

Diminutive Anthony cartwheels rolling out of U.S. mint

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U.S. Mint Friday unveiled a new dollar coin, just a bit larger than a quarter, containing no silver and bearing the image of 19th century suffragist Susan B. Anthony — the first American woman ever pictured on U.S. currency.

Secretary of the Treasury Michael Blumenthal conceded the size symbolizes the shrinking value of the dollar but said the new coin promises to save the government and private industry millions of dollars.

He said it will fight inflation because it costs only three cents to produce — and has a much longer projected lifespan than the greenbacks it is intended to supplement.

The government has no intention of significantly reducing the number of dollar bills printed. Eventually, however, it hopes the new coin will become so popular that production of the greenback can be cut back.

"Susan B. Anthony, you helped women get the vote. Now, help us beat inflation," said Blumenthal as he ceremoniously pressed the first of the new dollars at the San Francisco Assay Office.

He said it was about time women were portrayed on currency.

"Until now, we've only had images of mythical women, although we've had real men. Women have as much right to be represented on our coins as men — or buffalo and eagles, for that matter," Blumenthal said.

The coins will begin circulating among the public in July, by which time 500 million of the new dollars will be produced at mint plants at San Francisco, Philadelphia and Denver enough to keep them from becoming collectors' items. Some of the coins will also be sold to collectors in special "proof sets."

The coin weighs 8.1 grams — one-third as much as four quarters — is made of cupro-nickel. The "tails" side depicts an eagle landing on the moon, symbolic of the Apollo 11 lunar flight. Its 11-sided outer border surrounding the design on each side will distinguish it from the quarter, by touch, as well as sight.

"The new dollar coin will relegate to memorabilia drawers, coin collectors and some Nevada casinos all the larger one-dollar 'cartwheels' now in circulation.

Many casinos use tokens the size of the Eisenhower dollar in the slot machines, and there's talk of continuing this practice even after the Anthony dollar is in circulation. But a few casinos have started to convert their machines, at a cost of up to $225, to match the size of the smaller coins.

Teng meets hospitality, hostility

HOUSTON (UPI) — Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping got a taste of Texas hospitality and hostility Friday, dodging anti-communist demonstrators as he ate at a Ku Klux Klan member, eating barbecue and fiery hot jalapeno peppers and shaking hands with with rodeo fans like a veteran American politician.

As Teng walked through the garage at his hotel in downtown Houston to drive to the rodeo, an unarmed Ku Klux Klan member lunged screaming at him, but was subdued by eight Secret Service agents.

The agents said the suspect, Louis Beam, was a Klan member who had been passing out literature saying, "Smash Communism; support Christian resistance." Beam got within eight feet of the Chinese leader before he was stopped.

At the rodeo, before a cheering rodeo crowd, the 74-year-old leader donned a cowboy hat with a red leather band and opened the Round-up Rodeo by circling the arena in a stagecoach, duffing the hat at the crowd in the best western tradition.

Teng, who had said earlier in Washington that he was looking forward to seeing the rodeo because it was similar to an old Mongolian sport, ate at a nearby restaurant and then crossed a muddy parking lot on a red carpet sprinkled with snow.

As he entered the arena, a country band struck up the tune "Cotton-Eyed Joe" and the crowd clapped in time to music, yelling, "Whoopie" and "Ah, ha."

Teng, walking with his wife Cho Lin, wearing a white 10-gallon hat over her brown leather jacket and brown trousers, shook hands with dozens of spectators as he walked to his spot in the wooden bleachers.

The rodeo began with the grand entry parade of the cowboys. A girl on horseback carrying an American flag and another carrying the Chinese flag led the parade, but the horse carrying the girl with the American flag girl crumpled, and the arena was tense until it was determined she had merely bruised her hip.

Teng had been shielded from demonstrators throughout his movement through the city, but all those parades and gatherings were peaceful and easily out-manuevered by Teng's driver.

At the barbecue, Fort Bend County Sheriff's Sergeant Jack McManus said Teng ate several jalapeno peppers, the hottest of Mexican food.

"There were several (peppers) on his plate and I believe he ate all of them," McManus said. "He didn't back away."

Teng also ate beef, ribs and sausage, baked beans, potato salad and drank a draft beer.

"Well, we're used to Szechwan," a member of his party said in a reference to the southern province of China noted for its spicy food.

Khomeini starts move to create government

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said Saturday he had appointed a provisional government and prepared a new constitution to form the basis of a new Islamic republic.

Khomeini, the white bearded 78-year-old patriarch of Iran's Shiite Moslems, said the "provisional government will shortly hold a general referendum to ratify a new constitution of an Islamic republic."

He said the provisional government's members would be announced shortly.

As for the armed forces, Khomeini said, they "must join our ranks as soon as possible. They must not use machine guns against the people."

"We want them to be free of foreign commanders and not to be under the thumb of foreigners," Khomeini said. "They have to stop supporting the present illegal regime. They must come into the arms of the people and they will embrace them."

He admitted that there had been contacts with the army.

Death to Bakhtiar.

Several thousand foreigners and Iranians also crowded Tehran Airport in an effort to free the civilian war that western embassies said now faced Iran.

Karim Sanjabi, leader of the Opposition Front, was one of the politicians received by Khomeini Friday.

Afterwards, Sanjabi said that the two million wildly cheering Iranians who celebrated the 70-year-old religious leader's homecoming Thursday constituted a "clear mandate" for Khomeini to take power.

Pro-Taiwan demonstrators marched to Teng's hotel in Houston but police headed off violence.

In a radio interview, Bakhtiar renewed his offer to meet Khomeini and form a government of national unity — including members of the Opposition Front "if the conditions are favorable."

But despite the peace offer, government sources said Bakhtiar and the army had also made plans to arrest any Iranian that Khomeini names to the Revolutionary Council he is forming to rule Iran.

That could come as early as Saturday, when the ayatollah scheduled a 8 a.m. (11:30 p.m. EST Friday) news conference.

While tens of thousands of his followers crowded the dilapidated school where Khomeini set up his headquarters on the second day of his homecoming after 15 years in exile, tens of thousands of other supporters marched through the streets in peaceful demonstrations shouting, in his radio interview, Bakhtiar insisted the army was solidly behind his government despite claims by Khomeini aides that secret talks were being held with top army generals to try to pave the way for his peaceful takeover and the establishment of a "pure" Islamic state in Iran.

Bakhtiar said he finally agreed to allow Khomeini to return to Iran because he was "less dangerous" in the country than directing opposition from abroad.

Aides said the government could get a closer eye on Khomeini in Iran and, if necessary, take action against the Ayatollah as a last resort.

The scene outside Khomeini's makeshift headquarters Friday was chaotic as cheering supporters surged through the school courtyard's steel gates to greet the hero of the revolution that "forced" Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi to leave the country last month, probably never to return.

Marshals wearing green armbands tried in vain to limit the thousands streaming into the courtyard of the school to a few hundred at a time.

Khomeini stood at an open window near ground level, waving and smiling to the throngs of youths. Some threw their caps to him. He caught them deftly and flung them back.

At one point six soldiers in uniform were joyously passed hand over hand above the heads of the crowd to shake hands with the holy man.

Snow slows tractor march

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A tractorcade of some 1,500 farmers was slowed down by fresh snow Friday on the last leg of a trip that has taken some farmers across two-thirds of the nation to lobby for higher farm prices.

Five-backed tractors and campers started out west of Morgantown, W. Va. and drove through snow to spend the night in western Maryland before arriving at the outskirts of Washington by mid-day Saturday.

Maryland state police said motor homes in the tractorcade provided farmers with shelter against snow storms that dumped at least 20 inches on western Maryland's Garrett and Allegany counties in two days.

Hundreds of farmers in two other tractorcades, already stationed in Washington's Virginia suburbs, bled their time until Monday morning's scheduled mass, rush hour entry into the nation's capital — an event officials feared would create nightmarish traffic jams.

The tractorcades, some brought in from farther west, set out Jan. 15 from several points in the Midwest.

Other American Agricultural Movement sympathizers headed to Washington by plane. Farmers predicted the turnout would exceed the estimated 30,000 who came last year.

They said they were fighting for food prices high enough to save a way of life: the family-owned farm.

Logistics for Monday were set at a closed meeting of American Agricultural Movement state delegates.

TWIN FALLS — National Farmers Organization President DeVon Woodland, of Blackfoot, will deliver the opening speech today at the winter convention of the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers.

Woodland will speak on the subject of "Commodity Prices, and Their Effect on Land Value and the Current Agricultural Situation" from 9 a.m. to 9:45 a.m.

The convention is in its second and last day at the Blue Lakes Inn on Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Woodland, 50, a Blackfoot farmer and father of nine children, was named president of the NFO Jan. 22, after the sudden and unexpected resignation of Oren Lee Slayley, the Missouri farmer who led the organization for 22 years.

Reclamation law enforcement may pinch banks, real estate

By LONNIE ROSENWALD, Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Enforcing the 1902 Reclamation Act may hurt bankers and realtors more than anyone, Twin Falls attorney John Rosholt speculated recently.

If the Reclamation law is enforced as written, farmers will be forced to sell hundreds of thousands of acres of land far below its value.

(Third in a series)

The Department of Interior plans in March 1980 to start enforcing the 77-year-old law, which limits a landowner to 160 acres of federally irrigated land. Water users and irrigators predict as many as 185,000 acres of irrigated land in Idaho will have to be sold off to comply with that provision.

Besides landowners, bankers and realtors with a stake in farm values will feel the effects of the acreage limitation. Rosholt, a specialist in water law, said, "They may even have more chips in the game than farmers," he said.

One Twin Falls banker agreed banks have a lot to lose under the law. He explained that when a farmer is forced to diminish his land holdings, he decreases his assets, and banks would be reluctant to loan money to that farmer.

Another effect enforcement will have, a farm appraiser pointed out, is to depress land values by suddenly dumping a lot of land on the market.

It is those potential effects that national organizations representing bankers and realtors are lobbying for amendments to the Reclamation Act, Rosholt said. He said appraisers, lenders and real estate agents may have a share of liability for their part in land transactions which violate limitations.

He said they have a responsibility to make land buyers and sellers aware of Reclamation law.

How much would farmers lose if forced to hold to the 160-acre limitation?

The law requires landowners to sell excess land at a price set by the secretary of the Interior. The secretary has indicated he will set a price equivalent to the value of the unimproved land on the date of original purchase.

This provision was tested in the 1977 court case, Israel vs. the United States, in which the secretary said the landowner could only keep $400, the amount he estimated the land was worth at time Israel bought it, from every excess acre sold. Israel argued unsuccessfully that he should be allowed $700 per acre, since that was the current going rate for dry land. (Irrigated farm land in the area was selling for $2,500 an acre.)

Once the limitation is enforced in March 1980, farmers will have six years to sell their excess lands. After that, the government will simply stop delivering water to them.

Church panel widens scope

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church said Friday the jurisdiction of the Senate Subcommittee on Energy Research and Development — which he chairs — will be expanded to encompass jurisdiction over all irrigation and reclamation matters.

The change has been agreed to by Democratic members of the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, assuring the change when the committee formally organizes for the 96th Congress.

The move will put Church "in the cockpit for shaping water law vital to Idaho, including a major reform of the outdated 1902 Reclamation Act," he said.

Rhodesia lowers bars

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Rhodesia abolished some racial discrimination in housing, education, hospitals and places of entertainment Friday, three days after the white electorate voted to hand over power later this year to the nation's black majority.

The most far-reaching of a set of bills, published in the official Government Gazette Friday by Prime Minister Ian Smith's bi-racial government, permits blacks to live in white neighborhoods and gives them the right to treatment in any hospital.

The Land Tenure Act, once the cornerstone of Smith's Rhodesian Front party governed where people could live and work depending on their race, was amended last year to allow the nation's 6.7 million blacks to move onto agricultural and commercial land previously reserved for its 250,000 whites.

Under the new law, blacks may reside in white neighborhoods but "extended families" — relatives of a basic family unit — will be barred to ensure the character of a neighborhood is maintained.

A new Education Act, which rules that no student can be barred because of race, will allow blacks to attend government primary and secondary schools in addition to the University of Rhodesia, which has been multi-racial since its founding.

But black politicians, who have complained the act replaces racial barriers with economic ones, say that high fees at schools in white areas will prevent most black children from attending.

Under the Medical Services Act, which removes segregation in government hospitals, previously white hospitals "will be high-fee paying" centers treating anyone able to afford the charges and black hospitals become "low-fee paying" facilities.

The Public Premises Act states the management of a public place of entertainment such as a cinema or a restaurant will not have the right to refuse admission on grounds of race alone, but does not make refusal a felony.

Tremor forecast nearing

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet scientists Friday announced plans to step up joint studies in earthquake prediction and in the future to begin a study on the growing use of chemicals in industry.

Douglas M. Costle, chairman of the U.S. side of the Soviet-American Joint Committee on Cooperation in the Field of Environmental Protection, made the announcement at the close of the seventh annual meeting of the group.

"Both the Soviet and the American side feel that it may be possible to achieve earthquake prediction within the next several years," Costle said at a news conference.

"It is agreed that we can get there much quicker if we collaborate on this matter. The Soviets have tremendous capability in this field and we'll be trying together to accelerate new techniques for quake prediction."

Costle said that while there is no current agreement on the use of toxic chemicals and their effects on the environment, both sides agreed it was a subject that should get more attention in the future.

"We are two highly industrialized countries," he said. "Both have used chemicals as a growing part of their industrial base. The need is there to better understand the effects of chemical intrusion on our environment."

Costle praised the Soviets at the end of the session and said it was one of the most successful in the six-year life of the Soviet-American environmental agreement.

The annual meeting was broken down into 11 separate areas for discussion covering a variety of environmental issues ranging from wildlife protection to air pollution and monitoring.

Saturday briefing

Michelle kept on planting tidbits with columnists

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Michelle Triola Marvin, former live-in girl friend of actor Lee Marvin, received a Mercedes car for $10,000 a year after she broke up with Marvin, but continued to plant items in gossip columns, testimony in the trial Friday disclosed.

Louis Goldman, a long-time show business attorney for the Academy Award winning actor, testified Miss Marvin, 46, asked for and received a Mercedes car from Marvin and also asked for him to pay for a trip to Europe.

Youth arrested

CLARKSTON, Wash. (UPI) — A 15 year old Clarkston youth was being held by authorities in this eastern Washington city in the sniper shooting death Thursday of Gene Hill, Clarkston.

Police said the youth fired several shots into the victim's home and one of the bullets struck Hill. He died several hours later at Tri State Memorial Hospital.

Officers said the youth, whose name was not released, also fired shots into other homes in the neighborhood before he was arrested.

Officers said the knew of no motive in the case.

Jury deadlocked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A jury deliberating bribery charges against Rep. Daniel Flood, R-Pa., retired for the night hopelessly deadlocked Friday, but was instructed to try again this morning to reach a verdict.

"The jury is deadlocked and there is no evidence that we will ever be able to reach a verdict," jury foreman Daniel Robinson said in a note sent to the judge after seven hours of deliberations.

But U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Dash responded by telling the prosecution and defense: "We spent three weeks on this trial and I hate to see it go down the drain."

Presley better

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Vernon Presley, who has been battling a falling heart, remained in critical condition Friday, but showed some signs of improvement after doctors attached a temporary pacemaker.

Dr. Roger Cunningham said the 62-year-old father of the late entertainer Elvis Presley has been resting comfortably in the intensive care unit of Baptist Hospital, where he has been a patient for the past two weeks.

Miss Marvin is suing the actor for $1 million and half of the assets he gathered during the six years they lived together, from 1964 to 1970.

Items were quoted from an Oct. 16, 1971, newspaper column in which Marvin was characterized as "falling off the wagon" and having trouble with his present wife, Pamela.

The column, brought out in testimony elicited by Berend Lehr-Schmidt, one of Marvin's attorneys, also implied actor Steve McQueen was calling on Michelle.

Goldman testified he quoted the gossip column items to Michelle in a phone conversation and she did not deny them at the time, but said:

"How could I keep information like that out. I swear to God I won't do it again. Give me another chance."

The comments she allegedly made, Mitchellson said, were made out of desperation if at all.

"She was broke and literally begging for money. Isn't that right?" Mitchellson demanded of Goldman.

"Yes," Goldman said.

Phone rates rise

BOISE (UPI) — The State Public Utilities Commission Friday granted the first general exchange rate increase to Continental Telephone Co. in more than 10 years.

The order allows the firm to collect $252,028 in additional revenue. The commission reduced Continental's original request by $8,731 to reflect a 5.5 mill property tax reduction passed by the 1978 Legislature, and that amount was further reduced $9,703 to reflect a lowering of corporate income taxes from 48 percent to 46 percent by Congress.

The PUC also ordered the firm to begin providing direct-distance dialing 40 customers in the Carey exchange and upgrade service for customers to at least four-party service by Feb. 1, 1980.

The commission said the order is complex because cities were regrouped into exchanges and a value of service approach was used to distribute the rates. As examples of the rate increases, a one-party residential line in Carey would rise from $6 per month to $7.35 and a one-party residential line in McCall would jump from $6.65 to $8.10.

Business telephone rate hikes correspond to the residential increases.

In one rate group are Carey, Elk City, Fairfield, Garden Valley, Horseshoe Bend, Ola, South Mountain District, Sweet, and Whitebird. Others groups include Riggs; Abaerdon, Parma, and Springfield; and Cascade; Donnelly, Homedale, Marsing, McCall, New Meadows, and Wilder.

Pillar a puzzler

No one in Cortez, Colo., was sure what created this frozen, frothy pillar on the morning of Jan. 26. There was speculation that materials which bubbled from the nearby culvert were trapped under the ice, then escaped through a hole and froze. The sun melted the unusual pillar.

Hospitality, hostility welcome Teng in Texas

Pro-Taiwan organizations held peaceful demonstrations at Ellington Air Force Base, at the Federal Building and at Teng's downtown hotel, but Teng's U.S. drivers used side gates and entrances to carefully shield the Chinese leader.

While Teng napped in the afternoon, 600 demonstrators — watched by an equal number of police — marched four blocks through the rain to the hotel to present Teng with a letter, which the hotel manager said he would pass along.

"It's a special message condemning violations of basic human rights and asking Teng to give a democracy to 800 million Chinese," said Andy Lai of the United Supporters of the Republic of China (Taiwan).

Police earlier arrested 15 people marching toward the hotel, and said the sticks upon which their banners were attached were large enough to be considered clubs.

"We stopped them and asked them to cease and desist from carrying clubs," Police Chief Harry Caldwell said. "They attempted to shove past one of our officers and we made the arrests. There's no going to be any terrorism on the streets of Houston."

During the visit to the space center, Teng paid a special tribute to former astronaut John Glenn and toured the numerous exhibits except the one commemorating U.S.-Soviet space cooperation.

The Chinese leader lost his normally somber expression in operating the space-age gadgets.

Teng learned how astronauts eat, sleep and go to the bathroom in space at the Skylab Space Laboratory. He sat at the controls of the lunar rover, while his wife Cho Lin gently thumped the tires, and piloted the space shuttle in simulated landings from 100,000 feet and 30,000 feet up.

Guided by astronaut Allen Bean, who spent two days in the moon and 59 days aboard Skylab five years ago, the 74-year-old Chinese leader donned earplugs and discarded his usual reserve.

"I would ask his excellency to push the (landing gear) button when I point," Bean said.

Teng raised his left thumb toward the button, but Bean pointed out they were still "over" the Mojave Desert and it was too soon. Teng pulled his thumb back. Moments later, "over" Las Vegas and Los Angeles, Teng landed.

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, puffing his pipe in a no-smoking zone of the space center, said he and Teng discussed energy politics during the flight from Atlanta, including Soviet action and the struggle for control of the Persian Gulf from which half the free world's oil supply comes.

Areas of night and morning fog through Sunday with scattered snow likely today and tonight. High temperatures today and Sunday 15 to 20 degrees. Overnight lows near 10 degrees.

Synopsis: Improvement in at least one aspect of the weather appears in prospect for Idaho today as temperatures are expected to edge toward the freezing level but some additional snow is also in prospect.

Sites over the Magic Valley cleared Friday morning after another night of snow and temperatures climbed to more pleasant levels during the afternoon. Malad reported 22 degrees for the state's warmest reading.

Fairfield's 25 below zero was the coldest spot in the state.

National temperature extremes were reported at Butte, Mont., the coldest spot at 30 below, and at Brownsville, Tex., the warmest place at 74 degrees.

Across the United States, rain continued to fall over Southern California, turning to snow on the mountains, where a half foot of new snow was reported on Mount Wilson. Locally heavy snow showers are expected in southern Nevada today.

Snow was also reported in central Arizona, northern New Mexico, Utah and Western Montana. Light snow also fell from the western Great Lakes region into the middle-Mississippi Valley, in New York and the northern and central Appalachians; 2 to 3 inches at Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and the northwest coast of Washington. Temperatures were in the 30s as far south as Oklahoma and northern Alabama and single digit readings in the afternoon were reported in Nebraska and the northern plains.

Extended forecasts for the northwest states indicate a trend toward warmer temperatures the first half of next week, although cold air may remain trapped in some valleys. Rain or snow is predicted in areas closer to the Canadian border but generally dry conditions are anticipated across Utah and Nevada.

Happy Rockefeller, sons sit beside President, Mrs. Carter at Rockefeller service

Rockefeller memorial rites draw leaders from over world

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Carter, former President Gerald Ford, princes, ambassadors and diplomats from 71 nations paid tribute Friday to Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, known fondly by his countrymen as "Rocky."

Standing beneath the stone Gothic vaults of Manhattan's Riverside Church, Rodman C. Rockefeller recalled his father's love for the "hurly-burly" of political campaigning — from his first handshake and famous "Hi ya, fellas" at Nathan's hot dog stand in Coney Island to his years as vice president in the aftermath of Watergate.

Happy Kissinger, speaking deliberately and often straining to hold back tears, delivered an eloquent and stirring eulogy to his former boss, calling Rockefeller's death at the age of 70 "both shattering and nearly inconceivable."

Happy Rockefeller, with sons Mark, 12, and Nelson Jr., 15, to her right, and President and Mrs. Carter to her left, remained composed for most of the hour and a half memorial service. She cried only once as Rodman ended his eulogy with, "I thank God that the world is a better place because Nelson Rockefeller passed by."

Clearly moved, she turned and squeezed the hand of her son Mark and then of President Carter.

Rockefeller, one of the century's most influential men who vainly sought the presidency, died last Friday of a heart attack while working in one of his Manhattan offices.

Kissinger, who delivered tributes along with Rockefeller's youngest brother David, 63, and his daughter Ann Rockefeller Roberts, recalled for the 2,500 filling the church his first meeting with Rockefeller.

"For the laughter of those gathered he remembered Rockefeller entering the room 'slapping backs, calling each of us by the best approximation of our first name he could remember — at once outgoing and remote."

Kissinger, who was a graduate student at the time, said Rockefeller asked them not "how to maneuver," but "what is right?"

"For Nelson Rockefeller, this was the quintessential question, both naive and profound; at once shaming and uplifting. It was the definition of his integrity," Kissinger said.

The former secretary of state, a foreign affairs adviser for the Rockefellers and a family friend for 25 years, said he was at first "seized by an inexpressible loneliness" when he learned of his friend's death.

Riverside Church was an appropriate setting for Friday's service. Although Rockefeller, a devout Baptist, never worshipped at the non-denominational church regularly, his father, John D. Jr., contributed $26 million to its construction in 1927.

The opening prayer was offered by the church's pastor, the Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., who in the 1960s was an outspoken anti-war chaplain at Yale University while Rockefeller was one of the nation's leading Vietnam hawks.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr. also offered a prayer for Rockefeller, who walked behind the mule-drawn coffin of Martin Luther King Jr. in Atlanta after his assassination in April 1968. At the senior King's urging, Nelson often provided bail for civil rights leaders jailed in the south.

Also attending were vice president Walter Mondale, Chief Justice and Mrs. Warren Burger, Secretary of State and Mrs. Cyrus Vance, United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, Prince Abdullah Bin Al-Hussain of Jordan, as well as New York's senators, Gov. Hugh Carey and Mayor Edward Koch.

Rights worker's death laid on FBI informant

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A man who served a prison term for the 1965 shooting death of Detroit civil rights worker Viola Liuzzo told reporters Friday the woman actually was shot with his gun by FBI informant Gary Thomas Rowe.

Eugene Thomas of Bessemer, Ala., said that on the advice of his attorney he pleaded innocent, did not take the witness stand and "took his chances" on being acquitted in subsequent trials on the case.

Thomas, a Klansman who served six years of a 10-year term on a federal conviction of violating Mrs. Liuzzo's civil rights, appeared at a news conference with his lawyer and Robert Shelton, Imperial Wizard of the United Klans of America.

Thomas handed out a notarized statement that said he, Rowe and fellow Klansmen William Eaton and Leroy Wilkins left the Birmingham area and drove to Selma via Montgomery. In a Montgomery parking lot, the statement said, Rowe asked Thomas if he could borrow his gun because Rowe's did not work.

"He said he felt 'naked without a gun' and wondered if he could carry mine," Thomas's statement said. "I said 'yes' and took his pistol and locked it in the glove compartment. I gave him mine."

Rowe was a paid FBI informant at the time of the shooting. His testimony sent Thomas to prison, but Rowe was indicted last year in Lowndes County, Ala., for the killing and is fighting extradition to Alabama from his home in Savannah, Ga.

Rowe, reached at his home, denied Thomas's allegations and stuck by his story that Wilkins fired the fatal shots using Thomas's gun.

Thomas said he knew Rowe to be an FBI informant and was afraid to inform police of the shooting because "they wouldn't let him (Rowe) take the rap and that he would say I or one of the other two persons fired the shots."

Thomas's lawyer, John Edmond Mays of Decatur, Ala., and Shelton also said they had reams of federal documents obtained under the Freedom of Information Act proving the FBI illegally harassed Shelton by various methods, including burglarizing his home, forging his signature and stealing his mail.

Nation's unemployment rate shows slight dip in January

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped slightly last month with no signs yet of the recession predicted by critics of the Carter administration's economic policies, the government said Friday.

The Labor Department said joblessness slipped to 5.8 percent during the month, paced by a 450,000 surge in new employment.

Black teen-agers — a group with a continually high jobless rate — dropped for the second consecutive month, from 34.9 percent to 32.7 percent.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported 96.3 million Americans working and 5.9 million looking for jobs.

"The employment expansion has been strong enough to absorb a rapidly growing labor force, but has made no further inroads on the unemployment rate," Janet Norwood, the bureau's acting director, said.

Ms. Norwood, testifying before the House Senate Joint Economic Committee, was asked if the latest figures indicated the economy is stronger than had been believed with no signs yet of recession.

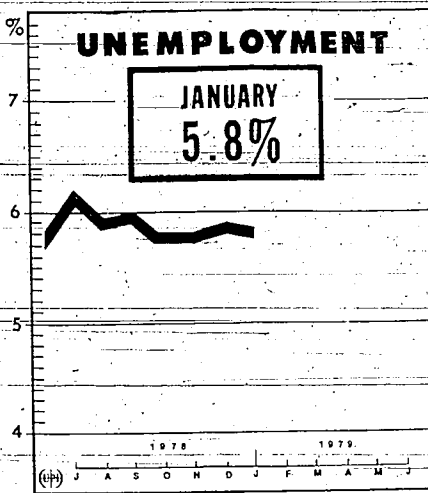

"That's absolutely true," she replied.

Critics of the administration's fiscal policies have predicted the government moves to slow down economic growth would lead to a recession and throw additional Americans out of work.

The Bank of America — the largest bank in the country — predicted last month that the odds are about even the United States will suffer a short, mild recession in 1969.

Economists usually define a recession as two quarters in a row with a decline in the gross national product.

The jobless rate increased in December to 5.9 percent — the first rise in five months — leading some economists to predict a period of higher unemployment might have already begun.

The BLS said a record 59.3 percent of the non-institutionalized population over the age of 16 was working in January.

The January decline in the unemployment rate showed in all major categories — adult men, down from 4.1 to 4 percent; adult women, 5.8 to 5.7 percent; whites, 5.2 to 5.1 percent; minorities, 11.5 to 11.2 percent.

The department said the nation's civilian labor force — people working or trying to find jobs — grew by more than 300,000 to 102.2 million in January.

The last time nationwide unemployment topped 6 percent was a 6.1 percent rate in July of 1976.

Pinto deaths case stands

ELKHART, Ind. (UPI) — A judge refused Friday to dismiss criminal charges against Ford Motor Co. in the deaths of three teen-age girls in an explosive Ford Pinto accident.

Superior Court Judge Donald Jones denied a motion by Ford to dismiss an indictment issued last year, charging the automaker with reckless homicide.

The three teen-agers were were riding in a 1973 Ford Pinto that burst into flames when struck in the rear by a car.

"Jones wrote... The court now finds that the indictment does state the offense with sufficient certainty, that the facts alleged in the indictment do constitute an offense and that the statute charging reckless homicide is not unconstitutional or otherwise invalid" and accordingly denies the defendants motion to dismiss.

Ford executives said they were considering an immediate appeal.

Connally off on his quest

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — Former Gov. John Connally campaigned Friday in Texas for the first time in 13 years and the first time as a Republican, and announced his week-old campaign for the presidency "already has met the criteria for federal matching funds."

Connally also said he thinks he could win in Texas under any primary system the Legislature might pass, despite former California Gov. Ronald Reagan's sweep of the state in a 1976 nomination battle with President Ford.

Reagan is believed to be considering another run for the White House, a goal Connally formally set his sights on last week in Washington.

Boeing awarded missile project

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Boeing Aerospace Co. has announced a $250 million contract for development and flight-testing of the Air Launched Cruise Missile.

Armed with a nuclear warhead, the missile is to be carried on the B-52 bomber, and will serve as a small, subsonic weapon delivery system designed to penetrate deep behind enemy borders.

The Boeing contract is with the Department of Defense Joint Cruise Missiles Project offices.

Ethics panel probe sought in Diggs case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ethics Committee was asked Friday to investigate Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., and recommend whether Congress should take action against him because of his mail fraud and payroll-padding convictions.

The committee will hold its first meeting next week, at which time it will decide what to do about the letter of complaint filed by 15 House members, all but one of them freshmen Republicans.

Following an investigation, the committee could make recommendations ranging from a vote on expulsion to no action at all.

Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., spokesman for those who signed the letter, said he would file a similar letter concerning Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., if Flood is convicted on bribery charges. A jury deliberated the Flood case Friday in Washington.

Gingrich said the move against Diggs was not partisan and he complained of the fact that only one Democrat — Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo. — was willing to co-sign the letter.

It's a mixed outlook for four-footed weather forecasters

By United Press International
 Punxsutawney Phil saw his shadow. Jimmy the groundhog didn't. Pothole Pete, pride of the Big Apple, slept through it all.
 And as far as the Weather Bureau was concerned, those Groundhog Day forecasts for the next six weeks were as good as any.
 But don't try telling that to the folks in Punxsutawney, Pa., who take such things seriously.
 Groundhog Phil emerged Friday from his lair on Gobbler's Knob apparently nonplussed by the crowd of local boosters and sightseers. He cast a fat shadow.

 According to legend, this means six more weeks of bad weather.
 Charles M. Erhard Jr., president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club, claimed this is Phil's 92nd year as a forecaster and that the rodent "is 'never, never wrong.'"
 He also waved away the skeptics who say the "King of the Weather Prophets" is only a stuffed toy, propped up for cameras.
 "Stuffed animals don't kick their feet and bite the (club) president, like Phil did a few years back," Erhard said.

 Out in Sun Prairie, Wis., Jimmy the groundhog, whose fans boast of his accuracy during 17 of the past 20 years, crept out of his hole on a cold, cloudy day and saw no shadow. That meant an early spring.
 Pothole Pete, New York's challenger, slept on in his burrow in the zoo in Flushing Meadow Park — well away from a 25-degree temperature and a 30-mph wind that would drive a brass monkey back to bed.
 Zoo officials were loath to discuss

Pothole Pete's activities the night before. But whatever the reason, it was clear that Pete — donated to the city by the Daily News a year ago — was not taking seriously his duties as a long-range weather forecaster.
 In Washington, the National Weather Service's reaction to the opposing forecasts by Phil and Jimmy was (1) agree, (2) disagree, (3) don't know and (4) all of the above.
 Forecaster Mike Galdridge said a seasonal long-range forecast issued Jan. 25 for February through April gave the expectation, with 3-2 odds, for below-normal temperatures over the coastal and southern Great Plains, mid-Mississippi Valley, Gulf Coast region, central parts of the Pacific Coast and intermountain region.

 But seasonal temperatures were predicted to be above average, based on the same 3-2 odds, from northern Montana through Michigan's Upper Peninsula and over the southern half of Florida.
 The bureau was unable to determine an outlook for the rest of the nation.

 And the bureau wasn't helped much by a sleepy brun named Grizzly G.H. Bear in the Oklahoma City zoo who was roused out of a winter's nap by weather freaks in the belief that bears were the original forecasters in the February follies.
 Instead of walking out into the sunshine, G.H. Bear and his drowsy mate stayed in the shadows of their cage and tried a couple of comic routines in hopes of mooching a midwinter handout from the crowd.

Apparent drug overdose during party fatal to British punk rock guitarist

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bass guitarist Sid Vicious, star of the outrageous British "Sex Pistols" punk rock band, died of an apparent drug overdose Friday, one day after he was freed on bail in the hunting-knife murder of his girlfriend.
 Police initially ruled the death a suicide — the 21-year-old Vicious had tried to kill himself "after his arrest" last October — but later said the death might have been accidental because he had been using drugs Thursday night at a party.
 His nude body was found at 10:30 a.m. MST in a bedroom at the apartment of Michelle Robinson, a girlfriend, in Greenwich Village.
 Miss Robinson and Vicious' mother, Ann Beverly, told police that Vicious had been using heroin at a party at the apartment to celebrate his release from Riker's Island Jail.
 Vicious, whose real name was John Simon Ritchie, was ordered freed on $50,000 bail pending trial on charges he murdered his girlfriend, Nancy Spungen, 20, of Huntington Valley, Pa., a Philadelphia suburb, who was found slain with a hunting knife last Oct. 12 in their room at Manhattan's Chelsea Hotel, a Bohemian hangout.
 Officer Robert Zink said Vicious

 death follows
 was lying nude on a bed in the three-room ground-floor apartment. He said the two women tried to wake the singer and when he did not respond, they called police. Vicious was pronounced dead at the scene and an autopsy was ordered.

 "There is nothing to indicate whether or not it was a suicide," Zink said. "None of the witnesses reported that he was despondent or anything like that."
 Zink said police recovered "a" syringe, a spoon, all the kind of paraphernalia you'd expect to find with a heroin addict."
 Houseman said no drugs were found inside the apartment.
 Det. Richard Houseman said Vicious died sometime after 2 a.m., after a party that was given to celebrate his release from jail Thursday. Houseman quoted friends of Vicious as saying the punk rock star had appeared "joyful and happy" at the party.
 For much of the night, Vicious had reportedly been drinking beer, but about midnight, Houseman said, he injected heroin into his veins and suffered a seizure. He reportedly came out of it, Houseman said, and appeared to be in good shape when the rest of the party-goers left.
 Vicious was the best known of the defunct Sex Pistols, whose performances featured a public display of spitting, vomiting and obscene antics set against a background raucous multi-decibel "punk rock" music. A 1978 tour in the United States failed to cause as much hullabaloo as anticipated and the group's fortunes, fizzled.

 Medical Examiner Michael Baden said Vicious' death could have resulted from an "inadvertent overdose." The punk guitarist had a "drug overdose-type reaction," Baden said, adding that a full autopsy report would not be released until Saturday.
 Baden said Vicious had been detoxified at Riker's Island. "If he took the same dose he was used to before detoxification, it could be lethal," Baden said.
 Police escorted Miss Robinson and Mrs. Beverly to the local stationhouse for questioning. Miss Robinson, 22, wore shiny, skin-tight black pants and a fuzzy red-and-white striped sweater. Her dark brown hair was frizzy, thick white makeup caked her face and black lipstick coated her lips. At her side was the orange-haired Mrs. Beverly.
 State Supreme Court Justice James Left had allowed Vicious to go free on a condition that in addition to $40,000 bail on the murder charge, he post an additional $10,000 by Feb. 16 on a charge of assaulting Todd Smith, brother of punk rock queen Patti Smith.

Ad may bring back money

STAFFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Town officials said Friday they will purchase a newspaper advertisement to tell a repentant thief, who has already returned $2,600 stolen from town offices, that he still owes them $670.
 The thief took more than $3,200 from an unlocked office in the town tax collector's office a week ago. He then telephoned town officials several times before mailing back $2,600 in three brown envelopes.
 "The whole thing is so strange — that someone would steal that much money and return it — that he might just be strange enough to return the whole thing," said First Selectman John Julian.

In his telephone calls to Stafford police and to the tax office, the thief said he was uncertain how much he had taken and asked town officials to run a classified ad telling him how much was still missing.
 "I'm willing to take the chance on buying a $5 ad to get $600 back for the town," Julian said. "We thought the phone calls were just hoaxes until the money came back."
 Julian said he didn't know whether the classified ad, which town officials hope to run this Sunday, would produce the missing funds.

Albanian 'king' departs

MADRID (UPI) — Self-proclaimed King Leka I of Albania, who vowed to free his country from Communist rule, fled Spain after authorities uncovered an arms cache in his luxurious villa, the Foreign Ministry said Friday.
 A chartered jetliner provided by the Spanish government flew Leka, his Australian-born wife Susan and 16 servants to the West African republic of Gabon Thursday but the Libreville government apparently refused them entry.
 The party then left for Salisbury and was admitted as guests of the Rhodesian government.

 The 6-foot-8 Leka left his villa outside Madrid wearing a cartridge belt festooned with hand grenades and his wife carried a submachine gun, the Madrid newspaper La Reportera said.
 The newspaper said a number of large crates, apparently containing an arsenal of submachine guns, machine guns, pistols, grenades and ammunition, were loaded onto the chartered Spantex Coronado jet that flew the party to Africa.

Kennedy, banker's daughter plan simple wedding today

GLADWYNE, Pa. (UPI) — When Joseph P. Kennedy III, the eldest son of the late Robert F. Kennedy, marries his daughter, Sheila Brewster Rauch today, it will be a simple mixed religion ceremony that they have tried hard to keep from becoming a public spectacle.
 The Rauch family has been close-mouthed about arrangements, refusing even to say who designed the wedding gown, or what hymns will be sung or what scriptures will be read during the service at St. John the Baptist Wyanney Roman Catholic Church.
 The couple will be married by Rev. Gerard Creeden of St. Agnes Roman Catholic Church in Arlington, Va., with the participation of Rev. Warren Davis, the Rauch family pastor at St. Christopher's Episcopal Church in Gladwyne, a Philadelphia suburb.

 Creeden is a friend of the groom, and gave Sheila pre-marital instruction non-Catholics receive before marrying Catholics.
 Susan Rauch reportedly will be her sister's attendant, and Kennedy will have his brother Michael at his side. There will be one flower girl.
 According to St. John-Pastor Ignatius C. Reynolds, there will be no Mass. There will be congregational singing and readings at the service that begins at 10:30 a.m. MST and is expected to last about 30 minutes.
 From 150 to 200 guests are expected and entrance will be by invitation only.

 Ethel Kennedy, Joseph's mother, will attend as will his uncle, Sen. Edward Kennedy, but not the senator's wife, Joan. Grandmother Rose and President Kennedy's son, John, were believed to have sent regrets. Cousin Caroline was expected, as are aunts Eunice Shriver, Pat Lawford and Jean Kennedy Smith.
 Jackie Kennedy Onassis also could show up.
 St. John's, in suburban Gladwyne, was chosen because it is the closest Roman Catholic church to the Rauch home in Hanover.
 A reception and luncheon will be held afterward at the Rauch home.
 After honeymooning, the couple plans to move into a home Kennedy bought in May in the Brighton section of Boston.
 Sheila Rauch, daughter of R. Stewart Rauch Jr., chairman of the nation's largest savings bank, Philadelphia Saving Funds Society, was employed as a housing specialist for the city of Boston and may return to her job.
 Kennedy is unemployed and last worked as a special assistant in the U.S. Community Services Administration in Washington.

'Whiff' produces results

SUNBURY, Pa. (UPI) — A woman convicted of shoplifting for stealing a $1.98 item was sentenced to three hours in the county jail under a "whiff of the possible" program used by a judge.
 The program, adopted by Northumberland County President Judge Peter Krehel in 1976 shortly after he took office, is designed to show persons who commit minor offenses what life can be in prison.
 Under the program, persons are sentenced to a few hours, or at the most, a weekend in the county jail to show the life they could face by habitual violations.

 After spending the brief period in jail, the woman convicted of the shoplifting charge made restitution, paid a small fine and promised she would never steal again.
 The "whiff" sentence is used in cases such as neglect, refusal to pay support, shoplifting, and violations of protection from abuse orders.

Horoscope

Scorpios, watch out for new golden opportunities; keep your balance and you will be fine, Aquarians

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This day could have many disappointments if you are not careful, so act with caution and sobriety at all times. Be on your best behavior and show understanding of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Put in economy measures today and build up your reserves. Any financial risks taken now is asking for trouble.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): You may think you can expand in all directions today, but this is not the case. First take steps to improve your health.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Study your surroundings early in the day and make plans for improvement. Later engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Not a good day for the social side of life, although you're rarin' to go. There should be trouble instead.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Take no risks with your good name and follow every regulation that concerns you in the best way to be free of trouble today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Listening to experts in modern affairs can prove beneficial for you in the future. Be careful in the handling of money now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Find the right way to handle a personal matter that will give you renewed respect. How you go to gain your finest asset.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): A civic matter is not to your liking but there is little you can do about it, so forget it. Be alert to new opportunities.

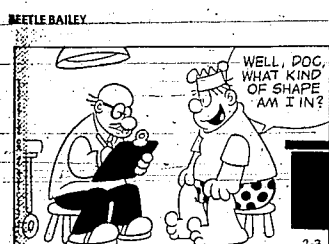

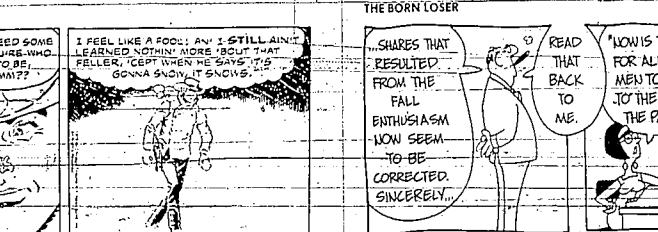

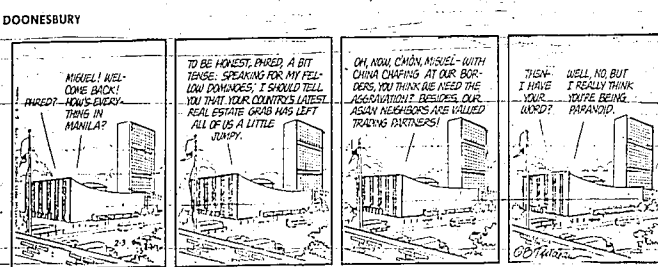

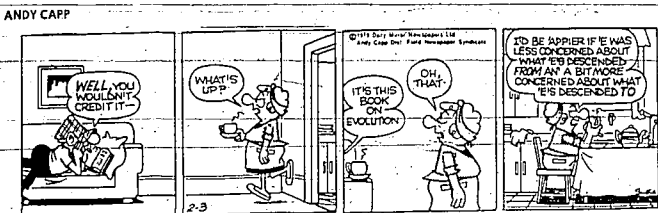

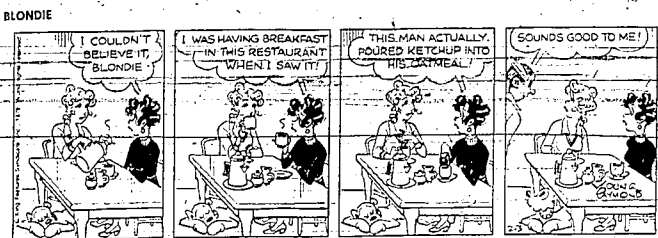

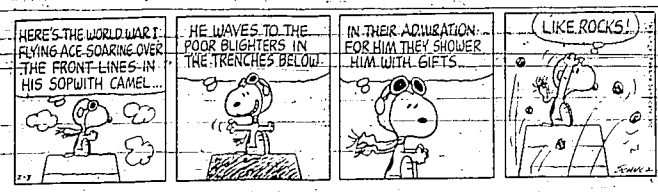

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Attend to duties now that you have neglected to do in the past. Follow every regulation that applies to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Being encouraging and cheerful with others now helps you and yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): The situation at home could be hectic, but if you keep your poise, all will soon be regained. Make improvements to property.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You have to exercise much caution if you are to avoid potential danger today and tonight. Good day for reading.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can comprehend problems easily and should be taught how best to handle them and not create others. Give right religious training so that the energies will be channeled in the right direction.

What's what

Here's gold that won't cost you a mint, either; Nixon, Ford and Carter--are they big shots?

It's a lot easier to make phony gold bullion than counterfeit currency. All you need is $400 worth of 14-karat gold and some brass to turn out $1,000 worth of "24-karat" gold bars. And if you do so, it's none of the Secret Service's concern. That bureau deals with funny money, not misrepresented merchandise. No doubt there's a law or two in the fraud legislation that would get you, when caught. But such bad business is essentially the interest of the Federal Trade Commission, which is known to be out to lunch much of the time.

Some prognosticators now think that half the country's Baptist ministers will have to find second jobs by 1985.

YELLOW BOOK
A major publishing house puts out a cookbook that annually sells about 100,000 copies. Not bad, not bad. So pleased were the publishing moguls, in fact, that they decided to put out the volume with different bindings in four colors: red, green, blue and yellow. Most mysteriously, the book in the yellow didn't sell.

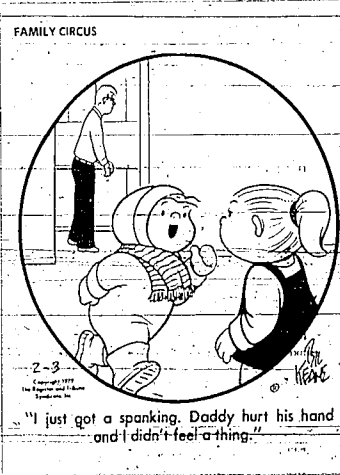

Q. How long does the average rattlesnake live?
A. 18 years 6 months.

Certainly you recognize the names of Nixon, Ford and Carter. They play for the Los Angeles Lakers basketball team.

Half the world's children never reach the age of 15.

WORK SONGS
What do you think of the notion that famous work music, like the Volga Boat Song, did more than just coordinate the muscles of the men at their labor? True, when they sang in rhythm, they tugged in cadence, and that gave them their best power. But when they sang, also, they exhaled slowly. How else, when singing? And that gave them their stamina. Maybe it's just coincidence, but a number of the outdoor men I've known with the greatest endurance have been men who steadily went about their work while humming, or whistling between their teeth, or whispering nonsense lyrics, the unconscious breath control bit.

IRS rules on private schools 'harmful'

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Internal Revenue Service guidelines to insure against minority discrimination in tax-exempt schools would do "more harm than good," Twin Falls private schools say.

"According to IRS officials, however, such guidelines would not establish minority quotas for private school enrollments, which many private schools in Idaho probably could not meet."
"I think we would be in a great deal of trouble," Pastor Robert B. Leake of the Twin Falls Seventh-day Adventist Church said Wednesday. "We would lose a great deal of financial base if we lost our tax-exempt status. It would put us under financially."
Leake said his school makes no discrimination for race, color or national origin and not even for religion, but probably would not meet any minority quotas designed for more populous areas.

But fears that the IRS will establish minority quotas for private tax-exempt schools are unfounded, Boise district IRS director Philip Sansotta said.

"We won't establish quotas," Sansotta said from his Boise office Thursday. "The service simply wanted to make sure private educational institutions that were entitled to tax-exempt status under Internal Revenue code weren't violating another part of the law by discriminating.

Sansotta said the IRS held four full days of public hearings in Washington, D.C., during December at which private schools, civil rights leaders, congressional delegates and members of the general public testified.

"In addition," he said the IRS has received more than 120,000 written comments about the proposal to make sure private schools are not discriminating.

"The majority of the comments received were against it (quotas of any kind)," Sansotta explained. "The service is still wading through the hearing comments and the mountains of letters they received. When they will come up with the ruling, I don't know."

"But regardless of the way it comes out on any ruling, a taxpayer or group of taxpayers always has the right to appeal."

Representatives from two private church schools in Twin Falls attended the hearings in Washington, D.C., to protest guidelines for tax exemption and racial discrimination.

Anton Peatow, principal of the Immanuel Lutheran School in Twin Falls, said a representative of the Immanuel Lutheran Missouri Synod board of parish education told IRS officials the guidelines were "unnecessary and probably would do more harm than good."

Peatow said all five Missouri Synod schools in Idaho "share the same kind of background" in that they do not enroll a significant number of minority students.

"Our schools all came into existence before civil rights became an issue and all of them have non-discriminatory policies when it comes to enrollment and financial aid," Peatow explained.

"The new guidelines only represent more paper work for us. They are going to give me more things to do in the office. They presume us guilty until we prove ourselves innocent. I get very irritated with that."

Peatow said his school now enrolls several minority children, but he does not know if his school meets quotas for minority enrollment.

"That has never been a concern," he added. "If someone comes and says, 'I would like my children enrolled in your school, no difference what color they are.'"

Leake said the same is true at his school and minority quotas punishable by loss of tax-exempt status "would just break us and make our tuition so high nobody could go to our school."

The government is trying to control education to stop religious schools from opening up to prevent busing and integration," Leake said. "But when the shotgun fires, it is indiscriminate as to where the pellet hits."

Both men said representatives of their school systems attended hearings and have been discussing IRS minority guidelines.

Leake said the Seventh-day Adventist School on Falls Avenue West enrolls about 43 students and the church is already starting construction of a new school near its church on Grandview Drive.

The Lutheran School enrolls about 160 students and is currently deciding about building additional facilities to house a growing enrollment.

Leake said IRS minority guidelines are a "backlash at the cult system." He said "people are trying to get the reserves of churches."

FBI shifts its attention to white collar criminals

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — White-collar criminals are more likely to be busted today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation than fugitives or bank robbers.

Calling the FBI a "different outfit" for work than it was under the regime of the late J. Edgar Hoover, the bureau's Magic Valley agent, Frank Chidkimo, said that FBI emphasis has shifted in recent years "not only because we go into trouble, but also because of changing conditions."

"The emphasis now is more into white collar crime," the agent told members of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club Thursday. "Rather than chasing fugitives or handling bank robberies." He hastened to say in his FBI district, which includes Montana and Idaho, agents do still cooperate with local authorities on bank robberies.

But the changes have resulted in a parallel change in personnel, he said, and many of the present agents would not be hired if they were to apply now.

"What they want now is more lawyers and accountants," the agent said, noting hiring policies are geared to employ qualified women, blacks, Indians and other minorities. The 13-year veteran of the bureau brought a newspaper background to his job. Since he was transferred to the Magic Valley a year ago, he has investigated cases of fraud by wire, where either persons or companies are involved in interstate commerce.

Currently, Chidkimo said, the FBI is scrutinizing several cases. A person using the name of another to place an ad in a newspaper is being surveyed by a business unit under the owner's obtain a loan. Noting that there are honest people in that line of work, the Twin Falls-based agent said in fraud cases the "wonder" is how he collects his 10 percent.

Other popular FBI cases are fraud by bank employees and cases where individuals are being picked up by military units to be sent to the Hoover City Jail where they are part of an FBI agent's FBI description any more.

"We used to be in the deserter business," if the military requested us to," Chidkimo added. "But the only way the FBI goes after deserters today is if they committed a crime before deserting."

Organizations believed to be subversive are also used to rank high on the federal snipers' checklist.

"We have to be extremely careful of their rights, even if they are violating everyone else's," the agent said of such groups.

Chidkimo told the Kiwanians that Hoover was very misunderstood. "It was believed that all he wanted was more power. He did in a way," the agent admitted, "but he was dead against the FBI taking over as a national police force."

A year ago there were 8,600 agents scattered throughout the U.S. and in most major cities, but the number has been reduced by attrition to about 8,000. More than 1,000 of these agents are stationed in New York City with another 500 in Chicago. "So we really are scattered pretty thin," he said.

Chidkimo previously served as FBI agent in Corpus Christi, Texas, and in Portland prior to moving to Twin Falls.

Legislators to face three airport bills

BOISE — The Idaho Legislature next week will be faced with three proposals designed to weaken or eliminate altogether regional airport authorities.

The first two measures are sponsored by Rep. Mack Neubaur, R-Paeh, and will be brought to the House Transportation Committee.

One provides for holding an election to determine if a county should withdraw from the regional airport authority. The other provides for the mandatory dissolution of the authority if the number of participating counties is reduced to less than three.

The Neubaur bills were drafted by the Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority.

The third measure is sponsored by Rep. Gordon Hoffield, R-Jerome. Hoffield's proposal would allow a district-wide election to elect the authority.

Hoffield will also introduce his bill next week, either in the transportation or the total government committee.

The hearing will take place at the PUC, 472 West Washington, Boise, at 1:30 p.m. Monday. State Water Resources Department Director Stephen Allred will chair the meeting.

Payette dam hearing slated

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Public Utilities Commission and the Resources Department will conduct a joint public hearing next month on Idaho Power Co.'s application to build four hydroelectric dams on the South Fork of the Payette River.

Idaho Power has proposed Pine Flat, Big Falls, Black Bear and Grimes Pass as sites for the four structures. The combined generating capacity of the dams would be 85 megawatts and the project's total cost has been estimated as almost $73.2 million.

$7.5 million loss derails the Pioneer

By JEFF SHER
Times-News writer

WASHINGTON — The Amtrak Pioneer train lost $7.5 million in fiscal 1978, a Federal Railroad Administration official said Friday.

That's the reason the Transportation Department recommended this week that the Pioneer's Salt Lake City-to-Seattle route be eliminated from the Amtrak system, according to Bob Hunter of the FRA program office.

Hunter said from Oct. 1, 1977, to Sept. 30, 1978, the Pioneer generated revenues of $2.7 million. During that same period, the cost of running the Pioneer amounted to $10.2 million.

He said the $10.2 million figure includes the Pioneer's share of the general operating overhead of the Amtrak system. A breakdown of costs directly incurred by the Pioneer in fiscal 1978 is not yet available.

The Pioneer began operation on June 7, 1977. From that date until the end of 1977, the Pioneer brought in $1.1 million and cost $2.6 million to run. $700,000 of that cost was general system overhead not directly attributable to the Pioneer.

Hunter said statistics developed by the DOT also show that during fiscal 1978 an average of 61 people rode the Pioneer at any given point.

DOT official Jerome Shone said the Pioneer carried an average of 105 passengers each run. She also said that, on the average, 14 people got on or off the Pioneer at Shoshone each day.

Joe Vranich of Amtrak's headquarters in Washington provided statistics on the total number of passengers the Pioneer carried for several months since it began operation.

In November 1978, the last month for which statistics are available, the Pioneer carried 14,231 passengers, or 10.4 percent more passengers than the 12,867 carried in November 1977.

In October 1978, the train carried 10,446 passengers, compared to 9,402 in October 1977, an increase of 11.3 percent.

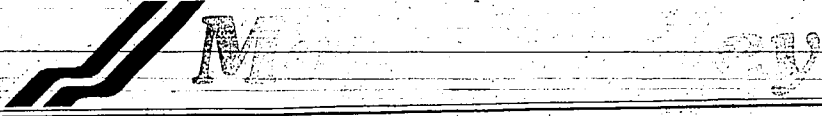

But the Pioneer carried fewer passengers in September 1978 than in September 1977 (8,388 vs. 10,563), and the same was true for the months of August (14,350 vs. 17,746) and July (13,054 vs. 17,631), the peak season for train travel. The Pioneer carried slightly more passengers in June 1978 than in June 1977.

Hunter said the cost of operating the Pioneer compared to the service provided doesn't compare favorably to other western long-haul routes.

He said one of the major reasons for the elimination of the Pioneer and other Amtrak routes is to make the system more cost and energy efficient.

He said DOT statistics indicate the Pioneer consumed more fuel in fiscal 1978 than would have been conserved had all the people who rode on the Pioneer travelled the same distance in automobiles.

Will solons eclipse Idaho's Supreme Law?

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — One of the largest election landisles in Idaho history occurred in 1974.

That year Initiative No. 1 killed an amazing 77 percent vote of approval, surpassing even the total given Cecil Andrus, who received the largest margin of any gubernatorial candidate in the 20th century.

Initiative No. 1, better known as the "Sunshine Law for Political Funds and Lobbyist Activity Disclosure," arena with both feet.

The climate was ripe for reform legislation in 1974. The new Sunshine Law came before voters less than three months after the resignation of President Richard Nixon.

Further heightening emotions was the recent failure of the Idaho Legislature to voluntarily enact a Sunshine Law, forcing supporters of the measure to the streets with petition pads and pencils, where they gathered 33,383 signatures in support of their goal.

Finally, as the initiative drive in Idaho moved toward success, reinforcement came from another state. On June 4, California voters overwhelmingly approved "Proposition 13," a Sunshine Law with much tougher disclosure requirements than those in Idaho's initiative.

In this atmosphere, discussion of the proposed law centered less on what the measure would actually accomplish than on its being a panacea for political malfeasance.

Since its passage the failure of the law to cleanse the system has been both a disappointment to some and an argument to others who insist the Sunshine process is a waste of time and money. Attacks on the law — both open and not so open — have appeared in each legislature since the measure was approved by voters.

The stated purpose of the law was to "promote public confidence in government and avoid secrecy by those giving financial support to state election campaigns and those promoting or opposing legislation for compensation at the state level."

The Sunshine Law applies to candidates, their supporters and lobbyists. With each group the basic requirement is disclosure. Money received and spent must be publicly reported. Contributors of more than $50 must be listed.

Unlike similar — but tougher — legislation in other states, Idaho's law sets no ceiling on what a lobbyist or a candidate can accept or spend.

Under the law, a lobbyist is defined as one who attempts "through contacts with or causing others to make contacts with members of the legislature or legislative committees, to influence the approval, modification, or rejection of any legislation by the legislature of the State of Idaho or any committee thereof."

Lobbyists must file quarterly disclosure reports with Secretary of State Pete T. Cernarusa. While the legislature is in session, those reports must be filed monthly.

In those reports a lobbyist must itemize expenditures — in seven categories, including "entertainment, food and refreshment," "advertising," "travel," and "office expenses."

Whenever expenses for entertainment, food and refreshment exceed $50 in one sitting, the lobbyist report must also contain names of any attending legislators — or public officials.

The law specifically excludes, however, many persons from the category of "lobbyist." Among those who may lobby and not register are those who:

- Limit their lobbyist activities to appearances before public sessions of committees of the legislature.

- Are employees of an entity engaged in the business of publishing, broadcasting or televising, who in the ordinary course of business disseminate stories or comment to the general public.

- Do not receive any compensation for lobbying and persons whose compensation does not exceed $100 in the aggregate during any calendar quarter.

- Are public officials acting in their official capacity.

- Represent a bona fide church of which they are members solely for the purpose of protecting the constitutional right to free exercise of religion.

The numerous exceptions to the definition of lobbyist was an intentional effort to require registration only from the professional, paid lobbyist and not from the voter with a desire to testify about one particular issue.

The Sunshine Law also requires candidates for Idaho elective offices to appoint political treasurers who will record all contributions to the candidate or his committee. All contributions of more than $50 must be accompanied by the contributor's name and address.

If a contribution is received, and the political treasurer is "unable" to determine the source of the contribution, that money is deposited in the state public school fund.

Political treasurers must also file regular reports of contributions and expenditures with the Secretary of State. It is these filings which have caused the most Sunshine controversy. Critics argue there are too many reporting dates, hampering the candidate and his legitimate political activities. Supporters of the law argue the reports are the backbone of disclosure and the main reason for Sunshine's existence.

The critics have won at least part of this battle.

Tires shot out

TWIN FALLS — A sudden power outage Thursday night cost Magic Valley Cable Vision flat tires on two vans.

The vans were parked in the alley behind the company office at 420 Main Ave. S. during the power interruption, which began about 6 p.m., Twin Falls police reported.

When the van drivers emerged from the office about 6:30 p.m., they discovered one tire on each of the vans was flat. While the tires were being fixed Friday, it was discovered they were flat because they had been shot, the police said.

Slugs recovered from the tires appeared to be .32 caliber slugs. The police say they found none who had seen anything or heard any shots.

Country caravan today

TWIN FALLS — The Country Music Association jamboree will kick off the event with a musical caravan from Buhl to the Blue Lakes Mall here today.

The jamboree will be held Monday and Tuesday in the Fine Arts Auditorium of the College of Southern Idaho at 8 p.m. both days. The parade will arrive at 6:30 p.m. and weather permitting, live music will be played from a truck bed on the ride into Twin Falls. The parade will arrive at the Blue Lake Mall about 3 p.m., where the musicians will play inside the covered shopping area by the fountain.

Scheduled to appear during the jamboree Monday are The Brown Brothers, The Roadshow, Just Pickin', C & R Express and The Plowboys.

Tuesday's roster will include Country Ramblers, Tradesmen, The Common People, Johnny and the Backups, and the Last Resorts. Single artists performing will include Kim Hart, Janette Shannon, Rolly Zollinger, Wilbert Perkins, Washboard Annie, Barbara Todd, Diane Covy, Bessie Stewart, and Angela Cramer.

Tickets are $2.50 at the door.

Option taxes brought up

BOISE — Rep. Myron Jones, R-Malad, performed a legislative flip-flop Friday in the Capitol Building.

After acknowledging he voted against a similar measure last year because he thought it was discriminatory tax legislation, Jones urged the House Revenue and Taxation Committee to give the City of Lava Hot Springs special taxing powers not restricted by the 1 percent limitation.

Lava Hot Springs is within Jones' legislative district.

In 1978, Jones voted against giving local option taxing power to the resort cities of Ketchum and Sun Valley. Those cities, Jones said in 1978, should not have special taxing authority.

Ketchum and Sun Valley are not in Jones' legislative district.

On a recorded 10-5 vote, the committee introduced the measure. As now written, the Jones' plan would allow a resort city with a population of less than 2,000 in a county with a population of less than 20,000 to issue liquor-by-the-drink and hotel/motel taxes.

Rep. Hoy Brackett (R-Twin Falls) was the only Magic Valley representative on the committee to vote in favor of introduction of the measure.

Magic Valley representatives on the committee who voted against introduction of the Jones' plan were Rep. Virgil Kraus, R-Mountain Home, Rep. John Brooks, R-Gooding, and Rep. Gordon Hollifield, R-Jerome.

The measure will now be scheduled for a full committee hearing.

Dogs to be tranquilized

FILER — A tranquilizer gun for use in dog control is in the process of being purchased by the City of Filer, according to Mayor Eldon Ryals.

Many residents are in the habit of turning their dogs loose to run at large, and the tranquilizer gun should make it easier to catch the animals, Ryals said.

Hung jury is declared Friday in Jerome manslaughter trial

By DOUG TULLIS
Times-News writer

JEROME — The jury reached no decision here Friday in the involuntary manslaughter trial of Dallan Robert Schenk, 23, of Paul.

Schenk was charged with involuntary manslaughter in the Aug. 27, 1978, traffic death of Guildaro Chavez, 29, of Chihuahua, Mexico.

Chavez died when a motorcycle he was riding on a rural road in eastern Jerome County.

The impact-severed Chavez' left arm and threw his body approximately 30 feet onto a pile of lava rock by the side of the road.

The four-woman, two-man jury began deliberating the case about 4:30 p.m. Friday but could reach no conclusion. They declared they were hopelessly deadlocked about 7:30 p.m.

A total of nine witnesses were called during the two-day trial, which began Thursday in Jerome Magistrate Court. The trial was presided over by Judge Russell Shaud.

Jerome County Prosecutor Gene Fredericksen said the case will have to be retried by another jury. The exact date will have to be set after Shaud examines his calendar.

Schenk was charged by the Idaho State Police with being on the wrong side of the road when the accident occurred. He claimed during the trial that Chavez was in the wrong lane.

Schenk admitted driving on the left side of a dirt road before turning onto the 350 North road on which the accident occurred.

He said he took that action to avoid the ruts and washboards on the right side of the gravel road, but claimed he returned to the proper lane when he reached the paved road.

Two passengers riding in the back seat of the Schenk car, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sliagar, former Paul residents now living in Utah, testified that the vehicle was over the line when the accident occurred.

Three ISP officers, Lamont Johnston, Jerry Atherton, and Leslie Stimpson claimed their investigation proved Schenk was over the line when the car collided with the motorcycle.

However, Idaho State University physics professor Stanley Veggers said measurements from the accident scene did not agree with that finding. Schenk and his wife, Brenda, declared on the witness stand that the car was not in the wrong lane at the time of the accident.

Beth Fredericksen and defense attorney T.H. Church told the jury in closing arguments someone was mistaken in their testimony and it was up to the jury to decide which side was telling the truth.

The jury could not reach that decision and declared itself deadlocked after deliberating three hours.

Chavez, an illegal alien, was driving an unregistered motorcycle. Involuntary manslaughter is a misdemeanor and carries a penalty under Idaho Code of up to a year in jail and a maximum $500 fine.

Six tracts in SV wilderness study

SHOSHONE — The Bureau of Land Management is proposing six tracts of land totaling 39,561 acres from its Sun Valley Planning Area as wilderness study areas.

The Sun Valley Planning Area of the Shoshone District of the BLM stretches from the Craters of the Moon National Monument on the eastern side of the road when the accident occurred. He claimed during the trial that Chavez was in the wrong lane.

Schenk admitted driving on the left side of a dirt road before turning onto the 350 North road on which the accident occurred.

It's 'do or die' for Golden Eagles

TWIN FALLS — "Hot shooting." That's the word on the North Idaho Cardinals who come into CSI gymnasium tonight for a game that either restarts or possibly ends the season for College of Southern Idaho. The Cardinals currently are running undefeated in the regional tournament, although they were scheduled to play at Treasure Valley Friday night. CSI is down one, due to that overtime loss to Ricks, a team North Idaho steamrolled 87-58 at Coeur d'Alene. Since the home court has been synonymous with regional championship for the past eight years, CSI can ill afford a loss. A North Idaho win would give the Cardinals a big advantage toward the regional host designation.

play and I get some different reports about various things that they do. But they've all agreed that North Idaho is an excellent shooting team. They are hitting more than 50 percent from the floor for the year. "Most of the people say North Idaho has been forcing the tempo a lot. Our game plan is this. We are going to try to guard them a little bit and stop them from running the ball. I think it would be to our advantage to keep the scoring low." North Idaho doesn't have the height of the Eagles but the scouting reports indicate it should be a little quicker. At guard Coach Rolfe Williams will have Claude Butler, a 6-2 frosh from Anchorage, Alaska, by way of New York, and 6-1 Scott Thomas, Boise, who played on Capital's first state championship team four years ago. The forwards are 6-4 Gordon Herbert, Pennington, D.C., who is the leading scorer. At center the Cardinals have John Bell, a 6-6 freshman from Portland.

"I have seen Bell and I would suspect he is their best player," Coach Mitchell said. "He's 6-6 and 211 pounds, rebounds well and he can score. He's enough of a talent that Oregon State tried to sign him before he went the junior college route." North Idaho brings a 19-1 mark into the game. Eight of those wins have come at the expense of four-year school Junior varsities and the Cardinals have swept home-and-home matches against Spokane, Wenatchee and Yakima. They split with Columbia Basin. Mitchell says he and the Eagles go into the game with a positive attitude built on two good performances since that overtime loss to Ricks. "I think that at Columbia Basin (Wednesday night) we definitely played our best game of the year. Of course, we shot 61 percent against them and you always look better when the shots are going in. It also makes the defense look good because making the basket means the other teams isn't flying out of their with a rebound and fast break. They have to take it out of bounds and walk it up," he said. The coach also feels that the big men are improving. "Orlando Bryant got us 10 boards and was three or four from the field against Columbia Basin. Kenny Justice has gotten into double figure scoring a couple of times lately and Mark Stroud has been picking up some offensive board points for us. We need to get that scoring help inside. If we get that I think we still have an excellent chance to get back into this thing and win it." The low scoring may come as happy news to the proprietors of the Red Steer drive-ins. That firm will offer a free ticket to everyone attending Saturday night's game that can be converted into a free soft drink if CSI scores more than 50 points. The CSI women's team will take on Mountain Home also in a preliminary battle starting at 6 p.m.

Lions take easy win over TF

By RANDY FREY Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Following a back-to-back first-half, Borah demonstrated to all in attendance just why it has been billed the best girls basketball team in the state as the Lions exploded to a 48-31 win over Twin Falls.

Borah coach Lauri Burke was not pleased with the way her team played before the intermission, but when the Lion girls recited off 11 of the first 13 points to start the second half she began to breathe a little easier.

"For some reason the girls were a little confused in the early going and were playing the wrong defense," Burke said.

Nevertheless, Borah was able to pick up its 18th win in 19 tries and earn a first round bye in its district tournament.

Twin Falls jumped to a quick 2-1 lead when Kris Muldoon threw in a jumper, and the Bruins made it 4-1 when Karen Harr drove inside for two more.

A tough Twin Falls zone defense held the Lions scoreless for the next three minutes until Shari Ferguson hit a long jumper to break the tie. Borah then took the lead when Jodie Osborn grabbed an offensive rebound and followed it in.

The Lions made it 8-4 at the end of the first quarter, using a man-to-man press to slow the Bruins down.

Corine Dowd hit a jumper to bring the Bruins back within two before Borah's Kathy Griswold made it 10-6 with a long, high set shot from deep in the corner. Griswold led all scorers on the night with 19 points, 13 in the second half.

But still right in the game, Twin Falls tied the score when Harr drove to the basket and Brenda Latham scored moments later on a give and go.

Borah looked as though it would then break the game open as the Lions scored eight straight points, but back came the Bruins with five straight of their own to keep it close.

The Lions led only 25-17 at the half. But Twin Falls coach Kathy Anderson knew Borah was a much better team than it showed in the first half, so when the Lions jumped to a 36-19 lead following the intermission, she probably wasn't surprised.

"They have the personnel to play basketball with," Anderson said of the Borah team. "They have some good shooters, good jumpers and good quickness," she said. Borah built up a 20-point lead at the outset of the fourth quarter and held firm until Twin Falls began to chip away late in the game.

Diane Hoggan, Times-News

Kris Cappel let this one slip away to Bruins' Karen Harr, but in the end the game was in Boise's hands. Borah 8 25 42 88 Twin Falls 4 17 24 31 Borah — Griswold 19, Osborn 5, Ferguson 6, Sandham 11, Cappel 4, Dodds 1, Milligan 2, Twin Falls — Harr 11, Muldoon 6, Latham 6, Dowd 7, Kulken 1.

Hovey does it Bruins win in overtime

BOISE — Sophomore Lars Hovey probably will always remember his first start on the Twin Falls varsity.

He scooped up a deflected shot with time running out in overtime and lifted a 15-footer at the buzzer to lift the Bruins to a 71-69 decision over Western Division, SJC, leader Boise.

The shot ended a hot-shooting burnburner between the two teams that saw the lead see-saw throughout the second half and overtime. Each had chances to win it before Hovey finally settled it.

"It marked two straight for Twin Falls over Boise this season and lifted the Bruins to 9-8. Twin Falls returns to Bruin gymnasium tonight to entertain the Borah Lions at 8 p.m.

"It was one of the neatest games I've ever seen," enthused Coach John Astorquia afterward. "I wasn't real pleased with the officiating but both teams played well. Both teams shot the ball well and there were very few turnovers. It was just a neat game. I even got to coach."

Astorquia praised the Braves for a steady game and was impressed by their strength inside. "They really gave us trouble on the boards in the first half. They got a lot of follow shots. We came out and gave them a look at the man in the second half but then went to a zone to get a break on the boards. Our kids came back well because our stats had us outrebounded only 29-27 at the end. It was worse than that early and all of them on the offensive boards."

The game started looking like a burnburner when Boise was hit with tremendous first-quarter shooting blitz by Twin Falls and sited back to within a point by halftime. Twin Falls hit 11 of 13 shots from the field in the first quarter. But Boise, not shooting as well but dominating the offensive boards, trailed only 23-18. Scoring slowed down considerably in the second period. Twin Falls falling off to just four field goals. That left the door open for Boise to close to within 33-32 at intermission.

The third quarter was a matter of basket matching and lead trading.

Bob Brice, who ended the night with scoring honors at 20, got one for Twin Falls just before the buzzer to make it 47-46. Hovey, who ended with 18 points, and Borah's Bruce Spilke then went into a scoring duel over the next several minutes. Spilke took the edge by hitting five straight while Hovey replied with four.

Twin Falls' last three-point lead came when Keith Gordon got a criddle off the back end of the anti-press but for the next while it looked bleak for the Bruins.

Mark Owen hit a free throw and John Tate then added two field goals, the last one on a follow shot with 1:02 remaining. That gave Boise a 65-63 lead. Then Boise did something odd, stayed in the press that hadn't really hurt the Bruins all night. Twin Falls again broke it and Gordon tied it up.

Boise missed a free throw with 10 seconds remaining and Twin Falls then went to an in-bounds play that got a criddle — but it fell off to bring on the overtime.

Johnson's 20-footer opened the overtime for Boise but Brice evened things up. Gordon's free throw sent Twin Falls on top by one but two Bruins threw with 1:11 left — returned Boise to the lead. Jim Merkle fashioned the last tie with another charity.

Boise worked the ball for 45 seconds after that before missing another free throw. Twin Falls rebounded and immediately called time. From sidcourt the ball went into Brice who tied a 20-footer. It was slapped aside but Hovey tracked the loose ball down and earned the winner at the buzzer.

The game completed a sweep for Twin Falls teams as the juniors won 49-47 and the sophomores took a 65-55 decision.

Nehemiah continues assault on records

TORONTO (UPC) — Ronaldo Nehemiah, joking that he can't afford to lose anymore, continued his current record-breaking run Friday night by posting new world figures in the 50-yard high hurdles at the Toronto Star indoor games.

Nehemiah, of the University of Maryland, clocked 6.04 seconds to win the rarely contested event from European champion Thomas Munkelt of East Germany, 6.10, and Veteran Olympian Charley Foster of the Philadelphia Pioneer club, 6.14.

Nehemiah, whose last loss indoors came Jan. 13, 1978, broke the old mark of 6.07 seconds posted by UCLA's James Owens here last year.

The Owens Marylander, voted the meet's MVP, said he can't afford to be happy with his season.

Having set indoor marks twice over 60-yards this season, Nehemiah said, "I have already surpassed what I set out to do in this indoor season, so it's just a question of winning from now on."

The featured mile brought the capacity crowd of 60,000 fans to its feet — although favored Irishman Eamonn Coghlan was only able to tie John Walker's Canadian Open record with a 3:58.0.

Coghlan had quarter-mile splits of 60.7, 2:00.0 and 3:00.0 and led virtually from start to finish, holding off

Tanzania's Suleiman Nyanhui, 3:58.7, and Steve Leary of the University of Wisconsin, 4:01.4. Coghlan won the event for the fifth time.

Harvey Glance of Auburn won the 50-yard dash in 5.43 from Don Merrick of Central Florida YMCA and Olympic 100-meter champion Hasley Crawford of Trinidad.

In the early stages, it looked like the three miles would produce a record but in the end Ireland's John Treacy, the world cross-country champion and a student at Providence College in Rhode Island, was left to run the final six laps on his own. He won in 13:11.9 from Bill Donakowski of the New York Athletic Club and Kenya's James Messyod, a student at University of Texas at El Paso.

Other winners in the men's division: 600 yards, Stan Vinn, University of Chicago, Track Club, 1:11.07; 1000 yards, Peter Lonashon, Kenya, 2:09.05; 500 yards, Kevin Price, D.C. International, 58.67; pole vault, Dan Ripley, Pacific Coast Club, 5.30 meters (18 - 1/2).

Women's division: 50 yards, Christine Brenner, East Germany, 5:32.50; yard hurdles, Gudrun Wakan, East Germany, 6:41; 600 yards, Jane Griffith, Guyana, 1:32.26; 1500 meters, Jan Merrill, Age Group Athletic Association Connecticut, 4:15.37; high jump, Debbie Brill, Vancouver, B.C., 1.83 meters (6ft).

With new gymnasium

Coaches smiling at O'Leary

By RANDY FREY Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Comparing the new Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School gymnasium to the old school gymnasium is like comparing the Wilshire Hotel to a Motel Six.

The first is by far better than the latter, and administrators, coaches and students at O'Leary are all smiles when talking about the facility.

"It's a super facility, and it makes coaching a lot easier," said Clarence Phillips, O'Leary athletic director and ninth grade basketball coach. "We now have a lot more room, the noise has been cut down and we have locked doors at all the entrances," he said.

"We used to have a lot of kids cut through the gym during practices and it was a little irritating. Now we can shut them out."

O'Leary principal Carl Snow, who helped design the new gymnasium, is pleased with the outside facilities now offered to the students.

"All we had at the old school was a little blacktop area, now we have 37 acres of playing fields," he said.

Included on the 37 acres is a football field, two softball fields and an outstanding track, Snow said. The new track is a metric, eight-lane, all-weather surface which includes lanes for high jump, long jump and triple jump. It also has pits for shot put and discus.

Inside the gym are locker room facilities five times as big as those offered at the old school. Shower temperatures are controlled by the coaches, who set one uniform temperature for all showers. All the students do is turn on the water. Two regulation-size gyms are located under the giant roof, with one primarily for basketball while the other will be used for wrestling, gymnastics and volleyball.

High-pressure sodium lighting is now used. Snow saying it is softer on the eyes and 80 percent less expensive than the old incandescent lighting.

Both gyms have public address systems and both contain time clocks. The scoreboard in gym B-1 is new while that in gym B-2 was brought over from the old school. The gyms are called B-1 and B-2 rather than boys and girls.

"One of the best things about the gym is that we now have access to one area without having to open up the entire gym," Snow said. "It makes crowd control a lot easier."

"The way the gym is set up, two events can be going at one time, but with doors closed persons viewing one event would not hear the other."

Students at O'Leary think as highly of the new facility as do their teachers.

"The all-glass backboards are a lot better than the old backboards," said Dirk Sandstrom, a ninth grader and member of the school basketball team.

Ninth grader Mike Mahanes said he likes the new floor and the more stable rims on the basket.

"At the old gym the floor was hollow and when you bounced the ball it didn't always bounce back," he said. Phillips said the students have been doing an excellent job caring for the new physical education facility, saying he is trying to "get the kids to take pride in the building."

And with a facility that has to compare to that of the College of Southern Idaho, the junior high school students have been taking that pride.

Filer nips Indians at buzzer

SHOSHONE — Filer came storming back in the fourth quarter Friday night to edge Shoshone 53-51.

Boyd Richens led all scorers with 14 points for Raft River while teammate John Wilson scored 11.

Table with 4 columns: Player, Points, Rebounds, Assists. Includes names like Richens, Wilson, and others.

At the nine second mark, Brad Astle sank two free throws for Shoshone to tie it, but the Wildcats won it at the buzzer on a 25-foot jump shot by Tony Smith.

Murtaugh 77, Castledorf 65. CASTLEDORF — The Magic Valley Conference-leading Murtaugh Red Devils turned to a spread offense.

Wood River 56, Jerome 51

HAILEY — The clock ran out of time before Wood River ran out of missed free throws Friday night and that allowed the Wolverines to oulcast the Jerome Tigers 56-51.

Bliss 56, Carey 24

BLISS — Bliss uncorked a 20 point second period and the momentum carried it to a 56-24 victory over Carey Friday night.

WENDELL — Fighting off a late Declo rally, Wendell evened its Canyon Conference record at 4-4 with a 54-46 win over the Hornets' Friday night.

Camas Co. 79, Mackay 49

FAIRFIELD — It might have looked a little more like football than basketball but Camas County was equal to the task Friday night when the Mushers rolled over the Mackay Miners 79-49.

Bonneville 87, Minico 69

IDAHO FALLS — Bonneville's Bees saw an 11-point first quarter margin dwindle to three, but came back strong in the second half to thrash Minico 87-69 Friday night.

Hagerman 60, Richfield 43

RICHFIELD — The Richfield Tigers threw a scare into Hagerman for just over three quarters-Friday night but the Pirates roared away at the end to collect a 60-43 non-conference decision.

Blackfoot 79, Burley 77

BLACKFOOT — Beating Blackfoot on its home court is tough to do, but Burley gave it everything it had before falling to the Broncos 79-77 in overtime.

Raft River 53, Oakley 34

OAKLEY — Raft River remained one game behind Murtaugh in the Magic Valley Conference when the Trojans jumped to an early lead and went on to defeat Oakley 53-34 Friday night.

Hagerman 60, Richfield 43

RICHFIELD — The Richfield Tigers threw a scare into Hagerman for just over three quarters-Friday night but the Pirates roared away at the end to collect a 60-43 non-conference decision.

Late free throw lifts Idaho past Montana

MOSCOW, Idaho — (UPI) — Reed Jauss and Bill Hessing sank consecutive free throws with less than a minute to play Friday to give Idaho a 62-56 Big Sky Conference win over Montana.

Northwest Nazarene storms past Golden Eagle girls

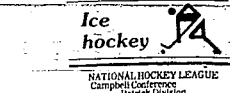

TWIN FALLS — Northwest Nazarene college women scored the first six points of the night and never trailed in whipping the CSI girls 56-41 Friday night.

Who's going to wrestle a woman?

SEATTLE (UPI) — A female high school student remained undefeated in league wrestling against male contenders Thursday night as the third straight opponent scheduled to face her forfeited the match.

Interlake Coach Thurmond Lander said his team discussed before the match whether their Lynn Martin would test his skills against Bellevue High School's Rhonda Blingham, who competes in the 115-pound weight class as that school's first varsity woman wrestler.

"I asked Martin if he was willing to wrestle with her and he told me he would be willing to wrestle if the team needed him but he really didn't want to. I decided I couldn't put him under that kind of pressure," Lander said.

"I have a great deal of respect for the young woman," he said. "She's turned out and worked very hard. My team respects her, too."

But not, apparently, to the extent they would wrestle her.

"I'd be afraid of hurting her and then I'd feel awful and release when you beat a girl," said one of Martin's teammates.

"Martin, he just didn't want to be the first. You'd be teased; you know, about brutalizing a girl," another said.

"You couldn't use half your moves," added another, who then defended what he meant — a move designed to release an opponent's hold on you that involved throwing the arm in a body blow across the upper chest.

As Rhonda had her hand raised in victory by the referee, she was applauded by the Interlake team and fans who had turned out in large numbers to see Bellevue's new winner.

"One of these days, one of those guys will wrestle with me," Rhonda said. "Maybe next year."

The warm reception given her contrasted to the previous night when Bellevue was pitted against Redmond High. One of Redmond's top contenders for the city-wide conference finals forfeited his match against Rhonda, at the expense of jeopardizing his standing.

"But if he wrestles," said coach Ted Kuykendall in a prepared statement, "he will be going against his moral and ethics."

The Redmond coach threw a temper tantrum, Rhonda said. "First, he challenged my hair and then my fingernails, and then my nail polish. Then he said my T-shirt wasn't league regulation."

I offered to take off the T-shirt (leaving her to just a tank top). Then he said he wanted to be present at the strip-down weigh-in. That's where you strip naked, you know," Rhonda said.

She said it that's the only way I can get to wrestle then I'd do it. Then he called for a shoulder-to-shoulder weigh-in. That's when all the team is naked and lined-up shoulder-to-shoulder. I said I'd do that but the referee said no, that they weren't going to have anything like that," she said, finding the situation humorous.

"I'd do it too," Rhonda said, "if that meant I could wrestle."

Rhonda expressed a deep commitment to her chosen sport.

"I like to wrestle. I have a right to wrestle," she said, noting that gymnastics and basketball are the only other women's winter competitive sports offered at Bellevue.

DePaul's coach says he'll stay

CHICAGO (UPI) — DePaul Coach Ray Meyer took the occasion of the announcement of his induction into the Basketball Hall of Fame Friday to insist he has no immediate plans to retire.

Meyer, the winningest active coach in college basketball, is one of five former players and coaches who will be inducted into the Springfield, Mass., shrine April 30. Meyer, 65, who has won 583 games in 37 years at DePaul, becomes only the fourth coach to be named to the hall while still active.

The others were John Wooden of UCLA, Frank McGuire of South Carolina and Adolph Rupp of Kentucky.

Meyer said before the start of a news conference held at the DePaul campus that many people, including some of the local media, assumed the announcement would be of his retirement.

"But I want to stay around at least several more years," he said. "I want to take a team to the final four. And as long as I'm active and can do my job, I'd like to continue, because it's a labor of love."

Joining Meyer at the conference were two other new inductees, former basketball official and Chicago columnist Jim Enright and former Tennessee State Coach John McLendon, the first coach to win three straight NIAA championships. Others to be inducted this spring will be former pro star Will Chamberlain and former coaches Sam Barry of Iowa and USC, Eddie Hickey of Creighton, St. Louis and Marquette and Pete Newell of San Francisco, Michigan State and California-Berkeley.

Meyer lauded the honor "the most memorable in my life."

"I am very grateful to DePaul, which gave me the opportunity to become a head coach after I was an assistant at Notre Dame," Meyer said. "No coach, no matter how good, can ever attain success without the players. I'm thankful to the regulars, substitutes and those who sat on the bench."

One of Meyer's early pupils, George Mikan, also is a member of the Hall of Fame.

Hard thing to take

NBA's Denver Nuggets Coach Larry Brown breaks into tears as he resigns as the team's coach this week. The team's poor season was cited as the reason for the resignation. Nuggets assistant coach Donnie Walsh will fill in for Brown until the end of the season.

Ice skating Canada has new champ

THUNDER BAY (UPI) — Consistency made Toronto's Kay Thompson Canada's new junior ladies figure skating champion as she comfortably turned back the challenge of 15 other skaters at Fort Williams Gardens Friday night to capture the gold medal.

It was one of three gold medals awarded Friday at the 1979 championships. The championships and today when seven gold medals, including the four top senior class places, will be determined.

Brian Orser of the Midland Figure Skating Club took the junior men's crown and Toronto's Kelly Johnson and Chris Barber won the junior dance title.

Thompson, a member of the Granite Club, controlled her division from start to finish. Second after figure skaters, she moved into top spot following the compulsory program, then put the icing on the cake winning Friday's free skating program.

She finished with seven ordinands, and 121.00 points compared to 18 ordinands and 117.40 points for silver medalist Yvonne Anderson of Vancouver's North Shore Winter Club.

The third-place bronze medal went to Kathryn Osterberg of Calgary's Glencoe Club with 28 ordinands and 114.40 points.

"I think I performed well," said Thompson. "The consistency was there. I felt very confident."

Orser, who was in second place going into the free skating phase, was absolutely overpowering in that event. He successfully landed two triple Lutz jumps, a triple Axel, and a triple toe loop to clinch the junior title. It's believed Orser is the first junior in figure skating history to land a triple Axel.

Spitz, Makman win 'Silver Dance' title

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Elissa Spitz and Stanley Makman, winners of the 1979 Eastern U.S. title in the "Silver Dance" category, Friday won their first national skating crown in that division at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships.

Spitz, of Short Hills, N.J., and Makman, of Cambridge, Mass., edged out the Columbus, Ohio, duo of Renee Roca and Andrew Ouellette. Spitz and Makman rolled up 223.10 points and nine ordinands, to 219.50 and 16 ordinands for the Roca-Ouellette team.

The Phoenix, Ariz., couple of Robi Shepard and Kelly Witt totaled 217.10 and 19 ordinands, good for third.

Earlier Friday, Stacey Smith and John Summers of Wilmington, Del., last year's national winners in figure skating's "championship dance" division, seized first place at the halfway point of the event.

The duo scored 190.40 points and seven ordinands in the compulsories and original set pattern parts of the competition. Saturday night's free skating performance will count the final 50 percent of the competitors' scores.

In second place after Friday's competition were Carol Fox of Westland, Mich., and Richard Dalley of Lathrup Village, Mich., with 196 points and 14 ordinands. In third were Judy Blumberg and Michael Seibert of Colorado Springs, Colo., with 183.90 points and 21 ordinands.

In Friday's "junior pairs" competition, Rosemary Sweeney of Foxboro, Mass., and Daniel Salera of Stoneham, Mass., led after the "short program" event, which counts 25 percent of the final score, with 64 points and 12 ordinands.

Saturday's free skating exhibition will count 75 percent of the "junior pairs" score.

Woods honored

TWIN FALLS — Bob Woods of Twin Falls, a middle linebacker at Oregon Tech, has been named to the Evergreen Conference first all-conference defensive team.

The 1975 Twin Falls High School graduate is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Woods. He also was named by his coaches and players as the winner of the most inspirational award.

Woods attended Treasure Valley Community College for two years before enrolling at Oregon Tech. At TVCC, he won the most valuable player award.

Yanks, Carew talk

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees said Friday there might be something "definite" in the works within the next 72 hours in their bid to acquire first baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins.

"We hope to have something definite by end of this weekend," said George Steinbrenner, principal owner of the Yankees. "We plan on talking with (Twins owner) Calvin Griffith today. We're still evaluating the situation and talking about Carew. He's one of great hitters in baseball."

Steinbrenner said he hasn't read about some of the criticism about him attributed to Carew, who has accused the Yankees of "dragging their legs" in attempting to consummate a deal with Minnesota.

Investigation starts

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — The FBI Friday said it was investigating the possibility that Gulf Shores police violated the civil rights of a California sportswriter who was escorted out of the nearby coastal town after he was apparently set up for a cocaine arrest.

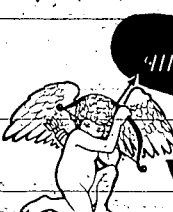

The inquiry involved the arrest last month of Sacramento Bee sportswriter Bob Padecsky, who was freed after convincing police he had been framed. Padecsky was arrested after he interviewed Oakland Raiders' quarterback Ken Stabler, who lives in Gulf Shores.

Big 10 official dies

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Kenneth L. "Big Ten" Wilson, the second commissioner of the Big Ten, died late Thursday of complications from pneumonia. He was 62.

Wilson served as commissioner from 1945 to 1961 following 20 years as athletic director at Northwestern University.

"He was a robust individual who commanded the respect of all his contemporaries," said Wayne Duke, current Big Ten Commissioner. "His lasting influence on the amateur athletic world serve as a model for anyone dedicated to the principals of what athletics ought to be all about."

Redskins sign agents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins announced Friday the signing of four free agents who were cut from other NFL squads prior to the 1978 season.

The Redskins signed defensive end Dwight Carter of Texas-Arlington, tight end Joe Mosley from Central (Ohio) State, linebacker Tim Peterson of Arizona State and wide receiver Glenn Starks of Texas A&M. Carey was a fifth round choice by Kansas City, Mosley a ninth-round choice by St. Louis, Peterson a ninth-round pick by New England and Starks a sixth-round pick by Seattle, all in last year's draft.

Lanier joins all-stars

NEW-YORK (UPI) — Center Bob Lanier of the Detroit Pistons has been named to replace the injured Doug Collins of the Philadelphia 76ers on the Eastern team for Sunday's National Basketball Association All-star Game.

Facetti sets record

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Carlo Facetti shattered a speed record by qualifying his turbo-powered Porsche at 130.276 mph for the 24-hour endurance race starting today, but it was only a matter of course.

"I didn't surprise me," said Facetti of his record-breaking run Thursday on the high-banked, 3.84-mile track.

Porsche placed nine of the top 10 finishers in the $100,000 race starting at 4:30 p.m. and ending at the same time Sunday. The other 50 positions were filled Friday.

The previous qualifying record was set by Danny Ongals on the resurfaced Daytona International Speedway in a twin-turbo Porsche last November.

Furman upsets Carolina

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Al Daniel scored 29 points to lead Furman to an 83-70 upset victory over sixth-ranked North Carolina Friday night.

Furman moved ahead 19-18 on a basket by Daniel with 9:08 to play in the first half and never relinquished the lead, giving the Tar Heels their worst beating of the season.

The Paladins held a 33-30 halftime lead, then outscored North Carolina 18-8 over the final nine minutes of the second half to move to a comfortable 55-40 edge.

North Carolina came back with eight straight points to close the gap to live but Daniel hit 10 of Furman's next 12 points to move the Paladins out of danger. Furman pushed its lead to 15 by hitting nine of 12 free throws in the final two minutes.

Cauthen wins second

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Steve Cauthen Friday won a second race in the wake of his 110-race losing streak, scoring on Prize Spot in the sixth at Santa Anita for a $16.40 win price.

Prize-Spot, winning by six lengths over The Cast, was timed in 1:20 for 6 1/2 furlongs on a muddy track. Across the board, the payoff was $16.40, $8.20 and $5.40.

The 18-year-old jockey came out of his long slump Thursday with a victory on Father Duffy in the fourth race.

Cauthen did not have a mount in the Friday feature, the $20,000 Hillside Distances Series Purse, which was won by Jayston.

A 5-year-old gelding, Jayston was 3 1/2 lengths ahead of Backdoor Man at the finish and returned $13.80, $6.60 and $4.60. Backdoor Man paid $5.40 and $4.40. Off To Monte was good for $4.80 in show money.

'Robin' wins yacht race

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Robin, a 36-foot sloop owned by Ted Hood, was declared fleet winner Friday of the Southern Ocean Racing Conference's 370-mile St. Petersburg-to-Fort Lauderdale yacht race marred by the death of a crewman aboard another ship.

Second went to the 40-footer Imp, skippered by Dave Allen, followed in order by Willshaw, a 45-footer skippered by Seymour Scott, the 30-foot Warwhoop, piloted by Bert Meadows; and Bob Taylor's 30-footer, Illusion.

The first boat to finish the grueling race was the 79-foot Kialoa — largest vessel in the 66-yacht fleet — skippered by Jim Kilroy. But the race is judged on a corrected time basis and the Kialoa had to give large time advantages to most of the fleet and finished in 35th place overall.

Ted Turner's 61-foot Tenacious won the Class A competition; Willshaw was first in Class B, the 40-foot Winsome Gold of David Mey was first in Class C, Imp won Class D, the 37-foot Celebration of the Geneva Ocean Syndicate won Class E, and Robin won Class F.

Ski jumper flips over

GILFORD, N.H. (UPI) — Richard L'Héroux, 20, of Quebec, flipped over in windy weather Friday and suffered a concussion while practicing for the weekend's International Ski Jumping competition at the Gunstock Ski Area.

L'Héroux landed on his head when he fell. He was taken to the nearby Lakes Region General Hospital, where he was admitted for observation.

L'Héroux was here for the Gunstock 70 meter Invitational Saturday and the Gunstock International Jump Sunday.

Gunstock manager Ernest Hegi said Gunstock has the only certified 70 meter hill in the United States, and many skiers had come from Lake Placid to try the hill.

No contract agreement for Foster

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cincinnati Reds President Dick Wagner and George Foster's agent spent several hours discussing Foster's contract Friday, but came up with nothing concrete and decided to have more meetings.

Wagner met with Tom Reich, Foster's agent, who said earlier this week Foster will not sign and "likely will be traded" unless the Reds agree to pay him as one of the top players in baseball.

Reich also represents Danny Driessen, who earlier signed a long-term contract with the Reds, but had to have some details ironed out Friday.

"We had a productive meeting," Wagner said after his conference with Reich. "We finalized details of Danny Driessen's contract. We spent several hours on George Foster's contract and exchanged a variety of ideas. We plan further discussions and meetings soon."

Foster, whose contract expires after this season, has led the National League in home runs the last two years and in runs batted in the past three.

Reich earlier this week said, "George has no intention of signing a contract that is not commensurate with his value."

Hinkle captures golf lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —

On a day in which sub-par rounds were few and far between, long-ball hitting Lon Hinkle shot a 4-under-par 68 at Pebble Beach Friday to grab the second-round lead in the $300,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

Leonard Thompson shot a 69 and Curtis Strange a 70 at the easier Cypress Point course to tie for second, two strokes behind Hinkle and another stroke ahead of John Schroeder and Brad Bryant, who shot 71 and 70 respectively at Cypress and Spyglass Hills.

Hinkle, 29, who opened with a 70 at Spyglass Hills, had five birdies and one bogey for his 68. Three of his birdie putts were chipped 25 feet, 20 and 15, and on the 18th he clipped in from 20 feet.

Gil Morgan shot a 73 at Cypress, and Tommy Valentine had a 71 at Pebble to tie at 142, four shots behind Hinkle and another stroke ahead of a big group tied at 143.

John Mahaffey, Ben Crenshaw and Fuzzy Zoeller, winners of this year's first three events, had problems and were back in the pack.

Zoeller shot 72 at Cypress and was at 144 while Mahaffey and Crenshaw shot 75s at Spyglass and were at 145 and 146.

Defending champion Tom Watson had a 76 at Spyglass and was at 148 while Andy North shot 76 on the same course and was at 149, and Lee Trevino took a 78 at Cypress and was at 153.

Heavy rain Thursday night made the already-wet courses difficult. At Pebble there was casual water on several greens, and Hinkle's 25-foot birdie putt on the 5th hole went through an area of about 10 feet of casual water before falling into the cut.

Hinkle won his first PGA event last year in the New Orleans Open, and in three events this year he has failed to break through. He finished in a tie for fourth at Phoenix and tied for 33rd at San Diego.

Hinkle said that water on Pebble Beach made putting difficult but even more troublesome was the fact the pin placements on some holes were at the back of the green.

"You had to leave the ball below the hole," Hinkle said, "and that made it hard to sink a putt."

Putting and long balls gave Lon Hinkle the lead

McEnroe, Borg get victories

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Bjorn Borg advanced Friday to the semifinals of the $175,000 Richmond World Championship of Tennis tournament with an easy 6-1, 6-2 victory over unheralded Pat DuPre.

Borg will meet third-seeded John McEnroe in Saturday's semifinal. McEnroe defeated sixth-seeded Ilie Nastase 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Borg, the tournament's No. 1 seed, took almost an hour to finish off DuPre, staying on the baseline and using powerful ground strokes and two-listed backhands.

DuPre and Wilkison both won games earlier this week against seeded players to advance to the quarterfinal round. DuPre upset No. 7 seed Manuel Orantes in the first round of the tournament and Wilkison dumped fifth-seeded Corrado Barazzutti in the second round.

Borg has not lost a set in the tournament, whipping Erik Van Dillen in the first round, 6-1, 6-4, and Russell Simpson, 6-1, 6-2, in the second round before thumping DuPre.

McEnroe broke Nastase's serve in the eighth game of the first set to go up 5-3 and then held service to win the first set. Nastase rallied in the second set by breaking McEnroe's serve in the sixth game and turning a 4-2 advantage into a 6-3 victory by holding service twice.

But the 19-year-old champion of the recent Masters event in New York ripped the Argentinian in the third set, charging to a 4-1 advantage. He broke Nastase's service in the fourth game and won the match by breaking Nastase in the eighth game.

The match was delayed briefly in the fourth game of the final set when Nastase, upset over a line judge's call, walked off the court in protest.

Bertolaccini, Carner win

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — Silvia Bertolaccini of Argentina and defending champion JoAnne Carner disposed of second-round opponents Friday in the $100,000 LPGA Triple Crown match play tournament and will meet in the semifinals Saturday.

Bertolaccini, who ousted Nancy Lopez Thursday, turned back Amy Alcott, 2 and 1, while Carner defeated Sandra Post, 3 and 2.

Dick Ritger takes 48-pin PBA lead

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — Dick Ritger won six of his eight matches Friday to charge out of a tightly-grouped match-play field and take a 48-pin lead in the fifth round of the $100,000 Professional Bowlers Association tournament.

Ritger, who is trying to become only the fourth bowler in history to win 20 PBA titles, had an average 240 during the afternoon's matches against PBA Player of the Year Mark Roth of North Arlington, N.J.

The 40-year-old Ritger, a native of River Falls, Wis., moved up from seventh place to take over the lead with a pinfall of 1,927 Friday, giving him a total of 8,165 after 34 games.

Roth was second after the fifth round with 1,908 pins dropped for a total of 8,137. Both Ritger and Roth were finalists in last week's tournament in Grand Prairie, Texas, with Roth finishing second and Ritger in fourth.

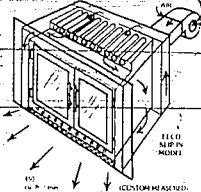

Fourth-round leader Frank Ellenburg, Mesa, Ariz., averaged 226 Friday, but dropped 3 to third at 117 pins behind Ritger, a member of the PBA Hall of Fame. In fourth place was Neil Burton of St. Louis, who rolled the highest round of the day averaging 247 for eight games. Henry Gonzales, Colorado Springs, Colo., was in fifth place with 1,767 pins' dropped Friday and a total pinfall of 8,013.

The 24 bowlers remaining from the original field of 160 were to bowl eight more games late Friday night with the top five advancing to the televised finals today. The winner will receive $15,000.
