant. He is currently at the federal prison in Allenwood, Pa. "It's not the country club some people say it is," Mrs. Liddy said in a telephone interview from her home in Oxon Hill, Md., a Washington suburb. "But we see each other just about every weekend. Four and a half years has been a long time, but we're praying it's about to end."

Mrs. Liddy, 44, said she recently received $20,000 from the sale of her parents' house, but her salary provides the bulk of the family's support.

"Our finances are a shambles," she said. She said her husband has received several job offers, including one from a law firm, though he would be unable to practice law because of his disbarment.

"Our attitude is this: either you go down with a problem like we've had or you rise above it. Once you begin to rise above it, you stop feeling sorry for yourself. I'm not sitting here thinking 'If only Gordon hadn't gone into politics, life would have been beautiful.' I don't know if life would have been beautiful.

"What I do know is that we still have a lot of life in us. We still have opportunities for the future."

Mrs. Liddy said her husband has no regrets about remaining "silent" while his former cohorts tried to pin the

Tobacco substitute

LONDON (UPI) — A British factory will soon start manufacturing cigarettes and other smoking materials with a difference — no tobacco.

The factory, opened Monday in Ardeer, Scotland, is the first in Britain to manufacture smoking products made from a tobacco substitute, according to T.G. Garrett, chairman of Imperial Tobacco Ltd.

"This is an important milestone in the development of NSM — new smoking materials — tobacco substitutes, and marks a new generation of smoking products," Garrett said.

Garrett said the factory has the capacity to produce 20 million pounds of NSM annually — in weight about 15 percent of all the tobacco in all the cigarettes smoked in Britain each year.

The firm plans to eventually extend production overseas.

Teton benefits assured

BOISE (UPI) — The federal government will take whatever steps are necessary to make certain Teton Dam disaster victims are not denied Social Security benefits regardless of their disaster reimbursements.

That was the word Monday from Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano in a letter to Gov. John V. Evans.

The Social Security Administration has determined that any disaster aid received by Social Security recipients "does not fall within the definition of resources used for determining supplemental security of whether or not there have been delays in expending the funds."

Evans asked Califano May 17 to lift the time limits for payments of government benefits complicating the eligibility of disaster victims.

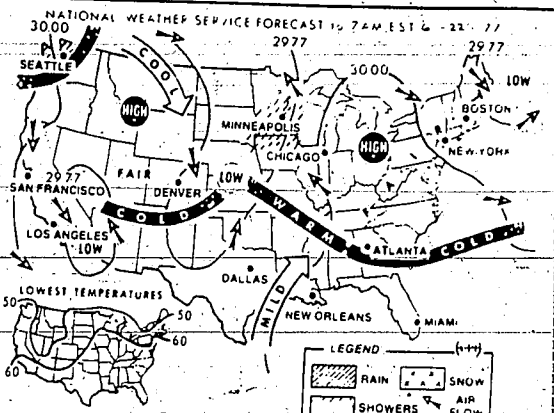

Califano said the Social Security regional and local offices have received instructions based on the latest determination.

"The Social Security Administration is also in the process of identifying any individuals who may have received notices that their SSI eligibility will be terminated due to an incorrect attribution of Disaster Relief Act funds," Califano told the governor.

The secretary said "Social Security will take whatever actions are necessary to ensure that those individuals are not improperly denied SSI benefits."

Spring takes final blow

United Press International
Spring blew out on tornado winds and summer began today on a damp note.

Thunderstorms swept across the Plains early today, prompting flash-flood watches in parts of Kansas and Missouri. Thunderstorms swung the Texas Panhandle and parts of Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and Missouri as they moved eastward.

Tornadoes were reported Monday night in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming and Florida and although they caused some damage, no injuries were reported.

Tornado winds slammed through Jacksonville, Fla., Monday night, uprooting trees, damaging several homes and a motel, and knocking out power in various areas. The roof was lifted from a motel on the city's South Side and dropped into its parking lot, damaging a number of cars. Several home owners reported funnel clouds touched down in their yards.

A tornado that struck near Dubois, Wyo., uprooted hundreds of trees.

"All of a sudden we could see the trees stand up and then they were flattened down," said Jack Conley, a Wyoming Game and Fish Department employee who watched the funnel cloud drop from the sky.

"Huge trees and everything, God, it scared the hell out of us."

Golfball-sized hail also fell in southwest Kansas and extreme western Nebraska and smaller hail fell near Whiteville, N.C., and Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Thunderstorms were also found today along the mid-Atlantic and Carolina coasts, in the central and southern Appalachians and over much of New England. Thunderstorms dotted the northern Rocky Mountain region into Utah and Nevada.

Summer officially arrived at 6:14 a.m. EDT when astronomers said the sun was at its most northerly point. It marked the start of the sun's southward trek that will take it to its southernmost point by Dec. 21 at 4:24 p.m.

Church pushes tax counseling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An amendment calling for tax counseling services for some 240,000 taxpayers was tacked on an appropriations bill today in the U.S. Senate.

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, provides $300,000 for an Internal Revenue Service training program to prepare tax consultants to help citizens with their tax returns.

Nearly 10,000 volunteers including 4,250 elderly persons are expected to be trained under the amendment.

Church said many Americans still overpay their taxes each year because of the complexity of the forms.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a girl who has a twin brother. We are very much in love and have talked about getting married one day, but that will have to wait because I am only 18 and she is 17.

Someone told me that in the case of boy-girl twins, the girl has only a 5 per cent chance of having a child. Is that true?
WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: No! That misconception (no pun intended) must have originated from the fact that when a cow bears twins and one is a male and another a female, the female (called "free-martin") stands only a 5 per cent chance of reproducing. That's no bull!

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter ran away to get married when she was 17. Two years later her husband left her and their small baby. The court awarded her sufficient support so that she could maintain her own apartment, which she did until recently. She decided to take a practical nursing course at the vocational school, so I agreed to take care of her baby. It simplified matters by having her move in with dad and me.

Before she moved in I made a few rules: One was that she was not to entertain any male guests unless dad or I were home. The other night she had a male friend here, knowing we wouldn't be home. This upset me. Her father claims she is 21, and we should trust her. It is a matter of principle with me: Do you think a 21-year-old divorcee should be allowed to entertain male friends alone?
AGAINST IT

DEAR AGAINST IT: Yes, she was wrong to have violated a "rule" she agreed to accept. But you were wrong for having made such a rule in the first place. Why offer your daughter a roof over her head and then raise it because she wants to entertain her friends at home?

Where else should a respectable woman entertain? Either change that rule, Mother, or tell daughter to change her address. You'll both be much happier.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 20 and her fiancé is 21. They're planning a September wedding. All the plans are made, and I have money down on everything. The problem is that they fight constantly. Every other week the wedding is off. They both have terrible tempers.

I can't tolerate this fighting any more. Should I call off the wedding? What kind of marriage could this be?
FED UP MOM

DEAR FED UP: It could be a total loss on a short-term investment.

If the wedding is on now, go through with it. But if they call it off again, tell them you're not footing the bills for a wedding that looks like it won't last.

Tug of war grows over parks' future

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A convention of osteopaths at Yosemite National Park? Golden arches adorning the Grand Canyon? A row of motels along the everglades?

National Park concessions began with the creation in 1872 of Yellowstone National Park, the nation's first. The law creating the park said private enterprise should provide services essential to visitor enjoyment.

But as family owners died or could not finance needed improvements, the park service began encouraging large companies to run park facilities.

Also must provide unprofitable out of season services and their prices are regulated by the park service.

THE MAMMOTH Hotel is located in Yellowstone National Park. The trend toward conglomerate-owned national park concessions and increased park use has led to a full scale tug of war over the future of the parks. On one side, the concessionaires; on the other, environmentalists. In the middle, the National Park Service and in the background, Congress. (UPI)

Uncertain future

Soupy talks on throwing pies, comedy

NEW YORK (UPI)—To say that Soupy Sales holds a pie-in-the-face record would undoubtedly bring forth another claimant to the world record.

Will give $500 if I take a pie. If they get a kick out of that, I say fine. I'm a mess anyway. And it's only shaving cream, of course.

How does he manage a clean act and the transition from tube to stage?

Soupy estimates he has been splattered with 19,000 and makes no claims. He would much rather talk about a style of comedy that is pretty much his own and which he forecasts will make a television comeback.

Well, I guess we'll just have to go back to the old days; running out to the nearest kitchen; getting the cooking lady to whip up four eggs. That was tough sometimes when the lady was too busy. Wound up hunting for eggs and a stagehand trying to whip them in the wings.

It's a 40-minute stint of singing, dancing, skills and slight gags in a style that got started with disc jockey work on a Huntington, W. Va., station. He was almost fired because his furniture-pounding for sound effects in an early version of his dog act made the manager fearful for the furniture.

But the very mention of his name evokes recollections of the pies he's received on his children's show. Soupy, as any offspring as an obliging discusser on the arts and techniques of pies hurled passively.

Essentially a fresh act, "five years in the woodshed." It still has bits for which he is known.

His style developed imitating the likes of Buster Keaton, spinning records from Cincinnati to Detroit and in nightclubs "so tough they said 'that's not sadwast on the floor, that's furniture from last night.'"

Soupy still gets splattered with a pie, but it is rare. That nighttime network show of the '30s and '40s, as popular with adults as children, is long gone. The TV guest shows, game shows and specials on which he appears generally don't lend themselves to pie throwing. Neither does the nightclub act he is about to open.

"I do my dog story," he growls. "White Fang and Black Tooth and the mouse"—he does all of them in quick succession without props for an audience of three, all of whom laugh.

Now Soupy, 51, longs for the kind of show he had when he replaced Kukla, Fran and Ollie in 1955.

Just back from a television in Savannah, headed for another in Detroit, doing a half dozen of them annually, he said he will make conditions to pie projections on telethons.

"I do my dog story," he growls. "White Fang and Black Tooth and the mouse"—he does all of them in quick succession without props for an audience of three, all of whom laugh.

"I love the club acts because that's live and I was always live on television. But I do miss my own show. And I think there is a need for physical comedians. People prefer them. They'll be back."

SOUPY SALES 'physical' comedian

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

L. Dr. Lamb: I am a 35-year-old male. I was an alcoholic for 11 years and finally came to grips with it nine months ago. I went through a horrible case of the D.T.s which I hope has put the fear of the Lord in me for the remainder of my existence.

I am being treated by a very fine doctor who has me on Librium. But since stopping alcohol with the D.T.s I have a total lack of libido.

Tell me the truth, will it ever return? Or have I caused irreparable damage to my body? Otherwise I am in excellent health, including being mentally alert and feeling better than I can remember.

Dear Reader: You are a young man. And there is a good chance that your interest in sex and sexual responses will return to normal.

You should know that alcohol has a direct effect on the testicles, resulting in a decrease in male hormone production. In a study of men who consume an equivalent of one and one-fourth pints of 100 proof whiskey a day for four weeks, Dr. Gary Gordon of New York Medical College found a 21 to 30 per cent decrease in testosterone production. And the testosterone in the blood stream was more rapidly removed.

Your weight loss has also been a factor. Men in starvation situations lose all interest in sex. I do not mean to imply your loss of weight is bad. It is good, but I doubt that you body has completed its readjustment.

I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-4. Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer, to give you a broader picture of the bad effects of alcohol on the human body. Others who want this issue may send 20 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to Post Office Box 1081, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101. You may wish to share this information with other people who have a drinking problem and have not been as successful as you in overcoming it. Congratulations.

Dear Dr. Lamb: I am a radio broadcaster and in my work I use headphones every day. Through the years I've noticed it's been necessary for me to boost the volume of the phones, bit by bit. I'm worried the phones are damaging my hearing and yet I have to use them in my work. How harmful are headphones to the ears?

The headphones are not harmful. It is the sound that comes out of them. If the noise level is low enough it should not harm your ears. But if you have high intensity noise exposure, regularly it will induce ear damage.

Of course you may be having changes in your hearing that are completely unrelated to your headphones. I would suggest that you see an ear, nose and throat specialist and have your hearing checked. You may have a completely different condition that he can help you with.

(Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column.)

Genetic heritage knowledge valuable

By United Press International

DR. AUBREY MILUNSKY geneticist

Five words Dr. Aubrey Milunsky hates to hear: "If only I had known!"

By analyzing this fluid, which takes one to two weeks, a scientist can tell whether the fetus is normal and even identify the sex.

The lament that angers and frustrates him comes from parents in very special circumstances. Very sad circumstances, too.

This process is called amniocentesis—a word that derives from the name of the fluid, amnion, in the baby's prenatal environment.

The Mom and Dad had just learned that their newborn child has a serious birth defect, a genetic disease or mental retardation that could have been averted.

Milunsky talked about genetic counseling and amniocentesis during an interview.

Milunsky, of Harvard University, is one of the world's top geneticists. He knows how simple tests of two persons before they marry or conceive can predict whether babies born of that union will be normal—or if there is a chance some of the babies will be imperfect.

He has written a book on the topics for laymen called "Know Your Genes" (Doubtless Millin). Milunsky feels what's behind the covers is of immediate importance to the personal health of high school seniors, persons in their child-bearing years and those 45 to 50.

That is called genetic counseling. Some authorities feel it is every person's right to know what kind of blueprints for the development of new life they carry in their genes—which they, of course, inherit.

In middle age, for example, knowing about your genetic heritage can tip you off about being predisposed to diabetes, cancer or other disorders.

Milunsky, assistant professor of pediatrics at Harvard Medical School, also is director of the division of genetics at the Eunice Kennedy Shriver Center for Mental Retardation in Waltham, Mass., and a medical geneticist at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

Just knowing, according to Milunsky, can help you to take steps: avoiding lifestyles that might trigger the emergence of these conditions, for one example of a step.

Another kind of predicting is done once a woman has had a fetus in utero for 14 to 16 weeks. A small amount of fluid is withdrawn by needle from the sac in which the baby is encased in a watery environment.

Or, in the case of cancer, it can alert you to be on the lookout for early symptoms—said to be the best time to seek medical help.

Genetic heritage knowledge valuable

The birth of a defective or retarded child has always been one of the most feared tragedies to confront parents," Milunsky said.

Today, however, through genetic counseling and new techniques of prenatal diagnosis and carrier detection, couples can selectively have healthy, unaffected children.

Milunsky describes the procedures in the book and discusses their accuracy, and their applicability.

"You have a right to know your genetic heritage," he says. "You have the right to choose among the medical options that may be available."

"To have options, however—you must know your genes."

If amniocentesis shows, for example, that the fetus is going to be born with limbs missing, the parents may, among choices, consider aborting that pregnancy and trying again.

Milunsky said doing amniocentesis just to determine the sex of the baby—for family planning purposes—is "an inappropriate use of a very expensive and accurate technology."

They're 22 million in America alone.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Muncie Mink, Wendell, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallace, Bellevue, Wash.

Rev. Jesse L. Hawkins, Hillsboro, Wash., uncle of the bride, and Rev. Francis Horner of the Wendell church performed the ceremonial rites.

Here is a good hand for use of the code word ARCH. At least, South needs the "C" (Count your winners and losers) and the "H" (How can I make this hand?).

There are two sure-trump losers, a very likely heart loser, and two possible club losers.

South's problem is to handle those two club losers and he can do this with proper trump management. He must find a way to play two rounds of trumps without giving the defense a chance to play a third round.

This isn't too difficult. He simply leads a low trump at trick two. It doesn't matter who wins the trick and what is led back. Suppose East wins and leads back a second club. South wins and cashes his ace of spades. Then he ruffs a club. Next come three high diamonds from dummy. West can ruff the third, discard. It doesn't matter there is no way to keep South from ruffing his last club with dummy's last trump.

Playing standard American or Acol you open two spades. If you play two clubs as your only forcing bid, you open two clubs. The hand is too powerful for a four-spade opening.

Allen irks Finley

CHICAGO (UPI) — Oakland A's first baseman Dick Allen was suspended without pay for a one-week period Monday night for taking a shower in the sixth inning of Monday night's game between the A's and Chicago White Sox.

Oakland owner Charles Finley made the announcement with manager Bobby Winick shortly after the game, won by the A's 7-1.

"I went into the dugout in the sixth inning to use the bathroom," said Finley, "and I noticed Dick wasn't in there. When I went inside I saw him taking a shower."

Finley then called Winick in to have a look and the two agreed on the one-week suspension.

"I've been going along with Allen and trying to show the world I can work with him," said Finley. "But he's found out I'm just like the rest of the suckers. I don't care if he never shows up again."

Allen reportedly left the ballpark in the eighth inning without being informed of the decision.

"I happen to like Dick, but when a player arbitrarily takes a shower he ain't my type of player," Finley said. "And if he doesn't like it he can take a hike."

Still a Yankee

BILLY Martin will stay on as the manager of the New York Yankees, for the time being. After Martin met with club President Gabe Paul, owner George Steinbrenner and rightfielder Reggie Jackson, it was announced Martin would remain with the club. Martin's position is considered shaky at best.

Martin retained as Yanks manager

DETROIT (UPI) — Clashed Billy Martin earned a reprieve as manager of the New York Yankees Monday night when club president Gabe Paul successfully talked team owner George Steinbrenner out of firing him.

"There are a lot of rumors, unconfirmed rumors of changes in our organization," Paul said, "leading off an unusual press conference called just 10 minutes prior to the start of New York's nationally televised game at Detroit."

"There is not going to be a change regardless of what you have heard," Paul said. "Some things that needed to be straightened out have been."

Billy Martin will continue as manager of the New York Yankees.

"I feel secure," said a source, "Martin after a preliminary meeting with Steinbrenner and Reggie Jackson, the confrontation from which the right fielder emerged beaming."

"I plan on being here until I'm told otherwise," Martin said.

Before Jackson, Martin, Paul and Steinbrenner met repeatedly throughout the day after UPI Sports Editor Milton Richman disclosed that the Yankees had decided to fire Martin.

Steinbrenner was all for letting Martin go; Paul argued for one more chance, the same way he did six weeks ago when Martin was on the verge of being fired over a dispute with the front office concerning third-string catcher Elrod Hendricks being sent back to the minors. Martin was fined $2,500 when he failed to show up at a meeting with Paul about the Hendricks affair.

A national TV audience saw Martin and Jackson almost come to blows in the dugout Saturday during the second of three straight one-sided Red Sox victories over the Yankees. The confrontation resulted from Martin's charge that Jackson had failed to hustle properly for a double to right field by Jim Rice.

Paul said, "Absolutely not," when asked directly if Steinbrenner attempted to talk him into firing the volatile Martin, whose confrontation with Jackson Saturday was viewed by a national television audience. Paul said the incident had no bearing on Monday's meeting.

"From the time the game starts to the end of the game, there is a better manager in the major leagues," Paul said.

"No one incident determines whether a club or team keeps a manager."

"A lot of attention was given to a certain incident the other day," he said. "The things that were discussed were of great importance. Everybody is

Tanner first high seed to bite Wimbledon dust

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — While past champions paraded on the immaculately green center court Monday to celebrate the opening of Wimbledon's centennial championships, a British hero was busy on the adjoining court adding the name of Roscoe Tanner to the even bigger roll of favorites who have fallen in the first round.

John Lloyd, a British Davis Cup player ranked No. 3 at home, upset a nerve-ridden Tanner, 3-6, 6-4, 6-6, to start the All-England Club's 100th year with a win nobody had predicted.

Tanner, seeded fourth and a semifinalist here for the past two years, fell to the Briton on the No. 1 court where so many seeds have struggled against little-known opponents over the years.

The weather was cold, gray and inhospitable as former greats like John Newcombe and Elizabeth Ryan stepped onto center court to receive a commemorative medal from the Duke of Kent. They had nothing to give away in elegance or speed to modern day champions, but were thinking perhaps how this year's $72,410 of prize money compared with those years when all they were allowed were "expenses."

Tanner collected just $340 for losing in the first round. Not even his 140-mph serve which produced 12 aces could help him on a day when his nerves gradually took control of him after an opening set when he played as a favorite should.

Defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden was seldom in trouble in his opening match, coming through, 6-4, 6-2, 9-7, against Italy's Antonio Zugarelli, who suffered a similar fate last year to Jimmy Connors in the opening round.

Connors, nursing a sore right thumb, had his opener postponed until Tuesday because of the injury and took advantage by getting some grass court practice in with his old friend Lieke Nistene.

Other seeds followed Borg's lead and came over the first and often most tricky hurdle without problems.

Vitas Gerulaitis, the eighth seed from New York, went past fellow American Tom Gorman

Raul Ramirez, Mexico, falls to the grass of the Wimbledon court during his match against Peter Fleming in the first round of Wimbledon play. The prestige prize money of $373,440, and the presence of all the game's top stars make Wimbledon Championships more pressure-packed than the average tennis tournament.

Martin's problem: too near players

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Martin isn't out of the woods yet.

He wasn't officially pardoned, only reprieved, and nobody realizes that any better than him.

He also knows his reprieve could be as temporary as a week or a few days and that were it not for the fact club president Gabe Paul saved him from being fired for the second time in less than six weeks, he would have been gone because that was the way owner George Steinbrenner wanted it to be before Paul persuaded him otherwise.

"You really want to know how far the firing of Billy Martin had progressed?"

This is how far: The Yankees already had given another American League club permission to talk with Martin about hiring him as their manager.

Let Gabe Paul try to deny that.

He shouldn't because if he does, he'll never get to heaven that way.

Paul tried to make it sound as if Monday night's meeting in Detroit, attended by Steinbrenner, Martin, Reggie Jackson and him, was merely to get things "straightened out," and had nothing to do with Martin's imminent dismissal, but who is he kidding? Certainly not Martin.

In answer to a direct question, Paul denied Steinbrenner wanted a change in managers, but that didn't even fool Martin, who knows much better.

Prior to Monday night's nationally televised game between the Yankees and Tigers in Detroit, Howard Cosell put it straight to Martin: how did he feel about remaining as manager with a ball club whose owner he knew wanted him out? Martin's expression spoke volumes.

"It isn't the most pleasant thing," he said.

Paul was right on target in one respect, though, when he said "a lot of attention was given to a certain incident—the other day." He didn't bother identifying the "certain incident," which of course was The Big Boston Blowup between Jackson and Martin last Saturday.

"Most of those who witnessed the episode on their television screens last Saturday were utterly fascinated at the rare spectacle of a manager looking to bounce a few line drives off one of his players in public view."

Not everybody was fascinated, though. Some people who saw what transpired simply had to laugh, and Calvin Griffith was among them.

Griffith owns the Minnesota Twins, and in the course of operating them he has had occasion to admire Martin, employ him and fire him. He was watching the game of the week from Boston on the TV set in his home last Saturday and he had to laugh when he saw how Martin had to be restrained by two of his coaches from going after Jackson.

What made Calvin Griffith react the way he did was his recollection of Billy Martin with the Twins, and part of that recollection had to do with the way Martin had once knocked out his best pitcher, Dave Boswell, while managing the club.

That incident took place outside the Lindell Athletic Club in Detroit, which was then a favorite drinking spot and hangout for professional athletes, and there were any number of conflicting claims afterward, Martin said Boswell had come after him and Boswell countered by saying Martin wasn't telling the truth if he said that.

Calvin Griffith remembered that and a lot more when he watched Martin struggle to get at Jackson in the Yankees' dugout at Fenway Park after Martin had removed Jackson in the middle of an inning.

"I think Martin can never get over the fact he was a ballplayer," said the Twins' owner.

"That's the way it was when he was managing with us. He always wanted to associate with the ballplayers. I spoke to him about that any number of times and told him that for any manager to be effective, he can't run around with his ballplayers."

Martin was fired as manager by the Twins eight years ago, even after he had led them to a western division title, and he has been fired by Detroit and Texas since, but in one regard, he hasn't changed at all. As Griffith says, he still can't get over the fact he once was a ballplayer.

Feeling that way, he identifies much more closely with his players than most managers and that periodically gets him into trouble when he tries to usurp some of the authority which normally belongs to such people as the general manager, president and owner in the front office.

When he was managing the Tigers, he became so incensed over the front office disciplining outfielder Willie Horton, he resigned.

Only for a day, though.

He had a change of mind pretty quickly, and now all he can do is hope the Yanks don't change theirs again in another couple of days.

Four Red Sox lead All-Star balloting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Not only did the Boston Red Sox take over first place in the American League East with an overwhelming display of power this weekend, but four of their players are ahead in balloting at their positions to select the All-Star team.

According to the latest voting released Monday, Carlton Fisk is in front in the balloting for catcher, Rick Burleson leads at shortstop and Carl Yastrzemski and Fred Lynn are the leading vote-getters among outfielders. Yastrzemski hit four of Boston's record 16 homers in a weekend sweep of the Yankees.

The leaders at the other positions for the game to be played in Yankee Stadium on Tuesday night, July 19, are Rod Carew of Minnesota at first base, Don Money of Kansas City at second base, George Brett of Kansas City at third base and Joe Rudi of California for the third outfield berth.

Carew, elected to start in the All-Star game each season since his rookie year in 1967, leads all American League vote-getters with 608,271 votes, more than double the 297,022 compiled by first base runner Chris Chambliss of the Yankees.

The two closest races are at shortstop, where Burleson leads Bert Campaneris of Texas by 9,363 votes, and at second, where Money leads Willie Randolph of the Yankees by 12,613 votes. In addition, Rickey Zisk of Chicago trails Rudi by only 9,337 votes among outfielders.

Illegal headgear

Fidrych whips Yankees 2-1 on Jackson misplay

DETROIT (UPI) — Right fielder Reggie Jackson's misplay of a routine fly ball by Mickey Stanley set up Andy Rodriguez tie-breaking single Monday night that gave the Detroit Tigers a nationally televised 2-1 victory over the slumping New York Yankees behind the three-hit pitching of Mark Fidrych.

Fidrych won his fourth straight game after two season opening losses and wowed Detroit's largest crowd of the season of 47,235, with a nine-inning performance that was easily his best of the season. He gave up two hits, singles by Thurman Munson and Chris Chambliss, in the fifth inning when the Yankees scored their only run on Jackson's sacrifice fly.

The Tigers tied the score in the fourth on a single by Tito Fuentes and a double by rookie Steve Kemp then began their winning rally in the seventh when Jason Thompson opened with a walk. Stanley then hit what appeared to be an easy fly ball to right but Jackson apparently lost Stanley's routine sinking-line drive in Tiger Stadium's brand-new $750,000 lighting system.

Jackson, involved in a controversial incident with Billy Martin which may have prompted his job, appeared to have the ball within his grasp but shied away just as it cruised by his right knee and under his glove. Rodriguez, who had driven in only four runs in 73 at bats this season, followed with a looping single to center which tagged south-paw Don Gullett his third after six victories in a row.

Cubs edge Giants 10-9

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mick Kelleher tripped to score Joe Wallis with the winning run in the 12th inning Monday night to give the Chicago Cubs a 10-9 victory over the San Francisco Giants despite six RBIs by Bobbat Marner.

Terry Connett, the fourth Giants pitcher, retired the first two batters in the 12th, but then walked Wallis and gave up the winning hit to Kelleher.

Marner, who had pitched in 14 games, struck out three batters in the 12th, including Wallis, to give the Cubs the win.

Rhoden wins 10th for LA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rick Rhoden capitalized on four Los Angeles home runs to become the first to-game winner in the National League Monday night when the Dodgers slugged their way to a 9-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Pirates snap loss streak

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Phil Garner connected for his fifth homer of the year with the two-run homer and one out in the eighth inning Monday night, enabling the Pittsburgh Pirates to snap a seven-game losing streak with a 5-3 triumph over the San Diego Padres.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rodney Scott and Earl Williams each drove in two runs Monday night to pace the Oakland Athletics attack which enabled the A's to snap a five-game losing streak with a 7-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Mariners drop Royals 4-2

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Lee Stanton knocked in three runs with a pair of singles Monday night to give the Seattle Mariners a 4-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Indians win 3rd straight

TORONTO (UPI) — Ray Fosse's bases-loaded triple in the top of the 11th inning Monday night lifted the Cleveland Indians to their third straight victory under new manager Tom Torborg, an 8-5 decision over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Red Sox up AL lead

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Jim Rice ripped a run-scoring triple and three singles, Carl Yastrzemski doubled in a pair of runs and Butch Hobson added a solo home run Monday night leading the Boston Red Sox to a 4-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles behind the two-hit pitching of Rick Wise.

The victory increased Boston's first place lead to 31 games in the American League East.

Phillies finally beat Reds

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mike Schmidt drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a single to pace an 11-hit attack Monday night which carried the Philadelphia Phillies to a 10-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Schmidt homered with Jerry Martin aboard in the first, his 16th, of the year. Larry Bowa hit his third homer of the year in the second.

Courageous leads Cup series

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Courageous, the 1974 America's Cup champion, overcame a "stony bottom" to beat its rival Independence twice Monday in trial races to choose a U.S. defender of the cup.

early lead over Independence and stayed in front throughout the third day of a series of races to determine this year's Cup defender.

Both races were shortened after the fifth of six legs because Courageous was so far ahead it was impossible for Independence to catch up. Courageous was ahead by 67 seconds in the first race and 52 in the second.

"The guy who is in almost anything is the guy that makes the fewest mistakes," conceded sailmaker Ted Hood, skipper of Independence.

The clearest victory for Courageous is considered an upset, because the two yachts have raced evenly in tune-ups of Marblehead, Mass.

"The whole thing depends on the men," said Lee Loomis, president of Kings Point Synchronic, sponsor of both yachts. "We've made such technical advances that the boats are pretty much equal. The people on the boats are what is important."

The West Coast challenger Enterprise was scheduled to face Independence when the trials continued Tuesday.

Player finds hot putter one round too late

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Gary Player and Leonard Thompson each shot a 6 under par 66 to share the title at the 114th annual V.P.I.P. Pro-Am Tournament Monday.

Player, the PGA veteran who has won 18 tournaments, and Thompson, a relative unknown on the tour, started early and escaped a wind that grew stronger as the day progressed. Only 15 of the 41 professionals bettered par on the University of Iowa's Finkbine course and most were in the morning groups.

The breaker was not possible because Player had to catch a plane for the first leg of a 37-hour trip to his home in South Africa shortly after he finished. Player and Thompson each will receive $3,000 as first prize, although it may be Tuesday or Wednesday before Annans officials can reach Player and inform him of his victory.

Total purse for the tournament was $30,000.

It was the second straight year the VIP, billed as the richest pro-am in the country, ended in a tie. Jim Dent won a two-late playoff last year after six players tied for first.

Lou Graham, runner-up in the U.S. Open, finished two strokes back Monday with a 4 under par 68 and received $2,000. Dent was part of a group that tied at 69. The others were Tom Kite, Charles Coody, J.C. Sneed and Dave Stockton.

Finishing at 70 were Mason

Rudolph, Roger Maltbie, Bruce Devlin and Larry Nelson. U.S. Open champion Hubert Green carded a 71, as did Johnny Miller and George Archer.

JoAnne Carner, the first woman to play in the VIP, finished fourth with a 78. The only player she beat was John Malfuff, who had an 80.

Player lost his putting touch in the final round of the U.S. Open Sunday, but he was on the mark at the VIP. He teared the front nine in 31, which is 5 under par, and had a 35 on the back nine of the 6,107-yard course.

"I came out today and putted magnificently," Player said. "On my first put today, I holed a 45-footer."

Fishing film shown

TWIN FALLS — The movie "Fly Fishing World" will be shown at the June meeting of the Magic Valley Fly Fishermen Tuesday night.

In addition to the film, a short presentation on the Youth Conservation Corp. will be given by Rich Heiler.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Boy Scout Building on North Main Street.

The public is invited to attend.

Cubs sign top draftee

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — University of South Carolina pitcher Randy Martz, recognized as the top college player in the nation although he played only one season, signed a contract with the Chicago Cubs Monday.

Martz, who first came here from Elizabethtown, Pa., to play football, will go to the Cubs AA farm club in Midland, Tex.

"We feel like he can be ready to pitch in the major leagues in two years," said Eddie Lyons, chief scout for the Cubs.

Martz, 21, was 144 this season as the South Carolina

Gamecocks finished second in the College World Series, dropping a 2-1 decision to Arizona State in Saturday's championship game. The right-handed Martz had two victories in the series and was named to the series all-star team.

Cauten back in saddle

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steve Cauten, injured a month ago in a spectacular three-horse spill that put the nation's leading jockey in the hospital, will start riding again Thursday at Belmont Park.

"He'll start working out horses again tomorrow," Cauten's agent, Connie Goodman, said Monday night from his home in Woodmere, L.I., "and he'll have four mounts Thursday afternoon."

Cauten, who has ridden in the New York scene last winter after successfully opening his riding career at River Downs, Churchill Downs and Arlington Park, had 240 winners last year and was up to 273 winners for 1977 at the time of his accident May 23.

Cauten, Jorge Velasquez and Pat Day were all involved in the spill, in which two of their mounts suffered injuries serious enough to be destroyed. Day was unhurt and Velasquez was released from the hospital the same day with a minor break in his left foot, but Cauten spent four days in Long Island Jewish Hospital with a fractured wrist, bruises and cuts and a mild concussion.

"He's been exercising, lifting weights and jogging at home (in Walton, Ky.) and vacationing in Florida, fishing and seeing Disney World," Goodman said in explaining how his 17-year-old charge has been working himself back into shape.

"The doctors have said his wrist is okay, the neurosurgeon just said it was a slight concussion and Steve is eager to resume riding," Goodman said.

Cauten, still four days "or maybe five, there's a day in question" short of losing his apprentice status, will have four mounts on his first day back, but could have had more if he chose.

"The reception from the trainers and owners he rode for before has been great," said Goodman. "I could get as much business as I want, it would have been no problem to have gotten him nine mounts — one in each race."

"But I just wanted him to ride four. He won't be back to a full program until he tells me that's what he wants. I planned for four rides for him for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and Monday he's going to be publicizing a country and western record he just recorded. After Monday, it could be seven, eight, nine races a day."

Goodman cautioned against expecting too much from the teenage jockey right away.

"He's got to get back in the routine," said the agent. "He's been off a while — and so have I. I've been on vacation while he hasn't been around."

"But there shouldn't be any unusual problems. That's the advantage of being 17."

Laver flashes old form

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — The years slipped aside Monday for Rod "The Rocket" Laver and the bogged back into the 100th Wimbledon tennis championships as if he had never been away.

Laver, playing unseeded for the first time since his initial appearance at Wimbledon in 1959, showed the flowing, fluid backhand which won him four men's singles titles as he brushed aside a game but outclassed Sean Sorenson of Ireland.

The final score was 6-0, 6-2, 6-2, and the match was every bit as lopsided as the score made it appear.

When Sorenson finally won a game — the ninth of the match — he lugged a ball into the back yard, but could have had more if he chose.

Laver, holding now and a shade less quick, swung cheers from the Court 3 crowd with a backhand that is still a thing of beauty and some sensational placements — one "flashing" off Sorenson's powerful serve.

The young Irishman, rangy and curly-haired, fought his way into Wimbledon through qualifying tournaments on the strength of a booming but inaccurate serve. When Laver broke that serve in the first game of the match, all of the heart — though not all of the fight — went out of Sorenson.

The match became an exhibition of Laver's skills. He never came close to losing his serve, allowed Sorenson to hold his only four times and showed a speed and snap which belie his 39 years.

New pentathlon mark

BERNHAUSEN, West Germany (UPI) — Eva Wilms of West Germany set a world record of 4,823 points Sunday in the women's pentathlon during a meet against the Soviet Union.

Wilms, who placed seventh in the 1976 Olympic shotput in Montreal, improved her own previous standard by 58 points.

Wilms was helped to the record-shattering performance by winning the classic 200-meter run in 2:19.06, which netted her 794 points.

Demos plan river race

Two young Democrats, Darrel Green and Robin LaPage, float the rapids in the Snake River in preparation for a July 2 fund raiser for the Gooding County Democratic Party. The Gooding County Democrats have planned a novel fund-raising scheme. The organization plants a whitewater river race on the Snake River to raise money for the party. The 2 1/2 hour float race between the Malad River and the new Bliss bridge is open to anyone over 18 with a boat, a paddle and a desire to float some whitewater. Cash prizes will be awarded to the top finishers of the race, according to Aldrich Bowler, publicly chairman for the event. The race begins at 3 p.m. July 2nd and a $20 entry fee, which goes to the Gooding County Democratic Party, will be collected. For more information about the event, boaters may call Bowler at 857-6379.

2 TF men arrested

SHOSHONE — An alert Lincoln County deputy sheriff apprehended two Twin Falls men early Friday morning at the Mammoth Caves Trading Post on charges of first degree burglary.

Frank Kitchin, 28, and Jack Adams, 22, are being held in custody in lieu of $5,000 bond each, awaiting a hearing Thursday, according to Pros. Atty. Bill Stewart.

Mrs. Richard Olsen, whose husband owns the store, said the deputy routinely patrols U.S. 93 north of Shoshone and as he drove by the trading post he noticed the light was off and a car was parked in front.

The Olsens leave a light burning at night in case of burglary, Mrs. Olsen said.

Officers declined to publicize more details of the incident prior to the hearing, but Stewart said "evidence of the burglary was found in their possession."

CSF budget increases 15.8%

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The CSI board Monday approved a budget for next year of about $4.79 million, an increase of about 15.8 per cent over this year's outlay of roughly $4.13 million.

According to College of Southern Idaho President James L. Taylor, the budget increase reflects salary hikes of 8 to 8.5 per cent for most staff and inflation for operational fixed charges such as utilities, insurance payments and employee tax withholdings.

Taylor agreed the budget also reflects the increased emphasis the college is placing on vocational education.

In 1977, the college spent about $1.69 million for vocational instruction, which amounted to close to 46.2 per cent of its total instructional budget.

For fiscal 1978, which begins July 1, the college estimates vocational instructional spending of about $1.29 million, which is an 18.6 per cent increase over this year's expenditure, but also represents about 47.3 per cent of the total instructional budget.

Academic instruction expenditures by comparison were about $1.26 million this year and are projected at $1.44 million next year.

There's no question but what we feel very keenly about vo-tech education," Taylor said, but he was quick to note academic programs had not been reduced with more emphasis on vocational programs.

"I would not want anybody reading the article to say that one part of the operation is suffering at the expense of the other," he said.

Taylor told the board Monday that the increase in the budget should not place a heavier burden on taxpayers except as property is revalued upward.

Referring to a 21.19 per cent increase in tax revenue, from $770,000 this year to $956,300 next year, Taylor said the levy for taxpayers should be about the same because increases in the amount of property on the tax rolls in Twin Falls and Jerome counties would produce income to make the difference in spending.

Noting increases of more than 21 per cent for utilities and more than 36 per cent for insurance, Taylor said the budget was ballooned more by costs than expanded programs.

"I attribute most of it to inflation," he said. He guessed that total enrollment, around 4,020 this year, would increase 5 per cent to about 4,220 next year.

Vocational enrollment has historically comprised about 37 per cent of total enrollment, he said.

He guessed that next year the split might be 40 per cent vocational students and 60 per cent academic students.

Taylor told the board Monday that steps to screen and insulate windows in the administration building might eventually be taken to cut utility costs.

He called inflation "frightening" and noted that much of it came in cost-of-living boosts in salaries.

Low bid announced

BURLEY — Home Plumbing and Heating, Twin Falls, had the low bid Monday night on the fourth and final phase of construction on the $2 million water system improvement project.

The firm bid $685,000 for construction of the pressure reducing stations, boosters and telemetry for the system. It also will subcontract construction of a new building in house the water department and its telemetry at a figure of $235,000.

Bill Block, project engineer from J-U-B Engineers, Twin Falls, said Monday night's bid brings the total cost of the project to $1.76 million.

The city approved bonding of $1.95 million in general obligation bonds a year ago. Federal grant money of $121,600 brought the total available funds to $2 million.

Block told the Burley City Council that the excavation for a two-million-gallon storage tank in southeast Burley is 95 to 98 per cent complete. The storage tank is being constructed at a cost of $198,000.

The tank is near the site of a new culinary well drilled at a cost of $33,190.

Arterial mains to boost water pressure in south Burley and carry additional water to the downtown area have already been laid at a cost of $406,331.

The remaining $198,425 is the figure for J-U-B on the engineering and project inspections.

Decision delayed

TWIN FALLS — After city administrators said they lost some paperwork, the Twin Falls City Council Monday night delayed action on a request by Mormon Church officials to construct a building and parking lot near a church here.

Mormon Church officials had requested they be allowed to construct a church education building and add parking at 421 Maurice St. N. on a conditional use permit in a residential zone.

The council decided to take no action on the request after City Atty. Charles Brumbach and City Manager Jean Miller said they could not find a copy of the proposed conditional use ordinance, a legal document that lists the conditions for council approval of such requests.

Dr. J.H. Smith, a member of the Twin Falls LDS stake high council, said after the meeting city officials had assured church officials a decision on the request would come at Monday's meeting.

He complained church officials had originally requested permission to begin construction a month ago. The church had planned to begin construction today but will have to wait until the next council meeting, July 5, to receive the required council approval before building, Smith said.

GLENN'S FERRY — Glenn County city officials and other interested persons are invited in Twin Falls to see what the firm has taken to eliminate nuisance odors. Citizen complaints about the odor from the waste liquid sprayed onto an 80-acre field west of town near the Three Island State Park sparked action by the City Council. The city has told the park to either eliminate the odor or face closure.

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council Monday unanimously denied a rezoning request which would have allowed retail tile store to operate on Blue Lakes Boulevard.

The man requesting the rezoning said this morning he may appeal the council's decision in Fifth District Court.

Bob Lawrence, who already operates a tile installing center at 304 Blue Lakes Blvd., had requested his land be rezoned from residential to commercial so he could sell tile to the public at his store rather than just store tile there.

The Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission earlier recommended the council deny the request for fear of further encroachment on Blue Lakes Boulevard of commercial zones.

Lawrence argued a retail tile store at his location would not be an encroachment because commercial establishments exist on three other corners at the intersection where his property exists.

Lawrence said he can operate his tile installation business at the location in a residential zone because it is an allowable home-occupation business.

The tile contracting store operator said he was getting too old to install tile, and an arthritis condition was making it difficult for him to install tile. "That's why I want to get into the retail end of it," he said.

City Atty. Charles Brumbach suggested Lawrence has already been operating an illegal retail tile store from his property for the last three years.

"There've been a few occasions when people have bought tile from my place," Lawrence admitted this morning. "But it hasn't amounted to a whole lot."

Lawrence said another reason he wanted the land rezoned commercial is so he could add a three-room addition to the back of the building on his property.

Mules stubborn, but bring bucks

By KEN HODGE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Mules may be stubborn and misunderstood but mules are fetching high prices these days, according to a Twin Falls mule breeder.

Mules have become a fad in the western U.S. in recent months, according to John Qualls, local horse and mule breeder.

Qualls says the formerly scorned animals now are prized animals. And at a recent sale Qualls attended, he saw the best of the beasts bring premium prices of $4,000 to $5,000.

Only last year high quality mules sold for a maximum of $250, Qualls says.

"You can't place a value on them," Qualls says. "It's just what people will give for them."

Qualls personally has two mules which he sold for about $1,600 to $2,000 each and they later sold in an Arizona woman for $4,000 each.

At a recent sale at Mule Days in Bishop, Calif., culminating a four-day celebration including dancing and an all-mule parade, Qualls recalls he saw small mules still sell for $200 to $300. Only the larger, good color mules sold for prices from $750 to $5,000.

The mule fad has hit hard in Arizona and New Mexico where many people ride them in the mountains and back woods for pleasure.

Idahoans are discovering the pleasures of a good mule, too.

"It's by far the greatest animal in the world for getting you out of trouble," Qualls says. "They'll sense danger."

"You have to get them up in the Selway (mountains of Idaho) and damn near get your neck broke before you'll appreciate them," he adds.

A mule is a cross obtained by breeding a mare to a jack. The result is something in between and is usually sterile.

Qualls, who breeds mules "just for pleasure," uses Mammoth Jacks "just for pleasure." The breed was introduced into this country when the King of Spain gave some Catalonian and Andalusian Jackasses to George Washington.

Washington bred his animals to mares and called the first one "The Gilt." The nation's first president started the registry on that breed, calling it the Mammoth tile and, according to Qualls, it is one of the oldest registries in the U.S.

Mating a smaller jack to a large mare is a bit tricky, Qualls says. He says it is often necessary to build a ramp for the jack to stand on or to dig a pit for the mare to stand in to equalize the height of the animals during breeding season.

He breeds for color and size. He also places emphasis on the ears.

"If you have a short-eared jack, you'll have an off-balance mule," Qualls explains. His Mammoth Jack has long, well-formed ears and is not yet fully grown. He says a good jack should be about 15 hands high.

Whatever the reason for the fad, mules have become very popular, according to Qualls.

Qualls himself has a pile of business cards given to him by people he met in California at Mule Days who want to buy mules. He never expects to be able to provide all the mules people ordered.

Qualls says he does not know what has sparked the current fad for mules.

"They're a different breed of animal," he says. "You can't catch a mule with the fastest horse on earth, yet anything can outrun him with a man on his back, if he doesn't want to run."

The fad for mules has even spread to the construction business, according to Qualls. One man who runs 100 mules for pack animals has a contract with a southern California power company to haul the concrete and gravel needed to build a power plant high in the Sierra Mountains where no motorized vehicles are allowed.

Qualls says the man will haul 180 tons of gravel and 80 tons of concrete about 300 pounds per mule over mountain trails to the plant site.

FDA ponders sulfa drug ban

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Food and Drug Administration officials have served notice they are ready to consider possible bans on sulfa drugs used to treat swine. Producers have not rapidly rejected sulfa residues in pork.

The ban program has been developed by big industry leaders in a letter from Philip Carter of the FDA's Bureau of Veterinary Medicine to FDA's Chief Counsel, which made it clear that officials would regard a ban as a last-ditch step to be considered only if all other current efforts to solve the problem should fail as part of a long campaign by Agriculture Department and FDA officials to bring down the number of illegal sulfa residues.

In most cases, Carter said, an FDA task force developed recently that the problem grew out of "neglect or inattention" by farmers in following directions for use of sulfa drugs in hog feeds.

For many years, farmers have been mixing the drugs into feed and water at a low level to prevent disease outbreaks. Under FDA regulations, producers are supposed to halt the use of medicated feeds 5, 7 or 10 days before slaughter depending on the specific medication used.

In most cases, Carter said, the drug can be naturally eliminated before the hog is turned into pork.

In recent years, however, officials said an Agriculture Department testing program has been finding residues above the legal safe "tolerance" of one-tenth of one part per million in about one out of every 10 hogs tested.

"That figure is higher than for residues of any other group of drugs in any other species of food animal, is unacceptable in light of the potential public health hazard it represents," Carter's letter said.

Other officials have said the low-level traces residues found so far in hogs are not known to be a danger to human health, but that they have no hard information on how they might affect people with acute sensitivity to sulfa drugs. In one crackdown move, the Agriculture Department already has announced it will boost the number of hogs tested for sulfa residues to 1,200 monthly. This is six times the testing rate of early 1977 and 10 times last year's level.

Agriculture officials also warned that unless violation rates drop soon, they may impose additional restrictions on marketing of hogs from farms where "violations" are detected.

In the FDA, Carter said his bureau expects soon to ask agency officials for permission to propose a regulation lengthening the "withdrawal" period in which hogs must be kept on non-medicated feed before slaughter. Instead of the present periods of 5 to 10 days, officials may propose requiring a 14 or 15 day withdrawal, he said.

But if all these steps fail, Carter said, an FDA task force has recommended that the agency should propose "canned" authority for use of sulfa drugs in hog feeds.

"Such a step would be drastic indeed. We realize the importance of sulfa drug use in the swine industry for disease treatment and control. But we are also aware of our responsibility to the American consumer and we are, therefore, prepared to consider all necessary steps to bring sulfa residues under control," Carter's letter said.

The official called on industry leaders to help by informing hog raisers about the seriousness of the problem and by stressing careful production practices. Carter said he was confident that swine producers will realize that it is to their advantage to use animal drugs properly and carefully.

FDA officials said some violations were due to shippers who knowingly shipped hogs to slaughter without waiting for the proper withdrawal time. Others, they said, were probably due to "mis-ups" in allowing hogs access to medicated feed or failure to thoroughly clean feeding equipment when switching to non-medicated feeds.

Coloradoans' view of subsidy mixed

GREELEY, Colo. (UPI)—The executive manager of the Mountain States Beet Growers Association says the 1977 sugar beet growers in Colorado would receive nearly $1 million in assistance under federal Carter's sugar subsidy program.

Reynolds, some Colorado growers have reacted with mixed emotions to Carter's subsidy program. He said the sugar beet industry was in serious need of help because of depressed prices and sugar exports, but there are more who question whether the president's program is the right way to go.

"We appreciate the administration's concern for the plight of our industry, but we feel that the particulars of the program do not meet the demand that we have been expressing," Reynolds said.

Reynolds said the program will be a short-term U.S. Agriculture Department's own goal to support the industry at the level of the cost of production. He said the program sets the support at 10 cents per pound, the 1976 price for sugar should be 12 cents to meet production costs.

The current cost of production is running about 82 cents a ton, while the federal program would lift receipts to about $2.5 a ton, Reynolds said.

Reynolds said he also objected to the way sugar processors would be required to deliver the money to the growers. The plan includes an additional help for the processors.

"The growers feel that the processors will either refuse to participate in the program or will seek a renegotiation of the contract payment scale," he said.

"The growers feel that even though the program is popular, it is better than nothing, and that any attempt by the sugar company to improve the program by not participating will result in a further demise of the industry," Reynolds said.

Reynolds said the program could result in about $6,000 in additional money for each grower in Colorado.

Jack B. Powell, president of the Great Western Sugar Co., the nation's largest processing firm, last week criticized the program because of its failure to provide any relief for sugar processing firms.

"A solution that fails to address the losses being suffered at today's prices by both processor and grower is a 'no solution,'" he said.

A program that destroys a total domestic industry serves no one.

Stocks at Midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher Tuesday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues. The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 0.65 point to 925.12 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 107 to 71, among the 419 issues crossing the tape. Just as the market opened, the Labor Department reported May Consumer Price Index rose 0.6 percent, out of a 1.2 percent annual rate. May's increase was somewhat lower than the 10 percent monthly average since the beginning of 1977. The CPI rose 0.8 percent in April and January, 0.6 percent in March and 1 percent in February.

Revised Commerce Department figures Monday showed the Gross National Product index rose at a 1.97 percent rate in the first quarter rather than 5.5 percent previously announced. Investors were somewhat Monday that another Commerce Department revision showed the first-quarter GNP rose by 6.9 percent instead of 6.4 percent as reported in an earlier revision. In another major revision, the department said corporate profits rose 5.1 percent instead of the 0.9 percent increase originally reported.

A number of wary observers said the revised government data and the department's reports produced a muddled picture of the economy's outlook.

Area dangerous

MOUNTAIN HOME — Mountain Home Air Force Base officials are warning Idaho residents that danger exists in the area of the Star for Creek Gunnery Range.

The rectangular-shaped range about five miles wide by ten miles in length, is between Brunson and Castleton and runs north and south. Its northern limits start about ten miles southeast of Brunson and 15 miles southeast of Glenn's Ferry.

Everyone except those persons with valid grazing permits for 45 days a year, and those who are crossing the area on the Brunson-Clover Crossing, Three Creeks road and the public access road to the Brunson Canyon viewpoint, are prohibited from trespassing on the property.

Livestock grazing is not only limited to persons with permits, but also limited to times and areas specifically defined by the permit, say base officials in charge of the range.

Camping limited

BOISE — A seven-day camping limit is now in effect throughout Owyhee County, according to Bureau of Land Management Boise District Manager Dean Billies.

Limiting camping visits has become necessary to reduce the excessive littering that is occurring now, with seasonal wild camping in the area.

The camping limit applies to all vehicle, camper, trailer and tent camping unless otherwise provided by permit or law.

The restriction was coordinated with a similar ordinance passed by the Owyhee County commissioners as a result of county, state, local and federal efforts to eliminate sanitation and environmental problems caused by prolonged camping.

Violators of the closure are subject to criminal prosecution.

Staff increased

BURLEY — A range and wildlife specialist has been added to the Burley ranger district staff of the Sawtooth National Forest.

District Ranger Bill Price, Burley, announced Lew Marzulate, 40, has assumed the position of range conservationist.

This assignment will include livestock grazing, range improvement, wildlife and watershed management. This is a new position in the district.

Price said the new district member spent 10 months working as foreman for a Cassia County cattle operation and has worked 12 years for the Bureau of Land Management.

During six of those years, he was area manager for the Wall River Resource area near Burley.

He is a 1966 graduate from Utah State University and holds a bachelor of science degree in range management. He, his wife, Ellen, and their three children live in Deeto.

Woman files lawsuit

TWIN FALLS — A San Diego County, Calif., woman has filed a lawsuit asking for $253,000 for injuries sustained in a traffic accident on U.S. 93 almost two years ago.

The woman, Joyce Beran, has charged Sharon Dorman with negligence that caused a two-vehicle accident in September, 1975.

Beran was "severely" injured, the complaint says.

The complaint asks for $150,000 for loss of earning power, $50,000 general damages, $25,000 for medical expenses and $15,000 in attorney fees.

Snow replaces Gray

TWIN FALLS — Stan Snow, Twin Falls certified public accountant, will replace Michael Gray as a member of the Twin Falls County Fair Board.

His appointment was announced today by Meri E. Leonard, chairman of the board of county commissioners. Snow has worked with county 4-H programs and has had some "practical experience" with the county fair by working in a food concept sign booth for his church, Leonard said.

Gray, a former chairman of the board, resigned earlier this month after serving nine years. Gray, a real estate agent, resigned because of increasing demands of his business, Leonard said.

Stamp cash lost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ineffective monitoring of food stamp receipts has cost the government $31 million, the General Accounting Office reported Monday.

The losses, it said, occurred between the time the 6,000 distributing agents across the country collected the money and when that money reached the federal treasury.

The problem could be stopped by making food stamps free.

Under the current system, which the administration wants to change, recipients pay a certain amount of cash and get back stamps of greater value.

The GAO recommended that the department's Food and Nutrition Service take a more active role in administering the food stamp program, rather than merely act as an overseer of state programs.

The report, requested by Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., said 17 million persons paid $3.3 billion last year for food stamps worth $1.1 billion. GAO said known major weaknesses in federal and state monitoring procedures "were allowed to continue for years."

Eagleton said "the surest way to eliminate such losses is to eliminate the cash flow in food stamp transactions," pressing for house passage of an "administration-backed proposal to give food stamps to persons who qualify. The Senate already has approved the measure."

The GAO said the Agriculture Department's computer-produced monitoring reporters are "unreliable and unusable." It said there is "little indication" of cooperation between states and the federal government to improve the monitoring system.

Barrier installed

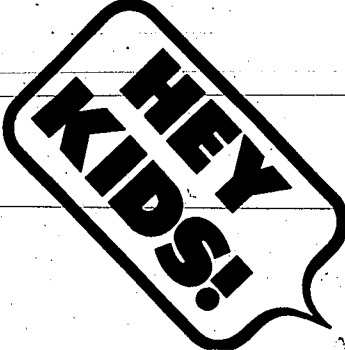

VOLUNTEER workers, L.V. Cassell, on the ladder, and Jack Slater, are "woodpecker proofing" the Twin Falls Canning Kitchen. Used aluminum sheeting is being placed on the outside walls to keep woodpeckers from drilling holes which provide nesting areas for swallows. The two were among a number of canning kitchen association members participating in a work program Saturday. The kitchen will open next month.

Rodeo tiara sought by three Mini-Cassia area women

RUPERT—A trio of lassies from three Minidoka County cities will compete for the title, as queen of next year's Rupert rodeo queen.

The riding competition for queen Sunday will kick off the 1977 Rupert Fourth of July festivities touted as "Idaho's No. 1 July celebration."

Candidates for the tiara are Cindy Cranney and Terri Shockey, both entered for a second time, and Denise Everhart.

The winner will succeed reigning queen Shelly Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Moore of Heyburn. Miss Moore also is rodeo queen for the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls and this past week was crowned National Rodeo Queen in activities at Boise, Mont.

They will be on a half-hour television show over KMYT, Twin Falls, at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The three candidates for 1978 Rupert honors were guests of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce at a Thursday luncheon, and celebration chairman John Trevino. They modeled western clothes and told chamber members of the events scheduled for this year's Fourth of July celebration.

Cindy, the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Del Cranney of Heyburn, discussed the 51st annual Rodeo, which will be held Saturday through Monday, July 2-4, starting at 8:30 p.m. each day.

The opening night will be Kids Night, with a boy's and a girl's bicycle awarded. The Minidoka Wranglers, a local women's riding group, will perform before the rodeo.

The Weber County (Utah) Sheriff's posse is scheduled to ride the second night and the Cassia County Mounted Posse on the final evening.

Featured each evening will be the youth Eh Cupa Riders, who ride Indian-style bareback and without bridles.

The rodeo stock is furnished by Stephens Brothers, Middleton, with nationally-known Zeb Bell of Kimberly, as announcer. Featured clown will be Duane Reichert, New Underwood, S.D. Included in the rodeo events each night will be barrel racing for the girls.

Miss Cranney also said the Inland Empire carnival will open June 29th with Family Night and will continue downtown through July 1.

Terri, the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Shockey of Rupert, explained the contest for 1978 queen.

Competition will be capped by the riding at 2:30 p.m. next Sunday at the Minidoka County Fairgrounds, with queen announced and crowned during the final session of the rodeo.

Earlier the candidates will be judged on poise, appearance and personality at a judges' dinner.

Miss Shockey also told her audience of the three free street dances that are scheduled at corners of the Rupert city square June 30, starting at 9 p.m.

Denise, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Everhart of Paul, told of the perlmutter horse racing, the horse-pulling contest will be at 8 p.m. July 1 at the Fairgrounds.

Sponsored by the Intermountain Horse Pulling Association, the contest draws entries from Idaho, Utah and other mountain states. It will also include exhibitions of stieland ponies and mules.

Four horse racing cards are planned, starting at 1 p.m. Friday through Monday, July 1-4. Featured on Sunday will be the quarterhorse futurity, with the thoroughbred futurity listed for July 4.

Entertainment will be offered at the city square on three days, including Sunday afternoon religious-oriented performances, under the direction of June Dornbeck.

The July 4 program will begin at 1 p.m. and feature the Minico High School band, the Nazarene Puppeteers and other local groups.

The annual Fourth of July parade, with Chuck Dairy as chairman, will begin at 11 a.m. Monday with the theme of "Energy '77."

Dairy said Union Pacific has entered its mini-train, the Horseshoe Carriage Club of America will present antique cars and the Arabian Horse Association will have entries, in addition to the various floats.

Burley rejects rezone petition on church-owned land

BURLEY — Efforts to rezone about 14 acres of residential land near Burley High School for commercial development have failed.

The Burley Planning and Zoning Commission unanimously rejected a petition to rezone land now owned by the Catholic Church. The parcel lies north of Burley High School and west of Burley Junior High near the western boundary of the city.

Two members of the commission, Truman Bradley and Ralph Besel, had proposed the zone change from R-3 (residential) to C-3 (commercial). Bradley and Besel, who withdrew from participation on the commission during the decision, proposed both retail and wholesale outlets, as well as some warehousing for the area.

However, both the Cassia County School District and residents of the area opposed the zoning change.

A petition with over 100 signatures of residents within 300 feet of the proposed development, was presented to the commission.

The petition contended development would create a hazardous traffic area on West 10th Street and all north-south streets near the two schools and Cassia County Memorial Hospital. It stated the best use for the land is residential and that the development would destroy the aesthetic beauty of the neighborhood and decrease the value of residential property.

"The petition also said commercial zoning should be set at a 'greater distance' from residential development, the proposed development would destroy the peace and quiet of the area near the schools and create a 'perpetual nuisance' for residents and commercial development there does not conform to the plan or design of the city.

The commission's action came despite a plea by Rev. Henry Steinhoff, pastor of the Catholic Church in Burley, and his warning the church may seek redress for "any monetary loss" from the refusal to rezone the land.

Father Steinhoff did not insist the commission approve the rezoning to C-3, however, he said some type of rezoning will be necessary in the near future.

The pastor said the church paid $20,000 for the land 15 years ago as a site for a new church and school. He said economics no longer makes that use feasible because there is "no way we can come up with half to three-quarters of a million dollars."

Father Steinhoff said the construction of Burley Junior High School, since the church purchased its land, has ruined the possibility of residential development.

"It will have to be rezoned, or else somebody is going to have to pay for the loss," he said adding without rezoning "at a certain time in the future we will probably have to have recourse to the law."

Commission Chairman Chuck Skaggs agreed with Father Steinhoff most of the opposition was from people living outside the city limits. Skaggs said he would be opposed to the rezoning as presented to the commission but could support it with certain restrictive covenants attached the development.

Handicapped youths need volunteer grandparents

TWIN FALLS — Foster grandparents are in short supply in Magic Valley.

Wilhelm Hansen, coordinator of the Idaho foster grandparent program, says if more area people don't volunteer for the program to aid handicapped children the service will be abandoned.

Hansen said only two adults currently are participating in the foster grandparent program in Magic Valley.

He said many children in special programs such as the Child Development Center and child care centers especially need the time and love a grandparent can give.

Many of the youngsters are emotionally or physically handicapped, have no grandparents and receive little attention from parents.

Hansen said Prieta Johnson, Community Action Agency, 723-0351, and Tom Morland, College of Southern Idaho, 733-9551, ext. 204, are registering grandparents for the program and have additional information.

The Office of Aging representative said foster grandparents will not have to pay out of their own pockets for the services they provide the children. The program offers a $160 per month income in the form of a stipend plus 15 cents per mile when the grandparent uses his or her car and also gives the grandparent one hot meal per day.

Anyone 60 years-of-age or older in the low income bracket of $3,000 per individual or $4,100 for a couple yearly income may apply for the volunteer assistance program.

The monthly $160 offered participants is a non-reportable income and does not count against Social Security benefits, he said.
