

PCB spotted just by chance

WASHINGTON — The spread of the chemical pollutant PCB to human and animal food in 17 states was spotted "just by chance" and could have gone unnoticed under current government procedures, a Department of Agriculture official said Friday.

Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman told a House hearing that bureaucratic routine and slipups accounted for the six-week delay between the taking of a food sample that proved to be PCB-loaded and the day that the Food and Drug Administration was notified of the contamination. But "even under the best of circumstances" it would have taken three to four weeks, she said.

The Food and Drug Administration is still tracking down shipments nationwide of cake mixes, wafer mixes and other products made with eggs that might have contained PCB from a Montana animal feed plant, according to acting FDA commissioner Sherwin Gardner. He said he was "reasonably certain" that none had escaped the FDA net but would not know for sure until all the reports are in and verified in another 30 days.

PCB is polychlorinated biphenyl, a possibly cancer-causing chemical that has been linked to skin and liver disease, bone problems and other ailments. Banned in 1977, it previously was used as a lubricant and high-temperature coolant and continues to exist in older electrical transformers and industrial machinery.

It was such a transformer, apparently damaged by some kind of farm machinery or loading vehicle as it sat in a machine storage shed, that leaked about 200 gallons of oil containing PCB at the Pierce Packing Co. of Billings, Mont., according to the FDA.

The oil went into a drainage system that was routinely cleaned of fats for inclusion in animal feed. Foreman told the hearing that 299,000 pounds of affected poultry and 16,000 pounds of fresh pork have been located and held off the market. The FDA and USDA have also tracked the chemical to 73,000 pounds of egg products, about 52,000 pounds of which have been withheld. The rest is being traced.

The Agriculture Department monitoring system spot-checks animal carcasses and is designed to catch trends over a year-long period, Foreman said. "It was just by chance that we picked up this single incident relatively quickly."

Idaho Gov. John V. Evans objected in his testimony to "lapses... slipshod procedures... inexcusable delays" in government agency performance in the case.

Evans urged the subcommittee to develop an indemnity program for livestock and poultry producers who suffer extreme economic losses when their products are quarantined based on confirmed laboratory data which indicates hazardous levels of toxic materials exist.

"The disaster relief would help to minimize losses due to unintentional contamination of livestock or poultry," Evans said. "And, it would allow the producer to resume business before compensation is available through the courts."

No contamination found at Twin Falls company

TWIN FALLS — Tests by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for PCB contamination in pork products from the Independent Meat Co., Twin Falls, show no PCB in the samples tested so far, according to the Deputy Regional Director of the USDA in San Francisco.

Dr. M.C. McInay said there were no traces of PCB, a chemical that has caused tumors in laboratory animals, in the samples of ham and bacon tested by the lab in San Francisco. More tests will be conducted over the weekend.

In a related development, tests completed Friday by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration again found PCB contamination in the feed at Ambrose Farms, Wendell. The pork products from Independent Meat tested by the USDA were produced from 81 hogs purchased from Ambrose. Independent markets its products under the name Falls Brand.

Also on Friday, Independent Meat Co. asked all markets that had not already done so to remove Falls Brand products from their shelves.

Castro attacks Carter

HAVANA (UPI) — Cuban President Fidel Castro Friday flatly rejected charges that Soviet combat troops were stationed in Cuba and accused President Carter of being "dishonest, insincere, immoral."

Accusing Carter of "creating an artificial crisis, a micro-missile crisis," Castro said Soviet troops were in Cuba stationed at a base he identified for the first time as "training base number 12" near Havana, though he did not disclose their number.

He insisted, however, there had been no change in their function or approximate number since they were sent there 17 years ago, after the Cuban missile crisis.

Castro's comments came during an extraordinary news conference in the Presidential Palace, where he answered questions from eight American correspondents permitted to fly to Cuba to interview the bearded Cuban leader.

Dressed in his customary tailored olive fatigues, Castro puffed continually on a small cigar as he returned again and again to the charge that it was Carter, led by National Security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, who created the crisis.

In Washington, sources said President Carter will make a nationally televised address Monday night to explain the controversy and may display top secret intelligence photographs and other data to support the U.S. charges.

The State Department said it did not intend to issue an official reaction Friday night. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance earlier canceled plans to attend ceremonies in Panama Monday marking the turn over sovereignty of the Canal Zone to Panama.

Castro said, "The essential question is, why is it now a problem? Why are they (the Americans) trying to create a crisis now?"

"What you call a brigade and which we call a training center has been in Cuba for the past 17 years," he said. "That military facility was established at the end of the crisis of October 1962."

Castro, however, rejected one American reporter's suggestion that U.S. journalists be permitted to inspect the camp.

Concerning this problem has been dishonest, insincere, immoral," he said. "He has been deceiving world opinion and the U.S. public opinion by making Lane Kirkland said Friday labor now is willing to give the voluntary program "a try."

The theme of the agreement was that there should be, in the words of a White House statement, "equitable sharing of sacrifice" in fighting inflation.

"He has not been honest with the world," he said. "He is not dumb. He is not an idiot. He shouldn't play world peace."

Normal spud year eases 1978 glut

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Last year at this time, Idaho potato growers were harvesting their largest crop of famous potatoes ever.

The record crop contributed to a spud glut that kept prices low all year. This week, as the potato harvest began in earnest, prices were lower than they were at this time last year.

A smaller crop this year should help push prices up, but it is too early to tell if prices will rise enough for growers to make a profit.

Also, 80 percent of the potato crop in the Magic Valley may already be under contract to processors like J.R. Simplot, Ore-Ida and Frozen Foods, at prices which leave little room for grower profit.

Jack Thomason, a Jerome grower and vice president of the marketing organization Potato Growers of Idaho, said that roughly 80 percent of the Magic Valley crop is under contract to processors. Contract prices are between $2 and $3.50 a hundredweight — a hundred pound sack — this year. Thomason said growers will need to harvest about 300 sacks an acre, which is a better than average yield in the Magic Valley, to break even.

James Nafziger, another Magic Valley grower, is more outspoken. "It's a normal potato crop," he said. "The average farmer with average-size potatoes will lose money."

Nafziger planted about 1,000 acres of potatoes this year. That's down from last year when he planted 3,000. He used the other acres to grow corn, wheat and beans.

"They're all good crops. Everybody should take a look at them. I'm making money on all of them," he said.

Like Nafziger, many Idaho growers planted fewer acres of potatoes this year. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that Idaho has about 35,000 fewer acres for harvest this year, which is almost a 10 percent drop.

There will be fewer potatoes on those acres than last year, too. Commodity broker Alex Sinclair, Twin Falls, estimates that the potato crop will be down about 15 percent from last year's record 100,000 hundredweight.

"That record crop produced a chronic oversupply" in potato markets this year, Sinclair said. The price of summer potatoes was depressed because there were still Idaho potatoes to be sold. According to the Idaho Growers and Shippers Association in Idaho Falls, the last Idaho potatoes weren't picked until the middle of August. The last potato is usually sold by July 4th.

Because of the extra Idaho potatoes, the summer crop hasn't all been sold yet, Sinclair said. And as a result the left-over summer potatoes, potatoes from Oregon and Wisconsin being harvested and sold now, are going for "disastrous prices" — lower than last year at this time," Sinclair said.

Potatoes are selling now for between $2 and $2.50 a hundredweight.

But the potatoes being sold now are norgolds, Sinclair explains, which have to be sold immediately after they are harvested. Russets, and 99 percent of the potatoes in Idaho are russets, can be stored, so growers can wait for higher prices, he said.

John Hansen, a grower in Rupert, is going to do that. "Farmers need to get a little stiffer in their backbones," he said. "There's no need to sell at these prices."

Hansen, who grows about 250 acres of potatoes, said he lost about $200,000 on the crop last year. He sold his crop for an average price of $1.25 a sack. He figures he needs $3.25 just to break even.

Starting his crop while he waits for higher prices will cost about 80 cents a sack, he said. But he is sure higher prices will be coming. "Once this crop is in, they'll see how few potatoes there are," he said. By December he expects prices to begin climbing.

Pat Keegan, of Keegan Inc., Twin Falls shippers, said farmers do seem to be waiting for prices to go up. Growers won't sell at current prices, Keegan said. It's not so much that they are waiting for a higher price. It's just that they can't afford not to, he said. Growers are "getting tired of losing money."

Wages and prices

This time the inflation battle has labor's blessing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration Friday announced new anti-inflation guidelines which will allow many companies to raise prices, and reached agreement with organized labor on an advisory committee to recommend wage levels.

President Carter and the 35-member Executive Council of the AFL-CIO jointly announced a broad economic "accord," calling for "a period of austerity" for all Americans, which will involve restraints on the rise of both wages and prices.

The president announced creation of an advisory panel — comprising five labor, five business and five public members — to recommend a new wage increase guideline for the second year of the administration's voluntary wage-price program.

It will be headed by John Dunlop, Harvard professor, labor secretary under President Gerald Ford and head of a pay board during the Nixon administration.

The panel will report by Oct. 31. Meanwhile, the 7 percent wage increase standard in effect during the past year will remain in effect as the second year of the program begins Monday.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce immediately denounced the agreement, saying it was "a political move" designed to benefit Carter and not consumers.

"If ever a national effort required unity, it is our anti-inflation program," chamber President Richard Leshner said in a statement. "Yet the president showed favoritism by giving labor unions some form of exalted status in a so-called two-party accord."

The Council on Wage and Price Stability announced new price guidelines which will go into effect Monday.

During the past year, companies have been asked to hold price increases a half percent below the amount they rose in 1976-77.

Companies now will be on a basic two-year standard. They will be asked to hold price increases during the first and second year of the program combined to the amount they rose in 1976-77.

If their increases were below the guideline in the first year, they can be higher in the second year.

Alfred Kahn, Carter's chief adviser on inflation, said this change will allow firms to raise prices about 1 percent higher than if the old standard were continued.

But Kahn said that at the same time, the administration is tightening several loopholes in the price guidelines. So it is hard to say, he said, whether the net effect will be to tighten or loosen the price guidelines.

Even though the existing 7 percent wage standard is being continued, millions of workers will be eligible for increases of 8 percent or more, officials said.

This is because the council is allowing a 1 percent "catchup" for workers not covered by automatic cost of living increases, and will allow workers who received less than 7 percent last year to get more in the coming year.

Carter said he will appoint a second, five-member board to advise the government on possible future changes in price guidelines.

The president's agreement with the AFL-CIO resulted from months of negotiations and represented a turning point in which organized labor has agreed for the first time to become something like an active partner in the voluntary wage-price program.

The federation strongly denounced the past year's program, saying it allowed prices to rise faster than wages, and insisted the only solution to inflation was mandatory controls.

AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland said Friday labor now is willing to give the voluntary program "a try."

The theme of the agreement was that there should be, in the words of a White House statement, "equitable sharing of sacrifice" in fighting inflation.

As the AFL-CIO put it in a statement: "This will mean a period of austerity for Americans — individual and collective sacrifices for a time so that we may then enjoy the greater bounty of our land in the years to come."

Carter's accord with labor also included agreement on other broad policies: reducing the federal deficit; cautious use of anti-recession job and social programs; and a cautious approach to tax cuts.

AFL-CIO's Meany to resign

Angry Senate allows pay hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An angry Senate late Friday defeated a compromise to continue funding for several government agencies when the new fiscal year begins Monday and said the House, by taking a decision, is responsible for the 12 percent hike in congressional pay that automatically will take effect.

In an unusual display of senatorial fury, lawmakers accused the House of recessing until Tuesday to leave the Senate no choice but to take the House version of the funding resolution, which included a strong stand against federally funded abortions — or reb-beyond government agencies run out of money.

The Senate, after nearly two hours of mudslinging at the House said it wouldn't stand for that kind of treatment and beat the compromise, 55-9.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd immediately scheduled a session today in case President Carter decides to call the House into special session to deal with the dilemma for government agencies whose regular fiscal 1980 appropriations bills are stalled in Congress.

Removal of tritium halted

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (UPI) — A Coconino County judge Friday barred the transportation of radioactive tritium across the state to the Navajo Army Depot.

A temporary restraining order by Superior Court Judge Richard Mangum against the State of Arizona and Gov. Bruce Babbitt also restrains authorities from storing tritium at the facility.

Mangum will conduct a hearing on the order within 10 days.

Loading of the tritium at the American Atomic Corp. plant at Tucson, Ariz., had started, and a National Guard convoy had been set to begin the 270-mile journey to the Army installation today.

DOE charges oil refiners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Energy Department today cited nine oil refiners for allegedly bilking a government run import subsidy program out of a total of $25 million, the agency announced Friday.

The agency's Economic Regulatory Administration enforcement office issued notices of probable violation against the firms as a preliminary step toward recovering the money.

The citations allege each firm improperly claimed and collected cash payments from the program, which is designed to spread the economic benefits of low-price domestic crude oil among all domestic refiners.

Kennedy encourages fans

BOSTON — Before a cheering hometown crowd, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy Friday came closer than ever to announcing his presidential candidacy.

Kennedy, who up to now has said only that he is considering a bid for the White House, came home to Boston to address about 1,500 delegates to a state AFL-CIO convention. Just before the senator appeared the convention passed by acclamation a resolution urging the national AFL-CIO to endorse him for the presidency.

"You'll be hearing about my response to that resolution in the not too many days and weeks to come," Kennedy said. Then he added, in words almost drowned out by the audience's roar of approval: "I don't think you'll be disappointed."

That set off a chorus of "We want Ted," the same chant that had greeted Kennedy when he entered the meeting hall.

Students protest in Panama

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — Dozens of angry American students at Panamanian agencies about President Carter Friday watched Orla Glory lowered for the last time at the Panama Canal Zone's Balboa High School.

It was at Balboa High School in 1964 that a dispute over whether the U.S. or Panamanian flags should be displayed triggered riots that left 24 people dead and led to the negotiations that ended 13 years later with the new treaty.

Also, some 200 Panamanian opponents — leftists who object to U.S. military bases in Panama and rightists who challenge the Panamanian government's legitimacy held an illegal "dignity march" through Panama City Friday evening. National guard troops did not interfere.

A coalition of 10 opposition parties denounced the treaty Friday and called for a boycott of ceremonies scheduled for Monday to mark the end of the 76 years of U.S. rule over the Panama Canal Zone.

Dubliner posts papal flag at her fruit stand

Ireland awaits papal visit

DUBLIN, Ireland eagerly and edgily — awaited the first visit of a pope to the land of St. Patrick.

When Pope John Paul II arrives today, his mission will be one of "peace and reconciliation," according to Vatican officials.

The Irish were in a festive mood for the three-day visit of the Polish pope, and two million or more people are expected to see the pontiff before he departs for the United States on Monday.

White and yellow papal flags were entwined with the orange, white and green banner of Ireland on all the main streets and in front of houses.

Dublin and the other cities on his itinerary were freshly painted and sparkling clean. The country has spent about $2 million and mobilized 60,000 volunteers to make sure things go smoothly for the papal visit.

Train line's demise blocked

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — A federal judge signed a temporary restraining order Friday, blocking Amtrak from eliminating three money-losing passenger lines from its national rail service on Sunday.

The three long-distance Amtrak lines — the Lone Star, Florida and North Coast Hiawatha passenger trains — had been scheduled along with the National Limited and Hilltopper to be ended Sunday.

But U.S. District Judge Frank Thiel's agreed to a request by the states of Kansas and Minnesota, the city of Nashville, Tenn., and Davidson County, Tenn., that the demise of the three lines be delayed for at least 10 days to give them time to show that the temporary restraining order should be made permanent.

Breadworkers held hostage

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Salvadoran leftists took 200 workers hostage in a bread factory, sources said Friday.

Relatives of hostages held captive since Thursday night in the Lido Bread Factory in downtown San Salvador pleaded with some 50 leftist captors to release the 200 or so persons being held. Those included the plant manager and a number of plant supervisors.

26 die in Vienna hotel fire

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — Twenty-six people, including an American beauty queen who leapt to her death, perished in a choking, pre-dawn blaze that swept an old Vienna hotel Friday.

Two other U.S. tourists also died in Austria's worst fire since World War II.

Clutching a pillow in desperate hope it would cushion her fall, Ellen Wight, 24, Miss Oklahoma 1977, jumped to her death to escape the flames and smoke that ravaged the Hotel Am Argauer near Vienna's rater amusement park.

An elderly American couple, identified as Donald and Francis Frazier of Kennebunk, Maine, were also among the dead.

Rescuers said 23 of the 26 victims died in their beds, trapped by the heavy smoke and flames. Most of the dead were described as Yugoslavian tourists.

WASHINGTON Post — George Meany, the 85-year-old one-time Bronx plumber who has been a symbol of the American labor movement for most of the 20th century, disclosed Friday he will step down as president of the AFL-CIO.

The impending retirement of the retiring Meany was announced formally by his heir apparent, one Kirkland, 57, a close friend and ally who has been secretary-treasurer of the 14-million-member labor federation for 10 years.

Kirkland's almost certain ascendancy to the AFL-CIO presidency at the federation's November convention is not expected to produce major policy changes, but he is expected to offer more vigor and flexibility at a time when the labor movement's fortunes are in both economic and political decline. Unions' share of the workforce is declining, and they complain that their share of the political action is shrinking as well.

Asked if he would seek the union presidency, Kirkland said, "Yes." Asked what challenges the job will entail, he said "Everything."

Kirkland, speaking in almost reverential tones, told a news conference that Meany informed him of his decision Thursday night and asked that it be conveyed to the AFL-CIO Executive Council as it met Friday to endorse an economic "accord" with the Carter administration.

Meany, who has been incapacitated for most of the year with knee and hip ailments, was reportedly ill Friday with intestinal flu.

While it has been expected for years, Meany's retirement strips the national stage of one of its premier actors: a gruff, cigar-chomping caricature of a labor leader who outlasted most of the presidents, members of Congress, captains of industry who tangled with him during his 69-year labor career.

Rising from plumber's apprentice in the Bronx to be head of the New York labor federation, he came to Washington in 1940 as secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, becoming confident and critic of presidents from Franklin Roosevelt to Jimmy Carter.

Meany was a key figure behind the merger in 1955 of the once-feuding American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, and became its first — and thus far only — president.

He was a consolidator rather than an innovator, a full and demanding partner in the capitalist system, a crusty debunker of the ideological concerns that characterized the labor movements of many other countries.

and he had an ample share of detractors, both in and out of the labor movement. Many, even "friends," believed he stayed beyond his time. But, characteristically, he went out in a time and style of his own choosing.

Water leak in TMI plant poses hazard

WASHINGTON Post — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission warned Friday that radioactive water is now leaking out of the containment building at Three Mile Island at such a rapid rate that in 30 days it will overflow tanks where it is being stored.

Piping that carries contaminated water out of the containment building is now leaking 1,200 gallons of water a day into the auxiliary building outside the containment, where some storage tanks are already full. A 110,000-gallon tank that was installed in the auxiliary building after the accident is 30 days away from being filled up, the NRC was told.

NRC officials are concerned about the potential overflow because all the options for dealing with it either would take too long or pose fresh problems.

Staff members told the five-member NRC that it must decide in the next two weeks how it wants to get rid of the contaminated water. It can decide to install additional storage tanks on the island. It can start up sooner than expected a process to remove the radioactivity from the contaminated water or it can begin to pump contaminated water into the containment building of the undamaged reactor alongside the reactor that was shut down by the March 28 accident.

"We don't want to do that because the piping that carries water into the containment at the undamaged Unit One pumps uncontaminated water into the Susquehanna River," the NRC's Edison Case said. "Since we're under a court order not to pump any contaminated water into the river, we'd like to stay away from that option."

The leak that is forcing contaminated water into the storage tanks is in piping where radiation levels are still so high that they pose a health hazard to maintenance workers.

While additional storage tanks could be installed to handle the leak, Case said it might take too long to get the tanks put in and to test their piping for leaks.

The final option is to start up ahead of schedule a system that is being installed to remove the radioactivity from the contaminated water.

Balloon escapes dangerous drafts

© The Washington Post
BOULDER, Colo. — After being caught for two hours in dangerous updrafts near 14,256-foot Longs Peak in the Rocky Mountains near here, the balloon DaVinci TransAmerica swept over downtown Denver Friday setting a new long-distance record for ballooning in the continental United States.
 By 4 p.m. (EDT), the 10-story-high craft, which lifted off Wednesday from Tillamook, Ore., had traveled 1,084 miles in 22 hours and 42 minutes.
 The clear plastic helium balloon, piloted by Vera Simons of McLean, Va., and carrying her crew of three, shimmered in the cloudless sky here at nearly 17,000 feet as it broke a 55-year-old distance record for wind-borne lighter-than-air flights over North America.
 The old record was held by a hydrogen balloon that flew from San Antonio to Minneapolis in April 1924.
 The four crew members of the DaVinci, which is attempting the first non-stop balloon crossing of the United States, completed the most dangerous leg of their journey when, shortly after noon Friday, they popped over the top of Longs Peak, swinging southeast cross the eastern foothills of the Rockies and drifted over Boulder at about 20 miles an hour.

 The balloon, more than 500 miles south of its intended flight path, passed within two miles of the Boulder home of Dr. Rudolf J. Englemann, a crew member and director of the flight.
 "We didn't expect the thing to come over the house," said Englemann's 15-year-old son Carsten, who watched it pass near here from the roof of the family home.
 The crew, which has been breathing oxygen throughout most of the flight, used up almost 80 percent of its oxygen supply drifting above the Cascade and Rocky mountain ranges at altitudes as high as 19,000 feet.
 In an interview Friday over a radio telephone, pilot Simons said she and the crew wanted to descend to lower altitudes as quickly as possible.
 "I'm anxious to come down because it is difficult to work on oxygen. You've got to keep your gloves on all the time, and you have to wear that oxygen mask," she said.
 At dawn Friday, the DaVinci was flying south of Laramie, Wyo., and approaching the snow-shrouded peaks of the Rocky Mountain National Park.

Witnesses demand legal immunity in Jordan case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Several key witnesses in the investigation of charges White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan snuffed cocaine are refusing to talk with FBI agents unless they are granted immunity, sources said Friday.
 Their silence could force Justice Department officials either quickly to convene a grand jury so the holdout witnesses can be subpoenaed, or to appoint a special prosecutor to probe the matter under the new Ethics in Government law.
 Robert Havel, a Justice Department spokesman, said the FBI could deliver by next week a report on its five-week-old preliminary inquiry into allegations Jordan snorted the drug at a New York disco and two Los Angeles parties.
 Then Civiletti must appoint a special prosecutor to take over, unless the charges are "so unsubstantiated that no further investigation" is warranted.

 Sources said among witnesses refusing to be interviewed by the FBI without immunity from drug prosecutions are:
 • Andrew Cohen, a 29-year-old political worker who was said to have driven Jordan from a Beverly Hills, Calif., party to his hotel on Oct. 21, 1977.
 • Jan Tyler, 29-year-old former employee of Penthouse Magazine reported to have accompanied Jordan to New York's posh Studio 54 discotheque on June 27, 1978.
 After a lawyer for another witness, Lanni Ravis, backed down on his client's allegations against Jordan earlier this week, officials were left with no direct evidence the presidential adviser used cocaine in California.

Nov. 22 proclaimed Thanksgiving Day this year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Friday proclaimed Nov. 22 as Thanksgiving Day, saying "we have good reasons for gratitude" — liberty, peace and a bounteous harvest.
 The day "was first celebrated... not in a moment of unbridled triumph, but in times of great adversity," he said.

Horoscope

Cooperation beneficial today for Sagittarians; time now for Aquarians to confer with adviser.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to arrange your plans so that you can conduct future affairs in good order. Think in terms of the expansion you wish to make and forget negative responses of the past.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Carefully study your surroundings and waste no time in making improvements. Be more optimistic about the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have fine ideas for improving the quality of your life so follow through. A day when you can cultivate new acquaintances.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle regular chores in the morning so you'll have more time for social activities later. Good day for self-improvement projects.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to come to an accord with your mate and life will be happier. Not a day for diving into civic activities.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Waste no time in attending to chores that must be done. A wiser attitude toward mate brings excellent results at this time.

VRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day for having personal enjoyment even though you may have to spend more money than you want to part with.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) If you don't maintain peace at home this weekend unpleasant arguments could result. Take time to engage in favorite hobby.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can easily obtain the information you need now to advance in career activities. Avoid one who is a pain in the neck.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle financial matters early in the day and also turn your attention to other affairs. Be more willing to cooperate with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Know what your goals are for the future and take initial steps in the right direction. Outside contacts are important now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make long-range plans to live a more inspiring life. A good adviser could give you fine ideas. Take time to confer with this person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Consult an influential person and get the advice you need for a new project you have in mind. Finish one thing at a time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be able to take authority of any assignment and carry through to a successful conclusion. Teach to work along harmonious lines instead of forceful ones and much success will follow. Don't neglect ethical teachings.

What's what

There's a reason people overseas use so many credit cards so often

Overseas travelers like to pay their way with credit cards. Or a lot do, anyhow. Why is that? It can take months for the charges to wind up back home on your bill. When you use Visa, MasterCard, American Express or the Diners Club, whichever, when abroad, you're riding on the float, as it were. There's the interest rate in most cases, but let's not talk about that. The float is a remarkable phenomenon. It's the money that's in transition between transactions. Amounts to millions. Individuals take advantage of it. Companies survive on it.

Scholars for years have devoted serious study to the flow of the Mona Lisa smile. And there are some, now, who think it's nothing more than the result of the model's dental trouble.

LEMONS

Q. How do lemon pickers know which lemons to pick?
A. Matter of size. They carry a metal ring with an interior diameter of 2 1/2 inches. They slip it over each lemon and only pick those lemons that won't pass completely through the ring.

And about those lemons: Even uncut lemons and lemons stored up pretty quickly in the fridge. But not if you put them in a sterilized canning jar, cover them with water, and screw the lid back on.

Q. Name the left-handers on the PGA golf tour now.
A. Aren't any. Not since Sam Adams quit last year.

MONEY

Lot of women now make more money than their husbands. Some years ago, that was thought to be a threat to matrimonial bliss. Not anymore, evidently. When pollsters asked a sampling of such women if their higher pay damaged their marriages in any way 98 percent said, no, heck no, on the contrary, or the other way that effect. Fiction is fine, but in truth, it's a rare marriage that is hurt by an increase in income.

Military researchers have discovered that about half of the men who volunteer for duty in the Antarctic do so to get away from girlfriends, wives and mothers. And these particular volunteers, it's said, prove out to be seven times more likely than the average to wind up under treatment for neurotic disorders.

New Watergate possible, Dean says

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — John Dean, former counsel to Richard Nixon, says another Watergate-type coverup will likely occur because of the power of the office and the type of people who become presidential candidates.

Dean, speaking at a University of Tulsa public lecture series Thursday, said presidential power is a form of temptation that can weaken a person's character.

"It is very likely another presidential coverup will occur," Dean said.

"I have few credentials to talk about another man's character, but if Richard Nixon had been of a loving heart and high morals, Watergate might not have happened but neither would he have been elected."

Dean added, "Few candidates running for the presidency are also running for sainthood."

Quoting a political scientist, Dean compared presidential power to atomic energy.

"It can be used to create deserts or to make deserts bloom," he said.

Dean also said he was not the source who met with Washington Post reporter Bob Woodward and gave the reporter information on the Watergate political scandal which eventually led to Nixon's resignation.

However, Dean said he knew the identity of the source, referred to as "Deep Throat," but declined to name the person.

"No, I'm not Deep Throat," Dean said, adding he had been able to identify the person by reading a book by Woodward and fellow reporter Carl Bernstein. "All the President's Men." It copied all references to Deep Throat on index cards and then dated when the information had been given," he said. "I also was in a position to know from the information given about myself — who knew that information at that time."

Dean said other presidents have been guilty of misdeeds but during the Nixon presidency, misdeeds "became the rule rather than the exception."

"It was the Super Bowl of political scandals," he said.

Denver air called 'sad'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Wyoming rancher Lawrence Lunt, who spent 14 years in Cuban prisons for being a CIA spy, wants to eventually return to Colorado or Wyoming but pollution in Denver makes him "sad."

The 56-year-old rancher paid a call to Capitol Hill Thursday to thank members of Congress who worked for his release. He was arrested by the Fidel Castro government and charged with espionage in 1963 because of his contacts with the CIA about Russian missiles.

Among the lawmakers with whom Lunt chatted were Sens. Gary Hart, D-Colo., and William Armstrong.

Army board hears gay GI's case

FORT LEWIS, Wash. (UPI) — An Army board Friday began hearing the case of Pfc. Roger Cutsinger, who wants to break military tradition by becoming the first openly homosexual soldier permitted to stay in the service.

It took the Army all of Thursday and part of Friday to seat the three-man Administrative Elimination Board because it had difficulty finding three officers impartial about homosexuality.

Two junior board members were selected without any trouble but three prospective board presidents, two lieutenant colonels, were disqualified after admitting they could not ignore their personal feelings against homosexuals.

"I just don't think there's a place for homosexuals in the Army," said Lt. Col. James B. Byrnes, the last of the three rejected board presidents.

"I think it disrupts your command. It's a problem the Army can do without."

The Army and the defense finally agreed on the fourth candidate, Lt.

Col. Bert H. Custer.

Cutsinger, 21, of Battle Creek, Mich., revealed his sexual orientation in June after an openly homosexual hometown friend was rejected by Army recruiters. Cutsinger said he tried to help his friend by telling a senior officer, "Hey, I'm gay and I've turned out all right."

The Army immediately began discharge proceedings against Cutsinger, who has served two years of his three-year enlistment.

Cutsinger said he had received "an unexpected amount of public support" since his decision to go public and has not had any difficulty working with his fellow soldiers.

"I'm still glad I did it," he said. "I certainly hope it helps other people like me."

Promotion surprises police decoy

NEW-YORK (UPI) — In nine years as a decoy cop during which she earned the nickname "Muggable Mary," Detective Mary Glatzle didn't have many surprises.

It took the Police Department to spring one on her Friday.

At a promotion ceremony at Police Headquarters, Ms. Glatzle, 37, was surprised to learn that she was being promoted from detective third grade to detective first grade.

Usually, a police-spokesman said, she would have gone to detective second grade before advancing to first grade.

Police Commissioner Robert N. McCarroll announced that Ms. Glatzle is to be the first woman to become a member of the recently formed joint FBI-Police Department bank robbery task force.

In her 10 years with the force — nine of them in a variety of decoy roles — the diminutive Ms. Glatzle was "mugged" 100 times. She has received "humorous commendations, including the medal of merit for arresting an armed rapist."

In 1975, she was named one of the top 10 police officers in the nation in the Parade Magazine-International Association of Chiefs of Police award.

Besides "Muggable Mary," 43 uniformed members and 46 civilian members of the department were promoted at the ceremony.

Presley death records sealed

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Medical records and tests relating to the death of Elvis Presley were ordered removed Friday from the county medical examiner's office and the University of Tennessee and locked up.

Chancellor (Judge) D.J. Allison said he wanted the files sealed and placed in a safety deposit box at an unnamed bank for "security" reasons while he considers a suit filed to obtain records of Presley's death on Aug. 16, 1977.

The chancellor said lawyers in a suit filed by ABC-TV will be able to look at signatures on the reports, but the court clerk will cover up confidential medical information.

Mamie now more alert

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mamie Eisenhower began some physical therapy and was reported "more alert" Friday by doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, where she is being treated following a stroke.

A spokesman at the Army hospital in Washington, D.C., said the 82-year-old widow of President Dwight Eisenhower "spent another restful night" Thursday night.

"Although her condition remains essentially unchanged, she is more alert and has begun taking nourishment," he said.

"She has also started some physical therapy," the spokesman reported Friday morning.

Mrs. Eisenhower is formally listed in stable condition, he said.

Mrs. Eisenhower underwent tests earlier in the week at the hospital, where she was taken after suffering a stroke Tuesday that paralyzed her right side. She is expected to remain in the hospital for some time while she recuperates.

The presidents of Mexico and the U.S., Jose Lopez Portillo and Jimmy Carter, in Washington

Carter-Portillo summit

U.S., Mexico may share electricity, other energy

WASHINGTON — President Jose Lopez Portillo of Mexico got off to a smooth start Friday in his talks with President Carter, with both leaders anxious to avoid the controversy that marred Carter's visit to Mexico City last February.

Carter greeted Lopez Portillo with outstretched arms, a wide smile and a hearty handshake when the Mexican leader arrived 12 minutes late for his White House meeting.

The two men posed, arm in arm, for photographers, although Carter did not greet his visitor with an "abrazo," the traditional Latin embrace.

Carter, however, gave renewed assurances that illegal aliens from Mexico would be treated in a "fair and humane way" by U.S. government authorities.

U.S. officials also reported "great progress" by a Mexican-American working group on exchange of information concerning the number of immigrants and their impact on the economies of Mexico and the United States.

The number of Mexicans in the United States who do not have proper authorization has been estimated at between 3 million and 12 million, with as many as 800,000 new illegal entrants coming in each year.

The atmosphere for the Carter-Lopez Portillo talks was improved last week with an agreement on the sale of Mexican natural gas to the United States, eliminating a major source of discord between the two countries.

But the United States, in Mexico's view, still must change its traditional paternalistic relationship to its southern neighbor, now more self-confident and nationalistic because of its vast oil wealth.

Carter's visit last February was strained because of his comment that he had suffered "Montezuma revenge" on a previous trip and because the Americans were unhappy over Lopez Portillo's pointed criticism of the United States.

After the initial meeting Friday between the two presidents and their aides, however, U.S. officials emphasized only the positive aspects of their discussions.

The White House issued a lengthy report of progress made by eight working groups since last February on issues ranging from trade and tourism to energy and migration.

The two sides, for example, agreed to intensify negotiations in hopes of reaching a bilateral agreement in the near future, perhaps before Oct. 15.

One of the subjects is the sharing of electrical energy along their common border as well as possibly using Mexican geothermal energy in California.

The five-page report said the two governments have "undertaken consultations" on the exchange of electrical energy along the border.

Carter questioned Lopez Portillo about the Mexican leader's proposal for United Nations development of energy resources in the poorest nations of the world. The plan was unveiled Thursday at the United Nations and Carter promised to give his response to it Saturday.

Defense funds upped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate-House negotiators agreed Friday to press for a new nuclear aircraft carrier, despite President Carter's strenuous objections.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, announced Senate-House conferees voted to include $2.1 billion in a fiscal 1980 authorization bill for the carrier.

Earlier in the day, the House approved a $10 billion defense appropriation bill which includes money for the carrier.

The House voted to authorize the $2.1 billion for the carrier earlier in the year, but the Senate refused. The Senate negotiators at Friday's meeting decided to add the House decision.

The appropriation bill, which now goes to the Senate, is $2.38 billion less than what the administration requested and $8.97 billion more than the 1979 appropriation.

The House had worked on the bill on and off during the past month. During earlier consideration of the measure the House voted to include $2.1 billion for a Nimitz-class nuclear aircraft carrier.

The administration indicated it would accept a new, large-deck aircraft carrier but not a nuclear ship. The conventionally powered ship would cost about $1.6 billion to construct.

Carter vetoed a defense bill last year because it contained funds for a nuclear carrier.

The Senate has sided with the administration on the carrier issue and House-Senate conferees worked on that and other defense issues as they met to work out a compromise version of the defense authorization bill, passed earlier by both chambers.

The appropriations bill includes, in addition to the carrier funding, $55 million for 15 additional F-16 and 12 more F-14 fighters.

The major categories in the bill are $28.7 billion for military personnel, $11.5 billion for retired personnel, $41 billion for operation and maintenance, $14.9 billion for procurement, and $12.3 billion for research and development.

Synfuel agency defined

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Energy Committee tentatively agreed Friday on the final major points of a bill to set up a government corporation to spend billions of dollars boosting synthetic fuels.

The committee left much of the wording of its bill on the Synthetic Fuels Corp. to its staff, who intended to complete work over the weekend, for a final vote next Tuesday.

The committee's work was completed Friday, with a vote that put new restrictions on the scope and powers of the corporation.

As the bill proposed by President Carter stood, the corporation would solicit proposals from industry for synthetic fuel projects, on which the government would offer a variety of financing help.

If there were no takers, the bill had no limit on the number of projects the government could start up on its own, with a contractor to operate them.

But Friday, the Energy Committee members voted tentatively to put two restrictions on those government-owned, contractor-operated projects called "gocors":

- For any more than three projects, the government corporation would have to get congressional approval for each additional project.
- The "gocor" approach could be used only in the first phase of operation of the corporation. The first phase will emphasize diversity with a $20 billion kitty available to assure construction of at least one project in each available major technology.

The second phase is to have a specific strategy for reaching the production goal of 1.5 million barrels of synthetic fuel daily by 1995.

Windfall funds run out quickly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee said, Friday middle-income Americans may be left out in the cold when legislation is adopted to aid families hit by soaring home heating costs.

"I don't see how we are going to give enough money to do anything but for the poor," said Sen. Russell Long, D-La.

"Much as I would like to help people in the middle range, we don't have enough money in this bill to help middle-income people," he said. "We just don't have it."

Long's committee has exempted entire types of oil from the windfall profits tax, which would produce revenues the administration wants to use for home heating relief plus development of synthetic energy sources and urban transit systems.

The chairman postponed until next week any decision on how much relief to give to which Americans to counter rising energy costs. His remarks on the issue prompted intense debate.

"We have spent the past week cutting the tax to shreds, and now have no money," said an angry Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y.

"We just can't cut taxes on producers and say then we don't have anything left."

Moynihan objected to providing heating oil cost relief only to the poor. "I thought we were going to share... this unfortunate act of an international cartel," Moynihan said.

But restricting aid to the poor was the prevailing mood when the committee recessed until next Tuesday.

Some members wondered if relief could be provided for the needy in time to help this winter, should the committee become bogged down in complicated aid formulas.

"I think we should go with the administration for this winter, and then address what we are going to do for the next decade," said Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

The administration wants $1.6 billion for fiscal 1980 to provide cash grants averaging $200 to low income, multi-person households, and up to $400 per household with emergency situations.

Earlier Friday, Long acknowledged the committee already had voted away $18 billion more in tax credits and oil exemptions than the proposed oil windfall profits tax would raise in revenue. He said all the credits must be reconsidered.

Aides said the committee had approved $38 billion in tax credits. But, by exempting all new oil, heavy oil and hard to recover tertiary crude from the tax, it also had cut $23 billion from the $14 billion windfall tax passed earlier by the House, leaving an $18 billion deficit.

Long instructed the committee staff to work up a reconciliation and present a variety of proposed tax credits and windfall tax rates for the committee's consideration later.

Will Arabians fall to Pony Express legacy?

By STEPHANIE SCHORW
Times-News writer

HANSEN — The "dark horse" in the 1970 Diamondfield Jack ride from Idaho to Nevada might be a descendant of the first American endurance horses, the mounts of the fabled Pony Express.

Among the Arabians, part-Arabians, Quarter Horses and Apaloosas ranging the 57 miles from Crockett Meadows, south of Hansen, to Jackpot will be two "Moyle" horses.

Bred by Rex Moyle of Weiser, the horses are descended from O.P. Bockwell's band of Pony Express and stagecoach horses. Where they came from before that "is a mystery," Rex Moyle said.

Bockwell used to run Pony Express horses between Wyoming and Nevada, Moyle said. He sold his big, sturdy horses to the likes of Wild Bill Hickock and Bill Cody. A rough and ready man himself, he allegedly killed over 100 men in disputes over horses. Once he rode 900 miles in six days from Salt Lake to McInnis in just to prove he could do it, according to Moyle.

Moyle said his pioneer ancestors got their first Rockwell horse in 1879 when a messenger bringing news of the Mountain Meadow Massacre stopped to exchange horses at the Moyle residence in Alpine, Utah. Later Moyle rounded up wild horses that came from Rockwell's band and started breeding them. He has over 100 now and enters them in endurance races around the West.

His wife Margie will ride Beowulf, a long-necked, an today's race. His daughter Barbara will ride Red Booster, a gelding. Both women rode in the race in 1973 but did not place in the top 10.

"They're wonderful horses to ride," Mrs. Moyle said. "They have so much between the eyes. She stroked Beowulf's nose. "He looks big and clumsy, but he's not as clumsy as he looks. He's really very nimble."

Mrs. Moyle hopes to break the tradition of Arabian wins at the race's every winner in the race's six-year history has been an Arabian or an Arabian mix. She thinks the Moyle has a chance.

Bob Berry of Filer, who is riding a three-quarters Arabian horse today, expressed doubt over the Moyles. He feels the Moyle is a heavy bred that can't cool off quick enough during the race's three rest breaks to win.

"No other breed has the heart to win that the Arab has, outside certain exceptions," he said. "They have the will to give you that little extra at the last."

Berry good-naturedly kids Lurina Dancer, of Boise, who just won an endurance horse race in Sun Valley — an Apaloosa, Apaloosas, mostly from this area, have placed no higher than 5th in the race, and that was Dancer on her horse Sorwells. In a previous attempt she placed 7th.

Does she think she can do it this year?

"I hope so," she said. She admitted Arabians have a better heart than most Apaloosas for endurance racing, but "Sorwells is an exceptional Apaloosa."

Most local riders seemed to accept the Arabians as the best. At the dinner the night before the race, one spectator jokingly told her husband, "Let's get us an A-Rab so we can win this."

"Think Big Red will finish this race," a friend asked them. Big Red is their (non-entered) pleasure riding horse. "Oh, heck, yes, if he started right now he'd get 25 miles," the husband replied.

Stiff competition was not on the minds of the 20 to 40 contestants camped out at Crockett Meadows the night before the race. Riders from Nevada, Oregon, and California swapped horse stories and jokes as they ate dinner and promised to meet at the card tables in Jackpot.

"This isn't like a track race," said Frank Harvey, whose family organized the event six years ago. "They're out for the enjoyment."

Endurance horse racing, an increasingly popular form of horsemanship, draws a friendly crowd, Berry feels. "The people are the best of all. If it wasn't for the people I wouldn't be here," he said.

"You go to a (horse) show and you might get spoken to," he added.

Mrs. Sylvia Schmidt, of Napa Valley, Calif., an endurance rider for four years, combined a vacation with a chance to pick up riding points in her first Diamondfield Jack race. A rider in the 1976 Pony Express race from Salt Lake to Sacramento, she said "When I compete I compete breed against breed," that is, Apalohan against Arabian, Apaloosa against Apaloosa. The trick in guiding her half-Arabian-half-Quarter Horse mount is to follow an old saying: "Know your horse and ride, your ride," she said.

Just to finish the race, and successfully pass veterinarian examinations at each rest stop, would be an achievement, she felt. "I'm going to finish," she said. "To finish is to win."

Teachers discuss reading problems

By BEN BECKERWAY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "The basic problem is motivation," said Beverly Mitchell, one of 150 teachers attending the Idaho Reading Council's two-day conference at O'Leary Junior High School.

Between workshops, Ms. Mitchell and three other Magic Valley teachers discussed the challenge of improving their students' reading ability.

"The problem we have is the competition we get from TV," continued Ms. Mitchell, who teaches reading and science at Robert Stuart Junior High School. "They (the students) don't want to read when they can watch something more spectacular on TV."

"They have something to do with TV," agreed Connie Wuestke, an English and reading teacher at Robert Stuart.

Ms. Wuestke said she gets around the problem by encouraging her students to read books about their favorite stars, going on the theory that any reading is better than none.

Ms. Mitchell agreed she designs many comic books and sports magazines for her class.

"There are you get them interested, the better they get," she said. "Even the Guinness Book of World Records — they'll read that in a minute."

All agree that reading is required to take one period of reading, said Ms. Mitchell, a requirement that began last year.

"They think they have outgrown reading classes, so they resent some," said Ms. Mitchell, adding that the requirement is a good idea but accentuates the differences between the reading groups and the other two grades in the high school.

Russell Harper, a sixth grade English teacher at Buhl Junior High School, has his own problems teaching reading.

"English is a required subject," said Ms. Harper, "so you have certain barriers as soon as they walk in the door."

All three teachers spoke of the difficulties of teaching young adolescents.

"They are trying to be adults one minute, but revert back to being kids the next," said Ms. Harper. "They don't have the real sweetness of the younger ones, and yet they don't have the maturity to control their emotions," she said.

Ms. Mitchell said seventh grade is too late to teach the basics of reading, but added she has met many seventh graders who do not know phonics.

"It's not because they haven't been taught phonics, it's because they don't use it," she said.

When she recommends such students for a remedial reading class, their parents sometimes refuse to let the child attend, fearful of the stigma it may produce, said Ms. Mitchell. But the parents don't realize they are doing their child more harm in the long run.

One reading teacher who helps elementary students with reading problems said she is attending the conference's migrant education workshops because so many of the techniques they teach apply to all students from low income families, not just Chicano.

The stop they talk at home is a huge barrier for them," she said.

"Reading is so critical in everything. If you can't read, you can't get as much out of any subject."

Late in the afternoon, Ms. Mitchell and Ms. Wuestke attended a workshop entitled "Motivating Secondary Students to Read Content," led by Dr. E. Gaston Frederick of Boise State University.

With examples from good teachers he has observed, Frederick showed the group how to get students emotionally and psychologically involved in their lessons.

Before giving her class its reading assignment about the causes of the Civil War, one teacher divided her pupils into "Northerners" and "Southerners," Frederick said, and told them to try to negotiate a compromise.

Another teacher combined a vocabulary lesson with science by opening a bottle of ammonia at the back of his classroom, Frederick said. As the fumes spread throughout the room, he had his students deduce the meaning of the word "diffusion."

Teachers throughout the state had Thursday and Friday off for in-service training, but this is the last time all teachers will be able to attend the same conference, according to Ms. Freese.

Teachers in the state had training days will be left up to the individual school districts, she said.

TV changes bring Idaho programs

MAGIC VALLEY — Twin Falls area residents whose homes lack an outdoor antenna will notice little or no change in their television reception but may see a federal grant to upgrade the state's public television facilities.

According to Vaun McArthur, chief engineer for Boise's KATV television station, reception will be "very difficult" without such an antenna, even after the station's translator on Flat-top Ridge, north of Twin Falls, is modified this winter.

The Barrely-Bupper area will receive a new translator that will relay a signal from KATV-TV to Pocatello, Idaho, and a KATV relay station like the one serving the Coeur d'Alene will be built near Richfield, McArthur added.

KATV's current 100-watt translator on the battle receives the station's signal from Boise and retransmits a weak signal on channel 12. The station offers continuing educational programs which are sometimes shown in schools with antennas, McArthur said.

By early spring or late winter, the system will be upgraded somewhat, but not enough to make a substantial difference, McArthur said. The translator will still be only 100 watts, compared to the 316,000-watt transmitting power of local station KATV-TV's tower.

A recent $225,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce will have a greater impact on other parts of the state, McArthur said. The money, matched by $225,000 in state funds, will be used to install 22 new 100-watt translators, enabling Idaho's three public television stations to beam their signals into almost every school district in the state, KATV is affiliated with Boise State University. The eastern and northern portions of the state will receive a signal from KATV, and from KATV in Moscow.

All the new translators will be in place by the end of next summer, McArthur said.

Recession bites into platter industry

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Maybe they'll make a song out of it some day, but for now the record industry waits. It's soon forget what has already been termed the "Crash of '79."

Records, long a commodity immune to economic woes, have been hit with a double dose of price increases and more selective consumers. Sales are down for the first time after 15 years of uninterrupted sales growth.

In the Magic Valley area, that has translated into a 5 percent decline in sales, according to Rich Graves, record entrepreneur.

Among the reasons given are less individual disposable income, inclination among consumers to record their own tapes on blank tape, and record list prices which have slipped from $7.99 to $7.99 in two years.

"Local record stores owners aren't necessarily expressing alarm, but they acknowledge inflation has taken its toll."

They are now banking on several soon-to-be-released albums that they say could reverse the downward trend.

"I would be that the cost of living is going up so fast that people find they don't have the entertainment dollars they use to," Calvin Wilcox of the Music Center in Twin Falls said. "It's a pretty confused picture. It doesn't look like a good thing for anyone to invest in right now."

Wilcox added inflation may just eventually prove to be a boon for the industry.

"I would appear to me that we could look for sales to pick up because the price of cassette tapes is forcing people to think more about home entertainment," he said, but he pointed out that there, so far, has not happened.

Although he said he could not pinpoint just how much record sales have declined, "it can't be the music business in general is experiencing a recession," he said. "Last year I've gotten pretty good, but I've not declined, Rich Graves of Budget Tapes and Records noted it has leveled off.

"I'd say it's mainly just the economy," he said.

"Everybody's worried about it. I'm worried about it. I guess so far it hasn't been as bad as I was afraid it would be," he said.

Although current items continue to do well, sales of older recordings are down, he said. At the same time sales of blank tapes are moderately up, he said.

Karen Moore of Loyalty Records in Jerome estimated her record sales down about 5 percent this summer.

"I do know it's been awfully slow the last couple weeks," she said. "I think people have come to the point where they have to eat. That comes first. The recession is hurting everybody, and it's hitting it everywhere," she said.

Ms. Moore added she has had problems receiving enough stock and that many artists have hurt sales.

"We're having a terrible time getting our orders filled. Anything that has a lot of orders, we may have trouble filling," she said.

Record sales are also down in department stores that handle only popular music.

Jim Becker of Kmart said his record business is down about 5 percent.

"I would say possibly because of the economy, people are saying, 'do I really need a record, do I really need a tape?'" he said.

Marsal Schroeder of PayLess Drug said his record business was down also by about 5-10 percent.

"I would say people aren't as willing to spend their money on things they don't absolutely need, like records," he said.

With Christmas approaching and the upcoming release of albums by popular groups such as the Eagles and Fleetwood Mac, salesmen are hoping business will turn around.

"We hope for it to pick up now. I think the fact that Fleetwood Mac is going to be in the area at the time their record comes out is going to help," Moore said.

Fleetwood Mac is scheduled to perform at the ISU Mini-dom in Pocatello Oct. 26.

Kimberly H.S. vandalized

KIMBERLY — Vandalism with spray paint caused about $200 worth of damage to the Kimberly High School gymnasium.

All the vandals' signatures were scraped away around the side of the school building, according to superintendent Vernon Exner. The paint soaked into the brick, sandblasting must be used to remove it.

Kimberly police are investigating the matter.

Buhl schools review extracurriculars

BUHL — The Buhl School Board Tuesday night discussed a possible change in eligibility standards for students who want to run for office.

Board member Gary Loomis, citing a recent complaint from a parent whose daughter was not allowed to try out for cheerleader in seventh grade, said it bothers him that seventh graders are limited by the grade point average they received in sixth grade.

"They should be able to start with a clean slate," Loomis said.

The current minimum for any candidate for elective office is a 2.5 grade point average for the previous year.

Overseers are elected by their classmates after public auditions.

Standards for participation in a school athletic team are lower, Loomis pointed out. A player is required only to be passing three courses, he said.

The board decided to consider the matter and decide on the issue at its Oct. 30 meeting in room 101 of the junior high school.

In other business, attorney William Nungester asked the board to approve the construction of a new baseball diamond adjacent to the high school. He proposed that the field be named for Gary Schenckper, a high school student killed in a car wreck. Approximately $1,000 has been donated to the Buhl Recreation Association in Gary's memory, he said, adding that he is willing to supervise the project.

The board gave the proposal a lukewarm reception because the members agreed that the job may be too costly. Board chairwoman Kathleen Lantz promised Nungester and the other board members would give him an answer after they came up with an overall cost estimate for the diamond.

The board voted to hold a work session at 9 p.m. Oct. 16 at a location to be decided later. The purpose of the session will be to discuss a Buhl School Student Policy Handbook which has been written and proposed by superintendent of schools Robert Pratt and high school principal Dale Thorsberry.

The first draft of the handbook, which Thorsberry said is modeled on the one used by the Boise School District, outlines rules and procedures regarding attendance, discipline, and behavior on school buses.

Pratt said he would like to distribute the booklet to the parents of all students.

Kunstler will oversee Challis horse roundup

BOISE (UPI) — Prominent Washington attorney William Kunstler will attend the roundup of 150 wild horses in the Challis area Monday, the Bureau of Land Management Boise office said.

The long-awaited roundup has been delayed by lawsuits filed by the American Wild Horses Preservation Association which Kunstler represents. A bureau spokesman said Kunstler will observe the roundup to ensure that humane practices are used. Association spokesmen have said the purpose of their lawsuit against the bureau was to make sure that the roundup was conducted humanely.

Murder suspect returned

FAIRFIELD, Idaho (UPI) — Camas County authorities said today that Nampa native Ronald Brewer, 27, will be returned to Idaho from Michigan to face a charge of first-degree murder in the slaying of a Fairfield man.

Brewer, arrested recently at Lansing, Mich., has waived extradition and will be transported to Idaho for arraignment early next week, said Camas County Sheriff Harold Lee Brewer is accused of killing George LeBarge, 66, of Fairfield, whose body was found April 26 wrapped in canvas and buried in snow about 25 miles north of Fairfield.

Suicides promote suicide

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — An increase in Twin Falls County's suicide rate in 1978 may be due to earlier sensational suicides, an executive director of the Magic Valley Alcohol Rehabilitation Center said Friday.

Three dramatic suicides during the past few months included a crippled man who drove his car off a 200-foot cliff near Hansen Bridge, and two women who jumped off Perrine Bridge, all three into the Snake River Canyon.

Dwight Jensen sentenced

BOISE (UPI) — Former U.S. Senate candidate Dwight Jensen has pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was sentenced in the knockout of a 17-year-old umpire at a little league baseball game in July.

Jensen is a novelist, former television newsman and writer of children's books. He was accused of hitting, kicking and knocking unconscious umpire Alan Jacobsen July 13. Coach Jensen was upset because his team lost the game on a called third strike.

Convicted killer escapes Boise prison

BOISE (UPI) — The Ada County Sheriff's Department has issued an 11-state law enforcement alert for two Idaho State Penitentiary inmates who escaped a 15-foot barbed-wire fence and escaped from medium security dormitories Friday just after dawn.

Deputy Warden L.D. Smith said convicted killer Theodore Thomas Dickey, 38, and William Garrett Hackworth, 30, a burglar, robbery and escape convict, slipped out of their farm dormitory in the compound sometime between the regular 5:30 bed check and 8 when they were to have reported to work.

Smith said the escapees used a coat to protect themselves from the barbed-wire atop the chain-link fence and escaped into the desert-like land around the prison, located about 11 miles south of Boise.

Authorities said they don't know where the escapees might have gone although the law enforcement alert is in effect for Washington, Oregon, Montana, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, Texas, Nevada, Wyoming, California and New Mexico.

Idaho nuclear dumping ban proposed

BOISE (UPI) — State Rep. James D. Golder says he will sponsor a bill that would prevent other states from shipping nuclear waste for storage in Idaho.

The Boise Republican said he is alarmed by the amount of nuclear waste being transported into and stored within Idaho, most of it at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory near Idaho Falls.

Environmentalists and some state officials have expressed concern that the nuclear waste being buried underground at the INEL may seep into the Snake River aquifer.

The second-term legislator said his bill stands a "fair chance" of passage in the Legislature. Opposition will come mainly from the federal government and the Idaho Falls area, which benefits economically from the INEL's waste storage, he said.

Plane wreckage found near Idaho border

GIBBONSVILLE, Idaho (UPI) — Ground searchers Friday found the wreckage of a Cessna 150 and the bodies of two Canadians whose plane vanished Sept. 2 while bound for a convention at Sun Valley.

The bodies of Robert Powell, 41 and his wife Raye, 30, of Calgary, Alberta, were found in the wreckage of a quarter-mile off of U.S. 93 near Last Trail Pass, about three miles into Montana from the Idaho border.

Search planes had flown over the crash site twice but the downed plane was not seen because it crashed in a thickly wooded area, Mrs. McConeghey said.

Idaho and Montana aeronautics authorities did not learn that the Powell plane was missing until late Wednesday, six days after the crash, which happened about seven miles northeast of Gibbonsville.

Strike imminent in Blackfoot teachers dispute

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (UPI) — Teachers in the Blackfoot School District geared up for a strike Friday following a breakdown in negotiations with administrators.

The sides remained deadlocked over salary, personal leave and a 30-day probationary period, among other issues which have dragged out the federally mediated talks for six months.

Teachers' representatives said Friday a strike probably would begin Tuesday if the differences are not ironed out.

The school district claims that a 9.7 percent boost cannot be afforded, the teachers say they do not trust state auditors who determined the district's ability to hand out a pay increase.

Wyoming energy impact detailed

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — An estimated 4 percent of the privately owned land in the northern Wyoming Powder River Basin has been acquired by coal companies, a recent study by the University of Wyoming showed.

The recent study, compiled by the UW Division of Agricultural Economics, concluded that although energy development in the region has had a beneficial effect on agricultural production, it has affected operators in other ways.

Rebuttal district claims that a 9.7 percent boost cannot be afforded, the teachers say they do not trust state auditors who determined the district's ability to hand out a pay increase.

do so in the future, and those who do not expect to sell or lease land for energy development within the next 10 years.

Nevada moves ahead with revolt

CAIRSON CITY (UPI) — A state review committee Friday approved "Sagebrush" law regulations in another step to give Nevada control over 49-million acres now controlled by the Bureau of Land Management.

No one from the general public appeared at the session to comment before the committee unanimously adopted the regulations which replace the temporary rules which were similar.

The regulations require persons wanting permits to use the public lands must also apply to the state in addition to the BLM. However those wanting to chop firewood, cut down Christmas trees, go prospecting or use the land for normal recreation activities don't have to apply to the state for a second permit.

Neither group of landowners was found to be affected by other consequences of energy development such as higher property taxes, increased air and water pollution, loss of water supplies and loss of rural political power.

QUESTION...

Burial will be in West End Cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel until noon.

State Lands Administrator Jac Shaw said the public has accepted the dual application requirements which were also included in temporary regulations.

But he said the BLM has ignored the temporary regulations which require the federal agency to report to the state the revenue it receives for use of the lands.

Shaw said he did not know when the state would file suit to assert its claim in court to the federal lands. He said the Attorney General's office was still looking for the right case for the legal challenge.

Christian education honored

KIMBERLY — East Twin Falls County Parish of the United Methodist Church will observe Christian Education Sunday this Sunday at the churches in Kimberly and Murtaugh. The Rev. John Wood, pastor for the parish, said the nationwide observance is usually held in Methodist churches the last Sunday of September each year.

The observance promotes the total Christian education program of the United Methodist Church from preschool through college-age students. Special emphasis is given the Christian education ministry of the local church.

Kimberly United Methodist will mark the observance with classes for pre-school through adult Sunday beginning at 9:15 a.m. and 11 a.m. morning-worship at 9 a.m. Service of Recognition for Teachers and Church School Staff will be held. Third graders will be presented Bibles. Special music will be provided by the Junior Choir under the direction of Leigh Ann Perkins, and Patricia Vinyard, folksinger and guitarist.

Murtaugh will mark the observance at the regular 9 a.m. morning worship, with Bibles presented to third-graders. Classes are held Wednesdays at 3 p.m. at the church.

All persons in either community interested in enrolling a child or themselves in classes at either church are invited to do so this Sunday.

MORTON T. KELSEY

Episcopal clergy meets

BURLEY — Morton T. Kelsey, associate professor at University of Notre Dame and a priest in the Episcopal Church, will be featured speaker and discussion leader at the annual Episcopal Clergy-Wives Conference Oct. 5, 6 and 7 at the Burley church.

Idaho Bishop Hanford L. King Jr. calls clergy and wives together each year for a special weekend to meet and discuss topics with leaders of national stature.

Kelsey has taught many courses in education, particularly in the area of communicating meaning and value. He has also given survey courses in the history of Western thought, culminating in the philosophy of C.G. Jung, and courses in the prophetic trends of modern science, art and religion.

Kelsey's wife Barbara, who has given and interpreted the Meyers-Briggs Type Indicator, will take part in the conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelsey will also lead a series of lectures at the Boise State University student center Oct. 8 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Religious Institute for Continuing Education, which provides continuing education programs for church professionals, is sponsoring the event. The workshop is open to both clergy and laity. Cost is $10 per person or $15 per couple.

TWIN FALLS — Women's Aglow Fellowship will hold its first morning monthly meeting Oct. 3 at North's Chuckwagon from 9:30-11:30 a.m.

The public is invited to share the singing, friendship and gospel testimony. Jan Gambrell of Detroit, a Bible training unit teacher, will be guest speaker.

A $1 charge includes coffee and roll, and the regular evening meeting will be the third Tuesday of each month as usual.

Ensemble in concert

TWIN FALLS — A program of sacred music will be presented by the Bob Jones University Ensemble at the Grace Baptist Church Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m.

Matthew Olson, leader of the six-member group, will deliver a brief Gospel message. He is a graduate student of BJU currently pursuing a masters degree in pastoral studies. Other members of the ensemble include Dan Brown of Ohio, Mark Felber of Indiana, Sonny McCoy of South Carolina, Don Mudge of Michigan and Karl Silva of Massachusetts.

The public is invited.

Suit to stop mass may be dismissed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department asked a federal judge Friday to throw out a lawsuit aimed at barring Pope John Paul II from celebrating a public mass on Washington's Mall on Oct. 7.

Government lawyers argued the mass — expected to draw more than a million persons — is no different than any other demonstration. It said costs for the National Park Service are no different from those regularly incurred with any large public gathering on park land.

Bible Conference scheduled

TWIN FALLS — Tyler Street Baptist Church is holding a Bible Conference through Sunday. Guest speaker is Dr. Leslie Madison, president, Calvary Bible College in Kansas City, Mo.

He will discuss how God builds Christ-like qualities in people Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Today from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. he will explain seven areas of personal commitment at a Leadership Retreat.

Madison came to Calvary Bible College in 1974 from Northwest Bible College of Fort Worth, Texas, a church he was instrumental in organizing. He served as pastor there from 1962-1974.

He is a graduate of Moody Bible Institute, Rockmont College and Dallas Theological Seminary, where he earned his Master of Theology degree in Old Testament and his Doctor of Theology in Bible Exposition.

Visitors are welcome at all services of the church.

Spencer W. Kimball, his counselors in the First Presidency, President N. Eldon Tanner and President Marlon G. Romney and President Ezra Taft Benson of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles.

The Mormon Tabernacle Choir will sing during the two morning general sessions. The male choir members will join the male singers from the Mormon Youth Symphony and Chorus at the priesthood session.

Boise Braves shut out Bruins 27-0

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

TWIN FALLS—Defensive backies. That was the recurring theme Twin Falls Coach Bill Jones came back to after he watched his Bruins drop a 27-0 decision to the Boise Braves Friday night.

Twin Falls, after giving up two quick touchdowns including one on the opening kickoff, came back and did respectably against the highly-regarded Braves.

"I think the whole key was their defensive backies," Jones said, speaking of Angelo Diluto and Joe Vraspir, 222 and 225 respectively, and both at times quicker than Twin Falls backs. "They just controlled everything. When their tackles can force the pitch (on the option) that leaves everyone else free to come after the wide men. We thought we could throw short passes, our quick series, against them but the off-side tackle didn't give us any time. There were times I felt sorry for our kids (quarterbacks)."

"Defensively, I think Boise is the best football team we've played but they don't have that brilliant speed that (Randy) Holmes gives Borah." The coach could only smile and shrug, seconds later when he learned Capital had knocked off the Lions by a point.

Answering another question, Jones said "I believe they were nice to us. But I felt in the third quarter they had a little letdown. We held them three times in the third quarter and after the first one we kinda got jacked up defensively."

Only three times did Twin Falls get inside Boise's 35 and the big threat came in the third quarter after a 21-yard run by Greg Scherer and two penalties against the Braves. A quarterback sack by Steve Smelek, a thorn in Twin Falls' side all night, followed by a fumble killed the Bruins' best scoring chance.

"As you know we are letting the kids call the plays a little more. We got down there and he decided to try a pass. It was not the play we would have sent in. But, yes, overall I thought we executed a little better offensively," the coach concluded.

Twin Falls' other threats came late in the first half on a penetration to the Boise 31 and its other opportunity carried to the 29. But it probably would be most appropriate to call these opportunities because Boise basically rode its defense, particularly after the heady scoring start. The Braves substituted quite liberally on offense and held the pace of the game with its defensive unit.

It was Chamber of Commerce night but Boise got down to business. On the opening kickoff, Kevin Edmundson took the ball on his own three and roared 97 yards to score. Ray Goltland booted the first of three extra points.

Two plays after the kickoff Twin Falls fumbled at its own 38 and Smelek fell on it for Boise. Bill Caton punched that chance home from the three.

On its next possession, Boise was stopped when it fumbled into the end zone on a long run but midway through the second quarter Goltland picked off a pass at the Bruin 39 and with four plays Caton had scored again, this time from the seven.

Late in the half Twin Falls moved to the Boise 34 before being repulsed and then made its deep bid with 4:29 left in the third quarter. That threat aroused Boise and it moved 76 yards in four plays to score. The big one was an opening 51-yard run by Eric Hall and it ended on a five-yard burst by Scott Stueckle.

Following the game, Coach Jim Carberry said he and his staff hadn't done a lot of mental preparation for the Bruins. "But I felt they played their best game against us."

Redlegs clinch NL east

Dodgers knock off Houston Astros

By JOE KAY
CINCINNATI (UPI) — Frank Pastore, a 22-year-old right-hander who spent part of the season in the minor leagues, is a big reason the Cincinnati Reds have clinched the National League West title.

"The first part of the season was Frank Pastore 1," he said Friday night after his four-hit pitching and a home run and triple by Cesar Geronimo gave the Reds a 3-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves. "This is Frank Pastore 2. It's evident I'm a different pitcher."

"At Indianapolis, I got myself together. I prepared myself to come back and contribute."

The Cincinnati victory, combined with Houston's 6-5 loss to Los Angeles later in the night, gave the Reds their sixth divisional title of the decade.

"This is a very satisfying feeling," said manager John McNamara.

Pastore, 6-7, who pitched the first complete game of his career in beating the Astros Sunday, struck out seven and walked one.

At one point, the right-hander set down 10 consecutive Atlanta batters before Bruce Benedict walked with one out in the fifth.

Geronimo, platooned in the outfield this season because of a non-productive bat, rapped a Buddy Solomon pitch into the right field stands with one out in the third inning for Cincinnati's first run. It was Geronimo's fourth home run of the season.

Geronimo, batting .238 entering the game, then had a gift triple with one out in the fifth when he hit a home run off fielder Ed Miller slipped on the soggy turf chasing Geronimo's looping hit to left center. Geronimo scored on Dave Collins' two-out single to right.

The Reds scored a third run in the eighth when Dave Concepcion singled, went to third on George Foster's single and scored on Johnny Bench's sacrifice fly off reliever Joey McLaughlin. It was Bench's 60th RBI of the season. Solomon, 7-14, suffered the loss.

Steve Garvey, enjoying the pennant race from the viewpoint of a spoiler, hit an eighth-inning grand slam to erase a 5-1 Houston lead, giving the Los Angeles Dodgers a 6-5 victory over the Astros.

The slam was the fourth in Garvey's career and came off Vern Riffe, 2-5, who entered the game in the eighth in relief of Astros starter Ken Forsch. The Astros scrambled back to a 4-5 deficit when Riffe threw when Jim Cruz singled and Ednos Cabell tripped him home with two out.

In the eighth, pinch hitter Dave Bergman, batting for Forsch, singled home runner Jimmy Sester. Cesar Cedeno then hit a three-run homer off Charlie Hough to put the Astros in front 5-1.

Best kickers around. These six local youngsters proved that they're the best there is when it comes to punting, passing and kicking. Winners of the recent district contest sponsored by Bill Workman Ford in Twin Falls, the boys were presented awards for their talents Friday night during the Twin Falls-Boise football game. Now they'll be off to Nampa Oct. 6 for the zone contest. The six include, first row, Clinton Sandy, age 8; second row, left to right, Jeremy Crossman, 9, Doug Nosworthy, 10, and Bill Hardy, 11; and back row, Doug Peterson, 12, and Mike Smith, 13.

Carey falls to North Gem

Castleford extends unbeaten streak

ROCKLAND — Two touchdown passes and a sturdy defense helped the Castleford Wolves stay undefeated Friday afternoon.

In another game involving eight-man football teams, North Gem rolled by Carey 40-12.

Castleford, which upped its season record to 4-0 and moved into the tie with North Gem for the Snake River Valley Eight-Man Conference leadership, relied on the arm of quarterback Bill Cothern who passed for two TDs.

The opening score came midway through the first quarter when Cothern found Dave Ensuna open in the endzone from 17 yards out. The six points marked the end of a 65-yard time-consuming drive by the Wolves highlighted by halfback Bob Bulky's 52-yard gain.

In the third quarter, still leading 8-0, Cothern connected with Bulky for 58 yards to up the Wolves lead to 14. The extra point run failed.

But Rockland, which hasn't won a game all year and now owns an 0-4 season record, marched right back down the field and scored on a 25-yard pass to move back into contention at 14-6.

Then Castleford's defense went to work. Led by the tackling of Ray Garrison and Rusty Hosteler, the Wolves limited Rockland to little yardage.

The only threat came with about eight minutes left in the game when Rockland was at the Castleford five-yard line. But a fumble picked off by the Wolves' Rob Blick in mid-air ended the threat.

Blick actually ran the ball back 95 yards for a score, but a referee ruled he had inadvertently blew the play dead and the points were not counted.

Castleford was playing without its two starting linebacks and ends — Carl Lotz with bruised ribs and Tom Quigley with a sore ankle. Both are expected back for next week's critical game against once-beaten Clark County.

In the other game at Bancroft, unbeaten North Gem rolled to a 20-0 halftime lead and never looked back in crushing Carey 48-12 in eight-man football.

The victory was the fourth straight for North Gem, while Carey fell to 0-3.

North Gem got on the scoreboard three times in the first half of action. Phil Yost scored on a one-yard run, Shaun Crossley from 50 yards out, and Kelly Crossley from another 50 yards.

Carey came back in the third quarter with six points, but only after North Gem had put the game out of reach with two more scores.

Carey's touchdown was on a four yard pass from Ben Hathaway to Bobby Bostrom. The extra point pass failed.

In the third quarter for North Gem, Yost passed 45 yards to Shaun Crossley and Dave Stratman ran for one yard.

Carey's final touchdown in the fourth quarter was on a 12 yard pass from Bostrom to Jamie Peterson. The extra point pass failed.

North Gem's final six points were scored by Yost on a 67-yard gallop late in the game.

"For the game," Yost carried 19 times for 241 yards. North Gem had a 536 to 160 yard margin in total offense for the game.

Cardinal might be the MVP

By THOMAS BOSWELL
1979, The Washington Post

PITTSBURGH — There should be little doubt about who should win the National League's Most Valuable Player award.

Any hard look at the NL statistics shows one player who, were he fortunate, would run away with the balloting — leaving the likes of Dave Kingman, Mike Schmidt, Bruce Sutter, Dave Concepcion and even sentimental favorite Willie Stargell far behind.

However, there would be a shock if Keith Hernandez, the first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, wins. It would be a surprise event to him.

"Pete Rose and Willie Stargell have come over to me and told me that I should be MVP without any doubt," Hernandez said Thursday. "But, frankly, I'll be pleasantly surprised if I get it."

Hernandez's teammate and his hero, Lou Brock, is even more candid.

"Keith doesn't stand a chance," said Brock. "The wrong person will probably win again. In the last 20 years it seems that the award has gone more and more to a player off a pennant winning team, even if that is not one of the award's prerequisites."

Brock knows all about the anonymity of playing with the young Cardinals teams of the late '70s. The Red Birds have one of the flashiest and most talented regular lineups in baseball — led by Hernandez and shortstop Garry Powell, even Royce Clayton, a catching staff that has not turned the corner to excellence, the Cards are still a third-place club.

Nonetheless, Hernandez's season does deal with a prospect of praise, a short sweet song sung from a high bough.

In the American League, a prope case can be made for both Don Baylor of California and George Brett of Kansas City. If we emphasize actual performance and are not overly impressed with team won-lost records, in fact, Baltimore's Ken Singleton, and even Royce Clayton, Darrell Porter, would have superb MVP credentials in a large majority of seasons.

In the senior circuit, however, who does deal with a prospect of praise, an average, 206 hits, 114 runs, 105 RBI, 46 doubles, 69 extra-base hits, 307 total bases and 290 times on base.

Hernandez's most impressive stat is, unfortunately, a figure ignored by the multitude: runs produced (runs plus RBI, minus homers). Hernandez has 208 runs produced — for more than anyone else in the National League and second in the San Diego ranks second with 190.

If much of Hernandez's line-drive hitting excellence, not to speak of his fielding, which won him a 1978 Gold Glove, is obscured by the fact that he has only 11 homers, he has had one showcase opportunity in recent days.

For two weeks, Hernandez has been trying to hold off the charging Rose for the batting title.

Holmes scores TKO victory

By RICH TOSCHES
UPI Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — What was nearly the low point in Larry Holmes' career turned out to be one of his greatest triumphs.

In the seventh round Holmes was sent to the canvas by a crushing punch from Earnie Shavers. But after the fight Shavers was sent to the hospital as a loser.

The unbeaten Holmes retained his World Boxing Council heavyweight crown with an 11th-round technical knockout over Shavers in a bloody and brutal scheduled 15-rounder Friday night at Caesars Palace. The fight was stopped two minutes into the round and in the second time Holmes had beaten Shavers. But it was the way he did it which had the fans buzzing.

"The guy hit harder than I thought he would," said Holmes, who ran his record to 33-0. "But if I get knocked down and get up and knock him out, then I'm great."

And Holmes said the fight didn't affect his relationship with Shavers.

"I appreciate Earnie Shavers and the man, a boxer and a human being," he said.

Holmes used his piston-like left jab through the first six rounds to open a large gash over Shavers' right eye. For the remainder of the fight the blood flowed freely into the challenger's eye. Immediately after the fight, he was taken to a nearby hospital to have the cut sutured.

"The fight went like I thought it would," the 29-year-old Holmes said. "Earnie kept coming at me and he got cut over both eyes."

In the seventh round, Holmes continued to pepper Shavers' face with the jab, but midway through the round, Shavers unleashed a savage right hand that caught Holmes on the side of the face and put him down for a seven count. Shavers continued his attack for the rest of the round, staggering Holmes on another occasion with a straight right hand.

Shavers continued to be the aggressor at the start of the eighth round but Holmes began to come alive and dominated the fight until referee Dave Pearl stopped it two minutes into the 11th round. Holmes was battering a helpless Shavers, barely able to keep his arms up in defense, when the fight was stopped.

When Holmes was asked about the knockdown, he replied only: "I dropped my hand and got hit. Holmes, 210, being battered an obviously weary Shavers in the ninth round, scoring almost at will with his left jab and thundering right hands. Shavers, 211, knees buckled once during the ninth round. He hit Holmes with a right hand at the end of the round and the champion fell to the mat but it was ruled a slip. Holmes continued the attack in the 10th round, backing Shavers into a corner twice and scoring heavily with lefts and rights.

It was the 32nd victory without a loss for Holmes and 23rd by knockout. It was the eighth loss for Shavers against 58 victories, 56 of them by knockout.

Holmes scored a 12-round decision over Shavers in Las Vegas March 25 of last year. Holmes captured the WBC title by his next bout with a 15-round decision over Ken Norton. This was the fifth successful title defense for Holmes.

In earlier bouts, WBC super bantamweight champion Wilfredo Gomez retained his title with a 10th round knockout over Carlos Mendocino. Sugar Ray Leonard scored a first-round knockout over Andy Price and Roberto Duran was pushed to the limit in scoring a unanimous decision over little-known Zefernio Gonzalez in 10-round welterweight bout.

Leonard: 'I am ready for title'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Andy Price was Mr. Cooperative and Sugar Ray Leonard was Mr. Appreciative.

"It makes me feel good when my opponent cooperates that way," said Leonard after demolishing Price in just 2:52 of the first round and running his record to 25-0. "I was determined to beat Andy Price. Andy Price wasn't a big upset. The only upset was that Andy Price got off the canvas."

Leonard, the 1976 Olympic gold medalist, unleashed a savage flurry of punches which floored Price, 36-63, and left him on the canvas for nearly a minute before the ring doctor revived him.

"They (boxing people) realize I can punch," said Leonard. "I like to be underestimated. I'm ready for the crown. The time of reality is Dec. 1 when I face Wilfredo Benitez. My speed surprised Andy Price. The left jab was the first big punch. That's when I knew I had his respect. I want to become something special in boxing."

Leonard's manager, Angelo Dundee, agrees.

"I was not surprised," said Dundee, who was in Muhammad Ali's corner. "I got a finished product in Sugar Ray Leonard. We've got a good team. We know he's ready. He will become the welterweight champion of the world. Andy Price is good. Sugar Ray is great. That's the difference."

"The referee should have stopped the fight earlier ... I thought he was serious." Leonard said. It was Leonard's 16th knockout. Price fell to 36-63.

Pirates near eastern division championship

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — There was no way the Pittsburgh Pirates, so close to winning the National League East, were going to let the game slip away Friday night.

"We knew this game should have been the clincher; we should be sitting champagne tonight now," Pirates third baseman Bill Madlock said Friday after Pittsburgh, led by Dave Parker's three RBI, bounced back from a 9-5 Thursday loss to St. Louis to defeat the Chicago Cubs 1-0.

"We know we blew that game to Montreal (7-6 loss in the second game of a doubleheader) and the terrible way we played Thursday..." continued Madlock.

The Pirates' victory, coupled with Montreal's 3-2, 11-inning loss to Philadelphia, reduced their magic number to two.

Any combination of Pittsburgh victories or Montreal losses totalling two will give the Pirates their first NL East title since 1975. But it was obvious from the start of the game that the Pirates were not going to sit back and count on any outside help in their battle with the Expos.

Jim Bibby disposed of the Cubs in the top of the first and Parker put the Pirates ahead in the bottom of the inning with an RBI single, setting the pace the two would continue the rest of the game.

Parker added a two-run homer while Bibby, despite a rain interruption, scattered four hits and struck out a season-high 11 batters to notch his 12th victory in 16 decisions.

"I was gonna go back out on that mound no matter how long we stayed in the clubhouse — two hours, three hours," he said of the 38-minute rain delay between the third and fourth innings. "I'm taking up a lot of slack right now because we have pitchers who are hurting and I had to do my job. We're fighting for a pennant and everybody has to contribute to the ballclub."

The Pirates have two games left with the Cubs and the Expos have two regularly scheduled games and a conditionally scheduled make-up doubleheader left.

Parker now has 44 RBI, tops on the club. Tim Lincecum and Dale Berra each singled home a run for the Pirates and another scored on left fielder Dave Kingman's fielding error.

Omar Moreno got the Pirates rolling when he led off the first with a single, stole second for his 74th stolen base, advanced to third on Folli's sacrifice and scored on Parker's single to right.

In the second, Phil Garner led off with a walk and one out later, Moreno walked. Both scored and Folli reached second when Kingman kicked away his single and Parker then followed with his homer over the right-field fence.

The Pirates added a final run in the sixth when Garner singled, advanced on Bibby's sacrifice and a wild pitch and scored on a single by Berra, who came into the game when Folli pulled a muscle after singling in the fourth.

The Cubs' run came in the eighth when Ivan DeJesus walked, advanced to third on Kingman's double and scored on a wild pitch.

Elsewhere in the NL, New York downed St. Louis 6-2 in the first game of a doubleheader and Philadelphia downed Montreal 3-2 in 11 innings.

Doug Flynn drove in three runs to pace the Mets and made a loser of Tom Bruno, 2-3. Ken Heltz had a two-run homer for the Cards.

Rookie Keith Moreland singled home Greg Gross from third base with two out in the 11th inning, giving Philadelphia victory over littry Montreal. It was the third straight loss for Montreal, which had not lost as many as three in a row since early August.

In later games, San Diego beat San Francisco 2-0 and Los Angeles edged Houston 6-5.

Buhl ups record to 5-0

BLACKFOOT — With the defense controlling everything, Buhl's undefeated Indians rolled off four touchdowns in the first three quarters Friday night to take a 28-3 decision over Blackfoot.

Buhl started the scoring with a grinding 84-yard march in the first period. Bruce Walden finally capping that with a slash off the right side. John Riestra converted.

In the second quarter, Tim Hamilton hooked up with Doug Walker on a 23-yard scoring bomb that carried into the end zone. On its next possession, Buhl ground quickly downfield and scored on an 11-yard burst by Mark Schaal.

Schaal then saw another touchdown nullified by a penalty on the last play of the second quarter.

Schaal then saw another touchdown nullified by a penalty on the last play of the second quarter.

Blackfoot went to its final touchdown with the second-half kickoff, using up nearly six minutes before sending Schaal for the last five yards. Hamilton threw to Schaal for the two-point conversion.

In the final period, the Indians lost a drive at the Blackfoot two-yard line on a fumble.

Shawn Shield hooked the 27-yard field goal that finally got Blackfoot on the board after that.

Skyline 10, Minico 6

RUPERT — Skyline's fourth-down prayer was heard but Minico's wasn't Friday night when the Grizzlies took a 10-6 Southern Idaho Conference game that wasn't decided until the closing minutes.

It was a bruising defensive game that left Coach Wes Patterson quite pleased despite the loss. "Defensively with the exception of that one play I thought we had a good physical ball club," he said. "Conversely, their size shut off our outside game and took away the inside quite a bit. Our passing game opened things up a little but you can't play one step ahead of a team like that offensively."

Skyline had the fate smile on it when the Spartans lined up. Looking at a fourth and long situation, the Grizzlies went with an alley-oop pass from Brian Nelson to Mat Sato and the bigger senior simply outleaped the smaller Spartans in the end zone for the touchdown. Sato also drilled the extra point.

As the teams battled back and forth in the second half, it appeared the game might end up 7-0 and Minico had to try a gamble. The Spartans tried it on fourth and one at their own 15-yard line but a combination of Skyline defense and a snap count defeated that gamble.

Minico held for three plays and on fourth down Sato dropped back to boot the icing 22-yard field goal.

The Spartans immediately turned to the air and hit a series of short passes that carried to the Skyline seven. Then out of a spread formation, the Spartans called on fullback John Kirt to draw and he bolted into the end zone.

Skyline then led the decision by stopping the two-point conversion play.

Rigby 41, Jerome 28

RIGBY — The Jerome Tigers had their biggest offensive show of the season Friday night but it wasn't enough to dampen Rigby's homecoming.

The homecoming Trojans downed the Tigers 41-28.

For a while it looked like a Rigby runaway and then a Jerome comeback. In the end the two teams slugged it out over the last quarter and a hail as the Tigers absorbed their defeat.

Rigby took off like a horse-afire. Four minutes into the game Frank DeKorja hit Kevin Shera on a 18-yard strike and Todd McKinley booted the first of five extra points. It started looking like a rout when Jerome fumbled the ball away at its own 28-yard line two minutes later and DeKorja and Bill Fenwick immediately hooked up on a scoring strike. Before the first half ended, DeKorja scrambled out of the pocket for a 22-yard touchdown romp that made it 21-0.

But the second quarter was all Jerome. The Tigers came out in a wishbone and immediately began moving the ball almost at will. Five minutes into the period Troy Dickerson scored on a two-yard burst and Randy Larsen belted in for the two-point conversion.

On its next possession, Jerome rolled against the time Brian Crossland scoring from a yard away with 2:22 left in the half. But that was enough time for two more scores. Rigby ran the ensuing kickoff to the Jerome 20 and then passed. It started looking like a rout when Jerome fumbled the ball away at its own 28-yard line two minutes later and DeKorja and Bill Fenwick immediately hooked up on a scoring strike. Before the first half ended, DeKorja scrambled out of the pocket for a 22-yard touchdown romp that made it 21-0.

Murtaugh 26, Hagerman 6

HAGERMAN — The Murtaugh Red Devils took to the air for three scoring plays in the first quarter and overpowered the Hagerman Pirates in prep football action Friday night.

Murtaugh's Kirt Upton broke the game in the first quarter on a five yard run to give the undefeated Red Devils the early lead.

Late in the second quarter, Murtaugh quarterback Roy Nebecker launched the first of two touchdown passes with this one going to Ronnie Bates.

Nebecker then let loose on an 85 yard pass play to Paul Graff and Rick Flores added the conversion attempt to make the score 18-0.

Hagerman finally reached the scoreboard on a ten yard run by Doyle Owsley to narrow the lead at 18-6.

Murtaugh clinched the game on a 15 yard halfback pass from Upton to Graff with Flores adding the final two point conversion.

Murtaugh ups it's record to 5-0 while Hagerman drops to 2-3.

Highland 41, Bonnevile 21

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Highland tailback James Thompson rushed for three touchdowns and the Rams defeated Kept Bonnevile without a first down in almost three quarters on Friday night.

The Highland offense out-gained Bonnevile 258 to 20 yards in the first half. Thompson scored on runs of one and 39 yards, quarterback Brent Koetter hit light end Rick Koelsen on a three-yard scoring pass.

Capital 28, Borah 27

BOISE (UPI) — The No. 3 ranked Capital Eagles defeated the No. 1 ranked Borah Lions 28-27 in an A-1 Southern Idaho conference high school classic Friday night.

Quarterback Jeff Holmland led the way for the Eagles as he ran for two touchdowns and completed a 17-yard touchdown pass to Keith Arbon. Borah's fullback Darren Corpus went for three touchdowns and added a two-point conversion to even the game 21-21 with just more than five minutes left in the third quarter.

Holmland scored on a three-yard run with 33 second left in the third quarter, to make the game 28-21. Corpus then scored with a five-yard run in the fourth quarter, making the score 28-27 with just more than eight minutes left.

The Lions' two-point conversion drive was sustained the one-point margin until the final second ticked off the clock.

Hansen 34, Raft River 14

MALTA — The undefeated Hansen Huskies exploded for three touchdowns in the first quarter and maintained its share of the Magic Valley Conference lead by downing the Raft River Trojans 34-14 Friday night.

The victory kept the Huskies on a collision course with similarly undefeated Murtaugh — probably for the conference title.

"With their size, they pretty much moved the ball as they wanted to," said Raft River Coach Olani Wallace afterward. "But they got those first two touchdowns when we knew the game had started. After the first quarter it was a pretty good game."

CSI opens with win

REXBURG — The College of Southern Idaho women's volleyball team stomped past Utah Tech in three straight games Friday night to begin play in the Ricks College Invitational.

CSI scored 15-6, 15-7, and 15-9 victories in the best out of three game play.

That means the Golden Eagles will now play Flathead at 9 this morning and College of Eastern Utah at 11:30. In the afternoon, they will meet Ricks at 2.

All 12 CSI players competed against Utah Tech.

Dodgers, Lasorda ink new one-year contract

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda Friday signed a new one-year contract with the team. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

The Dodgers also signed Manny Mota as a coach and batting instructor, replacing Jim Lefebvre, who accepted the same position with the San Francisco Giants.

Lasorda, 52, has managed the Dodgers for three seasons and guided them to two National League championships. The Dodgers will finish third this year, in the NL West.

Mota, 41, ends his 17-year playing career Sunday. He established a major-league record this season when he collected his 145th career pinch hit.

Pirates loses, Palmer struggles

By United Press International

If Friday night's performance were any indication, the probable starting pitchers for the first game of the AL playoffs may turn the event into an unrelenting Fireworks Night.

Both Jim Palmer, who is scheduled to open the series for Baltimore, and Nolan Ryan, slated to oppose him for California, experienced rough outings.

Palmer was tagged for seven hits and six runs but Baltimore scored a 14-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians. Ryan gave up two first-inning runs as the Texas Rangers scored a 5-0 triumph over the Angels.

Bill Smith betted a grand slam and drove in six runs to back Palmer, 10-6. Smith, who has a 308 lifetime average against Indian pitching, hit his fifth homer of the season to highlight a six-run second and the Orioles chased starter Len Barker, 26, with a six-run third highlighted by Pat Kelly's ninth homer of the year.

Ferguson Jenkins pitched a five-hitter and Buddy Bell drove in the 100th run of the season to help Texas continue its home mastery over the Angels, who have won in Arlington, Texas, only two times in 19 games over the last three seasons.

Ryan, 16-14, allowed a one-out Bump Wills triple to right field and a double by Al Oliver. Bell drove Oliver home with a single, giving him the first 100-RBI season of his career.

In other AL games, New York defeated Toronto 7-5, Boston topped Detroit 7-4, Chicago nipped Seattle 3-1, Milwaukee hammered Minnesota 10-1 and Kansas City belted Oakland 13-1.

Oscar Gamble went 4-for-5, including a two-run single in the first inning, and Reggie Jackson blasted a three-run homer in the fourth to lead the Yankees. Jim Spencer added his 20th homer, a three-run high.

Tom Poquette, who had three hits, drove in three runs while the Red Sox were scoring six times in the third and fourth innings. Mike Torrez went first five innings to raise his record to 16-13 and Tom Burdette finished up to gain his fourth save. Miil Wilcox, 12-10, suffered the loss.

Wayne Nordin again slammed two home runs and Jim Morris added another to get the eight-hit pitching of Steve Trout. Rick Honeycutt, 11-12, took the loss.

Mike Caldwell, 16-6, pitched a five-hitter and Cecil Cooper drove in five runs with a homer and two doubles to pace the Brewers.

Jamie Quirk knocked in four runs with a double and a homer. Larry Gura allowed three hits in seven innings to up his record to 13-12.

Times have changed for black quarterbacks

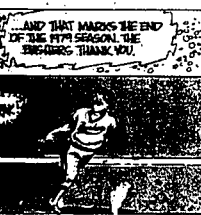

By Ron Rapoport
 O1979 Chicago Sun-Times
Newsman: Do you have anything you want to say to Vince Evans?
Doag Williams: Tell him to keep it in the league, add some more to it. There's only a few of us.
The most interesting thing about it is that nobody seems to care.
Nobody has written Doug Williams a letter calling him anything.
Nobody has printed a bumper sticker referring to Vince Evans' ancestry.
Nobody is picketing. Nobody is boycotting. Nobody is writing letters to the newspapers. Nobody is fighting in bars. Nobody has dusted off those hoary theories about leadership ability and skilled positions.
Nobody even seems to be trying very hard to determine whether, when Tampa Bay plays the Bears at Soldier Field Sunday, it will be the first time two black quarterbacks have started against each other in the NFL. This despite the fact that, as James Harris puts it, "It shouldn't be too hard to track down."
James Harris is the connection. He is the man who preceded Williams at Grambling. He is the man who went through all the racial nonsense with the Rams while Evans was at the University of Southern California. He is the man who kept around four years after the death of them. And he is the man who has tried to convince himself that what happened to him didn't necessarily have to happen to them.

 Harris is sitting the bench at San Diego now, his best years behind him, his best chance gone. And if he permits himself a smile now and then about how different things are for his two proteges, he is certainly entitled to that.
 "There's no way for me to really say anything other than times have changed," Harris says. "Maybe there's some progress in the area. Maybe some other guy coming along will get the opportunity, too."
 Chronologically, it was not so long ago when Harris came along. Psychologically, it was very long ago indeed. He was not the first black man to play quarterback for a pro team, but there had been few of them, even fewer who had been taken seriously.
 Harris was drafted by Buffalo on the eighth round of the college draft in 1963, kept around four years after the team was hired by the Rams in the middle of the 1972 season after he had pretty much given up on his football career. Harris won 20 of his 26 starts over the next three seasons and led the NFL's quarterback efficiency ratings in 1977. It was not enough. Even when he won, the racial component was fever very far beneath the surface. When he lost, it wasn't beneath it at all.

 "I got quite a bit of hate mail and threats," Harris says. "Things like calling me a dumb nigger, saying I didn't have any business leading white players, that I should be a running back. There was always the factor of never being able to relax and just go out and play football. It was kind of difficult to overcome. My whole career was based on racial considerations."
 The lesson was not lost on Williams at Grambling or Evans at USC.
 "I'm a grown man," Williams said. "I know what was happening."
 "I didn't make it seem kind of hard," says Evans, who was getting some "Dear Nigger" letters of his own at USC. And when Harris finally was benched, Evans could only wonder why.
 But if Williams and Evans were concerned that something similar might happen to them, Harris had other suspicions. Between Williams' talent and Evans' tenacity, he thought, one of them was going to make it.
 "I think Doug Williams is the greatest college quarterback ever to play the game," Harris says. "For size, strength, agility, ability to throw the ball—whatever you look for in a quarterback—Williams has it all."

And when Tampa made Williams a first-round draft choice, saying in effect that he was the quarterback of their future, that cinched it. A full shot at the job was his.
 "Tampa and John McKay showed a lot of confidence," Harris says. "I gained a lot of respect for Tampa Bay when they took him No. 1."
 As for Evans, his ability to rise above his troubles in college ("Save SC Football, Shoot Vince Evans" read the era's bumper stickers) and his insistence on a clause in his contract saying he would only be asked to play quarterback were the keys.
 "I thought it would be more difficult for Vince," said Harris, "not being drafted as well. I'm just glad he didn't break a lot of kickoffs when he volunteered for special teams as a rookie and get thrown in as a running back."
 The fact that Williams and Evans came to their respective teams at the right time didn't hurt them, either. With the Buccaneers, Williams replaced Gary Huff, who had been appointed Public Enemy No. 1 by the fans. When Huff was injured in 1977 and was lying on the turf in agony, he received a resounding chorus of boos in what one observer calls the ugliest thing he ever has seen on a football field.
 Then, too, Tampa has 15 black starters, including one at every "skilled" position. Only the Buccaneers' offensive line, nose tackle and one of their safeties is white.

Eagles to test their strength Sunday against NFL's best

By IRA KAUFMAN
 UPI Sports Writer
 It's painfully obvious to NFL teams by now that the Pittsburgh Steelers are rarely beaten on the field of play. It may be time to look toward suspension to stop them.
 The NFL champion Steelers invade Philadelphia during their 13th straight victory and their Pennsylvania rivals will need all the good fortune they can muster to derail the Pittsburgh juggernaut. The Eagles, 3-1, are one of the NFC's better representatives, but the Steelers have forged off NFL foes since 1972 (2-1-1 mark including three Super Bowl victories).
 Pittsburgh's quality depth has been amply demonstrated this season as a series of nagging injuries has gnawed away at the defending NFL champs. All-Pro wide receiver Lynn Swann will not play against the Eagles, but nothing has slowed the Steelers down so far including fatigue. Pittsburgh has outscored opponents by a whopping 45-7 margin in the fourth quarter.
 "The Eagles are preparing for the game with playoff-like intensity.

 "I'm excited about this game," quarterback Ron Jaworski said. "This is an important game for us."
 "It's the biggest game of the four-year," Dick Vermeil, Pittsburgh's claimed offensive tackle Stan Alters.
 Coach Vermeil, however, put things in perspective.
 "I'm glad they (the players) look at the game that way," he said. "But to me, it's our biggest game of the week. No one game makes the season unless it's your last game and you need a win to make the playoffs. A football team only has one chance a week, and you should be prepared enough to play, no matter who it is."
 "They are the world champions, and until somebody can prove different, they still are. We're going to have to play like hell."
 The Steelers will try to deal with the No. 10 Jets and an overworked trainer's room as they journey to Veterans Stadium.
 Besides Swann's injury, guard Gerry Mullins, cornerback Ron

Johnson and defensive end Steve Furness are doubtful and All-Pro middle linebacker Jack Lambert is expected to see only limited action. Running back Franco Harris is coming back from a sprained ankle and defensive end L.C. Greenwood will test a sprained knee for the first time in four weeks.
 In addition, quarterback Terry Bradshaw has been banged up in three games, including last week's, but has managed to come back.

Crash kills MHS players

Two 16-year-old Meridian High School football players died early Friday morning in the 50-foot "plunge of their car into the Payette River, state police said.
 A third occupant of the car, also 16, survived the crash and walked along State Highway 55 to a telephone to summon help, said State Police Sgt. Marvin Miller.
 The dead were identified as Marc Helland, the driver, and Todd K. Johnson. Richard Thometz survived with a head injury and was being treated at Valley County Hospital in Cascade. Miller said the boys apparently had been driving toward a relative's cabin in Valley County to celebrate Meridian's 34-2 victory over Nampa Thursday night.
 "He (Thometz) really can't remember too much," said Miller. "I don't really know how it happened. It's still under investigation. They went over the embankment into the river. It's really steep right there."

 Miller said the car rolled down a 50-foot embankment, landed on some rocks on the riverbank and bounced into the river, submerging completely.
 Thometz "thought he was thrown out," said Miller. "He doesn't know how he made it."
 "The river is real swift and deep right there. We had a little difficulty looking for it, but we finally spotted the bumper."
 The car was pulled from the river by a wrecking truck, the coroner said. The bodies were in the car when it was retrieved.
 The crash occurred at about 4:30 a.m. at milepost 99 two miles north of Smiths Ferry.
 It was not known whether the victims died in the crash or were trapped in the submerged car and drowned.

 Miller said he did not know what led to the crash or how fast the car was traveling when it left the road.
 Forward Marques Johnson told the Milwaukee Bucks through his attorney Friday he still is not ready to report because of a contract dispute.
 Attorney Ted Steinberg, in a telephone call to Bucks lawyer Joe O'Neill, simply said Johnson has no plans to report to the Bucks' training camp.
 Sam Meyers and The New York Knicks of the Women's Professional Basketball team have progressed to the final stage in their negotiations, according to Edward G. Reischer, president of the Stars.
 Reischer talked with Meyers' agent James Griffin again Friday and reported that he had made another offer to Griffin, who agreed to discuss the proposal with Meyers immediately.
 The San Francisco 49ers announced Friday they have re-evaluated defensive end Al Cleveland for Sunday's game in San Diego against the Chargers.
 To make room for Covilins, who was on the injured reserve list, San Francisco placed Cleveland and linebacker Ron Shuman on the same list.
 Oscar Fabiani, the goal-scoring star of the North American Soccer League Tampa Bay Rowdies, rejected his Argentine nationality and became a Chilean citizen Friday.
 The move means Fabiani will be eligible to play on the Chilean national team in the South American soccer championship tournament to be played next month. The title will be fought for by Chile, Brazil, Peru and Paraguay.
 Tennessee football Coach Johnny Majors has given a three-year extension to his contract by the school's board of trustees Friday.
 Majors came to Tennessee in 1976 after directing Pittsburgh to the national championship. He is currently in the third year of a $30,000 per season contract.

West Coast football What a time to play USC

By JOE SARGIS
 UPI Sports Writer
 What a year Charlie McClendon did play Southern California.
 In all his career at Louisiana State, McClendon, to his credit and reputation, ignored the mighty Trojans from Los Angeles.
 It hardly made any difference in the 1950s because the Bengals, anchored by their famous Chinese Handits' defense, were winning every thing in sight. USC had not withstood the test of 10 years. LSU has fallen on tough days while USC has placed in the top 10 every year except one—John McKay's final one in Troy.
 Now, all of a sudden, it looks as if McClendon has a good thing going again at LSU, and for a while at least the people who have been trying to stomp him are quiet. All it took was a 44-0 rout of Colorado and a 47-3 pasting of Rice to transform the Bengals from a also-rans to national prominence (15th in the rankings).
 "The balloon could burst" very quickly, though, tonight in Baton Rouge when LSU faces defending national champion and still No. 1 Southern California. The Trojans, who've hardly had to play their first team in easy victories over Texas Tech, Oregon State and Minnesota, are 11-point favorites.
 While some of McClendon's players are anxious to take on the Trojans, Charlie, who knows better, probably already is thinking of LSU's next game. That's not to say the Bengals can't upset the Trojans, but it hardly seems likely, even in Baton Rouge where strange things have been known to happen, especially on Saturday nights.

 "I wish I knew more about USC's first team," says McClendon. "So far, all anyone has seen is their third team, and it played pretty even against Oregon State and Minnesota the last two weeks."
 California, No. 17 UCLA, Oregon, Stanford and Washington State are other Pacific-10 Conference teams playing interesting rivalries with Stanford and UCLA, the only favorites—12 Cardinals by 7, over Boston College and the 21 Bruins by 3 over Ohio State. California (24) is a 10 point underdog to No. 13 Michigan even though the game is being played in Berkeley, while Oregon (12) is a 15 point underdog to No. 12 Purdue and WSU (12) is a 7 point underdog to Syracuse.
 Washington's Huskies are at home to Fresno State of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, while Arizona's 5-1 Wildcats host San Jose State, also of the PAC-10, and Arizona State and Oregon State, both of whom have lost their only PAC-10 game, face off at Corvallis in the lone league matchup. ASU is favored by six points.
 Pacific hosts Fullerton State in the only PCAA league game. Otherwise, aside from Fresno and San Jose State, which are playing Pac-10 teams, Long Beach State is at Northern Illinois and Utah State is at Utah.

Rain postpones golf series play

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Rain forced postponement of Friday's second round of the $400,000 World Series of Golf until today, with both the third and fourth rounds to be played Sunday.
 Andy Bean, who fired a tournament record 64 in Thursday's first round, will take a two-stroke lead into today's second round.
 Australian Graham Marsh and J.C. Snead were tied for second with 66. Followed by Lee Trevino, Tom Kite and Lon Hinkle at 67.

 Friday's scheduled second round was postponed "due to heavy rains that left the Firestone Country Club south course unplayable," said Clyde Mangum, deputy commissioner of the PGA tour.
 However, clear weather was forecast for both today and Sunday.
 While today's round will begin at the regularly scheduled time of 8:55 a.m. (MST), Sunday will be a long day for the select field of 38 entrants.

Longhorns to test Tigers

By Fred McMane
UPI Sports Writer

There are some other Tigers besides those from Louisiana State eager to prove their worth on the college football field today.

They are the Tigers of Missouri and they want to show the nation they're worthy of their lofty No. 7 ranking as they entertain fourth-ranked Texas at Columbia, Mo.

Missouri, 3-0, will be facing its sternest test of the young season, but the Tigers will have to put on a good showing against Texas if they expect fans to take them seriously as a Big Eight-Conference contender.

Warren Powers, coach of Missouri, knows Texas is a lot better than it looked against Iowa State last week and he is a bit concerned about his club's inability to score in the first half. Missouri has scored 92 points in its first three games, but only three of those have come in the first half.

"It's unbelievable. We've looked at the playcalling. We've studied the films. It just seems we make mistakes and cost ourselves chances to score in the first half," said Powers. "We've made mistakes that haven't shown up all season, not even in practice. Elementary mistakes. Then we have to make adjustments at halftime to correct them."

"It's a mystery to me. We've got to start playing better in the first half. We aren't going to keep people (opponents) out of the end zone all season. We play some pretty tough in this year of it."

Texas, 1-0, figures to be better on offense this week than it was against Iowa State last week. The Longhorns had to rally from behind to pull out the game in the second half.

"We need to knock off a lot of rust and we need to improve our execution to win against Iowa State," said Texas Coach Fred Akers. "We've taken the first step in that direction and part of it is execution."

"We're going to have to be ready to play Missouri and we're going to have to execute. Missouri is certainly deserving to be among the top teams in the country. They're as good as anybody else."

"After Power" also will be the battle cry at Baton Rouge, La., where 15th-ranked LSU hosts top-ranked Southern California.

LSU, trying to make Coach Charley McClendon's last season a memorable one, faces one of its toughest opponents in years in the talent-laden Trojans.

LSU will be meeting Southern California for the first time and the Tigers are eager to prove they can play on the same level. The Tigers, 2-0, have allowed only three points in their first two games while scoring 91, but those two victories came against Colorado and Rice, two of the nation's weakest teams.

Southern California is an entirely different matter. The Trojans are probably the nation's most versatile team, combining an explosive offense with an aggressive and ball-hawking defense.

"We are playing one of the better football teams in America," says Robinson. "We just have to be prepared for the challenge. I have great respect for LSU and we're looking forward to a great game."

Other key matchups on today's card include sixth-ranked Michigan State at 16th-ranked Notre Dame, 18th-ranked Penn State at fifth-ranked Nebraska and 11th-ranked Ohio State at 17th-ranked UCLA.

Also, third-ranked Alabama visits Vanderbilt, eighth-ranked Houston entertains West Texas State, ninth-ranked Washington plays host to Fresno State, 10th-ranked Florida State visits Virginia Tech, 12th-ranked Purdue plays host to Oregon, 13th-ranked Michigan visits California, 14th-ranked Arkansas entertains Tulsa, 19th-ranked North Carolina State plays host to Wake Forest and 20th-ranked North Carolina visits Army.

Briefly in sports

Celtics trip Bullets

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dave Cowens and Cedric Maxwell combined for 49 points Friday night to lead the Boston Celtics to a 116-101 victory over the Washington Bullets in the first game of an National Basketball Association preseason double-header.

The Celtics, who never trailed in the game, jumped out to a 17-5 lead midway in the first quarter and led 49-30 at halftime as Cowens had 18 points. A stiff shot by Maxwell with 4:05 left in the third quarter gave Boston its biggest lead, 75-54.

Cowens finished with 25 points and Maxwell added 24, all but one in the second half. Jeff Judkins scored 16 and rookie Larry Bird contributed 13 points and 11 rebounds.

Kevin Grevey had 16 points and Bob Dandridge 12 for Washington.

Belmont looks into rigging

NEW YORK (UPI) — Insisting that there has been no rigging of computerized bet-tallying and reporting procedures at the race track, officials at Belmont Park nevertheless said Friday they were launching an investigation into reports of possible manipulation of figures.

"I don't think it's happening," said Don Drew, a Belmont vice-president in charge of the futuets operation. "But we're going to make sure it's not happening. There will be a complete review."

According to published reports, a computer expert has been rigging the track's computers and affecting the illegal numbers racket. The last of the rigging in the track handle are often used in numbers betting, and it is believed an expert could program the computer to produce predetermined digits.

U of I player injured

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — University of Idaho running back Tim Lappano will miss tonight's game with the University of Utah State because of a knee injury, team officials said Friday.

Lappano has been complaining of headaches since getting knocked out during last week's Idaho-Pacific contest.

Lappano, who is ranked fourth nationally in rushing among Division I-AA schools, is the Vandals' top ground-gainer so far this season with 257 yards.

Indy to invite women press

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway has bowed to the protests of women journalists and decided to admit them to its annual press party.

Speedway officials said Friday the invitations haven't been mailed yet, but when they are, there will be a number of ladies on the list for the Oct. 15 event. About 500 people attend the party each year.

The Speedway's original letter to news organizations asked for a check of the enclosed list of your staff members (men only) ... so that we can prepare individual invitations."

The ban on women was questioned by UPI and the local chapter of Women in Communications, Inc.

WIC president Ann Rein told Speedway chairman Joseph Cloude that the ban was not dropped, but a substantial portion of the media will be ignored — the women who spend many long, dusty (or wet) hours at the IMS during May covering many aspects of the race.

Alexandria loses franchise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Alexandria, Va., franchise in the Class A Carolina League has lost its working agreement with the Seattle Mariners and will almost certainly be out of the league in 1980, baseball sources said Friday.

The two-year-old franchise's only chance of staying in organized baseball is moving up to the Class A Eastern League, which has two franchisees available. Club President Eugene Thomas said he believes Alexandria has a 50-50 chance of moving up, depending on what kind of financial deal can be struck with the parent club.

It is unclear whether interests in two Canadian cities — Quebec City and Three Rivers, Quebec — are interested in the Eastern League two years ago. The first call on the new EL franchise.

Should Quebec City and Three Rivers not take the Eastern League franchises, Alexandria and Hagerstown, Md., are possible franchisee sites. The EL currently extends from Holyoke, Mass., to Reading, Pa.

Jones heads Canadian prix

MONTREAL (UPI) — Australian Alan Jones posted the fastest time on the first day of the Canadian Grand Prix heats Friday, clocking in a whisker ahead of teammate Clay Regazzoni on a course that was criticized as too fast.

Jones, who lives in Australia, won three straight races in mid-season including the Dutch Grand Prix, piloted his Saab-Williams FW07 around the 4.41 kilometer (2.81 mile) circuit in 1:30.625. His average speed was 147.87 kilometers an hour (109.249 mph).

Paraplegic plans vigil

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A paraplegic Baltimore Orioles fan said Friday he will lead a candlelight vigil at Memorial Stadium on the eve of the American League East playoff games to protest inadequate seating for handicapped spectators.

About New Mexico

It wasn't easy to convince Jones

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Ambitious but heretofore small time promoter Frank Mirabal says he had a tough time convincing Ed "Too Tall" Jones he should make his pro boxing debut in Las Cruces, N.M., a city he had never even heard about.

"The first thing he asked was whether there would be anybody in his corner, anyone cheering for him," said Mirabal. "He (Jones) had never heard of Las Cruces and thought it was somewhere in Mexico."

Mirabal, a self-employed businessman and part-time promoter at rock concerts and amateur boxing cards, admits he "got very lucky" in outbidding some 70 other promoters throughout the country for the No. 3 boxing debut of the former Dallas Cowboys defensive end.

In a telephone interview with UPI from his Las Cruces office, Mirabal says the key was the $45,000 guarantee he offered Jones. Jones, 33, a pound former linemen who will face 6-3, 215-pound Jesus "Yaqui" Meneses of Mexico in his first pro bout.

The fight will be held at the 14,000-seat Pan American Center on the campus of New Mexico State University and Mirabal says the $25,000 rental fee he is paying MMSU is the best offer Jones has received. Jones had never heard of Las Cruces and thought it was somewhere in Mexico.

"The previous high was the $42,500 that Sugar Ray Leonard got," Mirabal said.

Mirabal said he took him about seven weeks and $800 worth of telephone calls from his Las Cruces office to convince Jones to come to Las Cruces. "I really wanted a Mexican fighter, not only because of what he can do for our gate but also because they are very game fighters. They fear nothing — not even the ring post," Mirabal said.

Mirabal says Meneses is more than a token opponent for Jones and notes the tall Mexican has won nine of his 13 pro bouts, all of them by knockout. Meneses' amateur career included 21 straight victories, 20 of them via knockouts.

"I'm not usually surprised that Jones people took the fight," said Mirabal. "Originally we were looking for someone with about the same amount of experience, but Jones is willing to take on a guy whose already had 13 fights. Mirabal said Meneses also is impressed by Jones' credentials, either on the football field or in the ring.

"He is 20 years old, cocky and has a definite left hook knockout punch," says Mirabal of Meneses. "He told me he doesn't follow American football and has never heard of Too Tall. In fact, Meneses said if Jones has never been in a pro fight before, he's confident he can take him on."

Although tickets for the bout don't go on sale until Oct. 2, Mirabal says the request for the tickets which will range in price from $30 for ringside to $6 for general admission — has been overwhelming.

"The interest in this fight is unbelievable," says Mirabal. "I had one Dallas businessman call and request 300 ringside tickets. I figured out he was going to try and scalp them, so I had to turn him down. The response has been so good that we don't need to sell them to someone who is going to pay $20 or $30 for them and then turn around and try to make $50 off the general public."

"One question which Mirabal keeps facing from fans and the media is air transportation into Las Cruces, a city of some 30,000 residents. The city's airport has no major carrier service and is not equipped to handle any large jets. The nearest major airport is at El Paso, Texas, 45 miles to the south.

Jones this summer was picked up in Lincoln, Neb., for assault charges. All the charges but one were dropped when his doctors testified his behavior was brought on by stress and strain partially because of a cross-country drive. Jones pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor assault charge and paid a $400 fine.

Snyder said he believed Cornelius would be leaving USU for the rest of the year. The tackle, who was declared academically ineligible before, the season started, was reinstated to the team before its opener against San Jose State.

Utah St. suspends player for conduct

LOGAN, Utah — A Utah State University defensive tackle from Massachusetts has been suspended indefinitely from the football team for off-field conduct which the coaches said was embarrassing to the team.

USU head football coach Bruce Snyder, on the eve of the team's big game at the University of Utah today, said Friday Pat Cornelius would not play for the rest of the year. But the coach refused to comment on what Cornelius had done other than to say he had not violated school policy or any laws.

"We have standards we set as a team and we expect our student athletes to adhere to them," Snyder said. "They (the rules) aren't easy; they aren't meant to be. In this case those standards have been violated and it was in the best interests of the football club that Pat Cornelius be suspended."

The 228-pound Junior from Millroy, Mass., started at right tackle last week against Colorado State in USU's
