Getting a needle in the arm for a good cause is Carl Crawford of Twin Falls, who was among donors who gave 115 pints of blood during Monday's drawing. The Monday total exceeded the quota by 15 pints. Ann Livingston, Twin Falls chapter director for the Red Cross, said "We had an awfully good turnout." The drawing will continue from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. today at the First United Presbyterian Church with a quota of another 100 pints.

Doctors, patients describe addiction to tranquilizers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The regular prescription of mild tranquilizers for stress and anxiety was questioned Monday by doctors and patients who spoke of nightmares, battles to curb a craving for the medication.

At a hearing before a Senate health subcommittee chaired by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., the special focus was an Valium, America's top-selling prescription drug.

According to one witness, Dr. Nelson Hender of Johns Hopkins Hospital, 97 percent of physicians "in general" prescribe minor tranquilizers for their patients who complain of stress and anxiety.

The reason, according to Hender and a number of other medical experts, is that doctors do not consider Valium addictive.

Often patients are given a tranquilizer to curb anxiety linked to their marriage or job. But Hender said, "You may create the situation you are trying to treat."

Hoffman LaRoche Inc., maker of Valium, realizes about $210 million annually from its sale. Up to now, the firm has mailed warnings of possible addiction only to doctors. But its president, Robert Clark, testified it soon will start distributing the information to patients as well.

Kennedy proposes some kind of post-marketing surveillance of tranquilizers to gauge the incidence of abuse.

Dr. Michael Halberstam urged caution in rushing to a judgment on Valium, pointing to the numbers of marriages and jobs that have been saved by proper use of the medicine.

One critic was Dr. Joseph Pusch, who heads up an alcohol and drug abuse treatment center in Long Beach, Calif., where Betty Ford, Billy Carter and Herman Talmadge sought help.

Pusch estimated 20 percent of the population is taking Valium, and that withdrawal symptoms are found in patients who have used it only a few weeks.

William Ryan, a Roman Catholic priest from Brooklyn and one of eight acknowledged Valium addicts called to testify, said the drug caused a memory loss, and withdrawal was even worse.

"Sleep was difficult," he said. "I had a general morbid sense; dread; afraid of being alone; afraid of anything; afraid that buildings would fall on me."

Dr. William Thomas of Long Beach likened his withdrawal symptoms after a decade of Valium addiction to "somebody pouring kerosene under your skin, then putting a torch to it."

Sylvia Zigton, a Wilmington, Del., housewife, said her prolonged withdrawal from Valium triggered "a complete loss of self-respect, a complete loss of confidence."

Quicker flu outbreak warning plan drawn

ATLANTA (UPI) — A new system is being developed to enable federal health officials to forecast flu epidemics two or more weeks before they occur with the aim of blunting such outbreaks, the national Center for Disease Control reported Monday.

The system, based on statistical analysis of pneumonia-influenza over the past 17 years, could open the way for active medical intervention before an influenza epidemic strikes, and thereby possibly save many lives, federal health officials said.

The new system, described in detail to a group of flu experts at the CDC, may replace the one that has been in use for the past 20 years. Officials said it will be tested by the CDC alongside the old system during this winter's flu season.

Dr. Keenan Chof of the CDC's Bureau of Epidemiology, said the system, "would be able to detect outbreaks two weeks before pneumonia and influenza deaths reach the epidemic level."

He said it was hoped that future statistical research would improve on the two weeks warning period.

Chof said that under his system, an influenza epidemic would be indicated if the number of flu deaths across the nation in any given week was greater than 620. He said 800 flu deaths in a week would mean "that a major epidemic was on the way."

Dr. Philip Brachman, director of the epidemiology bureau, said a two week forewarning of an impending influenza outbreak would allow time for medical intervention to save lives through anti-viral drugs.

With immediate intervention, influenza vaccines, which take about two weeks to build up a person's immunity, also possibly could be used.

The present system of reporting influenza activity is based on pneumonia-influenza mortality statistics, but indicate epidemic levels of influenza two weeks after the event.

Crop program approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate approved legislation Monday to expand and improve the federal crop insurance program and phase out the existing program of disaster payments for crops destroyed by circumstances beyond a farmer's control.

The bill, passed 64-27 and sent to the House, is designed to remove the current limits on expansion of the federal crop insurance program and provide additional funding authority for the new program.

Also, the government, through the Federal Crop Insurance Program, would pick up a portion of the cost of crop insurance premiums in hopes of getting more farmers to take advantage of the program.

Most features of the bill would take effect in the 1981 crop year, but in 1980, it would lift the 150-county and three-commodity annual limits on expansion of the existing program.

Talks commence on Cuba brigade

By ROBERT C. TOTH
©The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance defied U.S. opposition to Soviet combat troops in Cuba during a conference with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin Monday even as Moscow was calling American allegations concerning the force "totally groundless."

U.S. officials refused to discuss precisely what was said between Vance and Dobrynin in the tenor of their exchange. The two men will meet again today or Wednesday in what could become a protracted series of negotiations to resolve the issue.

The initial Soviet response last week to the Carter administration's confirmation of the presence of a Soviet brigade in Cuba had been detailed, but Moscow did not deny the brigade's existence.

On Monday, however, both an official Soviet Tass press agency statement and an editorial in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said reports about an "organized Soviet combat unit are totally groundless."

Soviet military personnel in Cuba "do not pass any threat to the United States or any other state," Tass said.

As for the Vance-Dobrynin meeting, U.S. officials refused to say whether the secretary of state had made a specific proposal about the newly discovered 2,900- to 3,900-man Soviet force.

The force is politically embarrassing to the Carter administration and threatens, at the least, to delay a Senate vote on ratification of the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty.

President Carter and Vance have said that the United States will not settle for the "status quo" in Cuba, but have not said what changes in the situation would satisfy the United States. Some senators have demanded a complete withdrawal of the Soviet brigade.

The administration's goal also is withdrawal of the Soviet troops, administration sources said, but it recognizes that it may have to settle for something less.

Acceptable terms of a settlement have not been defined, it was said, but any solution must give "substantial satisfaction" to U.S. concern about the nature and purpose of the Soviet brigade.

State Department spokesman Thomas Reston refused to give any information on the "substance or character" of the Vance-Dobrynin talks, and Dobrynin left by a side door after the meeting to avoid reporters.

But Dobrynin undoubtedly reflected the Kremlin's views, which the Tass and Pravda commentaries — the first high-level, authoritative Soviet public statements on the subject, but in blunt and uncompromising language.

Both alleged that stories concerning the Soviet brigade were "invented" by the U.S. news media at the instigation of opponents of the SALT treaty and by those wishing to embarrass Cuban President Fidel Castro as he hosted a meeting of non-aligned nations in Havana.

Tass said some U.S. news reports declared that the Soviet brigade had arrived in Cuba at night to insure secrecy, while other reports said the brigade's presence had long been known but that it had begun to carry out "new functions."

The alarm was spread by some congressmen, Tass continued. It said the U.S. government could have cut short the campaign, but "treacherously" its statements only added fuel to the fire.

Tass and Pravda acknowledged that Soviet military personnel are in Cuba, but denied the presence of any organized combat unit and said it was "absolutely clear" that the Soviet force was no threat to the United States or any other country.

Federal aid labeled boomtown chaos cure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Experts on past Western mining boom towns warned Congress Monday federal aid will be needed to avert social and economic chaos in rural communities chosen as sites for huge synthetic fuel plants.

The House Science and Technology Committee last week environmentalist W.J.D. Kennedy and John S. Gilmore, University of Denver research fellow, for advice on the impact huge new industries have on small towns.

Synthetic fuel plants will swell a community's need for housing, schools, highways, policing and other social services without providing the taxes or private capital needed to keep them stable, the witnesses said.

Both Gilmore and Kennedy, head of the environmental problem center ROMCOE, cited records of Western mining towns in the 1920s when economic and social chaos in some could result from a federal synthetic fuel development program.

They cannot choose a site for the new plants without considering the impact of these communities on the region, they said.

"Terms such as 'national sacrifice area' may seem provocative and overly dramatic," he said, "but they bear an element of reality as well."

It also will be important to support a diversified economy, Kennedy said, so that communities chosen for synthetic fuel production will not become ghost towns when new energy sources are found or the federal government changes its policy.

Gilmore urged Congress to adopt a transitional aid program that would give both local governments and private industry incentives to foot bigger shares of the bill for dealing with boom town problems.

Private sources will not provide the needed capital without such incentives because of the uncertainties surrounding any venture growing out of government policies, Gilmore said.

New red ink wave proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Robert Giarmo of the House Budget Committee proposed Monday that the federal government spend $17.8 billion more next year than Congress budgeted last May.

He said the increase is needed because of continuing inflation, the recession, defense needs—President Carter's energy proposals and the fact that Congress failed to carry out $4 billion in budgeted savings.

Giarmo, D-Conn., recommended to his committee a $59.8 billion federal budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, which would raise the projected deficit by $10.8 billion to $33.8 billion.

Using that proposal as his starting point, the panel began several days of deliberations to draft a Second Concurrent Resolution, which will determine the size and shape of next year's budget.

Giarmo said he still hopes Congress can balance the budget in 1981.

The proposed increases are over and above a target First Concurrent Resolution approved by Congress in May.

"I take no pleasure in suggesting a deficit higher than the largest adopted by the Congress in the past," Giarmo said, "particularly when the downward deficit path in recent years has been so impressive. Economic realities, however, make the increase necessary."

Giarmo rejected any form of tax cut in 1980, saying it would add to inflation and be "the height of folly."

The administration has urged Congress to neither cut taxes nor raise spending to fight the recession, arguing that either would increase inflation. Giarmo said his proposed spending increases were not designed to stimulate the economy but are "targeted" to ease the impact of recession.

More than $7 billion of his proposed increase simply reflects higher estimates for existing programs because of inflation and the recession.

Others are:

- A $2.8 billion increase to carry out essential parts of the energy program such as synthetic fuel development.
- A $2 billion increase for defense. This would buy no more weapons, but it would keep programs up with inflation and give military personnel a 7 percent pay increase instead of the budgeted 5 percent.
- A $400 million increase in fiscal aid to local governments.
- A $500 million increase for public service jobs.

Found in Antarctica

Old meteorites bear seeds of life

By AD ROSSITER JR.
UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some chemical building blocks of life have been found in two primitive, 4.6 billion-year-old meteorites, indicating seeds of life are scattered throughout the solar system, a biochemist said Monday.

The discovery of amino acids in space debris preserved in the deep freeze of Antarctica reinforces a similar finding nine years ago from a slightly contaminated meteorite, and strengthens the concept that life evolved from chemical processes.

"The processes of chemical evolution appear to be common in the solar system," said Dr. Cyril Ponnamperna of the University of Maryland.

"The hypothesis that has been postulated for the origin of life, that is, the formation of organic compounds under pre-biotic conditions, has been verified somewhere else."

Although the findings do not necessarily mean life exists elsewhere, he said they increase the chances that extra-terrestrial life could have evolved under the right conditions.

Ponnamperna also reported the discovery of "molecular fossils" in Greenland graphite that is 3.8 billion years old. This indicates that life on Earth existed 400 million years earlier than previously believed.

Together, the two findings offer new insights into the origin of life, and narrow the gap to 800 million years during which the first living things appeared on the Earth.

"The finding indicates that the time required for life to begin on Earth was much shorter than previously believed," Ponnamperna said at a news conference preceding his reports to a national meeting of the American Chemical Society.

The rocks found in southwest Greenland by an international team of scientists represent the oldest known sediments. The oldest previous evidence of life had come from South African rocks 3.4 billion years old.

"So what this tells us then is that life is as old as the oldest sediments on the Earth," Ponnamperna said.

He said the amino acids found in the meteorites were formed by inorganic processes which, according to the theory of chemical evolution, preceded the development of life.

Amino acids are chemical compounds that are basic constituents of proteins, which in turn are essential parts of living things. Ponnamperna said six of 11 amino acids in the meteorites and six of 15 in the other were clearly formed by non-biological processes.

The first identification of amino acids of non-Earthly origin was made by Ponnamperna in 1971 from a carbonaceous meteorite that fell near Murchison, Victoria, Australia, in 1969.

But that space rock had been contaminated by Earth organisms, while the Antarctic meteorites were "clean," Ponnamperna said the organic analyses of the insides and outsidess of the meteorites were identical.

The two Antarctic meteorites were among 1,300 found on ancient ice where space debris apparently has accumulated over thousands of years. Samples collected by American scientists were handled as though they had come from the moon, and are stored in the space agency laboratory built to maintain the pureness of lunar rocks.

Puerto Ricans enjoy reunion

CHICAGO (UPI) — Four aging Puerto Rican nationalists, jailed since the 1950s for attempting to assassinate President Truman and attacking the U.S. House of Representatives, were reunited in freedom Monday.

The four, clenching fists and reaffirming their determination to fight for Puerto Rican independence, hugged each other and told a crowd of supporters that they considered themselves as having been prisoners of war.

"Vive Puerto Rico Libre," shouted Lolita Lopera, who was involved in a shooting spree in the House in which five congressmen were wounded.

The other nationalists, including her shoulder-length hair graying, read a manifesto denouncing U.S. "imperialism" and thanking nations that support Puerto Rican nationalists.

The four nationalists said they would continue to fight for independence and had no regrets for their actions.

They also had no kind words for President Carter, who signed warrants last Thursday commuting their sentences on the recommendation of the U.S. Justice Department.

The four were released Monday from federal prisons in West Virginia, Illinois, Kansas and Missouri and brought together in Chicago, where they planned to participate in a rally in the city's Puerto Rican community.

"We will continue to fight for the independence of Puerto Rico," said Cesar Collazo, 65, who served 20 years for his role in the Nov. 1, 1950 attempt to assassinate Truman at his temporary residence at Blair House in Washington.

One nationalist and a White House guard were killed.

Mrs. Lopera, asked if she had regrets for her actions, said, "No."

"Who committed the greatest crime that day?" Mrs. Lopera asked, referring to the House attack. "It was not I. It was not us. It was the American imperialists. If the U.S. had not invented our country and denied us our birthright, there would not have been cause to do what we did."

She said Carter did not release the four for humanitarian reasons.

"The president's decision, as you all know, to release the Puerto Rican prisoners of war was not in keeping with his human rights campaign," she said, "but instead due to his political campaign in Puerto Rico because the elections are coming up."

Irving Flores Rodriguez, 63, and Rafael Canuel Miranda, 49, said they abided by a prisoner-of-war regime while in jail, eating only one meal every 12 hours.

Miranda said he tried to keep in touch with his comrades, but their letters were confiscated.

The four smiled and hugged each other, but there were no tears.

They answered questions in English and in Spanish in front of a giant Puerto Rican flag draped on a wall of a VIP lounge at O'Hare International Airport.

They planned on leading a rally and march in Chicago's Puerto Rican community Monday night. They intend to travel to New York today.

Citing humanitarian reasons, the Justice Department had recommended a commutation of their sentences to time served.

The action had the support of the State Department, possibly because of statements by President Fidel Castro that he would free four Americans from a Cuban prison if the Puerto Ricans were released.

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 11, the 234th day of 1979 with 111 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

American short-story writer O. Henry was born Sept. 11, 1862.

On this day in history:

In 1777, troops of Gen. George Washington were badly defeated by the British in the Battle of Brandywine.

In 1841, all members on President John Tyler's Cabinet resigned except Secretary of State Daniel Webster. They were protesting the veto of a banking bill.

In 1963, all 81 people aboard an Indian Airlines Viscount died when the plane crashed near New Delhi.

A thought for the day: American poet Ralph Waldo Emerson said: "Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy."

Tuesday briefing

Utah TV reporter at Wyoming trial threatened

JACKSON, Wyo. (UPI) — A television news photographer covering the Mark Hopkins trial said a man leveled a shotgun at her early Monday and maintained that both she and the special prosecutor in the case have been marked for murder.

Teri Jacobson, 29, said the incident occurred as she was leaving her motel. The man making the threat, she said, was the same individual who told her last week that if she failed to leave town immediately she would be blown up.

UAW chooses targets

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union said Monday it will call selective strikes aimed mainly at General Motors Corp.'s small car plants and parts depots if a national contract agreement is not reached by midnight Friday.

Union officials said selective strikes will follow the union's policy of attacking GM's production of autos that currently are selling well — mostly its small cars.

Hopkinson is accused of "procuring" the 1977 dynamite blast which ended the lives of an Evansville, Wyo., attorney and three members of his family, and ordering the retribution murder of Jeffrey Lynn Green of Mountain View, Wyo., who has testified against Hopkinson.

Handling the case for the state is special prosecutor Gerald Spence of Jackson, the attorney who won a $10.5 million judgment against Kerr-McGee in the Karen Silkwood plutonium contamination case earlier this year.

Frederic gains strength

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical storm Frederic reached hurricane strength for the second time Monday off the coast of Cuba and forecasters, unsure what it might do next, cautioned residents of the Florida Keys and the lower Florida Gulf Coast that the storm could be headed in that direction.

Mrs. Jacobson said she was not particularly frightened by the first threat, but the second was different.

"He said Spence and I would be dead, 'You'll just never know when,' she said. 'Yes, I was frightened.'"

Hollenhorst said the man apparently was waiting for her. He is about six feet, with dark brown, curly hair and brown eyes.

Early Monday evening, Frederic was centered near latitude 23.5 north and longitude 83.7 West, or 150 miles southeast of Key West. It was moving northwest at 5 miles an hour with sustained winds of 75 miles an hour.

Meantime, hurricane Gloria, which was never a threat to any land area, was downgraded to a tropical storm, with highest winds of 65 miles an hour.

Appropriations pass

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate approved legislation Monday providing $8.3 billion in appropriations to fund the departments of State, Justice and Commerce and related agencies for the fiscal year that starts in October.

The measure was approved on a voice vote and sent to the White House.

Included in the bill is $2.6 million to fund U.S. commitments to Egypt and Israel under terms of the Middle East peace agreement negotiated last fall at Camp David.

There was $474,000 to fund the Justice Department's investigation of various loan transactions between the National Bank of Georgia and the Carter family peanut warehouse in Plains, Ga.

Fugitive recaptured

WATERBURY, Conn. (UPI) — Police recaptured prison escapee Lawrence J. "Buddy" Pelletier, a suspect in the theft of $1.6 million from an armored car security firm on Longtine St. in West Hartford, in a brief struggle Monday at a Waterbury bar.

Pelletier, 36, crawled to freedom Sunday night through air ducts at a New Haven jail. Earlier Monday, he had been seen driving a stolen car in a nearby town.

Bus talks broken off

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Negotiators for striking bus mechanics broke off talks with the Southern California Rapid Transit District Monday, claiming the district's latest contract proposal was worse than a management proposal the union had previously rejected.

Earlier, the RTD Board of Directors unanimously approved a new three-year contract covering 5,000 bus drivers who had been on strike.

Halg draft set up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National committees were formed Monday to draft retired NATO Gen. Alexander Haig — once Richard Nixon's White House chief of staff — to run for the Republican presidential nomination.

The "Draft Haig Committee" formally filed with the Federal Election Commission. The committee is headed by Charles A. McManus Jr., former head of the conservative Americans for Constitutional Action and once an official at the Republican National Committee.

Today's weather

Cool with chance of frost for Magic Valley

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Goodby, Idaho Falls, and Boise — Fair and cool through Wednesday with a chance of scattered frost. Highs today and Wednesday in the 70s. Overnight lows in the 30s to low 40s.

Camas Prairie, Halley, lower Wood River valley — Fair and cool through Wednesday. Highs both days in the 70s. Overnight lows 25 to 38 degrees.

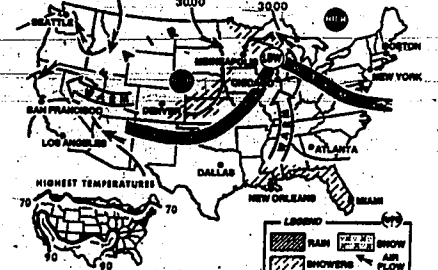

Synopsis: Cooler air and fair skies covered Idaho Monday, brought about by an upper-level low pressure system moving eastward into Montana.

The system produced some showers in northern Idaho but only gusty surface winds in the southern portions of the state. Rainfall was light with .08 inch at Grangeville and .06 at Chamberlain basin. High pressure is building along the Pacific coast so crisp, cool nights and sunny warm days will continue this week.

Forecasts for eastern and southeastern Idaho for this morning carried prospects of light and scattered frosts.

High temperatures Monday afternoon were in the 60s and 70s, with the warmest 78 at Payette.

Carter focuses on business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's spokesman Monday turned aside "fun and games" questions about the possible presidential candidacy of Sen. Edward Kennedy and said Carter will devote the coming months to the issues of the day.

"We're all going to do everything we can to prevent the premature injection of presidential politics from detracting from those issues," press secretary Jody Powell said.

Carter covered what he called a "heavy agenda" at his first meeting with his new Cabinet. It was the first regular meeting since May, although the Cabinet held a special meeting in July after the president's Camp David "domestic summit" when all presented their resignations en masse.

Powell said the primary topic at the Cabinet meeting was energy.

Incoming Energy Secretary Charles Duncan reported on his department, and there was discussion of the legislation for a windfall profits tax, an energy security corporation, an energy mobilization board and home-heating oil.

"The president's comments went to the importance of each member of the Cabinet being active spokesmen for energy legislation," Powell said.

Powell refused to comment on the political discussion that Carter and Kennedy had at their White House luncheon last Friday.

Panama bill warning out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department warned Monday that a failure by Congress to pass the Panama Canal treaty legislation by an Oct. 1 deadline would lead to "serious problems."

A State Department spokesman, Hodding Carter III, said, "We continue to believe that the legislation will be passed by the October 1 deadline."

"If Congress fails to finish it in time, it would cause serious problems."

The treaty is scheduled to go into effect on Oct. 1, but a disagreement between the Senate and the House has not yet been resolved on some issues—such as the future U.S. powers in a commission which would oversee operations of the Canal.

Arms limits don't work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former Carter administration disarmament aide, Leslie Gelb, said Monday three decades of arms control negotiation with the Soviet Union has "essentially failed."

In an article published by Foreign Policy magazine, Gelb offered his own prescription for revamping the American arms control coalition, emphasizing small but achievable steps in arms control rather than dramatic efforts.

"To be sure, some agreements have been good or useful — such as the anti-ballistic missile treaty, SALT II, and the limited test ban treaty — but even they rest on tender supports," he said.

Schools need help now

Summer ended not long ago, when the school bells rang.

Children stopped their carefree play and trooped off to classrooms.

As they watched their children walk away down the block, some of them for the first time, how many parents paused to wonder what would happen to their children in the coming year.

Would they enter into the class of a teacher who would inspire them, turn them on to the subject which would evoke a lifetime of imaginative effort.

Or would they find themselves in the classroom of a teacher who would, for one reason or another, and probably not consciously, turn them off to learning by inhibiting rather than encouraging independent and creative thought.

No society of people can remain free without a high degree of literacy among those who participate in the decision making process.

The American system of government assumes that the more people who are able to participate in decision making, the greater the likelihood that the correct decision will be reached.

Yet each year it seems the educational system falls farther short of the goal of preparing students to participate.

Each year average college board scores slip and the number of functional illiterates graduating from high school increases.

The statistics prompt parents to clamor for better schools.

Yet at the same time parents demand that the schools provide that better education at less cost.

Parents who went to schools where one teacher instructed 50 students ask why teachers say they can not be successful with more than 30 kids in their classes, although they admit the world is a more complicated and demanding place than when they were growing up.

Across the country school bond elections are voted down by people with no kids of their own.

To Idaho's credit, school bond elections fare better here. At least they used to.

Now we're under the shadow of the 1 percent initiative, which, if unchanged, is likely to strangle Idaho's schools. Teachers already are leaving Idaho schools for areas where their prospects are better. Often those who leave are the better teachers.

For those who are concerned with the future of Idaho's schools, the time to act is now.

The Legislature must act this winter to save the schools from the potentially catastrophic effects of the initiative. If we wait to see exactly what the initiative does to the schools, corrective action may come too late to keep the teacher who might inspire your child in Idaho.

What schools can do

© Boston Globe Newspaper Co. Washington Post Writers Group BOSTON — How do you give a child a good education? It's a two-word line: Better Yourself. And if there's a temple of self-betterment in each town, it is the local school. We have worshipped there for some time.

Most of our ancestors left countries where poverty, caste and class were inherited: They came to a country founded on the notion that they would be equal. So they lived, and we still live, not with the reality of an equal society but with the ideal of equal opportunity — especially for the children.

Americans have, in a sense, always laid their dreams on their children. As long ago as the late 1830s, people like Edward Everett, the governor of Massachusetts, said: "The wheel of fortune is in constant operation, and the poor in one generation furnish the rich of the next." It was the hope for the children of the first time they kept their country relatively stable.

Our children's chances have been invested in the schools since Horace Mann, denouncing visions of redistributed wealth instead of free and universal education. He was one of the first to give children and schools the job of equalizing America. In 1848, he wrote: "Education, then, beyond all other devices of human origin, is the great equalizer of the conditions of men — the balance-wheel of the social machinery."

That notion has been behind reformist public policy — from the schools to the Head Start program to parent education.

It has also formed the outline of the most popular tales of the poor boys who made good through study.

But to a certain extent, the text has now been revised. The relationship between schooling and success, education and equality, classes and class has been scrutinized anew.

It is still true, according to Harvard's Christopher Jencks in "Who Gets Ahead?" that the best indicator of economic success — among men at least — is how much education a man has had. A college degree of any kind still makes a great difference. But at the same time, Jencks finds that we can tell soon after a child is born whether his chances for success are good or bad "for reasons that have nothing to do with anything he did."

It appears that, to a large extent, the status of the family determines the education of the child, which in turn determines his status. Yes, they say, but they're not going to make the mistake Jerry Ford made when he spent his time in 1978 worrying about Reagan in the primaries and forgot to get ready for the playoffs.

The one thing that seems to concern them is what they think is a longing in the country for a "strong leader" — some big, splashy, handsome guy who can make the Congress, the bureaucrats, the oil sheiks, the Israelis, and the Russians "shape up" and restore the primacy of the United States in the political, military and commercial conflicts of the world. In short, somebody like John Connally of Texas, who is not like anybody else.

The Carter intimates recognize this "leadership issue" as their major problem, and if I hear them accurately, regard Connally as their major threat. They are concerned about what they hear in their own public opinion soundings, that "Jimmy Carter is a good man, but . . . maybe too understanding, too 'nice.' Lo-averybody, too 'good' to be president in a bad and savage world.

This argument infuriates the Carter people, for they don't think it's fair to Carter or relevant to the changed world of the 80s. He is caught, they think in a Catch-22 situation. If he comes on strong for his solution of the energy problem or the Middle East problem, or the human rights problem, he is accused of being too rigid or moral. And if he compromises, he is accused of being too "weak."

The argument particularly concerned now about the argument that "people think they can take advantage of him." His old friend Andy Young defies his instructions at the United Nations. The Israelis assume he will tolerate their policies on the West Bank and Lebanon, and that he will continue to finance Israeli actions he says are "illegal and immoral." The final insult recently, and the first "whiff" of ridicule: even rabbits think they can attack him.

It is interesting that they see Connally as the major threat to a Carter re-election, but the Carter people are not alone in this. Connally still runs far behind Reagan in the popularity polls and even behind the president. But as the "leadership" issue comes to the fore, it is Connally who gains and appears on the cover of Time magazine this week. For the time being, Carter's

The president and the hare

© Los Angeles Times Syndicate WASHINGTON — By now most people know the story about the President and the Rabbit. For those who don't, it seems the President of the United States was out in a fishing boat alone and was attacked by a ferocious rabbit. The President splashed his oar at the rabbit and drove him off.

When he got back to shore he told his White House staff about the incident but they wouldn't believe him.

Now if this was just the story of a President and a bunny it would be none of the public's business. But the tale does have political implications and it says quite a bit about Mr. Carter's way of running the White House.

In previous administrations it is hard to imagine anybody on the President's staff doubting the word of the White House.

If Presidents Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, or even Nixon had said they had been attacked by a rabbit on a pond a staffer's reaction would be "Thank God you're safe, Mr. President." Or in the case of President Johnson, Jack Valenti or Joe Califano would have said: "Please tell us about it, sir, and don't leave out one detail."

Even Gerry Ford's staff would have taken the Chief Executive at his word.

But such was not the case with President Carter. When he got back to shore with what he thought was a good tale to recount, his people refused to believe him.

As far as it could be learned not one person said: "Well done, Mr. President. That rabbit will think twice next time before he attacks the leader of the most powerful country in the world" or "If this doesn't show you can row and hit a rabbit at the same time, nothing will."

Instead he found nothing but skepticism when he related the story amongst his advisors and friends. Some insisted that rabbits could not swim; others doubted that, even if they could swim, they would attack a person holding an oar in his hand. Still others showed by their silence just how far morale in the Administration had declined.

It is rumored that Ham Jordan had even considered giving everyone who worked for Mr. Carter a loyalty test to find out who believed the President's bunny story and who didn't.

President Carter, who never shows his emotions, was crestfallen. The credibility of the President had reached such a low point that, even when Mr. Carter said he had been attacked by a swimming rabbit, no one would take him at his word. Mr. Carter chafed it up to the malaise of the country that had now infected even his own staff.

Fortunately for Mr. Carter, a White House photographer, who was on a bluff overlooking the pond, had taken a picture of the battle. Carter showed the photo to his staff who studied it, but they were still skeptical. Someone said, "It's an animal but how do we know it, is a rabbit?"

For the first time since he took office Mr. Carter stopped smiling. He ordered Jody Powell to blow up the part of the photo which highlighted the thing in the water. Then he called in the staff again. "Well, is it a rabbit or isn't it?" They finally decided by a vote of 5 to 4 that it was a rabbit. Jody Powell, who voted with the majority, went ahead and released the story.

Thus the country was assured that a President who had promised Americans when he took office that he would never lie to them had once again kept his word.

But the real question that goes begging is: "Why wouldn't Mr. Carter's people believe him in the first place?"

Long-time Twin Falls pediatrician left in the lurch

Editor, Times-News: We are writing in response to those who have written letters favoring the right of Drs. Geist and Miles to break their contracts with the Twin Falls Clinic.

It is easy to attack an institution in favor of the rights and feelings of an individual, but this institution is made up of individuals who also have rights and feelings.

The pediatric service for the Twin Falls Clinic has long been supplied by a very able and dedicated pediatrician, Dr. Charles Schabacker. He has spent over 20 years building a practice and caring for the major medical needs of many of our children. For 13 years he unselfishly devoted most of his life to the children of his community with very little view of his own outside the clinic. It seemed to us that when our children were small and one was sick, we could count on the clinic at most any hour of the day or night and find Dr. Schabacker already there caring for a sick child and willing to care for ours as well.

In the last few years he has finally been relieved with the help of Dr. Geist and Dr. Miles and very briefly, Dr. Weinberg. He trusted these men to honor their agreements and help maintain something he had worked hard to establish — in a manner of speaking, these men helped with the harvest and then with complete disregard for their written agreement, left taking a major part of the crop with them in order to enter a more spectacular field of pediatrics.

There are many consuming problems that most of us encounter with our children — will still persist — and many patients will undoubtedly remain loyal to Dr. Schabacker and the clinic, but the damage has been done and again Dr. Schabacker finds himself working alone but lacking the physical stamina he once had.

Without some form of contract, this could happen to every department. New doctors could come into the clinic, enjoy the labors of those who have worked to build a practice, stay long enough to establish themselves within the community and then leave taking their patients with them. It is questionable how long or if the clinic could survive under such circumstances. There are those who would be happy to see the demise of the Twin Falls Clinic, but for many it serves a very real need.

We can be proud of the quality of medical care in Twin Falls and feel that the clinic plays an important part in raising the level of care by offering competition in the medical field.

Clinic, doctors urged to settle

Editor, Times-News: I have been attending parts of the hearing for the two doctors in the Twin Falls Judicial Building and have been reading your reports in the paper. I am very disturbed at what I think is happening.

It seems to me that the more this hearing proceeds the more destructive it becomes. It is destructive to the lives of the individuals involved and their families. It is destructive to the Twin Falls Clinic. It is apt to be destructive to the medical community. And it certainly will be destructive to the community as a whole as more and more people take sides.

My appeal to the parties involved for their own good and the good of us all is to try to see if they can't settle their differences out of court. This seems to me to be the only logical solution to a problem that can have a very disruptive effect on our community and its people.

Carter's stays optimistic despite polls

By JAMES RESTON O.N.Y. Times Service WASHINGTON — At most everybody is writing Jimmy Carter's political obituary these days except the president and the little band of Georgians who helped get him here in the first place.

They think the popularity polls, the press and most prominent politicians may be just as wrong about Carter's chances as the beginning of the 1980 campaign as they were at the start of the 1976 election.

"If Jimmy could parlay Plains, Georgia into the White House," they say "think what he can do with the White House."

They recognize all the arguments on the other side: The people are mad at the inflation. All the normal Democratic blocs are disappointed in him — labor, the blacks, the Jews and the liberal intellectuals. It is a time of unreasonable expectations that nobody in the White House can satisfy — as witness the fact that no president since Eisenhower has won two successive terms in office.

All true, say Carter's closest advisers, but they seem calmly and even boldly optimistic. Isn't he running behind Ronald Reagan in the polls for the first time? Yes, they answer, but Reagan is too old and too narrowly conservative to stand the test of 35 primary elections and an campaign against Carter.

Is Kennedy a threat? Yes, they say, but they're not going to make the mistake Jerry Ford made when he spent his time in 1978 worrying about Reagan in the primaries and forgot to get ready for the playoffs.

The one thing that seems to concern them is what they think is a longing in the country for a "strong leader" — some big, splashy, handsome guy who can make the Congress, the bureaucrats, the oil sheiks, the Israelis, and the Russians "shape up" and restore the primacy of the United States in the political, military and commercial conflicts of the world. In short, somebody like John Connally of Texas, who is not like anybody else.

The Carter intimates recognize this "leadership issue" as their major problem, and if I hear them accurately, regard Connally as their major threat. They are concerned about what they hear in their own public opinion soundings, that "Jimmy Carter is a good man, but . . . maybe too understanding, too 'nice.' Lo-averybody, too 'good' to be president in a bad and savage world.

This argument infuriates the Carter people, for they don't think it's fair to Carter or relevant to the changed world of the 80s. He is caught, they think in a Catch-22 situation. If he comes on strong for his solution of the energy problem or the Middle East problem, or the human rights problem, he is accused of being too rigid or moral. And if he compromises, he is accused of being too "weak."

The argument particularly concerned now about the argument that "people think they can take advantage of him." His old friend Andy Young defies his instructions at the United Nations. The Israelis assume he will tolerate their policies on the West Bank and Lebanon, and that he will continue to finance Israeli actions he says are "illegal and immoral." The final insult recently, and the first "whiff" of ridicule: even rabbits think they can attack him.

It is interesting that they see Connally as the major threat to a Carter re-election, but the Carter people are not alone in this. Connally still runs far behind Reagan in the popularity polls and even behind the president. But as the "leadership" issue comes to the fore, it is Connally who gains and appears on the cover of Time magazine this week. For the time being, Carter's advice concede that everything seems to be going against them.

They even agree that, while they might get a compromise agreement on the SALT treaty and energy through the Congress before the primaries, there is little chance for any major substantive legislation that will change their fortunes.

But still they are not pessimistic. If Kennedy challenges for the presidency for the nomination, he might win, but in that view, he is too liberal for the conservative mood of the people, and would split the party in the struggle and lose the election.

Likewise, as they see it, Connally is another "wrecker" who, if he defeated Reagan for the Republican nomination, would divide the GOP and more important, bring the squabbling Democratic factions together.

As one of Carter's closest advisers put it: "Jimmy can't unite the Democrats, but Connally just might bring the labor leaders, the liberals, the Jews and blacks into the Democratic camp."

This, at least, is the way the Carter people talk about their own and his prospects. The president personally is sustained by the belief that he has a defensible record in a difficult time, that people who think a tough-guy president can make the Congress and the nations "shape up" are longing for the world of American supremacy that is gone, and that this will become more evident when the voters have to consider the facts and alternatives.

Also — and it should never be ignored in dealing with Carter — his confidence is rooted not only in the political skills that brought him to the White House, but in his faith that even in this secular age, the people may not "believe" as he does, but believe in believing, and that the "right" as he sees it, will prevail in the end.

Hot issues face Episcopal session

DENVER (UPI) — More than 1,000 Episcopal Church leaders Monday began their 66th General Convention — facing issues ranging from ordination of homosexuals to adopting a revised Book of Common Prayer.

Floor action opened with a plea for $12 million to help urban and ethnic groups within the religious community.

Plas for money to fund an Episcopal Urban Caucus came from Bishop John T. Walker of Washington, D.C., chairman of the Urban Bishops, and Dean J.C. Michael Allen of the Church and Society Conference.

"If we fail to take seriously the problems of urban America this country will end up on the ash heap of history," Walker warned.

Officials said 238 bishops and 904 lay and clerical deputies representing an estimated three million Episcopalians attended the convention, the highest governing authority of the Episcopal Church. The session continues until Sept. 20.

The major issues at the gathering were expected to be the question of ordination of avowed homosexuals and the final adoption of a revised Book of Common Prayer, which would replace the version of 1928.

The homosexual issue surfaced here late last week when the Rev. Carter Heywood, a woman priest who also is a lesbian, celebrated mass in Denver without permission of the Bishop of Colorado.

An assistant professor at the Episcopal Divinity School, Cambridge, Mass., the Rev. Heywood was one of 11 women ordained in 1974, before the church had approved such ordinations.

Bishop William Frey of Colorado, after learning of the incident, said he could not recognize nor support the ministry "of an open and practicing homosexual person in church."

Many church leaders attending the convention questioned whether ordination of homosexuals would be brought to a vote at the convention. They said the issue probably would be left to determination by "home rule" uncoordinated bishops, reaching individual decisions.

There also was division in the convention over the revised Book of Common Prayer. Although most delegates expected approval of the revision by a wide margin, many said there would be an effort to win approval for the continued use of the 1928 version as an authorized alternative.

FBI blamed for death of actress

PARIS (UPI) — The FBI is to blame for the suicide of American actress Jean Seberg, her second husband charged Monday.

Romaine-Gary, French diplomat and author, accused the FBI Monday of planting a false news story claiming she the 40-year-old film star was pregnant by a black activist.

An autopsy confirmed the blonde star of Otto Preminger's 1957 film "Saint Joan" died from an overdose of barbiturates. She had been missing for nine days when her body was found.

One of the children was left without sexual organs but both have healthy nervous systems after the operation, hospital sources reported.

There also was division in the convention over the revised Book of Common Prayer. Although most delegates expected approval of the revision by a wide margin, many said there would be an effort to win approval for the continued use of the 1928 version as an authorized alternative.

Enjoying preparation key to most all events

Consider what men like to do best. Go hunting. Fish. Eat dinner. Play ball. Break homes. Whatever. Only about 3 percent of going hunting is out there hunting. Likewise fishing. Also eating. And time on the playing field. Or in the saddle. Ninety-seven percent of going hunting, et al, is preparing to go. To be any good at it, you've got to devote a considerable amount of time to getting ready. And to be happy, it's said, you've got to learn to enjoy the lengthy preparation and not be impatient with it. This item is from our Love and War man's file, incidentally.

One thing the football coaches have learned from the films of their games, they say, is that their teams have deserved almost—but not quite every—penalty they've received.

COINS

Q. I've heard that coins tend to migrate. If put into circulation in equal numbers nationwide, they eventually wind up according to their denominations in certain cities. Right?

A. So it's said. Half dollars seem to collect in New York City. Pennies mysteriously go to Pittsburgh and Dallas. Quarters drift to San Antonio, Little Rock and Cincinnati. Dimes and nickels travel to Baltimore, Louisville and Nashville. That's what the financial writers report, at any rate. Interesting, if true.

Q. If an Englishman calls me "longheaded," should I be insulted or flattered?

A. Consider that a compliment, sir. He's saying you are a witty fellow.

The British government sometime back froze pay raises for business executives. This shook up the top corporate bosses. How could they compete for the upcoming talents, if they couldn't offer more money? They found ways. A promising executive there now buys tailor-made business clothes and sends them to the cleaners at company expense. Said climber also enjoys a liberal expense account. And most usually, such a worthy expects a company car without negotiation.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN A. BRADLEY JR.

Personius-Bradley

TWIN FALLS — Dana Personius and John A. Bradley Jr., both of Twin Falls, exchanged wedding vows July 28 at the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Ralph Kleen officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Richards of Lynnwood, Wash., and J. R. Personius of Kent, Wash. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley of Twin Falls.

Valerie Personius of Twin Falls, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Yvonne VanSickle of Troutdale, Ore., cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Best man was Greg Altechson of Salem, Ore. Ushers were Bill Basham of Boise and Peter Elzi of Denver.

The bride's veil was handmade by her grandmother, Barbara Miracle. Carol Barsness of Twin Falls was soloist. Helen Connelly of Twin Falls was organist.

A reception was held following the ceremony.

ceremony at the Turf Club. A buffet was catered by Mrs. J.R. Personius of Kent. Music was provided by Cobalt Blue.

Mrs. Jim Jones was the guest book and gift table attendant.

Lois Elzi, aunt of the bridegroom, Jane Basham, the bridegroom's sister, and Kathy Nelson, the bridegroom's cousin, served the cake and punch.

Special guests included the bride's grandparents, Irma McFarland and Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Miracle; and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sharp, great-aunt of the bride, all of Twin Falls.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Sandpiper.

After a short trip to Elkhorn, the couple resides in Paul. She is employed by United First Federal in Burley and he is the deputy prosecuting attorney for Blinnoka County and a member of the law firm Workman and Bradley.

Dear Abby

Meter cheaters worry about judgment

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© The Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Some years ago I helped one of my tenants cheat the electric company by installing a special outlet wired ahead of the meter so she could use electricity free. I did it because I felt the electric company had treated her unfairly by cutting off her service before giving her enough of a chance to pay the money she owed them, then charging her an unjust amount to turn it back on.

She's a poor widow on Social Security. I'm charging her about half the rent someone else would be willing to pay.

This lady got away with about $150 worth of electricity before deciding she was even with them, then she asked me to restore her meter to its original state, which I did. Now she's paying for her electricity like everybody else.

Her health has been failing lately, and she told me she wants to make things right with the Lord before she dies. I feel sorry for her and hate to spoil her chances for getting into heaven. Also, I don't want to make my own chances any worse, which aren't too good to start with.

Abby, which one of us will be held accountable for the stolen electricity come judgment day? And how can we both make things right with the Lord?

—OMIT THE TOWN IN IOWA
DEAR ABBY: Come judgement

day, you BOTH will be held accountable for the stolen electricity. And to make things right with the Lord, first you'd better make things right with electric company!

DEAR ABBY: We have two children, an 11-year-old daughter and a 9-year-old son.

They both do well in school and have always been complimented on their behavior. My husband and I are very proud of them and feel we have made a lot of right decisions in their upbringing, one being that they don't get something or do something just because the kid next door does.

My husband and I disagree when it comes to our daughter getting her ears pierced. She's the only one among our friends, relatives and neighbors, many of whom are much younger than she, who hasn't had her ears pierced.

My husband refuses to let her. He thinks it's a silly idea for one so young, and that the only reason she wants her ears pierced is because everyone else has had it done — which isn't good enough. It's such a small thing she wants, and if ever a little girl deserves something she wants so desperately, she does.

We can't agree on this, Abby. We want what's best for our daughter and will abide by your decision.

—MASS. MOM
DEAR MOM: The word from here is a piercing yes!

DEAR ABBY: We have a family problem. Our mother, an intelligent woman in all other respects, is married to a man who does not work. He lives off her money. (Our father left her very well off.)

Our mother's husband has made all her children (grown) feel unwelcome in their home. Nothing we can say will make mother see the light. She is so in love with this man she thinks he can do as wrong! Meanwhile, he lives the life of a retired gentleman with mother caring for him as if he were royalty.

We do not feel that it's fair that we should be made to feel unwelcome in our mother's home — especially since it was provided for her by our father.

How do you suggest we cope with this?

—JUST PLAIN ANGRY
DEAR ANGRY: Philosophically, Ask the Lord to grant you the serenity to accept the things you cannot change, the courage to change the things you can, and the wisdom to know the difference.

Do you hate to write letters of condolences, congratulations, and thanks. It's not difficult when you let Abby guide you in her booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long stamped (23 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Make it with wool contests planned

GOODING — The annual Make It Yourself With Wool Contest is being announced by the Women's Auxiliary to the Idaho Wool Growers Association district contests will be held in October.

The competition is open to those age 10 and over who sew, knit, or crochet. All entries must be made of at least 60 percent wool. Idaho will have five district contests featuring pre-teen, junior, senior, and adult divisions.

Judging is based on sewing, knitting, or crocheting ability; fashion, and the presentation of the contestant in modeling the garment. Those competing may receive advice and instruction but must select, cut, press, sew, knit, or crochet the garment themselves.

Junior and senior winners in their districts will advance to state competition in Boise on Nov. 12. The two state winners will fly to San Diego in January for the national competition. Grand prize will be a trip to Mexico.

Prizes will be awarded to all contestants. There will be prizes of fashion trips, sewing machines, bonds, wool fabric, yarn, steam irons, and other sewing aids.

Entry blanks and more information about the contest can be obtained by writing Mrs. Lester Silman of Gooding, Idaho, 83330.

Workshop about jobs

TWIN FALLS — A free workshop on techniques for getting a job will be held Sept. 13-14 at the College of Southern Idaho, sponsored by the Women's Center.

The program will show women how to dress, how to act and how to prepare a resume when looking for a job.

The classes will be held in School Room 117. The schedule is as follows:

Thursday, 9:11-30 a.m., "Looking Right." Employees from New Beginnings Hair Design will demonstrate hair and makeup techniques, including makeovers of participants.

Thursday, 12:30-5 p.m., Fashion Show. Alice Anderson, CSI home economics teacher, will show participants how to dress well for interviews, even with a small budget.

Friday, 9:11-30 a.m., Resume writing. Cheryl Briggs, Women's center coordinator and Wendy Reininger, vocational counselor, will discuss how to "sell yourself" with an effective resume.

Friday, 12:30-3 p.m., Role playing with prospective employers. Local businesses will discuss how to act in a job interview.

Registration will be held from 8 to 9 p.m. Sept. 13. No daycare and no food will be provided. For more information, call either Cheryl Briggs or Wendy Reininger at 733-9554, extension 231 or 291.

Sculptured nails could cause fungus

By PATRICIA SHELTON

Chicago Sun-Times
Q. I heard that you can get mold under your fingernails from wearing false nails. Is this true? How long of a breathing period is required? — A. P.

A. The condition you're referring to is called fungus. It's next to impossible that you would get it from a plastic glue-on nail that you would wear only a day or two. You could get fungus wearing sculptured nails, particularly if your own nails are not healthy and the sculptured nails are not properly applied and maintained. If you think you want to try sculptured nails, go only to a specialist in this field and ask for a track record from the specialist before you get the nails. As for a breathing period for damaged nails, it takes 6 to 8 months to grow a new nail. Also, you can get a fungus other ways, such as putting your hands in soil if you have even a tiny cut under your nail. Anyone with a fungus problem should consult a dermatologist.

Q. How do you prevent ingrown hairs? I get them everytime I go for waxing. — A. A.

A. Stop getting waxed. A dermatologist says that as long as you continue to go for waxing, you're going to get ingrown hairs. The waxing process involves pulling the hair out from beneath the skin and the follicles tend to retract beneath the skin surface, causing ingrown hairs.

BACK TO HEALTH

By Michael Haneline D.C.

Successful people sometimes boast of the price they pay for achievement. The ulcer was once the "status symbol" ... the badge of success. In recent years the backache has taken over as the "status symbol," the price paid for living under constant high stress.

Nervous stress can cause physical discomfort which can be very severe. It may start with a "tightness" in the hips, legs or back which builds with pressure and forewarns that a painful backache is coming.

Certainly it is advisable to eliminate stressful situations of such as possible and to let chiropractic help correct trouble that cannot be avoided. Phone for an appointment.

Gasoline availability boosts retail sales rise in August

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retail sales rose 0.7 percent last month, identical with July's rise, but much of the gain was attributed to a boost in Social Security payments and easier access for buyers to gasoline supplies, the government said Monday.

Despite the second consecutive moderate increase, many economists still believe the nation is mired in a recession that began during the second quarter and will probably last through the remainder of 1979 or early 1980.

Usually, retail sales statistics are among the initial signs of recession. When sales drop, businessmen cut back on orders for new goods. This, in turn, forces manufacturers to trim production and lay off workers.

But one government economist who asked not to be identified said sales increased last month, despite the recession, because of two "one-shot" factors.

"The government boosted Social Security benefits by nearly $1 billion during July to compensate for the rise in the cost of living. This money was filtered into the economy last month at retail outlets.

"Long gas lines in some sections of the nation curtailed shopping during late spring and early summer. There was some "catch-up" shopping in August when the lines disappeared.

The economist also noted that sales volume actually slipped last month when inflation is considered. Although the August consumer price performance will not be made public for another two weeks, it is expected to show a rise stronger than 0.7 percent.

Total sales at retail outlets across the nation reached $72.79 billion, up 0.7 percent from July's $72.28 billion level. Sales were 8.1 percent above a year earlier.

Sales of durable goods — longer-lasting items such as cars and furniture — rose 1 percent to $24.62 billion while sales of nondurable items — food, gasoline, clothing — rose 0.5 percent to $48.16 billion, the Commerce Department said.

Automobile sales rose 0.3 percent to $13.37 billion last month to offset an 8.3 percent decline in July, the department said.

Gasoline sales rose 4.7 percent to $6.18 billion. Grocery store sales were nearly identical with the July level at $15 billion.

Santa Fe picketed

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Railway workers on strike against Rock Island Monday set up pickets at the Terminal Railway Co. and Santa Fe, alleging the railroads were assisting in strike-breaking efforts.

Pickets were set up at Santa Fe yards in several cities, including the Argentine yards in Kansas City, Kan., where about 1,700 workers are employed.

Santa Fe officials said the firm's legal department in Chicago was seeking means of removing the pickets.

Pickets went up at Terminal Railway facilities about 6 a.m., a spokesman said, and members of other unions were "pretty well staying away. I think some supervisory personnel are out there operating some equipment."

The Terminal Railway Co. is owned by other railroads operating in Kansas City and provides major switching facilities.

Other picket lines against Santa Fe went up in Topeka, Wichita, Oklahoma City, Enid, Okla., and Amarillo, Texas.

Union President Fred J. Kroil issued a statement in Washington saying the legality of the pickets was established by the federal courts during a strike against the Norfolk & Western Railway Co.

Fraud charges filed

VALE, Ore. (UPI) — Two men face security fraud charges for the sale of securities in American Wholesale Buying Service to Malheur County residents.

Charles L. Mitchell, 40, Nampa, has pleaded guilty in Malheur County District Court to two security fraud charges. Malheur County District Attorney Byron Chaffield said in exchange for Mitchell's guilty plea, the state will dismiss several other counts of the indictment, providing Mitchell makes restitution to the purchasers of memberships in his organization to Malheur County residents.

Mitchell may be sentenced to up to six years in prison, an $11,000 fine or both.

Chaffield said Mitchell sold memberships in American Wholesale Buying Service and debenture bonds in Versatile Leasing. He also was charged with selling farm equipment and purchasing alfalfa seed without making payments for the seed.

A second man, Ray L. Whittle, an officer in American Wholesale Buying Service, was arrested by the Malheur County Sheriff's department on a secret indictment handed down by a Malheur County Grand Jury in May.

Whittle was charged with selling unregistered securities, doing business as an unlicensed corporation, first-degree theft, conspiracy, fraud and deceit with respect to securities.

He is being held in the Malheur County Jail pending arraignment.

Form takes name off mailing list

Recently I received a sweepstakes entry from a company called Blueboy, Inc. Miami. This company promotes male homosexuality through the sale of its stag films, love gadgets, pin-ups, etc. I am not homosexual, nor am I of the male gender, so my first reaction upon opening this plain brown envelope was a good belly laugh. But then I became infuriated at the fact that my name and address was being passed on to God-knows-what to receive God-knows-what in my mailbox. I feel this privilege has been abused, and I am ready to take action. How do I go about having my name removed from these abusive mailing lists? — J.L. McKinney, Jerome.

Take the material to your local Post Office and fill out a form, stating that you wish to receive no more such mail. It's all or nothing — once you turn in the form, your name and address will appear on a national printout available to all mailers of "obscene" material. If you do receive another such mailing, the company is then subject to a $5,000 fine, according to Twin Falls postmaster Lloyd Libert.

front of a child — he may imitate you when you aren't around. Never tell a child that medicine is or tastes like candy. Keep the number of the Poison Control Center (1-800-632-8000) near your telephone in case of emergencies.

I have a question that has been nagging at the back of my mind for some time. A few months ago, you published an answer to an out-of-state vacationer who had been to Jackpot, Nev., and paid for some "souvenir" bottles of liquor. The man at Cactus Pete's said he would mail them to the customer. It has always been my understanding that it is illegal to send alcoholic beverages through the mail. Has the law changed? If so, how much can one send out of state? — L. McCall, Twin Falls.

You're right, and the law hasn't changed. The shopowner said he would send the bottles via United Parcel Service, which is also illegal. Perhaps UPS was not aware of the contents of his package.

Britain convenes peace conference

LONDON (UPI) — Within a bullet-proof security shield, Britain convened a make-or-break conference Monday to end the bloody guerrilla war in Zimbabwe Rhodesia and bring that African state to legal independence.

"I believe that the people assembled in this room have it in their power to end the war," Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington told the opening session.

The war is estimated to have already cost an estimated 25,000 lives.

In the room — and in their assigned seats despite a last-moment argument about seating arrangements — were Zimbabwe Rhodesian Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa side by side with former Prime Minister Ian Smith, and Patriotic Front leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe.

Carrington warned that failure to reach an agreement would result in "further prolonged bloodshed and further destruction of the life of whole communities."

Security was tight throughout

London, but particularly around the conference site in Lancaster House.

All streets alongside King Henry VIII's palace of St. James's were closed to the public. Police sharpshooters stalked rooftops under a prowling helicopter. Barbed wire ringed the area and television cameras scanned the perimeter.

Construction workers on a nearby job were issued special passes.

Demonstrators clustered as closely as police would allow as if to emphasize the need for the security screen.

One corner was a bit of Africa with singing, chanting, jiggling supporters of the Patriotic Front holding posters reading: "Wanted For Murder — Ian Smith." Across the street a sign proclaimed "The Ian Smith Fan Club." Police massed between them.

"I am under no illusions about the magnitude of the task before us," Carrington said, and the problems were formidable.

The present conference followed agreement at a Commonwealth summit in Lusaka, Zambia.

Bonn denies sellout

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — West Germany used the visit of Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan Monday to combat Tel Aviv's fears that it is selling out Israel for Arab oil, reliable sources said.

West German leaders were determined to reassure Dayan that Israel can count on West Germany's friendship despite criticism of some aspects of Israeli policy, according to sources in the Bonn government.

Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher filled in Dayan on his trip to the Middle East two weeks ago in which he asserted Arab acceptance of Israel's right to exist is a prerequisite for a Middle East settlement.

A West German spokesman said Genscher and Dayan had a "good, constructive and worthwhile exchange of opinions."

Hughes Airwest sputters to a halt

Surprise walkout strands passengers

By MARTY TRILLHAASE

TWIN FALLS — Caught by what company officials considered a surprise strike, Hughes Air West shut down late Monday morning, leaving some passengers stranded.

One flight had left Twin Falls before the strike went into effect. The flight was carrying 37 passengers to Salt Lake.

Alternative airline flights for stranded passengers have been arranged, Hughes spokesmen said. And Gem State Airlines is considering adding more flights through Twin Falls to fill the void.

Negotiations between representatives of Hughes and the Airline Employees Association adjourned early Monday morning after the union rejected a 30-day cooling-off period offered by federal officials had expired at midnight.

Hughes spokesman Ralph Henn said Hughes had made an offer just before midnight and at 5 a.m. the union rejected it.

Henn would not elaborate on the offer, saying only it was the highest in that city.

When the talks will resume is unknown, Henn said.

Despite the expiration of the cooling-off order, Hughes officials had considered a strike unlikely since no prior indication was given.

Hughes workers reported to work as usual and planes were in the air.

But employees began random walkouts about 11:30 a.m. and the union informed Hughes a strike was in effect at noon.

"This was a very untraditional method. Usually, the union does not strike at the end of the cooling-off period or at the end of the talks, they will give 48 to 72 hours notice," Henn said.

"The first word we had was 35 minutes after they had begun to strike."

In effect, the union caught Hughes with its planes in the sky and passengers in airports.

About 15,000 people were holding reservations for Monday Hughes flights, Henn said. No further figures were available, but the airline was aware some had been stranded.

"We are doing everything we can to assist everyone who has been stranded," he said. "Any passenger holding Hughes Airwest tickets purchased before the strike can take their tickets to another airline. Their tickets will be accepted by the other airline in most cases," Henn said.

Twin Falls Hughes station manager Paul Shoaf said no passengers were stranded in Twin Falls since the airport does not handle airline connections. But one Hughes flight left the airport, carrying an estimated 37 passengers from Twin Falls to Salt Lake.

Twin Falls is one of two Idaho cities dependent on Hughes for major air service. To pick up the slack, Gem State Airlines is considering adding to its nine daily flights, station manager Bob Ryan said.

"Right now they're planning. They haven't come up with a schedule yet," he said.

Reservations on today's Gem State flights were filled, Ryan said.

Senate nears showdown on 1902 water law

By DAVE MORRISSEY

WASHINGTON — A final vote on changing the 1902 Reclamation Act should take place within a week, Idaho senators said Monday.

As now written, the 77-year-old statute limits to 160 acres the amount of land which can receive irrigation water from federal reclamation projects.

Drafted as a land reform measure, the law was intended to insure the survival of family farms by spreading the 1902 act's acreage limitations to new farmers.

But the law was largely ignored for decades. When a recent court case called for strict enforcement of the measure, the act was sharply criticized by many farmers as unrealistic in light of modern-day agricultural conditions.

"Senate Bill 14 will probably come up for a final vote by the end of this week," said Cleve Corlett, press secretary to Democratic Senator Frank Church. When the bill reaches the floor, Church will support it, Corlett said.

James McClure, Idaho's Republican senator, will also support SB 14, according to staff member Tom Hill.

That measure, the result of public hearings and congressional committee meetings, is an attempt to adapt the 1902 law to modern farming practices. Supporters of the proposal say it detects defects of the old law, but still provides incentives for family farmers.

Supporters include the Idaho Water Users Association, which represents 154 Idaho canals and irrigation districts as well as 1,100 individual members.

But critics of the measure, most notably National Land for People, the Fresno-based organization which brought the lawsuit calling for enforcement of the original act, say the new bill is a sell-out to large agribusiness corporations in California.

Criticism of the bill also came from Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, a former Idaho governor.

Church, who played a significant role in the drafting of SB-14, will support an amendment to the measure, Corlett said, designed to restrict certain instances of irrigation of leased land under the act.

Critics of the bill have said unlimited leasing of lands on a year to year basis, as is now provided in the final draft of SB 14, would provide an escape clause for large corporations that have in the past illegally owned or leased large amounts of farmland.

According to Hill, McClure has yet to decide whether to support this amendment. The Idaho Republican is examining the arguments for and against it, Hill added.

Both Idaho senators predict the debate over SB 14 will be lengthy.

"There will be a tough fight on this," said McClure Press Secretary Todd Neuschwander. "I can't say if it will pass."

SB 14 makes several major changes in the 1902 measure.

Much of the debate will focus on the proposed increase of the acreage limit to 1,280 acres. If SB 14 becomes law, a farmer will be able to receive water from federal irrigation projects on any combination of owned or leased acreage totaling up to 1,280 acres.

That figure, Corlett said, was seen by Senate committee members as a compromise between smaller figures proposed by National Land for People and the Interior Department, and demands the 1902 law be repealed entirely.

But sharp criticism of that acreage size has come from several sources.

Andrus argues the limitation should be 400 acres per person — 320 acres which could be owned and 160 acres leased.

SB 14 is too broadly written, Andrus said earlier this summer, and would allow agribusiness corporations to retain lands they acquired illegally. "If the American public really knew who they are subsidizing, this would be a major issue with them, a red hot issue if they knew who is receiving the financial benefits," the Interior Secretary said.

An even smaller limitation has been proposed by National Land for People, which would like acreage restriction determined by numerous factors, including the fertility of the land in question. Their limitations would in most cases fall between minimum farm sizes of 20 acres and maximum farm sizes of 960 acres.

Arguments will also focus on the 1902 act's residency requirement which specified recipients of the federal water should live "in the neighborhood" of their lands, later defined as within 60 miles.

The Interior Department and National Land for People, among others, have insisted a residency requirement is essential to prevent absentee and corporate landlords from unjustly reaping the benefits of public expenditures for irrigation.

Discussing this and other segments of SB 14 in a recently released public statement, Andrus attacked the department's view that "reclamation laws are not a limitation on the ownership of land, but only on the land which may be served with federally subsidized project water."

But in SB 14, the residency requirement is eliminated, a deletion without its supporters.

SB 14 establishes a solid criteria for making this determination, he added.

All interested parties do agree on one thing: numerous amendments, including those which would change the acreage limitations and the leasing requirements, will be offered on the floor. Sponsors of alternative land measures which died in committee will try to bring their bills into life through changes in SB 14.

Amendments may be offered on:

- Re-establishing a residency requirement.
- Opening "excess lands" (the lands now held by farmers in excess of the 1902 act's acreage limitations) to new farmers.
- Changes in "pay-out" provisions of SB 14. As now drafted, these would allow for repayment of original obligations for construction costs of an irrigation project. But critics argue this would reward large landholders who have failed to comply with the law, by allowing them to buy their way out of compliance.
- If SB 14 passes the Senate, observers predict an equally tough fight in the House.

In the valley

Twin Falls woman burned

SALT LAKE — Twin Falls woman Monday was listed in critical but stable condition at the University of Utah Medical Center with 40 percent of her body covered with serious burns.

Orle Rich, 42, of Twin Falls was in the hospital in Intermountain Burn Unit Monday. Her condition was critical at that time.

Rich Saturday was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital with second and third degree burns. Sunday she was transported by the Alameda Transport System combination fixed-wing-helicopter to the Salt Lake center.

"That's where she is and will be for some time," hospital spokesman Mark Sands said Monday.

Further details were unavailable.

Bruneau panel meets

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Water Resources Department said a citizens' advisory committee for the proposed Bruneau Flats water project has scheduled its first meeting for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Glenn Ferry.

Department Director Stephen Allred said the committee, representing almost two dozen citizens' groups, will review the progress of a feasibility study on the project.

The development project is meant to shift the water supply on the plateau from lift-pumping to gravity delivery, a move that would allow more agricultural development.

Allred said the project also could generate more hydroelectric power and enhance certain fish and wildlife habitat.

State vacancies filled

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John V. Evans today announced the appointment of new members of the Nursing Home Examiners Board, the State Electrical Board and the reappointment of members to the Idaho Health Facilities Authority.

Duane Richard Higer of Pocatello was reappointed to the Nursing Home Examiners Board.

Evans chose John Richard Wheeler, Idaho Falls, as a new member of the State Electrical Board, replacing Doren Parr of Pocatello.

Criticism of the bill also came from Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, a former Idaho governor.

Church, who played a significant role in the drafting of SB-14, will support an amendment to the measure, Corlett said, designed to restrict certain instances of irrigation of leased land under the act.

Critics of the bill have said unlimited leasing of lands on a year to year basis, as is now provided in the final draft of SB 14, would provide an escape clause for large corporations that have in the past illegally owned or leased large amounts of farmland.

SB 14 makes several major changes in the 1902 measure.

Legion correction

TWIN FALLS — The American Legion Auxiliary will host the Boys State and Girls State delegates at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 19 at the Twin Falls United Presbyterian Church, not Sept. 12 as was announced in the Valley Calendar Monday.

The course is designed to restore confidence in the founding father's unique formula for constitutional government and the free enterprise system.

The Freeman Institute is a national non-profit educational foundation which researches, develops and produces programs which promote the constitution. It is not affiliated with any other civic, political or religious organization.

The tickets or more information call Sterling Larson, 733-3170 or for the Jerome seminars contact Mrs. Jerry Callen, 324-4031.

Wilderness inventories done

BOISE (UPI) — Wilderness inventories for three Bureau of Land Management districts in Idaho were completed ahead of schedule, said the BLM's Idaho Director Robert O. Buffington

Sunday.

Buffington said the inventories had been finished early to make the data available for energy exploration and to expedite the implementation of management plans in the areas.

Beginning Sept. 7, there will be a 90-day review period for the Oil and Gas Overtrust Area in the BLM's Idaho Falls district and the Challis area in the Salmon BLM district.

But the city's contractor, James Montgomery Consulting Engineers, disputed that, adding any modification to the plant would require Environmental Protection Agency review.

Doctors permitted to resume practice

By BEN MCKELWAY

TWIN FALLS — Pediatricians Harold Geist and Paul Miles are free to practice medicine again in Twin Falls Monday following a favorable court decision by 5th District Judge Theron Ward.

Filing against the Twin Falls Clinic, Judge Ward denied a motion for a preliminary injunction and lifted a temporary restraining order that had kept the doctors away from their patients since Aug. 23.

"I'm very happy," said Geist, "and very anxious to get back to medicine."

Miles could not be reached for comment.

"He wasn't home half an hour before he was back at work," said Anne Miles, his wife. "We're very grateful to all the people who supported us."

Judge Ward's decision, which followed closing arguments by attorneys Robert Stephan and Edward Benoit, climaxed a hearing which began last Wednesday. Stephan represented the clinic. Benoit the two doctors.

Stephan declined comment until he has a chance to read Judge Ward's Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, which will be available this morning. He will then discuss the possibility of an appeal with his attorneys.

Such an appeal would be to the Idaho Supreme Court.

Until their resignations Aug. 24, Geist and Miles were members of a clinic. Their former colleagues took them to court because the two began to practice with pediatricians Benoit, Jamin Katz and Elmer Wright in spite of an agreement not to do business within 25 miles of the clinic for two years after resigning. The restrictions were part of the clinic's Articles of Association, which both doctors had signed in order to join the clinic's membership.

The clinic maintained that the competition would harm them financially.

For their defense, Geist and Miles argued that they quit the clinic under pressure from other doctors who wanted them to see more patients.

The pediatric department's bills to patients, usually lower than fees charged by other physicians, generated less income than other departments, and this was a source of friction with some other staff doctors.

The two also claimed that because of the low monetary "production" they were told that the pediatric staff would not be expanded within the next 20 years. To practice their chosen specialty of neo-natal care, they needed more pediatricians to cover for them while they were busy tending to an ailing newborn at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Miles said.

Stephan, in questioning witnesses at the hearing, continually sought to minimize the pressure on the doctors and the need for more neo-natal specialists in the area.

After Geist and Miles resigned, the clinic's executive committee offered them the chance to buy their way out of the restrictive agreement for $50,000 each. The doctors made a lower counter-offer, which was rejected. The next step, after Geist and Miles had begun their new practice, was a restraining order which was delivered to the doctors at work Aug. 29, barring them from further work pending the hearing.

Recession shows up in Idaho but effects mild

By ROBYN C. WALKER
BOISE (UPI) — Rising unemployment, a smaller work week and larger numbers of layoffs indicate a downturn in Idaho's economy, but a state economist says Idaho is not experiencing the nationwide recession.

Planning and Coordination economist Richard Slaughter. "The state's rate of growth has declined but we have not gone into a recession."
Slaughter said some Idaho industries would experience negative growth this year, namely lumber and construction. He said durable manufacturing also would experience some decline, but non-durable manufacturing, including such industries as food-processing, would remain fairly stable.

Idaho's one ray of hope is its non-manufacturing industries — services and trade. "Robert Slaughter said should continue to grow."
And the main contributor to the state's non-manufacturing income is still agriculture.

"Agricultural prices are considerably higher now, although we've seen some drop in those," Slaughter said. "Farm incomes are up, helping to keep the economy going."
Slaughter said that is typical of the last couple recessions the U.S. has experienced — farm incomes rise at a time when manufacturing has fallen. He said he expected a slight growth of Idaho's economy next spring and summer, but an overall no-growth showing for the year.

"In terms of the total non-agricultural employment in the state, we're looking at a 2.5 percent increase in 1979 and 2.6 percent in 1980," he said. "That's compared to 5.7 percent in 1977 and 78."
Although he said the present national recession would not be as "deep" as the last one, he said it would take longer for the nation to recover. He said economists are predicting the U.S. will experience at least six quarters with little or no growth before coming out of this recession.

Charlie Anderson, a research analyst for the State Department of Employment, said much of Idaho's economic problems are forced upon it from "outside the state," not from factors within.
Higher interest rates nationally have ripped a hole in the housing industry, Anderson said, inflicting a corresponding wound on Idaho's lumber and wood product industry and construction statewide.
But Anderson said another industry suffering in Idaho because of national ills is the recreational vehicle manufacturing industry.

New state BLM chief discloses views

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's new Bureau of Land Management state director reported to work Monday morning and began the task of familiarizing himself with the state's land issues.

Robert O. Buffington, fresh from four years as Arizona state BLM director, met with cattlemen, environmentalists, the press and other interested parties just six hours after assuming his new responsibilities.

Buffington said the growing environmental concern for the preservation of Idaho's lands is "going to stay with us."

He said he plans to continue a wide-range of uses for Idaho's land, including wilderness areas, livestock grazing and recreation, but "not to the point everyone wants."

"There is no way we can accommodate all of them at the same time," Buffington said.

Ann begins quest for NBA career

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Ann Meyers, the first woman to sign a National Basketball Association contract, said she wasn't exceptionally nervous in her first Indiana Pacers' rookie training camp workout Monday.

Wearing the No. 15 jersey presented to her at a news conference last week, the former UCLA star said she was pleased with her initial workout in Butler University's Hinkle Fieldhouse.

Couch Bobby Leonard said she "did fine."

The workout lasted two hours and 15 minutes.

"It was strenuous and I got a little tired at the end," Meyers said, "but I was pleased with the way things went."

"I wasn't exceptionally nervous only nervous like any athlete who is trying to make a team."

Earlier, Meyers said she felt there was just a "slight chance" that she might make the Pacers' 11-player roster.

"The guys are much quicker than I am," she conceded. "I'll just have to play my game and see how it goes. I did try to adjust by trying to set some picks and make the good pass. I didn't really look to score."

Challenged

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Owners of the New Orleans Pride, a women's professional basketball team, Monday challenged Ann Meyers of the NBA Indiana Pacers to a one-on-one contest with one of their female players.

Steve Brown, part owner of the Pride, said he has extended a $5,000 offer to the Pacers to pit Meyers against a Pride player in a head-to-head contest. The Pacers have not responded.

"We do wish Ann the best of luck and success in her attempt to play in the NBA," Brown said. "However, we intend to criss the idea that she is the No. 1 female basketball player in the land."

All eyes focus on Ann Meyers

Puerto Rico judge orders arrest of Indiana's Knight

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — A district court judge Monday ordered the immediate arrest of Indiana University basketball coach Bobby Knight for aggravated assault and increased his pending jail sentence from six months to a possible nine months in addition to a $500 fine.

Judge Rurico Rivera's sentence was upheld despite pleas by the defense lawyer that it was overly harsh. Rivera also declared that for every $5 of Knight's fine left unpaid, he must serve one day in jail for up to 90 days.

Knight had ignored Rivera's Aug. 27 "absolutely last extension" for Knight to appear in court and appeal the sentence. It had been suggested that the six-month sentence would be suspended if Knight would show up in person and pay the $500 fine.

Assistant U.S. district attorney Carlos Ramos Pantoja said the case now moves to the justice department's extradition division, where he estimated "within a month" it will be decided whether to ask Governor Carlos Romero Barcelo to formally request Knight's extradition from Indiana.

Romero had earlier said, however, he would not ask for extradition on the misdemeanor charge, and Indiana's governor said he would also refuse permission. Knight said Sunday from his hometown of Bloomington, Ind., that he would never return to the island.

"If Knight steps foot in Puerto Rico," Ramos Pantoja said, "he will be arrested and jailed."

Defense lawyer Jorge Lora Longoria asked Rivera to reconsider his sentence noting that "issues not included in court records, such as press reports, might have influenced his judgment in dictating the original sentence Aug. 23."

He called Knight's punishment for allegedly hitting 32-year-old policeman Jose Silva on the jaw during July's Pan American Games "without precedent for a similar case."

Hinting at declarations made by the first judge in the controversial case, George Lopez Keelon, and those made by his clients earlier to the press insulting Puerto Rico's judicial system, Lora Longoria said in court that Knight had "in no way" meant to be disrespectful by not showing up in court.

Ramos Pantoja, in his arguments to uphold the original sentence, said Knight had broken his promise to appear in court.

At the last court session two weeks ago, Ramos Pantoja said he would try to do every thing possible to make the defendant appear in court, but after Monday's session he conceded that he did not expect Knight to return to Puerto Rico.

The original incident occurred July 8, when the U.S. basketball team at the Pan American Games was practicing at a gym.

According to court testimony by Silva, Knight complained about the noise made by members of the Brazilian women's basketball team and referred to the players as "these dirty whores."

Silva said he told Knight that was "no way to speak to ladies," and asked him for his name to report him to the Olympic Committee. Knight allegedly also told Silva "get your dirty hands off me, nigger" when he tried to arrest him, Silva said under oath.

Knight Sunday denounced Silva's "lies" and affirmed he would not show up in court.

Headed for showdown

Reds, Astros mix rotations

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Both the Cincinnati Reds and Houston Astros have changed their pitching rotations in order to have their top pitchers ready for a key, two-game series starting Tuesday night between the National League West title contenders.

Cincinnati's Tom Seaver will oppose J.R. Richard Tuesday night, while the Reds' Mike LaCoss faces Joe Niekro Wednesday night.

Shoshone, Wendell girls win

MAGIC VALLEY — Wendell and Shoshone took girls volleyball victories in dual action Monday night.

Wendell outlasted Jerome over three games, 15-5, 14-16 and 16-14. The Jerome javvies took the preliminary in three games.

At Fairfield, the Shoshone Indians, behind the serving of Amy and Julie Heath and the spiking of Karen Magoffin, defeated Camas County in straight sets 15-8, 15-5.

Shoshone swept the preliminary in two games.

Shoshone will travel to Richfield at 6:30 p.m. today while Wendell will be at Shoshone at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Virton also have scheduled those same pitchers to work two of the three games when the Reds and Astros get together in Houston Sept. 21-23.

Both Houston and Cincinnati were idle Monday, meaning the Astros are come to town with a one-half game lead over the Reds. Even though Cincinnati has 18 games remaining and Houston 19, McNamara figures the five head-to-head clashes will decide the NL West title.

"You can show me all the statistics you want," said McNamara.

Cactus Pete's Open begins five-day run

JACKPOT — The defending champions will be back when the annual Cactus Pete's $20,000 Open Golf Tournament begins its five-day run at the Jackpot Golf Course.

The tournament is divided into three segments with the amateurs leading off a $10,000 all-am division at 7:45 a.m. Wednesday. The amateurs will play two days and then combine with professionals Friday for a pro-scrabble pro-am. The professionals will play for $10,000 on Saturday and Sunday to wind up Magic Valley's major tournament season.

Tom Bashford, a scratch handicapper from Ogden, will be back to defend the amateur portion of the tournament.

His major competition probably will come from Idaho State's Jack Ridd, who has won just about every major amateur tournament in the Intermountain area.

Host Professional Billy Downs said the amateur phase had attracted 152 entries but "we had a few cancellations today and we think we will have about 140 tee-off Wednesday morning."

The bulk of the field is made up of Utah amateurs although the tournament has attracted its usual representative contingents from Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

The amateurs will be playing for merchandise prizes in net and gross divisions and in three flights. The handicap breakdown will be 0-10 for championship, 11-15 for first flight, 16-22 for second and 23-36 for third.

Top prize in each division will be $300 and pay through a low of $125 and six prizes. That means 12 in each division before, was presented by the Eagles twice in the third quarter but came up with the big play both times to keep Philadelphia off the scoreboard.

The Eagles moved to the Falcons' 7 with the aid of a 31-yard pass interference penalty against Atlanta cornerback Roland Lawrence but declined to gamble on a fourth-and-1 at that point and Leroy Harris was stopped for no gain. Philadelphia drove to the Falcons' 29 on its next drive but Lawrence came up with an interception at the Atlanta 16 to stop that drive.

adjusted on a percentage of the field basis for payback equity of the full $10,000.

Friday's pro-am will be the only time the pros and amateurs will participate. The competition will have the professional shooting a medal score which will be combined with two amateur partners who will play scramble.

The pro-am is not a regular part of the tournament pro-am, requiring an additional entry fee of $10.

When the pros come to town Saturday Bob Betyley of Fish Haven, Idaho, and Jerry Breaux of Boise will be the defending champions.

Downs said it appeared about 50 professionals will be in the field and added at this time Betyley's appearance wasn't firm.

"Betyley has some conflicts," Downs said. "I talked to him today and he said he would try to be here if he could clear things up."

Downs said the professional competition should be perked up by the entries of Mont Money of Las Vegas and Lynn Langert of Utah.

"Both of those guys have been playing every well this year," Downs said. "Between rounds, the field will be feted by host Al Huber on three occasions."

The first will be a luau in the Gala Room at Cactus Pete's. Cocktails will be served before 8 p.m. with the Hawaiian feast and entertainment to follow.

A cocktail hour with snacks is planned for 6 p.m. Friday at the Horseshoe Club and there will be another cocktail hour at 9 p.m. Sunday at the Horseshoe preceding the awards presentations.

No Eagle revenge

Falcons rally for fourth-quarter win

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett says it's unrealistic to think the Falcons can become "unstoppable" after their high-scoring football games week after week.

One week after scoring 40 points, the Falcons' scoring output diminished greatly Monday night but a 13-yard pass from Steve Bartkowski to Wallace Francis early in the fourth quarter still enabled Atlanta to defeat the Philadelphia Eagles 14-10.

"We knew it would be a low-scoring game," Bennett said after Atlanta's second victory of the young season. "We came in figuring on a running game and (rookie William) Andrews did the job for us."

Andrews, a third-round draft choice who ran for 167 yards a week ago, gained 121 yards on 24 carries Monday night and allowed Atlanta to keep the ball on two time-consuming drives, including one nearly seven minutes in the final quarter. But the winning touchdown came on a short drive set up by free safety Tom Priddyore's interception rumbuck to the Eagle 17.

Three plays and a penalty later, Bartkowski hit Francis in the corner of the end zone with 11:29 remaining. "We tried it once and it didn't work," Bartkowski said of the winning score. "I was surprised when we tried it the second time and it did work."

The Eagles threatened often but suffered from two late interceptions and the inability to mount a consistent ground game.

"In my observation they're a better team than the Eagles," Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil said. "They were a bomb to Henry Marshall that against them. I had confidence we'd keep going but we didn't."

The Falcons controlled the ball for nearly five minutes later in the quarter with rookie Rob Andrews, who carried the ball 24 times for 121 yards, doing most of the running. Then Tim Mazzetti missed a 41-yard field goal attempt with 1:34 remaining.

The Eagles took over at their 24 and moved to the Atlanta 47 when time ran out. Philadelphia attempted a desperation pass in the end zone on its final play but it was incomplete. And thus the Eagles failed to avenge a 14-13 loss to the Falcons in last year's NFC wild card playoff game.

The Atlanta defense, which allowed 24 points in a Falcon victory the week before, was pressured by the Eagles twice in the third quarter but came up with the big play both times to keep Philadelphia off the scoreboard.

The Eagles moved to the Falcons' 7 with the aid of a 31-yard pass interference penalty against Atlanta cornerback Roland Lawrence but declined to gamble on a fourth-and-1 at that point and Leroy Harris was stopped for no gain. Philadelphia drove to the Falcons' 29 on its next drive but Lawrence came up with an interception at the Atlanta 16 to stop that drive.

The Eagles took a 3-0 lead midway through the first quarter on a 35-yard field goal by rookie Tony Franklin. Jaworski passed 27 yards to Harold Carmichael and 17 yards to Charles Smith to set up the kick.

The Falcons drove 78 yards on their next possession in 14 plays to take a 7-3 lead 1:11 into the second period. Bartkowski passed 21 yards to Francis and Andrews ran the ball six straight times for 37 yards to put the ball on the 1, from where Bartkowski sneaked over.

Philadelphia followed Bartkowski's touchdown with a 14-play TD drive that went 83 yards and chewed up eight minutes.

Bucks sign Moncrief

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Milwaukee Bucks coach Don Nelson said he is a fine guard and "spectacular player," Monday said Arkansas star Sidney Moncrief has signed a six-year contract with the club.

"I think it (the signing) is going to give us one of the best backcourts, depth-wise, in the NBA," Nelson said. "He is a fine player on both offense and defense. And he is also a spectacular player."

The 6-foot-4 Moncrief was the fourth player chosen in the recent NBA draft. He averaged 22 points and 9.6 rebounds a game last season with Arkansas and finished his four-year career with school records of 2,966 points and 1,015 rebounds.

Nelson admitted it won't be easy finding playing time for all his guards, especially for Moncrief who has the potential to become a star in the league.

"We're going to build around and with Sidney," said Nelson. "We're going to have to find time for him."

For Moncrief, who became a starter as a freshman at Arkansas, sitting on the bench may not be easy but he said he will learn to live with it.

Chiefs start rookie

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The changing of the guard is coming quicker than Mike Livingston, Steve Fuller, or the Kansas City Chiefs had expected.

Fuller, the club's first-round draft pick out of Clemson, won his first starting assignment at quarterback on the basis of his relief appearance against the Cleveland Browns Sunday when he rallied the Chiefs to 24 points in the final 16 minutes.

But Fuller's efforts were spoiled by a 21-yard Brian Sipe-to-Reggie Rucker touchdown pass with 57 seconds left in the game that gave Cleveland a 27-24 victory.

Fuller led three touchdown drives for 128 yards and at one point completed seven straight passes. The eighth pass in that string was a bomb to Henry Marshall that was ruled as an incomplete because the wide receiver came down with only one foot in the end zone.

Fuller, dutifully avoiding a continuous stream of safety bites from All-Pro Tom Darden, finished the day 14-of-25 for 148 yards. He also threw a 17-yard touchdown pass to T. J. Smith.

"I expect them to start Fuller," conceded Livingston, who was a humble 2-of-10 passing in the first half of the Cleveland game for 26 yards. "He earned it. He deserves it."

The Chiefs announced last Monday that Fuller would start Sunday's game at Houston against the Oilers.

Gooding, Filer unbeaten

FILER — Filer and Gooding bombed into the championship semifinals Monday in the annual Filer Girls Volleyball Invitational Tournament.

The two A-3 powers knocked off A-2 and A-1 teams in gaining the right to play for a spot in the finals tonight. The semi-finals will be played at 5 p.m. with the loser moving on to the championship game at 7 p.m. in the Filer gymnasium.

Action resumes at 4 p.m. today with two Falls taking on Kimberly in a loser-bracket game. The survivor of that one will play the Filer-Gooding loser for the right to go against the undefeated team for the title.

Gooding posted two impressive victories, Coach Jolene Toone's Senators polishing off Wood River 15-0, 15-3 and coming back to eliminate Mill 15-10, 15-11.

Filer spotted Twin Falls the middle game in taking a three-set decision. The Wildcats took the opener 15-7 with Twin Falls coming back in the second to win 15-12. Filer then reversed that score to relegate the Bruins to the loser bracket.

The Wildcats went on to top Kimberly 15-10 and 16-14.

In the loser bracket, Kimberly set Wood River home by winning 9-15, 15-8, 15-11 and Twin Falls spotted Buil the first game 14-16 and then turned it around to win 15-12, 15-11.

BSU film to be shown

TWIN FALLS — Film of the Boise State-Long Beach State game will be shown at 7:30 p.m. today at Little Theater Inn.

BSU's Jim Faucher said the film will be shown each Tuesday through the remainder of the season and all interested persons are invited.

CSI sets fund-raiser

TWIN FALLS — A new car will be the top prize in the first annual CSI hole-in-one golf contest Sept. 22 and 23.

The hole-in-one competition, which will be in conjunction with a first hole-in-one day.

The combination is the most ambitious fund-raiser undertaken by the school athletic department and the Eagle Boosters.

Athletic Director Tom Weirich said the hole-in-one competition will run from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sept. 22 and noon to 7 p.m. Sept. 23. The new car will go to the first hole-in-one posted.

Weirich said full details must be finalized but through cooperation of several Magic Valley auto dealers, the winner should have a selection of several makes and models.

The car is being underwritten with an insurance company.

Should the car not be given away, hourly prizes will serve as compensation, going to the closest to the pin shooter during those segments. The prizes have been donated or underwritten by several area businesses.

Nationally, door prizes will be offered to all those who avail themselves of the (fish fry).

"This type of activity has been carried out by several colleges and booster groups and has proved very entertaining and successful," Weirich said. "It gives all our fans a chance to get better acquainted among themselves and with our athletes and have a good time."

Weirich noted there will be women's and men's tees and possibly two greens, although that hasn't been decided. He said arrangements have been made to form greens on the campus lawn immediately west of the Fine Arts Building for the two-day competition.

Businesses helping to sponsor the event are Western Beverage, Coors of Magic Valley, Idaho Bean and Elevator, Twin Falls Bank and Trust, Newton's Sports Center, Gem State Realty, Osco Drugs, Beckstead and Cooper, Farmers National Bank, Idaho First National Bank, American Real Estate, Vikers Western Store, First Security Bank, Van's Department Store, Canyon Springs Golf Course, Me 'n' Ed's Pizza and Rangens, Inc.

Palmer marks 50th year

LATROBE, Pa. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer turned 50 Monday but his play and delivered good to masses says he still had a lot of life left in his body and he is even planning to shorten his season's smile.

"I'm going to continue to work, but I'm going to take a little more time to — as Walter Hagan used to say — stop and enjoy the flowers on the way by," said Palmer, who spent his birthday "practicing a little golf" and relaxing with a quiet family dinner.

Asked how he feels about being a half century old, Palmer flashed his trademark smile and quipped: "I'm hurting. But I'm really working to get in shape. I've been working on my golf game to see if I can't recapture some of that old stuff that might be hanging round."

Palmer plans to pilot his jet to play matches or tournaments in Italy, France, Brazil and South Africa later this year. And his scaled-down schedule next year will include stops at some of the PGA major tournaments including the Hawaiian Open.

"I suppose over the past 50 years I really couldn't have wished for a better life than I've had to this point," he said. "I can always look back and say, 'Gee, I wish I had won a few more tournaments.'"

But on the other hand, I've received a lot of the competition, the tournaments I've won and the things I do, like flying around the world."

Landestoy voted NL honors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rafael Landestoy of the Houston Astros has been named Player of the Week — the National League announced Monday.

Landestoy batted .600 with 12 hits in 20 at-bats, including two doubles and a triple as he took the lead in the Western Division by a half-game over Cincinnati.

The second baseman, who also scored two runs and had two RBI, had 23 errorless chances at second.

Crenshaw tops point race

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ben Crenshaw, third on the 1979 money-winning list, has taken the lead in the summer tour championship race with 239.33 points on the PGA tour. It was announced Monday.

Crenshaw, competing this week on the U.S. Ryder Cup team, is ahead of Lou Graham and David Graham, and the top three finishers in the Summer Tour World Series of Golf, scheduled to be played Sept. 18-24 at Pinestone Country Club.

Lou Graham has 222.00 points and David Graham is solidly in third place with 209.50.

Tom Watson, with $447,656 in prize money on the PGA tour, has a commanding lead in the 1979 money-winning list. Larry Nelson is second with $243,765, followed by Crenshaw with $219,549.

NHL refs get pay hike

TORONTO (UPI) — National Hockey League linemen and referees will be the highest paid officials in pro sports under a new agreement signed Monday that raises the salary of senior officials 25-30 percent over three years.

The three-year agreement provides for a 25-30 percent salary increase over the term and would raise a senior official's maximum salary to $60,000 — about $15,000 more than that paid NBA officials and major league umpires.

The agreement, which covers 36 existing officials and another dozen who will be signed due to the NHL expansion, establishes a salary scale based on years of service for the first time in league history.

The top salary in the NHL last year was about $49,000. The minimum salary was $20,000.

The contract was unanimously ratified by the 36 NHL umpires Sunday. It does not award any seniority to officials who worked in the defunct WHA and have no previous NHL experience.

AL cites Washington

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chicago's Claudell Washington was named the American League Player of the Week Monday after he batted .464 for the three-day short-timed week of Sept. 4-6; it was announced Monday.

Washington, who had been in a slump, collected 18 bases including four doubles. In addition, Washington drove in 10 runs, scored four and stole four bases in five at-bats.

MacPhail vetoes protests

NEW YORK (UPI) — American League President Lee S. MacPhail Monday turned down four recent protests, including two filed by the Baltimore Orioles.

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver protested the game in Minnesota Aug. 31, claiming that Twins' catcher Butch Wynegar violated AL rules by running into dugout with the ball after an inning. Minnesota won the game 3-1 and MacPhail said the rule in question was removed from the books a few years ago.

Both the Orioles and the Milwaukee Brewers protested games in Chicago within a week of each other — each dealing with the condition of the Comiskey Park field.

Baltimore filed a protest Aug. 25 when its double-header in Chicago was postponed due to wet grounds. The Orioles claimed the field was not playable primarily because of a rock concert held in Comiskey Park a few days earlier. The league has ruled the game will be made up, if necessary for the pennant race, Oct. 1.

The Brewers protested Sept. 1 when their game was rained out after five innings with the White Sox leading 4-3. Milwaukee argued that the game should have been suspended instead and picked up again at a later date. The ground effect and not the weather was the key factor in the umpires' decision.

Stewart rejects big offer

LONDON (UPI) — Three-time world Formula 1 champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland has rejected a $2.5 million offer to return to Grand Prix racing and drive for the Brabham team.

Announcing his decision Monday, Stewart said it had been difficult to dismiss the offer — the highest ever made for a one-year contract.

"The first thing I would like to say about the offer made by Bernie Ecclestone of Brabham to drive for his team next year is that I have considered it very seriously," said Stewart.

"My initial reaction was to reject it immediately — why should I go back to a sport I had retired from six years ago."

"But a number of points made me give the proposal more serious consideration. Firstly, I have a great deal of respect for the Brabham designer, Gordon Murray and for the rest of the Brabham team who I feel have all the basic ingredients of a winning team."

"Coupled with that, the Brabham team will be using the Ford DFV engine in 1980 and it is an engine that in my opinion is far better suited to the current ground effect trend in Formula 1 car design than the engines they are using at the moment."

Hill's future uncertain

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — For the first time in a dozen years, Calvin Hill doesn't know what he'll be doing next year.

The only thing he does know is that he won't be playing football. It's been 10 years since Hill made his living by carrying a football over and around people for the Dallas Cowboys, but that was when he was a 22-year-old rookie out of Yale.

Now, Hill is a 32-year-old spot player for the Cleveland Browns and he has freely admit that football is not in his future for much longer.

Officials madden Colt coach

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Baltimore Colts Coach Ted Marchbroda, stung by a large number of penalties and some controversial calls in his team's first two games, suggested Monday that officials might need more time to get into shape than the players.

The Colts have been penalized 29 times in losses to Kansas City and Tampa Bay.

3-2 he can stand the loss of the trump finesse since the club finesse does succeed.

A "modern" East-West pair would have made things difficult and probably impossible for North and South. East would surely make a presumptive jump to three diamonds. If West passed, North would repeat his double at the three level, but suppose West carried on the battle by going to four diamonds.

Would North double again? If he did double again would South decide to pass and hope that North could take four tricks against the diamond contract?

Incidentally, four diamonds makes because South never gets on-load-and-eventually West can discard one of East's clubs on his long heart.

Ask the Experts

A Florida reader asks what the key card convention is. It is Blackwood except that the king of trumps is counted as a fifth ace. When it works it is wonderful. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Experts," care of this newspaper. Individual questions will be answered if accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes. The most interesting questions will be selected and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.
