

Mid-Idaho forest fire claims life

By United Press International
Two forest fires raged unchecked Friday in the Idaho Primitive Area along the Middle Fork of the Salmon River as crews backed off the hot flames to formulate a plan of attack.

Meanwhile, Forest Service officials identified the victim of one fire as Kyle L. Pattee of Ashton. Pattee, fire management officer for the Ashton District of the Targhee National Forest, was in charge of a fire crew Thursday when he was killed.

Pattee, 29, and James Camp, 43, of Council, ducked into an equipment shelter when the flames jumped a fire-control trench, but it did not offer enough protection, officials said. Camp was taken to a Salmon hospital, where he was kept overnight but released Friday afternoon.

The men were fighting a fire in the Ship Island Creek area that still burned uncontrolled Friday evening, having blackened 5,800 acres. It had burned 3,500 acres when Pattee was killed at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Firefighters let the lightning-caused burn Friday as officials used infrared aerial photographs in mapping a plan of attack. Firefighters were being moved in and out of the area almost exclusively by air because there were few trails in the rugged region.

Also, fire crews from the Boise and Challis national forests were standing by to battle a 2,000-acre fire 80 miles northeast of Boise, also on the Middle Fork of the Salmon River. The larger, man-caused fire was about 60 miles south of the fire in which Pattee died.

The blaze was not advancing southward toward the larger fire, but firefighters were trying to halt its westward movement to prevent it from jumping the Salmon River. Dale Dufour, Boise National Forest information officer, said the southern fire was "pretty active" Friday evening. He said 360 firefighters were on the scene and air tankers were dropping retardant chemicals.

"We were prohibited all day long because of the dense smoke," Dufour said. "It wasn't until this afternoon that we started moving firefighters into the perimeter. Our first good attack won't be until daybreak tomorrow."

The two fires forced Forest Service officials to close campgrounds in the area, although rafters were allowed to float the river.

Officials said the fatality was the first forest-fire death in Idaho since the lightning-caused 1967 Sundahe Fire in the Idaho Panhandle, which burned more than 50,000 acres and killed two persons.

Meanwhile in other fires in the West, light winds and moderately cool temperatures Friday enabled firefighters to bring 60 percent under control a stubborn brush fire on the steep slopes of the San Bernardino mountains about 60 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

In Oregon, firefighters contained a series of blazes, one of which destroyed $8.5 million in timber.

A blaze near Cold Spring jumped across the McKenzie Highway and burned through a housing development.

The city of Bend was without water from the Cascade watershed pending reports on whether retardants used in fighting the blaze was still contaminating the water. The city was using two wells to provide water for the 15,000 residents.

Gas, fuel oil stocks better

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said Friday a "substantial increase" in petroleum stocks indicated higher gasoline supplies at the pumps next month and little threat of a heating oil shortage next winter.

Schlesinger told a news conference there had been a "surprising increase in gasoline stocks" and gasoline supplies in August would probably get 96 percent of the amount they received in August 1978 or 95 percent if major oil companies dip into reserves.

The energy secretary also said President Carter's 10-year energy plan had lost some momentum because of last week's Cabinet reshuffles — which included Schlesinger's own resignation.

However, he predicted Congress would eventually grant Carter much of his program, including standby rationing authority.

Schlesinger noted Saudi Arabia has increased its oil production, but Nigeria has announced cutbacks of 300,000 barrels per day, and the export situation in Iran and Algeria is precarious.

Nevertheless, the United States should have little difficulty obtaining enough petroleum to heat American homes in the coming winter, he said.

There is recognition that if crude oil availability continues as it is, there should not be a problem with availability next winter," said Schlesinger.

"Generally speaking, the supply situation continues to ease, as we predicted substantially since the low point of crude oil availability was reached in May," he said.

Schlesinger said the increase in gasoline stocks was on the order of 17 million barrels.

Major oil company supply allocations "should rise to 96 percent with no drawdown of inventories," he said. If gasoline stocks are drawn upon, the allocation fraction could rise to within two percent of levels in August 1978.

"All of this indicates a substantial increase in availability," said Schlesinger. He added oil companies were making progress toward the administration target of 240 million barrels of home heating oil stockpiled by October.

On Capitol Hill, Schlesinger predicted, the House would remove a crippling amendment to the standby rationing authority — and pass a satisfactory measure next Tuesday.

Schlesinger said he also "expected relatively easy passage of solar bank legislation," another Carter proposal.

Illegal payments discussed

Miller raps tax cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — G. William Miller, nominated to John President Carter's revamped Cabinet as treasury secretary, told Congress Friday Republican proposals for an across-the-board tax cut to combat the recession would be "unwise."

Miller said he may favor specifically targeted reductions "at the right time," such as lower payroll taxes for wage-earners and incentives to encourage greater business investment in new and expanded write-off of depreciation.

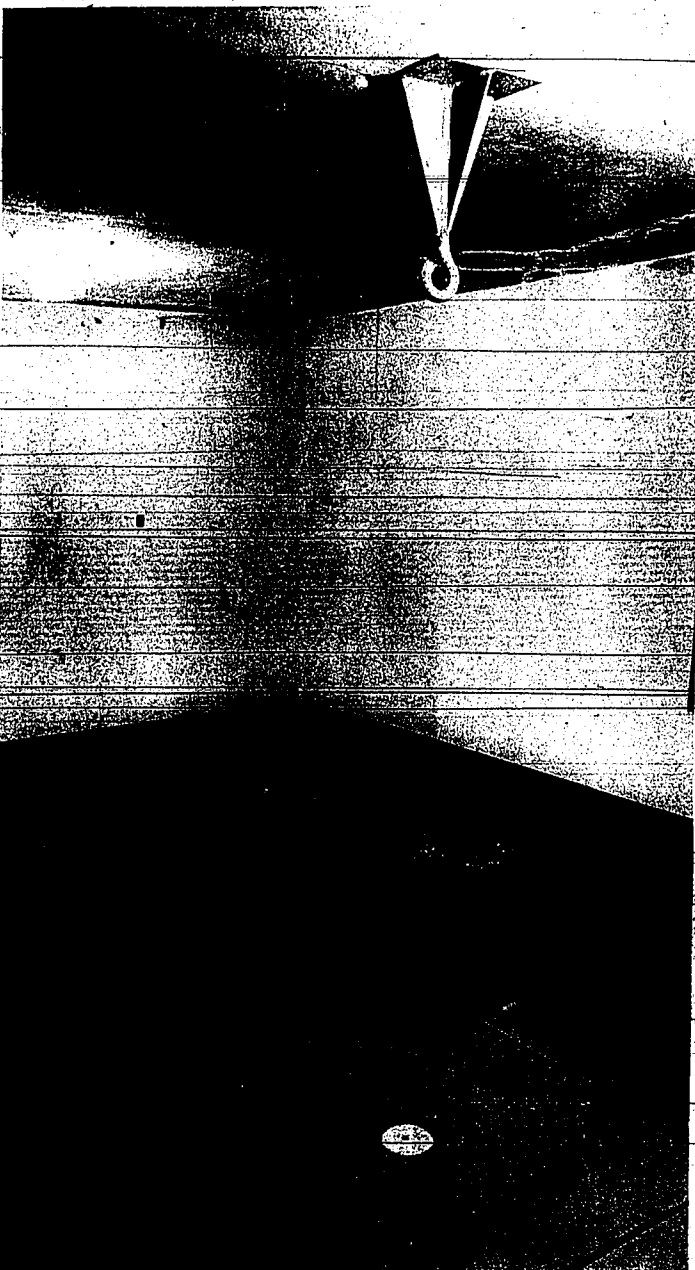

Miller, the Federal Reserve Board chairman for the past 16 months, also repeated his contention he was unaware of questionable payments made to foreigners by Textron, Inc., while he was head of the multibillion dollar conglomerate.

which must approval, Miller's appointment, listened to the former corporate executive's views on the nation's economic problems for two hours, but did not vote on the nomination.

Panel staff member said the nomination could be reported to the full Senate as early as Tuesday.

Many committee members left little doubt they believe Carter made a good choice in selecting Miller to replace W. Michael Blumenthal at Treasury. Blumenthal was one of the victims of last week's Cabinet purge.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., the panel chairman, called Miller "an asset to his country" and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said he was "delighted a man of your ability and integrity has offered himself for the job."

The old Idaho penitentiary's hanging room won't be used again since the lethal injection law

Only nine men walked to the Idaho gallows

BOISE — It should have been easy. The sun had not yet risen in the 5:30-mining town of Wallace, and at 5:30 a.m. on Oct. 1, 1900, most residents had yet to begin their Monday's morning, putting off as long as possible another week of labor.

But for Ed Rice the day was special. It was, he vowed, the day he would pay off his gambling debts, the day he would satisfy the creditors always knocking on his boarding room door. So, muttering an excuse to himself he crossed the street, greeting Matt Mailley, the local cigar store owner, talking with him as they walked to work.

But once they stepped into the cigar store Rice pulled a knife, fatally slashing the merchant in the throat. Grabbing valuables and a wallet, Rice fled in the morning darkness, unaware that his entrance and departure had been witnessed, and that he had dropped a monogrammed handkerchief beside the bleeding body.

Later that same day, Rice was observed paying his creditors and purchasing new clothing.

It was more than enough evidence. Twelve days later Rice was indicted. Soon after, he was convicted of murder.

Ed Rice hoped to end his string of bad luck with one desperate gamble.

What he won, however, was a place in history he never expected.

On Nov. 30, 1901, Ed Rice, a second-rate card shark, became the first person executed under the legal authority of the new state of Idaho. Prison guards erected a 13-step wooden scaffold at the state penitentiary in Boise, tied Rice to a special three-quarters inch cotton rope, imported from Oregon for the occasion, and pronounced him dead six minutes after that rope snapped the gamblers neck. Rice made it to the history books, even if he never reached the winners circle, for he was the first. Prior to his hanging, a handful of executions had occurred in territorial prisons and county jails — and occasionally in more informal circumstances under the closest ponderosa pine.

But records are sketchy or non-existent for those frontier executions, when jurisprudence in the wild Idaho, sentences and executions were at times carried out with unseemly haste.

By 1901, Idaho had been a state for 11 years, and formally was the rule. Rice's case reached the state Supreme Court, and he spent more than a year on death row before his execution was approved.

Oregon mayor picked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter finished rebuilding his Cabinet Friday by naming former New Orleans Mayor Moon Landrieu to run Housing and Urban Development and Portland, Ore., Mayor Neil Goldschmidt to be transportation secretary.

Their nominations filled the last two holes left by last week's Cabinet purge and won Carter some quick points among big city mayors, a group with whom he has had strained relations.

These cabinet appointments are the best in the past 20 years," said Boston's Mayor Kevin White. "I know both Moon and Neil well and they are superb. Their appointments are the best news this city and the cities of America have had in a long time."

The White House first announced the appointment of Landrieu, a "progressive" with powerful friends in Congress and in the city halls, to succeed Patricia Harris as secretary of housing and urban development. Landrieu had spent the night at the White House and his nomination was expected.

Goldschmidt flew in for an interview Friday morning and, shortly after Carter left for Camp David, it was announced he will succeed the ousted Brock Adams as secretary of transportation.

The president was quoted as saying "Mayor Goldschmidt is known as an aggressive and innovative mayor with outstanding administrative ability. He understands from personal experience the transportation needs of local governments."

"He has my full support. I have no doubt he will be an outstanding secretary of transportation."

With Friday's nominations, Carter completed a shakeup involving six cabinet posts and the Federal Reserve Board.

Obviously overjoyed with his appointment as secretary of transportation, Goldschmidt said President Carter is committed to good public transportation in the United States.

Goldschmidt met privately at the White House with a group of Oregon correspondents and one reporter later quoted the mayor as saying he believes he will have free access to the president.

Goldschmidt was reported as saying "the access issue is no problem" and he doesn't "expect to be made the city's number one during his dealings with the White House."

He was quoted as saying Carter "made it clear he wants good public transportation." But he said the president told him his highest priority should be on "team work."

The mayor said he doesn't plan to bring any aides with him from Oregon. The president reportedly told him senior transportation officials should have qualities of "competence and diversity."

Carter was said to have told Goldschmidt he doesn't expect him "to meet the eight agency heads in his department and then go make speeches."

The remark apparently was aimed at Goldschmidt's predecessor Brock Adams, who quit as transportation secretary as Carter was getting ready to fire him.

Goldschmidt said he was first approached by Vice President Walter Mondale about whether he would like to serve in the Cabinet.

The mayor reportedly said he was roused out of bed early Friday morning by the president's appointments secretary. When he arrived at the White House, Goldschmidt told reporters, he didn't know whether there were other contenders.

"I was never offered the position until the president actually called me," he was quoted as saying.

He told reporters the president "understands the complexities" and "awesome budget" of the Transportation Department. He was quoted as saying his job is to carry out the president's programs.

Group tries to stop gas station charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A public interest group filed suit Friday to block new government regulations requiring gasoline stations to charge separately for such services as cleaning windshields and checking tires.

The new rules would do away with the old practice of letting stations count the cost of such "courtesy" services in setting their pump prices for gasoline.

The change was challenged by the Center for Auto Safety, which filed suit in U.S. District Court in the nation's capital charging the Energy Department with violating federal law in issuing the new regulations.

Clarence Ditlow, the center's executive director, said the rules change issued July 16, and to take effect Wednesday, was "a railroad job." He said the Energy Department violated a requirement for 60 days' public notice, plus a 30-day grace period, prior to the effective date.

"The next lines you see at gas stations may be consumer pickets over this new pricing policy," Ditlow said.

The new rule says "retailers are no longer required to continue to provide customers, at no extra charge, with the same goods, services, premiums and credit terms."

"Retailers may offer separately and charge separately for goods and services previously included in their (gasoline) price."

"If a customer has to pay $1 for a battery check, he's not going to pay for a tire check, and if you don't have these services or if you have to pay for them, you are going to get less auto safety."

NASA funds OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House gave final congressional approval to a $4.96 billion 1980 authorization for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that included $1.6 billion for the space shuttle program.

The bill worked out by a House-Senate conference committee does not include $27 million originally approved by the House for a flight space shuttle. NASA is expected to renew that request next year.

Boats and dump trucks are used to evacuate flood victims from a subdivision south of Houston

Texas storm kills five more —United Press International— Five people drowned Friday in Texas floodwaters on the heels of tropical storm Claudette, but floods that ravaged Indiana and Texas began to recede, allowing thousands of evacuees to return to waterlogged homes.

More thunderstorms dumped rain from the Gulf Coast to the Dakotas. The five drowned were passengers in a van from First Baptist Church in Cleveland, Texas. A truck knocked the van into a rain-swollen creek.

The drownings bring to seven the total number killed in the monsoon-like rains left in the wake of tropical storm Claudette. Two storm deaths were reported earlier.

Claudette's legacy also included an estimated $750 million in damage for thousands returning to flood-ravaged homes in coastal areas. Gov. Bill Clements, who declared Southeast Texas a disaster area Thursday, Friday asked President Carter to do likewise.

Clements estimated 15,000 homes were affected by flooding.

Weather forecasters issued the death certificate for tropical storm Claudette, which triggered a three-day deluge that sent other storm systems spinning into the midlands.

All that was left of Claudette was a low pressure system centered over north Texas. But the system still brought rain to parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas. Other storms stabbed northward to the Ohio Valley.

Tyler, Texas, got more than seven inches of rain in 12 hours. Streets were flooded but no evacuations were ordered.

Officials in Houston, hard hit by floods spawned by Claudette, warned residents of contaminated drinking water, looting and snakes.

As many as 3,000 people spent Thursday night in shelters around Texas' Galveston Bay. The rain eased Friday in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area south of Houston and residents began cleaning up.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements sought federal disaster aid.

Vance denies seriousness of Soviet buildup in Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said Friday President Carter has warned Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev against building up Russian forces in Cuba, but added there appears to be no "substantial increase" over the past year.

He said there is "no evidence" the Russians have violated understandings on Cuba that date from the 1962 Cuban missile crisis.

Vance made his assurances in a letter, dated Friday, to Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., who rejected them as "a whitewash."

Recent news reports have asserted that the Russians have sent up to 6,000 combat troops into Cuba, including a command group housed in its own buildings.

Stone had written to Carter to express his concern over the reported Soviet buildup.

In his response, Vance said, "There is no evidence of any substantial increase of the Soviet military presence in Cuba over the past several years or of the presence of a Soviet military base...."

"At the same time, the president directed that we give increased attention to the situation and monitor it closely. The president raised the question of the Soviet presence in Cuba with President Brezhnev in Vienna and made clear to him that a Soviet buildup would adversely affect our relationship."

Noting the U.S.-Soviet understandings on Cuba reached in 1962 and 1970, Vance said, "We have no evidence that the Soviets are in violation" of them.

Embassy pick faces senators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thomas Watson, nominated as the new U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, said Friday Senate ratification of SALT II could make his job much easier.

Testifying at a confirmation hearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the 65-year-old business executive said ratification could bring a "new plateau" in Soviet-American relations, but rejection could make his Moscow stay a "cold and austere one."

"I can handle either one of them," Watson said, "but I would hope that SALT would be ratified for the purpose of improving relations."

Watson, chairman of the executive committee of International Business Machines, encountered no opposition during 30 minutes of questioning. Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the committee will vote on the nomination Monday.

Both Republicans and Democrats on the panel had kind words for President Carter's nominee.

"I'm very pleased with your nomination," said Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D. "I'm always looking for ways to commend things the administration does, and I commend this."

Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., said Carter "couldn't have made a better choice."

"This committee wishes you well," Church told Watson following the hearing. "We know the importance of the assignment and your determination to represent this country effectively and well. We wish you the best of luck."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said Friday that "every consideration" will be given to foreign owners of U.S. farmland who miss the Aug. 1 deadline for reporting their holdings to the U.S. government.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said some foreign owners of small tracts of U.S. farmland or timberland who had difficulty in obtaining information and forms.

Those who fail to file by the deadline are technically in violation of the law. Officials will be reasonable in dealing with owners of small tracts of land, Bergland said. However, he urged foreign owners to report as quickly as possible.

Question now is why no one has ever built airport in a circle

It was 15 years ago that a bright soul dreamed up the ring-around airport and subsequently took out a patent on same. It's excavated in the shape of a big bowl with its runways ringing the inside. The pilot taxis into the middle, then rolls the plane around the runway for as many loops as are necessary to get up sufficient air speed. If something goes wrong, the pilot simply winds it down to the middle again. Need not overshoot. Question is not why didn't somebody think of it long ago. Question is why hasn't any such airport been built since.

When you take your foot off the accelerator in a diesel truck, you shut off all fuel to the engine. Some truckers know this, some don't. That is why some get exceedingly good mileage on long-haul trips by taking advantage of the down grades while others try to make up in time saved what they lose in fuel burnt by pushing constantly. 160-acre limit bill on docket

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church said Friday a bill to repeal the Reclamation Act of 1902 has been held over for consideration by the Senate because of opposition from opponents "who want to gut the bill."

Church said he had hoped the bill would be passed in July so that the House could begin consideration of the proposal. He said if the Congress fails to act on the measure, the courts have said they would begin to strictly enforce the 160-acre limitation.

Church said opponents of the bill, primarily those in favor of land reclamation and those from non-reclamation states in the East, "are intent upon defeating or crippling this legislation."

The Idaho Democrat said the bill is vital to Idaho and to the West and has been endorsed by such groups as the National Association of Wheat Growers, the National Cattlemen's Association, the National National Water Resources Association.

Earlier this week, the Western States Association of Agriculture Departments met in Boise and endorsed the bill.

The primary feature of the legislation calls for scrapping the 160-acre limitation in favor of 1,280 acres. The bill also repeals the residency requirement in present law, which requires the holder to live within 50 miles of the land.

Church said he thinks one provision of the bill needs to be reconsidered — an amendment which would allow leasing beyond the 1,280-acre limit for a one-year period.

"I think it would be appropriate to eliminate the one-year leasing provision to make it clear that Congress does not intend for this to become another loophole similar to the present one, which permits leasing to be used to get around the 160-acre limitation," he said.

Church said his draft of the bill also restricts large corporations from controlling more than 100 acres. He said it allows small family corporations of 25 people or less to control up to 1,280 acres.

Rasheed trial ordered

TWIN FALLS — A preliminary hearing for Mahmoodshawk Yusuf Rasheed ended Friday afternoon without incident despite fears of Magistrate Court and Twin Falls Sheriff's officers that a reprisal action might occur.

Rasheed is charged with first degree murder in a July 14 shooting. Sheriff James Munn said there were no threats and no incidents during the hearing which began Thursday afternoon and continued until about 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Magistrate Michael Redman ordered Rasheed bound over to district court for trial on the murder charge.

The entire preliminary hearing was held behind closed doors and under sheriff's guard because of reports there might be a reprisal action against the defendant.

He is alleged to have shot and killed his nephew, Shawat Shukut Ali, July 14 in the office of a local motel. Both are Palestinians living in this country.

White Magistrate Redman would not reveal information about the hearing. Sheriff Munn said the defendant was returned to the county jail and is being held without bond until a trial date is set in district court. The preliminary hearing was held to determine if there was sufficient evidence to establish a crime had been committed and to indicate the defendant may be committed to jail.

Witnesses included investigating officers and medical experts involved making reports on the death of the victim.

Lightning ignites range fires

SHOSHONE — Three lightning fires, one of them covering 2,500 acres, ignited Friday in the Shoshone Bureau of Land Management District.

Fire dispatchers for the district reported the large fire was still burning off of control but contained about 8300 acres Friday-12 miles southeast of Carey.

The fire started about 12:30 p.m. when a lightning storm moved through the area. One tractor, two pickup trucks, two fire pumps, seven line tankers and a refill tanker were on the fire Friday night. About 47 men including crews from Burley and Idaho Falls were called in to assist.

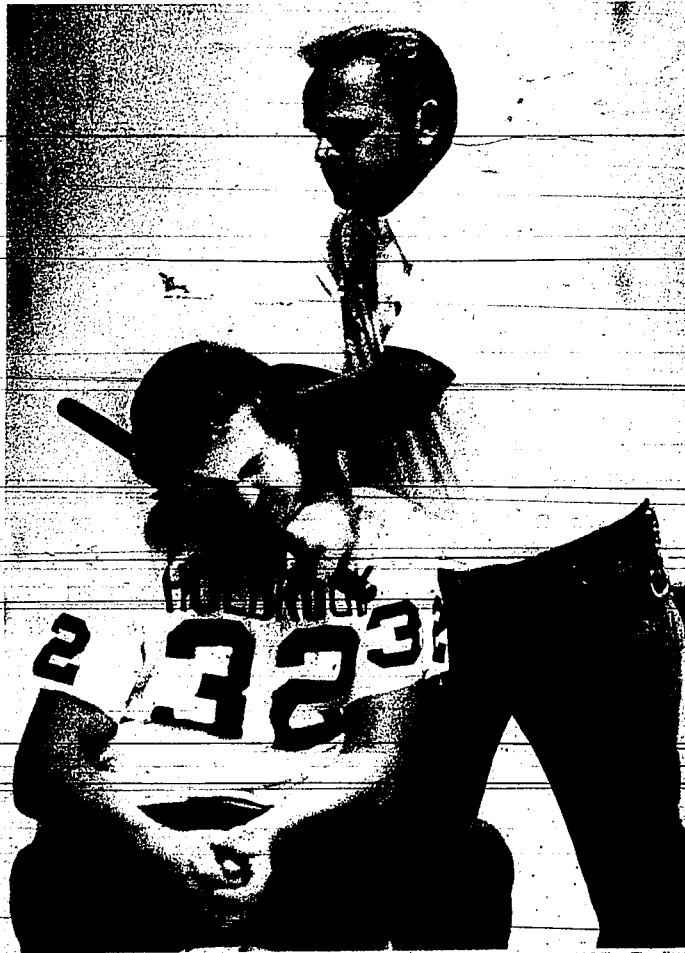

BLM officials said the fire was burning in brush and grass and there were no livestock in the immediate area. Men and equipment were expected to stay on the fire lines throughout the night.

This was the largest of the three fires. Another covered about 30 acres three miles north of Wendell between 8:53 a.m. and 9:40 a.m. Friday.

The third was spotted about 1:15 p.m. Friday and an air tanker en route to the larger fire was diverted with a load of retardant. Dispatchers said this brought the fire under control by 8:30 p.m. It covered only about 15 acres.

In the Burley BLM district a fire that started of unknown causes was being fought by a hand crew of about 18 men Friday night. It was located southeast of Pocatello just south of Chalk Peak fire lookout, but was in terrain too rough for ground equipment or motor vehicles. Officials said fire fighters had to walk to the area and fight the blaze with shovels.

BLM officials in both districts say the fire potential is critical this year because of heavy growth and hot dry conditions.

TWIN FALLS — From an initial view, the device appears like a pick axe, capable of easily raising havoc with any would-be assailant who challenges it.

But a closer look at the P.R. 24 points a much different picture of police officers and their methods for the 1980s.

Police trainees at the College of Southern Idaho got their first practical view of the P.R. 24 this week. A two-day training session for 20 Magic Valley area officers and trainees was held Thursday and Friday.

Put simply, the P.R. 24 is a police stick, or baton as it is called in police circles.

Traditionally batons have been used in controlling crowds. But the mere use of the conventional stick has meant a primitive approach, just one step removed from a battle of fists.

The conventional stick has also carried several risks, not the least being the chance that the suspect could take it from the officer.

And the sight of an officer slamming the conventional stick onto the skulls of an unruly suspect has done little to counter public perceptions of police brutality.

The P.R. 24 is designed to avoid those problems, says Police Academy Instructor Bob Gholson.

The baton was released for use in the United States in 1972. Idaho police departments began using it on a selective basis in 1976.

Among those are the Police Academy in Pocatello, the Idaho Penitentiary strike force, and the Nampa and Coeur d'Alene police departments.

None of the police departments in Twin Falls County presently use the baton. "It's so new a lot of departments are afraid to use it," Gholson said.

One of the main selling points behind the P.R. 24 is its potential to fill the void for defensive weapons.

"You can't use the fist. You can't hit somebody in the mouth. You can't use a gun. That leaves a lot of ground in the middle," Gholson said.

"We're not selling them this particular stick. We're selling officer survival."

The threat of assaults on police officers is becoming acute. Last year, 4,000 cases of assaults on officers were recorded in Idaho.

Gholson noted assaults last year were up 4 percent for Los Angeles police and up 40 percent for California Highway Patrol officers. But such assaults were down 67 percent for Los Angeles County sheriff officers.

Of those three departments, only the L.A. sheriff's officer uses the PR

24. "The psychological aspects of this thing are astounding," Gholson said. "We have found the officer has so much more confidence in the ability to use it. And that's half the battle."

"It's not an obvious weapon," Gholson said. "It's so much more versatile," he added.

The P.R. 24 affords the officer more control. Also the weapon is used on a horizontal plane, eliminating the usual response of sending blows to the suspect's head.

Gholson noted the training program restricts aiming the baton any higher than the shoulders.

The idea comes down to pain containment, not a necessarily pretty concept, but one that is effective, Gholson said. The P.R. 24 allows the proper amount of force to be specifically aimed at the least lethal area, he said.

"When our guys are done, they know they can disabie a guy with a single blow," Gholson said.

"We train to use it as a defensive weapon," Gholson said. Specifically, that comes down to blocking moves.

"It can be very dangerous. You can break bones with it. But that's a last resort."

Usually police are not in the business of revealing trade secrets. But the P.R. 24 is an exception for a good reason, Gholson said.

FFA demonstrates livestock

RUPERT — The East Magic Valley FFA district is holding demonstrations on how to show horses, sheep, swine, beef cattle, and dairy cattle today at the Minner County Fairgrounds.

There will also be livestock judging on a one-person per team basis, with trophies given to the top 10 judges and to the 4-H club and FFA club with the most members present. There is a $1 registration fee.

Registration will be from 8:45 a.m.; livestock judging will be from 9-11 a.m.; lunch will be from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. with the FFA district selling hot dogs and pop to those interested; demonstrations are from 2-4 p.m.; and an awards assembly will be held from 4-5 p.m.

Trophies were donated by the following sponsors: Burley Vet Hospital, Woodford's Mill, Spill Mill, Kram, A.B.S., Kraft, Peoples Quality Packing, Minico Vet Clinic, Rupert Animal Hospital, Union Seed Sagebrush Acres, Holstein Dairy, Idaho State Holstein Association, D and G Refrigeration, and Cache Valley Select Sires.

Rock Creek traffic delays

ROCK CREEK — U.S. Forest Service workers will be stopping traffic on Rock Creek Road in the South Hills for three days next week to enable crews to apply the final seal coat to the road.

Thieves reported in Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS — Thieves have been busy in Twin Falls this week, city police reports show.

Representatives of Gem Gunite Pools of Nampa reported the theft of a mortar mixer from one of their trucks Thursday morning. The theft occurred in the 1400 block of Blue Lakes Boulevard North behind a motel building. Officials said the bright yellow mortar mixer was valued at $2,500.

Bruce Thomason was 1755 Strid told police someone stole a motorcycle seat out of his garage sometime during the past few days. He estimated the value at $175.

Two army "AWOL" bags filled with clothing and other personal items were reported stolen from the rear of the Hideout, 157 Washington Street, sometime Thursday night or Friday morning. Don Watts, formerly of Ft. Pocatello, now residing in Twin Falls, told police the clothing was valued at about $350. He said the theft occurred between 9 p.m. and midnight Thursday.

Officers said when the man fell it allowed the torch to burn through the hose and the acetylene fluid escaped.

The Jerome Ambulance Service was called to the Amend home about 4:30 p.m. The body was taken to Reynolds Funeral Home in Twin Falls.

Jerome man has fatal attack

JEROME — W. J. Amend, 65, of Jerome, apparently died of a heart attack at his home about 4 p.m. Friday while operating a welding torch.

Sheriff Eliza Hall, acting coroner, reported the man had been under treatment for a heart ailment and apparently died instantly from an attack.

He fell onto the welding torch and suffered a small burn from the flame and acid burns from the acetylene fluid, officers said. However, it was believed he died before hitting the welding torch and tank.

Officers said when the man fell it allowed the torch to burn through the hose and the acetylene fluid escaped.

The Jerome Ambulance Service was called to the Amend home about 4:30 p.m. The body was taken to Reynolds Funeral Home in Twin Falls.

The history of the gallows in Idaho

Idaho has executed eight men since Rice. All were losers, outcasts, having little in common except their inability to follow society's norms. Few took notice of their lives and even fewer mourned their passing. Idaho has had no Leeb and Leopold, no Sacco and Vanzetti. There have been no child geniuses gone berserk, no passionate advocates of a cause.

All of Idaho's formal, official state executions took place in what is now called the old state penitentiary. Three territorial prisons existed before Boise structures were completed, and a new prison has been in operation for five years.

Like any new territory, the young Idaho wilderness was largely unpoliced. Hoping to end this situation, settlers petitioned congress for federal prison operations, finally approved by President Andrew Johnson on Jan. 22, 1867.

The cornerstone of the brown, sandstone prison, built almost entirely by convict labor, was ritually laid on Independence Day 1870. Sprawling over 510 Boise acres, the penitentiary resembled a medieval fortress when completed, with 16 stone walls, guard towers and high guardwalkways.

Three years after Rice's death, Idaho witnessed one of its more brutal murders. James Connors, a railroad worker, spent several hours drinking whiskey in a Blackfoot saloon. The more he drank, the more he cursed several Japanese section hands also employed by the railroad.

Grabbing a pistol, the drunken Connors stumbled to the nearby section house, firing at workers, chasing them into the night.

A deputy sheriff tried to capture Connors, but was killed with a shot in the head. A section foreman was shot next, three times. Finally, a mob caught the railroader, bringing him down with buckshot.

At his trial he remained unrepentant, cursing the judge, spitting at the deputy who captured him, fighting with prison guards.

But as he was led to the prison yard to be hanged, Connors charged. Refusing a guard's offer of whiskey, he said "I was a pretty good fellow when I was sober. Whiskey brought me where I am, and I don't want any more of it." He was executed Dec. 16, 1904.

William Henry Hicks Bond died next on the Boise gallows. A partially illiterate immigrant, Bond killed his lover's husband — by shooting him four times and slashing his head with a hatchet. His lover, an accomplice in the murder, narrowly escaped becoming the first woman executed in Idaho. She was instead convicted of manslaughter and imprisoned while Bond was executed Aug. 10, 1906.

A love affair also proved fatal to Fred Seward, who proposed marriage to a north Idaho prostitute. She refused, and he angrily killed her. Immediately remorseful, he tried to commit suicide, shooting himself with a pistol.

He succeeded only in putting out one eye. He died on the gallows May 7, 1902.

Noah Arnold was the only black man executed in Idaho. But Arnold, who killed a merchant during a robbery, almost didn't live long enough to be executed. The Bonner County sheriff released Arnold to a mob, which tortured a confession from him.

Arnold later claimed he had not received a fair trial, but the Supreme Court sent him to his death on Dec. 19, 1924.

The next execution came on July 1925 on A. J. Jankus. Twin Falls husband shot a man he suspected of propositioning his wife. "No Mercy! No Mercy!" cried John Junko as the hangman placed a black cloth bag over his head. "But — I forgive everyone!"

Idaho's only double execution occurred on April 13, 1951, after a particularly vicious crime. Early on that Friday the 13th morning, 20-year-old Troy Powell and 21-year-old Ernie Walrath were hanged, after a trial which drew national attention.

The two men, the youngest ever to be executed in Idaho, beat a Boise grocer unconscious on May 8, 1950, then savagely mutilated his body with a butcher knife. Showing little remorse, they then purchased beer at a nearby store, picked up their girlfriends and drove into the country in high spirits.

The next execution occurred on Oct. 18, 1957, with the death of Raymond Snowden. Labeled Idaho's "Jack the Ripper," Snowden argued and fought with a woman in a Garden City bar, then attacked her with a pocket knife. He stabbed his victim 35 times, mutilating her body.

Since that hanging, more than two dozen, by Idaho, Idaho has had no executions.

But they may soon resume.

One man now sits on Idaho's death row, convicted of murder. If his appeal is unsuccessful, David Alan Osborn, 30, will be put to death by injection with a lethal substance.

NEXT: Idaho's warden, the man at the wheel of the storm.

BLM director retires, notes coming changes

BOISE (UPI) — William Mathews retires from the Bureau of Land Management Friday after nine years as Idaho state director.

Mathews, 53, said Thursday the BLM may not have been as responsive to the public in recent years as it should or could have been.

Environmentalists must be frustrated because we have not implemented, until recently, a range rehabilitation program near Challis five years after we tackled the problem," Mathews said.

Mathews said laws such as the 1969 National Environmental Protection Act require complicated studies and lengthy public contributions before any action affecting public resources can occur, and therefore the BLM is forced to move slowly on many matters.

"Although the objectives of these new statutes were commendable, they have not contributed to the well-being of the public land as much as their sponsors thought they would or should have," the retiring director said.

"When we got to the point where we can do something on the ground, we don't have much money left. It has been frustrating to the workers as well as to the general public."

Mathews said changes in the BLM are coming, and that is why he said he is sorry he is retiring.

Man charged with shooting wife, then killing her lover

WEISER (UPI) — A man and a woman were shot several times Thursday night — the man fatally — and the woman's husband was jailed on a first-degree murder charge, authorities said.

"I think it was a lover's triangle situation," said Washington County Sheriff Jim Johnston. He said, however, the case still was under investigation.

Johnston said Cecil D. Snapp, 35, Weiser, was killed at about 8:30 p.m. at the home of Richard Robert Jones, 55, also of Weiser.

Jones' wife, Goldie, 47, was listed in critical condition Friday at St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise with multiple gunshot wounds in her head and upper body. A nursing supervisor said the woman's condition had not changed all since Thursday night.

Johnston said a .22 caliber pistol was used in the slaying. A nurse, Chuck Kroll, Washington County deputy prosecutor, said Jones appeared in magistrate court Friday and was ordered held without bail. The arraignment was continued until Monday to give Jones' lawyer time to study the case, Kroll said.

Kroll said Jones also would be charged in his wife's shooting, but the what-the-charge-would-be depended on the outcome of her hospital stay.

"We're not really sure what happened," Kroll said of the shootings. "Mr. Jones hasn't made any statements, so it probably will be a while before we piece everything together."

Kroll said Snapp, like Mrs. Jones, was hit by several bullets.

Johnston said a neighbor of the Jones heard the shots and telephoned the sheriff's office.

Church, McClure split over HUD appropriation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho will receive an additional $2.3 million in federal revenue sharing funds next year because of an amendment sponsored by Sen. James McClure, but Sen. Frank Church says we have overstepped the budget.

"It is absurd to me that some would want to cut the one federal program which allocates funds to states and local governments with no strings attached," McClure said.

But Sen. Frank Church voted against the appropriation because the bill exceeded the Senate's budget resolution for the coming fiscal year by more than $700 million.

"If we're ever going to balance the budget, then we have to start living within our own budgetary guidelines," Church said.

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A nonoperating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

True, all hearing problems are not alike... and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 02251, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Judge tells of 91-year-old woman's jailing

DALLAS (UPI) — Since she ordered a 91-year-old woman jailed overnight on charges of stealing food to keep from starving, Night Magistrate Mary Elizabeth Ladd of San Antonio has described herself as a "blue meanie."

Others from across North America have called her much worse. In a telephone call from San Antonio, Judge Ladd said it was a combination of callous day magistrates and Mrs. Schultz' giving a false home address, apparently out of embarrassment, which caused the woman to be held in jail for 24 hours.

Judge Ladd said her telephone call was an attempt to fight back at the actions of Judge of the Peace Rudy Esquivel, the day magistrate.

"What people are ignoring is that I am a night judge," she said. "I am not about to throw a 91-year-old woman out on the street in the middle of the night. When I came on duty, she had been in jail 12 hours. I did not put her in jail."

"When I came on and saw she had been there since that morning, I told the personal bondsmen and the clerical investigator to process her as quickly as possible. Several fall personnel were even willing to take her home as soon as she was processed.

Miss Lillian's arm causes pain

AMERICUS, Ga. (UPI) — "Miss Lillian" Carter, President Carter's mother, was still feeling some pain in her left shoulder Friday at Americus Hospital.

Mrs. Carter, who will be 81 on Aug. 19, was admitted to the Americus Sumner County hospital Thursday after complaining of severe shoulder pains.

Hospital Administrator Jim Griffith said Mrs. Carter had been moved from the coronary care unit to a private room. Griffith said she had been placed in the heart unit because of a shortage of beds when she was admitted.

"Her condition remains fair and she is comfortable," said Griffith.

Brown, council condemn rejection of Jane Fonda

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. joined Jane Fonda at a California Arts Council meeting Friday to condemn state senators who rejected her appointment to the panel as a "small-minded" group that acted "like a bunch of little kids."

Miss Fonda wiped a tear from an eye as first the governor and then, one by one, each council member praised her and criticized the Senate for its rejection of her appointment. On a 29-9 vote, the Democrat-controlled Senate last week refused to confirm Brown's appointment of Miss Fonda, a two-time Academy Award-winning actress with growing influence as a political adviser to the governor.

"If these senators were as tough and big as they like to think, why didn't they invite Jane Fonda to be heard and call her to her face the names they called her like a bunch of little kids?" Brown asked rhetorically in an informal meeting with reporters after his appearance at the council.

Lutheran Women's convention sets goals

OMAHA, Neb. — Nearly 8,000 members and guests from throughout the U.S. and Canada gathered in Omaha to attend the 6th Biennial convention of the International Lutheran Women's Missionary League, July 16-19, under the theme "Sow the Seed."

The LWML is the women's auxiliary of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod and numbers approximately 200,000 members in 43 districts.

Attending the convention from the Magic Valley area were Erman Baybatal, delegate, and Vesta Mayland, president of the local chapter.

The 500-plus voting delegates set a mission project goal of $450,000, representing the amount of funds to be gathered during the next two years. In addition, $165,000 was authorized for the League's ongoing programs in the next two years.

During the past two years, the LWML sponsored nine projects budgeted at $410,000. For the first time, the projects were funded solely on gifts alone without including any interest to reach the goal.

Service projects chosen by the 558 certified delegates for the 1979-1981 biennium include the following:

- Rebuilding facilities destroyed by fire on the campus of Concordia College in Edmonton, Alberta.
- Ministry to French-speaking residents of the Montreal area.
- Hispanic ministry in Austin, Texas, and in Brooklyn, N.Y.
- Ongoing Ambassadors for Christ, a witnessing program of Lutheran youth, including the purchase of a van, TV tapes and other special media supplies.
- Aid to Micronesian students enrolling at Concordia Teachers College in Seward, Neb.
- Social services to minorities in poverty depressed sections of Cleveland and Chattanooga.
- Support of native American ministry among the Navajos of New Mexico.

- A stipend to the Hong Kong Lutheran church.
- Gospel ministries in Taiwan and Brazil.
- Financial assistance to the Lutheran Lay Ministry Training Institute in Milwaukee, Wis.

Four offerings were taken during the course of the convention. The first at the opening service raised over $11,000 and will be used for the League's mission projects. The other offerings are designated for World Hunger, settlement and other mission programs.

Delegates and guests donated more than 3,500 blankets and quilts to make a "parade of blankets" for Lutheran World Relief.

More than 6,500 persons attended the opening service, where they heard Dr. Oswald Hoffmann, international Lutheran Hour speaker, expand on the convention theme

"Sow the Seed," Hoffmann said. "The LWML is the greatest organization we have in the whole church." Catching the excitement of the opening service, he said, "I don't think we need a sermon. I'm referring to the stirring procession which featured hand-made banners, depicting the theme as interpreted by the LWML's 43 districts. These were augmented by banners from seven countries depicting League work overseas — Brazil, Guatemala, Hong Kong, India, Japan, Nigeria and the Philippines. He said, "The seed of God is doing its work in the church now. Whether we live, or whether we die, we are the Lord's. The seed is sown. The crop is growing."

A highlight was a surprise appearance by U.S. Vice President Walter Mondale, who commended the Leaguers for their work in so many worthwhile projects throughout the world.

Mrs. Helen Morris of Mankato,

Minn., who concluded a four-year term as president of LWML, was awarded a special medallion, the "Crest of Christ." The award was made by Concordia Teachers College in recognition of her service to the church.

Delegates chose Detroit, Mich., as the convention site for 1983. In 1981 the convention will meet in Milwaukee, Wis.

Catholic membership registers sharp drop

By GEORGE VECSEY
©N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — The Roman Catholic Church in the United States showed a loss of 224,147 members last year from 1977, according to figures released recently.

A downward revision of 407,068 from 1977 to 1978 in Detroit was responsible for the national drop in membership, the largest loss in this century. Catholicism showed a rise of 510,424 in the previous year.

The church now has 49,602,033 adults and children attending church, or 22.52 percent of the population, according to the Official Catholic Directory.

The revision in Detroit illustrates the problems in counting members of any denomination. For many years, Detroit officials had based their estimate of Catholic population on a fixed percentage of the population of the Detroit area, according to United States census figures.

"They haven't been watching the store," said Thomas H. Walsh, editor of the Catholic directory. "There has been an exodus from the inner city to outside the archdiocese. We wondered last year when they came up with this different figure. We thought it was a typo and asked them, but they said no, this was the real picture."

Walsh said some dioceses arrived at their figures through membership lists while others relied on estimates of people attending mass. This leads to problems, since many Catholics attend mass in different churches from one week to the next. Some parishes are careful about noting seasonal fluctuations, while others use traditional fixed percentages, as Detroit did.

Protestant denominations tend to rely on adult or family memberships in local churches, which are helpful if the lists are pure or increased regularly. A study recently released by the National Council of Churches of Christ showed that Southern Baptists, evangelicals and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) enjoyed the largest growth in 1977, the most recent year counted, while most "mainline" Protestant churches suffered smaller drops than in recent years.

The revision in Detroit is drastic for any church district in any denomination. In 1977, Detroit reported 1,591,450 Catholics while in 1978, it showed 1,187,382, dropping from the fifth to the eighth largest Catholic district in the nation.

"It looks like we lost a lot of people, but it's only a paper loss," said Richard Laskos, an official of the Detroit Archdiocese.

The revision of figures points up the inequality of the Catholic system of archdioceses and dioceses. There are 32 archdioceses in the United States.

New pastor named to Eastside Baptist

TWIN FALLS — Ritchie C. Weers became pastor of the Eastside Baptist Church on July 15.

Previously he was a pastor for 4 1/2 years in Patheon, Calif., an agricultural community in the northern Central Valley. The Eastside Baptist Church is his second pastorate.

Weers was born in Washington and raised in California. He received his education at California Baptist College in Riverside, Calif., and at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley, Calif.

Pastor Weers is 32 years old and married. His wife, Sandy, is a registered nurse who is working full time raising their three sons, ages 3, 5 and 7.

Church news

Twin Falls Salvation Army
TWIN FALLS — "Five G's and Still Climbin'" is the title of Sunday's message to be given by Lt. William J. Helsenman at the 11 a.m. worship service. Sunday school is at 10 a.m. The mid-week Bible study is Thursday at 7 p.m. at 713 Del Mar Drive. The topic for the study, led by Cadet Ruth Hastings, is "Prayer."

First United Methodist
TWIN FALLS — Services this Sunday at the First United Methodist Church will be conducted by substitute pastor Rev. Ralph Kieen. Rev. Kieen will preach a sermon entitled "I Will Build My Church... (Matthew 16:18)." He will use as his texts Romans 12 and Matthew 18:20.
Special music will be provided by Karen Connolly, who will play a violin solo, "Meditation from Tals," by Massenet.
The new summer schedule for services is as follows: Sunday School at 9 a.m. and Worship at 10 a.m. This will be Rev. Kieen's last Sunday here.

Episcopal Church of the Ascension
TWIN FALLS — The Episcopal Church of the Ascension schedules three services every Sunday. This Sunday the Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. Communion will be said at 8 p.m.
The rector, Fr. Albert E. Allen, will be the celebrant and preacher. His sermon, based on the Gospel account of Jesus walking on the sea by St. Mark, is entitled "Walking on Water — Miracle or Hoax?"
Holy Eucharist is scheduled each Wednesday at noon.

First Church of the Nazarene
TWIN FALLS — The First Church of the Nazarene will hold Sunday School at 9:45 a.m., with classes for all ages and full nursery attendant services. At the 11 a.m. service Pastor Chastain will speak on "The Living Work." Vera Hever will furnish special music.
"Deceived," a film dealing with the Jim Jones story and the Guyana massacre, will be shown Sunday at 6 p.m.

First United Presbyterian
TWIN FALLS — The First United Presbyterian Church of Twin Falls holds its summer worship hour at 10 a.m., followed by coffee fellowship in the dining room. Nursery care is provided during the service.
The Sunday's worship service will be conducted by Rev. Young, assisted by Sheila Gerber and Michelle Petersen. The senior high group will meet at 5:30 p.m. at the church to complete plans for their work camp at Sterling, Kansas.

Kimberly Church of the Nazarene
KIMBERLY — Kimberly's quarterly "Fifth Sunday Stigmata," sponsored by the Ministerial Association, will be held at the Church of the Nazarene on Sunday at 7 p.m. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

Jerome Presbyterian Church
JEROME — The Rev. William B. Allen, leadership development consultant of the Snake River Area of the Synod of the Pacific, will be the speaker at the regular 9 a.m. worship service this Sunday at the Jerome Presbyterian Church. His subject, "On Holding Up Arms," will be based on Exodus 17:8-16. Keith Johansen will sing a solo.

Jerome Church of the Nazarene
JEROME — The Jerome Church of the Nazarene will hold its 4th Sunday Music Night, featuring Rev. Floyd Young and others, on Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Missionary secretary to speak at Brethren

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Robert (Hazel) McCray, executive secretary for the Women's Missionary Association of the United Brethren in Christ Church, will be the guest speaker at the United Brethren Church this Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship service.

Mrs. McCray attended the annual convention at the missionary association's headquarters in Huntington, Ind., held in June. Following the morning service, she will be honored at an old-fashioned pot luck dinner.

Rev. Lyle Arnold invites the public to attend the services.

Shoshone man called to Amsterdam Mission

SHOSHONE — Thomas (Tom) M. Croft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Croft of Shoshone, has received a call to serve a two-year mission in the Netherlands-Amsterdam Mission for the LDS Church.

Croft will enter the Mission Training Center in Provo, Utah, on Aug. 16, where he will learn the Dutch language and prepare for his mission. He expects to be there about eight weeks.

A graduate of Shoshone High School in 1978, Croft attended Ricks College in Rexburg last year. He is working this summer at KTLK radio in Twin Falls as an announcer, and is a feature writer for the Lincoln County Journal.

Reception to honor missionary set

TWIN FALLS — Norman Case, United Methodist Church missionary from the Philippines, will be honored with a reception at the home of Mildred Neuman, 21 Fourth Ave. E., at 7:30 p.m. on Aug. 3.

Anyone who would like to meet with him is invited to attend.

Brewers nip Yankees on Cooper's homer

By United Press International

Cecil Cooper put on a heavy-hitting display at Milwaukee's County Stadium Friday night when he hit two home runs to tie the real "fireworks" were supplied by Reggie Jackson and Mike Caldwell.

Cooper's third home run of the game with two outs in the ninth inning gave the Milwaukee Brewers a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees in a game which featured the election of Jackson for fighting and a double protest filed by Yankees manager Billy Martin.

Cooper's 17th homer came off closer Rich Cossage, 1-2, and tied a club record for homers in a game, and total bases of 12 set by Ben Ogilvie earlier this season, Ravello Bob McClure, 5-1, picked up the trophy.

The Yankees tied the score at 5-5 in the eighth on a single by Mickey Rivers and Willie Randolph's homer off—the left-field foul pole—Jim Spencer also homered for the Yankees in the seventh.

Cooper's second homer of the game, following a run-scoring single by Don Money, gave the Brewers a 5-3 lead in the seventh. Cooper also

Cincinnati shuts out Braves 2-0

By United Press International

Mike LaCoss and Doug Bair have at least two things in common: they're both right-handed and they both memorized the Atlanta Braves Friday night.

Lacoss, the 22-year-old All-Star, and Bair, the 23-year-old ace reliever, combined on a six-hitter in pitching the Cincinnati Reds to their fourth straight victory, a 2-0 triumph over Atlanta.

LaCoss, 10-4, allowed five hits in seven innings to pick up the victory while Bair gave up one hit over the final two innings to notch his 15th shutout.

The Reds took a 1-0 lead in the sixth inning off Phil Niekro, 14-12, when Joe Morgan singled, stole second, advanced to third on a throwing error by catcher Bruce Benedict and scored as Dave Concepcion bounced into a fielder's choice.

under protest because Caldwell was allowed to stay in the game. Two innings later, Martin lodged another protest on the grounds that the pitcher's mound was too low. However, umpire Dale Ford measured the mound after the game and found it to be the required height.

In other early games, Detroit nipped Toronto in 4-3 in 10 innings, Baltimore blanked Kansas City 6-0, Cleveland beat Chicago 7-2, and Texas routed Boston 11-2.

Pinch-runner Lynn Jones scored from second base with two outs in the 11th inning on shortstop Alfredo Griffin's throwing error. With one out in the 11th, Ed Putnam doubled off loser Tom Buskey, 4-5, and Jones went into run for him. Ron LeFlore then hit a routine grounder to shortstop and Griffin threw the ball wildly past first base, allowing Jones to race home with the winning run.

Ken Singleton belted a three-run homer and Lee May 2 two-run shot to support the three-hit pitching of Mike Flanagan and lift the Orioles to their ninth triumph in their last 10 games. Singleton allowed a first-inning single to Amos Otis and bloop

Briefly in sports

Snead ties course record

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — J.C. Snead tied the Whitmarsh Valley Country Club course record Friday with a 7-under-par 65 to take the second-round lead in the $250,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Snead, who missed setting a record when his 8-foot birdie putt on the 18th just slid by the lower lip of the hole, fired eight birdies on the course en route to a 36-hole score of 132, 10-under-par on the 6,687-yard, par 71 Whitmarsh layout.

Snead held a two-stroke lead over David Graham at 134 while Ben Crenshaw had a 135. Andy Bean, Bill Rogers, Bobby Wadkins and Don Valentine all carded 135s.

Tom Watson of Twin Falls completed the first two rounds in 75-74 but failed to make the cut of 143.

Two share LPGA lead

STE-JULIE, Que. (UPI) — Cathy Sherk, an emotional Canadian rookie who refused to play "chicken golf," survived three bogeys Friday to share the 36-hole lead in the $150,000 Peter Jackson golf classic with Floridian Mary Dwyer at 3-under-par 143.

The 29-year-old Sherk, voted the world's top amateur last year by Golf Digest magazine, shot a 74 over the 6,349-yard, par-72 Rowville course, surrendering her three-stroke first-round lead on the front nine.

"One thing I hate to do is play chicken golf when ahead," said Sherk, who tied Dwyer, who carded a 71 Friday to go with an opening round 72.

She shot the pace at 144 were Barbara Moxness, who shot a 71, Pamela Higgins, 72, and Donna White, 71.

Leading money winner Nancy Lopez, who shot a 76 in the first round, came back with a 70 that included an eagle and four birdies and left her at 146, just three strokes off the pace.

Stabbing mars kids' game

TROY, Ohio (UPI) — A heated argument concerning an umpire's calling a Pony League baseball game has moved into the Miami County Municipal Court after one of the participants, a parent of the umpire, allegedly stabbed the father of one of the players.

Judge William Kessler is to continue a preliminary hearing into the case next week and must decide whether William C. Rose, 43, of Troy, should be bound over to the grand jury.

Rose is charged with attempting to murder Glen Francis, 39, of Troy, during the July 20 baseball game in the league for 13 to 16-year olds.

Rose shot at Francis in the chest, back and abdomen when Francis started to argue with Rose's son, David, who was umpiring the game, authorities charge.

The argument started after David Rose threw Francis' 16-year-old son, a catcher, out of the game following a disputed call. Francis' wife, Dolores, came down from the stands to argue with the umpire about the removal of her son.

Umpires pressure 'scabs'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — National League umpire Paul Runge says he doesn't consider Dave Pallone "a person."

Pallone, a rookie member of Runge's crew who worked his way into the major leagues last spring by "cutting trails" and strikes while his veteran colleagues walked the picket lines, says he is all part of a cold-shoulder campaign aimed at forcing the "scabs" to resign.

"But nevertheless, the silent treatment by the 52 veteran umpires continues toward the eight first-year men.

Pallone, 46, is currently a member of a crew that also includes Dick Steilo and crew chief Bob Engel. He says his co-workers don't harass him: "They just ignore him, although Engel more than the others talks business with him."

"I don't even consider him (Pallone) as a person," said Runge. "The thing that keeps this going is that this man ramped me from getting my job back."

Skladany undergoes surgery

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit Lions' punter Tom Skladany underwent back surgery Friday for a ruptured disc and a team spokesman said the operation went "very well."

The operation relieved pressure on a nerve that caused Skladany intense pain, the spokesman said, but it was still doubtful the second-year kicker will fully recover for the 1979 season.

"Reports from Ford Hospital indicate the operation went very well," the spokesman said. "Doctors said that if he makes an excellent recovery and everything goes without a hitch, he could be back on the active roster in 6-8 weeks."

46% BETTER EPA ESTIMATED MPG IN ONE OF OUR MOST DISTINCTIVE GRAND-PRIZES EVER.
Obviously, we're proud that Pontiac Grand Prix's EPA estimated MPG is 46% better than just a few years ago. That's comparing 1975 and 1979 Grand Prix's equipped with standard engines* and automatic transmissions. Highway increase is 38%.
*Based on 1975 EPA Grand Prix's 79-mileage rating. Remember: Compare the estimated MPG with that of other cars. Your mileage may vary depending on speed, trip length and weather. And your actual highway mileage will probably be less than the highway estimate.
So you get good fuel economy without having to sacrifice what Grand Prix is all about.
Distinctive and innovative styling. And a satisfying feel for the road.
Test-drive our new Grand Prix today. Grand Prix are equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See us for details.
