

Alleged illegal alien facing swift deportation from U.S.

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — An alleged illegal alien who was reportedly mistreated by a U.S. Border Patrol officer near Castletford Tuesday, may be deported before he has a chance to file charges against the officer.
Jose Leon, 22, allegedly in this country without proper credentials, captured by the U.S. Border Patrol, was free on bail Thursday night but has turned himself in again since the federal agency never filed felony charges against him.
Allegedly mistreated by his arresting officer, Leon was not deported Tuesday after his capture and instead was held in custody at the Twin Falls County Jail for questioning in an investigation of the incident.

Leon was scheduled to be arraigned for illegal entry this morning, but the proceedings were canceled when officials decided not to charge him with the felony.
He has hired an attorney and may file a civil action against the arresting officer for alleged mistreatment.
Leon was repeatedly kicked and slapped by the Border Patrol official after a chase across several fields near Castletford

Tuesday, according to two Castletford farmers who witnessed the incident.
The two farmers, Wayne Easterday and John Thomson, neighbors who live about three miles west of Castletford, saw two Border Patrol officers pursuing Leon Tuesday morning across a field near their homes.
When they lost sight of the chase, the two drove to a high spot on a nearby canal bank to watch the rest of the drama.
They observed the pursuing officer had apprehended Leon and was walking behind him toward the waiting patrol car which a second officer had driven around to intercept Leon.
Leon was placed in the Twin Falls County jail about noon Tuesday and was free on $2,000 bond by 9 p.m. Thursday.
This morning, however, Leon, at the suggestion of his attorney, Thomas Stephen of Twin Falls, again turned himself in at the county jail when he found no charges would be filed against him in federal magistrate court.
According to Border Patrol Agent Robert Wylie, Commissioner Gordon Ruth has ordered criminal charges be dropped and deportation proceedings be initiated against Leon.

The regional commissioner has declined prosecution, Wylie says. "He was deported by us once last year."
Wylie says Leon will be deported to Mexico but is entitled to a hearing in El Centro, Calif., if he wishes to protest his deportation.
Leon's attorney, Thomas Stephen of Twin Falls, says Leon is "seriously considering available civil remedies" for his alleged mistreatment.
Stephen expressed concern his client may be deported before a complaint can be filed against the Border Patrol.

A U.S. Border Patrol investigator from St. Paul, Minn., is continuing his investigation of the incident, after arriving in Twin Falls by airplane Thursday noon.
Jim Hardin, an experienced investigator from the Border Patrol district office in St. Paul, questioned both Easterday and Thomson at Thomson's farm near Castletford and also questioned Legi and Border Patrol officers.
Hardin was not available for comment today. The officials at the Twin Falls Border Patrol office are withholding the names of the officers involved.

Evans vetoes 8-mill repeal

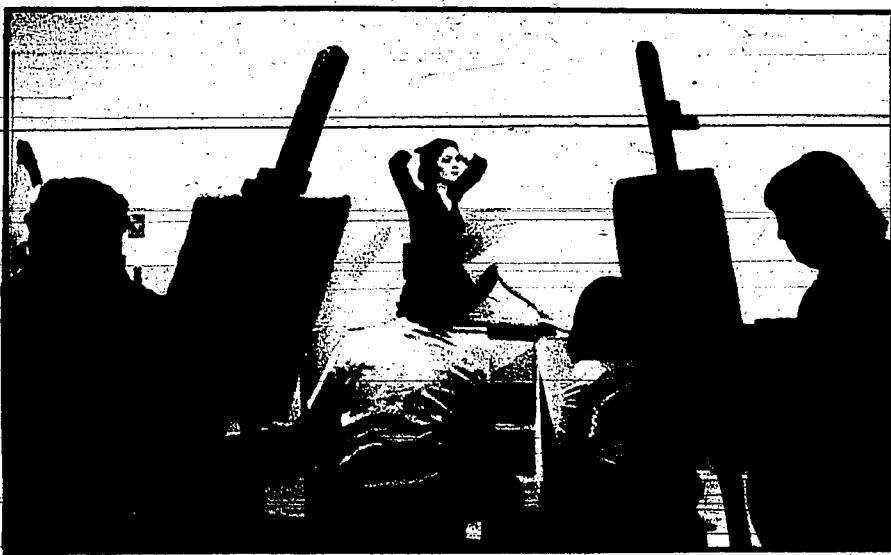

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans planted his red veto stamp on the Idaho Legislature's repeal of the eight mill county school levy today saying that it would not provide tax relief "to those who need it most."
"This bill masquerades as property tax relief," Evans said.
"In reality it would destroy the public school equalization fund and direct tax dollars paid by all Idahoans into the hands of big business and utilities," he said.
Evans said the measure would provide 40 percent relief to public utility companies while giving the average homeowners about $28 a year and farmers $87 annually.

The governor said at a press conference in his office attended by members of the legislature that he is "sure" the body will sustain his veto and "get better legislation."
He estimated there still is $10 million in his $317 million revenue projection for tax relief.
Evans said the measure, which he called "fiscally irresponsible," provided "the greatest benefits to those who don't need it." Idaho Power Co. would get a tax cut of $643,000 annually and the largest business slash would be $140,000 to a single firm each year if the bill became law, Evans said.
Blasting the legislature for not holding public hearings on the bill, Evans said if the measure had been exposed to open criticism "that legislature would have been put on the spot."
"The governor said his mail has been 'running five to one' in favor of a veto."
He urged the legislature to initiate property tax reform by putting a Constitutional amendment before the voters in the next general election, that would tax "income-producing property of utilities the most and homes and farms the least."
Evans called for "immediate property tax relief in the next year" while an "acceptable plan" is worked out.
He stressed the importance of public hearings "on all tax relief and reform measures so that the people's voices can be heard."

Sadat flies west

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat flew to Washington today to press for more active U.S. participation in peace negotiations between Egypt and Israel.
Sadat would like President Carter to come out with a proposal for an overall settlement, Egyptian officials said.
Sadat left Rabat at 6:10 a.m. MST for the United States; the second stop on his 13-day, 8-nation tour to sell the Egyptian side of the peace negotiations.

Harding has based his campaign drive on a commitment to restrict his financial contributions to those from Idahoans.
His present $31,000 fund represents a 15 percent "defection" from Republicans and moderate voters who supported incumbent Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, he said.
Harding estimated that "well over 50 percent" of the contributions received thus far have come from former supporters of unsuccessful Democratic nominee Stan Kress.
Harding who said his net worth is $100,000, is "willing to commit $5,000" to the campaign.
"I want to be the largest contributor to my campaign because that assures that I will be truly independent," Harding said.
He said he will accept contributions from labor but they must be "from Idaho labor with no strings attached."
Naming farmers "cost-price squeeze" as the most important problem facing Idaho, Harding said he supports the American Agriculture Movement's strike and believes that farmers must unite to find a solution to common problems.

Ravenscroft, Jackson top picks for governor

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer
BOISE — The Republican gubernatorial primary appears to be a dead heat between Vernon Ravenscroft of Pule and Rep. Larry Jackson of Boise, with unannounced candidate Rep. Allen Larsen of Blackfoot running a strong third.
Those are the results of a Times-News poll of 68 Republican legislators in the Idaho Legislature. Twenty-one of the legislators, or just over 30 percent, said their "first choice" was former state GOP Chairman Ravenscroft.
However, 20, or 29 percent of those polled, said they were supporting state representative and former professional baseball player Jackson.
Nine, or 13 percent, said they would vote for Speaker of the House Larsen, while five, or just over seven percent, endorsed former State Representative G.L. "Butch" Otter, of Caldwell.
Six legislators said they were "still undecided" or "uncommitted."
The remaining seven votes were scattered between Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs; Sen. Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls; and individuals who said they had yet to decide between Ravenscroft or Larsen, Ravenscroft or Jackson, Ravenscroft or Otter.

Jackson, Ravenscroft and Otter are the only announced Republican candidates for governor. Larsen has yet to publicly declare for the office, but he has privately told some legislators he will declare after the current legislative session is finished. Neither Watkins or Budge have officially announced, though both have expressed interest.
Former Boise Mayor Jay Amyx, who has announced his intention to announce at a later date, received no vote.
With few exceptions, most of the Republican legislators contacted refused to speak on the record. "All of the candidates are friends or colleagues," one said. "Therefore, during the primary, I can't publicly support any of them."
The reason mentioned most often in support of Jackson was his service in the Idaho Legislature. An eight-year veteran of the House, Jackson received substantial praise for his work on the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee. Jackson is currently co-chairman of that committee.

Several legislators said it was likely Jackson would also receive support as a result of his former professional football career—Jackson pitched for the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago, Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies.
But legislators said Jackson was also "largely unknown" outside of his home town of Boise. Several legislators also criticized Jackson for being a "liberal."
Support for Ravenscroft centered on what one legislator called "his wide range of expertise in government at all levels." Ravenscroft has not only served as head of Idaho's Republican Party, but tallied 12 years of service in the Legislature. Legislators repeatedly praised his "hard work" and "intelligence" during those years.
Ravenscroft supporters also expressed concern that should Larsen enter the race, the two candidates would be going after the "same votes." If both candidates seek the office, one legislator said, "it just might throw the nomination to Jackson."

Harding in chase

BOISE (UPI) — Former Rep. Ralph Harding told a news conference today he has exceeded his initial campaign finance goal and reconfirmed his candidacy for Congress with a blast at the state president of the AFL-CIO.
"Criticizing the interference of the state labor leader Bob MacFarlane in past primary elections as a stumbling block to Democratic victories in second district Congressional races, Harding said he exceeded his $25,000 goal by $6,000.
Harding said that recent Democratic campaigns would have been successful if "the state labor boss would have stayed out of the primary with his big labor money" adding that although he has "always been a friend of labor" he would not "go back to Washington and vote straight down the line for labor."
A look at history shows, he said, that the candidate with the endorsement of labor in the primary has usually lost the general election.
Describing his philosophy as "moderate," Harding said he is concerned that the Democratic Party has "somewhat become the party of the very liberals and labor."

Harding has based his campaign drive on a commitment to restrict his financial contributions to those from Idahoans.
His present $31,000 fund represents a 15 percent "defection" from Republicans and moderate voters who supported incumbent Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, he said.

Kress leads, Harding gains

BOISE — Stan Kress is leading, but Ralph Harding is coming on strong.
Those are the conclusions of a Times-News poll of Democratic state legislators from southern Idaho. All legislators polled live within the Second Congressional District, now represented in Congress by Republican George Hansen. Both Harding and Kress are seeking the Democratic nomination to oppose Hansen in this year's general election.
There are 13 Democratic state legislators representing districts in southern Idaho. Of these 13, eight said they supported Kress and that he was the Democratic favorite in their area. Five, however, support Harding, and said he would capture thezug primary nomination for Congress.
Although the legislators polled differed on which candidate was leading, they agreed almost unanimously on two points. Most expected the race between Kress and Harding to be close, and most expected it to be tough and hard-fought.

Kress leads, Harding gains

Most Democratic legislators polled also stated they intended to remain officially "neutral" during their party's primary election, and would take no active role in working for either candidate. The legislators agreed to state their preference for either Harding or Kress only if their names were not printed.
Kress, 33, is a Fifth School teacher and a former State Senator from legislative District 27. That district contains most of Blaine County. In 1976, he won the Democratic nomination for Congress by defeating Lava Hot Springs Director Kelly Pearce in the primary election. After a bitter campaign, Kress lost the general election to Hansen, an incumbent, by approximately one percent of the vote. Since his narrow 1976 defeat, most Second District Democrats have assumed Kress would again seek the nomination in 1978 — an impression Kress did little to dispel.
Harding, 48, is now a partner with former baseball Harmon Killebrew in a Boise estate planning and insurance business. Also a former state legislator from

Kress leads, Harding gains

Oneida County, Harding seemed in the U.S. Congress for four years in the seat he seeks to regain. Between 1969 and 1974, Harding represented Idaho's Second Congressional District, the only Democrat since Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal era to capture the seat. Last December Harding announced he would again seek the Democratic nomination.
The survey revealed most Democrats expect the primary contest to be tough and close. Even Kress supporters acknowledged Harding is a formidable campaigner. "He's a real street fighter," one said.
"It was largely a result of this toughness that Harding had the legislative support of five lawmakers, although several emphasized the former Congressman's previous experience in Washington. "He'll be able to go to work as soon as he gets there," one said.
"Most of the Democrats were also hopeful a tough primary fight would help their party. The voters will know the candidate who wins, one said."

Governors seek broader water control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A national governor's panel on water policy plans to ask the administrations for more state control over water and more money to carry out that control, draft documents indicated Thursday.

The proposal was in a plan to be submitted Friday to Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus by Utah Gov. Scott Matheson, chairman of a National Governors' Association Water Management Subcommittee.

Primary authority and responsibility for water resource management functions including planning, development and regulation rests with the states, "the draft asserted."

Water resource management functions such as water quality, water supply, ground water management, wetland protection, coastal zone management and soil conservation projects, should be clearly delineated by Congress as the primary responsibility of the states and their delegated interstate agencies.

A copy of the draft report was obtained by UPI.

It establishes 10 water policy principles, including authority and federal funding to strengthen the state's ability to manage all water resource programs.

Currently, the governors said, several federal agencies such as the Army Corps of Engineers or the Interior Department's Bureau of Reclamation, have a hand in water planning processes providing only "an array of narrow categorical grant programs for specific management purposes."

Andrus is preparing a report to President Carter on a new national water policy. Carter next month is expected to announce the program, which will include objectives and possibly new rules and proposed new laws.

The governors also said any national water policy should recognize the relationship between water quality and water quantity; and regional differences in water problems.

In the West, for example, growth and continued prosperity depend on development of massive dams and reservoir projects to supply the needs of agriculture, new booming coal towns and residential development in the sunbelt.

In the East, cities which have outgrown their water supply systems have been saved from rationing due only to the luck of heavy rainfall.

The draft also called for:

- Water conservation to be considered "the fundamental consideration in all future water management programs"
- Review of environmental and social implications of federal water programs.
- An end-to-federal-preference-for-building dams or other solutions "which results in the approval of projects of only marginal utility."

Matheson told Andrus and Vice President Walter Mondale on a recent Western tour that he wants the federal government to consider the date and purpose of federal land in considering federal rights to water.

For example, Indians living on energy-rich Western lands are seeking enough water to develop their resources. But Matheson's proposal could limit the amount of water to only that needed hundreds of years ago when the reservation would have been used for nonirrigated, subsistence farming.

Matheson also said he wanted the federal government to pay all state residents who would lose water rights to the U.S. government or to Indian tribes.

Those two recommendations were the subject of last-minute negotiation by the governors Thursday.

In addition to Matheson, governors scheduled to attend Friday's session are Ed Herschler of Wyoming; Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts; Richard Lamm of Colorado and Lt. Gov. William Murphy of Idaho.

Graze aid plan sought for West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church introduced legislation Thursday to fund longrange improvements on public grazing lands and clarify congressional intent concerning grazing permits.

Church said the legislation would set a more equitable schedule for fees than that proposed by the administration.

The legislation provides new federal guidelines for dealing with overpopulation of wild horses and burros.

Each of these issues represents a serious problem which could be dealt with individually, Church said. "However, it is my belief that a balanced program on our public range demands that they be considered in one bill."

The bill:

- Authorizes $350 million over the next 20 years to revitalize public range lands. The funds would supplement existing expenditures.
- Provides that range improvements can proceed on activities which do not artificially alter the environment or pose a threat of environmental pollution or disruption, without a requirement for environmental impact statements.
- Modifies existing law to permit the federal government to give title, after one year, to persons who adopt excess wild horses and burros from areas where overpopulation exists.
- Sets a new formula on grazing fees charged by the departments of Interior and Agriculture based on recommendations of a federal committee which reviewed public land grazing fees.
- Church said that while the administration proposal sets public land grazing fees under a formula based primarily on leasing costs on private lands, his proposal also takes into account the cost of production and the price of beef. The fees could thus fluctuate up or down, depending on the added factors.
- But the bill limits increases or decreases in fees to a change of no more than 25 percent of the previous year.

Idaho education board approves Crutcher dismissal

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education approved Thursday the immediate dismissal of William G. Crutcher, director of the Disability Determinations Unit, for alleged violations of state statute and Idaho Personnel Commission rules.

Crutcher was suspended with pay Dec. 21 pending results of an attorney general investigation into allegations made by current or former employees of the DDU. The board approved the dismissal resolution after reviewing the investigative report, state and Crutcher's testimony in addition to the report, and Crutcher's grounds cited by the board included:

- "Inefficiency in the performance of his duties," according to the resolution, Crutcher's patterns of travel throughout the state in his official capacity "showed an imbalance in his visitation in various areas of the state of Idaho and a disregard to the needs of the recipients he to serve, and does not reflect a common concern for other people with similar needs in other portions of the state of Idaho."

- "Conduct detrimental to the good order and discipline in the department."

DDU employees from present and former DDU employees indicated Crutcher "showed favoritism and applied discrimination toward employees within the unit," and that "certain employees were given — and other employees were denied — privileges based upon their standing with Mr. Crutcher in matters extending beyond their official duties as employees of the state of Idaho."

"Careless, negligent or improper use... of state property... or funds," according to the resolution, testimony and review of documents indicated Crutcher and other department employees "selected by him, and with his knowledge, made personal telephone calls unconnected with business of the state of Idaho on state telephones at state expense."

The resolution said testimony and documents indicated some $700 worth of personal telephone calls were made to one telephone number "over an extended period," and that some $50 worth of those calls were made within one year.

The board resolution said board members felt "each one of the above grounds is sufficient to warrant dismissal of William G. Crutcher as an employee of the state of Idaho, and consequently this dismissal is based on each ground individually as well as all grounds collectively."

Competency tests ready

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education, which early Thursday received plans for construction of a $20 million pavilion, heard a Department of Education spokesman report that a basic skills competency test being developed should be ready by spring to sample test 400 students in Idaho.

Plans for the multi-purpose facility at Boise State University were presented early in the day and students are expected to pay some $10 million of the cost.

Dr. A.D. Luke, deputy superintendent of public instruction for Instructional Services, told the State Board of Education educational and lay groups throughout Idaho are studying objectives for testing in mathematics and language arts.

When the objectives are completed, he said, national testing companies will be asked to devise tests in reading, writing, arithmetic, and spelling.

In February 1977, the board approved a policy providing for a statewide proficiency testing program on a district option basis. Luke said 65 districts have indicated definite or tentative interest in offering the tests.

By December 1978, he said, tests will be given beginning at the ninth grade level. Students found deficient will be given special help and may take the test twice each year until successful passage.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Roy Truby said some critics have said the test will be given too late for special assistance. He said, though, districts may choose to enter into earlier diagnostic testing if they wish.

Any student who successfully completes the proficiency test will receive a special seal on a high school graduation diploma.

In other action:

- The board discussed but made no change in a policy allowing exempt 12-month employees at higher education institutions, the State School for the Deaf and Blind, and Eastern Idaho Vocational-Technical School to have two days vacation leave per month. Although Truby noted employees of other agencies under board supervision do not receive as much leave time, presidents of the higher education institutions noted the twoday policy is similar to the vacation plan offered in other states.
- The board also agreed to ask the Legislature not to take action during this session on any proposal to require students in cooperative medical programs to assume a greater share of the cost. Instead, the board will ask legislators to join in a study of state philosophy toward supporting medical education.
- The proposed BSU facility would partially be paid for with a $25 fee increase the first year and a $50 hike the second.

Utilities agree on power

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah Power & Light and Idaho Power have settled a contract dispute which had threatened to cut U.P. & L. revenues by several million dollars.

President E. Allan Hunter of U.P. & L. said Thursday that he and Idaho Power executives sat down several days ago and worked out differences in the agreement under which Idaho Power will buy electricity from Utah through March 1980.

"The differences, related primarily to accounting procedures," Hunter said. Among the things Idaho Power wanted changed were assignment of various common facilities at U.P. & L.'s Emery plant, now under construction.

U.P. & L. currently supplies power to Idaho from its Huntington plant and by the middle of this year will produce power from the first unit of the Emery plant.

Idaho Power had told U.P. & L. several weeks ago that it was filing with regulatory agencies and the courts in an attempt to modify or possibly cancel the contract.

Utah Power would have lost an estimated $14 million a year in net revenue from the sale. The sales will produce about $34 million in gross revenue for U.P. & L. in 1978, Hunter said.

Hunter said the new agreement will result in a slight drop in revenue for Utah Power.

The "accounting procedures" which Idaho Power wanted changed involved charging costs of pollution control equipment at Huntington and the proportion of investment tax credits available to Idaho Power.

Church backs 'Sun Day'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church has joined a bipartisan group of senators sponsoring a joint resolution calling on the president to proclaim May 3 'Sun Day.'

The proclamation is designed to coincide with plans for a national day of activities calling attention to the potential of solar energy.

Church, chairman of the Senate Energy Research and Development subcommittee, said recent developments in reducing the cost of producing electricity from the sun bode a "stable promise."

"The idea of a day devoted to exchanging information on solar energy provides an excellent opportunity to learn about the prospects and problems in widespread use of solar energy," he said.

"Sun Day" will feature solar use demonstrations and informative projects designed to bring together the public, industry, and labor for a look at solar energy.

Church said solar energy research funding has increased over the last five years and the Department of Energy has requested about $75 million for further research during fiscal year 1979.

"Solar energy is readily adaptable to heating and cooling purposes with current technology, and the prime challenge now is to further reduce the cost of producing electricity from the sun."

Reservoir site guard proposed

BOISE — The State of Idaho should designate potential reservoir sites and protect them against "significant land use change," even if this lowers land values and prevents development in those areas, members of the House Resources and Conservation Committee said Thursday.

That committee by a voice vote approved policy 21 of the proposed State Water Plan. That policy urges the state to designate possible future sites for reservoirs, protect them against major land changes, and buy the lands as they become available for sale.

And while the policy states that the legislation implementing the policy "should recognize rights of existing land owners," several committee members argued the policy would lower land values.

Defense for the policy came from Warren D. Reynolds, chief water planner in the Department of Water Resources. The policy, Reynolds said, is necessary if the state is to have reservoir sites for future water storage and energy production. The only way to preserve the sites is to buy the land and "keep it in a low-density population."

But Rep. Wayne Tibbitts, R-Loreno, argued that designating lands as potential reservoir sites — even before they are bought by the state or if it is determined a dam will be constructed — "will prevent development of the land." Designation of the land as a reservoir site "puts a distinct damper on development," Tibbitts added.

The Committee expressed slight changes, a list of 45 potential reservoir sites in Idaho, prepared by the Corps of Engineers in 1976. According to the water plan "these need further consideration for possible site protection."

In other action, the committee approved a water plan policy which advocates development of lands of higher agricultural productivity before development of lands of lower productivity. "This makes it official state policy to use the best lands first," Reynolds said.

The committee also adopted a policy calling on local units of government to prepare "comprehensive plans and adopt zoning standards for the management of lake and reservoir shorelands to protect the water resources and its uses."

But the committee deleted language referring to state land use planning laws as the authority for the policy, declaring local governments already have sufficient powers to prepare such plans.

The committee is expected to continue hearings on the proposed state water plan for at least another week. The committee's recommendations must then be approved by the legislators.

Hollifield proposal raises queries

By DAVID MORRISSEY Times-News writer

BOISE — Representative Gordon Hollifield, R-Jerome, was praised Thursday night for his "long hours of study" of Idaho's taxation problems.

But the bill he has proposed to solve those problems left several persons with unanswered questions — and criticism.

Hollifield's measure would change the basic structure of Idaho's taxation system by shifting part of the local property tax burden onto local income taxes. Under Hollifield's plan, an individual would pay taxes on his assessed property or gross income, whichever was highest.

Hollifield says the measure could provide "$125 million in property tax relief" during its first year of operation — by replacing those property taxes with local income taxes.

Twice introduced and twice defeated, the proposal received 22 votes in the House in 1976. This year Hollifield has included a local government spending limit in his measure, an addition he believes will help his bill gain support.

Thursday evening Hollifield's measure was publicly aired at a meeting of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee and while Hollifield, and the concept of shifting taxes from property to some other source drew strong support, the specifics of Hollifield's measure were questioned.

Floyd Decker, executive director of the Association of Idaho Cities, told committee members "the whole concept of what he's trying to do should be given your serious attention." Hollifield's bill was "one of the most creative approaches to the problem we are dealing with," Decker said, adding that Hollifield "should receive the gratitude of everyone in the room for his long hours of study."

But Decker said the effects of the tax shift had yet to be fully examined. Hollifield's spending limit might prevent local governments from meeting serious needs, Decker warned, and added it wasn't yet clear if city residents would eventually pay higher taxes under the bill.

"The bill was also endorsed by the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation," Monroe Hayes, chairman of the Farm Bureau's Taxation Committee said the Hollifield measure was an "outstanding concept" and "worth trying." The bill "gets to the real heart of the problem," Hayes added.

But criticism of the measure came from Edwin A. Gaskill, of Meridian. In the past, Gaskill said, tax increases had always been presented to the people as "property tax relief." Tax relief won't come, Gaskill said, "unless the philosophy is to reduce spending." And Rep. Harold Reid, D-Craigmont, warned that the bill might be unconstitutional.

Senate passes bill to return civil rights

BOISE (UPI) — Persons convicted of a felony could have an avenue to petition for the return of their civil rights under a bill passed by the Idaho Senate Thursday.

Despite arguments that hardened criminals shouldn't have their rights to vote, serve on juries and hold public office returned to them, the measure was approved by a vote of 30-5 and sent to the House for consideration.

The bill leaves the discretion up to district court judges and floor sponsor, Sen. Dick Smith, R-Rexburg, said he had ever faith that the Jurists would not allow those who had committed murder, rape or similar violent crimes their civil rights.

Smith noted that just a matter of dollars made the difference between a felony and a misdemeanor and that many persons who in their youth had been convicted a felony and later became good citizens had no recourse to have their civil rights restored.

This will allow them to petition the district court to hear the matter, he said, adding that he doubted the hardened criminal could care less whether he served on a jury, was elected to public office or was allowed to vote.

Utilities regulation halt proposed

BOISE (UPI) — At the request of Rep. Myron Jones, R-Malden, the House Resources Committee today introduced legislation virtually wiping out state regulation of public utilities and railroads.

Jones said the purpose of his bill is to provoke legislative investigation into regulation of these entities by the Public Utilities Commission to determine if a better method could not be found.

He said it is not his intention to "end" all state regulation of them but to bring a halt to duplication and over-regulation. However, his proposal does repeal two titles of the code providing for regulation of utilities, railroads and motor carriers.

"The Legislature can at any time transfer those over to the Transportation Department, Law Enforcement Department, Water Resources Board or some other agency," he said, "just by writing another bill."

"In many, many instances we're being over-regulated. Just for instance, our motor carriers. We run these people in a triangle from the PUC to Law Enforcement to Transportation.

"Take the airlines," he said. "We have an aeronautics Division in the Transportation Department but they have to answer to the PUC. My goal is to end overlapping and duplication of state agencies."

Through this bill, he said, public hearings can be set up to help the Legislature determine where these regulatory functions should be put or whether they should be left as they are.

He stressed he was not trying to end all regulation.

New liquor store vote bill offered

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee called for introduction today of a bill to require a public hearing before setting up a new retail liquor store.

Sponsor Wendy Piggriotti, R-Boise, said she had the bill prepared in response to complaints from constituents concerning a planned liquor store in an area of Ada County where there is a high crime rate.

The bill would require a public hearing be held before establishment of any liquor store and if more than 50 persons protest it will require an election in the five precincts closest to the proposed site.

Devia Mallard, a director of the Allied Christian Forces, and editor of its newsletter, urged introduction of the measure. She complained about a number of stores in small towns across Idaho, in which both liquor and groceries are sold with no attempt to separate them. Meanwhile, the committee ordered introduction of a bill to set up a board to regulate state policy on education. Education lobbyist Ezra Moore brought the measure to the committee.

Tax relief bill sweeps past House

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans' proposal to increase circuit-breaker property tax relief for elderly homeowners sailed through the House 69-0 Thursday without a harsh word against it.

Rep. Wayne Tibbitts, R-Loreno, gave a brief description of the "proposal and sat down. There was no further debate.

Under the measure, the maximum income limitation is increased to $6,000 from $5,500 and the maximum relief is $225 from $200. "The intention of this act is to increase the number of elderly households that qualify for circuit-breaker tax relief," Tibbitts said. "This is true tax relief. It is tax relief for those who really need it." The bill goes next to the Senate.

DENNIS WISE LEAVES ORLANDO HOSPITAL THURSDAY ... changes features to look like Elvis Presley

Fan changes appearance to look like Elvis Presley

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — His head bandaged like a mummy's, Dennis Wise bolted through reporters and photographers without a word Thursday following his discharge from the hospital where he underwent plastic surgery to make him look like Elvis Presley.

Wearing a formal looking blue suit with ruffled shirt, Wise held a large Elvis magazine in front of his face as he rushed from an elevator to waiting limousines with his manager at his side.

The manager, Danny O'Day, said Wise could not talk because his lips were sealed during a six-hour operation Tuesday at Florida Hospital, a private facility run by the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

"Get out of the way. Watch his face," O'Day shouted at onlookers at the hospital. He said Wise "can't" actually speak yet — his lips are sewn.

O'Day said the plastic surgeon, whom he refused to identify, performed an operation to change the 34-year-old Wise's cheeks, nose, lips and chin to resemble the features of the late rock star.

Wise says he plans to go on the road with an Elvis impersonation act and will use profits to establish a museum for Elvis memorabilia. O'Day said he has several contract offers for appearances by Wise from Nevada and Europe and from Wise's hometown of Joplin, Mo.

A reporter asked O'Day if he felt he was exploiting the late Presley.

"I don't think we're exploiting a dead man," O'Day said. "In all sincerity, we are trying to preserve a man and the music that just shook America, that is what we are trying to do."

"Dennis is a dedicated fan. That's a fact."

Wise left his hospital room in a wheel chair and rode the elevator to the ground floor. When the elevator opened in the main lobby, Wise and his small entourage rushed past photographers into the limousine. O'Day said they were bound for his home at Ocala where the youth will live with his manager while recovering from the operation.

The physician who originally had agreed to perform the plastic surgery backed out of the operation, which was scheduled at first for last Friday. Another doctor agreed to perform the operation Tuesday.

O'Day says that Wise bore a decided resemblance to Presley even before the surgery.

He said Wise had extensive cosmetic work done on his teeth during the weekend with a dentist filling down some teeth and putting in "some kind of compound" to make the teeth resemble a photograph of Presley's teeth.

Giveaway probed

HOUSTON (UPI) — An unidentified man with a mustache drove a truck through a neighborhood Thursday slipping $50 and $100 bills in residential mailboxes, police said.

However, a small boy following behind collected as much as $1,500 of the estimated $2,000 to $2,500 the man handed out, officer A.J. Mark said. The man had not been found. The boy's name was withheld.

Mark said none of the bills' serial numbers was on the stolen list.

One neighborhood resident, Modest Ehrhardiger, said he found $50 in her mailbox and called police to be sure it was all legal before spending it on groceries.

"I didn't want to go to the store and find it wasn't any good and get myself in trouble," she said. "I've spent it ... on bread, soap, different things ... and some meat."

Kniewel undergoes medical tests

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Stuntman Evel Kniewel, serving a six-month sentence for beating his former publicity agent with a baseball bat, Thursday was reported undergoing tests for pains he is suffering from an old motorcycle injury.

The stuntman was transferred back to the county jail from the Wayside Honor Ranch near Castaic, where he was sent last month after being stripped of his work furlough privileges.

Sheriff's deputies said he was transferred from the ranch, where he did work as a gardener, last Tuesday and was undergoing a physical examination. Kniewel may be taken to County-USC Medical Center for further treatment if necessary, deputies said.

Kniewel has served 10 weeks of his six-month sentence for beating television executive Shelly Saltman, 46, with the bat because of an unfavorable book Saltman wrote about the stuntman.

Kniewel had been allowed to take part in a work release program — spending only his nights and weekends behind bars — but was stripped of the program last month.

Jack Ford buys into newspaper

DEL MAR, Calif. (UPI) — Jack Ford, 25, son of former President Gerald Ford, has bought a half-interest in the weekly Del Mar News-Press, his new co-owner, George Gorton, said Thursday.

Ford, now living in Los Angeles and working as an associate publisher of Outside magazine, bought his interest from Ira Resnick for an undisclosed price, Gorton said.

He said Ford would remain in his capacity at Outside, which is published by Straight Arrow Publishers, Inc. which also publishes Rolling Stone magazine, but would take an active role in the Del Mar publication.

"He should become involved in every issue," Gorton said. "He'll probably be writing editorials or columns or maybe both. We're going to be seeing a lot of him."

He said he and Ford had been personal friends for a long time and Ford had long wanted to become involved with a newspaper.

Swallows head north

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif.—They're on their way home again—but they've got a long way to go from their winter vacation. They, of course, are the swallows immortalized in song and tradition. Legend has it that the swallows always return to the eaves of San Juan Capistrano Mission every March 19, and Bill Smith, who keeps track of such things, says they have missed only once—in 1935 when the birds were delayed three days by a storm.

Pipe bomb slaying conviction upheld

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — The state Supreme Court today unanimously upheld the first degree murder conviction of Ricky Anthony Young who was convicted in connection with the pipe bomb slaying of Benton Franklin County Superior Court Judge James J. Lawless.

Lawless died June 3, 1974, when a bomb exploded in his chambers. Young was arrested two months later and charged with murder. His first trial resulted in a hung jury and a second trial ended with first degree murder conviction.

Justice Robert Brachtenbach, who wrote for the court, said Young "had a fair trial. In fact, it was fair trials, presided over by experienced and able judges."

"One jury could not agree upon guilt. A second jury, with additional evidence, convicted the defendant. We find no error," Brachtenbach said.

In upholding the conviction, the high court discounted arguments that Young was denied a speedy trial and should not have been convicted on evidence presented to the jury.

A key bit of evidence was Young's thumbprint on a letter inside the mailing wrapper of the pipe bomb sent to Judge Lawless and Young's statement to his wife that "they found my print in the bomb". The statement was shouted by Young as he was being escorted to a court hearing in Yakima.

Brachtenbach said that because a federal charge was pending against Young and preliminary matters had to be taken care of, Young was not denied a speedy trial at the state level. The federal charge involved mailing of an explosive.

The high court said the fingerprint alone was not the only evidence against Young. Brachtenbach said there was direct evidence of a motive and other incriminating facts and admissions.

The motive involved the fact that Young was scheduled to appear before Judge Lawless for a revocation hearing involving prison sentences. Lawless had previously suspended.

School holds open house

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Adventist school will host an open house from 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the school, 238 Falls Ave. W. "Purpose of the open house is to acquaint parents and the community with the teaching philosophy, subjects and textbooks as well as the needs of our school," stated Mrs. Jean Leake, principal of the school. "Plans are now being laid for a new school building here in Magic Valley," Mrs. Leake continued. "Our present facility on Falls Ave. W. was built in 1954 and is in desperate need of renovation and expansion to meet current federal standards and our rapidly growing enrollment." "We hired another teacher this year and added a ninth grade, but we cannot continue in our present facility very much longer," concluded Mrs. Leake. "The Seventh-day Adventist education operates 4,294 schools and higher education institutions around the globe. Thirteen of the colleges and universities are here in North America. In Idaho the Adventist church supports a secondary boarding academy in Caldwell and numerous elementary schools throughout the state. Seventh-day Adventist schools are open to all young people regardless of church affiliation."

MV Presbyterians refute gay pastors

TWIN FALLS — Pastors of United Presbyterian congregations around the Magic Valley have been busy the last few days explaining to their members the contents of a report they have received from the Task Force to Study Homosexuality, a group set up by the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian church two years ago. Both the Twin Falls and Wendell Presbyterian churches have gone on record as opposing the ordination of self-affirming homosexuals to the gospel ministry, and have communicated their action to the Task Force. To seek understanding on the subject of "homosexuality," the Presbytery of Kendall will be conducting a symposium in the Magic Valley area in the near future, where various aspects of the problem will be discussed. Three years ago the Presbytery of New York's Candidates Committee found itself in the position of receiving a request by a self-affirming homosexual to be ordained to the Presbyterian ministry. They, in that cosmopolitan setting, didn't know what action to take since the denomination's Book of Order didn't prohibit the ordaining of a person on the basis of their sexual preferences. Not wanting to make a decision themselves, they appealed to the Presbytery as a whole for guidance. The Presbytery, likewise, was in conflict over the decision, so they appealed to the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian church. Two years ago the General Assembly organized a Task Force to study the whole question of homosexuality. Two weeks ago the Task Force released its recommendation to the news media. The Task Force will be asking the General Assembly meeting in San Diego May 16—to reaffirm the authority of Presbyteries to ordain those people it deems fit for the gospel ministry. Their recommendation says in part, "The Presbytery must judge the academic attainment, moral probity, biblical and theological understanding, and personal commitment and faith of that particular individual. Any attempt by the General Assembly to pre-empt that intensely individual decision in general and in advance, would violate the power and responsibility of the Presbytery and challenge the working of the Holy Spirit." In summary the constitution of the United Presbyterian church provides that no congregation need call and no Presbytery need ordain a self-affirming, practicing homosexual candidate against its conscientious reading of scripture and understanding of theology. There is also a minority report which concurs with most of the majority report except that it recommends that the General Assembly "exercise its judicatory role as the highest judicatory of the church, and determine a definitive interpretation of the constitution which specifies that self-practicing homosexual persons may not be ordained to the professional ministry, or to the office of ruling elder and deacon." These are only recommendations and may be denied or affirmed by the General Assembly at its May meeting. Commissioners from this area who will be voting at the assembly on this issue will be Elder Bill Lanting, the vice moderator of Kendall Presbytery and a member of the United Presbyterian church and the Rev. Curtis Pace, the pastor of the Big Wood Presbyterian church in Ketchum.

Students perform

Hinckley to preside at local conference

TWIN FALLS — Elder G.B. Hinckley, a member of the Council of the "Twelve Apostles of the Church" of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, will preside at the stake quarterly conference of the Twin Falls conference of the church. Sessions will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday and 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday. Stake president David L. Carter will conduct the three sessions which will convene at the stake center, 421 Maurice St. N. All adult members are invited to attend the Saturday evening meeting. All members, their families and guests are encouraged to attend the Sunday meetings. The public is invited to join in worship and to receive instruction from Elder Hinckley, a member of the church's highest governing body. Elder Hinckley was born in Salt Lake City June 23, 1916. He attended local schools and graduated from the University of Utah in 1942. He has been active in Utah community and business affairs most of his life.

Series begins

SLIM Dossey will be featured at 6 p.m. Sunday in the Community Christian Church on Grandview Drive South in Twin Falls. This program marks the beginning of a new series of features at the church. The public is invited to attend every Sunday evening at 6. The series will include evangelistic preaching, youth nights and Bible studies as well as times of sharing and discussion.

Briefs

FILER — Mrs. Bea Lehr and Mrs. Mildred Mahoney were elected co-chairmen of the Martha Circle of the Piler United Methodist Church. Mrs. Tom, p. 9. Ellenwood will serve as secretary. Mrs. V. Valley Living

DEAR ABBY: I beg you to publish this because I want to know if other readers have the same problem, and most of all what they do about it.

My husband will stop speaking to me for weeks at a time, for no reason at all. Right now he's been silent for three weeks, and it usually goes on for five. Otherwise he's the greatest guy on earth. Not perfect, but great.

I have a job, so I rarely ask him for anything. He never takes me anyplace but I'm happy at home. He never suddenly takes a mind to clam up (about twice a year) and it gets very lonely. My nerves almost go to pieces before he talks again.

I think it's a childish habit his mother let him get away with when he was little. What do you think? Is there a cure?

LONELY

Hubby clams up

DEAR LONELY: I didn't need a calculator to figure out that your husband gives you the silent treatment for ten weeks out of 52, which is a lot of silence. He is punishing you, which is cruel and abusive. If you continue to put up with this kind of treatment you're asking for it. Insist that he get professional counseling. If he refuses, go alone. Abuse comes in a variety of forms. Silence can be as cruel as physical abuse. It's up to you to refuse to be on the receiving end.

DEAR ABBY: My roommate met a dude at a dance and she really dug him. (I'll call him "Worm.")

Worm gave my roommate a big rush, but she continued dating others because she thinks the way to keep a guy interested is to make him a little jealous. Worm also dates more than one girl at a time for the same reason.

One night when my roommate was busy, Worm asked me out and I went. He then asked me for another date, which I accepted because by this time I was beginning to really like him.

Then Worm dated my roommate again. I know she likes him, but so do I.

My question: Do you think Worm is dating my roommate again to make me jealous? Or is he dating ME to make her jealous?

And should I date him again if he asks me?

AIRES

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for advising parents to believe their children to be innocent until proven guilty. I wish I had read that years ago.

When my sons were younger they were accused by a neighbor of a serious mischief. Although my sons denied it up and down, this neighbor was sure, so I punished the boys severely by not allowing them to go to the country fair. This meant a great deal to them, since we were financially unable to offer them much else in the way of entertainment.

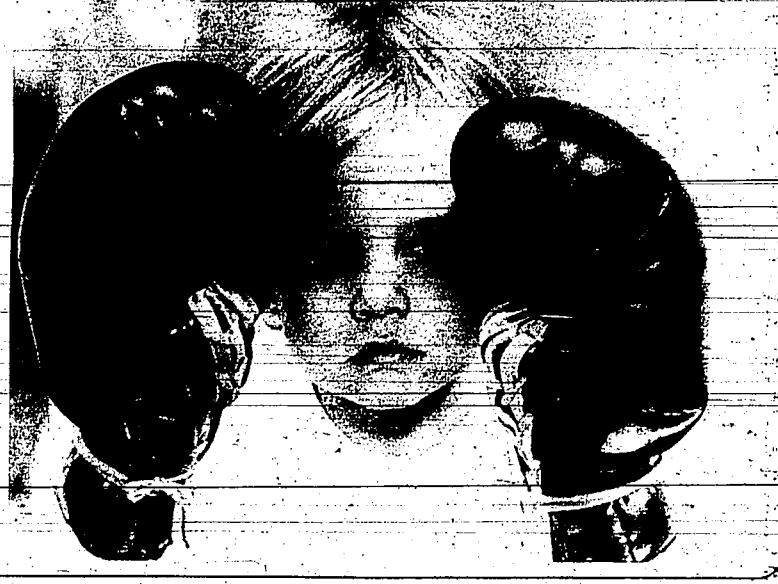

About a week after the fair, this neighbor called to say that he was "sorry" — he had made a mistake, and my boys were not the guilty parties.

It was too late to take my heartbroken boys to the fair, but you can bet, Abby, by ever since that I have believed them to be innocent until proven guilty. And I've never regretted it, either.

Bout ends in draw

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb: Before a triple bypass two months ago my resting heart rate before getting out of bed was 58 to 62. Now it is from 90 to 110.

The doctors in attendance contend there is no cause for concern. The insurance companies contend the mortality rate triples with increased pulse rates above 90 per minute.

Is it conceivable that the rerouting of the blood with the additional stress of removal of 23 inches of vein from the left leg is causing the elevated pulse rate?

Since the initial heart-attack nine years ago my weight has decreased from 193 to 162 pounds. I habitually ride a bicycle for exercise, approximately seven miles both morning and evening. But what the heck constitutes moderate exercise?

I'm delighted with the surgery. The alternative had begun to look rather dismal, anginal pain constantly, sick before I was through showering or 10 minutes on a bike, and popping pills.

Unlike patients know nothing and doctors don't talk. Perhaps you have some information I can use. There are just too many bypass patients who know nothing or very little about what has happened and what constitutes a good recovery.

DEAR Reader: There is no set rule as to what to expect after a bypass operation. As in your instance the operation is performed to reroute blood around an obstruction in an artery to the heart muscle — or in many cases, several detours for more than one plugged artery. The outcome often depends upon how much heart muscle was damaged from the clogged arteries in the first place.

The high heart rate probably does not mean that you have not yet achieved complete recovery from your surgery, as you have suggested. It takes a long time for the body to really recondition itself, even with expert help, after major surgery.

Don't be confused by those insurance statistics. They are for people who never had a bypass operation and the high heart rates tend to identify people who smoke, don't exercise, drink lots of coffee and sometimes use too much alcohol, are often fat and in general, comprise the segment of the population who are coronary prone.

I would suggest that you do the things now that you should have done before your first heart attack. Gradually increase your exercise within limits your doctors recommend. Don't push it. That is how exercise causes trouble. A lower level of exercise, regularly sustained, helps. Cut out the things that are deconditioners of the heart that work against you — coffee, cigarettes, alcohol and try to get rid of every last ounce of body fat you can.

Let me know how many patients with this disease as bad as you have experienced could do much better if they really got out of all that fat, not just part of it. A low-fat, low-calorie diet with weight reduction until there is no appreciable fat around the waist does wonders. But if you compromise and accept some fat you will not get the desired results.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 98, Your Heart Rate: What It Means. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for 150 me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TEX. 78222. Light your sail and get your weight down as much as you can — to get the best results from your surgery.

Free abortions for poor women urged

NEW YORK (UPI) — The new president of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America Thursday called for a massive drive to restore free abortion services for poor women — "sacredly destroyed in two-thirds of the states by recent federal and state actions."

Fay Wattleton, 64, a black public health nurse from Dayton, Ohio, said she also will push for new and better birth control methods and a new national strategy to cut down pregnancy among low-income women.

She said 1,000 girls 13 and under had children in a recent year. Some 326,500 teen-agers became pregnant out of wedlock in America last year.

Ms. Wattleton, who has a 2-year-old daughter, will be paid $70,000 a year and comman' a budget of $90 million. Her husband is a social worker.

She is the youngest president in Planned Parenthood's history; the first woman and the first black.

In the campaign for free abortions for poor women, Ms. Wattleton will battle the Right-to-Life crusade to wipe out abortion.

That, emotion-packed campaign is led by another black woman, Dr. Mildred Jefferson, of Boston.

At a press conference, Ms. Wattleton commented that "the struggle for reproductive choice for all Americans is far from won."

Noting that "no single organization can accomplish her agenda for Planned Parenthood," the new president said her group would be calling on many organizations and individuals to help.

Her list of future allies includes civil rights groups, women's organizations, clergy, parents groups, medical and other professional associations and "all who recognize the integral role of reproductive choice in a healthy, human life."

Ms. Wattleton, whose degree in nursing was earned at Columbia University, was selected at the Planned Parenthood National Board meeting in Kansas City Jan. 27. The position of president had been vacant for a year.

She assumes responsibility for a national headquarters staff and a network of 18 community-based affiliates in 48 states and the District of Columbia.

Last year, affiliates provided medically supervised family planning services to more than 1.1 million.

The organization employs some 3,000 staff nationwide, and is helped by more than 20,000 volunteers.

Ms. Wattleton currently serves as Executive Director of the Planned Parenthood of the Miami Valley, Dayton, Ohio.

She said her group does not seek to silence the "voiced minority" of anti-abortion groups.

"We want to create and protect a world in which all people have the opportunity, as they do, to express their opinions and pursue practices consistent with their own beliefs," she said.

transferring zodiac signs to guest towels and making a sauna out of discarded wine barrels.

"But you never do those things."

"I will someday when I'm not busy clipping magazines. Besides, you have more brass than a doorknob to make fun of me. What about all those ridiculous things you clip?"

"I never clip for myself," he said defensively. "It's always for someone else — save them for people. It's that amusing story of what Bill Carter said when they asked him about the energy bill. You never know when someone will need a warm-up story for a serious speech."

"All I know is this house is ready to walk. The stove drawer is stuffed with scraps of paper, the closets and cupboards are bulging with magazines and you are sitting on Prudden's annual report."

"So, is saving the end of the world?" asked my husband. "What possible harm could it do?"

Just then our two sons came in. "Hey, just study my Sports Illustrated from 1971." And he took my football program from 1973 and won't give it back."

We looked at one another. And another newspaper clipping, and a reformed magazine saver can marry... but they should never have children.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

You know what you get when you cross an editor, newspaper "clipper" with a reformed magazine saver?

A house that's the pits.

I don't know which is worse — a husband who sits around night after night ripping and tearing holes in the newspaper or a woman who can't bring herself to throw away the Credit Union Quarterly from Spring, 1943.

Something has to give. "I told my husband at breakfast yesterday, 'I can't turn around without falling over some pitiful little paragraph about the rainfall in Venezuela' or 'a talking dog in a bar.'"

"Where did you find that story about the dog? I've been looking for it. Besides, what about you? Is there any reason why I am sleeping with three years of Sundays?"

"I am going through these magazines someday and clipping out all the recipes."

"The curious. What do you do with all the recipes you clip?"

"I put them in a little notebook called RECIPES. Then why don't you throw the magazines away?"

"Because some of them have instructions for making a doll out of a broom for a bridal shower."

Polanski probably won't be extradited

MR. AND MRS. ARCHIE PHILIPPI

PARIS (UPI) — Fugitive film director Roman Polanski 'took refuge' in his Paris apartment Thursday and legal sources said he probably would not be extradited to the United States to face a possible prison sentence for unlawful sexual relations with a 13-year-old girl.

Friends said the 44-year-old director was "exhausted." He flew standby to London from Los Angeles Wednesday — instead of appearing for a final sentencing on his conviction — and arrived in Paris Thursday morning.

"I have no statement to make at this time to anyone," Polanski told reporters calling his Paris apartment.

He told the British Broadcasting Corp. by telephone, "I have been tortured by this for a year and that's enough."

His friends said he planned to stay in Paris for several days but that he would not attend Saturday's presentation ceremony for the 1978 César awards, the French equivalent of the Oscars.

The friends in Paris described him as "exhausted" by the 42 days of psychiatric tests he underwent at a California hospital on court order. They quoted him as saying of his hospital stay: "It was hell."

The film director, former husband of murdered actress Sharon Tate and a naturalized French citizen, "Sue" says, could face extradition from France if the United States requests it.

But court sources said the French courts probably would not find the charges against Polanski—serious, enough to extradite him.

Polanski was due in court to receive "his" final sentence, which could have been up to 50 years, when he boarded the British Airways flight to London on a standby basis. He traveled first class and under his own name.

When he failed to show up in court, Justice Laurence J. Rittenberg immediately revoked his $250,000 bail and ordered a non-bail warrant for his arrest.

Rittenberg declined to say what penalty he had decided on for Polanski, but deputy district attorney Roger Gunston said it involved a jail sentence.

Polanski had pleaded guilty to the charge of unlawful sexual relations with the unidentified girl last spring at the Beverly Hills home of actor Jack Nicholson.

Polanski, born in France of Polish parents, directed such movies as "Chinatown," "Rosemary's Baby," and "Fanny Hill in the Water."

His latest film, "The Tenant," is the official French entry at the forthcoming Cannes International Film Festival.

60th anniversary open house set

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Archie Philippi will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary at their home Sunday.

The open house at 450 Ash St., in Twin Falls will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. and is hosted by family members, Mrs. Ruth Williams, Floyd and Nelle Risewick, Superior, Neb., and their grandchildren.

Archie Philippi and Lala Risewick were married Feb. 6, 1918, at the bride's home near Lowell, Jewell County, Kan. They moved to Twin Falls in February, 1941, where they have since resided.

All friends, neighbors and relatives are invited to the open house. The couple request no gifts.

No book on bridge history would be complete without some discussion of the universally used Blackwood convention and its inventor, Easley Blackwood.

Easley didn't use his convention today, but merely opened four spades. He was playing match-point duplicate against a couple who were not too expert. Any-way, West elected to open the six of diamonds.

Easley won the trick with his nine and led the deuce of clubs. West ducked and dummy's queen won. Now Easley discarded his king of clubs on dummy's ace of hearts and was ready to attack trumps.

Committee urges okay on option tax measure ment budget has increased from $9,000 to $88,000, while the police department budget has mushroomed from $39,000 to $171,000, he said. In Ketchum, property tax is still the largest source of revenue (51 percent) for the community...

HOISE - Tourists may begin footing part of the bill for community services in Idaho's resort areas. Thursday, the House Revenue and Taxation Committee sent to the floor of the House of Representatives...

resorts, he added. Idaho currently rates "first in state tourism promotion," Pross said, even though studies indicate each dollar spent promoting tourism eventually returns nearly $90 to the state. The measure was also supported by David Hand, executive secretary for the Idaho Innkeepers and Beverage Association...

School levy repeal

Teachers back Evan's veto

By BOB ZUCKERMAN Times-News writer TWIN FALLS - Twin Falls Education Association President Al Ware expressed relief and pleasure this morning when he found out the governor had vetoed the bill to repeal the 8 mill county school levy. "We've won the first battle in the war against the bill," Ware said...

provide little tax relief to the small property owners while providing a lot of relief to big companies and big property owners. More than 100 teachers representing union locals from throughout the state visited the governor at a special 30-minute meeting in his office Thursday, according to Ware. The governor would not say then whether he would veto the bill repealing the school levy, but he suggested he might, Ware said.

state officials first and then be reappointed to "a variety of programs" not yet specified by state legislators, Ware said. It remained unclear whether schools would get the same amount, teachers told the governor, according to Ware. A coalition of groups supporting education, including teachers' and parents' groups, will still be lobbying legislators to get them to appropriate money to school districts under what is called the "12-12-10 plan," Ware noted.

GETTING into the swing of things, Tiny Grover, Flier, paints this circular sign. Grover's logo will soon appear in the sign as he prepares to open a new business at the corner of Stevens and Main Street, Flier.

today Attorney explains Jerome zone changes

Local man arrested TWIN FALLS - A 35-year-old Twin Falls man was in the county jail this morning charged with lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor child. Sheriff Paul Corder said Ruben M. Trujillo, 35, a resident of the Twin Falls labor camp, was arrested on the charge Thursday. He is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

By LARRY SWISHER Times-News writer JEROME - A proposed ordinance streamlining zoning in Jerome County and instituting conditional use permits will eliminate some unnecessary county control over what people do with their land, a local attorney says. Robert Williams, of Jerome, the attorney who drafted the ordinance, said Thursday officials "wanted to change the ordinance to eliminate unnecessary red tape and to let people do something they should probably be allowed to do without control by the commissioners and the planning and zoning board."

Precarious balance Under the plan, legislators would appropriate funds to schools, 12 per cent of the money going to pay the increasing costs of school supplies and salaries, 12 per cent going to pay the increased costs of school maintenance and 10 per cent going to pay for school capital improvements, Warsaid. Wars, who teaches at Robert Stuart Junior High School in Twin Falls, said educators hoped to gain an added $17 million for education with the "12-12-10 plan."

Facility need studied HAILEY - A group of Blaine County service agency representatives have organized into a task force to study the need and feasibility of a 10-bed nursing or retirement home in the Wood River Valley. Acting under the auspices of the Blaine County Community Services Center, the task force is planning to begin studying the feasibility of a nursing home facility in the county, according to Janet O'Crowley of the Blaine County Senior Citizen's Center.

Blaine airport panel's power curtailed By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN Times-News writer HAILEY - The Blaine County Commission and the City of Hailey recently reined in the power of the Blaine County Airport Commission. A new joint resolution between the city and county has limited the power and redefined the duty of the airport commission, Blaine County Prosecutor Maurice Ellsworth says. The resolution removes final decision-making power over Friedman Memorial Airport in Hailey from the commission and clearly bestows the power on the Blaine County Commission and the Hailey City Council, Ellsworth said.

Attorney explains Jerome zone changes However, the Jerome zone changes said the new rules do not decrease the county's ability to insure orderly growth or to protect residents from unwanted land use changes. "If the ordinance is passed," he said, "the county can put conditions on permits. Before, they could not legally." The conditional use permits are allowed under Idaho law, but the county has never instituted them.

Local firm squares off against Teamsters

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles examining the increasing role of organized labor in the Magic Valley. By BOB ZUCKERMAN Times-News writer TWIN FALLS - The battle lines have been drawn in one of the biggest management vs. union showdowns to ever hit Twin Falls. Idaho Frozen Foods Inc., a potato processing plant that is a major Magic Valley employer, has squared off against the Teamsters, the largest union in the county.

will decide by secret ballot who is the fastest gun. But already the first shots have been fired. Union organizers have held two days of meetings with employees to explain how the union can help them acquire better wages and benefits. At the second series of meetings Tuesday, more than 100 plant employees came to listen and ask questions, union officials say. In response, company officials recently sent each employee a letter describing the benefits they receive, welcoming the secret vote and urging them to vote "No."

to employees beginning July 1. They say they are always trying to keep their employees' wages and benefits in line with others in Idaho. Both sides are predicting victory in the shootout. The Teamsters, who lost a union vote at Idaho Frozen Foods in December of 1972, think they'll win this time by a narrow margin. "I'd say it's running about 60-50," Corson says. He says the union-only lost by about 40 votes in the last election and now union support is greater.

Littler fires 65 to take tourney lead

HONOLULU (UPI) — Gene Littler put together his picture-perfect swing and a rejuvenated putting touch Thursday to shoot a 7-under-par 65 and take a 1-stroke lead over California neighbor Ted Schroeder in the opening round of the $250,000 Hawaii Open.

The veteran Littler, who overcame a cancer operation to join the PGA tour's million-dollar club, took advantage of the early-morning stillness after 7:30 a.m. on his back-nine start and completed the round with a 34.

Along the way the antique auto collector from San Diego, Calif., made a pair of 40-foot putts — one helping him to an eagle-3 on the 526-yard 13th hole — two from 20 feet and another pair from 15.

"The reason for the 65 is the holing of several good long putts," Littler said. "I probably holed more long putts today than I have in six months. I missed a couple of short ones, but I can't complain."

Littler said he thought he had a shot for a 29 going into the turn but lipped a birdie-putt attempt on the par-3 17th and had to settle for a par on the next hole.

Schroeder, son of former tennis player Ted Schroeder, carded a 32-34 and pointed to the par-66 hole — 461 yards over a 200-meter gradient — as the key to his day's play.

"I probably saved a stroke and a half on that hole," Schroeder, who lives near Littleton in La Jolla, Calif., said.

"It haven't been that happy with the way I've been playing, but still I'm off to the best start I've ever had. I've just been scoring fantastically."

Two strokes behind Littler were Dave Stockton, Mark Hayes, Ed Pearce and Bob Wynn with Tom Watson, last year's leading money winner and a victor in two of the first four tournaments this year, Bobby Cole, Mike Morley and Lon Hinkle at 4-under 68.

Defending champion Bruce Lietzke shared the 69 slot with Don Iverson, Larry Ziegler, Ed Snead, Howard Twitty, Hale Irwin and Hubert Green.

The opening round scores were reflected in the morning and afternoon play. The early starters, particularly those who started on the back nine, had 29 or better. The late starters were hampered by a stiff, unseasonable breeze.

DEFENDING CHAMPION Perry Hicks practices parachuting above Elkhorn Village in preparation for the Cuervo national para-ski championships March 14-15. She hopes to win the competition — which consists of accuracy parachuting and slalom skiing.

Tomjanovich declines comment Breezing through practice on Washington's reinstatement

HOUSTON (UPI) — Rudy Tomjanovich politely asks not to be quoted about the reinstatement of Kermit Washington to the Boston Celtics — he's the only Houston player holding back his opinion.

"The Rockets' feelings about the incident," Tomjanovich says, "are not one sided. Center Kevin Runnett, for one, feels that Washington has suffered enough because of a $10,000 fine and a 60-day suspension without pay.

"I think it's been long enough," he said. "No one really knows if he really meant to hurt Rudy or not. If he did, he will have to suffer with himself for the rest of his life."

Rockets guard John Lucas said his thoughts were not clear.

"Kermit, I know him and like him personally. But Rudy is my teammate and I love him."

Washington, then a Los Angeles-Lakers player, caught Tomjanovich with a blindside fist the night of Dec. 20. Tomjanovich Wednesday had the wiring removed from his broken jaw, but even though he could talk clearly for the first time in two months he declined to discuss the case.

Tomjanovich has a damage suit pending against Washington. The amount of the damages sought is not specified.

"I have nothing to say at this time," he said. "Several Houston players said shortly after the incident that they expected Washington to be benched as long as Tomjanovich was. Dwight Jones said he still feels that way.

"That wrecked our season," Jones said.

Mike Newlin said he could not forgive and forget.

"Criminals have no rights and Kermit Washington is a criminal," said Newlin. He said he would have retaliated if Washington had hit him.

Newlin continued, "It's a perfect example of time eroding memory. It's a memory to everybody except Rudy and us. It's absurd. It's a sad commentary on our society."

The decision by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien Wednesday to reinstate Washington has given Rockets officials an immediate problem.

The Celtics play in Houston Feb. 24.

"I'm not worried about it," Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke said. "But I probably will be the day before the game."

League and Rockets officials added 25 policemen to the security at the Summit when the Lakers — without Washington — came to town shortly after the incident. There was no violence.

Rockets President and General Manager Ray Patterson said he will continue to seek some compensation from the league for the loss of Tomjanovich, a four-time All-Star game performer.

Cardinals explain to irate fans why Dobler was traded

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Joe Sullivan, director of operations for the St. Louis Cardinals, says All-Pro guard Conrad Dobler was the price he had to pay to get a high caliber defensive end.

"I trade Conrad Dobler, and all of a sudden the turn turns upside down," Sullivan said.

"Before that," they said "we should do anything for a nose taster. I make the trade and they say what did you do that for?"

Dobler, an All-Pro offensive guard, and wide receiver Ike Harris were sent to the New Orleans Saints Tuesday in return for defensive end Bob Pollard and guard Terry Steve.

"I've heard some criticism about my comparing Bob Pollard to L.C. Greenwood, Jack Youngblood, Fred Dryer and other top defensive ends," Sullivan told a meeting of the St. Louis Rotary Club Thursday. "We belonged to a scouting combine, and I looked up Pollard's scouting report."

"The scouts put him in that class," and after I watched his films, I put him in that class, too. Maybe he won't be there — mistakes have been made before — but we put him there."

Pollard, 6-foot-3 and 251 pounds said he agrees with the comparisons.

"I always thought I was as good as those players," said Pollard, who played seven seasons for New Orleans and was the Saints' defensive captain. "I always thought that I was Pro Bowl caliber, but I contributed to a team that wasn't doing too well."

replaced with less money and by better talent," Sullivan said. "It is a business judgment that Kenny Reeves cannot help us as much as it would cost us to have him back."

Sullivan also was asked whether the Cardinals have a coach ready to replace Don Coryell, who has a contract with the club through the 1980 season but has said he will not be back.

"We have a coach," said Sullivan, adding that he thought there was "a 100 percent chance" that Coryell would be back if he does not accept an offer to coach another NFL team.

Curry set to avenge disputed decision defeat to Benitez

NEW YORK (UPI) — A confident Bruce Curry is coming for his revenge Friday night when he meets Wilfredo Benitez in a 10-round return at Madison Square Garden.

Curry is the Los Angeles-welterweight who pounded Benitez into near-insensibility in a Nov. 18 fight at the Garden.

Unfortunately for Curry, that wasn't enough to win the fight. Judges Smith and Carol Castellano gave the fight to Benitez, a decision that made no one happy except Wilfredo Benitez and his adherents.

Jesse Reid, Curry's manager, filed an official protest with Commissioner Floyd Patterson. The decision stood, but a subsequent review of the fight film, staged in secret by Patterson, produced an overwhelming affirmation of Curry's performance.

Referee Arthur Mercante was the only referee who gave the decision to Curry the night of the fight.

"We have been talking to people, trying to get an idea who are the competent officials around here," said Reid, reflecting his anxiety over the scoring should his man once again prevail in the hearts of the fans.

Curry has since muddled the revenge motif with an extraordinary excursion to Japan 10 days ago where he fought and defeated an unknown in two rounds. Whether he did it in cocky disdain for critics or reluctantly to fulfill a commitment is not clear.

What is clear, however, is what he did to Benitez Nov. 18. In the fourth round, Curry floored Benitez twice, almost knocking him from the ring on one occasion. He added another knockdown in the fifth round.

Benitez has abandoned his native Puerto Rico in favor of a Mexico City training site for the return. This departure from his usual routine indicates a healthier respect for Curry.

In the co-feature, Vito Antuofermo of Brooklyn, New York, will meet Philadelphia's Benjie Briscoe.

The card will include two six-round bouts and two fours, with the first one scheduled for 8 p.m.

The Antuofermo-Briscoe winner will supply a title opponent for world middleweight champion Rodrigo Valdes, according to Teddy Brenner, Garden boxing president.

Briscoe has lost three chances at the title: two of them to Valdes and one to Carlos Monzon, before the champion from Argentina retired the title. Valdes beat Briscoe for possession of the crown.

Gil Clancy, Valdes' manager, has promised Antuofermo a shot at a V-belt crown, but said nothing about another title chance for Briscoe.

Porsches dominate starting line in Daytona endurance test

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A gang of Porsches and a lone BMW muscled their way into the top 10 starting positions for this weekend's 24 hours of Daytona auto endurance race.

Danny Ongals, who earlier in the week set an unofficial track record, qualified fastest in the six Thursday in the pole position in his turbocharged Porsche 935, co-driven by Ted Field and MIH Miller.

Ongals turned a lap on the 3.84-mile course at Daytona International Speedway in 2:00.152, good for 115.054 miles an hour, considerably slower than his 1:29 mph performance on a dry-track Monday.

"I think this had been a dry day, we probably would have been every bit as quick as Monday, maybe quicker," Ongals said Thursday.

Ongals is former race car star. He has 114 wins in 114 races.

Mesa, Calif., said he expects his competition in the endurance race, which begins at 4:30 p.m. EST, Saturday, from similar turbo-charged Porsches, which took nine of the top 10 starting positions.

"The rest of the 84-car field — largest ever for the race — will qualify today."

"I do think Ferrari has anything here that can run with us," Ongals said, adding that the factory-backed BMW driven by Ronnie Peterson and David Hobbs of Great Britain was the only car beside the Porsches he expected to be a factor.

Peterson and Hobbs qualified third with a speed of 114.68 mph.

The second starting slot was nailed down by German Bob Wollek and Frenchman, Henry Pescarolo in their turbo Porsches with a speed of 114.818 mph.

Portland surprises USF in 101-87 upset

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Darwin Cook poured in 41 points Thursday night to lead the University of Portland to a 101-87 upset victory over 11th-ranked San Francisco.

Cook, a 6-foot-3 sophomore guard, hit 17 of 21 shots from the field and 7 of 8 free throws to miss the school individual game record by one point.

George McCullough, a sophomore senior, hit a career-high 19 points and Leonard Williams added 14 for Portland.

The victory for Portland was its first over a nationally ranked opponent in 10 years. The Dons now are 15-5 on the season.

Oilers try for Campbell

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Oilers coach Bum Phillips said his chances of obtaining Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell appear slim, but Campbell's agent says that isn't what Phillips is after.

"Tampa Bay would only be interested in one of our quarterbacks (Dan Pastorini), and we wouldn't give him up," said Phillips, trying to out of speculation.

"Bum Phillips came up to me on the plane, introduced himself and we got talking," Trope said. "He said that no matter what offer anyone makes to Tampa Bay, 'come to me and I'll make a better one.'"

Tampa Bay has the No. 1 selection in this spring's pro draft of college talent. Trope named Houston, Dallas, Los Angeles and Oakland as teams showing interest in obtaining Tampa Bay's top draft choice.

"It's dumb even to make the Blues an offer. The first one to make an offer gets passed up," he has said.

Trope, however, said Phillips told him the Oilers would be willing to offer Tampa Bay any combination of draft picks or players other than Pastorini for the right to sign Campbell.

Pastorini, a seven-year veteran, is assigned to a 1978 contract with Houston. He is a free agent and is presently negotiating with the Oilers.

Trope predicted Campbell's first pro contract will be more lucrative than those offered Dallas' Tony Dorsett or Tampa Bay's Bill, both of whom Trope represented.

Phillips said no Tampa Bay official has approached him about trading for the top draft choice.

Fouts signs contract

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Chargers and quarterback Dan Fouts, who boycotted the club for 125 days last season because of a salary dispute, announced an agreement Thursday on a new contract.

The amount of Fouts' new five-year agreement was not disclosed, but his agent, Howard Slusher, said the contract was one of the best for an NFL quarterback.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, FEB. 4, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Small advantages come to you today but you can add to a more secure structure to your security. Try to do those things that will give you a better public image in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle civic affairs now that can bring you greater security in the future. Take no chances where your health is concerned.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your financial situation and make plans to have greater abundance in the future. Express happiness with loved one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to please your mate more and show common courtesies that will be appreciated. Be happy with your mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Check your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Take the health treatments you need. Relax at home tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Put a special skill you have to work and make a fine impression on others. Later express happiness with good friends at fun places.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle routine duties at home that need to be done so that later you can be with congenials. Avoid one who wants to waste your time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get an early start on all that shopping and other duties that are important to your welfare. Strive for more harmony at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study your financial affairs so you can handle them more intelligently than in the past. Use good practical sense.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are thinking clearly now and can accomplish a great deal. Come to a better understanding with your mate.

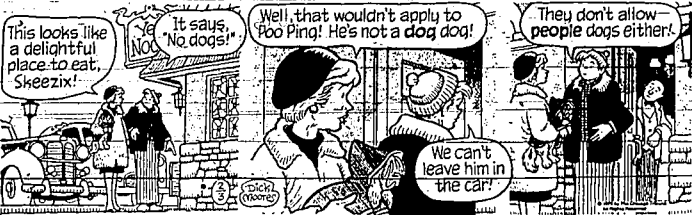

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Personal affairs can be handled well today, provided you study all the details. Come to the aid of a close tie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Spend some time in solitude and plan how to gain personal aims. Spend more time with mate and achieve greater harmony.

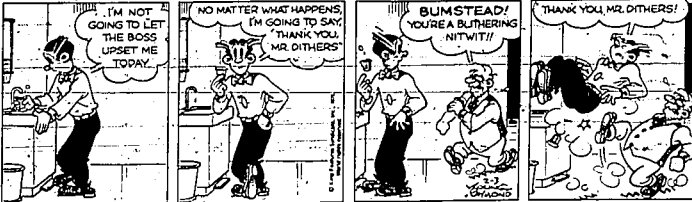

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Show that you are most devoted to your friends and take steps to be helpful to them. The evening is fine for sociability.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will want to feel secure from earliest youth so be sure to give the most practical kind of education that will insure this. Sports are a must in this chart.
