

Carter's energy plan remains big mystery

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Carter, canceling his scheduled energy speech with an abruptness that stunned the capital, has created a mystery that could be lifted today or never.

Rhode Island goes odd-even to conserve gas

United Press International
Rhode Island joined the odd-even gas game Thursday, forging another link in a chain of rationing states stretching through the heavily populated Northeast.

States with the odd-even scheme now reach about 400 miles from the Massachusetts border into northern Virginia — effectively limiting north-south travel for off-day drivers.

Some Rhode Island dealers said they would ignore the plan and pump gas to anyone.

"I think the aspirin came too late," said Peter Montaquila, head of the Ocean State Service Station Retailers Association.

Monday, Tuesday and even yesterday there was no problem getting gas," he said. "I told the members of my group to use their own judgment, but I've instructed my attendants to pump gas to whomever pulls in."

Traffic was reported light around the country as many families made a long weekend out of the Fourth of July holiday. Except in Northeast metropolitan areas, where many stations were closed or keeping short hours, gasoline supplies appeared ample.

Reflecting a sharp drop in demand at the pump, the nation's gasoline supplies have exceeded year-earlier levels for the first time in 1979, the American Petroleum Institute reported Thursday.

The report said U.S. refineries operated at 89.4 percent of capacity last week — up from 86.1 percent the week before — and produced more than 7 million gallons of gasoline a day for the second week in a row, said the oil industry trade association.

In Mexico, the state oil company announced a 32.2 percent increase in the price of Mexican oil, making its crude among the most expensive on the world market at $22.60 per barrel.

unhappy with the draft of the speech and the issues he was working with. But the official did not say why that explanation had not been offered originally.

The speech had been set for national television and radio tonight. Its cancellation caught top aides by surprise, and even such high-ranking energy and economic advisers as Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal and top White House energy adviser Stuart Eizenstat were not informed.

Carter was reported to have left most of his Cabinet in the dark, but he telephoned Vice President Walter Mondale, apparently to tell him of the cancellation.

At mid-afternoon, a White House aide told reporters the president would fly down from his mountain-top retreat Thursday afternoon and return there following the speech from the White House.

Only moments later, White House press secretary Jody Powell telephoned a conference-call hookup to reporters.

"The president has asked me to say he has decided to cancel the speech for Thursday night. I have nothing to add to that announcement," he said.

No further explanation was forthcoming. A White House source insisted the decision "had nothing to do with the president's health." Asked if a crisis was brewing, another source replied, "Relax."

Still another, pressed for when an explanation might be expected, said, "not any time soon." Does that mean never? he was asked.

"Never is a long time," was the reply.

Also left unanswered was whether Carter's proposed trip to the governor's conference in Louisville, Ky., was still on for the weekend. Powell was asked, but replied, "I don't know."

Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said Thursday that Carter's "sudden and unexplained cancellation" of his energy speech harms his credibility in any new energy plan he might be developing.

In an interview with ABC news, McClure said he expects the interview was canceled because the President "doesn't know exactly what he is going to tell the American people."

"President Carter desperately needs to instill in citizens the confidence that he is able to lead," McClure said. "The unexplained turn of events will certainly make people wonder whether or not the White House has any policy in mind to lead us away from the gas lines."

The president recently returned from an exhausting energy summit in Tokyo and a visit to South Korea only a week after SALT II talks in Vienna with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

"The mystery" was heightened by the timing of the cancellation, since the urgency of the gasoline shortage was spotlighted when Carter flew directly home from Asia to deal with it, bypassing a planned four-day rest in Hawaii on route.

The speech was scheduled with the nation mirrored in just the kind of crisis Carter warned about in his 1977 "moral equivalent of war" speech.

Positives viewing developments that led America into the crisis — from energy glut to foreign price hikes — Carter had been expected to ask support for new conservation efforts and a massive effort to create alternate energy sources."

Idaho Power runs up costly power bill

By LONNIE ROSENWALD
Times-News writer
BOISE — An increasingly severe power shortage has forced the Idaho Power Co. to run up high power purchasing bills and run down winter power reserves.

Rate payers won't be billed for the imported power, according to the Public Utilities Commission. The real price tag may appear in the form of winter power reserves.

Idaho Power officials admitted Thursday that they probably will have problems this winter meeting power demands without outside resources. Hour by hour, the company is raiding winter reserves to meet irrigation, home and business needs.

Idaho residents, who pitched in to help Tuesday and Wednesday by reducing their electrical consumption, apparently flipped on the lights and pushed up their thermostats Thursday. Peak demand of 1.6 million kilowatts for residential, commercial and irrigation uses was a weekly high, according to utility officials.

Idaho Power has already bought and borrowed $352,253 worth of power from other utilities since the beginning of June ($298,812 during the past three days), in an effort to make up for power normally generated by the Jim Bridger, American Falls and Brownlee plants. All three plants have been operating at reduced levels.

Borrowing, expected to end Tuesday, was resumed Thursday when the utility couldn't find affordable power for sale. The cheapest offer was 42 cents per kilowatt hour.

As a result, Idaho Power made a Thursday arrangement with the Bonneville Power Administration to obtain "pay back" power. However, as Idaho Power spokesman Bob Brown said, the solution only delays the inevitable.

"In order to pay back, we might have to buy, in fact, we probably will," he said.

Idaho Power had hoped to stop borrowing because its debts already threaten the winter power supply.

Power, amounting to $24,512 and already borrowed from Grant County, Wash., and the Bonneville Power Administration, must be paid back by August. In doing so, Idaho Power must continue to rob the winter storage supply in Brownlee Reservoir. The only other option is to buy power to repay the obligation, a catch-22 dilemma for the utility.

Idaho Power forecasters have said the shortage situation will continue indefinitely.

Nicaraguan rebels capture another city

Mother and two children in Costa Rican refugee camp after being forced out of Nicaragua by fierce fighting

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Sandinista guerrillas captured the city of Jinotepe, bombed Managua Airport and battled national guardsmen for control of two other cities Thursday.

President Anastasio Somoza once again stalled U.S. efforts to force him to resign.

Managua was plunged into darkness Thursday night. Whether it was a blackout ordered by authorities or a power failure was not clear. But 15 minutes after the lights went out, a twin-engine plane flown by the rebels bombed Managua Airport, military sources said.

It was chased off by national guard anti-aircraft fire and damage to the airport, if any, was not immediately known, the sources said.

In other action, the national guard withdrew from Jinotepe 29 miles southwest of the capital after a day of heavy fighting, according to intercepted military radio messages.

Heavy fighting also reported in Ritivo, 10 miles north of the Costa Rica border, and at historic Granada, 29 miles southeast of the capital, a city established in 1524.

The Sandinista battle strategy appeared to be to cut off national guard supply routes near Managua southward to the guard's main line of defense near the Costa Rica border.

U.S. Ambassador Lawrence A. Pezulla met with Somoza on his return from Washington Wednesday and again Thursday. Both sides kept the substance of the talks secret.

But Somoza's congress, which had scheduled a session and stood in a hotel next to his bunker command post, did not meet, indicating implementation of the American peace plan had not begun.

Somoza's resignation and departure from the country; selection of a successor by congress; the resignation of the successor in favor of a council of prominent citizens appointed by him; creation by the council of an interim government including the Sandinistas, which would institute free elections and constitutional rule.

Somoza apparently demanded guarantees of safety for his national guard and his Liberal Party in return for his resignation. The Sandinista National Liberation Front rejected the U.S. efforts as "interventionist."

William Bowdler, a special American envoy, suddenly left Costa Rica Thursday without keeping a scheduled meeting with the provisional Sandinista government.

"We've been waiting for him all this time, and he has not called," said Mrs. Violeta Barrios de Chamorro, one of the five government members and widow of slain publisher Pedro Joaquín Chamorro.

There was no official explanation for Bowdler's hurried departure.

In Washington, the State Department announced Thursday it had sent a high level troubleshooter to Colombia and Venezuela to discuss the Nicaragua crisis.

Officials declined to elaborate, but spokesman Thomas Reston said the United States still wanted Somoza to resign immediately.

Reston said former U.S. Ambassador to Venezuela Viron Vaky might also visit the Dominican Republic before returning home Friday.

In Washington, a group of former military officers held a news conference Thursday and denounced the administration's cutoff of arms to Nicaragua.

Iranians complete the nationalization of main industries

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran Thursday completed the nationalization of all the nation's key industries. Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan said they would be run by the state on Islamic principles of equality.

Steel, copper, aluminum, aircraft, shipbuilding, automobile and mining were among the chief industries affected by government takeover, but a clause in the Protection and Expansion of Industry Law announced by Bazargan in a state radio broadcast covered almost the entire industrial sector.

All industrial property belonging to 51 businessmen who have been jailed or fled from the Islamic regime also was seized.

Economic experts said the sweeping takeover left only minor industries outside state control.

Avatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic revolutionaries shut down the swimming pool at a Tehran club belonging to Iranian Armenians, newspaper reports said Thursday. Earlier this week, Khomeini announced a ban on mixed swimming and threatened violators with severe punishment.

Bazargan did not refer to foreign assets affected by the takeover, but Western economic sources said the implications of the latest measures were "minor" compared to the nationalization of banks and insurance firms last month.

"The nationalization gives at least some idea of future economic policies though it may be weeks before the outlines appear," one source said.

Bazargan said the industrial sector was in "real crisis" because of politics adopted by ousted Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's regime, chief among them measures that turned Iran into a consumer society.

Nationalization was a step to save the industrial sector from complete collapse, he said.

The oil and gas, petrochemical, fishing and railroad industries are already state-owned or in the process of complete state takeover. Industry sources said in the petrochemical sector, a joint venture with Japan might be the only one to be spared full government control.

MUNICH, West Germany (UPI) — A 31-year-old divorcee was sentenced to life in prison Thursday for starving her 18-month-old daughter to death because "men and liquor were more important."

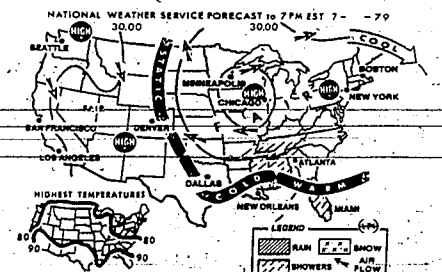

Today's weather

Partly cloudy with chance of thundershowers

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas: Partly cloudy Saturday with a few afternoon and evening thundershowers, mainly near the mountains. Highs today and Saturday upper 80s to mid 90s. Lows tonight mostly in the 50s.
Hayden outlook Sunday through Tuesday is for fair and continued warm for excellent curing conditions. Local areas of morning dew. Spraying forecast shows winds 6 to 12 mph through this afternoon with gusts to near 30 mph in the vicinity of the thundershowers. Pan evaporation 36 today and Saturday.
Camaa Prairie, Halley, lower Wood River valleys: Partly cloudy Saturday with a few afternoon and evening thundershowers, mainly near the mountains. Overnight lows in the 50s and highs today and Saturday in the 80s.
Synopsis: Scattered thundershowers formed over mountain areas of Idaho again Thursday and are likely to develop again Friday and Saturday. Temperatures will continue warm.
Most thundershower activity has been in the afternoon and evening hours, with the only measurable precipitation in higher mountain valleys. For 24 hours, ending at 8 a.m. Thursday, South Mountain in the Owyhee range had 2.2 inch, Bovill 2.6, Elk City, 2.7 and Moscow, 2.4. Skies Thursday afternoon were partly cloudy with showers developing over the mountains and temperatures in midafternoon in the 80s and low 90s.

Thursday morning low readings were mostly in the 50s and 60s in lower valleys but were in the 40s in higher mountain valleys and extreme eastern Idaho.

Generally fair weather is forecast for Utah through Saturday with daytime temperatures in the 50s and isolated afternoon or evening thundershowers in mountain areas. Similar conditions are forecast for northern Nevada, with temperatures ranging from lows near 50 to highs in the low 90s.

Bankers' story

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two British bankers ransomed from El Salvadoran guerrillas for a reported $10 million said Thursday they spent seven months captivity in relative comfort — even enjoying their favorite brand of Scotch — and generally expecting to be released unharmed.
Ian Massie, 47, and Michael Chatterton, 46, of the Bank of London and South America, a Lloyds Bank subsidiary, held a news conference after reunions with their wives and two days of medical exams. They were to return to London today, thinner but healthy and ready to go back to work.
Massie, manager of Lloyds' branch in San Salvador, El Salvador, and Chatterton, his assistant, were abducted by the Armed Forces of National Resistance as they left Massie's car in the bank parking lot Nov. 30. Lloyds confirmed a cash ransom led to their release Monday but declined to disclose the amount.

ACLU files suit

DETROIT (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union filed a $2 million suit Thursday charging the FBI was responsible for the 1965 slaying of Civil Rights worker Viola Liuzzo and tried to cover up its involvement.
The suit, filed on behalf of Mrs. Liuzzo's family, charged the killing resulted from the illegal activities authorized by the FBI — of Ku Klux Klan undercover informant Gary Thomas Rowe, who recently was charged with murder in the case.
Rather than conduct a full investigation of the slaying the suit contended, then-FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover attempted to orchestrate a smear campaign against Mrs. Liuzzo and prevent reporters from tracing the extent of Rowe's activities on behalf of the FBI.

Chief to resign

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Dianne Feinstein Thursday demanded the resignation of Police Chief Charles Gain, under criticism from his own rank and file officers for being tented on homosexual charges during his tenure.
Gain said he would go without a fight.
Mrs. Feinstein said she has asked the Police Commission to require Gain's resignation effective Jan. 8, 1980. She said no date was set for the commission to consider the request but all five commission members agreed to go along with the ouster.

Blast shakes Madrid

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Leftist terrorists bombed a newly opened office of the Banque Nationale de Paris Thursday in retaliation for the assassination of two colleagues in Paris last week.
The explosion caused heavy damage to the bank on fashionable Calle Serrano, but no casualties.

Heavy subpoena

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corp. delivered 7 tons of subpoenaed documents to the Federal Trade Commission Thursday, calling attention to its objections to a government investigation.
The commission subpoenaed the documents while trying to determine whether cigarette advertising is unfair or deceptive.

Asians scrambling for oil

HONG KONG (UPI) — Asian countries are scrambling for new petroleum supplies and nervously adopting conservation measures to cope with the oil crisis of 1979, a UPI survey showed Thursday.
Japan, Asia's largest oil consumer, is trying to cut its dependence on Middle East crude through a series of new agreements with Mexico, Indonesia and China.
The Philippines also is seeking Chinese oil and President Ferdinand Marcos is dispatching first lady Imelda Marcos to Peking Friday to persuade China to double its supply.
South Korea is stressing coal and nuclear power as alternate energy sources.
The impact of the Iranian revolution and the latest 24 percent price boost by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting countries is beginning to sink in.
Throughout Asia, gas stations are closing on weekends and weekday evenings. Air conditioners, elevators, escalators and other energy users are being restricted. Gas lines have appeared in Manila. Hong Kong's "Suzy Wong" red light district goes dark at 11:30 p.m.
Thailand appears to be the hardest hit.

Delegates trade insults at Vietnam-China talks

PEKING (UPI) — Vietnam accused China Thursday of trying, like the United States, to impose its will on Indochina. China compared Vietnam to Nazi Germany at a seventh fruitless session of peace talks between the two nations.
Delegates from Hanoi and Peking swapped insults at the negotiations, initiated to defuse tension between the two communist neighbors that went to earlier this year.
Vietnamese Vice Foreign Minister Ding Nho Liem accused China of trying to take over the United States' former role of intervention in Indochina.
Chinese Vice Foreign Minister Han Nianlong compared Vietnam to Nazi Germany, charging that Vietnam's exclusion of its Chinese minority "is as notorious in its cruelty as the appalling Hitler persecution of Jews in the 1930s."
"The meeting had no result at all," Liem said at a news conference following Thursday's session.
However he told newsmen that the prolonged talks are "not finished yet," indicating an eighth session may be held at the building where Austria-Hungary had its legal in Peking's pre-revolutionary diplomatic quarter.

Costly power bought

A statewide conservation effort that helped reduce demand Tuesday and Wednesday apparently floundered Thursday. The day's peak demand zoomed 4 percent above Monday, the day of July 4th.
The emergency plea for conservation.
"That was somewhat higher than our forecasts," Brown said.
Despite repairs that brought one Jim Bridger unit back on line Thursday, the company was still short 160 to 210 megawatts in generating capacity at the Wyoming thermal plant.
But Bridger, knocked out of commission by apparent sabotage Friday, was not the only cause of the shortage. Since June 5 the company has lost 4 million kilowatt hours, or $108,567 worth of power at the American Falls Dam because of water pollution. The state forces the utility to spill water over the dam in order to meet water quality levels.
In 1977 the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission ordered the utility to install equipment to correct the problem. That equipment should begin operating Saturday.
Brown's problems also are the result of a long-developing problem. Low Snake River water levels have left the reservoir 17 feet below normal this year.
Brown denied the current quandary could have been avoided with better planning.
"We try to plan to provide the most reliable service, but you can't foresee everything," he said. Blaming the Bridger sabotage for the problems, he noted, "We've had one unit down, but never two."
The Public Utilities Commission and the power company disagree on who will pay the swelling costs of imported power.
Brown said a continuing expense would have to be borne by customers.
"Sooner or later it would become part of our rates. It would have to," Brown said.
But PUC rate analyst Kurt Winterfeld assured Idaho electrical customers they will pay little, if any, of the importing costs. Winterfeld said the expenses will be excluded from rate decisions because they are temporary.
"Rates are based on normal expenses. Extraordinary items are excluded," he said.
American Falls will "probably have an impact on rates" in the long run, he added, because the oxygen injection equipment as a capital expense, will become part of the rate base.

Bundy's lawyers maintain witness was hallucinating

By PAULA SCHWED
MIAMI (UPI) — The defense said Thursday that coed Nita Jane Neary was hallucinating at times when she described Theodore Bundy as the man she saw leaving a sorority house where two of her sorority sisters were slain.

Circuit Judge Edward Cowart has sequestered the jury that has been seated to hear the case, and is hearing a defense motion to bar the testimony of Miss Neary, who is the state's star witness.

Cowart said late Thursday that he would rule this morning on whether Miss Neary could appear before the jury, which has yet to hear any testimony in the case — and then began hearing further defense motions.

A Tallahassee psychologist was called to testify Thursday to analyze the information Miss Neary gave during a hypnosis session intended to prod her memory of the killer.

Dr. David Kuypers said the police hypnotist, Dr. Julian Arroyo, coaxed some details from Miss Neary that might be incorrect.

He played a tape recording of Arroyo's questions and her answers, stopping it to make his points. Kuypers said Miss Neary told the hypnotist she could not remember seeing the intruder's hair or eyebrows because he wore a ski cap pulled low.

"Never mind what you remember, go back to that day, deeper and deeper," Arroyo said. "Now those eyebrows — what did they look like?"

Kuypers said Miss Neary might have then answered that the suspect's brows were dark-colored because she was susceptible to suggestion. After much prodding, she also described the intruder's hair poking out of what was originally there.

Cowart, growing impatient with the preliminary proceedings, warned Thursday he would hold court late each night and on Saturday in order to get on with the case. He wants to have the jury back in his courtroom by Monday for the start of opening arguments.

"I'll tell you now, the court's not going to try this case all summer. We're going to get rid of it," Cowart said. "If that takes night work, Sunday sessions, Saturday sessions or whatever, we're going to do it."

Retaliations predicted for Charlotte killings

By JERRY MITCHELL
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Police predicted Thursday, there would be retaliation killings for the Fourth of July massacre of five members of the Outlaws motorcycle gang, which reportedly is locked in a power struggle with the rival Hell's Angels.

"Something will happen," said

Walter C. Hilderman III, a Charlotte police officer who killed a biker three years ago in the line of duty and decided he'd better become an expert on motorcycle gangs and learn their workings if he wanted to remain alive.

"There will be a payback for this," he said.

The five victims, four men and a 17-year-old woman, were found shot to death at the Outlaws' little, two-room clubhouse in North Charlotte early Wednesday by their leader, William Flamont. One of the bodies had been mutilated.

Flamont, who calls himself

"Chain," discounted speculation there might be retaliation for the deaths and said his members would cooperate with the police in solving the murders.

Some officials were reluctant to blame a rival gang for the deaths until they had concrete proof, but Hilderman said he had "absolutely no doubt" that the five were killed by members of Hell's Angels, which like the Outlaws has "clubs" throughout the United States and Canada.

"Who else had enough to hit five Outlaws?" Hilderman asked. "It has to be a gang."

Hostages freed for big ransom

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 43-year-old man paid a ransom of more than $10,000 Thursday for the safe release of his wife, their 6-year-old daughter and a family friend who had been held captive by gunmen for 40 hours.

Four men and a pregnant 15-year-old girl were taken into custody and charged with the kidnapping. Police said a sixth person was under investigation.

The ordeal began at 11 p.m. Tuesday. In the hours that followed, the kidnapers demanded $50,000, then $75,000, before finally settling on $50,000.

Some officials were reluctant to blame a rival gang for the deaths until they had concrete proof, but Hilderman said he had "absolutely no doubt" that the five were killed by members of Hell's Angels, which like the Outlaws has "clubs" throughout the United States and Canada.

"Who else had enough to hit five Outlaws?" Hilderman asked. "It has to be a gang."

LBJ political victim?

Jury deliberating in the Estes trial

DALLAS (UPI) — With a defense attorney's mysterious allegation that Billie Sol Estes is a continuing victim of Lyndon B. Johnson's politics, the jury in Estes' fraud and $10 million income tax evasion trial began deliberations Thursday.

Jurors deliberated throughout the afternoon but recessed just before 6 p.m. without reaching a verdict. The jury was to resume its considerations Friday morning.

In his closing arguments, Estes' attorney C. Brockert Irwin said the federal government had made Estes a "political prisoner" since 1952 "because of his silence about President Johnson."

Irwin claimed that, at Estes' request, he would not specify what he may be concealing about Johnson, one of many politicians Estes became friendly with during his rise to financial power. Brockert said, however, part of the government's continuing interest in Estes stems from his knowledge about Johnson.

But federal attorneys said Estes had not been rehabilitated during an earlier prison term and instead was again wheeling and dealing in phantom companies.

"If you can keep track of Estes' paper conglomerates, you're doing better than I am," said assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Rolf during final arguments in the two-week-long case. "(His) dealings consist of a stack of forgeries an inch and a half thick."

Estes and his employer, Ray Horton of Abilene, Texas, are accused of collaborating to defraud three industrial leasing companies of about $500,000 through an arrangement to market 36 heavy-duty steel cleaners used in oil field work. The government says the cleaners never existed.

In addition, Estes is charged with concealing his assets from the Internal Revenue Service while still owing the IRS more than $10 million in back taxes.

In the 1960s, the high-rolling Estes was the golden boy of Texas agriculture who wine and dined politicians and called presidents friend. He made a fortune in liquid fertilizer, but that financial empire collapsed when the thousands of fertilizer tanks he claimed he owned in west Texas were found to be non-existent.

He was sent to federal prison in 1967 but was paroled five years later. While on parole, the government alleges Estes and Horton entered into a partnership, with Horton furnishing the money for the latest alleged illegal ventures and Estes contributing the know-how.

Adolph Coors' killer to be freed on parole

CANON CITY, Colo. (UPI) — Joseph Corbett Jr., convicted 18 years ago of murdering brewer magnate Adolph Coors III, was granted parole Thursday and will be released to the custody of a cousin in California in about a week.

Only two members of the five-member state Parole Board were present for the hearing, the fourth since the 51-year-old convicted murderer. The decision immediately was criticized by Denver District Attorney Dale Tootle, who earlier urged the board to reject Corbett's parole.

Corbett, who was not involved in Coors' original prosecution, was seized only two board members were present for the hearing on the controversial case. He also said he loved the board was circumvented. State law, which requires convicted murderers to spend a minimum 20 years in prison.

Attending the hearing were Vice Chairman Dan Grove and member Jim Zapfen, who said two members of the panel were all that was needed because Corbett had appeared before the full panel previously.

Board members not attending the hearing were Dick Sutton, Gordon Green and Carolyn Green. Sutton was given for their absence.

The parole plan granted Corbett is similar to one the board granted last Jan. 28. Corbett will be placed in the custody of his first wife, Gordon Meyers, who owns a car scooter dealership in Redwood, Calif.

Joseph Corbett Jr. is seeking obscurity.

Carter's homefront troubles pile up

BY HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "It's not easy being president these days," said Jimmy Carter, hurrying home from the Far East. He was referring to the energy crisis that caused him to cancel a rest stop in Hawaii after visiting Japan and Korea. At both the Vienna summit, where the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty was signed, and at the Economic Summit in Tokyo, where the industrial nations of the West agreed to limit oil imports, Carter appeared to have won the day.

But troubles at home have denied him the chance to savor his victories. Carter has found that Americans are more concerned about gasoline shortages and inflation. It is understood that while the homefront problems were piling up, Carter was being advised by Vice President Walter Mondale to cancel a vacation in Hawaii and to return to Washington. Adding to the personal burden, the president was told of a stunning drop in his popularity polls.

There is no doubt that Congress has dived and rejected Carter's initiatives. Some congressmen have listened more to the oil lobbies. Others believe the president's program has favored the oil industry. Whatever the reason, Carter and Congress have failed to get their act together. He now believes, however, the frustration of long gas lines has aroused the public and Congress. He is counting on the energy crisis to push Congress to rapid enactment of his windfall oil profits tax and creation of a synthetic fuels program.

The first job for the energy panel will be to come up with an acceptable standby gasoline rationing plan. The standby program Carter offered earlier this year was overwhelmingly rejected. The defeat outraged Carter and he sent word that Congress should come up with its own plan.

New Carter is hoping that programs devised with the direct involvement of key congressmen may be more acceptable to the lawmakers who have turned their backs on him so far. As for inflation, Carter still is counting on voluntary measures to bring down prices. But his economic advisers, including chief inflation fighter Alfred Kahn, have become more pessimistic as the world oil cartel price keeps climbing.

While en route to Washington from Seoul, Carter also conceded that the latest hike in oil prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries increases the possibility of a recession that could put 800,000 Americans out of work.

"This is the first time in history when our nation has been substantially inconvenienced without a direct threat to our security, like during a time of war, or a massive depression," Carter told a gathering at the Officers Club at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii, where Air Force One stopped for refueling. "I think Americans can stand this. I think we can weather the difficulty. I think we can meet the challenge."

"It's not easy being the president these days. But I feel renewed in my own commitment and strength when I know from history how great a nation we have... Working together, we can meet any difficulty and any challenge, and with your help and with God's help, we will do it again."

George Will Europeans confused

Washington Post Co.
WASHINGTON — Not for the first time, some Europeans are confusing the content and the constitutional elements of American political life. They are mistaking a particular President's particular crisis with a crisis of the presidency.

The Economist of London says that "if a treatise on a subject as important as SALT II... were now reworked by the Senate, a lot of people might wonder whether they could ever negotiate coherently with America: whether, indeed, they have two competing Americas to deal with."

Evidently, a lot of people do not understand that President Carter's SALT II crisis is a personal, not a systemic, crisis. Nothing in America's political or constitutional system made it inevitable. He brought on this optional crisis by the choice he made between the two competing Democratic parties.

One Democratic Party is in the Wilson-Roosevelt-Truman-Kelley-Johnson tradition. It favors an energetic anti-totalitarian foreign policy. The other, the "revisionists" Democratic Party, defined itself in opposition to America's commitment to South Vietnam. It is a deeply skeptical about the foreign policy perceptions of all Democratic Presidents in this century, except Carter's.

The nomination of Warnke as a historic blunder. Not because Warnke negotiated a bad treaty, he did, but given the administration's "minimal deterrence" tendencies, its indifference to the shifting strategic balance, and its negotiating attitudes, such a treaty was inevitable. The historic significance of Warnke's nomination is that it raised the level of Senate alertness. It interested senators in SALT II issues; it really began the SALT II debate that now is in its final phase.

Although the Senate has, in effect, rejected 200 treaties, it generally has been deferential toward Presidents in treaty-making. The fact that today's Senate is not deferential about SALT II says much about the treaty, and about the President responsible for it: it says little about the constitutional system.

The first "party" is represented by Senators Sam Nunn and Henry Jackson; the second by Senators George McGovern and Frank Church. Nothing compelled Carter to draw upon the second party so heavily when making his appointments. Nothing compelled him to provide himself with the narrowest range of foreign policy advice of any modern President. Nothing compelled Carter to nominate Ted Sorensen as director of the CIA, a choice that shook confidence in the new President. Nothing compelled Carter to choose the McGovern campaign's defense adviser to be chief SALT negotiator. When Paul Warnke's name was sent to the Senate, there were not six senators prepared to take the drastic, disagreeable step of opposing the new President's nominee. Forty-one senators were prepared to do so by the time Warnke finished his confirmation testimony.

People who favored, for example, the Cooper-Church and McGovern-Hatfield amendments during the Vietnam era — both amendments designed to abridge a President's discretion as commander-in-chief — can hardly object on principle to Senate action to correct what it considers executive branch mistakes in foreign policy.

Forest chief job spotlighted

Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Last week's surprise appointment of a new chief of the U.S. Forest Service spotlighted that unique position, arguably the most important federal job in terms of the Pacific Northwest.

The appointment of Max Peterson to succeed John McGuire comes at a time when pressure is mounting to increase timber harvest in the national forests of the Northwest (45.6 million acres of Oregon, 9 million acres of Washington and 20.3 million acres of Idaho).

The dynamics of public opinion with respect to the national forests was expressed well by outgoing Chief McGuire in his last interview. "The public is just becoming aware of the national forests. Public interest is not static. If there is a recession or an energy crisis, there might be a change in public attitude, away from environmental sounds that've taken toward cheaper solutions."

Though he was understandably careful in his first interview as chief-designate, Peterson alluded to the pressure which may mount to log the national forests of the Northwest at a much more rapid rate.

"We can't simply ignore the situation that's emerging in the Pacific Northwest," said Peterson. "We know it's an area of tremendous productivity in the forest lands. We also know it's an area of great interest in amenity values. A lot of people move to that country because they like the forest and the outdoors."

"We can't ignore the fact that much of the softwood sawtimber in the Pacific Northwest is on national forest land, and we're going to have to manage it very carefully," the president's new director to depart from sustained yield policies," continued Peterson in a reference to the recent announcement that President Carter ordered the Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management to consider departing from the even flow, non-declining yield policy that has governed timber harvest from the national forests. The Forest Service is unique among federal agencies in its decentralized management. To rise in the Forest Service, one must put in a certain amount of time in various regions and roles. The chief is appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture, and the agency has a long tradition of being run by professional foresters who have received their training in various regions and roles. The chief is appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture, and the agency has a long tradition of being run by professional foresters who have acquired their training in various regions of the country.

There was a lot of talk about the pressure being exerted to go outside the Forest Service in finding a successor to McGuire, especially because the Civil Service Reform Act, passed by the Congress last year, created a new position in the Service which supposedly makes it easier to give that kind of top job to a political appointee. Rex Ressler, former regional forester of the Pacific Northwest Region, and a new executive vice-president of the American Forestry Association, commented, "I was very pleased Chief McGuire could get the support of the administration in naming a career professional." But a congressional source points out that if the administration had wanted to go outside the Forest Service, it could hardly have gone to either private industry or the environmentalist movement for a forester to fill the top job. In fact, that seems to have been one of Peterson's major selling points as a candidate. "He has worked with all the interest groups, and that will stand him in good stead now," said Ressler. Said Brock Evans, director of the Sierra Club's Washington office, "We know him (Peterson) as a tough customer who is open and accessible."

School sale of 'junk food' comes under another attack

By SONJA HILLGREN
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Thursday again proposed restricting sale of "junk foods" in schools, for the first time basing its proposal on a new scientific nutritional standard.

The rule proposed sodas, chewing gum, frozen ice desserts and some candies could not be sold anywhere in a school until after the last lunch period. The proposal would go into effect in January 1980.

Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said the standard would allow sale any time of foods that provide at least 5 percent of the Food and Drug Administration's recommended dietary allowance of one of the eight basic nutrients.

The eight nutrients are protein, vitamin-A, ascorbic acid, niacin, riboflavin, thiamine, calcium and iron.

The effect of the standard is that some foods — candy bars with nuts, ice cream sandwiches or snacks with raisins — will not be placed in the federal government's "junk food" category. Mrs. Foreman said she anticipated criticism for allowing some candy to be sold, but that local officials would be free to set up stricter standards. On the other side, she said she expected a fight from soft drink and candy manufacturers. "All candy sales would have been restricted until after the last lunch period under the first proposal issued in April 1978."

Sperm carries a virus that may cause cancer

BOSTON (UPI) — Cervical cancer may be caused by a virus carried by the male sperm and research indicates the incidence of that type of cancer is more than four times lower in women whose sexual partners have had vasectomies, according to a study published Thursday.

The study was based on research done at the Kaiser Permanente Medical Center in Walnut Creek, Calif., and reported in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The study by Drs. Shanna H.

Swan and Willard L. Brown was a byproduct of research on oral contraceptives, cervical cancer and sexual habits. They said it supported current theories that cervical cancer might be caused by a virus contained in sperm.

Mrs. Swan said the results supported recent theories that some agent in sperm, which is absent in vasectomized men, might carry a cancer-causing virus and also supported research, some of it dating to the 1930s, that uterine cancer might be sexually transmitted.

Carter urges whale-killing ban

By ALICE Z. CUNEO
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, in a letter released Thursday, has urged an international ban on commercial killing of whales until survival of the giant mammals has been assured.

His letter carried instructions for U.S. delegates to a meeting of the International Whaling Commission in London next week.

"Despite our efforts," the letter said, "the survival of many of the great whales is still in serious question."

The president told the delegates to push for a whaling ban which would continue "until there is an effective comprehensive conservation program for whales which will guarantee their continued survival."

Richard Frank, chief of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration who heads the American delegation, said in releasing Carter's letter, "We have indicated to other nations that the United States is serious about this."

Air Force Maj. Tom Cross follows the ground trace of Skylab on TV monitor

NORAD steps up watch for re-entry of Skylab

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The North American Air Defense Command announced Thursday it has more than quadrupled the number of space sensors it normally uses and will double its space-watching crew during the expected re-entry of Skylab next week.

In addition to the radar sensors and space cameras NORAD's Space Defense Center has used in the past, an experimental system also will be used to try to give scientists a clearer picture of what is happening to Skylab, said NORAD spokesman Maj. Jerry C. Hix.

NORAD's latest estimate of when Skylab will re-enter the earth's atmosphere is July 11, with a possible error of two days on either side of that date.

"In addition to the normal six sensors we use, we are bringing up a total of 28 sensors for this exercise," Hix said. "That extends our tracking network considerably."

"Normally we have one crew of five or six people on duty in the tracking room at the Space Defense Center, but we will enhance that for a crew of 13," he said. "We'll have people there who have been following Skylab all along."

Most of the sensors are radar units, but NORAD also will use long focal length cameras, called Baker-Nunn cameras, and an experimental system at White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico

Skylab forecast

moved up a day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency reported Thursday that the most likely date for the fall of Skylab has been advanced to next Wednesday, a day earlier than the previous prediction.

The period of uncertainty in the forecast issued by the North American Air Defense Command remained five days, from July 9 to July 13. It had been July 10-14.

Judge says Steiger's wife has no claim on property

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A divorce court judge ruled Thursday that the wife of Rod Steiger had no claim on his property or the $600,000 annual earnings of the Oscar-winning actor during their five-year marriage.

Superior Court Judge Harry T. Snider found valid a prenuptial agreement signed by the former Sherry Nelson one month before their April, 1973 wedding in which she waived rights to the estate of the star of such movies as "Heat of the Night" and "On the Waterfront."

Mrs. Nelson, 45, an expert horse handicapper formerly married to a lockey, contended she did not understand the agreement and that it was signed under duress after the wedding. Invitations already had been sent out.

Steiger, 54, had lived with Miss Nelson for three years before his 1973 marriage, and the case had been described as another Lee Marvin-type situation since Miss Nelson also is seeking compensation for her "services" during that period.

Cousteau's son buried at sea

TRAFARIA, Portugal (UPI) — Following an ancient seafaring tradition, Jacques Cousteau, the world's leading underwater scientist, buried his youngest son Thursday in the oceans they loved and explored together.

In the most anguished voyage of his career, Cousteau watched a lead coffin containing the body of Philippe Cousteau, 37, splash into the calm waters of the Atlantic to slide to its resting place on the ocean bottom, 6,500 feet below.

Loud church has to pay for its sins

NOTTINGHAM TOWNSHIP, Pa. (UPI) — Praise the Lord, brothers and sisters, but not too loudly.

If you are too noisy singing, the end result may be a hefty fine for disturbing the peace.

The minister and congregation both thought they were practicing plain, old-time religion. But a justice of the peace disagreed.

He fined the Washington County church group, 30 miles south of Pittsburgh, for singing and praying a bit too loudly.

The Rev. W.L. King and about 500 members of the Voice of the Nazarene Association of Independent Churches were just getting ready for their service on Independence Day. Into the church walked a constable bearing three citations signed by justice-of-the-peace Joseph P. Reichel.

The papers said King and his congregation were bothering the neighbors. The group was slapped with a $750 fine, with $326 added to it for every day the song-filled prayer meetings continue.

Undaunted, the congregation went on with its meeting. King said he contacted the American Civil Liberties Union Thursday.

Scorpios should follow suggestion of successful persons; Capricorns may find organization pays

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are eager to be off to new scenes, but think it over carefully and don't act too hastily or you could be sorry. Strive to be as cheerful as possible when in the company of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Those new ideas you have should be made to operate quickly with the advice of experts and in a positive way. Study every factor.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are able to make a good impression on an influential person who can give you a boost in your line of endeavor.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you are more objective, you can come to a better understanding with associates and the future will be much brighter.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find a more modern system by which you can handle your duties and thereby save time and money.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make preparations early in the day for amusements you desire later. Don't permit ourselves to interfere with your plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Look squarely at all human problems and then handle them quickly and in a positive fashion. Be alert in motion today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) State your aims to associates and come to a better understanding. Your hunches are good now, so follow them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to what a most successful person you know has to suggest to you and follow the advice to the letter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Obtain the data you need from the right sources before going ahead with a personal project you have in mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think sure that your methods are well-founded and wise now, since you will have all time and energy in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact the most influential persons you know and gain the knowledge from them that can help you get ahead.

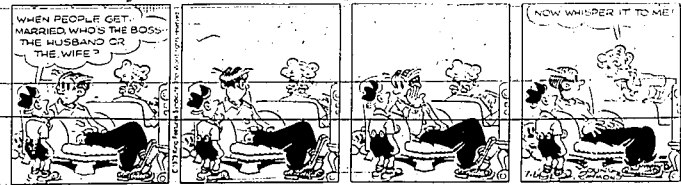

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have many small civic tasks to handle now so be sure to get an early start on them. Start clear of all unwanted temptations.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY—he or she will be a child of opportunity at attaining new ideas and putting them across successfully. Give the finest education you can afford for best results. Make sure religious training is not neglected. Sports are a must here.

What's what

Greek preference for wine with resin flavors comes from ancient preserving system used for centuries

Still highly popular among Greeks worldwide is that resin-flavored wine called retzina. That bite of pitch doesn't do too much for the unacclimated taster. Client asks why Greeks like it. Because they grew up with it, most probably. In ancient Greece, containers to protect fermenting wine from air were unknown. So preservatives, like resin, were added to whatever wine wasn't polished off on the spot.

Thailand says it will not accept any more refugees

By United Press International
Thailand's Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomman said Thursday his country would accept no more Indochinese refugees and would push back any who cross the border. Malaysia announced a scheme with Indonesia to keep out Vietnamese

"boat people."
A Japanese official said the Tokyo government would reconsider giving aid to Vietnam—if it continued to allow the refugee outflow.
U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said he was confident Vietnam would attend the July 20-21 international conference on refugees in Geneva if controversial political issues were avoided.

"We have had no formal or final answer from Vietnam, but its response has been very positive and I am confident it will attend," Waldheim said.

Kriangsak told a news conference in Bangkok, "The government has a firm policy not to take any more refugees and has already assigned the defense ministry and the supreme command to the responsibility and coordinate other units to bar, and push refugees out of Thailand," Kriangsak said.

A senior U.S. official said in Bali, Indonesia, Monday that U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance had received provisional commitments from the five Association of Southeast Asian Nations — Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia, Singapore and the Philippines — to continue accepting refugees pending speedier resettlement. But the commitment was conditional on their governments' approval.

Family spat goes to court

By RAY SULLIVAN
Times-News writer

JEROME — One thing has led to another in a family squabble which has since turned into a lawsuit and countersuit between a Jerome father and son.

Ronald Parson, 22, is joined by his wife Terry, 23, in suing his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Parson. They say his parents owe them 20 Holstein cows, 20 yearlings and 40 calves. In dollar amounts, that's $80,000 for the stock, plus another $50,000 in punitive damages and legal fees.

The also are asking another $4,000 for each month — beginning May 8 — that passes until the case is settled, as restitution for the loss of revenue from the sale of milk produced by the cows.

They also are asking another $10,000 for each month — beginning May 8 — that passes until the case is settled, as restitution for the loss of revenue from the sale of milk produced by the cows.

According to papers filed in 5th District Court in Jerome, Ronald, the seventh of nine children, claims he owned some of the disputed animals. The rest were due him and his wife in exchange for labor performed for his parents.

Ronald says on May 8 they were kicked off his folks' 390-acre dairy farm in a squabble over who owns the animals. They later were refused the right to pick up the animals, he says.

The suit was first filed in Twin Falls County June 11 by someone from the office of the plaintiffs' lawyer, James May of Twin Falls. A change of venue to Jerome was granted a day later since all parties live in Jerome County.

Ronald's parent's lawyer, Jan Dewoody of Twin Falls, said she mailed an answer from her clients on Tuesday denying the younger couple's claim and filing the counterclaim. It includes $10,000 in actual damages, and another $50,000 in punitive damages, as well as all legal costs incurred.

Ronald's mother said this week the 11 feelings started bubbling over May 8.

When she and Glenn, 59, kicked Charles Frederick "Fred" Thompson, off their farm with the aid of the Jerome County Sheriff's office. She won't say why.

Ronald says it is because he gave Fred a calf his parents had given him for working, and his parents, disagreed with the action.

Thompson is the 18-year-old foster son of the younger Parsons. The state placed him under the Parsons' custody in February 1978 after he had been living on the farm awhile. Thompson's stepfather is married to one of Ronald's sisters.

Mrs. Parson claims her son wasn't kicked off the farm but left of his own volition. Her husband declined to speak with a reporter about the lawsuit.

Mrs. Parson admits they had a verbal agreement with their son to trade him cows for work, but only if he proved himself. She said there was no firm agreement to turn the animals over to Ronald because the stock is mortgaged.

His mother says they had given Ronald some cattle but bought them back in return for a mobile home and a car.

Ronald says they lived in a trailer provided by his folks while at the farm, the same as many farmhands get, but it doesn't belong to them.

Ronald seems perplexed that he is filing a lawsuit — his first one — against his parents. "But you only can get pushed so many times. Then you got to push back."

The situation "just don't seem right," he says. "It's weird. But I don't know, business is business."

Terry backs her husband and co-defendant, saying they earned the animals — by his eight- to 10-hour days, and her help in pasturing cows.

The father and son haven't spoken to one another since the May break. However, Ron admits "I would like to, if they would."

Who would have to take the first step? "Oh, I don't know," is the reply.

Lawyers for both couples say the next legal step, if it comes to that, is to file motions of discovery to determine whether there is cause to take the lawsuit to court.

Sun Valley plans to install new snowmaking units.

By JIM SHULL
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Between now and October, Sun Valley Co. will install approximately $400,000 worth of additional snowmaking equipment on the Warm Springs side of Bald Mountain.

According to mountain operation's director Max McKinnon, work on the project is scheduled begin late next week.

"Snowmaking will start in the Upper College from where the snowmaking ends at the top of Flying Squirrel. Then it will go down Warm Springs face from the top, to where we left off in our phase-3 snowmaking," McKinnon said.

The project will increase the area where artificial snow can be made from 138 to 182 acres, with an increase from 2,200 to 3,200 vertical feet.

Jim Savaria of Halley has been contracted by the company to bury 14,000 feet of pipe for the project, expected to be completed by mid-October. Two booster pumps, costing $25,000, will be supplied by Johnston Pump Co. of Idaho Falls. Larchmont Co., an East Coast firm, will supply the 37 hydrants necessary to complete the project. Switching equipment, control valves and fittings are still out for bid. Other than the pipe installation, Sun Valley Co. personnel will supply the necessary labor.

The first snowmaking equipment was installed on Bald Mountain in 1974, when the primary pump house on Warm Springs Creek and the compressor station above the top of the Lower Warm Springs lift was installed.

Sludge order issued

TWIN FALLS — Fifth District Court Judge Theron Ward Thursday issued an order requiring the City of Twin Falls to show why it should be allowed to continue dumping sludge near the city-county airport.

Twin Falls attorney Monte Carlson, of the firm of Webb, Burton, Carlson, Pedersen and Paine, which is representing residents near the airport, said the firm sought the show cause order to accompany the damage suit it filed against the city over the dumping.

Carlson said a hearing on the show cause order has been set for July 19 at 10 a.m.

At the hearing, the city will not only have to show cause as to why it should be allowed to continue dumping sludge at the airport site, but also allow the residents to show why the city should be restrained from dumping there.

The action follows by three days the city council's decision to call for bids on a new contract for hauling sludge from the city's sewage treatment plant.

The bid opening will be August 3.

Bid specifications ask haulers to submit bids covering a variety of situations, including varying haul distances and different methods of applying the sludge to the ground.

The council made it clear in calling for bids that its action does not constitute a decision to award a contract.

Once the bids are received, the council will review them to determine whether it can afford to enter into a contract.

Temporary tree house

Trees captured this house-on-the-run Tuesday as movers tried to move it from Addison Avenue East to Fourth Avenue East. The 38-by-36-foot house

Burglary outbreak plagues Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS — Police in Twin Falls reported reports of 13 vehicle burglaries and five home, travel trailer and motor home break-ins during the past two days.

Officers said a number of pickup trucks and other vehicles parked at the Twin Falls Distributors Inc., 528 Washington St., were broken into sometime between 10 p.m. Monday and 5 a.m. on Tuesday.

Seven pickup trucks owned by employees and two large trucks owned by the company were entered. In most cases nothing of value was taken. One owner, Steve Henry of Burley, reported a $400 stereo was taken from his vehicle. Several other vehicles owners reported broken windows and other damage resulting from entry.

In an adjoining lot at the U.S. Forest Service warehouse property at 633 Fifth Ave. W., ten other vehicles were entered. Doug Borah, one of the owners, lost a C.B. radio. A radio and pool stick also were removed from the car of Wendy Kunkel, radio dispatcher for the Forest Service, when the vehicle was being away fighting fires for the past several months, leaving the vehicles parked at the warehouse lot.

Police Chief Tim Qualls said the burglaries apparently occurred sometime during the night when the seven others were entered. All of the burglaries were reported Wednesday.

Loy Kays at 230 Fifth Ave. E. reported someone entered her home on Tuesday but nothing was immediately missed.

Erma Delgh at 1206 Ninth Ave. E. reported someone entered her home between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 11:45 a.m. Wednesday. She said she was either asleep or was in the back yard with the door unlocked. Her purse and contents, valued at about $70 were missing.

Gary Oliver said his motor home was entered at 261 Addison Ave. W. and a stereo, tapes and tape player taken. He estimated loss at $350.

A trailer, also owned by the U.S. Forest Service and located at 633 Fifth Avenue W., was entered and about $30 damage done, officers said.

Elaine Larsen hurt

TWIN FALLS — Elaine Larsen, 55, of Burley, suffered a fractured bone in her spine Thursday morning when the car in which she was riding struck a cable box at the corner of Addison Avenue East and 3900 N.

Sheriff's officers in Twin Falls said the accident occurred about 10 a.m. when the vehicle driven by Glen H. Larsen, 61, of Burley, left the roadway and hit a cable box in the borrow pit.

Officers said Larsen stopped at the stop sign and tried to pull out onto Addison Avenue without seeing a truck driven by Laurence A. Frith, 42, of Twin Falls, who was traveling east on Addison. When Larsen did see the other vehicle, he applied his brakes and skidded 88 feet before hitting the box structure.

Neither driver was injured, and the Larsen vehicle did not collide with the Frith vehicle.

Motorcycle mishap

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls motorcycleist suffered minor injuries after colliding with a car Thursday morning, Twin Falls police said.

Paul E. Reed, 36, of Twin Falls was eastbound on Mindoka Avenue when a car driven by Pamela Coopes Anderson, 21, of Twin Falls failed to yield at a stop sign on Eighth Street South and hit him.

Ms. Anderson was charged with failure to yield. The accident occurred at 9:50 a.m. Thursday, police said. Reed was taken by ambulance to the hospital, according to the police report.

Enforcement delay

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Prosecutor Jeff Stoker said Monday he will wait 60 days before enforcing Idaho's new proof of insurance law.

That will bring Twin Falls County policy into line with that of the Idaho State Police.

Idaho Law Enforcement Director Kelly Pearce said last week the state police will issue only warnings to violators of the new law for the first 60 days after July 1 and then begin issuing citations.

The new law requires Idaho motorists to carry proof of liability insurance in their vehicles at all times.

Stoker earlier had indicated he would ask Twin Falls County law enforcement agencies to begin enforcing the new statute after motorists had time to obtain proof of insurance certificates or copies of their insurance policies from their carriers, but he had set no specific time limit for enforcement.

Upon learning of Pearce's statement, Stoker clarified his policy.

"We'll wait 60 days," he said.

where he had set it while in his joking mood.

Local man dies in crash

TWIN FALLS — A 26-year-old Twin Falls man was killed instantly Thursday evening in a motorcycle-automobile collision.

Buddy Dewesse, Twin Falls deputy sheriff, said the accident occurred four miles south and two miles east of Twin Falls at an intersection of two county roads. Time of the accident was about 9 p.m.

A car driven by Kenneth Clyde Walker, 42, of Twin Falls, was traveling west when it collided with the southbound motorcycle. The impact threw the motorcycle driver 92 feet and the cycle about 60 feet.

Both Walker and his 15-year-old motorcycle passenger escaped injury. No citations have been issued. The victim's name was withheld pending notification of relatives.

Officer injured

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls police officer suffered a back injury when his police car was rammed by another vehicle early Thursday morning.

Troop officer Dennis Chambers said he attempted to stop a vehicle after witnessing the driver go through a stop light at North Five Points intersection about 2:25 a.m.

He reported pursuing the vehicle and driver at speeds up to 70 miles per hour in the vicinity of Addison Avenue, Blair Drive, Elm Street and back through the North Five Points, where the driver again ran a stop light.

Twin Falls officer's practical joke backfires

TWIN FALLS — A certain Twin Falls police officer is known by his fellow workers and friends as something of a practical joker, but one of his jokes had an embarrassing repercussion for him Thursday.

He set a news reporter's purse behind a file cabinet Thursday morning while she was performing a routine check of crime reports. He was going to sit back and watch while she frantically searched for it, and then give it back.

Later that afternoon he found a new crime report saying a purse had apparently been stolen from the reporter's car while it was parked in the police department lot.

The officer looked behind the file cabinet. The hidden purse was still where he had set it while in his joking mood.

The officer later left for lunch, forgetting the purse until again reminded by the crime report.

Before reporting it stolen, the owner had returned and searched the records office, thinking she might have left it there. She didn't count on the man in blue's sense of humor and failed to search behind the file cabinet.

The only problem for the reporter was having to call the banks and credit card agencies for a second time. Officers who took the crime report advised that she immediately put a stop on all credit cards and personal checks, and she had followed their suggestions.

Dollar-a-gallon gasoline becoming popular in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — Gasoline at $1 per gallon is popping up at more Idaho service stations while numerous others are pushing the mark at 99.9 cents, Ken Miller, manager of the Idaho State Automobile Association said Thursday.

Miller also reported that a survey shows the number of stations open on Sundays are shrinking in numbers, although enough are open to make Sunday travel possible in eastern Oregon, northern Nevada and southern and eastern Idaho. He said stations are continuing to adjust hours because of uncertain supplies, reduced allocations and delivery delays.

One Boise interstate station is entirely out of gas and open for repair work only, Miller said.

Miller said a weekly survey showed $1 or more per gallon premium gas appeared at two Pocatello locations, American Falls, Mountain Home and McCall as well as at Baker, Ore.

He said 69.9 cents no lead gas was found in Boise, Pocatello, Mountain Home, Jackpot, Nev., and Baker, while Jerome and Stanley in Idaho and Pendleton and Burns in Oregon have 59.9 cent premium.

Average prices, full service in 58 stations were 93 cents for regular, 97.9 cents premium and 95.9 cents no lead. Average full service diesel was 80.3 cents.

Self-service prices were 90 cents for regular, 93.6 cents premium, 93.9 cents no lead and 75.8 cents diesel.

Almost all national forest trails to be open and passable by weekend

TWIN FALLS — Backpackers and hikers will find nearly all of their favorite trails in the Sawtooth National Forest open and passable this weekend. Only a few patches of snow remain and snow melts in the north part of the forest are about a month ahead of last year.

The weekly Sawtooth recreation reports show some high passes are impassable for pack and saddle stock, but most trails on the Sawtooth are hikeable. Some higher elevation lakes, including upper Redfish and Big Boulder, are still frozen. Other major lakes are thawed.

Hikers are reminded to use backpacker stoves or existing fire rings for cooking. Nearly all campgrounds are open and wild flowers are in bloom, forest officials report. Firewood cutting is also in full swing in most areas.

with information on permits available through district ranger offices or the Twin Falls supervisor's office.

All roads in the Twin Falls ranger district are open, and campgrounds and trails are operational. Some trails are closed to livestock.

The trail to Lake Cleverland in the Burley district is still closed, as is Thompson flat campground. Federal Gulch campground in the Ketchum district is closed because of flooding from beaver dams. Trail Creek Summit road is open and graded but still has many loose rocks on the roadway.

Fire danger in the forests is growing, and recreationalists are asked to be careful with campfires and use of matches. Fishermen are reporting good catches in most areas of the forest with streams running clear.

Obituaries

George V. Holt

SHOSHONE — George V. Holt, 78, of Shoshone, died Tuesday in the Wood River Convalescent Center here after a long illness.

He was born Aug. 30, 1900, in Mountain Grove, Mo., and was married to Geneva Donnan July 13, 1921, in Fleming, Mo. They lived in Missouri until coming to Shoshone in 1924, and returned to Missouri in 1928. In 1934 they moved back to Shoshone and lived here since.

He had worked for WPA in Lincoln County, Martin Brothers farming and sheep operation and he farmed near Dietrich for 10 years. He worked for the Stimpson family doing farm work. His wife died in 1972. He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Surviving are a son, G. V. Holt, of Lubbock, Texas; five daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Sene of Pittsburg, Calif.; Mrs. Lawrence (Jean) Bardsley of Salmon; Mrs. Gloria Knowles of Shoshone; Mrs. Evalena Baney of Laurel, Mont.; and Mrs. Lovetta Barrett of Boise; 18 grandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.

Burial will be conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Bergin Funeral Chapel in Shoshone. Bishop J. Oscar Stimpson will officiate. Burial will be in the Shoshone Cemetery. Friends may call today and until time of services Saturday at the chapel.

Lloyd Hays

BUHL — Lloyd Hays, 82, died Wednesday afternoon at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital of a long illness.

He was born at Winterset, Iowa, Oct. 31, 1896, and came to Kimberly with his parents in 1908 where he attended school. He married Elizabeth King Feb. 2, 1918, at Kimberly. They moved to Buhl in 1922 when they engaged in farming until his retirement several years ago.

He is survived, in addition to his wife of Buhl, by a son, W. Merlin Hays of Beatrice, Neb.; a half-brother, W. E. Hays of Jerome; several nieces and nephews, including Geneva Koch of Buhl; three grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Hopkins-Buhl Funeral Chapel with Dr. James A. Huchaba officiating. Burial will be in the West End Cemetery in Buhl. Friends may call at the chapel this afternoon and evening.

Minard Haskell Metz

GOODING — Minard Haskell Metz, 84, died Wednesday in Green Acres Terrace Nursing Home at Gooding.

He was born Nov. 7, 1894, at Baker, Ore., and married Dorothy Angel Sept. 22, 1917, at Tacoma. He managed the J.C. Penney Co. store at Tacoma for 15 years, the C.C. Anderson stores in Logan and Ogden, the C.C. Anderson store in Gooding for seven years, and Tingwells in Wendell for seven years. He also owned his own Western Auto store in Wendell. He had been president of the Gooding, Wendell and Jerome chambers of commerce, president of the Wendell Lions Club, a deacon in the Jerome and Wendell First Presbyterian churches, and a deacon in the first Baptist church in Gooding. He was a veteran of World War I, a member of the Veterans of World War I Barracks 1318 of Gooding, and the Gooding Senior Citizens.

He is survived by two grandsons and a granddaughter.

Services will be held at 1 a.m. Saturday at Thompson-Sears Funeral Chapel with the Revs. John and Patricia Koskela officiating. Burial will be in the Elmwood Cemetery. Memorials may be made to the First Baptist Church or the Gooding Senior Citizens.

Lillie May Askew

TWIN FALLS — Lillie May Askew, 85, of Twin Falls, died Wednesday night at Skyview Manor after a short illness.

She was born Aug. 22, 1892, in Trego County, Kan., and married Edward G. Askew Sept. 30, 1912, at Ulica, Kan. They moved to Rogerson in 1914, where they homesteaded a ranch. In 1917 they moved to the west of Twin Falls, arriving until 1944, when they moved into town. She was a member of the First United Brethren Church.

Surviving are her husband, a son, Gerald Askew, and a sister, Mrs. Pearl Federico, all of Twin Falls; three granddaughters; six great-grandchildren; and six great-great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by a daughter.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at White Mortuary Chapel with the Rev. Lyle Arnold officiating. Burial will be in Twin Falls Cemetery. Friends may call at the mortuary until 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Louise I. Kulm

GEROME — Louise I. Kulm, 86, of Jerome, died Thursday morning at St. Benedict's Hospital. She was born April 11, 1893, at Portland, and came to Idaho in 1913, settling in the American Falls area. She married J.A. Kaufman May 22, 1914, at American Falls. They lived in Acaecula, and he died in 1963. She married John Kulm Aug. 19, 1956, in Jerome, and had lived here since that time. Mrs. Kulm died in 1963. She attended the Methodist Church.

She is survived by a brother, Julius Mayer of Portland.

Graveside services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Rupert Cemetery with the Rev. Woodrow D. Harris officiating. Friends may call at the Home Funeral Chapel at Jerome from 5 to 9 p.m. today. Relatives and friends will gather at the cemetery at Rupert shortly before service time.

Services

BURLEY — Services for Clarence Horn, 77, of Burley, who died Monday, will be conducted at 1 p.m. today at the Burley Second Ward LDS Chapel. Burial will be in the Pleasant View Cemetery. Friends may call at McCulloch's until time of services.

TWIN FALLS — Graveside services for Jerilyn Louise Musser, 31, of Twin Falls, who died Tuesday, will be held at 11 a.m. today in Sunset Memorial Park under direction of White Mortuary. The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

TWIN FALLS — Graveside services for Annie J. Jones, 87, of Twin Falls, who died Tuesday, will be held at 2 p.m. today in Sunset Memorial Park by White Mortuary.

TWIN FALLS — Mass for William J. "Bill" Hughes, 55, of Twin Falls, who died Saturday, will be celebrated at 10 a.m. today at St. Edward's Catholic Church. Burial will be in the Twin Falls Cemetery. The family suggests memorials to the Mountain States Tumor Institute.

SHOSHONE — Services for George V. Holt, 78, of Shoshone, who died Tuesday, will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Bergin Funeral Chapel in Shoshone. Burial will be in the Shoshone Cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel today and until service time Saturday.

Interstate 80N nearly done

BOISE (UPI) — Interstate 80N from Oregon to the Utah border is expected to be completed this fall, except for a 2-mile section through Caldwell, the Idaho Transportation Department said Thursday. The department said construction is nearing completion on a 6.5-mile section in the Glenns Ferry area, which should be done by fall.

The new four-lane highway, from east of Hammett to Glenns Ferry, will lie north of and nearly parallel to present U.S. Highway 30 and the Snake River.

Cobalt mine may open again

SALMON (UPI) — An official of a mining firm studying the feasibility of reopening the Cobalt mine on Blackbird Creek says the company may begin limited production in 1980.

Noranda Mines Ltd., Thunder Bay, Ontario, Canada, is studying the Department officials said the predominant feature of the new construction is a unique system of retaining walls reaching a height of 44 feet.

Jim Johnston, site manager for Mining Corp., Inc., a Noranda subsidiary, said the feasibility study is now finished and it would be the end of the year before a "go situation" is decided.

Constructed of thousands of interlocking concrete panels, these walls buttress the highway alignment through an area known as the "narrows," where the river has cut a narrow passageway through a mesa.

Name wanted for Army Reserve Center

TWIN FALLS — The Army is looking for a name for the new Army Reserve Center—presently being built at the Twin Falls City-County Airport.

The local committee will forward names to the commanding general of the Sixth U.S. Army at San Francisco for final selection.

Major Carlson said that should an organization or individual like to propose a name, they may do so by sending a brief biographical sketch with the deceased individual's name, rank, service number—if known—and dates of service to the Twin Falls Army Reserve Memorialization Committee, PO Box 152 in Twin Falls 83301, before Aug. 1.

A local committee of businessmen has been named to obtain nominations of deceased Army personnel from this area after whom the Center would be named. According to Maj. Barney Carlson, Army Reserve and committee chairman, it is Army policy to name Army Reserve Centers in the memory of deceased men and women of the U.S. Army who distinguished themselves by exceptional heroism or have held positions of high responsibility.

Wimbledon

Borg makes it look simple with convincing straight-sets victory over Jimmy Connors

Bjorn Borg played nearly flawless tennis in straight set victory over Jimmy Connors. . . . UPI

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — Bjorn Borg, conceding that he's reached a stage where he can't hope to improve much more, humbled Jimmy Connors in straight sets Thursday and moved within one match of winning a record fourth consecutive Wimbledon championship.

Borg, barely tested in a 6-2, 6-3, 6-2 rout of Connors, has won 27 consecutive matches at Wimbledon, and on Saturday can stand alone in the record books if he beats American Roscoe Tanner. Tanner twice before lost in the semi-finals, earned his berth in the final with a 6-3, 7-6, 6-3 victory over unseeded Pat Dugre.

"I expected a much tougher match," admitted the 23-year-old Borg, who helped his cause with 11 aces. "I didn't expect to play as well as I did. I didn't make many errors. I was serving well and hitting well to the baseline. Jimmy wasn't serving well, and he missed a lot of first serves."

Related story page B6

This was the third year in a row that Connors has been knocked out of Wimbledon by Borg, the previous two occasions coming in the final. Connors may have set a record of his own by leaving the All-England Club within 4 minutes of the final point. Presumably he was returning home to join his wife, expecting their first child.

"I hope in the next five years to be playing as well as I am now," Borg replied when asked how much more he could hope to improve. "That's my ambition, to stay in the shape I am in now. It would be very difficult to improve more. Maybe some things, like my serve and volley I can work on, but to improve them even more, that would be difficult."

The last man to win a fourth consecutive Wimbledon crown was Anthony Wilding of New Zealand in 1913, but in those years the defending champion was required to play only one match in the challenge round.

In the women's final Friday, defending champion Martina Navratilova will play Chris Evert Lloyd in a repeat of last year's final.

Connors, who will be missing from the Wimbledon final for only the second time in the last six years, lacked his usual fire and intensity. Except for an occasion in the opening set when he slammed a ball in the direction of a linesman he felt had made a bad call, Connors went out with barely a whimper.

The seven games won by Connors, matched the total he mustered in last year's straight sets final loss to Borg, and he managed only a single service break Thursday.

Connors' lack of concentration was never more evident than in the 7th game of the final set. With Borg serving at 40-15, the Swede hit a back hand to the baseline which Connors merely stared at. That point gave Borg a 5-2 lead, and he wrapped up the match in the next game by breaking service at love.

In what was supposed to be the highlight match of the entire championship, one that was supposed to reduce the final to a mere show piece, Borg enjoyed his easiest romp, requiring only an hour and 46 minutes.

Only for the first few minutes was the long-awaited confrontation a contest as Connors won 2 of the first 3 games. But Borg, stalling himself primarily at the baseline, took the next five games to win the set in 38 minutes.

Borg dominated the second set with a deadly serve, using only one point in four service games and accounting for five aces.

Connors achieved his only service break to begin the third set, and he was more aggressive than earlier in holding his serve to go up 2-0. But that was to be his final flourish as Borg efficiently ran off the last six games.

Shrugging off suggestions that the final will be a mere formality, Borg said, "absolutely not. It's going to be even more difficult on Saturday because now I have even more pressure on me. Everyone says it will be an easy match, but I know it will be tough—I hope I can play as well Saturday as I did today."

Tanner, boasting the fastest service in tennis, had little difficulty with Dugre, who also has a strong service, and won the second set tie-breaker 7-3.

"He's going to have some pressure on him, and not too much on me," a relaxed Tanner said in reference to Borg. "I'd certainly like to win Wimbledon. It's been a goal of mine for a long time. I'll be coming in as an underdog. I'll just go in and see what I can do."

"If I didn't think I could win, I may as well get on a plane tomorrow and send my regards."

Tanner's match against Dugre, who was bidding to become the first unseeded player to reach the final since West German Wilhelm Bungert in 1967, was virtually all serve and volley with very few rallies.

Tanner broke for 5-3 in the opening set, and there were no breaks in the second set which had to be decided by a tiebreaker. Tanner then made the key break in the third set in the 8th game and served out the match.

U.S. swimmers continue medal assault by splashing to wins in all 18 events

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Undaunted by a steady rain, United States swimmers created another tidal wave of destruction at the Pan American Games Thursday night when they sped past their opposition like human torpedoes to win all six gold medals.

Led by teen-age sensation Tracy Caulkins of Nashville, Tenn., who notched her third gold medal, U.S. swimmers took first place in the men's 200-meter backstroke, 400-meter freestyle, 200-meter breaststroke and 200-meter butterfly and the women's 400-meter individual medley and 100-meter butterfly.

In continuing to overpower its opposition, the United States has now captured all 18 gold medals awarded thus far in the swimming and diving events.

The U.S. men's basketball team, meanwhile, got a big scare before beating Brazil 82-78 to run its record to 3-0. The Americans are tied with Puerto Rico for first place in the tournament.

The youthful U.S. basketball team wore down the "older men" from Brazil on the second-half outside shooting of Kentucky's Kyle Macy and the rugged inside play of LaSalle's Michael Brooks to squeeze out the victory.

Brooks, who scored 15 points, and Macy, who also had 15, led a late second-half surge that enabled the Americans to pull away from a 57-57 tie to a 69-61 lead. But it took a pair of free throws by North Carolina's Mike O'Koren with one second left to nail down the unexpectedly tough triumph.

Led by star player Marcos Abdala, who scored 26 points, the Brazilians closed to 80-78 with 21 seconds left and the United States narrowly missed letting the game literally slip away when O'Koren fell on a wet spot on the floor and lost the ball. Brazil's Oscar Schmidt hit a jump shot with 10 seconds left to cut the U.S. lead to two points but O'Koren was fouled with one second to go and calmly sank the free throws to seal the game.

While Thursday's rain did not bother the swimmers, it did force postponement of scheduled games for the U.S. softball squads. The U.S. men were to meet Panama and the U.S. women were to face Bermuda. Both games have been rescheduled for Sunday.

Top swimmers gather for Tupperware meet

JEROME — The annual Tupperware Invitational Swim Meet gets underway this morning with a field of some 380 swimmers from all over the state of Idaho.

Meet director Judy Prairie said it is the biggest meet in the city of Jerome each year and quite possibly one of the biggest in the state.

Twelve teams will be after the first-place trophy, and individual swimmers will be after the ribbons awarded to the top six finishers in each event.

Warmups begin at 7 a.m. with the first event set for 9 a.m. Prairie said it will be well into the late afternoon before things are over.

"There will be 84 events all together," she said. Swimmers in six different age groups will take turns competing in seven different events.

Action will open with the medley relay, beginning with the under 8 age group. There will also be a 9-10 year old group, 11-12 year old group, 13-14 year old group, 15-18 and Open group. Anyone is eligible to compete in the open races.

Following the medley relay, action will switch to the individual medley, "backstroke," butterfly, breaststroke, freestyle and the free relay.

Besides host Jerome, there will be teams from Twin Falls, Gooding, Burley, Minico, Idaho Falls, Blackfoot, Lava Hot Springs, Mountain Home, Nampa, Pocatello and Caldwell.

Jerry Miller makes mark on pro bowling tour

TWIN FALLS — For Jerry Miller the pins just keep on falling.

In only his second tournament—as a professional bowler two weeks ago, the 18-year-old Miller High School graduate pocketed a check and beat well-known PBA champion Mark Roth in a head-to-head match.

It's not that no one expected Miller to do as well as he has since turning pro a month ago, but some didn't expect him to discover the top 20 of the professional bowling world as quickly as he has.

A talented amateur who has left a mark on bowling records in Idaho, Miller turned professional in early June.

In his first PBA experience—June 10-16 (it just happened to be the national finals in Las Vegas), he didn't fare so well, but a week later Miller let it be known that he likes of Earl Anthony and Mark Roth better keep an eye on the "young kid" from the Twin Falls area.

He not only made the cut (whittled down from a field of more than 300) at Portland, Ore., that week, but took home a cash prize of $1,100, finishing in 20th place.

And though he doesn't like to emphasize it too much, the Twin Falls product even beat Roth in a head-to-head match while competing with the other top 25 bowlers. It was a non-counting match, but significant for the development of a winning attitude in Miller.

"I think it was something like 220 to 199," Miller said. "I think I just caught him on an off game."

Roth went on to capture the Portland event, but Miller went home with the satisfaction that he could compete evenly with the best in the world.

Miller has been around bowling alleys since the age of 5. His mom and dad, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller who farm southwest of Twin Falls, are the owners of Magic Bowl in Twin Falls.

Since rattling off consistent scores over 250 during the league season at Magic and hitting a phenomenal 800-plus series twice this year, Miller knew someday he wanted to turn pro; it was just a matter of time when he did it.

"I just decided to give it a try," said Miller whose highest game has been 299 and whose highest series, 813, ranks at the top in Idaho.

Miller realizes there is a tough road ahead; after all, in three tournaments (Las Vegas, Portland and Seattle) he placed in only one and collected just over $1,000.

The easy-going Miller, who has rugged hands and muscled arms developed from hard labor on his parents' farm, wasn't sure a couple months ago about whether he would turn pro right after school. But one day, a month ago, he made the decision, applied for a card, and soon got it without any trouble (to be eligible for the PBA tour, a bowler must have a 190 average over a two-year period in league competition).

This is a far cry from being called successful, but for a first timer and a high school rookie he's already getting kudos from his colleagues.

To make it on the tour, Miller explained, means "getting in the money" consistently. It's necessary because of the expenses to enter and stay in the PBA.

To attain a PBA card is a $125 expense, and then there also is a $75 initiation fee. Add to that about $20 per tournament, and the costs begin to spiral.

"I figure it might cost anywhere from $150 a week to enter and travel to a tourney," said Miller. "You almost have to place to even come out on top."

But Miller isn't going to let that discourage him. He's been saving for this, and most of all he has a mom and dad who are behind him 100 percent.

"I want to go back out (on the tour) this winter," he said.

There's a lot of work ahead before winter settles in. He estimates he'll keep on practicing at the rate of 100 games a week. Too, there is the need to become tournament tough with a few more tourneys this summer and fall.

Jerry Miller is one of about 400 bowlers on the PBA tour. He admits that's a lot of folks to overcome.

But the way he's been rolling that ball, rest assured, those pins are going to keep on falling.

Minico runner-up in July 4 tourney

By RANDY FREY
Times-News sports writer

POCATELLO — Playing against some very tough teams, Minico captured second place in the annual Pocatello round-robin American Legion baseball tournament over the July 4 holiday.

Sage coach Rick Baumann said his team could easily have lost all four games, and he was very proud of the way Minico played against the tough competition.

"We played some real good teams," he said in reference to the field of Pocatello, Cody, Wyo., Kearns, Utah, and Minico.

"Cody had a real good club but it lost all three games," said the Minico coach. "And they are #9 in their league."

Kearns, led by former College of Southern Idaho pitcher Mark Johnson, won the tournament with three straight wins. Johnson, who pitched for CSI, also did some powerful hitting for the champions.

"He played first and caught when he wasn't pitching," Baumann said. "And he hit a home run against us."

Minico opened with a 7-3 win over Cody, Kevin Dean going the distance for the Sage and scattering 10 hits. He walked just one.

Cody jumped to a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning, but Minico came back with two in the bottom of the first on a home run by Trent Ferrin.

After Cody took a 3-2 lead in the second, Minico came back with four runs in the third inning and one more in the fourth.

Ron Barras and Dean singled to start the third, with Ferrin walking to load the bases. Kelly Woods then unloaded a triple to score—three runs and scored himself on a passed ball.

The game then ended with Minico pulling off a triple play. Ferrin grabbed a line drive, behind second, stepped on the bag and then raced to first to step on that bag and complete the play.

But Kearns ruined Minico's July 4 holiday by pounding the Sage 4-5 early Wednesday morning. The winners roughed up the Minico pitching for 18 hits.

"I told the kids after the ballgame that every team has a bad game sometime during the season and not to worry about it," Baumann said. "Look at Lewiston. They are one of the best teams in the state and they just got shelled by Pullman, Wash."

The Sage didn't let the big loss bother them, coming back to whip Pocatello 9-5.

Minico jumped to the early lead with two in the first, using a double suicide squeeze play. With Stimpson on third and Barras on second, Ferrin dropped down the bunt and Barras never hesitated from second as the throw went to first for the out.

Pocatello scored once in the second, three times in the third and once in the fourth to make it 5-5 after four innings.

But Minico came back with two in the fifth, thanks to some untimely mistakes by the Pocatello defense.

Stimpson led off by reaching first on an infield error and stealing second. He then scored on a single by Barras.

Devlin shares Western lead

OAK BROOK, Ill. (UPI) — Australian veteran Bruce Devlin, seeking his first tour win since 1970, and Jim Simons carded three under par 68s Thursday to share the early, first round lead in the $300,000 Western Open.

Both Devlin, 41, who hasn't won since the Houston Open in 1970, and Simons, looking for his first PGA win this year, could have had the lead to themselves, but both bogeyed holes late in their rounds.

Devlin wound up with double bogey 6 on the 17th while Simons slipped to a bogey on his final hole the ninth — to share the lead.

The two-owed-a-one-stroke lead over four golfers — including leading money winner Tom Watson who were in at one under par 70 in the first round, which was played under sunny skies and brisk, cool winds.

Devlin said he has been playing better this year because he has decided to play in more tournaments.

"I have been concentrating on my architectural work before, but I'm just playing better now because I'm playing more," Devlin said. "It's been a long time since I won a tournament."

Devlin won only $9,173 last year with his best finish 14th at the San Diego tourney. He also credited a "good luck" charm for his play Thursday.

"I brought my good luck charm along, my son, Kurt, whose 11, Devlin smiled.

Simons played to a four under par 62 on the back nine — he started on No. 10 — but slumped to a one over par 37 on the final nine.

Watson, seeking to regain the early season form which netted him four PGA tour wins, was playing the back nine at Butler National in the opening round of the $300,000 PGA stop when he came to the 13th hole, a 365-yard par four.

His drive was errant but hit a water sprinkler which allowed him to place the ball in a better position. He wound up with a strong second shot that moved him to within 70-foot

"I got some relief after my drive hit a sprinkler," said Watson, seeking his fifth win on the tour this year. "I have to admit, however, that when you hit a 70-footer, your'e kind of lucky. It certainly saved my round."

Fought could have shared the lead with Devlin and Simons but bogeyed the 18th hole and wound up one stroke back.

Watson admitted he could have been farther back had it not been for a 70-foot put on the 13th hole.

"I hit a 70-footer for the birdie. It really turned my round around."

Watson went on to record three more birdies on the back nine and could have been the first round leader with a stronger showing on the front nine. He settled for a par 36.

But Watson, who missed the cut at the U.S. Open, said he was satisfied with his round and some adjustments he made in his swing.

"It just seemed that the first four holes on both sides were easy, then you really had to fight to survive," said Simons, who is 67th on the money winning list with $27,326 this year. "I really haven't played this well this early this year. Frankly, I haven't played all that well all year in any round."

Simons, 29, has two tourney victories to his credit, the 1977 New Orleans and 1978 Memorial.

Watson, former U.S. Amateur champ John Fought, Calvin Peete, Allen Miller and John Lister, were only one stroke back midway through the opening round.

Sprinkler shot saves Watson some strokes

OAK BROOK, Ill. (UPI) — For Tom Watson, the leading money winner on the pro golfer's tour this year, relief was spilled s-p-r-i-n-k-l-e-r Thursday at the Western Open.

Watson, seeking to regain the early season form which netted him four PGA tour wins, was playing the back nine at Butler National in the opening round of the $300,000 PGA stop when he came to the 13th hole, a 365-yard par four.

His drive was errant but hit a water sprinkler which allowed him to place the ball in a better position. He wound up with a strong second shot that moved him to within 70-foot of the pin and he knocked it in for a birdie.

"I got relief when I hit that sprinkler, and that really helped," said Watson, who finished the opening round with a two under par 70. "I hit a 70-footer for the birdie. It really turned my round around."

Watson went on to record three more birdies on the back nine and could have been the first round leader with a stronger showing on the front nine. He settled for a par 36.

But Watson, who missed the cut at the U.S. Open, said he was satisfied with his round and some adjustments he made in his swing.

"I got some relief after my drive hit a sprinkler," said Watson, seeking his fifth win on the tour this year. "I have to admit, however, that when you hit a 70-footer, your'e kind of lucky. It certainly saved my round."

Fought could have shared the lead with Devlin and Simons but bogeyed the 18th hole and wound up one stroke back.

Tanner jokes about chances of upsetting Borg in finals

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — If he's going to go out, as everyone insists he must, Roscoe Tanner prefers it be with a smile on his face.

Tanner must meet Bjorn Borg for the Wimbledon Championship on Saturday, and the easy-going American warmed up for his formidable task by cracking out a series of one-liners.

"I haven't really given too much thought to what I plan to do against Bjorn," Tanner said Thursday after beating Pat Dupre 6-3, 7-6, 6-3 to reach the final for the first time. "It's not a pleasant task to play Bjorn so I'll put it off a while."

And later, "I'm certainly playing a lot better than I have and I present more problems to the other guy. But Bjorn seems to handle other people's problems."

For all his fun-making, though, Tanner is taking his assignment seriously. He has beaten the machine-like Swede only twice in nine meetings, including a victory at the U.S. Indoor Championships in Philadelphia a year and a half ago, and he isn't about to hand Borg a record fourth consecutive Wimbledon crown.

"He's going to have some pressure on him, and not too much on me," Tanner said. "I'd certainly like to win Wimbledon, it's been a goal of mine for a long time, I'll be coming in as an underdog and I'll just go in and see what I can do."

"I'm not going to go out thinking I can't win. If I didn't think I could win, I may as well get on a plane tomorrow and send my regards Saturday, because if you really don't think you can win, there's no point walking out on the court." Borg.

Roscoe Tanner blasts his way to Wimbledon finals always tactful, refused to make any predictions even following his overwhelming 6-2, 6-3, 6-2 conquest of Jimmy Connors in Thursday's other semifinal.

Tanner said that he and his coach, Dennis Ralston, were trying to think up an apt description of Borg.

"We decided that I'd say he's invincible," Tanner related. "He's being playing so very well. Guy's have tried all kinds of things against him and nothing worked."

"I don't think there's any player who plays like Bjorn. If there is, he's probably tied with Bjorn for No. 1."

King nears 20th Wimbledon win

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — Billie Jean King Thursday moved within one victory of winning a record 20th Wimbledon title when she partnered Martina Navratilova to a 6-2, 6-4 win over Francoise Durr of France and Virginia Wade of Britain in the semifinals of the women's doubles.

The top-seeded Americans next meet the No. 2 pair Betty Stove of Holland and Australian Wendy Turnbull who defeated Yugoslavia's Mima Jausovec and Romania's Virginia Ruzici 6-1, 7-5.

King, the 35-year old veteran of 19 Wimbledon campaigns, has said in the past her partners had "choked" when trying to help her reach her milestone.

"I felt like giving them a sedative." But King should have no problems with Navratilova, whose Wimbledon nerves have been steered after winning the singles title last year and reaching this year's final also.

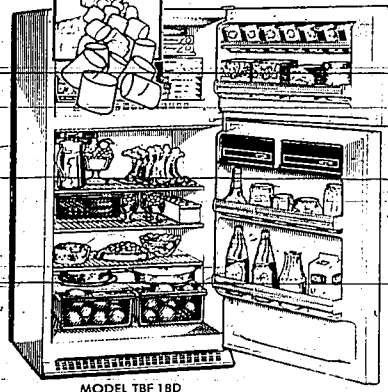

Turnbull won the title last year with Australian Kerry Reid, beating Jausovec and Ruzici in the title decider.

Legion contest

TWIN FALLS — Today is the final day to enter the contest to name the Twin Falls American Legion baseball team.

Response has been great, with over 50 entries received. Some of the 40 different names submitted. The person submitting the winning entry will receive a $35 cash prize.

Contest rules are very simple. Write down the choice and mail it to American Legion Contest, c/o Times-News sports department, P.O. Box 548, Twin Falls, Idaho 83401, or bring it by the Times-News office. Only one entry per person.

Several choices have already been duplicated. In case of a tie, the earliest entry will be declared the winner.

The new nickname for the Twin Falls team will be announced in the Monday edition of the Times-News.

Gooding races

GOODING — The annual Gooding Autocross, sponsored by the Magic Valley Sports Car Club, will be held Sunday at the old Gooding Airport.

Autocross is a speed race limited to one-to-two-thousand of a second, requiring a driver to skill over a twisting course outlined by marker pylons.

Drivers are penalized five seconds for each pylon struck during a run, and cars are raced one at a time in classes according to size of the engine, weight and other characteristics.

Classes are arranged according to type of car. There will be stock cars, prepared cars and modified cars in the autocross races.

There will be no gate fee for spectators, with racing beginning at noon Sunday. Some practice runs will be held beginning at 4 p.m. Saturday.

The old Gooding Airport is located three miles west of Gooding on Highway 26.

Tennis donation

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Tennis Association has donated $1,000 to the city to be used to help finance a new tennis club to be located at Frontier Park.

City recreation director Chad Browning said the return board will be placed near the tennis courts which are being constructed at the park. Surfacing of the courts should begin next week, he said.

Frontier Park is located near the College of Southern Idaho and should be ready to open in September, Browning said.

Adult soccer team

TWIN FALLS — An adult soccer team is forming in Twin Falls.

Organizer Bob Meehl said the squad hopes to arrange games against Boise, Sun Valley, Nampa and possibly Salt Lake City.

The team has held limited workouts at the College of Southern Idaho on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

This is the second year such a team has been formed. Last year, the squad played a short schedule.

Anybody who is interested (preferably 14-years or older) should contact Meehl at 733-8310 or show up at a practice session.

Hagerman rodeo

HAGERMAN — Signups are now being taken for the Hagerman Pioneer Days rodeo.

Set for July 21, the following events will be open for entries: bareback, saddlebronc, kids' calf riding, calf roping, cow milking, team roping, ribbon roping, wild cow race, bull riding and goat tying.

Those who would like to enter should call Barbara Hall, 352-2125.

Scramble signups

TWIN FALLS — Those wishing to play in the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course's Mixed Scramble this weekend have until 10 a.m. today to sign up.

Action will get underway Saturday morning and conclude Sunday. Entry fee is $25 for a single player and $40 per couple.

Rudolph dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marvin Mendy Rudolph, a basketball referee who officiated over 2,100 NBA games during his 23-year career, died suddenly Wednesday night of a heart attack. He was 53.

Rudolph, who had a history of heart problems, called 2,112 regular-season games, eight All-Star games and at least one championship game in each of 22 seasons.

Andujar honored

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joaquin Andujar, one of the young stars of the surprising Houston Astros, has been voted the National League's pitcher of the month of June. It was announced Thursday by the league office.

Colts suffer

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles' success at the gate this season is proving costly for the football Colts.

The Colts pay Memorial Stadium the same rent as do the Orioles, based on the baseball team's attendance. With the Orioles a poor-drawing team in recent years, that has proved a bargain for the Colts.

Louisiana Superdome file suit

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A $60 million damage and anti-trust suit was filed against the state of Louisiana and the National Basketball Association Thursday by the operators of the Superdome attempting to bring the team back to Louisiana.

The Hyatt Management Corp. was joined by the state of Louisiana and the Louisiana Stadium and Exposition District, the state agency that owns the dome, as plaintiffs in the suit filed in civil district court.

The suit also requested a temporary restraining order preventing the team from breaking its 10-year lease with the Superdome. The lease has six years remaining.

Although the Jazz lease called for rent of $2,400 a game, Superdome state officials said they would lose substantially more than that amount without the Jazz as a tenant.

Jazz owners, complaining of poor playing dates and small crowds, sought permission in April. The NBA held two meetings in May before approving the shift.

Hyatt Management's attorney Gibson Tucker said the suit was filed in an effort to force the Jazz to Salt Lake City.

"We want them to come back here and play basketball in the Superdome for the next six years," Tucker said.

Also named as defendants with the Jazz owners and their corporation, the New Orleans Basketball Club, were every player on the Jazz team and all other 21 NBA teams.

Tucker said the plaintiffs brought the suit-trust suit because there is no other nationwide professional basketball association in competition with the NBA.

The 16-page suit said the $60 million figure is a trip the amount of losses the stadium and the state would suffer by the Jazz's transfer to Utah and the inability to obtain another NBA team.

Tucker said if the restraining order is upheld, playing in games for the Utah franchise by six player named in the suit could subject him to a contempt of court charge and arrest in Louisiana.

Gilbert still not signed

BOSTON (UPI) — Both sides in the Gilles Gilbert negotiations said Thursday they were confident the free-agent Boston Bruins goalie would stay with the Adams Division champion Bruins.

But Gilbert's attorney, Mike Adams, said the latest Boston offer is unacceptable. Bruins General Manager Harry Sinden characterized the offer as competitive in the open market.

"The net effect is that the offer would give Gilles less, in terms of negotiating power, than he had four years ago," Adams said.

"I couldn't begin to consider it. And Harry knows that. His argument is that Gilles was overpaid before. Gilles wants to stay in Boston and Boston wants him. But I'm not going to sell him down the river just to play in Boston."

"I assume we'll either get to a point where there'll be an understanding of the offer or in fairness to Boston, I'll let them know we're looking elsewhere. But I don't think that will come to be. I'm still confident he'll end up in Boston," Adams said.

The difference is in dollars, Adams said. Both sides have agreed to the number of years on the contract.

"Our offer is competitive with others," Sinden said. "We need Gilles and we want him. Our offer says we want him. But if he can get the offer he wants from us, he won't sign."

Cherise Glenn

TWIN FALLS — Fourteen Magic Valley girls will vie for the title of Miss Twin Falls at the Miss Twin Falls Scholarship Pageant July 14.

The pageant, sponsored by the Twin Falls Lions Club, will be held at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tickets may be purchased for the pageant from Twin Falls Lions Club members or from the contestants.

Jennifer Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ball of Buhl, has studied ballet for 11 years and has done workshops at Ricks College, CSI, and the University of Utah. She lists her hobbies as hiking, reading, dancing, and photography. In high school she was a member of National Honor Society, a varsity cheerleader, drill team member, and participated in gymnastics. She plans to attend Boise State University. Her sponsor is Woolworth Co.

Teresa Assendrup is the daughter of Joanne Troepker and the late Gary Assendrup. A graduate of Twin Falls High School, she has also attended CSI for a year where she was a cheerleader. She has had training in piano, voice, and dancing, and enjoys swimming, skiing, jogging, and bike riding. While in high school she was active in Future Homemakers of America, was in drill team, and was president of 4-H for two years. She is currently employed at Dairy Queen, and plans to continue her education at CSI. She is being sponsored by Sierra Life Insurance Co.

Shelly Stephenson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Don Ray Stephenson of Twin Falls, is a recent graduate of Twin Falls High School. She participated in Madrigals and was a member of National Honor Society. She has studied piano for nine years, as well as dance and guitar. She loves to sew, cook, and write prose and poetry. She won a gold cup for piano solos, was chosen for an All Northwest Choir in 1979, and for America's Youth in Concert. She wants to be an elementary school teacher. Her sponsor is Grandview Trailer Villa.

Peggy Eden is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merl Eden of Twin Falls. She has completed a year at CSI, where she was a cheerleader, and plans to get an associate of arts degree. She has studied voice and plays piano, flute, and guitar. She wants to be an interpreter for the deaf. Her hobbies include writing songs and writing and collecting poetry, ice skating, and playing racquetball. She has traveled throughout the western states and Mexico with the Baptist Youth Mission. Her sponsor is Idaho First National Bank.

Farah Lee Olsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Olsen of Buhl, graduated from Buhl High School after attending Alta High School in Utah. She was an honor student, served as class president, cheerleader, twirler, and won a county award in a solar energy contest. She has had extensive training in outdoor survival, and loves to sew and design clothes. She plans to attend Ricks College this fall, later going to BYU. She is sponsored in the contest by Twin Falls Bank and Trust.

Debbie McKenna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McKenna of Twin Falls, is a 1977 graduate from high school, and has attended CSI for two years. She was a cheerleader for two years and on the dean's list at CSI. She enjoys cooking, decorating cakes, and is fascinated by parakeets. In high school she was a member of the annual staff and lettered in gymnastics. She plans to continue her education in the public relations field. She is sponsored by Southworth Stationers.

Cherise Ranae Glenn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derald B. Glenn of Kimberly. She is a recent graduate of Kimberly High School where she was a member of National Honor Society, cheerleader, and captain of the drill team. She studied dance for 14 years and likes to sew and design clothes as well. She has been very active in 4-H work for the past 10 years.

Cherise plans to attend BYU majoring in clothing, textiles and design. Her sponsor is First Federal Savings and Loan.

Shirley Goedhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Goedhart of Jerome, is a graduate of Jerome High School and attended CSI for one year. While in high school she was chosen most outstanding business student and recently received the annual secretarial scholarship from the National Secretaries Association. She has toured Holland, where both her parents were born, and enjoys studying other countries and cultures. She likes to sew and do needlepoint, crochet, and latch hook pictures. She plans to continue study in the secretarial field. She is sponsored by Western Realty.

Mary Ann Leija is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dario Leija of Hagerman. She graduated from Hagerman High School in 1979, and was Miss FHA and outstanding four-year home economics student in high school. She enjoys sewing, painting, and modeling. She has entered clothes in the Hagerman Valley Grange sewing contest and has won many awards. Miss Leija wants to continue her education at CSI or BSU in the field of special education, and would like to communicate with handicapped people. She is being sponsored by Cain's Furniture.

Karen Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farmer, is a 1978 graduate of Twin Falls High School, and has attended CSI one year. She studied dance, voice, and drama, and student-directed a high school play. Her hobbies include sewing, cooking, quilting, hunting for arrowheads. She was selected Altress girl of the month, and has participated in Dilettante productions. She plans to continue her education at CSI, then Idaho State University in drama and Spanish. Miss Farmer is sponsored by Century 21 - Twin Falls Realty.

Jackie Lynn Mecham, daughter of Bruce and Glenna Mecham of Twin Falls, is a recent graduate of Twin Falls High School. An avid dancer, she has studied dance for 14 years and is currently teaching dance. She has also had four years of drama, and is a member of Company 1 theater productions. She likes to crochet, sew, quilt, and cook. She has participated in most sports, and has garnered awards in track, dance, drama, and gymnastics. She plans to continue her education in dance, getting a teaching certificate. Miss Mecham is sponsored by Triple C Concrete.

Julie Ann Stosich is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stosich of Twin Falls. She is a graduate of Twin Falls High School and has completed two years at Ricks College. She enjoys baking, sewing, skiing, needlepoint, and woodworking, and has studied piano for nine years and art for five years. She wants to be mother and homemaker. She is sponsored by Julie's Flowers.

Lynni Stosich, also a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stosich of Twin Falls, is a recent graduate of Twin Falls High School. She has studied piano for seven years, and drama five years. She was awarded most promising actress in high school. She likes to camp, sew, cook, and water ski. She wants to eventually become a professional genealogist and secretary, as well as a mother and homemaker. She is sponsored by State Farm Insurance.

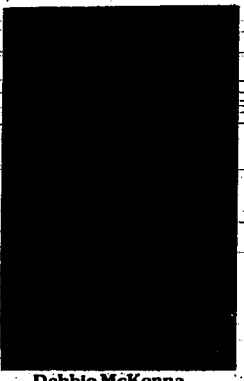

Tami Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Anderson of Burley, graduated from Burley High School and attended CSI for two years. She has studied piano for five years and is a lifetime student of dance. She is skilled in sign language and interpreting for the deaf. She wants to continue to improve these skills and knowledge. She is a former Miss Mini-Cassia and has won numerous awards for dance and speech and drama. Miss Anderson is sponsored by K and T Steel.

Engagements

Debra Harris
TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harris of Twin Falls announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Debra, to Dwayne Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sparky Tucker of Filer.
 Miss Harris is a 1975 graduate of Twin Falls High School and is presently employed by Svensen's Market.
 Tucker is a 1974 graduate of Twin Falls High School. He is employed by the Twin Falls Fire Department and Miss Harris.
 The couple plans an Aug. 11 wedding.

MR. AND MRS. MARK MUELLER

Weddings

Ritchie-Miller

HAGERMAN — Gaelene Ritchie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ritchie of Hagerman, was married to Mark Steven Mueller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mueller of Twin Falls, June 9.
 The double ring ceremony was performed in the garden of the bride's parents in Hagerman by Doug Stigel, minister of the Christian Center in Twin Falls.
 Kerry L. Ritchie of Pocatello, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Stacey McCullough of Twin Falls and Becky McNally of Bonners Ferry.
 Paul Mueller of Crestline, Calif., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Greg Smutney and Steve Lakey, both of Twin Falls. Brad and Robert Ritchie, brothers of the bride, were ushers.
 Becky McNally sang, accompanying herself on the guitar, and Mrs. Bob Tupper of Hagerman was organist for the ceremony.
 A garden reception followed the ceremony. At the guest book was Stephanie Edwards of Hagerman, Camille Blastock and Julie Gardner of Twin Falls attended the gift book.

 Kelly McCullough of Twin Falls and Serena Ritchie of Hagerman, sister-in-law of the bride, served the cake. Laura Sandy of Twin Falls served punch.
 Special guests attended from Bonners Ferry, Idaho Falls, Boise, Cambridge, Burley, Rexburg, Idaho Falls, Pocatello, Utah, California, and Washington.
 A wedding dinner was hosted by the parents of the bridegroom at their home in Twin Falls June 9.
 Following a honeymoon in northern Idaho and sailing in the San Juan Islands off the Washington coast, they will make their home in Twin Falls where both are employed.
 The bride is a 1975 graduate of Hagerman High School and attended the College of Southern Idaho. The bridegroom is a 1972 graduate of Twin Falls High School, served in the Navy for three years, and attended CSI.

Buhl family hosts exchange student

BUHL — During July and August, Bernard and Darlene Sparrell of Buhl, their family, and the communities of Buhl and Twin Falls will play "international host" to a German Exchange student while the Sparrells' daughter, Denise, will live for six weeks with the German student's family in Emden, West Germany.
 Denise, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sparrell of Buhl, and is the only daughter among five children. She will be a senior this fall at Buhl High School.
 Denise, who has her bags packed, completed a do-it-yourself "crash course" in spoken German, national customs and history, is set to depart for West Germany July 18. She will carry with her passport, an English-German dictionary, her camera, and all the poise and courage she can muster up.
 Denise and 33 other American students will meet in Washington, D.C., fly to New York City, then to Frankfurt, and from Frankfurt to Emden, one of many Volkswagen factory-cities in the Republic of West Germany located along the North Sea coast, near the port city of Bremerhaven.

 Denise was selected from several interested Buhl High School students to participate in the Youth Exchange Program sponsored by Volkswagen of America.
 The German exchange student, Elke Dirks, 15, of Emden, will first meet her new "family" when she arrives at the Twin Falls Airport July 12.
 Both students will have to adjust rapidly to a totally new environment, a new language, some new responsibilities, and some good times. While English is the standard second language in the curriculum of secondary schools in West Germany, such is not the case in this country. In fact, German is not in the curriculum at Buhl High School.
 Bob Schultens, owner of Blue Lakes Porsche Auto, Inc. in Twin Falls, is the sponsoring dealer who provided funds for Denise's round trip air fare.

1/4 cup chopped pecans, if desired

Russell work displayed

SUN VALLEY — A major Charles M. Russell watercolor which until recently has been in a private collection in Canada is a highlight of the Sun Valley Western Art Auction and Exhibition open today through Sunday.
 Owned by a family who had moved to Canada from Montana nearly 40 years ago, this painting entitled "Blackfoot War Party," has never been publicly exhibited. The work should produce considerable interest from scholars of the famed western painter as it is unpublished in books and catalogues of his work.

King Hill grange picnic set

KING HILL — The annual Grange picnic will be held July 19 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis at Hammett at 7 p.m. Grange members may invite friends to attend.

Each family is asked to bring covered dishes and table service. Mrs. Jane Whitehead of Mountain Home will be co-hostess.

Dear Abby

Adept response for adoptive parents to kindly relatives

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 ©The Chicago Tribune
 N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.
DEAR ABBY: I am the editor of a newsletter for adoptive parents. It is called OURS (Organization for a United Response).
 Some years back you had a column about the typical stupid questions all parents of adopted children were asked. You offered some wonderful suggested replies. Could you please hunt up that item and run it again? I would like to run it in our newsletter with your permission.
 ANN G. IN EARLINGTON, KY.

Q: Oh, isn't it a shame you can't have children of your own?
 A: Not really; there's a lot of insanity in both of our families.
 Q: Do you know all about the parents?
 A: Everything. One was male. The other was female.
 Q: Did the adoption agency try to match your features, coloring and personalities?
 A: Good grief, I hope not!
 Q: Aren't you worried about hereditary factors?
 A: Heavens, no. Regardless of how bad their ancestors were, they've got to be better than OURS!
 Best wishes!

In the morning to wish her a happy Mother's Day.
 Abby, this same son went to Nassau last month for a vacation with his wife and his wife's sister and brother. Last summer they had a lovely vacation in Europe, and they plan to go again this summer. (They're taking her folks along.)
 I am fed up with this whole outfit. It is plain to me that we are not accepted by our son's wife and her people. How can I make my wife see the light? I hate to hurt her feelings. Sign me...

DEAR ANN: I found the item, and here it is:
"DEAR ABBY: A prospective adoptive mother asked you for help in replying to "dear, kindly, well-meaning" friends and relatives who ask personal questions about the adoption.
 May I help? I have been through it four times and have heard all comments and questions. Here are some tried and true responses:

DEAR ABBY: The night before Mother's Day our son called and invited us out for a Mother's Day dinner along with his wife, her brother and his wife, and his wife's mother. Now here's the cliner: "Would we pay our own way since he was broke?"
 My wife turned down the invitation, so our son said he'd stop by the house

At Wit's End Son's roommate causes hysteria

By ERMA BOMBECK
 © Field Newspaper Syndicate
 My son, the school teacher, has just begun a relationship I have long dreaded.
 He has a roommate.
 Normally, I would keep silent; but I feel strongly about it and pointed out that this is my house, and I have certain rules regarding these things. He countered with his usual logic. "If it bothers you, just kept he door closed."
 I almost wish we were talking about a girl.
 "Killer" is a four-foot king snake that he bought for his class to "keep the kids from watching the clock. That's like dating Dracula to get your mind off your low blood pressure problem."
 When school ended, he smuggled it into his room thinking it would never be discovered under the clutter. Knowing I was upset about the "arrangement," I threatened to jump off the sink into the disposer if he made out a list of Killer's redeeming virtues.
 Does not use gas.
 Does not bark all night.
 Does not smell or shed on the sofa.
 Discourages door-to-door salesmen.
 Does not snore.

Does not get sick and need expensive antibiotics.
 Does not need a license to leave the yard.
 Has no weird sex habits.
 No messy bowties or jars or cans at feeding time.
 In retaliation, I made a list of Killer's imperfections:
 Discourages breathing by your mother.
 Grosses everyone out by eating a live mouse, then crawling into a bowl of water for a couple of days.

 Generates hysteria whenever he walks into a room.
 Is inconstant about taking off skin in public.
 "Is that all you can think of?" asked my son.
 "No, I've got one more. A snake as a roommate is the fastest way I know to make a boy homeless."
 A snake doesn't even have the manners to wave goodbye when he leaves a house.

three clubs and the tens of hearts and diamonds. . . .
 He says that West was sure that his four clubs were of paramount importance so he hung on to all of them. . . .
 This left him with only one other card and after much thought he dropped the queen of hearts in order to bring up to his eye. He had anticipated that South was planning to throw him in with that queen. . . .
 South's carded dummy's second king of clubs and the bad news. He still had one slight ray of hope. . . .
 After West's club bid, lack of hearts. So, South in desperation led the 10 of hearts and was down two when East attacked the jack and cashed two high diamonds. . . .

South says from the start that six spades would be a catch unless West had four clubs to the jack. He could handle four clubs in the East hand. So South proceeded to cash dummy's 10 of hearts and diamonds at trick four. He had drawn trumps at tricks two and three. . . .
 When South cashed that ace, West stopped to think and then proceeded to let his king trick the ace. . . .
 Now South runs all his trump tricks to dummy with

Special Events

Twin Falls

The 20th Annual Arts and Crafts Festival, presented by the Art Guild of Magic Valley, will be held July 14 and 14 at the city park, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Arts represented will include ceramics, paintings in all media, jewelry, spinning and weaving, woodcuts and soft sculpture.

The Magic Valley Arts Council, of which the Art Guild is a member, will present a variety of events in the performing arts. Among the artists performing will be a pantomime from the Northwest Opera Association; the Dieltantes, the Magichords, the Old Time Fiddlers, Company One, Hetop-Tah (Middle Eastern dancers), a chamber orchestra and a modern dance group.

Sun Valley

The Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities will hold its annual Western Art Auction and Exhibition at Elkhorn Village Friday through Sunday. The auction will feature paintings, prehistoric and Mimbres pottery, rare Navajo weavings and sculptures.

Among the artists represented will be Georgia O'Keefe, Charles M. Russell, E.I. Conze, Eggenhofer, James Barna, Michael Coleman and Victor Higgins. In addition to bronzes and antique Navajo weavings, rare examples of highly collectible Mimbres pottery from a private collection will also come up for auction. Auctioneer will be Peter Stremmel of Reno, Nev.

In addition to the auction exhibition, approximately 35 galleries will have retail salesrooms open in the hotel. A "Gallery of Galleries" is planned for galleries unable to attend but wishing to have works exhibited.

Slide lectures will be given by Gerald Peters on "The Taos Founders" and by Tony Berlant on "Navajo Weavings."

The auction and lectures are free to the public. A banquet on Saturday will precede the auction.

Proceeds from the auction will benefit the Sun Valley Center and the Institute of the American West, which presents the Center's humanities programs and conferences.

Potter's profession focus of workshop

KETCHUM — Production potters John Glick, Jenny Lind and Tom Coleman will be in residence at the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities for two weeks, July 2-9. Each will have a studio assistant, scholarship students of the Ceramics Department's Intermediate/Advanced Resident Program. Funded by a National Endowment for the Arts grant, the workshop will be a working residency for the artists with only a limited number of formal demonstrations and slide shows. The emphasis will be to explore through work, discussion and observing informally — the role of today's studio potter, the problems and possibilities of professional ceramics. Members of the workshop are already skilled in the basics of clay, glazes and ceramic techniques, and thus, the artists will be able to share their experiences gained during their professional careers with advanced students, to give younger potters a better sense of what it means to make ceramics a life's work.

John Glick received his bachelor's degree from Wayne State University, and an MFA from the Cranbrook Academy. He has been involved in all stages of studio production from uses of waste heat to management. Currently, he maintains the Plum Tree Pottery in Farmington, Mich.

Jenny Lind studied painting at the University of New Mexico and the University of California at Berkeley and has worked extensively at transferring painting techniques to the curved surfaces of ceramics. She is now a production studio potter in New Mexico and recently published an article about painting on ceramics in "Studio Potter Magazine."

Tom Coleman studied and taught at the Portland Art Museum School. He runs a production studio in Canby, Ore., and works primarily in functional porcelain. He has also published in "Studio Potter Magazine."

Each artist has been asked to bring a small body of representative works which will be added to new pottery produced during the residency. This selection of the three artists' work will be exhibited at the Sun Valley Center Gallery opening Sept. 5. Currently, the Ceramics Department is making arrangements for the show to travel to galleries throughout the Northwest during the fall and winter.

As part of the Center's Monday evening seminar program, John Glick will be guest speaker on July 9 and Tony Lincoln July 16. Each will present a brief lecture with slides on contemporary American pottery and their own work.

Lectures are free to the public and begin at 8:30 p.m. in the Ketchum/Sun Valley Community School.

Arts for children to grow in

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Plans to implement a concept new to this area to stimulate children's imagination and creativity are under way by legal artists.

Bill Reed of Twin Falls hopes to establish summer classes for children aged 7 to 10 in the basement of Judy's Books which would "give the children opportunity to develop their potential" in various art forms.

He believes that much youthful creativity is "curtailed in our society."

Reed, who was associated with Outpost Gallery and has his own studio here, said he wants to work in both sculpture and graphics and eventually hopes to expand his classes to include the literary media.

The artist, who also has been an engineer and teacher, plans separate classes for each of the different media, but how the children's imagination to soar would be a primary goal in all sessions.

He believes it is important for children to realize pleasure in artistic creativity devoid of "gold stars or monetary consideration."

As to finances Reed admits there will be a "small fee" to cover cost of supplies, but his major goal is to show through actual experience that children's creativity thrives in a supportive environment.

Considerable interest already has been expressed by parents, Reed said, to assure him of having enough students. Groups would be kept to about 15 participants.

"While parents will be welcome to 'take a back seat and watch,'" Reed stressed his concept is to "make the kids at ease with themselves." Students will sit on beanbags or other comfortable and informal furniture.

Instead of merely teaching mechanics of painting, Reed feels that while this is part of the class, his major emphasis is on creating a situation where children are comfortable, physically and mentally, so that their imagination and native creativity can develop unhindered by the many societal influences which pressure them toward conformity.

Reed, who has worked with children in creation of animal cartoons, believes in using the relativity of animal life to human existence.

For example, he would take a fairy tale and after presenting it, the children would develop their own interpretation of the story using whatever art media they were involved with, such as graphics or sculpture.

"I want it so the kids can think in their own terms to something I'm saying," he said.

Reed plans the classes as two-hour sessions. He believes the "more adult" children can help other in his class — something which is impossible in a graded school system.

He also has very definite ideas that whatever art work is done by the children be theirs alone and they receive no help or ideas from well-meaning but overzealous parents.

"The classes definitely will be 'children oriented,'" Reed said.

The artist said he has no quarrel with either parental or formal education patterns but he believes both are "curtailed by our culture."

Reed went back into art, his first love, seven years ago after a career in aerospace engineering. Although a high school dropout, he passed his GED (general equivalency degree) and went on to take college courses although he has no degree.

Reed worked for some 20 years as a design engineer for such firms as Lockheed, working on the Titan missile and the space program. A Marine veteran of World War II, Reed also has been a teacher.

But his first love was painting and the outdoors. He has served as a national art juror, meaning he was among the persons selecting winners of national and international contests.

While he makes no claim to the originality of his concept, Reed claims it is new to this area. Such creative approaches have functioned for some years in private schools in places such as California and Texas, he said.

Rewriting the rules for TV industry

By JOAN HANAUER
LAT Television Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The multi-billion dollar television industry does not need federal welfare.

That's the point the Rev. Everett C. Parker II, introduced into testimony prepared for June 13 delivery before the Senate subcommittee on communications, which, along with its counterpart in the House of Representatives, is considering rewriting the Federal Communications Act of 1934.

The rewrite of the law regulating broadcasting has progressed in less than a year from the stage where it had provisions to "antagonize everyone to its present state, in which the broadcast industry is at least partly mollified but consumer groups are not.

Parker, director of the Office of Communication of the United Methodist Church, has played a major role in forming a Telecommunications Consumer Coalition. The Coalition includes representatives of organizations as diverse as consumer groups, unions, civil rights organizations, Senior Citizens, the PTA, and religious groups from the Jesuit Conference to the Union of American Hebrew Congregations to the Bismark, N.D., Lutherans of the Prairie.

The overriding complaint is against deregulation that its opponents believe will deprive the public of its ability to significantly influence station behavior.

"I do not know of anyone who will claim that television broadcasters are so under public scrutiny and FCC oversight that they need Congressional welfare treatment," Parker said.

"The average station earns about 100 percent on investment every year, and network-owned stations earn three times that

Rates for time go up every year; 1981 is substantially sold out at all-time high prices. No one, anywhere, has demonstrated that regulation imposes significant economic burdens on television or radio.

Parker was testifying in the Senate, but actually there are three communications bills pending in Congress. One was introduced in the House of Representatives by Rep. Lionel Van Deerin, D-Calif. Two others were proposed in the Senate — one by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., and another by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Most controversial is the matter of licensing television stations. Under present rules, station licenses are renewed every three years, providing the licensee serves the public interest. The public may petition the FCC to deny a license at time of renewal.

All three proposals now pending would substantially deregulate the industry. Van Deerin would make television station licenses indefinite after two five-year terms, and petitions to deny would be entertained only during the two remaining renewals. Hollings would lengthen television licensing terms to five years. Goldwater would substantially deregulate the market size but would make renewal mandatory if stations "substantially met" community needs.

Parker's Office of Communication, in consultation with some 50 other organizations, has a proposal of its own — a "broadcast license" of indefinite duration, subject to revocation at any time for failure to render adequate service to the community of licensees.

There is no hard proof under Parker's proposal would be on the license holder, who also would be required to file for renewal if it makes material change in proposed service.

The theory behind the various attempts at deregulation has been that the forces of the marketplace should be allowed to govern the broadcast industry. Parker protests that the nature of the television industry prohibits the public from influencing broadcasting — that only advertisers can do that and even their ability to do so is limited.

"The basis of the enormous income of television networks and stations is selling audiences.

"That's the real product — audiences, not programs. Television networks work to bring together those audiences of a certain type of advertiser wants — advertisers of mass-produced products with national distribution and a fairly low take-price. That's the audience that pays-off most in profitability.

"They want programs that attract people who will be impulse buyers of household floor polishes, detergents and drugs."

Parker points out that old people, for instance, have almost no power to influence broadcasters, since little television advertising is aimed their way.

For those who want to get in on the argument, Van Deerin has said he hopes to end hearings this month, go through the Commerce Committee in 30 days when Congress reconvenes in late August, and have the bill on the floor of the House by the end of the year. Hollings is holding hearings now, and his timetable could be almost as quick.

Video recorders: Must-have of 80s?

By LES BROWN
O.N.Y. Times

NEW YORK — Along with cable television, pay television and new networks distributed by satellite, the '80s promise a burgeoning home video market. The key components of this new field are to be video tape-recording units and phonographic devices that play video disks.

If industry projections are correct, 12 million to 15 million households will have one or both kinds of playback equipment by 1985, and this will foster a multibillion-dollar home video market in prepackaged programming: movies, concerts, stage productions, sports classics, children's fare and instructional, or how-to, presentations.

The disk technology has been slow in developing for the mass consumer market and still in the early stages. But the home video recorders, known as VCR's, have in the last three years proliferated sufficiently to create a separate programming industry, with more than 100 companies already engaged in the production of distribution of prerecorded tape cassettes.

The ability of the VCR's to record programs off the air — with timers that permit recording while the viewer is away or even while it is watching a different channel — has been the chief spur to the sale of the units, which are priced from $300 to more than $1,000. But, as has been found, the ownership of a VCR leads in many cases to the purchase of prerecorded programs, the most popular of which are old movies, selling from $39.95 to $70 each.

According to industry surveys, 800,000 video recorders have been sold at the retail level. Kalba-Bowen Associates, a research and consulting concern, estimates that last year 400,000 prerecorded cassettes were sold, totaling $24 million.

The June issue of Videography, a magazine of television technology, lists 70 best-selling programs for the previous month, all movies.

The No. 1 seller was "MASH," the 20th Century-Fox film on which the CBS-TV series is based. The others, in order, were "The Sound of Music," "The Story of O," the 1933 version of "King Kong," "The Wild Geese," "Patton," "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," "Deep Throat," "Fate, Fate, Voyage" and "The Devil in Miss Jones."

"Americans appear to own film libraries," John S. Lalloo, vice president of the Video Tape Network, a distribution company, said.

It is generally conceded in the industry that the high cost of prepackaged video programs tends to restrict the market for movies to film buffs interested in building a home library. Moreover, videotape entrepreneurs will face a serious challenge from the video-disk field, when it begins mass marketing a year or two from now, because movies on disks can be sold for $10 to $12 each.

Attempts are being made to expand the market by offering cassettes on a rental basis, by mail order, at rates from $9 to $14 for a seven-day period. An attempt to make a permanent copy of a rental tape will result in a scrambled picture.

Violence served up with a flourish

By SHELLY KINZEL
Times-News writer

The very first time I saw a James Bond film I was appalled. It seemed immoral to laugh at a man and his car being crushed into the size of a pocket calculator. My problem, I was told, is that I took the film too seriously. This was probably true, since James Bond films are basically fantasies and should be viewed as such. I now find these features a lot more palatable, but I still wonder occasionally about the underlying sadism which allows audiences to laugh at violence, no matter how cleverly it is perpetrated.

I will say this of the Bond series — it does maintain a standard of quality. The films are consistently humorous and inventive. This description is most apt for "Moonraker," the latest James Bond thriller appearing at the Twin and Jerome cinemas.

Roger Moore, who is charming and aging quite gracefully, has the panache which makes the role work. Although I find Sean Connery a bit more sensual and write Bond, Moore's portrayal has a certain classiness and tongue-in-cheek humor. In this feature, he is assigned to track down the missing Moonraker, a unique space shuttle manufactured by the Drax Corporation in California.

As usual the plot is very simple and very complicated. Drax (Michael Lonsdale) is a wealthy megalomaniac with a diabolical scheme for ruling the world. The machinations of his plan, however, are quite complex and lead Bond on a merry chase around the world. Aided by Holly Goodhead (Lois Chiles), a beautiful CIA agent with both NASA and a Vassar credentials, Bond discovers Drax's deadly secret.

The sets are sumptuous. Whether we are racing down the canals of Venice, dancing along the festive streets of Rio de Janiero or entering the magnificent Drax estate, the film is a visual banquet. Equally exciting are the special effects and the whole new array of gadgets and devices audiences have come to expect in James Bond movies.

One unexpected twist of fate was for me both interesting and pleasing. Jaws (Richard Kiel), who once again appears as Bond's formidable nemesis, is exposed a different side of his personality. The over-sized brute falls in love, which instantly humanizes his character. I am reminded of TV's "The Hulk," who is also a monster with feelings. What this means in terms of the audience's perception is difficult to say, but I would like to think that perhaps we are better able to view society's misfits in a positive manner.

Needless to say, "Moonraker" is not concerned with philosophical questions. It is, however, a slick and stylish production and totally in keeping with its predecessors. 007 fans will not be disappointed.

'Fatha' and Brewer mesh into gear

By CLIFF SMITH
Gannett News Service

Jazz trumpet king Dizzy Gillespie once offered this sage piece of advice: "A musician is supposed to have many gears, and his gears are supposed to last his lifetime."

Earl "Fatha" Hines has spent most of his 71 years shifting gears. From the 1920s when he was pianist in the pace-setting Louis Armstrong Hot Five, to the 1930s and 1940s when he led one of the most modern of the big bands and to his reappearance in 1964 after several years of obscurity, still able to outswing most pianists half his age.

Singer Teresa Brewer also has learned to shift gears, from her child prodigy debut on the "Major Bowes Amateur Hour" in the 1930s, to her pop star status in the 1940s and 1950s (remember her 1950 hit, "Muscle Music") to her transformation into a jazz singer in the 1970s.

Hines and Brewer have joined for the first time on record in a new album, "We Love You, Fats" (Doctor Jazz, DJRX 6000), the first recording to be released by her husband, Bob Thiele, since forming his new Signature Gramophone Co.

In choosing a program of Fats' swing melodies, two-gear-shiftees couldn't have picked a better composer, because Walter himself spent a much too brief lifetime shifting gears between the ridiculous and sublime, from show business personna to the highest quality jazz.

Hines shows that he's still the virtuoso pianist with his arpeggios, his percussive attack ("Trumpet style," they once called it) and his amazing ability to modulate from one song to another, or from one interpolation to another, as if they were all one song (or one interpolation). Witness his outstanding versions of "Suzette Mel" and "Two Steepy People."

Brewer's voice is husky now, but she matches Hines' gusto, buoyancy and exhilaration with her own enthusiastic, pungent and crackling musicianship. With the expert help of bassist Mill Hinton, drummer Grady Tate and other Waller or Waller-associated songs like "Ain't Misbehavin'," "The Joint Is Jumpin'," "Keepin' Out of Mischief Now," "Black and Blue," "Find Out What They Like," "I've Got a Feeling I'm Falling," "Honeyuckle Rose" and "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby," Hines and Brewer make you wonder why they took so long to do this.

EDITH IRVING
...shunned artist

Q: You mentioned in a recent column that Edith Irving, ex-wife of Howard Hughes-hoaxer Clifford Irving, is back living in Ibiza with her new husband. Is she still painting and are she and Clifford on speaking terms? — N.T., Washington, D.C.

A: Edith is still painting but is having trouble selling her work. She blames her difficulties on the scandal that surrounded her and Irving in the attempt to palm off a fake autobiography of Howard Hughes. As a result he spent nearly two years in a U.S. jail and she was imprisoned in Switzerland for 14 months. She and Cliff have remained close friends and her ex is also a good friend of her present husband, lawyer Bill Maloney, who was their legal counsel during the hoax affair.

Q: Since he lost a re-election bid to the Senate, we've lost sight of that handsome California politician John Tunney. Is he politically active now? — D.C., San Jose

A: In a manner of speaking, Tunney is putting his bright contacts to good use in private business. He recently was involved in helping Columbia Pictures work with the Russians laying the groundwork for a movie about the upcoming Olympic Games. Now Tunney is coming up with a scheme to merchandise various Russian Olympic emblems — from T-shirts to pajamas.

Q: Has Henry Kissinger finally gotten around to finishing off his memoirs? — H.H., Chevy Chase, Md.

A: Has he ever, at least in part. In between jaunts around the globe with wife Nancy plus a back-breaking speaking calendar, Henry has written enough to fill 1,300 pages, winding up with the opening of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris. That's just volume one. The next goes on from there to the inauguration of President Carter, and may run a mere thousand pages.

Q: Does Barbara Walters worry about remaining on top as a TV journalist when she gets older? — M.R., Sarasota, Fla.

A: Worry isn't quite the term, but Barbara has some pointed thoughts about the double standard of looks in the TV journalism business. While men can remain on the air well into their 60s and become almost-uncle figures like Walter Cronkite, it's not certain if women newscasters will be afforded the same privilege, and be allowed to pass into beloved "aunt" status. As for cosmetic surgery, Barbara says she's for it in principle but not personally indulged. In Barbara's case, what you see on TV is pretty much what you get.

Q: Dean-Paul Martin's handsome face and dynamite body really turned me on in the movie "Players." His looks seem very familiar; yet it escapes me as to where I've seen him. — K.G., Indianapolis, Ind.

A: If you happened to catch a sexy flick titled "A Boy... a Girl," you caught Dean Martin's on, Dean-Paul, in the flesh, so to speak. The movie, released in 1969, details the sexual awakening of a 16-year-old girl and boy and was pretty explicit. An LSD trip figured in the flick, which was produced and directed by John Derek. Dean-Paul, now 27, is understandably reticent about his early, earthier role in which he was billed as Dino Martin Jr. The first movie isn't even mentioned in his studio bios. And, when giving press-interviews, Dean-Paul chooses to erase this colorful, unofficial movie debut from his career credentials.

Q: Is stuntman Evel Knievel a millionaire as a result of all his death-defying exploits? — B.Y., Yakima, Wash.

A: Knievel, 40, has made millions doing those stunts that have broken nearly every bone in his body but he's also spent every penny of his earnings. The money

FRANK LANGELLA'S CHILLING, THRILLING DRACULA
 The 13th day of this month — how fitting — Frank Langella as Dracula, will appear on the movie screens. For a year on Broadway, audiences swooned over his sensuous Dracula, as Langella brought dry wit and a sense of romance to the sinister old Transylvania night traveler, in FAMILY WEEKLY's article this week you'll learn about a successful actor who happily sadistic heels, but in real life is a Connecticut country squire who rides horseback, gives small parties and spends much time alone with his wife.
