

Guerrilla chief proclaims free Afghan state

United Press International
A guerrilla leader Friday proclaimed a "Free Islamic Republic" in eastern Afghanistan and appealed for military assistance to secure the area.

In Washington, it was rumored that Afghan president Babrak Karmal would soon be replaced.

A state department spokesman Hudding Carter said, "Rumors continue to circulate in Kabul that the current president will be replaced soon.

"We have reports that a number of additional Soviet civilians advisers have recently arrived in Afghanistan. I would note there were a large number of civilian advisers in the early days of the Taraki regime referring to a previous Afghan president.

UPI correspondent Roland Tyrrell reported from Kabul, Afghanistan, that Karmal's regime is divided by personal enmities, politics and past history.

Less than a month has passed since former President Hafizullah Amin was deposed and killed.

"It is true that the Afghans are terrible rumor-mongers and have said the same about every new government since 1973," a Western diplomat said. "But the fact is that they have always been right."

In Islamabad, Pakistan, guerrilla leader Zia Khan Nassry, chairman of the Afghan Islamic and Nationalist Revolutionary Council, said his forces controlled at least three provinces with the exception of a handful of cities occupied by Soviet troops.

Nassry said, "The free Islamic Republic of Afghanistan" had been proclaimed in Paktia, Ghazni, and Logar provinces in eastern Afghanistan.

"The Soviet Union is securing itself in urban areas and if we strengthen ourselves, then we can resist," Nassry said.

More than three feet of snow virtually halted fighting between Soviet troops and the guerrillas in the area, but when the snow melts, Nassry acknowledged, his forces could be in real trouble.

He said the rebels needed four types of military assistance: missiles to knock out Mi-24 helicopter gunships, anti-tank weapons, communication equipment and both weapons.

"If we have enough anti-tank missiles and surface-to-air missiles, we can annihilate the Russians. If help does not arrive in time, they will exterminate people whether by firepower or whether they starve us to death," he said.

As Nassry spoke, the Pakistani government — sensitive to giving the appearance of supporting the Afghan rebels — ordered him to leave the country within 24 hours. He said he would appeal the order.

Feeling a draft?

Recruiters get calls but no extra men

TWIN FALLS — U.S. Army recruiter Sgt. Harry White says he's had a lot of telephone calls lately.

Since President Carter called for a revitalization of the Selective Service system Wednesday, the callers are asking about the draft. Many say they would like to enlist if the Soviet Union goes beyond Afghanistan to invade another country.

But average monthly enlistments are holding steady at six or seven a month, White said, plus three or four join the Army Reserve.

Idaho National Guard and Reserve officials say recruitment has increased since the beginning of the hostage crisis. "Iran, Iraq, Cuba, Korea, recruitment and retention manager of the Idaho National Guard, said about 20 percent of the recruits now say they want to serve their country. Before the Iranian situation most said they needed extra income.

Pearle Aldrich, who was clerk of the Twin Falls County Draft Board for 25 years, says fear of being drafted usually is the main reason for enlisting. "I've seen a lot of young men in times of war, this meant the county had to draft fewer young men to meet a monthly quota.

"I'd hate to see the draft start off again," Aldrich said. "It causes too much heartache.

Aldrich said the only draft protests he remembers in Twin Falls were parents whose sons had been selected. "They just abused me, saying 'terrible,'" she said. "I was the only one they could get to, and I was just the clerk."

Up until June 1973 every county had a member of the draft board and a Selective Service office. In Twin Falls, the office was in the federal government office building on Blue Lakes Boulevard North. Those drafted were sent to the Boise Army recruiting station for pre-induction physicals.

But today the Selective Service system, with an annual budget of $7 million, employs 100,000 men who would work to reinstitute the draft in a hurry if ordered by the president.

Twin Falls U.S. Army recruiter Sgt. Harry White says enlistments are holding steady but many inquiries concerning the draft are being made

Bob DeLamant/Times-News

Gen. James Brooks, Idaho's Selective Service director, is also commander of the Idaho National Guard. Although he has no fulltime Selective Service offices or employees, five Army National Guard and three Army Reserve officers work one weekend a month in Boise on Selective Service paperwork and planning.

So far President Carter has only called for draft registration. But a White House report on all Selective Service recommendations, requested by Congress last year, is due Feb. 9.

Registration alone would not mean new draft boards would be chosen, said Brooks, explaining that the registration would be done through the U.S. Postal Service.

"I don't even think the local postmasters know that yet," Brooks said.

If President Carter does recommend a full-fledged return to the draft, then new draft boards would be chosen. In the past, board members were nominated by the governor and appointed by the president, Brooks said.

"They were chosen for their stature in the community," he said. "They were community leaders who are well-respected."

In his report, Carter may register young women as well as men. Rosalynn Carter has already spoken in favor of registering women. "I have mixed emotions," said Brooks. "I have no objections to women in uniform, but I am against women in combat units. I don't think the country is ready for it, and personally I'm not ready for it."

By law, men between ages 18 and 26 are eligible for the draft. Since about two million boys are born every year, Selective Service has a pool of 16 million. Women in the same age group number approximately 17 million.

New plan involves Iran election

U.N. tries to free hostages

© The Los Angeles Times
UNITED NATIONS — The U.N. Security Council began negotiations Friday on a "package deal" that it hoped would bring the release in eight to 10 weeks of the U.S. hostages in Iran.

The plan calls for the formation of a "United Nations Commission on Information on Iran," composed of some members of the 15-nation Security Council and others chosen from outside the U.N. by Secretary General Kurt Waldheim. The sources said that the plan hinged on the election of Abol-hassan Bani-Sadr as president of Iran by a wide enough margin to give him complete freedom of action.

Bani-Sadr claimed victory Friday night, although reports were still incomplete and may not be final until next week.

The U.N. plan would work like this, if Bani-Sadr is elected:

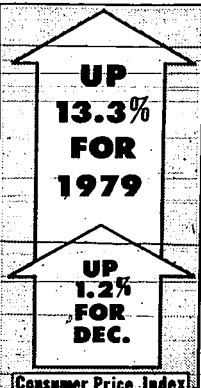

Following his installation as president, plus an additional delay if scheduled mid-February elections of a National Assembly go forward, Islamic members of the Security Council would begin talks with the new government on the release of the hostages. The plan would require the handing over of the estimated 50 Americans to an agency such as the International Red Cross as the commission assembled in Tehran to hear charges of human rights violations and other "crimes" of the deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

After a 10-day session of the commission, members would return to report to the Security Council and the hostages would be allowed to leave Tehran. By pre-arrangement, the commission would neither condemn Iran for the taking of the hostages, nor demand from any country the extradition of the shah.

The commission is expected to be composed of the two Islamic members of the council — Bangladesh and Tunisia — together with a nonaligned member of the council that has good relations with Iran, possibly Mexico. In addition, Sean MacBride, head of Amnesty International, and Francois Petitjean, Paris lawyer known as a human rights advocate, were reported as likely choices to complete the commission.

Diplomats emphasized the need to complete arrangements for the "package" before Feb. 1, when Ambassador Jacques Leprieux of France yields the presidency of the council to the representative from East Germany.

'79 inflation rate worst in 33 years

© The Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — The national inflation rate for consumers soared 13.3 percent last year, the biggest increase since prices exploded in 1946 after World War II price controls were lifted, the Department of Labor reported Friday.

The department said that rising prices and slightly fewer hours worked by the nation's jobholders more than offset wage increases made in the last year, knocking more than five cents off the buying power of each dollar in the average worker's paycheck.

Consumer prices shot up by 1.2 percent in December alone, the largest monthly advance since last February. Alfred E. Kahn, President Carter's inflation adviser, said that no relief was in sight.

"In the coming months, honestly, no one can promise an improvement," said Kahn, the chairman of the White House Council on Wage and Price Stability. In testimony before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress after the report was released Friday, "The only solution is restraint on the demand side and higher attention to the supply side. We have to have a leaner, disciplined, more productive society."

The cost of energy, housing and food accounted for the December increase in the Consumer Price Index. It showed that the average shopper paid almost $230 for the same goods and services that cost $100 in 1967.

Quake damaged nuclear research lab springs leak

LIVERMORE, Calif. (UPI) — Rolling aftershocks from a strong earthquake that left hundreds homeless shook Northern California Friday.

Scientists discovered further damage to a major nuclear weapons research facility near the center of the seismic disturbance.

The shaker cracked a 30,000-gallon tank containing water and tritium, a low-level radioactive isotope, at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory about 40 miles southeast of San Francisco. A spokesman said the tank was dripping several gallons an hour but posed no threat.

Scientists also reported damage to the lab's huge Shiva laser system — largest of its kind in the world. They said bolts and rollers were damaged and the system would be shut down for several weeks for cleaning of the optical components and determining whether they were wrecked.

The Shiva system is a delicate arrangement of lenses and mirrors that focus laser beams at heavy hydrogen — sometimes radioactive — in advanced energy and thermonuclear weapons research.

The lab spokesman said some computers were also damaged by the temblor, but said the facility, operated by the University of California under contract from the Energy Department, would be "95 percent back to normal on Monday."

Gasohol program unveiled

BOISE (UPI) — The U.S. Agriculture Department has earmarked $10 million for loans to farmers and business to produce gasohol and other alternative fuels, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Rural Development Alex Mercure announced Friday.

Mercure, visiting Boise for a USDA-sponsored workshop on alternative energy sources, said $10 million will be available in direct loans for on-farm production of fuels through the Farmers Home Administration and $10 million is earmarked for large-scale industry loan guarantees.

"The loans here are intended to mitigate against the newness and perceived high risk on the part of the lending community," Mercure told reporters. "We don't want the government to build the plants, we'd rather stimulate the private community." The direct loans and guarantees will be available this fiscal year at prevailing interest rates, Mercure said, as a "small first step" in obtaining national energy self-sufficiency. He said gasohol and methane production should reach 100 million gallons per year with the help of the loan program, or about 25 percent of the amount needed to gain national independence from oil-producing countries.

Idaho USDA official Joe McCarter said the Farm Home Administration office in the state is processing three applications to build gasohol plants in eastern Idaho, one application for a compressed-wood gasohol plant at Sandpoint in northern Idaho and several other applications for small on-farm facilities. About 132 applications from Idahoans to build alternative-fuel plants are now pending with the federal government.

Archaic laws against Mormons attacked

BOISE (UPI) — A constitutional amendment to free Idaho Mormons from possible denial of voting rights and expulsion from elected office was introduced Friday by the House State Affairs Committee.

The legislation, sponsored by Moron Rep. Wendy Ungrecht, R-Boise, would remove from the Idaho Constitution "archaic" language that bars people who believe in patriarchal or celestial marriage from voting or holding elected office.

About one-third of the Legislature, including Mrs. Ungrecht, belongs to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, which believes in celestial and patriarchal marriage.

These legislators, in addition to Gov. John V. Evans, also a Mormon, could be kicked out of office if the constitutional language was enforced.

"This amendment seems logical," Mrs. Ungrecht said.

House Minority Leader Patricia McDermott, D-Poietello, asked Mrs. Ungrecht why her legislation did not address other apparently discriminatory language in the state Constitution.

Mrs. Ungrecht replied that past legislative attempts to delete all such wording failed, and she hoped that in addressing only the language about Mormons, her attempt would succeed.

It would need two-thirds approval by both Houses and then simple majority approval of the electorate to alter the Constitution.

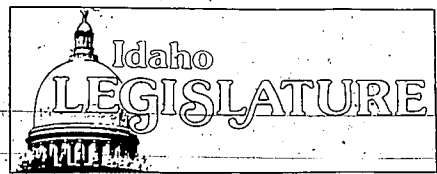

Rep. Herb Fitz, R-New Meadows, asked Mrs. Ungrecht whether she was worried that if the measure goes before the people and defeated, would there be an obligation to force Idaho Mormon officials out of office and deny Mormons the right to vote.

"Maybe you'd better not kick a sleeping dog," Fitz told her. "What if it fails?"

Mrs. Ungrecht said the amendment's failure before the people would be "very unlikely."

She said there's a sufficient number of Mormon voters in Idaho, and that a high percentage of Mormons go to the polls.

"You might stir up enough people who don't like it," Fitz warned.

Legislative highlights

INEL foreman's resolution hits floor

BOISE (UPI) — A memorial urging the federal government to properly manage solid nuclear waste at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory survived two amendment attempts and was introduced Friday by a legislative committee.

The memorial, sent to printing by the House State Affairs Committee, also urged the federal government to speedily remove the INEL's solid nuclear waste from Idaho as it promised years ago.

After the vote, in which four representatives dissented — three committee members, exchanged heated words about the honesty of INEL representatives.

Rep. Larnum Winchester, R-Kuna, said, "We're not being told the truth" about nuclear waste practices at INEL, and "we don't know what's going on over there."

Rep. Kearney, R-Idaho Falls, replied bitterly, "Committee members would know what was going on if they attended these meetings."

Winchester, who voted against the memorial, walked into the meeting late in the discussion, having missed most of the debate.

The memorial's sponsor, Rep. Wendell Miller, D-Idaho Falls, told Winchester nothing was being covered up by INEL officials.

Winchester said, "No one said there was a cover up."

Miller is a foreman at the INEL, which is 35 miles west of Idaho Falls. Amendments were sought by Reps.

Larry Harris, R-Boise, and Gary Ingram, R-Coeur d'Alene.

Harris said he felt the Legislature would abdicate its responsibility if it approved the memorial, because he said the memorial does not urge the federal government to consult the state on shipments and storage of nuclear waste in Idaho.

Ingram objected to wording that he said makes it appear the state would not care how the INEL was managed once the waste was transported to a permanent repository in New Mexico.

Rep. Steve Scanlon, D-Caldwell, voted against the memorial because he said it did not go far enough and condemn the injection of low-level nuclear waste into the groundwater under the INEL.

In other legislative action Friday:

The House Judiciary, Rules and Administration Committee introduced a bill providing stiffer penalties for those who prevent witnesses from testifying in legal proceedings.

Members of the House Education Committee spent hours this month reviewing the new state vocational education instructional bulletin — then discovered they weren't required to do so.

The acting administrator of the Idaho State School and Hospital at Nampa said Friday "it is easier to look at bandaid measures" for state institutions than to make all the needed improvements at these facilities.

1% implementation proposals multiply

BOISE (UPI) — Yet another proposal to finalize implementation of the 1 percent property tax law was outlined Friday to the House subcommittee charged with solving the problem.

Committee member Rep. Darwin Young, D-Blackfoot, suggested the Legislature extend the freeze on property taxes until all taxing districts in the state fall under the 1 percent.

Then, Young said, the controversial 2 percent inflation factor would be removed to allow the districts to keep near 1 percent taxation through growth. "It's sort of a built-in escalator," Young said.

In addition, districts would be prevented from again exceeding the 1 percent until all taxing districts stay in effect until growth once again brought ad valorem taxation levels below 1 percent of assessed market value.

Young's earlier proposal has not yet been timetabled as to when the 1 percent finally would be reached statewide.

Young was chairman of the legislative interim committee last year that recommended another one-year delay in implementation of the property-tax law.

His new proposal came a day after Rep. Michael Gwartney, R-Boise, also a member of the House subcommittee, urged lawmakers to enact a blanket spending limitation of Idaho's 44 counties that automatically would keep taxes under 1 percent.

Other suggestions have included reconstruction of the state's 860 taxing districts so the results would conform to the 1 percent initiative's provisions, and proportionately reducing property taxes in the state until all came under the 1 percent limit.

Young said his plan would do away with the 2 percent inflation allowance now in effect; under the freeze for the taxing districts, the attorney general has warned the 2 percent factor may be unconstitutional.

The Blackfoot Republican also said he thought his "new plan" would encourage county assessors to stay on top of assessments to keep them as close as possible to their current market value.

The proposal may be palatable to the Idaho Property Owners Association, which has criticized the Legislature for not complying with the strict wording of the 1 percent, which was passed by the electorate in November 1978.

Funds OK'd to continue energy office

BOISE (UPI) — After beating down an attempt to put the fuel allocation division of the Office of Energy, the legislative fiscal committee approved Wednesday a reduced supplemental appropriation to keep the bureau alive until the end of the current fiscal year.

The bureau sought $72,900 in additional funding for the fiscal period ending June 30 to maintain the fuel services division at the present level of six people. "It was pointed out that the supplemental was necessary because federal grant money had run out."

Rep. Doyle Miner, R-St. Anthony, co-chairman of the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee, however, said the division could function with a director and secretary, reducing the supplemental to $41,100.

Miner said he realized that the division had been of some help, but

Gov. Evans raps defeat of energy department AS that economy pressure would do the same job.

In areas where there has been short fuel supplies, Miner said, "economic vitality would have brought the gallons without the office."

Miner's motion was defeated by a single vote — 9-8.

Committee members then voted 13-11 in favor of a motion by Rep. Kitty Gurnsey, R-Boise, which would provide $53,900.

In answer to a question by Miner, Chris Smith, head of fuel services, said it would be impossible to operate the division with just an administrator and a secretary.

He said this was attempted last April and May, and "one person could not administer it because of applications and allocations. Last month there were 300 applications."

He said at the level suggested by Miner "we would be reverted to the federal level. One person couldn't be of appreciable service."

"If that's your suggestion," Miner said, "I suggest we go back to the federal level."

"It's not my suggestion," Smith countered. "It's my belief there would be no other option."

Anti-abortion measure held

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate agreed Friday to return to the State Affairs Committee for revision an anti-abortion resolution.

Committee Chairman Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, explained that areas of the concurrent resolution calling for a constitutional convention to draft a right to life amendment to the U.S. Constitution were "ambiguous."

Swenson said language of the resolution was not definitive of what "we want to put over in this resolution."

He assured the Senate there was "no intent not to bring it before this body again."

Sen. Lane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, the bill's sponsor, said he agreed to the move because it was important to have the support of as many people as possible.

He said he felt that it could have been adopted Friday, "but I want to get as much support as possible. We're coming back as strong as ever."

Senate Minority Leader Cy Chase,

D-St. Maries, who tried to keep the resolution in committee and also attempted Thursday to return it to State Affairs, said he hoped this was a lesson against future through legislation "without proper attention."

He said he hoped in the future more time will be given to ensure that legislation is in the proper form.

"There was a lot of misinformation that went out on the resolution," Chase said. "The people didn't know what the legislation was or what it did."

Senate passes gasohol legislation

BOISE (UPI) — A bill encouraging the production of gasohol in Idaho passed the Senate 24-11 Friday and was forwarded to the House for consideration.

The bill would place the development of gasohol in the hands of the Idaho Wheat Commission.

"We've got to do something to get off of foreign imports," said Sen. Lane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, the bill's sponsor.

Sen. Lester Hartvigsen, D-Malad, called the bill "impractical." He said grain couldn't be raised at a price to make it worthwhile in production of alcohol.

But Watkins pointed out that all agriculture commodities could be used in the production. He said it would take care of surplus crops.

Three other bills by Watkins relating to gasohol are pending in Senate committees. They would provide a 4 cent refund to gasohol distributors as a production incentive, offer property tax relief and define gasohol.

Curfew law

BOISE (UPI) — The House Revenue and Taxation Committee Wednesday introduced a bill giving county commissions the authority to establish curfews.

The sponsor, Rep. Wayne Tibbitts, R-Righy, said the measure is meant to help police combat vandalism, allowing them to detain juveniles out after hours.

"These boys get pretty well organized," Tibbitts said to the committee of young troublemakers in his town. He said one group of boys will vandalize at one end of town to draw the police away from a distant building, which then is burglarized by another group.

Primary election changes proposed

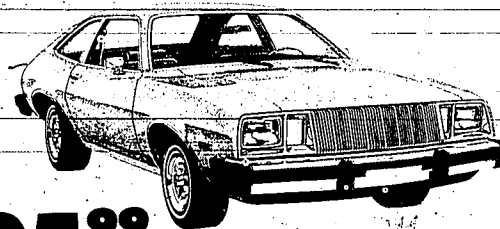

BOISE (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee has approved for introduction a bill that would give the winner in each party of Idaho's presidential primary all the delegates to his party's national convention.

Under present state law, the parties are allowed to select their delegates at their state conventions.

The bill says that if its provisions conflicted with the national party rules, the state party would provide the method for selection of delegates and alternates by party rule.

Japan kicks out Paul McCartney

TOKYO (UPI) — Repeated rock star Paul McCartney was kicked out of Japan Friday for bringing nearly a half pound of marijuana into the country.

"I'm fine, I'm fine" said the former Beatle who was flanked by 12 policemen, his wife, Linda, and their four children as he boarded a Japan Air Lines flight for Paris.

"I'm very sorry that the tour was canceled," he told fans at Narita International Airport. Then, grinning broadly, he shouted, "Goodbye Japan!" and boarded Flight 303 bound for Paris via Anchorage, Alaska, and Amsterdam.

The 37-year-old superstar was deported, rather than indicted on drug smuggling charges, because he told Japanese officials the marijuana was for his own use and he "repented what he did," police said.

The most successful of the former Beatles, McCartney was arrested Jan. 16 as he entered the country for an 11-concert tour with his rock group Wings. He subsequently spent nine days in jail while Japanese officials, who could have sent him to prison for seven years, deliberated his fate.

Nearly 100 fans, most of them teenage girls, gathered daily in front of the jail where McCartney was detained, hoping to see their idol. Shots of "Paul" were greeted with him when he emerged Friday morning.

Alan Alda, Carol Burnett win big at People's Choice

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Alan Alda and Carol Burnett won the most awards but Bert Parks, making his first national television appearance since being dropped from the Miss America Pageant, got the biggest applause at the sixth annual People's Choice Awards.

and Miss Burnett as favorite male and female entertainers of the year in a nationwide poll of 25,000 persons. Alda edged Burt Reynolds and Kenny Rogers for the male award. Miss Burnett beat out Barbara Streisand and Dolly Parton for the female honors.

Actress Mariette Hartley kiddingly introduced Parks, her ex-host, to the audience Thursday night at the Hollywood Palladium as a "good-looking, older man" and as Parks walked on stage she remarked, "he doesn't look so old."

Reynolds was named favorite movie actor, however, defeating Alda, and Clint Eastwood. Jane Fonda won the award as favorite movie actress, defeating Miss Streisand and Sally Fields.

After the applause subsided, Parks, who lost his job because parent officials said he was too old, told the black-tie audience and television viewers:

Miss Burnett was named favorite television actress, while Alda was picked as favorite television actor.

"Your warmth, your kindness and especially your sense of fair play, that is the real beauty of America." The two-hour CBS telecast then proceeded through a list of 17 awards, highlighted by the selection of Alda

Robert Wagner and Stefanie Powers, co-stars of the "Hart to Hart" series, were named favorite male and female performer in a new television series.

Other performer awards went to Kristy McNichol as favorite young movie performer and to Gary Coleman as favorite young television performer.

Horoscope

Gemini can have better rapport with friends; plan to get key desire

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are able to make logical and reasonable decisions where matters of policy are concerned. Think about what you most have in mind from all angles and you come to the right answers.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to improve your routines so they are easier to handle. Meet with allies who can be helpful to you. Relax in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Show that you can be sensible in the handling of property and finances. If you have any doubts, consult with an expert in such matters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to get what you want most and need in the future and you can make real progress. Contact good friends and have greater rapport.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Consult with a trusted adviser and get fine ideas that are best to follow in the future. Spend money wisely and well.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take time to be with friends and have a delightful time. You are able to gain a personal link that has long been on your mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contact bigwigs and talk over any plans you have in mind that they can help you to put across. Stop dreaming so much and start doing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) New situations that did not appeal to you before have merit in them now, so get at them for greater success. There's a trip in your future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Follow through with promises conscientiously and you gain the goodwill of others. Strive for greater happiness and success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen more carefully to ideas of partners and understand them for greater mutual benefit. Be socially minded in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to use more modern methods if you are to get constructive ideas worked out well. Be more understanding of co-workers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Some special thought for the one you love brings fine response. Study important legal papers carefully before you sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study conditions at home well before you make any changes. Entertain friends at home in the evening; but keep an eye on your spending.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will coordinate mental with physical prowess. Teach early not to filter from one interest to another without finishing any. Teach to be a humanitarian.

What's what

Electric chair failed to work on first use

Am asked if the electric chair worked all right on its first tryout. No, it barely did not. On Aug. 6, 1890, in New York, William Kemmler was set into that first edition, to be executed for murdering his mistress. The initial jolts convulsed him, but left him alive. Took eight minutes of repeated switching before he died. The chair's inventor, one Harold P. Brown, was sick about it. His whole idea of the thing was to be merciful. And it didn't help his cause any when three years later the chair collapsed under another condemned man who survived for three hours before the voltage killed him.

Among the oddest of oddball laws, I think, is an ordinance in Brooklyn that prohibits donkeys from sleeping in bathtubs.

Among goats, the females, too, have beards.

CROWS

What the bird scientists are trying to do now is interpret calls of crows. They've identified as distinctive about 300 different cries. But they don't yet know what each means. A few they do understand, though. When they hear a certain haw bleating noise, they know that any crows in the area immediately will assemble in some nearby field. To control flocks of crows with recordings of their own calls is not entirely out of the question, they say.

A man named Robert Spring about 120 years ago forged numerous copies of George Washington's signature. Forty years ago, they were selling for 35 apiece. As curiosities. That expert on oddities, Dan D'Impicco, says such forgeries still sell in that highly specialized circle of auto-graph hounds, but the prices vary too much to quote an average.

MONEY MUSIC

Composer Sigmund Romberg came close to $1 million over the years for his score of the operetta "Blossom Time." It was made up of melodies written originally by Franz Schubert. What Schubert earned for these and all the rest of his lifetime's creations amounted to about $500.

If a pocket gopher didn't grind down its four buck teeth by chewing so much, they'd grow almost four feet long in a year, I'm told.

EPA sets new high-altitude emission rules

DENVER (UPI) — The administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency chose mid-high Denver to announce proposed high-altitude emissions standards for new automobiles beginning in 1982.

Douglas M. Costle said Thursday the new standards could reduce emissions in Denver by more than 8 tons a day. He said Salt Lake City and Albuquerque would be among other cities to benefit from the standards, which will be the subject of a hearing in Denver in March.

Costle said the new standards would require that 1/2 and later model vehicles sold at altitudes above 4,000 feet attain the same emissions reduction percentage as those sold at low altitude.

The proposed 1982 standards for cars are .57 grams of a mile of hydrocarbons and 7.5 grams of a mile of carbon monoxide. The 1974 standard for cars tested at low altitude were 1.5 grams a mile of hydrocarbons and 15 grams a mile of carbon monoxide.

"Vehicles that meet federal standards at low altitudes are, as much as 50 percent more hydrocarbons and 100 percent more carbon monoxide at high altitudes," Costle said.

"These emissions combine with sunlight in summer and winter to create excessive smog in many high-altitude areas."

Costle said the Colorado Legislature must approve an inspection and maintenance program for vehicles if the benefits of the new standards are to be realized.

"We've found that 60 percent of new cars, after only one year of use, fail to meet the emission standards they were designed to meet," he said.

"Without in-use testing and maintenance programs in the states, we cannot protect the reductions the carmakers are required to build into their products."

There was a breakthrough Thursday in the three-year battle over vehicle inspection programs in Colorado. Two lawmakers who have been battling over the best way to clean up Denver's brown cloud appeared to be near a compromise.

Sen. Al Miklejohn, R-Arizona, who supports an emissions inspection program, and Rep. A.J. "Nick" Spano, R-Arizona, who advocates a maintenance and adjustment program, said they were impressed with the program being used in Las Vegas.

There is a combination of both programs.

The EPA has threatened to cut off some federal sewer and highway grants to Colorado if an inspection and maintenance program is not in effect by March 1. Some lawmakers and the Mountain States Legal Foundation have filed suit challenging the constitutionality of the EPA to impose its standards.

Costle said the only practical effect of the suit is to delay the cleanup of Denver's air.

"It is every citizen's constitutional right to sue," he said. "But I think the constitutional claims, frankly, are spurious."

Insurance firms sue to drop Pierce

BILLINGS, Mont. (UPI) — Two Billings insurance companies are suing to terminate their liability insurance contract with Pierce Packing Co. of Billings.

Billings Ungard Mutual and Mission Insurance companies together provide Pierce $1.5 million in product liability coverage. They filed suit in U.S. District Court in Billings Wednesday to end their contractual obligations.

At about the same time, Ritewood Eggs, Inc., of Idaho filed a $2.3 million suit against Pierce for last summer's PCB contamination of chicken feed.

The insurance companies have agreed to turn over the $1.5 million plus another $100,000 to the court for payments to claimants and for legal expenses.

Pierce officials have indicated the meat packer could easily face $10 million in lawsuits by companies and individuals who suffered financial loss because of the contamination.

Last week, Pierce officials announced they asked victims of the contamination to hold off suing the company to better their chances of collecting on damages.

The insurance companies indicate they want to get out of the picture before more suits are filed, and say the probability of lawsuits already is a burden.

"The primary insurer is daily spending its money in investigation, evaluation and other preparation, in anticipation of litigation," the suit says.

Pierce's creditors, who could shut down the business at will, are concerned about the likelihood of increasing claims, the suit states. "Continued forbearance is unlikely," it adds.

Missile system project said biggest land grab

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A Utah state senator Friday accused the Air Force of trying to pull off "the biggest land grab in United States history" with construction of the MX missile system.

COP leaders also continued their struggle to find a state pay plan and a tax reducing proposal acceptable to the majority party.

During a Senate floor speech, Francis Farley, D-Salt Lake, displayed a map showing 211 proposed sites for MX missile race tracks in the deserts of Utah and Nevada.

"If you look at this map, you'll see that everywhere from Tropic, Utah, to Las Vegas, Nev., where there is a flat piece of ground, the Air Force wants to put an MX race track," she said.

Each race track would be about 30-35 miles around and would have 21 concrete shelters. The race tracks would be interconnected by a network of railings, the map showed.

"I tried to get this map from the Air Force, under the Freedom of Information act, but they turned me down," said Farley. "I got this copy from a member of the news media."

The senator said the map shows one of several proposed layouts for the MX system. "But it clearly shows the magnitude of this project," she said. "It will be the biggest construction project in the history of the world."

Farley said she is not convinced that the Air Force will keep its promise to leave the land open for mining, grazing and recreation.

One final sweep

Ford Motor Co. workers in Plco River, Calif., trail the last LTD off the assembly line Friday. The plant was closed after nearly 22 years of production because of the lack of demand for big cars. There were more than 1.4 million cars built on the 200-acre site. Some 1,600 employees were let go.

Redford says people finally listen to him

DENVER (UPI) — Robert Redford said he couldn't get anyone to listen to him a few years ago — but that has changed.

Redford, in Denver to narrate commercials promoting the National Wildlife Federation, said officials turned a deaf ear to his arguments against a highway he opposed near his Utah home.

The battle over the eight-lane highway lasted 10 years, Redford said, but he learned that by "speaking out for nature, you can make a difference."

"The highway department mentality is that a wide straight, wide highway is the best highway, the environmental impact this road would have, but trying to buck the highway department is next to bucking God."

Redford said Wednesday night he supported the federation, a conservation group with 4.1 million members, because he believed in "speaking out for nature."

"I'm for preserving nature," he said, but he conceded progress and technology could not be stopped.

He said he had been branded a "radical conservationist" by people with that old turkey attitude that conservation means stopping progress.

"People say that since I'm a movie star and a privileged member of society, I shouldn't fault our society," he said. "But you can't eat industry."

Redford said he realized Americans were "development oriented and progress and industry could not be stopped." He said he had given up on federal leaders solving conservation problems and looked to state officials, especially western states, to take up the battle.

"(President) Carter can't do it," Redford said. "I'm very disappointed in him because he has made a radical change from his campaign pledges for energy. There is no federal support for energy conservation."

He said one organization, the Western Energy Policy Office, was an example of state leaders banning together to work on energy issues affecting their areas. WESTPO is represented by governors from 11 Western states.

Redford said he wanted his Utah ski resort business to serve as an example for other ski areas.

Prosecutors confer on death penalty

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Prosecutors from 26 states met in Utah today to swap notes on the application of the death penalty — and to set up a national legal clearing house to help states defend executions against attacks by anti-capital punishment groups.

Utah Attorney General Robert B. Hansen and the Texas Attorney General's Office were co-hosting the conference organized under the name "Americans for Law Enforcement."

About 80 lawyers, including county prosecutors, district attorneys and representatives of various state attorneys general gathered for the seminar. They came from the 26 of the 36 states which have capital punishment statutes.

Hansen successfully fought for the execution of Provo, Utah, killer Gary Gilmore — who, three years ago became the first man to be legally put to death in the United States in over a decade. Two have died since, John Spinkellink in Florida and Jesse Bishop in Nevada.

Hansen said the conference was set up to "better prepare" prosecutors to argue for the ultimate judicial act — the death penalty. The seminar grew out of meetings in Texas last April and July where a number of state attorneys said they found themselves unprepared to deal with 11th hour appeals and other moves to halt executions, he said.

Anita Ashton, an assistant Texas attorney general, said anti-death penalty groups have been organized since the mid 1960s to help death row inmates file appeals. They provide expertise and "canned briefs."

She said death penalty appeals filed in Florida, Georgia, Texas, Utah, and Nevada have been nearly identical in wording.

She supports the idea of a data bank where prosecutors can exchange materials and take advantage of research done in other jurisdictions.

Hansen said he deliberately downplayed the conference and did not widely publicize it ahead of time because he feared there would be demonstrations by "bleeding heart" groups opposed to the death penalty.

"We're going to have to recognize that before capital punishment really becomes an effective deterrent, we're going to have to overcome a lot of that type of opposition," he said.

Asbestos not forcing 39 families to move

GLOBE, Ariz. (UPI) — Most of the 39 families in an asbestos-contaminated subdivision apparently will not move immediately.

Norm Gumenik, a sanitarian for the state Department of Health Services, said Friday that 24 families have indicated they will stay in the Mountain View Mobile Home Estates, at least until the state begins demolition of the abandoned mill responsible for the contamination.

Health officials found excessive levels of asbestos, a suspected cancer-causing agent, in the subdivision last November. Gov. Bruce Babbitt subsequently urged residents to move and authorized the Department of Emergency Services to oversee the voluntary evacuation.

Gumenik said eight families had moved to state-owned mobile homes in another park, that two were scheduled to move Friday and that five others would move before next Tuesday.

'Brightest kid' jailed for big heist

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — A U.S. magistrate Friday found probable cause that the "brightest kid" in Junction City High School committed one of the largest robberies in the Eugene area in recent years. Magistrate Michael Hogan ordered Tom Herr, 18, a senior at the 630-student school bound over for grand jury action in connection with the $11,000 robbery of Citizens Bank in Eugene Jan. 17.

Herr was released to live with the family of Harley Hagen, mathematics teacher at the school, until action on the criminal charge is completed.

Herr is described by both teachers and students as the brightest student in the school.

He was arrested last Friday and officers said they found more than $11,000 in the home where the youth lives with his divorced mother and six of his seven brothers and sisters.

Profit takers busy Friday

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market lost ground Friday to profit takers, but finished on the third busiest week in its history with a small gain to sustain 1980's new year rally.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, down about 5 points to the early going, shed 3.84 points to 876.11, a 2.25-point decline from its 880.36 peak on Wednesday. The Dow gained 6.96 points for the week overall.

The New York Stock Exchange index surrendered 0.05 to 63.27 and the price of a share eased 3 cents. Declines edged advances, 845 to 644, among the 1,868 issues traded at 4 p.m. EST.

NYSE volume of 47,100,000 shares, down from the 50,070,000 traded Thursday, pushed the turnover for the week to more than 256 million shares, surpassing the 253.7 million the week ended last Oct. 12 for this spot in the record book.

Brokers said profit taking was due in the market that has risen about 4 percent in the heaviest trading ever. But foreign investors and institutions continued to buy because of fears about Afghanistan and Iran crises, and concern about the future of the Persian Gulf region.

Composite volume of NYSE issued on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. totaled 52,641,000 shares, down from the 53,676,068 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index edged up 0.19 to 266.79 and the price of a share added 1 cent. The National Securities Dealers' NASDAQ composite index of OTC stocks gained 0.46 to a 1979-80 high of 159.70.

At 4 p.m., U.S. Steel was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 1 1/2 to 18 1/2, in trading that included a block of 1,050,000 shares at 18 1/2. Other steel issues were mixed.

Federal National Mortgage was the second most active NYSE issue, off 1/2 to 14 1/2, following block trades of 413,300, 250,000, 150,000 at 14 1/2, each and 100,000 shares at 14 1/2.

Williams Cos. was the third most active NYSE-listed issue, up 1 1/2 to 36 1/2.

Texaco, which reported higher fourth-quarter earnings Thursday and raised its quarterly dividend payout, was the fourth most active issue, off 1/4 to 35. The company said John K. McKinley would replace retiring Maurice P. Granville as chairman and chief operating officer.

Exxon eased 5/8 to 58 1/2, in active trading. The oil giant reported fourth-quarter earnings of $2.10 a share, up from $1.92 a year ago. Other oil and energy issues were mixed.

General Tire & Rubber, owner of RKO General, skidded 4 1/2 to 18 1/2 after an opening block of 82,000 shares at 18 1/2. The Federal Communications Commission Thursday revoked RKO television licenses in Boston, New York and Los Angeles on charges of fraud.

Smith Barney allegedly engaged in bribery and coercive advertising practices. The company denied the charges and said it would appeal.

Lesona Corp. soared 7/8 to 39 1/2 in active trading after the company agreed to be acquired by John Brown & Co. Ltd. of London for $10 a share.

Financial Federal jumped 3/4 to 37 1/2, and Gibraltar Financial eased 1/2 to 10 1/2. Gibraltar made a $15-a-share tender offer for Financial Federal stock.

Poppe & Tabbot rose 2 1/2 to 41 1/2. The company reported its fourth-quarter earnings of $1.71 a share versus $1.29 a year ago. Poppe & Tabbot declared a 2-for-1 stock split.

McDonnell Douglas gained 1 1/2 to 46 1/2 after the company reported fourth-quarter earnings of $1.31 a share versus $1.12 a year ago. Other defense and aircraft issues were mixed.

Northern Telecommunications fell 2 1/2 to 45. The company reported its fourth-quarter net of $1.06 matched the figure for a year ago.

Rosario Resources surrendered 1 1/2 to 71. The company said Thursday the Mexican government has imposed new taxes on gold and silver mining companies operating there. Rosario officials said the new taxes couldn't hurt the company's earnings.

Smoking rebounded to gain 1 1/2 to 57 1/2. A consumer group charged the company was tardy in recalling an anti-hypertension drug that caused some SmithKline in a number of patients. SmithKline said it acted responsibly.

On the Amex, advances edged declines, 332 to 310, among the 853 issues traded at 4 p.m. Volume at that time totaled 7,370,000 shares, down from the 9,370,000 traded Thursday.

Bow Valley Industries was the most active Amex issue, up 1 to 43. Aegis Corp. followed, up 1/2 to 23. Goldfield Corp. was third, off 1/2 to 23.

Mexico taxes miners

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico, the world's largest silver producer, has imposed a 40 percent tax on all silver and gold sales.

"It's communism," ranted one broker, holding nearly $1 million in Mexican silver mining stock. Other brokers doing the same were traded sophistically, saying it was merely a Mexican version of the U.S. tax on windfall oil profits.

The National Stock Exchange Commission for a second day sus-ended all market trading on gold and silver mining company stock — an unprecedented action in the exchange's 85-year history.

The 40 percent tax, announced Friday and to go into effect Saturday, will sharply cut the profits of all precious metal-mining companies, many of them owned partly by U.S. and Canadian interests.

Mexico is the world's largest silver producer — about 50 million ounces of silver a year.

Filer police, maintenance cuts proposed

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

FILER — Two Filer city officials have proposed cutting the four-man police department in half and eliminating a city maintenance worker to meet reduced city revenue.

Mayor Eldon Ryals and Councilman John Glandon, who serve jointly as police commissioners, met this week with Filer policemen to propose the reduction.

Glandon said although he and the mayor did recommend it, he isn't sure cutting two men from the department at this time would leave the city with adequate police protection. He said it might be possible to cut only one police officer, one maintenance worker and to seek cuts elsewhere to balance the city budget.

There is an $18,000 deficit in the current budget and it is believed if a 1 percent property tax limit is implemented for the coming year there will be a loss of about $30,000 in the city of Filer, Glandon said.

Last July, a fire at Beans Inc. warehouse in Filer left smoldering beans and other debris in the city. Because of complaints from residents about the unpleasant odors and health hazards, the city ordered the mess cleaned up. The City Council agreed to pay the cost, which they believed would run about $3,000 to $4,000.

Instead, the bill for the work was about $13,000.

The city was already operating several thousand dollars in the red, officials said.

City Clerk Frances Wells said the cleanup bill ought the city short in one area of the budget. The bill came after the 1979-80 budget had been adopted, and no money had been provided for such costs, she said.

In their monthly meeting Wednesday, Ryals and Glandon told Police Chief Randy Lammers and his officers, during their monthly meeting Wednesday night to advise them it may be necessary to make cuts to keep the city operating within available revenue.

Lammers said Friday he has been going over the Filer city budget and feels there are some areas less critical than the emergency services where cuts can be made.

"I hope we will be able to get together with the police commissioners again before the regular City Council meeting Feb. 5 and come up with alternatives," Lammers said. The two men expect the subject to be discussed in the open session.

The Filer police department now operates on a 24-hour basis with three officers covering 8-hour shifts each and the fourth man serving on days off and filling in for vacations, illness and other emergencies.

Lammers said he has talked with Sheriff James Munn about county help. The county also faces funding limitations under 1 percent and is spreading county law enforcement manpower about as thin as it can, he said. "If such an arrangement were made, Lammers said, the sheriff indicated there would have to be a charge to the city of Filer.

With only three officers it would probably mean police services would not be available on a 24-hour basis, he said. With two, it would be impossible for more than one shift on some days.

Presently, he said, during vacation program out of town, the others each extend their shifts by a few hours on a temporary basis to cover. Until last year there was a fifth part-time officer to help with these additional hours but he was dropped in the economy move made then, the police chief said.

Glandon said he ran for office and was elected on promises to try to get the Filer spending back in line with revenue.

"I think we can do a better job than has been done in the past and I want to get the city back to operating in the black," Glandon added.

In Magic Valley

Fog causes brief power blackouts

TWIN FALLS — Fog collecting in ice on lines caused power outages to an estimated 3,000 users Friday morning. Jan Packwood, maintenance superintendent for Idaho Power Co. in Twin Falls, said the problem hit rural areas throughout Magic Valley.

Crews went to work about 6:30 a.m. when initial reports of service interruptions began coming in, Packwood said, and most were still at work Friday night.

About 6 a.m. Packwood said line crews were catching up with the repairs and some of the workers who had been out since before dawn were being relieved for meals. Some workers were expected to be on the job throughout the night.

Packwood said a build-up of ice from the past few days of fog and cold temperatures reached high proportions Friday morning. A wind stronger in open rural areas began swinging the ice-heavy lines and breaks resulted. He said lines broke away at connecting points, with 17 circuits out of the day.

"I imagine we had as many as 3,000 subscribers without power but not all at the same time," Packwood said.

He said areas south of Filer, south of Kimberly, from Kimberly to Oakley, the Eden-Hazelton area and north of Rupert were hit the hardest. Very few problems were reported in any communities, he said, most in remote farm areas with the strongest winds.

Most outages were fairly brief, he said, with the longest delays in restoring power generally taking two to three hours.

The first concern was to get homes, schools and other users back in service, the power company official said.

"Lines feeding irrigation pumps, only were simply blocked off for later repairs while we concentrated on other home appliances operating," he said.

He said he believed the Kimberly school was without power briefly and the Valley districts' three schools may also have had a brief outage.

Hardest hit, he said, were dairy farmers in the rural areas who had no power at milking time. Some with several hundred cows have no way of milking by hand in such a situation and have to wait for power to operate their electric milkers.

Sun Valley services not being cut back

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Other cities may be struggling to keep what services they have with tax limitations imposed by the 1 percent initiative, but not Sun Valley.

During his three weeks in office, Sun Valley Mayor Heckmann has appointed a public relations consultant, proposed the addition of sleeping quarters and a two-man crew to the city fire department.

Heckmann also named Ketchum lawyer Russ Pinto to a part-time position as city planning and zoning administrator. But the mayor said Friday that appointment used funding allocated for the position before it was split from another city post.

And he has not ruled out helping the area chamber of commerce stay afloat.

Sun Valley enjoys two budget cushions not available to most Idaho communities, Heckmann explained. The city's local option tax is unaffected by the state's property tax freeze, he said. And the city holds several time-interest certificates that could be used, if necessary, to finance new construction.

Contacted at his home by telephone, Heckmann said he was uncertain how large a percentage of the city's budget is funded by the local option tax.

City officials estimated the take at 20 percent, but Heckmann said the city and Ketchum approved the 5 percent tax on liquor and lodging in 1978.

The agreement with Advertising Associates of Sun Valley to write press releases for the city should comfortably fit into the city's advertising budget, the mayor said.

"It might amount to $600 in the space of a year," he said. "When you are talking about a $5 million budget for the city and hospital, that is not significant."

Reporters for the two weekly newspapers in the Wood River Valley said they do not object to public relations specialist preparing background information on city appointments, but both papers said they would continue to contact city officials for specific information.

Hearing on Minidoka Power Plant reviews many changes

By CAROL HOSLER
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Maintaining current water and power rights was the major concern of some 60 persons meeting Thursday night on the upgrading of the Minidoka Power Plant.

Officials from the federal Water and Power Resources Services presented a preliminary proposal to area residents. Representatives from the Boise office said the public will have the opportunity to express itself again this fall when the environmental impact study is completed.

In 1975, a preliminary study showed power production could be increased at the site without adverse environmental effect. When Rupert Mayor W.F. "Bill" Whitton was in Washington, D.C., in November 1979, he persuaded Idaho senators to attach a plant feasibility study amendment to a bill funding the Tellico Dam in Tennessee.

Five persons from the regional office of the WPRS in Boise (known as the Bureau of Reclamation until three months ago) described the components of the proposal under study.

Dave Tracy, study team leader, explained much of the 70-year-old equipment is antiquated, making the Minidoka plant one of the most expensive plants the agency operates.

Dan Tomich described the proposed changes in the power plant. Of seven units in operation only the seventh, built in 1942, is still efficient. He said units 1 through 6, installed from 1908 to 1926, are near the end of their useful life.

Tomich said the plant presently produces 13.4 megawatts, but waterflow through the river could produce 30 to 35 megawatts. The increased power could irrigate from 51,000 to nearly 58,000 additional acres, or serve 3,000 to 3,500 additional households, depending on the amount of water required to go over the spillway to safeguard fishing.

Tomich said transmission lines could be buried in the earthen dam to reduce deaths of the birds fishing nearby. To accommodate the increased flow, the channel wall would have to be excavated 700 feet downstream.

One citizen questioned if blasting during excavation would damage the Northside Canal. "We don't want the canal shook up like it was before," he said. Tomich said the blasts would be minor and controlled. He said the river flow would not be affected during plant construction. Study team member Jim Budolfson described the proposals for maintaining the historical value of the plant. He said Minidoka is the oldest federal hydroelectric plant in the Northwest and was put on the National Register of Historical Places in 1974. Therefore, there is a statutory requirement to preserve the plant's historical value.

The WPRS, in cooperation with the Idaho State Historical Preservation office and the National Advisory Council on Historic Preservation, would design and implement the preservation plan. Budolfson said one option would be to convert the old plant into a self-guided tour museum. If the conversion is deemed not practical, the old plant would have to be demolished for safety purposes. Then, historic presentations would include drawings, photos, and a narrative history of the Minidoka Power Plant.

A representative of the Minidoka County Historical Society read a resolution passed by the society supporting the preservation of the old plant.

Bill Mullins, environmental specialist on the study team, said a fish and wildlife study at the dam has been ongoing for 1 1/2 years. He said the study has included the maintenance of high quality fishing, the effect of increased flow through the plant, and the excavation in the river below. He indicated that so far no detrimental effects have been found.

An audience member asked about fish fatalities at the plant. The officials said 15 percent of the fish passing through the plant die in the turbines and another 15 percent die of injuries. There was some concern that the fish mortality rate might be greater with more waterflow through the plant.

Team member Karen Megordon reported on the proposals for increased recreational facilities at the dam. Since the projected demand at the site will increase from 92,000 persons in 1979 to more than 133,000 by the year 2002, the proposal suggested more picnic tables and parking places be provided in Walcott Park, and that parking and roads be paved.

It proposed the north side boat ramp area be expanded to include potable water, restrooms, parking and picnic facilities. Parking and restrooms could be provided on the south side, while overnight camping sites could be provided a half mile down river on the north side in a cottonwood grove.

Megordon said the grove is a winter nesting area for eagles and other birds but that summer carrying would probably not disturb the habitat. The plan includes the planting of more cottonwoods to regenerate the aging stand.

Other areas reviewed included whether the new plant could operate at low water level, whether law enforcement would be adequate at expanded park facilities, and whether moss could be screened out at the plant to prevent clogging in the canal pumps below.

Reiterated by Evans in Burley

Call for energy department

BURLEY (UPI) — Gov. John Evans Friday said the state must meet its energy needs by creating a Department of Energy funded by the state Legislature.

"We have lost precious time in planning how to combat and how to live with a fuel-short future," Evans told a luncheon meeting of the Burley Lions Club.

"The Republicans' majority of the Legislature has refused for six years to provide department status for energy — the most critical and economic problem facing the nation today, and for which the needs of the people are paramount."

Idaho presently has an Office of Energy created by executive order of the governor. It operates primarily on federal funds.

Evans said the department would be involved in energy production, but would serve to coordinate and to promote energy resources and energy conservation.

"It is imperative that we have a Department of Energy run by Idaho people, administering Idaho programs, and responding to the needs of Idaho citizens," Evans said.

Human rights challenge may change law

BOISE (UPI) — A challenge to the power of the Idaho Human Rights Commission — in awarding damages and issuing binding rulings when discrimination occurs — may cause commissioners to seek changes in Idaho law.

Commissioners meet in Boise today to discuss the possibility of asking the Legislature to "broaden" the law that gave the agency the right to investigate discrimination complaints.

A challenge to commission authority came from a Fourth Judicial District judge, who said the agency didn't have the power to order a company to pay back wages to an employee who had been discriminated against. The judge also said a person who gains a favorable ruling from the commission must take the question to court for a complete re-hearing of the issues before any damages are awarded.

Commission attorney Leslie Goddard said the statute changes being considered by Goddard would "eliminate problems that arose from this judge's decision during litigation of a discrimination complaint brought by Hous Hubb, a former Sun Valley Hub instructor."

Hub claims Sun Valley gives preferential treatment to Assistant-born skiing teachers and discriminated against him because he is German-born. The commission found reason to believe Hub had been discriminated against and also found that Sun Valley owed him about $7,000 in back wages.

The commission subsequently went to court on Hub's behalf to gain back wages, and that is where problems arose. Mr. Goddard said the commission accepted the judge's ruling prohibiting commissioners from awarding back wages, but disputed his other order.

Commissioners have appealed the case to the Idaho Supreme Court because the judge, by ruling that an entire discrimination question must be determined in court, challenged commission powers, she said.

The issue pending before the Supreme Court is whether a district judge must accept the commission's discrimination ruling, she said, or whether the judge must re-hear the discrimination question.

Five of the "discrimination" complaints brought to the commission ever end in court, she said, but for those cases — such as Hub's — this question of authority must be resolved.

The legislation creating the commission requires public and administrative hearings when a discrimination case cannot be conciliated, she said. The law is ineffective, however, if the findings issued as a result of those public administrative hearings have no effect, she said.

Proposed changes in the law would eliminate delays and problems that arose in the Hub case, she said, by eliminating the administrative hearings and allowing the commission to go directly to court — where the first legal determination about alleged discrimination would be issued.

Mexican-Americans to protest arrests

NAMPA (UPI) — Mexican-American residents of Nampa, upset over alleged police brutality during a disturbance at a shopping mall Sunday, will hold demonstrations this weekend in front of City Hall and police station.

Picketers will circle the police station and city building from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Organizer Ruben Mora of Nampa said from 300 to 350 are expected to participate in the demonstrations.

The protest has been organized as a result of a disturbance that erupted at Kareher Mall Sunday. Police say a fight between two teenagers attracted a large crowd of mostly Mexican-Americans, who allegedly began pushing each other and shouting profanities. The fracas resulted in nine arrests.

Elks convention continues in Rupert

RUPERT — The 38th annual midwinter convention of the Idaho State Elks got under way here Friday with 180 representatives from 21 lodges.

Convention Chairman Steve Sanders said special guests include Frank

Mexican-American organizers, however, say police used excessive force in evicting Mexican-Americans from the mall during the disturbance and did not order whites from the building. Police have denied that charge.

Hilse, grand exalted ruler of Elks, from Corvallis, Ore., and Nelson E.W. Stuart, Oregon, executive director of Elks National Foundation.

The convention is under the direction of state president Don Bowman from the Nampa Elks Lodge.

Women's motion still alive

BOISE (UPI) — A motion by the National Organization for Women to delay proceedings in the Equal Rights Amendment lawsuit is still alive in U.S. District Court for Idaho.

U.S. District Judge Marion Callister Friday vacated his previous order, which had denied NOW's motion to stay proceedings while the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco decides if the group may participate in the suit as a defendant.

NOW Thursday asked Callister to vacate the order, saying it had not received notification that Idaho and Arizona approved its request to delay proceedings until after Callister had denied the request. NOW blamed the delay on slow mail delivery.

In vacating his previous order, Callister gives NOW 30 days to respond to Idaho and Arizona's briefs opposing the delay.

The lawsuit over the constitutional amendment, which would give equal rights to women — has been filed by Idaho and Arizona against the head of the General Services Administration. The two states seek a court order declaring congressional extension of the ERA ratification deadline unconstitutional and an order requiring federal acceptance of Idaho's vote to resend its ratification of the amendment.

NOW had requested the right to intervene in the lawsuit as a defendant, but Callister denied that request in October — instead giving NOW status as a friend of the court. NOW has appealed that order in the 9th Circuit Court — saying it will seek Callister's disqualification from the case if it's granted defendant status.

QUESTION . . .

My wife and I no longer have a home of our own, we visit among our children in several states. When either of us passes away will we be subject to the estate tax laws of the state in which we are currently living?

ANSWER . . .

The problem of multiple domiciles doesn't matter much as long as Federal Estate Taxes are concerned, but it does make a difference in those states that levy an inheritance tax. There is no one positive length of time which creates residency for you within a state for succession tax purposes.

In general, you are a legal resident of the state in which you regularly cast a ballot or in which more than 50% of your assets are located. Another reliable indicator is the address you have used with some degree of regularity for Federal Income Tax filing purposes. Obviously these qualifications are changeable and some people these days are shopping for a legal residence that will minimize their state inheritance tax liability.

St. Paul's dedicates church, hall

JEROME — Dedication ceremonies for the St. Paul's Lutheran Church new church and parish hall will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. at the new facilities, located at 12th Street East and North Davis.

The Rev. Arthur T. Lewis, pastor of St. Paul's, will preside at the dedication ceremonies. The Rev. Leonard Meitzner, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Rupert, will be guest speaker. He is a former member of St. Paul's Church.

Pastor Lewis said the church's membership of 260 had outgrown the old church at Adams and First Avenue East. Much of the construction was done by members of the congregation. Eric Larson, congregation member, designed the building and supervised construction.

Special music will be provided by the choir and by Helene Fairbanks and Fred Lewis. Mrs. E.J. Bernthal of Immanuel Lutheran Church will accompany their duet and solo singing.

St. Paul's organist, will provide music for the service.

The public is invited. Light refreshments will be served by the ladies of the congregation following the services.

Fyans will visit stake conference

TWIN FALLS — Elder J. Thomas Fyans, a president of the First Quorum of the Seventy of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will be the visiting authority at the conference of the Twin Falls Idaho Stake this weekend.

Elder Fyans has served the church in many areas, first as a missionary, then as a bishop and later as a counselor in the presidency of the East Jordan Stake. He also spent four years as president of the church's mission in Uruguay.

President Edwin O. Cook has announced that the conference meetings will include a session today at 7 p.m. for all priesthood and auxiliary leaders and their spouses. Sunday at 8:30 a.m. there will be a special session for all youth and young adults, ages 12-25. The general session will be at 10 a.m. Sunday and all are invited to attend this session. All sessions of the conference will be held at the Twin Falls Stake Center.

Hazelton, Buhl youths go on LDS missions

CHAD D. TILLEY

VAL GENE CLEMENTS

HAZELTON — Chad D. Tilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Tilley of Hazelton, has been called to serve a mission for the LDS Church in the Japan/Kobe Mission.

Tilley graduated from Valley High School in 1978 and attended the College of Southern Idaho and Brigham Young University.

A farewell testimonial will be held Sunday at the Hazelton Ward at noon.

BUILH — Val Gene Clements, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vaun Clements of Buhl, has been called by the LDS Church to serve a mission in Calgary, Canada.

He graduated from Buhl High School in 1979 and has been working for Hulse Construction Company.

He will leave Jan. 31 for the Mission Training Center in Provo, Utah, before leaving for Calgary.

A farewell will be held in his honor during Sacrament meeting Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the Buhl 2nd Ward chapel.

Christian hopes rise for 'new' China

By DAVID E. ANDERSON

UPI Religion Writer

The end of the era of Mao Tse-tung and slow shift toward a more liberal government in the Peoples Republic of China has given rise to new hope among Western Christians that Christianity may have a new day on the mainland.

But those very Christians should exercise a strong sense of caution, according to the Rev. S. J. Hanson, of the Lutheran World Federation.

In a long analysis of the current situation in China, especially in regard to religion, S. J. Hanson said some hope for an increased vitality in Chinese Christianity, but also warned that the change from the era of Mao would not open the floodgates to new Christian mission activities.

"There is nothing so hard to predict as the future," S. J. Hanson said. "But one thing seems reasonably sure and that is that China will remain a socialist state."

He said the "pragmatism" of the current government should not be seen as a rejection of Marxism and that that means "there will remain a basic antagonism to religion as a fact to be recognized."

He also said that in China there is a "tendency to oscillation" between a hard and soft line on religion and other elements that are part of the current liberalism of the present government.

"Recent indications are that the limit has been reached in freedom of expression and we can expect a certain definition of the line of acceptable dissent, criticism and aberration from socialist norms, or even the drawing of tighter lines," S. J. Hanson said.

"The religious believers seem to be operating within those limits at the present time," he added.

At the same time, however, he said government officials seem to recognize that religion "is in fact an element to be reckoned with in Chinese life."

Ski Club Week

By KAREN LITTLE PRESSMAN
The 15th Annual Sun Valley Ski Club Week begins Sunday.

Drawing members from around the state and nation, the week-long reunion will begin with cocktails hosted by the Sun Valley Ski Club on Sunday and will conclude with an awards banquet next Friday.

According to Corby Dibble, executive director, a full week of activities has been planned to include the hyperactive and the non-active alike. Three races will be included in the week-long activities.

The Ram Race, a favorite for many club members, will run 11 a.m. Tuesday on Lower Warm Springs. Sun Valley Nordic Ski School Director Leif Odmark will host a cross country race Wednesday at 10 a.m. on the Sun Valley Golf Course.

The Bradford Memorial alpine race will begin Thursday at 11 a.m. on Lower Warm Springs.

Other activities include a wine party, a cocktail party and tea at private homes.

Ski week chairman, Sue Jacobsen and George McNeil, also have planned bridge and dominoes for the tired and exhausted.

Cost for the week's activities is $40. For more information contact Dibble at 622-2550.

Butterback Stampede Sunday
Cross country skiers from the Magic and Wood River valleys will compete in the Third Annual Butterback Stampede Sunday.

The 7 1/2 km. and 15 km. races are scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. on the tracks at the Butterback Ranch, 40 miles north of Ketchum on Highway 75. Skiers interested in participating can register today at the Elephant's Perch in Ketchum or Sunday at the race.

Entry fee is $4 which includes refreshments after the race and ribbons to the top three finishers in each age class.

Several divisions will be open to men and women from 14 and under to 40 and over.

Mary Naylor, manager of the recreation program at Butterback, described the 7 1/2 km. course as partly hilly with several flat spots while the 15 km. course is hilly with challenging slopes.

Butterback Ranch, a touring center in the winter providing cross country skiing terrain, overnight accommodations and meals, is a working cattle ranch in the summer.

Galena Shuttle available
Take the bus and leave the driving to us, suggests Dan Hamilton, Galena Lodge owner.

The lodge is running a daily shuttle from Ketchum to Galena and back for $2.

"The charge will help defray the costs of the bus, gas and insurance," he said. The bus will load at Alpersee at 8:50 a.m. and follow with stops at the Elkhorn Ice Skating Rink at 9 a.m., the Sun Valley Post Office 9:10 a.m., The Elephant's Perch 9:20 a.m. and Backwoods Mountain Sports 9:20 a.m.

Skiers will arrive at Galena Lodge about 10 a.m. and start the return trip home about 4 p.m.

Holmes fight set March 31

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Larry Holmes will defend his World Boxing Council heavyweight championship against undefeated Lefter Jones in Las Vegas March 31, promoter Don King announced Friday.

The 15-round world championship bout will take place at Caesar's Palace and will be televised in the same package with World Boxing Association champion John Tate's title defense, taking place in another city.

The two winners will meet later this year for the undisputed championship.

Prior to the March meeting with Jones, Holmes must defeat Lorenzo Zanon, whom he meets Feb. 3 in Las Vegas.

'Too Tall' denies rumors

DALLAS (UPI) — Ed "Too Tall" Jones Friday said he knew "nothing about" a prediction that he would leave his professional boxing career to return to football.

Hinson Hitzges, a sports producer for KABC in Los Angeles, said on public television station KERA in Dallas Friday that he successfully predicted Jones would leave the Cowboys and go into boxing, and the same source has informed him of the reversal.

Cowboys general manager Tex Schramm told KDFW in Dallas that there has been no official contact between the Cowboys and Jones, but Schramm told sportscaster Alan Stone "we would welcome him back with the most open arms you can imagine."

Kings lose Wedman to injuries

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Kansas City Kings All-Star forward Scott Wedman, suffering from multiple facial fractures when elbowed during the Kings-Utah Jazz game Thursday night, will be lost for at least three weeks, coach Colton Fitzsimmons said.

Fitzsimmons said Wedman would return to Kansas City Friday to be examined by team physician Howard Elliott. Fitzsimmons said if the injuries were serious enough, Wedman could be lost of the remainder of the year.

DePaul reserve guard transfers

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chris Nikkita, a reserve guard for top-ranked and unbeaten DePaul, has quit the team and decided to transfer to a Division II school in Vermont.

Nikkita, who played in six games this season and scored only eight points, will transfer immediately to St. Michael's in Vermont, the same school his brother Dan attends.

Downhill still scheduled

CHAMONIX, France (UPI) — The final men's World Cup downhill before the winter Olympics is still scheduled to be held today despite the thick mist and rain, World Cup officials said Friday.

"But the plan may be altered following an inspection of the course in the morning," said a World Cup official after a 45-minute meeting Friday. "If the conditions are dangerous for the downhill skiers we will consider holding the men's slalom scheduled for Sunday on Saturday and postponing the downhill until Sunday in a final attempt to get the race held."

It is unlikely the race can be postponed until Monday because a number of the teams have to leave France that day.

Bullets deny Porter trade

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — The Washington Bullets today denied reports they will trade Kevin Porter to the San Antonio Spurs.

"It's definitely not true," said Bullets' spokesman Mark Pray. Porter, who the Bullets signed as a free agent last summer, cleaned out his locker after Washington's 90-87 loss to New Jersey and left without speaking to reporters.

Pray said he did not know if there were any plans to trade Porter.

"He is obviously one of the people who would be expendable," Pray said. "But we would anyone else if the right deal came along."

The 5-foot-11 guard averaged 6.4 points in 40 games this season. But his playing time declined when the Bullets acquired guard Jim Clemons from New York last month.

Russians head Oregon track

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Eight Russians are expected to draw a major share of the attention in the Oregon Indoor Track and Field Meet tonight although two Olympic gold medal winners from Poland are among the entries.

Ten of the 22 meet events are invitational with a handful of world class competitors entered.

Soaring travel costs reduced the number of top athletes the meet will draw this year.

"The overall meet will be scored as an intercollegiate event for the University of Oregon, Oregon State University, University of Washington and Washington State University."

The two Polish entries, Jacek Wozola, who won the 1976 Olympic high jump, and Tadeusz Slusarski, who won the pole vault in the same Olympics, head a list of former and aspiring Olympians entered.

Three other vaulters who have cleared 18 feet, including the Indoor's 1973 winner, Jeff Taylor, will challenge Slusarski.

In women's competition, Madeline Manning, three-time Olympic winner at 1,000 meters, will be challenged by Kathy Preston of Oregon State, who competed in the 1976 Olympics, and LeAnn Warren, a freshman prodigy at the University of Oregon.

Soviet duo ahead in ice skating

GOTHENBURG, Sweden (UPI) — The Soviet duo, Natalya Linchik and Gennadi Karapozov, easily retained their European ice dancing championship Friday but came out of the final with a silver medal when they were denied the silver medal when Hungarians Krisztina Regozsy and Andras Sallay put on a dazzling performance to sweep into second place.

Last year the Hungarians, who over the past nine years have criss-crossed so often between Britain and their home country to keep in contact with British trainer Betty Galloway that they sometimes forget which language they should be speaking, also won the silver medal at the world championships at Vienna.

This year, the Russians acquired a new trainer in Lyudmila Pakhomova, a dance legend over the past decade and let it be known they were going for the gold. Although the bronze medals received more marks from the Hungarians and the same number of judges' placings, the majority of judges favored the Budapest couple.

The winning Moscow pair, Linchik, 24, and Karapozov, 29, received one maximum marks of 6.0 from the Soviet judges and in 3.0, on the free dance. Regozsy and Sallay had one 5.9 (from the Hungarian judge) and five marks of 5.8. Moiseyeva and Minenkov, on the other hand, were awarded two marks of 5.9 and six of 5.8.

In earlier men's competition, Vladimir Kovalev failed to capture the European title from East Germany's Jan Hoffman. Instead, it fell to Britain's John Cousins.

Hospital treats Owens for cancer

By United Press International

Jesse Owens, the first man to win four Olympic gold medals in track, will be released from the hospital early next week to continue long cancer treatment as an outpatient, a cancer specialist said Friday.

Dr. Stephen E. Jones, a professor of internal medicine at the University of Arizona Health Sciences Center, said Owens' spirits were up and his attitude was good.

THE NEW OWNERS of the New York Mets pledged Friday to raise the club from baseball's basement to its penthouse — no matter what the cost.

In a marked contrast to the outgoing owners, the Passon family

Friday was hired to a similar position with the Cincinnati Bengals.

The hiring of McNally completes the string of new Bengals' head coach Forrest Gregg.

FRENCHMAN JEAN PIERRE JABOUILLE clocked the fastest time in Friday's practice for the Brazilian Formula One Grand Prix to lead a one-two Renault team sweep.

Jabouille slashed a second off the previous unofficial lap record, Track record, registering a lap at 2:21.40 for an average speed of 124.569 mph.

Teammate and compatriot Rene Arnoux had the second best time at 2:22.31 in his Renault.

HAL GROSSMAN, a veteran basketball official, Friday sued the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, alleging that he and other officials have been blacklisted from working at ECAC games because they "also worked" for competing conferences.

Former ECAC football official Rosario S. Amato joined in the suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Philadelphia, which claims that the ECAC violated anti-trust laws by monopolizing the services of officials.

BOBBY HALPERIN's checkered career of sports and crime took a turn upward Friday when he was acquitted of charges of arson in the Bronx.

After 11 hours of deliberations, a jury in Bronx Supreme Court found Halperin and two companions not guilty of setting a fire that destroyed 13 buildings a little more than a year ago.

ly, who refused to spend lavishly to keep star players of sign new ones, the new owners insisted that money would be no object for them in bringing a National League pennant back to Shea Stadium.

JIM MCNALLY, offensive line coach at Wake Forest University, PETER HAUGHTON, who was groomed from birth to share the harness racing empire built by his father, Bill, was killed early Friday in an auto crash near the family's stables at the Meadowlands Race track.

Haughton, 25, lost control of his Mercedes-Benz on a dangerous curve, flipped over and snapped a utility pole. He was trapped in the wreckage beneath five electrical wires, with the pole crushing the roof of the car.

WEST GERMAN WALTER ROHRL, driving a Fiat Abarth 131, fought back a late charge by defending champion Bernard Darniche of France and sped to victory Friday in the 48th Monte Carlo rally.

"Yes, dear, automation does let you out of a lot of work. We had it too, only we called it 'Mother'!"

Rocky Mountain president

'Scandals sign of the times'

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — The transcript scandal emanating from a California-based extended campus of Rocky Mountain led to the problem with big-time college athletics, says college president Bruce Alton.

"I think it represents a lot of the demands that have been put on intercollegiate athletes — demands to excel, unrealistic demands," the president of the Billings, Mont., college said in a telephone interview. "Unless a coach was being pressured to win and to have players playing for that kind of money, it would be academically eligible to play."

Alton said that when the transcript scandal broke, he was suspended from play at Arizona State, Cal Poly Pomona, San Jose State and Purdue after an investigation determined that they had never taken classes for which they were given credit at Rocky Mountain's Gardena-Torrance campus.

The extended campus, one of four operated by Rocky Mountain in California, was originally set up in the 1970's to help California teachers earn post-graduate credits that would keep them certified and improve their salaries, Alton said.

But a new kind of student apparently began to enroll in two special education classes at Gardena, Alton said.

"We noticed as we completed the summer session," he said, "that we sent transcripts in four different undergraduate institutions from the courses that we had offered at Gardena-Torrance, Calif. This was somewhat new to us because in fact, prior to this time, with very little exception, transcripts had always gone to elementary and secondary school districts because these were teachers who were going to update their credentials as well as update their salary rates."

So it became apparent to us that, perhaps, undergraduates were using these courses for credit."

Alton said that would normally present no problem, "but it was in fact not the purpose for which these classes were intended." The credits were "certainly valid," he said, adding that a passing grade required an acceptable performance on tests, preparation time and written papers.

But some students were getting credit in Wiley

Bowers' two special education classes without attending, Alton said. Bowers has been fired.

It is impossible to say with finality that Bowers was the culprit, Alton said, adding that Bowers has asserted that the non-students had hired others to sit in their places in the class.

But he adds, "We find it somewhat difficult to believe that out of 45 people in the class, 17 were fraudulently enrolled and he didn't know about it."

Those 17 included eight who had their transcripts sent to Arizona State, six to Cal Poly, two to San Jose and one to Urdine.

Alton charges that five of the false students had been enrolled at Bowers' address, with three others enrolled at the home of a Pasadena City College teacher whom Alton declined to name.

Alton said one teacher apparently had contacts with officials of the schools, and arranged to give students credit without requiring performance or attendance.

Alton noted that the FBI is investigating Rocky and other West-Coast schools. He said he's heard talk about "underworld" money being involved.

Pelen speeds to victory in ski cup

SAINT-GERVAIS, France (UPI) — Françoise Perrine-Pelen strengthened her status as an Olympic favorite when she sped home ahead of Austria's Anne-Marie Moser-Proell to win her second World Cup slalom of the season Friday.

In five world cup slaloms this winter, the 19-year-old Parisian has scored three second places as well as her two victories and this consistency makes her odds-on favorite for the title at Lake Placid.

Pelen weaved through the mist and snow Friday to clock the fastest times on both heats with 40.94 and 40.52 seconds for a combined time of 1:21.46.

"The mist was so thick that on the first run I could hardly see," Pelen said.

The hazardous conditions caused only 30 of the 79 starters to complete the 410-meter course of 60 gates which dropped 155 meters.

"The snow was comparatively firm at the top," Pelen said.

"This was where I won the event," Pelen said afterwards. "I was not too tense at the start and was well ahead each time at the halfway stage. I was surprised. Moser-Proell placed so high. She's really been concentrating on the downhill this season."

Moser-Proell, six times overall World Cup winner, posted 1:22.79 over the slalom of 41.98 and 40.81 seconds. Third was Italy's Daniela Zini with 42.53 and 41.01 for 1:23.54.

Not even Moser-Proell, history's most famous female skier, could compete with Pelen, whose aggressive precision was not disturbed by the slushy surface lower down the course.

Pelen carefully handled the awkward conditions and from the moment she clocked 22.92 at the halfway stage of the first heat Moser-Proell posted 23.52 seconds she looked the likely winner.
