today Color double trouble

NEW YORK (UPI) — Color duplicating machines that make it easier to produce fraudulent copies of financial documents are giving headaches to firms handling stock and bond certificates.

Bankers Trust Co. in New York says printers of securities documents have resorted to several techniques to differentiate genuine certificates from the color-copied reproductions but the best defense against fakes is a well-trained securities clerk.

A fake document often has a background tint or "halo" in the area of engraved figures and figures are not as well defined as on originals, Bankers Trust notes. Original printing has a luster lost in reproductions.

Another tipoff, the bank says, is that a bluish-green smudge appears when white paper is rubbed over the corporate name on a reproduction. The smudge is black on an original.

Hospital expansion bill to patients

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Patients at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital will pay for a proposed $7.7 million expansion of the facility if a proposal detailed Monday is approved by the hospital board.

The expansion is being proposed despite projected decreases in some hospital services next year. It would be paid for by hospital profits (related story on page 13).

The project would upgrade the emergency room, add to surgical rooms and provide back-up surgical services.

The heart of the expansion, however, would focus on the addition of a complete outpatient service wing at the facility.

Not only would outpatient treatment and waiting areas be added where they don't now exist, the X-ray, pathology, physical therapy, cardio-pulmonary and other service departments now scattered throughout the hospital would be collected in one central ground floor area by easy access for the hospital's outpatients.

The proposed expansion is an outgrowth of a bond issue expansion which was turned down by voters in 1974. That proposal would have added outpatient facilities and upgraded emergency treatment, but it would also have added beds to the hospital.

The second major difference in the new plan is that it would be paid for by hospital patients and would not depend on either the approval of or the financial support of taxpayers.

As detailed by hospital auditor Bill Tonkin for the hospital board Monday night, the expansion would involve construction costs of about $4.7 million.

Added to this would be architect fees of about $278,000, equipment additions of about $1.07 million and interest during construction of about $361,000.

The total bill would come to about $7.7 million.

The expansion would be financed through the Idaho Hospital Finance Authority, which would issue revenue bonds to complete the expansion and then require the hospital to repay the bonds from its profits.

Computed at an interest rate of 6.5 per cent the annual repayment charge to the hospital over a 30-year period would average $584,000, Tonkin said.

Construction on the project could begin by May 1, 1978, the date hospital officials have in sight.

Repayment of the revenue bonds would begin in 1979. Tonkin told board members Monday night that hospital profits the last two years have shown a pattern sufficient to pay for the expansion in the 30-year span.

The hospital showed a profit of about $650,000 in 1976 and about $710,000 in 1975. This year a cash carryover of $225,000 is called for. The profits in past years have either been carried in hospital accounts or have been used for equipment purchases, hospital officials have said repeatedly.

Tonkin told the board Monday night the hospital's profit margin makes the project "feasible."

He said there was no question about the "demonstrated need for the project."

Hospital administrator James Rosenbaum admitted the budget for 1978 shows a slight decline in projected emergency room and outpatient visits, as well as a virtual stabilization of admissions and a slight decline in the number of overall patient days and the hospital's average daily census.

Rosenbaum said the projected decreases in outpatient services and emergency treatments are the result of overestimated emergency visits this year, however.

He said the stability in other services reflected a 20-year pattern of "several years of decline, then a year of leveling off followed by several more years of decline."

Next year appears to be the year of leveling off, he said.

He also noted that the number of X-ray, lab treatment and other service visits is projected to increase, as are all services in the long term.

Rosenbaum said if the expansion weren't completed the hospital would "just have to start cutting back some services."

"We're running 110 per cent of capacity on outpatient services right now," he said.

Hospital board members may act on the proposal after a formal Tonkin report next week. Rosenbaum said how much the expansion might raise rates hadn't been computed.

Idaho Hospital Finance Authority chairman Fred Decker, who is also MVHM attorney, said he plans to call a meeting of the authority next month at which some action the MVHM proposal might be taken.

Decker guessed the hospital would get the best ratings available in the West on an issue of revenue bonds.

PLENTY OF WATER EARLY IN THE FIGHT
...but Filer water pressure dropped later

Blaze burns grain

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

FILER — Low water pressure hampered fire fighters trying to control a grain elevator blaze early today, which may have destroyed an estimated $70,000 of wheat in Filer.

Firemen from Filer and Bull responded to an alarm turned in about 7 a.m. this morning after Filer Police Chief Randy Lammers spotted smoke pouring from an Allison Feed Mill elevator on his way to work.

When firemen first arrived at the mill, located at 405 Front St., they had plenty of water to reach the flaming roof of the 36-foot-high grain elevator.

But by 8 a.m. as more Filer residents began to turn on water for breakfast and showers, the pressure in the fire hydrants began to slip, according to Police Chief Lammers.

Filer police closed the town asking residents not to turn on their faucets until the blaze was out. Area radio stations were asked to broadcast appeals to Filer residents to use no water.

Joe Allison, owner of the feed mill, said today he couldn't determine the cause of the blaze or give a completely accurate estimate of the loss.

"I'm not sure what we are going to find when we can get into the elevator but I'm guessing we lost about 30,000 bushels," Allison said.

At current market price of $2.30 a bushel, the loss could be as high as $70,000.

All of the wheat stored in the elevator was covered by insurance, Allison, as was the burned building.

Despite the fire, Allison Feed Mill remains open and ready for business today, the owner said.

The mill will utilize other storage buildings until a new elevator is built and expect to continue storage of wheat for Filer area farmers.

Allison said cause of the fire had not been determined this morning but added it started in the upper area of the elevator and could have been caused from a motor or from electrical equipment which is housed in the "head" of the structure.

Allison said he heard the fire alarm but did not know his own mill was on fire until he turned on the eleven band radio in his vehicle and heard two farmers discussing the fire.

Firemen were able to keep flames from spreading from the elevator to other frame structures which make up the mill operation. Had the fire started in the older wooden structures, the entire mill might have been lost, fire officials said.

Cowmen charge beef price fix

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — More than 150 beef producers Monday filed suit against the nation's largest supermarket chains alleging the firms conspired to set the price of beef at artificial levels.

"This has created in the cattlemen's area of the economy a breakdown of competitive conditions which has endangered the economy and has damaged the Plaintiffs," said the suit filed in U.S. District Court.

The suit, listing more than 150 Texas and New Mexico beef producers, accuses the major food chains of manipulating prices and seeks a jury trial. Damages will be determined by the court.

Bill LaFont of Plainview, Tex., an attorney for the producers, said the chains allegedly were buying the beef at a lower price, but not passing the savings on to the consumers.

Among the largest chains named in the suit are Safeway Stores, Inc. and Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. It also names the National Provisioner of New York, publisher of "The Yellow Sheet," and the National Association of Food Chains.

The suit said buyers often purchase beef for the entire chain and offer the "packers a price substantially lower than those offered by other merchandisers of beef who do not have such dominant market power."

It alleges through use of "The Yellow Sheet" retail food chains keep informed of beef prices, calculate the prices they will pay, communicate the prices to each other and use the sheet as a tool to purchase the beef from the packers at artificially low prices.

The suit said since at least 1963 the firms and medium and large packers have gathered in meetings arranged and conducted by the National Association of Food Chains and through other means, including use of "The Yellow Sheet," to engage in "unreasonable restraint of interstate trade and commerce."

The suit said the artificial prices, which guaranteed a 20 per cent gross margin, caused shoppers to reduce their beef consumption.

This resulted in fewer outlets for the producers to sell their cattle, the suit said. Some producers suffered financial losses in the process, it said.

The producers also said Safeway and A&P set prices by accepting bids from packers one day prior to all other chains. The producers say the other chains followed those prices.

Named in the petition are Safeway; A&P; The Kroger Co.; American Stores Co., formerly Acme Markets; Lucky Stores, Inc.; Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc.; Grand Union Co.; Supermarkets General Corp.; Albertsons, Inc.; Arden; Mayfair, Inc.; Circle K Corp.; Skaggs Companies, Inc.; Thriftmart, Inc.; Jewel Companies, Inc.; the National Association of Food Chains; The National Provisioner; National Ted Co.; Allied Supermarkets, Inc.; First National Stores, Inc.; Fisher Foods, Inc.; Dillon Companies, Inc.; Waldbaum Supermarkets, Inc.; Publix Supermarkets, Inc.; Skaggs-Albertson's, a partnership; and Shop Rite Foods, Inc., doing business as Piggly Wiggly.

Fire crews hoping for storm's help

By United Press International

A "major assault," today was launched against the north end of California's 152,000 acre Marble Cone forest fire, where a last ditch fireline-three bulldozers, blades wide stood between the holocaust and Carmel Valley village.

The fire of the blaze in Los Padres National Forest and backfires started by firemen were expected to come together late today or Wednesday.

"This will be the maker or the breaker," said Bill Powers, U.S. Forest Service fire spokesman in nearby King City. "We don't expect it to be the breaker. We are all sick and tired of this thing and we want this to be the last we see of it."

"We have a major assault in progress on the north end. We have massed most of our firefighting personnel up there. We have a lot of equipment up there and we are widening it (the fireline) as much as we can."

The northern fireline ran anywhere from a mile and a half up to four miles from Carmel Valley village, he said. The fire was so close that ashes and smoke drifted over the 2,000 homes in the town near the central California coastline.

However, victory was in sight for the 5,700 firefighters ringing the giant, two-week-old blaze.

"We are now calling the southeast corner of the fire contained," Powers said. "On the eastern front the main fire is burned up to the control line and its holding."

And Hurricane Doreen, now downgraded to a tropical storm and shifting rain storms into southern California from Mexico, could help.

"We have reports of a weather front coming in from the hurricane," Powers said. "We sure hope there is rain with it up this far."

It was not as encouraging on another big fire in Klamath National Forest near the Oregon state line where three fires burned together during a storm, burning 11,700 acres despite the efforts of 1,300 firefighters.

The Fong-Hammel fire linked up with the Hog blaze and there was no estimate of containment, a fire control spokesman said.

In the south, the so-called Bear-Trap fire in Sequoia National Forest grew from 500 to 2,000 acres during the night with no estimate of containment, a spokesman said.

In excess of 100 lightning-caused fires were ignited during the night, "but they were all picked up," the spokesman said.

'Innocent,' says suspect

NEW YORK (UPI) — Accused 44-caliber killer David Berkowitz pleaded innocent today in state Supreme Court to indictments charging him with the death of Stacy Moskowitz, the last fatal victim in the "Son of Sam" killings.

(Related story, p. 30)

Berkowitz sat at the defense table surrounded by police as his attorney, Mark Heller, told Justice Leonard "Yoswein" that his client probably would plead a defense of insanity at the conclusion of psychiatric testing.

Berkowitz, 24, who authorities say is the "Son of Sam" killer of six persons, told Yoswein he wished to retain Heller, of Mineola, N.Y., as his attorney. In addition Philip Peltz, who originally claimed to represent Berkowitz, asked to be dismissed from the case.

The defendant sat pale and expressionless in the "nearly packed courtroom," his hands manacled in front of him, his hair matted and unkempt. He gave no indication that he was the center of attention.

Dressed in blue jeans and a blue shirt open to the waist — the same clothes he wore when arrested last Wednesday — Berkowitz responded quietly but firmly to "Yes Sir" when asked by the clerk of the court: "Are you David Berkowitz?"

Surrounded completely by armed guards, the defendant named Heller as his attorney then sat quietly as he was arraigned on charges of second degree murder, attempted murder, assault and criminal possession of a weapon.

Yoswein said Peltz' application to withdraw from the case would be considered three to five days after the conclusion of psychiatric tests. He ordered Peltz to turn over for court impoundment tape recorded conversations he made with Berkowitz and reportedly tried to call for $50,000.

A psychiatrist's report on Berkowitz was expected Aug. 30.

Charges follow ski act

MURTAUGH — Not all of the acts performed at the annual Murtaugh water skiing exhibition appeared on the program.

And two young men who "streaked" the show on water skis Saturday were definitely not invited.

"It was our annual show at the Murtaugh Lake," said Dr. Dennis L. George, Twin Falls, president of the Murtaugh Water Skiing Association. "And it came through the pool we were trying to keep clear. It was two guys streaking the crowd, on water skis."

The association put on a good show with several acts," George said, "but that wasn't one of them."

The Twin Falls Sheriff's Department was called Michael V. Noel, 19, Twin Falls, and Javier Ricardo Paredes, 21, Twin Falls, with staging obscene live conduct before a live audience.

Thomas Clyde Good, 36, Twin Falls, driver of the boat pulling the two skiers, has been charged with assisting in staging obscene live conduct before a live audience.

Lance report summary only

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The comptroller of currency's report on the financial activities of Budget Director Bert Lance next week will be a long summary of facts without conclusions, according to sources familiar with the inquiry.

It will leave it to President Carter to decide whether to refer the findings to the Justice Department for criminal prosecution, the sources said.

The comptroller's office is the federal agency that regulates national banks. Responsibilities include assuring "the integrity of financial assets and administration."

It has used more than 30 investigators to gather information about Lance's activities at two banks he headed before joining the Carter administration in January.

The report by Comptroller John Heimann will make "no recommendation" for prosecution, nor a finding of guilt or innocence," UPI was told Monday.

Heimann said he would have "no further comment on the inquiry relating to Mr. Lance until this report is finished, which should be soon."

Treasury sources expect the report by Aug. 25.

Lance, played tennis with Carter on Sunday, and on Monday, when White House press secretary Jody Powell was asked whether the two discussed the inquiry, he quipped:

"I imagine the President was getting ready to serve."

He added: "I am sure that Bert's — the matter of the comptroller's inquiry and so forth — was mentioned during the tennis thing, but there was no detailed discussion of it at all," Powell said.

Asked if Lance offered to resign or if Carter asked for his resignation, Powell declared, "Absolutely not."

Lance was president of the Calhoun, Ga., First National Bank before his election as president of the larger National Bank of Georgia in January 1975.

Four months later, through stock options and loans, Lance acquired 162,929 shares of NBG stock, according to a statement on file with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Lance bought 148,000 of those shares with a $2.5 million loan from Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York. Shortly after the loan, NBG moved its interest-free correspondent account from another New York bank to Manufacturers Hanover.

A memo in Lance's file at Manufacturers Hanover dealing with the loan mentions

"20 per cent of the facility."

"Facility" in banking circles is a common term for a loan.

Diabetics plan meet

TWIN FALLS — Diabetics and other interested persons will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Old Va Tech Building on Kimberly Road to form a diabetic organization.

Mrs. Judy Searle, a Twin Falls diabetic and spokeswoman, urged anyone interested in the diabetics' plight to attend the meeting.

The group will discuss bylaws and forming a board, all necessary to become a non-profit corporation for fund-raising purposes, Mrs. Searle said.

Dr. Laird Seatch, an endocrinologist, two dietitians and a nurse will be on hand to answer questions about the organization, Mrs. Searle said.

Escape delays meeting

BONN, West German (UPI) — A scheduled meeting between Helmut Schmidt and Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti has been postponed because of the escape of war criminal Herbert Kappler from a Rome military hospital, diplomatic sources said today.

The 70-year-old Kappler and his wife are in the area of Soltau, a small town on the sandy plains of northern Germany where Mrs. Annese Kappler-Wenger lives.

The West German news agency DPA reported without sourcing.

Reporters posted in front of Mrs. Kappler's home at Wilhelmstrasse number six in Soltau said the couple apparently was not there, but probably had gone to the home of a relative or friend.

The Federal Criminal Police Office in Wiesbaden said it was looking for Kappler on the basis of an Italian request relayed late Monday by the International Criminal Police Organization (Interpol) in Paris.

Andreotti and Schmidt announced Sunday they would meet in Verona Friday, at the Italian's suggestion, for an economic discussion. But diplomatic sources said that in the light of Kappler's escape to West Germany, the meeting probably would be postponed "until a more suitable time."

Kappler, a Nazi SS colonel had been serving a life sentence for the World War II massacre of 335 Italians.

vanished from a Rome military hospital where he was being treated for terminal cancer.

Italian officials said Mrs. Kappler, a husky woman, apparently placed her emaciated husband, weighing only 106 pounds inside a wardrobe trunk and carried it out of the military hospital in Rome at about 1 a.m. Monday to her waiting car.

In Rome, the escape sparked protests by hundreds of former resistance fighters and Jews.

MIAs' status due review

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has decided to review the status of 712 Americans currently listed as missing in action or prisoners of war in Southeast Asia, Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., said today.

The review, on a case-by-case basis, would be to determine whether they should be changed to a "killed in action" status. Some have been missing for 10 years.

Montgomery said an announcement from the Pentagon was imminent and that families of the 681 MIAs and 31 POWs were notified by the Defense Department Monday.

Montgomery, chairman of the House Select Committee on MIAs, applauded the President's decision to review the status of MIAs and POWs to determine if they should be classified as KIAs.

"It is neither fair, nor realistic, to the families of the MIAs and POWs to continue to hold out false hopes that these Americans are still alive," Montgomery said. Some have been missing for more than 10 years.

Montgomery, who was part of a group that went to Hanoi to seek information on the missing, said the decision "is right and proper and represents a humanitarian approach to a very sad situation."

Wholesale status reviews will deal the final blow to this nation's internationally acknowledged right to obtain all available information on its missing in action," Gilman said.

Gilman said there are some who feel "this nation should bow to Vietnamese recalcitrance, and by changing the status of MIA's to KIA (killed in action) extinguish what they refer to as the last troublesome trace of this nation's painful Vietnam experience."

Man flees

HAIO, Idaho (UPI) — A man considered to be dangerous escaped from the Boise County Jail at Idaho City Monday night, State Police reported.

State Police said an all-points bulletin has been sent out for Richard Lewis Gordon, 27, who was being held on a battery charge when he got out of the jail about 11 p.m.

The sheriff's office in Idaho City said it was not releasing any immediate information on the escape.

Stereotypes dominate TV

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's television networks overwhelmingly portray women and minorities as stereotypes and discriminate against them in employment, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights charged Monday.

It made what is bound to be a controversial recommendation: that Congress give the Federal Communications Commission power to regulate network television employment practices and write rules to end sexual and racial stereotyping in commercials and dramatic programs.

Stereotyped portrayals are an industry-wide problem needing an industry-wide solution, the commission said in its 181-page report, "Window Dressing on the Set: Women and Minorities in Television."

Despite codes of the three networks and the National Association of Broadcasters, the commission said, "the findings of this report demonstrate that stereotyped treatment of minorities and women is prevalent in network programming."

There was no immediate comment from the networks.

The commission report said white males dominated television drama, appearing in 65.3 per cent of all roles, and "They appeared more frequently in serious roles and portrayed older, more independent characters having diverse and prestigious occupations."

It said white females had 23.8 per cent of all roles, many of them comic, and portrayed characters who were younger, unemployed or underemployed, and tied to the family.

Minorities appeared primarily in ethnic settings or as tokens in all-white shows, the report said.

Tuesday, August 16, 1977 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 3

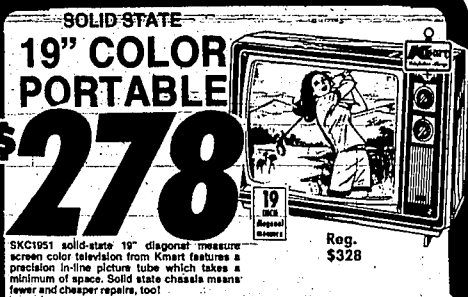

Turning to network news, the commission said white males made 88.6 per cent of the 131 appearances by television correspondents during its two-year survey, and women and minorities were rarely treated as "newsmakers."

"To the extent that network provides information about significant events and issues and important people in American society," the report said, "this study of network news indicates that minorities and women were considered to be neither significant nor important."

Carter sidesteps 'Lancegate'

By WILLIAM SAFIRE

© N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — When the White House press corps finally lobbed a softball about the Bert Lance scandal to the President, Carter curtly replied that he knew "little about the details of the loan" and directed the reporters to ask questions about welfare reform. Meekly, the corps complied—let us not languish in Lancegate.

White House strategy is to contain the scandal by pretending the matter is purely Lance's problem, and that Carter knows nothing and is doing nothing. The strategy depends on the widely held hope that the President himself is in no way "tainted."

But the follow-up questions remain: What was Jimmy Carter doing in the office of Lew Jenkins, in charge of correspondent banking for Manufacturers Hanover, on June 9, 1975? Did he know that Bert Lance, whom he had accompanied to the bank, had just negotiated a personal loan for $2.7 million? Who else in that bank did he meet, and what did he discuss? Has any government investigator asked the President about his presence with lender and borrower near the onset of a loan that might be corrupt?

Those are pertinent, if impertinent, questions. Let us forget, Carter borrowed $200,000 from Lance's bank in 1975, only two months before their joint visit to "Manny Hanmy." If he was tending the prestige of a former governor and active presidential candidate to his creditor, Bert Lance—to help that go-go banker cement a possibly illegal or unethical arrangement with a New York bank—then Carter cannot today look coldly at his old friend and pretend to be better than him. No wonder the President tells reporters to confine questions to welfare reform.

Meanwhile, the investigation (sorry, the "inquiry") seems to be confined to the office of Treasury's Comptroller of the Currency, and everybody thinks that's fine. It's not. Although the brand-new comptroller, John Helmann, is clean, his staff has an eight-month cover-up to answer for, and self-investigation is never a good idea.

Here's how it came about: last year, Sen. William Proxmire, whose committee has jurisdiction over the comptroller's office, blocked the appointment of any Republican to the five-year term. He thus became responsible for the reign of an acting comptroller, Robert Bloom, who evidently sought to ingratiate himself with the new Carter administration.

At Lance confirmation time, Acting Comptroller Bloom sent a "no-violation" letter to the Senate about Nominee Lance and his bank. The clearance was glowing and profoundly misleading: "Treasury officials now largely explain it meant 'no prosecutable violations.'"

Worse, the "smoking gun"—the Manufacturers Hanover memo that seems to cry out "compensating balance"—was either not examined or not forwarded to the FBI.

That is why Senator Proxmire says "we are not going to settle for a routine report. Any study of alleged inaccuracy in the comptroller's office should not be left to the comptroller's office." Though previously deferential to the jurisdiction over Lance by the Ribicoff-Percy Whitewash Brigade, Proxmire now seems awake to his responsibility for the lack of self-control.

As for the new comptroller, Helmann, he is not likely to be suckered again as he was last week by the phony Lance. When the comptroller confronted the OMB director with the "smoking gun" memo, Lance promptly managed the news by putting it out himself with a phony excuse about "leaks" (which never happened). By dribbling out its evidence piecemeal, Lance hopes to de-fuse the Helmann report.

Reluctantly, belatedly, other investigations are under way. The SEC will not say if it has begun a preliminary inquiry to see if Lance's bank reported "material" developments in its required reports, but it has. And soon bank stockholders in Atlanta, Chicago, New York and Knoxville may be directing queries to the chairman of the audit committees of the suspect banks to see if Lance's dealings were reviewed and approved.

One agency of government frozen into inaction is the political Department of Justice. Attorney General Griffin Bell has declared himself out, and the head of the criminal division — Ben Civiletti, the Baltimore political fundraiser put in by Lance enemy Charles Kirbo — refuses to lift a finger pending the Helmann report. But unless a special prosecutor is appointed — one with "impeccable integrity," as Carter recently said of Lance — the Carter-Kirbo-Bell-Lance cabal will cut off the investigation before it gets to the top.

Women's softball does what ERA never could

Idaho was thick enough to cut with a knife. The bases loaded and the game tied 2-2, the Twin Falls team ambled to the plate.

A fair swept through the grandstands as the fans leaned forward to watch the play.

The back of the bat sent a long fly ball to left. The runners jumped from their bases. The fielder frantically stretched out for a grab.

From the out-stretched glove the ball sailed. The outfielder played and bounded to centerfield fence.

The ball scored, then another, and another. Lorna Scellick herself stamped on the plate as the ball was relayed back to the infield.

Score, Wuthrich Concrete 6, Coeur d'Alene Auto Parts, 2.

The dugout emptied and the fans stomped and cheered with glee.

Twin Falls was about to have a state champion women's softball team.

In some ways, watching the state women's softball tournament said more about the women's movement than all the debates over the Equal Rights Amendment in Idaho the last few years.

The women who played for the championship Wuthrich Concrete Forming team showed that women have the physical capabilities to play softball with anybody — including most men's teams.

And the Wuthrich team epitomized the involvement many women have in activities outside the home.

Although some of the stars of the Wuthrich team were young, single women, the Twin Falls women's softball league has dozens of players who are wives and mothers.

Many mothers who played softball this summer had to find babysitters or ask their husbands to watch their children.

Yet nobody organized a campaign to keep the women softballers in the home. No one suggested women playing softball, traditionally a man's game, were less feminine or more radical than those who did not play the game.

Organized softball, over the years, has become an important social outlet for Idaho women. Thriving leagues in Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston, Pocatello, Boise, Ketchum and Twin Falls all produced teams for the state tournament this weekend.

And politics didn't get mixed into the play.

Yet the softball circuit, in a subtle way, has taken hundreds of Idaho women out of the home and given them a chance to participate in a once male-dominated sport.

Women's softball has done what supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment have been unable to do in Idaho. Without fanfare or debate, the women players of the state have achieved an equality with the men who play the game.

Did Senate staff stifle arms report?

WASHINGTON — A major new study of the U.S. Soviet military balance has warned of a weakening of the U.S. ability to deter attacks on this country or to defend the nation if deterrence fails.

The study by a senior defense expert of the Library of Congress has just been made public after a six-month fight in Capitol Hill over releasing its gloomy assessment.

A congressman has charged that the Senate Armed Services Committee staff suppressed the study because it conflicts with the optimistic view of U.S. military strength presented by a National Security Council study. No comment was available from the staff, and an NSC spokesman called "nonsense" any suggestion that it was involved in suppression.

The study by John M. Collins says the strategic assumption of "mutual assured destruction" — that the United States and the Soviet Union can each destroy the other under any circumstances, and thus deter each other from attack — "seems less mutual than it was in 1970."

"U.S. conventional (military) capabilities have also faded, in comparison with those of the Soviet Union," according to the study.

Entitled "American and Soviet military strength, contemporary trends compared, 1970-76," the study says that, with scattered exceptions, quantitative changes since 1970 have favored the Soviets. "U.S. qualitative leads, less pronounced than in the past, cannot completely compensate." Assured destruction is still the heart of the U.S. strategic defense concept, the study says. But two of the three-legged "triad" on which it rests have weakened.

Intercontinental ballistic missiles in un-defended fixed sites are increasingly vulnerable to Soviet developing Soviet counter-site capability. And strategic bombers are significantly weaker because of aging equipment and great Soviet strides in air defense.

The third leg is missile-launching submarines, which "are still safe at sea," the study says.

It argues that Soviet civil defense efforts "eventually could erode our deterrence" by giving that country some "protection while American forces, people and production base are asked to nuclear attack." The study notes, however, that this "vulnerability gap (is) of disputed proportions."

It warns that U.S. fleets are in danger of destruction by surprise attack by Soviet cruise missiles, some of them fired from almost pointblank range by Soviet warships that routinely infiltrate U.S. naval formations. "Soviet strategy seems designed to seize and secure initiative with a single killing salvo."

This country has neither effective defenses nor comparable counter-capabilities, the study says. Fading effective solutions to this threat "transcends all other requirements of the U.S. surface Navy," it declares.

U.S. naval and merchant shipping is also seriously threatened by the large Soviet submarine force, but his country lacks the capability of countering that force. In wartime the United States, would be unable to supply large-scale military operations overseas, the study says.

"U.S. land, sea and air forces alike... Would be hard-pressed to support NATO plans at existing levels and cope concurrently with large-scale contingencies," including those caused or sustained by the Kremlin," it says. The United States has only two of its 16 active Army divisions free to contend with non-North Atlantic Treaty Organization coalitions.

But the differences between NATO and Soviet bloc manpower and firepower are so great as to cast doubt on the declared U.S. policy of protecting Western Europe. "NATO" has far more to lose from tactical nuclear warfare than satellite states or the Soviet Union," according to the study.

Collins does not conclude that the United States simply needs to spend more on its armed forces. On the contrary, he ends the 218-page study by contending that "problems will remain as long as U.S. decision makers bank on higher budgets to cure defense ills, without reference to better strategy."

Achieving essential "equivalence" with the Soviets in all types of weapons "is neither necessary nor desirable," Collins says, although "achieving apparent parity (is) a strong argument supporting some U.S. (weapons) system."

Congress and the executive branch, with focus on forces and funds, clash annually over expensive programs, each considered essentially in isolation, and each with a life of its own. Inter-relationships with enemy systems and each other commonly get short shrift, except for matching counts with Moscow.

"Political expediency and technological excellence, rather than real requirements, too often are the tests" for building U.S. weapons Collins argues. "Misplaced priorities consequently stress essentials in many important cases, while neglecting critical sectors."

Collins, a senior specialist of the Library of Congress' Congressional Research Service, directed military strategy studies for the National War College before retiring from the Army, and he wrote a widely respected book on strategy. He wrote for Congress two earlier studies of U.S. military relations that were praised on Capitol Hill.

Francis J. Sullivan, staff director of the Senate Armed Services Committee, requested the new study a year ago. It was submitted to him last Feb. 16 after Collins had written it from unclassified sources but with extensive consultation with military intelligence officers and other officials.

According to Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., a copy of the study was then passed on by the committee to the NSC, which was just beginning the new administration's top secret assessment of the U.S. Soviet military balance.

Sullivan sat on the study. When Collins sought to have it made public, he was warned of disciplinary action by the Congressional Research Service and denied a normal pay increase within his grade.

Barry's World

Happiness is not a private beach

MARTHA'S VINEYARD — My good friend Prof. Heinrich Applebaum has just done a sociological study on how private beaches affect the average American's vacation. He did it under a grant from the "Life Is Unfair Foundation."

Applebaum's study came to some startling conclusions.

"You would think," he told me, "that people who own their own beaches would be twice as happy as those who don't."

"That certainly figures," I said.

"Well, it's not true. My interviews indicate that those who have no rights to a private beach are three and a half times happier than those who do."

I was certainly surprised.

He said, "It appears that those who don't own beach front property believe the ocean is public and they have the right to use the beach they want to, even if it's marked 'Private.'"

"I should think so. A person with a private beach has paid through the nose for it and he doesn't want just anybody using it. There are still such things as property rights in the country."

a beach is a beach, and if they can get away with using a private beach, rather than a public one, their day is made. This is particularly true of nude bathers who will walk miles across dunes, sand and rocks to camp on a piece of property that is off limits to them."

"That's terrible."

"It's worse than that. I discovered in my studies that as the summer goes by the owners of private beaches start suffering severe mental problems, including depression, paranoia and hysteria. Very few beaches. At the end of the summer they are psychological wrecks."

"How so?" I asked.

"Well, they get up in the morning, and the first thing they do is go down to their beach to see if anyone is on it. The thing about private beaches is people use them not only for sunbathing in the daytime, but also at night for other things: If they find their beach has been used at night, it drives the owners crazy. 'Get off my beach!' they scream at the people, wrapped in their blankets."

"Then the beachowners go back to their houses in the morning. After breakfast they go back to the beach to see who is on it. If no one has arrived yet, they go in town to buy the papers and shop for groceries."

But they are very ill at ease because all the time they're away they keep wondering if anyone is on their sand."

"When they return from town, they immediately go back to the beach to check it out. They sit on a sand dune waiting for the invaders. Some people send their children down to stand guard, and at the first sign of an unauthorized bather the children sound the alarm and everyone goes down to the beach to drive the trespassers off. If the sunbathers refuse to move, they have to go back to the house to call the police. This can kill two or three hours."

"It doesn't sound like much fun for the beachowners," I said.

"It isn't. They can't accept lunch dates or go fishing or sailing because they believe as soon as they go someone will walk on their property."

"A person could develop a complex after a while."

"Most of them do," Applebaum said. "They have nightmares, hallucinations and crying jags. They start talking to themselves. And in some cases they even plot murder. If these people don't get treated, they can become a danger to society."

"Then on the basis of your study you're recommending that people who own waterfront property seek psychiatric help as soon as the summer is over."

"It's essential," Applebaum said. "A person who owns a private beach at a summer resort is a walking time bomb that could go off at any moment."

Foes unite, lambast US for 'colony'

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Puerto Ricans who usually battle each other over the future status of the Caribbean island have joined forces to criticize the United States for making the island its "colony."

American diplomats boycotted the opening day Monday of the U.N.'s long-awaited Decolonization Committee debate on the island's status, as they have in previous years.

Officials said requests to speak at this year's debate on Puerto Rico had been received from 24 groups favoring independence for the island, U.S. statehood or a continuation of the current U.S. commonwealth status.

Although the speakers on the first day espoused different visions of Puerto Rico's future, all criticized the existing status as not providing the island's 3.1 million people with enough autonomy.

"We came together here seeking different solutions but united in decriing the colonial, problem Puerto Rico faces," said statehood advocate Juan Garcia Passalacqua of the Puerto Rican chapter of Americans for Democratic Action. "Puerto Rico is a colony and it must cease to be one."

Graciely Morenda Marchand, president of the Puerto Rican Bar Association, said, "The Congress of the United States has never recognized the principle of self-determination for the people of Puerto Rico and, for their part, the people of Puerto Rico have never tried to exercise this right."

"This is a vicious circle that must be broken."

Marcos Antonio Rigau of the pro-commonwealth Popular Democratic Party charged the United States had "impeded every effort taken by Puerto Ricans to improve our relations."

The speakers took up the colonialism theme from Cuba, which in the past has spearheaded efforts to keep the Puerto Rican debate alive at the U.N. by charging the United States with colonialism.

The U.N. committee, convinced by former Puerto Rico Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon's argument that the island was a commonwealth by choice, avoided a confrontation "last year" by deterring action on the Cuban charges until this year's debate.

Some diplomats expressed concern that former President Gerald Ford's statehood proposal would give the Cubans new ammunition in their efforts to have the United Nations declare Puerto Rico a U.S. colony.

But other diplomats speculated that Cuba would "seek to avoid a confrontation" with Washington at a time when Fidel Castro is seeking better relations with the United States.

Guerrillas capture key Angolan towns

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Anti-Marxist guerrillas have overrun Angolan troops in three of the four key southeastern towns and appear ready to move on the last one, the Beeld newspaper said today.

Beeld said guerrillas belonging to UNITA — the Portuguese acronym for the National Movement for the Total Liberation of Angola, led by Dr. Jonas Savimbi — has captured Mucundo, Dirico and Cuangar, all on the Kwanza River.

The newspaper said the guerrillas appeared ready to attack Calais, the only southern border town known to remain in the hands of the Marxist regime of President Agostinho Neto.

It quoted "military observers" as saying UNITA's recent successes in the south, including the capture of Dirico, could be "a fatal blow" to Neto's regime in the south. The guerrillas attacked Dirico last Friday with small arms and artillery fire and after two days "of bloody fighting in which hundreds of (government) soldiers died, the town was almost totally flattened," Beeld said.

Although Neto's forces won the 1975 civil war with the backing of an estimated 12,000 Cuban troops, at least three anti-Marxist guerrilla groups remain active and claim to control large sections of the countryside.

USSR leads peace push

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — The Soviet Union and Afro-Arab nations are increasing efforts to avert an all-out war between Ethiopia and Somalia despite slim chances for success, diplomatic sources said today.

Since Somali forces attacked Ethiopia's southeast Ogaden desert region last June, the dispute between the neighbors on the horn of Africa has deteriorated rapidly until diplomatic sources judge it to be on the verge of full-scale war.

It escalated Monday when Somalia accused Ethiopian warplanes of bombing northern Somalia. Somali president Siad Barre put his country on a virtual war footing and warned an Ethiopian invasion was near.

The Soviet Union — the main arms supplier to both socialist regimes — has been trying to keep the friendship of both antagonists and has been stepping up efforts to avert an all-out war, the sources said.

African Arab nations belonging to the 49-member Organization of African Unity also are trying to mediate a settlement, the sources said, despite the failure of a recent mediation bid by an OAU commission in Libreville, Gabon.

But the diplomats said they believe there is little chance the peace initiatives will succeed at this stage in the confrontation.

Ethiopia has charged regular Somali troops are engaged in the Ogaden fighting, but the Mogadishu regime has said the fighters are Ogaden-born Somali guerrillas who want to annex the Oregon-sized region to form a "greater Somalia."

Leftist attacks injure 58 police

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — Leftist demonstrators showered police with rocks and bottles, injuring at least 58 officers in a second drive to break up meetings of rightists who want blacks and Asians expelled from Britain.

The left wingers became irate and shouted, "Kill the pigs!" as police frustrated their efforts to crash a meeting of the rightist National Front party in a school building Monday night.

Led by a youth in a red shirt carrying a red flag, the leftists lunged at the police line, flinging rocks at policemen as they came. Fifty-eight officers were injured, but the line held. At least 10 persons were arrested.

Several National Front members arriving late were attacked by the mob, and one man was thrown to the ground, shouting and screaming as he was kicked and punched.

Brezhnev returns, welcomes Yugoslav

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, in a rare show of respect, broke off a Crimean vacation and flew back to Moscow to welcome Yugoslav President Tito to the Soviet Union today on an eight-day official visit.

Brezhnev greeted the 85-year-old Tito with a warm handshake and three big kisses.

Traditionally visiting East European leaders have had to trek to the Crimea to see the 70-year-old Brezhnev if they arrive when he is on vacation.

Tito and Brezhnev were scheduled to have three to four days of official talks on international affairs and their own touchy bilateral relations.

Tito will then spend several days vacationing at Lake Balkai before he continues with a trip to Peking and North Korea.

Western diplomatic sources said the 85-year-old Tito and Brezhnev were expected to discuss the Middle East, developments in Africa, and other international matters.

They said Tito's own abiding interest in a Soviet guarantee to keep its hands off Yugoslavia in any succession period after his own death would also be a possible topic.

Air rate cut set

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Airlines flying London-New York routes have agreed to lower their rates as of Sept. 15 to compete with Laker Airways, which is to open a daily shuttle next month, the International Air Transport Association (IATA) said Monday.

The new package, which will remain in effect through March 31, 1978, will offer a round trip ticket for $256 compared with the current $700.

The deal was approved by six airlines, including British Airways, Pan Am, TWA, Air India and El-Al, during a two-day IATA meeting.

Four other IATA carriers — two from Europe, one from Canada and one from Africa — operating London-New York flights have yet to accept the new fare adjustments, IATA said.

Tickets will have to be booked 21 days in advance and notice of confirmation will be made "not earlier than 10 days before the week of travel."

At the same time, the Advance Purchase Excursion Fare (APEX), which has to be booked 60 days in advance, will go down from $350 roundtrip to $299.

'Miss Lillian' signs new book

ATLANTA (UPI) — On her 78th birthday the President's mother was out earning a buck.

"Miss Lillian," the matriarch of the Carter clan, busily autographed copies of her new book in an Atlanta department store Monday and informed her son, who called to wish her happy birthday, that even he wouldn't get a free copy.

"Listen, honey, you've got to buy one. We don't give 'em away," Miss Lillian told the President in a brief telephone conversation.

Before the President came on the line, Miss Lillian jested with his secretary.

"He sure is holding me up from signing," she said. "I've got to sell a book."

The book, "Away from Home — Letters to My Family," consists primarily of letters Miss Lillian wrote home when she was in India in the Peace Corps in the late 1960's.

Former governor recovering

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Former Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, who had a permanent heart pacemaker implanted Monday, was listed in good condition by his doctors.

"He came through surgery beautifully," said Judy Stafford, a spokesman for the Baptist Medical Center. "He is doing fine."

Faubus, 67, served six terms as governor of Arkansas. He left office in 1967.

Elizabeth Faubus, the former governor's wife, said at a Monday afternoon news conference her husband probably would return to their Huntsville, Ark., home at the end of the week.

Faubus was admitted to the coronary care unit Friday after complaining of heart palpitations.

Dr. James Boger, the cardiologist attending Faubus, said Faubus had "felt a few skips of his heart but nothing that could be described as a heart attack."

Store serves select clientele

EXCLUSIVE MOBILE MARKET CARRIES SOME 300 GROCERY ITEMS
... you must be 60 years of age or older to shop here

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston has a corner store that comes to the corner, and it serves a very select clientele. You can't shop there if you're under 60, and if you're bedridden or handicapped, you get special treatment.

The two-year-old Mobile Market is a converted book mobile that makes 30 stops a week at area housing projects, where it serves 500 customers.

"We carry some 300 grocery items, canned goods and so forth," Manager Al Legros said. "We do a gross business of about $1,000 a week."

The market also carries frozen foods, small cuts of meat and basic cleaning supplies, but no candy or cigarettes, since that requires a special license.

It has a staff of three — Legros, a cashier and a driver/maintenance man — paid for by federal funds. It is accompanied by a Boston Housing Authority guard, since most stops are at BHA projects.

Because of its special clientele, the market offers services such as telephone ordering and free delivery, particularly to the handicapped and bedridden.

The mobile market was shut down for several months this year because the 15-year-old vehicle needed repairs. It was rededicated during a recent City Hall nutrition seminar, attended by about 100 elderly persons, some of them in wheelchairs, who said they were grateful for the van.

"This is heaven sent, I hadn't anybody to market for me, and now I don't have to worry if I need a few items. You can't depend on your family if you just need a carton of milk or something," said Karen Antora, 62, of Boston's South End.

Michael Dogmas, 60, of Boston's Dorchester section, said: "My sister, who's blind and lives in an apartment in New York, when I tell her about the van, she prays someday they will take something there like it so she won't have to bother anyone to go to the store for her."

Legros says stocking the market provided a few surprises about eating habits of the elderly.

"Contrary to what many people think, they do not buy canned goods in smaller sizes. They will go for the larger. They're price conscious."

Mel Torme loses court battle

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Singer Mel Torme "yielded" to a court order demanding he say whether he listened in on telephone conversations by his estranged wife, British actress Janette Scott, Yes, Torme said, he did.

Torme, 51, lost a week-long legal battle Monday against the order issued by the judge presiding over their divorce trial.

He conceded he listened in on calls between Miss Scott and British film producer Kevin Francis, reportedly her former fiancé, saying he feared she planned to violate orders by British and California courts requiring her to keep their two children, 7 and 4, in Los Angeles.

He said he did not tap the phone line but listened in on an extension. At that time Miss Scott and the children were living in the family home and Torme in the guesthouse.

He did not say what he overheard.

Tonry enters federal prison

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Richard Tonry, who was elected to Congress from Louisiana to fight the kind of corruption uncovered in the Watergate scandal, has begun serving a prison term in the same prison as former Attorney General John Mitchell.

Tonry, 42, entered the federal prison at Maxwell Air Force Base Monday for a one-year term for campaign law violations. He refused to talk to reporters as he walked briskly into the minimum-security prison. Prison superintendent Robert Grunsky said it would be more coincidence if he wound up in the dormitory with Mitchell, who started his Watergate term June 22.

The prison, which houses some 300 inmates serving time for non-violent federal crimes, has no bars or fences.

Gleason to begin sentence

CHICAGO (UPI) — John S. Gleason Jr. could arrange a million-dollar loan by telephone, and La Salle Street financiers felt no need to check his paperwork.

Gleason, 62, had served as Veterans Administration director under President Kennedy, major-general in the U.S. Army Reserve, president and chairman of the Mercantile Bank of Chicago, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago and national commander of the American Legion.

He enjoyed taking his friends to Notre Dame football games in his private railroad car. He was one of 100 executives whose reputation was all the collateral needed for a loan.

"He could look you in the eye and tell you you were in China, and you'd believe it," a former associate said.

In two weeks, John S. Gleason Jr. will check in at a federal prison, to begin a three-year sentence for bank fraud. Then comes three years of probation in one of the biggest scandals ever to hit the city's financial district.

Gleason pleaded guilty Aug. 1 to bank fraud for concealing his interest in a firm, which the Mercantile Bank loaned $320,000 and to keep a $80,000 check which he recorded as a loan to a third party.

"I never thought I would appear before a court and admit I've committed a crime before my children. I have done so and I am sincerely sorry," Gleason told U.S. District Court Judge Alfred V. Kirkland Monday.

Swine flu case confirmed

MONTICELLO, Utah (UPI) — The State Health Division Monday confirmed the first known case of swine flu in Utah — a Monticello veterinarian who apparently caught the disease from sick pigs.

Dr. Charles D. Chase, 65, was hospitalized with the disease for five days in April. But it took health officials nearly four months to positively identify it as swine flu.

Chase, who refused to take flu shots last year because he thought the safety of the vaccine had not been thoroughly tested, was only the sixth case of swine flu reported in the nation this year.

"I was pretty sick," said Chase, "sick enough so they put me in the hospital. But I recovered in about two weeks."

"We think maybe I got it from some swine I was treating. The pigs were pretty sick too."

Thomas Edwards, director of the Utah Bureau of Disease Prevention, said health officials believed all along that the veterinarian had contracted the disease. But it took a long laboratory process to positively identify the disease.

He said subsequent investigation showed the vet had caught the illness from the animals.

Millions of Americans were vaccinated for swine flu last year under a federal program before the shots were suspended Dec. 16 because of questions about their safety.

Edwards said more than 400,000 Utahns received the shots.

"No, I didn't get one," said Chase. "I didn't think they had done enough research on it." "The doctor said it's not the first time he's caught a disease from his patients."

"I caught undulant fever once from some cows," said Chase. "You get pretty sick with that, too."

Innocence told in scalding death

RITZVILLE, Wash. (UPI) — Brian Anderson, 31, Othello, Wash., entered a plea of innocent to a charge of first degree murder in the scalding death of his 10-year daughter, Tanya, on Friday.

Anderson was charged with assault and had pled innocent by reason of insanity. He spent several weeks under psychiatric observation at Eastern State Hospital, Medical Lake.

Paul school settlement offered

PAUL — The Pacific Insurance Co. has offered the Paul School Board an undisclosed sum of money as settlement for replacement of the Paul Elementary School which burned in early June.

District Supt. Wayne Fagg would not disclose the amount of the settlement offer until the school board has reviewed the bid. The figure, according to Fagg, is very close to the architect's original estimate of the cost of rebuilding the structure, but one point of disagreement may arise.

Fagg said the insurance company contends it must merely pay the cost of replacing the structure as it was without bringing it up to present codes.

The difference in costs between replacing the building and building a new one which meets all present codes may be as high as $750,000.

Fagg said the board would ask district patrons for either a bond reduction or a facilities levy.

Plans are to have a new facility by the 1978-79 school year. In the meantime students will be housed temporarily at other area schools.

Fire damages travel trailer

TWIN FALLS — Fire extensively damaged a new fifth wheel travel trailer Saturday afternoon at the Hunter Hard Tops sales lot at Addison Avenue West.

Firemen said the fire started inside the new trailer which was hooked to either electrically or gas. By the time fire units arrived flames had burned into the interior walls, through mattresses and covers and drapes. Cause was not established.

Firemen said it burned the rear tires on the trailer and also burned through the outside roof and wall at the rear of the trailer.

Smoke damage was extensive throughout the unit. Smoke was so heavy inside it was difficult for firemen to get into the trailer. Damage was estimated at $2,000 but a definite amount had not been determined.

Pharmacists to hear group leader

SUN VALLEY — American Society of Hospital Pharmacists (ASHP) President Carl D. Lyons will address the annual meeting of the Idaho Society of Hospital Pharmacists in Sun Valley Sept. 25.

Lyons' address will feature a slide presentation explaining ASHP's financial makeup. The title of his speech will be "ASHP: An Organization Structured for the Future."

The Idaho Society of Hospital Pharmacists is one of 43 affiliated state chapters of the ASHP.

Lyons, who serves as pharmacist administrator at the Skyline Terrace Nursing Center in Tulsa, Ok., was elected last year by ASHP members.

ASHP, which is headquartered in Washington, D.C., represents more than 16,000 pharmacists in 50 states and the District of Columbia.

IRS conducts employer seminar

TWIN FALLS — The Internal Revenue Service will conduct a small business seminar for new employers Wednesday.

The seminar will be from 10 a.m. to noon at the Internal Revenue Service office at 1061 Blue Lakes Blvd. No. The seminar is designed primarily for new employers in small businesses interested in learning about federal tax requirements.

Included in the session will be information on employee withholding, quarterly reports and employer tax returns.

Eleven enrolled in EMT course

GLENNS FERRY — Eleven people are enrolled in the Emergency Medical Technician course being conducted at the Glenns Ferry High School.

The 11-hour course is instructed by Ron Elise, a registered nurse with the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare.

Individuals who sign up for the course must pay tuition and are obligated to arrange their schedules so that they do not conflict with class attendance. The course of instruction is necessary before they are qualified to do ambulance work.

Seniors sign contract

TWIN FALLS — The contract for the fire protection sprinkler system for the new Twin Falls Senior Center has been signed by the center's board of directors.

A representative of Dahm Brothers, Inc., Boise, has said that the system should be completed by the middle of September.

The withdrawal of the resignation of Peggy Laley as director has also been accepted.

Ms. Laley says that the group hopes to be in the new building by Oct. 1 and that a greatly expanded program of activities and services is being planned. Some of this expansion is already in operation. The center is now open from 2 to 5 p.m. each Sunday. No meal is being served that day, but various activities such as cards, games and dancing as well as special entertainment is being provided.

After the move to the new building, dances, which will be open to the public, will be held at least twice a month and possibly each week. Bus service for the seniors is available for all center events, and a Dial-A-Ride bus service is in operation Monday, Wednesday and Friday for the purpose of transporting seniors to doctors, shopping or visiting. A donation of 50 cents per ride is suggested. Any one interested in this service is asked to call the center, 734-5087, at least a day in advance so that the pickups can be coordinated.

The seniors have raised enough money to pay for the necessary immediate renovation and the sprinkler system, but there will still be expenses and items that will be needed. Volunteer labor is needed for painting and cleanup work inside the building — now and later — money and volunteers will be needed to renovate the outside of the building, Laley said.

Dr. James Taylor, president of the college of Southern Idaho, has volunteered the college's help for the landscaping of the grounds in conjunction with the help that has been offered by the city.

Cook County homeowners consider taxpayer strike

CHICAGO (UPI) — Angry about property tax increases as high as 300 per cent, many Cook County homeowners considered holding back their payments today in what could be the area's first organized strike by taxpayers.

"Would you believe 300 per cent," grouched Paul Hupp, a contractor from suburban Northbrook. "My taxes went up 300 per cent in one year. I owe over $3,000. How am I supposed to pay it?"

Hupp was one of some 300 angry North Shore owners who parked the Winnetka Public Library last week for one of a series of regional meetings to hear Chicago bank executive James L. Tobin, 31, tell them it is time to revolt by refusing to pay their taxes.

Retard the county's cash flow, he told them, and the politicians might be willing to negotiate a figure — lower than that imposed in the quadrennial reassessment.

Today is the deadline for payment of the second installment of the 1976 county property tax.

No one can be sure how many — if any — taxpayers will strike, but collections are lagging far behind last year's pace.

On Friday, three days before the 7-Day deadline, the county treasurer's office had received $814 million — 49 per cent of the amount billed — and $40 million behind the rate collected at a comparable date last year.

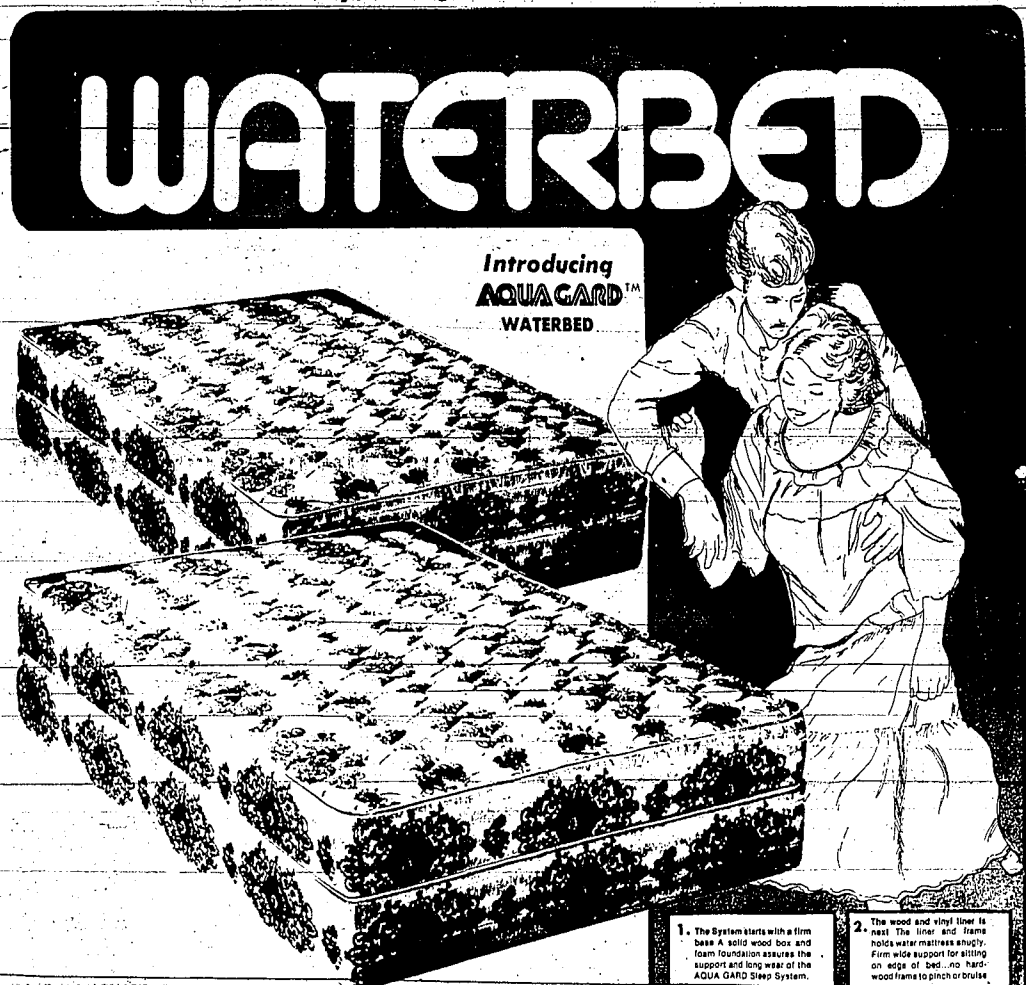

The figure translates into 29,000 taxpayers who paid their bills last year as of three days before deadline but were holding back this year.

"All this talk of a strike" probably has influenced many of those delaying payment, conceded Thomas Leach, a spokesman for the treasurer's office.

"It's psychological. People will jump on the bandwagon if there's one to jump on, even people who did not get big increases," he said.

The electronics wizards long ago invented a music synthesizing machine that can reproduce any voice ever recorded, then make that voice say or sing whatever's desired. Enrico Caruso, for instance, could be heard to sing country western, seemingly. Sen. Barry Goldwater might be listened to on the radio as though in declaration of his own new membership in the Communist Party. And President Jimmy Carter, conceivably, could be represented in a telephone call to Playboy magazine to request another interview, this one to discuss erotic experiences of naval personnel. Odd you don't hear much about that machine, isn't it?

A credit company executive with a new computer and some spare time on his hands has learned that people whose surnames begin with the letter "R" tend to be the best payers while those whose names start with "C" seem to be the most difficult to collect from. No doubt this is just a matter of chance, peculiar to the customers in his company only. Still, he checked the records back over a dozen years, and his results came out about the same each year.

In that vein, the sort of character who owes money and won't pay these days is known as a deadbeat. But when your grandfather was a lad, that kind of citizen was called an absquatulator, says our Language man.

Fall Harvest

Ever since Idaho's first settlers grubbed a few hard-earned acres from the sagebrush desert, agriculture has been Magic Valley's meat and potatoes.

Throughout the valley's history, hard-working farmers have done the most to shape the growth and prosperity of the area.

Valley farmers, their annual production and their consumption of other goods, make up more than two-thirds of the area economy. Without the farm dollar in Magic Valley, the merchant would be left in the dust.

Many technological advances have brought change to the farming industry, better tractors, better combines, more productive breeds of plants and advanced cultural practices have all combined to change the face of agriculture in the valley over the years.

At the heart of Magic Valley's tremendous productive capacity, however, still stands that man whose hard work and perseverance has made it all possible — the Magic Valley farmer.

The Times-News salutes all Magic Valley farmers — the backbone of the area's economy.

Minidoka rejects insurance offer

By SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Minidoka County School District and its insurance company differ by $750,000 on settlement for reconstruction of the fire damaged Paul Elementary School.

The insurance company has offered to pay $974,367 for building reconstruction. The figure was reached by the East Nelson Corp., a west coast estimating firm.

That figure is lower than the estimates of architect Jim Smallwood of $982,277 and Idaho Construction Company's estimate of $992,690 to put the building in the same condition as before the fire.

The key difference, however, lies in an additional $748,000 estimated necessary to meet the life safety requirements for reconstruction of the school.

Roger Ling, legal counsel for the board, said Monday night that there is legal precedent on both sides of the issue. He said some courts have held that the insurance company must pay to rebuild the damaged structure for use, while other courts have held that the company must only pay the actual loss figure necessary to put it in the same condition as before damage.

Ling told the board he felt any legal action would probably go to the Idaho Supreme Court and take two years to settle.

The school board accepted an insurance company settlement offer of about $130,000 for damage to the contents of the school, but it rejected the company's offer on the building itself. The board ordered the insurance company be notified that it would not accept any offer until it received a breakdown in figures supporting the offer.

Board members indicated general consensus that the insurance company should pay the costs necessary to rebuild the school under the state's new life safety code.

Smallwood said the building suffered an average 65 per cent loss over the entire structure. He said his figures do not include an architect's fee of about 8 per cent for plans and specifications on a new structure.

Idaho Construction Company's damage estimates were $491,420 on the older section of the building, erected in 1912, and $501,251 on the newer portion, which was built in 1954 and 1960.

The two floors of the 1912 section included 28,116 feet, while the 1954-60 wing included 19,042 square feet.

Smallwood said the figures were based on an estimated $35 per square foot for full reconstruction.

He said a Twin Falls school bid went out at about $38 per square foot recently.

The school board is considering buying the entire building and building a new school. Smallwood estimated the cost for a school with 24 classrooms at $2 million, compared with about $1.75 million to bring the existing building back into use with the new life safety code.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Doyle Lowder suggested the board could take the existing structure down to foundations and save site preparation by building there and to the east. He estimated the cost for 20 classrooms at $1.4 million. Smallwood said a closer computation indicated the cost would be at least $1.6 million.

The board made no decision on reconstruction. It faces the problem of financing the construction in either case, particularly if the insurance payment is delayed by failure of the company to settle on the basis of any district counter offer.

Lowder said the district probably would have to drop its plans for a plant facilities levy for renovations proposed earlier this year at other schools.

Lowder pointed out that advertising and holding an election to certify a plant facility levy by the Sept. 12 deadline would leave the district no time for planning.

Hospital bills may take jump

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Patients at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital can expect higher bills under proposed 1978 budget approved at Monday night's board meeting.

That budget calls for total expenditures in fiscal 1978 of about $9.9 million, an increase of about 13.7 per cent over this year's budget of $8.7 million.

Administrator James Rosenbaum told board members that no increase in current room rates and other major hospital services would be necessary until after the first of next year.

However, Rosenbaum said some services at the hospital such as operating and delivery room fees, physical therapy and cafeteria charges would be increased about 10 per cent with the adoption of the proposed budget.

Rosenbaum said the cost per day for a hospitalized patient had not been computed under the new budget. Room rate increases and other cost hikes would be in part dependent on hospital board action on a proposed expansion project (see story pg. 1), he said.

To apply the increase in budget percentage to the current cost per day would not yield a true figure, he added, since the budget also reflects increases in outpatient visits and other services not computed in the cost per day to a bed-ridden patient.

The current cost of about $159 would rise to about $180 if the percentage of increase in the budget is applied to patient costs, however.

The proposed budget includes funds to expand the hospital staff from about 501 employees this year to 511 in fiscal 1978, which begins in October.

The budget also calls for cash carryover from this year of about $225,000, a profit margin which will either be used to buy equipment or to finance expansion, according to Rosenbaum.

Despite the increase in expenses, the new budget actually projects a decrease in the total number of patient days from about 45,500 this year to about 44,800 in 1978.

The average daily hospital census is also projected to decline slightly, to 122.8 patients per day from about 124.7 this year.

What the budget calls for a slight increase, from 9,920 this year to 9,933 in 1978, in the number of admissions to the hospital, the number of emergency room and outpatient visits is also projected to decrease slightly.

Camping trip set?

JEROME — A group of thieves apparently out for a camping trip burglarized two Jerome stores early Saturday morning.

At the North County Store on the corner of North Lincoln Street and East Tenth Avenue, burglars got away with several backpacks, fishing rods and reels and a rifle worth a total of $544. The theft occurred between 2 and 2:30 a.m. Saturday, Jerome police said.

Wynn Mobley, who with her husband Bill owns the store, said she had emptied the cash register and left the drawer open for potential thieves to see.

Two miles north of Jerome, the same night, thieves broke in through a back window of Good's Store, owned by Mrs. Clyde Good. Lost were several cases of beer, potato chips, beef sticks, candy, one pair of leather gloves and $100 in new bills, Mrs. Good said.

She said she saved the new bills as a hobby and kept them in her living quarters connected to the store. She said she was away for the night and had emptied the cash register.

"It's odd," she said. "They were very pernickety. They only took Coors and Bud."

"It appears the same group broke into both stores," Police Chief Howard Dubois said. He said a city police patrol car passed by the North County Store shortly before the break-in.

Thirty to 40 minutes later, police found glass in the store's two front doors broken out. Locks on the doors opened by keys on both sides, but the thieves found the second door with the key still in it on the inside.

Free lunches offered

TWIN FALLS — Parents of Twin Falls school children are being sent applications for free or reduced price lunches based on the family's level of income.

Families with income of less than $3,930 annually will definitely be eligible for free lunches.

A family of four with income less than $7,610 would be eligible for free lunches. The same family would be eligible for reduced price lunches if its income is below $11,880.

A family of six could go up to $9,860 annually and still be eligible for free lunches, while it could get reduced price lunches if its income was below $15,350.

A family of 10 could go to $13,760 for free lunches and to $20,030 for reduced price lunches.

Parents who want to determine eligibility should contact Evelyn Beck, supervisor of food services, at 733-6900 for more information.

Changes in family size, income or employment may change eligibility and a family so affected should make application with the school district.

Federal law requires local school districts to offer school lunches equally to all students regardless of race, sex, color or national origin.

Shop opening OK'd

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — In a split vote, the Twin Falls City Council Monday night approved a request by the city engineer's wife to open a ceramics shop in her home on Fillmore Street.

Before the 4-3 vote, other Fillmore Street residents asked the council to deny the request, saying such a shop could lead to other businesses on Fillmore and could increase residential street traffic, thereby endangering children who play in the area.

In her defense, Mrs. Elynor E. Young, wife of city engineer Gary Young, argued other businesses already operate out of homes on Fillmore.

Mayor Paul Ostyn added the council was obligated to approve Mrs. Young's request because of a city ordinance allowing "home occupation" businesses in residential zones.

He said the council could only place "reasonable conditions" on the request.

However, Councilman Stephen R. Lincoln disagreed, saying a councilman could vote against the request if he felt such a business would endanger public safety.

"What you're seeing here tonight is a basic split on philosophy on the council," Lincoln told the audience. "I advise you to make your position known at the next city election."

During a hearing on the matter, the council received a petition supporting Mrs. Young's plan signed by about 20 Fillmore Street residents and a petition against Mrs. Young's plan signed by about 30 Fillmore residents.

"We would have no objections if this was just going to be a hobby," said Howard L. Wiseman, 231 Fillmore St. "But this is certainly getting beyond the home-occupation stage."

Mrs. Jan Lobb, 132 Fillmore St., said "community pride" in the street could end if city officials allowed businesses there.

Councilman Chris B. Talkington, who voted to approve the request, said Mrs. Young's plan was very similar to cases where doctors and lawyers meet clients at home.

Approval of Mrs. Young's plan would "not open it (the street) up to a Checker Auto Parts, Payless Drugs or McDonald's," Talkington said.

This morning Wiseman complained the request was "tailored" and added some of the council members "may" have suspended their good judgment and based their decision on friendship with the Youngs.

City Manager Jean Miller disagreed, saying the request required more "scrutiny" than other requests "to insure no preferential treatment ... was allowed at all."

Performance slated

TWIN FALLS — There will be a drunkard staggering around in Cascade Park in Twin Falls Wednesday night at 7 p.m.

It's all legal, though. His name is Edward and he is the main character in Antique Festival Theatre's production of "The Drunkard," sponsored by Harlans School.

The audience can gain admission to the performance and also the Thursday evening performance of "Honky Tonk II" by making a generous donation when the sponsors pass the hat.

"The Drunkard" is a melodrama about a young landlord who inherits his father's property only to find his father is to be evicted a family from one of the premises his father owns.

Instead, he falls in love with the daughter of the family who lives in the rental space and eventually marries.

His life at first is marred by his mortal weakness prevails and he "falls into the bottle."

At the same time his father's former attorney, Mr. Cribbs, is trying to persuade him to sell all his father's land so Cribbs can make a profit on the sale.

Edward's life seems hopelessly lost until he finally meets a rehabilitated drunkard who helps him straighten out his life.

"Honky Tonk II" is a comedy about a group of college students who conjure up the idea of starting their own country-western variety show. The result is a variety show designed to delight the audience.

Both shows start at 7 p.m. in Cascade Park east of Sawtooth Elementary School on Stadium Boulevard.

Prejudice claimed

By LARRY SWISHER
Times-News writer

JEROME — Attorneys for a woman who is suing Tupperware Co. for $500,000 for the "wrongful death" of her husband, claim the jury which found for Tupperware last month was "biased and prejudiced" and "knew the effect of the verdict was contrary to Idaho law."

A motion set for hearing next Tuesday (Aug. 23) asks Fifth District Court Judge James Cunningham to grant a new trial or to overrule the jury's verdict and find in favor of Nora Ann Hicks and her daughter, Angela.

In addition three jury members, including the original foreman, have filed affidavits testifying about the jury's bias.

Mrs. Hicks, who is remarried and now lives in Caldwell, brought the lawsuit against Tupperware charging negligence in the death of her husband, Elmer G. Hicks, who drowned in the company's swimming pool over two years ago.

In its verdict last month, the jury by a vote of 10 to 2 assigned 60 per cent of the blame for the death to Hicks himself and 40 per cent to Tupperware and awarded no damages to Mrs. Hicks or her daughter. Nine votes constitute a valid verdict in a civil suit under Idaho law.

"It's an unusual procedure," James May, Twin Falls attorney for Mrs. Hicks, said on the motion. "We are asking for a new trial or as an alternative asking the judge as a matter of law to overrule the verdict and make a determination for the plaintiff."

He said he didn't know if members of the jury would be called to testify in court.

May's motion, filed Aug. 11, claims "the greater weight of evidence supported more than 50 per cent negligence on the part of Tupperware." It also states the jury's granting no damages shows the jurors did not understand or follow the court's instruction and were "biased and prejudiced," and that the jury "knew the effect of the verdict—very contrary to Idaho law."

In his judgment, Cunningham had ordered "plaintiffs" take nothing, the action be dismissed" and that Tupperware recover its costs and attorney fees.

Tupperware attorneys listed their fees at over $21,000.

HANDICAPPED DRIVERS IN IDAHO HAVE SPECIAL LICENSE PLATES

Larry Fife, seated, receives No. 33 from Assessor Bill Clark

Special license plates ready for handicapped

TWIN FALLS — The first license plates for vehicles operated in Twin Falls County by handicapped persons became available this month and are available to those who qualify.

County Assessor Bill Clark said the license plates with a tiny wheel chair insignia in the lower left hand corner are designed for persons who must depend on mechanical devices for operating their vehicles.

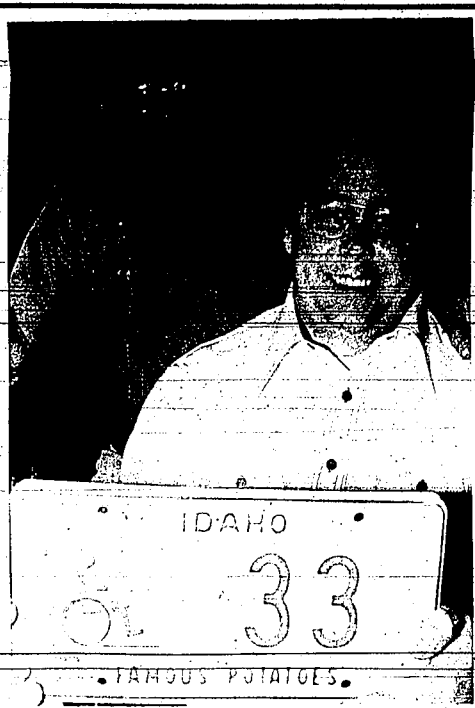

Special parking areas are reserved in most towns for the handicapped, and persons using these spaces should have the handicapped license. This is one way of reserving the spaces for persons who need them and giving traffic officers a means of weeding out violators.

Richard Schaaf, a wheelchair occupant of Boise, designed the bill which the Idaho Legislature adopted in the recent session creating the special plates.

There is no bargain price as the plates sell for the same price as others, depending on the age of the vehicle being licensed.

The licenses may be purchased at the assessor's office in any county courthouse. Because there are only a few requests, the Twin Falls assessor's office takes the application for handicapped licenses and orders the plates from Boise. They generally arrive within a few days time.

Assault stymied

FEDERAL agents display a small arsenal which was seized Monday from a Bay of Pigs veteran. Three boats, a cache of automatic weapons and ammunition and provisions were confiscated when agents arrested Pedro Gil, 41, who police say was preparing for a raid on the Cuban coast.

Cuban exile seized

MIAMI (UPI) — Agents from three federal agencies raided a west side home and a river marina Monday, seizing three boats, a cache of automatic weapons and ammunition and provisions were confiscated when agents arrested Pedro Gil, 41, who police say was preparing for a raid on the Cuban coast.

Pedro Gil, 41, a member of the Brigade 2506, the Bay of Pigs Veterans Association, was arrested and charged with violating federal firearms export control laws.

Authorities said there may be other arrests. At least two other Cuban exiles reportedly were being sought.

The Miami Herald quoted Pedro Rojas, a spokesman for the Bay of Pigs group, as saying the weapons belonged to the 2506 Brigade's "secret army," and called the seizures "lamentable."

"I don't believe that we are violating any law when we fight for the freedom of our country, which is under the hands of international communism," he said.

Sanford said the three boats, weapons, ammunition and camouflage uniforms were to be used in an "imminent hit-and-run harassment raid somewhere on the Cuban coast." He said 10 or 12 persons were scheduled to take part.

The Herald quoted an unnamed 2506 Brigade source as saying the raid had been set for last weekend but the three boats were forced to turn back to Miami when one of them developed engine trouble.

Raiders were conducted by Customs inspectors, Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents, and the FBI. Sanford said the operation had been "under constant surveillance throughout their elaborate preparations of the last several weeks."

'Victim' sentenced to prison

BOISE (UPI) — Fourth District Judge Robert Rowell, has sentenced James T. Cole, 25, Boise, to 30 days in jail for attempting to extort $200,000 from his employer by pretending to be kidnapped last August.

Cole, a warehouse foreman at the time of the incident, pleaded guilty to the charge. But he still maintains he was kidnapped, contending he has blocked details of the incident from his mind.

Rowell gave Cole a three-year prison sentence and a $3,000 fine and then suspended all but a 30-day jail term and ordered him to take an hour-long tour of the state prison.

Doreen floods highway

By United Press International
Thunderstorms spawned by Hurricane Doreen poured out two feet of water over parts of southern California, washing out the main highway connecting Los Angeles with Las Vegas, Nev., and inundating a desert country club.

The California Highway Department reported those driving from Los Angeles to Las Vegas would have to take a 150-mile detour on desert highways even more susceptible to flooding than the washed out Interstate 15.

"A unit on the scene estimated that there was four tons of mud on the portion of the roadway remaining," said California Highway Patrol Sgt. Terry Hunt. The highway was washed out between Barstow and Baker, Calif., he said.

"I had a call from a man asking when the highway would be opened. He said he was in charge of a group of buses carrying 400 children and that they were waiting for the road to open. I told him 'I hope they have lots of ice cream in Baker,'" Hunt said.

The fierce storm sent thousands of travelers rushing for shelter at Baker. Rainfall in the desert mountains is not soaked up by plants, but runs off into ravines and gullies, joining other streams and building into larger rivers. Finally, the waters come blasting out of the hills and into the plain below as a wall of water.

After causing its damage, the water can be absorbed quickly into the dry soil in the plain.

As many as 30 luxury homes at the Deza Desert Country Club were flooded, Monday night when a wall of rain water swept out of a canyon, over a golf course and inundated the development.

Good and good looking

NANCY Lopez, 20-year-old LPGA rookie, may be what the LPGA has been looking for. She plays excellent golf, finishing second in her first three tournaments, and she is attractive enough to perhaps increase TV audiences, thereby increasing purse money for everyone on the tour.

LPGA seeks attractive golfers to increase audience, purses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wanted: Beautiful woman, early 20's, to win LPGA golf tournaments, attract television and boost purses for everyone else on the tour.

Every year or so, it seems, a lovely new "phenom" makes her debut on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, and whether the best part of her game is her putting or her dimples, she always creates some excitement.

The excitement is not always highest among gray-haired staffers who like to follow the girls around the course or national magazine editors who see her face or figure on their covers as a boost in circulation. The excitement is equally felt and appreciated by the other women on the tour, the ones who are out there every week playing for less than half the money the male pros get.

Lonky, plain-looking Kathy Whitworth, approaching 35 and still cranking out victories, may have been the steadiest and best female golfer of the last decade, but she doesn't exactly thrill television sponsors or help build large purses. Sandra Palmer, Judy Rankin, Jane Blalock or Debbie Austin are all fine golfers and warm, friendly individuals, but... The what women want is someone who looks like

Laura Baugh, the blonde with the "sex appeal" smile, or Jan Stephenson, the brunette with the movie star figure, who can occasionally win a tournament. They don't want a beauty in come along, and win everything, but a victory here or there would do wonders for interest.

Baugh, a 22-year-old from Florida, hasn't won a thing in five years on the tour after being named Rookie of the Year in 1973, but she remains a promising player with the will to continue toward success. Stephenson, a 25-year-old from Australia, won two tournaments in 1976 and seemed to be the answer to the LPGA's prayers. But Stephenson left off the pace this year, failing to win any of the 20 tournaments she's played so far.

Now along comes 20-year-old rookie Nancy Lopez: dark hair, olive skin, pretty eyes, healthy figure, and — lo and behold — this girl can play golf.

Lopez may not have all the sex appeal of Baugh and Stephenson, but she won't need attendance either. She has played only three tournaments since dropping out of Tulsa University after two years in June and has finished second in all three: the U.S. Women's Open, Women's European Open and this past week's Long Island Charity Classic.

"Please don't call me the new sex symbol," Lopez said while taking note of the growing crowd of men around her last weekend. "I try to look attractive but I'm more interested in just being myself, playing well and having fun."

Lopez is a cool performer on the course, exuding an inner confidence that seems to separate her from the other "phenoms" like Baugh and Stephenson. "I went to school because I didn't feel at 18 I'd be ready to come out on the tour and handle myself the way I want to," said Lopez, who was also runner-up in last year's U.S. Women's Open.

"I felt I really gained a lot by going to school, maturing and learning. And I felt I was ready to come out after two years. That's why I left school, because I felt it was time."

The other women pros are happy to have her, even though she may be taking some money out of their pockets for awhile. They feel it's time the LPGA had a new image. Lopez has the looks and the talent to become a star and, when surrounded by the likes of Baugh and Stephenson, the old, stodgy image of the LPGA quickly fades. Maybe the LPGA has found what it wanted.

$250,000 buys piece of $9 million thoroughbred

CHESAPEAKE CITY, Md. (UPI) — A syndicate headed by horseman E.P. Taylor has purchased The Minstrel, Europe's leading 3-year-old thoroughbred, for a record $9 million, a spokesman for Taylor said Monday.

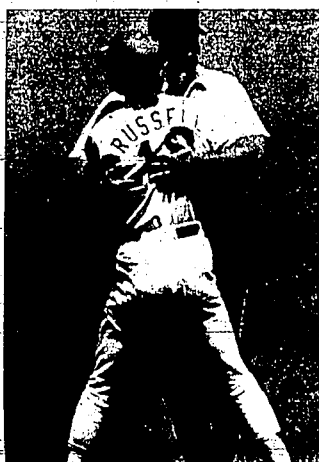

Joseph Hickey said that each of the 36 members of the syndicate paid $250,000 for a share of the horse. It was the highest ever paid for a thoroughbred.

Hickey said that Taylor, one of the leading breeders of stakes winners in the world, originally owned the horse but sold it to British Bloodstock Agency of Ireland for $200,000 in 1975 at the Keeneland yearling sales. Taylor decided to organize the syndicate to buy The Minstrel back because "the horse has gone on to be a tremendous champion in England," said Hickey. Hickey said the horse will be kept at the Windfields Farms, Taylor's farm in Chesapeake City, Md.

The Minstrel, who includes among his victories the Epsom and Irish Derbies and the King George VI-Queen Elizabeth Stakes and has earned more than $200,000, will compete at the Washington D.C. International at Laurel, Md., Nov. 5. Among other expected competitors will be three-time Horse of the Year Forego and Triple Crown winner Seattle Slew.

The previous syndication record was $8 million, paid in 1976 for What A Pleasure, the sire of 2-year-old champion Honest Pleasure and Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure. Other top syndication deals include that for 3-year-old Horse of the Year Wajima, $7.2 million, in 1975, and $6.38 million for Triple Crown winner Secretariat in 1974.

You're out anyway

BILL Russell of the Los Angeles Dodgers is not thanking umpire Harry Wendelstedt for a favorable call. Russell overran the bag and plowed into the ump, but he was out all the way.

AL pleases more fans

NEW-YORK (UPI) — The American League indicated Monday that its first 15 million attendance season is within reach and an astounding 20 million goal is attainable for 1977.

The all-time major league mark is 17,393,857 set by the National League in 1971. Total paid admissions of 14,678,375 have been recorded this year by the A.L. through Sunday's games and there's still seven full weeks of baseball remaining before the playoffs.

The league reached the 14 million plateau for the first time last year with attendance figures of 14,657,882. Successful expansion in Toronto and Seattle contributed considerably to the A.L.'s attendance record as an estimated 2.4 million fans watched home games of the Blue Jays and Mariners this season. The established 12 clubs are running more than a million ahead of last season's record attendance pace.

Twins grab AL West lead

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Craig Kusick drove across five runs with a pair of homers Monday night to send the Minnesota Twins into first place in the American League West with a 13-9 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Seven home runs, two of them by the Orioles' Andres Mora, accounted for 12 of the 20 runs in the game as both teams rapped a total of 27 hits.

The victory, combined with Chicago's loss to New York, propelled the Twins to a one-half game lead over the White Sox in the AL West.

Singles by Al Bumbry and Ken Singleton plus a walk to Lee May and Eddie Murray's two-run single came off Dave Goltz in the first inning to give the Orioles a 2-1 lead. But Bob Gorinski's two-run homer in the second inning put Minnesota back in front, 3-2 before Mora came within six outs of clearing the leftfield bleachers with a two-run homer for Baltimore in the third. Kusick blasted a three-run shot in the fifth inning after a single by Bob Randall and a walk to Larry Hise which gave the Twins a 6-5 lead. Scott McGregg replaced Orioles' starter Rudy May and was shelled in a five-run sixth inning, climaxed by a two-run homer by Kusick, his 10th.

Singleton hit a two-run homer, his 18th, off winning reliever Gary Serun in the sixth to pull to Baltimore to within 11-7 and Mora's solo shot in the seventh brought on the third Twins' pitcher Ron Schaefer. Lee May also hit a solo shot in the ninth for Baltimore, his 19th.

Red Cowie's pinch hit single knocked in an eighth inning Twins' run and designated hitter Terry Bulling singled across another Minnesota tally in the ninth.

Vilas breezes to net win

DUBLIN, Ohio (UPI) — Second-seeded Guillermo Vilas needed only 73 minutes Monday night to win his fifth consecutive tournament on the Grand Prix circuit by besting topseded Brian Gottfried, 6-2, 6-1, in the $125,000 Wendy's Tennis Classic.

It was Vilas' 33rd straight win this season on clay courts.

Vilas, of Argentina, controlled play throughout the match in which there were seven service breaks, six against Gottfried, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Seldom did Gottfried hit a volley or ground stroke that Vilas did not reach or return with authority. The burly Argentinian moved ahead quickly with a service break in the opening set.

Though Gottfried tied the set 2-2 with a service break of his own, that was as close as he came to a tie in the match.

Errors, particularly on volleys and ground strokes, hurt Gottfried.

Vilas picked up $16,000 for the victory, while Gottfried earned $8,000.

It was Vilas' last tournament before the U.S. Open at Forest Hills later this month. After a week's rest, Gottfried will compete in the U.S. Pro Championships in Boston.

The Wendy's doubles championship was to be decided later Monday between the team of Stan Smith, Hilton Head, S.C., and Bob Lutz, San Clemente, Calif., and Peter Fleming, Chatham, N.J., and Gene Mayer, Flushing, N.Y.

SV golf pits Ford, O'Neill

BOISE (UPI) — Former President Gerald Ford and Speaker of the House-Tip O'Neill, D-Mass., will meet head-to-head in the first round of the Danny Thompson Memorial Golf Tournament Friday morning at Sun Valley, Idaho.

They lead a list of well-known politicians, sports figures and other dignitaries who have entered the tournament to raise money for leukemia research.

The contest is named after Danny Thompson, a Minnesota Twins baseball player who died of leukemia in 1976. His former teammate Harmon Killebrew and Killebrew's business partner, former Idaho Congressman Ralph Harding, are sponsoring the fund-raising tournament.

A tournament committee is trying to arrange four teams including Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus, former baseball player Mickey Mantle and others.

7th grade grid meeting

TWIN FALLS — An organizational meeting of all the seventh grade little league football coaches will be held Wednesday at 7 a.m. at the Rogerson Cafe on Main Street.

Ron Watson, league commissioner, said that packets containing insurance forms, physical examination forms and team draws will be distributed at the meeting.

Watson added that any seventh grader who wishes to play football but who has not yet signed up for the league should call Twin Falls High School athletic director Duke Wiseman, who will assign players to teams, at 733-4551.

Golf cart suit filed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A federal judge Monday issued a temporary restraining order against a U.S. Golf Association rule banning carts for players in its championships or qualifying.

U.S. District Judge Fay Guy issued the order on a suit filed by two-time national amateur golf champion Frank Coltrane III of Selma, who is entered Tuesday at Shoal Creek Country Club near here in qualifying for the Aug. 31 National Amateur tournament at Newtown Square, Pa.

Guy set a Aug. 22 hearing on a preliminary injunction against the rule if Coltrane finishes as one of the top three in Tuesday's qualifying. Guy said that if Coltrane does not finish in the top three there will be a trial on the merits of the case. Coltrane, who lost his left leg above the knee in an auto accident 22 years ago, asked the rule be waived that said: "Players shall not use automotive transportation during play. Penalty for breach: Loss of hole."

Rifle contest opens

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (UPI) — The prestigious President's Match will inaugurate the National High Power Rifle Championships Tuesday with nearly 1,000 of the country's finest big bore target shooters going on the line for the 30-shot match.

Gary Anderson, McCook, Neb., who set a National Championships record by winning last year for the second straight time, will not defend his title. He is now executive director of the National Rifle Association Operations in Washington, D.C. and the NRA sponsors the championships.

Atkinson fits tough Raiders image

SANTA ROSA, Calif. — On the day the death penalty was resuspended in California, George Atkinson stalked across his motel room. His teeth ripped fried chicken from the bone and his tongue rapped Russ Francis, who said recently that he wanted to kill Atkinson during a game last year.

"(Deep) Russ Francis, that sissy," Atkinson spat between bites. "I'm a little sick of Russ Francis. Russ Francis, Russ Francis. Coming on like some Muhammad Ali. He'll get his chance, and I'll see how much a man he is. He is, he is, he is. He continues to mouth off after all these months. Some people don't like to get hit. That's Russ Francis' problem. People who don't want to get hit shouldn't go on the football field."

Atkinson broke Francis' nose last December when Oakland beat New England in a playoff game. For Atkinson, the Raiders' strong safety, it was the second such episode of 1976. In the 11 weeks since then, Atkinson clubbed Pittsburgh's Lynn Swann into unconsciousness with a forearm smash. For that, Atkinson was fined $1,500. But when Steelers' coach Chuck Noll referred to a "criminal element" in the National Football League, Atkinson sued for slander. He asked $2 million.

Atkinson's claims were refused by a jury. Back in training camp now, Atkinson enjoys his image, enjoys the reporters who stop by to talk, violence, enjoys it when teammates like free safety Jack Tatum — a harder hitter — shout "Here comes Public Enemy No. 1."

He backs because for nine years he was anonymous, the smallest 16-foot, 185-pounder in the league at his position. He blends well with the Raiders, the Super Bowl champions, a team which cultivates an "outcast" image and exudes paranoia air from secretive owner Al Davis on down through the minor fankies who evoke "other team's writers" from the harricaded practice field. ("I don't think I'd want to play anywhere else," Atkinson says.)

Their methods — and their successes — are proof in the inverse of Leo Durocher's dictum "Nice guys finish last." And Atkinson was only reflecting Oakland's approach when he flat-tended the nose of Francis, who said "I felt like I was shot."

It was an accident, according to Atkinson, because Francis ducked into the blow. And after the game, Atkinson says, the two men walked off the field together as friendly competitors.

"He told me he hoped we won the Super Bowl," Atkinson says. "But now, Francis says there isn't room in football for players who try to maim. He says he'd like to break Atkinson 'in two.' And that he'd be doing everyone a favor."

"I don't believe in revenge," Francis told the Sporting News. "But I do believe in getting even."

Atkinson feels Francis changed his tune to capitalize on Atkinson's negative publicity. Somehow, it all smells a little like Big Time Wrestling, but Atkinson's tone rings sincere and malevolent. Nevertheless, the two teams aren't scheduled to play each other this season, so the only meeting could come in the playoffs.

Between blasts of Francis, Atkinson dashes across the room and back now dressing for a post-practice set of tennis. He stops at the mirror to brush his hair and comb his beard. He adjusts both the tilt of his tinted glasses and the volume of the stereo. He talks also of his real estate business, his liquor business — and the standing ovation he got (at home) in the first exhibition game.

Below the mirror is a copy of Sports Illustrated with Conrad Dobler on the cover. The headline labels the St. Louis guard as the dirtiest player in football. The magazine is wrinkled, as if it's been handled a lot or read in a bathtub. Atkinson laughs about the cover and quotes from the article to the effect that comparison with Dobler makes Atkinson seem tame. He insists there are many plays in many games similar to the Swann incident. He doesn't say his behavior is rough and 2. He jabs aggression and intimidation are "parts of football."

"It's been blown out of proportion by television commentators who don't even know me," he says. "Raiders teammates support him, albeit with curious logic."

"I'm not condoning what he did to Swann," says Gene Upshaw, an articulate and talented guard, "but there was no penalty called. We were in a game against the Pittsburgh Steelers and whatever he did to help beat the Pittsburgh Steelers, we condone."

Defeated coach Chuck Noll, escaped a slandering conviction "because he included half a damn team (in the 'criminal element') to save his own neck," Atkinson says. (One of Noll's players, "Mol-Hunt," is suing Noll for the statement.)

"George got a bad rap," says Tatum, who had teamed with Atkinson in the Oakland secondary for five seasons. "This will make him a better player. Other teams always point to the Raiders. We intimidate, but people read that as dirty."

Atkinson made $70,000 last season and he'd like $100,000 this year. He hasn't signed a contract yet, but he says he doesn't intend to play out his option.

Such details came out in court, a public airing of dirty laundry that horrifies the Raiders' mentality. The organization is so secretive it doesn't announce roster cuts in training camp. The team emblem is a black shield, bearing a football player wearing a black eye patch with crossed daggers behind his head.

They've been outlaws since the American Football League was an outlaw league and they aren't afraid to sign players who have had behavioral problems elsewhere, like the Giants' John Minkewitz.

They stand like Jell-O Angels from the uply side of the Bay and they categorize all as either inside or outside what they call the "family."

George Atkinson, while he's still of use, is a brother in good standing. Besides, "what I do on the field is not everyday life," says Atkinson. "Don't condemn me as a person. Of the field I'm different. I'm different-type person." As he heads to the tennis court he smiles pleasantly and wonders if his notoriety will result in any advertising offers. "What do you think I could endorse?" he asks.

Playing footsies for keeps

Yankees drop Chisox to second

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Torrez tossed a six-hitter for his fifth straight complete game victory and Graig Nettles drove in two runs Monday night to power the Yankees to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The loss, coupled with Minnesota's triumph over Baltimore, dropped the White Sox into second place in the American League West, one-half game behind the Twins.

Indians end theft streak

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Fred Kendall drove in two runs to help the Cleveland Indians run their current winning streak to three games while stopping Mitchell Page's consecutive stolen base record at 26 Monday night with a 3-2 victory over the Oakland A's.

The Indians, who have scored 33 runs with 42 hits in their last three outings, took a 1-0 lead in the first on a run-scoring single by Bruce Bochte, and added two runs in the second on sacrifice flies by Paul Dade and Kendall.

The Indians then chased loser Jim Unberger with a four-run uprising in the fourth to give Rick Wills his seventh victory against four losses.

Unberger tossed a six-hitter in the Oakland run in the fifth. The Indians scored on an error by Page's streak in the first inning. The Indians' lead fielder, who had a 1-0 lead in the first, was Baylor's clean league 1976, streaked Mariners their ninth-straight loss.

Tigers rout Mariners 13-1

DETROIT (UPI) — Milt May hit a grand slam home and Ben Olivie and Ron LeFlore each hit two-run shots Monday night to ignite the Detroit Tigers to a 13-1 rout of the Seattle Mariners their ninth-straight loss.

May's 10th homer of the year and second career grand slam came in the first inning after Jason Thompson's sacrifice fly got the Tigers a 1-0 lead.

Tanana gets 14th win

TORONTO (UPI) — Andy Etchebarren collected three hits and drove in two runs while Tony Solaita stroked a two-run homer Monday night to pace a 7-4 victory by the California Angels over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Left-hander Frank Tanana struggled through the first four innings, giving up four runs on eight hits before settling down to record his 14th victory against seven losses.

struck out five and didn't walk a batter while running his record 13-10. It was the second consecutive start in which Torrez did not walk a batter. The right-hander is now 10-9 since joining the Yankees on April 27.

Both Chicago runs were the result of homers. Eric Soderholm hit his 19th of the year in the sixth inning and Oscar Gamble belted his 22nd homer of the year with two out in the ninth.

The Yankees scored in the first inning off loser Ken Kravec, 7-5, on singles by Roy White and Nettles and Reggie Jackson's infield out. Bucky Dent's suicide squeeze bunt in the second brought in the second run of the game.

New York erupted for four more runs in the fourth with Nettles two-run single the key hit. The hit followed a two-out, two-base error by shortstop Alan Bannister.

Mets end loss streak

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — John Milner socked a pair of two-run doubles and Steve Henderson drove in two other runs Monday night in helping the New York Mets snap a six-game losing streak with a 7-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Brewers catch Rangers 6-5

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Sal Bando's bases-loaded single with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday night lifted the Milwaukee Brewers to a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the Texas Rangers.

The Brewers loaded the bases against reliever Adrian Devine on a pinch-hit single by Jamie Quirk, a double by Von Joshua, his fourth hit, and an intentional walk to Jim Wohlford. Devine was relieved by Darold Knowles, who got Cecil Cooper to hit into a double play but then issued a walk to Jim Wynn and Don Money to tie the game before Bando singled in Wohlford with the deciding run.

The Brewers trailed 5-0, but made it 5-2 in the bottom of the fourth on three straight singles by Cooper, Wynn and Money and a pair of fielders choices hit by Bando and Lenn Sakata. In the fifth, Joshua led off with a triple and scored on a sacrifice fly by Wohlford, and then the Brewers made it 5-4 in the seventh on a single by Wohlford.

Texas staked Gaylord Perry to a 5-0 lead in the first four innings. Kurt Bevacqua's bases-loaded single delivered two runs in the first and the Rangers added two more on one hit in the third.

THE NEW YORK Mets' Steve Henderson jars the ball loose from St. Louis catcher Ted Simmons and scores in the first inning of their game Monday. The Mets snapped a six-game losing streak by downing the Cards 7-4. (Catchers take note: expect this kind of treatment when you block the plate without the ball.)

Reds win on Bench power

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Johnny Bench tripled, ignored and drove in two runs Monday night to power the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-0 victory over the San Diego Padres behind the combined four-hit pitching of Jack Billingham and Pedro Borbon.

Astros blast Braves 15-3

ATLANTA (UPI) — Art Howe smashed a first-inning grand slam home run to highlight a 14-hit attack Monday night that carried the Houston Astros to a 15-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves. The Astros pounded Atlanta starter Buzz Capra, 2-9, for six runs in the first. Terry Puhl led off with a walk and scored on Rob Sperring's first homer of the year. After Bob Watson drew a walk, Jose Cruz singled and Joe Ferguson walked to load the bases.

Giants trip Dodgers 6-3

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Terry Whitfield's two-run homer highlighted a four-run second inning Monday night which carried the San Francisco Giants to a 6-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers behind the combined five-hit pitching of Ed Hakeik and Gary Lavelle. Gary Thomasson started the Giants' second inning uprising with a double and scored ahead of Whitfield sixth homer off loser Rick Rhoden, 13-8.

A single by George Foster and Bench's triple, followed by Dave Concepcion's sacrifice fly gave the Reds a 2-0 lead in the second inning off loser Randy Jones, 5-9.

Bench led off the fourth inning with his 27th homer of the season for the Reds' other run.

The victory was the ninth against Padres losses for Billingham, who gave up only singles to Gene Tenace and Gene Richards before being lifted for a pinch-hitter after seven innings. Borbon blanked the Padres on two hit over the last two innings to gain his 12th save of the season.

USF coach says Kentucky refused series with Dons

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — University of Kentucky basketball Coach Joe B. Hall said Monday he was surprised at remarks by University of San Francisco Coach Bob Gaillard that Kentucky had refused to play the Dons on a home-and-home basis.

"It's not all that serious," Hall said. "We refuse to play a lot of people home-and-home. It is impossible to expand our schedule any more than now."

Gaillard charged in an interview that Kentucky refused to play his team out West, even when he offered to play on a neutral site and to play two straight years in Lexington.

Gaillard charged it was a typical example of the politics involved in scheduling contests with the traditional college basketball powers, who are often reluctant to schedule other schools looking to improve their schedule.

But Hall said Kentucky made the original contact with San Francisco for a nationally televised game from Rupp Arena March 4.

"We were looking for a quality team to play in our nationally televised game," Hall said. "But we just couldn't get them to agree to terms. It wasn't the situation as they expressed it. It made it look like we didn't want to play them."

"We are always trying to improve our schedule. I don't understand this San Francisco cry. It was just a fact we couldn't work out an arrangement. I think he was disappointed we went on and got Las Vegas. We felt San Francisco would be nationally ranked and wanted them on television and that's why we contacted them. But they became very restrictive in making the arrangement.

Hall was upset at all the publicity being given the "dispute."

"I don't know why he'd make such publicity about it," Hall said. "If (the negotiations) just got so junky we said, 'Hey, we want a simple game,' and that was it."

"I don't know what the negotiations were, but they finally broke down where we just couldn't meet all the things he was requesting. That happens all the time — it just doesn't make the newspapers."

Hall noted Kentucky has little flexibility each year in adding new teams after its commitment of 18 Southeastern Conference games and two games in its own invitational tournament.

Crews batten down for final yacht cup trials

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — A last-minute round of parties, practice and tinkering Monday set the stage for Tuesday's opening of final trials to pick a U.S. yacht to defend the America's Cup.

"It's the big one," said Ed duMoulin, manager of the efforts backing West Coast contender Enterprise. "If you don't win now, you won't be here in September."

By Sept. 8, the New York Yacht Club must turn away the multimillion dollar efforts of two American contenders and pick one 12-meter yacht to face the cup's 23rd foreign challenger, beginning Sept. 13.

An international committee was to decide late Monday on a protest filed by Sweden after its mast and fore its mainsail in heavy seas Sunday.

Sweden, in a tight battle with Australia's Grel II for a berth in the foreign final trials, claimed the "Sunday" race should have been called because of nasty weather.

Swedish spokesman Lars Ahren said Sverige will resume competition Tuesday with spare sails and a new mast installed Monday afternoon.

"We were caught by three consecutive waves at the finish line," he said. "But our spirit now is higher than ever. We are confident."

In a parallel best-of-seven semifinal series, Alan Bond's Australia needs only one more win to eliminate France I from competition.

Each American boat took a different tack Monday in fast-minute spruce-ups of morale and machinery.

Independence, which finished at the bottom of preliminary trials with a 7-13 mark, sailed several hours to test new sails designed by skipper Ted Hood of Marblehead, Mass.

Project manager Jeff Neuberth said extra practicing was needed to smooth teamwork because experienced America's Cup sailors Bob Connell and John Wright replaced Steve Larakis and Ted Hood Jr. in the crew.

"We're going over the boat with a fine tooth comb," Neuberth said. "We're so keyed up for this we don't want to waste time talking about it."

The 1974 cup winner, Courageous, skippered by Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner, shares dock space and syndicate backing with Independence, but the last minute details were less hectic.

Crewmen seemed nonchalant as they hoisted down the hull of Courageous, leader in early trials with a 14-7 mark.

"They're not going out because they figure they don't need any more practice," Neuberth said.

Down the waterfront, crewmen were too busy tinkering with nuts and bolts on 11-12 Enterprise to mind that they were two hours behind their midday practice schedule.

"I didn't sleep a wink all Sunday night because the Enterprise had a party and the night before was the America's Cup ball," said upwind helmsman Malin Burnham. "After this, it's going to be no more women and no more staying out late. Because, after all, we're athletes."

Career ends in dorm

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Notre Dame running back Al Hunter will miss his final season of eligibility after reaching an out-of-court settlement with the university Monday and accepting a one semester suspension for alleged dormitory violations.

Hunter's attorney and the counsel for the university released a joint statement Monday — the same day football practice began for the Fighting Irish — announcing the settlement of a civil suit. Hunter brought seeking a place on the team.

The statement said the Greenville, N.C., senior "accepts a one semester suspension of his studies imposed by the university for his violation of dormitory rules."

It marks the second time Hunter, accused of being in a female student's room after visiting hours, has been suspended.

The statement added that the suspension "effectively ends Hunter's eligibility to compete in varsity football," but the school "looks forward to his return in January to complete the requirements for his degree."

"Hunter will be afforded the full benefits of his grant in aid by the university, within the limitations imposed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association," the statement said.

The announcement claimed "the violation charged, and disputed by Hunter, is one of dormitory rules on hours of visitation."

Five other students were also accused of visiting the girl's room. Hunter, who was acquitted by a student board on the charge.

But the dean of students appealed Hunter's case to a review board last spring and the board said he should have been found guilty and suspended.

Hunter, who last year became the first Notre Dame runner to gain 1,000 yards, appealed the matter to the university president, the Rev. Theodore H. Hesburgh, who sided with the appeals board. Hunter then filed suit in St. Joseph County Circuit Court, seeking a temporary restraining order directing the school to let him continue his studies and participation in sports.

Hunter, who was on hand when the agreement was released, said the compromise "allows me to make positive plans for the future."

Hunter was one of six members of the Notre Dame football squad to be suspended in 1974 for alleged sexual misconduct.

Leon's brother, Michael, also a gold medalist at the 1976 Montreal Olympics and undefeated, will fight his mid-weight bout as scheduled against Jaser Brisbane on the Aug. 23 card.

Turf toe stalks gridders

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Football players who alternate between natural and artificial playing fields often develop a painful condition known as "turf toe," a Florida podiatrist says today.

Dr. Joseph Deller of Melbourne told the 65th annual meeting of the American Podiatric Association that the condition is "a swollen and painful great toe joint which does not immobilize a player but, rather, reduces his effectiveness."

Turf toe becomes a problem for players who change from one playing surface to another," said Dr. Deller, a founder of APA's Academy of Podiatric Sports Medicine and now a member of the Florida Institute of Technology's athletic council.

"The average artificial turf — or AstroTurf — is placed over an asphalt or clay base, giving the ground a different resiliency from a natural grass field," he said.

The great toe, which is the gripping part of the foot, is affected by this change in ground and often becomes painfully swollen. The majority of turf toe cases shows up in offensive ends and halfbacks.

Dr. Deller said his research, conducted among five NFL teams and three Southeastern Conference collegiate teams, has shown that a right-handed athlete usually suffers the condition on his right foot and a left-handed player is affected on his left foot.

"This occurs due to the normal habit of using the body's dominant side for initial moves during a game," he said.

Dr. Deller, formerly associated with NFL and NBA teams, said, podiatrists presently working for athletic teams are using several methods to treat the condition successfully.

He said cooperation among podiatrists, coaches and shoe manufacturers in establishing research programs to develop shoe designs to fight the problem.

Wildlife plan presented

BOISE (UPI) — The draft of Volume I of Idaho's fish and wildlife policy plan was presented this week to the Fish and Game Commission, and the department will begin to distribute the plan immediately.

The first volume, referred to as the Policy Plan, covers problems, facing fish and wildlife statewide and strategies, goals and objectives involved in solving the problems.

Volume II will deal with species management plans, and Volume III will be the plans for department owned or controlled lands in the state. Both Volume II and Volume III will be published for public review at a later date, according to department director Joe Greenly.

Greenly said the Policy Plan covers the period between 1975 and 1990 and will be updated and revised every five years, more often if necessary or as new information is accumulated.

Greenly stressed the draft nature of the Policy Plan. "It is not final and is completely open to modification, depending upon public response."

Volume I covers general policies of the department and the Fish and Game Commission, the big game program, upland game, waterfowl, fur-bearing, nongame programs, wildlife species of special concern, resident trout, warm-water fish, other resident fish, anadromous fish, nongame fish, amphibians, mollusks, crustaceans, aquatic insects and fish species of special concern.

Greenly said information in the Policy Plan is presented on a statewide basis over a 15-year time span, and it must be viewed in that light. "There will be local exceptions to many of the conclusions, projections, problems and strategies that are expressed," he said.

Greenly said the Policy Plan is being sent to all interested agencies, organizations and individuals now, and the first set of comments on the plan are expected during September.

A series of open-house meetings will be scheduled around the state in October to get additional comments from the general public.

Ring veteran frowns at Ali

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — Look into Nate Brown's eyes and watch them widen with delight as he talks about Joe Louis as if it were only last week that he stepped across the ring to meet the Brown Bomber.

Look again, and watch the same eyes narrow, the mouth tighten and the fists tighten — with "Shoeshoe" as he discusses Muhammad Ali.

Brown, now 67, cannot be dragged in front of a television set these days to watch a fight even though he spent one-third of his life in the ring, winning all but 36 of his 237 professional bouts.

A Charleston businessman since 1953, when he arrived to marry Ann McKinley, the "prettiest woman in all of West Virginia," Brown has quick recall of his ring life.

Never counted out, Brown says he was dropped but once and the face he saw through the blue haze of cigar smoke under the bright lights belonged to Louis.

"He hit me in the first 10 seconds of the fight," Brown recalls. "I got up and cussed him."

Twice he met Louis, once when the Brown Bomber was just months from becoming the world heavyweight champion. Louis won their first bout on a decision in 10 rounds and the second — when the referee stopped the fight at the end of the fourth because of cuts around Brown's eyes.

Brown says, "I was beating the hell out of him" at the time.

"Louis was a quiet fellow," says Brown. "He never said anything, even in the ring. He was a country boy, an ignorant country boy that knew nothing. All he knew he had two hands and could fight."

"And how he could fight — you could just mark him down as the greatest."

Puffing on a thick cigar, Brown's face turned to one of disgust, when discussing modern fighters.

"All was a lousy fighter when he won the championship from (Sonny) Liston," he said.

"In my opinion, I don't think the fight was on the up and up. It's like in the old days. If you were in, you fought. If you weren't in, you didn't box."

Brown grew up in a tough neighborhood, drifting into boxing at the tender age of 15 by hanging out in an upstairs gym at Cherry Street, Philadelphia.

"In these days, it was dog eat dog," he recalled.

Jerome game farm runs dry

JEROME, Idaho (UPI) — The Department of Fish and Game will soon begin hauling water for game birds at its Jerome game bird farm.

The canal supplied by American Falls Reservoir, which carries water to the bird farm, is scheduled to be turned off Aug. 22.

The department reported nearly 10,000 birds are now in pens at the farm and would have to be watered twice daily.

Dick Norrell, game bird supervisor at the Department, said old tires will be cut in half and used as watering troughs for the 8,500 pheasants, 1,000 chukars and other miscellaneous species housed at the farm.

He said the water will be turned off until Sept. 5, and then will be shut off again for the season.

Norrell also said 7,500 pheasants are scheduled to be released this year from the farm, but releases will not begin until early October.

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed NORTH HOLLYWOOD asked you how to deal with a neighbor whose biggest enjoyment in life was going through his neighbors' trash cans, and you replied, "Why not regard it as a somewhat childish pleasure, and let it go at that?"

You are dead wrong, Abby! MY trash is MY business. It contains my bills, personal correspondence, empty prescription bottles, discarded publications, empty food containers, bottles and possibly hundreds of other items that happen to be my private affair and not my neighbor's. I've never known you to be a Pollyanna before. Please don't start now!

PRIVATE PERSON

Invasion of privacy

DEAR PERSON: You're right. I was wrong. I was also informed that in some places, snooping through someone's trash is considered an invasion of privacy, and is therefore illegal!

DEAR ABBY: I am involved with an older married man, and to tell you the truth, I feel a little guilty about it. He keeps telling me I shouldn't feel guilty because a married man who is satisfied at home would never even look at another woman. The way he puts it, "If a man is well-fed at home he will not go to a restaurant."

Is that true?

GOT THE GUILTS

DEAR GOT: No. Regardless of how well-fed some men are, six hours later, they're hungry again!

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for making your readers aware that people in wheelchairs can enjoy sex, too. So often, it is assumed that because a person is in a wheelchair he is unable to function sexually.

Paraplegics and quadriplegics are generally sexually attractive people because of their self-awareness, their sensuality, their courage in coping successfully with their handicaps, their maturity and their genuine appreciation of other people—regardless of whether they are dependent on them.

"Paras and quads" as they often refer to themselves, are human beings with the rare ability to integrate sexual expressions into meaningful personal relationships. In that sense, they have much to teach many members of the non-disabled population, who may be sexually handicapped because they are unable to do the same.

People who choose paras and quads for partners are really the fortunate ones. The parents of those who choose paras and quads should be thankful that they have raised children with depth, sensitivity and quality, and not worry whether their child's chosen mate can walk or "ride" down the aisle to be married. God bless those paras and quads!

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb: A couple of months ago I turned yellow, and my urine turned brown. The doctor said I was gallstones.

I had my gall bladder out 38 years ago, but the doctor did not let me go until he had operated. I had no pain and he showed me two stones that look like big cherry stones. All gallstones I have seen before were green.

Can stones come back again? My bowels look black since my operation most of the time. An old nurse told me if you have bleeding this happens.

You are describing jaundice that does occur when the bile duct is obstructed—as with a stone. Even though you had your gall bladder removed years ago you still may form bile and the bile still drains through the bile ducts into your intestine.

The bile is formed by the liver and the pigments in the bile give the characteristic brown to black or green color of the bowel movement.

When the bile duct is obstructed for whatever reason these pigments cannot drain into your intestine and they build up in your blood stream. This causes jaundice as the pigment permeates the skin. The blood is filtered by the kidneys and some of the increased pigment is eliminated in the urine you experienced.

There are several different kinds of gallstones. I am sending you The Health Letter number 43, Gallstones and Gall Bladder Disease. In it you will find more information. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a "long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. The green stones are formed from bile pigment but you can also have cholesterol stones and mixed stones.

It's true that bleeding can cause black bowel movements. Actually the pigment in bile comes from the hemoglobin in red blood cells. The digested red blood cells may cause a "tarry" stool. Dark stools are commonly the normal results of draining bile and its pigment changes during the digestion process.

Since gallstones are imperfectly understood it is not possible to say for certain that you won't have more, but it does sound like you have received good care and your disorder has been corrected.

Dear Dr. Lamb: I am 65 and have high blood pressure. I am taking Hydopress to control it. I don't smoke, neither (quit) until after the evening meal. Then I smoke two or three pipes of tobacco. Does this have any effect on my well being?

Dear Reader—

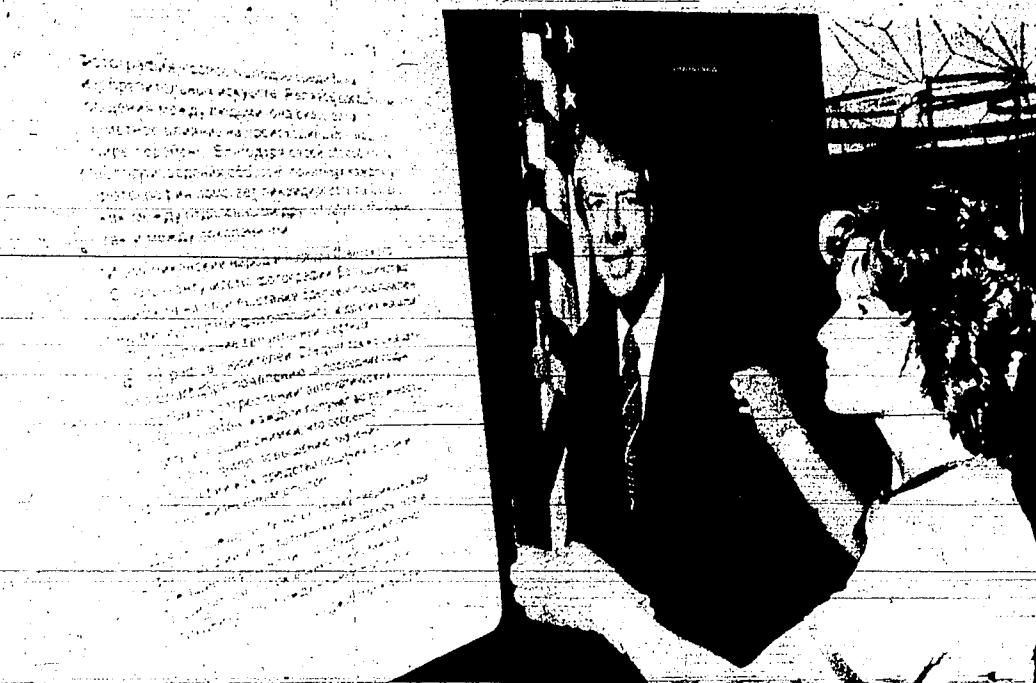

Probably not. As long as a pipe smoker does not inhale smoke he usually has a limited increased health risk. He may increase his chances of lip or tongue cancer but the risk is small in a person who smokes as little as you do.

Former cigarette smokers often switch to pipes or cigars and inhale the smoke. This is worse than the cigarette was to begin with.

Lessing any excess fat or any fat that you could eliminate might help lower your blood pressure. Relaxing after the meal may be good for you. A good walk after meals might also help if you are not getting enough exercise. It might help you more than the pipe.

(Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters, personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.)

GLORY KULCZYCKI ADJUSTS PHOTO OF PRESIDENT CARTER ALONG SIDE MESSAGE IN RUSSIAN

American photo exhibition prepares to open in Moscow, sponsored by U.S. Information Agency

U.S. guides four Soviet Union

By CHARLES M. MADIGAN
MOSCOW (UPI) — Veronica Brauns thought she was ready for just about anything when she signed on as a guide for an American photo exhibition touring the Soviet Union.

But she was shaken to the "roles" of her sneakers when one of the locals in Novosibirsk asked her if it was true that Richard Nixon was on the moon July 11.

"I couldn't believe it," she said. "There was a rumor here that Nixon was going to fly to the moon July 11 to visit America's happy birthday. I felt like I worked for fools."

Veronica, 22, who left the University of California at Berkeley to join 21 other young Americans as guides for the tour, has been on the road in the Soviet Union for five and a half months.

She and her friends say the U.S.S.R. is everything you have heard it is. Then again, it's not. They have found a land of warm people and cold climates; of comfort and contradiction. "I think they read a little item in the newspaper about the United States and then they blow it all out of proportion. They are fascinated about the United States and they want to know about it."

She and Kathy Rose, 27, of Washington, D.C., and Robert Taylor, 25, of Manhattan Beach, Calif., took a break from setting up the exhibit to talk about their experiences in the Soviet Union.

The exhibit, sponsored by the U.S. Information Agency, is a movable feast of American photography housed in a large geodesic dome. It is scheduled to open in Moscow Wednesday for a final one-month run, and already has visited Kiev, Alm-Ata, Tbilisi, Ufa and Novosibirsk.

"People here aren't as grey and lifeless as we have been led to believe," Taylor said. "They do have good times and they are happy with what they have."

"You have to understand that they don't do things the way we do them in the United States. They just can't run out and buy things... They are pleased with little acquisitions other people would take for granted."

The young Americans also have seen the darker side of Soviet life.

"I like to invite people in for coffee and to talk to them, but they say no. I ask them why not, and they say, 'You know why not,' " Taylor said.

"People are very, very uneasy about it. I have been sitting with a friend when a stranger walks by and looks at us. Later, the friend told me he was questioned by the authorities and told not to associate with Americans."

Kathy Rose ran into the same problem. She was working with a "warm group" during one show, that wanted to talk about the United States.

"Suddenly, this person, middle aged, came up and started shouting. 'Why are you talking about the United States, why are you talking about the politics? This is a photo exhibit, talk about photography,'" she said.

Former stripper starts new business

DALLAS (UPI) — Bubbles Cash, a shapely stripper of a decade ago, is walking the streets of Dallas in revealing clothing, but it's all legal. She's in the advertising business.

Traffic slows on busy Lemmon Avenue, even during the peak of the afternoon rush, to catch a glimpse of the blonde. Some of the drivers even notice the sign she carries in her hand.

"A lot of people think I'm protesting," she giggled. "They drive by too fast to read the sign and some people think what is that nut doing out there with her picket sign. They'll circle through the parking lot and read the sign."

A number of drivers stop to talk with Bubbles and the conversation eventually gets around to business, which is promoting a men's store, pawn shop and sandwich shop.

"I'll tell you about Bubbles' special—whatever we have at the pawn shop. If they mention my name, I get a kickback, a percentage of whatever they buy in the store."

Bubbles says she is making money. The shop owners say it's good for business.

"Yes, they come in the store when they see her sign, however, they see her first and the sign second," said Dutch Cantrell, owner of Dutch's Mens Wear.

"A guy bought a suit the other day," added

Bubbles.

The idea came from watching a girl in New Orleans with a sandwich sign, but Bubbles prefers her one-silk signs and hopes to build a large advertising business.

"One of these days I can have other girls walking for me," she said. "I've got two sides to my sign now, but I could have a four-sided sign."

Bubbles calls her company, "AFA Buck Productions—Anything for a buck." Bubbles, 29, once wore a miniskirt to the Cotton Bowl and turned so many heads that her picture appeared on the front page of a Dallas newspaper. She was in a movie as a stripper who was kidnapped and, in 1968, she announced as a candidate for governor.

"I was just teasing," she said. "We had bumper stickers, but no Bubbles, Call for Peace." In recent years she started a Country Western band, "Bubbles and the Bucks." They still make a few appearances and she has written a song they plan to record this fall. "I Just Got Off the Streets of the City."

"It makes me feel good walking down the street. It makes me feel legal," she smiled. "I don't do anything wrong, but it's not because I don't have the opportunity."

Ransom: Dress and shoes

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 12-year-old girl has been arrested and charged with kidnapping a 5-year-old boy and holding him for the ransom of a new dress and the price of a new pair of shoes, police said.

Transit Authority police found Hassan Brown, of Manhattan, unharmed about 8:30 a.m. Sunday on a subway platform in the company of the girl, who once was the boy's babysitter, a TA police spokesman said.

Two of the girl's friends, ages 13 and 15, also were arrested in connection with the case, he said.

None of the girls were identified because of their ages.

An adult, Elizabeth Lindsay of Brooklyn, also was arrested and charged with unlawful imprisonment and criminal facilitation for allowing the children to remain at her apartment, police said.

Hasan reportedly spotted his one-time babysitter on a subway train on Thursday and decided to go with her rather than continue on a field trip with his day-center companions.

For almost 72 hours, he stayed with the three teenagers at the Lindsay woman's apartment.

Then, police said, the babysitter called the boy's home where she reached a neighbor and demanded a new dress and $17 for a new pair of shoes as the condition for the youngster's release.

The girl was picked up by police in a subway station just minutes before the ransom was supposed to be paid.

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS LONG

Miss Dwyer, Long exchange promises

TWIN FALLS — Kellie Dwyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dwyer, Twin Falls, was married Aug. 6 to Douglas Long.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Father Perry Dodds at St. Edward's Catholic Church before an altar decorated with baskets of lavender and yellow gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of chantilly lace with off-the-shoulder ruffled collar. It had an empire waistline and full bishop sleeves with wide lace cuffs. Its floor-length skirt was made of ruffled lace. The cathedral-length train of nylon illusion fell from the bandeau headband made of venise lace.

The bride carried a cascade-style bouquet of lavender orchids, yellow spider mums and baby's breath.

Kallie Kolman, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Burgoyne and Cheryl Jacobson. Randy Long, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers were Scott Long, brother of the bridegroom, and David Burrone.

Mrs. Carl Snow was the soloist, accompanied by Helen Allen at the organ.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the parrishall. The bride's table was trimmed in white lace and carried out the chosen colors of lavender and yellow. The four-tiered wedding cake, surrounded with four heart-shaped cakes, was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Those serving at the reception table were Mrs. Clarence Miller, Mrs. Walter McCaughey, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Wayne Ward, aunt of the bridegroom. Mrs. Bob Dwyer, aunt of the bride, served at the bridegroom's table.

Connie Burgoyne, friend of the bride, attended the guest book. Those assisting at the gift table were Barbara Merkle, Sandra Shaff and Janet Christensen.

Special wedding guests attended from Denver, Colo., and Boise, Engle, Meridian, Hansen, Jerome, Rexburg, St. Anthony and American Falls.

After the reception, the bridegroom's family gave a late-afternoon buffet luncheon. The newlyweds spent their honeymoon in Sun Valley. The bridegroom will be entering the U.S. Navy and the bride will continue working at the school administration office until she can join him.

Stipend presented

BOISE — Boise State University student Jill Leann Mechem, Jerome, has been awarded a $200 John Flynn Driscoll, Jr. Memorial Scholarship for the "new" academic year that starts this fall.

The trust fund was established in 1973 by Mr. and Mrs. John Driscoll of Boise as a memorial to their son, who was killed in WWII. The Driscolls have been beneficiaries to BSU dating back to the 1930's when he was a trustee of Boise Junior College.

The funds are administered through the First Security Bank and are awarded to Idaho residents for their high scholastic achievement.

'Y' to sponsor writers sessions

The YWCA Women's Center is offering a writer's roundtable beginning Sept. 10.

The roundtable discussions will be open to all interested writers who want to get together to study the art of writing and to give and receive criticism on each others' works.

Each writer in the group will get to know himself, define his own philosophy in life, find truths and then weave them into stories, poems, novels or plays.

The director for the discussions will be Dixie Reale of Jerome. Dixie has a master of arts degree from San Francisco State College where she majored in fiction-writing. She has published some of her works and has written for both the Times-News and Northside News. She has also had extensive experience communicating with people of all ages.

The roundtable will run on Saturdays in six-week sessions, the first class being held Sept. 10 in the women's center. Class will run from 1:30 to 3:30 at a cost of $15 to YWCA members and $20 to non-members.

Interested persons should call the Y at 733-4334 to pre-register. A minimum of five people is needed for the roundtable to be held.

Idaho history text complete sell-out

MOSCOW — The University Press of Idaho has its first sell-out — a volume called "The Story of Idaho."

A 5,000-copy first printing of the book sold out within the first 30 days of sales, according to George Grobmeier of the Idaho Research Foundation. The press is a division of the foundation and both are located at the University of Idaho.

Grobmeier said the book, written by Boise State University educator Virgil M. Young, is being used as a history text for elementary students by all but eight Idaho school districts.

The book is in its second printing now, with new supplies expected to be available Sept. 2. Grobmeier said the book contains information of interest to all Idahoans, not just school children. It is the first new Idaho history text in a number of years, he said.

The single copies are available for sale to individuals at $6.30 for softbound and $8.70 hardbound plus sales tax. Educational prices for school districts are also available.

Information about purchasing the book is available from the Idaho Research Foundation, University of Idaho, Moscow 83843, telephone 885-7923.

Deficiencies seen in alcohol program

By BARBARA VARRIO

Chicago Sun-Times

That growing numbers of American women are having problems with alcohol and drug abuse is not disputed. But not enough is being done by the federal, state and city governments to identify them and to give help, charges the head of an agency dedicated to changing the situation.

Muriel Nellis, director of the Alliance of Regional Coalitions on Drugs, Alcohol and Women's Health, maintains there are gross deficiencies in programs and treatment facilities for females throughout the country. Her federally funded private agency is collecting data to be collected and presented to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The department will then determine what might be done to remedy the problem.

Mrs. Nellis points out there are 7,000 public and private alcoholism treatment facilities in the country. Only 40 are for women. Yet one out of every three alcoholics is a woman, totaling 5 million nationwide. And, according to a recent study, females are turning to alcohol and drugs at an earlier age than males, beginning at the junior high school level.

"We expect that the 5 million female alcoholics figure is just the tip of the iceberg," Mrs. Nellis says.

Versatile shawl fashion 'must'

By ENID NEMY
N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — Fling it, sling it, wrap it, tie it — anything but wear it sedately over the shoulders. The shawl is fast becoming a fashion necessity rather than an accessory.

The shawl and its smaller sister, the scarf, may be America's answer to the sarl. It is equally packable — 15 or 20 will fold into a tote — and it is even more versatile. It can be tied like a sarl, wrapped like a sarong, draped like a handkerchief-point skirt, and shaped into a triangular overskirt atop pants, shorts and swimsuits.

It is equally serviceable above the waist. The square version is most frequently folded in half to make a strapless top with the point floating over the waist. The long skinny, cowbeby version is merely wrapped around the bosom, tying at the cleavage. The nimble fold the fabric into a narrow strip that barely conceals the nipples, or tie the ends over the shoulders to produce a garment that is one half sarong, one half choli, and all pretty weird.

Tired fighters

WEARY firemen battling the 13-day-old Big Sur blaze near the central California coast made slight headway Saturday by using bulldozers to complete a line on the northeast section of the 122,000-acre brush and timber fire. Here, a crew waits for flames of a backfire to subside and allow them access to terrain in the Arroyo Seco Canyon west of King City, Calif.

Scientologists file FBI suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Church of Scientology said today it has filed a $1 million suit against the FBI seeking damages growing out of the agency's July 8 raid of the church's Washington offices.

The suit, which names Attorney General Griffin Bell, FBI Director Clarence Kelley, U.S. Attorney Robert Ogren and 20 FBI agents as defendants, also asks protection for the church "from all the defendants so that further searches and seizures cannot be carried out."

The suit charges that the FBI "entered the church premises and conducted an 'exploratory rummaging of files' and that the agents indiscriminately seized files, including private correspondence and internal documents relating to the numerous other suits the controversial church has filed against the government."

U.S. District Judge William Bryant has already ruled that the FBI illegally seized the documents, but has stayed return of the documents to the church pending an appeal by the government.

FBI agents raided the church's Washington, D.C., and Los Angeles offices July 8 acting on the basis of a 21-page affidavit by a former church member that alleged the church had engaged in illegal burglaries of the U.S. courts in Washington and that church members and officials were attempting to intimidate the government to illegally steal government documents. The church in Los Angeles has filed a similar $7.8 million suit.

"As the courts have judged that it is not okay for these government employees to commit criminal acts and not have to account for them," a church spokesman said.

"The raid deprived us of our constitutional rights and protections against illegal search and seizure," the spokesman said.

Settlement of case dim, says Kidwell

BOISE (UPI) — Refusal of the Oregon Legislature to pass a version of the Columbia River Compact has dimmed prospects of settling Idaho's fish case against Oregon and Washington, Attorney General Wayne Kidwell said today.

Attorneys general for the three states are supposed to report to Circuit Judge Jean Brienstein, Denver, by Aug. 22 on whether Kidwell's Supreme Court case could be settled by negotiation.

Calling failure of the compact in the Oregon Legislature a victory for commercial fishermen and a defeat for sports fishing in Idaho, Kidwell said he will have to tell the judge that prospects do not look as good for settlement as they did earlier.

Judge Brienstein was appointed by the Supreme Court as a special master to hear facts in the case.

Search for FBI director continues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Griffin Bell said today he is looking for a strong FBI director who can restore the agency's former luster is not yet a possibility. He says he still will "look at two or three people" before deciding.

Search for the right man to replace Clarence Kelley, who resigns to retire Jan. 1, has been underway ever since Bell took office eight months ago. The stakes are high and time is slipping because Senate confirmation is needed. Congress hopes to quit for the year in October.

President Carter has interviewed many of the leading prospects. Bell has talked to, but has made it clear the choice is Bell's, primarily.

"I'm looking for a leader, a strong leader," Bell said recently. "I'm looking for somebody I think can manage. The third thing I'm looking for is somebody who knows either law or law enforcement."

So far Bell apparently has not found such a person who would take the job. He has interviewed more than 100 prospects, and said he's seen only "one or two people that I think might be good leaders of the FBI."

Bell began looking as soon as he became attorney general and quickly realized the problem. In February he asked Carter to form a search committee.

The nine-member committee, headed by DuPont chairman Irving Shapiro, reviewed 250 prospects; interviewed 50 and last June gave Carter five "finalist" prospects.

They were William Lucas, former FBI agent and now Wayne County sheriff in Detroit; John van de Kamp, Los Angeles County district attorney; Neil Welch, head of the Philadelphia FBI office; John Irwin Jr., a Massachusetts state judge, and Huntington Wood Jr., a Chicago-based federal judge who has since withdrawn.

The Secret Service gave each a quick security check. Bell ordered full FBI investigations. Bell and Carter talked to each finalist and then interviewed a sixth man, John Mintz, the FBI's general counsel.

Apparently still unsatisfied, Bell said last week he wanted to "look at two or three more people by way of comparison with one or two people on the list."

(The Detroit Free Press reported Saturday Bell had given Carter a new list of candidates prepared by a Justice Department team appointed by Bell. There was no immediate confirmation.)

"I want to feel sure when I make arrangements that I'm certain we have the right person, and it may be the right person is on the list, but I want to give a lot of thought to it," Bell has said.

Idaho bank ranks 92nd in nation

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho First National Bank now ranks as the 92nd largest bank in the United States, according to the August 8 issue of The American Banker.

The bank, a year ago was ranked 94th in the country.

The weekly newspaper ranked the 300 largest commercial banks in the United States by deposits on July 31, 1977. At that date the customers of The Idaho First National Bank had deposited $1,081,650,550 throughout the bank's 61 branches.

In the same issue, the paper also listed the 500 largest banks in the world as of December 31, 1976, at which time The Idaho First National Bank ranked 423rd. This year's annual survey revealed that 129 of the 500 largest banks are in the United States.

Hecla Mining loses $1.4 million

The consolidated first and second quarters' net loss for the first six months of 1977 was $2.5 million or 36 cents a share.

compared to a restated loss of $1.1 million or 16 cents a share in the same period in 1976. Board president W.H. Love blamed the second quarter losses on continuing operating losses at the Lakeshore Coppermine and to equity in the net loss of Grandeur Mines Ltd. Hecla's share of the Lakeshore Mine net loss was $3.1 million and included interest cost on bank loans of $1 million and amortization and depreciation charges of $1.6 million.
