

Rodents breach canal, start flood

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — Ground squirrels burrowing in the walls of a major irrigation canal southwest of Kimberly started a flood this morning.

A leak in the High Line Canal sent about 1,500 cubic feet per second of muddy ditch water rushing through a pasture and into Rock Creek early today.

The flood waters raged through an 80-foot gash in the banks of the High Line Canal, eroded a deep cut in Thomas Olmstead's pasture, threatened the home of his employee and flooded a second employee's basement.

The escaping waters reached Rock Creek where they washed out a neighboring trout farm and threatened nearby homes.

Other trout farms downstream near Twin Falls were threatened and some were damaged by muddy water.

The canal, which branches off the Mainline Canal near Murtaugh and carries irrigation water to farmers in western Twin Falls County, broke between 1 a.m. and 2 a.m. this morning, officials estimated.

Nearby residents did not notice the flood until 3:30 a.m. or later.

"We woke up about four o'clock," Edgar Dodge, whose home narrowly missed flooding, said this morning.

"So we got up and got to wondering what was going on and looked outside and the whole driveway was just a lake."

Dodge, one of Olmstead's employees, reported rushing waters washed part of Olmstead's pasture "clear down to the bedrock."

Olmstead, president of the board of directors of the Twin Falls Canal Company, said he blames rodents for the break in the dike.

"I suppose the ground squirrels made a pinhole in the bank," Olmstead speculated. "That's all it takes to start a leak. There are an awful lot of rodents on the canal this year."

High Line Canal repairs to be made in 24 hours

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Canal Co., operating on an emergency basis this morning following the break in the High Line canal, expects repairs on the canal to be completed in 24 hours.

Heavy equipment was on the site of the canal break by daylight today to begin repairs and divert water away from the damaged section of the bank.

Tom Olmstead, president of the Twin Falls Canal Co. board of directors, said "We are operating on an emergency basis and everything possible is being done to correct the situation as soon as possible."

Olmstead said some canal workers were estimating repairs could be made in 12 hours and water deliveries resumed, "but I'll be surprised if we can finish it in any less than 24 hours."

Olmstead said plenty of fill dirt is available near the break site.

He said the opposite side of the canal is high and dirt from beyond the bank can be easily hauled to fill the hole which will save considerable haul time.

He said some compaction work will be required but once replaced the bank should hold.

Olmstead said the break, probably the result of rodent holes, washed out somewhere around 1 a.m. and 2 a.m. today and was discovered by his hired man when water began running into the driveway of the man's home.

The canal company crews were immediately notified as were county, city, highway district and even power and telephone crews.

Sheriff's officers were on the scene about 4 a.m. to determine if there was any damage to residents in the vicinity of the break, or if roads were expected to wash out.

The county road which crosses Cottonwood Creek south of Kimberly was the only one closed early today.

A small bridge washed away when the creek swelled from water diverted above the break.

Water was shut down at Milner Dam, but had no immediate effect because of the miles of canal above the break.

Tax rollback recommended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reacting to public pressure in an election year, the House Ways and Means Committee has voted 19-18 to roll back about half the Social Security tax increases voted last year for 1979 and 1980.

"Last year we saved the Social Security system and now we're in the process of saving ourselves," said Rep. William Brodhead, D-Mich., reflecting the clear sentiment of panel members that they had no choice in an election year.

The vote, if it is affirmed by Congress, also sets a major new precedent by using general revenue funds for the first time to shore up the faltering Social Security trust fund. About $14.5 billion would go into the system to make up for the loss of tax revenues.

The deciding vote on the motion offered by Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., was committee chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., who broke an 18-18 tie despite his opposition to any changes in the major tax increases enacted by Congress in 1977.

However, the committee was forced into its action by public protest, reflected in a vote of House Democratic members instructing the panel to take action.

To the worker making the maximum salary, the rollback would mean a payment of $122.65 less tax in 1979 and $189.52 less in 1980, roughly half the expected increase.

At the $20,000-salary level, the saving would be $56 in each year, and at the $10,000 level it would be $28. There would be proportionate savings at other salary levels.

Under the Gibbons proposal the Social Security tax rate, now 6.95 percent and scheduled to rise to 6.10 percent in 1979, would be rolled back to the 1977 level of 5.85 percent.

The wage base — the maximum amount of income on which the tax is collected — would rise to $21,900 in 1979 instead of $22,900, and to $23,900 in 1980 instead of $25,900. The wage base now is $17,700.

To pay for the tax cut, the Gibbons proposal would use $6.2 billion in general revenue funds in 1979 and $8.3 billion in 1980, a total of $14.5 billion.

Committee action came after a spirited afternoon of debate during which numerous other proposals were rejected, some using general revenues and some merely allowing the trust fund to be depleted by an additional amount.

"I don't believe we're in a mood to agree on anything," said Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio.

Members were clearly upset at the task, and the most heated debate was over whether to use general revenues.

Those funds have been used before for Medicare, which is financed largely by the Social Security tax, but never in such a large amount for Social Security itself.

The system until now has been financed entirely from payroll taxes on workers and employers.

"Social Security is the one thing in America that worked right in the last 40 years," said Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Texas. "Why do we want to bitch it up?"

Postage to 15¢ today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Rate Commission today rejected President Carter's proposal of a special "citizen's rate" for mail and recommended a 2-cent increase to 15 cents for all first class letters.

If approved by the Postal Service Board of Governors, the higher mail rate could go into effect within a month.

The administration had proposed increasing the first class rate from the present 13 cents to 16 cents for business mail while retaining the 13-cent rate for personal or "citizen's" letters.

The commission said its recommended increase in the first class mail rate and numerous changes in the rates for other classes of mail is designed to provide the U.S. Postal Service with $17.5-billion in annual revenue, including its congressional appropriations.

The 15-cent first class rates apply to the first ounce. Each additional ounce would cost another 13 cents.

The cost of postcards would increase from 9 cents to 10 cents. The commission recommended continuing existing discounts for pre-sorted bulk mail and for various classes of business reply mail.

The rate changes will increase postal revenue by $1.9 billion, the commission said. This is $7 million less than the Postal Service requested in a formal application for rate changes last summer.

The proposed creation of a "citizen's rate" for personal correspondence was rejected on a 3-1 vote with Vice Chairman Simon M. Bright dissenting; the commission said.

Kickback charges denied

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto magnate Henry Ford II has denounced as "blatant untruths" accusations that he and other Ford Motor Co. officials engaged in illegal bribes and kickbacks.

In a dramatic courtroom-style exchange in the company's annual stockholders' meeting Thursday, Ford brushed aside an attorney's suggestion that he abdicate as chairman of the firm his grandfather founded 75 years ago, until his name is cleared.

"I haven't done anything and I don't intend to step aside," the 64-year-old chairman said.

Jury is looking into allegations the company bribed Indonesian officials in 1975 to secure a $30 million contract for Ford's Philips division to build a satellite communications system.

"I deplore the need to dignify blatant untruths by responding to them so publicly," Ford said in a prepared speech. "But to do less would be to disregard my obligations to the company and its stockholders."

Ford repeated a point-by-point rebuttal of the charges contained in the New York suit, flatly denying he "at any time accepted a payoff or kickback from anyone."

He also denied the company's involvement in an Indonesian bribe scheme.

"I don't know what I can tell you other than we didn't pay a bribe," Ford said in response to a barrage of questions from New York attorney Roy C. Cohn, who filed the New York lawsuit on behalf of a Ford stockholder.

Cohn pressed Ford and Henry R. Nolle, the company's vice president and chief counsel, to respond to charges that Ford officials had admitted "forging and back-dating documents" given to the Justice Department during an investigation of the Indonesian matter.

"I know the answer, but I'm not going to answer that question because I don't know the legal implications," Ford said. "This is not a court of law."

Ford stockholders, in an apparent vote of confidence, re-elected the board of directors and adopted three company-sponsored proposals by votes of more than 98 percent.

They also overwhelmingly rejected two stockholder proposals that would have limited officials' pensions and required disclosure of any former government employees now holding top Ford positions.

Ford is accused in a $30 million New York lawsuit of taking $750,000 in kickbacks from Canteen Corp. in return for lucrative catering rights at Ford factories and offices. The suit also charges Ford of improperly using company funds to maintain private homes in New York and London.

A more serious charge came to light this week when it was reported that a grand

Junk food fight hits roadblock

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The fight to stop the sale of sugary, fattening snack foods from the federally supported school breakfast program has been jeopardized by the surprise vote of two congressional committees, a consumer group said Thursday.

Esther Peterson, President Carter's consumer adviser, said the committees showed a "thoughtless disregard" for both children and their parents in two separate votes Wednesday.

"At issue is an Agriculture Department proposal to do away with vitamin-sprayed doughnuts and other fortified snack-type foods in the school breakfast program. USDA made the proposal months ago but has been under heavy pressure from the food manufacturing industry to scrap the idea."

On Wednesday the Senate Agriculture Committee, on a motion from Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., amended a pending child nutrition bill to prohibit USDA from banning sugary cereals until two current studies are finished. One is 18 months away from completion.

Then a House appropriations subcommittee added language to another piece of legislation that would require any decision on the use of expirations be left to local officials.

"The whole thing is really in trouble," said Kathleen Shekep, spokeswoman for the Consumer Federation of America, the nation's largest organized consumer group. If the Senate measure goes through, she said, the issue will be shelved for another two school years.

"This is clearly an attempt to use a study to delay implementation of responsible public policy," Mrs. Peterson said.

Earlier this year the CFA and other consumer groups, joined by several members of Congress, mounted a campaign against the doughnuts.

"The use of fortified snack-type products in the school breakfast program places a priority on convenience instead of food quality," Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., said at the time.

"If the food served children during this meal is in the form of a sweet cake, how then are they expected to eat for the rest of the day or for the rest of their lives?"

Barré protein drink exported to Russians

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Coca-Cola Co. says it is building a plant in Russia to manufacture Samson, a high-protein drink made of cheese whey which it claims the government barred from U.S. schools because it would compete with milk.

Samson — which comes in orange, pineapple and mango — is already being produced and sold in over 20 Latin American countries, but the company said it has no plans to market it in the United States.

Coke spokesman John White said Wednesday the drink is made from cheese whey, a liquid abstracted from cheese. He said it contains 2 percent protein, whereas milk has about 3 1/2 percent protein.

"The whey processing plant is being installed in the Soviet Union on a pilot basis to test the technical and economic factors involved" in the development of the beverage, White said. The plant was located in Russia, he said, because whey is readily available there.

The plant, he said, was originally scheduled to begin operations this month but has met with technical delays.

Coca-Cola Chairman J. Paul Austin discussed plans to manufacture the drink in the Soviet Union at a meeting of business and economic writers in Atlanta earlier this week.

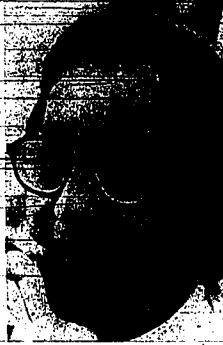

Huey Newton in court again

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Black Panther leader Huey Newton faced further court action today in Alameda County over a barroom brawl in which two shots were fired.

Newton, 36, was arrested in Santa Cruz early Thursday and charged with assault with intent to commit murder and being an felon in possession of a gun.

While Newton was temporarily held in a Santa Cruz jail, Assistant District Attorney Tom Orloff demanded Newton's bail in another case — he is charged with murdering a 17-year-old prostitute in 1974 — be raised to $200,000.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Martin N. Putsch held he would rule on Orloff's motion today.

Medics' role backed in reply to Carter

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The president of the American Medical Association says doctors are hampered by federal bureaucracy but still have managed to improve health care and hold down costs.

Dr. John H. Budd of Cleveland Thursday said the AMA resented remarks by President Carter last week accusing the organization of being an obstacle to better medical care.

Budd said Carter's speech was "inaccurate, unfounded and unfair."

"His talk was not productive in helping the problems that exist," Budd said. "There are probably people who overcharge or who are incompetent in many walks of life, including the Congress. I think their salaries are a bit over-inflated."

Budd said although American doctors provided the best medical care in the world and that it was becoming more available to more people, they were "a ball in a ping-pong game." While the Health, Education and Welfare Department demands lower costs, the Federal Trade Commission tried attempts to set ceiling prices on medical care stifled competition.

Budd said Carter should be "a little more agreeable and cooperative to our side. I think it doesn't help to criticize publicly. We could be very critical of the government in many ways, and sometimes we are. They have problems, of course, but of course they're doing the best they can and we'll try to help where we can and not always will be criticizing."

In his speech later at the Texas Medical Association's convention, Budd said, "In addition to costs themselves, the AMA is apprehensive over some of the measures proposed to control the increases. So while ready to do all we can to moderate the rising costs care, we will resist — sensibly and reasonably — all unreasonable federal interference with the system of providing care. And we will oppose cost-cutting which might lower the quality or restrict availability."

Probe conflict charged

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The chief investigator for a public interest group probing the Willow Island disaster in which 51 men died on April 27 said Thursday there is a potential conflict of interest in a federal agency's investigation of the accident.

Robert Stulberg, investigator for the Health Research Group, said, "Our chief concern right now is that the man leading the OSHA investigation is the same man who signed the memo which indicated a serious hazard associated with the scaffold."

"When we asked that man, David Rhone, why he didn't follow up on the memo he said he wasn't aware of any inspection. (That) had never been made — OSHA is — no — longer — a disinterested party," Stulberg said.

Rhone, an OSHA regional administrator in Philadelphia, was returning to Parkersburg and was in a telephone interview from Washington, Stulberg said he stands behind the group's findings released Wednesday, that OSHA ignored its own warnings about the scaffolding 14 months before the disaster. He said the group was notifying Congress and labor leaders in an effort to get an independent study "into all circumstances surrounding in the disaster."

The scaffolding at Monongahela Power Co.'s new plant at Willow Island peeted away from the top of a cooling tower and sent 51 construction workers to their deaths.

After the group released its report Wednesday, Dr. Eula Bingham, OSHA director, immediately branded it as "superficial." She said the research group had based its findings on internal OSHA documents that don't have anything to do with the probable cause of the April 27 disaster.

Stulberg said his group doesn't have a technical explanation for the scaffolding collapse, but it's report "raises serious questions" about OSHA's apparent failure to heed its own warnings. He said several OSHA officials saw the memos and failed to take action.

Stulberg's research group based its findings primarily on memos indicating the agency was concerned about the scaffolding used in the construction of the first cooling tower in March 1977. The investigator said at least two officials from the contractor, Research-Cottrell, said the same scaffolding was used on the second cooling tower, where the accident occurred.

Lid stays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, refusing to follow the lead of its House counterpart, has rejected a proposal to lift the three-year-old U.S. arms embargo against Cuba.

The committee voted 8-4 Thursday against lifting the embargo. On May 4, the House International Relations Committee voted 18-7 to rescind the arms ban.

The White House and the Pentagon have advocated lifting the ban in order to strengthen relations with Turkey and rebuild deteriorating NATO strength in the Eastern Mediterranean.

Junk food plan

"If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," appears to be the policy of several schools these days in serving up lunches for students.

But is the policy of serving up fortified "junk food" a case of throwing in the towel too early? The Buhl school board is now considering a lunch program presented by Carol Fultz, cafeteria supervisor for the Buhl schools, which is modeled after an experimental program in Las Vegas.

Members of the Buhl school board are correct in taking more time to study the situation. They should not only look at the short-run effect, but should investigate the long-range effects such a program may have on children.

A fortified junk food program may indeed bring some of the students back to the cafeteria and may also put more protein in their growing systems, but will bad eating habits be fostered, or be continued, because of such a program?

Getting children to eat properly has always been a problem, of course, and it will continue to be, regardless of how much protein and how many vitamins are added to junk food.

Mother's Day still special
Mother's Day is commercialized like all holidays, but it still can be a significantly personal day if one is so inclined.

The over-commercialization of the day has been offered as a reason that the day won't be officially mentioned in most Magic Valley churches Sunday.

Personal feeling and expression can always rise above any advertisement.

Berry's World
The market was up again!

Sports seem pretty dumb to me, but I guess there are a couple of people out there who are fans. I have noticed that many newspapers run sections devoted to sports, and occasionally I will turn on the television to find a sports contest being broadcast.

What you have just read is your basic public catchall letter. It may have seemed to say nothing to you, but it in fact touched on the two major themes of today's column: "sports" and "broadcast." You just watch. You learn something new here every day.

I thought he was demoted at the time, but now it turns out that he is only one of thousands, maybe millions of Americans who are willing to do such a thing; pay long-distance fees to listen to otherwise unavailable broadcasts of their favorite teams over the telephone.

A businessman named Dan B. Grimland, based in Indianapolis, has founded a company called Telesport that is designed to serve this very constituency. Grimland's idea is brilliant in its simplicity: if you want to hear a game - any game, any sport, be it professional, college or high school - as long as it is being broadcast somewhere in America - and you are unable to hear it in the area where you live, you just call Telesport at least 24 hours in advance.

Consider the prospects: The last time around the track, we had only two Republicans competing - Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan. In his heart of hearts, doubtless Mr. Ford would like to run again; the ignominy of being licked by Jimmy Carter must still rankle. But a dozen reasons argue against a second race.

There is a more attractive gentleman in public life than Ronald Reagan; I have not met him. But the former governor of California is getting a little long in the tooth. If he were nominated and elected, he would be 70 at his inauguration.

Chicago City Inspectors
Chicago City Inspectors spent all their time mooching $20 bills from taverns and pizza parlors. But this is not all they do. They also spend their time bullying small landlords.

One such example is Mrs. Helen Gwartz, a white-haired widow, who has worked and scrimped to own a little three-flat on the Northwest Side. It's a nice building, much like thousands of others in Chicago's blue-collar neighborhoods.

"This is perfect for fans who are on vacation, for businessmen on the road, or for people who've changed residences and still follow their old teams," Grimland said. "There are literally hundreds of sports contests played every day, and only a few available for live broadcast in each market. So many Americans have tremendous loyalty for their teams... and my business grows them by bringing the play-by-play to them wherever they are."

Grimland charges 25 cents a minute for his service, plus the long-distance fee between the listener's phone and the Telesport headquarters in Indianapolis.

"You can figure pretty much in advance what it's going to cost you," Grimland said. "The average football game takes 40 minutes a quarter. The average basketball game takes 55 minutes a half. The average baseball game takes 45 minutes per three-innings. I put a 40-minute minimum on all orders, so if you just want to call in for the second half of your game, that's fine."

Who else? Assume for the moment that neither Mr. Ford nor Mr. Reagan makes a bid. The other book lists a dozen names. Senator Howard Baker of Tennessee seems to have mortally offended a number of party conservatives. Senator Bob Dole of Kansas has problems of negative image. Such other senators as Danforth (Mo.), Laxalt (Nev.), and Garn and Hatch (Utah) are vice presidential hopefuls. Congressman Phil Crane of Illinois has a strong conservative following, but would have to broaden his appeal if he wants really to run for the roses.

Outside Washington, one thinks of John Connally of Texas; of such governors as Thompson of Illinois and Ray of Iowa; of such able men as former Treasury Secretary William French Buckley of New York.

moment in Chicago, how many frame buildings don't have some flaking paint? But the real zinger was this: "Discontinue use of the basement dwelling units and restore space to its original use and layout."

The tenant told him to see his eyes. All the units have front and back entrances. The inspector looked around, then went away.

"It's a good deal for them," he said. "It doesn't cost them anything and it's increasing their listening audience. Some stations won't cooperate with me, so in those towns I make arrangements to call an individual listener and have him put his phone on his radio."

Grimland came up with the idea for Telesport while he was in graduate school in Michigan. As an undergraduate he had been student manager of the Texas A&M football team.

"I was dyed-in-the-wool Aggie, and I missed the games," he said. "One weekend I was on the phone to my folks in Texas. A&M was playing Southern Methodist, and I said, 'Why don't you put the phone next to the radio?' I listened to the whole ball, and it occurred to me that if I was that interested, there must be other people out there who want to keep in touch with their local teams."

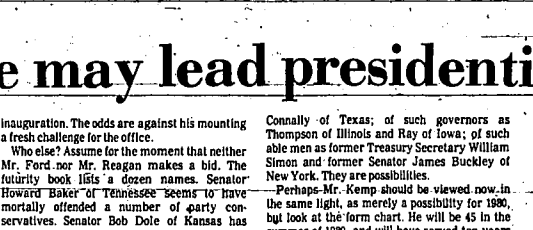

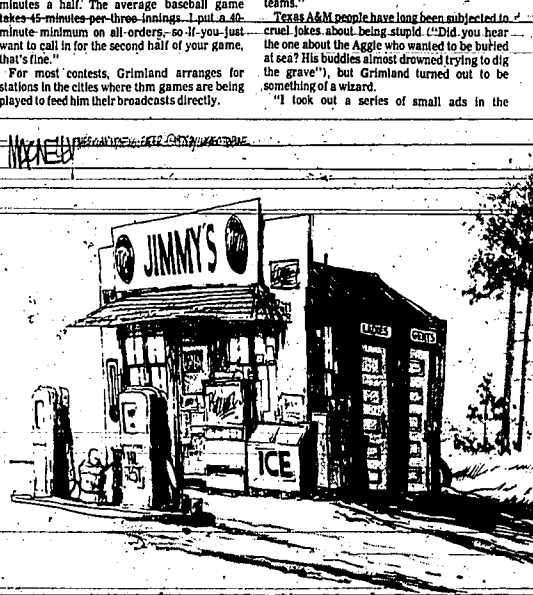

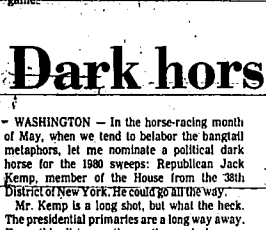

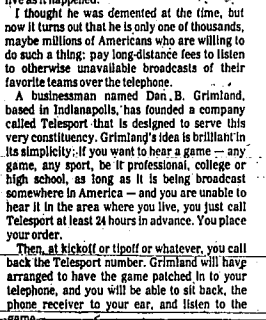

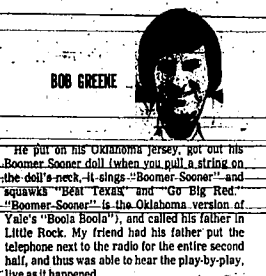

Jack Kemp is a philosophical conservative. He rates 93 with American Cause and 90 with the American Conservative Union, a miserable 10 in the eyes of Americans for Democratic Action.

Other GOP prospects doubtless will emerge as the conviction grows that Jimmy Carter can be dumped. At this remove, it would be foolish to name a favorite. But if in January 1981 the White House goes from a Jimmy to a Jack, remember you read it here first.

Mr. Kemp's principal effort these days involves the bold and imaginative tax reduction bill he has jointly sponsored with Delaware's Senator William Roth. Back in March, when he tested the waters by offering his bill as an amendment to the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, he won an astounding 194 votes in the House.

Go beyond the line, they ask that the judge appoint a receiver to take over her building "to correct the conditions alleged in the complaint."

They told me that the next time the inspector comes around, I should put some money in an envelope and give it to him. Nuts to that. There's a good building. I spend money keeping it up. I can show them my receipts. I work hard. I pay my taxes. I never have had any complaints from my tenants.

Dark horse may lead presidential race

WASHINGTON - In the horse-racing month of May, when we tend to belabor the political melophrase, let me nominate a bangtail dark horse for the 1980 sports: Republican Jack Kemp, who long ago it is being broadcast somewhere in America - and you are unable to hear it in the area where you live, you just call Telesport at least 24 hours in advance.

Jack Kemp is a philosophical conservative. He rates 93 with American Cause and 90 with the American Conservative Union, a miserable 10 in the eyes of Americans for Democratic Action.

Other GOP prospects doubtless will emerge as the conviction grows that Jimmy Carter can be dumped. At this remove, it would be foolish to name a favorite. But if in January 1981 the White House goes from a Jimmy to a Jack, remember you read it here first.

Citizen committee approves 28.5% legislative pay hike

BOISE (UPI) — After a four-hour debate reminiscent of the lawmakers themselves, the Citizens Committee on Legislative Compensation approved a 28.5 percent pay increase Thursday for the next Legislature.

By a 4-1 vote, they agreed to hike the base pay to $4,300 a year from $3,000 and to boost per diem for attending interim committee meetings to $35 from $25.

They also called for a 10 percent raise in daily expense money — for those who establish a second home in Ada County during legislative sessions — raising it to $44 from $40. For those who live in Ada County the expense allowance was set at $25 per day.

In addition, they raised to five from four at 15 cents a mile the number of taxpayer-paid trips home during the session for each legislator. The lawmakers also get a tax-paid round-trip to the Legislature itself for each session.

At present, the legislators get $400 per month for the first three months and $200 a month for the remaining nine. They also receive $25 per day plus actual expenses while attending interim meetings.

It will be up to the next Legislature either to accept the compensation schedule or reject it. It cannot raise it.

Former State Sen. Ray Rigby, D-Rexburg, and Sherm Furey Jr., Salmon, urged fellow committee members not to go overboard in raising legislative salaries and Furey cast the sole dissenting vote.

against the plan finally approved. Member Louise Shaddock did not attend the meeting.

"I respectfully submit you don't get the picture from the people," Rigby said, suggesting the Boise-area members "go out and talk with them, let them tell you — look at the bankruptcy records."

"There's a Boise orientation," he said, that does not reflect the rest of Idaho and this is enhanced by the news media in the Capital City.

Robert Macfarlane, Boise, the new vice chairman of the committee, suggested early in the meeting that the pay be raised to $8,250 a year — giving the lawmakers $1,500 a month for the first three months and $250 per month for the rest of the year.

Ralph Comstock Jr., Boise, countered that with a proposal to boost pay to $4,800 a year — $1,000 a month for the first three months and $200 for the other nine. This failed 2-3.

Then, Ann Wheeler, American Falls, who was elected to succeed Furey as committee chairman, suggested $800 a month for the first three and $150 per month thereafter. Macfarlane argued cutting back the interim pay from the $200 per month the lawmakers now get and Comstock successfully amended the motion.

"A salary of $4,200 is not out of line," Comstock argued. "I think it will be well accepted by everybody."

Committee members generally agreed they wanted to pay legislators enough to minimize their financial burdens for serving the people but not enough to encourage professional lawmakers. They also generally agreed that Idaho legislators pay should be based on what Idahoans can afford and not be gauged by what is paid in other states.

"I don't think Idaho can afford the kind of salaries that would match us up with some other states," Furey said.

The committee chose the figure of $44 per day in expense money for those maintaining a second home in Ada County during the session because the Internal Revenue Service sets $45 as the amount on which such expenses must be itemized.

"Let's not kid ourselves," Rigby said. "There's a salary in that per diem. Nineteen dollars covers food and lodging. We've only done it because of the fact Uncle Sam says you don't have to report it."

The committee also continued mileage allowances for lawmakers who regularly live close enough to the Capitol to commute. A Senate attaché said no longer visiting the committee pay table last session but a House attaché told the committee that Reps. John Reardon, R-Boise, Wendy Ungrecht, R-Boise, and Lyman G. Winchester, R-Kuna, got it because their homes are several miles from the Statehouse.

In addition to the pay and expenses the legislators also get health and life insurance plus retirement benefits, office supplies and telephone calls.

At one point, the committee talked of requiring the legislators to submit vouchers for their expenses during the session but attaches said that would create a bookkeeping nightmare for them — one requiring additional help.

Under the present compensation plan, the legislators' expense money drops to $25 a day after the first 90 days of a regular session and to $10 for those who do not. The committee removed the 60-day limitation, generally approving the 90-day limitation should do its job properly whether it takes 60 days or longer to do it.

Candidate debates scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Press Club will sponsor 10 candidate debates in three cities this fall among the candidates for governor, U.S. Senate and the House of Representatives, President Rod Gramer said Thursday.

Gramer said the club intends to provide a non-partisan and independent forum for the candidates to present their views to the public. He said they should give the people a chance to see how the candidates stand on the key issues facing the country and state.

He said the Press Club is announcing the debates well in advance of the August primary so that the candidates can arrange their schedules to participate and to give the candidates a chance to prepare themselves on the issues.

Gramer said John Corlett, retired political editor of The Idaho Statesman, will coordinate the debates.

"The officers and board of directors of the Press Club selected John because of his knowledge of the state, his understanding of Idaho politics and his utmost integrity," Gramer said.

Corlett will arrange for the use of facilities in the three cities, Moscow, Pocatello and Boise, and will consult the candidates and work with the media on press arrangements.

Gramer said: "The president of the Press Club will supervise the debates who will supervise the debates."

"The Press club has come up with rules for the debates, times and locations," he said. "We are making this opportunity available to the candidates to communicate with the people."

Judge grants case mistrial

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — Judge Dar Cogswell declared a mistrial in the case of Robert L. Emehiser Wednesday after allowing evidence into the case which Emehiser's attorney said he hadn't had time to prepare for.

The demand for a mistrial came after Judge Cogswell granted the prosecution permission to introduce evidence from another case involving Emehiser.

Emehiser's attorney, John Mitchell, argued that he had not had time to prepare a defense for the other charges against his client and insisted a mistrial be declared or he would refuse to proceed.

Judge Cogswell agreed and granted the mistrial.

In the case at hand, Emehiser is charged with abducting a Coeur d'Alene woman November 25, 1977, and raping her.

Prior to the demand for a mistrial, Prosecutor Thompson asked and was granted permission to introduce evidence from another case in which Emehiser is charged with rape and kidnapping.

Thompson cited precedents where such evidence is admissible to establish a method of operation as well as identity of the assailant.

Judge Cogswell agreed that such evidence would be admissible.

Opinion sought

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Tax Commission said it asked the attorney general Thursday for a formal opinion on possible ambiguities involved with the proposed 1 percent property tax limitation initiative as well as its constitutionality.

The commission said a letter with the request was sent out and that it dealt with possible effective dates of the initiative as well as potential conflicts with the state Constitution.

The Idaho Property Owners Association is sponsoring the initiative, and members are trying to obtain 26,000 signatures to place the question on the ballot in November.

Idaho

Seized animals killed

POST FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — The owner of the defunct Hayden Lake Animal Orphanage learned Thursday that her seven dogs, including three puppies, had been put to death by Kootenai County Sheriff's officers earlier this week.

The animals had been confiscated by court order Saturday from the home of Mrs. Roberta Kinley.

The order was signed by Judge Watt Fraher and was based on complaints by neighbors that the dogs were annoying and noisy and constituted a public nuisance.

However, Mrs. Kinley said she had no idea the animals would be destroyed.

Witnesses, including reporters from the Coeur d'Alene press were present when pound officials told Mrs. Kinley that she could pick up her animals.

Found officials later told the woman that sheriff's deputies, not the pound, had destroyed the animals.

Mrs. Kinley and her husband operated the Animal Orphanage until last fall when the courts closed their kennel in response to complaints from neighbors about lack of proper zoning, excessive noise and the smell.

After the orphanage was closed, the three dogs the Kinleys could not give away were kept as pets.

"I was never told they would be destroyed," said Mrs. Kinley. "I told officials I didn't want anything to happen to them. I would have been more than willing to kennel them."

Kootenai County Sheriff's officers, meanwhile, would not comment on the matter. Sheriff Rocky Watson was out of town and could not be reached.

Vote proposed

CALDWELL (UPI) — The Canyon County Commission received a request Thursday for a voter initiative to legalize the sale of beer on Sundays in the unincorporated areas of the county.

Leroy Kippman, Caldwell, owner of the Lake Lowell Market, submitted the request to the commission, asking that the question be placed on the November General Election ballot.

Presently, a county ordinance prohibits Sunday beer sales in unincorporated areas of the county.

Funnel strikes

REXBURG (UPI) — A funnel cloud touched down in the southwest part of Rexburg Thursday afternoon, causing about $5,000 damage to an apartment complex under construction.

No injuries were reported.

Construction workers at the complex said the funnel hit about 5:30 p.m., sending up a thick cloud of dust.

Witnesses said the funnel moved east and touched ground again in a field about one mile north of Sugar City a few minutes later.

Berlin observes 90th year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Irving Berlin celebrated his 90th birthday quietly with his wife at their upstate New York country home.

The man whose lyrics are standard expressions and whose "God Bless America" is considered a second National Anthem became a nonagenarian Thursday.

The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers had planned to throw what is billed as a "modest" party for Berlin; but the affair was canceled when the composer informed ASCAP he could not attend.

President Carter joined hundreds of other Americans in mailing Berlin a card in a note: "God bless Irving Berlin!"

Berlin's present Manhattan residence at 17 Beckman Place is a long way from the tenements of Manhattan's Lower East Side, where the composer of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" — born as Israel Baline — was raised after coming to the United States from Russia.

He began singing on street corners for pennies, found a job as a singing waiter at Mike Salter's Pelham Cafe in Manhattan's Chinatown and later attracted the attention of music publisher Ted Snyder.

The rest is history: "White Christmas," "Easter Parade," "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Heat Wave," "Check to Check," "Let's Have Another Cup of Coffee," "Anything You Can Do"....

The man who wrote "The Girl That I Married" spent his 90th birthday with the woman he married, his wife Ellen.

Memphis woman 'Mother of Year'

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Ellen Edens McCall, the Memphis, Tenn., housewife chosen American Mother of the Year, says that no matter how social mores change, "as mothers go, so goes the nation."

Mrs. McCall, 55, who kept up her family and community activities despite a bout with cancer, was chosen over 48 other state senior division contest winners by the American Mothers Committee at its 43rd annual conference Thursday.

"I have always said 'as go the homes, so goes the nation,' and now I believe as go mothers, so goes the nation," said Mrs. McCall. "I think motherhood and the family will remain important and necessary no matter what the social mores are."

She is the wife of Dr. John McCall, a Memphis surgeon, and was sponsored by the Metropolitan Memphis Chapter, National Foundation, March of Dimes.

Mrs. McCall was judged on the basis of community involvement, achievement of her children, traits such as courage, cheerfulness, patience, affection and homemaking ability, and a three-minute speech about her family.

The new queen of American motherhood said she learned seven months ago she was suffering from ovarian cancer, but with God's help had dealt with it and remained active. She said the cancer was removed through surgery and has not recurred.

"I consider myself liberated through Jesus," she said. "My husband and I have had different roads. I have always had my own path in life. My husband has had his. He's a surgeon and has had to make his decisions and I have made mine in the home. I consider being a mother my vocation."

"My daughter is a speech pathologist but she's a mother first. She learned to be a mother from me as a kid from my mother."

Mrs. McCall has two sons, one a university administrator, the other an orthopedic resident. She said the most important thing she did for her children was to teach them that "service is the rent you pay for the space you occupy in life."

Mrs. McCall received her B.A. degree from Blue Mountain College, Blue Mountain, Miss. She has served as the first woman president of Greater Memphis State Inc., has been a member of the Memphis State board of directors, the Greater Memphis Council of Crime and Delinquency, the Board of Directors of Metropolitan Memphis Chapter, National Foundation March of Dimes, and Blue Mountain College Alumna of the year.

She called her selection the most exciting thing that had ever happened and said she was shocked to find her family had arrived secretly to witness the announcement.

Nuclear power touted by senator

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James A. McClure told the Nuclear Power Assembly today that without nuclear power, the poor, the unemployed and those on the low end of the economic scale will be hurt first and hit hardest.

"You have allowed the opponents of clean nuclear power development to paint you as the bad guys," McClure said. "You have surrendered the moral issues."

"But the facts suggest just the opposite — that without nuclear power the least fortunate in our society, those who are struggling the hardest, will be hit the worst. That is the message that must be told."

McClure also said that President Carter's nuclear non-proliferation policies are taking the United States out of the world nuclear picture.

"Other friendly countries, who when relying on the United States for their nuclear technology, are now turning to other nations," the Idaho senator said. "We in the U.S. will soon have little influence in the international nuclear community and without that influence we will have little say on nuclear proliferation."

Pat Boone will help pay back gyped customers

By United Press International.
THE BIG SQUEEZE
 It costs just under five bucks and it's supposed to help get rid of acne, but the Federal Trade Commission says Acne-Satin doesn't work, and clean-cut singer Pat Boone, who endorsed the product, says he'll help pay back gyped customers if the FTC is right. There's no word on how much the restitution will be or how large a percentage Boone will pay, but FTC official Albert Kramer said in Washington Thursday that Boone—who looks like he's never seen the wrong side of a pimple anyway—is the first celebrity who's made such an offer.

NO SALE

A lot of people are upset that such Watergate figures like John Dean and John Ehrlichman are able to capitalize on their roles in the scandale with books and lecture tours. Now former President Richard Nixon has written "RN: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon,"—selling for a nickel under $20—but the book doesn't seem to be doing all that well.

GRADUATES

Entertainer Robin Williams presented After Dark's "Performer of the Year" award to music man Peter Allen in New York Thursday night. Mrs. Tillam, the mother of President Carter, visited the house of children's writer Hans Christian Andersen in Copenhagen Thursday, part of a 12-day exchange visit between that city and New York's Westchester County. The University of California at Berkeley will give a doctorate degree in physics next month to straight-A student Kent Culbert, the first blind student to earn such a degree. Former President Gerald Ford, at an impromptu news conference at Boys Town, Neb., says his wife Betty is "doing great" in her fight against drug abuse and alcoholism.

Infant survives medical odds

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Four-month-old Martez Hill slept contentedly, a Cincinnati Reds cap flopped on his head, while cameramen filmed his last scheduled day at Children's Hospital.
 Given practically no chance to live when he was born on Oct. 15 with his heart outside his chest, the infant was to go home today.
 "He's doing very well," one doctor said of Martez, the second son of William and Lois Hill.
 Not only was his heart outside the chest—an extremely rare condition which only a dozen babies are known to have survived—but doctors told Mrs. Hill her son had the severest form of the condition, known as ectopia cordis.
 "This is rare. What is even more rare is the survival of these babies," said Dr. Samuel Kaplan, director of cardiology at the hospital. "With this kind of abnormality, we're only aware of 12 babies that have survived beyond four weeks in the world. I'd say that's a conservative estimate."

 Born at General Hospital, the infant was rushed to Children's Hospital, where surgeons exposed the heart with tissue from the chest wall. They also detected an abnormal heart valve and a faulty link between the organ's two sides.
 Martez spent the next 2½ weeks on a respirator.
 "The previous tendency (by surgeons) was to stuff the heart back into the small cavity in the chest, and the children wouldn't survive," Kaplan said. "Also, there is the chance of infection."
 "There were complications with infection and heart failure, but within time he recovered from all of these."

 Discouraging medical odds aside, another critical problem loomed—the baby's mental development in a hospital intensive care ward.
 "The tendency is not to do things to stimulate the baby," Kaplan said. "The staff worked with him and was able to stimulate him: touching him, showing him colors, playing music, working on his eye movements."
 Hill visited his son every day, but Mrs. Hill found the task difficult.
 "I just couldn't see him like that, all tied up and he couldn't move," she said. "But I had faith in God."
 Once home, Martez must still wear a protective chest shield eight hours each day, and he requires delicate heart surgery.

Kamikaze death baffles friends, family members

CARY, N.C. (UPI)—Jerry Sowers was a walking bomb when he entered a lawyer's office to sign a separation agreement with his wife.
 After nearly two hours of negotiating with police and lawyer Tom Earls Thursday, he agreed to defuse the bomb he wore if they would give him an hour alone with his wife Anne. They agreed.
 He used 15 minutes and then the 35-year-old ex-Marine who wore it and his wife and sending widow glass and office supplies flying into a parking lot where a crowd—including Mrs. Sowers' 8-year-old daughter by a previous marriage—was waiting.
 Friends and members of the couple's family said they were baffled by Sowers' kamikaze death.
 Royal Hayward, Sowers' brother-in-law, and other members of the family were summoned to help in the negotiations—but Hayward said "we could do nothing."

 The couple had separated two days earlier. No one would discuss the nature of their marital problems.
 Sowers showed up at the office wearing the nitro square bomb taped to his midsection and threatened to detonate it if he was not allowed to talk in his 35-year-old wife alone. After Earls spent about an hour talking to Sowers, he notified police and the office building was evacuated. A police negotiator spent about another 45 minutes with Sowers before he agreed to disarm the bomb if he was given an hour's privacy with his wife.
 Hayward was brought to the scene by the police, who asked him if he thought Sowers, 32, would say "our last words."
 Hayward refused, he says, when he told authorities and declined to say whether the mechanic had shown violent tendencies in the past.
 "However, Hayward said, 'I know him and I liked him. Whenever I saw him he was a nice guy.'"

GERALD FORD

Hughes 'will' trial enters final stages

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Final arguments begin Tuesday in a Nevada trial to determine whether Howard Hughes wrote a will that was found in the Mormon Church headquarters two years ago.
 Attorneys told Judge Keith Hayes Thursday they needed one more day to prepare. Arguments originally were scheduled to begin Monday, May 15.
 Hayes met with attorneys Thursday to discuss his final instructions to the jury which will be read prior to final arguments. Eleven handwriting experts were among the scores of witnesses to testify during the trial which began Nov. 7, 1977.
 Hayes, who will give the jury more than 20 points of instruction, is expected to tell the jury to weigh the opinion of one expert against the other, consider relative qualifications of each expert, and the reasons and basis for the opinions.
 Attorney Harold Rhoden, substitute executor of the so-called Mormon will, contended the three-page document is authentic. Heirs in the Mormon will include the Mormon Church, ex-wives, aides, universities, charities and Utah truck driver Melvin Dummar, who once operated a gas station in Willard, Utah.

Dummar said he befriended Hughes in late 1967 when he found wandering in the central Nevada desert. Dummar testified he gave Hughes a ride to Las Vegas and a few coins.
 Lawyers representing relatives of Hughes contended the document is a forgery.

Congratulations, Grads,

now you can afford a YAMAHA.

Yamaha is the most wanted—stereo receiver on the market today. Natural sound and unique features are the reasons why. Now for the first time it is surprisingly affordable.

The new CR-420 is all Yamaha through and through. Take the low distortion for example — only 0.05% (total harmonic and intermodulation) Yamaha's unique variable loudness control offers automatic tonal adjustment at all volume levels. When making a recording, the special switching system allows you to tape one music source while listening to another at the same time. At its price no other receiver in the world offers this much performance and flexibility.

Match the CR-420 with the YP-211 turntable and NS-S speakers and you have a music system you will be congratulated on for years to come.

SYSTEM PRICE: $520.00
 Receiver, Turntable, Cartridge and Speakers.

Finding the best value in quality stereo components from the hundreds currently available is no easy task. All of our technical and listening expertise is brought to bear in selecting our merchandise. Yamaha is only one example of the fine products we have built our reputation on. Come in and discover the competent assistance and exceptional after sales service that will bring you back again and again.

Lunch break

CAMAS students visit with teacher Marjorie Bauscher, right, when they broke for lunch during their recent conservation field trip to the Niagara Springs area. The picnic lunch was held at Emerson Pugmire Niagara Springs Park along the Snake River.

Gooding, Camas students learn about trees, pollution, environmental problems

Learning experience

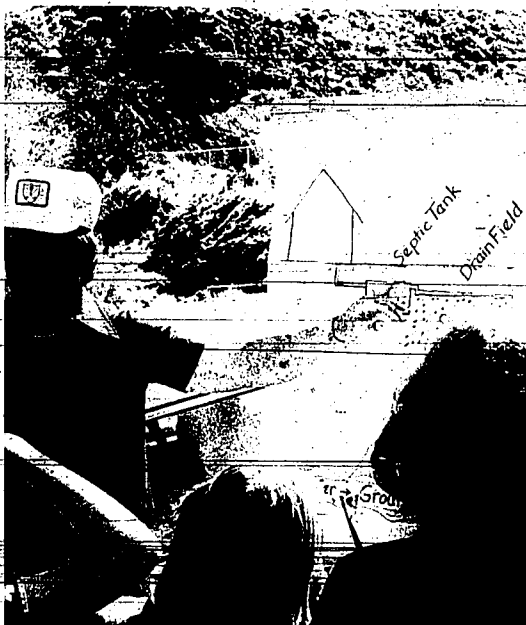

LEARNING is easier when sitting on a hillside in a scenic location like Niagara Springs Park in the Snake River canyon south of Wendell. Gooding, Bliss and Fairfield fifth and sixth graders learned about water, trees and other environmental problems first hand during a field tour Wednesday.

STU MURRELL, public relations officer of the Fish and Game Department, displays steelhead model at the learning station conducted at Niagara Springs Steelhead Hatchery owned by Idaho Power.

Pollution explained

RON HOWARD discusses complex problems of water pollution and the importance of hatcheries on area economy for the Gooding fifth graders. The groups alternated between the learning stations and ended the day with a better knowledge of the environmental problems that exist.

Pregnancy stops sex change plans

DEAR ABBY: Three months ago I finally accepted my yearnings to become a male and I began the necessary treatment in anticipation of having a sex change operation.

Next I ended my affair with my boyfriend, and then I started the hormone treatments. Shortly afterward I felt there something was amiss; I was examined and learned that I was pregnant!

Determined to go ahead with the sex change surgery, I continued the hormone treatments, but being a devout Catholic I cannot consider an abortion. Yet, I don't want a child.

Abigail Van Buren

My former boyfriend is begging me to have this child, saying that he wants the sex change operation.

Abby, I was looking forward both physically and emotionally to a new life as a transsexual. What course should I take?

D.

DEAR D: Since abortion is out, give birth to the child, then reconsider having a sex change operation.

If you still feel like a male emotionally and want a body that corresponds with your feelings, resume your original plan. If the motherhood experience tips the scale in favor of living as a woman, follow that inclination. But do not marry a male unless you feel totally female.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this is a stupid question for a 14-year-old girl to ask, but you are the only person I can ask who won't laugh at me.

Is it all right to kiss a fellow good-night on the first date?

B-IN BRANDON, FLA.

DEAR B: That depends. The kiss itself is not as important as the motivation behind it. If a good-night kiss is a mutual sign of affection, I see nothing wrong with it—even on the first date. But there is no feeling for the other person—only a desire for self-gratification, it is cheap and meaningless.

A girl should never kiss a boy because she thinks she "ows" him something for having dated her. Neither should a boy expect a girl to kiss him for that reason.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is very careless about her appearance in the privacy of our home. She gets breakfast barefoot in her nightgown, with her hair uncombed, which is not very pretty. She knows better and can make herself strikingly beautiful if we're having guests or going out. It hurts to know she won't bother to make herself presentable for me.

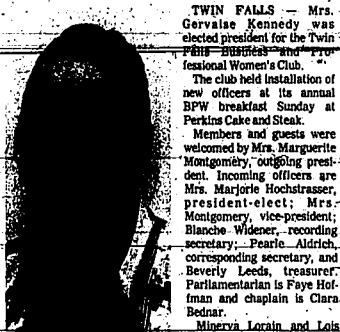

Divorce is out because of the children, but believe me, it's crossed my mind. I start off my day in anger, and disgust, and my mind (and eye) have begun to roam. She reads your column, Abby, so maybe if you print this, she'll see it, recognize herself and take the hint. Thank you.

NO NAME PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: I'll print it, but don't expect miracles. When something as important as one's marriage is at stake, the man who waits for his wife to read something in a newspaper column, "recognize herself and take the hint," may need more help than his wife. Lay it on the line, man, lay it on the line. Maybe she thinks YOU don't care how he looks.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet, "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (34 cents) envelope to Abby, 152 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Students go to convention

TWIN FALLS — Cheryl McCord of Jerome placed second in national real estate math competition at the National Junior Colleague DECA Conference May 1-5 in Washington, D.C. Tammy Paxton of Twin Falls was a top-eight finalist in apparel and accessories communication competition.

Over 1,500 junior-collegiate-management students attended the conference from many states in the country. McCord was a top-eight finalist in the real estate communications competition and overall real-estate competition.

Five students from the College of Southern Idaho, including McCord and Paxton, attended the conference. The remaining students are Jean Halverson, Jerome; Rulon Rees, Jerome; and Darwin Phillips, Twin Falls. Also attending were mid-management CSI instructors Robert Becker and Michael McClaymonds, both Twin Falls.

All are students involved in a mid-management program at the college, which offers instruction and employment training in sales, marketing and business management. The Management Association—(DECA)—offers students the opportunity to compete with state and national management students in these fields.

Each of the students competing in the national competition won awards at the state level of competition.

Minidoka planning event

MINIDOKA — Minidoka County volunteers will be busy this summer raising funds for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society by conducting a read-a-thon.

Donetta Elliott, Minidoka County read-a-thon coordinator, will take the Multiple Sclerosis read-a-thon film during the week of May 15. At this time "Mystery Sleuths," those who will work for multiple sclerosis, will register.

Mystery Sleuths will spend a six-week period reading books and finding sponsors. The Right-to-Read Program of Minidoka County will co-sponsor the read-a-thon. More information on the read-a-thon can be obtained from the Idaho Chapter of Multiple Sclerosis, 805 W. Idaho, Suite 328, Boise, 83702, or phone 336-7230.

churches

Public invited to services

TWIN FALLS — "The Motherhood of God" is the topic for Sunday services of the Church of Religious Science at 11 a.m. at the YM-YWCA chapel. The public is invited.

Baptists plan guest day

TWIN FALLS — "Spring Symphony" is the theme of the annual guest day luncheon and program Saturday sponsored by the American Baptist Women's Association of Twin Falls First Baptist Church.

The event will be in the Fellowship hall with a salad luncheon to be served at noon.

All interested women and guests are invited to attend. Reservations may be made by calling the church office, 733-2936.

Graham film scheduled

TWIN FALLS — A Billy Graham film, "Schokara Pass," will be shown at two Twin Falls churches Sunday evening.

It will be shown at the First Christian Church at 6:30 p.m. and at the Eastside Baptist Church, 204 Eastland Drive N., at 7:30 p.m.

The film is based on a true story, a special love that asks a man to choose between his life and the lives of others.

Refreshments will be served after the First Christian Church showing.

The public is invited to this family-oriented film.

Lesson-sermon title told

TWIN FALLS — The title of the lesson-sermon Sunday at the Christian Science Church will be "Mortals and Immortals."

Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m. and church services are at 11 a.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Wednesday at the church, 160 Ninth Ave. E.

The reading room, 332 Main Ave. S., is open from noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Holy Eucharist celebrated

TWIN FALLS — The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at both 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. at the Church of the Ascension on Pentecost Sunday when the worldwide Christian Church celebrates its "birthday."

Fr. Albert E. Allen, as celebrant and preacher, has entitled his sermon, "Fire and Anvil."

Following the 10 a.m. service, the cast of "Beauty and the Beast," under the direction of Helen C. Allen, will make its presentation at the First United Presbyterian Church at 11 a.m.

The Enquirers' class will begin a new series entitled "Journey in Mission. This adult class meets at 8:45 a.m.

A meeting of all church school parents is scheduled for 7:30 a.m. Tuesday to plan a summer church school program.

An all-Parish Craft and Hobby Fellowship supper will be held at 4:30 p.m. Thursday. Members will share hobby and craft ideas. Mrs. Jean Swartling is chairperson.

Group changes its name

TWIN FALLS — The Young Mothers' Coffee Circle of St. Edward's Catholic Church has decided to change the name of the organization to the Ladies' Friendship Circle.

The circle is open to all women of St. Edward's.

Meetings will be held on the last Friday of the month in the Legion of Mary Room in the parish hall. Meetings will consist of a social hour from 9 to 10 a.m., followed by Bible sharing and crafts from 10 to 11:30, each member choosing her preferred activity. Baby sitting will be available from 9:30.

A family picnic is planned for June and another for August.

Linda Pettinger has been elected chairperson and will start her term in June. Bonnie Barker has been serving as acting chairperson and will continue in that capacity through May.

For the month of May only, the meeting will be on the third Friday.

Nazarenes convene in TF

TWIN FALLS — Local Nazarene Church members will attend their annual district assembly and missionary convention May 24-26 in Boise.

The assembly of the intermountain district, which includes 57 churches, convenes at 9 a.m. Thursday, May 25, and concludes with the evening service on Friday.

The missionary convention precedes the assembly on Wednesday, May 24, beginning at 9 a.m. and continuing through an evening service. Dr. Jerald Johnson, executive director of the denomination's world mission activities, will be the special speaker.

All of the sessions are slated to be held in the First Church of the Nazarene, 239 N. Liberty Road, Boise, with Dr. Jarrell Garsee, host pastor.

Tyler Baptists present cantata

TWIN FALLS — The Tyler Street Baptist Church choir will present "The Miracle," a cantata based on the life of Christ.

The service will begin at 10:50 a.m. Solo performances will be given by Carla Hogt, Ron Race, Earnestine Osborn and Pastor, Kribbas. The choir is under the direction of Jim Osborn.

Nursery services are provided. Visitors are urged to attend at 228 Tyler St.

Adventists offer free booklets

EDEN — The lesson study Saturday at the Eden Seventh Day Adventist Church will be "We Are Forgotten Through Him."

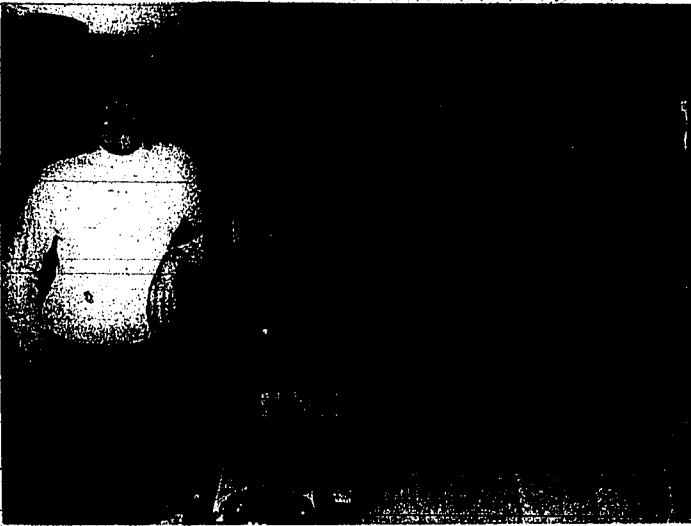

Sabbath school begins at 9:30 a.m. and the worship hour at 11 a.m.

The Seventh Day Adventist Church has available free to the public booklets and lessons on health related subjects such as diet, nutrition, drugs, tobacco and alcohol, according to Donald L. Robinson. For this material send a mailing address to P.O. Box 418, Eden, Idaho 83225 or telephone 629-5530.

Presbyterians schedule musical

TWIN FALLS — The 11 a.m. worship at the First Presbyterian Church will feature this Sunday a special musical production called "Beauty and the Beast." It will be presented by the young people of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension under the direction of Mrs. Albert Allen. The church school classes and first hour worship and adult study will be held at 9:30 a.m. as usual.

At 8:30 p.m. Monday, the Keenagers will meet and view slides of Norway, Sweden and Denmark by Dick and Cecil Stafford. All are welcome to come and bring a potluck dish and table service.

Pentecostals celebrate in canyon

TWIN FALLS — The First United Pentecostal Church of Twin Falls in its celebrations of its 1st anniversary is planning an old-fashioned, open-air service in Rock Creek Canyon, seven miles southeast of Twin Falls (weather permitting).

This special service will be Saturday at 7 p.m. and the location is 3 miles east of East Five Points, then straight south to the canyon. (If it is raining the service will be held at the church, 282 Fifth Ave. E. in Twin Falls.)

Guest speaker for this event will be Rev. C.H. Yaden, former pastor and son of the Frank Yadons who lived in the canyon when the church was founded.

Celebrations will include a banquet Friday night in the Rogerson Restaurant with the former pastor Rev. Ellis Seism as speaker.

Sunday, which is Pentecost Sunday, the church will celebrate its founding with Rev. Seism, Mrs. Jet Toole (Witherspoon) speaking at the 10 a.m. service. There will be a potluck dinner in the city park in the afternoon. The anniversary celebrations will close with the evening service at 7:30 and Rev. C.H. Yaden will be speaking.

Nazarene Church retains Chastain

TWIN FALLS — Pastor Joe Chastain will remain as pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene of Twin Falls, where he has been pastoring for the past eight years.

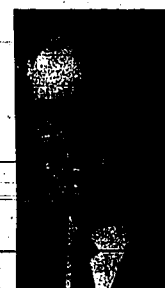

Chastain is also chaplain for the Civil Air Patrol of Idaho. His responsibilities are to unite chaplains in the local units across the state and to serve as a member of the wing staff, which is based in Boise.

In commenting on his stay in the intermountain state, Pastor Chastain says, "This has been a most delightful time in my life; to be able to meet the wonderful people of Idaho and the Magic Valley especially. We greatly appreciate the privilege and opportunity of ministering in this beautiful section of the Northwest."

Steve Pace will continue to minister in the area of music and youth in the local church. Three new department heads in the coming year will be: chairman, board of Christian life, Charles Brockway; president, women's auxiliary society, Joyce Dugan; president, Nazarene International, Ann Marie Brockway.

trustees will be Don Edwards, Harold Jensen, Doyle Mason, Duane Owen, Russell Rosenau and Lyle Wing.

On the board of stewards will be Gary Evans, Leona Anderson, Lee Heyer, Jim Jensen, Charles Trumm, Lewis Lowkers, Ross Silvers and John Stevens. Board of Christian Life new members will be Norm Garlington, Mel Stokesberry, Phil Younger and Wayne Deboard.

PASTOR J. CHASTAIN

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You may want to make big strides forward but some unexpected difficulties could stand in your way. Be prepared so that you will be able to handle such conditions as they arise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you carry through with your creative ideas now you can make considerable progress. Plan the future along idealistic lines.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A financial problem needs to be handled in a positive and intelligent manner for best results. Maintain harmony at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Not a good day to engage in new interests, so postpone until a better time. Sidestep one who likes to waste your valuable time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do not try to renege on a debt you have assumed. Pay it and maintain good credit. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to cooperate more with allies instead of berating them and you get better results. Find the right methods to solve your problems.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you persevere in your line of endeavor now you can accomplish a great deal. Don't neglect important correspondence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Seek the right solution to problematical affairs, especially those that concern your creative activities. Use extreme care in motion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can establish more harmony at home by showing increased devotion to family members. Take needed health treatments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day for taking risks of any sort. Listen to constructive ideas of associates and benefit from them.

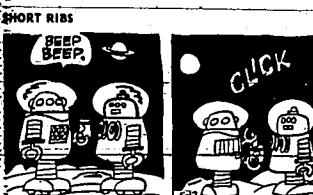

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study your duties and discharge them to the best of your ability. Check your surroundings and make needed improvements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know what others expect of you and do your best to please them. There are many domestic tasks for you to do, so get an early start.

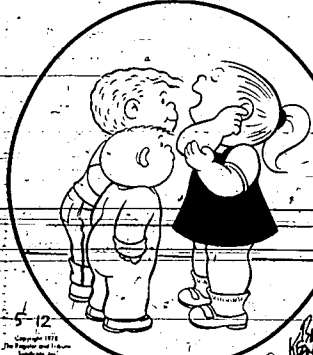

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A new project you have in mind should be studied well before going ahead with it. A good time to make plans for the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be most ambitious, but teach not to tread on the toes of others in order to get ahead, otherwise the great promise in this chart will be lost. Don't neglect religious training early in life. Fame is possible here.

Argument continues in that matter of why American society once came to be known as 50th-hour. Commented theory alludes to the fact that Red Cross workers during World War II thought out opportunity to the general public. Some authorities, though, claim the credit goes back a lot farther. To the Civil War, in fact, when the infantry insignia looked like nothing so much as a wad of dough.

Am repeatedly asked if "I" is among the 10 most frequently written words in English. It is. The other nine are: the, of, and, to, a, in, that, is, it.

How do you account for the fact that asthmatic children can hear higher tones than can other people?

The sound "a" as in father is common to all languages.

COSTLY ART
Q. "What's the highest price ever paid for a work of art?"
A. $9 million, it's believed. That's how much an unidentified American, thought to be representing a museum, recently in London paid for a Greek statue, a bronze of a youth wearing an olive wreath. It was said to be the Fourth Century B. C. work of the sculptor Lysippos.

Q. "Weren't there a lot of soldiers in the Civil War who were just barely into their teens?"
A. Not all that many. Of the 2,778,000 soldiers, only 252 were known to be under 15.

Q. "Where's the oldest gorilla troop, probably?"
A. In the Philadelphia zoo, it's believed. Masses there recently turned age 47.

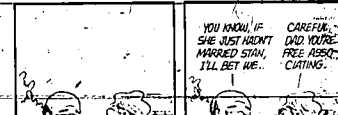

Q. "I know Great Falls, Mont., is the windiest big town in the country, but what's the second windiest?"
A. Oklahoma City.

SPELLING BEE
During the Dade County, Fla., spelling bee last year, a young lady paused, when given her word, and asked, "Can you spell that, please?" A humorous moment, no doubt. Still, it's the conditioned response of a scholar. Our Language man says sadly that fewer and fewer students go inquire.

Question arises as to whether the United States has ever had a president and vice president belonging to different political parties. Yes, that, too, occurred. When Federalist John Adams was president, his vice president was Republican Thomas Jefferson.

All of 10 of the world's 10 coldest major cities are in the Soviet Union. And coldest of the lot is that Mongolian town called Ulan-Bator.

Grain futures hold firm, cattle advance Thursday

(Chicago) (Sincclair & Co.)
CHICAGO—Grains continued firm and cattle advanced in commodity futures trading Thursday.
 Commodity News Service said wheat closed 4 1/2 cents a bush higher at 43 1/2 cents a bush. In addition to the 40-cent program and fears of steady near term export demands drew speculative support. Reports of the United States rejection of an Egyptian tender sparked heavy commercial selling.
 Interim rainfall, expected to slow planting, strengthened corn, which also drew some support from soybeans. New crop contracts were weakened as the possibility of switching from corn to soybeans developed. The close was 1/4 to 3/4 cents higher, near the highs.
 Soybeans closed mixed but mostly lower after running into heavy resistance on the close. Technical patterns and weather were the major influences on the session. Beans ended 6 1/2 cents higher to 4 1/4 cents lower, oil was 37 to 10 points higher and meal was up 40 cents to 171.40.

 Maine potatoes picked up momentum in the afternoon, setting 11 to 21 cents lower with speculative May at 7.50 per hundredweight, off 21 cents. Volume was 1,004 cars. The last deliveries of April May were made Wednesday.
 May western russets were unchanged at 8.00 cwt.
 Live cattle finished 47 to 120 points higher on strength attributed to short covering ahead of switching from corn to soybeans developed. The close was 1/4 to 3/4 cents higher, near the highs.
 A late rush of buying took live hogs to a settlement 12 to 80 points higher. Nearby June closed at 54.00, up 27 points. A late contract high of 54.15. Volume was 7,869 contracts.

 New York Sugar 11 finished 4 to 7 points off on 4,560 lots traded. Selling near the close wiped out an advance of 3 to 4 points over Wednesday.
 New York Comex gold scored quick opening of 50 to 40 points on pressure which was steady most of the day. The dollar turned stronger on the discount rate increase.
 New York Comex silver fell 1/2 point to 360 to 450 points on a trade of 9,000 contracts. Late short covering brought prices several cents off the lows but weaker prices are expected to persist for several days.

Idaho bees dying

LEWISTON (UPI)—Honeybees are dying in the Lewiston area for the third straight season and there is no chief suspected chemical cause at this time as the killer.
 In the last two years, the chemical parathion, a pesticide used against the pea leaf weevil, was blamed.
 But farm chemical and spraying officials said parathion has not been used this year in the Lewiston area.
 State officials are investigating the matter, which was described by one bee keeper the worst year yet for bee kills.
 The bees started dropping dead Saturday. Beekeepers began checking with each other and learned all faced the same problem.
 Bee keepers reported they found dead bees in about 350 of the 1,400 colonies in the area.

New sugar support offered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Administration spokesmen Thursday proposed a new sugar support bill to direct "aid" payments to farmers.
 A senior official said President Carter would veto a more generous plan-backed by many farm bloc lawmakers.
 Howard Hirt, the Agriculture Department's chief economist, told a Senate Finance Subcommittee that the congressional plan, which is aimed at boosting the market price of raw sugar to 17 cents a pound—would fuel inflation by adding more than $700 million to consumer food bills in its first year of operation.
 If that bill reaches President Carter in its present form, "I am sure he would veto it," Hirt told the subcommittee headed by Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii.
 The congressional plan would hold prices at the proposed 17 cents level by using a combination of import quotas and quotas to control imports.
 Hirt, testifying with Assistant Secretary of State Julius Katz, said the administration plan would start by setting a minimum domestic market price goal of 13.5 cents a pound for raw sugar. If it reaches 13.5 cents, the plan would create a "target price" which would be set at 14.4 cents a pound for the 1978 crop.
 Cane and sugar beet growers, who supply about 55 percent of the nation's sugar, would sell their crops at the open market price. Then they would also collect direct federal payments covering the gap between the 13.5 cent market goal and the 14.4 cent income support target, Hirt explained.
 Under existing law, which applies to the 1977 and 78 crops, the government protects domestic growers by operating a price support loan program for sugar. The support was 13.5 cents a pound for the 1977 crop and is expected to about 14.4 cents for 1978.

Flustered animals

An unexpected rush of water through their pastures and pens flustered several animals in the Rock Creek Canyon—area early this morning after the High Line Canal broke through its banks.

Bill Bailey, whose farmyard and basement were flooded, said muddy waters began filling up a pen containing one of his pigs early today.

He said he had to divert the flood water to save the animal from "inundation."

"That boar is madder'n hell right now," Bailey said as he stood in his farmyard, where two feet of water had flowed earlier today. "He's ready to fight you."

Cattle in a pasture near where the canal broke were safely on high ground and were not affected by the high waters.

Planners reinstate 20-acre minimum

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday reinstated a 20-acre minimum requirement for subdivision of agricultural lands in the county.

The zoning board voted in April to reduce the 20-acre minimum size farm designation to five acres after considerable pressure from developers and some anti-land use forces in the county.

But an outcry from many farmers in the county who worried about developers carving up prime farmland for subdivisions led the planning and zoning commission to reconsider the 20-acre minimum.

In making the minimum farm size 20 acres, the county plan requires any land owner in an agricultural zone wishing to divide his property into lots smaller than 20 acres to file a subdivision plan or a planned unit development plan.

Before county commissioners vote to adopt the plan, change it or turn it down in total, a public hearing will be required.

The plan has been under study and debate for more than two years.

Members of a group known as the Twin Falls County Property Owners Association opposed the 20-acre minimum feature and have vowed to launch a campaign to elect new county commissioners, who would vote against the 20-acre minimum.

The property owners group contends planning should pertain only to such things as highway and utility locations and future street rights of way. Members drew up their own plan proposal and have presented it to the commissioners.

Another group of farmers and land owners headed by Doris Couch, a Melon Valley raper, has strongly urged at least a 20 acre minimum, saying the five acre building sites are creating havoc in the agricultural areas.

Now the Twin Falls County land use plan goes before the county commissioners for an additional public hearing before the commissioners vote on the plan.

On Thursday when the vote was taken to reinstate the 20-acre minimum, the sponsor of the move to impose only a five-acre minimum in the land use plan, real estate broker L. James Koudlik, was missing from the meeting.

The vote to reinstate the 20-acre minimum was unanimous except for Wendell Gannon who abstained from voting.

In other business Thursday night, the zoning commission denied a proposed 30 to 35 acre planned unit development in Melon valley. Owner Wesley Friesen proposed cutting the property into five acre lots originally and then decided to use a planned unit development concept. Farm owners in the area protested the development on a basis of possible damage to ground water.

Representatives of the Idaho Fish and Game Department met with the zoning group to ask if a special zone could be established in the South Hills area south of Hansen and Kimberly.

They said the state's second largest deer herd is located here and the threat of housing development poses—a serious wildlife problem.

Additional homes on ranches at the base of the hills would bring dogs and other population effects which could seriously damage the deer herd, the Fish and Game officials said.

Two homes have already been built in the area just below the forest boundary near the winter range.

Twin Falls schools save $314,000

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls school district is taking last-minute advantage of an Idaho law to refund three bond issues at a lower interest rate — a move that will save the district $314,000.

Three bonding experts told the school board Tuesday night the U.S. Treasury Department on its part will effectively clamp the lid on the refinancing method that makes this savings possible.

Apparently, the treasury department's new rule will end advanced refunding of bonds in Idaho.

Board members agreed they owed it to taxpayers to take advantage of the savings before the treasury department changes the rules.

The district chose a refinancing plan which will combine three past bond issues into one.

The approximately $2.5 million in bonds were issued by the district in 1968, 1974 and 1977 and carried various interest rates higher than the 5.5 percent on today's market.

Of the $314,000 savings, the district will receive $268,000 next year and $75,000 the following year.

School board members indicated they may use the money to extend the district's reserve fund from 12 to 18 months.

This would enhance the district's bond rating, which now stands at 'AA', the highest in the state among school districts, according to Rich Michels, Idaho First National Bank vice-president.

Michels said the higher rating, which comes from Moody's Investor Service, saves the district between 1 and 2 percent interest on its bonds. As an example, he said slipping into a lower rating would mean paying $100,000 more interest on an $8 million debt over the life of the bonds.

Superintendent James Sewin called the refinancing plan sound and recommended approval be made contingent on a bonding attorney's legal opinion, a good bond rating from Moody's Investor Service and review by a national accounting firm.

The advanced refunding process has been used by some 30 to 40 Idaho school districts and other public bodies since the 1977 legislature made it legal in Idaho. Other states have allowed the practice for years, said Michels, who has done about 80 percent of the bond refunding in Idaho.

He said the Blaine school district recently refinanced a 1974 bond issue and saved almost $1 million. The district had sold its bonds at a 7 percent interest rate and took advantage of the present 5.5 percent rate.

Michels said the federal government wants to stop local governments from making money off government bonds, in practice known as arbitrage. That is the simultaneous sale and purchase of securities on two different markets in order to profit from price discrepancies.

Only public bodies have been able to take advantage. Because of their tax exempt status they are able to borrow money by selling bonds at about 5 percent interest, and can then buy U.S. Treasury bonds which pay 8 percent interest.

In effect, the local governments have been getting a 3 percent interest subsidy from the federal government.

Michels said in late 1976 the federal government stopped allowing bonding agents freely to use to the advantage of local governments.

Since then, the bonding agents have developed a method called an invested sinking fund for local governments to handle the interest benefits.

It is this practice the Treasury Department plans to halt May 15.

Snake River diversion

Irrigation plan unveiled

MAGIC VALLEY — Idaho's Department of Water Resources wants to stop irrigating pumping from the Snake River to 100,000 acres of farmland near Bliss and Hammett to save power and increase summer stream flows.

The water resources plan would divert water flows from the Snake River at Miller Dam into a proposed storage reservoir south of Hammett possibly through the use of Twin Falls Canal facilities.

The proposal came from Idaho Water Resources Department Director Steven Alford Thursday at a Boise meeting to consider implementation of the state Water Plan.

The 100,000 acres of farmland are now irrigated by high lift pumping from the Snake River during the summer. Alford said conversion to gravity flow through upstream diversion and storage could save the irrigators increasingly high pumping costs.

"This was a big issue in 1964 when a constitutional amendment passed requiring a state water plan," Alford said. "We have wanted to find ways to get water from the Snake and the Hammett areas where it is pumped as high as 700 feet and we want to change it over to a gravity system so we can save money."

There is also the possibility some electricity could be generated by the diverted water, Alford said.

The off-stream storage also could allow future development of up to 200,000 more acres of farmland on the Bruneau plateau, a desert area between Bliss and Hammett south of the Snake River, Alford said.

"It's a unique opportunity to maintain currently developed land and relieve the rather tremendous chunk of power they are now using," the water resources director said about the high lift irrigators.

"We're concerned as power costs increase, they will have a very difficult time operating. To try to insure the viability of that large irrigation area we've got to find another way to bring water to it, and at the same time we have the opportunity to save 100 to 150 megawatts of power."

He said a proposal to fund a feasibility study for the diversion project would be presented to the next session of the legislature.

A meeting is planned for May 22 in Twin Falls with local water users and other interested parties to discuss the plan.

He said such projects would probably require "sizeable" state funding as part of a water development fund of about $100 million.

The department is looking at five sites on federal lands for off-stream storage. All five, the largest of which would hold nearly 1 million acre feet of water, have already been set aside for the purpose, Alford said.

The diversion project would not necessarily use the Twin Falls Canal Co. High-Line-Canal-Running-from-Miller Dam.

"We haven't even had any real discussion with the Twin Falls Canal Co.," said William Ringert, Boise, attorney for the Gristone Butte Canal Co. and Sallor Creek Water Co. on the Bruneau Plateau.

Gristone and Sallor Creek and other high lift pumps have been looking at a project for a couple of years, Ringert said.

"Our initial proposal was to pump water through our existing facilities during the off season into a storage reservoir," Ringert said. "If some method can be worked out for getting it there by gravity through Miller or another point, it would please us immensely."

"We would rather work with the Twin Falls people if possible," he said. "But if they do not feel they want to permit use of their system, I think we can look at some alternative method of water transfer. We want to avoid litigation."

Other major high lift pumps on the Bruneau Plateau are the Black Mesa and Bell Rapids projects.

"In 1976 the Gristone operation consumed 41,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity. Bell Rapids Mutual Irrigation Co. consumed 66,400 kwh and the Sallor Creek Water Co. consumed 12,300 kwh.

Business image problems concern chamber manager

Graduation tonight

TWIN FALLS — Graduation ceremonies for 462 College of Southern Idaho students will take place tonight.

At the ceremony, scheduled for 6 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building, 183 students will receive Associate of Arts degrees, 284 will receive Associate of Applied Science degrees and 35 will receive Associate of Science degrees.

State Representative Larry Jackson, R-Boise, will be the commencement speaker for the graduating classes. Jackson, a Republican candidate for governor, will speak on the growth of CSI and be co-chairman of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee in the Legislature, the committee which sets state budgets.

Thirty nine of the graduating students have also received the honor of being listed in Who's Who in American Colleges.

TWIN FALLS — The impact of business on an institution is low," according to Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce manager Jay Hoyer.

Maybe that can explain why 110 businesses joined the chamber of commerce Wednesday in the chamber's most successful membership drive ever.

No matter what the reason or who is to blame, the poor opinion of business held by the general public filters down to the customers of even the smallest businesses, Hoyer believes.

And yet, "no one business can change that," Hoyer laments.

"But there is a solution to the problem.

"All businesses working together can solve business's image problem," Hoyer says, and that's what the chamber drives to extend to the Twin Falls business community in a program to enhance the quality of life in Twin Falls was launched.

In the past, the businessmen's bread and butter (the regular local customer) may have felt ignored by the business community because

Librarians convene

SUN VALLEY — Librarians from throughout Idaho are meeting in Sun Valley today through Saturday for the Idaho Library Association's 32nd annual conference.

The state's librarians are trying to gain a better hold on both the present and future state of Idaho librarians at the conference which convened Thursday.

The conference consists primarily of lectures and workshops to help inform library personnel what is going on in the world of libraries in and out of Idaho.

The conference meetings range from workshops on children's books and intellectual freedom to talks on library public relations and how energy affects library operations.

With an eye to the future, State Librarian Helen Miller reported Thursday on resolutions to guide Idaho libraries in the coming years.

The 73 resolutions, drafted by Idaho citizens and library personnel at the Idaho Governor's Conference on Libraries held in early April, give voice to what the director of Idaho libraries—feel about the state's librarians and libraries in the future.

Miller said the most important resolutions, given priority by the vote of the delegates to the Governor's Conference on Libraries, centered on the need for continuing education for library staff members; better funding for libraries; public relations campaign to improve the public image of libraries; the improvement of elementary and secondary school libraries; and the coordination of planning for computer-based services in Idaho libraries.

Action awaited on dam act

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — American Falls Reservoir District officials said Thursday they are hopeful Congress will give final approval to the Reclamation Safety-of-Dams Act of 1978 to pave the way for the sale of bonds and payment of the bonds authorized by the dam reconstruction.

John Barker of Buhl, president of the district board, said he believes passage of the act as it has been amended in the Senate, would eliminate the four court cases pending against the district. These court actions, including an appeal before the Idaho Supreme Court on the confirmation proceedings, are holding up sale of the bonds.

Barker said if the act is passed as it now stands, it would provide federal money to cover all of the costs of the water users, or about $18-million of the total $38 to $39 million project costs.

He said, however, that because the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee amended the bill to make it retroactive to cover American Falls, the bill must return to the house for reapproval.

"We have excellent support in the Senate with our two senators (James McClure and Frank Church) working hard for us," Barker said.

"When it gets to the House we only have two Idaho representatives in the 430 votes. They may not choose to be that generous with us."

"We are not optimistic. Even if we only get half of $5 million in federal money it would help."

"We would probably go ahead and sell the bonds and then pay them off when the money is available," Barker said. "This would cost us more in interest for the short duration of the bond purchase than the money ahead."

Barker said after the legislation passes the Senate and House, if it does, Congress will have to appropriate the money it allocates to the various projects. This could take several years.

John Rosholz, attorney for the district, said he is also optimistic about the outcome.

"I hope this would dissolve the opposition to our project and our financing plan," Rosholz said.

"The amount owed by the water users is covered by federal appropriations, he said, it would mean a saving of about $1.5 million annually in interest on the bonds alone.

Band night

THURSDAY night was band night for Twin Falls school kids. Musicians from junior high and high school filled the CSI Fine-Arts-Auditorium with music, including this young tuba player.

SECOND grade students in Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Popplewell's classroom at Sawtooth Elementary School danced the hula and enjoyed watermelon, pineapple and ham sandwiches at their third annual Luau Thursday. Grass skirts and straw hats were in fashion during the day.

110 businesses join local chamber

Committees were formed to identify problems and formulate goals in such areas as agriculture, economic development, education, legislation and transportation.
The first major project undertaken was Wednesday's membership drive, organized by Mike Gray and Ken Stearns, co-chairmen of the membership committee.

Fourteen two-man teams recruited 110 new businesses into the chamber, increasing the total number of member businesses to 435, Hoyer says.
Vern Routh and Otto Florence were the most persuasive, convincing 16 businesses to join, and Emery Peterson and Bob Donnelley recruited 14 businesses.

Buhl City Councilman Jerry Hawkins resigns

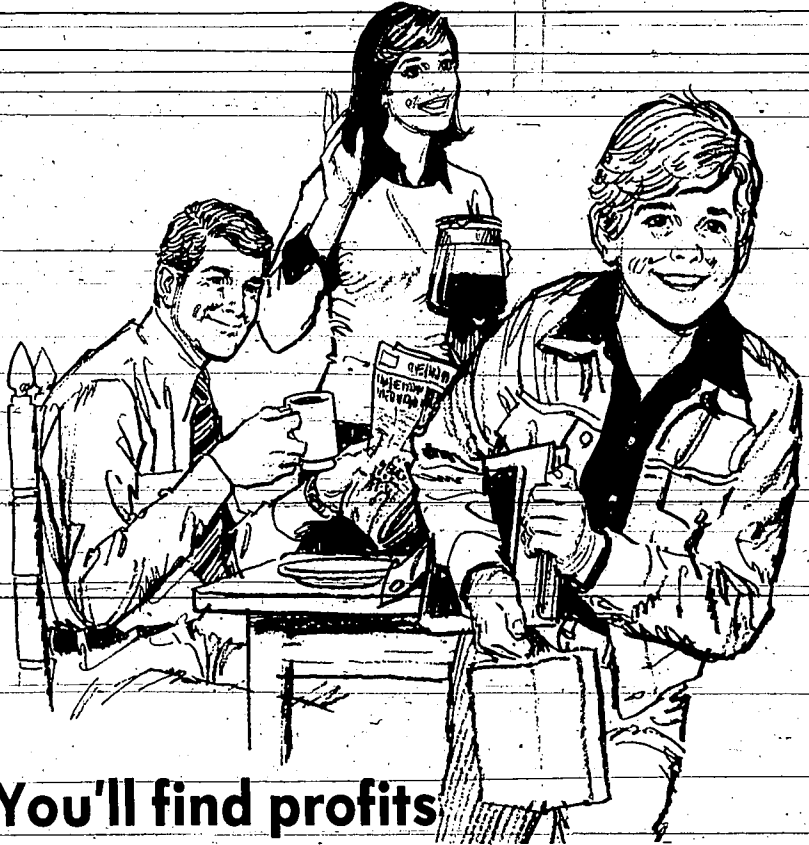

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

BUHL — Jerry Hawkins, Buhl City Council member now serving his second term of office, resigned Tuesday.
Hawkins submitted his resignation at the close of the regular meeting, saying he has taken on additional new business responsibilities. He said while his new business will demand more of his time, it is not the sole reason for his resignation.
"It gets discouraging after a while. I think our City Council is getting deeper and deeper into governmental regulations and restrictions. I don't want to see the city get into the difficulty some other towns are facing and it looks like we are headed in that direction," Hawkins said.

Hawkins said he feels the city council is trying to do small things it can do for the people, but he doesn't get involved in government programs such as the Housing and Urban Development program to cover the city reservoir and the proposed sewage system improvement discussed at length Tuesday night.
"I really hadn't made up my mind about resigning until the council voted against dropping their sewage planning project. That's when I decided I don't want to get involved with some big government project that may cause a lot of trouble," Hawkins said.

Hawkins said when he ran for office six years ago he was interested in providing better streets, parks and other small improvements for the people of Buhl. He said now he feels the city council is spreading itself too thin and taking on too many costly projects with government money. Hawkins said he doesn't think the government money is that reliable and in the long run it will cost the city more money and time than it can afford.
Hawkins and Bob Blass, Filer, have purchased the O. J. Childs Seed Warehouse in Filer. It will be named Hawkins Co. Ltd.

T.F. sweeps two events, Minico one in A-1 opener

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls swept the boys shotput and the girls mile and Minico went one-two in the two mile Thursday to get the district A-1 track and field championships off the ground.

The A-1 classification ran only finals Thursday afternoon as the number of entries from the three schools precluded the need of preliminary heats. Meanwhile, the A-2 division, which is running in conjunction with the A-1, limited itself to preliminaries, putting off the boys two-mile and girls mile until Friday morning due to excessive wind Thursday evening.

All the athletes were to congregate at Twin Falls Bruin stadium Friday afternoon to complete the qualifications for state. The running finals were scheduled for 5 p.m. Friday for both boys and girls in both classifications. The A-3 athletes return to the stadium Saturday at noon to complete their portion of district finals.

Twin Falls' girls qualified four individuals in taking the top four places and only senior Tammy Asher, heartbroken at the end, missed the 5:53.8 qualifying standard. Brenda Falash turned in a strong 5:28.8 in winning it despite the wind and afterward seemed pleased with the time. "I surprised because we had a really hard workout with hard sprints yesterday," she said.

Sophomore Cindy Crow was second in 5:38 with Heidi Walker in third spot and Molly McRoberts claiming four with a half-second to spare against the qualifying time.

In the boys shotput, Twin Falls took the first three places with Wooley, Dowd and Prater finishing in that order and Johnson of Burley claiming fourth. Wooley had a winning best of 49-7/8.

In the two-mile it was Minico's James Morrison and Ralph

Lara going one-two with Bruins Joe Martinez and Corey Armstrong following them across.

There was a little better mixture in the triple jump, won by Twin Falls' Rodeth at 42-9/16. Herb of Minico was second, followed by Hal of Burley and McCain of Minico.

Twin Falls' Patty Kasej, who had a good week of 135-foot efforts in practice, had to settle for 115-7/8 Friday but still won the district title. Naomi MacRae of Minico was second at 107 with Kukeen of Twin Falls third and Pubble of Burley fourth.

Little has changed in the running outlook for the A-1 program with the exception that Bruin miler Mark Oyen, a junior, will start in his specialty. He had been listed as done for the year after injuring his calf muscle in the SIC finals last week. But although he was limping Thursday afternoon, the youngster said "It's feeling better every day. I've got to try it...to try to qualify this week and hope it's healed by next week (for state)."

The decision by the A-2 coaches to postpone the boys and girls long distance runs to Friday morning brought smiles to the face of Coach Skip Andrew, who is throwing a regiment into the state in hopes of getting a large number qualified for state next week. "Distances are our fall in both divisions," he said. "This wind would have prevented some of the kids from meeting the qualification standard."

Meanwhile, a correction to the Times-News report on Wednesday night's A-3 qualifying is required. It was reported all six places in the girls mile had qualified for the state meet. Only the top three advanced. The qualifying standard for A-3 girls mile is 6:05 not 6:45 as reported.

Cloudburst kills salmon smolt

BOISE (UPI) — The state Department of Fish and Game said Thursday a cloudburst upstream from the Pahsimeroi rearing ponds in southcentral Idaho killed 230,000 summer chinook salmon smolt.

Despite of the kill, the department said, it has enough smolts in reserve at the Mackay and Pahsimeroi hatcheries to allow a release of more than 362,000 smolt — larger than the 1977 release of some 234,000 smolt.

Wall Bethke, state hatcheries supervisor, said the cloudburst hit the Pahsimeroi River upstream from a rock diversion structure Tuesday, washed part of it away and depleted the water supply in the rearing pond. He said a resulting loss of oxygen caused the mortalities.

A final estimate of the loss will be made when the survivors are tagged and counted as they are released, Bethke said.

Pin placements worry pros after first-round par busting

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) — Because of the almost murderous assault on par in the first round of the Colonial Invitation Thursday, there are those who expect the worst today.

"I'd hate to see where they put the pins for the second round," Lee Trevino said. "They're gonna be out of sight. They don't like to see all those four rounds being shot around here."

But it became quite clear Thursday first-round leader Steve Melnyk did not care where the pins were located.

He was going to make the most of his putts, anyway.

Melnik, whose putter has been the major culprit in keeping him from realizing his potential on the tour, needed only 22 putts to race around the par-70, normally tough Colonial Country Club course in 5-under 65.

He one-putted the last 12 holes in an amazing exhibition that even Melnyk found hard to believe.

"I'm embarrassed to have made so many putts," said Melnyk, who in eight years on the tour has yet to win a tournament. "It was a very impressive putting round to say the least. It's the best I've ever had."

Melnik was alone at 65 but there were 25 other golfers within four shots of him at the end of the biggest single day, under-par spurge in the tournament's 30-year history. Despite high winds earlier in the day and a late afternoon thunderstorm that almost caught the late finishers, more than 40 percent of the exclusive 102-man field shot par or better.

Trevino, Ruzzy Zoeller, Gil Morgan and little-known Mike Sullivan shot 65 and the group at 67 included Charles Coody, Mike Morely, Ed Flori, Danny Edwards, Andy Bean, Jerry Heard and Chris Strang.

Six others shot 68 and eight more shot 69 — including leading money winner Tom Watson. Hubert Green, defending champion Ben Crenshaw and Gary Player all had 73.

Although Melnyk went berserk with his putter, the even-par round of George Burns rivaled Melnyk's for uniqueness.

Burns parred all but two holes. But on one of those other two he had a double eagle — the first in tournament history — and on the other he had a triple bogey.

Melnik's streak of one-putts started at the seventh where he had to drop a 10-footer to save par after knocking his second shot in a bunker.

He birdied the 10th, scrambled for par on the ninth and then really warmed up.

Melnik hit his second shot into a trap on the 10th hole, but saved par with a two-foot putt. He had a four-footer for par at the 11th and salvaged par again on the 12th after missing the green.

He then rolled in birdie putts on the 13th and 14th and dropped in a two-foot par putt at the next hole after again hitting a bunker.

Melnik bogied the 16th but he only used one putt because he almost knocked his tee shot on the par-3 hole out of bounds and took three just to get it on the green.

A five-foot putt saved par on the 17th and he made a 20-foot putt for a birdie on the final hole.

ROCKY SPOT is successfully circumvented by Steve Melnyk during the opening round of the Colonial Invitational. Melnyk bogied this hole but still fired a 65 to lead the first round.

Eagles take 10-5 win from Utah Tech

PROVO — Wyman Smith and Tim Moeller combined Thursday to pilot College of Southern Idaho past Utah Tech 10-5 and set the stage for the big doubleheader at Ricks College this Saturday.

The Eagles, who split a pair of nine-inning games at Provo, need to win one of two games against Ricks to clinch the best spot for the region 18 baseball playoffs next week. If successful, the Eagles will entertain three other teams here Thursday and Friday with the winner advancing to the national finals.

U.S. cagers invade Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Soccer-minded Argentines are taught from early youth to dribble and shoot with their feet. They have a hard time playing basketball.

In much the same way that foreign soccer stars have flocked to the United States to show Americans that dexterity is not only a matter of the hands, North Americans are invading Argentina to demonstrate that ball-handling is not something restricted to the feet.

During 1977, only two Americans played basketball in the Buenos Aires metropolitan league. Both played for a team named Obras Sanitarias, which quite handily won the metropolitan championship.

As the 1978 basketball season got under way recently, 22 "Yankoes" were enrolled in the rosters of the league's clubs and 11 others were waiting for the approval of the metropolitan basketball federation to be signed up.

"What a difference!" a fan commented recently after David Reavis of Washington, D.C., swooped past a defender and glided in for a layup in a game at Boca Juniors stadium.

Reavis, a tall and lean 24-year-old who played with the University of Georgia last year, is one of the four Americans who this season have made Boca Juniors a team to beat, not to be beaten.

"You only get one chance and I wanted to see how the other side of the world lives," said Reavis, who-unlike-most-other-players-speaks some Spanish.

"I've really been impressed by the way people treat you here. It's like at practice, when they just come over to say, 'Hi!'"

After games the players are treated like heroes. Small kids crowd around—the Americans slapping them on the arms and back, almost anywhere they can reach.

Smith worked the first seven inning, giving up four of the five runs and Moeller mopped it up after the Eagle bats had pretty well taken care of things against Utah Tech.

Rusty McNealy opened the game with a hit and rode in on another single by Romero to get the scoring start. An inning later, Bob Schuler tripled in the walking Fazio. In the third, a walk to Romero, singles by Marc Sedar and Bozaio and Carl Hall's triple advanced three more runs across.

Utah Tech replied with three in the bottom of the inning on two walks, a single and Koble's three-bagger.

The home team pulled to within one in the fifth before CSI clinched it in the top of the sixth. McNealy single and scored home when Romero delivered a double. Hollet plated Romero with a hit, moving to second on the throw-in, and he scored from there on Fazio's besehit.

Singles by Hall, Umer and McNealy plated two more CSI runs in the ninth, McNealy getting both RBIs.

Louisville fattens up on derby gimmickry

LOUISVILLE — It's a hard-luck race in a hard-luck town.

"My Old Kentucky Home" is a rooming house. With the bath down the hall.

The grass isn't blue. Neither is the sky. They make America's whiskey here. It's America's still. "The Dark and Bloody Ground" they called it in the days when the men wore coonskin caps and carried long rifles. Now you're better off carrying your own deck of dice.

It's a crapshoot town. The only way you could get better wine by river. And most people dropped off because of a busted flush. It's the pickpocket capital of the world on the first Saturday in May. Ripoffville. U.S.A. They put a quarter's worth of bourbon in a five-cent glass, some weeds and a lump of sugar and get three bucks for it. And that's the bargain of the week here. You can get a dime-store locket for 20 bucks. Of course, it's got a picture of a horse on it.

This little grift was the brainstorm of a portly little Irish haberdasher in the days when it was a lousy little three or four-horse race for $2,500. Matt Winn had 10 kids to support and he showed Louisville a way to pick America's pockets.

The Kentucky Derby became an American tribal rite. Matt Winn made that one race at Churchill Downs on one Saturday in May into the most important two minutes in sports. He convinced everybody that this rotten old pile of lumber in this humid river town was the fount of racing.

"If Native Dancer can't win that race, no one should," his trainer, Bill Wintry, said sadly. Native Dancer didn't win it. The horse which did never beat another horse.

"Discovery couldn't win this race. Kelso couldn't even get in it. Neither could Man o' War. But Cannonade could. And Dust Commander. And field horses. And Hoop

Jr. But Bold Ruler couldn't finish in the money. Round Table barely did.

Some great jockeys have never won this race. But Bill Hartack won five. Hard-knocking owners couldn't win it. Alfred Vanderbilt couldn't. Neither could Paul Mellon, Ogden, Phipps. But auto dealers from LaCrescenta could. Colonel E. R. Bradley, who ran gambling casinos in Florida on the side, won four.

Nobody ever got caught fixing a Kentucky derby but the gold-leaf sign on the clubhouse designating Forward Pass was in the 1968 Derby but he won it in 1969 — when the cops threw out Dancer's Image, the real winner — for using a drug that's now legal.

Not even the law could cancel the Kentucky derby. Louisville was more afraid of losing fresh money than losing a war. It's impossible to estimate exactly how much a Kentucky Derby pours into Louisville. For years every brother within a three-state area emptied for derby week and their attractions poured into Louisville on every Greyhound bus, wearing their best bow ties and ankle-strap shoes. Families vacated their stately homes to turn them over to corporations for $2,000 a week. Louisville's hotels were the first to raise rates for derby week, although Augustus and Indianapolis, Daytona and other permanent venues now do it. A three-day rate in the finest hotels now is $285.

People at the Kentucky derby, for some reason, eat their fool heads off. The Sixxax company's five dining rooms have long waiting lines. Some 60,000 hot dogs are consumed. You can buy anything from a 41 beer in a cardboard carton to a $300 mint julep in a 14-karat cup. You get to keep the cup. And the mint.

During derby week, horse trainers are being celebrated for their money stars. Four-foot jockeys are social lions. Horse owners who would be shown the door by the butler rest of the year are announced like royalty.

The fields are too big. There is a saying around a track when you get five horses in a race, the best one will win. When you get 23, a burro might win it. All a horse has to be to get in a Kentucky Derby is be a horse.

Still, it's a race which was won by Citation, too. And Whirlaway. Twenty Grand. Secretariat and Count Fleet.

But a Kentucky derby doesn't want a truly-run race. That's not the stuff of legend, the bin of anecdotal lore. The Kentucky derby wants a jockey who stands up in the stirrups at the eighth pole.

It wants Don Meade and Herb Fisher trading witt and slashes at the finish and smacking saddle cloth. It doesn't want Gold Coast millionaires making polite speeches to some governor of Kentucky. It wants Carry Back to run away from the pride of the Lexington breeding pens. It wants Donnell paying $184.90 straight, $41.20 place and $13.20 show. It wants a South American dark horse that stood in languishing in Miami for 15 months. It gets lumped with the field horses and win by three.

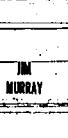

It wants an odds-on choice to get washed out in what the theater calls "lop sweat" in the claustrophobic paddock, which is the nearest thing to a Tijuana jail you will ever see on any racetrack.

These are the things that made Matt Winn's race a genuine part of America folklore. This is what lets Holiday Inns charge $80 a night and helps cab drivers put their kids through medical school. This is what brings the beautiful people, the well-heeled, the sensation seekers pouring into this whiskey town and out on Bardstown Road and drinking bourbon with grass in it and leaking money as they go.

The race lasts 1 minute, 56 seconds if the day is dry and the track fast. But if you paid to bucks to join the swarm in the infield, it wouldn't matter if it lasted an hour-and-69 seconds or a day-and-56 seconds. All you'll see is somebody's navel.

If you can't make it, don't despair. Just get in a crowded elevator with a hangerover, set five to $500 and do without sleep for three days. If you don't want to do that, just send a check and tell them to split it equally among touts, pickpockets, bar girls, bellhops, cabbies and guys selling maps to burned treasure on the corner of Fourth and Walnut. Put a Stephen Foster record on the gramophone and try not to remember he died in the belly of a flophouse with a losing race ticket in his pocket and a pawn ticket where his watch used to be.

Rice zips ahead of homerun pace

Wichet out Reggie Manis, Jim Rice, who had a major league's home run pacesetter, crashed No. 11 in the third inning with Jerry Remy aboard Thursday night to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Left-hander Bill Lee was the beneficiary of Rice's output, notching his fifth win in as many decisions.

Rice's 13th lifetime homer against the Birds followed a single by Remy and resulted in a 1-1 tie against loser Dennis Martinez, 5-3. It tipped Rice's league-leading RBI total to 36.

Lee allowed only five hits in 6 2/3 innings before leaving in favor of Bob Stanley, who pitched out of a seven-inning jam. Stanley got Eddie Murray to bounce into an inning-ending double play after Baltimore had scored a run on a single by Dave Skaggs, a hit batsman and a pinch-hit, run-scoring single by Terry Crowley.

Rice's 11 homers give him a big jump over the pace set by Mark in 1961 when he established the major league record of 61 in one season.

PHILS 4, Reds 1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Steve Carlton tossed a six-hitter in an outstanding Tom Seaver and seventh-inning drive in two runs with a triple and scored another Thursday night to pace the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Carlton, boosting his record to 4-4, struck out nine to raise his career total to 2,337, which moved him past Early Wynn into 18th place on the all-time major league strikeout list. Cincinnati's only run came in the sixth on consecutive one-out singles by George Foster, Johnny Bench and Dave Concepcion.

The Phillies used doubles by Heber and Tim McCarver to take a 1-0 lead in the second inning and Greg Luzinski's homer, his fourth in five games and seventh of the season, made it 2-0 in the third and helped tag Seaver with his fourth loss in five decisions.

After Carlton got out of the sixth inning, the Reds threatened again in the seventh when Ken Griffey singled and Joe Morgan walked but the Phillies' southpaw struck out Foster to end the inning.

Heber's triple, following singles by Mike Schmidt and Luzinski, got the Phillies' two insurance runs in the eighth.

Mets 3, Expos 2

MONTREAL (UPI) — Bobby Valentine drove in two runs, including the game winner Thursday night when the New York Mets won a two-game series from Montreal by downing the Expos 2-1.

Valentine, inserted into the lineup as a regular after Tim Lincecum was injured last month, drove in the tying run to make the score 2-1 in the sixth.

Willie Montanez singled and took second and third on consecutive wild pitches by Wayne Twitchell. John Stearns walked and Valentine then bounced into a fielder's choice to score Montanez.

In the eighth inning, Steve Henderson walked, advanced to third on a single by Stearns and scored on Valentine's single. The Mets got a

Soviet Olympics have no labor troubles

PARIS (UPI) — Soviet Vice Premier Ignati Novikov, chairman of the organizing committee for the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow, told a Paris news conference Thursday that work on the Olympic village and other facilities is going ahead quickly and on schedule.

Novikov said the committee, called "Olympic-80," will make a detailed program of work for the full session of the International Olympic Committee which opens next week in Athens.

"On the whole, the construction and modernization of Olympic installations is following established programs," Novikov said. "Efforts are being made to have most facilities ready by 1979 so that they can be tested during the Soviet People's Spartakiad (National Games) in June of that year."

"On the Olympic village, which will house the athletes of the world," Novikov said, "Work is advancing rapidly on the construction of 18 buildings of 16 floors each, a gymnasium and a social and cultural center."

Novikov said the organizing committee's financial plans are also well in hand.

"The essential objective is to cover the immediate expenses of the Games," he said. "The program includes 11 projects, of which the most important are lotteries, the sale of Olympic coins, television rights and commercial revenues."

Novikov said that 30 percent of Olympic tickets have been earmarked for foreign visitors to the Games.

Half a million spectators are expected to watch the Games and the Soviet organizers will also have to cater for 12,500 members of sports delegations from more than 120 countries.

Mandich traded

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Dolphins tight end Jim Mandich was traded Thursday to the Washington Redskins for two eighth-round draft choices, the Dolphins announced.

The Dolphins will get the Redskins' eighth-round pick in 1979 and again in 1980, the announcement said.

The Redskins drafted Mandich out of the University of Michigan in 1970. In eight years with Miami, he caught 121 passes for a total of 1,406 yards. His 23 touchdown receptions match those of retired wide receiver Howard Twilley for second place in the all-time Dolphins record book.

Mandich, 27, missed most of last season by two younger players' "Coach Don Shula" considered "better blockers," had been playing out his option. However, he signed a new contract with the Dolphins Thursday before he was traded.

Barney not indicted

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — The Detroit Lions issued a statement Thursday saying they were assured defensive back Len Barney, who only wanted as a witness in an alleged drug ring case in Buffalo, N.Y.

"We have been in touch with both Ed Bell, Lem's attorney, and NFL security and they have assured us that Len is not a defendant in this case nor has he been indicted," the club said in a statement released through its public relations department.

"He has not been, nor will be arrested," the statement said. "He has only been asked to testify about his knowledge of individuals connected with this case."

League security has again reassured us after checking with the chief assistant district attorney in Buffalo that Len Barney is not criminally involved in this case."

In addition, 6,500 officials and special guests and more than 7,000 journalists and technicians will have to be housed during the Games, according to the organizing committee's figures.

A Soviet press release acknowledged that one of the biggest headaches will be providing hotel accommodation for the thousands of visitors to Moscow that summer.

But it also said work on that front is also progressing well, including the construction of what it called the world's largest hotel with 10,000 beds at Izmailovo just outside the Soviet capital.

New hotels with a total capacity of 27,000 are also under way.

The Lenin Central Stadium, which will serve as the focal point of the Games with the opening and closing ceremonies held there, is being completely renovated and enlarged to hold 150,000 athletes and spectators, officials said.

They said Europe's biggest covered stadium is nearing completion in central Moscow and will seat 45,000 spectators.

Hard work nets advances for judoists

TWIN FALLS — Months of hard work on practice paid off Thursday night for 30 Magic Valley young people as they were awarded advancements in judo rank at the YMCA-CSI Judo Club awards banquet.

The 30 youngsters and their parents attended the banquet held at the YMCA.

A special award of appreciation was presented to Helen Lee for her help in providing photographs for the club during meets and tournaments. That award was received on behalf of Mrs. Lee by Mrs. Guy Matsuoka.

An award of recognition of service was presented to Jim Brennan Sr. for his efforts in helping to keep the club functioning and aiding in the promotion and transportation of the judoists.

Club President Don Treadwell was also presented with an award of appreciation for his part in leading the club this year.

After the special awards were presented by the leadership of the Club, the Club members gave a special award to Frank Hiral for his efforts to help the senior division participants; Al Benkula for his efforts with the senior and junior-division and Wes Dobbe for his work in keeping the Club functioning year after year.

Among the advancements awarded Thursday night, the highest advancement awarded was given to Greg Dobbs who was presented with the rank of Shodan black belt by Guy Matsuoka.

In the brown belt division, Dean Ciri, Earl Stary, Ron Stary Sheila Presley, Dan Schiffer and Eric Hoopilanla were recognized for advancement.

In the senior division, Art Rebollozo, Mike Hale and Bart Rigby received Yon Kyu awards.

In the intermediate division which includes those 12-14, Mitch Green was awarded an orange belt and Brian Dobbe, Brian Harmon and Steve Benkula received blue belts.

In the junior division, purple belts were awarded to Clint Treadwell and Tim Voyles. Casey Bartholomew and Kelly Bohse received orange belts and yellow belts were presented to Doug Hatterman, Lisa Hatterman, Anthony Sheel, Kevin Muegel, Blake Hasley, Ron Dingwall, Mark Beale, Richard Beale, Kirby Newman, Eric Swartling, Rick Harder, Dustin Matsuoka, Brenda Overlin, Eric Thomas, Tom Green and Terry Hammons.

Master of Ceremonies Wes Dobbs said recognition of all the outstanding judo club members would be impossible with the number of members who were successful in tournaments this year. He did say that Greg Dobbs earned five first place awards in tournaments this year.

Snow, weather keep spring camping unpredictable

MAGIC VALLEY — Camping and hiking in National Forests will be unpredictable this weekend due to muddy roads and melting snow.

Most hiking areas on the Forest are still quite inaccessible because of snow. The snow line is now approximately 6,000 feet in the Ketchum-Stanley area.

Some camping facilities have been opened in all areas of the Sawtooth National Forest to accommodate early visitors but campgrounds are not yet being maintained by forest service crews and water systems have not been turned on because of the risk of frozen pipes.

Roads still remain closed because of soft roadbeds. Those roads will be opened as conditions permit.

In the Burley area, Clear Creek, Sublett and Lake Fork campgrounds are open. Water has been turned on at Clear Creek. Some construction is in progress at the Sublett campground. All facilities in Howell Canyon are still closed by snow. The City of Rocks area is accessible by way of Oakley or Almo.

In the South Hills area, the lower campgrounds along Rock Creek are open and have been maintained. The lower portions of the Shoshone Basin road is open and side roads that have dried sufficiently for travel are Copper Gulch, North Cottonwood, Indian Springs, Buckhorn and Big Creek. Four-wheel-drive vehicles are needed on most of the side roads.

In the Fairfield district, both Couch and Wells summits are still closed by snow. People wishing to camp along the South Fork of the Boise river will have to get into the area by way of Anderson Ranch Dam.

The only campground open in the Wood River Valley is the North Fork campground which is seven miles north of Ketchum. Along the Salmon River below Stanley, several campgrounds are open and accessible.

BOISE (UPI) — The Forest Service said Wednesday camping conditions this week will be unpredictable, with muddy roads, prevailing and but additional campgrounds open.

Recent storms have resulted in slick and muddy roads, and a snowline recession has allowed campgrounds to open.

The water has been turned on at some campgrounds but there will be no fees charged at campgrounds without water. In the Payette National Forest, no campgrounds officially are open but some are available for public use in the Council and Weiser areas.

water is available but the water will not be tested until May 18. The road to Redfish Lake is open but the road to Alturas Lake is still blocked by snow.

Most of the side roads in the Sawtooth National Recreation area are still closed by snow. Highway 21 from Loman to Stanley is now open and some cross-country skiing is still being done in the Banner summit and Bull-Troat-Lake areas.

In the Boise National Forest district, Dog Creek, near Anderson Ranch Reservoir;

Park Creek, Mountain View, Kirkham and Warm Springs near Loman are open. Thorn Creek near Idaho City, Lower French Creek at Cascade Reservoir and Hot Springs and Pine Flats are also open. Other areas also open for use include Battlesnake, Tie Creek, Trull Creek, Banks, Swinging Bridge, Canyon Creek, Cold Springs and Big Eddy near Emmett.

Campers are advised to be cautious and be prepared for changes in the weather and have adequate clothing for their campouts.

Aslett, Ryan win trips

TWIN FALLS — Steve Aslett of Kimberly and Janice Ryan of Twin Falls were the winners of the Boylstrom Fifth Annual Trip to Hawaii competition.

Aslett bested 21 other men in the men's division while Ryan overcame 24 other women to win the women's side.

Aslett bowled 55 pins over his average of 148 for a 203 game. John Ridgway was second with 52 pins over his average of 156 with a 216 game.

The women's side was a closer match. Janice Ryan and Nancy Lee both averaged down 45 pins, over their averages for the first tie in the tournament's five year history.

In a one game roll-off, Ryan won the match by rolling 413, six pins over her average, while Lee rolled a 118, one pin under her average of 119.

Each of the winners and their guests will receive an all-expense paid trip to Hawaii.

Austin in drag race

POCATELLO — Dave Austin of Twin Falls will be one of the favorites in the modified class Saturday when the Internation Raceway near Pocatello opens the racing season Saturday.

Austin's 1957 Chevy has turned 120 miles per hour through the quartermile in an elapsed time of 11 seconds.

Four races are planned at the raceway this year, according to track owner Jim Hennessy. "Drag racing is an expensive sport. By running fewer events, we can afford to increase prize money and bring in some 200 mile per hour race cars this year."

Entries for the races have been received from Utah, Montana and throughout Idaho. A number of carbure-ted dragsters from the Salt Lake City area are entered.

Time trials will begin at 1 p.m. and the eliminations will be run at 7:30 p.m.

Other races of the season will be held June 10, and August 19.

Nuggets bruised, angry going into fourth battle

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Denver Nuggets are bruised, battered and angry as they prepare to face the Seattle SuperSonics Friday.

The Nuggets trail 2-1 in the best-of-seven series to determine the NBA Western Conference champion and they must play Game 4 in Seattle, where the Sonics have won 18 straight.

"It's not right what happened," said Denver Coach Larry Brown, referring to injuries suffered by forwards Bobby Jones and Anthony Roberts in Wednesday's 105-91 loss to the Sonics.

Late in the game, Jones received a blow on his thigh from the knee of Seattle's Jack Sikma and Roberts got hit in the throat with a Paul Silas elbow. In neither case was a foul called and Brown received a technical foul protesting that fact.

"I feel I have a right to protect my players — you might note that on the technical foul," said Brown after the defeat.

"I only hope they can play Friday," Brown added. "Right now I don't know if they can."

The injuries may have hurt the Nuggets, but not as much as the Sonics' Fred Brown, who scored 11 of his 17 points in the fourth quarter.

"He made some unbelievably tough shots," said Denver's David Thompson.

"We are going to have to contain him, but it's very hard. He was just making everything double pumping on his shots. When he's hitting like that there's not much you can do."

The Sonics are happy to be home for the next game.

"When you're at home and make a good play and bear the crowd, you get pumped up," said Seattle's Gus Williams.

Williams, who had 16 points Wednesday, was one of six Sonics in double figures.

"Friday's game is the most important game of the series," said Williams.

"Because if we lose, then all that hard work in Denver getting a spill was for nothing."

"We feel confident," said Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens. "But the thing is, you have to go out there on the floor and do it. This (Denver) is a good team out there."

About the roughness of the game, Wilkens said, "This whole series has been physical. Not just this series, but the Portland series was physical, too, and we also played some very physical games at the end of the season."

The Sonics were whittled for 25 fouls Wednesday to the Nuggets' 24. In the first two games, Denver committed 72 fouls to Seattle's 52.

Said the Nuggets' Thompson, "All we have to do is win one here, whenever. It will be tough because they are more physical than we are and bigger."

"On the boards they make the initial contact and then we react to it and it seems like the officials see the reaction."

Bullets must win Friday or face road game Sunday

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — All season, it seemed the Washington Bullets couldn't win a game unless they absolutely had to. That tendency is persisting through the playoffs, but a day of reckoning is near: There are no "little ones" any more.

True, the Bullets have a 2-1 lead over the Philadelphia 76ers in the best-of-seven NBA Eastern Conference championship series. But if they lose Game 6 at home Friday night, Philadelphia hosts the deciding Game Sunday afternoon.

Most of the Bullets feel the only way they want to go back to Philadelphia is under duress. They blame Wednesday night's 107-94 loss on a lack of execution, but Coach Dick Motta thinks lack of motivation might have played a part, too.

"They were humans, not machines," said Motta. "We were up 3-1 on the 76ers and we got a lot of attention, and we had an extra off day of glory. It was a fun time, because you don't often get ahead of the 76ers like that."

"But we know it's back to business now."

Motta plans no extensive lineup changes for Friday; but veteran Wes Unseld will reclaim his starting spot at center. Mitch Kupchak started Wednesday night, but Unseld recovered from his ankle sprain enough to play 30 minutes and grab 16 rebounds.

There had been speculation that Larry Wright would supplant Tom Henderson at playmaking guard, but Motta nixed it. Henderson missed six straight shots from the floor Wednesday night, while Wright was 8-for-13.

The 76ers, playing like a team for the first time in the series, disrupted the Bullet offense by holding Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge to just 12 points apiece. Except for Wright, the guards weren't able to take up the slack.

"Julius (Erving) and Caldwell (Jones) did an excellent job," said 76ers forward George McGinnis. "I don't think I've ever seen Julius work harder defensively and still involve himself in the offensive end. That's the type of input we need from everybody Friday night to make this a seven-game series."

Erving and Doug Collins led the 76ers with 24 points apiece.

"Our club has its back against the wall, but we know what we have to do," continued McGinnis. "We played so terribly when their ballclub beat us that they were playing pressure-free basketball. Now we go to their place and they're under the pressure. They've got to win Friday."

Tomjanovich looks forward to good cry

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Rockets forward Rudy Tomjanovich looked forward to crying following his third operation.

The National Basketball Association star had been unable to shed a tear since he suffered massive facial damage late last year. The latest operation Wednesday involved making an incision to the right side of his nose to allow for the passage of tears.

"That's it as far as surgery," said the 6-6, 215-lb star who has hated every minute he has spent in hospitals the past five months. Tomjanovich, 30, suffered a concussion, a broken nose, a broken jaw and tear duct damage when he literally ran into a punch thrown by Kermit Washington during an NBA game Dec. 2 at Los Angeles.

"My teeth feel a lot better, but they're a little loose. Lately they haven't bothered me, but occasionally there's some numbness," he said. "I just want it all over with. It's about time I'll be 100 percent healthy and get back to a normal home life."

Tomjanovich was the leading Rockets' scorer for five straight seasons, and he was selected to the all-star game four consecutive years. He did not play this past season after the incident.

"My first operation realigned his jaw and wired it shut. On his second trip to the hospital—the wires were removed."

"I've always had a pretty bad feeling about hospitals," he said. "I just dreaded going there to get people. But they are good places. They try to help people," he said.

Celtics soon after the incident. The suit claimed the Lakers were negligent in not controlling Washington's actions. The Lakers filed a petition claiming Tomjanovich was negligent.

Tomjanovich's actions just before he was hit by Washington are disputed. Tomjanovich said he captain of the Rockets hit was moving to break up Washington's fight with another Houston player, Washington has said he felt Tomjanovich was attacking him.

His injuries, and less serious injuries to a number of other players, caused the Rockets to drop to last place after winning the NBA's Central Division two seasons ago.

"As the season wore on," he said, "it got tougher and tougher for me to watch what was becoming a last-place team. There was no way to help it. I couldn't do anything."

The Rockets have filed a $1.4 million damage suit against the Lakers.

MacPhail curbs clubhouse bets

NEW YORK (UPI) — American League President Lee MacPhail Thursday issued a warning to an unspecified number of AL clubs against making bets on horses while in the clubhouse.

MacPhail explained that players had a right to bet on horses but added, "we don't want clubhouses used as OTB stations."

"I understand persons have been entering clubhouses to solicit bets and collect money in regard to horse racing," said MacPhail. "I have no desire to interfere in a player's personal life."

"On the other hand," MacPhail continued, "it is not necessary for me to state to you that gambling and baseball do not go together."

The identity of two clubs which MacPhail said were involved was not disclosed.

Brewers' Bamberger will try pep talk

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Before the Milwaukee Brewers take the field Friday night in Chicago against the White Sox, Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger is going to have a talk with his team.

He will be trying to shake them out of a recent slump that included two straight losses at home to the Texas Rangers this week. The Texas games were especially hard to take because the Brewers didn't pitch that bad, they just didn't get any timely hitting.

They had three home runs Wednesday and lost 4-3, for instance, and it's not easy to get three big hits and a five-infer from pitcher Larry Sonerson and Joe.

"I'll talk to them Friday in Chicago," Bamberger said Thursday. "I'm going to try to relax them. They're trying to press too much. Sometimes by trying too hard, you hurt yourself more than otherwise."

The losses dropped the Brewers to 12-15, the farthest they have been behind the 500 mark since the season began with them winning their first five games. But Bamberger isn't worried.

He also isn't worried about his young pitching staff because, despite the fact it is struggling, the young hurlers are learning every day.

"Probably the most helpful thing to these young pitchers is just going out on the mound and pitching every day," he said.

Bamberger, who at Baltimore for a decade was a whiz at developing young pitchers including the likes of Jim Palmer, thinks the staff will come around. He said Moose Haas, who pitched well with a 3.5 mark before going out with an injury, and Bill Travers, disabled since off-season surgery, are going to make a difference later this season.

Travers, the team's top pitcher a year ago, is scheduled to make his season debut Saturday night against the White Sox. Bamberger is feverishly hoping Travers, who had an operation to fix an ulnar nerve in his pitching arm, returns to his form of old.

The completion of surgery could signal the setting of a date in federal court for the start of Tomjanovich's damage suit against Washington's former team, the Los Angeles Lakers.

Soon, attorneys for Tomjanovich are expected to file a petition specifying the amount of damages the Rockets' player seeks. Those attorneys were unavailable for comment Thursday.

Three months ago, when Lakers' attorneys sought to have the damage figure set, Tomjanovich attorney James Kroemer said, "The damages will probably exceed $10,000. It'll be plenty."

Washington was traded by the Lakers to the Boston
