

House approves 1% implementation

BOISE (UPI) — After twice putting down attempts to delay consideration, the House overwhelmingly approved the 1 percent initiative Jan. 1, 1980.

Before the House acted on the measure both parties caucused. Then, Rep. Lyman G. Winchester, R-Kana, moved to hold the bill on the calendar until Monday. His motion, undebatable at that order of business, lost 33-36.

When the bill came up for debate Winchester tried again to stall action and, after a 32-minute debate, lost 21-46. Next, he forced the bill to read in full before the House could consider it.

Several legislators indicated after the final vote that Winchester's delaying tactics increased the majority by which the bill finally passed.

Besides implementing the property tax limitation initiative next year the bill freezes local budgets at 1978 dollar figures for this year and either at 1978 levels or 1 percent of market value, whichever is lower next year.

It provides for approval of bonds and special assessments, either as provided in the Constitution or by current law. It also allows override levies approved by two-thirds of those voting.

In addition, the measure knocks out three sections of the initiative believed to be unconstitutional. And it writes back into law "functional" as well as "actual" use as a definition of market value for real property.

Tax Committee Chairman Steve Antone, R-Rupert, said he recognized that some members have a problem with writing "functional" use back into the definition of market value and that further definitions are being studied.

But he said it was "essential" to get this bill moving so the Legislature can come to grips with the problem of implementing the initiative.

Rep. Darwin Young, R-Blackfoot, said the bonding provisions were written into the bill — retroactive to last Nov. 7 — to protect bond issues now under a cloud because of the initiative.

Another sponsor of the measure, Rep. Harold Reid, D-Craigmont, said the bill is not what everybody wanted but is one that will do the job. He acknowledged that it may "pinch hard" on those cities that depend on tax anticipation notes but, he said, "they'll survive."

Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Coeur d'Alene, attacked the legislation on grounds it does not keep faith with the "people's initiative." He said it will make 1979 and not 1978 a base year for the 1 percent limitation.

"The date selected should be weighted toward the taxpayer and not the taxing district," Ingram said. "If we come down on the side of the taxing district we've got to go back to the drawing board."

Ingram also argued that the initiative permitted alternative forms of local taxes on a vote of two-thirds of the people. This bill, he said, does not.

Young disagreed, saying "I don't think the initiative does speak to mandating optional taxes."

Carter, Portillo end a miserable summit session

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — President Carter and President Jose Lopez Portillo failed in three days of summit talks to solve the issues dividing them — including U.S. purchase of Mexican oil and gas — but agreed today to meet again this summer in the United States to try again.

Carter flew off to Washington leaving unsettled the problem of trade, energy and the flow of tens of thousands of illegal Mexican emigrants into the United States in some tough exchanges with Lopez Portillo that apparently did little to improve sagging U.S.-Mexican relations.

Carter said in a Spanish language speech to the Mexican congress that many major differences remained between the United States and Mexico and that they would have to be resolved in later talks.

"Your president and mine (sic) have agreed to meet very soon again to assess the progress that has been made and to add our personal influence in resolving remaining problems," Carter said. He said they would set up three working groups to try to settle the principal outstanding differences.

In an obvious reference to Mexican anger over U.S. cancellation of a multi-million dollar natural gas agreement two years ago in an argument over prices, Carter pledged in his speech that the United States would be a good customer and would pay a fair and just price for Mexican oil.

Carter received a standing ovation at end of his 24-minute speech. He was interrupted with applause when he said, "I am deeply and personally determined to protect the human rights of all people within the borders of my country, whether or not they are citizens of the United States."

Lopez Portillo, in an airport news conference after Carter took off for Washington, said that statement was the most important result of the Carter trip. Carter said earlier he had agreed to send former Florida governor Ruben Askew to Mexico City to study some of these immigrant problems.

Both Carter and Lopez Portillo made it clear that it might be years before negotiations and preparations are completed for U.S. purchase of Mexican oil and gas.

Carter referred in his speech to congress to "signing" agreements with Mexico on such issues as scientific and technology exchanges on housing and water development, and urban development but they were actually signed at the airport by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Foreign Minister Saúlango Roel in a hastily arranged ceremony.

Lopez Portillo told the news conference that the United States has enough oil and gas to handle domestic needs for the time being and that future talks "will give us time to negotiate a fair and well-balanced agreement which will not hurt either country."

Asked why he had not given Carter an "embrazo" or traditional Latin embrace — an answer Lopez Portillo said he would at the next meeting.

Carter received a standing ovation at end of his 24-minute speech. He was interrupted with applause during the speech when he said, "I am deeply and personally determined to protect the human rights of all people within the borders of my country, whether or not they are citizens of the United States."

Hospital workers in Naples attend to infants with dreaded "dark disease" UPI

Doctors identify disease

ROME (UPI) — An international team of doctors Friday blamed the baby-killing "dark disease" of Naples on poor preventive medicine and recommended that virus detection centers be set up throughout Italy to avoid risk of a national epidemic.

"The cases of respiratory virus apparently were not limited to Naples," the report said. "Sporadic cases have been reported in other parts of Italy, including Rome."

The team, including three U.S. researchers, released their findings after a three-day inspection of hospitals in Naples where 66 infants have died from respiratory infections. They said a strain of syncytial virus "had played a key role" in the Naples epidemic, but noted that several other more obscure viruses had also been detected among the victims.

Most of the "dark disease" victims have been infants between 4 and 6 months old.

The team, invited by the Italian government to study the disease, said preventive measures were essential to stopping the epidemic.

"We think it is of vital importance that doctors pay intense attention to any signs of respiratory problems among infants. Such infants must be hospitalized immediately," the report said.

"We think there should be a virus clinic created to check every child admitted with viral problems. The clinic could also act as a liaison with the community," the doctors said.

The team recommended antibiotics as first-step medication in the absence of a syncytial vaccine.

They said conventional flu shots might be useful, but were generally too strong for use on infants.

"What is most important is prevention," the report said. "National centers must be set up to monitor diseases, to discover and follow them at the community level."

U.S.-Soviet relations turn colder over Iran

N.Y. Times Service

MOSCOW — Rising rhetoric in Washington and Moscow is rapidly spilling the improvement in Soviet-American relations so laboriously achieved since last summer.

Both sides now seem to be blaming each other for events — which neither has had any real control up to now.

The United States blames Soviet "advisers" in Kabul for doing nothing to stop the Afghanistan police from attacking the band of terrorists who kidnapped the American ambassador — yet Washington says it is not accusing the Russians of contributing to his death Wednesday in the gun battle that followed.

The Soviet Union is accusing the United States and the Central Intelligence Agency of seeking a pretext for military intervention to restore the shah to power in Iran — and Moscow even charged that Wednesday's armed attack on the U.S. embassy in Tehran was staged to provide such an excuse.

The atmosphere is rapidly turning sour — and an informed Western diplomat said Friday there was now little hope for a summit meeting between Presidents Carter and Brezhnev any time before April. Gone is the optimistic mood of last December, when the two sides were expected to conclude six years of negotiations on a new strategic arms limitation treaty and hold the summit in Washington in January.

What shattered the earlier mood was Senior Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping's repeated attacks against the Soviet Union during his trip to the United States earlier this month. The Soviets believe the Carter administration made only inadequate attempts to dissociate the United States from the more objectionable Chinese positions.

As the Soviets see it, President Carter wanted until Feb. 12 to make a clear public statement that the United States indeed did not fully share the Chinese views on the Soviet Union.

Ambassador Malcolm Toon met with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Moscow on Wednesday, partly to explain the American position. But during that meeting and in another one Friday, there was no mention of the timing or location of a possible summit.

The mounting rhetoric of the past week is mainly a product of frustration by both sides. The overthrow of the shah's regime in Iran and the proclamation of a provisional government by the Islamic religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini last Monday were not predicted, caused, or controlled by either the Americans or the Soviets.

"They're probably as concerned as we are about the situation in Iran," a diplomat said Friday. "Things are totally confused, nobody is in charge, and Iran is a Soviet border state."

But the shah's downfall was a clear setback to the United States, and in their propaganda the Soviets could not resist gloating over the defeat and highlighting the anti-Americanism that pervaded the uprising. Washington charged this week that such propaganda was fanning the flames of violence in Iran. Unofficially, there has been speculation reported from Washington that the Kremlin has told the Iranian Tudeh Communist party, outlawed and thoroughly crushed under the shah, to undermine the Khomeini regime, to sweep out his religious revolution and make it a Marxist revolution.

"It is not clear how much influence Moscow has over the Tudeh party, or even whether it has much influence today in Iran. Pravda, the Soviet party newspaper, has printed appeals from Tudeh's central committee for support of Khomeini's victory, but the appeals also call the ayatollah's revolution "only the first step on the road to final popular victory."

Enterprise wins Gooding County legals

By DOUG TULLIS
Times-News writer

GOODING — The Gooding County Commissioners voted 2-1 Friday to end a 72-year tradition of publishing legal notices in the Gooding County Leader.

Commissioners Will Thomas and George Lemmon voted to transfer county legal notices to the five-year-old Enterprise of Southern Idaho for a period of one year.

Commissioner Rick Bralfford voted against the motion. The vote gives the Enterprise a more solid financial basis. Enterprise publisher Robert "Pa" Brown had said failure to win the county legals could close down his five-year-old paper.

Earlier, Brown had said the legals accounted for a major portion of revenue for his paper while Gooding County Leader publisher Robert Crompton said the county legal notices accounted for only three to four percent of the papers revenues.

Commissioner Thomas, sponsor of the motion to give the Enterprise the legals, said he proposed the idea because he felt the Enterprise had a larger circulation.

Postal records show the Enterprise with 52 more mailed subscriptions than the Gooding County Leader.

Several figures were mentioned during the regular county commission meeting Monday but official Postal Department Records report the Enterprise mails 2,376 copies while the Leader report says it's paid circulation is 2,321.

Gooding Leader publisher Crompton charged that the Leader lost the county legal advertising because of politics.

"I'm not surprised at what happened. I expected it," Crompton said Friday. "I feel like we have been out-lobby'd, out-politicked. We probably wrote the wrong kind of stories during the elections to need the support of Thomas and Lemmon."

Crompton said earlier in the week that Gooding Leader counter sales account for about 700 more issues which gives that paper the edge in total numbers of copies distributed.

The question of which paper has the larger circulation will likely be an issue in the near future because Crompton said he plans to file suit to overturn the commissioner's decision.

"I'm meeting with my attorney tomorrow (Saturday). We weren't kidding when we said we would enter into litigation," Crompton said.

"What we hoped to do is to force an honest audit of the Enterprise's circulation and of our own too, to prove that they do not have the paid subscribers they say they do."

He said U.S. Postal Service regulations require pre-paid subscriptions before mailing and Crompton claimed the Enterprise does not qualify since many of its subscriptions are given free.

Mardi Gras threatened by police strike vote

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — For the second time in eight days, bolstered police union members voted to strike Friday, leaving the city's security in the hands of state police and National Guardsmen and wrecking the opening weekend of Mardi Gras.

Chants of "Strike! Strike!" filled the room as union leaders distributed strike signs among the crowd of more than 500 officers.

City officials said before the strike would force cancellation of at least the first three days of Mardi Gras parades. Other marches in the suburbs are unaffected by the strike and law enforcement agencies in those areas are bracing for larger crowds due to an influx of revellers from the city.

As results of the vote came in, National Guard commanders were in police headquarters awaiting a request from the city to dispatch 500 helmeted, rifle-toting Guardsmen to protect public buildings.

State police massed an undetermined number of troopers from throughout Louisiana to assume essential police duties.

Some of the men wore T-shirts reading "Take this job and shove it," and a few carried hand-crafted posters.

"Why should we care about Mardi Gras?" said one striker. "They (the people) don't give a damn about us, we don't give a damn about them."

Mich Ledet, secretary-treasurer for the Teamsters-affiliated union, predicted the strike would be long.

Police have complained frequently that they need for higher wages and improved benefits were ignored by city officials and the public. In December, the City Council approved a $14 million city pay increase, including raises of 10 to 30 percent for policemen, but that was unsatisfactory to the Police Association of New Orleans.

Two months of bickering over wages and last week's 39-hour strike to win recognition of their union, the Police Association of New Orleans, set the scene for Friday's walkout.

The strikers were undaunted by possible backlash from the thousands of Mardi Gras celebrants.

"We've been underdogs long enough and it's time we had our fair share," said a striker, standing outside the labor hall amid the din of shouts from his fellow officers. "I think it's going to cripple Mardi Gras."

The study identifies 16 major programs of federal aid to state and local governments. Two-thirds of the money goes to the states and one-third to local governments. The programs include Medicaid, general revenue sharing, elementary and secondary education, sewage treatment plant construction, welfare, agriculture, urban mass transit and highway aid, among others.

Since 1975, the federal government has increased general revenue sharing payments to Missouri by $13 million, to New Jersey by $23 million, to Massachusetts by $26 million, and to Oregon by $13 million.

Saturday briefing

Cancer Society lauded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Saying 121 black Americans die of cancer every day, Urban League President Vernon Jordan Friday praised the American Cancer Society for joining in the fight against high cancer rates among minorities.

"Over 6.4 million black Americans now living will eventually have cancer — one in four," Jordan told the National Conference on Meeting the Challenge of Cancer Among Black Americans, sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

"Like other central organizations in our society, the American Cancer Society has not been perceived as a group whose interests converge with those of the urban, minority poor," Jordan said.

He said the leadership of the society's new president, Dr. LaSalle Letfall, will act as a catalyst for greater black involvement in the society, and for major coalition efforts to improve the health conditions of inner city residents.

Citing prevention as a major part of the fight against cancer, Jordan said middle-class white citizens "have been saturated with information" regarding cancer.

Blocking the diggers

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Claiming Maine will be invaded by the "Sunday afternoon digger," the Historic Preservation Commission and State Museum Friday asked for $42,000 to secure the area where a 900-year-old Norse coin was found.

The small coin — unearthed 20 years ago by an amateur archaeologist and given to the state museum four years ago — is the earliest European artifact ever recorded in the United States.

"It's the Sunday afternoon digger — it's a situation where he'll go into an area and be well meaning but destroy a site," said Robert Brady, a member of the commission.

"We are sitting on a huge, very rich resource that has not been developed yet," Brady said.

China pleads to U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Chinese U.N. Ambassador Chen Chu went to the top at the United Nations Friday to demand Vietnam quit invading Chinese soil and pull its troops out of Cambodia immediately or be prepared to face the "consequences."

Even as Chen met with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, his Vietnamese counterpart, Ambassador Ha Van Lau, told U.N. reporters Hanoi is ready to negotiate with China but will defend its territory if necessary — "and we mean what we say."

No more Mel's

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Patricia Hearst is free from presidential commutation but Mel's Sporting Goods store went out of business Friday, a victim of the notoriety surrounding the heiress' sensational case.

In May, 1974, Miss Hearst opened fire on Mel's storefront with a submachine gun to help the escape of William and Emily Harris, members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Bill Huet, the owner of the store, said that ever since the incident the store had been plagued by bomb questions, burglaries and curiosity seekers asking questions about "Patricia." He said they drove out customers and caused valued employees to quit.

Huet said he had sold his remaining merchandise for "antlers and hunters at a loss. He said he never heard from the Hearsts.

"I really thought they would have the decency to call," he said. "We've gone through the same trauma they did, but we had to make a living. Now my living here is destroyed."

Thief's hand severed

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — A convicted thief had his right hand cut off as hundreds of people outside a mosque in Riyadh's Square of Justice watched, the Saudi Press Agency reported.

Quoting Riyadh authorities, the agency said the thief, an Iraqi national identified as Wadi Abdul Sattar al Amri, was "found guilty of stealing cars, jewels and forging an identity card to cover up his crimes."

Cutting off hands is the punishment for thieves under Islamic law.

Budget amendment opposed

Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON — A counter-pressure campaign against state demands for a balanced budget is under way in Congress.

Last week, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine) warned that federal aid to states would be the first program Congress would cut if the Constitution is amended to require a balanced federal budget.

Now comes a study prepared by the House Budget Committee that shows the current federal deficit of $29 billion could be wiped out by reducing federal grants to state and local governments to 1975 levels.

While such a rebuke actually would leave the federal government $4 billion in the black, virtually every state government would face a sizable deficit, according to Rep. Dave Obey (D-Wis.).

Louisiana would lose $603 million in federal funds. Alabama would lose $541 million. Pennsylvania would lose $1.5 billion. All 30 states are among the 26 that have passed resolutions calling for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

Okey is sending a copy of the study to all 50 state governors. It shows — state by state and program by program — how federal aid has grown and how the demand for a balanced budget could boomerang.

The federal government, Obey said, now gives states and local governments more money than it spends on its own domestic operations. If payments to individuals such as Social Security, veterans benefits and railroad retirement are not cutback — "The biggest loser under a cutback to 1975 aid levels would be California, which has received increases in total federal assistance of $3.5 billion over the past four years. New York would be the second biggest loser: $3.3 billion."

The study identifies 16 major programs of federal aid to state and local governments. Two-thirds of the money goes to the states and one-third to local governments. The programs include Medicaid, general revenue sharing, elementary and secondary education, sewage treatment plant construction, welfare, agriculture, urban mass transit and highway aid, among others.

Since 1975, the federal government has increased general revenue sharing payments to Missouri by $13 million, to New Jersey by $23 million, to Massachusetts by $26 million, and to Oregon by $13 million.

US-Soviet relations

In Moscow the Soviet press has apparently mounted an anti-American campaign. Several Western European diplomats believe it began because of the Carter administration's inept handling of Teng Hsiao-ting's visit.

Now another part of the world where the United States has little control over events — the Chinese-Vietnamese border — threatens to sour the Soviet-American relationship even further. The Soviet government paper Izvestia charged Friday that United States China now felt free — perhaps even encouraged — to shift troops to the Vietnamese border and teach Hanoi a lesson for its recent defeat of the Peking-oriented Pol Pot regime in Cambodia. Vietnam is now Moscow's closest ally in southeast Asia, and a delegation of the Cambodians who took power in Phnom Penh last month arrived on a visit to the Soviet Union Friday.

Heating oil costs rise

Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON — There still appears to be enough fuel to get consumers through the winter, but home heating oil prices are soaring because of the halt of oil from Iran.

The Northeast, which depends on fuel oil for 80 percent of home heating, has been especially hard-hit by price increases. Oil industry officials say current retail prices in the region are 58 to 60 cents a gallon, up from 52 cents at the beginning of the winter. Last winter fuel prices were about 38 cents a gallon.

The sharply increased prices apparently are caused by tightening of supplies as well as heightened concern about possible shortages stemming from the cut-off of Iranian oil. Industry sources report that some of the major oil refiners have been responding to that situation by jacking up heating oil prices at a dizzying rate, in some cases making as many as 12 separate increases in the past few weeks.

"Refiners are taking advantage of the current tight supply to obtain windfall profits," declared Ellen Berman, director of the Consumer Energy Council. "They are charging in excess of any cost that can be accounted for."

The price increases likely will put new pressure on the Department of Energy to reimpose federal price controls on home heating oil which were lifted in July 1976. In the months prior to the removal of controls, heating oil prices were about 38 cents a gallon.

The Energy Department is reluctant to reimpose controls. On the contrary, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger has been urging President Carter to phase out price controls on domestic crude oil, which would further drive up the cost of heating oil and other petroleum products. The president can take that step by exercising discretionary authority that Congress provided in a 1975 law.

Gooding Enterprise wins county legal notices

"I'm very disappointed with the Postal Service and I think that they owed a complete total audit to us and to the county commissioners and they wouldn't do it. They wouldn't require evidence to paid subscriptions and I asked them for it and they refused," he said.

Crompton said he may seek a court injunction to bar the county legal notices from going to the Enterprise.

Commissioner Thomas said his reasons for choosing the Enterprise over the Leader was strictly numbers. "My reasoning was the number count from the (U.S. Postal Service) audit. I contacted three gentlemen that did the audit. One was Jim Thomas, Dan Behrens and Jim Skayp," Thomas said.

Leমন explained he voted to give legal notices to the Enterprise because it was the "public desire."

When asked what he meant by the public desire, Leমন said "I've had more requests for the Enterprise than I have for the Leader." He added that he didn't have any numbers on those requests.

The commissioners went into an executive session for about an hour during the Friday meeting and then openly voted to give the legal notices to the Enterprise.

Refugees escape Chad

PARIS (UPI) — The first refugees fleeing civil war fighting in the Central African republic of Chad have arrived in the snowy French capital wearing only tropical clothing.

Five white civilians — one American and four French civilians, including a female nurse — were killed during four days of fighting between the government troops of President Felix Malloum and guerrilla forces supporting Prime Minister Hissen Habre.

One hundred and forty-eight French refugees, mostly women and children wearing only tropical cotton clothing, arrived in Paris Friday aboard a French army DC-8 transport plane.

Another plane-load of refugees was scheduled to arrive today.

France sent 100 paratroopers to N'Djamena in a special emergency airlift to help evacuate Europeans from the former French colony.

In New York, a U.N. spokesman said a group of 150 of its workers and their dependents are being evacuated under the protection of French troops. The spokesman said one U.N. staff member was wounded in the fighting.

In Washington, the State Department said it was planning to evacuate non-essential U.S. diplomats and dependents from Chad. One American, George Henry Suhre, a pilot for Continental Oil, was killed by a stray bullet Tuesday.

There are about 230 Americans in Chad. About 170 of them, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said, are in N'Djamena. He said the airlift was also available to all private American citizens who wished to leave.

The Europeans, mostly technicians working on developing the poor landlocked country, were caught in the middle of shooting between Malloum's government troops and Habre's guerrilla forces.

The fighting erupted following accusations by Malloum that Habre had installed his northern friends in the government at the expense of Malloum's southerners.

Escaped murderers sought GOP may be dying

MARION, Ill. (UPI) — A break-in discovered Friday intensified a manhunt for two convicted killers who used the cover of a dense fog to escape the nation's toughest federal maximum security prison.

Madison County sheriff's office at Vienna — Ill. — said officers were searching in the area around Ferns Clyde State Park near Goreville, some eight miles south of the Marion Federal Penitentiary.

"There was a break-in at a forestry office in the park and a pair of wet socks was found that were believed to have come from one of the prisoners," a sheriff's office spokesman said. "The sheriff is out on a manhunt."

An earlier intensive search about 3 1/4 miles south of the prison was called off Thursday night. Agent Ken Walton said then the FBI had expanded the search from a posse operation that covered 24 hours to a nationwide search.

A helicopter, airplane and teams of search dogs had been used in the earlier search.

The fugitives, Albert Garza, 38, of El Paso, Texas, and Howard Allen Zumberge, 28, of Minneapolis, scaled double 12-foot chain-link fences that surround the prison Wednesday night. A third inmate was caught after he triggered an alarm while climbing the inner fence.

"We've changed to a classic FBI investigation, rather than a posse type," said Walton. "We'll find them. It's just a matter of time."

Two hitchhikers spotted near Mount Vernon and again near Mattoon at first were suspect in the dragnet search effort but were not the fugitives, Walton said.

"They were just two guys hitchhiking who suddenly found themselves in the middle of a mammoth manhunt," said Walton, adding that the hitchhikers may have robbed a liquor store in Mattoon Thursday night.

"Absolutely everything was on the side of the escapes," Walton said.

"The odds switched to our favor too late," Walton said the fugitives — both convicted murderers and robbers serving life-plus sentences — "certainly are candidates" for the FBI's 10 Most Wanted list.

"But fugitives don't get on that list," Walton said, "until all investigative leads are exhausted."

Walton said the fog Wednesday night and early Thursday caused a three-quarter mile backup of trucks at a state weigh station on Interstate 57 just west of the prison, opened in 1965 when Alcatraz was closed in San Francisco Bay.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Republicans may be a dying breed, says pollster George H. Gallup III.

Gallup has told a group of Baltimore businessmen only one in five Americans classify themselves as members of the Republican Party.

And he said the American public associates the GOP with fat cats.

"There are very few Republicans these days. In fact most are probably in this room," Gallup told the 25 businessmen. Republicans "have failed to shed their fat-cat, 'business image,'" he said.

Gallup said many voters would welcome a new centrist party incorporating the moderate arm of the GOP and conservative Democrats.

"The GOP missed a good opportunity to gain seats in Congress last fall by not defining its positions for the voters," Gallup told the breakfast meeting of the Loyola College Executive Associates. The party even missed the most obvious appeal to voters to "throw the rascals out," Gallup said.

Americans are most concerned with bread-and-butter issues, which the Republican Party has not exploited in its campaign, Gallup said.

U.S. officially recognizes Khomeini

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — As the government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini began executing top generals and government leaders loyal to the shah, the United States Friday extended official recognition to the new Moslem regime.

The Khomeini regime announced four generals and two ex-government leaders had been executed by firing squad. Twenty others were reported sentenced to death by the new rulers in Iran.

In Washington, the State Department said Ambassador William Sullivan, who only 24 hours earlier had said the U.S. Embassy could no longer protect Americans in Iran and warned them to prepare to evacuate, handed a note to the ayatollah's government extending official U.S. recognition.

The move cut the final link between the United States and Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, who was forced to flee Iran Jan. 16 after a year of violent riots against his rule which left 10,000 persons dead. Khomeini, who directed the anti-shah revolt from exile in Paris, seized power Sunday when the army dropped its support for the shah's appointed government.

The Khomeini regime began its purge of former generals and government leaders Thursday night by executing four top military commanders loyal to the shah.

A Pan-American World Airways Boeing 707 flew into Tehran and evacuated 152 Americans and other foreigners in a maverick first airlift flight that was denounced by U.S. and British embassies for possibly "compromising" their own evacuation plans.

Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan and his 7-man cabinet approved a bill confiscating palaces, lands, factories and businesses worth billions of dollars of the now departed shah. The edict did not affect the vast fortune of the shah and his family who have fled overseas.

Bazargan also announced creation of special revolutionary courts throughout Iran to try hundreds of former officials of the old regime.

The revolutionary radio called on all armed forces and police units to report back to their posts Saturday.

Khomeini has called on all striking Iranian workers to return to their jobs Saturday and diplomats said a major test of his strength would be how many workers and police obey his instructions to go back to duty.

The U.S. Marine Guards who were overwhelmed in Wednesday's attack on the U.S. Embassy were again on duty Friday but each was accompanied by an armed Khomeini guard. The Marines did not have weapons.

Armed Khomeini marshals also accompanied most of the U.S. Embassy staff on their jobs Friday.

The first four leaders of the shah's fallen regime to be executed were

Gen. Nemattollah Nassiri, former head of the shah's feared SAVAK secret police; Gen. Manucher Khorasroodi, the tough leader of the army's paratroops; Gen. Mehdi Rahimi, martial law administrator for Tehran, and Gen. Reza Najfi, martial law administrator in the city of Isfahan where some of the most violent anti-shah rioting took place.

Tehran newspapers later reported that two more senior Iranian officials had been executed, that 20 more had been sentenced to death and other trials were continuing.

The other two executed officials were identified as Abdol-Aziz Vallian, 55, a former governor general of Khorassan province northeast Iran, and former member of parliament Salazar Jaf.

Morgue officials said all six bodies were riddled with bullets. The four generals were machine-gunned to death and the other two were shot with rifle fire.

Ugandan forces driven from Tanzania

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — Tanzania said Friday that Ugandan forces backed by jetfighters tried to invade its territory but suffered "heavy losses" when they were beaten back in fierce fighting.

The Tanzanians said they shot down three Ugandan MIG-21 jetfighters and captured several vehicles including a Soviet-built T-55 tank and four armed personnel carriers in two days of heavy border fighting.

A government statement said the Ugandans tried to mount an invasion at two points along the border Thursday and Friday but suffered "heavy casualties" as they were beaten back each time.

"There was no immediate word on the reported fighting from the Ugandans, who mounted a briefly more successful invasion last November, occupying 710-square-miles of Tanzania territory that Ugandan President Idi Amin claims belongs to him. The Tanzanians mounted a counter-offensive two weeks later that ousted the Ugandans.

Tanzania communiques said Ugandan troops backed by planes, tanks and artillery crossed into Tanzania at the border villages of Kukunyua and Mutukula on Thursday and again on Friday.

"Our forces engaged the enemy troops who retreated in disarray, leaving behind many of their dead and weapons," one statement said.

In Friday's fighting near Mutukula, it said, "our forces destroyed two army trucks full of fascist Idi Amin's soldiers."

The communique said one Ugandan Mig jetfighter was shot down Thursday while two more were downed Friday while bombing in the vicinity of Bukoba, 30 miles inside the frontier.

In a related development, Ugandan exile sources in Dar Es Salaam said Friday that an Ugandan delegation sent to buy arms in Iraq, Spain and Portugal has returned to Kampala empty-handed.

The sources said they understood from Ugandan army officers that arms dealers told the Ugandan buyers they would have to pay cash in advance and wait 12 months for delivery of the weapons that Amin wants to replace the losses suffered during last November's fighting.

If true, the report could mean that the Soviet Union, until now Amin's main source of arms, has either slowed up or stopped its military aid to Uganda.

Earthquake jolts Peru, 13 killed

AREQUIPA, Peru (UPI) — A powerful earthquake struck southern Peru Friday, killing at least 13 persons, injuring hundreds, and causing severe property damage in the country's second largest city, civil defense authorities reported.

The earthquake, the first to hit the region in 19 years, came shortly before dawn and registered 6.2 on the Richter Scale. The government seismologic institute placed the quake's center in a coastal desert region 630 miles southwest of Lima.

Radio reports indicated there had been heavy damage to major buildings in Arequipa, Peru's second largest city with a population of one million. The reports said water and electrical services were cut in the city and large areas of the surrounding shantytowns crumbled during the minute-long quake.

Five of the victims were killed when a rock fell on their bus near the village of Cerro Arena on the Pan American Highway 90 miles east of Arequipa, police said.

Police said three of the confirmed fatalities included two children and a woman living in shantytowns outside Arequipa. At least five other persons died when their homes collapsed.

Civil defense authorities reported severe property damage in the Arequipa area.

Gacy competent to stand trial

CHICAGO (UPI) — A court-appointed psychiatrist has found John Wayne Gacy, suspected in the sex killings of dozens of young men and boys, mentally competent to stand trial on murder charges, a judge said today.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Louis Garippo said the finding was made by Dr. Robert Reifman, a psychiatrist with the county court system. But Garippo still must make the final determination of Gacy's fitness.

Gacy, 36, a convicted sodomist, has pleaded innocent to seven counts of murder and other charges of sexual misconduct. He is suspected in the deaths of as many as 32 boys and young men.

Garippo was also expected to rule at today's hearing whether a search warrant authorizing digging at Gacy's suburban home should be widened to permit further excavations.

The skeletal remains of 26 persons already have been taken from the muddy, fetid crawl space under Gacy's home and another body was found under his concrete garage floor.

quipa city center and widespread destruction of shacks in the working class neighborhoods of Manuel Prado, Alto Mirsi, Francisco Boliguest and Alto Salva Alegre.

The quake interrupted municipal electric services, but city workers reconnected major lines four hours later. Major water pipes burst during the quake, and city authorities said drinking water would be rationed until repairs could be made.

Damage to a bridge on the coastal Pan American Highway near Camana, 90 miles west of Arequipa, cut north-south traffic, police said.

Rescue pigeons missing at sea

HONOLULU (UPI) — Three pigeons trained to aid in ocean search and rescue were lost Thursday when a Coast Guard helicopter they were riding was forced to make an emergency landing in the ocean.

The pigeons were specially trained by the Naval Ocean Systems Center to peck a buzzer if they spotted life-jackets or other ocean gear.

They were being used in a Coast Guard-coordinated search in Hawaiian waters for a missing 17-foot Boston whaler, the Sarah Jo, with five men aboard. The boat disappeared Sunday afternoon.

The three birds were housed in a plastic bubble beneath the helicopter. A Coast Guard spokesman said all four crewmen aboard the helicopter were unharmed in the ditching, which took place six miles north of Keahole Point on the island of Hawaii and two miles offshore.

Rescue fishing boats and county fire rescue units responded to aid the distressed copter, the spokesman said. One of the charter vessels also towed the stricken aircraft back to port. The extent of damage to the helicopter was not immediately known.

A total of seven aircraft were in the air for Thursday's search.

Be fair response

Pickled brain proposed by reader

One Be Fair reader had a short, succinct message this week. He (or she) sent in a picture of a human brain being held in a scientist's hands, a picture run in the Times-News recently.

Above the picture were four words. They were, "Chris Peck, I presume!"

The other editors carefully, questioned Peck and have concluded the reader was wrong. Peck's brain remains securely lodged in his skull.

On a more serious note, one Be Fair reader complained about the organization of the Saturday Times-News.

"You sure do mess up Saturday's paper," the reader said. "Why don't you put the hospital news and obituaries in the same place all the time?"

Usually, the hospitals and obituaries appear on page B-2.

Occasionally, because of restraints imposed on the number of pages in the paper or because of requirements of the press, the Times-News must move Magic Valley page, the hospitals and obituaries.

On Saturday, for example, the sports department needs extra room to get in late night basketball scores but the Times-News cannot economically publish more than about a 20-page paper.

This forces the editors to move Magic Valley news, the hospital notes and the obituaries out of the B section to give more room for sports.

Just check the page one index today or any Saturday morning for the location of the obituaries.

Another reader complained about a Times-News editorial on the pardon of Patty Hearst.

The reader said the editorial was heartless and unjust to Miss Hearst.

Well, maybe Patty shouldn't have been held responsible for her acts. But the point of the editorial was, are there not other people confined to prison for whom the same could be said? Have not other people "suffered enough?"

But these people aren't likely to be getting out of jail if for no other reason than they haven't generated much publicity about their cases.

A sports fan caught an error in the UPI junior college standings. UPI reported the College of Southern Idaho had slipped to 17th in the rankings last week while a story of another Idaho newspaper using the AP wire ranked CSI 8th.

The wires conduct their own polls and they aren't connected. One poll said CSI was 27th, one said they were 8th.

From our way of thinking UPI was wrong.

Out of room for this week. Keep those Be Fair coupons coming.

A plan for some national youth service

This appears to be the year of reassessment in the United States, and the military draft is one those things being reassessed.

It's no secret that all of the American military services are experiencing big problems regarding the shortage of personnel, even the Marines despite their insistence that all they really want is "a few good men."

Various men in Washington are currently drafting various proposals for a new draft, but one of the soundest comes from the hand of Rep. Paul McCloskey of California.

His plan stresses the need for options for the individual. Briefly, the four options are: (1) two years of military service, with a guarantee of 36 months of educational and training benefits; (2) six months of military service followed by 5 1/2 years of reserve obligation; (3) one year of civilian service in a community or environmental capacity; or (4) placement in a lottery pool whereby an individual would be eligible to be drafted for two years between the ages of 18 and 24, with 18 months of educational or training benefits.

The McCloskey plan would probably solve the military personnel problem, but it would also be fair to all concerned. The young man or woman would have the automatic option to serve the country in ways other than military, and all men and women would have the same obligations. You couldn't buy your way out of service.

It is not spelled out in McCloskey's plan, but the wording implies that there would be no deferments, something that hopelessly bogged down the last draft system.

What is also important is that the plan elevates non-military service to something other than punishment or work performed by deviates and misfits. There was alternative service with the last Vietnam-era draft, but it wasn't considered as an equal alternative for all people, just for special cases.

It was difficult for those making decisions then to see that planting trees, tending to the sick or working on farms was just as important, if not more so, to a strong America than learning military strategy.

Perhaps the McCloskey plan could go further with its civilian service option, and provide guaranteed educational and training benefits for a longer stint of non-military duty.

But the plan's foundation is strong and is deserving of serious consideration in Washington.

Libya looks to Idaho

NEW YORK (Times Service) — WASHINGTON — Muammar al Qaddafi, radical Arab strongman of Libya, has a problem: nearly five years ago, Libya bought eight huge C-130 troop transport jet aircraft from Lockheed Corp. But the Nixon administration, sensing the mischief that could be undertaken if the most pro-terrorist Arab state had a powerful strike force to deliver paratroops, refused to grant an export license.

Now, those eight Libyan C-130s sit mothballed in Marietta, Ga. Since Libya has become the most militant of the Arab "reactionists," providing support for terrorists and seeking to engineer coups in Yemen, each succeeding administration has refused to permit delivery of the jets.

A couple of years ago, Qaddafi set about trying to change U.S. policy. He had great oil leverage — the U.S. buys $4 billion a year worth of Libyan low-sulfur crude oil, or 11 percent of our oil imports — but oil leverage wasn't doing him any good, since prices and production are set by OPEC.

But the president of the United States came from the State of Georgia, and the next chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Frank Church, came from Idaho.

The seduction of the president's brother, Billy Carter, to the Libyan cause in Georgia is well known, and is the subject of foreign-agent registration queries by the Justice Department.

Not so well known is the Libyan campaign to win the hearts and minds of the voters of Idaho.

Through Ahmed James Arari, an Iraqi-born American professor at the University of Idaho, the Libyans arranged an invitation to visit Idaho to study the possible purchase of farm commodities. The Idaho Farm Bureau, entranced with the possibilities of dealing directly with an oil-rich foreign customer, helped set up appointments with local and state political leaders.

Soon, delegations of Idaho farmers and businessmen were being entertained in Libya. Unfortunately, the kind of wheat that is grown in Idaho is not the kind that is eaten in Libya, but about $30 million in wheat deals were reportedly consummated that enabled Idahoans to be middlemen for midwestern wheat.

Also invited to Libya was Republican Sen. James McClure, an intelligent, soft-spoken conservative who is likely to become a far more effective spokesman for Arab causes than the recently retired James Abuzck. Another Idaho politician who met with Qaddafi was Rep. Stevens Symms, a Republican who intends to contest in 1980 the Senate seat held by Church. Congressman Symms is frank to say of the Libyans that "the first question they ask everybody is how they're going to get their jets delivered."

Recently, when Billy Carter helped the Libyan emissary, Ahmed el-Shahali, to host a reception in Washington, the only congressional staffer in-view was a man working for McClure; next day, the Libyan envoy lunched with the senator.

During that week, Congressman Symms sought to have an off-the-record luncheon for members of the Agriculture Committee with Shahali; however, columnist Jack Anderson discovered the invitation that promised "no public exposure" to those who attended, and the attendant publicity cut the attendance.

Of course, the real target of Qaddafi is Church, who the Libyans think could change administration policy regarding the C-130 troop transports. The let's-get-friendly-with-the-Libyans message has been delivered by the Farm Bureau and some Idaho businessmen, asking for Church's sponsorship of a "trade office." Church replies that his approval is "irrelevant," since any country can open a trade office wherever it wishes.

Reporters Lonnie Rosenwald of the Twin Falls Times-News and Charley Blaine of the Idaho Statesman have been exposing the Libyan attempt to bring pressure to bear on Idaho's representatives in Washington. To my mind, it is an international rather than a local story.

So far, Church has resisted the pressure. "This C-130 sale was cancelled by the State Department as contrary to our national security interests. This policy was begun under President Nixon and continued under Presidents Ford and Carter. I support it. Libya is not only hostile toward Israel, but also toward Egypt and other moderate Arab governments. I see no reason to sell the Libyans any military equipment, including C-130 military transports."

That's a gutsy statement, especially in view of the way his probable Senate opponent is allowing himself to be used by the Libyans. Symms tells me, also, now opposes the arms sales, and falls to see how he is being manipulated: "there are no Libyan votes in Idaho." He is closing his eyes to the growing Libyan economic influence.

As a registered rightwinger and unabashed hawk, I have flayed Church on many an occasion — including, ironically, for his unwillingness to use trade as a weapon. But when a dictator uses his money to get businessmen to exert influence on the chairman of Senate Foreign Relations to get the U.S. government to cave in to arms demands — that is a blatant attempt to subvert American institutions, and conservatives from Washington to Boise should close ranks to resist.

Rockefeller and the girl

The story of Nelson Rockefeller and the girl is a fascinating one, not so much for what it says about Rockefeller as for what it says about what the news business has become, and what right public figures have to even an inch of privacy.

The details of the case are common knowledge in New York and Washington; where they are fodder for street conversation; they are less well known in the rest of the country. What happened is this:

Rockefeller, 70, died on a Friday night in New York City. A family spokesman said that Rockefeller died in his office at Rockefeller Center. Later, the spokesman said that he had been wrong; Rockefeller had died in a West 54th Street brownstone that he owned. The spokesman also said that only a security guard was with Rockefeller when he collapsed.

But soon it was reported that a woman wearing a black dress was with the body when it was removed from the brownstone.

From the moment it became known that there was a woman involved, the press did not let go. The woman's identity was discovered. Megan Marshack, 25, a member of Rockefeller's staff and a woman he had loaned money to, Miss Marshack immediately disappeared.

The press began to come up with discrepancies about what time Rockefeller had actually suffered the attack, what he had been wearing when emergency personnel had arrived, when Miss Marshack or acquaintances had telephoned for help.

At this point, it might be instructive for us to interrupt for a bit of analysis. The press indicated, in every story, that its major interest was: might Rockefeller have been kept alive if help had been summoned sooner? But any clear-eyed reader of the stories knew that the real reason for the press interest was: what was Rockefeller doing with a young woman late at night, and if they didn't have anything to hide, why are all the lies being told?

And to answer the real question: it seems fairly obvious that the Rockefeller family did not want the world to know that married, 70-year-old Nelson Rockefeller had died in the company of a 25-year-old woman, in his brownstone. Among other things, public disclosure of such information would surely increase the grief of Rockefeller's widow. So that's why the lies were told.

Now we come to the question of whether the press has the right to uncover such things.

Ever since Watergate, the nation's press has assumed its right to find out and print virtually anything it wants about anyone who could even remotely be considered a public figure. And indeed, it does have that legal right; no one can stop the press from doing it.

But the Rockefeller case is perhaps the best example yet of another question: does the press have a moral right to do this? It is fairly clear that the Rockefeller family probably lives about the circumstances of Nelson Rockefeller's death, and fairly clear why. If what apparently happened to Nelson Rockefeller happened to you or me, we wouldn't want friends of the family to know about it, much less the whole nation. Rockefeller was dead, and writing about it could not bring him back; was there such a thing as a gesture of decency toward the Rockefeller family?

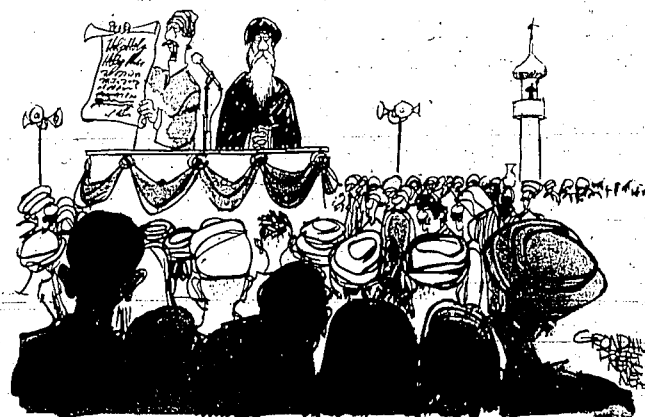

But Rockefeller was Rockefeller, and the press — perhaps not even asking itself the decency question, perhaps asking and shrugging it off — went at it with a vengeance. It was Watergate digging again, and the fact that Nelson's security or breach of the law was not an issue here apparently did not matter.

One of the reasons was that the press was angry; some of its biggest hitters had been made to look bad by writing of Rockefeller's death based on wrong information. James Reston of the New York Times, for instance, painted a word picture of Rockefeller alone and pondering as he died: "It should probably be remembered that Nelson Rockefeller died at his desk late on a Friday night after almost everybody else had gone home for the weekend. He was a worker, a yearner, and a builder to the end..."

Soon, though, news papers and news magazines were full of details about Rockefeller and his woman companion. The New York papers ran full texts of a call to the police emergency number — the voice "quavering with emotion — seemingly bordering on hysteria." The New York Times said before quoting the caller: "It's death! It's immediate! Please!" The New York Daily News ran a front-page picture of Miss Marshack with the headline "Megan Emerges," and reported, "Appearing pale and uncertain as she walked through the snow to a cab hailed by a doorman, she said, 'Excuse me, excuse me, I don't want to comment,' when confronted by a Daily News reporter."

So Rockefeller is dead, and the whole country knows that his last companion was a 25-year-old woman. Whether that is a sin is up to America to decide now; the press has done its job as it saw fit. The news got out; Rockefeller was not allowed to die with dignity. His son, Steven, said, "Father was a public figure to the end, right into the ground."

"And all those in favor of our new constitution please raise your right hand. If handless, speak out. If tongueless..."

Jagger lawsuit hangs in limbo

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A hearing on a court order barring Rolling Stones singer Mick Jagger from getting rid of any community property pending the outcome of his divorce case was postponed Friday until March 5.

The restraining order was issued Feb. 5 at the request of Jagger's wife, Bianca, 31, who is suing the singer for half of the $25 million she estimated her husband earned during their eight-year marriage.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Tony Messina, a 44-year-old grandfather and Coast Guard veteran, hopes to make the Florida State University varsity football team and coaches admit he has the spirit for it.

"The hardest part of football is practice. The easiest part is the game," says Messina, who lives in nearby Woodville and has five children and three grandchildren. "But the adrenalin gets to pumping and you're in shape — and you can play."

Mrs. Solzhehnitsyn criticizes Carter

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — The United States' human rights policy is one of "words, not action," and is no longer taken seriously by the Soviet Union, says Natalya Solzhehnitsyn, wife of Nobel-prize-winning Russian author Alexander Solzhehnitsyn.

Meeting in Washington Thursday with Rep. James Jelfords, R-Vt., she said the lack of a firm policy has contributed to the arrests and abuse of citizens in the Soviet Union.

Glover named first black to head FBI field office

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director William Webster named John Glover Friday as the first black to head a bureau field office.

"He'd have made it either way — black or white," an FBI spokesman said.

Glover promptly said he hopes to serve as a "good role model" for qualified blacks interested in working for the FBI by letting them know "this kind of achievement can be made."

The 40-year-old, 12-year veteran of the bureau will replace J. Gerard Hogan, 48, as head of the FBI's Milwaukee office.

Hogan was disciplined last December for conducting illegal surveillance and has been transferred to FBI headquarters in Washington as chief of the records section.

Glover's bureau achievements were recognized at a special afternoon ceremony in connection with the Justice Department's Black History

Awareness month. A former special agent who investigated bank robberies in the Washington area, he later told reporters he thinks of himself "as a kind of a hard-working, dedicated individual."

"I try not to think of myself as a pioneer, but I guess I'm going to have to think about that," he said. Blacks have severely criticized the bureau over the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's campaign to discredit civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Asked if his appointment might give him an advantage in bridging the distrust among blacks, Glover said: "I don't look at it as an advantage or disadvantage. I'm obligated to the same rules and the same laws as other agents in charge."

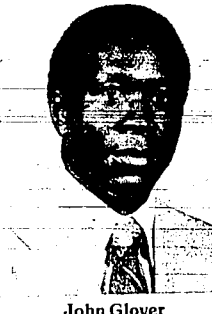

Commenting on Glover's first 20-day rise to the appointment, FBI spokesman David Divan, said, "He'd have made it either way — white or black. He's got a good track record and he's highly respected throughout the bureau."

Glover, currently an inspector at FBI headquarters, served as a special agent in the bureau's Kansas City, Mo., and Washington offices.

Webster has said the bureau is actively recruiting qualified women and minorities as special agents.

As of Jan. 31, there were 188 blacks among the bureau's approximately 7,800 agents. There are 153 women agents, 181 Hispanics, 16 American Indians and 40 Asian-Americans.

Robbers run over teen-age mother

GORDONSVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Robbers apparently abducted a teen-age mother from the service station where she worked, threw her from a van, ran over her several times and left her dead on a highway, authorities said.

Tina Ross Craighead, 17, was working at a self-serve station in Cookeville Thursday night when two bandits apparently robbed her of about $400 and forced her into their vehicle. Her body was found several hours later, in neighboring Smith County.

"It's the most gruesome thing I've seen in my career as a law enforcement officer," said Smith County Sheriff Sidney Harper.

"The theory is that she was thrown out of the car, probably knocked out and then run over. There were tire tracks on her body and they ran over her head," he added.

Police said Mrs. Craighead, mother of a 1-year-old child, apparently was not sexually molested.

Cookeville Safety Commissioner Larry O'Rear said, "We don't have any suspects at this time."

Earlier, however, Cookeville police had said that authorities sought two men driving a van in connection with the case.

Mrs. Craighead was apparently alone at the service station when the bandits forced her into their vehicle.

Billy Carter mouths again

NEW YORK (UPI) — The president's brother Billy, dismissed criticism by Jewish leaders of his close relationship with Libyan diplomats with a vulgarism.

Carter's comment was made at a reception Wednesday night sponsored by the U.N. Libyan delegates for the head of the Goodwill Delegation to the United States.

Moses Schoenfeld, a reporter for the Mutual Broadcasting System, asked Carter: "There have been some voices raised about your role here, do you find you are comfortable with your role here?"

"I've very comfortable with them," Carter said. "They are friends of mine. They will remain friends of mine."

Schoenfeld added: "And the Jewish community has raised its voice on this issue."

To which the president's younger brother said, "They can kiss my ass as far as I'm concerned now."

Respirator will be pulled

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A couple and their doctor have been legally authorized to remove the couple's 3-year-old son from a respirator that has kept the boy alive since he suffered severe brain damage in an accident two months ago.

The ruling, believed to be the first such life-and-death court decision in the United States involving a juvenile, was issued Thursday by Superior Court Judge Richard Byrne.

The judge ruled that the parents, identified only as David and Barbara C., and the doctor at Children's Hospital, not the state, should decide when the respirator should be turned off.

"Only God knows whether Benjamin will die if the machine is turned off," Byrne said. "Under the circumstances presented in this case, the court does not believe that such an act constitutes homicide."

The state has a compelling interest in preserving Benjamin's life," Byrne said. "On the other hand, Benjamin has a constitutional right of privacy and a strong interest in being free from non-consensual invasion of his bodily integrity."

"Where there is no possibility of recovery, the interests of the state in compelling treatment are outweighed by the individual's right of privacy."

The judge said a decision to unplug the respirator might not result in Benjamin's death, despite agreement by physicians that it would.

"Similar testimony was received the Karen Quinlan case," he noted, "and even though it was felt Karen would expire without the assistance of a respirator, she continues to live."

Byrne then signed the court order, commenting: "Let's hope the decision is correct. In the final analysis, it rests on my shoulders."

The boy suffered irreversible brain stem injury and hemorrhage Nov. 20 when he was struck by a car while crossing a street in suburban El Monte. He was attached to a respirator at Children's Hospital.

Eventually the parents asked that he be removed but doctors said they could not do so without a court order.

No money given sterile woman

BANGOR, Maine (UPI) — A federal jury Friday refused to grant any damages to a deaf-mute woman who sought $15 million claiming Maine welfare officials, her sister and a doctor conspired to have her sterilized without her knowledge.

She was sterilized in March 1973 four days after the birth of Robert, her second child out of wedlock. She was a welfare recipient at the time.

The eight-member jury deliberated for six hours before returning its judgment that no damages were due Georgia Mae Downs, 26, of Milo.

What's going on where people worship today?

"Joan Schreder and I have an educational program for children age three to five in the church school building. It's for working mothers and it's non-denominational. There's a real need in our community for this. Our theme with the children is sharing and loving. You can see God's work done so beautifully." — Joan Tirick.

What's going on — in churches and synagogues? Activities such as these and many others as well. If you've felt unneeded, it's just not so. If you've been lonely, it need not be. There's a cure for loneliness and emptiness when you give of yourself... caring, loving, working with others. Doing what God wants you to do.

Stable market despite bad news

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
Business Editor

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 37.42 points the previous two weeks, including 12.30 last week, gained 4.68 points to 827.01.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 0.63 to 65.09 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index added 0.80 to 96.77. Advances topped issues traded, 1,056 to 1,752, among the 2,692 issues traded.

But Big Board volume totaled only 119,964,160 shares, down from 126,194,028 last week. Volume during the same week a year ago amounted to 97,518,980 shares.

There was a number of reasons for the slowdown in activity.

The Carter administration recognized Ayatollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime in Iran while planning a massive evacuation of U.S. citizens. The U.S. embassy was attacked in Tehran and shoddlings were reported throughout the nation.

At least five major Arab oil producers raised their oil prices because of the cutoff of oil from Iran. Other oil producers were expected to follow and the increase by yearend should be much higher than the 14.5 percent agreed upon by OPEC last December.

This was why President Carter told Mexican President Jose Lopez

Portillo the United States would pay a fair price for his oil and gas. Lopez Portillo and Mexico still are bitter that "the administration canceled a natural gas deal two years ago.

Before going to Mexico, the president urged Americans to voluntarily conserve energy, admitting the Iranian problem could eventually pose troubles here. Energy Secretary James Schlesinger has called for mandatory controls.

Schlesinger said the Iranian oil cutoff was "not yet critical," but warned that if it lasted past June, the loss would be equivalent to that of the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

The association also showed gains in savings deposits, reaching a total of $15,627,459 in 1978. The firm made a total of $27,274,316 in real estate loans in 1978. According to Dodds, the company's 1978 performance resulted in $1,569,872 in general reserves and undivided profits.

homes dipped by 25.7 percent to an annual rate of 1.14 million units — also the lowest in two years.

—Building permits, an indication of future construction activity, totaled just 1.6 million, an 18.1 percent drop from December and the lowest since August 1976.

The housing market has held up well over the last two years for a variety of reasons. Analysts say buyers choose earlier to ignore climbing interest rates and bought homes anyway, considering this the best hedge against inflation.

But a new round of interest hikes, triggered by the administration's Nov. 1 dollar-rebate operation, sent mortgage rates still higher.

Housing construction to two-year low

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Housing construction plunged to its lowest level in two years last month as the effects of record mortgage interest rates began to cripple sales, the government reported Friday.

In another gloomy economic report, the government said Americans purchased more cars last month than in a year because of a record 12 percent increase in the 1978 model car sales tax which went into effect Jan. 1.

Home builders have been braced for a steep fall in housing construction for the past several months, saying it was inevitable because mortgage rates had climbed over 10 percent and forced some borrowers — and lenders — out of the market.

As we anticipated, the high interest rates and inflation are driving potential home buyers away from the housing market," commented Vondal Gravelle, president of the National Association of Home Builders.

The Commerce Department's newest housing figures showed an across-the-board decline is well under way. The report said:

—New construction of homes and apartments was at an annual rate of 1.66 million units last month, 19.7 percent below the December level and marking the first time since February 1978 that new starts have been less than 2 million. It was the lowest number of new starts since January 1977.

—Construction of single-family homes dipped by 25.7 percent to an annual rate of 1.14 million units — also the lowest in two years.

—Building permits, an indication of future construction activity, totaled just 1.6 million, an 18.1 percent drop from December and the lowest since August 1976.

The housing market has held up well over the last two years for a variety of reasons. Analysts say buyers choose earlier to ignore climbing interest rates and bought homes anyway, considering this the best hedge against inflation.

Chess tourney opens

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's top chess players will be trying to checkmate each other in Twin Falls beginning today in a two-day tournament to determine Idaho's champion.

Play starts about 9:30 a.m. at the Twin Falls YFCA on Elizabeth Boulevard, according to tournament director Dan Patton of Twin Falls.

Patton said he expects championship chess players from across the state to attend, including winners of last year's tournament.

William Whittaker of Boise, Idaho's current state champion, who out-maneuvered all challengers last year, may not be able to defend his title today. Instead, second place winner Eugene Cowan of Driggs and third place winner Ted Hartwell of Twin Falls will vie for the top spot this year.

According to Patton, Idaho's chess championships are held each year in mid-February in Twin Falls because of its central location in the state.

Contestants must be members of the United States Chess Federation, which means they have paid a member fee and been rated by playing in USCF-sanctioned tournaments. When a new member plays in a USCF tournament, he is rated according to the players he can beat.

Enthusiasm for the sport that volatile Bobby Fischer made popular has been declining in Idaho, according to Patton. He said USCF membership in the state has been dropping.

Patton said 12 people have pre-registered for the two-day tourney, but he expects a total of 20 entrants in the five-round contest.

Registration fee is $10. The winner will be declared Idaho state chess champion for 1979 and will receive $75 in cash and a trophy for his efforts.

Burglary suspect nabbed

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Police arrested Alfred Franklin Davis of Twin Falls late Thursday on a charge of first degree burglary.

Police Chief Tim Qualls said leading to the apprehension of Davis, 28, Thursday was an investigation of a forced entry Wednesday night into the office of Dr. Donald Sontus on Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Qualls said it is believed some articles are missing from Sontus' office but as yet no list of missing articles has been delivered to the police.

Davis is being held in the Twin Falls County Jail on a $5,000 bond.

Jewelry theft charged

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Police Thursday arrested Thomas Carlyle McPhie of Twin Falls on a charge of grand larceny.

McPhie, 33, was arrested in connection with a theft Wednesday of jewelry from Twin Falls Jeweler's on Main Avenue East, according to Police Chief Tim Qualls.

Qualls said an as-yet-undetermined number of diamond rings was taken in the theft and have not been recovered.

McPhie is being held in the Twin Falls County Jail on a bond of $7,500.

Innocent plea entered

JEROME — An Oklahoma woman has pleaded innocent to forgery and second degree burglary charges in 5th District Court in Jerome.

Mona Marie Deramus Gilbert, 29, of Adabel, Okla., entered the plea before Judge James Cunningham during her arraignment this week. Cunningham ruled enough evidence exists for a trial and will set a date possibly during the first week of March.

The woman, who is being held in Jerome County jail on $6,000 bond, and her husband, Tommy Howard Gilbert, 40, were arrested in Jackson, Wyo., last month. The two were sought in connection with an 11-state checking cashing scheme which preyed on mobile home sales offices.

Gilbreath is being held in Wyoming for federal authorities on a parole violation, Jerome Police Chief Howard Dubois said.

Mrs. Gilbert is charged in connection with a theft of checks from Jerome Mobile Homes. The checks were subsequently forged and passed by a man and woman.

Her attorney, public defender Roger Burdick, said he may file some pretrial motions.

Official says trout farms hurt streams

By LONNIE ROSENWALD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fish farms are damaging some of Idaho's best fishing streams, an Idaho Fish and Game Department spokesman charged Friday.

Regional Fish and Game director Bill Webb told a convention of the Idaho Wildlife Federation that Magic Valley waters have been "over-appropriated" on by commercial fish growers. He said Billingsly Creek has twice as much appropriated waters as actual flow and charged that diversion has reduced Riley Creek by one third and endangered Niagara Springs.

The attack on fish farming came in a panel discussion in which Clear Springs Trout Co. general manager Larry Cope defended the trout industry from charges hurled by fishermen and environmentalists. Members of the panel besides Webb and Cope were two instructors for the CSI aquaculture program and a chemist.

In answer to Webb's statements, Cope stressed the positive impact of the fish industry in the Magic Valley. He said his company's payroll alone is $2 million a year.

"We don't significantly impact the environment every time we utilize a resource," Cope said, adding that Clear Springs cooperates with all state and federal agencies.

"We'll be very firm when it comes to our rights to develop these resources, in which we have made an investment," he said.

Webb contended that effluent emitted from commercial hatcheries has a "critical impact" on the state's fisheries. He said hatcheries dump nitrogen in the water and spur growth of vegetation, while using up oxygen, all of which help to cloud fish habitats.

Webb contended a claim made by Cope that aquaculture doesn't use up water.

"That fish farming is a non-consumptive use of waters is only true to a point," Webb argued.

He said hatcheries temporarily remove water from streams and can damage the fish habitat in those dry spots.

Chemist Edward Shokal also criticized the fish industry for emitting nitrites, nitrates and ammonia into the water. Although the state Health and Welfare Department monitors discharged hatchery water, Shokal said trout farms can easily meet those standards by diluting the chemicals in the water.

He also warned that fish wastes are piling up in streams.

"Six million pounds a year of fish excrement is dumped out of fish ponds each year," Shokal noted. "What is going to be done about those?" he asked Cope.

Cope responded that his company spends $50,000 a year to meet water quality standards. But he noted that farmers who contract to raise fish for his company on their own land aren't subject to those standards.

Webb said 62 water rights applications, asking for 2,800 cubic feet per second of water, are pending before the state Department of Water Resources. Four of those are for recreational fish uses, and the rest are farming applications, he said.

Rupert gets new plant

RUPERT — A new fresh-potato operation near Rupert is a "multi-million-dollar shot in the arm for Rupert," Mayor W.F. "Bill" Whitton said Friday.

The 32,000 square-foot metal building, funded by a partnership of eight Mini-Cassia farmers, is expected to be completed by early September in order for the 1979 crop to be packed in the facility.

The plant, located on the eastern outskirts of Rupert, will employ "between 40 to 50 persons and will pack one million hundredweight of potatoes annually," Whitton said. "Potatoes purchased from area growers will be sent all over the nation."

Whitton said he is very optimistic about the operation due to the cooperation so far received from the organization, known as Mart Produce. He said they have agreed to construct a commercial well which, in addition to giving them water, can also be used to supplement the Rupert water supply.

Whitton said he "mentioned" the city has a shortage of water during peak periods in the summer, and asked, as long as they were drilling a well, if they would drill a commercial well.

One of the partners in the operation just happens to own a well drilling firm, said Whitton. He said the city will help reimburse them for construction and use "if the water doesn't have too high a mineral content and is useable."

Water from the well will be pumped through a pipeline to Rupert along a highway right of way. Other possible well sites checked by the city previously involved taking pipe through rock, which didn't appear economically feasible, Whitton said.

Whitton, who said he is happy with Rupert's expanding economy, noted developers coming into the area are delighted with the low 20 mill tax levy and the fact that Rupert seems to want them. He noted a multi-million dollar shopping center will go under construction in the spring, and several developers are looking into commercial property.

On the potato operation, Whitton concluded, "This plant is an environmentally sound business. We need the progress, just so it isn't at the expense of the people who live here."

Governor's bills get nowhere fast

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — John Evans may be chief executive of the State of Idaho, but when it comes to getting his bills passed by a Republican-dominated legislature, he's just another member of the minority party.

Idaho's House of Representatives contains 50 Republicans, and a mere 20 Democrats. In the Senate 19 Republicans face 16 Democrats. This means Republicans frequently pass legislation their party — and their party alone — desires, and occasionally override gubernatorial vetoes.

It also means the Grand Old Party grandly ignores legislation it finds distasteful, regardless of the wishes of Idaho's governor.

To date, funerals appear to have been unofficially and quietly performed on some of the governor's bills. At least several appear tightly lodged in recalcitrant committees.

and where they are currently:

House Bill 47. Known as the "Governmental Reorganization Act of 1979," this measure provides for the creation of the Department of Air and Water Resources. The new department would have the air quality, water quality, environmental health and administrative programs now in the Department of Health and Welfare, and the similar agencies now in the Department of Water Resources.

H.B. 47 is in the House Resources and Conservation Committee.

House Bill 56. This measure would create a Financial Institutions Advisory Board. The Board would advise the director of the Department of Finance on public needs for financial services and the best method in which the department can provide services to meet those needs.

H.B. 66 is in the House Business Committee.

Senate Bill 1062. This measure would define space heating as a domestic use of water. This clarification of the Idaho Code would make it easier for cities to build and finance geothermal space heating systems.

S.B. 1062 is in the Senate Resources and Environment Committee.

WICIE Payback. This measure, not yet introduced, would establish a system of partial pay-back of funds spent for out-of-state medical education for Idaho students.

House Bill 19. This proposal would eliminate Idaho's re-reflectorized license plate program.

H.B. 19 is in the House Transportation Committee.

House Bill 20. This companion measure to HB 19, merely deletes Idaho Code language referring to re-reflectorized license plates.

H.B. 20 is also in the House Transportation Committee.

House Bill 24. This measure clarifies Idaho Code sections listing the business requirements for combined reporting of income for tax purposes.

H.B. 24 is in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Senate Bill 1074. Certificate of Need legislation. This proposed measure would require all Idaho health care facilities and health maintenance organization to obtain a state certificate of need before taking one of the following actions:

• Making a capital expenditure in excess of $15,000.

• Increasing bed capacity by 10 percent or 10 beds.

• Adding a new health service.

• Making a capital expenditure for pre-development activities.

S.B. 1074 is in the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee.

Loss Carryback Restrictions. This measure, not yet introduced, proposes a change in Idaho's tax laws. Loss carryovers would still be allowed, but would be eliminated when in excess of $15,000 or less carried back to each of three prior years.

House Joint Resolution 2. This proposes an amendment to the state constitution. That amendment would allow cities and political subdivisions to own or construct energy systems.

HJR 2 is in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Senate Bill 1078. This legislation would require an assessment notice to show the full market value of property, an estimate of taxes due on that property, and the percentage of full market value represented by the estimated tax.

S.B. 1078 is in the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee.

House Bill 112. This measure would update the Idaho Income Tax act.

This updating would provide for adoption of the 1979 Internal Revenue Code. This in turn would insure uniformity in the state and federal codes, change the income tax brackets and rates and provide for an increase in income exempt from taxation from $750 to $1,000.

H.B. 112 is in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

House Bill 111. This measure would provide for extension of the $15 grocery tax credit to low-income Idahoans.

House Bill 111. This measure would provide for extension of the $15 grocery tax credit to low-income Idahoans.

H.B. 111 is in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

House Bill 28. This measure would reduce the School District Foundation Program's equalizing levy by seven mills and the maximum levy by nine mills. HB 28 also requires any levy for school transportation be included within the 18-mill maximum.

House Bill 28, which is in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, would cause a reduction of revenues from local school district property taxes of $24 million.

House Bill 29. This measure provides a fee be paid in lieu of property taxes on improvements to real property. The fee would be paid during the first year that property is occupied.

House Bill 29 is in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Senate Bill 1074. This measure expands the Tax Appeals Board from three members to five, provides for the appointment of a full-time chairman, and increases the salary for part-time board members from $50 to $75 a day.

S.B. 1074 is in the Senate State Affairs Committee.

Senate Bill 1071. S.B. 1071 would require the recording of real property conveyances when property is sold for property tax purposes.

S.B. 1071 is in the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee.

McClure predicts overthrow of Khomeini

BOISE (UPI) — Moslem leader Ayatollah Khomeini will not be able to maintain governmental control of Iran and that country probably will end up under the wing of the Soviet Union, Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said Friday.

McClure said on KTVB television's "Viewpoint" program it is likely Iran will be governed in some form by Communists.

"In my judgement, Khomeini will not last," McClure said. "Khomeini can keep anyone else from lasting or governing, but I don't see how he can either. Look at how he got there. He's playing open-religious fanaticism to reimpose a kind of society that existed there in the last century. I would guess the greatest danger lies in the evolution of something like that which happened in Afghanistan next door. A religious coup took place. That government was gradually supplanted by pro-Soviet cabinet members until they controlled the government.

"And now there is a religious war to wrest control from the pro-Soviet government," McClure said. "The events in Afghanistan probably will repeat themselves in Iran. As to the Carter administration's handling of the Iran situation, McClure said, "I'm not very happy with what happened there. I think our government should have been better prepared. I think the Carter administration shares in the blame, but I'm not sure I can say 'Hey, Jimmy Carter, that's all your fault.'"

Morrison-Knudsen won't evacuate workers

BOISE (UPI) — Morrison-Knudsen Co. does not plan to evacuate its employees from Iran, President W. H. McClure said Friday.

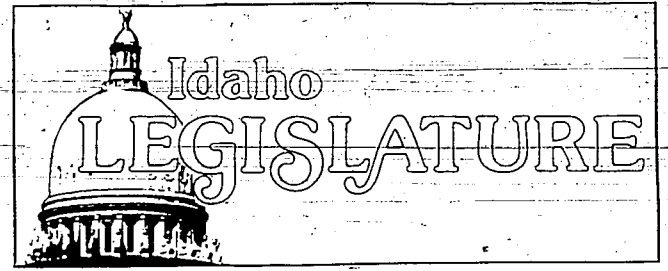

"We haven't been and do not plan to evacuate any of our employees out of Tehran," McClure said. "We have 16 or 17 U.S. citizens working in Iran but that he was unsure of the exact number because the company plans to reduce the number to 10. He was not sure if that move had been made.

McClure said the firm has been unable to communicate with its employees for three days and added that Thursday and Friday were Moslem religious holidays and operations were closed down. The president said as long as the firm's contract with the minister of roads remains in force it will continue working.

NEAL CONFIRMED
BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate gave its unanimous approval Friday to the gubernatorial appointment of Thomas Neal, Moscow, to the Park and Recreation Board.

Poll says Idahoans oppose ending interest rate limit

BOISE — Almost 60 percent of all Idahoans oppose eliminating Idaho's usury limit on home loans.

According to a poll conducted by the Professional Resource Group, of Boise, only 32.2 percent of all Idahoans favor eliminating the 10 percent interest limit which is now the maximum lending institutions can charge on home loans.

A measure which would eliminate that 10 percent lid on all loans not covered by the Uniform Consumer Credit Code has passed the Idaho House of Representatives and will come up for a final vote in the Senate on Monday.

According to the poll 54.4 percent of all Idahoans surveyed oppose eliminating the 10 percent maximum. A total of 8.4 percent of those surveyed said they were "undecided."

According to Howard Schrag, director of the Professional Resource Group, which conducts the regular "Idaho Poll," the survey was conducted between Feb. 1 and Feb. 5 of this year. The 300 persons questioned were scientifically selected to be representatives of the Idaho population at large, Schrag said.

This was the question asked: "The maximum amount of interest a savings and loan bank can charge for home loans in Idaho is now 10 percent. A bill is now being considered that would abolish the 10 percent ceiling and allow higher interest rates. This supposedly would stabilize the availability of money for housing in Idaho, but would also allow interest on home loans to go to 11 or 12 percent or higher when the money supply is tight. Do you favor or oppose abolishing the 10 percent ceiling?"

Senate passes new corporate laws

BOISE (UPI) — Without a dissenting vote, the Idaho Senate approved and sent to the House Friday a bill recodifying the state's corporate laws. The vote was 34-0.

Senators also adopted 29-5 a resolution calling upon Congress to halt the threat of withholding and withdrawing federal funds from a state as a means of requiring a state to implement federal policies or practices. The measure now goes to the House.

In passing the Idaho Business Corporation Act, Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewisville, floor sponsor, said a reconstituted provides for a constitutionally sound and fair act, which also was simplified from the present provisions.

It would provide $1.1 million annually to the state's general fund from the 14,000 profit corporations in Idaho. He said corporations would be taxed on their ability to pay as the tax would be on net profit.

Sen. Ron Twiegler, D-Boise, raised the only objection during the brief debate on the measure. While he said he supported 95 percent of the bill, Twiegler said there was an area of 5 percent that concerned him.

"Twiegler said his concern was the method of collecting the tax. He said the method was "more complex than it should be."

Also, he added the franchise fee as written in the measure "is a progressive income tax and shouldn't be in this bill."

Supporters of the resolution against federal threats said they were tired of being "blackmailed" by the federal government to force them to carrying out various programs.

"We don't like the blackmail threats we get," said Sen. Walter Yearbrough, R-Grand View. He said the government threatens to withhold or withdraw funds "we have already paid."

Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, noted that many of Idaho's rules and regulations had to be changed because of the threat of losing federal funds.

"The federal government mandates 'you do it our way' or you don't get any money," Swenson said.

Idaho Floor sponsor Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, said "We can't go one week through this Legislature without a threat (from the federal government)."

House approves state pay proposals

BOISE (UPI) — A House leadership committee introduced legislation on state employees' pay Friday.

After it is printed, the pay legislation is expected to be referred to committees for consideration.

The pay legislation is considered one of the major steps toward completion of the work confronting this session of the 45th Legislature and, if the action stands, will open the way to setting budgets for next year.

The pay proposals would set the payline increase for state employees and next year at 7 percent and eliminate automatic 5 percent, in-grade step increases. The payline is what their salaries would be for comparable jobs in the private sector. With automatic increases out, the bill would set merit as a reason for pay hikes.

Democrats on the leadership Ways and Means Committee agreed to introduce the bill eliminating the automatic increases. But they balked, unsuccessfully, at introducing the payline resolution because it contains no money.

Republicans on the committee said the raises could be financed through attrition or, possibly, by some new money.

Elsewhere on the legislative scene:

The Senate voted unanimously to confirm the nomination of Tom Neal, Moscow, to the Park and Recreation Board.

Without a dissenting vote, the Senate approved and sent to the House a bill recodifying the state's corporate laws.

Senate Majority Leader James Risch, R-Boise, said the House-approved bill to lift the interest ceiling on home loans will come up for amendment Monday and rules will be suspended for final action.

QUESTION
My sister was killed in a tragic automobile accident as the result of the negligence of an uninsured driver. Am I responsible for her funeral bills?

ANSWER
Your sister's estate and those in your family who were financially responsible for her care must pay those costs. Your family attorney should be consulted concerning the possibility of recovering those expenditures.

If your sister was either fully or currently insured under Social Security a funeral benefit approximating to $255 may be payable. Under certain circumstances you may also be entitled to some recovery. You should investigate insurance coverage that may be payable under "Medical Payments Coverage" or "Uninsured Automobile Coverage" or "no fault" insurance.

Snowshoeing in the 1984 Winter Olympics?

NEW YORK (UPI) — A snowshoeing grandmother who has already earned a place in the Guinness Book of World Records believes the sport's heading for a slot in the 1984 Winter Olympics.

Rose Mary Gabriel of Gillette, Wyo., a mother of seven and grandmother of nine, races snowshoes racing on a par with cross country skiing. She is a comparative newcomer to the sport of snowshoeing but as women's division winner of a gruelling 65-mile trek through the wilds of Northern Wisconsin in her first attempt at competing two years ago she speaks with some authority.

"The American Indians invented the snowshoe to help them travel over their food," says the 48-year-old Gabriel. "They even have a dance to the snowshoe God. This event belongs in the Olympics and we are campaigning to work it into the agenda for 1984."

There are over 200 different snowshoe styles these days — some flat, some round, some with a tail. The most popular for racers is a modified Bear Paw that runs 32 inches long and 10 inches wide and sells for about $15. Snowshoes show a preference toward an Alaskan style for practice. This item is 56 inches long and 10 inches wide and carries a sale price ranging from $50 to $150.

Gabriel has several pairs of each as she trains for the three-day Yukon Jack world snowshoe championship, Feb. 23-25, at Rice Lake, Wis. The 5-foot-2, 140-pound woman is short-legged so all she can manage is a five-foot stride. Her weight is an advantage, however, because "in an endurance race, where you eat or drink very little, the added fat provides the energy needed to complete the race."

In 1977, there were seven women in a field of 57 starters and only three finished. Gabriel was first in her class and 18th overall. Last year, she injured a knee at the 72-mile mark and withdrew.

How does her family feel about Gabriel's sudden affinity toward a sport?

"My husband, Artie, forbids me to enter," she grins shyly. "But my 27-year-old daughter, Wendy, is coming up from Texas to compete in the race."

"My son-in-law, a physical education teacher, cautioned me about the rigors of cross country snowshoeing and said I'd get a heart attack and die. The rest of my kids thought I was out of my tree for entering the competition."

But the Gabriel family is sports minded — two of the girls play for their high school basketball team — and when the rest of the clan determined that "Mom and Grandma" were serious, they became her pit crew, riding alongside in a car and providing necessary nourishment and encouragement.

Some jog along with her during the summer as she conditions her feet for the big three stage snowshoe race. The first day of the event is the longest at 38 miles and takes her about 10 hours to complete. The second day is a shorter 21 mile course that is more difficult, however, because of the hilly terrain. The 24-mile third day usually weeds out all but the heartiest in the entry list.

Gabriel put on her first pair of snowshoes three years ago when she visited her mother in Rice Lake and saw a film of a cross country race.

"I've always bragged about my stamina and this sport sort of blew my mind. Besides, it gets people into the fresh air during the winter. We always hope for lots of entries in the big race because the fees are donated to the U.S. Olympic fund. Prize money is donated by sponsors. If a person is into amateur athletics in high school, college or on the international level and they earn a prize, the money is put into escrow until they enter their amateur eligibility."

Blisters and monotony are the two biggest enemies of the competitive snowshoer, except for the wise acre kid who asks Gabriel: "Hey, lady, is that what you do with your tennis rackets in the winter?"

Stevens overcomes Turnbull

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Greer Stevens of South Africa routed Wendy Turnbull of Australia, 6-1, 6-0, in a quarter-final match Friday in a $150,000 women's tennis tournament.

Turnbull turned in an effortless performance. She failed to go after several probable playing shots and seemed tired throughout the match.

Stevens' serve was excellent. She gave up only five points in the seven games that she served in the match.

"Wendy didn't play well tonight," Stevens said. "In fact she played badly. Wendy is a good friend of mine and it's difficult when you play a friend. I try to forget that it is her on the other side of the net and pretend it is just another opponent."

"I thought my serve was great. I didn't let her into the game."

Stevens will face the winner of a Friday night match between No. 2 seeded Chris Evert and Virginia Ruzici in a semi-final match Saturday night.

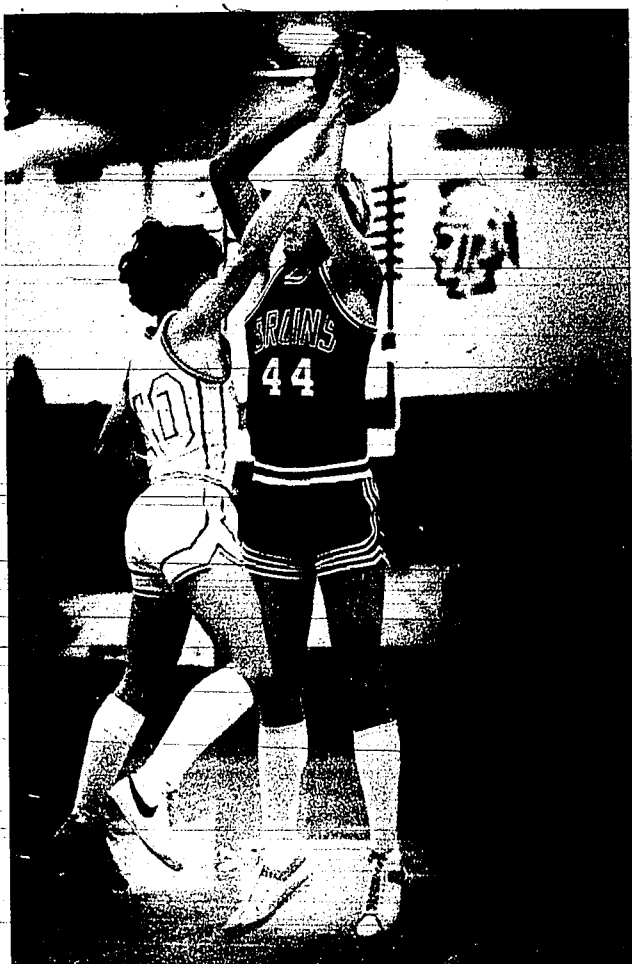

Top-seeded Martina Navratilova will face 16-year-old Tracy Austin in the other semi-final.

The winner of the tournament title Sunday night will receive $30,000 and the runner-up $15,000. Third and fourth-place finishers receive $7,500 and $7,200.

Austin and Navratilova have split their two-match series this year. Austin defeated Navratilova, 6-3, 6-2, at Washington D.C. in the first round of the 1978 Navratilova Invitational. Navratilova avenged that loss by defeating the Rolling Hills, Calif., high school student, 6-3, 6-4 in the finals of a Chicago tournament two weeks ago.

Austin also scored victories over Navratilova late last year. She ended Martina's 37-match winning streak with a 6-3, 2-6, 7-6 victory in the quarter-finals of a Dallas tournament on Dec. 17. She routed Navratilova, 6-1, 6-1, in Tokyo.

But Navratilova holds a career edge at 6-3.

Nyambui sets two mile mark

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Sulaiman Nyambui of Tanzania ran the fastest two miles in the world this year when he was clocked in 8:21.2 seconds Friday night at the 14th annual San Diego Invitational Track Meet.

Rudy Chapa of the University of Oregon, the NCAA 5,000-meter champion, recorded his best time ever, 25:7, to finish second and Larry Lawson of the Santa Monica Track Club was third in 8:30. Lawson defeated Henry Rono in the two-mile two weeks ago in Los Angeles. Rono was slated to run in the San Diego meet but did not appear.

Nyambui won going away and finished nearly 40 yards ahead of Chapa.

In the 60-yard dash, Houston McTear, the indoor runner of the year in 1978, won in 6.16 seconds.

Eddie Hart of the Bay Area Striders, making a comeback, was right behind him in 6.17. Lanoris Marshall of Mesa College in Arizona was third in 6.29.

McTear holds the world record at 6.05, set last year, when he was first across the finish line in every meet he entered.

In the 60-yard high hurdles, Greg Foster of UCLA won in 7.11. Dedy Cooper of San Jose State was second in 7.16.

Arlene Robinson of San Diego won the long jump at 25 ft. 3 in.

In the women's 60-yard hurdles, Debby LaPlante of Diego State cleared the barriers in 37.7. It was four-tenths off her own world mark and the fourth fastest time ever for the event.

Bruins end regular season by routing Minico 63-30

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Twin Falls pulled away from a slowdown attempt by the Minico Spartans in the early going and went on to register a surprisingly lopsided 63-30 decision in the season final for both clubs Friday night.

Twin Falls didn't have any problem after the opening few minutes as Minico hit an atrocious one for 13 in the first quarter and at one point was one for 20. Some of that probably was caused by a series of blocked shots by the Bruins which changed a few shooting techniques. But the Spartans, with a minor exception late in the second quarter, never was able to match Twin Falls' scoring output.

"I really liked our defense tonight," Coach John Astorga said afterward. "Our helpside defense was good and we moved to the ball pretty well. Yes," he answered a question, "I expect Minico to use the same tactics against us if we meet in district. I really believe the only way they can beat us is to slow it down."

Minico Coach Bill Gonzalez, left on the school's poorest record in history at 1-19, pointed out "we hit only 10 of 54 attempts from the field and you can't beat a grade school team shooting like that."

Twin Falls wound up with a 12-8 record and won 10 of its last 13 games in getting there.

Twin Falls now returns to the home court Thursday night to entertain the Burley Bobcats in the first round of the district tournament. The winner of that game will go to Minico next Saturday night.

Minico showed the sprad defense at the outset but couldn't get the shot down and Bob Brice took the complete stall away when he hit from the outside for the Bruins. After Bob Harding tied it at 22 with 4:57 left in the period, Brice hit another long shot and Keith Gordon ran in with a close-in bucket. Harding got a free throw before Jim Crandall hit twice and Lars Hovey once to break Twin Falls into a 12-3 lead.

In the second period, Lance Howard, who had a solid rebounding night, especially on the offensive glass, got two Minico free throws but then came another Twin Falls burst with Jim Merkie hitting twice and Hovey and Brice once each. That made it 20-5 and a couple of minutes later the Bruins had run into a 28-7 advantage.

Late in the half, Bill Jesse got two Minico buckets and Kyle Knight and Howard added points to trim the deficit to 14.

But any hopes for a comeback evaporated in the third period when Hovey hit six points and Merkie two to blow things into a 38-14 condition. From then on both coaches went to their benches liberally.

Minico won the first two games, the juniors posting a 63-51 decision and the sophomores winning 67-67.

Boise State in overtime

BOISE (UPI) — Boise State rode the hot shooting of senior forward Sean McKenna to overcome an 11-point Montana lead and register a 79-70 Big Sky Conference triumph in overtime Friday night at Bronco Gymnasium.

The BSU Broncos eked out a 43-42 halftime lead, then the Grizzlies went on a 14-3 tear in the first seven minutes of the second half.

Montana, on the fourth consecutive jumpshot by Charlie Yankus, took a 58-47 edge with 12:24 left in regulation time.

After a timeout, the Broncos outscored Montana 16-4 to take a 63-62 edge with 4:23 left. The teams traded buckets until a Dave Richardson layup with 56 seconds left BSU tied the game at 68-68, sending it into an extra session.

A missed free throw by McKenna with five seconds remaining ruined BSU's chances to win in regulation.

Bengals edge Montana State

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho State Bengals used Lawrence Butler's 37 points to snare an 89-83 win over Montana State Friday night in the Pocatello Mildmod and seize second place in the Big Sky Conference.

Butler, the nation's leading scorer, upped his average to 29.7 points a game and sparked the Bengals out of trouble twice with scoring bursts.

With the Bengals trailing 20-16, Butler hit 14 of ISU's next 16 points to create a 32-27 edge over the Bobcats. The Bengals never trailed thereafter.

And midway through the second half ISU built a 61-45 lead behind Butler's 12-point spurt.

However, MSU guard Craig Finberg headed a furious Bobcat rally to cut the score to 85-81 in favor of ISU with 38 seconds on the clock.

Finberg had 27 points for MSU's high-point honors, 10 of them in the final six minutes.

ISU now is 7-4 in league action and 13-10 overall, while the Bobcats are 5-7 and 14-10.

MONTANA STATE (85): Finberg 27; Finberg 27; Smith 6; 3-4; Durham 2; 2-4; Finberg 11; 5-27; Finberg 0-0; 0; Karaman 0-0; 0; Miles 0-0; Docks 1-0-2; Ferebee 1-0-1; Kruger 0-0-0; Tolson 10-19-23.

Girls basketball Homedale edges Shoshone

LEWISTON — Shoshone's dream for a girls A-3 state basketball championship came to an abrupt end Friday when the Indians were outplayed by Homedale 36-31 in tournament semi-final action.

It was a complete turnaround from Thursday's game, in which Shoshone trailed in the early going only to come back and beat Prairie.

This time the Indians led early in the contest only to see Homedale put on a second-quarter rally, take over the lead and never look back.

"We just didn't play good basketball," said a disappointed Shoshone coach Ed Sandy, who figured Homedale to be an easy opponent.

Trailing by only four at the intermission, Shoshone went down by as many as 10 points in the third quarter before putting on a late rally which brought the Indians to within three points.

Late in the game Homedale led only 32-29, but the Trojans scored the next four points and that was that. Just Uranga led all scorers in the contest with 18 points while Homedale teammate Cindy Breshers

Table with 4 columns: Player, Points, Rebounds, Assists. Lists players like Homedale, Shoshone, etc.

Troy opened the day with a hustling defense to seize a small lead and then gradually pulled away in the second half to eliminate Mackay 44-36. Brunton paced the effort with 14 points.

Highland also pushed steadily away from Midvale to move into the consolation finals. Midvale was never out of reach but couldn't dent a five-point deficit through most of the second half.

Janette Jessup of Midvale picked up a couple of tournament records when she hit 12 free throws during the game. Those along with two from Thursday gave her the tournament record at 14.

Table with 4 columns: Player, Points, Rebounds, Assists. Lists players like Troy, Mackay, etc.

Richfield Valley sustained a setback when its top rebounder, Rene Oliver, had to set out awhile due to fouls. Richfield immediately went into the middle and Anderson came up with four field goals to spark the comeback. In the final minutes, Kay Exon hit six straight free throws to nail the decision down.

In the other semi-final, Kootenai and Hagerman were tied as often as not in the first half. But fouls took their toll on Hagerman in the third quarter as the Pirates three inside girls all went to the bench for four. During their absence, Kootenai took control of the boards and the inside to swell a one-point deficit to a six-point lead going into the final period. After that it was a matter of basket matching.

Nampa keeps wrestling lead; Bruin Snodgrass gets wins

BOISE — Nampa maintained its lead in A-1 state wrestling competition and only one Twin Falls wrestler stayed alev after action Friday.

Mike Snodgrass is the only Twin Falls wrestler still competing at the state meet, winning two matches Friday. He won an 8-5 decision in round one yesterday and came back to win a 7-5 decision and advance to the final round today.

Meanwhile, Nampa continued to run away with the team portion of the A-1 meet, racking up 59 points to date as compared to second place Blackfoot's 34.

In A-2 action, Preston High School took over the lead with an impressive day of wrestling. It now leads Shelly by four and one-half points.

Fifth High School leads the A-3 meet with 44 1/2 points, eight points ahead of North Fremont.

Action "will conclude" today with semi-finals beginning at 2 p.m. and finals set for 7 p.m.

New ski rate

SUN VALLEY — The U.S. Forest Service has recently approved a new group lift pass for Blady Mountain.

Called the Idaho Ski Club rate, the pass will cost $10.50 per day for all lifts, a 30 percent reduction from the regular rate of $15 and will be available on holidays, Saturdays and Sundays.

In order to qualify for the new pass, a club or group must consist of 20 or more skiers, have a reasonable history of organization, and apply for the reduced rate in advance.

"Establishment of the new rate is in direct response to requests we've received for a reduced lift rate from Idaho ski clubs and fraternal organizations in Twin Falls, Idaho Falls and Boise," said Wally Huffman, general manager of the Sun Valley Co.

The pass is not restricted to bona fide Idaho organizations. Any group, in or outside the state complying with the requirements of the new pass, may apply for the discounted rate.

Those who wish to apply may contact Don Anderson, Sun Valley sports director, or Carol Hodges, winter sales director, (208) 622-4111.

Jr. High football?

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone School Board is considering reviving its junior high school football program.

School District Superintendent Ken Crothers said Shoshone High School football coach Vince Howard approached the board at its meeting this week and offered to coach the team. The board took the offer under advisement.

The district still has the necessary equipment. Crothers said, which has been kept since the program was dropped several years ago.

Crothers said the only cost involved for a yearly schedule that used to average four or five games would be transportation and coaching. If practice is conducted as a class during school hours, then the coaching expenses could be lowered, too, he added.

He said Howard was simply interested in improving the high school team by familiarizing the youngsters with basic skills before they began competing at the high school level.

Elk on the move

KETCHUM — Due to the recent heavy snowfall, a herd of about 30 elk are moving into the Frye Lake area several miles west of Ketchum in Warm Springs Canyon.

Idaho Fish and Game Department Officer Lee Frost said the animals will probably travel to the creek bottom to feed on willows and that residents should keep an eye on their dogs.

"We're asking them to keep their dogs on a leash or penned up, especially in the early morning and night time hours, in order to prevent any problems we might have with dogs chasing elk," Frost said.

Last winter, when the herd entered the city limits, the animals were weakened by dogs chasing them through deep snow.

Fish and game had planned this year to transport 30 to 40 of the elk to a big game management unit near Anderson Ranch Reservoir, where they could have natural winter feed away from urbanization.

That plan is now on hold.

"It's late into the year, and there's a possibility we may hold off until we get a better snow year so we can do it earlier in the snow season. Right now we're probably looking at feeding them if they do come down lower into the canyon. Unless we can get the whole group of elk that are in that area down at one time, we probably won't attempt to trap this year unless their conditions get very severe and force all of the animals down into the area of the trap," Frost said.

Urban sprawl along the floor of Warm Springs Canyon has eaten up what was once a winter feeding ground for the wild animals. Feeding the elk last winter cost the Fish and Game Department more than $40 per head.

Late March Sun Valley to host 1,300 black skiers

SUN VALLEY — About 1,300 black skiers will converge on Sun Valley March 24-31 for this year's Black Summit meeting.

Black Summit is sponsored by the National Brotherhood of Skiers, Inc., which is the governing body of 20 black ski clubs located in major urban areas around the country.

It will be the second such session the group has held at Sun Valley. The last time the group was here was in 1977.

"We're anxious to return to Sun Valley," Lester J. Mornay, Los Angeles, publicity director for the organization, told the Times-News. "We've found it to be one of the few resorts that can provide the facilities for a group our size."

Since 1973, the organization has experienced rapid growth and now has about 3,000 black skiers in all parts of the U.S., said Mornay.

Primary goal of the NBS is to develop minority skiers, primarily black, so that they may compete for positions on the U.S. Ski Team.

"Some time in the near future it is hoped that black youth seeking enrollment in colleges and universities offering ski programs will be financially supported by the NBS," he said. "The organization also plans to support young black skiers so they might excel within the USSA junior racing program."

In addition to ski racing, mountain clinics and night entertainment are planned.

Duke gets nod over Louisville in Sunday game

MIAMI — Louisville and Duke, two teams experiencing a bit less than had been expected of them before the basketball season began, hook up in a battle of Top 10 powers in a national TV game tomorrow. Though the nearby locale of Charlotte offers somewhat of a home-court advantage for the Blue Devils, this game will be closer than many expect.

The Denny Crum-coached visitors depend on the scoring and leadership ability furnished by All-American star, Darrell Griffith, a 53 percent shooter who averages better than 20 points a game. The original Duke of Dunk is ably supported by Scooter McCray, the 6-8 freshman center who has been busy establishing a reputation as a devastatingly effective shot-blocker.

Bill Foster's Blue Devils counter the Cardinals' major areas of strength with proven performers like Jim Spanarkis, Mike Gminski and Eugene Banks. Although Louisville has the edge in quickness, plus the ability to press on defense, Duke's better front-line talent rates them the edge, Duke by 5.

IN THE NFL, A decision by the Cleveland Browns to acquire the astute evaluating talent of Tom Prothro is rated a coup. Despite a weak record as a coach, Prothro is given most of the credit for procuring the talent behind the success of the Los Angeles Rams. And one thing he did for the San Diego Chargers — he utilized the draft better than at any time since the franchise came into existence.

This is a major move for the Browns, a team that has had more than its share of poor drafts. Prothro's cap status will not upset Sam Rutigliano, not with the ink having dried on his five-year contract renewal. In fact, the Browns could be putting together the kind of front-office structure that has been at the heart of the success of the Steelers and Cowboys.

Rutigliano is a fine coach with a proven reputation for being able to get most players to perform up to and beyond expectations — of projected talent. Peter Hadzazy, the team's general manager, is expert in contractual matters and the ins and outs of the waiver system. Prothro's signing will upgrade the team's major weakness off the field.

TODAY'S COLLEGE GAMES: Louisville 9 over Memphis-Virginia 1 over North Carolina, Syracuse 8 over St. John's (N.Y.), Michigan State 10 over Michigan, Ohio

IN THE NBA: Saturday — New York 2 over Cleveland, Phoenix 9 over New Orleans, Sunday — Indiana 2 over Los Angeles, Seattle 3 over Washington, Portland 7 over Boston, San Diego 1 over Atlanta, Philadelphia 1 over Milwaukee, New Jersey 9 over Houston, Denver 9 over New Orleans, San Antonio 1 over Detroit, Kansas City 7 over Chicago.

Briefly in sports

Alcott leads LPGA

MIAMI (UPI) — Amy Alcott finished with two birdies for her second straight round of 70 Friday to take a two-shot lead at the halfway point of the 1979 LPGA tour's opening event.

A stroke back in the $100,000, 72-hole tournament was veteran Sandra Post, who shot a 71 Friday for 142 total. First round leader Hollis Stacy shot a two-over par 74, but stayed within reach in third place at 143. Nancy Lopez, the rookie sensation last year, was at 72-148.

Alcott credited her four-under-par 140 total on the par-72 Country Club Aventura South Course to consistency.

"My round today was similar to yesterday — very consistent," Alcott said Friday. "I feel like I played aggressively, which you have to do on this course. The toughest part of my game is short irons and that certainly didn't let me down today."

She birdied her second and third holes with eight- and six-foot putts but gave both strokes back to par by three-putting for bogey five on her seventh hole and missing the green by "mis-clubbing" on the next hole.

She played steady, par golf on the next eight holes, then made her move on the final two, scoring birdie threes with putts of five and eight feet.

Kuhn approves Yank purchase

NEW YORK (UPI) — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn approved the New York Yankees' purchase of two minor league players from the Oakland A's for $500,000 Friday after a meeting with the owners of the two clubs.

Kuhn's approval meant that the Yankees have obtained catcher Bruce Robinson for $400,000 and pitcher Gregory Cochrane for another $100,000. The decision came after a meeting with Yankee principal owner George Steinbrenner and Charlie Finley, owner of the A's.

Kuhn said he approved the deal for three reasons:

- "This deal is not tied to a future transaction."
- "Neither club anticipates a large cash sale in the immediate future."
- "The deal did not herald an attempt by Finley to liquidate the club."

Kuhn had held up the deal because of his concern about competitive balance and the big sums of money involved in many recent deals.

Three years ago, Finley attempted to sell pitcher Vida Blue to the Yankees for $1.5 million and outfielder Joe Rudi and relief pitcher Raulo Eleras to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million, but Kuhn set aside both deals. Finley challenged the commissioner's decision in court and lost — then blasted Kuhn publicly.

Kuhn has established a $400,000 limit on sales of players in an effort to maintain what he calls the "competitive balance" of baseball.

Robinson broke into organized baseball with Modesto in 1975 and moved for Chattanooga in 1976 and the first half of 1977 before being moved up to the A's San Jose club. With Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League last year he batted .299 and had 73 RBI and 10 home runs.

Cochrane had a 10-13 record with Jersey City last season with a 3.47 ERA.

Evans flawless in victory

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Two-time modified champion Richie Evans of Rome, N.Y., turning in a flawless ride in his Camaro, set a record of 172.373 miles an hour for his class at the Daytona International Speedway Friday while beating Neil Bonnett by 32 seconds in the sixth annual NASCAR 200-mile race.

Bonnett, also driving a Camaro, was the only other driver on the same lap as Evans in the 80-lap race.

Darrell Waltrip, last year's winner, finished third in another Camaro, a top back. Waltrip, who won a 125-mile qualifying race Thursday for Sunday's Daytona 500, had been trying for his second consecutive triple after winning three races during last year's speedweek. Waltrip also defends his title in today's 300-mile Sportsman's race.

Horner to arbitration

ATLANTA (UPI) — Baseball agent Bucky Woy made a new proposal to speed up arbitration of the contract dispute involving Atlanta Braves third baseman Bob Horner but was turned down by Braves owner Ted Turner, it was reported Friday.

The three-month-old conflict is scheduled to go to baseball's official arbitrator along with other grievances. It could leave Horner in limbo until after the 1979 season is well under way.

Football playing grandfather?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Tony Messina, a 44-year-old grandfather and Coast Guard veteran, hopes to make the Florida State University varsity football team and coaches admit to his age.

"The hardest part of football is practice. The easiest part is the game," Messina says. "But the adrenaline gets to pumping and you're in shape — and you can play."

Messina, who lives in nearby Woodville, has been working out with other walk-ons, or non-scholarship football hopefuls, for the last two weeks. He has been conditioning himself on his own since last September.

Defensive line coach George Henshaw says the walk-ons are undergoing conditioning drills now so if they came out for spring practice, they can compete and not get hurt.

Messina, Henshaw says, is serious about trying out for the Seminoles football team.

"Oh yeah. He wants to play. He's also in really excellent physical condition. I'm not talking about good condition for a 44-year-old man. I'm talking about good condition, period. Whether he has the strength, the quickness, the reflexes to play is something we'll have to see."

For the record

Olympic champion Heini Hemmi of Switzerland says he will retire at the end of the current season. Champ Summers, minor league baseball's player of the year last season, signed a one-year contract with the Cincinnati Reds. The Minnesota Twins have signed Dan Graham, a third baseman, first baseman, Jim McCafferty, 83, athletic director at Xavier University since 1962, agreed to a university request that he step aside as athletic director and become the school's assistant vice president of student development. The California Angels have extended the contract of outfielder Dan Ford, acquired in a December trade with Minnesota, through the 1983 season. The Chicago Bears have signed safety Gary Fencik, their leading tackler for the past two seasons, to a series of one-year contracts.

A victory smile

Marilyn Dubbs, of the Kearney State Track Club, Nebraska, shows her happiness after her record in the open women's competition of the 14th annual NAAI Track and Field Championships.

Lietzke up by three

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Bruce Lietzke made six birdies Friday for a two-round total of 14 and a three-stroke lead halfway through the $250,000 Tucson Open.

Lietzke, 27, opened the tournament with a 63 and came back with a 66 for a 36-hole, 111-under-par 129.

Closest to him were Mike Brannan and Jim Thorpe, 132. Brannan shot 68 and Thorpe, in the last threesome off the tee, had a 65 as the cut was set at even-par 140.

Another shot back at 133 were Marty Fieckman and Tom Watson.

Lee Trevino was at 135 after shooting 68 while Dizzy Zoeller, winner of the San Diego Open and second last week in the Hawaiian Open, was at 138.

Hubert Green, who beat Zoeller by three strokes in Hawaii, shot a 73 for a 147. He failed to make the cut. Also failing to make the cut was Miller Barber at 143 and Arnold Palmer at 147.

Lietzke was among the first off the tee, and the early starters had an advantage over those who went off in the afternoon. It was relatively calm in the morning, but a strong breeze came up in the afternoon when most of the higher scores were shot. One not affected by the wind was Brannan, who failed to make the cut in three previous tournaments this year.

Lietzke collected checks in four of the five tournaments played this year but did not score as well as he played. He called his play Friday on the short Randolph Park Municipal Course "solid."

"I gave away some shots," Lietzke said, "but I made a couple which were on the lucky side. Thursday was kind of a breeze. Today I missed a few greens, and I had to make a lot of short putts for pars."

Lietzke's longest birdie putt Friday was an 18-footer on the 12th. His other five birdie putts were from eight feet or less. That was due to his ability to get off half a dozen drives of more than 300 yards, then pitch up close for short putts on a course with only one par-5 hole.

Stabler's friend denies any connection

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — A friend of Oakland quarterback Kenny Stabler said he asked a waitress to buy him a magnetic key case the day a California sports writer was arrested on trumped up drug charges, but he said he still has the case and did not plant it under the reporter's car.

Ronald Watson said in an interview in Friday's Mobile Press Register he believed Sacramento Bee reporter Bob Padecky set himself for an arrest in Gulf Shores to gain publicity.

Attorney General Charles Graddick had said the waitress told his investigators she bought a key case for Watson while Padecky tried to interview Stabler, who admits feuding with Padecky but denies having anything to do with the incident.

Graddick said the key case was similar to the one later found filled with cocaine on Padecky's car.

Watson said the waitress also told Graddick that the reason Watson got the key case was because he had been kidded for locking his keys in his car several times.

Padecky was arrested in Gulf Shores last month while trying to interview Stabler, who has a home in the coastal town. He said police freed him after he convinced them he had been framed.

"Five or six weeks ago, whoever heard of Bob Padecky?" said Watson. "He's a joke. He could make big headlines and I say he put the cocaine there himself."

Vegas wins

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The University of Nevada at Las Vegas beat Brigham Young University in both games of a baseball doubleheader Friday, 12-1 and 7-6.

The wins extended the Rebels' season record to 5-0. They were the first games of the season for the Cougars.

South played his ace of hearts on East's king and studied the hand carefully. There were all sorts of finesses possible and South would have to lose all the look in order to fall short of his four-spade contract. South, a natural pessimist, asked himself what would happen if all finesses were wrong and finally came up with a line of play that required no finesses at all.

At trick two, he led back his jack of hearts.

West won and led a diamond, but South just hopped up with dummy's ace. Then he led a third heart from dummy. East discarded and South won.

Next came a club to dummy's ace and the ruff of another heart to set up dummy's fifth heart as a winner.

Now South cashed his ace of trumps and led a third club. If West ruffed high, South would discard the queen of diamonds from dummy so West just chucked a diamond.

South ruffed and led dummy's last heart in order to discard his last diamond. He still lost two trump tricks and the heart loser, but he had avoided any diamond losers.

IN EUROPE WHERE THEY REALLY KNOW EUROPEAN CARS PEUGEOT OUTSELLS VOLVO THREE TO ONE.

Over the years, innovation has been an obsession with Peugeot. Peugeot invented the world's first station wagon in 1955... Invented the first compact car in 1911. And in 1928, Peugeot produced their first diesel engine. Fifty years ahead of its time.

Today, the end result of the 80 years of technical achievement and innovation may be appreciated in a truly unique car: The Peugeot Diesel 504.

For while it provides a standard of luxury no economy car can match, the Peugeot affords the economy no conventional luxury car can equal.

Maybe that's why in Europe where they know European luxury cars best, Peugeot outsells BMW and Volvo combined.

Because you don't become the world's second oldest automaker, by making second-rate cars.

Q. "Where's the largest population of young single men in this country?"
 A. In the Boston area, I'm told. Students mostly. Harvard, M.I.T. So on. But that may not be the best hunting ground for a single girl in search of matrimonial mate, please note. About 87 out of every 1,000 girls in the nation overall get married each year. In Alaska, however, about 204 out of every 1,000 girls wed annually. It's not enough to look for the largest population of young single men. What's needed is the largest population of young single men who are ready, willing and able.

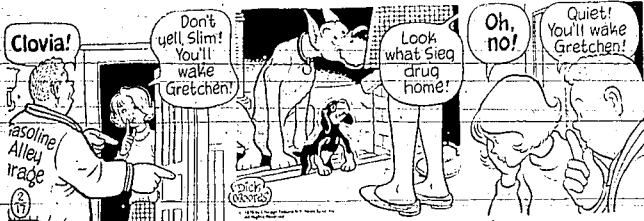

Q. "What was the deadliest riot that ever happened in this country?"
 A. The anti-drug riot in New York City in 1863. Went on for four days. About 1,200 were killed.

Q. "Do all the states' governors have veto power?"
 A. All but North Carolina's. Why that august official is so deprived I do not know.

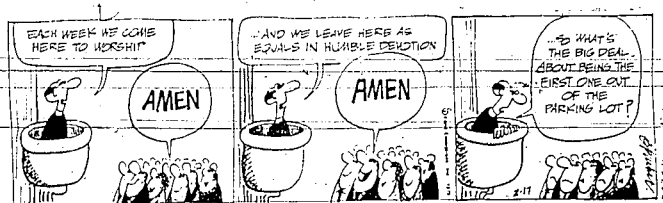

Q. "I've heard associates of that columnist James J. Kilpatrick refer to him on TV as Jack. Why?"
 A. His middle name is Jackson.
