

200-year-old lobster escapes melted butter

WESTPORT, Conn. (UPI) — A 200-year-old lobster named Duke was spared the indignity of the dinner table Sunday and tossed back into Long Island Sound. Duke, scooped up by a commercial fisherman, had taken up lodging at the Sound Island Lobster Co.

His age, calculated by the University of Rhode Island using a formula based on weight, made him a local curiosity.

School children tried to stop by to oggle all 3 feet of him until a customer, Dominick Franz of Ansonia, thought he would make a nifty centerpiece at a clam bake for 25 or 30 people. He bought the 24-pound Duke, who had been languishing on a shrimp diet, for $76.50.

Word got out, and people began to wonder about the propriety of eating a lobster that had evaded captivity since 1772. So did the weekly newspaper Fairpress, which in a series of editorials urged readers to help save Duke with donations.

About $300 came in to the Sound Island Lobster Co. to pay the cost of lobster boat outing, said Mrs. Margaret Manchester, who occasionally helps her son David Robotham, 26, the market owner, take care of customers.

Franz said David Barguson, Fairpress editor, asked him last week if he would be willing to exchange Duke for a number of smaller lobsters. Franz said he agreed.

At about 9 a.m. Sunday, Robotham and Franz joined the store's lobsterman on a small boat which churned three or four miles out into Long Island Sound and dropped Duke back into 200 feet of ocean water.

Franz himself lowered Duke into the depths before returning home to start the clam bake with about 22 smaller lobsters. He was confident he'd make it, Franz said. "He was in pretty good shape."

Robotham was unavailable to comment. His mother said the money not used in Duke's rescue will be returned.

"It's all a happy ending," said Mrs. Manchester.

Buhl trucker drops 500 feet, lives

Andrew Wagner's hat rests on crumpled door of his truck as it was found in Salmon Falls Creek

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Andrew J. "Andy" Wagner thought about death twice Sunday morning.

The first time it happened came at the top of a Lilly Grade as his out-of-control truck filled with corn was careening off a 500-foot cliff six miles south of Castletown.

The second time occurred seconds later, at the bottom of the cliff.

Wagner was lying face up on the roof of the crushed, upside-down cab in knee-deep creek water. The air smelled strongly of the diesel fuel and crankcase oil dripping on him.

The 18-year-old Buhl resident was reported in fair condition at Madge Valley Memorial Hospital in Twin Falls Sunday night with several crushed vertebrae in his neck and a scalp laceration.

According to the Twin Falls County Sheriff's office, Wagner's truck brakes simply went out at the top of the grade and the northbound truck went out of control about 7:20 a.m. Sunday.

He and passenger Michael Hahn, 20, of Buhl, tumbled over the edge in the truck cab, with Hahn being thrown out shortly after going over the edge.

Hahn suffered only minor cuts, according to the sheriff's department.

Hahn, a friend of Wagner's who just went along for what was to have been a quiet ride.

Wagner, during a telephone interview from his hospital bed, said he had slowed the truck — loaded with 25 tons of corn — at the top of the grade, as usual, when he noticed it wasn't handling quite right.

"By then, I was already committed to the grade. There wasn't any more (brake) pedal. I went down the grade and hit on one side of the canyon wall, the right side, and it didn't seem to slow none."

"Then, I hit on the left and it didn't slow up. I went around a corner, and the trailer went off first and pulled the truck with it."

It was then that Wagner briefly had a chance to reflect that he was going to die.

"All I remember is — bounding around in the cab. My passenger (Hahn) went through the windshield just as we went over the edge and he landed on the ground halfway down the hill."

"It all happened so fast. All I could think about was things (inside the cab) hitting me," the driver said.

Conscious the entire time, Wagner said he didn't see Hahn being ejected through the windshield and he doesn't know how many times the vehicle rolled before landing on its top in the creek, or how long the fall took.

Although he couldn't believe he was still alive, Wagner said he did know when the truck hit bottom: "It just stopped rolling and started sinking down further. I never thought of drowning and I was lying on the roof, which was in the creek. I was lying in the water."

But about that time, Wagner admits he worried some about the dripping diesel fuel and crankcase oil igniting and burning to death.

"I was pinned for quite a while. I moved some stuff around and I could move around then," he said. "It took 'em about an hour to get me out."

Wagner, who has driven trucks over Lilly Grade for about 2 1/2 years, quickly answers an inquiry on when he will drive again. "As soon as I feel well enough to bounce around."

"Will he drive over Lilly Grade again?"

Not so quickly, he answers, "I don't know."

Whiskey-loving hijacker arrested

OULU, Finland (UPI) — Finnish police Sunday burst into the home of a whiskey-loving hijacker who apparently decided to renege on his promise to peacefully surrender for taking an airliner on a 17-hour Odyssey of nearly 3,000 miles.

Police with guns drawn seized Aarno Lamminparras, 37, in his living room before he could resist and recovered nearly all of the $208,000 in ransom he received.

Lamminparras, a bankrupt lumber salesman, seized a Finnair Super Caravelle airliner with 43 other persons aboard on a flight Saturday from his home in Oulu to Helsinki, 337 miles south.

There were no security checks at Oulu Airport when Lamminparras boarded Finnair flight 405 armed with a loaded Walther 7.65mm pistol.

Witnesses said he appeared drunk and drank a beer before asking to enter the cockpit to look at the view.

He then pulled the pistol on the pilot, starting a 17-hour ordeal that began and ended in Oulu with three stops in Helsinki and a side-trip to Amsterdam.

Lamminparras released 34 people on the initial stop in Helsinki and then forced the plane to take off with 10 hostages plus a Finnair lawyer he ordered sent aboard to handle the legal aspects of the ransom handover.

Lamminparras finally agreed to surrender peacefully Monday morning as long as he was allowed to spend 24 hours at home with his wife.

A chauffeur-driven limousine drove him home from the airport.

But two policemen broke through the locked front door of the house in a middle-class suburb of Oulu, on the Gulf of Bothnia, and overpowered the man in his living room as he was talking to two other policemen outside the back of the house.

Police said all but $3,750 of the ransom was recovered, and they believed the missing money was hidden in the man's house.

Police said they had tapped the hijacker's telephone and became convinced after listening to some of his calls that he would not keep his bargain to surrender Monday morning.

Solar termed fastest growing energy field in United States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy Secretary James Schlesinger says solar energy "may soon be the fastest growing part of our energy supply," but must be "something that can be fitted into the family budget."

Syrian rockets bomb Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The heaviest fighting since the Lebanese civil war exploded in Christian east Beirut Monday with virtually continuous Syrian rocket and shellfire shattering a 24-hour cease-fire.

No casualty figures were immediately available and it was not clear who started the latest round in a war of attrition between Syrian peace-keeping troops and Israeli-armed Christian right-wing militias.

But shortly after 2:30 a.m. (8:30 p.m. EDT Sunday), sporadic small-arms fire suddenly exploded into heavy-weapons salvos, shattering the cease-fire agreed to Saturday by President Elias Sarkis and Syrian President Hafez Assad.

"In an interview in this week's Business Week magazine, Schlesinger said, 'obviously solar has a great attraction, environmentally speaking. It does not put out any combustion products.... There is no waste disposal problem.'"

And he noted that while oil and gas supplies are limited and coal "has its own problems," the sun "is an inexhaustible source of energy."

"But we must make solar energy — like any other energy source — something that can be fitted into the family budget," he said.

Schlesinger said mass production could significantly cut the costs of solar collectors. He also proposed tax code and building code changes to encourage solar development.

One problem he said is that conventional fuel can be written off immediately as an expense item, while solar equipment is a capital investment that is written off only gradually.

"This way the tax code tends to discriminate against solar energy," he said. "Fuel and solar have to be put on a comparable basis, and therefore we should study very carefully the expensing of solar equipment in the same way that we expense fuel oil. In a sense, that represents a discrimination in favor of solar energy, but I think the nation is ready for it."

Schlesinger said building codes would have to be changed to prevent homeowners from being penalized for adding solar equipment.

"Most people worry about front-end financing when they purchase homes," he said. "Even if it is in the national interest and it increases the capital value of the home, there is some reluctance to subject yourself to additional financial penalties."

Schlesinger said solar energy "may soon be the fastest growing part of our energy supply," especially since the public is enthusiastic about it.

But he said "a danger for the industry is that through poor performance or exaggerated expectations, it will dispel this high measure of public enthusiasm. We need to maintain that enthusiasm."

President promises anti-inflation fight

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — President Carter Sunday said he soon will introduce a tough new program involving balanced and reasonable sacrifices to control inflation.

"Opening the 26th Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce at Disney World, Carter said the program is an essential part of America's contribution to global economic stability."

"I will soon announce a tough new program to bring inflation under control," he said.

The president gave no details of his anti-inflation program, except to say it would require "balanced and reasonable sacrifices" from the American people.

Other responsibilities of his administration, he said, are to reduce the nation's dependence on imported energy and expansion of foreign trade and investment.

Bus driver killed in New Jersey crash

Bus, truck crash kills four in New Jersey

CRANBURY, N.J. (UPI) — Four persons, including a teen-age member of the Alvin Alley dance troupe, have died after a tractor-trailer truck crashed head-on into a chartered bus.

New Jersey State Police said in other persons were injured, eight of them seriously. In the three-vehicle accident about 12 miles northeast of Trenton late Saturday night.

Authorities said 11 members of the dance troupe's road team were returning to New York shortly before midnight following a performance at Rider College in Lawrence, N.J. The truck crashed through a guardrail on the New Jersey Turnpike, hit a car, then collided head-on with the bus.

The victims were identified as Judi DeJean, 17, the member of the dance company; Joseph Lenhart, 61, of Newark, Del., the truck driver; George Plunkett, 44, of College Point, N.Y., the bus driver, and John Turner, 20, of Washington, Iowa, a passenger in the car.

The injured persons were taken to local hospitals. Ten of them were treated and released.

A buy-out of Egypt?

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iraq Sunday suggested that the Arab oil states buy Egypt out of the Camp David accord with a multibillion-dollar, 10-year deal package, the official Iraqi news agency said.

Iraqi authorities also declared readiness to supply troops for the Syrian front lines and called for an Arab summit to discuss "steps to be taken against any attempt at an individual agreement that might harm the rights of the Arabs."

The ruling Revolution Command Council suggested a $90 billion war chest — $9 billion a year for 10 years — much of which theoretically would be earmarked to "supply" Egypt with its material needs if it abandons the Camp David agreements.

According to the news agency, Iraq suggested dividing the burden of footing the yearly $9 billion cost of the war fund as follows: Saudi Arabia $3 billion, Kuwait $1.5 billion, Libya $1.5 billion, Iraq $1 billion, the United Arab Emirates $1 billion, Algeria $500,000 and Qatar $500,000.

Korchnoi wins game

BAGUIO, Philippines (UPI) — Challenger Viktor Korchnoi, clinging to a slim hope of victory, scored an upset win over world Soviet titleholder Anatoly Karpov Sunday in the 28th game of their championship battle.

The win put Korchnoi back into possible contention for a championship victory, although he still trails Karpov by a 3-2 margin. The first man to win six games is the champion.

"I'll keep on fighting," Korchnoi vowed to reporters after his victory.

Karpov, his temperament matching his ice-blue suit, made no statement. He walked coolly out of the playing hall and took a car to his guarded Baguio Country Club hotel suite.

The champion needs just one more victory to retain the title he won in 1975 by default, as well as the $550,000 first prize.

War rumors rumble across Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — The National Guard Sunday called on residents of Managua to ignore an "unfounded and ill-intentioned rumor" that women and children should flee to escape another Sandinista guerrilla attack.

Police Chief Nicolas Valle Salinas, a National Guard infantry colonel, said in a communiqué broadcast over an emergency national radio hookup "the only purpose of this unfounded and ill-intentioned rumor is to commit acts of vandalism and loot abandoned homes."

He said the National Guard is patrolling the capital and can guarantee peace and security.

Rumors circulating in this city of 500,000 said another Sandinista guerrilla attack is coming; this time concentrating on the capital. The source of the rumors could not be pinpointed and they differed as to the timing of the supposed offensive.

Last Friday, while President Anastasio Somoza was delivering a nationwide television and radio address, all police stations around Managua were placed on alert but there were only a few isolated bombing incidents in violation of the nightly curfew.

Diplomatic sources predicted that the U.S.-sponsored mediation in the Nicaraguan political crisis, accepted in principle by Somoza as well as the opposition, will not get underway until the end of this week.

They said even then it will be tough going since both sides seem to have diametrically opposing ideas how they will negotiate and about what.

U.S. Supreme Court starts fall session

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cases of significance to business, the press, women-and-minorities-highlight-the Supreme Court term that opens Monday.

A look at the 70-odd appeals the court has already agreed to consider over the next nine months turns up no single issue likely to rivet public attention, as the "Alan Bakke" "reverse-discrimination" case did last term.

But a number of cases could hold a great deal of practical significance for the future.

Chicago truck driver John Daniel initiated one such case in 1974, when he charged he had been defrauded by his union-negotiated pension fund.

Daniel was a working member of Teamsters Local 705 for 22½ years. After he retired, he learned he was ineligible for a pension because a four-month layoff in 1961 prevented him from having 20 years' continuous employment.

He went to court, charging he had been harmed by fraud and misrepresentation prohibited by U.S. securities laws.

Federal courts agreed that trustees of such pension plans may be held in violation of anti-fraud laws unless they inform members of the statistical probability they actually will receive pension benefits — and list factors that can cause them to be deprived of benefits.

If upheld, the rulings would affect union-negotiated pension funds controlling some $150 billion in assets for the benefit of 30 million industrial workers.

Thirty briefs representing diverse viewpoints have been filed in the case. The Securities and Exchange Commission is supporting Daniel, the Justice and Labor Departments are not.

A number of other cases affect the family and women.

The high court has been struggling for two years with the question of what rights children have when their parents try to commit them to mental institutions.

It has heard arguments on a Georgia case raising that question. But it decided last term not only to ask the lawyers more questions in a second round of arguments this month, but to take on a similar Pennsylvania case as well.

Protesters fail to burn themselves up

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (UPI) — Police Sunday thwarted attempts by two supporters of condemned former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto to burn themselves to death, but informed sources said other attempts would be made Monday.

The two men shouted, "Long live Bhutto!" and "Restore the constitution!" as they poured gasoline over their heads and set themselves afire with matches in the busy Street Chowk-city square late Sunday.

Police and onlookers rushed to put out the flames. One of the men was given first-aid then released to police for questioning on a possible violation of the country's martial law ban on opposition political activities. The second man was hospitalized in serious condition.

Almanac

By United Press International Today is Monday, Oct. 2, the 275th day of 1978 with 90 to follow.

The moon is in Cancer.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader of India, was born Oct. 2, 1869.

On this day in history:

In 1780, British spy Major John Andre was convicted in connection with Benedict Arnold's treason and was hanged in Tappan, N.Y.

In 1968, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas withdrew his nomination as chief justice. Six months later, he resigned from the court, admitting he had made a deal with the Louis Wolfson Foundation guaranteeing him $20,000 a year for life.

In 1975, the American Congress eased an 8-month-old arms embargo against Turkey, imposed because of a Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

A thought for the day: Indian pacifist Mahatma Gandhi said, "Non-violence and truth are inseparable and presuppose one another. There is no god higher than truth."

100,000 mourners pay respects to pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Mourners transformed St. Peter's Square into a sea of 100,000 umbrellas Sunday as they braved a cold and drizzling rain to bid farewell to the beloved pope whose reign lasted "only as long as a smile."

The pope's funeral is to be held Wednesday afternoon in the vast square but Vatican authorities said it probably would be held inside St. Peter's Basilica instead if the rain continued.

Cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, traveling by jet and rail, began answering the summons to Rome for the election of a successor to Pope John Paul I, who died unexpectedly Thursday at the age of 65.

Two of the first to arrive, Cardinal Timothy Manning of Los Angeles and Cardinal Humberto Medeiros of Boston, said they had rushed back to Rome to attend Wednesday's open air funeral for Pope John Paul, the 263rd pontiff of the world's 700-million-Roman Catholics.

Manning said the College of Cardinals, who reconvene Oct. 14 to seek the 264th pope, would be looking for a man just like the humble priest from an Italian mountain-top village whom they elected only last Aug. 26.

"Everyone wants a pastoral pope like the one that has just passed," said Manning, "a pope speaking a language that everyone will understand."

The Lord gave us a most beautiful present in the person of John Paul," said Medeiros. "We trust the Holy Spirit to help us find an equally great pastor."

Stiffing sobs and fingering rosary beads, mourners in multi-colored rain slickers snaked across the wet cob-blestones in a chilly downpour to enter St. Peter's Basilica where the pontiff lay in state.

"People can say his reign was only as long as a smile," said Maria Teresa Rinaldi, a 46-year-old Rome housewife.

"I look up at the window where he would have been blessing me today if he hadn't died and I thank God for that smile," she said, tears joining the raindrops on her eyelashes. "He made me feel closer to the Church than I have in years. I ache now because his smile touched my heart."

Jackrabbit roping canceled in Texas

ODESSA, Texas (UPI) — The World Championship Jackrabbit Roping Championship was canceled Sunday.

A Humane Society investigator took credit for stopping the contest, but an official of the event said it was stopped because not enough rabbits could be caught.

Mark Rattus, an investigator from the Humane Society's headquarters in Washington, said the contest was stopped by the Ector County and Permian Basin Fair and Exposition at his insistence.

He advised fair officials the society considered the roping of rabbits as "cruel and illegal treatment of captured animals."

The object of the event is for contestants to rope jackrabbits with lasso in the shortest time possible. Competition occurs inside a 40-square-foot fenced arena.

Johanny Cash's nose cleared

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Johnny Cash was discharged Sunday from a hospital where he underwent surgery to clear up a persistent sinus affliction.

Officials at Nashville Memorial Hospital said the entertainer was admitted Tuesday suffering from a severe head cold and chronic infection of the sinuses. A sinus cyst was discovered and removed during surgery Friday.

Next pope expected to be like John Paul

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul I had such an impact in 33 days that the next pontiff probably will be compared with him rather than to Pope Paul VI, who reigned for 15 years before him.

Vatican observers said cardinals have no reason to question their choice of a man who was primarily a pastor rather than a diplomat, politician, theologian or dogmatist.

Most observers said the electoral conclave, due to start Oct. 4, probably will be searching for the same pastoral qualities in the next candidate.

Cardinal Timothy Manning of Los Angeles said that "everyone wants a pastoral pope like the one that has just passed, a pope speaking a language that everyone will understand."

The long lines of people waiting hours in the cold and rain to pay their last respects to John Paul were ample proof of the affection he aroused. Paul was respected, but in the end he was not so well-loved by ordinary people.

"In 33 days he (John Paul) probably said what he had to say, that is that this world has need for humility and simplicity," Manning said. "He gave mankind that joy and warmth that it needed so much."

Vatican sources agreed that the cardinals before the last conclave identified a world-wide trend toward deeper spiritual values in the face of increasing materialism.

"In John Paul, they sought someone who could fulfill those spiritual needs without altering existing church doctrines."

If John Paul's success is any guide, they again will be seeing someone who can talk about basic Christian values with clarity and simplicity, while proceeding with Vatican Ecumenical Council reforms in a measured fashion.

Mysterious SOS baffles listeners

By United Press International
A mysterious SOS from a liferaft said to be carrying 12 people Sunday had the Coast Guard wondering whether the call was coming from the Pacific off the Washington coast or from the Atlantic off Greenland — or from a hoaxer on land.

The Coast Guard began searching off the coast of Washington state Saturday when the first distress signals were heard. The message said the 40-foot pleasure yacht "Fathom Blue" was sinking and its 12 occupants were taking to a life raft.

But on Sunday, the Coast Guard in New York and ham radio operators in the area began picking up distress signals from a raft saying he was in a life raft with 12 people — three of them dead — 200 miles southeast of the southern tip of Greenland.

But in their attempts to pinpoint where the distress calls were coming from, the Coast Guard in New York found that "none of the bearings are toward the ocean," a spokesman said. "So far, all indications are that he is on land."

Asked if he thought the signals were a hoax, the spokesman replied, "There's always that possibility... We just don't know yet."

Adding to the mystery was the Coast Guard's inability to confirm the registry of the yacht.

The New York Coast Guard spokesman said that although the Coast Guard in New York had traced the signals to land, their counterparts on the West Coast had traced the signals Saturday to a point on the Pacific, prompting the search.

Until New York Coast Guard can get a fix on where the broadcaster is, it does not plan to launch a search, the spokesman said.

Dianne Hagerman/Times-News

This cove on the Snake River may look like another fishing hole, but $5 million in gold may be buried here

David Morrissey

Did outlaws leave millions in gold near Hagerman?

HAGERMAN — Just past the sagebrush and Russian olives the river tumbles over fractured piles of weathered basalt, plunging suddenly 10 to 15 feet into white water pools edged with cattails and willows. Magpies and an occasional hawk circle the rapids, lighting on the distant telephone poles.

It's just one of the many scenic coves on the Snake River, an area now largely host to fly fishermen, who patiently stalk the numerous rainbow trout.

To most residents of the small community of Hagerman, just a few miles north, the spot is known as it is just one more fishing hole.

But this wild section of southern Idaho may be more than just an anglers dream.

Buried under the rocks of this section of the Snake River may be $5 million in gold, the never-recovered loot from one of the Wild West's most notorious and murderous outlaw gangs.

The story begins with Henry Plummer, a Wisconsin native who made his way to the Nevada territory in the years immediately preceding the Civil War. Dapper and charming, a smooth talker and excellent dancer, Plummer charmed the citizens of Nevada City. In 1856 they elected him sheriff, re-electing him in 1857.

By all accounts the blue-eyed

Plummer possessed a magnetic personality. But it didn't take long before the meager salary of a territorial sheriff wore thin on his ambitious personality. After escapades in Nevada and California, Plummer, an outlaw wanted for several murders, finally fled north. In 1862, Plummer reached what would one year later become the Idaho Territory.

Those were Civil War days in Idaho, a wild region in the midst of a fabulously profitable gold rush. Wealth was plentiful, organized government was virtually nonexistent and federal troops — traditionally the stabilizing element in untamed territories — were needed in the East for desperate engagements with Robert E. Lee's seemingly undefeatable Army of Northern Virginia.

The iron-willed Plummer quickly seized the opportunities such a situation presented.

Forming a gang, Plummer robbed the Lewiston stage in 1863, escaping with $27,000 in gold dust previously destined for the federal mint.

That was just the beginning. In the next few years the Plummer Gang earned a reputation that extended as did their robberies — from north Idaho to Nevada, Wyoming and Montana. Miners were killed for the gold pokes; stages were ambushed; no source of wealth was safe. And always there was the blood. One historian estimates the gang was responsible for at least 125 murders.

It was during this period the gang discovered by accident a natural cave under the Snake River, near Hagerman. A rock fault slippage created a ledge, over which the then-untamed river waters poured. For the better part of a year this cave, extending under the river for several hundred feet, housed the Plummer Gang loot. By the gang's estimates that wealth included $300,000 in gold dust and bullion.

The plan was to leave the gold in the cave for a year. But when the members returned to their hideaway, their dreams of riches disappeared. Spring flood waters had collapsed the cave, burying their gold under tons of rock and earth. Recovery was impossible.

Today the location of the former cave is easily reached. Just several hundred yards downstream from the Upper Salmon Dam is a 10-acre plateau of rock, pockmarked with caves and indentations. A geologic formation which appears to be a collapsed cave is clearly visible.

Is the gold still there?

Or, as some skeptics would ask, was it ever there at all?

Until someone foots the bill for the massive excavation project that recovery would require, the questions will remain unanswered.

But several facts are known.

Henry Plummer later moved his gang to Montana, and was there quoted as saying they would have to work twice as hard "to make up for the gold I left in Idaho."

Oregon Trail pioneers did record the waterfall that once plummeted over the ledge. And veteran trail guides also recorded the year the ledge collapsed — the same year Plummer's gang member reported the collapse.

Then there was the account of Plummer's death. Just prior to his hanging, by Montana vigilantes Plummer offered each of his "big men" "their weight in gold" if they would release him. That may have been a final bluff, but if not, the gold had to be hidden somewhere.

Historians differ on the subject. Jerome Pettler, a Spokane, Wash. historian and an authority on the Plummer Gang, says he has found no substantial collaboration for the buried gold story. But he pointed out that "if the geological formation (of the collapsed cave) is there, it would tend to make you believe the story."

Idaho historian Michael Ostrogorsky, employed at the Idaho Archeologist's Office, says he too can find little evidence of this particular cache of gold. But Ostrogorsky points out Plummer is also reported by reputable sources to have buried loot, "totaling $260,000," in at least three other Idaho locations.

"It's possible," Ostrogorsky said, adding the Plummer Gang accumulated enormous wealth. "Any crook who was anybody belonged to the Plummer Gang."

Kenneth W. Bush, another Idaho historian, who has written books on early Idaho history, and articles on this particular buried gold, gives some of the most solid evidence the treasure exists.

Now living in Idaho Falls, Bush said he researched the location of the gold from early Idaho histories. Several years ago, Bush said, "I accompanied a person with a metal detector, and we found a very heavy reading."

Why didn't he recover the gold?

"I don't have the money," Bush said. "It's going to be expensive to move all that dirt and rock."

Should someone discover Plummer's $300,000 stash, they'd be in for a pleasant surprise. Gold sold for $12 a troy ounce in Plummer's day but now sells for better than $200 an ounce. That means the value of the loot now exceeds $5 million.

Who owns that pile of potentially profitable paydirt?

That depends on just where the gold is found.

The Idaho Power Company built its dam in 1936, and according to power company official Frank Myers now has rights for some distance on either side of the river. It is doubtful that blasting — one method to move rock — would ever be approved this close to a dam.

But Warren Pelton of the attorney general's office, pointed out, Idaho "does not sell the streambeds." That means the gold, if still under the river, is available for discovery.

But once discovered, it is possible Henry Plummer might have the last laugh.

The gold may have skyrocketed in value since his bushwhacking days, but a new invention called the income tax is now present to whittle that value down to size.

According to Cathy Williams, the public relations specialist with the main Idaho office of the Internal Revenue Service, any gold found "would be taxed on the market value as of the day it is found and would be taxed as ordinary income."

How much tax?

"For the first $100,000 the tax would come to $53,000," Williams said. "After that it would be the maximum tax, or 70 percent of any amount over $100,000."

Lenaghan a friend, not an enemy

Because of his fearlessness in standing up to special interests in Idaho, Robert Lenaghan has become a campaign issue in this year's gubernatorial race.

Republican Allan Larsen has vowed not to re-appoint Lenaghan to the PUC if he is elected.

In Twin Falls a few days ago the chairman of the Idaho Republican Party castigated added additional fuel to the partisan debate over Lenaghan's future.

Dennis Olsen, the GOP's state chairman, accused Lenaghan of having an insatiable appetite for power.

Olsen noted the PUC personnel budget has increased by 400 percent since Lenaghan joined the regulatory commission for years ago.

And, Olsen noted the PUC's staff has jumped from 24 to 53 in that time.

Of course, the increase in the PUC budget have been approved by a Republican-controlled legislature, a fact the GOP's Olsen seems to have forgotten.

But Olsen is right, under Lenaghan's hand the PUC has become a powerful force in Idaho. But recall the events of the last four years.

Remember the PUC's role in:

- requiring Idaho Power to show the need for construction of a coal-fired generating plant in

- encouraging geothermal exploration in Idaho;
- approving Intermountain Gas Company's request for a flat-rate pricing structure;
- vordering the state utilities to refund deposits collected for customers;
- directing Hughes Airwest to adjust its rates on flights from Boise to Lewiston;
- Looking back over the last four years, the PUC, under Lenaghan, has adequately carried out its role as watchdog over the utilities.
- It hasn't let the utilities do exactly as they please, but then, the PUC shouldn't be just a rubber-stamp agency.
- Lenaghan has made sure the PUC watches out for consumer interests as well as assuring a fair profit for utilities.
- His willingness to take on the big boys in the utilities illustrates the kind of resolve a PUC president ought to have.
- Robert Lenaghan was appointed to the PUC when Cecil Andrus was governor and perhaps that explains why candidate Larsen and GOP chairman Olsen don't like him.
- But partisan politics shouldn't be used to weaken the PUC.
- Quite simply, Allan Larsen and Dennis Olsen err in their opposition to Robert Lenaghan.

What GSA taught foreigners

WASHINGTON — It is not generally known, but one of the things the General Services Administration (GSA) does is to train foreigners in how to administer the housekeeping chores of their own governments. Now that the multimillion-dollar scandal is breaking in the agency, I keep wondering what some of these foreign government jobbers learn.

I take you to a GSA office where Amu Tikl has been assigned to study the latest methods used in servicing the U.S. government.

"Now Mr. Tikl, when you take charge of running the housekeeping of your government, you will have to lease buildings, see that they are kept up through paint and repairs, purchase and dispose millions of dollars' worth of office equipment, run hundreds of supply stores, handle government transportation and provide all the services that will keep the bureaucracy running smoothly and efficiently."

"It sounds like a lot of work."

"But it pays well."

"It does."

"Yes, if you learn it right. Now let me give you an example. You walked through the halls of this building before you came here. Right? What did you notice?"

"They needed paint."

"Of course they did. Now your job would be to paint those walls. How many coats of paint would you say they needed?"

"At least three."

"Good. Now what you would do is give out a contract to paint the halls three times, but the contractor would only paint them once."

"Well, what about the other two coats of paint?"

"They would go into the pockets of you and your contractor."

"I don't want paint in my pockets."

"Not paint, Mr. Tikl, the cost of the other two coats of paint."

"I see. One coat for the walls, one coat for the contractor and one coat for me."

"You learn fast. Now let's talk about furniture. You don't happen to have a brother-in-law in the office furniture business, do you?"

"No, he grows rice in his paddy."

"Well, put him in the furniture business fast."

"But where would I get the money?"

"From your coat of paint, dummy."

"Hee hee. I forgot about that."

"Now, our brother-in-law in the furniture business will contract him for all your desks and chairs."

"My brother-in-law doesn't know how to make furniture."

"All the better. When it falls apart you'll have to order more."

"Why should I make my brother-in-law rich?"

"Because you'll be a silent partner in the furniture company."

"Hee hee. I'm going to like this job."

"All right, Tikl. The next thing you have to do is open office-supply stores in your government buildings. If your government is like ours, nobody knows how much paper it uses. You order twice the amount of paper that you think you'll need. Then you sell what isn't used to the private sector."

"Walk, suppose somebody finds out?"

"Then you give him some money from your furniture company to keep his mouth shut."

"This is getting complicated. Can I take notes?"

"NO NOTES! Never take any notes. If you want to be in your government's GSA you have to keep everything in your head."

"Please forgive me for wanting to take notes."

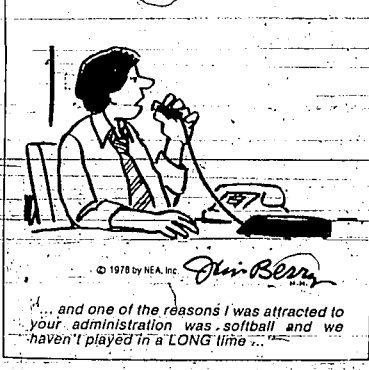

"Okay, that's enough for today. We'll talk about leasing space from private landlords tomorrow. Are there any questions?"

"If my President wants his palace painted, do I only use one coat?"

"No, dammit. Presidential palaces always get three coats of paint. The one thing you have to learn in this business is not to be greedy."

Early astronauts honored

CAPE CANAVERAL, FLA. (UPI) — President Carter, honoring six astronauts who lead America's early exploration of space, said Sunday the nation was on the threshold of an exciting adventure with the launch of the earth orbiting space shuttle.

Carter, in ceremonies at the historic space center where preparations are under way to launch the re-useable space craft next year, said the first era of space exploration has ended.

"The second is about to begin," he said. "It will come into its own when the space shuttle, the heart of our new space transportation system, becomes operational."

Carter said the nation invested $100 billion in its space program and that it "is now time for us to capitalize on our investments."

Standing in front of a huge full-scale model of the space shuttle-rocket-plane, Carter told the families of many cape workers it was too early to commit the nation to space factories and other expensive programs.

"But we will continue the evolving developments of our technology, taking intermediate steps that will keep open possibilities for the future," he said.

Carter presented the Congressional Space Medal of Honor to five former astronauts and to the widow of the late "Virtel" J. Grissom, who died in the Apollo 1 fire at Cape Canaveral in 1967.

Receiving the medal were Neil A. Armstrong, Frank Borman, Charles

"Pete" Conrad, Sen. John H. Glenn, D-Ohio, and Allen B. Shepard. Armstrong, 48, was—the first American to land on the moon and is now an engineering professor at the University of Cincinnati.

Borman, 50, commanded the Apollo 8 mission, the first manned orbit of the moon 10 years ago. He is now president of Eastern Airlines.

Conrad, 48, flew on four space missions and as commander of Skylab 1 was credited with saving a $2 billion orbiting laboratory project.

Glenn, 57, was the first American to orbit the earth, circling the globe three times.

Shepard, 55, was America's first man in space in 1961 and now owns a Texas beer distributorship.

Grissom followed Shepard into space, completing a sub-orbital flight in 1961. He commanded the first two-man Gemini space craft and was preparing for America's first Apollo test flight when he died in the launch pad fire with two other astronauts.

Mrs. Grissom appeared to be holding back tears as the president handed her the medal. It was believed to be the first time that Mrs. Grissom, who lives in Houston, visited the spaceport since her husband's death.

Reporters cannot protect sources, Chicago professor claims in debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reporters do not have a constitutional right to keep sources and information secret from the courts, a University of Chicago law professor said Sunday.

"Reporters can live in a dream world and say, 'We know what the Constitution says, and the Supreme Court doesn't.' But as the law exists today, the press doesn't have that right," Prof. Philip B. Kurland, a constitutional scholar, said in an interview with U.S. News and World Report.

Taking the other side of the issue, Jack Landau, director of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, said, "By requiring reporters to disclose sources, government hampers the press from collecting information. If you can't collect it, you can't publish it.

"This is clearly contrary to the First Amendment," which says the press is supposed to be immune from government interference, Landau said.

Kurland disagreed, saying the word "press" at the time it was put into the First Amendment, "did not denote newspapers or magazines but anybody who was engaged in the printed rather than the spoken word."

"So there's no reason to say there's a greater privilege for the institutional press than for the individual who seeks to publish his views," he said.

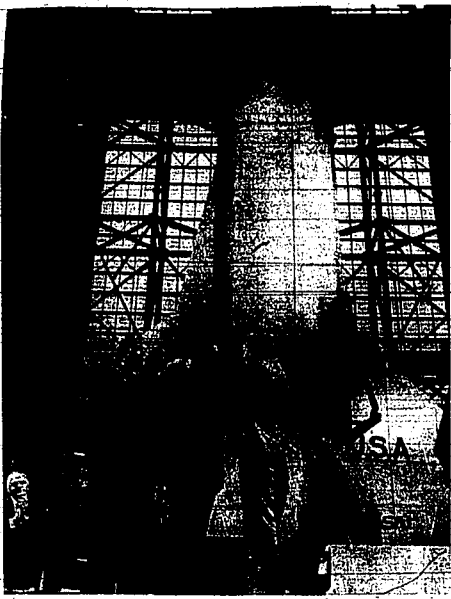

Kurland said the reporter-source relationship does not hold the same confidentiality privilege as that between lawyer and client or priest and penitent whose secrecy relationship is a "creation of the common law."

New drug tests ordered for GIs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a crackdown on military drug abuse, Deputy Defense Secretary Charles Duncan has ordered that new urine testing will cover at least 60 percent of all 18-to 25-year-olds in the armed forces each year.

Random urine testing of all servicemen was ended two years ago by order of Congress.

Navy officer tells juicy spy tales

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — In a case reminiscent of a spy thriller, a Navy officer says he turned over American defense secrets after receiving instructions at public phone booths from a man with a heavy foreign accent.

Lt. Commander Arthur E. Lindberg, the government's star witness, testified Saturday in the espionage trial of Valdik A. Enger, 39, and Rudolf B. Chernayayev, 43, both Russian citizens working at the United Nations.

The two men, who are free without bail in the custody of the Soviet ambassador, are charged with allegedly paying Lindberg more than $20,000 for American defense secrets.

The trial was expected to resume on Tuesday before U.S. District Judge Frederick B. Lacey in Newark, N.J.

Lindberg said he accepted an undercover assignment from the FBI to flush out a network of spies believed using the Soviet merchant marine as a cover.

For nine months in late 1977 and early this year, Lindberg said he received shopping lists of documents requested from his contacts and exchanged documents for cash at drops along New Jersey's two major toll roads.

He received instructions at public telephones on the New Jersey Turnpike and the Garden State Parkway.

In one typewritten instruction, Lindberg was told that "if anything went wrong they would meet in Helsinki, Finland, on the last Sunday in June."

Lindberg was instructed to carry a Time magazine under his arm and stand in front of a specific cafe.

Another note offered to pay for Lindberg and his family to travel to Finland, Guyana, Colombia or Jamaica to make contact with foreign operatives.

When contact was established, Lindberg received regular instructions on typewritten sheets that also included a little free advice.

Carter admits U.S. employs spy satellites

CAPE CANAVERAL, FLA. (UPI) — President Carter, apparently setting the stage for public discussion of a strategic arms pact with the Soviet Union, Sunday acknowledged publicly for the first time the United States is using satellites to spy on other countries.

Carter's calculated move presumably would allow the administration to discuss satellite verification methods that would be used in enforcing a new strategic arms limitation treaty.

The president's statement, made during a ceremony honoring six American space planners at the Kennedy Space Center, came amid reports of progress in the SALT talks.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who met with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko earlier Sunday in Washington, said he hoped a pact could be completed within three months. Gromyko met with Carter for nearly five hours Saturday.

"Photo reconnaissance satellites have become an important stabilizing factor in world affairs," Carter said.

"In the monitoring of arms control agreement, they make an immense contribution to the security of all nations."

"We will continue to develop them," the president said.

'Disco deafness' reported

Newhouse News Service
 NEW YORK — Saturday night fever can lead to Sunday morning deafness.
 That's the warning from the New York League for the Hard of Hearing.
 The disco dancing craze glorified in the hit movie "Saturday Night Fever" is breeding a new disease of the "70s," "disco deafness," according to Dr. Jane Madell, director of audiology for the league.
 "Disco jockeys, on the front lines of noise abuse, are the first casualties," she says.
 The effects of the musical assault on the eardrums first came to light this past June.

 "The International Disco Record Center (an association of disc jockeys) came to us because a number of club members complained of their hearing," Mrs. Madell said.
 "Our mobile van tested 70 people whose average age was in the late 20s and we found a third had significant hearing loss," Mrs. Maeell said. "Normal in that age population is 2 percent."
 As a result of findings of the tests, disc jockeys began to take protective measures, including sound-proofed booths and headsets tuned to lower levels of sound.

Ovutimer latest device used for birth control

BOSTON (UPI) — Two Boston area researchers are asking federal officials for permission to market a device which they claim can pinpoint a woman's fertile period.
 The device — called an "Ovutimer" — could be acceptable to the Roman Catholic Church as a birth control device because it does not use contraceptive chemicals or hormones and only verifies a woman's menstrual cycle.
 It was developed by Dr. Howard Kosaksky of Harvard Medical School and Louis Kapito of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
 The U.S. Food and Drug Administration, which by law must approve marketing of birth control devices, is studying 18 months of field testing of the device in the United States and Israel.
 The FDA must first approve further tests before considering whether to allow it on the market, but the developers say they hope the device can be on the market in a year or so.

 It works by measuring the fluidity

28 worms eaten by recordholder

RIALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Rusty Rice has quite an appetite — for worms.
 Rice, 25, of Pasadena, ate 28 live worms Saturday night, according to movie director Herb Robins who staged the worm-eating contest at Rialto College to promote his movie "The Worm Eaters."
 Robins said Rice broke the record of 27 worms eaten by Delta College student Mike Mroose — May 12 in Sacramento.

of a woman's cervical mucus, which correlates with periods when she is most fertile and least fertile, the developers say.
 "They say couples wanting to have, or avoid, children will be able to plan because the device can determine within a day when the woman is most fertile."
 Kosaksky said when the mucus is thick it provides a natural barrier to the penetration of sperm. He said when the mucus is thin it signals that the woman is fertile.
 "I call it a 'go' or 'no-go' depending on whether the woman wants to get pregnant or not," said Kosaksky.
 "If we receive the FDA testing approval, which will be based on the scientific data we've presented, we'll test in three phases," he said. "FDA has very strict regulations — to protect the public."

 The gathering at the First Baptist Church in downtown Washington was "Happy Birthday."
 The president also followed the tradition of making a birthday contribution to the church's Women's Missionary Union.

When it comes to savings,

How to make your "somedays" come a little sooner.

Believing in tomorrow is the way most people live their todays. "Someday" will always seem far off unless you do something to make it come a little sooner.

An Idaho First Savings account can be opened for as little as $10.00. Not only is your money there when you need it, but it earns money for you, too... the highest bank interest permitted by law, compounded daily!

Save-O-Matic is another way Idaho First can help. It automatically transfers checking account dollars into your savings account. You pay yourself first.

That's the real secret to saving. People who use Save-O-Matic discover that they don't miss the money they've tucked away, and they have the satisfaction of knowing that they are doing something to make their someday come a little sooner.

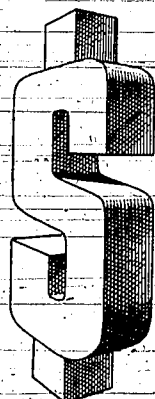

Let's talk it over

Here's a way to make your money make more money.

Idaho First has a variety of Certificates of Deposit and Investment Instruments to enable you to relax and know that your money is hard at work for you!

When you purchase a Certificate of Deposit, you promise to leave your money on deposit for a fixed term. We promise to pay you more interest. The longer the term, the more money your savings dollar earns. CD terms range from 30 days to 8 years or more; and pay up to 7.75% interest!

You have worked hard for your money. Now make it work hard for you. Whether it's a college education for your children, a vacation home, your retirement fund or just more money, Idaho First can help make it happen.

Let's talk it over

Proposition 5: tobacco rebellion

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — First it was the California tax revolt. Now it's the great tobacco rebellion and it's called Proposition 5.

The latest campaign pits major health organizations against the nation's tobacco industry in a battle over a California ballot initiative that would outlaw smoking in many public places and private businesses in the nation's most populous state.

Proponents and opponents alike view California as a bellwether, capable of igniting a national chain reaction as it did with tax-slashing Proposition 13.

It is estimated that if every smoker in America puffed on one less cigarette a day, the loss to the tobacco industry would hit $450 million a year.

In California more than 2.8 billion packs of cigarettes are smoked up annually generating a $1.4 billion turnover in cigarette purchases.

The tobacco industry has pulled out the financial stops in an effort to persuade Californians to vote "no" on Proposition 5, which if approved Nov. 7 would be the nation's strictest anti-smoking law.

Basically, Proposition 5 would restrict smoking to specific areas in public and private buildings so that non-smokers would breathe smoke-free air. Violators would be fined $50 for each conviction.

Opponents charge the measure represents more government interference in matters best handled by common sense. Proponents counter that health is paramount and non-smokers deserve legal protection.

Proponents say the tobacco industry — which at last report contributed more than $500,000 — may spend a total of $5 million, most of it on broadcast advertising to defeat Proposition 5.

Paul Loveday, who said his Campaign for Clean Indoor Air "will be lucky to raise $500,000," views the turnout as "clearly a David vs. Goliath campaign."

Opposition spokesman Jack McDowell said his organization, Californians for Common Sense, is prepared to spend "whatever is necessary" to fight the initiative.

He refused to disclose how much would be spent, but said "most of the dollars have come from five major tobacco manufacturers." Spending reports show 99 percent of the money to fight the initiative has come from tobacco firms.

Despite the heavy opposition spending, recent polls show voters favor the proposed Clean Indoor Air Act of 1978.

Two early September polls showed it winning by a 12-20 percent margin. Another poll indicated that 50 percent of the voters supported the measure, 44 percent opposed it, and 6 percent were undecided.

Except in specified areas, smoking would be prohibited in work places, schools, health facilities and clinics, doctor and dentist offices, arenas, auditoriums, galleries, museums, theaters, business establishments, public transportation facilities, elevators and public restrooms.

In offices occupied by both smokers and non-smokers, the measure would require partitions around the desks of the smokers. Private offices occupied only by smokers would not be affected.

McDowell calls the initiative "discriminatory, oppressive, excessive, and too costly to taxpayers and California business."

He said it would force employers to arrange for potentially costly segregated working areas, divert law enforcement attention from more important tasks and impinge on personal and property rights.

McDowell also says taxpayer costs would climb to $43 million while private business would spend $260 million to accommodate smoking and non-smoking employees.

Government cost analyses by proponents and the impartial state legislative analyst's office estimate it would cost $500,000 to manufacture and install signs that would be required on all public buildings. Enforcement costs would be relatively minor, they contend.

But proponents, including the American Cancer Society, California

Medical Association and California Lung Association, view good health as the most important issue.

They contend medical evidence shows that inhaling second-hand smoke can cause respiratory diseases and discomfort in nearly everyone. There are no claims that second-hand smoke will cause cancer.

McDowell said physicians "within anti-smoking groups" say there is no conclusive evidence anyone has "contracted disease from other's smoke."

The opposition has employed the advertising phrase: "They're at it again. The unidentified but ominous "they" refers to "people who want to regulate our lives, who run up government costs and the costs of doing business," McDowell said.

Supporters' advertising will focus on a "simple message — the law protects the right to smoke and the right to breathe clean air," Loveday said.

Smithsonian snares prized artifacts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Museum curators are by nature sensitive. They latch onto artistic, scientific or historical treasures as instinctively as pack rats gnom tinfoll.

Yet many curators spend entire careers without springing a single coup — which makes this season's intake by Carl Scheele, a Smithsonian Institution curator, that much more remarkable.

Within a matter of weeks, Scheele has been credited with landing two genuinely unique and highly prized cultural artifacts.

Last month, before a distinguished show business and governmental gathering, he helped ensnare in the Museum of History and Technology the television set chairs that Archie and Edith Bunker sat in during the filming of "All in the Family."

And almost simultaneously it was revealed that Scheele's Division of Community Life had been designated as the ultimate repository for Edgar Bergen's wise-talking dummy, Charlie McCarthy.

The latter triumph has been somewhat alloyed by a nasty little controversy.

Some critics have been asking why Charlie was being preserved for the ages in our national museum and not Bergen's other dummy, Mortimer Snerd.

Although Charlie himself had been quoted as saying, through Bergen, that the Smithsonian showed "good taste" in the selection, that opinion is far from unanimous.

In a recent editorial, the Washington Post strongly implied that the Smithsonian was guilty of elitism in favoring the "brash, pampered" McCarthy over the "buck-tooth, red face" Snerd.

The Post suggested that holding the "flashy" above the "down to earth" was part of a "pervasive national anti-rural bias." It added that it would have preferred to see "the bumpkin" honored.

To understand Scheele's reaction to such dissension it must be understood that successful museum curators are nothing if not discreet. Negotiating with potential donors requires a great deal of tact and finesse. Otherwise, the catch may slip off the hook and wind up in another museum or remain in a private collection.

It also should be pointed out that the famed dummy is not yet in Scheele's hands.

Scheele declined to be drawn into conjecture as to Bergen's motives for memorializing Charlie rather than Mortimer. He simply said that the Smithsonian regarded Snerd as worthy of becoming a museum piece, if ever tendered.

Approached by a reporter for his side of the McCarthy-Snerd dispute, he make it clear as tactfully as possible that any pro-cosmopolitan snobishness was Bergen's doings, not his.

Forum '78

SUN VALLEY — "The Hottest Issues Under the Sun: Energy, Environment and Housing" will be explored in Forum '78, hosted by the University of Idaho student architecture organization in November.

The UI Associated Student Chapter of the American Institute of Architects has planned a five-day conference Nov. 21-25, at the Sun Valley Inn.

"Students and professional architects will exchange ideas on housing, energy, and environment as focal points for examining progressive, responsible and exhilarating designs for today's and tomorrow's changing architectural scene," said Joann Reese, ASC/AIA publicity chairman.

Who do you know in Twin Falls who'll lend you $5000?

We will. Call or stop in for the money you need to solve a money problem. We lend millions to business everyday. And we lend even more to help people.

We find ways to help.

we wrote the book.

Here's short-term, high earning power in Money Market certificates.

It's just human nature to expect more from big things.

Similarly we can expect larger sums of money to work harder than lesser amounts.

They can. They earn at much higher rates of interest than regular savings accounts. They're called Money Market certificates* and they are issued in minimum $10,000 denominations with a six-month maturity.

The high interest is pegged at the average discounted rate for Six-Month Treasury Bills which is established each week as they are issued. In the first six months of 1978, T-Bills have exceeded regular six-month CD rates by an average of nearly 1 1/2%.

So make your money work at least as hard as you did to get it. It's the best of both worlds because with the long gain, you retain short-term flexibility and control. Money Market certificates — that's the long and the short of it.

Let's talk it over

The what, why and how of savings in our free book.

It's handy and fits in your pocket. Yet it has essentially what you want to know about the many savings plans available... how interest is figured... when it is credited... how it grows.

It outlines the many savings plans available and tells you the advantages and disadvantages of certain types. It can tell you where your money works most efficiently for you... in your situation.

It explains interest rates, shows how advertised high annual rates may not deliver as much in net earnings as a similar rate calculated another way.

It points out what you should look for when considering Credit Union and Savings & Loans as well as The Bank.

Easy to carry. Easy to read. Easy to interpret... a guide to savings plans and other information. It's yours for the asking at any Idaho First office.

Let's talk it over

Where maximum interest is more than numbers.

Dear Abby

Immaculate Conception not same as Virgin Birth

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd.
 Inc.
 DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, you wrote: "May I point out a common misconception (no pun intended) - that the Immaculate Conception is the same as the Virgin Birth. Not so. The Immaculate Conception is the same as the Virgin Birth. Not so. The Immaculate Conception! The Bible tells us that Mary was born without original sin on her soul because she was destined to be the Mother of Christ."
 Abby, your facts are correct - with one exception. It was not the Bible that tells us the above, but Pope Pius IX in 1854. His Holiness proclaimed and defined a new dogma of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary: "In the first instance of her conception, by a singular privilege and grace granted by God, in view of the human race, the Virgin Mary was preserved exempt from all stain of original sin."

 Respectfully submitted by,
 REV. L. W. VAN DELLEN
 WISCONSIN RAPIDS, WISC.
 DEAR REVEREND VAN DELLEN: Thank you (and about 1,000 other readers) for pointing out my careless misconception. The face with the egg on it is mine!

 DEAR ABBY: The girl involved is very dear to us. She's a college graduate, as is the young man she is going with. He is the problem. They always use her car when they date. We believe he never uses his, car unless he absolutely has to because he's too cheap to buy gas.
 For Christmas he gave her a bottle of cheap perfume, and her Easter outfit had no flowers. For her birthday he gave her nothing.
 Bumping free meals is his specialty. He does it so smoothly you don't realize until after you've invited him that he cleverly maneuvered the invitation.

 The girl can't see what a free-loading cheap skate he is, and we (her family) would like her to open her eyes before it's too late.
 How can we gently let her know what kind of person he is? We are afraid if we point out his faults, it might drive her closer to him.
 A SICK MOTHER
 DEAR MOTHER: Your last sentence was right on target. Say nothing. People who are emotionally involved see only what they want to see.

 DEAR ABBY: Three weeks ago my mother died. Last week, right out of the blue, my sister said, "I forgot to give you this," and she dropped my mother's wedding ring in my lap!
 It seems that the people at the funeral home removed it and gave it to my sister at the time of the funeral. She thought that since I was the oldest daughter, I should have it.
 Abby, that ring had been on my mother's finger for 38 years, and it should have been buried with her. I don't want it!
 I can't bear to look at that ring. It's driving me crazy. All I can think of when I see it, is how much I wish it were with Mother now - where it belongs. Please help me.

SICK AT HEART
 DEAR SICK: Find someone in your family who will appreciate the ring, and give it to her - or him.
 DEAR ABBY: About those "new" fashions for women, My mother said, "If my grandfather had wanted us to look like Russian peasants, he wouldn't have left Russia!"

At Wit's End

Adults ask kids some tough questions

By ERMA BOMBCEK
 My Aunt Lotte said to me the other day, "Boy, you certainly have changed since you were a child. You used to be so shy and introverted, you wouldn't say butter if it melted in your mouth. Why, I couldn't get you to say two words to me."
 My mind went back to the days as a child and in my defense I have to say that children would love to talk. They really would. It's just that the questions adults ask them are tough. I do my adult to answer some of them.
 She's the aunt who used to come into a room and upon noticing me would stoop down and ask, "Where did you get those blonde curls?"

 ("I'd think, 'Oh boy, here we go again. That's got to be one of those inherited trait questions with the genes and chromosomes. Maybe I'll just split on my handkerchief and twist it around my tooth and she'll go away.")
 "What's the matter?" she pursued. "Has the cat got your tongue?"
 ("Where does she come up with this stuff? Besides, that is the most gross idea I've ever heard. Oh, oh; here she comes again.")
 "You're not talking to Aunt Lotte. Do you want Aunt Lotte to cry?"

"What kind of a question is that! Good heavens, she's putting her face in her hands and going boo-hoo."
 "Talk to Aunt Lotte. What are you going to be when you grow up?"
 ("Good grief. I can't wash my hands without standing on a stool, and she wants to know what my goals are.")
 "Would you look at that pot! Do you want your face to freeze that way?"
 ("She's always asking that and I haven't heard of a single case of frozen face since I was born.")
 "Do you know what I think is wrong with you, missy? I think you need a N-A-P."

"Why doesn't she just come right out and say it. She's always spelling it in front of me. Last time she misspelled jarred ... put a Y in it.")
 Aunt Lotte barreled me back to reality with, "would you like me to give you a penny for your thoughts?"
 "Aunt Lotte," I said, "with the present devaluation of our currency, 1/100 of a dollar is barely sufficient remuneration for my reflections. Frankly, I can get more with mass syndication distribution."
 Aunt Lotte said, "I liked you better when you sat there like a stick."

Male dogs can become overattached to mistress

NEW YORK - Male dogs show a high incidence of sexual attraction to their female owners, whereas female dogs do not exhibit the same degree of attraction to their male masters, according to veterinarian Michael Fox.
 "Interestingly, it is more common for a male dog to become overattached to his mistress and act like a jealous lover toward the husband than for a female dog to become 'bonded' to her master," he said in the October issue of McCall's.
 "A subtle conflict occurs when a dog ignores the affection and attention of the husband and resents any form of discipline from him," Fox added.
 "Why doesn't a lover-or-husband have it out with a dog and establish his human dominance and rights? Easier said than done. It takes not only courage - and knowledge - but the cooperation of the wife or girl friend involved. She may unconsciously like things the way they are," Fox said in McCall's.

 "Male dog owners receive special attention from their pets in some instances, according to the veterinarian: "It is not unusual for a dog, male or female, to ignore the wife and to dote on the husband. Usually, this is not related to a sexual attachment, but rather because the man is seen by the dog as the pack leader. The wife, who may be regarded as a subordinate by the pet, is virtually ignored, even though she may be the one to groom, feed and exercise it."
 Dr. Fox cited a divorce case arising out of pet favoritism and aggression: "I know of one case where the wife divorced her husband after the dog held her in his bejaid the sofa. It was one of the more serious situations involving family-pet tensions ..."

Awards, scholarships total $89,500 for science talent

WASHINGTON, D.C. - All scholarships and awards in the 38th annual Westinghouse Science Talent Search have been increased to a total of $89,500, including a $12,000 four-year scholarship to the eventual first-place winner.
 Science Talent Search is the largest high school science scholarship program in the nation, with past awards totaling more than $1.2 million.

The increased scholarships were announced by Edward G. Sherburne, Jr., director of Science Service, the national nonprofit organization that conducts the annual search. Sherburne said that rules and instructions have been mailed to more than 40,000 principals and science teachers at public, private and denominational high schools throughout the United States and Puerto Rico.

Good Prices... Better Selection & the Best People... It's Worth 22 Seconds More.

In order to serve you the very best food possible, we cook every item to order and we offer a variety of items on the menu: Burgers, Hot Dogs, Tacos, Steaks, Crinkle Steaks, Hamsters, Baconees, etc. To do this, we know that it will take a little longer... but we think it's worth it.

We did some time studies & found that our service averaged just 22 seconds longer than our competitors. Sometimes they look longer... and sometimes we were quicker... but the average was that we were 22 seconds longer.

At Red Steer, we think the extra effort is worth 22 seconds more time for you to get your order. After all, we don't want you to have to settle for pre-cooked burgers... or dried out buns... or soggy fries... or anything less than it's possible for us to serve you.

Because we ate owned right here in the Northwest, we know what you want and nothing is going to keep us from serving you the best.

'Shy tycoon' heads international lumber firm

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — To some, he's referred to as the "shy tycoon," but to matter what his name — Jones, Smith or Weyerhaeuser — he would be president, said one associate.

His is George Weyerhaeuser, president of Weyerhaeuser Co., head of a corporation that spans the globe, employs nearly 50,000 people, manufactures or supplies materials used in some 5,000 products and has nearly 34,000 sharehold accounts.

His associates credit Weyerhaeuser's leadership ability, style of management and "no nonsense, objective-oriented approach" and "tremendous vision" for the company's success.

Weyerhaeuser himself echoes the same kind of sentiment but from a different view.

The chief factor in the company's success, Weyerhaeuser said in an interview in his office, has been his far-sightedness and "willingness to work toward long-term goals."

The 52-year-old president, his wavy hair greying, settled himself into a desk that is the focal point of his niche in the open (there are no doors) executive office area. He considered what he called a tough question: what one factor has led to the company's success?

"A unique characteristic of the company has had a lot to do with its success," Weyerhaeuser said.

"We've had a willingness and means to concentrate on building our capability for the long term. From the beginning (in 1900) the company has had investors and managers who were neither forced nor inclined toward the shortcut. There have been no expedient measures taken to achieve what is only a short-term objective."

He said it is the dedication to long-term objectives — a continuity of operation and ownership — that have made long-term investments possible. "Management of land and timber as a resource," he said, is the key element in the company's arch of success.

"Our attitudes didn't guarantee success, but they allowed us to set objectives."

He contrasts WeyerCo. with other companies. "Unlike owners and managers with a permanent purpose who direct their attention to today instead of tomorrow. They produce fast results, but they don't necessarily meet long term objectives."

"There are no shortcuts, and the kind of people we have acknowledge that," Weyerhaeuser said.

The company pioneers in forestry research to grow more and better wood fiber more quickly and to preserve and enhance soil quality. It uses virtually all of the tree stems harvested and strives toward a goal of utilizing the total forest biomass in products or in fuel to power its mills. And it works to make mills more cost competitive.

Weyerhaeuser also said his firm is dedicated to "quality of life goals for its employees and society." He cited its use of air and water pollution control research.

Weyerhaeuser's great-grandfather, Frederick Weyerhaeuser, was leader of a group of midwestern lumber mill operators who took a chance and purchased 900,000 acres of prime Douglas fir timberland from Northern Pacific Railroad in 1900 in country west of the Washington Cascade mountains. Purchase price then was $6 an acre. Many felt that was too high. It became the foundation of the family's Northwest timber empire.

Today he talks of the long term — 2000 to 2025 — and has "damn strong faith and a gut feeling for the future out there," one associate said and of the fact as a $300,000-plus company president he would like to play as an individual in his community if time allowed.

"Free time is hard to come by," said Weyerhaeuser. But he talked of fishing and-of hunting ducks and geese and chukars.

"I'm outdoor and individually oriented," he said, "fishing or hunting with my kids (he and his wife, Wendy, have six children) or with a small group of men. I really enjoy being out by myself in the quiet."

Avoid airline bumpings

If you are involuntarily "bumped" from an overbooked airline flight, you can, as of this month, get much more of a refund (and cash, too) than in the past. But if you're typical of most airline travelers, you still are startlingly ignorant of what you can do to protect yourself against this bumping.

This past Sept. 3, most of a new Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) ruling went into effect. The rule is designed to slash the number of passengers — more than 150,000 a year — who are bumped off flights against their will.

Here is a simple Q. and A. to explain what rights and protections the new rule does and does not provide you, as an airline passenger.

Q. What kind of bumping are you talking about?

A. Under the new CAB rules, before anyone may be bumped against his or her will, the airlines first must ask for volunteers who agree to give up their seats in return for a payment at the discretion of the airlines.

Q. What sort of payment or compensation are airlines required to give passengers who willingly give up their seats?

A. There is no specified amount airlines must offer would-be volunteers. Compensation may vary from one flight to another, or even from one volunteer to another, reports my Washington associate, Brooke Shearer. Under American Airlines' volunteer system, for instance, passengers on an oversold flight receive a printed notice when they check in. This notice discloses that if they are willing to catch a later flight, they will receive a certain payment.

Q. What might I have if I hold a confirmed reservation on a flight and am bumped against my will because the plane has been overbooked and is overcrowded?

A. If you are involuntarily bumped, the airlines must refund you the full cost of your ticket to your destination or your first stopover. A stopover is more than just a change of plane; it is defined as a stop of more than four hours on domestic flights and more than 24 hours on international flights. Thus if you are bumped from a New York of Los Angeles flight that has you changing planes in Chicago, say, the airline must refund the full cost of your New York-Los Angeles fare, not just the New York-Chicago portion. If you lose your seat involuntarily, the very least you must receive is $75, up to a maximum of $200.

Q. Do the new rules require an airline that bumps you to make sure I reach my destination within a certain time?

A. Yes. If an airline fails to provide you with alternate transportation that brings you to your destination within two hours of your originally scheduled arrival time, it must refund you twice the cost of your ticket. The minimum you can receive in this case is $75, the maximum is $400.

Q. How can the airlines avoid paying these stiff penalties?

A. Not much, until the priority rules are clarified. You can verify that the airlines are acting in accordance with their own rules, of course. You can avoid being among the last passengers to check in. Generally, the first passengers bumped are airline personnel or eligible travel agents traveling on passes, not regular tickets. Next come passengers holding discount tickets, the last to check in for the flight, or the "least inconvenienced." Your best protection is to be fully aware of the problem — and avoid the obvious pitfalls.

Soviet cars sold in Canada

By JEFFERY L. SHELTER, UPI auto writer

DETROIT (UPI) — The first wave of Russian vehicles has landed in Montreal and is rolling out swiftly across the Canadian countryside.

Thousands more are coming, tucked in the holds of huge Soviet ships. Within months, they are expected to reach the United States.

When that happens, U.S. motorists will get their first chance to buy and drive the Soviet-built Lada — a rugged subcompact car that made its North American debut this summer.

A spokesman for Satra Corp., a New York-based import firm that plans to distribute the Lada in the United States, said the car probably will begin arriving sometime in 1979.

First it must pass U.S. government safety and emissions certification and "other technical matters" must be completed, he said. Meanwhile, a network of dealerships is being formed.

More than 900 Ladas have arrived in Canada since Aug. 17 and are selling at a rate of 20 a day. The Canadian version, called the Lada 1500S, lists for $3,650, has a fuel economy rating of 30 miles per gallon and a top speed of 97 mph.

"People really seem to like them," said James Muir, a spokesman for Lada Cars of Canada, Inc. "We've gotten no complaints at all."

He said the firm, which imports and distributes the vehicles to 25 dealers in Ontario, plans to bring in 3,250 units by the end of the year and 7,500 next year.

The company has a five-year, $100 million contract with the Soviets to import a minimum of 30,000 Ladas plus replacement parts.

"We're selling it as a car with tremendous value and durability, and we play on the Russian mystique," Muir said. "It creates real curiosity."

So far, Muir said, the company has had no negative feedback because of its business relationship with the communist country.

"We had rather expected we might hear some protests, but it hasn't emerged. When you think of it, Canada has been trading with the Russians for years."

The car is a modified version of the Flat 124, assembled at a plant built by Fiat on the Volga River 600 miles southeast of Moscow. The facility turns out 800,000 cars a year for markets in 75 countries.

The Lada is simpler, more durable and heavier than the Fiat — an adaptation to the tougher driving conditions in the Soviet Union.

New product persuades cats to clean out bowls

By KATHRYN CHRISTENSEN
Chicago Sun-Times

So far, 1978 has no more than a slim lead over 1977 in the number of new products introduced.

New Product News, Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample's monthly tally of new products thrust into test markets, reported that 111 made their debuts in August — including 235 flavors, colors or varieties. That's a decline from August, 1977, when the number was 115. For the first eight months of 1978, new products reported by the newsletter are ahead of 1977's pace by only 3.5 per cent.

One of August's most unusual offerings in the marketplace was Athena Corp.'s Persuade, "a new concept in cat feeding" being launched in the Los Angeles market.

"The haughty, finicky-eating cat has produced many cat foods that sound like they came out of Paul Bocuse's kitchen," NPN reported.

"Now, Athena says just sprinkle a little Persuade on anything you want to shove off on the cat, and this flavor supplement will make Kitty clean out the bowl."

Dallas-based Athena apparently chose Persuade for the product name because "it overcomes the refusal of many cats to eat certain foods," NPN said. Persuade is an all-natural flavor supplement and said it adds "appetite appeal" to cat foods.

Sugarale Foods, based in Canton, Ohio, seems to have been devoting its efforts "to proving" that "virtually anything can be made in variety." The company is using Buffalo and Ft. Wayne, Ind., to try out its new 16-variety line of bolognas. (For Sugarale, the 16 varieties are deluxe, beef, thick, thin, garlic, garlic beef, old fashion, western BBQ, smoked, German, ham, beer party, onion and bacon.)

Take time, take care

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Not a good time for doing anything of a dramatic or unorthodox nature since this could bring you much trouble, big expenses best avoided. You need to exercise care and patience with everyone, so take time to do those seemingly unimportant chores that are actually vital to the whole pattern of your existence. Being thorough brings best results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): You are over-working and could undermine your health if you don't do something about it now. Take a more optimistic outlook on life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Take care of chores early so that you have more free time for cultural things that please you. Do more reading and explore new worlds.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Check out brochures that give you an opening into a new field of endeavor through which you can profit in the future. Learn to economize more in certain areas.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Plan how to beautify your home and also make it more comfortable and functional. Get legitimate estimates. Take care you don't pay twice for the same bill through inadvertence.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): A neighborly gesture whether at home or in business could yield fine benefits now, so be thoughtful. Not a day for assuming new responsibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Make sure that the grounds around your home are well taken care of. Think your way through some problem that has long been vexing you. Come up with the right answer.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Take time to update your files so that they will be more operative in the days ahead. Make sure you do not lose important papers in the process. Take some time out for light recreation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): A good day to meet with bigwigs and get much planned for the future. Make sure credit affairs are in good order. Pay pressing bills.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): You have neglected an important obligation and should now handle it intelligently. Don't permit a younger person who is too ambitious to hurt you in business.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Try to get your bills paid on time and cut down on interest costs. Avoid that tendency to nag at home; think more constructively; kindly. Check accounts and make sure they are correct.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Try to think more of yourself and less of others and you need not have to struggle so hard. You are your own worst enemy; so reconcile with yourself.

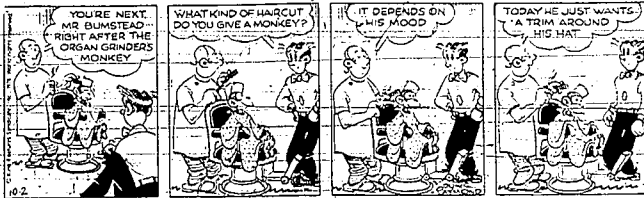

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Take a more positive stance where you know you are right and a more easy-going life can be yours. Don't permit the opposite sex to hurt you. Be more businesslike in dealing with others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... ...he or she will have a deep insight into matters both religious and psychic and should have education slanted along lines where just such a quality is a necessary such as the ministry—medicine, astrology, etc.—whether male or female. Teach early the value of money and how best to handle it.

TONGUE TWISTER

Q. "What's the most difficult tongue twister of all?"
A. Debatable. But some of the best vowels in radio and television claim it's impossible to repeat at top speed three times this: "Red leather, yellow feather." Personally, though, none seems harder than: "The clothes moth's mouth closed."

Q. "What kind of income does the 'Peanuts' comic strip with all its spinoffs bring in?"
A. Figure about $150 million a year. From movies, theaters, TV, books, so on.

Q. "What does it signify when a mackerel stays still in the water?"
A. That said mackerel is dead. A mackerel has to swim to live.

DISPLACED CHINESE

Consider the countries of Southeast Asia. Such as Vietnam, Cambodia, The Philippines, Thailand, so on. What a lot of outsiders don't savvy is the power within those nations of the displaced Chinese who live there. By head count, they only represent about 6 percent of the population. But by financial clout, they're a formidable force. They live in tight little communities, bound by ancient traditions. Governments shift and change. But the interlocking Chinatown, operating almost though not exactly like secret societies, dominate much of the trade. The political power that gets in trouble with the displaced Chinese winds up in trouble all over Southeast Asia.

That exercise called jogging is really coming on strongly, evidently. About half of all the sporting shoes sold nationwide, it's now reported, are for running.

Addison Avenue due next for improvement

By JEFF SHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — By next spring, snarled traffic and torn-up streets in downtown Twin Falls will be just a memory.

Which is good, because that's when the state highway department plans to begin tearing up the West Five Points Intersection and Addison Avenue between West and North Five Points.

Idaho Division of Highways administrator Dean Tisdale announced to Twin Falls city officials and businessmen Wednesday that the state is currently preparing to seek bids on the reconstruction of West Five Points intersection and Addison Avenue.

Tisdale said contracts will be let this fall for the work and local highway official Howard Johnson added that actual construction will probably occur next summer.

The announcement came at a meeting of Twin Falls city officials and businessmen with the Idaho State Transportation Board.

The purpose of the meeting was to acquaint the board with the feelings of local residents on what highway improvements are needed most in the Twin Falls area.

Twin Falls businessman Joe Citek, speaking for the Chamber of Commerce, the Downtowners and the Twin Falls Futures Unlimited, outlined a list of priorities those groups have established for improvement of the highway system in and around Twin Falls.

According to Citek, the groups' top priority is to support the city's efforts to widen Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Support improvement of Addison Avenue between the Five Points.

Urge consideration of a west side express route around Twin Falls, commencing at the intersection of Pole Line Road and Blue Lakes Boulevard North, continuing west along Pole Line Road and eventually turning south to connect with U.S. 93. The groups feel Washington Street could be an interim, if not permanent, link between Pole Line Road and Highway 93.

In addition, Curtis Eaton, chairman of the board of Twin Falls Bank and Trust, speaking for downtown businessmen, urged the state to adopt a "more stable method of traffic control" at the intersection of Shoshone Street and Main Avenue, in the center of the downtown mall, "to allow young and old to cross" without peril.

Mayor Leon Smith said the city council is in agreement with the priorities expressed by Citek and Eaton.

In reply, Tisdale related the state's plans for Addison Avenue.

He also said that although the state has placed a high priority on the improvement of Blue Lakes Boulevard North because of its high accident rating, the state will not commence work there until 1980.

In 1980, the state will begin work on the intersections of Blue Lakes Boulevard North with Filer and Falls Avenues, Tisdale predicted.

Johnson added that the state's plans for a belt route around Twin Falls are "just holding."

Transportation board chairman Carl C. Moore stated the board would like to put belt routes around every city and town in Idaho, but he said a lack of funds thwarts such action.

Johnson said before the state can begin right-of-way acquisition, it needs to know exactly what part of the route it will be responsible for and what part will be funded locally.

City officials promised to meet with the Twin Falls Highway District to work out some agreement on the amount of local funding available and then return to the state with a proposal.

Eaton then resurrected the issue of the Shoshone and Main Intersection.

He said a recent proposal by local highway officials to solve the problem at the intersection by closing off through traffic on Main Street would "meet with some opposition."

Eaton, in essence, said the proposal was unacceptable and asked highway officials for alternative proposals.

City Engineer Gary Young then informed downtown businessmen that the city plans to install plastic pavement markers and "bouncing ball flashers" on Shoshone Street to set off the intersection.

The group also heard about the state's plans for completion of the interstate highway system in Idaho from transportation department director Darrell V. Manning.

Manning said the interstate highway system in Idaho is 92 percent complete, and the state plans to complete the system by the time federal funding runs out in 1986.

He said I-86 North near Glenns Ferry will be completed next fall and construction on the highway from Twin Falls to Pocatello near Massacre Rocks will begin almost immediately.

State's first ever real estate lottery to determine buyers

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

ELKHORN — Two weeks before the 14-lot Meadowridge subdivision at Elkhorn in Sun Valley was officially platted, more than 65 potential buyers were knocking at Elkhorn Realty's door wanting to make a purchase.

Meadowridge is every realtor's dream. It is a small subdivision on the Elkhorn golf course's 17th fairway, near the heart of the resort.

With the overwhelming demand for lots in this scenic area, Elkhorn officials quickly notified with only 14 lots to sell and nearly five times that many buyers, not many people would be going home happy when sales did begin.

Consequently, Elkhorn has set Oct. 14 as the date of what Idaho Real Estate Commission officials say will be the first real estate lottery in the state.

At 8:30 a.m. that Saturday morning, all the qualified buyers for one of the half-acre parcels of property in the subdivision will put their names in a hat and will randomly draw lots.

The subdivision will draw some fair prices — between $60,000 and $80,000 per half acre lot, according to Elkhorn President John Harker.

But Harker says the real estate lottery is the fairest way the really could devise to sell the much-desired land.

"It came down to a simple problem of who do you let pick first without offending someone," said the president.

After considering an auction and sealed bids sale, both of which Harker said probably would have brought in more money per lot, Elkhorn chose the lottery in "effort" to give everybody the same shot.

Real estate in Ketchum and Sun Valley has been booming in the past eight months and the Meadowridge lottery is only one of the more recent examples of "the most" exuberant market this resort has ever seen.

Elkhorn has been the focus of much of the buying madness. In the past one and one-half years, it has a sales track record that can't be beat. Harker, for instance, said all Elkhorn property has appreciated about 60 percent since last year.

"There's become a buying fever," Harker said. "People are calling from California and buying sight unseen."

This fever had thoroughly infected interested buyers of the Meadowridge lots by late summer. The subdivision was officially received and platted on Aug. 14 but, by Aug. 1, Harker said Elkhorn's real estate offices had received between "65 and 70 honest indications" from people wanting to buy.

To qualify for the lottery, interested buyers must have deposited by Oct. 13 a refundable 10 percent down payment on the most expensive lot, estimated to be about $80,000.

Names of the qualified buyers will then be drawn until all 14 lots are chosen, according to Harker.

The often whimsical nature of the real estate market will cast an ironic shadow on the drawing. The Ranch at Sun Valley, a 100-unit condominium development located about one-half mile from Meadowridge, was sold in a distress auction only about 18 months earlier.

The $4.5 million development was completed in 1974, but faltered financially, and on April 2, 1977, 83 of the 100 two-bedroom units were sold in a public auction at an average price of $38,000.

But the recent real estate boom has even scooped the weeds of the Ranch and Harker said the bottom line on the Ranch condominium is, now about $60,000.

That is the bottom line for currently there are no condominiums listed for sale in the Elkhorn Valley. The tales of skyrocketing real estate prices are almost frightening.

Lottery will determine who gets to buy scenic lots at Elkhorn

Harker said one man recently bought an Elkhorn homestead for $29,000 in August and turned around to sell it for $45,000 in September.

The president cites several reasons for the boom. First, he said, is the recognition of people that "they're just not creating any more resorts."

Harker said Sun Valley is also the "Queen of American" ski resorts, and real estate investment is a good hedge against inflation.

"It's becoming like beach front property," he said.

Elkhorn's total retail real estate sales this year alone will soar over $18 million, according to Harker, and the waters are still full of hungry buyers.

The Elkhorn president said he knows of numerous out-of-state buyers who have opened Idaho bank accounts with standing instructions to allow Elkhorn's chief accounts if any good buys appear on the market.

With this kind of frenzy in the real estate waters, Elkhorn is basking in the financial sun and safe on prosperity's shore.

For BLM land

Survey reveals wilderness opposed

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — A recent survey by the Bureau of Land Management indicates a majority of the people in Blaine and Camas Counties oppose designating BLM land as wilderness.

The survey also revealed most people favored further closures of BLM land to off-road vehicles. A majority also thought disposal of BLM land in the area would not serve the national interest.

The survey's purpose is to gather public opinion about future land management practices of the bureau. The BLM must prepare a land use plan for the 600,000 acres of federal land in the Sun Valley planning district which covers land throughout both counties.

Terry Costello, the BLM district planning and environmental coordinator in Shoshone, said a random cross-section of citizens, ranchers and public agency representatives were interviewed during the survey.

Costello said 137 citizens, 28 farmers and various representatives from the forest service, state land board, county commissioners and other public agencies answered a questionnaire to assess how people want the land managed.

"The results of the survey, just released last week, revealed an often wide range of opinions among the three groups."

Costello said more than 50 percent of the citizens questioned said the BLM should not designate any wilderness areas in the district. Only 40 percent said the BLM should classify some of their lands as wilderness. The other 10 percent offered no opinion.

Among the ranchers, 90 percent were against any wilderness designation and less than 5 percent favored it.

The public agency representatives were generally against the wilderness designation, with 80 percent against it and only 20 percent for it.

When asked if the BLM should establish new closures and stricter regulations for off-road vehicles on public lands, 60 percent of those surveyed said yes, and slightly more than 25 percent said no.

More than 90 percent of the ranchers favored stricter regulations and about 70 percent of the public representatives also favored a tightening on these regulations.

On the question of disposing of public land, more than 50 percent answered no and about 30 percent yes. About 60 percent of the ranchers opposed selling of any of these lands and only about 5 percent favored the idea.

Among the public representatives, only about 20 percent were against disposing of BLM lands while more than 50 percent thought it a good idea.

The issue of management priorities on forage lands also came up in the study. About 50 percent of the citizens thought wildlife should be favored, while 10 percent favored livestock and about 30 percent wanted to see a balanced forage program.

Among the ranchers 11 percent put wildlife at the top of the list, 28 percent favored livestock, and 71 percent thought a balanced management plan was best.

The public representatives also split, with 10 percent favoring wildlife, 5 percent backing livestock, and 60 percent supporting a balanced approach.

Top employee of '78

Handicapped group to honor Pruitt

BURLEY — Burley native Dwayne Pruitt, program director and energy coordinator of the South Central Community Action Agency in Twin Falls, will be honored today as the Outstanding Handicapped Employee for 1978.

Pruitt will be honored at a dinner in Boise sponsored by the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

According to George N. Stoops, executive secretary of the governor's committee, Pruitt also has been nominated as handicapped employee of the nation for 1978 with the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. Results of that competition will be announced on Jan. 15, 1979.

Pruitt is a 1958 graduate of Burley High School. He has attended the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls, Boise State University in Boise and Baylor University in Waco, Texas.

Presently, he is program director for the winterizing program of the Community Action Agency. In that job, Pruitt provides services to install insulation, do roof repairs, build and install windows, do weather stripping, and install caulking compound for low-income families.

Pruitt also helps consumers learn how to weatherize their own homes and learn about solar and alternative energy uses.

According to the nomination papers for the President's trophy, Pruitt was injured in an auto accident in 1960, which left him paralyzed from the shoulders down.

"I told 'there is nothing we can do for you, it will take medical science possibly 50 years to find help,'" Pruitt volunteered for experimental projects that could possibly benefit injured persons like himself, the presidential nomination continues.

Pruitt has learned to write, draw, type and paint pictures by holding instruments in his mouth. He has adapted cassette recorders and other similar electrical equipments needed for camping out, picnics and long trips.

In a letter of commendation from the governor's committee, Stoops wrote to Pruitt that he had "proved to yourself that when you are faced with overwhelming physical problems, you have the tenacity and desire to win. Today you are a real success and have proved to your community and to many people in the State of Idaho your ability to succeed and compete with anyone in your profession."

"You have come down a long road in securing your education and rehabilitation.

"Your success is a grand announcement to the people of Idaho that your physical handicap was not the end of the line for you, but the beginning of an exciting challenge of life's new opportunities."

Woman injured in collision

By RAY SULLIVAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho State Police investigated two accidents Saturday and Sunday which resulted in only one person being hospitalized.

ISP Cpl. Wayne Ingram said Mary Ann White, 22, of Hansen, received facial injuries when the car she was riding in collided with two parked trucks about a mile north of Shoshone about 10:05 p.m. Saturday on Highway 75.

Miss White was listed in fair condition Sunday night at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

According to Ingram, she was a passenger in a southbound car pulling a horse trailer that was driven by Wade Ladell Larson, 23, of Twin Falls. One of two horses being carried died at the accident scene and the other one received minor injuries, he added.

The ISP officer said Larson's car was doing a minimum of 55 mph and left 66 feet of skid marks — when it struck — the trucks. One was parked on the road shoulder facing south after having run out of gas.

The driver, Dale Low, 49, of Shoshone, had gone into Shoshone's office said, and returned — with another truck with a portable gas tank on the back. Low parked it, with blinking lights on, in the southbound lane of the highway facing north.

Ingram said the car veered right trying to miss the truck in the road and hit both trucks instead. Low escaped injuries by running out of the way when he saw the car wasn't going to stop, the report said.

Larson and another passenger in his car, Tony Betta, 22, of Twin Falls, were treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

No citations were issued, Ingram said.

In the second accident, Cpl. William Van Dyke said six people escaped injury in the South Hills Sunday afternoon when the car they were riding in rolled off a 10-foot embankment when the edge of the road under the car crumpled.

Van Dyke said the car was driven by Steven James Roberts, 16, of Twin Falls, east on Rogerson Road about seven miles west of Magic Mountain Ski Lodge. He said at 1 p.m. the boy had slowed to pass a westbound truck driven by Al Hankins, also of Twin Falls.

Just as Roberts was passing on the outside, the edge of the road collapsed and the car flipped once and landed astraddle a creek bed. Roberts nor his five passengers were injured. Neither driver was cited.

Kincheloe named

TWIN FALLS — A former Twin Falls resident, Larry Kincheloe, 37, has been named associate superintendent-of-custody at the Washington State Penitentiary in Walla Walla, Wash.

Kincheloe, a former Army Infantry officer and combat veteran of the Vietnam War, was named to the post last week and will replace Sgt. Glenn Henderson, who had been acting associate since July.

He previously worked for the Twin Falls Recreation Department and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rount of Twin Falls. His wife is the former Sharon Mosley of Jerome.

A show-me-trip

FAIRFIELD — The Fairfield Ranger District of the Sawtooth National Forest is planning a show-me-trip for the West Helicopter Sale at 9 a.m. Oct. 26.

Interested parties are to meet at the Fairfield Ranger District Office in Fairfield. Transportation must be provided by the party.

The West Helicopter Sale is situated two miles east of Featherville and south of the South Boise River. An estimated six million board feet of timber will be harvested from the area.

Approximately 95 percent of the volume will be helicopter yarded. The remaining 5 percent will be yarded by rubber-tired skidders. Species composition is approximately 40 percent ponderosa pine and 60 percent Douglas-fir.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Fairfield Ranger District at 764-2202 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on weekdays.

New senators

TWIN FALLS — Five new student senators were elected Friday at the College of Southern Idaho.

The senators will be sworn in at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the student conference room on the campus.

New senators chosen in a light voter turnout were Jack Thibodeau, vocational senator; Robert Sonnichsen, senator at large; Lori McFarland, academic senator; Jennelle Struck, academic senator; and Felisa Davis, academic senator.

A breakdown of votes showed Thibodeau receiving 147, Pat Woodbury 110; Sonnichsen 86, Nancy Thomason 65, Bruce Brooks 73, and Dale Warren 38; McFarland 215, Struck 198; Davis 187, and Bonita Carlson 114.

About 270 students voted.

Volunteer award

SUN VALLEY — A Nampa homemaker, mother and longtime community volunteer has been awarded the Idaho Hospital Association's prestigious "Star Garnet Award" for outstanding voluntary service to health care in Idaho.

The award is presented annually at the association's convention in Sun Valley.

Mrs. Frances Scheurer, Nampa, received the 1978 award for the contribution she made during 20 years as a member of the Mercy Medical Center Hospital Auxiliary, in addition to working regular shifts as an unpaid volunteer in the hospital's gift-shop and information desk.

She often has sat throughout the night at patients' bedside. She has housed relatives-of-out-of-town patients in her own home.

In making the presentation, Idaho Hospital Association President M. James Foerster noted the phenomenal number-of-hours Mrs. Scheurer has contributed — approximately 10,000 hours just in the last eight years.

"That works out to almost five entire years of full-time work," Foerster said.

More than 900 people from throughout the state attended the 45th annual convention of the hospital association.

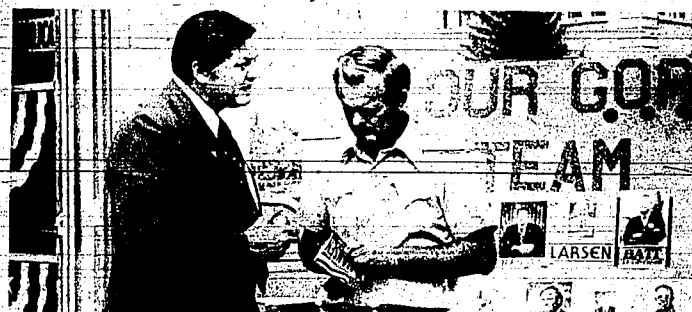

Sinclair to help

TWIN FALLS — Orlette Sinclair, Republican National Committeewoman for Idaho, has been named coordinator of the Twin Falls County Republicans for Batt.

State Sen. Phil Batt of Wilder is the Republican nominee for Idaho's lieutenant governor.

Other committee supporters are Jim Sinclair, Jack and Emily Calborn, John Blay, Ken Pederson, Dick and Sue Burwell, Bill and Marguerite Lanting, Barbie Cover, David Mead, Elaine Phillips, John Breckenridge and Bob Alexander, all of Twin Falls.

Area members include Jim Jones of Jerome; Don McFarland of Eden; Laird and Kathy Noh of Kimberly; and George Black of Castletown.

GOP opens headquarters

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Republicans opened their campaign headquarters at 323 Shoshone St. N. Saturday afternoon on a note of confidence and solidarity.

Rep. George Hansen read from a letter which he claimed vindicated him in his hassle with the government over his income tax payments. He said he was "new in the block."

During a brief formal program at mid-afternoon, Hansen also announced he was asking his former opponent in the primary election, Jerome attorney Jim Jones, to coordinate an agricultural program for Idaho farmers.

Sen. James McClure asked voters to "lay to rest once and for all" religious prejudice against Allan Larsen, the GOP gubernatorial contender, because he is a Mormon.

Larsen was not present.

Hansen said he "just wanted to set the record straight," and read a letter from his accountant saying the Internal Revenue Service has accepted the audit of his tax records for the years 1973 through 1976 and Hansen will receive a $421.89 refund.

The congressman said federal courts have twice agreed that his private records were broken into and "this was wrong, so we're winning."

Joking that "I've had them; all" (government investigations) Hansen said he should thank his opponents because "if they hadn't pushed this thing I wouldn't have got this money back."

He also chimed success in his long battle to trim the power of the Occupational Safety and Health Agency (OSHA). He said after "24 court victories in a row" enough financial support has been obtained to pay the indebtedness incurred in the long court action.

McClure called for an end to the talk about Larsen being disqualified to seek office because he is a Mormon.

"We are not religious bigots in Idaho," he said. "A third of our citizens belong to the Mormon church. It's time to lay to rest once and for all the idea that a person shouldn't run for office if he belongs to a certain church."

He said throughout history "we have set high standards" in Idaho because the Gem state was the first in the nation to elect a Jew as governor. He said few voters probably even knew that Moses Alexander, a Democrat, was a Jew.

He said through county chairman addressed to the occasion by introducing Charles Watts of Twin Falls dressed in a red union suit, lampooning Democrat Stan Kress' alleged dependence upon labor support.

"Kress courts the voters before the election in his Betty Goldwater balance-the-federal-budget, conservative Republican uniform, but down underneath, his true cloth is better represented by this union suit," Noh said.

Nordlof serves on task force studying state energy needs

TWIN FALLS — Eric Nordlof, a member of the Idaho Legal Aid Service in Twin Falls, is serving on the Idaho Energy Extension Task Force.

The group was formed to help the Idaho Office of Energy determine the potential for an Energy Extension Service for Idaho.

The U.S. Department of Energy has granted about $1 million to each of 10 states to develop pilot energy extension programs. Idaho and the remaining states have been granted about $30,000 to observe progress in the pilot states and to develop a plan for implementing an Energy Extension Service in Idaho.

The task force will determine how the service can best be implemented to meet the needs of small energy users in Idaho. The 13-member task force represents areas throughout the state.

Each member will return to his or her community and solicit the opinions of people in their area. The committee will then work with Energy Extension Staff Coordinator John Malcolm to plot the function and scope of an Idaho program. The planning effort is expected to be completed by March, 1979.

Anthony Rigas, engineering professor at the University of Idaho in Moscow, is chairman of the committee.

Who can you call in Twin Falls for $5000?

Call us. For the money you need to solve the money problems we all face. We lend millions to business everyday. And we lend even more to help people. We find ways to help.

One more time for Yanks, Red Sox

MIKE TORREZ
... ready for Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — All the dramatics of the struggle between the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees for the American League East division title comes down to one more head-to-head confrontation today when the two rivals meet in a one-game playoff.

The game will be broadcast on KMYT television beginning at 12:30 p.m.

The Yankees, who needed only one more win to clinch the division outright, were ambushed 9-2 Sunday by the Cleveland Indians as Rick Waits tossed a five-hitter. Home runs by Andre Thornton and Gary Alexander drove "Catfish" Hunter from the mound after 1 1/2 innings.

The Red Sox, meanwhile, moved into a tie with the Yankees by blanking the Toronto Blue Jays, 5-0, behind the two-hit pitching of Luis Tiant for their eighth straight victory.

Thus, the Red Sox, who once led the Yankees by as many as 14 games only to go into the worst tailspin in American League history, will have one last chance to redeem themselves, while the Yankees' hopes of accomplishing the league's greatest comeback ever have been stalled at least temporarily. Because of a coin flip, won by the Red Sox, the playoff will be played in Fenway Park.

Mike Torrez, central figure in the Yankee-Red Sox rivalry this year, and 23-game winner Ron Guidry were named as the opposing pitchers in the first AL regular-season playoff since 1948 and the first ever since the divisional system was instituted in 1969.

Torrez, the hero of last year's World Series when he won two games for the Yankees against the Los Angeles Dodgers, was lured away by the Red Sox over the winter for $2.5 million in the free agent sweepstakes. He is 16-12 this season, but until shutting out Detroit last Thursday, he had lost six straight games and was winless in eight straight decisions to play a major role in the Red Sox' slide.

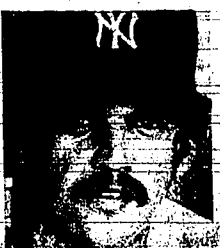

"I'm ready, I'm ready," said Torrez Sunday. "This is what they pay me for."

Meanwhile, Guidry, the Yankees' lifesaver all season long, will be pitching on three days rest. Of his 24 wins, 13 have come after Yankee losses.

The low-key left-hander didn't appear any more concerned with this game than any of the other "must-win" situations he has faced this season.

"I'm preparing for this game like I do when I go duck hunting," said Guidry, who leads the American league in earned run average (1.72) as well as winning percentage (.243-.889). "I've been preparing for the possibility of having to face them (the Red Sox) one more time. Cleveland is a scrappy team that gives us trouble and I thought it might end in a tie. In a way, I guess it's right that it comes down to this."

What if it comes down to is every dramatic confrontation imaginable in this topsy-turvy season.

Foster wins RBI crown

By United Press International

While Los Angeles and Philadelphia tuned up for their upcoming playoff series with losses Sunday, George Foster won his third straight RBI crown.

Foster's second homer of the game and 40th of the season, coming with a runner on and two out in the 14th inning, gave the Cincinnati Reds a 10-8 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Rookie right-hander Dan Dumoulin blanked the Braves over the last two innings to pick up his first major-league victory as the Reds closed out the season with seven straight victories to finish 2 1/2 games behind the Dodgers in the West. Reliever Dave Campbell gave up Foster's game-winning homer and took the loss.

Foster's 39th and 40th homers gave him 120 RBI for the year, tops in the league in both categories. In winning the RBI crown again, Foster became the first player in since Ducky Medwick to win win three straight RBI titles.

Johnny Bench hit a grand slam for Cincinnati earlier.

In other National League games Sunday, San Diego edged the Dodgers 4-3 in 11 innings, Pittsburgh defeated the Phillies 5-3, Montreal topped St. Louis 5-1, Houston blanked San Francisco 3-0 and New York downed Chicago 5-3.

Pinch-hitter Oscar Gamble lined a one-out single to right with the bases loaded in the 11th to give the Padres their win.

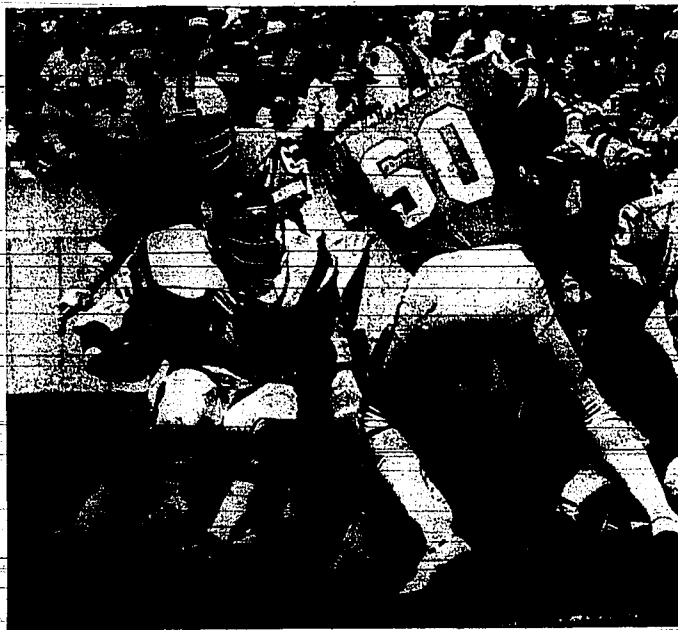

Gaylord Perry, a 21-game winner at age 40, started for San Diego and notched his 3,000th career strikeout to further boost his efforts to become the first pitcher ever to win the Cy Young award in both leagues. He won it in 1972 with Cleveland.

In the American League, thanks to the Cleveland Indians, the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox will decide the American League East title themselves in Boston's Fenway Park Monday afternoon.

The Indians blasted the Yankees 9-2 Sunday behind the home-run power of Andre Thornton and Gary Alexander and Rick Waits' five-hitter. Meanwhile, in Boston, the Red Sox rode the two-hit pitching of Luis Tiant to a 5-0 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays. The result, identical 9-3 records and the first AL playoff since 1948. (See story top of this page)

In other American League games, Baltimore trimmed Detroit 4-2, Kansas City blanked Minnesota 1-0, Milwaukee blasted Oakland 1-0, Texas belted Seattle 2-1 and California topped Chicago 5-4.

Pat Kelly drilled two home runs and Dennis Martinez won his 16th game with a four-hitter to lead Baltimore. Jason Thompson homered for Detroit, his 26th.

Blalock fires 71 for title

CALABASAS, Calif. (UPI) — Jane Blalock completed her win-to-win victory in the $100,000 Tournament Sunday by firing a 1-under par 71 to finish two shots ahead of U.S. Open Champion Hollis Stacy.

The 33-year-old veteran from Highland Beach, Fla., appeared headed for a playoff with Stacy when they were tied for the lead with three holes to go. But the chunky Georgian, playing in a threesome ahead of Blalock, bogged the 16th hole when she three-putted from 50 feet to drop one shot back. Then the pig-tailed Blalock sank a seven-foot birdie putt on the 388-yard 16th and her lead was two shots.

With a pair of birdies and a single bogey in her last round over the 6,401-yard Calabasas Park Country Club layout, Blalock finished with a 72-hole score of 276, 12 under par.

Her fourth win of the year was worth $15,000 and gave her $115,271 for 1978, her best money year of 10 LPGA seasons. She moved ahead of JoAnne Carner and Pat Bradley into second place on the LPGA money list behind Nancy Lopez.

Stacy, 25, who won her second straight U.S. Open in July, had a final day 72. Her 278 was one shot better than veteran Donna Young, who closed with a 67 to get third place at 278. Alexandra Reinhart bogged the final two holes to finish with a 73 and fourth place at 280.

South African Sally Little and Bradley each had 72 to finish in a tie for fifth place at 281.

Aussie Baugh and M.J. Smith were knotted for seventh at 282. Baugh had a 68 on the closing day and Smith carded a 69.

Lopez, an eight-time winner this year who hasn't won since Aug. 5, finished strongly with a 67 for a 284 to finish eight shots back of Blalock.

Blalock, who has finished second four times this year, held one shot leads after the finish of the first three days of the tournament with scores of 67-68-70.

Blalock's four wins this year gave her a total of 22 for her career. She captured the Orange Blossom Classic in Florida in February and posted back-to-back victories in July by taking the Mayflower Classic in Indiana and the Wheeling Classic in West Virginia.

Denver defense stymies Seahawks

DENVER (UPI) — Reserve quarterback Norris Weese, in his first start of the season, threw one touchdown pass Sunday and Denver's defense intercepted three Seattle passes that were converted into scores, leading the Broncos to a 29-7 triumph over the Seahawks.

Bernard Jackson, Randy Gradishar and Steve Foley each picked off Jim Zorn passes which the Denver offense turned into touchdowns.

The Broncos scored on a 6-yard run by Weese who replaced Craig Morton, sidelined with a neck injury — and a 9-yard Weese pass to Jon Keyworth. Denver also tallied on a 9-yard run by Larry Canada and a 4-yard pass from second reserve quarterback Craig Penrose to Dave Freston.

Seattle's only touchdown came on a 6-yard run by running back Dave Slims in the opening minutes of the third period.

Weese's TD run came with 8:30 gone in the first quarter and capped an 80-yard drive during which he connected on three passes for 45 yards.

Raiders 25-19

CHICAGO (UPI) — Neal Colzie's 24-yard pass interception return to the Chicago three in overtime set up a 1-yard touchdown sweep by Arthur Whittington Sunday that gave the Oakland Raiders a 25-19 victory over the Bears.

It was the third win in five games for the Raiders and the second loss in five for the Bears.

Errol Mann, who earlier kicked field goals of 42, 35 and 34, hit a 29-yarder with five seconds left in regulation to send the game into overtime after Ken Stabler's apparent touchdown pass to Morris Bradshaw was nullified by an offside penalty.

The Bears got field goals of 25 and 24 yards from Bob Thomas, a touchdown from Mike Spivey on a 71-yard run of a blocked field goal attempt and a touchdown on Roland Harper's 1-yard plunge.

After Colzie's interception, Pete Banaszak gained two yards on two runs before Whittington's scoring play.

Before the finish, the score was tied four times, the Raiders were ahead twice, and the Bears ahead three times: Mann's third field goal with five seconds to play in the third period produced a 9-9 tie and his last three-pointer with five seconds left in regulation time produced a 19-19 tie.

Oilers 16-13

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Toni Fritsch kicked a 19-yard field goal with 14 seconds remaining Sunday to give the Houston Oilers a 16-13 triumph over the Cleveland Browns.

Fritsch's winning kick was set up by a 24-yard pass from Dan Pastorini to Ken Burrough. Burrough leaped for the ball with defender Ron Bolton and the two came down fighting for the ball.

The officials ruled Burrough had caught the ball, prompting a bottle and can-throwing outbreak by some Cleveland fans. The disruption continued and the officials had to move the play to the other end of the field for Houston's winning score.

Pastorini had tossed a 42-yard TD pass to Rich Carter and RB Carpenter ran seven yards for a score to fuel the Oilers' second-half rally.

Steelers 28-17

NEW YORK (UPI) — Terry Bradshaw, carried off the field in the final two minutes, threw three touchdown passes and the unbeaten Pittsburgh Steelers, off to the best start in their 45-year history, Sunday churned to their fifth victory, 28-17 over the New York Jets.

Dr. Gil Morgan edges Green in sudden death

AKRON, OHIO (UPI) — With a par on the first hole of a sudden death playoff, Dr. Gil Morgan defeated Hubert Green by one stroke Sunday to win the World Series of Golf and take home $100,000.

Green had birdied the 72nd hole on the tough, 7,190-yard Executive South Course to tie with Morgan, 2-2 under par, and send the tournament into sudden death. Green's birdie gave him a round of 70. Morgan fired a 68 Sunday.

The playoff began on the par-4 14th. Morgan hit his second shot on the green, while Green put his 6th the back fringe, 25 feet away. Green let his putt short and then missed his putt for Morgan. Morgan then calmly tapped in his par putt for the victory.

The win was only the third ever for Morgan, a licensed optometrist at Wewoka, Okla., since he joined the tour in the fall of 1973. But his previous two wins — the 1977 B.C. Open and the 1978 Los Angeles Open — qualified him for the series as a multiple winner and he made the most of it.

Green had entered the day at 2-under-par 288, two shots ahead of Morgan, and he quickly birdied the first three holes and appeared to be ready to leave the elite field of 24 pros and two amateurs far behind.

But the Birmingham, Ala., pro did not get another birdie until the 18th hole, while suffering four bogeys. Meanwhile, Morgan was on his way to a 2-under-par 33 on the front side and a par 35 on the back nine for one of the best rounds of the day.

Tom Watson fired a 67 Sunday — and at one time was tied for the lead at two under par — and finished at even par for the tourney. His third-place finish gave him $19,000, allowing him to set a single season money winning record of $382,429. The old mark of $253,021 was posted by Johnny Miller in 1974.

Morgan's win gave him $207,459 on the year, an all-time personal high.

"I was determined to play as well as I could today," said Morgan. "Down the stretch, I played poorly yesterday and I had made up my mind to play well there today."

Green, who received $45,000 for second place, said he thought going into the final 18 that an even par round would win it for him. But, he noted afterwards, "I was wrong. Doc played awfully well today and he beat me."

Chris Evert recovers for first

ATLANTA (UPI) — Chris Evert, fired from winning an overtime set, bounced back from her first shutout in more than four years Sunday night to beat Martina Navratilova, 7-6, 6-6, 6-3, and claim the $20,000 first place money in the Atlanta Women's Tennis Classic.

Navratilova, playing with a sore shoulder that hurt her backhand, collected $10,000 in losing to Evert for the first time in three meetings this year.

The last time Evert lost to Navratilova was in the semifinals of the Wimbledon tournament in September, 1974. She blamed the shutout on weariness from her 7-3 rally for the extra tie-breaker game of the first set.

"I was just drained — Martina doesn't give you anything," she said. "Last year, she would give me some free points; this year, she doesn't."

"This was the toughest match I've had this year. This was much tougher than Wimbledon."

Patriots escape with win

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Quarterback Steve Grogan, who had already thrown three touchdown passes, ran four yards for the game-winner score with 31 seconds left Sunday, lifting the New England Patriots to a 28-23 victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The last-second score staved off what appeared to be a San Diego upset win. The Chargers took a 23-21 lead with 1:55 remaining when Rolf Benirschke booted a 41-yard field goal.

Vikings 24-7

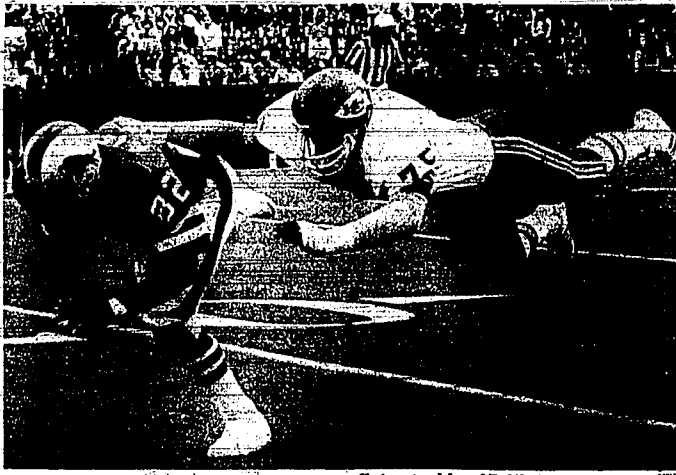

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Fran Tarkenton passed 21 yards to Sammy White for one touchdown and converted two key third-down passes to set up another score Sunday, leading the Minnesota Vikings to a revengeful 24-7 victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Tarkenton hit five passes for 49 yards in the opening period to set up a 1-yard plunge by Robert Miller, who was filling in for the injured Chuck Foreman. Two of the passes were on key third-down situations to Miller, one for eight yards and another for 15.

Rams 26-20

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Pat Haden passed 29 yards to Willie Miller for one touchdown and Rod Perry returned an intercepted pass for another score 20 seconds later Sunday to lead the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams to a 26-20 victory over the stubborn New Orleans Saints.

Haden and an opportunistic defense sparked the Rams to a 20-0 lead early in the second quarter, but Los Angeles had to survive a furious Saints' comeback effort, which featured three touchdown passes by Archie Manning, who completed 17-of-28 passes for 208 yards.

Chiefs' Sylvester Hicks (75) attempts flying tackle of Bill's Frank Lewis

Dolphins 24-10

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami quarterback Don Strock, boos from the hometown fans ringing in his ears, hit Nat Moore for the trucking, 36-yard touchdown pass Sunday to help send the Dolphins to a 24-10 victory over the winless St. Louis Cardinals.

Bills 28-13

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — Joe Ferguson, the NFL's top-rated quarterback, fired two touchdown passes to Bob Chandler Sunday and the Buffalo Bills coasted to a 28-13 triumph over the Kansas City Chiefs.

Ferguson completed 15-of-18 passes for 210 yards while Chandler, seeing his most extensive action since off-season knee surgery, grabbed seven passes for 116 yards, all in the first half.

49'ers 28-12

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Steve DeBerg threw a pair of touchdown passes and Anthony Leonard ran back a pass, interception 30 yards for another score Sunday in helping the San Francisco 49ers to their first victory of the year, 28-12 over the winless Cincinnati Bengals.

Falcons 23-20

ATLANTA (UPI) — Haskel Stanback capped a 72-yard march with a 9-yard burst off right tackle with only 1:52 left to play Sunday, rallying the underdog Atlanta Falcons to a 23-20 victory over the New York Giants.

The Falcons, despite dominating play for most of the game, fell behind early in the final period when a 22-yard Joe Danelo field goal gave the Giants a 17-16 lead, and they needed a touchdown to pull it out after Danelo kicked a 45-yarder with 6:58 left to play.

Packers 35-14

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — David Whitehurst threw two touchdown passes to Aundra Thompson and Terrell Middleton scored on a 76-yard run Sunday to start the surprising Green Bay Packers to a 35-14 triumph over the Detroit Lions.

The victory was Green Bay's fourth in five games, their best start since they won the Central Division title in 1972. Detroit dropped to 1-4.

Eagles 17-14

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Wilbert Montgomery ran for 144 yards and a touchdown Sunday and the Philadelphia Eagles scored all of their points in the fourth quarter to overcome a 14-0 deficit en route to a 17-14 triumph over the Baltimore Colts.

Montgomery cracked off right tackle for the winning touchdown win 2:39 to play after the Eagles, 2-3, rallied on Ron Jaworski's 20-yard TD pass to Keith Kreppfle and Nick Mike-Mayer's 26-yard field goal.

U.S. edges Aussies in world basketball

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — With center Ernest Wansley scoring 17 points, the United States fought off a determined rally to beat Australia 77-73 Sunday in the opening game of the men's World Basketball Championship.

The Americans, whose nucleus comes from the Missionary Club

Athletes in Action, led by as many as 11 points, 67-56, early in the last quarter. But the Australians came back with nine straight points to make it close.

Brad Hoffman, a 5-9 guard, took the pressure off the Americans with a field goal with 52 seconds to go before Australia's Andre Bilcavs closed out the match with back-to-back baskets. It was the only game played today in this championship which President Ferdinand E. Marcos opened before a crowd of 25,000 at the domed Aranelo Coliseum in suburban Quezon City.

Fourteen teams are participating in the amateur tournament, with 12 of them, divided into three groups, vying for berths in the eight-team semifinal round.

Defending champion Soviet Union and host Philippines are automatically entered in the semifinals and they will be joined by the top two teams in each group.

Bilcavs shared game scoring honors with Wansley with 17 points.

Slam-bang slam bidding

Top teams keep records intact

By MARK FRIEDMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Bo Schmechler fell the butterflies in the pit of his stomach all week. Too many times he had seen teams win a big game the week before, only to suffer letdowns against weaker opponents the next time out.

But Bo isn't worried anymore. His third-ranked "Walrus" team out-buffed his fans before Saturday blowing away Duke, 52-0, and putting their coach's fears to rest.

"I was very much worried," admitted Schmechler, pointing out that his Michigan squad had been keyed up for last week's 29-14 victory over Notre Dame. "I'm very much surprised that we were able to do so well. This was virtually the same team that almost beat us here last year. But our preparation was hard - I'll make no bones about that."

The Blue Devils were terribly overmatched in a game that some felt had the ingredients for an upset. Senior tailback Harlan Huckleby rushed for a pair of touchdowns and quarterback Rick Leach systematically exploited every hole in Duke's defense with a potent running attack.

"They were in control from the first series," said Blue Devils coach Mike McGehee, issuing a shrug of his shoulders. "Congratulations to Michigan. They played a superior game."

Huckleby, who gained 84 yards in 22 carries before the backups took over five minutes into the third quarter, scored his first touchdown after defensive tackle Dale Keitz recovered a fumble by Duke's Mike Dunn on the Blue Devils' 1.

Huckleby scored his second TD from two yards out to raise the score to 37-0 early in the third quarter, and Huckleby's substitute, Roosevelt Smith, scored - Michigan's - sixth touchdown in the fourth quarter.

"Their personnel is as strong as I've seen," McGehee said with a look of envy. "You never forget a humiliating experience - we've just got to profit from our own mistakes."

The first mistake may have been showing up.

In other games featuring Top 10 teams, No. 1 Oklahoma handled 17th-ranked Missouri 45-20, No. 2 USC downed Michigan State 30-6 on Friday night, fourth-ranked Arkansas stopped Tulsa 21-13, No. 5 Penn State belted Texas Christian 58-0, sixth-ranked Texas trounced Texas Tech 24-7, No. 7 Alabama overwhelmed Vanderbilt 51-26, No. 8 Texas A&M shocked North Carolina 55-0, Houston shocked ninth-ranked Florida State 27-1, and 10th-ranked Pittsburgh survived North Carolina 20-16.

Haitback Billy Sims scored four touchdowns and rushed for 166 yards, pacing top-ranked Oklahoma to its Big Eight Conference victory over Missouri.

Paul McDonald fired a 50-yard touchdown strike to Calvin Sweeney, then found tight end James Hunter with a 13-yard scoring pass to lead No. 2 USC to victory over Michigan State.

Ben Cowins rushed for 118 yards and two touchdowns to spark the fourth-ranked Razorbacks over previously unbeaten Tulsa.

Fallback - Booker Moore scored three touchdowns, including a nine-yard TD run only 10 seconds after the opening kickoff, and Chuck Fusina threw for two more touchdowns to spark the fifth-ranked Nittany Lions over outmanned TCU.

Sixth-ranked Texas forced six turnovers and the Longhorns capitalized on three of them with two touchdowns runs by Johnny "Ham" Jones and another by Leroy King to roll up an easy victory over Texas Tech.

Quarterback Jeff Rutledge ran for one of his two touchdowns and served for another in the fourth quarter, when seventh-ranked Alabama erupted for four touchdowns in a win over Vanderbilt.

Curtis Dickey scampered 63 yards for a touchdown on Texas A&M's first offensive play as the eighth-ranked Aggies to a romp over Memphis State.

Houston scored the first four times it had the ball on a 13-yard pass from Danny Davis to Garrett Jugajtis, a three-yard run by Emmett King, a four-yard run by Randy Love and a 56-yard romp by fullback Jimmy Newhouse.

Rick Trocano completed seven of his last nine passes - including a 13-yard touchdown strike to yunning back Freddy Jacobs with 1:35 remaining - to rally 10th-ranked Pittsburgh past stubborn North Carolina.

Leading out the top 20, 11th-ranked LSU slugged Rice, 37-7, No. 12 Nebraska whipped Oklahoma 69-17, 13th-ranked Maryland handed No. 18 Kentucky 20-3, No. 14 Colorado whipped Northwestern 55-7, 15th-ranked Ohio St. edged Baylor 34-28, No. 16 Iowa St. clubbed Drake 55-7, 19th-rated Stanford nipped Tulane 17-14, and Notre Dame eased by No. 20 Purdue 10-6.

queen of hearts, top West's king with the ten and kick a heart to his ten and go down one when it turns out that trumps break four-ones.

Alan: "The expert declarer doesn't lead his queen of hearts. He leads the jack. West plays his king and now our expert declarer decides that West would not have played his king from king and one. He would look too silly if it turned out that South held seven hearts to the jack-ten and East the singleton queen. So South takes the finesse against East's nine-eight and makes the slam."

Oswald: "How do you recognize this delicate play with the slam-bang bidding?"

Alan: "Lots of good players bid just that way."

Time to get serious in Pac-10

By United Press International

The skrimming is over for UCLA, Oregon, California and Stanford, and starting this Saturday the Bruins, Ducks, Bears and Cardinals will be on a steady diet of Pacific 10 Conference games for the remainder of the 1978 season.

Stanford, a struggling 17-14 winner over Tulsa this past weekend, meets UCLA, a convincing 17-3 victor over Minnesota, in Los Angeles Saturday night after Oregon, still winless in four starts after losing to Wisconsin, 22-19, meets California, an injured but 28-21 survivor over West Virginia.

UCLA already has a Pac-10 victory while Oregon has lost its only conference start. Cal and Stanford will be playing their first conference game this week, while the Ducks are 0-4, the Bruins, Bears and Cards are 3-1 overall.

Southern California, which has a bye this week - as does Washington State - routed Michigan State, 30-3, Friday night for its fourth straight victory. The Cougars, tied for first in the Pac-10 with USC, UCLA and Arizona, saw their perfect record slip after a frustrating 21-21 tie with Army. The Wildcats rebounded from a 41-28 loss the week before to Texas Tech with a 23-3 victory over Iowa.

Arizona State, embarrassed by WSU 51-28 last week, took out its frustration on former WAC rival UTEP, 27-0, while defending Rose Bowl champion Washington, upset by Indiana a week ago, rebounded to whip Oregon State, 34-0. That victory opened the Huskies conference record at 17-15 with a 17-10 win over Utah State. The Cougars, tied for first in the PCAA, Pacific jumped into a tie for first place with unbeaten Utah State by defeating Long Beach State, 14-0, for the Tigers' initial victory of the season after three losses. Utah State improved to 4-0 overall with a 20-13 victory over Wyoming, while San Jose State edged Santa Clara, 17-7. Fresno State bowed in Cal Poly SLO, 24-12, and Pullerton lost to Hawaii, 42-23.

Broncos still dominate

BOISE (UPI) - Boise State University, despite an 0-1 Big Sky Conference record, remains dominant in team and individual offensive statistics this week.

The Broncos, owners of a 3-1 overall record, are first in total offense by nearly 100 yards per game with a 470-yard average. BSU leads rushing statistics with 280 yards each contest and is second in passing and scoring.

Montana State University (1-0 conference, 4-0 overall) places first in scoring, racking up an average of 30.3 points. Weber State College (0-1, 1-3) retains a stable lead over BSU in passing with 211 yards a game.

The University of Idaho (0-1, 0-4) is first in total defense and passing defense and second in rushing defense. The University of Montana (0-1, 1-3) leads the conference in rushing defense and is second in overall defense.

Northern Arizona University (3-0, 4-1) is giving up the fewest points, 17.2 per game, while BSU is allowing 19.3.

Meet Idaho's 'Big Labor'

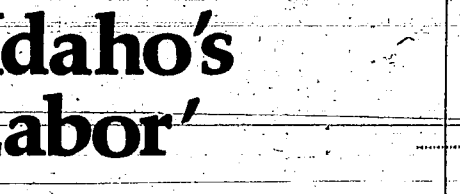

In a small state like Idaho, "Big Labor" means your neighbors and friends - people like Barry Barrett of Pocatello (left) and Ray Olin of Coeur d'Alene (above).

Barry Barrett has served for fifteen years as an officer of Local 78E of the United Transportation Union. Barry spends a great deal of his free time working with Pocatello children on projects like the Alameda Little League and as a scout master for Troop 308. In 1974, Barry was named Elk Of The Year by his lodge, where he served actively on the Christmas charity committee.

Ray Olin and his wife Marjorie are residents of Coeur d'Alene. Ray enjoys Idaho's great mountains and streams and is a hunting and fishing enthusiast. He is a member of Local 310 of the International Woodworkers of America, is active in the Spirit Lake Chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and a member of the Eagles.

So remember, in Idaho, "Big Labor" means your friends and neighbors - people like Ray Olin and Barry Barrett.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF INTENDED RULE-MAKING
 Notice is hereby given that the Department of Health and Welfare, State of Idaho, proposes to amend the Food Stamp Manual, Docket Number 2004-7803, Title 3, Chapter 4, Sections 3-4200.11, 3-4200.15, 3-4200.02, 3-4201.17, 3-4203.12, 3-4203.13, 3-4204.06, 3-4204.11 and 3-4205.01, Idaho Department of Health and Welfare Rules and Regulations, pursuant to Title 87, Chapter 82, Idaho Code. The following is a descriptive summary of the subjects and issues involved:
 3-4200.11 Declining Collection in the Case of Fraud and for Misrepresentation: A new subsection is proposed for adoption, as noted below:
 (a) Provide for reporting of additional data on the "Report of Claim Determination."
 3-4205.15 Refund for Overpayment on an Overadvance Claim: Proposed for adoption to provide procedure when an overadvance claim has been collected on an overadvance claim.
 3-4200.02 Nonfinancial Criteria: A new subsection is proposed for adoption, as noted below:
 (a) Provide that disclosure of the Social Security number and the nonfinancial criteria for eligibility.
 3-4201.17 Treatment of Payments of Public Assistance: Proposed for adoption to provide that when a public assistance grant is reduced for repayment of a previous overpayment, only the actual amount of the grant is to be considered as income for Food Stamp Program purposes.
 3-4203.15 Previous Overpayments: Proposed for adoption to provide for Food Stamp Program purposes, for the exclusion of the amount withheld from income to recover a previous overpayment.
 3-4203.13 Community Services Administration (CSA)—Emergency Assistance Payments: Proposed for adoption to provide for the exclusion from income of the amount of emergency assistance payments from the CSA.

LEGAL NOTICE

3-4204.09 Unusual Expense: A new subsection is proposed for adoption, as noted below:
 (a) Unusual expense resulting from a household's disaster or casualty losses will include:
 (i) an unusual expense deduction for theft or casualty loss of cash under specific circumstances.
 3-4204.11 Seasonal Utility Standard: Proposed for amendment to provide for the averaging of summer and winter utility standards within the certification period covers both utility standard time frames.
 3-4202.07 Resources and Verification: Proposed for amendment to provide that the existence of a car for a striking household member is not to be considered as a resource, inasmuch as the car is normally excluded as a "work-related" exemption.
 For purposes of determining if the proposed regulations will be adopted as stated above, any person or group interested in this matter may submit written testimony to the undersigned on or before October 9, 1978. Unless twenty-five (25) or more interested persons, a governmental subdivision or agency, or an association having a membership of not more than twenty-five (25) interested persons make a request in writing for a general hearing on the proposed rule on or before October 2, 1978, no such general hearing shall be convened.
 Within the time limits specified herein, any person may review the text of the proposed rule(s) in the Office of the Custodian of the Records or in any of the Regional Administrative Offices of the Department or the Offices of the Regional Attorneys General, Health and Welfare Division, located in Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston, Caldwell, Boise, Twin Falls, Pocatello and Idaho Falls. Copies of the proposed rule(s) will be made upon request and at the expense of the requesting party.

LEGAL NOTICE

Boise, Idaho 83720
 PUBLISH: Monday, Oct. 2, 9 and 16, 1978.

STATE OF IDAHO, DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
 The Matter of the Amendment of Animal Health Regulations 84 and 85, Relating to Compensation for Cattle Destroyed by Reason of Brucellosis Infection.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO AMEND REGULATIONS
 NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to Section 87-5203, Idaho Code, that the undersigned proposes to amend Animal Health Regulations 84 and 85, relating to compensation for cattle destroyed by reason of brucellosis infection.
 NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that the proposed amendment to Regulation 84 relates any reference to the appraised value of cattle for purposes of compensating the owner for their destruction by reason of brucellosis infection, and that the proposed amendment to Regulation 85 substitutes the words "appraisals" in determining the commencement date for the running of the "180-day time period" in which time brucellosis-infected cattle must be slaughtered for the purpose of receiving indemnification by the Department of Agriculture.
 NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that the Second Reading Session of the forty-fourth Idaho Legislature repealed the requirement of an appraisal for purposes of fixing the amount of compensation to be paid for cattle destroyed by reason of brucellosis infection.
 NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that a complete copy of the above-numbered regulations may be obtained from the undersigned at 4696 Overland Road, Boise, Idaho or by writing the undersigned at P.O. Box 700, Boise, Idaho 83720.
 NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that the purpose of determining if the proposed amendments will be made as stated above, any person or group interested in the matter may submit oral or written testimony to the undersigned on or before October 23, 1978, at the aforementioned address. Unless twenty-five or more persons, a governmental subdivision or agency, or an association
