

Treaty time nears

By United Press International
Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin flew to the United States Friday to conclude 16 months of negotiations and open a new era of peace with Egypt at a treaty signing Monday on the North Lawn of the White House.

Egypt's President Anwar Sadat made final arrangements before departing today for Washington, where he, Begin and President Carter plan to affix their signatures to a pact that will officially end 31 years of war between the two Middle East nations.

Just as Begin left London after a brief stopover and talks with Prime Minister James Callaghan, a bomb exploded in the heart of Jerusalem, injuring more than a dozen people.

The Palestine Liberation Organization quickly claimed responsibility for the blast and hinted there may be more violence. A PLO spokesman in Beirut said, "We take responsibility for it. It is within the framework of the escalation of our armed resistance to the Zionist occupation of our homeland."

The explosion was an embarrassment to the Israeli government, which Thursday ordered troops along the eastern front on full alert to prevent terrorist activities from marring the celebration.

Security was heightened in Egypt too, where authorities hoped to head off similar terrorism by hardline Arab groups like the PLO that have promised to exact vengeance on Egypt for signing a separate peace.

Meanwhile, in Washington, it was announced that the United States and Israel failed to agree on a key document, but officials expressed confidence negotiators can tie up the loose ends of the peace treaty in time for next Monday's signing.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance met for more than three hours, but fell short of agreement on the language of a U.S. commitment to take action in case the treaty is violated.

"We have made additional progress, but we are not there yet," Dayan said at the end of the negotiating session at the State Department.

He said he would return today for more talks with Vance.

"I think we agree on the basics, it is only the precise language and the definitions," Dayan said.

Earlier Friday, Sadat created some diplomatic ripples with Spain by cancelling a stopover in Madrid scheduled for tonight.

A spokesman for the Spanish Foreign Ministry said Sadat canceled the visit "due to security reasons but we expect a fuller explanation. It is not usual to suggest a visit one day and cancel it two days later in this way."

Food Purchased At Groceries Up 1.8% Meat Up 4.9%

Alfred Kahn, the president's top inflation fighter, pleads for patience even though he doesn't like what he sees in the statistics

Has Carter's inflation fight failed?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soaring food, housing and energy costs shot consumer prices upward 1.2 percent in February, the sharpest rise in 4 1/2 years, the government reported Friday.

The February figure works out to a staggering 15.4 percent compounded on an annual rate. The final 1978 inflation rate was 9 percent.

The grim news prompted the administration to renew its plea for patience, saying President Carter's anti-inflation program needs more time to be effective.

But organized labor and the Republican Party said Carter's inflation-fighting effort had failed.

"We now officially have double-digit inflation in America, and the administration's program can't stop it," said AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Republican Party Chairman Bill Brock said the February consumer price performance represented "the best and most outrageous low in a two-year pummeling of the family pocketbook. Clearly President Carter's efforts to fight inflation have failed miserably."

The 1.2 percent increase was considerably above January's 0.9 percent rise and dwarfed identical 0.6 percent advances recorded during December and November.

It was the strongest dose of inflation since a 1.3 percent increase in August 1974, and that month was the worst since 1967.

Alfred Kahn, the administration's chief inflation monitor, acknowledged the price performance so far in 1979 was "bad."

But, Kahn said, he has not lost "confidence" that "we will see signs of abatement in the rising prices soon, though nobody can promise it will happen next month."

The anti-inflation program "needs three or four more months, at least, for an opportunity to show what it can do," Kahn said.

"We think there is every reason to believe that the increase in food prices that has occurred in the last several months will taper off — and substantially."

Second time in three years

Gov. Evans vetoes consolidation bill

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — A bill which would have given the attorney general the right to hire and fire almost every attorney employed by the state of Idaho — including attorneys working for the governor — was vetoed Friday by Gov. John Evans.

This was the second time in three years that a bill for legal consolidation of Idaho's attorneys has been endorsed by a Republican attorney general, passed by a Republican controlled Legislature, and vetoed by a Democratic governor.

Friday afternoon, on a strict party line vote, the Senate failed, 19-16, to override Evans' veto. A two-thirds majority, 24 votes, was needed to override.

Senate Bill 1116, which passed both houses on party line votes, was sharply criticized by Evans in a three-page veto message.

A lawyer working for state government "would answer not only to his agency head, but also to the attorney general," Evans said. "In the event of differing instructions from such, an attorney would be placed in the untenable position of choosing loyalties, a burden that no employee should be required to bear."

The measure would also force "agency directors to accept whatever legal services the attorney general is disposed to provide, with the final personnel decision being made not by the director, but by the attorney general," Evans said. "A director who disagrees with the selection of his attorney would be forced to accept the attorney general's choice or left without legal counsel, both of which I find unacceptable."

In a response to the veto message, prepared by Republican Attorney General David Leroy before the veto had occurred, Leroy said the veto "demonstrates a lack of understanding about the need for and benefits from SB 1116. We can no longer operate with the state legal services under a patchwork system which is inefficient and expensive for the taxpayers."

Supporters of SB 1116 had insisted the measure would reduce the costs of providing legal advice to the state. Leroy said the essence of the governor's objection seems to be a concern about political interference with policy decisions in the administration through the agencies. He said there are two basic faults to that argument:

"The Idaho Constitution sets up a structure which would encourage a positive inter-relationship between the governor and the attorney general and not the independence of the governor in legal matters."

"The lawyer's role is to supply independent, professional judgment and legal advice and not make or frustrate policy decisions which should be made solely by administrators."

Only two senators debated the veto Friday.

Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, urged an override, saying that the attorney general was the constitutional legal officer of the state and should have the control.

Wendy Fleming spells "pretty" in the first-grade competition while April Theberge and Karen Hulth await their turn

Exciting end to spellathon

By BEN MCKELWAY
Times-News writer

WENDELL — The Wendell Elementary School multi-purpose room buzzed as an old-fashioned spelling bee brought the school's month-long "Spellathon" to an exciting climax.

Finalists from grades one through eight gave their all before an audience of proud but anxious parents. Brothers and sisters filled out the crowd.

Each grade had its own bee, with the difficulty increasing at every level. The contests, held simultaneously on Thursday night, filled the room, parents clustering around each match.

Little legs swung quickly on chair edges. Knuckles whitened.

Fourth grader John Gibson wore his Cub Scout shirt because he had a pack meeting afterwards. In his buttonhole was a white carnation from his teacher. "I sure am," was his reply when asked if he was nervous.

Given the word "villain," John took his full 30 seconds to spell it carefully and correctly. But he was eliminated because the word ended with "ian" on the judge's list. He sat down, according to the rules, accepting defeat graciously.

The first place trophies, silver models of Aladdin's lamp, were already handed out when the error was discovered. John was at his scout meeting.

In the eighth grade match, Lalonde Klimes went first in her group, spelling "congeniality." She was declared the winner when her competitors all failed to spell "deteriorate."

In the first grade contest, parental emotions heated up over a technicality in the rules. Grant Olsen, a kindergarten allowed to compete with the first graders, jumped the gun and was accused of spelling "night" before repeating the word. The high school student in charge disqualified him, which made Wendy Fleming the winner with "glass" as her victory word.

A hubbub ensued, but Spellathon coordinator Shirley Cobble smoothed things over with a rematch.

Grant won the second round with "father," and dual winners were declared. His arm was around Wendy at the awards ceremony later.

But the real action was in the sixth grade circle. As the other seven contestants eliminated themselves one by one, Dawn Pope and Nikki Rutter were left standing. Both girls are excellent spellers, but each feared the next word would be the one she wasn't quite sure of.

Saturday briefing

Is Carter undermining Jerry Brown's campaign?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., saying he is "moving closer" to a decision on running for president, Friday suggested President Carter is plotting to torpedo his unannounced campaign.

Asked if there was a "soft kind of conspiracy between the feds and Carter to embarrass" the governor in Soho's decision to abandon plans for an oil pipeline from California to Texas, Brown replied: "I wouldn't discount that. Obviously there are a number of activities coming out of the White House, whether it be their previously secret committee to defeat the balanced budget..."

Brown, who campaigned in the East for a constitutional amendment to require balanced federal spending, told reporters he is "moving closer" to a decision on running for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

The Democratic governor will go to Washington next week to testify before a Senate energy committee probing Soho's contention that bureaucratic red tape forced abandonment of the proposed $1 billion tanker terminal and pipeline to carry Alaskan oil from Long Beach to Texas.

Garwood call

GREENSBURG, Ind. (UPI) — A bad connection and the fear the telephone may be tapped took much of the joy out of Pfc. Robert Garwood's first conversation with his father since disappearing in Vietnam 13 1/2 years ago.

"He said practically nothing — like he was scared to talk," Jack Garwood said Friday, after speaking to his son over a military line Thursday night. "He was afraid the line was bugged."

Deaf program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government and three major television networks will cooperate to make captioned programming widely available by early 1980 to the estimated 14 million hearing-impaired Americans, it was announced Friday.

In announcing the technological breakthrough, HEW Secretary Joseph Califano said deaf people and those with lesser hearing impairments "have" been largely shut out from our society's most pervasive and influential communications force.

Terrorists talk

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — A left-wing terrorist group claimed responsibility Friday for the murder of Israel's honorary consul and warned that two British bankers and a Japanese businessman also held captive were about to die.

The terrorists said the "execution deadline" set against the lives of their other three captives was extended after it expired last Wednesday but warned that it would not be extended again.

March through Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Thousands of workers protesting layoffs marched through Paris Friday but the demonstration ended in a rampage by anarchists who looted shops and smashed windows in the worst violence since the 1968 student uprising.

Riot police fired tear gas to disperse a crowd youths who broke into the back door of the famous Cafe de La Paix on the Place de L'Opera.

Pot trips in

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — As much as eight tons of marijuana floated ashore on three islands off the Mississippi Coast and was recovered Friday by Coast Guard and Customs Service personnel.

"We don't know where it came from," said Coast Guard spokesman Robert Brown. "We have no reports of vessels sinking in that area. It's on the south side of the islands, the open sea side of the islands. With the strong winds we have we assume it came from the ocean side, but we're not sure."

Too many trips

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The deputy administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency's made 11 weekend trips to government expense to her hometown to visit her family, the chairman of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee charged Friday.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said EPA Deputy Administrator Barbara Blum made the trips over an 15-month period between March 3, 1977, and June 22, 1978.

Exiles sentenced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a judgment that provoked defiant screaming in the court, a federal judge Friday sentenced two Cuban exiles to life in prison for the "monstrous and cold blooded" murder of Chilean diplomat Orlando Letelier.

Guillermo Novo and Alvin Ross Diaz yelled "Viva Cuba Libre!" — Long Live Free Cuba — as they were led away from the court room. Their anti-Castro supporters responded with screams and shouts.

Amy on the sill

When an 11-year-old girl wants to read a book on a nice spring day, why shouldn't she sit in the window? Does it matter if the girl is the president's daughter and that the window is a White House window? Apparently not, at least, to Amy Carter. Spring fever has hit thousands of people throughout Washington recently, temperatures soaring to the mid-60s.

Lawrence Singleton guilty in Mary Vincent rape case

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Merchant Seaman Lawrence Singleton, accused of kidnaping and raping a 15-year-old girl and then hacking off her arms with an ax, was found guilty of all seven counts Friday.

Mary Bell Vincent, who survived the attack and testified against the defendant, sat emotionless in the front row of the courtroom. Her mother sobbed quietly beside her, holding the hook of her mother's artificial hand.

During the jury's deliberations Miss Vincent sat outside the courtroom cheerfully playing backgammon with a family friend.

"The more I think about it, the more I get upset and nervous and paranoid and I get more bad dreams," the Las Vegas, Nev., teen-ager said after the verdict.

Singleton, 51, did not make any comments after the nine-man, three-woman jury convicted him. He will be sentenced April 20 and faces a maximum term of 14.4 years in prison.

Miss Vincent said she would spend next week on vacation, "somewhere where it's peaceful and quiet."

Singleton, who has homes in San Pablo, Calif., and Sparks, Nev., was convicted on one count each of attempted murder in the first degree, kidnaping, rape, sodomy and mayhem and two counts of forced oral copulation.

Stanislaus County District Attorney Donald Stahl, who prosecuted Singleton, said he felt the verdict was "clean, absolutely proper" but complained of the maximum sentence under California law.

"I have only one regret," he said, "and that regret is the law does not provide stiff enough penalties for something like this. I think the Legislature ought to think twice when they start putting the number of years on a crime like mayhem as two, three or four, or three, four or five years. It ought to be much, much more."

Tomorrow

Among the stories in tomorrow's Times-News:

• A lamb struggles, in its birth and the moments after, against death from disease, cold, crushing or starvation. At the Guerry ranch near Castleford, where thousands of lambs are born during each week of lambing, it's impossible to save each one, but it's the rule to try. The short, frantic lambing season lasts only six weeks but produces 6,000 lambs from 5,000 ewes. At that level of production, lambing transforms the evenly paced routine of a sheep ranch into perpetual day-and-night labor.

Navy man to head GSA

ASHINGTON (UPI) — An expert in Defense Department procurement has been selected by President Carter to replace Jay Solomon as administrator of the scandal-ridden General Services Administration, it was reported Friday.

The Washington Post said Carter's choice to succeed Solomon is Navy Rear Admiral Rowland G. Freeman, commandant of the Defense Systems Management College at Fort Belvoir, Va., for more than a year. Freeman is in charge of teaching other military experts how to buy goods and services for the government in the most efficient manner.

Freeman's nomination must be confirmed by the Senate before he can succeed Solomon, The Post said.

Today's weather

Showers expected by Sunday

Twin Falls, Gooding-Jerome area, Burley-Rupert district.

Mostly fair, continued mild through tonight. High temperatures 55 to 65 degrees today and in the middle 50s Sunday. Overnight lows 25 to 35 degrees.

Camas Prairie, Halley, lower Wood River valley.

Mostly fair through tonight, becoming partly cloudy on Sunday with widely scattered showers. High temperatures in the 40s both days. Overnight lows mostly in the teens.

Synopsis: Enjoyable early spring weather will prevail today but Sunday could see a trend toward cooler temperatures and scattered showers over Idaho and the Magic Valley.

A weak weather system is expected to move on to the northwest Pacific coast this afternoon, bringing clouds to northern Idaho late today and to the rest of the state on Sunday.

There will be a slight chance of a few showers over the mountains Sunday — as this system moves eastward. High temperatures today and Sunday are expected to be in the middle 50s to the middle 60s except in the southeast where readings will be about 10 degrees cooler. Overnight lows will be in the 20s to the middle 30s.

The extended forecast for Monday through Wednesday for southern Idaho calls for cooler temperatures with a chance of showers Monday but becoming dry by midweek. Highs will be in the 40s with lows in the 20s.

High pressure centered over north central Idaho kept skies fair over most of the state on Friday. MJA aftermoon temperatures ranged from 64 at Lewiston to 45 at Idaho Falls. Low readings Saturday morning included 11 degrees at Dixie, 14 at Fairfield and 17 at Soda Springs and Yellow Pine.

The field preparation and planning outlook for the Magic Valley through Wednesday calls for a chance of showers early in the week and colder with subnormal temperatures.

The spraying and dusting forecast calls for light winds becoming westerly and with velocity more than 12 miles an hour in the afternoon.

Little change in soil temperature is expected.

Increasing clouds with warmer days are forecast for Utah on the weekend. Nevada should have fair nights and mostly sunny days except for scattered afternoon showers. Temperatures will be in the 60s in both states in the daytime but dip to near freezing or below at night.

Curran's powers increased

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a reversal likely to quell a Republican uproar, Attorney General Griffin Bell is giving special counsel Paul Curran the full powers of a Watergate-style prosecutor for his investigation of the Carter peanut business.

Bell insisted he was not "knuckling under" to pressure from Republican leaders, who said there would be a "double standard of justice" if the probe was not as independent as the Watergate investigation.

"I don't find any analogy between this and Watergate," Bell said Friday at a news conference where he announced his sudden decision to go along with Republican demands.

In issuing a formal charter defining Curran's powers, the attorney general granted the New York lawyer sole authority to seek and obtain indictments in the case.

"I cannot imagine anyone having more power than Mr. Curran has," Bell declared, noting his authority is virtually the same as that granted Watergate prosecutors Archibald Cox and Leon Jaworski.

Bell had been under attack all week for his appointment of a "special counsel" who required approval from the Justice Department to prosecute.

"I decided it didn't want it (the restriction) in there," Bell said. "It was just a red herring. It was something for people to write about, talk about, argue on the Senate floor about. It didn't amount to nothing. So I just decided to take it out."

Reaction from Capitol Hill was favorable.

Rep. Robert McClary, R-Ill., ranking GOP member of the House Judiciary Committee, said in a statement he was "pleased" with Bell's decision.

Government claims disputed

SANANDAJ, Iran (UPI) — Left-wing Fedayeen guerrillas, claiming control of this western Iranian city, disputed government claims Friday that rebellious Kurdish tribesmen had agreed to end their siege of an army base until the army releases 186 Kurdish prisoners.

The Marxist Fedayeen troops and their Fedayeen Allies had agreed to withdraw from the siege in exchange for assurances of greater authority for Kurdish leaders. The broadcast said Iranian troops had actually released the prisoners captured during a four-day battle that killed more than 500 persons.

UPI photographers Jamshid Imani-Rad and Akbar Shirzad Friday walked through the city, 318 miles west of Tehran, and saw hundreds of Kurds in baggy trousers and Soviet-made Kalashnikov rifles slung casually over their shoulders still roaming the streets.

Kurdish gunmen relax during shaky ceasefire

Gunmen also held to their positions around the army base, although no shots were fired since sporadic shooting Thursday night, a later report said.

The news conference was addressed by a Fedayeen guerrilla, who introduced himself as "Khosrow" and told reporters he was not allowed to give his name.

He claimed the guerrillas had recorded tapes of a conversation between chief of army general staff Gen. Avval Qarani and Interior Minister Ahmad Sadr Haj Syed Javadi which, he said, pointed to a hardline stand by the army.

Vietnamese accuse Chinese of trying to grab provinces

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnam accused the "arrogant" Chinese Friday of trying to annex several Vietnamese border provinces — a charge that could disrupt Sino-Vietnamese peace talks even before they started next week. Hanoi also accused China of trying to start a nuclear war between the United States and the Soviet Union in hopes their mutual destruction would enable Chinese leaders to establish a Cambodian-style government. And in an announcement emphasizing Vietnam's close ties with the Soviet Union it said a "large" contingent of Soviet civilian volunteers had arrived in Vietnam to unload cargo in the port of Haiphong where diplomats said the unloading of ships was running six months behind schedule.

Hanoi and Peking have agreed in principle to open peace talks in Hanoi next week to resolve the dispute that began Feb. 17. But the chances for the talks appeared to be fading daily in the round of charges each country had made against the other.

Tanzanians capture another key town

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — A two-pronged Tanzanian invasion force captured a third key town in southern Uganda and drove to within 35 miles of Kampala despite stiff resistance from President Idi Amin's army, diplomatic sources said Friday.

The invaders disregarded a call from Yugoslavia's President Tito to end military action and negotiate a settlement with the Ugandan dictator.

In Dar es Salaam, a spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization denied any Palestinians are fighting for Amin in Uganda. Salam el-Herfi, special envoy of PLO chairman Yasser Arafat, said the PLO had a "training mission" in Uganda but most of the Palestinian soldiers were withdrawn in 1975 to fight in Lebanon.

Big vote in Britain scheduled

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's embattled minority Labor government agreed Friday to submit next Wednesday to a parliamentary censure vote that was generally expected to topple Prime Minister James Callaghan.

Michael Foot, leader of the House of Commons, announced that the vote will be held at 10 p.m. (2 p.m. MST) Wednesday.

British commentators predicted almost unanimously that the government would be defeated and that Callaghan would have to dissolve parliament and fix a date for a general election that polls have indicated the Conservative opposition party might win.

Conservative leader Margaret Thatcher, eager to win power as Britain's first woman prime minister, called Friday for an immediate general election to choose a new government with a new mandate from the voters and a long lease of life ahead of it.

"I know everyone is saying we are going to have a general election in the near future," Mrs. Thatcher said in a television and radio address to the nation. "I myself cannot say because I am not the one to decide that. But I hope they are right."

Her address was a reply to one by Callaghan Thursday in which he made no mention of a possible election.

"We are in a period of great uncertainty, living in a hand-to-mouth world that is not good for the country or its dignity," Mrs. Thatcher declared.

Earthly critic jabs "Star Wars"

The addition of "Star Wars" to the Times-News comics page disturbed one reader last week because she thought it meant Rick O'Shay had been displaced.

Not so. Rick O'Shay simply didn't arrive in the mail last week and "Star Wars" was substituted on the comics page for one week.

Now, Rick O'Shay has returned and "Star Wars" has moved to the people page (usually page 6).

However, one comic probably will be dropped after the paper compiles results of the comic poll now running.

Another Be Fair coupon this week criticized a story about a Shoshone teacher being put on probation for striking a student.

"... that is nobody's business," the reader said.

On that point, the Times-News disagrees.

A teacher who is disciplined by a school board for striking a student becomes a figure of public interest.

This same reader also accuses the Times-News of making a villain out of the teacher involved.

Again, we respectfully disagree.

The story was short, played off of page one and decidedly understated.

A few more Be Fair participants telephoned queries to the paper in the last few days, queries concerning the non-appearance of the T-N fashion edition on the date advertised in the paper.

As was explained on page one earlier this week, mechanical problems with the machine that inserts special editions in the regular paper forced the mallroom to send out the fashion edition on two separate days rather than all at once.

Basically, the fashion edition was run off a few days ago but the ink on it had not dried properly. This caused the inserting machine to malfunction because the machine could not get onto and let go of the special editions. Instead, it wadded up the specials like so many big spitballs.

Manual operation of the inserting machine at a slow speed eventually got all the specials into regular newspapers. But it took two nights instead of a few hours.

Keep those coupons coming.

Is Carter's plan so catastrophic?

President Carter seems to be getting it from both sides now that he, in the person of HEW Secretary Joseph Califano, has unveiled what is termed as "phase 1" of the national health insurance plan.

He's in a damned-if-you-do; damned-if-you-don't situation, but that has been expected all along. It would be wise now to just keep plugging along with what has been proposed, despite the cries from both sides, and see if in a few years the idea is good enough to require additional funding.

That is not to say that the Carter proposal could not stand some beefing up. It surely could, but the timing is entirely wrong. Even though what Carter has in mind in the overall health picture could save Americans billions of dollars, the initial machinery needed to set up such plans would require an amount that would start competing with the defense budget, and the American public and the Congress are hardly in a spendthrift mentality right now.

President Carter is too much of a political animal to go out on the limb sprouted by his own convictions, especially with a multi-candidate election year coming up and his popularity weaving in and out of a dubious position in the national polls. Because citizens would not sense the full effects of a comprehensive national health insurance until several years after its implementation, Carter does not want to take a chance of being labeled an extravagant leader in the interim, in addition to bearing too much of the inevitable behind-the-back mutterings of "creeping socialized medicine" from all of the capitalistic extremists in the medical and insurance professions. The Carter plan, in a nutshell, calls for health-cost protection for those encountering "catastrophic illness," and would also broaden Medicaid and Medicare coverage.

Among those speaking out against the plan was AFL-CIO President George Meany, who was quoted as saying, "The inherent danger in the administration's approach is that a piecemeal, misdirected first step could undermine enactment of a truly comprehensive national health plan."

That is a valid fear, but it seems Carter's approach shows more of a sense of reality when one looks at the necessity of getting Congress to go along with such a plan. In the present mood of the Congress, it would take a master of political savvy to convince Congress to go along with what, for example, Sen. Edward Kennedy has in mind. Maybe in a year or two, or a dozen, but not now.

What the administration can do in the meantime is (1) start the framework of a comprehensive program and (2) start educating the public and the Congress in the area of comparative health care systems.

Most Americans, and many congressmen, still believe that health care in the U.S. can't be beat. The only trouble with that red, white and blue credo is that it's wrong. By all reliable international measures, the U.S. ranks close to the health care basement in "civilized" industrial western nations. We pay more but get less, and it's time we start believing it despite words to the contrary coming from the obviously biased American Medical Association.

About those business profits

By GEORGE F. WILL
WASHINGTON — Alfred Kahn is the designated hitter against inflation for an administration that has scheduled three minimum wage increases, increased milk-support prices twice, added $59 million to the nation's sugar bill, used an acreage set-aside program to limit grain production, ballooned currency and bank reserves 9 percent in one year, expanded the federal budget 25 percent in two years, run a $50 billion deficit in the fourth year of a recovery, and advertised as "austere" a budget that, under optimistic assumptions, calls for a $30-billion deficit — the first budget that calls for spending more than $1 million a minute.

But recently Kahn addressed some Chicago businessmen this way: "You are in the spot. You have a heavy responsibility to help us bring under control the inflation..." Citing the double-digit figures, he said: "Our not doing very well." Kahn's brass is almost admirable. Almost. "Don't despair, however," he said. "I also have some good news. I refer, of course, to the President's anti-inflation program..." Of course. Aside from "austerity," the program (Kahn detects "widespread agreement about its basic fairness and soundness") involves "voluntary" guidelines, use of the government's procurement power to enforce them, and the "wage insurance" plan. The price guidelines are often unenforceable and the wage guidelines are flexible, depending on whether fringe benefits are counted. Kahn, who says that only big business is complying well, might consider the possibility that only big business has enough lawyers to decipher the program.

The "widespread agreement" about the "fairness and soundness" of the program does not extend to use of the procurement power to punish noncompliance with the guidelines. A government agency says that use would be illegal, and organized labor is seeking a court ruling to that effect. The "wage insurance" program (workers who settle for 7 percent increases would get a tax break if inflation runs above 7 percent) may not emerge from Congress. If it does, and if inflation is 10 percent, it will swell the deficit by at least $15 billion. (The administration estimates a cost of only $2.5 billion, but it dreamily estimates inflation at 7.5 percent.)

Kahn says, "Don't despair." But no less an authority than Hamilton Jordan says corporate profits are "unnecessarily" high and the administration will "take steps" to "deal with" them. The "problem" is that profits rose 9.7 percent in the fourth quarter of 1978, 23 percent in the year.

Aside from Jordan's intuitions about what is "necessary," the administration thinks that high corporate profits will complicate the task of persuading labor to accept a 7 percent ceiling on wage increases. But that ceiling means a real cut in pay, and given that labor settlements did not cause and cannot cure inflation, there is no compelling reason why labor should accept the ceiling.

Besides, the administration should try a little leadership for a change. It should explain to the nation that increased corporate profits are a blessing. Inflation discourages saving. Americans are increasing their debts 50 percent faster than their incomes are increasing. Since 1975, consumer installment debt has risen 49 percent, residential mortgage debt 54 percent. Today the average family spends nearly 25 percent of its after tax income on debt service. And government borrowing claims almost 20 percent of the capital market — at the peak of an economic cycle.

Healthy profits enable corporations to perform society's saving and investing functions at a moment when no one else is inclined to do so, and without pressuring the Federal Reserve to retreat from policies of monetary restraint. But Business Week magazine warns that $42 billion of the $202 billion in profits in 1978 was an "illusion" created by inflation.

Those earnings included Phantom "inventory" profits — equal — to the difference between the inflated selling price of goods and their lower original cost. These "profits" vanished when corporations replenished their stocks at even higher prices. In addition, some of the reported profits resulted from the under appreciation of plant and equipment. Corporations generally depreciate equipment at the obsolete prices they paid for the equipment, rather than at the much higher price that will pay to replace it.

Today's profits, although high, are overstated. They follow low profits slumps. And they come when corporate liquidity is essential to the investment that is the key to rising productivity, and hence to rising standards of living. Yet the administrations consider today's profits a "problem!" Kahn says, "Don't despair." He is wrong. Again.

Northwest senators fight Amtrak's ride

WASHINGTON — The likelihood that a majority of the House or Senate will disapprove revisions of the Amtrak route system is a long-odds bet.

But the big guns of the Northwest delegation are being pressed to take leadership positions in the fight to pass a resolution of disapproval.

The Northwest loses four passenger trains in Transportation Secretary Brock Adams' revision of the Amtrak system. One of those trains is particularly controversial — the Pioneer, which runs the width of Southern Idaho through Eastern Oregon to Portland and up to Seattle.

Northwest leadership on the issue will probably revolve around an axis between Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore. Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., has signed on as co-sponsor of the resolution of Senate disapproval. Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., ranking Democrat of the Senate Commerce Committee, which must first consider the measure, is staying out of the fight unless it reaches the Senate floor.

Thus, Magnuson is aiding the strategy of Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., to keep the disapproval resolution bottled up in the Commerce Committee, of which Cannon is chairman.

Cannon's state of Nevada is the only Western beneficiary of Secretary Adams' route revision, and the only state which picked up a new route in the process.

When Adams delivered his preliminary revision of the Amtrak system one year ago, the Nevada State Journal wrote, "Anyone doubting Sen. Howard Cannon's considerable muscle in Washington might consider Transportation Secretary Brock Adams' failure to slash Amtrak routes through Nevada. He tried, but ultimately bowed to the senator from Nevada."

In the final route system, Adams sweetened the pot for Cannon by adding a second route to serve Nevada, while he eliminated routes in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and New Mexico.

Now — Mexico's Sen. Harrison Schmitt is sponsor of the Senate resolution of disapproval. Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., could play a leadership role in springing the resolution from the Senate Commerce Committee. An aide to Sen. Schmitt said, "Packwood's support is crucial in the committee. He holds it in his hands. Packwood could have influence on Sen. John Warner, R-Va., Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., and Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kansas."

Packwood is caught between an Eastern Oregon constituency that is quite vocal on this issue and his own longing of the need to cut the federal budget deficit. During Senate subcommittee hearings last week, the city attorney of Pendleton, Ore., presented a petition bearing over 13,000 names gathered in 12 states on behalf of the Pioneer. "I'm going to take a real look at the facts," Packwood says. "I need to separate Pioneer ridership figures between its Portland-Seattle segment and its Portland-Salt Lake City segment. I want to re-check Adams' figures. I want to go back to square one. I took Adams' figures at face value. Maybe I shouldn't have."

In the House, three resolutions of disapproval have attracted several co-sponsors, including Al Ullman, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

As congressman from the Eastern Oregon constituency served by the Pioneer, Ullman can hardly avoid the fight. But an Ullman aide points out, "Ullman doesn't do something just so he can say he's done it. There has to be some chance of success."

The frustrating part of observing this legislative process is that Congress has such narrowly-defined options — either wholesale approval or disapproval of a route system. Congress invented the process in the Amtrak Improvement Act of 1978. Witnesses before the Senate Commerce Committee last week raised several probing questions: about the competence of Amtrak's management; the political bias contained in Adams' revised route system, with its dedication to the Northeast at the expense of the West; and the wisdom of dismantling a large part of a passenger rail system in the face of impending gasoline shortage and gas rationing.

But none of those matters is really germane to the narrow choice which Congress has given itself.

In its role as overseer of the national rail corporation, Congress created a very self-limiting mechanism. If either House or Senate disapproves the revised route system, the Transportation Secretary will have 45 days to produce another system for Congress to approve or disapprove. And so forth. Great way to run railroad.

Not a crime to be a parent

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The New Hampshire Legislature can't make it a crime to be a parent, the state Supreme Court ruled Friday.

The court in a 3-2 decision struck down a provision of New Hampshire's 1977 law governing the licensing and use of off highway recreational vehicles. That law said parents or guardians "will be responsible for any damage incurred or for any violations of this chapter by any person under the age of 18."

The justices noted the New Hampshire Criminal Code holds that "a person is not guilty of an offense unless his criminal liability is based on conduct that includes a voluntary act or the voluntary omission to perform an act of which he is physically capable."

The court said the way the law reads, "even if the parent has been as careful as anyone could be, even if the parent has forbidden the conduct, and even if the parent is justifiably unaware of the activities of the child, criminal liability is still imposed."

"The net effect of the statute is to punish parenthood," the court said. It said that makes the law unconstitutional because it violates due process requirements.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Tranposch with Happy in their Connecticut home

Thumbing dummy to try Europe

MONROE CENTER, Conn. (UPI) — Happy II, a hand-carved clone of a wooden dummy that hitchhiked across America, is about to begin a similar odyssey — thumbing his way across eastern Europe for the next couple of years.

The dummy thumbing for rides in Europe is the identical twin of Happy, which hitchhiked across the United States last year. The original Happy will also be in Europe — serving his country in an art exhibit.

Happy, a 4-foot tall, 90-pound Ponderosa pine carving of a jolly hitchhiker with his thumb in the air pleading for a ride, made it alone across country like any other hitchhiker, traveling from the Pollock Pines, Calif., home of his creator, Chip Fyn, to the Fyns family's home in Connecticut.

A sign around his neck indicated his Connecticut destination and carried the address he hoped to reach.

One day before Christmas, Chip's father, Emil Tranposch of Monroe Center, opened his front door to find the dummy on his doorstep. Happy has since made a home for himself in the corner of the Tranposchs' family room.

That was until Happy was drafted into service to the federal government as part of a contemporary art exhibit entitled "America Now" due to open June 7 in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Enter Happy II. When the International Communication Agency in Washington, D.C., which is organizing the exhibit, learned of Happy's adventures, it decided that two dummies were better than one.

So officials asked Fyn to make an identical twin who will travel to Belgrade the same way the original Happy thumbed it to Connecticut.

With the aid of an interpreter at the Yugoslav embassy, Happy II will be outfitted with instructions telling motorists who he is and where he wants to go.

The purpose of the European exhibit is to convey the feeling of creative excitement alive in the United States, said John B. Vorhes, project director for the exhibit, in a telephone interview.

Despite what Europeans hear of us, our creative energies have never been higher," he said.

Justice rebuffs Flynt attorneys

ATLANTA (UPI) — A county judge again rebuffed attorneys for Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt Friday when they tried to show Flynt's sexually explicit publications were generally accepted in Atlanta area.

Herald Price Fahringer, one of the attorneys for Flynt in his trial on charges of distributing obscenity, charged that as a result of the rulings, the crippled Flynt's publications could wind up being judged in a "vacuum."

Barbie's learning to cope

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two-year-old Barbie Steinsholt delighted at the touch of her Raggedy Ann doll, totting it around the house and holding it close when she went to bed.

When an intensive care unit nurse at Ben Taub Hospital placed the doll beside Barbie's cheek this week, the girl said, "No, put Annie in my hands."

But the nurse only pressed "Annie" closer to Barbie's face. Two days later Barbie asked for the doll again, saying she wanted it on her chest and acknowledging she no longer had hands to hold it.

Barbara Lynn Steinsholt, who won't be 3 until August, has been hospitalized since March 15 when she grabbed the wires in an unlocked electric transformer box near her parents' Pasadena, Texas, apartment.

Doctors amputated her left arm into the shoulder and her right arm to within one inch of the shoulder.

"I remember her in the hospital just after surgery looking up at us like, 'help me, what am I doing here?'"

"She doesn't complain," Steinsholt said. "We went in the other night and found her turning the book with her toes. She still manages contact with her doll by reaching with her lips. And, last night I even had her laughing."

Bundy wants dental care

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Theodore Bundy, who has won court battles to get more exercise and better lighting in his jail cell, now claims he can't eat right because his jailers won't allow him to receive dental care.

Bundy hasn't filed a lawsuit yet, but complained in a letter to the director of Legal Services of North Florida that a jail nurse told him the only dental treatment provided inmates is pulling teeth. He's not interested in that.

"The inference is that when my teeth deteriorate to the point that they can be extracted, then I will be given care," Bundy said in the letter, which was also sent to the Tallahassee Democrat Thursday.

Strong influences today

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This day and evening have two powerful influences in effect. The first demands that you do nothing of a drastic or dramatic nature. But secondly, you are under excellent aspects for relying upon your intuitive perceptions and gain in much.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look into some new outlet that will give you added income so that you need not worry so much about bills. Don't argue with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not a good day to confer with associates, since there could be big arguments arising. Be busy at work at hand and accomplish much.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study a new project that will help you to advance. Forget dull duties that yield you nothing. Listen to what one of character has to suggest so you have greater happiness in the future.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep focused on your work and do an efficient and exact job so that your benefits increase. Improve your diet if you want your health to be better.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be more optimistic where your partners are concerned and cement better relations with them, become more successful. Use a more up-to-date system that will improve the quality of your work.

VRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use care in driving and avoid possible accidents. Handle problems at home as wisely as you can. Entertain friends at home, but make arrangements early.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Contact those who can assist you to do a better job at your work, but don't spend money foolishly. Be cheerful and impress them favorably. Make sure you pay bills on time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) If you listen to what home ties have to suggest, you can add much to present abundance now. Your own ideas are top advanced to use now. Make a favorable impression on newcomers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go ahead with ideas you have since your thinking is clear and so is your vision. Go after the information you need at right sources. Don't permit a personal worry to deter your progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Seek out an expert who can assist you where practical affairs mean much to you. Don't listen to a well-meaning friend who has little know-how. Try to control your temper or you get into big trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Pay attention to what an honest friend has to suggest and forget that bigwig who is too busy to help you. Follow rules that apply to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Stop concentrating on troublesome affairs and get busy on the constructive, show you are a conscientious citizen. A higher-up can be helpful to you in the future but avoid a new contact.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a born philosopher and have most enlightened thoughts, so be sure to screen playmates so that your progeny will not get in with the wrong company and upset the fine promise here. This can be a successful life, especially in foreign countries.

What's what

You only worry about what you don't seem to know much about

Odd thing about worry. You only worry about what you don't fully understand. If you have sufficient knowledge about any matter, you don't worry about it. Such is the claim of a scholar who has made an extensive study of the subject. Worry, this savant says, is an indication of ignorance. So if you find yourself worrying about something, he suggests, you'd do well to undertake research on said something. Make phone calls. Go to the library. Send off for literature. Consult with experts. Learn all about it.

Were you aware that there were horses on earth before there was grass? Indeed. But they were little horses. Waa'n't until the coming of grass that they began to grow big.

In 1970, there were 81 beer brewing companies in the United States. Today, there are 44.

Nobody knows exactly why aspirin relieves pain.

DESERT

Q. "Is there any continent that doesn't have a desert?"
A. Only one, Europe.

The more money a man earns on his job, the more he is inclined to get married. The more money a woman earns on her job, the less inclined she is to get married. And that's that.

Q. "Those things that astronauts call 'corn flakes,' what do they do with them?"
A. They eat them for breakfast.

At the time in 1776 that those fine founding fathers signed the Declaration of Independence—repeat Independence—every fifth person in the Colonies was a slave.

BOOKS

Antoine Boulard of Paris liked books. No, not any certain kind of books. Quality, rarity and subject matter didn't interest him. He just liked books. So much so, in fact, that early in the 19th Century he retired from his business at the age of 49, bought five empty houses, and proceeded to fill them with 800,000 books. Incidentally, he didn't read much.

Church news

Church of the Ascension

TWIN FALLS — The Right Reverend Hanford L. King Jr., Bishop of the Diocese of Idaho, will be making his annual visitation to the Episcopal Church of the Ascension this weekend. He will preside at the rite of Confirmation and the Holy Eucharist. The parish will hold its second Annual Homecoming Banquet Saturday evening at the Bishop Rhea Auditorium. The Bishop and Mrs. King, together with the candidates for Confirmation, will be honored. Visiting Episcopians who were confirmed at Ascension, now living as far away as California, are expected to attend. The evening program includes entertainment by Gary and Mary Kirkeby and skits by the Junior E.Y.C. In charge of the banquet arrangements are Dotti Elker and Sherry Anderson.

The Confirmation Class will be presented to Bishop King on Sunday at 10 a.m. by the Rector of the parish, the Rev. Albert E. Allen. He and the Associate Rector, the Rev. C.A. Burley, will assist the Bishop at the Holy Eucharist. A reception will follow the 10 a.m. service.

Ascension Parish will offer two short survey courses as part of its continuing education for adults. Beginning on Tuesday, March 27, Fr. Allen will present an eight-session course on comparative religions, which will include an introduction to man and religion and a look at the five major living religions: Hinduism, Buddhism, Judaism, Christianity and Islam. These classes are scheduled for Tuesday evenings at the Parish Hall, 210 Blue Lakes Blvd. N., from 7:30-9:30 p.m. The public is invited. On the same evening, Fr. C.A. Burley will offer an introductory course on New Testament theology.

Having already been trained by Brother Andrew, he began his ministry of transporting Bibles into the Soviet Union to the underground church in those countries. He returned in 1977 and again in 1978 on a speaking tour, again transporting Bibles.

Both by word and color slides, Eggum will describe his travels, the underground church and the ministry of transporting the Bible. Also featured will be the music of Son Struck, a group of teen-agers from Buhl, who will soon be leaving on a concert tour through North Idaho and Washington.

A free-will offering will be taken to support Eggum's ministry. The public is invited.

churches confront energy crisis

As our stewardship of these resources, we find that we — in this nation, at least — are using far more than we need and we are wasting them," he said.

Miller said that the United States accounts for more than a third of the world's energy use and "as much as 50 percent of this energy is wasted."

He said the nation's "over consumption and waste of energy is a cause of social injustice at home and abroad."

To implement its campaign, the Interfaith Coalition, supported by the Union of Hebrew American Congregations, the Lutheran Council, the Washington Office of the United Presbyterian Church, the Church of the Brethren and Network, an organization of Roman Catholic nuns, is distributing "covenant" cards inviting "all men and women of good will to join with us in a covenant to conserve energy."

"It is clear that the religious community should affirm the value of the judicious use of the earth's resources," said the Rev. Paul Kittlaus, director of the United Church of Christ's office for church in society.

"Simple measures like turning down thermostats and hot water heaters, forming car pools and taking public transportation... are logical outgrowths of religious and social values," he said.

In the covenant, people promise to take a series of specific steps, including lowering of thermostats and hot water heaters, turn off unnecessary lights, considerably limit

HOW'S YOUR LOVE LIFE? GOD WANTS TO KNOW.

Jesus left us two basic commandments to follow. They were both centered around "love." We are to love our neighbors as ourselves and we are to love the Lord our God with all our might. God is concerned about our love life. He wants it to be perfect in every way. But we are the only ones who can bring about that perfection. It starts with us. And being more personal, it starts with you. Begin your love affair tomorrow with God.

Administration proposes relaxed railroad regulation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration proposed Friday that the nation's most regulated industry — railroads — be allowed greater freedom to set rates, merge, and consolidate lines, and abandon unprofitable routes.

"Without the changes I am recommending we will face a catastrophic series of rail bankruptcies, sharply declining service, and massive federal expenditures," President Carter said in a message to Congress.

The plan detailed by Transportation Secretary Brock Adams was the administration's second major regulation proposal. Airlines were freed from extensive government control last year.

"This $20 billion-a-year industry, that provides half a million jobs, actually is struggling for survival under the burden of imposed government regulations — regulations that were designed to combat 19th Century robber barons," Adams said.

"Today, when an energy-short nation needs them most, freight-hauling railroads are in serious trouble. Some are bankrupt. Others are surviving only on federal subsidies. For this entire industry, the rate of return on investment last year was less than 1 percent."

The railroad deregulation proposals do not go as far as the industry would like. Abandonment of unprofitable lines still will be subject to Interstate Commerce Commission regulation although the review would be expedited.

The plan would phase out, over a five-year period, most of the ICC's power to regulate rail rates. Most mergers would be made subject to antitrust laws rather than ICC procedures.

Here are the basic details:
 • Rates: Between Jan. 1, 1980 and Dec. 31, 1984, individual rates could be raised up to 7 percent a year, and across-the-board increases would be allowed for two years up to the rate of inflation. Beginning in 1985, there would be no regulation of maximum rates although railroads would have to prove that rate decreases still covered the cost of providing the service. Damages could be assessed if the ICC finds a railroad has engaged in predatory pricing.

• Abandonment: If there is no objection by a state or local government or by a "substantial" shipper, an abandonment petition would be automatically approved in 30 days. If there is an objection, the ICC must complete an investigation within 90 days. If the ICC finds that the revenues from the service do not cover the cost of the service plus an adequate return, then the abandonment must be approved.

• Entry: Anyone may go into the railroad business without ICC approval simply by purchasing a railroad or building a new one.

• Mergers: Instead of ICC approval, rail mergers would be subject to antitrust laws. Mergers between railroads and other modes of transportation would remain under the ICC.

• Consolidations: ICC authority would be retained over consolidations of parallel services, joint use of trackage and similar cooperative agreements. But the ICC must weigh the benefits to the industry against any anticompetitive effects of such agreements.

Gillette settles lawsuit

BOSTON (UPI) — The Gillette Co. and its advertising agency J. Walter Thompson — Thursday agreed to settle a 1974 suit brought by the competing firm.

Alberto-Culver had alleged in its suit that a Gillette television commercial for Tame Creme Rinse, prepared by J. Walter Thompson, "disparaged and destroyed" a similar Alberto-Culver product, Wella Balsam.

The out-of-court settlement "would avoid the further cost of litigation and the drain on management time," said Doug Kenney, a Gillette spokesman in the company's Boston headquarters.

The settlement is "not an admission of liability," Kenney said.

Wendell spellers raise money

The whole crowd began to gather around, pushing closer to watch the duel. Dawn wrung her hands. Nikki clutched her stomach. The audience hung on every letter, while during word after word both girls came through.

Finally, with "faculty" the deciding word, Nikki took the honors. Dawn cried.

All the competitors had spelled every word right in tests given March 9. Relatives relaxed with punch and cookies while the winners posed for photos. Runners-up were given ribbons.

Other first place awards went to Shaley Smith, second grade; Heather Jones, third; Mindy Bay, fourth; Lisa Gabiola, fifth; and Amanda Mowery, seventh.

"Well, we've learned a lot," said Cobble over the public address system. "We've learned that we can't do it here again, for one thing." The crowd agreed the room's acoustics added to natural confusion of an eight-grade event.

Cobble is head school librarian in Wendell and adviser to the High School Honor Society, which organized the Spellingathon campaign. She also announced the campaign has raised approximately $2,500 so far. The money will go toward new school library materials. The champion fund raiser was student Lori Braga, who gathered $120 in pledge money from neighbors, relatives, and local businesses. Little Grant Olsen raised $74.

Last month, students who chose to participate made the rounds asking neighbors to pledge some amount, be it penny or dime, for every word she or he could spell correctly on the March 9 test.

After teachers administered the tests, honor society students collected and graded the forms. The spellers then returned to their sponsors to show off their forms and collect their money.

High school students will compete in a quiz game like the television show "College Bowl" later this spring to raise their share of the library fund.

1% override measures printed

BOISE (UPI) — In a last-ditch attempt to give local government a "safety valve" from the legislative-mandated tax freeze the next two years, the House forced printing of two override bills Friday.

Then the House sent the measures to the Revenue and Taxation Committee where Chairman Steve Antone, R-Rupert, said they will be considered today if they are back from the printer.

Gov. John V. Evans has urged the Legislature either to enact some means for a simple majority of the voters to override the freeze in case of emergency the next two years or provide alternative taxation on a local option basis.

Legislators are expected to push to end the session today but may have to work into the first part of the week.

Elsewhere on the legislative scene Friday:

• The House approved 41-29 and sent to the Senate a bill to delay the implementation date of a law requiring construction of county juvenile detention facilities to July 1, 1981, from July 1, 1979.

• Evans vetoed a bill to consolidate all state legal services under the office of the attorney general and the Senate sustained the veto. The vote to override was 19-16 and it takes 24 affirmative votes to override a veto.

• After lengthy debate, the Senate passed 24-11 a House bill to establish limitations on product liability. The bill establishes limitations on product liability and also provides reports on product liability insurance.

• The House completed legislative action 44-26 on a Senate bill setting legal guidelines for wiretaps by Idaho law enforcement personnel despite arguments it will erode the public's First Amendment rights.

Sierra, Nevada settle

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The state Board of Examiners-Friday agreed to a $25,000 out-of-court settlement on a suit by an Idaho insurance company against a former state insurance commissioner.

The board will pay the money to Sierra Life Insurance Co., of Twin Falls, which had filed a $1 million libel suit in federal court in Boise against Insurance Commissioner Dick Rot-man for his remarks in 1975 that the company was financially insolvent.

Rottman revoked the license of Sierra Life which then appealed unsuccessfully to the district court here.

Both sides had been preparing to go to trial on the libel case but reached an out-of-court agreement. Rottman resigned his post last year and is in private business in Reno now.

Injury reported

TWIN FALLS — One person was injured in a car-motorcycle accident north of Hansen Friday night, according to the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department.

The sheriff department's initial report said the accident occurred about 7:45 p.m., some 1 1/4 miles north of Hansen on U.S. 30.

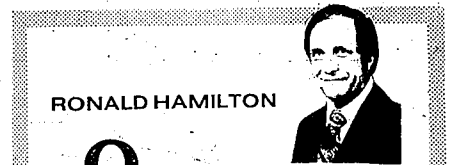

An ambulance was dispatched to the scene and the injured person was taken to the Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital, but no other details were known late Friday night.

Clarification

TWIN FALLS — The arrest of two Twin Falls naturopathic physicians Thursday has set the phone ringing in the home of Mrs. Ralph Burton in Twin Falls.

The Times-News reported that Judy Burton gave evidence to the state in their case charging Drs. Filding Harris and Rodger Harris with practicing medicine without a license.

One of the Harris' patients, named Judy Burton, did speak with state and county law officials. The Judy Burton named in a state affidavit is not a Magic Valley resident, according to law officials.

QUESTION

I am employed in an occupation that requires me to move from one town to another every few months. When death occurs to me or one of my family how can our survivors know what mortuary to call?

ANSWER

There are no nationwide standards guaranteeing professional competence in the funeral industry. Individual states have established laws which have been helpful toward this goal but have not forced out of existence those mortuaries not being operated in the public interest.

In the absence of an effective nationwide standard for measuring the proficiency of mortuaries first consideration should be given to that mortuary in any community which is accredited by the National Selected Morticians. In Twin Falls the White Mortuary holds membership in this national organization.

Final four to battle for NCAA title

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — This is the place. On the last stop of college basketball's traveling show for 1979, the Final Four begin their finishing drive toward an NCAA championship and a conclusion to one of the most thrilling seasons in a good long time.

Pennsylvania meets Michigan State and Indiana State takes on DePaul in today's semifinals at the Utah Special Events Center with the winners playing in Monday night's title game. The games start at noon.

As the nation's basketball capitol for the weekend, Salt Lake is feeling the effects that go along with this extravaganza. Hotels are packed from Provo to Ogden, the airport is jammed and taxi cab drivers are enjoying a few profitable days. These are also the best of times for scalpers. Tickets, which ordinarily sell for $30 a pair, are going for more than $250 in some cases.

In today's opener Penn — the most unlikely entry of this game of four — will have its hands full with Michigan State. The Quakers are 15-5 going into the semifinals and have looked as strong as any team in the country the past few weeks. After taking the Ivy League crown, Penn unexpectedly rolled through the East Regional, defeating Iona, North Carolina, Syracuse, and St. John's. With the Ivy League regarded as a kind of stepchild of college basketball, Penn has more than its own reputation at stake.

"Normally, there's a tendency to be so excited and so elated over winning the regionals that you can have a sigh of relief and say, 'Finally, I've made it to the Final Four,'" says Penn Coach Bob Weinhauer. "But we got up to this point and I don't want to be satisfied with the Final Four. The next step is the Final Two."

With four seniors in its starting five, the Quakers will need to rely on this experience. Tony Price, the club's top gun with a future in the NBA, is averaging 19.5 points a game and will carry most of the offense.

Alongside Price at forward will be Tony Smith, a 6-foot-5 defensive specialist who is also scoring at the rate of 13.7 points a game. At center is Malt White, a 6-10, piano-playing walkon. White's shooting range barely exceeds five feet but he provides much needed height underneath against the Spartans. James Salter, a slippery 5-11 junior guard with a good outside shot, and Bobby Willis, a fine ballhandler and strong penetrator, comprise the backcourt. Penn's major problem, however, will come in the form of Michigan State's power frontline and the incomparable Earvin Johnson.

If Penn confused all the experts this season, Michigan State, 24-6, is right where everyone expected the Spartans to be. Although the fourth-ranked Spartans are without center Jay Vincent (injured foot), they have more than enough to compensate. At 6-7, Greg Kelsner is the guts of Michigan State's frontline. If Johnson is the club's quarterback, Kelsner is its fullback and split end — banging bodies underneath and gathering Johnson's passes on the run for rim-shaking slam dunks. Mike Brkovich, who began the season as the sixth man, will be at the other forward and is perhaps the best outside shooter on the team. Terry Donnelly, a tough defensive player, is a fine complement to the dazzling Johnson.

Coach Jud Heathcote, whose team throws up a murderous 2-3 zone defense, does not like the role of being the runaway favorite against Penn.

"We are concerned about being pegged as favorites," he said. "I think calling us a 17-point favorite is unrealistic. We have lost only two non-conference games in two years — to Syracuse and North Carolina. And Penn beat both of them en route to Salt Lake City."

Indiana State, looking to become the eighth team in NCAA history to become an undefeated champion, has been the season-long surprise in the most surprising of seasons. Unranked and unknown at the start of the year, the No. 1 Sycamores are 32-0 and the prize possessor of All-American Larry Bird.

Averaging just under 29 points a game this year and the center of a tidal wave of publicity, Bird is the key to the matchup with DePaul.

But for all of the talk of Bird's passing and shooting and all of the attention given to his injured finger and silence on the press, the Sycamores have put together a solid unit.

While Bird led Indiana State in rebounding this year Alex Gilbert will provide help under the boards. Brad Milroy is sturdy on defense and the backcourt of Steve Reed and Carl Nicks can cause trouble. Nicks averaged 19.1 points a game and Reed moves the ball on offense.

Coach Bill Hodges, whose club beat Arkansas before reaching Salt Lake, is finally convincing his critics that Indiana State is more than a team that plays a soft schedule. Today, Hodges will face a team that is quick but thin in depth.

"DePaul has great quickness," Hodges says. "We must keep them from hurting us on presses. DePaul is not a good team necessarily for what they do, but for what they do it hurt you."

DePaul meanwhile, is the best thing to come out of Chicago's snow-ridden winter. The Blue Demons, who are 25-5 and eighth in the rankings, will go with a pair of fine-looking forwards in freshman Mark Aguirre and Curt Wadkins. An injured knee may sideline Wadkins and this is bound to cause problems. DePaul is essentially a five-man team.

Eagles divide twin bill

By RANDY FREY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho played 16 innings of baseball Friday, but in only one inning were the Golden Eagles able to push runs across the plate.

When they came, though, they came in bunches. Six at once, to be exact. CSI exploded to a 6-4 come-from-behind victory over Utah Technical College of Provo in the opener before kicking away the nightcap 1-0 in nine innings.

Needless to say, Coach Jim Walker was not very pleased with his team's play.

"We just weren't thinking out there," Walker said, looking back at the numerous times his Eagles had a chance to score runs but left runners on base.

Walker was also upset at the actions of several of his ballplayers, who more than once disputed an umpire's call.

In the sixth inning of the second game, CSI second baseman Rocco Zendano hit a sinking line drive to center field which was grabbed by a diving Craig Graves. Zendano thought the ball was trapped and told the umpire so, and moments later he was ejected from the game for yelling something he shouldn't have from the bench.

"We lost our poise out there," Walker said. "These guys have got to learn that they can't be the umpire and the hitter at the same time. Not even God himself is going to change an umpire's call, so it doesn't do any good to argue."

The Golden Eagles managed only two hits in the second game, but in three innings they managed to move a runner as far as third base.

In the eighth, the Eagles loaded the bases with one out but could not score, Albert Romero striking out and Jim Good hitting a weak pop to shortstop.

Art LaGaly started the inning off with a walk and Jim Pazo laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt which was mishandled by Utah Tech third baseman Kurt Kelsey for an error.

With runners on first and second and no one out, Walker called for the double steal. LaGaly was easily out at third.

Mike Johnson, replacing Zendano, drew a walk and Rick Yraguen was walked on four pitches to load the bases.

In the ninth, Andrew Barbee grounded a single up the middle to keep CSI's hopes alive, but he too was thrown out trying to steal to end any thoughts of another rally.

Utah scored its run in the top of the ninth when Todd Stubbs struck out swinging but reached first when Romero dropped the ball and then threw wildly to first base.

Stubbs moved to second on a ground out, moved to third on an error by Yraguen and scored when relief pitcher Darryl Banks uncorked a wild pitch.

Jerome's Karen Sobotka's extra effort paid off as she edged Bruin Ginger Proctor in 220 yard dash

Bruins score track sweep in opener

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — With the track season only a mere old, several things can be seen for the overall season.

Twin Falls took both ends of a six-team meet Friday afternoon with the boys having to scramble and the girls winning big but without the times expected.

By the end of the day it could safely be said that Twin Falls will not be the dominating factor in the boys A-1 state division it has been the past eight years; the Twin Falls girls have to sharpen up a little but still look strong for state contention; the Jerome girls will be a force again in A-2, and the Buhl boys, living up to the prediction of Coach Hank Savage, will be rising to the top as quality gives way to quantity late in the season.

Twin Falls took the boys division with 166 points, followed by Jerome at 136, Buhl 102, Wood River 85, Burley 42 and Blackfoot 21. In the girls division, the Bruins had 215 2/3, followed by Jerome at 145, Buhl 75, Blackfoot 29 1/3, Wood River 12 and Burley 6.

Overall Twin Falls Coach Jerry Kleinkopf said the day was "disappointing. I felt that the times were generally off what we expected and especially for the girls. The girls just haven't worked hard enough yet. The boys," he continued, "well, when we have to struggle to win a track meet against basically A-2 schools — although there are some excellent individuals here — it means that we are going to have trouble in the SIC."

The coach said the highlights for his boys included Mitch Mingo setting a personal high of 13.3 in the pole vault, Ken Stagemeyer showing consistency at 6-7 in the high jump and Joe Stansell with a 15.7 in the high hurdles.

Jerome got a heavy number of points in the distances in both boys and girls and was most effective in the boys mile, getting 22 points from that event alone. The Tiger girls had a double winner in junior Karen Sobotka in the sprints and missed some points there when senior sprinter Andy Cannedy was unable to compete due to illness.

Sobotka had fine times of 11.5 in the 100 and 26.5 in the furlong, nipping Twin Falls' Ginger Proctor in the longer event. "I don't know," she said when asked if that was her best 220 time. "This early? Oh yes."

Junior Jerry Leininger won the distances for Jerome untested and those events again appeared to be the Tiger long suit. Buhl was dominating as expected in first places — particularly if looking ahead to all A-2 competition — and Larry Allen had a big day in relays. Dennis Baxter, defending state A-2 champion, won the half-mile and the Indians won the sprint relays.

The question of the sprints was settled by Burley senior Greg Burch who won the 100-yard dash and was second to Blackfoot's Ken Snapp in the furlong. Burch clocked a 10.3 in

Black Summit '79 hopes to fund minority skiers on Olympic team

By GARY ELIASSEN
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — About 1,200 black skiers, hoping to raise funds to help minorities attain spots on the U.S. Olympic ski team, will convene for Black Summit '79 at Sun Valley beginning today.

Under the sponsorship of The National Brotherhood of Skiers, Inc., the week long event will include speeches from Gov. John Evans of Idaho, U.S. Forest Service Chief John McGuire and Director of the U.S. Alpine-Ski Team—Bill Marolt. In addition, there are a series of racing events planned for the conference which winds up March 30.

Registration for the event will be accepted all day today, and then a welcoming party is set for 9 p.m. at the Sun Valley Inn.

Evans, McGuire and Marolt will kick off the conference with prepared remarks at the opening ceremony set for Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at Lower Warm Springs. Actor Lloyd Haynes, known for his appearances on Room 222 on television, also will be a guest speaker.

According to Marie Keeling, general summit chairman, the summit will draw skiers of all ages, including about 65 children and youth between the ages of 4 and 18. The rest of the skiers average about age 35.

"The purpose of the summit, and also our organization, is to raise funds to help support minority youth participation on the Olympic ski team," she said. "We want to give these youth a chance to try out and challenge to be on the team."

Presently, she noted, it is impossible for many of the black skiers because of the expense and the lack of exposure.

"The registration fee and the cost for some of the other events we have will go toward that fund," she said.

Though the organization is 10 years old, Keeling said financing of young minority skiers is still in its infant stages.

"The competition is very severe for blacks," she said, "and it's also very expensive."

And, she added, up until three or four years ago, not that many blacks even took to the slopes.

But in the last few years, the number has grown from 500 to more than 1,000 this year.

"The opportunity is simply there now more than it use to be," she said.

During the week, the skiers will have the chance to show off their talents in a series of races.

The first race will come Monday with the various age classification and skill levels competing against each other. Then on Wednesday will be the regular open ski races.

On Thursday, the "elite" (the I rated skiers) will compete in 1 afternoon.

Actress Pam Grier also is expected to join the Summit on Wednesday.

Pre-season tumble

There's nothing like a good tumble to get back into shape for the regular baseball season which begins in two weeks. Minnesota's infielder John Casino found that out when he tumbled over Cincinnati's Champ Summers in a recent exhibition game at Tampa, Fla.

In the Major Leagues

Who's playing what and where?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five players — all of whom have names that had become virtually synonymous with the teams for which they played — head the list of "old" faces in new places for the 1979 major league baseball season.

The five are Rod Carew, Pete Rose, Jerry Koosman, Luis Tiant and Tommy John who spent a total of 54 years with their respective teams. Now, with money as the motive for all but one (Koosman), they have moved on and hope to prove that home is where the paycheck is.

The most notable of the group are Carew and Rose, two great hitters who played more than 4,000 games for the Minnesota Twins and Cincinnati Reds, respectively, in a combined total of 28 years.

Carew, the seven-time American League batting champion, who "fell off" to .333 last year, simply got fed up with Minnesota owner Cal Griffith and forced a trade to California this past winter. Rodney joins a former Twins teammate, outfielder Dan Ford (274, 11 homers, 84 RBI), and pitcher Jim Barr (8-11 with San Francisco) on a California team that is being looked upon as a strong possibility to overtake Kansas City in the AL West.

Rose, who batted .302 for Cincinnati in 1978 and had 3,164 lifetime hits for the Reds, felt the club didn't show him the proper respect in contract negotiations and opted for free agency. The market was jammed but Rose signed an incredible contract with Philadelphia and hopes to help the Phils drop that "choke" tag in postseason play.

Koosman, Tiant and John, three pitchers who put in a total of 26 years with the New York Mets, Boston Red Sox and Los Angeles Dodgers, are all in the American League now with "new careers."

Koosman, coming off a dismal 3-15 season, threatened to retire if the Mets didn't trade him to Minnesota, his home state. The veteran left-hander got his wish as the Mets acquired two young pitchers from the Twins in the deal, neither of whom is supposed to be ready.

The Twins also picked up infielder Ron Jackson (.297), young outfielder Ken Landreux (.223), catcher Danny Gooden (276 in 24 games) and pitcher Paul Hartzell (6-10) from the Angels in the Carew-Ford trades.

The cigar-smoking Tiant (who won 122 games for Boston) and John (17-10 last year and 37-17 over the past two seasons at Los Angeles) have joined the World Champion New York Yankees after both went the free agent route. Both veterans should be happy with the Yankees, who were once again busy in the free agent-trade market.

New York acquired young pitcher

Paul Mirabella (3-2 in 10 games) and talented outfielder Juan Beniquez (.260) from Texas in a deal for Sparky Lyle, (9-3 for the Yankees) and a bunch of youngsters, including bright young catcher Mike Heath.

Texas owner Brad Corbett went wild down in Arlington. First he traded first baseman Mike Hargrove (.251) to San Diego for Oscar Gamble, (.275). Then came the deal with the Yankees and a big trade with Cleveland which saw Bobby Bonds (31 HR, 59 RBI) wind up with the Indians and Buddy Bell (.282) and Jim Kern (10-10 with 13 saves) end up in Texas. Cleveland also picked up righty reliever Victor Cruz (7-3 with 9 saves) from Toronto, which got DH Rico Carty (31 homers, 99 RBI) back from Oakland.

The Chicago Cubs and Phillies swung a big deal in spring training, with the Cubs getting outfielder Jerry Martin (.271), catcher Barry Foote (.158) and infielder Ted Sizemore (.219) in exchange for second baseman Manny Trillo (.261), outfielder Greg Gross (.265) and catcher Dave Rader (.203). The Cubs also acquired young outfielder Sam Mejias from Montreal for Jerry White and Rodney Scott.

Houston traded some of its future for what it feels could be a bright present. Young pitchers Mark Lemongello (9-14) and Floyd Banister (3-9) have gone to Toronto and Seattle, respectively, for catcher Alan Ashby (.251 with Toronto) and shortstop Craig Reynolds (.292 with Seattle).

Teams want in Hockey leagues fail to agree

CHICAGO (UPI) — Representatives of four World Hockey Association franchises and the National Hockey League Board of Governors failed to agree Friday on conditions that would allow the four WHA teams to enter the rival NHL.

However, John Ziegler, president of the NHL, said, "I think we're closer than we ever have been" to accepting the WHA teams into the NHL.

The two sides met for hours late Thursday night and most of the day Friday before breaking up and going home.

The NHL Board of Governors Thursday voted 14-3 to offer Winnipeg, Edmonton, New England and Quebec of the WHL franchises in the NHL for the 1979-80 season.

Ziegler said lawyers for the four WHA teams and the NHL will continue negotiating by telephone and teleconfer on conditions under which the teams could join the NHL.

Ziegler said he hopes to have a proposal before the NHL Board of Governors sometime next week, but he refused to comment on issues that remain to be resolved.

"I'm not disappointed with the negotiations so far... I think we're very close," Ziegler said.

Asked about published reports the WHA teams had agreed to join the NHL, Ziegler said, "We are in no position to say, 'Gentlemen, we have an agreement.'"

"Based on what's happened here, I think we've made some substantive progress," Bob Caporale, chief counsel for the WHA teams, said.

Both sides, having analyzed the existing situation, feel we have identified the problem areas, but that doesn't necessarily mean there's disagreement. We're looking for solutions to the problems at this point.

"There's a lot of language differences but progress is being made."

He said the WHA teams have presented counter proposals to some already offered by the NHL.

Ziegler said that if they come to an agreement, the NHL committee will look at the proposal and "should be in a position to make a recommendation to call a Board of Governors meeting."

Under the initial NHL proposal, each WHA team reportedly would have to pay a $5 million expansion fee plus meet a series of conditions for the merger.

Baseball coaches love to brag

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — After a visit to major-league baseball's spring training camps, it's obvious politicians have no monopoly on the art of rhetoric.

Some baseball players and managers are as skilled in their public speech as the shrewdest presidential candidate, specializing in either overflowing optimism or cautious understatement.

Ironically, it's the weakest clubs that come on the strongest.

"I'll be the most surprised man in the world if we don't win at least 81 games this year," says new St. Louis General Manager John Claiborne, whose club won 69 games last season.

"We've got a chance to win 90 games," says New York Met catcher John Stearns about the worst team in the National League last season.

"We've got a very good nucleus on this team and there's no telling what we can do this year," says Chicago White Sox outfielder Chet Lemon. Last season's tale was a 71-90 record and a fifth-place finish.

"Players need a reason to come to the ballpark and last year we had no reason," says Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch, who piloted the Twins to a 73-89 record in 1976. "This year, the players know with our pitching staff we have a chance to win every day."

Great expectations are also directed towards individual players.

"If our first three guys in the batting order have any kind of a year, I expect Ron Jackson to drive in 110 runs," says Mauch about his newly acquired hitter, who has never before knocked in more than 57.

Other players and managers are careful not to provide material for opposing team's locker room walls.

"Our division looks real tough, because California and Texas have improved, of course, and you can't count Minnesota out of it either," says Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, who has steered the Royals to three straight American League West titles.

"Don't forget about Chicago — and Oakland can surprise you too," added Herzog, who somehow managed to omit the Taiwanese Little League team as a serious contender.

"The East is always tough, but we expect to be right in the middle of it again," says Manager Bob Lemon about his talent-laden New York Yankees, winners of two straight world championships. "If we stay healthy, we expect to have another good year."

Once again . . . Ali says he's had enough fighting

ROME (UPI) — Muhammad Ali all arrived in Rome Friday on his way to a sports film festival in northern Italy and said he does not intend to go back to the ring because he has had enough glory and money.

"I think I showed what I'm worth," the former world heavyweight champion told reporters at the airport. "As for money, I have all I want. I have the world in my hands. Wherever I go, the people recognize and cheer me."

All performed for airport photographers and cameramen, kissing his wife, Veronica, sparring with an Italian amateur boxer who happened to be passing through and chatting with passengers from Moslem lands.

Instead of leaving directly for the north Italian Alpine resort of St. Vincent, Ali took his wife, her father and brother on an unscheduled taxi tour of Rome.

"I want to show them the Colosseum," said Ali, who began his career by winning a gold medal at the 1960 Rome Olympics.

In St. Vincent, Ali will hand out awards at a sports film festival that will include a picture about himself, "Muhammad Ali, an American Story," by Italy's Gianni Mina.

Lanny Wadkins, happy about his putt

Wadkins doesn't let wind stop him from taking tourney lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Lanny Wadkins, making a bid to become the first two-time winner on this year's PGA tour, overcame fierce and gusty winds Friday to forge a three-stroke lead in the second round of the Tournament Players Championship.

Wadkins, who won the Los Angeles Open four weeks ago, posted a 4-under-par 68 Friday for a two-day total of 9-under 135, with George Burns his nearest pursuer in this $440,000 event — richest of all golf tournaments.

Burns, a long-hitting New Yorker who has earned more than $250,000 but has yet to win a tournament in his four-year career, turned in the day's best round — a record-tying 6-under-par 68 despite back-to-back bogeys.

Wadkins' round was actually more remarkable than Burns' since the wind didn't begin raging until after Burns was finished. While all around him were having trouble keeping the ball in play, Wadkins, the 1977 PGA champion, turned in a four-birdie, no-bogey round.

"There is no question the course played much tougher than Thursday and that's one of the best rounds of golf I've ever played," said Wadkins, a 29-year-old Virginian. "To get around without a bogey is quite an accomplishment, even more so than the score itself."

Wadkins got his first birdie on the second hole with a 20-foot putt and his final one at No. 14 with a 45-footer, but he missed a four-footer for another birdie at No. 10.

"The wind didn't help me at all," said Wadkins. "I'm a little fellow (5-foot-9, 160 pounds) and I need to use finesse and not try to fight the wind."

Lee Trevino, who just this week switched back to his once-favored fade shot, had a 69 Friday to share third place at 5-under 139 with Bill Kratzert and Dan Halldorson, who both had second-round 70s.

Wadkins began Friday's round in the runner-up spot, tied with defending champion Jack Nicklaus and U.S. Open champion Andy North and one stroke behind first-round leader Kermil Zarley, who tied the course mark on Thursday with a 66.

Zarley, suffering a triple bogey on his first hole, skied to a 79-145 Friday, while Nicklaus, with a 73-140, was tied for fifth with Mark McCumber (70), who won his first-ever tour victory last Sunday at Doral, and Ed Fiori. North fell five strokes off the pace at 74-141.

Two-time PGA champion Dave Stockton and Wayne Levi, both with second-round 72s, were tied with North at 141.

The field was cut to the low 70 scores and ties for the final two rounds. South African Gary Player, making his first U.S. appearance in nearly six months, fell by the wayside with a 75-152. But Arnold Palmer, approaching his 50th birthday, kept alive with a 75-147.

Saturday's third round will be nationally televised (CBS) from 3 to 4:30 p.m. EST and Sunday's closing round from 4 to 6 p.m.

Burns, a 5-foot-2, 210 pounder who hadn't broken 70 in about a month, reeled off eight birdies Friday, twice as many as Wadkins, and sank two 40-foot putts. He said back-to-back bogeys at the 6th and 7th holes put "a kink in my armor, but I picked it up again and with the help of a lot of breaks I had a good round."

Kratzert said there was no comparison between Friday's weather and that on Thursday when 20 golfers in the 144-man field shot scores in the 60s and a total of 53 broke par.

NCAA finals

NEW YORK — To look at the two pairings in the NCAA semifinals at Salt Lake City tonight, it's like Cinderella and her two sisters in a three-way struggle to see who wears the glass slipper, and who goes home, in a pumpkin.

While Michigan State rates the role of favorite and 10 points over Penn Friday night, spoilers like Penn and DePaul and the still grudgingly recognized Syracuse of Indiana State (how can you not recognize a team that ranks No. 1 in the nation and has a 32-0 record for the season?) are sentimental choices in the final moments of what has been one of the most exciting tournaments in recent history.

Although Indiana State is three points over DePaul, the upset pick here is DePaul to give Coach Ray Meyer his long-awarded national championship 37 years after he coached the man who revolutionized pro basketball, George Mikan.

ON THE NFL SCENE, the owners concluded their meetings in Hawaii with several rule changes directed at making the game safer and probably duller. And in Miami Joe Robbie is being blamed for the Super Bowl going north in 1963. But in this case the media couldn't be more wrong. Without the irascible Robbie, who hired talents like Joe Thomas and Don Schula to build one of the most successful franchises in the league, Miami would never have received major league status. If someone is to be blamed for the move to the Detroit area, look to the NFL office and the mega-dollars in sponsorship fees and revenues paid by the automotive industry.

—HERE ARE FIVE BASKETBALL players whose brilliant college careers will likely end this season as they join the NBA next season via the hardship route: Earvin (Magic) Johnson of Michigan State, Cliff Robinson of USC, Darrell Griffith from Louisville, Albert King from Maryland and Purdue's Joe Barry Carroll.

IT'S ONLY 3-1 against the Washington Bullets retaining their NBA championship.

The odds are 2-1 ex-Nugget coach Larry Brown will return to the NBA next year. Probably with the Boston Celtics. Other NBA coaching changes that should be made are in Portland, and Los Angeles, if either team is serious about capturing the NBA crown.

Survey notes drop in injuries during high school football

(c) 1979 Chicago Sun-Times
Chicago — A national survey shows a significant drop in the incidence of injuries in high school and college football.

Dr. Kenneth S. Clarke, dean of the College of Applied Studies, University of Illinois, Urbana, said significant head concussions in the last three years have dropped to 5 per 10,000 football players and minor head injuries to 5 per 1,000.

"During the last three years, covering 10 athletic seasons, there have been no skull fractures and no brain damage," said Clarke.

The findings were presented Wednesday before a Governor's Conference on Sports Medicine, sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans at the Continental Plaza Hotel here.

"They mean that despite all the head-knocking that goes on, the headgear from 1975 to date are quite effective," said Clarke. Of the 13 different brands studied, no differences could be found among them.

Football deaths are down to eight a year among the 101,000 players in organized football in this country, compared to 30 deaths 10 years ago, Clarke pointed out.

The new data represent a sharp turnaround from a grim injury picture that prompted much criticism of "win-at-all-cost football and even some demand for abolition of the sport. The change comes despite the fact that players are ever larger and faster and hit their targets with more momentum.

Clarke, developer and chairman of the advisory committee of the National Athletic Injury-Illness Reporting System (NAIIRS), attributed the decline to better equipment, better coaching and new rules that have emphasized safety.

With the introduction of new rules putting limits on use of the head in blocking and tackling, Clarke said he expects neck injuries, one of the remaining prime concerns, also to decline.

Another major area of study is the knee injury.

"We have been established that artificial turf does not cause knee injuries," said Clarke. "The shoe-turf relationship cannot be ignored, but it looks like such injuries happen equally frequently on grass."

Knee injuries most often occur when the player is not expecting contact and is out of position to receive it, said Clarke. Studies show that good conditioning helps prevent knee injuries.

The survey also found that the kickoff team has a higher incidence of significant injuries than the player on the receiving team. Seventy-five percent of all kickoff injuries occur in the kicking team.

For Toronto Carty still hitting the ball at age 37

By MILTON RICHMAN
The Sports Editor

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — To say you're always liable to get a good strong opinion by talking to Rico Carty is like saying you're liable to come away with a little bit of a bone bruise if you're stepped on by an elephant.

Both these truths are self-evident, and in the case of Rico Carty, or "The Beeg Man," as his Toronto team-mates call him, his opinions turn out right much more often than they do wrong, and maybe that's why he never generally draws so many listeners.

Fifteen years ago, when he came up as a rookie with the Milwaukee Braves and said he was capable of going better than the .330 average, 88 RBI and 22 homers he recorded in his first season, he was judged far more readily than he was believed.

offering unsolicited opinions.

Back to back with the Blue Jays again, the same club he started with last season before going to Oakland for the last six weeks, and he's happy. The Blue Jays are, too. They're so happy, that they signed him to a five-year contract for $1.1 million even though they know he's at least 37.

Last year, Carty hit 31 home runs with the Jays and the A's, more than he had ever hit in any one season before, and his 99 RBIs were the most he had totaled in eight years. His combined .282 batting average wasn't that shabby, either.

Carty will be used almost exclusively as a designated hitter by manager Roy Harrisfield and he has no complaint about that at all. One thing he's absolutely sure of, he will hit.

"It's a God-given talent," he says. "It's what I want to do and what I love to do. I love to hit."

You can tell that by the way he swings the bat. He enjoys himself. He also enjoys his friendly relationship with all the players, opponents as well as teammates. Any number of players ask him for help with their hitting. He never turns anyone down.

"I like to reach out and give my hand to other people," Carty says. "God says you should always give so you will receive and that is what I try to do. What has helped me most in baseball, I think, is my desire and my faith in myself. I'm independent and I'm a loner. I like to be alone. I don't have that many friends. There is an old Spanish saying, 'Tell me who you walk with, and I will tell you who you are.'"

Despite what Rico Carty says, he has a lot of friends. He and Hank Aaron are friends now, even though they once made headlines because of a fight they had in a plane traveling from Houston to Los Angeles when both were playing for the Braves.

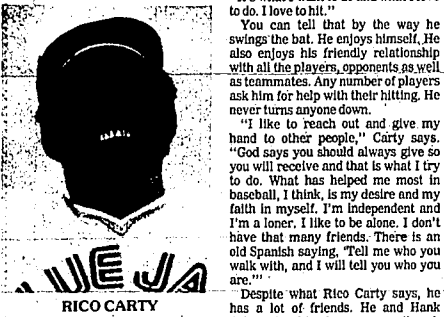

Carty laughs over the episode now.

"The problem really was between Aaron and Mike de la Hoz," says Carty. "De la Hoz is Cuban. He came over to me when we were on the plane and said, 'If I fight with Hank Aaron, they'll get rid of me.'"

"I said to him in Spanish, 'you're a man and you're fighting for what's right.' He started crying, and said, 'I'm gonna lose my job.' I told him not to cry, in Spanish.

"Aaron was right there and he said, 'Don't talk no damn Spanish. You're in America. Speak English.' Then he called me a name and we got into it. We were going at it real good when the pilot came back. He said 'If you two don't stop fighting, I'm turning this plane back.' We stopped."

Carty, who was out all of 1968 recuperating from a bout with tuberculosis, and all of 1971 because of a crushed kneecap he suffered playing winter ball, was involved in one other episode which came about because he wasn't shy over expressing his opinion.

RICO CARTY

The Kid from the Dominican Republic could hit. He also liked to talk a lot was the consensus.

Besides, one of Carty's colleagues with the Braves was getting most of the attention at the time, a fellow outfielder just beginning to warm up for his big run with Babe Ruth, a fellow by the name of Hank Aaron.

But here it is nearly two decades later and Rico Adolfo Jacobo Carty is still hitting the ball solidly. He also has backed up his opinion. Not once, but several times. ## East Carolina University hires Wake Forest coach GREENVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Wake Forest assistant basketball coach Dave Odum was named Friday to succeed Larry Gillman as head coach at East Carolina University.

Gillman, who coached ECU the past two years, resigned under fire immediately after the season amid reports the NCAA was looking into East Carolina recruiting practices. Gillman said he resigned because the school would not give him a long term contract.

Odum has been at Wake Forest for three years. He coached at Durham High School from 1970 through 1976 prior to joining Wake Forest.
