

California Countering tax loss

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. called a joint session of the Legislature today to lay out plans for confronting a $7 billion loss to local governments brought about by California's taxpayer revolt.

Count challenges were quickly filed against Proposition 13, approved overwhelmingly Tuesday in a ballot initiative that slashes soaring property taxes by 60 percent and threatens similar citizen uprisings in other states.

Brown, who had opposed the far-reaching measure but anticipated its passage, ordered an immediate freeze Wednesday on all state aid.

The governor vowed there would be no new state taxes and said he would implement cuts in state government spending where possible without causing "human suffering."

"There will be a period of uncertainty ahead, but we must respond to it to curtail the property tax and cut government spending," Brown told a builder's convention late Wednesday.

"It is the will of the people," In Los Angeles, Mayor Tom Bradley said 8,300 city employees will be fired, including 1,000 uniformed police officers because of the measure's passage. Dismissal notices had already been sent to 21,000 teachers in the city and hearings were ordered for next week on appeals by those affected.

"The city will survive," said Bradley, who opposed Proposition 13. "But there will be significant cuts in every department."

Honolulu Mayor Frank Pasi, expressing the sentiment of many outsiders, predicted the initiative's 2-to-1 approval could be "the match that explodes the bomb of taxpayer revolt" across the nation.

Howard Jarvis, 75, co-sponsor of the ballot measure, held a rousing victory party in Los Angeles and said: "We the taxpayers have spoken — to ignore us is political suicide."

A record primary turnout of 67 percent of California's 10 million registered voters cast ballots Tuesday, rousing Brown on the Democratic side and matching him up against state Attorney General Evelle Younger on the GOP side for the November gubernatorial race.

Younger, who expressed lukewarm support for Proposition 13, was expected to challenge Brown on ways to allocate nearly $5 billion in surplus state funds to help ease the immediate financial crunch on local governments caused by the measure's passage.

If upheld in the courts, Proposition 13 will roll back property tax assessments to 1975 levels, limit taxes to 1 percent of market value and impose a 2 percent limit on annual increases in assessments.

Three challenges were made against the measure in the state Supreme Court Wednesday — two by public service employees and another by the California Teachers Association. The suits ask the court for "prompt and decisive intervention" on grounds the proposition violates equal protection and due process clauses of the U.S. Constitution.

Barring a legal stay, the initiative is set to become law July 1 and is expected to shrink annual local government revenue from $12 billion to $5 billion.

Brown made it clear he would not join any legal challenge to the tax measure.

"There will be some question marks, but I want to clear things up as quickly as we can. For the next three weeks you're going to see the most interesting, exciting and pioneering government in the country."

Warehouse burns at Buhl

By LONNIE ROSENWALD
Times-News writer

BUHL — A "million dollar" fire destroyed a block-long seed warehouse in Buhl today.

The fire, reported about 9 a.m. this morning, destroyed one of four Shields Co. warehouses in downtown Buhl and threatened nearby homes.

Dean Haumont, a foreman at the Shields Co., estimated the fire destroyed "well over a million dollars" of red clover, alfalfa and bean seeds.

Haumont said all seeds stored in the warehouse were destroyed in the blaze. Jim Shields, owner of the Shields Company, said he doesn't know how the fire started, but the company is covered by group insurance.

Fire units from Castleford, Kimberly, and Filer joined the Buhl fire department in battling the fire which was brought under control but was still burning at 11 a.m. today.

The fire, burning extremely hot, kept firemen 40 yards away from the warehouse at first and firemen hosed down their trucks to keep them cool.

Two houses bordering the warehouse on Walnut Street were threatened by the fire and were damaged by smoke and water.

Curbitt Perry, who owns two of those homes, said he was able to evacuate his belongings from his residence at 815 Walnut.

"I happened to be outside at the time when I saw the smoke," Perry said.

With the help of friends, Perry girded his family's clothes, furniture and other household goods on the street as firemen tried to keep the flames from igniting his home.

The other house was vacant at the time.

The warehouse destroyed in the blaze is one of four operated by the Shields Co. in downtown Buhl, but three are separated by an alley from the one warehouse that burned and did not catch fire.

Most of Buhl turned out to watch firemen tugging hoses and climbing on roofs in an effort to save the warehouse.

When that appeared hopeless, the firemen turned their attention to controlling the flames within the burning frame and boomed down the houses next door.

The firemen were handicapped by loss of two city wells, resulting in low pressure.

Curious observers had to be continually told, "Stay back."

Several power and phone lines fell across Walnut Street adding to the hazard at the fire.

Buhl policeman Ben Ekruat said the warehouse blaze today was probably "the largest fire in Buhl in five years."

The last large fire in the western Twin Falls County town of 3,000 was the Buckendorf Tire Co. fire, Ekruat said.

Kansas girl top speller

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Peg McCarthy, 13, of Topeka, Kan., spelled "delfication" correctly today to win the national spelling bee.

Peg won after her lane competitor out of the 108 young spellers who started the contest Wednesday was eliminated by the word "volitation." She was Lyn Sue Kahng, 12, of San Diego, Calif., the daughter of a political science professor originally from Korea.

Lyn spelled the word "volitation" and then Peg misspelled it too, making "cresvite." Then Lyn misspelled "cresvite" by leaving out the second "c."

Peg spelled that word correctly, went on to spell "delfication" and received a large trophy and a $1,000 prize.

Peg is a seventh grader at Holy Name Catholic Grade School in Topeka. Her cousin won a all-Kansas spelling bee 25 years ago. Her father, Jerry, owns a photo firm.

In the opening 75 minutes of today's session, 16 children were eliminated and five girls and two boys were left to compete in the final rounds.

Idaho tax limit proponent scoffs at claims 12,000 jobs will vanish

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Employment has released its predictions of what it believes will happen if Idahoans ultimately pass the proposed 1 percent property tax limitation, but Idaho State Property Owners Association President Don Chance isn't buying them.

Department Director Glenn Nichols said research and analysis indicate passage of the initiative would result in some 12,000 or 13,000 layoffs of local government and education employees.

Nichols, who added that the estimates are reasonably accurate, said those figures are taken from a possible 37,000 employees who could be affected. He said the 37,000 total includes 21,000 persons in education and 16,000 others in local government.

"We're not trying to discuss the merits of the initiative," Nichols said. "All we're trying to do is plan for our contingency. These figures are reasonably credible."

Nichols said the layoffs would result in a $9.6 million potential expenditure for unemployment and a revenue loss of some $41 million as a result of the initiative's passage.

Nichols said the layoffs could be expected to last an average of 11 weeks, with an average expenditure to claimants of $82 a week.

But Chance, who has led the push in Idaho for placement of the initiative on the November ballot, is not intimidated.

"I don't see what's wrong with it," he said. "Those are hard-working, dedicated, intelligent people. They can get a job in private industry."

Chance also said he does not believe the projections and said they are a scare tactic used to frighten people into not supporting the proposal.

"This is natural for units of government to find all kinds of excuses not to give tax relief," he said. "This is why I say if we're successful in the ballot with the 1 percent, we expect all elected officials to abide by the mandate of the people. If they don't they won't be around. We're going to get rid of them."

"These figures are purely conjectural. We said all along the impact will not be as severe as they would like to have the people believe. We also know the impact is not even going to be as great as the $51 million that has been indicated because all counties will be brought up to full market value in one year."

Nichols said the layoffs will result in other areas of society being financially hurt because of reduced buying power, and added that to make matters worse, some 1,200 CETA employees would be out of work.

"We'd be suffering an unemployment situation and wouldn't be able to take advantage of federal money," he said.

Gun control bill defeated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A powerful lobbying effort by gun control opponents paid off.

The House has voted 314-80 to block new firearms regulations despite arguments that they were intended only to trace guns used by criminals.

After one of the most spirited debates of the year, the House Wednesday slipped down regulations proposed by the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, while reducing the bureau's budget $1.2 million, the estimated amount needed to administer the regulations.

The new rules were blocked in an $8.6 billion Treasury-Foreign Service appropriations bill, which passed by a 297-86 vote. It still faces Senate action, but the size of the vote indicates the House would stick to its position even if the Senate balked.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Robert McClary, R-Ill., to restore the $4.2 million to the bureau's budget.

The House Appropriations Committee cut the funds, saying the Treasury Department was attempting to make law on its own by shifting money in its budget without getting a direct appropriation for the regulations.

The Treasury proposal would enable the bureau to establish a computer system that could instantly trace a gun from an importer or wholesaler to the dealer who sold it.

Gun manufacturers would be required to stamp a different serial number on each gun and wholesalers and dealers would have to report commercial distribution. They would have to report any thefts to the ATF within 24 hours.

The vote was a major victory for the National Rifle Association which had mounted a massive nationwide campaign, including a torrent of letters, against the regulations.

The regulations "are the first step toward gun control," argued Rep. Steven Symms, R-Idaho.

But Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., said the proposal would merely computerize and update powers the Treasury Department now has. They would not require citizens to register firearms, and would merely make it easier to trace guns used in crimes, he said.

"Anyone except the street crime lobby ought to be for it (the regulations)," he said.

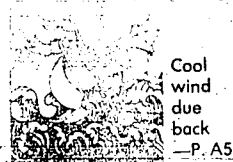

At times, Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., who was presiding, was forced to call for order because several members were shouting at the same time.

Labor-law filibuster continues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The sponsor of the embattled labor law revision bill is ready to deal, but a leader of the filibuster, now in its 12th day, is holding the cards and won't cut the deck.

After the first attempt to limit debate failed to win even a plurality Wednesday — it needed 50 votes and got only 42 — Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., said amendments are in the offing to win support for cloture and for final passage.

But Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker refused to agree to let the first amendment come to a vote.

Today, he threatened to use the 49-22 plurality, by which his side thwarted cloture, to send the bill back to a committee.

Asked if he had the votes to beat back a recommittal motion, which requires only a majority vote, Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd said, "I don't know. We'll just have to wait and see."

The second cloture attempt today will pick up five more votes, said Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., who will switch after he and fellow Kentuckian Sen. Walter Huddleston introduce amendments to soften the impact of several provisions.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., said after Wednesday's vote that he is willing to compromise on some of the bill's key provisions that opponents contend will "devastate" small business — items such as lengthening the time in which union representation elections must be held after workers request them, shortening the period a repeated violator would be barred from getting federal contracts, and easing requirements giving labor organizers access to company property during a unionizing campaign.

But Baker, in an encounter with Byrd on the floor Wednesday, refused to agree to the first amendment introduced so far come to a vote, apparently fearing that once amendments are passed, enough senators will be able to support cloture.

Until the Republicans agree on a vote, the filibuster will continue, although Williams predicts cloture will come on the third or fourth attempt next week.

The second vote was scheduled today but Byrd passed up a chance to vote Friday and may let the third attempt wait until next Tuesday to make sure enough senators are present.

The amendment pending before the Senate is one by Byrd that would freeze the number of small businesses under jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board at the current level of about 22 percent.

The majority leader asked Baker to agree to a vote on the amendment today, but Baker objected and sending the bill to the Finance Committee for "a week or two" for a study of its inflationary impact so that Byrd "might receive a more favorable response" from him.

"We have been debating it for two weeks and I don't see any reason to refer it," Byrd answered.

Baker then told him, "We have sort of a Chinese standoff, so I think we should just proceed further."

Both sides said the outcome of the first vote was pretty much as expected, with the filibusters getting between six or seven votes more than they expect on the final tally and supporters of the bill losing about seven votes to absenteeism. That would leave about 10 votes in the balance to win through the amending process.

The bill would speed up procedures of the National Labor Relations Board, penalize employers who "willfully violate" the law and require the NLRB to establish rules that could make it easier for unions to organize.

MRS. REMIGIA BROOKE LISTENS DURING HEARING... assessor's attorney, George McGrath, speaks

Brooke trying to end battle

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., hoping to end a "bitterly contested" divorce battle with his wife that has "decimated" his family, has asked a probate judge to divide the remainder of his late mother-in-law's estate.

After nearly four hours of testimony Wednesday in Middlesex County Probate Court, Brooke also asked Judge Lawrence T. Perera to order Massachusetts Welfare Commissioner Alexander E. Sharp to make public any information concerning Medicaid payments made to his wife's mother, Mrs. Teresa Ferrari-Scacco.

According to published reports, Mrs. Ferrari-Scacco received Medicaid payments after turning over the remainder of a $100,000 insurance settlement to her three children and entrusting Brooke with the funds. State law prohibits Medicaid recipients from transferring their assets to qualify for benefits.

Brooke also gave Middlesex Registrar of Probate Paul Cavanaugh a cashier's check for $30,192.80, the amount he said was left of the $62,641 his mother-in-law received in 1972 after legal fees were deducted from the insurance claim.

He asked Perera to determine if the money should go to his mother-in-law's three children — Remigia Brooke, Joseph Ferrari-Scacco, and Mina Jones — or to the state.

The Brooke divorce was to become final June 15, but Perera stayed the final decree after Brooke acknowledged making misstatements in a sworn statement of his financial liabilities.

In a sworn deposition to his wife's lawyer May 12, 1977, Brooke said a $49,000 liability on his financial statement was an unsecured personal loan from a friend, Boston liquor distributor A. Raymond Tye. But he later told the Boston Globe only $2,000 was a loan from Tye and the rest was part of Mrs. Ferrari-Scacco's estate.

Brooke testified he kept the loan's source secret due to a "deep and law-abiding desire to insulate family members from what had become ... a bitterly contested divorce."

"I consciously knew I was misstating the facts. But I also knew the obligation was $47,000. I've said publicly that I'm embarrassed by it — but it's the truth," he said.

Scare ploy draws fire

Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — Sen. Frank Church, who is scheduled to be the next chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has charged that President Carter is playing a political game in crying, "The Russians are coming!"

The Idaho Democrat says the administration has evoked fear of the Soviet Union in order to win votes for aircraft sales to Saudi Arabia, for lifting the U.S. arms embargo against Turkey, and for other White House projects.

"Africa is the classic example," Church said on the CBS radio interview program "Capitol Cloakroom."

"Even the present effort to establish a Cuban connection in the Zairean affair is an indication that 'the Russians are coming' theme is meant to be relied upon to justify further American involvement in black Africa. I do not regard these symptoms as hopeful."

When an interviewer pointed out that he was leveling a charge of playing politics, Church replied: "Well, it's a game that has been played a long, long time. We ought to recognize it in this city."

Church said Carter should reinstate his original priority of trying to obtain a nuclear arms agreement with the Soviet Union.

"Africa is not going to be taken over by Russia," Church said. "All past experience denies that the Africans are going to be the new colony of any white country."

"We must not permit ourselves to be drawn into the hopeless morasses of African problems simply by the charge that we have to do it because Russians are. For once, I would hope that we would show the wisdom of restraint. Let the Russians make their own mistakes, and the Cubans as well."

Finances scrutinized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The secret finances of Sens. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., and Edward Brooke, R-Mass., were first exposed by ugly divorce cases. The Senate Ethics Committee wants to take a look.

Talmadge, a millionaire, said he has routinely accepted small amounts of cash to pay for day-to-day expenses, taken free clothing and let others pay hotel bills.

The chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee has also been the beneficiary of proceeds from an annual birthday dinner and was reimbursed almost $27,000 by his campaign committee although he failed to report any campaign expenses for 1974.

Brooke, who is up for re-election, has admitted making a "mistatement" in a divorce proceedings deposition which said he owed an old friend and New England liquor distributor $49,000. The figure should have been $2,000.

Questions have also been raised about his handling of a $47,000 "family fund" which constituted the proceeds of an insurance settlement after his late mother-in-law was paralyzed in an accident.

The Senate Ethics Committee, under the chairmanship of Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., was meeting this afternoon behind closed doors to examine the Talmadge and Brooke cases. The meeting is considered preliminary and does not constitute the start of a formal investigation.

Talmadge and Brooke both have written Stevenson and, in effect, offered their fullest cooperation.

The Georgia Democrat said he wanted a quick judgment on his practice of taking $5, $10 and $20 cash gifts — a habit he has followed during his 31 years of public service.

Zaire gains new support against foe

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — China and Egypt, both critical of Soviet influence in Africa, are the latest nations to pledge support to rebel-threatened Zaire.

Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua, winding up a four-day visit to Kinshasa, said Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko was leading "a just struggle to safeguard national independence against a new aggression being perpetrated by Soviet socialist imperialism."

Huang, who flew to Brussels late Wednesday, said Zaire "in a just struggle can count on the support of the Chinese people."

The official Zairean news agency AZAP said Egypt was sending Soviet-made heavy artillery to help President Mobutu Sese Seko fight Soviet-armed rebels that invaded mineral-rich Shaba province last month.

Egypt received the heavy 122mm artillery pieces from the Soviet Union before it scrapped its defense agreement with Moscow. Advisers accompanied the guns to instruct Zaireans in their use.

U.S. Marines were reportedly ferried in a Moroccan expeditionary force and troops from other African nations were on the way to give a multinational flavor to the Zaire peace-keeping effort.

Ban on PCB use proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency is proposing a ban on the manufacture of PCBs—industrial chemicals linked to cancer and other diseases.

The manufacture of polychlorinated biphenyls ceased voluntarily in the United States last year. The EPA's proposed ban, published Wednesday, is expected to eliminate the use of the chemicals during the next few years.

An estimated 1.25 billion pounds of PCBs have been used by U.S. industries since 1929, with about 440 million pounds finding their way into the environment.

"Evidence from study of PCBs and accidental poisonings indicate that neurotoxic, carcinogenic and adverse skin and liver effects may occur in humans," EPA Administrator Douglas Costle said. "PCBs have also been associated with birth defects, cancer and immunological effects in laboratory animals and genetic effects in microorganisms."

PCBs are used primarily as insulating fluids in heavy-duty electrical equipment, such as transformers, in power plants and other industrial facilities. Some consumer products such as air conditioners and microwave ovens also have been found to contain electric parts with PCBs.

When the final rule is published, probably later this year, the use, manufacture, processing and commercial distribution of PCBs would be banned, except in products where the PCB fluid is totally enclosed. After Jan. 1, 1978, all manufacturing, including closed systems, would be banned, with a ban on distribution starting July 1, 1978. The agency said use of totally enclosed systems already in use could not be replaced or serviced after July 1, 1978, without EPA authorization.

Ohio, high plains bear brunt of spring storms

By United Press International: Thunderstorms and showers lashed through much of the nation today causing extensive property damage while heavy rains created flooding problems in Western Pennsylvania, East Central Ohio and the Texas Panhandle.

Falls, ripping off part of the roof of City Hall, toppling trees and knocking out power to most of the city. No one was reported injured. "We were sitting here just talking away when it went dark, the windows rattled and everything was chaos," said Barbara Sowell, a Cuyahoga Falls police dispatcher. "There are trees down on houses, live wires, buildings damaged."

Another tornado touched down about an hour later in Trumbull County, Ohio. Officials said the storm caused at least $100,000 damage in the county. A warehouse near Mineral Ridge was destroyed by the twister, power lines were down, large trees uprooted and several homes were damaged.

Control difficult in PCP campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three young former users of Phencyclidine—better known as PCP or angel dust — say the drug is so widely available that if Congress hopes to reduce its use it will have to outlaw the chemicals that go into it.

Witnesses cite its easy availability, fast and extreme "high" and the ability to manufacture the drug easily and relatively inexpensively with legal chemicals as major contributors.

Some smaller creeks and streams in Pennsylvania already have been reported near bankful with minor lowland flooding. Street and urban drainage flooding also was reported.

In Illinois, lightning struck a statue Wednesday night atop a 90-foot dome of Notre Dame Church in Chicago, setting off a fire that caused extensive damage to the building. The blaze destroyed the gold-plated statue of the Virgin Mary and damaged the dome, officials said.

Funnel cloud sightings were reported to police in many Chicago suburbs along with reports of minor wind damage.

Three young panelists, all former PCP users who are now kicking the habit, said they doubted that drug education programs in schools pointing out the dangers of PCP would help reduce its use.

Norman, Donald and John, who did not use their last names during their testimony, said a person using PCP feels no pain and is unable to separate reality from fantasy.

They said the painless fantasy brought on by PCP often makes a person do "bizarre things," such as leaping through windows or doors and sustaining severe injuries without realizing they have been hurt.

"It's so widespread now that stopping the manufacture of chemicals that go into the drug is the only way I feel to stop it," said Norman.

His companion Donald, 21, said federally subsidized television spots, with former PCP users talking to potential users about the dangers of the drug, might also help. A little straight talk from a peer would be "more effective than literature distributed through schools," he said.

John said LSD "is the type of drug where you more or less can make a distinction between what's real and what's unreal ... but PCP, if you use enough, you totally lose touch with what's real."

Norman said he sometimes lost his vision while taking PCP. "My eyes would go completely black and I would fall over. My mind would still work ... but I thought I was dead," Norman said.

"If you're using drugs as an escape from your personal problems and other things like most people do ... PCP would be the fastest means as far as how far away from reality it will take you and how quickly," Donald said.

The three panelists said they were lucky. Despite heavy use of the drug, they are overcoming side effects such as blurred vision, slurred and incoherent speech, inability to concentrate on even simple things and extreme confusion.

Some of his friends are "so burned out, I'd really have to question that no matter how long they stayed off, they'll ever come back to the way they were," Donald said.

"If I knew then what I knew now, I wouldn't even touch it," said Norman.

Growth described

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — American newspapers reached 120 million readers daily last year and experienced growth in advertising revenue, circulation, employment and newsprint consumption, the American Newspaper Publishers Association said.

The ANPA Wednesday released its annual report, "Facts About Newspapers 1978," at the ANPA Research Institute Production Management Conference.

The report, compiled from trade and government sources, said advertising revenue increased 11 percent from 1976 to 1977, reaching a record $1.1 billion — the highest of all major media.

Daily newspapers had more than 23 percent of ad revenue, more than radio and television combined, the report said.

The number of daily newspapers in 1977 increased by two to 1,764, the association study said, while 15 more Sunday newspapers raised that total to a record 665.

Weekly newspapers decreased in number, from 7,530 to 7,466, but their circulation increased to 37,892,883, up nearly 600,000 from 1976.

Ethiopians given food

ROME (UPI) — The U.N. World Food Program announced today it is sending $2 million in food aid to Ethiopia to help feed drought victims and war refugees.

The organization said 10,000 tons of wheat being sent to Ethiopia was an interim measure until an aid mission can visit the war-torn country to assess the needs.

A spokesman for the organization said the interim food aid could feed 250,000 people for 10 days.

Rock n' roll spirit prevails

United Press International

The stars of "Grease" and the audience at the Hollywood premiere really got into the '50s rock n' roll spirit of the film. John Travolta, his hair pombed to a patent-leather shine and wearing a T-shirt and black leather jacket, rolled up to the theater with co-star Olivia Newton-John in a '57 Thunderbird. Among those on hand for the post-premiere party at Paramount studios, on sound stages turned into a replica of a high school gym decorated for a prom in the '50s, were Lily Tomlin, Alice Cooper, Penny Marshall, Cindy Williams (in a T-shirt from her own just-re-released '50s nostalgia film, "American Graffiti"), Chevy Chase, Andy Gibb and Jodie Foster.

THE BLONDE BOMBHELL'S BACK

Some of the people at the Jal Alai front in Newport, R.I., find it hard to believe the woman-greeting-them-at-the-door is really former movie idol and band singer Betty Hutton. The "blonde bombshell" of the 1940s and '50s convinces the skeptics by telling out "There's no business like show business," but the turtleneck changes to "There's no business like Jal Alai business" by the time she marches them in the door. Miss Hutton, 57, earned and spent $9 million in a topsy-turvy career. Her latest job, doing public relations work as the fronton's official greeter followed a string of unhappy marriages, a flight from Hollywood to New England "to find myself," and her conversion to Roman Catholicism.

GLIMPSES

Producer Howard W. Koch has been re-elected president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, the people who give out the Oscars each year. Actor Hal Linden will present awards by the National Conference of Christians and Jews to three businessmen at a dinner in Los Angeles tonight. Former screen queen Rita Hayworth and her daughter Yaamin Kahn visited Eartha Kitt backstage after Wednesday night's performance of "Timbuktu" in New York City. Barbara Walters and Carol Channing were among the celebrities at a benefit world premiere of the new movie "The Cheap Detective." The Metropolitan District Commission hopes to collect 500,000 signatures to honor Boston Pops conductor Arthur Fiedler on his 50th July 4 concert.

RODNEY RELATES

Rodney Dangerfield says there's a simple explanation for his success as a comedian. Everyone can relate to his plaintive trademark: "I don't get no respect." Dangerfield explained Wednesday at Harvard University's annual class day ceremony at Cambridge, Mass. "You know, you get up in the morning and eight things go wrong right off the bat. Then some guy cuts you off in traffic. Your boss yells at you. Your girl stands you up. No respect."

Seniors can play

CHICAGO (UPI) — Grace and federally subsidized meals don't mix, a group of senior citizens was told. But after fear, tears and complaints—the order was reversed.

About 75 elderly senior citizens at the Queen of Angels Catholic Church, were told Tuesday that they could not pray before eating a meal funded under a federal grant.

One elderly woman promptly burst into tears and locked herself in a storeroom.

However, Paul Hemphill, director of the nutrition program for the Mayor's Office for Senior-Citizen's, said a new supervisor had misunderstood.

"Any of the program participants can pray any time they want to," Hemphill said.

"Some of the seniors had become frightened at the prohibition and said they were afraid that if they prayed, they might not be allowed to participate in the program."

Hughes 'will' case goes to jury

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Eight jurors who endured seven dizzying months of trial were trying to decide today whether the "Mormon will" is the authentic last testament of Howard Hughes or an ambitious hoax.

The fate of Hughes' multimillion-dollar fortune may ride on the verdict.

Ten days of final arguments wound up Wednesday and the judge turned the case over to the jury at 5 p.m.

The jurors deliberated for three hours before they returned for the night to the hotel where they have been sequestered since the trial began Nov. 7, 1977.

In order to reach a verdict, six of the eight jurors, five men and three women, must agree either that Hughes wrote the "will" or that it is a forgery.

The disputed document, found on a desk at Mormon Church headquarters in Salt Lake City a few weeks after Hughes died, was scrawled with a cheap ballpoint pen on three pages of common yellow legal tablet.

The jurors can examine more than 700 exhibits and 800 copies of Hughes' handwriting, and review the testimony of 89 witnesses — including 11 handwriting analysts who contradicted each other. Although that could take weeks, attorneys for both sides — all confident of victory — predicted a quick verdict.

Regardless of their verdict, the Hughes estate will remain in the courts for years, although a decision that the will is genuine could help determine the final outcome. The estate is entangled in legal proceedings in California, Delaware, Louisiana, Texas, Nevada and before the U.S. Supreme Court.

If the "will" is ruled a fake, and no other contender appears, more than 70 percent of Hughes' financial empire — estimated at from $189 million to $2.5 billion — will be taken up by federal and state taxes.

Challenge 'strange' to Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union has branded as "strange" President Carter's challenge to Moscow to choose between confrontation and cooperation.

"This statement sounds strange, to say the least," the official Tass news agency said in the first Soviet reaction to Carter's major policy speech at the U.S. Naval Academy's graduation exercises Wednesday.

"Indeed, President Carter knows well that it was the Soviet Union that chose long ago and irrevocably the road of peaceful coexistence, the road of deepening the relaxation of tension and that it has been upholding these aims consistently and unflinchingly," Tass said.

But, it said, "evidently in the ruling circles of Washington the choice has still not been made."

Carter told graduation ceremonies at the U.S. Naval Academy, "The Soviet Union can choose either confrontation or cooperation. The United States is adequately prepared to meet either choice."

The tone of the Tass dispatch from Washington was defensive. In Washington, Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser, discounted the reaction as a "quick" one and said it would take several days for the Soviets to digest what he called the "balanced" speech.

Tass said Carter had "laid a special accent on rivalry" between the two superpowers and had devoted much of his speech to "propaganda inventions" about a Soviet military buildup and a Soviet intention to export its kind of government.

This, the Soviet news agency said, was charged "in order to justify the U.S.A.'s and NATO's claims to the role of a global policeman."

Tass said Carter was "putting the blame at the wrong door" when he charged that the Soviet and Cuban role in Africa would harm the cause of independence and the elimination of racial injustices.

In Africa, Tass said, "the United States is known to take invariably the side of the racist regimes."

The Soviet news agency attacked the United States for supporting and arming what it called "disruptive groupings" in Angola and said the administration was seeking to lift "the last restraints on CIA subversive operations in Angola and other African countries."

Tass also took Carter to task for failing to mention proposals by the Soviet Union before the current special U.N. General Assembly session on disarmament.

Belgium cracks down on exiles

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — Belgium is clamping down on statements by Zairean exiles in what sources say is an attempt to muzzle the opposition to President Mobutu Sese Seko.

The Belgian government put one exile leader on the train to Paris with a one-way ticket.

Police detained a former Zairean ambassador who resigned his post in Iran to found a movement of national reconciliation. According to opposition circles, Belgium, which ruled Zaire when it was known as the Congo, has turned down short-wave broadcasts to Africa and even censored domestic television newscasts.

Premier Leo Tindemans has asked the Justice Ministry to draw up a code of behavior for political exiles in Belgium. Political sources said its effect will be to muzzle the Zairean opposition.

The Belgian government has decided to continue giving support to Mobutu, in part because he has suppressed all opposition and there is thus no effective alternative to him; political sources said.

The sources added that Belgium's role next week as host for an international conference to discuss a massive program of economic aid for Zaire might be behind the suppression of dissent.

The Zaire Committee, which speaks for the opposition to Mobutu, has accused Tindemans of bowing to pressure from the Zairean leader.

India leader raps USSR interference

LONDON (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Morarji Desai criticized Soviet military intervention in Africa today but said it would be interference in the affairs of other countries to comment on the treatment of dissidents in Communist eastern Europe.

"I do not like any intervention by other countries in any country," Desai, 82, said in reply to a question about Soviet involvement in Africa.

"That is the root cause of many troubles," he said of the Kremlin's involvement. "But they will not disappear quickly. It will require a little time."

Desai met reporters for a half-hour before flying to New York to address the U.N. Special Assembly on disarmament. He will also hold talks on East-West problems with President Carter in Washington.

Asked whether he was willing to proclaim "moral support" for dissidents in Eastern Europe, Desai replied:

"It is our principle not to interfere in the internal affairs of any country. That principle we have been observing as a government."

He said "people to people it is possible to express sympathy, but as long as I am prime minister I cannot do so."

Lebanon holds off on troop dispatch

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The government has decided to delay sending army units to the south, the Independent An Nahar newspaper said today.

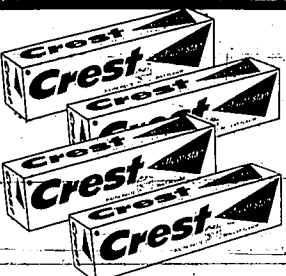

An Nahar said President Elias Sarkis, Prime Minister Selim al Hoss and Foreign Minister Fuad Boutros decided on putting off the dispatch of the troops at a meeting Monday.

The three officials stressed their intention to send the army south to reestablish government authority but "expressed their wish to take a little more time in settling the date for the move," the newspaper said.

The leftist daily As Safir said the government's next steps will depend on whether the Israelis pull out of south Lebanon completely as scheduled next Tuesday.

The Lebanese cabinet Monday noted that the United States and the United Nations had assured Lebanon that Israel will withdraw, As Safir said.

Some 5,000 U.N. troops patrol areas south of the Litani River.

Airlift into Zaire almost like Vietnam all over again

LUBUMBASHI, Zaire (UPI)—Suddenly, for a few days at least, it was like Vietnam all over again.

Great American transport aircraft lumbered into Kinshasa and Lubumbashi.

American ground crews clogged the airport aprons with their forklifts, trucks, buses and cars.

Specialist communications teams established highly sophisticated mobile operations centers in the tall elephant grass and talked directly by satellite to Washington, Europe and a score of points in between.

American wags and humor echoed around the Zaire airports.

The Americans were in fact playing only a peripheral role in military operations here—transporting French legionnaires back to their headquarters in Corsica and bringing Moroccan troops to replace them.

But the Americans were so highly visible for a time that it appeared they, not the Zaireans or Moroccans, were running the show.

Eleven C-119 silver-white transports, a couple of hundred servicemen and at least one servicewoman took part in the airlift, which was expected to end in the next few days.

The Americans took great pains to avoid any entanglement in possible hostilities.

Their aircraft landed only at Kinshasa and the relatively safe airport at the Shaba province capital here. They avoided the airport 200 miles to the northwest where French legionnaires and Zaire troops reported continuing contact with insurgent forces.

"Can you imagine the stink back in Washington if one of these birds were brought down or even hit," a nervous U.S. embassy man said.

The Kinshasa embassy, which is deeply split within its own ranks about whether the Carter Administration should continue its support for the corrupt Mobutu regime, has been living anxiously through the latest crisis in Zaire.

Officials as much as possible tried to avoid reporters, but an occasion led confronting lines on what U.S. policy ought to be here.

Incoming aircrews were disgruntled, too. "We were in the air for 30 hours reaching here," a flight engineer said.

"We were met at the airport by an embassy man, driven miles from anywhere, out of town and given beds with only one sheet among the whole crew. We're not used to this kind of treatment in the Air Force."

The communications equipment used by the Americans was among the most sophisticated and highly secret in the world. There also was so much of it, that it led one Air Force specialist to comment:

"No one knows what the other team is doing. We've got enough equipment here to run several wars. It's costing the American taxpayers millions. What a waste."

The operation might be costing millions, but the individual servicemen were finding it hard to compete with Zaire's astounding prices.

The communications experts arriving in Lubumbashi had their own tents and combat rations but also were given $32 a day for hotel accommodation and local food, if necessary.

Revised law would bring end to FCC

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House communications subcommittee Wednesday released its long-awaited rewrite of the 1934 Communications Act—the basic charter governing broadcasting—and called for less regulation of the industry.

It proposed replacing the Federal Communications Commission and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and giving radio and television stations permanent licenses.

The 217-page bill, 20 months in the drafting, also would replace the "fairness doctrine"—requiring opposing viewpoints be heard—with a weaker "equity principle" that says television stations need only treat important issues "in an equitable manner."

The bill would also repeal the "equal time" provision for candidates for president, vice president, Senate and statewide offices and lifts restrictions on editorializing and endorsement of political candidates.

The seven-member FCC would be replaced with a five-member Communications Regulatory Commission, with each member limited to a single 10-year term.

The proposed bill says regulation is necessary only "to the extent marketplace forces are deficient." Current law said broadcasting was to be regulated "in the public interest, convenience and necessity."

At the same time, the bill would remove many technical restrictions so that new communications technology could be developed in a competitive atmosphere.

Under the new bill, radio stations would get licenses for indefinite terms, instead of the current three-year renewable licenses. Television licenses would be extended to five years immediately but would become permanent 10 years after enactment. Licenses could be revoked only for technical violations.

When more than one company applies for a newly available radio frequency, the license will be awarded on a "random selection" basis to be established by the FCC's successor agency.

The bill explicitly prohibits the new agency from censoring or regulating the content of any program.

Sponsor Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., said it will take all next year to win House passage in hopes of 1980 enactment.

The bill also would ban federal regulation of cable television and restrict ownership of stations to five radio and five television outlets, with no more than three television stations in the top 50 markets. Currently corporations may own up to seven television, seven AM radio and seven FM radio stations.

Rail lines gain coal rate boost

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interstate Commerce Commission Wednesday rejected a request by the nation's railroads to increase freight rates for coal by 7 percent, thereby saving the nation's utility companies an estimated $45 million.

Instead, the ICC agreed to raise the coal freight rates by 4 percent, the same percentage increase it granted railroads for shipping other commodities transported in the East and West.

Rates for other commodities transported in the South will increase 6 percent under the order.

The rate increases, which had been scheduled for Thursday, will go into effect June 17. The delay was granted to give the railroads enough time to make administrative changes.

The proposed 7 percent increase in coal-hauling rates was opposed by a coalition of utility companies, who warned that the request was inflated—Jan. Rosenick, deputy director of the ICC office of proceedings, said the reduction to 4 percent would save the utilities across the nation an estimated $45 million.

Rail lines gain coal rate boost

Gem payroll second

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Union Pacific Railroad has announced that wages paid to employees in Idaho during 1977 totaled $61.6 million, second only to Nebraska—where the firm is based—of the 13 western Union Pacific states.

Nebraska wages totaled $144.6 million.

The average number of employees in Idaho totaled 4,470 during the year, second behind Nebraska's 8,208; while taxes paid by the company totaled $6 million compared with Nebraska's $8.6 million.

During the 12-month period, the firm made purchases in Idaho totaling $1.3 million ranking it 10th among the western states—Colorado led purchases with $73.7 million.

Today is Thursday, June 8, the 159th day of 1978 with 206 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning star is Mercury.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Gemini.

American architect Frank Lloyd Wright was born June 8, 1869.

On this day in history:

In 1089, Ives McGaffney of Chicago obtained a patent for a "sneezing machine"—the first vacuum cleaner.

In 1928, a Schenectady, N.Y., station (WGY) began a regular schedule of televised programs three times a week.

In 1965, American astronaut Ed White and Jim McDivitt completed their orbital journey, having traveled 1,609,000 miles in 62 orbits of the earth.

In 1977, Rosalynn Carter, the president's wife, met with American missionaries in Recife, Brazil, who told of being "treated like animals" in Brazilian fairs.

A thought for the day: American writer Henry Thoreau said, "Nothing is so much to be feared as fear."

More votes on tax limits may come in other states

By United Press International
California's vote on Proposition 13 is just one of several moves across the country to limit local taxation, and may be followed by similar votes in other states.
A UPI survey shows that lawmakers or organized groups in at least 15 states from Massachusetts to Arizona have taken steps to limit government spending or taxation authority. The proposals have not always been successful.
Most have been directed at reducing or limiting the growth of property taxes. Here is a list of states in which actions have been taken or in which moves are pending:
—Nebraska: An effort is aimed at limiting budget increases of local governments, including cities, counties and school districts. Petitions are being circulated to put a proposed constitutional amendment on the November ballot which would prohibit a local government from increasing its budget by more than 5 percent a year, unless a higher budget is approved by local referendum.
—Michigan: A petition drive is underway to put a constitutional amendment on the November ballot to limit the growth of state spending to the growth in total state personal income. A similar proposal on the 1974 ballot failed.

—Illinois: Legislation is pending in the Illinois House to limit state spending to $3.5 billion without voter approval. A proposal to limit state taxes to 7 percent of the personal income in Illinois was defeated in the state senate.
—Wisconsin: Annual local property tax increases are limited by state law. Local school district spending also is limited by law.
—Indiana: State imposed a property tax freeze on local governments and school districts in 1973. An effort to impose a 30 percent reduction on new property tax assessments lost in a court case.
—Iowa: Legislation adopted in 1976 limits to 6 percent annually the growth of budgets in certain property tax areas.
—New Mexico: Lawmakers in 1977 imposed a ceiling of 10 percent on the annual increase of residential property taxes.
—Colorado: Legislature in 1977 passed a bill to limit state general fund spending to increases of no more than 7 percent a year. A petition drive is underway to impose the limit through an amendment to the state constitution.
—Arizona: Legislation is pending to limit state spending to 7 percent of the state's total personal income. Petition drive underway for a constitutional amendment on the November ballot to limit state spending to 7 percent of the total personal income.

—Utah: A legislative committee is studying a proposal to limit state and local tax growth.
—Idaho: Petition drive is underway to place on the November ballot a proposal to limit property taxes to 1 percent of the market value.
—Washington: State Constitution limits property taxes to 1 percent of the market value. Petition drives underway to place on the November ballot proposals to limit school property tax increases and to limit state personal tax growth.
—Alabama: Legislature rejected in 1977 and 1978 proposals to impose a 20 percent ceiling on property tax increases in each county.
—Massachusetts: An amendment to state Constitution has been proposed to limit amount of revenue that the state can raise and the amount it can spend based upon a formula tied to growth in average personal income.
—Minnesota: State legislature in 1971 enacted a 6 percent limit on local property tax increases.

Wallace thinks of Senate

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace is seriously considering running for the late Sen. James B. Allen's unexpired Senate term, a press aide said Wednesday.
"The governor has renewed some interest in that two-year term," said Billy Joe Camp, Wallace's press secretary. The governor has received a heavy outpouring of letters and phone calls asking him to run.
Wallace announced May 16 that he was pulling out of the Senate race to succeed retiring Sen. John J. Sparkman, saying he did not want to move to Washington, D.C. But Camp said Wallace began reassessing his political future after Allen died last Thursday. Allen's term expires in January 1981.
"He first felt he had made a good decision," said Camp. "But it's coming home to him more and more that after an unexpired Alabama won't have an experienced man in Washington."
"It's true the governor won't have the seniority, but he is known and he would have a good record," Camp added.
Camp said Wallace will probably call a special election this week to fill Allen's unexpired term. Wallace will also be required to appoint a successor to Allen until the special election, which will probably coincide with the regular elections in the fall.

GOV. GEORGE WALLACE ... interest revives

There has been speculation that Mrs. Allen would receive the appointment, but Camp said it "remains an open question," adding, "I don't know if she wants it."
Legal experts disagree over whether Wallace can appoint himself to the post or whether he would have to resign and ask Lt. Gov. Jerry Beasley, a political foe, to appoint him.
Camp said Wallace began Monday night — on the eve of Allen's funeral — to seriously think about whether he should change his mind and try to serve out Allen's term.
"A lot of people who were against him before are for him now," said Camp. "A lot of community and business leader types have come to him and said 'governor, we need you now. Things have changed.'"
Camp said Wallace was also attracted to the seat because it would not commit him to a full six-year term.
"This was one of the things that he had real doubts about before," said Camp.

Lewisohn surveys reading program

Lewiston, Idaho (UPI) — A survey of kindergarten and first grade pupils in Lewiston public schools indicates reading to small children may be a key to classroom success.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Roy Tomby said results of the survey show that Idaho's Right-to-Read program "is definitely on the right track."

The program urges parents to read to their children 15 minutes a day and encourages other aspects of reading.

Either Thorpe, director of Lewiston's Right-to-Read program, said students picked were among the top 30 percent of kindergarten and first grade pupils of a school population of about 860 children.

Most of the parents encouraged rather than forced their children to read, "Ms. Thorpe said. "Most reading-related activities were on an informal basis. Some parents mentioned limiting television watching (in favor of providing) a special time for reading."

She said the survey "seems very supportive of the importance of reading to small children, providing them with reading materials, creating a reading atmosphere in the home, and valuing reading as an important activity for all family members."

Martha L. Heinrich

TWIN FALLS — Martha L. Heinrich, 76, Twin Falls, died Wednesday at a Twin Falls nursing home after a long illness.

Born July 1, 1901, at Campbell, Neb., she married William Heinrich April 29, 1918, in Red Cloud, Neb. Mr. and Mrs. Heinrich came to Twin Falls from Campbell in 1942. Mr. Heinrich died in 1974.

Mrs. Heinrich was a member of the Congregational Church.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Ruby Wilkerson, Boise, and Mrs. Delores Ripper and Mrs. Naomi Warren of Twin Falls, two sons, Alfred Heinrich, Twin Falls, and Donald Heinrich, Campbell; a brother, Charles Johnson, Franklin, Neb.; and two sisters, Mrs. Johanna Kyckelhaha, Whittier, Calif., and Mrs. Emma Anderson of Wendell. There are 18 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

One son and one grandson also preceded her in death.

Services for Mrs. Heinrich will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at Reynolds Funeral Chapel with Rev. Robert Van-Nest of the First-United-Methodist Church officiating. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the chapel Friday and until time of services Saturday.

Tressa McGillin Roper

BURLEY — Tressa McGillin Roper, 86, Burley, died Wednesday morning in Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Born June 12, 1891, in Stillwater, Minn., she finished teacher's college at St. Cloud, Minn., and attended the University of Chicago. After teaching four years in Minnesota, she came to Burley in 1913 and was principal of the Miller School for three years.

She married William Roper in 1917. Mr. Roper died June 6, 1971.

Mrs. Roper was active in community affairs, serving several terms on the library board in Burley, one term as chairman. She was the last surviving charter member of the Chapter 1 PEO Sisterhood in Burley. She belonged to the First Presbyterian Church.

Survivors are two sons, John W. Roper, Twin Falls, and James H. Roper, Burley; four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mrs. Roper will be conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church by Rev. Robert L. Bigler. Burial will be in the Pleasant View Cemetery.

Friends may call at Payne Chapel Friday afternoon and evening and at the church one hour prior to the funeral.

The family suggests memorials be made to the Cassia Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Raymond A. Lind

DECLO — Raymond August Lind, 89, Declo, died Wednesday at his home after a lingering illness.

Born Sept. 22, 1888, in Lynn, Utah, he married Verna Hansen June 8, 1922, in Logan, Utah. Mr. Lind died Feb. 7, 1929.

He married Mildred Barlow Sept. 28, 1932, in Silt, Lake City. Mr. and Mrs. Lind moved to Declo in 1967 from Utah.

Mr. Lind was an active member of the Latter Day-Saltns Church, served in various community activities and was a retired rancher.

Survivors include his wife and one son, Elden Lind, both Declo; four daughters, Mrs. Amy Babbitt, Oakley; Mrs. Lucille Fitch, Paul; Mrs. Anita Anderson, Hazelton, and Mrs. Nila Partington, Logan; one brother, Vance Lind, Logan; two sisters, Mrs. Mollie Baker, Kimberly, and Mrs. Edith Milze Eby, Lomita, Calif.; 22 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mr. Lind will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Declo Ward LDS Chapel by Bishop Grant Peterson. Burial will be in the Pleasant View Cemetery.

Friends may call at McCulloch's Friday from noon to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday morning and at the church one hour prior to the funeral.

J. R. Bachman II

TWIN FALLS — Joseph Rex Bachman II, 41, Toronto, Canada, former Twin Falls resident, died Tuesday of a heart attack in Toronto.

Born Sept. 11, 1936, in Twin Falls, he was a member of the Latter Day Saltns Church. He was a business consultant in Toronto.

Survivors are his wife, Marilyn; a son, Rex Bachman III, and a daughter, Renee Bachman, all Toronto; his mother, Anita Bachman, San Diego, Calif., and a brother, Dan Bachman, Urbana, Ill.

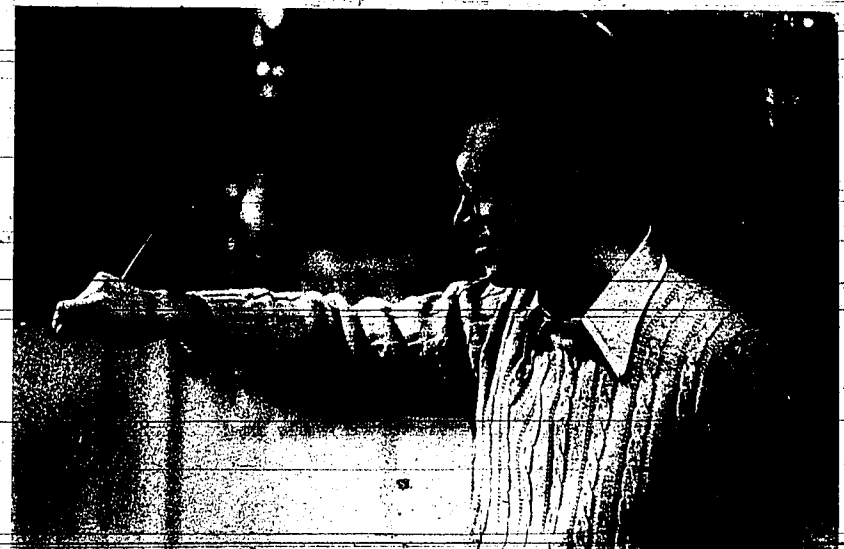

Funeral services for Mr. Bachman will be at 11 a.m. Saturday in White Mortuary Chapel. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the mortuary Friday and until 10:30 Saturday.

Catherine McDonald

TWIN FALLS — Catherine McDonald, former Twin Falls resident, died Tuesday evening in Sacramento, Calif.

Services are pending in California.

The band strikes up tonight

TWIN FALLS — The final rehearsal is done, and soon the park will be filled with the sound of music.

Tonight the Twin Falls City Band, under the direction of Ted Hadley, will open their summer season with a concert in City Park. The concert is slated to start at 8:15 p.m. This opening concert is one of 10 to be held throughout the summer.

Under the concert shell, members ranging in age from 17 to 65, will perform such tunes as John Phillip Sousa's "Washington Post March" and the Star Wars theme.

The 40-member band, the largest in its history, is starting its 69th year. The history of the city band dates as far back to 1910.

Meeting once a week and practicing for more than two hours at a time, members of the band have been preparing for this opening concert for a month, and some feel confident about it.

One musician in the percussion section says, "There is a feeling of excitement that I get before going on stage to perform." She adds, "I feel that most of us are excited about this concert."

Conductor Hadley feels confident about tonight. "This concert is going to be an opportunity for people of the city of Twin Falls to get out of their hot houses, and enjoy a concert in the park."

"We expect to make beautiful and very exciting music tonight."

Forest signs erected

TWIN FALLS — Motorists traveling into the Sawtooth National Forest are urged to become familiar with closure signs and to watch for these before entering areas where they may run into difficulty. Signs identifying motorized travel restrictions and closures are now being posted in many areas of the forest. Many are being erected as snow melts and trails open for travel to let forest users know they may now safely enter an area which has been closed by snow and mud.

Other signs designating closure areas will be erected at the start of trails and roads showing no motorized travel permitted. Most of these signs show the motorcycle or jeep with a slash through it, designating such travel is restricted. These signs usually carry a written message with them to inform the traveler more specifically as to the sign's meaning.

THESE RESTRICTION SIGNS ARE PLACED in Sawtooth National Forest locations

One percent initiative

Otter lauds California vote

TWIN FALLS — C.L. "Butch" Otter, campaigning for governor in Twin Falls this week, said California's vote to cut property taxes is the beginning of a nationwide revolt.

"It's like a modern-day Boston Tea Party," said the Caldwell Republican. "It's a hot day for the nation."

According to Otter, he is the only active Republican gubernatorial candidate who has signed the 1 percent property tax initiative in Idaho.

"Some candidates have been giving lip service to the initiative, but I think Idahoans are fed up with candidates that say 'I agree' and then turn around and do something else," he said.

Calling himself a constitutional conservative, Otter said his campaign has been gaining strength in recent weeks. "I feel a candidate is going to need about 30 percent of the vote — we're well on our way to that," Otter said.

The candidate announced his intentions to run back on June 2, 1977, the first candidate to announce. This, he believes, has given him an advantage because "people know where I stand on the issues."

One of these key issues, he said, is that he is the only "true conservative" on the ballot.

"I carry the freedom message people have been waiting to hear about," Otter said.

"The energy shortage which exists in the country today is a result of government interference, Otter said.

"If we would turn our creative geniuses loose in the state, we could have plenty of energy resources," he said. "The last thing in the world I want to do is create more political solutions. All of the agencies across the state haven't created one more gallon of gas or kilowatt of electricity."

Otter said the state's adoption of a water plan was done simply to please the federal government.

"What we should have done was told them it wasn't any of their business," he said.

Otter, at 36 the youngest candidate in the race for governor, is an administrative vice president for the J.R. Simplot Co. He was a state representative from 1972 to 1976.

Otter was in the Twin Falls area to attend a meeting of off-road vehicle enthusiasts. He also campaigned in Paul, Rupert and Hazelton.

Changes coming to Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The shah named a military spy expert Wednesday to succeed the ousted chief of the dread SAVAK secret police, and told Iranian recent urban violence was the price they had to pay for greater freedom.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi named Gen. Nasser Moghadam, 58, a member of the military counter-intelligence division, to succeed Gen. Nematollah Nassiri, 71, who was dismissed Tuesday as head of the powerful state security and intelligence organization.

Political sources interpreted Moghadam's appointment as a key phase in the shah's liberalization program, now gaining momentum in the wake of a bold underground opposition movement and urban disturbances.

The shah also met Wednesday with a group of intellectuals he is grooming for a new political movement and told them to prepare for their role as the "thinkers wing" of the Rastakhiz, Iran's single political party.

For the first time the shah noted urban unrest was a reason for his liberalization program.

"Of course, some say they (demonstrators) have caused an uproar, work stoppages, attacks on banks, broken glass and have caused all those things you have witnessed recently," he said.

"But I say that's the price we must pay to reach our goal, our goal of maximum freedom within the laws of the land."

His statement caused surprise in some quarters.

"That means it's really coming, and fast," said one source about the liberalization program.

A top-ranking opposition politician, who asked not to be named, said, "Within six months perhaps, you may have a multi-party system back in Iran."

Official sources would not comment on the subject. Neither did they comment on reports of a reshuffle in the cabinet of Prime Minister Jamsid Amouzegar, reported imminent this week.

Political sources said the parties which merged into the Rastakhiz after they were banned in 1975 could soon be revived, "along with parties formed by the present, loosely organized opposition."

Houshang Nahavandi, an academician and chief adviser to Empress Farah who led the group that met with the shah Wednesday, is expected to head the new wing of the Rastakhiz, to be developed later into a full-fledged party.

Opposition sources said the "Union of National Front Forces of Iran," the loosely coordinated group of clergymen, lawyers and intellectuals responsible for most strike calls and street demonstrations, was considering a more formal organization.

France fights eating habits

PARIS (UPI) — France, famed for its gastronomic delights, is preparing to wage war against some of the eating habits of its people.

The health ministry is coming out with a card game to help homemakers serve balanced meals.

The game will go on sale at all news stands July 1 for $2. It is composed of 120 cards, divided into seven, color-coded families of foods: red for meats and other proteins, blue for milk products, light green for raw fruit and vegetables, dark green for cooked fruits and vegetables, yellow for fats, brown for rice and other starches and white for water and bread.

The idea is for the players — whose number can range from two to six — to combine the cards of different families to achieve appetizing meals which avoid the excessive absorption of any one type of food or the lack of vitamins or proteins provided by another.

According to the health ministry 35 million people in France are malnourished.

"Three French people out of four suffer, at various degrees, from the consequences of a bad nutrition from holes in their teeth to diabetes, from high cholesterol to hypertension," said Health Minister Simone Veil.

Nutrition expert Dr. Gerard Debry said, "Overeating causes almost as many victims today as famines and epidemics did in past centuries."

Debry said that in the past 50 years bread consumption has dropped by over 50 per cent in France depriving the French diet of precious amounts of protein, sugar, minerals and vitamins.

On the other hand, Debry said, meat consumption has doubled in the same period causing the fat consumption of the French to soar.

"It's too much! It's terrible," said another nutritionist, Francois Dupin, "Today, 42 percent of our absorption of calories comes from meat."

"It's against the hidden fats and sugars that our game has declared war," said a ministry spokeswoman, "We must teach the French to detect hidden sugars in sodas, the fats which meats, even the leanest, are largely composed of."

Jerome seeks applicants for inspector, dog catcher

JEROME — The city of Jerome is seeking a qualified building inspector and dog catcher, to start as soon as possible.

The current dog catcher has accepted another job elsewhere and the half-time building inspector cannot handle the volume of inspections in the city. The city council feels it is in a dilemma because certified inspectors are hard to find.

Councilmen don't know how much to pay the inspector either. So next Tuesday they will interview several potential applicants for the job and will try to come up with a salary figure by then.

Dog catcher may be an even harder spot to fill. Police Chief Howard DuBols concedes the dog catcher Jerome has now is first-rate.

But when he returned to his former home recently to collect some of his belongings, he was offered his former job back at higher pay. Now he has returned to Jerome to collect his belongings here.

The last full-time building inspector was hired by the city and county of Jerome together. He quit, and was replaced by the half-time inspector, whose contract ends July 1.

"The availability of certified inspectors is very limited right now," says Mayor Marshall Everhart. He has found several people who might want the job, including a couple of carpenters.

Several real estate owners came to Tuesday night's city council meeting to express their concern over the absence of building inspections.

They thought that Jerome was planning to abandon its building code altogether.

Mayor Everhart assured them "there will be a code." He added that the city might amend the code later on.

Buildings in Jerome must meet standards outlined in a state uniform building code passed in 1976. The inspector's salary is paid out of the city budget, county funds, or inspection and permit fees, depending on which is available.

Steen seeks re-election

GLENNIS FERRY — State Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-Glenns Ferry, said Tuesday he will seek re-election to the Idaho Legislature.

Steen, who has served 10 years in the legislature, said water rights would remain one of his major concerns if re-elected. "How we manage the resources of water in Idaho will determine the future of our state," Steen said.

"We must realize water has several uses, but I believe priorities of use must be established to maintain a balanced economy and not jeopardize old established uses and rights."

Steen said the last session of the legislature "laid a foundation for a state water plan," but noted "how the plan progresses in the future will affect the destiny of Idaho in many ways."

Steen represents Legislative District 22, which contains Camas, Elmore, half of Gooding and part of Twin Falls County.

He is a member of the State Affairs Committee, the Judiciary and Rules Committee and the Transportation Committee. He was the Senate assistant majority leader in the last legislature.

Ohio voters reject levies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Rejection of 15 emergency school money issues in Tuesday's primary election has put the continued education of at least 260,000 Ohio public school students in jeopardy.

In addition, major school desegregation programs requiring massive busing in Cleveland and Columbus this fall have been endangered.

The Cleveland city school district, largest in the state with 110,000 students, was rebuffed by voters, who for the second time in two months rejected along clear racial lines a 9.9 mill levy needed to raise $30 million a year in new taxes.

"It would take an act of God to pass a school levy in Cleveland," said a dejected School Board President Arnold R. Pinkney.

Columbus voters rejected for the third time an 8.8 mill levy needed to keep schools serving 90,000 students open past the second week in November.

Levy rejections also came in the 9,000-student Warren city school district, the 18,000-student Parma district near Cleveland all the way down to the 1,300-student Firelands Local district, along Lake Erie.

Worse still, state education officials said only 51 of the 117 Ohio school districts in financial trouble even had levies on Tuesday's ballot.

Schools can and do close in Ohio, unlike most states, because of a long-standing law that a district may not operate in the red and must have local voter approval for any tax raise.

The problem has been aggravated by state mandates for education that have not been funded, and by underfunding of the state aid to schools program.

"Education financing — Yesterday it was a political issue. Today it is a responsibility," Gov. James A. Rhodes told a morning news conference in Columbus.

Teacher layoffs, program curtailments, leaky roofs and the end of sports will probably be necessary in most of the districts that do not close, education officials admitted.

Ironically, a pledge from Rhodes to use a $69 million state budget surplus to bail out troubled school districts may have contributed to many levy defeats. Cleveland's money needs alone would wipe out the surplus.

The NAACP has proposed another way to keep Cleveland schools open. The civil rights group behind the Cleveland desegregation effort has said it will ask U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. Battisti to take the unprecedented step of letting the school board raise taxes without voter approval.

ROBERT ALLRED

CSI prof receives degree

TWIN FALLS — Robert Allred, College of Southern Idaho faculty member, recently received his Ph.D. from Brigham Young University.

A CSI associate professor of history, Allred was granted a doctorate from the BYU College of Social Sciences April 21.

The new doctor of philosophy has taught at CSI for six years and is a native of Halley. He gained bachelor's and master's degrees from Utah State University.

Allred's Ph.D. dissertation in the field of European history focused on the development of national attitudes toward France in 16th Century Elizabethan England.

Allred, 37, and his wife, Carol, have two sons and live in Twin Falls.

Powers reveals candidacy

TWIN FALLS — Michael E. Powers, 29, Twin Falls, has announced his candidacy for county prosecuting attorney on the Democratic ticket.

Powers, who received his law degree from the University of Idaho in 1974, said he wants to devote full time to the position.

"My goals include public awareness of how the criminal justice system operates, cooperation from all law enforcement agencies, and receiving input from all involved," Powers said.

He served as deputy in the Canyon County prosecutor's office in 1975 and headed his own law firm in Coeur d'Alene from May, 1975 to March, 1977.

Powers was deputy prosecutor for Twin Falls between April and November of 1977. Since November, he has been the deputy Twin Falls County public defender.

Emphasizing his interest in criminal law, Powers said he will devote much of his time to crimes of violence and property.

"Since criminal law is my special interest, I hope to build an awareness of the power of the position and the necessity of using this power wisely," he said.

The Democrat added that he feels he can view both sides of issues since he is well acquainted with problems of criminal justice as a whole.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Powers, Twin Falls, Powers was educated in the local public schools and holds a BA degree in personnel and industrial relations from Idaho State University.

He and his wife, Pam, have one child, Corey.

Powers is the only Democrat to file for the position. Two Twin Falls Republicans are seeking the post, Jeff Stoker and Len Ettinger. Incumbent Frank Dykas, Twin Falls, has announced he will not run for re-election.

Norway farming different world

By SONJA HILLGREN
UPI farm editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, a former Minnesota farmer, easily might have been a farmer in Norway.

If he were a Norwegian farmer, he would have faced different farm policies than those he oversees in his job as secretary.

His great-grandparents, who were Norwegian immigrants, changed his fate. He recently visited Telemark and Dalen, the home of his ancestors in southern Norway between Oslo and Bergen, as part of a three week trip to promote and assess United States farm exports.

The Norwegian visit, during which he celebrated Constitution Day on May 17, was spiced between visits to the Soviet Union, Hungary, Poland, Romania, Denmark and Britain.

The socialist Norwegian government, Bergland learned, pays large amounts of subsidies to its farmers. He estimated that the subsidies to producers are about $1.5 billion a year and said if the United States were to provide equivalent programs it would probably spend $100 billion a year on farm subsidies.

That figure is close to the total gross income of all farmers in the United States, which was $106 billion last year.

He also found that Norwegian farmers, like those in Britain, are organized into cooperatives that have exclusive rights to bargain collectively with the government to set prices for food. Farmers who do not belong to the cooperatives have no outlet for sale of their products.

If the farmers and government disagree on a price, the price is settled by binding arbitration. Bergland was impressed by the culture he saw in his ancestors' home and the beauty of the mountainous area but he was not impressed by the quality of the soil. "How anybody can make a living farming there, I'll never know," he told reporters when he returned from his trip.

But he has two second cousins who have done well in a dairy partnership. They recently borrowed $250,000 to expand their 30-cow operation. They earned $100,000 in gross income last year.

Bergland also learned—that the Norwegian government helps farmers pay "professional hired hands" to do chores on weekends so the farmers can have the days off.

In the communist nations, Bergland said he saw extremely sophisticated agricultural methods, including animal husbandry run by IBM computers on demonstration farms.

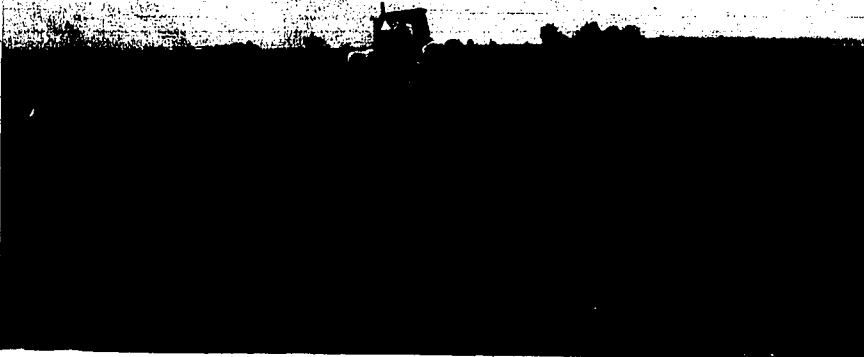

He said other Soviet farms which he saw from his car had a good dark green color to them meaning that their fertilizer levels were adequate," he said. Weeds were under control and he saw fertilizers applied by aircraft.

All the evidence he saw "indicated they have transformed this technology that had been developed in their show places to their farms," he said.

Bergland said he was the first American secretary of agriculture to visit the vast Soviet semi-desert now being used to grow wheat.

He said it rains only 10 to 12 inches in the cold area where they get 4 to 5 inches in May and June when it is needed. Unlike the semi-desert areas in the United States where a crop is grown every two years, the Soviets are able to grow a crop every year because of the late spring rain.

"They'll lose two crops in five years," he said, predicting the Soviets will continue to be in the market for American wheat exports.

Planting delayed

UNUSUAL sight in a much of Missouri this spring has been a farm tractor at work in a corn field. Continuing rain has kept fields too wet to plant much of the time, and even in late May the corn acreage planted was only about 50 per cent of normal. This tractor was working in a field near Marshall, in central Missouri.

Tractors end India's caste system

By RICHARD CRITCHFIELD
Washington Star

GHUNGRAU VILLAGE, India — The ancient Hindu caste system, which has always held India's 576,000 villages together, is starting to go to pieces. This is most evident in India's fast-growing northwest, where the trinity of tractors, combines and electric power is rapidly displacing human labor.

The caste system has always divided Indian society into racial compartments, excluding the poor from most benefits. But strip away the economic basis for caste — the exchange of labor and services for grain and fodder — and the old shabherf relationship shatters like overripe grain.

At least it does for the untouchables, whom Mahatmas Gandhi named Harijans, or children of God, but never did much about getting them land so they would become something else. Long the true tillers of the soil in India, doing much of the fieldwork under land-owning higher castes, the Harijans in the northwest got their roughest shock in 1957, when new Mexican-bred, high-yielding dwarf wheat suddenly made many landowners rich.

In a fast shift from subsistence agriculture to modern commercial farming, everyone fought to see who would get how much of the bigger pie. The landowners were greedy, the Harijans scarcely benefited, and millions simply deserted the fields for jobs in nearby prospering towns.

Here in the Punjab, in the heart of India's "green revolution" country, the landowner-farmer class, known as Jats, still don't know what hit them.

For a time they plugged the labor gap with seasonal migrants from the poorest areas of Uttar Pradesh and Bihar states south-along—the still-improverished Ganges Valley. Now, as the agricultural revolution spreads down the Ganges toward Calcutta, even this labor source is drying up. Calcutta's West Bengal state last year grew dwarf wheat for the first time, reaped over a million tons and got almost as high yields as in the Punjab.

The Jats can turn to more mechanization, but this makes some farmers uneconomical. The number of poorer Jats going bankrupt is growing despite average farm assets in the neighborhood of $30,000 to $60,000.

Inevitably, the biggest landlords are buying more land, evading a legal 18-acre ceiling they want raised to 100 acres. It may be hard to avoid an enclosure movement, with bigger and more mechanized farms on the U.S. pattern.

Since this "hardy makes sense" in a country as populous as India, and oil to run the machines may start running out in the 1980s, the Indian agricultural revolution can't go in that direction for very long.

What is happening in the Punjab matters because it is the sort of thing that can be expected to happen in other areas of India as modern farm science, and the commercialization of labor, land and rent that go with it, start to clash in village after village with the old caste system.

Already atrocities by high castes against Harijans are reported in the press almost daily. Indira Gandhi's strategy to return to power is largely based on appeals to the Harijans as their protectors.

Rooster takes over nest

WAYNE, W. Va. (UPI) — The modern-day battle of the sexes apparently has spread to the henhouse of a Wayne County farm.

Jennie Robinson of rural Wayne said Thursday one of her father's roosters is sitting atop seven eggs and "screams and ruffles his feathers like a nesting hen" when taken away from the nest. Meanwhile, the hen sits on a nearby roost and watches.

"I think this is carrying women's liberation a little too far," Mrs. Robinson said with a laugh. She added she has never seen anything like it before.

"I'm real anxious to see what will happen when the eggs hatch," she said. "Evidently, he's going to mother them."

Mrs. Robinson said her father, Otto Pauley, raises a game stock of chickens and keeps about 100 of them on the small farm outside of Wayne.

She said the rooster took to the nest more than a week ago and remains there day and night, getting off only to eat and drink.

"He just sits on those eggs chuckin' like a hen," she said.

Mrs. Robinson said the unusual rooster has become the talk of the area and visitors "come in and see him, but I don't think they half believe it when they leave."

Wendell growers cited

MANTECA, Calif. — Ronald and Glen Taylor of Wendell have received awards for their high grain corn yield of 157.44 bushels per acre during the past growing season.

They received DeKalb Yieldmaster trophies in Sacramento, Calif., from Ramsey Seed, Inc., western distributor for DeKalb seeds.

Dan Leach of Bliss also received an award in the Yieldmaster program for his yield of 154.33 bushels per acre. Leach obtained his yield of 8,642 pounds per acre with DeKalb XL16 while the Taylor's planted DeKalb XL12 for a yield of 8,817 pounds an acre. Both are single cross, short season varieties adapted to Idaho growing conditions.

The Taylors planted in 30 inch rows on May 8, 1977 at a population of 28,500 plants per acre. Leach also planted in 30 inch rows on May 6 at a population of 24,500 plants per acre.

Idaho growers interested in the 1978 Yieldmaster program may call Tony Berthel of Ramsey Seed at Route 3, Buhl, at 543-6897.

Malta girl picked

MOSCOW — A Malta girl has been chosen to visit Europe this summer in the People-to-People Citizen Ambassador program.

She is Mary L. Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Pierce, Malta. She will join others making the trip in Washington, D.C., on June 27 for orientation. The 38 day trip will include England, France, Switzerland, Germany, the Netherlands and the Soviet Union.

Carolyn S. Greenwood of Sandpoint is the other Idahoan chosen to participate in the program.

Contest July 18

MARSING — The seventh Idaho Youth Horse Judging Contest will be conducted July 18 at the Owyhee County Fairgrounds in Homedale.

The contest is open to boys and girls from 9 to 19 years of age who are enrolled in 4-H or another horse-related youth group.

Registration will start at 8:30 a.m. and judging will begin at 9 a.m. The entry deadline is July 8.

Recycled manure pays off as feed

Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — Poultrymen in several states have come up with a brilliant idea. They feed hens 15 per cent of their own recycled excrement as a substitute for expensive corn.

One group of substitutes fed "dried poultry waste" — or DPW — back through their hens 14 times, according to Beatrice Truam Hunter, a specialist in nutrition and consumer affairs.

Egg production, she reports, was only slightly lower than a control group of hens that received their normal diet.

But, she writes in "The Great Nutrition Robbery," researchers found a real bonanza when they fed DPW to cattle.

"As much as two thirds of the protein requirements of cattle were found replaceable by properly processed DPW," she reports.

Considering the high price of cattle feed, she continues, experimenters estimated that if properly recycled, the usable manure from each hen earned 50 cents or more.

At first, the Agriculture Department and the Food and Drug Administration prohibited shipment of DPW-fed animals in interstate commerce. But in 1976 the agencies relaxed that rule, providing that DPW-fed animals intended for human food be taken off processed chicken manure feeding 60 days before slaughter.

Hunter contends that the effort to contrive cheap imitations of various natural products and at higher prices is in full swing.

The range extends from cookies using chicken feathers for some of the flour to imitation cheese made from discarded banana peels, and from imitation coffee creamers to cherries made from drops of the chemical sodium alginate falling into a calcium bath.

Orders up

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Western Wood Products Association said today lumber orders from 180 mills in 12 western states for the week ended May 27 totaled 178 million board feet.

This compares with 222 million board feet for the corresponding week last year. For the year to date, orders equal those of the total for the same period in 1977.

SHANNON CARRAWAY ... Shoshone Sale Yard
ROBIN HANSEN ... Richfield Grange

Outlaw day title sought by five

RICHFIELD — Five Lincoln County girls are vying for the title of Richfield Outlaw Day Queen in Saturday's annual community celebration.

Tami Whitesell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitesell, Richfield, reigning queen, will crown the new royalty at 10:30 p.m. Saturday during intermission at a dance at the American Legion Hall.

Candidates include Robin Johnson, daughter of Frank and Vickie Johnson; Ellen Morrison, daughter of Alford and Donna Robinson; Robin Hansen and Jackie Hansen, both daughters of Robert and Barbara Hansen, all Richfield, and Shannon Carraway, daughter of Ferrell and Willa Carraway, Shoshone.

ROBIN JOHNSON ... riding club

The new queen will receive a leather jacket and necklace as well as tiara and leather banner to be given to her successor next year. In addition to the queen, another contestant will be named Miss Congeniality.

Miss Johnson, 16, placed second in pole bending and fourth in cow cutting in the Fifth District High School Rodeo recently. She is active in Girls League, Pep Club, drill team, volleyball, basketball, track and rodeo club at Richfield High School. Her sponsor is the Richfield Outlaw Riding Club.

Miss Morrison is sponsored by the Richfield Burmah Club. She also is active in Girls League, volleyball, basketball and track.

Robin Hansen, 16, was Richfield's delegate to Girls State this year. Sponsored by the Richfield Grange, she is active in Girls League, Pep Club, drill team and basketball.

Miss Carraway, 15, attends Shoshone High School where she was active in Rodeo Club, volleyball, choir and was class secretary. She is sponsored by the Shoshone Sale Yard.

Also included in the Outlaw Day activities are a parade at 10:30 a.m. and a "fun" rodeo in the Richfield arena at 1 p.m. The dance begins at 9 p.m.

Thousands of people annually attend the event, which is sponsored by the Richfield Rodeo Club.

Ketchum to hear builder's protest

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council decided Monday to consider the protest of a builder who was denied a building permit under the city's new building permit application system, despite the fact his protest was not properly filed.

Carl Curtis of Ketchum was denied a building permit by the city's Development Review Committee May 11 because his application failed to earn the required number of points under the new permit application system.

Ketchum city administrator Jim Jaquet pointed out that according to the city ordinance which created the new system, Curtis should have protested the committee's decision at the May 15 City Council meeting at which the committee's recommendations were approved by the council.

Curtis, however, did not make his protest until the June 5 meeting of the council.

Nevertheless, Jaquet reported, the council decided Monday to meet in joint session with the committee later this month to hear Curtis's protest.

Jaquet said the council decided to listen to Curtis in order to give him "every possible consideration," and because he "wanted to discuss some other things," including "some inferences about some improprieties."

"We want to find out what those will be," Jaquet added.

Bliss given time to see attorney

BELLEVUE — Arraignment has been continued until Friday for Phillip Bliss, 25, of Bellevue, who was charged Tuesday with assaulting a Blaine County sheriff's officer.

Bliss, who allegedly assaulted a Blaine County sheriff's deputy on Highway 23 Monday night, appeared before Magistrate Daniel Alban Tuesday and is being held in the county jail on $2,500 bond, according to Sheriff Orville Drexler. The sheriff said the arraignment was continued until Friday to give Bliss time to talk with an attorney.

"In the scuffle with Bliss, Deputy Sheriff Eugene Farnworth apparently hit him with a flashlight to subdue him," Drexler said. An investigation is continuing into the officer's involvement, the sheriff said.

Both Bliss and Carl Fife, 21, Bellevue, were charged with resisting and obstructing an officer in connection with the incident.

Bliss was treated and released at Blaine County hospital for a dislocated shoulder. Officer Farnworth was released from the hospital with bruises and cuts on his leg, throat and arm.

According to Sheriff Drexler, Bliss and Fife were reported driving at speeds of more than 100 miles per hour in separate vehicles on Broadford Road, south of Hailey, Monday night. The officer, who was patrolling in the area, pursued the two vehicles. Drexler said one of the vehicles driven by Bliss stalled about three miles south of Bliss. When Bliss walked to the sheriff's car a scuffle resulted between the two.

A 16-year old juvenile, a passenger in one of the vehicles, was released to his mother who lives in Jerome.

IP generating unit pushed into service

AMERICAN FALLS — Idaho Power Co. announces Wednesday the second generating unit at the new American Falls Dam power house has gone "on line."

The unit's initial production came little more than two months after start-up of the first generator in the company's new facility built in conjunction with reconstruction of American Falls dam by the American Falls Reserve District.

W.D. Arms, company vice president for engineering, said the third and last generator is scheduled to go into service about July 15.

The new generating facilities will increase the power house capacity from 27,500 kilowatts to 100,000 kilowatts.

Deep snow remains

HAILEY — Snow depths at the higher elevations in the Magic Valley are still well above average, according to representatives of the Blaine Soil Conservation District.

The Lost Wood Divide snow course at the top of Trail Creek is 118 percent of average while the Fish-Pole Lake snow course is 264 percent of average. Galena Summit is 193 percent of average and the Bear Canyon course in Cooper Basin is 200 percent of normal.

The end-of-May snow measurements were taken by Keith Bailey, Mary Fullon and Martin Albrechtson of the BSCD.

Horse show Sunday

BUHL — The High Hopes 4-H Club will host a horse show Sunday at 12:30 p.m. at the Buhl Rodeo Grounds.

Entries will fall under the following classes: junior fitting and showing for ages 12 and under; senior fitting and showing for ages 13-19; junior western horsemanship for ages 12 and under; senior western horsemanship for ages 13-19; and junior bareback equitation; and senior bareback equitation.

Open classes include pole bending, barrel racing, flag racing and banana racing. Robert and Orlin Freeman will judge the events.

Committee formed

BOISE — The formation of a blood services committee to govern the activities of the Snake River Regional Red Cross Blood Services has been announced by Dr. Darrell Brock, committee chairman, Boise.

A new name for the Snake River region was also adopted. The action was taken at the annual meeting of the regional blood services in Boise recently.

Brock said all 57 Red Cross regional blood programs are undergoing name changes to encourage a single nationwide identity.

This region's new name will be American Red Cross Blood Services, Snake River Region.

Fat Lady finally sings for Bullets in 105-99 victory over Sonics

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Washington Bullets, behind Charles Johnson and Mitch Kupchak's strong effort off the bench, ended years of frustration and erased a reputation as the National Basketball Association's choke artists when they defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 105-99 Wednesday night to win the NBA finals.

Twice before the Bullets had gone to the NBA finals, in 1971 and 1975, and been blown out each time, 4-0. Kupchak and Johnson were not on those teams, and neither was Coach Dick Motta. This time, thanks to Kupchak and Johnson's efforts and two crucial free throws by Wes Unseld with 12 seconds remaining, the "Fat Lady" finally sang for Motta and his crew.

The loss ended what many thought was an impossible dream for Seattle, which came in the season was floundering with a 5-17 record before Lenny Wilkens took over as coach and turned the club into a contender. The victory, which came in seven games, was especially gratifying for Washington because the final triumph came in the Seattle Coliseum, where the Sonics had not lost in 22 games, including 10 in the playoffs.

Fred Brown and Jack Sikma each scored 21 points. Dennis Johnson, the second-year Sonics guard who appeared as the favorite to win the series' most valuable player award when Seattle took a 3-2 advantage in games, scored just four points and missed all 14 of his field goal attempts.

Kupchak's and Johnson's contributions began in the third period at the 5:53 mark when the Bullets' leading scorer, Hayes, went to the bench with his fifth foul. Kupchak replaced Hayes and then teamed with Johnson to score 12 of Washington's final 17 points of the period, as the Bullets stretched a nine-point lead to 13. They took control of the game 7:06, entering the final period.

That margin held up despite a furious fourth-quarter charge by the Sonics, who closed to within 101-99, with 18 seconds to play when Paul Silas dropped in an offensive rebound. The Sonics were unable to score the rest of the way, and Unseld hit his two free throws and then snagged an offensive rebound and fed Dandridge for a fast-break stuff to close out the scoring.

Kupchak, the powerful second-year forward-center, scored four inside baskets in the last 4:32 of the third period and Johnson, the delicate guard, hit two jump shots, including a 50-footer that swished at the buzzer ending the third period.

The Sonics' fourth-quarter surge was led by Brown, Sikma, and Webster.

They combined for 28 of Seattle's final 33 points, with Brown hitting 11, Sikma 10 and Webster seven.

The Bullets picked up $150,000 for winning the championship series, and the Sonics will divide $100,000 for losing it. Washington's total playoff winnings totalled $282,500. The Sonics' totalled $227,500.

The nationally televised game brought to an end an NBA season that stretched seven and one half months and saw Washington playing 103 games and Seattle 104.

It was the 12th seven-game championship series in NBA history and only the third time that the champion has won the seventh game on an opponents' home court. It was ironic that the Bullets, with a reputation as a loser, should accomplish such a difficult feat, but Motta had been saying that "the opera ain't over until the fat lady sings," a saying that served as a motif for the coast-to-coast championship final.

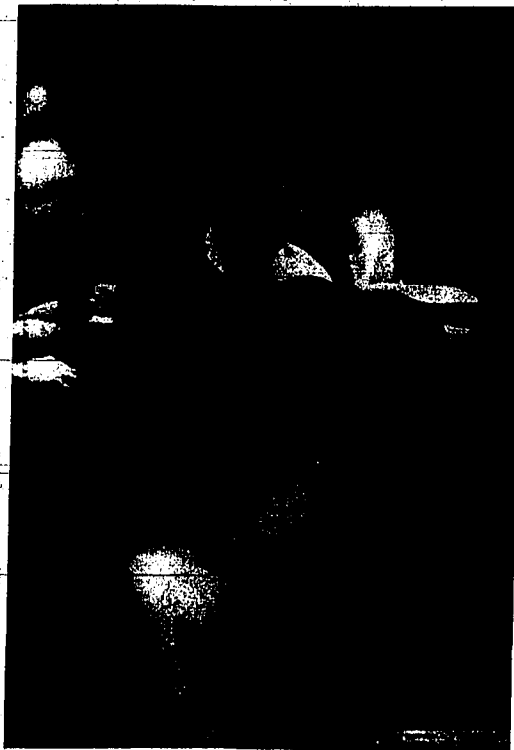

He said it after the Bullets blew a 19-point third-quarter advantage to lose the first game. He said it when the Sonics took a 2-1 lead by winning a game in Washington, and he said it again when the Sonics took a 3-2 advantage by winning Game Five at home.

The Bullets danced to Motta's words in Game Six with a 35-point victory. And they squelched Seattle's plans for a giant victory parade in their home town.

The Bullets' snatched the NBA crown from the Pacific Northwest, where it had resided for a year on the heads of the Portland Trail Blazers. The Trail Blazers were knocked out of this year's playoffs by Seattle, which also beat Los Angeles and Denver to take the Western Conference crown.

Washington, the Eastern Conference champion, defeated Atlanta, San Antonio, and star player Philadelphia to reach the finals.

Then, in an improbable final that mirrored Washington, a team with a 4-3 record in the regular season, and Seattle, a team that never before had reached the finals and had the second-worst record in the league when Wilkens took over as coach Nov. 1976, the Bullets prevailed.

SIGNALING his team to keep up the good work is Washington Bullets' Coach Dick Motta. The signal worked as the Bullets won the championship.

Softball slugfest opens Friday

TWIN FALLS — Some of the best slowpitch softball teams in the Intermountain area converge on Twin Falls this weekend for the annual "major" slugfest.

The field boasts perennial favorite, Mc-U Sports of Boise, along with Nielsen Van Lines and three teams from Salt Lake City.

A total of 21 teams will begin action Friday evening and continue through the finals at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

First round will have eight games Friday evening and wind up as the other teams join in the odd-team bracket Saturday morning.

Friday night's pairings include 6:45 p.m., R.C. Calk-Karpel Shoppe of Twin Falls vs. Valley Merchants of Parma; Ace Hansen of Twin Falls vs. Tri-West of Boise and the Blitteroot of Sun Valley vs. the Cedars of Boise.

At 8 p.m., Corner Pocket-Depot Grill-Turf Club of Twin Falls vs. Blimpe's of Boise; Cain's of Twin Falls vs. Miller Sutters of Pocatello, and Sunset Sports of Pocatello vs. Overland Lumber of Boise.

At 9:15 p.m., McU Sports of Boise vs. Blimpe's of Nampa, and Boise Blue vs. Tovey's of Salt Lake City.

At 8 a.m. Saturday, Sherwin Williams of Salt Lake City vs. the winner of the R.C. Calk-Valley Merchant game, and Star Distributing of Salt Lake City vs. the winner of Ace Hansen-Tri West. At 9:15 a.m., Pizza Huts of Nampa and Caldwell vs. the winner of Blitteroot-Cedars, and Millmen of Salt Lake City vs. the winner of Corner Pocket-Depot-Turf-Blimpe. On the tone game Saturday on diamond, three, Nielsen Van Lines will play the Cains-Miller winner at 9:15 a.m.

The tournament will continue with eight games Saturday afternoon and three more Saturday night, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Play resumes with two games at 9 a.m. Sunday, a single game at 10:15 and two more games at 11:30.

From 1 p.m. through the conclusion, all action is scheduled for diamond one. If an extra game is needed in the tournament, it will start sometime between 4:30 and 5 p.m. Sunday.

The losers

DEJECTION is the only thing seen in the faces and posture of the Seattle Sonics bench with 12 seconds to go and trailing by four points.

Arizona, USC to face off in college series

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Larry Fobbs scored on John Wells' sacrifice fly in the ninth inning Wednesday to edge the University of Southern California to a 3-2 victory over North Carolina in a fourth-round game at the 1978 College World Series.

USC remained the only unbeaten team in the series, while Miami of Florida and North Carolina became the fifth and sixth teams sidelined in the NCAA double-elimination tournament.

Southern Cal., which has won the series 10 times, scored its winning run in the last inning.

Trojan second baseman Fobbs singled, moved to second on a wild pitch, stole third and scored on Wells' sacrifice fly for the winning run.

North Carolina opened the scoring in the first inning when Mike Fox singled and came home on Roy Clark's double.

Clark tripled and then scored on Jim Atkinson's single to extend North Carolina's lead to 2-0 in the sixth inning.

Trojan Tim Tolman's groundout in the eighth scored Doug Stokke, who earlier walked. A passed ball on catcher Lloyd Brewer later scored Chris Smith, who reached base on a single, to tie the game 2-2.

USC southpaw Jeff Wick pitched two innings of shutout relief to raise his record to 7-0 on the year.

North Carolina right-hander Greg Norris, who entered the series with a 14-0 record, took his second loss of the series. Norris shut out Southern Cal until he gave up two runs in the eighth inning.

Southpaw Casey Lindsey won his second series game and Bob Horner broke the RBI record in the first game of the day Wednesday to lead defending champion Arizona State to an 11-3 victory over Miami of Florida in a fourth-round game of the 1978 College World Series.

Miami, 50-12, became the fifth team eliminated in the NCAA double-elimination tournament.

Lindsey, 7-3, only struck out two batters but held the Hurricanes to two runs and six hits in seven innings.

Earlier in the week, Lindsey posted a 13-2 victory over St. John's.

The Sun Devils struck for four runs in the sixth inning. Larry Eller started the onslaught with a double and then scored on Ed Ervine's single. Horner knocked in a run on a fielder's choice to tie the series RBI record of 10.

Horner and Chris Chabro combined to drive in four runs in a five-run ninth inning to nail down the victory. Horner's run-scoring single gave him a record-breaking 11 RBIs for the series. Bando brought in the Sun Devils' final three runs on a double to left field.

Horner and Bando each had 100 RBIs this year and share the NCAA season RBI record.

NCAA cites Ohio State for recruiting violations

MISSION, Kan. (UPI) — The NCAA Wednesday censured Ohio State University for recruiting and student privilege violations by its football program between 1973 and 1976, but stopped short of leveling any bans on post-season activity or television appearances on the Buckeyes.

In its own one-year investigation of violations during that period, the NCAA Committee on Infractions discovered the same questionable practices and violations disclosed by Ohio State in an internal investigation in 1976.

The university undertook its investigation following a series of articles alleging NCAA violations.

The committee found that several times in 1973-74, an assistant football coach loaned a car to an athlete free of charge for his personal use. In two other instances, the university paid for meals and transportation for a friend and a relative of prospective students.

It is significant to note that although the NCAA conducted an extensive independent investigation in this case, the violations found by the committee were all self-disclosed by the university in its initial report to the NCAA in 1976," said Arthur R. Reynolds, chairman of the infractions committee.

Ireland: home of potatoes, brogues and handball

by Jim Murray
(c) 1978 Los Angeles Times

If you were told there was one international sport invented by the Irish, you would probably guess that it was something that had a club in it. Or, it would involve how many people you could knock down at a picnic. Or it would involve "throwing something into a crowd," or "overalls into the chowder. Or it would be something you could do sitting down in a pub. At the very least, kicking and tripping would be "permissible." Killing would be going too far.

You wouldn't be at all surprised that the patron saint of the sport is Casey.

What might surprise you would be that it was something as tame and effete as handball, a game more properly associated with bankers and stockbrokers and exclusive downtown athletic clubs where, to get in, you had to sign an oath you had never voted Democrat or carried a hod or drank coffee with your hand on.

It was an unlikely a sport for the Irish as polo but it was a national sport of Erin long before the Saxons came with their bayonets and beathen religion. The first handball might have been a sack of rocks, but the Celts of old Ireland played it long before the Norman invasion.

In the 1800's, a Tipperary man, one Meham Baggs, invented what he called the "Irish whip," an underhanded curving motion which imparted spin and deception to the ball and which mystified players of the era — the way the invention of the curveball fooled baseball batters.

It was the prototype wall-court game, probably a refinement of the Basque game of jai alai which the migrating Celts brought with them to the Emerald Isle.

The Irish brought it to this country on the heels of the potato famine, when every able bodied handball player there joined the mass' breakout to America

It became a firehouse and police-station game in this country, both because of the leisure time these jobs permitted and because the Irish, barred from private industry by the "No Irish Need Apply" signs, flocked to the police and the fire department where Tammany Hall had more pull.

The greatest of these players was Phil Casey, the champion of Ireland, who came to New York in 1882, took a look at the paved streets and brick buildings, and announced, "There's a handball court on every corner."

Casey soon built a proper handball court and became the Babe Ruth of the sport.

He barnstormed, popularized it in centers like Milwaukee and Chicago and Detroit and even Los Angeles.

Like any sport, it is possible to trace the waves of migration to the big American cities by its champions—first the Irish, then the Germans, then the Jewish players, then the Italians. The current champion, Natvidad (Naty) Alvarado of Pomona, tells you all you have to know about American ethnic history.

There are no more Egans and Fitzgeraldis, no more O'Connors or Fisher Tom Joneses but, in a salute to the past, an Irish national team, headed by its world-class player Pat Kirby, is touring the U.S.

Pat Kirby has reversed the flow of handball players out of Eire and into Brooklyn. Pat went the other way after 13 years in this country to seek to rekindle the game in its birthplace. At the age of 41, Pat got clear to the quarterfinals of the nationals at St. Louis last year (Alvarado eliminated him); so he still packs a mean one-two.

Pat is paying back the U.S. for favors it did him when he was a buck private in the U.S. Army and regularly on KP or other scud duty at Ft. Dix. The company commander, a handball nut, put up a bulletin for volunteers to play on the camp team. Pat Kirby, looking like Sad O'Sack, showed up and saluted. The lieutenant was hardly impressed with this little Irishman with the music-hall brogue. "Where's your equipment?" he growled. "I lost it in the transfer," lied Pat.

Equipped with a pair of worn sneakers and too-large trunks, Pat showed up. The commander showed up with a valise-full of equipment. "There were gloves sticking out all over the place." "Do you recall that?" "What are those for?" says I. "Do your hands get cold?"

Pat didn't know nonanaters were gloves nowadays. In Ireland, your "gloves" were a fine set of calluses on top of calluses.

The lieutenant thought he had a real phony on his hands. Until he served. Pat's return almost tore his head off as it came off the wall. Six months later, Pat and his lieutenant, mostly Pat, had won the All-Ireland championship. "I didn't know Irishmen could play handball," he admitted. Pat looked stern. "Sir," he said, "we invented the damn game!"

Jackson's two round trips lift Yankees out of slump

United Press International
Reggie Jackson came to the defense of his manager, Billy Martin, in the two ways he knows best — with his mouth and his bat.

When reports began circulating late Tuesday night that Martin again was on the verge of being fired by the New York Yankees, Jackson had some kind words for his manager.

"Billy Martin is not the reason we're playing lousy," Jackson said. "The last I saw, he had a rah-rah team, where a new manager will make you play better. We are professionals. We play for money. Hey, what's the panic? We've got a lot of games to play and I've got a lot of home runs to hit."

Less than 24 hours after he said those words, he started in on making his prediction come true with a pair of homers that helped the Yankees snap a four-game losing streak Wednesday night with a 1-0 rout of the Seattle Mariners.

"There's no particular reason for getting out of our slump," Jackson said. "A club has good days and bad days, but people have a habit of looking at our record and our salaries and saying 'what's the matter with this club?' If we lose 20 games."

Ron Guidry also played a big part in the Yankees' victory. He topped the Mariners on six hits and knocked out 10 to raise his record to 9-0.

"Guidry is the best pitcher in the league right now. He or (Frank) Tanana, take your choice," said Jackson.

Mariners Manager Darrell Johnson agreed.

"Tanana and Guidry are the best pitchers in the league," said Johnson. "That was some brave stuff he (Guidry) was bringing up to the plate tonight. He does it in a different way than Tanana but the end result is about the same. His (Guidry's) fastball runs about six or seven inches away from right-handed batters and when he throws that fastball as hard as he throws it, his curve ball is almost unhittable."

White Sox 8, Twins 3

The White Sox soared to their 10th victory in 11 games with the aid of six-run second inning. Henry Cruz's two-run single highlighted the second-inning rout of Roger Erickson.

Jorge Orta hit a two-run homer for Chicago and Ken Kraviec went 8-13 in going to knock the Angels 4-0.

Angels 4-0, A's 1-1

Southern Ken Brett allowed only two hits in seven innings and Ron Falty homered in sparking California in the opener.

Expos 8, Padres 3

Ross Grimsley and his teammates have formed a sort of a mutual admiration society — and it's paying huge dividends for the Montreal Expos.

"My secret is that I have confidence in my team and I know they have confidence in me," Grimsley said Wednesday night after becoming the major league's first 10-game winner in Montreal's 8-3 victory over the San Diego Padres.

"Lately, I've been doing the same thing. I've been giving up runs early in the ballgame. But, I'm confident that the guys can come back and get me some runs. I just know that as long as I keep it close, we have a chance to win."

Grimsley's buddies have scored 63 runs for him in his 10 victories — an average of 6.3 runs per win. If you couple that with a 2.56 earned run average, it's not too hard to figure out why the left-hander is 10-2.

"The success of this team is that we pick each other up," says Grimsley, who signed with the Expos as a free agent this past winter. "I know if I have a bad game, we can still win. The batters pick up the pitchers on this team and vice versa. It just works both ways."

When asked how many games he can win this season, Grimsley says: "I don't know how many games I can win. It doesn't matter if I win 10 or 30."

British Open field narrowed

TROON, Scotland (UPI) — Frank Campbell of Huntsville, Ala., and Ted Ferguson of Midland, Tex., registered key third-round victories on the windswept Troon course Wednesday on a day in which 15 Americans were defeated at the British Amateur golf championship.

Campbell, a 52-year-old former professional, caused a major upset by beating talented 16-year-old Phillip Jonas of South Africa 1-up, while Ferguson, on vacation from work in the Texas oilfields, took a 3 and 2 win over Richard Welch, Northbrook, Ill.

Campbell, like Ferguson, is making his debut in the championship and he was naturally pleased with his one-hole victory over Jonas, rated a future champion by countryman Gary Player.

"I played very well," said Campbell, "but I had to. He is a fine young prospect. Although he is so young, it is a great feeling to have beaten one of the future superstars of golf."

Campbell reached the turn two up but saw his lead out in half when left with a hanging lie on the 10th fairway.

But the American responded magnificently by chipping to two feet for a birdie on the 11th and, though he was bunkered to lose the 14th, matched par at the closing holes to earn a fourth-round pairing with Scotland's Peter Buchanan.

Ferguson went 2-up on Welch with a creditable par-5 straight into the wind at the 11th but he, too, slipped by driving into deep rough to surrender the 13th. Then Ferguson made good use of the wind to plant his ball on the next green with Welch eliciting his tee shot wide.

Ferguson now meets South African stroke play champion David Suddards for a place in the last 16.

Suddards covered the front nine in an impressive 2-under-par to dispose of John Eiler of North Carolina.

Tom Matey, a Chicago sales executive, Bill Ploeger of Columbus, Ga. and Craig Rouher, Deerfield, Ill., were all defeated in the third round.

Matey was beaten 1-up by Canadian Dave Roxburgh, Ploeger lost to Britain's Mike Sarsfield 2 and 1 and Rouher was routed by Scottish champion Allan Brodie 7 and 5.

Jackpot golfers win own tourney

JACKPOT — For the first time probably in the history of the course, Jackpot golfers dominated the annual Club 83 two-day best ball tournament.

Len Reirsjord, a five handicap, and Chris Christensen, a 52, won the championship with a 254, some 34 strokes under par, and Everett McNulty and Don Whitney and Noel Yeary and Don Connell took prizes out of the third flight.

The tournament was scored with the "best net" and "best gross low ball off each hole. Course professional Billy Downs said the new format appeared to be the most satisfactory he has found in helping offset handicaps and doing away with handicap stroke differential among teams.

"It returned the best ball to the low handicap golfer. He was the guy who had to play well. The high handicapper could help on gross once in a while but if the low handicapper had a bad day generally the team was out of the money," Downs said.

Following Reirsjord and Christensen in the first flight were one-handicapper Gary Duncan and four-handicapper Mike Hamblin. With little help net, the two fad back-to-back great days, missing the title by one stroke. Duncan shot a fine six-under 66 on the final round as the two-some needed a birdie on the 36th hole for the win and couldn't get there. In the first round they had 12 birdies. Between them, Duncan's 66 was helped by an eagle on the 14th hole.

Following them were R. Driggs and H. Young at 260, S. Howard and K. Anderson at 265, Childs and Dell and Hansen and Leth at 270.

In the second flight, Reno's Rumbaugh and Atencio were first at 263, followed by Ted Reddy and Gary Hill at 266, Jacque Roth and Dr. Everett Jones at 268, Carl Host and Lars Hovey at 269 and Wayne Gold and Chauncey Peterson at 270.

Jets sign free agent players

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York Jets Wednesday announced the signing of five draft choices and three free agents and the acquisition of a tight end on waivers from Philadelphia.

The Jets signed No. 3 draft pick Mickey Shuler, a tight end from Penn State; two eighth-round selections; wide receiver Derrick Gaffney of Florida and safety Roy Eppes of Clemson; ninth-round choice Neil Hutton, a cornerback from Penn State; and 11th-round selection Pat Ryan, a quarterback from Tennessee.

Signed as free agents were Jerry Andrewlavage, a punter from Colgate; Bob Grupp, a punter from Duke drafted by the Jets a year ago and cut in training camp; and Walt Majewski, a center from Wisconsin-River Falls.

The Jets also obtained tight end Bill Chambers on waivers from Florida State, has decided to sign with the British Columbia Lions of the Canadian League.

Knicks, Nets close to draft trades

Drag races planned Saturday

POCATELLO — Idaho drag racing fans will have an opportunity to view four 200 mile-per-hour dragsters Saturday night at the Intermountain Raceway near Pocatello.

Ron Baker of Burley is the favorite attraction in his supercharged dragster. He will be going against Utah's hottest machines owned by Glenn Permain, Kevin Kennedy and Bruce Archibald.

The four cars have attained speeds of over 200 miles-per-hour and run the quarter in the same time category.

Other races will be run the same night in the Modified, Competition, and Super Stock classes.

Local top drivers include Alan Bloom in his Chevy dragster in the Competition class and Al and Kathy Steinmetz in a pair of Oldsmobile 442's in the Stock bracket.

A new timing system has been installed by track owner Jim Hirsley to handle the larger number of racers.

Timing trials begin at 1 p.m. Saturday. Eliminations will begin at 7:30 that night. The track is located three miles west of Pocatello.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks and New Jersey Nets appear to be close to a deal in which they will exchange picks in Friday's NBA draft as part of a settlement that will excuse the Nets from a $3.2 million debt to the Knicks.

If the deal is completed, the Knicks will choose fourth and the Nets 10th in Friday's draft.

Mike Burke, president of the Knicks, said Wednesday that no deal has been signed as yet.

"We might have one, but there is none yet," Burke said. "Our lawyers have been talking for a couple of weeks trying to reach some kind of agreement, but we haven't signed any deal with them as yet."

In addition to the swap of draft picks, other provisions that have been discussed are for the Knicks to receive the first of the Nets' two opening round picks in the 1979 draft, and for the Knicks to give the Nets a player they have under contract who is not on the active roster, most likely Ticky Burden.

As collateral on the $4 million they still owe the Knicks for moving from Long Island to New Jersey last year, the Nets will put up their share of the new four-year television package. Payment on the $4 million is not scheduled to begin until the Nets move to the New Jersey Meadowlands in 1980.

In being relieved of the $3.2 million debt to the Knicks, Nets owner Roy Boe would be in a better position to sell his financially troubled franchise. Boe has been negotiating with three groups about the sale of the team. The leading candidates are Arthur Imparatore, New Jersey trucking executive, and Robert Ernstoff, a New York investment counselor. Also bidding is Ozzie Sims, a textile manufacturer and former owner of the ABA Spirits of St. Louis.

The $3.2 million was part of the Nets' indemnity being admitted to the NBA in the Knicks' territory. With an out-of-court settlement, the Knicks would drop their suit against the Nets for missing several payments on the debt.

Boe is also having financial problems with the New York Islanders of the NHL. Boe, the Islanders' managing general partner, is being sued by limited partner Thomas Thornton for mismanagement of funds.

Thornton has charged Boe with using $3 million in Islanders' funds to pay off debts incurred by the Nets. A hearing on the suit is scheduled for June 15.

Vilas into French Open semi's

PARIS (UPI) — Defending champion Guillermo Vilas of Argentina struggled to a 6-4, 2-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3 victory over Chilean Hans Gildemeister Wednesday to move into the semifinals of the $400,000 French Open tennis championships.

Vilas, seeded No. 2 behind Sweden's Bjorn Borg, needed three hours, 35 minutes to defeat 22-year-old Gildemeister in a center-court battle played before a crowd of 11,000 at the Roland Garros stadium.

Dick Stockton of Carrollton, Texas, produced one of his best clay-court efforts to defeat No. 5 seed Manuel Orantes of Spain 5-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 and John Vilas in the semis.

Orantes employed a strong net game to take the first set from 27-year-old Stockton. But the No. 10 seed took control in the second set, forcing Orantes back to the baseline with his powerful serve and hitting bullet-like passing shots when Orantes came to the net.

"That was the best clay court win, the best clay court effort, of my life," said Stockton, who added that he never expected to get as far as the semifinals.

"I have been serving well ever since I got here. I was just hoping to get my first set, move the ball around a little and hold my own serve. It worked quite well."

Gildemeister, who beat Vilas in straight sets on clay in a Davis-cup match in Argentina last March and uses both hands to wield his racket like a baseball bat, used every inch of the court to unsettle Vilas.

Gildemeister mixed his game up well with lobs and long shots to the baseline and broke serve in just the second game of the match—Vilas won that first set, but Gildemeister stormed back in the second, breaking serve in the sixth game at love and in the eighth at 15.

Vilas, showing uncharacteristic signs of impatience and glancing frequently at his Romanian coach and friend Ion Tiriac, double-faulted in that eighth game and hit the net twice with easy returns.

Vilas punished Gildemeister severely with his heavily topspinning forehand in the third set, but the Chilean came back for more in the fourth, breaking serve in the first game.

Gildemeister broke again at 30 in the ninth game, the clinch set when Vilas put an easy backhand into the net.

Vilas came back with a vengeance at the start of the 15th set, breaking serve at 15 in the first game and again at deuce in the third to lead 4-0.

Gildemeister broke back in the fourth but Vilas stayed ahead with a break at love in the fifth game.

Gildemeister retrived another game with a break in the eighth, but could not stand the pressure when Vilas, who led 49-15 at one point, broke through deuce to take the match.

"It was a very difficult match," Vilas, 25, said. "Quarterminals always are. It has been a very good shot. It's the same shot because he hits his backhand, and forehand the same way. You don't know where it's coming from."

In the men's doubles, Hank Pfister, Bakersfield, Calif., and Gene Mayer, Mendocino, New Jersey, upset Brian Gottfried, Bonaventure, Fla., and Mexico's Raul Ramirez 2-6, 6-1, 6-3 to reach the finals.

In the mixed doubles quarterfinals, Pat Botrom, Seattle, Wash., and Australian Bill Lloyd teamed to defeat Pam Teeguarden, Los Angeles, Calif., and Paraguay's Victor Pecci 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Track marks to fall in AAU nationals

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — World record marks are almost sure to be broken in the National AAU Track and Field Championships Thursday through Sunday at UCLA's Drake Stadium.

An outstanding field of sprinters is expected to lead the world record assault.

AAU champion Don Quarrie, who blazed to a record 10.12 clocking in the 100-meter in last year's meet, will be challenged by Houston McLean, Harvey Glenn, Clancy Edwards, James Laffon, Steve Williams and Steve Riddick.

Mac Wilkins, 27, the 1976 Olympic gold medalist, is out to break his own discus world record (222-4) before leaving on a European tour. Wilkins has thrown the discus over 230 feet on three occasions this year, and said conditions at UCLA are favorable for a record performance.

Four-time Olympic champion Al Oerter, making a comeback at age 41, said he is in great shape, has regained his world-class form, and could pose a stiff challenge to Wilkins.

UCLA's Mike Tully, who would like to settle his disputed world record pole vault of 18-4 1/2, will soar with vaulters Larry Jessee, Jeff Taylor, Earl Bell, Ralph Haynie and Don Baird.

Tully recently sent waves of controversy through the track world when an apparent world record jump was nullified because officials failed to measure the height accurately.

Women tracksters will also be swelled with the field led by Francie Larrieu, Sharon Dabney, Evelyn Ashford, Sue Brodack and Jane Haisl.

OSU first day golf leader

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Oklahoma State took the first day lead in the first NCAA golf championships.

Oklahoma State, runner-up last year, was picked as the probable winner this year in a pre-meet poll of coaches. Georgia was picked second.

Arizona State and Stanford were deadlocked at 283 with UCLA and Oral Roberts tied for fifth with 287.

Wake Forest was seventh with 288, Weber State eighth with 289 and three teams — Brigham Young, Florida and North Carolina — were knotted in ninth place with 291.

Steamboat geyser returns to eruptions

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK — Visitors to the Yellowstone National Park this summer will be treated with a breathtaking new, old geyser in the northern part of the Park.

At the end of March this year, park crews working in the Norris-Geyser-Basin heard an unusual noise and upon investigation, found that Steamboat Geyser, which had been inactive since 1969, was in the early stages of erupting once again.

When the geyser finally erupted, it sent a hot steam jet some 400 feet into the sky. That phase was followed by a steam phase which lasted some 36 hours.

Steamboat Geyser continues to erupt and is now considered the tallest geyser in the world. The famous Old Faithful Geyser reaches only 90 to 180 feet during the two to five minute eruptions.

In an area famous for over 10,000 geysers, only a few such as Giant, Giantess, Beehive and Grand Geyser, will reach 200 to 250 feet into the air. So far, Steamboat is the most spectacular geyser in the park.

Hot springs and geysers are found in only three other areas of the world, Iceland, New Zealand and Siberia in the Soviet Union.

The last major eruption cycle of Steamboat Geyser was from 1961 to 1969 when it suddenly became dormant.

The activity in the park is also causing another geyser to erupt. Daisy, located near Old Faithful, has recently started erupting again every 85 to 100 minutes with a tremendous amount of hot steam and water.

Along with the geysers, a new mud pot has developed near Black Dragon Cauldron.

Geysers are created in a special situation where water is heated to a high temperature and then flows to the surface through fissures in the earth's crust.

The results of the Hebgen Lake earthquake of August 17, 1959 resulted in profound changes in the pattern of eruptions of geysers in the park, especially those in the geyser-basins along the Firehole River.

That quake drastically effected several of the parks more famous geysers. Better known geysers such as Great Fountain, Daisy, Oblong, Castle and Riverside had their length of eruption shortened. They have continued to erupt nearly twice as frequently as they did prior to the quake.

Old Faithful was also affected by the quake, but the change was lengthening of time between eruptions by a few minutes.

Park geologists say they don't have a clear explanation of why the eruptions have been renewed at Steamboat but agree that the forces that cause the park to be a constant attraction will continue to do their work.

Spring chinook opening set

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho anglers will get a crack at spring chinook salmon beginning Saturday.

In a telephone conference call Tuesday, the Idaho Fish and Game Commission decided to open the season until July 16. It also lifted an earlier restriction on fishing in the Little Salmon River.

Commissioners reached their decision after learning a minimum of 37,000 chinook have passed Lower Granite Dam. A minimum of 37,000 chinooks had to pass over the dam to give promise for the season.

"There should be a lot of big ones in the run," said Dave Ortman, anonymous fisheries supervisor for the Department.

Ortman said the size of the run is an unexpected surprise.

It assures us that the required 5,000 adult chinooks will reach Rapid River Hatchery for a proper spawning operation, even with a June 10 opening of the Little Salmon, Ortman said.

Meantime, the Department said Indians will be allowed to fish a portion of Rapid River for spring chinook salmon, although closure of one portion of the stream will be strictly enforced.

Conservation officers were on duty at Rapid River and the department said they would arrest anyone in violations, including Indians.

The following is a list of open waters for spring chinook:

- Snake River arm of Lower Granite Reservoir and the Snake River upstream to 400 feet below Hells Canyon Dam.
- Clearwater River arm of Lower Granite and the Clearwater River upstream to the Middle Ford of Clearwater.
- North Fork Clearwater from Ahsahka highway bridge upstream to Redfish Lake Creek.
- Middle Ford Salmon River from its mouth upstream Boundary Creek and from Dagger Creek upstream to the confluence of Marsh Creek and Bear Valley Creek. Closed to all fishing from Boundary Creek upstream to Dagger Creek.
- Little Salmon River, 4 a.m. to 10 p.m.
- Lemhi River from its mouth upstream to the mouth of Hayden Creek.
- Middle Fork Salmon. Special hook and bait regulations listed in general fishing regulations for 1978 do not apply when fishing for salmon with hooks 5/16 inch or larger measured from point of the hook to its shank.

All waters and tributaries not specifically listed will remain closed to salmon fishing, the department said.

Scientist catching poachers through laboratory work

BOISE — Carol Prentice is finding ways to catch poachers without even going into the field or working a roadblock.

Prentice is a Fish and Game Biologist and uses a microscope and an exotic little saw called a microtome to discover how long ago animals were killed.

Using proper rules of evidence, she can discover whether an animal has been killed in the last two weeks, thus deciding if the animal was killed within a legal season. That operation is especially for those poachers who claim the meat they possess has just been thawed out.

Another part of her work involves a try at establishing the exact part of the range an animal got its start in life in, using the same techniques.

That particular aspect of her work could provide valuable information about the migration habits of deer and elk in the state.

The thin slices of material such as teeth and horns give the age of animals. The information is then fed into a computer for use at a later date if needed.

She received her B.S. degree from the College of Idaho and says she enjoys the job because it offers a chance to use her skills as a biologist and a botanist.

New Geyser

BOISE (UPI) — If a hunter applies to hunt bighorn this year in Idaho, he can't put in for any other controlled permit.

The Fish and Game Department's experimental program is designed to increase the hunter's chances of getting a bighorn permit. Sixty percent of residents who answered the department's bighorn questionnaire said they prefer a permit for something other than bighorn.

From that survey, the Department concluded that most past permit holders lacked interest in trying the difficult hunt but applied because it didn't cost anything.

Last year, about 15 percent of the successful applicants failed to pick up their permits, and a Fish and Game official said many first time hunters and a botanist.

TOWERING far above the trees is the newest reactivated geyser in Yellowstone. Steamboat Geyser in the northwest section of the park began activity in March.

Other draws limited for bighorn applicants tried it for a day or two and gave up because of the unexpected tough conditions. If the new policy is effective, the department said it plans to use it on distribution of other controlled hunt permits.

High country offers pond hideaway

By DON BRESSETTE SR.

From fishing that just less than a day's driving distance of the Magic Valley population centers is the only fair to good. Oh, some times you'll find a hot spot for trout, only to return the next time to find your favorite fishing hole with nearly as many people as there are at the opening day of the Twin Falls County Fair.

Admittedly, such a situation can be very discouraging. So, I for one decided to do something about the fishing elbow to elbow. For truly good trout fishing, you'll have to get away from civilization and perhaps walk a little; but once you get there, you'll have top-notch trout fishing all to yourself.

"When in the heck is such a place?" you ask. I can answer that in two words—beaver ponds. Most of the Idaho high country mountain streams have their share of beaver ponds, large and small.

There are some beaver ponds in the South Hills and nice ponds on Trail Creek, east of Sun Valley. However, these are pretty well fished.

For truly all-to-yourself fishing, try the many high-country beaver ponds at Seafom.

There are many beaver ponds all through the Seafom area, including the Rapid River. Loads of trout-filled lakes plus, such as Josephus, as well as the Seafom of chain lakes.

You can drive to some of them but have to hoof it into the more remote beaver ponds. All this is only a day's drive from the Magic Valley.

The Seafom area lies about 25 miles northwest of Stanley. The area is pretty rugged and there are no stations available—so drivers better gas up before heading out from Stanley.

The gravel road is steep in places but is maintained all the way to the Seafom Ranger Station and beyond to Float Creek Campground northwest of the ranger station. Forest service maps of the area are available and rangers can direct you to the lakes and ponds.

Last September while elk hunting in the area was when I decided to try for trout in those lovely beaver ponds. You know the old saying, variety is the spice of life. Anyway, the elk were making me look like the east end of a horse heading west. The elk at Seafom are smart. So, after a couple of days of playing hide and seek with them I decided to head up the trail to the beaver ponds to try my luck with the trout.

It took most of the day for me to hike in to the high country but the trip was worthwhile with the beautiful forests and snowcapped mountains around.

Beaver-pond trout generally run about eight to ten inches long with some going up to 12 and 15 inches. The size of the ponds and the stream feeding them and the presence of beaver make a difference in their size.

The streams offer good spawning beds for speckled brook trout. Rainbow and cutthroat are also found there, although the latter two species aren't so plentiful as the brookies.

While bait is a good bet, lures and flies are equally effective and offer a challenge for the more competitive angler.

The small streams associated with the beaver ponds also offer excellent fishing. However, considerable precaution in approaching must be used, as the trout spook very easily. But once you have mastered the techniques, you'll soon begin landing the colorful trout.

When fishing the small streams between the dams, I personally find it effective to work from a bend in the stream. That way I can cast lures or bait downstream into quiet, deep-water pools without spooking the fish.

Believe me, no fish could ever match the flavor or texture of those beautiful high-country beaver-pond trout.

Fishing hints: by Swen

Fishing report: What were the first week results?

Magpie Reservoir — was fair. The fish were in the 1 to 2 pound range. Mr. and Mrs. Benton, Twin Falls report limit catches, trolling. Bank fishermen report spotted catches.

Elvie Reservoir — went dry last fall and the reservoir was re-stocked. Fishing reported slow with small fish.

Merwin Reservoir — remained about half full last fall. Fish were reported in the 10-12 inch size with a few up to 16 inches. One lunker of 5 lbs. reported to Swen.

Little Wood and Fish Creek Reservoirs — went dry last fall and the remaining production is in the 8 to 10 inch size.

Opportunity Lake — remains closed this year to allow growth for the bass and bluegill. Federal money was used to recondition the lake bed and new deeper channels were dredged to provide better conditions. Swen looks for some fine fishing there next year and years to come.

Edwards Reservoir — has been slow, but I predict that the croppie fishing will come around the 10th of June or this weekend. I suggest fishing in the upper part of the lake. The farther up you go the better the croppie fishing. I have found that the fishing slows the first few weeks after the water is released for irrigation. But the next few weeks should provide the best fishing. Bass fishing in the shallows will pick up in the water warms.

Beaver Reservoir — was fair the opening week. I did see some catches from the bank of 1 to 2 lb. fish. The wind the past week slowed the fishing, but this weekend should see an increase in fishing pressure and should produce well. The lake had a fine carry-over of water last fall.

If you like to take a float trip with all the thrills of up-north, I recommend the WHITE WATER RUN put on by the Ogden County Democrats, July 4th. The trip starts at Lower Salmon reservoir and will end at the Bliss Bridge. For information call 536-6336 or any Gooding County Democrat can give you information. Sounds like a blast.

Handgunners to hold shoot

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Silhouette Shooters club will hold a club shoot Saturday beginning at 1 p.m. at the Jerome Gun Club range north of Jerome.

The range is located six and one half miles north of the light on Highway 33 and the turnout to the range is at milepost 64.

The club was organized in May to provide local law-abiding handgun owners an outlet to use their weapons.

Those who enter the meet will be ranked according to their ability and will shoot at metal cutouts of pigs, chickens, turkeys and rams at distances from 50 to 200 meters.

You also are afforded the protection and convenience of a main disconnect breaker which shuts off the entire panel with a single switch. This is our recommended panel for the average three-bedroom home. In this area where electrical power is one of the most economical energies, it is probable that electricity will be or become the method of heating. This panel provides plenty of room for the circuits necessary to accommodate individual room heat and all the branch circuits required to adequately service the modern home. There will be enough free space left to add circuits for future requirements, insuring that you will probably never outgrow this panel. If your power needs would increase drastically you can add to this panel without replacing any part that exists.

Unhappy lady heard

DEAR ABBY: Living in Los Angeles and being without a car. I often take the bus. I have met the nicest people at bus stops, but last week I struck up a conversation with a lady by saying, "Hello. Isn't it a lovely day?" She then proceeded to tell me that she had a steel peg in her knee because she had been hit by a car and dragged 50 feet, and how her family and friends couldn't care less that she had to walk with a cane, and how horrible and indifferent most people are in general. I was sorry I even spoke to her, Abby. I learned a long time ago that nobody likes to hear about your troubles. Why couldn't that woman just thank God that she was alive and tell people how lucky she is? JIM IN HOLLYWOOD

The couple plans a September wedding.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR JIM: Because that woman was full of anger. Look at it this way, Jim: You performed a real service by letting her vent some of her hostility. Thank God that you have your outlook on life — not hers.

DEAR ABBY: WONDERING asked, "Do doctors believe in sending a condolence message after a patient has died, or do they just send bills?" I wonder if patients' families realize how much of a personal loss a doctor feels when one of his patients dies. During a prolonged illness, some physicians feel as close to their patients as the patients' own friends and relatives do.

Perhaps the doctor doesn't send a condolence message when a patient dies because he feels it has been his loss, too.

M.D. IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR M.D.: I know that what you say is true. Read on for another letter concerning physicians and their so-called "money-hungry" attitudes:

DEAR ABBY: I just want people to know that nice doctors do exist. My wife died 10 months ago, and after her death I received a beautiful letter of sympathy from her doctor and his staff. Not only that, but when the doctor found out that our health insurance covered only 80 percent of his bill, he told me to forget the other 20 percent.

GRATEFUL IN OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Do you know the origin of the Swiss yodel? Let me tell you: In pre-yodel days, a Swiss native non-Swiss suggested to the Swiss that they tip for services rendered. In case you don't know it, the Swiss are reputed to be the world's most tightfisted people. Well, this disturbing and outrageous suggestion swiftly brought forth from the Swiss a loud, strange and new outcry.

This was born the yodel!

PORTLAND, MAINE

DEAR PORTLAND: You'd yodel, too, if you have been accustomed to having the "tip" included in the cost of the service, and then were told that an additional gratuity was expected.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Animals trying to break into zoo

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee County Zoo has an unusual problem. Wild animals are trying to break into, not out of, the zoo.

The fences surrounding the zoo are meant to keep animals in. But Zoo Director George Spidel said that in the last week three wild deer have voluntarily taken up residence on zoo grounds.

He said a white-tailed deer dashed through an open gate last week. Staff members tried to shoot it back out but it made its way into the woods in the heart of the grounds.

Spidel, never one to pass up a chance for another resident for his menagerie, said he instructed zoo workers to leave the deer alone. Since then two more deer have been allowed in when they were seen waiting impatiently at zoo gates.

"The more the merrier," he said. "It would be nice to have a wild herd here."

Deer are spotted occasionally in the residential area surrounding the zoo and in other parts of the city. They might have been attracted to the zoo by its own deer herd.

Hendersons celebrate

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. C. Roy Henderson celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary recently.

They were honored with a dinner at the Holiday Inn, hosted by their sons, Ashton Henderson, Pocatello, and C. William Henderson, Orange, Calif., and their wives.

The honored couple has made their home in Twin Falls the past 52 years.

Firefighters learn to talk with hands

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — A dozen firefighters at Wichita's Station No. 1, more accustomed to using their hands to hold bucking fire hoses or climb ladders, are learning sign language.

"It's something I want to keep up with, because I don't want anybody hurt because of something I didn't know," Blackwell said.

Laughlin acknowledged some deaf persons might answer firefighter's questions in sign language, too, quick to be understood.

FROZEN SPRING SALAD
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup sour cream
2 3-ounce packages cream cheese
1 can mandarin oranges, drained
1 1-pound can sliced peaches, drained
1 can pitted dark sweet cherries, drained
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup whipping cream or topping, whipped

Soften gelatin in cold water in small metal pan. Place over hot water to dissolve gelatin. Combine dissolved gelatin, sugar, mustard, lemon juice, and sour cream and beat until well blended. Chill until mixture thickens and begins to set. Beat until smooth and fold in fruits, marshmallows and whipped cream or topping.

Pour into two one-quart-size refrigerator trays or clean round No. 2 or 2 1/2 size fruit can. Freeze.

To serve, unmold, slice and arrange on crisp lettuce leaves.

Top with whipped cream or sour cream if desired.
Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Calories and alcohol

Dear Dr. Lamb,
I'm 49 and about 40 pounds overweight. I've gained the weight in the past two years after my menopause started. It's mostly because I'm enjoying life too much. The children are grown up and gone and I'm becoming lazy.
I start out in the mornings just full of energy, but a couple of hours later (usually in the middle of a big project) I feel tired and don't really care if I finish the job or not.
When my husband comes home we enjoy cocktails before dinner. I'm not a dessert eater. The usual fare is meat, salad and cooked vegetables. Do you have any suggestions for my losing weight? Or do I force myself to keep working whether I feel like it or not and cut out the cocktails?

Lawrence E. Lamb M.D.

Dear Reader,
Your own advice is a good start: I notice you say you are not a dessert eater, but desserts are not as big a problem for many people as alcohol. People just don't seem to realize that alcohol contains more calories per gram than any other food except pure fat. It contains seven calories per gram. Alcohol is a major factor in the national obesity problem in adults. Many people get over 20 percent of their daily calories from alcohol and some much more than that.
The calories in alcohol provide no health benefits at all. Alcohol provides no vitamins, minerals or bulk for your nutrition.
You need a diet plan to help you gradually lose the excess fat you have accumulated. If you are gaining at the rate of 40 pounds every two years you must reverse the trend or you will be a walking bilmp — If you can still walk. I'm sending you the Health Letter number 47, Weight Losing Diet. Others who want this plan can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10101.
That tired feeling may be something else. It could be related to your diet. Many people who eat mostly carbohydrates, particularly concentrated only sweets, for breakfast have mid-morning fatigue. Change your daily meals around and have more protein, such as fish, for breakfast. Divide your breakfast allotment and eat half of it in the middle of the morning. Cut down or eliminate coffee and avoid sweets. Limiting sweets and starches may also help you control your weight.
Dear Dr. Lamb,
I am crowding 60 and have had a desk job for many years. In the last six months, just walking 50 yards to and from where I park my car, I get terrible pains equally in both leg calves. I tried changing shoe heel heights, sneakers, arch supports, Ben Gay and hot foot baths. all to no avail. Can you please give me advice?
Dear Reader,
Yes, You need an examination by a doctor. You may have what is called intermittent claudication. This is associated with calf pain with walking and may mean poor circulation to your legs. This is sufficiently likely that you should stop trying self medication and get professional advice. If that is not the problem perhaps your doctor can pinpoint the cause and help you.

Teachers quizzed on basics

HOUSTON (UPI) — They squeezed into sixth grade desks, admitted they had not brought No. 2 pencils and nervously eyed a multiple-choice test normally given to 12th graders.
It was a case of the teacher-applicant learning how the other half lives.
It was the first day the Houston Independent School District began administering an official competency test for prospective teachers. Applicants showed up Monday unaware they would be quizzed on "basic skills."
"I never expected anything like this," Angela Johnson, a recent graduate, said as she emerged from a temporary classroom building at an elementary school.
"When I called this morning they mentioned something about a test but they sounded so casual. I really wished they could have given us more information, like why we're taking this and what it is supposed to tell about us."
The school board voted last month to tighten teacher hiring standards by requiring some proof teachers know the material they will be passing along to students.
Robert McCain, assistant superintendent in personnel, said the applicants' scores would only be a part of the hiring decision.
"We're looking for basic skill competencies and however we can find that is what we're after," McCain said. "We're not interested in making people uptight. But testing is a part of school work and if a teacher is nervous about it might be a disadvantage in dealing with kids who have to take them all the time."
In the 90 minutes applicants spent bent over test books, they encountered questions on spelling, sentence structure, common denominators and the new math.
Most finished on time.
Elizabeth Macias, a teacher from Hgar, said it felt strange taking a test instead of giving one.

Mary Beard, Wayne Ingram wed in Kimberly ceremony

KIMBERLY — Mary Beth Beard and Wayne Ingram were united in marriage by Bishop James Wright May 5, at the Kimberly L.D.S. church.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Beard of Kimberly, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ingram of Paul.
Mrs. James Wright was organist for the occasion. Richard Beard offered prayer.
The bride designed and made her gown of white chiffon over white satin with bell sleeves and lace trim. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses and blue carnations.
Matron of honor was Bette Embree, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Brenda Wright and Melodie Houburg. Flower girls were Heather and Amy Beard, nieces of the bride. Ralph Ingram served his brother as best man with Mark Ingram, also brother to the bridegroom, and Bud Batten as groomsmen. Ringbearer was Damon Beard, nephew of the bride.
A reception was held following the ceremony in the Cultural Hall. The wedding cake was made by Mrs. George Clawson and centered the bride's table. Guests were seated at quartet tables covered with white lace over blue, baskets of blue and white flowers were the centerpieces.
Freda Beard served punch and wedding cake from the bride's table assisted by Marjean Clawson, Hazel Allen, Sally Clawson and Wanda Allen.
Karmelle Whitaker registered guests. Others assisting at the reception were Tammy Ingram, Pam Ingram, Elaine Moulton and Pamela Moulton.
A special guest for the occasion was Mrs. R.S. Beard, grandmother of the bride from Teton, Idaho.
A wedding rehearsal dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ingram.
After a honeymoon, the couple will live in Twin Falls where both are employed.

Couple recites promises

WENDELL — Donna Lynn Hillis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hillis, Wendell, was united in marriage to Max Checketts, Provo, Utah, May 4 in the Salt Lake City Latter Day Saints Temple.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Checketts, Pierce, Colo.

A reception for the newlyweds was held May 5 in the Wendell LDS Church and an open house was held May 6 in Rebur.

The bride wore a gown made of crepe with an overlay of satpeau with a plintucked front and sleeves with six-inch cuffs.

She carried tiny yellow roses, blue cornflowers, white daisies, blue mass roses and baby's breath made of silk.

Eileen McCarty, Basin City, Wash, was matron of honor and Mickey Dance, Pattie Prestwich and Charlene Jenks, all Wendell; Tammy Checketts, Salt Lake City, and Mrs. Kerry Karlson, Provo, Utah, were bridesmaids.

Kim Duncan, Centerville, Utah, was best man and Chad Hillis, Wendell, and Thad and Russell Checketts, Pierce, were ushers.

Flower girls were Ramié and Kimberly Park.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered blue and yellow cake topped with a miniature temple, real yellow mums and white daisies.

Reception assistants were Jolene Checketts, Salt Lake City, guest book; Lisa Cutter, Mrs. Terry Park and Brandon Park, gifts, and Blake, Andy and Shawn Hillis and Bryon Park, servers.

Following a wedding trip to Disneyland, Calif., the newlyweds are at home in Provo.

South certainly wanted to get to seven spades. His partner had specially bid game by himself and had shown the three missing aces. He would also show one king if South bid the follow-up five notrump, but South had a better way to bid his hand. He bid six clubs to tell North to bid seven spades if he held two of the three top honors. But North failed to oblige and South knew that the enemy held the king of trumps.

South was also a careful player. He noticed that even six spades required careful play to guard against a three-zero trump break. So South made the safety play to guard against this.

He won the club in his own hand and led a low trump. West played the nine and South played dummy's 10. We didn't mind if East got to score with a singleton king. The bid was six, not seven. He did mind about losing two tricks if West held king-jack-nine. This is just what West held, but after that 10-spot play West could only collect one trump trick.

Ask the Experts

A Dakota reader picked up two successive hands with no high-card points at all and wants to know if that is entitled to be mentioned in the Guinness Book of Records.

We doubt it. The chance of holding zero high-card points is .00039 or almost four in a thousand. The chance of getting two in a row just over 13 in a million, so we are sure other players have been equally unlucky. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Toastmistress conference to open Friday in Burley

BURLEY — Ai Yokoto from California, president of International Toastmistress Clubs, will be a guest at the Snake River region annual conference this weekend at the Ramada Inn in Burley.

Some 200 Toastmistress members from clubs in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah and Canada are expected to gather for the three-day session which opens Friday. Theme will be "Climb Every Mountain."

Conducting the conference sessions Friday through Sunday will be Gini Heintzman, Union Gap, Wash., regional president. Mary Arrington, assisted by Virginia Blitzenberg, both Twin Falls, are coordinating arrangements.

Registration will begin Friday noon under the direction of Veda Shufeldt, Minico club. Ellie Praegitzer, also Minico, will be in charge of the hospitality room which will be open throughout the afternoon.

Friday evening's activities begin with a dinner with business session set for Saturday morning. There will be afternoon workshops Saturday on a variety of communication topics, with a speech contest and installation of officers in the evening.

The Burley club is in charge of the Saturday night banquet, which will have as its theme "Follow Every Rainbow."

The conference concludes Sunday morning with a workshop, inspirational service and awards brunch.

Yokoto will address the conference, presenting a workshop and installing new officers.

The speech contest, a tradition at Toastmistress gatherings, pits winners of council speech contests, each of whom previously has won a local club contest. The winner of the regional meet will compete next month in San Francisco during the International convention.

Cathie Hopper, Jerome, will represent the local Council 7 at the weekend regional meet.

Marjorie Kramer, Twin Falls, is chairman of the regional speech contest.

LaRue Cheney, Burley, is president of the host Council 7 with Lillian Jensen, also of the Burley club, regional secretary.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a good time to make concrete plans that could mean added income in the future. You can now rise above obstacles and delays by using common sense. Forget self-doubt.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not a day for a good time you want to have, so arrange for it tomorrow instead. Don't neglect business affairs of importance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study conditions at home and do whatever will make them more ideal. Make arrangements now for weekend activities.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do whatever will improve your standing with close ties. Don't neglect important correspondence and other communications.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to study monetary affairs that will improve your position in life. Lend a helping hand where needed most.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Improving your appearance now can help you in business and personal life. A new project needs more study before going ahead with it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to meet with trusted advisers and improve the quality of your life. Come to a better understanding with mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Know what your personal longings are and how best to attain them. The evening can be fine from a social standpoint.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't procrastinate any longer in handling those civic duties you have committed yourself to. Avoid a troublemaker.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good time to make arrangements necessary for expansion in the near future. Improve your appearance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure you meet your obligations by paying your bills on time. You have to pay more attention to your mate to gain more accord.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do whatever is needed to improve your relationship with associates. Study national affairs carefully and gain respect of others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can be more efficient by using modern appliances. By being more poised you can gain increased happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will possess fine talents but will require encouragement from others to continue doing good work. Give right religious and ethical training early in life but don't force sports. A fine scientist in this chart.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

A dictionary published just seven years ago in the People's Republic of China purposely left blank the definition space after the word "love." Why? Inquires a client. For about 10 years there, love was regarded as a decadent bourgeois ailment. Recently, though, since Mao's death, the word "love" seems to be coming back, according to the correspondents.

That topology of colonial times, Samuel Adams, founded an outfit called the Calkers Club. A committee of sorts, its job was to recommend candidates for political office. Our Language-man says a corruption of the club's name gave us our word "caucus."

Rarely, if ever, does anybody from the first childhood through the second ever, throw a tantrum when alone, says that student of human nature, Leland Williams.

TV FOR THE RETIRED

Q. "What's the principle pastime of people over age 65?"
A. Watching television, according to the surveytakers. It's sad. Not that Seasoned Citizens do so. That what they have to watch mostly is put out for children. Just think of it! To live through it all, surviving poverty in most cases and even hunger in some, injuries and deaths in the family, career despondencies and the fractures in love, stacking year upon year of realizations after quarantines, reconciliations after conflicts, wisdom after experience, only to wind up in front of that asinine blub with nothing to look at for the moment but "The Gong Show!"

WEIGHT AND SEE

A female client who says she was considerably overweight reports the lost 36 pounds after she put the bathroom scale right in front of the kitchen refrigerator door and left it there.

Latest report from the medical statisticians says the average physician works 52 hours a week. Median income, $62,800. Top earners, obstetricians and gynecologists.

Nor should be forgotten that roadside share-cram message of old which reads "I would be more fun to go by air... if they could put... these signs up there."

Humans for the last two centuries have been killing off other animals at the rate of one species a year.

Miss Skinner, Greener wed

TWIN FALLS — Sarah Ellen Skinner, daughter of Mrs. Peggy E. Skinner, Vancouver, Wash., and Thomas G. Skinner, Caldwell, exchanged nuptial vows with Gary Arthur Greener on April 15.

The double-ring ceremony was performed in St. Mark's Church in Boise by Father Foglietti.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Greener, Twin Falls.

The bride wore a gown of organza with details of lace. The bodice was fashioned with a yoke edged in lace that also marked the shoulders. The long full sleeves were accented with lace as was the raised waistline. The full skirt and chapel train were founced.

Her veil was attached to a headpiece detailed with the same applique. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Mary Skinner, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Martha Paul and Susie Fender of Sacramento, Calif., Shirley Fender, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Brenda Joffer, Fayette.

Kecia Reynolds, niece of the bride, and Tallana Greener, niece of the bridegroom, were flower girls.

Marc Reynolds, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Candlelighters were Sean Yates of Boise and Charlotte Oberst, Nampa.

Lynn Greener, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Bruce Turner of Rupert, Dennis Keegan and Mark Bulcher of Twin Falls and Brian Wong of Boise.

Following a reception in Boise and an open house April 16 in Twin Falls, the bride and groom honeymooned on a Caribbean Cruise.

The newlyweds are 1977 graduates of Idaho State University College of Pharmacy and live in Vancouver, where they are employed as pharmacists.

A SPECIAL KIND OF YAMAHA

650 Special. The traditional model features the reliable 4-stroke vertical twin. It's a great urban-cruiser. For years, this simple 410cc overhead-cam powerplant has been a favorite of motorcyclists. Thanks to Yamaha engineering, its 653cc is a virtually vibration-free. And that, along with the custom look, means good vibes for everyone.
