Troops attack pro-Khomeini airmen

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Fresh clashes erupted this morning between dissident air force personnel and elite troops loyal to the shah at a sprawling airbase outside Tehran following overnight clashes that killed at least eight persons.

UPI correspondent Arthur Higbee reported from the scene that the latest fighting erupted when cadets began demonstrating inside the base at 8 a.m. and the civilian demonstrators began taunting a group of 30 troops nearby.

Highbee said air force personnel reported at least eight air force cadets had been shot to death and another four wounded in the overnight clashes.

There were conflicting reports about what sparked the shooting. Several witnesses said some cadets had stood up and shouted pro-Khomeini slogans when his picture appeared on a television screen and that arguments broke out among the airmen.

One report, which could not be immediately confirmed, said the Imperial guard was rushed in to restore order and shooting broke out between the two sides.

Witnesses said troops trying to enforce the curfew fired on the huge crowds, hitting at least five people. The witnesses said they thought at least two people were killed, including an elderly man trampled underfoot when the troops opened fire.

Senate rejects a second term for Lenaghan

By JEFF SHERR
Times-News writer
BOISE — The Idaho Senate refused by a straight 19-16 party line vote Friday to confirm Robert Lenaghan to a second term on the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

Evans charged that Risch had "broken the ethics of the Idaho State Senate by being on a retainer fee and voting on the floor of the Senate."

Jason Nebel, 2, is comforted by his mother, Janet Nebel, after a diphtheria immunization.

Prices continue to soar

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation roared into 1979 unchecked as wholesale prices last month climbed at the fastest pace in more than four years, the government reported Friday.

Inflation at the wholesale level soared by 1.3 percent in January — the sharpest monthly climb since the 2 percent in November 1973.

Should wholesale prices increase at the same rate during each month of 1979 as they did in January, the annual compounded rate of increase would be 17.7 percent, said Labor Department analysts.

The cost of food ready for sale to grocers in January surged by 1.8 percent, mainly because of a whopping 13.3 percent increase in beef and veal prices.

The last act was approving Bell rate hike

BOISE — In his final act on the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, Robert Lenaghan joined with his fellow commissioners Friday to grant Mountain Bell a rate hike of nearly $8 million less than requested.

Barker quickly ended suspense how he would vote when early in the debate he stated he would not support Lenaghan.

Immunization program keeping Idaho healthy

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer
MAGIC VALLEY — A mandatory school immunization law passed by Idaho's 1978 Legislature has been a shot in the arm for many Magic Valley students.

Progress. We're not perfect, though, and we still have some holes. He said school officials have requested immunization information from parents all over Idaho and have received about 80 percent responses.

Election funding may climb to $35 million

Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — The Federal Election Commission will propose that Congress increase public financing for 1980 presidential candidates to as much as $35 million from $20 million.
 "The entitlement for presidential candidates receiving full funding for the general election could be increased substantially, up to $35 million," according to legislative recommendations the FEC will send to Congress next month.
 In 1976, candidates Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford received $20 million each in federal funds to finance their general election campaigns. The money comes from the 1% check-off on individual income tax forms. According to the FEC, the 75 percent increase is needed to offset the effects of inflation.

Cyanide denial

PLAYA DE TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI) — The parents of 3-year-old Chad Green, who fled Massachusetts rather than obey a court order to stop treating their leukemia-stricken son with toxic drugs, said they do not believe he has cyanide poisoning.
 "It's a delirium," said the boy's father, George Green. "First it was vitamin poisoning he was supposed to be suffering from. Now it's this cyanide poisoning claim. It's their last card and something they are doing to save face."

Viral infection?

ATLANTA (UPI) — A medical detective for the National Center for Disease Control doctor said Friday the mysterious malady in Naples, Italy, that has killed 61 babies may be a viral infection or possibly an environmental toxin.
 The first death was reported in 1974. Dr. William Balne, an epidemiologist at the CDC, said it also is possible that there is a group of illnesses involved in the so-called "Dark Disease" of Mt. Vesuvius.

Lawyers to meet

ATLANTA (UPI) — Under the lingering shadow of Watergate, the nation's lawyers are expected to recommend to the states a more public disciplinary process for the legal profession.
 The recommended standards, to be considered early next week by the House of Delegates at the American Bar Association's 1st mid-year meeting, provide for the appointment of a nine-member board — composed of lawyers and non-lawyers — by the highest court in each state to investigate charges against lawyers.

New use for pill

READING, Pa. (UPI) — Two Reading women are using contraceptive pills to make their gardens grow. The pills apparently stimulate house plants and make even the slickest plant regain its health.
 Margaret Schlegel said Friday she was on a visit to her doctor about two years ago and mentioned to the receptionist Edna Firestone, that some of her plants were sickly.
 Mrs. Firestone said she had heard about the use of contraceptive pills as a plant stimulant somewhere and gave Mrs. Schlegel a sample packet to try.
 "It really rejuvenates the plants," said Mrs. Schlegel.

Sentenced to die

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Eugene A. Walker Jr. was sentenced Friday to die in the electric chair for shooting a woman to death in a restaurant robbery last May 20.

DC9 crash

MIAMI (UPI) — An Eastern Airlines DC9 jet attempting a training take-off with one of its two engines shut down crashed off the runway at the abandoned Miami Jettport in the Florida Everglades Friday night.
 The plane was demolished but the five men aboard apparently sustained only minor injuries.

Protests in China

TOKYO (UPI) — Hundreds of young Chinese intellectuals demanding jobs have staged protests through the streets of Shanghai for several days, looting and clogging vital transportation lines, Japan's Kyodo News Service reported Friday from Peking.
 Kyodo said the intellectuals were assigned to other Chinese regions following training in Shanghai and have staged angry protests apparently because they want to return to the bustling city of 10.8 million.

No hitman?

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Teamsters boss Fitzsimmons Friday said he didn't believe Jimmy Hoffa conspired with the Mafia.
 The soft-acknowledged Hoffa, also known as Charles "Lefty" Hoffa, has been cooperating with federal authorities in their ongoing investigation of organized crime, including the 1975 disappearance of Hoffa.

Salvador shooting

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Unidentified gunmen riddled Defense Undersecretary José Eduardo Irueta's car with bullets Friday but the official escaped unharmed, police sources reported.
 As he was driving home from his office, Eduardo Irueta's car was stopped by a pickup truck full of gunmen only 200 yards from the National Palace.

Prisoners returning

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Nineteen more Americans held in Mexican prisons will return home under the U.S.-Mexico Prisoner Transfer Treaty next Monday, the Mexican Attorney General's Office said Friday.
 The total number of Americans released from Mexican prisons will rise to 380 with the seventh transfer since Dec. 9, 1977.

Strike expands

EL CENTRO, Calif. (UPI) — Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers union expanded its strike in the Imperial Valley lettuce fields Friday to two more growers and allegedly threatened 150 workers at one farm with physical harm if they failed to join the walkout.
 The latest targets of the three-week strike were Bruce Church Inc., one of the nation's largest lettuce producers, and the Admiral Packing Co.

Sun shines in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — The sun came out over central Brazil for the first time in 43 days Friday and supply and construction crews moved in to start repairs in the wake of one of the worst floods in the country's history.
 Unofficial reports said the death toll was higher than the government figure of 700. At least 350,000 were reported without homes.

A farmer's son doesn't think committee hearing is so interesting

Farmers tell their stories to agriculture committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Protesting farmers took their plea for higher prices to Capitol Hill Friday, describing to the Senate Agriculture Committee the "desperation" that drove them to Washington on their tractors in the dead of winter.
 Members of the American Agriculture Movement also met again during the day with Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, who told them President Carter has no plans to comment on their demands for more government help.
 Tractors continued chugging around the nation's capital to dramatize the protest, although police reported their numbers had dwindled considerably.

At a public hearing by the Senate agriculture panel, Howard Harrison, a grain and cattle producer from Moberly, S.D., asked rhetorically: "Why would farmers that sit in a tractor all summer long drive a tractor 1,800 miles through cold and blizzards, leaving their families, if it weren't in desperation?"
 Harrison, who farms on 6,000 acres, said his debt has risen from $150,000 to $700,000 since 1973 and "if the price of grain doesn't raise substantially we have only one year left."
 Harrison, his wife Darlene and four other members of the protest movement testified at the invitation of Sen.

George McGovern, D-S.D., heading the agriculture committee in the absence of chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga.

Tomorrow

Among the stories in tomorrow's Times-News:
 • It's ice cold for the residents of the county historical museum this time of year. The residents are only mannequins and other items in the crowded museum, which is kept open just during the few warm months of the year. Operating on a $5,000 annual budget, the Twin Falls County Historical Society can barely meet expenses, but the group is not complaining.
 Read it Sunday in the Times-News.

TV interview

Mexican fuel reserves on president's agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter is expected to lay it on the line during his trip to Mexico next week — the United States wants a crack at the enormous fuel reserves south of the border, but only if the price is right.
 In a television interview made public Friday, Carter acknowledged the fate of the newly discovered oil and gas is entirely "on the shoulders of the people and the leaders of Mexico."
 But a White House official said the president believes the Mexicans "want us to pay more than we feel is a fair price."

The energy talks were especially significant because the political turmoil in Iran — the world's second largest oil producer — has cut U.S. petroleum imports and raised concerns about future American shortages.
 A recent National Security Council study described Mexico as a potential energy rival of the Middle East. Mexico has 67 billion barrels of proven fuel reserves and evidence of at least 200 billion barrels of potential reserves.

Today's weather

Chance of some more rain today

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley, Rupert area:
 Chance of a few light rain showers today with periods of rain likely tonight and Sunday. High temperatures today in the middle 40s and on Sunday 45 to 49 degrees. Overnight lows near 30.
Camas, Prarie, Halley, lower Wood River valley:
 Chance of a few light showers today with periods of snow likely tonight and Sunday with total of 6,000 to 8,000 feet elevation. High temperatures today in the 30s and on Sunday from 25 to 45 degrees. Lows tonight 15 to 25 degrees.
Synopsis:
 A westerly flow of moist air from the Pacific Ocean moved over Idaho Friday, flooding from an upper level low centered in the Gulf of Alaska. The cloud band from this system extends to the Hawaiian Islands. As this flow comes into Idaho it will be accompanied by rain.
 Precipitation Friday was principally in northern Idaho where Porthill reported 2.0 of an inch. Little moisture fell over the rest of the state but periods of rain and snow are forecast for today and Sunday, with possible locally heavy rains at lower elevations.
 Temperatures were warmer across Idaho on Friday, reaching mostly into the 40s but Lewiston recorded 50 degrees for the warmest reading. Aberdeen's 1 above zero was the coldest Friday morning while most readings were in the 20's or the 30's.

 Snow showers continued Friday afternoon to maintain a close watch on areas where flooding is a possibility. The Snake River in Idaho continued to run high Friday but was not overflowing. Many other places in the state have frozen and snow covered ground and ice covered streams which could contribute to flooding conditions in event of heavy rain or rapid thawing.
 The extended forecast for the first half of next week calls for little change in the weather pattern with occasional periods of rain or snow. Temperatures will continue in the 30s and 40s in the daytime, dipping to the 20s at night.

 Occasional cloudiness and showers are forecast today for northern Nevada with daytime temperatures in the 40s and 50s, dipping to the 20s at night. Similar conditions are predicted for northwestern Utah.
 The weather service at Boise issued a warning Friday for residents of Eastern Oregon to be alert for rapid runoff along streams, possible ice jams and lowland flooding as a result of moderating temperatures.

Police walkout continues

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — National Guard troops and state troopers were activated Friday to replace more than half the city's police officers who walked off their jobs on the eve of the carnival season in a dispute over union representation.

Gov. Edwin Edwards ordered 100 National Guard troops with flak jackets, helmets and hand guns to patrol the city's streets until the strike was settled. They supplemented working police officers and 30 state troopers called in earlier to handle accident investigations.

The guardsmen were activated 14 hours after members of the Police Association of New Orleans walked off their jobs Thursday night in protest over the city's refusal to recognize their membership in the Teamsters Union.

City attorneys went to state court seeking a temporary restraining order that would have forced the officers back to work, but that move was delayed when the case was shifted to federal court on a constitutional issue.

"These men have chosen not to work and they may have to suffer the consequences of being fired, but they cannot be ordered back to work against their will," said Sidney Back III, a Police Association attorney.

Fast food firms fretful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spokesmen for the nation's fast food industry said Friday they are anxious to tell the public low nutritional values of their hamburgers, fried chicken and pizzas are, but are thwarted by unreasonable government regulations.

The industry found an ally in Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of a Senate subcommittee on nutrition, who said federal rules "unduly interfere with common sense labeling practices."

McGovern also said the industry suffers from an incorrect public impression that fast food is low in nutritional value. "They generally provide ample nutrients," he said.

The industry spokesmen said the Food and Drug Administration is trying to impose the same labeling requirements on fast foods as are required for packaged retail foods.

John Mann, vice president of Kentucky Fried Chicken, said his company would like to display store posters giving the nutritional content of the average three-piece dinner, but the government is proposing that each different combination of foods be separately labeled.

Airmerger approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Civil Aeronautics Board judge Friday recommended approval of the merger of North Central Airlines and Southern Airways into a new coast-to-coast carrier.

The new line, which would be called "Republic Airlines," would run from Florida, Puerto Rico and the Cayman Islands in the South to Winnipeg and Thunder Bay, both in Canada, to the North; from Boston in the East to San Diego in the West.

The case is the first of four pending merger cases which developed since Congress began work last year on the Air Line Deregulation Act.

Administrative Law Judge Joseph Saunders said projections indicate the new airline would compete with Delta, Northwest and United airlines.

Nuclear flaws and accidents reported by scientist group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Activist scientists Friday made public federal officials' file of atomic reactor accidents and improper procedures, saying it offers the first comprehensive look at human and mechanical failures and safety violations plaguing nuclear power plants.

The Union of Concerned Scientists said the file was compiled by Stephen Hanauer, a senior official at the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, from "the blizzard of routine reports" crossing his desk during the past 10 years.

The UCS said it obtained Hanauer's previously unpublished file under the Freedom of Information Act after spotting a hand-written notation on an NRC document, saying one incident report was "too good to pass up" and showing it went into the "Nugget File dtd. 8-15-72."

Excerpts from the file were published in a 95-page book by the UCS, a private, non-profit group of scientists opposed to unsafe use of nuclear power.

"Dr. Hanauer added a marginal comment on one of the Nugget-File documents that succinctly expresses the only editorial comment that we would wish to make on the mishaps plaguing the nuclear industry," said the preface to the UCS book.

"Some day," he wrote, "we all will wake up."

Among the incidents described in the book are the inadvertent connection of a radioactive waste storage tank to a drinking fountain, an accidental discharge of 14,000 gallons of radioactive water that had been held back by a basketball being used as a makeshift plug and the discovery of safety equipment so badly designed that Hanauer noted it was "guaranteed not to work."

"The Nugget File is unmistakable proof that official safety requirements are being flagrantly violated by the electric utility companies," said Robert Pollard, a former NRC official now working for the UCS.

But the Atomic Industrial Forum, the nuclear trade association, said none of the incidents affected public health or safety. It said any industry would have a similar file if it were as tightly regulated.

British Airways denies Concorde caused big boom

NEW YORK (UPI) — British Airways Friday denied one of its Concorde supersonic jets caused an earth-shaking boom that residents from Massachusetts to New Jersey thought was an explosion or earthquake.

The blast-like sound reported between 9:45 and 10:15 p.m. EST by residents in parts of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Rhode Island caused windows, chandeliers and entire houses to shake.

"It was a sonic boom-type shock in the atmosphere that came from a Concorde that made an unusually late landing at the Dulles Washington Airport," said Dr. William Donn, a geophysicist attached to the atmospheric science unit of the Lamont Observatory in Palisades, N.Y. An airline spokesman said Flight 189 from London, flying at 41,000 feet, made a "routine" transition from supersonic to subsonic speed at 8:52 p.m. Thursday, 61 miles east of Hyannis, Mass.

The Concorde was scheduled to arrive at 5:41 p.m. but landed more than four hours late. The plane "followed a flat trajectory to a 9:49 p.m. arrival at Dulles, passing off the Robbinsville (N.J.) Beacon," a navigational aid, the spokesman said.

"We were talking with the captain (identified only as a Capt. Ellis) until 2 a.m. and he insists it wasn't the Concorde," the spokesman said. "It would not have been possible to boom (on land) at that height, speed and distance."

Indiscriminate shooting? UPI reporter dies after being shot

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Judy Danielak, a reporter for United Press International, died Friday from a gunshot wound she received while driving home from work Tuesday night. She never regained consciousness.

Detective Sgt. Walter Miles of the North Little Rock police said investigators believe Mrs. Danielak, 21, was the victim of an indiscriminate shooting or a stray bullet.

"I believe it was just a person out there, whether he was on drugs or just mean, shooting at traffic and the unlucky shot just hit her," Miles said. He discounted the stray shot theory because of the trajectory of the bullet.

Mrs. Danielak, who lived with her husband, Senior Airman Ronald Danielak, on Little Rock Air Force Base, was struck by a bullet as she drove along slick, snow-covered Interstate 40 about 6:45 p.m. Tuesday.

She fell into a coma and died at 1:51 a.m. Friday without regaining consciousness.

A witness said Mrs. Danielak's car swerved as she approached an exit to a North Little Rock subdivision, struck a utility pole, crossed an access road to the interstate and came to rest in an open field on the other side of the access route.

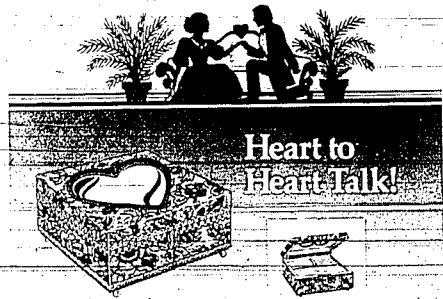

She was taken unconscious to a hospital and it was not until she was being X-rayed that doctors found a bullet lodged in her brain. Doctors were unable to remove it successfully but did take out a fragment. Police said the shot came from a high-caliber pistol or a rifle.

Doctors planned to remove the rest of the bullet Friday in a post-mortem operation and police will try to see if they can determine a specific caliber. "We'll probably take her back to her church in Detroit and where she went to school," said Danielak. "That's her home. I think that's about the best. The Air Force is going to help me. I'm getting along pretty good. Somebody up there is reaching down and giving me some strength."

The couple had no children. Mrs. Danielak, a student at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, had been hired as a temporary employee by UPI to assist in covering the state Legislature. She had been on the job only three weeks.

Flyer, congressman differ on junkets' value

By MIKE ROYKO

©1979 Chicago Sun-Times
An Illinois congressman has written to protest a column about foreign junkets that he and his colleagues take.

The column had noted that congressmen spend millions on "fact-finding" trips for themselves, their aides and their wives.

It also pointed out that the junkets follow certain patterns. Example: During the blizzard season they seek facts in countries that have tropical climates.

But U.S. Rep. Edward J. Derwinski, a Republican, says that I am unfair. He says the trips are necessary for our nation's well-being.

Here are Derwinski's views. And after Derwinski, we will have a second opinion.

"It is common practice in Washington for reporters on slow news days to dredge up the worn-out 'junketing' issue and I respectfully suggest that your column on Sunday, Jan. 7, on the 'subject of congressional junkets' will not rank as one of your masterpieces."

"My comments are addressed to the general subject of 'junkets' and to the examples you utilized."

"As the world's greatest legislative body, the decision of the U.S. Congress has a major impact on international affairs and it is the duty of members of Congress to be well-informed about the nations of the world. Travel to foreign countries gives us the firsthand knowledge necessary to vote on foreign-policy legislation. A failure to travel in order to gain an adequate understanding of international problems would be neglecting our duty. This is especially true for me and other members of the (House) International Relations Committee."

"All official congressional trips are legal, sanctioned by committee chairmen, a matter of public record, fully accounted for and in line with congressional duties."

"Now for particulars. I realize that you utilized the congressional Quarterly article on 1977 'junkets.' You would have no way of knowing that CQ erroneously included me as traveling to the IPU meeting in Australia with the rest of the delegation headed by Sen. John Sparkman, which stopped at Fuhli, American Samoa, New Zealand, Indonesia and the Republic of China. I flew alone directly to Canberra for the meeting without time for rest on a trip that took 35 hours. My direct return flight to Washington took 30 straight hours."

"I also wish to rise to the defense of my colleagues Henry Hyde, Dan Rostenkowski and John Fary. Their trips were in direct line of duty for their committee assignments and, as noted above, at the direction of committee chairmen and fully reported according to law. Especially in the case of John Fary, it must be noted that the Paris Air Show attracts government officials and aviation authorities from around the world. John is a key member of the aviation subcommittee and more than any other single person is the driving force behind the revitalization of Midway Airport. All of us have maintained high attendance records and, therefore, our travel opportunities are limited to the brief period when Congress is not in session. This, rather than the weather conditions, dictates congressional travel schedules."

"Now for the 'warm junket.' Congressman Jonathan Bingham, who led the House' International Relations committee delegation, is a most respected member of the committee. With the administration warming up to Cuba, a fact-finding visit there is logically tied into a review of our Guantanamo naval base and gives the group a balanced picture of the situation. Prime Minister Manley of Jamaica's asserting himself as one of the Third World leaders. We have extensive foreign aid, Peace Corps and other activities in the Dominican Republic and Haiti."

"In the electronic media, customs, policy and even the law provide for equal time. Normally in a newspaper or other publication, a letter-to-the-editor is the device available. But perhaps we can make some journalistic history if you would grant me the use of your column to emphasize the positive and essential side of congressional travel as opposed to the negative and sensational press treatment of 'junkets.'"

Then there are the observations of Robert Bender of Littleton, Colo., whose former job was to chauffeur congressmen on their junkets:

"About your column on congressional 'junkets' from 1970 through 1973, I was a pilot in the Air Force stationed at Weisbaden Air Base in Germany. One of my primary responsibilities was flying just such congressional junkets here and there — wherever the congressmen wanted to go. I can tell you quite accurately how much it cost for a crew fly delegation to various places and do nothing while the congressmen were out shopping. Even when landing at military installations, the crew usually has blanket orders which, at the discretion of the aircraft commander, can be used to collect a healthy per diem pay and stay in a nice hotel rather than in the visiting officers' quarters on base."

"Congressmen especially like to go to Europe before Christmas. This was always one of our most busy times. I recall one junket of 11 or 12 congressmen and their wives who were on a fact-finding mission in Spain to find all about the Spanish secondary school system. It is so superior to ours, you know! I'm sure they were able to help public education in the good old U.S. of A. from the wonderful ideas they undoubtedly picked up. This particular group boarded at Rota Naval Air Station on the Mediterranean and I took them to Paris via Seville, Spain, where we stopped for about three hours. They must have seen many schools in Seville judging from the number and size of packages with which they returned to the plane. Your guess is as good as mine."

"Many such trips were termed for 'good will.' Liquor flows freely on the plane along with five- and six-course steak and lobster dinners. Often, by the time we would get to our destination, a number of the delegation would have difficulty departing. I recall one trip from London to London where a rip-roaring card game got under way in the rear stateroom. Upon arriving at North Holt outside London with dignitaries and a band to greet us, the congressmen would not deplane. They had to finish their card game first! Good-will??? More like the classic Ugly American."

"Speaking of expense: How about the time a six-man crew and myself flew from Rome to Naples, our only cargo being a Girl Scout uniform which Mrs. Nixon was to present to an Italian Girl Scout during the 1970 presidential trip to Europe? Or the time when an 11-man crew flew 10,000 miles over four days to transport one lieutenant colonel several hundred miles from Kuwait City to Jidda to make arrangements for Vice President Agnew's round-the-world junket? Cheap commercial air travel was available."

"Do I sound bitter? Perhaps I am. I would love to have the congressmen's $75-a-day travel allowance for room and board, plus Air Force jets to make the trip from London to London where a best bet is to run for office. It just has to be the easiest way to acquire such amenities."

"As they say in bookie joints — you pass your money and you takes your choice. And as one of the millions who pay for the junkets, my choice is exploit Bender."

"Emerging from jail, the crown prince became the sultan. He organized his land, called in the Iranian arms and destroy the guerrillas — although a handful remain in the dry mountains of the desert, in almost lifeless alps that are something of a first edition of Hell; they are still there, coming out last year to kill five British bathers to show there is life in the old third yet — cleared the roads of mines and shelled the South Yemen border attackers into silence."

Now there are schools and hospitals and even a Holiday Inn and an American ambassador. And no recourse, the sultan spent the two weeks before Ford's January visit out in the desert keeping up a monarch-to-people friendship the shah of Iran had failed to do.

"But the Yemenis, they muster and they will come," the defense official said. "And we are outnumbered, outgunned."

In the jet above the strait the Oman defense official spread a map on Ford's lap. He gestured, to three specks. Ford looked through the window and saw the specks in life — an ancient light-house island with two rocky satellites in the blue waters. Supertankers slid by:

"Several soldiers with a Russian anti-tank missile could, from one of those islands, stop all the tankers. They could demand a fortune to let any tanker through. Or they could just blockade the end of the western world's oil faucet," he said.

"And if the Soviet-backed forces of South Yemen overcame us and they then control this strait, what do you think they might do?" he said.

Ford said nothing at the time. He re-read the map and for an hour, as the jet moved above the strait, looked down and puffed a pipe and thought.

Later, before departing Oman toward the end of the two-week trip of the Middle East, Ford was asked by UPI about the strait and Oman and its status.

Rocky was an historic figure

Nelson Rockefeller was born, of course, to every conceivable advantage and made the most of it through years of political and personal trial. For those so blessed with wealth and influence, he set an extraordinary standard of concern and effort in the service of the country. New York State and his family, always promoting the nation's economic and military strength and fostering public as well as private support for the arts, education, science and health. He stood for enlightened internationalism against recurrent waves of jingoism and for liberal capitalism against a persistent undertow of reaction.

In time, this farsighted man well understood that events were conspiring to make him choose between principle and the presidency for which he pined. He tried periodically to play the hard-hearted scourge of criminals and other easy targets, but he lacked the hypocrisy he would have needed to pay his party's price for nomination. For a critical decade, he was the Republicans' real alternative to Richard Nixon, and he went down defiantly, serene in his choice of values.

More than monuments and museums, therefore, mark Nelson Rockefeller's passage in our politics. With remarkable good cheer he gave himself, and not merely his money, to the demands of public life and ambition. Repeatedly, he subjected his views and deeds, including his most private financial and family affairs, to the rough judgment of the voters. Because he bore the name Rockefeller, this made him a truly historic figure in the pageant of American democracy.

Oman channel critical to West's oil supply

By RICHARD H. GROWALD

MUSCAT, Oman (UPI) — Former President Gerald R. Ford lowered his binoculars and gazed through a jet plane window 1,500 feet down on what may be the western world's next crisis point after Iran.

Below him lay the blue waters and grayish brown volcanic islands of the Strait of Hormuz, the 12-mile-wide mouth of the Persian Gulf through which tankers carry nearly half the oil used by the non-communist world. A tanker passes through about every three minutes.

"I think this is perhaps the most strategic waterway in the world," Ford said. "And we and it are threatened," said a defense official of Oman, seated across from and looking directly at Ford:

"Iran sits on the far side of the strait and Iran is a question mark to Western strategists now, after the going of the strongly pro-western shah. More vital is the near side of the strait — a deeper side, the channel for the supertankers."

This is the channel commanded by Oman, a pro-western Arab kingdom deeply worried about Soviet-sponsored forces building up on its border.

Moscow-backed South Yemeni forces and guerrillas and shelling into Oman from 1968 to 1975. Oman survived, thanks partly to military help from the shah.

"But that is gone now. And the Yemenis, organized by 200 to 300 Russian and 60 East German military advisers, are grinding for another go."

"The only power that can help us now — that can sell us the arms for the defense we need — is the United States. Will the United States help?" the Oman defense official said.

The Carter Administration is making up its mind.

This is the land of Sabaad the Sailor. From the dawn of written history this was the trading spot where the twin-of east and west met. It is no Eden. Only the spidery sand crabs and mosquitos ventured out into the midday sun. And nights are little better. In the summer it can stay 120 degrees from midnight to midnight, months on end. An American missionary couple named Bosch — he a doctor, she a nurse — slept with their children under wet towels until electricity and air conditioning came 18 years ago.

The press came with oil. Saudi Arabia, Oman's giant northern neighbor, and Iran, across the strait, got the gushers. Even tiny Abu Dhabi, Sharjah and the other sultan-ruled city states of the adjacent United Arab Emirates enjoy a $10 billion annual oil income.

But Oman got less. It is the poorest, or least rich, of the oil lands of the Arab world. It cannot afford the missileery the Shah once loaned to block the attackers from South Yemen.

Oman until 1970 was almost a hidden land, ruled by a reclusive sultan who as a youth in India had been told by a soothsayer he would lose his throne to a member of his own family.

So the sultan, who at first had schooled his crown prince at Sandhurst, Britain's West Point, imprisoned his young son.

In 1970, before Britain pulled back its military might east of the Suez Canal, the British realized Oman and the vital strait might fall to the growing communist-backed regime in South Yemen.

In the best tradition of what was once a land of privilege and empire, Britain engineered a coup. Twelve soldiers invaded the sultan's winter palace and told him he must go.

The old man unheated the silver and gold dagger Oman's elite wear on their stomachs. The steel is to be waved only when blood is required. The old sultan had tried to kill, and there were shots, but he was subdued and lived out his months in silence amid the tea and sympathetic

Rockefeller's death remains a bit cloudy

Thanks to a post

Most drivers complain about road construction work, but the driver of this ill-fated auto had an unfinished bridge support post to thank for his life Friday in Irving, Texas. The driver lost control of the car, slammed through the railing and came to rest on the support. A passing motorist helped the driver out of the window to safety.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police tape recordings replayed Friday show the female caller who summoned help for the dying Nelson Rockefeller apparently was not staff researcher Megan Marshack as originally reported. This new information raised further questions about the circumstances surrounding the death Jan. 26 of the former vice president and four-time governor, but family spokesmen at Rockefeller Center refused to answer all calls.

Miss Marshack, 25, was named in Rockefeller's will filed Friday in Westchester County. Rockefeller forgave Miss Marshack a $45,000 interest-free, 10-year loan made to enable her to buy her cooperative apartment down the street from the Manhattan townhouse where Rockefeller suffered his fatal heart attack.

Sgt. Eero Barr, a Police Department spokesman, said a closer examination of the phone call to the city's 911 emergency number showed the unidentified female voice turned and asked for "Megan" during the call.

"Yes, can I have an ambulance at 13 West —," the caller told the emergency operator — then — turned aside and said, "What's the address, Megan?"

The New York Times in its Friday editions quoted family sources as saying — the caller was — Ponchitta Pierce, cohost of a WNBC-TV show for the elderly.

Miss Pierce, who had been appointed by Rockefeller in 1968 to a study commission on news media and broadcasting, and Miss Marshack are friends and neighbors in a West 54th Street highrise.

Rockefeller's will filed

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Nelson Rockefeller named his widow, their two young sons and two museums as chief beneficiaries of his estimated $66.5 million estate and released Megan Marshack, the young woman with him when he died, from a $45,000 debt.

The 64-page Rockefeller will was filed Friday in Surrogate's Court in Westchester County. Rockefeller was stricken with a fatal heart attack Jan. 26.

In addition to forgiving the Marshack loan, Rockefeller forgave $50,000 in debts to Rockefeller family spokesman Hugh Morrow and Susan Cable Herter, chief of his Washington staff when he was vice president.

The primary beneficiaries from Rockefeller's will are: his widow, Happy; their teen-age sons, Nelson Jr. and Mark; the Museum of Modern Art, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

More money sought from Marvin

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Attorney Marvin Mitchelson came up with another off-beat legal tactic Friday when he announced plans to seek an additional $1 million in damages from actor Lee Marvin for fraud for lying about being in love.

Mitchelson questioned Marvin about a letter the actor wrote to Miss Marvyn in 1966 from London where he was making the movie, "The Dirty Dozen," and referred to her as "my love."

"Was she your love?" the attorney asked.

"No," said Marvin, "that's an English figure of speech."

on the witness stand."

Mitchelson said out-of-court-he would file an amended complaint Tuesday on Miss Marvin's behalf and it could be litigated along with the current suit.

"I will ask $1 million in punitive damages for fraud," Mitchelson told reporters out of court. "The amended complaint is based on Mr. Marvin's lying to her when he said he loved her. He was fooling her. He admitted that

Basis for the fraud charge, the attorney said, was that the 54-year-old actor admitted under oath he lied when he said he loved his live-in girlfriend, Michelle Trifiro Marvyn.

The $1 million would be added to the damages already asked in Miss Marvyn's original suit, charging breach of contract. She asked in her 1972 suit, filed in 1972, for $1 million plus one-half of the actor's estimated net worth of $3 million when the couple split up in 1970 after living together for almost six years.

The first suit was rejected in Superior Court but Mitchelson appealed and won a landmark decision from the California Supreme Court which ordered a new trial on grounds the plaintiff would be entitled to compensation if there was an expressed or implied contract to share earnings.

The Supreme Court ordered a new trial, currently in progress.

Mitchelson said out-of-court-he would file an amended complaint Tuesday on Miss Marvin's behalf and it could be litigated along with the current suit.

"I will ask $1 million in punitive damages for fraud," Mitchelson told reporters out of court. "The amended complaint is based on Mr. Marvin's lying to her when he said he loved her. He was fooling her. He admitted that

Professor defends hypnosis tactics

BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI) — A professor suspended for using hypnosis on his students gave the Board of Trustees of Manatee Junior College a 10-minute demonstration Friday of his powers.

The professor, Arlie Lincks, has defended the practice of hypnosis, claiming it helps students because they are better able to retain what they study. He claims it also alleviates their fear of exams, the subject matter, and the instructor.

The board is hearing arguments over an administration contention that Lincks demonstrated gross insubordination by continuing to use hypnosis after he had been forbidden to do so.

In his demonstration Friday, Lincks placed Mrs. Pat Hunsley, a part-time instructor at MJC, into a trance, which he described as a form of intense relaxation.

He kept her in the trance for four minutes and demonstrated what he called his power of suggestion by rendering her unable to separate her hands until she was told to do so, and by making her "keep her arm" by her side.

Lincks took Mrs. Hunsley back to when she was six years old, and in a barely audible voice, she said she was wearing a blue dress and sandals and it was her birthday.

What's what

Rent-a-wife business goes bust during summer

A client asks if American Indian men in any tribe ever loaned out their wives as the Eskimos reportedly once did. Don't know about loaned. It's an historical fact that Cherokee Indian braves once customarily rented wives for the season. For the winter, mostly. For the summer, too, but at discount then.

Our Love and War man is investigating recent research that seems to prove that only one bride in 19 goes home to mother as the result of a fight with the groom.

There was a time in this country's history when "bring home the bacon" was synonymous with "steal a pig."

WHISKERS

Q. "If all my beard growth were confined to one whisker, how long would it get in 24 hours?"

A. Fifty feet, according to a razorblade maker's research, but that's hard to believe.

Q. "When a cape bull buffalo and a lion fight, both usually die. That's what you said. How do you know?"

A. From the skeletal remains found by the students of such matters.

Q. "What color hair is most resistant to peroxide bleach?"

A. Natural red.

The Japanese wine called sake, unlike other wines, is best when fresh out of the fermentation chambers.

The suicide rate is far lower among extremely fat people than among extremely thin people.

ANAGRAMS

What's your stand on anagrams? People who go in for same can become fairly cunning in finding surprising combinations. For example: "Astronomer" can be rearranged to make "Moon stater." "Telegraph" twists into "great help." And "funeral"—you have to be odd to appreciate this one—can be turned into "real fun." "Presbyterian" makes "best in prayer."

You no doubt know a few women who can't cook. Not just don't like to. But can't. What's most apt to cause this handicap, I'm told, is their inability to taste the difference in subtle flavors. Only about seven out of every 10 women are said to inherit the dominant gene that gives them a fine sensitivity to tastes. To the others, most flavors just don't register.

What's going on where people worship today?

"I'm on the phone all night on a help and prayer line. People with trouble call and we try to find answers together." — Vivian Squires.

What's going on — in churches and synagogues? Activities such as these and many others as well. If you've felt unneeded, it's just not so. If you've been lonely, it need not be. There's a cure for loneliness and emptiness when you give of yourself... caring, loving, working with others. Doing what God wants you to do.

Find yourself — with people who worship.

State pay tied to resolution

BOISE (UPI) — A House leadership committee has introduced a resolution to give state employees a 2 percent cost of living increase and in-grade step hikes next year.

The measure, sent out on a 4-party line vote Thursday, also stipulates that the pay boosts be financed through attrition — not filling vacant jobs — and that the expenditure for state personnel be held at levels for the current fiscal year. A majority of the GOP caucus agreed to the plan Wednesday.

Mildred Leader, Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, challenged the use of a resolution instead of a bill to accomplish the purpose. But House Speaker Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, said the Legislative Council staff believes it is a proper way to go.

Miss McDermott also accused the majority party of abrogating legislative responsibility by turning over to the executive branch the decision on who and where to cut personnel.

"The 100-hour premium placed on supervision now," Miss McDermott said, "the fat always makes the decision on where to cut."

She also suggested that the proper place for consideration of such a measure was the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee rather than the Leadership Ways and Means Committee.

But GOP Caucus Chairman B.E. Lewis, Sr., Maties, disagreed. He said the leadership simply was giving guidance to the joint committee.

"This is our responsibility," Majority Leader Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, argued. "We have the 1 percent (initiative) to face. We have to look at the total budget ... at all levels."

To implement the initiative, he said, the Legislature must hold the state's general fund budget to the current level of spending — $319 million.

"This does give state employees their increases within the president's guidelines," Little said.

The measure calls for 5 percent in-grade step increases next year and a 2 percent cost of living hike. The president's guidelines are set at 7 percent.

Miss McDermott still insisted that the procedure was wrong and that the Legislature was abrogating its responsibility.

"I love the gov but I believe in the separation of powers," she said.

Gov. John V. Evans has recommended a 5.5 percent cost of living increase for state employees plus in-grade increases. The state Personnel Commission has proposed an 8-percent cost of living increase plus the step boosts. Democrats in both houses have been backing the governor's recommendation.

BOISE (UPI) — Elsewhere Friday on the legislative scene:

A House-Senate subcommittee put before the Revenue and Taxation Committee a plan to implement the 1 percent initiative by Jan. 1, 1980, and freeze 1979 and 1980 property taxes at 1978 levels. It also mandates property reappraisal at 1978 levels. A bill may be ready for consideration by Monday.

The House Business Committee agreed to introduce a bill to remove the three-year previous establishment requirement for resort liquor licenses.

Kindergarten change proposed

BOISE (UPI) — The House Education Committee Friday approved the introduction of a measure allowing school districts to keep state kindergarten funding whether they have a kindergarten program or not.

The measure would not increase the amount of state funding, but would only equalize the distribution.

Rep. Christopher Hooper, R-Boise, said the proposal would help schools alleviate some of the squeeze put on them by the 1 percent initiative.

But, August Hein, superintendent of the Meridian School District, said that the measure would cause "school districts to profit by eliminating kindergartens. It is an incentive to eliminate the program."

Earl Moore of the Idaho Association of School Administrators said the measure "gives schools money for not performing a service. Those schools already providing kindergartens would get that much less."

Rep. Louis Horvath, D-Pinehurst, agreed. "It's like not raising wheat and getting paid for it."

Utah Senate approves Bear River compact

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Senate has passed a revised Bear River Compact which allocates water below Bear Lake between Idaho and Utah for the first time.

Senate President Miles "Cap" Ferry, R-Coeur d'Alene, sponsor of the compact revision in Utah, brought it before senators Thursday. It passed 25-0 and was sent to the House for further action.

Utah, Idaho and Wyoming must ratify the pact and Congress must consent to it before the revision takes effect. The Wyoming Senate has passed the measure.

But action on the proposal has been stalled in the Idaho Senate by President Protem Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, who opposes some of its provisions.

Water commissioners from the three states have been working for eight years to revise the compact.

The revision would give Idaho 125,000 acre feet of water per year out of the river below Bear Lake and Utah would get 275,000 acre feet. The water is currently unallocated.

Ferry said the definite allocations are needed to protect Idaho's share of water. Without the pact, he said, Utah residents could claim all water in the river by making first use of it.

Budge has opposed the bill because Idaho's allocation is less than half of Utah's.

Ferry said each state's allocation is determined according to the amount of water that flows into the river from each state. The Bear River has its head waters in the Uinta Mountains of Idaho, flows through Wyoming and Idaho back to Utah and into the Great Salt Lake.

QUESTION...

Funeral processions to a cemetery seem to be a traffic hazard in addition to being old-fashioned. Most funeral customs have been updated - why has this remained unchanged?

ANSWER...

Throughout the country many innovations have been applied to funeral processions in an effort to reduce their potential traffic hazards.

Two new trends are becoming evident in the heavily populated eastern states. In the New York City area many funerals are private - only the family goes to the cemetery. In some New England cities it has become customary for the committal time to be announced at the conclusion of the funeral services. Friends who go to the cemetery do so privately - they receive at the appointed time and there by eliminate the funeral procession. Both of these plans effectively update funeral customs, and at the same time reduce traffic hazards.

There is much to recommend either procedure. If it is anyone's wish to eliminate the procession to the cemetery, we easily can arrange to do so.

Ketchum delegation proposes alternative bridge

BOISE (UPI) — A delegation from Ketchum proposed a new alternative Friday for replacement of the Wood River Bridge south of Ketchum, but action was delayed pending resolution of two major hurdles — funding and receipt of railroad right-of-way.

The new route, the delegation told the Idaho Transportation Board, would be much straighter and safer than the proposals unveiled Thursday.

But it utilizes railroad right-of-way, which must be relinquished before any work can begin.

Board Chairman Carl Moore told the delegation it was not known how long the railroad might take to decide whether to relinquish that right-of-way, and that even if it did, funding — to the tune of more than $1 million — still would be a problem.

The proposal was taken under advisement until the right-of-way is relinquished and funds become available.

City to annex trailer park

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council has voted to annex 5.8 acres of land planned for a mobile home subdivision near the Twin Falls Labor Camp.

The council's unanimous action this week brings to 30 acres the total amount of land which has been annexed at the request of the developers of the planned 86-unit trailer park.

The trailer park will be located west of Washington Street South and south of the Labor Camp.

Before making its decision, the council heard two adjacent landowners speak in favor of the project, as well as the favorable testimony of three people who want to purchase homes in the trailer park.

The three prospective home buyers said the council should annex the park site because unlike most trailer parks, the planned development will offer young and old low-income people the chance to own the property on which their trailer is located.

Symms now unsure about Libyan plane deal

By LONNIE ROSENWALD
Times-News writer

WASHINGTON — Idaho Rep. Steve Symms has changed his mind about whether Libya should get U.S. weapons.

The Republican Congressman, who earlier advocated military sales to the Arab nation, now has doubts about such sales in light of reported Libyan involvement in the recent overthrow of the Shah of Iran.

After meeting with Libyan Foreign Minister Ahmed el-Shahat and other Libyan officials in his Washington office Wednesday, Symms said he's not sure the United States should lift a two-year ban on delivery of military weapons to Libya.

"There might be good reasons for not allowing them to take delivery right now," Symms told the Times-News Friday.

Symms said he wants to know more about Libya's involvement in Iran before deciding whether to continue urging the State Department to deliver six C-130 military planes which Libya bought in 1974 and has never received.

The planes have been held on the ground in Marietta, Ga. since 1974 when then-President Richard Nixon imposed a moratorium on selling weapons to countries that support terrorist activities. Libya was one country where the State Department applied the ban.

In 1977, after visiting Libya as a member of an Idaho trade delegation Symms asked the State Department to lift the ban.

The occasion of Wednesday's talks with the Libyans was a private meeting held in the Congressman's office between Symms, the Libyans, and six other congressmen. Symms said the discussion was "primarily" about Libyan support of international terrorist groups, although it was discussed too. The congressman told Shahat it's that support of terrorism which has generated anti-Libyan feelings in the United States.

He said the Libyans are concerned about their poor American image, and he said some, but not all, of the American criticism may be justified. The congressman said specifically he wants to know more about a recent government-owned Radio Tripoli broadcast in which Libyans encouraged Iranian army officers to revolt against the Shah. Symms said when he asked Libyan officials about that broadcast Wednesday, they acted like they didn't know about it.

He said he wants "better answers to my questions about their participation in the activities of the people who overthrew the Shah," before re-evaluating his stand on the planes.

He also suggested the weapons embargo may be the United States' best bargaining chip in continuing purchases of Libyan oil, which accounted for $4 billion in sales volume last year.

"The airplanes are the only thing we have to hold over their heads," he said.

Symms has argued all along that the U.S. should improve relations with Libya because of our oil dependency. Libya is our second largest oil source.

Moves against the Shah run counter to American foreign policy, which supported the Shah throughout his troubles.

Seed growers stage boycott

By LONNIE ROSENWALD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Protest has sprouted in the Idaho seed bean industry.

Leaders of Contract Beans, Inc., a 200 member organization representing about two-thirds of Magic Valley's seed growers, have launched a boycott of almost half the major garden seed companies.

Leaders of the farmers' association have sent letters to their membership "telling them the facts, and we'll let them decide for themselves what action to take," grower Louis Reinke said Friday.

No companies have been publicly blacklisted, but the protesters hint that about 10 of the 25 Magic Valley companies are the target of the action.

"They are demanding that seed companies alter two terms in their contracts."

contracts, and he also wants an end to the dual payment system which many companies use. The companies often pay for half a crop in December and the other half as late as March. In the meantime, the warehouse operators mill the seeds several times.

Reinke claimed some companies intentionally delay payment, sometimes holding off paying anything until they see if other problems develop in the seed. The angry grower charged the companies with "extortion" for not paying upon delivery, and said the companies are operating on growers' capital.

Reinke noted some companies have reworded their contracts to ease the germination clause, so he is only urging a boycott of the ones that have not.

Officials of some seed companies say they are aware of the growers' problem but that their customers, who include canning companies like Campbell's and Libby's, won't buy substandard crops.

First is a provision in most garden seed contracts setting strict quality standards for a crop to be accepted and purchased. The growers say substandard crops are most often the genetic fault of the seed, rather than on the grower's part.

Most seed company officials contacted said they hadn't heard about grower dissatisfaction, but a few admitted there is a problem with germination clauses. All officials who agreed to talk asked not to be named.

Reinke said a boycott would force seed growers to turn to commercial beans or other crops. No one was sure what effect this would have on the garden seed bean industry, which does 80 to 90 percent of its U.S. business in the Magic Valley.

The action is directed only at garden bean seeds, not commercial beans.

The production manager of one company added that germination standards are the only incentive growers have to turn in a good crop. Even so, the company leaders say they seldom reject a crop and in fact, often buy substandard crops, which they try to sell to commercial bean buyers.

The companies defend delays in payment, which they argue actually benefit the grower.

"We remind the crop several times to try to bring it up to germination levels," one company official explained. He said some crops which would be rejected when brought in can be brought up to acceptable levels after a few millings.

Reinke, a member of the board of directors of Contract Beans, flatly won't contract this spring with companies that held him responsible for genetically caused failures.

"We have no control over the success of the crop," Reinke said. "Since that bean doesn't belong to me, I insist it's their problem, not mine."

The contract protesters maintain that, since the company legally owns the seed even while being grown, and since the companies develop the varieties in the first place, the companies should assume losses on seeds that don't make "the grade."

Under current contract companies aren't required to pay for a crop if a specified percentage of the seeds are not acceptable.

Reinke wants the "germination clause," as the standards specification is called, dropped from Harold Swartley, director of the Idaho Department of Agriculture's "seed" to say that companies are responsible for the instability of these new beans since they are breeding the new varieties. "Even the best germination level you can expect with some of these newer varieties is 30 percent below the older varieties," Swartley said.

Workers for Chevron Pipeline clean up oil from stream running into Snake River near Buhl

Cleanup continues Diesel oil line leak patched

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

BUHL — Chevron Pipeline Co. emergency crews finished repairs Friday to a diesel oil pipeline which cracked and leaked 2,000 to 4,000 gallons of oil on the ground and in the Snake River.

Cleanup crews continue working at the site of the oil leak about four miles west of Buhl, but environmental officials said the spilled oil is not expected to have any significant environmental impact.

Jerry Brower, a division engineer for the Chevron Pipeline Co. in Salt Lake City, reported Friday that oil was again flowing through the line and operations were back to normal.

Repair crews completed the final welds Friday to mend the cracked pipe, Brower said.

The oil leak was discovered Wednesday afternoon and crews were rushed to the site Thursday to begin repairs and cleanup.

The slow leak occurred when a small crack developed in a welded joint in the pipeline, the Chevron engineer noted. He attributed the cause of the crack to a "mechanical failure" in the original weld. After resting in place for almost 30 years, he said the faulty weld finally cracked, probably due to stress on the pipeline caused by changing temperatures.

Alex Scheefel, an environmentalist with the Department of Health and Welfare, said Friday that damage from the spilled oil was minimal.

"This wasn't a gusher," Scheefel observed. "It was just a seep and when we got the thaw it began to run down with the water. I don't think there's going to be much to the cleanup."

Although the oil ran into the Snake River, Scheefel said he did not observe any fish kills at the site of the spill.

Chevron has hired the Western Environmental Services from Prudhoe to conduct the cleanup operations. Brower said cleanup crews should be finished with their work by Wednesday.

The 8-inch underground oil line which cracked is one of two main lines the Chevron Pipeline Co. maintains between Salt Lake City and Spokane. The line which cracked pumps oil from Utah into southern Idaho, eastern Oregon and eastern Washington.

Slaughterhouse Road becomes respectable

WENDELL — It's official, Slaughterhouse Road no longer exists in the city of Wendell.

Thursday night was the final reading of an ordinance that changed the colorful name of the road and renamed it simply "F Street."

City residents and officials can now direct inquiries about the location of the certain businesses at the south end of Wendell to so many blocks south of F Street instead of referring to Slaughterhouse Road.

Although it is named F Street, it is not located where F Street should be, according to the maps:

Slaughterhouse Road, oops... F Street was a right-of-way for a long ago defunct railroad. When the railroad abandoned the right-of-way, it became Slaughterhouse Road. For Slaughterhouse Road to be F Street, it would have to be further south, but the city council went right ahead in order to give the street a respectable name.

Ketchum readies agreement for buying office, park site

KETCHUM — The city of Ketchum is close to acquiring downtown property for a number of city departments, off-street parking and a city park.

The city council announced Friday that preliminary negotiations have been completed between the city, Ketchum Motors and a non-profit corporation for the sale of Ketchum Motors' downtown facility including three neighborhood lots owned by the dealership.

Sale price for the entire package is $750,000.

Ketchum Motors is now owned by Modern Classic Motors of Reno, Nev., and was owned by the late Nevada gambling magnate, Bill Harrah. Under tentative terms of the sale the dealership will continue operation on the premises for the time being.

Once occupied by the city, the 14,000-square-foot building will house the city's fire and police departments, in addition to administrative offices in council chambers.

The three lots will be designated for off-street parking and the creation of a city park.

The non-profit corporation was formed by Ketchum businessman Don Atkinson and Jim Cimino for the purchase and will hold the property in trust for the city.

Ketchum officials are currently negotiating with Atkinson and Cimino on a lease purchase contract for acquisition of the property over a five-year period.

City funds for the purchase are expected to come from local option tax revenues and in-lieu parking revenues.

"The fire department is currently housed in a cramped rental facility which cost the city $7,200 per year," Ketchum city administrator Jim Jaquet said.

The police department, he added, now works out of the ground floor of city hall under conditions which the administrator characterized as "overcrowded."

According to Ketchum Mayor Jerry Selfert, "the acquisition of Ketchum Motors gives the city a unique opportunity to solve a number of problems."

Selfert also said that land acquired in the purchase will allow the city to create public parks in the downtown area. A portion of land purchased from the motor company has been earmarked for a park, in addition to land currently occupied by city hall.

Jaquet said long-range plans call for development of an 11,000-square-foot park and underground parking facility on the Main Street site now occupied by city hall. The administrator said the old municipal building will eventually be leveled to make room for the underground lots and public park.

"Creation of off-street parking lots and public spaces in the downtown area conform to the recent downtown study compiled by Bill Clark last October," he added.

That study called for compact commercial core development, the establishment of municipal off-street parking lots, pedestrian walkways and creation of public parks and sitting areas within the commercial core.

Selfert recognized the efforts of Atkinson and Cimino, who, the mayor said, stepped forward and made possible the acquisition of Ketchum Motors by providing the financial resources and reputation to purchase the property and work with the city on lease purchase agreements.

Wendell surprised

WENDELL — The Wendell City Council did a double take Thursday night when they were asked to sign an application for $1.2 million to be used to improve the city water system.

The council had directed Region 4 Development Association officials to fill out and file a request for a grant to improve the water system. But Thursday night when the application was examined, the council discovered it was agreeing to come up with $425,000.

"Where in the world did we get $425,000? Mayor Ott Larson lamented. "There's just no way we can come up with that kind of money."

The council asked development officials Jan. 25 to prepare the applications so the city could get as much money as possible for updating the city water distribution system.

The pre-application application with the $1.2 million request and the $425,000 commitment came back for city approval and signing Thursday night.

According to the application, the city of Wendell will provide $425,000 cash if the grant is received.

Man found dead

JEROME — A 59-year-old man was found dead in a Jerome house Friday afternoon of natural causes, according to Jerome Police Chief Howard DuBois.

DuBois identified the dead man as Charles Newberry, 320 Second Ave. W. He said Dr. James Babcock, Jerome County coroner, pronounced the late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning.

Police found the body after entering the locked home through a window following a call from neighbors who hadn't seen Newberry or any chimney smoke from his home since Wednesday, DuBois explained.

He said there were no signs of foul play and that his officers had taken the man to St. Benedict's Hospital several times for health problems.

DuBois said the dead man was retired and had no relatives in Jerome.

Exhibition continues

TWIN FALLS — An estimated 5,000 people have viewed the second annual Agri-Exposition 79 agriculture show now going on at the CSI Exposition Center.

Today is the last day for the exposition and valley farmers and ranchers are taking advantage of the show to look at new and updated equipment.

The show is being sponsored by KMYT television station.

"We've had a big increase from last year," marketing director Lee Wagner said about the number of people attending the show and the number of exhibitors displaying their products.

Wagner said the 65 exhibitors represent nearly every aspect of agriculture from tractor sales to electronic equipment for farms.

The display is open to the public from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. today and a $1 donation is being requested with the receipts going to the CSI Heretofore Museum.

Wagner said the musical group Sandra Kay and the New Breed will be putting on shows from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. this afternoon and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. tonight.

New track records highlight Millrose games

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eamonn Coghlan, the Villanova alumnus from Ireland, won the John Wanamaker Mile in a meet-record time of 3:55.0 Friday, holding off a tremendous finishing kick by Wilson Waigwa of Kenya to cap a record-setting night at the 72nd John Wanamaker Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden.

The time was one-tenth of a second off the Dick Burckle's world indoor mark set on Jan. 13, 1978.

Paul Cummings, the Wanamaker Mile record holder at 3:57.5, led for the first three-quarters of the mile. At that point, Coghlan and Waigwa overtook Cummings at a fast pace, leaving the other five runners behind.

Coghlan took the lead and sprinted the remaining quarter-mile. Waigwa maintained the distance between them but was unable to close it.

Waigwa finished in 3:56.3. Third was Villanova's Syd Maree in a time of 3:57.1. Maree, from South Africa, edged world record holder John Walker, who clocked in at 3:57.3. American Steve Scott was fifth in 4:03.6, and indoor world record holder Dick Burckle was sixth in 4:03.2. Cummings faded to last place.

The famed Wanamaker Mile, before a sellout crowd of 18,301, highlighted an evening in which six meet records and one world record were shattered.

In addition to Coghlan's meet record, Houston McFear and Renaldo Nehemiah, two of American track and field's finest runners, were joined by Villanova's Don Paige in the record-setting night.

Meanwhile, Todd Scully of the Shore Athletic Club set a meet and world record with a 5:53.8 time in the one mile walk and Deby LaPlante of San Diego State took the women's 60-yard hurdles in 7.59.

Nehemiah, from the University of Maryland, ran the 60-yard high hurdles in 6.90 second and Houston McFear of the Muhammad Ali T.C. took the 60-yard dash in 6.09.

Nehemiah won his 13th straight indoor race as he edged Dedy Cooper of San Jose State. Cooper finished in 7.01.

McFear successfully defended his Millrose title by beating rival Harvey Glance of Auburn at the tape.

For the first time, Paige met former teammate Mark

Belger, and Paige came out on top for his third consecutive Millrose triumph. Both had been defeated this winter.

Belger took the lead with three laps left, but Paige moved up in the next lap and passed Belger to win it in 2:05.3—a world 11-lap record for the 1,000. The recognized world record is 2:05.1 by Mark Winzenried in 1972. Belger's time was 2:06.5.

Jan Merrill, with a powerful "last lap" kick, won the women's 800-yard run over Charlotte Bradley of D.C. International. Bradley led until just 20 yards from the finish when Merrill, running for Age Group AA of Connecticut, passed her to the cheers of the crowd. Merrill's time was 2:08.2 and Bradley's 2:08.3.

Bruins complete sweep of Boise

BOISE — There may have been a precedent set Friday night.

The Twin Falls Bruins completed a season home-and-home sweep over the three Boise schools by nipping Capital 59-57 in overtime and won the Western Division, SIC.

It didn't come easy as the Bruins led only four times in the game and once trailed by as much as 11. But in the end it was two crucial buckets and a fine defensive play by Keith Gordon that finally netted the victory.

Gordon hit a bucket to tie it up with 12 seconds left in regulation and then saved it by making a check from behind on a close-in Capital shot. In overtime, after Capital wasted the first 2:10 in trying to get a shot but missing it, Gordon hit another short jumper. Thereafter, Twin Falls missed three free throws that could have made it a lot easier, rather than waiting for Capital to miss two closing shots.

It may have been the first time that Twin Falls ever has won three in a season at Boise. Two of them were in overtime and the third was settled in the final 25 seconds. It was Twin Falls' ninth victory in their last 12 tries and assured Coach John Astorquia of a winning year—Twin Falls now is 11-3 and faces the Spartans at Minico in the season finale next Friday.

The third victory, however, didn't appear on the way in the early going as Capital jumped out into a 21-10 lead.

"We just weren't ready to play. It was like a Roman Holiday on the bus up and while the preliminary was going on, I told Coach (Greg) Hornemann that we were going to get beat by 20," Coach Astorquia said.

For a while it looked like the coach was a good predictor. After a 56 tie Capital took the lead and only the excellent shooting of the SIC's leading scorer, Bob Brice, kept the Bruins alive.

Capital led 16-10 at the quarter and pushed that to 21-10 three minutes into the second period. Senior Rick Dudley then came into the game, hit two field goals and Brice continued with the hot hand to start the Bruins back.

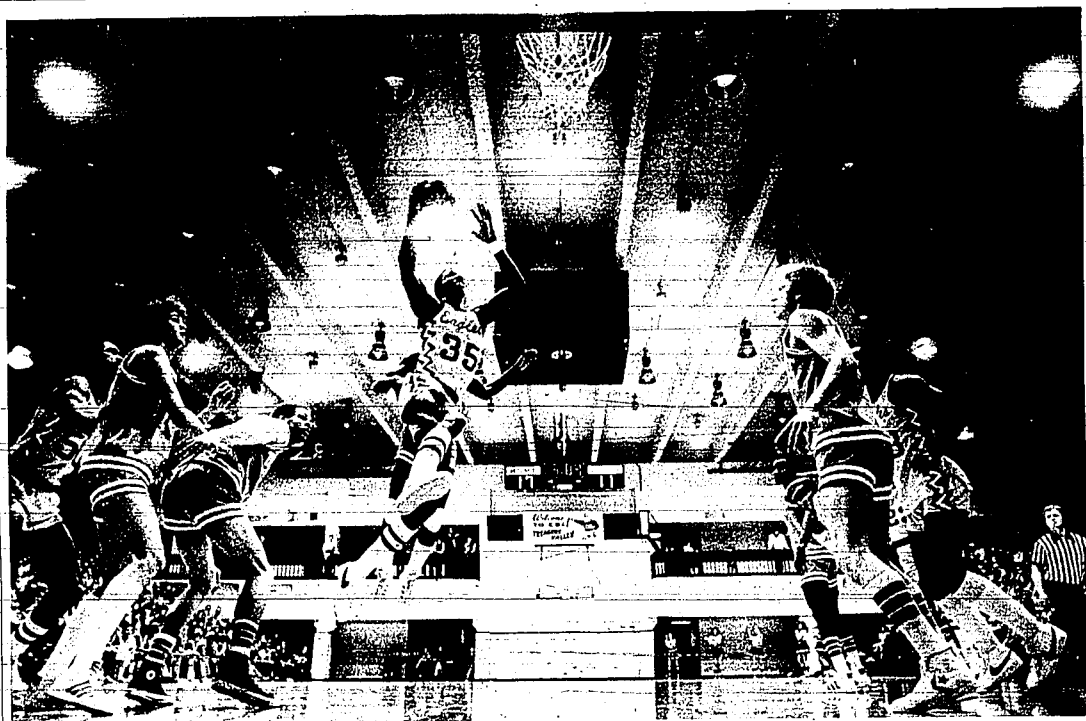

With three minutes left in the half Capital still had a nine-point lead but Twin Falls, with Robb Newell getting two inside buckets and Brice's three free throws, cut back to within two at intermission.

Early in the third quarter the Eagles moved back in front by five on two occasions but Brice, who hit his first eight shots from the field and 10 for 13 for the night, replied with three field goals and Gordon tossed in two straight buckets. Brice's last field goal of the period gave Twin Falls its first lead, 41-40, but Capital had it tied at the buzzer.

Through the final eight minutes the Eagles stayed ahead as Huff twice drove the middle for key field goals. The Eagles had two more three-point leads before Larry Hovey hit a free throw and Gordon followed with two charlies for a 53-53 tie. Hovey came Twin Falls the lead again from the line with Huff nullifying those for Capital. Coleman hit two free throws with 22 seconds left and a two-point Capital lead. Gordon then tied it.

Capital controlled the overtime tip and worked the ball for 2:10 before missing a 12-foot jumper. Gordon then showed Twin Falls ahead for the final time and then came the succession of missed Bruin free throws and Capital field goal attempts.

CSI's David Thirskill (35) had a big night by scoring 30 points and blocking several of TVCC's shots including the one below

CSI rolls by TVCC 87-54

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho had its inconsistent moments Friday night but David Thirskill and Jerry Williams were there to shoot the Eagles past Treasure Valley 87-54.

Thirskill hit 30 and Williams tanked 21 as the Eagles moved ahead in the chase for a regional tournament bid for the first time this year. They now are 24 and host arch-rival Ricks here Thursday before going on the road in an effort to secure the tournament host designation.

"The game wasn't artistic and Coach Mike Mitchell wasn't pleased with the way his Eagles handled the ball. "You've seen us run the fast break for the last time this year," he said immediately after the game had ended.

Still it took a long while for the Eagles before they tried any running in the low scoring opening minutes. CSI never trailed but never did attain the excellence it has shown in the past few games. The game did have one interesting aspect, however. In the first half Treasure Valley made only three field goals — yet at halftime was down only 35-22 thanks to excellent 14 of 16 free throw shooting.

It took two minutes before Kenny Justice got the first points of the game and Orlando Bryant added two CSI free throws second later. With 3:09 left, Treasure Valley got its first points on a field goal by Dave Tapley.

Things remained quiet on the scoreboard over the next several minutes as CSI stretched ahead 12-3 only to see Pete Mullings and Dave Owens bring the Chukars back to within three with 11:07 remaining in the half.

Over the next five minutes CSI got out to leads of 10 points with TVCC cutting back to within six twice. But in the final three minutes Thirskill hit five points, Justice a pair of free throws and Williams two more charlies to take it out to 35-22 at intermission.

The teams traded baskets through the first four minutes of the second half before CSI hit a quick spurt that definitely tucked things away. Klipp Bodard started it with a field goal and Thirskill kept it going with six straight points. Carl Emerson's bucket took the lead out to 54-32 and the Eagles were coasting.

The lead hit 30 points for the first time with three minutes left when Thirskill scored off the offensive boards.

Mahre aims for Stenmark

ARE, Sweden (UPI) — American Phil Mahre Friday gave himself a good chance of breaking Sweden's Stenmark's winning streak in the World Giant Slalom Cup today, on the Swedish's own home ground.

Mahre, 22, of White Pass, Wash., said he needs a giant slalom win to win the world cup.

"To win the cup I need a lot of giant slalom points. And I feel fine for this race. I believe I've got a good chance, although Stenmark is racing at home," Mahre said.

The giant slalom Saturday and the slalom Sunday are held in a remote skiing resort, grown from a 600-people village to the weekend home of the world alpine skiing circus.

The slope Saturday is 1,400 meters long, with a 40-meter drop. Competition officials said snow conditions were "more than satisfactory," with minus 8C temperatures and plenty of snow.

Stenmark has won the six giant slalom world cup events so far this season. Mahre's world cup points derive chiefly from his slalom and downhill performance, which included a win in Monday's Czechoslovakia slalom at Jasná.

Along with world cup standings leader Peter Luescher of Switzerland, and Andreas Wenzel of Lichtenstein, third-placed Mahre rates favorite for the season's world championship title.

Stenmark, who in the past three seasons scooped home the title, was penalized in a rule change favoring skiers who compete in all world cup events. Stenmark, currently in second spot, cannot win more points in the giant slalom, and has not won a slalom yet.

Stenmark refuses to race in the downhill — and cannot collect sufficient points in the slalom to compensate.

"I have no intentions whatsoever of racing in the downhill. Not this season," Stenmark said.

Norwegian beats weather and racers

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — Norwegian skiing star Oddvar Brå edged Sweden's Thomas Wassberg by 25 seconds Friday in a bone-chilling race against arctic weather and the world's top Nordic competitors.

Brå, a 27-year-old farmer from Krosen, completed the nine-mile race in 43 minutes and 36.39 seconds. Medical personnel treated 30 racers for minor frostbite after this dress rehearsal for the 1980 Olympic Winter Games held at Mt. Van Hoevenberg in the Adirondack Mountains.

The Nordic world cup leader also won the 30-kilometer pre-game race Wednesday.

Wassberg finished the race with a time of 44:02.01. Third place went to Yugoslavian Belyayev, the Soviet Union, who finished in 44:07.02.

Indiana State's Larry Bird tops all-star selections

Bird, Greenwood popular choices for all-star game

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Indiana State's Larry Bird held a commanding lead in the balloting this week for the East squad and David Greenwood of UCLA topped the West in the selections for a postseason college all-star basketball game.

The game is set for March 31 in the Las Vegas Convention Center and will be televised nationally.

Bird, who has been leading the nation's servers with a 30-per-game average, had received 89,686 votes as of Thursday, and was far ahead of Duke guard Jim Spanarkel, with 70,689.

Following Bird and Spanarkel in the East were: Tim Joyce of Ohio, 49,995; Bruce Flowers of Notre Dame, 41,389; Jim Paxson of Dayton, 38,091; James Bailey of Rutgers, 37,089; Reggie King of Alabama, 33,020; and Greg Kelsor of Michigan State, 32,644.

In the West, Greenwood's 57,379 was barely ahead of Wichita State's Chessie Johnson's 54,902.

Rounding out the top eight in the West balloting are: Jim Krivacs of Texas, 35,695; Bill Cartwright of San Francisco, 31,312; Calvin Natt of Northeast Louisiana, 26,963; Sidney Moncrief of Arkansas, 25,164; Craig Finberg of Montana State, 24,164; and Carl McPhee of Nebraska, 24,272.

The top eight from each side of the nation will automatically receive invitations to play in the Las Vegas game that has helped provide $500,000 to non-profit organizations during its seven-year history. Bill Foster of Duke will coach the East squad and Abo Lemons of Texas will coach the West. Two players for each team will be at-large choices.

McEnroe falls Connors earns finals' berth

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — Jimmy Connors ripped a cross-court backhand from the corner on a service return Friday to wrap up a 6-3, 6-4 victory over John McEnroe in the first semifinal match of the $300,000 Grand Slam of Tennis.

Connors will meet the winner of today's match between Bjorn Borg and Guillermo Vilas in the finals Sunday for the $150,000 first prize.

Connors' win Friday was his fifth in six matches against the 19-year-old McEnroe and the first since Connors defaulted with an injured foot to give McEnroe the victory in the Grand Prix Masters last month.

McEnroe had said Friday's match was one of the biggest of his career because of Connors' success against him earlier, and because his victory in New York was tainted by Connors' default.

With the score 4-4 during the second set, McEnroe appeared ready to make a move, but Connors survived two break points and McEnroe began missing with soft backhands to give Connors the game and set up the winner.

"It was down 15-40 in that game at 4-4 and after winning it I got pumped up," Connors said. "And I played pretty good in that final game."

In the deciding set, Connors gave up only one point to McEnroe before putting him away.

In the first set, Connors also won by breaking McEnroe's serve in the final game, but this time it went to four deuce points.

Connors won when McEnroe double faulted. The first fault was just an inch wide and Connors helped the linesman by pointing out the ball mark.

Despite the slow clay surface, Connors played his usual aggressive style, charging the net whenever he had a chance.

"I just stuck in there and play my kind of game," he said. "But my clay court game has improved, probably because I have more patience."

Russians confident NHL can be beat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vladimir Gulkov admits the Soviet National team did not play well Thursday night in Game One of the three-game Challenge Cup series, but he warns the NHL All-Stars not to grow overconfident.

"We were embarrassed," conceded Gulkov, who plays on a forward line with his older brother Alexander and Sergei Makarov. "But I believe we are a worthy rival for the North Americans. There are still two games left."

The next game will be played today. To avoid disaster in those two games, the Soviets must find a way out of their zone and move the puck to the center. In Game One, the NHL forced the play outside, and defensemen Barry Beck, Serge Savard, Larry Robinson and Borje Salming slowed the rushes along the boards.

The result was a quick 4-1 NHL lead, and though Vladimir Gulkov scored a goal that closed the score to the final of 4-2, the Soviets could not get enough good chances at NHL goalie Ken Dryden.

"I have to analyze what went on," said Savard. Coach Vladimir Titovov. "The conclusions will come later."

One conclusion was not difficult to find: Balderis, the forward heralded at the "Soviet Guy LaFleur," had disappointed his coaches. Those in the rink wanting to see him were, too. "He must concentrate on his game," said Titovov. Though Boris Mikhailov scored one goal, he and linemates Valeri Kharlamov and Vladimir Petrov applied only spotty pressure. Defenseman Genadi Tsygankov also played poorly, making several errors.

On the other hand, Vladimir Gulkov, the 24-year-old from Penza, earned the No. 1 star and was made available to visitors at the practice.

"He is the one playing well," a team official explained.

Gulkov, a blond 6-footer with handsome green eyes, appeared to be enjoying his visit, except, of course, for the loss.

"We have seen a movie," he said, "and a basketball game, and we of course enjoy walking around the city."

He also feels and accepts the challenge of meeting on the ice some of the top NHL players.

"Guy LaFleur and Robinson are excellent players," Gulkov said. "They know the game very well and they both have good maneuvers."

Economist testifies

Bubba Smith's earnings have dropped

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — An economist testified Friday that former NFL all-pro defensive end Charles "Bubba" Smith's earnings had declined every year since the former football player was injured in a 1972 pre-season game.

Smith has filed a $2.5 million damage suit against the NFL and two officials he claims were negligent when he slammed into a sideline marker and injured his leg.

Defense attorneys contend it has not been proven the player was injured in a collision with a player.

Lawrence Roberts, a University of Tampa economy professor, testified that Smith has suffered a five-year loss in earnings of about $416,000 since his injury.

A checkbook set up in the courtroom detailed Smith's reported earnings from 1967 to 1978.

Roberts said the former Baltimore Colt player's earnings peaked at $76,728 in 1971, the year before he was injured.

Smith's earnings dropped steadily after 1972 until last year when he reported $2,337 in earnings for several non-playing weeks, Roberts said.

Earlier in the week, Smith told the federal court jury that he ran into the marker near the end of a pass interception play in a game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

He contends he hit the marker because a game official was negligent in moving it out of the way when the play developed along the sideline.

Smith said Steeler running back Franco Harris fell in front of him, and as he took a leaping stride over him, he pushed into another player and "impetus" carried him across the sideline and into the marker.

During Friday's session, testimony from last year's trial also was read into the record. The first time the damage suit came to trial it ended in a mistrial when the jury was unable to reach a verdict.

The trial continues next week.

Rezek gains pole position

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — John Rezek gained the pole position Friday for Sunday's ARCA 200-lap model stock car race at Daytona International Speedway by turning in a lap at 191.416 mph and said he'd have done better if it hadn't been for the wind.

Rezek, from Alvin, Texas, and driving a Chevrolet, was more than two miles an hour faster than the 189.243 mph recorded by third generation stock car racer Kyle Petty in a Dodge, who had the second fastest time.

Completing the top five among the 15 cars that qualified Friday were ARCA champion Marvin Smith of Columbus, Ohio, 186,900 mph; Billy Hagen of Lafayette, La., 166,718 mph; and Bill Green of Covington, Ky., 184,824 mph, all in Chevrolets.

NY owners split over Allen

NEW YORK (UPI) — The feud between the owners of the New York Giants took a new twist Friday when Tim Mara, who owns half the NFL club, said his top candidate to become the Giants' new coach is George Allen.

Wellington Mara, Tim's 62-year-old uncle and the Giants' president, is known to be rigidly opposed to Allen, the strong-willed former Washington Redskins and Los Angeles Rams coach.

"The man we should consider as a candidate for coach... the guy who should be our number one person, is George Allen," Tim Mara said. "Look at his record. He's a winner. If we already had named a director of operations, I would have asked him to interview Allen."

"Since we're going to start interviewing coaches now, the first guy to look at is Allen. But just as coach. That's where I think his value to a team is, because he's a winner."

Wellington Mara was unavailable for comment. Tim Mara said he spoke with Allen when he was in Los Angeles two weeks ago for the Pro Bowl.

"I told him I was well aware of his record but that first we were looking for a director of operations and he understood," Mara said.

Other coaching candidates the younger Mara said he hoped to interview were Jerry Rhyme, Seattle Seahawks' quarterback coach; Dan Reeves, Dallas Cowboys' offensive coordinator; and Darryl Rogers, head coach at Michigan State. Mara added he had two or three other people in mind.

The Maras' feud erupted into public Thursday following Wellington Mara's decision to begin looking for a coach, rather than continuing to search for a director of operations first.

Tim Mara said he still opposes selecting the coach before the director of operations but would help interview coaching candidates this weekend with Wellington. The younger Mara also said he spoke Thursday night with NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who was in Florida and unavailable for comment.

"The commissioner told me when he comes back to New York he wants to get to work on the D.O.," Tim Mara said.

Asked about the well-known objections of his uncle to Allen, Tim said, "It's like I was saying yesterday. Well, ways a winner, but he wants it his way. His way has been holding us back for 15 years."

Allen expressed a strong interest in the Giants' job shortly after John McVay was fired on Dec. 18.

Recently, Allen apologized to Redskins President Edward Bennett Williams for remarks he made after declining to sign a new contract and going to the Rams. The apology has been interpreted as Allen's way of signaling to NFL owners that he is ready to cooperate if given another chance.

Wellington decided to begin searching for a coach after becoming frustrated when a compromise choice, reached by a formula suggested by Rozelle, turned down the director of operations post this week. The man who spurned the Giants reportedly was Tommy Prothro, former coach of the Rams and San Diego Chargers. But both Tim Mara and Prothro vehemently denied it.

"He was positively not the one," Mara said.

Cardinal George Hendrick likes new contract — but not reporters

Hendrick turns down press despite signing new contract

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — George Hendrick Friday spent 20 minutes telling reporters why he does not talk to them.

Hendrick spoke at a news conference called to announce the signing of Hendrick's new contract with the St. Louis Cardinals. However, virtually the only topic discussed was Hendrick's refusal to talk to reporters during the baseball season.

"Will we see a new George Hendrick this coming season?" one sports writer asked.

"I'm not going to change my philosophy," Hendrick said slowly. "My policy has been to let you write what you're going to write. I won't be rude. If I don't have anything to say, I'll say, 'No comment.'"

About 20 representatives of the news media listened carefully as Hendrick explained his attitudes. His agent, Ed Keating, said Hendrick had been misunderstood by the press and described his client as a "highly intelligent individual with great ability on the ballfield."

Hendrick was asked about his influence on 22-year-old Garry Templeton, the Cards' shortstop who last season became more reluctant to talk to reporters.

"When Garry decided he was not going to talk to reporters, I knew people would think he was being influenced by me," Hendrick said. "I told him he had everything to lose and nothing to gain. Besides if he talks to you, that gets you guys off me."

"I don't dislike anybody in this room, although some of you may think differently," Hendrick said. "If I have something to say, I'll say it, but it's hard for me to talk to reporters. It's a matter of my freedom. You won't see a new George."

Referring to stories written about him in Cleveland, Hendrick said: "I went through some things... in Cleveland that could get no worse anywhere. I didn't want to see Garry go through this."

"I don't know who I can trust and who I can't trust," he said, "and I don't want to spend the time and energy to distinguish between the two."

Cardinal General Manager John Clairborne said Hendrick had signed a contract for "more than two years" and a "considerable amount of money" and he wants Hendrick to be the team's "field general" this season.

In answer to a question, Clairborne added: "I'm not going to tell a player to talk to the press or not to talk to the press. His relationship with you is his business."

Matmen face last hurdle before state

MOUNTAIN HOME — After a week of trying to get to state, 24 Magic Valley wrestlers run into their final tries this afternoon at Mountain Home High school.

All of the action will come for area A-2 and A-3 wrestlers who late Thursday night earned the right to advance through non-scored wrestle-backs at the conclusion of the district tournament. Those wrestle-backs pitted the championship-final losers against the consolation bracket winner.

The A-2 competitors will take on the third-place finishers in the third district while the A-3 third places will meet their counterparts from the third district. Both the champions and runner-up in the A-1 division qualified for state. The winners of the Mountain Home session will advance to the state tournament which opens at the Northwest Nazarene College gymnasium in Nampa Thursday.

Celtics trade for Stacom

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indiana Pacers Friday traded 6-foot-4 guard Kevin Stacom back to the Boston Celtics for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Stacom was in his first year as a Pacer, having signed as a free agent last August. He spent the first four years of his career with the Celtics, compiling a 5.7 point per game career scoring average. This year he had appeared in 44 games with Indiana, averaging 4.2 points per game.

"We'll sign a player for the remainder of the year and see if he fills our needs for the future. If not, this trade will still create a spot on our roster for next year," Pacer Coach Bobby Leonard said.

The trade cuts the Pacers' roster to 10, one below the NBA team limit.

New senior citizen Bill Veeck rejects neckwear

Medicare aside, Veeck plans fulltime career

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bill Veeck, who has had "30-some" operations, transferred his medical problems to the U.S. government Friday.

Veeck, president of the Chicago White Sox, celebrated his 65th birthday in a sedate but pleasant party at Comiskey Park and quickly squelched any thought he might be retiring.

"I had to go into Medicare," he said, "because they take you off the regular medical insurance when you're 65. The only difference now is that I've got to pay something every month for Medicare." Veeck said he will not receive any Social Security benefits since he will be working and he anticipated no breaks from baseball because he now is a senior citizen.

"Can you imagine Rae Krooc giving me a break?" he laughed. Krooc is the octogenarian owner of the San Diego Padres.

"Really, nothing has changed for me," Veeck said. "I'll be going to work everyday and doing the same thing I've been doing for years."

Veeck reiterated the White Sox will rely again on youthful players this year to attempt to become a contender for the championship in the American League West.

"I can relate to the young players," he said. "And I'm not going to have to grow a beard or a mustache to do it." Veeck, who hasn't worn a tie in his maturity, received five four-in-hands and three bow ties, a heart-shaped Valentine's Day box of candy and a super-sized sheet cake for his birthday.

He posed cheerfully with the paisley four-in-hands wrapped around his shoulders and holding the velvet bow ties, but indicated he hasn't changed.

"What do I do with these now?" he asked. "I won't wear them."

800-meter winner Karen Diblasio (R) is congratulated by teammate, Missy Gehan

Swim meet draws 23 nations

PARIS (UPI) — Double world champion Vladimir Salnykov of the Soviet Union powerfully stroked his way to a 1500 meters freestyle victory in the first men's final of the 23-nation, three-day Arena Shortcourse International swimming meet at suburban Boulogne-Billancourt Friday.

The slim, 18-year-old Russian winner of the 400 and 1500 meters at last year's world championships clocked 15 minutes 04.42 seconds in the 25-meter pool.

In West Berlin last year he recorded 15:03.99 but had the advantage Friday of twice the number of turns.

His effort came at the end of a fortnight's intensive high altitude training at Font Romeu in the French Pyrenees mountains.

Salnykov used his smooth, clipped stroke to pass compatriot Sergei Rusin, who had led from 150 meters to 900 meters. Russia was second in 15:17.17 with Hungary's Zoltan Walabard third in 15:28.15.

The United States took the first women's final to be settled, the 800 meters freestyle with Karen Diblasio, who turns 17 Saturday, finishing first at 8:30.65.

The Newark, Ohio, girl streaked away from compatriot Missy Gehan, from Suisun, California, in a hectic final 100 meters to clock 8:40.65.

One hundred meters from the finish—Gehan was only 2.51 seconds behind but Diblasio accelerated to take the gold medal. Third was East Germany's Kerstin Schut in 8:47.23.

Diblasio said, "I've neither tapered my training nor shaved my body for this event so I'm pretty pleased with my performance. We have been training through this meet. In fact, my only regret has been that we haven't seen more of Europe."

Diblasio, ranked 16th in the world with 8:47.87 last year long course, will be concentrating on this event in an attempt to make a Moscow Olympic team.

"United States' veteran sprint swimmers" all comfortably qualified for the finals of the 50 meter freestyle, an event not on the regular international program.

Olympic 200 meters freestyle gold medalist Jim Montgomery from Madison, Wisconsin, headed the qualifiers with 23.01 seconds, 0.01 seconds ahead of another 22-year-old, Joe Bottom, the world butterfly champion from Donville, California.

Olympic silver medalist Jack Babashoff, from Tuscaloosa, Alabama, also made the last eight with 23.32 seconds.

The trio will be aiming at a time of 22.84, the world's best performance in a 25-meter pool by Canada's Gary McDonald.

Briefly in sports

Boxing tonight at CSI

TWIN FALLS — Many of the area's finest boxers will be on hand tonight at the College of Southern Idaho for a night of boxing exhibitions.

Dick Adams, organizer of the fights, says many of the fighters will be participating in the golden gloves championships next month.

The Lewiston Boxing Club will also be on hand, marking the first time that city has sent its fighters to Twin Falls. Six fighters from Lewiston will make the trip.

Competition will begin at 8 p.m. with advance tickets available at Newton's Sports Center, Donnelly's and CSI. Tickets also may be purchased at the door.

Horse show in Jerome

JEROME — A schooling show for horses of all breeds will be held this morning at the Simpson's arena featuring classes in English and western events and hunter and jumper competition.

The show will begin at 10 a.m. Lucille Bickett of Goodling will judge and an entry fee of $4 will be charged for all classes.

Classes will be offered in schooling for the beginner horse and rider as well as for more advanced and open horses. There will be youth classes and showmanship classes if sufficient entries are received.

Maiden classes also are planned for riders and horses who have never won a "blue ribbon," and green classes will be offered for horses in their first or second year of schooling.

Cross country race Sunday

SUN VALLEY — Registration will begin at 9 a.m. Sunday for the Elkhorn Championships, a cross country race beginning at noon at the Elkhorn Nordic Center.

Two races, one 15 kilometers and the other seven and one-half kilometers, will be run over the hilly terrain at Sun Valley, said race director Dean Pachall.

Pachall said he expects about 70 racers to be on hand for this fourth race of the Fisher Series.

Fisher Ski Company is sponsoring six races in the series, with points awarded each race. The person with the most points after six races is crowned champion.

The first place winner is awarded 11 points, second place nine points, third eight points, etc. Points are awarded on a graduated scale for those who tackle the shorter course, with eight points the most that can be earned on the shorter loop.

Ken Crosson is the point leader entering Sunday's race, Pachall said.

Cost to race is $3 for Nordic Ski Club members and $4 for non-members. The race is open to the public.

Pairings set for LA tennis

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — First-round pairings for the $150,000 Championship of Los Angeles women's tennis tournament were announced Friday with Martina Navratilova and Roseray Casals, last year's finalists in a $100,000 Los Angeles tournament, battling in an opening match Monday.

Navratilova was seeded No. 1 in the tournament.

Chris Evert, seeded No. 2, faces Czechoslovakia's Regina Marsikova in another featured first-round match, third-seeded Tracy Austin faces Bettyann Stuster and fourth-seeded Greer Stevens of South Africa meets Sue Barker of England.

New women's pole vault mark

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Irene Spenker set a women's indoor pole vault record Friday night, then broke her own record four times in succession with a leap of 10 feet during Friday's opening of the 19th annual Mason-Dixon Games.

Spenker, running for the Charlottesville, Va., Track Club, first broke the 8-6 1/4 mark with a vault of 8-7. Then, in succession, vaulted 9-0 1/2, 9-3 and 9-7 before making the 10-foot leap on her second try.

She snapped the world's women's indoor record, which she set with a jump of 8-6 1/4 during last year's Mason-Dixon event in Fremont Hall.

Three tied at top in Hawaiian Open

HONOLULU (UPI) — George Burns, looking for his first victory in five years on the PGA tour, shot a course record-equaling 63 Friday on a day in which play was held up twice for a total of 63 minutes because of rain to tie "Puzzy" Zoeller and Dan Hallidorson for the second-round lead in the $100,000 Hawaiian Open.

Rookie Lindy Miller, 22, one of the last players off the tee, had a chance to tie for the lead or even go ahead, but the Oklahoma State graduate bogeyed his second to last hole for a 70 and a tie for second with Larry Nelson, defending champion Hubert Green, Jay Hans and Jack Renner.

Because of the rain delay, it took 11 hours to complete the round and when Miller putted out on his final hole, he could hardly see across the green.

Zoeller, who scored his first career victory two weeks ago in the San Diego Open, shot a 68 while Hallidorson, the young Canadian who had to go through the qualifying school a second time in order to play on the American tour, shot a 66.

That put Burns, Zoeller and Hallidorson at 10 under-par 134 and a stroke ahead of Nelson, Green, Hans and Renner, Frank Conner shot 68 and Jim Thorpe a 67 to tie at 136, a shot ahead of Wally Armstrong, Andy Bean, Lanny Wadkins, Leonard Thompson, Dave Stockton and Hale Irwin.

Eight players tied at 138 while 14, including Tom Watson and U.S. Open champ Arnie Nicor, were at 139.

Lee Trevino landed at 141 while Crosby champion Lon Hinkle was at 142. Phenix Open winner Ben Crenshaw was at 143, but failed to make the cut, set at 142.

PGA champion and Bob Hope Desert Classic winner John Mahaffey withdrew before the second round because of a hand injury suffered in the final round of the Crosby.

He returned home to Houston to consult his doctor.

Burns never came close to winning last year although he played in the money in 30 of the 33 events in which he played. He called his 63 the best round of his career. The score tied the set by Jack Nicklaus in 1963. It was tied two years ago by Takashi Murakami.

"I've never had a round so good as this one," Burns, 29, said. "I hit everything, close and actually, I could have shot a 61."

Burns' longest birdie putt was a 10-footer on the 18th hole.

LA Olympic hopes rest on agreement

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Leaders of the Los Angeles Olympics Organizing Committee flew to New York Friday, hoping to reach an agreement with the U.S. Olympic Committee that would fully guarantee Los Angeles the 1984 Summer Games.

Attorney John Argue, chairman of the private committee, and two other committee members, business executive Howard Allen and labor leader Bill Robertson, planned to meet with USOC Executive Director F. Don Miller to discuss the final wording of a contract.

Both groups are under a March 1 deadline set by the International Olympic Committee to agree on the details of financing the Games and sign the final contract. If a contract is not signed by then, IOC officials said, the 1984 Games will not be held in Los Angeles.

The key dispute between the local committee and the USOC centers on exactly how much control and how much liability each group should maintain over Olympic plans.

Miller and Mayor Tom Bradley, meanwhile, both indicated this week that the two sides were close to agreement.

"I think they're pretty much at a point of resolving any of their differences," Bradley told reporters Thursday after a telephone discussion with Miller and USOC President Robert Kane.

"A report from Colorado Springs, Colo., the USOC headquarters, said Miller thought there would be an agreement which might be favorably considered by all concerned," Miller made similar comments two months ago, however, but the two groups were still unable to resolve all their differences.

Another dispute was believed to be a question of whether the local organizers or the USOC should put up a $300,000 deposit required to be posted with the IOC by next Wednesday. The USOC reportedly agreed to pay the deposit last June, but Argue recently said he was still "hopeful" that the money would be posted.

"The USOC and Los Angeles committee were originally scheduled to sign the Olympic contract Jan. 27, but the USOC asked for an extension at that time until a 'question of form' was resolved.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Today's article is the 900th Jacoby article for Newspaper Enterprise Association. Seventy-six year old Oswald Jacoby hopes to get to at least 10,000 before turning the column over to younger writers. Of course, he gets a lot of help from young Alan-Sontag, as well as his wife, Mary Zita and his son James.

Today we see the A for. Analyze the lead at work to insure the success of South's four-spade contract.

A heart lead would give the defense one heart, one club and two diamond tricks, but West elected to open his fourth-best diamond.

It doesn't take much analysis of the lead to place the ace of diamonds over in the East hand. South sees that if he rises with dummy's king, East will take it and may well lead back a low diamond. This will give West time to lead a heart before South can set up some discards on clubs.

Therefore, South simply plays low on that first diamond. East can cash two diamond tricks and nothing more before getting his ace of clubs, but there will be no heart trick for the defense.
