

Carter pleased with 95th Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a flourish of bouquets, President Carter Sunday congratulated Congress "on a record of accomplishment unmatched in more than a decade" and said passage of an energy program was the start needed to end America's dependence on foreign oil.

Carter had some stormy moments with the 95th Congress but as members concluded a marathon final session, the president said in a statement "The American people can be justly proud of the work this Congress has done in solving some of the nation's most pressing problems."

"The most important achievement is the National Energy Act, which, along with the creation of the Department of Energy, will give our nation the tools we need to start down the road away from excessive dependence on foreign oil," Carter said. "The act will protect our consumers and producers, enhance our national security and remove one of the most pressing causes of inflation and economic instability."

Carter flew to Camp David Sunday for a two-day visit after learning that Congress had finally passed his long-stalled energy package. He planned to remain at the presidential retreat until Monday evening or Tuesday morning, after which he will begin signing the stacks of bills passed in the closing hours of the session.

The president gave no clues of his action on any of the major legislation. But there was no question that he would sign the five-part energy program, and press secretary

Jody Powell told reporters he understands Carter will sign the $18.7 billion compromise tax cut bill which was tailored to administration demands.

He described the cooperation between the executive and legislative branches as "unparalleled in recent years."

And he praised Congress for "demonstrating its sense of fiscal responsibility" in sustaining his vetoes of the public works and defense appropriations bills. Carter also said that Congress "acted in other ways to ensure our economic future," kicking off the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment, the economic stimulus plan enacted last year and improvements in the CETA program, Social Security system and food stamp program.

"Every sector of our economy will feel the impact of bills passed during this Congress," he added.

The Carter statement was all praise and no criticism even though the lawmakers had watered down and gutted some of his key legislation. Congress also failed to pass tax reform, labor reform, election reform and other proposals.

But he said that the approval of the reorganization plans, civil service reform and the ethics bill will restore public trust in the federal government.

Carter praised Congress for supporting the drive for human rights, and for "courageous decisions to advance our national interest," including the Panama Canal treaties, Turkish arms embargo and Middle East arms sales.

Compromise reached on fossil beds

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

HAGERMAN — An agreement closing the Hagerman Fossil Beds to motorized vehicles except on designated trails is seen by a leading Idaho paleontologist as a "compromise" to designating the site a national monument.

The 2,700 acres of fossil beds near the Snake River west of Hagerman are one of the richest deposits of fossil fish and plants in the world.

In 1977, hearings were held in Idaho to determine if residents would back a plan to have the fossil deposits declared a national monument.

Some motorcycle groups in Idaho and some farmers opposed the plan.

"Now, the plan designating the fossil beds as a national monument are 'hanging in limbo' according to Dr. John White, curator of the Idaho Museum of Natural History.

Dr. White said a recent Bureau of Land Management order to exclude all forms of motorized vehicles except on roads appears to him to be a reasonable compromise.

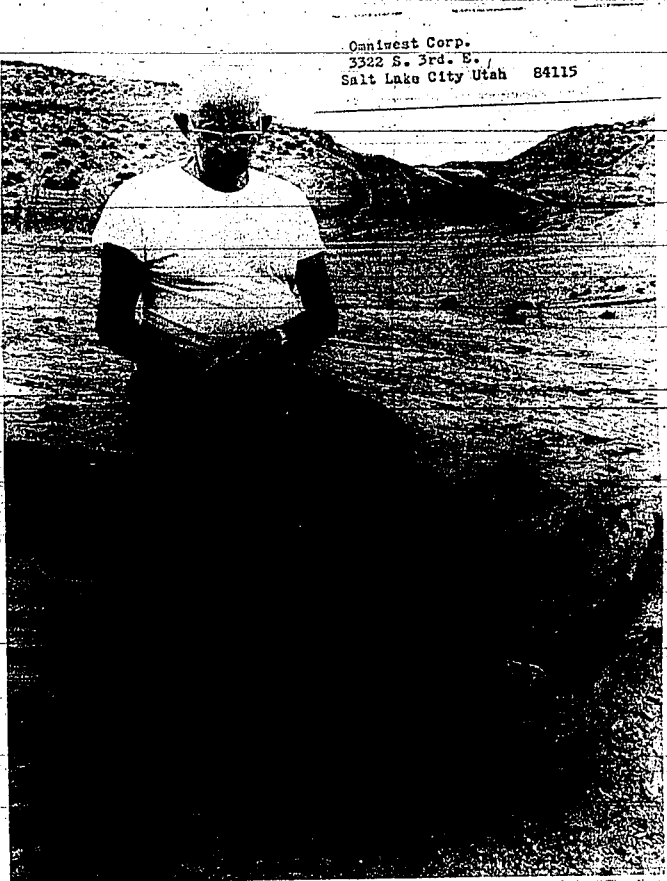

In the closure order signed the BLM officials say careful review and analysis in cooperation with other agencies, professionals in the field of paleontology and the public has determined that uncontrolled use of this area by motorized vehicles is causing damage to scientific and natural features.

Continued indiscriminate use by motorized vehicles will cause severe damage to paleontological features of international importance, the order says.

Opposition to making the area a national monument at a hearing held several years ago came almost completely from recreationalists who want to continue riding motorcycles through the hills along the river in the Hagerman area, he said.

The issue is an estimated 3.2 million years old, the scientist said, based on radio metric dating, similar to the process used on the Dead Sea Scrolls found in the Holy Land.

The area is bounded on the east by Lower Salmon Falls Reservoir on the Snake River, on the south by the paved Bell Rapids road, and on the west by developed farms.

What they did: An energy plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has an energy plan. A weary Congress approved the administration's five-part energy program with votes to spare Sunday, handing President Carter in the hurried closing hours of the 95th session his biggest legislative victory.

In his energy message to Congress 18 months ago, Carter called energy policy "the greatest challenge our country will face in our lifetimes" short of war.

Here is a summary of the major provisions of the five-part energy package:

Energy taxes
A 15 percent income tax credit for homeowners who make energy-efficiency improvements such as insulation — a maximum of $300 for up to $2,000 in spending, retroactive to 1977, with the possibility of combining credits for both years on 1978 returns. A maximum credit of $2,200 for spending up to $10,000 on solar and wind energy equipment for the home. A new 10 percent business investment credit in addition to the 10 percent general investment credit already in law for spending on "new" energy technology and efficiency. A "gas guzzler" tax on cars.

Natural gas
Federal controls on the price of newly produced natural gas would be lifted by 1985, with an immediate price of about $2 per thousand cubic feet, increasing roughly to 10 percent year until 1985. Controls could be reimposed if the economy suffers too much, but only briefly. Homeowners would be protected from the initial higher prices. Controls would extend for the first time to the intrastate market — gas sales within the state of production.

Conservation
Utilities would help homeowners to get "energy audits" and advice on weatherizing their homes. The firms could suggest equipment, help locate loans or even loan money for improvements. There would be nearly $1 billion in grants to the poor and to public buildings for energy efficiency equipment, plus billions of dollars in loans — and loan guarantees.

Coal conversion
Existing industry would be wooed away from oil and natural gas and toward coal, with exceptions for hardships. New industrial and utility plants would be barred from using oil and gas in some cases. Decorative gaslights would be discouraged.

Utility rates
State utility regulation agencies would be required to explore innovations in rates, such as bargains for home consumption in off-peak hours. Rates would be related more closely to costs, and bargains for volume use would be barred. Federal officials could order utilities to share power in emergencies. Loans of up to $220 million would be available for small hydroelectric power projects using streams and dams.

Republicans deplore tax measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The two top Republican congressional leaders Sunday agreed the newly passed tax cut bill is a bad one that will only increase taxes for the average American.

Speaking on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program, Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, said, "The net affect of this tax bill, without the Republican initiative, will result in a tax increase for every family in America, every family of four that makes more than $8,000.

"When you take account of the inflation, the increase in Social Security taxes and this new bill, there will be a positive dollar increase in the amount of taxes."

Baker said the worst aspect of the new tax bill is "the absence of any restraint on spending."

Speaking during the 27th hour of Congress' final session, Baker said, "I think this bill is a bad bill, and if the president were to veto it, I would be the obligation of the Congress to come back and redesign that bill."

House Republican Leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz., said he and Baker have asked "the Democratic congressional leadership to provide a resolution allowing the two of them to call Congress back into session in case President Carter vetoes the tax bill.

Asked about the new energy bill, Baker called it "a little short of a legislative disaster."

He said the bill provides for long-term control of natural gas prices but no incentives to increase production.

"The average gas bill for the next several years will go up" because of the new energy package, he said.

Highlights of the bill:
• An average family of four earning $10,000, would have its taxes cut $136.
• The same size family in the $25,000 bracket would get a $249 cut. But opponents and supporters say the cuts will be less than the Social Security hikes next year.
• The bill would let homeowners 55 or older make a one-time, tax-free profit of up to $100,000 in the sale of houses they have occupied for three of the previous five years.
• The personal exemption would rise from $750 to $1,000.
• Tax rates would drop and tax brackets would be widened letting individuals earn more money before moving into a higher scale.

• Investors would realize a $2.1 billion tax break by the bill's exclusion from regular federal taxes of 60 percent of capital gains — profits from the sale of property, stocks, bonds and other assets. Critics said 45 percent of the tax breaks for investors would go to persons earning more than $200,000.
• The corporate tax rate would be reduced from the current 46 percent to 46 percent in 1979.
• A current 10 percent investment tax credit would be made permanent and permitted to offset 90 percent of tax liability instead of the current 50 percent.
• The bill eliminates two items opposed by the president: tuition tax credit and indexing or adjusting taxes to compensate for inflation.
• And, the tax bill repeals business deductions for the cost of maintaining yachts and hunting lodges.
• But the tax bill ignored Carter's opposition to business deductions for club dues as well as for the purchase of tickets to sporting events, theatrical productions and symphony performances.
• Political contributions of up to $100 would no longer be allowed as an itemized deduction. But the tax credit for political contributions would rise to $50 for single returns and $100 for joint returns.

Doctors scare cancer patients

CHICAGO (UPI) — Many people who have been told they show cancer-like symptoms delay or refuse to see a physician because of their distrust of the medical profession or their fear of confronting the disease.

A team of University of Chicago researchers, who interviewed people who disregarded the warning signs, reported Sunday that distrust and fear were two of the most common feelings of cancer victims.

Other factors cited in the study by Howard P. Greenwald, Selwyn W. Becker and Michael Nevitt of the university's Graduate School of Business were the feeling by victims that they were invulnerable to cancer because their families were free of cancer deaths, and the inability to find a doctor the check out the dangerous symptoms.

Nearly 10 percent of those interviewed said they delayed action for at least four months even though they had strong suspicions they had cancer, the team reported.

Research funds pegged
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, shortly before adjourning, voted Sunday to extend federal research aimed at curbing the nation's two worst killers — cancer and heart disease.

The House, by voice vote, approved a bill authorizing $3.8 billion for continuation of health research, especially into cancer and heart disease. The Senate passed the measure a short time later without objection and sent it to the president. Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., chairman of the House Health and the Environment Subcommittee, said the action was "reaffirmation of congressional intent" to fight killer diseases such as cancer and heart disease.

"The programs already are paying off in saving lives and cost to the public," Rogers said.

relatives and described the physicians as "robber barons" and "ripoff artists."

Many bills didn't pass

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The debris left behind by the 95th Congress includes several major bills that did not make it to a final vote.

President Carter's proposals to create two new agencies — a Cabinet-level Department of Education and a consumer protection agency.

A national health insurance bill.

Carter's push for reform of the nation's election laws ran into trouble on several fronts. His proposals included direct election of presidents, public financing of congressional campaigns, voter registration by mail, and revision of the Hatch Act to allow government employees to seek election.

Trimmed water works bill approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress approved and sent to the White House Sunday a compromise $10 billion public works bill, falling short of President Carter's demands in an effort to avoid a second veto embarrassment.

Sen. Milton Young, R-N.D., accused Congress of "caving in" to Carter but said the legislation was "probably the best possible under the present administration."

The new bill denies any funds for the six "hit list" projects. It has no construction money for 11 projects, although it does provide pre-planning and design funds.

Americans feel safe in cities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine of 10 big city residents surveyed said they feel "very safe" or "reasonably safe" in their neighborhoods in the daytime, and less than half have altered their lifestyles because of inner city crime, according to a government report released Sunday.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a staunch backer of the president's tough stance on the water development projects, said the compromise was "a great victory" for Carter.

The resolution included $300 million for the governmental Conrail to keep the railroad system operating through the rest of the year.

The study, which attempts to shoot down a number of "myths" about crime, also concludes: —Young people, not the elderly, have by far the highest crime victim rate in the country. However, "the trauma" for elderly victims may be greater.

Carter vetoed the original $10 billion public works bill, which included a $6 billion Energy Department appropriation, because it was "inflationary, wasteful and inefficient." The House upheld the veto by 53 votes.

The fiscal 1979 funding of the 17 projects was minimal and the total of the bill was still around $10 billion.

—Most burglars don't force their way into an apartment or house, but enter through unlocked doors or windows — or by using keys.

Carter complained that Congress not only provided funds for 26 water projects in the bill but added 27 more, including six on the 1977 "hit" list that he considered long dead.

The compromise was attached to a continuing authorization which will provide money through fiscal 1979 for HEW programs not included in the department's regular appropriations bill.

—Two-thirds of the inmates in state prisons had jobs when they committed the crime leading to their imprisonment. Few were on welfare.

He criticized Congress for including funds to hire 2,300 more federal workers and for not funding a proposed Water Resources Council.

The Senate passed the bill 82-4 Saturday night and the House agreed to the compromise bill 356-6 early Sunday as one of the last items of business following an all-night session, sending it to Carter.

—Information from the two programs has been combined and the resulting facts about crime and criminals may surprise some people," said acting LEAA Administrator James Gregg.

The report, entitled "Myths and Realities about Crime," was compiled by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and is being published in a new booklet aimed at helping Americans better understand crime.

Under the deregulation bill, the Civil Aeronautics Board would gradually lose its powers and would go out of existence in 1985 unless further legislation continued its life. This would be the nation's first major federal regulatory agency to be abolished.

It is based on data collected for LEAA's National Crime Survey and the National Prisoner Statistics programs.

The booklet cites data from a 1974-75 National Crime Survey of residents of 28 large cities, in which 48 percent said they felt "very safe" in their neighborhoods in the daytime, and another 42 percent said they felt "reasonably safe." Only 3 percent said they felt "very unsafe."

The Senate passed the bill 82-4 Saturday night and the House agreed to the compromise bill 356-6 early Sunday as one of the last items of business following an all-night session, sending it to Carter.

More than half of those surveyed — 54 percent — said they felt "very safe" or "reasonably safe" in the same neighborhoods at night. The number feeling "very unsafe" rose to 22 percent.

The report, which attempts to shoot down a number of "myths" about crime, also concludes: —Young people, not the elderly, have by far the highest crime victim rate in the country. However, "the trauma" for elderly victims may be greater.

The resolution included $300 million for the governmental Conrail to keep the railroad system operating through the rest of the year.

Other findings of the study: —Residents of smaller cities experience higher rates of assaults, larceny and household burglaries than residents of the largest cities.

—Blacks and Hispanics report crimes to the police at about the same rates as everyone else.

—Weapons are used in less than half of all rapes.

Endangered Species Act passes, darter in limbo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress voted Sunday to extend the Endangered Species Act but passed the bill on an exemption for a Tennessee dam project that threatens the tiny snail darter fish.

House negotiators agreed to back away from an outright exemption for the Tellico Dam, an incomplete project on which the Tennessee Valley Authority has spent about $103 million. On a voice vote the House cleared the bill for President Carter's signature.

The bill would extend the Endangered Species Act for 18 months. When the Senate passed the bill earlier, Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, said it would continue the protection of vanishing fish, wildlife and plants but would add "a degree of flexibility" to enforcement.

Closing of the nearly completed Tennessee dam would flood the habitat of the tiny snail darter fish. The Supreme Court ruled in June that this would violate the act, designed to protect such rare species.

Culver said Senate negotiators had strongly opposed the House proposal to grant an exemption to the Tellico Dam.

"We felt strongly that this approach was preferable because it avoided setting a precedent for future congressional exemptions," Culver said.

U.S. airlines won't be regulated by government, CAB dissolved, too

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After 1985 the government will no longer regulate the prices of airline tickets or the formation of new airlines.

Carter and consumer advocates sought the bill as a way to promote competition in the airline industry, leading to lower fares and better service.

CAJ jurisdiction over routes would expire at the end of 1981, leaving airlines free to establish new routes without any federal restraints. They now must apply to the CAB.

Congress agreed Sunday to phase out federal regulation of the airline industry, a key goal of President Carter and consumer advocates who hope it will lead to sharply lower fares and better service.

Under the deregulation bill, the Civil Aeronautics Board would gradually lose its powers and would go out of existence in 1985 unless further legislation continued its life.

New airlines could be formed after that period without a lengthy and costly hearing process. They simply would have to show that they were "fit, willing and able."

The Senate passed the bill 82-4 Saturday night and the House agreed to the compromise bill 356-6 early Sunday as one of the last items of business following an all-night session, sending it to Carter.

Reptile race goes serious

HOUSTON (UPI) — Reptile racing is serious business at Lizard's bar.

The Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness sponsored a lizard track meet during the weekend and the competition was first rate.

The winner was Senorita Cabrita, a yellow-eyed reptile nursed on whiskey and "tummy rubbing" by trainer Jerry Kappel.

"We trained her to be a champion," said Kappel, 36. "Scent aggressive male lizards after her each day. She'd beat them around the cocktail table each time."

Western diplomats begin tense talks in South Africa

PRETORIA, South Africa (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and envoys from four other Western powers met in an atmosphere of gloom Sunday to prepare for a dramatic showdown with South Africa's white government over independence for Namibia.

Vance and foreign ministers from Britain, West Germany, Canada and France held a strategy session in preparation for a meeting Monday with Prime Minister Pieter Botha and other top South African officials. Botha, 62, has been in office only 19 days and is untested at international confrontations at this level.

South Africa has announced its intention to move ahead with its own independence plan for the sprawling, mineral-rich territory, spurning a U.N. proposal backed by the Western powers.

The Western powers, under increasing pressure from black African nations, may be forced to implement some sort of economic sanctions against South Africa if the meeting Monday fails to resolve the deadlock.

Vance put in a couple of hours strenuous Sunday tennis under a fierce African sky before joining his counterparts at the German Embassy for a smoky, outdoors barbecue that preceded the strategy sessions.

Vance is at the start of a 12-day mission that Wednesday takes him to Geneva, and then Moscow for disarmament talks with the Soviets. The U.S. secretary of state and his colleagues will try to persuade South Africa to abandon its plan to hold unilateral elections in Namibia on Dec. 4. The diplomats will urge compromise on a Western plan for U.N.

supervised elections next spring to launch the disputed territory to independence under black majority rule.

Brazil elects military president

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — Brazil's electoral college Sunday overwhelmingly elected Gen. Joao Baptista Figueiredo as the giant South American nation's fifth military president in 14 years of armed forces Figueiredo campaigned for gradual democratic changes — perhaps culminating in free democratic elections, perhaps not — while Monteiro wanted faster and more sweeping reforms.

Figueiredo, a poker-faced 59-year-old cavalry officer who once headed the National Intelligence service, was mobbed by supporters when the tally was announced at his headquarters in the Hotel Aracarea.

Asked if he felt any emotion on being elected Brazil's 26th president, and its fifth military chief executive since 1964, Figueiredo, who has a reputation for an acid tongue, said, "A little."

Former Minas Gerais State Gov. Aureliano Chavez, running with Figueiredo on the ruling Alliance for National Renewal, Party ticket, known as Arena, won election to the largely ceremonial post of vice president.

No news on new pope

By HENRY TANNER
N.Y. Times Service

ROME — Black smoke billowed over the roof of majestic Sixtine chapel Sunday night signalling to the world that the members of the sacred College of Cardinals had failed to agree on a new pope.

The conclave will now go into its second day of voting Monday. Sunday, the 111 cardinal electors voted four times, twice in the morning and twice in the late afternoon. After the morning sessions, too, the inconclusive result was announced by black smoke. The ballots, notes, tally sheets and any other documents written by any of the electors during the voting are burnt after each session in a stove inside the chapel where the voting takes place. Chemicals are added to make the smoke black as long as the vote is inconclusive. As soon as the new pope is elected — by a two-thirds majority plus one — the smoke is made to be white.

Pope John Paul I, who died on Sept. 26 after a reign of only 33 days, had been elected on the fourth ballot at the end of the first day of voting, on the evening of August 26.

The conclave that elected him was one of the briefest in church history. Even though, this time, the cardinal electors have not been able to reach an equally speedy agreement, church officials Sunday said they still expected a brief conclave of only a few days. Several experts predicted a conclusive vote Monday.

Mideast peace talks progress in secret

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Middle East peace negotiators continued to report progress Sunday as they met informally to work out the legal details of an Egyptian-Israeli settlement.

A conference spokesman, George Sherman, said, "Progress continues, although differences remain on certain articles (of the draft treaty)." He said that some of the articles in the draft treaty have already been completed.

Sherman described the talks Sunday as "serious and systematic" as the Egyptian and Israeli teams, including legal advisers, met in a Washington hotel in a series of informal sessions.

They are dealing with an American draft proposal, complete with maps and "protocols" which would settle details not included in the Camp David frameworks.

The State Department also announced that assistant Secretary of State Harold Saunders will travel to Jordan later Sunday to deliver the U.S. response to a series of questions that were posed by King Hussein of Jordan.

Hussein's questions dealt principally with the future of Jerusalem, and the future status of West Bank sovereignty.

The United States still hopes that Hussein, as well as Arab inhabitants of the West Bank, will join the Egyptian-Israeli negotiations, which have already touched on the larger questions of a comprehensive Middle East settlement.

Saunders' trip to Jordan is meant by the Americans to be seen as a sign of the importance they attach to Jordan's concerns, and the eventual participation by Hussein in the talks.

The informal pattern of the Washington talks, meeting in the Madison Hotel where both delegations are staying, rather than at the formal site of Blair House, will continue Monday, a Jewish holiday of the autumn harvest.

Space program international, says the USSR

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Space Flight Director Alexei Yeliseyev says the Russians are not interested in gaining space superiority over the United States and would rather see the two nations to work together to solve universal problems.

"We are not after superiority in space and believe that not only our two countries stand to gain from their cooperation," as they possess the greatest potential in this field," said Yeliseyev, himself a Soviet cosmonaut.

"Science will gain, and ultimately speaking, science is international. All mankind will benefit since the problems concerning the interests of all people on earth will be solved more quickly and efficiently."

German election boosts image of Franz Strauss

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Franz Josef Strauss' Christian Social Union scored an overwhelming victory in a Bavarian election Sunday that could give him a foot up in the 1980 national election.

A computer projection gave about 60 percent of the vote to the Christian Social Union, 31 percent to Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's Social Democrats and 6.5 percent to his ally in Bonn, the tiny Free Democratic Party.

The outcome means Strauss will become Bavaria's minister president — the equivalent of a state governor in America and a solid pad from which to launch a candidacy to replace Schmidt in the federal balloting in two years.

Strauss is so popular in Bavaria that Schmidt's coalition conceded the election long ago and campaigned not to win but to cut his party's share of the vote from the 62.1 percent it earned in the 1974 voting.

Strauss, one of Germany's most controversial political figures, will replace Alfons Goppel, who is retiring at age 73 as head of Bavaria, one of the 11 states in the Federal Republic of Germany.

For Strauss, 63, the election meant his departure from the Bundestag (federal parliament) after 29 years. He has been a member of the lower house of parliament since the West German state was established in 1949. But his move to the state capital in Munich was by no means the end of his nationwide political career.

"This is a milestone for 1960," Strauss said during the campaign in a reference to his plans to use his Bavarian power base to oppose Schmidt's coalition two years from now and end 11 years of Social Democratic rule in Bonn.

Newspapers end strike across Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iranian newspapers reappeared on newstands Sunday, ending a four-day strike that started when martial law authorities tried to reimpose censorship on the nation's news media.

"The press recovers its freedom," the mass circulation Kayhan newspaper announced in a banner headline in its first issue since the strike began Wednesday.

Government and news representatives signed an agreement late Saturday ending the censorship that martial law authorities had tried to reimpose after Premier Jafar Sharif-Emami lifted it earlier this month.

The newspapers carried reports of continuing unrest in several Iranian cities, sparked by disputes between Moslem conservatives and Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's campaign to modernize Iran.

A general strike was called for Monday to mourn those killed in army shootings after the imposition of martial law Sept. 8 and mallmen, customs and government employees remained on strike for the eighth day, the reports said.

Cities across Iran were still tense after clashes between shah opponents and police.

Korchnoi confident of chess title

BAGUO, Philippines (UPI) — In what may be the last week of the World Chess championship, everything seems to be falling into place for Viktor Korchnoi, the Soviet defector trying to unseat the Soviet champion.

Korchnoi watched on television as Yugoslavia beat the Soviet Union in a World Basketball Championship game in Manila attended in person by his opponent, World Chess Champion Anatoly Karpov.

Karpov, who won the crown abandoned by American chess genius Bobby Fisher, went to the basketball game in an attempt to take his mind off the richest, longest and most exciting world chess match in history.

Aldes said Korchnoi took the Russian loss as a sign he could beat Karpov and called "Bravo Yugoslavenski" to the winners.

The challenger headed back from a 5-2 deficit to tie the best-of-11 chess match. The winner will receive the world chess crown and the more than $350,000 first prize, while the loser goes home with more than $250,000.

Victory for either player could come as early as Tuesday when Karpov and Korchnoi play the 32nd game in the three-month-old tournament.

Karpov will open play with the white pieces, normally considered a slight advantage; although Korchnoi already has won two games playing black.

Liz Taylor hospitalized for throat swelling

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor was reported in satisfactory condition Sunday at Richmond Memorial Hospital, where she is undergoing treatment for a swollen esophagus.

"There's a lessening of the swelling around her throat and neck, but she's still having some problems talking," said John Warner, Miss Taylor's husband and the Republican candidate in the Virginia U.S. Senate race.

Doctors discovered Miss Taylor's swollen esophagus Thursday after removing a chicken bone from the actress's throat. She choked on the bone while visiting with kitchen workers during a campaign rally in Big Stone Gap.

A Warner campaign spokesman said Miss Taylor would be in the hospital for a few more days and it would be several more days before she could return to the campaign trail.

This is the fourth medical problem Miss Taylor has suffered while campaigning for her husband. During the primary campaign her hand was so swollen from shaking hands that doctors had to bandage it.

Texans married 80 good years

LUBBOCK, Texas (UPI) — Frances took a week to think about it before answering George Dale's marriage proposal. After all, she thought, marriage is a serious step.

After 80 years of marital bliss, Frances said she made the right decision.

Monday they celebrate the anniversary of their 1898 wedding, and Mrs. Dale offers no explanation of their success, except to say that the marriage was "made in heaven."

"I think some marriages are heavenly made and some are not," she said. "When they're heavenly made, they'll last. I know everybody don't believe that, but you can take it for what it's worth."

They have raised six children, five of whom are still alive. Three live in Lubbock, one in Plano, Texas, and another in Nashville, Tenn.

At the time of their wedding, Dale had made a little money as a sharecropper, but the birth of their third child prompted him to seek the job he had always known he was made for — as a Baptist minister.

"Those were the most difficult years of our marriage," Mrs. Dale remembered. "Preachers had it hard in those days; there wasn't much money."

Doomsayers hiding out to wait for holocaust

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — About 70 followers of a soothsayer who believe the Soviet Union will launch a nuclear war this month have moved to a "doomsday city" complete with underground bunkers and a year's food supply. The Sydney Sun-Herald said Sunday the group, led by 41-year-old Melbourne businessman John Strong, is awaiting the nuclear war on a remote ranch in northwestern New South Wales. They include businessmen, pharmacists and school teachers.

The group believes in a book Strong wrote five years ago called "The Doomsday Globe," in which he says the Soviet Union is determined to destroy the Western world.

Strong's calculations for the nuclear catastrophe are founded on parts of the Bible and his own computations based on the size of the great pyramids in Egypt, the newspaper said.

In his book, Strong says a prophecy in the book of Daniel in the Old Testament places the catastrophe in October 1978 with his own figures, arrived at by a long and complicated mathematical process, places it no later than 1979.

Old Farmer's Almanac predicts bad winter

DUBLIN, N.H. (UPI) — The folks who claim they predicted February's blizzard of the Century have more bad news in store for next year: a teeth-chattering winter, tardy spring, and a terrible drought.

The folks are the Old Farmer's Almanac forecasters, who collectively call themselves Abe Weatherwise and boast of 80 percent accuracy. The 192-page mustard-colored paperback, the nation's oldest continuous publication, goes on sale Monday for the 187th year.

"Expect chilled nose and toes," the guide warns in its December forecast. Cold waves are predicted to grip most of the nation, sparing only the Far West, through February.

The nation will get a break with below-average seasonal snowfall, except for the Far West, which will get a last-minute kick with a cold, white

April. But Abe, who claims his predicted big East Coast January snowfall came true several days late because the storm stopped to gather strength, forecasts another whopper this year. "More sun, less snow, then get ready for a big blow" is the rhymed late January forecast.

In April, "Don't mothball your sunglasses yet" because of a late-arriving spring. May will be "drizzly and nippy." Sparse summer rainfall in the central United States will lead to "severe drought conditions as far south as the Lower Great Plains."

Simon's sense of urgency comes to fore in a hurry

NEW YORK (UPI) — William E. Simon, former Secretary of Treasury, best-selling author and much sought-after public speaker seems always to be in a hurry these days. That could be because of the enormous energy he says he has always had ("I realized early in my business life that I was a workaholic.") But Bill Simon gives the impression that it's much more than that.

WILLIAM SIMON - precarious state

There's perhaps a sense of urgency that is explained in the first chapter of and political liberty, had "been seriously eroded." "The experience was shattering," he said. "It was very much like being a physician staring at a wall full of results and realizing that the patient was not just sick but that every vital organ was threatened."

Simon's book, which has been called the Conservative Manifesto of the government Simon feels "now threatens 'the collapse of a great industrial civilization,' and this is finally coming home to the citizenry." "The American people are frightened — they know something's wrong. They see inflation rising at an ever increasing rate and they see their incomes eroding. They are looking for the answer, and I think the search is leading to a return to the principals

"preoccupation with my own activities," into a "vision of what was going on in the country." Some of the "wider perspective" that Simon saw:

"Taxes. Washington had taken about one-quarter of the national income and the tax bill — federal, state and local — was rising more rapidly than the cost of living. The share of the Gross National Product eaten up by government was 36 percent in 1976 and is increasing.

"Government spending had grown out of control. It increased 232 percent from 1961 to 1975. Federal spending had grown faster in the past 20 years than the private economy supporting it. Government at all levels had become the nation's biggest employer. The redistribution of wealth from the productive citizen to the nonproductive citizen had become the principal government activity. "The U.S. government was in hock up to its ears. The interest on the federal debt alone in 1975 was $38 billion. The interest on the debt had nearly tripled in 10 years and had become the third-largest item in the federal budget. "Government regulation was costing U.S. citizens an estimated $130 billion a year; regulatory agencies were clearly strangling economic activities.

"Inflation. The government was printing more money every year to pay for both budget and off-budget items. Since 1965 the money growth rate has averaged nearly 6 percent. Inflation had soared.

Since he left his post at Treasury, Simon has never appeared at a gathering where there are reporters present without being asked what he is running for.

his book, "A Time for Truth," which he says is an attempt "to communicate the wider perspective that I acquired so traumatically in Washington."

Simon says he had learned "that the country was in a precarious state, that its 'Very cornerstone, economic 1970's recalls a conservative of two decades ago whose best-selling book propelled him to a disastrous run for the presidency.

"Barry (Goldwater) was two decades ahead of his time," Simon said in an interview.

But two decades of ever-burgeoning that this country was founded on."

Simon's energy serves him well in his post-government days, which are spent in public appearances on behalf of his book and speaking engagements (he is one of the ten-most requested speakers in the country). In addition, he is a senior consultant to the New York brokerage Blyth, Eastman Dillon & Co.; a senior advisor to Booz, Allen & Hamilton Inc.; and he serves on the board of directors of Citibank and Citicorp, INA Corp., and Xerox Corp. He is also associated with various foundations and public service groups.

Simon, who was considered a "rising young star" on Wall Street, left his post as senior partner of Salomon Brothers investment banking house in 1973 to become Deputy Secretary of Treasury. As head of the Federal Energy office, he was "energy czar," during the Arab oil embargo; he was Treasury Secretary under former presidents Nixon and Ford during a period when both runaway inflation and recession were facing the nation.

It was these years that Simon said took on a "nightmarish quality," and hurled him from the typical American

Tax problems in support

(Second of 10 columns)

More and more sons and daughters are getting together to contribute to help their parents make ends meet. And while they are happy to do it, this can create a tax problem for the children.

Say you, your brothers and sisters are contributing most of your mother's support, but with none of you individually contributing more than half. The basic rule is that you can get a dependency deduction for your mother only if you provide more than half of her support.

Q: Is there anything you can do before year-end so that one of you can claim a dependency deduction for your mother?

A: Yes—Act NOW to arrange a "multiple-support agreement," under which you, your brothers and sisters decide which of you can take the exemption. You can trade off the exemption so that, over the years, each of you gets the chance to claim it.

The requirements, according to a Prentice-Hall study:

(1) Your mother must have received more than half of her support from you, your brothers and sisters; (2) Your mother must have less than $750 in gross income for the year (Social Security payments are not included);

(3) No one of you can contribute singly more than half your mother's support;

(4) If you're the one selected to take the exemption, you must contribute more than 10 percent of her support;

(5) Anyone else who gives more than 10 percent support must agree not to claim an exemption for your mother in the year you claim it.

Now, consider 1979. Say you, your brother and two sisters will furnish most of the support of your mother next year.

You each contribute $1,000. Since each of you provides more than 10 percent but less than half of your mother's support, any one of you can qualify for a dependency deduction under a multiple-support agreement. If it's your turn to take the exemption:

• Review "the requirements" with your lawyer. In 1979, and make sure all the rules will be met for 1979;

• Have your brother and two sisters each fill out IRS Form 2120 stating that they will not claim your mother as a dependent;

• Attach all the Form 2120s to your own income tax return when you file and claim the $1,000 exemption.

TAX-SAVING TIP: Try to have as much of your support go to your parent's medical expenses as possible, for this rewards you with a medical deduction on top of the dependency deduction. In the above example, if your $1,000 support payment goes entirely to your mother's medical expenses, you pick up a $1,000 medical deduction — and wind up with a total of $2,000 in deductions for your own payment of $1,000.

You can deduct medical expenses for someone who isn't even your dependent, too. Say you pay your sister's medical expenses, but you can't claim a dependency exemption for her because she has too much income from dividends, interest, etc.

But those medical expenses are treated as yours and you may be able to deduct them, despite your lack of support.

For instance, your sister's investments give her an annual income of $3,000 — not enough for her to live on, so you, her loving brother, contribute another $3,200, including $700 for her medical bills. Your sister's income is too substantial for you to claim a dependency deduction for her.

But since you provide more than half your sister's support, you do qualify for a deduction covering the $700 you paid in medical bills for her.

To make sure all these deductions are above question and are safe for you, now is the time to act! If you intend to pay more than half the support of a relative, make sure you — and not the person you are supporting — pay the medical bills for that relative.

Pay by check! Then you have the proof that you made the payments you claim in 1979. If you are questioned. And, of course, follow the identical careful procedures in future years. Tomorrow: IRA plans more attractive than ever.

Dear Abby

Gift problems develop in grooms' second marriage

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, 24, is being married to a 29-year-old man who was married before. (No children.) His marriage lasted less than two years. This is our daughter's first marriage.

The problem: We're giving our daughter a lovely church wedding. The bridegroom's parents (who are socially very prominent) say they will attend, but they prefer not to send any of their friends or relatives invitations to the wedding. Their reason: "All of our friends and relatives give wedding presents to our son just two years ago — and once is enough."

Abby, what has our daughter to do with the wedding gifts his first wife received? Do you think the groom's parents have a right to cut down on the number of lovely gifts our daughter will receive just because her fiancé was married before?

DEAR ANAHEIM: A wedding invitation is a bid for one's presence — not presents. But if the parents of the groom choose not to send invitations for that — or any other reason — it's their privilege.

DEAR ABBY: A girl signed "Under Age and Over Developed" wrote, "Whoever said, 'boys like good girls,' is crazy!"

Well, she is dead wrong. I'm a 19-year-old male college student, and when I go out with a girl, all I expect is good company and nothing more. My problem is getting girls to believe that there are a lot of guys like myself who are saving themselves for marriage. They think I'm weird or gay or living in the stone age.

If I thought that women were good for sex only I could save myself a lot of time and money by just picking up a prostitute. Don't get me wrong, Abby. I'm not one of those hell-for-the-gone characters. I just don't want all the gull that goes with pre-marital sex. And I certainly don't need to risk getting VD or causing an accidental pregnancy.

Please keep telling girls (and boys) to keep their standards high. I'm still old-fashioned enough to want the girl I marry to be a virgin, and I hope that there are some girls out there who appreciate the same kind of guy. Sign me.

turning to you. I'm sure which fork or spoon to use when I am at a fancy dinner. I usually wait to see which utensil the others are using, then I follow suit, but I would like to be sure myself.

Can you help me?

DUMB AT THIRTY: Please don't call yourself "dumb."

FOLLOW THIS SIMPLE RULE: When silverware is lined up on either side of the plate, use the spoon (or fork) that is on the outside (farthest from the plate) first, and work toward the plate.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send it a long, stamped (20 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

STILL CLEAN AT NINETEEN

DEAR STILL: There are. And thanks for a refreshing letter.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a grown woman and I'm so ashamed of my problem I don't want to ask anybody else, so I'm

Health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb,

I read the letter in your column from a reader who loves and respects her husband but had no more desire for sex even though she had two children. I especially liked your comments about relaxing and doing what comes naturally.

My husband and I have been married for four years, and I have not gotten pregnant and we have never used any means of birth control. I've been to the doctor and he says there's nothing wrong, but my husband won't go.

He says sooner or later that I'll get pregnant, but I was wondering if maybe one of us is impotent. You said this could happen when you get too involved in performance, or because of fear of fatherhood. If the problem is, there is a way to correct it?

I'd really like to have some more advice. I've had people tell me everything and it never seems to help. We would really like to have children. My husband is 27 and I am 23. Can you help?

Dear Reader,

You're correct in thinking that your husband needs an examination. When it comes to pregnancy, it does take two. You cannot tell by looking at a man or from his performance whether or not he is capable of fathering children. A man may even appear to be "super masculine" and be a "stud." It is important to clear up your thinking on a few basic concepts. In the male, the production of male hormones, which is responsible for his masculine characteristics, is separate from the production of sperm which enables him to father children. The hormone comes from one group of cells and the sperm cells which cause pregnancy come from different cells.

Now you have confused the concept of being impotent with sterility. Impotent is commonly used in reference to the male being unable to sustain an erection to enable the normal sex act. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 3-12 on Impotency to give you more information. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

A man who performs normally may still be infertile (sterile), because of the absence of a sufficient number of healthy sperm cells. The only way to find out is to have the male tested by an examination. There is no way a man would know that he is infertile without such an examination unless he has already fathered children.

Regardless of your mental attitudes, stress or other problems which can occur and may cause impotency, these factors will not prevent the male from forming normal sperm cells.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

The following are the proposed Constitutional Amendments to be voted on at the next General Election to be held November 7, 1978

Five amendments to the Idaho Constitution will appear on a general election ballot. These have been proposed in the public ratification following action by the legislature.

The amendment proposals, the Legislative Council's statement of meaning and purpose, and the statements for and against are listed as follows:

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

To vote on the following, mark a cross in the square at the right of "Yes" or "No."

S.J.R. No. 102
"Shall Article VIII of the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended by the addition of a new Section 21 to provide for the issuance of revenue bonds by port districts in the manner prescribed by law. Yes No

S.J.R. No. 115
"Shall Section 3, Article V, of the Constitution of the State of Idaho, relating to limitations on county and municipal indebtedness, be amended to provide that a majority, rather than two-thirds of the qualified electors voting on the question, approve revenue bonds to finance airport and air navigation facilities in accordance with existing requirements, provided that such financing be paid solely from the revenue derived from the operation of such airport and air navigation facilities." Yes No

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL'S STATEMENT OF MEANING AND PURPOSE
S.J.R. 115

The meaning of this proposed amendment to Section 3, Article V, of the Constitution of the state of Idaho is to provide that a majority of the voters, voting on the question, rather than two-thirds of the voters voting on the question, may authorize the issuance of revenue bonds to finance airport facilities and air navigation facilities.

Effect of Adoption

The adoption of this proposed amendment would reduce the required majority of favorable votes needed on a question presented to the people in order for cities and other political subdivisions to be able to issue revenue bonds to finance airport facilities and air navigation facilities.

Arguments FOR the proposed amendment:

1. This amendment should be adopted so that financing for airport facilities and air navigation facilities can be readily provided.

2. There will be no increased burden placed upon the property tax payers because of this amendment; all revenue bonds are to be paid off from the revenue generated by the facilities of the airport.

3. In order to attract the kind of industry to Idaho that the people want, it is necessary to upgrade and improve facilities; this amendment will aid in this process.

4. Many of our kind of facilities of local units of government are financed by revenue bonds with the approval of a simple majority of the voters voting on the question. This amendment merely allows the same kind of majority approval for revenue bonds for airport facilities and air navigation facilities.

5. Idaho is uniquely dependent upon air transportation; this amendment will help to assure adequate air transportation facilities.

Arguments AGAINST the proposed amendment:

1. There is no need for this proposed amendment; revenue bonds for airport facilities may be issued at present after approval by two-thirds of the voters voting on the question.

2. In this time of increasing inflation and higher governmental spending, it is not proper to reduce the required majority for approval of bond issues, even if they are revenue bonds.

S.J.R. No. 110
"Shall Section 5, Article IX, of the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended to authorize the Legislature to empower the Idaho Health Facilities Authority to finance, or reimburse health facilities operated by a church or religious society."

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL'S STATEMENT OF MEANING AND PURPOSE
S.J.R. 110

The purpose of this proposed amendment to Section 5, Article IX, of the Constitution of the state of Idaho is to authorize the Legislature to empower the Idaho Health Facilities Authority to finance or reimburse health facilities owned or operated by a church or religious society.

Effect of Adoption

If adopted, this amendment would clarify the constitutional and statutory powers of the Health Facilities Authority, by allowing the authority to provide loans for religiously affiliated health facilities, in the same manner as such loans are now available to other, private, non-profit institutions.

Arguments FOR the proposed amendment:

1. The United States Constitution contains no similar barrier to this kind of financing proposal as does the Idaho Constitution. Adoption of the amendment would make the Idaho Constitution consistent with the United States Constitution on this matter.

2. The state of Idaho makes no tax dollars available to the Health Facilities Authority; all of the money available to the Health Facilities Authority comes from private sources. This loans by the Health Facilities Authority to non-profit health facilities do not constitute lending the credit of the state.

3. All non-profit hospitals, whether religiously affiliated or not, have the same basic philosophy of providing quality health care to people in need; this amendment will provide the necessary legal mechanism for an important group of religiously affiliated hospitals to receive financial assistance through loans or leases.

4. The interest costs of capital expenditures for religiously affiliated health facilities could be reduced because of loans made by the Health Facilities Authority; this reduction would help contain the rising cost of health care to patients.

Arguments AGAINST the proposed amendment:

1. This proposed amendment gives constitutional recognition to the Idaho Health Facilities Authority, which has been created by statute; however, nothing prevents the legislature from modifying or eliminating the operation of the Health Facilities Authority.

2. There is no guarantee in this proposed amendment that facilities financed by the Health Facilities Authority will be open to the general public; however, open admission and requirement of indigent care has historically been mandatory by applicable governmental standards.

H.J.R. No. 6
"Shall Section 13, Article I, of the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended to authorize the Legislature to provide mandatory minimum sentences for any crime and to provide that the sentence imposed shall not be less than the mandatory minimum sentence so provided and that the sentence imposed shall not be reduced?" Yes No

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL'S STATEMENT OF MEANING AND PURPOSE
H.J.R. 6

The purpose of this proposed amendment to Section 13, Article I, of the Constitution of the State of Idaho is to authorize the Legislature to establish mandatory minimum sentences for the commission of any crime and to specify that the sentence imposed shall not be reduced. The Idaho Supreme Court has held that the Legislature does not currently have the power to impose mandatory minimum sentences by law.

Effect of Adoption

If adopted, this amendment would empower the Legislature to pass criminal laws containing provisions which would require that a person convicted of a crime receive a minimum period of incarceration, without the possibility of the sentence being reduced, unless the sentence is commuted by the state board of pardons as provided in Section 7, Article IV, of the Constitution. No minimum sentences would be imposed until the Legislature acted affirmatively by passing legislation to impose mandatory minimum sentences for specific crimes.

Arguments FOR the proposed amendment:

1. Mandatory minimum sentences would contribute to a reduction of sentence disparity based on station in life or differing philosophies of members of the judiciary.

2. The certainty of being incarcerated for conviction of a crime provides a deterrent for those considering the commission of a crime. Jurisdictions which have enacted mandatory minimum sentences have experienced a decline in crime rates.

3. The Legislature should have the authority to determine how serious a crime is and to determine the sentence accordingly. This concept does not violate separation of powers.

4. The judiciary would only lose a certain amount of discretion in those crimes for which a minimum sentence has been prescribed. Even then, the only discretion lost is the ability to mete out an inadequate sentence. The Legislature could combine mandatory minimum sentencing with fixed term sentencing to allow the judiciary to assign greater than minimum sentences under aggravating circumstances.

5. Mandatory minimum sentences represent, particularly for violent crimes, a better alternative to crime prevention and control than does regulation of ownership of firearms.

Arguments AGAINST the proposed amendment:

1. Adoption of mandatory minimum sentences would remove discretion from the judiciary and place it in the hands of court prosecutors. The discretion to charge a crime with a minimum sentence is reserved for those outside the judicial system until a charge is actually filed, and is not subject to appellate review.

2. The adoption of mandatory minimum sentences does not consider individual differences in the offenses and the offenders. It would prevent treating an offense on a case by case basis, and require that a judge sentence the majority of crime, not the individual. Society at large may ultimately be injured by exposing a person convicted to a new education in prison not geared to rehabilitation.

3. Taxpayers would be faced by additional expense, both from added court congestion and an increase in prison population. If a person is charged with an offense for which there is a certainty of prison if convicted, he will exercise all legal remedies available to him.

4. Nothing would prevent the Legislature from imposing mandatory minimum sentences for amenable offenses if the amendment is adopted. If approved by the voters, the Legislature is free to make whatever changes it deems most desirable to what it feels the people demand.

5. There is no credible evidence that mandated imprisonment is an effective deterrent, requiring procedures for sentencing and the judgment of the Commission on Pardons and Paroles constitute the better method of achieving justice.

S.J.R. No. 116
"Shall Section 11, Article I, of the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended to protect the right to keep and bear arms, and to prevent the confiscation, licensure, registration, or special taxation of firearms or ammunition?" Yes No

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL'S STATEMENT OF MEANING AND PURPOSE
S.J.R. 116

The purpose of this proposed amendment to Section 11, Article I, of the Constitution of the state of Idaho is to reinforce the right of citizens to keep and bear arms, and to prevent the confiscation, licensure, registration or special taxation of firearms and ammunition.

Effect of Adoption

If adopted, this amendment would provide an additional constitutional barrier against the possibility of encroachment into the right of a citizen to keep and bear arms.

Arguments FOR the proposed amendment:

1. The Idaho Constitution only guarantees the right to bear arms; this amendment would add the right to keep arms.

2. This amendment is necessary in order to more firmly establish a constitutional guarantee against a possibility of in temperate, emotional, popular efforts to impose gun controls.

3. There is no substitute for the right to keep and bear arms for freedom loving citizens living in a free country. This amendment would enhance that right.

Arguments AGAINST the proposed amendment:

1. This amendment is totally unnecessary; the right to keep and bear arms is already a part of the United States Constitution.

2. There is a serious question as to whether this amendment is properly proposed; it obviously embraces more than one subject; it deals with the right to keep and bear arms; it deals with concealed weapons; it deals with minimum sentences; it deals with licensure; and it deals with taxation.

3. This amendment would allow dangerous psychopaths, who have committed no crime but are nevertheless a menace to themselves and others, to indiscriminately own and use firearms, and the police could do nothing about it.

4. The present Idaho Constitution has served very well for nearly a century to protect our right to bear arms; there is no reason to change this well established document.

5. The proposed amendment is very confusing; it will cause more problems than it will solve.

6. Irresponsible actions like this amendment on the part of the states will result in additional federal control of firearms.

What's what

Job description offered for U.S. college presidents

In 1649, it was, when Oliver Cromwell advanced on the town of Waterford in Ireland. He could go either of two ways, through the village of Crooke on one side of the harbor or by way of Hook Head on the other side. He would take Waterford, he said, "by Hook or by Crooke." And that's how that line got started.

What does a college president do? Clark Kerr, the former president of the University of California, said it's the job of such an executive to provide sex for the students, football for the alumni and parking for the faculty.

FEUD

Q. "What started the famous feud between the Hatfields and the McCoy's?"

A. A razorback hog loosed in the woods. Both families claimed it. A Kentucky jury gave it to the Hatfields. The McCoy's wouldn't sit still for the verdict.

Q. "Outside of Japan proper, where do the most Japanese live?"

A. In Brazil. There are about 750,000 there with 600,000 of them native-born Brazilians. Only about 600,000 Japanese live in the United States.

Q. "What's the most widely known word in the world?"

A. Amen. Christians, Jews and Moslems use it.

BUY-LAND

Antonio Roig of Majorca died a few weeks ago with exactly $50 in his possession, only enough to pay burial costs. In 1950, he inherited 10 acres of land from an aunt, but was obliged to sell it, because he didn't have the $50 then that it would have taken to build a fence around the property as required by law. Only five years later, the building boom was on, and the new owner sold the land for $20 million.

Building is booming at the Woodside Village resort in Halley after five years of inactivity

Christopher Hogan/Times-News

Paul plant may begin operation

PAUL — The Amalgamated Sugar Co. plant here is scheduled to begin processing sugar beets—sometime today—as talks continue in Boise between Amalgamated Sugar Co. officials and representatives of striking sugar beet workers.

Paul plant manager Pete Chertudl said he expects no trouble from picketing union workers during the fifth day of the strike, despite the presence of 80 non-union employees from throughout the Magic Valley.

"Everyone has been very cordial and friendly, so far," Chertudl said. "It looks like everyone concerned, for the benefit of everyone, wants a quick settlement."

Chertudl said Sunday night a time had not been set to start up the plant. He said he expects full-capacity operations even though he normally employs a peak of 600 people.

"The 80 people are new people," the manager admitted, "but in addition to that we have 90 supervisors from different plants."

Chief union negotiator James Burtlow said about 9:30 p.m. Sunday the day's negotiations ended without agreement, but he did say some progress had been made in the talks.

Burtlow said the main issue still separating both sides was the length of the contract. The union is after a two-year pact and the right to negotiate wages for a third year while the sugar company is seeking a three-year contract.

Amalgamated Sugar Co. was offering an average 7.5 percent pay hike this year and 6 percent for the next two years. The workers haven't said publicly what pay hike they are seeking. Burtlow did not mention whether the amount of money being sought was still tying up the negotiations.

Larry Corry, Amalgamated Sugar's chief negotiator, could not be reached Sunday night for comment on any progress that might be coming. Company officials refused to comment.

If the Paul plant begins processing operations today, it will leave only two of Amalgamated Sugar's four plants closed, one in Twin Falls and the other in Nyssa, Ore.

Vandals damage TV tower

TWIN FALLS — Vandals from the KMYT-TV tower cost the television station $10,000 and transmission of the last game of Sunday's World Series baseball game between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the New York Yankees.

KMYT General Manager Richard Moore said transmission equipment damaged by someone shooting at the tower last week forced the station to delay programming from starting Sunday morning until 11 a.m.

Home screens were blackened for another 15 minutes Sunday afternoon for final repairs to the 600-foot tower on Jerome Butte, five miles northeast of Twin Falls, he said.

The Yankees were demolishing the Dodgers 12-2 at the time and went on to win by that score. Moore was reminded of a similar decision on national television several years ago when the film "Held" was substituted for the final 90 seconds of a National Football League game.

The New York Jets tied the Oakland Raiders by a seemingly insurmountable score, but the Raiders came back to win the game on two last-gasp touchdowns the viewers never saw.

Moore noted that the Dodgers didn't mimic the Raiders. He said the decision engineers made to go off the air at that time might have been due to complications at the tower at that time. He said they may have been forced to scale the electrified tower at that time or face the chance of being off the air the rest of the day.

Moore said the parts replaced normally last a lifetime and replacement parts and a special repair crew had to be flown in before adjustments in the signal could be made.

The general manager explained viewers had been informed since Friday that KMYT would have to leave the air briefly Sunday.

"We did quite a bit of work on it at night, but I'm not going to risk sending people 600 feet up a tower at night," he said. "We did all the preliminaries and then shut off for 15 minutes."

Moore said insurance probably will cover the cost of some of the vandalism. He said a similar act of vandalism damaged the television station's transmission signal about seven years ago.

Woodside

Huge subdivision is finally coming to life after five years

CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

HAILEY — The tragedy of the 640-acre Woodside Village Resort in Halley looks as if it's going to have a happy ending five years after the huge subdivision was begun.

Construction at Woodside this summer has far outpaced any development there since the project was started in 1972. Building is booming. In relative terms, for the first time in Woodside's history.

But development is being handled at a measured rate — slow enough for the city and the real estate market to keep pace. The result seems to be that the largest planned housing development in Blaine County is finally coming to life after five years of still-born existence.

Originally planned for a community of 6,000 people, the Woodside project was a multimillion dollar failure for the original developers, the McCulloch Oil Corp.

Local realtors say McCulloch misjudged the housing market when it began developing Woodside in 1973, and the huge corporation was never able to make the project go.

With more than 1,000 lots in the subdivision, which is situated in the southeastern corner of Halley, only 56 lots were sold during McCulloch's ownership. And during those first years of development, only five houses, a resort racquet club and about 24 condominiums were built on the 640 acres of platted meadow land that is Woodside.

However, Ketchum Contractor Chuck Grubb and Ketchum Developer Fred Sprenger formed a small business consortium and bought the ailing resort for an undisclosed price last November.

In the hands of new owners who have changed the project's marketing direction and with a much stronger real estate market now in the Wood River Valley, Woodside looks as if it is going to bloom for Sprenger, Grubb and Associates.

Grubb recently noted 12 new homes were begun this summer and soon will be completed. By most standards this is not big boom development, but it is more than twice as much building in a single season as occurred over the project's first five years.

Grubb said he is building nine of the homes and he already sold them all in a price range from $45,500 to $49,000. The new owners have also sold 10 lots at prices ranging from $8,350 to $9,350, he added.

According to the Ketchum contractor, this is right on schedule with the new owners' plans for Woodside. "I don't have any grandiose ideas of 200 or 300 homes going on at once out there," he said. Next year he said he will be planning to build about 20 new Woodside homes.

Perhaps one of the reasons for the new owners' initial success is their change in marketing strategy. They are focusing on building and selling homes in the subdivision, while McCulloch planned to make the project go only through land sales.

Local realtors also point to a much strengthened real estate market to help explain the new life at Woodside. McCulloch began planning and construction of the huge housing development in the early 1970s and then was caught in the economic recession of 1973-74.

Now the Wood River Valley real estate market is booming. Elkhorn will hold Idaho's first real estate lottery on Saturday because of excessive demand to buy into their new Meadowridge subdivision, and prices are skyrocketing throughout the rest of Sun Valley and Ketchum.

Ron Cayo, a realtor for Warm Springs Realty in Ketchum and Halley, says prices in the northern Wood River Valley have soared so high that Halley is "the only place people can hope to get any kind of value and still be able (to afford) to get into, whether it's a lot or a house."

The new Woodside development and sales pace is also just right for the city, according to Halley Mayor Emory Dietrich. Dietrich said it is a healthy growth rate and one which won't strain city service departments.

While McCulloch's original vision of a planned development for a community of 6,000 people tended to scare and incense most of Halley's 1,700 residents, the city seems to have accepted the fact that one day Woodside would be developed to some extent.

Grubb claims the "business climate" of the local community has been supportive of the new Woodside owners.

"No one is saying much about it anymore," Dietrich notes. "There was a lot of bitterness at first, but you don't hear any rumblings downtown anymore. It's part of the city."

If ever fully developed, Woodside certainly would be an important part of Halley, for it alone could house a population almost four times the size of the current city.

But Grubb says he and his other partners are not looking that far down the road. When they decided to buy Woodside from McCulloch, he says they agreed to commit themselves to the village resort for five years. In 1982, he says they will reassess where they are and where they want them to be going.

After the first year, however, Grubb says the Woodside ownership road has been remarkably smooth and looks to continue promisingly toward that five year horizon.

"You always have your anxieties on something like this," he remarked. "But so far so good. We'll be around another year, anyway."

Lottery nets $1 million at Elkhorn

By LARRY SWISHER
Times-News writer

ELKHORN — Not one of the 14 names drawn out of a hat in a unique $1 million real estate lottery Saturday at Elkhorn passed by the opportunity to buy a homestead.

Taking advantage of the heavy demand for the relatively low-priced land, some of the buyers are already negotiating to resell their purchases at a higher price.

The Elkhorn resort at Sun Valley sold the 14 parcels for $97,000, although it could have held an auction or sealed bidding and received much more.

Instead, Elkhorn President John Harker said he decided to set the price beforehand and draw names out of a hat in order to be fair and, if possible, help hold down rapidly escalating land prices in the Wood River Valley.

"I feel very pleased at the success of the lottery," Harker said Saturday. "If I have any disappointment it's that a number of people who really wanted to build a home weren't successful, and some who were not interested in building but just investment, were."

"Some were just speculators," he said, "but they have valid interests." Harker said some buyers are already negotiating to resell their purchases at a higher price and that this was expected.

Harker said there was no way to screen out speculators in favor of those who wanted a homestead.

Bottle throwing victim

An unidentified man, stabbed in the abdomen, was wheeled to an ambulance outside the La Burreita Bar Sunday night. The man was injured during a bottle-throwing fight at the bar just west of Twin Falls. Ambulance drivers brought two men to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, one with the stab wound, and the other with a shoulder wound. The incident occurred about 10 p.m. No arrests have been made in the case by the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department. Chief Deputy Jim Munn had no further details at press time. One person speaking to law officers in the bar afterward indicated the knife was four inches long. A bartender said he was working in the crowded bar when beer bottles suddenly started being thrown through the air.

Public libraries becoming 'big business'

MARY JANE KINNEY
state chairman

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The image of the public libraries as "dusty ivory towers" has changed. They are now being patronized for a wide variety of services ranging from children's story hours to providing information to people from all walks of life, according to Mary Jane Kinney of Twin Falls, the new chairman of the State Library Board. Mrs. Kinney, as the top volunteer in the network of library trustees in the state, speaks from many years' experience on library boards at state and local levels. Since she was first appointed to the state board in June, 1976, she has visited nearly every local library throughout the state. The new chairman, who was elected to succeed Del Beukelman of Nampa at a board meeting last month in Idaho Falls, described her visits as an "exciting learning experience."

The retrieval and storage of the vast variety of information needed in today's business and cultural life extends far beyond the old stereotype of little old ladies working on dusty shelves, she says.

"Libraries have become big business," Mrs. Kinney said, and plans are under way to eventually place Idaho reference material in a computer system.

But the new state board chairman emphasized that library trustees, both state regional and local, do not run libraries, but are volunteers who serve as policy making groups and as a liaison between the taxpayers and public whom the professional librarians serve.

The Idaho State Library, administered through the three-member board which the Twin Falls woman heads, is charged with the extension and development of public library services throughout the state. The board now is a division of the Idaho Department of Education.

"The state library doesn't try to tell a local library what to do," Mrs. Kinney said. But its staff headed by Helen Miller can offer expertise and invaluable advice.

The state library board has other duties which include administering federal and state grants to local library. Such money in recent years has resulted in remodeling and additions in many area library facilities, including Twin Falls, Filer, Bellevue, Burley, Jerome and Buhl.

Another service of the state library is to provide braille material for the blind and other physically handicapped persons, Mrs. Kinney said.

Since 1974 local libraries in Idaho have operated under a regional system wherein each of the six regions has its own board whose members are urged to use their imagination and own initiative to best serve their particular area.

The Twin Falls Public Library is headquarters for the Magic Valley region with Arlen Call as regional library director. The regional libraries provide resource and research services and act as a clearing house for the inter-library loan requests.

Mrs. Kinney, who has been involved in many community efforts in Twin Falls over the past 30 years, began her career as a library volunteer in 1968 when she was appointed to the Twin Falls Public Library Board. Later she became active in the Idaho Library Association and served as chairman of the Trustees and Friends Division of that group.

She feels that perhaps the most important service the state library board can give is to acquaint regional and local libraries with trustees and friends with the many kinds of services offered and to spread their enthusiasm about the vital services these facilities now offer.

"This should not be hard for Mrs. Kinney, who sees the goal of libraries to 'provide all citizens with any resource' they need regardless of where they live."

Traffic accidents claim four lives during weekend

By United Press International
A series of traffic accidents on Idaho roads over the weekend killed four persons and injured at least 12 others, State Police reported.

Deaths are Jan Leibhart, 20, Boise, Lew A. Whitman, 29, Boise, Dwayne Muck, 24, Lewiston, and Barbara Nelson, 1, Downey.

Critically injured were Margaret Nellsen, 26, and John D. Stoumbough, 19, both of Boise.

Whitman and Leibhart were involved in separate one-car crashes on Idaho Highway 21 Saturday.

Leibhart apparently drowned after the pickup truck in which she was riding went off the road and flipped on its top into Mores Creek, police said.

The southeast pickup driven by Timothy Hudson, 26, Buhl, overshot a curve near milepost 35, four miles south of Idaho City.

The pickup's occupants were pinned in the crushed cab. Nellsen apparently drowned before she could be freed.

Whitman and Leibhart were killed Saturday afternoon in Boise and Fields, 20, Boise, also were in the vehicle when the accident occurred about 1 a.m.

Rescue workers labored for over an hour to free the victims. Hudson and Fields were treated and released at St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise and Hays was listed in satisfactory condition there Sunday.

State police said the wreck was under investigation.

Whitman died when a car he was careened out of control near milepost 31 on Idaho 21 and plunged down a 325-foot embankment. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Police said Nellsen, the driver, lost control of her car after it hit a guard rail. Both persons were thrown from the car and a passer-by reported the accident at about 9:30 a.m.

Nellsen, taken to St. Alphonsus with serious but nonfatal injuries, improved to fair condition Sunday.

Muck died late Saturday night at Sacred Heart Medical Center, Spokane, Wash. State Police said his car was traveling at an excessive rate of speed Saturday morning on a downtown Orange, Idaho street.

Witnesses told officers Muck's car went over the road's shoulder, jumped back across the pavement and hit a light pole. From there, they said, the vehicle crashed into a second car, forcing it into a third. No one else was injured. Muck was taken by ambulance to the hospital.

In Downey, the Nelson girl died Saturday when she was run over by a pickup truck. Hugh Hawkes, 23, Downey, apparently did not see the girl playing under the truck and backed over her.

Hudson and Fields were killed Saturday afternoon in Boise critically injured. Stoumbough was thrown from his motorcycle and suffered head injuries when the bike collided with a car driven by Richard B. Knading, 40, Boise. Stoumbough was in serious but stable condition at St. Luke's Hospital Sunday evening.

State Police also reported a two-car crash at Nampa, Idaho. That accident sent seven persons to Mercy Medical Center Saturday afternoon with various injuries. Linda Ayres, 32, Nampa, was in satisfactory condition at the medical center. Her 10-week-old son, Michael, was in serious condition there. Four others involved were not hurt seriously.

Elkhorn buyers already negotiating

But he said, "Everybody recognized we were being fair. It wasn't a hype job. The only advertising we did was in the local papers. I just feel for a few people, who really wanted (a homesite) but didn't get one."

Depositing $2,300 each for the privilege of purchasing one of 14 lots in Elkhorn's Meadowridge subdivision were 32 buyers. The money was returned to unsuccessful buyers.

More than 65 buyers originally expressed interest, and the great number prompted Harker to hold the drawing.

Harker, who is a native of Idaho, said he was pleased that nearly half of the potential buyers were from the state. Of the 32 taking part, 11 were from Blaine County, three from Twin Falls, two from Oregon, one from Washington, one from Arizona, one from Florida, 12 from California and one from Nevada. Real estate salesmen represented 16 of the potential buyers.

"To demonstrate their seriousness, the prospective buyers were required to deposit a cashier's check—and fill out a financial statement."

The lots sold Saturday ranged from about half an acre to almost one acre.

"We considered an auction or sealed bid," Harker said. "Punished by speculators it would have resulted in much higher sales prices."

"We left money on the table. But I personally couldn't have felt comfortable about the effect that would have on other values," he said.

Harker said he wanted to avoid doing anything to cause land prices to rise higher than they must. He said heavy demands has caused Sun Valley area land prices to double in the last 13 months, although they are still low compared to Vale and Aspen, the only resort areas comparable to Sun Valley.

"I certainly hope Elkhorn won't have to hold another lottery."

He said the rising land prices are causing inflation in the Wood River Valley and affecting the prices paid by people who already live, work and own property there.

"We have 100,000 invested in time, money and credibility," he said about Elkhorn's role in the area.

The Johns Manville Corporation made a commitment to make Elkhorn a planned community that will have positive results on people here and in the state of Idaho. I want to be able to look people in the eye."

Elkhorn will sell more than $18 million in real estate this year, he said.

But he had already faces another real estate quandary. More than 300 names have expressed interest in the resort's 98-unit Sun-Burst condominium project.

Utah educator says 'too many subjects'

LAKEWEED, Colo. (UPI) — The head of Utah's public college and university system says modern schools try to teach too many subjects at the expense of the basics, while parents offer their children too little instruction.

Dr. T.H. Bell, Utah Commissioner of Higher Education, said, "We now teach energy conservation right alongside with driver training and many other so-called subjects."

"We call it a very rich and broad curriculum, but the cost in terms of mastery of what schools were established to do is apparent," Bell said in a weekend address to a Colorado leadership conference.

Bell said the first duty of schools is to provide students with the basics of math, science, language and history.

"We ought to expose the child to the other fields of interest only after we have devoted enough time and priority to attain the mastery in depth of the basics."

Castleford man fair after shooting incident

TWIN FALLS — A 24-year-old Castleford shooting victim was reported in fair condition in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital here Sunday afternoon following surgery for gunshot wounds to the stomach, hand and arm, hospital officials said.

The victim was identified as Jerry Strimbold of Twin Falls County Sheriff Paul Cordeur. He said Strimbold was shot just prior to 7-40 p.m. Saturday night near the viewpoint by Balance Rock west of Castleford.

Cordeur said James Michael

Povalawski, 19, of Buhl, was being held on $30,000 bond on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. Povalawski will be arraigned before Magistrate Judge Dan Meehl sometime Monday.

He said Povalawski was arrested by seven state, county and city law enforcement officers in a vehicle about 3 a.m. Sunday, three miles south of the Cedar Pass dump on a county road east of Buhl.

The sheriff said the investigation was still continuing.

Local retired group offers crime program

TWIN FALLS — A special crime prevention program for older persons will be offered by the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

The program is scheduled Tuesday and Thursday by Magic Valley Chapter #425 at the Senior Citizens Center, 839 4th Ave. W. Both sessions will start at 7 p.m.

Officers of the Twin Falls Police Department will participate as re-

According to a spokesperson, the program is designed to help older persons learn simple crime prevention techniques which will reduce the risk of becoming a victim of crime. Street crime, burglary and community-police relations will be discussed.

Bus service will be provided for those who need it. Call 734-5084 for more information.

Sugar bill gets Church vote though he was 'disappointed'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, voted for a compromise bill raising the price of sugar Sunday, but said he was disappointed in the measure and sees it only as a holding action.

The bill, acceptable to an inflation-conscious Carter Administration, was approved after sunrise by House and Senate conferees.

It provides sugarbeet and sugarcane producers 15.75 cents per pound for raw sugar this crop year and 15.8 next year, above the current support of 14.65 cents. It insures that retail prices of soft drinks, candy, cookies and refined sugar would increase.

The Senate had approved a 16-cent bill and the House a 15-cent bill. Church had advocated a 17-cent measure with an escalator clause to compensate for inflation.

"Like others, I am keenly disappointed with this bill," the Idaho Democrat said. "It's a far cry from the bill I introduced with 33 co-sponsors last April." He said he would seek to get a higher sugar price limit set when Congress convenes again next year.

The bill also gives the administration authority to participate in the International Sugar Agreement, which sets up a system to maintain sugar prices between a price range of 11 and 21 cents a pound.

It also allows President Carter six more weeks to waive duties on European products dumped in the United States while multilateral trade talks continue.

Search on for marshals

BUHL — The Clear Lakes Agency is looking for junior fire marshals for the Buhl, Castleford and Clover school areas.

Bill Assendrup of the agency said the marshals program got underway last week during "National Fire Prevention Week."

"The idea behind the junior fire marshals program is to stimulate greater our public awareness and concern," he said. "The best place to start, in our opinion, is in the schools."

Founded as a public service by the Hartford Insurance Group in 1947, Junior Fire Marshals reaches nearly 2 million kindergarten through third graders. Youngsters are taught how to prevent fires and what to do when fires break out.

"It is easy to arouse the enthusiasm of young children," he said. "But lasting benefits will depend on the cooperation of parents and other adults in the community."

To qualify as a marshal, a youngster must inspect his home for a fire hazard and pledge to observe certain fire safety rules. In a letter which goes home with children taking part in the program, parents are asked to assist their child in completing the inspection report and so indicating on a signed statement to his teacher.

Two teams set records

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two World Series records were set on Sunday's fifth game between New York and Los Angeles. The Yankees and Dodgers combined for 24 singles; New York with 16 and Los Angeles with eight. The old record of 23 was set by the Pittsburgh Pirates and Yankees in 1907. The Yankees set a record with 16 singles for one game. Thurman Munson knocked in five runs to tie 10 other players for second place in World Series history. The single game record of six is held by Bobby Richardson of the Yankees; Munson has hit safely in 14 of his 15 World Series games. During that span he is hitting .387. The last time any team had more hits than the Yankees' 18 Sunday was in 1946, when St. Louis collected 20 hits in a 12-3 triumph over Boston. Reggie Jackson failed to knock in a run Sunday. His streak of consecutive games with at least one RBI in World Series competition was snapped at eight, leaving him tied for the all-time record with Lou Gehrig. Jackson, however, did keep his World Series hitting streak alive and has now hit in nine straight games in 1978. During that span he is hitting .500. If the Yankees should win Game 6, they would become the first team in history to win four straight games after losing the first two. Sunday they scored more runs than any team in a Series game since Babe Ruth's total of 131 victory over St. Louis 10 years ago.

Bob Hope was clue

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maybe Bob Hope throwing out the first ball was a clue. Yankees lashed out 18 hits — the most by a club in World Series competition in 32 years — and got nine-hit pitching from Jim Beattie and five RBI from Thurman Munson in completing the rout. But it was the Dodgers' Achilles heel — a shaky defense — that was most responsible for the one-sided contest. In a scene reminiscent of the days of the "Daffiness Dodgers", Los Angeles committed three errors, two passed balls and a wild pitch, most of which contributed to Yankee runs. In addition, they were guilty of missing several balls that should have been fielded. The worst of those was Bucky Dent's hard shot at shortstop Bill Russell in the fourth inning.

Next pitchers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter will try to get the world championship for the New York Yankees, while the Dodgers' hopes for remaining alive will rest on the right arm of Don Sutton. The game is scheduled Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in Los Angeles, Calif.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers said goodbye and good-bide to New York Sunday. The Dodgers flew into New York last week with some heavy thoughts about a World Series sweep after taking the first two games in warm and friendly Dodger Stadium. Now trailing three games to two following Sunday's 12-2 embarrassment, their egos battered by 21 Yankee runs in three outings in Yankee Stadium, the Dodgers can't wait to get home. Shortstop Bill Russell, who committed one of three Dodger errors in the game, said it was not so much the softer infield in Yankee Stadium that bothered him but the Yankee fans. "The infield is softer, but it isn't just that," Russell said. "It's the fans here. They're unnerving. You have to be half-crazy to live in this city. At least our fans are civilized."

Davey Lopes, who had the best game for his team, said up the situation succinctly. "They should drop a bomb on this place," Lopes said. "Today was just a total disaster," said Ron Cey. "I wouldn't say everyone is doing everything wrong, but there's enough to make a difference. It happens in a few games every year. There's nothing you can do about it, just shrug it off and go to the next game.

The Yankee fans weren't unruly Sunday until it was all over and then they swarmed onto the field and left it looking like a disaster area. No more games will be played in the stadium this year and it's just as well since there were more than 20 large torn-out areas of turf within a half-hour of the game's end. And the fans weren't wearing Dodger uniforms although more than one Dodger fielder looked like amateurs.

The Yankees pelted a record 16 singles and the Dodgers contributed one wild pitch, two passed balls and three errors. Two of the errors were extremely costly. In the four-run, third inning barrage, Bucky Dent led off with a walk and moved to second on a Mickey Vernon single; Roy White then singled home Dent, and Thurman Munson followed with a single to right field. Reggie Smith fielded the ball in right and threw wildly to home trying to get White as he followed Rivers across the plate. Munson went to third on the throw, which bounced into the stands, and scored on a single by White. The Yankees also knocked out Dodger starter Burt Hooton after 2-1 innings. When the Yankees came up with three more runs in the fourth, a wild throw by Steve Garvey also figured prominently. Brian Doyle started the outburst with a one-out single to right, then sped around and slid hard into third on Dent's single to left. Rivers followed with his third straight single to drive home Doyle and Dent scored on a groundout to first by White. Garvey fielded the ball at first base, threw wildly to home on the play, trying to double up Dent, and Rivers took advantage to go to third. Munson then made it 7-2 when he singled to bring home Rivers and notch the third of his five RBI.

"I think it's easier to come back after a blowout like this than it is after a close, hard game," said Garvey. "I'm glad to have a day off Monday. The more time you put between this and the next game, the better."

New Orleans Saints' Jim Merlo (57) picks up San Francisco fumble in 14-7 win

Green Bay clobbers Seahawks

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Steve Odum returned the opening kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown and halfback Terrell Middleton scored four times in a steady drizzle Sunday to spark the rejuvenated Green Bay Packers to a 45-28 victory over the Seattle Seahawks.

The victory was the Packers' sixth in seven games and enabled them to maintain their lead in the NFC Central Division. Seattle dropped to 3-4.

Green Bay stunned the Seahawks with two touchdowns in the first two minutes and converted three fumble recoveries into a 28-0 first quarter lead. Although the Seahawks rallied in the second half behind quarterback Jim Zorn, the game was never close.

Middleton, who finished with 124 yards in 22 carries, scored on runs of 5, 14, 2 and 9 yards. Green Bay's other points came on David Whitehurst's 24-yard TD pass to rookie James Lofton and Chester Marcol's 22-yard field goal.

Zorn, whose scrambling act befuddled the Packers' relentless pass rush, scored on a 12-yard run and threw a 48-yard TD pass to Steve Largent. Seattle also scored on a 9-yard run by Sherman Smith and a 2-yard run by David Sims.

The point explosion was Green Bay's biggest since Dec. 21, 1969, when quarterback Don Horn threw five scoring passes in a 45-28 victory over St. Louis.

Middleton's touchdown spree was the most for any Packer since 1967, when Donny Anderson scored four times against Cleveland. The Seahawks were plagued by mistakes, losing five fumbles and two interceptions.

Seattle, which was coming off a 29-28 upset of Minnesota, never seemed to recover from Odum's spectacular return. After fielding the ball at the five, Odum never broke stride as he weaved his way through fallen bodies and outraced two defenders to the end zone.

Besides the longest return of his career, the touchdown had added significance for Odum. Earlier this week, he promised that if he scored against the Seahawks, the ball would go to an 11-year-old boy in an Appleton hospital.

The youth, Greg Peters of Shiocton, lost his legs and broke his arms in a farm accident last week.

Pittsburgh 34-14

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Terry Bradshaw threw touchdown passes to Lynn Swann and John Stallworth, and rookie Larry Anderson ran a "kickoff" back 85 yards for a touchdown Sunday, sparking the unbeaten Pittsburgh Steelers to a 34-14 triumph over the Cleveland Browns.

After Anderson's runback late in the first half gave Pittsburgh a 13-7 lead, Bradshaw got the Steelers going in the third quarter on an 11-play, 69-yard scoring drive that featured two successful conversions — by the Steelers — on fourth-and-one situations.

The drive was capped by a 28-yard Bradshaw to Swann pass — Pittsburgh safety Mike Wagner set off the drive when he intercepted a Brian Sipe pass early in the quarter.

Bradshaw went to work again late in the third quarter, directing his club on a 10-play, 71-yard scoring drive. Rocky Bleier capped the series with a 1-yard touchdown run over right tackle.

Pittsburgh played most of the game without the services of All-Pro linebacker Jack Lambert, who was thrown out of the contest in the first quarter for fighting. Star running back Greg Pruitt of the Browns, who started the game, saw only spot duty and was unable to spark the Cleveland offense.

Sipe got the Browns rolling early in the fourth quarter, when he threw 19 yards to Reggie Rucker for a touchdown with 11:25 left in the game.

On the next series, however, Bradshaw hit John Stallworth with a screen pass and the wide receiver did some "nifty" running for a 32-yard score, leading the game for Pittsburgh.

Two straight fumbles on first-quarter drives by Cleveland and a Mel Blount interception of a Sipe pass stymied the Browns.

Blount picked off a pass by Sipe early in the game and returned it to the Cleveland 15, but the Browns' defense held and the Steelers were forced to settle for a 22-yard field goal by Roy Gerela. Later in the quarter, Cleveland's defense again held the Steelers, following a fumble by Sipe. Gerela booted a 44-yard field goal to give Pittsburgh a 6-0 lead.

Broncos hope to break jinx

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Broncos have seldom played well before a nationwide television audience. But Coach Red Miller looks at his squad's losing record in Monday night games and chuckles.

The Broncos hold a 1-4-1 mark in their Monday night outings. They also were defeated by Dallas before a national audience in the Super Bowl, again by the Cowboys in pre-season action last August, and in their first Monday night appearance this season at Minnesota.

"Oh, I didn't know we had done that badly," said a smiling Miller when reminded of his team's lackluster performances before national television cameras. "But I promise we'll get better."

Miller gets the chance to back up his promise tonight when the Broncos take on the Chicago Bears in a thick haze of Brännonnia caused by 75,000 screaming fans at Mile High Stadium.

Denver Mayor Bill McNichols has declared today "Orange Day" and the fans are expected to respond by wearing orange to their jobs and on the streets. When night falls, those who come to the stadium to watch tickets will be sporting the city's favorite color at the game, Denver's 62nd consecutive sellout.

Besides the Broncos' 4-2 record, compared to Chicago's 3-3 mark, Denver has in its favor a string of successes at Mile High Stadium which have been interrupted by only four losses in the past three years.

Meanwhile, the Bears will be counting on their recent acquisition of veteran defensive tackle Alan Page to put the team back on the winning track after three straight losses. Page was picked up on waivers last week from Minnesota where he was a major component of the Vikings' "Purple People-Eater" defense.

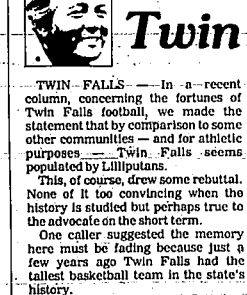

"All we have to tell him is to line up, reach for always does and go play football," said Bears Coach Neil Armstrong. "He can step right in and help us. He knows what we're doing and he's in great condition. He can help us."

The Broncos will be relying on veteran quarterback Craig Penrose to provide the spark. Penrose's offensive has been lacking. Miller announced last week regular starter Craig Morton would be replaced by Penrose, a 31-year veteran.

Norris Wince, who has relieved Morton through most of the 1978 season, is the likely backup. Morton suffered in Denver's 23-0 loss to San Diego more than a week ago.

"Honestly, I think Wince would be starting now if he was healthy," Penrose said.

Twin Falls has a history of short athletes

TWIN FALLS — In a recent column, concerning the fortunes of Twin Falls football, we made the statement that by comparison to some other communities — and for athletic purposes — Twin Falls seems populated by Lilliputians.

This, of course, drew some rebuttal. None of it so convincing when the history is studied but perhaps true to the advocate of the short term.

One caller suggested the memory here must be fading because just a few years ago Twin Falls had the tallest basketball team in the state's history.

We are sure this refers to the 1974 bunch which won Twin Falls' first and only state title.

That group was 6-9, 6-7, two 6-6 and one 6-5. Not, when put on the floor, it wasn't the tallest because the guards were 5-10 and 6-1. There have been several taller teams in average and in actual size.

But if the rebuttor would like to consider the history, let this be considered: in the late 40s Twin Falls' centers were Cecil Stanger, on loan from Hansen which didn't have a high school at that time, at 6-2, and Hubert Hendrix and Wayne Ford, both about 6-1. In the early 1950s, it went Bud Gross 6-1, Bud Sweet 6-1, Bob Ridgeway and Bob Lydum, 6-1 and 6-2. Then Bob Walton, at 6-3, came on for two years. Twin Falls' first tall one was 6-5 Bart Strong, who started for two years in the late 50s. In between was Dave Fix, about 6-2 or maybe 6-1. Then came Paul Stover at 6-5, Ken High at 6-5, Rogers, 6-3, Sorenson, a Utah transfer, at about 6-3. You see that 6-5 was it until Kent Schmidt came along in 1971 and for three years pushed that to 6-7. Dennis Bowyer kept it at 6-6 for another year. Overall, the average wouldn't be 6-4 over 30 years and by basketball standards that isn't big.

In football, we would guess that the biggest Twin Falls tall put out there was Bud Cross and Lee Bartlett at ends; Clark Whitehead at center;

Dick Transue; Keith Jensen and Jim Whitesides. The latter three ranged from about 210 to 225. That was in the fall of 1951 and the last time Twin Falls won the Southern Idaho Conference, (then nicknamed Big Six) football championship. And in an age when everyone, boys and girls, traditionally are getting bigger, having to go back 26 years to find your biggest line seems contrary.

When Declo's coaching staff goes to football game, it's not a Sunday day without sitting down for a whole dinner.

Head Coach Mike Matthews has the family right in the middle of things. Brother John Matthews starts every play at center; brother-in-law Dale Darrington takes it from John as the quarterback, and in about as many cases as not, hands it off to another brother, Scott Matthews at fullback.

Meanwhile, Coach Curtis, Matthews' aide, has a son playing the other halfback spot.

"Oh yeah," Coach Matthews smiles. "It's a real family affair up here. If we mess up in a game, we just go home and talk about it."

Of Interest in the new Intercollegiate activities association bulletin for the new year is the deletion of one girls event and the addition of two more for track.

Neither Twin Falls nor Jerome will complain about it. What the state did was cut the 75-yard dash. This is a great blessing and will receive loud praise from those who have served as place pickers. The girls come across the line so close and quickly in that event, it is just about impossible to pick.

The state then added the two-mile run and the 300-yard hurdles for the girls. What this basically did was further insulate Jerome and Twin Falls girls teams from the rest of the state. Over the years those two schools have been powers in distance running. The half-mile and mile have been dominated by Orange and Blue at state. By adding the two mile, it would seem that the rich get richer.

What the 300-yard hurdles will mean can't be stated now. But since both Twin Falls and Jerome have strong conditioning programs, it may be assumed they will do okay there, too.

The state basketball tournament sites this year are A — Mindome at Idaho State; A-2, Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa; A-3, Bonneville high school in Idaho Falls, and A-4, College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls. The state also has assigned a fee of $3 for adults and $2 for students.

Four state track meets will be held May 18 and 19 at Bronco Stadium in Boise, the golf and tennis will be held simultaneously May 18 and 19 at Elkhorn.

Girls basketball tournaments will run Feb. 15 through 17 with A-1 at Boise; A-2 at Post Falls; A-3 at Lewiston and A-4 at Burley.

Pat Haden leads Ram come back

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Pat Haden engineered two touchdown drives and Isaiah Robertson scored on a bizarre fumble return in fourth quarter Sunday to rally the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams to a 34-17 victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

Jets 33-10
BALTIMORE (UPI) — Matt Rostenkowski passed for 215 yards and two touchdowns Sunday, including a 77-yard scoring pass to Wesley Walker, leading the New York Jets to a 33-10 victory over the Baltimore Colts.

Baltimore, 2-5, also lost quarterback Bert Jones in the first quarter with a bruised right shoulder. Jones, playing his first game since suffering a shoulder separation in the final exhibition game, was injured when tackled by Jets' linebacker Bob Martin when trying to pass.

Oilers 17-10
HOUSTON (UPI) — Ron Carpenter's 18-yard touchdown run capped a 97-yard scoring drive Sunday and rallied the Lehigh Valley Houston Oilers to a 17-10 victory over the Buffalo Bills.

The Oilers improved their record to 4-3 despite squandering three excellent scoring opportunities in the first half.

Trailing 14-10 with seven minutes gone in the third quarter, Houston began its winning comeback drive from the 3-yard line. Quarterback Dan Pastorini threw passes of 11 yards to Mike Renfro, nine yards to Ronnie Coleman and 32 yards to Ken Burroughs. Carpenter took a Patriots pitch around right end and behind a clogging block from Renfro, ran untouched for a score from the 18-yard line.

Oakland 28-6
OAKLAND (UPI) — Ken Stabler, in his finest passing performance of the season, completed 15-of-19 attempts for 222 yards Sunday, leading the Oakland Raiders to a 28-6 victory over the fading Kansas City Chiefs.

The win gave Oakland a 5-2 record and a half-game lead in the AFC-West on Denver, which plays tonight against Chicago. It was Kansas City's sixth consecutive loss since a season-opening victory over Cincinnati.

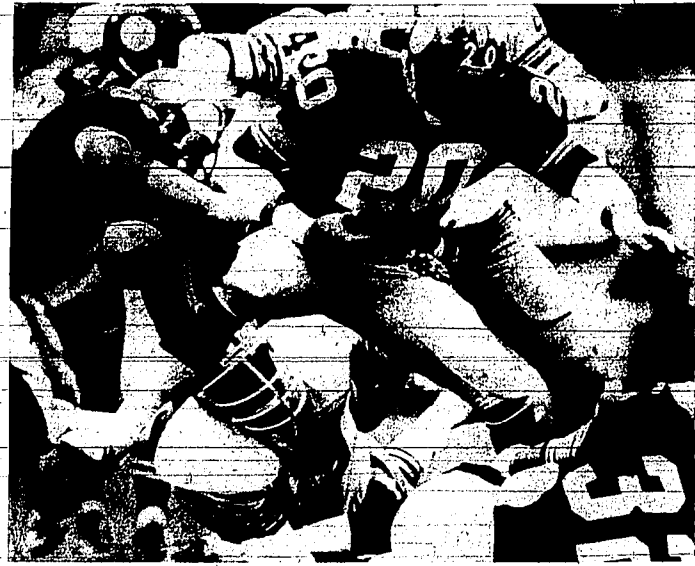

Saints 14-7
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Debra Moore's fumble recovery led to San Francisco's first touchdown and he joined his defensive teammates to stop a late fourth-quarter drive Sunday, giving the New Orleans Saints a 14-7 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

Patriots 10-3
CINCINNATI (UPI) — Sam Cunningham raced three yards around left end for the game's only touchdown, with just 6:56 remaining Sunday to boost the New England Patriots to a 10-3 victory over the winless Cincinnati Bengals.

It was the fourth straight win for the Patriots, who stayed atop the AFC East standings with a 5-2 record. Cincinnati, becoming known as the "Bad News Bengals," dropped to 0-7.

Cowboys 24-21
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Rafael Septien kicked a 47-yard field goal 3:28 into an sudden death overtime Sunday to give the Dallas Cowboys a 24-21 victory over the winless St. Louis Cardinals.

Dallas got the ball first in the overtime and Roger Staubach passed—11 yards—to Robert Newhouse, who also added a 13-yard run. Staubach, found Drew Pearson with a 15-yard completion before leaving the game with a face injury. Tony Dorsett, who had only 24 yards in 12 carries in the game, added a 6-yard run before Septien ended the game.

Pittsburgh's Rocky Bleir fumbles early in game against Cleveland UPI

Giants 17-14
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Harry Carson's interception and fumble recovery set up a pair of fourth-quarter touchdown runs by Larry Csonka Sunday that rallied the New York Giants to a 17-14 victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

With the Giants trailing 14-3 early in the final period, middle linebacker Carson picked off a Doug Williams pass that deflected off light end Jim Obradovich and returned it 30 yards to the Tampa Bay 25.

Atlanta 14-0
ATLANTA (UPI) — Steve Bartkowski threw a 24-yard touchdown pass to Billy Ryckman early in the second quarter and Bibba Benoit erupted for a 25-yard TD run in the final minutes of the game Sunday as the Atlanta Falcons beat the Detroit Lions 14-0 behind two brilliant goal line stands.

It was the first home shutout in Falcons' history. The Falcons, who had not made a first down in the first 12 minutes of the game, drove 63 yards to their first score.

Eagles 17-10
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Wilbert Montgomery gained 125 yards and scored the go-ahead touchdown early in the fourth quarter and the Philadelphia defense came up with three key turnovers late in the game Sunday to give the Eagles a 17-10 upset over the previously undefeated Washington Redskins.

The Eagles' winning touchdown drive came after the Redskins completed a 65-yard march of their own, set up by Joe Theismann's 49-yard pass to Ricky Thompson.

Broncos slipping in Big Sky stats as leaders move up

BOISE (UPI) — Boise State football players hold top spot in six of seven Big Sky Conference offensive categories this week, but the Broncos have slipped from dominance in team statistics.

BSU ran its non-conference record to 3-0 with a 30-15 win over San Jose State Saturday night. However, the Broncos are tied for fifth and last place in the league with Idaho State and Weber State. Those three schools have 0-2 conference records.

Cedric Brinter, with 992 rushing yards on the season after six games, leads in rushing, all-purpose running and total offense. Kicker Tom Saretto is first in scoring and kick-scoring, while Lonnie Hughes is tops in receiving.

Idaho State quarterback Mick Spoon still leads passing statistics over Weber State's Morris Bledsoe.

In team totals, the league's leading teams are rising to the foreground. Undefeated Montana State has the edge in rushing, while the team tied with the Bobcats at the top of the conference standings — Northern Arizona State — has the best statistics in scoring, passing defense and scoring defense.

Top teams have tough weekend

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

While No. 1 ranked Oklahoma just managed to slip by a unheralded Kansas team Saturday, none of the nation's top 20 teams, including second-ranked USC, were not as lucky.

Kansas quarterback Harry Sydney hit freshman Kevin Murphy with a 6-yard touchdown pass with 15 seconds left, but overthrew the same receiver for a two-point conversion try, enabling top-ranked and injury-riddled Oklahoma to preserve a 17-16 victory over the Jayhawks. The Sooners' Billy Sims rushed for 192 yards and one touchdown — the eventual winning score.

Quarterback Mark Malone ran for one touchdown and passed for another and defensive end Bob Kohrs recovered three fumbles to lead Arizona State to a 20-7 upset of No. 2-ranked Southern California.

The Sun Devil defense held Trojan tailback Charles White, the nation's No. 2 rusher, to 59 yards, nearly 100 yards below his average. USC avoided its first shutout since 1967 on a 31-yard pass play from Paul McDonald to Dan Garcia with 33 seconds left in the game.

ASU boosted its record for the season to 5-1, 1-1 in the Pac-10. USC dropped to 4-1, also 1-1 in conference play.

Michigan State ended an eight-game Michigan winning streak in convincing fashion, compiling more than 400 yards in total offense, 248 coming on the talented throwing arm of senior quarterback Ed Smith in a 24-15 upset of the fourth-ranked Wolverines.

"It (the rivalry) has never been real close, but the fact that we won indicates that our program is moving in the right direction. This is by far the biggest Michigan State win I've had," said Darrell Rogers, Michigan State's third-year coach.

Smith threw touchdown passes of 10 yards to fullback Lonnie Middleton and 11 yards to tight end Mark Brammer while the Michigan State defense was harassing senior quarterback Rick Leach into his worst day — just five completions and three interceptions.

Joe Montana ran for one touchdown and passed for two others, all in a 19-point fourth quarter, to pace Notre Dame's 26-17 upset of ninth-ranked and previously undefeated Pittsburgh. Rick Troiano's two TD runs paced the Panthers to a 17-7 lead heading into the last period before Montana took over.

Tenth-ranked LSU was also an upset victim when it was beaten 24-17 by Georgia.

No. 3 Penn State and No. 5 Arkansas were idle.

Elsewhere in the top 20, No. 11 Maryland topped Syracuse 24-9, Oklahoma State stunned 12th-ranked Colorado 24-20, 13th-ranked Texas whipped North Texas State 26-16, 14th UCLA outscored Washington State 45-31, 15th-ranked Missouri downed Iowa State 26-13, Mississippi State romped past No. 17 Florida State 55-27, Long Beach State whipped 18th-ranked and previously unbeaten Utah State 33-17, No. 19 Navy routed Duke 31-8 and Washington shaded 20th-ranked Stanford 34-31.

Kicker with an artificial leg

Imagine the surprise in Fort Townsend, Wash. when Bremerton High School place-kicker Aaron Blake attempted a field goal and his right leg flew off.

Because of a birth defect, Aaron Blake kicks with an artificial limb. The limb is strapped to his right leg, just below the knee.

While Blake's field-goal-attempt against Fort Townsend went low, his leg went flying toward the defensive line.

"Our guys just kind of snickered about it," said Bremerton Principal Ron Gillespie. "But can you imagine how it shook up the PT (Port Townsend) guys?"

Blake's major athletic battle hasn't been with any other football team — it's been with the Washington Interscholastic Athletic Association, which initially didn't want to let him play at all.

Gillespie remembers when Blake, now an 11th grader, walked into his office last year and said he wanted to play football.

"I told him it was fine with me as long as he had parental permission," said Gillespie. "I called WIAA and they said a kid with an artificial leg couldn't play football."

"I called them and read them the handicap law — the one that was adopted by the Supreme Court a few years back — and said Aaron was going to play."

The WIAA finally agreed as long as Bremerton's opponents agreed.

Balazs Taroczy of Hungary outlasted Roman Ion Ilie Nastase 1-6, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 Sunday to win the Count Gede Trophy at the Royal Barcelona Tennis Club in Barcelona, Spain. He earned the top prize of $21,000.

Tommy Holt of Dallas, Tex., unconcerned by a painful back stiffness aggravated by wet and windy conditions, came from behind to win the 2000 Australian Seniors Golf Title Sunday at Sydney, Australia, by two strokes.

The 60-year-old Texan struggled to a one-over par 73 for a 54-hole tally of 219 and the $5,000 winner's check.

A University of Idaho student completed a 311-mile jogging trip Saturday with a triumphant run up the Snake River steps in Boise.

Al Walker ran from Moscow to Boise starting Oct. 7 to raise money for diabetes research. He covered 116 miles the first two days until sore knees and bloody noses forced him to slow down and alternate between running and riding a bicycle.

Pledges were taken by the American Diabetes Association and University of Idaho ROTC members. New pledges can be mailed to the association, Box 7113, Boise, 83707.

...lost his leg

Homers by Charlie Manuel, Fujio Sumi and Katsuo Osugie enabled the Yakult Swallows to beat the Mankyu Braves 10-6 Sunday in Tokyo, Japan, and even the best-of-seven Japan-pro-baseball championship series at one game apiece.

Joan Benoit, the 104-pound skier-turned road racer, surged ahead of more than 4,500 female runners to win the 10-kilometer Bonne Bell Race recently at Boston, Mass. and set a world road record for women.

The 21-year old native of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, who triumphed in 33:16, five seconds ahead of AAU Champion Ellison Goodall of Chapel Hill, N.C., took up running after a broken leg shattered her skiing career four years ago.

Mary Shea, 17, of Raleigh, N.C. finished third at 33:28.

The NCAA has granted Auburn University in Auburn, Ala., a delay in completing a university investigation into charges of football and basketball recruiting violations.

President Dr. Harry M. Philpott said the university has until early December to complete its report to the NCAA. The original deadline was Oct. 16.

The NCAA presented the school on July 8 with a list of alleged violations that occurred between 1971 and 1977. University officials have refused to elaborate on the accusations.

Ray Floyd bows out of matchplay tourney

VIRGINIA WATER, England (UPI) — Ray Floyd, the last surviving American, was plagued by wayward driving in the morning round and went on to drop a 3 and 2 decision to Japan's Isao Aoki in the 36-hole semifinals of the $250,000 World Matchplay Championships Sunday.

Aoki now meets Simon Owen today to decide the winner of the $55,000 first prize after the New Zealander ground down defending champion Graham Marsh of Australia, 2 and 1.

Floyd, hoping to repeat the form which helped him down Tom Watson by 2 holes Saturday, fell two behind to Aoki over the first 18 after conceding three holes when he hooked into the trees of the 6,969-yard, par-73 Burma Road course at Wentworth.

In the afternoon, Floyd pulled one hole back at the first when Aoki bogeyed, but Floyd missed holeable putts over the next six as the Japanese player began stringing together the eight birdies he carded over the 18 holes.

Aoki, who shared the lead after two rounds of the British Open before finishing in a tie for second, sank birdie putts from 30, 18 and 12 feet on his way to victory, complementing the deadly short game which U.S. Masters champion Gary Player had praised as the best in the world.

"I missed makeable putts from the third to the seventh and if I had made half of them, I would still have been playing out there now," said Floyd, last year's losing finalist.

"I beat myself in the morning. I hit the ball solid, but I still hooked. You tell me why."

Fourteen minutes under this afternoon and still got beat because of that streak. I hooked five fairway woods and I'm supposed to be one of the best players with that club," said Floyd, who posted seven birdies after lunch, but failed to make any impression on the unrelenting Japanese.

Owen, who also tied for second in the British Open after leading Jack Nicklaus until the last three holes, held a one-hole lead over Marsh going into the afternoon round. Marsh sank an eagle-3 at the 501-yard par-5 fourth and watched as Owen bogeyed the fifth to edge one ahead.

But the Australian hit a disastrous steak starting with the 399-yard par-4 seventh, going through the green with his third shot, to lose the first of three consecutive holes he conceded.

Marsh hooked his second shot into the woods at the eighth and drove into the trees from the tee at the ninth to hand Owen an unexpected advantage.

Owen pitched in from 30 feet at the short 10th and birdied the 17th to seal the match after letting fly with a loose tee shot at the 16th to concede one hole.

"Graham was putting the squeeze on me down the back nine," said Owen, runner-up in the Canadian PGA after his fine performance at St. Andrew's.

"But the putts I did manage to hole came at the right time when I needed them, at the 15th and 17th."

Japan's Yoko Gushiken retains junior flyweight title

TOKYO (UPI) — Yoko Gushiken of Japan stopped South Korean challenger Chung Sang-Il in the fifth round of a scheduled 15-round title match Sunday and retained his World Boxing Association (WBA) junior flyweight title.

Gushiken, 23, finished Chung with a combination of hard right and left punches to the head at 22 seconds after the start of the fifth round.

The fight was one-sided and Gushiken was too fast and powerful for the South Korean challenger, WBA's No. 4 junior flyweight contender.

Gushiken took command in the second round during which he scored several hard punches to Chung's face and body. Chung began bleeding from his nose.

In the third round, Gushiken kept punishing the challenger and opened a cut by Chung's left eye, which was almost closed.

The champion knocked Chung down for a mandatory eight count in the fourth round with a series of left and right blows. Chung rose immediately and heard Japanese referee Ken Morita tall the count. The bell saved the challenger.

The end came soon after the fifth round began when Gushiken finished the challenger at 22 seconds.

An estimated 12,000 people, including many South Koreans, saw the fight at the Kuramae Sumo Arena in downtown Tokyo. It was Gushiken's sixth defense of the title which he won from Juan Guzman of the Dominican Republic with a seventh round knockout in October 1976.

It was Gushiken's 16th victory, including 10 knockouts. Chung, the 23-year-old Orient and Pacific junior flyweight champion, now has a record of 10 wins, three losses and one draw.

Gushiken weighed in at 103 3/4 pounds and Chung at 107 1/2.

Slew heads to D.C.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seattle Slew, who missed clinching his second consecutive Horse of the Year title Saturday when he lost to Exceller by a nose in the $321,800 Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont, will continue his quest for the title next in the Nov. 4 Washington, D.C. International.

The 4-year-old colt, who must retire to stud at the end of this year, came out of Saturday's grueling 1 1/2-mile race in "unbelievably" good condition and should be ready to start again in two weeks.

"He seems to love running," said Peterzon. "We didn't expect him to be this good, but when the groom went in his stall he tried to run him over. So we put the saddle up on him and rode him around for about a half-hour. He's in great shape."

"His next start looks like the International, but it all depends on the weather. If the turf course (at Laurel Racecourse in Maryland) isn't any good, we won't start. There's also the $250,000 Meadowlands Cup two nights before, which we may start him in. But he'll keep racing."

A second victory by Slew over Affirmed in the 1 1/2-mile Gold Cup Saturday would have clinched Horse of the Year honors for the older champion, whereas if Affirmed had won it would have kept the title in his corner.

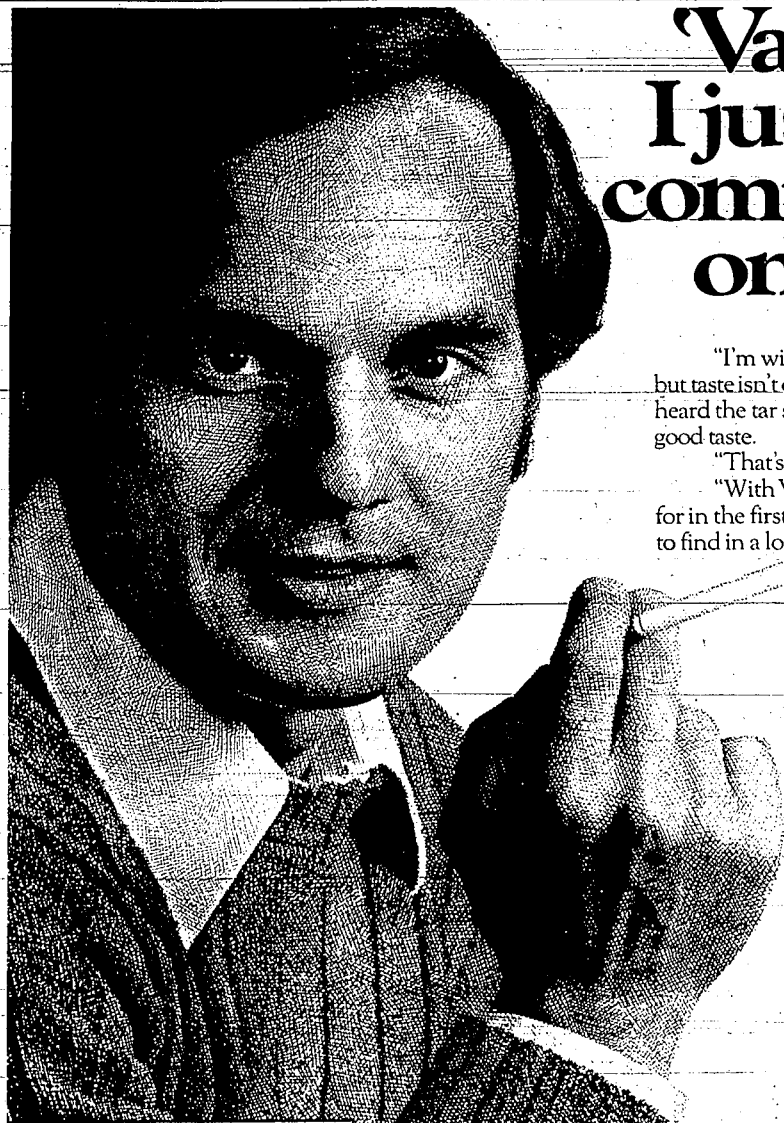

"Of course, nothing worked out as planned and Exceller, the 5-year-old turf star who had never set foot on a muddy track, came roaring from more than 20 lengths off the pace to score a nose victory over Slew and throw the Horse of the Year picture into a muddle."

After his saddle slipped on the clubhouse turn, Affirmed fell back to finish fifth in his last start of the year, his third straight defeat. There has never been a case of the Triple Crown winner losing Horse of the Year honors, but should Slew win the International and continue rolling up victories until December, it would make a strong case for the unprecedented to occur.

In fact, last year Slew only won a split decision over Furogo in the balloting of the Turf Writers, the Daily Racing Form and the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Slew's race in the Cup was as impressive as Exceller's late charge, especially considering the fast fractions Slew took the field through.

The defeat, however, leaves Slew's 1978 record at four wins and two losses — with two of those victories coming in allowance races against horses of dubious quality. Nonetheless, Slew has made a tremendous comeback from a near-fatal virus and assorted ailments to again emerge as one of America's premier thoroughbreds.

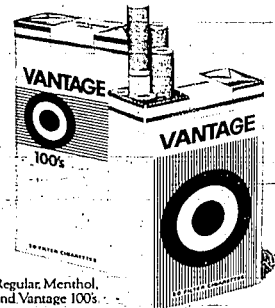

Vantage. I just won't compromise on taste.

"I'm willing to make some concessions, but taste isn't one of them. Even though I've heard the tar stories, I still want a cigarette with good taste."

"That's why I'm glad I switched to Vantage. With Vantage, I get the taste I smoked for in the first place. And that wasn't easy to find in a low tar."

"For me, Vantage is the best tasting low tar cigarette there is."

Shawn McNeil knows the 'ins and outs' of handling money

By LORAYNE M. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Though just a ninth-grader, Shawn McNeil probably knows more about handling money than many adults may ever learn.

Shawn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. McNeil of Twin Falls, recently purchased a trampoline which will be paid for entirely from her earnings as a delivery girl for the Times-News.

SHAWN McNEIL
... local carrier

Before obligating herself for the financing of the $638 trampoline, she paid off a debt on another major purchase — a 10-speed bicycle.

Shawn says she now clears about $100 per month from her 80-customer route because carries got a raise when the Times-News started doing morning deliveries seven days a week.

Prior to that change Aug. 1 she netted about $65 per month.

The paper girl also adds to her earnings by prompt payment of her monthly bill (to the newspaper, thereby earning a bonus regularly, according to her father.

Her parents pay for her school clothes, but she takes care of all her extras. The young business woman augments her income by babysitting frequently.

Her extras include a busy schedule of after-school interests, including gymnastics three times a week and aerobics. She has taken dancing lessons since she was 3 years old and her parents pay for them, but Shawn finances all her other activities.

During the three years she has been delivering papers, she saved about $250. After deciding to pay off her bicycle debt early, she still had $110 which she took on the family vacation trip last summer throughout the Western states and Canada.

As if to prove that money does "not run through her fingers," she came home with $80 still intact. Now she has resumed building up her savings account, both for future purchases and college.

Unlike some paper carriers, Shawn has no chance to slip back into bed after getting up at 5 a.m. daily to deliver her route. She attends seminary classes at the Mormon church from 7 to 8 a.m. each weekday.

She belongs to the Pep Club at O'Leary Junior High School and is active in the Mutual Improvement Association at her church. Currently she is involved in production of a movie at the church interest group.

Wednesday last day to buy poles, posts

TWIN FALLS — Wednesday is the last day to buy posts and poles on the Twin Falls Ranger District.

A representative of the forest service will be at the Rock Creek Guard Station at 9 a.m., and the Bostetter-Guard Station at 1 p.m. Wednesday for the final sales of the season.

Purchasers have until Nov. 30, where permitting, to cut and remove their timber.

Firewood permits will expire Nov. 30, or sooner if weather dictates. The best places for cutting firewood according to Ted Cox, district ranger, are the head of Trapper Creek and the area on Cotton Ridge just south of Wrigley's Corral near the Bostetter Guard Station.

All cutting areas are well-marked with signs and hand-drawn maps.

Permits and additional information are available at the Rock Creek Guard Station seven days a week from daylight to dusk and at the Twin Falls District Office, 1061 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Essential Information For Today's Energy Conscious Homeowner

Before you start to work, check building codes

If you plan to add a room to your home or convert an existing one, first familiarize yourself with your local building codes, says the National Home Improvement Council:

Building codes are on the books of virtually every town, city and county in the nation, but they vary widely from one municipality to another.

As a general rule, however, a building permit is required whenever structural work is involved or when the basic living area of a residence is to be altered.

SOLID-VINYL SIDING is not only extremely attractive, but it also offers the homeowner a maintenance-free home exterior. The siding shown here is available from CertainTeed Corporation with a freely transferable, 40-year pro-rated warranty.

Throw away your brushes and cares . . .

Vinyl siding makes summer work easier

VALLEY FORGE, PA.—To most of us, summer means outdoor fun. But to homeowners, it also means work: mowing, trimming, weeding, washing windows, installing screens and—worst of all—re-painting the house.

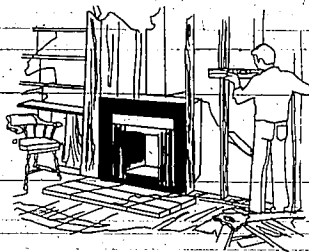

Long hours of chipping, scraping, sanding, and finally painting that troublesome old wood siding seem endless. Perched up on that ladder, it seems that a homeowner's work is never done.

But painting is one warm-weather chore you can eliminate forever. This year, look into re-siding your home with solid vinyl siding.

CertainTeed's vinyl siding is made of the same tough material used in many of today's modern products where maximum durability is essential.

And, unlike aluminum siding, vinyl siding's color is molded all the way through, so it won't scratch or peel and it never needs painting. It washes clean in a heavy rain or with a garden hose.

Because it's vinyl, the siding is flexible and resists dents. It won't corrode, rust or rot. It won't conduct moisture, so it retards indoor dampness and mildew. And, of course, it's termite-free.

Put a woodburning built-in fireplace in your home.

- Can be installed anywhere . . . easily, safely and economically
- Install directly on wood floors, can safely touch combustibles all around
- Approved by leading National and local building codes and authorities
- Preway's simplified chimney system makes installation a natural for competent do-it-yourselfers (Pick up your chimney-selector-booklet now)
- Available in five models, from 28" to 42" wide, conventional or right-end or left-end open models

Programmable Thermostats Save Energy

A feeling of heating comfort in a home is relative.

We know a man whose mother was continuously boosting the thermostat setting up high and then turning it down low.

His every explanation about the economic and comfort values of having nice even heat went unheeded. In desperation, he disconnected the thermostat and installed another in a secret place in the basement.

For years she happily adjusted the disconnected thermostat to keep herself warm and cozy.

Automatic thermostats like this man's mother are not new, but are newly-discovered as the solution to a vexing problem.

In the days of hand-fired furnaces, temperatures in houses had ups and downs. When automatic feeding of fuel came into being, an early riser would be assigned to turn up the thermostat in winter so the others would not freeze to death while bathing and dressing.

Now we realize that excessive use of fuel is foolish and expensive, people are asking contractors for fully-automatic clock thermostats.

These turn the temperature up or down at pre-designated times. Some require no additional transformer or power supply, are direct two-wire replacements, have a back-up battery to keep the clock running in the event of a power failure, and are color-coded for setting ease.

Probable savings — from 5 to 28% on heating costs!

And don't forget that about 20% can be saved in cooling expense, also. For the do-it-yourselfer, kits are available for a programmable home heating control which installs on single-stage gas, oil or electric furnace.

Little things add to decor

It's the little things in life that count, and, very often, the same thing holds true in the sphere of home decorating.

It's those small touches, often whimsical, often impulsive, the knick-knacks that grace your shelves and tables, the paintings and posters that hang on your walls, that truly personalize your home and make it an extension of you.

You may want to project different parts of your personality in different rooms. The kitchen, often a bright and cheery room, can become, especially for the person who loves to cook, a favorite room, and the first place where he or she will begin to accessorize and personalize.

Hang things on the walls. Putting up a pegboard is an attractive way of displaying everything neatly, and it is eminently functional as well. Your favorite cooking tools, cookie cutters and decorative pot holders as well as salts and peppers, can spice up your kitchen and become an integral part of your decor.

Since you'll probably be doing most of your formal entertaining in your living room, you've probably gone to a good deal of trouble in choosing your furniture and accessories. Add little touches with the same care.

Carpet capers dogs will do!

In most cases, dogs and new carpeting just do not go together.

Sad but true, dogs shed; dogs get muddy feet; dogs trail greasy bones around.

To keep your dog off your brand new carpet is not all that easy. You can't just say to him, "Now don't go near the broadloom."

To keep him in his own safe environment — while at the same time allowing him to be one of the family — place a baby gate across the entrance to the newly decorated room.

Small dogs will be able to see through the gate; large dogs will be able to see over the gate and will have to be admonished the first several times they jump over it.

Be sure to keep his toys with him in his confinement. And when he is let out to join you, bring out a couple of toys for him to play with. Be sure and return them when you put the dog behind the gate for the night.

Twin Falls / 212 Third Ave S. / 208-733-2214

Self-improvement starts in the home

If a home is considered an extension of self, then home-improvement should be considered just as vital as self-improvement. Often, it's a lot easier.

This year, in lieu of an extension course, consider extending your home. It represents an investment not only in your future, but one which will benefit the entire family and go on reaping dividends year after year.

As home prices soar, more Americans are finding it more economical to build additions than to move to larger quarters. Add a mudroom. Extend your kitchen. Build a family room. Who couldn't use more space?

Whether you choose to build the extension yourself or contract it out, an important part of the budget to consider—before arranging your home improvement loan—should be the furnishings. Planning for this will pay off handsomely and avoid later frustrations.

Which furnishings? Start with plans for walls and windows. If windows are large—and why not with the advent of Thermopane—Louver Drapes are a good choice. By controlling light, these vertical blinds actually cut heating and cooling costs and add architectural interest. Like floor covering, this kind of window covering actually adds to the value of your home.

In buying furniture, a key consideration should be style as well as durability. Casual doesn't have to look clunky or makeshift. Modern is an excellent choice, especially if the modern you choose is classic like Hickory's new "Thesis" designs. The light finish makes maintenance easy—an important factor in any choice.

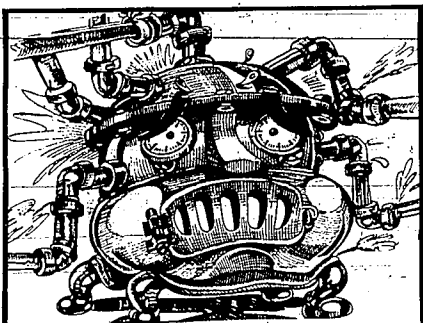

Put accessories on your list. Without them, a room can look bare no matter how well it's furnished. An excellent focal point for the family room or, for that matter, any room you build, is a Ridgeway traditional clock. In wall as well as tall case versions, Ridgeway clocks are instant heroisms as well as attractive accent pieces.

Planning a mudroom or fun room for the kids? Syroco's new "Raggedy Ann and Andy" accessories are the perfect choice for the walls. And, what could be more practical than the pegged tidytip or a delightful clock, among the treasures in this very affordable and collectible collection?

No money to build this year? Start your home course in your present home. Splurge on new accessories, a clock or a chair or two. It can be a big improvement in any home and a lift for yourself as well.

THROUGH THE USE OF BELGIAN LINEN textile wallcovering, this room, once nondescript, now generates visual interest and elegance in an ambience of Egyptian enchantment.

The new 'back-to-the-city' trend calls for an expert new approach to remodeling

Their parents moved out, but they're moving back in. So says the National Home Improvement Council, which indicates that a substantial number of younger, middle-income families, priced out of the suburban housing market, have begun to buy and renovate homes in larger cities across the nation.

As a result, thousands of urban residences that were begging for buyers only a few years ago have recently been snapped up at comparative bargain prices, comments NHIC.

Urban areas favored by the returnees are the solid, blue-collar neighborhoods, while the most sought-after homes are those with a claim to architectural distinction, such as New York's brownstones, San Francisco's Victorians, and Federal-style houses in Philadelphia and Washington.

Reasons cited for the back-to-the-city move, include:

- The coming-of-home-buying age of the post World War II generation.
- Mounting new-home costs, now approaching $60,000.
- The availability of low-interest loans for certain types of housing through federal urban rehabilitation programs.
- The expense and inconvenience of long-distance commuting. The convenience of being downtown "where everything's at." Modernization and remodeling of older urban homes is not as formidable a task as it might appear, points out NHIC. Most, although somewhat run down through neglect, are solidly built, spacious and have borne their years well.

Home energy use and facts.

Our homes consume about 25 percent of all energy used in the United States, or about one and one-half times more than all our cars consume.

More than half of all home energy is expended on heating and cooling.

Insulation prevents heat gain and heat loss several times more efficiently than building materials such as brick, concrete or wood.

Weatherstripping and storm windows are efficient, easily installed energy savers.

Attic insulation can save an average of 20 percent on winter fuel bills, and even more in the summer, according to industry experts.

Insulated homes have a higher resale value than similar, un-insulated homes, say real estate people.

Some experts put the percentage of under-insulated American homes as high as 80 percent. How do you know if your home is adequately insulated?

Check the following: Is there any insulation between your attic floor joists or rafters?

Measuring the thickness of existing insulation throughout your home. If you don't know its "R" value — resistance to heat flow — and it is less than R-13, chances are you need additional insulation.

Attic ventilation to permit air circulation is extremely important. There should be at least one square foot of louver venting for every 150 square feet of attic floor space.

In cold weather, place your hand at several places on an interior wall and compare its temperature to that of an exterior wall. If your home is adequately insulated, the exterior wall will feel only slightly cooler.

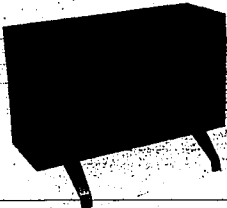

Feel for air drafts around cabinets, on outside walls and around baseboards.

Check for insulation over unheated crawl spaces, garage or basement.

NOW YOU CAN WARM-UP THOSE COLD WINTER NIGHTS!

Pilot Lights – Off or On?

Turn off or not turn off?

As argumentative as "which came first, the chicken or the egg," is the decision whether or not to let the stove's pilot light burn and waste gas, or turn it off and save money.

According to the American Gas Association, the home range pilot light consumes about 1 1/2% of the total gas used by the gas stove.

But about 2% of this total goes for direct "useful energy" by the pilot light.

The pilot light, according to people who should know, operates safety devices "that prevent gas flow to the pilot itself or the main burner when the pilot is extinguished."

The shutting off of pilot lights "would create a safety hazard," according to Gas Appliance Mfgs. Assn., without making a "significant contribution" toward fuel conservation.

And the National Safety Council comments that the extinguishing of pilot lights "could increase the number of home accidents involving burns or fires."

Wood-burning Fireplaces

Now More Functional Than Ever!

The homey fireplace so necessary to our forefathers for hundreds of years has made full-circle and now cheers the bones and wallets of modern man.

From free-standing stoves tracing heritage to Ben Franklin, to glass-doored, thermostatic-controlled modules—complete with heat-circulating fan, today's modern decorative masonry furnaces conserve fuel pennies as they bring back yesteryear.

Now available are stoves that include tanks for heating water, those with glass doors which open to accept grill or beanpot for cooking, and many claiming that you need build only one-fire a season.

Designers are solving one fireplace problem... that of heated air going up the chimney with the smoke... by providing flue dampers — valves which keep the warm air inside when units are not in use.

One of the original woodburning stoves, on the market since early in the century, boasts a cast iron firebox, enormous capacity and a working thermostat which actually keeps room temperature within a degree or two of a chosen setting.

This particular company, advertising "copyrighted features and units sized to heat up to six rooms," claims "no smoke, no fumes, no soot." One owner says that he used only his wood heater to heat his tri-level home during the winter of 1976-77, one of the coldest winters in Illinois history. His unit was located on a raised hearth in a corner of the lower level. The heater's floor fan along with natural stairwell air circulation moved heat throughout the house.

His wife said she could prepare apples for drying, spread them on the cooking area under the louvred top of the woodburning stove after supper and have them dehydrated and ready for bagging by morning.

Another manufacturer's stove is permanently sealed off from the room when glass doors are closed. A vent from outside the house to the bottom of the fireplace unit brings in outside air for combustion. The glass doors keep warm room air from going up the chimney and also radiate grate heat out into the room.

Advertised as a "European-style design, this functional unit can be an advantage in warm weather, too, because the fan can operate to cool a room when the firebox is not in use. Directions for installing stoves and heaters indicate the distance units should be located from adjacent walls for safety's sake. For extra protection, as well as beauty, an application of non-ceramic fireproof wall covering that looks and feels like brick is a satisfactory answer to the problem.

Fireplace bases can be a decorator's plus if the unit is set on handsome white or colored rock or marble chips in a stylized hearth.

A platform hearth may be surfaced with ceramic tile, available in glaucous colors with do-it-yourself instructions.

"On the Light Side..."

The improvement in lighting comes closer to being incredible every year.

Until the middle-1930s inventors were concerned that the efficiency factor of the lighting lamp was something like 7 percent because the other 93 percent was put out as heat.

The fluorescent lamp, first looked upon as "for decorators," now corners some two-thirds of the lighting market... probably because a 40-watt tube can provide the same light as a 200-watt incandescent bulb.

And the way to what you pay for: No longer are the tubes an unattractive straight and narrow arrow of light which hums and flickers and dies a slow and blinky death. There are circular fluorescent bulbs to screw into lamps, little 4-watts which give as much light as 100-watt ordinary lightbulbs, and stylish ceiling fixtures giving a bargain in illumination for the money.

One of the easiest and least expensive ways to genuinely improve and update a home is to go out and discover what is new at home lighting centers, and then come back and take a long look at what you are living with.

What does the future hold in store?

Panels of light-emitting diodes for illuminating rooms instead of fixtures with cords attached... The diodes, of course, are the adult version of the LED figures on wristwatches of our day — defined as solid-state sources of light with nearly unlimited life — perhaps a million hours. Some say LED's may be the answer to the search for a flat TV screen to be wall-mounted in future homes, while others are betting on the laser.

Work is already being done with backlight to enable the blind to see, and on the use of prisms to multiply the effect of a small amount of light.

Just as an automobile owner brags or complains about the miles-per-gallon achieved by his vehicle, so should an energy-wise consumer talk about his lightbulbs. As gasoline is to an automobile, so are watts to a lightbulb. Wattage printed on the bulb means the amount of energy needed to make that bulb light.

Decorating How-To

"I just can't picture that in my room!"

For those whose tastes are better than their imaginations there is an easy way to see final results in advance before any investment at all is made in paint, carpeting, wallcovering or draperies.

Simply take an instant color photograph of the room from an entryway.

Put a sheet of transparent wrap over the photograph and outline the questionable area with a fine-line fiber pen. Use the outline to find a suitably-sized portion of a magazine ad or manufacturer's brochure depicting the design of wallcovering or color of drapery or carpet.

Using the wrap as a pattern, snip out the section and "paper doll" it over the photo. Artists use layers of overlays to change the appearance of an original drawing. Overlay your photograph and see how winter draperies or summer curtains look next to colored marking pen "painted" walls before making any final decorating decisions.

What's New Under-foot?

Home redecorators are continuing to discover that luscious colors of carpeting are good for more than covering the floor.

And more designers are incorporating the dramatic vastness of choice carpeting up walls, over benches and even on the sidewalk leading to the entrance door.

Carpeting provides a lot of luxury per square yard. It is acoustically helpful in muffling sounds, and no one will deny that it is fun to walk on in bare feet, especially if underlaid with double-thick padding.

Whole-house carpeting, although not in the actual list of insulation materials, certainly makes the place seem more cozy, and provides a unity to any decorating scheme.

"Sponges clean" is a red-flag phrase for carpeting purchasers and is seen on more and more labels. Antistatic qualities are being built-in, particularly in nylon... the longest-wearing man-made fiber which dries so quickly that there used to be not enough moisture to prevent static electricity shocks on occasion.

Polyester carpeting is stain resistant, lush and plush with a bulky felt that defies matting or crushing and endures lots of traffic.

Nylon, with continuous filament structure resisting shedding, flaunts its bi-level shag or high-low scroll textures or decorator patterns for decorating drama. New dye methods now create unique blendings of colors, which, when combined with multi-level loops, give the carpeting exceptional depth.

Olefin fiber, in turfy or sculptured pile, ordinarily offers a choice of backings according to use indoors or out. Herculan, an olefin "miracle" fiber, has every attribute one could list... mothproof, non-allergenic, expensive-appearing, sunproof colors, moisture-proof, unhurt by spots or stains... And the upholstery fabrics have gained consumer respect because of similar virtues...

The classic rug fiber is wool, resilient, long-wearing and exquisite, followed by the modern-day look-alike, 100% Acrylic and probably the classic all-America temporary rug would have to be the reversible braided. Choices are varied in machine washable area rugs with latex backing for slip-resistance and they come fringed or not.

Room-size rugs are fine choices for growing families on the move and area rugs in intricate designs and fabulous colors are handsome enough to hang on the wall as art.

Wide variety of sinks calls for pre-planning.

When you select your kitchen sink you will be confronted with a variety of colors, sizes and number of bowls and materials from which to choose.

Because of its relative low cost, porcelain enamel on steel has long been the most widely used. The newer, stain-resistant porcelain enamel on cast iron sink has generally been found only in more expensive kitchens.

Stainless steel sinks, which are easier to install because they are lighter and have a self-rim, are quite popular these days, even though there have been reports that they are noisy, scratch easily and show finger marks.

Sprucing up of work areas aids fall 'Mr. Fix-it' projects

As the brisk days of autumn take families away from the great outdoors and back home to where the heart is, handyman head, straight for the toolbox to get the house in shape for the cold weather fit-in.

From adding a long put-out game room to routine tasks like putting up storm windows, handymen should first clean up their own workshops or toolbenches in order to efficiently tackle home improvement jobs.

For example, clearing away clutter in the shop area provides an open, non-confining space in which to work. Organizing tools keeps equipment within easy reach and helps avoid unnecessary delays like searching for the #10 wrench last used to tighten a bicycle wheel.

To help the man of the house gear up for fall home improvement, the handyman's good friend 'Bon Ami' offers these suggestions to get hammering in a hurry:

Sort screws, nails and tacks according to size into clear glass jars and attach to corresponding lids, which have already been nailed to an overhead shelf, for quick and easy selection of the right piece.

• Organize various-sized wrenches, pliers, saws and putknives on a pegboard and outline each item so that tools can easily be returned to the right spot on the board.

• Use file cabinets with deep, long drawers to store drill bits, extension cords, hammers, soldering irons, sandpaper sheets, files and caulking guns. Drop in plastic drawer organizers to hold smaller items like fuses, sockets and washers.

• Eliminate an unnecessary assortment of cleaning aids by stocking one multi-purpose cleaner, like 'Bon

Ami Cleaning Cake, that does the work of several. Use its non-scratch formula to safely clean and effectively polish storm windows, bathroom fixtures, aluminum and chrome surfaces.

Now you can set back your thermostat and save money!

If you drive to work, do you park your car and let the engine run until it's time to go home? Of course not. You would be wasting gasoline and, in turn, wasting money.

Well, if you don't dial down your thermostat at night when you're sleeping or when you're at home during the day, you are in effect letting your engine run. After all, why use expensive fuel to heat/cool an empty home, apartment or business establishment?

It is a fact: Dialing down your thermostat during periods of inactivity in the home saves energy and money.

If a family were to dial down their thermostat 10 to 15 degrees at night from 10 p.m. to six a.m. (the sleeping hours), they could save from 10 to 20 percent of their heating fuel depending on what area of the United States they live in.

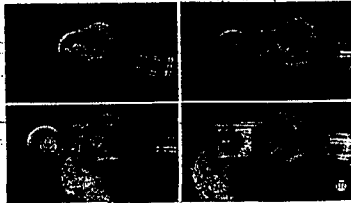

When the cost of energy began to skyrocket a few years ago, many of us started to dial down, but we soon learned there were problems in doing so.

First of all, dialing down was a very easy thing to forget. When we did remember, we were waking to a cold house, and after a few cold December or January mornings dialing down did not seem to be a very comfortable way to save energy.

This is not the case anymore, because now there are devices available that dial the thermostat down and back up again automatically, making it easy to cut those home heating bills.

There are a number of these set back devices on the market today, and they all operate on the principle of using a timer to dial the thermostat up or down automatically.

Their cost ranges from $10 to $150 depending on what particular functions they perform. For example, some are for heating only while others cool on both heating and cooling.

SOME SET BACK DEVICES like the Thermtimer are very easy to install. It can be installed in four easy steps. Since it mechanically couples to existing round thermostat, there is no wiring necessary.

Basically, there are three types of automatic set back units on the market. The first is simply a replacement thermostat with a timer for set back capabilities.

This type is the most expensive because you are paying for a new thermostat. Unless you absolutely need a new thermostat, you would be spending more money than you have to, and you would probably need a trained serviceman to install it for you.

The next type is called "Footers." They function by heating the "air" around the thermostat. They plug into an A.C. outlet and have a wire leading to a heating element below the thermostat.

Although they are slightly less expensive, you must consider whether you want an unsightly cord along the wall from the plug to the thermostat, and a heating element in an unprotected area of the home. Footers also distort the thermostat's temperature reading.

The third type of unit is that which is designed to work with your existing thermostat and is probably your best buy. The Thermtimer, manufactured by Knape & Vogt, is a good example. It is relatively low in cost and will more than pay for itself the first heating season. It is powered by a battery and contains a timer and control for indicating what the temperature change is to be.

It fits almost all round-type thermostats, and mechanically attaches to the thermostat so there is no electrical rewiring necessary. You can install it yourself.

Once set, you can forget it, because it will "dial up" and "dial down" automatically. It works with both heating and air conditioning, and has an optional 4-cycle time dial.

This allows you to set to dial the thermostat up or down twice each day, say, during the sleeping hours and when you are at work, approximately doubling the savings you normally would have with a single set back.

And most important, it does what it's supposed to: save energy. There are a number of other set back devices that will work with your present thermostat, however, unless you are thoroughly acquainted with electrical circuitry, it is best to select one that mechanically attaches to the thermostat.

Naturally, weather in a given area can vary the savings figures to some extent. But, in any case, dialing down the thermostat is a proven method of saving energy and thus saving money.

And, automatic set back devices such as the Thermtimer make it easy to save dollars, not just pennies.

ATTENTION!!

Tool box

Every home should have a tool chest, and a few basic items to fill it. You never know when an emergency might occur, and it's best to be prepared beforehand.

Therefore, make sure to have, in a spot where it can be reached with ease, a box containing the following: hammer, pliers, screwdrivers (small, medium and large), a selection of various sized nails and screws, some wall anchors, strong tape, a pair of pliers, a slush wrench, a pencil, ruler, tape measure and of course, anything your particular environment demands.

Be careful with your tools, cleaning them thoroughly after each use, and making sure they are perfectly dry before replacing them; in order to prevent rusting.

Ever since the first man put feathers on his arms and jumped off a cliff, mankind has been determined that the wind could be harnessed.

Stout sailing ships and lighter-than-air balloons have made a concerted effort to prove the point, but the newest windpower drive is rapidly gaining converts.

Windmills that pump water, grind grain and generate electricity are nothing new, but the current Rube Goldberg wind-generators are scoring high in imaginative inventiveness. Both windmills and their energy storage units are becoming so much more efficient that wind turbines are definitely in the running as tomorrow's power source.

Men of science talk about harnessing ocean currents and underground waterfalls; and experiments and research projects are underway to turn the tides and tap center-of-the-Earth heat to turn into energy we can use.

Considering that fossil fuels are en route to extinction and that petroleum sources provide about 7% of our energy now, that coal is in large reserve but polluting, and that nuclear power is both polluting and scary... then solar power does have a lot going for it.

Energy from sunshine can be described as inexhaustible, ecologically clean and non-polluting, cheap at twice the price, and simply converted into electricity.

In the olden days, textbooks defined the solar system as the sun's universe. The newest meaning of the term is a homeowner's arrangement set up to snare his share of free solar energy.

A solar system may be "passive," or just energy-saving construction methods whereby homes are designed so windows receive the warmth of the sun's rays during winter. Passive designs may include double outside walls, thick insulation in ceilings, walls and entry halls, and double-glazed windows.

Or they can be active, with collectors to absorb radiation from the sun. The resultant heat is transferred, usually by convection through a medium such as water, into storage tanks.

A breakthrough promising to revolutionize not only solar conversion but any number of other scientific fields is the creation of glass semiconductor to replace conventional crystalline (silicon) ones.

Each new scientific innovation lowers the price of solar energy downward; and this one, by providing a thin film of material, may be the key to converting sunlight directly into electricity.

As futurists bandy about words like fuel cell converters, magneto-hydrodynamics, thermionics and thermoelectricity, the space technologists insist that nuclear energy will provide half of our electricity by the year 2001.

It is said that energy is wealth and that nuclear energy will set man free from want and poverty. All sources agree that there is an urgent need for a coordinated national energy policy... conservation of energy meanwhile... and the immediate development of alternate energy sources to prepare for the future.

How?

Design nuclear plants that produce more nuclear fuel than they burn... not an impossibility because the idea behind breeder reactors classifies them as sort of perpetual motion machines.

Problems: Less than 1% of all uranium is U-235, a best fissionable fuel; but now it can be produced by converting ordinary uranium into a gas and sort of straining it through a membrane. Another is the high temperature needed to keep the sodium coolant in a liquid state; and the fear of contamination by oxygen, which could cause not only corrosion but explosion.

Design a workable fusion reactor... manmade solar energy. If fusion becomes technically feasible, the fuel will be seawater. And the exciting part is that during the process, the seawater would be converted to fresh water.

It's a
Life-saving Investment

Dependable dual-ionization chamber design of smoke and fire alarms for the home permits detection of tiny particles of combustion in early stages of fire before heat, smoke and flames get a good start. The dual-chamber principle compensates for atmospheric changes of temperature, air pressure and humidity so units give few false alarms.

Available are single station units for mounting on wall or ceiling, with push-to-test buttons and horn-type alarms. There are those to be mounted on a standard junction box and wired into any household line not turned off by a switch, or those using a small battery and having a warning signal notifying when the battery needs replacement.

Some detectors have adjustable sensitivity and can operate from 40° to 150° F, while others are pre-set at manufacture. Some interconnect, allowing triggering of other detectors' horns. Certain wired-in units have indicator lights glowing continuously to assure that the power is on, while others have LED pilot lamps blinking every few seconds to indicate that battery or voltage is at work.

Units may be purchased with built-in relays to trigger remote devices including automatic telephone dialers, lights or fire and security panels. Also available are those with sound alarms if someone tries to steal the alarms!

Now you can set back your thermostat and save money!

If you drive to work, do you park your car and let the engine run until it's time to go home? Of course not. You would be wasting gasoline and, in turn, wasting money.

Well, if you don't dial down your thermostat at night when you're sleeping and when no one is at home during the day, you are in effect letting your engine run. After all, why use expensive fuel to heatfoot an empty home, apartment or business establishment?

It is a fact. Dialing down your thermostat during periods of inactivity in the home saves energy and money.

If a family were to dial down their thermostat 10 degrees at night from 10 p.m. to six a.m. (the sleeping hours), they could save from 10 to 20 percent of their heating fuel depending on what area of the United States they live in.

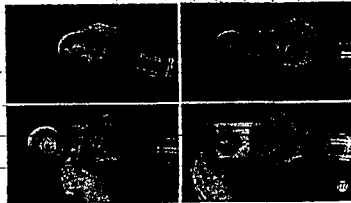

When the cost of energy began to skyrocket a few years ago, many of us started to dial down, but we soon learned there were problems in doing so.

First of all, dialing down was a very easy thing to forget. When we did remember, we were waking to a cold house, and after a few cold December or January mornings dialing down did not seem to be a very comfortable way to save energy.

This is not the case anymore, because now there are devices available that dial the thermostat down and back up again automatically, making it easy to cut those home heating bills.

There are a number of these set back devices on the market today, and they all operate on the principle of using a timer to dial the thermostat up or down automatically.

Their cost ranges from $10 to $150 depending on what particular functions they perform. For example, some are for heating only while others save on both heating and cooling.

SOME SET BACK DEVICES like the Thermostat timer are very easy to install. It can be installed in four easy steps. Since it mechanically connects to existing round thermostats, there is no wiring necessary.

Basically, there are three types of automatic set back units on the market. The first is simply a replacement thermostat with a timer for set back capabilities.

This type is the most expensive because you are paying for a new thermostat. Unless you absolutely need a new thermostat, you would be spending more money than you have to, and you would probably need a trained serviceman to install it for you.

The next type is called "Foolers." They function by heating the air around the thermostat. They plug into an A.C. outlet and have a wire leading to a heating element below the thermostat.

Although they are slightly less expensive, you must consider whether you want an unsightly cord along the wall from the plug to the thermostat, and a heating element in an unprotected area of the home. Foolers also distort the thermostat's temperature reading.

The third type of unit is that which is designed to work with your existing thermostat and is probably your best buy. The Thermostat timer, manufactured by Knap & Vogt, is a good example. It is relatively low in cost and will more than pay for itself the first heating season. It is powered by a battery and contains a timer and control for indicating what the temperature change is to be.

It fits almost all round-type thermostats, and mechanically attaches to the thermostat so there is no electrical rewiring necessary. You can install it yourself.

Once set, you can forget it, because it will dial up and down automatically. It works with both heating and air conditioning, and has an optional 4-cycle time dial.

This allows you to set it to dial the thermostat up or down twice each day: say, during the sleeping hours and when you are at work, approximately doubling the savings you normally would have with a single set back.

And most important, it does what it's supposed to: save energy. There are a number of other set back devices that will work with your present thermostat, however, unless you are thoroughly acquainted with electrical circuitry. It is best to select one that mechanically attaches to the thermostat.

Naturally, weather in a given area can vary the savings figures to some extent. But, in any case, dialing down the thermostat is a proven method of saving energy and thus saving money.

And, automatic set back devices such as the Thermostat timer make it easy to save dollars, not just pennies.

The Family Room — Highlight of Any Home

The mention-conjures ideas of a handsome family doing clever activities and leisure crafts while smiling pleasantly at one another.

A lot of fun of remodeling for handicraft space or building on a family room is in the planning. The roughed-out area, in spite of actual measurements, will seem to be extremely "tiny" at first. As work progresses the perimeter seems to expand but the area is never quite large enough when finished.

Charting spots where furniture and fixtures will be located will help prevent the placement of a ceiling light at a point other than over an activity table, or a sofa fitting perfectly against a wall except for two edges covering half of two doorways.

A non-bearing wall can be replaced by a storage wall to provide crevices for the putter of little facts, and rear ends of bookcases on rollers can be outfitted with Pegboard framed for secret storage against the wall.

If the Family Room is within the house, the basement perhaps, tiny windows can be covered and lengthened with plastic panels backed by fluorescent fixtures simulating daylight.

Add-on Family Room planners should weigh the value of window units containing insulating glass... the double panes with air space between... both reducing heat transfer and practically eliminating condensation on the roomside of the window.

This twofold benefit permits the homeowner to lower the thermostat and increase humidity for cheap comfort.

There is no utility fee for multiplied light. Mirrors can be a plus when incorporated into room design.

Do-it-yourself bi-fold doors with full-length mirrors can enclose a closet suitable for storing sewing equipment and supplies. For safety's sake, design Family Room doors—all doors in the house for that matter — so they are either open or closed and never partly ajar for an unwary person to walk into by accident.

Fire early warning signal alarms may be a lifesaving idea, particularly if hobbies in the Family Room include soldering, ironing or glassblowing...

How to calculate amount of insulation coverage needed

You know where you want to install insulation. You've decided what "R" number to select. Now, how much should you order to cover the job?

According to the Johns-Manville Insulation Center, to decide how much insulation you need to cover a ceiling, wall or floor, multiply the total area (without deducting for joists or studs) by .90 if framing members are 16" on center. If framing members are 24" on center, multiply by .94.

Here's a simple example: 1,000 square feet of ceiling area with joists spaced 16" on center requires 900 square feet of insulation (1,000 sq. ft. x .90 = 900 sq. ft.).

A roll of blanket insulation measuring 15' wide by 32' long provides 40 square feet of coverage. You need 23 rolls to complete the job.

BLOW-IN TYPE INSULATION

It's easy. Simply pour the Shelter Shield Cellulose Fiber into the blowing machine hopper. Turn it on and direct the insulation throughout your attic. Shelter Shield 30 lb. bags are specially formulated for blower use — and adds about 15% more coverage. We'll estimate a amount of Shelter Shield you need and show you how easy it is to DO-IT-YOURSELF! We let you use our blower.
