Number of women convicts growing

TWIN FALLS — In 1870, the idea was a joke. Women convicts were, if not unheard of, the result of isolated often bizarre cases. The rare woman charged with a crime of violence was likely to be dismissed as unstable or explained away as a creature of passion.

And the convicts in Idaho's state penitentiary were constructing would house — almost without exception — male prisoners like themselves. To expect large numbers of women prisoners was absurd.

The years since construction of Idaho's first penitentiary have merely underscored this common assumption. Women prisoners have remained a statistically tiny slice of prison populations. Not only has Idaho never executed a woman, the state has seriously sought such punishment only twice.

Today this pattern may be changing. Not just in Idaho, but in most other states, the number of crimes being committed by women is mushrooming. And the reluctance of prosecutors to seek convictions, and of juries to convict — often factors in the past in explaining the small number of women prisoners — appears to be disappearing.

In Idaho, one result of this trend is an increasing awareness of the need for a permanent facility for housing women convicts. It is in response to this need that Corrections Director Don R. Erickson has suggested converting the former state tuberculosis hospital into a women's prison.

"When I came to Idaho in 1974," Erickson told the Times-News, "Oregon had so few women prisoners they wanted to contract with us to house them in Idaho. They felt they could save money this way. The situation was the same in several other states. Now the Oregon facilities for women prisoners are full. It's the same in Washington, and in Utah they're overcrowded. Arizona and Nevada facilities for women are totally full."

The new state penitentiary, built in 1974, had space for 50 female convicts, Erickson said. "But overcrowding among the male prisoners became a problem and we transferred the women to Nevada and to Cottonwood."

Cottonwood, site of the North Idaho Correctional Institution, is a minimum security prison. Women convicts were sent there "reluctantly," Erickson said, not because the facility has only minimum security, but because male prisoners are housed there as well.

"We have real concerns about a co-ed institution," Erickson said. "But we had to place them somewhere. When you're between a rock and a hard place you have to do something."

The exact facility wasn't Erickson's only concern. "Sending women convicts out of state brought charges of unfairness and illegality. Families of male convicts could visit Idaho prisoners with a minimum of travel, it was argued. Families of female convicts were forced to travel out of state. It's a question of equal treatment being denied women prisoners," Erickson said.

"Is there a right to be incarcerated in your own state, that's the question." The Idaho Legislature in March directed the Board of Corrections to "study, plan and establish facilities within the state for female convicts." The measure passed both houses with large margins, Erickson said. "It was a mandate: We had to do something."

"We didn't just look at Gooding, but the entire community resources," Erickson said. "We're 30 miles from Twin Falls with the college where the women could take classes, we have tentative access to the facilities at the school for the blind, and the prospect of jobs for work release programs is good."

Terrorists slay pilot, extend time for 86

By United Press International
Four terrorists aboard a hijacked West German airliner killed the plane's pilot and forced it to land in the east African country of Somalia today. But they extended their deadline for killing the remaining 86 hostages in the face of defiance from the Somali government.

The hijackers at first set an 8 a.m. MDT deadline today for compliance with their demands for the release of 13 terrorist prisoners from West German and Turkish jails and $15 million ransom.

But after speaking by radio for several hours with a representative of the West German government, Juergen Wischniewski, the guerrillas relaxed the deadline for blowing up the plane with the 86 hostages on board.

Somalia's official Soma news agency said the hijackers told Wischniewski they would wait until 10 p.m. (1 p.m. MDT) before deciding whether to destroy the plane.

It was not clear whether the negotiations were interrupted or would continue to the new deadline. Before speaking to the hijackers, Wischniewski met with Somali president Siad Barre to see how the two sides could cooperate on the safety of the hijacked hostages.

After the terrorists killed the pilot of the Lufthansa jet, hijacked over France five days ago, the West German government again defied the hijackers and refused to comply with their demands by the 8 a.m. deadline, which passed without incident.

The Arab and German hijackers, demanding the freeing of 13 jailed comrades and $15 million ransom, shot to death the 37-year-old Lufthansa pilot, Capt. Juergen Schumann, and dumped his body off the plane at Mogadishu airport on the 21st day of a terror-filled journey across Europe and the Middle East.

The Somali government said the hijackers had set an 8 a.m. MDT deadline for blowing up the plane and the remaining hostages — including an American woman and 11 West German beauty queens — unless their demands were met.

As the new deadline passed, the Bonn government disclosed that West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt phoned Somali President Mohammed Siad today to discuss the "steps that are necessary" now after the murder of the pilot of the hijacked jetliner.

"Our goal now is before it is to rescue the hostages from the hijackers who have shown by the murder today what they are capable of," West German spokesman Klaus Bublack said.

The pilot, who friends said always feared being hijacked, was killed apparently because the terrorists believed he would no longer carry out their orders, the West German news agency DPA reported.

Schumann, the father of two sons, used to say that if he ever ran into a hijacking he would play it cool. "I'm no type for heroic gestures," he once told his wife, Monika, according to the West German newspaper Die Welt.

SST landings win approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today cleared the way for the Concord supersonic airliner to start test flights into New York's Kennedy International Airport.

The court set aside the temporary ban put on Oct. 7 by Justice Thurgood Marshall, who acted at the request of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

Marshall's order had kept the jetliner out until British Airways and Air France, operators of the controversial plane, could file papers in the long-pending case.

The port authority wanted the court to keep the ban in effect until it could appeal a decision by the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals declaring illegal the agency's resistance to Concord landings.

While the court's action today lifted the legal ban, the appeals court decision still could be appealed to the Supreme Court. But his appeared to hold out little hope for opponents of the plan, since the justices probably would have just left the ban in effect if as many as four justices felt review of the lower court was likely.

The airlines have said they wanted to begin test flights this month and hoped to have passenger service in operation at Kennedy by mid-November.

The authority told Marshall it is working on noise standards as the circuit court said it could do. It wanted to keep the planes out until the rules could be established.

The authority has scheduled hearings on the issue. One possibility would be to allow a three-month test of the plane.

In September, the British-French jetliner completed 16 months of experimental commercial service at Dulles International Airport outside Washington.

Big payoff on dollar

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — One dollar dropped into a Harold's Club slot machine got a return of a $236,756 jackpot early today for a retired pastry shop owner from Sacramento, Calif.

Harold's Club spokeswoman Susan Harris said it was the biggest jackpot payoff in Nevada history.

The lucky lady was Lorice Hartzog, who had put about $40 into the machine before it yielded the record payoff. She and her husband John, a retired civil service worker, have come to Reno frequently to gamble for more than 20 years, according to Mrs. Harris.

US expands bald eagle protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government is about to expand to 43 states its protection of the bald eagle, the national symbol which has been threatened with extinction in the lower 48 states.

The Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service within the next few weeks will publish final regulations proclaiming the bald eagle is endangered in 43 states and giving their habitat full protection under the Endangered Species Act.

Alaska has a large population of eagles, estimated at 7,000 pairs or more. The birds, which eat fish, dead animals or even crippled ducks, were never found in Hawaii.

Bald eagles already are protected under a separate law, but their habitat is not. With the new listings, the government will have to make certain areas before disturbing eagle nesting or wintering areas.

Currently, eagles are divided into northern and southern "races," with only the southern bald eagle — those found below the 40th parallel — holding endangered status.

"All is not well with this nation's symbol," Fish and Wildlife Service Director Lynn Greenwall recently told the National Wildlife Federation.

National Wildlife Federation eagle expert Bill Clark said "the new status more accurately reflects the true biological situation."

Eagles once were found in every section of the country but now only 10 states can count more than 25 eagle nests, said Clark.

"Florida has a lot," he said, while some states such as California provide breeding grounds and others provide wintering areas.

Clark said there is "guarded optimism" that the eagle is making a comeback. There are 3,000 eagles in the lower 48 states, including 1,000 pairs and 1,000 young eagles under breeding age of 5 years.

The federation said the biggest threats to eagle survival are destruction of habitat, contamination of food supply with pesticides and poisons, and illegal shootings.

But Clark said the biggest breakthrough in the campaign to save the eagle is the national ban on indiscriminate use of the pesticide DDT, which works its way into the bird's food supply and impales reproduction.

In addition, he said, strong federal laws against the malicious killing of eagles has helped protect the species.

Engine quit

Pilot lands on highway

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Had it been a flight-school problem it would have seemed melodramatic — how to bank a dead-engine plane to miss an overpass and land on the curve of a highway, at the same time adjusting to the gaps in northbound and southbound car and truck traffic.

As strange as it sounds, that's just what Jackpot pilot Hilton Hobbs found himself doing Sunday afternoon. He was also keeping his two passengers calm, so they didn't injure themselves or the plane.

Hobbs not only succeeded, he didn't put a scratch on his plane.

In fact, that same evening he blew the clogged gas lines clear and flew the miles into Jackpot.

Hobbs, a Jackpot flight instructor, and Idaho cropduster, had taken off from Jackpot for Stanley early Sunday with two casino pit bosses, one from Jackpot, the other from Las Vegas, as passengers. The trio began the flight back to Jackpot

Sunday afternoon.

About 5 p.m. and about three miles out of Jackpot, the engine of Hobbs' Cessna 172 went dead.

"There was no indication whatsoever, it just immediately died," he said.

With only an altitude of 1,000 feet to work with, Hobbs didn't have much time to make his decisions.

"I said, 'Well, we're going to have to land because my engine just quit on me — but we wouldn't get hurt.' I told them that. They were pretty much believing me, but they were nervous, which is natural," Hobbs said this morning.

At first the 43-year-old pilot tried to glide to the Jackpot runway, but when he saw that wouldn't work, he pulled up, turned the plane 180 degrees and made the decision to land on US Highway 93.

He came down about three miles north of the airport, near where an overpass crosses the curving highway.

After the landing, Hobbs pulled the plane off the road, blew out the gas lines, and, while deputies blocked traffic, took off for Jackpot again.

Bakke views asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today asked all parties in the Allan Bakke "reverse discrimination" case to file supplemental briefs discussing how a section of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 might affect their ruling.

Title VI of the act says no one may be excluded on racial grounds; from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination against any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance.

It says federal agencies may issue rules consistent with achievement of these objectives.

In the Bakke case, the University of California at Davis is appealing a California Supreme Court ruling that its special admissions program, reserving 16 per cent of seats in each medical school entering class for disadvantaged minorities, unconstitutionally discriminates against whites.

Bakke, a 37-year-old white engineer, claimed he would have been accepted had it not been for the program.

The justices asked a number of questions about Title VI in oral arguments in the case last week, and their interest was emphasized by today's request for supplemental briefs on that point of law.

Members of the court traditionally prefer to settle cases on statutory rather than constitutional grounds whenever possible.

Archibald Cox, representing the university, suggested to the court last week that he thought only federal constitutional issues were raised by the ruling. But Bakke's San Francisco lawyer, Reynold Colvin, said it could be decided on Title VI or state constitutional grounds as well.

The NAACP, in a friend-of-the-court brief supporting the university, also brought up Title VI as a way out for the justices.

The civil rights group interpreted Title VI as requiring desegregation of any institution receiving federal financial aid.

The NAACP noted the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has specified that race-conscious methods may be utilized to overcome the effects of past discrimination, and suggested that could be the basis to uphold the university's program.

Simple rites for Crosby Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In keeping with his wishes, simple religious services for Bing Crosby will be attended only by his family and a "few close friends" before the seven-mile funeral cortege to Holy Cross Cemetery.

"He wanted only the children and myself," said Kathryn Crosby, the 74-year-old singer's second wife. "But I think there are those who worshipped him for 40 years. She indicated Crosby's business manager and agent and "the girls in the office" would be invited to attend the private services.

Mrs. Crosby will be offered Tuesday at St. Paul the Apostle Catholic Church in Westwood. From there, a hearse will carry the casket to the cemetery in Culver City.

Crosby, a Catholic, will be laid to rest in a family plot alongside the graves of his parents and his former wife, actress Dixie Lee, who died of cancer in 1952.

The crooner's body, accompanied by his 19-year-old son Harry, was scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles tonight from Spain. Crosby died in Madrid Friday after finishing a round of golf.

Father Elwood Kaiser, a Paulist priest and family friend, will officiate at the services. Bob Moonan, another friend and the organist at St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco, will play the music.

Mrs. Crosby asked that memorials to her husband be made to the Bing Crosby Fund at Pebble Beach, Calif. — a fund that aids hospitals and provides student loans — or to the Queen's Charities in London, England.

Crosby's age, originally reported as 73, was actually 74, according to a priest at the Crosby family church in Tacoma, Wash. Records at St. Patrick's Parish show he was born May 3, 1903, and not May 30, 1904.

Body on flight home

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — The body of Bing Crosby, who died "happy and singing" after winning a round of golf, was flown back to the United States today for simple funeral services in Los Angeles Tuesday.

A Trans World Airlines plane carrying the body in a casket left Madrid at 1:55 p.m. (16:55 am. MST). American officials said it should arrive in New York with almost five hours to spare before the departure of another airliner for Los Angeles which is scheduled to land there at 10:50 p.m. MST.

POLICE REMOVE NEUTRON BOMB FOE FROM CHURCH
President Carter sits through service disruption

Carter sympathizes with bomb concern

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says he sympathizes with the goals of the six neutron bomb protesters who disrupted church services he attended Sunday, but he wishes they had used a different means of voicing dissent.

"They are fine young people and I agree with their purpose to eliminate nuclear weapons," Carter told reporters on returning to the White House.

"I think they were mistaken in trying to disrupt a church service," he said, noting the situation at the First Baptist Church of Washington was "handed nuclear weapons."

"The Secret Service didn't think I was in danger and neither did I," he said.

Five protesters were charged with disturbing a religious gathering. Charges were not pressed against a sixth protester — Elizabeth McAlester, a former Roman Catholic nun and antiwar activist.

The neutron bomb is designed to kill people by radiation without causing widespread property damage. Carter must decide whether to deploy the weapon and last week asked NATO allies for their views.

The disturbance Sunday began just before the sermon. Landon Sheats of Baltimore, a pastor, began reading a statement that said, "Christians threatened by the nuclear sword will die by the nuclear sword. So the Lord warns us."

A church usher rushed to him, grabbed the statement and firmly closed his hand over Sheats' mouth to stop him from talking.

As he was being pulled from the pew, Miss McAlester rose in a different section of the church and continued the statement. The scene was repeated each time ushers tried to quell a demonstrator.

"The President and First Lady Rosalynn Carter sat stiffly and stared straight ahead from their sixth-row pew, never turning to look at the demonstrators scattered behind them.

As the protestors were removed, several sat down at the front and side exits of the church and began to walk and was carried.

Sheats said just before being arrested that the protestors will "put our bodies in front of them (the bombs) before they are built."

Miss McAlester identified the other participants, besides Sheats, as Jim McNeil and Rosemary McGuire of Baltimore; Paul Hood of Boston, and Mary Lyons of Simsbury, Conn.

It was the third time the church protesting the neutron bomb, but the first time Carter was present and arrests made.

Ironically, on Friday night, Carter talked about the comfort he found in going to the church "in lonely times."

He told a church banquet it adds a dimension to our lives that quite often, for a President, would be missing."

Power line fire darkens San Antonio for 2 hours

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — A fire in power plant transmission lines caused a two-hour electrical blackout Sunday night in the nation's 10th largest city.

A few persons were trapped in elevators by the blackout and several minor traffic accidents occurred because of inoperative traffic lights.

But no deaths or injuries attributable to the blackout were made in reports of out-of-control fires in parts of the South Texas city.

Police and firemen quickly manned intersections when traffic signals went dead, lighting flares and directing traffic with flashlights, and most area hospitals used emergency generators to maintain life support systems.

Tom Berg, chairman of City Public Service, said the blackout was caused by a fire in transmission lines of the Calaveras Power Plant, located on the southern edge of the city, but the cause of the fire was unknown.

Residents in the area of the power plant reported an explosion and sparks shooting from the overhead power lines leading from the plant. CPS officials did not confirm the reports of an explosion.

The blackout occurred at 7:05 p.m. and lights dimmed and then went out across the metropolitan area of 1 million residents.

CPS officials had told the news media last summer at the time of the New York power failure that San Antonio did not have to worry about such outages because of its regional network arrangements. After power was restored Sunday night, they said the San Antonio blackout was caused by the transmission line difficulties and not by an overload such as occurred in New York.

"The whole thing was black," CPS general manager Jack Spruce said of the city. "There is no evidence of any problems inside the Calaveras plant."

Berg called for a special committee investigation of the power outage and how to prevent a future one. He said three of the Calaveras plant lines at the Calaveras plant were arranged themselves around relay circuits which could have prevented the power loss.

Boston arson ring broken with raids

BOSTON (UPI) — In a series of raids across Greater Boston, State Police early today began arresting 33 "prominent citizens" including law enforcement officials for allegedly taking part in the largest urban arson ring ever uncovered in the United States.

According to state Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti at least three persons died in the fires between 1973 and 1976 which were investigated by a special criminal investigation unit of his office.

At least 16 persons had been taken into custody by late morning and the other 17 persons indicted by a Suffolk County Grand Jury last week were expected to give their names up by the end of the day.

At the present time a number of individuals are under arrest in the largest arson ring ever uncovered in the United States involving approximately 35 fires with property values, approaching $6 million," Bellotti said.

These arrested included Leo

Weisentaner, retired captain of the Boston Fire Department Arson Squad; John Fothergill, a retired captain of the Chelsea Fire Department; and retired State Police trooper James DeFuria.

"Three people died in these fires," Bellotti said.

Most of those arrested were wearing suits and ties as they were brought to the McCormack State Office Building to be booked and fingerprinted.

"We have not arrested everyone we set out to arrest this morning but I am sure we will be hearing from those people. We are talking about money with ties to the community. I'm sure they will be surrendering voluntarily," said Assistant Attorney General Stephen Delinsky, head of the criminal division.

Bellotti said the case "disclosed corruption within the state fire marshal's office attached to the Massachusetts State Police, the Chelsea Arson Squad, and the Chelsea Fire Department."

Vance rejects 'stretch' claim

Attempt to revive B-1 looms in House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance Sunday rejected critics' charges that the Carter administration has over-extended itself in the foreign affairs field.

"I do not believe that we have been trying to do too much too fast," Vance said on NBC-TV's "The Press" program. "When we came into office we were faced with a number of problems which were of critical importance and which affected the peace of the world."

Vance said he was hopeful the administration's efforts will bring about a Middle East peace conference in Geneva by the end of this year, agreement "in the near future" on an extension of the strategic arms pact with the Soviet Union and ratification of the proposed Panama Canal treaties early next year.

"These are problems that had to be attacked. They couldn't be left to fester. Although it would be nice to deal with fewer problems, we simply had to go forward and settle these problems."

He cited the Middle East situation, the threat of "another twist in the arms spiral" with the Soviet Union and "the possibility of racial war" in Southern Africa.

The secretary rejected a suggestion the administration might be trying to bring about a Middle East peace conference in the next 10 weeks in order to be able to claim foreign policy success by the end of the year.

He said a permanent peace agreement in the Middle East is the administration's No. 1

SECRETARY VANCE
... Mideast No. 1

priority in foreign policy, and cited progress toward a Geneva conference.

"First, everyone has now agreed that the way of including a Palestinian voice, which is absolutely necessary in the negotiations if we are to have a just and lasting peace, is to have them represented at the table. All parties have now agreed that this can be done by having Palestinians in a united Arab delegation. The question is now, which Palestinians?"

Vance also said officials of Israel and the Arab nations "now have an increasing consensus that the way to organize the conference is to have it multilateral and bilateral working groups. Before, there was substantial division not only between Israel and the Arabs, but among the Arabs themselves."

We have made good progress in narrowing the difference between the parties and between the Arabs themselves."

Concerning the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, Vance said a "key goal" of U.S. negotiators will be to seek limits on the total number of missiles with multiple warheads "because they are the most dangerous threat to the land-based missiles in the United States."

No embargo

ENERGY Secretary James Schlesinger said in a television interview Sunday another Arab oil embargo would be unlikely if a Middle East peace settlement could be reached. He appeared on CBS' "Face the Nation."

A thought for the day: American humorist, artist and writer James Thurber said it this way: "Early to rise and early to bed makes a male healthy and wealthy and dead."

penetrating bomber obsolete. He acknowledged last week, however, at a meeting with congressional leaders, that the effort to revive the B-1 resulted from the administration's request last month for $20 million to study conversion of another warplane, the FB-111, once known as the TFX, into a penetrating bomber. The House turned down that request.

Congress also changed its mind last month and decided not to rescind $45 million in unused funds in last year's budget, which had been earmarked for production of the B-1. These funds will be used to build two kinds of bombers.

The President's apparent vacillation on the need for a strategic bomber that could penetrate Soviet territory was cited by opponents as well as supporters of the bomber as a major factor in the revival effort.

The President canceled production of the bomber in June on the ground that the Cruise missile had rendered a

Israeli 'Goliath' turns into threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israel has become so strong it might be able to threaten U.S. strategic interests in the Middle East by crushing Arab enemies before the U.S. could intervene, says a former intelligence officer.

"Israeli military power grew from a 'David' to a 'Goliath' between 1948 and 1977," said Anthony Cordesman in the latest edition of Armed Forces Journal, an unofficial monthly publication on military affairs.

Cordesman, who has served as secretary of the Defense Intelligence Board and as assistant deputy defense secretary, said in order to protect its own interests, America should consider new limits on arms deliveries to Israel.

But he said the administration and Congress are intimidated by the Israeli lobby and American Jews who seem to put Israel before U.S. interests and "use anti-Semitism and a new heresy against criticism."

"It is a cliché of diplomacy that nations have no permanent alliances, but only permanent interests," Cordesman said. "In reality, however, the United States has no permanent interest in Israel and may now be acquiring something perilously close to a 'permanent' liability."

He quoted Israeli chief of staff Mordecai Gur, a "relative moderate," as saying two months ago: "If another war breaks out between the Arab states and Israel, we must ensure that our victory is fast and decisive so that the whole world knows who won."

What Gur meant, Cordesman said, is Israel will wage war as intense as possible to destroy Arab armies before the West could intervene.

"These new Israeli attitudes may well threaten the strategic interests of the United States and its allies," he said.

He said the Arabs could retaliate by increasing oil prices, manipulating oil production, manipulating its holdings and debts to impose political pressure, building a bigger war machine and supporting Palestine Liberation Organization attempts to "free" West Bank Arabs.

The United States, he said, could find itself "aiding Israel which may use its military strength to take permanent control of former Arab territory in direct opposition to U.S. policy, and" "elected into an indefinite cold war with the Arabs."

Israeli power, he said, continues to grow.

"Israel is acquiring large numbers of artillery and anti-air defenses, greatly improved land-based air defense suppression weapons, and tankkilling air munitions necessary to restore the effectiveness of its Air Force," he said.

"The Arabs, however, have so far been able to make only limited improvements in their forces and still lack the equipment they need."

Between 1973 and 1975, Cordesman said, U.S. grants and loans to Israel totaled $2.5 billion, compared to $635 million for Egypt.

Consumer agency plan comes back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An unsuccessful plan to create a federal consumer agency has been re-cast for one more effort to sell it to Congress before the lawmakers adjourn their current session.

Supporters of the stalled proposal say they have rewritten it to eliminate all the points that drew objections from members of Congress and some of the points objected to by big business.

Even the name of the proposed agency is different. What has been referred to as the "Consumer Protection Agency," "Consumer Advocacy Agency" and "Agency for Consumer Protection" is now being called the "Office of Consumer Representation."

The substitute legislation, which backers hope to introduce this week, eliminates some of the more controversial proposed powers and committees creation of the agency with a plan to abolish 26 existing federal consumer programs.

The shift and other cutbacks would pay the agency's budget and leave $5 million savings, backers say.

The biggest change is that the agency would have no power to make businesses report to it or answer written questionnaires about their practices. Also, the agency would have no more power than any ordinary business to ask a court to review a regulatory agency decision.

"Before, the agency had a bit of an edge," explained Esther Peterson, President Carter's consumer adviser. "And that was one of the things they (the critics) used to blow up ... Now the agency would be exactly the same as General Motors or any of them."

Sun study satellites postponed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The planned Wednesday launch of two satellites designed to study the sun's effect on Earth's space environment has been postponed for at least two days by the national space agency.

A NASA spokesman said the decision to delay the launch was made Sunday in order to replace an internal measuring unit used in the rocket guidance system.

One of the satellites was built by the United States and the other by the European Space Agency. When finally sent on their journey into space, the satellites will swing in and out of the field of magnetic forces that surrounds the Earth to carry out measurements that single spacecraft could not make.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says the exploration of the relationship between the sun and Earth could lead to improved weather and climate prediction techniques.

'Sun Day' due in May

NEW YORK (UPI) — Denis Hayes, a 32-year-old environmental activist who was a leading promoter of "Earth Day" on April 22, 1970, is now planning "Sun Day" as an effort to galvanize public opinion in favor of solar energy, on May 3 next year.

Plans for Sun Day include fairs, exhibitions, demonstrations, teach-ins, lectures, conferences, debates and a barrage of media publicity aimed at implanting the message that solar energy is "not some long-range, 'exotic' power source but something that is immediately feasible in many forms."

The nonprofit undertaking's projected budget is $150,000 and is being raised by grants from foundations and other organizations.

Some good reasons why you should save at First Security

- ① SAVINGS SPECIALISTS — We've specialized in savings services for many years, and quite frankly, we know all about savings. We have to. It's our business.
- ② THE RATE PUZZLE — A lot of confusion exists in today's competitive savings market. Basically, at First Security you earn the highest legal bank interest, from 5% to 7 1/2%, depending on how much you can save and how long you choose to save it.
- ③ LARGE AMOUNTS OR SMALL — We can handle very large amounts. But we welcome small amounts, too. The primary service we offer is a means for you to start putting money aside — right out of your pocket, when you get it. In other words, part of everything you earn should be yours to keep. So pay yourself first!
- ④ SAFETY — The best assurance of safety is the quality of the financial institution in which you put your money. First Security is a top quality financial organization with many years of sound experience. We are the largest banking system in the Intermountain region with resources of $2.3 billion. And we are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, so all accounts are insured up to $40,000.
- ⑤ SPECIAL OPPORTUNITIES — First Security also provides special opportunities to guarantee a high return — for as long as ten years down the road!

These are but a few fundamental facts about savings that we can give you in a newspaper ad. Your best bet is to come into any First Security office and talk to us. Ask any officer, or inquire at our new accounts desk.

Care and feeding of Congress

TWIN FALLS — Last week the United States Senate confronted several significant issues. Senators made heavily publicized choices on bills which could affect the nation for years.

Several other senatorial choices of last week didn't receive quite the same publicity.

No record is kept, for instance, of the senators who favored the California Senate with Poached Eggs Benedict over the Poached Eggs and Cheese Sauce with the Bread of Chicken.

The second choice was made in one of the Senate dining rooms. These private restaurants cater to one of select group of epicureans in town. Diners Card or not, forget about crashing this party except on the Senate's terms.

Offering a menu sparkling with references to Reel Leg of Lamb au Jus, Seafood Newburg and Blanquette, we of the Senate dining rooms ensure U.S. Senators a bill of fare which would have delighted the emperors.

And the U.S. Senate ensures the taxpayer foots the bill. That's not to say the meals are free. Senators do pay a cafeteria price for their afternoon repasts. But if you think private enterprise reigns in the Senate, forget it. For dollars, subsidize the food services, making possible the preparation and delivery of meals at facilities to operate on a pure profit-loss system; minus the taxpayer support, then the Senate restaurants would be losing over $200,000 a year.

If the restaurants were forced to operate on a pure profit-loss system, then the Senate restaurants would be losing over $200,000 a year.

It's not just the Senate, of course. The House of Representatives offers comparable services to its members — though generally the House restaurants manage to lose less money than their Senate cousins. And it's not just in matters of the stomach that Congress soaks the citizen for creature comforts. Over the past years Congress has developed a form of Capital Hill Socialism, as complete as any dreamed by the English Fabians or the Swedish governmental planners.

From the cradle of initial election to the grave of ultimate defeat, the government pampers and protects the inhabitants of the Senate and House office buildings.

The only criticism which early socialist activists might direct at the system is that it has not yet trickled down to the general population — and shows no indication of moving in that direction at all.

DAVID MORRISSEY

There is a fine line between supplying a necessary service for a demented governmental employee, and satisfying the inflated needs of a congressman or senator who has merely become accustomed to a high-rolling life style at the taxpayers' expense.

Few question, for instance, the desirability of a private restaurant where overworked lawmakers can find a moment's peace and a decent meal — without having to waste available time negotiating Washington, D.C., traffic and crowds. Quite a few question, however, the failure to contract the restaurant to a private enterprise food service, or the failure to make the restaurant abide by the capitalist guidelines Congress is so good at forcing on the rest of the population.

A few of the other services tax dollars provide for Congress might also be re-examined. While a free mailing service to constituents is necessary, use of the franking privilege is certainly abused. Last year the House of Representatives received roughly 25 million pieces of mail from voters. The members sent over 350 million pieces of mail in reply. The number of franked letters critical of the member who mailed them was, not surprisingly, slight.

Consider a few of the other benefits available to Congress: — A salary recently increased to $37,500 a year. In 1976 the average Idahoan earned $23,385.66. — An annual stationery allowance of $6,500, (in addition to the above salary.) — Free plants and flowers from the Botanic Garden. — A life insurance policy valued at $47,000 for only $434 a year.

— Free use of capital hill gyms, equipped with Olympic size swimming pools, saunas, paddleball-and-basketball courts and trained masseurs.

— Free car washes. (Five persons are employed full time to do nothing but wash and polish the cars of representatives parked in the free House parking garage.)

— Free hairbrushes and combs, delivered regularly to members' offices.

— A private barbershop at which styling, razor-cuts and shampoos are provided for three dollars, roughly one third of what a member would pay in a barber shop in downtown Washington.

— A yearly telephone allowance, during working hours, of approximately 15,000 free minutes of telephone time. (Congressional phone calls between 5 p.m. and 9 a.m. however, are free.)

— Freedom from parking tickets. Special license plates give members the right to legally park illegally.

— Free use of one of the world's most advanced private subways, a one-tenth mile system running between members' offices and the Capitol. (Congress has yet to fully convince itself such mass transit is a good idea for the rest of the country.)

The list goes on, running up a final bill exceedingly difficult to compile. Several have tried though, and one good estimate suggests it costs $1.5 million a year to support each senator and representative. This means the care and feeding of Frank Church, James McClure, Steve Symms and George Hansen will cost taxpayers $6 million this year.

Giving the devil his due, Idaho's delegation has been vocal in its criticism of this congressional socialism. But criticize is about all they have done. All argued against the recent 30 per cent pay-increase in their salaries; for example, but all accepted it.

Congress has never been noted for the haste in which it rushes to reform itself. And the nation probably faces quite a few more years of watching the members preach self-reliance and capitalism for the voters — while approving increased benefits for capitol hill lawmakers. Dissatisfied voters have two options — complain vigorously, or run for Congress.

Energy fight taken lightly

SAN FRANCISCO — When the President of the United States and the Big Oil boys start tossing thunderbolts at each other, that's the time to get out of Washington and across the continent as fast as possible.

It's also probably the best way to understand why there's so much disagreement on energy policy, among other things. For the country is just too damn big, different, and rich to imagine itself running out of gas or anything else.

Shortages? The evidence is clear on the surface that it is our surpluses and not our shortages that are choking and strangling us.

The end of the American frontier? Why, outside of a few little piddling strips of humankind along the coast and around the Great Lakes, one has the impression vaulting the continent that the whole country looks almost empty and unconquered.

In Washington, the tussle between Carter and the oil barons sounded like the opening slats in a long war, but it took place at 7:30 in the morning, out here and there, at that time of day, in these parts drivers cutting down to 55 miles per hour would probably be arrested for obstructing traffic.

Besides, the farther you get from Washington the more you realize that politicians don't rate very high on the scale of popular American interests, especially at the end of the pro baseball and the beginning of the pro football season.

For the moment, Sparky the IV rating is higher than Jimmy Carter's, and the popular question out here is not whether America is running out of gas but whether the Yankees are running out of pitchers.

And this, of course, is what drives Jimmy Carter out of his peanut-pickin' skin. He blames the oil companies and the oil companies blame him. The press blames the Congress and the Congress blames the press. In fact everybody is blamed but the American people, who are obviously at the bottom of this whole unnecessary mess.

When the Arabs shut off the gas, we go crazy, and when Jimmy Carter tells us the independence and even the security of the country will be at stake if we don't cut the waste, we go fishing — at 70 miles an hour!

Behind all this admirable American confidence, however, are two serious questions: how to persuade a vast continental people to take reasonable precautions for their own future? And how to get effective action in the Senate of the United States, where any determined minority, with the acquiescence of an indifferent or divided public, can hamstring both a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress?

It can be argued, of course, that in his concept of an effective energy policy, President Carter was "too complicated," and in his management of the legislation he was at first too neglectful of Senate pride and finally too one-sided in his severe criticism of the oil companies.

But this is by nature a devilishly complicated subject, and even if the giddy stroke all the eggs in the Senate — a formidable task — this does not relieve them of their duty to pass legislation equal to the magnitude of the problem.

After all, the business of the oil companies is to make money and the business of the President and the Congress is to make policy.

In this as in other controversies, Carter's back swing has been better than his follow-through, but he has defined the energy problem in the starkest terms, and here is the dullist of Senators have understood. The problem is not so much that his definition of the crisis has been disproven as that his prescription is sore medicine for a nation of drivers drunk on gasoline.

On the day Carter started fighting back, sales of new cars by the nation's Big Four for the first 10 days of the new-model season were up 15.1 per cent over the same period a year ago.

So it's little wonder that the President started shouting out the window. His clutch has been slipping for months, and he had to tighten it up or get run over.

Energy decisions control big bucks

WASHINGTON — The numbers are slippery, but by President Carter's calculation, a grabbing, grasping, profiteering and natural gas industry intends to fleece consumers at a $50 billion-a-year clip by 1985.

However impressive his statistics, the President's extraordinary press-conference assault on the oil and gas business could serve to focus public attention on the enormous amounts of money at stake in the congressional deliberations over a national emergency policy.

Consider natural gas. According to the President, the Senate-approved bill to deregulate gas prices would cost consumers an estimated $10 billion more in the first year alone than Carter's House-passed legislation, which would raise but still regulate gas prices.

Looked at another way, the Senate deregulation bill would increase the price of newly discovered natural gas shipped between states to $2.50 per thousand cubic feet next year, states to $2.50 per thousand cubic feet next year, 10 times the price of new gas in 1972. That's a 90 per cent increase, which nicely covers the cost of inflation for producers. Prices eventually would be 15 times higher under deregulation, Carter said.

In 1985, when new gas prices would be completely deregulated under the Senate legislation, a typical bill for a home heated by natural gas would be $70 a month, according to the Congressional Budget office. That compares with $42.80 now, or an increase of 56 per cent, and 1985 cost for a Carter plan of $17.20 a month, which would be an increase of only 9 per cent over current prices.

The industry has the most money to gain or lose in the fight over natural gas prices. But more than pennies are involved in the hotly disputed wellhead tax on oil.

Under the House-passed Carter proposal, the wellhead tax would increase the price of domestic petroleum to the world price, a difference now of about $5 a barrel. Revenues from the tax, in the beginning at least, would be related to consumers.

A majority on the Senate Finance Committee, however, favors using the proceeds from the wellhead tax to stimulate additional energy production, in effect returning the money to producers. Should this happen, the money to America (CFA), the oil and gas industry would reap $5 billion next year and as much as $40 billion in 1985 from the tax.

The question of whether to deregulate natural gas prices and how to distribute revenues from the wellhead tax were apparently what the President had in mind when he referred to the possibility of the "biggest ripoff in history."

But another section of his tub-thumping statements raised even more fundamental questions about not only the industry's energy proposals but his own. "We believe in the free enterprise system where market forces determine prices. But the oil and gas industry is not part of that system because prices are not free. They are heavily influenced by decisions made outside our country, by the OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) nations, and they are heavily influenced by some control over the rate of production by American companies."

In effect, the President was saying that the free-market mechanisms of supply and demand don't work for oil and gas, and he suggested that the energy companies are looting back some exploitable oil and gas supplies from production.

It's supply and demand, however, that the President relies on in his own energy program. The cornerstone of that program is to increase gas and oil prices in order to stimulate production and dampen consumer and industrial demand.

By the logic of Carter's conference statement, how energy program is doomed to failure, and that's the position taken all along by consumers. "Higher prices have led to less summer groups. "Higher prices have led to less summer groups. "Higher prices have led to less summer groups."

The CFA supports its case with statistics drawn from the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Energy Administration, the American Petroleum Institute, and the American Gas Assn.

They show that while U.S. crude oil prices climbed 143 per cent between 1972 and 1976, production actually declined 14 per cent.

Remedial college education can prove expensive item

ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — The Timkens sent their child Laura off to college with a check for $7,000 in tuition and thought that was the end of it. But soon after they received a letter from the Dean of Studies.

"We are happy to announce that we have instituted a remedial reading class for college freshmen and strongly advise that your daughter Laura participate in it. If she doesn't, it is our opinion that Laura will not be able to keep up with her studies. The cost will be $250."

Timken read the letter. "I thought Laura could read," he said to his wife.

"So did I. I think the problem is she can read, but she has no comprehension of what she reads."

"What did they teach her in public school and high school?"

"I have no idea, but if the college says she needs remedial reading, we better see that she gets it or $7,000 will go down the drain."

A few days later they got another letter from the dean.

"The English Department has brought to our attention the fact that your daughter Laura cannot write. They have recommended that she enroll in the remedial writing class which we started two years ago when we discovered this was a common problem for most college students. If you agree that Laura should get this special help, please send a check for $250."

Timken was now very angry.

"How did she get in college if she can't write?"

Ms. Timken was much more sanguine about it. "Laura can write. She just can't write complete sentences."

"She went to school for 12 years and she can't write a sentence?"

"Don't you remember? They were much more interested in Laura's thoughts than they were in how she put them down. The teacher's main concern was with expanding her consciousness."

"That's hogwash," Timken said. "They made an illiterate out of my daughter."

"I believe that's bit strong, Laura graduated with honors in analytical consciousness-raising."

"But she can't write."

"I'm sure the college can help her learn to write. After all, it is an institution of higher learning."

and 1985 cost for a Carter plan of $17.20 a month, which would be an increase of only 9 per cent over current prices.

Marjorie Moon undecided on office to seek

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon plans to run for public office again next year but, as of today, she is uncertain just which one it will be.

Miss Moon last year talked of giving up the post she held since 1963 and running for governor. That, of course, was when Gov. of Ais rus still was governor and was a possible candidate for the United States Senate in 1978.

Now that Anders is Interior Secretary and John V. Evans, another Democrat, is governor, Miss Moon feels the road to the governorship blocked at the outset by a member of her own party.

In past elections, Miss Moon has been a big vote getter and considered a virtual shoe-in at the polls. Now, because of some legislation she has promoted, she is in hot water with Idaho's bankers. Still, she considered a tough opponent should she choose to run again for treasurer — a post twice held by her mother, the late Ruth G. Moon.

A while back she said she might run for any one of four Statehouse jobs next year, including treasurer, auditor, secretary of state or lieutenant governor. She looks at the latter as a potential full time job.

She looks at the latter as a potential full time job. She looks at the latter as a potential full time job. She looks at the latter as a potential full time job.

Since then there has been speculation that she might run for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate next year to oppose Republican incumbent James A. McClure. Although she says she has not looked at it seriously as yet, political friends say she has discussed it with them.

"I'm going to run for something," she acknowledges and lists again the four Statehouse option, adding that she would not seek the lieutenant governorship if Democrat incumbent William J. Murphy runs for it.

And, "Just because everybody is talking about it," Miss Moon said, she is "going to have to look" at running for the senatorial nomination even though, she says, "money would be a big problem."

Fair parking

Editor, Times-News:
I would like to say a few words to the inconsiderate people attending our fine county fair.

I realize you must have a place to park your cars, but we too need a place to park our cars. Have you ever wondered why there are "No Parking" signs in front of numerous houses throughout Filer?

I'm sure these signs came about because of those few inconsiderate people that come with every crowd. These are the people who park in front of our driveways. These are the people who walk on our yards and leave their litter for us to pick up. These are the people who drive their cars on our yards. Such inconsiderate people never think of our privacy or the damage they may be causing to our yards.

We all have to go to the fair, so the next time you come to visit our small town please consider the people living here. We, too, want to enjoy the fair.

Telethon thanks

Editor, Times-News
On behalf of Muscular Dystrophy Association we would like to take this opportunity to thank all the people of Idaho for helping us with the biggest Telethon in Idaho history.

We would like to extend a big thanks to all the business people throughout the state for the merchandise they donated to help raise funds for MD.

We would especially like to thank Boise Sales Co. for their contribution in the amount of $1,700 toward our fight against Muscular Dystrophy.

And last but by no means least to all the wonderful volunteers who worked so hard at the Telethon and all year long.

With dedicated people like those mentioned above some day we will find a cure for this crippling disease.

The way I feel, he'll probably come walking home on Thursday."

Queen arrives late

QUEBEC — The Queen was late, the Canadian Prime Minister was snubbed, and Quebec's claim-suing secessionist Premier Rene Levesque had a nicotine fix. Queen Elizabeth II showed up a few minutes late for a luncheon at Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's country residence at Harrington Lake, Quebec. When she arrived Levesque walked right past Trudeau, who called, "You could at least say hello." Flustered, Levesque made his apologies, then — in a fracture of protocol — furiously puffed a cigarette throughout the luncheon with the queen. He did not get his expected luncheon opportunity to brief her on his province's bid for independence.

Indian lawsuit strangles boom in Cape Cod

BOSTON (UPI) — Two years ago the sleepy Cape Cod community of Mashpee was undergoing a quiet boom, profiting from an influx of well-to-do retirees and independent business people who were willing to spend a lot of money on their homes. All that has come to a grinding halt now.

1976, which will have nationwide repercussions, has strangled real estate transactions for the community's 5,000 residents and spurred legislation in Washington, D.C. which could have equally widespread effects.

Funeral set for Laetrile patient

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Howard Walker, who died after winning a court fight to receive Laetrile in treatment of terminal cancer, will be buried Tuesday.

He asked to be treated with Laetrile, a substance banned by the Food and Drug Administration, after the tumor failed to respond to radiation or chemical therapy.

Walker was granted a temporary restraining order Sept. 15 under federal state and federal authorities from interfering with his use of the drug. Six days later Walker received a federal court order allowing him to continue the use of Laetrile.

Walker died in his sleep Saturday at Memorial Hospital. Funeral services were scheduled in his hometown of Rossville, Kan.

Walker, a 43-year-old heavy equipment operator, was expected to live only two weeks at the time he went to court to request Laetrile treatment. He lived three weeks longer than the original prediction. He asked to be treated with Laetrile, a substance banned by the Food and Drug Administration, after the tumor failed to respond to radiation or chemical therapy.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
1977 by The Chicago Tribune & News Syndicate Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have been divorced for eight years and have no desire to marry again. I've been keeping company with a fine gentleman for three years. He's also divorced. We have marvelous times together, going to the theater, dinner, playing backgammon and boating.

He would marry me if I wanted him to, but I believe that when two people live together, they grow tired of each other. We care for each other, but there are times when we like to go our separate ways.

I don't recommend this lifestyle for the young or for those with young children, but our children are grown, and we are both in our middle 50s and quite set in our ways.

Now the problem: Many of our friends and especially our children keep urging us to get married. Why should we marry just to please other people? I enjoy privacy and solitude, and there are times when you don't want anyone around. Not even the one you love. I would appreciate your opinion on this. Also anyone else's.

NO COMPLAINTS

Status quo maintained

DEAR NO: If you're satisfied, and he's satisfied, maintain the status quo. Of all the reasons to marry, because other people think you "ought to" is the poorest.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is a kind, sweet lady and I love her dearly, but she is so superstitious she sometimes gets on my nerves. She is always telling me not to do this or that because it's "bad luck." She's constantly knocking on wood, biting her tongue, spitting three times and throwing salt over her shoulder.

I have never been superstitious, and I don't enjoy listening to that kind of junk. In my opinion, it's ridiculous and ignorant. I don't want my children taught superstitions, but if I tell them not to pay any attention to Grandma they might lose respect for her. They're still too young to know the difference between superstition and fact. How can I tactfully handle this situation?

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Tell Grandma (nicely) that you don't want your children to believe in superstitions and you'd appreciate her cooperation. Then YOU explain to your children that superstitions are stories based on fairy tales—not facts.

DEAR ABBY: A good friend of ours lost her husband suddenly three years ago at which time she moved into the home of her married daughter. She's been there ever since.

This friend is now over her mourning, is working part-time and is in good health. Several of us friends have observed that her presence in her daughter's home is detrimental to her marriage. The mother has convinced herself that she is "needed," but it's obvious to everyone (but her) that she's not.

How do you tell someone whom you don't want to offend that she should be moving on? Or should we just butt out?

TICKLISH SITUATION

DEAR TICKLISH: The word from here is to butt out.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DAILY READER OF DEXTER, MO., STATESMAN": When a man starts to tell you how much he has, count on it that he has none.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—
Medically speaking is there such a thing as spasms? I have heard many doctors use the term for muscle strain, pressure, etc. Being confined to a wheelchair and having a spastic colon I get pain at times in the belt line or above with back trouble.

Dear Reader—
You better believe there is such a thing as spasm — which means shortening as occurs with a muscle cramp.

Most people can see the shortening of the calf muscle when it cramps or is in spasm. A similar thing happens to a person with a spasm of the esophagus, the stomach or the colon.

The entire digestive tube from mouth to rectum has an inner wall of smooth muscle. Food doesn't just drop from your mouth to the rectum by the force of gravity. It is moved along by the milking action of the contraction and relaxation of these muscles.

The small intestine in adult life is about 15 feet long and the large intestine about 5 feet long. The food residue is moved along this 20 foot stretch by the contraction and relaxation of muscles in a rhythmic manner.

If these muscles overcontract or cramp it is a spasm, and as you should know if it can hurt. The spasm can be so severe it shuts off the intestine entirely, trapping gas above the spasm which leads to distention and more pain.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation. It will explain to you how what you eat and drink affects the normal colon contractions. These are involuntary muscles meaning that you can't control them like you might those in your arms. They do respond to reflexes, chemicals and bulk. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York NY 10019.

Dear Dr. Lamb—
A friend recently told me they read about an operation to reduce the size of the breasts. Is this true? Where might I find information regarding this?

I have such a difficult time finding clothes to fit. Also my posture is affected because I try to minimize my bust by not standing erect. I am not a heavy person in any other way.

Dear Reader— Yes, it is done. Except in unusual circumstances I don't think it is a very good idea. And I don't think it is wise to develop poor posture to try to hide your breasts either. That can lead to other problems. Unless they are so heavy that shoulder straps cause you problems I would think you might just try to think positively about yourself. Think of it as a sign of a good figure. In brief, if you've got it, flaunt it. You might be better off than having surgery.

If you can't accept that, first talk it over with your family doctor. If you convince him you would be better off, then he might want to refer you to a plastic surgeon in your area who does good work.

Most surgeons do good work but not all cases are successful and you might not be so pleased with the results afterward. If you have a misconception about yourself or have some emotional hangups, breast surgery may not be your answer either but may simply complicate matters.

Party treats

HAPPY, sad and scary faces decorate Golden Halloween Cupcakes for a children's party. Apples are the main ingredient in this tempting cupcake recipe topped with a creamy butter frosting. Gumdrops, orange slices and corn candies can be used to make the faces. A good apple cider punch adds just the right touch to the party.

Apple treats

Decorate cupcakes for party

The last day of October signals the arrival of ghosts, goblins and witches. It's a special time of the year for children, and a perfect time for a party.

Fresh Golden Delicious apples are naturals for a festive Halloween party. They make tempting targets to bite from while they swing from a string. Or, how about bobbing for Golden's in a big tub of water? When it comes time to feed the hungry crowd, Golden Halloween Cupcakes or Broomstick Cake are favorites. The cupcakes are fun ones for children to eat or make. Individual candies top each one making happy, sad and scary faces. A good apple cider punch adds just the right touch to the party.

The new crop of Golden Delicious apples from the state of Washington has been harvested, so you can expect to find large crisp apples in your markets now. These apples are an all-purpose variety. They are favorites for meat accompaniments, baked goods and for canning.

GOLDEN HALLOWEEN CUPCAKES

1 package (18 1/2 oz.) spice cake mix
2 cups chopped Golden Delicious apples
Creamy Butter Frosting
Gumdrops
Orange Candy Slices
Corn Candies

Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Fold in chopped apples and spoon into cupcake liners. Bake according to directions. Remove cupcakes from pan and cool on cake racks. Frost cooled cupcakes with Creamy Butter Frosting. Make faces with cut up gumdrops, orange slices and corn candies. Makes two dozen cupcakes.

CREAMY BUTTER FROSTING

1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened

1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups sifted powdered sugar
Place ingredients in small mixing bowl. Beat at medium speed for three minutes. If frosting is too soft, add extra powdered sugar to make of spreading consistency.

BROOMSTICK CAKE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup brown sugar
4 or 5 Golden Delicious apples
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1 beaten egg
1/4 cup light molasses
2 1/2 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons soda

1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup hot water
Coat 8 by 12 by 2-inch pan with melted butter. Sprinkle brown sugar evenly over the butter. Peel, core and cut apples into 1/2-inch thick slices. Arrange slices over sugar mixture, and sprinkle nuts over all. Cream together butter or margarine and sugar. Add egg and molasses and mix well.

Sift the dry ingredients and stir into creamed mixture until smooth. Stir in hot water, mixing to make a "thick batter." Pour "thick batter" into the apples. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until cake tests done. Remove from oven, loosen the cake around the edges and let stand five minutes before turning out on serving tray. Makes eight to 10 servings.

Potatoes all seasons favorite in Idaho

It makes a lot of sense to keep a supply of processed potatoes on hand.

Not only for all those satisfying side dishes you can make, but for times when you want a light supper or brunch in a hurry, or an impressive impromptu "something" for company. Processed Idaho potatoes are the perfect foundations for quick, interesting meals for all occasions. Team them with eggs, cheese, chopped fresh vegetables, cooked meats or poultry, and you'll arrive at something imaginative and tasty.

Processed potato products from Idaho are the best you can buy. They're made from the esteemed, fresh potato that made Idaho famous. The Gem State grows the finest tubers in the world, renowned for their rich flavor and dry, mealy texture. Today, processed potatoes from Idaho account for 1/2 of the nation's entire processed potato industry.

If you're unfamiliar with how good processed potatoes can be, start with this simple recipe for HOP-PEL — a delicious, one-skillet main dish that combines potatoes with eggs, bacon, onion, mushrooms and Swiss cheese. The potatoes are re-hydrated in boiling water while the other ingredients cook. This makes a great last-minute brunch or supper dish — one you'll want to serve often.

HOP-PEL-PEL

1 package (6 ounces) dehydrated Idaho hash brown potatoes
1 1/2 cups boiling water
6 slices bacon, sliced
1 medium onion, chopped
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Hearty Halloween soup

HEARTY HALLOWEEN SOUP

4 cups water
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 envelope (5 servings) French's Idaho Mashed Potato granules
1 pound frankfurters, sliced
1 can (1-lb.) sliced carrots

1 cup chopped salted peanuts
Combine water, milk, butter and salt in large pan; bring to a boil. Gradually stir in potatoes with a fork, stirring until smooth. Add frankfurters and carrots, including the liquid; heat five to 10 minutes longer. Sprinkle each serving with chopped peanuts before serving. Sift to eight generous servings.

Oswald: "How about some articles on hands from match point duplicate?"

Jim: "Here's a hand where South has almost enough for an opening bid. If he does open North and South are almost sure to get to game and go down. If he passes, North will open with one diamond."

Oswald: "North opens one diamond rather than one club because he wants to indicate a lead in case the opponents bid the contract."

Jim: "South should respond with one heart only. It is very bad tactics to jump mercy because you have passed eleven high-card points. A jump by a passed hand should only be made with a very good hand and support for partner's bid suit."

Oswald: "Now it is North's turn to make a good bid. He should pass and let his partner play one heart."

Jim: "South will make four hearts if the defense slips. He takes his ace of clubs and queen of diamonds. Then he leads a spade to dummy, dis- tersed candelabra and satin bows carried out the bride's Maid of honor was Toni Schwarz, sister of the bride. Kathy Ringe, Seattle, Wash., Sue Belim, Omaha, Neb., Dolores Rogers, Eden, and Georgia Morrison, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids.

Best man was Russell Schwarz, brother of the bride. Elmer Mitchell and Phil Mitchell served as groomsmen and ushers were Kevin Wilson and Kelly Wilson of Butte.

The candlelighter was Douglas Schwarz, cousin of the bride. The flowergirl was Zevria Ann Schwarz, niece of the bride and the ringbearer was Kurt Schroeder, cousin of the bride.

James Schutte, the bride's cousin, was soloist. He was accompanied on the guitar by Jonathan Brown. The organist was Mrs. Larry Schwarz, the bride's aunt.

Judy Martens, the bride's cousin, was in charge of the guest book. Ruth and Susan Bruns served as gift carriers and Carol Bruns distributed the wedding scrolls and the wedding programs.

Wendy Schwarz, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the gift tables. Nina Schwarz, sister-in-law of the bride,

Morrison, Schwarz wed

Eden — Cindy — Paulette Schwarz and Richard — Roy Morrison were united in marriage in candlelight services Oct. 1 at the Eden Trinity Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schwarz, Eden, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Twin Falls, and Roy Morrison, Glenrose, Tex.

Rev. L.G. Metzner officiated at the double ring ceremony where the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride's gown was fashioned of antique bridal satin with an overlay of organza sheer. The bodice was styled with an empire waist, venise lace sleeves and a high lace collar. The skirt featured a deep flounce of "Venise" lace that fell into a chapel train. Her mantle veil of organza sheer was edged with matching lace and was held in place by a Juliet cap. The gown and veil were designed and made by the bride and her mother.

She carried a colonial bouquet of Sonia roses, white daisies and baby's breath tied with satin streamers.

Baskets of fall flowers, tiered candelabra and satin bows carried out the bride's

Couple weds in haunted house site

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Russell and Lola Sandstrom won't be able to show their wedding pictures to anyone with a weak heart.

The couple got married Thursday night in a haunted house, with the groom dressed as a bloodsucking Dracula and the wife as an Indian squaw.

Russell Sandstrom of nearby McKees Rocks and Lola Mastro of Tionesta decided to tie the knot in the "graveyard" of the March of Dimes haunted house on the city's Northside.

"We figured it was a weird idea but it was a way to get a lot of publicity for the March of Dimes," said the new Mrs. Sandstrom, whose 14-year-old son by a previous marriage had been helped by March of Dimes patient aid.

She met her husband last year when both were working on the March of Dimes' haunted house. She was acting as a cave woman in the annual event, which raised more than $65,000 in 1976.

Magistrate Donald Sparrow united the couple. And instead of the wedding march and flower girls, there were ghosts and witches and screams and shrieks.

Miscellaneous showers were given by Mrs. Esther Schwarz, Mrs. Elmer Hagemann, Dolores Rogers and Cindy Johnson.

A buffet supper was served at the bride's home following the reception. Assisting the bride's parents as hosts were Mrs. Esther Schwarz and Mrs. Jean Bruns.

Prior to her marriage the bride was employed as a radiologic technologist at Mason Clinic in Seattle, Wash. The bridegroom is employed with K-Tad Construction Co.

Homemakers meet

HAILEY — Santa Claus of Macrame and Santa Claus of felt were most popular at the first meeting of the year of the Blaine County Homemakers held at the shop of Lee Withers north of Hailey Monday afternoon. Velda Langrove, Ruth Nielsen and Dorethy Town made good headway on their macrame Santas. Margaret Peck and Ruth Crofts demonstrated new innovations in kitchen handtowels and potholders. Fern Wallace demonstrated a crocheted book-marker with a woolly worm head. Frances Lawson's project was a rug yarn kitten and Mary Griffin worked on a broom-stick coverlet.

The group voted to specially work on macramé and decoupage at their next meeting.

Homecoming royalty now must be athletic

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Feminists at the University of Minnesota have succeeded in changing the criteria for selecting a homecoming queen. Now those trying for the crown must prove athletic ability.

In addition, 18-year-old freshman, Howard Kent, has declared his candidacy for "homecoming person." He was to join more than two dozen coeds today for homecoming queen tryouts.

The selection committee judges the candidates on how well they throw a football and how fast they can run the 100-yard dash.

The candidates will be narrowed to four or five finalists, and the Homecoming Queen — or Person — will be crowned Friday for the big homecoming game with Northwestern University Saturday.

Prison tension scares Yanks

Implant recipient dies

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — The only man ever to live more than a few hours on an implanted chimpanzee's heart died today in Cape Town, a Groote Schuur Hospital spokesman said.

Dr. Christiaan Barnard, lived 68 hours on the animal's heart sewn "piggy back" style next to his own.

There was no immediate word from the hospital why Fortes died.

On Friday, doctors brought the patient back to the operating table to control internal bleeding but said he was "fine."

A chimpanzee heart has been used in two previous heart transplants — in the United States in 1964 and again in France in 1969 — but both times the recipients died within hours.

This was the first such operation performed by Barnard, and the first using the "piggy-back" or twin-heart method.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — American prisoners caught in prison rioting which left 14 inmates dead last week say they're "scared" and fear new violence will erupt at the Jalisco State Penitentiary.

"As soon as the visitors are gone, it's all up for grabs. It's going to happen again," said Steve Mapalon, 31, of New York City.

Sunday the medieval-style penitentiary, built in 1932 for 600 inmates, was crowded with visiting families of the 3,000 prisoners.

The prison's director, Pedro Parra, admitting the situation is not under control, told UPI, "It could blow up any minute."

Some 100 police, armed with riot gear, continued to surround the prison. Parra said 30 anti-riot police had been sent from Mexico City to aid in the prison stakeout.

The Jalisco state governor has asked the United States to send more anti-riot gear, Parra said. But it will arrive in two months, he said.

Speaking of the riot last week, Mapalon said, "It was brutal and savage. I was a photographer with the U.S. Infantry in Vietnam in 1968 and I thought I had seen everything."

"When the whole thing happened I took refuge in my cell but did witness what went on." Authorities said several bodies were mutilated.

Sunday a group of 48 prisoners continued to jam a tiny administration office, claiming if they went back to their cells they would be killed.

Authorities said 14 inmates were beaten or stabbed to death in rioting last Monday. The troubles started when inmates belonging to two leftist groups, the September 23 Communist League and the People's Armed Revolutionary Forces, began fighting another gang known as the "Jackals" for control of the prison's narcotics trade.

Diplomats think trio will be safe

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — U.S. diplomats say they doubt Vietnam will harm three Americans seized aboard a yacht last week because the Communist regime wants "American good will and American money."

Vietnam has not responded to State Department inquiries about the fate of the young sailors whose 29-foot sailboat Brillig was fired on and rammed in the South China Sea and taken under tow to Saigon by the Vietnamese navy.

The three — Cornelia Ann "Crickie" Dellenbaugh, 28, of Vero Beach, Fla.; Charles Affel, 30, of Philadelphia; and Leland Dickerman, in his late 20s, of Flagstaff, Ariz. — were last heard from Friday when radio messages from the yacht said they were "all OK" and were being towed in.

'Hands off,' Moscow told

HARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) — Charging the Soviet Union is menacing Africa, Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry today called on Moscow to take hands off the continent.

The Soviet presence in Africa is no longer ideological, Numeiry told the Peoples Assembly parliament. "It is practicing brute suppression against the will of the African peoples."

We say loudly to the Soviet Union and its allies: take your hands off Africa and stop the flow of Soviet weapons into the continent. It needs hospitals not rockets and tanks."

It was Numeiry's second public attack on the Soviets in less than a week. He was apparently referring to Soviet arms deliveries to neighboring Libya and Ethiopia.

He told a political rally last Wednesday the Soviet Union is "leading the new socialist imperialism into Africa" and is conspiring with Ethiopia to invade Somalia.

Sudanese-Soviet relations have been badly strained for several years and Numeiry has blamed the Soviet Union and Libya for several abortive attempts to overthrow his regime. The Soviet Union has stopped supplying arms to Sudan in reprisal.

In today's speech Numeiry voiced support of the Arab-Israeli effort to resolve the Arab-Israeli conflict "as long as it recognizes the right of the Arab peoples to liberate their occupied territories and the rights of the Palestinian people."

Here's rundown on Korea probe cast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Having trouble keeping track of the players in the Korean influence-buying investigation?

Here's a brief "who's who" that may help when the 12-member House Ethics Committee, headed by John P. Ryan, D-Ga., and counseled by former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, begins hearings Wednesday:

- Tongsun Park, the mysterious, but undeniably wealthy rice dealer and longtime Washington—socialite, accused of serving as a conduit in a clandestine Korean intelligence plan to lobby the favorable U.S. policies by giving congressmen cash, lavish presents, free trips, entertainment and assorted other benefits in the 1970's. The scheme allegedly was financed by commissions Park earned on sales of American rice to Korea. He left for London months ago and went to Seoul in August before being charged on 36 counts of conspiracy, mail fraud, bribery and racketeering.

- Hanecho Kim, another Korean-born businessman here, was charged in September with participating in the conspiracy—specifically receiving $500,000 from the Korean Central Intelligence Agency to direct a so-called "Operation White Snow."
- Former Rep. Richard Hanna, D-Calif., who allegedly got more than $5,000 in cash and gifts from Park during 12 years in Congress for his help in persuading other House members to support military-economic policies sought by Korea. He was indicted Friday, the first American formally charged in the probe.
- The committee hearings this week, scheduled to run three days, are expected to include testimony from about a dozen witnesses. Among them:
  - Kim Sang Keun, identified as the KCIA's No. 2 agent in Washington until last November, when he sought asylum in the United States after being ordered home. He supposedly passed instructions from Seoul to Park for the covert lobbying operations on Capitol Hill and was named an "undictated co-conspirator" for delivering the KCIA's cash to Hanecho Kim. He has not testified publicly before.

- Jay Shin Ryu, called Park's closest business associate at a Washington holding company several years ago. He is understood to have given investigators the names of about 20 congressmen who were to get payments from Park, with numerical sums penciled next to each name. He also ferried, for Park, two $5,000 campaign donations in 1971 to Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards.
- Gen. Kim Hyung Wook, KCIA chief six years until 1969 and another "undictated co-conspirator" in the case, told another House investigating panel in June the KCIA provided $3 million to help Park set up the George Town Club to entertain many politicians as a KCIA operative. Kim has lived in New Jersey since 1973.

- Lee Jai Hyon, chief cultural and information officer at Korea's embassy here until he was granted asylum in 1973, told the same House subcommittee of illegal Korean activities in this country and said he saw former Ambassador Kim Dong Jo stuff $100 bills into envelopes for delivery to Congress in 1973.
- In addition to Hanna, now living in Fayetteville, Ark., the federal indictments list these congressmen and former congressmen as receiving the following campaign contributions or other financial aid from Park:

- Reps: Morris Udall, D-Ariz. ($500); William Ayres, R-Ohio ($500); Thomas Kleppe, R-N.D. ($500); Frank Thompson, D-N.J. ($100); Ross Adair, R-Ind. ($500); Lawrence Hogan, R-Md. ($500); Melvin Price, D-Ill. ($500); Thomas Foley, D-Wash. ($500); Kika de la Garza, D-Texas ($500); Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J.—($500); Chester Mize, R-Kan. ($500); John Murphy, D-N.Y. ($500); Nick Gallianakis, D-N.C. ($500); William Broomfield, R-Mich. ($1,000); John Brademas, D-Ind. ($5,150); Albert Johnson, R-Pa. ($1,000); John McFall, D-Calif. ($4,000); Edwin Edwards, D-La. ($10,000 plus $10,000 to his wife).

In Sun Valley

Juvenile crime one topic of seminar

SUN VALLEY — Fifty percent of the arrests for serious crimes in Idaho last year turned out to be juveniles and the statistics worry many law enforcement officials and juvenile counselors.

Beginning tomorrow in Sun Valley, more than 400 concerned professionals and private citizens gather for the first Governor's Conference on Children to discuss juvenile crime and other problems related to Idaho's young people.

Dr. Fred McCabe, a consulting psychologist from Filer and chairman of the conference, says the aim of the conference is the "prevention of problems in children and their families through efforts at the community and family level."

Conference speakers, panels, and discussion groups will address four major areas concerning children's lives in their community, their lives in their homes, the problems of juvenile justice and the use of public social services.

"The idea is to try to educate people about the critical issues facing communities and so to let them know what is going on in Idaho," McCabe said.

By providing this background to a broad base of people throughout the state, McCabe says conference participants will formulate regional action plans to bring back to their local communities, hopefully to improve the quality of life within people's neighborhoods and homes.

The cold social statistics concerning the erosion of the family and Idaho's troubled youths are staggering, according to McCabe.

Idahoans like to think of their state as free and immune from the social problems plaguing cities but the facts don't seem to bear them out, McCabe observed.

The divorce rate in Idaho went up 56 percent between 1971 and 1976, the psychologist pointed out. In addition, he said five children died of abuse during this year's first six months investigated between July, 1976 and July, 1977.

Speakers for the conference will include: — the honorable Justice Wise Poller, who served 35 years in New York City's family court, will discuss community environment and its effects on children.

— Dr. Rhessa Penn of the Oregon Department of Human Resources, will discuss the role public services can play in preventing youth problems. — Ira N. Schwartz of the Washington State Council on Crime and Delinquency will discuss the juvenile justice system.

— Dr. Ann O'Keefe of HEW's Administration for Children, Youth and Families will discuss home environment and the struggle of the American family to survive today.

Idaho Governor John Evans will deliver the convention's keynote address at a luncheon Wednesday.

McCabe said the purpose of the conference was not to criticize community and state institutions but simply to identify the problems and then discuss "how to help each other out and survive in this world."

Tennis court plans continue

TWIN FALLS — A Kiss-the-Pig contest may be dropped but otherwise efforts are moving ahead to raise money for construction of four tennis courts at Twin Falls High School.

Student body president Steve Crowley first made a tennis court proposal to the district 411 school board last month, outlining plans for fundraising events to build four courts adjacent to the Bruin Stadium.

Last week Crowley again visited the school board to present a refined version of his funding plans.

Originally, Crowley has suggested a kiss-the-pig contest for school faculty, with the instructor in whose name the most donations were made being required to kiss a baby pig on the snout.

At that time, Crowley had suggested the event might raise several hundreds of dollars, as had similar events in other school districts. Last week, however, Crowley said the pig kissing might have to be dropped.

The reason: In other school districts faculty members had conspired to stuff each others' donation jars and determine the pig kissing outcome.

Crowley told the board, "We may not do the kiss-the-pig."

In other respects the Associated Students for Tennis Courts (ASTC) would push ahead with fund raising, he said.

Projects outlined by Crowley included club donations, school benefit dances, raffles, a student-faculty basketball game, Christmas carnival, a student-talent show and three "super-marathon" weekends, one marathon for eating, a second for endurance in some activity such as dance or tumbling rope, and a third for a "jog-a-thon" in which per-mile pledges would be made by jogger sponsors.

The fund raising would also include the placement of "Dimes to Tennis Courts" coin barrels, and possibly the construction of the world's biggest hero sandwich.

If a record-breaking sandwich were made, sections would be sold with notices reading, "I had a piece of the World's Largest Submarine Sandwich," Crowley suggested.

The fund-raisers would hopefully furnish about $47,000 to build four courts for about $44,000 with some money remaining for unexpected costs.

Gem agency prepared list

TWIN FALLS — A story in Friday's Times-News incorrectly reported the Environmental Protection Agency prepared a list of 59 waste water treatment projects in Idaho scheduled to receive EPA funding assistance in fiscal year 1978. The list actually was prepared by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, division of environment.

Air passengers set record

TWIN FALLS — Hughes Airwest boarded 3900 passengers at the Twin Falls city-county airport during September, an all time record for that month.

The previous September record was 3599 according to Paul Shoaff, local sales/service manager.

All time monthly passenger boarding records were set for each month during the summer period, May thru September. Hughes Airwest operates 42 departures a week.

BURLEY — The Bureau of Reclamation began filling the American Falls Replacement Dam's Reservoir Friday.

John Barker, Buhl, President of the American Falls Reservoir District, said filling-the new dam can minimize the threat of drought next year.

Barker noted that the ability to store water at this early date may help put spaceholders in a position where if we have a second drought year, a maximum amount of water would be available in the American Falls Reservoir for irrigation use during the 1978 season.

Barker said construction was progressing on the dam, at a satisfactory rate and the dam might be substantially completed about Jan. 1, 1978.

However, Norman Nielson, attorney for the Burley Irrigation District said the BID is continuing its lawsuit to stop the financing of the dam in federal courts.

The BID and the Minidoka Irrigation District, the original Minidoka Project, have refused to sign repayment contracts on replacement of the American Falls Dam.

The BID sued the Bureau of Reclamation, American Falls Reservoir Districts (number 1) and its Board members over construction of the dam. The BID asked for the federal government to pay its share in construction of the dam on the grounds that the BID had transferred water rights from Jackson Lake to American Falls upon Bureau of Reclamation recommendations after the Bureau knew American Falls Dam was deteriorating.

In federal district court a BID motion for summary judgment was denied and the Bureau's motion for summary judgment against the complaint was granted.

The case is now in the Idaho Supreme Court.

"We believe that the actions that we have taken in federal court at the present time will protect our water rights until such time as a determination is made on these lawsuits by the circuit court of appeals," Nielson said.

The appeal of the supreme court has delayed sale of bonds to cover the construction project. Payments have been through interim financing, anticipating sale of the bonds.

The feeling among objectors is that no water rights will be jeopardized until there is a refusal to pay the spaceholder share when the first bond payment comes due.

Barker said the general response of American Falls Reservoir irrigation water users had been that all available river flows should be stored at the earliest possible time, and certainly until snow surveys project that the American Falls Reservoir will fill and spill in the spring of 1978.

American Falls Reservoir District Board members expressed their thanks to the operators of lower valley irrigation companies (who are entitled to the natural flow water) for their consent to have the water stored at this early date.

Snake aquifer study scheduled

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A geological study of the Snake Plain aquifer in Gooding, Jerome and Twin Falls counties will begin in about two weeks, a United States Geological Survey (USGS) official said today.

Ralph R. Norvich, associate district chief of USGS in Boise, said his office had picked R. E. Lewis, USGS official to head the long-awaited project.

Health officials have been searching for ways to finance the study for about a year. The two-year study, to help health officials decide whether it is safe to construct subdivisions near the Snake River Canyon rim, is estimated to cost about $105,000.

USGS will pay for half the study which will evaluate a strip of northside canyon rim land about one-half mile wide from the Perrine Bridge to Bliss, according to Dr. Wayne Carte, director of the South Central Health District.

Carte said state health officials have already come up with $20,000 for the project, USGS with $20,000 more. The first year of the project is expected to cost about $65,000, he said.

Carte said district officials were asking county governments to come up with the rest of the funds.

Norvich said the first thing USGS officials would do is obtain all the literature written so far on the land in question. He said studies would be drilled in the ground later to determine soil depth and quality.

Such information could later help health officials determine if subdivision sewage drainage could contaminate the aquifer.

In its report, USGS officials said their objectives would include establishing a water surveillance network, obtaining data for future comparisons and studying the potential pollution problem.

Gooding County Commissioners, who have said they were interested in such a study, have indicated they would help pay for it.

Puppets 'steal show' at event

TWIN FALLS — The MOP Squad Puppet group, directed by Steve Pace of the Church of the Nazarene in Twin Falls, "stole the show" at the Senior Citizens arts and crafts fair this weekend.

Lenzie Malone, outreach director for Area 4 senior citizens, said the high school group of puppeteers was among the most popular of the various entertainment provided during the two-day crafts fair.

Since no admission was charged senior citizens there is no way to determine attendance, Malone said, but there were many senior citizens in the audience both days.

She said many of the elderly people who were unaware of the senior citizens activities became acquainted with the program and "this was the whole reason for the event."

Many types of handmade items such as pillowcases, quilts, afghans and bedspreads were exhibited as well as jewelry, rockhound exhibits and paintings.

Other groups providing entertainment included John Mancini with Western music, the Common Taters barbershop quartet from Buhl and the Moreno family with Spanish music.

In dying, Elaine shows how to live

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Elaine was only 14 when she developed leukemia.

Her doctor took the young girl into his office and tried to explain to her how he would try to help her fight the disease.

"The doctor told me of the drugs which would cause her hair to fall out but would keep the cancer in blood under control for awhile.

"There are bad guys in your blood stream and right now they are getting the best of the good guys," the doctor said. "We can give you drugs which will slow the bad guys for a while and you will go into what is called a state of remission."

Then the doctor mused no words.

"He told young Elaine the leukemia eventually would kill her."

But he said, "We all die. I could die tomorrow from a stroke, but you have some insight as to when you may die."

Elaine told her doctor she understood about the drugs and that the one thing she wanted to do was ride in the Snake River Stampede one last time.

She did.

"Those of us who watched her ride held our breath for fear she would slip and fall," said Jack Dawson, now a private health care counselor who worked with the young leukemia victim at the Mountain States Tumor Institute in Boise.

Dawson recounted the story of the 14-year-old cancer victim at a meeting of the Twin Falls Cancer Society Saturday.

The Boise counselor addressed the group on ways the families of terminal cancer patients, doctors, and dying patients can best confront a terminal illness.

People facing crises often find resources within them they never dreamed they had," Dawson told the area cancer volunteers.

During a pilot project at the tumor institute, common characteristics were found which helped both patients and families to deal with cancer, Dawson said. They include:

— role flexibility, or the ability to adjust to changes and a willingness to talk about cancer.

— learn to include the patient in the decision-making process of his final days.

— use positive reinforcement with family members when discussing cancer and the effects of the disease on the family.

Indefatigable families who fail to include the dying patient in decisions about his or her future and do not maintain positive reinforcement in the final days of a patient's life produce "cancers in human relations that are as serious as the physical malignancies," Dawson said.

If a cure were to be found tomorrow for cancer, he said, there still will be many people who will suffer with the disease for years to come.

Therefore the National Cancer Institute has pursued studies, such as the one Dawson headed at the Boise Tumor Institute, to enable a more holistic or comprehensive treatment not only for the cancer patient but family members.

During the interview formal, social workers looked for responses of the patients and their families which would help them assess how they would react to the crisis of having a cancer patient.

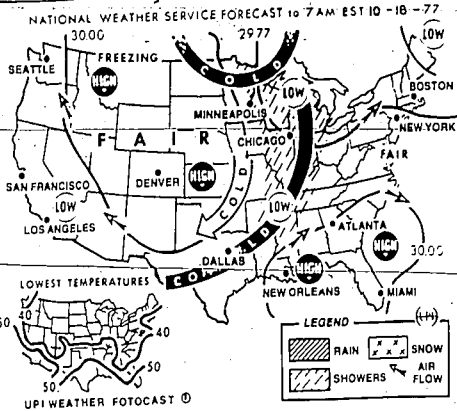

Cancer society volunteers also held workshops on public and professional education, recruiting and training, service and rehabilitation and crusade.

Snow, rain close Blue Ridge drive

A third day of snow and rain in the northeast and eastern highlands made life miserable for autumn color sightseers caught in the closing of the Skyline Drive in the Blue Ridge Mountains Sunday.

The National Weather Service said a low pressure system in Southern New England was responsible for spreading rain and thunderstorms from Virginia to Maine, with rain and snow extending from New York

State and Pennsylvania into the lower Great Lakes and Upper Ohio Valley.

Temperatures in the rainy areas dipped into the 40s and 50s and strong winds, gusting to 30 miles per hour, added to the misery. Gale warnings were posted for the Southern New England Coast today.

The snow was confined generally to the upper elevations in western Pennsylvania, New York State and West Virginia.

Federal park officials closed Skyline Drive through the Blue Ridge Range about noon Sunday. Snow depths ranged from four inches in the southern mountains to three inches in the north. Traveler's advisories were posted for the mountainous areas.

At the northern end of the drive, the snow spotted Front Royal's annual fall festival of leaves. Officials said the snow came at the peak of the Blue Ridge's autumn foliage color season and hundreds of tourists were left stranded in packed motels, hotels and campgrounds.

Officials watch new storm Frieda

MIAMI (UPI) — A tropical depression that could become Tropical Storm Frieda with a slight boost in wind power drifted over the northwest Caribbean Sea early today, just north of Swan Island.

The National Hurricane Center at Miami labeled the disturbance as a storm threat late Sunday when sustained winds reached 35 miles an hour. Tropical storm strength is 39 m.p.h. or higher.

"Overall conditions do not favor any rapid strengthening, but the depression is just below tropical storm strength and any increase in the winds would make it a tropical storm," said forecaster Paul Hebert.

The depression was centered at 10 p.m. Sunday about 25 miles north of Swan Island, which lies nearly 300 miles due east of Belize, Central America. Forecasters said it was drifting slowly toward the north northwest.

Indian Summer weather continues

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley, Rupert area:
Continued fair tonight and Tuesday. Low temperatures tonight in the mid-30s; highs Tuesday in the mid-50s.

Light winds tonight, with probability of precipitation near zero Tuesday.

The weather maps show high pressure, continuing to dominate the weather over the entire western United States.

The storm track is far to the north across Canada.

Southern Idaho is expected to continue to enjoy fair weather through the remainder of this week. Only minor day-to-day temperature changes, with highs mostly in the 70s and lows in the 30s will be prevalent.

Harvesting sugar beets and potatoes "should" make excellent progress in this dry weather pattern. Soil temperatures should remain above 45 degrees this week, which helps to keep potato bruising at a minimum.

Deer hunters can expect continued dry weather in the hills, with warm afternoons and chilly nights.

Question...

Is there any difference between a Memorial Service and a Funeral Service?

Answer...

Not too long ago the terms were interchangeable. Now the term "Memorial Service" has come to have a different meaning.

A funeral service is still a religious ceremony in a church or mortuary with the body present and followed subsequently by burial or cremation.

A memorial service is defined by the Association of Memorial Societies as the occasion for a religious observance or a philosophical meditation. This service is held after the body has been cremated and is usually held some place other than the church or mortuary.

Dodgers blast Yankees 10-4, force 6th game in NY Tuesday

Inches short

Yankee outfielder Lou Piniella makes a gallant leap for a triple off the bat of the Dodgers' Dave Lopes. Lopes was the game's first batter and came in to score when the next batter singled. The Dodgers went on to win the game 10-4 to force another game in New York Tuesday night.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Spurred on by Manager Tom Lasorda's pre-game pep talk, the Los Angeles Dodgers turned from lethargic to vicious Sunday and crushed the New York Yankees 10-4 behind home runs by Steve Yeager and Reggie Smith to remain alive in the World Series.

The Dodgers, who still trail three games to two, can get even Tuesday night when the Series switches back to New York's Yankee Stadium for the sixth game. After battling only 190 in the first four games of the Series, the Dodgers' attack loosened and bombed left-hander Don Gullett and three relievers for 13 hits to win in a cakewalk.

Yeager, Smith and Dusty Baker provided the bulk of the Dodgers' offensive might.

Yeager drove in four runs with a three-run homer, which capped a four-run fourth, and a sacrifice fly. Smith belted a two-run homer in the sixth and Baker had three hits and drove in two runs.

A large share of the credit for the victory also had to go to right-hander Don Sutton, who scattered nine hits in a route-going performance to remain unbeaten in five post-season decisions.

Although touched for back-to-back homers by Thurman Munson and Reggie Jackson in the eighth inning, Sutton was tough when he had to be in the early going and blanked New York on just three hits over the first six innings.

It may have been Lasorda's pre-game talk which was most responsible for the Dodgers' triumph. The peppy manager told his team they had been flat in the first four games and encouraged them to get more aggressive.

They wasted no time in doing it. Dave Lopes started the rout by tripling off the top railing of the left-field bullpen and Bill Russell, who had managed only two hits in 16 Series at-bats, lashed a single to left to give the Dodgers a lead they never relinquished.

The Dodgers might have had a real big first inning if it wasn't for a magnificent fielding play by third baseman Craig Nettles. Smith topped a slow roller toward third, but Nettles charged the ball, picked it off and barreled and threw Smith out at first. Gullett then bore down and struck out Ron Cey and Steve Garvey to end the threat.

Gullett had pitched well against the Dodgers in the Series opener, but it was obvious, however, from the outset that he didn't have command of his stuff. He threw 25 pitches in the first inning, and, after laboring through two more innings, was finally crushed in the fourth.

Steve Garvey started the fourth-inning uprising by slamming a one-out double to right-center field and he scored on Baker's line single to left. When left fielder Lou Piniella batted the ball for the Yankees' first error of the series, Baker took second and held there as Nettles booted Los Angeles' grounder. Yeager then belted a long home run into the left field seats to make it 5-0.

It was the second homer of the series for Yeager, who hit 16 during the regular season. The Dodgers finally kayned Gullett in the sixth when Smith walked, and Garvey lined a one-out single to right. Ken Clay relieved and was greeted by successive run-scoring singles by Baker and Lacy before Yeager capped the three-run rally with a sacrifice fly.

Yankees' Manager Billy Martin brought in one of his ace relievers, Dick Tidrow, in the sixth but even he wasn't spared the Dodgers' wrath. Russell singled with one out and Smith cracked his second homer of the series over the right-center field wall.

It was the fourth career Series homer for Smith, who played for the Boston Red Sox in the 1967 classic, and it was the eighth for the Dodgers in this series.

It appeared for a while that Sutton would have no trouble at all with the Yankees. He gave up only three hits over the first six innings, but then was lagged for two runs in the seventh when Jackson and Chambliss led off with singles.

Nettles then dropped a double down the left-field line to score Jackson, but Sutton bore down to retire the next three batters in order with Chambliss scoring the second run on Bucky Dent's infield out.

Sutton showed signs of tiring in the eighth when Munson and Jackson homered but he settled down after that and finished up to maintain his image of one of baseball's top "money pitchers."

The Dodgers thus kept their chances alive for becoming baseball's fourth team to rally from a 3-1 deficit and go on to win the Series. It was done by the 1925 Pittsburgh Pirates, 1958 Yankees and 1968 Detroit Tigers.

Denver rips Oakland on seven pickoffs

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Denver Broncos defense made it happen Sunday, picking off seven passes by Ken Stabler which the offense converted into 23 points in a shocking 30-7 rout of the Oakland Raiders.

Riley Odems, Jim Turner, and Louis Wright were the Broncos who scored the points on the turnovers as Denver extended its unbeaten streak to five games and snapped Oakland's at 17. Additionally, Denver took a one-game lead over Oakland, the defending Super Bowl champion, in the AFC West.

"It was a team victory all the way," said an exuberant Red Miller, the Broncos' first-year coach. "I can't say enough about our all-out effort."

"One of the keys was that we destroyed their passing game. We took away all the rhythm of their passing attack. You don't often get a start like this in the NFL, but we have to schedule ahead of us."

Raider Coach John Madden couldn't do anything but watch as the Denver defense, led by linebacker Joe Rizzo, kept on picking off Stabler passes.

"It's been a while since we had one of those," Madden said. "Denver is an excellent club. They've been playing defense well and they did in this game. It was just one of those days for us. We couldn't get anything going."

The Broncos defense also had a fumble recovery and twice stopped the Raiders on fourth down.

Odems scored on a 10-yard pass from Craig Morton after Joe Rizzo had made the first of his three interceptions to tie the score at 7-7 in the first period. Lonnie Perrin scored on a 16-yard run in the second quarter, the only Denver score which did not come on a turnover, and then the Broncos made it 21-7 shortly before halftime when Turner, a 14-year veteran kicking specialist, took a 22-yard pass from Norris Weese on a fake field goal try.

Wright ran 16 yards after intercepting Stabler's pass to make it 27-7 in the third quarter and Turner would up Denver's best game since the franchise was awarded 16 years ago with a 32-yard field goal in the last quarter.

Oakland's lone touchdown came on a 9-yard pass from Stabler to Dave Casper, the Raiders scoring the first time they had the ball.

Stabler marched the Raiders 70 yards in 10 plays after the opening kickoff and it seemed Oakland was off to an easy victory. But the Raider fortunes turned sour as Rizzo stopped a drive near midfield with his first interception.

Six plays later, Morton connected with Odems to tie the score at 7-7.

Denver started its next drive at the Oakland 42 and Perrin galloped in untouched seven plays later for a 14-7 lead. Randy Grandisler intercepted Stabler late in the first half and, when the Bronco drive fizzled out at the 25, Turner came in to try a field goal. Weese, a backup quarterback, took the snap and threw a perfect pass to Turner, who cradled to the left, caught it alone at the 10 and ran it in for the TD.

The Broncos dominated the second half, intercepting Stabler three more times, with Wright and Turner scoring the Broncos' final nine points to make it a rout.

The Denver defense, one of the best in the NFL, now has given up 33 points in five games, topped only by Atlanta which has allowed 22.

Vikes nip Bears in OT 22-16

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Safety Paul Krause passed 11 yards to Steve Ogit for a touchdown on a fake field goal attempt seven minutes and 45 seconds into a sudden death overtime Sunday to give the Minnesota Vikings a 22-16 victory over the Chicago Bears.

The Vikings, starting from their own 20, moved to within 11 yards of the Chicago goal and on first down, Coach Bud Grant sent in kicker Fred Cox, with Krause assigned to hold the ball.

Krause took the snap from center, jumped up, ran to his right and passed to Volgt on the 1-yard line. Volgt crossed the goal for a touchdown.

The victory gave the Vikings a 4-1 record and strengthened their hold on first place in the NFC Central Division while the Bears slipped to 2-3, before a crowd of 47,789 in cool, sunny weather.

Chicago had come from behind to take a 16-13 lead with a 51-yard touchdown drive late in the third quarter. Bob Avellini passed to Greg Letts in the right corner of the end zone for the last two yards, and the score, with Bob Thomas converting.

But Cox tied it up at 16-16 early in the fourth quarter with a 21-yard field goal after a Minnesota drive had stalled four yards short of the Bears' goal.

running back Greg Pruitt, playing in the game for the first time, led the Browns on the final scoring drive by carrying three times and throwing a 13-yard pass to Cleo Miller on third down at the Houston 36.

The victory helped the Browns, 3-2, grab a share of the division lead with the Oilers, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, both 2-2, play Monday night.

That TD came 33 seconds before the end of the half and moved the Redskins to within one at 14-13.

Last play FG beats Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI) — Cleveland kicker Don Cockroft became the second leading scorer in Browns' history with three extra point kicks and he hit a 20-yard field goal on the game's final play Sunday in a 24-23 upset of the Houston Oilers.

The Oilers' Tom Fritsch kicked a 36-yard field goal with 4:28 to play to give Houston hope of retaining its AFC Central Division lead. But Washington stayed in the game early through the work of its specialty teams, which blocked a field goal attempt and a punt. The latter turnover set up the Redskins' only touchdown, a 1-yard pass from backup quarterback Joe Theismann to second-string running back Clarence Harmon.

The Redskins came 33 seconds before the end of the half and moved the Redskins to within one at 14-13.

Cowboys maul Redskins 34-16

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — Roger Staubach caught Washington in a maximum blitz and burned the Redskins with a 59-yard touchdown pass to Drew Pearson early in the last period Sunday to wrap up a 34-16 Dallas Cowboys win in a brutal battle that sent one player to the hospital and a half-dozen more to the sidelines.

Staubach, who hit 16-of-26 passes for 237 yards and two touchdowns, kicked Key Dallas' unbeaten through five games. The Cowboys opened a 2-game lead over the Redskins in the the work of its specialty teams, which blocked a field goal attempt and a punt. The latter turnover set up the Redskins' only touchdown, a 1-yard pass from backup quarterback Joe Theismann to second-string running back Clarence Harmon.

The Redskins came 33 seconds before the end of the half and moved the Redskins to within one at 14-13.

Pats edge stubborn Chargers

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Sam Cunningham romped for 142 yards on 26 carries and tight end Don Hasselbeck caught two short-range touchdown passes from Steve Grogan Sunday as the New England Patriots defeated the San Diego Chargers 24-20.

Hasselbeck's second TD catch of four yards came late in the final period to seal the New England win. The clinching touchdown came when the Patriots' Tony McGee fell on a fumble at the San Diego 6-yard line.

New England's Ike Forte put the Patriots in front to stay with 4:30 left in the third period as he belted outside tackle for a 7-yard score. John Smith tackled on a 28-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to give the Patriots, now 3-2, a 17-13 lead.

plays to just four by the Chiefs and outgained Kansas City 151 yards to a minus six.

Lee's 1-yard plunge capped a 48-yard, six-play drive on Baltimore's second possession of the game at 1:12 and McCauley's seventh-touchdown of the year came 3:12 later on a 23-yard plunge.

Colts early blitz wins 17-6

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — First-quarter touchdown plunges by Ron Lacy and Don McCauley Sunday lifted the unbeaten Baltimore Colts to a 17-6 victory over the winless Kansas City Chiefs.

The two touchdowns came during a devastating first quarter performance by the Colts as they receded off 11 first downs, ran 26

I don't want to hurt him

The NFL is trying to cut down on violence on the field this year, right? But Sunday, one player went to the hospital and six others were injured in the Dallas-Washington game, and incidents like the one pictured here were common. Above, Houston's Kenneth Kennard just tries to get a little respect from Browns' QB Brian Sipe.

Martin, Jackson make up

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A potential New Yankee controversy, fueled by a Time magazine report that Reggie Jackson would not play next season if Manager Billy Martin remained, was dampened Sunday by both the outfielder and manager in a clubhouse interview following the Dodgers' 10-4 victory over the Yankees, who still lead the World Series three games to two.

"In the magazine story, it was reported that Jackson met recently with Yankees' owner, George Steinbrenner, claiming he would not play for the Yankees next season if Martin stayed.

"It's a lie," Jackson said. "That's not true. I have purposely stayed away from the owner because I knew some weak story like this would be stirred up to create controversy."

He said the only time he was interviewed by Time Magazine was when he was on the cover: "I've had enough of this blep. I just want to play baseball," said Jackson. "I hope we win, that's all."

Jackson added he has not had a formal meeting with Steinbrenner all season, only casual talks about getting tickets.

Earlier controversy was stirred at the start of the Series when Jackson second-guessed Martin's decision to start Catfish Hunter in the second game. At the time, Martin said Jackson should just "concentrate on playing baseball."

But Saturday, both Jackson and Martin buried the hatchet. The right-fielder told reporters after the Yankees' 4-2 victory that the manager "should be given the Nobel Peace Prize." The player and manager hugged each other after Saturday's victory and were publicly friendly during practice prior to Sunday's game.

Said Martin: "I'm flatly angered at all these stories. I don't want any part of it any more. We are a well-knit club now. We need no more blep."

"I'll never give another answer to those kind of stories again. I'm sick and tired of it and I'm not going to fidget anymore."

Seattle wins expansion bowl

SEATTLE (UPI) — Steve Myer passed for four touchdowns Sunday to lead the Seattle Seahawks to their first win of the season, a 20-23 decision over the winless Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

It took two key interceptions in the last four minutes to preserve the victory. Atry Beamon picked off a Gary Huff pass in the end zone with a 30-1 left and Eddie McMillan intercepted another Huff pass inside the 10 with less than two minutes to go.

Tampa Bay now has lost all 19 of its games since joining the NFL, along with Seattle in 1976.

Haden leads Rams by Saints

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lawrence McCutcheon scored the tie-breaking touchdown and rushed for more than 100 yards for the first time this season Sunday to help the Los Angeles Rams score a 17-7 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

Paul Haden made his first start of the season at quarterback for the Rams and set up the winning touchdown on a 46-yard pass play to Terry Nelson early in the third period. McCutcheon then plunged over from the 1-yard line to break the 77-halftime tie.

Haden, benched in favor of Joe Namath for the first four games of the season, completed 9-16 passes for 180 yards before a Coliseum crowd of 64,045. The win gave the Rams a tie with Atlanta for first place in the NFC West with 3-2 records. The Falcons were upset 3-0 at Buffalo.

Giants hold off 49er rally

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Joe Pisarcik fired a 37-yard touchdown pass to Gary Shirk and Willie Spencer scored on a 1-yard plunge to migration in the second-quarter Sunday night to help the New York Giants to a 20-17 victory over the West Coast San Francisco 49ers.

The Giants also got a pair of 22-yard field goals from Joe Daniel and raised their record to 2-3. New York had to hold off a fourth-quarter rally by San Francisco, which dropped its fifth straight game.

The 49ers scored their first touchdown early in the final period when Wilbur Jackson dived one yard following a 48-yard pass from Jim Plunkett to Kenny Harrison to the New York three. Plunkett pulled the 49ers within 20-17 five minutes left on a 46-yard TD pass to Gene Washington following a 24-yard punt by New York's Dave Jennings.

Cards top Eagles, end slump

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Jim Hart passed 38 yards for a touchdown and Terry McCall and Jerry Latin scored on runs of 10 and two yards Sunday and then the St. Louis Cardinals fought off a last-minute surge by the Philadelphia Eagles to gain a 21-17 victory and end their slump.

The Cardinals, who had lost two straight games and were 1-3, scored two touchdowns in the second quarter and then turned a Roger Wehrli interception of an Eagles' pass into another score in the final period for the victory and a 2-3 mark.

Sluggish Lions defeat Pack

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Greg Landry's 9-yard touchdown in the corner of the end zone with 11:59 remaining Sunday gave the lethargic Detroit Lions a 10-6 victory over the Green Bay Packers.

Chester Marcol kicked field goals of 21 and 32 yards for Green Bay, with his second giving the Packers, their first

Bills edge Falcons 3-0

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — Neil O'Donnoghue kicked a 30-yard field goal and Buffalo's defense stopped Atlanta on a controversial 4th-and-1 call on the Bills' 4-yard line in the game to eke out a 3-0 victory over the Falcons for its first win since Oct. 3, 1976.

Neither offense was able to threaten much during the game but the Falcons' Robert Pennywell blocked a Marv Baleman punt late in the game to give Atlanta a first down at the Buffalo 13 and a golden opportunity to win.

However, on 4th-and-1 on the Bills' 4-yard line, the Falcons decided to go for a first down and a possible touchdown instead of taking an almost certain field goal.

Miami stops Jets 21-17

MIAMI (UPI) — Bob Griese guided Miami to a three-touchdown lead Sunday and the Dolphins defense survived a second-half New York rally led by Richard Todd to take a 21-17 victory over the Jets.

Miami built its early lead on a 5-yard run by Benny Malone, and on touchdown passes by Griese of 1-yard to rookie tight end Laird McCreary and nine to Nat Moore.

Gordon's tackle and shelling one led for a score. Then with 2:44 left in the game, Gaines went over the middle for another score to cap a 78-yard drive.

The Jets had threatened between the two touchdowns but stalled on the Miami 19 where a field goal by Pat Leahy was blocked by Bob Baumhower.

Can you believe it?

Yankees Reggie Jackson and Billy Martin acted Sunday morning before the Dodgers clobbered them as if they were the best of friends. Who knows what a 10-4 loss will do to their new-found friendship.

Ducks, geese up

Statewide totals for September waterfowl surveys show numbers of Canada geese are 16 per cent above last September, and ducks are 19 per cent on the plus side.

The Department of Fish and Game said southeast Idaho surveys contributed most to bringing the September count above last year.

Irwin wins third tourney of year

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Millionaire Hale Irwin fired a 67 Sunday for a 14-under par 296, and his third victory of the year in the $150,000 Texas Open golf tournament.

The $30,000 first prize moved Irwin to fourth place on the year's money list with $221,455 and marked the third straight time he has surpassed $200,000. His career earnings increased to $1,234,230.

Irwin fired birdies of 3, 6, 9, 29 and 12 feet in his two-stroke victory over Miller Barber on the 6,525-yard Oak Hills Country Club course. Barber won $17,100 for second with a 2-under par 292, his second straight Texas Open runnerup finish. Barber lost in a playoff last year to Butch Baird.

Tom Kite, who was tied with Irwin for the third round lead, faltered to a one-over 71 Sunday and finished third at 276.

Adding drama to the finish was second-year pro Carlton White, who came into the Texas Open needing to win $6,066 to keep his PGA card. White had to finish fifth and despite a double bogey on No. 17 and finishing the round two-over, he pulled a fourth-place tie with veteran George Archer. His 81-under 272 earned him $6,000 — just $23 more than he needed.

The 28-year-old White had earned only $24 this season with ties for 55th at the Tournament Players Championship and 56th at the Quad Cities Open.

Irwin said, "I feel fantastic" to win his third tournament but said he also was pulling for White, who was playing in the same threesome with Irwin and Archer.

"I was really pulling for him. We have a lot of Carlton Whites on the tour. They're gentlemen and good players," Irwin said.

A Tribute To...
4-H Week

by JACK WARBERG

America is a great land of opportunity. It is laden with advantages for our youth. Among these fortunate groups are our 4-H Boys and Girls! The children of today are the future of tomorrow and given instruction, counsel and leadership, they are inspired to accomplish many things. Their interests and energies are well-channeled in constructive and pleasant activities, and thus they are fitted for the years before them. The purpose of 4-H Week is to expand the group; gain greater support and get more volunteer 4-H leaders. They learn to express appreciation to 4-H friends locally and nationally, their outstanding spirit, head, heart, hand and health, is an inspiration to all. We give recognition to their leaders who set the pace and point the way. We'll tell our 4-H Boys and Girls. Our community is a better place indeed because of you!

Borg is back

MADRID (UPI) — Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden Sunday won his first tournament since injuring his shoulder at Forest Hills, beating Jaime Filial of Chile, 6-3, 6-0, 6-7, 6-6 in the final of the $100,000 Madrid Grand Prix tennis tournament.

The victory netted the 21-year-old Swede $14,000 and Filial $7,500.

Borgina Marnakova of Czechoslovakia won the women's singles by defeating Mariana Simionescu of Romania, 6-4, 7-5.

In a three-hour match, Borg breezed through an erratic Filial and almost effortlessly in the first two sets, passing him line and again as the Chilean desperately raved the net. He scored a total of eight aces in Saturday's semi-finals and Sunday's final.

In the third set, Borg was ahead 2-0 when Filial broke his service, gained confidence and got his volleying under control. Filial broke Borg's serve again and took the tie-breaker.

The fourth set appeared to turn into a repetition of the first two sets. But Filial, trailing 1-4, broke the Swede's service with a series of volleys and went on to level the score at six all.

In the tie-breaker—Borg scored with two passing shots and won the match point when Filial missed an easy volley.

King nears form of old

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Billie Jean King won her first major tournament in more than two years Sunday by defeating Australian Wendy Turnbull, 1-6, 6-1, 6-0, in the $75,000 Phoenix Thunderbirds Tennis Tournament.

The 33-year-old King had not won an important tournament since the 1975 Wimbledon after which she went into semi-retirement.

She collected $14,000 for the win. Turnbull, a finalist in the U.S. Open in September, earned $7,500.

"In 1971, I won $100,000 on Oct. 2 or 3 right here," King commented during the awards presentation. "I had to win 19 tournaments that year to do that. Now it takes two or three I'll always remember that day right here."

Turnbull had little difficulty in the first set, but King came on strongly in the next set.

"I was the first set rather comfortably," said Turnbull. "But Billie Jean is a legend in her own time and, when Billie Jean gets behind, she is a lot tougher. I lost my concentration and couldn't get it back."

Turnbull's serve slipped and King scored repeatedly on her returns.

At one point, King ran off 17 points in a row without Turnbull coming close to securing a break.

King won the first game to open the second set and broke Turnbull in a long game by chopping her backhand low.

Then Turnbull doubled back twice in the fourth game and King cracked two aces in the fifth game to lead 4-5.

Turnbull did serve better to win her only game, but King closed out the set easily.

In the third set, Turnbull managed to score only four points as King was in obvious control for the entire set.

Can Indians afford Munson?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Amid all those reports that the Yankees will acquire Cleveland catcher Thurman Munson by dealing him to Cleveland after the World Series, apparently nobody has consulted the Indians.

"I see where we're getting Munson," Indians' general manager Bill Segal told UPI. "and all we're going to be giving up is Dennis Ekersley, Rick Manning and Buddy Bell. That's only the heart of our ball club."

Fact is, although Munson would like to play closer to his Canton, Ohio home next year, the lowly Indians can't afford him. As Yankee president Gabe Paul says, "We're not going to trade Munson unless it is a deal which will prove beneficial to the Yankees."

Marsh rallies to sudden-death win

SAINT-NOM-LE-BRETECHIE, France (UPI) — World match play champion Graham Marsh of Australia stormed back over the last four holes of regulation play and beat Severiano Ballesteros of Spain on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday to win the $10,000 Lancome Trophy golf tournament.

Both men had 72-hole totals of 273, 15 under par.

Ballesteros returning a final round of four-under-par 68 and Marsh scoring under the 6,800-yard Saint Nom links in six-under-par 66.

Marsh, who won the world match play championship at Wentworth, England, a week ago, clinched the $17,000 first prize when he sank a five-foot putt on the first hole of the playoff for a birdie 3.

Volleyball race tight

TWIN FALLS — After five weeks of play, the Twin Falls YWCA women's volleyball league has boiled down to a four-team race.

On top of the heap are Pepsi Cola, one of last year's powerhouse, and Coors, whose strength is a heavy dose of CSI volleyball team talent. Both teams have perfect 5-0 records.

Four Haus, this year's version of last year's championship Walt's Tavern team, minus the CSI contingent now playing for Coor's, follows at 4-1. Tied with Four Haus is Century Yamaia, last year's Wallrich Concrete team with a new sponsor.

These four teams are well out in front of the rest of the league, many of whom are playing their first season in the league.

Magie Valley Memorial Hospital, Baehler Bernina, and Auto Body Paint and Supply are tied with 2-3 marks, followed by Burger Matson, Otto's News Agency, Wallbangers, Leone Geringe, and Independent Meat, all at 1-4.

Five weeks of play remain before the playoffs.

The next ten-week league session will begin January 11, 1978. New teams interested in joining the league may call the YWCA at 733-4384.

Gerulaitis tops net

BRISBANE, Australia (UPI) — American Vitas Gerulaitis dominated the opening tournament of the Australian Tennis Circuit when he captured the singles championship Sunday and then combined with Texan Billy Scanton to win the doubles title at the $50,000 South Pacific Tennis Classic.

Gerulaitis trounced Australian Tony Roche 6-7, 6-1, 6-1, 7-5, to win the singles and won the doubles title with Scanton by defeating veterans Mal Anderson and Ken Rosewall 7-6, 6-4.

Farm panel scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Sen. Jim McClure said Saturday a major agricultural symposium will be held Oct. 31 in Idaho Falls.

McClure said the symposium is designed "to bring farmers together with government officials who make and implement critical agricultural policy."

The symposium will feature Dale Stevin, minority staff director for the United States Senate Agriculture Committee; Harland Blackburn, acting state executive director for the ASCS; Creighton Gilbert, assistant state conservationist; and John Walker, chief of the Water and Land Division regional office, Bureau of Reclamation.

The Elks Lodge will host the meet which will be open to anyone.

"Our effort . . . is to give farmers and ranchers in east Idaho a chance to question those individuals in government who are responsible for the formation and implementation of our agricultural policy," McClure said.

"I hope farmers will be prepared to ask straightforward and tough questions to our panelists. I'll guarantee they will receive straight answers."

The symposium will begin with a luncheon during which McClure will speak and answer questions. There will also be a panel presentation. McClure said the panelists will be able to answer questions concerning the set-aside program and other aspects of the $13 billion Agriculture Bill.

Gem NFO meet set

TWIN FALLS — DeVon Woodland, Blackfoot, national vice-president of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) will be principal speaker at the Idaho state NFO convention at the Holiday Inn in Twin Falls Oct. 28 and 29.

Woodland, who has farmed near Blackfoot all his life, joined NFO in 1967 and has since served as Bingham County president, district president, state president and national director from Idaho. He also served as district field representative, regional supervisor and executive assistant for the western states. He operates a 340-acre irrigated farm and produces cattle, hay and grains.

Woodland will address the convention Saturday night. Theme of the convention is "Your Production — The Key to Success."

Members will hold commodity meetings the first afternoon and evening of the convention. The dairy meeting and the specialties meetings will begin at 2 p.m. Friday. The meat meeting will begin at 3:30 p.m. and the grain commodity meeting will start at 5 p.m.

Registration is slated for 8:30 a.m. Saturday and the all-day convention session will come to order at 10:30 a.m.

Colorado vet's lab inoculates fish

WHEAT RIDGE, Colo. (UPI) — Veterinarian Roland Ament operates the only licensed laboratory in the world which specializes in the mass inoculation of fish.

Ament, the founder of Wild Life Vaccine which he says could drastically reduce the death rate among fish at state, federal and commercial hatcheries. The loss now is 25 and produce.

Wild Life Vaccines produces vaccines against two bacterial diseases in fish — enteric redmouth in trout and vibriosis disease in salmon. Research is continuing into other bacterial and virus diseases which are even more deadly. The Wild Life Vaccines method was developed in 1973 by Ament and Dan Fender, a former researcher at the Interior Department's Western Fish Disease Laboratory in Seattle.

"It had been in the back of my mind for 10 years, Ament said. "Wildlife is the only frontier left in veterinary medicine, and the biggest need was in fish. "The idea of immunizing fish has been a dream of researchers for the last 25 years. There was never any method of disease control that was adequate"
