

Primitive area firefighting aided by rain

By United Press International
The weather gave Idaho firefighters a little help and hope Wednesday as partly cloudy skies moved into the state and weak bands of showers drifted over the upper Snake River Valley.

Drought worsens across Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's searing fires are getting all the bad publicity this summer but state officials said Wednesday drought should get much of the blame for the devastation of several national forests.

"We have received some startling information," Gov. John Evans said while flying over the raging ship island fire in the Idaho Primitive Area aboard a National Guard aircraft.

He said 21 of the state's counties have approached his office in recent days, pleading for an emergency declaration of drought relief.

Evans said Blaine County was the only county to formally apply for drought relief, adding that he would authorize such relief Thursday. Camas County also is experiencing acute drought conditions, and several other counties — stretching from the Idaho Panhandle to the extreme southern section of the state — will need assistance, Evans said.

"The 1979 fire season is a continuation of the 1977 drought," Evans said. "That is becoming increasingly apparent every day."

"We have gone so long without rain in the central part of the state that the whole area is suffering severely from the fires."

Evans said it is possible drought conditions will be as severe as they were in 1977, when a low rainfall year hindered agriculture and stretched water supplies throughout the state.

"There is some indication it is just as serious," the governor said. "Those agricultural areas that don't have storage water — that rely on stream flows — face a critical situation."

Ken Dumm of the Idaho Water Resources Department confirmed that stream flows are way below normal in several instances and, in some sections of the Snake and Salmon rivers, they are at a record low.

"It's in the hands of someone else," Evans said, of the possibility of relief in drought and subsequent fire conditions. "All we can do is pray for rain, pray for some relief."

Evans also noted that, because of drought, conditions throughout the state farmers have not been able to grow a sufficient alfalfa-crowd that this will trigger a federal emergency program to provide feed for cattle.

But the forecasters said day-to-day thing," adding, "main weather systems remain Canada, and the high today may again push into the 80s and 90s."

Four of the five major fires burning through central Idaho's mountain country continued to grow during the night, but a U.S. Forest Service spokesman said the Mortar Creek fire in the heart of the Idaho Primitive Area was increasing "at a slower pace."

"And this weather is the most promising thing we've had since mid July," said Forest Service spokesman Nedolski. "It won't stop the world, but the weather is the best today since the fires started."

The Mortar Creek fire had engulfed more than 18,000 acres of timber and brush Monday, but Tuesday night the blaze burned through only another 1,800 acres of forest land on the east side of the Salmon River during the night.

The Mortar Creek fire, which was first reported July 26, had consumed more than 56,800 acres of fir and pine in an egg-shaped blob 58 miles in circumference by early today.

"We are now hopeful with the moderating weather and the quarter inch of rain we got in eastern Idaho last night," Nedolski said. "The humidity is up and the afternoon temperatures are supposed to moderate some today."

Nedolski said the Forest Service had spent more than $2.3 million battling the five fires. But he added the Little Eight-Mile fire, about 100 miles north of Salmon, was controlled during the night.

The Little Eight Mile fire had burned nearly 1,000 acres of timber. But, with its control, the Forest Service hopes to move some crews to the other four blazes.

The major fires, and several smaller ones, had charred more than 130,000 acres mostly in central Idaho. And Forest Service spokesman Lee Singer said 4,500 firefighters from 14 states were working "relieving shifts" today to bring control of the four remaining "big fires."

Gov. Evans laments damage, errors

By MARK SHENEFFELT
IDAHO PRIMITIVE AREA (UPI) — Gov. John Evans rode a National Guard C-131 transport plane over Idaho's fire-ravaged Primitive Area Wednesday, lamenting about natural conditions and the folly of rain.

Evans, critical of the U.S. Forest Service because it lost control of a 300-acre prescription burn at eastern Idaho's Gallagher Peak, urged the public to stay out of the flaming national forests and let firefighters do their job.

The governor, however, praised the Forest Service's actions in battling two major fires in the primitive area as well as other fires in the state.

"It is obvious a mistake was made in assessing the consequences of the Gallagher fire," Evans said. "I am concerned that we didn't move in and put it out early."

Evans said the fire management still is an experiment program and added that he hoped the Forest Service would carefully assess its merits before making it policy. David Jay, supervisor of the Targhee National Forest in which the 50,000-acre Gallagher Peak fire was burning, said at an Idaho Falls news conference he "seriously didn't intend" to let the blaze reach mammoth proportions.

"There were no errors in judgement, but there may have been an underestimate in the possible very extreme weather conditions, of last weekend," Jay said.

Evans said earlier on the plane, "When you're a Forest Service official and you are involved in a decision about firefighting, one day you are a hero and the next day you are a goat."

"The state of Idaho has a very fine working relationship with the Forest Service," he said. "I almost feel they are working for me."

The governor also said he was disappointed that the Mortar Creek fire in the primitive area, which has scorched 58,000 acres, was caused by a man. "This is really and truly a wilderness area," Evans said as the aircraft bobbed over the blaze. "This land will be scarred for years to come. That is the unfortunate part."

"Nobody recognizes how big this area is. And not many realize what a critical situation this is."

The governor in addition blasted "sightseers" who have clogged the airplanes and footpaths in the fire areas, hampering fire control efforts and increasing the chance of accidents. He said he appreciated offers of volunteer firefighters, but he said only trained personnel could be used.

Dick Montague, the Forest Service's director of aviation and fire management in the Intermountain region, told Evans during the flight over four of the state's fires that the inaccessible country prevented an efficient fire control effort.

Evans in turn said he "marveled" at the "rugged terrain" and said he understood why the Forest Service could do little more than slow down the fires.

High food costs laid on processors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American consumers who are irritated by climbing food prices should blame the processing companies, not farmers or their local grocers, the administration said Wednesday.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability, the White House inflation monitoring agency, issued a report which attributed higher grocery costs to "involving shifts" today in margins during the April-June quarter.

In the same report, the council also warned American food bills would increase slightly over the next year as a direct result of last week's decision to sell an additional 10 million metric tons of wheat to the Soviet Union.

President Carter will soon summon food industry officials to the White House to discuss the price markup issue.

It will be the first time since his anti-inflation program was launched last October that Carter has met face-to-face with a specific industry in an attempt to influence price activity.

The report from the wage-price panel said "sources of change in food prices in the second quarter were fundamentally different from those in the first quarter."

Between January and March, the council said, higher farm prices, mostly for livestock, were the basic cause of climbing grocery prices. In the second quarter, "increases in marketing margins were the basic source of higher food prices."

The council noted that during the first three months of 1979 retail food prices increased 5.8 percent from 1978's fourth quarter. Farm prices rose 10.7 percent, but marketing margins increased by just 2 percent.

In contrast, retail food costs rose 2.8 percent during the second quarter. Farm prices fell by 0.4 percent, but the farm-to-retail price spread increased 4.9 percent, the council said.

The council said food prices should be "only moderately higher" for the remainder of the year "due to increases in marketing margins."

Robert Adders, president of the Food Marketing Institute defended the role of retailers in food price hikes.

"Food price increases reflect government-imposed costs and red tape along with outrageous fuel and other energy cost increases," Adders said.

"Food retailers do not inflate prices, they only reflect inflation sales across-the-board. It would be cruel to raise public expectations of significantly lower food prices when general inflation continues at a double-digit rate."

Wanted: customers for 'yellow' highways

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department is seeking customers for a new, yellow sulfur highway paving material to replace costly petroleum-based asphalt, officials said Wednesday.

The officials said the material is called sulplex and is made from yellow chemical sulfur, which is abundant in the United States.

Even if sulplex catches on, however, it will not turn America into a land of yellow roads reminiscent of the brick pathways in the end of Oz.

Edward Harrigan, a researcher for the Federal Highway Administration, said the finished road made from sulplex could be yellow, or it could be other colors, "depending on how you mix it."

Predictably enough, Harrigan said, most formulas for it are black.

The government developed sulplex to replace asphalt and other petroleum-based products, which are becoming costly and less plentiful as oil supplies dwindle.

Harrigan said the Transportation Department has "had a number of contacts with some companies which would be interested in producing it under certain circumstances — a buyer such as a state willing to try it as an experimental project."

He said the government is pursuing the sale and "looking for a state that might be interested" in having a highway section 1,000 feet long with it.

Sulplex has been tested since December on a road at the Southwest Research Institute in San Antonio, Texas. So far, Harrigan said it has been successfully applied to roadways with conventional steam rollers and other equipment and its skid resistance is comparable to other highway surfaces.

While yellow is generally considered one of the best colors for highway safety, Harrigan said he "doesn't foresee use of yellow roads."

"The key to good roadway visibility is not its color but the contrast between the road and the lines painted on it."

Another highway expert said studies done about 10 years ago on whether roads should be colors other than black were "unconclusive," because the colors "basically went back at night providing little or no better visibility." He said the colors also tended to fade.

Landrieu acknowledged in the interview that the partnership stood to reap substantial benefits if HUD approved a $5 million grant application that was submitted by the city.

Landrieu said that, as an official of the company, he had had a role in helping the city prepare its application. But as secretary of HUD, he said, he would refrain from taking any action on the application, leaving it up to subordinates.

He also said he would sell his 10 percent interest back to Canizaro, the developer who owns 90 percent of the partnership, because he was sensitive to the questions of conflict of interest that might otherwise be raised.

"Joe and I will have no problem arriving at a price," said Landrieu. He said he expected to receive a substantial buy-out payment from Canizaro, possibly as much as $500,000, because the value of the partnership "jumped astronomically" last month after it bought out its other partner in Canal Place, Bank Omran of Tehran. The bank lent $1.5 million to the partnership, enabling it to complete the first phase of the Canal Place project.

New Orleans deal

Developer gave Landrieu partnership

© N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Former Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans, who is President Carter's choice to head the Department of Housing and Urban Development, was granted a lucrative partnership interest by a real estate developer last year after his term of office expired.

As mayor, Landrieu had helped work out a swap through which the developer acquired some city property that became part of Canal Place, a multimillion-dollar, high-rise riverfront development at the edge of the French Quarter.

Landrieu said in a recent interview that he had not been required to put up any of his own money in the deal. He said he received — in Joseph C. Canizaro's interests. He said he had agreed to pay for his share, at no interest, from profits anticipated by the company — meaning, in effect, he said, that Canizaro had lent him the money to buy in. He said the land swap was not related to his later business arrangement with Canizaro.

Landrieu acknowledged in the interview that the partnership stood to reap substantial benefits if HUD approved a $5 million grant application that was submitted by the city of New Orleans after he left office, but he said that he would not take part in a decision on the grant if he became head of the department.

The Urban Development Action Grant would be used by the city to relocate utility towers and make other "public improvements" in the Canal Place development, and the application was submitted last January at the request of the Canizaro company.

Cesar Chavez march grows

GREENFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Hundreds of farmworkers Wednesday waved from the roadside or fanned down from trees to fall in behind fasting labor leader Cesar Chavez in a mass march through California farmlands to gather support for his union's striking fieldhands.

Newcomers swelled the ranks in two locations to make a total of 3,000 as the United Farm Workers' week-old procession through the harvest-time vegetable fields headed for Salinas, capital of the nation's "salad bowl."

The march, recalling the tactic that thrust Chavez into the national spotlight 13 years ago, signaled the charismatic leader's readiness to take stronger measures against growers on the issue of wage increases.

Talks between the two groups have been stalled for months. The 51-year-old leader appeared drawn from the effects of a water-only fast for "patience and love" he began four days ago. But he looked pleased with the turnout as Wednesday's march began in the chilly morning fog.

Chavez' group was walking north to Salinas, 150 miles south of San Francisco, for a planned meeting Saturday with a second group trudging south through the valley.

Bolivia wears in president

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — Former Foreign Minister Walter Guevara Arze was sworn in as president Wednesday, ending 15 years of military rule and temporarily resolving a crisis caused by a split between the nation's two major political parties.

Chief of Deputies President Lidia Gueiler placed the red, yellow and green presidential sash on Guevara's chest as Gen. David Padilla looked on and 164 members of Congress, foreign dignitaries and guests broke into spirited applause. Guevara, the incumbent, brought the 15th change of government in the 154 years since Bolivia, a nation of 5.5 million people the size of Texas and Montana combined, became independent from Spain.

Deep sea divers killed

ABERDEEN, Scotland (UPI) — Two American divers, trapped for 15 hours inside a diving bell on the bottom of the North Sea, were found dead Wednesday in the retrieved capsule.

The bell, containing the two divers who were working on a North Sea oilfield exploration, sank onto a seabed after its main support cable failed, an industry spokesman said.

A spokesman for the British National Oil Co. announced the deaths 3 1/2 hours after the divers were raised 500 feet to the mother ship, the Wild Drake. He said both divers were Americans and their families had been warned of their deaths but the company would not release their names until Thursday.

The bell was not opened immediately to enable full decomposition, rescue officials said. When the investigation of the deaths was found dead. Pending detailed medical examination, it was not known whether death occurred before or after the divers were lifted from the sea.

The bell was hauled aboard the mother ship, Wild Drake, at 7:30 p.m. EDT. The hours after its main support cable failed as the divers worked near the seabed. The bell drifted down to the bottom, officials said.

Imports aided oil crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American purchases of low mileage foreign cars considerably eased the current fuel crisis, a report from the auto importers said Wednesday.

In addition the study said the car importing industry now employs 137,844 persons who receive an annual payroll in excess of $2 billion — an amount exceeded by more than 10 of the country's largest corporations.

The report, released by the Washington-based American Imported Automobile Dealers Association, said it wanted to explain the impact of the industry on the economy and the consumer.

Huey Newton trial opens

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Attorneys for Black Panther leader Huey Newton argued in court Wednesday that law enforcement officials tried to buy witnesses to testify against him.

Newton is being retried on the charge that he murdered Kathleen Smith, a young prostitute, in 1970. He is held to trial in California.

An earlier trial after his voluntary return to the United States last year ended in a hung jury.

BPA tests gasohol in cars

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Bonneville Power Administration Wednesday began a major test of gasohol by filling the tanks of 26 cars with the mixture of gasoline and alcohol instead of unleaded gasoline.

BPA Administrator Sterling Munro said BPA also will make a year-long test using nine new Chevettes.

"Three of the cars will use unleaded gasoline, three will operate on 10 percent alcohol gasohol and three will operate on 20 percent alcohol gasohol," Munro said. "We will make sure that all get comparable use and will keep careful records of fuel consumption and maintenance."

DC-10 warning ignored

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — Damage done to a Continental Airlines DC-10 during maintenance was serious enough to warrant an investigation and possible corrective action, an inspector for the Federal Aviation Administration testified today.

However, the FAA inspector responsible for the manufacturer of the DC-10 — McDonnell-Douglas Corp. — told the National Transportation Safety Board he was not aware of the damage or a McDonnell-Douglas report detailing it.

An "operational occurrences report" describing the damage was issued in January 1979, only about four months before another DC-10, American Airlines Flight 191, crashed at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, killing 273 persons. Flight 191's left engine and its supporting pylon ripped from the wing on takeoff and the plane crashed 31 seconds later.

The NTSB is in its second week of hearings trying to determine the cause of the crash.

Oil slick gives respite

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (UPI) — The chief government scientist monitoring the movement of history's worst oil slick Wednesday said Texas beaches were in imminent danger of the same sort of pollution that piled tar balls 6 inches deep on the Mexican coast.

Dr. John Robinson of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration described the pollution so far on Padre Island as light, but warned heavier accumulations of tar balls from the Mexican oil slick were floating just offshore.

"I think we're destined to see in the next two days, more oil than we've seen so far," said Robinson of Boulder, Colo.

He said the tar balls posed a more immediate threat to the coast than large sheens stalled several miles out in the Gulf.

Robinson said he had the assurances of the federal oil pollution strike force team that even deep accumulations of sticky deposits could be cleaned from beaches with relative ease perhaps in a day or less.

Today's weather

Sunny and warm with a few mountain showers

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert and Gooding-Terrene areas: Sunny today and Friday. Overnight lows mostly in the 50s. Highs both days in the mid 90s to lower 90s.

Having outlook through Monday shows possibility of a few delays in cutting and drying due to scattered thundershowers. Otherwise good drying conditions.

Spraying forecast calls for winds 8 to 16 mph this afternoon. Pan evaporation is expected to be .33 today and Friday.

Halley, Camas County, and Wood River Valley: Sunny today and Friday except for a few afternoon and evening mountain thundershowers. Overnight lows in the 40s. Highs both days in the 80s.

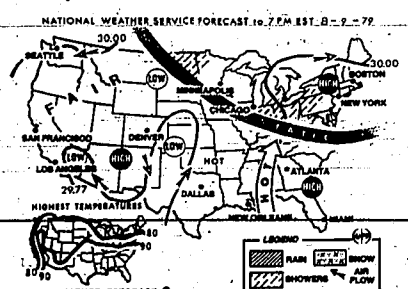

Synopsis: Clouds continued to blanket the central and southern portions of Idaho Wednesday afternoon, along with scattered showers. Winds were mostly calm to light north. While some rain was reported over some of the forest fire areas, amounts were so light that little if any help was given the firefighters. Smoke from these fires in Idaho continue to reduce visibility throughout the central mountain region. Smoke is blanketing many of the higher valley areas like Stanley and Salmon.

Low temperatures Tuesday night ranged from 38 degrees at Elk City to 59 degrees at Kuna. As Wednesday's clouds decrease, cooler night time readings can be expected and also higher daytime temperatures in the afternoons.

The extended outlook for Saturday through Monday calls for a few mountain thundershowers; otherwise mostly dry and hot. Highs in the upper 80s and 90s with overnight lows mostly in the 50s.

Communist province seized in Moslem guerrillas' 'holy war'

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Moslem guerrillas waging a "holy war" against communist seized control of a province near Afghanistan's capital and battled government troops to the south, reports said Wednesday.

The Islamic organization of Afghanistan, a religious political group, said hundreds of Afghan troops loyal to the communist-controlled government have been captured by the rebels who fear the rebels lost more than 125 men during their seizure of Parvin Province, about 25 miles north of Kabul.

farmers angry over Taraki's land reform. In the face of the internal strife, all but 48 American embassy employees have been evacuated from the country.

Abul Burhanuddin Rabbani of the Islamic Organization said bombs and rockets were unleashed during the fighting — an indication Soviet armaments and troops were used.

The tribesmen, armed mainly with homemade guns, swords and spears, are opposed to the pro-Soviet policies of the 16-month-old Kabul government. Their "holy war" is reportedly led by mullahs who fear the power of communism.

Congressmen get chilly reception

HANOI, Vietnam (UPI) — Nine U.S. congressmen came to this Communist capital Wednesday to confront Vietnam's leaders with charges that they had organized the flood of hundreds of thousands of refugees throughout Southeast Asia.

Vietnamese ambassador-at-large Vu Hoang, a refugee expert, greeted the congressmen, who arrived aboard special planes from a former Vietnam War bomber pilot, Lt. Col. Douglas G. Gilmer.

Hoped for welcomes by senior Vietnamese foreign ministry officials but met only a few. Vietnamese sources at the airport said senior officials would meet the Americans later.

The delegation, led by Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., almost was barred from Vietnam because of critical remarks one member made in Hong Kong, the first stop on the group's six-day, five-nation tour of "red" countries and facilities.

Rosenthal said that while the congressmen intended to ask tough questions and criticize an alleged government organization of the refugee exodus, he believed the visit would result merely in an exchange of views.

Most members of the delegation said they favored establishment or diplomatic relations with Hanoi, but with no aid as a precondition.

Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., a Jewish priest who was a prominent critic of the Vietnam War, said there were three problems with current Vietnamese policy: Vietnam's invasion and occupation of Cambodia; the "indochina" people to leave Vietnam; and Hanoi's pro-Soviet policy.

He said the invasion of Cambodia "was an outrageous demonstration of arrogance really."

It was Drinan's criticism of Vietnamese refugee policy in Hong Kong last Saturday that caused Hanoi to cancel the trip by the congressmen.

Vietnamese Embassy sources in Bangkok said a letter from Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to Vice Foreign Minister Phan Hien in Hanoi was instrumental in bringing about the reversal.

Elated over Vietnam's about-face, the delegation toured the world's largest Vietnamese refugee camp earlier Wednesday. They spent 90 minutes at Pulau Bidong Island, off the Malaysian coast, before taking off for Hanoi.

Signal fire saves refugees

By United Press International
A signal fire glowing in the early dawn light over the South China Sea guided two U.S. helicopter pilots to a tiny leaking Vietnamese boat crammed with men, women and children, American officials said in reports released Wednesday on the 7th Fleet's search-and-rescue mission.

"They were incredibly lucky," Lt. Cmdr. Terry Myers of Cocoa Beach, Fla., said of the 28 refugees on the 22-foot wooden boat. "It was just a whim that we went back for a second look at a badly lit freighter and spotted the flaps."

"There's one thing I'll never forget," Myers said. "When we approached the boat, one of the men on deck held up a tiny infant for us to see."

Co-pilot Lt. Dan McDouneil, of Mobile, Ala., saw the fires about 1 mile beyond the freighter. "I'm sure they would have sunk within hours," he said. "Water was coming over the sides and they were bailing hard."

Firefighters get hooked on the grim battle

By ANND KIRKWOOD
BOISE — When Mary Harmon awakes each morning, she says, she repeats a prayer to help maintain her sanity. "Nothing is going to happen today that the Lord and I can't handle," she said, gazing at her husband, Dave, who just returned from the front lines of the Mortar Creek fire. Harmon, who walked out of the 56,000-acre blaze in the Idaho Primitive Area Tuesday with a broken foot, said he still wishes he were building fire lines with his buddies. Sunday, Harmon and about 40 other firefighters huddled on a small hillside on Artillery Dome in the heart of Idaho's wilderness near the Middle Fork of the Salmon River while just 15 yards away a wall of flames began surrounding the group. "Some of them out there were panicky, just plain scared," the veteran of 12 years of firefighting said. "We were on the west side of the river to keep fires from jumping the river." "We put in about a mile of line and it just didn't hold. So, we ended up sitting for about an hour on a rock slide while we let it burn around us and then we headed for the helispot where soon the fire was burning all around us there, too." Trees burned around him like Roman candles, he said, sounding like a locomotive moving closer and closer. While taking pictures with his instamatic camera he protected the lens so it would not melt in the heat. The roaring fire moved closer and, as it peaked around them, sounded like a jet was taking off overhead, Harmon said.

"But the noise doesn't die down like a jet does. It is sustained and sometimes, as it gets louder and louder, you pray for it to stop." Building a fire line means hoisting a chain saw or logs or digging trenches, he said, and it's back-breaking work that makes muscles throbbing and sends shuddering pains throughout the body. A routine day lasts up to 16 hours followed by a long hike back to a temporary fire camp where sometimes food is waiting and, occasionally, it is not. "One day they had to evacuate us out of a helispot and we left our food behind," he said. "It's a real problem for them because when we showed up at another camp there was no food for us so we had to go hungry." Within hours after arriving at the helispot a week ago, Harmon's yellow shirt turned dingy. His dark green regulation trousers turned even darker and his face was as black as dirt. "When he comes home it's almost as if I don't know him," Mrs. Harmon said. "I see the little white circles around his eyes and everything else is coal black." You just get used to being dirty and getting only about six hours of sleep each night," Harmon said. "After a while you get numb to everything but when you get home you realize just how tired you are and nothing will get you out of bed." For six months each year Harmon works as a firefighter. During the winter he makes wooden clocks and table tops and fishes for steelhead trout in Oregon waters. "I guess it just gets in your blood to return and fight," he said. "You get on the fire and you really hate the smoke, the heat, the hard work and, sometimes, the short rations. "And when the fires are over I always swear I'll never go back." After a few weeks of rest, however, Harmon and his fellow firefighters eagerly await the exhilaration, frustration and life-threatening job they are trained to do. "As you lose ground and there seems to be nothing stopping the fire, morale steadily drops," he said. "It's funny, though, when we get burned over at the helispot, morale just hit an all-time high and I really don't know why." For Mrs. Harmon the reason is simple. "It's a fever with them," she said. "There's no stopping them."

Emergency medical workers at Artillery Dome forced Harmon into returning home Tuesday when a log rolled over his leg and broke his foot. During the mile-long hike to the helispot, Harmon said he kept hoping he was just bruised so he could quickly return to his crew. When he boarded the helicopter, for the first time he saw the magnitude of the Mortar Creek fire from the air. Individual blazes raced up canyons, enveloping ridges with walls of flames and pillars of smoke. "Then I saw Dome Creek and knew that's where my crew was," he said, his voice breaking with emotion. "Within minutes it was filled with flames and I got a little apprehensive about their safety. But I had to go."

Fire spares

North Fork

NORTH FORK (UPI) — Forest Service crews cut a line along the east side of the Moose Creek Fire in the Salmon National Forest, preventing the 2,200-acre blaze from reaching the tiny town of North Fork. "We've stopped the fire's progress toward the town," Forest Service spokesman Joe Nadolski, said today, "but the fire is still spreading to the west and it's far from contained." The two-day-old fire was believed to be man caused. Tuesday afternoon it burned through another 600 acres of timber just west of the Idaho-Montana stateline.

"We Say Yes" with the simple, versatile Card. Use it. Trust it!

Now 15% Instead of 18%

With the Trust Card, you can draw on your line of credit to pay off charge accounts with department stores or other credit cards.

What is the advantage? By using the Trust Card to pay bills, you avoid paying the Annual Percentage Rate of 18%, common with most charge cards. Instead, the Trust Card Annual Percentage Rate is only 15%. Over a period of time, the amount you save on interest alone can be considerable.

*FINANCE CHARGES AND ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATES. If you have no loans outstanding, during the period your billing covers, you will pay no Finance Charge. However, if you do use your Trust Card's Credit Reserve, you will owe a Finance Charge. The amount of the Finance Charge will be determined by the balance of your consolidated loan and the number of days that balance has been outstanding. Here's how we compute the charge:

1. We start with the unpaid principal balance of your account at the beginning of each new billing cycle.
2. Each day we subtract payments and credits from this balance and add new loans. This gives us the daily principal balance for your account each day.
3. We then add these daily principal balances and divide by the number of days in the billing cycle. The result is the average daily principal balance for your Trust Card Account.
4. We multiply this average daily principal balance by the periodic rate .04109% (1/365 of 15.00%) to find your FINANCE CHARGE for the billing cycle. That is an ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE of 15.00%.

Guaranteed Check Cashing and I.D. Card

You can cash a personal check up to $100.00 by presenting your Trust Card to any participating business establishment. Twin Falls Bank & Trust guarantees your check to the participating merchant.

Wednesday was 100th birthday of Emiliano Zapata, shown in 1913.

A man, not the father, given custody of child

Chicago Sun-Times
CHICAGO — A Circuit Court judge has reversed himself and taken the custody of an 8-year-old boy from his mother and awarded it to a man who is not the boy's father.

Judge John Crown said Tuesday that when he awarded the mother custody in June, he mistakenly believed Illinois law required him to give custody to a fit natural parent in preference to anyone else.

Since then, he said, he has learned another law allows awarding custody to anyone as long as it is in the child's best interest.

Crown ruled Tuesday in a custody battle for the child, Nolan M. Lloyd Jr., between Nolan M. Lloyd Sr., a Chicago meatcutter, and Jo Ann Lloyd, a nurse's aide who now lives in Cincinnati.

Son vetoes honor

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The son of Emiliano Zapata protested the alleged oppression of Mexican peasants Wednesday by vetoing a government plan to move his father's body to a monument on the 100th anniversary of the revolutionary hero's birth.

Authorities had wanted to move Zapata's remains from Cuatla, 45 miles south of Mexico City, to the Revolutionary Monument in Mexico City — a massive arch where nearly all the heroes of Mexico's 1910 Revolution are buried — in time for ceremonies marking the legendary hero's 100th birthday.

But his son, Mateo Emiliano Zapata, said he would not permit the move until all political prisoners and peasants in the family's home state of Morelos were freed.

Zapata, a sharecropper and horse trainer, became the feared mustacheed "Cuatillo del Sur" in the 1910s, merging his peasant forces with those of Pancho Villa against the landed gentry.

Leading the landless peasants with the cry of "land and liberty," Zapata told his followers it was "better for a man to die on his feet than live on his knees."

Mexico's popular leader died in an ambush, like Villa, by political opponents.

The aged survivors of Zapata's guerrilla movement, the Zapata Front, also voiced outrage over Mexico's condition of the country's masses.

Cats' role in natural food chain studied

LONDON (UPI) — Colin Howes is a sober scientist who has just begun a serious nationwide survey to find out what the cat dragged in.

"It's about time we studied the cat as part of the ecology," he said in a telephone interview, "to find out its role, how it fits in, what it is best equipped to catch."

Howes — who has studied cat catches locally for a full year — is now spreading his study nationwide, asking cat owners to record the mammals and birds their cats kill.

A parallel study asks school children to list cats kept as pets in the 10 dwellings nearest their home. The object here is a national cat census.

The United States is way ahead of us on this matter," Howes said. "We're years behind on an actual census of cats."

Howes says he wants to discover "how cat prey varies from habitat to habitat" and to help broaden his studies of species distribution.

"We get thousands of species reports annually," he said, "but they tend to come from the same people."

I wanted some way to tap some new sources."

His year-long local study of what the cat dragged in already has made some intriguing finds, Howes said.

"For example, ornithologists and bird watchers always have had a great down on cats because they think cats kill so many birds. But of every 500 cat prey reports we get, less than one quarter are birds."

Driving while intoxicated is no doubt the most often filed traffic related criminal charge. It is a serious charge having a maximum penalty of six months in jail and/or a $300.00 fine, and the loss of driving privileges for 90 days. Subsequent convictions may result in a felony charge with a maximum penalty of five years in the State Penitentiary and the loss of driving privileges for up to one year. Also, upon a conviction, insurance rates skyrocket. An attorney can be valuable in such cases by pursuing any legitimate defense, or if none exists, by providing the court with reasonable sentencing alternatives.

Ridgeway has 50 years with city band

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — When Gerald (Chop) Ridgeway tunes his cornet for the final concert of the season tonight of the Twin Falls City Band it will mark a half century of participation in one of the oldest municipal bands in the nation.

It's not that the Kimberly native is so ancient. He started attending the weekly band rehearsals as a 12-year-old in 1930, tagging along with his father, the late Gari Ridgeway, who played trombone in the band for 20 years.

The late Dr. Orrin Fuller was directing the band then. Over the five decades Ridgeway has participated in the group there have been surprisingly few directors.

After Fuller's many years of service, the late Charles Ratcliffe assumed leadership of the group. He was succeeded by Del Slaughter of Twin Falls, who held the post some years before Ted Hatley, the current director, took up the baton.

"After a few years of attending practices, they considered me a regular member despite my youth," the Kimberly businessman said.

He apparently played several years without a uniform. In the picture accompanying this article, taken about 1935, young Ridgeway, sitting third from the right in the second row cornet section, is plainly dressed in suit and tie while all the other members have the high necked uniforms. His father is standing fourth from the left in the back row.

Ridgeway not only has continued family tradition by his long years of loyalty to the city band (with time out for service in World War II) but is a third generation businessman in his home town.

After he returned in November, 1945, from the Army, where he served in the Pacific as a warrant officer in the Inspector General's Department of the 11th Airborne Division, Ridgeway took over operation of the family hardware and furniture store in Kimberly.

Gari Ridgeway, who came here Feb. 14, 1908, and his wife, the former Goldie Swearingin, an even earlier pioneer arriving Oct. 24, 1908, in turn had taken over the store from her father who had started the business. Mr. Ridgeway, earlier worked at the local bank and after his son took over the business was with the Hansen Elevator Co. Mrs. Goldie Ridgeway still lives in Kimberly.

Gerald Ridgeway of Kimberly and his cornet are old standbys in the Twin Falls City Band

Diane Hagaman/Times-News

Born here Sept. 10, 1918, Ridgeway graduated from the Kimberly High School and in 1939 from the University of Idaho where he majored in accounting. He worked briefly in Klamath Falls, Ore., before going into the service.

While he was in the Army he was sent to attend a finance school in Wake Forest, N.C., where he also met his future wife, the former Phyllis Uley.

They were married there and when she first came West, so the family story goes, it was "only for a visit." But the visit has lengthened into more than three decades.

The couple has two daughters, Phyllis Ann Maloyk of Spokane and Vicki Zimmer of Moscow.

In addition to playing with the city band every summer, Ridgeway belonged to the Magic Valkley Symphony for several years and has been in the Diletante stage orchestra or band for some 18 seasons.

Like most of the city band members, Ridgeway is proud of the organization which is concluding its 74th consecutive season — a record of civic accomplishment which becomes increasingly impressive as the breakdown of community life accelerates throughout the United States.

While he hesitates to "name names" for fear of forgetting someone, Ridgeway feels that tribute should be paid to some of the many other musicians who also have given years of service.

Among the longtime band members now deceased are Jack Thorpe of Twin Falls; Jud Pettygrove of Hansen as well as the two former directors, Dr. Fuller and Mr. Ratcliffe.

Former members who played for many years include Charles Allen, Reed Coulam, Tony Warner, Dorn Berich, Dr. Glenn Hoss and Paul Bowman.

Other longtime members currently still playing in the band are Warren Saunders of Buhl; Wayne Ford, Alan DeVries, Del Slaughter and Byrle Carr, all of Twin Falls.

Attendance at the weekly Thursday night performances has increased in recent years, Ridgeway said, with many family groups and organizations holding picnics in the City Park to take advantage of the evening music.

The Kimberly businessman said he hopes the Twin Falls City Council will "select a middle course" in the proposed cut in financial support for the band.

"They should reduce everything say 10 per cent, so we can still have softball, the band and fireworks," he said. Supporters of the band are worried that with revenue losses posed by passage of the 1 per cent initiative the council could decide to eliminate the small-mill levy which supports the band.

The city band's budget has always been frugal compared to similar groups in Idaho, according to Ridgeway. The local budget has never exceeded $4,000, he said, compared to some $12,000 for the Boise city band.

Ridgeway agrees with many area residents that the weekly band concerts in the scenic Twin Falls City Park contribute to a quality of life here that is fast disappearing.

As one tourist said at a recent concert, "Think of this many people tearing themselves away from television."

While their financial outlay is modest, the band does have expenses. A sound system is necessary, music must be purchased and the larger instruments such as drums must be provided and insured.

According to Ridgeway a "pitance" goes for music since much of the repertoire of marches and familiar oldtime hit tunes can be reused over the years. And band uniforms wear out over the decades and must be replaced.

"At the end of the year we split up what money is left," Ridgeway said. Often it is between $50 to $80 for the entire season.

Some members drive regularly for the Tuesday practice and Thursday concerts from surrounding towns such as Jerome and Buhl to say nothing of Kimberly. Now with the price of gas, this has become costly for the individual members.

Ridgeway has a yellow clipping from the Times-News many years ago quoting from a letter a tourist wrote the Chamber of Commerce praising the city for providing such "beautiful music."

Ridgeway echoes her hope that the summer band concerts will continue for many others to enjoy.

Aside from his music, Ridgeway also has another hobby — golf. Terming himself an "occasional keeper," he nonetheless lets nothing keep him from his weekly Saturday morning trip to the greens.

Fortunately for his golf game, the city band never plays on Saturday.

Too young to rate a uniform, young Ridgeway is seated third from right in the second row

Social Security retirement sure after enough quarters worked

©Field Newspaper Syndicate
Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem that is answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am 57 years old. I worked in a Social Security-covered job for at least 25 years. I have not worked at all for the last 10 years. The Social Security office has written me that I have at least 40 quarters. Will I need to get a job these last five years if I intend to rely on Social Security at age 62?

HEARTLINE: No, you need never work again as far as your eligibility for Social Security retirement is concerned, since a person has met the quarter-of-coverage requirement, based upon his year of birth, he is eligible for retirement from that point on, as soon as he reaches the age of 62, or earlier if he becomes totally disabled.

HEARTLINE: Did every railroad retirement annuitant receive a cost of living increase in July? I received one, but a friend of mine did not receive his. — K.S.

HEARTLINE: Railroad retirement annuitants, like Social Security beneficiaries, have received cost of living increases that began with the monthly benefit payments made in the first part of July. Some increases have been delayed, but will be paid retroactively as soon as possible. These increases are provided through automatic cost of living provisions in the Railroad Retirement and Social Security Acts.

The following six questions and answers describe how the cost of living increases are applied to railroad retirement annuities.

1. How is the cost of living increase calculated for retired railroaders and their spouses?
Separate cost of living increases are made for each of the two tiers in employee and spouse annuities.

Tier I annuity portions, which are the equivalent of Social Security benefits, were increased by 9.9 percent, same as Social Security benefits. The 9.9 percent increase is equal to the rise in the Consumer Price Index from the first quarter of 1978 through the first quarter of 1979.

A separate 3.2 percent increase was made in certain tier II components of employee annuities and in the entire second tier of spouse annuities. The tier II increase, 3.2 percent of the rise in the Consumer Price Index, is the third of four such increases provided under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1974.

2. Did widow and other survivor annuitants receive a cost-of-living increase in their July payments?
Yes, and with some exceptions, those survivor annuitants not also receiving Social Security benefits received a 9.9 percent increase in both tiers of their annuities.

3. How about annuitants receiving both railroad retirement and Social Security benefits? Do they receive duplicate increases?
No. The tier I railroad retirement increase is reduced by the increase in the annuitant's Social Security benefit. However, the tier II increase is not affected by entitlement to Social Security benefits and would be payable in any case.

Certain windfall and windfall-type components which are payable over and above tiers I and II to preserve pre-1975 vested dual benefit rights are not subject to these cost-of-living increases.

4. When did annuitants receive their increases?
Most annuitants received their July 2 payment; the July 2 payment represents their annuity for June. The increases for some annuitants may have been delayed, but as soon as possible, such increases will be paid retroactively, so no benefits will be lost.

Beneficiaries are requested not to write to the Railroad Retirement Board regarding their increases at this time because it may delay the payment even longer.

5. Are the supplemental annuities paid by the board also being increased?
No. These supplemental annuities are not affected by cost-of-living increases.

6. Did Medicare premiums that are deducted from railroad retirement and/or Social Security benefits increase on July 1?
Yes, the basic Medicare premium was increased by 50 cents, from $3.20 to $3.70.

letter by "express mail." The U.S. Postal Service has recently announced the adoption of express mail — an official class for guaranteed same-day or overnight delivery of mail. Express Mail service is the first major new class of mail since the introduction of airmail in 1918.

Express mail began as an experimental overnight delivery service in 1970 between Washington, D.C., and New York City, and is now offered in most major metropolitan areas in the country. Its delivery — record during the years of testing shows that more than 95 percent of all shipments were delivered on time with over 99 percent of those delivered within 24 hours.

Basic features of express mail include: mailing items of up to 20 pounds, with merchandise insurance up to $500 and document reconstruction insurance up to $50,000 at no additional cost. Domestic shipments are guaranteed. If a customer's shipment is not available for pickup or isn't delivered at the stated time, postage can be refunded unless the delay was caused by a strike or work stoppage.

Four types of express mail service are offered: next-day office-to-post office address service; same-day airport-to-airport service; customer-designated service to and from any combination of the customer's premises, designated post offices or airport mail facilities; and international service to a limited number of countries.

For further information and details on the availability of express mail in your community, check with your local postmaster or postal customer service representative.

HEARTLINE: My husband and I are ages 65 and 66. We are both retired and are finding a lot of time on our hands with nothing to do. We have noticed your mention of the Pen Pal Club in your column but have been hesitant to write. We are both very much interested in other people and would enjoy sharing our experiences with others. We checked on several pen pal clubs and found that they cater to persons who are single. We would like to write to others as a hobby that we could share together. Is this acceptable in your club? — Ed E.

Yes, this is very acceptable to us. We have many husband and wife members in our club. And we also have many husbands and wives who are members singly, even though they are married. The only restriction we have in our club is that applicants be over the age of 50. This would be a very nice, and inexpensive, way for a married couple to write and meet other couples in their own area or in other parts of the country.

For full details on our club, write to Heartline's American 90 Club, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for information.

MR. AND MRS. DAN SEARS

Haertel-Sears

SEATTLE — Sharon Haertel of Seattle and Dan Sears of Twin Falls exchanged wedding vows July 7 at the Community Bible Chapel in Seattle.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Haertel of Seattle, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sears of Twin Falls.

The new couple will make their home in Seattle where they are both attending school at the Community Bible College.

Danny Kaye leads symphony

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Danny Kaye will conduct the Utah Symphony in a $100-a-seat benefit concert Nov. 3 to raise money for the orchestra.

"It may start-out formal, but it won't stay that way," said Kaye.

The red-haired movie star said he accepted the invitation to perform with the Utah Symphony as a favor to his friend Maurice Abravanel who stepped down this summer as conductor of the orchestra.

Kaye has performed with symphonies all over the world including the Boston Pops under the baton of the late Arthur Fiedler.

Kaye has raised more than $5 million for musicians' pension funds in his benefit appearances. He is not paid for the appearances.

Kaye cannot read a note of music.

Those donating the $100-a-seat fee are invited to attend a buffet supper and reception at the Hotel Utah with the guest conductor after the performance. Other tickets will be available for $17.50, $12.50 and $7.50.

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN K. PARRY

Wirth-Parry

TWIN FALLS — Penny R. Wirth of Kimberly and Steven K. Parry of Twin Falls exchanged wedding vows July 14 during a garden ceremony at the home of the bridegroom's parents with Bishop Steve Lund officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Selma Wirth of Kimberly, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Parry of Twin Falls.

Matron of honor was Trudy Given of Burley, sister of the bride. Terry Lee of Kimberly, sister of the bride, and Jenna Bouds of Upland, Calif., niece of the bride, were bridesmaids. Chelsea Parry was flower girl.

David Parry, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Dennis and Mike Parry, brothers of the bridegroom, and Joey Hansen were ushers. Casey Morgan was ringbearer.

A garden reception was held following the ceremony.

Kathy Thomas attended the registration table. Gift table attendants were Kelly Bouse, Sue Nauman, and Cheryl Crothers.

Debbie Parry and Kelli Fillmore served refreshments.

Entertainment was provided by Elisa Urle who sang.

Following a wedding trip to the Oregon coast, they will attend the College of Southern Idaho. They are both currently working at the Dalry Queen, where he is the assistant manager.

Civitan's accept woman

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Civitan Club has accepted its first female member, club officials said Wednesday.

She is Barbara MacNell, owner and manager of Snelling and Snelling Employment Agency in Twin Falls.

Civitan International is presently the only international service club open to both sexes, according to local club officials.

Civitan is involved in programs for the physically and mentally handicapped and developmentally disabled.

Locally the club is raising money for projects for the handicapped through candy boxes placed in restaurants and other business locations.

The Twin Falls Club also works on youth projects, such as the Inter-mountain Youth Seminar, a three-day conference on citizenship for high school students.

The Twin Falls Civitan Club meets at 6:45 a.m. Tuesdays at J.B. Big Boy. The public is invited. Anyone interested may phone Ted Winkler at 733-7750 or Ralph Gilne at 733-6899.

Never leave pet in hot auto

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
The Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a volunteer with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. So far this summer we have had several cases of pets who were overcome with heat prostration after having been left in automobiles parked in the hot sun.

A few years ago you had a terrific piece in your column about this problem. I am enclosing it. Would you please consider a rerun?

EILEEN R. IN DOVER, DEL.

DEAR EILEEN: You're doggone right I will.

DEAR PET OWNERS: With summer here, please do not take your pet along for the ride and leave him locked in a parked car while you run errands and shop.

When the temperature is 85 degrees outside, the temperature inside a parked car (even with the windows slightly open) will reach 102 degrees within 10 minutes. And in 30 minutes it will reach 120 degrees!

The normal body temperature of a dog is approximately 102 degrees, and it can withstand approximately 108 degrees for a very short time before suffering irreparable brain damage or death.

If you must leave your pet locked in a parked car — leave him home!

P.S. My pet consultant says, "NEVER park a car in the sun — even with the windows open — if a pet is inside."

DEAR ABBY: I have a strange problem. Should I be the matron of honor at my ex-husband's wedding?

I know the woman he's marrying (slightly) but we're really not all that close. I neither like nor dislike her. I still can't figure out why she asked me.

My husband has asked our two children, ages 5 and 9, to be in the wedding party, so, of course, they will be there. I am not carrying the torch for my ex, but I have no desire to attend this wedding.

How should I handle it? I don't want to make up any lies.

DEAR EX: Why lie? Decline with thanks. It's not necessary to explain why.

DEAR ABBY: Did a letter in your column ever ring a bell with us! Upon retiring and moving to San Diego several years ago, we started to hear from acquaintances from our home state. They said, "We've heard so much about San Diego — we'd love to come out and spend a week or so with you — seeing the sights and enjoying the weather."

Here's how we handled it: We'd write back saying, "We're so busy you're planning to come to San Diego. When you get here and GET SETTLED, be sure to give us a ring. We'd love to get together for a drink."

You'd be surprised at the number of people who wrote back to say, "We've changed our plans ... we'll take a raincheck."

We enjoy guests, but not the type who invite themselves.

NO FREELOADERS IN S.D.

Wedding bells in your future? Whether your lifestyle is bridal gown or blue jeans, Abby lays it all out for you in her booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long-stamped (38-cent) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Without spitting, baseball games would take only half hour

BY ERMA BOMBECK
© Field Enterprises, Inc.
I finally figured out what motivates a little boy to become a big league baseball player.
One day he gets sick of his mother nagging. "Don't wipe your hands off on your pants" . . . "Don't play in the dirt" . . . "Don't muss your hair up with that hat" . . . "Tuck your shirttail in" . . . "And for crying out loud, don't spit in public. It's disgusting!"

He stops. But he makes a promise to himself. "One of these days I'm going to grow up and do all those things I'm going to play professional baseball."

If all the spitting by ballplayers was cut out of a nine-inning baseball game could be played in 32 minutes give or take a few seconds.

As I was watching a major league game a few weeks ago, a relief pitcher approached the mound in a critical situation. He eyed his objective, scooped up a handful of dirt in his hands, tipped his hat, brim a few times, checked to see if everyone was in position, became very intense, wound-up and burnt it in.

Who knows what he did with the ball, but his spitting was impressive. Good, clean, no dribbling down the chin like a lot of rookies.

Other sports have a certain amount of grossness, but none to equal baseball.

Boxers swallow their mouthpieces in and out of their mouths.

Tennis players spit on their hands.

Basketball and football players gargle water which they never swallow.

Runners slobber a lot.

But the Gross Olympics has to be baseball.

Not everyone who spits is in the big leagues. Some are just beginning. There's the "Closet Spitter," who tucks up his lips and puts out a short spray so fast it is barely seen by the naked eye.

There's the Picket Fence Spitter, who has the advantage of a space between his teeth. These spritzes sometimes go 15-20 feet in the air. There are the ones who don't trust themselves and put their body at a 90-degree angle.

But the big leaguers are the ones who walk out in front of a crowd of 30,000 in the stands and a few million more watching on television; put their hands on their hips, face INTO the wind, get about three quartals of tobacco juice going for them and remember when their mothers used to nag, "Don't play with your gum, Howard!"

Dangerous objects in most homes

By Della O'Hara
1979 Chicago Sun-Times

There are dangerous objects lurking in your home that could harm you and your family, an internationally known scientist said.

Some home furnishings and objects like stairs, sinks, and toilets frequently are not built with humans in mind, said Dr. Gideon Ariel, a biomechanics professor at the University of California (Irvine) School of Medicine. Biomechanics is the study of the dynamics of motion of the human body.

At a recent builders' seminar on future housing, Ariel said major biomechanical changes have been brought about by furnishings rather than by architecture.

Ariel, who wrote about the need for biomechanical change in home design and furnishings in his book, "Optimum," uses computers to assess biomechanical studies he does working with athletes.

"Although most of our work is done in sports, we are applying it to the home," Ariel said. "It is our goal to provide the necessary data to make beds, chairs and other furnishings and architectural features more functional for the human body. In the future, computerized biomechanical analysis will illustrate how to design chairs that will accommodate each of the three 'S' positions," Ariel said.

"The worst chair in the home is in the bathroom. We are cursed with chair-style toilets that do not adjust for height and are biomechanically detrimental to the human body," Ariel said.

Ariel said stairs, which were standardized by a Frenchman in 1872, are also a serious biomechanical threat to health.

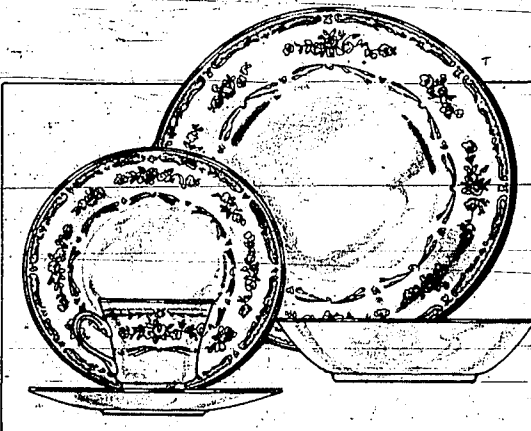

"The dimensions of stairs are completely out of whack with human movements. No wonder the National Injury Clearinghouse recently placed stairs second only to bicycles as the cause of accidents within and around the home," he said. "Architects and builders must adapt the design of staircases to more easily facilitate the motion of the average human being's body."

Ariel also criticized:

- Sinks. "The height of bathroom sinks is another instance where a concern for the aesthetics of grooming might be a biomechanical disaster. Given a choice between a spashed shift front and a ruptured spinal disc, most humans would apparently prefer the former. Sinks ought to be raised."

- Beds. "The soft mattress is seductive, but in reality it can cause harmful curvature of the spine. Water beds are the epitome of the soft mattress; biomechanically, they make no sense at all. We're working on developing inflatable pockets within the mattress that would adjust to the form of the body and not allow it to sag."

The usual height of beds off the floor has nothing to do with good biomechanical sense. The back suffers every time one bends from the waist to pick up sheets or blankets. Chronic back-scratchers can protect themselves by squatting or kneeling while making the bed.

Too low or too high temperatures affect fruit set on tomatoes

TOMATO TROUBLES: People are asking us all sorts of questions about their tomato plants. Here are a few: Poor fruit set. Due to too low or too high temperatures. Night temperatures between 70 and 75 degrees and day temperatures between 80 and 90 degrees are fine for fruit setting of tomatoes. Such temperatures will also produce larger fruit. Night temperatures either below 60 degrees or above 80 degrees and day temperatures above 90 degrees are unfavorable to fruit set. Poor fruit set has nothing to do with too much nitrogen, extra leaf growth, irrigation or rain. None of these factors is a direct cause, although many feel that excessive amounts of nitrogen may be a contributing factor. Large vine growth is more often the result of poor fruit setting than the cause. Maintaining a good level of moisture in the soil is essential for good fruit set and high yields. A serious shortage of moisture will reduce fruit set. Does sprinkling affect fruit set? No. The failure of a flower to set is determined 10 to 14 days prior to the time the flower actually falls off. Thus sprinkling at the time of blossom drop has nothing to do with the fruit set problem. Sunscald — light grass scalded spots. Usually worse on heavily pruned vines. Avoid varieties with sparse foliage. Rolling and curling of the leaves. This is a common problem following extended periods of wet weather. Most likely to occur on plants in poorly drained soils, and shows up after close cultivation, or heavy pruning. Dry weather may cause leaf curl and roll. Some varieties have genetic leaf curl, also aster yellows may cause it. Rolling starts on lower leaves, proceeds upward. In severe cases rolled leaves are thick and tend to rattle when the plant is shaken. Rolling is worse on staked tomatoes. Heavy rains and winds which whip and rattle older rolled leaves may be responsible for vines losing leaves. AVOCADO: Your plant should be outdoors in a semi-shaded spot now. Keep the soil uniformly moistened. Overwatering or poor drainage will cause bottom leaves to drop or turn black. If yours is tall and gangly, you may be able to cut the top out; although the best time for this is when the plant is about 12 inches tall. Pinching will induce some branches to form. Give the plant a liquid feeding for nice foliage. We've had one gardener tell us she had a which formed a stem. Before frost in bring your plant indoors and enjoy it for the winter.

NOW'S THE TIME TO... Snip off scraggly petunias. Cut them back half for more blossoms. Be sure to clip off flower stalks of clematis since they aren't showy. If you're going on vacation for a week or so, set your violets on a well-soaked 10-inch layer of builder's sand in a big wash tub. Run up fallen apple nuts, etc., and place in a plastic bag, haul to the dump. Soak brand new clay pots in water overnight. A dry clay pot will draw water from the soil.

TEA LEAVES AND PLANTS: People ask us if it pays to open-up spent tea bags and use the leaves for house plant soils. Use of spent tea, coffee and other organic materials has been recognized for years. They are all organic and thus supply small amounts of plant nutrients and carbon-to-stimulate organisms in the soil. No reason why you can't add them to the compost pile or use as a soil amendment. These waste materials are not a substitute for regular feeding, but they do more good in a soil than they do in a landfill.

LETTUCE: You should be enjoying your home grown lettuce, but just in case you bought some head lettuce in the store and noticed rusty brown streaks inside, don't worry about it. It's not a disease, but is harmless. They are usually a result of maturity and a lack of proper refrigeration. Lettuce can also "russet" from apples, melons and tomatoes. These and other fruits give off ethylene gas as they ripen causing rust in greens. Store head lettuce in the coldest part of your refrigerator — away from apples. You can even wrap it airtight in plastic.

UMBRELLA PLANT: What causes tips of the leaves of Schefflera to turn brown? Blame it on dry soil, overwatering, or poor drainage. Don't use the plant near a fan or an air-conditioner as they can also cause browning of tips.

MILDEW TIME: Perennial phlox, roses, lilac and other plants are apt to have their leaves turn to a powdery white. That's mildew, a fungus harder to eradicate than to prevent. Spray your plants every 10 days with Benlate to check or prevent mildew. Phloxes and roses are also excellent on roses and phlox. You can do a lot to keep diseases away by removing old and dead flowers from rose bushes, zinnias, and other items such as marigolds and asters. In fact, nearly all garden plants should have spent blooms removed to help stimulate new flower production. If insects are a problem on your ornamentals, use Sevin (Carbaryl) to check all leaf chewing types. The insecticides and fungicides can be used together.

GALLS ON TREES: Those abnormal growths you see on willows, maples and trunks of other trees are "burrs," globular swellings. They are twisted and are due to an accumulation of layers of cells. They are often solid and convoluted into fantastic patterns, much prized by cabinet-makers.

The cause? The disturbance may be due to insects, bacteria, fungi, mechanical wounding, some fungi causes the protoplasm in cells to go haywire.

Should you cut them off? No. Don't fool with them, and don't feel they cause human cancer as some rumors would lead you to believe.

Pineapples make good houseplant

By RICHARD DELCANO
Chicago Sun-Times

Pineapples are plentiful in produce departments these days and therein lies the material for an interesting houseplant.

Chop off the top and eat the delicious fruit, but don't discard that top. You can root it and have a novel houseplant. First, not every pineapple top will root successfully. Here is how to do it. Scrape out the fruit part still left in the top but do not disturb the tough, fibrous core in the center. This is where the roots will eventually form.

Let the scooped out top dry a little in the air to reduce the opportunity for rot to get started. The top is now ready for rooting in soil. But this must be a rather special soil, one that drains freely. You can use a mixture of half sand and half garden soil, or half sand and half peat moss. Plant the top very shallowly. Barely cover the disk that is attached to the tuft of leaves.

An alternative is to place the cured pineapple top in fine gravel in a six-inch pot.

Family estate trusts violate the law, claims IRS

(First of two columns)

Wouldn't you listen eagerly if you were told how you could slash or even wipe out your personal income taxes?

Wouldn't you at least be attentive to a salesperson with impressive credentials who promised you that with a little time and effort, you could preserve your hard-earned income from an ever-growing tax bite?

The technique relies on a legal instrument as time-tested as our system of law: the trust.

The world's wealthiest families have long used the trust to conserve and accumulate their assets — and now the promoters say it can work for you and your family, too.

And the best part of the procedure, they claim, is that despite its best efforts, the Internal Revenue Service has been unable to find any valid arguments against using these trusts to reduce or eliminate your tax bill.

NOT TRUE!

Contrary to the sales pitch, the IRS contends that family estate trusts clearly violate the law, and the Tax Court has consistently backed the IRS, says Mary A. Nease, a tax partner of Seidman & Seidman, the national accounting firm.

The claims of the marketing organizations promoting the family estate trust concept are attracting increasing numbers of taxpayers as inflation and prosperity among specific occupations push more and more Americans into higher income tax brackets. While the concept was developed back in the 1930s, there has been a recent resurgence in its popularity.

The trusts are marketed under several names, among them: "Family Estate (A Trust)," "pure trust," "pure estate trust," "educational trust," "constitutional trust."

Behind them are such high-sounding organizations as Educational Scientific Publishers, the Institute of Individual Religious Studies, the National Pure Trust Services, and National Pure Trust Services.

While the individual products may vary slightly, the basic idea is for you, the taxpayer, to establish a trust and transfer to the trust all your real and personal property.

You, the income-earner (physician, salesperson, etc.) also (and this is the key to the scheme) give the trust the exclusive right to your services and remuneration. You, the transferor, get back certificates of beneficial interest in the trust.

Once all of your assets and income are shifted to the trust, the trust (rather than the individual) is supposed to be the taxing entity. Since the trust legally owns all the assets transferred to it, it pays all the expenses of managing the assets. For instance, the trust would make all your mortgage payments and pay maintenance expenses — of your personal residence.

Typically, husband-and-wife serve as trustees and receive compensation for their administrative services. In addition, the trust often will give the individual (you) certain fringe benefits — such as pension rights, tax-free use of your personal residence, an educational endowment for your children.

All these expenses are deducted by the trust. It deducts payments made to family members as well and therefore pays little or no tax. In addition, the portion of the trust's income which is distributed is allocated to the various family members, including the children, all of whom usually are in lower tax brackets than you.

The product sold by the promoters is not the trust itself, but an educational course to teach you how to establish the trust — at a cost ranging from $1,750 up, depending on your gross income and net worth. The sales pitch primarily emphasizes the income tax savings.

Other benefits — avoidance of probate, elimination of the need for malpractice insurance, reduction in estate and inheritance taxes, the like are cited, too, by the promoter.

It is obviously an intriguing sales pitch — but any taxpayer who has naively followed the promoter's claims that by merely creating a separate taxable entity, an individual can avoid personal taxes has learned it isn't that easy — not by a long, long shot.

Next: IRS strongly opposes family estate trusts, and how courts have viewed these arrangements. ©Field Enterprises, Inc.

American Airlines' pylon maintenance questioned

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — American Airlines decided to remove the supporting pylons from its DC-10s as a single unit for maintenance even though the planes' manufacturer, disapproved of the practice, an American official said Wednesday.

William S. Fey, manager of American's DC-10 fleet, testified in the second week of hearings by the National Transportation Safety Board into the crash of American Flight 191. The crash killed 273 people.

Fey said he asked officials of McDonnell Douglas Corp., manufacturer of the DC-10, in March 1977 what they thought about lowering the plane's engine and its pylon as one unit for maintenance. He testified the company's response left him with the impression the airplane manufacturer did not approve of the single-unit procedure.

The maintenance procedure is a central issue in the investigation of the crash, the worst air disaster in United States history.

McDonnell Douglas' maintenance manual recommends removing the DC-10's engine first, then the pylon, and remounting them one after the other.

However, Fey said, American established the standard procedure of lowering the engine and mounting assembly as a single unit, using a fork lift, to save time and prevent other complications.

It takes about 80 hours to service the engine, McDonnell Douglas has procedure is used—about 36 hours using the fork-lift shortcut, Fey said.

Safety board investigators believe the pylon on the plane which crashed cracked when mechanics lowered the engine and pylon together to replace bearings.

The pylon and engine ripped off Flight 191 on takeoff, ruining hydraulic lines needed to control the plane and knocking out key instruments that would have warned the pilot of the problems affecting his plane.

The plane went into a roll to the left and crashed in a ball of flame 31 seconds later.

Fey was questioned about his role in devising the controversial maintenance procedure and whether he had consulted with McDonnell Douglas officials about it. He testified he contacted Charles W. O'Connell, production engineering specialist for McDonnell Douglas, to discuss the single-unit concept.

Asked whether O'Connell indicated McDonnell Douglas' opinion on the procedure, Fey responded, "He gave me the feeling that McDonnell-Douglas did not approve of this procedure."

Fey also testified, however, he observed no movement of the engine and pylon while it sat on the forklift at the time the procedure was first being used at American's maintenance facility in Los Angeles.

"There was no movement, no side movement," he said. "The engine and pylon came down perfectly."

Pleasure boats' lockings wasteful

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Pleasure boat riders who use the Snorkel boat locking systems to pass between dams are consuming millions kilowatt hours of electricity and it's probable this could be avoided.

That was the bottom line of a recently completed study by Washington State University researchers Dr. Charles Millham and Charles Culver.

The study found that nearly 82 million kilowatt hours of energy worth up to $4.5 million, were lost due to pleasure boat lockings through the eight dams.

Field last September which killed 141 people, who is spending the summer recess in Ogden, said the Instrument landing system is designed to electronically guide airplanes to the airport's runway.

The new ground equipment will consist of two directional transmitting systems and up to three marker beacons.

McKay said it is hoped that the advanced equipment, which is already on order by the FAA, will make the Provo Airport more attractive and useful to private and commercial flyers.

The new program also means the Provo facility will be in line for federal assistance for improvement projects, such as runway repaving and taxi area expansion, which are needed to handle increased traffic.

Installation of the electronic gear is expected to begin in 1980.

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — The Provo Airport is one of two dozen airports nationwide that will receive a new instrument landing system as part of a $100 million federal program to coax private planes away from major airports, Rep. Gunn McKay said Wednesday.

McKay, D-Utah, said the Provo Airport is among 24 that will receive the sophisticated new equipment under the first phase of a Federal Aviation Administration program to improve airport safety.

FAA Administrator Langhorne Bond outlined the so-called "satellite airport" program Tuesday. The goal of the program is to divert private aircraft traffic from major airports used by the nation's commercial airliners.

The project was prompted by the mid-air collision between a private plane and a Pacific Airways jetliner approaching San Diego's Lindbergh

Casinos win in Nevada

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada casinos won a record near $2 billion during the last fiscal year despite a spring slowdown in the tourist trade because of the gasoline problems, the state Gaming Commission reported Wednesday.

The winnings, computed before business expenses and taxes are deducted, were 18.4 percent over the previous fiscal year. The state received $125 million in taxes.

Jack Stratton of the state Gaming Control Board noted that in the final quarter of the fiscal year, casino winnings increased only at a rate of 10.5 percent a year.

"This is not as bad as it could have been," he said there were problems with the gasoline shortage, the strike by United Air Lines and the talk of a recession during the Spring.

Canadian company asks for Washington pipeline permit

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — The Transmountain Pipeline Co. of Canada says it will apply for a permit from Washington state to build an oil superhighway at Low Point on the Olympic Peninsula and a pipeline north to Alberta.

The pipeline would run under Puget Sound, across Whidbey Island and then north along the coast to the current right-of-way to Edmonds. There it would link up with existing lines to northern states.

The company's preferred route has been known for some time but it has not yet made a formal application to the State Energy Facility Site Evaluation Council. Company President Ken Hall says that application will come August 21.

Transmountain is competing with the Northern Tier Pipeline Co. and two other firms for the right to carry Alaska's oil foreign crude from the West Coast to the interior United States.

Elimination from register

BOISE (UPI) — The Boise Redevelopment Agency has endorsed an application to remove the Eastman Building from the National Register of Historic Places, allowing developers to demolish the building as part of a downtown redevelopment project.

The agency said the 74-year-old building should be removed from the protection of the register because errors were made in the 1978 application to have it placed on the register.

A citizens group has been fighting to keep the building intact. Under redevelopment plans, only the building's entrance arch would be preserved.

Nevada seeks consultant for gas plan

CARSON CITY (UPI) — The state Energy Department said Wednesday it has started its search for a private consultant to draft a plan for Nevada to use, to buy up to $10 million in gasoline on the world market in case of a shortage here.

The 1979 Legislature approved a bill allowing the state to get into the gasoline business if supplies from its regular sources became critically short.

Gov. Robert List said the fuel supplies have been relatively stable lately in Nevada.

Lamm to stay on state level

ASPEREN, Colo. (UPI) — Gov. Richard Lamm has no plans to leave state government for a position on the federal level.

In the midst of a three-day "summer" meeting with his cabinet and staff, Lamm said Tuesday he would — under no circumstances — consider an elective or appointive office in the federal government.

"I simply do not want to live in Washington," Lamm said.

Lamm also hinted he might consider seeking a third four-year term as governor in 1982. He noted that Colorado law does not restrict the number of terms a governor can serve and also noted former Gov. John Love served nearly 10 years.

The governor also said he would not consider being an ambassador because it would detract from his family life.

During Tuesday's round-table discussion of state problems, Lamm suggested the administration should make a "major new thrust" in the 1980 Legislature to crack down on drunken driving.

The governor said the state's implied consent law was not doing what it was designed to accomplish and said he thought "a mandatory one-day jail sentence sure would be a great addition to it."

The three-day meeting was scheduled to conclude Wednesday at the Aspen Institute.

Audubon Society plans bald eagles protection

PHOENIX (UPI) — A plan to protect the nesting habitat of Bald Eagles along the Salt and Verde Rivers was outlined Wednesday by the Maricopa Audubon Society.

Dr. Robert Witzeman, conservation chairman of the society, said that the U.S. Forest Service was working on a plan to restore and protect cottonwood trees along the rivers.

"Less than a dozen pairs of bald eagles now nest in a vast, seven-state region of the arid southwestern United States. These eagles are making a valiant stand on the few last remaining, undammed segments of streamside habitat on the Salt and Verde Rivers," Witzeman said.

Hospital releases Siamese twin

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Lisa Hansen, separated Siamese twin, has been released from the University of Utah Medical Center after doctors corrected two stitches in the top of her head.

Hospital spokesman John Dwan said Wednesday doctors would no longer release information on the twins unless there is a major change in their condition or major surgery is planned.

Lisa and Elissa, who were born 20 months ago joined at the top of the head, were separated two months ago in a 16½ hour operation.

Elissa was admitted to the hospital two weeks ago after spinal fluid began leaking from the seam on her head. Doctors performed minor surgery and she was listed in stable condition.

Lisa was admitted to the medical center Tuesday with a similar problem but doctors determined they only needed to fix two stitches.

Dwan said that doctors expect the twins to be in and out of the hospital regularly during the next couple of years for followup and plastic surgery as they grow.

Girl dies from hailstone

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — A 3-month-old girl hit by a large hailstone died at Poudre Valley Memorial Hospital late Tuesday, eight days after the accident.

Jolene Kapelman was believed to be only the second person in the country to have died from an injury suffered by a hailstone, according to the local office of the National Weather Service.

The child was struck in the head

July 30 while in her mother's arms. She had not regain consciousness since she was hospitalized.

Hailstones the size of grapefruit pummeled the Fort Collins area that day, injuring more than 20 people. The storm also caused widespread damage to cars, windows, roofs and crops.

The latest estimate on the amount of damage from the storm was at least $30 million.

County, tax officials agree to meeting

By DOUG TULLIS
Times-News writer

GOODING — State tax commission and Gooding County officials have agreed that a show-cause hearing scheduled for Monday be canceled and instead, the officials will meet out of court.

Fifth District Judge Douglas Kramer issued a show cause order at the request of the tax commission last month demanding to know why Gooding County Assessor Wes Tronson and the Gooding County Commission have not initiated plans to meet the 1 percent law.

The Monday court appearance would have given county officials a chance to explain their reasons for not complying with several tax commission orders to reassess property in the county. Instead, the parties will meet in an attempt to negotiate a settlement.

In the legal brief filed when the tax commission requested a show-cause order, tax officials claim Tronson refused to meet several commission orders to reassess property including the latest order for reassessment for the 1 percent law. The tax commission asked each county to submit a "comprehensive plan" detailing the manpower and office space needs of each county, and a listing of how those counties will meet the property tax limiting law.

Tronson's plan for meeting the law was a one-page typewritten letter that stated: "In order to comply with requirements of HB 166 I submit the following plan: It will be necessary for my office to hire three additional appraisers, each appraiser to receive an annual salary of $10,000.

"We will require approximately 600 additional square feet of office and working space.

"My completion date is May 1980.

"I will await further clarification and directives from the state tax commission.

"I wish it to be a matter of record that I consider HB 166 a very ambiguous and unworkable bit of legislation. However, I will implement it to the best of my ability and resources available.

"I submit this plan and statements to you (the county commission) to be forwarded to the state tax commission on or before April 1979."

Tax commission officials have said the Gooding County plan was inadequate and asked Tronson to submit a more comprehensive plan. That plan was not submitted and the tax commission sought and was granted the show-cause order.

Tax Commissioner Donald Loveland told the Times-News Wednesday the tax commission preferred to negotiate an agreement out of court.

He said commission personnel have yet to examine Gooding County tax rolls and added they have no idea how much work is needed to bring Gooding County records in line with the 1 percent law.

Tronson has said he has never refused tax commission officials access to county records, but has turned down their offer of "kind assistance" in helping the county meet the new law.

Loveland said he was not apprehensive of facing a court challenge of the county's anti-inflation property reassessment but added the commission has no plans to challenge the 1 percent law in court.

The officials are scheduled to meet at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Gooding County Courthouse.

New fire limitations in effect

TWIN FALLS — Continued high fire danger has prompted state and federal officials to place fire restrictions to effect on five national forest and state and private forested lands in southern Idaho.

The restrictions take effect at midnight tonight.

Affected areas include the Boise, Payette, Challis, Salmon, and Sawtooth national forests; the Boise unit of the Snake River Valley Southern Idaho Protective District; and the state and private lands within the above named national forests.

Under the restrictions, open campfires will be permitted only in fireplaces located in developed recreation sites. Recreationists using undeveloped forest areas must confine fires to self-contained stoves. Pan fire regulations in effect on the Middle Fork and Main Salmon rivers will not be affected by the restrictions.

Smoking will be prohibited except within an enclosed vehicle, building, or boat or raft, or while stopped in an area cleared of flammable materials. Woodsmen are reminded to exercise extreme caution and be sure to have the required shovel and fire extinguisher with them. Chainsaws must be equipped with an approved spark arrester. Industrial and wood operations are urged to check their operations for compliance with required state and federal fire tool regulations.

Sawtooth National Forest Supervisor Paul Barker stated that while the laws don't change, he is urging them to have a shovel, axe, and bucket in their possession should the need for their use arise.

The fire restrictions will remain in effect until weather conditions cause a reduction in the fire danger levels. Officials state that fire restrictions for north Idaho forested lands were placed in effect on July 26.

Correction

JEROME — Jerome County's budget will only increase about 7 percent for the 1979-80 fiscal year, according to county officials.

It was inaccurately reported in Wednesday's Times-News that the budget would be up nearly $500,000 or 50 percent above the 1978-79 budget.

The Times-News regrets the error. The new budget tentatively has been set at $1,578,371. That compares to $1,461,459 budgeted in 1978-79.

Just how the proposed 7 percent increase will be covered, now that tax revenues have been frozen under the 1 percent law, has not been broken down by County Clerk Glenda Mogens.

She said she would have the breakdown early next week on how much of the budget would be covered by tax revenues, federal revenue sharing, grants and other income sources.

Scouting a demolition

Heindel drew up the specifications for the building's demolition and will also design the replacement building. Wednesday was the final day for prospective demolition contractors to inspect the former school.

In the valley

Bridge being sandblasted

TWIN FALLS — Workers will begin sandblasting the Singing Bridge today in preparation for painting, according to William Merritt, resident engineer at the Twin Falls office of the Idaho Highway Department.

Traffic flow on the bridge will be narrowed to one lane of traffic for one or two days next week, said Merritt. L and T Paint Contractors of Focatello has contracted with the highway department for the job.

Family hurt in accident

TWIN FALLS — A California man Wednesday was listed in critical condition after the truck he had been driving rolled over six times, Idaho State Police said.

Donald Sorenson, 29, of Milford, Calif., was eastbound on I-80, four miles east of the Kimberly-Twin Falls exit, when he apparently lost control of the wheel about 5:30 a.m.

State Police Capt. Jerry Atherton reported Sorenson lost control of his 1973 Chevrolet Blazer traveling 65-60 mph, went off the right side of the road and then overcorrected. The truck then rolled over six times, coming to rest on its top.

Sorenson, his wife Vicki, 28, and their two children, Benjamin, 5, and Jacob, 1, were all ejected from the rolling vehicle.

The family was taken by Jerome Ambulance to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Twin Falls loses power

TWIN FALLS — A section of Twin Falls was without electricity for five minutes Wednesday morning as the result of a construction crew mistake.

The Idaho Power Co. crew, working along Addison Avenue West, let a pole-anchoring cable brush against a live feeder line, according to Jan Packwood, electrical superintendent for the company.

The short circuit immediately tripped a circuit breaker to prevent injury to the crew, Packwood said, but power was restored at 10:33 a.m.

The outage affected about 680 customers in the area west of Shoshone Street and south of Addison Avenue, he said.

Phone cable cut

HAILEY — Halley and Bellevue residents with 788- prefixes were unable to make or receive long distance phone calls, or to call Ketchum and Sun Valley for about an hour and a half Wednesday, due to an underground cable being cut.

According to local Mountain Bell Telephone Co. Manager Bill House, a contractor was installing a water line in the Indian Creek area just north of Halley, when the cable was cut at around 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Service was restored at 12:30 p.m.

Band ends season

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Band concludes its 74th season tonight with the final concert of the season at 8:15 p.m. in the City Park.

The repertoire will feature several marches, including two familiar John Phillip Sousa numbers — "U.S. Field Artillery March" and "Stars and Stripes Forever," and "The Patten March" by Jerry Goldsmith.

Hadley expressed appreciation to area residents for their support of the weekly band concerts this summer.

"If you want the band to play next summer, contact the city councilmen and make your opinion known," the director said.

Pocatellan injured

TWIN FALLS — Ralph Graham, 27, of Pocatello, was admitted to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Wednesday morning after a car accident on state highway 50 near its intersection with Interstate 80 at about 7:50 a.m., according to state police officer Jerry Atherton.

Graham, driving a sedan, was pulling out of a gasoline station at the intersection when he was hit by a GMC pickup truck driven by Sheila Sellers, 25, of Hazelton. Ms. Sellers was heading south toward the Hansen Bridge. The impact spun the sedan around, Atherton said.

Ski rate increase approved

SUN VALLEY — Lift rate increases averaging 3.89 percent sought by the Sun Valley Co. for the coming ski season have been approved by Sawtooth National Forest Supervisor Paul Barker.

The increases include a raise in the daily lift ticket price on Bald Mountain from $15 to $16, and from $9 to $10.50 for half day passes.

Barker judged the proposed rates based on three criteria:

• Do the proposed rates meet the president's anti-inflation guideline of 9.5 percent or less on a weighted average?

• Are the rates comparable and in line with similar rates at other major destination ski areas?

• Are the rates reasonable?

"The rates approved for Sun Valley are comparable with other major destination ski areas, and are within the president's anti-inflation guidelines," Barker said. "In applying the test of reasonableness, I considered comments from the public, including the Skiflation Committee, the relationship of Sun Valley's rates and the quality of skiing offered there with other local areas, and the rate of inflation relative to lift price increases the past two years."

The Ketchum-based Skiflation members sought to keep lift rates at last season's levels, and were unsuccessful last year in appealing increases granted by the Forest Service for 1978-79.

"We felt that, given the increases last year, they should not be allowed to raise them again," Skiflation member Brad Roos said. "The Forest Service has once again done their best to basically cop out, and hide behind their bureaucratic curtain without making any relevant decision, and trying their best not to become the watchdog-agency that they are supposed to be in regard to special permits." Does the Skiflation committee plan to appeal Barker's decision? "We really haven't had time to decide but I foresee the possibility of it happening," Roos said Wednesday.

When asked for his reaction to Barker's decision, Sun Valley Co. spokesman Chuck Webb said, "We are very disappointed to present and maintain one of the best ski areas in the country, so we're very happy about the decision." The company is spending between $300,000 and $400,000 this year to present improvements on Baldy, including the addition of 41 acres where artificial snow can be made on the north side of the mountain.

Paving in Filer gets underway

FILER — Paving will begin today on Fair Avenue at Filer.

Curbs and gutters have been added to the road, which has also been widened. All improvements will be completed in time for the Twin Falls County Fair, which opens Sept. 5, according to William Merritt, resident engineer for the Idaho Highway Department.

Residents testify to sludge odor problem

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "The most foul gut sick smell I've ever smelled."

"Like the odor that's in a Forest Service outhouse greatly multiplied."

"It persists all summer."

"It lingers through the house."

Those and other descriptions of the odor caused by the disposal of sewage sludge near the Twin Falls airport Wednesday dominated the third day of a court hearing into the practice.

The hearing continues today, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Fifth District Judge Theron Ward will preside.

The odor is caused by the disposal of partially treated sewer sludge at the site. The city has had to resort to the practice since the breakdown of a major sludge-treating component in its sewage treatment plant.

The city feels its practice solves one problem until alternative sites are approved by the Bureau of Land Management.

But the people living in the surrounding area described the odors as unpleasant, obnoxious, and occasionally downright unbearable.

About 50 of them filed suit against the city earlier this summer to halt the practice through a court-ordered injunction.

The city sought to show Monday and Tuesday that the practice does not pose a health hazard, that it has been approved by environmental and governmental agencies, and that it is looking for alternative sites.

Wednesday marked the beginning of the plaintiff's testimony. Much of it came from the residents.

Under questioning from plaintiff counsel Lloyd Webb, most said the intensity and the frequency of the sludge odors had changed little since the city began dicing it into the soil.

Changes in sites and application methods used have helped little, they added.

And there is little relief from the odors short of leaving their homes, they said.

"After years of smelling fresh air at my place, I suddenly was smelling disagreeable odors," Gene Anthis of Twin Falls said. "Myself, it bothers me. At supper time I get to smelling that . . . it bothers me and upsets my stomach."

Anthis added efforts to keep the odors out of his home are not successful.

John Coleman of Twin Falls said the odor in early July "was so strong that morning I didn't want to take a deep breath."

Many of the witnesses said wind would carry the odors from the site to their homes, most of which lie within a three-mile radius of the site.

But city attorney Charles Brumbach took issue with some of that testimony, pointing out conflicting wind pattern descriptions.

Donna Dohse of Twin Falls said the sludge site had contributed to, a proliferation of rodent and insect populations in that area.

She said she had seen considerably more rabbits and coyotes in the sludge site area. The ground squirrel population at the site was also growing, Ms. Dohse said.

"And mice . . . I'm constantly buying mousetraps and they're fat mice," she added.

Brumbach noted rodent, rabbit and insect populations increase and decline in cycles that were unrelated to the sludge disposal operation. He suggested any population insect growth may have resulted from canals and farm ponds.

Webb also called two witnesses challenging some of the positions taken earlier by the defense.

Twin Falls soil specialist Dale Stukhnitz reported analysis findings showing quantities of coliform bacteria in several sludge and soil samples.

Fecal coliform is a bacteria found in the human intestine.

Brumbach countered, noting the analysis made no distinction between the amount of total coliform and that of fecal coliform.

He added fecal coliform has not been shown to be pathogenic.

Stukhnitz added the possibility existed for the transportation of contaminated soil by erosion or vectors.

Barbara Crawford of Twin Falls testified a spring thaw-flood sent run-off sewage, presumably from a nearby disposal site onto her property.

Ms. Crawford said she had heard sludge had been disposed at the Ellis Fuller property located seven miles south of Twin Falls.

Under cross examination by Brumbach, she acknowledged never actually seeing any sludge at the site. But she added the smell was distinct.

"I know something was being dumped there," she said.

School registration slated

TWIN FALLS — Kindergarten, elementary and junior high school students in Twin Falls will begin the 1979-80 school year Aug. 27. Twin Falls High School students will begin registration Aug. 24.

Faculty members will arrive at 8:30 a.m. Aug. 22 in the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School auditorium for a general faculty meeting.

All new elementary students who have not registered should do so by Aug. 20. Enrollment forms are to be completed at the time of registration. All new enrollees, grades kindergarten through third, are required to present proof of immunizations which include DPT, polio, measles, mumps, and rubella shots before entering school. Elementary classes will begin Aug. 27 at 9 a.m.

Robert Stuart Junior High School students did not register last spring may do so anytime during the week of Aug. 13. All Robert Stuart Junior High School students are to report to their "roll room" at 8:55 a.m. Aug. 27, with classes scheduled from 8:55 a.m. to 3:10 p.m. Locker and activity fees of $7.50 will be collected Aug. 31.

All Vera C. O'Leary Junior High

School students are to pick up class enrollment sheets and pay $7.50 locker and activity fees the week of Aug. 20 through Aug. 24. New O'Leary Junior High students may register at this time. All O'Leary senior graders are to report to the auditorium Aug. 27 at 8:55 a.m. for orientation. O'Leary eighth and ninth graders are to report to their "roll room." Classes are scheduled for 8:55 a.m. to 3:10 p.m.

Twin Falls Senior High School student registration is as follows: seniors will register on Aug. 24; juniors on Aug. 27; sophomores on Aug. 28. Each day students with last names beginning with E-H will register at 8:30 a.m.; N-S at 9:30 a.m.; A-D at 10:30 a.m.; I-M at 12:30 p.m.; and T-Z at 1:30 p.m. All senior high school students are to register at the assigned times and late arriving students will not be admitted until all others have completed registration.

High school registration fees total $23.50 for activity card, locker and towel fees, and class dues. The High School Annual will cost $11.50. Classes begin on Aug. 29. All students will report to the gymnasium at 9 a.m. for an opening assembly.

School lunch will be served the first day, Aug. 27, in all elementary and junior high schools. Lunches will be served at the high school beginning Aug. 29. School lunch prices are: elementary students, 50¢; junior-high/senior-high students, 60¢; adults, $1; extra milk, 15¢. Free lunch applications will be distributed to all students the week of Aug. 27. Qualified applicants are to return the completed application form to the school.

Magic Valley Head Start recruits

MAGIC VALLEY — Head Start preschools in Twin Falls, Burley, and Jerome are recruiting 4-year olds from low-income families for the coming school year.

Children who are 4 by Oct. 15 or children between 3 and 6 years with special needs will be considered for the program. Applications must show family income.

Although 10 percent of the students may be over the income guidelines, the rest must be from families with a gross income below a certain level. For example, an eligible family of four must have an income below $8,700 a year, or $5,700 if they live on a farm.

Handicapped children who apply are given top priority.

In addition to education, Head Start children are given medical and dental screenings.

Although applications are accepted throughout the year, Head Start classes are starting to be filled by Aug. 25. Interested parents may call 733-9351 to ask about the program.

Head Start classrooms are at 329 Madison St. in Twin Falls, 1501 Oakley Ave. in Burley, and the National Guard Armory in Jerome. Program director Donna Sur is still negotiating for facilities in Buhl.

Dolly Parton act Boisean close to real thing

BOISE (UPI) — Without balloons in her blouse and a blonde wig on her head, Dee Carter looks very little like Dolly Parton.

But when the 32-year-old singer dons costume items and uses the natural Kansas twang in her voice to sing Dolly's country-western songs, Boiseans listen, gaze and hear something close to the real thing.

Miss Carter, who appropriately enough bills herself as Mollie Parton, says her imitation of Dolly "is meant as a joke."

"I don't look like her," says Miss Carter. "I'm very small — I'm 5-foot-4 and she's a lot heavier built. She's bigger-endowed."

Miss Carter concludes her act by removing twin balloons from her blouse and tossing them into the audience.

"They seem to really get off on it. They think it's pretty funny."

The comic atmosphere of it all, however, has put smiles on the faces of Miss Carter and her employers at Dino's, a Boise nightclub. Most evenings since "Mollie" made her debut in June the place has been packed. Waiting lines string into the parking lot on Fridays and Saturdays.

"Mollie" says she has perfected the country star's footwear and mannerisms. "I'm always dressed in baby blue or pink and I do the Dolly Parton bounce, where she moves from side to side and keeps time with her feet. And I've been told I sound a lot like her."

Miss Carter says she dreamed up the Parton routine in June.

Miss Carter says she thinks Dolly would be flattered if she knew she was being imitated.

"Dolly Parton to me is one of a kind. I think it would be less than complimentary if you didn't use her name."

Faculty pay equity sought

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Board of Education agreed Wednesday to seek over a 4-year period, equity adjustments in teacher salaries by salaries comparable to salaries paid in surrounding states and vocational education salaries to those of state schools.

The decision to make the adjustments has priority of new funding requests, came as he board opened 2 days of discussions of fiscal year 1981 fiscal year.

The board is working with 2 levels of operations — maintenance of current operations or the cost of continuing in it 81 the present level of services or expanding present positions or programs.

Administrations have submitted requests totaling $1.69 million.

Murder inquiry head-ends

BONNERS-FERRY (UPI) — Boundary County authorities said they have run into a dead end in their investigation into the murder of Gail "Wally" Bock on July 15.

"All of our leads have run down," said Boundary County Sheriff Mike LaBrosse Wednesday. "We're doing some checking on the weapon and we hope we can pull something from that. Right now we're at a standstill."

LaBrosse said earlier all suspects had been more or less cleared by polygraph tests made by his department.

"Luckily we at least eliminated most of the suspects, but we're still keeping some in consideration," he said.

Laboratory tests on the evidence have been returned. LaBrosse said, "The clues to the killer were uncovered."

"The evidence we got back may help us in the future, but right now none of it will lead us to our man."

LaBrosse said the tests showed the murder weapon was a 22-caliber gun.

He said Bock's body had been moved a few feet from where the shooting took place.

"It looks like there was an attempt to move the body into a brushy ravine area near where it was found," LaBrosse said. "If they had done that, the body would have been very hard to find."

Bock's body was discovered July 16 by a teen-age girl who was picking huckleberries.

Gov. Evans accepts Conyard resignation

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans said Wednesday the resignation of Idaho State School and Hospital Administrator William Conyard was not requested, but he said he accepted it willingly.

Evans made the remark at an Idaho Falls news conference. Conyard turned in his resignation Tuesday, when Evans ordered improvements in management of the Nampa facility. Conyard said he decided to call it quits before hearing of the governor's new orders.

"They're obviously having severe management difficulties at the hospital," Evans said. "I think it was a timely resignation."

Following several weeks of criticism of proposed cuts in hospital service, Evans directed Health and Welfare officials to come up with a way to keep cottages at the institution available for retarded patients' housing.

Conyard last month proposed that seven of 11 of the cottages be closed and several staff members laid off because of a deficit in Medicaid funds.

Under Evan's plans announced Tuesday following the meeting with Health and Welfare officials, nine of the cottages would be retained as housing for the patients while two would be used for training centers.

Employees at the institution last week launched a petition drive to ask Evans for a full-scale investigation of the facility. The employees wanted the investigation to cover all areas of the care and treatment of residents, practices and procedures involving the administration and other personnel, and salaries and working conditions of employees.

Modification wanted in released time policies

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Officials from Idaho Falls School District 91 say they will attend a State Board of Education meeting in Boise Friday to seek a modification of released time policies for students attending religious seminary programs.

For years the district had allowed students to leave public schools during regular class hours to attend seminary classes offered by Mormons and Catholics. The district had also given the students credit towards graduation for attending the approved seminary classes.

But the state board has banned giving class credit for such released time programs. However, the state said students can still leave school during the day to attend the religious instruction programs, "as long as the regular class programs are not adversely affected, and public funds are not used."

On July 31 District 91's board of trustees formally went along with the state policy, but said it still wants some control over the released students by maintaining seminary attendance records.

Musical award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sergiu Comissiona, Romanian-born music director of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, has been awarded Columbia University's 1979 Dilson Conductor's Award for his contribution to the advancement of American music. Comissiona, the 35th recipient of the annual $1,000 award, has been director of the Baltimore Symphony since 1968 and also serves as artistic director of the Temple University Music Festival and as music adviser to the American Symphony Orchestra of New York.

Ex-fireman's arson hearing scheduled

PAYETTE (UPI) — Darrell Fike, who was Payette fire commissioner until he resigned after his arrest on a first-degree arson charge Monday, faces a preliminary hearing Aug. 30.

Fike, 39, who has given up his city council post, was arrested Monday morning, a few hours after a fire erupted in the second-floor storage area of a drug store he managed.

The fire, spotted by passing motorists shortly after midnight Monday, was brought under control by Payette firefighters within an hour. Fire assisted firemen at the scene as he has done during other fires.

A police investigation revealed that candles in three areas of the store had been lit and surrounded by materials doused in kerosene.

Officers arrested Fike after they found a door of the store unlocked with the key inside.

State transit group formed

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Transit Association has been established during the second annual transportation conference in McCall this week to promote all types of public transportation in the state.

Diane K. Morton of Coeur d'Alene is the group's statewide coordinator.

The group has selected three committees — one to collect and present data on the public transportation in the state to Idaho legislators, one to deal with technical issues such as federal regulations and costs, and another to promote a broader base of support for public transportation.

The organization has 60 members.

Reduced train fares proposed

BOISE (UPI) — An amendment requiring Amtrak to reduce fares for Boise—Idaho—and Sandpoint people has been introduced by a congressional conference committee. U.S. Sen. Frank Church said Wednesday.

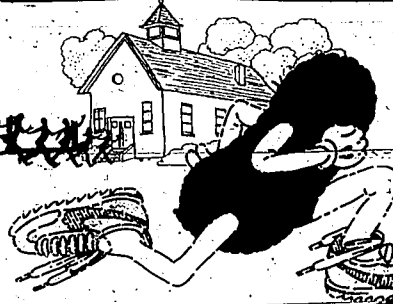

Church and 10 other members of Congress requested the mandatory reduced fare plan be considered by the committee of representatives and senators included in Amtrak reauthorization legislation.

The Senate authorization bill makes reduced fares mandatory while the House version allows Amtrak officials the option of offering the provision. The conference committee is charged with settling differences between the two bills.

School registration slated

TWIN FALLS — Kindergarten, elementary and junior high school students in Twin Falls will begin the 1979-80 school year Aug. 27. Twin Falls High School students will begin registration Aug. 24.

Faculty members will arrive at 8:30 a.m. Aug. 22 in the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School auditorium for a general faculty meeting.

All new elementary students who have not registered should do so by Aug. 20. Enrollment forms are to be completed at the time of registration. All new enrollees, grades kindergarten through third, are required to present proof of immunizations which include DPT, polio, measles, mumps, and rubella shots before entering school. Elementary classes will begin Aug. 27 at 9 a.m.

Robert Stuart Junior High School students who did not register last spring may do so anytime during the week of Aug. 13. All Robert Stuart Junior High School students are to report to their "roll room" at 8:55 a.m. Aug. 17, with classes scheduled from 8:55 a.m. to 3:10 p.m. Locker and activity fees of $7.50 will be collected Aug. 31.

All Vera C. O'Leary Junior High

School students are to pick up class enrollment sheets and pay $7.50 locker and activity fees the week of Aug. 20 through Aug. 24. New O'Leary Junior High students may register at this time. All O'Leary students are to report to the auditorium Aug. 27 at 8:55 a.m. for orientation. O'Leary eighth and ninth graders are to report to their "roll room." Classes are scheduled for 8:55 a.m. to 3:10 p.m.

Twin Falls Senior High School student registration is as follows: seniors will register on Aug. 24; juniors on Aug. 27; sophomores on Aug. 28. Each day students with last names beginning with E-H will register at 9:30 a.m.; N-S at 9:30 a.m.; A-D at 10:30 a.m.; I-M at 12:30 p.m.; and T-Z at 1:30 p.m. All senior high school students are to register at the assigned times and late arriving students will not be admitted until all others have completed registration.

High school registration fees total $23.50 for activity card, locker and low fee, and class dues. The High School Annual will cost $11.50. Classes begin on Aug. 29. All students will report to the gymnasium at 9 a.m. for an opening assembly.

School lunch will be served the first day, Aug. 27, in all elementary and junior high schools. Lunches will be served at the high school beginning Aug. 29. School lunch prices are: elementary students, 65¢; junior-high/senior-high students, 60¢; adults, $1; extra milk, 15¢. Free lunch applications will be distributed to all students the week of Aug. 27. Qualified applicants are to return the completed application form to the school.

Magic Valley Head Start recruits

MAGIC VALLEY — Head Start preschools in Twin Falls, Burley, and Jerome are recruiting 4-year-olds from low-income families for the coming school year.

Children who are 4 by Oct. 15 or children between 3 and 8 years with special needs will be considered for the program. Applications must show family income.

Although 10 percent of the students may be over the income guidelines, the rest must be from families with gross income below a certain level. For example, an eligible family of four must have an income below $6,700 a year, or $5,700 if they live on a farm.

Handicapped children who apply are given top priority.

In addition to education, Head Start children are given medical and dental screenings.

Although applications are accepted throughout the year, Head Start leaders are asking they be filed by Aug. 25. Interested parents may call 733-9351 to ask about the program.

Head Start classrooms are at 329 Madrona St. in Twin Falls, 1501 Oakley Ave. in Burley, and the National Guard Armory in Jerome. Program director Donna Sur is still negotiating for facilities in Buhl.

Dolly Parton act Boisean close to real thing

BOISE (UPI) — Without balloons in her blouse and a blonde wig on her head, Dee Carter looks very like Dolly Parton.

But when the 32-year-old singer dons costume items and uses the natural Kansas twang in her voice to sing Dolly's country-western songs, Boise listeners go a little farther than something close to the real thing.

Miss Carter, who appropriately enough bills herself as Mollie Parton, says her imitation of Dolly "is meant as a joke."

"I don't look like her," says Miss Carter. "I'm very small — I'm 5-foot-4 and she's a lot heavier built. I don't have her hair."

Miss Carter concludes her act by removing twin balloons from her blouse and tossing them into the audience.

"People seem to really get off on it. They think it's pretty funny."

The comic atmosphere of it all, however, has put smiles on the faces of Miss Carter and her employers at Dino's, a Boise nightspot. Most evenings since "Mollie" made her debut in June the place has been packed. Waiting lines string into the parking lot on Fridays and Saturdays.

"Mollie" says she has perfected the country star's footwork and mannerisms. "I'm always dressed in baby blue or pink and I do the Dolly Parton bounce, where she moves from side to side and keeps time with her feet. And I've been told I sound a lot like her."

Miss Carter says she dreamed up the Parton routine in June.

Miss Carter says she thinks Dolly would be flattered if she knew she was being imitated.

"Dolly Parton to me is one of a kind. I think it would be less than complimentary if you didn't use her name."

Faculty pay equity sought

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Board of Education agreed Wednesday to seek over a 4-year period, equity adjustments in teacher salaries like those in surrounding states and vocational education salaries to those of state schools.

The decision to make the adjustment — the top priority of new funding requests, came as the board opened 2 days of discussions of fiscal year 1981 fiscal year.

The board is working with 2 levels of maintenance of current operations or the cost of continuing in FY 81 the present level of services or expanding present positions or programs.

And schools and institutions have submitted requests totaling $1.69 million.

Murder inquiry dead-ends

BONNERS FERRY (UPI) — Boundary County authorities apparently have run into a dead end in its investigation into the murder of Gail "Wally" Bock on July 15.

"All of our leads have run down," said Boundary County Sheriff Payne Chapel Sunday afternoon. "We're doing some checking on the weapon and we hope we can pull something from that. Right now we're at a standstill."

LaBrosse said earlier all suspects had been more or less cleared by polygraph tests made by his department.

"Lucky we at least eliminated some of the suspects, but we're still keeping some in consideration," he said.

Laboratory tests on the evidence have been returned, LaBrosse said, but no clues to the killer were uncovered.

"The evidence we got back may help us in the future, but right now none of it will lead us to our man."

LaBrosse said the tests showed the murder weapon was a .22-caliber gun.

He said Bock's body had been moved a few feet from where the shooting took place.

"It looks like there was an attempt to move the body into a brushy ravine area near where it was found," LaBrosse said. "If they had done that, the body would have been very hard to find."

Bock's body was discovered July 16 by a teen-age girl who was picking huckleberries.

Gov. Evans accepts Conyard resignation

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans said Wednesday the resignation of Idaho State School and Hospital Administrator William Conyard was not requested, but he said he accepted it willingly.

Evans made the remark at an Idaho Falls news conference. Conyard turned in his resignation Tuesday, when Evans ordered improvements in management of the Nampa facility. Conyard said he decided to call it quits before hearing of the governor's new orders.

"They're obviously having severe management difficulties at the hospital," Evans said. "I think it was a time to go."

Following several weeks of criticism of proposed cuts in hospital services, Evans directed Health and Welfare officials to come up with a way to keep cottages at the institution available for retarded patients' housing. Conyard last month proposed that seven of 11 of the cottages be closed and several staff members laid off because of a deficit in Medicaid funds.

Under Evan's plans announced Tuesday following the meeting with Health and Welfare officials, nine of the cottages would be retained as housing for the patients while two would be used for training centers.

Employees at the institution last week launched a petition drive to ask Evans for a full-scale investigation of the facility. The employees wanted the investigation to cover all areas of the care and treatment of residents, practices and procedures involving the administration and other personnel, and salaries and working conditions of employees.

Modification wanted in released time policies

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Officials from Idaho Falls School District 91 say they will attend a State Board of Education meeting in Boise Friday to seek a modification of released time policies for students attending religious seminary programs.

For years the district had allowed students to leave public schools during regular class hours to attend seminary classes offered by Mormons and Catholics. The district had also given the students credit towards graduation for attending the one-period seminary classes.

But the state board has banned giving class credit for such released time programs. However, the state said students can still leave school during the day to attend the religious instruction programs, "as long as the regular class programs are not adversely affected, and public funds are not used."

On July 31 District 91's board of trustees formally went along with the state policy, but said it still wants some control over the released students by maintaining seminary attendance records.

Music award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sergiu Comissiona, Romanian-born music director of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, has been awarded Columbia University's 1979 Ditsen Conductor's Award for his contribution to the advancement of American music. Comissiona, the 35th recipient of the annual $1,000 award, has been director of the Baltimore Symphony since 1968 and also serves as artistic director of the Temple University Music Festival and as music adviser to the American Symphony Orchestra of New York.

Ex-fireman's arson hearing scheduled

PAVETTE (UPI) — Darrell Pike, who was Pavette fire commissioner until he resigned after his arrest on a first-degree arson charge Monday, has a preliminary hearing Aug. 20. Pike, 39, who also has given up his city council post, was arrested Monday morning, a few hours after a fire erupted in the second-floor storage area of a drug store he managed.

The fire, spotted by passing motorists shortly after midnight Monday, was brought under control by Pavette firefighters within an hour. Pike assisted firemen at the scene as he has done during other fires.

A police investigation revealed that candles in three areas of the store had been set on fire and surrounded by materials doused in kerosene.

Officers arrested Pike after they found a door of the store unlocked with the key inside.

State transit group formed

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Transit Association has been established during the second annual transportation conference in McCall this week to promote all types of public transportation in the state.

Diane K. Morton of Coeur d'Alene is the group's statewide coordinator. The group has selected three committees — one to collect and present data on the public transportation in the state to Idaho legislators, one to deal with technical issues such as federal regulations and costs, and another to promote a broader base of support for public transportation.

The organization has 60 members.

Reduced train fares proposed

BOISE (UPI) — An amendment requiring Amtrak to reduce fares for senior citizens and handicapped people has been introduced to a congressional conference committee.

Sen. Frank Church said Wednesday, Church and 10 other members of Congress requested the mandatory reduced fare plan be considered by the committee of representatives and senators and included in Amtrak reauthorization legislation.

The Senate authorization bill makes reduced fares mandatory while the House version allows Amtrak officials the option of eliminating the provision. The conference committee is charged with settling differences between the two bills.

Birds eye D.C.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles purchased last week by Washington attorney Edward Bennett Williams, will play six to eight games in Washington next season and will move to the new stadium within three years, it was reported Wednesday.

The Washington Post and the Baltimore News American quoted sources close to Williams as saying the firm's attorneys will eventually move the Orioles to Robert F. Kennedy Stadium, which has been without baseball since the Senators became the Texas Rangers in 1971.

Williams, who is also president of the NFL's Washington Redskins, told a close friend that "baseball belongs back in Washington," business associates told the News American.

Both newspapers reported that Williams has been negotiating with RFK Stadium officials on a lease.

The News American said in a copyright story the Orioles will play six or eight games next season in Washington, probably against the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox. Williams would use crowd figures at those games to gauge attendance for an entire season to show the owners of other American League teams that baseball has a greater chance for financial success in Washington than in Baltimore.

The league owners would have to approve any move by the Orioles.

The Orioles are obligated by lease to play at least 68 games at Memorial Stadium next season. That would leave 10 to 13 dates — depending on the number of doubleheaders — that could be played elsewhere.

Williams, however, denied reports the Orioles would play any games in Washington next season.

"I'm not even going to think about (playing in Washington) until I can meet with (present owner Jerry) Hoffberger and (General Manager) Hank Peters," he said. Williams plans to meet with the two men Wednesday night at the Orioles-Milwaukee game.

A Washington city official confirmed that Williams had talked with the D.C. attorney — Beard — which operates RFK Stadium. It was reported that Williams could rent RFK for $12.500 a game plus expenses.

That is substantially cheaper than the lease at Memorial Stadium, which requires the Orioles to pay $14,000 per game plus a percentage of the gate receipts.

Williams announced plans last Thursday to buy the team from Hoffberger for about $12 million. He said then he would keep the team in Baltimore as long as the city supports it.

But a close friend told the News American, "I don't really see why you're making a big deal of it. In Washington, we know that he plans to move the team here. If he didn't all he has to say is the team isn't moving flat out ... or he would say the team will be in Baltimore for three years and then we'll see. But he isn't."

Williams told the Post that the Orioles' sale left a lot of people in Baltimore very uneasy. "They shouldn't feel this way because I meant what I said," he said.

Mayor William Donald Schaefer said he did not believe the reports. Schaefer said he believes Williams' assurances he will not move the team. "I have no reason not to believe him. I trust the guy," he said.

In-state legion playoffs

Minico Sage faces tough opening assignment

By RANDY FREY

Times-News sports writer

RUPERT Minico is off to the state American Legion baseball tournament, but the Sage can't be too happy about his first round opponent.

The Sage will open against host Lewiston which in the past has dominated Idaho American Legion baseball.

As Twin Falls coach Gary Barker said Wednesday, "It is always tough to beat Lewiston at home." He knows because he played and coached for the Twins.

But Minico coach Rick Baumann thinks he has the tools to beat Lewiston, and the one important implement is pitcher Trent Ferrin.

"I'm not worried about our pitching," Baumann said. "We have been getting good pitching all year. My main concerns now are with injuries."

Baumann said catcher Ron Barras dropped a maver on his foot early this week and can't run. The foot is not broken, but it is not known yet whether Barras will be in the lineup Saturday.

"He has been hitting around .400 all year, and he makes us tough defensively when he catches," Baumann said.

Barras, with his quick release, tosses out base stealers with regularity. In one game this season, he threw out four runners.

In another accident, backup second baseman Lynn Van Every fell off a furniture truck and suffered a concussion. He will not make the trip to Lewiston.

"That hurts us because he plays second when Kevin Dean pitches," Baumann said. "Now I have to find another second baseman."

To warm up for the state tourney, Baumann has scheduled a couple of scrimmages with an alumni team. He calls it an "Old-Timers Game."

Returning to pitch against the Sage will be Doug Brown, a senior at the University of Idaho who throws very well, and Kevin Donner, a pitcher for the College of Southern Idaho.

"They should help us prepare for the good pitchers we will see at state," Baumann said. "I know Lewiston has one really good pitcher, and I'm sure we will see him in the opener."

But it should take a pretty fair pitcher to shut down the Sage. Minico showed it could score runs while finishing second in the region.

In the opener, Minico blasted Malad pitching for 20 runs. The Sage then came back to score 12 against Twin Falls before being limited to five Idaho Falls.

But the Sage bounced back with 19 more runs in a second win over Twin Falls prior to being blanked by Idaho Falls in the tournament finals.

"It seems we either had the offense clicking or we were stopped cold," Baumann said.

He hopes it will be clicking again come Saturday night.

In other first round games, Moscow will play Caldwell at 10 a.m. Saturday. Twin Falls will play Coeur d'Alene at 1 p.m. and Nampa will play Idaho Falls at 5 p.m.

Coeur d'Alene won the Region 1 crown with a 20-1 victory over Moscow, while Caldwell won the Region 2 title over Nampa. Lewiston gained a berth as the best team, while Twin Falls is the at-large entry.

This is how it's done

Learning the fundamentals of basketball is what it's all about during the second session of the College of Southern Idaho basketball camp this week. Instructor John Calceari (left) demonstrates to one of the participants how to lose an opponent and break away for a pass. More than 60 youngsters are receiving tips on passing, dribbling, and shooting. On Friday afternoon at 4, Sean Miller, a 10-year old ball handling wizard from Pennsylvania, will give an exhibition of his talents as the camp comes to a close. An all-star game will precede the exhibition. The public is invited.

Evert, Connors Top seeds advance on clay

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd, still shaky from a bout with the flu, rallied Wednesday for a 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Czechoslovakia's Renata Tomanova to gain the women's singles quarterfinals of the U.S. Open Clay Court tennis championships.

Jimmy Connors and John McEnroe, seeded 1-2 in men's singles, led the advance into the third round as a torrid August heat wave continued unabated.

Evert, a four-time winner from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., extended her winning streak in this tourney to 23 matches. She didn't find her rhythm against the Czech star until the second set, but then took complete charge to qualify against Yugoslavia's Mima Jausovec in the next round.

Connors, the defending champion from Belleville, Ill., scored a 6-3, 6-2 win over Czech Pavel Slovic while McEnroe, Douglaston, N.Y., crushed India's Ramesh Krishnan, 6-4, 6-1.

Also among the top 10, Jose Higueras, Jose-Luis Clerc, Wojtek Fibak, Manuel Orantes, Eliot Teltscher, and Balazs Taroczy advanced to the third round.

Fourth-seeded Higueras, of Spain, ousted Pete McNamee of Australia, 6-0, 3-0 (retired); No. 5 Clerc, of Argentina, beat Nick Saviano, Los Altos Hills, Calif., 6-3, 6-0; No. 7 Fibak, of Poland, eliminated John Lloyd, 6-4, 6-4; No. 8 Orantes, of Spain, beat Mike Grant, Roslyn, N.Y., 6-2, 6-2; No. 9 Teltscher, Palos Verdes, Calif., beat Kim Warwick, of Australia, 6-4, 6-2, while No. 10 Taroczy, of Hungary, eliminated Warren Maher, of Australia, 6-2, 6-4.

No. 2 woman Kerry Reid, of Australia, defaulted due to an injury she suffered in Tuesday's match against Diane Desfor, Long Beach, Calif. Reid's departure also knocked out the top-seeded women's doubles team. Her partner was Aussie Evonne Goolagong Cawley, seeded third in singles competition.

Cawley gained Thursday's quarterfinals with a 6-2, 6-1 win over defending champion Dana Gilbert, Piedmont, Calif.

Virginia Ruzic, the No. 4 seed from Rumania, battled to a 6-7, 7-6, 6-2, win over Joanne Russell, Naples, Fla.

The only other seeded player left on the distasteful side was No. 5 Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia who eliminated Emilise Rapeni of Argentina, 6-4, 7-6.

Today's other women's quarterfinal pairings were Ruzic against Renee Richards, Anne Smith versus Cawley, and Marsikova versus Jeanne DuVal.

Richards, from Newport Beach, Calif., defeated Kay Hallam of Australia, 6-2, 6-2; Jausovec ousted Sherry Acker, Kalamazoo, Mich., 6-1, 6-2; Smith, Dallas, defeated No. 7 Caroline Stoll, Livingston, N.J., 3-6, 7-6, 6-2, while DuVal, Dallas, gained the quarterfinals by virtue of Reid's default.

Bronco's Lyle Alzado to put on the gloves

DENVER (UPI) — Lyle Alzado, an All-Pro defensive end for the Denver Broncos, retired Wednesday to enter professional boxing. And a local radio station reported Alzado's first fight would be in St. Louis in October against former heavyweight champion Leon Spinks.

The sportscaster said $1 million had been placed in escrow for Alzado, who fought an eight-round exhibition against Muhammad Ali at Mile High Stadium July 14. According to the broadcast, Alzado was guaranteed a fight with a higher-ranked contender if he beats Spinks and would fight at least two other bouts. If he loses, Ron Coffman, who until Wednesday was Alzado's agent, said he was the "fast to know" about the football star's decision to retire from football.

"In my personal opinion, it's a serious mistake," Coffman said. "If he loses his first fight and doesn't do well in the other two, he's an immediate has-been. But I wish him well."

Alzado, a nine-year Denver veteran, said after the All but that he was thinking of becoming a professional boxer. Later last month, during the Broncos' training camp at Colorado State University, he said he changed his mind and would remain with Denver because he owed "a lot to the team and a lot to the fans."

Can the fuzzy-faced, funny-looking Pirates take the title?

DAVE PARKÉR ... leading the way

By Mike Downey
©1979 Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — With their funny suits and furry faces, they do not look like the best team in the National League. They look like a team that might win the Davy Crockett League. They look like a softball team from the corner tavern. The Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mostly, they look like enormous hornets. Their colors are black and gold, and their caps have rings. All Ed O'Flaherty's equity body needs is a stinger and he would become a not-ready-for-prime-time baseball player. He would become John Bee-lush.

To be bees or not to be bees, that is not the question. What the Pirates want to be is the best team in the NL East, and as of late, and with the exception of Tuesday's 15-2 drubbing by the Cubs, they have been.

Their five-game winning streak prior to the current series with the Cubs put them in command. The Cubs, after watching Montreal make hay early and after waiting for Philadelphia to make a move, are starting to sense which team is ready to beat.

The team is Chuck Tanner's colorfully costumed, happy-go-lucky Pirates. National League's Animal Clubhouse.

"When I was here," says Bill Madlock, the chubby former Cubbie, taking in Wrigley Field with his hand, "I said a few things, so I was known as a talker. Same thing in San Francisco. With the Pirates, I get teased about not talking enough."

Maybe he can't get a word in.

Bill Robinson is being interviewed by former pitcher Fritz Peterson for Catholic-network TV. Peterson asks one question, Robinson answers for five minutes.

Chuck Tanner is holding court near the dugout. Dave Parkér and Willie Stargell go near the batting cage. Many Sangullien fits everywhere (like a bee).

Two Blylevens play catch. Bert, the Pirates pitcher, warms up his 6-year-old son Todd, who's in a miniature Pittsburgh uniform with his dad's number. Sangullien grabs a bat. O'Mon, Kid, Fire it in here. C'mon. Todd Blyleven's fastball hits Sangullien in the hip.

"Nobody likes Sangy," Bert Blyleven says.

The smile splits his red beard. Sangy has a beard, too. So do Madlock and Parkér and others. This team won't do many Gillette commercials.

There is enough awesome talent, though, to stack up against any of the clean-shaven Cincinnati or Los Angeles teams that represented the National League in the last five World Series.

"When a team as good as this is in a race as tight as this," Madlock says, "you know the Cubs and Expos and Phillies are tough. There are four teams in our division better than anybody in the other one."

The Pirates have Parkér, the 1978 league MVP, the 1979 All-Star MVP, the ebullient right fielder who wants to be the 1979 World Series MVP. They also have Stargell, the slug-ging old-timer, who forever has kept Pittsburgh from being the pit.

"I thought Willie McCovey hit the ball hard," Madlock says, "until I saw Stargell."

Sill! It's the supporting cast that has made the Pirates pennant material. John Milner's ninth-inning grand slam in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader against the Phillies "really got us hot," teammate Phil Garner recalls. "We felt unbeatable after that." Sure enough, they swept the Phillies and shot into first place.

"Peggy" talk about our hitting? Tanner says, "but as it always is, it's pitching that gets you to the top. You think our pitching's not deep? We've played eight doubleheaders, won five and split three.

"We've got a lot of people who can play the game," Robinson attests. "That's why we should be in the race all the way."

Madlock thinks so, too, which is why he was thrilled to be traded from San Francisco earlier this season. "I was with the Cubs and Giants, two good teams," he says, "but neither one had this many good players."

Parkér and Stargell, the best players, also are the ones who keep the team loose. There is an esprit de corps on the Pirates that Madlock admires. "The Giants were conservative. So were the Cubs. Everybody's crazy here."

East wins in All-Star basketball

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

MERIDIAN — The East all-stars won the battle of the guards in the second annual state all-star high school basketball game Wednesday night.

The East ran off a 10-point spree late in the second quarter and rolled to a 103-86 decision which evened the series at 1-1. The game came off exactly as expected as the state produced nothing in the way of big men and very little in the way of forwards.

It was a battle of the guards and it appeared that simply a better shooting percentage carried the day for the East.

The Meridian gym, nearly a sauna with temperatures that approached 100 degrees, housed only about 1,500 spectators for this game which presents a relatively "best 20" players in the state.

Although the West led throughout the first 15 minutes of the 40-minute game, it appeared the East had only to gather itself to win.

Gerry Adelson, coach of the A-2 champion Buhl and member of the East coaching staff, said, "It was those three minutes in the second quarter that we won the game. We were down, we came down, we launched a 20-footer and then we found nothing but strings."

He added with a smile, "that was not a good thing. The biggest thing in the game I felt was that sport in the second quarter. The kids got more relaxed after that except for (Jim) Sauter."

Mike Ivie's birthday a hit

By United Press International

Mike Ivie should have been receiving presents. Instead, he gave his teammates birthday gifts.

Ivie, who celebrated his 27th birthday Wednesday, hit a pair of solo homers and winning pitcher John Curtis knocked in three runs to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 10-7 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Curtis, 7-7, drove in a run with a fourth-inning single and then singled in two more to key a five-run fifth inning. Curtis had a two-hit shutout until the sixth inning when Dave Winfield, who finished with four RBIs, smacked a three-run homer. Relievers Greg Minton and Gary Lavelle entered in the ninth for San Francisco. Lavelle recorded his 15th save.

Ivie homered off loser Bob Shirley, 5-12, in the second inning and again in the ninth, his 19th of the season, off reliever Mickey Lolich.

San Diego pitchers walked nine batters, including four, in a row by the Padres' bullpen. Relievers Rollie Fingers gave up five runs in the one-third of an inning he pitched. The Padres scored twice in the eighth on a double by Jerry Turner and a sacrifice fly by pitcher Kurt Bevacqua. San Diego added

AL roundup

Keough loses 18th straight

By United Press International

Don Baylor was only too happy to help Matt Keough tie a major-league record.

Baylor drove in three runs with a homer and single to become the first major-leaguer to reach the 100 RBI mark this season, helping the California Angels score an 8-1 victory over the Oakland A's Wednesday and saddle Matt Keough with his 18th straight loss over two seasons, tying a major-league record.

Keough, 0-14, who made the American League All-Star team in 1978, tied the record for most losses in a row at the start of a season set by Joe Harris of the Boston Red Sox in 1906. The AL record for consecutive losses is 19 set by Washington's Robert Groom in 1929 and tied by Andrew Bailey of the Boston Red Sox, 1978 in Boston, lasted only 3 1-3 innings and yielded the Angels' first three runs.

John Curtis of the 1919-11 Boston Braves holds the major-league record of 23 straight losses.

In the third inning, Rick Miller tripled in the third and scored on a bunt single by Bert Campaneris. One out later, Baylor hit his 26th home run of the year. The Angels scored five times in the eighth when Joe Ruck and Bobby Grich hit back-to-back home runs off reliever Jim Todd. RBI singles by Campaneris and Baylor and an RBI double by Rod Carew capped the scoring. Dave Frost, 11-7, was the winner.

In other AL games, Cleveland swept a double-header with Boston 6-4 and 6-2. New York edged Chicago 4-3. Detroit split a double-header with Texas, losing the first game 10-5 and taking the second 10-4, and Milwaukee topped Baltimore 7-4.

Dan Spillner, making only his third start of the year, fired a six-hitter and Mike Harpove and Tom Vermyer each knocked in two runs to lead the Indians to an 8-2 and a sweep of their day-night double-header. In the first game, Toby Harrah and Bobby Bonds each collected three hits to lead the Indians. Cleveland had now won 14 of its last 18 games under new Capt. Francis De Barbeyrac of West Virginia sets out on his East-to-West coast run which will take him from Norfolk, W. Va. to Los Angeles. De Barbeyrac's wife and a few friends are accompanying the jogger in a car.

State swim meet Friday

TWIN FALLS — Thirty-five members of the Magic Valley Swim Club will be competing this weekend at the state swim meet at the Pocatello YMCA. The competition gets underway 1 p.m. Friday afternoon and will conclude Sunday. Swimmers taking part had to achieve qualifying times established by the state association.

Rams' Simpson retires

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Free safety Bill Simpson, a major force in the Los Angeles Rams' vaunted defense for the past five seasons, announced his retirement Tuesday but said he may attempt a comeback next season. Simpson, 27, said his battered knees were not ready for another season. Simpson was traded to Buffalo during the off-season but failed to pass the Bills' physical examination due to his damaged knees, which have undergone three operations. He was returned to the Rams but never reported to pre-season training camp. Simpson intercepted 22 passes in his five seasons, including five last year.

Odom rejoins Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Steve Odom, the NFL's top kickoff returner last season, ended a brief retirement Wednesday and said he was rejoining the Green Bay Packers. Odom, 28, announced his voluntary retirement June 13. Coach Bart Starr said the five-year veteran would join the team Thursday. In 1978, Odom averaged 27.1 yards per kickoff return, including one of 95 yards against Seattle. He had been a long-play specialist for Green Bay, averaging 19.4 yards every time he has touched the ball. Odom holds the team records for the longest punt return, 95 yards, and the longest pass reception, also 95 yards.

Steelers' Bleier injured

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Running back Rocky Bleier will be out of the Pittsburgh Steelers' lineup for two to three weeks, a club spokesman said Wednesday. Bleier suffered strained knee ligaments in practice Tuesday. Another starter, defensive end John Banaszak, is doubtful for Saturday night's exhibition game with the New York Giants at Three Rivers Stadium. Banaszak's right eye was scratched in practice Tuesday, the spokesman said. Meanwhile, two Steelers who had been hospitalized returned to practice Wednesday. Offensive tackle Ray Pinney worked out in pads after a bout with a viral infection, and linebacker Dennis Winston practiced in shorts after being examined for abdominal pains. Both Pinney and Winston are expected to see action in Saturday night's game.

Mahaffey receives honor

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Mahaffey, whose personal and physical problems failed to deter his march to the 1978 PGA championship, was named Wednesday to the All-American Collegiate Golf Hall of Fame. Mahaffey will be formally inducted in the Hall at the annual All-American Collegiate Golf Foundation dinner in New York on Aug. 14. Mahaffey, who joined the pro tour full-time in 1972 after earning first team All-American honors his last two seasons at the University of Houston in 1969-70, suffered from a hyperextended tendon in his left elbow that hampered his play in 1978. Two years later he beat Tom Watson and Jerry Pate in a sudden-death PGA playoff.

Sabres to play Russians

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Sabres have tentatively scheduled an exhibition game next Jan. 3 against the Soviet Union Red Army hockey team. The Red Army team will be touring several NHL cities next season, including New York, Montreal and Quebec.

Rodeo talk

Black brothers win team roping title

By GARY ELIASSEN Times-News sports editor
Tim and Lowell Black of Hammett captured the team roping title during the recently completed national high school rodeo finals in Fargo, N.D. The duo was just two of several Magic Valley cowboys and cowgirls who competed at the national event. The Black brothers both are from District Five of the Idaho high school rodeo association. Lowell will be attending the College of Southern Idaho this fall, while his brother Tim will be a junior at Glenns Ferry High School. Todd Webb of Wendell was the only other Magic Valley cowboy to place when he got fourth in the steer wrestling. Nina Blake of Boise, representing District Two, was named the national queen. It is the second time in three years that the national queen was chosen from Idaho. Janice Nelson of Jerome was the 1978 queen. Mike Smit of Carey was eighth in the bull riding, until getting bucked off on his final ride. Other Magic Valley participants at the rodeo were Terri Koch of Buhl, goat tying; Hobie Peterson of Filer, goat cutting; Anita Young of Rogerson, breakaway roping; Tauna Bradford of Rupert, barrels and poles; John Rose of Jerome, calf roping and team roping; Amy Patterson of Gooding, barrels and poles; Connie Stevens of Gooding, goats and poles; Tauna Bradford of Rupert, barrels and poles; DeAnn Carney of Paul, poles; Ron Jewitt of Gooding, goat cutting; Joe Roe of Wendell, steerwrestling. Mark Dalg of Blackfoot was leading into the finals of the barrel race competition, but got bucked off in his final ride and failed to place. Danette Hunte of Caldwell, placed 18th in the nation in the barrel racing.

Official results of the Idaho Cowboys' Association rodeo at Shoshone have been released: Barrel race riding — John Schoor of Ontario, 69; Mike Deveny of Oreana, 67; Mont Russell of Nampa, 67; Tim Roesser of Pendleton, 66; and Dennis Kunz of Ogden, 66. Saddle bronc — Calvin Amy of Arco, 71; Mike McLean of Fields, Ore., 66; Kevin Chapin of Battle Mountain, 66; Bruce Boyd of Midvale, 66; and Greg Holmes of Boise, 66. Bull riding — Monty Van Komen of Nampa and Jay Smith of Boise, 73; Jeff McGarry of Rexburg, 71; and Johnny Urrutia of Twin Falls, 69. Calf roping — Lance Robinson of Farmington, Utah, 11.35; Dajtas Jeffries of Wilder, 11.58; Forrest Roberson of Mt. Home, 12.18; and Kim Kawara of Pocatello, 13.38. Team roping — Bob Howard and Wayne Baker of Challis, 8.35; Dan Hagler and Shorty Hagler of Kuna, 9.00; Sandy McLeod and Skook Correll of Caldwell, 9.67; and Mike Burteshaw and Jim Manton of Shoshone, 10.73. Barrel racing — Jackie Roesser of Caldwell, 17.79; Shannon Jones of Kimberly, 18.34; Kim Charley of Moira, 18.38; and Trudie Raders of Shoshone, 18.64. Bull dogging — LaMar Roche of Corinne, Utah, 4.33; Dan Roesser of Caldwell, 5.96; Rich Carpenter of Kallepell, Mt., 7.00. Junior Steer Riding (8-11 years old) — Sam Harris of Jerome; junior steer riding (12-14 years old) — Eric Watson first, Scott Sayers second, and Allen Stutzman third; Junior barrels (6-10) — Brigitte Freeman first, Tammy O'Maley second, Patti O'Maley third, Jackie Guenechea fourth, and Tracy Guenechea fifth; Junior barrels (11-14) — Kelly Beckley first, Tonya Jones second, Tina Erwin third, Tammy Harris fourth, and Kathy Deremlah fifth.

Now with the Saints

Dobler just as feisty as he ever was

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — He's been in more fights than fellow football players Lyle Alzado and Ed "The Bull" Jones, but a mellowed Conrad Dobler says it takes a lot more to provoke him these days. "That's my energy conservation plan," Dobler said Wednesday during a break in workouts at the New Orleans Saints training camp. "I'm just following President Carter's guidelines. I'm trying to blow off steam, but I don't want to get worn out by the 10th game. It's a long season." For the self-styled "meanest man in pro football," the statement should be taken with more than considerable skepticism. Dobler still gets his kicks landing a jab or two. Earlier this week, Dobler was leading a sweep around right end when strong safety Jimmy Stewart closed in to attempt the tackle. Dobler flattened him with a block, and a 20-second wrestling and karate match ensued. Stewart even used his left foot to plant a blow to Dobler's well-protected ribs. Safety Ray Brown broke up the tussle with a spearing block to Dobler's side. "All I was doing was juggling and jabbing," Dobler said with a devilish grin. "Stewart" always comes in pretty hard to make the play, so I just put him on the ground. But I tell you, if you go around with a grudge then you're in the wrong business." As a rookie with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1972, Dobler said his fights were a regular feature of practice, almost like callisthenics.

"I had very little social life that year," Dobler remembers. "I fought every day. I just had to fight and die to make the team. A lot of the other players didn't like it. After I made the team, it went down to about every other day." Dobler said one training camp tussle cost Cardinals Coach Don Coryell a broken nose. "A guy took a swing at me and I ducked," Dobler said. "He hit Coryell and broke his nose. Colton was hanging out of his nose the rest of practice." That was enough for Coryell. He issued an immediate plea for peace. "He told us at the end of the season we could all go out to midfield and beat the hell out of each other," Dobler said.

NHL draft set today

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Colorado Rockies will have the worst record in the NHL last season, get the top pick today in the annual draft of amateur players. The Rockies were expected to choose defenseman Bob Ramage, 19, who played junior hockey in London, Ont. before moving to Birmingham in the World Hockey Association last season, where he played as an underage professional. The first-round order will then be: St. Louis, Detroit, Washington, Vancouver, Minnesota, Chicago, Los Angeles, Toronto, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, New York Rangers, Philadelphia, Boston, Montreal and the New York Islanders. However, several teams have traded away their choices. Boston gets the Los Angeles pick. Minnesota will take Pittsburgh's turn and Los Angeles has Montreal's first-round choice. The four new clubs, New England, Winnipeg, Quebec City and Edmonton, pick 18th to 21st respectively under the terms of the pact negotiated for their entry to the league.

Greater Hartford Open begins today

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Jerry McGee, a good putter who shares the low for a single round on the tour so far this year, said Wednesday he doesn't see the short Wethersfield Country Club course as a friendly one.

Despite its good greens and reputation as a putter's course, "this is not one of my favorite courses," said the 1979 Kemper Open winner after a practice round on the 6,568-yard course where a field of 156 tee off today in the first round of the $300,000 Greater Hartford Open.

"Bob Hope, former President Gerald Ford and Sammy Davis Jr. took part in the pro-am festivities with Rod Funseth, who won last year's event with the tour's lowest: 72-hole round for 1978, a 28-under-par 284.

The entertainers played to a large crowd at the first tee under a bright sunny sky and Ford declared he was proud to be a small part of the charity event that is sponsored by the Greater Hartford Jaycees.

Funseth finished his practice round late in the day with a 1-under-par 70. McGee said he is displeased with his putting game since winning the $63,000 Kemper prize in early June, and he thinks the shorter par-71 Wethersfield course won't help him.

"It's a great course for a wedge player," said the 36-year-old New Lexington, Ohio native shortly after carding a 3-under 83 practice round that helped his foursome compile a team low of 16-under 55.

"But a good strong player doesn't have more of a shot at winning here than he would have on a difficult course," said McGee, whose first-round 61 in the Kemper was matched later by Andy Bean in Atlanta and Ben Crenshaw in Phoenix.

Beth Daniel eyes first LPGA victory

JERICHO, N.Y. (UPI) — The game is the same, the ball still takes those devilish bounces, and no trick clubs are allowed. Yet, the difference between amateur and professional is all so different for Beth Daniel.

The winner of the U.S. Women's Amateur in 1975 and 1977, she entered the pro ranks earlier this year with the same kind of fanfare Nancy Lopez received a couple of years ago. Daniel has lived up to the reputation for the most part, and would seem a shoo-in to capture the 1979 Rookie-of-the-Year Award.

But that may be all she wins besides a substantial chunk of pocket money.

Entering a $100,000 tournament — the 26th on the LPGA's schedule of 38 — beginning here Thursday, Daniel has yet to claim a tour title in this country. She ranks 18th on the money list with $41,277, and has finished in the top 10 on seven occasions.

Yet, except for one tournament in Japan, she has never stood alone.

"I'm disappointed in this year because I haven't won in the States," Daniel said Wednesday before teeing off in a Pro-Am. "I guess over all I've played fairly well, but each week I seem to have one bad round that's thrown me out of a tournament. I have to find a way to overcome that bad round."

The 5-foot-10, 22-year-old blonde finds the busy pro circuit requires a lot of adjustment.

Remy injured same day he is reactivated

BOSTON (UPI) — Hours after being reactivated from the disabled list Wednesday, Boston Red Sox second baseman Jerry Remy reinjured himself.

Remy, who had been placed on the disabled list July 2, twisted his left knee in infield practice prior to the first game of a double-header Wednesday with the Cleveland Indians. His name was scratched from the lineup but there was no immediate medical report as to the extent of the injury.

Remy had originally stretched the ligaments of his knee in a game with the New York Yankees July 1. His reactivation put him in the lineup Wednesday at Fenway Park for the double-header.

To make room for Remy on the team roster, the Red Sox sent right-handed pitcher Joel Finch to its AAA affiliate, the Pawtucket Red Sox. In 10 appearances with the parent club, Finch was 0-3 with a 5.35 ERA.

Fairbanks warns Buffs' fans not to expect instant winner

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Chuck Fairbanks doesn't have much to say in public these days.

As the star performer of a real-life soap opera last winter that was broadcast daily in newspapers from the Rocky Mountains to the Boston Harbor, Fairbanks knows that the less he says, the better. What he doesn't need right now is any more publicity.

His action — in particular his performance as head football coach of the University of Colorado this fall — will speak much louder for Fairbanks than any words he may utter this summer.

It was Fairbanks who was involved earlier this year in one of the messiest moves ever by a head football coach on any level. It involved two of the highest levels of the game — the NFL (New England Patriots) and the Big Eight Conference (Colorado).

Now that he's living in the mountains, Fairbanks must prove that the healthy investment by the University of Colorado and its football backers was worth it. And it's not going to be easy.

Colorado has become a second-class citizen in the Big Eight, finishing lower seventh place with 2-5 record last season than even perennial doormat Kansas State. The Buffs have not beaten Nebraska since 1967 and have defeated Oklahoma only twice in the last decade.

The Colorado loyalists were not patient with Bill Mallory and are likely to be even less patient with the more celebrated Fairbanks.

"There are two different kinds of Colorado fans," said Fairbanks earlier this week at the Big Eight kickoff luncheon.

"One group will look at all the fanfare that involved myself and my arrival at Colorado and think that all the problems will be solved immediately. The other group consists of those fans who have followed the ballclub more closely and realize there is a lot of work to be done.

"Remember that I'm inheriting a ballclub that a guy lost his job over. The team is not at a level that the University of Colorado is accustomed to having. Right now, this team is average at best."

Oklahoma had finished in fifth place two straight years before Fairbanks took over as head coach in 1967. The result was two straight Big Eight championships and a 52-15-1 record over a six-year period.

The team came New England, which had posted six straight losing seasons before the arrival of Fairbanks in 1973.

Ashe still in hospital; may retire

GUM SPRING, Va. (UPI) — The father of tennis star Arthur Ashe said Wednesday his son is recuperating well from last week's heart attack but is not certain if he will continue his professional career.

Arthur Ashe Sr., who suffered a heart attack himself several days before his son did, said, "His doctors think there is a possibility he will continue to play. But they say it'll be a few months before they can tell."

Asked if he thought Ashe, 36, should retire from competition, his father said, "That's up to him, how he feels about it."

The elder Ashe said he and the former Wimbledon champion are getting plenty of rest — the father at his Virginia home and the son at a New York hospital.

"I'd say we're recuperating together," said the elder Ashe. "We're recuperating together every day over the telephone."

South justified his bid by brilliant play in his doubled contract.

The opening lead was won with dummy's ace. East's bidding indicated a strong 5-5 in the majors, and if East had exactly one diamond honor and two clubs the contract could be made.

Declarer played a diamond to his ace, cashed the ace-king of clubs and ruffed a club in dummy. He ruffed a spade in his hand and another club in dummy.

At this point declarer worked out the careful play that gave him his contract.

He led a heart. This severed the communication between East and West and allowed South to ruff any return with a low diamond (West still had one spade left). It then became a simple matter to drive out West's king of diamonds and eventually draw the six of trumps with the eight.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Spades had been referred to as a "good" suit, but felt that he also would have a good play in five diamonds. Furthermore, East-West might reverse to five spades. Four spades would have been down one, but
