Trans-Canada route set for gas supply project

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau today announced approval of a $7.7 billion trans-Canada pipeline to transport Alaskan and surplus Canadian natural gas to the United States.

“Congress has 90 working days to accept or reject what the two leaders called “the largest single private energy project in history.” Work could begin on the 2,700-mile trans-Canada line next year.

The Alcan Pipeline Co. proposal has the support of environmentalists. It calls for building a line from Alaska’s North Slope through Canada’s Yukon Territory.

Original plans called for the line to split in Alberta, Canada, with one leg entering the United States through Montana and going to the Midwest and another going to the West from a site near the Montana-Idaho border. Carter later told the Western leg may be built at a later date.

The trans-Canada line was chosen over another route paralleling the Alaska oil pipeline following months of U.S.-Canadian negotiations spurred by the energy crisis.

Carter and Trudeau met for 30 minutes at the White House then told reporters the plan would aid Canada’s ailing economy and save U.S. consumers $6 billion in energy costs when compared to the Alaskan route over a long period.

“We have decided to embark together on this historic project which holds the promise of great benefits to both countries and which confirms anew the strength of the ties that link us,” they said in a joint statement.

Canada will have an ability to develop its own gas reserves, the statement said, and the United States “will have the enormous benefit of new natural gas supplies from the North Slope of Alaska at a significantly lower cost-of-service price than could have been achieved through an all-U.S. route.”

The announcement also mentioned an apparent agreement to complete the lower portion of the pipeline early — possibly as soon as one year to 18 months — to begin transporting newly discovered Canadian natural gas from Alberta to the United States.

Carter made the announcement at an early meeting with House leaders today.

The midwest leg would wind up at Dwight, Ill., south-west of Chicago and the western leg would terminate in northern California at Antioch. At both sites, the legs would tie into existing pipeline distribution systems.

House Democratic Whip John Brademas said after the Carter meeting that the president indicated he and Trudeau had reached agreement in principle on the Alcan plan. Brademas said he thought the Alcan proposal would be accepted by the House.

“The point was made that the Alcan route would be the one that would bring gas more cheaply, cheaply and more equitably distributed in the United States than the competing routes,” Brademas said after the meeting with Carter.

If the Canada route is approved by Congress, it would mean defeat for a gas line through Alaska proposed by El Paso Alaska Co.

The El Paso line would have transported gas on a route parallel to the new TransAlaska oil pipeline to the Port of Valdez where the gas would be liquefied and shipped by tanker to California.

The latter route was viewed as too expensive by Carter’s energy advisers and would have heralded a struggle with environmentalists in California over the danger of highly explosive gas.

Hearings are scheduled in Congress soon on the pipeline. El Paso Alaska Co. officials say as many as 40 senators prefer their “all-American” line and that they will try to slow the project “the wrong plan.”

An Alcan spokesman said construction could begin in November, 1978, and gas could be delivered “at the earliest in October, 1981.”

Sources said several stumbling blocks with the Canadians have been resolved, including Canadian demands for a $200 million, U.S.-financed fund to build schools, hospitals and other facilities in Canadian communities.

THESE YOUNG rodeo fans had a close-up view of the action in the rodeo arena at the Twin Falls County Fair at Filer Wednesday evening. They had a fine seat for watching riders gallop by, but when some of the rodeo stock came too close to the fence, that was a little scary. The second rodeo performance is tonight. Additional fair coverage on pages 15-19, and 20.

Treaty opponents ready for battle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter signed treaties relinquishing the Panama Canal in the year 2000, but opponents called it “treason” and rallied today to the battle cry “We built it, we bought it, we own it!”

In a glittering ceremony Wednesday night preceding a state dinner for the presidents, prime ministers and diplomats of 27 hemispheric nations, Carter and Gen. Omar Torrijos affixed their names to the two treaties turning Teddy Roosevelt’s canal over to Panama.

(Related stories, pp. 5, 27)

Carter’s bold diplomatic gamble produced the treaties. But signing them does not put them into effect. It takes Senate ratification and House implementing legislation to do that, and the task won’t be easy.

The treaties also must be approved by Panamanian voters.

Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., on the steps of the Capitol Wednesday, called the treaty negotiator Sol Linowitz the “Bert Lance of international negotiation” as 200 protesters waved the banners, “We built it, we bought it, we own it!”

Even Democrats conceded the path to ratification will be thorny.

Declaring the Senate would not take up the treaty until early next year, Senate Democratic Leader Hubert H. H. Reid said “my present inclination” would be for the Foreign Relations Committee to hold hearings this year and “lay down a solid, clear record of facts on which a national debate can ensue.”

Rep. James McDonald, D-Ga., called the treaties “a Democratic giveaway or a Republican giveaway — it’s a bipartisan treason.”

Declared Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah: “We’ll filibuster this, and we’ll be doing it for every American.”

Valley bankers hold judgment on Lance

By BOB ZUCKERMAN Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — Bankers here say they have reserved judgment on the questionable practices of federal budget director Bert Lance until Senate hearings are over.

A Senate Government Affairs Committee, which confirmed Lance last January, has reopened hearings on Lance’s affairs.

Reports issued by Comptroller of the Currency John Heimann have been highly critical of the way Lance and some of his business associates conducted their affairs.

However, another report said Lance violated a criminal statute.

“I’m not sure of the legality” of Lance’s affairs as reported, says Stan Steele, assistant manager of the Bank of Idaho, Twin Falls.

“I don’t think it’s standard or acceptable banking practice.”

But like most other bankers here, Steele says he is willing to give Lance the benefit of the doubt unless new disclosures prove otherwise.

“Until proven otherwise, I’ll consider him a prudent banker,” agrees Jerry McGrath, official at Idaho Bank and Trust, Twin Falls.

Most bankers say they are withholding judgment because they are not sure of all the facts behind certain Lance affairs which have been under scrutiny.

These affairs include more than $450,000 worth of overdrafts made by Lance, his family and business associates from banks, the alleged using of collateral for one loan on another loan and the acquiring of loans on the basis of what is termed a correspondent relationship.

While saying he could not be sure of the logic of the Lance overdrafts, McGrath adds, “it’s not uncommon” for overdrafts to occur.

“For example, a farmer might call the Twin Falls bank from Salt Lake City, saying he is going to write a check for $50,000 more than in his account, because he wants to purchase a tractor,” McGrath says.

The farmer says he’ll be into the bank in a week to pay off the overdraft or make arrangements for a loan to pay it off, McGrath explains. “It’s not against the law.”

Some bankers, however, disagreed.

J.P. Hamilton, president of the Farmer’s National Bank in Bull, says, “I’m not sure whether there was anything illegal in the Lance overdrafts, but I think it was unethical.”

The Lance overdrafts were “excessive to what’s common,” he says. “If we get a few thousand overdrafts, we get kicked from up above. Bankers discourage overdrafts because they feel it’s an illegal type of loan. I suppose we make them, but we try to minimize them.”

Associated Press has disclosed Lance used the same collateral for two separate loans in June 1975. He pledged more than 100,000 shares of National Bank of Georgia stock plus any future dividends as collateral for a $2.6 million loan. But a year later, he gave the stock dividend — worth $274,000 — to the Chemical Bank of New York to secure a loan of $150,000.

“I can’t determine what it means,” says McGrath. “It depends on the terms and conditions of the first loan. If the first bank knew about it, I think it’s probably okay,” he says.

“It’s hard for me to understand how he could get away with it,” says Hamilton. “If it really happened, it looks to me like it’s the fault of the bank that made the second loan.”

“You just cannot pledge the same collateral to two different institutions,” agrees Steele. “There are requirements which would preclude this from happening. If it was intentional, it certainly was unethical.”

However, most bankers say they’re unsure whether it was illegal.

Court lifts bar on gym

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William Brennan today lifted a temporary bar he imposed Sept. 6 to construction of a controversial gymnasium on the site where four Kent State University students were fatally shot in 1970.

Brennan’s action means that so far as the Supreme Court is concerned, construction can go ahead.

Protesters led by the May Four Coalition also have been engaged in a variety of legal actions in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in an effort to delay the project.

They want to keep the bulldozers quiet until the Interior Department can determine whether the location of the proposed gym where the Ohio National Guard shootings took place is eligible for designation as a National Historical Site.

The 6th Circuit already has thrown out the main case for lack of jurisdiction. The Circuit Court said it has no authority to order the state to construct or not construct a building.

University officials told Brennan any further delay could mean the end of the current contracts at a loss of from $2 million to $2.4 million. They accused the protesters of using the courts improperly to frustrate a lawful state project.

Brennan ordered the temporary delay on Sept. 6 — after Justice Potter Stewart had turned down an earlier plea — until the officials could present their views.

Handshake follows canal treaty signing

PRESIDENT Carter and Panamanian Leader Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos exchange congratulations Wednesday evening after signing the Panama Canal treaty at the Organization of American States headquarters in Washington, D.C. OAS Secretary General Alejandro Orfila is at center.

Treaty foes rally for battle

Television beamed the ceremony live, by satellite, throughout Latin America as Carter and Torrijos signed the blue-and-red-bound treaties that constitute the historic agreement. The two men smiled and embraced warmly after they signed.

"Torrijos, in a concession to the rocky road Carter faces, said the future of the treaties depends on 'the statesmanship' of the U.S. Senate.

"We are here to participate in the signing of treaties which will assure a peaceful and prosperous and secure future for an international waterway of great importance to us all," Carter said.

"But the treaties do more than that. They mark the commitment of the United States to the belief that fairness, not force, should lie at the heart of our dealings with the nations of the world."

He tried to cushion conservative opposition.

saying the agreement serves "the best interests of both parties" and guarantees "the neutrality of the Panama Canal" once Panama takes full control of the 51-mile waterway and the 10-mile wide canal zone at the end of the century.

"The agreement thus forms a new partnership to insure that this vital waterway will continue to be well operated, safe and open to shipping by all nations now and in the future," he said.

"Panama will play an increasingly important role in the operation and defense of the canal during the next 23 years. And after that, the United States will still be able to counter any threat to the canal's neutrality," he said.

Carter called the agreement "a symbol of mutual respect and cooperation," saying the 1983 Panama Canal pact was "drafted in a world so different from ours (and) has become an obstacle to better relations with Latin America."

Before the ceremony, the Supreme Court turned down a last-gasp effort by four Midwest attorneys general to block the signing.

Mobilized in support were Lady Bird Johnson, whose husband Lyndon placed his administration on record for turning the canal over to Panama; and former President Gerald Ford, whose support of such a move nearly cost him the GOP nomination to Reagan last year.

They received warm applause when Carter introduced them at the signing ceremony. Also present were Henry Kissinger, secretary of state under Ford and Richard Nixon, and William Rogers, who held the post in Nixon's first term.

The treaties cannot become effective until two-thirds of the senators present and voting approve.

NBC said today its poll showed 35 for, 22 against and 43 undecided. ABC said its count was 33 for, 27 against, 40 undecided.

Hansen proposes nationwide vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, announced today introduction of a bill calling for a national referendum on the Panama Canal Treaty.

The referendum would be conducted as part of the 1978 General Election.

Hansen said the bill provides for Congress to be guided by the results of the advisory referendum in making their decision on the treaty.

"My mail has been running overwhelmingly against the treaty and this holds true in every office of which I have any knowledge and by public admission at the White House," the Idaho congressman said.

Hansen said the referendum should be taken in the "public interest" so Congress can better understand the voice of the people.

Plane wreckage located on peak

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — A crashed commuter plane with 13 persons aboard was located Wednesday at the 7,500-foot level of ice-covered Mt. Blianna but the condition of the victims was not known.

Fog and rain turned back initial attempts by rescuers to land on the volcano. New efforts to land a rescue party were planned for today.

Weather permitting, in hopes of determining whether any of the 11 passengers and two crew members survived.

Rescue aircraft were recalled for the night because of deteriorating weather and extremely rough terrain in the area of the crash site, it said.

Capt. Richard Hodges, spokesman for Elmendorf Air Force Base.

However, officials expressed some doubt as to whether rescuers would be able to make the difficult climb from the landing site to the wreckage.

Alaska Aeronautical Industries, owner and operators of the plane, was withholding the names of those on board the plane, a DeHavilland Twin Otter.

The wreckage was located about 125 miles southwest of Anchorage, half way between the plane's takeoff point, Lake Blianna, and its destination, Anchorage International Airport.

Kuwait cuts oil price

KUWAIT (UPI) — Kuwait today cut prices on its heavy crude oil by 10 cents a barrel to $12.27 in the face of a reported "dropoff in foreign oil demand."

The official said foreign companies already had been informed of the move, granting them a "special discount of 10 cents a barrel" providing they fulfill their commitments toward contracted quantities.

The move followed Kuwait press reports that Exxon and other Western oil companies had stopped lifting or pumping out of the ground — Kuwaiti heavy crude to press demands for a 10 cent price cut.

Damaging order lifted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An order that could have damaged President Carter's nomination of budget director Bert Lance was lifted within five hours after Lance met with federal banking regulators, Comptroller of Currency John Helmann testified today.

But Helmann told a Senate committee he did not believe Lance's personal visit to the comptroller's Atlanta regional office last Nov. 22 had any impact on the decision to lift a cease and desist order against the Calhoun, Ga., First National Bank.

Lance, a major stockholder in the bank at the time, has repeatedly declined calls for his resignation as President Carter's budget director because of controversial private banking deals and account overruns.

Helmann told the Senate Governmental Operations Committee the comptroller's office imposed the cease-and-desist order on the Calhoun bank in December, 1975, because directors and large stockholders were making frequent and large overdrafts of their personal checking account.

Helmann said Lance paid a personal visit to the Atlanta office of regional administrator Donald Tarleton about 12:30 p.m. Nov. 22, 1976. He said Lance explained that he would soon be joining the administration of president-elect Carter and that he planned to sell his Calhoun bank stock.

About 5 p.m. that day, Tarleton instructed the regional general counsel to "lift the cease and desist" agreement," Helmann said.

Within two hours Carter announced Lance's appointment as budget director.

"The cease-and-desist order, which is one step short of prosecution in a public court, is a secret agreement between a bank and the comptroller when a banking problem arises. The agreements are kept secret in order to protect a problem bank from losing customer deposits which could have the effect of forcing an otherwise sound bank out of business."

North Idaho man chosen Gem wheat administrator

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Wheat Commission hired Richard Rush, 32, Tensed, to fill the post vacated by commission administrator Harold West who was fired Aug. 31.

The commission Chairman Jean Smith, Preston, and Rush will join the staff Jan. 1 at a $25,000 per year salary.

He is the general manager of the Coeur D'Alene Development Enterprise owned by the Coeur D'Alene Indians.

The business has a 6,000-acre wheat and lentil operation, construction business and logging enterprise.

Rush graduated from the University of Idaho in 1967 with a degree in agricultural economics. He received a master of science degree in that field from the University of California in 1968.

He worked for Boise Cascade Corp. before he managed the Coeur D'Alene Development Enterprise.

The commission also announced it hired Earl R. Robb, 59, Boise, Sept. 1 to handle its public relations.

He was hired as a permanent employee at a salary of $1,200 per month.

Earlier in the day, the commission heard complaints from the board of directors of the Idaho Wheat Growers Association about how it handled West's dismissal.

Ben Hayden, Pocatello, said the commission's firing of West was a "grave error in their approach," which "destroyed the image of the commission and I don't think it will ever recover."

"The support from individuals around the state which you really need is I'm afraid gone," he told the commissioners.

Wheat growers at the meeting repeatedly called for unity and cooperation in putting the commission and the association on a new road.

Park indictment lists 36 counts

May your baby drool on judges

Last week, the Miss Nude America contest ended in Atlantic City, New Jersey, and the nation's media gave it only scant coverage.
While the event provided the judges with some spectacular scenery it probably wasn't worth much more than a few column inches in any newspaper.

Idaho consumer office could be monster

Governor Evans thinks Idaho consumers would be willing to pay for a state consumer protection office.
He might be right, if such an office could genuinely help consumer groups get the straight facts on matters such as the desirability of a coal-fired generating plant or other issues affecting the entire state.

Washington Star

WASHINGTON—Fugitive Korean businessman Tongsun Park was an agent for the Korean Central Intelligence Agency and for eight years, operated in a laundry scheme to finance U.S. government actions to favor South Korea, a federal indictment of Park charges.
The indictment, handed up by a U.S. District Court grand jury Aug. 26 and unsealed Tuesday, alleges that Park attempted to influence members of Congress through a series of cash payments, trips by congressmen to South Korea and parties he threw at the exclusive George Town Club in Washington.

Washington Star

Washington Star
Park's indictment lists 36 counts of conspiracy, bribery, mail fraud, illegal campaign contributions, failure to register as a foreign agent and racketeering against Park, who left the United States last fall and now is in Seoul.

The indictment, originally sealed by the acting chief judge of the U.S. District Court here, John Pratt, was made public by Pratt Tuesday.
Jeffrey White, an attorney from the Justice Department's Public Integrity Section, told Pratt that while the government originally had asked that the indictment and an arrest warrant for Park be sealed, it changed its strategy that night because of newspaper stories last week about the indictment and other information that has come to the government since then.

White did not elaborate publicly on what other information had been uncovered.
Park's attorney, William Humbley, said Tuesday that he had not seen the indictment and declined any further comment.

The indictment charges that former Rep. Richard T. Hanna, R-Calif., who left Congress in 1974, also served as an agent for the KCIA and actively participated in the influence-buying scheme. Hanna was named as an indicted coconspirator in the scheme.
Also named as unindicted coconspirators were two former directors of the KCIA, South Korea's foreign intelligence-gathering agency. They are Kim Hyung Wook, who directed the KCIA from 1965 to 1969, and Lee Hu Rak, head of the agency from 1970 to 1973.

Washington Star

The indictment does not say whether the recipients of the payments were aware that Park or Hanna were agents of the Korean government.
The indictment lists 23 members of the House and Senate who over the past 18 months have publicly acknowledged receiving the payments.
In most cases, however, the recipients have denied knowing that Park was acting on behalf of the South Korean government.

Washington Star

Washington Star
In addition to the cash payments, trips to South Korea organized for members of Congress and parties hosted by Park also were designed to win legislative action favorable to the South Korean government, the indictment charges.
'Trips to the Republic of Korea by congressmen followed by Park and his coconspirators) to be influential in regard to matters affecting the Republic of Korea," were promoted by Park and the others "and during said-trips officials of the Republic of Korea would attempt to influence the United States officials to take official actions in favor of the Republic of Korea," the indictment says.

Trip ended on Florida's death row

Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO—At Christmas time, Delbert Tibbs was allowed five apples, four oranges and three pounds of nuts. He had to eat them, like all male inmates here.
Once a week he was allowed to go into the yard for exercise. On weekends, he was allowed visitors. He was provided, free, a blue denim suit, striped gray pants and work shoes.

amounts of electricity, until the job is done. The above formula is for a man or woman weighing about 150 pounds, and standing about 5 feet 10.
Prison executives, unlike prison clerks, are trial-made.
The realization that this was going to happen to him came for Delbert Tibbs not when the jury foreman stood up in the box and pronounced him guilty. It came not when the judge, shutting under his black robes, sentenced him.

leaves us with considerable doubt that Delbert Tibbs is the man who committed the crimes for which he has been convicted.
Tibbs introduced evidence that he was nowhere near the scene of the crime and the court stated, "No evidence was introduced which casts doubt on Tibbs' veracity."
It said of the rape victim — the only witness against Tibbs — that many things "cast doubt on her credibility."

the scene would fade out on Delbert Tibbs leaving prison, embracing his 15-year-old son and going merrily on to a new and better life.
But things don't often go that way.
So Delbert Tibbs finds himself instead sitting in a Chicago newspaper office saying how he will soon have to get on a plane, go back to Florida, and face, once again, the possibility of death row.

He was allowed to receive packages of underwear from his outside. He was not allowed to own a mirror.
Aunt of his prison stay, he was to be allowed to sit in a metal chair, with his head shaved, his pants split, and be stripped 2,400 volts for five seconds. At taxpayer expense.
The 2,400 volt shock—the number, not the amount of electricity thought to be enough to render a man unconscious. No one knows for sure. But no one has ever complained.

Delbert Tibbs, 38, is a black Chicago man, a former divinity student, accused, tried for and convicted of raping a state woman and murdering a white man while he was on vacation in Florida in 1975.
After he had been on Death Row in a Florida prison for 22 months, his conviction was overturned by the Florida Supreme Court in an unusually sweeping decision. The court put it simply:
"Our review of the record of this proceeding

By this time, Tibbs had become something of a celebrity. Angela Davis and John Little had raised money on his behalf. Stories had run in national magazines on Tibbs, comparing the case to the famed "Scottsboro Boys" case. The Miami News called the Supreme Court decision on his conviction "a startling but welcome reversal of his convictions and demand for a new trial."
And if this were a movie instead of real life,

This column is not going to determine the guilt or innocence of Tibbs. That is for the courts.
This is just the story of a man who led a very ordinary life. Who never had been in any trouble greater than a traffic ticket. Who left the Chicago winter for a Florida vacation. And found himself in a concrete and steel cell waiting for 3,000 volts to cell him to his reward.

Berry's World

"We got all kinds in here. That's Big Bird talking to the bossell!"

Should genetic research get okay?

Congress has some tough ones coming up: taxes, welfare, energy, health care, the Panama Canal, and electoral reform.
But one problem little noticed may prove more troublesome than all the rest. It involves, quite possibly, the manipulation of the human race.
Bills now pending in the House and Senate, taking different approaches to recombinant DNA research, deal with the stuff from which science fiction is wrought. It's what this week the staff of science fiction nearly 50 years ago, but Aldous Huxley was a piker in "Brave New World" published in 1932. Huxley imagined the planned reproduction of test tube babies and set the time for this at A.D. 21.
After "Frankenstein" was not the maybe 184 years. Scientists are close to Huxley's 21st century.

discovery of DNA's role in reproduction. A decade later, the secrets of life were further uncovered with identification of DNA as a double molecule. Another decade passed, and geneticists began to do tricky things with enzyme sequences and protein chains. Today, according to one scientist quoted by Packard, "modern genetics" is on the verge of some truly fantastic ways of "improving the human race."
The legislative dilemma is apparent: On one hand is the principle of academic freedom — freedom of thought. It is a principle deeply rooted in the First Amendment, which says that Congress shall make no law abridging a person's right to publish. On the other hand is the principle of the containment of the public's right to be protected from an undue risk of harm.
Four years ago this month, in Science magazine, a group of leading scientists fashioned a public letter. The technical ability existed, they said, to join together DNA molecules from diverse sources. These hybrid molecules, they warned, "are hazardous to laboratory workers and to the public." In the name of prudence, they asked that the hazards be seriously considered.
That is, about where we are now. The American Bar Association, in its report to DNA regulation at its Chicago meeting last month, the Senate Human Resources Committee in July reported a bill that would establish a new national commission to license and to supervise all recombinant DNA research. The House has a bill that would place such regulation under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In grappling with new visions, terrifying or otherwise, we ought to rely upon old principles. When it comes to suppressing the explorations of the human mind, the devices of government are never letters of straw. DNA research can be conducted anywhere in the world. Ultimately the research should be done in high school laboratories. No act of Congress can repeal the fact of human behavior.
Curious man, at the risk of disaster, must pursue his curiosity where it takes him.
The role of government therefore should be limited, and the exercise of federal authority should especially be limited. Once the all-powerful national state begins to regulate the course of scientific inquiry, we are headed down the Soviet road. A controlled public is entitled to reasonable oversight; the power of the purse can be invoked by granting or withholding federal grants; much can be done without risking fatal regimentation of applied research.
The problem is an old as the story of Prometheus: who stole fire from Zeus to endow man with life. The enraged god then created a woman whom he named Pandora. He gave her a sealed vessel containing all the ills that flesh is heir to. To be given to her husband when she married. Well, Pandora married Prometheus's brother, who opened the jar and let the evils escape. Prometheus himself would not escape in a nautical, where eagles picked at his liver all day long.

Today's geneticists have stolen nothing. They have followed their minds in dangerous explorations. The principles of freedom teach us not to stop them, and experience says we could not stop them if we try.

PATRICIA FULTON ADDRESSES RALLY
... State Department, governments hit

'Giveaway' protested

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — About 700 American residents of the Panama Canal Zone staged a funeral march and burned a black-draped coffin Wednesday to protest the "giving away" of the canal.

But most Panamanians celebrated the signing of a new canal treaty.

The American protesters, some dressed in black, carried black umbrellas and lighted candles during their march, timed to coincide with the signing of the Panama Canal treaty in Washington.

A black-draped coffin was burned high on the steps of the Panama Canal Co. Administration Building.

The American protesters sang and chanted patriotic songs and slogans, and many carried placards with slogans attacking President Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos.

"The Canal Is American, Is Carter?" one placard read. Another said, "Carter, You Are Giving Away Our Human Rights" and "Jimmy Peanut, What Are You Doing To Our Canal?"

Patricia Fulton, president of the Pacific Side Civic Council of the Canal Zone, attacked Carter, the State Department and the Canal Zone government during the American protest.

"This may be the last time we can get together here, because one article in the new treaty prohibits U.S. citizens from holding political rallies," Mrs. Fulton said.

But merriment reigned in Panamanian territory over the treaty signings, which were broadcast live in color, via satellite on nationwide television.

Motorists honked their horns, fire station sirens wailed and church bells tolled for three minutes.

But there weren't too many people in the streets. Almost everyone stayed inside to watch the treaty signings on television.

Earlier, National Guardsmen broke up a protest by leftist Panamanian students.

About 600 high school students from the Instituto Nacional gathered in front of the Foreign Relations Ministry shouting, "Don't sign the treaty!" and "It's a filthy treaty!"

National Guardsmen moved into the crowd, swinging clubs. The students fled back to their school building. Some of the youngsters threw rocks into the windows of stores. No injuries were reported.

Sources said the students belonged to an extreme left organization, the Student Revolutionary Front, which wants U.S. military bases in the Canal Zone closed immediately, rather than being phased out gradually.

Reagan demands treaty rejection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan today urged rejection of the newly signed treaties relinquishing U.S. control of the Panama Canal, saying their "fatal flaw" is the assumption of reliable, trouble-free operation of the canal in the future.

In a 17-page statement prepared for a Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearing on the treaties, Reagan said the intent of the initial 1993 treaty with Panama was to give the United States "a firm, unshakable legal basis for building, operating and defending the canal."

"To this day, it is those rights of sovereignty which undergird our ability to operate and defend the canal. We cannot be kicked out summarily on the whim of some Panamanian government," said Reagan, who hit hard on that issue during his unsuccessful challenge for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination.

"Once those rights are removed — and they will be removed immediately if the new treaties become effective — there is nothing to prevent a Panamanian regime from deciding one day to nationalize the canal and to demand that we leave immediately."

Such a situation, Reagan said, would "present us with the very thing that the treaty advocates say we want to avoid: confrontation or its alternative, unceremonious withdrawal in the face of an arbitrary demand."

The former California governor and ex-movie star said the U.S. negotiators "worked earnestly and hard under difficult circumstances, and there are some commendable ideas contained in the proposed treaties."

Voyagers race on

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The twin Voyager space probes sent back scientific data today as they rushed through space on their journeys toward the outer planets of the solar system.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory reported no major difficulties on either Voyager 1, launched Monday from Cape Canaveral, Fla., or Voyager 2, sent aloft last month.

Voyager 1 took a faster course and was expected to overtake her sister ship four months before their rendezvous with Jupiter in early 1979.

Scientists tracking the two craft said they would send out a variety of commands for the rest of the week to keep the craft on course, check their scientific experiments and perform general housekeeping chores.

Voyager 1 is also scheduled to undergo a two-part trajectory correction maneuver, similar to maneuvers performed earlier by Voyager 2, next Sunday and Tuesday.

"It will be a celestial mechanics affair to get on true course and to take out tiny errors at the end of the launch signal," a spokesman said.

The spokesman said both craft will enter the "cruise early phase" of their mission, a period providing for alternate tracking of the probes on Sept. 15.

Bonn meets gang demand

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — The West German government, complying with demand by kidnapers of the country's leading industrialist, published a letter today presenting the abductors' demand for the release of 11 jailed colleagues.

The Federal Criminal Police announced yesterday over West German television that the government would comply with two demands made by the abductors of Hanns-Martin Schleyer, 62.

One demand was to publish a Sept. 6 letter from the kidnapers, the Red Army Faction, popularly known as the Baader-Meinhof gang.

In the published letter, signed by "Commando Siegfried Hausner" — Red Army Faction, "the kidnapers demanded the release of Andreas Baader, imprisoned on January 11 of the group, and other lesser-known guerrillas.

The kidnapers demanded these 11 be assembled at Frankfurt airport by 11 a.m. Wednesday and flown abroad after each had been paid about $150,000 ransom.

Pastor Martin Niemoller, general secretary of the International Federation on Human Rights, must accompany the 11 abroad, the kidnapers said.

In response to a second kidnaper demand, the government said Wednesday it "accepts part one of the letter of Sept. 7, 1977," adding that "it desired a person trusted by the kidnapers, can organize himself of this in a way to be agreed on."

But as the government did not publish the Sept. 7 letter, it was not clear what other demand it had agreed to fulfill.

Ethiopia breaks tie with Somalia

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Ethiopia has broken diplomatic relations with Somalia in a step that could lead to a formal declaration of war between the two east African neighbors.

A communique broadcast by Radio Addis Ababa said ties were severed Wednesday and all Somali diplomatic personnel were ordered to leave Ethiopia within 48 hours.

Although fighting has raged between the two countries for three months, many nations, particularly the Soviet Union, were believed to have urged them to stop short of a formal break.

The move could force neighboring countries such as Kenya, the Sudan and Egypt to choose sides, destroying any sense of unity that might have existed on the African continent.

Smith abandons plans

LONDON Telegraph — Ian Smith, Rhodesia's prime minister, has been forced to abandon his plans for a broad-based government with moderate black nationalist leaders — the first stage of his internal settlement plans.

Both Bishop Abel Muzorewa and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole re-emphasized their reluctance to participate Wednesday and re-affirmed their support for the Anglo-American peace proposals.

Cuban force reported

LONDON Telegraph — About 250 Cuban soldiers and military advisers are encamped on a farm north of Lusaka, the Zambian capital, according to reports in Salisbury.

A small Cuban presence has been reported in Mozambique in the past but this is the first indication of their existence in Zambia.

The Rhodesia Herald speculated Wednesday that the Cubans in Zambia might be assisting in the training of Jacobita Nkomo's ZAPU (Zimbabwe African Peoples Union) guerrillas based in that country.

Qualifications reason

Washington Star Service WASHINGTON — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the only senator who voted against the confirmation of Bert Lance as Office of Management and Budget director last January, says he "always considered Lance unqualified for the post."

"My vote had nothing to do with any banking, hanky-panky," Proxmire said as

More papers ask Lance to resign

By United Press International — The Washington Post and the New York Daily News today joined a growing list of newspapers demanding the resignation of Budget Director Bert Lance, but the Baltimore Sun said it already was too late.

"The steady accumulation of new information now compels three judgments," the Post said, "an editorial published today's editions.

"First, it shows that if the public and Congress had known in January what they know now, Mr. Lance could never have been confirmed.

"Second, Mr. Lance's record does not square with President Carter's stated standards of public ethics.

"Third, Mr. Lance has now become an intolerable burden and distraction to a President who needs his full energies for larger purposes than an old friend, Mr. Lance could never perform only one useful service for the President, and that is to resign," the Post said.

The Daily News said in its editorial that Lance's "usefulness as budget director has been destroyed by revelations of his 'free-wheeling personal financial dealings and his questionable banking practices."

"If Lance won't resign promptly," the News said, "assistants Carter ought to pull the plug on his old job."

The Baltimore Sun said, however, it was too late for Lance's resignation to save the President.

"While each passing day, each new revelation, Bert Lance in one sense recedes into irrelevancy as his old friend Jimmy Carter becomes more and more the central issue," the Sun said.

"The time when Bert Lance could rescue his old friend by resigning is past. The damage, severe damage, has been done."

The Honolulu Advertiser said Wednesday that "Not only has the case of Budget Director Bert Lance reached a point where he must resign, the deeper question is how had the administration's handling of this affair has hurt President Carter."

The Honolulu Star-Bulletin had suggested Lance resign on Aug. 31, saying he "would remove a great burden from the President by quitting now."

The New York Post had called for Lance's resignation on Aug. 10 and reiterated that demand earlier this week, saying "Lance is entitled to answer any new accusations he faces. But he should speak as a private citizen."

Soviets ask ban on new US arms

WASHINGTON Star — The Soviet Union has proposed that a new strategic arms limitation pact prohibit U.S. research and development of several important new weapons, including the cruise missile.

This recent proposal, which the Pentagon strongly opposes, is one of the sticking points in efforts to negotiate a SALT II treaty. The 1972 SALT I treaty expires Oct. 3, but an extension is being considered.

Some of the problems involve direct disagreement between the United States and the Soviet Union, but there also are unresolved questions of the Carter administration's negotiating position.

A senior administration official told reporters last week that the United States is prepared to accept as part of a treaty specific restrictions on the range of cruise missiles, which it intends to continue developing.

Other officials insist, however, that the controversial decision on cruise capabilities has not been taken. The National Security Council is scheduled to consider SALT questions this week in preparation for talks here beginning Sept. 22 between Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. The talks will be based on an agreement which the two men made in Geneva last May to work toward a three-part SALT package.

The basic treaty would limit total numbers of strategic delivery systems until 1985, a protocol would control specific weapons during a three-year period while agreement is sought on fitting them into the treaty, and a statement of principles would outline goals for cutting strategic weapons in a future SALT III treaty.

A major goal of the Soviet Union in SALT II negotiations has been stopping or at least limiting U.S. work on cruise missiles. The United States intends to begin by the early 1980s to deploy the little pilotless bombers for military use, "while the Soviets are years behind in research and development work on them."

The two sides have been unable to agree on terms for putting cruise missiles into a new treaty.

Cutbacks continue

By United Press International — Copper Co. and ASARCO Inc. followed the lead of other companies Wednesday in announcing production cutbacks due to the sagging worldwide copper market.

Warren L. Parks, Magma's executive vice president, said the number of Magma's San Manuel division workers will be reduced by some 600, about 15 per cent of the firm's Arizona total employment.

The cutback will put the company's manpower level at 3,690.

Most of the layoffs will occur at Magma's smelter, where one of the three smelters will be shut down.

Parks said the reduction will be met through both attrition and layoffs.

Campbell announced the cutbacks for the Mission and Silver Bell mines at the same time he disclosed the suspension of production.

"The ASARCO action affects 750 workers at the Mission mine, 290 at Silver Bell and 270 at Sacaton.

Campbell said the mine closures would be reviewed in another month.

Congress convened Wednesday. "We had no reason to assume that from the information provided to the Senate."

Earlier, it was Lance's "total lack" of experience in both budgeting and "understanding how the federal government works" that led Proxmire to vote against the President's first Cabinet appointee, he said.

Abductions on upswing

ROME (UPI) — Kidnap Inc., once the fastest growing industry in Italy, is branching out to other major European markets. Business is booming. Although Italy still leads Europe in the number of kidnaps with 53 this year and the amount of ransom paid, an estimated $65 million over the past two years, the crime is catching on rapidly in West Germany, France and Spain.

Motives vary. But one kidnaper has "claimed" overhead costs run at an estimated $11,000 a day and ransoms have jumped to record highs — police estimate the average ransom per person at $450,000. When one Italian shopowner told telephoning kidnapers all he could raise for his wife's ransom was $330,000, one sneered, "That won't even pay our expenses. These things cost $11,000 a day." The number of spinoff industries has added to moneymaking potential of kidnaping. Wealthy businessmen and politicians are surrounding themselves and their families with heavily armed bodyguards and even taking out kidnap insurance. Driving schools in Switzerland and Italy have begun teaching chauffeurs how to prevent their bosses from being kidnaped on Europe's highways. And a custom automobile shop in Italy specializes in installing armor and bulletproof glass in limousines. But all the new precautions have failed to stem the tide of abductions throughout Europe.

Only this week, urban guerrillas in West Germany nabbed industrialist Hans-Martin Schleyer, demanding the release of 11 of their comrades from jail, and Spanish police are treating the Monday disappearance of the four-year-old daughter of the Belgian consul in Valencia as a kidnaping. Historically, kidnaping was the practice of seizing unwilling persons and sending them to work in servitude against their will. The word kidnap was coined around 1680 to describe the practice of stealing children in Britain to send into servitude on British plantations in America. It was described by Blackstone as a common-law misdemeanor. TO FILL YOUR rental vacancies in a hurry, contact 731-0931. This place a classified ad.

TWIN FALLS AND JEROME

STEPHANIE PARKER, YOUNG TWIN FALLS ARTIST
wins four prizes at Twin Falls County Fair

Three paintings net four awards for Twin Falls miss

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

FILER—Stephanie Parker, a Twin Falls artist, entered three paintings in the art department of the Twin Falls County Fair this year and won four prizes.

Her acrylic painting of Sitting Bull, titled "American Indian," received first place in acrylics and went on to be named "Best of Show" at the art display. Her painting of a lion was named second place winner in acrylics, and one of birds received an honorable mention in acrylics.

Miss Parker said she has been painting "practically all my life." She took art classes while attending junior high and high school, and is taking art at Utah State University where she is a senior this year. Her prize-winning picture was done as an assignment at the university, using an air photograph for a model. She said birds, animals, and portraits are her favorites. Upon graduation from the university, she hopes to make a career of painting, perhaps in commercial art and illustrations, she said. Entries in the art department at the fair this year surpass many other years, with a total of 201 paintings entered, according to Sandy Brehm, president of the Art Guild of Magic Valley. The quality also seems to improve each year, she said.

Other classes and their winners were: oil—landscapes and seascapes, Vicki Curl, Twin Falls, first; Leon Smith, Twin Falls, second; Richard Ross, Twin Falls, third; Marlene Sears, Twin Falls; Barbara Durfee, Gooding; Marlene Sears, Meryl Korner, American Falls; Marjorie Clark, Gooding; Betty Evans, Twin Falls; Barbara Durfee, Marlene Sears, and Terri Pritchett, Twin Falls, honorable mention.

Oil still life and floral: Mary Rosenbaum, Kimberly, first; Eric Merritt, Hanson, second; Novella Lazarus, Twin Falls, third; Nula Evans, Heyburn; Julia Bingham, Twin Falls; Ivory Duffy, Twin Falls; Mary Rosenbaum, all honorable mention.

Oil animals and portraits:

Vicki Curl, Twin Falls, first and second; Tom Ramsey, Filer, third; Sadie Partin, Twin Falls; Darla Baldry, Wendell; Leondine Weatherite, Meridian, and Ramsey, all honorable mention.

Water colors: Ron Vaneek, Burley, first; H. Cobb Gilbert, Carey, second; Michael Clark, Buhl, third; Lalene Meyer, Gooding; Bonnie Brehm, Twin Falls; Sandy Brehm, Twin Falls; Vaneek, Lalene Meyer, and Kay Cunningham, Burley, all honorable mention.

Acrylic: Stephanie Parker, first and second; Tim Schmidt, Twin Falls, third; Erances Kambrecht, Buhl; Stephanie Parker, Darla Baldry, Acea Coultrin, Burley; Gary Stone, Kimberly, honorable mention.

Miscellaneous: Warren Lassen, Filer, first; Gary Stone, second; Darla Baldry, third; James Couch, Twin Falls; Gloria Adams, Twin Falls; Del Rae Capps, Twin Falls; Couch, and Bonnie Ross, Jerome, all honorable mention.

Lassen was awarded the second Best of Show, and Vaneek, third Best of Show.

Open house Friday

HUNT — Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Smith Jr. will be honored at an open house Friday, Sept. 9, at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Smith, Provo, Utah.

The bride is the former Phyllis Ann Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Stewart, Hunt.

The couple was married Aug. 10 at the Idaho Falls LDS temple by Elder Miller. A luncheon was held following the ceremony at the Westbank Motel in Idaho Falls.

Those attending the ceremony included parents of the bride and bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Blair Smith, Wendell; Mrs. Marjorie Winsor, Delta, Utah; Davis Dennis, Provo; Barbara Gibbs, Wendell; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Winsor, Nephi, Utah; Mrs. Francis Hepworth, Halley; Mrs. Jean Welling and Mrs. Helen Toolson, both North Ogden, Utah; Mrs. Beth James, Springville, Utah; Mrs. Bobbie Ann Hunsaker, Stafford, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. George Nye, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kenner and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Black, all Hunt, and Debbie Nye, Twin Falls.

The following evening the couple was honored at a wedding reception at the Hunt

Ward LDS Cultural Hall. They received guests before a backdrop of Austrian drapes which were adorned with blue scalloped and blue bows. Arrangements of fall flowers were at either end.

The bride wore a gown of white satin-backed crepe with an organza overlay. The Queen Ann neckline, fitted bodice, long skirt and sleeves with wide-fitted cuffs were all accented with heavy lace trim. A wide ruffle, accented by the bride's elbow-length veil of bridal illusion was edged in lace. She carried a cascading bouquet of gold and bronze mums with blue baby's breath. Bridesmaids were Pam and Kristin Smith, Provo, sisters of the bridegroom, and Sue and Vicki Stewart, sisters of the bride. Betsy Stewart, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

Dave Dennis, Provo, was the best man. Groomsmen were Russel Smith, Provo, brother of the bridegroom, and Sandy, Jim, Scott and Joseph Stewart.

Promises exchanged

TWIN FALLS — The garden of the Flatou family home provided a pastoral setting for the July 23rd wedding of Rayleen Flatou, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Flatou, Boonville, Wash., and Jim Hicks whose parents are from Twin Falls.

The 11 a.m. service was officiated by Rev. Hicks and Rev. Dan Miller, Basin City, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. The bride's floor-length gown was of off-white chiffon styled with ruffled cap sleeves and trimmed with lace applique at the bodice, empire waist and around the ruffled train. Her picture hat to which her train was attached was trimmed with off-white chiffon roses.

She carried a bouquet of garden flowers. Attending the bride were her sisters, Colleen Flatou, who served as matron of honor, Kathy and Charlene Flatou were bridesmaids, and Mary Beth Duff, the bridegroom's sister.

Couple recites promises

DURLEY — Isabelle Ohlmg Baker and LaVern Lampe were united in marriage in the Zion Lutheran Church of Burley Aug. 21.

Pastor Ron Leder performed the early morning double-ring ceremony immediately following a worship service. Matron of honor was Ruth Jain, Nampa, sister of the bride. Best man was Leonard Kerbs, Twin Falls, son-in-law of the bridegroom.

The children and grandchildren of the couple also stood with them. They included Mrs. Dorothy Kerbs and her children Brian, Darin and Melante, Twin Falls; Mrs. Gloria Lierman and her children Jeff and Timothy, Sierra Vista, Ariz.; Dan and Sue Roester and their children Rebecca Jo, Jamie Ann, David and Elizabeth, Fremont, Calif.; and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ohlmg and their children Sheri Rae and Jason, Burley.

The wedding reception was held in the fellowship hall for relatives and friends. Mrs. Ed Kerbs and Mrs. Fred Tjalen of the Burley L.W.M. were in charge. Gloria Lierman and Sue Roester served the three-tiered wedding cake, while Dorothy Kerbs and Pegi Ohlmg served coffee and punch. Ruth Jain attended the guest book.

A champagne brunch was served to invited guests on the back lawn and patio at Ray and Pegi Ohlmg's home. Those serving were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Biermann and Mr. and Mrs. Royce Bailey.

Guest-of-honor guests were from Twin Falls, Clavay, Pater and Rupert.

A surprise personal bridal shower was given for the bride Aug. 16 by Pegi Ohlmg, Jeanne Leder and Claudia Gillen. There was a rehearsal dinner was hosted at Pie's Cafe in Burley by LaVern Lampe, bridegroom, for immediate family of the couple and Pastor and Mrs. Ron Leder. After a wedding trip to Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks the couple will reside on Lampe's farm west of Twin Falls.

sister of Pasene, Sandy Grower, also of Tricities, and Gayle Flatou of Seattle, a cousin of the bride. Amy Flatou served as the flower girl.

The bridegroom's attendants were Martin Lindgren of Yakim, the best man; Rick Cole of Olympia, Dave Phillips, Paul and John Flatou, brothers of the bride, and Marshall Duff of Pasco, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Ringbearers were Joey Miller, a brother of the bride, and Miesha Miller, the bridegroom's nephew. Organist Rev. Neville of B.C. Canada, played "Nadia's Theme" as the guests were being seated. Don Foster of Seattle and Debbie Miller, Basin City, the bridegroom's sister, sang "The Table is Set" and Ann Herring's gospel group sang "Love Drops" during the service.

The afternoon reception was held at the Flatou family home, Paterling. The newlyweds left for a one-week honeymoon at Sun Valley.

The bride is a graduate of Cornell High School and attended Northwest Assemblies of God College in Kirkland where the bridegroom is enrolled.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID BENEDICT

Karen Andersen, Benedict marry

TWIN FALLS Karen Andersen and David Benedict were married in a double ceremony Aug. 27 at the First United Methodist Church, Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Walter P. Andersen and the late Mr. Andersen, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Benedict, all Twin Falls.

Rev. Raymond A. Thompson performed the ceremony before the altar decorated with bouquets of peach-colored gladioli and two seven branch candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by Frank Mitchell, Boise, a close friend of the family, wore a candlelight floor-length princess-styled gown of quana nylon. The detachable chapel length train was made of Chiny lace. The bride carried a bouquet of peach-colored rosebuds with white daisies and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Gene Leubetter, Medford, Ore., sister of the bride, and Mrs. James Rhoades, Twin Falls, was maid of honor. Best man was Chris Talkington, Twin Falls, and Full is a great time for casual get-togethers. "Come over after the game" is a favorite excuse for a supper party and that kind of invitation calls for food hearty enough to match the enthusiasm of the fans.

You'll find this rich, Italian-style shrimp casserole will score lots of points with your guests. And why not? Italian cuisine and seafood are two of today's most popular restaurant attractions. Fried shrimp was the number one menu item on a recent poll of family-style dining out spots.

Ready-to-prepare frozen breaded shrimp makes this a never-fail dish to prepare. Combined with eggplant and a zesty Italian sauce, just one pound of shrimp will serve six to eight generously.

Mix up a big leafy green salad and set out pitchers of Italian wine. Whether the home team wins or loses, the team around your table will have plenty to cheer about.

SHRIMP-EGGPLANT PARMESAN

- 1 (14 or 16 ounce) package frozen precooked breaded shrimp
- 1 (1 1/2 pounds) medium-sized eggplant
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/3 to 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1 (15 ounce) can or jar meatless spaghetti sauce or seasoned tomato sauce
- 1 ounce sliced Swiss cheese, sliced or shredded
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

If shrimp is uncooked, follow package directions for frying. Slice eggplant into 1/2-inch slices; arrange on a flat pan and sprinkle with salt. Let stand 30 minutes. Pat eggplant dry.

Heat 2 tablespoons of olive oil in a large frypan. Place a single layer of eggplant slices in pan and fry until lightly browned; continue to fry eggplant until all are browned, adding oil as needed. Spoon about 1/2 cup tomato sauce into a 9 by 9 by 2-inch baking dish. Layer half the eggplant and Mozzarella cheese over sauce. Sprinkle with 1/3 of Parmesan cheese. Repeat layers. Pour over remaining sauce.

Arrange cooked shrimp on top of sauce and sprinkle with remaining Parmesan cheese. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 25 minutes or until hot through. Makes six to eight generous servings.

Kind hearted?

CENTRAL LAKE, Mich. (UPI) — The thief who took more than $5,000 in cash from a locked safe at a northern Michigan restaurant had either poor eyesight or a kind heart.

An envelope marked "For Jerry's Kids," containing $115 collected for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Toiletory by employees at the Brownwood Acres Restaurant, was left untouched.

"I don't know if he had a pang of conscience or what," restaurant owner Gary Morse said of the thief, who looted the safe early Monday. "I guess he must not have been all bad."

Morse said the envelope was "right there, in plain view" next to a money tray containing Sunday's cash receipts of $5,500.

"The burglar cleaned us out of everything — except the envelope," he said.

Antrim County Sheriff Elwin Wilcox, however, said altruism may not have been the reason the envelope was left behind.

"It makes me believe he was an amateur and didn't see the money," Wilcox said. "If he'd been a pro he would have took it."

School lunch policy announced

TWIN FALLS The big annual Latin School announced its policy for free and reduced price meals and free milk under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast and Special Milk Programs.

Eligibility for the program will be determined by Tommie Baker, president of the board of education according to the state of the family income.

Children from families whose income is at or below the determined levels are eligible for free or reduced price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other financial expenses due to unusually high medical ex-pensures, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Sunny and continued cool Friday

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley-Rupert area: Fair and cool with subsiding winds tonight, sunny and continued cool Friday. Overcast lows tonight near 70 degrees, highs Friday near 73 degrees. Saturday's outlook, dry and cool. Generally poor spraying and dusting conditions through today, due to gusty winds, which will subside shortly after sunset tonight. Conditions will return favorable by Friday morning. Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley:

Fair and cool tonight with subsiding winds, sunny and cool Friday. Overnight lows tonight near 60 degrees, high temperatures Friday will be 70-75 degrees. Saturday's outlook, dry and cool. Synops: Cool air and strong gusty winds spread over the Magic Valley during the night as a fast-moving dry Pacific cold front moved over the state. Temperatures today will be about 15 degrees cooler than Wednesday's high readings which rose into the 90s across the valley.

The warmest spot in the valley was 96 degrees in Gooding, followed closely with 94 degrees at Hagerman and Jerome. Conditions will be generally unfavorable for spraying and harvesting this evening due to gusty winds; however, winds are expected to subside tonight and conditions will generally be good through the weekend. Temperatures, however, will continue to be on the cool side. The weekend outlook: In Saturday through Monday calls for continued low temperatures and mostly dry. # Impeachment over water asked

CHEYENNE (UPI) — Some agriculturalists say politicians who support federal water policies should be immediately impeached, the Wyoming Farm Bureau Restoration president told a legislative interim committee Tuesday. Speaking before the Joint Interim Agriculture, Public Lands, and Water Resources Committee, David A. Filmer, farm bureau president, said certain persons have told him: "Any politician who supports the main thrust of this federal proposal should be recalled or impeached immediately."

necessary federal water projects. Recently, the administration proposed enforcing a law which would restrict family farm ownership for those using federal irrigation water to 320 acres. "Farm bureau members consider the potential impact of this proposal, or perhaps the greatest threat to our water rights—private property rights and state's rights since Wyoming became a state," Filmer said. "We are weary of increasing federal interference in our lives. Since water is the lifeblood of agriculture and essential to the well-being of our state's population and economy in general, perhaps now is the time and this is the issue to take an unequivocal and irreversible position against such a federal proposal and be willing to fight for our rights." Filmer told the committee a federal government charge of inefficiency on the part of the state was ridiculous. "Of all the institutions to comment upon inefficiency, it comes from the federal government, which is notorious for its ignorant inefficiency in administration of nearly every program." In other testimony, Senate Minority Leader Robert Johnson, D-Sweetwater, blasted federal water proposals saying they were "ill-conceived, inadequately researched, and would have negative results."

proposed Wyoming-to-Arkansas water-powered coal slurry pipeline on the grounds that water should not be exported from Wyoming. He told the committee that officials serving on the federal Water Resources Policy Committee "have scarcely had time to become acquainted with the duties and responsibilities of their cabinet posts, let alone the time to laugh, cackle, and present to the public a detailed and comprehensive water policy proposal." Federal proposals also were attacked by a spokesman for the Wyoming Rural Electric Association who said the state system of water adjudication has been working well and should not be replaced by federal mandates.

Washington (UPI) — Agriculture Department officials have proposed a plan designed to reduce heavy food waste in school lunchrooms by tailoring the size of lunch portions to the ages of the children who eat them. The proposal, announced at a news conference Tuesday, is designed to reduce what officials estimate as waste of about 15 per cent of the food currently served to nearly 27 million youth in schools with the aid of a federal subsidy. Under traditional patterns in effect with little change since the federal school lunch program began 31 years ago, schools follow a standard "Type A Lunch" menu including meat, bread, vegetables and other foods designed to give students one-third of their daily nutrients. Schools have been allowed to vary the size of standard portions designed for students aged 10 to 12, but officials said few have done so. Under the new proposal, which Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Foreman called the most important change in lunch patterns in lunch program history, portions geared to ages would be mandated. Youngsters up to 9, who frequently waste part of the standard-size portions they get, would be given smaller servings—children from 9 through 12 would get about what they presently receive, and students of 12 and older would be offered — although they wouldn't be compelled to take — larger portions than they now get. Two more portion-size categories would be set up for children under 6 who get federally-subsidized lunches in child care centers. Ms. Foreman told a news conference that after public comment on the proposal is studied, tentative regulations will be put into effect on a "pilot" basis from next January through April. School field-testing of the plans early next year will be followed by more public review and study before final regulations are adopted for the 1978-79 school year beginning a year from now, Ms. Foreman said. In addition to the portion-size rules, the new proposals would: Allow schools to substitute rice, macaroni and noodles for some of the required bread and pasta; and would eliminate cases in which schools must serve bread at a meal including chop suey and rice. — Require schools to consult students in lunch menu planning and lunchroom operations.

School lunchroom waste cut sought

offer students unfavorable, lowfat, skim or buttermilk in addition to whole milk in order to hold down fat content. Ms. Foreman said, "a specific limit was being proposed for sugar in this school lunch diet, but that, schools would be instructed to keep sugar content low. The official added that Agriculture Secretary Bill Brock was strongly backing a proposal for Congressional proposal giving him authority to ban the sale of competitive "junk foods" from vending machines in school lunchrooms.

Mastadon fund raiser set

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — A fund drive has begun to save the site where the remains of an 11,000-year-old mastadon were found in a peat bog in the western Washington state of Sequim. Washington State University archaeologist Dr. Richard Daugherty said money is needed to build a temporary field laboratory. "We cannot operate through usual fund-raising channels because it is too short a notice but we have to get the area out of the weather." Seattle-First National Bank in response to Daugherty's call for money, launched a "Save the Mastadon" fund drive, utilizing its 106 branches as collection points. The bank also issued in the initial $500 to begin the drive. Bones and tusks of an extinct animal, similar to but larger than an elephant, were uncovered Aug. 8 by Emanuel Stamm on his farm near Sequim.

Morris was digging a pond with a backhoe when he uncovered what looked like a section of a tree. When he found another, the farmer stopped and inspected the sections more carefully and discovered they were mastadon.

Atlas angers Michigan mayor

WARREN, Mich. (UPI) — The way Mayor Ted Bates figured it, a city with a population of more than 165,000 "and one of the largest and most unique wastewater treatment plants in the world" should not be left off any map. With that in mind, Bates fired off a letter of protest to Rand McNally Co. of New York, publishers of "Road Atlas and Travel Guide."

metropolitan area. Neither is Warren listed in an accompanying alphabetical list of Michigan cities, Bates said. "For your information," he wrote, "Warren is the fourth largest city in the State of Michigan with a city of population over 100,000 people, operating on a budget of $45 million." "Within our city limits, and indeed, directly across from City Hall, is the General Motors fabulous multi-million dollar Tech Center, which is only one of the many multi-million dollar diversified industries.

16-year-old faces rap for murder

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — A 16-year-old Orlando girl who police said was apparently "intoxicated with hospital" has been charged with first-degree murder in the poisoning death of her 21-month-old niece last June. Police originally believed the death accidental, but began to suspect foul play after a nurse at Orange Memorial hospital found a container of poisoned water intended for a cousin of the dead girl.

Police refused to identify the suspect because of her age. She was held without bond at Youth Hall in Orlando after being charged Tuesday. Police said the case is expected to go before a grand jury next week. "Apparently she was intoxicated with hospital," said Orlando Police Lt. George McNamara. "The only way she could get into a hospital was for the three other babies to go to the hospital."

"She liked hospitals because the people there treated her nice, and showed her what they were doing," McNamara said. The girl is charged with murdering Tara A. May, daughter of Louie and Betty May. The infant was taken to Orange Memorial Hospital after ingesting pine oil-based cleaner. Police said the infant had been released from the hospital less than a week before her death after meeting to go on June 3.

While investigating the death, police said they were notified that a nurse had discovered a container of poisoned water. The water was intended to be used to feed an 8-month-old infant at Orange Memorial.

Investigator Chester Albrecht said the nurse noticed something had been added to the water before it was administered to the 8-month-old infant. Police discovered that the infant was a cousin of the girl who had died and began questioning the aunt of both victims, McNamara said.

Police said the girl had applied for a job as a Candy Stripper volunteer at the hospital but was turned down for some unknown reason. Capt. Donald Strain said there was no indication any other patients at the hospital were affected.

Almanac

By United Press International Today is Thursday, Sept. 8, the 238th day of 1977 with 114 to follow. The moon is moving from its last quarter to new moon. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. There is no evening star. Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo. The late (late) Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft was born Sept. 8, 1890. This is American comedian Sid Caesar's 54th birthday. On this day in history: In 1565, the first permanent settlement of what is now the Country of United States was founded at the present location of St. Augustine, Fla. In 1969, three "Hanoi" baby persons were killed when a hurricane and tidal wave struck Galveston, Texas. In 1931, the U.S. liner "Morro Castle" burned, off Astoria Park, N.J., taking 117 lives. In 1974, President Gerald Ford granted former President Richard Nixon full pardon for all offenses he may have committed during his years in office. A thought for the day: German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "Hate comes from the heart, contempt from the head and neither is quite without our control."

Medical societies scored in hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A conspiracy within organized medicine to restrict advertising makes it virtually impossible for patients to shop for health care, says the Federal Trade Commission.

In legal briefs released at the opening of hearings on an FTC complaint against the American Medical Association, the government said organized medicine shouldn't be permitted to regulate even the advertising it believes to be false or deceptive.

State and federal laws already prohibit false and deceptive advertising, the FTC argued in a legal brief.

Attorney Newton Minow, representing the AMA, said an easing of AMA policy on doctor advertising would lead to such ads as "a cure cancer for $29" or a type of advertising the AMA "will not tolerate."

Minow complained that government "wants a monopoly in the enforcement of medical ethics."

The counter-charges were filed Wednesday at the first of 23 days of hearings on the FTC complaint, which also names the Connecticut Medical Society and the New Haven County Medical Association.

Government attorneys say they will introduce evidence that local medical societies "have acted in concert" with the AMA to prevent advertising, for example, by new doctors trying to build up a practice or concerning innovative and sophisticated heart disease services.

The case will not be resolved quickly, perhaps not for years, and could wind up in the courts.

FTC seeks an order directing the AMA and the Connecticut associations to lift their restrictions on advertising by doctors.

The hearings are being conducted by an administrative law judge, a quasi-judicial officer who will make a ruling that either side may appeal in the courts.

AMA's "total ban" on all but the most limited forms of advertising leaves doctors, without incentive, in lower fees, to meet known competition from physicians advertising lower fees, said the FTC legal brief.

Under these circumstances, physicians are virtually assured of the patronage of the vast majority of patients who initially come to them," the FTC said.

"Consumers are seriously injured by (AMA's) practices because they are deprived, for example, of information on physicians' prices (even for an initial office visit), their academic training, the specific medical procedures they engage in most frequently, and the range of services and equipment available in various doctors' offices."

"Without this information potential patients are unable to function even as informed consumers in the marketplace," the FTC argued.

Terrier wins 'best' fair title

By MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News writer

FILED — A Kerry Blue terrier, "Sophie," owned by Zelia Crook, Twin Falls, received the Best of Dogs award at the dog department of the Twin Falls County Fair.

The dog had previously won the blue ribbon in the terrier class at the fair.

Other winners included sporting dogs: a Cocker Spaniel, owned by Jean Dowd, Bull, first; a Golden Retriever, owned by Raymond Butts, Twin Falls, second, and a wire-haired pointing Griffon, owned by Vern and Larry Harkins, Kimberly, third.

The dog hunter class an Afghan, owned by Sherry Dillard, Bull, received first place; a Norwegian Elkhound, owned by Sue Roberts, Bull, second, and a basset, owned by Cozette Allen, Twin Falls, third.

In non-sporting dogs class a miniature poodle, owned by Terry and Jean Dowd, Bull, was named first place winner.

Toy class: a Pomeranian, owned by Orpha Noble, Rupert, first; a Pekinese, owned by Mike and Dolores Mulligan, Jerome, second, and a toy poodle, owned by Linda Barnes, Jerome, third.

Working dogs: a Doberman, owned by Gracie Tingstrom, House-Creek Ranch, Rogerson, first; a St. Bernard, owned by Tort and Judy Wolf, Bull, second, and an Australian Shepherd, owned by Doug McCoy, Twin Falls, third.

Puppies: A Shih-Tzu, owned by Orpha Noble, Rupert, first; a Doberman, owned by Rich and Shonnie Rich, Twin Falls, second, and a Shetland Sheep dog, owned by Catherine Arnold, Twin Falls, third.

The dog department saw a "full house" for the fair. In fact, 20 entries had to be turned down because of lack of space, according to Mike Mulligan, superintendent.

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — Priscilla Davis, who survived a gunshot wound and endured 11 days of attempts by defense attorneys to prove her a scheming tramp, could take no more at the indifferent sight of a color photograph depicting the death scene of the daughter she last had seen alive.

For a long moment Wednesday she sat in the witness stand, stunned and staring blankly ahead. It appeared she had become flustered by questions from defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes. Then the tears began. There were smirks at the defense table. Only the four embarrassed prosecuting attorneys who had left behind the photo of the 12-year-old victim were aware of the source of her sudden sadness.

Mrs. Davis covered her face with her hands and cried.

State District Judge George E. Dowlen quickly dismissed court for the day and Mrs. Davis was escorted from the trial of her estranged millionaire husband, T. Cullen Davis, charged in the death of his stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn.

Mrs. Davis is the key witness and has testified Davis did the shooting. Davis also is charged with wounding Mrs. Davis, killing her lover and wounding a family friend.

"She saw the picture," explained prosecutor I.T. Wilson. "We left it on the witness stand with a bunch of other stuff. We had scrupulously avoided showing her that picture."

The photo had been identified by the previous witness, a Fort Worth ambulance driver, who removed the child's body from the Davis mansion on Aug. 3, 1976.

The picture showed the slim, dark-haired youngster sprawled on her back, her arm above her head, on the basement floor. The gunshot wound that killed her hours earlier was evident in her chest.

Haynes was unsympathetic toward his client's chief accuser.

"She ought to be crying, she shouldn't have left that kid alone at that house with all those things running around," Haynes remarked to Joe Stannan Jr., another prosecutor.

Tongsun Park in middle of controversy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A tug-of-war for Tongsun Park is heating up, with the State Department now formally urging South Korea to send him back to face charges of influence-buying in Congress and House Speaker Thomas O'Neill saying U.S. ties with Seoul may be at stake.

But South Korea says it will refuse to return Park to the United States.

Foreign Minister Park Tongsun said Wednesday in Seoul: "We cannot return one of our citizens to the United States against his will."

He disclosed that U.S. officials have been asking the Seoul government to cooperate in the investigation, but said his government "does not know what exactly to do because the incident took place inside the United States, and had nothing to do with our government."

Since the two governments have no extradition treaty that could force Park's return the latest events might signal a stalemate sure to frustrate federal and congressional investigators seeking to question the "flee dealer" who was indicted on 36 counts by a grand jury last week.

Under the circumstances, a State Department spokesman said U.S. officials were hoping to persuade South Korea to go along in a "cooperative venture." He said he could not speculate on what would happen if Seoul continued to balk.

The situation led Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to confer with Leon Jaworski, special counsel for the House ethics committee. Neither gave any details later.

Park was charged with conspiracy, bribery and other felonies and working with the Korean CIA in a concerted, year-long attempt to influence congressmen with cash, gifts, parties — complete contributions and expense-paid trips to Korea.

Meanwhile, O'Neill took the House floor to denounce Seoul's position and sound a warning.

"Unfortunately, the Republic of Korea does not seem to share our desire to put this matter to an end," he said, noting that Park "remains at large" there and claiming Seoul is withholding "records of obvious surveillance" to investigators.

The attitude being taken by the Republic of Korea," he said, "can only strain its relations with the United States. Doubts as to the advisability of our partnership with the Republic of Korea are being expressed all across America."

'Clara' threatens shipping

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical Storm "Clara" formed in the Atlantic off the North Carolina coast today and forecasters said it could grow into the season's third hurricane during the day.

Clara, however, was on a course that made it a threat only to shipping.

At 6 a.m. EDT, the storm was located near latitude 35.5 north, longitude 68.5 west, or about 300 miles northwest of Bermuda. It was moving toward the east-northeast between 15-20 miles per hour and expected to continue this course through the day.

"Maximum sustained winds are 50 m.p.h. with gusty force winds extending out about 100 miles from the center," the National Hurricane Center said. "Conditions remain favorable for slow strengthening and Clara could become a minimal hurricane during the next 24 hours."

Juniors loom big in TF's opener against Caldwell

Likely candidates

ONE OF THESE three quarterbacks will get the starting nod Friday when the Twin Falls Bruins open their season at Caldwell. Coach Murray Johnson said, from left, junior Mike Ferrell, senior Mike Kay and junior Robbie Newell will go — but he declined to say which.

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Bruins, just 48 hours from their opener at Caldwell Friday night, still haven't firmed up their starting lineup. Not the least of these positions still in the air is quarterback where three members of them juniors, are battling for the starting nod. But that doesn't mean to say that the Bruins are going to enter the game with a lot of doubts.

"We'll name them all Thursday night," said incoming head Coach Murray Johnson. "The only thing I want to say about it right now is that it appears a lot of juniors will see a lot of action."

The opener has to be a source of worry for the Bruin coaching staff, Caldwell is well regarded in the Cross State Conference again this year — its second out of the SIC. The Cougars already have played a game — losing in overtime 20-14 to Nampa — and then there's that matter of a lot of juniors, in the Twin Falls scheme of things.

"We sensed Caldwell last week and they impressed us in several areas," Coach Johnson said. "Defensively they are very aggressive... not very big but very quick and like bees the way they get to the football. We feel that junior Dick Jackson, 5-10, 160, is their game breaker. He's their deep receiver threat and they use him on reverses. Ron Anthony is a 210 pound fullback who runs with power and determination."

"Our game plan will be to control the football — keeping it away from their explosive offense and take advantage of our big backs," he continued, noting that with one exception — a 210 pounder — Caldwell's front line runs from 180 to 175.

Looking at the post three weeks the coach says "I feel we have achieved a lot of goals in our pre-season... a lot of the things we stress have become habit to the kids."

"If we have an asset it would be great physical shape. We are in really good condition and we have no injuries. The intensity of the defensive unit has been building and day-by-day we're becoming more disciplined."

The quarterback decision will be made among senior Mike Kay and juniors Mike Ferrell and Rob Newell. Lawrence DeFries, a sophomore at the position but more as insurance now with most of his concentration going into the tight end position.

In the running backs, Coach Johnson says "senior Dave Skinner will start somewhere — either at tailback or fullback."

"If he starts at fullback, we'll be looking among tall juniors' Pat Allison, John Kalange and Ed Lang."

The question here seems to be whether 210-pound Missouri transfer Bub Charlton has recovered sufficiently from continuing ankle problems. If Charlton can't go, Skinner, at 185, will be the tailback.

About the only position that is dominated by seniors is wide receiver where Jeff Hafer, Kent Rodseth and Mike Donnelly are fighting it out.

The tackle position offensively is a battle of juniors: Tedling, 5-7, 250 pound Roger Walters; 6-1, 305 Wayne Fuchs; 6-8, 185 Steve Harmon and 6-0, 200 Joel Harris.

Senior Mike Mathews seems to have the center position pretty well locked up — to the surprise of no one.

Asked for a total summation of his idea of the team, Coach Johnson says "I really won't know until we can get all these juniors some game experience. Our enthusiasm remains really high."

"I thought for a while that our offense was doing very well but in our Saturday scrimmage the defense really came to life. It was the first time the defense showed real intensity. They stopped the offense pretty well, although the offense helped stop itself with fumbles and pass interceptions and dropped passes at times."

Coach Johnson then announced that seniors Mario Sulinas, strong safety, and center Mike Mathews would be co-captains for the opener.

Bengals cut Kollar

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Bengals Wednesday asked waivers on defensive tackle Bill Kollar, the club's No. 1 draft choice three years ago.

Bengals' general manager Paul Brown said he hoped another team would pick up Kollar, a 6-foot-1, 250-pound tackle out of Montana State.

Printers get smelly rodeo bath

BY JEFF SHER Times-News Writer

FILER — Caution! Caution! grabbed the lead in the saddle bronc and bull riding competition and the electronic media pulled out a questionable victory over the printed media in the Media Tag-of-War in the first night of action at the Twin Falls Rodeo Wednesday night.

Canadian Jim Dunn, Balzac, Alb., hung on for a first-night high of 76 points in the bareback event; and Bryan Achby, Jenner, Alb., topped the bull riding with a 77-point ride.

Larry Ferguson, Miami, Okla., one of the top American cowboys, dragged down a steer in 5.1 seconds to lead the field in steer wrestling.

J. C. Bonine, Hyslaam,

Mont., leads the saddle bronc event with a 74, and Willard Moody took down his prey in 10.0 seconds to outdo his competitors in roping.

The barrel racing competition results were not available this morning, as the entire competition had to be rerun last night due to mismeasurement of the distances between the barrels.

The 226 entries in this year's rodeo are competing for the richest purse in the history of the Twin Falls County Rodeo, $10,005. Last year's purse was just over $14,000.

In the Media Tag-of-War, the electronic media, radio and TV talkers, overcame a strong initial surge by the printed media, newspaper writers, to deal the harsh taunt (both visual and olfactory) of defeat to the print crew.

The print gang started off strong with the help of a couple of brilliant strategists. Just as the grunting and straining began, a print team member rushed onto the field with a water hose and began wetting the ground beneath the feet of the electronics. At the same time, another printer smashed whipped cream pies into the faces of four key members of the electronics.

Suddenly, the much larger and heavily favored electronics began to slide toward the large pile of watered down manure which separated the opposing teams.

Just as the printers had dragged two of their opponents to the brink of humiliation, the Filer pumper crew entered the fray and began to wet the ground beneath the printers. At the same time, three more "electrics" "tumbled" from "the sidelines" to join the electronics.

The inspired electronics began to surge mightily and slowly edged back from the jaws of smelly defeat. Suddenly the printers had hit the skids.

The electronics had just enough stamina to drag one printer across the pile and another into a totally unwanted manure bath before they collapsed on the ground in exhaustion.

This ended the first annual Media-Tag-of-War. A perpetual trophy will be the reward for this continuing event, and the printers will get a shot at it next year.

DiGregorio joins Lakers

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers added speed and ball-handling ability to their NBA championship hopes today by acquiring playmaking guard Ernie DiGregorio from the Buffalo Braves.

The Lakers refused to disclose terms of DiGregorio's contract or compensation to the Braves, but it was reported that the Braves would pick up part of the former Providence Friars' $1.2 million free-year.

$2-million pact which had one season to run.

The Lakers said only that he signed a multi-year contract.

"I'm very happy and excited about being here," DiGregorio said. "I look forward to helping the Lakers win the championship this year. I just want to do the thing that is going to help the team win."

DiGregorio, who shot a league record 915 per cent from the foul line last season, said he was "completely rehabilitated" from the knee injury that he suffered during his second year of professional basketball in 1974-75.

"I have no problem whatsoever with my knee," he said.

DiGregorio was the Rookie of the Year during his first season, averaging 15.2 points per game, but tore a cartilage in his left knee in the seventh game of his second year and missed 40 games while recovering from surgery.

Lakers general manager Bill Sharman, who previously held the foul mark record with 302, said he was extremely pleased at having DiGregorio join the Lakers.

DiGregorio is considered one of the best passing and fast-breaking guards in the NBA as well as being the league's best foul shooter. He has a lifetime assist mark of 5.6 per game and a career free throw percentage of 90%.

He was the third player selected in the college draft in 1973 and joined Buffalo, where he led the Braves to their best record, 42-40. The Braves made the playoffs that year for the first time.

During that season, DiGregorio led the league in assists, 8.2 per game, and free throw percentage, 902, and he was the first player to win both MVP since Oscar Robertson did in 1964. His 25 assists in one game against Portland was the highest single game assist total in the NBA in 11 years and still has not been matched.

Vandals expect aerial assault from Rice

MOSCOW — The University of Idaho Vandals open their football season Saturday night (Sept. 10) against Rice clippings. "We're not sure just what type of defense they are going to use this year," Troxel said.

graduation, the Owls have a host of fine quarterbacks including sophomore Jeff Swab who redshirted last year and junior college transfer Mark Snyder.

The Owls' receiving corps boasts the return of Doug Cunningham, a 199-pound, 6-3 senior. Cunningham is the nation's leading receiver among returning collegiate players and is being touted for All-American honors. He missed the last two games of the season last year due to an injury, but still had 57 receptions for 770 yards to his credit.

Complementing Cunningham in the receiving department is wide receiver David Houser (181, 6-0, Jr.). Houser, who got off to a slow start last year, finished with a flurry as he ended up with 101 yards for the season.

Despite Troxel's uncertainty as to how Rice will deploy its offensive and defensive forces, the one thing he is sure of is that the Vandals will be ready to play.

"I really think everybody on the team is ready to go 100 per cent. Sometimes you wonder if you're ever really ready to go into the first game, but I believe we are," Troxel said.

"In this game we want our people to play well and not be awed by the fact they are playing a Southwest Conference team. We want them to play with poise and enthusiasm, and no matter what the odds result, we are going to be happy."

Troxel added that he is a little concerned about

Houston's reputation of being both hot and humid this time of the year and the effect it will have on his team.

"The number of times Rice is known to throw the ball, I don't know if it will be a physical game, but it will be an exhausting one from the standpoint of pass and rush and the heat."

"I'm concerned with the heat, but I'm not going to make a big deal out of it because the kids are in good shape." Offensively, Troxel plans to start Craig Juntonen (62, 195, Sr.) at the quarterback spot and has tentatively set Robert Brooks (5-11, 190, Sr.) and Lance Hubbard (6-2, 225, Soph.) as the running backs. Also expected to see considerable action is quarterback Rocky Tuttle (6-0, 182, Jr.). The receiving corps will consist of Mike Hagadone (6-4, 215, Jr.) and Kirk Allen (5-11, 179, Jr.) at the wide receiver spots, and Rick Mayfield (6-3, 230, Jr.) as the tight end.

The offensive line will be Larry Coombs (6-4, 235, Jr.) and Tom Handel (6-3, 230, Jr.) at the tackle spots; Dave Wagoner (6-10, 250, Jr.) and

Dublin (6-7, 230, Sr.) at guards, and Joe Kramer (6-3, 230, Sr.) at center. Defensively, the Vandals will lineup with All-Big Sky Chris Torrey (6-4, 228, Sr.), Chris Frost (6-3, 212, Sr.), and Robert Caferty (6-3, 200, Jr.) as the linebackers; Tim Sanford (6-2, 235, Sr.) and Tom Emlerson (6-3, 240, Sr.) at ends; and Steve Parker (6-6, 262, Soph.) and All-Big Sky Joe Pellegrini (6-3, 255, Sr.) at tackle.

The defensive secondary boasts four veterans in Bill Clark (5-11, 181, Sr.) at left corner, Rick Lanehan (6-4, 186, Jr.) at strongside safety, Brian Charles (6-2, 190, Sr.) at free safety, and Greg Cannon (6-0, 185, Sr.) at the right corner.

Tuttle will share punting duties with Dimple (The Low) (6-3, 198, Sr.). Lowe, who holds the school field goal record at 53 yards, will handle extra point and field goal attempts.

The only players that are questionable for Saturday night's game are running back Tom Lappano (5-6, 165, Jr.) who is suffering from a hamstring pull, and receiver Dan Davis (6-0, 170, Sr.) who has a bruised thigh muscle.

Idaho hasn't fared well against Southwest Conference teams over the years. In fact, the Vandals have a 6-4 record against teams from the SWC starting with "Texas" in 1959 when UI lost 56-7, and followed by back-to-back defeats to Houston in 1967 and 1968 with scores of 77-6 and 77-3, respectively. The final defeat was at the hands of Iowa Christian University in 1974 when the Vandals lost, 30-14.

On the air

MAGIC VALLEY — Two Magic Valley radio stations are broadcasting this year's University of Idaho Vandal football network.

KYLC of Twin Falls and KBAR of Burley will carry all 11 Idaho games, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Saturday when the Vandals meet Rice.

Bob Curtis will be entering his 20th year as the play-by-play announcer on the Vandal network.

University in Houston, Tex.

Kickoff for the season opener for both teams is 7:30 p.m. (CST). The game will be carried live on the Vandal Radio Network with Bob Curtis handling the play-by-play and Rick Nelson doing the color commentary.

This will be the first meeting between the two schools, and for Idaho head coach Ed Troxel that means there are some unknowns concerning the Ovds of the Southwest Conference.

Troxel said he is concerned about the game because the only information he has on Rice has come from press

"We know they ran the 'Okie' or 5-2 last season, but we don't know what variations they will come out with against us.

"Offensively, we expect them to pass more than they run. That's just from the statistics from the last several years and because their coach Homer Rice has a reputation of being an outstanding quarterback coach."

That isn't an understatement — Troxel's part, as last year Rice had an All-American quarterback in Tommy Kramer who destroyed both school and conference records.

Despite losing Kramer, to

Patriots hope to sign recalcitrants

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — New England Patriots Coach Chuck Fairbanks displayed the first note of optimism Wednesday in on-going contract disputes with All-Pro offensive linemen John Hannah and Leon Gray, a tackle.

Hannah has demanded $1 million, agent Howard Slusher said their contracts be extended. The Patriots had refused to re-open negotiations since both players have several years remaining on their contracts.

Fairbanks said Wednesday in a post-practice news conference that "there is a chance it will be resolved to everyone's satisfaction, as both sides want it to happen."

side linemates early this summer, was expected to visit the Patriots management this Saturday. During the midweek news conference, Fairbanks said Slusher was "unreasonable at times; but he works hard for his clients."

Hannah has threatened to go back to the Alabama farm if he cannot obtain an extension. Gray has not indicated he would walk out.

Hannah, out two weeks with a thigh injury, played well last Sunday against the Washington Redskins. Gray, sidelined by a hamstring pull the past few weeks, returned to practice Wednesday. He is expected to play Sunday when the 11 Patriots close the exhibition season at home against the Atlanta Falcons.

Dietzel has little interest in LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Indiana athletic director Paul Dietzel, who coached Louisiana State's football team to the national championship in 1956, said Wednesday he is not looking for a job at LSU.

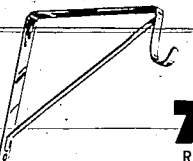

A weekly Baton Rouge newspaper said a group of LSU alumni and former football players, disgruntled with the school's weak record in recent years, is pushing to have Dietzel replace Carl Maddox as athletic director next year.

such under Dietzel in the championship season, will reach the end of his five-year contract next year.

"I'm not looking for another job," said Dietzel, contacted at Bloomington, Ind. "I have not been contacted by anyone at LSU. I'm happily in Indiana." The weekly Enterprise quoted an unidentified former LSU football player as saying, "There is a concerted effort among some ex-players and alumni to try to interest Dietzel in the LSU athletic director's job next year."

Error helps NY nip Indians in 9th

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The New York Yankees, one out away from a two-run single by Mickey Vernon in the ninth inning, threw in on a throwing error by left fielder Bruce Boche in the 10th Wednesday night to defeat the Cleveland Indians 4-3 and increase their lead to 37 games over Boston in the American League East pennant race.

In addition to being aided by Boche's error, which allowed Thurman Munson to score the winning run, the Yankees also benefited from Toronto's 3-2 triumph over the second place Red Sox.

TEXAS 4, Twins 3
BLOOMINGTON (UPI)—Whitey Carter hit his solo homer and later doubled home the post-run in the sixth inning Wednesday night to lift the Texas Rangers and Dock Ellis to a 4-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Body Shoptalk

Blast that pigskin

by Jan Mittleider

Autumn ... is the time of year when thoughts turn to football mania. And our sports-minded family was no exception.

This writer grew up with four brothers who trooped off to daily practice in their funny-looking, padded "unies" every September.

Mom slipped into her short-order specialist position and became highly proficient in maneuvering meals around four different playing schedules. Somehow the household routine readjusted around practice.

Our large front yard boasted patches of grass, too much used by us and the neighborhood kids who practiced punts and passes till dark every night.

I speculated since my involuntary exclusion from the game at age 12. "Girls simply didn't play the game," my exasperated mother would repeat.

I was a super fan for the special four!

Football was terribly important then. Today I think of football in terms of indifference, even disgust, as I reminisce with one brother, whose broad, six-foot-two frame would spark the eye of any linebacker coach.

If that brother could dart back into time and relive those days, he would try out for tennis, golf or tiddly winks... anything but football.

He regrets the whole football experience.

Who could blame him? You can peer at his withered white left arm atrophied by a cast, recently discarded, which he wore for months. A bone splinter from his pelvis had been inserted into a tiny wrist bone, broken and unmoored for years until the pain scored "interference" ... an old football injury.

Watch him walk. He limps from an improperly set broken leg, ripped in three places ... an ole seventh grade football injury.

Somehow the thrill and excitement of the gridiron competition is squelched by the agony of reactivated football wounds. My brother is among thousands of young men who have been permanently scarred by football injury ... not to mention the psychological "burn-out" fatalities.

Does the little league football system deserve revision? Should we blast the pigskin revival?

Star fullback Larry Csonka says "yes" and will not let his two young sons play.

"Take a kid, put him under the pressure of a big championship game before his parents and his entire world and it can be very bad for him," said Csonka. "The whole country loves football, and so do I. But parents don't stop to consider all the things that can go wrong for a young fellow pushed into that kind of pressure."

Orthopedists and physicians are joining the football establishment by questioning the value of tackle football, in particular, for preadolescents.

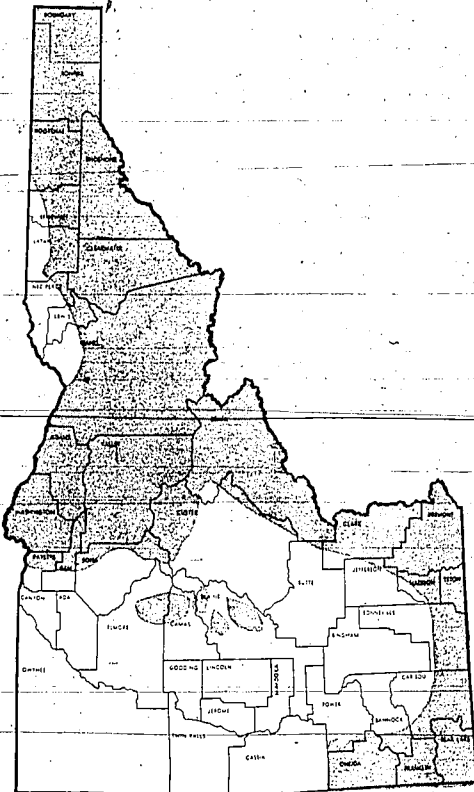

Every play poses an injury threat to junior high students whose bones are soft and still growing. There is a risk of possible permanent damage to the child's growing body through injury, to "growth lines" located at the ends of bones.

The danger, doctors agree, is not so much from the injury resulting from vigorous stress on the muscles and ligaments attached to growth lines, but from failure to recognize the stress and begin proper treatment.

Because of this lack of maturation, the illustrious Penn State coach who turned down a million-dollar pro contract, Joe Paterno, feels that midget football should be abolished.

"Kids of junior high school age are just not ready, physically or emotionally, for organized football programs," says Paterno. "Bones and muscles should reach a stage of maturity where there will be no permanent damage in case of injury."

Perhaps the young prospective player could take up badminton, racketball, golf ... tiddly winks ... anything but that crazy football ... at least until he is older.

Idaho elk range

ELK RANGE throughout most of Idaho. Major herds are located in the Lochsa, Selway, Clearwater and Salmon River drainages and the upper Snake River drainage. The herds closest to the Magic Valley are in the headwaters of the Little Wood, Big Wood and Boise River drainages. Shaded areas indicate the approximate extent of elk range.

Fires help habitat

A WILLOW tree, a prime species of elk browse, reproduces one growing season after it was burned. The crown height was reduced from 25 feet to 7 feet by fire, greatly increasing the availability of browse. The F&G wishes to initiate a policy of controlled burning on selected elk range to increase the size of the herds.

Idaho elk kill falls while herds grow

By JEFF SHIER
Times-News writer

IDAHO — Last year in Idaho hunters killed 4,135 elk (legally). The year before 8,861 were killed (legally).

This decrease in the legal kill is resulting in an increase in elk populations across Idaho, and the Fish and Game Department hopes to continue to increase this population through 1990.

As the population increases, the downward slide of the take will reverse itself, according to F&G projections. If sought-after objectives are reached, hunters will be able to harvest 14,500 elk in 1990.

With elk season beginning this month, now is a good time to take a look at the future, and the past, of Idaho's elk.

Serious hunters and lovers of wildlife should reflect on the future of their state's wildlife of (all varieties) this fall, because the F&G has just completed the draft of their management plan for the next 15 years. The draft plan is available to the public now, and public hearings on the plan will be held beginning in October.

The Rocky Mountain Elk is a large member of the deer family. The name elk was supplied by early European settlers (The elk is related to the European Red Deer.) The Shawnee Indian name of wapiti is also still widely used.

Elk are tawny to yellowish-gray in coloration, with chestnut head and neck, shaggy mane, dark legs and blackish underparts, with a conspicuous straw-colored rump patch.

The bulls average about 600 pounds at maturity with large individuals reaching 800 pounds and five feet in height at the shoulder.

Elk possess sharp sight and hearing, which combined with their incredible sense of smell makes them a challenge to hunt. They are extremely wary animals and generally only those with considerable backwoods savvy have the skills to outwit the elk.

Elk calves are born in May and early June and depend exclusively on mothers' milk for the first 4-6 weeks of life, but are able to browse with their parents by mid-July. Studies in Idaho indicate elk mothers produce about a 75 per cent calf crop.

Because elk can utilize coarser browse and are larger and able to reach higher than deer, they tend to exclude deer when they move into an area.

Bulls sprout their antlers in April and lose the velvet covering the antlers in late August, near the beginning of the mating season. During this time of year, the bugling of bulls resounds throughout the forest.

Bull elk rarely live past the age of 12, and usually will not develop antlers large enough to score the 375 points necessary to make the Boone and Crockett record book until they are about eight years old.

The largest elk ever taken in Idaho was killed by Elmer Bacus in 1954 on the Wisler River drainage. The rack scored 414 1/2 points and measured 51 inches on each main beam from top to bottom and 42 inches across (inside measure).

The world-record elk was taken in Colorado in 1899 by John Plute. It scored 412 1/2 points and measured 55 1/2 inches on one beam, 59 1/2 on the other and 45 1/2 inches across. In Idaho the largest herds of elk are located in the Lochsa, Clearwater, Selway, St. Joe and Salmon River drainages and in the upper reaches of the Snake River drainage near Yellowstone.

The herds nearest the Magic Valley are those located in the headwaters of the Little Wood River, the headwaters of the Boise River and the headwaters of the Big Wood River.

Prior to the mid-1830s elk were rare in Idaho. But the huge burns that ravaged the Lochsa and Selway River drainages improved elk habitat tremendously in that region. In 1945 over 4,000 elk were killed in the state, compared to an annual kill of around 500 in the 1920s.

By 1952, the kill had risen to 7,000 animals and reached 15,000 in 1955. Annual harvest leveled off in the 15,000 range throughout the late '50s and '60s, reaching a peak of 17,000 in 1968.

But more hunters were spending more time in the field, with an increasingly poor success ratio; to take out the same number of elk. And the number of elk in the state was decreasing due to hunting combined with the natural evolution of the plant community on the burned over areas. Elk thrive on the low brush plant types prevalent after forest fires, but the eventual replacement of the elk's favorite foods by high brush and small trees had a predictable negative effect on the size of the herds.

Thus in about 1970, the F&G began to cut back on the take gradually through restrictive hunting regulations.

Despite the restrictions, elk populations continued to decline. In 1975 the F&G estimated there were 50,600 elk left in the state; down from an estimated 92,000 in 1960.

So in 1976 the F&G took the drastic and unprecedented step of restricting hunters to shooting only at elk with antlers.

The F&G hopes to see the state elk population grow to 60,900 animals; 72,600 by 1985; and 86,800 by 1990. According to department projections, the harvest should rise even faster than the population.

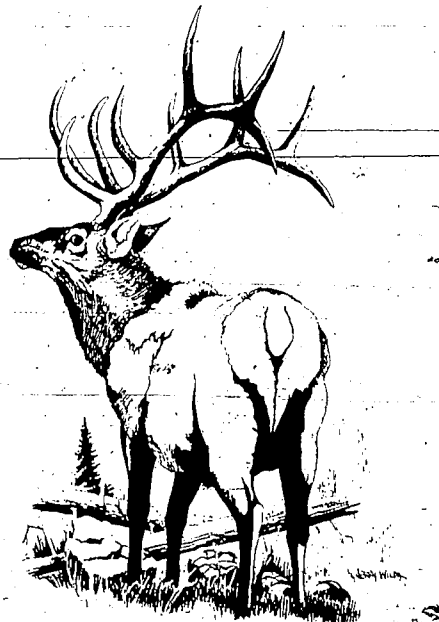

If its population goals are reached, the F&G projects a 1989 harvest of 7,400 animals; a 1985 take of 2,200, and a 1990 kill of 14,500.

Strict hunting regulations alone will not bring about the desired objectives. The F&G must convince the Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management that controlled burning is an acceptable and desirable management tool, and that improving elk habitat is the most beneficial use of the land which now serves as prime elk range.

It is the F&G's position that prescribed burning is absolutely necessary to enlarge the elk herds because it is the only way to maintain the type of plant community which is most productive of preferred elk forage.

If the F&G is successful, the future looks rosy for Idaho's elk and elk hunters.

Right now, however, elk archery season is already in full swing and the general elk season opens later this month. The general season in the Idaho Primitive Area opens Sept. 14. The general season throughout most of Idaho, including Hoggan, opens Sept. 26, and the season in some sections of eastern Idaho opens Oct. 12.

Wild edibles: golden rod

By MARK & MELINDA MILLER

MAGIC VALLEY — It seems everywhere we go, golden rod is there. It has an extensive growth habitat covering all of North America and Canada. Locally, it can be found from 3,500 to 8,000 feet.

It usually grows in bunches, along roadsides and streams and in meadows and gardens.

Look very closely at its terminal clusters of golden-yellow flowers and note that each tiny flower is a miniature sunflower about three millimeters long. Golden rod, thus, belongs to the composite family, with the species "Solidago canadensis" most common in our region.

Golden rod has been used for many ailments; the tea is used for kidney and bladder infections, colds, hayfever and tuberculosis; the leaves can be chewed to relieve a sore throat or cooked as a potherb in stews and soups. It also has astringent properties which make it an excellent cleanser for sores or a distended lower tract.

The tea of golden rod has a mild, oriental flavor which can be used to enhance the taste of less palatable herbs. Its fine scent makes it a good air freshener when hung to dry inside your home.

Or for a new perfume, place fresh blossoms in a bottle of denatured alcohol for about two weeks until you have the desired strength. Golden rod has much to offer us, if we'll learn its values and put it to work. Pick some goldenrod and make your nose happy.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You want to get some encouragement for what you have in mind and that requires considerably more effort on your part. Keep working at creative goals so that you have a satisfactory situation when conditions break in your behalf.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not a good day for pleasure. Complete what you have begun and reap right benefits from it. Take time out for needed rest.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study whatever is causing problems of home, and do something constructive about them. A new project is not good to get until you have all the facts and figures.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use particular care on the road and avoid an accident that could otherwise occur. Tact is necessary with one who is overenthusiastic.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Work out monetary affairs efficiently and intelligently. Listen to the advice of an influential businessman.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You doubt if you are making the right kind of progress, so be sure to do something about it constructively. Do not attend a group affair that could spell trouble. Take better care of health.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use your energies wisely and get rid of some very limited condition you have been laboring under. Try to be more understanding with mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Don't get involved in an unsavory situation that a pal is embroiled in or you get into trouble also. Avoid group affairs where arguments could ensue. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take no risks where name is concerned and be sure to rise above the petty. Use a different tack with credit matters and get right results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Gather more data before you get into a new project that appeals to you. Be more circumspect and avoid getting into or making trouble. Think along more conservative lines.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go over your account matters well and then pay bills. Make collections that are correct. Don't argue with mate but quietly eliminate cause of trouble. Think clearly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Instead of arguing with associates, be more cooperative and operate on a more intelligent basis. Back others who are deserving and gain their gratitude.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be exact in the performance of any work you have to do and derive good benefits from it. Forget going off on any tangents.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will need encouragement in order to do good work and to build the ego. Much creativity here and of large scope, so be sure to prepare now for an adequate education.

"Why do adventure tales repeatedly refer to 'the Yukon' as being in Alaska? The Yukon Territory is in Canada." So inquires a client. True, enough, but most of the Yukon River crosses Alaska. Confusing, what? Also confusing is the whereabouts of the Klondike, goal of the gold hunters. It's likewise in Canada's Yukon Territory, not Alaska.

"Our Language man would like to point out that the word 'bra' comes from the Welsh 'brattach' which was a sort of cloth used to make a child's pinafore."

You say you've never seen a minnow that's four feet long? Such there be. Squawfish are of the minnow family and they get to be that lengthy.

If Mariene Dietrich didn't use the diminutive of her first name, she'd be known as Magdalene.

UNCLE TOM'S

Q. "How many restaurants are there in this country called 'Uncle Tom's Cabin?'"

A. Now there you have me. Do know there's a restaurant in West Berlin called Dinkel Tom's Hutte. What's remarkable about that place is it has survived two world wars wherein Germany and the United States fought mightily.

Q. "Who were the Casquette Girls?"

A. A batch of French girls sent to Mississippi about 1721 to be wives of the colonists. The French government gave each of them a little money and a trunk full of clothes.

Q. "I keep seeing references to the 'FM's' what's an 'FM' anyway?"

A. The formerly married. They include the separated as well as the divorced. And they number 11 million in the U.S. now.

Q. "How much does a Rolls-Royce cost?"

A. The Silver Shadow, $38,700. The Camargue, $90,000. And in between. Would-be buyers have to sign up and wait two years.

INDENTURED

Certain vintage contracts generations ago used to be torn raggidly in half with each party to the agreement keeping a half. If necessary later, the ragged edges of the halves could be fitted together to prove the validity of the whole. Such contracts, being indentured, were called indentures. They were the kind of agreements used by New World employers to bring over Old World servants, laborers and craftsmen. These worked a given length of time to pay off their passage. They were referred to as "indentured" because of those torn contracts.

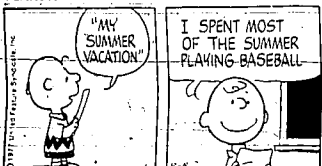

How many Canadian entertainers can you identify who've ended themselves to U.S. audiences? Start with Raymond Massey, Lorne Greene, "Hit Parade" singer Gisel McKenzie. And what's the name of that girl who sings "Snow Bird"?

Symms opposes canal treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, said Wednesday the "giveaway" of the Panama Canal "to a pro-communist dictator" will severely weaken the United States' military strength.

That President Carter's support of the treaty "is an attempt to coerce the Congress into approval."

"Now that Panamanians have had their hopes raised and have been led to believe that they somehow have a right to the canal, rejection could have serious consequences."

Symms said the United States depends on the canal for transportation of at least 70 percent of the U.S.'s total trade, as well as transportation of strategic naval vehicles.

"To turn the canal over to a pro-communist dictator whose cynical political cohort is Fidel Castro is an action that will seriously effect world peace," Symms said.

Treaty opponents meet to voice support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opponents of the Panama Canal treaty, massed on the steps of the U.S. Capitol Wednesday and urged the Senate not to ratify them.

Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, was loudly cheered when he said a national referendum should be held on the treaties.

"These treaties ought to be bound in yellow instead of blue," McClure said.

House following the treaty signing ceremonies. The crowd, spread across the Capitol steps where American presidents traditionally take their oath of office, carried banners in red, white and blue letters declaring "Keep Our Canal."
