

HIGHWAY CHUCKHOLES CAN BE HAZARDOUS TO YOUR HEALTH—... this year the holes are exceptionally large and plentiful on Idaho highways

Fighting chuckhole war

By LORAYNE O. SMITH

Times-News writer
MAGIC VALLEY — This is the time of year when highway maintenance crews fight a valiant battle against the perennial problem of spring breakup, commonly known as chuckholes. This winter has been particularly bad because of the excessive moisture and mild weather which has caused repeated freezing and thawing. "As most drivers know, it is not the cold weather that creates the bumps and resulting holes, but the alternating temperatures that put and then keep the asphalt in an unstable condition. "It is better for roads if there is continued cold, or if it gets warm and stays warm." In the official opinion of Howard Johnson, Shoshone, district highway engineer.

Motorists probably each have some section of road they could nominate for the worst chuckholes this spring. "Some believe the road to Magic Mountain could take the prize. District officials at the Shoshone office of the Idaho Department of Highways say sections of the highway from Fairfield to Carey are the worst under their jurisdiction. This route, formerly Highway 68, recently was redesignated as U.S. 20. Overall, the 950 some miles of roads within the Shoshone district are "in pretty good shape," Johnson said. Maintenance crews are all working in their own areas, but concentrating in the Fairfield and Carey area, he said. Another section plagued by the combination of warm days and freezing nights is Interstate 80 in Jerome County. Johnson said the problem there resulted from a portion thawing above a frozen sub-base. "The water can't drain so you have a floating condition," he said. That section of I-80 was sealed last year. Officials at the Twin Falls Highway District said they have three men out patching roads somewhere every day, but they have found it is dry and good to use a hot mix unless it is dry and warm, a condition hard to maintain with the moisture recorded so far this year. A spokesman for the Twin Falls District said there had not been as many hard freezes here this winter and, in general, conditions were not as bad as they had been in some other years.

Mine workers voting against contract again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Early returns from coalfield union polls indicated today many miners were prepared to continue their 109-day strike rather than accept the latest contract proposal with the soft coal industry. Although only a trickle of the union's 160,000 miners had completed voting by midday, most of those early voters were opposing the pact. "I can't figure it out," said Local 1447 President Donald Buff of Powhatan Point, Ohio, whose members rejected it. "I guess the men are just fed up." A few locals opposed to the pact set up balloting soon after midnight in an attempt to sway fellow miners. Elsewhere in Kentucky, voting was reported moderate to heavy, and Tom Workers leadership to prevent a "steamroller" effect against the proposal that some felt occurred in the previous proposal rejected by 70 percent of the voters. The UMW headquarters in Washington did not plan to open its press vote tabulation center until 3 p.m. Results from a majority of the 719 locals were not expected until tonight. Some locals, however, completed voting early and phoned results to reporters. Mason Caudill, president of Local 1569, the largest in eastern Kentucky's District 19, said his members rejected the contract 276-33. Elsewhere in Kentucky, voting was reported moderate to heavy, and Tom Gaston, president of District 23 in western Kentucky predicted it would pass there. Two locals in Ohio, both in Powhatan Point, voted early and both rejected the contract, but a third local favored the contract. The total for all three was 338-153 against the contract. In Pennsylvania, however, all 15 members of Local 702 "in Indiana voted" for ratification, but there were reports it was being turned down elsewhere. The first Virginia local to be tallied, Local 1965 near Dante, voted the contract down 36-9. The voting came amid reports of an easing energy crunch and increased economic hardship on miners' families.

New Hampshire flags ordered all the way up

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court told Gov. Meldrim Thomson today he could not lower the U.S. and New Hampshire flags in observance of Good Friday. Flags at state buildings in the capital city were up and down like 30 years before the 5-4 in the capital city were up and down in the morning. When state buildings opened for business about 8 a.m., flags were raised to full staff and then immediately lowered to half staff. At midmorning the flags were rushed back to the top of the flagpoles when the governor's office received word Supreme Court Justice William Brennan had issued a temporary stay of a lower court order and was taking the matter to the full court. Brennan and later the full court acted on an 11th hour appeal by the New Hampshire Civil Liberties Union and five state religious leaders, who brought suit Monday in U.S. District Court in Concord. The federal court said Wednesday Thomson could lower the flags for non-religious reasons. Thomson said he would go back into U.S. District Court in Boston to seek permission to lower flags on state buildings for non-religious reasons. He said if he received a favorable decision before sunset, the flags would be lowered to half staff again today. He said if a favorable decision came after sunset, the flags would be lowered on Saturday. The 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston said late Thursday Thomson could lower the flags because the religious leaders made their complaint too late. A lawyer for the NHCLU immediately flew to Washington to ask the nation's highest court to intervene on grounds the constitutional separation of church and state was being violated. Thomson's order lowering the flags said the action was taken "to memorialize the death of Christ on the Cross on the first Good Friday." The governor originally planned to lower flags atop the Statehouse himself but did not reach town until after Brennan had issued his stay.

Begin returning to a troubled Israel

TEL-AVIV—(UPI)—Prime Minister Menachem Begin returned Friday from his "difficult" talks with President Carter and ran into a growing Israeli leadership crisis and reports of an American-inspired "dump Begin" movement. Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, a member of Begin's Likud Party, called publicly for a government of national unity committed to peace, one that would include the opposition Labor Party. But the Jerusalem Post said in a front page story Friday that Labor intends to call for Begin's resignation and push for a no-confidence vote in parliament over his handling of Middle East peace moves. Weizman, a member of Begin's Likud Party, recently threatened to resign because of disagreement with Begin over Israeli settlements in occupied territory. But he indicated Begin should continue as head of government in a new coalition. Nevertheless, the timing of Weizman's move led to speculation he was heading a movement to oust the 64-year-old Begin. The 55-year-old defense minister is a former air force commander who received praise from the Carter administration when he went to Washington earlier this month. Weizman told the newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth that a leadership crisis faced Israel similar to the one that existed before the 1967 Middle East War when the government then Prime Minister, Levy Eshkol, reacted with confusion to the Egyptian buildup in the Sinai. It stemmed from the new crisis in U.S.-Israeli relations arising from the failure of Begin and Carter to settle their differences. In Washington, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance denied reports circulating in Israel that the United States has abandoned any chance of coming to an agreement with Begin and is hoping for a change in leadership. "That is totally false," Vance said. "It would be totally improper for us to interfere in internal Israeli matters. We will not do it and we have not done it."

Death of reading

Harper's magazine publisher predicts television will kill the printed word

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The publisher of Harper's magazine believes that in the next 30 to 40 years so many Americans will rely so heavily on television that reading will become a lost art in a post-literate society. In a lecture at the Midwest Research Institute Thursday, James A. Alcott said sight and sound are moving American society away from reading and into an era where the printed word is less and less important. "By the year 2010, the United States will be well on its way to becoming a post-literate society," he said. "The written word is no longer pre-eminent as a shaper of thought. It has been usurped by electronics." Alcott said television is the leading cause of the national decline in reading skill. He said even the most successful books today gain much of their popularity from television or movie tie-ins, citing such best-sellers as "Jaws" and "Roots." "Reading preferences are influenced more and more by television," he told an audience of business leaders and researchers. That influence reaches out even to how magazines look today, he said. With Time Incorporated's media conglomerate as an example, Alcott said television is responsible for the success of Sports Illustrated magazine and Time magazine now carries as many pictures as Life magazine once did. He said the highly popular People magazine "found a success formula based on the old Life magazine but without the quality of either Life's text or Life's photos." Alcott said magazines succeed today because they appeal to the eye, rather than the mind. "The best-selling magazines today are not meant to be read at all," he said. He reserved his strongest statements for television. "Television started as an educational medium," he said. "It is now perceived as an entertainment medium, but it actually is an advertising medium." Television impact on politics is particularly significant, he said. "The polster has become the key element in a political campaign, followed by the public relations people in advertising." Even Alcott's own publication, Harper's, has responded to the new mood, he said, although the magazine retains its traditional reliance on writing rather than visual effects. He said Harper's now seeks writers with a point of view and are willing to take a position on issues.

Washington adopts English as its language

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Plain English spoken here. President Carter Thursday signed an executive order decreeing that federal regulations be made "as simple and clear as possible" and accomplish their purpose "with a minimum of paperwork and red tape." "I will be personally involved in making sure it is carried out," the president said in a ceremony in the Roosevelt Room. "It will make my job easier and everyone else's easier," he said, if every such document is "written in plain English and is understandable to those who must comply with it." "Everyone will benefit, except the people who sell typewriter ribbons." Carter told a group of agency directors, an order to reorganize the nation's intelligence community reached his desk but it was so full of bureaucratic jargon "I didn't understand it." He had it rewritten. Under the executive order, agency heads must personally approve all major regulations before publication.

Task force recommends national urban policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's Cabinet-level task force has recommended a national urban policy calling for "a close partnership" between federal, state and local governments plus widespread funding of urban development programs.

Carter, who Monday makes public his long-awaited urban policy, is expected to stress changes in federal aid for transportation, water and sewer programs to discourage runaway urban "sprawl," according to a third draft of his proposed policy made available to UPI.

Cabinet members are being "briefed" on strategies laid out in the plan drafted during months of tug-and-pull involving Housing and Urban Development Secretary Patricia Harris; Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano and Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps.

Spending options to implement the plan are still secret and being reviewed at the White House. The idea of direct funding of neighborhood groups is among the most innovative and controversial of the proposals.

Carter, who has appointed a national Commission on Urban Problems, is understood to strongly support direct involvement of neighborhood residents.

"Residents of a given neighborhood already have the motivation to improve living conditions in their communities," said the policy draft.

Neighborhood residents, it says, have closer ties to some of the problems and often best able to judge what solutions will be most effective. No urban policy can succeed if it ignores the views of neighborhood and voluntary groups and if it does not secure their continuous involvement.

In the past, community groups have been a thorn in the side of local and state government officials and the National League of Cities has opposed the proposal.

Sen. High may seek pro tem post

TWIN FALLS — Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, said today he may seek to become Senate pro tem if re-elected this year.

High, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee for 10 years, said he has discussed the matter with Senate Majority Leader James Risch, R-Boise, who would be the next in line for the position should he want it.

The senate pro tem is the second presiding officer in the Senate under the lieutenant governor. He is also head of the majority party in the senate.

High said he would not decide to seek the position until he had discussed the matter with Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, and Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, who High said he would support if either sought the position.

High said he was interested in the job because it would mean he would be more directly involved in coordinating legislative action among Senate, House and governor's offices.

Mr. Twin Falls Businessman, are you interested in attending a Seminar that will improve your Personnel Management?

Well, stay right where you are...

We Deliver.

Several months ago, Citizens National Bank of Boise introduced to the Boise businessman a series of Seminars designed to answer the questions of today's independent businessman.

The seminar/workshop provides the "HOW-TO-DO-IT" FUNDAMENTALS of managing and dealing with people. It provides techniques for job design, hiring people, training, measuring and rewarding performance, controlling compensation, motivating key employees, and controlling turnover.

And judging from the hundreds of responses we've received, it was a fantastic success.

"I've found that these Seminars unquestionably provide the type of needed service that can be of the greatest value to any businessman, in any business," added Mike Goffin, owner of Mike's Americana furniture store.

Now the men and women of Citizens, together with industrial psychologist and management consultant Dr. David Robinson, are bringing this Personnel Management Seminar to Twin Falls.

Coming April 4th and 5th, this Seminar will be made available to Twin Falls businessmen at a cost of $95.00 per person. The Seminar will be held at the Holiday Inn Convention Center.

Because of the huge success of these Seminar/Workshops in the past, reservations will have to be on a first come, first serve basis.

So don't delay, send in the coupon below for more information.

And remember, whether it's in Boise or Twin Falls, if you're looking for answers to your business questions... we deliver....

Please send me more information on Citizens' Personnel Management Seminar.

Canal vote may be close

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., the opposition leader, said today there is a 50-50 chance the Senate will kill the Panama Canal treaty with the backing of a pool of about four senators who might switch earlier votes.

"We have 32 votes," Laxalt said. "We have three or four who have indicated constantly that they have strong reservations in connection with the main treaty and I think we just have to get two of those three or four."

Potential opponents, who voted for ratification of the neutrality pact but might switch on the treaty yielding control of the canal to Panama by the year 2000, were Sens. Edward Brooke, R-Mass.; Paul Hatfield, D-Mont.; Howard Cannon, D-Nev.; and John Heinz, R-Pa., Laxalt said.

"I think we have an excellent chance to get Senator Hatfield of Montana, whose constituency feels very strongly about this," Laxalt said. "Senator Brooke has very serious reservations about the main treaty which I don't think are curable."

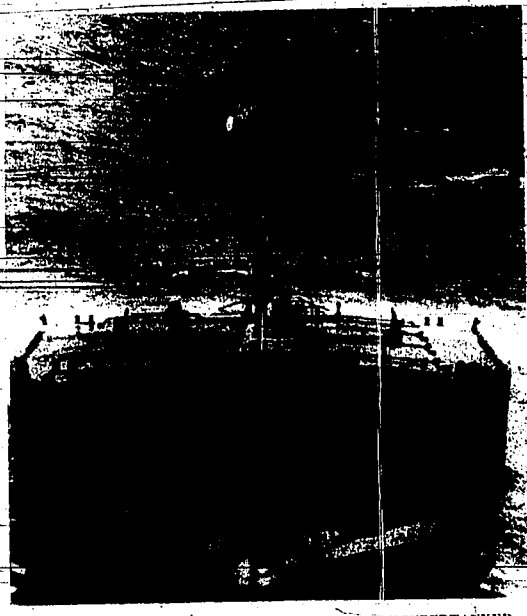

"I think Senator Cannon is a prime prospect," he added. "And I still entertain some hopes that Senator Heinz may eventually vote with us, in view of the strong statements he has made in Pennsylvania."

"I think we have a 50-50 chance of prevailing on the main treaty," Laxalt said. Laxalt's assessment came as the Senate began a 10-day Easter recess with an agreement that the final vote will come no later than April 26 and possibly sooner.

The first amendment scheduled for a vote after the recess will be one by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, who argues that both Senate and House must approve giving away U.S. territory or property.

Hatch said the Constitution "makes it clear that we have no right to transfer American property — including the president — that has to have the consent of both houses, not just ratification by the Senate."

"We're going to do some radio spots — they're not oppressive at all, they're informational spots — and we're going to attempt to enlist public opinion to indicate to senators that the constituencies feel very strongly about this second treaty and that they should vote against it," he said.

ROUGH SEAS TEAR APART THE BROKEN HULK OF SUPERTANKER ... more crude oil fouls the coast of Brittany in France

Worst oil spill worsens

BREST, France (UPI) — The grounded hulk of the supertanker Amoco Cadiz collapsed today in high winds and heavy seas off the coast of Brittany, releasing thousands of gallons of oil to add to history's worst oil spill.

The choppy seas, beating against the wreck which lay twisted on razor-sharp reefs, broke the tanker into two and forced the rear part of the vessel to turn completely on itself.

The bottom part of the hull became completely visible from the shore one mile away and the oil gushed rapidly into the coal-black sea, threatening to create a slick more than twice the size of the latest spill on oil.

Before the break, 170,000 tons of Arabian crude oil had poured into the sea and 50,000 more tons were sloshing inside the damaged holds. If all of the oil aboard the Amoco Cadiz escapes, the 220,000-ton slick would be more than twice the size of the 100,000 tons unleashed on the British coast by the 1967 Torrey Canyon disaster.

The American-owned Amoco Cadiz spill already has killed millions of birds, fish and oysters and "oozed" onto tourist beaches which provide much of the income of local residents.

A worker helping clean up 100 miles of polluted French coastline said, "Perhaps in 10 years' time it will be clean again."

"As long as there is any oil in that ship, our plan is to pump it off," Commander Francois Gillot, a French navy spokesman, told UPI Thursday.

"But under these conditions we cannot get down to work and by Easter Sunday the holds will be empty at the rate the oil is gushing off."

Workers in the tiny fishing village of Portail pumped tons of black sludge from the harbor water but said their task seemed futile.

Congress takes a look at witness protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Witness "X" was just an ordinary citizen until he stumbled onto a fraud scheme, reported the incident to the FBI and was persuaded to help get the goods on the conspirators.

He testified against the principals in the case, and the first employer who was named in the government's witness protection program.

Then the government promised a new identity, a new job, a new location — a "fresh start."

All first things went fairly well. Witness "X" and his family were relocated at government expense. But his identifying documents were mostly inadequate and couldn't really help him answer the inevitable questions of "Who are you?" and "Where did you come from?"

The U.S. marshal who helped Witness "X" find a job told his first employer, "Don't ask about his background."

Is this the way cooperating witnesses who truly make the government's case in major criminal prosecutions should be treated? Abourezk asked Benjamin Civiletti, nominated to the No. 2 post in the Justice Department.

who he was. About the same time, U.S. marshals arrived with a release form asking the man to sign away his rights to further government protection or lose a monthly stipend — his only income at that time.

He said he felt obliged to death because he had found out," said Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., Thursday during Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearings on the witness protection program.

Now the people Witness "X" testified against are about to be released from prison and will be returning to their homes very near his new location.

Witness "X" requested relocation but the marshals rejected his appeal. When he talked to the subcommittee, "he was in a very agitated state" and was "having trouble with his family," Abourezk said.

Is this the way cooperating witnesses who truly make the government's case in major criminal prosecutions should be treated? Abourezk asked Benjamin Civiletti, nominated to the No. 2 post in the Justice Department.

Civiletti replied that Witness "X" should receive the right documentation and get it fast, the marshals ought to make another attempt to get him a job. He's living in a "high danger area" where he may be threatened by those being released, he should get a good education.

"You ought to get a fresh start," he said. "You ought to be documented well," Civiletti said. "These people are entitled to one fair chance with some sympathy, good documentation and an honest chance for employment and a subsidy until you get on your feet."

At an earlier hearing, the program was criticized as failing to meet the physical security needs and relocation problems faced by the witnesses. Civiletti and others involved in the program said Thursday efforts are under way to correct the shortcomings.

Civiletti agreed with Abourezk that the marshals who provide the protection should be thoroughly trained, and more people are needed to help in both documentation and employment searches.

Bombing investigated

DENVER (UPI) — Evidence indicates the lone victim of two downtown bombing incidents, identified as a 29-year-old Mexican-American activist, had planted the explosive devices and was not an innocent bystander.

Police said Charles Carlos Zapata was identified by the county coroner Thursday as the man who was killed while crouching over a bomb in front of a VFW Post early Wednesday.

"Whenever made them knew what he was doing," said Capt. Robert Shaughnessy. "As far as I know, Zapata had no experience with explosives. While we can't rule out his being an innocent bystander, we have an overwhelming amount of evidence to indicate this was not an innocent bystander."

SENATOR FRANK CHURCH: PANAMA CANAL TODAY — GUANTANAMO TOMORROW?

PART I By William J. Halterman

These are not only the times that try our souls, they are also times which strain the intellect. It is time we recognize that the Panama Canal is not just a Panama Canal. It is a Panama Canal that is a part of our American life and the decline in our military power, indeed, there is little to be seen in American foreign policy at this time.

When the Panama Canal was old ally, Taiwan, in exchange for diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China? We then witness a "liberal" movement in the Virgin Islands — Puerto Rico? This ongoing debate then move on to the subject of $3 to $8 billion in "American aid for Vietnam? Or, will we next be asked to give up the American military presence at Guantanamo Bay?

Cuban Foreign Minister Isidoro Malmierca stated in a press conference in January, 1976, that "Cuba would back Panama militarily" if the Panamanians refused their aid. "Cuba will not let it take it, if the Panama Canal treaties are ratified, for the Panamanians are people rather their leadership, to request Cuban aid?"

This is the sense, that the U.S. could find itself in far worse shape — militarily — for having ratified the Canal treaties with Cuba and the Panamanian dictatorship in another country. Castro needs new markets as well as U.S. food and technology. Trade with Cuba would only serve to boost Castro's economic position, a boost at the very time when Castro's troops are flying MIG over the cities of Ethiopia and Soviets are flying MIG missions from Cuba for training. But training for what? It takes little intelligence to witness that the Soviets never have a monolithic plan of conquest.

That Castro wants the U.S. Out of Guantanamo Bay is no secret. In a 1977 interview with Fernando Morales, the Assistant Editor of the Brazilian newspaper, O Globo, Castro put the matter this way: "It's amusing — they demand that we remove our troops from Africa while right here in our own territory, at the Guantanamo base, thousands of American military are stationed without our consent."

The United States has spent approximately $200 billion on facilities at Guantanamo Bay. The base itself is considered one of the best, if not the best, training bases in the world. And it is the only American military base in communist territory, another considerable asset. It is a base which the Soviet Union would very much like to possess. They already have a submarine base at Cienfuegos.

The drive to get the U.S. military out of Guantanamo Bay will come in good time. We have only to listen to the Panama Canal debate to hear many of the reasons why the U.S. should give up Guantanamo Bay.

The Committee of Americans for the Canal Treaties, Inc., surrender the Canal. This is connected to the U.S. military presence at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Fidel Castro would make clear his desire that the United States leave Guantanamo Bay. The U.S. must agree on the termination of those treaties. These treaties have no expiration date, but a "sunset" provision of paper and we Americans are already being asked to countenance the surrender of the Panama Canal.

It was reported in the Diario Las Americas, a Miami based Spanish language newspaper, that the Cuban Foreign Minister had "stated his dismay" at the presence of U.S. troops at Guantanamo and the possible intervention of the U.S. Navy in the Panama Canal. "You see, the U.S. has the right to send our Navy ships through on a priority basis, but the United States may establish a military presence in the Canal zone to protect the neutrality of the Canal Zone, that the U.S. has rights in the Canal Zone."

On numerous occasions, Castro has already appeared in the media to state that he would like to see the Bay, Castro is a master of the media knowing how to select, flatter and cultivate the press. He needs to accomplish his purposes.

Of course, already he has argued that the U.S. should pull out of Guantanamo Bay because our presence there is not in our national interest, because Panama is a Latin American country with Latin America. "You don't have to be a prophet to see that"

The disarmament lobby, led by the American Friends of the Americas, McGovern, Edward Kennedy, Frank Church, Morris Udall, Paul McCloskey, and George Young, and others may be intelligent and charming people, but when it comes down to brass tacks, they are not. In the second of this series we will talk further about Castro's Cuba, the Panama Canal, and the gain control in Latin America.

reap a harvest of Cuban inspired terrorism in Latin America and aggression in Africa. Castro's very unvarnished level there appears to be a rather well organized lobby, including the press, who believe that the United States should not be the richest and most powerful country in the world. The U.S. is losing influence, we are losing territory, we are diminishing in military power, and we are losing the way on the way to becoming a super power among nations unless we change the spread of this "rotten sense."

But, no, Castro knows who to charm American politicians and business men. The Castro wants the U.S. out of Guantanamo Bay is no news and hardly a surprise. Let us wait until the conclusion of the Canal debate and see which Americans in Congress, government and elsewhere also choose giving up Guantanamo as an integral part of the "logic" for giving the Panama Canal up is that it is in Panamanian territory and our presence is offensive to Panamanian pride. If "George" and "Frank" Church can in good conscience give up the Canal, and both have already expressed their support for Castro, how are we away from the liberal onslaught to surrender moment military facilities at Guantanamo?

President Carter is correct when he states that the Canal treaties open "a new chapter in our relations with all nations of this hemisphere." The opening chapter, however, may be a book, a best-seller. I don't think we can afford to see the end of the book from which Carter draws his "new chapter."

No big irregularities in spending by Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Except for using government funds to pay $700 in parking tickets, the Federal Election Commission said today there were no significant irregularities in how the President Ford Committee spent $21 million in 1976.

The FEC released its final audit of the Ford Committee spending — more than 15 months after the 1976 presidential election. It has still not completed its audit of President Carter's campaign.

The audit showed that the committee spent $21,811,590 — just $8,409.09 short of the legal limit. All of the money came from federal funds and 1976 was the first year federal funds were used to finance a presidential campaign.

Actually, the Ford Committee ended up with a surplus of $30,472.37 because it put part of the $21 million government payment into the bank for two months and earned interest on the money.

A cloud hangs over Jerusalem's joy

By N.Y. Times Staff
JERUSALEM — For a few brief weeks, it appeared that "Easter Week" with its eternal message of hope, might really be a time of general rejoicing in Jerusalem this year, but it hasn't worked out that way.

The religious festivals go on in glorious sunshine here, but instead of the promise of peace that followed the visit of President Sadat of Egypt, there is now war in the Lebanon and more contention between Israel and the Arabs, and new controversies with the United States and the United Nations.

Instead of rejoicing, therefore, the mood of the people here now seems more depressed than usual. So long as the Arab states refused to recognize the existence of the Israeli nation, there was little to do here but unite and resist. But Sadat's offer of peace for the land of the pre-1967 borders at least started an internal debate here and introduced an element of doubt.

the Tel Aviv Road, the people rallied behind the government. But Begin's invasion of the Lebanon with bombers and artillery, with its casualties and over 150,000 refugees, scrambling into the already crowded and tragic city of Beirut — all this recorded on television — have made thoughtful people here wonder how many more Israeli "victories" like this the nation can afford.

JAMES RESTON

It may be that this quiet reappraisal of Israel's policy at home will be more important in the end than Carter's appeals to Begin in the White House, or the criticisms of Begin's policies at the United Nations. The young people here are asking what they can expect to do with their lives in a state of constant war, inflation, and compulsory military service into their fifties.

Search for Easter's genuine meaning

Easter is the time for hope, even for the people who don't follow Christian doctrines. In the past few years it seems that the Easter message has been lost somewhere among the chaos of domestic and international affairs.

The prime example of this Easter paradox can, of course, be found in the Middle East. Today Christians are going through Good Friday ceremonies in Jerusalem while a threat of stepped-up violence in the surrounding area keeps people from showing the great joy that Easter is supposed to bring.

By no means is this circumstance unique in world history, which is one reason one should think about the role religion plays in the world. Easter is probably the best time to make that assessment.

Many psychologists dismiss a person's religious faith as just so much fiction but claim that the faith itself tends to be a good morale booster.

If this is indeed religion's only, or primary, function, perhaps one should make a judgment whether this good aspect of religion is balanced out by all the blood shed in the history of man in the name of one religion or another.

Mark Twain had a favorite line about man and religion: "Man is the only animal with the true religion — several of them," usually accompanied by his observation that the churches preach love thy neighbor as thyself, "and cut his throat if his theology isn't straight."

Twain reportedly received a lot of laughs with those, and similar, lines, but how close to the truth was he? Is a lot of the world's religious bickering based only on insignificant details while the important messages of the various religions go unheeded?

The entire question of human rights, receiving new popularity with the Carter administration's pronouncements, seems to underline the basic neglect that has been shown toward the relative principle of man's relationship with his fellow man.

If there is one underlying theme to most of the religions of the world, that is it, i.e. how we get along with each other. The paradox is that this potentially unifying force gets trampled on in the crush over religious details.

Most of these religious differences seem to be based on ignorance, not only of the "other" religion, but of the person's own religion as well. Perhaps we can all gain by our own personal assessment of religion this Easter weekend, a time when many people make their only appearance in church, except for the odd wedding or funeral. The number of united sunrise services Sunday morning in the Magic Valley provides a splendid opportunity to catch a glimpse of the other fellow's religion and to realize what the common ground is.

Comparison studies of religion should be a healthy exercise although many people through the years have gone a bit too far in stressing the differences. With a general spirit of good will, however, such studies can be quite constructive to an individual's religious experience. The recent debate in the Times-News over the question of whether the Dead Sea Scrolls contradict certain parts of the Bible show that there is still great interest in these areas, and that, unless the angry words prevail over the reasonable discussion, is a good thing to see.

It would be even better if more self-directed religious assessments were made. For example, is a person's particular religion based only on a coincidence of birth strengthened by several years of childhood religious instruction? There is more religion-switching today than ever before, of course, primarily because of the wealth of communication aids we have. Also, several churches aren't as reluctant as in previous years to have members look into other religions as a means to satisfy religious curiosity and to, the churches hope, strengthen faith.

Comparative religious study is a great Easter exercise, but don't trample on your neighbor in the excitement.

Happy Easter.

Tuition tax credit

Carter's boys give bad arguments

Washington Star Staff Writer
WASHINGTON — In its panicky effort to block tuition tax credits, the Carter administration two weeks ago asked Attorney General Griffin Bell for an opinion on the issue. Last weekend the attorney general, a man who can take a broad hint, dutifully delivered: So far as they may apply to elementary and secondary education, he said, the pending bills are unconstitutional.

If the attorney general's memorandum was not wholly political, it was mightily convenient. The Justice Department, in a pinch, can call upon some very accommodating fellows. But Mr. Bell's views are at most persuasive; they are not binding, and in the matter at hand, they were not even impressive.

It is impossible to say how the Supreme Court, as it presently is constituted, would come down on the question presented under the tuition tax credit proposal. The principal bill would permit a taxpayer to obtain a credit of $250 to $500 against his income tax, by certifying that he had paid tuition for a dependent in some public or private institution. Because the bill would benefit parents who send their children to Catholic parochial schools, or to other sectarian schools, Mr. Bell says the plan is unconstitutional.

Maybe so, but you couldn't prove it by the confusing array of precedents cited in the Justice memorandum. Observers who have tracked this issue since the Everson case of 1947 will tell you that the Court has produced thirty years of inconsistency and contradiction. The trail wanders off in all directions, wherever individual justices have wanted to pursue it. Certain expenditures of public funds are acceptable; other expenditures are not. In the most recent relevant case, an Ohio case decided in June of last year, the Court split six different ways on the forms of aid that might be permissible.

All the cases in this area have been state cases, coming notably from New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Ohio and South Carolina. What the court has held, in general, is that there can be no "entanglement" of church and state. Whenever a state program operates to advance religious education, as such the program must be condemned.

This approach has led the Court to some baffling distinctions. In last year's Ohio case, for example, the justices ruled that the state could provide textbooks for the Catholic children, but it could not loan them microscopes. When Hughes said a long time ago that the Constitution is what the judges say it is, Hughes knew what he was talking about.

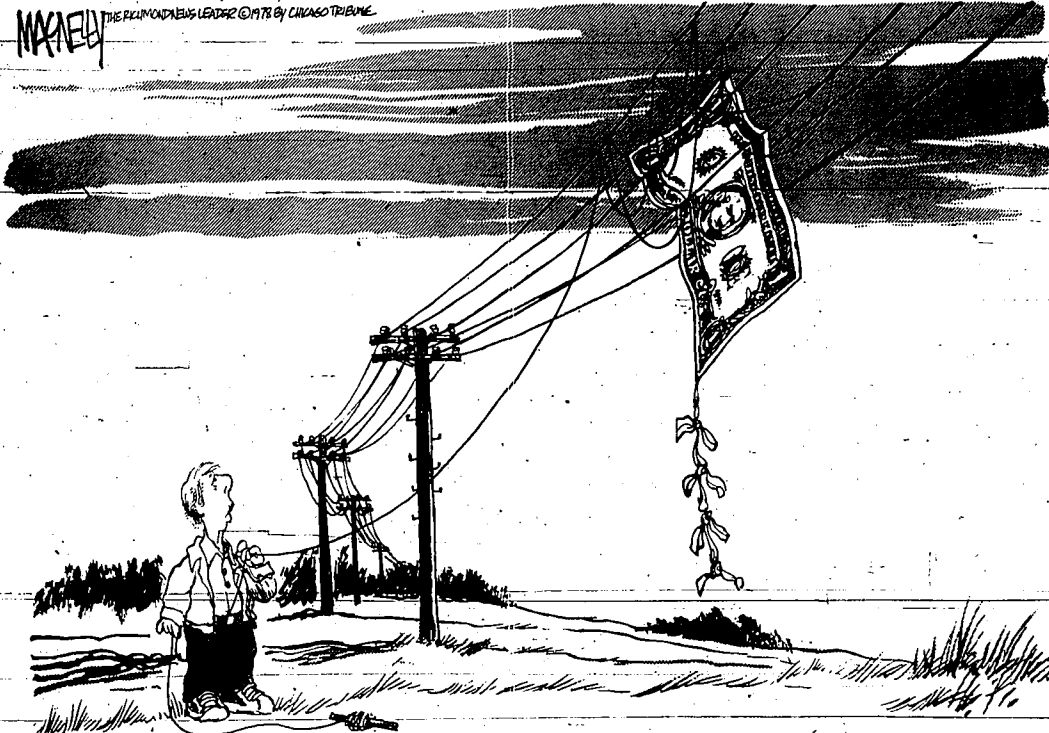

In a 1970 case, the Court tried to define what the First Amendment means. Its purpose "is to insure that no religion be sponsored or favored, none commanded, and none inhibited." In brief, the Constitution "will not tolerate either governmentally established religion or governmental interference with religion."

Viewed in this light, what about tuition tax credits? First off, this is a federal proposal, not a state one. The proposed law is rooted in the general congressional power to tax, and in the more specific power "to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived." Under this authority, the Congress has authorized deductions, by way of example, for contributions to churches and church schools. The Court has held that such deductions to churches and church schools. The Court has held that such deductions do not violate the Establishment of Religion clause.

Mr. Bell to the contrary notwithstanding, it is hard to see how a tuition tax credit would "entangle" the federal government in religious education. The Justice memorandum concedes that federal aid in the field of higher education is constitutional; veterans have been attending Catholic colleges for years under the GI Bill of Rights. A distinction between secondary and higher education would appear to be statutory, not constitutional.

Congress can do whatever Congress wants. Obviously, Congress wants to pass a tuition tax credit bill. The votes are in sight to override a Carter veto. My thought is that the House and Senate should assert their independence, approve this useful proposal, and let the issue go to court. Brennan, Marshall and Stevens would oppose it. Burger, White and Rehnquist would approve it. Blackmun, Stewart and Powell might go along. Those are pretty good odds. Pass the bill!

Daley memorial must be awesome

By MIKE ROYKO
Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — The bickering continues over what would be a suitable monument for Mayor Richard J. Daley and which artist should be entrusted with the job.

Local artists are angry because foreigners with fatter known names are being favored. Traditionalists are concerned that the monument might be some thing too arty, which the Mayor definitely wasn't.

Frankly, I'm not impressed by any of the plans I've read about. This being Chicago, and Daley having been Daley, we should have something so big, so overwhelming, so unique, so much larger than life, that it will make the whole world's eyes pop.

I have just such a proposal. The best way to explain it is to describe what it would be like to see this monument. Imagine that you are on the takedown just before dawn, with an unobstructed view of the water.

The day's first sunlight glows on the horizon. You can't see it actually happening, but those first rays of sunlight activate a sensitive electronic device, which automatically turns on huge, powerful engines. (Don't ask me what kind of electronic device or engines. The engineers will take care of all of those details. I'm only interested in the esthetic effects.)

As the dawn's faint light becomes brighter, slowly and steadily out of Lake Michigan — about two miles from shore — something huge begins to emerge from the water.

At first, you see only the tip of his head. Then the whole, round, familiar face.

It is Mayor Daley's face. His head is sticking out of the water, smiling at you.

What you are seeing is the top of a two-mile-high statue of Daley, and it is slowly rising out of the water, keeping pace with the sun.

As the sun climbs higher in the sky, the statue rises higher out of the water. Now you see the shoulders. Then the chest and arms.

Finally, when the sun is at its peak at about noon, the heroic figure is completely revealed, from head to toes, standing on a gigantic platform.

What a monument that would be! People along Michigan Avenue coming out for lunch, would be greeted by a giant Mayor Daley, smiling down at them from out in the lake.

Because the statue would be so tall, people in any neighborhood of Chicago would be able to see part of it — at least his face peeping over the roofs of distant buildings.

Letters

Women's programs commission defended

Editor, Times-News:
 Live and learn, they say. This past week I had a new experience. As a member of the Idaho Commission on Women's Programs I was given a copy of a letter sent to the governor charging the hard-working people on the commission are against "God-fearing, home and country." When? The occasion was the consideration of providing money for the commission to function which the legislature does each year. There is a body of vocal women in Idaho who believe that we are not worth our keep, as it were, and pressure their legislators to stop our efforts by not providing any whatsoever. We address problems we think worth our effort which shall tell you about and you judge if we are against God, family, home and country.

For instance, we in the Home and Society Task Force of which I am a member have been alarmed at the increasing divorce rate. This dissolution of marriage is more and more often initiated by the man involved, if one reads the courthouse reports. The cause is often said to be irreconcilable differences. To help with these tangles we compiled a pamphlet entitled: In Touch With Reality, Women and Laws in Idaho. This was done with the help of three lawyers, two men and one woman, all members of the commission plus the aid of other authorities. This gives short and simple answers to people in this kind of trouble. It is for both men and women. It is free. It is wanted so much we can't keep a supply on hand.

Another problem we address is women in prison. Our women criminals are most frequently sent to Carson City, Nev. This is so far away that their families have difficulty in visiting them and it keeps them from close touch away from these troubled people. We hope that the old TB Hospital at Gooding, already owned by the government, could be adapted to use for this purpose. But this was not to be. Somehow and somehow we must take care of this and the commission will try to help.

My personal part has been to initiate the move to get Consumer Economies in the High schools of Idaho. It is being implemented now by the State Board of Education in the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. These professionals have done a marvelous job. In my opinion, and I applaud them. Being a product of Idaho schools I know that my life held many occasions when this kind of knowledge would have benefitted me and mine. Teachers are being given instruction on this subject matter statewide and careful attention is given by their professional leaders. The Commission is very grateful.

We are making a record of a series of on-going publications of Who's Who of Idaho Women (1804-2004). Acting neither as historians nor publishers this series is considered solely as a service to citizens. The purpose is to gather biographical statistics about Idaho women, past, present and future, whose accomplishments, influence and/or career positions have achieved something of note or will have distinguished themselves for some way from the majority of other women, thus attaining a special place; in rare situation circumstances may have helped make the place for them.

The funds for our commission were passed last week by the legislature. In the Senate 26 for and eight against, and by the House, 36-33. The commission members often use money from their own pockets and give untold hours of volunteer labor. We do it because we believe that our efforts are for God, for family, for home and for country.

We issue newsletter reports on our work and anyone who wishes may get copies regularly. Our meetings are open to the public. The above listing of our concerns are but a part of what we do and we invite inquiry and suggestions. The central office is in the Statehouse and open part-time daily. We are appointed by Idaho's governor and some of us date our service back to 1965.

What of Panama drug scandal coverup?

Editor, Times-News:
 As a citizen, taxpayer and concerned American, I would like to take this opportunity to ask you and the Carter Administration, together with Sen. Frank Church, why we aren't being told about testimony at secret Senate hearings on the Panama Drug scandal?

At least 3,000,000 Americans know at least part of the story, thanks to having either read it in Liberty Lobby's "The Spotlight" newspaper or heard it on one or more of their 330 daily radio station programs. This many people can't be told to believe that this isn't another gigantic cover-up of far greater magnitude than the pip-squeak Watergate which the media worked so hard on uncovering.

People will find it hard to believe that a weekly newspaper, "The Spotlight," published at 300 Independence Ave., S.E., in Washington, D.C. is the only media with the courage to get involved in exposing this unbelievable conspiracy. Where is the "New York Times" and company?

 If everything is peachy fine with Mr. Torrijos, why are we Americans not told the full story about what is on behind closed doors in the Senate hearings?
 Is the Spotlight's story of December 5, 1977, regarding the illegal purging of sensitive Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) files correct?
 Exactly what are we in the files that were moved?
 Were certain documents incriminating to Torrijos shredded and replaced with doctored documents with the incriminating portions eliminated?
 Was this operation directed by Peter R. Bensinger, administrator of the DEA?
 Was Bensinger working under the direct orders of Attorney General Griffin Bell?
 Was Bell working under the direct orders of President Jimmy Carter and did he and Bensinger report directly to Carter?
 Who gave Jimmy Carter his orders?

 The above questions are based on facts presented in the past six months in the Spotlight newspaper. If the press and the Congress would investigate them with only a fraction of the enthusiasm that they investigated Watergate, I'm sure these facts would be established and the American people would be safe, more intelligent than they are to this point with the cover-up that exists.

How much more of our property and freedom are we willing to give up in order to please our enemies?
 If the allegations are untrue, then why should be established in an honest investigation open to the public.
 If nothing is done, then the taxpayers and voters of this country have a right to brand the regime in Washington as an illegal and criminal cabal, and the men who manage it as upstarts who are not entitled to the allegiance of any American who believes in the Constitution.

This is radical talk, but not nearly as radical as the issues involved. The truth about the DEA files must be openly aired if millions of Americans are not to suspect that the Carter administration is totally and hopelessly corrupt — indeed "that the whole American system is mortally ill."

Are we going to permit an oppressive and tyrannical regime to continue to dictate vital national policies that affect each and every one of us in open and contemptuous disregard of the principles of our heritage?
 Or are we going to refuse to tolerate it? The decision is up to each American.

U.S. confronts worldwide issues

Editor, Times-News:
 Apparently issues confronting us in the United States are worldwide in implications — the rising crime rate, the trend toward acceptance of immorality and violence, the deterioration of education, changes in the role of women, and a laxity as to living the Christian life. Much of it stems from the "humanist" approach, seemingly widely advocated.

Early this year, I received from a gracious Belgian lady, Countess Greindl, a letter I feel compelled to share with those long skeptical of the Equal Rights Amendment, who feel concern as to what is being presented in text and library books for adolescent consumption in America; who object to media presentation of so much crime and violence; who would like to see recognitions of the virtues of America and its leaders; and who would like to see the seeking of divine guidance not frowned upon.

Countess Greindl is mother of 12 and grandmother of 29. It was in her chateau at Isle-la-Hesse, Bastogne, Belgium; that our military leaders were headquartered during the famous Battle of the Bulge. Her husband, a prisoner at Buchenwald, was murdered "by Communists" on February 20, 1945, she wrote me in 1952. AFTER Stalin had marched in triumph to take Berlin. He had not at a safe distance while 70,000 American and Belgian soldiers died needlessly on that battle front in Belgium, to make the going easy for the Russians in Buchenwald, while under German control, prisoners were well treated, according to Countess Greindl. Professor Paul Rassinier of France, who had earlier been a prisoner at Buchenwald, has attested to this, documenting facts that it was AFTER the Soviets moved in that prisoners were murdered.

The closing portion of her New Year's, 1978, greeting, reads as follows:

"I have the impression that the behavior of our people here is not what people really want... Our radio and our television gave some very interesting films and speeches but also very immoral and depressive" and very often what I call "appetit" — a violence. There is also a kind of movement to take the women out of their homes... They are called to work like a man, to put their children in "naches" and family life is presented like "slavery"... an absurd lie. We are a Christian people but none of our statesmen, even if they are good Catholics, would mention God in their speech. Sadat in Egypt is not afraid to speak of that!"

Live-in lovers prove almost 'un-dumpable'

United Press International
DREAD OF THE UNWED

Live-in lovers are proving un-dumpable these days — and Nick Nolte of "Rich Man, Poor Man" may be the next to find it out. Karen Ecklund Nolte who's lived with him for five years — is suing for half his property and $5,000 a month. Her Santa Monica, Calif., lawyer is Marvin Mitchellson, who pioneered alimony for the unwed in the now-historic Lee Marvin case which has left several other stars facing suit for support of separated roommates. Says Mitchellson, in the April issue of "Viva" magazine, "I know there are many unhappy men in this town who can't go on taking advantage of women as they used to without worrying that there may be some economic fallout."

CHAD NO DAD

A second paternity suit against actor Chad Everett — star of the "Medical Center" TV series — was thrown out of court in Los Angeles Thursday. Actress Sheila Scott says Everett fathered her 4-year-old son Dale who, as an infant, she left in a basket at the MGM gate, saying he should be given to Everett. A 1973 trial ended when lawyers made a secret agreement that she be paid a settlement. The second suit was on behalf of the child, but the judge dismissed it, saying the case is settled. Everett says he's pleased that "for the second time I have been declared not the father of the child."

HOOKER FEST HOBBLED

San Diego Police Chief William Kolender doesn't think of himself as a party pooper, but the "Himself and Hooker's Ball" was just too much, especially since his own force was throwing it. The Fraternal Order of Police planned the soiree — asked cops and their wives to show up dressed as prostitutes and their panders, but they cancelled after Kolender branded it "poor taste." Says Lodge president Joe Socio, "We have to joke about some of our work or we'd lose our sanity. It's a shame we can't have some fun. If we were carpenters, nobody would care."

ALL IN THE FAMILY

Voters in Hooper, Colo., may find confusion as hard to avoid as nepotism when they go to the polls April 4 to elect municipal officials. Incumbent Donald Chrisman is opposed by his wife, Carolyn. Lloyd and Walter Kangas are campaigning against each other — and against the Chrismans. Rachel, Paul and Charles Williams all are running against each other — and the Kangases, and the Chrismans. Franklin Ormon, who last retained any of the rest, is running against all of them — with the exception of mayoral candidate Lois Walker, who is running unopposed. Hooper only has 60 registered voters, out of a population of 100.

Conductor badly burned in fire

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Symphony conductor George Cleve, 41, was in a serious condition today with second-degree burns over 45 percent of his body suffered in a fire that destroyed his rented cottage and killed a young woman guest.

The San Jose Symphony conductor, a native of Vienna, Austria, noted for his interpretations of the music of Mozart, was undergoing treatment for the burns and lacerations at Alta Bates Hospital.

Killed in the blaze which swept through Cleve's residence in the Berkeley Hills Thursday morning was Sue Ellen Eicher, 28, Oakland.

Cause of the fire was under investigation. The body of Miss Eicher, a graduate student at the University of California, was found slumped on the kitchen floor. Officials said she was apparently overcome by smoke when she tried to escape through a window over the sink.

Cleve was badly cut on the arms and face when he tumbled through a front room window and fell 12 feet to the pavement.

Cleve's residence in San Jose was "badly shaken" by news of the fire, said information officer Joan Johnson. He was "the most magnificent conductor we've ever had," she said.

Fire Department officials said the fire caused $10,000 damage to the home and $10,000 damage to the contents. However, they said "there were original manuscripts, a cello and piano that were ruined, but they were unable to place a money value on them."

Cleve was credited with the rejuvenation of the San Jose Symphony since becoming its musical director and conductor in 1972. His contract was extended through the 1978-79 season.

Movie writer dead at 60

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Leigh Brackett, writer of movies from "The Big Sleep" to "Star Wars Two," is dead at 60.

Mrs. Brackett died Saturday at Lancaster, Calif., Community Hospital after a lengthy illness, producers of the "Star Wars" sequel announced Thursday.

She had just finished the first draft of the sequel's screenplay when she entered the hospital, the announcement said.

Among other films she wrote were Howard Hawks' "Rio Bravo," "Rio Lobo," the Robert Altman remake of "The Long Goodbye," and television scripts including "Terror at Northfield" for Alfred Hitchcock.

She was married to the late Edward Hamilton and both of them wrote many science fiction novels. Hers included the "hulking" and "Eric John Stark" series, including "The Ginger Star" and "The Hounds of Skalkh."

She also wrote mystery stories and Western novels, one of which "Follow the Free Wind," won the 1963 Silver Spur Award.

Her body was to be cremated, the producers said, and the ashes buried with those of her husband in Kinsman, Ohio.

Eyesight restored

GAINEVILLE, Fla. (UPI)

A 65-year-old Columbus, Ind., woman who was nearly blind for 42 years can see numbers and letters now with a tiny telescope lens implanted in her right eye.

"I can hardly believe it," Bernice Pherigo told Dr. Frank Pollack, the ophthalmic surgeon who implanted the optical cylinder enabling her to read letters and numbers and accurately identify colors.

Before the operation last Nov. 29, Pollack said Thursday, Miss Pherigo could see only light or darkness.

Since the operation, her vision has improved gradually. Now she can read magazines with extra-large print, recognize individual faces and distinguish movements on television.

Pollack said the optical cylinder could benefit only a handful of blind people who have corneal damage that cannot be repaired by corneal transplants, and who have normal retinas.

The upper lid is stitched permanently to the lower lid, but the muscles that usually open and shut the eyes allow her to move the corneal prosthesis — up and down and slightly to each side, Pollack said.

Wallenda services slated Monday

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Helen Wallenda walked the wire herself and the wire has taken her sister and two of her sons-in-law and now her husband, the greatest of them all.

She brought Karl home in his casket Thursday and she showed the steel that stiffened all the Flying Wallendas.

"Karl always said that the day you're born, God sets the day you will die," she said, tears filling her eyes behind the dark glasses. "He wasn't worried about death."

On Wednesday the 73-year-old patriarch of the bigwire fell 10 stories to his death in San Juan, Puerto Rico, on a promotional walk between two high-rise hotels.

She appointed the Rev. Luther Witter, chaplain to the show folks, to officiate at Karl's funeral Monday.

"I buried the two boys who were killed in Detroit and I buried grandma Wallenda," Witter said.

Helen, two of her daughters, Carla Guzman and Jenny Anderson, and close friends accompanied the body back from San Juan on a private flight Thursday. The white hearse carrying the casket passed near the red-white-and-blue-striped, perialist's tent of the Circus Hall of Fame where the flag flew at half-staff, as were most of the flags throughout "Circus City."

The Sarasota Fair Authority volunteered the use of the Roberts Sports Arena for Saturday, when Wallenda will lie in state, and for the funeral Monday. It will hold about 4,200 people and a large crowd from the circus world and the community alike is expected.

Helen Wallenda, 66, Karl's wife of 50 years, was herself a member of the troupe until 1959. Her sister, Yetta Grotfeldt, died in a fall from the wire. Two sons-in-law, Richard Guzman and Richard Faughnan, died in the 1962 collapse of the seven-member pyramid in the Detroit Coliseum which left her only son, Mario, paralyzed.

"She'll live through this," said daughter Jenny. "In the past we all have. If my father taught us one thing, it was that the show must go on."

No evidence of speed in accident

CASCADE, Idaho (UPI) — An investigation into an automobile accident Tuesday night which killed four persons and critically injured two others has indicated the youths were not speeding.

Valley County Sheriff Blair Shepherd, who called the accident the second worst in Valley County history, said there was no indication that Cliff Samuelson, 16, of Smiths Ferry, was driving at an excessive rate of speed.

"Our investigation found that there probably was a distraction in the car and that the driver turned away for split second," Shepherd said. "He took his eyes off the road, veered to the right very slightly, and by the time he realized where he was, there was no time for correction."

Killed in the crash were Janice Samuelson, Lisa McCann, Loren Burdine, and Charles Burdine, all Cascade High School students. Cliff Burdine and Ray Samuelson are recovering from multiple fractures and other injuries in Boise's St. Alphonsus Hospital.

All persons in the car were in their teens.

"They were not driving at an excessive speed," Shepherd said. He also indicated the students were "model kids."

"All the people in the car were very exceptional young people. None of them had bad reports from school, the police or anyone. None of them even had speeding records."

Shepherd said Burdine and Samuelson are still unable to talk with authorities and "we don't intend to ask any questions until they have improved."

The accident occurred about 6 p.m. Tuesday when the car, traveling on Highway 55 about two miles south of Cascade, hit a bridge abutment near Big Creek. Samuelson and Burdine were taken to Valley County Hospital and later were transferred to St. Alphonsus Interfaith Hospital.

No skid marks were found near the scene of the accident.

Shepherd said the worst accident in county history occurred a couple years ago when six people died, but he said "this one certainly stacks up there as the second worst."

College of Idaho rumor denied

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — The president of the College of Idaho discounted Thursday rumors that the school may be sold.

President William Cassell said the rumors have been circulating since the college announced it would cut back its intercollegiate athletic program several weeks ago.

Cassell said he is not sure how the talk started, but the rumor "certainly have unsubstantiated in the last few weeks."

He said there is "nothing" to them.

The college, which has been said to be in serious financial trouble, has trimmed back a $1 million deficit to less than $300,000 since Cassell became president in 1974.

Deeper than expected

Conrail still in the red

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Conrail says it lost $572 million during its first 21 months of operation.

The U.S. Railway Association's Final System Plan, under which Conrail was organized, had projected a $567-million loss for the carrier from the time it started operation on April 1, 1976, through December 1977.

Conrail reported Thursday that the severe winter of 1976-77 was the prime contributing factor for the company's $356.6 million loss for 1977.

It said that with another severe winter and revenue losses from the United Mine Workers strike, it did not expect an improvement in its financial performance in 1978.

The costly effects of the 1976-77 winter increased first-quarter 1977 losses by more than $100 million over those projected by Conrail for the period, according to the company's financial statement.

However, for the remaining nine months of the year, the corporation said it was able to meet its overall financial goals in spite of a drop in total tonnage carried and revenues.

Conrail said it lost $76.8 million in the fourth quarter of 1977.

For the year, tonnage fell short of projections in almost all commodity areas, and the total was more than 10 percent — or 30.5 million tons — below Conrail's expectations.

Related revenues were lower by about $200 million, of which $50 million resulted from the coal, ore industry and dock strikes.

Transfer moratorium is urged by McClure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James McClure has urged the Forest Service to impose a one-year moratorium on transferring grazing permits on Caribou National Forest land to Shoshone-Bannock Indian tribe members.

The Forest Service has said it would grant grazing privileges to tribal members under rights secured under existing Indian treaty rights.

McClure, though, said that action, coming just a few months before the 1978 grazing season, "poses a tremendous hardship on stockmen who have already made plans for this year."

"I do think the Forest Service, in this instance, should give traditional grazing permits some additional time to make alternative plans for their cattle," he said. "I therefore request that the Forest Service delay implementation of the Indian grazing rights plan for one year."

McClure urged the delay to allow for a more orderly and just transfer of the grazing permits from traditional land users to tribal members.

New casino is approved

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The Nevada Gaming Commission has approved, the opening of the MGM Grand Hotel-Reno — the world's largest casino.

The multimillion-dollar, 1,015-room MGM Grand Hotel-Reno will open its doors May 3. It will have 141 games, 2,000 slot machines, racing and sports wagering and a jail-al-al fronton with pari-mutuel betting.

An ambush in Italy

TURIN, Italy (UPI) — Gunmen believed to be Red Brigades guerrillas ambushed a former mayor of Turin today and shot him in the legs.

Ex-mayor Giovanni Plico, a Christian Democratic politician currently working for the regional government, was taken to a hospital.

Less than an hour after the shooting a caller, identifying himself as a Red Brigades spokesman, telephoned the Italian news agency ANSA and claimed responsibility for the attack.

Abby

Teen needs help

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl living in a foster home. I don't mind living in a home, but the mother is a sweet person and I love her, but the father is not the type of father I would like. I am very big for my age, and sometimes I have problems about it. The father has offered me money to let him touch me, but I have never accepted.

Abby, the reason why I don't tell my foster mother is that I don't want to be sent away from here. I have asked God to help me, and He does. I'm saved, but I am still afraid of this man. I never let him touch me. I always run into the bathroom and lock the door. Please tell me how to cope with this without being sent away.

AFRAID

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please, please, tell your foster mother! I am almost certain you'll not be sent away, but if you are, it would be better than living in your present environment. Your foster father is a sick man and needs to be treated. If you don't tell your foster mother, he could eventually harm you or some other young girl. I beg you to confide in your foster mother today. Write again and let me know how you are. I care.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 19 and in nurses' training, I became pregnant. It was the first and only time I ever went all the way, and I got caught.

The boy offered to marry me, but he wasn't ready for marriage and neither was I, so I said no. I had the baby and gave it up for adoption to a family unknown to me. But I was assured that the child would be loved and well cared for.

My parents stood by me through it all, for which I'll be eternally grateful because I caused them a lot of grief and heartache.

Anyway, I've been a nurse for three years now and have fallen in love with a young doctor. He is so kind and good. I never knew anyone that wonderful could exist. He's asked me to marry him and I want to. But I don't know if I should tell him about my past.

Please advise me. He can't understand why I haven't given him an answer. Thank you.

R.N.

DEAR R.N.: Tell him the truth. If he's as "wonderful" as you say he is, he'll not hold it against you—and if he does, you're ahead to know it up front.

DEAR ABBY: We just received wedding invitation with a smaller addendum that reads as follows:

"Mr. and Mrs. _____ will attend. Number of guests _____ The outer envelope was addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith," and the inner envelope was the same. It is proper to list "Mr. and Mrs. Smith plan to attend, and the number of guests is FIVE." (This includes our two children and my husband's mother, who makes her home with us.)

I say that since there was only "Mr. and Mrs." on the envelope, the invitation is for only the two of us.

My husband says that we are allowed as many guests as we wish, and they are asking us to please fill in the number. Who is right?

NUMBER, PLEASE

DEAR NUMBER: You are. Under no circumstances should invited guests include others without the approval of the hostess.

your health

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb, Would you please write about silent heart attacks? I had one this spring. I had heard of them but had never seen a patient with one. I'm a registered nurse.

I never suffered any of the classical symptoms and never had any heart pain. On a Sunday morning I just fell sick and was nauseated. There was no perspiration on the head or face but I was perspiring on the body. No pain. My pulse rate dropped to 50 but I didn't think of heart attack. On Wednesday the pulse rate dropped to 40.

My sister wanted to call a doctor on Sunday but I refused, thinking I'd soon feel better. On Wednesday when I talked to the doctor he thought I had a virus and asked me to come in on Friday but I felt worse to come in sooner.

When I got to his office and had my tests run. Including an electrocardiogram. I was sent immediately by ambulance to the coronary care unit with a diagnosis of acute myocardial infarction. I was hospitalized for seven weeks. I had to have a pacemaker. Several doctors said I had something unusual, a silent heart attack with complete heart block and heart failure.

I think you would do the public a great service if you would comment about silent heart attacks.

Dear Reader, Silent heart attacks are not as rare as you might think. Doctors have known about them for years. Often these would be found as a result of autopsies showing the old damage to the heart muscle in a person with had no history of a heart attack.

The figures vary on how common they are. But when my staff at the School of Aerospace Medicine studied electrocardiograms from the flying population; we found about one-third of the men with infarcts were found because of changes they developed in their electrocardiogram — compared with previous normal records. The other infarcts were in men with symptoms. The surprising thing is that many were flying airplanes and were never ill enough to know they had anything wrong.

We also know that men doing heavy labor sometimes continue working in the presence of a heart attack and do not know anything has happened. Perhaps it isn't so surprising anyway, since the heart muscle itself does not have pain fibers. The heart pain is a reflex pain pattern to the chest wall, shoulders, arm, jaw and sometimes other places.

There is always some disagreement about whether a heart attack is truly silent. Many doctors would not classify your case in that group because you did have symptoms — illness and nausea. You may not have recognized what caused the symptoms but they were real. Many a case of mild indigestion is passed by as not important when in reality it represents a heart attack. It sometimes is impossible to tell what "indigestion" means without additional studies.

As you can see — from no symptoms at all, mild indigestion, atypical pain patterns and then severe unmistakable heart pain — heart attacks may be present in varied ways. It is no wonder that the doctor has to observe many patients in the hospital to tell what is really happening.

I am sending you the Health Letter number 2-10, Heart Attack, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio-City Station, New York, N.Y. 10109

TWIN FALLS — Young artists from Magic Valley will be exhibiting pottery, photography, paintings and sculpturing in a special art show at the Twin Falls Library from April 4 to May 1.

The show is open only to young artists of 14 to 21 years-of-age anywhere in the Magic Valley area which is the territory covered by the local library region.

There is no limit as to medium or techniques. Wall art, including photography, must be framed or mounted, and is limited to 3 feet by 3 feet in size.

Some early entries have already come in but entries will continue to be accepted at the local library or at any library in the region through April 1.

Pottery, photography and paintings have begun coming in, Linda Parkinson library staff member said.

The exhibits will be judged by Robert Stimpert, art-coordinator-for the Boise school system. Winners will be announced during National Library Week at a reception for the opening of the show April 4 at 7 p.m.

The first place art item will be purchased by the Twin Falls Public Library for permanent display. The library will pay up to $250 for the item.

Other art pieces will be offered for sale to the general public at the close of the show.

Magic Valley residents are invited to inspect the items at the library during regular hours through May 1.

'Harvey' prepares for Easter party

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Recovering alcoholic men at a rehabilitation home plan to reproduce a flesh-and-blood "Harvey," the mythical rabbit on Easter.

The residents of the Grandview Foundation got a great response when they played Santa Claus for neighborhood youngsters last Christmas, and now they're going to play Easter Bunny on Sunday because of many requests from youngsters.

An Easter egg hunt is planned for the one-acre grounds of the Grandview Foundation and a resident in an Easter Bunny outfit will be deposited on the lawn by a police helicopter. Playing Easter Bunny is not a far-out idea for alcoholics. Grandview information director John Halloran noted. Many alcoholics feel a kinship with the bunny because of the popular stage play and movie about "Harvey," a king-size rabbit who was the happy figment of a dreamy drunk's imagination. The lead role was played by Frank Fay on the stage and by Jimmy Stewart in the movie.

John McCoy, Grandview manager, said one resident "reluctantly agreed" to be fitted for a bunny costume and, after alighting from the helicopter, will give away live bunnies to lucky little licketholders in a raffle.

McCoy said he received so many calls from children inquiring about an Easter party like the one they enjoyed at Christmas that he and the 20 residents of the home decided they had to repeat their Kris Kringle charade in bunny clothing.

McCoy said movie and television personalities have agreed to put on a show for the Easter party.

The residents of the home solicited businesses for contributions of candy, soda pop and ice cream which will be provided for the young guests, expected to number about 400.

The Grandview men have boiled and dyed more than 1,000 eggs for the event and fashioned several hundred Easter baskets.

Little girl guests will have the opportunity to take part in a "Bonnet Parade" and those with the prettiest headpieces will receive prizes.

"These men are doing all this not just to entertain the kids but to help themselves along the road to recovery," said Halloran.

Kathrin Seitz has been named executive producer, movies and novels for television at the American Broadcasting Co. She has been serving as an executive story consultant for ABC since August, 1976. A native of Doylestown, Pa., Ms. Seitz was raised in Great Neck, N. Y. She received a B.A. in French from Barnard College and a master's degree in political science in 1971 from New York University. In addition she has studied in the Sorbonne in Paris and the Goethe Institute in West Berlin.

Canon Mary Simpson, an Anglican nun from New York, will be the first woman priest of the Anglican Communion to preach at Westminster Abbey. Canon Simpson, from New York's Cathedral of St. John Divine, will speak at Westminster at Evensong services April 2 and will spend all of April in England lecturing on the ordination of women in the Episcopal Church. She is a nun in the Order of St. Helens.

Linda Purl heads the cast of a new one-hour television series on the homesteaders who settled the American West. Series begins April 2 on ABC. Linda and her co-star, Roger Kern, will play young newlyweds living on the prairie land of the Dakota Territory in the 1870s.

I know "Charlie's Angels" isn't Shakespeare," admits actress Cheryl Ladd, who stars in the hit series. "It's my job, nothing more. In the last month it has really become a grind... and it's left me very little time to be a person." The 26-year-old actress confessed in the April issue of McCall's magazine that she would "eat myself into a coma" because of "all the Hollywood 'baloney' in her early struggle for stardom. Her relationship with husband-actor David Ladd is "the most important thing to me." She denies that her greater fame has caused a rift in the marriage. "I may be doing better right now than he is," she said. "But David will catch up. I just know it."

Actress Ellen Burstyn, currently engaged in the filming of the Broadway hit comedy, "Same Time, Next Year," the play that won her a Tony award, will now try her hand at directing. She has been signed for her first Broadway directing assignment, "Loose Ends," a new play in three acts by David Shaber, which will begin casting around May 1 with rehearsals scheduled to begin on Labor Day.

Actress Sally Field, who rose to stardom as television's "Flying Nun," has been signed for the title role in "20th Century-Fox's 'Norma Rae,' scheduled to begin filming in April on a Southern location. The movie, to be directed by Martin Ritt, tells the contemporary story of a female textile worker and her attempts to organize a union in the Deep South. Miss Field scored heavily in last year's box office attraction, "Smoky and the Bandit" with Burt Reynolds and is again working with Burt in "The End" and "Hollywood Stuntman."

Filer miss, Hopkins recite vows

FILER — Naomi Auferheide and Jeffrey Lee Hopkins were united in marriage March 10 at the Clover Lutheran Church of Filer.

Rev. Andrew Loesel performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with two bouquets of spring flowers and blue and white candles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Auferheide, Filer. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hopkins, Buhl.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown fashioned of white satin. Long puffed sleeves tied with ribbons, a high neck and bodice were also fashioned with pearl buttons and the gown featured a chapel train.

The bride wore a waist-length illusion veil held by a band of embroidered flowers. She wore her grandmother's pendant watch and carried a nosegay of spring flowers tied with ribbons.

Mrs. Maxine Schroeder was organist and accompanied the congregation in a song.

Mrs. Marilyn Schroeder, Perry, Iowa, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Andy Wagner, Buhl, was best man. Jerry Auferheide, brother of the bride, and Scott Walden served as ring bearers and ushers.

The reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over blue. At the center of the table sat a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with blue flowers and surrounded by four heart-shaped cakes bearing the names of the bridal couple.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Dick Hopkins, Mrs. Mike Hopkins, Mrs. Gary Auferheide and Mrs. Ray Auferheide, all sisters-in-law of the bride and bridegroom. Nieces of the bride, Penni and Tami Auferheide, Kelly Sams and Surette Hopkins assisted with serving, along with the members of the Clover Lutheran Women's Missionary League.

Shan and Travis Newton, nephews of the bride, carried gifts while Mrs. Gary Sams and Mrs. Roger Newton, sisters of the bride, opened and displayed them. Debbie Tipton was in charge of the guest book.

Special guests were Mrs. Helen Sholes and Mrs. Lily Allen, both Buhl, both grandmothers of the bridegroom.

The bride was honored at a bridal shower hosted by Mrs. Monroe Dierker, aunt of the bride, and Susan Kodesh.

The bride was graduated from Filer High School in 1976 and the bridegroom is a 1975 graduate of Buhl High School. Both are employed at Walte Electric in Twin Falls.

Following a honeymoon trip to Sun Valley, the couple will reside in Buhl.

Lacie is no ordinary rabbit

HERRIN, Ill. (UPI) — As his birthday rolls around this Easter season, Janice Gualdoni, pizza-loving, paper-trained black rabbit can be confident he will not be turned out into the cold, cruel world.

The handsome bunny, named Lacie, has put on some weight recently. Lacie fit in the palm of Miss Gualdoni's hand when her boyfriend gave her the pet for Easter last year.

Miss Gualdoni's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Gualdoni, weren't thrilled at the prospect of keeping Lacie when Janice went back to college in Decatur, Ill., after the Easter break last year.

So Miss Gualdoni, then a college freshman, took Lacie with her and, for two months, successfully kept the rabbit in her dormitory room as a closely-guarded secret, known only to herself, her roommate and, off course, Lacie.

"I trained him with papers and a cardboard box while I had him in college," said Janice.

The rabbit never bothered anything on her side of the room, Janice said, but he got into some of her roommate's things and once soiled her roommate's 17-page term paper.

Last fall, Miss Gualdoni transferred to Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. Now Lacie lives in the basement of her parents' Herrin home, not far from the university.

Lacie is the family's only pet these days. He lost his canine playmate.

"I did have a dog, a husky-solite, and he and Lacie played together and got along fine but someone stole the dog," Janice said.

Lacie is no ordinary rabbit. He follows the family around like a dog, likes to be petted, will chase a rag around and around like a puppy and will stand with its paws on a table as a tasty morsel.

"I took Lacie to the veterinarian and he said Lacie must be a special kind of rabbit, because he's solid black. Maybe he's an Italian rabbit, because he loves pizza," Miss Gualdoni said.

Lacie also has a taste for popcorn and breakfast cereals, not to mention such fare as lettuce, carrots and parsley.

"I just love animals," said Miss Gualdoni. "Especially rabbits, dogs and ducks. I'm trying to talk my parents into some ducks for Easter."

Arts council plans public meet

TWIN FALLS — The neophyte Magic Valley Arts Council and the public will meet Tuesday night with Carl Petrick, executive director of the Idaho Commission on the Arts and Humanities.

Area drama, musical and dance groups interested in promoting the arts are invited to attend the 7:30 p.m. meeting with Petrick at the College of Southern Idaho Shields Building, room 119.

Also, fine arts groups interested in joining in the organization of a Magic Valley Arts Council are particularly invited to attend the Tuesday meeting.

The MVAC was formed last fall with the idea of promoting the arts in southern Idaho by serving as a clearinghouse of information and promotion.

Individuals interested in making an appointment with Petrick on Tuesday afternoon may contact Mary Walker at 733-6999, or Doris Youtz, 733-7965.

Any organizations interested in participating with the arts council should attend a representative to the Tuesday meeting with Petrick.

Petrick will be available from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday to meet local arts leaders and interested individuals concerning the future of the Idaho Commission on the Arts and Humanities.

The Twin Falls meeting is part of a statewide tour by Petrick which will take him to 22 Idaho communities to assess the needs for the arts in Idaho.

time. South would not have been bid if West had held all three. So, actually South would only lose 11 percent of the time. In addition, South's play of the trump ace had given him a 75 percent chance to pick up a singleton king and score an extra 30 points.

An 89 percent chance is a pretty good one, but a 100 percent chance is a lot better. There wasn't that 100 percent chance but there was a 99.99 percent chance.

At trick two South should have led a low trump toward dummy's queen. This play would ensure the contract unless the defense could get a ruff in addition to the king of trumps.

Church welcomes new members

WENDELL — The 11 a.m. Easter Sunday service at the United Presbyterian Church in Wendell, will witness the confirmation of six new members into the membership.

Two other new members will be admitted on transfer from another congregation.

The choir will render special music and the pastor will preach on the theme, "Christ Is Risen." A coffee hour will follow the service.

The congregation will also be returning its "one great hour of sharing" envelopes containing their sacrificial offerings given during Lent.

Adventists welcome visitors
EDEN — This Saturday will be the annual spring "visitors day" at the Eden Seventh Day Adventist Church. Visitors are always welcome at any Adventist church, but in the spring and fall a Saturday is designated as a special day for visitors.

There will be classes for all age groups. The adult lesson study is entitled "The Creator and the Restoration."

Worship hour speaker this week is Pastor Fred Griffith. Sabbath school begins at 9:30 a.m. with the worship hour at 11 a.m.

A potluck dinner will follow the worship service.

Presbyterians plan full schedule
TWIN FALLS — This Sunday the First Presbyterian Church has a full schedule of activities planned for Easter morning.

From 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. the deacons of the church will put on a pancake and sausage breakfast. The proceeds will go toward their outreach programs.

At 10 there will be an Easter egg hunt and program for families.

At 11 worship, there will be special music. Mr. and Mrs. Pat Woliver will sing a quartet. The Cantabileurs will play the Introit on their handbells. The choir will sing "The Creation" and "The Heavens Are Telling," and Rev. Van Nest will speak on the subject, "His Resurrection."

Childcare will be provided and all are welcome to join in the Easter celebration.

Resurrection arguments refuted
TWIN FALLS — This Sunday will be observed as Resurrection Sunday at First Christian Church.

The sermon for this occasion will be "The Empty Tomb" by Weston Scott, minister.

This message will be geared to refute arguments against Christ being resurrected from the tomb, using a prima facie case with factual information from first century historians. The pastor says this will be a most unusual message.

The public is invited to worship with First Christian Church.

There will be Sunday School beginning at 9:45 for all age groups. Worship service begins at 10:50 a.m.; radio at 1:10 p.m. on KTLX.

Tyler Baptists portray Last Supper
TWIN FALLS — As a climax to Easter remembrance, Tyler Street Baptist Church will have a special communion service Sunday evening at 6:30.

Many of the men of the church, in full Biblical costume, will portray in pantomime the Lord's Last Supper with a scripture reading as the background.

During this time the congregation will also be served communion. Visitors are welcome. The church is located at 288 Tyler St.

'Reality' title of lesson-sermon
TWIN FALLS — The title of the lesson-sermon Sunday at the Christian Science Church will be "Reality."

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. and church services are at 11 a.m. Sunday and 9 p.m. Wednesday, at the church, 160 Ninth Ave. E.

The reading room, 352 Main Ave. S., is open from noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Ascension celebrates Easter
TWIN FALLS — The celebration of Easter at Ascension Parish actually begins on Easter Eve at 7 with the lighting of the New Fire and Paschal candle.

This service, in keeping with the ancient tradition when the candidates, known as catechumens, having been prepared for Holy Baptism, were baptized and received into the church at the beginning of the Easter Sabbath, or sundown, is a service of lessons on the many acts of God and renewal of baptismal vows.

The first celebration of the Holy Eucharist on Easter morn will be at 8. The second (and major) celebration will be a choral Eucharist to be celebrated at 10.

Special musical presentations include an Introit, "I know That My Redeemer Liveth," from Handel's Messiah, soloist Helen C. Allen.

The junior choir will sing "In Trouble Too, Sing Praise" by Brown-Hawthorne. The senior choir will sing both "Selah" "O Morn of Beauty" from Finlandia and the Israeli folk song, "The King of Glory."

The congregational musical participation will include "Welcome Happy Morning," "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today" and "Hail The Festival Day." Father Allen's sermon is entitled "Let There Be Joy."

The Easter Communion will be taken to parish sick and shut-ins throughout Easter week.

Nazarene celebration continues
TWIN FALLS — Services at First Church of the Nazarene, 401 Sixth Ave. N., will begin with a men's prayer fellowship at 7 a.m. Sunday.

At 10 a.m. Jan Lanzer will present the children of the church in an Easter program in the sanctuary. This will be followed by the morning worship service, with special music presented by Steve Pace and the choir. Pastor Chastain will speak from the subject "A Glorious Easter" at the 11 a.m. service.

A continuation of the Easter celebration will begin at 6 Sunday evening with special music, praise and a message from the pastor.

Lutherans serve Easter breakfast
PIER — Peace Lutheran Wather League will serve an Easter breakfast, beginning at 7:30 a.m. in the fellowship hall.

The Easter service, with Rev. R.C. Muly in the pulpit, will begin at 9 a.m. to be followed by a coffee hour.

The adult choir, under the direction of Mrs. Reuben Lierman, organist, will present special Easter numbers.

Nazarene cantata prepared
KIMBERLY — "Jesus of Nazareth," an Easter cantata by M. Rosalyh Eagle, will be presented by the choir at the Kimberly Church of the Nazarene, Madison at Elm, Sunday at the 11 a.m. service.

Featured along with the adult choir will be one number presented by the children's choir.

The presentation will be directed by Marla Harmaning and accompanied by Mary Jane Conrad. Narration will be by Cathy Lynch and Pastor Mel Rayburn. Soloists will be Norma Caterson, Neva West, Lee Rayburn and Paul Will, with duets by Howard Conrad and Tammy Armstrong and also Myrtle Harmaning and Jim Fraley.

The public is invited to attend.

LDS Conference on Buhl cable
BUIH — Wayne McGee, manager of Buhl Cable TV Co., says his company will carry the LDS Church Conference sessions live via the firm's satellite receiver from Salt Lake City, for the entire six hours of broadcast.

Normal programming on cable channel 10 will be pre-empted on April 1 between 2 and 4 p.m. and on April 2 from 10 a.m. to noon and again from 2 to 4 p.m. for this special program.

The broadcast sessions will include music by the world renowned Salt Lake Mormon Tabernacle Choir as well as addresses by LDS Church leaders.

Invitation extended

ALETHEIA, a brass ensemble from Montana Institute of the Bible, Lewiston, will appear at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Tyler Street Baptist Church, Twin Falls. The members of the ensemble will present vocal and instrumental numbers during their concert. Rev. David Kribs, pastor of the local church, extends an invitation to the public to attend the presentation.

Wreck survivors travel

ALTAMONT, Tenn. (UPI) — The leader of a fundamentalist religious group and four companions Wednesday left the Altamont area where four members of the cult were killed in a truck wreck on a winding mountain road Sunday night.

Reportedly, Peter Thomas, 25, and his four followers left for Neptune Beach, Fla., by bus with one-way tickets.

A relative of several members of the group said they regarded Thomas as a "messiah."

The driver of the truck, Ervin Schmidt, 51, of Tucson, Ariz., has been charged with murder by driving while intoxicated.

State Trooper Jerry Millsap, who has been assigned to the investigation of the wreck, said Wednesday, "The more we find out about these people, the stranger it gets. And every member of the group has told a different story, so it's hard to know what to believe."

The group members were from New Orleans, Arizona and New Mexico. The five families were said at the time of the accident to be heading for Florida to purchase some land for their church. However, some members said they had been in Florida and were in Tennessee sight-seeing.

Business men to hear pastor
TWIN FALLS — Rev. Glen Buttons, an Assembly of God pastor, will address the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International local chapter this Saturday evening at 7 at the Golden Griddle restaurant.

For reservations call 733-2973, or Jerome 324-3827, says Wayne Barney, president.

Religion classes get nod

SALMON, Idaho (UPI) — The Salmon School Board has approved guidelines allowing students to attend religious classes outside school during regular school hours.

The guidelines are patterned after those of the Pocatello School District 25.

The board said the guidelines are intended to avoid the use of public funds on property for sectarian religious instruction and avoid "an undesirable and unconstitutional co-mingling of the activities of church and state where it relates to the practice of releasing secondary school students from the public schools for the purpose of attending classes in religious education."

Jerusalem route traced

Procession held despite threats

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Undaunted by Arab guerrilla threats, thousands of pilgrims retraced the route Jesus walked in the old walled city of Jerusalem Friday, carrying wooden crosses from the point where he was condemned to die to where he was crucified.

The Good Friday procession wound slowly through the cobblestoned streets of East Jerusalem and via Via Dolorosa as pilgrims stopped to sing hymns at each of the 14 Stations of the Cross.

The overcast skies may even have added to the solemnity of the procession. Security was tight, despite recent guerrilla threats to harm pilgrims taking part in Easter festivities in the Israeli-annexed section of Jerusalem.

"I just see a couple of police, no heavy security," said Johan Nasib, a native of Jerusalem, who took part in the doleful procession to the ancient Church of the Holy Sepulcher, the traditional site of Jesus' resurrection.

The procession started at the Omaniya grade school near St. Stephens gate, built over the traditional site of the Roman Court where Jesus was condemned to death.

Youths gather at Christian Church

TWIN FALLS — Wednesday afternoon finds youths gathering at First Christian Church to do their homework from 3 to 5 p.m. After their homework is completed, they will be preparing their own evening meal from 5 to 6 p.m. A program will begin at 6 p.m. and end at 7 p.m.

This week the youth will meet at the church at 3 p.m. and travel to the Falls for a picnic wiener roast. Of course, the roast will start after the homework time is completed. The youths are asked to bring their own meat, as the drink will be supplied.

Everyone is invited to take part. You do not have to be a member of the church to attend and have fun, according to the minister, E. Weston Scott.

Hazelton church choir participates

HAZELTON — "We Shall Rise Again" is the theme of the choir's presentation at Valley Assembly of God, Hazelton, on Easter Sunday morning at 10:30, according to Pastor Wesley Johnson.

This will also consist of solos, duets and readings. The small children will present pieces they have learned, too. People of all ages are invited.

Valley Assembly will also be participating in the Community Good Friday service tonight at Valley Presbyterian Church. Pastor Johnson's message will be "God Meant It for Good."

Public is invited and encouraged to share these special services.

DR. JESS JOHNSON

Meeting series ends Sunday

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Jess Johnson, president of Milligan College in Tennessee, will complete his meetings at the Community Christian Church in Twin Falls with messages tonight and Sunday.

An outstanding educator and preacher, he has led in significant growth at Milligan, a Christian liberal arts college.

This week's messages have been presented at the church on Grandview Drive south of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Tonight's message is scheduled at 7:15 and on Easter Sunday he will speak at 9 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. The public is invited to attend any or all of the meetings.

Invitation extended

THE First Assembly of God Church, 189 N. Locust St., Twin Falls, invites everyone in Magic Valley to celebrate Easter, a time of new life, at 10:45 a.m. Sunday at the church.

Choral Readers present concert

TWIN FALLS — The Choral Readers of Northwestern College, Orange City, Iowa, under the direction of Keith Allen, will perform a concert at the Twin Falls Reformed Church, 211 Fourth Ave. E., (next to the library) on Thursday at 8 p.m.

The public is invited to share in this unique worship experience. A free will offering will be received.

As part of the theater and speech department at Northwestern, the 30 Choral Readers "write and sing of the ways of God with the people," according to former Reader Susan Den Herder. Their program deals with two themes: the Old Testament theme of God's interaction with his people and the New Testament theme of the meaning of Christ's ministry.

Hollister sets sunrise service

HOLLISTER — Services on Easter Sunday morning at the Hollister Community Presbyterian Church will include a Sunrise Service at 7 a.m., breakfast at 7:30, Sunday school classes at 10 and Easter worship at 11.

There will be special music by Susan Fleener at the 11 a.m. service.

Rev. Judith Ross is the pastor and says everyone is welcome to all services.

Pentecosts conclude youth month

TWIN FALLS — The First United Pentecostal Church of Twin Falls will observe the Resurrection of Christ at 10 a.m. Sunday with a special program by the children of the Sunday School department.

The church choir will sing in the evening service at 7:30. The public is invited.

The Sunday school department of the church will conclude a month-long "March in March" this Sunday with its Out Reach to children, youth and adults.

The young people's group of the church has elected the following to serve as youth leaders: Dan Orr, president; Debbie Yaden, vice president; Linda Bowen, secretary; treasurer.

Reformed Church observes Easter

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Reformed Church will celebrate Easter and the resurrection of Jesus Christ with special services at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. at 211 Fourth Ave. E.

Choral anthems, a bank of Easter lilies and special messages on the living Christ will give emphasis to the services. Visitors are always welcome to all church functions.

TF Baptists set Easter services

TWIN FALLS — Two Easter Sunday morning services will be held at Twin Falls First Baptist Church at 8:30 and 11.

The format for both services will be identical beginning with the processional by the bell choir.

Paula Perzin, guest pianist, and Willis Rider will play an organ-piano arrangement of "The Hallelujah Chorus" as well as the prelude and offertory.

The chancel, junior and chorus choirs will sing. Bryan Snow will be soloist for the union choir in a special Easter song "Sing Out for Joy."

The Easter message by Rev. Gilbert Myers will be "Alive, of Course He is Alive!" An invitation is extended to all interested persons.

A nursery will be provided for both services.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 25, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are now able to go directly to co-workers and get them to coordinate their efforts with yours so that you have a greater amount of success. Unleash harmony.

ARIES (March 21 to Apr. 19) Get yourself a new set of friends who can be of help to you and not so emotionally trying. A different attitude toward civic work can also brighten the picture for you and others.

TARBIUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve surroundings so that you will be able to operate more efficiently in the future. Concentrate on your business.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to revise your recreational plans so that you get more enjoyment from them. A special talent you have can be put to greater use also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to please home less more and plan new activities that will please all. Entertaining is good during the day but not in the evening. Take care of small errands.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good time to be with good friends and kin who mean much to you. Be cooperative with associates and get fine results.

VRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Gain the advice of monetary experts now since you are practical-minded and can accomplish a good deal. Spend time improving the value and appearance of your home. Be more active than in the recent past.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put that plan across that will help you to lead a more ideal and satisfying life. Get together with partners and accomplish a good deal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good day to investigate whatever it is you don't understand and come up with the right answers. Show devotion to loved one and be happier.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal time for group meetings that can bring you fine benefit. Get in touch early with good friends who can make your life richer, more satisfying.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go directly to bigwigs and gain the backing you need. You can do very well in public work also, so get involved in it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look into new interests that can make your life more satisfying and successful. You have fine intuitive ideas regarding international matters, so make good use of them.

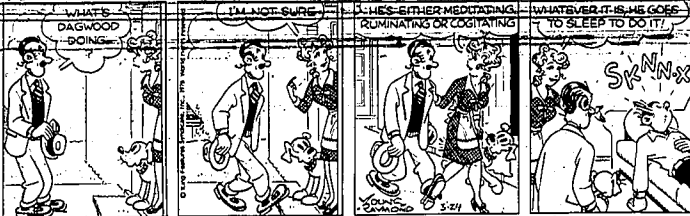

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use more up-to-date methods and you can keep promises more easily than heretofore. Be more thoughtful of a loved one and gain greater affection. Stop letting others impose upon you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be able to persuade others and to do what they like which will conform with own ideas and especially whatever has to do with neatness and precision. Anything of a cultural nature will appeal to your progeny.

Women are repeatedly accused of being overly vain. But our Love and War man is of the belief that vanity is about equally divided between the ladies and the men. He cites the masculine afflictions of boss mania, the fancy woman, asks her, could still think she was a raving beauty while going around with a bald spot on the back of her head? Baldness itself is unbecomingly, of course. That was obviously a matter of heredity even back in the time of William Shakespeare who said: "Time himself is bald, and therefore in the world's end will have bald followers."

WHAT'S ON YOUR TONGUE

Q: "What's doesn't mean if you get a white coat on your tongue?"
A: That you're dehydrated. Or allergic to something, possibly. Understand it's not invariably a sign of sickness, however. Doctors call it "geographic tongue," but I don't know why.
Q: "Among the artists of all time, who was the most prolific painter?"
A: Pablo Picasso without a doubt. He created about 150,000 pieces of art.
Q: "Do starfish have eyes?"
A: Not exactly. But sensors at the ends of their legs sense light from dark.

Approximately 500 streets in and around the city of Chicago are named Germant. That's the moniker of the wife of the head draftsman of a big surveying company in that area.

You've heard of Crocodile tears. They're real. Sea crocodiles rid the excess salt from their bodies by crying it out in those tears.

FOR THE STARGAZERS

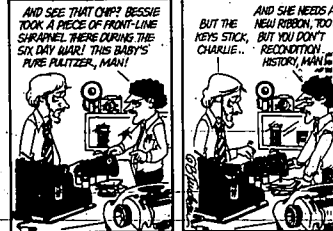

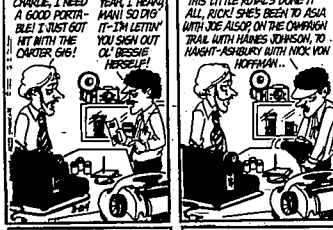

In South Korea is a young genius named Kim Ung-Yong. His I. Q. is said to be over 200, if such is possible. Both his parents were born at 11 a.m., May 23, 1934. What do you suppose the astrologers should make of that?

Deceptive is what you might call that widely reported contention that there are more homes in the United States with television sets than with bathtubs. What's meant by homes includes apartments. And a lot of small apartments have shower stalls instead of tubs.

The late musical mastermind Leopold Stokowski didn't often get booed or hissed; but on those rare occasions when it happened, he retaliated by playing the composition through a second time in its entirety.

Nuclear-waste disposal queried

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sens. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., said Wednesday they are concerned the administration has not developed a comprehensive plan to dispose of nuclear waste.

Domenici and Hart made the comments at the opening of hearings concerning the nation's nuclear-waste disposal policy.

Domenici was particularly critical of what he said was "congressional abdication" in the Department of Energy concerning plans for the Waste Isolation Pilot Project near Carlsbad.

"These abrupt and substantial shifts in government statements about the role of WIPP in the solution of our nation's nuclear waste management program have justifiably left the concerned citizens of New Mexico both confused and perplexed," he said. "As a result, some who have previously supported continued work on the project have felt forced to take a distrustful wait-and-see attitude, or have crossed over to outright opposition."

Domenici reiterated his desire for state power to approve or reject the proposed project.

"This senator has come to believe that the only way New Mexicans can feel they have any control over what is done at WIPP is if the federal government must obtain state consent before any nuclear waste disposal project is approved," he said.

Hart criticized the Energy Secretary James Schlesinger for failing to attend the hearing. He said he felt Schlesinger's failure to attend could be construed to mean the agency has given the atomic waste disposal issue low priority.

"I would recommend at some point in this hearing that either Mr. Schlesinger or his deputy appear," said Hart. "I'd like to see more cooperation from higher levels of the department."

In other developments concerning nuclear waste disposal, an Illinois geologist said in Alton, Ill., Wednesday that the salt beds near Carlsbad were an appropriate place to store high-level radioactive waste.

The geologist, who is a consultant to the U.S. Geological Survey, said that deep geological formations like salt or granite beds are "likely to be feasible" for storage of the wastes.

Donath was in the state for an appearance sponsored by the Americans for Rational Energy Alternatives.

Chicago — Generally higher.

That was the direction the commodity futures market took Thursday.

Wheat, grains and metals were mixed, but most ended irregularly.

Commodity News Service said that wheat trading was described as "bookish" during the session.

The market closed off a penny to a dime higher on a scant 1,250 contracts traded. Most of that activity was in May, with 1,065 cars traded, and that contract settled off a cent at 4.57 per hundredweight.

Volume in expiring April was 45 with the settlement up a nickel at 3.98.

Maine cash prices were virtually unchanged at 2.15 to 2.50.

The May delivery of western russels was unchanged at 7.40 cwt.

Futures generally higher but potatoes end mixed

Live cattle closed 27 points up to 50 points off with April at the end of that range on April liquidation to avoid delivery. Evening up brought prices off a cent at 3.86.

Corn scored early gains on speculative buying and commercial pricing, reaching highs of 2 to 3 cent gains.

Kennecott claims stock deal fraud

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kennecott Copper Corp. filed a civil complaint Wednesday alleging that Curtiss-Wright Corp. fraudulently obtained large amounts of Kennecott stock in order to gain control of the copper producing firm.

The complaint filed in U.S. District Court in Manhattan alleged Curtiss-Wright obtained 2.2 million shares of Kennecott stock since the first of the year by means of "an aggressive and undisclosed purchasing program on the New York Stock Exchange."

The effect of the stock acquisition, the complaint said, "may be substantially to lessen competition or to tend to create a monopoly" in violation of the antitrust laws.

"No disclosure was made to the public or to Kennecott shareholders," Kennecott said. Curtiss-Wright's statement to the Securities and Exchange Commission on March 13, in which it disclosed its purchase of Kennecott stock, was "false and misleading," and calculated to stimulate increased market activity in Kennecott common stock," the copper firm alleged.

Curtiss-Wright said it would have no immediate comment on the Kennecott suit.

Kennecott said Curtiss-Wright failed to disclose it was controlled by Teledyne Inc. of Los Angeles, which manufactures and sells aviation-related electronics and specialty metal products.

Northwest solar power study set

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Energy and the Environmental Protection Agency are collaborating on a study of solar energy potential in Pacific Northwest that they hope will be finished before the national observance of "Sun Day," the two agencies announced Monday.

The two agencies have been working jointly on the project for almost one year and have accelerated their timetable to complete the report by April 28, four days before the May 3 observance being planned by national organizations.

The study will provide a more comprehensive engineering and economic analysis for a greater variety of sites in the Northwest than has been available up to now.

The purpose of the study is to develop a resource document on the technical, legal, environmental and economic issues related to the development of solar energy for residential heating and cooling in Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

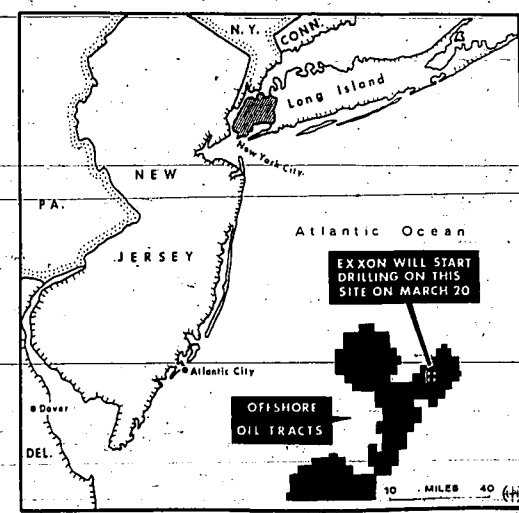

Among the issues examined by the study are: the actual amount of solar energy available in various Northwest locations; the state of the art in solar technology; a review of laws affecting "sun rights" and other legal questions; the effect of widespread solar development on energy supply utilities; the potential environmental impact of solar industry development and the effect of air pollution on solar radiation.

Further information about the study is available from the Public Affairs Office, U.S. Department of Energy, 915 Second Avenue, Seattle, Wash. 98104 or the Public Awareness Office, U.S. Environmental Protection Office, 1200 Sixth Avenue, Seattle, Wash. 98101.

Oil search starts

EXXON Corporation's $50 million drilling ship, Glomar Pacific, began drilling for oil this past Monday in the Baltimore Canyon, 95 miles east of Atlantic City, N.J., in the Atlantic Ocean. The first site will be in 360 feet of water in an area described by oilmen as the biggest remaining untapped frontier in the lower 48 states.

A major strike in the area would be of great benefit to the northeastern United States. The lower amidships (above) is the drilling rig. Large anchors at bow and stern will hold the ship in place. This photo was made during outfitting at Galveston, Tex.

Sewage plant investigation begun

By JEFF SHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Mayor Leon Smith has begun an independent investigation into personnel problems at the sorely beset Twin Falls water treatment plant.

The investigation into personnel problems at the plant comes on the heels of three firings at the plant last week.

Several former and present plant employees have filed charges with Mayor Leon Smith in the last two days to discuss personnel problems at the plant.

"I've talked to several, both past employees and present employees," Smith revealed. "I'm doing my own investigation of problems of the plant and its employees, personnel-wise."

Smith said information he gathers will be presented to the rest of the City Council, "probably sometime Monday."

His investigation is not yet over, Smith disclosed.

"I've had one side. Now I'm looking forward to hearing the other side," he commented. To hear the other side, Smith said he will talk with plant superintendent Don Spelling.

Smith also reaffirmed his intentions to talk with City Manager Jean Millar.

Council members disclosed Tuesday that the council had met to discuss Millar's continued employment with the city and had decided to talk with the city manager about redefining the roles of the council and city manager in ordering the internal affairs of the city.

Thursday, however, Millar said he knew nothing about any redefinition of roles in the city government.

When asked if the council was serious in its intent to talk with the city manager about playing a greater role in the affairs of the city government, Smith said, "Oh yeah! We're going to sit down and have a rap session."

"No one is indispensable on the council or in the city administration," Smith added.

Smith met with Jim Erickson, Don McNeil and Fred Dutler, the three plant employees fired last week, and with several employees still working at the plant.

Smith also spoke with plant maintenance supervisor Ivan Baird, who said he was under the impression he had been fired Thursday by assistant plant superintendent Larry Flier.

Maintenance supervisor Baird, a permanent employee with two years at the plant (only three employees have been at the plant longer than Baird) and 20 years experience in maintenance of various types, said he was fired Thursday by assistant plant superintendent Larry Flier for mispending city funds.

Baird said eight months ago he purchased two sets of shock absorbers, one for his car and one for the car of then plant superintendent Kimble Durham. Both men were constantly using their personal cars to pick up and deliver parts for plant machinery, Baird said, because no city vehicle was provided for that purpose. The rough road into the canyon quickly broke down the shocks on their cars, Baird said.

Baird said although the incident occurred six months before current plant superintendent Spelling arrived at the plant, Spelling turned the purchase of the shocks over to city funds.

"Why is he going back eight months to dig up stuff when he wasn't there?" Baird asked, and added that he did not feel he had been "legally" fired.

"We never would have got the effluent to where it is if I didn't buy the car for city business," Baird insisted.

Baird is a certified grade one employee and said he had been encouraged by Idaho Department of Health and Welfare certification and training coordinator Mike McMasters to try for grades two and three certification in the state's upcoming exams.

A state consent order has instructed the city to staff the plant with at least one grade four and three grade three certified employees within another 180 days as part of an overall upgrading of plant personnel.

Baird said he was asked to resign by Spelling Tuesday and that Spelling told him, "If you don't resign, I'm going to fire you." Kimble Durham said he was asked to resign to resign, and he said he will file a grievance procedure with the city.

Baird said he was fired by Flier Thursday. Spelling was put out of town at the time, Baird said.

Flier said today that Baird had not been fired and that the matter had not been settled. He said any further comment would have to come from Spelling. City Manager Millar said he was not aware that Baird had been fired as he had seen no resignation or termination notices in the past few days.

DECLO HIGH PRINCIPAL HORACE COLTRIN WEATHERS RECENT ALLEGATIONS ... parents have spoken out about quality of education at Declo schools

Declo High School defended

By RAY SULLIVAN
Times-News writer

DECLO — Religion, Drugs, Grades. These three have sparked lively debates among Cassia County residents here since they were mentioned by 20 parents at the Cassia County School District board meeting March 13.

As reported locally, some of those parents voiced beliefs too many Mormons were on the teaching staff at Declo's elementary and high schools, that high school students were forced to take a Mormon seminary class, that drug problems were running rampant in the schools and that grades had been altered.

High School Principal Horace Coltrin said this week that comments he made at the meeting in reply to the charges could have been interpreted that no more than 60 percent of his teaching staff hired were Mormons. Mormons make up about that percentage of the area's population.

Coltrin emphasized hiring teachers is "out of his jurisdiction" and others is "not within his jurisdiction" but that, "What I was trying to say was we don't load up on LDS teachers. We try to take the best."

Coltrin said his statements in the board meeting were "an unfortunate choice of words" from someone "not used to having the press listen to him comment."

"Our method of hiring teachers is based on hiring the best person we can. As a general rule we advertise all over the Intermountain West," School District Superintendent Harold Blauer said. "I interview all applicants before they are hired, with a few exceptions, then a principal will interview them, or if there is a department head, they will get involved."

Blauer said the school board votes on his final recommendations.

Coltrin said the charge that students are forced to take a seminary class may have arisen because a student couldn't get into a "different class." One of the options suggested by high school counselor Diane Somsen may have been the seminary class, he added.

Somsen, a non-Mormon and a counselor for six years at the high school, said she has never told anyone they had to sign up for seminary.

Being a small school (225 students in grades 7 through 12), that may be the only choice that hour for some students, she said.

"They (students) say there is nothing they want to take that hour if they don't want to take some classes, but there are no realistic complaints," Somsen says. "There is not a school in the country that doesn't hear this."

She also said she has never heard any teachers say they were hired on a religious quota.

Coltrin said there have been three students involved in drugs this year, not including alcohol. While a serious problem, it isn't widespread, Coltrin said.

The one incident raised at the meeting, Coltrin said, stemmed from a girl who got sick on a school field trip after two boys secreted an "upper" — an amphetamine-based pill — in candy she was eating.

Three seniors at Declo High felt the whole controversy has emphasized the negative without showing the positive things about Declo.

Kevin Saxton, student body president, says any drug problem has to be looked at in a relative sense. "Compared to what? Compared to others, Declo has nothing more than anyone else."

Angela Tuttle, a lifetime Albion resident, isn't Mormon. She expects to graduate valedictorian this spring. "But that couldn't happen if that were true that non-Mormons were discriminated against," she points out.

Sherri Peterson, secretary of the senior class, is Mormon. She said a B-plus in her seminary class will keep her from graduating tops in her class.

CSI contestants take lead in rodeo events

TWIN FALLS — Host school College of Southern Idaho rodeo contestants last night jumped ahead in five out of nine events at the second annual CSI Aggie Rodeo at the CSI Expo Center.

Though point standings will not be final until after the second night of competition, CSI cowboys and cowgirls took an impressive lead in the Stephens Brothers Horse Badger, saddle bronc riding, team roping, bull riding and breakaway roping.

CSI's Rye Brewer started things rolling for the Twin Falls school with a score of 59 in the Stephens Brothers Horse Badger. Rick Smith then jumped to a lead in saddle bronc riding and later paired with Sean Powers to place first in team roping.

Defending champion Dusty Qualls of CSI took a decisive lead in bull riding with an impressive score of 75.

Weber State College's Lance Robinson, regional points leader, came out in front on calf roping while Snow College's Scott Stephens set a new area record for steerwrestling with a time of 6.5 seconds.

In women's events, CSI's Janene Connerly broke away from the pack with a time of 6.0 seconds in breakaway roping while Dee Cooper of Utah Technical College turned a fast 16.1 seconds on the barrel racing course. Izri Penacker of BYU led the goat tying event with a time of 11.1 seconds.

In the first night of the special media ship, throwing coolest, Ken Hodge of the Times-News tossed his cow chip 78 feet to beat out Terry Clark of KTLK with a throw of 72 feet.

In tonight's contest, more contestants will compete in the same events at 8 p.m. in the Expo Center and the high scorers will fight it out in the finals Saturday night at 8 p.m.

Magic Valley churches plan special Easter services

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — Ever since Jesus' followers went to empty tombs "early on the first day of the week" Christians have gathered together on Easter morning both for worship and fellowship.

Sunrise services, whose popularity often depends upon the physical vigor of those in charge, have become a popular type of Easter service throughout the United States.

According to Rev. Cyril Dorsett of the First United Methodist church in Twin Falls, the custom originated with the Moravians who settled in Pennsylvania from Germany. They would gather in cemeteries on Easter morning to watch the sun rise over the graves, he said.

While relatively few area churches plan sunrise services, all will have special music at their regular worship hour and, in some cases, will schedule an additional service because of the expected large attendance.

At least eight early services, two in an outdoor setting, are scheduled throughout Magic Valley Sunday morning.

Gooding worshippers will gather at 6 a.m. at the butte west of town for a service sponsored by the Gooding Ministerial Association. This will be followed by a breakfast at about 7 a.m. at the United Methodist Church. Worshipers of all denominations are welcome, according to Rev. John Mann, pastor.

Other hardy souls in the Wendell area will gather at 7:30 a.m. at the Sand Springs Ranch where hot drinks and rolls will be served following the service. The event is sponsored by the Wendell United Presbyterian and the Hagerman and Wendell United Methodist churches. Rev. Donald West, Methodist pastor, is in charge of the service.

Folk singing will be featured at the 7 a.m. service at the Eden Trinity Lutheran Church. Breakfast will follow the informal service. There will be a formal festival service at the usual 11 a.m. hour.

The Hollister Community Church will hold a 7 a.m. sunrise service, followed by breakfast at 7:30 a.m.

A community sunrise service is scheduled at the Burley First Christian Church at 6:30 a.m., followed by breakfast at the First United Methodist Church.

Kimberly is another community scheduling a union sunrise service. It will begin at 6:15 a.m. at the Baptist church with Rev. Gale McKinley, of the Kimberly Christian Church, as speaker. The service is sponsored by the Kimberly Pastors Fellowship.

Lutherans in Twin Falls will conduct a sunrise service at 6:30 a.m., followed by breakfast which will be served until 9:15 a.m.

Members of the Clover Lutheran Church will hold a 7:30 a.m. sunrise service at the church followed by a festival breakfast at 8 a.m.

Some congregations plan to gather for breakfast prior to worship services. These include the Flier Lutheran Church where youth will meet at 7:30 a.m.; the Jerome United Presbyterian Church where a continental breakfast will be served between the 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. services; and the Buhl Presbyterian Church where there will be a fellowship breakfast at 10 a.m.

Deacons at the Twin Falls United Presbyterian Church are planning breakfast from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. and an egg hunt for Sunday school children at 10 a.m. in addition to the regular 11 a.m. service.

Celebration at the Twin Falls Church of the Nazarene will begin with a men's prayer fellowship at 7 a.m. Sunday. An Easter program for children is planned for 10 a.m., followed by the regular 11 a.m. service. There also will be a 6 p.m. service with special music.

The Kimberly Church of the Nazarene will present an Easter cantata entitled "Jesus of Nazareth," directed by Marla Harmaning, with Mary Jane Conrad as accompanist. Narration will be by Cathy Lynch and Pastor Mel Royborn. Soloists will be Norma Cameron, Neta West, LeRayborn and Paul Willy, with duets by Howard Conrad and Tammy Armstrong, and Myrtle Harmaning and Jim Fraley.

Magic Valley Water expert gives views on future power sources

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — Power generated by low head turbines in Magic Valley irrigation canals could be an alternative to coal-fired power, according to a water expert, but Idaho's future power will be more costly no matter what the source.

"It would take our canal and all the other canals in Magic Valley to produce what the coal-fired power plant would produce," Ted Diehl, manager of the North Side Canal Company in Jerome, says. "It's a matter of whether they are feasible or not."

Diehl, a former president of the Idaho Water Users Association, along with other canal company managers in Magic Valley, are still studying the feasibility of installing low-head bulb turbines in their canals, but will reach no conclusions so soon, he said.

"These (low head turbines) would be smaller investments and increments of time than coal-fired plants," Diehl says. "But I'm not the power company, so I don't know whether it will meet their needs."

"The canal company is not getting involved with whether we need or don't need a coal-fired plant. That isn't our decision," Diehl says. "But however we do in the future, I bet you we can expect higher energy costs."

Clifford Montgomery, manager of the Twin Falls Canal Company, says both his company and Diehl's voted to go ahead with a second phase of studies after preliminary studies indicated low-head generators might be feasible.

Initial studies completed by consulting engineer Robert Hogg of Boise indicated three sites on the two canal systems where low-head generators might be feasible.

The two companies then jointly hired Jim Patrick, a consulting engineer formerly of Bechtel Corporation and the designer of the American Falls Dam replacement, to continue in-depth studies of low-head sites on their canals.

"We hope to have this study done in May," Diehl says. "We're just looking at the possibility of producing power and selling it."

Diehl says the proposed site at Milner Dam for low-head power generation could generate as much as 6 megawatts during a season. If further study shows the sites feasible, Diehl says the two companies will consider avenues for selling the power they generate because they don't want to go into the transmission business.

Leon Grieve, manager of the Big Wood Canal Company in Shoshone, says his company already has four low-head sites in mind and has applied for financial aid in completing a feasibility study on one of the sites.

"We had a feasibility study on all four of them, but this one has a better chance of going than the others," Grieve says. The sight in question is on the Milner-Gooding Canal between Milner Dam and Shoshone, about a mile south of the Dietrich tract, he says.

KETCHUM — "Help! I'm locked in." Such was the plight of a man in Ketchum, this morning after a losing bout Thursday night at a local tavern.

The Ketchum police incidents blotter reports a call this morning at 5 a.m. from a man who was locked in a local bar.

The man had been out on the town Thursday, got drunk in a local bar, went into the bar's bathroom feeling ill and fell asleep, according to police reports.

When the tippler woke up early this morning, he was still in the bar and incarcerated there because the owners had long since closed up shop.

"Help! I'm locked in," the police blotter reported.

Police notified a bar manager about the situation and he said he would respond when he was able to.

In the meantime, the locked-in gentleman was advised by police "to make himself comfortable."

Egg hunt set

TWIN FALLS — Exchange Club members in Twin Falls will again sponsor an Easter egg hunt for children of the community Saturday.

The hunt will be held in city park for children up to 12 years of age. It will be held in several divisions to give the small toddlers, as well as older children, an opportunity to find eggs.

Rick Carrico, club member, said the hunt will be coordinated with the city parks and recreation department and the police department.

At the sound of the siren from a police car, the youngsters will begin gathering the eggs.

"Within less than a minute there won't be an egg in sight," Carrico said. "Be anyone who wants to take part had better be on the starting line at 10 a.m. sharp."

Carrico said most of the supermarkets in Twin Falls donated eggs for the event which the club sponsors each year on the Saturday prior to Easter Sunday.

Declo residents answer charges

(Continued from page 15) she adds that the question of grade alterations not only insults the teaching staff, but also implies students "are stupid and illiterate and make a lot of mistakes, and I feel that is totally wrong."

Saxton offered this light-hearted answer over the question of changing grades: "I'd like to find the person they say is doing it because I got a whole slug of letters that I like to have somebody change."

Coltrair, the allegation of a teacher changing a grade came about when a teacher was asked by a parent to provide her child with a weekly grade in a subject in which they were getting bad grades.

The principal said the teacher misunderstood and initially gave the student a weekly grade based on the year's work instead of just a week. The grade was changed from a D to a B, but was only an interim grade and not a final grade, he added.

A parent at the meeting, Betty Bailey, said the questions over religion and the other topics were blown out of proportion.

"I think the main reason a lot of us were there is because we are concerned about education in general. We're concerned about the whole system at Declo and whether students are getting (taught) the fundamentals."

Bailey said the parents who attended the meeting weren't fully prepared and just bombarded the board with complaints, with no suggestion of how to correct the problems.

"I think maybe the biggest problem is a lack of communication," she said. "I'm really sorry this religious angle just got blown sky high" when it only covered a few minutes of the two-hour meeting.

Blauer, Coltrair and Elementary School Principal E.S. Robinson say they have met with some parents in the group since that meeting to discuss the problems raised.

Robinson said drugs are not a problem on the elementary level. He pointed out letter grades can be changed since the school uses a skill rating system evaluating student on their ability portray the pantomime of the Lord's Last Supper at 6:30 p.m. with scriptural background while communion is served.

Many special services mark Easter Sunday

The Celebration of the Lord's Passion will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at St. Edward's Catholic Church in Twin Falls. The Easter vigil liturgy will be celebrated at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Easter masses are planned for 8 and 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Regular Sunday school classes in all of the some 90 wards in the Mormon church throughout the Magic Valley will be replaced Sunday by special Easter programs, according to Mill Price, church public relations official. He said speakers at the sacrament services throughout the afternoon and evening will devote to the Resurrection theme.

Arson suspected in fire which destroyed forest building

TWIN FALLS — Sheriff's officers here are investigating a fire which destroyed the Idaho Fish and Game Department building at the Sawtooth National Forest boundary south of Hansen sometime early Thursday.

Deputy Sheriff Harold Jensen said the fire appeared to have been deliberately set. Officers when checking winter traffic for snow tires or chains.

The building was erected for checking station purposes about 30 years ago, but Gorgen said the department might consider use of a travel trailer for a headquarters in the future, rather than going to the expense of rebuilding.

Sheriff's officers said the building had been broken into many times in the past and some vandalism generally occurred every year.

The small two-room structure was made of building blocks and stucco. Officers said only the walls remained following the fire as all of the wooden portions and the interior were destroyed.

Grogen said he did not have a loss estimate, pending a check of the department's inventory of property.

Perhaps the most stylized observance of Christ's resurrection will be held at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension in Twin Falls. The Easter celebration will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday, eve with the lighting of the New Fire and Paschal candle. This service has grown from the tradition of early day Christians who welcomed new candidates to the faith. They baptized and received new members into the church at the beginning of the Easter Sabbath at sundown. Special music and holy eucharist are planned at both the 8-and-10 a.m. services Sunday.

At the Shoshone and Gooding Episcopal churches, the lighting of the Paschal candle, followed by service of holy communion, is scheduled for 9 a.m. Sunday at Shoshone and for 11 a.m. at Gooding. At Shoshone, church school children will place flowers on the cross during the service.

The Gooding Ministerial Association also is sponsoring an Easter night concert by Jody Lavender, a nationally known singer, with World Opportunities, a Christian gospel organization. The concert will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Gooding Methodist Church.

Several communities also are holding Good Friday services this evening. These include the Hagerman Methodist Church where a tenebrae (darkness) service is set for 8 p.m., and an 8 p.m. union service at the American Baptist Church in Gooding, sponsored by the Gooding Ministerial Association.

Boxing event related to check charges

HAILEY — Professional boxing in the Wood River Valley was dealt a hard blow last September when an eight-card bout in Ketchum failed to attract more than 100 people, even though thousands of people had flocked into the area for Ketchum's Waggon Days Celebration.

The promoter of the event and one of his associates were dealt another punch from the failed fights Thursday when criminal complaints were filed in court against them because of several allegedly bad checks written to the boxers and their managers.

The fight's promoter, Al Spiekerman, was charged in 5th District Court in Hailey with obtaining money by false pretenses and Jim McFarland, an associate of Spiekerman, was charged with writing checks with insufficient funds in his bank account.

Seven checks, totaling $4,285, were allegedly written. The checks ranged in amounts from $200 to $1,500 and were written to several of the boxers and their managers, according to the court complaint.

Spiekerman was released on his own recognizance Thursday and a preliminary hearing was set for his case on April 12.

McFarland had bail set at $500 and was still in Blaine County jail Thursday afternoon.

Vehicle recovered

HAILEY — In some professions nothing is holy. Police reports this week showed someone boldly stole a 1977 Chevrolet pickup truck from the driveway of 5th District Judge Douglas Kramer's home in Hailey.

The two-tone brown pickup with a light jump-top camper was driven away from the judge's home sometime late Monday night, according to police reports.

Police departments throughout the Northwest were alerted, but not until Thursday was the stolen vehicle spotted.

Police officers in Winnemucca, Nev., recovered the judge's truck Thursday

Clouds cut chances of Easter sun

Twin Falls, North-Side, Burley-Rupert Area: Increasing clouds late tonight, chance of rain Saturday. Low temperatures tonight near 35 degrees, with high temperatures Saturday 55 to 60 degrees. Probability of precipitation increasing to 40 percent Saturday.

Halley, Camas Prairie, Lower Wood River Valley: Increasing cloudiness and chance of rain late tonight and early Saturday, with a clearing trend by Saturday night.

Overnight lows will be in the 30s and high temperatures Saturday should be in the 40s. Probability of precipitation increases to 50 percent by tonight.

Synopsis: The Friday-morning satellite pictures show weather elements are moving rapidly in the eastern Pacific. The high pressure and sunshine which Magic Valley was enjoying this morning will give way to a return of clouds and a threat of rain by Saturday morning.

The extended outlook for Sunday through Tuesday calls for frequent periods of precipitated, persistent cloudiness and no important temperature changes. The best estimate for Easter Sunday is for cloudy skies and a 30 percent chance of rain. Early morning temperatures would be in the 30s and climb to the 50s during the afternoon.

Farmers might just well plan on taking the weekend off, as it looks like the soils will probably be too wet to work. Soil conditions should be fair to good during the weekend. The highways may be wet at times, but the snow level should be above 8,000 feet.

Doctors' bills likely to keep right on rising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Over the past three decades there has been a stunning rise in the size of doctors' bills and the outlook is for more of the same, says a new government study.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability, which monitors inflation for the White House, issued a 158-page report Wednesday saying fees paid to physicians have soared 80 percent faster than general consumer prices since 1950.

The median annual income of the nation's nearly 400,000 doctors has reached $63,000, the study said, higher than any other occupational or professional group.

The study said the main reasons for the fee escalation during recent years were: lack of competitive pressures to restrain fee increases, extensive health insurance which covers four out of five Americans and government reimbursement practices "which allow the physician to determine the fee and level of insurer reimbursement."

To make matters worse, some doctors may even set "target levels" of annual income "and when demand for their services is insufficient to achieve that income level, they raise their fees in order to achieve it."

Debate offering no recommendations to reverse the trend, the study warned there is little reason for optimism that prices may level off in the future.

The American Medical Association issued a statement from its Chicago headquarters acknowledging that the council's study "raises some serious questions about physician activities."

However, it said it needs more time to study the report, and that it will have a full statement within the next two days.

Americans spent $35 billion for doctors' services during the fiscal year which ended

Lance gives up passport

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The VIP diplomatic passport Bert Lance kept when he left the White House has been returned to the government by the former budget director amid continued disclosures of his private financial dealings.

The document, which exempted Lance from customs searches at airports and helped expedite arrivals and departures on international trips, was returned because Lance decided the matter "was being used to distract from administration goals," said White House press secretary Jody Powell Wednesday.

Lance hopes the return of the document "will relieve the administration of this sort of fun and games," Powell said.

Administration spokesmen had claimed Lance might need the passport to perform personal-emissary missions for Carter. No such mission was ever assigned him.

Lance's financial dealings as a private citizen and bank official in Georgia contributed to the controversy that led to his resignation last September, but his departure from government did not end the controversies.

An attorney said Wednesday a wealthy Pakistani paid $3.5 million worth of Lance's debts in January and then joined Lance and a Saudi Arabian sheikh in high-level financial dealings.

Edwin McAmis, an attorney for Financial General Bankshares Inc., said Lance admitted in a sworn statement that the Pakistani, Agha Hossain Abedi, paid his debt with no questions asked.

McAmis said Lance signed no agreements with Abedi before the payment was made.

The attorney made his statement in the U.S. District Court on behalf of Financial General, which is trying to prevent an alleged takeover by Lance, Abedi and others.

Todd goes campaigning

BOISE (UPI) — An assistant to Attorney General Wayne Kidwell has resigned to head House Speaker Allan Larsen's campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Don Todd, consumer analyst, informed Kidwell last week his resignation is effective March 31.

Todd will join the "Friends of Larsen" Committee as campaign director April 3.

"Though I understand and respect your decision not to seek political office in 1978 I hope and believe that the decision is not a permanent one and that we will again be 'out on the hustings' together in the not-too-distant future," Todd said.

Kidwell announced his intention earlier this year not to seek public office.

Vaira assigned hot spot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Griffin Bell today announced he has chosen Peter Vaira, head of the Justice Department's organized crime strike force, to replace U.S. Attorney General David Marston at Philadelphia.

Bell said he recommended the nomination of Vaira to President Carter last August. Vaira provided he receives an immediate FBI background check on him.

Bell made his selection a year after he first set out to replace Marston, a former assistant to Republican Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania. Bell said he considered Marston a political appointee.

But by the time Bell got around to firing Marston last Jan. 20, Marston had made a record for himself by successfully prosecuting highly placed Democratic office holders in the state.

Marston's dismissal triggered one of the most heated political controversies the administration has faced. Bell pledged to replace Marston with a prosecutor who is "as good or better" to show no obstruction of justice, was intended.

We are fortunate to have an experienced litigator and attorney who has a successful record for convictions in the area of public corruption and organized crime in the mold of Mr. Vaira," Bell said in a statement.

PETER VAIRA ... to Philadelphia

One of Vaira's frequent criticisms of Marston was that he lacked trial experience.

Bell included in his statement a lengthy summary of Vaira's accomplishments since joining the Justice Department in 1962, when he was assigned to the criminal division's organized crime and racketeering section.

Magic Valley sugar beet growers say low-cost insect control starts with THIMET®

Get an early start on your pest control program this season with THIMET® 15-G Soil and Systemic Insecticide at planting time.

THIMET can help keep aphids, beet root maggots, leafhoppers, mites and leaf miners from reducing your sugar beet yields.

THIMET protects from inside each plant

...for weeks... without harm to beneficial insects. And THIMET applied to foliage later on using air or ground equipment controls mites and aphids.

Whether you plan to use THIMET in the ground or on foliage during the growing season, you'll get long-lasting, effective insect control at the right price. Use pesticides effectively. Read and follow label directions carefully.

NY approves Spinks to Norton's dismay

NEW YORK (UPI) — Leon Spinks is the heavyweight champion of the world as far as the New York State Athletic Commission is concerned and that position Thursday evoked cries of "irresponsibility" from Ken Norton's manager, Bob Biron.

The commission voted at a meeting Wednesday night to go along with the World Boxing Association and unanimously support Spinks as the champion despite a World Boxing Council pronouncement recognizing Norton as the titleholder.

"It was the opinion of this commission that we do not recognize Ken Norton as the heavyweight champion of the world as does the World Boxing Council," said Commissioner Floyd Patterson in a prepared statement. "According to the New York State Athletic Commission's rules and regulations—a championship can be lost by default, forfeit or inability to pass the scale (weight) but a championship can only be won by a contender in a contest."

Others attending the meeting were chairman John M. Pendergill and commissioner Luis E. Rios and the commission staff.

Spinks, who defeated Muhammad Ali for the heavyweight title last month, was stripped of his title by the WBC for his refusal to meet Norton in his first defense. Spinks has said he will defend first against Ali and the WBC now recognizes Norton as his champion.

Biron, after hearing the commission's statement, lashed out at the commission.

"I am amazed at the irresponsibility of the New York State Athletic Commission in the statement made today, quoting Floyd Patterson at length," said Biron. "The New York State Athletic Commission in taking their action is obviously refusing recognition to a man who has earned his rights, legally and morally, in the ring and is instead condoning the greatest fraud ever perpetrated on the world of boxing."

"It is strange that one of the first offers we received for a defense of Ken Norton's title came from Teddy Brenner at Madison Square Garden. It's an offer we were considering. New York is the same state that recognized Joe Frazier as world champion when the Garden opened, after Ali was stripped of his title by that very same body."

"It is also shocking that a man like Floyd Patterson would even dare to make the statements he did. This is the same Floyd Patterson who made a defense of his title against an amateur in his first professional fight—Pete Rademacher. This is the same Patterson who tied up the heavyweight title for three years by fighting only one man—Ingemar Johansson. This is the same Patterson whose management faulted every rule in boxing to avoid meeting certain top contenders."

"The New York Commission, particularly Mr. Luis Rios, who was in Justice for the WBC Convention and saw the justice in the Norton case, has violated his oath of office by this irresponsible action—that anybody—realities—Ken Norton has long since died as a boxing power."

"Ken Norton, with or without New York, is ready to defend his title against the number one available contender in accord with WBC regulations."

Kentucky seniors yearn for greatness

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky's senior dominated basketball team has shown little emotion on the court this season, preferring to go about its business winning basketball games as most everyone expected.

Kentucky, which will leave for St. Louis and the semifinals of the NCAA's tourney on Friday, has won four national titles, all under the late, legendary Coach Adolph Rupp. This is Coach Joe Hall's second trip to the final four, having finished second in NCAA in Coach John Wooden's final season at San Diego in 1975.

Kentucky's three senior starters, Rick Robey, Jack Givens and Mike Phillips, along with reserve James Lee are all at San Diego, and are the main reasons Kentucky is where it is right now.

"This team is a little short of being compared with the great teams, the fiddlin' five, Rupp's Runts, the Fabulous Five," Hall said. "Winning the national championship will put this team among the great teams in UK history."

Kentucky was a pre-season favorite to be in the final four in St. Louis, and the Wildcats dispatched their opponents with ease during the regular season that fans and possibly the players themselves took an attitude that it would be a breeze to win the national title.

But a loss at Alabama, snapping a 16-game unbeaten streak, and an overtime loss to LSU, had UK backers second guessing and Hall fretting. He labeled his team the "folding five," and questioned whether their mental attitude matched the Cats' physical prowess.

Kentucky rallied at the end of the season, and defeated Florida State, Miami of Ohio and Michigan State en route to Saturday's date with Arkansas.

However, it took a move by Hall at halftime of the Florida State game, benching three of his seniors, to get the Wildcats charged up to overcome a seven point deficit and advance to the Midwest regionals.

Robey notes the team has not always shown great displays of emotion on the court, but he attributes that to experience.

"We've been through it before and we know what it takes to win," said the 6-10 senior from

New Orleans. "We're dedicated and work hard in practice, then go out and do what we know what to do."

Kentucky is seldom flamboyant, save for an occasional floor length drive from 6-5 forward Lee. They use a strong game underneath the basket, which seldom is fancy.

"I know we've gotten the reputation of being physical, but we're no more physical than anyone else," Phillips insists. "In fact, some teams have thought they would have to be rougher than us to get the job done."

It is possibly the fear of being too physical that prevents Kentucky's players from being too demonstrative on the floor.

But as Kentucky has progressed toward the final four, some of the "strictly business" appearance has faded. Following the Cats' win over Michigan State in the Midwest regionals, Hall was seen hugging players, fans and cheerleaders while Givens and Lee wore nets around their necks.

A national championship might let out four years of emotion at the Checkermore.

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Mitchell Page never has been to Denver but he is hoping the Oakland A's franchise lands in the mile high city, and soon.

"I hear the ball files out of there (Denver) pretty good," says Page, who hit 21 homers in his rookie season with the A's last year.

"It isn't that I don't like Oakland, because I do. The folks there were good to me last year, even though not too many of them came out to see us play."

"I'm hoping we go to Denver for two reasons. The first is that it will be a fresh start for the team and I'm sure the people will come out to see us play, even if it's only out of curiosity. The second is that the park there is a better hitter's park than the Oakland Coliseum."

Page wants to become the first player in baseball history to hit 40 homers and steal 40 bases in the same season. He stole 42 last year, including an American League record 26 in a row. Page says he feels he can steal between 50 and 60 bases if he puts his mind to it. It's the homers that have him worried.

"I don't see how I could ever hit 40 homers playing half our games in Oakland," he says. "That park is tough. The ball doesn't carry at all, especially at night. Now, in Denver, that's something else."

Bob Windles, the A's manager, secretly is hoping the team winds up in Denver, too. Last year the A's had little on or long-ball punch. With the players he now has Windles thinks the team can improve dramatically by playing in Denver.

"He's right," says Page. "Now we have half a dozen players who can hit it out and in Denver they might be dynamite."

The players Page is referring to, besides himself, are Gary Thomasson, Dave Alexander, Wayne Gross, Tony Armas and Gary Alexander.

Graham starts late but finishes first

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI) — Lou Graham almost missed his tee time Thursday but his (ardly) arrival didn't stop him from sharing the first-round lead of the Heritage Golf Classic with Bobby Walz and Howard Twitty.

The 41-year-old golfer shot a 4-under-par 67a in the opening round of this $225,000 event, but there was nothing similar about the way they accomplished it.

Graham, a former U.S. Open champ who was second to Jack Nicklaus in last week's Tournament Players Championship, had seven birdies and three bogeys in an erratic round, sinking a 12-foot putt on the next-to-last hole for his 67.

Walz, who had been playing so poorly of late he was thinking about quitting the tour and returning to his family's jewelry business, also had seven birdies and three bogeys, but wound up tied for the lead by holing a 70-foot wedge shot out of a hazard at the final green.

Twitty, a 6-foot-5, 200-pounder, wasn't even on the leader board until late in the day, but birdied four of his last seven holes, including the last two.

The three wound up the fogged-away opening round one stroke ahead of Rod Carl and Phil Hancock and two ahead of a half-dozen 69-shooters, including two-time Heritage champ Hale Irwin and Tom Weiskopf, who beat Nicklaus by a stroke two weeks ago at Dorset.

Nicklaus is not playing here this week, taking two weeks off to prepare for the Masters after finishing two firsts and two seconds in his last four outings.

Graham had not expected his 67 to stand up Thursday.

"I'm surprised someone hasn't shot a really good round," said the 40-year-old Tennesseean. "We had perfect golfing weather and the course is in really good shape."

The fog which rolled in off the Atlantic Ocean across this resortland delayed the start of the first round by more than an hour, and that almost cost Graham two strokes.

"I almost blew my tee time," said Graham. "They told me they were an hour and six minutes late and I didn't realize they had gained 20 minutes. I barely made it in time."

"That shot on 18 surprised the hell out of me," said Walz. "I was just trying to blast out, hoping to get within 15 feet so I could putt for par."

Walz, now in his fifth year on the PGA tour, had two third-place finishes last year, but played so poorly the past six months he was giving serious consideration to rejoining his brother in the jewelry store in Houston.

"I've been in a bit of a slump," he explained. "Each year I've been out here on the tour I've improved and I was looking for a good year. But the way things have been going late I had been having second thoughts about the tour."

Ed Sneed also was 4-under through 16 holes Thursday, but then double bogeyed the last two holes to wind up back in the pack at even-par 71.

Irwin, the favorite this week because of Nicklaus' absence, matched Twitty's feat of making birdies on the last three holes.

"We can sum up my whole round with those three birdies," said Irwin. "Playing conditions were great today, especially when you compare them to what we had to put up with last week. But you have to be playing well off the tee on this golf course, or else have a fight."

Walz was in the third of 40 threesomes which played the opening round. He predicted incorrectly after his early finish that 67 wouldn't carry to the lead all day. "The course is in beautiful shape," he said. "I feel there will be a lot of low scores."

Tom Watson, second to the pace-setting Nicklaus on this year's money list, opened with a 70 Thursday after missing the cut the previous two weeks. "I'm trying not to let it affect me," said Watson. "But I don't mind telling you I don't like playing this way."

Magic Valley outlaw meet opens Tuesday

FILER — A field of 19 teams will begin battling for the annual Magic Valley Outlaw basketball championship Tuesday night at the Filer high school gymnasium.

The field, down from 24 teams a year ago, will include graduating seniors from several area high schools, including Shoshone Stars, Dave's Music (Twin Falls), Wendell and Dietrich.

Tournament chairman Lee Bartlett said Thursday night one more team would be accepted if entry is made during the weekend. Currently, the Chart House would have a bye at 8 p.m. Wednesday if a 20th team doesn't appear.

The tournament will be single elimination with consolation bracketing, meaning that any team losing after the first round will be out of the competition.

Pairings for Monday night's opening action includes 5 p.m., Shoshone Stars vs. KART Radio of Jerome; 6 p.m., Canyonside Red vs. Murtaugh Merchants; 7 p.m., Thunderbolt of Jerome vs. Kelly Apples of Buhl; 8 p.m., Beans, Inc. vs. Kentucky Fried Chicken; 9 p.m., Dietrich Town Team vs. Volco, Inc. and 10 p.m., Christian Center vs. Wendell Merchants.

Completing the first round Wednesday evening will be 5 p.m., Max's Foodliner vs. Dave's Music; 6 p.m., Bincoo Farms vs. Filer Police; Dave's Big Chief vs. Quality Tile, and 8 p.m., Chart House vs. team to be announced or bye.

Finals will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday through Friday nights. The consolation champions and tournament championship game will be played Saturday evening.

Shavers feels foe shows nervousness

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Heavyweight contender Earle Shavers believes Lamar Holmes' talkativeness is a sign of nervousness.

The 43-year-old Shavers, who fights the fifth-ranked and undefeated Holmes in a 12-round Saturday afternoon fight, will likely determine who gets first shot at Ken Norton's World Boxing Council version of the title, has wound up workouts for the bout and didn't have much to say Thursday.

The 28-year-old Holmes, who owns a 26-0 (19 KOs) record, was quite relaxed. He joked with youngsters and talked with writers for 45 minutes. It was a marked change from the Easton, Penn., fighter's seditious behavior at a Tuesday press conference.

"All scared people talk," said Shavers. "He'll just wait until Saturday. If there's a knockout I'll be the one knocking someone out."

Shavers, who will earn $275,000 for this bout, has spent most of his months training here in Seclusion. While Holmes has held public workouts at a hotel, Shavers has been working behind locked doors in a downtown gym. The secretiveness doesn't bother Holmes' manager-trainer Rivis Giachetti.

"What's he going to do? Change his style?" Giachetti said. "He's the puncher and Larry's the superior boxer. We know what Shavers can and can't do."

Shavers, who lives in Leavittsburg, Ohio, has compiled a 54-6 record which includes 52 knockouts. He is coming off a Sept. 29 title-bout loss to Muhammad Ali. Holmes, who at 6-foot-3, has a three-inch height advantage, knocked out Ibar Arrington in his last fight Nov. 5.

Holmes, a former All-sparring partner, who once earned $125 per week as a Shavers' spare-part, picks up a $100,000 purse for his first fight against a ranked fighter.

Carew enjoys attention that goes with 'superstar' status

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Superstardom sits well on Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins.

The American League's most valuable player, owner of the "best hitting" average since Ted Williams hit the same number — .388 — in 1957, draws crowds wherever he goes around the Twins' spring training headquarters at Orlando's Tinker field.

"Sure, I like the attention," said Carew. "It goes with the game."

In past years, Carew has performed goodwill missions for the club without fanfare.

He makes frequent speaking appearances, and a couple winters ago he appeared gratis on the Twins' winter tour — an on-going junket through the snowy Northeast states designed to drum up interest and sell tickets for the coming season.

Despite these gestures, to many he seemed aloof and hard to know.

But in Spring, 1978, he's different.

Always a private person, Carew signs endless autographs, politely acknowledging the thanks and good wishes. Visiting writers seek him out first and he answers the same questions over and over without irritation. He goes farther than he has to.

All this has helped Carew overcome the label of being moody, which sometimes plagued him early in his career.

In fact, one Tinker Field visitor remarked after spending some time with the six-time American League batting champion, "Hey, that Carew has gotten to be a nice guy. I like him now."

Carew uses his status to impart lessons to youngsters. For example, one day he was carrying on a conversation with a writer and signing a ball for a visiting club official when a boy leaped from the stands and ordered: "Hey, Rod, when you get through with that ball, sign this."

"Is that any way to ask a person for a favor?" Carew asked, without looking up. "You're asking me to do something for you that I don't have to do. You should try to be more polite and I bet everybody will feel better."

The kid quaked. Carew turned around and signed his program.

"Thanks," the boy whispered.

The boy's partner who watched the whole exchange said, "Mr. Carew, would you please sign this for me?"

"Glad to," said Carew, grinning.

Carew, who is nursing a king-size desire to play in a World Series, seems to have a realistic assessment of the Twins' chances this year.

"I think this is a better team than we had at the start of last season," he said. "There are a lot of young guys in camp and they are trying hard and look good."

"Our pitching will be better than last year. I don't see why we won't be able to contend with the other clubs."

Carew's desire to play in the series and the fact he's in the final year of a three-year contract inspire questions about him possibly leaving the Twins, the only team he has played for in his 11 years in the majors. The 11-time All-Star says bluntly:

"If the opportunity came for me to play with a team that can get into the series, then I would have to look at my situation. I don't want to be like some of the great hitters who never played in the series."

Carew, who has been signed by a big talent agency and is appearing for the first time in national television commercials, isn't forcing the issue of renegotiating.

"If they want to do something about a new contract, it's up to them. I'm not pushing," said Carew, who got a $100,000 midwinter bonus from the club after his amazing 1977 season.

Bruin golfers win triangular meet

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Bruins golfers won a triangular meet with Burley and Minico Thursday afternoon.

The Bruins defeated the other two teams with a 26, 34 strokes better than Minico and 47 strokes better than Burley.

Medalist for the meet was Tracy Frank who shot a 69. Others with low scores for the Bruins were Mike Hamilton, 71; Mike Schlegel, 73; Mike Donnelly, 74; and Matt Begley, 75.

The low score honors for Burley went to Wayne

Davil with an 81 while Greg Toolson shot a 74 for Minico.

The Bruin junior varsity also won its meet, scoring 327 to Burley's 379 and Minico's 383.

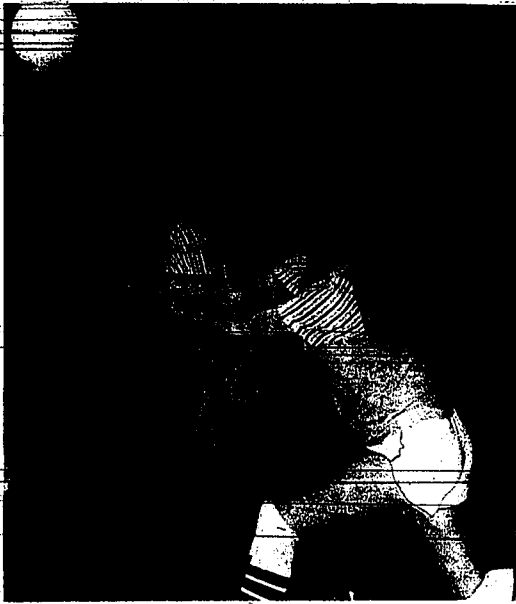

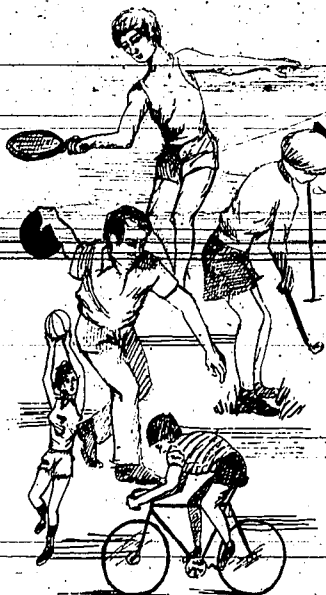

Medalists for the JV's was Steve Osborn with a 79, Bill Long carded an 80, Gary Baum, 82; Brian Mason, 83; and Tom Ridgeway, 83.

The Bruins will meet the members of the SIC West in a meet at the Purple Sage golf course in Caldwell Monday afternoon.

BOUNCING BALL grabs the attention of Portland's Lionel Hollins and Milwaukee's Marquee Johnson in NBA play Thursday night. Johnson came up with possession.

Volleyball tourney begins Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — The opening round of the YWCA women's volleyball tournament next Wednesday night will pit the A league winner Century Yamaha against the second place B league of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

The match should provide a good test of the strength of the two leagues. While Century must play a game in the opening round, B league champion Beutler Bermina will wait until the second round match to play the winner of the Century-MVMH game.

Other games to be played Wednesday include Pepsi and Independent Meat, Coors and Stalley, Times-News and Wm Construction and the Pour Haus versus Barger Mattson.

Each of the teams will play two matches Wednesday night and the championship games will take place at the April 5.

Youth soccer loop organizes April 1

TWIN FALLS — A youth soccer league for students from the fourth grade to the ninth grade will be organized April 1 at 10 p.m. at Stuart Street Jr. High.

The league is being sponsored by the Twin Falls Recreation Department and will be under the direction of Amin Zolfaghari, a CSI student from Iran.

He was a member of the Iranian national team which captured the first place among Asian countries in 1973, 74 and 75. The basic skills of the sport will be demonstrated by Zolfaghari in the first meeting April 1 and he will continue to coach the teams after the league is organized.

This is the second year for the league and both boys and girls are invited to enter the league.

Soccer is the sport played most by teams and individuals throughout the world, according to Zolfaghari.

Fastpitch loop slates meeting

The Magic Valley Fastpitch Softball Association will hold its pre-season organizational meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the city council chambers of the Twin Falls City Hall.

Final plans for organizing the league will be made, and representatives of all teams wishing to participate in the league will be present at the meeting. Also, anyone who wishes to play on the league but has not yet found a team to play on should be at the meeting.

Current plans call for a five- or six-team league with a 20-game schedule for each team. The league will include teams from both the Twin Falls and Burley areas, and any other area in the Magic Valley which wishes to field a squad. League play should begin around the last week in April.

The association will also help host an ASA fastpitch invitational tournament in Twin Falls in May.

At Wednesday's meeting, scheduling dates, league fees and league rules will be discussed.

"Our main goal this summer will be to make it as simple as possible for people to participate in a fastpitch softball program," an association spokesman said. "We are going to try and be flexible in our scheduling so we do not conflict with existing slowpitch programs, and so we can give all interested ballplayers a chance to see what fastpitch softball is like."

It has been more than a decade since fastpitch has been played in Twin Falls, and several years since it was last played in Burley. Active fastpitch leagues do exist in Idaho Falls, Pocatello, Boise, Nampa, Utah and Nevada.

Finley reluctant about spending another million dollars to buy up Oakland pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Charlie Finley remained adamant Thursday about not paying more than $1 million as his share in buying out the final 10 years of the A's lease in Oakland.

Meanwhile, Giants co-owners Bob Lurie and Bud Hershey went into hiding, presumably to ponder the logic of also putting up $1 million to buy out the San Francisco Bay Area's lease on the A's.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn in New York, American League President Lee MacPhail in Tampa, Fla., and National League President Club Feeney in Phoenix watched and waited for the next chapter to unfold in the on-again, off-again sale and transfer of the A's to Denver.

And Marvin Davis, the wealthy Denver oilman who is trying to buy the A's, fled home for warmer Palm Springs, Calif. Whereas on Wednesday he said he expected to have the purchase deal closed by Friday, now he is saying it may come next Monday.

"I'm still 90 percent sure the sale will be completed," said Davis, who has offered $12.5 million to buy the A's and move them to Denver in time for the start of the 1978 season; less than two weeks away.

Davis said he had a battery of lawyers working on getting all the papers and documents ready for signatures and the poor guys are going to work all weekend on the program. There just was no way they could have things ready by Friday.

MacPhail had given Finley until Thursday to come up with $2 million or the deal to sell to Davis would be off. MacPhail hedged a bit Wednesday, saying his deadline was not hard and fast. He left Florida on Thursday and reportedly was headed for Denver.

Maybe Davis knows something no one else does, but Finley, in Chicago, insisted Thursday his position has not changed. He still wants to sell the club to Davis but said he will put up only one-third of the money needed to buy out the A's lease in Oakland.

The Oakland Coliseum Commission, which will meet Friday morning, reportedly has asked for $2.25 million to release Finley from the remaining years of the contract. In addition, the Giants will play half their games in Oakland and the other half in San Francisco. That's the so-called settlement agreement.

"There's no doubt about it," Finley said. "I won't put up another dime. If I'm willing to put up one third and baseball is willing to put up one third, then someone else like the owner of the San Francisco Giants should put up the other third."

"It's just as important to him for the A's to leave town as it is for the A's to move to Denver. I've offered to put one million into the kitty. I understand baseball is willing to put in another mill. Where they will get the other mill I don't know. It sure as hell is not coming from Charlie Finley."

Lurie insisted earlier in the week that he would not pay a cent toward buying up Finley's lease. He claimed playing half his games in Oakland and half in San Francisco will increase his costs by $20,000 a year, computed over 10 years, that would come to $2.5 million.

"I think that not only enough but it also is reasonable," Lurie said.

Thursday, though, he was not reachable. Neither was Hershey, his co-partner, in Phoenix. It was believed they were discussing the logic of going the last step and putting up the $1 million it will take to finalize the franchise transfer of the A's to Denver.

When Finley was told his sale was sure the deal will be closed on Monday, he said, "great, I'm all for it. The sooner we do this the better. I feel like it's close but I don't know."

Evansville recruit bid rejected

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — The University of Evansville has run into a problem with NCAA recruiting rules in its efforts to rebuild a basketball team destroyed in a place crash last December.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has turned down the school's request that it be allowed to bring more than 18 prospective players to campus — the limit set to visits by potential basketball recruits.

For most schools that's enough — but most schools didn't lose all 14 players and a head coach in a crash chartered airplane crash.

"We're faced with the dilemma of needing to sign two-thirds of the guys who visit the campus," said new Coach Dick Walters. "Therefore, we have to be very selective in who we invite to visit. We have to make sure a player is really interested."

So far, two players have made trips to Evansville — both members of Walters' team this winter at College of DuPage. One of them, Randy Okreskie, a 6-2 guard, has announced he'll enroll next fall instead of at Houston, where he had intended to play.

Walters said he won't give out all 15 of his basketball scholarships next fall.

"It would be a mistake to give them all out and then not have any left the following year," the coach said. "So we'll give 9 to 12 scholarships and then accept walk-ons."

Recycled water used by Soviets in space

HOUSTON (UPI) — Cosmonauts who set a 96-day space endurance record in a Salyut used water recycled from human waste, showers and perspiration, according to a veteran unofficial observer of the Russian space program.

"This is a great weight savings for them," Air Force Capt. James E. Oberg said Wednesday. "They are recycling 90 percent of the water they are using."

American astronauts do not recycle their water.

Oberg, who does not speak for NASA or the Air Force, predicted that within two years cosmonauts will use recycled air and growing food in space. He also said he expects new Soviet space endurance records in the next few months.

He made the remarks at a meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics at Johnson Space Center.

Oberg said Soviet project managers on the ground use voice stress analysis to determine the psychological health of cosmonauts and work hard to keep them happy in flight.

"They are very big on psychology to keep their crews happy in space," he said.

Oberg said cosmonauts are supplied with videotapes, radio programs, news from home and in-flight communication with their families.

He said he reportedly similar to that being developed by the United States, but he said "it sounds logical."

Oberg said it probably is more like a space taxi than a space truck like the American shuttle.

The Russians are using a new single-size space suit that is adjustable for different-size cosmonauts and can be put on in five minutes, Oberg said.

He said the next significant Soviet space development will be space station of several modules, which he called the first step toward manned interplanetary flight.

Diggs charged 35 counts of financial and mail fraud

CHARLES DIGGS ... congressman indicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twelve-term Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., a founder of the Congressional Black Caucus, was indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday on charges of mail fraud and making false statements in a payroll kickback scheme.

The indictment, returned in U.S. District Court in Washington, charged Diggs on 35 counts — 14 of mail fraud based on financial transactions handled by letter, and 21 of making false statements to the House finance office.

The grand jury charged that between July 1973 and March 1977, Diggs schemed to defraud the government of more than $10,000 by giving raises to members of his staff and taking part of the money for himself.

Diggs, 55, on a world tour as chairman of a House International relations subcommittee, dictated a statement to his Washington office from Mozambique saying: "I am innocent of the charges being leveled against me."

"I do not believe that I have violated any federal law or any House rule or precedent. Allegations in an indictment do not prove guilt and I am confident that due process of law will vindicate me."

The indictment said Diggs "inflated" the salaries of staff members and then "would and did covertly direct that the inflated portion of salary, in excess of that person's regular per annum rate of pay ... be kicked back to and applied for the use of defendant Diggs."

The grand jury said Diggs made the false statements in connection with payroll vouchers filed with the House.

The indictment also charged that Diggs put on his congressional payroll three employees of his mortuary firm in Michigan, the House of Diggs.

Each of the mail fraud counts carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $1,000 fine, and the false statement counts, five years and a $10,000 fine each.

Twin Falls, Buhl road to close

TWIN FALLS — Peter Kiewitt and Sons, successful bidder on a grading and widening project for the south half of the Lilly Grade, will begin work Monday, necessitating closure of the grade during working hours.

The Twin Falls Highway District has announced the south half of the grade will be closed weekdays from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. each weekday for about three weeks.

Highway district manager Floyd Dayley said the crews will be drilling, blasting and dozing rock from the roadway.

Kiewitt, with a bid of $53,000, was low bidder on the 1,000-foot-long improvement project for the roadway. Other bidders included Western Construction, Boise, $69,000; and Lane Pine Construction, Twin Falls, $56,000.

The northern half of the road is in the Buhl Highway District. Farmers in the far west end of the county use the road for regular travel and to haul produce to market. While the road is closed this traffic will have to detour via Rogerson. The project will provide a 30-foot wide road through the grade for improved travel conditions for farm trucks and regular vehicles. Specifications call for 37,000 cubic yards of excavation material.

Riders clinic begins Saturday

TWIN FALLS — Riders interested in dressage training are invited to participate in a clinic Saturday in the Woodlands Arena, 3 1/2 miles south of the Agrow Research Center at Filer.

The clinic, the first of the current season, will be sponsored by the Magic Valley chapter of the Idaho Dressage and Combined Training Association.

Mary Kilmab, Bellevue, will be clinician and will be working with riders and horses to show basic dressage maneuvers. Classes will be in English equipment, jumping or western riding as well as the basic dressage techniques.

Anita Fahrenwald, member of the sponsoring organization committee, said anyone interested in learning basic riding skills is welcome to participate.

"We have some good riders who need to train their young horses, but we also have some well trained horses but the riders may need pointers to fully utilize the horses' training," she said.

"The clinic should be of interest to both groups."

If the weather is wet or too cold, arrangements will be made for an indoor arena, and the new location will be announced. Persons interested in more information may call Fahrenwald at 733-1897, evenings.

Drive-through facility approved

JEROME — The Jerome Arctic Circle Drive-In will soon become a "drive-through" as well. The fast food restaurant, located at 306 S. Lincoln St. on the corner of Avenue B, gained city council approval Tuesday night to construct a drive-through, take-out window and customer car line.

Ed Evans, Jerome public works director, presented a blue print of the new addition.

Customer cars would enter the drive-through facility from the alley in back of the present restaurant and exit onto Avenue B. An addition to the restaurant would be built for the window replacing an awning now in back of the building.

Evans said there should be no traffic problems caused by the new drive-through and said drive-in restaurants cannot survive without such a facility.

The restaurant would still have nine off-street employee parking spaces and three for customers.

Arctic Circle is expected to begin construction almost immediately.

Motorist crashes into old store

TWIN FALLS — Lee Cunningham, 23, was charged with driving while intoxicated early Thursday after his car crashed through the side of the old Albertson Store at west five points.

City police said Cunningham was not at the scene when they arrived to investigate the accident, but witnesses reported he had been urging the vehicle at 1:30 a.m. when it left D. J.'s lounge. Police went to the Cunningham home where the man was arrested. He was not injured and no damage estimate was made by police. The store building which is now vacant is owned by Arlan Bastian, Twin Falls. The accident occurred about 2:30 a.m.

Accord near MULLAN, Idaho (UPI) — A tentative agreement has been reached and may end the three-week old strike at the Lucky Friday mine in the Coeur d'Alene Mining District.

Spokesmen for both sides announced they had reached tentative agreement on a new three-year pact in a joint news conference Wednesday. The rank and file must now okay the pact. Union members meet Saturday to consider the new offer.

When you need a HELPING HAND

Moving large household items you no longer use from one storage spot to another can be a tough job. But more important than that, it can be an exercise in futility. When you have no further need for these large items (small ones too!), why not call on the kind of help that will move these articles once and for all... and bring you cash at the same time!

It's so easy. Just use one finger to dial our number. Then we'll help you word and place an ad in Classified which will seek out a cash buyer for whatever you'd like to sell.
