

Economic slump likely, Carter says

HONOLULU (UPI) — President Carter said Sunday a recession is "much more likely" now as a result of price increases by the Arab oil cartel, and the economic downturn could "cost 800,000 jobs."

Administration officials, who asked not to be identified, also forecast a "roughly zero growth rate for the rest of the year."

"I think the OPEC decision will make a recession much more likely than it was before," Carter said. "We figure by the end of 1980, this might cost 2.5 percent in our Gross National Product increase and may be 2 or 2.5 percent in the inflation rate."

He said the situation "may cost 800,000 jobs."

The president gave the gloomy assessment of the nation's economy during a mini-news conference aboard Air Force One on his flight home from Korea, the last stop of his eight-day Asian tour.

Air Force One landed at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington about 9 p.m. MST Sunday. The president and his family boarded a helicopter for the short hop to the White House.

The administration official who made the growth rate forecast said there may be a "negative growth rate" for the remaining quarters of this year. Two negative quarters by definition constitute a recession.

Carter said the United States and all the advanced countries will suffer economically as a result of the 60 percent cumulative increases in OPEC prices in the last six months.

Carter cut short his journey to the Far East, skipping a three-day holiday in Hawaii, to return to Washington to deal with the gasoline shortage.

Carter said the administration is preparing a new standby gasoline rationing plan with the aid of key members of Congress. The House overwhelmingly defeated a standby rationing plan he proposed earlier this year.

The weary president admitted he was less optimistic about the overall economy, while an official estimated that the nation's bill for imported oil next year will be $70 billion.

"Asked what could be done about the quantum leap in oil prices, Carter told reporters: 'I'd rather not go into that. I'll let the press speculate about that.'"

"Despite the dire predictions, Carter said he is still opposed to mandatory wage-price controls."

An official said Carter also is not contemplating a tax cut at this time to stimulate the economy, but "I can't say we will never do that."

Carter disclosed that with the help of Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd, he is creating two bi-partisan task forces — one on energy and the other on inflation — which will include members of the Senate and House, and the administration.

The goal is to get closer cooperation from Congress on those pressing domestic problems.

The chief executive said that as soon as Congress returns from its Fourth of July recess, he expects to meet with the leaders on ways to expedite action on the windfall profits tax, the energy trust fund and synthetic fuels legislation.

Carter said he met with O'Neill and Byrd before departing on his trip to discuss organizing the task forces, and told them to provide the names of Democrats and Republicans who would serve on the panels.

The president indicated the first order of business would be to devise an acceptable standby gas rationing plan.

"I don't see how the rest of the world can sit back in a quiescent state and accept the unnecessarily high and completely unwarranted increases in OPEC oil prices," Carter said, citing a 60 percent boost in six months.

Grasshopper hordes threatening fields

By LONNIE ROSIENWALD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — They can turn a flourishing dream of a bean field into a bare, brown nightmare.

Hordes of tiny grasshoppers, borne by their powerful legs and hastened by the wind, are marching in from the west, threatening crops and grasses in their path.

A grasshopper invasion may sound like a science-fiction plot, but there's nothing fictitious about the current infestation of Twin Falls County. This week county agents, gardeners and farmers witnessed the first local evidence of an attack that is mowing down the fields of 14 western states.

On the Hansen Butte, grasshoppers number 50 to 70 per square yard, according to County Entomologist Robert Stoltz. Experts usually consider a grasshopper infestation to warrant a spray program.

"I don't know how many there are, but when the wind blows they seem to fly off in clouds," said Castleford farmer Virginia Becker, whose garden and bean fields are grasshopper-ridden. Mrs. Becker said it is the worst infestation she's seen in 22 years.

Several Twin Falls gardeners reported seeing grasshoppers moving around their gardens this week. Most reports of farm infestations have come from southwest Twin Falls County. Farmers on the Bell Rapids Project and Hansen Butte have found hordes of the insects in their fields.

Agents say the problem can be controlled if land is sprayed soon enough. Federal agricultural agents have already sprayed five million acres of infested farm and range land, and they will be called into Twin Falls County this week. County extension service agents plan to check fields and roadsides today to see if spraying is needed.

Meanwhile, county horticulturalist Dale Beck urged people to spray their lawns and fields if they see an influx of the insects. Five insects per square yard is enough to begin spraying, Beck said.

The grasshoppers spotted in lawns, gardens and fields here are green or brown and are only the size of a thumbtack. Nevertheless, they eat more than mature insects because they're growing. Grasshoppers eat the leaves of a plant first, but can strip a field bare almost overnight, according to Beck. Bug experts have said eight grasshoppers can eat as much grass as a cow.

This year's invaders haven't grown wings yet. When they do, they will have weeks, "it will hatch" to keep them from spreading, Beck said.

If the problem hasn't been solved by fall, there may be more trouble. A normal female grasshopper lays 20 to 40 eggs, so a one-percent survival rate means the population could quadruple by next year.

A local entomologist expects it's too late to stop infestation of some farms on the fringe of the county's desert areas.

"It will be a serious infestation, but it won't be serious on a widespread basis," said Stoltz of the county extension office.

Beck will ask officials of the federal Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service to spray areas of the county this week. Bell Rapids farmers already have been spraying their own fields.

Pesticides known by the brand names of Sevin, Malathion and Diazinon are effective against grasshoppers, and all are available to home gardeners without a special permit. Instructions on the label tell how much to apply.

Beck, who sprayed his own lawn and vegetable garden Sunday, said the pesticides should be applied every 10 to 20 days while the infestation lasts.

Sevin remains toxic for one day, and Malathion and Diazinon are poisonous for five to 21 days, Beck said. All should be handled carefully.

Truckers edge back onto road

By United Press International

Independent truckers, soon on strike for nearly four weeks, began returning to the road Sunday, but leaders of the nationwide trucking shutdown tried to rally new support for the strike.

The number of truckers participating in the trucking shutdown called to protest high fuel prices, short supplies and high freight rates, load and speed limits — dwindled steadily throughout the weekend following announcement of a six-point White House plan to meet the strikers' demands.

National leaders of the striking Independent Truckers Association decried the White House solution and organized a protest convoy that lumbered into New York City.

Striking Independent truckers drove their rigs into midtown Manhattan to draw attention to their grievances. About 30 trucks entered the Midtown area in an "orderly" convoy but no confrontations or blockades were reported, authorities said.

The strike also got votes of support from Iowa Independents and one contingent of Oregon strikers.

But chapters of the ITA in New England, Arkansas and Missouri returned to work Sunday, as did a group of western South Dakota Independents. Some truckers in Oregon ended their strike earlier. In the weekend a spokesman for Texas truckers said they would keep up the strike only as a token effort and that most of the drivers were returning to the roads. Maine Independents said they would go back to work after the Fourth of July holiday.

Independents pulled their rigs off the road about four weeks ago in the Midwest in a move intended to induce economic hardships and force government compliance with their demands. The ITA ordered the strike imposed nationwide 11 days ago, but their strategy proved less effective than expected.

The nation's highways were scenes of sporadic violence since the strike began. At least one person was killed by sniper fire directed at trucks moving in defiance of the strike and at least 10 people were injured in strike-related shootings. Trucks parked at truck stops were vandalized, their cargoes destroyed.

Niehous describes jungle years

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — A gaunt-looking but high-spirited William F. Niehous returned home Sunday to his wife, mother, and three children after 3 1/2 years in Venezuelan jungles as a hostage of leftist terrorists.

Niehous, 48, a high-ranking executive of Owens-Illinois Inc., was dragged from his Caracas home by Marxist guerrillas in February, 1976. His dramatic rescue came Friday, after police fought a gun battle with his captors on a secluded ranch 350 miles southeast of Caracas.

Niehous acquired a company jet at the Toledo Airport just before dawn Sunday, sporting shoulder-length hair and several days growth of beard. Niehous, who is six feet tall, weighed only 150 pounds — 44 less than he weighed the day he was kidnapped.

"There were times when I gave up hope, but it was only temporary," he said at an airport news conference. "After the news conference, Niehous was taken by limousine to his Tudor home in the fashionable suburb of Ottawa Hills. He and his family spent most of Sunday sleeping and relaxing.

The former manager of Venezuelan operations for Owens-

Illinois described his abductors as being politically motivated and said he was not tortured or mistreated. His legs, however, were chained to a pole every night.

"It was a political act and they were not assassins or murderers," Niehous said of his kidnapping. He said he had several lengthy philosophical discussions with the guerrillas but that they never agreed on anything.

"I was allowed to speak my mind, to express myself, to defend my beliefs," he said. "The group that was holding me and I never agreed on any subject that we talked about."

When he told of being chained nightly, his wife, Donna, flinched.

But Mrs. Niehous said she never doubted her husband would return.

"We never gave up hope," she said. "I always believed someday he'd come home to us."

The oldest Niehous son, Mark, 21, said, "It was a belief, sort of a family tradition." His brothers, David, 19, and Craig, 17, expressed similar sentiments.

During his captivity, he said, he grew beards or moustaches or let his hair grow long as a way of rebelling

Urban fuel woes cut back shopping

By United Press International

In a push shopping center on the outskirts of Chicago, a store manager looked out over his racks of shoes waiting in gleaming, idle rows like dancehall girls on a slow Saturday night.

"Business has been the pits," he said.

That sentiment is becoming a popular one in suburban shopping malls where the gasoline shortage is causing empty parking lots, empty stores and empty cash registers.

A UPI survey of shopping malls near the nation's biggest cities showed that it was business as usual this weekend only in California, a few spots in the South and parts of the Midwest. Across the rest of the nation, people have apparently decided that shopping is one of the first things to be cut out to save gasoline.

"We're not even making last year's figures," said the shoe store manager at the Old Orchard Shopping Mall in Skokie, Ill. "We have four racks of sale shoes out there, and that seems to be the only thing they look at."

He said sales have been dropping steadily in the last three weeks and were down at least 10 percent last week, forcing him to reduce his number of salesmen from five to three.

Malls in the gas-starved Northeast have been especially hard hit.

"When people come they know what they're looking for," said Bob Munch, a shoe store in the Paramus (N.Y.) Mall. "Last year at this time, we'd have at least a dozen."

One worker at the mall in Cherry Hill, N.J., said "you used to have to look for a long spot, but not any more. They're not shopping like they used to."

She said some shoppers were riding bicycles to the mall.

In Boston, downtown stores were crowded with shoppers, but the suburban malls said their shoppers are consolidating their trips.

Gas worries keep vacationers near home

By JAY HANDELMAN
 United Press-International
 At Kings Dominion park near Richmond, Va., a big attraction is no longer the Rebel Yell rollercoaster or the King Cobra loop. It's a map showing all the gas stations near the amusement area.
 "People go straight to it. It's the most popular new attraction in the park," spokesman Yager said.
 Kings Dominion is not alone in its effort to help visitors through the gas crisis.
 Vacation areas across the country, fearing the loss of tourist dollars as the Fourth of July holiday kicks off the peak summer travel season, are setting up telephone lines to tell travelers where and when they can find gas.
 Motorists everywhere are worried about having enough gas for their trips, even though some states have no lines or shortages.

 As Dean Gaiser, Florida's assistant tourism director put it, "The fear of not getting gas is as bad as not having it."
 A spokesman for Wyoming's travel commission said, "There are few people traveling and it's the gas situation that's doing it. It's frustrating because there is gasoline available here. People are just afraid to leave the population centers."
 While some areas fear economic disaster, others are enjoying great surges in tourism.
 New York City appears to be in the best position of any vacation area in the country.
 "Why, in June you couldn't even get a hotel room in Manhattan without a reservation a month in advance," said Charles Gillett, president of the New York Convention and Visitors Bureau.
 "If anything the gas crunch has bolstered our business. I've been telling people for months that they don't need a car here — we've got the greatest mass transit system and taxi fleet."
 Judging by calls to the American Automobile Association, many people are simply staying closer to home.
 States are gearing advertising campaigns to the local market.
 Iowa Gov. Robert Ray has appeared in television commercials proclaiming "See Your Own Backyard," the Arizona tourist board is advertising "Explore Arizona," and Washington state residents find "See Washington First" commercials on their screens.
 Regionally, tourism prospects vary.
 New England states appear to be holding their own, with indications residents are making shorter trips. But officials in Connecticut say the shortage is having a "decided effect" on tourism there.

 Officials at Mystic Seaport, Connecticut's No. 1 tourist attraction, described the situation as "terrible."
 Business at several attractions in Massachusetts has increased during the week, but declined sharply on weekends.
 Stephen Pink of Pennsylvania's tourist agency said, "Unless something happens, something drastic, it's going to be a pretty bleak summer for tourism in the state."
 Tourism is down in the Washington, D.C., by approximately 20 percent, based on estimates from Tourismble, a tourist bus service, the National Zoo and the Smithsonian Institution.
 Southern states indicate travel is down, with Florida and Tennessee suffering the most.

 Georgia officials are concentrating promotion efforts on more than four million people in a "tourist triangle," between Jacksonville, Fla., Savannah and Atlanta, Ga.
 North Carolina beaches have been plagued with oil spills, but a tourist board spokesman said, "I think vacationers who normally go to Florida from Virginia, Maryland or North Carolina this year."
 Officials in the Midwest are optimistic that residents will be traveling in-state this year.
 The situation appears more distressing in the West.
 Arizona employs 80,000 people in tourism and officials said a decrease could have a serious impact on the state's economy.
 The Utah Travel Council is urging residents to stay in the state this summer, and reports no lines and no gas station closings.

 Tourism was off more than 20 percent in May at Wyoming's Yellowstone National Park, but it was up 3 percent at the state's Grand Teton Park. "More regions people visit Teton, and the people going to Yellowstone are staying for longer periods of time," one official said.
 California, the first state hit by shortages, suffered setbacks due to the United Airlines strike and the grounding of DC10s as well as the gas situation.
 Disneyland spokesmen said that famous theme park has seen more Californians and fewer out-of-state visitors since the summer season began. Universal Studios and Knoxx Berry Farm say business has returned to normal, since the disappearance of many gas lines.

Soviets issue fresh warning on SALT amendments

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Communist Party daily Pravda Sunday issued a new warning to U.S. Senate opponents of the SALT II treaty that amendments to the pact would put an end to future arms control negotiations.

New date for Skylab

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency Sunday moved up by one day its prediction of when Skylab will fall, saying Thursday, July 12, now appears to be the most likely date, according to a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had singled out Friday, July 13, as the most probable day.

A spokesman said the abandoned space station will re-enter sometime between July 9 and 15 and that July 12 is most likely. The time it continues to orbit the earth every 89.3 minutes.

Pope issues challenge

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II issued an indirect challenge to communist rulers Sunday, saying the Roman Catholic Church will multiply and spread over "where it is condemned to death."

The challenge came at a mass the pope celebrated before 20,000 people in St. Peter's Basilica together with 14 new cardinals appointed Saturday.

The pope Saturday also created a 15th cardinal in previous papal history. The new cardinal was the first to be appointed since the Vatican council said the secret cardinal was almost certain from a communist country and was believed to be Bishop Julonas Steponavicius, 68, of Soviet Lithuania.

Saudi view gloomy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Saudi Arabia's oil minister, in an interview with Newsweek Magazine Sunday, said the price of a barrel of oil could soar to $35 a barrel due to economic collapses worse than the Great Depression strike the West if desperate Palestinians interrupt the flow of oil from the Middle East.

Saudi Arab King Fahd said the United States must try to bring peace to the Middle East — unless it acts to pressure Israel to allow a Palestinian homeland on the occupied West Bank.

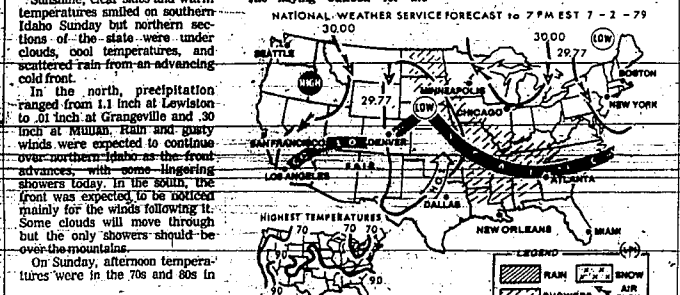

Today's weather

Windy, cooler today but warmer for the Fourth

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas:
 Partly cloudy, windy at times today. Fair and a little warmer Tuesday. Highs today in the 70s, on Tuesday near 80. Overnight lows in the 40s to 50s.
 Camas, Prarie, Halley, lower Wood River valley:
 Partly cloudy, continued cool through today. Chance of snow showers over the mountains. Fair and a little warmer Tuesday. Highs upper 60s today in the 70s Tuesday. Overnight lows upper 30s and 40s.
 Synopsis:
 Sunshiny, clear skies and warm temperatures smiled on southern Idaho Sunday but northern sections of the state were under clouds, cool temperatures, and scattered rain from an advancing cold front.

In the north, precipitation ranged from 1.1 inch at Lewiston to .01 inch at Grangeville and .30 inch at Mullan. Rain was gusty and was expected to continue over northern Idaho as the front advanced, with some lingering showers today in the south, the front was expected to be noticed mainly for the weeks following it. Some clouds will move through but the only showers should be over the mountains.
 On Sunday, afternoon temperatures were in the 70s and 80s in the south but reached only into the 60s in the north. Gooding's 88 was the warmest. Minimum readings were mostly in the 40s, though Lewiston had a 53 and McCall dropped to 34. Caldwell and Kuna recorded 39 degrees. Stanley was coldest at 25 degrees.

 Across northern Nevada, variable high clouds are forecast through Tuesday with windily afternoons. Temperatures should dip to the 30s or low 40s at night and rise into the 80s in the daytime. Utah will continue fair, with gusty winds and warm temperatures through Tuesday.
 The haying outlook for the Magic Valley Wednesday through Friday calls for warmer and generally fair with a slight chance of showers and good drying conditions. The spraying forecast calls for winds of 10 to 20 miles an hour today, Pan evaporation is forecast at 30 inch today and 35 inch Tuesday.
 The extended outlook over the Fourth of July calls for warmer and dry except for a chance of showers over the northern mountains. Highs on Wednesday should be in the middle 70s to the middle 90s, climbing into the 90s by Friday. Low temperatures should be 45 to 55 degrees.

negotiations.
 The warning appeared in Pravda's International Review section as Senate Majority leader Robert Byrd arrived in Moscow for a five-day visit to discuss the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty.
 Byrd has already cautioned the Soviets that their threats will not "guide or influence" individual senators. Other senators believe the Soviet remarks have further damaged SALT's ratification chances.
 "I don't think it's helpful for the Soviets to be issuing statements about dire actions that might follow in the wake of Senate decisions," Byrd said.

Hanoi getting rich

CHERATING, Malaysia (UPI) — A former Vietnamese newspaper publisher said Sunday he was told the Hanoi government has collected $2.5 billion in gold in six months of organized refugee trafficking.

Bui Phuong-the said in an interview at a Malayan refugee camp that communist cadres boasted the refugee traffic was even more profitable than last year's confiscation of property from Ho Chi Minh City's middle class.

Tug crew escapes fire

WHITE CASTLE, La. (UPI) — A tugboat loaded with 1,600 gallons of diesel fuel caught fire Sunday in the Mississippi River but the crew scrambled to safety aboard a passing vessel.

The Coast Guard said in a news release that a commercial freightling tug extinguished the fire aboard the Captain Oliver B. nearly three hours after the blaze was first reported.

Oil menaces beaches

NEW YORK (UPI) — A light, broken ring of diesel fuel from the ruptured 120,000 gallon fuel tanks of the container ship Sea Speed Arabia nearly encircled Staten Island Sunday and threatened area beaches.

Four civilian cleanup firms were brought in to deal with the spill, which caused a heavy smell of diesel fuel in parts of Staten Island, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Oil executive hopes worst about over in gasoline pinch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A leading U.S. energy executive said Sunday the long lines at the nation's service stations may begin easing next week.

"I would hope that this week may see the worst of the summer problem behind us," Atlantic Richfield Board Chairman Robert Anderson said. "Fourth of July is historically the high gasoline consuming week."

But Anderson warned that Americans will have to keep up efforts to "improve our driving habits" and cut back on the use of energy supplies.

"I think if people will stick with some moderate restraint on their driving and realize this may not be the year to take long trips we're going to get through the summer and have adequate heating supplies this fall," he said.

Anderson, interviewed on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," said the American people have made significant inroads so far in cutting energy use.

 "Consumption has gone down, which is encouraging, and rather significantly," he said. "Just look at the gas stations and parking lots."
 He said gasoline production last week in the United States "was higher than consumption so at least it looks as if they're getting in balance."

But Anderson warned that the recent Tokyo summit treaty doubt that American motorists are faced with a new age — an age of smaller cars.

"There's one message that came out of Tokyo loud and clear, it's that the small car, the four cylinder car, is really in this country," he said.

He said Americans must be "willing to adjust our lifestyles" or "face massive unemployment" as energy supplies fall short of unrestrained demand.

He said the recent price hike by the International Oil cartel brought some alternate forms of energy "back into the picture" of being economically competitive with petroleum.

Sandinistas ready to attack on Managua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Sandinista guerrillas Sunday halted the national government in the key southern town of Rivas in preparation for a new assault on Managua.

President Anastasio Somoza, desperate for military hardware to stay in power, moved to Israel for arms.

Members of the Sandinista provisional government told UPI the rebels plan to form a giant pincer movement to the north and south of Managua and attack the capital.

Four miles — 10 miles north of the Costa Rican border on the Pan American highway, were given guns and ammunition by Sandinista infiltrators and used them to push a detachment of 600 national guardsmen into the town garrison.

Military sources reported fighting within 50 yards of the garrison Sunday.

The guardsmen are facing the Sandinista guerrilla force, which invaded from Costa Rica two weeks ago near Sapoa, four miles from the border.

A guerrilla column that pulled out of eastern Managua early Sunday was reported to have regrouped in Sandinista-held Masaya, 16 miles south of Managua.

The Sandinistas hope the southern column can break through and join the main concentration in a final push on Managua to end Somoza.

"We're going to consolidate all the land between Masaya and the south," he said.

"south," Moises Hassan, the only member of the rebel provisional government on Nicaragua now, said in Masaya. "We will isolate Managua from the south and the north and then attack."

Rebel sources provided evidence of summary executions by the national guard in Managua Sunday. They went to a warehouse in the capital's eastern zone where, at the height of the fighting last week, they saw four civilian prisoners marched away by national guardsmen and then heard shots.

They found the charred remains of four bodies inside the building Sunday.

Other reporters counted the burned remains of eight bodies, some with hands wired together, piled in a heap on the shore of Lake Managua near the National Theater in northern Managua.

The government radio Sunday warned residents of the rebel-held city of Leon, 55 miles north of Managua, to evacuate their homes before the start of a major air attack.

Sandinista guerrillas attacked Fort Ascasso, the last guard redoubt in Leon province, earlier in the day.

The national guard, which said it is preparing a major offensive on the southern front, bombed guerrilla positions at Sapoa.

Nicaraguan Red Cross officials in Managua said food reserves for 100,000 refugees were seriously depleted and the refugees would have to be placed on half rations, and even then the food would last only until Thursday.

Costa Rica hit by strong quake

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A strong earthquake shook southern Costa Rica Sunday, the U.S. Geological Survey reports.

"There were no immediate reports of damage or injuries," the survey said. The earthquake struck Costa Rica near the Panamanian border, measuring 3.5 on the Richter scale. A quake of this magnitude can cause severe damage. It was centered about 70 miles southeast of San Jose, the capital, in a mountainous region.

The survey's National Earthquake Information Service at Golden, Colo., said the tremor struck at 2:38 p.m. MDT and was preceded by several days of minor seismic activity.

Bolivian voting marred by fraud

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — Bolivians went to the polls Sunday, amid charges of voting fraud, to elect a president and congress and end 15 years of military rule.

The first official reports from the cities and villages of this landlocked Andean nation, indicated that the electoral process was being carried out "with tranquility" but irregularities were reported in both the capital and some villages.

Approximately 1.8 million voters were voting to elect one of the eight presidential candidates, and a congress of 27 senators and 117 deputies.

If none of the presidential candidates gains a majority of the votes, the newly-elected congress must choose a president from the two leading candidates.

Pilot of Flight 191 believed helpless in final seconds in air

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Red lights are flashing in the cockpit of the falling DC-10, but the pilot will never know what hit him and his plane in those horrendous 30 seconds.

Only some port-side window passengers are in a position to see the under-slung No. 1 jet engine snap off and somersault backwards, up and over the wing — just as it was designed to do in a breakup.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators report they are close to completing their analysis of what caused American Airlines Flight 191 to drop like a stone on takeoff from Chicago's O'Hare Airport May 25, killing 273 people in America's worst air tragedy.

They have not figured it all out yet. "There is always more than one cause of any crash," one official cautions, and the DC-10 is designed to stay airborne even if it does drop an engine.

So investigators have run through more than 100 DC-10 "takeoffs" on a flight-simulator, avoiding out the sequence of mechanical catastrophes that must have stricken the plane. "According to a safety board spokesman, this is a preliminary, unofficial outline of what is indicated so far:

When the 11,000 pound engine and connecting pylon — weakened by a 10-inch crack suffered in maintenance — slipped off, they flipped up and over the wing because that is what they are designed to do.

The flip-over is supposed to take the engine's fuel cells clear of impact and friction in the event the plane crash-lands on its belly.

As the engine tore away, it damaged or severed hydraulic lines, electrical wires and fuel lines, activating red warning lights on the cockpit instrument panel.

The power failure cut off the cockpit voice recorder 12 seconds into flight.

At 27.5 seconds after liftoff, the plane reached 350 feet, rolled into a 90 degree leftward bank and fell into a field.

Safety experts say the electrical failure may also have handicapped the pilot by cutting off his "stick shaker warning" — a device that tells him his craft is in danger of stalling.

Had he known the plane was in such a state, officials say, he could have tried to level it off to gain speed.

Frank Taylor, director of the 14 safety board teams now investigating the Chicago accident, said the loss of one electrical system probably — though not certainly — occurred "as a result of the tearing out of the No. 1 engine."

Taylor said the plane can be switched manually to one of several backup electrical systems if it does not shift automatically.

But he tries to put himself in the pilot's place.

Auto union set for talks

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser has announced contract talks with the Big Three automakers will open this month and warned the Carter administration to "stay the hell away from the negotiations."

While he failed to proclaim open defiance of the administration's anti-inflation guidelines, Fraser did say that strengthening cost-of-living allowances and pay raises topping the norm for previous UAW contracts would be the order of the day.

He said negotiations would begin with General Motors July 16.

Fraser said Carter's wage guidelines have "self-destructed."

Airline workers deny maintenance at fault

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — American Airlines employees bought a full-page advertisement in Sunday's Tulsa World to deny what they said were suggestions that faulty maintenance may have been involved in the DC-10 crash last month.

"We do not perform careless maintenance or inspection on our airplanes, and safety is always our No. 1 priority," the ad read.

The ad, written as a letter to "the people of Tulsa and surrounding communities," claimed the media has suggested that problems in maintenance and inspection systems may have been responsible for the American Airlines DC-10 crash at Chicago's O'Hare Airport May 25 that killed 271 passengers and two people on the ground.

"We had a terrible tragedy occur in Chicago that we all regret, but we also have a tragedy of a different type occurring daily here and nationwide. We are being misrepresented by some of the news media and being maligned by two so-called American Airlines employees who wish to remain anonymous," the ad read.

Bribery trial starts today

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Prosecution and defense attorneys will present opening statements today in the bribery trial of Cleveland City Council President George Forbes, the city's most powerful black politician and Mayor Dennis Kucinich's leading antagonist.

Forbes, accused of taking kickbacks from carnival operators, faces seven counts of bribery, four counts of theft in office, one count of extortion and one count of intimidation.

The case is the first to come to trial in what has come to be known as Cleveland's "carnival kickback scandal" — in which a total of 18 people, including seven present or former City Council members, have been indicted.

Forbes has admitted accepting $4,000 in cash payments from carnival operators, but has insisted he gave the money to inner-city charities.

Brown pledges block

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. said he would try to block the licensing of the $1.4 billion Diablo Canyon nuclear power facility, nearing completion, but was unsure of the extent of his powers.

Brown spoke before a crowd of about 20,000 people who held a day-long rally Saturday at nearby Camp San Luis to protest the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. plant.

Twin Falls Bank & Trust, in addition to our other Savings Plans, offers 2 new ways to save.

Effective July 1, 1979:

5 1/4% PASSBOOK ACCOUNT

$10 minimum. Daily interest on passbook savings. Interest is compounded daily and paid quarterly on all 5 1/4% Passbook Accounts, raising the effective annual yield to 5.39%. We will automatically add your interest to your savings account balance at the end of each quarter. However, you must have at least $10 in your account on the last business day of the quarter to receive interest for the entire quarter.

* NEW 4 YEAR INVESTMENT CERTIFICATE

$500 minimum. Maturity of 4 years or more. The interest rate is 7 1/4% unless the average four-year yield of Treasury securities as announced monthly. Your interest rate is locked in throughout the life of the certificate as of the date you purchased it! Interest may be compounded quarterly for a higher annual yield.

OUR OTHER SAVINGS PLANS ARE LISTED BELOW:

Democratic Communism journalistic fiction

Senator saves, learns

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK
WASHINGTON - Rudy Boschwitz saved the taxpayers five million bucks the other day, and might have saved them a little more, but after five months in the Senate the gentleman from Minnesota has earned a thing or two, and thereby hangs this tale.

The pending business in the Senate on this particular day was S. 670, the Rural Development Policy and Coordination Act of 1979. The bill is the particular baby of Senator Patrick J. Leahy of Vermont, who explained it in this fashion:

In essence, what would result from this legislation is that the Secretary of Agriculture would control a process involving the executive branch states, and local governments in the formulation of flexible rural development policy.

amendment. So the five million bucks was saved. On the matter of the information centers, Boschwitz did not fare so well. This is how he explains the situation:

Downtown parking plan raises questions

Within the next few weeks, Twin Falls City Council members will be asked to approve or reject a plan to expand downtown parking.

The Twin Falls economy is rooted in agriculture which in turn feeds into our retail, financial, construction and housing industries.

One possible safeguard against such a dilemma would be to diversify our economy by seeking new, clean industries.

Very Well - The Leahy bill has its good and useful points. At present, various federal requirements call for five different and overlapping annual reports on rural income.

Mondale says White House still wants gas rationing power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Walter Mondale said Sunday the administration still wants standby authority from Congress to impose gasoline rationing if necessary.

Appearing on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," Mondale said the administration would not use such authority unless there was a "substantial disruption of oil supplies," reducing them by "another 5, or 10 percent."

But, Mondale said, "We need standby rationing so people will know in case of a very severe shortage there are ways of handling it short of violence and short of interminable gas lines."

Congress in May turned down President Carter's previous request for gasoline rationing authority.

Mondale also rejected both mandatory wage-price controls and inducing a recession as ways to stop inflation.

Mandatory wage and price controls would be "self-defeating," Mondale said, adding the administration wanted to "stand by a free market."

But he said the recent price hike by the Organization of Oil Exporting Countries would "increase inflation, slow economic growth and produce higher employment."

Mondale also rejected the possibility of "deliberately" planning a "major recession" which he said would "put millions of people out of work deliberately and visit bankruptcy on hundreds of thousands of small businessmen and women and entrepreneurs."

"The worst thing to do is to move toward radical solutions that won't work in order to get one's self by the election," Mondale observed.

"Inflation is clearly a serious problem for all Americans, and even though I think we are right on it, I think temporarily it does hurt the President," Mondale said.

WALTER MONDALE ... discusses energy

Mondale said, President Carter plans to announce a "massive" program to explore new energy sources, including synthetic fuels and coal, to take steps to bring oil from the Alaska pipeline to the Midwest and to make a new oil agreement with Mexico.

But, he cautioned, "the fact is — and we have to recognize it — that we are short of oil. The recent OPEC announcement, the shock that it is, was made possible by that shortage...."

"There is no way of avoiding the fact that what OPEC did the past few days and what they have done in the last three or four months is a severe shock not only to our economy but to all economies around the world," Mondale said.

Strong hand answer to Carter woe

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — President Carter's administration needs a strong hand, such as "Nixon, Haldeman or Ehrlichman," to help clear up problems with the Congress and the American people, Sen. Clairborne Pell, D-R.I., said Sunday.

"I think with (former president) Nixon, (Bob) Haldeman and (John) Ehrlichman, you had three guys who were pretty much alike," Pell said. In an interview on WJAR TV's "10 News Conference" broadcast Sunday, "I think that one guy of that sort would be a help in the White House at this time."

"There's no strong chief of staff," he said. "The presidency is almost an impossible job because you combine the chief of government with chief of state and no advanced country has one man in both jobs."

Haldeman and Ehrlichman were aides to Nixon who later served prison terms for their part in the Watergate cover-up.

Pell also said Carter's ability to lead the country is lacking.

"My respect for him as a man and his intelligence and his character and his honesty and his integrity are all of the highest order," he said. "But my respect for his ability to lead and mold the country and administer is not great."

Pell said Carter's problems with the Congress began during his campaign.

"He ran as an outsider, saying we all were dreadful jerks in the Congress and that Washington was a dreadful place and he was going to show everybody," Pell said.

7.60% on 4-Year Certificates

5 1/4% on Statement Savings

For the first time, we're allowed to pay interest this high on a certificate of this kind. Just $500 lets you lock in this new, higher rate for four years on savings certificates purchased between July 1 and July 31. Rates for subsequent certificate offerings will be announced each month. Of course, you don't plan to withdraw your money for four years. But should an emergency occur, there are now minimized penalties for early withdrawal on certificates purchased or renewed after July 1.

We're pleased to be allowed to pay this higher rate — 5.25% continuous interest, which amounts to 5.39% annual yield, on your Statement Savings account. If you don't have our Statement Savings plan, there couldn't be a better time to look into it. Passbook savers continue to earn 5% continuous interest. However, you may convert to Statement Savings with no loss of interest or penalty. Just come in and sign a simple conversion form to start earning the new, higher rate.

Bicycle subsidy offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fourteen national public interest organizations said Sunday they will give rebates to their full-time employees who buy a bicycle and use it for commuting.

Under a plan called "the National Bike-Side Program," the Washington-based organizations gave their 185 employees coupons good for $20 when turned in their firms — with a bicycle purchase receipt.

Some of the organizations have announced additional steps to encourage bike-riding-in-an-effort to improve health and save time and money. The Public Interest Economics Center said it would purchase a bicycle for the use of employees on company business and Environmental Action has reconstructed one of its bathrooms to provide shower facilities for its cyclists.

Dr. Michael Jacobson, head of the Center for Science in the Public Interest said "We think it's worth money to us to have staff members who do not waste their time waiting for buses or sitting in gas lines before and after work."

Participants in the program may have a hard time, however, finding their new bikes. The gas crunch is giving bike shops in the Washington area more business, but also some problems.

Clay Grubic of the Towpath Cycle Shop in Alexandria, Va., said "We can't get them (bikes) out of the shop — for the same reason — his shop's sales of new bikes has been running "perhaps 10 to 20 percent over last year."

"We've been turning away customers," he said, adding that he has sold "more (bicycle) baskets in the past two weeks than in the last year, indicating more utilitarian usage."

Grubic said much of the increase is in bikes sold to people 16 years and older.

Abdullah Wolf of the District Cycle Shop in Beltsville, Md., said he had to hire 50 percent more employees since March. "We've been very busy since March."

Wolf said his shop is working Saturdays, "which we don't generally do," to keep up with the workload.

But Wolf added that the petroleum pinch is also hurting business.

"With the petroleum situation the way it is affecting the price," he said, "we need petroleum for parts such as nylon for the tires and plastic for the seats. A factory turned down a complete order for tires, because they can't get nylon for the tires."

Wolf said the shortage has forced him to go to another brand to get his tire tubes at a 20 percent price increase.

Wolf said there has been a "20 to 25 percent increase in demand since April."

Susan Taylor, wholesale sales representative for Proteus Design in College Park, Md., said her shop which deals mostly in parts and accessories has seen "a big jump in retail sales."

River yields body of Cousteau son

ALVERCA, Portugal (UPI) — Navy frogmen Sunday recovered the mutilated body of Philippe Cousteau, from the muddy waters of the Tagus River where his plane sank four days ago.

Cousteau, youngest son of explorer Jacques Cousteau, died when the amphibious plane — he was piloting — flipped over in the river Thursday. The cockpit broke off from the rest of the plane and quickly sank into the river.

The Portuguese skindiver who discovered the body and brought it to land said that he located the missing Catalina plane's cockpit and released the safety belt holding the 37-year-old pilot "by touch because there was no visibility down there." He was one of 10 frogmen involved in the search.

Members of the rescue team, supported during their search by helicopters and a dredge barge, said the younger Cousteau's back was "severely mutilated, apparently by the plane's falling engine."

A health official who examined the body said it was "totally lacerated on the abdomen, head and extremities."

After the Riverside autopsy, the corpse was taken to a hangar at a nearby airbase where Philippe's wife stood vigil.

Gemini should avoid pessimists, strangers, try to find new ideas; Leos, try cooperation

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have an unusually good day and evening in which you can work out mutual conditions with associates in a most harmonious and effective manner. A time to make plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Engage in precision work you have to do and avoid one who is very emotional. Be grateful for the cooperation of others.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can handle important work easily if you don't let others waste your time. A health matter should be handled without delay.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Meeting with interesting personalities will bring you fine new ideas. Avoid one who is a pessimist. Be careful of strangers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want to do some investigating of matters you don't understand but concentrate on whatever is permanent for best results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal day to plan the future with congenials. You have to economize more if you wish to be free of financial worries in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be extra careful in the handling of financial matters today. Use your own good judgment instead of depending on others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your obligations so you will know how best to handle them. Let your loved one know that you are truly devoted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want to do some investigating of matters you don't understand but concentrate on whatever is permanent for best results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal day to plan the future with congenials. You have to economize more if you wish to be free of financial worries in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good day to get ahead via the auspices of higher-ups. Avoid one who is suspicious of you without due cause.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Forget dull duties and look forward to new activities that could prove lucrative in the near future. Think objectively.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get busy today and handle those duties instead of wasting your time. Use your intuition when dealing with outsiders.

IF YOUR CHILD IS HORN TOODAY... he or she will be one who can get along very well with others. There is a fine balance of mind and physical activity in this chart.

What's what

Here's a way to figure out parts per million

Meteorologists who talk about pollution frequently use the phrase "one part per million." Question arises as to just what one-in-a-million really means. Might figure it this way: One inch in 16 miles. Or an ounce of salt in 62,500 pounds. Or a single big bite of food in comparison to all you'll ever eat as long as you live. It was also once described as a drop of vermouth in 80 fifths of gin. Dry martini purists like that one.

It is in the lower third of the face where a person tends to show the most obvious signs of aging. The distance between the bottom of the nose and the chin decreases.

An am advised that W. C. Fields never said, "Anybody who hates dogs and children can't be all bad." All right, but somebody said it.

The law of Emporia, Kans., prohibits kibbitzing at card games there.

BEST CONDITION

Q. What sort of athlete has to be in the best physical condition?

A. Don't know about "has to be," but studies show the long-distance runners test out best in the cardiovascular endurance checkup. Next to the runners come the jockeys.

If you're nailed for drunken driving in Switzerland, whatever your nationality, you can be fined $16,000.

Q. You said no only child has ever been elected President. Wrong, brother! What about Franklin Delano Roosevelt?

A. FDR was his father's second son.

To that lengthening list of public schools named in honor of famous baseball players, please add the Roberto Clemente School in Newark, N. J.

Q. Where'd we get the word "hokum"?

A. It's a combination of "hokus-pokus" and "hunkum."

BRAIN CELLS

Average person over age 30 loses about 100,000 brain cells every day. That's what the medicos report. Sounds pretty scary. It isn't, though. Average person has about 10 billion brain cells, so can afford to lose a few hundred thousand and more.

Weddings

McGhehey-Harder

GLENN'S FERRY — Linda McGhehey of Hammett became the bride of James Andy Harder of King Hill June 16 at the Assembly of God Church in Glenns Ferry, with the Rev. Glenn Burnett officiating.

— Kathy Burnett of Vancouver, Wash., cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Mrs. James Huddleston of Hammett and Mrs. Ray Tracey of Enterprise, Ore., sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Candelighters were Donna and Kimberly Burt of Klamath Falls, Ore., cousins of the bride.

— Donald Gill was best man, with Allen Thompson and Frank Allen as groomsmen, all of King Hill.

— Harder and Ernest Riviera of Glenns Ferry were ushers.

— Ring bearer was B.J. Riviera of Glenns Ferry, nephew of the bridegroom, and Brandy Riviera, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the fellowship hall. Mrs. Jack Burnett of Vancouver cut the cake. Mrs. Clyde Burt of Klamath Falls assisted, and Mrs. Charles Burt attended the punch bowl. All are aunts of the bride. Mrs. Ernest Riviera, sister of the bridegroom, registered guests, and Vaughn Bejot was in charge of the gift table.

Special guests included Mrs. Sylvia Burt—of Klamath Falls—grandmother of the bride.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Glenns Ferry High School and the bridegroom is a 1970 graduate of Glenns Ferry High School. The couple will live in Glenns Ferry where the bridegroom is employed by Western Farm Service.

MR. AND MRS. KEITH QUIGLEY

BUHL — Kim Gietzen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Gietzen, and Keith Quigley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Quigley, exchanged wedding vows May 12 at the home of the bride's parents.

The Rev. James Huckaba of the First Christian Church in Buhl conducted the double ring ceremony.

Wilma Stephens of San Jose, Calif., was matron of honor. Desha Segura of Salem, Ore., niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Bill Segura, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Chad Segura, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Rob Gietzen, brother of the bride, and Chris McDevitt, both of Buhl, were candelighters.

A reception and dinner followed the ceremony. Reception assistants included Mrs. Christine Welch, Paula DeAlba and Chris McDevitt, all of Buhl.

On June 10 a reception and buffet dinner were held at the bride's parents home for 230 guests. Guests attended from Salem and Sweet Home, Ore.; Berkeley and San Jose, Calif.; Morgan, Utah; Mountain Home and Moscow.

The couple lives in Buhl where he is employed by Clear Springs Trout Farms. Mrs. Quigley is employed by the law firm of Weaver and Dykas.

Too much sun, wind are harmful

TWIN FALLS — "The biggest enemies of youth are too much sun and wind and constant loss and gaining of weight," Dr. Julian Nicholson told Twin Falls Kiwanians Thursday.

The cosmetic surgeon who practices in Twin Falls discussed modern surgery techniques which can make wrinkles more attractive. He said the well known "crash diet" in which the individual loses a lot of weight in a hurry and then frequently puts it back on tends to leave skin extremely flabby and wrinkled, often a very difficult situation to correct.

Dr. Nicholson told members of the service club that men are turning to cosmetic surgery more and more.

"We think primarily of women when we think of cosmetic surgery," he said, "but more and more men are asking for face lifts, hair implants or eye lifts," he said.

The much-talked-about "mini-lifts," Dr. Nicholson said, are not new but have been going on for many years. In fact this was the first form of a face lift.

Dr. Nicholson said the mini-lift is not a lasting improvement and the individual would be better off in most cases to have the full face lift.

He said the average person will find a face lift lasts about five years and many people go through the procedure as often as each five years.

The local physician said the "nose job" to improve an imperfect nose was one of the first popular surgeries performed by the cosmetic surgeons. Europe has been doing face-lifts for many years, but new techniques make the work "hold-up" for longer periods of time and cause less inconvenience to the patient.

"I have been told that during a presidential campaign, one of the candidates had a face lift and he missed no campaign appearances. I am not sure who the candidate was, but I believe it was Richard Nixon."

"Many people ask about the surgery and are concerned about how long they would have to be away from their jobs," Nicholson said.

He explained how the eye lift operation is done, saying it is extremely important that when a small incision is made and fat and surplus skin removed that just the right amount is taken.

"If you take too much the patient cannot close his or her eyes at first and may have a surprised look after healing."

"Even children have droopy eyelids and, often, require surgery to help their vision as well as their appearance," Dr. Nicholson explained. "Then there is the operation for removing bags under the eyes, which is equally as delicate," he said.

Dr. Nicholson stressed the fact that cosmetic surgery is not without limitations and danger. A wrong move by the surgeon, he said, can cause such things as watering eyes, tearing of the skin or even infection. He said there are many areas of improvement that simply cannot be done by surgery. Deep wrinkles or grooves in brows from too much tanning or squinting have to be removed by other means. Fat below the cheek bones cannot be removed, and patients should understand these factors before going into cosmetic surgery. In most instances, Dr. Nicholson said, skin is stretched, cut and then either stapled or stitched back in a tighter covering over the facial features. Anyone with prominent cheek bones and other sharp facial features is a better patient than one with less distinct features. When possible, scars are hidden in the hair, under sideburns or behind the ears, he said. He said one of the worst problems from cosmetic surgery is the loss of facial nerve control which often takes about a year to overcome.

Dear Abby

Abby answered nine times

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© The Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

Dear Abby: In another advice column, recently, you were asked to write to Dear Abby a couple of times, but she never answers my letters.

I am a 30-year-old wife and mother who has read your column in the New York Post ever since I was a teenager. I've written to you NINE times, and received a prompt, helpful reply every time. (I still have the letters.) Maybe people don't know that unless they enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope there is no way you can answer them.

Please print this, Abby: After all the help you have given me and many of my friends, it hurts me when people say you don't answer their letters. I want to add that I have written to several other advice columns, and the ONLY other advice columnist who answered my letters was Ann Landers. When I sent stamped, self-addressed envelopes to the others, I got a FORM letter saying, "Sorry, unless your letter is chosen for publication I can't help you."

B.B.K. IN N.Y.

DEAR B.B.K.: Thanks, I needed that!

and hair reeked of smoke. It made me sick! My son doesn't smoke. I don't know how he stands it.

Besides that, the children are always in need of haircuts, their clothes are soiled, and she never sees to it that they wash up before meals or going to bed.

In the last five years she has become a careless, lazy slob. When she married my son 11 years ago she was a neat person.

My son has an excellent job, and money is no problem.

How does a mother-in-law tactfully let it be known that her heart is broken when she sees her grandchildren raised this way?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Any suggestions you make to your son's wife will earn you a meddling mother-in-law card.

If you're truly concerned over the apparent neglect of your grandchildren, talk to your son about it. The responsibility is his.

DEAR ABBY: Is there any reason for an 80-year-old woman with a living husband to be constantly talking about sex? It is very embarrassing for her family.

She complains that her husband is "too old" for her, and she hopes he dies before she does so she can get herself a peppier husband.

Is it not possible — or even possible — for a woman her age to want sex?

We are shocked. She was always such a proper person.

No name or location, please. Our family would have to leave town if this got out.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANON: It is both normal and possible for a woman of 80 to want sex. However, if she has suddenly begun to talk about it constantly, it might indicate that some physiological changes may have occurred in her brain. Try a little tenderness.

DEAR ABBY: For years I've been telling my daughters (now 56, 59 and 61 years old), "Please, don't buy me any Mother's Day presents. I have everything I need!"

Well, they paid absolutely no attention to me, and every year I would get these expensive Mother's Day gifts over my protests.

This year I said, "All right girls, if you insist on buying me something, make sure you pick out something YOU like because it's going to be yours after I croak."

Annual reunion for 50 year grads scheduled July 20-21

TWIN FALLS — The annual alumni reunion for graduates of the Twin Falls High School 50 or more years ago will be held July 20 and 21 at the Holiday Inn.

This year the committee is planning a 1:30 p.m. banquet and program instead of the usual 7:30 p.m. program.

About 150 former Twin Falls high school students, some teachers and guests are expected to attend the annual event.

A no-host breakfast will be held Saturday, June 21, at the Holiday Inn dining hall and there will be time for visiting and social get-togethers among former students.

The afternoon banquet and program Friday will feature some historical slides and a presentation by G. A. "Cue" Ketter.

Leonard Scott, president of the graduate organization, will be attending from California.

Jack Phipps of Twin Falls is secretary-treasurer of the group and additional information is available by contacting him. Any member of the Class of 1929 or of any earlier classes may attend. Husbands and wives of the graduates, former teachers and school administrators of that era are also urged to attend.

Lola Vazquez, member of the reunion committee, said 137 attended last year, and more are eligible this year. She said it is difficult to contact all of those who should attend and urged the alumni not to wait for an invitation but to come and enjoy the program and socializing.

KING HILL — Twenty-five people are working at Clover Creek archaeology dig site east of King Hill until July 13.

The site, which is estimated to be from 4,000 to 8,000 years old, is the first pre-historic village to be discovered and excavated in southern Idaho.

The dig is a project of Boise State University, and is being financed by a grant from the Bureau of Land Management, who hopes to use the data gathered by the team to prepare guidelines for management and protection of similar areas.

The Clover Creek site is unique in two ways, officials say. Most archaeological sites are either in caves or rock shelves, whereas the Clover Creek site is an open site along the shores of the Snake River. And most early Indian encampments were temporary, while this site seems to have been used for a long period of time, probably because of the location near the river for salmon fishing.

An historian is working with the staff contacting people in the area who can provide historical data or pictures of railroads, Terry crossings, and early settlers. While there, the team is checking evidences of the Lake Bonneville flood, 30,000 years ago.

The work is being done in two phases: field techniques and analysis, and photography and cartographic analysis. Both are courses offered through Boise State University. Extras from the university join the team on weekends and for short periods of time to help with the dig. The entire team is camping for the summer at the Anderson campground east of King Hill.

Do-it-yourself proves tool company bonanza

By JAMES V. HEALON
NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (UPI) — These two estimates crossed the desk of Donald W. Davis:

Two thirds of all Americans are undertaking do-it-yourself projects. More is now spent by do-it-yourselfers than professional builders.

Davis, chairman of the company that makes the famed Stanley tools, said the combination has been a bonanza for the 126-year-old firm. With the amateur dollars pouring into the market at an increase of better than 15 percent a year, he feels the boom is far from over.

Davis sees the back-to-basics young couples of the 1970s as really being again do-it-yourselfers doing repair and remodeling jobs themselves rather than hire scarce and costly tradesmen.

The tools division of The Stanley Works welcomed them — with open arms and changed its line to accommodate the new breed.

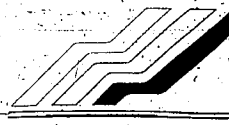

"I really see this as hot a trend or a movement or a fad," Davis said. "I see it as a very pervasive permanent part of our society. For the foreseeable future, people are going to be doing this kind of thing where 10 or 20 years ago they did not," he said.

Stanley now sells 50 percent of its hand tools on the expanding $2.1 billion amateur market, which it dominates. Yet it still keeps faith with its longtime bread-and-butter customer, the professional.

"This is where we started. This was where our name was made. The Stanley line is still the professional line," Davis said.

Stanley's sales and earnings established new company records in 1978. Sales reached $73.8 million, an increase of 18 percent over the $60.2 million in 1977. Earnings were $11.6 million, compared with $3.9 million for 1977. The company has 16,000 employees in 33 divisions around the world.

Stanley, founded in 1843 by Frederick Stanley and his brother,

Business

William, has adopted its largest capital spending budget ever — $49 million for 1979, up from $37.5 million in 1978.

Davis, 57, joined Stanley in 1948 when he graduated from the Harvard School of Business. He became Stanley's president in 1966. Two years later, the Stanley slogan was born: "Stanley helps you do things right."

"The whole idea of the slogan was to give people confidence. They could buy our products and they would be able to do the job," he said.

Stanley redesigned some hand tools and hardware for the amateur remodeling market and made them simpler — and making things simpler is the key in Stanley's side to the top of the do-it-yourself market.

Hammers for the new breed were made lighter, for example. The miter box had been thought of as a complex tool and fairly expensive, but Stanley's consumer model now sells for about $20 and does 60 or 70 percent of the basic cuts.

Stanley tells potential buyers how to use a hand saw, and even builds a special square and miter feature into the handle. A beginner gets a primer on the cardboard sheath containing the saw.

"To cut a board, lay it across two sawhorses of equal height. Mark the board to the correct length, using a try square or the handle of this saw. Hold the saw at a 45 degree angle (shown on the handle) to the board and your line with the pencil mark. Saw the board on the outside line, not on it. Start out with short strokes. Stanley sometimes sets up film strips in retail outlets to illustrate particular projects and it provides a toll free number with its garage door opener so technicians can guide customers through an installation if they have trouble.

"We've tried to do everything we can think of to make these successful enterprises for the do-it-yourselfer. We try to design a product that will be easy to use. We try to tell him how to use it. We package it in such a way that he can see exactly what the product is and what its purpose is," Davis said.

Stanley is aware that if a do-it-yourselfer, called a DIY in the trade, is gratified with the results of one project, he or she is likely to do another — presumably with the same company that helped make the first project possible. "If a do-it-yourselfer buys something, takes it home and has a lot of trouble with it, it's going to turn him off. Our whole thrust is: 'We're in this for the long pull. We want to start from the ground up — right from the design of the product, the packaging of the merchandise, the instructions, the display and the follow-up.'"

As an illustration, Stanley asks people who buy the garage door opener to fill out a card. Sometimes their suggestions are incorporated into revised instructions.

"Everything is thought through as to how to make this a successful venture for the do-it-yourselfer. So when he's through with a project, he has a positive feeling toward Stanley and our product. That's the whole thrust of our television commercials."

"You get some satisfaction from working with your hands, doing your own thing. The younger generation has led the way, working with their hands, not being dependent on others."

"That's been one of the reasons, along with the economic factors, that this whole thing has developed as strongly as it has."

Gem State promotes Anderson

TWIN FALLS — John C. Anderson of Twin Falls has been appointed general manager of Gem State Paper and Supply Co.

From the company's general offices in Twin Falls, Anderson will direct operations in branch warehouses here, Boise and Pocatello and from sales offices in Idaho Falls, Burley, Ketchum and Elko, Nev.

Anderson joined the firm in 1971 as sales representative in Eastern Idaho, later moving to Twin Falls where he became operations manager and assistant general manager.

Anderson and his wife, the former Vicki Menden from Pocatello, are the parents of two sons.

Gem State Paper and Supply distributes paper and paper products, janitorial and chemical supplies, institutional products, office supplies and resale merchandise. It employs 292 persons in Idaho.

Anderson's appointment by the firm's directors became effective July 1.

Comprehensive plan squabble threat grows

By JEFF SHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council could be facing a hassle over the city comprehensive plan equal to last year's LID controversy, Twin Falls realtor Mike Gray warned last week.

Gray said the Times-News Twin Falls realtors were not satisfied with the way the planning and zoning commission handled hearings on the comprehensive plan. The commission unanimously passed the plan last week. It now goes to the city council for final approval.

"The most unsatisfactory aspect is that the plan itself has not been available for a long period of time. There were two substantial memorandum changes that were discussed apparently by the planning and zoning commission in closed session, but there was never a total document available to the public to analyze, and it is not available today and it won't be available until some time in July," Gray said.

Gray said he has seen the two memorandum changes, but he said they were not integrated into a document that could be easily understood and discussed. He said the combination of the original document and the memorandum and other changes that were made to the plan were "hot in a form that really anybody outside of the P and Z could understand, and I'm not so sure they do."

Gray warned the council to handle its discussion of the plan in a more open fashion than the commission.

"If the city does not open up and solicit comment, I believe this comprehensive plan issue will develop the same way the LID issue did," he said.

Gray went as far as to say that a lawsuit is probable if "we don't get a good dialogue on it."

City zoning administrator LaMar Orton said copies of the plan incorporating all changes will be available to the public by the beginning of next week through his office at City Hall. He said he will send copies of the document to those who request it.

Gray went on to list some specific objections the realtors have to the plan.

The main objection is that the plan significantly changes the city's interim zoning ordinance.

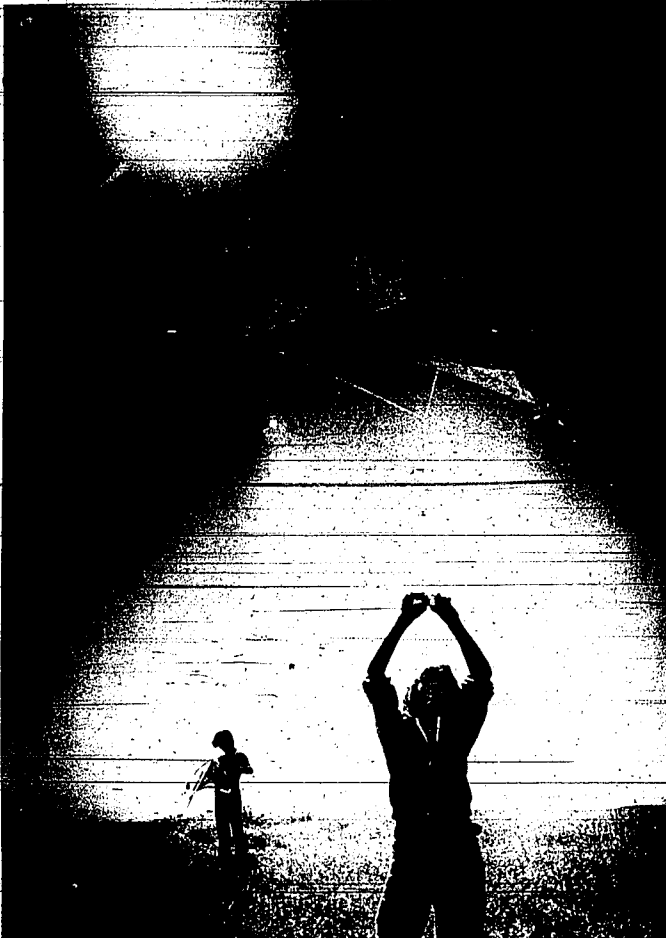

"They should not pass a comprehensive plan and then conform the zoning ordinance to it, especially after two years were spent formulating the zoning ordinance," Gray said.

To do so is an example of "typical government inefficiency," Gray charged. Specifically, the plan expands the design, rezoning and changes other zoning set down in the interim zoning ordinance.

BOISE — Businessmen and government officials will present views on gasohol today at a Boise hearing chaired by Sen. Frank Church.

Church has asked for comments on his "Gasohol Motor Fuel Act of 1979," which he introduced in the Senate in March. The legislation would require oil companies to produce gasohol by 1981.

HAGERMAN — There will be no more water taken from Hagerman Valley streams, a group of the area's residents vowed last week.

Hagerman Valley residents formed a coalition to seek minimum flow designations on water rights in Hingillage and Riley Creeks.

The group of about 50 elected to hire an attorney. But they decided to go to court only as a last resort to protect the streams.

After Friday's meeting at the IOOF Hall in Hagerman, a woman remarked the widespread concern for the streams is new in the valley.

"Not too long ago you wouldn't have heard these people talking about minimum flows," she said.

The organization, called the Hagerman Valley Citizens Alert, was formed by individuals who have tried unsuccessfully to stop water rights applications. They are hoping, as a group, they'll have more influence in the legislature and in Gooding County.

Terry Tario's 'T' this Wednesday tequila

By BEN MCKELWAY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Terry Tario doesn't normally drink on the job. But Wednesday morning he will bring a bottle of tequila to work.

At program director and talk-show host Cezler's station, Tario is paid to worry about the station's public image. But he doesn't plan to hide his tequila in his desk drawer or file it under "T" in a backroom file cabinet.

holyday. "Some people don't realize the effect that a few drinks can have," he said. "The first thing to go when you get drunk is your sense of reasoning. The drunker I get, the more obvious it's going to be that I can't handle it. I probably won't be able to continue the conversation."

He will be tested regularly by Cezler for dexterity and coordination. Cezler will also administer the "Mobile Brain Alcohol Test," given on the highway to drivers suspected of intoxication. This test, known as the MOBAT, will show the percentage of alcohol in Tario's body.

reading above this level would brand Tario as legally intoxicated in Idaho. Cezler points out, however, that a driver can be convicted of driving while intoxicated even though her/his blood alcohol level is below .08 percent.

About 9 a.m. in plain view of CBS studio employees, he will open his bottle and pour himself a drink. It won't be a patriotic Fourth of July toast. It won't be a private joke shared by the thousands of people listening to KEEP it. It will be the first of many drinks that morning, because Tario intends to get drunk. Not high, tipsy, or light-headed. Just plain drunk. And he will be on the air.

"We're doing it to show exactly what happens when you drink and drive," said Tario, who chose Independence Day for the program because alcohol consumption and highway deaths both rise on a

Service charges planned

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Regional offices of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare (DHW) have been handed the responsibility of generating revenues from certain services to help bolster a highly curtailed 1980 budget.

Kent Henderson, Region 5 director in Twin Falls, said his regional program will be responsible for raising $149,000 more in youth services programs and $90,000 in mental health programs in order to continue to provide youth probation work and mental health evaluations in local counties.

Under state law, counties are required to fund probation services for youth. Henderson said the DHW has been providing the services free in most of the region's counties during recent years.

Twin Falls county provided $9,000 to Harbor House during 1978. The money was considered part of the probation program. The county discontinued funding Harbor House this year, leaving full responsibility for the probation services there to the state.

Henderson said the state agency is not asking counties in Magic Valley to provide the entire $228,000. He said the agency only wants about $75,000, paid on a cost per case basis, from Magic Valley counties if they want the agency to continue youth probation and mental health evaluation services.

Twin Falls county last year had 32 youngsters in the probation program. This would cost the county $1,461 per month—average—or $18,732 per year under the proposed payment program, he said.

On a per case basis, other counties would pay $15,588 in Cassia; $8,532 in Minidoka; $4,200 in Blaine; $5,628 in Jerome, and $1,788 in Gooding. There were no cases last year in Lincoln or Camas Counties. The total amount of last year's case loads, come to $54,468.

In the mental health program, Henderson said, DHW provides evaluation for court cases where insanity is used as a plea or evaluates individuals who are recommended for commitment to institutions. Costs here are about $21,000 for the region.

He said, with reduced state budgets, regional offices are asked to generate more revenue for continuing such programs, but not all of it will be coming from county governments. Additional charges where families are able to pay are being considered.

"Last year, for example, we collected about $60,000 in our region in the foster care program. This was money collected from parents whose children were placed in foster homes for their parents' inability to care for their care," the director said.

"I believe generally the public will not see any change in services from our department. Both areas where we are asking county participation are major parts of the program. Because we have a reduced budget, we are having to take a look at some of the services we are providing that not required of us by law."

The region's total budget for the coming year is set at $1.8 billion compared to $1.418 billion a year ago. Among other things, Henderson said, the state legislature granted all state employees a 7 percent pay increase but did not provide additional funds for the raises in the budget. As a result, some jobs are being terminated. Those vacated by the workers are not being filled, and some workers, who knew their jobs would end, have been finding other work. This gradual reduction allows other workers to assume some of the duties on a slow moving scale, he said.

Tario said he will ask someone to drive him home after the show.

Ruling pending in Hailey subdivision case

HAILEY — Fifth District Judge James Cunningham indicated Friday he expects to have a ruling in approximately 20 days concerning two counts filed against the Hailey mayor and city council by Blaine County Prosecuting Attorney R. Keith Roark.

Cunningham charges the city with violation of the Idaho Open Meetings Act, and the other with violation of the city's Comprehensive Code. The county is seeking to have a city ordinance annexing the 182-acre Northridge Subdivision, passed in May, declared null and void. Hailey Mayor Emory Dietrich, the four city councilmen, former City Planning and Zoning Commission Chairman Grant Patterson and City Clerk Constance Blaney, testified during the two-day trial, which ended Friday.

Roark contends that four meetings, held this spring involving the city council and developer Jess Groves, for which no minutes were taken and for which no public notice was given, were in violation of the state's Open Meetings Act.

He also contends a 12-acre parcel bordering the east side of State Highway 75 and within the subdivision approved by the council, violates the city's comprehensive plan. The plan calls for the development of the present business core, in order to prevent strip development.

The Hailey Planning and Zoning Commission recommended to the city council that the entire subdivision be kept under limited residential zoning. The recommendation came prior to the council's consideration of Groves' annexation request.

In his closing arguments, city attorney Steve Bolter said there was "no necessity" for a comprehensive plan change, because the plan in its present form is vague in its definition of "downtown core."

Until Judge Cunningham renders a decision, the annexation ordinance passed in May is considered valid. However, no further development at Northridge is expected until the matter is cleared up.

If Cunningham rules that the city is only in violation of the Open Meetings Act, a new ordinance could be drawn up following necessary procedure. If a ruling is made against the business zoning, the annexation would be allowed as long as the zoning is kept to limited residential development or the city could initiate a lengthy hearing procedure, to amend its comprehensive plan.

Bolter indicated that if Cunningham rules in favor of the city on the zoning question, the matter would be appealed to the State Supreme Court. That would mean a minimum of two years before the case could be heard.

"I don't know if during those two years whether we could prevent commercial development," Roark said. If the ruling on zoning is in favor of the city, Roark contends the business zoning is invalid, as state law specifies zoning must be in accordance with a city's comprehensive plan.

Bolter's defense of the city's action included the fact that adjacent county land is zoned business, and therefore the city is not guilty of spot zoning.

Cult leader's son arrested in Miami for murder charges

By STEVEN CHRISTENSEN
SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A son of polygamist cult leader Ervil LeBaron was arrested Sunday by FBI agents in Miami for the 1977 murder of a rival polygamist in Utah.

He was expected to face a removal hearing Monday in Florida, and could be returned to Utah by the end of the week, Wagner said.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Utah has indicated it will ask that bail for Arturo LeBaron be set at $100,000 cash bond, Wagner said.

Jim Bridger plant Reward for saboteurs posted

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (UPI) — A $5,000 reward has been offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of whoever sabotaged a 500,000-kilowatt unit at the Jim Bridger Power Plant in southwest Wyoming.

The FBI and the Sweetwater County Sheriff's Department are investigating the incident. Aluminum oxide, an abrasive substance used in sandblasting, was poured into the lubricating system of the main turbine on Unit Two, causing scratches on the turbine shaft and bearings, Beaudoin said.

The damage will take two weeks to fix and the company will have to seek power from its other systems or other companies, he said.

Long love affair with convertibles paying off now

'Ragtop' fan Chuck Hill, 40, says his business unhurt by energy crisis

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Chuck Hill is almost as fond of convertibles as he is of money. He's also glad that Detroit quit making the former, enabling him to make more of the latter.

Hill, one of California's largest auto wholesalers, has had a long love affair with the ragtops that fast rolled off Detroit assembly lines in 1976. Now, as president of American Clout, he's produced 175 topless Chevrolet Camaro Z-28s and Pontiac Firebird Trans-Ams — and expects to be sold out by July 15.

"We're totally unaffected by the energy crisis," said Hill, a buoyant, blond 49-year-old who could easily pass for 30. "People who drive convertibles just don't care."

Hill got the idea after learning that most soft-top conversions cost more than $30,000, and that Trans-Ams and Camaros have the highest resale value of any American car. The project really got rolling when Hill met salesman Chuck Hindmarsh at an auto show in Newport Beach, Calif., last November.

Hindmarsh and auto fabricator Gary Forbis operate National Coach Engineering of Port Sanilac, Mich., and their customized Lincoln

Continental station wagon was on display at the show. Hill bought the car and brought Hindmarsh back to San Jose to tell him about his idea to produce customized convertibles.

"I told him he was crazy, that no one would buy cars like those," Hindmarsh recalled. "He was convinced there was a market for them and asked how big an order it would take to get us to build them. I told him it would take 175 cars to make it worth our while. He said, 'Okay, build 'em.' And here we are."

The cars come from the General Motors factory, the dealers themselves or the rent-a-car fleets serviced by Hill — not from private owners. They're shipped to Michigan, where the roof is removed, 215 pounds of steel are added underneath the car and a manual auto top mechanism is installed.

The snap top is lined with steel safety supports and velcro to kill wind noise and prevent any leaking before the cars are shipped back to San Jose.

Even though his open-air cars get only about 44 miles to the gallon and come with a price tag starting at $16,000, Hill says he's confident that the convertible market dropped by Detroit is ready and waiting for what he has to offer.

California brush fires out of control

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Two large brushfires burned out of control in Southern California today, destroying some outbuildings and ranch animals, and valuable watersheds.

A 1,400-acre fire in Bedford Canyon south of the city of Corona burned through watersheds and ranch animals and pets Saturday.

A spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service said the flames were burned old brush that had not been burned in more than 70 years.

The flames came to within a few feet of homes and ranches Saturday, before firefighters diverted the blaze. "It killed some domestic animals, horses, cows, and some pets," Steve Sump said.

Six air tankers were on call, five helicopters were being used for water drops on the flames and 310 men were on the fire lines Sunday. One firefighter was burned earlier and three suffered from heat exhaustion.

Fire control of the fire, which started Friday from a welder's torch, was not expected until this morning.

In San Diego County, a 600-acre blaze in steep canyons near Barrett Junction.

Patricia Allen, spokeswoman for the state Department of Forestry, said, "It's burning straight up and down. We can't get any equipment near the fire."

She said 300 firefighters were on the fire lines with three planes and four helicopters making water drops. "If the wind comes through the canyon, we'll have a real problem," she said.

The blaze was expected to be fully contained late Sunday, if weather permitted. The fire started from an illegal campfire in an area about 40 miles east of San Diego.

No structures were burned and no injuries were reported, she said.

July blizzard buries Washington mountains

By United Press International
 A first of July snowstorm whipped across parts of the Northwest Sunday, burying some of the higher mountains in nearly a half foot of snow. Rain soaked most of the country.

"Cold air pushed across the northwest corner of the nation, producing snow in the higher elevations. Nearly 5 inches of snow piled up at Paradise Inn on Washington's Mount Rainier. Three inches of snow fell on Stampede Pass, Wash."

Grant Benson, a Paradise Inn spokesman, said, "We've got a blizzard up here." He said several inches of snow had accumulated on the ground by Sunday morning and rangers were advising anyone coming up to the lodge to use traction devices.

He said snowplows were working hard to keep the roads clear, and one apparently struck a power pole, causing a power outage at the lodge.

An inch and a half of snow covered the ground at Logan Pass. Mount Glacier National Park, giving summer tourists a chill.

Showers dampened the lower elevations of the Northwest and pushed through the northern Rockies.

Strike cuts flights

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — About 190 Western Airlines maintenance and passenger service workers in Mexico walked off the job Sunday, forcing the airline to cancel its eight flights between the United States and Mexico.

Ray Silvius, a spokesman at the airline's headquarters in Los Angeles, said the employees walked out in Mexico City, Guadalajara and Acapulco.

Nuclear power expert plugs its advantages

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Harold M. Agnew, former head of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, asserts that if the United States had implemented the nuclear power program planned in the early 1970s, it would be importing only half as much oil as it now imports.

Agnew acknowledged that the Three Mile Island incident had put a severe crimp in the nuclear power industry's attempt to win greater public acceptance.

But Agnew insisted that fear of nuclear power results largely from misinformation, misinterpretation of facts and a general unwillingness to realize that only nuclear power can make the country energy independent of oil-producing countries.

He said nuclear plants are far safer than most people believe and produce electricity costing about half that of coal-burning plants, while being safer to the environment.

Agnew, one of four civilians to fly on the 1945 mission to drop the first atomic bomb on Japan, said non-nuclear power accidents and chemical toxic damage get little media attention.

He cited the fact that 80 died when a dam burst in Italy about a week before the Three Mile Island incident, in which nobody died. He noted that during the last nine months of 1978, 20,000 persons were evacuated due to 783 rail accidents in the U.S. involving toxic materials.

He also recalled the 1972 Buffalo Creek Valley, W.Va., disaster when a coal company's massive coal waste refuse pile that had dammed a small stream collapsed, sending a tidal wave that devastated 10 small communities, destroying 100 homes and costing more than 125 lives.

Skating banned on bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Roller-skating and skateboarding are banned on the Golden Gate Bridge.

District directors took the action Friday, and District Secretary Carney Campbell explained the safety of pedestrians and bicyclists as well as the skaters themselves must be insured.

He noted there have been no serious accidents reported but the surge in the popularity of street roller-skating and skateboarding in San Francisco forced directors to take the measure before someone took a spill and landed in a traffic lane.

Revolutionary sentenced

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Longtime socialist revolutionary Clayton Van Lydegraf, 44, has been sentenced to prison for conspiracy to bomb judges and conservative political figures and possession of 100 pounds of dynamite and other bomb components.

Van Lydegraf was sentenced Friday to three years, but was given credit for jail time since his arrest 19 months ago, making him eligible for parole in November.

Van Lydegraf was a San Francisco leader of the Prairie Fire Committee, the public support arm for the clandestine Weather Underground, a violent offshoot of the STUDENTS FOR A Democratic Society.

Cheers, jeers greet Pan Am opening

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — With the joyful hand-clapping enthusiasm of the audience contrasting the somber spectacle of black-bereted shock troops from the city's police, the VIII Pan American Games were officially opened Sunday in a festival of songs and dances that concealed the country's political turmoil.

With the two weeks of games between 34 countries scheduled to begin Monday, the three-hour opening ceremonies joined all nations in harmony — at least for one afternoon — as the more than 30,000 people crowded into tiny Hiram Bithorn Stadium reacted enthusiastically to the many ethnic dances and songs performed by Puerto Rican youngsters.

White members of the Games' organizing committee had worried about the possibilities of political terrorist acts at the opening ceremonies, there were just minor incidents.

The only demonstration came in the southeast corner of the stadium where independence advocates carried placards asking for "freedom for nationalist-prisoners."

They are seeking the release of four prisoners in jail on the mainland U.S. for attempting to assassinate President Harry Truman in 1950 and shooting up Congress in 1964.

Police quickly congregated in the area but there was no violence.

Outside the Stadium, members of the Puerto Rican Socialist Party handed out leaflets criticizing the governor for playing the U.S. anthem and raising the U.S. flag and accusing him of using the games in a self-serving purpose for his own political advantage.

"It is a shame that we cannot be recognized as a separate entity in sports," the leaflets read.

From most of the audience, however, the only visible sign of political differences were in their reaction to the playing of the United States national anthem. A mixed chorus of boos and cheers from the crowd erupted when the U.S. national anthem was played to officially start the ceremonies. The same crowd-cheered wildly and clapped when the Puerto Rican national anthem immediately followed.

By contrast, the reception that the U.S. team received when it paraded in review with the other countries was surprisingly good. Led by basketball player Ann Meyers, who carried the U.S. flag, the Americans were cheered warmly by the crowd and doffed their hats in appreciation.

It was the Cubans, however, who scored points for international diplomacy. The Cuban team — second largest to the U.S. at the Games — had its members each carry a small Puerto Rican flag which they waved over their heads as they passed by the stands. The members of the Cuban team also threw small stuffed dolls to the crowd.

On Monday action, the United States men's basketball team will meet the Virgin Islands in the opening game of the Pan American Games tournament at 5 p.m. MDT today, it was announced Sunday.

The U.S. contingent, coached by Bobby Knight, of Indiana University, continues at 7 p.m. Tuesday against Cuba, then meets Brazil at 7 p.m. Thursday and concludes the preliminary round against Panama on Saturday at 3 p.m.

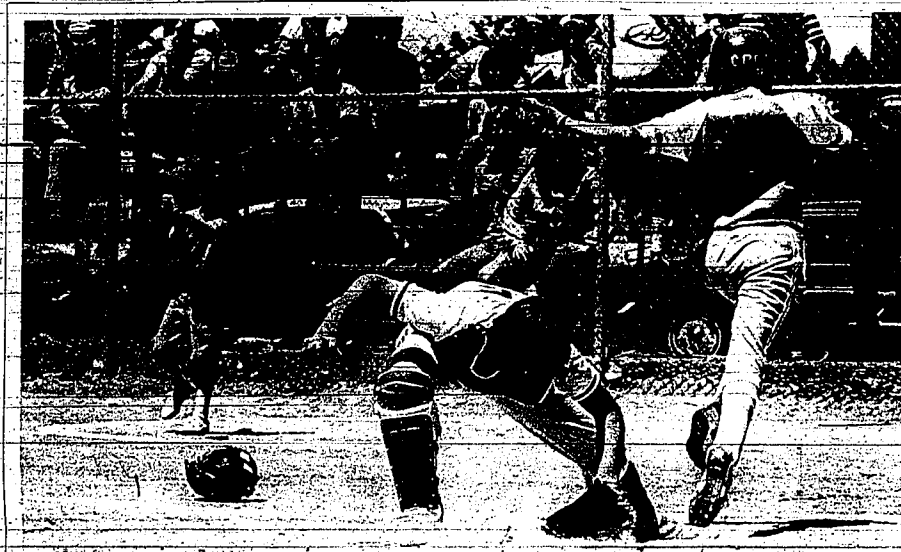

There are 10 teams entered in the men's basketball competition with teams broken into two divisions. Following the preliminary round the teams will be regrouped according to records. Brazil is considered the toughest opponent for the defending champion U.S.

Leading the U.S. men's squad is 7-foot-4 high school sensation Ralph Sampson from Harrisonburg, Va., and forward Mike O'Brien of North Carolina. Other members of the U.S. squad are Kyle Macy of Kentucky, Michael Brooks of LaSalle, Ray Tolbert and Mike Woodson of Indiana, Sam Clancy of Pittsburgh, John Duren of Georgetown, Ronnie Lester of Iowa, Kevin McFalls of Minnesota, Danny Vranes of Utah and another high schooler, Isaiah Thomas of Westchester, Ill.

Ex-UCLA star Ann Meyers, who carried the flag in Sunday's opening ceremonies, heads the U.S. women's squad.

Adding another run

Twin Falls Kiwanis catcher Darren Sandstrom got the ball a little too late for him to put the tag on feet-footed Mike Ayers of Caldwell Simplot Sunday during play in the Twin Falls Youth

Baseball Invitational Tournament. Ayers scored the final run of the day for his team as it went on to post a 3-1 victory and take home first place. The Caldwell crew relied on the effective pitching of Ron Crow to shut down the offense of the local club. Emmett, also from the Boise area, captured third place with a win over Caldwell Caxton. Story page B8.

Sudden death at Memphis Morgan's chip shot nets win

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Gil Morgan, who swapped his optometry practices for a golfing career, knew the hometown fans were behind him when he began his blitz in the final round of the Memphis Golf Classic Sunday.

"It's sort of like old home week for me," the 32-year-old golfer said after beating Larry Nelson on the second playoff hole of sudden death to take first place in the $50,000 PGA event.

"I've got a lot of friends who come out and watch me in the tournament and I could hear them cheering as I came down the fairways."

Morgan honed his golfing skills on the public links in Memphis while attending the Southern College of Optometry. The golfer, who decided to postpone his career in optometry when he joined the PGA tour in 1974, said the hometown fans were certainly a factor as he posted a final-round 68 for a 72-hole total of 10-under-par 278.

"I always do pretty well when I come to Memphis," he said with a smile as he pocketed the $54,000 first-place check. "The crowd was definitely in my favor. I felt I had a little bit more confidence and I think the crowd was a big factor."

Morgan, who now lives in Newoka, Okla., sank a 48-foot putt to beat Nelson in the playoff. Nelson tied Morgan at the end of 72 holes by shooting a 65, the best round of the tournament.

Morgan won the Los Angeles Open and the World Series of Golf last year, had been winless this year, suffering from wrist and back problems.

Nelson said he could see no sign of either ailment in his battle with Morgan.

"I'm just glad it's over," Nelson, 31, of Kennesaw, Ga., said after losing his first sudden death battle. "It's kind of a different game in the playoffs. Everything kind of switches around."

"He (Morgan) is the luckiest person I've ever seen in my life."

The two competitors began their playoff with routine pars on the par-3, 15th hole. They then went to the 16th, a 512-yard par 5 that doglegs to the right.

Both golfers hit excellent drives, but had trouble with their second shots. Nelson hit into a sand trap and Morgan into the gallery and onto a cart path.

Morgan's third shot, following a drop, hit short of the green. Nelson followed his example with a short shot out of the sand.

Morgan then hit his chip shot for a birdie, winning the hole and the $54,000 top prize when Nelson's shot rolled past the cup.

Tom Kite, who finished third, started the day at second place at 210. He tied the leaders on the back nine, but fell from contention with a bogie on 17 to finish at 2-under par 70 for a total of 6-under 280 on the Colonial Country Club course.

Bunched in fourth place at 222 were Bruce Lietzke, who closed with a 66; J.C. Snead with a 67, Graham Marsh with a 70 and Mark Hayes with a 67.

Defending champion Andy Bean opened the final round with five birdies on the front nine and was in good position to successfully defend his title. However, he then bogied three times on the back nine.

In Wimbledon play King, Austin paired today

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — It will be the Old Lady of Tennis, gamely hobbling along on her surgery-scarred legs, against Babyfaces, a frisky filly young enough to be her daughter.

For Americans, it is the dream match, as eagerly awaited a pairing as Wimbledon could have to offer, at least until the finals.

Billie Jean King, at 35 the matriarch of American tennis, has sworn off big time singles competition repeatedly in the last couple of years, a concession to her age and troubled knees.

Yet, come today, she'll be featured on Center Court in a quarterfinal match against 16-year-old Tracy Austin, the youngster expected to ascend to the throne as queen of women's tennis where King once reigned.

It will be their first meeting ever, although they played as partners in the Wightman Cup last year, and King was player-coach of the Federation Cup team of which Austin was a member.

"I call her Babyfaces, how bad can you get," Billie Jean said of her young opponent. "I started calling her that in Australia, during the Federation Cup. I thought we should have fun and enjoy the experience, and I had names for everyone."

King, who says she tells herself "you're a lucky so-and-so to get through the first week," has been better than that in "four matches; she has yet to lose more than four games in any set."

because of the experience of international tennis. Knows just what kind of Joree she will have to contend with, and she feels she's prepared for the challenge.

"Because of our age difference, I didn't know if I'd ever get a chance to play her," she said. "I'm glad I'm going to. She obviously has more experience, but I don't think that makes a difference. The difference will be who makes the best shots and who plays better."

"I don't think she'll bother me. The first time I played against Chris (Ever) she bothered me out there. I tried to make my shots too good. I won't be trying to do that Monday. I'm not saying I'm going to win, but I'm not going to let her intimidate me."

new reigning king?

The King-Austin classic will follow a meeting between two former Wimbledon champions: Virginia Wade and Evonne Goolagong Gajdary and in the other quarterfinals on Court One it will be current champion Martina Navratilova against Dianne Fromholtz, and two-time winner Chris Evert Lloyd against Wendy Turnbull.

The men's quarterfinals will be played Tuesday, with Bjorn Borg an even heavier favorite to capture his fourth consecutive championship following the shocking upset of second seed John McEnroe on Saturday, although Jimmy Connors looms as a solid threat.

King first came to Wimbledon before Austin was born, and has won twice in 1978, including the singles six times. She is a dynamic personality off the court, and an intimidating force on it. Her vibrant strength is a powerful weapon she knows how to use.

Austin, maturing beyond her years

Ever, the bridge between the old generation of King and the younger one of Austin, said if she were a betting woman, her money would go on Tracy.

"I think Billie Jean will get more psyched up for it than Tracy, she always seems to have something extra for Wimbledon, but Tracy's a better player right now and I'd have to put my money on her because of her groundstrokes."

Still, Evert, who needed three sets to conquer King in last year's quarterfinals, nudged her bet.

"Billie Jean always seems to play her best tennis in center court," she said. "The more people watching, the better Billie Jean plays. And I think Billie Jean, whether it's intentional or not intentional, intimidates opponents — and that may be worth a few games right there."

It's no fun when your team loses two softball games

BOISE — There are three things which sometimes pull me out of a deep sleep in a cold sweat: a dream about dying, a dream about a relative dying or a dream about being eliminated from a softball tournament in just two games.

One of the dreams became reality over the weekend when my team, Twin Falls Bank and Trust, was eliminated from the Idaho Sporting Goods Classic after just two games.

As trivial as it may seem, being bumped from a softball tournament in just two games is a very traumatic experience.

There is more to it than just losing two games and driving back home. Much more.

Playing in a softball tournament means more than just the actual time on the field. There is the pizza and beer following games, the relaxation between games and the simple enjoyment of just being outdoors in a strange environment.

There was never enough time for any of it to happen over the weekend.

You spend all week planning for the big trip. Can't forget the swim suit or the sun-tan lotion or the ice chest. And of course an ice chest is no good unless there is something in it.

Twin Falls Bank and Trust played its first game Friday evening against the Boise Blimpies, the team which took third place in last year's Idaho Sporting Goods Classic.

Everyone was ready to play, looking very dapper in their all-white uniforms. All but Frey, that is, who forgot his white pants because he was too busy worrying about whether or not he brought along his swim suit.

Bank and Trust played well that night, well enough in win had it not been for the poor lighting at Fort Boise Park. Blimpies, of course, was used to it while the Twin Falls outfielders came down with a sudden case of night blindness.

You know the lights had to be bad when Frey faced back for a deep fly ball only to have it fall safely in front of him 50 feet away. It would have been even more embarrassing had it not happened to all three outfielders.

Losing the game was bad enough, but afterwards nobody was in the mood to eat pizza and drink beer.

What is the worst coming to when you travel 120 miles to play softball and don't even get to eat pizza and drink beer after the game?

At least the hotel swimming pool was still open, although the sun tan lotion somehow failed to work at 11 p.m. Still, the swim suit did get one chance to get wet.

Having lost the opener, Bank and Trust was scheduled to play again at 11 a.m. Saturday. That meant getting up early and loading the ice chest with beer, soft drinks and, of course, ice.

The opponent that morning was Sawaway out of Salmon, a team we had beaten by 15 runs in five innings two weeks ago in Idaho Falls. No contest, we would do it again and have until 6:30 p.m. to sit around the pool and get tan.

Seven innings later it was Sawaway 6, Bank and Trust 3 and just like that the vacation was over. No pizza, no beer, no float trips down the Boise River, no tour of downtown Boise in the funny little train, no chance for the ice in the chest to turn to water, no time for anything fun to happen.

There actually still was time to do all those things, but who wants to stay around and talk about such a disaster? After all, any team which sprinks out a blanket and lays around the park gives the appearance of still being in the tournament. Someone might just come along and ask who we played next, and I would hate to be.

So it was back in the Honda Civic and back to Twin Falls, less than 24 hours after leaving on what promised to be a vacation.

During the long ride back home there was time to drink one Pepsi, but that hardly made a dent in what is now over-loading the refrigerator. At least it will save a trip to the store before this weekend's tournament in Rupert.

After sulking around the house for several hours it was time to start thinking about pizza.

"Want anything special tonight," my wife asked.

"Oh, I don't know. Want to go out for pizza?"

Chris Taylor dies at 29

STORY CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Chris Taylor, the two-time NCAA heavyweight wrestling champion and Olympic bronze medalist who later became a professional wrestler, died at his home Saturday night at the age of 29.

The 595-pound wrestler had suffered from a variety of illnesses and retired from the professional ranks in 1977 for health reasons. He died of natural causes but the exact cause of death was not immediately determined.

Ferguson captures LPGA

DEARBORN, Mich. (UPI) — Vicki Ferguson, so much of an unknown even tournament officials confused her with another golfer, captured her first LPGA tour victory Sunday when she made up seven shots on Judy Rankin with a 69 to shoot 284 and win the $150,000 event at Dearborn Country Club.

Rankin entered the final round in the chase for $42,500 first prize money with a comfortable five-shot lead over Debbie Austin and seven strokes ahead of Ferguson, a 23-year-old from El Cajon, Calif., who had never won in her three years on the LPGA tour.

In third place, with two under 286 totals, two shots back from Ferguson and one behind Rankin, were Jane Blalock, rookie Beth Daniel, Amy Alcott and defending champion Sandra Post. Blalock also shot a 69 in the nearly constant rain.

Ferguson duplicated her closing round 69 with a second round 69 but three rain delays totaling three hours caused her to finish at dusk.

Hailey rodeo begins holiday week

By GARY ELLIASEN Times-News sports editor A big week of state amateur rodeo action kicks off tonight when the annual Hailey Rodeo opens a three-day run.

The Hailey event, under the sanction of the Eastern Idaho Rodeo Association, will begin at 8 tonight and Tuesday and then wind up at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Other BIRA rodeos over the Fourth of July holiday include: Pocatello, 8 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday; Rexburg, 8 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday; and Tona Posse (Idaho Falls), 8 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Buhl Sagebrush Days rodeo will begin a two-day run Tuesday night. Both performances are scheduled for 8 p.m.

Lazy F Z Stock Co. of Weiser will provide the stock for the Buhl rodeo, while Hawkins Rodeo Co. is the producer at Hailey. Carey will hold its annual rodeo July 23-24.

District Five and Six, both in the Magic Valley, were the big winners at the conclusion of the Idaho State High School Rodeo finals at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds Saturday night.

District Five, representing high schools north of the canyon, captured the team title, while District Six, including those south of the canyon, came in second place.

District Six even took home the volleyball championship by downing the Boise-area's District Two in the finals Saturday morning. But then a funny thing happened to the team while it was celebrating, the state directors of the rodeo came along and whipped them at their own game.

It just goes to show you that the secretaries, timers and judges weren't just sitting around on their duffs for four days.

It wasn't enough that District Five and Six dominated the team action, but they also garnered the four top all-around awards and won four of the 13 individual events.

Congratulations to Tauna Bradford of Rupert who proved she could come back from a disappointing District Six rodeo a few weeks ago to win the state girls' all-around crown. Hats off to John Rose of Jerome, too, who wasn't even in the spotlight at district, and walked away with the state boys' saddle.

Todd Webb and Connie Stevens, the reserve all-around winners, put on a good show, too, and they'll be heard of in the years to come on the amateur circuit.

Other Magic Valley winners included Joe Roe of Wendell, steer wrestling; Anita Young of Rogerson, breakaway roping; Mike Smit of Carey, bull riding; and Rose won the calf roping.

There's not only a slug of local rodeos happening right now, but also 32 professional rodeos with purses totaling more than $164,000 from June 29 to July 4.

The most lucrative is the Greeley, Colo. event, offering more than $70,000 in prize money.

Leaders on the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association: All-around, Tom Ferguson of Miami, Okla., $42,182; Calf roping, Tom Ferguson of Miami, Okla., $35,948; Saddle bronc, Bud Munroe of Billings, Mont., $15,532; Bareback, Bruce Ford of Evans, Colo., $29,478; Bull riding, Don Gay of Mesquite, Tex., $17,797; Steer wrestling, Stan Williamson of Kellyville, Okla., $22,694; Team roping, Doyle Gellerman and Walt Woodard of California, $13,780; and Barrel racing, Carol Gostree, Verden, Okla., $9,541.

Yanks say there are kids on the way

By DAVE ANDERSON ©1979 N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — Two hours before the Yankees' game with the Red Sox Sunday, George Steinbrenner was in his Freudian seat. The principal owner and principal voice of the Yankees was in the swivel chair behind Billy Martin's desk in the manager's office.

"Look at this," Steinbrenner was saying now. "These are the stats that really count — batting average with men in scoring position, number of men left on base in scoring position, number of men left on third base with less than two out."

Then he rattled off the averages — Lou Pinella, .333; Mickey Rivers, .333; Bucky Dent, .325; Thurman Munson, .282; Willie Randolph, .264; Graig Nettles, .256; Jim Spencer, .243; Juan Beniquez, .211.

"With men on base in scoring position, Randolph has the most, 59, compared to 56 by Munson, 53 for both Nettles and Chambliss," he continued. "And with men left on third base with less than two out, Randolph has the most, 12, compared to seven for Nettles, six for Munson, five for Chambliss — that's about twice as much as anybody else. Randolph's killing us. I don't know if it's his new contract or what. Randolph's new contract calls for $1.5 million over five seasons, beginning next year."

"But the way the team is going," somebody mentioned to Steinbrenner, "is it starting to age?" "No," the principal owner said. "The ones with age are doing the job. Pinella, Nettles — and look at what we've got coming up from the minors."

Of the Yankees' five minor-league teams are in first place, the other is a close second. "We've got great young talent coming," Steinbrenner said. "If we planned right, they'll be ready when the rules change. Our budget for player development and scouting used to be $700,000 but in defense of Mike Burke — everybody's always picking on Mike — he worked for a big corporation that wouldn't let him spend any more. Today we invest $3.2 million in player development, scouting and the signing of young players. And when the new basic agreement is reached over the winter, it's very possible that free agents won't have as much freedom as they do now. More compensation will be required — if that happens, there won't be as much movement of free agents as there is now. And our kids in the minors will be coming along. This year, no matter what happens, we've got those kids coming."

White seeks trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Outfielder Roy White, who has been with New York since 1965, asked to be traded Sunday following the Yankees' 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

White, who has played in only 35 games this season with a .175 batting average, said he simply has grown tired of the city.

"I just don't care to play here anymore," said White following the game. "Why don't they trade me? They traded everyone else."

The 35-year-old White, who carries a .273 lifetime batting average, hit a two-run homer Sunday to boost his career total to 159.

The Green Stamps are back!

(Now with new, higher interest rates, too)

The Equitable tradition of Green Stamps for saving is back — one stamp for every dollar you deposit in a new or existing account, up to $1000. (Idaho law requires us to limit our offer of green stamps, so beyond $1000 the maximum number of stamps remains at 1,000.)

4 new ways to make your money earn more.

First, new Federal regulations now permit us to pay 5 1/2% on regular savings. Second, we have a new 4-year certificate with an interest rate that changes monthly and is tied to the average yield on 4-year government securities — paying a very impressive return on a 4-year investment. (Although the rate changes monthly, once you make your deposit the rate is fixed.) Third, our minimums have been reduced to $100 on all certificate accounts (excluding the 6-month Market Rate Certificate). Fourth, interest penalties for early withdrawal of certificates have been reduced.

Table with columns for certificate type, interest rate, and minimum deposit. Includes Passbook (5 1/2%), 12-month certificate (6 1/2%), 30-month certificate (6 3/4%), 4-year certificate (7 1/2%), 6-year certificate (7 3/4%), 8-year certificate (8%*), and Variable Rate Certificates.

The smiles on Twin Falls players' faces after Matt Harr scored a run soon faded away as Caldwell went on to win

Caldwell claims baseball title

By RANDY FREY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Most Little League baseball teams will take their biggest, strongest kid and put him out on the pitcher's mound.

The theory is that even if he can't throw hard, his size will intimidate most of the hitters.

But neither the Twin Falls Kiwanis nor the Caldwell Simplex used that theory in the finals of the first annual Twin Falls Boys Invitational baseball tournament.

Little Matt Harr and even littler Ron Crow of Caldwell locked in a pitchers' duel Sunday, with Crow winning out in a 3-1 Caldwell victory.

"He is a good little pitcher," sighed Twin Falls coach Doc Harr after the ballgame. "His curve ball had our hitters way off balance."

Crow, throwing with pin-point control, would start each hitter off with a curve then sneak a fastball by. He would then come back with the curve to put them away.

Twin Falls touched Crow for six hits, but in between he struck out 11 to keep the Kiwanis runners off the bases. Caldwell made just one error in the field, and Crow walked just one batter.

The only Twin Falls run came in the fifth inning when Harr singled to left with the ball rolling under the glove of the left fielder for a three-base error.

Caldwell scored all three of its runs in similar fashion, Mike Ayers leading off the third with a groundball to second base which was booted for an error, Little Jerry Favillo then singled to left, with the ball eluding the left fielder and allowing both rungs to score.

In the fourth, Ayers repeated the feat when his single to left rolled under the legs of the fielder and carried all the way to the fence.

"It was a good ballgame," said Harr. "The kids really played well."

It was the third time in two years the two teams had met in the finals of a tournament, with Caldwell now holding a 2-1 edge. There could be another rematch next weekend when Twin Falls plays in the Caldwell Invitational.

Emmett captured the third-place trophy with a 6-5 seven-inning victory over the Caldwell Caxton.

The game was decided on a freak play with the winning run crossing the plate while the first baseman, holding the ball in his hand, argued with the umpire.

With a runner on first, a ground ball was hit to second base. The throw went to second for the force but the umpire ruled the runner safe because the shortstop's foot did not hit the bag.

The shortstop then threw wildly to first, and in all the confusion the runner on second sneaked home to win the game.

Tournament officials were pleased with the way the first-ever Twin Falls tournament went. They said afterwards they hope to make it an annual event.

"It gives the other kids in the area a chance to come out and watch what is going on," said Harr, who besides being the coach of the Twin Falls Kiwanis was also tournament director.

"I think it will strengthen our program," he said.

Twin Falls entered two teams in the tournament, the first time the city has had two tournament teams.

Next week Twin Falls will play in the Caldwell Invitational, with the Nampa Invitational the next stop two weeks from now. Action will then shift to Jerome for the Jerome Invitational in three weeks.

Players on the team are selected by the coaches from teams in the city league.

Indians say coach will stay at helm

DETROIT (UPI) — Cleveland Indians president Gabe Paul called a news conference Sunday to announce that Jeff Torborg will remain as manager of the team, but stopped short of saying he would be with the club through the end of the year.

"Jeff is still the manager of the Cleveland Indians," Paul said in an attempt to squelch speculation that former manager Bob Lemon of the New York Yankees was about to take over the club.

"We asked permission from George Steinbrenner (owner of the Yankees) to talk with Lemon," Paul admitted, "but not everything you talk about materializes. I talked to Lemon this morning and that's when the decision was made to go the way we are right now."

"I don't know what the future will hold," Paul added. "I don't know Jeff doesn't know. He's in exactly the same position he was in when we started this road trip."

His position when the trip started was reportedly precarious. Cleveland has just two wins in its last 14 games and Lemon was said to be close to landing the job after losing his own to Billy Martin with New York.

"I don't believe any firm offer was or will be made to Lemon," said Mike Seghi, traveling secretary of the Indians, when asked if there was any chance to replace Lemon was about to take over Torborg's job.

"As far as I know, no talks are going on with Lemon. As I said, Jeff will remain," said Seghi, who is the son of Cleveland vice president and general manager Phil Seghi.

In Cleveland, publicity director Joe Bick confirmed Seghi's statement.

"Rumors that Bob Lemon, former manager of the New York Yankees, was going to take over as manager have not come to be," Bick said. "Jeff Torborg will remain as manager of the Indians."

Remy injured

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boston second baseman Jerry Remy injured his left leg while attempting to score from third base after a foul popup in the first inning of Sunday's game against the New York Yankees.

Remy was examined by Yankees team physician, Dr. John Bonomo, who said Remy had a hyperextension of the left knee. He was taken to New York University Hospital for x-rays.

Hawaii joins WAC league

DENVER (UPI) — The University of Hawaii Sunday officially became the eighth member of the Western Athletic Conference.

The WAC Presidents' Council had approved the membership in December of 1978, effective July 1, 1979.

The Rainbow Warriors' baseball team in 1979 won 69 games, more than any collegiate team in history. WAC officials said the Hawaii football and basketball teams improved their records last season while playing most WAC teams in both sports.

BOISE — Greg Habel shut down the Boise Gems offense in the top of the seventh inning Sunday to give the Twin Falls American Legion baseball team a 5-3 victory in the first game of a doubleheader.
The Gems came back to down Twin Falls 14-4 in the nightcap.
The two games left the local club with a 12-9 record for the year. It will go on the road Saturday to Malad and then travel to Pocatello Sunday.
Habel came on in relief of Logan Eastley and saved the win for the starting pitcher by striking out the side with the Gems having runners at second and third.
Those getting hits for Twin Falls in that first game included Rocky Brown (2-4 and a triple), John Miller (2-3 and a double), Curtis Grant (1-1 and a double), Randy Cummings (1-3), Scott Nass (1-4) and Gary Krumm (1-1).

CONTEST TO END
TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls American Legion team is looking for a nickname.
Entries must be mailed to the Times News, Box 518, Twin Falls, 83301 no later than Friday.
The winning entry will receive a $25 cash prize.

errors, while Boise had five runs on eight hits and three errors.
In the second game, "nothing went right," according to Coach Gary Barker as the Gems built a 9-1 lead after four innings.
"Joe just made too many errors and never could get going," he said.
John Wetter took the loss on the mound.

Caldwell cuts off Minico rally for win
RUPERT — Caldwell cut off a ninth inning Minico rally to nip the Sage 9-8 in American Legion baseball action Sunday.
Minico is now 12-9 for the year heading into a round-robin tournament at Pocatello beginning Tuesday. The Sage will play Cody, Wyo., in the first game and then meet Kearns of Salt Lake City and Pocatello in other games.

Wood River wins final game of weekend
HAILEY — The Wood River American Legion baseball team ran into some tough competition and dropped five of six ball games over the weekend.
"One of the good things about it was that we ended up on a winning note," said Coach Bob Gray.
St. Maries started the long losing Thursday sending the Hailey area club 13-4 and 9-2 losses and then Caldwell won on Saturday 7-1 and 2-0 on Sunday, Pocatello won the first game 7-5, but Wood River came back to take the nightcap 5-4.
The Hailey team's hitting was highlighted by home runs by Bob Shay and Tom Bergin. Shay also had a triple.
Steve Evans picked up his first win of the year against Pocatello and also contributed two hits.
The Gems dropped Wood River's record to 4-10 for the season. Its next game will be Saturday against Twin Falls 8.

By United Press International
Sunday was a day that Terry Kennedy will not soon forget.
The rookie catcher hit his first major-league home run — a grand slam that highlighted a six-run eighth inning — to help the St. Louis Cardinals to a 13-7 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in the opener of a doubleheader.
Kennedy paces the offense in a scene-stealing pop in the ninth inning to provide a sweep, the Cardinals winning 2-1.
Kelly Hernandez led off the ninth of the nightcap with a walk off starter Randy Lerch, 4-7, who was then replaced by Ron Reed. Hernandez moved to second when Reed walked George Hendrick. Two outs later, Kennedy blooped a single to right center, delivering Hernandez. Mark Littell, 6-2, earned his second victory of the day.
In the opener, Mike Tyson was hit by a pitch and went to third on Gary Templeton's double to start the eighth. Hernandez went intentionally walked and one out later, Hernandez walked on four pitches to score the inning's first run. Loser Tug McGraw, 3-1, then walked Wally Littell on four pitches, and Kennedy hit a home run.

Kennedy followed with a blast over the right-field fence.
In other games, the Chicago Cubs swept the New York Mets 5-4 and 8-2, Houston beat San Diego 4-1, Atlanta nipped Los Angeles 2-1, San Francisco swept Cincinnati 2-1 and 7-3. A doubleheader between Pittsburgh and Montreal was postponed because of rain.
In Chicago, veteran reliever Steve Dillard drew a bases-loaded walk to cap a three-run ninth in the opener. Dave Kingman hit his 20th homer of the year. Bill Buckner drove in three runs with a triple and a homer and Lynn McLoughlin scattered six hits in the nightcap. Chicago has now won nine straight series.
Joe Niekro scattered eight hits over 8 1-3 innings to register his Dan Ford and Don Baylor blasted two homers each and drove in eight runs between them, hitting the Angels to a 14-2 rout of the Royals behind Ryan's four-hit pitching.

Ford added a two-run shot to highlight a 10-run eighth inning as the Angels completed a three-game sweep. Ryan, who won his 10th game, struck out 10 batters for the eighth time this season, equalling his win total of all 1978.
Baylor also added a solo shot and Ford a two-run homer in the third. Loser Paul Splittorff, The Angels' starting pitcher, allowed three runs, including the grand slam, in the starting lineup posted at least one hit with the exception of Bobby Grich, who went 0-for-5.

In other day games, the New York Yankees defeated the Detroit Tigers 10-2, Milwaukee thumped Toronto 10-7 and Minnesota nipped the Chicago White Sox 2-1.
The Angels' offense cracked his first major-league home run to snap a seventh-inning tie and power New York to victory in a game that featured seven homers. Ron Davis, 7-0, pitched a 2-3 innings in relief of starter Catfish Hunter, who pitched the victory. Jim Kat finished up to record his first save.

Steve Kemp knocked in four runs with a single, a double and a homer, and Jack Morris paced every player in power the Tigers. Morris, 6-4, allowed a first-inning homer to Bobby Bonds and an RBI single to Toby Harrah in the ninth to register his fifth complete game. For the Indians, it was their 12th loss in 14 games.
Paul Molitor, Gorman Thomas and Robin Yount belted home runs and triggered a 15-hit attack, hitting Jim Stinson and the Brewers to lead off the first with a homer for the second consecutive game to start Floyd Bannister, 3-7, on his way to the loss. The Brewers added another run on Sisto Lezcano's RBI single.

Frenchman wins prix
DION, France (UPI) — Jean-Pierre Jabouille of France, driving a turbo-charged Renault, won the French Grand Prix in Dijon, the first Formula-1 victory for both himself and his team.
The 36-year-old blond Frenchman, who started from the pole position, overcame early tire problems to win his first major-league race. He clocked 1 hour 35 minutes 20.42 seconds for the 80 laps of the 2.36 mile track.
He set a record for the Dijon Grand Prix, covering the 180 miles at an average speed of 119.57 mph.
It was a battle as expected between the yellow Renault turbos and the red Ferraris with Canadian Gilles Villeneuve holding the lead for the first 46 laps but then breaking just a fraction too soon on a curve, Jabouille flashed by and remained up front for the rest of the race.

ing with the way South reached three spades or the rationale of the early play, we find that West's opening lead was a diamond. Dummy's jack held the trick and a club was led. East ducked and South's jack held the trick. A heart was led to dummy and a second club led. East rose with his king this time while West discarded heart. Black came a diamond to West's king. Now West led the five of spades."

Alan: "The moment of truth had arrived. South paused to think. Eventually, he played a low spade from dummy. East took his queen, crushed the club ace and led a spade to his partner to set the contract."

Oswald: "I see you said that South passed to think. Real logic would have told him that East would have opened the bidding if he held the spade ace. In addition to his clubs."

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "The R. in the code word ARCH stands for Review the bidding. Perhaps the most important part of that review is to remember the significance of failure to open the bidding."

Alan: "All you have to bear in mind is that when a player passes originally, he will not have more than a certain number of high cards."

Oswald: "Without bother-

Ask the Experts

A New Mexico reader asks if we approve of opening a two-card club suit.

No, we don't. We do open three-card club suits when no better bid is available, but with only two clubs we can always find a better bid.
