Oil imports to be curbed by Big Seven

TOKYO (UPI) — President Carter and his colleagues at the economic summit announced a decision Friday to curb their oil imports and combat what they called "deplorable" and "unwarranted" price increases by the OPEC cartel.

U.S. officials said the new energy savings plan would ban any increase in American imports for the next six years and would mean Americans would be on the "ragged edge of supply" through 1985.

The results of the economic summit were superb, a gaudy but happy Carter told reporters after two days of grueling negotiations. "They equaled our highest expectations."

Carter said the concerted energy conservation plan by the leaders of the Big Seven industrial democracies — a direct slap at the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — was "significant ... unprecedented and historic."

Until the final half-hour of their talks at the ornate Akasaka Palace, France, Britain, Italy and West Germany insisted they could not accept specific ceilings on their oil imports, beginning this year and continuing through 1985.

But Carter said the four European leaders finally agreed to adopt the American position and set specific targets at the Common Market's next meeting, in Dublin, Ireland, this fall.

"It doesn't make a hill of beans whether we get those commitments now or in a few months," a White House official said.

Canada and Japan had supported the U.S. position.

The United States agreed to hold its imports of foreign oil at 8.5 million barrels a day through 1985, a decision that could profoundly affect the American way of life.

The move should have virtually no impact on long lines at gas stations, but Carter held out some hope of temporary relief, there. He said imports of crude petroleum in June increased and more gasoline would be available in July.

"We have put the lid on the number of our imports," Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal said. "We are going to stay at the present level. It's going to be tough, but we can do it."

"We will have to work hard with synthetic fuels and other alternative sources of energy to take up the gap," Blumenthal said.

Administration officials hinted Carter was considering re-introducing a gasoline rationing plan to combat long gas lines and gas station closings. A similar plan was overwhelmingly voted down by the House a few weeks ago.

The decision to take what is likely to be politically unpopular steps was spurred by the 24 percent oil price hike decreed by the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Geneva Thursday.

"We deplore the decisions taken by the recent OPEC conference," the joint communique issued at the end of the summit said. "We recognize that relative moderation was displayed by certain of the participants. But the unwarranted rises in oil prices nevertheless agreed are bound to have very serious economic and social consequences. They mean more worldwide inflation and less growth."

It was the first time the vulnerable oil-consuming nations had banded together to criticize the cartel.

Carter jogs with troops

CAMP CASEY, South Korea (UPI) — President Carter donned shorts, sneakers and a sweatshirt and jogged three miles in early morning rain and fog today — then told U.S. troops near the Demilitarized Zone, "We believe in standing by our allies."

Carter's first full day in South Korea began with his usual morning jog — this time not around the White House Rose Garden but through the flat, fog-shrouded countryside less than 20 miles from the border with North Korea.

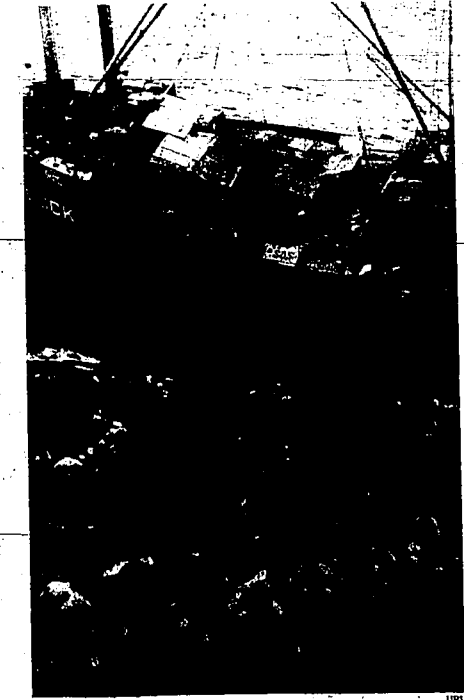

The jog was more like a parade — surrounding Carter were his aides, Secret Service men and U.S. soldiers. The soldiers, as they jogged with their commander-in-chief, chanted:

"Raise your eyes, what do you see, my president is running with me!"

Perspiring heavily in the muggy and humid weather, Carter waved to two truckloads of photographers on the side of the road and yelled, "Come on, come on, join us."

Escape into Hong Kong

'Boat people' battle police

HONG KONG (UPI) — Hundreds of Vietnamese "boat people" broke a 20-week sea blockade Friday, battled police with firebombs and rocks and escaped into Hong Kong territory.

Secretary for Security Lewis M. Davies said crewmen on the freighter Skyluck, carrying 2,665 refugees, cut both anchor chains during a storm and let the disabled ship drift to land.

The 3,500-ton vessel rocked helplessly in rough seas for about 25 minutes before grounding on the rocks of Lamma Island off the western waterfront of the city.

Davies said naval and police boats sped to the scene but were held back "by those on board throwing missiles at the police and their launches."

Davies said "several hundred" refugees jumped overboard and swam ashore. Many fled into the hills of the island before police reinforcements could cordon off the area.

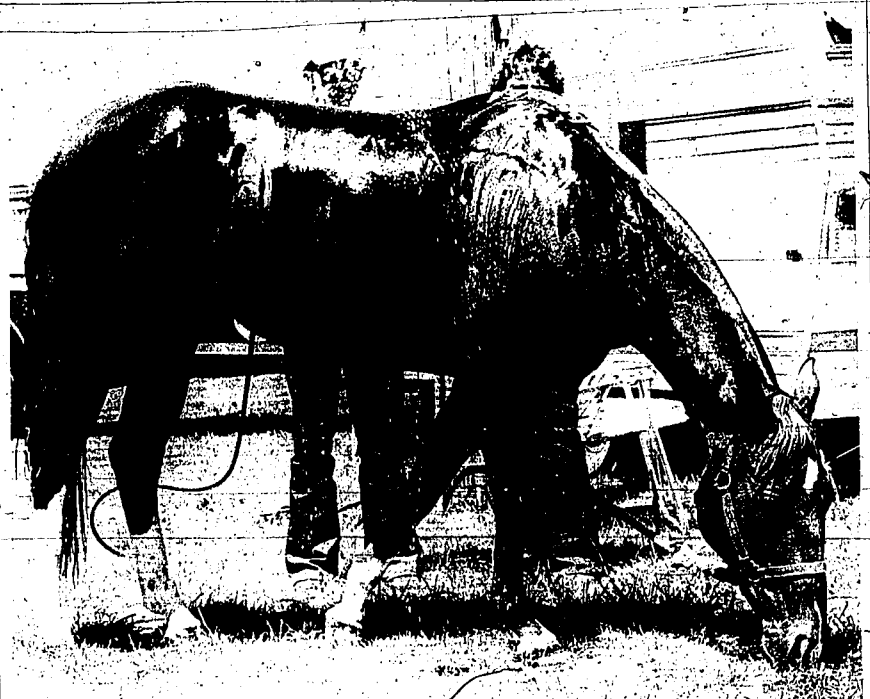

By nightfall, authorities had rounded up or taken off the ship about 2,000 people. They were ferried to a prison converted into a refugee camp, Lewis said.

A search was being pressed for the rest.

The dramatic breakaway, in which one 18-year-old girl was injured, came hours before British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington flew to the crown colony from the Tokyo economic summit to examine the refugee situation.

The Skyluck, suspected by authorities of being run by syndicates transporting refugees for gold, slipped into Hong Kong waters before dawn on Feb. 7. Authorities took away the vessel's fuel pumps to prevent it from entering port, and it had since been anchored off Lamma Island.

Bridger plant hit by sabotage

By United Press International and the Times-News

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. — A 500,000-kilowatt plant — the Jim Bridger Power Plant in southwest Wyoming has been sabotaged, causing $100,000 damage and a $2-$3 million loss of electrical generation, a Pacific Power and Light Co. official said Friday.

Pacific Power and Light, which owns two-thirds of the 1.5 million kilowatt plant, and Idaho Power Co., which owns one-third, offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of whoever sabotaged the coal-fired power plant.

The FBI and the Sweetwater County Sheriff's Department are investigating the incident.

Aluminum oxide, an abrasive substance used in sand blasting, was poured into the lubricating system of the main turbine on Unit Two, causing scratches on the turbine shaft and bearings, Wyoming division manager Bruce Beaudoin said.

The damage will take two weeks to fix and the company will have to seek power from its other systems or other companies, he said.

"It's going to be critical," Beaudoin said, referring to peak power demands during hot summer weather. "We're going to have to look around to fill this void."

The damage was discovered Wednesday when employees revved the turbine up to 400 rpm following a routine maintenance shutdown, he said. More damage likely would have resulted if the turbine had been driven to its normal operating speed of 3,600 rpm, he said.

Idaho Power Co. spokesman Bob Brown said the damaged unit, which had been under maintenance since April, had been expected to start up again Wednesday.

Idaho Power experienced a record summer peak demand Thursday from its customers due to increased use of air conditioning and heavy irrigation pumping. Demand was somewhat lower Friday, Brown said.

"In addition to that, another unit at Bridger suffered a cable failure which reduced its load by half, so that's the nub of our problem," he said. That unit was expected to be back on Friday.

Because the company hasn't received as much electricity from Bridger as normal, it has had to cut service to phosphate plants in eastern Idaho and has been forced to draw down Brownlee Dam in order to generate more electricity at its Hells Canyon dams, Brown said.

Energy officials have plan to beat gas price-gouging

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy officials Friday promised shortage-weary Americans (1) a clear new way to beat gasoline price-gouging by mid-July and (2) enough winter heating oil.

The silver-lining items cropped up amid continued grumbling from congressmen and the public about fuel allocation policies and the performance of the Energy Department.

Jack Vandenberg, a spokesman for the department's Economic Regulatory Administration, said officials hope to select an easy-to-follow gasoline pricing system — designed to thwart price-gougers — by July 16 or soon thereafter.

Vandenberg told UPI the public will get to comment on the four competing plans at a July 10 hearing in San Francisco and one July 16 in Washington.

All four would vastly simplify the way a gasoline retailer determines his maximum allowable pump price. The current formula is so complex it baffles dealers and motorists alike and has saddled hundreds of retailers with over-charge citations and fines this year.

Khadafy says Libya plans to cut off its oil exports

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Angered by "pressures" from the West, Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy says Libya plans to halt all oil exports for up to four years, according to an interview published Friday.

"We will stop producing oil — except what we need for our own domestic consumption — for two years, perhaps three or four," Khadafy told the Damascus correspondent of the Paris-based Arabic weekly Al-Mustaqbal.

The interview took place Monday before OPEC decided on a huge increase in the price of oil, a decision in which Libya participated.

The major U.S. oil companies with operations in Libya — Amerada-Hess Corp., Occidental Petroleum Corp., Marathon Oil Co., Exxon USA, Texaco Inc., Charter Co. and Continental Oil Co. — said they had not been advised of any cutoff in production and thought it was unlikely.

But trading on the New York Stock Exchange was halted at midday Friday in Occidental Petroleum, Marathon Oil and Charter on the Libyan report.

Vandenberg said two of the proposals would simply require dealers to add a fixed cost per gallon to their wholesale price.

The third would establish fixed national or regional ceiling prices.

The last envisions an unspecified, fixed increase in the 3-cent-per-gallon allowance dealers now get for operating overhead.

The assurance on home heating oil came in congressional testimony from Deputy Energy Secretary John O'Leary.

O'Leary said his department has set heating oil inventory goals that will accommodate a colder-than-normal winter and expects to meet those goals without arm-twisting.

Public hearing planned for DC-10 plane crash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Transportation Safety Board announced plans Friday for a public hearing in Chicago on July 30 to look into the nation's worst air disaster — last month's crash of an American Airlines DC-10.

Frank Taylor, director of the safety board's Bureau of Accident Investigation, said the hearing may last two weeks with up to 50 witnesses called to testify about the crash that took 273 lives at Chicago's O'Hare Airport.

Testimony will come from eyewitnesses, rescue personnel and officials of the Federal Aviation Administration, American Airlines and McDonnell Douglas, manufacturer of the DC-10.

Safety board tests, meanwhile, indicated the doomed DC-10's flight data recorder worked accurately. The device, one of two recorders on the plane, monitors such instrument readings as speed, altitude and direction.

But the cockpit recorder, which takes down the crew's conversation, failed due to a loss of electrical power shortly after the DC-10 began to lift off. The last word from the crew was "damn."

Taylor described the investigation of American Airlines ill-fated Flight 191 as one of the most complex the safety board has ever handled.

Diggs admits accepting kickbacks

WASHINGTON — Rep. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., Friday admitted taking more than $40,000 in kickbacks from staff employees and agreed to accept censure by the House.

In a two-page letter to the House Committee on Standards and Official Conduct, Diggs agreed to pay back the money in $500 weekly installments during the remainder of his term.

"I apologize to my colleagues for the discredit I have brought to the House by my conduct," Diggs said. "I sincerely regret the errors in judgment which led to this proceeding."

The committee voted unanimously Friday to accept Diggs' admission of guilt and agreement to the House censure. If Congress agrees — which it is expected to do — it will be the second time this century that the House has censured one of its members.

Friday morning's committee session, which lasted a half hour, was subdued as Diggs sat impassively at a table with his attorneys watching the proceeding.

The only comment he made to the committee came when Chairman Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., asked him if he agreed that the letter was correct.

"I do, Mr. Chairman," he said. The committee then promptly voted 11-0 to accept the deal rather than go through a "protracted and costly" hearing.

In Diggs' letter, the senior black member of the House admitted to one count of violating House rules by giving one of his employees a $11,646.64 raise and then taking the money back.

In another four cases, Diggs acknowledged that he personally benefited from pay increases given staffers but denied that he willfully violated House rules.

The total amount of money involved in those deals was $40,031.66, which Diggs said he will repay to the U.S. Treasury.

Diggs also agreed to have all of his current employees certify in writing that none of them is funneling funds to him from salary checks issued by the Treasury.

In return the committee agreed to withdraw the 18 allegations it had earlier filed against Diggs involving thousands of dollars of kickbacks. Diggs had initially filed a lengthy rebuttal of those 18 charges.

More western truckers returning to the road

By United Press International
Striking independent truckers set up new blockades in the East Friday but a back-to-work movement appeared to be emerging in the West, where some truckers voted to end the strike and authorities reported increased truck traffic.

Four strikers, armed with guns and Molotov cocktails, were arrested and charged with vandalizing a truck at a Maryland truck stop but major violence appeared to be declining on the nation's highways.

The White House announced it has worked out a six-point program with representatives of the trucking industry aimed at ending the strike of independent haulers.

A key provision would allow Interstate Commerce Commission action to enable drivers to fully recoup diesel price increases. But administration officials said there was no single group representing the striking truckers and it remained unclear if individual drivers would return to work.

Grocery chains continued to warn of possible food shortages but no shortages were reported. White House officials said adequate supplies of fresh food were moving to retail outlets. Higher freight rates enticed more truckers to haul produce to market but resulted in higher fruit and vegetable prices at supermarkets.

TORMENT FOREVER!

Some Americans find they agree with Weber

By TOM WICKER
©N.Y. Times Service
NEW YORK — Congress has prohibited racial discrimination in public accommodations. If blacks happen some night to book most of the rooms in a formerly whites-only hotel, are whites, who are unable to get a reservation there, the victims of racial discrimination?

But would argue that they are. Few would argue that racial discrimination in employment, too. If blacks, therefore, are now getting training and some jobs that only whites used to receive, are the displaced whites victims of racial discrimination?

"They are apt to think so," and understandably, if they have reason to feel that the black's color had something to do with his getting the job or the training. Shouldn't an end to racial discrimination mean that employment practices must be entirely "color-blind" (a phrase rarely used by whites) blacks' lost jobs because of their color.

But the Supreme Court has just ruled that in eradicating racial discrimination in employment, some consideration of color may be permitted because it is necessary to achieve the desired result. A good many white Americans are nevertheless likely to agree with Bryan Weber, who lost his suit against Kaiser Aluminum, that he was a victim of the racial discrimination that the Civil Rights Act of 1964 was enacted to prohibit.

This view — that black workers in Kaiser's plant at Gramercy, La., received preferential training because they are black, and that this discriminated against Weber because he is white — "is not without force," as Justice Brennan noted in the majority opinion. In fact, two lower courts have sustained that argument, and Justice Rehnquist observed in a biting dissent that the Supreme Court majority had rejected it only "by a tour de force reminiscent not of jurists such as Hale, Holmes and Hughes, but of escape artists such as Houdini."

But it also requires the agility of a Houdini to escape the larger purpose of the act in question "to put an end to the kind of racial discrimination against blacks that since the emancipation proclamation has been pervasive in American life." No one in 1964, either in Congress or out, was in doubt about that, and no reading of the legislative record can dispute it.

The Weber argument that Justice Rehnquist found conclusive rests on the assumption that the remedy Congress intended for racial discrimination and employment was color-blind employment practices. But that is not a remedy for the victims of an existing evil. It is a prescription for the elimination of the evil itself. And it cannot reasonably be supposed that Congress sought to eliminate a conceded, undeniable evil, but refused to permit a remedy for those who had already suffered its effects.

Two workers, one white, one black, of equal physical and mental ability, enter the employment of a company. After 10 years, because of racial discrimination, the white worker has a high supervisory position and twice the salary of the black, who remains at a low level job. At this point, Congress orders color-blind employment practices. The kind of discrimination of which the black was a victim must thereafter cease; but he remains at his low level job and his low salary, while the white retains all his ill-gained advantages.

That would be no remedy for the victim. Nor would it be much of a remedy if the only redress available to the black was to hire a lawyer and bring a suit, a difficult, costly process not readily available to the unskilled poor — particularly since the Burger court has limited the use of class action suits. Moreover, had Congress intended that nothing could or should be done to provide a practical remedy for victims conceded to exist, it could have said so.

It did not; it said only that employers like Kaiser could not be required to give preferential treatment to blacks or any other group, except after having been found guilty of discrimination against them. Congress did not say that Kaiser could not voluntarily seek to diversify its work force or make opportunities more readily available to all its workers, blacks as well as whites. It did not say that levels and avenues of employment traditionally closed to blacks might not be open to them by the voluntary acts of employers and unions.

Rehnquist complained that the ruling rested on "a tolerance for the very evil that the law was intended to eradicate" and offered no "clue as to what the limits on that tolerance may be."

But to adopt his and Bryan Weber's narrow construction of the Civil Rights Act would mean that the admitted effects of the evil could not be eradicated for years, if ever. And the Kaiser affirmative action plan, the only one specifically approved by the court, states its own limit on the kind of "tolerance" necessary for eradication. It is to remain in force only until the number of blacks in skilled jobs reaches the proportion of blacks in the labor force from which Kaiser plants recruit.

Enjoy cruises a while yet

© Field Newspaper Syndicate
The gasoline shortage may threaten to change a lot of things about American life, but I'm not so concerned about our relationships with Middle Eastern countries, or whether Beverly Hills celebrities have to wait in line at the service station, or the fact that some gas pumpers now have to carry pistols to control their angry customers.

What I'm worried about is cruising. When they make movies and write books and magazine articles about the 1960s, they always emphasize anti-war protests and civil rights marches and rock festivals. Which is fine; those are the things that dominated the front pages, so it's probably natural that those are the things that will dominate the social history of our times.

But most people growing up in the '60s never demonstrated against the war, never marched in Selma and never went near Woodstock. What '60s teen-agers did was cruise. Night after summer night, we would drive nowhere, for hours on end. A hundred miles or more an evening on the odometer was nothing. Radio on, windows rolled down (never an air conditioner), we cruised through the suburbs and countryside, looking for something and never quite knowing or caring what it was.

If the truth be told, that is the major legacy we passed on to the people who keep us alive today. They don't identify with the concept of ongoing war, and on civil rights many of them are more backward than Southern sheriffs of the '60s, and they're much more at home in a strobe-lighted disco than in a muddy field listening to bands. But they still cruise. At least they did until this gasoline thing happened, and it matters get much worse they'll have to stop entirely. A trivial tragedy, but a tragedy nonetheless. Gee, cruising was fun.

They didn't play albums on the radio back then, so I wonder why it is an album, and not a single, that I identify most closely with cruising.

"Summer Days and Summer Nights" by the Beach Boys — that was the one. The Beach Boys would be singing, and we would pull into the gas station and each pitch in 50 cents, and that would fill the tank enough for an evening's fill of memories.

Not that we had any particular destination. If we had decided to go anywhere on all those nights in the car, we probably could have covered every mile of highway in Ohio. But we didn't; we usually stuck to the same route, in our own hometown, following the same zigzagging path, arms hanging out the windows, eyes searching the sidewalks for something new.

What were we looking for? Girls, probably. Not that we found them too often. This was still in the days before the so-called sexual revolution, and it wasn't so simple. We would always be hearing that the girls were easier in a distant part of town, but when we got there we would be so nervous that we would make up names for ourselves rather than risk the chance of the girls tracking us down with unspecified complaints and demands at some later date. (The name I used, if you must know, was Mike Holiday True.)

Most of what we talked about while we cruised was girls, as a matter of fact, but for a subject with which we were so obsessed, our success ratio was remarkably low. We weren't terribly sophisticated; once we heard that if you stood in a certain phone booth on Fifth Avenue in Columbus, a girl would pick you up. Jack Roth stood in there for three hours one night in 1964, while the rest of us waited in the parked car in the shadow of a streetlight. Right up until midnight, we remained convinced that the girl would come. When she didn't, we told ourselves we had simply picked the wrong night. Or could it have been the wrong phone booth?

But even with the absence of girls, there was a sense of romanticism in cruising that had more to do with our being 17 years old and together — with no cares other than how many more weeks until school started again, unconcerned with that amorphous concept called the future — than it did with love or women.

And yet perhaps it was love, in a way. I know that the friendships I made while cruising through those endless nights are the strongest I have ever had, and the ones that stay with me still; I can go back to my hometown and find the boys, now men, who shared that time with me, and we can pick up the conversation as if it never ended, had never been interrupted.

Which is strange; when I really think about it, it doesn't seem that we talked all that much. The radio did it for us, and our thoughts were all the same anyway, we didn't have to say them out loud. It might have seemed, even to us, that we were bored at the time; we never did find that something new, for all the scanning of the horizon we did, and I know that we told ourselves after midnight many times that we ought to be doing something better than cruising our lives away.

But the next night we would be back in town. When things got slow, we would stop for a pizza at Rubino's (for years I thought the proprietor was an Italian; later I would find out that his name was Irv Rubin). "Be True to Your School" would be on the radio when we returned to the car and turned the ignition, and off we would go on our continuing adventure that, at the time, didn't seem so memorable at all.

So why do I remember it so strongly? I don't know, and I'm not sure I want to think about it much — except that the idea of oil conglomerates and Arab sheiks certainly never entered our minds, and the thought that cruising might someday become a lost pleasure, an expensive luxury, would have seemed silly. It's not such a bad legacy, at that. For all of you 1979 cruisers out on the streets tonight, enjoy it while you can, and put in 50 cents worth for me.

The Times-News Editorials

If this be war, where's the general?

Once again the OPEC nations jack up the price of oil, and once again Americans wonder how they can get away with it.

And once again Americans will pay the price, although grumbling all the way to their wallets.

In a strict sense of supply and demand you really can't blame the OPEC nations for boosting the price. How can such a capitalistically sound principle as supply and demand be all bad? After all, we helped teach many of these nations the finer points of world trade, and now we're being beaten at our own game.

So, what happens when the price gets too high? Well, as any first year student of economics knows, you stop buying.

If the price of candy gets too high, you stop buying, or make your own. And the same should be true for oil. Like a sweet-toothed child hooked on candy, however, the Americans are hooked on oil.

What we need is someone to get us un-hooked. The initial pain will be awesome, but don't underestimate the capacity of Americans to withstand pain. They've done it time and time again, mostly in times of war. Americans have a proud history of rallying to the cause when the battle plan is clearly laid out before them.

But what is needed is a strong leader who can tell the people the facts and to tell them what we have to do, and what we have to do without. Right now we have President Carter as the leader, but he surely hasn't issued any strong leadership statements lately about the oil price. Oh yes, he has said in Tokyo that the recent OPEC price rise is "deplorable" and "unwarranted," but that kind of a reaction is hardly forceful enough to rally a nation behind him.

What Carter needs to say is something like "No!" Let him say, "No, we're not going to pay $18 a barrel or $20 a barrel or $23.50 a barrel. We're not going to buy any oil from you unless the cost is less than $14 a barrel."

And then let the president talk to the American people and press them into action in this economic war with OPEC. With a little bit of forceful rhetoric and lots of clarity and decisiveness, most Americans would probably start to sacrifice immediately in order to tell the bloody Arabs, in certain words, where they can put their damn oil.

It seems that Americans have been itching for a fight in the past few years, but they're frustrated without an outlet, and, it follows, a leader. The time has come to provide that outlet. If Carter can't provide it, then perhaps we can find someone who can next year.

The U.S. hasn't been involved in a rally-behind-the-flag type of war for some time, and maybe that's what is needed to get some of that pride back into our systems, but instead of shooting bullets we can shoot dollars. We can kill cartels and not people.

Instead of putting up with crisis after crisis, and always falling victim to it, we can take a crisis and turn it to our advantage. That old feeling of national purpose can then be defined again and we'll all be that much better for it.

The first step, however, is to approach the oil situation like a war. And then we need to find some generals to lead us into battle.

Amtrak issue: Backing into the future

By STEVE FORRESTER
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — If the Carter Administration has looked badly on western issues, it took itself last week by announcing the intention to save certain Amtrak trains scheduled for discontinuance Oct. 1.
When Transportation Secretary Brock Adams released his recommendation for cutting routes from the rail passenger system last spring, a number of observers suggested that would be a string-headed course of action in the face of an impending gasoline shortage. In a matter of weeks, the gas shortages, compounded by a lengthy United Air Lines strike, sent droves of people to the Amtrak reservation lines, causing a national increase in ridership on the order of 20 percent.

While editorial cartoonists had a field day with the issue, the administration and a number of congressmen, such as Rep. Bob Duncan, D-Ore., stood firm in their intention to cut over 40 percent of the Amtrak system. Herblock, the Washington Post's cartoonist, pictured an Amtrak train leaving the station so crammed that passengers were hanging out the windows and lying on the roof. A person labeled "Carter Administration" was pictured saying, "That's just another attempt to make us look bad."

While one concerned congressional drive has focused on saving the Montreatler, which runs from Washington, D.C., through New England to Montreal, Canada, the bulk of passenger trains slated for cutting are in the West. In the Northwest, several trains are due to be cut.

As congressional support for reinstating trains mounted, the administration began to reconsider its plan. Last week Adams announced Carter's support for adding $35 million to the Amtrak budget to keep certain trains with good ridership and cost performance in service. The $35 million Adams suggested was identical to what the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee had voted to add to the Amtrak authorization bill to keep certain trains, such as the Montreatler, in service.

Adams would have done well to keep his mouth shut and let the administration be dragged by Congress into some sort of Amtrak-saving effort next fall. His announcement last week had the effect of alienating congressmen like Duncan who had stood firm on the Amtrak cuts. Duncan, who is chairman of the Transportation Subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee, says he will offer an amendment to the Amtrak authorization bill to restore regional balance to the national route system.

Forces in Congress seem to be gathering toward some sort of reinstatement of trains, perhaps even a complete restoration, which Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, will propose in an amendment to the Senate's Amtrak authorization bill. Church wants to save the Pioneer, which runs through his state, and he badly needs an Idaho-related issue for what will presumably be a tough 1980 re-election campaign.

The former Washington state congressman, Brock Adams, has done himself no favor. He is speculated upon frequently as a successor to Sen. Warren Magnuson. But the administration's anti-western stance on the Amtrak issue has given Adams' future senatorial opponents plenty of ammunition.

Finally, the Amtrak issue symbolizes the tendency of the Carter Administration and Congress to back off the future on energy matters.

Motorcycle granny finishes tour

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Missouri grandmother Hazel Kolb finished a 13,000-mile trip around the perimeter of the United States Friday on her 722-pound motorcycle.

Out to promote greater safety and courtesy at a time when more people are turning to motorcycles to save gasoline, Mrs. Kolb finished her trip in 75 days, two days ahead of schedule.

She began at the Rhode Island Statehouse on April 13, and ended there Friday with a greeting from Lt. Gov. Thomas R. DiLuglio, who quickly jumped on his own motorcycle for a tandem spin near the capitol.

"Mrs. Kolb, 53, called her trip "fantastic." She said the best part was the friendliness and courtesy of people she met on the way.

"The worst," she said, came the night before she finished.

"The worst element was driving through Boston," she said. "I thought I was going to be run over last night. They don't drive too well and the roads are poorly marked."

Mrs. Kolb, from New London, Mo., began riding cycles 11 years ago and has logged nearly 100,000 miles since.

Dream comes true in Pierre

PIERRE, S.D. (UPI) — When Luz Exna David left her mountain home in Colombia at age of 13 she, like other girls in her South American village, dreamed of marriage.

She never imagined her dream would be realized in the rotunda of the South Dakota Capitol with the governor at her side. But that is the way it will unfold when she weds Howard Naasz on the Fourth of July.

Miss David, known as "Luzie" to her friends, helped clean the Capitol building for several years. Now she is housekeeper for Gov. Bill Janklow. Janklow will present the bride to be when she is married to Naasz, a Java area farmer.

Now in her thirties Miss David came to the United States with the family of Rev. Johannes G. Nikkels, who worked as a missionary in Colombia. Nikkels will perform the marriage ceremony.

Procrastination wrong for Sagittarians today

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part part of this day will bring you a surprise condition that you would be wise to seize and use quickly to your advantage. A considerable amount of confusion present would make it advisable to examine whatever arises carefully.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are able to take care of some details in your work early in the day, but later the situation is not too easy for you. A co-worker has good ideas that should be followed.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Accept a social invitation that could offer financial benefit. Don't lose your temper with anyone. Use caution in travel.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be conscientious in the handling of home affairs and be kind to kin. A new project requires that you study every detail of it carefully.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle correspondence early and then get into other duties that are important to your welfare. Clear up any errors in your work, and be on the safe side. Avoid exaggerations.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Concentrate on practical affairs and know how to increase present abundance. Listen to what a successful acquaintance has to suggest.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is best for pleasure; later you can handle personal affairs more wisely. Good day to plan future social activities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to attain a secret desire early. Although advice an expert gives you is not to your liking, follow it anyway for best results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A special friend has fine ideas as to how to gain your most cherished wishes, so listen carefully and follow them. Steer clear of group affairs. Forget anxieties and be happy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get at those outside affairs quickly and stop procrastinating and get excellent results. Exercise care in the handling of some credit affairs. Don't get caught in the wind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) New interests may require more time before they become workable and practical so be patient. Hunches are good only in the morning.

WATERBURY (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep promises and show you are a reliable person. You can solve some limiting situation with a loved one. Show that you are thoughtful but not a pushover.

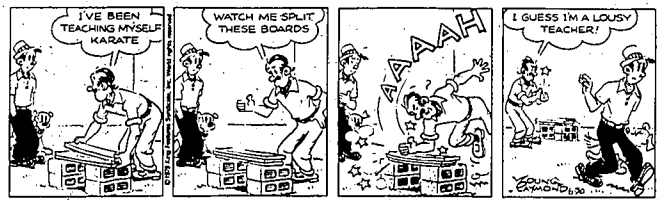

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do what is expected of you by associates and see to it they are not disappointed. Handle that task that is hard to your liking but will bring you needed goodwill.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will have the ability to solve problems of all kinds, no matter how intricate they may be. Teach early that courage must be completely overthrown your progeny could get off on tangents that will mar the success here.

What's what

Lawyers won a point from Napoleon while revising code on fees

You've heard of the Napoleonic Code, the rewriting of old Roman law into a more modern version. It was said to be one of Napoleon Bonaparte's greatest achievements. His committee assigned to the job didn't let him have his way entirely with it, though. They must have been lawyers. Napoleon wanted the revised code to stipulate that only lawyers who won their cases would be paid. They scotched that one; don't you know.

No other country in Europe has as many taverns per capita as does Ireland. There, overall, is a public house for every 255 people. Some of those institutions survive with no more than 20 regular customers.

Atop the gateposts in front of the Income Tax office in Chichester, England, are a couple of stone birds. They're vultures.

PALINDROME

Q. Most famous palindrome of all-words that spell the same in both directions-is: "A man, a plan, a canal, Panama." Who wrote that?

A. A London word puzzle expert named Leigh Mercer. He came up with a lot of palindromes.

Q. According to the etiquette experts, when should a divorced couple who remarry each other celebrate their wedding anniversary? From the date of the first ceremony or the second?

A. The first.

Q. What's the "life expectancy" of a railroad tie? And of a rail?

A. The tie, 37 years. The rail, 90 years.

MASOCHISM

The renowned South African surgeon Dr. Christian Barnard has this to say about jogging: "I see no difference in this form of masochism-and that bought for example, by the ladies who specialize in the leather pants, and a rack of whips."

There are only 1,111 one-room schoolhouses left in this country, my friend, and Nebraska has 431 of them. Eighty years ago, the one-room schoolhouses nationwide numbered more than 200,000.

Evangelism goes academic

ON Y. Times Service

RUSTON, La. — A group of evangelical Christians has found a new way of reaching college-age Americans — by offering classroom lectures in a broad variety of subjects.

The group, Probe Ministries of Dallas, has visited campuses from Vermont to Michigan to Louisiana. Eleven speakers were appearing at Louisiana Tech here the last week of March.

Probe Ministries was started by James F. Williams, a former official of another evangelical organization, who asserts that religious viewpoints are often banned from classes under the context of "freedom from religion, not freedom of religion."

The group has grown over the past six years to supplement other evangelical groups such as Campus Crusade for Christ and Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

State High School Rodeo Queen candidate Marlene Hathaway (left) of Teton City tells Tammy Whitesel of Richfield and other contestants waiting for interviews how she ran

Weekend forest conditions good

TWIN FALLS — The wildflower season is at its peak and fishing is reported good to excellent in streams and lakes in the Sawtooth National Forest.

Also, most roads are dry and passable, forest officials said Friday in their weekly recreation report.

Forest users, however, should remember firework rules are not permitted.

Federal regulations prohibit the possession, transportation or use of any fireworks in national forests. Violators risk a $500 fine.

In the Burley District, Thompson Flat campground and Lake Cleveland will be closed over the holiday because of late snowmelt. Hikers can get to the lake, but the road is impassable for vehicles. All lower elevation campgrounds are open.

The Monument Peak road on the Twin Falls District is still blocked by a large snow bank but other roads are open. Fire danger is also increasing in lower elevations and campers are asked to be careful with fire.

The Fairfield district reports all roads, campgrounds and trails are open. Water is available at Baumgartner, Bounds and Pioneer campgrounds. Couch Summit road has been graded. Logging trucks will begin using Fleck and Couch Summit roads week days beginning July 3.

Federal Gulch campground on the Pioneer school to be sold

RUPERT — Pioneer School will be put on the selling block.

That was the decision Friday night of the Mindoka School Board, which had been asked to lease the recently abandoned, six-classroom school.

The board decided to close the elementary school after the district's proposed override levy failed earlier this month. The closure will offset anticipated financial shortages stemming from the 1 percent law and declining student enrollments.

Superintendent Wayne Fagg said the district had been approached by the Nazarene Church which was interested in leasing the building to operate a private school. But Idaho law states only public entities can lease public buildings, Fagg said.

"Our lawyer didn't think we were in the business of leasing buildings anyway," he said.

The board can now either accept sealed bids or sell the building at public auction, Fagg said the board will pursue taking sealed bids first. "We'll see if there is any interest," he said.

Before the district can advertise the building, state law requires three appraisals.

In other action, the board picked Craig Dexter of Rupert as Minico

High School's new basketball coach, replacing Billy Gonzales who resigned earlier this year.

Dexter is currently the high school's sophomore team coach. Dexter beat out three other applicants.

The board also received formal notification of a June 15 U.S. District Court decision awarding the district replacement costs of the old Paul elementary school. The school was destroyed by fire in 1977.

The settlement gave the district $1,087,916 as well as $2,500 in attorney's fees and 8 percent interest on the sum from Feb. 1, 1979.

Fire burns motel unit

TWIN FALLS — Flames gutted most of a Twin Falls motel apartment Friday, Twin Falls firefighters said.

The fire occurred at the Western Motel, 1201 Kimberly Road. Two rooms of a three-room apartment were gutted, Battalion Chief Ted Poulton said.

The fire apparently began in the utility room. Three fire engines and 11 firefighters responded from stations 1 and 2 about 6:30 p.m. The fire was controlled by 6:40 p.m., Poulton said.

A dollar estimate of damage as well as a cause of the fire was unknown Friday. Both Twin Falls police and the fire department are investigating.

Many Hearing Problems Can Be Helped.

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear, but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 5191, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Three arrested on false prescription charges

TWIN FALLS — Three Minicassia residents were arrested Thursday on charges they used forged prescriptions to obtain drugs.

David A. and Anne M. Dwight of Rupert Friday were arraigned before Twin Falls Magistrate Court Friday. He was released on a $2,500 bond. She was released on her own recognizance. They were arrested in Twin Falls by Jeff Black of the State Board of Pharmacy in Boise.

In Mindoka Magistrate Court where Magistrate Ronald D. Bruce set bond at $25,000.

All three were charged with presenting forged prescriptions for Bilibud, a brand name for hydromorphone, "a derivative of morphine."

The prescriptions corresponded with those stolen from Mindoka Memorial Hospital, according to affidavits filed against the Dwights.

Both Dwigths allegedly presented prescriptions purportedly signed by Dr. Max Banner, a Burley dentist.

In both cases, police were tipped off by pharmacists.

Anne Dwight was charged with illegally obtaining hydromorphone from Magic Valley Drug in Twin Falls on June 6.

David Dwight was charged with illegally obtaining the drug Tuesday from Pennywise Drug in Twin Falls.

Munoz was charged with illegally obtaining the drug Sunday from Mindoka Pharmacy in Rupert.

Timber fire fought near Lowman

LOWMAN (UPI) — The Cook Creek Ridge fire continued to lap up more than 400 acres of timber Friday as 160 firefighters fought to control the blaze.

Boise National Forest Information officer Dale Dofour said the fire, located about three miles southwest of Elk Creek near a Bear Valley Forest Service guard station, was reacting to the heat of the day and continued to burn hot.

It rained by noon Friday more than 30,000 gallons of fire retardant had been dropped on the fire in an effort to slow the blaze.

Tourists fanned

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hansen and their two daughters, Cathy, 18, and Brenda, 11, were "certainly surprised" when stopped Friday afternoon and told they were chosen Tourist of the Week of Twin Falls.

Officer Lee Brown stopped the family near the Perrine Bridge. They were en route to Salt Lake City from Pullman, Wash., where Mr. Hansen is a professor of business administration at Washington State University.

Among the gifts they found in their room at Weston's Lamplighter Motel, their hosts for the night, were a bowl of fruit from Alberston's, a magazine, a champagne from the chamber of commerce, and a floral arrangement from Crandall's.

Three cars collide

TWIN FALLS — An unknown vehicle Thursday left three damaged cars but no injuries in its wake, Twin Falls police said.

A yellow station wagon was heading south on Blue Lakes Boulevard North about 3:55 p.m. when it turned left onto Poleline road, police said. The turn caused a three-car collision, but the car left the scene before police arrived.

Damage to a 1968 Dodge 1/2 ton, of Jerome, was heading north on Blue Lakes when she suddenly slowed her vehicle to avoid hitting the station wagon. Behind her, Eugene E. LeClaire, 25, of Ketchum, braked and pulled to the left, hitting a one-ton pickup truck driven by Dawane L. Alred, 28, of Twin Falls. LeClaire then backed to the right and hit Slack, police said.

Police estimated Slack's speed at 20 mph and LeClaire's at 30-35 mph. "Alred was apparently stopped at the intersection, police said. No citations were issued.

Damage to LeClaire's 1979 Mazda was estimated at $900. About $50 damage was done to Slack's 1968 Mercury. Damage to the 1965 Chevrolet pickup, owned by Asgrow Seed Co. of Filer, was unknown.

QUESTION...

I am considering the possibility of depositing funds to prepay my funeral expenses. What safeguards should I demand?

ANSWER...

You should insist upon the following minimum requirements:

1. That 100% of your deposit be put into trust until your death.
2. That interest be added annually to your deposit.
3. That you may withdraw any part of your deposit at any time without penalty.
4. That the payment of your funeral does not jeopardize your entitlement to a Social Security, Veterans, Civil Service or other death benefit allowance.

We have a very sound Pre-Need Funeral Trust Program conforming to these safeguards. Please call or come by our office if we can be helpful.

Three more Wimbledon seeds fall

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Bjorn Borg, the stoic Swede often accused of being emotionless, had his little joke on Wimbledon Friday, and was the only one who came away laughing.

Reacting to rampant rumors that he not only was suffering from a thigh injury, but that he might not even show up for his third-round match, the defending champion ran free with the wind and crushed American Hank Pfister 6-4, 6-1, 6-3 for his more effortless victory thus far.

"I did not feel my injury that much," Borg said, with little emotion. "It only hurts a bit when I have to reach way out. I was moving very well and playing very well. If it is like this in my next match, I won't mind.

"If I lose I am going to lose on the tennis court. It doesn't matter if I am going to be dead or whatever, I am going out there and play. But for the moment I feel very good and there is no problem."

The other two members of the Big Three also won with relative ease, peaking in time for next week's run for the championship.

Second seed John McEnroe beat fellow-American Tom Gullikson 6-4, 6-4, 7-6 and next has to contend with Tom's twin brother Tim while No. 3 seed Jimmy Connors defeated South Africa's top player, Johan Kriek, 6-4, 6-1, 7-6.

However, three more seeded players were bounced from the men's singles, leaving only six seeds in the round of 16.

The biggest shocker of the day was the dismissal of French Open finalist Victor Pecci, the 8th seed from Paraguay. Pecci, 29, who beat Connors and Guillermo Vilas before losing to Borg in the Paris final, was stunned by Brad Drewett of Australia, 4-6, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4.

Drewett, who had to qualify for Wimbledon, is unranked at home and is only 144th in the world.

The 20-year-old left-hander won the tiebreakers 11-9 and 10-8, and received a standing ovation when he walked off the No. 1 court.

"I don't think he played as well as he can," Drewett said of Pecci. "I thought if I could just hang on there a bit and see what happens, I had nothing to lose.

"Winning those two tiebreaks, I mean, there was a lot of luck there. It could easily have gone the other way. It's a riddle like Russian roulette, really."

Also victimized were No. 9 seed Brian Gottfried, who lost to fellow-American Brian Teacher 6-3, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3, and No. 11 John Alexander of Australia, a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, loser to American Gene Mayer.

Two other seeded Americans making it through to the round of 16 were No. 5 Roscoe Tanner, a 6-4, 7-5, 7-6, winner over Australian Ross Case, and No. 15 Tim Gullikson, who beat Cliff Letcher of Australia, 6-4, 6-4,

Where form is taking a pounding among the men, the women are following it almost to the letter, and 13 seeded players are among the first to feed off it.

The only seeded woman to bow out Friday was No. 13 Regina Marsikova, who lost to another Czechoslovakian, Hana Mandlikova, 6-3, 6-2.

Of the other 13 seeded women to play, only one, No. 15 Betty Stove, was extended to three sets.

Martina Navratilova, the defending champion and top seed, beat Rosemary Casals 6-3, 6-3, No. 2 Chris Evert beat Kathy Teacher, 6-4, 6-3, No. 3 Evonne Goolagong Cawley beat Cynthia Doerner, 7-5, 6-2, and No. 4 seed Tracy Austin defeated Betty Ann Stuart, 6-2, 6-3.

The other two seeded American women, No. 7 Billie Jean King and No. 14 Kathy Jordan, were among the winners.

China yes, Taiwan no

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — The International Olympic Committee's executive board Friday recommended China be accepted into the Olympic movement and that Taiwan, if it wishes to stay in the Olympics, should change its name, flag and national anthem.

A jubilant delegate from Peking said immediately after the recommendation was announced by Swiss IOC director Montagu Berlioux that he thought it was a "positive" one, but he also thought the Peking delegation could go so far as to say immediately that it will accept it.

There was no immediate reaction from the Taiwan delegation, also represented at the Olympic meetings in San Juan in the week preceding the Pan-American Games. Taiwan had insisted on staying in the Olympics with its present name, flag and anthem.

"After having carefully studied the question and in consideration of the extreme urgency in taking a decision as further delay could jeopardize the participation of the athletes in the winter games in Lake Placid and the games in Moscow," Mrs. Berlioux said, "the executive board is proposing to the IOC members to confirm the recognition of the Olympic committee located in Peking."

High School rodeo winds down

By GARY ELLASSEN
Times-News sports editor

FILER — It's down to the final night in the Idaho State High School Rodeo finals.

Action begins at 8 tonight at the Filer fairgrounds as the four-day event comes to a climax for some 200 cowboys and cowgirls entered in this year's competition. A new queen, to replace current title holder Christina Osborne of Gooding, also will be named.

The first champions were crowned Friday morning as Doris Ann Tyson of Murphy and Roxanne Nash of Preston tied for first in the girls' cow cutting and Rocky Dickerson of Preston won the boys crown.

Others who placed in girls were Neenie Blake of Boise third; Connie Stevens of Gooding and Selsan Federer of Filer, tie for fourth. In the boys, Hobble Peterson of Filer captured second, Ron Jewett of Bliss third, and Scott Carter Bradshaw of Elba fourth.

Tonight there will be action in calf roping, bareback riding, breakaway roping, saddle bronc riding, steer wrestling, goat tying, pole bending, bull riding, team roping and barrel racing. The top 12 finalists in bareback and bulls will compete, while the rest will be involved in their final go round.

It's been a good rodeo for local cowboys. Joe Roe of Wendell, and representing District Five, has taken the lead in the steer wrestling after completing his second go round. As a result, he's pretty well sewed up a spot in the national finals at Fargo, N.Dak. late in July (the top four in each event get to go).

In the goat tying, Stevens, making a bid for the all-around title, leads with an average of 20.59.

Right behind her in that event are two more Magic Valley cowgirls including Terri Koch of Buhl at 21.30 and Tauna Bradfield of Rupert at 21.39.

Call roper John Ross of Jerome also has a good shot of going to the nationals. He's currently leading the event with a 34.13 average.

Anita Young of Rogerson continues to dominate the breakaway roping competition as she is settling at 13.78 after two go rounds. Ten seconds behind her is Lisa Butler of Mackay at 23.51. But Stevens still has a chance of catching them both.

Lowell and Tim Black of Hammett are giving Glennis Ferry High School a chance to take home a title in the team roping. The two talented cowboys have accumulated a 25.89 time, but there are still the top five first go round teams to perform tonight.

In other action, the field for the finals in the bareback have been set. They'll kick off tonight's events.

They include, in the order of their placing, Brent Weeks of Rexburg 67, Brent Austin of Preston 63, Scott Brown of Filer 60, Rob Jucker of Buhl 56, Jim Tuckey of Garden Valley 55, Bruce Weeks of Riggs 55, Rhett Plocher of Rupert 54, Bill Jared of Weippe 54, Dave Rainwater of Riggs 54, Mark Dolg of Blackfoot 51, Gary Rammell of Teton 50, and Scott Clelland of Twin Falls 49.

The finalists in the bull riding will be Scott Keel of Idaho Falls 68, Tom Jenkins of Malad 58, Rod Speelman of Pocatello 58, Bill Peterson of Bonners Ferry 55, J-2 Brown of Richfield 52, Rhett

Plocher of Rupert 50, Kyle Thurston of Rupert 49, Bruce Williams of Riggs 49, Gary Rammell of Teton 47, Herman Bott of Paul 41, Jeff Hollingsworth of Preston 46, Mike Smit of Carey, Steve Van Komen of Nampa, and Jon Gill of Gooding, all 45.

Todd Webb of Wendell has the inside track for the boys all-around title.

Rodeo notes: The Kiwanis is sponsoring this year's high school rodeo and the proceeds above costs are split with the state high school rodeo association. Jerry Nelson of Blackfoot is the rodeo announcer. Idaho First National Bank has donated all-around cowgirl saddle. About 32 cowboys and cowgirls will be riding from Idaho to the fair at Fargo, N.Dak. the end of July... This year's judges are Bud Branson of Boise, the first national high school saddle bronc champion and Bob A. Robinson of Boise, a world's best roping cowboy in the 1960s. Co-judges are Tim Oyer and Durr Bowen, both of Jerome. Each cowboy and cowgirl who wins a trip to nationals will be furnished a black jacket by the state McDonald's of Burley and Twin Falls (Yellow Jacket) will go to the state winner. DeAnn Carney of Paul is this year's student secretary-treasurer. To be eligible for all-around, a contestant must have competed in two or more events.

Giants made a mistake in trading Madlock

The San Francisco Giants have done it again. Noted in recent years for not winning ballgames but for making the worst deals in the major leagues, the Giants have just completed one which has to go down as the worst ever.

Desperately in need of offensive punch in the infield, the Giants traded Bobby Murcer two years ago to the Cubs for two-time defending batting champion Bill Madlock. Madlock did not win any batting titles in San Francisco, but he hit .302 and .309, respectable hitting in anybody's league.

Now the Giants are having pitching troubles, so what do they do but trade Madlock away. And what do they get in return but Ed Whitson, better known as Ed Who?

Players and fans in San Francisco are in shock. Bay Area newspapers blasted the Giants Friday morning with headlines reading "Giants trade something for nothing."

Fans were ringing the phone off the hook Thursday night during a local radio station's call-in talk show demanding that the Giants fire general manager Spec

Richardson. And Giant players sat stunned in the locker room trying to figure out how the trade made sense.

Third baseman Darrell Evans was reported as saying, "I can understand getting Pedro Bourbon because he can pitch every day, but if someone can figure out the other one let me know."

In a separate deal, the Giants sent Helzy Cruz to Cincinnati for reliever Bourbon.

And John Montefusco, one of the pitchers who is struggling this year, was quoted as saying, "There has to be more to it. Where are the hitters. We are getting rid of someone with a .325 career batting average, but what are we getting in return?"

What the Giants are getting in return is a 24-year-old, right-handed pitcher who has a 2-3 record with a 4.34 ERA.

The Giants are also getting two minor league hurlers, Fred Breiling and Al Holland. Both pitchers have been assigned to the Giants Phoenix farm club.

But the question still remains, why would the Giants make such an obviously foolish deal?

There has to be more to the trade than just wanting to bring in some pitching help. Madlock has been feuding with the management in recent weeks, and the Giants undoubtedly got fed up and simply let him go.

Madlock was in the dog house with manager Joe Altabell following comments he made after a team meeting. He had openly criticized the manager in the press.

Tuesday night Madlock created an on-the-field stir when he punched Atlanta pitcher Bo, McLaughlin, igniting a bench-clearing brawl.

Richardson, however, denies the Giants wanted to get rid of the second baseman.

He was quoted as saying, "We have pitching problems. We've been losing too many games in the eighth and ninth innings. Now we've strengthened our bullpen with Bourbon and Whitson."

"Besides," he said, "I have got to take chances in life."

Richardson said another reason for getting rid of Madlock was the availability of minor league infielder Joe Strain, who was called up from Phoenix.

Strain has hit over 300 every year in the minors, and he is reportedly a better defensive infielder than Madlock.

Richardson is right, he is taking a chance. The Giants also took chances when they traded away Orlando Cepeda, George Foster, Glyder Perry, Bobby Bonds, Ken Henderson, Manny Mota, all three Alou brothers, Chris Spenser and many, many more.

How many of the deals paid off? How about now?

Willie McCovey said it best when he was quoted as saying, "Am I shocked? Am I surprised? Hey, I've been around this organization a long time and seen it do a lot of strange things, so I am not really surprised."

After all, the Giants were the team to trade McCovey away several years ago. Fortunately for them, they were able to get him back.

Quintero wins softball throw

POCATELLO — An 11-year-old Twin Falls girl won the softball throw at the Hershey Track Meet Thursday in Pocatello and will now participate in the state meet July 7 in Coeur d'Alene. Rachel Quintero tossed the softball 135 feet, far below her best toss of 180 feet but well ahead of the second place contestant, who threw the softball only 74 feet. Quintero will be making her second appearance in the state meet, having finished second a year ago. If she wins in Coeur d'Alene she will advance to the national Hershey track meet.

Hamblin wins USGA berth

TWIN FALLS — Mike Hamblin, 18, of Twin Falls, has won himself a berth in the USGA National Amateur Public Links Championship State Golf Tournament at Portland July 16-21. Hamblin, a sophomore-to-be at Arizona Western, captured first place at the state qualifying meet this week at Eagle Hills Golf Course at Eagle. He scored a 144 over 36 holes. At nationals, he will compete with 184 other competitors. Harvey Breux of Boise will join Hamblin as Idaho's representatives.

Cope to play for Eagles

TWIN FALLS — Rick Cope, a member of Meridian's Idaho A-F high school championship team, has signed a letter of intent to play for the College of Southern Idaho. Cope was a two-year starter at Meridian and selected first team, all-state, most valuable player in the state tourney and player of the year in the SIC and state. He averaged 17 points per game, 10 rebounds on the season, and shot 50 percent for the seven tournament games leading to the state championship. He shot 49 percent for the year. Cope has helped Coach Tom Weirich with the boys and girls basketball camps.

Cepeda placed on parole

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A federal magistrate has placed Orlando Cepeda on parole, and ruled that the former baseball star would not have to immediately pay a $10,000 fine imposed when he was sentenced to a five-year jail term for marijuana smuggling. Cepeda, 40, who left baseball in 1974 after playing for six teams in both leagues for 16 years, has spent a year in federal custody. He was to have been paroled Tuesday but his inability to pay the fine meant that collection had to be waived before he could be released. U.S. Magistrate Peter Scuderi, at a hearing Wednesday, said Cepeda would have to pay the fine later.

Pan-Am athlete faces drug charge

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — A Panamanian athlete arriving in Puerto Rico to participate in the Pan-American Games has been arrested for trying to smuggle in marijuana, a source close to the Panamanian delegation confirmed Friday. The source said the athlete, who was not immediately identified, was arrested at San Juan's Isla Verde International Airport late Thursday night as he arrived along with the rest of the Panamanian delegation aboard a special flight. The source said during a routine customs check at the airport, three pounds of marijuana were found in the athlete's baggage. Francisco Huado, chief of the Panamanian delegation at the Pan-Am Games, was unavailable for comment, customs officials were also unavailable. The Panamanian delegation to the Olympic committee meetings being held in San Juan to the week before the Pan-Am Games stayed away from a joint session Friday morning of the International Olympic Committee and the Association of National Olympic Committees. Meanwhile customs officials were reported to be meeting with officials of the Pan-Am games organizing committee on the problem. The first touch of scandal connected with the event.

Indians offer Bob Lemon coaching job

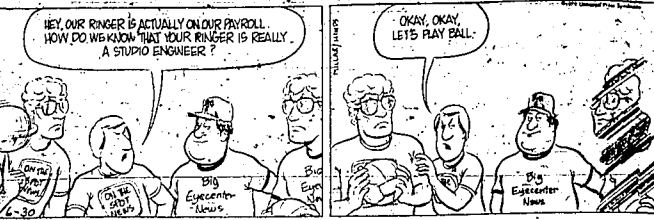

NEW YORK (UPI) — The path has been cleared for former New York Yankees Manager Bob Lemon to become the next skipper of the Cleveland Indians. All Lemon has to do is say yes. Cleveland president Gabe Paul, who held the same title with the Yankees from 1972-77, went through the accepted process of obtaining permission to speak with Lemon about coming to the Indians this season. Lemon, who was New York's pitching coach in 1976 under Paul, before moving to Chicago, took over the Yankees' managerial spot on July 25, 1978 after Billy Martin was fired. Lemon, 58, was subsequently replaced by Martin on June 18, six months ahead of schedule. Lemon was to leave his post as manager at the end of the current season and relinquish the job to Martin. Lemon, who is currently working in the Yankees front office evaluating talent, said the apparent offer took him by surprise. "It comes out of left field," said Lemon, who pitched for the Indians from 1946-58 and won 207 games, including seven 20-game winning seasons. "I don't know what I'm going to do. I haven't talked to Jane (his wife) yet. I'm going to take some time to make my decision."

Walker eyes track meet

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — World recordholder John Walker gets another shot at NCAA champion Don Paige of Villanova Saturday in a star-studded "Magnificent Mile" event which headlines the East Coast Meet of Champions. Walker, whose record of 3:49.4 has stood since 1975, ran his first mile race of the year last week at the New Jersey Olympic Track Classic, finishing second to Paige. Some people considered it an upset but Walker couldn't understand all the fuss. "I couldn't believe the headlines — 'Walker Stunned by Paige,'" he said. "I guess they expect you to run a super performance every time out. I'd like to see Paige run a 3:52 his first time out. Paige has run 20 races this year. I've had one." Despite his 3:54.8 performance of last week, Paige doesn't think of himself as the favorite in a field that includes Walker; Eamonn Coghlan, the indoor world record-holder at one mile; AAU champion Steve Scott and Penn Relays winner Paul Cummings.

Powers to retire NBA fires 10 referees

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Basketball Association, which suffered through one of its most disappointing seasons financially, announced Friday that 10 officials have been fired following a vote by team owners to revert back to the two-official system. A three-man crew was installed last season and Norm Drucker, the NBA's supervisor of officials, said that an agreement reached with the league and the National Association of Basketball Referees called for the dismissal of the 10 bottom officials based on a rating system if the owners decided to go back to the two-man system. "The owners said that they saw no radical improvement from two to three officials last season," said Drucker. "We have now, dropped from 38 officials to 27." The officials whose contracts will not be renewed are: Bernie Fryer, Bill Jones, Ken Falkner, Roger McCann, Tommie Wood, Jess Thompson, Dick Schaper, Blaine Retchelt, Bob McAllister and Terry Durham. The only experienced men released were Fryer, a former NBA player and two-year veteran, Jones and Falkner, who was fired once before but returned when the membership expanded last season. The others had just completed their first season. But Richie Phillips, the referee's union lawyer, said the decision was made because the owners felt the addition of a third official was too costly. In another development, veteran NBA official Richie Powers, who just finished his 22nd season, announced his retirement. Powers, who was involved in controversy last season when he called an illegal third technical foul on New Jersey Nets Coach Kevin Loughery, said he sent his resignation to the league Thursday. "I am leaving under the best of terms," said Powers. "I hope to stay with the league in some capacity."

Then South saw that he had a reasonable play to make his 10 tricks. It involved the deliberate loss of two trump tricks to make it possible to discard two of his hearts on dummy's ace and king of diamonds.

So South promptly led ace of spades, queen and jack of diamonds and a low spade. West took his king and could find no better lead than a club. Dummy ruffed and East overruffed with the queen, but that was all she wrote. South could ruff his last club in dummy and discard his 10 and six of hearts on dummy's ace and king of diamonds.

Ask the Experts

A Connecticut reader asks what is meant by "mirror distribution and is it good or bad."

Mirror distribution means that declarer and dummy have exactly the same distribution and it is definitely bad for declarer, since he can't ruff anything or get a discard from either hand.

Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Experts," care of this newspaper. Individual questions will be answered if accompanied by stamped, self-addressed manila envelope. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

East followed to the first club, with the seven. South ducked and West continued with the queen. East completed the club echo with the six. South took his ace and studied the hand carefully. He studied for some time while mentally blaring his partner for trying for game with just seven high-card points and a 10-5 hand.
