

Carter requests Cabinet resignations

By LAURENCE McQUILLAN
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Tuesday asked his Cabinet and senior staff to offer to resign and told officials that aide Hamilton Jordan has been elevated to "chief of staff," sources said.

A close aide said Carter was expected to decide within "a few days" which of the officials will remain with the administration.

It was learned that during a two-hour Cabinet meeting Carter delivered a blunt warning that he was "taking a hard look and planning to make changes."

"One Cabinet official suggested: 'Why don't we make it easier. We'll all resign.'"

"Fine," Carter replied.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance was described as saying: "I don't see any need to put it in writing."

All of the offers were verbal.

Jordan, who attended the Cabinet session, was introduced by Carter with the words: "Ham Jordan is the chief of staff," one person at the meeting said.

Afterward, the members of his senior staff, with whom Carter had already met, were advised that such offers were being made. All of them agreed to present their offers of resignation.

Authoritative sources said the "national security team" composed of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, Defense Secretary Harold Brown and National security affairs adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski "will remain intact."

The mass resignation offer, unprecedented in recent history, also extended to Cabinet-level officials such as United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young.

White House press secretary Jody Powell — one of those who offered to resign — issued a brief statement about the extraordinary move.

"The president had a serious, lengthy discussion with his Cabinet and senior White House staff today about the priorities of his administration. He reviewed with them the progress of past years and problems that remain.

"All members of the senior staff and Cabinet have offered their resignations during this period of evaluation. The president will review these offers of resignation carefully and expeditiously in the next few days."

One of Carter's closest aides predicted he would pick up some of the resignations.

"My own view is that the president would accept some of the resignations," the aide said. "I think the American people will understand very well... we felt it was appropriate to offer resignations."

After the resignations were announced, Jordan visited House Speaker Thomas O'Neill on Capitol Hill. Sources said he got good advice.

It was learned that Jordan put in a conference call to the Cabinet members at 3 p.m. EDT, about 2½ hours after the meeting ended.

The stunning move stemmed from the no-holds-barred review Carter made of himself and his administration during 12 days at Camp David and talks with 140 Americans, some of whom criticized his Cabinet and staff. One man said the president did not appear to be a good judge of "horse flesh."

Carter acknowledged his staff problems indirectly during his nationally televised speech Sunday night, grumbling as he read aloud one of the comments he received: "Some of your Cabinet members don't seem loyal. There is not enough discipline among your disciples."

There was speculation those most likely to leave would be people seen as political liabilities in the face of the upcoming 1980 presidential election.

Miami Somoza refuge

By MARTIN P. HOUSEMAN
 MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Anastasio Somoza Tuesday gave up the country his family has ruled for 43 years and, with a retinue of friends, relatives and generals, fled into exile in the United States.

But his successor as president vowed to fight on against the Sandinista guerrillas who forced Somoza from power — and fierce fighting continued in Nicaragua with the rebels claiming several battlefield victories.

Despite the surprising resistance by Somoza's successor, the four men and one woman appointed as a provisional government by the Sandinistas were trying to reach Managua Tuesday to take over.

But Francisco Urcuyo, Somoza's successor as president, lost no time in surprising the United States and several Latin American nations mediating the Nicaraguan crisis by announcing that he did not intend to abide by a diplomatic agreement to step down in favor of the Sandinista-backed junta.

The foreign ministers of Panama and the Dominican Republic tried to fly into Managua from San José, Costa Rica, Tuesday to confer with U.S. Ambassador Lawrence Pezullo on the unexpected development. But the new Urcuyo government refused them landing permission and they returned to Costa Rica.

"Urcuyo (will be) responsible for the bath of blood that is coming," Junta spokesman Manuel Espinosa warned in San José.

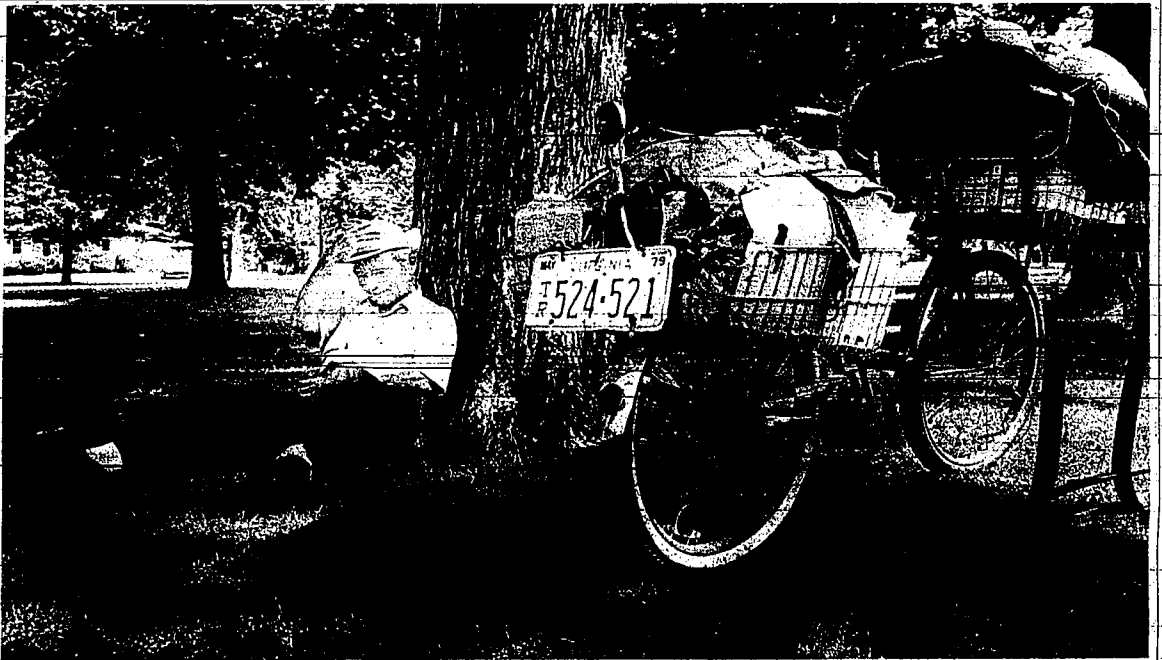

A U.S. ship was stationed offshore, ready to rescue the handful of Americans left in Managua, if necessary.

Under cover of darkness, the 53-year-old Somoza, his son and half-brother and 33 other people flew aboard his private Lear jet to Miami, where he was expected to make his new home.

"I am grateful to the government of the United States to allow me to live here in exile," Somoza, whose personal fortune is estimated at $500 million, told a news conference at his Sunset Island estate in Florida.

Later, in a telephone interview, Somoza said he believed his national guard will fight on and "defeat not only them (the Sandinistas) but also our next door neighbor (Costa Rica), which has been feeding them into Nicaragua."

Somoza acknowledged that he hoped to return to Nicaragua but denied that he had anything to do with Urcuyo's decision to defy the diplomatic plan for a cease-fire and a peaceful transition of power to the rebel-backed junta.

9,000 miles from home

Douglas Anderson, 63, had already pedaled 9,000 miles around the United States when he stopped for a break in City Park Tuesday. Last October Anderson was unemployed and bored. "I needed something to do... now I have a full-time job riding this bike." His 1987 balloon-tired single speed Ace has been fitted with new tires three times as Anderson rode from Fort Wayne, Ind., to Florida, across the south to California and north to Canada. He's now headed to Indiana where his four children live with his ex-wife.

English teachers seek better writing skills

By BEN McKELWAY
 Times-News writer

RUPERT — It's hot these days at Minidoka County High School. The summer sun turns the mind toward fantasies of the backyard hammock, a tall glass of lemonade, or a camping trip in the mountains.

The campus is deserted. The quiet halls are littered with empty boxes, pieces of floor tile, and other evidence of the usual summertime refurbishing.

But down the hall in Classroom 29 are 14 Magic Valley high school English teachers who would like to help their students acquire the precious ability to write well.

Nobody has to be there. Right now they could each be home in that hammock. But they all want to be better teachers enough to spend Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at a "Teaching Composition" workshop.

"My problem with leading workshops like this one is that only the best teachers come," said Dr. Dfiek Zirinsky, language arts consultant for the state Department of Education. "The ones who need it the most aren't here."

Dr. Zirinsky said her office has been flooded with requests for the workshops since the results of the Idaho Proficiency Test were publicized last month. Those results showed writing skills are the weak point for the class of 1982. Local school administrators all around the state now know they need help.

The test was administered to 70 percent of the state's ninth graders, about 11,000 students, in April. Only 63.4 percent of the students passed the writing section of the test, for which students were asked to draft letters to their school principals concerning a hypothetical ban on driving to school. The letters were then graded by a team of 25 Idaho English teachers using 50 selected letters as "range finders," each typical of the five rating levels used.

Teachers at the workshop spent part of Tuesday morning reading and grading 15 of these "range finders" with the student's name and school deleted. After the teachers rated the letters, Dr. Zirinsky revealed the official grade, which in every case was the same grade chosen by the majority of those at the workshop.

The teachers nodded in agreement when Dr. Zirinsky said the test results called for more emphasis on writing in elementary and junior high schools. Although the state Board of Education now requires a minimum of seven semesters of English at the high school level, beginning with the class of 1982, there are no such requirements for the first eight grades, she said. And that is where the problems begin.

Over lunch a group of four teachers agreed that English teachers at all levels tend to rely too much on grammar books without giving their students enough writing experience. The state requires just one semester of composition, in either 11th or 12th grade.

"A good English class spends at least one-third of its time on writing activities," Dr. Zirinsky said.

Dorothy Seymour, who teaches at Burley High School, told of a class of 10th graders who only stared at their blank paper when given their first writing assignment.

Finally a hand went up, said Mrs. Seymour. "Nobody has ever asked us to do that before," said the boy.

The conversation moved to other problems, and the group traded ideas as well as gripes.

"They (students) are always the same age, but I'm a year older every year," said Janice Jensen, a Buhl High School teacher, explaining that the age gap often means students have a different value system, making fair grading more difficult.

"They always want to write about abortion, drugs, or living together," said Mrs. Seymour.

Dr. Zirinsky recommended the teachers clear the air by telling the student when they disagree with his/her opinion. Teachers can then move on to the other aspects of that student's writing, she said.

5-year-old dying of old age disease

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Hundreds of well-wishers have offered their sympathy and prayers for Penny Vantine, the 5-year-old San Diego girl fighting old age in a convalescent home, hospital officials said Tuesday.

Penny suffers from a rare genetic disorder that has caused her to age at a rate of 15 to 20 years every 12 months. Her hair is dry and thin and her face is gaunt like that of an elderly woman.

Cockayne's Syndrome was diagnosed in Penny when she was 3 years old. She now suffers from cataracts in both eyes, hearing loss in both ears and arthritis. She weighs about 9 pounds and doctors say, in many ways, she has the body of a 90-year-old woman.

They offer little hope for survival but San Diego Children's Hospital said small gifts sent along with offers of help have visibly cheered the girl.

"It's really been amazing," hospital spokesman Larry Anderson. "Most of the people say they want to visit. They want to come and hold her and rock her. They offer to pray over her."

The hospital discourages visitors and instead asks that they "pray for her from where they are," Anderson said.

Senate refuses to contain growth of U.S. nuclear power

By IRAR ALLEN
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday refused to raise major barriers to the growth of atomic power, adopting a Nuclear Regulatory Commission budget containing some new, but relatively mild, safety provisions.

In the first legislation on nuclear power since the Three Mile Island accident last March, the Senate adopted 97-1 and sent the House a $402 million authorization bill.

It requires the 16 states without approved evacuation plans in case of a nuclear accident to draw them up by next June 1 or face the shutdown of the 39 reactors inside their borders.

In key votes Tuesday, the Senate rejected 57-35 a proposed six-month moratorium on issuing construction permits for new plants and killed on a 55-37 vote a move to allow states to veto federal decisions to bury nuclear wastes.

It adopted 60-32 an amendment setting criminal penalties of $25,000 and two years in prison for knowing violations of NRC safety standards, on top of increased civil penalties of $100,000 that had already been in the bill.

The Senate Environment and Public Works Committee originally proposed shutting down reactors in states that did not get NRC approval for emergency evacuation plans within six months of the bill's enactment.

The Senate on Monday changed the deadline to June 1 of next year, about nine months after expected enactment, and approved a loophole allowing reactors that pass NRC muster to stay in operation even if the state plan failed because of other faulty reactors. At present, the NRC approves state plans on an all-or-nothing basis.

Tuesday, pro-industry senators defeated the moratorium on construction permits and the state veto of disposal sites.

Kansas City mortuary hides 32 bodies

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — County health officials said Tuesday they had identified all but seven of the 32 corpses found scattered about the basement and two upper floors of a dilapidated southside mortuary.

City health director Dr. Richard Bley said the names would be released until all bodies had been identified and that the final identification "is almost going to have to be based on records there in the home and the owner's memory."

A state inspector burst into the machine room at the Kansas City Mortuary Service Monday, finding 32 bodies piled four-deep in the basement. One body was found in a cardboard packing carton. Two children's bodies were among the bodies.

Officials said all 32 bodies appeared to be that of indigenes and some nursing home cases. The operator of the service had previously contracted with Jackson County "to dispose of bodies in situations where there was no next of kin to handle funeral arrangements."

"It's my understanding the county paid him so much for each body he processed. Somewhere along the way he apparently didn't complete the arrangements," Police Sgt. Al Lomax said. "The bodies were kept (there in the mortuary) for whatever reason."

Police worked throughout the night in a make-shift tent morgue in an attempt to identify the bodies. Police said although all were embalmed, they were in various stages of decomposition.

Most had been in the converted, three-story frame home for several months.

Wednesday briefing

Bill approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Commerce Committee Tuesday approved a bill providing standby gasoline rationing authority for President Carter, supported by a "fragile coalition" of administration supporters who overcame attempts to both weaken the plan and to put it into effect more easily.

The committee gave the bill voice-vote approval at the end of a 10-hour session that saw repeated amendments voted down.

The bill would give President Carter the authority to draw up a rationing plan, and would set conservation targets for states to meet or face mandatory federal energy conservation plans.

Tornado strikes

A family clears debris from their Cheyenne, Wyo., home after a tornado destroyed about 300 buildings, killed one person and injured 57 others. An estimated 1,000 persons were left homeless. The tornado was one of the costliest disasters in the state's history.

Hostage dead

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — An unidentified woman held hostage in a man who led officers on a chase down Interstate 89 Tuesday died in a hospital emergency room of a single gunshot wound in the lower back, Laramie County Coroner Roger Radomsky said.

Authorities withheld both the name of the victim and the name of her alleged captor. An autopsy was scheduled for Wednesday.

Lt. Don Pierson said local police received a disturbance call at 2:33 p.m. and arrived at a motel on the outskirts of town. The couple emerged with the man holding a gun at the woman and sped westward on Interstate 89, he said.

Pierson said they ran two roadblocks until the man crashed into a Sheriff's Department patrol car, ran off the road and skidded sideways to a halt. He said the chase was west on the interstate for about 15 miles.

Sheriff Dennis Flynn said officers shot the man after he threatened to shoot them. He was wounded in the arm, Flynn said, and was taken to De Paul Hospital.

Pierson said the entire episode took about 20 minutes.

Bundy in contempt

MIAMI (UPI) — Theodore Bundy, on trial for the slaying of two Florida State University coeds, refused to appear in court today and was ruled in contempt before he finally relented and put in an appearance.

Jailers told Circuit Judge Edward Cowart that when they tried to take Bundy this morning they found the lock stuffed with toilet paper and had to pick it out before they could insert a key.

When they told Bundy to get ready for court, they said he replied: "I'll get ready when I feel like it."

The judge sent Bundy's attorneys to talk with him and about a half hour later, Bundy arrived in court.

Cigarette prices up

CHICAGO (UPI) — The price of cigarettes and machines could jump by 5 cents a pack within two weeks because of a new increase in the wholesale price of cigarettes by a major producer Monday.

There were no immediate estimates of when or how much the increase will raise the retail price of cigarettes sold across the counter by the pack or carton, but it appears certain that the price of lighting up is going up.

A spokesman for R.J. Reynolds Industries confirmed reports that the wholesale price of cigarettes went up by 11 cents a carton on Monday.

Crash delays train

SPOKANE (UPI) — A van being pursued at a high rate of speed by sheriff's deputies plowed through a signal crossing early Tuesday and caused a ball of flames, with the westbound Amtrak Empire Builder, killing the vehicle's driver and causing an estimated $250,000 damage to the train.

Two locomotives, a heater car and two baggage cars were derailed, but none of the train's passengers or crew was injured in the fiery crash in a suburban area three miles east of here.

A pair of substitute locomotives was attached to the remaining cars and the train made a brief stop at the Spokane station before continuing on to Seattle, about three hours behind schedule.

The driver of the van was identified as Michael Miller, 27, Spokane.

Investigation stalled

BOISE (UPI) — The Ada County Sheriff's Office said Tuesday stalling an investigation into the July 7 stabbing of Idaho State Prison inmate Delbert Crawford had been stalled by a lack of cooperation from the victim, the suspects, and witnesses.

Sgt. Gary Carr said Crawford, serving 15 years for murder and robbery, claims he fell on a knife and that no one stabbed him.

"So far, the witnesses have refused to cooperate, and the victim refuses to cooperate," Carr said. "If we haven't got witnesses and we haven't got a victim, then we don't have a case."

GM recalls '78 models

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. Tuesday recalled 1.8 million 1978-model intermediate cars and light trucks to repair a possible front wheel bearing lubrication defect blamed in 17 accidents.

The recall involves GM's entire 1978-model year production of the Chevrolet Malibu and Monte Carlo, Pontiac Lemans and Grand Prix, Oldsmobile Cutlass and Buick Century and Regal as well as the Chevrolet El Camino and GMC Caballero specialty trucks.

GM said the defect causes front wheel bearings to lose grease — a situation that ultimately could produce a loss of vehicle control.

Today's weather

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert and Jerome-Gooding areas:
Mostly fair and hot through Thursday. A chance of isolated thundershowers mainly during the afternoon. Lows in the mid 50s to mid 60s. Highs in the mid 90s to near 100.

The haying outlook through Sunday is for continued dry and hot with a chance of afternoon or evening thundershowers near the mountains.

The spraying forecast calls for winds less than 5 mph this morning and at night but 5 to 10 mph in the afternoon hours. Rain evaporation is 32 today and Thursday.

Camas-Fraser, Hiley and Upper Wood River Valley:
Mostly fair and hot today and Thursday. A few thundershowers may occur on Thursday and Friday. Lows in the mid 40s to low 50s and highs in the mid 90s.

Synopsis:
National Weather Service officials see no relief in sight for sweltering southern Idaho residents in the next few days. It is hot and will continue hot, the forecasters say.

High pressure continued over the Pacific northwest and will continue to hold temperatures in the high 90s and low 100s for the next few days. Some middle and high level moisture moving into southern Idaho Tuesday morning. This brought some isolated thundershowers — and these are expected to continue today.

Overnight low temperatures were mostly in the 50s to low 60s with a few 40 degree readings. Stanley reported the low with 30 degrees Tuesday morning.

mid afternoon Tuesday Boise had reported the high of 101. Southern areas will be partly cloudy at times during the next few days and 100 temperature readings will not be unusual.

The long range outlook through Friday is for continued dry and hot with a few afternoon thundershowers possible. Lows will range from 55 to 65 and highs will be mostly in the 90s.

Gold price nears $300; dollar slumps following speech

By United Press International
Gold swept toward the $300 level Tuesday and the dollar continued to sag in reaction to what dealers said was a lack of short-term punch in President Carter's energy program.

The rise in gold, however, was not expected to keep up without some setback.
"Had Carter been more positive, the same program he offered would have been accepted more favorably on the world's markets," a spokesman for Manfra, Tordella and Brooks, New York foreign exchange dealers, said.

Gold closed at $297.85 an ounce in London and at $296.125 in Zurich, both record highs, and bullion dealers anticipated the metal would pierce the $300 level Wednesday or Thursday.
In New York, the metal closed at $297.45, and moved even higher in inter-dealings.

A Swiss dealer said, "It is possible gold will break the $300 mark Wednesday if present trends continue. If not, there will be a major collapse because the price of gold is artificially high."
P.C. Tordella, of Manfra, Tordella and Brooks, said the price of gold "has gone up too far, too fast, and is due for a tumble" but not before it moves past the $300 mark.

The dollar closed lower on all foreign exchange markets: vis-a-vis the mark it fell to its lowest point since since last November when Carter announced a program to protect the U.S. currency.
Dealers almost universally said the Carter energy program seemed to raise more problems than it was designed to solve, and simply was not "tough enough."

Milan Exchange Vice President Leonida Gaudenzi said, "If Americans think Carter's speech was tough, it certainly didn't seem that way to Europeans. He made no concrete energy proposals. It is a program we were waiting for and the exchange today reflects the absence of one."

Carter gets positive vote

NEW YORK (UPI) — The percentage of Americans who approve of the way President Carter is handling his job rose dramatically after his Sunday night speech to the nation, a CBS-News/New York Times poll showed Tuesday.
Of the 895 people polled nationwide, 37 percent gave Carter a positive job approval rating — up 11 points from a poll taken by the same two news organizations earlier this month.

The percentage that approved of the way Carter was handling the nation's energy problems more than doubled in one week from 16 percent on July 9 to 34 percent on the day after the speech.
An overwhelming majority — 77 percent — agreed with Carter's view that the United States is suffering a crisis of confidence. Thirteen percent disagreed.

President seeks to regain public support

By ROBERT SHOGAN
© 1979 The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON—Jimmy Carter sought Sunday night to begin the ambitious task of regaining the public support lost during the first 30 months of his presidency by creating a new national mood of hope and reconciliation.

The president's intention, as he said before his nationally televised address, was nothing less than to turn the country around. But the question posed dramatically by his extraordinary 10 days on a Maryland mountain top and by the much-heralded speech itself is whether Carter can turn his own administration around and lead it with force and direction.

In political terms, the speech boiled down to the beginning of a critical opportunity that Carter must exploit, or sink even lower in public esteem.

Fully mindful of this fact, the president seemed for once to have mustered his feelings and convictions behind the delivery of his address. He spoke with considerably more vigor and emotion than usual, occasionally gesturing with a clenched fist to emphasize his points.

And with his back to the political wall, Carter returned to the moralistic themes that served him so well early in his 1976 campaign for the presidency.

In fact, the bulk of the president's address, before he unveiled his six-point energy conservation and development program, sounded much like the sort of campaign sermons Jimmy Carter used to deliver in the town halls and school rooms of Iowa and New Hampshire when he was seeking votes in the presidential primaries.

Once again, he cast himself as a moralist, lamenting the "crisis of the American spirit," the worship of self-indulgence, the loss of faith in national institutions.

However, the approach that served Carter so well as an obscure candidate may not work for him as president.

The government in Washington that Carter criticized Sunday night is the government he has headed for 2½ years. If there has been a loss in national confidence, public opinion polls strongly suggest that much of the confidence has been lost in president himself.

In outlining the moral rationale into which he said the country had descended, Carter contended that by solving the energy crisis, Americans could raise their spirits and renew their confidence.

But many Americans, frustrated by gas lines and fearful of heating oil shortages, may not readily see the connection between morality and petroleum.

The energy problem is all too tangible, and the president's immediate task is to demonstrate that beyond the rhetorical impact of one of his strongest speeches — he can be part of the solution, not part of the problem.

The speech was a necessary first step toward this task, primarily because it assured Carter of the public attention that as he had acknowledged, he has had increasing difficulty getting.

"Just the fact that Jimmy Carter gave a speech and the country listened is something positive," said one member of the "Wednesday Group," an informal collection of Democratic lawyers and lobbyists who met once a week at the White House to consult and advise on policy and political strategy.

Carter confidently predicted that the postponement of the speech, originally scheduled for July 5, and the ensuing week of Camp David summitry had gained him a much wider audience than he would otherwise have had.

But a good part of the increased attention was focused not so much on the energy problem, which had already become a public pre-occupation because of the gas lines in many parts of the country, as it was focused on the president himself.

The abrupt and mysterious postponement of the original speech baffled many Americans and tended to reinforce widely held doubts about the president's command and control of his job — doubts that Carter acknowledged to recent visitors.

So when Carter confronted tens of millions of Americans on television Sunday night, the burden on him to demonstrate his leadership qualities was probably greater than ever before.

Anyone who had expected him to achieve so much in one speech was likely to be let down.

The real test will come in the days and weeks ahead, as political professionals and the public watch to see if Carter can finally convert his White House into a responsive and efficient apparatus for implementing politics and policy.

"He can only turn things around if he grabs this issue hard and really follows through on it," one unofficial White House adviser said. Where the White House has fallen short in the past, he noted, has been in failing to sustain its effort and concern behind the range of goals the president has set for himself and the country.

Most politicians here believe it is too much to say that Carter's political doom would be sealed if he failed to live up to the high expectations he had created for Sunday's speech.

The presidency, with all its power and prestige, is an office possessed of almost infinite potential for recuperation.

But if the public judges Carter to have flopped, he will be gravely wounded politically. And with the official onset of the 1980 presidential campaign little more than six months away, the time for him to heal himself is growing short.

Comprehensive plan not inflexible

Twin Falls realtors and developers should be glad the proposed city comprehensive plan has its faults.

If everyone agreed today that the plan was perfect, and it rolled through the approval process without protest, it could be terribly difficult later on to change it.

But since reasonable and cogent arguments are being voiced now for and against the plan, those who will have to implement it should realize that the plan does not constitute a mandate to impose one particular vision on the city of Twin Falls.

The plan is designed to be a flexible document that grows as the city grows and changes in response to changing community needs.

Those who support the proposed plan admit it is not designed to anticipate needs 10 years from now.

But they are justified in insisting that the people of Twin Falls have a right to influence the direction in which the city grows, to restrict commercial growth to certain general areas and thereby protect the integrity of residential areas, to stop developers from imposing their vision, or lack of it, on the city.

The realtors and builders are just as right to demand that there be a mechanism for changing the plan when it becomes clear that the plan's concepts have become outdated and are restricting rather than promoting orderly growth.

That mechanism exists. City residents, through elected officials, will approve the plan. The residents can change it.

The plan will not restrict growth. When it becomes clear that changes in the plan are needed to allow reasonable, necessary and orderly growth, those changes will be made. Public opinion will not permit otherwise.

In the meantime, the plan will provide the city with a mechanism to hold developers to a reasonable standard of performance.

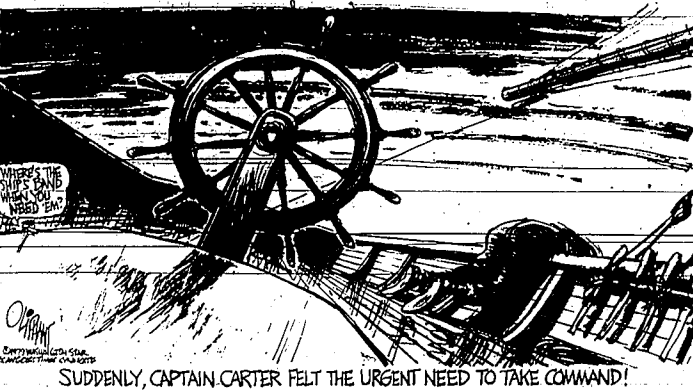

The plan will enable the city to avoid mistakes which everyone regrets, like the deterioration of Blue Lakes Boulevard North, as epitomized by the Blue Lakes Mall Shopping Center parking lot.

Developers will also benefit, at least those who believe in community responsibility, because they will know where and what they can and cannot build—and how to gain approval for projects. They will also be able to offer their customers a reasonable guarantee that the houses they buy today will not be next to a gas station five years from now.

All that will be required of developers is advance planning, which consumes more time than profits.

The city council should approve a plan which allows growth of commercial districts where growth has begun and can be reasonably expected to continue. The plan should also provide for a reasonable measure of public control over development.

Progress and controlled growth are not incompatible concepts. It is up to the council to set a precedent of reasonableness for reconciling them.

Shift in status symbols

Chicago Sun-Times
CHICAGO—We pulled up to the same red light. He and his female companion were in a small economy car. It looked shiny and new. I was in my four-wheel-drive truck.

I happened to glance at them and saw that they were studying my truck with what appeared to be contempt. Then she looked at me and her lips formed words.

"I rolled my window down and asked: 'Did you say something to me?'"

"Yes, what kind of gas mileage does THAT THING get?" she asked.

"Well, much as they would have, one might feel as if I was driving something obscene.

"Uh, the mileage is not very good," I answered.

"Well, do you think it's fair for someone to drive a THING like that in these kinds of times, with the fuel crisis and all the other problems, and when people have to 'make sacrifices'?"

"There was no crisis except a snow crisis when I got it," I said, wondering why I was sitting there answering questions like a criminal suspect.

"That may be so," she said, "but do you think that you have the right..."

"That was as much as I heard. I rolled my window up. She sneered. He leaned over and sneered, too.

When the light changed, I made a right turn, although I wasn't going that way. But I was afraid that they would get at me again at the next light and at the one after that. By the time I got home, I'd be filled with so much guilt that I might slash my own oversized tires.

So it is starting. The people with the fashionably frugal EPA ratings are going to be giving disdainful looks to those of us who are stuck with the disgusting EPA ratings. The status symbols have been reversed.

Only a few short months ago, a great status symbol, I bought it at the height of the great Chicago blizzard in order to get to work. I bought it through snowdrifts, early drive up and down snow-clogged side streets while looking down at the little snow-covered lumps that lined the curbs — small economy cars that could get anywhere.

In snow country, the owners of the snow-covered lumps looked envious as I went by. Now, in gasless July, all those little lumps are the status symbols. And their owners are filled with self-righteousness.

A friend of mine who drives a big black Cadillac said he is beginning to notice it.

"Just the other day, I got sneered at on the toll road by a family in a VW Rabbit," he said. "First I was, driving along, and they went by me and the wife sneered at me. So did the little kids in the back seat. The kids pointed at me like I was some kind of pervert. They had a tiny dog and even the dog looked unfriendly."

"They made me feel so ashamed that I slowed down and got behind a truck to sort of hide.

"Then the next time I went to the gas station to fill up, I was a guy at the next pump, and he had a little Japanese car. He watched the gauges to see how many gallons I was getting, and he kept shaking his head. Why should I have to put up with that kind of humiliating treatment from a guy with a Japanese car?"

"I never thought I would see the day come in America when a man driving a big black Cadillac would be looked down at by people in a tiny VW. Don't they know how hard I had to work and convive to own it?"

"All of my life I had been taught that aspiring to own a Cadillac was the American way—it meant I had made it.

"I remember the first day I drove it. I lit a big cigar, and I don't even like to smoke them.

"And I went to a restaurant that has a doorman, just so I could pull up in front and get out and feel like a big operator.

"The way I had been taught, people in little cars were supposed to look at people in big expensive cars with admiration and envy. That's what I did when I owned a little car. I would always look at a Caddy or a Lincoln with envy. I was paying my dues. I knew that someday when I owned a Caddy, somebody else in a small car would look at me with awe. That was the natural order of things.

"But now that isn't the way it is. Instead of taking their turn and looking envious, they are looking at me with contempt.

"Now I see car commercials where people pull up in front of restaurants in tiny cars and they act like big shots.

"Everything has been turned upside down. After all those years of work, I finally get my Caddy, and now they are making me feel ashamed. Is that right? Is that the American way?"

Snow White victim of racism fear

Field Newspaper Syndicate
Add another victim to America's continuing discomfort about racial matters. This time it's Snow White.

That's right — as in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." For centuries, Snow White has been a beloved fairy tale character. Ever since her creation by the Brothers Grimm, she has gladdened the hearts of children around the world.

But not in 1979.

At the Francis W. Parker School in Chicago's fashionable Lincoln Park neighborhood, "Snow White" was chosen as this year's eighth-grade play.

Parker is an excellent private school, one of the most outstanding in Chicago. It is also almost screamingly liberal and conscious of Doing the Right Thing. Many of Chicago's most enlightened citizens send their children to Parker, sensing that the school is a model of modern idealism and progressive social attitudes.

It should probably be no surprise that Parker is the school where "Snow White" was deemed to be vaguely racist, and the title of the play was changed.

Early in the school year, it was announced that "Snow White" would be the eighth graders' big production of the year. But by the time the play took to the stage — because of fears that the Snow White concept would, somehow be racially offensive — the title had been changed to "Princess in the Woods," and all references to "Snow White" had been excised from the script.

The two faculty members in charge of directing the show — Dan Reichel and Mark Anderson — made the decision that the "white" must be taken out of "Snow White." "There was a concern on my part," Reichel said. "There are some lines in the 'Snow White' story that made me a little uncomfortable. And then there was the question of what would happen if a black student was chosen to play Snow White. Mark Anderson and myself decided that it would just be better if we didn't talk about Snow White at all."

Thus, the directors — while telling the traditional "Snow White" story in the play — came up with the new title, and referred to the heroine only as "the princess." Reichel said that a line such as the witch's saying, "I wish I could have a little girl with skin as white as snow," made him a little uneasy, and that "there is no need for an eighth-grade student to go through something like that."

He said that after it was decided that "Snow White" would become "Princess in the Woods," some students asked him why they weren't doing "Snow White" after all. He told them, "Oh, it's still 'Snow White,' sort of."

Mark Anderson, the faculty member who directed the play with Reichel, said, "I had repercussions as soon as we announced that 'Snow White' was going to be the play. Some people were nice about it and some were extremely nasty. I heard right away that there were some rumblings among some of the parents about it."

Anderson said that "there were innuendos that I was a racist all year because of the selection of 'Snow White.'"

"The students didn't feel that way — I got it through the school grapevine that some of the parents were upset. And then when we changed the name, there was more misunderstanding about our motives in doing that." Indeed, the Parker administration is a bit reticently to discuss the entire matter candidly.

Fred Dust, head of the upper school, denied that the racial implications of "Snow White" had anything to do with the decision to change the name. He said it was done because of fear about possible legal action by Walt Disney studios if "Snow White" was used.

(The two directors tell a completely different story. Dan Reichel said, "There was no legal problem with Disney. It was completely the decision of the two faculty directors, based on the reasons I've told you about." Mark Anderson said that the Disney studios had "nothing whatsoever to do with the decision to change 'Snow White.'")

So the show went on, minus any references to the Snow White character. The schoolchildren served — much as they would have, one suspects, had Snow White been kept in. The directors said that "the only things we heard from the kids was for the most part repetition of what someone had said at home," and "that in retrospect, it might have been absolutely fine to call it 'Snow White.'"

Out at the Walt Disney studios in California, John Cayley, who works in the Disney archives, said, "This is really surprising. We've never had any complaints about 'Snow White' before. There's nothing racist at all in the 'Snow White' story. But you never know what people are going to do. Next they'll be saying that Little Red Riding Hood is an Indian." Ah, well. Several years back, a couple of feminist groups charged that "Snow White" was "sexist" because, among other things, Snow White had to wait hand and foot on the seven male dwarfs.

Hang on, Snow White. Only 195 more days till the '80s...

"I didn't know how to answer him. I guess it is the new American way, and we'll just have to live with it, and try to avoid making eye contact with people who have little cars.

But if it will make him feel any better, he might consider this: Before the summer is over, all those people on roller skates will probably be sneering at people in small cars.

Billy's wife blames media

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Carter's wife says the news media turned her husband into a clown, then accused him of capitalizing on the prestige of the White House when he was only trying to earn a living with his controversial personal appearance tours.

Sybil Carter, in an interview with the Ladies' Home Journal, said the president's younger brother was left no alternative in support of his family when he was denied the right to buy the family peanut business after President Carter placed it in a blind trust after the election.

"Billy didn't like it," Mrs. Carter said. "He made an offer to buy the business and it was turned down. It nurt him a lot, I think, because it was his father's business and he thought it should stay in the family."

She said the media then took advantage of Billy "and put him in a mold, made him a clown or a card whatever."

"Then they began blowing everything he said out of proportion. And when they had done that, they turned around and said to him, 'Do you really think you should have said that? It's bad for Jimmy ... Well, there is something very wrong with that. Billy can't run for the presidency. You couldn't give us the White House.'"

She said the White House exercises no control over Billy.

White foster parents seek black baby

VERNON Conn. (UPI) — A state social worker said Tuesday he sought only temporary care for a black baby when he placed it with white foster parents, and wouldn't have done so if he knew the couple would try to adopt it.

George Lincoln testified a second emotional day, as the couple, Michael Lusa, 28, and his wife, Wendy, 27, attempted to overthrow an unwritten state policy against inter-racial adoptions and win permission to adopt the infant.

The state has claimed the home is not suitable for the baby boy and has asked the Lusas to immediately return him to state care. But Superior Court Judge Harry Hammer has given the couple permission to keep the child until the hearing concludes.

Towering dinosaur's bone discovered in Colorado

By MICHAEL WHITNEY
PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Brigham Young University paleontologist James A. Jensen has uncovered the largest dinosaur bone ever found—a shoulder blade that belonged to a monster so tall it could look over a five-story building.

Jensen said he found the 140 million-year-old fossil in an official scientific name, but has unofficially dubbed it the "ultrasaurus."

The shoulder blade found by Jensen in the Dry Mesa quarry southwest of Delta, Colo., is nearly nine feet long.

"It's hard to tell the size of a car from a hubcap," he said Monday. "But based on the size of this scapula, I'd say the animal's leg bones alone must have been 20 feet tall."

"That would make it a monster about 50-60 feet tall, about 75-80 feet long, and probably weighing about 80 tons.

Jensen said the ultrasaurus had a long, curved neck like a giraffe, and was a plant eater or herbivore. "All the largest dinosaurs were herbivores," he said.

Jensen, known as "Dinosaur Jim" to his colleagues, said paleo-physiologists — scientists who study the physical makeup of extinct animals — question his estimate of ultrasaurus's height.

"They want to know what kind of heart it could have had that was capable of pumping a column of blood 70 or 80 feet high," he said. "But that's their problem. I'm not going to worry about it."

He said he would return to Dry Mesa quarry shortly and try to find more ultrasaurus bones.

Leos can really advance today, but are advised to sidestep troublemaker; Libras, follow hunches

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening to engage in activities that appeal to you. Avoid anything of an unpredictable nature. Make plans to have increased abundance in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact the most successful person you know and find out how to become more affluent yourself—become more active.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Apply more effort to personal aims and you can gain them easily. Don't waste time on unimportant matters. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Analyze your progress accurately and know how to improve conditions so that you get ahead faster. Express happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are now able to make a fine impression on a higher-up who can be helpful to you. Improve your health.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Combine your good judgment with your intuitive perceptions and you get fine results at this time. Sidestep a troublemaker.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have good ideas for increasing happiness with your mate, so put them in operation at once. Avoid one who is jealous of you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show that you have great ability at business matters and get good results. Your hunches are fine now, so follow them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study the aims of your associates and come to a better understanding with them. Follow charivvics of experts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make plans to engage in more satisfying recreations in the future. Take no risks with money matters at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think more about saving money instead of just spending it. Don't turn your back on a moral obligation you have.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make certain your business affairs are well organized today. Obtain the advice you need from a financial expert.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Put your finest talents to work now and get excellent results. You can handle business matters in a clever way now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very good at whatever is of a practical nature, so be certain to give the right moral, ethical and spiritual training necessary for a full and happy life. There could much success in whatever field is chosen.

What's what

Marijuana traffic third in dollar volume among nation's businesses

The three biggest dollar-volume businesses in this country according to the U. S. Commerce Department, are Exxon General Motors and marijuana traffic.

Sir, how would you rate yourself as a mathematician? Possibly not up there with Adolph Tupperwein, I'd guess. During 12 days in 1906, Tupperwein fired at 72,500 targets. He missed only nine.

Consider those results in one or another of the U. S. military services. Ninety percent of the women among them have high school diplomas. Only 63 percent of the men do. The women's test scores run approximately 20 percent higher than the men's. But this doesn't mean women make the best soldiers, sailors, marines, please note. A high IQ is not the first requirement in that game, evidently.

SOAP
Q. What are the most popular bar soaps in the country?
A. Last I heard they were Dial, Ivory, Zest and Dove, in that order.

The flippant nickname for Continental Can stock among the brokers on Wall Street is Zee Zee Zee Gabor.

Q. What's this country's oldest breed of horse?
A. The quarter horse. Dates back to around 1644.

The only U. S. President who didn't use the word "I" in his inaugural address was Teddy Roosevelt.

Q. What city has the worst traffic jams?
A. Tokyo, no doubt about it.

MURDER
Eleven percent of all murdered men are killed by their wives. Forty-one percent of all murdered women are killed by their husbands. Or such be the indications from the results of a lengthy study in Philadelphia.

In only one sort of big-game hunting does the animal that gets caught have to pay for the license, and that, say our Love and War man, is husband hunting.

Anybody who gets 2,800 letters a week deserves to have a zip code all his own, right? Smokey the Bear gets this much mail. And has personal zip—20252.

Palestinian relative of dead man

By RAY SULLIVAN Times Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS — Mahmoudshawik "Moe" Yousef Rasheed, 96, a Palestinian jailed on a first-degree murder charge, is the uncle of the man he is accused of shooting between the eyes Saturday night, according to police officials.

A time for a preliminary hearing, held to see whether the case should go to 5th District Court, will be set at 10 a.m. today in county court. Rasheed is accused of killing his nephew, Shawkat Shukri Ali, 31, who was shot with a .22 caliber automatic pistol about 9 p.m. Saturday in the office of the El Rancho Motel, 300 Addison Ave. W.

Rasheed's lawyer, Public Defender Randy Oker, said he doesn't plan to bring a client to court while the hearing date is set. It must be held within 10 days of Monday's arraignment.

Police and court officials said the arraignment was held in a county courthouse office adjacent to the fourth-floor jail Monday, rather than a courtroom in the county judicial building next door, because of the threat of reprisals.

City's impact area debated

TWIN FALLS — Planning and Zoning Commission members for Twin Falls County have asked the city of Twin Falls to reconsider an area of impact limited to about one mile in all directions from present city boundaries.

Members of the county group reasoned, in this event, there is no need to now include it in the impact area.

Ed Woods, county zoning administrator, said the city of Filer is also asking for a large impact area around that town, while Kimberly is divided and Buhl has been conservative in its proposal.

In other business Thursday night, the county zoning group gave its disapproval to a request from Rocky Mountain Harvest Inc., for relocating on land at Red Cap Corner, north of Kimberly.

Charles "Pete" Borden

SHOSHONE — Charles C. "Pete" Borden, 59, of Boise, formerly of Shoshone, died from injuries received in an automobile accident in Boise Sunday evening.

He was born May 25, 1921, at Shoshone. He graduated from the Shoshone High School, attended a year at the University of Idaho prior to entering the army during World War II. He belonged to the Delta Chi Fraternity. He worked for the Bureau of Land Management at Shoshone, for the Idaho Department of Highways here for 27 years, and then the city of Gooding. He moved to Boise, where he was employed at the Testing Laboratories at the time of his death. He belonged to the Gooding Methodist Church.

Survivors include three sons, Morgan Charles Borden of Moscow, William Borden and John Frederick Borden, both of Gooding; a daughter, Mrs. Richard M. (Nancy) Kessel of Moscow; and a sister, Mrs. Ely (Frances) Burkett of Shoshone. He was preceded in death by his parents.

State Board of Education Policy Manual For Public Schools Release Time Program

Notice is hereby given that the State Board of Education, State of Idaho, by authority granted in Title 33, Chapter 1, Idaho Code, proposes to revise Board policy on Release Time Programs in Public Elementary and Secondary Schools. The proposed policy will have the following effects:

- 1) Eliminates an old policy that provided under certain circumstances the granting of credit for courses in religious education (approved by the State Board May 31, 1968)
- 2) Replaces Subsections 401.2(2) and 401.2(1)
- 3) Provides for voluntary release time programs in school districts. These release time programs must not interfere with the operation of the schools of the district nor entangle the State's public schools in any program of religious education.

The proposed policy may be read in full at the Office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Idaho Department of Education, and at the Office of the State Board of Education, both located in the Len B. Soon new TFHS football coach Bill Jones will be surrounded by his team

Jones to coach Bruins

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

TWIN FALLS — Bill Jones, who has been a member of the Twin Falls High School football staff for the past three years, was named head coach of the Bruins Tuesday. The appointment came as no surprise. The Times-News had reported last week that Jones was the leading candidate for the position.

A native of Wyoming and a graduate of South Dakota State College in Spearfish, S.D., Jones has 10 years of head coaching experience behind him. He led Lotus High School for two seasons and Welser High School for eight seasons before coming to Twin Falls.

He and his family moved to Twin Falls four years ago when he felt he had had enough head coaching. But he wanted to remain in the game and accepted various assistant jobs in the Twin Falls system.

"I decided this past year that I wanted a head coaching job again and I didn't want to leave Twin Falls," Jones said of his decision to take the Twin Falls position. "I had applied at two other schools, and I felt I had the Ontario, Ore., job if I had wanted it."

"When the Twin Falls job came open I thought 'why not give it a shot here and forget about the hassle of moving,'" said the low-keyed coach.

Jones knows the problems ahead are big but he feels they are not insurmountable.

"I'm a realist," he says. "I know in our wildest dreams we are not going 9-0 this year. But I do feel that this year could be a start back for Twin Falls football if we can get the key kids out. If we could win three or four this season, it would give us a good foundation for next year."

"I will use the veer," he said of his offensive plans. "It's a skill offense and I feel that in our Juniors and sophomores this year we definitely have some skill people. That's why I feel that what happens this year will be important. A little success this year," he said referring to those three or four wins, "and I think we'd have all the key kids out next year, a year older and we could be competitive."

Within his offense, Coach Jones will strive for a 40-60 passing-to-running game.

"Of course," he said, "you realize our first game this fall will be against Borah. That percentage could go up..."

He said his immediate attention would be turned toward talking to athletes and lining up his staff.

"I will be talking to as many of the boys as I can get hold of right away to tell them what we plan to do and invite them to be part of the program," he said. "After that it will be the individual's decision but we are hopeful we can get a good turnout."

Concerning his staff, Jones said he felt it was pretty solid right now, needing only an offensive line coach.

"We have a man in mind that would love to have handling that for us. I am expecting a call within the next couple of days and if we get the answer we want from him, our staff will be set."

Jack Nicklaus leads British Open field

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (UPI) — In a tiny town on the northwest coast of England, in a resort area where land merely seen the world's greatest golfer may be reaching the crossroads of an incredible career.

It's been the worst of years for Jack Nicklaus, and even he admits with a disheartened shrug, "my golf game hasn't deserved to win any golf tournaments."

Never, since he joined the tour in 1962 and captured the U.S. Open as a rookie, has Nicklaus failed to win at least one tournament each year — that he will miss out this year remains a distinct reality. And never has Nicklaus finished lower than fourth on the earnings list; currently, he stands 58th with $45,919.

"You feel like you're playing reasonably well," he said recently, "but nothing happens."

There has been no recent evidence that Nicklaus, at age 39 enjoying more a golf outing with his family than the weekly play-for-pay grind, can regain the status he enjoyed for so long. But Nicklaus firmly believes he still is capable of winning, even on a limited schedule, and in his typically honest fashion, he doesn't try to hide his inner hope that the British Open, once again, will give him a needed lift.

It happened at St. Andrews last year when Nicklaus, without a major championship in 2 1/2 years, won the Open for the third time, and followed that a week later by taking the Philadelphia Classic. But that's been his last victory.

"Somehow I seem to come over here and get my game in shape," Nicklaus said Tuesday on the eve of the 108th British Open, and I see no reason why it can't happen this year.

"For a tournament like this I try to figure out an extra reason to get me charged up. For example I've never won in England — all three of my Opens have come in Scotland — and I'd like to win one here. Thinking of things like this gets me psyched up."

That Nicklaus still is held in high esteem is demonstrated by the fact he is the second favorite at 7-1 for the Open, behind only Tom Watson, listed at 5-1. At the same time, this great among greats knows the indignity of having other people make suggestions to correct his game.

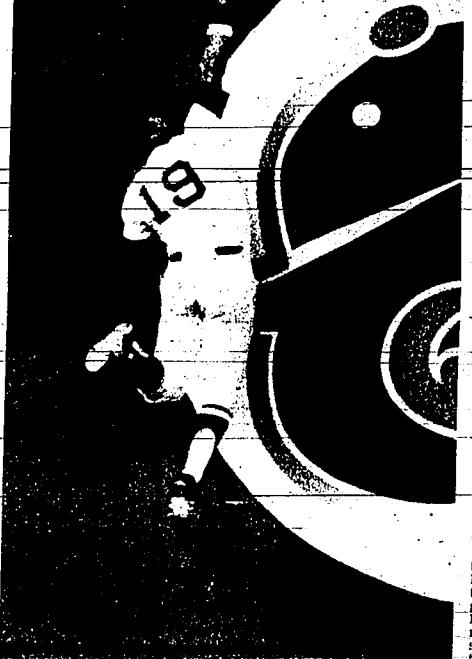

"It's very difficult when someone speaks in your ear to hear it," he said. "I try not to pay attention. No one likes remarks that prod you; I have enough self motivation not to worry about it."

Nevertheless, it was a suggestion from his son, Jackie, that has put Nicklaus in a positive mood for the severe test ahead. Nicklaus hadn't been feeling comfortable with his putting, and Jackie told him he was breaking off his stroke and not putting through the ball.

"The little lesson I got from my son helped, I think," Nicklaus said. "I only hope I can put as well as I have been in practice."

Parker paces NL triumph

Outfielder Fred Lynn unsuccessfully leaps for a fly ball in center field

A 'uniform-less' Reggie

SEATTLE (UPI) — Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees showed up for the All-Star Game Tuesday night without his uniform but had it flown to Seattle in time for the pre-game introductions.

The slugger, outfielder said he simply forgot to pack it and was given a uniform of the Seattle Mariners to wear in pre-game batting practice. Jackson was offered a selection of numbers to choose from but decided on a shirt without a number on it.

"I wish I could offer an excuse," said Jackson. "God knows I tried. I just forgot it."

Jackson had his regular Yankee uniform No. 44 flown to Seattle at a cost of $300 and was still buttoning it when his turn came in the introductions. But the public address announcer inadvertently skipped him and introduced teammate Ron Guidry before realizing his mistake and presenting Jackson.

SEATTLE (UPI) — Lee Mazzilli of the New York Mets, the brightest new star in the National League's galaxy, and the score with a pinch-hit homer in the eighth inning then drew a bases-loaded walk off reliever Ron Guidry in the ninth inning Tuesday night to give the National League a 7-6 victory over the American League for their eighth consecutive triumph in the All-Star game.

Mazzilli named to the All-Star team for the first time, batted for Atlanta's Gary Matthews in the eighth inning and homered into the lower deck in left field of Texas relief ace Jim Kern to tie the score 6-6. He then came through with his clutch walk with two out in the ninth after Kern loaded the bases on a walk to Joe Morgan, a balk, an intentional walk to Dave Parker and another walk to Ron Cey.

It was rather ironic that a walk should have been the end of the "baseball's finest" bouncer in the grand Kingdom as if it were a giant pinball machine. The two sides each collected 10 hits and there were nine extra base hits in the contest, including 10 doubles.

The game was the longest nine-inning contest in All-Star history, taking three hours and 11 minutes and there were enough outstanding plays to send the capacity crowd of 37,366 to its feet in the 10th history — home happy despite the fact the AL lost for the 16th time in the last 18 games.

While Mazzilli won the game for the NL, it was Pittsburgh's Dave Parker, perhaps the brightest of all the NL stars, who emerged as the game's Most Valuable Player. Parker didn't do much with the bat, managing only a sacrifice fly in the second inning and an infield hit in the seventh, but his outfielder-like arm saved the game for the NL and twice brought the fans from their seats in standing ovals.

Parker saved his best play for the seventh inning. He hit the Red Sox outfielder down at third base with a perfect one-hop throw as Rice tried to stretch the hit into a triple.

Parker saved his best play for the eighth inning however. With runners on first and second and two out, New York's Graig Nettles lashed what appeared to be a run-scoring single to right field. Parker fielded the ball on one hop and unthinkingly a bullet throw on the fly catcher Gary Carter, naming California's Brian Downing at the plate as he attempted to score from second base.

It was the first time in All-Star competition that an outfielder had two assists in a game.

Gracie Sutter of the Chicago Cubs, one of a record-tying seven pitchers used by the NL, benefited from the play of Mazzilli and Parker to get the victory. Sutter worked the last two innings and was tagged for two hits while striking out three.

It had been predicted by both managers that the game would be a high-scoring affair because of the Kingdom's small dimensions—but it looked at the start of the game as if California's Nolan Ryan might completely stifle the NL bats.

Ryan started out as if he would challenge Carl Hubbell's All-Star record of five consecutive strikeouts when he blew his famed 100.3 mph fastball past Los Angeles' Davey Lopes and Parker to open the game. However, the Ianay Texan's old nemesis — the base on balls — got him in trouble when he walked Los Angeles' Steve Garvey on a 3-2 pitch and Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt followed by drilling a triple off the glove of center fielder Fred Lynn against the right-center field wall.

George Foster of Cincinnati, one of baseball's top clutch hitters, promptly scored Schmidt with a line double to right and the NL had a quick 2-0 lead.

Britain's Coe sets new mile record

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Britain's Sebastian Coe, effortlessly running his way into track's history books, Tuesday sliced almost a half second off John Walker's record for the mile when he completed the run in 3:48.95.

In winning the so-called Golden Mile against a top class of runners, Coe surpassed the four-year-old mark of 3:49.4 which Walker set in New Zealand set in Göteborg, Sweden, on Aug. 12, 1975.

It was the second world record in two weeks set by Coe at Bislett Stadium. Only 19 days ago Coe, a 22-year-old graduate in economics from Loughborough University in England, achieved a world record for 800 meters in 1:43.4.

"I didn't feel any strain or pain anywhere in the race and I am surprised that it went with such ease," said Coe, who does not plan to race again until the European Cup final in Turin, Italy, next month.

"I didn't really come to break the record. I came to win and this sermon the runners were talking as though it was going to be a sitters' race."

Legion team spends weekend it will long remember

TWIN FALLS — Gary Barker is glad to be back home. What started out as a promising weekend with a double-header sweep over Rexburg Saturday ended in Sunday when the Twin Falls American Legion baseball team twice twice to Pocatello.

But the two defeats were not the only thing on Barker's mind when the team's van spluttered into Twin Falls late Sunday night.

Barker was exhausted. He had spent several hours on the way home thinking about what to do to repair his most injured lineup. He had spent close to an hour fixing a flat tire, and another hour getting a new fan belt.

When he first left the Pocatello parking lot, he figured to be home about 7:30 p.m. The van rolled up at 11:30 p.m.

"It was a trip I would just as soon forget," said Barker a couple of days later. "Although it did get to be comical after a while."

The team set out for home in a pretty somber mood, having just lost twice to a team it should have beaten. To top it off, several of the players were hurting physically. Randy Cummins had reinjured his leg. Scott Nass had reaggravated a strain on his hip. Kerry Brown had twisted his already tender ankle and Lynn Thorpe broke a finger on his throwing hand sliding into the plate.

And that is not to mention the mental anguish suffered by Rocky Brown, who drove his own car on the trip only to have the windshield shattered by a foul ball in the last inning of the last game.

Everybody was hoping for a speedy trip home. It was not to be.

Cruising along Interstate 80 the van began to thump with the sound of a flat tire. No problem, thought Barker, just change the tire and resume the drive.

But it is tough to change a tire without a jack, and as hard as they looked no one could find a jack anywhere in the van.

There are 12 players on a team, but it is tough to hold up a van. Too bad it wasn't a Honda.

Barker's next brainstorm was to flag down a passing car. It had a jack, but the wrong kind.

After a couple more tries the team was successful and the trip home was resumed.

But soon after, the van began to heat up and off to the side of the road it pulled again. A quick look inside discovered the air-conditioner belt had broken and in the process knocked off the fan belt.

"About this time, everybody started getting a little panic," said Barker. "Everybody had an idea of how to fix it and there were a lot of arms in the engine. But nothing worked."

"That meant a trip back to American Falls to get a new belt and another hour delay.

During the pit stops Barker had time to reflect on the games just lost. He came up with no answers.

"It wasn't easy losing those two games," the coach said. "We really had to work at it."

In the opener, won 3-1 by Pocatello, the Cowboys out-hit the Rebels 10 to 5, but lost the game. Nine times Twin Falls left runners in scoring position only four times in the game and scored three of those times."

Barker said.

In the second game, Twin Falls had a 6-3 lead during the bottom of the seventh only to fumble it away and lose 7-6.

"Their first hitter singled but we had him picked off first," Barker said. The runner was caught in a rundown and decided to give it an all-out effort for second base, Kerry Brown had the ball, but in an attempt to avoid a sliding runner in the back he tossed it into left field and the runner wound up on third.

"From then on it was all downhill," Barker said. The winning run scored on, of all things, a wild pitch.

Twin Falls embarks on another road trip this weekend with double-Headers in Blackfoot Friday and Idaho Falls Sunday. That means two long rides in the van.

"That gives us two chances at some fun," said Barker.

Really, though, he hopes it will be a very dull trip with nothing to bring home except four wins.

Briefly in sports

TF soccer action

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Soccer Club will battle Sun Valley and Mountain Home Sunday at Robert Stuart Junior High School.

Purbes gets ace

TWIN FALLS — Jim Purbes of Twin Falls fired a hole-in-one Tuesday at the Blue Lakes Country Club in the Snake River Canyon.

Hyde wins race

RUPERT — Gary Hyde of Buhl won the Limited/Super Stock main event Saturday night at the Minidoka Speedway.

Norway says no to games

OSLO (UPI) — Two Norwegian athletic groups said Tuesday their members would not take part in the Moscow Spartacade later this week in protest over a decision by the Games' organizers to deny a Norwegian journalist accreditation to cover the event.

Minidoka Speedway results: 1. Le Roy Slater, 2. Claude Marion, 3. Rupert, 4. Jim Purbes, 5. Steve Farnsworth, 6. Gary Hyde, 7. Jim Purbes, 8. Gary Hyde, 9. Jim Purbes, 10. Gary Hyde.

Rosen quits Yanks

SEATTLE (UPI) — Al Rosen is leaving the New York Yankees.

He is resigning as president of the defending world champions to go into the hotel and casino business in Atlantic City, N.J., with his friend of more than 30 years, Bill Weinberger, for whom he worked at Cesar's Palace in Las Vegas, Nev.

Rosen is leaving the Yankees primarily because he has been little more than a figure head in his $100,000 job. Despite his lofty and handsome salary, the youthful looking, 55-year-old former Cleveland Indians third baseman still had very little actual authority at Yawkey's George Steinbrenner's supposed right-hand man.

*Bridgestone 40,000 Mile Limited Warranty.

Every Bridgestone Passenger Car Steel Belted Radial tire, except snow and original equipment tires, for use on passenger cars only, is warranted by Bridgestone for 40,000 miles of tread wear, within 48 months from date of purchase, and for materials and workmanship for the original usable tread depth (2/32") without limit to time or mileage. If tread wears down to 2/32" before the mileage or time specified, we'll exchange for the worn tire. Bridgestone will replace the tire, charging the customer for tread wear, provided by multiplying the Bridgestone Suggested Retail Price of the tire in effect at the time of adjustment (including F.E.T.) by the percentage of usable mileage that has been run on the tire. If a tire fails due to defective materials or workmanship, we'll replace the tire, charging for tread or workmanship. Bridgestone tread wear warranty does not apply to tires replaced by a third party. To receive a replacement under this warranty, present your tire invoice, and Warranty Card to any authorized Bridgestone Dealer. This warranty is not assignable and proper mounting or inflation, road hazards, mechanical or body irregularities, fire, collision, commercial or off road service, or other unreasonable uses. Bridgestone tube type tires must be used with proper sized Bridgestone tubes exclusively. This warranty gives you specific legal rights, and you may also have other rights which vary from state to state.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag. In Frank Stockton's story, "The Lady or the Tiger", he presented a very difficult problem and then left his readers in limbo. He did not give the solution. South studied the hand for a moment and proceeded to play the first six tricks in rapid fire order. At trick two he cashed the ace of trumps. Then he took the second high spade and the ace and king of diamonds. Then he threw away in with the queen of trumps. It looked at first glance to be a classic elimination play. West knew he had to either lead a club or give South a ruff and discard. Unfortunately for South, West had learned how to count to 13. He knew that South held four clubs — the queen number was dummy. With only three clubs, South would have had another spade or diamond and would have ruffed it to complete the elimination play. So West led a spade. South ruffed in dummy and discarded a club from his hand, but was still left with a two-way finesse for the queen of clubs. What was the queen? Was West's failure to lead a club due to his holding the queen or not holding the queen? South, normally a slow player, is still sitting there thinking.

As temperatures rise bottles, cans and kegs are opened with gusto

TWIN FALLS — Statistics recently released from the National Brewers Assn. paint a sobering picture of Idaho beer consumption.

Idahoans traditionally have been among the top 15 beer drinking states, per capita, a title they appear to be retaining with gusto.

According to the Washington based association, Idahoans last year popped tabs on an amazing 716,809 barrels of beer, compared with 699,579 barrels the year before. Since each barrel holds 31 gallons, that means Idahoans last year guzzled a staggering 22,211,079 gallons of beer.

To put that in perspective, that works out to 25.3 gallons of now forgotten foam for every Idaho man, woman and child, compared with the national average of 23.3 gallons.

Or, poured another way, this may be the Pepsi Generation, but it's drinking a lot of beer.

Statistics also show Idahoans have a strong preference for the products of Anheuser-Busch, Adolph Coors and Olympia. Together these three companies have cornered approximately three-quarters of the Gem State beer market.

In 1977, Idaho beer consumption marked Idaho as the 10th largest beer drinking state in the union, per capita.

This year, Idaho's rank slipped slightly to 14th place, due to a sudden surge of suds' consumption in the District of Columbia (now in 13th place), and several other eastern states.

In past years, western states have captured most of the beer-suds statistics. While the west still makes a mark, consumption in midwest and east coast states has been rising rapidly.

The heaviest beer drinking remains south of the Idaho border. Nevada residents last year downed 38.7 gallons each. New Hampshire is in second place with 34.6 gallons, while Wisconsin's 31.5 gallons ties down third place.

Six of the top 14 beer-drinking states are found in the west or the south, "probably because it's hotter and there are lots of tourists," Brewers Assn. Research Analyst John Oshinski said.

States pouring faster than Idaho are Wyoming (31.1 gallons), Arizona (30.2 gallons), Texas (29.4 gallons), Florida (27.5 gallons), Rhode Island (27.2 gallons), Iowa (25.7 gallons), Nebraska (26.3 gallons), Vermont (26.2 gallons), Colorado (26.1 gallons), and the District of Columbia (25.5 gallons).

But it's not just Idaho that is in the midst of a beer boom. Statistics compiled by Impact, a beverage industry newsletter, indicate, the homes where milk is the most favored beverage are rapidly drying up.

In 1960, milk was the favorite drink of most Americans, Impact says, and they drank an average of 37.9 gallons each. Beer held only a distant third place during Camelot and the New Frontier, with a per capita American consumption of just 15.1 gallons.

But by last year milk barely retained a narrow lead over beer and has surrendered its first-place honor to the soft drink industry.

Trends projected to 1990 show beer taking a commanding second place in the most-favored beverage list (second only to soft drinks), with milk in third place, only slightly ahead of coffee.

Overall, Brewers Assn., records show an increase in beer sales of three to four percent for each of the past several years. That's not peanuts, and neither are the taxes collected from beer sales.

Idaho now receives more than $3 million annually in tax revenues from the $4.65 the state collects on each barrel of brew.

This surge in suds is no new phenomena. The brown, bubbly brew has been a favorite among Americans since colonial days (when beer and hard cider were less likely to kill a consumer than the frequently polluted municipal water supplies).

One diary from a Mayflower pilgrim, for instance, reveals that tiny vessel bobbed its way into Plymouth, rather than a site further south, because food supplies were running low "especially our beer."

America's first brewery and dram shop bubbled into existence in 1623 at New Amsterdam (now better known as New York).

Beer reached the peak of its giddy career immediately prior to World War I, with 700 breweries scattered throughout the nation. Millions of gallons were guzzled as the world was made safe for democracy.

Then came prohibition, and the American brewing industry went down the drain.

By the time Franklin Roosevelt signed the Volstead Act repealer of 1933, most of those breweries were as empty of funds as their barrels were of beer. Today just 48 breweries exist in the United States, and the top five have bottled up three quarters of the market.

Cherry picking time brings cheery recipes

As any red-blooded cherry-picker will attest, the real sweet as well as sour cherry flavor peaks to perfection at the topping off time. That time is here. There should be plenty of excitement during this choice yearly period because one can find cherries in abundance on roadside stands and in the supermarkets at very decent prices. The season is practically over, but there are still ways you may not have tried before to fix cherries into super-delicious tastes. Here are a few we like:

SOLAR SAUCE
Weigh a few handfuls of washed, pitted and stemmed sour cherries. Weigh out an equal amount of sugar. Into a deep saucepan, alternately layer cherries and sugar. Let stand 1 hour. Heat, stirring, until cherries and sugar just reach boiling point. Time them to simmer slowly for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Spraid mixture thinly on platters and cover with glass. Set in the sun for 3 or 4 days, or until thick and syrupy. Stir gently a few times a day. Take indoors at the end of each day at sunset. Serve sauce over puddings, ice creams, pound cakes or use as spread for bread and butter.

CHERRY SOUP
3 pounds sweet cherries, pitted
8 cups water
1/4 cup honey
1 stick cinnamon
rind, juice of 1 lemon
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 cup water
whipped topping
Take 1 cup cherries from the 2 pounds and set aside. In saucepan, combine remaining cherries, their juice and the water, honey, cinnamon stick and only the lemon rind. Cook, stirring occasionally, until cherries are softened. Remove cinnamon stick. Purse cherries in blender. Stir cornstarch and water mixture into pureed cherries and simmer, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Stir in lemon juice and reserved cherries. Serve hot or cold with a dollop of whipped topping as an appetizer or dessert. The soup is most pleasing cold when served for dessert. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

ZINGY BINGY
This recipe not only makes potent stipping fluid, but the "potted" cherries are great decorations for pastries, are good in fruit compotes, make great toppings for whipped toppings on desserts, or are fabulous for an after-meal present and treat.
3 pounds Bing cherries (or other sweet cherries)
3 cups sugar
1 fifth of 100-proof vodka
Pit the cherries. With a hammer or nutcracker, crush 1/4 cup of pits. Put cherries and crushed pits into a crock along with 1 cup of the sugar. Let mixture stand at room temperature 4 days and shake or stir at least once a day. Now pour in vodka and cover the crock. Store away in dark place for a few months. If you wish to use the fruit after 2 months, remove it from the liquid and put it into a separate container; let liquid and pits remain, covered, in dark place until Christmas. To drained cherries, add the remaining 2 cups sugar and let stand at least 1 month longer before using them separately as suggested above.

The cherries are removed from the main liquid because if they are allowed to stay longer, they will lose their cherry tastiness, be bitter and too strong with alcohol to enjoy.

CHERRY PIE
2 pounds pitted cherries

(preferably sour)
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar (1/4 for sweet cherries)
1 tablespoon flour
1 few pats margarine or butter
pinch nutmeg
pinch ground ginger
Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Line a 9-inch pie pan with pastry. Fill pastry with pitted cherries. Sprinkle over them the salt, sugar, flour, broken-up pats of margarine or butter, nutmeg and ground ginger. Put on the top crust; Make a lattice top crust or be sure to make a center vent. Flute edges. Bake about 45 minutes or until pastry is golden and cherries are bubbly and tender.

CHERRY PANCAKES
4 leftover rolls
4 tablespoons flour
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon honey
1 pound sweet cherries, (pitted and halved) margarine or butter ground cinnamon and sugar, mixed
Soak leftover rolls in cold water; squeeze dry and break up. In mixing bowl, combine flour with eggs, milk and honey. Fold cherries into batter. Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot margarine or butter and cook until crispy. Drain on paper toweling and serve hot, sprinkled lightly with cinnamon-sugar. Serves 4.

THIS WEEK'S BEST MARKET BUYS: If you don't have your own garden, you should gather together some friends and go to the countryside to buy fresh vegetables and fruit. This newspaper runs farm-sale ads. Look for them. Picnic goods are good buys right now. All melons are a good buy.

MR. AND MRS. ROY V. KIMERLING

FILER — Mr. and Mrs. Roy V. Kimerling will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house July 28 at the Senior Citizen Center at 222 Main Street.

Crazy days winners

TWIN FALLS — Costume contest winners in the annual Crazy Days sales event in Twin Falls were selected Saturday by members of the Junior Club.

Three persons divided the $100 offered for first prize. Winning $50 was Allen Gibbs who worked at Hudson's Shoes downtown Friday and Saturday as Dracula.

"The Cone Heads" at Pennywise Drug in Lynwood shared the other $50. They were Dee Glavin and Wendy Timpon.

The four second place winners were Linda Wells, another Dracula from Macies; The Hamburger of McDonalds, Connie Benkula; the Flower Pot at Crandal's Flowers, portrayed by Pat Guffert and The Arab, Carolyn Daigh at Jensen's Jewelers. Each received $25.

Third place winners, each receiving $10, included Poor Butterfly, Bonnie Dodge of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust; Captain Hook, Kevin Price of the Music Center; Sylvester, Sue Pike at Avco Finance in Lynwood Shopping Center; Aaddin, Len Wealand at Osco; The Devil, Deanne Troxell, Twin Falls Bank and Trust; The Clown, Janet Malberg, House of Fabrics; Tweedle Bird, Debbie Sullivan, Willis Motors; and The Martian, Angela Armstrong of Osco.

Fund raising dunker

TWIN FALLS — Residents of Jerome and Twin Falls counties will have opportunity to dunk county officials and media personnel here July 28 and assist the muscular dystrophy fund at the same time.

A dunk tank will be set up in the Blue Lakes Mall in Twin Falls from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. July 28. For a $1 donation, residents can have two chances to hit a target with a baseball which in turn will trigger a release which dunks the victim.

A partial list of officials volunteering for the dunking include

There also will be a free motorcycle display by the Idaho Motorcycle Club.

Valley favorites

MRS. A.M. SWAINSTON

HAWAIIAN DELIGHT
6 cups hottest tap water
3 cups sugar
1 6-ounce can frozen concentrate orange juice

46-ounce can pineapple-grapefruit juice
3 very ripe bananas, mashed
Dissolve sugar and orange juice in hot tap water. Mix in pineapple-grapefruit juice and mashed bananas into fruit mixture. Freeze until solid. Spoon into glasses about half full. Finish filling with 7-Up or Sprite. Stir to make a slush.

Three given Eaton trust scholarships

TWIN FALLS — Teresa Leo Brady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brady; Carol Rae Orr, daughter of Mrs. Loretta Stone, and Kathleen Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Woods, each have received $200 scholarships from the Harry Eaton Educational Trust fund.

All were 1979 graduates of Twin Falls High School and are prospective business students, according to Paul E. O'slyn, chairman of the scholarship committee at the College of Southern Idaho.

The trust fund was created in memory of Harry Eaton, former chairman of the board and president of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust.

MR. AND MRS. KENT PETERSON

Dance-Peterson

WENDELL — Mickie Elaine Dance and Kent G. Peterson exchanged marriage vows 14 at the LDS Temple in Idaho Falls.

Donald P. Merrill officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Galen R. Dance. Peterson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Montie C. Peterson, all Wendell.

Mrs. Ron Thompson, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Attendants were Leesa Cutler, Cindy Dance, sister-in-law of the bride; Cheryl Peterson and Diane Peterson, sisters of the bridegroom; and Sandi Dance, sister of the bride.

Steven Peterson was best man for his brother, Bart Dance, brother of the bride, who was attendant.

The couple was honored at a reception and dance at the Wendell LDS Cultural hall, June 16 with Dale Platt's orchestra furnishing music.

Janet Miller, Carolyn Chandler, Shirley Anderson, Wylene Slade, Lawana Bodily and Sara Smith served the cake and punch.

Mrs. Rick Vipperman was in charge of the guest book. Judy Phillips, Marilyn Pope, Julie Merkley, Jody Call and Kathy Woodland were in charge of gifts.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. Theron Dance of Blackfoot, the bride's grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Peterson of Wendell and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Andrus of Arizona, grandparents of the bridegroom.

Following a trip to California, the newweds will live in Wendell where the bride is employed at Hillco-Ag-Inc., and Peterson is employed on a farm.

The couple will return to Brigham Young University this fall to continue their schooling.

INTRODUCE YOUR PET TO TWO NEW NATURAL DINNERS.

AND ONE MEAL'S ON US.

Presenting two delicious new Blue Mountain Natural Style dinners for dogs and cats.

There's our Natural Style Chicken flavor dinner for dogs. With tasty chicken your dog will go for. Naturally. And there's our Natural Style Fish flavor dinner for cats. (And we both know how much cats love fish.)

There's also our Natural Style Beef and Liver flavor dinners for either dogs or cats.

Best of all, they contain only natural ingredients. No preservatives. Nothing artificial. Yet they supply balanced nutrition for growth and maintenance.

And like all Blue Mountain pet foods, they're inspected each morning for quality, appearance and consistency by Blue Mountain President Jason Herwin.

So do something good for your pet. While you're doing something good for your pocketbook.

Dear Abby

No symbolic meaning in all tongue slips

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© The Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My fiancee Joey and I are having a cold war because of what he refers to as a "Freudian slip." The other night in the middle of a warm embrace, I called him "Jimmy." (Jimmy was my former boyfriend.)

Needless to say, I was terribly embarrassed and tried my best to convince Joey that I was not thinking of Jimmy. I honestly wasn't, Abby. I went with Jimmy a long time, but I can truthfully say that I have absolutely no feelings for him anymore, and I love Joey with all my heart.

How does something like this happen? Is it really just a slip of the tongue, or is there something in my subconscious that is driving me to destroy a good relationship with someone I love by driving him away with a slip of the tongue?

Please help me. My future relationship with Joey hinges on your reply. Thank you. Sign me...

DEAR HATE: Not every slip of the tongue has a subconscious symbolic meaning, and not every accident conceals a wish to get hurt. As Freud himself said, "Sometimes a cigar is just a cigar!"

DEAR ABBY: When being introduced to a person, is it OK to say, "I have certainly heard a lot about you?"

PEGGY

DEAR PEGGY: It all depends on what you've heard.

DEAR ABBY: I have been considering donating my organs for possible transplant at the time of my death. However, I have heard that the family of the deceased is charged for transportation to the special hospital where the organs are removed, and also for the surgery to remove the organs. Is this true?

If it is, I would rather not donate my organs since I do not wish to add to the expense of my funeral. Thank you.

OHIO CHEAPSKATE DONOR
DEAR DONOR: There is no charge for transportation to hospitals for the removal of organs. Time is so important in their removal that a donor almost always has to be in the hospital at the time of death. (Corneas must be removed within four hours after death; kidneys within 20 minutes.) There is no cost to the donor or the donor's family for the removal of organs.

However, when one donates his entire body to a medical school, the medical school bears the cost of transportation in some states. In others, the estate of the donor must pay for it.

DEAR ABBY: I have just learned that my daughter and her husband have joined a swingers club. They have been married only two months and are both 23.

I don't want to interfere in their personal lives, but I am worried that this kind of mate-swapping will ruin their marriage. Would you please comment?

A WORRIED FATHER
DEAR FATHER: You have good reason to worry if your daughter and her husband are into mate-swapping particularly after only two months of marriage. You are wise not to interfere in their personal lives. Regardless of how kinky the behavior of others may seem to us, consenting adults have a legal right to do as they please as long as they aren't hurting anyone.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-you-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Steve Wasko heads Knights of Columbus

TWIN FALLS — Steve Wasko has been elected grand knight of Council 1416 of the Knights of Columbus in Twin Falls.

Other newly elected officers include Ted Wasko, deputy grand knight; the Rev. Perry Dodds and Brother Sylvester Sonnen, chaplains; Herman Stevers, secretary; Bob Hittman, chancellor; Jim Schmidt, recorder; Bill Miller, treasurer; Bob Fries, advocate; Bruce Majors, warden; Mike Sawaya and Charles Watts, guards; Richard Fuchs, Dick Henning Jr. and Roger Graefe, trustees.

Chairmen appointed to serve for the coming year include Schmidt, program director; Charles Brumbach, church director; John Kalange, community director; Henning, pro-life chairman; Fuchs, health services; Ted Wasko, council director; Stevers, public relations; Doug Neville, family director; Dennis McCracken, youth; Robert Schwertfeger, Columbian Squires; Graefe, membership; Majors, recruitment; Lloyd LeClair, retention; Dave Korzen, insurance, and Ray Sabala, lecturer.

The Knights of Columbus Auxiliary will hold the annual steak fry at the Greg Wasko home Aug. 4.

Auxiliary officers include Mrs. Steve Wasko, president; Mrs. Ann Graefe, vice president; Mrs. Jim Schmidt, secretary, and Mrs. Greg Wasko, treasurer.

Auxiliary members are organizing classes in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, Mrs. Schmidt said.

Ricky Gutknecht Earns Eagle

TWIN FALLS — Ricky Gutknecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Gutknecht of Twin Falls, was presented the Eagle Scout award recently at a court of honor at the First United Methodist Church. He is a member of Troop 67, led by Frank Mogensen.

Gutknecht's service project was building playground equipment for the YMCA.

Position open

TWIN FALLS — A pre-school teaching position is open according to Dorothy Gelst, chairman of the Magic Valley YFCA's Day Care Center committee.

Applications will be accepted until July 31, she said.

For more information about the position, call Mrs. Gelst at 734-3653 or the YFCA office at 733-4384.
