

Resignation leaves Lance slot open

Omnivest Corp.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Bert Lance affair is over and President Carter, deprived of his closest friend and adviser in government, must find a new budget director.

No matter who fills Lance's chair at the Office of Management and Budget, the relationship will not be the same.

"I don't think there is any way I could find anyone to replace Bert Lance who would be as competent, as strong, as decent and as close to me as a friend and adviser as he's been," Carter said, near tears during a nationally televised news conference Wednesday.

"His replacement will be adequate, of course," Carter added. "But I don't think I can find anyone to (truly) replace him."

Lance, who remained popular and amiable to the end, gave no indication of when he intends to leave the nation's capital and return to Georgia. Carter promised there would be an "orderly transition" in the budget office.

He said Lance's chief aides at OMB — deputy director, James McIntyre, Bowman Cutler and Harrison Welford — were "highly competent" and would carry on until a new budget director is selected.

Because McIntyre handled most of the day-to-day activities at OMB, speculation has centered on his taking over Lance's job. However, Carter may want to bring in an outsider with stronger ties to the business community. Lance was considered the administration's "ambassador" to business.

Sen. Charles Percy, of Illinois, — the top Republican on Lance's panel of inquisitors and a chief Lance critic, said the resignation decision was "correct" because it was "in the best interest of the country and the best interest of the administration." However, he added "my heart goes out to the President and to the Lance family."

Several other Republicans used the identical word when asked their reaction: "sad."

The reason for Lance's exit from national politics involved subjects that were foreign to most Americans — "correspondent relationships" between banks and the double pledge of collateral to obtain loans, for instance.

Also, there were allegations almost everybody understood, such as "check overdrifts" and contradictions of sworn testimony.

Lance and Carter met for 45 minutes before dawn Monday to discuss the situation and review each allegation that had been lodged.

"I told Bert I thought he had exonerated himself completely," Carter said at his news conference. He said he asked Lance "to make his own decision about what his choice would be."

The decision came Tuesday afternoon when, according to Carter, Lance told him he thought it was best to leave Washington.

Arresting plunge

SEATTLE (UPI) — Clarence Montgomery, an insurance salesman wanted in Illinois for parole violation, literally dropped into the arms of the law.

Police officers Don MacMillan and Jon Olson said they and other officers went to a Seattle home looking for Montgomery Tuesday night but a woman slammed the door in their faces.

Still, MacMillan said he saw two men inside the house, one of them crawling across the floor, and they ordered the door open.

Once inside, police said, Montgomery, 39, who was hiding in the attic, fell part way through the ceiling of the bedroom. He was helped the rest of the way out of the hole and taken to jail.

AERIAL VIEW OF BOX, BLIND CANYONS SHOWS WATER DIVERSION AS LINE

Pristine canyon or trout habitat?

By JEFF SHER
Times-News writer

BUHL — The upper reaches of spectacular Box Canyon, northwest of Buhl, may soon be preserved as part of the Idaho Natural Areas system under a new management plan being considered by the Bureau of Land Management.

The cost of preserving this unique area, however, may be the loss of trout habitat farther down the canyon, an Idaho Fish and Game Department spokesman has predicted.

Box Canyon, approximately 7 1/2 miles southwest of Wendell is an offshoot from the main Snake River Canyon. The 11th largest spring in the United States feeds a stream which teaps down the 1 1/2-mile long canyon, passing through a series of crystal pools and cascading over a 12-foot waterfall along the way.

Since it is almost entirely private land, the canyon is seldom visited by humans and has remained virtually unchanged since before white men settled Southern Idaho.

Thus the area is extremely valuable for purposes of research and education as an example of a baseline plant community, a community of native plants which can be used to measure change in plant communities which have evolved in areas impacted by man.

For this reason the Idaho Natural Areas Committee has been encouraging the BLM to take the necessary steps to set the canyon aside as a natural area.

But the BLM owns only 40 acres of land in the canyon, while the entire upper section of the canyon, the area least altered by human activity lies entirely on private land.

Earl Hardy, Boise, owns the entire upper section and much of the lower part of the canyon. Hardy also owns Clear Lakes Trout Co., Rainbow Trout Farms, Rim View Trout Co., and Idaho Trout Processors Co., all Buhl.

Hardy also owns land in Blind Canyon, where he has constructed trout hatcheries just south of Box Canyon.

Hardy already has secured an approved application to divert water from Box Canyon for use in his hatcheries in Blind Canyon. Although his application has been approved, Hardy has not yet taken steps to divert any water from Box Canyon in Blind canyon.

High plains farmers threaten strike

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) — Caravans of farmers in pickup trucks and tractors adorned with signs threatening a strike drove through eastern Colorado today for a meeting with Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

The farmers, most of them from eastern Colorado and western Kansas, said they would tell Bergland they will go on strike in December unless they are promised a break-even market price for their crops.

The farmers scheduled a sack lunch and rally at a fairgrounds 50 miles east of Pueblo before they meet with Bergland.

The growers organized caravans of tractors and trailers and headed for Pueblo in south central Colorado Wednesday. They said they expected hundreds of farmers to attend the meeting with Bergland.

"We're saying farmers need to take control of our own destinies and our own businesses," said Lawrence Biner, a farmer from Springfield, Colo., near the Oklahoma border. "It is time we took control of our lives ourselves."

The demonstration was organized by a group called American Agriculture. A group spokesman, Keith Thomas, said the strike will begin Dec. 14 if Bergland does not guarantee full

Russians see strange light ball

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet press reported today that a strange moving ball of light was sighted over Petrozavodsk in Soviet Karelia early Tuesday about the same time a similar phenomenon was observed over neighboring Finland.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said that at approximately 4 a.m. Tuesday "a huge star suddenly flashed out of a dark sky, sending shafts of light impulses to earth."

"This star was moving slowly towards Petrozavodsk and spreading over it like a jellyfish," Tass said. "It stopped and hovered over the city, sending out numerous thin light rays like a downpour of rain."

"Sometime later the illumination ended. The jellyfish turned into a bright semicircle and resumed its movement toward Onega Lake, the horizon of which was covered with grey clouds.

parily for growers.

Thomas said the farmers were unhappy with a low parity clause in a bill passed by Congress and awaiting President Carter's signature. He said full parity meant growers would be paid a market price at least matching costs of raising crops.

He said the farmers from Colorado, Kansas and Oklahoma, planned to meet of Rocky Ford, Colo., before driving to Pueblo, and have "a little old family sack lunch and maybe a little old family pep rally."

Thomas said American Agriculture was supported by farmers in 44 states and that growers in at least 27 states plan to "put equipment out along the highways with signs saying: 'This farmer is going on strike. We support 100 per cent parity.'"

Carter shows strain of Lance affair

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter clearly showed the strain of the Bert Lance affair by the time he formally announced his friend had resigned.

Carter, who can keep his case before television cameras and reporters, had to search Wednesday for the words — sometimes appearing to grapple with them, rather than deliver them.

“They obviously were close and he reportedly swallowed the lump in his throat.”

The fall of Lance as budget director finally came, not in the solemn and somber Oval Office, but as the two friends sat Tuesday night beside the White House tennis court, hidden by shrubs from public view.

They talked for 45 minutes following a doubles workout that included political strategist Hamilton Jordan and speech-writer Jim Fallows.

“Bert eventually said that maybe it would be best if he left,” and the President agreed. Press Secretary Jody Powell said later.

Powell is half of Carter’s alter ego. Jordan completes the set. When you combine them, their insights mirror the President’s reflection.

“Jody and I am” were in the press secretary’s office Wednesday night, sipping beer and talking about what had happened. Both were tired and drawn. They had a rough day, for they, too, had lost a friend.

They recited the final chain of events: After the Tuesday night tennis game, Lance returned Wednesday about 6:30 a.m. EDT and talked with Carter; he returned in the afternoon with his wife, LaBelle; then the resignation letter was drafted and, eventually, released.

Lance’s future was the daylong subject of media speculation heightened by the sudden two-hour postponement of Carter’s scheduled news conference.

“I’m not going to say who took what side,” Powell said as he put his feet on his desk later. “It doesn’t really matter, does it?”

“The important thing is that the system worked. Bert had his day in court,” Powell said, ignoring a question about the fact Lance maintained his innocence, but still was forced from office.

“How is Carter feeling?”

“I think he’s fairly philosophical about the matter,” his spokesman replied in a trailing voice.

Was he near tears making the announcement?

“You should have asked him that at the press conference,” Powell snapped.

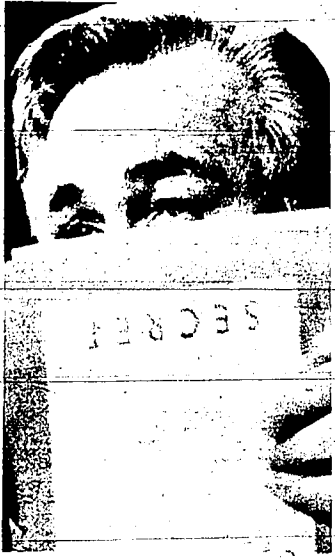

Jordan acknowledged that when the affair first surfaced, “my reaction was strictly political, then it became a matter of principle. I think for the President it was always in terms of principle.”

Powell expressed why there was an added frustration in the Lance affair. For the most part, the White House was mum “and when somebody kicks a friend, there’s a natural inclination to kick back.”

For the President, it was a hard day personally — a day in which he ended his press conference rather than wait for the traditional close by a reporter.

“People were asking the same questions and I guess he got tired of answering them again,” Powell said.

Price limit fails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has shown strong sentiment for a substantial increase in the price of natural gas.

By a 73-21 vote Wednesday, the Senate rejected a proposal by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., to hold gas at its present federal ceiling and allow only a small yearly increase tied to inflation.

The Senate action ended the threat of a filibuster and set a 6:30 p.m. EDT vote tonight on the chief rival to President Carter's natural gas plan — a proposal by Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., and James Pearson, R-Kan., to phase out federal price controls.

Carter wants controls extended to intrastate sales of gas, but under a new federal ceiling of $1.75 per thousand cubic feet, compared with the current $1.45.

Bentsen said a price increase with deregulated prices, “if not production, make the United States independent of foreign oil and prevent the nation’s having to get down on our knees to the Arabs.”

“We would be avash with gas, with deregulated prices,” Bentsen said. “Deregulation of the price of natural gas was a good idea two years ago. Today it has become a compelling national necessity.”

Kennedy told the Senate, “Natural gas prices already have risen several hundred per cent. Ceilings that were 22 cents per thousand cubic feet in 1972 are now at $1.45. But the producers say that is not enough.”

Another Carter energy proposal — a tax on domestic crude oil — was sent back to the drawing boards Wednesday. The tax-writing Senate Finance Committee postponed a vote so its staff could work out a compromise on how to spend the billions of dollars the tax would raise.

Carter proposed to tax oil in a three-year plan to raise its price to the cost of imported oil and discourage consumption. He suggested rebalancing the money-to-Americans as income tax credits. Opponents wanted the money to go to oil companies for more exploration.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., called the Carter plan “just damned foolishness.”

Ribicoff and Sen. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., prepared a plan to rebate the tax to the poor and to gain tax revenues for certain energy development and build a trust fund for mass transit.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, offered a plan to impose the tax, but lower it each year over four years, at the same time freeing oil from price controls.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., the committee chairman, liked the outlines of a proposal by former Vice President Nelson Rockefeller for a federal corporation to make and guarantee loans for energy companies to develop new sources.

PRESIDENT BITES HIS LIP
... while reading Lance letter

Lance quits post

Carter had scheduled his news conference for 3 p.m. EDT Wednesday, but delayed it for two hours to allow Lance time to draft a letter of resignation.

The President was somber and unsmiling throughout the news conference. He made it quite clear he would remain loyal to the end.

“Bert Lance is my friend,” he said. “I know him, personally, as well as if he was my own brother. I know him without any doubt in my mind or heart to be a good and an honorable man.”

Carter read the letter from Lance, drafted with the assistance of respected attorney Clark Clifford, which said it was important to Lance “that my name and reputation be cleared... I believe this has been done. As I said at the Senate hearings, my conscience is clear.”

“And then came the line that hurt Lance — and obviously Carter — the most:

“I have decided to submit my resignation as director of OMB. I desire to return to my native state of Georgia.”

El Paso drops pipeline plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The El Paso Co. today gave up its efforts to win congressional approval of an “anti-American” pipeline to carry Alaskan natural gas to the lower 48 states.

El Paso Chairman Howard Boyd told House members that “political reality” showed the company’s proposal could not win over President Carter’s choice of a trans-Canadian pipeline.

However, in response to questions, Boyd suggested his company would renew its plan to build a gas pipeline paralleling the trans-Alaska oil pipeline if Congress fails to go along with Carter’s proposal for a line following the “Alcan-Highway” right-of-way.

“Above all else, Alaskan gas is needed in the lower-48 states at the earliest practicable date,” Boyd said. “To that end, let the sponsors of the trans-Canadian project commence their efforts to finance and get on with the project.”

Boyd was the first to testify as two House subcommittees began joint hearings on Carter’s recommendation.

There was grumbling among members of the power and energy subcommittee and the Indian affairs subcommittee about the failure of the administration to provide detailed information on a U.S.-Canadian pipeline agreement.

Reps. Don Young, R-Alaska, and Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, said Congress was being asked to act in the dark on the proposal.

“But that’s not the first time,” Brown said.

Several committee members, including Rep. Teno Roncillo, D-Wyo., indicated they still favored the El Paso proposal — but El Paso’s surrender indicated they were in a minority.

Orderly transfer in budget office

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There will be an orderly transition until Bert Lance’s successor is chosen, says President Carter, because the chief aides in the budget office are “highly competent... long-time professionals.”

Carter told reporters Wednesday that despite Lance’s recent preoccupation defending himself against allegations of impropriety in personal banking and financial matters, there has been “absolutely no slippage” in the operations of the office.

Because the Office of Budget and Management is “an extension of the Oval Office,” Carter says he is well-acquainted with Lance’s immediate subordinates. “They are highly competent,” he said. “They’ve been chosen by him and me, or are long-time professionals there.”

Interim head of OMB will be James McIntyre, deputy director, who as budget director in Georgia pushed the zero-base budgeting concept now being implemented on a federal level.

McIntyre’s top aide is Bowman Cutter, a former assistant to the president of the Washington Post Co., whose main job is piecing together the fiscal 1978 budget.

Border war slacks off

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli troops and armor deep inside Lebanon today scaled down their hammering of Palestinians and leftists, but remained periscope close to Syrian troop positions in the southern war zone.

“There has been a deescalation of the fighting in the past 24 hours,” a journalist in the region today, adding two people were killed and five wounded in overnight shelling of the Palestinian-held village of Rachaya al-Foukar.

The Palestinians have been reinforced by members of the Saiga guerrilla group and are employing artillery in an 800-year-old Crusader fortification, Beaufort Castle, high atop a crag with a commanding view of the battle area, the reporter said.

The journalist said Israeli troops and armored cars that crossed the border three days ago today were “still holding their positions and building fortifications.”

Israeli artillery — both inside Lebanon and within Israel — have been pounding away at Palestinian-Lebanese leftist positions for at least three days in support of attacks by Lebanese Christian rightists.

Palestinians retaliated with a rocket barrage on an Israeli border town Wednesday — the first in 18 months — and Israeli gunboats reportedly blockaded the biblical ports of Sidon and Tyre to choke off the guerrillas’ supply lines.

As the Israeli invasion in support of Lebanese Christian rightists battling the Palestinians drew within less than eight miles of Syrian troop encampments, fears heightened of an all-out Israeli-Syrian clash.

But the Syrians, who entered Lebanon to quash the civil war, made no move to join the fray despite several Israeli 175mm shells that landed Wednesday near one of their outposts, the journalist said Wednesday.

“The southernmost Syrian outpost is now only 7.8 miles north of Haura, the northernmost Israeli position, he said.

“Jordan has no intention of negotiating any bilateral agreement with Israel,” said Abdul Hamid Sharaf, chief of the royal cabinet.

Sharaf flew to Washington with a message from Hussein to President Carter concerning

Briton escapes Uganda prison

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Uganda said today that British-born businessman Robert Scanlon, arrested on espionage charges, escaped from a remote prison two weeks ago and was spirited away by British intelligence.

A Kampala Radio broadcast mentioned in Nairobi said Ugandan security forces had mounted a search for Scanlon, but he had not been found.

The radio quoted a military spokesman as saying that Scanlon, who was arrested in June and accused of spying, was scheduled to be brought to trial next week. It said the charge was “serious.”

“It was apparent that Scanlon was stolen from prison by the British imperialist intelligence for whom he was spying,” the radio broadcast said.

“As such the Uganda government no longer holds itself responsible for him. It is the British imperialists who have stolen him and are now responsible for him,” the broadcast said.

The spokesman appealed to the Ugandan public to report to a security station if Scanlon is seen.

John London, the Foreign Office said Britain “was not involved in any way.” Scanlon’s reported escape (A Foreign Office spokesman said the British government has been concerned ever since Scanlon’s disappearance from his Kampala home in June but has been unable to do anything to help him because Britain has no diplomatic relations or representation of any kind in the Ugandan capital.)

Kuwaiti officials also announced the interior ministry had imposed a temporary ban on daily visits to the country.

Church raps 'sugar coat'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury officials told Congress Wednesday the world financial system is not in danger of collapse because of the unprecedented international debt caused by inflated oil prices.

But Anthony M. Solomon, Undersecretary of the Treasury for Monetary Affairs also said the situation "is no cause for comfort or complacency."

Solomon told the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Foreign Policy, some sectors fear "this rapid and unprecedented enlargement of lending activity and debt has reached a danger point for the monetary system."

"It is our considered judgment that the system as a whole is not in any such position of imminent danger, either as a result of excessive borrowing by large numbers of debtor nations or as a result of our financial institutions being overstretched," Solomon said.

But he said the fact the financing system has survived so far, "is no cause for comfort or complacency. Success in the past is no guarantee that we are adequately armed for the period ahead."

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, accused Solomon of "sugar coating" the situation. He said the combination of inflated oil prices and mounting international deficits endangers democracy, and constitutes "potentially the most serious international economic crisis since the 1930's."

"I think the patient is pretty sick at this point. At the best we know the patient is suffering from a disease for which we don't have a positive cure," Church said.

Church favored the U.S. contributing $1.7 billion to the $10 billion sought by the International Monetary Fund to help debt-ridden nations pay soaring oil import bills, but called it a stop-gap measure.

"There's a crunch out here ahead... I hope there is a trick that works," Church said.

"The situation reminds me on an international scale of the plight of New York City," Church said.

"Everyone was on notice that debt was mounting beyond the capacity of the city to sustain it."

"But no one — neither the political nor the financial leadership of the city — could get off the treadmill," Church said.

"They just went on piling debts upon debts, hoping that somehow, some way, something would come along to bail them out," Church said.

"I am frank to say that I fear that we are on the same treadmill at the international financial level but with much more perilous consequences, not only for the world economy, but for political democracy itself," Church said.

Research limits set

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Berkeley City Council Wednesday night adopted an ordinance regulating recombinant DNA research conducted within the city limits.

The controversial new research involves splicing together pieces of DNA to create new life forms.

Under the new ordinance any organization or corporation wishing to conduct DNA research must get a city permit, which is renewable each year.

The University of California, situated on state land, is not affected by the measure.

Cetus Corp. has indicated it will request a permit.

Ford surprise mild

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Former President Ford Wednesday expressed mild surprise at the resignation of Budget Director Bert Lance but noted "once the ball starts going down the hill it's pretty hard to stop."

Ford said he was "surprised at the resignation. But if you look at what has happened, it was inevitable."

"I personally felt he had done a good job as OMB director, but once the ball starts going down the hill it's pretty hard to stop," the former President said.

He said it would be "hard to tell" what affect the Lance affair would have on President Carter.

N. Korea official may visit

TOKYO (UPI) — North Korean Foreign Minister Ho Dam today had the green light to become the first high North Korean official ever to visit the United States.

The State Department announced Wednesday it had granted Ho a visa to attend a Sept. 26 meeting on nonaligned nations in New York in connection with the current session of the U.N. General Assembly.

At the same time, Japan's Kyodo news agency reported that U.S. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., had told Japanese officials that Parliament now in Washington that he planned to visit North Korea.

If he does, McGovern would be the first American official ever to be received in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

State Department spokesmen said they knew of no plans for Ho, 53, who has been foreign minister since 1970, to hold meetings with U.S. officials while in New York, but would not rule out such meetings.

Abduction said hoax

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A University of Florida coed, who originally told police she had been kidnaped and held for nine days, admitted today it was a hoax and she had simply run away from home.

Terri Lynn Guy, a pretty, 20-year-old business major, "broke down and admitted it was a hoax" after more than three hours of interrogation by officers, police spokesman Mike Gould said.

Miss Guy had called her parents from Decatur, Ga., Wednesday morning and said she had escaped from her kidnaper just a few minutes before when her abductor had allegedly tried to sexually assault her in the back of his van.

But Gould said she had actually taken a bus to Atlanta and spent the time since she disappeared Sept. 12 from a west-side shopping center staying at a Salvation Army hospital using an assumed name.

Black ink for states

CHICAGO (UPI) — Fiscal 1976 ended with state governments on the average operating in the black, the Commerce Clearing House reported Wednesday.

Total state government revenue from all sources in fiscal 1976 totaled $185.2 billion, while total spending was $182 billion, the group said. In fiscal 1975, spending exceeded income by $1.5 billion.

All states experienced an increase in general revenue between 1975 and 1976, the CCH reported. State tax revenue increased an average of 11.4 per cent in 1976. Education accounted for the largest fraction of state spending in 1976, $59.6 billion.

Bilingual educator lauds Burley group

Editor, Times-News:
During the third week of August I had an opportunity to visit Burley to conduct a six-hour workshop on bilingual education for local educators.

takes them a couple of years before they become fluent enough to understand all of the instruction presented by their teachers in math, science and social studies.

I was so impressed with the degree of interest and concern on the part of teachers, aides and administrators as well as the capabilities of the local coordinator of bilingual education (Glen Probst) that I felt a "fan letter" was in order.

So, bilingual education gives them their ESL classes but also gives them their of her academic instruction in their native tongue.

First of all, I was on somewhat of a lecture-tour, visiting Idaho, Utah and California. Secondly, having never been to Idaho, I was first impressed with the physical beauty and the general calm which permeates your area (I am new to someone born and raised in New York City).

In this way, when their English language skills are strong enough to understand and academic instruction in English they make a transition into English academic language instruction and have not lost two years of math and other areas.

However, I was even more impressed with the sincere devotion to children and genuine interest in self-improvement among local educators. For six hours there was not a nodding head or a dull moment.

Suppose we have a child in a family that recently arrived from Mexico City. Research has now proven that this child will be a better reader of English if we use his stronger language (Spanish) to teach the basics and fundamental of reading. We also know that young-limited-English-speaking children can not possibly understand such technical lessons as fractions, long division and science lessons unless they are presented in a language which they understand.

Thirty-five of us sat without air-conditioning on a brutally hot day and discussed the future of bilingual education in Idaho, a future which currently looks bright and is aimed at eliminating one of the major educational crises in the state and nation.

After the ESL component of bilingual education strengthens their new language, they can begin making a transition into English language instruction, confounding with fewer and fewer Spanish academics until their Spanish program is basically a maintenance effort and their academics are in English.

For your readers who are not familiar with bilingual education, let me present a brief explanation. For decades, thousands of non-English speaking children have come into our schools from Mexico, Puerto Rico, China, Portugal and dozens of other non-English speaking nations.

Again, I would like to congratulate the Burley school system for pioneering a new approach to education in Idaho that has become a national trend but is entirely based on some of the oldest and most widely accepted tenets of education: teaching with the strengths of children rather than the weaknesses.

Simultaneously, our own government has gone into native American Indian areas to implement schools of a unique type different from that of the targeted students. Since the early '50s we have attempted to remediate the communications problem between limited-English-speaking students and English-speaking teachers by presenting English as a Second Language Instruction (ESL). It hasn't worked.

BERNARD H. COHEN

During the mid-60s we came to realize that ESL is only part of a broader solution, bilingual education. Sure, youngsters can learn languages faster than adults. However, it still and membership registration, and they have contributed their time in an effort to see that publicity was given the event so that it would be a success.

Too often sponsors of events are forgotten, except for the few people who know about their contribution toward the endeavor. These two Twin Falls merchants have contributed a great deal to the Twin Falls Tennis Association and other tennis-playing tournament participants through the summer of 1977.

We, as tournament directors for the last tennis tournament of the year, would like to express our appreciation to these local merchants for their generosity and assistance.

Not only have they given gift certificates as prizes for the winners of tournaments but they have provided tennis balls for tournament play, used their employees and facilities for tournament registration

POLICE CHIEF DAVIS

Former girlfriend charged

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard Wednesday night charged the former girlfriend of a young American Mormon missionary with kidnaping him and holding him handcuffed and shackled in a farm cottage.

The missionary, Kirk Anderson, 21, of Provo, Utah, was released unharmed in London three days after being abducted a week ago in the southern village of Epsom.

Police accused American Joyce McKinney, 27, a former beauty contest winner, of kidnaping, unlawful imprisonment and possession of an imitation firearm with intent to commit an in-dictate offense.

Kelly Joseph May, 25, of Los Angeles, was charged with the same offenses.

Miss McKinney and May were arrested Monday morning near Okelhampton, 185 miles southwest of London, as they drove toward the capital in a luggage-filled rented car.

They were detained only a few miles from a farm cottage they had rented. Detectives said Anderson was held captive in the cottage and they found manacles and handcuffs inside.

Both "will" appear before a magistrate Thursday morning in Epsom.

Miss McKinney said she had no contact with the man who she said was her former boyfriend. She said she had never seen him since she last saw the king shortly before she fled to England before Germany invaded Belgium in World War II.

"He was only 12 years old then," said Mrs. Abrecht, who waited outside City Hall for two and a half hours to get a glimpse of the royal couple.

"He's just like his father."

He's a chip off the old crown

TORONTO (UPI) — King Baudouin may not be told this very often, but he looks like his father.

That was the judgment of Jeanne Abrecht, one of 300 well-wishers who met the king and Queen Fabiola at a City Hall reception Wednesday marking the Belgian monarch's first visit to Toronto.

Mrs. Abrecht, a Belgian emigre, said she last saw the king shortly before she fled to England before Germany invaded Belgium in World War II.

Judy speaks out on ERA

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Carter's daughter-in-law says the fate of the Equal Rights Amendment lies in the hands of "nice" women who support the measure but have been turned off by "loudmouth" libbers.

Judy Carter, writing in the current issue of Redbook, said, "The composite has emerged as a group of shouting, aggressive, bra-burning women's libbers, and nice women have been reluctant to be identified with such a group, though they support ERA itself."

Clever legal charade backfires

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI) — A couple of lawyers have so many explanations to do.

Three witnesses to a grocery store stickup pointed to the defense table during the trial of Chester Gow and identified the man sitting between the lawyers as the man who robbed the Country Mart grocery store in Crete, Ill., last Jan. 24.

The trouble was, the man they fingered was actually a male model hired by the lawyers to pose as their client.

The lawyers, Louis Bertani and Martin Rudman, felt they made their point. "We did it to attack their identification," Bertani said.

Circuit Court Judge Michael Orete wasn't impressed, and on Tuesday he ordered Bertani and Rudman to appear in court Oct. 3 to explain why they should not be held in contempt of court.

On Sept. 6 the three witnesses — the store owner, a clerk and a customer — pointed from the witness stand to the defense table to identify the stickup man. All three had earlier pointed to the real defendant in a police lineup.

The model sat quietly at the defense table while witness after witness identified him as the robber. All the time, Gow, 44, of Lenox, Ill., the real suspect, sat in the back of the courtroom. He wore a wig, a bushy black mustache and glasses.

When the witnesses were finished, the lawyers called the model to the stand and revealed his identity, and the real Chester Gow stood up.

The judge called a recess.

When the trial resumed several days later, the witnesses were called back. Each of them identified Gow, who was now sitting at the defense table, as the robber.

Bertani and Rudman asked for a mistrial because of faulty identification — but Orete rejected the motion, saying the defense had violated witness disclosure rules and ordered them to appear in court Oct. 3.

'Deprogrammer' faces charges

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) — Ted Patrick, the controversial religious "deprogrammer," surrendered today in Municipal Court and was arraigned on misdemeanor charges that he held two members of a Santa Barbara religious sect against their will.

Patrick, 46, who previously served two jail terms for his deprogramming efforts, was arraigned on three counts of false imprisonment and one of conspiracy.

Judge George Zuckler released Patrick, of San Diego, on his own — recognizing a pending a retrial hearing Oct. 28.

Patrick is accused of helping Fred and Kate Hauswirth kidnap their son, Dennis, 26, and Shannon Pam Wells, 17, from the Brotherhood of the Sun Christian Sect in Santa Barbara.

He allegedly held Miss Wells on Nov. 17, 1976 and falsely imprisoned Dennis on two occasions, from Oct. 4 to Oct. 15 and from Jan. 17 to Jan. 19 of this year.

Both Hauswirth and Miss Wells have since rejoined the sect.

Dennis' parents have already pleaded no contest to one count of false imprisonment, were fined $125 and sentenced to a year's probation, providing they have no further contact with Patrick.

Authorities said Fred Hauswirth hired Patrick on the false furlough program while Patrick was serving a one-year jail term in Orange County for falsely imprisoning a young Hare Krishna devotee from Buena Park.

Patrick was released from another jail in Denver last July after spending three months in custody for a 1973 incident in which he tried to deprogram two young Greek Orthodox women.

A third defendant in the Los Angeles case, Sherri Dietrich of Lynwood, pleaded no contest to false imprisonment charges involving the deprogramming of Hauswirth in Hollywood last October. She was fined $100 and placed on a year's probation last week.

Two other defendants in the case, Cliff Daniels and Rodney Cicsey, were still being sought.

In his previous trials, Patrick was praised by parents for turning their children away from the "mental slavery" of religious sects and back to traditional values. Opponents have condemned him as a "vigilante" trampling on freedom of religion and choice.

Justice and Peace in Rhodesia. At Nally said Rhodesia's attorney general agreed to drop the charges against Sister Janice after he had requested she be deported and it had been recommended by police.

Three other members of the Roman Catholic Commission were arrested along with Sister Janice and face jail terms of up to 25 years if convicted — on charges of possessing secret government documents.

Police sources said Sister Janice, held at Chikurubi prison since Aug. 31, was "very pleased" when she was served with a deportation order.

Sister Janice, a member of the Maryknoll Roman Catholic order, originally was to be charged with "spreading alarm and despondency" because of her work on publications accusing Rhodesian security forces of torturing rural blacks to get information about nationalist guerrillas.

The charge carried a maximum sentence of seven years imprisonment.

The torture reports, also claiming Rhodesian troops at times shied away from engaging the guerrillas in fire fights, were prepared by members of the Roman Catholic Commission for probation, providing they have no further contact with Patrick.

Rhodesia to deport nun

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Rhodesia will deport an American nun today rather than put her on trial for accusing government troops of routinely torturing blacks, her lawyer said today.

Sister Janice Ann McLaughlin, 35, of Pittsburgh, Pa., will board a flight for Johannesburg, South Africa this afternoon. She will fly to New York from there, her lawyer, Nick McNally, said.

Official sources said it would have embarrassed the white minority regime to try Sister Janice because cases of abuse do occur during military interrogations of suspected black guerrillas.

Police sources said Sister Janice, held at Chikurubi prison since Aug. 31, was

Welfare bill faces bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first round of hearings on President Carter's welfare reform plan have ended with indications the plan faces the same bumpy road being traveled by his proposed energy program.

A House subcommittee concluded three days of hearings on the welfare reform plan Wednesday and will take up the matter again Sept. 29, but Congress is not expected to decide the fate of the plan until next year.

Much of the subcommittee's attention was focused on the question of whether it would cost more to reform the nation's welfare system than it would to leave it alone. And there were suggestions: the plan should provide more public service jobs while still holding down costs.

The President's energy package, having already made its way through the House, was still undergoing drastic surgery in the Senate, where a decision was pending on natural gas price regulation.

The Senators voted down, by a wide margin, a proposal by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., to hold natural gas at its present federal price ceiling. The vote was the first test of sentiment on whether gas controls should be continued or eliminated.

Carter wants to extend federal controls to in-state sales, but with a higher price ceiling.

Another part of the President's energy package — the proposed tax on domestic crude oil — was sent back to the drawing boards. The Senate Finance Committee postponed a vote on the plan so a compromise could be worked out on the use of the revenues that would be produced by such a tax. A proposal under consideration would have the billions of dollars made available for energy development projects.

Another Senate panel heard a recommendation for expansion of the emergency winter assistance program for the poor. A top official of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare urged that the program be expanded to include elderly persons and that states be allowed to provide assistance to families hit by fuel shortages for longer than 30 days.

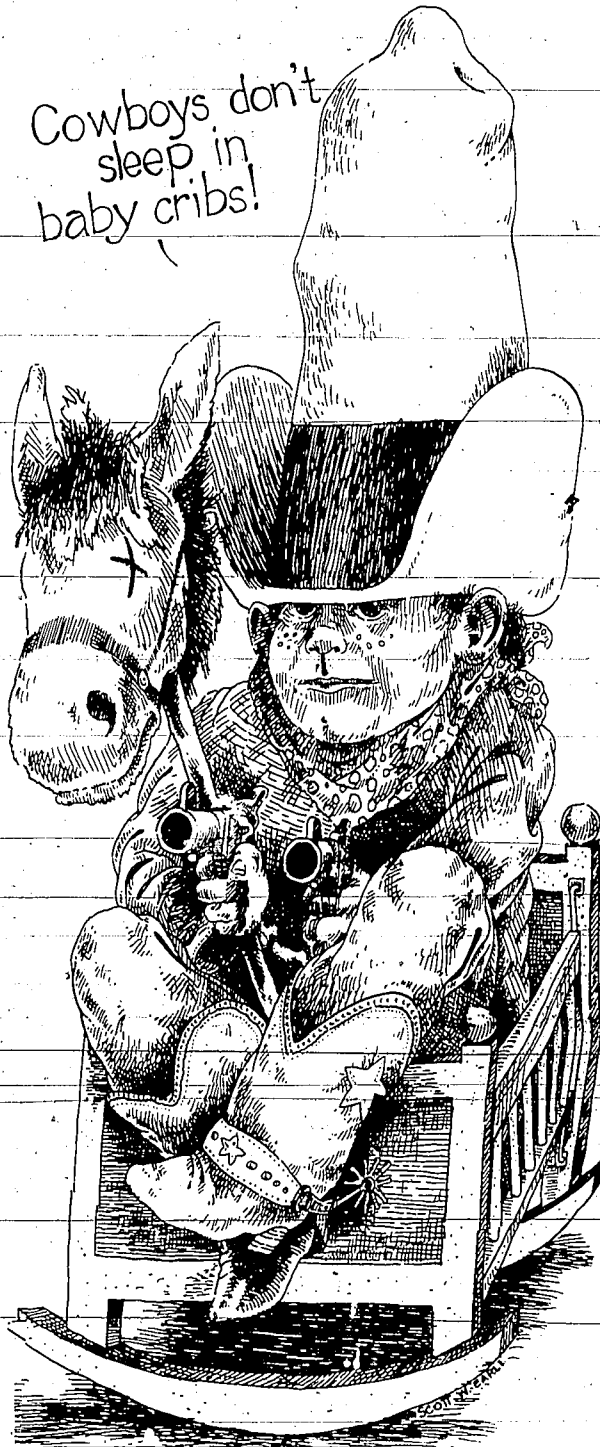

The testimony by Kenneth S. Levine came on the third and final day of hearings on government predictions and preparations for the coming winter, which forecasters said will be colder than normal but not as severe as last winter.

The Central Intelligence Agency came under fire during a Senate hearing into the CIA's secret experiments. There were claims the agency maintained "double records" of its experiments and tried to shift responsibility for some of the more controversial programs to the Defense Department.

The subcommittee session also included some bizarre testimony from a former CIA biologist, who said foreign agents may have targeted U.S. presidents for "covert actions." The scientist said the agents may have actually "disoriented" members of Richard Nixon's staff during one of the former president's foreign trips.

Park muddle may clear up

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — South Korean businessman Tongsun Park's American lawyer said today his visit to Korea will in the "near future" help settle the issue of his client's alleged involvement in a payoff scandal in Washington.

William Hundley, the lawyer, left for the United States today after failing to convince Park he should meet with U.S. investigators in a third country.

Park faces 36 counts of bribery, corruption and fraud in the United States, reportedly involving payoffs and favors to as many as 25 present and former congressmen.

Hundley said he would return to Seoul after meeting with Justice Department officials in Washington to discuss what can be done to end the case.

"I believe my Korean visit will certainly help settle this issue in the near future," Hundley said shortly before leaving.

Hundley spent most of his six-day visit in Seoul consulting with the 41-year-old Korean rice merchant on his plan to have him meet American investigators in an impartial country.

Disease treatment in vain

MOLINE, Ill. (UPI) — A fatal case of Legionnaires' Disease has been reported in the Moline area.

Officials at Moline Lutheran Hospital said Wednesday Donald Dumalen, 51, of Silvis, died of the disease last week at the hospital. Officials said Dumalen, who had been undergoing treatment for the disease for three weeks, died last Wednesday.

Dumalen had been employed at the John Deere Harvester Works plant in East Moline for 30 years.

Dr. Eric Peterson, one of the attending physicians, said Wednesday the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta confirmed last Friday the man had died of Legionnaire's Disease.

The disease was named after a group of American Legionnaires who contracted it while staying at a Philadelphia hotel during a convention.

"The man entered the hospital with overwhelming pneumonia, high fever and respiratory failure," Peterson said. "It was then learned he had Legionnaire's Disease."

Candy wrappers for heroin

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — The brightly colored plastic containers are sold carrying children's candy, but some Springfield youths are using them to transport — deadly — cargoes of white Mediterranean heroin, police say.

Gabriel Martinez, 17, of Springfield, was arraigned Wednesday on a charge of possession with intent to distribute 10 bags of the drug.

Police said it was the same kind of heroin that has killed one man and resulted in overdoses for 11 other people since it hit the city's streets Monday. They said they were expecting to find other victims.

Martinez was transporting the drug in a small pink plastic garbage can, sold as a candy container, when he was arrested late Tuesday, police said. An 11-year-old girl charged with possessing 17 bags of the heroin Monday was carrying the drug in a plastic toy fire hydrant, police said.

An innocent plea was ordered entered for Martinez and bail was set at $500. His case was continued in Springfield District Court until Sept. 30.

Pact dies, talks continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1972 strategic arms pact that opened the era of détente apparently will be allowed to expire while the United States and Soviet Union informally abide by its provisions and talk about a new agreement.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko arrived here Wednesday to resume talks with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance in a renewed attempt to break a deadlock on long term limitations on strategic weapons.

"I have come with a feeling of good will," Gromyko said on arrival at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Washington. "We are prepared to seek common language ... but I should say the results will depend on movement by both sides."

Gromyko is scheduled to meet President Carter Friday morning.

U.S. officials expect no immediate breakthrough in the stalemate that chilled progress earlier this year while Vance was in Moscow.

This temporary pact was to be replaced by an agreement lasting until 1985.

Sub crewmen injured

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three crewmen aboard the U.S.S. Ray suffered minor injuries when the nuclear powered attack submarine struck bottom in the Mediterranean south of Sardinia, a Navy spokesman said. The sub, on a routine voyage, surfaced and proceeded under its own power to La Maddalena, Sardinia, arriving late Wednesday, the spokesman said. He said the ship's nuclear reactor was not affected and there was no damage to the nuclear propulsion plant.

A thorough inspection was ordered at La Maddalena and an investigation will be made.

Northeast asks help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The states of the Northeast and Midwest pay half the nation's federal tax burden but get far less than half the nation's military spending, according to a study.

The study, sponsored by two coalitions representing the economic interests of the "fract-belt" said the states of the Northeast and Midwest have 45 per cent of the nation's population paying 49 per cent of the federal tax revenue.

The groups urged a moratorium on further cutbacks or closings of military bases.

Prosecutors join probe of hospital

BOISE (UPI) — Director Milton Klein of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare said Tuesday that state and Biglarm county prosecutors are working with his agency to determine the whereabouts of large quantities of missing drugs from State Hospital South in Blackfoot.

"We are investigating all allegations related to the missing drugs and can provide no more details at this time," Klein said. "The investigation is not yet complete and we will not jeopardize due process of law for any reason."

The said the investigation by the Idaho Board of Pharmacy is expected to be finished in mid-October. He said the department will release its findings at that time.

The missing drugs were disclosed last week, at which time the head of the hospital's pharmacy was fired and the head of the hospital resigned, saying he was stepping down for personal reasons.

Klein refused to confirm a rumor that the investigation has moved beyond the hospital.

But Klein said in addition to the drug investigation, the entire administration of the hospital is being overhauled. Dr. Robert Glover, administrator of the department's Division of Community Rehabilitation, has initiated a new management program for the transition now taking place at the hospital.

Glover said inefficiencies in inventory control, purchasing, budget management, personnel management as well as general fiscal and administrative operation at the hospital were found in an audit performed by the department's central office Bureau of Audit in May.

"Accounting systems were extremely lax," Glover said. "In many areas, there was no operating policy," he said. "It was evident a major renovation of the hospital's management was required. We expect this process to be completed by mid-October."

Glover said general management of the institution already has been tightened. He said one of the moves to streamline management is the establishment of a new position, hospital program director. He said this person will supervise the four patient care units.

Glover said the care units as well as the pharmacy will operate under the direction of Dr. Carroll Elmore, who has been named clinical director.

Hospital property misuse considered

BOISE (UPI) — State Health and Welfare Director Milton Klein says his agency is investigating possible misuse of state property at State Hospital South in Blackfoot.

Klein said he doesn't know how many hospital employees were involved in use of state property for private purposes. But, the Idaho Stateman reported today, one department source said building materials from the hospital in at least one case were used to build a fence around a private residence.

Meanwhile, the department announced resignation of two maintenance employees and Klein said more hospital employees may resign in the wake of an investigation showing that large quantities of drugs have disappeared from the hospital pharmacy for at least two years.

No China fallout expected in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — Because of wind currents, radioactive fallout from the latest Chinese nuclear test is not expected to reach Idaho, a senior physicist for the state Department of Health and Welfare said today.

Ernie Ranieri said his agency has monitored radiation levels in Boise with two filters since last Saturday and has found no appreciable change in the radiation level for this time of year.

He said the federal Environmental Protection Agency told the state Tuesday afternoon that the cloud mass was moving toward Anchorage, Alaska and probably would hit the western portion of the Oregon coast between midnight and 8 a.m. today.

Because of wind currents, however, "we probably will not see any fallout here," Ranieri said.

Nevertheless, he said, the state will continue to monitor radiation levels.

Waste bins ready

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Construction and installation has been completed on a fourth set of stainless-steel solid waste storage bins for calined waste at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

A final walk-through inspection was conducted last Thursday and after the inspection the facility was transferred to Allied Chemical Corporation which will operate it for the Energy Research and Development Administration.

The three new bins will be used to store solids converted from highly radioactive liquid wastes processed by the new waste calcination facility that is being constructed at the laboratory. The new bins have additional safety features and easier access for retrievability of the wastes.

Olsen loses shot

BOISE (UPI) — State Republican Chairman Dennis Olsen took a potential Democratic candidate for attorney general to task today for attacking the GOP incumbent, Wayne L. Kidwell.

Olsen said Mike Wetherell "has obviously decided to take the low road on all fronts."

"So far his campaign has consisted of issuing inflammatory press releases and personal attacks on the incumbent," Olsen said. "When is this young man going to tell us something about himself?"

Olsen suggested Wetherell tell the voters how many years experience he has as a prosecutor, in defense work, in civil matters and how many times he has appeared before a jury.

"This is the type of experience he needs to be attorney general," Olsen said.

Recall effort gains

HAYDEN LAKE, Idaho (UPI) — The leader of a recall action against Kootenai County Sheriff Rickly said his group now has 5,000 signatures approving an election on the matter.

John Albers said less than 20 signatures are still needed to force the election.

The recall effort against Watson has been largely centered around the Hayden Lake Jaycees.

The organization has been on record for several months as being unhappy with the firing by Watson of several deputies.

Two of the deputies were fired for allegedly having sexual relations with a minor and two others were fired for having knowledge of the affair without reporting it.

Haiti frees prisoners

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — The rulers of Haiti, among the most repressive in the Western Hemisphere, have marked their 20th year in power by freeing 104 political prisoners — some thought to be innocent — and others jailed for decades.

The amnesty announced Wednesday came a little more than a month after U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young sharply criticized Haiti's human rights record during a visit to the Caribbean.

The prisoners were ordered freed by President Jean-Claude Duvalier to mark the 20th year in power begun by his late father, Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier when he was elected Sept. 24, 1957. Jean-Claude succeeded Francois when he died in 1971.

The prisoners were freed in a short ceremony inside the Port Au Prince prison as several reporters looked on.

Ethiopian aid rolls in London Telegraph

NAIROBI — A "massive" new airlift of Soviet weapons for Ethiopia was reported under way today in an apparent attempt by the Kremlin to bolster the beleaguered regime of Addis Ababa's Marxist rulers.

Diplomatic sources in Addis Ababa said giant Russian Antonov transport aircraft were carrying in crates MIG-21 fighters — for immediate assembly, as well as tons of assault weapons and heavy artillery pieces.

At the same time, they reported, scores of Russian freighters bearing war equipment are arriving at the Red Sea port of Assab, apparently in an attempt to make good Moscow's total commitment to Addis Ababa.

Intelligence sources say that more than 100 Soviet T-55 tanks, as well as batteries of "Stalin organs" similar to those which achieved success for Cuban-led forces in the Angola civil war, have so far been unloaded at Assab and are ready to be thrown into the battle against the Somalis.

These intelligence sources say that some of the Russian freighters arriving in Assab have been diverted from ports in Somalia because of strained relations between Moscow and Mogadishu.

The rush of Soviet weapons followed major reverses suffered by the Ethiopians in their nine-week war against the Somalis.

Curbs on nuclear arms spread OK'd

O.N.Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — Fifteen nuclear exporting countries reached "agreement" Wednesday in London on tightened guidelines on transfer of technology that are aimed at curbing the spread of atomic weapons, United States officials reported here.

The agreement, if put into effect, would prevent future sales of advanced nuclear technology without adequate safeguards and controls, a primary policy aim of the United States since India detonated an atomic device in March 1974, using imported materials and know-how.

The nations that initiated the London pact include the United States, the Soviet Union, France, Britain, Japan, West Germany and Canada, the major exporters of nuclear technology. In addition, Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Belgium, the Netherlands, Italy, Sweden and Switzerland — considered to be on the threshold of nuclear exporting — also approved the agreement.

An administration official, interpreting the agreement, said it meant that future contracts for selling sensitive nuclear technology would be subject to controls accepted by all 15 exporters, thus closing loopholes under which one exporter might skip on safeguards — to gain a competitive edge.

Hungarian jetliner crashes, 26 killed

BUCHAREST, Romania (UPI) — A Hungarian jetliner crashed Wednesday night near Bucharest, killing at least 29 persons, Hungarian authorities announced today.

A communique issued by the Hungarian Ministry of Communication said all eight crew members and 21 passengers were killed in the crash.

The other 24 passengers aboard the plane survived, some of them with serious injuries, the communique said.

The crash occurred when the Soviet-made Tupolev TU134 airliner attempted a forced landing near Bucharest's Otopeni airport.

The communique, carried by the Hungarian news agency MTI, said the airliner was on a regular flight from Istanbul via Bucharest to Budapest. It said the crash occurred at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

"The plane crashed near Bucharest while attempting a forced landing," the communique said.

The communique said 12 of the dead passengers were Hungarians, 4 West Germans and 5 Turks. The other eight casualties were the eight-member crew.

Hijack terms set

ASSEN, Netherlands (UPI) — A court sentenced seven South Moluccans today to prison terms ranging from six to nine years for selling a train and an elementary school in history's longest hostage drama last spring.

An eighth defendant, charged with complicity in the train hijacking, received a one-year prison term.

Three of the gunmen were sentenced to nine years, two to eight, one to seven and one to six years.

The seven principal defendants were arrested June 11 when Dutch marines stormed the train-and-school and freed 53 passengers and four teachers. Two passengers and six terrorists aboard the train died in the raid.

The attack ended the three-week seizures which the South Moluccans had carried out to focus attention on their demands for the independence of their home islands in Indonesia, a former Dutch colony.

PUC schedules hearing for gas company increase

BOISE — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has scheduled a public hearing in Boise later this month to consider an application by Intermountain Gas Co. for an $8.5 million rate increase the company says it needs to cover higher costs of purchasing natural gas.

The increase, as proposed, would raise the cost of gas by 2.282 cents per therm and result in the following average percentage increases over present rates: residential, 7.1; firm commercial, 8.7; firm industrial, 11.6; interruptible commercial, 11.3; interruptible industrial, 11.9.

According to Intermountain's application, the utility's sole supplier of natural gas, Northwest Pipeline Corp., will increase its rates Oct. 1 in accordance with notices filed with the Federal Power Commission. Intermountain alleges the increase in price will amount to an annual cost of $8,577,000.

The public hearing will be conducted Sept. 29 in the Commission Hearing Room, 472 W. Washington St., Boise, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Persons wishing to comment on the proposed increase will be given an opportunity to do so during the proceeding.

Home wins four contest divisions

TWIN FALLS — The Tom Hutchison home of Hutchison Construction Co. located on Snake River Canyon northeast of Twin Falls swept all four divisions of the Parade of Homes contest for houses in the over $50,000 price range classification this year. Several thousand persons voted in the contest during the Parade of Homes sponsored by the Magic Valley Home Builders Association. Winners announced by association officials Friday included the Hutchison Construction entry as the favorite in best exterior design, best interior design, best floor plan and best overall home, in the higher priced entries. Nine homes were included on the tour with six builders participating. Winners in the below $50,000 price range entries included Bob Willis of Willis Inc., with the best floor plan and the best exterior design. The Alpine model won the exterior design for Willis and the Breckenridge the best floor plan. Hutchison Construction, with a more modest home on Rock Creek Canyon south of Kimberly was judged best overall home and best interior design in the lower price division. Association officials said persons attended the Parade of Homes this year from throughout Magic Valley as well as several other states.

Ballots were given all four participants and they were asked to mark them and deposit them in the last home they visited. Grand prize of a microwave oven, donated by the Builders Association went to Connie McCauley, Twin Falls. Other awards included a Rockwell drill given by Anderson Lumber to Kenneth Rhoades, Twin Falls; decorator wall mirror, from Bennett's Glass and Paint, to Mrs. E. J. Project exempt from licensing

WASHINGTON — If the federal government goes ahead with a demonstration project at Idaho Falls using experimental "low-head" hydroelectric generators, the project will be exempt from federal licensing requirements. Under an amendment sponsored by Sen. Frank Church and approved Monday by the Senate energy and National Resources Committee. Church offered the amendment to make sure that any demonstration project at Idaho Falls using the new experimental technology of low-head hydroelectric generator is not bogged down with months or years of delay in securing the federal licenses normally required for hydro projects. "It makes little sense to fund new demonstration projects and then see them delayed by licensing procedures that could hamper our commitment to find alternative energy resources as quickly as possible," said Church. In the case of Idaho Falls, licensing requirements, if imposed, could take two to four years. Earlier this year, Church secured Senate approval for a

Congress rejects vehicle taxation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American taxpayers won three victories a gala administration stands in the Congress Tuesday, Rep. Steve Symms said today. They included rejection of an increased vehicle taxation provision in the energy tax program, approval of full-scale funding for the Clinch River Breeder Reactor energy plant and rejection of a measure to increase the temporary national debt ceiling by $75 million. Symms said increasing various taxes is not the way to solve the energy problems facing the country today.

"The big government boys in the administration would have us believe that the country has run out of energy supplies but that is not so," Symms said. "We need a comprehensive energy policy that focuses on increasing productivity and development — not on increased taxation of already overburdened taxpayers." He said "building of the breeder reactor program is another victory that holds a significant key to meeting the country's energy needs. Dozing major cause of car accidents

WASHINGTON — Dozing of the wheel was the major cause of motorist hitting off the road and running vehicles parked on the shoulders in more than 2,000 accidents studied by the Department of Transportation. The study found that most drivers did not wake up until they collided with the parked vehicle. "In the majority of the accidents, there were no visible tire markings on the paved shoulder or travel lane until impact with the parked vehicle," said the study. "This indicates 'brake' application was not made by the driver prior to collision." The study raises the question of whether the texture of highway shoulders compared with that of the travel lanes is sufficiently rough to alert drivers that they are going off the road. In the accidents studied over eight years, the drivers were found to have traveled long distances on the shoulders prior to collision. "This indicates the ineffectiveness of the differences, if any, in the texture of the highway shoulders compared to that on the lanes intended for travel," the study reported.

One of the study's recommendations is to explore the need for greater contrast between the travel lanes and the shoulders "to the point of producing a 'rumble effect' to alert-dozing drivers that they are leaving the travel lanes." If those shoulders (were) used by motorists only for the purpose for which they are intended, there is reason to believe that the number of accidents occurring at these locations would decrease," said the study. The study recommended a further explanation of the need for better signs concerning rest areas, which might encourage motorists to proceed to them instead of stopping on the shoulders. Noting that driver fatigue was found to be the primary cause of the collisions in the accidents reviewed, the study said that DOT was examining possible changes in the number of hours commercial drivers may be on the road. "Although this agency does not have conclusive information available at the present time to support a rule change, we are in the process of conducting research efforts to scientifically quantify the relationship between hours of service and driver fatigue," said the study. "The fact that 53 percent of the accidents in this study were attributable to dozing further supports... (our) efforts for reevaluation of the Federal hours-of-service regulations relating to commercial drivers."

Gooding to build city hall

GOODING — Bids for the remodeling of the old Safeway building into a new city hall building for citizens committees will be the first part of November, Bill Block, city engineer, said today.

Block and Richard Heindel, Twin Falls architect, presented final floor plans for the remodeling project at the City Council meeting this week. The project is being financed by a $320,000 federal grant approved Sept. 1. Block said work has to begin on projects funded this way within 90 days, or Dec. 1.

The new facility includes city offices, library complex and a large meeting room which will be used by the Senior Citizens Organization, Block said. It will also be available for other groups to use. The room will have about 100 dividing feet, Heindel said.

Council members approved the floor plan which previously had been inspected by the design review committee, composed of representatives of the library and Senior Citizens group.

Members attending the Council meeting included Pat Klingler, Carolyn Robertson, Mary Schmidt and Thelma Ferguson, representing the two groups.

Council members also presented Policeman Garth Brown, with a certificate for training he has completed.

'Punk rock' make capitalists waves in the Soviet Union

MOSCOW (UPI) — Greedy capitalists are deliberately spreading "punk rock" to make money and distract young people from fighting unemployment, according to a Soviet newspaper.

Punk rock musicians — epitomized by such groups as Britain's "The Sex Pistols" — churn out wild, high-energy music and are distinguished more by their foul language and bizarre dress than their musical abilities.

Fans mimic the music groups by wearing safety pins in their nose or ears and torn clothes decorated with razor blades, chains or safety pins.

The punk rock phenomenon also has drawn heavy criticism in Britain, where its followers have clashed violently with other youths, especially the so-called Teddy Boys — who dress in the "greater" style of 1950s America.

The newspaper Moskovsky Komsomolets said Tuesday that punk rock has surfaced at a time when "teenagers are trying to challenge the society that turned its back to them. The stragg of this world are trying to distract attention of the young people of struggle for reconstruction of the existing order."

The Soviet press has often criticized the musical taste of Western youth, particularly rock "n' roll, which one newspaper said was used to mesmerize teen-agers into buying trendy products.

It also recently blasted both Elvis Presley and Bob Dylan for falling prey to greedy promoters.

The newspaper said punk rock grew up spontaneously, but now is being "deliberately spread wider by businessmen who found a gold mine.

"They didn't bother with the fact that the teen-agers, trying to express their ego in this strange manner, organize beatings in the streets and beat children."

The newspaper said the bizarre behavior of punk rock fans is being encouraged by clever promoters "who induced punk into mass production."

"The logic they use is simple: Let the teen-agers enjoy themselves doing whatever they want, so far as they take no part in demonstrations and don't participate in the organized struggle against unemployment and lawlessness."

'Hustler' leader testifies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt says there are "billions of dirty old men" who are turned on by pictures of nude boys and girls and have sexual fantasies involving children.

He agrees with efforts to ban sexual abuse and exploitation of children through prostitution, as long as First Amendment freedoms are not violated.

He says that simply removing child pornography from shelves of adult book stores might lead to a repression of the abnormal behavior and not really solve the problem.

Instead, Flynt thinks Congress should try to find out more about why many people think children are sexually stimulating. And he's willing to donate the profits from his lucrative "girlie" magazine to get the job done.

Testifying Tuesday before a House subcommittee, Flynt offered to turn over the profits from Hustler — from $20 million "in a bad year" to $30 million — to the lawmakers to finance a thorough study on human sexuality.

"Most people know more about changing a flat tire than they do about human sexuality," he said.

He wants the government involved so the results of the study will be taken seriously. Flynt, who in March offered President Carter a $1-million check for such a study but was refused, assured the startled committee it was not a publicity stunt.

"I've been accused of a lot of things, but never of breaking my word," he said.

Flynt said his magazine receives thousands of letters from readers asking to see pictures of shaved genitalia.

But what they really want is pictures of nude children.

"I submit there are millions of people out there who are turned on by children," Flynt said. "It's sad, but it exists."

He said men "appear to be more fascinated with genitalia than women," and the "sexually superior" females "do not have these hangups."

"100 what the ankle was 30 years ago and when it's on a child, it's more fascinating," Flynt said.

He also said he doesn't worry about children getting sexual ideas from seeing Hustler.

"I feel that children are not affected by pornography because they are not interested," Flynt said.

Children are interested in puffed toys, not stuffed vaginas."

ANNOUNCING THE GREAT

NORWEGIAN APPLE CONNECTION

If Norwegian apples in Idaho sound strange, consider the fact that they were completely grown by transplanted Norwegians (AKLANDS) and are being exclusively sold by other displaced Norwegians (SWENSEN'S). So technically, they aren't from Norway, but who cares where these delicious apples were grown when they're SO BIG, SO SWEET, SO DELICIOUS, SO CRISP AND SNAPPY AND SO LOW IN PRICE! Swensen's are sure that all the Scandinavians, Arabians, Armenians, Slovaks, Polynesians, or anybody else would be proud to say the American grown Norwegian apples were from their own country and would love to buy them at Swensen's price. But alas, there's only enough Norwegian apples for Swensen's customers.

Coal plant project stalls

DAN OLMSTEAD... tactics change

GOODING — Idaho Power Company believes that progress toward the goal of building a coal-fired generating plant is stalled, "until at least next May," according to a local representative of the firm.

Dan Olmstead, Gooding public relations representative, told Chamber of Commerce members Tuesday noon his firm has also changed its tactics.

"Instead of pushing for support of a coal-plant, we are setting the need for more electricity," Olmstead said.

The firm also is asking for public support on the idea that adequate power will create more jobs and keep more young people in Magic Valley, he said.

Possibility of getting a plant into operation is at least seven or eight years away, the speaker said. Actively now is stalled because the Idaho Public Utilities Commission (IPUC) is waiting for the Legislature to meet, hoping a power-planning bill will be passed.

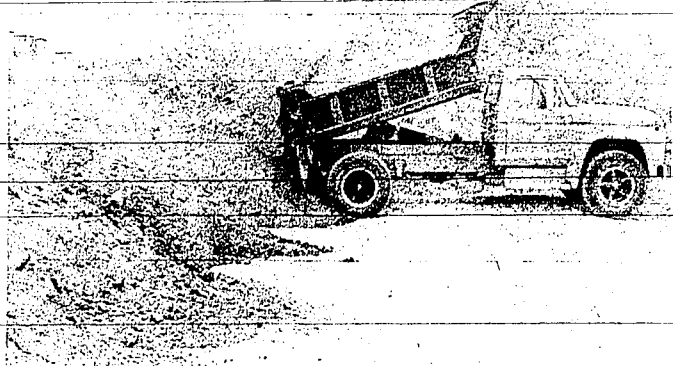

Olmstead estimated it would be "about a year" before any decision is reached by the PUC designating a site for Idaho Power's proposed 500 megawatt plant. Then the power company would make extensive studies of the site, so "you're looking at least two years before any thought of construction could begin," Olmstead said.

Idaho Power is also "looking at" the possibility of obtaining interim power through small hydro plants on several river locations, including the south fork of the Payette and between Bliss and Glenns Ferry.

Olmstead said the firm "got through the summer and we'll get through the winter," but expects power shortages about in March, 1978. Contracts are being negotiated now with other firms to provide this needed power.

The current customer surcharge to pay for getting power from other firms soon will be eliminated, Olmstead said, but another one will be initiated. He said through the coming year one-third of the needed power for this area will be generated locally, one third purchased and the remaining third brought from the Jim Bridger springs, Wyo.

CITY TRUCK DUMPS DIRT FROM STREET WIDENING PROJECT ... fill piles in low area behind Blue Lakes Shopping Center

City filling building site

TWIN FALLS — City workers are dumping dirt in a draw behind the Merc with special permission from Daum Industries, a firm which plans to build a mall and parking lot there.

The dirt is being moved from Washington Street North where city workers are widening the road.

City Engineer Gary Young said the fill dirt was being dumped on the Daum land because it was one of the closest places the city could dump it.

Whenever city officials move dirt from a construction site, they look for the closest place to move it in an effort to cut costs, Young said.

The dirt moving, which began about a month and a half ago, is expected to continue this week, the city engineer said.

The dirt would probably cost the city no more than $200 to move, he said. Dirt moving cuts cost five times that much if moved out of town, he said.

Dirt from Washington Street has already been moved to a nearby subdivision owned by Watson Construction Co., Young said. "We gave 'em all they would take," before hauling dirt to the Daum site, Young added.

The city gives the dirt away free in exchange for the ability to dump it so close to a construction site, Young said. He said anyone who lives close to the site could get the city to dump some dirt there if the person wanted it.

When asked why the city doesn't try to sell the dirt, Young said he hadn't given that idea any thought but would consider it the next time the city wants to move some.

Costs of putting the fill material up for bid, writing up contracts and estimating the amount to be moved might make such a plan unfeasible, he said.

Victims' kin picket Berkowitz

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chanting "Kill Berkowitz," some 35 friends and relatives of victims of "Son of Sam" picketed Wednesday in front of the hospital where David Berkowitz, suspected of being the 44-caliber killer, is undergoing psychiatric examination.

The demonstrators outside Kings County Hospital were led by Eva Freund, whose sister Christine, 26, was shot to death last Jan. 30, 1977.

Berkowitz has been charged with the murder of Miss Freund and five other young people who died in the year-long string of ambushes around the city. The 24-year-old postal worker has been held at the hospital for psychiatric tests since his capture Aug. 10 outside his suburban Yonkers, N.Y., home.

Besides Miss Freund and her family, the families of Virginia Voskerichian, 19, who also was shot to death, and Stacy Moscovitz, 20, Son of Sam's last victim, joined the march to call for the quick trial and punishment of Berkowitz.

"Don't let him get away with murder so he can kill again," read a plywood sign carried by Miss Freund, 20.

"I think he is guilty," Miss Freund said, "and I want him brought to trial and convicted. He was bloodthirsty," she said. Looking toward Berkowitz' cell window she added, "Why shouldn't I want revenge?"

The demonstrators marched in a circle in front of the hospital building, carrying signs which read, "Kill Son of Sam," "What about the Victims?" and "The Rope for the 44-Caliber Killer." They also chanted, "We want justice" and "Revenge now."

Miss Freund said she was circulating a petition to reinstate the death penalty in New York.

Spencer Luder, an attorney who represents the Moskovitz, Freund and Voskerichian families, said he tried to dissuade his clients from holding the demonstration because he feared it would prejudice the case against Berkowitz.

John Diehl, who was in the car when Miss Freund, his girlfriend, was shot, said if he ever met Berkowitz, "it would be a fair fight, but there would be more blood than was spilt that night."

"I'd eat him up. I'd make him feel the pain I felt," Diehl said.

"I believe in an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," cried Miss Moskovitz' mother, Nysa. "He's not crazy."

"We all hear voices. I hear the voice of my daughter telling me, 'I want revenge.' This is a wound that will never close. I want him to be found fit for trial."

Evans supports welfare proposals

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans told the Caldwell Lions Club Wednesday that President Carter has made a good start toward welfare reform with his proposals to make work more attractive than welfare.

Evans said he has some misgivings about administrative requirements and eligibility determination for medicare provisions of the plan. He said they may require more state staff than really necessary — and put final eligibility determination at the federal instead of state level.

But, he said, he felt the President has made a good start with his welfare reform package, adding its objective is expressed in its name: "A program for better jobs and income."

"The President's package provides the vehicle for government to assist some people who have not on their own been able to generate a good enough job or an adequate income," the governor said.

He said in America and especially in the West there is a strong belief that everyone should work to earn his or her way and a real aversion to the idea that there are some who could work to carry their share but do not.

"It is that aversion that has caused the welfare system to have fallen into disrepute," he said. "Under the Carter plan work is always better paying than assistance."

Reporting on the western and national governors' conference he attended recently, Evans said that in all areas the governors spoke out strongly in favor of states handling their own problems.

"We rejected the idea of federal no-fault automobile insurance and reaffirmed the states' rights to set insurance regulations," he said. "We expressed strongly that the states should be consulted before decisions are made affecting rail transportation."

And, he said, they reiterated states' rights to set water policies.

Liability limited if fund collapses

BOISE (UPI) — If the Firemen's Retirement Fund should fail and be unable to meet obligations to disabled and retired firemen the state's civil liability would be limited to the fund's assets, an attorney general's opinion said today.

Sen. Dick Smith, R-Herberg, asked the attorney general what the state's potential civil liability would be for actions of the legislature in failing to provide a proper mechanism for funding the system if it were to fail.

Assistant Attorney General David G. High said the liability would be limited to monies in the fund and monies thereafter appropriated to the fund.

He said the state has not consented to be sued beyond the assets of the fund and added, "It is a long-standing principle of constitutional law that the state is immune from suits brought against it by its own citizens without its consent."

Tuesday, Smith advised the Legislative Council that his interim retirement committee had learned the fund is financially unsound and legislation is necessary to put it on a sound footing.

Ford offers to replace filler caps

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. Wednesday said it will replace the fuel tank filler caps on 32,000 of its 1977 Granadas because of possible gasoline leakage if the caps are involved in rear-end collisions.

Ford said it was not recalling the affected cars, but will mail new gas tank caps to owners beginning next month. Supply plans call for owners to receive replacement caps by the end of the year.

The fuel tank filler caps must be replaced on 220,000 base-model Granadas in this country, 30,000 in Canada and 7,000 in export markets, Ford said.

Ford said it was notified by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration that the affected Granadas did not meet federal safety standards for fuel tank integrity.

Similar tests by the automaker revealed fuel leakage from the filler cap after the vehicle was struck in the rear at 30 miles per hour and overturned by a moving barrier, a spokesman said.

Stocks at Midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower Thursday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange in reaction to Bert Lance's resignation as President Carter's budget chief.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which plunged 10.82 points to a 21-month low Wednesday, was off 1.93 points to 838.97 shortly after the opening. Wednesday's close was the lowest since it finished at 838.63 on Dec. 22, 1975.

Declines led advances: 198 to 90, among the 402 issues creating the tape in the early going.

The stock market was plagued by numerous uncertainties in the wake of Lance's resignation following a turmoil over his banking practices.

The biggest question was who will replace Lance, the Georgia banker and Carter confidant who was considered the "conservative business force" in administration.

Carter, at his Wednesday news conference, said it was too early to name a replacement, but assured the nation the transition would be orderly. He expressed confidence in the Office of Management and Budget staff.

Many traders sold Wednesday because rumors circulated Wall Street that the Federal Reserve Board would report a surge in the nation's money supply later in the day. Funds recently raised their prime rate a quarter point to 7 3/4 per cent because of Fed credit tightening to hold down money supply growth.

Blast hits Fisherman's Wharf

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Investigators say a gas main leak touched off a thunderous blast and fire that destroyed a two-story building on popular Fisherman's Wharf, injuring nine persons.

The explosion demolished a 15-year-old building, the headquarters of Harbor Tours, an attraction providing several daily bay cruises for thousands of tourists.

Three workers for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., who were checking a "patched" natural gas line in front of the building were critically injured, including Donald Joseph, 33, assistant operations manager for the tour company.

Joseph, Angelo Dappollonio, 57, and Paul Valdez, 26, were reported in guarded condition today at San Francisco General Hospital.

People in the building were disoriented by the blast, which occurred at 11:02 a.m., in the building located near a popular attraction, the turn-of-century sailing ship Balclutha. Some victims staggered outside and collapsed.

Dennis Fullalove, 23, a cashier in the Harbor Tours office, said the explosion occurred as PGE workers were repairing a gas main in the building.

"Suddenly I heard this roar and I just felt like a giant picked me up and dropped me on my rump," he said.

Fullalove suffered only an arm injury but said, "Other people were blasted away, flying through the air." Shards of the building's walls were scattered at least 25 feet.

Hundreds of tourists and workers watched as flames enveloped the pier during the lunch hour. The smoke spread for blocks.

Employees from nearby stores pitched in to rescue some of those stranded inside the building because the entrance steps were destroyed.

Remo Gustucci, 46, a barber, dashed across the street and jumped on to a landing, where he helped three women climb to safety.

"People were running around out of their minds," said Dave McClood, 21, an ambulance paramedic who took critically burned victims to Mission Emergency Hospital.

A dozen fire trucks fought the blaze as panic-stricken friends and relatives of victims sought information.

"I think the Lord I am still alive," said Fullalove. "All we were doing was standing in the lobby when 'wham!' me and my co-worker were just lifted up as if we had no power."

Explosion aftermath

A POWERFUL explosion Wednesday sent bodies flying through a four office and blew walls 25 feet away on pier 41 of Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco. The explosion was followed by a fire which destroyed a two-story building. First reports indicated about a dozen persons were injured, some critically.

Wintry weather settles over West

By United Press International

Summer was clinging to its last few hours of life in Oklahoma and Texas but autumn — almost wintry — weather has settled in over New England and the mountains of the West.

Autumn officially begins at 11:30 p.m. EDT today and its approach was evident in northern New England and the northern Rockies.

Six inches of snow fell Wednesday at the 4,000-foot level on Stampede Pass in the Washington Cascades and snow tires were required on the higher roads in Yellowstone Park.

Temperatures dipped into the 30s in parts of New England and the Rockies early today and the National Weather Service said snow was forecast for the regions' higher elevations.

But summer was hanging on in Texas and Oklahoma.

Temperatures reached the 100-degree mark in parts of the two states Wednesday and more hot weather was forecast today.

Midland, Tex., and Abilene, Tex., reported record, 100-degree temperatures Wednesday and the mercury soared to a record 102 at Wichita Falls, Tex.

Forecasters said a storm front could bring minimal relief to portions of Oklahoma today but that temperatures would remain on the hot side.

Showers and thunderstorms dotted portions of the Midlands, spreading rain over portions of Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois. Other rainstorms stretched along the Eastern Seaboard from the Carolinas through Florida and a few showers were reported in western Montana and Idaho.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 33 degrees at Houlton, Maine, to 83 at both Miami and Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

180 work area death trap

BOISE (UPI) — A 6 1/2-mile stretch of Interstate 80 under repair west of Boise has become a death trap and state police and highway officials are unable to say why.

So far, five accidents — including two fatalities — have occurred on the heavily traveled road since the resurfacing began on both directions between Meridian and Nampa Sept. 19.

"There's no reason we should have wrecks there," State Police Lt. Richard Foote said. "Drivers just aren't paying attention."

District Engineer W. W. Sacht of the state highway division was equally baffled.

"It's hard to believe," Sacht said. "They don't want to slow down."

Traffic in the construction area is squeezed into one lane, in each direction around the clock although work is being done only in the daytime.

Foote said he is satisfied, however, that sufficient warnings have been posted.

Skeleton found in cabin

SALMON, Idaho (UPI) — The remains of a body, mostly a skeleton, with a bullet hole in the skull was found in an old cabin in the Gilmore townsite Tuesday.

Sheriff William Baker said the remains appear to be that of a man. The skeleton was found by a bottle-hunter who notified the Lemhi County sheriff's office Tuesday night.

Baker said it appears the body was buried in the dirt floor of the cabin and had been uncovered partially by a bear which had devoured most of the flesh. The remains are expected to be sent out to a pathologist in an attempt to determine identification.

He said he feels certain the body is not that of someone from this area and that it probably was brought into the area and hidden in the cabin. The remains were clad only in a pair of shorts.

Baker said he would guess the individual was probably fairly young.

Gilmore is a mining ghost town near Leadore, about 60 miles southeast of Salmon.

Two killed in crash southeast of Boise

BOISE (UPI) — Two persons from Portland died early today when the car in which they were riding slammed into the median of Interstate 80N about 15 miles east of Boise and rolled three times.

State police identified the victims as Cyril Melick, 53, and Marguerite A. Peck, 78. Both were dead at the scene.

Officers said the driver of the car, Esther Lee Melick, 53, Portland, wife of one of the victims, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. Police said she was traveling about 55 miles per hour at the time. The force of the collision threw her husband to the ground.

Mrs. Melick escaped serious injury and her daughter, Paulette, 22, Portland, was uninjured in the accident.

Officers said the four were returning to Portland from a trip to Denver when the accident occurred about 1:20 a.m.

George Hansen sues women's groups

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. George V. Hansen filed suit in U. S. District Court Wednesday to halt alleged spending of federal funds to lobby for the Equal Rights Amendment.

Hansen directed his suit against the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year and the directors of 13 federal executive agencies, including the secretary of state and attorney general.

He accused the commission of spending more than $500,000 worth of personnel and funds from the agencies in fiscal years 1975 and 1976. He asked the court to — Compel each agency head to recover improperly disbursed funds whether spent directly or for personnel used by the commission.

— Bar the agencies from making further illegal subsidies.

— Compel the commission to account for all monies in order to compute the total funds spent on influencing federal or state legislation.

— Require reimbursement to the government for all illegally spent funds.

Hansen based his suit on a General Accounting Office audit that charged the commission with using appropriated funds for lobbying and cooperating in the legal diversion of executive agency funds and personnel.

Amtrak service scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James A. McClure asked the National Railroad Passenger Corporation Wednesday to look into complaints about Amtrak's office hours, reservations and scheduling throughout Idaho.

McClure raised the question of whether Amtrak itself really wants to provide railroad passenger service to Idahoans.

"The Idaho delegation kept hollering about our state being bypassed in the federal program until service was grudgingly inaugurated," he said. "Now, it appears that Amtrak officials themselves are determined to sabotage their own program."

"This is borne out by a distressing report indicating that the Amtrak board of directors is considering a reduction of operation of trains through Idaho."

He said he recently has received many letters from constituents who encounter problems in trying to make reservations.

"When ticket office hours in some locations are from 10:30 a.m. until 2:30 a.m. and when ticket holders find bureaucratic obstacles keeping them from getting promised refunds, the obvious conclusion is that Amtrak simply doesn't want the system to work in Idaho."

"I'm afraid many people are solving their problems with Amtrak by simply taking their cars or cancelling their trips," the senator said. "Now that we do have 'service' in Idaho, Amtrak has the responsibility to see that it is improved."

Buhl tests Jerome in Friday grid special

MAGIC VALLEY - Buhl invades Jerome. Valley hosts Glens Ferry and it's offense against defense basically in the two major highlights of this weekend's football schedule.
A total of 19 games will be played by area teams with Twin Falls, Burley and Hansen leaving the district.

Tigers took the 1969 finale 19-7. Jerome won the 1961, '62 and '63 matches -- the middle one by one point.
In their past 21 meetings the two are dead even at 10-10-1.

Despite the two opening losses, Coach Murray Johnson says his Bruins still are progressing and maintaining a good level of enthusiasm.
'We knew when we started that our first five games would be killers,' Coach Johnson said.

Nicklaus favored in meet

MASON, Ohio (UPI) - Jack Nicklaus heads a classy field of 156 golfers teeing off Thursday at this week's PGA stop - the $150,000 Kins Island Open.
Nicklaus, shooting for his 80th world-wide win and 64th on the PGA tour, can take the lead in this year's money-winning list if he captures the $300,000 first prize.

But Nicklaus is considered the favorite in just about every tourney he enters, and especially here because he is playing a course he built.
The 6,837-yard, par 70 layout bears the name, 'Jack Nicklaus Golf Center' and the Golden Bear already has played the course to perfection.

Lasorda warns of letdown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - With the division pennant safely tucked away and the National League playoffs coming up next, Manager Tom Lasorda Wednesday reflected back and pointed to his first meeting with the Los Angeles Dodgers in spring training as the season's turning point.
'What was our turning point?' he asked rhetorically. 'The turning point was the day we went to spring training. I told them that first day of spring training that if they believed in themselves, they could beat anybody. All they had to do was believe in themselves.'

Phillis - he said the probable starting pitchers for the first two games will be Tommy John, who pitched the division clincher Tuesday, and Don Sutton.
'Things could change, though,' Lasorda said. 'But right now, we feel that's the way we want to go.'

Governor supports LAU football coach

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) - Gov. Edwin Edwards said Wednesday he is being bombarded with calls and letters from irate football fans demanding Louisiana State coach Charlie McClendon be sacked for losing the Tigers' season opener.
LSU lost to Indiana, 24-20, at Bloomington Saturday. They had been favored to win by as much as three touchdowns.

Tournament director Burch Rieber said Saturday's third round - because of the regionally televised Ohio State-Oklahoma football game being played that day in Columbus - would be conducted a little differently.

Zimmer offers 'trade' to LA's Lasorda

BOSTON (UPI) - Don Zimmer came out to the ball park bright and early one morning not long ago, walked into his private office and the first thing he knew, his phone was ringing. It was the Red Sox operator informing him Tommy Lasorda was calling long distance.
He told the operator to put the Dodger manager on and then before Lasorda could even say hello, Zimmer said to him: 'Sure, you wait until you get 13 games in front to call your buddy. You're out front by 13 and I'm sitting here biting my nails with no hair and ulcers. I wanna make a deal with you. Gimme six of your wins - you don't need 'em - and take six of my losses because they ain't gonna hurt you, and I'll throw in three years on my pension plan.'

Walterweight champion says he's the one who made the decision to quit, not his mother, Emelda, who often showed up at his fights. 'She never told me to quit but she never wanted me to start, either,' says Griffith. 'I took her six months before she signed my first contract when I was 18. I told her if she didn't sign it, I'd sign it myself when I got to be 21. She signed it.'

Two of the easiest victories recorded by any pitcher this year have gone to Jim Clancy, Toronto's big rookie right-hander. He was the winner in that 193 runaway win with the Yankees two weeks ago as well as the winner of the game the Orioles forfeited last week. After that one was over, he said to Blue Jay manager Roy Harris: 'If this is the big leagues, I like it here.'

Broncos prepare for Las Vegas invasion

BOISE — One of the hottest rivalry games in the West kicks off the 1977 home season for the Boise State Broncos Saturday as they host the University of Nevada-Las Vegas Rebels in Bronco Stadium.

Kickoff for the non-conference game is 7:30 p.m. There are still some reserved seats available for the game.

The Rebels lead the series between the two schools 3-2. Last year in Las Vegas the Rebels beat BSU 31-26. The last time UNLV visited Bronco Stadium they lost 34-21 in 1975.

After splitting a pair of road games, coach Jim Criner brings his Broncos home Saturday night to meet former BSU head coach Tony Knop. It will be the first time that Knop, who coached in Bronco Stadium from the visitors' side of the field. The Broncos are 1-1, having beaten Weber State in Ogden two weeks ago 19-0 and then losing 42-7 last Saturday to Fresno State. The UNLV Rebels are 2-0 after beating Montana 15-13 in Missoula and Troy State 33-28 last Saturday in Las Vegas.

"Las Vegas had a good, well-balanced attack. They are a threat to score either way," BSU's Jim Criner said. "Raymond Strong is an excellent running back and Greg Van Ness had proven himself to be a fine thrower and runner. We'll have to contain Van Ness and their running backs Saturday night." Strong, who did not carry the ball against Montana, had 13 carries for 55 yards against Troy State. UNLV's top rusher is Russell Ellis who had 23 carries for 122 yards. Van Ness had 19 carries for 89 yards and one score.

Van Ness, a senior who played for Utah State the last time a Division I team saw action in Bronco Stadium, redshirted last year for UNLV and earned the starting spot this fall. He has completed 26 of 62 passing attempts for 410 yards and four TD's. His top receiver is Junior Brian Harris, who had 13 catches for 209 yards and four scores. The Rebels are averaging 201.5 yards a game on the ground and 222.5 in the air. They are giving up 208.5 on the ground and 164.0 via the air.

The Broncos will start the same team that began the Fresno State game. Sophomore Hoskin Hogan will be the starting quarterback. Junior Dee Pickett still has to be cleared by the doctors to see full action. If he is cleared, coach Criner said that Pickett will still have to earn a starting spot.

Pearson ousted

HARRISBURG, N.C. (UPI) — NASCAR officials have declared veteran racer David Pearson ineligible to compete in next month's $120,000 World Service Life 300, Charlotte Motor Speedway officials said Wednesday.

Pearson was scheduled to drive a Chevrolet prepared by Hoss Ellington in the Oct. 8 race. But a number of late-model sportsman drivers protested, saying Pearson had not participated in the specified number of NASCAR-sanctioned late model events.

Pete Keller, national director of NASCAR's Late Model Sportsman Division, said in a letter to Ellington that drivers had to compete in at least 10 NASCAR late model sportsman or modified races this year in order to compete.

"In checking our NASCAR official records, we find that David Pearson has participated in only five NASCAR Late Model Sportsman events ... and did not compete in any NASCAR Modified events in 1977," Keller's letter said.

The letter also pointed out that Pearson's entry violated a portion of the official World Service Life 300 entry blank.

Pistons lose draft pick, gain forward

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons lost one forward Wednesday but gained another.

The loss came when fifth-round draft choice Jim Kennedy decided he did not have what it takes to make it in the NBA and walked out of training camp after the first day of fall practice.

Within hours, the club announced the signing of free agent Billie Norwood, a former Piston who was recently placed on waivers by the Seattle SuperSonics.

"He fell he was not able to make any significant contribution and said he didn't want to waste his time or the Pistons' time," a Detroit spokesman said of Kennedy. "Coach Herb Brown tried to convince him otherwise, but it didn't succeed."

Kennedy, a 6-foot-6 forward who carried a 12.2-point per game scoring average during his college career at Missouri, became the fourth Pistons' forward to fall by the wayside.

Veteran Marvin Barnes will not be available to play until Oct. 16, when he will be paroled from a Cranston, R.I. prison where he "has been serving time for a parole violation. Don Adams' suit for torn Achilles (tendon and Howard Porter is recuperating from pneumonia.

Norwood, a six-year NBA veteran played for the Pistons from 1971 through 1975 when he was placed on waivers and later picked up by Seattle, where he played his last two seasons.

In 393 regular NBA games, he has a 7.6-point scoring average and a .495 shooting average.

Kennedy's departure and Norwood's arrival brought to 7 the number of players at the Pistons' training camp at Chrysler Arena in Ann Arbor. Of the 17, seven are forwards.

Brown fears loss in roster limit

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UPI) — Denver Nuggets coach Larry Brown said Wednesday the decision of the NBA to limit its teams to only 11 players — one fewer than a year ago — is going to have a dramatic effect not only on today's players, but on college athletes who hope to make the pros.

Brown, whose squad is training at the Air Force Academy, will have to trim five players from his roster prior to the season opener Oct. 12 against the Milwaukee Bucks.

"It's not fun for me, but the situation we have to deal with," he said. "Just think, there will be 22 less jobs in professional basketball than there were before."

"It not only affects these guys, but the college kids as well. Can you imagine how tough it is going to be in the future to make a pro team."

Brown said he hoped to keep all of his players "around long enough so that each one gets a good, solid shot at making it here."

"It is a positive situation in that the people we keep are going to be players the fans in Denver can be comfortable with."

Brown admits there was some discussion of the team last year, but he feels that is gone. Two former guards — Fatty Taylor and Ted McClain — were told not to return to camp this year.

"Every team has problems and I feel it is easier for 11 players to adjust to the coaches rather than have the coaches adjust to one player," Brown said.

"I told them this in our meeting," he said. "They are coming to me to work things out, that there is nothing here we can't solve."

Houston signs ex-Dallas kicker

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Oilers sought to shore up an inconsistent kicking game and quiet discontented fans Wednesday by signing former Dallas Cowboys soccer-style place-kicker Tom Fritsch and veteran kicking specialist Skip Butler.

Butler, who was beginning his sixth year with Houston, missed four field goals and an extra point in Sunday's victory over the New York Jets. The pressure was heavy on head coach Bum Phillips to make a change.

Fritsch played five games last season with the San Diego Chargers, but two weeks ago he was cut. Phillips watched him work out Wednesday morning and signed him.

Fritsch does not have a lot of experience, but he is consistent. I know that," Phillips said. "He has a good touch on the ball from close in."

Fritsch, 32, was a celebrated Austrian soccer star when the Cowboys brought him to the U.S. in 1971. He kicked a field goal for the Cowboys in the first football game he had ever seen.

Fritsch lost his Cowboys job to Efen Herrera early in the 1976 season, and this season

Ray Werschling beat him for the Chargers place-kicking job.

During his four years with the Cowboys, the native of Vienna was a factor in helping Dallas gain the NFC title game three times and the Super Bowl once. He was the NFL's leading kick scorer in 1975 with 104 points and his career includes 72 of 109 field goals made and 130 of 135 extra points.

Fritsch has had physical problems during his NFL career. He missed the 1974 season due to a pulled hamstring muscle and last season with the Chargers he missed three of 14 extra points before being sidelined a month into the season by the same ailment.

Phillips said he expected Butler to be claimed off waivers by another NFL team.

"He will do well, you watch," Phillips said.

In recent years, Houston fans have alternatively booed and cheered Butler. His release comes following his worst performance in six seasons. He missed field goals of 46, 41, 41 and 27 yards Sunday.

Body Shoptalk

Fat: Sex makes a difference

Body fat . . . Rarely do you find a single soul who is satisfied with this fluctuating percentage of body weight.

As a result, we Americans, the blimps of the world, are susceptible to voluptuous claims that fat can be steamed, mummified, massaged or vibrated into oblivion. These sure-fire solutions do feel, ah, so good, but they flatten nothing . . . except the pocketbook.

How do you determine how much fat is too much? The "pinch" test is the easiest, least reliable method of determining too much body fat in strategic spots such as upper arms and the top of the hips. Simply pinch and pull the fat glob away from the muscle. If there is more than an inch of the blubbery stuff, you may be over-fat and still be of normal weight.

The most accurate procedure to measure body fat is submerging the entire body under water for weighing. Sixty-fold measurements can also be taken as specific body sites with calipers.

Sex definitely does make a difference in accumulating fat. Women in general have more body fat than do men from puberty through adulthood. In contrast, males tend to lose fat with adolescence.

The average college-age female packs approximately 25 per cent body fat compared to 15 per cent for college males.

Take heart, ladies, there are a few advantages to storing extra fat layers directly under the skin. Women are much more buoyant in water and insulated against cold than men, generally. This may explain the fact that women hold most of the open-water distance swimming records.

There is another increasingly popular theory among physiologists that women may be better suited to long distance running than men because of their ability to utilize stored fat as fuel. Marathon runner and physiologist, Dr. Joan Ulliyot, suggests that females do not "hit the wall," an expression describing the exhaustion that many runners suffer due to depletion of glycogen (fuel for muscle work).

Men run the 26-mile stretch in just over two hours at which time their energy supply is exhausted. Those who take longer to finish the race, are likely to experience "hitting the wall." Women, on the other hand, may be "running off their fat," since they run considerably longer times and recover more quickly from strenuous physical exertion than their male counterparts.

Box Canyon preservation draws fire

But according to state BLM director Bill Matthews, the BLM has discussed with Hardy an arrangement under which Hardy would be granted an easement across BLM land to divert water from Box Canyon.

In return, the BLM would be granted use of the upper section of the canyon, presumably to become a designated natural area.

Under the arrangement, no permanent transfer of title to any land would occur, Matthews explained. "The agreement would be worded that if either easement were terminated, the other could be," he added.

The BLM proposals for the area are contained in an Environmental Assessment Report now going through final review in the BLM Shoshone District Office. The report will be released within a few weeks, according to BLM estimates.

Terry Coshig, planning and environmental coordinator for the Shoshone BLM district, said public hearings will be scheduled to gauge public response to the report.

If the BLM decides to set Box Canyon aside as a natural area, the possibility exists that the area would not be open to the general public, except in organized educational groups.

Nancy Savage, a research associate in biology at the University of Idaho who worked with zoology professor Dr. Fred Habe in selecting sites throughout Idaho for possible natural area status, said the Natural Area Committee's proposal to the BLM did not specifically recommend closing Box Canyon to the public.

Savage admitted, however, that indiscriminate public use would endanger the very qualities of the canyon that make it valuable as a study area.

Savage added that the area has little value "for people who just want to wander around somewhere," but has great value for educational and research purposes.

If the BLM does acquire the land through an arrangement with Hardy, the decision to open the area to the general public will rest with the BLM, who will manage the area, provided Hardy does not reserve some control over management practices in the conditions of the agreement.

While the Natural Areas Committee supplies pressure in favor of an agreement with Hardy, the Fish and Game Department opposes the contemplated agreement.

The F&G fears that if Hardy is granted access across BLM land to the stream in Box Canyon he will take out so much water for his hatcheries that the stream will no longer be able to support natural fish life.

In addition, they fear the clear water area in the Snake River formed by the outflow of the stream will be eliminated, ruining one of the best fishing and waterfowl-resting sites in the Snake River.

Regional fisheries biologist Bob Bell said the flow of the stream in Box Canyon has been measured at 832 cubic feet per second.

Only one diversion exists at present in the canyon. It diverts 300 cubic feet of water per second are diverted from the stream. A miles from the mouth, channelled through a concrete culvert part way down the canyon and then piped underneath the Snake River, only to rise on the other side to water the Clear Springs Trout Hatchery.

Valid water filings on the stream amount to 1180 cfs, but only the 300 cfs going to Clear Springs are currently being utilized.

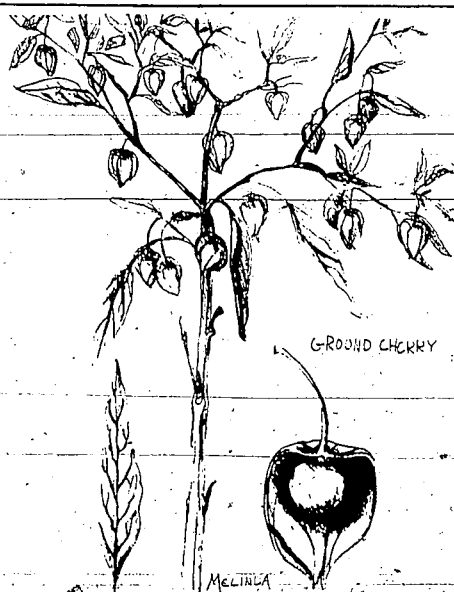

Regional F&G supervisor Bill Webb said Hardy holds valid rights to enough water to "essentially de-water" Box Canyon if he utilized all his holdings.

Whether or not the BLM and Hardy reach agreement, Hardy has the right to divert water from Box Canyon anywhere his own land borders the stream.

Upstream migration of fish in the stream is already blocked by the Clear Springs diversion, but Webb says the F&G has the authority to force the construction of a fish ladder at the diversion.

Webb added that the F&G has been reluctant to force costly construction costs on Clear Springs until it has been determined whether additional diversions downstream would render a fish ladder at the Clear Springs diversion site useless.

Hardy declined comment on the situation, saying he would withhold comment until the BLM's environmental assessment is published.

Wild edibles: Sweet 'n' sour

By MARK & MELINDA MILLER

MAGIC VALLEY — Pity the poor farmer whose fields abound with groundcherry.

A member of the potato family, it is well adapted to a broad range of conditions. Once it has established itself in a field of wheat or other crop, it grows above it and spreads like a canopy to cover the crop and rob it of nutrients, water and sunlight. To some it is a very troublesome weed, difficult to eradicate and rarely eliminated altogether.

To this forager of wild edibles, it is known and respected as mother nature's natural sweet and sour condiment, perfect for making sweet and sour sauce for spare ribs or whatever.

Groundcherry is a branching perennial, anywhere from eight to 20 inches tall with pale yellow flowers which grow darker toward the center. The flowers are bell shaped, 3/4 inches across, and occur on the plant at each leaf axil or branching, one per axil. Branching is minor, and alternates 2/3 of the way up its main stem. At this point, the branching spreads to form its canopy.

Groundcherry begins to go to seed in late

July or early August and continues until the first damaging frosts terminate its growth. The seeds are contained in a green tomato-like berry. The berry is contained in a paper-like balloon or bladder, similar in shape to a chinese lantern. Leaves are at least three times longer than broad, and are lance shaped with wavy or sometimes curled margins. These margins are never toothed or serrated. Flowers bloom from June through July.

Its tomato-like fruit is at its best when its pod or bladder turns yellow-green or near the middle of September.

Groundcherry can be found in moist to medium dry soils along roadsides, fence rows, cultivated land, waste land, and sometimes in or near border areas of deciduous forests.

Besides being absolutely delicious, hunters take note, this plant is very common and has a large yield, 30-50 berries on a 15 inch plant. It also stores well when refrigerated and is easy to harvest. Fruits of groundcherry make excellent sauces, pies, preserves or just plain snacks right off the bush.

One note of caution: this is one of our tastiest wild foods. It takes only one bite to fall in love.

Storm erupts over segment of Gong Show

CHICAGO — A minor storm of protest erupted around the country Tuesday over the airing of a segment of NBC's Daytime Gong Show, prompting the National Broadcasting Company to publicly admit "it was a mistake presenting the segment. We regret airing it."

The airing of the "Amateur Show" program contained a segment in which two young ladies, attired in brief costumes, presented an "act" consisting solely of licking and nibbling popcicles.

When the 40-second performance ended, one panelist, singer Jayne P. Morgan, rated the amateurs a '10', stating, "That's how I got my start in show business."

Within moments, the switchboard at WMAQ in Chicago, which airs the show each day at 3 p.m., lit up with phone calls protesting the "Suggestiveness" and "obscenity" of the performance. As one caller to The Chicago Sun-Times TV-Radio desk put it: "When I saw it, my mouth fell open. I felt like I was at the Admiral Theater (an X-rated movie house). There was no doubt at all what they were doing with the popcicles."

Word of the offending portion—first—reached WMAQ earlier in the day, when a staffer at WKYC—the Cleveland NBC affiliate that aired the program three hours earlier, called to warn of the segment, which already had generated 80 angry phone calls in Cleveland. According to WMAQ, a quick of intrastation communications caused the Cleveland warning to get no further than the WMAQ reception desk.

WMAQ general manager Lee Hanna said he saw the questionable segment only when it was aired and might have taken some action if he had known about it in advance. He echoed the NBC regrets over the airing, adding that "it was tasteless. I don't understand how it ever got past Standards and Practices (NBC censorship office) in New York."

TWIN FALLS COUNTY OFFICIALS look over Murtaugh Lake improvements

Facilities improved at Murtaugh Lake

MURTAUGH — Development of recreational facilities at Murtaugh Lake has reached the three-year point in a five-year program planned by Twin Falls County officials.

First phase work involved building a roadway to a part of the lake which was previously not accessible to motor vehicles. During the next year, boat ramps and docks were added and some restrooms and picnic tables.

This summer crews have been working to build additional picnic tables and to build canopy covers for all of the tables. Fireplaces will be added in the near future.

Darrell Holder, county parks director, said new restrooms are also being built and the new units will have small dressing rooms for both men and women. These will be available to water skiers for changing into their swimsuits or back into their clothing on leaving the lake.

The Waterways Commission is assisting by building the boat ramps and docks from boat licensing fees.

Members of the Twin Falls Liens Club will be donating about $570 this year for park improvements.

Although county officials said they do not have a total cost estimate on the project because of the various phases of work, much of the cost is covered by revenue sharing money.

Additional road work is yet to be done, and Holder said he hopes to make some improvements in landscaping.

Admirers mourn passing of opera star Maria Callas

PARIS (UPI) — Friends and admirers of opera diva Maria Callas burst into cries of "Brava Maria!" — the shout heard from Rome to New York when her audiences demanded encores — during an emotional funeral service for the star.

Miss Callas, who died Friday of a heart attack at the age of 53, was cremated Tuesday shortly after the 40-minute ceremony in a small Greek Orthodox church filled to capacity with about 600 mourners.

The death of white-gladioli came as a special tribute from Christina Ousatis, daughter of Miss Callas's long-standing lover, the late Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis.

When Onassis married Jacqueline Kennedy in October, 1968, Miss Callas wrote,

"First I lost my weight, then I lost my voice, and now I've lost Onassis."

Among the mourners at the memorial—service—were Princess Grace and Princess Caroline of Monaco, where Miss Callas had one of her two homes—and scores of celebrities from the world of opera.

While invited mourners took part in the quiet ceremony inside the church, police strained to hold back the crowd outside.

The service burst into thunderous applause and cries of "Brava Maria!" when her casket was carried out to a waiting hearse, echoing the calls of opera audiences all over the world who cherished the soprano's brilliant voice.

Today a knot of three or four mourners maintained a lonely pre-dawn vigil at the Pere Lachaise cemetery in eastern Paris, where the remains of the diva, born in New York of Greek parents, were cremated.

Among the many sending memorial wreaths were Greek Prime Minister Constantinos Karamanlis, French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and the La Scala opera house in Milan, where she was booed and cheered during her tempestuous career.

A register for condolences opened outside Miss Callas' home on the fashionable Avenue Georges Mandel was quickly filled with the signatures of thousands of friends, neighbors and admirers.

Homemade cannon bursts, kills one, injures six

ROLLA, Mo. (UPI) — A homemade cannon used in a fraternity rite on the University of Missouri campus exploded Tuesday night, killing one student and injuring six others.

Missouri Highway Patrol dispatcher David Colgrove said today the cannon was fired during a party celebrating the Kappa Alpha fraternity's initiation of its group, the Daughters of Lee.

"It's apparently a custom of theirs to fire this homemade cannon and the cannon exploded," Colgrove said, "sending pieces of shrapnel and metal throughout the group and one person was killed and six were injured."

Randall Crustale, 21, of Florissant, Mo., was dead on arrival at St. Johns Hospital in St. Louis. He had suffered severe head injuries.

Colgrove said fraternity members held the initiation at a church before returning to the fraternity house for the party. The first attempt to fire the cannon failed, Colgrove said, and students reloaded the device. The cannon exploded on the second attempt to fire it.

A spokeswoman at Phelps County Hospital in Rolla said Gerald M. Tarr, 19, of Raytown, and Susan Diehl, 18, of Harrison, required surgery early today for their shrapnel wounds. Michael S. Ferguson, 20, of Florissant, was admitted in satisfactory condition.

Kenneth L. Miller, 19, of Chesterfield, was listed in good condition today at the university's infirmary. Two other students, Mark A. Winnett, 20, of Ballwin, and Karen Burnham, were treated for minor injuries at the infirmary.

American trends scored

REXBURG, Idaho (UPI) — America is sowing the seeds of its own destruction, Ezra Talt Benson, president of the LDS Church's Council of the Twelve, told Ricks College students Tuesday.

"Our greatest need in America today is to be alerted and informed," Benson said.

"It is my sober warning to you today that if the trends of the past 40 years, and especially the past 15 years continue, we will lose that which is as priceless as life itself — our freedom, our liberty, our right to act as free men...."

"It can happen here," he said. "It is happening here. And if we lose our freedom blood will be required to bring it back."

your health

Stipend presented

Dear Dr. Lamb —
I am now in my 90th year and except for some prostate trouble. I am in fairly good health.
Last year I started having to get up at night and have to relieve myself more often during the day. Whenever I rise from the sitting position I have to go. In addition, the starting of the flow is difficult and I do not empty completely so that after a few minutes I am compelled to relieve myself again. I saw my urologist and after a complete examination including a cystoscopy the only remark he made was to see him in six months or sooner if necessary.
Now, Dr. Lamb, I have a few questions. Can a malignancy be involved? I realize that the enlarged prostate diminishes the lumen of the urethra so that there is difficulty in starting the flow, but why do I get another urge a minute or two later?

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

TWIN FALLS — David B. Willis, Twin Falls, is the recipient of the $500 scholarship awarded this year by the Dilettantes of Magic Valley.
Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Willis, Twin Falls, is entering his junior year of education in jazz percussion at the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla. While there he will study under the direction of Fred Wickstrom, first chair percussionist with the Miami Symphony.

A graduate of Twin Falls High School and CSI, Willis, 19, studied under the direction of Lawrence Curtis at CSI and maintained a grade point average of 3.9 in his first two undergraduate years of college. He has also been active as a percussionist for the Magic Valley Little Theatre's and Dilettante's summer productions.
This scholarship was won at an audition for which Willis performed an original jazz percussion solo as well as "Pasquale Boss" Rhythmic Articulation No. 108. Will's awarding of this stipend, the Dilettantes have contributed $1,000 this year toward education in the performing arts. Earlier recipients of scholarships to Ballet Folk and Performing Arts camps in Moscow this summer were Amy Ann Todd, Christy Nelson and Cindy Hastam; all Twin Falls; Jane Towle, Jerome, and Kim Payne, Ketchum.

Questions asked about prostate

Although the urologist has not suggested it, is there any reason why a prostatectomy is indicated at this time?
Do you think the urologist is waiting for me to close up before he operates? Is this the usual procedure in similar cases?
If there is no malignancy at present, can a malignancy be precipitated by operating?
Dear Reader —
Just because a man has an enlarged prostate or an obstructed flow from the prostate does not mean a malignancy is present. A prostate gland may have an acute infection, a chronic infection, become enlarged or develop a malignancy. To give you more information on it I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-6, Prostate Gland. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.
The older a man gets the more likely he is to have nests of cancer cells in the prostate. The later these occur the less likely they are to grow rapidly or spread. A man may live out his life span and never have any trouble from such cells. A number of these are diagnosed only by examination after death, or found only during a prostate operation. Frequent examinations by your doctor will detect any lump or nodule that might signal change and still gives the doctor time to provide an actual cure of the cancer. The cancer growth should be detected as early as possible. That is the reason for repeated examinations.
The enlarged prostate prevents complete emptying of the bladder and because it is constantly sending out signals through your nervous system that you need to empty it. That is the basic reason for the frequent need to relieve yourself. Your doctor knows just how much residual urine is in your bladder from your tests. Apparently he doesn't think it is enough to justify surgery in your case at this time.
If there is a malignancy involved it must be a small nest of cells in the prostate and probably has nothing to do with your obstructive symptoms or your doctor would have advised surgery.
Whether or not you need a prostate operation depends upon how much obstruction you have. Doctors usually do not wait until the opening is completely closed. Surgery will not cause a malignancy but if there are any small nests of cells that cannot be felt by finger examination these might then be found.

Ask me Jacobys
The opponents have reached three notrump on the sequence 1 Diamond, 1 notrump, 2 notrump. Partner leads the queen of spades. Dummy shows: ♠ A x x ♣ A x ♦ K Q J 10 x ♠ K Q x. He plays low. What do we play with: ♠ K x ♣ Q x x ♦ x x x x ♠ x x x x?

We play the king of spades and lead the suit back. If partner holds five spades and an entry we will beat the contract.

(For a copy of JACOBY MODERN, send $1 for "Win at Bridge," c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019)

By Oswald & James Jacoby
South was very disappointed when North dropped him at two notrump, but was delighted when he saw the dummy. The game was match-point duplicate and it looked as if spade declarers would have to lose two hearts a ruff, the ace of spades and king of clubs to wind up with just eight tricks and South could see eight tricks at notrump unless East held a six-card heart suit.
East allowed dummy's eight of hearts to hold the first trick. The seven of spades was led to the king. West ducked! West also played low on the second spade. If South had been looking at all the cards he would have played nine, but he did play the jack. East dropped the nine of clubs and South saw he would have to abandon the spade suit and look for some other way to find eight tricks.
It wasn't hard for him. He just used the diamonds to get to six tricks; threw East in with a heart and waited.
East cashed four hearts and had to lead a club. South rose with his queen and had his eighth trick and a top score.
Note that this play would not have succeeded if East had cashed ace-king of hearts and led a third heart to start the defense.

Couple recites promises

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL FRAZIER

TWIN FALLS — Before a background of pink and green chrysanthemums placed in baskets, Ilene Moore and Michael Gene Frazier were married Sept. 4 at The Carillon.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ray Ross and Robert W. Moore, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Marjorie Frazier, Yakima, Wash.

Rev. Ron Borden performed the ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore an off-white polyester V-neck gown made by Mrs. Robert Burton. The neck and long sleeves were trimmed in lace. The three-tiered chapel-length veil attached to a Juliet cap was trimmed in matching lace. The veil belongs to Mrs. Allen Nelson and was made by Mrs. Burton.

Mrs. Nelson of Twin Falls was matron of honor while Mrs. Randy Hudson of Twin Falls was bridesmaid.

The best man was Doug Rieth, groomsman, Ray Ross, and ushers included Joe Neale, brother of the bride, and Vern Plett, cousin of the bride. All are from Twin Falls.

Kristine Thomason, Hill City, handed the guest book. Gifts were received at the door by Pam Christian and opened by Mrs. Jeff Gooding, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Larry Neale, sister-in-law of the bride.

Mrs. Dale Plett, aunt of the bride, played the organ during the ceremony and soloist was Mrs. Richard Smack.

The bride's table was decorated with pink satin over a skirt of white lace. The three-tiered cake made by Mrs. Nelson was white decorated with green streamers which led to two heart-shaped cakes. The top of the main cake was decorated with a bouquet of pink and green carnations and was highlighted by a fountain of green water.

Attending the bride's table were Mrs. Jim LuLow, Eden; Mrs. Charley Lowen, Hansen; Mrs. Kelly Thomason, Hill

City, and Mrs. Marvin Fouts, Twin Falls. Patty Russell, Twin Falls, served the punch.

The bride was given pre-nuptial showers by Karla Edwards, Mrs. Allen Nelson and Mrs. Myron Sobring.

After a honeymoon trip to Oregon and Washington, the couple will reside in Twin Falls where the bride is employed by Twin Falls Bank and Trust, Blue Lakes branch, and the bridegroom is employed by Copy Systems, Inc.

Musical to benefit Elks hospital

TWIN FALLS — Company I will present the musical "Fantastics" Oct. 7, 8 and 9 at the Twin Falls Elks Lodge as a benefit for the Idaho Elks Rehabilitation Hospital in Boise.

Ed Britt, director, said the play has run 23 years continuously on Broadway. The musical will be performed in the round, with simple staging.

The Elks Rehabilitation Hospital has operated for 30 years as a non-profit institute for treatment of handicapped children and adults. It is owned and operated by the Idaho Elks association, an organization of all Elks lodges in Idaho.

From a modest beginning in 1947, at a convalescent center for victims of polio, the hospital today helps handicapped persons perform within the limits of their ability. The hospital's professional medical personnel employ unique approaches and modern equipment to meet the patient's needs for rehabilitation.

Admission to the hospital, either as an in-patient or out-patient, is through a physician's referral. There are no restrictions as to race or creed. As of August, 1977, patients had come to the hospital from all Idaho counties and several other states.

A portion of each Elks' membership dues are sent for the support of the hospital. In addition, each lodge usually undertakes several projects yearly to raise funds to donate to the hospital.

The Twin Falls Lodge annually has dances, amusements and this year is co-sponsoring with the local theater group, Company I, the musical Oct. 7-9 with all proceeds going to the hospital. The full range of rehabilitative services available at the hospital include physical therapy to reduce discomfort and to orient the patient to live within the limits of his handicap. A major goal of occupational therapy is to assist and train the patient to regain as much independence as possible in daily living. A specialized program in homemaking services assists the disabled person in learning to carry out ordinary homemaker activities.

The speech and audiology department identifies problems of speech, language and hearing difficulties and offers a program utilizing special methods by trained therapists.

In the children's programs, neurologically impaired children are treated as outpatients and are prepared for school and given therapy treatment when needed.

Talkington heads Legion

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls American Legion Post No. 7 has a new commander and adjutant.

Chris Talkington was elected post commander and Colonel William Rose, adjutant, at the monthly meeting. Talkington replaces Frank Mogensen, who held the position since 1966. Col. Rose replaces Vern Hubbert, who was adjutant for 15 years. Mogensen is a veteran of the World War II era, while Hubbert traces his service years to World War I.

Col. Rose recently retired from active Army service after 30 years. He spent 15 years in counter-intelligence with duty tours at the Pentagon, Talkington, a Vietnam-war era veteran, was a guided missile computer technician, with two years service in Puerto Rico with the Air Force.

Mogensen and Hubbert provided strong backing for American Legion programs such as Boys-Slale, American Legion Baseball and Legion-sponsored oratory contests.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
©1977 by The Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This is to thank you for your enlightened attitude about homosexuals.

I am the father of two sons and a daughter. My youngest son is gay, and when I first learned of it, I spent a lot of time worrying and wondering why. His mother died when he was 7, and his older brother and sister and I might have overprotected him, but I doubt if that was the cause. I think the pattern was set much earlier.

Whatever the reason, he was my son with his first breath, and he will be my son until his last. I am as caring and proud of him as I am of my other children. With minimal effort, I soon became as comfortable with his friends as with those of my other children. We all live some distance apart, but there is warmth and affection whenever the family is together.

My second grandson is named for him—and this was done after we learned the news.

Just as his brother, sister and I take for granted his standing by one of us if the need arose, so can he be certain we will stand by him. We are a family. What a wonderful feeling.

SIGNED, BUT NAME WITHHELD

Dad stands by gay son

DEAR SIGNED: Your youngest son is fortunate to have a family such as yours. What a pity there aren't more people with your understanding and compassion.

DEAR ABBY: Junior has been living at home since he was graduated from college three years ago. (He's 25.) He works for me (I'm his father) and makes excellent wages. The problem is how to get rid of him.

He's practically engaged to a very nice girl who lives 300 miles from here, but we're afraid he'll never marry her as long as he has all the comforts of home. We don't charge him room or board.

It's not the money; it's the fact that he doesn't want the responsibility of taking care of himself. Several times in the last two years, he has talked about taking an apartment with another fellow, but he's always backed out at the last minute.

We've dropped subtle hints, but to no avail. His mother and I agree that if Junior moved, it would be better for him and better for us.

How can we tell him (politely) to move?

PT. WAYNE FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Talk turkey! Tell him he has until Thanksgiving to find another pad. And say, "Please."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 18 years and have six wonderful children.

I have never been the suspicious type, but something has really got me thinking lately. About four months ago, my husband went on a business trip and stayed five days when he was supposed to be gone only three days. He phoned me from out of town and said he would be detained, but didn't explain why.

Well, ever since that trip, he has gone to confession every week. Before the trip he went to confession only twice a year. I am going crazy wondering what he has to confess.

Do you think that something happened on that trip that is sending him to confession? How should I handle it? Should I ask him? Or should I let the matter ride?

GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: Let the matter ride, and pray that he only cheated on his income tax.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SILENT SAM IN TEX.: To pretend that you believe a liar is a lie, too.

Windmills first source of energy for mankind

Last of five articles
 By PETER J. BERNSTEIN
 ©Newhouse News Service
 WASHINGTON — Should the world try to beat the high price of oil by developing infinitely complex and possible dangerous breeder reactors? Should it strip away thousands of square miles of farmland to get at more coal? Is shale oil the answer? Tar sands?

Sometimes the simplest solution is the best. Why not go back to man's earliest source of energy: the windmill? Why not generate power from the same source originated in Persia two millennia ago? After all, the wind is free and windmills could generate almost unlimited amounts of electricity.

No doubt if Don Quixote were here today, his eyes would sparkle, his lance would tilt, and he would really get a charge from the vision of giant windmills stretching in a great arc from Texas to North Dakota or perched atop city skyscrapers in New York and Chicago. The unambiguous truth is that such schemes conceived over the years to harness the energy of the wind have turned out to be so much hot air.

Catching the wind and harnessing it to serve modern needs poses massive technical problems that many would-be knight-errants have ignored. Nevertheless, as a form of indirect solar energy, wind power is receiving serious study from government agencies, research scientists and utilities. Experimental windmills — known as wind turbines — are spinning away in Colorado, Ohio and Massachusetts.

"Wind is the cheapest means today of producing solar electricity," said Donald A. Beattie, who manages the federal solar energy program.

Beattie said the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) is spending $24 million on wind-energy research this year. "I don't expect to see windmills in big cities, but there could be a lot of applications across the country by the mid-1980s if we can get the cost down," he said.

One reason wind energy is looking so good is that some of the alternatives are looking rather worse. Nuclear power, for example, has been going up faster than food prices. Oil and gas are scarce, and coal poses serious environmental and supply problems.

The concept of windmills is simple and has been proven effective ever since the early Persians used them to grind grain and pump water. For decades, American farmers and ranchers used small wind-powered generators to light their rural homes and water their fields. More than 6 million windmills were built in the United States over the last century; about 150,000 still spin productively.

ERDA's goal is to make wind turbines economically competitive with other power sources in regions of the country having an average wind velocity of at least 12 miles per hour. Such areas cover most of the Midwest, where the wind comes sweeping down the plains, as well as coastal areas in the Northwest and Northeast, the Great Lakes, the Rockies and other mountainous areas, and Puerto Rico.

Wind-power enthusiasts — a vocal and well-organized group including Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., whose summer home is powered much of the time by a windmill — boast that sophisticated small and large wind turbines have been proved to work. They point out that a windmill built on Grandpa's Knob near Rutland, Vt., in 1941 operated on and off for 3½ years and produced 1,250 kilowatts of power which was fed into the grid of Central Vermont Public Service Co.

Wind-power systems routinely operate with 35 per cent efficiency, whereas other solar systems such as power towers or photovoltaic cells produce electricity with only 5 to 15 per cent efficiency. Wind also has an inherent potential advantage in lower material costs — the typical turbine blade covers only 10 per cent of the area from which energy is collected.

Both small and large machines have the potential for marked cost reduction, and even without the advantages of mass-production they offer the cheapest means of producing solar electricity, ERDA officials said. The problem of energy storage for wind power can be handled simply in many parts of the country because hydroelectric dams and underground gas formations suitable for compressed air storage are abundant in many windy areas. By the year 2000, wind could contribute 1 to 2 per cent of the country's total energy needs, they said.

The major objections to wind installations is the caprice of the wind itself. Even in windy areas, the direction and velocity of the wind can vary from hour to hour, day to day and season to season.

When there's no wind, and no storage, the entire system collapses. And both homes and utilities need a reliable source of electricity.

Another drawback to wind-energy systems is their possible interference with television reception. Interference arises because the synchronization speed of U.S. television — 30 cycles per second — is near the rotation speed of large wind systems. Large machines will cause interference for a range of 100 feet to 1 mile, depending on the site, wind experts said. Small windmills are seldom a problem.

Until about a year ago, the ERDA program concentrated overwhelmingly on large wind turbines — those ranging up to 2,500 kilowatts — apparently because officials thought that anything less would have a negligible impact on total U.S. energy supplies. It soon became clear that the first large wind turbine to be built — a 100-kilowatt machine near Sandusky, Ohio — had run into trouble.

The wind turbine, built by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at its Plum Brook field station 50 miles west of Cleveland, ran into propeller trouble. NASA officials were afraid for a while that the machine might throw off a blade because of metal fatigue caused by unexpected stress.

Porn publisher fined

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A businessman once described as "the biggest pornography publisher in Southern California" has been fined $5,000 and given three years' probation on a six-year-old obscenity charge.

U.S. District Judge E. Avery Cray also suspended a one-year jail term Tuesday against Milton Luros, 65, who pleaded guilty earlier to a charge of aiding and abetting in the mailing of an obscene advertisement in 1970.

Luros was named in a 1971 indictment, which also cited his wife, two associates and five corporations. The corporate defendants were convicted and fined $65,000 two years later.

The government dismissed all charges against the other three defendants in bargaining before Luros' guilty plea.

Forceps forgotten

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Gloria Pulido Cruz, 26, underwent surgery in a private clinic and paid $1,118 for the operation. Six weeks later, she complained of sharp abdominal pains and had an examination in another hospital.

Doctors discovered two sets of forceps, each eight inches long, which had been forgotten by the first team of surgeons. The two doctors were arrested.

Resignation step mullied

NEW YORK — More than a year before he actually resigned as President on Aug. 8, 1974, Richard M. Nixon seriously considered doing so because of the troubles caused him at close hand by the Watergate scandal, according to Raymond Price Jr., Nixon's chief speech writer.

This account is contained in "With Nixon," a book by Price to be published in November by the Viking Press. The book will be the first public defense, and highly favorable interpretation in print of the Nixon presidency by a White House confidant who stuck it out to the end.

In the forthcoming book and in an interview, Price said Nixon was so upset before delivering his first television speech on April 30, 1973 — in which he announced the resignation of "two of the finest public servants it has been my privilege to know," John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, his domestic affairs assistant and chief of staff — that he came close to leaving the White House himself.

"We were together at Camp David going over the speech," Price recalled, "when the President set me back on my heels by saying, 'You have always been my conscience — do you think I should resign? Just write it into the next draft, and I'll do it.'"

Price wrote that while the President was "looking for reassurance," it was also "obvious that he had been giving a great deal of thought to resignation, that he was deeply tormented...his nerves frayed, his conscience torn."

Describing that day as "the emotional nadir of his presidency," Price says that Nixon persisted in asking whether resignation was the right thing in retrospect. Price wrote, "he believes the President was "plagued by a heavy sense of foreboding" about the Watergate disclosure that finally caused him to resign.

Price says he argued the President out of leaving office at that time. One of his main points, he recalled — one with which Nixon agreed — was that Vice President Spiro Agnew, who was still a half year away from his own forced resignation, was incapable of carrying on diplomacy "in the event of war and preserve the peace."

"Each time I came back to the same central point," Price says, "that if the Nixon 'structure of peace' were to be completed, Nixon would have to complete his term. This argument finally snapped him out of the worst of his depression.

Recalling those hours before the broadcast, Price says Nixon was "emotionally ravaged, his hands unsteady, anguished written in every one of the despondent lines of his face."

"Neither before nor since, not even during the bitter ordeal of resignation week," Price says, "did I ever see him so unraveled or so distraught as he was that afternoon."

Price believes that the President did not know about the Watergate break-in plan. However, he says that Nixon was involved early in the efforts to cover up the criminal activities by his subordinates.

"Once I saw the transcripts of the June 1972 tapes — the so-called 'smoking gun' tapes — I felt that the game was lost, and I recommended resignation," Price said in writing of the final days of the presidency. "I called it the Profumo factor."

John Profumo had to resign from the British Cabinet not because of the scandal but because he had lied to the House of Commons, Price said.
