

Lance plane sale profit $40,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Concluding 20 hours of testimony that could make or break his public career, Bert Lance disclosed Saturday he sold a plane to his own bank for $40,000 profit in 1975 and then took 1,300 free rides on it.

Lance's long, defensive account of the aircraft issue — including disclosure that the free trips sometimes mixed politics and pleasure with business — completed his third and final appearance before the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee.

The rare, 7½-hour Saturday session was a grueling, tense affair in which Republicans repeatedly questioned the ethics and legality of Lance's private financial and banking affairs.

But Lance gave no ground and, when the session ended at 4:45 p.m. MDT, President Carter's burly, seemingly unflappable budget director thanked the panel for his chance to correct "the haltruths, distortions and unfounded charges" leveled against him. Then he strode up to shake hands with each committee member.

"This hearing has been a personal ordeal for me and my family," Lance said in his closing statement. "I am satisfied that the American people now know me much better."

"I shall return to my duties as director of the Office of Management and Budget with even a firmer sense of responsibility and dedication."

Carter has indicated his decision whether to retain his old friend and adviser in that post would depend on how well he acquitted himself in his showdown with the senators.

Committee chairman Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., told Lance he sympathized with the "grueling three days" he had undergone — about 20 hours in the witness chair. "I am commingled, his complete patience and courtesy and good humor under most difficult circumstances."

For Lance, the toughest moments came last, when Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., raised the airplane issue, challenged the ethics and legality of both his sale of the plane and his free use of it, and summed up the moral charge at the heart of all the allegations in the tangled Lance case:

"His standards in the private sector," said Percy, "are not acceptable for a high government post."

Bullied by Percy, Lance said he had sold the 10-year old personal plane to the Atlanta bank he headed in 1975 and then used a free-of-charge to attend football games and the Mardi Gras, and 16-ferry former National Chairman Robert Strauss — and Democratic bigwig to Jimmy Carter's 1976 presidential campaign opener.

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — A would-be robber walked into a restaurant and ran into hard luck — he couldn't find anyone to rob.

George Balle, owner of Balle's BAR-B-Q, was in the back room and saw the masked man enter the building Friday. He ran upstairs to call police.

Balle said the man fled when he "couldn't find anyone to wait on him."

Woodcutting worthwhile

By JEFF SHER
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — Does a wood burning stove or fireplace really cut home heating bills, or are thousands of amateur lumberjacks wasting their time and effort?

Seventy per cent of the woodcutters questioned in a recent Times-News survey conducted at the designated wood cutting area in the South Hills expressed the belief that cutting their own wood saves them money by reducing their heating bills!

The other 30 per cent didn't expect to save any money, but thought the effort was worthwhile anyway because of the pleasure they derive from burning fires in their home.

Among those who believe that wood heating is not only enjoyable but also economical, estimates of savings ranged from less than 10 per cent of their bills up to 75 per cent, or $250-$300 per winter.

But many of the people questioned by the Times-News who expect to save money by heating with wood have no idea how much they will actually save. Most of these people will be using wood heat for the first time this winter. They are a few of the many who are returning to the economy and reliability of wood heat in the wake of the energy shortages suffered across the country in recent years.

Those who install wood stoves will acquire a source of heat that cannot be disrupted by a wind storm or a ruptured pipeline, but whether or not they will save money depends on several factors.

Neither Idaho Power Co. or Intermountain Gas Co. will venture a guess as to how much gas or electric bills can be reduced by the use of wood heat, for the same reasons they will not make estimates of average heating costs.

Spokesmen for both utilities agree that a stove or fireplace may not save a homeowner any money at all.

The reasons for the great variations in savings include house layout, stove placement, stove design, insulation efficiency, location of thermostat relative to the source of wood heat, and family energy consciousness and habits.

For instance, a poorly designed fireplace may actually suck more heat out of a house than it returns, or a house may be so designed that a fireplace only heats one room adequately.

Dual pegging marks Hansen terms

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — It can be found on a side wall in the Administration Building at the University of Idaho — a bronze plaque listing a handful of names.

Most of the Moscow students who glance at the tiny water-worn bits, if only in envy. For the 21 persons listed are the only students in the 85-year history of the university who have maintained a perfect, straight "A" grade average during all four years of their college education.

One of the names on the plaque is that of former Idaho Congressman Orval Hansen who represented Idaho's Second Congressional District between 1968 and 1976.

Born in Firth in 1926, Hansen grew up on a family farm and was an active member — and state president of — Future Farmers of America. After Idaho Falls High School (where he lettered in boxing and football) Hansen spent four years at the University of Idaho, graduating with highest honors.

Always interested in politics, Hansen then signed on as a staff junior assistant with Idaho Sen. Henry Dworshak. While working days with Dworshak, the young staff member attended George Washington University Law School at night.

A few years later Hansen earned a prestigious Rotary Foundation Fellowship for advanced study at the University of London. While on a lecturing tour for that university, he met and married his wife, June.

Returning to Idaho, the young attorney plunged into politics, serving four terms in the Idaho House of Representatives and one term in the Senate. Two of those terms were spent as House majority leader.

An unsuccessful bid for Congress in 1962 left the Idaho Falls lawyer deeply in debt. Determined to repay the debts from his own pocket, Hansen dropped out of politics for several years and returned to full time legal practice. In that profession he had already gained a reputation as one of the sharper minds in the state.

In 1968, the incumbent Second District Congressman, George Hansen (no relation), left his seat to challenge Democratic Sen. Frank Church. Still possessing a strong interest in politics, Orval Hansen then sought the vacant congressional seat and won. He was re-elected in 1970 and 1972.

Hansen's congressional career was an unusual six-year period that led him to be pegged as a bright, conservative representative in Washington, D.C., but something of a "liberal" in Idaho. Ralph Nader's Congress Project would, later write of him, "Although his party's hierarchy in Idaho has never really trusted Hansen because of his so-called liberal leanings, the only direction in which the congressman has leaned since coming to Washington has been toward the White House and the Republican congressional leadership."

Idaho GOP primed

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — Serving notice they are ready for a fight, leaders of Idaho's Republican Party met in Boise Saturday to elect a new state chairman, take swipes at Democratic Gov. John Evans and glow about the "socialist" actions of President Jimmy Carter.

Idaho Falls attorney Dennis M. Olsen won the nod of the general committee to be the GOP's new state chairman, defeating Bliss business man, Bob Erkins, in an 87 to 69 vote victory.

The post had been temporarily filled by Dick Bower, American Falls, since Aug. 2, when then-chairman Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuttle, resigned.

Olsen immediately leveled charges of incompetence and inefficiency against the Democratic administration of Gov. John Evans. The Malad Democrat is a "weak administrator" and "out of touch with what the people of Idaho want," Olsen said.

Olsen also blasted the Democratic Party for proposing "a good deal of legislation that results in regulations and restrictions similar to what are seen in socialist societies." The U.S. is not a socialist country, Olsen said but warned, "We are on that road under the Democratic leadership."

Criticizing those "who say the U.S. is over the hill," Olsen brought the applauding crowd of 130 to its feet by declaring "I will never in my lifetime accept that conclusion."

Olsen acknowledged a tough primary contest could develop in the Republican Party for the seat now held by Congressman George Hansen, Pocatello. Olsen said he would use his influence as party chairman to try to insure that funds raised during primary contests and left unspent would be used to support the campaign of a successful Republican candidate in the general election.

In some past elections, charges have been made that unsuccessful primary election candidates kept unspent campaign monies, as personal property, rather than turn them over to the party for use in the general election.

Talk of next year's elections dominated conversations among the top Republicans who gathered from throughout Idaho for the state chairman contest.

Action costly

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Legislature's vote to rescind its ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) may have cost Sun Valley a national convention, the Idaho Commission on Women's Programs said Friday.

Ruth Pauley of Boise, chairman of the commission, told the commission Friday that the National Women's Commission was considering Sun Valley as a possible site for its national convention, but the site was ruled out after organizers discovered Idaho's stand on the ERA.

Jackson Hole, Wyoming, was eventually selected as the site for the convention. Wyoming has ratified the ERA and has taken no action to rescind that ratification.

Idaho was the second state to ratify the ERA in 1972 almost immediately after proposed by the Congress, but efforts were made to rescind that ratification every session of the legislature since 1972. Last year a rescission resolution was finally passed by both houses.

Many constitutional experts are of the opinion that state efforts to rescind an earlier ratification of a constitutional amendment have no effect and the earlier ratification counts.

Anne Vollbrecht, a member of the women's commission from Idaho Falls, welcomed the news that Sun Valley had been boycotted because of Idaho's stand on the ERA. "That's good news," she said. "When it comes right down to it, the economic sanctions may get results and change some minds."

Power use up

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Power Company said Friday its customers used 4.3 per cent more energy so far this year than for the same period last year, despite efforts to get customers to conserve 10 per cent.

Idaho Power spokesman Bob Brown said the main reason for the increase in energy use is the more than 10,000 new customers that have been added in the company's service area in the last 12 months. However, Brown also said existing customers have not all made an effort to conserve energy.

The fact that some people are conserving makes the company's program a success anyway, Brown said. "Any conservation is better than none," he maintained.

The company sold 5.7 billion kilowatt hours during the first eight months of 1977 compared with 5.5 billion kilowatt hours for the first eight months of 1976, Brown said.

Symms loses round

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First District Congressman Steve Symms was overwhelmingly defeated Friday on the floor of the House of Representatives when he tried to repeal the entire minimum wage law.

The defeat came during a House debate on a minimum wage bill that would raise the current minimum of $2.30 to $2.65 next year. Symms offered an amendment to repeal the existing minimum wage law instead.

Gem budget chief quits

BOISE (UPI) — State Budget Director Harlan W. "Hal" Turner resigned Friday after disclosure of his guilty plea to a misdemeanor charge of criminal trespass the prosecutor said had "sexual overtones."

Turner, 44, submitted the resignation, effective immediately, during a telephone conversation with Gov. John V. Evans after taping of a television interview show in which the charge came to light.

Evans interviewed on the KTVB program "Viewpoint," disclosed the charge and then talked later with Turner who was in eastern Idaho on business. It was not until after the program taping the governor said, that he learned Turner received a maximum two years' probation and mandatory medical counseling from Magistrate Gordon Lamm.

He said he will name one of Turner's assistants, Shirli Boyce, to serve in Turner's dual role as director of the Executive Office of the Governor and administrator of the Division of Budget, Policy Planning and Coordination.

Turner had been with the state since 1971 and division administrator since July, 1974. He was paid $30,825 a year. He was reported in eastern Idaho and not immediately available for comment.

The governor said he first learned of the trespass incident from the Department of Law Enforcement last July. This was before Turner entered a plea to the charge. Evans said he conferred with Law Enforcement Director Kelly Pearce and with Ada County Prosecutor David H. Leroy about it.

Turner, he said, denied any sexual misconduct and said simply that he was drunk when surprised in a neighbor's home at 1:20 a.m. last July 17. Leroy said he was charged with criminal trespass July 27 after a nine-day investigation in which the victim picked him from a police lineup.

Asked to explain the charge, to which Turner pleaded guilty and received a withheld sentence Aug. 21, Leroy said:

"The criminal trespass law can be used to cover many types of criminal difficulty. In this case there were some indications of personal problems where counseling would be of value in preventing recurrence."

Then, asked if those problems were of a sexual nature, he said:

"The original allegations of the victim indicated the possibility of some sexual overtones to the incident."

When Turner appeared in court for sentencing he was ordered to make restitution for changing of locks at the home of the victim. He also received the probation and the order for counseling at that time.

Evans said Turner's denials of wrongdoing beyond drunkenness and trespass were so strong that he did not take any action against him and did not order up his own investigation into the matter even though Turner served his administration in a highly sensitive role.

The governor said he was unaware of the probation and the counseling until Friday

180 aliens rounded up near Boise

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — U.S. Immigration authorities have rounded up some 180 illegal aliens in the Treasure Valley in the past three days, according to Harry Rhodes, of the Boise Immigration and Naturalization Service office.

Rhodes said the roundup was an effort to deal with the large number of illegal aliens in the area. "We're merely trying to cope with a situation that is uncontrollable and out of hand."

However, Ricardo Garza, head of the Caldwell training center of the Idaho Migrant Council said the raids against illegal aliens are always more common at this time of year than at other times.

"I don't know that this is the way it is this time, but it has happened that when it's time to get paid, they get deported," Garza said.

The aliens, who were mainly Mexican nationals, were picked up in fields and labor camps and housing areas throughout the Treasure Valley, Rhodes said.

Trial set for Olds

VALE, Ore. (UPI) — Michael A. Olds, 34, who has been convicted of one murder, will go on trial Dec. 13 in Vale Circuit Court for the death of an Ione, Ore., woman.

Judge Frank Yraegen said Friday pre-trial matters will be taken up the previous day and the trial will commence the following morning.

Olds is charged in Malheur County with the murder of Mary Lindsay, 75, Ione, Ore., whose body was found along Highway 20 near Juntura in late April. An Olds request for a change of venue earlier was denied by Yraegen.

He already has been convicted in LaGrange of the murder of Stephen Schmer, a College Place, Ore., taxi driver.

Congress OK's farm-food bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After eight months of argument, maneuver and compromise, Congress has produced a farm-food package containing stepped-up help for farmers and sweeping changes in the federal food stamp program.

A final compromise version of the bill, which won Senate approval Sept. 9, cleared the House on a 283-197 vote Friday. It was expected to be signed by President Carter, although it included crop supports in excess of those sought by the White House.

In addition to farm and food aid running through 1981 to replace programs expiring Sept. 30, the bill provides expanded agricultural and nutrition research, an extension of the Food for Peace program, authority for grain stockpiles and acreage control programs, and a pilot program for converting surplus grains into motor fuel.

Congressional experts estimated the farm-food package could cost from $11.5 billion up to $12 billion a year, more than $2 billion over the level Carter initially favored.

The legislation extends the food-stamp program for four years. Carter's welfare reform package would end the program sooner.

The legislation raises 1977

grain supports to help farmers groaning under a growing surplus which has reduced prices below production costs in many cases.

Wheat income support payments which have been at zero since 1973 will leap to a record $1.2 billion this year and the market value of the corn crop will be increased by about $1.5 billion.

Rosalynn writes Carters' checks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the first family: It's Rosalynn Carter who writes the checks.

Visiting editors asked President Carter Friday about the checks. His reply, released Saturday by the White House, was that "I never write any checks. I haven't written three checks in the last five years. My wife does all the check writing."

He added "I don't excuse overdrafts" but admitted they happened in his family.

"If, for instance, he said, 'in my own personal account my wife should buy a dress and give a $25 check to pay for it and the check bounced because we were overdrawn, they would not send a sheriff..."

Instead, knowing he had "$50,000 or $100,000 in my warehouse account," the bank would honor Rosalynn's check and ask him to move money to cover it from the warehouse to the personal account.

The bank would not, he said, "call me on the phone and say 'You have disgraced yourself by having an overdraft.'"

Judge halts execution

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — "Does that mean they won't ever, ever execute Johnny?" the ailing mother of convicted murderer John Spenkelnik asked when told he had been granted a stay just 63 hours before he had been scheduled to die on Monday.

"Johnny would never kill anyone unless he absolutely had to," Mrs. Lois Spenkelnik, 56, told a reporter Saturday. "He's too gentle."

She received news of the stay in a Tallahassee restaurant Friday after a 45-hour, 2,322-mile trip from Beuna Park, Calif. The Spenkelnik family, including two sisters, a brother-in-law, niece and nephew of the condemned killer, continued Saturday their trip to the state prison at Starke.

A federal judge granted the stay, pending a hearing Wednesday on claims of racial discrimination in applying the death penalty in Florida. Both Spenkelnik and his victim, a drifter, were white and defense attorneys contend that a person who kills a white person is more likely to get the

Cause found

CHEYENNE (UPI) — A faulty valve has been blamed for the oil field fire which killed four men in the Red Desert last week.

John Chambers of the Occupational Health and Safety Commission Friday read a statement released by OSHA which said a ball-valve, used to stop combustible condensate, was stuck in one of three valves at the base of one of the 16 tanks which burned.

The oil tanks, owned by Davco Oil Co. of Casper, were destroyed Sept. 8 in a spectacular blaze which killed four men and injured two others.

death penalty than one who murders a black person.

The judge will reschedule the execution if he rejects the argument, but regardless of what happens the case is expected to go to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Mrs. Spenkelnik, who weighs nearly 300 pounds, spent seven weeks in the hospital between March and June with blood clots in her lungs. She had not seen Johnny for four years and risked the trip against doctor's orders.

Torrijos mad at bugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Security Agency eavesdropped on Panamanian chief Omar Torrijos in 1974, learning intimate details including his sexual activities, Scripps-Howard News Service reported Saturday.

When Torrijos learned about the surveillance he threatened U.S. Panama Canal treaty negotiators with making it an international incident, Scripps-Howard said.

Torrijos "blew up, hit the ceiling and took it right to the American negotiators," according to a knowledgeable Senate source, the report said.

Torrijos then threatened to give details to the press.

"That's the last thing the American government wanted that year, what all the Nixon mess going on," said the source.

Defaults worry US officials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — in a "doomsday scenario," American officials expressed fears Saturday developing nations, impoverished by skyrocketing oil prices, could threaten the world economy if they started defaulting on American bank loans.

A Senate Foreign Relations Committee report said many American banks have made extensive — possibly excessive — loans to developing nations which need the money to pay oil import prices that have jumped 600 percent since 1973.

The American banks are worried those nations are so broke they "will find it more in their interest to simply default or repudiate their external debts rather than to have to continue borrowing just to repay old loans," the report said.

"And if this happens, a domino effect could take place in which other debtor countries follow suit, the banks panic and start calling in their international loans, the stock market drops precipitously, and the international capital market collapses," the report said.

Gas producers' ranks split

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Natural gas producers are mounting a new campaign to end federal gas price controls, but their ranks are split on the eve of a Senate showdown with administration advocates of even more widespread regulations.

Gas producers have set their sights on total elimination of the control over wellhead gas prices exercised since 1954 by the Federal Power Commission.

A newly formed splinter group of small independent producers, however, is pushing a less drastic compromise, fearing that total deregulation does no hope of winning congressional approval.

The producers' battle with the administration will be joined in the coming week as the Senate takes up the natural gas portion of President Carter's energy plan.

Gas industry officials lost a similar fight in the House, which rejected deregulation in favor of Carter's plan to set a ceiling price of $1.75 per thousand cubic feet and to extend federal controls from interstate gas sales to the presently unregulated intrastate market.

Cartel backs Puerto Rico

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says he will support Puerto Rican statehood, independence or commonwealth status — whatever the island's inhabitants decide.

But, he told visiting editors Friday, he will resist United Nations interference in Puerto Rico's future.

The transcript of his meeting with out-of-town editors was released Saturday.

Asked whether he would object to a U.N. fact-finding team going to Puerto Rico, he replied:

"Yes, I would object to that. I don't have any objection to any analysis of the question, but I think my own statement and the statement of all the leaders of our country that whatever Puerto Rico's people want to do is acceptable to me. If the Puerto Rican people want to be a commonwealth, I will support it. If the Puerto Rican people want to be a state, I will support it. If the Puerto Rican people want to be an independent nation, I will support it."

When a home displays the ENERGY CHECKED sign, it has met one of four levels of energy conservation established by Intermountain Gas Company. Each level is designed to fit within four different budgets. So whatever the cost of your home, it can still be energy efficient.

Dual pegging marks Hansen's terms

 His eventual defeat in 1974, Hansen would later explain, would in part be due to a distortion of his voting record by his opponent George Hansen, in an effort making him appear more liberal than he actually was.
 While in Washington, Hansen drafted or helped to draft several significant pieces of legislation. Included among these were the landmark 1972 Election Reform Act (which required reporting of campaign contributions and expenditures), legislation restricting the National Associated Businessmen, and named "Friend of Education of the Year," in 1974, by Idaho teachers.
 Hansen also quickly established himself as an authority on nuclear power, and exerted significant influence during his tenure on the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. His interest in this area has continued, and the former Congressman now practices law with a Washington, D.C. firm specializing in energy matters.
 "We do a lot of work on energy problems, especially nuclear," Hansen told the Times-News.
 "We have clients in the business of manufacturing, selling and building nuclear equipment. We also have a number of foreign clients, primarily utilities and companies with whom this country has agreements for the supply of technology or fuel. We also do some work for U.S. governmental agencies."
 Hansen has recently used his expertise in testimony before the House International Relations Committee. "They asked my opinion on some nuclear matters," Hansen said. "I also find it can be helpful in working with the executive branch not just on energy but in talking with people about how the legislative process works. I've met with James Schlesinger a few times."
 Hansen recalled that his entire congressional service had been under the Nixon administration, and while he praised the Californian for some actions, Hansen also attributed part of his narrow, 2,900 vote 1974 defeat to Watergate backlash.
 "He was a superb international politician," Hansen said of Nixon. "He had a good grasp of international politics, and he acted with great skill in dealing with the Soviet Union and China. Those were of the highest order, and were his best work. I think, though, his major problem was that he had to be in politics at the level he had to have an ego that didn't quit. Anyone at that level of power has to have that. But it took on the atmosphere of the presidency."
 "And that's not alone with Nixon. It may be an overstatement to say that he just got tripped up in the atmosphere that since he was President his actions were necessarily right. He betrayed the trust of the people."

 Hansen recalled that "My primary defeat in 1974 was the day after his confession, the day when he admitted for the first time that, yes, he was implicated in the controversy. That admission was a large factor in my losing. It was the worst day in the world when I take an incumbent running for office. I was telling people I felt I had an obligation to hear all the facts before I made up my mind to vote one way or another, and both sides were angry at that — the Nixon haters and those who supported him."
 Hansen added, "Of course I was an incumbent and my opponent wouldn't have to vote on it, so I was the one who had to take a stand. He made the most of that."
 As the evidence in the Watergate hearings mounted, Hansen said he came to the conclusion "I would have voted for at least two of the articles of impeachment, the first two, which I felt were the strongest. I had no questions once I saw the evidence. After the committee reported, and knowing the character of those committee members from having worked with them in Congress, I made my decision in a matter of weeks."

 Hansen said his relationship with the Nixon administration varied from bill to bill. "My biggest disappointment was in not seeing enacted into law a comprehensive and early-enacted education bill. We tried to get cooperation between the administration and the Congress, and we made a lot of progress. A good, effective bill was passed, but it was vetoed by the President. You just have to have an administration who will work to pass and implement such a bill."
 Still, Hansen recalls much of his Congressional service with pleasure. "I suppose my accomplishments I'm most proud of would relate to the things we as an Idaho delegation did together for Idaho. I'm especially proud of our work on passing the Sawtooth National Recreation Area. That had been talked about for many years, but we finally got it enacted in 1971."

 Hansen's testimony for the SNRA took on a special significance in Congress when it became known the Congressman was an avid mountain climber and back-packer. Not only had he scaled the 13,766 foot Grand Teton mountain (when 48 years old), but campaign brochures routinely included a picture of the silver-haired Idahoan rappelling down the face of a sheer rock cliff. When James E. Schlesinger made an inspection visit of the National Reactor Testing Station near Arco, Hansen took the secretary of defense on an extensive hiking tour of the nearby Big Horn Crags in the Idaho Primitive Area.
 At 51 years of age, Hansen is young enough to return to Idaho — and Idaho politics. And he mentions the issue has been broached in several discussions.
 "I have no plans at the moment," Hansen said. "But I do want to keep in touch and help where I can. I'm participating in politics now in a different way, but you never close the door to opportunities that may come along."

emphasized that no specific disallowances were changed in the case, even though the lump sum had been paid.
 Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewisville, asked Estep about the status of the 12 cases that have been referred to the Attorney General's office and to the office of the U.S. Attorney. Estep said he had been contacted by both offices with questions about the cases, but so far no charges of fraud or other illegality have been filed by either office.

proved patient care, Estep said the department would disallow the associated increased costs.
 The committee chairman, Jim Underwood, who originally raised the questions about the disallowed costs and the proposed leasing arrangements, also questioned Estep about a case involving a Coeur d'Alene nursing home which was found to have overcharged the state approximately $135,000. The state eventually negotiated a settlement with the nursing home that called for the state to reimburse the operator approximately $20,000 despite the state audit.
 Estep explained that the lump sum settlement was made necessary because some of the state's regulations used in the case had not been properly promulgated. That situation has subsequently been fixed, and Estep assured the committee that the settlement would not set a precedent in future cases. He

Questionable claims recovered

BOISE (UPI) — None of the nearly $3.8 million of unacceptable claims by nursing homes recovered by audits earlier this year are still in the hands of the nursing homes, the Governor's Blue Ribbon Committee on Health Care was told Saturday.
 Bob Estep, head of the audit bureau of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, told the committee all of the non-reimbursable claims submitted by nursing home operators have either been recovered by the department or were never paid out in the first place.
 Estep also assured the committee that he would personally take a very close look at any applications from nursing homes to in effect lease their facilities to themselves as a way of increasing costs the state would be reimbursed.
 Estep provided the committee with data showing that a total of 97 audits have been performed on the state's 60 nursing home facilities. Those audits resulted in the disallowance of the $3.8 million. The committee was concerned about the average disallowance. In audits, facilities which there are preliminary reports was $46,226.83.

 None of the disallowances have resulted in a loss to the state, Estep said. "It hasn't cost Idaho anything because we recovered that," he told the committee. "Actions have been taken on every dollar we consider to be overpayments."
 Estep said that about 80 percent of the nursing homes submitted the claims to the department's criteria for reimbursement that were denied. In only 12 cases were there circumstances sufficient to lead the department to refer the cases to the Idaho Attorney General's office or the office of the U.S. Attorney. To date none of these cases have been prosecuted.
 Estep also told the committee that nursing homes that are being audited for the second or third time are by and large no longer violating state and federal guidelines for what constitutes an allowable cost for reimbursement.

 As for the applications by nursing homes to lease their facilities essentially to themselves, Estep explained that this could result in higher reimbursable costs because the leases would reflect current values of the facilities instead of the original purchase price of the facilities.
 However, Estep assured the committee that any such move by nursing home operators would have to meet the department's criteria for allowable costs before being approved. If the arrangement was not necessary, reasonable, cost conscious and related to patient care, the higher costs would be disallowed, he said.
 If the leasing arrangement is simply a device to extract more money from the state and increase the profitability of the facility without improved patient care, Estep said the department would disallow the associated increased costs.

 The committee chairman, Jim Underwood, who originally raised the questions about the disallowed costs and the proposed leasing arrangements, also questioned Estep about a case involving a Coeur d'Alene nursing home which was found to have overcharged the state approximately $135,000. The state eventually negotiated a settlement with the nursing home that called for the state to reimburse the operator approximately $20,000 despite the state audit.

Barker reviews health care study

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — State Sen. John Barker, Publ. said Wednesday the Governor's Blue Ribbon committee on which he serves, has found some practices in health care programs which are not illegal, but certainly immoral.

The committee, instigated by former Gov. Cecil Andrus and continued by Gov. Evans, was named to look into the alarming cost increases in the state's welfare and health services.

Sen. Barker, who also heads the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee, reported on the Ribbon findings Wednesday in a meeting of the South Central Health District board here.

He said some nursing homes, for example, are illegally writing off transportation costs which in some cases included transportation in airplanes they purchased or business use of Cadillac and Mercedes Benz automobiles the directors "need" for their travels.

Barker said in Idaho last year combined health service programs cost nearly half a billion dollars. That's about the amount the state's leading industry — agriculture — brought in revenue for the year.

Under the medicare program, he said, the nursing homes estimate the need for coming year, and the funding is provided in advance.

"This was about $3 million last year which amounts to a tax free, interest free loan for a year's time. I don't know any industry that would not be glad to participate in such a program," Barker said.

The committee, Sen. Barker said, is looking for a means of speeding up the cash-flow in insurance or federal reimbursement on medical costs.

"We find it costs about $1 a day in paying for the pending payments. When an institution is waiting a month or so for the insurance companies to cover the patient's costs, the medical bill has increased by $30," he said.

"Another thing we have found is the wide spread in the price of drugs depending on the company that markets them. We see as much as a 400 per cent difference in drug pricing depending on the drug company that markets it. Sometimes one company produces the drug and then resells it to several major companies which set their own price," the senator said.

"We find the hospital emergency room service greatly abused. These services are vitally needed in many cases, but what do you do about an individual who could take a few aspirin and recover at home but because his costs are paid by welfare, goes to the hospital instead?" the senator asked.

As for the health district immunization programs, he said, costs are increasing, but Idaho is not making a very productive showing. The state ranks 47th in immunization percentages on federal studies.

While the districts keep asking for more money in order to improve the percentages.

"I think the districts will have to show a more productive program before they can justify requests for more funding," Barker said. Barker said there is a tragic situation all over the state in nursing home costs. Many elderly people are seeing their life savings eaten away at a rate of up to $750 a month because they must live in nursing homes. He said some of these people worked hard and retired with the sale of a farm or ranch. They had money they felt would more than keep them for life.

"Now many of these people face a situation they deplore — we find it costs about $1 a day in paying for the pending payments. When an institution is waiting a month or so for the insurance companies to cover the patient's costs, the medical bill has increased by $30," he said.

Armament sales short US defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In its rush to sell military equipment to other nations, the United States sometimes shortchanges its own defense forces, congressional investigators say.

The armament management and decision-making process has, on occasion, allowed foreign deliveries to affect U.S. defense capabilities adversely, the Government Accounting Office reported. The GAO is the investigatory arm of Congress.

The problem comes when sales of military equipment to foreign nations strain production capabilities of U.S. weapons manufacturers. When the crunch comes "some of these systems are provided to foreign customers before our own forces are fully equipped," GAO said.

In most cases, foreign buyers are supplied from "ongoing production sources within normal lead times," but when delivery dates are rushed the weapons producers are caught short.

"Consequently, when there are indications that some deliveries to foreign customers have had an adverse impact on the U.S. forces' inventories," the GAO noted that the "armor plated personnel carrier is a 'very popular item' and about 68 per cent of the vehicles have been provided to foreign countries.

military forces had 17 per cent (by dollar value) of its equipment withdrawn or diverted for foreign sales. That percentage dropped to only 1 per cent in 1976.

The GAO noted the improvement in reducing withdrawals and diversions, but warned that growth of foreign military sales threatens to have a major future impact.

However, the GAO also noted the benefits of such a thriving business to the United States. Foreign sales volume has grown over the past seven years from $952 million to over $4.7 billion.

"This growth has allowed U.S. manufacturers to operate plants at higher levels of production and, in some cases, to continue operating plants which otherwise might have been closed down," it said. Foreign military sales also can play an important role in support of foreign policy, the report said.

But it said the rapid rise in volume of sales "has taxed the ability of DOD to manage the program, and there are indications that some deliveries to foreign customers have had an adverse impact on the U.S. forces' inventories."

The GAO noted that the "armor plated personnel carrier is a 'very popular item' and about 68 per cent of the vehicles have been provided to foreign countries.

Farm trade may produce treaty help

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The American farmer may not support the new Panama Canal treaties now, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says.

But when farmers find out what the treaty will do for them, they'll back it, Bergland insisted at a news conference Thursday.

Bergland's reasoning was simple: — Keeping the canal vital with "reasonable" tolls is open to farmers because 20 per cent of the nation's $24 billion farm export trade flows through the waterway.

— And the way to assure future operation of the canal is to reach "an amicable and workable arrangement with Panama."

But without a treaty, Col. Lawrence, a Pentagon official, said officials "fear there could be sabotage or harassment in the Canal Zone. And while the armed forces are confident they can defend the canal against conventional attack, it would be "extremely difficult to defend against any form of sabotage," a Pentagon spokesman said.

Bergland, backed by State and Defense department officials, said closing the canal would be a disaster for farmers. If grains and soybeans had to be moved by sea around South America instead of through the canal, it would add 30 days to delivery time and nearly double transportation costs, he said.

If costs went up that much, Australians could undercut American wheat and Brazil could undersell American soybeans on Asian markets. The result would be lost markets or lower prices for American farmers, Bergland said.

Other officials conceded shipping costs will go up even if the Senate ratifies the treaty turning control of the canal over to Panama by the year 2000. Tolls will rise, officials said.

But the "increase" will be relatively moderate, the officials insisted. Jackley said toll increases might be 25 to 30 per cent over the next two decades. That would increase transportation costs for farm products only 2 to 5 per cent.

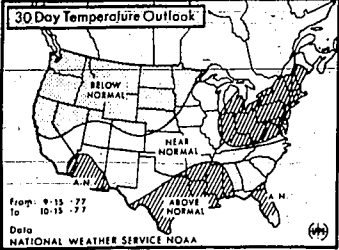

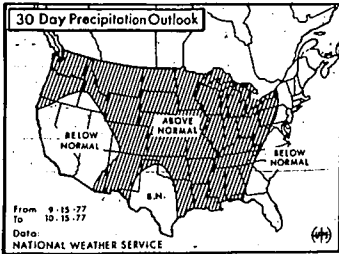

Jackley said soybean industry spokesmen told him toll increases still would leave them with a freight cost advantage over Brazil on sales to the Far East. Bergland added it would have no measurable effect on competition between American and Canadian wheat.

Bergland estimated that 20 million of the 100 million tons of farm products exported from the United States last year moved through the canal. That included 18 per cent of all American corn exports, 26 per cent of soybean exports and 45 per cent of sorghum shipments to foreign customers.

He denied his news conference and a preceding meeting with spokesmen for farm, grain trade and commodity groups were a formal part of the nationwide program planned by the administration to drum up support for the canal treaty.

The farm and commodity spokesmen "were simply gathering information" at the session and took no stand for or against the treaty, Bergland said.

"We're not going on a massive propaganda effort, we're just providing information," he added. — The agriculture secretary said department officials stationed in field offices from coast to coast were not being told to schedule meetings to spread information about the canal treaty. But just in case some local people ask questions, department field offices are being sent a "fact sheet" so local officials can answer questions or talk about the treaty at locally-sponsored meetings, Bergland said.

Temporary subsidy for sugar growers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sugar growers here were granted a temporary government subsidy to raise depressed incomes without raising consumer prices.

The temporary plan is expected to be replaced within a few months by a different sugar support system which would produce "higher" prices for consumers.

Under the payment program announced Thursday by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, market prices for raw sugar which are currently slightly below 11 cents a pound will continue to float in response to supply and demand.

Processors, however, will be given payments bringing total returns to 13.5 cents a pound. In turn, they will have to pay sugarcane growers $17.48 a ton and beet producers $22.84 a ton — prices which are equivalent to what growers would get if the market rose to the 13.5 cent support.

Bergland said the payments will continue only until revocation of another program which is included in a pending omnibus farm bill. The congressional program — which the administration strongly opposed initially — would put a floor of 13.5 cents under "open market" prices for raw sugar and would lead to an increase in tariffs on imported sugar.

That program, which some administration experts say could be in operation as early as November, would raise the price floor and soft drink manufacturers and household consumers pay for sugar.

Idaho reservoirs far below normal

BURLEY — Major reservoirs in Idaho are well below normal in most cases due to the lack of precipitation in the water year and high demand for irrigation water during the hot, dry summer. Bureau of Reclamation officials here report.

American Falls Reservoir is now at the zero reading for storage of irrigation water while Jackson Lake with 27,940 acre feet of water is 28 per cent filled. Pallsides has only 62,400 acre feet of water, or five per cent of the capacity storage. Other reservoirs include Ririe with 8,325 acre feet, 10 per cent filled; Minidoka Dam, 16,770 acre feet, 17 per cent full; Island Park, 11,450 acre feet, nine per cent full, and Grassy Lake, 6,800 acre feet, 45 per cent full.

Crops still being irrigated include sugarbeets, alfalfa and pasture and Bureau of Reclamation officials say demands are running higher than had been anticipated in view of drought conditions.

American Falls, now empty, will have a capacity of 1.7 million acre feet again in the coming season as a result of completion of the replacement dam. Storage is expected to begin sometime in October with all of the available water now being released for irrigation.

About 3,100 cubic feet per second of water is being released from American Falls, but this is about 50 per cent of normal for this time. Jackson Lake is releasing 1,700 cu.-ft. or 100 per cent of normal while Pallsides is releasing 80 per cent of normal or 4,700 cu. ft. Minidoka Dam is also at 50 per cent of normal, releasing 3,067 second feet.

Bureau officials warn farmers who are using irrigation water for stubble fields and irrigation companies delivering it for this purpose, could be jeopardizing their supplies for next year. Normally, the Bureau report shows, there is sufficient winter time moisture to provide refill for both top soil and sub-soil moisture.

September beef prices edge up

DENVER (UPI) — Shoppers paid a couple cents more for their beef in September than they did a month earlier but they still were getting a good buy for their money, the National Cattlemen's Association said Thursday.

Richard A. McDougal, association president, said a monthly survey of supermarkets in 10 cities across the nation showed the national average price of five representative beef cuts on Sept. 8 was $1.49 per pound — two cents more than in August.

The best buy was in Los Angeles where the average price was $1.32. The worst buy was in Portland where the price was $1.78 and in Atlanta where the price averaged $1.77. On the low side, the average price was only $1.33 in Memphis and $1.34 in Kansas City and Phoenix.

"Production of beef and other meats has remained large all through this year, and this has kept meat prices relatively low," McDougal said. "There has been virtually no change in the monthly averages for the past five months. Cattle and wholesale beef prices also have shown very little change."

McDougal predicted prices eventually would increase because of herd reductions, but said "for now, supplies are ample and prices remain favorable for consumers."

China tests airborne nuke

WASHINGTON (UPI) — China exploded an airborne nuclear device Saturday, its first this year and fifth since January 1976.

The explosion at a 3 m. EDT Saturday was spotted by the U.S. Atomic Energy Detection System and announced by an Energy Research and Development Administration spokesman.

The New China News Agency, monitored in Hong Kong, said the test was "successful" but gave no details.

The blast was in the low-yield range of less than 20 kilotons, the ERDA spokesman said.

He said the Environmental Protection Agency has activated its nationwide air monitoring system to determine whether any fallout reaches the United States.

The ERDA spokesman said it will be several days before any fallout could be expected to drift over North America from the distant Lop Nor test site in northwest China where the device was set off.

The NCNA report said the 22nd nuclear test since the program began in 1964 "was a new victory achieved by the workers, commanders and fighters of the Chinese People's Liberation Army, scientists, technicians and revolutionary cadres engaged in the research, manufacture and testing of nuclear weapons."

Last year China conducted four nuclear blasts, which took place Jan. 23, Sept. 26, Oct. 17 and Nov. 17.

China has not signed the nuclear test ban treaty.

The communique Saturday said the development of nuclear weapons by China "is entirely for the purpose of defense and for breaking the nuclear monopoly by the superpowers and for the ultimate abolition of nuclear weapons."

Perjury?

FORMER Italian Premier Mariano Rumor may be prosecuted for giving false testimony in connection with a trial resulting from a 1968 Milan bank bombing.

A prosecutor said Rumor had testified he didn't recall attending a 1973 cabinet meeting that allegedly ordered a coverup of evidence.

USSR nearing test of 'killer missiles'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Intelligence sources say the Soviets may be ready within three to four years, to test highly powerful and accurate new missiles that might be able to destroy U.S. missile sites in one devastating blow.

They said the development of four new types of Soviet missiles — posing the threat of a so-called "first strike capability" — is one reason why some military analysts believe the U.S. ICBM force will become vulnerable to destruction by the early 1980s.

The sources said that the Russians have been working on their new "fifth generation" missiles for three or four years, although few other details are known.

Based on past performance, they said, the new missiles should be ready for test flights in about the same length of time.

The weapons are intended to succeed current generation Russian "ICBM's," already rated "first class" in power and accuracy. About 200 or more are now in launch silos.

One of them, known as the SS18, has a warhead equal to the force of 25 million tons of TNT and can carry it, experts said, to within 1,500 feet of a target at 5,000 miles.

Park's lawyer reaches Seoul

WILLIAM HUNDLEY eyes neutral site

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — The American lawyer for businessman Tonyjun Park said Saturday he hoped to arrange a meeting in a neutral country between Park and U.S. investigators looking into an alleged congressional bribery scandal.

Park is the central figure in an alleged South Korean influence-buying scandal in which a number of American congressmen have been implicated. He is under a 30-count U.S. federal indictment for bribery, fraud and corruption.

William Hundley, Park's American lawyer, confirmed that criminal immunity had been offered to the 41-year-old Korean wheel-dealer but added the offer was made a long time ago and is no longer worth discussing.

Earlier, official Korean sources disclosed U.S. authorities had offered immunity to Park before he was indicted by a federal grand jury but that Park had rejected it.

The sources said the offer was contained in a personal letter from President Carter to South Korean President Park Chung-hee appealing for cooperation into the investigation.

Hundley said he had come to Seoul to confer with Park but denied his visit was to prepare Park for a meeting with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski in Seoul.

"I don't know anything about Mr. Jaworski's plans," he said. "I haven't talked with him at all."

Asked about the possibility of having Park meet U.S. investigators in a third country, Hundley said, "Yes, hopefully we can work it out." He refused to elaborate.

Korean sources reconfirmed the Seoul government's stand that Park cannot be sent back to the United States against his will.

And they said that if Jaworski came to Seoul to question Park the interrogation would have to take place in the presence of Korean officials.

They added that despite what Hundley said, the question of whether the South Korean government will agree to Park's interrogation by U.S. officials in a third country is open. They noted Park has yet to agree to such an arrangement.

More die

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Syria reported three more cholera deaths and some 900 new cases Saturday. Egypt ordered mass inoculation and doctors in Iran said government officials are trying to cover up an epidemic there.

In Katmandu, Nepalese officials reported eight cholera deaths in three villages near Jambuk, near the Nepal-India border, in an apparently unrelated outbreak of the dread disease.

Vorster raps US squeeze

© N.Y. Times Service
PRETORIA — Prime Minister John Vorster warned the United States Friday that he would resist its "blatant meddling" in the internal affairs of his nation.

The South African leader, speaking deliberately and defiantly in a blunt interview, declared that his government was bracing to withstand any economic sanctions or oil boycott that might be imposed as a consequence of the dispute over the future of Rhodesia or opposition to his apartheid policy of racial segregation.

Vorster insisted that "he would not — despite American pressure — compel Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia to accept the British-American plan for transfer of power to a black majority in that embattled country."

Discussing details of his last private conversation in Pretoria with Andrew Young, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations: "If they think that they can pressure me into pressuring Smith... then they have got another guess coming, because I won't do it."

The prime minister received the writer and John Burns, the New York Times correspondent in South Africa, in his heavily guarded office in the capital at a time when South Africa is plunged into its most serious crisis since the bloody black student riots last year.

Dayan Paris trip stirs speculation

TEL-AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan is missing for 24 hours on a secret mission in Paris, abruptly flew home to Israel Saturday and immediately rushed to an emergency meeting with Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

The cloak-and-dagger detour to Paris was sudden return to Israel, fueling speculation that Dayan is a top Arab official in the French capital in a possible breakthrough on the Middle East.

Dayan, who failed to show up Friday on a scheduled flight from Brussels to New York where he is supposed to attend the UN General Assembly session starting Monday, refused all comment on his disappearance.

Dayan's unscheduled trip to Paris and subsequent return to Israel caught State Department officials by surprise. A spokesman said only they still expected the Israeli foreign minister Monday for a scheduled meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Dayan said his new plans to fly to the United States on Sunday and attend the meeting with Vance and subsequent talks with President Carter. Dayan reportedly was carrying a new Israeli Middle East peace plan to present to Carter.

Dayan appeared buoyant and in good spirits as he stepped from a regular El Al flight from Paris to Tel Aviv.

However, he refused to answer all questions about his surprise trip to Paris, anyone he may have talked to while there or what prompted his return home.

Called out

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — Ethiopia, conceding that "the motherland is bleeding all over," mobilized all able adult Ethiopians Saturday in an effort to stem a Somali-backed invasion of its southern provinces.

The measures included a mobilization order for all adult Ethiopians "fit to fight," a call up of retired servicemen up to the age of 60 and nationalization of all public and private transportation into the armed forces.

Israelis join fight

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israel-supported Christian troops swapped rocket, anti-air tank, machine gun and mortar fire Saturday with Palestinian guerrillas on the second day of a major battle for the town of Kibiam.

Government and diplomatic sources in Beirut said they had received reports of a major escalation in the level of fighting in south Lebanon.

They said they had received information that Israeli forces were part in the offensive, attacking from the south as the fighting struck from the north of Ham, still in Palestinian hands.

Western diplomats in Beirut said they also had reports that the Israelis had stepped up their active participation in the fighting.

"It's not unusual for the Israelis to fly over the area and help the Christians out with supplies and artillery support," said one western diplomat.

"But we have reports that the Israelis actually joined in on the ground from the south as the Christians attacked from the north," he said.

"It's not true, then this is a very new element and a significant escalation in the level of their involvement."

Impact on water resources studied

HAILLEY—A two-year study on the Silver Creek aquifer and the effects of development in the area on it is drawing near completion.

The study, begun 26 months ago, is trying to determine the impact of various types of development on the water resources in the area known as the Big Wood River/Silver Creek Triangle, which runs from Bellevue to Picaabo to Stanton Crossing.

Members of the research group performing this Silver Creek Aquifer Recharge Study reported to the Blaine County Commissioners—Tuesday—on the progress of their work, which is due to be completed by Oct. 31.

According to Chuck Brockway, who has headed the study for the Department of Water Resources, most of the 26-month period was spent conducting a water budget study in the area.

For an entire year, the water flows, precipitation, snow melts, irrigation and ground water pumping were studied to determine the water trends in the area.

With the help of hydrologists and geologists, the group has put together enough information to construct a computer model of the Silver Creek aquifer. By using this computer model, which was calibrated on the year's findings, the researchers will try to predict what the impact of development will be in the future on the area's water.

The computer work is still being conducted but, according to Brockway, the model is now more or less ready. This past winter's drought will provide "an excellent chance" to test the accuracy of the computer model—formulated by the group, Brockway said. The effects of the drought are known, and by feeding data of a similar drought period into the computer, the group's computer model, if calibrated accurately, should produce identical results.

If the model produces drastically different results, Brockway acknowledged the calibration of the computer model and the credibility of the entire study would be called into question.

For an entire year, the water flows, precipitation, snow melts, irrigation and ground water pumping were studied to determine the water trends in the area.

With the help of hydrologists and geologists, the group has put together enough information to construct a computer model of the Silver Creek aquifer. By using this computer model, which was calibrated on the year's findings, the researchers will try to predict what the impact of development will be in the future on the area's water.

The computer work is still being conducted but, according to Brockway, the model is now more or less ready. This past winter's drought will provide "an excellent chance" to test the accuracy of the computer model—formulated by the group, Brockway said. The effects of the drought are known, and by feeding data of a similar drought period into the computer, the group's computer model, if calibrated accurately, should produce identical results.

NATIONAL WEATHER SERVICE FORECAST to 7 PM EST 9 - 18 - 77

Warmer today; maybe rain Monday

Synopsis: A more unsettled fall weather pattern, which became established over the northwestern states during the middle of this past week, is expected to continue into the first half of the coming week at least. Under this prevailing pattern, periods of cloudiness and showers along with cooler than seasonal temperatures will be mixed with brief periods of clearing and some warming. However, during the partial clearing periods, with cool air still over the area, there will be a threat of frost in the lower valley areas. Recent rains have decreased the fire danger especially in mountain areas north of the Snake River. Since periods of precipitation will interfere with some harvest operations, favorable weather periods should be used to full advantage when they occur so harvests can be completed. The extended outlook for Tuesday through Thursday calls for continuing cool and unsettled with a chance of showers, especially towards the beginning and end of the period. Highs will be in the 60's...

Twin Falls, North Side, Burley-Rupert Area: Mostly fair with a little warmer temperatures today. Increasing cloudiness tonight leading to a chance of rain Monday. Highs both days 65 to 75; lows tonight in the 40's.

Mini-Chevy prices cut

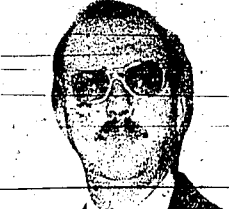

MILFORD, Mich. (UPI) — In an attempt to boost back imports, especially on the West Coast, Chevrolet Thursday announced the addition of 18 items as standard equipment on the 1978 model mini-Chevies and a price cut up to $400. The General Motors division also said it was adopting a dual-pricing structure for the small car, charging $3,236.15 for the two-door hatchback in seven western states and $3,254.15 in other states. Included in the lower prices were: Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington — states where imports have been the strongest. A new four-door Chevette will be priced at $3,346.15 on the West Coast and $118 more elsewhere, while the base Scooter will be priced at $2,999.15 throughout the country. — $55 less than a comparable import. — Chevrolet's new five-door car, sales nationwide, imports have accounted for more than 40 percent in some California areas. Toyota was the No. 1-selling nameplate in the Los Angeles area in June — the first time imports had topped the list. The 11 percent price reduction for the West Coast was announced at the Chevrolet 1978 model preview at the GM Proving Ground, in other states, the price cut amounts to 7.8 percent, below a comparable import. — Among items made standard were the larger 1.6 liter engine, white striped tires, AM radio, bumper rub strips, a floor-mounted console, body side moldings, swing-out rear vent windows and reclining bucket seats. In the two-door hatchback, the 18 items cost an extra $411 on the 1977 model Chevettes. The Chevette, whose 159-inch length is 5.5 feet shorter than the Cadillac Eldorado, is America's smallest and most fuel-efficient car. But sales in the first two years on the market have been disappointing, leading to the price cut to make it more competitive. "We are determined to demonstrate to the American car buyer that GM and Chevrolet are competitive with foreign manufacturers in price, quality, gas mileage, product content, appearance and utility," Chevrolet General Manager Robert D. Lund told newsmen. "We are therefore lowering these smaller cars at a time when the prices of other Japanese and other countries are being increased."

business Buhl dealer at sales meet

BUHL — Bob Lapray of Buhl attended a national sales meeting in Kansas City, Mo., of Allis Chalmers Corporation in late August. Lapray was one of 2,000 dealers and company representatives who were introduced to the 1978 line of agricultural, lawn and garden, and industrial tractor equipment. He also attended two-day sessions where discussions were held concerning marketing actions, parts and service operations, goals and objectives for the coming year.

Twin Falls man gains award

TWIN FALLS — Jim Patten, manager of Security Pacific Finance Corp. in Twin Falls, was presented an award from the Idaho Consumer Finance Association. The award was presented for Patten's efforts in the association's public relations program. Patten is also the president of the Lender's Exchange, and is active in the Twin Falls Exchange Club as a member of the board of directors. Patten and his wife, Joy, have three children. They have lived in Twin Falls since Nov., 1975.

US car production up 45% over week

DETROIT (UPI) — With just one of the nation's 42 auto assembly plants still closed for model-changover and seven others working overtime this week on the 1978 models, auto production will jump 45 percent from last week. Ward's Automotive Reports Thursday said auto output this week will reach 184,635 units, the highest since the model change over period started in early July. This week's production will be 19 percent above the corresponding week last year. With the higher 1978 output this week, total U.S. car output since Jan. 1 will reach 6,518,373 units by the end of the week, 7.4 percent ahead of the 1976 pace, the industry's statistical publication said. Nine truck plants also are working Saturday overtime this week to push output to 73,541 units, up 16,000 trucks from last week and 43 percent higher than in the year-ago week. To date, truck output is at 2,155,638 units, 11 percent ahead of the 1976 pace. Ward's said combined car and truck production of 8,974,008 cars and trucks by the end of the week will be running 11 percent ahead of 1976 with trucks headed for a new record. Chrysler Corp.'s Belvidere, Ill., assembly plant is the only U.S. assembly plant still down for the model changeover as it continues to prepare for production of the Dodge Omni, and Plymouth Horizon front-wheel-drive minicars in November. They will be introduced in January.

Sunshine control battle continues

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals refused today to stay a ruling by a U.S. District Court judge in Dallas that Idaho's law regulating corporate takeover is unconstitutional. The ruling cleared the way for an attempt by Great Western United Corp. of Dallas and Denver to obtain a controlling interest in Sunshine Mining Co., operator of the nation's largest and richest silvermine at Kellogg, Idaho. Great Western wants to purchase two million Sunshine shares, or 40 percent of the company's outstanding stock. Great Western purchased five percent of the company's outstanding stock several months ago, making it the largest single shareholder. The actual tender offer was not immediately known, but a broker familiar with trading estimated the bid might range from $14.75 to $15.75 a share. Sunshine sold for $13.75 Thursday on the Spokane Stock Exchange. While refusing to stay the District Court order, the 5th Circuit Court did agree to an expedited appeal of U.S. District Court Judge Robert Hill's decision in the case of Great Western versus the state of Idaho. This means the Circuit Court is expected to hear the appeal possibly in November and no later than December, according to a clerk at the court. Hill had last week approved Great Western's tender offer by ruling on the constitutionality of several state takeover statutes, including Idaho's. But he stayed his own decision until today, pending a ruling by the 5th Circuit Court. Silver NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman Friday quoted silver at $4.50 per fine ounce up 5.0 cents. Engelhardt quoted a silver base price of $4.510 up 5.0 cents and a price for fabricated silver of $4.623 up 5.1 cents.

Double taxing voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee Friday voted tax increases on both employers and employees to help support the financially ailing Social Security Trust Fund.

Employers would pay a hefty increase in 1978 while taxes would be increased somewhat on employees in 1979 and 1981.

At the same time, however, the committee voted 11 to 0 to raise benefits for those between 65 and 72 who retire but continue to earn money in other jobs.

Under present law, Social Security benefits for retirees below 72 are decreased $1 for each $2 of income above $3,000. The committee would increase this to $4,500 in 1978 and $6,000 in 1979, the same as a House Social Security subcommittee approved this week.

The committee, working rapidly toward completion of a comprehensive Social Security bill, clearly showed that it was determined to make the system pay its own way through tax increases rather than use of general-revenue funds or transfers from other more solvent funds such as the Health Insurance Fund. Retirees would be hit the hardest under the tax increase proposal. Employers, but not employees, would pay Social Security taxes on the first $25,000 of an employee's income in 1978, the first $10,000 in 1979 and the first $10,000 in 1980. This year, both the employer and the employee pay an equal amount on the first $16,100 of income.

Employees also would with a tax increase. All workers under Social Security now pay a 5.5 percent wage tax up to the maximum wage limit.

Shot drive PTA topic

TWIN FALLS. — The statewide immunization program for children will be the topic of the Sawtooth Elementary School PTA meeting Monday.

Dr. Paul Miles from the Twin Falls Clinic and Jim Gluffre, a health educator for the South Central District, will speak on immunization.

Sawtooth school recently conducted a survey to tabulate how many children have been immunized against childhood diseases such as measles, polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, rubella and mumps. The ultimate goal of the PTA is to get all children in the school immunized.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of the school which is located on Stadium Boulevard in Twin Falls.

For further information call Judy Herbst, PTA president, 724-5220.

Almanac

United Press International Today is Sunday, Sept. 18, the 261st day of 1977 with 104 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Saturn, Jupiter, Mercury, Venus and Mars.

There is no evening star.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

British literary great Samuel Johnson, writer of the first English dictionary, was born on Sept. 18, 1709.

On this day in history:

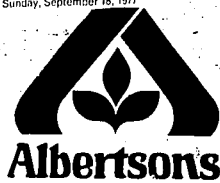

In 1850, the Fugitive Slave Act was passed by Congress, allowing a slave owner with a certificate to reclaim any slave who escaped into another state.

In 1928, it was estimated that 4,000 persons had been killed and $30 million damage caused by a devastating hurricane and the West Indies.

In 1961, U.S. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld was killed when his plane crashed in Northern Rhodesia.

In 1975, FBI agents in San Francisco arrested Patricia Hearst and two of her Swiss-born Liberation Army comrades, William and Emily Harris.

A thought for the day: American poet Walt Whitman said, "I believe, a leaf of grass is no less than the journey-work of the stars."

Permission required for sewage plant visits

Off-limits decree angers health officials

By BOB ZUCKERMAN Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — A new city policy requiring state health officials to get permission before visiting the Twin Falls Waste Water Treatment Plant has attorneys considering a legal battle.

Millar said he instituted the policy to stop the flow of unauthorized information from the plant. His said the city's discharge permit gave him the authority to require health officials show their credentials to him before entering the plant.

The policy on Aug. 23, just five days after a Times-News story questioned an unidentified health department official, saying the plant was still discharging pollutants at levels exceeding Environmental Protection Agency standards.

The sewage plant has been "releasing pollutants at levels exceeding EPA guidelines off and on since April, 1976. Last May the city manager ordered sewage plant personnel not to talk to the press so that the release of information on the plant could be coordinated through his office.

Prosecutor wants embezzlement trial

By BOB ZUCKERMAN Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — County Prosecutor Frank J. Dykas said Friday he thought enough evidence had been presented for Deborah A. Henson, charged with embezzling about $2,800 from YWCA coffers, to be tried in district court.

If the case is dismissed Dykas said he would refile the charges because he said he feels the case could only be dismissed on the basis of a technicality; that he had not proved check handwriting was Henson's.

In a complaint filed in Magistrate Court, Henson is charged with 11 felony counts of embezzlement. A police report filed with the complaint said while Henson was director some YWCA check stubs were marked void while checks themselves would be made out to Henson.

On evidence presented at Thursday's closed session, Dykas said: — An official from Idaho Bank and Trust was able to identify one check that passed through his bank as having formerly been attached to a void check stub.

OAKLEY — An eight week old Oakley infant born blind was flown to Portland Thursday afternoon where he was scheduled to undergo immediate surgery for a cornea transplant.

LOWMAN — For the first time in 18 years, the tiny mountain town of Lowman has a school for its children. It isn't a new, multimillion-dollar complex, but it's all the folks in Lowman want — a small but cheery one-room schoolhouse.

Lowman, a town with a year-round population of about 30 which took its name from Nathaniel Lowman, an Iowa rancher who settled in this wilderness area in 1907, lies on the South Fork of the Payette River along U.S. Highway 21.

Rezone hearing

JEROME — Jerome County Commissioners will hold an open hearing Monday at 9:30 a.m. to consider rezoning five acres adjacent to the west Jerome Interstate-86 interchange from agricultural to commercial.

TWIN FALLS — A full house with a week to go. That's the situation for the Sept. 23 concert to be given here by the Husky High School Band and Soldiers Chorus.

At first, the Garden Valley school board believed the Shaws' demands impossible. The district's budget was set and it left no money to hire another teacher.

Get skis waxed

TWIN FALLS — If Saturday's weather is any indication there should be an early ski season in Magic Valley this year.

The concert, to be presented without charge, will be at 8 p.m. Friday at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center.

But that recess is over. It wasn't easy convincing the Garden Valley school board, whose jurisdiction includes this small "community on the river," that the old schoolhouse should be reopened and rebudgeted for a handful of Lowman children.

Public employes seek bargaining bill

By BONNIE BAIRD-JONES Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Delegates to the 1977 general council convention of Idaho Public Employes went on record in Twin Falls Saturday in favor of collective bargaining legislation, including a right to strike provision for non-emergency workers.

Phyllis Blumk, Health and Welfare, Boise, secretary Regional vice presidents include Dick Frost, northern Idaho; Bill Gehrig, Caldwell, western Idaho and Harold Barnes, Idaho Falls, eastern Idaho. Next year's convention will be held in Boise.

Victor gives up, drops head

SPREADEAGLED BY THE SPLITS
— giraffe awaits aid in zoo compound

WINCHESTER, England (UPI) — Victor the giraffe dropped his head and gave up trying to get up Saturday. Zoo keepers said they feared he would never rise again.

"I am convinced there is no hope. We have done all we can," said John Knowles, owner of the zoo where Victor lives.

The one-ton, 15-year-old giraffe took a serious turn for the worse late Saturday after two valiant attempts to stand failed, leaving his rear legs helplessly splayed out behind him.

After the second attempt failed, Victor lowered his long neck to the ground and just seemed to give up.

Zoo keepers made Victor a giraffe-size pillow with bales of hay and anxiously lugged around him.

"He's just not emotionally and psychologically geared to get to his feet," Knowles said.

"At midday today we were quite optimistic he was making some effort to help himself but he must have become exhausted. He wilted before our eyes during the afternoon," said Knowles.

The sad-eyed giraffe, much lower now than his usual 18-foot, 6-inch height, spent a second cold night under a tarpaulin flanked by bales of hay at Maxwell Park zoo.

Ruth Giles, 21, was his night nurse and other attendants took over in daylight hours.

No one quite knows for sure how Victor got into his predicament but one zoo official suggested he may have been trying to mate with a female giraffe and slipped.

"However he got that way, there still wasn't much zoo officials could do to get him upright again. But they hardly lacked suggestions.

"Our two telephones haven't stopped ringing," Knowles said. "We've had calls from game hunters who have had experience with giraffes in Africa, and a few who know all about the quirks of giraffes."

"But no one has been able to help us much."

Knowles, on the advice of veterinarians, rejected offers of a helicopter to hoist Victor to his feet, or of a crane, or of a dozen weightlifters hoping to lift him up by brute force.

He also scrubbed the idea of excavating a swimming pool around Victor and floating him upright.

"Giraffes absolutely hate water," he said.

Victor was getting a drugstore full of medicines: glucose, adrenalin, antibiotics, steroids, vitamins.

Gem group picks work

BOISE (UPI) — Two areas of concern for study and action during the next year were selected by the Idaho Commission on Women's Programs at their fall meeting in Boise Saturday. The commission announced.

The group set up a task force on "home and society" to deal with revision of Idaho's divorce laws, consumer education courses, children's rights in divorce actions and justice for women in family situations.

The goal of this group's activity will be "the protection and preservation of the family unit," according to Ruth Pauly, new commission chairperson.

Damp, cool Gem outlook

TWIN FALLS — Above normal precipitation, below normal temperatures. That's the outlook for Idaho through mid-October.

Maurice Faubion, agricultural meteorologist for the National Weather Service office, said the 30-day outlook calls for above normal precipitation in the north and the east, with normal amounts expected from Magie Valley northwestward to the southwest central mountain region.

The only part of the state expected to receive below normal amounts will be the already dry southwest.

Faubion said potato growers in eastern Idaho expect to start harvesting this week although vines are being killed artificially. The soil temperature monitoring program has been set up and daily bulletins will be issued whenever readings approach the critical 45 degree level. Faubion said that should be about Oct. 1.

Normal temperature ranges and precipitation for the mid-September to mid-October period include:

Magie Valley — Highs in the upper 60's and low 70's, with lows in the upper 30's and lower 40's. Precipitation, from half to two thirds of an inch.

Cassia County, Big Wood River Valley — Highs in the upper 60's, lows in the lower and middle 30's. Precipitation from .7 to .8 inch.

Central mountain areas — Highs mostly in the 60's, lows in the upper 20's to middle 30's. Precipitation from about half an inch to 1.25 inches.

In the Columbia basin, as much as 2 inches of rain caused some streams and rivers to rise in southwest flow.

The Grand and Black Water rivers in Northwestern Missouri were both over flood stage, but were expected to drop through the weekend.

Northeastern states were enshrouded in drizzle and soupy fog through mid-afternoon. A system over the eastern Pacific continued to produce rain in the west, and overnight snows were forecast for regions above 6,000 feet over portions of the northern and central plateau region.

Carolina rivers overflow

By United Press International
Minor flooding was reported in portions of North Carolina Saturday and the hard rains waterlogged much of the rest of the nation.

Runoff from previous rains caused the Cape Fear and Lumber rivers in North Carolina to run high, with some minor overflowing occurring in the western part of the state in the French Broad River. Water levels, however, were expected to recede through the weekend.

Heavy rains in central and western South Carolina produced swollen waters in the Broad and Saluda rivers.

School bill signed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. Saturday signed an unprecedented, $4.3 billion school bill designed to meet a court-ordered demand for equalized spending among districts.

The new law also allows creation of local councils of students, parents, administrators and teachers to assume responsibility for many decisions in individual schools from kindergarten through 12th grade.

"This is a law that goes to the heart of the structure of education," Brown said. "It is the most significant educational reform, not only for this state, but anywhere in the country."

"Usually power has gone to the top," Brown said. "Here is the largest state in the country reversing that trend."

Utah man set free

LONDON (UPI) — A 21-year-old Mormon missionary, believed the victim of a wealthy American woman whose love he scorned, was released unharmed Saturday after being kidnaped and held shackled and handcuffed for three days.

FBI agents joined in the case to help Scotland Yard investigate any connection between the kidnap and a harassment campaign in the United States by an older wealthy woman whose love the missionary scorned.

Det. Chief Superintendent Bill Huckleby of Scotland Yard told a news conference that the kidnapers released Kirk Anderson, 21, of Orm, Utah, in central London. He said Anderson said he was safe and well, despite his ordeal.

"He has been released so that he can settle a domestic issue between a girlfriend and himself," Huckleby said.

The couple plans a Sept. 29 wedding in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple.

Woman defeats male colleagues

MOSCOW (UPI) — Maria Shamskurina is the factory sports champion in Tadjikistan and it's no wonder. She lugs small mountains of potatoes home from the market, sprints with a son in her arms to kindergarten every morning and washes and irons miles of clothing every year.

Maria was the fastest, strongest athlete in a "Labor and Defense" competition sponsored by the factory where she works in the Soviet Republic of Tadjikistan.

And to win her title, she defeated a field of flabby men, sprinted well past her factory's own sports director and left all other competitors standing in the dust.

Maria, interviewed by the provincial newspaper, Komunist Tadjikistan, said she defeated her male colleagues because they were "soft."

"I'm in shape because of my 'daddy' schedule," she told the reporter, listing a marathon of domestic events that begins at 5:30 a.m. each day, when she leaps from bed to cook for her husband and iron the family's clothes.

"Then I wake up the family and get the children dressed and feed them and my husband, and then I have to start running to make it to work on time.

"I am running with a large bag in one hand and my son in the other. First I stop at the kindergarten, throwing my son to the teachers, then I rush to work and get there on time, but out of breath.

"At work I get a rest, but after work I run to the kindergarten to pick up my son and then to the market. I am overloaded with bags of food.

"Then I get home and start cooking supper and then it takes time to feed them and get them all to bed. Then I start doing the laundry so I can iron in the morning."

The reporter couldn't understand why women did better than men in the competition, noting that even a 60-year-old woman almost defeated the sports director in a cross country race.

"Men are soft because women have created for them a greenhouse kind of life," Maria said.

"To and from work they don't hurry and we have the table set when they get home. They eat, switch on the television and plop themselves on the sofa, maybe to read the newspaper."

US Senate approves pregnancy aid bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Friday approved a bill requiring employers to provide coverage for pregnancy and related conditions if they offer worker health and disability plans that cover other ailments.

The bill, passed 75 to 11 and sent to the House, defines discrimination against pregnant workers as sex discrimination under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act.

The measure overturns a 1976 Supreme Court ruling that held General Electric Co. was not engaging in sex discrimination by denying pregnant workers the same employee medical insurance and disability benefits available for other ailments or procedures.

Although pregnancy was not covered in the GE plan, vasectomies and hair transplants were.

On a 44-1 vote, the Senate tabled an amendment by Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., to deny coverage to women who have abortions except to save the mother's life.

The bill, which was attacked by business and insurance companies as too costly, would mandate compliance by July 1, 1978.

No employer who lacks an employee health plan would be forced to implement one but businesses which now exclude pregnancy could not do away with all employee health benefits rather than comply with the law.

Recital set at the 'Y' Thursday

DR. FLORENCE REYNOLDS plays the violoncello

TWIN FALLS — The renowned violoncellist, Dr. Florence Reynolds of the University of Montana, Missoula, will appear in recital in Twin Falls on Thursday at the YMCA-YWCA at 8:30 p.m. She will be accompanied by pianist Rudolf Wendt. The recital is sponsored by the Twin Falls Music Club. Mrs. Nadine Forelllich, club president, says this event is a part of the National Federated Music Club's Crusade for Strings.

The program will include the Frescobaldi-Cassado "Toccatina," Locatelli "Sonata in D," Biondi "Suite No. 2" and Kodaly "Sonata," Op. 4. Miss Reynolds will play a violoncello made by the 18th century Italian master, Ruggeri.

Reynolds' appearance in Twin Falls was arranged by the music club in cooperation with Del Slaughter, Kim McKinnon and Ernest Moss, orchestra instructors in the public schools here. Along with her recital, Dr. Reynolds will give demonstrations and clinics for local string students.

Dr. Reynolds holds master of music and doctor of musical arts degrees from the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y. She has given numerous solo and chamber music recitals in the United States and in Europe. As a member of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, she played under such well-known conductors as Leonard Bernstein, Eric Leinsdorf, Sir Thomas-Beecham and Igor Stravinsky.

Pianist Rudolf Wendt also holds graduate degrees from the Eastman School of Music and has studied at the Juilliard School of Music as well. He is a professor emeritus of music at the University of Montana.

The public is invited to attend. Admission is free, although free will donations will be accepted. Additional information may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Shirley High, publicity chairman for the Twin Falls Music Club, 733-0917.

Leatham, Woody married Sept. 2

HAGERMAN — DeAnn Leatham and Kelly Woody were united in marriage Sept. 2 in a garden wedding at the home of the bride's parents.

DeAnn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Leatham, Hagerman, and Kelly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joyce Woody, Emmett.

Under a trellis containing pink roses and white bells, the single-ring ceremony was performed by Bishop Bryant, Adams of the Hagerman LDS Church.

The bride was given away by her father.

Her floor-length gown, designed by the bride and made by her mother, was made of poly pea satin and imported venise lace. It was trimmed with tiny pearls and iridescent sequins with an empire waistline and long gathered sleeves. The gown featured a chapel train and the bouffant veil was designed to match the dress. The headpiece was made of venise lace, pearls and sequins to which six tiers of silk illusion were attached.

The bride carried a nosegay of tiny pink sweetheart roses, blue baby's breath, silver lilies, pink satin ribbons and pearls down a pathway of posts and ropes decorated with pink and blue ribbons.

Matron of honor was Sheila Lacroix, King Hill, and the flower girl was Niki Durrant, Mountain Home Air Force Base, cousin of the bride.

Best man was Gary Goslin of Boise, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and the usher was Kim Lemmon, Hagerman.

During the ceremony Harold Glenn, uncle of the bride, Wellsville, Utah, gave the prayer and soloist Pat Windes, Wendell, sang.

All flower arrangements and corsages were made by Mrs. Phyllis Holmes, Upper Salmon Power Plant. Mrs. Jean Dixon, Hagerman, and Annie Stark, Wendell.

The reception was held at the bride's parents' home.

The bride's table was decorated with a blue underlay and lace overcloth, with white and blue bows.

The five-tiered cake was surrounded by four small cakes at the base and was made by Mrs. Don Durrant, Mountain Home Air Force Base. The white frosting was trimmed with turquoise and topped by an arrangement of pink and turquoise colored silk flowers with pearl hearts and mirrors.

The silver bowls which held the nuts at the reception belonged to the bride's great-grandparents from Sweden and the mints were placed on crystal dishes which had belonged to the bride's grandmother.

Mrs. Durrant, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Marjorie Leatham and Mrs. Marian Leatham, both sisters-in-law of the bride; and Mrs. Sheila Goslin, sister of the bridegroom, served the cake. Teri Leatham, niece of the bride from Ontario, Ore., was in charge of the guest book and gift table attendants were Mrs. Leslie Lemmon, Hagerman, and Dawn and Diane Leatham, Boise, nieces of the bride.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Earl Leatham, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Leatham and Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Leatham hosted a buffet-style dinner for the family.

The bride graduated from Hagerman High School in 1975 and attended the College of Southern Idaho for two years, majoring in therapy. The bridegroom served four years in the U.S. Navy and is employed by a construction company in Boise.

After a short honeymoon trip the couple will reside in Boise.

Juvenile justice critics claim law system biased

© N.Y. Times Service
NEW YORK — Girls and boys are apparently unequal in the eyes of the law.

Critics of the juvenile justice system assert that girls in this country are arrested for lesser offenses than boys; they tend to be incarcerated for longer periods and the rehabilitation programs, widely inadequate for both sexes, are poorer still for girls.

Dr. Rosaryna Sarri, who was co-director of a massive University of Michigan study, the National Assessment of Juvenile Corrections, said in a recent interview: "You never see boys charged with promiscuity, do you? But girls are charged with it — all the time. The police still like to think that boys will be boys — but girls better not get involved."

The criminal justice system is also more concerned about children who run away from home when they are girls than when they are boys, Dr. Sarri said that 68 per cent of the runaways picked up by the police were girls — but that girls and boys actually ran away about equally.

It's not just the police and the courts that find girls' behavior so disturbing. Many parents find it intolerable and urge the courts to confine their children. "The parents refer to about one-third of the girls who end up in court, but only one-tenth of the boys," Dr. Sarri said.

The institutions keep the girls longer than boys, Dr. Sarri went on, for a related reason: "The parents don't want them back."

Dr. Sarri is not alone in her dismay. A study group of the American Bar Association charged in a recently published report that at every point in the juvenile justice system the female juvenile is treated differently, and usually more harshly than the male juvenile.

The group, called the Female Offender Resource Center, surveyed state institutions and found that nearly half of the girls in them were there for "status offenses," acts that would not be considered crimes if committed by adults — such as promiscuity, running away, general "incorrigibility." Only 18 per cent of the boys were incarcerated for these status offenses, which are some times called "children's crimes."

The center, in its report — "Little Sisters and the Law" — described disparities in the programs for boys and girls.

Girls had a better chance of getting a job while in an institution; but when they did get one, the average pay was 25 cents an hour. Boys averaged $1 an hour.

Training for girls most frequently involved cosmetology, business education and nurses' aide classes. For boys, the list was cluttered by various courses in mechanics. But, nationwide, boys had much more variety in what they could do. The survey found 38 different types of programs for boys, 17 for girls.

Guests attend Grange

KING HILL — Special guests at the Tuesday evening King Hill Grange harvest dinner included State Grange Master and Mrs. Gordon Tale, of Meridian.

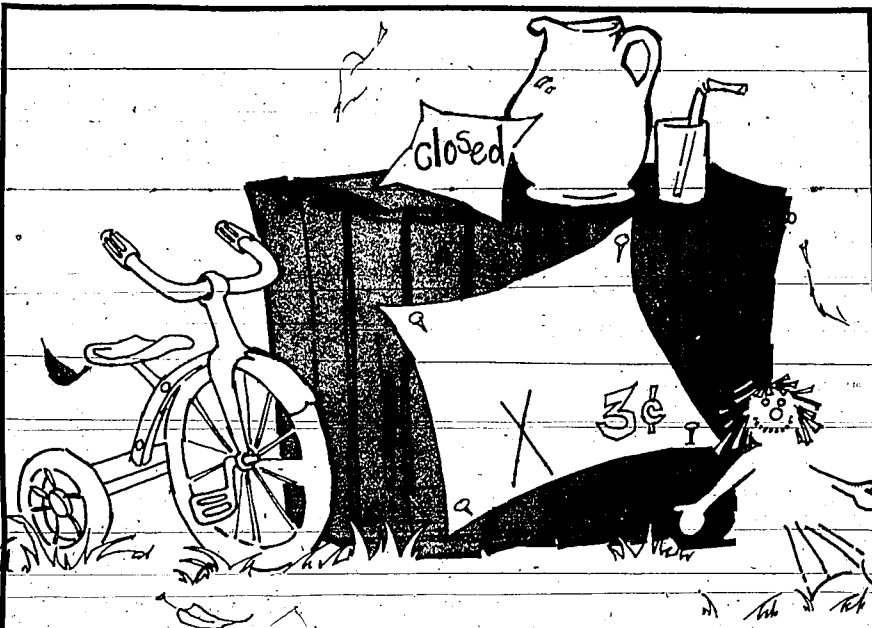

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bates of Meridian, state deputies making their official visit of 1977 to the King Hill Grange.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Kistler and Mr. and Mrs. Verne Baumgartner of Gooding attended. The Kistlers are deputies for district 2 which includes Jerome, Twin Falls, Camas, Cassia, Bannock and Gooding counties.

H.J. McKee and Mrs. T.M. Timbers, were in charge of the dinner. Mrs. Timbers and Mrs. Cecil Bolt decorated the rooms with harvest products, ivy along the centers of the tables, with pumpkins, gourds, sunflowers, etc., and baskets of gladiolus.

About 35 guests attended. Assisting with the dinner were Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Rodney Ruberry, women's activity chairman; Mrs. W.G. Kewen, Mrs. Bolt; Mrs. Arlin Greer and Karl Anderson.

Mrs. Kenyon, lecturer, was in charge of a bingo game. Each of the distinguished guests and their wives gave a talk.

Champion fiddler appears in TF

TWIN FALLS — Jana Jae Greif Owens, 1974 National Ladies Fiddle Champion, will appear at the Twin Falls Outlaw Inn Friday and Saturday.

Jana starred with Buck Owens and his Buckaroos for two and a half years, both on TV—and in—personal—appearances.

The petite dark-haired woman, originally from Pruitland, has always had a background of music. She hails from a "totally musical family. There was always music in our home, lots of fiddle, piano, guitar and voices."

Learning the fiddle—at the age of 2, she has studied classical violin as well as country, and has a degree in music. Besides winning the 1973 and 1974 national championships, she also held the California State Ladies Fiddle Champion title those same years.

With the Buck Owens Show, she toured the Pacific, including Japan, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand, and also did a recent European tour. Jana has appeared on TV shows such as "Dinah," "The Tonight Show and Hee-Haw." She recently fiddled at the Nebraska State Fair.

Appearing with Jana for the two shows per night are Matt, 10, and Katy, 8, her children by a former marriage. Others will be the Hoppers and two of their daughters, Charlotte, 15, and Lori, 19. Rick Van De Kop will play drums. Also joining them will be Walt Schroeder of Milton Freewater, Ore.

The shows will be at 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. Tickets are $3 each or $5 per couple.

Baby furniture dangerous

In one corner, an old fashioned baby crib with hand carved rails and small mattress walls, like all the other objects in the room, for the new arrival.

In another corner is the brightly colored playpen and on the floor a baby walker, a small structure on wheels, available for when Baby is ready to walk.

In the drawer with the diapers and plus are a couple of pacifiers.

But this pretty scene, which might bring a warm glow to any expectant mother is also the cause of more than 50 infant deaths and more than 40,000 hospital emergency cases involving babies annually, says Jo Olson, consultant for the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Many of the deaths were a result of strangulation between crib and play pen slats, she says. Others involved a baby—smothering itself between the crib wall and mattress.

More than 3,700 babies receive injuries in this country which require hospital care as a result of using baby walkers, Mrs. Olson says. Most of the accidents involve head injuries while others are caused by a baby's fingers becoming caught in spring mechanisms on the chair, she says.

But accidents like these can be prevented, according to Mrs. Olson.

One means of preventing such accidents is by buying baby equipment, play pens and cribs which meet new federal safety standards, she says.

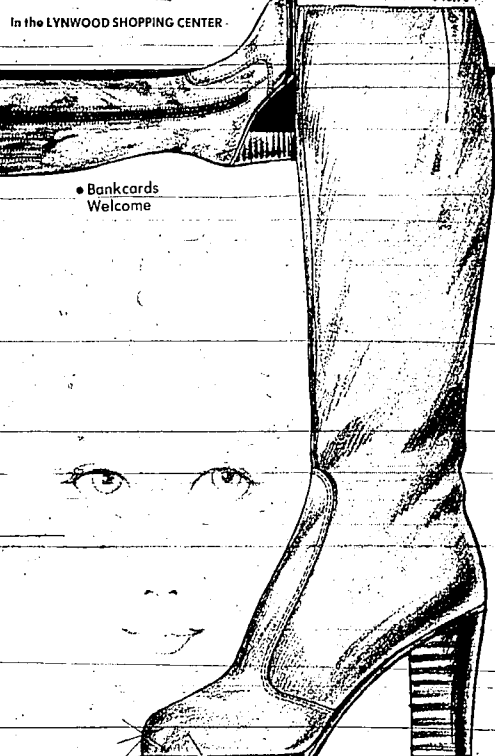

Another means of prevention is by being careful and using common sense.

A baby crib or play pen should have slats no more than 2 1/2 inches apart, she says.

Betty, Henschelid repeat vows

GLENNIS FERRY — Melody Anne Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Betty of Glennis Ferry, became the bride of Victor Henschelid of Boise.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carl Henschelid and the late Mr. Henschelid of Rupert. The Sept. 3rd, 3 p.m., double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Andrew Schumacher of Boise.

The altar was flanked by tall candle holders containing large white candles and with four baskets of peach gladioli.

The bride, given by her father, chose a white polyester crepe, floor-length gown, flowered with peach colors. The long sleeves and the V-shaped neckline were lace trimmed. Her shoulder-length veil had a flowered cap.

Her bridal corsage was of peach* and pink roses, surrounded by "Pinks Cap-lily" with long white ribbon streamers.

The bride made the dresses and her veil.

John George of Rupert was the best man and Andy Henschelid, brother of the bridegroom, was usher.

Mrs. Martin George, Boise, sister of the bridegroom, was the soloist. Mrs. Betty Reuschelid, Rupert, aunt of the bridegroom, was the organist.

The reception was held in the Winslow Park, Boise.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth, belonging to the bridegroom's mother. It was centered with a four-tiered cake, decorated with peach roses, greenery and laced icing and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. It was made and decorated by Mrs. Daniel Kubik of Boise, sister of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Harold Southwick, Glennis Ferry, aunt of the bride, cut and served the cake. Rachel Hiltzman, Hammett, cousin of the bride, was seated at the punch bowl. Michelle Southwick, Glennis Ferry, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Raymond Betty of the gifts.

The new Mrs. Henschelid is a 1975 graduate of Glennis Ferry High School. The bridegroom graduated from the Rupert High School.

Women's movement detects new enemy

©Newhouse News Service
SALT LAKE CITY — The women's movement has discovered a new enemy — the Mormon Church — because the church has found a new evil — the Equal Rights Amendment.

Officially, the Mormon Church opposes ERA because it feels that it will weaken the family — a basic element of its faith. But Ezra Taft Benson, probably the best-known Mormon nationally and next in line to head the church, acknowledged in a recent interview that he felt ERA would "weaken men."

Within the Mormon faith, Benson said, the family is "the cornerstone of society." Men are dominant in that unit, he said, because "someone must be in charge and take leadership."

In a separate interview, another church official said the question "hasn't anything to do with male supremacy."

"We simply think the family garden is the best place to grow happy humans, and that garden is already in trouble," said Neal Maxwell, who serves in the third level of church hierarchy as a member of the Presidency of the First Quorum of Seventy.

The Mormon Church position has been known for some time. But the Mormons started drawing intense feminist flak because they turned their troops out by the thousands at several state women's meetings held this summer as follow-up to International Women's Year (IWY).

The Mormon presence helped defeat ERA resolutions in several states. Women's movement leaders fear conservative elements will turn a national meeting in November into a media event of "women against women" in an attempt to derail the amendment's ratification.

"The amendment, forbidding denial of 'rights under the law... on account of sex,' would encourage women to go to work," Maxwell said.

"It will create a suction that will pull people out of the home at a time when they are most needed as mother and wife," he said, adding that it will "scramble the aspirations of our daughters and create a generational, gravitational pull from the home."

A pro-amendment group known as Mormons for ERA puts the matter bluntly: "We believe much opposition to the ERA is rooted in resistance to change. We profoundly believe that many societal attitudes about men and women are unhealthy, unrealistic and need changing."

Elizabeth Chittick, head of the National Women's Party and an ERA backer, says: "The Mormons, I believe, are running scared. They are frightened of any challenge to the man as head of the household."

"These women are beginning to stretch out. And they are doing everything to offset the onslaught of the women's movement — which they think is ERA. But the movement is going on."

Benson, Maxwell, Mormon Relief Society President Barbara Smith and Mormon public relations official Wendell Ashton all insisted the church does not oppose equal rights for women but simply thinks ERA is too broad. "There are a lot of laws already on the books but we don't enforce them," Mrs. Smith said. "One broad, sweeping piece of legislation will not solve the problem."

Maxwell, a political scientist, said ERA would be "a... constitutional... case for women which would create a sense of security, but as court-decisions come it might create consequences they don't want."

Last October, the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, as the Mormons are formally known, issued an official policy statement on the amendment. It said in part, "While the motives of its supporters may be praiseworthy, ERA as a blanket attempt to help women could indeed bring them far more restraints and regressions. We fear it will even siltto many God-given feminine instincts. It would strike at the family, humankind's basic institution."

The church, which rarely ventures into politics so publicly although it has enormous behind-the-scenes political clout, made its position clear earlier when ERA was up for ratification in Utah, where Mormons comprise more than 70 per cent of the population, ERA's aid.

Nobody much cared because feminists really hadn't counted on passing ERA in Utah anyway. However, this summer, as women around the country completed the series of state International Women's Year meetings, Mormon women, often directed by men who walkie-talkies, came to sessions in Utah, Washington State, Montana and Hawaii.

In Utah, where 3,000 to 5,000 women were expected, nearly 14,000 showed up and voted down most key IWY resolutions, including ERA, sex education, state or federal funds for abortions and additional federal money for IWY conferences. Congress has appropriated $5 million for these meetings.

In Washington State, 2,300 women were pre-registered; 2,000 more — many of them Mormons — turned up. They voted down endorsement of ERA and officially ignored abortion, day care and gay rights resolutions.

The turnouts surprised planners of the state IWY meetings and enraged feminist leaders. They already faced entrenched conservative forces in their battle to pass ERA in three more states to ensure final ratification before the March 1979 deadline. Thirty-five state legislatures have already ratified ERA.

Previously, the principal religious foe of feminists was the Roman Catholic Church. The issue was and is abortion. But it was the newly-surfaced Mormon opposition which ignited the fiercest passions at the recent National Women's Political Caucus convention in San Jose, Calif.

"I do not think we should allow Salt Lake City — where the church's leaders historically overmarried — or Home — where the head of the church never marries — to delineate what the American family is," thundered Liz Carpenter, "co-chair" of ERAmerica.

Ex-professor wins discrimination suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former professor at Southern Illinois University has been awarded $80,000 in damages and back pay to settle a sex discrimination case in which she received up to $39,000 each month less than men doing the same work.

The settlement announced Thursday by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was the largest monetary award to date under an executive order prohibiting sex discrimination by federal contractors.

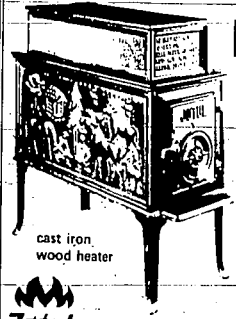

Dr. Marisa Canul-Amoros, who now lives in Spain, alleged in her complaint she was paid from $231 to $339 a month less than men doing comparable work from 1961 to 1971, HEW said.

She was a tenured professor at SIU's school of engineering and technology when she filed the complaint in May, 1971.

The settlement was reached by the university, HEW, the Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission and the Internal Revenue Service.

solve it, but his best — which consisted of coming to his hand with the Jack of diamonds, ruffing a club in dummy and leading out good diamonds — let him one trick short when West ruffed the third diamond.

South could have made all the tricks after that first spade finesse succeeded by a rather unusual play.

He should have finessed spades a second time, and the other way. In other words, at trick three he should have led a low spade from his hand and let it ride. He would then have succeeded in successfully finessing both ways against the queen of trumps.

Ask the Jacobys

An Oregon reader wants to know what he should bid with:
♠KJxx ♥AQxx ♦xxx ♣Qx.

The bidding was opened to his left with one diamond, his partner doubled and third hand passed.

The correct bid is two diamonds. This cue bid does not guarantee first-round diamond control. It merely makes partner bid a suit whereupon the cue bidder can head for game or even higher.

Today's hand looks simple enough. South wins the club lead in dummy and decides to take a first round trump finesse in order to keep control of the trump suit. West takes his queen and South ruffs home with the rest of the tricks.

Then why are we bothering with this hand? Because when it was actually played, the spade finesse worked since West didn't put up his queen. South promptly led a trump back to dummy's king. East showed out and South had a problem. He did his best to

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, SEPT. 18, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It is advisable that you don't go to new sites today but rather to carry through with what you have agreed to do while studying the best ways you can expand your activities tomorrow.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Be sure to live up to the philosophical principles you believe in. Try to understand others instead of being so critical.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Use your good judgment today and don't rely so much on hunches which could prove erroneous. Express happiness.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Don't argue with friends but be more cooperative for best results at this time. Take time for meditation that can be helpful to you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Take time to show appreciation to those who have been loyal friends in the past. Don't duck any responsibilities.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Sidestep pleasures that are too costly for pocketbook. Your mate could be in a bad mood now, but be patient and this will pass.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Home conditions are hardy to your liking, so quietly improve them instead of criticizing others so much. Show others your true colors.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Go to where the finest philosophical thought is expounded and be inspired. Be more thoughtful when dealing with others today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Think over how to economize instead of being so lavish and you get ahead faster. Be careful of strangers tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Be more objective in dealing with others and get excellent results at this time. Avoid groups where arguments could ensue.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You may want to break some promise you have made, but it is best to go through with it. Show more devotion to mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Use your best judgment and don't go along with one who has a bad idea in mind. Be objective and get good results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't take any chances where career or public work is concerned or you could regret it later. Follow all rules that apply to you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to jump into something without giving it full thought, so touch to be cautious, to think straight and to plan wisely. There is brilliance in this chart which only needs to be channeled properly.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Note it stated in print that one of the most-wanted jobs in this country is that of U.S. Forest Ranger. At least among the young men just starting college. Understandable. A life-in-the-great outdoors! Yet I recall a letter of a dozen years ago from the wife of a forest ranger: "Bunk! It's a myth! A farce! A disgrace! A forest ranger can never buy the poor housing he has to rent, can never settle down, never strike, never work regular hours, and he needs more education for less than any other body! And no independence. He's just the puppet of the federal fools!" She went on to get a little testy.

Open query: Who was the football coach who trained his college to run onto the field and join the huddle every time coach wanted an officials' time out to give his boys a little breather?

Among those American words now recognized in every major language of the world are "cover girl," "Jeep," "rocket," "pinup" and "night club."

MONA

Q. "The TV actor on the underarm deodorant commercial, ends his bit by calling for 'Mona.' Where'd that name come from?"

A. The Anglo-Saxon for moon. It's where the word moon comes from, too, incidentally. The Name Game players contend girls called Mona tend to lol around somewhat during the daylight, then perk up at night.

Q. "Were the 75,000 civilians killed by the atomic bomb at Hiroshima the greatest number of victims in any single act of raid?"

A. No, sir, five months earlier in 1945 a fleet of 300 B-29s bombed Tokyo with incendiaries which caused the death of 85,000 persons.

THE FLY

Wasn't until the space scientists undertook their optical studies to land a man on the moon that they found out how flies light on ceilings. Front feet first is how. Speed photography proved that. The fly zooms upward at about 10 inches per second. At a body's length away, it extends all legs out. When its front legs touch down (touch it?), it swings the body, and plants its back legs, winging to keep balance. Already mentioned it always takes off backwards.

Not widely reported was the fact that about one out of every four railroad bridges 100 years ago crumpled under the weight of the trains, spilling locomotives, freight and passengers into gorges and gullies, most usually way out in the towns, not even within limping distance of the nearest town.

Memphis takes 34-26 victory over Utah St.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Running back James King and quarterback Lloyd Patterson each scored two touchdowns to lead Memphis State to a 34-26 win over Utah State Saturday night, overcoming a spectacular passing performance by Aggie quarterback Eric Hittle.

Hittle completed 18 of 22 passes for 234 yards and four touchdowns for the Aggies, and tailback Rick Tarros rushed for 100 yards in 21 carries.

Aggies, now 2-1, scored on drives of 14 and 1 yard by King on a 33-yard pass by Patterson to Ernest Gray, and a 29-yard field goal by Rusty Bennett.

Memphis State trailed 26-21 remaining when Patterson hit Gray in the end zone with the 33-yard scoring pass.

Ohio State belts Minnesota 38-7

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Workhorse tailback Ron Springs rushed for 146 yards and one touchdown and a surprising Ohio State passing attack accounted for two other scores Saturday to give the fifth-ranked Buckeyes a 38-7 Big Ten victory over Minnesota.

Buckeye quarterbacks Rod Gerald and Greg Castiglione threw only eight times in the game but completed six, two of them for touchdowns and a third setting up still another score.

Gerald, who abridged for 64 yards in 12 carries, was five-for-seven for 95 yards through the air, and his 29-yard pass to wideback Herman Jones got the Buckeyes a touchdown midway through the first quarter.

The other Ohio State scores came on an 18-yard field goal by Vlade Janakievski, a three-yard run by Ric Volley, an eight-yard dash by Springs, a 38-yard pass from Castiglione to freshman Doug Donley and a seven-yard burst by freshman tailback Joel Payton.

Penn State thumps Houston by 31-14

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Chuck Fusina passed for 245 yards and one touchdown and Matt Bahr kicked three field goals Saturday to pace ninth-ranked Penn State to a 31-14 victory over 12th-rated Houston.

Fusina, who completed 15 of 23 passes, threw a 29-yard touchdown pass to Scott Fitzgibbons and set up the Nittany Lions' other touchdowns by Mike Guman and Ed Gullerie. Bahr kicked field goals of 28, 30 and 25 yards as Penn State won its second game in two starts.

The Nittany Lions scored the first time they had the ball on

Oregon tips TCU

FORT WORTH, Tex. — Neil Elshire halted a furious Frog rally by tackling Horned Frog quarterback Don Harris in the end zone for a safety with 8:11 to play Saturday that gave Oregon a 29-24 decision and extended the nation's longest major college football losing streak to 15 games.

The wild contest saw TCU score three times within a 2:27 stretch of the final period to tie the game at 24-24.

The Horned Frogs comeback followed a 97-yard interception return for a

Galindo beats U.S. challenger

ROME (UPI) — Victor Galindez of Argentina scored a unanimous 15-round decision over Alvaro Lopez of Stockton, Calif., Saturday to retain his World Boxing Association light-heavyweight title.

The beely, 28-year-old Argentine took command of the fight in the eighth round and was never hurt by the scrappy challenger.

It was Galindez's eighth successful title defense since winning the WBA light-heavyweight crown in December 1974.

The win gave Galindez a professional fight record of 51 victories against four losses and two draws, including 27 knockouts.

Lopez, a Mexican-born naturalized American, is now 38-6, including 25 knockouts.

Forego collects Woodward victory

NEW YORK (UPI) — Forego, facing the most crucial test of his career, snapped a three-race losing streak and reestablished himself as the leading race horse in America with a stunning victory in the $150,000-added Woodward Stakes at Belmont Saturday.

Michigan slips to victory over Duke

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Junior quarterback Rick Leach scored on runs of nine and seven yards Saturday to lead Michigan, which hardly looked like the No. 1 team in the country, to a 21-9 victory over Duke.

The Blue Devils were completely dominated by the Wolverine defense in the first half but showed a 14-0 deficit to five points with a three-yard touchdown run by quarterback Mike Dunn in the third quarter and Scott Wolcott's 43-yard field goal with 12:19 to play.

But Michigan then knuckled down and Leach led them on a five-minute drive, covering 88

Tigers nip Broncos in last 33 seconds

JEROME — The Jerome Tigers turned back a two-point conversion run with 33 seconds left Friday night to preserve a 13-12 decision over the Blackfoot Broncos.

It was the second bit of last-second heroics that gave Jerome its third straight Cross State Conference. On the final play of the first half, Humphreys scored on a punt that made it 12-12.

Blackfoot gave Jerome a little pause as Knox, on the third play of the game, turned the corner and sailed 77 yards to score. The point after was missed.

With about three minutes left in the first period, Jerome pounced on a fumble at Blackfoot's three-yard line and on the next play, Humphreys scored on a sweep. Cook then booted the decisive point after.

Blackfoot's offense grew stronger throughout the second half but Jerome, despite being a little leaky in pass defense, was able to turn the visitors back. It appeared Jerome had won the game with

The teams exchanged the lead throughout the game and Glens Ferry fumbled away both chances at overtime. It just the first one on the third play and the second on a second-play miscue.

Mark Sabala finally cemented the decision for Gooding when he scored from the five on the third play. John

Borah overpowers Minico 47-13

BOISE — Junior running back Carl Harrison piled up two touchdowns and more than 700 yards and the Borah Lions exploded for 19 fourth-quarter points in downsing the Minico Spartans 47-13 Friday night.

With a number of unceremonious in the runningback slots, Borah always held the lead but Minico climbed into contention with just over 10 minutes left when Borah led 28-17. Then came the three-touchdown Borah eruption that covered

Buhl wallops Middleton 50-3

BUHL — The undefeated Buhl Indians, held to a 12-3 lead by Middleton and penalties in the first half, stormed away in the closing two periods Friday night for a 50-3 decision.

The Indians, giving away some weight in the line, exploded for four touchdowns in the third period to safely decide the game.

The kind of first half it was being to be indicated in the opening minutes when Buhl punted the ball in the end zone

Kimberly rallies to beat Shoshone

KIMBERLY — Kimberly scored 20 points in the second half to overcome a 19-point halftime deficit and defeat the Shoshone Indians 28-19 Friday night.

Shoshone dominated the first half with aerial fireworks, scoring three touchdowns throughout the air.

Quarterback Brian Astle first hit his halfback Kowace scoring on a 55-yard pass, then drove 55 yards for a score with his fist and the score stood at 19-0 at the half.

But the Bulldogs were tired of watching the Indians play catch, and on their opening possession after the break they drove 55 yards for a score, fullback Mark McKinlay getting the last ten yards on a drive and the PAT.

The fired-up Bulldogs also pushed it across on their next possession with McKinlay packing the final four yards for 24-19.

The Bulldogs followed that with a successful onside kick, and the reeling Indians yielded two complete passes and a 16-yard scoring burst — by McKinlay — to McKinlay, who added a PAT to his totals for 22 points on the night and the Bulldogs had the lead for keeps.

Shoshone was unable to move the ball at all in the second half, and early in the fourth quarter Doug Pfeiffer led the game for the Bulldogs on a one-yard sneak

FAIRFIELD — Mike Dalin blocked two first half punts that Camas County turned into touchdowns Friday when the Mushers dropped the Bliss Bears 20-0.

Dalin blocked the first punt early in the game and Ron Kirland made it pay off with a three-yard run. Keith Lemmons added the extra point. Minutes later Mike Blodgett scored from the one after another Dalin blocked kick.

Late in the second period Dave Ivie hooked up with Brent Blodgett for an 85-yard touchdown bomb and early in the third period Mike Blodgett wrapped things up with a 15-yard scamper. John Kirland added the two-pointer.

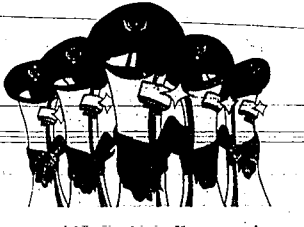

Bliss threatened in the fourth quarter, driving to the two-yard line before running out of downs.

Highland cops 28-0 win over Twin Falls

POCATELLO — The Highland Rams kept the Twin Falls Bruins scoreless for the second straight time this season Friday as they collected a 28-0 decision.

The Rams' defense kept Twin Falls well contained with the exception of Junior Pat Allison Allison, filling in for injured senior Dave Skinner, was a consistent gainer for Twin Falls but the Bruins couldn't sustain anything.

They wound up with 123 yards in total offense with numerous quarterback sacks trimming the total back. Twin Falls connected on just four of 14 pass attempts for just 21 yards. Highland, which had five turnovers, were down the Twin Falls defense, a hunko-spice unit that acquitted itself quite well.

Highland, twice, beat fourth-down plays late in the first period to go ahead on Jerry Bird's six-yard run around end. The teams later exchanged punts and Highland picked up a good chance when Twin Falls fumbled. The Ram payoff came on a 19-yard pass to Kovalis. Bird ran the two-point conversion across.

Twin Falls moved to the Highland 22-yard line minutes later but a fumble resulted in a 15-yard loss that killed that drive.

Speedster Tracy Roberts and Bird added touchdowns in the second half to make Highland away as Twin Falls was unable to mount a serious threat.

Trojans nip Oakley in double overtime

MALTA — Raft River scored on its first play of a second overtime session and then stopped Oakley on fourth down at the one Saturday afternoon to defeat the Hornets 18-12. The victory gave the Trojans the inside position in the Magic Valley Conference championship race, while Oakley absorbed its first defeat of the year.

Neither team was able to score in the first overtime after the teams had slugged through a succession of ties. Jerry Udy gave Raft River the early lead when he ripped loose on a 58-yard punt return. Oakley pulled into a tie in the second period when it put together a 66-yard drive, which Craig Bell capped by going over from the six.

Oakley had the offensive edge in the third period but couldn't score until the early fourth quarter when Baker shoved the Hornets ahead with a nine-yard burst.

After a punt exchange, Raft River started slugging downfield with Lloyd Richards, Arly Caboon and Base Ward getting the bigger runs. After a first down at the five, it took Raft River four plays to get in, Del Rasmussen getting the "lying points" on a two-yard burst.

Raft River won the game when Boyd Richin hit Jerry Udy for a 10-yard pass. Raft River's defense then made it stand up.

REACHING Garry Maddox of Philadelphia tagged out by Cardinals' Garry Templeton on a head-first slide attempt. Phillies beat the Cards 8-4.

Murtaugh ends losing streak

HAGERMAN — The Murtaugh Devils snapped a 10-game, two-year losing spell Friday night by downing the Hagerman Pirates 20-6.

Murtaugh, which lost eight straight last year and its first two this season, opened with a touchdown on an 11-yard pass from Bill Buckley to Jack Andersen in the first quarter.

It stayed like that through halftime but in the third period Hagerman put together a good march, tying the score on a three-yard burst by Gordon Sears.

But late in the third period Murtaugh took control when it blocked a punt and took over about the Hagerman 20. A few plays later Curt Upton scored from eight yards away and he also tucked on the two-point conversion.

The other score came late in the game after Hagerman, in its own territory, gambled on fourth down and lost. That was enough to seal the Pirates' fate but Murtaugh took it on "in anyway, Upton scoring from the nine.

Declo shuts out Filer 24-0

DECLO — The Declo Hornets exploded for three touchdowns in the second period and bowed into the Canyon Conference with a 24-0 decision over defending champion Filer.

Declo's defense kept Filer well bottled up throughout the afternoon and the Hornet offense loosened things up with a couple touchdown passes to dominate the second period.

The Hornets took the lead 49 seconds into the second period when Darrington hit Lamont Young with a 24-yard scoring strike. Scott Panierci' added the two-point.

On their next possession, the Hornets collected on a 32-yard bomb to Greg Richards. The blitz ended with 1:35 left in the half when Young scored from the five. Scott Matthews added the extra two-points.

Richfield topples Rockland

ROCKLAND — Fullback Jim Powell scored two first-half touchdowns as Richfield downed Rockland 14-6 Friday afternoon.

Powell's first score came on a 40-yard pass in the first quarter and his second came on a 19-yard sweep early in the second. Tailback Gordon Foyers running conversion rounded out the Richfield scoring.

Rockland's only score came on a long pass in the second quarter.

Richfield had two other touchdowns called back on penalties, but Rockland was able to mount little punch against the Richfield defense.

Castleford downs Hansen 19-14

HANSEN — Castleford scooped up four Hansen fumbles in the second half and converted two of them into touchdowns to rack up a come-from-behind 19-14 victory Friday night.

Hansen took an early 14-0 lead on two TD passes from Virgil Adams, the first one covering 60 yards on a post pattern to tight end Mike Clark and the second one going to split end Dick Wassner on a flag route.

Castleford bounced right back following the Huskies' second score in the second quarter, Doug Howard pushing the ball across from 45 yards out for 6-14.

In the second half, the Huskies fumbled the ball five times and lost four of those.

Three of these fumbles came inside the Huskies' thirty yardline, and Castleford took two of them in for scores.

The second Castleford TD came on a 3-yard quarterback option by Larry Rector for 12-14, and then Mike Bulkie gathered in a 30-yard scoring pitch from Howard the kick was good for 19-14.

California defeats Air Force

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Quarterback Charlie Young survived his own mistakes in the second half Saturday, passing for one touchdown and setting up a field goal that ended heavily favored Air Force's bid to defeat the Air Force 28-14.

Young threw a 28-yard scoring pass to Ron Moffett for a touchdown that put the Bears favored by 19 points, in front 21-0 four minutes into the final quarter.

California seemed safe enough, but Air Force quarterback Dave Ziebart passed for two quick scores, the second coming after a fumble by Young and quickly the Falcons got within range of a tie.

With California leading 21-14, Mack McColeum intercepted a pass by Young and ran it to the California 33.

But the Golden Bears defense, which twice intercepted Ziebart to stop Air Force drives, got the ball back on the first play. Defensive end Keith DeLoach stopped Ziebart when Air Force quarterback fumbled the ball, he fell on it in mid-field. Young, who accounted for California's first touchdown with a three-yard throw to Paul Jones, then took the Bears to the Air Force 19 and with the final seconds ticking off, Jim Dressch kicked a 29-yard field goal to seal the victory.

Weber romps to win

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Mark Dittmire's 63-yard scoring run opened up the Weber State offense and the Wildcats rallied for four straight touchdowns to dump Portland State 40-22 Saturday night.

Freshman running back Willie Glasser then scored on a pair of short touchdowns to give Weber State the lead for good, 23-22, in the opening minutes of the second half.

Foot troubles

Oklahoma hammers Utah 62-24

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Freshman quarterback Jay Jimerson ran 54 yards to score the first time he touched the ball and senior Dean Blevins passed 74 yards for one touchdown and ran for two more in a 62-24 Oklahoma runaway over Utah Saturday.

The sixth-ranked Sooners, who struggled to a two-point victory over Vanderbilt in last Saturday's season opener, exploded to a 31-0 lead in the first quarter with the help of four Utah turnovers.

After Nixon fumbled again, Jimerson, who scored the go-ahead touchdown in last week's squeaker, finished with 91 yards on 10 carries. Regular quarterback Thomas Lott, still nursing a bruised knee, did not play.

Blevins was at the helm of the Sooners wishbone offense at the start, when Oklahoma converted three Utah fumbles and a pass interception by Tony Peters into a 24-0 lead with the first quarter only two-thirds gone.

Jimerson and other reserves came in at that point and on the first play picked up a key block from tight end Victor Hicks and scooted 54 yards to score.

Wood River slips by Fruitland 14-12

HAYLEY — The Wood River Wolverines parlayed a fourth-quarter, 48-yard scoring bomb and two defensive plays into a 14-12 victory over Fruitland Friday afternoon.

The Wolverine defense was impenetrable from the opening series, containing Fruitland to its own territory, for the entire first half and continually turning the ball over to their offense in good field position.

At the beginning of the second quarter Wolverine quarterback Tom Bergin finally sneaked six points across from the one to cap a 32-yard drive, and Steve Burke split the uprights for 7-0.

Late in the third period the Wolverine offense fumbled the ball away to Fruitland on the Wood River 29, and fullback Jerry Grasmick bulldozed over.

But the Wolverine defense rose to the occasion and thwarted a running conversion attempt to hold the one-point advantage.

Midway through the final period, the Wolverines got the ball on a short punt on their own 37. An off-tackle play went for 5, a reverse netted 10, and then flanker Jones, coming from his split-left position, got loose and Bergin found him for 48 yards and a touchdown. Burke was perfect and it was 14-6.

Fruitland, however, was not yet beaten. On second and eight from the 35, fullback Tom Edens slipped off tackle, eluded the linchback and cake-walked 65 yards to 12-14.

But on the running conversion, which would have tied the game, Fruitland tried to sweep left end, and end Joe Richards led a mob of Wolverine tacklers to the ball carrier to end the threat short of the goal.

Fruitland got one more chance, but safety Pat Savaria iced the game with an interception.

New TV season airs fresh comedy

By ELIOT WALD
© Chicago Sun-Times

Breathe a sigh of relief: The new TV season is about to assume some sort of shape other than my special-is-bigger-than-your-special.

Breathe a sigh of deep resignation: It looks like the same old Twinkies.

Well, not entirely. Last night, in fact, saw the debut of what looks like the best new comedy of the season, the Betty White Show, and the return of a better-than-most veteran, Maude.

Betty White's new role, Joyce Whitman, is not unlike the Sue Ann Niven characterization that earned her two Emmys on the late, lamented Mary Tyler Moore show. An aging movie queen whose career is saved by a role in "Undercover Woman," Joyce has the same brittle, bitchy charm that made Sue Ann a bulwark—almost a weekly featurette of MTM. As always, White's impeccable sense of comic timing makes the show go. The half-second between someone's "sue" remark and her whippy comeback becomes, as it did so long ago with Jack Benny, a time of squirming anticipation: What's she gonna say to THAT?

In the first show, we met the cast of characters that will ultimately determine whether the show will become a surrogate for MTM fans left bereft by their heroine's departure or a collection of one-liners that, like the now-defunct Phyllis spin-off, grows stale and predictable as the weeks go by.

The preliminary indications are good. John Hillerman, as Joyce's fish-eyed ex-husband, boasts both a strong deadpan and a wicked bite for his own. Georgia Engel, George of MTM, is proven, bubble-brained quantity (although the producers promise she will be somewhat less the slack-jawed jape this time out).

Alex Henteloff as a network censor just promoted from the mail room, Carla Borelli as a natty voluptuous script girl with her eyes on Earlwood, Barney Phillips as the over-the-hill co-star, and Charles Cyphers as Hugo, Joyce's bulking stunt stand-in, all show promise of developing into an MTM-style supporting cast.

And that is good, because we need a successor to Mary Tyler Moore far more than we need another Phyllis.

Monday's other debut was the CBS entry into the wilderness sweepstakes with Young Dan'l Boone. This isn't the first time the networks have appealed to the reliable, frontierman-for-successor: Fess Parker did Daniel Boone for six years, and prior to that, Davy Crockett for Walt Disney in 1955, the year of the conksin cap.

This casting phenomenon, by the way, is what gave rise to the baseless rumor that Fess Parker actually won the West.

This Dan'l, played by Rick Moses, is different. He is young and blond, and he looks, frankly, like the first surfer in Kentucky. Even more so than prior pioneers, Dan'l-1977 spends the bulk of his time engaged in the simple pastimes: climbing down cliffs, jumping from trees and sitting nobly on his horse. He is an uncomplicated soul, given more to easy smiles than to introspection.

He is surrounded by Indians who, for the most part, look more Greek and Italian than Native American. His buddy Hawk, an escaped slave prone to improbable bursts of Shakespearean quotation, looks like a recently unemployed linebacker.

And the series, designed to lure the teen-agers whose tastes tend to dictate viewing choices, unravels pretty much as expected: lots of identifiable goodies and badies, plenty of action (through little graphic violence), and not much brain.

Which is really a shame when you come to think of it. Programs like this for little House on the Prairie, which returns to the air, would really do so much more. Set in days of yore, a show like Boone could, if it had a mind, impart a tiny, painless dose of the social history of America to its younger audience.

Boone shows the French and British as foes without ever offering a word of explanation about the French and Indian War. (Remember it from high school history? The one where the French and the Indians weren't the ones at war?)

Boone adventures return on Monday

NEW YORK — Daniel Boone, whose fictional reincarnation once turned Fess Parker into a pop star, returns to television Monday nights as "Young Dan'l Boone," a reformed creature of the family viewing hour. On CBS, Dan'l, as everyone carefully calls him in pure Western hokum style, set off to explore the Gumberland Gap in Kentucky (Dan'l Boone is lucky). Dodging the French, their Indian allies and a dastardly British intelligence agent, he survives his first adventure with long blond hair and custom-tailored frontier suit barely touched.

Dan'l's friends were apparently recruited through an Equal Opportunity Employment Agency. There is his loyal sweetheart ("I love thee, Dan'l"), a young boy, a runaway black slave who has memorized all of Shakespeare and a Cherokee Indian ("I will never understand the white man—how can you 'own' land that's for walking on?"). Dan'l himself is played by Rick Moses, whose biography says he once attended Andover Academy. Speaking sparingly through clenched teeth, Moses seems to be offering an imitation of Kirk Douglas imitating Walter Brennan.

This being the season for non-violence, the action in "Young Dan'l Boone" is largely limited to a single knockout punch or an occasional attack by a stray bear. There is one noisy shootout between heroes and villains but, miraculously, despite incredibly close proximities, no one is hit. The British villain, though, played with rolling eyes and a c flirtatiousness" by Jeremy Brett, is allowed to plunge to his death while scalping a mountain.

"Young Dan'l Boone" was filmed entirely in Tennessee. It's harmless. But, in its sanitized way, much like dressing up Western in the Hamptons, it's also silly.

"The Mary Tyler Moore Show" has departed to rerun land, but its spirit lives on in a couple of new weekly MTM Inc. series. Ed Asner will be returning to CBS in "The Lou Grant Show." Monday night, Betty White, formerly the Happy Homemaker at Mary's TV station, is brought back as Joyce Whitman, an actress playing the title role in a TV pilot for a new police series called "Undercover Woman." CBS is offering "The Betty White Show" Mondays at 9 p.m.

Joyce's primary comedy foils are provided by her former husband John Elliot (John-Hillerman), who turns out to be the director of her new show, and her young roommate Mitzi Maloney (Georgia Engel, another veteran of Miss Moore's show), whom she met at the unemployment office. John, master of the deadpan delivery, admits that displays of emotion make him uncomfortable. Joyce remembers their disastrous marriage with romantic venom: "The most charming thing he ever said was, 'Am I too heavy?'"

In typical MTM fashion, character is established, and then with unassailable logic, developed to its daffiest limits.

ABC presents children's novels for TV

The ABC Television Network, in its 1977-78 season of children's programs, is presenting an ambitious weekly series of "ABC Weekend Specials," including the debut of the "ABC Children's Novels for Television," a continuation of the "ABC Short Story Specials" and selected encore presentations of the highly acclaimed "ABC Afterschool Specials." Under the umbrella title of "ABC All Star Saturday," the remaining schedule will include five new series in a balance of live action and animation, with a greatly increased emphasis on pro-social themes. On Sundays, "Animals, Animals, Animals" will return to the lineup.

In addition to these quality weekend children's programs, the award-winning and critically acclaimed "ABC Afterschool Specials" series will return on weekday afternoons for its sixth consecutive season on the network, for a total of 14 telecasts. The hour-long presentations, which air twice monthly during the school year, have won the Emmy, Peabody, Ohio State and Christopher Award, and three ACT citations since the series premiered in the 1972-73 season. Next fall's series will include a DoPatie-Freleng production of a music appreciation story, featuring an original score by the acclaimed composer-conductor Michel LeGrand.

"Schoolhouse Rock," the highly acclaimed series of three-minute segments including "Multiplication Rock," "Grammar Rock" and "America Rock," is being expanded to a total of 31 programs next season. These series, which have been delighting and enlightening children, with their treatments of grammar, mathematics and history, will air in addition to the new episodes on the physical sciences, health and environment featured in "Science Rock." "Schoolhouse Rock" produced by McGuffey and McGall, will be telecast at intervals throughout the Saturday and Sunday morning schedule, and will have more than 300 telecasts during the year.

Laverne, Shirley begin new year

"Laverne & Shirley" returns to the ABC Television Network for its third season, premiering Sept. 20 with "Airport '80," a comedy epic in which TV's most-popular twosome has to land a plane even though they know nothing about flying and Laverne is scared to death of planes.

In "Airport '80," Laverne and Shirley win a Shitz Brewery lottery. The grand prize is a plane trip, plus tickets for two to attend a professional football in Baltimore.

However, once aboard the plane, Shirley loses the ticket to Laverne's afraid of flying. To ease Laverne's anxiety, Shirley suggests they go see the pilot, "Buzz" Anderson. However, a mishap occurs and

'Camera Three' presents pianist

Pianist Leo Smit remembers for Stravinsky and Copland in a program of performance and reminiscence on "Camera Three," tonight on the CBS Television Network.

Smit's career has been varied and distinguished. In 1936, he was the pianist for the American Ballet Company under George Balanchine and he collaborated with Stravinsky. He made his Carnegie Hall debut in 1939 and he's performed as soloist with many conductors, including Leonard Bernstein, Leopold Stokowski and Copland.

During this program, Smit will play Stravinsky's "Piano Rag Music" and Humana from "Serenade in A," and Copland's "Piano Blues" and "Passacaglia."

Copland dedicated "Piano Blues" to Smit, who says about Copland, "Playing for him was different from playing for any other composer I know. Even while concentrating on the music, and with my back to him, I could feel Copland absorbing, immersing himself in the flow of sound, receiving as much as I was giving. He became, in fact, a persuasive though silent participant in the performance."

Speaking of Stravinsky, Smit says the composer played his own work on the piano, "without technique, without color tone, without pedals, but the nevertheless succeeded in conveying the meaning of his musical thought with extraordinary clarity."

Leo Smit remembers Stravinsky and Copland" was produced and directed by Roger Englander, for WGBS-TV, the CBS owned station in New York. John Musillini is the executive producer of "Camera Three."

Return of 'Dandy Don' boosts Monday football

A strong schedule, (and the return of "Dandy Don" Meredith) promises to make the eighth season of "ABC's Monday Night Football" its most interesting season to date.

The 14 regular season games schedule includes all eight of last year's playoff teams, with at least one playoff team in action in 13 of the games.

Mr. Arledge noted: "Last year, 'ABC's Monday Night Football' was seen by more people than ever before in its history. Over 40 million people watched some portion of each game. And we are confident that this year — with the best schedule we've ever had going in — we can improve on that."

Meredith, whose sometime acerbic wit helped make "ABC's Monday Night Football" "must" viewing the first four years of the series, will rejoin Howard Cosell and play-by-play announcer Frank Gifford in the booth this season. Last season's Super Bowl champions, the Oakland Raiders, will appear on "ABC's Monday Night Football" in the third week of the schedule on Oct. 3 in a rematch of a super-charged Monday night game of a year ago against the Kansas City Chiefs. Oakland won it, 24-21. And the Raiders will be seen again on Nov. 29 as host to the Buffalo Bills, a homecoming for O.J. Simpson to the Bay Area.

One other "ABC's Monday Night Football" rematch of a year ago pits the Baltimore Colts against the Miami Dolphins in Miami on Dec. 5. In 1976, Miami scored with 12 seconds to go to come within a point of tying at 17-16, only to have Garo Yepremian's point-after attempt blocked by tackle Mike Barnes.

The New England Patriots, a playoff team last year for the first time in 13 years, go to Cleveland to face the Browns, another team on the rise, in the second week of the schedule on Sept. 26. And on Oct. 24, "ABC's Monday Night Football" will present the Minnesota Vikings at Los Angeles in a rematch of the NFC championship game, won last season by the Vikings, 24-13.

As in previous seasons, "ABC's Monday Night Football" schedule closes out with a Saturday night game (Dec. 17). This year it's Minnesota at Detroit in the Lions' Pontiac Silverdome. In one of the NFC's long-standing rivalries.

The regular season schedule of "ABC's Monday Night Football" is as follows. (All games will be aired at 9:00 p.m., NYT, to conclusion):

Sept. 19, San Francisco (NFC West, 8-6) at Pittsburgh (AFC Central, 10-4); Sept. 26, New England (AFC East, 11-3) at Cleveland (AFC Central, 9-5); Oct. 3, Oakland (AFC West, 12-1) at Kansas City (AFC West, 5-9); Oct. 10, Los Angeles (NFC West, 10-5-1) at Chicago (NFC Central, 7-7); Oct. 17, Cincinnati (AFC Central, 10-4) at Pittsburgh (AFC Central, 10-4); Oct. 24, Minnesota (NFC Central, 11-1-1) at Los Angeles (NFC West, 10-5-1); Oct. 31, New York Giants (NFC East, 11) at St. Louis (NFC East, 10-4); Nov. 7, Washington (NFC East, 10-4) at Baltimore (AFC East, 11-3); Nov. 14, St. Louis (NFC East, 10-4) at Dallas (NFC East, 11-3); Nov. 21, Green Bay (NFC Central, 5-9) at Washington (NFC East, 10-4); Nov. 28, Buffalo (AFC East, 2-12) at Oakland (AFC West, 13-1); Dec. 5, Baltimore (AFC East, 11-3) at Miami (AFC East, 6-6); Dec. 12, Dallas (NFC East, 11-3) at San Francisco (NFC West, 8-6); Dec. 17, Minnesota (NFC Central, 11-2-1) at Detroit (NFC Central, 6-6).

Soap outrageous saga

"Soap" is an outrageous comedy saga serializing hilarious exploits of the characters in two unusual families.

Meet the Tates and the Campbells, two families who have relationships as complex as those in a Russian novel. But the fun is in the unraveling.

The well-to-do Tate family is comprised of Chester Tate, the father, and Jessica, the mother, the parents of three children. Their two daughters, Corinne and Eunice, have distinctly different personalities. Their son, Billy, compared to the rest of the family, is the only sane member of the group, according to Benson, their hired employee who knows everything about everyone. The witty Benson does his best to hold the family together. Living with the Tate family is Jessica's father, referred to as the Major — who doesn't quite believe that World War II is over.

On the other side of town lives Mary Dallas Campbell, Jessica Tate's younger sister. Mary is wed to Burt Campbell, who is not as prosperous a breadwinner as Chester. Mary's former husband, Johnny Dallas, has passed on, leaving her with two sons, Danny and Jodie. The older son, Danny, does not quite see eye-to-eye with his stepfather, and while the rest of the family knows Jodie is gay, Danny just thinks Jodie has a wonderful sense of humor.

These two families share problems and secrets that are mind-boggling, but filled with fun and laughs.

Starring in "Soap" are Jimmy Balo as Billy, Diana Canova as Corinne, Billy Crystal as Jodie, Cathryn Damon as Mary, Robert Guillaume as Benson, Katherine Helmond as Jessica, Robert Mandan as Chester, Richard Mulligan as Burt, Arthur Peterson as the Major, Robert Ulrich as Peter, Jennifer Salt as Eunice and Teri Wass as Danny.

The series was created and written by Susan Harris, who also produces. Executive producers are Tony Thomas and Paul Junger Witt. Jay Sandrich is the director. Filmed before a studio audience, "Soap" is a Witt/Thomas/Harris Production.

'Bums' 5 likable guys

"The San Pedro Beach Bums" is a new hour-long action comedy featuring five colorful, likable guys who find themselves involved in a variety of adventurous scrapes.

The new series follows the comedy adventures of Buddy, Stuff, Dancer, Boychick and Moose as they continually find themselves confronting outrageous situations — mostly not of their making.

On the surface, the five young men are warm and considerate characters who have been close friends since high school and today equally share their ups and downs.

Starring in "The San Pedro Beach Bums" are Christopher Murney as Buddy, the group leader; Stuart Pankin as Stuff; John Mark Robinson as Dancer; Christopher Delfino as Boychick; and Darryl McCullough as Moose.

The series is filmed primarily on location in and around Cabrillo Beach and Port's O'Call in the Los Angeles Harbor area, and a 20th Century/Fox Studios.

"The San Pedro Beach Bums," which was created by E. Duke Vincent, is produced by Simon Munton and Earl Barret with E. Duke Vincent as supervising producer and Aaron Spelling and Douglas Cramer as the executive producers. It is an Aaron Spelling Production.

'Logan's Run' gives sci-fi action

"Logan's Run," an imaginative new adventure series looking 200 years into the future after the ultimate nuclear holocaust has destroyed most of the earth's civilization, premiered with a special 90-minute episode Sept. 16 on the CBS Television Network. "Logan's Run" will be seen regularly on Fridays beginning Sept. 23.

Gregory Harrison, who starred in the critically acclaimed film "Fraternity Row" and has appeared on the Network in "MASI" and "Barnaby Jones," stars as Logan, a Sandman (elite policeman) who questions his regimented existence in the Domed City to which he is confined and breaks away to discover if there is something better in the unknown world outside.

Also starring is Heather Menzies, who has appeared in such motion pictures as "The Sound of Music" and "Sassie" and in the television feature "Tail Gunner Joe," as Jessica, the girl who helps Logan effect his escape from the Domed City to become a hunter in search of the nebulous utopia they have heard described as Sanctuary.

Donald Moffat, who has earned two Tony Award nominations on the stage, has motion picture credits in "Pursuit of the Graf Spee," "Rachel, Rachel" and "Earthquake," and has made television guest starring appearances on "Mannix," "Ironside," "Gunsmoke" and the recent PBS production of "Waiting for Godot," also stars as the android Rem, gifted with many human qualities, who abandons his robot community, Mountain City, to join Logan's and Jessica's adventurous quest for freedom.

Co-starring is Randy Powell as Francis, a dedicated Sandman and Logan's former friend, who begins a Javert-like pursuit of the two Runners to return them to the sophisticated Domed City society, where life is devoted to pleasure but ends for its residents when they reach the age of 30 in a ceremonial known as Carousel.

In their travels, Logan and Jessica have acquired an operable hovercraft from an earlier era which assists them in their flight across the bleak wastelands remaining from the devastating atomic explosion.

Experiencing for the first time such natural phenomena as rainfall and the awe of seeing animal and birdlife, they also discover that the remaining pockets of civilization on earth are separate entities, with no lines of communication to other communities.

Besides seeking Sanctuary for themselves, Logan and Jessica are driven by another goal: the hope of one day returning to the Domed City to liberate friends doomed to extinction on their 30th birthdays.

Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts are executive producers. Leonard Katzman produces "Logan's Run" for Goff-Roberts-Stetler Productions in association with MGM Television. William Cairncross is associate producer. Robert Day directed from a script by William F. Nolan and Saul David.

Betty White show may prove 'best'

©1977 Chicago Sun-Times

LOS ANGELES — On the east wall of Stage 41 at CBS Studio Center hang two bronze plaques. One, a remnant of the days when the lot belonged to Republic Pictures, is dedicated to the memory of actress Mabel Normand. The newer and shinier one, dated 1977, reads: "On this stage, a group of friends created a television classic: The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Thirty feet away in a dressing room sits one of those "friends," Betty White. For four years, she played Sue Ann Niven, the horny, corrosive, Happy Homemaker of MTM's fantasy TV station, and although WJM-TV fired Sue Ann and the gang in the show's last episode, neither she nor her alter ego has left television.

This fall, Miss White will star in a new MTM sit-com, The Betty White Show, where she will play Joyce Whitman, a fading movie queen rescued by a starring role in a television series. And Joyce, as might be expected, bears a certain resemblance to the Happy Homemaker.

"Joyce is like Sue Ann," says Miss White over her omnipresent needlepoint. "In that she can be bitchy and zingy... but she's not as promiscuous as Sue Ann and she's nicer... Well... a little nicer."

But not too much nicer, or else there would be no opportunity for one-line zingers like Joyce's response to her catty script girl's refusal of an hors d'oeuvre. Says the script girl: "Bye, thanks, I have to watch my figure." With the withered look that has become a White trademark, Joyce replies: "Well, it's a dirty job, but somebody has to do it."

Meanwhile, if pilot previews and industry talk are to be believed, her show will be the best new sit-com on the air this year. How does MTM do it with such consistency?

"The key," according to Miss White, "is that everybody cares. Everybody. From Mary and Grant (Tinker, who is Miss Moore's husband and chairman of MTM Productions) on down, everyone is more concerned with excellence and professionalism than with egos and personalities."

Offstage, Miss White is entirely as outgoing as Sue Ann Niven, but considerably mellower. Like all the MTM alumni, she has nothing but good words for her stint in the Minneapolis newsroom. "The only way to put it," she explains, "is everyone playing. Everyone always knew when to step back and let someone else go. The humor was character humor, rather than gag. There were one-liners, but they were always in context of the character. Like the exchanges between Murray and Sue Ann. Every week there would be something. It got so we'd be eager to look at the script each week to see what new evil they had cooked up for the old

LOGAN'S RUN FUGITIVES... escape from existence in domed city

WWII COMEDY AIRS... Star John Astin, bottom right, with co-stars Five nurses, Navy men live in pink submarine

"Operation Petticoat," a half-hour comedy series tells of the adventures of a Navy crew — and five rescued Army nurses — during World War II aboard the world's only pink submarine. Circumstances of the war keep them together as the "Sea Tiger," of dubious seaworthiness and no horsepower, sails the Pacific from island to island.

Based on the popular 1959 movie, the series derives its riot humor from strong character relationships, plus the highly-charged presence of women where only men would want to be.

John Astin stars as Lt. Cmdr. Matthew Sherman, the sub's captain, a man of honor, wry wit, and — fortunately — patience and resourcefulness. Richard Gilliland stars as Lt. Nick Holden, supply officer and quintessential wheeler-dealer. The two tend to have opposite solutions to every problem.

Also starring is Yvonne Wilder as Major Edna Howard, who turns up with eccentric but workable devices to keep the "Sea Tiger's engines purring, much to the surprise of Chief Machinist's Mate Tostin (Jack Murdock).

Co-starring as the delightfully beautiful nurses are Melinda Naud, Jamie Lee Curtis, Dorrie Thomason and Bond Gideon.

Co-starring as the Sea Tiger's crew members are Richard Brestoff, Christopher J. Brown, Craig Cassidy, Jesse Dixon, Wayne Long, Richard Marium, Michael Mazes, Jack Murdock, Peter Schuck, Raymond Singer and Jim Varney.

The Sea Tiger herself plays a juicy character role, full of wheezings and clankings and unexpected terrors. Once sunk in an island harbor by enemy action, she was given up for lost, but brought to the surface due to the determination of Lt. Cmdr. Sherman. An air raid forced her to take to sea before being made completely shipshape, and Sherman is under orders not to fire a torpedo under any circumstances.

But as time will tell, she will do her bit for the war effort.

Spider-man finds way to television

To actor Nicholas Hammond, Spider-Man's popularity used to be measured in jelly beans.

That was a long time ago — long before Hammond, now a young veteran of the Broadway stage and of motion pictures, and television was selected to portray the popular fantasy figure in "Spider-Man," the first live-action television adventure drama based on the character conceived by the Marvel Comics Group.

To be broadcast Wednesdays on the CBS Television Network.

Hammond, a native of Washington, D. C., had an older brother who was active in children's theater productions in the Capital city area.

"Whenever he played Spider-Man, the show was a smash with the kids," Nicholas recalls.

"They used to toss jelly beans onto the stage as a token of their enthusiasm."

"I could tell how well my brother had performed by counting the jelly beans on the boards."

Fonda hosts special

"The Best of All in the Family," memorable highlights from the multi Emmy Award-winning comedy series now enjoying its eighth season on the CBS Television Network, will be rebroadcast tonight as a special presentation hosted by Henry Fonda.

The special program, which was originally presented on Dec. 21, 1974 in celebration of the series' fifth broadcast, will reconstitute many hilarious and representative nouns that have occurred in the lives of Archie Bunker, his family and their friends during the history of the series, which is considered to be "network television's most innovative comedy."

Carroll O'Connor stars as Archie Bunker, with Jean Stapleton as his long-suffering and slightly dingy wife Edith, and Sally Struthers and Rob Reiner co-star as daughter and son-in-law Gloria and Mike Stivic.

Also returning are Mackenzie Phillips as Julie Cooper, Ann's older daughter, Valerie Bertinelli as Barbara Cooper, Julie's younger sister, and Pat Harrington—as Dwayne Schneider, Ann's building superintendent.

In the initial episode of the four-part episode, sorely in the Romano/Cooper household comes to a crashing halt after Julie collides with a parked car, cuts her way into a job, and loses her heart to an "older man."

'One Day at a Time'

Julie gets involved in a predicament she is sure she can handle and Ann is sure she cannot, in the first part of a four-part episode marking the season premiere of "One Day at a Time," Sept. 27 on the CBS Television Network.

Herbert Keworth directed from a script by the series producers, Perry Grant and Dick Bensfield.

Bonnie Franklin returns in the starring role of Ann Romano, the divorced mother of two teen-age daughters, now experiencing life on her own

Also returning are Mackenzie Phillips as Julie Cooper, Ann's older daughter, Valerie Bertinelli as Barbara Cooper, Julie's younger sister, and Pat Harrington—as Dwayne Schneider, Ann's building superintendent.

In the initial episode of the four-part episode, sorely in the Romano/Cooper household comes to a crashing halt after Julie collides with a parked car, cuts her way into a job, and loses her heart to an "older man."

Family actors in place of real thing?

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — As sociologists decry the disintegration of American family life, television provides families of actors in place of the real thing, all the while driving a wedge deeper into real-life households.

There's even a series titled "Family." Parents and kids enjoy vicariously the warmth of fictional relationships without the hassle of personal responsibility. Electronic emotions, like TV dinners, come prepackaged. Substitute families are everywhere on the tube — in comedy, adventure and dramatic series.

Norman Lear's pastiche of comedies, from "All in the Family" to "One Day at a Time," chronicles the joys and heartaches of "typical" family life.

Even "Baretta" and "Kojak" dramatize ersatz families in police squad rooms.

The "prestigious" "Upstairs, Downstairs" series gave us two sets of families — aristocrats and servants — with whom we could weep and laugh.

Clearly, it is easier to absorb the trials of phantom families on the tube than real life trauma in living rooms.

Every successful television show performance gives Americans five or six interlocking characters who play well together in concert. Family ambience surpasses star power in importance.

No one is more aware of this basic truism than Andy Griffith. He was so adept at television family planning that his hit series of the 1960s, "The Andy Griffith Show," eventually didn't even need him.

One at a time Don Knotts, Jim Nabors and Andy dropped out of the show — which was retitled "Mayberry RFD" — and it continued to be a hit. The family of small town characters was strong enough to hold its own.

Now Griffith is attempting to put together another such project.

On Sept. 20 he will star in "Girl In The Empty Grave," the first of a pair of two-hour dramatic specials which NBC plans to convert to an hour-long weekly series at mid-season.

In both shows he plays Able Marsh, a small resort town police chief. Griffith is a proved star and shrewd enough to know he can't carry a series by himself.

He devoted weeks gathering supporting players he hopes viewers will take to their hearts, a family of recognizable characters who, for an hour each week, can substitute for mom, dad, sis and brother.

"I read with 175 different actors and actresses before settling on our cast," said Andy who, with producer Richard O. Linke, owns the show in conjunction with MGM television.

Mash has new character

The highly acclaimed "MASH" series, which has earned a Peabody Award and numerous Emmys, begins its sixth season with a special one-hour premiere episode introducing the new character of Maj. Charles Emerson Winchester, an aristocratic Bostonian played by David Ogden Stiers, to be broadcast Sept. 20 on the CBS television network.

Winchester becomes a reluctant member of the "MASH" company when his predecessor, Maj. Frank Burns, still suffering from the trauma of his blighted romance with "Hot Lips," goes AWOL and receives a permanent transfer.

Alan Alda, again starring as the doggedly medicalistic, humorous and modestly dedicated surgeon, Hawkeye — and Mike Farrell, also starring as B. J. Hunnicutt, his partner in off-duty pranks and surgical skill, discover they've inherited a formidable verbal jousting rival in Winchester, whose conservative views soon clash with their own more liberal philosophies.

Also returning in their continuing roles are Harry Morgan as Col. Sherman Potter, the 407th hospital commander with the wry wit, and Loretta Swit as Nurse Margaret (Hot Lips) Houlihan Penobscott, who last season exchanged marriage vows with regular Army Lieutenant Colonel Donald Penobscott.

Gary Burghoff continues as Colonel Potter's ostensibly innocent but all-knowing company clerk, Radar O'Reilly, as do Jamie Farr as the ever-persistent Corporal Klinger, still wearing feminine attire in pursuit of a psycho discharge, and William Christopher as Father Mulcahy, the down-to-earth priest, who lends a touch of sanity to otherwise bizarre proceedings.

By Averbach directed the premiere episode from a script by Jim Fritzel and Everett Greenbaum. Burt Metcalfe produces for Twentieth Century-Fox Studios. Stanford Tischer, an Emmy-Award-winning film editor on "MASH" is associate producer.

Debbie tells story of overcoming birth defect

Seventeen-year-old Debbie Phillips, who has never performed in front of a camera before, makes her acting debut as the star of her own real-life story — an inspiring account of how she overcame the handicaps of a serious birth defect to become a champion equestrian and an all-around sports participant.

The premiere episode of "The Winners," a new series of monthly half-hour dramatic specials aimed at the young viewer, airs Oct. 13, on the CBS Television Network.

The series will feature a different story on each monthly broadcast, highlighting the experiences and accomplishments of young men and women who reach their goals despite personal and physical obstacles.

This special marks another accomplishment for Debbie Phillips — her acting debut. She was selected to play the demanding role herself after some 25 young actresses were auditioned for her part.

Born with one leg less than half the length of the other, and an undersized foot where the knee would normally be, Debbie spent several of her first years in traction and underwent two painful operations before she was seven years old. She walks with a heavy-metal leg brace which is strapped around her waist.

Blessed with a supportive family, dedicated doctors and a natural enthusiasm for athletics, Debbie made a very early decision that she would not let her handicap keep her out of athletics. Encouraged by her sports-oriented parents and her brother and sister, Debbie set out not only to compete but to excel, in those fields that are difficult challenges even to her normal peers.

At 17, besides her triumph as a horsewoman, a medal-winning skier and a competitive tennis player, Debbie swims like the proverbial fish, drives both a snowmobile and a motorcycle, winter skis and has now added acting to her growing list of accomplishments.

But Debbie's special love is far horses. "I Can!" focuses on one of Debbie's experiences in equestrian competition, wherein she learns to cope not only with her physical handicap, but also with the emotional trials of growing up and facing the adult world.

Bob Purvey, a young veteran of television, motion pictures and the theater in the U.S. and Britain, plays Debbie's brother Flip, who trains and encourages her. Connie Hunter and Dick Gjonola play her parents, and Jim Kester is featured as her friend, Jeff. Also appearing in "I Can!" is George Cooper as Dr. Lindman, Gwen Van Dam as Mrs. Lacey, a horse show judge who puts Debbie through some difficult emotional paces, and Mary Matthews as a handicapped skier.

'Laugh-In' back after four years

Chicago Sun-Times
"Coming back isn't enough. Coming back is easy. Coming back bigger, faster, louder, brighter... that's what's important."
The speaker is George Schlatter, a bearded man with a hearty chuckle that occasionally escalates into gales of laughter. The subject is his baby... Laugh-In, which returned to the air last night over NBC after an absence of four years.

Schlatter is very proud, both of the original Laugh-In and of its return. But, like most veteran Hollywood producers, he holds few illusions about why the network wants the show back.
"They don't especially want it... they need it. They came to us again for the same reason they came last time... desperation!"
Laugh-In, for those of you who spent the late 60's and early 70's in the Himalayas, hit the tube with a loud bang in 1967 as a special. By 1968, it was a weekly show, punning, pratfalling and punch-lining its way to the top of the ratings with a mixture of sly satire, corny one-liners and cut-cut-cut visual flash.

Its hosts, Dick Martin and Dan Rowan, became household words, and its cast of unknowns became comedy stars almost to a man. To this day, names like Lily Tomlin, Goldie Hawn, Ruth Buzzi, Arle Johnson, Henry Gibson and Jo Ann Worley are liable to pop up on your television on any given night. In 1972, after two years of faltering ratings, it finally, in Schlatter's words,

"limped off the air."
Schlatter went on to produce a terrible flop, "Turn-On," a son-of-Laugh-In so bizarre and controversial—stations in Denver and Cleveland interrupted in mid-show to announce they were stopping the broadcast, after which ABC canceled the series: He was more successful with "Sonny and Cher," but he makes it plain Laugh-In is, and was, his first love.
"In his five years," Laugh-In cleared away a lot of notions about what can and cannot be done on television. Shows as diverse as Saturday Night, All in the Family, the Muppet Show and Monty Python are part of their freedom of format and subject matter to Laugh-In. It wasn't easy, though.

"When we first went to NBC with the idea, they wanted to know, 'who are the hosts?' 'Who are the guests stars?' 'What is the theme music?' There was tremendous pressure to make it like every other variety show on the air. We didn't want to have a host, but NBC felt that if we were going to go with that crazy form, at least put someone older, someone recognizable in. They gave us several choices for hosts, and Rowan and Martin seemed the least disruptive.
"They worked out well... they stood there in their tuxedos, a bit of sanity in that sea of madness, and they said 'wait a minute, hold it, what's going on here.' They were kind of a post in the ground... figuratively speaking."
This time out, Schlatter and head writer Digby Wolfe—the only holdovers from—the original show—have gotten out from under that particular requirement. Other battles, however, are never fully won.

"The networks have the art of nervousness down to a science. They're still terribly uptight about sex; they'd like to persuade the entire viewing audience that we all arrived here by bus and they still hide behind that pile of manure called the 'family hour.'"
"They say it's perfectly all right for a kid to get up and hear everything—any kind of perversion—discussed—in depth at 7 or 8 a.m. If they stay home, they can watch the soap operas, where everything happens—except a normal, healthy relationship. They watch the 6 o'clock news, complete with hatchet murders and SLA shootouts... we'll be back with more pictures of people in the burning building after this message."

Laugh-In returns

IT'S LAUGH-IN time again! Laugh-In returns with a new cast and new guest stars on six monthly NBC specials. Some guest stars include: Betty Davis, top center, and, clockwise, Sen. Barry Goldwater, Kareem Abdul Jabbar, Ralph Nader, Robin Williams with Kim Braden, Nancy Blaisdel, Claire Faudonbridge, mystery tricyclist, Lenzy Schultz, George Schlatter and center, load the Mime and Ben Powers. First show premiered Sept. 5.

Most unusual act ever seen on TV

Come genius Reed Foxx kicks off his first-ever comedy-variety series—the ABC Television Network's "Reed Foxx"—with a hilarious and sometimes outrageous blend of comedy, music and some of the most unusual acts ever seen on television Thursday.

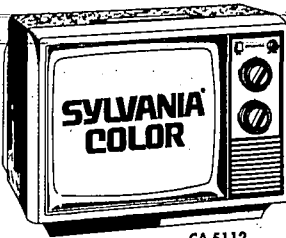

Each "Reed Foxx" program will be fast-paced and aimed at young appeal providing a unique showcase for Reed's versatile personality as witnessed by the line-up for the premiere telecast.

In addition to a host of surprises he won't disclose until airtime, "Reed" offers a rib-splitting monologue, a sketch about a visit to a massage parlor where the masseuse turns out to be feisty LaWanda Page (Aunt Esther of "Sanford & Son") and a rousing rendition of "Case on Down the Road" by the Los Angeles cast of the hit musical "The Wiz."
Reed also will re-create "The All-American Watergate Face"—and—portray—"The Forgotten Carter." Willie Joe, a Carson City, Nevada, car wash employee.

On "Reed's Corner," a regular feature on the series, he'll introduce Iron Jaw Wilson, a veteran performer and old friend who has never before had national television exposure. Iron Jaw will treat the audience to his spectacular "human top" routine in which he spins at high velocity on one knee—using no hands.
Another regular segment of "Reed Foxx" will be "The History of the Black in America." This week's topic: Reed's version of how a black man named the city of Yuma, Ariz.

Backed by Gerald Wilson and his Orchestra, Reed will display his singing talent with a solo rendition of "You'd Be So Easy to Love."
"Reed Foxx" is produced by Alfian Blye and Bob Einstein and directed by Donald Davis. Writing is supervised by Bob Einstein and Allan Blye.

Pickers protest show

CHICAGO Daily News — During a hot, rainy day last July, a group of Chicagoans picketed the office of the local ABC television outlet.

Members of the National Federation for Decency, the protesters were angry, fed up, disgusted. They didn't want to see their living rooms filled with smut — or, at least, what they heard was going to be smut, ABC's new sex-com Soap. It made its debut Tuesday.

The silent, determined marchers remained on their beat patrolling the street like vigilant guardians of morality. "Soap or Seum?" was written across one sign. Another placard had the handwritten words: "No more trash on TV."

In many respects, the concern expressed on that stormy afternoon was milk compared with the growing protest against Soap, perhaps the biggest protest ever mounted against a single program. It makes the dispute over the word "pregnant" in an I Love Lucy episode 25 years ago look ludicrous.

The obvious question is why much labor is being worked up.

Simply, the story lines of Soap seem to leap out of Penthouse magazine's letters to the editor column. The show is a joke about homosexuality, nymphomania, a frigidity, impotence, adultery, bisexuality, more adultery and mental decay.

But to be specific: Soap revolves around the weird lifestyles of two sisters, Jessica and Mary, who marry quite differently in their hands. Chester Tate, is a wealthy businessman and a philanthropist. He is being blackmailed by his private secretary and a sometime lover, Claire.

The Tates have three children: the biracial Eunice Corning, who is having an affair with her mother's lover; and Billy, who is addicted to pornography. Along with these characters are Benson, a black butler, and the Major Jessica's banker and bigoted grandfather.

On the other side of town are the Campbells. Sister Mary is married to Burt Campbell. He is impotent because he murdered Mary's first husband on the orders of Mafia boss Maffio. Mary has two sons, Danny and Jody, a homosexual who wants to have a sex-change operation. All in all, the Tates and the Campbells are not the kind of people you want to dine with on Sunday dinner, unless you are the Addams family.

Poston plays boss

TOM POSTON portrays Damon Jerome, an eccentric photographer who needs Judy Hubbard, played by Beverly Archer, left, to organize his studio and Dee Dee, played by Joan Van Ark, right, for his model, but the women cannot get along, in the premiere of "We've Got Each Other," Saturday on CBS.

Married life, job hassles make new comedy series

Oliver Clark and Beverly Archer star as Stuart and Judy Hubbard, a married couple whose privacy is constantly interrupted by their job problems, on the premiere episode of "We've Got Each Other," Oct. 1 on the CBS Television Network.

Tom Poston, Joan Van Ark, Ron Woods and Martin Kove co-star in the half-hour comedy series.

Because Stuart works at home as a copywriter for a mail-order business, his household chores fall to him, while Judy works in the photographic studio of Damon Jerome (Poston) trying to keep it from falling to pieces. Stuart's tranquility is threatened by his neighbor, Ken Redford (Kove), while Judy is constantly at odds with her boss's top model, Dee Dee (Miss Van Ark), a conflict the studio's secretary (Miss Woods) is unable to arbitrate.

Finally, when Dee Dee demands an apology from Jerome for an imagined insult, Judy fires herself from her job and attempts to become a housewife, a move that threatens her sanity and almost ruins Damon's business. It falls to Stuart to straighten the situation out and get Judy back on her job.

Clark has been seen on television in "Family," "The Money Changers" and "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman." His movie credits include "A Star Is Born," "End of the Road," "The Landlord," "They Might Be Giants," and "Billy Jack Goes to Washington."

Miss Archer recently played Nancy Walker's daughter in her series, "The Nancy Walker Show."

Poston came to prominence as the befuddled everyman on

"The Steve Allen Show," for which he was awarded an Emmy, and recently he was a regular star of the series "On the Rocks," and made numerous appearances on the Network's "The Bob Newhart Show." His stage credits include "Romanoff and Juliet," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "Come Blow Your Horn," "Bye, Bye Birdie," "Mary, Mary," and "Eldorado on the Roof."

Miss Van Ark recently starred in the television feature "The Last Days of a Cowboy" and an episode of "Kojak." Miss Woods was in the film, "Sparkle," and has sung on many variety shows on television as well as in the national company of "The Wiz." Kove was most recently the co-star of the series "Code R" on the Network.

World Series shows exclusively on ABC

The World Series of Major League Baseball will be carried live and exclusively on the ABC Television Network this fall, breaking NBC's string of thirty consecutive years of coverage dating back to 1947.

The World Series is traditionally the high point of the fall sports season, and projections are that between 100 and 120 million people will see some segment of this year's Series.

The first two games will be played in the city of the American League Champion beginning Tuesday night, October 11 at 8:00 p.m. Eastern time, and continuing on Wednesday night, October 12 at the same time.

The Series then shifts to the National League Champion's city where it resumes with a night game on Friday, October 14 at 8:00 p.m., and day games on both Saturday, October 15 and Sunday, October 16, (if necessary). The times of the day games have not yet been announced.

If additional games are necessary, the Series will return to the American League city on Tuesday night, October 18, with the seventh game on Wednesday night, October 19. Both these games will begin at 8:00 p.m. Eastern time.

Although the broadcast teams for the Series have not yet been set, "ABC's Monday Night Baseball" this season has been reported by sports-casters Keith Jackson, Howard Cosell and Bob Uecker with regional telecasts featuring Al Michaels, Bill White, Warner Wolf and Bob Gibson.

"ABC's Monday Night Baseball" games this season have been produced by Chuck Howard, Dennis Lewin, Bob Goodrich and Terry O'Neill. The directors have been Chet Forte, Roger Goodman, Joe Acell and Lou Volpicelli.

The Executive Producer of ABC's World Series Coverage will be Roone Arledge.

Teenagers live it up in comedy

The ABC Television Network's "What's Happening!!" is a half-hour comedy series about the often hilarious and always unpredictable life of three hip-attired black teenagers, their families and friends.

The stars are Ernest Thomas as Roger "Raj" Thomas, Haywood Nelson as Dwight, Fred Berry as Ron, Hamilton Spencer as Dee, Mabel King as Mama, and Shirley Hemphill as Shirley.

Raj is a smart, energetic young man who dreams of a writing career. He runs as a running career. He runs as is funny, shy, somewhat naive, Dwayne is his friend, tag-along friend. Although well meaning, the three have a knack for getting into trouble.

Dee is Roger's sister, and the niece of his life. Her favorite expression is: "I'll tell Mama." Mama is Ernest Thomas, an overworked but caring parent. She can be as tough as nails when it comes to discipline, but has so much affection in her it can be smothering. Shirley, the youngest, is a mischievous, mischievous, as much a nuisance to their families as a mischievous.

"What's Happening!!" is a TV Production with Bud Yorkin, Saul Zaentz and Bill Drescher as executive producers. Michael Warren and William Bickley are producers. The show will be taped before an audience in Hollywood.

World premiere today for "Gus"

MARIE AND DONNY
... no drastic changes

Osmonds have adult relationship in show

By WINIFREDELZE
Donny and Marie Osmond took time out from rehearsals to talk about the new look their next season of shows will have. Donny said the show would have "a lot different look. We'll keep the same format; it's not going to totally change. We're going to grow the show up, and it'll be a lot more adult."
—Marie — "Donny is 20 now and I'm 18. Our relationship with each other is more adult."
Donny — "We're not trying to prove we're grown up, we're just being ourselves. We have new interests now, dating and so on."
Marie — "Part of the show is that we talk to each other, and that's what we talk about. My hair will be cut different. I went back to New York and had it cut. My costumes will have a different look. I think we've added a few things to the show."
Donny — "We're not trying to prove we're older, we're not trying to prove anything. We're not making any drastic changes."
Marie — "We've got something for absolutely everybody now. . . . It appeal to ages 1 to 100."
Donny — "We don't want to lose the younger crowd."
Marie — "We have something for the younger kids, and the older ones, and the-in-between. We're filling in the holes now."
Donny — "We can offer people what they want."
Donny — "And we feel we can give it to them."
The show will keep many of its popular features: Jimmy Desmet will still do his solos, the Ice Vanities chorus and dancing act will be retained, and comedian Paul Lynde will continue to make frequent guest star appearances.
Marie's hobbies include designing clothes. "I have done a few that we've used on the show and in concert. It's hard to find time to do things like that," she said. Marie describes her off-camera wardrobe as "very casual. I think simplicity is beautiful. Glitter is good for television; but I think you should dress appropriately for whatever you're doing. I think a simple, well-cut dress is beautiful."
Asked what he wears off-camera, Donny said "I wear casual clothes around the studio."

Marie — "He always wears his purple socks."
Donny — "I'm never going to lose that. I don't like it when a person is sloppy and wears jeans all the time. I like to dress well. I don't like to be grubby — which is what I am right now."
Marie — "I've always loved clothes."
The Osmonds are building a new TV-motion picture studio near their home town of Provo, Utah. Donny said, "We're in the process of building it now. All the bricks is up. In November we start taping our show there. Our recording studio is there already, we'll be able to do everything from home. I was talking to Lucille that the other day and I asked her if she thought we'd have trouble getting top-name performers for our show if they had to come out to Utah and she said everybody in the industry is talking about it and wants to come out for a vacation. It's twenty minutes from Robert Redford's skiing resort, and we're building a private tennis club and racket ball club for our guests.
The studio will be suitable for film work as well as television. "Jimmy is doing a movie next month," Donny said, "and will shoot a little of it in the studio. Marie and I will be doing some movies."
Marie — "The Osmonds are very selfish."
Donny — "We want to play a serious role. I don't want to be a Beatle-type thing."
Marie — "My brothers have done concerts and records, everything possible. Now we're going to get into movies."
Donny — "Donny and Marie's career is basically in TV right now. I have an album just out: the "Donald Clark Osmond Album."
Marie — "It's very good, too."
The Osmonds haven't taken formal singing lessons. Donny said, "My brothers started to take singing lessons and it broke up their harmony. It made them all soloists. As we perform, and associate with professionals in the business we talk to them and get advice from them. The same in recording sessions. I never really had music or voice lessons — or acting lessons. I once talked to an acting professor at Brigham Young College and he said the best acting is to be yourself."

Two-hour theatrical films and television movies will fill one-third of the 1977-78 season for NBC's "The Wonderful World of Disney," representing the first format change in show's history.
Eleven full-length features totaling more than $35 million in U.S. film rentals are already set to air on television's longest-running, prime-time series, according to Ron Miller, Disney Executive Vice-President of Production.
Opening day of the NFL (National Football League) season, Sept. 10, is the world television premiere for Disney's 1976 feature film "Gus," Ed Asner, Don Knotts, Tim Conway, Tom Bosley, Gary Grimes and Harold Gould co-star in this football comedy about a goal-kicking mule and the team he rescues from bankruptcy.
Also released in theatres last year is "Treasure of Matecumbe," making its TV debut, Oct. 2. Peter Ustinov stars as a shady traveling salesman who teams with two boys for an adventure in search of pirate's gold. Joan Hackett, Robert Foxworth, Mouseketeer Billy Altmore, Johnny Doran, Jane Wyatt and Dick Van Patten co-star.
Airing for the first time is the comedy "Charley and the Angel" starring Fred MacMurray, Cliff Potts, Harry Morgan, Kurt Russell and Vincent Van Patten. MacMurray also stars in Disney's classic comedy, "The Slaggy Dog," making its initial TV appearance this season. And Russell stars in an encore showing of "The Computer Vore Tennis Shoes."
Three hit outdoor adventures are scheduled to air as well: "King of the Grizzlies," "The Incredible Journey" and "Horn, Cougar, Run."
Miller noted that Disney's new contract with NBC calls for production each year of three original telefilms.
Just completed on location in Georgia is "The Million Dollar Dixie Deliverance," a Civil War action-drama starring Brock Peters as a Northern prisoner who aids five kidnaped Yankee children held ransom by Confederates.
Production is now underway on "The Ghost Belongs to Me," a contemporary supernatural mystery in which a boy is haunted by the ghost of an 1800's Creole girl. To free himself of the apparition, he must solve a puzzle that leads to a perilous confrontation with a ruthless criminal. The TV movie is being shot in Danville, Ky., co-starring Anthony Zerbe, Steve Shaw, Cliff McGuire, Katy Kurtzman, Barbara Barrie and Nina Foch.
Last of the trio going before the cameras is "The Snatching of Little Freddie," a present-day comedy in which several children run away from home and become embroiled in a series of adventures along the road from Northern California to Los Angeles.

Students eager for TV that 'won't rot mind'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Why would anyone pay for something they can get for nothing — especially television?
College student activities committees are doing just that to present "The Best of Ernie Kovacs" — a Slavic, Wonder concert, "Mohammed Ali: Skill, Brains and Guts," or a lecture by Sigmund Freud to students across the country.
Thousands of students crowd before TV monitors in university cafeterias, lounges and rathskellers to catch a glimpse of television that won't rot your mind — a series of special programs produced by Video Tape Network, a New York based firm.
In the basement of a three-story brownstone decorated with antiques and African art, John Frieder, VTN president, and his partner, John Lollois, package their own brand of celluloid to bring "special TV directly to college audiences on campus."
The idea for the project germinated in 1962 at the cancellation of the TV space adventure series "Star Trek." Lollois, a former NBC-TV programmer, sifted through millions of postcards from disappointed "Star Trek" fans and decided something had to be done.
"They weren't the people buying songs and products but they were still an interested audience," he said. "That put the bug in my head. The networks were not the system to deliver what they wanted."
"It was 1969 when everyone was throwing bombs and seizing buildings on college campuses," Lollois said, "but we felt that this was the minority. The majority of students were really looking for some kind of release from the Vietnam War — people wanted to laugh."
And laugh they did.
The first show produced by VTN was the video-taped version of "The Groove Tube," a spoof on television programs.
"The question we face is why should people pay out money for something they can get free every night of the week?" Lollois said. "We try to answer that question with the kind of programming we provide."
The company specializes in comedy-offering programs with the Marx Brothers, Richard Pryor, the Ploresqu Theatre, the Ace Trucking Company and others.
"The National Lampoon Show" produced by VTN a few years ago brought Chevy Chase and John Belushi to Saturday Night Live together for the first time on television. "VTN's monumental success," "The Best of Ernie Kovacs," was aired by the Public Broadcasting System in April. The show was first conceived by Lollois, an Ernie Kovacs buff, and ran as part of a VTN package.
The company's latest projects include a commercial "Riviera" film — "Peppercorn," both TV satires similar to "The Groove Tube."
Lollois is also negotiating with Jonathan Winters for a comedy sketch "Everything I Always Wanted To Do On TV But Was Too Lazy To Try."
VTN gears its programming to 17-25 year olds, the "tuned in" viewership. "The programs available include sports events (NFL, Football Follies), rock concerts (Jimmi Hendrix, Rolling Stones), documentaries (Future Shock), feature length films (The Producers, Lenny Bruce Without Tears), interviews with artists,

Two programs conclude on TV

By JOHN J. O'CONNOR
N.Y. Times
News Service

NEW YORK — With no new weekly series scheduled for unveiling Wednesday night, a few paragraphs are hereby being flung to comment on items of television interest that tended to get lost in the new season shuffle this last week.

"The Six Million Dollar Man" — not himself — trapped underwater with a remote-controlled shark and finished seventh in the mangled Top 10 of the Nielsen ratings. "Bionic Woman" met "Max the Bionic Dog" and finished 18th on the charts. Both stories will be concluded this week, with an eye-to-fantasy escalations and continued belly ratings.

Back in reality, CBS News' "60 Minutes" returned on Sunday at 7 with a Mike Wallace centerpiece devoted to the subject of Uganda's President Idi Amin. The essay itself broke little new ground. With some visual aid from stock file footage, Wallace interviewed Henry Kyenba, a former Idi Amin minister in Uganda. Kyenba was interviewed over a month ago in a British newspaper, and his comments were picked up widely by the world press. He suggested Amin as, among other things, a murderer, a coward and a cannibal.

Wallace wasn't able to add much to that blunt portrait, but he did give a hard-hitting conclusion that, in effect, accused many American black journalists of allowing themselves to become tools of Idi Amin propaganda machine. With all expenses paid, by Uganda, these journalists were given selective tours of the country, complete with personal interviews from Amin. Wallace, with Kyenba being charged that they were duped.

The television newsmen also wondered aloud why so many of this country's black organizations, including the NAACP, are so seemingly reluctant to condemn Amin's documented excesses. Meanwhile, "60 Minutes" continues demonstrating its admirable ability to be provocative in a medium notorious for its timidity. Incidentally, "60 Minutes" placed 11th in the ratings for the entire week.

Later that same evening, at 9 on NBC, the Emmy-Awards finally had their right on live television — after months of delay because of internal squabbling at the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. The prospect of looking back at last year as a new season gets under way held only the faintest throbs of anticipation for this reviewer. Yet, the proceedings that ran on for an eye-glazing three and one-half hours, turned out to be one of the best award shows of the year.

The theater stage set was functionally simple, with Doc Severinsen and his orchestra on a platform above an arrangement of doors and podiums. The hosts were Angie Dickinson and Robert Blake. Miss Dickinson proved to be gracious, quick-witted and, occasionally, refreshingly pointed in her comments about the industry.

Blake is the acting profession's equivalent of punk rock. His dose and dose diction is as phony as any rock star's stage persona, and he can be tedious. But he means well. At one point, he even apologized publicly for a remark he made about Liberace.

Even the award winners were generally acceptable. Once again, Britain's "Upstairs... Downstairs" was chosen most outstanding drama series. "Roots" received its predictable parcel of awards, with Lou Gossett finally being recognized for his superb performance. And two veterans, Beulah Bondi and Burgess Meredith, were surprise winners, generously greeted with standing ovations.

Learning MUSIC

Bowling back for 17th year

The "Professional Bowlers Tour," ABC Sports' exclusive, live television coverage of the Professional Bowlers Association circuit, returns to the air in 1978 for its 17th season as one of the consistently most popular sports programs on the air.

Each Saturday throughout the 16-week winter season, the "Professional Bowlers Tour" telecasts show bowling fans their sports heroes in action and offer helpful insights for bowling enthusiasts to improve their own game. The finals competition is telecast live from major bowling centers around the nation, and the season traditionally concludes with the $150,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions, the richest and most prestigious event in the sport.

The format for ABC's live telecasts of pro bowling's big money tournaments will remain the same as in past years. After week-long competition in each tournament, the five leaders advance to the finals. The first televised match sends the fifth place finisher against the number four man, with the winner advancing to play the third place bowler. The winner of that match then meets the second place bowler, and the winner of that contest faces the leader as determined in the preliminary rounds.

MELODY DOCTOR helps a despairing soprano on the new PBS series for children, MUSIC IS. The series is guaranteed to make youngsters love music while they are learning about it. Each show will deal with a different aspect of music. MUSIC premieres Oct. 8 and runs for 10 consecutive weeks.

Slow-motion, stop-action, instant replay and split screen — the techniques that have added so much to audience enjoyment in the past will again be employed.

During the series of bowling telecasts, ABC Sports will once again offer a bonus of $10,000 to any bowler rolling a perfect 300 game on live television.

Music now in fun house in new public TV series

Music has moved from the pedestal to the fun house in a captivating and totally different 10-week public television series guaranteed to make youngsters love music while they're learning about it.

Produced by WETA-TV in Washington, D.C., this unparalleled musical experience will premiere Saturday, Oct. 8 on the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) and will run for 10 consecutive weeks. The series will also be available for classroom use beginning Tuesday, Jan. 3, 1978, at 11 a.m.

MUSIC... aimed at expanding the musical understanding and enjoyment of intermediate children, grew out of a 30-minute program with the National Symphony Orchestra to prepare Washington school students for their first symphonic concert hall experience.

The current MUSIC... series, which includes a 64-page teachers guide for music teachers as well as classroom teachers, has been made possible through a contract of $40,000 with the Office of Education of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and a grant of $300,000 from Allied Chemical Corporation.

Each program in the series delves into a different aspect of the total musical experience, opening with Music... Is and continuing with Music Is Rhythm, Music Is Melody, Music Is Harmony, Music Is Tone Color, Music Is Form, Music Is Composed, Music Is Conducted, Music Is Improvised and Music Is Style.

To convey the diversity that is music, the series touches on many different musical expressions, from baroque to rock, and just about everything in between — calypso, dixieland, jazz, blues and more. The lively format also includes "Melody Doctor," a gorilla; "Bernie, the stage manager," a knight in shining armor; young game-show contestants; and a frog. Films, tapes and animation are used throughout the series.

The series never underestimates the sophistication of today's youngsters. Therefore, while the primary audience for Music... is intermediate school students, it is anticipated that the series will appeal to the entire family. For that reason PBS has chosen to premiere the series nationally during prime time.

The series' zany musical genius who leads his young viewers through the various elements of music is Murry Sidlin, the new music director of the New Haven Symphony Orchestra and resident conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra from 1973-1977.

EDWARD ASNER stars as Grant

New dramatic series begins

Emmy Award-winner Edward Asner stars as Lou Grant, the gruff but warm-hearted television news director who returns to newspaper work in "Lou Grant," a new dramatic series with comedic overtones, premiering Tuesday on the CBS Television Network.

After being fired as news director of a Minneapolis television station, Grant heads for Los Angeles to find a new job. He takes up an old friend, Chester "Home (Hudson Adams)," managing editor of the Los Angeles Tribune, who suggests Grant take over the city desk on the newspaper. Grant accepts the challenge, but is stuck to learn the final decision rests with the publisher, Margaret Pynchon (Nancy Marchand).

Mrs. Pynchon, a widow, is tough and stubborn like Grant, and they clash at the first meeting. Nonetheless, she hires him. Grant wastes no time lacking his job, in hopes of making the faltering Tribune the number one paper in Los Angeles. Joe Rossi, (Robert Waldon), a young reporter, has discovered a secret police probe investigating alleged sexual misconduct between police officers and a group of high school girls. Suspecting that George Driscoll (Peter Hobbs), a middle-aged police-beat reporter, has been withholding information to protect friends, Rossi asks Grant for the assignment.

Edward Asner won three Emmys for his portrayal of Lou Grant on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," for the most outstanding performance by an actor in a supporting role in comedy. He also won an Emmy for his role in the television drama, "Rich Man, Poor Man." He was the only individual double-award winner of the "Television Critics' Circle Awards." Receiving one of his supporting performance in "Roots," and another for achievement in comedy, as co-star of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

ERIK ESTRADA stars as California Highway Patrol Motorcycle Officer Francis "Ponch" Poncherello in NBC's new action series "CHiPs" which debuted Sept. 15. The series deals with the adventures of two bachelor officers at work and at play.

Golf tournaments lined up for ABC

The ABC Television Network will continue in 1978 to provide viewers with live, exclusive coverage of the most prestigious events in the world of golf reported by television's most talented teams of sportscasters and expert commentators.

As in 1977, ABC Sportscasters Jim McKay, Chris Schenkel and Bill Flemming, will report on the action from the sites of the most important tournaments of the season, along with expert commentary from such veterans as Dave Marr, Bob Rosburg and Byron Nelson.

Heading the list of tournaments are three of the four major events in the world of golf — the U.S. Open, the PGA Championship and the British Open, plus the PGA Tournament Players Championship, which carries a ten-year exemption from qualifying for PGA tournaments, as do the events of golf's "Grand Slam." Among the other tournaments to be featured on the 1978 schedule are the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, the Hawaiian Open Invitational, the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open, the Tournament of Champions, the Byron Nelson Golf Classic, the U.S. Women's Open, the U.S. Men's Amateur Championship, Colgate Triple Crown of Women's Golf and the Dinah Shore Winners Circle Championship.

As in the past, ABC Sports will call upon the technical expertise developed through years of golf telecasting to make the coverage of each tournament exciting and easy to follow, using the latest mobile equipment and cameras along the fairways. Wherever the action is on the links, ABC Sports will be there with crisp, concise reporting.

'Carter Country' promises action

What happens when a young black policeman from New York City goes to work with an old-fashioned police chief in a typical southern town? Sparks fly! That's what happens on the ABC Television Network's new comedy series, "Carter Country," starring Victor French and Kene Holliday.

French stars as optimistic Police Chief Ray, a man who is set in his ways and is occasionally nostalgic for the good old days and ways. Holliday stars as Curtis, his savvy young sergeant who was born and brought up in New York and trained as a policeman there.

Inevitably, the two have disagreements and confrontations. Underlying them all, however, is a deep mutual respect. The two men understand each other and each other's methods. They even admire each other.

Besides French and Holliday, other stars in the series are (in alphabetical order): Barbara Cason as Cloris, a policewoman; Guleh Koock as young policeman Harley Puckett; Richard Paul as Mayor Teddy Burnside; and Harvey Vernon as policeman Jasper Clinton, the resident redneck. "Carter Country," which will be taped before an audience in Hollywood, is a T.O.V. production with Bud Yorkin, Saul Turteltaub and Bernie Greenstein as executive producers. Douglas Arango and Phillip Doran are producers.

Females find male in singles comedy

Fun-filled complications arise when two young women, one unconsciously provocative but puritanical, and the other a witty realist, share their apartment and expenses with the one person they've found who likes to cook and clean — a young man studying to become a chef.

The Santa Monica, Calif. apartment building in which Jack, Janet, a florist shop employee, and Chrissy, a typist, live, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Roper. They live downstairs.

John Ritter stars as Jack Tripper, Joyce DeWitt as Janet Wood, Suzanne Somers as Chrissy Snow, Audra Lindley as Helen Roper and Norman Fell as Stanley Roper. Narrow-minded and suspicious, Roper approves of the trio's living arrangement because he mistakenly thinks that Jack isn't interested in girls. Ironically, he's attracted Mrs. Roper, who knows better but is disinclined to believe that Jack has agreed only to a platonic relationship with his two roommates.

In leisure time, both the Ropers and their three tenants enjoy socializing at their favorite neighborhood pub, the Regal Lounge.

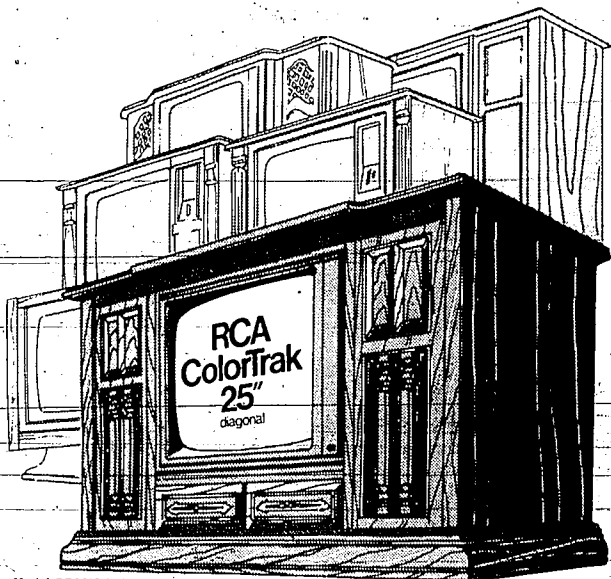

Based on the British television series, "Man About the House," "Three's Company" was developed and is produced by Don Nicholl, Michael Ross and Bernie West for the NRW Company, in association with T.T.C. Productions, Inc., and is taped before a studio audience in Hollywood.

Valley comment

QUESTION: How do you feel about high school students drinking alcoholic beverages?

Susan Waters, Twin Falls:
"I feel it should be reserved to those who have the emotional maturity to handle it."

Vanessa - Garrett, Twin Falls:
"It's stupid for anyone to do it. If you're under age, it's even worse. It is a waste of money and a waste of time."

Helen Lamb, Twin Falls:
"I don't approve. It is the influence of the parents that controls it."

Carl Fraher, Buhl:
"I don't think they should. But when a person is old enough to be drafted, he is old enough to drink. And when you are out of high school, you're usually 18."

Phil Cargill, Twin Falls:
"I am against it - don't think they should. When they drink, they get in a car and shouldn't be driving. They throw out beer cans and somebody has to pick them up."

Faye Forbes, Jerome:
"Church activities would be better. It would help the young people prepare to raise better families."

Larry Newbry, Twin Falls:
"I'd rather see them have a few beers than that dope that's going around, especially in larger cities."

Mike Rldgeway, Twin Falls:
"If you're over 18, you can drink. The age should be 18 in Idaho. If you're under 18...it's a good idea not to drink."

Pace home shows circles on circles

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEANIE AND VIRGIL PACE ADMIRE FRUIT IN PANTRY
... dumbwaiter connects with kitchen located just overhead

HANSEN — Nearly every motorist who travels Rock Creek Canyon south of Hansen pauses to glance to the east and wonder about the unusual round roof with slanted window inserts just visible above the willows.

The building is the newly completed home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Pace and is a far cry from the traditional ranch house in the area. It was designed by Pace's cousin, Jay, Pace who is presently completing his own underground home in Twin Falls.

The Paces' new style ranch home was under construction for two years, mostly because of the large quantity of concrete and native stone used in the design, and maybe because the carpenters working on it had never encountered the unusual design before.

Virgil Pace, who has been in the construction and building business most of his life, did the building with the help of individuals he hired for various phases of the work. He removed and hauled the rock from a mountain face behind the building site.

Although it was close to the building site it was separated from the creek by a hill and had to be hauled several miles-by-road-to reach the building location. Pace said he isn't sure how many tons of rock were used, but his back still aches from the work.

The entire home, inside and out, incorporates a circular design. A circular tower of the native stone encloses the bath and a library in a two-story level and protrudes above the cone shaped roof. The patios are in a circular shape, the living room is a simple step down, carpeted, amphitheater-type room containing only the built-in seating around the fireplace and surrounded by a second story balcony which circles it and contains the bedrooms.

Even—the waterbed in the master bedroom is round, and the bathroom, with its unusual rock interior walls, contains a round redwood bathtub.

Stairs leading to the upper levels are winding circular structures. The kitchen, centered by a round butcher block work table has another useful feature, says Jeanie Pace. She can close the wrought iron doors and keep out the grandchildren or other unneeded helpers while preparing a meal.

While Jay Pace was working many of his own ideas into the rest of the house, it has an electric oven and a small wood stove built into the brick structure along one kitchen wall.

"I sat there every minute while he was drawing the kitchen plans because I didn't want anything left out," Mrs. Pace said.

The most lived in area of the home, like many conventional houses, is the family room. Here another fireplace provides heat as well as decor and an entire wall of windows looks north down the canyon and onto the foothills.

The kitchen and dining area adjoin the family room. Mrs. Pace has just enough antiques among her furnishings to create an interesting contrast with the ultra modern design.

Natural hot water springs provide heat for the building although an electric furnace is installed in the home to augment the natural heat when needed.

The home includes a two-car garage in the basement level, a pantry and dumb waiter as well as storage area.

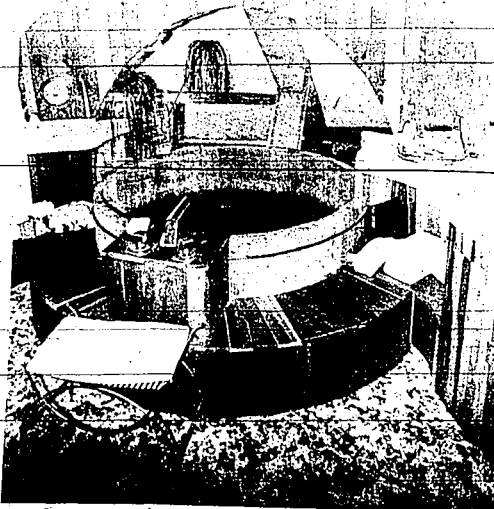

"Lots of people ask us about septic tank drainage and flood possibilities when they see the home sitting on the rim of the creek," Pace says.

"We're legal. The septic tank drains some 300 feet away and on a slope leading away from the creek rather than into it," he said.

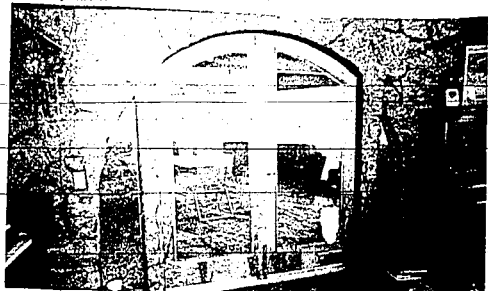

As for flood potential, the home is 12 feet above the creek bed and is also separated from the creek by a concrete wall extending down below the creek bed.

Two of the three bedrooms on the balcony-type second level have no doors but open to look down into the living room and fireplace. Although the Paces say this is no problem for the immediate family, they did add a wall and door to the guest room.

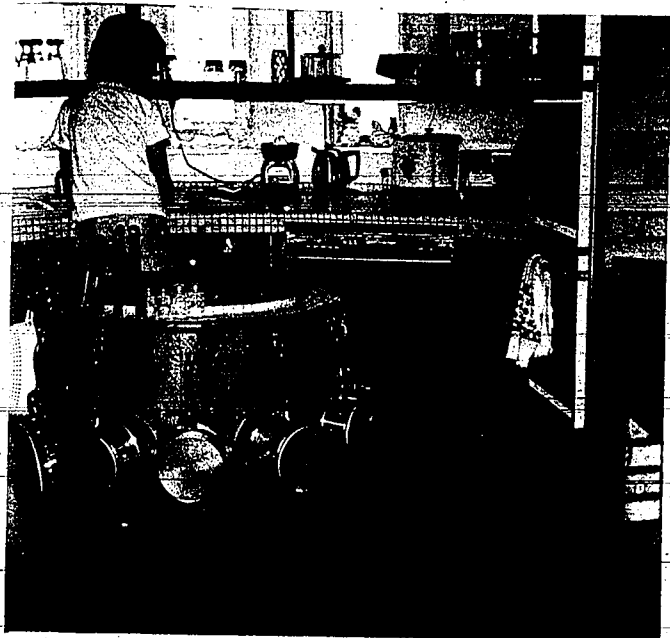

Pace who says he will probably sell the home says he doesn't plan to build another. He owns some 400 acres of land surrounding the home and much of it is rocky and not suitable for crops. He would like to see condominiums on the more scenic portions of the ranch and possibly a golf course.

Carters plan photo album

©N.Y. Times Service
 WASHINGTON — Jeff and Annette Carter, son and daughter-in-law of the President, have been noticed in the corridors of power recently in the last few months, and now the news is clear: They are planning to market their pictures in a Carter family album.

Letters went out Sept. 1, soliciting bids from publishers for the proposed project. The prospectus included a sample photographs and a brief note signed by Jeff and Annette Carter that authorized their agent to solicit bids. The note gave the package a certain cachet: "It was a Xerox copy of the original note, White House letterhead and all."

At Uniphoto, the Washington agency representing the younger Carters, Mike Pettipool said he saw nothing wrong with using the White House facilities. "Jeff lives in the White House," he said, "so he uses the stationery."
 William L. Tucker of Uniphoto, who has been designated "sole and exclusive representative" for the couple, said that Jeff Carter had seen and approved "the entire prospectus," including the Xeroxed note. Tucker said he saw nothing wrong with using the reproduced letterhead. "Don't you think the White House has been used in commercial undertakings in the past?" he asked.

At the White House, a Carter family representative had no comment on the commercial use of the letterhead.
 There is Rosalynn Carter on the left, and Jimmy Carter on her father's knee in the Oval office; Jimmy Carter in hospital gown after the birth of a grandchild; Billy Carter at bat, playing softball; a photograph of Plains in 1917; and Jimmy Carter himself, photographs of Jimmy Carter smiling and somber, turning a somersault and at his inauguration.

Tucker, in the prospectus, describes the proposed book as "unique" and says, "It promises to be the most intimate coverage yet of the First Family." The book, he says, will more than likely carry its weight "by the President himself."

Teen enacts killing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A Columbus teenager has been charged with negligent homicide in connection with the shooting death of his younger brother while the two re-enacted a scene from the movie "Dirty Harry," after watching it on television.

Delphus Thompson, 14, was charged Monday with killing brother Meros, 11, and released to the custody of his parents.

The two boys watched the film Saturday night and began imitating the movie late Sunday morning in a bedroom in the Thompson home, police said.

The older brother found a loaded .22 caliber gun in his father's nightstand, said Det. Tom Davis. The younger brother used a toy gun.

According to Davis, the older brother, holding the .22-caliber—old—the younger brother, "in all the confusion, I bet you don't know if this gun is loaded."

The statement was made to one made in the film.

Coma: next big thriller

HOLLYWOOD (NFA) — Last year's "Twilight Zone" This year it's "Star Wars." Next year, the people at MGM believe, it will be "Coma."

The film Michael Crichton wrote (from Robert Coover's novel) and is directing is currently being shot at the MGM studio. And it has one sensational scene which, alone, should be enough to drag thousands into the box office.

No one was allowed on the set when they shot this scene, but I saw some stills of it. And it is a heart-stopper. It's a scene of perhaps 20 or 25 people, hospitalized and in comas who are just suspended from wires.

The picture concerns a hospital crime — somebody has a black market in vital organs going, and put in comas into comas and takes those organs. The critical scene has those victims in one huge ward, simply dangling from wires.

They look to be floating in mid-air. They are nude (it was) shot again with drapes for TV). They are connected to a device which feeds and monitors them automatically.

The claim is that this is, in reality, the treatment of the future for people in comas. Being suspended like that eliminates the danger of bed sores. It is considerably cheaper than the current treatment.

One doctor says that, in certain burn clinics, they do now suspend some badly burned patients. Anyhow, this scene is one they hope the public will talk about and thereby hype the "Coma" box office. They have a fine cast for "Coma," too.

Gehevele Bujold is the star — (the doctor who suspects the crime and investigates it). Michael Douglas, Elizabeth Ashley and Richard Widmark. And Michael Crichton. He's the 6-10-10 author of "The Andromeda Strain" and "The Terminal Man," among others who has become a director. "Westworld" was his first and this is his second. Crichton is also an M.D., although he never practiced medicine. Still, that background helps on this picture with its hospital

"Coma" can and will be scary, without anything explicitly up there on the screen. He believes, for one thing, that the theme of the film is scary to begin with. He thinks everybody is automatically frightened — hospitals. And he believes there is justification in their fright.

"Hospitals are scary," he says, "and with very good reason. The idea has been popularized on TV and in slick magazines, so you go into a hospital for a surgical procedure — the removal of a gall bladder, say — and they fix you up and you walk out and that's that."

"Well, — sometimes — it happens like that and sometimes it doesn't. Even the best surgeons admit that surgery is risky, at best. So I'd be very frightened if I had to go into the hospital."

Crichton says that when he went to medical school — he is a graduate of Harvard — "medicine was at its most scientific and inhuman." He thinks now that it has become a little less scientific and a little more human, with more attention paid to the patient and less to the readings on the meters.

Curiously, he started out as a youngster, wanting to write. But as a Harvard undergraduate, his English professors were always saying his writing was poor — and although he might not be able to make a living as a writer. Since pre-med was popular at Harvard, he switched to pre-med.

MICHAEL CRICHTON: The director is part psychiatrist.

Effort made to promote polygamy

By TOM TIEDE
SALT LAKE CITY — (NEA) — In the 1950s the advocates of free love struggled for legal acceptance. In the 1960s it was prostitutes and pornographers. The present decade may be said to be that of the gays: What's next?

Polygamist Alexander Joseph suggests plural marriage may be about to come out of the closet.

Joseph is a sometimes health food entrepreneur, 41 years old, who says he has 14 wives. He also says he is happier for it. "Man is a polygamist by nature," he insists, "and I am only doing what's natural." What he's doing is advertising his extraordinary lifestyle in what he says is an effort to promote polygamist rights.

Rights? In other words, he means freedom of choice. Joseph grumps that Americans may not operate bordellos, so they wish, may pose in copulation for mass circulation publications, "but we still can't follow the example set by the Old Testament prophets." He to live with several spouses at the same time.

Plural marriage was good enough for Solomon, Joseph argues. And too, according to the Old Testament, the 12 tribes of Israel were founded by sons born to Jacob, two wives and a pair of handmaidens. The Bible is full of this kind of begetting. Hence Joseph's scriptural view of monogamous man is that "We're all descendants of polygamists."

What's more, Joseph adds, polygamy continues to be widespread even today. Western nations discourage the activity, but Africans do not, nor do some of the cultures in Polynesia and Southeast Asia. Joseph says many polygamists are men who also allow men up to five wives, thus several Arab diplomats in Washington are heads of multiple families.

Then there are the homegrown pluralists. Some Black Muslims take multiple wives. Welfare cheats have done it for generations. And the most obvious American block of course, is that out of Utah. Joseph says he personally knows "thousands" of Mormon polygamists, while others here say the total may be as high as 100,000.

For all its history and present currency, however, plural marriage is the stuff of suspicion in the American mainstream. The democratic value as applied to heterosexual cohabitation is: one man, one woman. In Utah, where polygamy was once a religious conviction, the practice is currently forbidden by no less than the state constitution.

It's small wonder, then, that Utah is so hard on plural marriage. Polygamists are part of an embarrassing past that seems never to fade. When Joseph Smith founded Mormonism in 1830, he said polygamy was a "revelation" from God. The rest of the nation was not convinced, and the tragic consequence was years of persecution of Smith's people.

The Mormons fled to Utah (in 1847) to escape harassment. But public outrage followed. By 1852 even some Mormons were wondering about the wisdom of Brigham Young's 22 wives; they broke away to form a church of their own. Still, polygamy continued, occasionally in the face of brutal reactions by monogamous vigilantes and U.S. troops.

Finally, in 1890, the Mormon leadership declared defeat. To honor the memory of Joseph Smith, and to minimize the humiliation of it all, the leadership announced simply that a new "restoration" had been received, this one superseding the old. Since then the church has had only one response to polygamist practitioners: excommunication.

This abrupt theological turn-about has never been totally accepted by the Mormon minority. Throughout this century angry traditionalists have defied the church by forming retaliatory sects. Often the sects have held rigidly to the gospel of the Old Testament; in some cases this has coupled polygamy with zeotry and even violence.

Currently, for example, law enforcement officers in both the United States and Mexico are looking for polygamist Ervil LeBaron. He's wanted for multiple murder. LeBaron is one of three brothers, ex-Mormons, who in 1959 formed a polygamist church in Mexico; since then, police say LeBaron has killed one brother and 19 other pluralists.

LeBaron's alleged excess is reportedly the result of his belief that he is chosen by God to install "the absolute rule of the Babylon earth by military force." LeBaron has written that since Joseph Smith was "next to God" in early Mormonism, the religion must always have a person of such rank. He claims he is now that person.

"LeBaron's whereabouts are not known. The romantic notion is that he is living in the desert Southwest, much the same as did Bitch Cassidy." LeBaron's whereabouts are not known. The romantic notion is that he is living in the desert Southwest, much the same as did Bitch Cassidy. LeBaron has more than a dozen wives, and 50 children, all of whom he cares for provisions, money, transportation or companionship.

Even if LeBaron is captured, thought, Alex Joseph says the violence among polygamists would continue. "The Church is a barometer of injustice," he explains. "When Utah outlawed plural marriage, it forced polygamists into the shadows where fear and authoritarian rule can create good, evil, and a law like that of the Old West."

That law can be harsh and swift. Earlier this year a polygamist named Dr. Rudon Alfred, 71, received a rival's warning to "repent, lest the sword of the Lord fall upon you." Alfred was killed some weeks later, with six shots from a .25 caliber pistol. Joseph says such assassinations are "probably more common than we think."

Joseph, too, has received threats. For protection he carries several weapons, sleeps at various locations, and is "susceptible of everyone." During an interview for this article Joseph put a loaded gun, hammer open, on a table in a small apartment; the gun barrel was pointed squarely at the interviewer's back.

"I take no chances," Joseph says. "I'm always on guard. There are hundreds of people out there who'd like to put me in the sand."

Joseph's adversaries are not after the polygamist's money or power. He has little of either. Rather, he says he is targeted because he is trying to go public. "Many polygamists like their privacy. They like the secrecy and the intrigue," he said. "They get rich this way. So I am now perceived as a threat to their little rackets."

Regardless of the risks of publicity, Joseph continues to solicit it. He is far and away the most public polygamist in America. He says he has wed 17 women in all, ages 13 to 31. One of the nuptials was on television. Details of the lives of the lot have been printed in such periodicals as religion tracts and Hustler magazine.

And now Joseph is expanding the propaganda. He and his women are the subjects of a low-budget, surrealist motion picture called "The Joseph and His Wives." "Every little bit helps," says Joseph. "I can't say I like to open up my private life for every inquiring reporter; but it's better than trying to live in virtual hiding."

Joseph is a one-time Marine, and former California policeman, who came to Utah in the 1960s following a "disastrous" 10-year monogamous marriage. He joined the Mormon church, began polygamy and has been excommunicated since 1965. He is bearded, flamboyant and heads a tiny sect called — The Church of Jesus Christ of Solomn Assembly.

Many in Utah think Joseph is an operator. It's noted that he usually weds women half his age. There is suspicion that he "creates good" wives (one has declared in an interview that she would kill for her husband). Common belief is that Joseph uses the wages of his many working wives to increase his personal standard of living.

Feminists are particularly critical of Joseph. Because he defines polygamy from the male viewpoint, he does not object to women marrying several men (polyandry), but refuses to believe that any men would be so inclined. Women's lib considers this to be nonsense and dismisses Joseph as merely "an oversexed, overbearing fool."

In defense the polygamist says all criticism is unfounded. "My wives are not stupid. They are not playthings. One is in law school; another is writing a book. They believe as I do. They pursue their own interests. They are not tied down as are monogamous wives. And by the way, none of my wives work."

Far from being a sexual game, then, Joseph insists his polygamy is decent and highly moral. "Most men cheat on their wives. Evel Knievel says he has slept with 14,000 women. But I'm faithful to my wives, and they are faithful to me." He says he is a sexually satisfied man with proper respect of all 14 spouses. "We are a wonderful family."

Wonderful or no, Joseph's family is not exactly a family at all. He says he is a healthy sex movement to polygamist rights: "We should have the right to be considered normal people, not freaks. We should have the right to be proud of ourselves and our ways."

By ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

PAAR POW POW: Jack Paar, the big night-time TV talk show star of the early 60s, said he would never return to television. He never did return except for a brief season in the fall of 1973. But now we hear that he has been having very private, very tentative talks with ABC's top brass.

Q: You mentioned that Joanne Woodward had a ballet company. We'd love to know more. — H.A., St. Louis.

A: Joanne founded the company of 17 dancers herself. She put up most of the money — somewhere between $200,000 and $300,000. The company will give a premiere performance for the benefit on autistic children in New York in November followed by a national tour. Joanne invited Rosalynn Carter to the opening and was going to put a PS on the handwritten invitation, she told friends, saying, "If you bring your husband, I'll bring mine." But she lost her nerve.

Q: How does an old pro like Mae West react to her successors in the movie expost department? — L.A., Oakland, Calif.

A: None. Lou Chaitlyn, Mae, who still regards anybody of even Lina Turner's vintage as an upstart, makes it pretty clear she sees nobody on today's scene as a

Q: Is Princess Margaret still involved with that young man, Rocky Llewellyn? He was the one she saw so much of before separating from Lord Snowdon. — I.C., Madison, Wis.

A: That relationship has lost a lot of spark and the Princess seems to have turned her attention to 27-year-old Johnny Goodhuis, the son of a rich Dutch diplomat.

Q: What's the deal with Richard Pryor? Is he going to do 10 TV specials or isn't he? — E.T., Detroit.

A: Pryor's agent negotiated the 10-show deal with NBC before Richard became the biggest black star in America since Sidney Poitier. Pryor, at the time, was so elated he gave the agent a white Rolls-Royce as a thank you present. But when he reached super stardom almost overnight, the actor-comedian began to wonder about over-exposure on television. The contract has been renegotiated now and Pryor will do four shows instead of the 10, but the price will stay the same.

QUARANTED ROMANCE: Vice President and Mrs. Mondale are having worries on the homefront. Their teenage daughter Eleanor Jane, 17, is having a serious romance with a Secret Service man and the Mondales are dismayed.

Q: What was the real reason that Chip, Caron and the baby packed up and went home to Plains, Georgia? — D.S., San Jose, Calif.

A: What we hear is that the President didn't like the way son Chip, 27, was becoming so enamored of the Hollywood and Las Vegas types he met. Madly figured that down in Plains, Chip would have fewer distractions and spend more time paying attention to wife, Caron, and baby, James Earl III.

Q: I've watched that ragamuffin pooch from the Broadway show "Annie" on TV a few times, and never have I seen such an adorable dog. Wouldn't he be a natural for movies? — R.S., Beacon, N.Y.

A: Not just yet. However, the floppy Sandy, who's part Alredale, part you-name-it, is the subject of a book being written by Allison Thomas (who wrote the "Benji" book) and Bill Berloni. Bill's the young owner-trainer of the frisky animal. When Bill bought Sandy in a pound for $8, thereby saving his life, the dog was so scrappy that Berloni rushed him to the nearest fast food outlet and bought him a hamburger.

SHORT TAKES: Jane Fonda and Jane Farrow, widow of Sen. Philip Hart, both turned down the job of director of the Peace Corps. Lena Horne will play the female lead in "Pal Joey" next spring in Los Angeles. Valerie Harper is on a protein diet and has lost 30 pounds. Tough-talking, nonsense author Lillian Hellman's hobby is collecting beautiful old lace handkerchiefs.

RICHARD RODGERS

Q: I was shocked to read in a recent issue of TV Guide that Dorothy Rodgers, wife of the great composer, Richard Rodgers, was listed to appear on a talk show to discuss her "late husband's" career. I didn't know he died. — N.M., Boston.

A: Like Mark Twain's premature obituary, the death of Richard Rodgers is greatly exaggerated. What makes the situation rather bizarre is that Dorothy is extremely scrupulous concerning every word printed about her famous husband. One can only guess at her reaction on reading TV Guide's unfortunate error in the program listings of its Boston edition.

everyone just stood and watched. Diana, in a stunning red dress, gratified through one set and then left.

Q: I really liked Ted Knight as Ted Baxter on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show." Any more TV in store for him? — K.C., Brooklyn.

A: Anyone as good as Ted, who can win two Emmys on as popular a show as Mary Tyler Moore, won't be away from prime time for very long. But what's on Ted's mind right now is his Broadway debut this fall in the comedy, "Some of My Best Friends," under that stage wizard Harold Prince, who always comes up with a winner.

BACK TO THE SOURCE: Yisachar Rabin, who resigned as a candidate for a second term as head of the Israeli government last April after disclosures of illegal bank accounts in Washington, heads for the U.S. lecture circuit this fall. Why? In part, to raise money to pay for thousands of dollars in fines levied against him and his wife for the bank accounts that are illegal under Israeli currency restrictions.

Q: Where's Truman Capote these days? Where's his long-awaited book, "Answered Prayer"? — G.G., Albany, N.Y.

A: He's been trying to finish his book but has slowed down considerably. An excerpt about the beautiful people was published in Esquire magazine some time ago and friends think Capote was badly wounded by the jet set's angry response. In any event, Truman has moved to Santa Monica because he was too lonely living in his house in Palm Springs.

ADVICE OF COUNSEL: The famous lawyer, F. Lee Bailey, came up with a ploy he felt might have convinced Sam of Sam to surrender. Bailey got permission from the New York Bar Association to offer through a New York newspaper to defend the alleged murderer if he would give himself up. David Berkowitz was captured just before the offer was scheduled to be published.

CHIP, CARON AND BABY

threat. Mae relishes pretending to barely remember the names of certain female stars, too. When talking about Raquel Welch (with whom she co-starred in the ill-fated "Myra Breckinridge") Mae insisted on referring to her rather condescendingly as "Little Raquel."

SHORT TAKES: Lee Radziwill is moving right along in her decorating career. She just redid the home of the William Hewitts. He's a farm equipment millionaire. Now that he's free of all charges, porno star Harry Reems plans a lecture tour of U.S. law schools. He'll talk about his personal experiences with the obscenity laws. ... rumors again that Sophia Loren and Carlo Ponti are kaput. ... Watergate felon E. Howard Hunt just sold 11 of his paintings in Miami.

JANE FONDA

Poet writes of interior landscapes

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

Every schoolchild reads at an early age about the discoveries of pioneers and bold explorers who chart the unknown regions of the earth and map them for geographers.

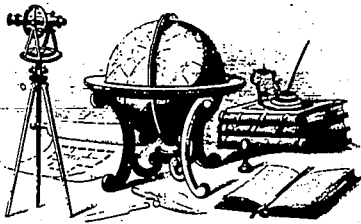

But there are other landscapes too, unmarked on any globe, and it's another kind of geography the poet explores.

Elizabeth Bishop, in her latest book of poems called "Geography III" (Farr, Straus and Giroux; 50 pages; $7.95), writes about this second kind of geography. In her poems she explores a series of interior landscapes.

There is nothing particularly strange or mysterious about the subjects of which Miss Bishop writes. She moves along recognizable grounds and indeed seems most agile and astute as a poet when she is around and about the commonplace and familiar scene. In this — her fifth book of Poetry — her best poems situate themselves in familiar geographies: a beach, a woods, a dentist's waiting room; and through the accumulation of clear, crystalline details within the ordinary moment she feels the spark of larger meanings.

As the American poet John Ashberry has so eloquently noted: "The private self — the quirks, the rightness of vision, the special sights and events (a moose, a filling station) that have intrigued Miss Bishop to the point of poetry — melts imperceptibly into the larger utterance, the grandeur of poetry, which, because it is rooted in everyday particulars, never sounds grand, but is as quietly convincing as honest speech."

In "Geography III" Miss Bishop writes about the "sweet sensation of joy" on a dark foggy night when a busload of people encounters a staunch testament-to-life-in-the-city of a horse crossing the highway; a young child's first meditation on the strangeness of being alive in this world at a specific time and place; the monologue of an aging Robinson Crusoe who's been rescued from his island and now is living out a dull life in civilization; a walk along a beach in Massachusetts; the reflections of the poet when stirred by an old painting dug out of the attic, and other common things and occurrences.

The strength of Miss Bishop's talent as a poet seems always to lie in her ability to feel meanings, beyond the trivial, in the commonplace and to salvage ordinary moments in life from oblivion.

Her poem, "The Moose," is a good example of the way her verse moves through the common scene by close descriptions and graphic details.

As she boards a bus in Maine, she writes: "Goodbye to the clins, to the farm, to the dog."

The bus starts: "The light grows richer; the fog, shifting, salty, thin, comes closing in."

The lines are short and the diction is simple. The scene unfolds further as the bus plows on into the night and moves towards Boston:

"Moonlight as we enter the New Brunswick woods, hairy, scrawly, splintery; moonlight and mist caught in them like farm's wool on bushes in a pasture."

Again, in "The End of March," she begins her poem by setting this vivid beach scene through which she and friends will make a long, reflective walk:

"It was cold and windy, scarcely the day to take a walk on that long beach. Everything was withdrawn as far as possible, withdrawn: the tide far out, the ocean shrunken, seals in straws or twos."

The rackets, key offshore wind numbered our faces on one side; disrupted the formation of a lone flight of Canada geese; and blew back the low, inaudible rollers in upright, steely mist."

But there are limitations to a style which allows sheer description of a moment's details to become the sole force of the poet's verse. Although good descriptions root you in the reality of a moment, they often lack the dramatic quality which carries a narration along and makes a poem feel compelling.

Certainly details are the components of any individual moment, but there is something else, some vague ghost of connection worked by the imagination of an active mind, which links the mere details together and adds drama and meaning to a scene otherwise lost in a junkpile of the memory.

Miss Bishop seems, at times, to lack this ability of connecting details for the reader in such a way that it all feels compelling and true. Her observation of details is always vivid, but what is not always clear is how the multiple facets of a moment connect to each other and just what the importance of that moment is.

Miss Bishop is intuitively responsive to the geographies of every-day life. But when she presses toward assertions or clear interpretations of events, her responses are not always convincing or impressive. She is not very good at playing the master and saying what these ordinary moments mean.

Admittedly, it is difficult to translate into words the fragrance of a rose or the color of an evening's sunset. But at her best, when she senses a scene deeply and catches the most compelling details for description, she somehow recasts the mood of the moment and from here an importance and meaning are absorbed.

In the end, the point on which a reader's judgment of Miss Bishop's new book will balance is a simple one: If the geographies of her poems are scenes to which you, individually, are responsive and feel drawn, you'll find a quiet charm to the poems of "Geography III." But if you do not care for, or about her beaches and woods and waiting rooms, then this book will probably seem less memorable than the grade school geography books which you once read for class.

Blind can now 'see' museum art

By NORMAN NADEL
NEW YORK (NEA) — It is surprising, not to mention sad, that museums have done so little to extend the visual art experience to those who cannot see.

True, some institutions have tried, and are trying. Good intentions abound. Problem is that helping the blind to "see" hangs at best at "marginal attention" where staffs already have too much to do just meeting the needs of sighted visitors.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York is case in point. This summer two curatorial interns (one a college junior, the other just graduated) conducted a program, "Shape and Form: A Tactile Exploration," for small groups of the visually handicapped.

First stage of the project was an exhibition of objects chosen for their form and textures, which the visitors could handle. Each object had an identifying sign in braille, also in large print, for those with marginal sight. A museum staff person accompanied each blind person, explaining and answering questions. Following this came a tour of some of the museum galleries — Islamic, Ancient Near East, Western European arts — where the visitors could touch certain items. Finally they moved into a studio where they could work with clay, paper and textiles, making their own art.

Commendable as this procedure seems, there is not wrong with it. For one thing, it represents the lowest level of the museum's curatorial staff, which in no way discredits the two girls who ran the program; their dedication and motivation were above reproach. And while they had a small amount of guidance from a regular staff person, their project obviously was of very minor importance to the Metropolitan.

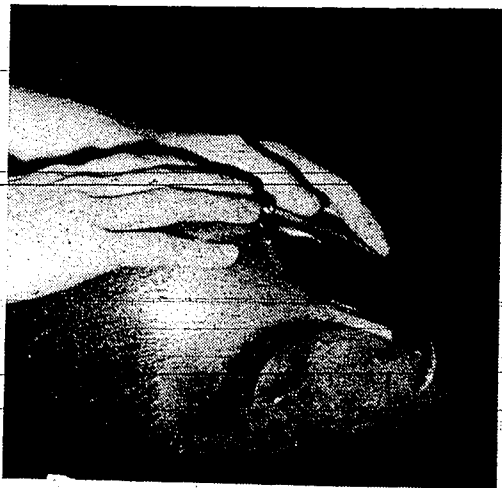

Second, there is no planned continuation and development of the project, except that a Rockefeller fellow, joining the staff this fall for a year, will be working with the handicapped, under a grant.

By no stretch of the imagination could the exhibition for the blind be called a good one for sighted people, being modest. Among items: a stainless steel mannequin with the frame of a loop skirt; a pewter whale oil lamp; a cloche hat of felt; an Appenzler dulcimer; a temple bell, with raised knobs, in bronze; a Lachaise sculpture of a woman's knees, in bronze; a glazed wall tile (Persian, Islamic, 14th century); various sculptures of brass in stone and metal; and Egyptian squatting male, in diorite; brocaded and embroidered cloth; and diron.

The items themselves are valid art objects, interesting to see, and perhaps more interesting to feel. But there is no continuity to them, no homogeneity. It was not surprising that, after that phase of the experience, most of the blind said they were too tired to visit the galleries. Feeling art, like looking at it, can be exhausting, especially when each piece is of a wholly different genre from what precedes and follows it.
