

Iranian demands soften; U.S. Marines sent

United Press International
President Carter Tuesday night ordered 1,000 Marines and four ships to join U.S. naval forces off Iran.

The move came amid indications of a softening in the stance of Iranian militants holding 50 American hostages in Tehran.

A spokesman for the militants holding the hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran said earlier Tuesday his group would accept the Iranian compromise plan for the release of the captives if Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini ordered it.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Carter's decision to send the Marines to the Persian Gulf "is not related to the hostage situation."

But it came during a week of increasing optimism over the fate of the hostages.

U.S. officials stressed the Marines would add to the U.S. deterrent in the Middle East in line with President Carter's State of the Union address pledging Washington to defend its vital interests in the Persian Gulf against a Soviet thrust if necessary.

To date, the ailing, 79-year-old religious leader has not commented publicly on the plan, proposed by President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, that calls for an admission by the United States of its alleged guilt in interfering in Iranian affairs coupled with an international commission to investigate Iranian complaints against the ousted shah and America's role in supporting him.

The exact details of the compromise have not been published, but it is based partially on the idea of U.S. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim for an investigative commission and Waldheim himself is involved in the "delicate" negotiations on the plan.

Tehran Radio, monitored in London by the BBC, quoted Bani-Sadr as saying in a French radio and television interview that the decision on the hostages "now in their 101st day of captivity in the U.S. Embassy, would be taken by Khomeini and the ruling Revolutionary Council, which the new president heads.

Asked about his earlier statement that the hostages might be released in the next few days, Bani-Sadr said, "If America agrees to our view this may be possible."

Washington Monday rejected Bani-Sadr's call for the United States to admit its alleged guilt.

The militant spokesman inside the occupied embassy in Tehran, who was interviewed with UPI in London, was asked what the captors would do if Khomeini accepted Bani-Sadr's formula and ordered them to release the hostages to an international commission.

"If Ayatollah Khomeini, our imam, orders us to release the hostages, yes, we will release them because we believe our imam," he said.

He was then asked specifically if the militants would release the Americans even if Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi were not returned to main demand throughout the long occupied embassy. "Releasing Khomeini ordered them to do so."

"Yes," he replied.

But he reiterated the militants' call for a return of the shah and the wealth he allegedly took out of Iran.

In a related development, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, interviewed by ABC-TV in Iran Tuesday, said he expected the international commission to begin meeting in Tehran within a week. He said the committee's work would be the hostages' ticket to freedom.

the face of what a State Department spokesman called "a thousand rumors" is an indication that Carter now is willing to be questioned publicly about the Iranian crisis.

Earlier Tuesday, administration sources had said he would not put himself in that position until the administration had completed its analysis of the Iranian proposal and had an indication of whether it has the approval of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's ranking authority.

In response to further questions Tuesday, the spokesman said: "Official comment by the administration on each proposal, suggestion or rumor that may be raised in general or specific terms from a variety of sources is neither necessary nor productive. Therefore, today (Tuesday) will have no further comments on the hostage situation or any of the various stories about it."

Idaho 'rebels' defeated

Lands takeover move lacks votes

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — Supporters of the Sagebrush Rebellion bit the dust Tuesday.

After more than 20 hours of testimony, Idaho senators refused to pass a proposed constitutional amendment that would strike language in Idaho's Constitution whereby the state disclaims any rights to federal lands within its boundaries.

The language was a pre-condition to statehood accepted by the Idaho Territory, said Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, in support of Senate Joint Resolution 105. But times have changed, and Idahoans now feel they can manage federal lands more effectively than the Washington bureaucrats.

Yarbrough acknowledged that striking the disclaimer to ownership of federal lands would in itself have little effect on relations between Idaho and Washington. But the move would clear up one possible legal step, if Nevada's case is successful.

Nevada is attempting to sue the federal government, arguing it should have title to most federal lands within its state boundaries.

While SJR 105 focuses on just one clause in Idaho's Constitution, it triggered debate over every phase of the Sagebrush Rebellion.

Following Tuesday's debate, senators voted 20-15 in favor of the rebellion, but as a proposed constitutional amendment, it needed a two-thirds vote of approval, or 24 of the 35-member Senate.

All six Magic Valley senators voted for SJR 105.

If Idaho does gain title to all unappropriated Bureau of Land Management Lands as the sagebrush rebels demand, said Israel Merrill, D-Blackfoot, then it is likely Indians will be cheated out of treaty rights. Idaho Indians now have assurance they can fish, hunt and gather wood on federal lands, Merrill said.

"And this would mean they would lose those rights. We say this won't be a land grab, we say this won't hurt the Indians, but history tells us differently," he said.

"The sagebrush rebellion and SJR 105 were also attacked by Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene. If Idaho gains title to federal lands within its boundaries, it will have to raise taxes "to maintain the lands as they are currently being maintained," Manley said.

Idaho would lose many of these lands because we wouldn't have money to man them, he added.

The rebellion and the constitutional amendment were endorsed by Sen. Iton Carter, R-Boise.

"Why is it we naturally think the federal government can do it better than we can?" Carter asked. "Idaho officials could manage and maintain federal lands just as well if not better than any federal employees."

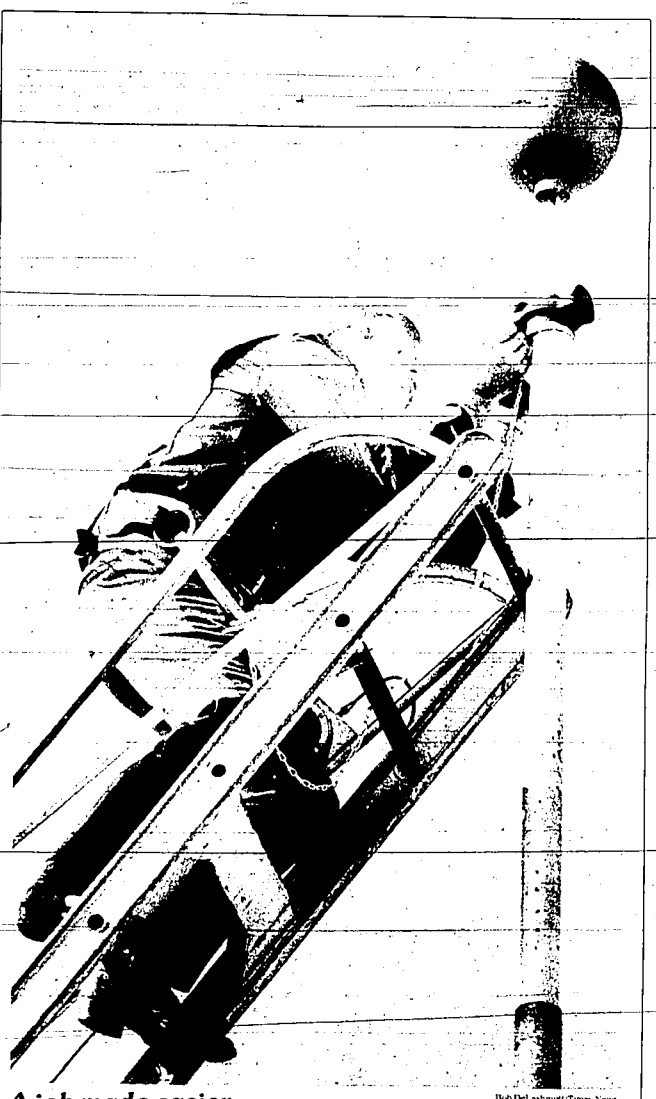

His comments were seconded by Sen. Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls. The proposed amendment merely corrects an unfair condition Idaho was forced to accept in 1890 at the time of statehood, Watkins said.

"Things are different in 1980 than they were in 1890," he said.

But Sen. Ken Robinson, D-Boise, questioned how Idaho would manage federal lands. The recent controversy over commercial development of Silver Creek in Blaine County suggests one answer, Robinson said.

The stream is an invaluable resource to Idaho as well as a famous trout fishing stream, but the "development" of the Legislature has so far urged that commercial fish hatcheries be located on that river," he said.

Wildlife and fisheries now on federal lands would receive exactly the same consideration as Silver Creek if the Sagebrush Rebellion is successful, he warned.

Iran news blacked out Carter response expected tonight

WASHINGTON — President Carter is expected to reveal at a news conference tonight whether he sees any hope for an imminent break in the 102-day Iran hostage crisis.

Announcement of the news conference came amid rumors of a possible deal to free the Americans.

Except for saying that Carter will appear before the press at 8 p.m. (EST) and probably make an unspecified opening statement, the administration clamped a lid on all public statements about the Iranian situation.

Some sources acknowledged that an Iranian proposal for dealing with the hostage crisis has been under intensive study within the administration for the past two days. They added that they expect Carter to give his response to the Iranian plan.

According to the sources, the scheduling of the news conference in

U.S. boycott urged IOC rejects bid to move Olympics

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — The president of the International Olympic Committee said Tuesday the IOC has unanimously decided the Moscow Olympics will go ahead as planned.

The White House promptly urged the U.S. Olympic Committee to formulate an American boycott of the Games.

The IOC and the White House took their opposing stands in toughly worded statements issued on the eve of the formal opening of the 1980 Winter Olympics.

IOC President Lord Killanin told a news conference at the end of the IOC's three-day meeting that all 73 members present were unanimous that the Games should go ahead.

Killanin, 65, an Irish peer, made it clear that even if a large majority of Western nations does not accept invitations to the Games, they will still go on.

"The very existence of the Olympic Games, the Olympic Movement and the organization of sport through the International Federations is at stake," Killanin said, reading from a carefully prepared and toughly worded 300-word statement.

"We regret the decision by the International Olympic Committee to conduct the 1980 games in Moscow, and to reject the proposal of the United States Olympic Committee to transfer, postpone or cancel the Games," White House press secretary Jody Powell said in Washington.

"Under these circumstances, neither the president, the Congress, nor the American people can support the sending of United States teams to Moscow this summer," he said.

"The president urges the United States Olympic Committee to reach a prompt decision against sending a team to the Games in Moscow."

Powell said the United States is "working with a number of like-minded governments to take similar action and to consider the practicality of conducting other international games with the teams that do not go to Moscow."

The rejection by the IOC of the American proposal for action against the Moscow Games came as no surprise. It had been clearly signaled weeks ago by Killanin, and the IOC almost always goes along with its leadership.

But Killanin's statement also urged the Moscow Olympic organizers and the Soviet National Olympic Committee to "inform the highest authorities of their government of the circumstances which have created these difficulties."

By this allusion to the international crisis caused by the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and by taking official notice that "many governments have stated that the athletes of their countries would not be encouraged, and might even be forbidden, to take part in the Games in Moscow this year," the IOC signaled its concern that a boycott may become widespread and that participation in the summer Games could fall well short of the usual level.

Columnist paid $250,000 to Colombian guerrillas

American's 3-year captivity ends

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — U.S. Peace Corps volunteer Richard Starr, kidnapped three years ago by leftists, was released in a remote area of Colombia Tuesday.

He immediately left the South American nation to return home.

The Peace Corps worker's release was secured with the aid of a $250,000 ransom paid by columnist Jack Anderson, Anderson told UPI in Honolulu he borrowed the money two weeks and his side-jack Mitchell turned it over to the leftists in cash two weeks ago.

The release of Starr, 34, in Neiva, 155 miles southwest of Bogota, ended the second longest captivity of an American in Colombia. American businessman William Niechows, who was held four months longer than Starr, was released last year.

The State Department in Washington said Starr of Edmonds, Wash., flew out of the country but did not give his destination. The Embassy in Bogota said he was "on his way" to the United States.

A source in Colombia said Starr had arrived in Panama City, Panama, but there was no independent confirmation of the report. Other reports had him heading for Miami and San Francisco before going home to Edmonds, Wash.

At his home in Edmonds, Wash., Starr's stepfather, Fred H. Jensen, said the family had no comment at this time about Starr's release.

Defense Minister Luis Canache said Starr emerged at Neiva at the Army's 9th Brigade headquarters. A Peace Corps worker in Washington, however, said he was released into American hands.

Sources in Bogota said American newspaper columnist Jack Anderson played a role in the negotiations for Starr's release through an assistant who had traveled to Colombia and made contact with the guerrillas. One source said Starr might meet Anderson in Panama City.

The U.S. Embassy in Bogota issued a statement saying: "We can confirm that Peace Corps volunteer Richard Starr was released by his captors Feb. 11.

In Washington, a Peace Corps spokesman said Starr's release was accomplished "through his family, although we assisted in the arrangements" and said he would not say whether a ransom was paid.

He said Starr was in good shape physically despite being held captive longer than any other Peace Corps worker.

Starr, who was working on a botanical study for the Colombian government, was seized Feb. 14, 1977, in the small town of La Macarena in Meta State south of Bogota by guerrillas of the Colombian Revolutionary Armed Forces.

He was believed kidnapped as an afterthought when the guerrillas found him in the small town during a raid in which they killed a policeman, looted stores and harangued the citizens on revolutionary ideology.

Starr's photos at the time of his kidnapping showed him as a bespectacled blond with a heavy beard.

Senate votes for further study of Bruneau Plateau Project

By DAVID MORRISSEY
The news writer BOISE — The Idaho Senate Tuesday voted 18-15 to appropriate $121,000 for further study of water development for the Bruneau Plateau Project.

The measure in question, Senate Bill 1322, was defended by Sen. Mark Rieks, R-Boise, as needed funding to investigate the feasibility of the Bruneau Project. That proposal, Rieks said, envisioned storing water from the Snake River during winter months — when irrigation demands are lowest — and then using the water during the summer.

result in thousands of new irrigated acres of land along the Snake River in southwest Idaho, Rieks said.

ports on the Bruneau project show it is economically unfeasible, Robison said. The only way the project could be developed inexpensively would be through diverting the Snake River through existing canals of the Twin Falls Canal Co., he said.

additional money? A total of $435,000 had already been spent investigating the project, Robison said. No additional studies were needed to determine the project is uneconomical, he added.

Monday to reconsider that vote was held as the bill's legal wording was re-examined. Finally, on Tuesday, the measure was approved and sent to the Idaho House on an 18-15 vote.

Budget freeze gains support

BOISE (UPI) — Support for continuing the freeze on Idaho property taxes for another year is gaining momentum in the Legislature, but the future of the 1 percent initiative remains uncertain, several lawmakers said Tuesday.

turnaround; it appears necessary that we continue the freeze."

me (the schools plan) won't pass, but I'm not so convinced."

Committee member Rep. Ronald Harlow, D-Lewiston, said he "saw nothing wrong" with exempting the schools, but there were two other legislators in the room who had their doubts.

Rep. Tom Stivers called against the bill for nearly half an hour, saying he had heard complaints from several people that those who benefit from IHA loans are "young bums who don't work."

in rebuttal claims that the IHA is unconstitutional, Miss McDermott quoted from an attorney general's opinion that said the Idaho Supreme Court "leaves little doubt" that the IHA serves a public purpose.

House 1 percent subcommittee member Rep. Michael Gwartyne, R-Boise, said there's been a gradual shift in opinion in the house about a continued freeze since the Legislature convened barely a month ago.

strength of a further trend of thought holding off on the 1 percent initiative another year or even sending it to the junk heap.

Rep. Darwin Young, R-Blackfoot, chairman of a committee that delved into the 1 percent last summer and recommended a continuation of the freeze, said it also has seen growing appeal in lengthening the freeze as a way of "working our way into the 1 percent."

Rep. Gordon Hollifield, R-Jerome, another non-committee member, flatly said, "I don't want the schools out from under the 1 percent."

"And I can believe that," the Twin Falls Republican said. He said the state should cut the "what is a welfare program" and appropriate regular operating funds for it if the Legislature wants to provide welfare.

"This Legislature itself has declared the function of the Idaho Housing Agency to be a public purpose," she said. The IHA is probably more constitutional than a number of other programs that have gone through the Legislature, she said.

And Sen. James Leese, D-Pocatello, who has been sitting in on the subcommittee meetings, reported that several Senate members once opposed to a further freeze "have changed their minds."

Munger, the author of a plan to exempt the schools districts from the 1 percent, also said his efforts face trouble in the full Legislature.

"No plan we come up with will be better perfect," Young said.

Rep. Harold Reid, D-Craigmont, said he had "concern about us showing favoritism as a legislative body and if you take the schools out of the 1 percent's restrictions you're showing a lot of favoritism."

"The Legislature has lost control of it," Stivers said. "I maintain that we gave birth to an illegitimate child in 1977 and now we have abandoned that agency."

"That which benefits the little guys benefits us all," said Rep. Steve Scanlin, D-Caldwell, another pro-IHA speaker.

Leese himself said he was "radically" against extending the freeze when he arrived in Boise for this legislative session, but now his

"I'm sure there will be some opposition," he said. "People have told

"It will be very difficult without a great selling job" to exempt the schools, the Boise Republican said. "It will be politically hard to pass. I think this committee has a duty to come up with something that will get through both houses."

"We would be out on a limb," said Young, echoing Reid's comments about the schools exemption idea.

Stivers presented similar remarks last week during two days of lengthy testimony during which many realtors attacked the bill as a result of the free enterprise system. The House Revenue and Taxation Committee had approved the bill on a 10-7 vote.

Government has "no business" building homes and power plants, he said, adding that this activity belongs in the private sector.

House members want watchdog on federal funds entering Idaho

On the recommendation of a special legislative subcommittee, which met this summer, the State Affairs committee called for creation of a "federal project review committee."

BOISE — A House committee Monday said federal funds coming into Idaho should be subject to legislative review.

On the recommendation of a special legislative subcommittee, which met this summer, the State Affairs committee called for creation of a "federal project review committee."

Under the measure, House Bill 495, the review committee would not review State Board of Education funds, highway construction funds received by the Department of Transportation, "pass-through" funds heading to local governments — or permanent appropriations to state agencies.

Munger said it is likely the committee will agree to promote one main bill and possibly also send an alternative proposal to the full House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Policy toward Iran proven correct

The waiting game the U.S. is playing in Iran is beginning to pay off. Although it hasn't been evident until recent days, the pressure to release the 50 U.S. hostages from the embassy in Tehran has been building — despite all the rhetoric to the contrary. It was a calculated risk by the Carter Administration — but restraint has been their byword in this crisis from the beginning. Although it was difficult for those who supported some kind of overt action against Iran to see the logic behind the State Department's posture, it should be clear now the so-called turn-the-screws effort has made its point. It isn't being heralded as a major break, but the militants holding the hostages now say they'll release them if the Ayatollah Khomeini orders such action, even if an agreement does not call for the return of the former shah. Heretofore, the militants said they would consider nothing less than the shah's return in exchange for freeing the 50 Americans. The proposal put out by Iran as a condition for freedom, that the U.S. admit guilt for past sins, is preposterous on its face. But it appears Iran and the U.S. are in the final stages of an international cat-and-mouse game. Whatever is being said publicly may be far from what is really happening behind closed doors. The problem for Iran's government is that it must mollify the militants to gain the hostages' release and prevent some sort of last-minute panic that could lead to a blood bath. Khomeini may be fanatic, but he is no fool. He cannot afford to lose face, even though in fact he may gain little by releasing the Americans. His problem is that he must convince his followers he gained something, whether real or imagined. That kind of delicate process takes time and time has produced the crack in Iran's seemingly unpenetrable and inelastic position. It is therefore to Carter's credit there is more hope today for an end to the crisis and the release of the hostages than there was even last week. By continuing to delay threatened economic sanctions, Carter is giving Iran every conceivable opportunity to resolve its internal strife and defuse the hostage situation. With its restraint, the U.S. has gained a great deal of credibility in the international community — without having used the trump card it still holds, the military option. In stark contrast, the Soviets showed just how ruthless they are with their own "crisis" in Afghanistan.

Back to drawing board

BOISE Now I know how the governor feels. My legislative package has gone down in flames. I submitted three bills — one died in committee, another was soundly defeated on the senate floor. The third survived and I may go all the way. However, that innocuous piece merely states that a lieutenant governor shall not collect both the governor's salary and his own expense allowance while serving as a substitute for the chief executive. Voting for that one is like declaring you are for motherhood and apple pie. The other two measures were proposed amendments to the Idaho Constitution. One would provide for a single vote in the general election for both the governor and lieutenant governor. The other would limit a governor to two four-year terms. There are good arguments on both sides of these issues. The team concept for the two officers would provide a more compatible political climate for the top executives. The governor would feel comfortable in delegating important duties to the lieutenant governor and thereby have more time for his other chores. The lieutenant governor would be providing a useful service to the state. Political opposites just cannot provide such team work. In an extreme example, consider the futility of having President Carter serve with Bob Dole as Vice President. There were two sound arguments against the team approach. One protested the reduction in options available to the voter. It was debated that a person should be able to cast his ballot for whomever he chose for the two posts, regardless of party. The other prevailing point was that the team concept would tend to stifle the public debate between the two top officers — and that the citizenry gains executive insight by such a continuing sparring match. I submitted the proposal limiting the gubernatorial terms because I thought it would allow the chief executive to do his job better without constantly worrying about reelection. He could then more easily refrain from excessive ribbon-cutting and speech-making. I also perceived a widespread notion among the public that such a limitation already existed. The same opposition prevailed. The public should not be denied the opportunity to elect whomever they want for as long as they want. It is a good argument and I don't mourn the loss of the measure. What I do rue is the implication from some questions that I was trying to rig the process in favor of Republicans. I was not shooting at Governor Evans; he was specifically exempted. I intended the prohibition to apply only to consecutive terms. Somewhere in the drafting process that word was lost. I regret that because I would not want to prevent my good friend and political adversary Cecil Andrus from taking another shot at the governor's seat if he so desired. Finally, I meant no reflection to be cast on the long tenure of Gov. Bob Smythe. He, more than any politician I know, made his decisions for the betterment of his office and without any attempt to curry favor for reelection. I believe that he was one of the most effective governors we ever had. They were just a couple of ideas which were promptly trashed. Back to the drawing board in search of better ones. Phil Batt, a Republican, is Idaho's lieutenant governor.

Old Crayon

Editor, Times-News: Neither the fully expressed will of the people nor the thorough testimony of expert witnesses could overcome the power of political old crayon in the Idaho House of Representatives. Committee on Resources and Conservation. Despite overwhelming testimony to the contrary the Committee voted to deny an adequate streamflow to the lower part of Silver Creek and thereby opened the door to the rape of both lower Silver Creek and Little Wood River in Blaine and Lincoln Counties. It can only be hoped that the Water Resources board will not see fit to grant applications for the two trout hatcheries sought by Ken Ellis and his highly effective former legislator and former committee member lobbyist Vern Ravenscroft. The Idaho Dept. of Fish and Game just recently completed a seven-year effort for a land exchange to acquire more public access on Little Wood River and at least seven miles of that stream are now available to public fishing. It is one of the best pieces of brown trout water in the country and by all odds the best in Idaho. The Committee ruling would seriously jeopardize this fishery if the hatcheries sought by Ken Ellis and his present effluent standards, seriously increase nighttime oxygen demand during the low water hot summer months. Low flows and increased water temperatures would compound the problem and endanger and kill the wild trout or most of them in the stream. Successful spawning would be virtually eliminated. The true value of the fishery from an economic standpoint is enormous and the lower part of Silver Creek as well as Little Wood River are already providing many thousands of hours of recreational fishing. As time goes on they will assume an ever more important role with the increase in population. The Legislative Committee apparently cares not a whit for any of these considerations. They have been swayed by promises of a large payroll at the fish hatcheries. What matter if a natural asset of untold value is likely to be washed down the drain not to mention the years of effort that have gone into creating it from what had once been a second rate fishery. The Idaho Fish and Game department has won the acclaim of sportsmen around the country and around the world for its far-sighted management of precious and endangered fishery resources. The Resources and Conservation Committee has made a decision that will go down in infamy among sportsmen statewide and world-wide. It can only be hoped that logic and common sense will prevail in the deliberation of the Water Resources Board on granting a permit to the two fish factories. JACK HEMMINGWAY Sun Valley

Firemen heads above most city workers

Chicago Sun-Times CHICAGO — When my friend Zeké left the Army after World War II, he took a job washing buses. It was something for him to do while looking for a permanent job. He saved his money until he had enough for a bribe. Then he slipped it to his sergeant's bagman and became a fireman. It shouldn't have required a bribe. Zeké was smart, strong, tough, and had been a hero in a paratroop outfit. But he didn't have a "chinaman," which is the Fire Department's word for political clout. And City Hall didn't care how many medals a guy had on his chest. It was what he had in his pocket that counted. He spent the next 30 years as a fireman, and he was a good one. He swallowed his share of smoke, ducked falling beams, worked on an ambulance, held a hose for hours on subzero nights, came close to getting killed several times; so not many Christmases away from his family, and once carried a drunken fat lady down a slippery ladder. That got him exactly one promotion during his entire career, which recently ended with retirement. If he'd had a chinaman, or if the department had been run fairly, he could have easily become a high-ranking officer. And a few days ago, while reading about the CTA salaries, he was surprised to discover that he might have done better financially all those years if he had stayed with his first postwar job of washing buses. And he wouldn't have had to carry a drunken fat lady down a slippery ladder. He was typical of Chicago firemen. Most of them have no clout. Most of them do a good job and don't rock the boat. Of the various types of city employees I've known, I rate firemen at or near the top. You almost never hear of scandals in the Fire Department. I'm not saying that firemen are, by nature, more honest than say, policemen. It may be that they just don't have the opportunity to grab. That may be why most of us are honest. But the fact is, about the most corrupt act firemen commit is to stuff a little bit of gin in their pockets when a liquor store burns down. Nor are they greedy. If firemen were ever offered a 14 per cent raise like the city transit workers, they'd go on a bender to celebrate rather than strike. Which leads me to the point of today's sermon. When Mayor Jane Byrne was running for mayor, she made a firm promise. She said she would give the firemen's union a contract. She didn't say maybe she would, or that she'd give it some thought, or that she'd appoint a committee to study it. She flatly said that if she were elected, she would do it. So, she oughtn't to do it. And she shouldn't start playing games now, telling the firemen to wait until sometime next year. Nor should she do as some of her less-than-advisers are urging: to ride the crest of her triumph of forcing the transit workers drivers back to work and tell the firemen that they have to wait until 1981. The idea is that the firemen would cave in, that they wouldn't have the guts to strike now that they've seen the transit workers' strike broken. That might work. The last time the firemen took a strike vote, when Soft Lips Blandine (the former mayor) ran things, their leadership was confident that they'd vote "out." But they didn't. So it might be that the idea of a strike remains repugnant to the majority of firemen. But Byrne can't count on that. The fact that she promised them a contract might be enough to get them mad. And it would take a shift in many votes to produce a walkout.

If firemen did strike for a contract, the city wouldn't be as visibly disrupted as it was by the transit strike. Only those people who have tires would be inconvenienced. Some might be inconvenienced to death. She could try to take the same approach with the firemen as she did with the bus drivers — going to court and having them ordered back to work. But if it took a week, as it did with the drivers, it would be a long, dangerous, possibly disastrous week. Without buses and trains, people drive, formed car pools, rode computer-railroads, hitchhiked, took a few days off from work, and somehow muddled through. But if there's a 4-11 alarm fire, and firemen are on strike, what? Add the mayor's ask us to do — form bucket brigades? Actually, we shouldn't even be discussing these possibilities. There should be no need for it because she promised, she gave them her word.

And she's now been in office long enough to have kept her word. At this point, she's stalling. The firemen aren't going to ask for anything outrageous. They will probably accept a contract with a no-strike clause, which is essential, and one that provides for binding arbitration. The main thing the firemen want from a contract is to be free from the political favoritism that has always been the big factor in promotions and assignments. Mayor Byrne, a natural-born politician, likes to play sly games. And she might be tempted to play them with the firemen. But they don't deserve it. So if she wants to play sly games with anyone, there are enough grafters, grabbers, filchers, connivers, snatchers, and pocket stuffers in City Hall to keep her busy for the next three years. Those kind of guys have never carried anything down a ladder except somebody else's property.

Federally-funded abortions to resume

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government will be required to finance abortions for the poor beginning Friday unless the Supreme Court steps in before then.

U.S. Solicitor General Wade McCree — who represents the government in appeals courts — asked the high court Monday to act promptly on the matter.

At issue is a Jan. 15 ruling by U.S.

District Judge John Dooling of New York, who said the government must give states money that could be used to fund abortions under the Medicaid program.

Since 1976, the number of federally funded abortions for the poor has been reduced dramatically by a rider Congress attached to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare appropriation bill each year.

The rider — known as the Hyde amendment after Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill. — forbids federal funding of abortions, except to save a woman's life and for some victims of rape and incest.

Dooling's order overturns the Hyde amendment and says the government must start financing abortions on Feb. 15.

McCree said Dooling's order not only would disrupt the entire Medicaid system, it also raised the possibility states would seek federal reimbursement for abortions funded with state money in previous years.

"The ruling of a single district judge should not be permitted to nullify Congress' Medicaid funding decision, enacted in four consecutive years," McCree argued.

In overturning the Hyde amendment, Dooling held it violated a poor woman's right to liberty and her religious freedom to choose an abortion.

But in its appeal, the government maintained:

"The First Amendment protects the freedom of speech and freedom of the press, as well as the free exercise of religion."

20-year-olds would be drafted first by lottery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter told Congress Tuesday that if America returns to the draft, the first chosen will be 20-year-olds picked by lottery.

But it ever becomes necessary to draft anyone, Selective Service will operate under the concept of random selection (lottery) based upon year and date of birth," Carter said in a report sent to Capitol Hill.

"The first year-of-birth group from which inductees will be drawn is the one that contains those who reach 20 in a given calendar year," he said.

Such plans are simply a contingency at present because Carter would have to declare a national emergency and get new legislation passed before he could actually start up the draft again.

"He has no intention of doing so under present circumstances," the report said.

The information was included in a 62-page report on Selective Service reform that Congress directed Carter to prepare last year. It includes his proposal for immediate military registration of men and women born in 1960 and 1961.

Although the report did not go into detail on how a draft would be managed, Carter has said he would try to avoid deferments, such as those college students and many others obtained in the past.

The report said the first inductee could report within 13 days after the president declared a national emergency — and the system could process up to 100,000 drafted men and women in 24 days.

Top census post vacated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The man in charge of day-to-day operation of the $1 billion national census was taken out of the job last week — just 2 1/2 months before the headcount begins — the Census Bureau said Tuesday.

A bureau spokesman said Earle Gerson was overworked being both division chief for the 1980 census and assistant director for demographic censuses, a policymaking post.

Spokesman Maury Cagle said the job Gerson gave up was the lesser of the two posts in terms of the Census Bureau hierarchy.

But it still means a top census job is changing hands and Cagle said no one has yet been named to take over the division chief's post even though the beginning of the massive count is only weeks away.

Cagle denied news reports that Gerson was fired from his post because he failed to report a foul-up in addressing some of the questionnaire that are to be mailed to nearly 100 million households.

One news account said Gerson was ousted because he failed to tell his bosses that address labels had not been affixed properly to mailings, envelopes.

"It is not true that Gerson was fired," or that he failed to notify officials of the mix up, Cagle said. "That charge is just not true."

Instead, Cagle said, Gerson was moved fulltime to the planning job.

"Because the workload had become too great, management felt someone had to tend the store fulltime in both jobs," Cagle said.

President lays out waste plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter acted Tuesday to establish a long-term federal-state program to deal with nuclear waste from the nation's weapons programs and commercial power plants.

The president said in a special message to Congress the new strategy is aimed at ensuring the radioactive garbage will pose no significant threat to public health and safety now or for future generations.

The plans include both a permanent "burying ground" for radioactive waste, mostly from nuclear weapons production, and storage for spent nuclear fuel, from which plutonium and other valuable isotopes could some day be reprocessed.

The president's plan calls for continuing the storage of spent nuclear fuel from the nation's 72 commercial power reactors in water pools at the plant site until a permanent facility is developed — preferably away from any power plants.

But he said he will continue pressing for legislation to build such a storage center away from power plants.

Underground rock formations will be sought as permanent repositories for the highly radioactive waste materials.

Eleven sites are under study by the Department of Energy.

FBI may subpoena reporters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The prosecutor heading an investigation into news leaks of the FBI's undercover operations Tuesday refused to rule out subpoenaing of reporters or the director tests for Justice Department employees.

Details of the FBI operations were leaked to NBC, The New York Times and the Long Island newspaper Newsday.

Department officials are concerned the leaks could damage the chances of successful prosecutions stemming from the FBI, Abscam and Brilab probes which involved agents posing as wealthy Arabs and insurance salesmen and implicated eight congressmen among others.

Richard Blumenthal, named by Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti to investigate the leaks Monday, told a news conference the investigation would concern the Justice Department and not the media, but added he was not ruling out subpoenas of reporters and their notes.

"I would like to stress that this is not an investigation into the media or anyone in the media," Blumenthal said. "It is an investigation involving the Department of Justice and possible unauthorized and improper disclosures by individuals within the Department of Justice."

The 34-year-old U.S. attorney of Connecticut said while he would welcome the cooperation and assistance of anyone in the media, "we have no present intention of subpoenaing either reporters or their notes."

"At the same time we are not foreclosing the use of any investigative measure or technique, including that one."

Blumenthal said any subpoena of a reporter "ought to be a last resort and that there ought to be a very, very heavy burden of a prosecutor or an investigator" to issue a subpoena.

Marine sues Iran, wants $60 million

By JUDI HASSON
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Marine Sgt. Kenneth Kraus says only a miracle allowed him to leave Iran on the day he was supposed to be executed by revolutionists.
 Kraus was among the 100 embassy employees, including Ambassador William Sullivan, who were held hostage for two hours when the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was overrun by a mob on Feb. 14, 1979.
 The takeover was the forerunner of the present impasse in Tehran, where militants have held 50 U.S. hostages in the embassy since Nov. 4.
 On Monday, Kraus filed a $60 million lawsuit in U.S. District Court against Iran, charging his rights were violated when the mob captured the embassy as part of the Iranian revolution.
 After the attack started, supporters of Ayatollah Khomeini arrived at the scene and began fighting for control of the embassy. Embassy workers were turned over to Khomeini supporters.
 At one point, an Iranian put a gun in Kraus' mouth and pulled the trigger. The weapon was not loaded, according to his complaint.
 Kraus said he was beaten, shot in the face and kidnapped from a hospital where he was taken for treatment of his wounds after the embassy incident.
 He was held blindfolded and handcuffed in a military compound where he was tried for murder, espionage and training SAVAK, the Iranian secret police.
 Kraus was told that he would die. But after diplomatic negotiations, Kraus was released on Feb. 21, 1979, and left Iran for the United States on the day he was scheduled to be executed.
 "At first I couldn't believe it until the plane touched off the ground," said Kraus who came to Washington to file the lawsuit. "It was about the time I was going to be executed that morning, it was a miracle, a sheer miracle."

Kraus, now based at the U.S. Naval Air Station in Willow Grove, Pa., where he is the assistant operations chief of a Marine detachment, said he was physically and psychologically injured by the actions of Iranian militants.
 Kraus is asking $20 million in compensatory damages and $40 million in punitive damages from the Iranian government.

Fido sends more valentines

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who is most likely to send you a valentine, your boss or Fido the family dog?
 Fido beats the boss, 2-1.
 According to a survey by Hallmark Cards on American's valentine sending habits, 0.12 percent of valentines are sent in the name of family pets, while employers send only 0.07 percent.
 Children make up the largest group of valentine senders by sex.
 Men buy 21 percent of valentines and receive 31 percent, according to the survey.
 Who receives the most? Mothers, school teachers and friends.
 Next are aunts, uncles, sisters and brothers.
 Fourth in line are sweethearts.
 Hallmark didn't say how many valentines the boss got.

Aging chemicals close laboratory

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — The National Park Service has closed Thomas Alva Edison's laboratory to the public because chemicals the inventor left behind may have become unstable and dangerous over the years.
 The laboratory, part of the Edison National Historic Site, will remain closed until experts finish examining the 5,000 bottles and other containers left there since the inventor's death in 1931.
 Officials said the laboratory could remain closed for several months. The rest of the site is open.
 Park officials said they took the action because they fear that many of the chemicals may have interacted with impurities in the glass of the containers or the air over the years and could be potentially dangerous.
 While there are records indicating which bottles contain what, park officials said they are not sure of the accuracy. One official said bottles labeled hydrochloric acid or nitric acid are actually filled with water.
 Officials said they are not worried about a spontaneous explosion from the rows of test-tubes, jars and bottles. But they fear that a blast might occur if one of the containers are handled roughly or knocked about.
 The situation within the inventor's old workshop was discovered by a safety officer inspecting the site's buildings for asbestos hazards.

GRETA GARBO ... a real spy?

HOWARD BAKER ... re-nins a problem

By United Press International
VANT TO SPY ALONE
 In 1932, Greta Garbo had the title role in the great spy movie "Mata Hari" but few then dreamed of the typewriting British author Charles Higham says she was a spy during World War II but for the Allies, not the Germans. He's quoted in the Swedish newspaper Expressen as saying he learned of Miss Garbo's real-life espionage role through unclassified documents, now released in Washington, says she was recruited by Hungarian producer Alexander Korda.

had to be connections in the tale of the blood-thirsty Roman emperor. He found one in Ameka di Lorenzo. She's featured in the film and is one of the few in the world who gets in free. So Gianni asked for a date and walked in with her. She's seen the flick nine times.

COSTLY FLICKS
 Ronald Reagan showed up last month on WGTE-TV in Traverse City, Mich., in "Hell Cats of the Navy." Now supporters of Howard Baker want equal time for their candidate. Says station manager Foster Winters, "When I first heard about it, I thought we should grant equal time to any candidate who had appeared in a 1946 movie." But the FCC isn't laughing. Says Winters must ante up, so Baker will get about 30 minutes to match the Reagan's 22-year-old celluloid fantasy.

EUROPEANOPIRY
 The Grand Ol' Opry has grown considerably since its Nashville origins, but never before has its down home country sound invaded European airways. That little oversight will be remedied April 26 when the "Opry" goes live on Radio Luxembourg. Europe's largest commercial broadcast facility. Spokesman Wes Green says the new showcase is expected to give the Opry, the nation's longest-running live radio show, an audience increase of more than 4 million fans.

XESTFUL XANADU
 When Samuel Taylor Coleridge wrote "In Xanadu did Kubla Khan a stately pleasure dome decree," he hardly dreamed of setting up a Hollywood musical. They didn't even have movies in his day, but his "Xanadu" is on film now and the cast threw a $40,000 "wrap party" Sunday to celebrate it. Costars Olivia Newton-John and Michael Beck who brought along fiance Carl Kappel helped entertain 1,000 guests on the set. But another costar — Gene Kelly missed the party.

Hostages remembered at cemetery service

HERMITAGE, Pa. (UPI) — It was a night many residents of this small northwestern Pennsylvania community will not forget.
 More than 250 people gathered in a snowstorm at the Hillcrest Memorial Park Monday night for a candlelight ceremony commemorating the 10th day of captivity for the 50 American hostages in Iran.
 Among them were the parents of hostage Michael Metrinko, 3, who has not been heard from since the embassy was seized Nov. 4.
 "My wife and I have endured such anxiety and sadness during this time," said Harry Metrinko, of Clypshut, Pa. His wife, sitting nearby, dabbed her cheeks.
 "We're very, very optimistic," Mrs. Metrinko said. Moments later, she leaned on the arm of a friend and said, "I just couldn't express my feelings to anybody. It's been so hard."
 The ceremony in the town chapel at the cemetery was held as an ecumenical prayer service sponsored by the local Veterans' Association, the Allegheny County Central Labor Council and local government officials.

Mrs. Gandhi and Andrei Gromyko, Soviet foreign minister

Gandhi holds 'frank' talks with Gromyko

NEW DELHI — In her first meeting with top Soviet officials since taking over as head of the new Indian government, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi Tuesday expressed the hope to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that Moscow withdraw its troops from Afghanistan.

ment, couples the Soviet invasion with the U.S. response of selling aid to Pakistan.

Rao, in his speech, said India felt "grave concern" that military aid to Pakistan would "convert the South Asia region into a theater of great power confrontation and conflict."

"Our stand was made known to them (the Soviets) clearly," the External Affairs Ministry spokesman said.

The Indo-French declaration, without mentioning any country's name, calls the "use of force" and "intervention" in internal affairs of countries "inadmissible."

An Indian diplomatic source said today there was no doubt that both referred to the Soviets in Afghanistan.

"There was no report on Gromyko's response to Gandhi's hope for an early troop withdrawal."

But the 71-year-old veteran Soviet diplomat was effusive when he left Gandhi's office, telling AP India field.

"We are convinced that our discussions will contribute to peace in Southeast Asia, South Asia and throughout the world."

Gandhi, asked how the talks went, replied tersely, "as usual, frank."

The External Affairs Ministry spokesman said India and the Soviets "agreed to consider measures by which the tensions in the region can be defused" during further talks Wednesday.

Gandhi is not scheduled to take part in these talks, which are likely to be between Gromyko, Rao and their aides.

India has maintained a two-headed position since the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan last December. While it has continuously expressed the wish that the Soviet troops should withdraw, it has spoken with equal or greater force against the twin U.S. efforts to bolster Pakistan's defenses to meet the threat of Russian troops on its border and to increase the American power in the Persian Gulf to counter Moscow's military expansion in the region.

Almost every official Indian statement, including interviews with Gandhi and Rao's speech to parlia-

McHenry met immediately with Saudi strongman Crown Prince Fahd, who only eight days ago told President Carter's national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski that the Arab world was not interested in his concept of a U.S. security umbrella for the Middle East if it meant American bases on Arab soil.

McHenry received the same message in Kuwait, and was expected to be repeated in Saudi Arabia, America's largest oil supplier.

U.S. wins access to bases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's armed forces have received tentative permission to use military facilities in Oman, Somalia and Kenya, administration officials said Tuesday.

But the officials cautioned that negotiators still must work out details of formal agreements that would give the United States enough muscle to send troops rapidly into such trouble spots as Iran and Afghanistan.

The U.S. aides said details still under discussion include the extent of the facilities to be provided and the manner in which the United States would pay the three nations.

The White House, Pentagon and State Department refused to confirm the offers officially, but aides expressed optimism of "eventually signing agreements in each case."

"It's no secret negotiations are moving forward in a constructive fashion," a White House official said.

Ridha Abdul-Latif, first secretary of Oman's embassy in Washington, said his nation has agreed to grant the United States access to refueling and storage facilities on the island of Masira in the Arabian Sea.

"We're not giving the United States a base," Abdul-Latif emphasized. "We're just letting them use facilities at our base."

Oman, a Kansas-sized nation of about 100,000 people on the southeastern coast of the Arabian peninsula, has been pressing for military ties with a major power since British forces withdrew from the area a decade ago.

A U.S. official said the negotiations with Kenya and Somalia were "significantly less advanced" than the Oman talks.

Sheriff Earl Brown planning to leave law enforcement

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

GOODING — "Judge (James) Gossett pulled a lot of power in those days. When he told you to do something, you darn well did it," remembered Gooding County Sheriff Earl Brown.

In 1958, Gossett told first year city police officer Earl Brown he was going to run for sheriff.

"He came out to where I was farming and told me he wanted me to run for sheriff. I put down my shovel and told him, 'No, I sure won't.' But I did... didn't?" Brown chuckled.

Twelve years after that first reluctant campaign, Brown, 30, has decided to say goodbye to law enforcement and return to farming. Brown figures it's going to be a tough transition, but one that was inevitable for him.

"I was born on a ranch, and I kind of looked back and thought I always wanted to do what my dad had done," Brown said.

He and his wife, Linda, have purchased about 1,100 acres, only three miles from his birth place just north of Gooding.

"I've had the opportunity to learn a lot and get a lot of education in this office," Brown said. "Sure, I've made mistakes, but I've always done things to the best of my ability, and I think it's come out to the good of the people. I'm proud of that."

Accompanying his decision not to seek re-election, Brown announced his support for one of his five deputies, Robert Aja, in the Gooding County Sheriff race this year.

Relaxed in his office at the new Gooding County Courthouse, Brown said shuffling means different things to him.

One aspect of the job for him is taking on a political identity. But it also means dangling from ropes over 400-foot cliffs in the Snake River Canyon near Bliss trying to recover bottles from mangled automobiles.

"Those things just have to be done. There are also a lot of joys in this job, like telling a family their kid is OK following a bad accident, or helping a friend's son away from drugs," Brown said.

Candidates interested

GOODING — Two local residents have expressed an interest in running for departing Gooding County Sheriff Earl Brown's position.

Gooding County sheriff's deputy Robert Aja, 47, has announced his candidacy for the job in the Republican primary election May 27.

A second Republican, Gooding Juvenile Probation Officer Jim Finch, said he is seriously considering running against Aja.

"At this time, I'm about three-quarters sure I'm going to run," Finch said. "I'll decide soon, at least by Thursday."

Finch served 12 years with the Idaho State Police before accepting the probation officer position three years ago. Last election

Finch lost a close race, by only 21 votes, to Brown.

Brown is supporting Aja as his replacement.

Aja has served as a deputy sheriff for three and one-half years. He moved to Idaho in 1971 and lives in the Tuttle-Hagerman area. Aja was a graduate of the Idaho Peace Officer's Academy. He operated a sheep and cattle ranch in Arizona before his move to Gooding County.

Aja said his working relationship with prosecuting attorney Severd Swenson and the Gooding County courts qualifies him as a candidate. He said that he will campaign on an continuing consistent law enforcement and juvenile prevention programs in Gooding County.

Sewer rates due to rise

GOODING Gooding residents will probably be paying higher sewer rates beginning with the March billing.

City Council members plan to approve the rate increase Feb. 15 to finance the city's planned sewage treatment plant.

This action follows a public meeting on the proposed rate increase Monday night. Only nine Gooding residents attended the hearing.

If the resolution is passed by the City Council, the sewer rate will increase from $1.75 to $6.50 per month. According to Mayor Gene Heller, this $2.50 monthly increase will pay the city's share of the sewer plant project within two years.

Heller said the $2.75 rate increase would be re-evaluated prior to the end of the two-year pay-out period.

"At that point the engineers will be able to tell us how much it's going to cost to operate the new plant," Heller said.

Wendell superintendent resigns post

WENDELL Wendell School District Superintendent Lawrence Lattue submitted his resignation Monday, effective at the end of this school year.

"I've had a lot of pressure on me this year, and I guess I'm just worn out," Lattue said. "I also think from time to time a change in administration is good for the district."

Lattue has served as superintendent for 13 years. This school year he is also serving as high school principal and guidance counselor.

"I just don't have the time to devote to both full-time jobs," Lattue explained.

The Wendell School District has been recently criticized by education organizations for not employing a guidance counselor.

According to board member Clayton Pugh, school board members knew in advance of Lattue's decision.

"We weren't surprised. He'd told us during an executive meeting," Pugh said.

Pugh said the board intends to hire both a superintendent and a high school principal for next year. Plans are also being considered for hiring a guidance counselor for the district.

"I don't have any plans yet for after school is done," Lattue said.

"Perhaps I'll stay in school administration. I'm also looking at other opportunities as well, though."

Lincoln County reappraisal done

SITUATION Reappraisal of rural land in Lincoln County has been completed and higher taxes may be in store for some taxpayers next period.

"We don't know for sure what impact the reappraisal is going to have on taxes at this point," said Everett (Buck) Ward, Lincoln County Commission chairman. "I'm sure some property assessments will come up, but some will probably go down too."

The reappraisal brings property assessments to 1974 levels as mandated by the Idaho Legislature. Top ground appraisals in Lincoln County are about $200 per acre without buildings and other improvements. The previous high figure was about $250.

However, Ward said, some property values will be assessed lower than during previous years.

According to Ward, the reappraisal's exact impact won't be known until the county assessor reviews all the appraisals and issues early summer valuation sheets to property owners.

Grade school site purchase wins OK

HAZELTON The Valley School Board approved the purchased Monday of land for a new elementary school.

Superintendent Arlyn Boddy said the land is located just south of the present high school on the Owen Severance farm. He said the board is aiming for a May bond election for the new school.

The board also selected an architect, Jim Smallwood of Twin Falls, and picked Idaho First National Bank as fiscal agent for the proposed organizations for not employing a guidance counselor.

Boddy said preliminary plans for the new school will be presented to both the Eden and Hazelton communities as they are available.

In other business, the board approved accreditation reports giving a clean bill of health to both the high school and elementary programs.

Directors reviewed the contracts of principals Dale Tiley and Bruce Sorumson, and agreed to hold their first meeting with teachers to discuss contracts Thursday night.

Trade in sugar futures keeps booming

NEW YORK (UPI) — Although the Coffee, Cocoa & Sugar Exchange Inc. was closed Tuesday, officially to commemorate Lincoln's Birthday, most brokers and employees were busy updating their records from the recent explosive trading in sugar futures.

An exchange spokesman said the closing was to allow office staff time to clear up the backlog of paperwork. As a result of recent record volume sessions the exchange Monday took emergency action to shorten trading by one hour for the next month. Opening has been delayed in sugar

UP hikes grain loadings

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Union Pacific Railroad grain shipments loaded in Idaho were up 12 percent in 1979. That contributed to what company President John C. Kenefick said "was the greatest year in history for grain shipments" on the railroad. Kenefick said grain loaded onto the railroad's cars nationally totaled 152,000 covered hoppers shipped compared with slightly more than 117,000 during 1978. Grain tonnage on the railroad in 1979 was 14.4 million, an increase of 29 percent over 1978 figures. In Idaho 15,612 grain cars were loaded during 1979, compared with 13,949 during 1978, a 12 percent increase. He said the railroad sent 1,121 special-union grain trains west in 1979 with 85 percent of those headed for export.

"Agriculture proved once more how important it is to the total economy," Kenefick said. "The fact that the company cannot calculate the impact of the Soviet grain embargo, but said rising living standards in Japan, the Republic of China, Korea, Taiwan and Mexico have created a demand for U.S. grain exports."

Hecla awards deep shaft contract

WALLACE (UPI) — Hecla Mining Co. has awarded a contract to J.S. Redpath Corp., Tempo, Ariz., to sink the new 7,500-foot shaft at Hecla's Lucky Friday Mine near Mullan. The $26 million project reflects the faith of Hecla in reserves in the Lucky Friday area, management believes present mining depths, said Art Brown, Hecla's manager of operations. He said the mine is expected to produce the nation's most valuable ore because of its extraordinarily rich silver-lead content.

The mine has produced more than $250 million in net smelter returns since commercial production began in 1942.

Brown said the new shaft will be circular, the first of its kind in the Coeur d'Alene mining region in northern Idaho. He said the four-compartment shaft will be concrete lined and will be 18 feet wide. Groundbreaking is scheduled April 1.

Auto deductions save

Field Enterprises, Inc. (Part 3 of a 10-part series) If you use your car for business, for moving to a new job, for doing charitable work, for visits to a doctor, hospital, etc., you should be able to save taxes by deducting the cost of such auto travel, assuming you itemize your deductions.

The Internal Revenue Service does not insist that you must figure out the actual deductible costs of the use of your car for the above purposes. IRS is willing to let you use instead of the actual costs the following flat mileage deductions:

On your 1979 return, 18 1/2 cents for the first 15,000 miles of business travel against 17 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of such travel on your 1978 return; 10 cents a mile for mileage over 15,000, unchanged from 1978's allowance; eight cents a mile for moving, medical or charitable purposes against seven cents a mile for these purposes in 1978. An exceedingly feeble, skinflint attempt by the IRS to reflect the actual inflation in costs of auto travel indeed!

These flat deductions "can be far below your actual costs."

A recent study by Hertz Corp., cited by the Research Institute of America, concluded that the costs of a new intermediate size car that will be driven 10,000 miles and used for three years was 38 cents a mile. The per-mile costs drop for smaller cars and longer use. However, a subcompact driven 10,000 miles per year for 10 years still will cost 21 cents a mile. And these figures are out of date even as they are calculated because of zooming costs of fuel and other items. Avoid being limited to use of the IRS flat mileage allowance and loading yourself with unnecessary taxes by keeping good records of the actual costs of your car. It is not tough. If your actual costs turn out to be significantly higher than the flat mileage allowance, save on taxes by using your actual costs in claiming your deduction.

If your costs run about or under what the flat mileage allowance permits, just use the IRS figures.

To show you how to figure out the actual costs of using your car for business, suppose you bought an auto for $8,000, which you will use in business for three years, after which the car will have an assumed salvage value of $2,500. During '79, you drove the car 20,000 miles for business use. The IRS 18 1/2 cents — 10 cents mileage allowance formula for '79 would give you a $3,275 deduction (15,000 miles at 18 1/2 cents plus 5,000 miles at 10 cents). But if you only get 15 miles to a gallon of gas at an average cost of $1 a gallon, your actual cost for gas alone would have run about $1,300. With insurance costing about $1,000 and depreciation at about $1,900, you already have an actual cost of $4,100 — without even considering the cost of repairs, oil, etc. This dwarfs the IRS flat deduction of only $3,275.

If you bought a new car in 1979 for use in your business or in your job such as working as a salesman — don't overlook taking the investment credit to which you are entitled, no matter whether your car expense deduction is figured on your actual costs or by using the IRS flat mileage allowance. Just how much your investment credit will be will depend on the expected useful life of your car. If you expect to use the car for three and less than five years, your credit is 20 percent of the cost of the car, which credit is applied as a direct deduction of your tax. On a $9,000 car, that credit would be $1,800.

If you expected to use the car for five years or more but for not as many as seven years, your credit would be $600.

If you expected to use the car for seven or more years, your investment credit would be $900.

To get this credit, fill out Form 4561 and file it together with your 1979 return, says the Research Institute of America.

Caution: You no longer can claim an itemized deduction for the taxes on gas or other motor fuel used, for non-business purposes. If you use the standard deduction, zero bracket amount and do not itemize, this is no loss. But even if you itemize your deductions, the added tax from loss of this deduction should be relatively insignificant.

Next: Medical Expenses.

Buying sends industrials up

Closing prices

Wednesday, February 13, 1980 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho A-15

By FRANK W. SLUSSER

UPT BUSINESS WRITER
NEW YORK — Foreign investors and institutions went on a late buying spree that drove the Dow Jones industrial average to a 16-month high Tuesday in active Lincoln's birthday trading.

The closely watched Dow average climbed 9.33 points to 896.98, the highest level since 7 months at 901.42 on Oct. 11, 1979, and 102.31 points above its Nov. 7 close of 796.67.

Followers of the Dow Theory of the market said that since the Dow Jones transportation average hit an all-time high last Friday, the Industrials' move to a new high ground indicated stocks may be in for a substantial slump.

The Dow transportation, which soared 22 points last week, fell 3.41 points to 227.52. But the New York Stock Exchange index rose 0.40 to 67.51 and the price of a share added 21 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.78 to 117.90.

Declines edged advances, 773 to 744, among the 3,500 issues traded.

Big Board volume totaled 48,000,000 shares, down from the 56,600,000 traded Monday.

Some traders were cashing in on gains they made in last week's speculative bling in air and natural resource issues. But Indiana Standard said they may have a gigantic find in the Overthrust Belt in Wyoming. More testing must be done.

Declines in volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 15,620,000 shares, compared with 65,715,100 Monday.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 2.26 to 283.31 and the price of a share added 16 cents. The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of OTC stocks gained 0.11 to 164.57.

A number of blue-chip leaders attracted attention because they were thought to be undervalued. Eastman Kodak gained 2 1/2 to 49, Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing 2 1/2 to 52 1/2, IBM 2 1/2 to 68 1/2, Procter & Gamble 1 1/2 to 72 1/2, International Paper 1 1/2 to 43 1/2 and Owens-Illinois 1 1/2 to 23 1/2.

Gulf & Western was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up 1 1/2 to 21 1/2. Texaco, a 1 1/2-point loser Monday, was the second most active issue, up 1/2 to 39 1/2.

El Paso Corp., third on the active list, was unchanged at 27 after the company reported its first test of the Jewell No. 1, well in southern Louisiana was unproductive.

Texas Pacific Land Trust gained 5 1/2 to 13. The company voted for a 3-for-1 stock split and declared an annual dividend payout of 55 cents.

Rails, which were big winners in last week's rally, were hurt for the second consecutive session. Many of those companies own land in the Overthrust Belt in Wyoming. Also, some analysts the rail haulage should benefit from increased use of coal.

Nevertheless, Union Pacific, which owns a large tract in Overthrust, shed 1 1/2 to 69 1/2. Burlington Northern lost 1 1/2 to 75 1/2. St. Louis-San Francisco 1 to 68, Southern Pacific 1/2 to 43 and Kansas City Southern 1/2 to 37 1/2.

Handy & Harman advanced 1 1/2 to 41 after a delayed opening. The precious metals handler said it could not explain the delay in its stock.

Philadelphia Suburban gained 2 1/2 to 41 1/2 in active trading. The company reported fourth-quarter earnings of 93 cents a share versus 87 cents a year ago.

Kaiser Steel climbed 4 1/2 to 37 after a delayed opening of 69,100 shares at 35 1/2. The company says its plans to tender its 8.7 million Kaiser Resources shares to Kaiser Resources for $13 a share.

The Vancouver, B.C.-based Kaiser Resources Ltd., meanwhile, has agreed to sell its Canadian oil interests to Dome Petroleum for $700 million. Dome Petco gained 1 1/2 to 62 1/2 on the American Stock Exchange.

On the Amex, declines totaled 10 issues, 331 to 235, among the 857 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 7,160,750 shares, compared with 8,692,000 Monday.

Atlas Consolidated Mining class B was the most active issue, unchanged at 7 1/2. Houston Oil & Minerals followed, up 1/2 to 41 1/2. General Exploration was third, up 1/2 to 51 1/2.

Hudson's Bay Oil & Gas, a 5 1/2-point winner Monday, tacked on 5 1/2 to 107 1/2. The company last week announced a 4-for-1 stock split.

In the OTC market, declines edged advances, 594 to 456, among the 22,255,200 shares traded. Volume totaled 34,613,300 Monday.

Politics doesn't pay

BOISE (UPI) — An Idaho Health and Welfare Department employee, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the 1st Congressional District race...

The letter informed McKay that he should resign by 5 p.m. Monday or "then our welfare officials would fire him, McKay said.

Terry McKay, 32, Kuna, announced Thursday that he was seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Rep. Steve Symms, a Republican.

McKay said he believes he should not be forced to leave his job until April 1, when he will file his petition and official declaration of candidacy and pay a $150 filing fee.

Jerome trapper hit with huge fine

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Alha J. Kriwox, 31, a government fur trapper from Jerome, Idaho, Monday was fined $4,000 and placed on four years probation for helping to illegally sell 131 coyote furs and 32 bobcat furs on an Idaho buyer.

Kriwox had admitted he helped another trapper sell the furs on Jan. 7, 1978, and Jan. 5, 1979.

Kriwox received the penalty from U.S. Magistrate Edward Leavay, who also ordered him to volunteer 100 hours of community service.

Government fur trappers, hired to kill predators, are prohibited from trapping and selling furs on their own statute it is considered a conflict of interest.

New plan proposed for Albion school

ALBION — The deserted campus of Albion State Normal School is once again under scrutiny for possible development.

The government sells the furs at auction.

Carl Sudbury, a planner with Ecotec, the planning arm of Bonneville Development Corporation of Salt Lake City, said Tuesday the company will propose to the Albion City Council that an art and commercial complex be built at the site.

When asked if his company is interested in purchasing the property as part of the total plan, Sudbury said the idea is being examined as a means of broadening the base. He stressed any decision on that is premature now.

Union may sue to even Idaho taxes

BOISE (UPI) — A fairer tax break for Idaho homeowners is being sought by the state AFL-CIO through equalization of taxes assessed on all properties, the union's president said today.

The AFL-CIO noted that many properties, such as farms, are assessed on the basis of income in determining market value, while rent and personal property valuations are established by "replacement cost" or "reproduction cost."

Idaho homeowners are "bearing an unfair and unequal share of the property tax burden" under the present method of taxation, Robert Klinghorn, Idaho AFL-CIO president, told a Boise news conference.

first petitioned last August in accordance with a resolution adopted by the AFL-CIO at its annual meeting in November. The petition was followed by a second request in December, but Klinghorn said this apparently was lost in the mail and a new demand was filed this month.

There can be no fair implementation until this problem is addressed, Klinghorn said.

He said the union has petitioned the Idaho Tax Commission to change the present method of taxing farms and business property. He said the commission will have 30 days to respond to the union demand, then a lawsuit may be initiated if there is not a favorable response.

"It's our hope the commission will look favorably upon our request," Klinghorn said, adding that the "property tax is the most blatant form of tax unfairness."

The current legislation session is haphazard with the proper method of implementation of the 1 percent initiative, which was approved by the electorate at the polls in 1975.

He said the union has petitioned the Idaho Tax Commission to change the present method of taxing farms and business property. He said the commission will have 30 days to respond to the union demand, then a lawsuit may be initiated if there is not a favorable response.

He said that the AFL-CIO wants the commission to adopt new ones. The labor leader said if the Legislature had spoken to this problem several years ago, there would

Land Board paves way for northern pipeline

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Land Board today gave preliminary approval to a Northern Tier Pipeline Co. request to obtain right of way for installation of a crude oil pipeline over 2 1/2 miles of state-owned land in northern Idaho.

6,900 feet near McCloud Hill in Blaine County.

saying that Idahoans should be given the opportunity to approve or disapprove the location.

Attorney General David Leroy, a member of the Land Board, hinged a condition for permanent approval, however, on Northern Tier's ability to "render the State of Idaho harmless to any environmental problem" if the pipeline were to break.

Leroy then asked board members to approve a conditioned preliminary approval, which orders Northern Tier to return to the Land Board for approval when the exact location is determined.

making essential a condition requiring Northern Tier to compensate the state for any environmental damage.

The sections of pipeline would be installed over a 5,200-foot long section in Blaine County south of Heyburn State Park, along 400 feet over top of the St. Joe River and along Leroy's motion also allows the Land Board to revoke its preliminary approval if Northern Tier doesn't "render us harmless from any environmental damage" as a result of the pipeline.

Northern Tier is proposing to build the crude oil pipeline from Fort Angeles, Wash., to Clearbrook, Minn., to transport 50 percent Alaskan oil and the remainder foreign oil; a spokesman said.

Rent break for Gooding hospital refused

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Land Board members Tuesday balked at reducing rental charges to the group leasing the old state tuberculosis hospital in Gooding, saying they would be the target of public attack if they aided a private agency.

Bergstrom added, "We're a struggling program and our aim is to keep the cost of treatment down and we can't do that and pay this rent, too."

$146,000 that had been allocated to the committee for maintenance of the facility. Representatives of the group said they are maintaining the structure for a total of about that figure, and said, in fact, the state probably could not find another tenant for what they said was an "energy inefficient" building.

The committee, which operates an alcoholic treatment center, has occupied the old hospital in Gooding since July 1. The lease offered by the Land Board has been rejected by the committee because the group can't pay the price, spokesmen said Tuesday.

"I think we could be subject to some very severe criticism by the public, by subsidizing this program that is not supported by the Legislature," land board members instructed the committee to seek legislative funding and to work with Trombley during the next month. They said the committee should present Trombley with rental rates they can afford to pay, and then the Land Board will consider taking action.

Escape attempt fails

TWIN FALLS — A 17-year-old inmate of the Twin Falls County Jail was back in custody Tuesday after a Monday night escape following a fake suicide attempt.

Major Hank Woodall said the council, on the advice of its attorney, declined to comment on the session, saying publicity would give the opportunity for information concerning the city's legal system.

Bundy to die: Judge

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) - Circuit Judge William M. Jopling Tuesday sentenced Theodore Bundy to die for the "shockingly evil" murder of a 12-year-old girl - his third sex-murder and his third death sentence in Florida.

The judge refused to consider the last minute request of chief defender J. Victor Africano that sentence be deferred for psychiatric evaluation of the 33-year-old defendant. Nor was Jopling swayed by a 20-minute speech that ended with Bundy declaring his innocence.

"While I bear the awesome consequences of your sentence, your honor, I bear time of the guilt because I did not kill Kimberly Leach," Bundy said calmly.

A circuit jury of seven women and five men convicted him Thursday of kidnapping the pretty seventh grader from Lake City Junior High School on Feb. 9, 1978 and dumping her dead body in a rusty old pig pen 25 miles away. Prosecutors said the condition of the ripped, bloody clothing piled beside her half-nude body indicated Kim was raped twice.

"The court finds this kidnapping and murder was, indeed, heinous, atrocious and cruel in that it was extremely wicked, shockingly evil, vile and with utter indifference to human life," Jopling said as Bundy sat, poker faced, before him.

"You have evidenced every ability that a young man can expect to have to succeed in life. Where a life such as yours is wasted (like) this, it's a terrible circumstance for this court to face," the judge said sadly.

Bundy is a handsome former law student staunchly defended as a victim of circumstance by friends and family from Washington state, where he was reared.

"You went the wrong way, partner," Circuit Judge Edward Cowart told Bundy last summer at his televised murder trial, adding that he would have made a good attorney. Cowart gave him two death sentences for the 1978 sex-slayings of two Florida State sorority sisters in Tallahassee.

"I do share in Judge Cowart's feelings in regard to what you could have done - you were elected -" Jopling said. "May God have mercy on your soul."

Bundy attacked his trial as a "sensational and bizarre parody" of justice. Bundy spoke calmly and without a trace of the emotion that filled his tearful plea for mercy that jurors disregarded Saturday when they recommended the death penalty.

"The evidence in this case did not come solely from the witness stand - it came from the newsstand and the television set. It came from the town gossip," said Bundy.

Counselor in case found dead

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - A clinical psychologist who apparently shot himself to death in a boat in the Gulf of Mexico was despondent over the recent murder conviction of Theodore Bundy, Wakulla County Sheriff David Harvey said Tuesday.

Harvey said David S. Kuypers's wife, Joan, told him the Tallahassee man "was upset over the verdict" in the kidnap-slaying of a Lake City school girl. Kuypers assisted the defense in this trial and one last year in which Bundy was sentenced to die for the murders of two Florida State University sorority sisters.

Harvey said Kuypers, 40, said he also had domestic and job-related pressures.

He was found dead in his boat in the Gulf off Alligator Point, 30 miles west of Tallahassee, Sunday with one bullet wound in his head.

No gun was found. Harvey said it may have been washed overboard by 16 foot waves in which the fiberglass boat floundered for two days.

He said Kuypers was alone in his boat when he left a Shell Point marina Friday, saying he was going fishing. His wife, who said through a family spokesman she had no comment, drove him to Shell Point, 1978, abduction.

"It is officially a suicide now, although we're going to continue the investigation," Harvey said.

Kuypers sat at the defense table last week in Bundy's trial for killing Kimberly Diane Leach, 12.

Harvey did not know if Kuypers was upset over the earlier convictions for the sorority house murders, but said Mrs. Kuypers told him, "the guilty verdict at Orlando hit him hard."

Defense counsel Victor Africano said Kuypers did not seem upset at the trial.

"It wasn't that he was doing it here Ted Bundy. He was just down here doing a job," he said.

Kuypers provided the defense with information on hypnosis which Bundy used in challenging the testimony of a key prosecution witness who was hypnotized to refresh his memory of the Leach girl's Feb. 9, 1978, abduction from her school campus.

The marine patrol found Kuypers' 16-foot boat Sunday, but heavy seas kept it from being brought to shore until Monday.

Wyoming still an MX site?

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — An Air Force officer connected with planning for the massive MX missile system says putting portions of it in Wyoming would not be a stretch, but the chairman of a local liaison committee Tuesday maintained that Wyoming was still being considered.

Lt. Col. Melvin Castillo, an engineer with the Air Force's ballistic missile office at Norton Air Force Base in California, told a meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce Monday that "building portions of the mobile-based missile system in Wyoming would mean using what he called the "split-basing" mode.

"That would mean, Castillo said, separating some of the 200 missile "racetracks" from the main cluster of tracks proposed for the deserts of Utah and Nevada.

"At this time the split-basing mode is not a viable alternative with the Air Force," Castillo said.

The Air Force has proposed filling about 60 Utah and Nevada desert valleys with 200 giant racetracks, each about 45 miles around. On each racetrack, a missile would be towed between shelters on mobile launchers, thus deceiving the Soviets about the precise location of each missile.

It would be the largest public works project in American history, and would not be completed until 1989.

Last year Gov. Ed Herschler asked Washington to reconsider its rejection of Wyoming's open prairies as a possible location for the system. But despite a lack of encouragement from the Air Force, Wyoming officials, including Herschler, have maintained the state was still being considered.

On Jan. 23, Air Force Undersecretary Antonia Handler Chayes told the House Interior Committee the government preferred to base the missiles in Utah and Nevada and that no other state was a "clear" second choice.

Moreover, she said alternative sites were examined in Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, California, Colorado and Nebraska. Wyoming was not mentioned.

Nevertheless, retired Air Force Col. James E. Cowan, now a local banker, said Tuesday the chances of bringing portions of the MX to Wyoming "look better all the time."

He said one reason Air Force officials want to put the MX in one area, rather than using the "split-basing mode," is because of the terms of the proposed Salt II treaty.

"For verification, it's easier to put them in one place," he said.

ERA memo blasted as 'dumb act'

CARSON CITY (AP) — A spokesman for Gov. Robert List today blasted a U.S. Energy Department memo calling for a agency boycott of states that have not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment.

List's press secretary Bill Phillips says the memo was "dumb" and on the part of federal bureaucrats. The federal government doesn't have any business getting involved in this. This is totally uncalled for.

Phillips pointed out List, when he was attorney general, sued the National Organization for Women for conducting an economic boycott of states which have not ratified the ERA. That suit is still pending and so is a counterclaim of $20 million dollars against List.

The boycott memo, written by energy department staff assistant Mary Gant said, "The deputy secretary has asked that you avoid scheduling his DME activities in states that have not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment—when possible." The memo gave the list of 14 states which have not approved ERA.

Gant said she wrote the memo in behalf of Deputy Secretary John Sawhill and Deanne Siemer, a special assistant to Energy Secretary Charles Dunaican.

Nevada is among those which have not ratified ERA.

Army discloses chemical leaks, newspaper says

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — U.S. Army personnel have been exposed to leaking chemical weapons stored in the United States, according to a report published in the Oregonian.

The newspaper, in an article published in Tuesday's editions, said the Army disclosed that nearly 1,000 leaking weapons are now in storage at six military installations across the country.

The disclosures were made in response to written questions submitted to the Department of Defense last November by The Oregonian.

The Army did not specify where or when the exposures occurred. Umattila depot commander Lt. Col. Guy M. Lovince earlier said he was not aware of any nerve agent exposures at his installation.

Some 66 weapons at the Umattila depot were formerly announced to be leaking. The Army also said that some of its test animals used to detect minute traces of nerve gas vapor have died from exposure to war chemicals, but no such incidents were reported at Umattila.

Railroad crews at Lodi, Calif., work to clean up wreckage in wake of collision, derailment of two freight trains

Train crash laid on 'human error'

LODI, Calif. (UPI) — Southern Pacific officials say "human error" was to blame for a 13-car train falling to obey a red stop signal light and smashing into another freight train at a switching yard.

Lloyd Simpson, SP assistant general manager, said the engineer and brakeman of a northbound freight failed to obey a red stop light at a small switching yard and plowed into a southbound train with 42 cars on it.

The collision partly Monday derailed six cars and four engines and blocked the SP's main north-south lines during a massive cleanup. There were only three minor injuries.

Simpson estimated damage at $225,000 with said $30,000 needed to clean up about 1,000 gallons of fuel spilled from two oil tanks ruptured on one of the trains.

The drain system was immediately sealed to prevent the contaminated water from reaching irrigated San Joaquin Valley farmlands west of Lodi.

The northbound train out of Colton was nearly empty except for carrying some pot ash used in making steel. The southbound freight was bound for Pittsburg and was carrying rolled steel sheets.

SEATTLE (UPI) — A couple of months ago John Black of Seattle placed a small newspaper advertisement which said: "Rowing in Alaska, Summer 1980. Need Rowers?"

About 60 persons responded.

Then Black, 32, carefully selected three to join him on the 900-mile adventure from Seattle to Glacier Bay in Alaska.

Black and his associates Lucy Reid and Paul Rerucha, a married couple and both graduate nurses, and graduate biologist Lou Holm are busy building a pair of Swamphoot dories, one of them almost finished.

Rerucha, an outdoorsman and mountain climber, proved his sincerity in applying for the trip by saying he would quit his job at Children's Orthopedic Hospital when the early summer trip begins. His wife persuaded Black she'd be a good team member by telling of her experiences paddling a kayak.

Ms. Holm, who was a member of a women's rowing team at Oxford, England, said she applied "because the ad appealed to my sense of whimsy."

"As for Black, why is he doing it?" "There's this line from Kurt Vonnegut," he explains. "It goes something like 'Unusual travel suggestions are dancing lessons from the gods.'"

Laetrile treatment bill gains Brown's support

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A repeatedly unsuccessful bill to legalize laetrile as a cancer treatment has won the backing of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Gray Davis, Brown's chief of staff, said Monday the governor would support the bill by state Senate Republican leader William Campbell that would permit physicians to prescribe laetrile to patients suffering from cancer with no hope of another cure.

He said patients would have to be warned of the arguments against laetrile, a substance made from the pits of apricots and other fruits that has generated controversy over its effectiveness as a cancer treatment.

The Brown administration's Department of Health Services opposed a similar bill by Campbell last year and the measure died in the Senate Health and Welfare Committee, one vote short of approval. Similar measures have failed in recent years.

The governor this time "is relying on his own instincts" rather than yielding to the recommendations of his health appointees, Davis said. The department will back the bill, he added.

Davis said Brown does not "support the representation that laetrile is effective," but believes that cancer patients who want laetrile treatments should be permitted to have them.

Trapper an 'amateur'

BEND, Ore. (UPI) — A trapper believed to be a "rank amateur" left traps baited with live dead puppies and a dead cat near Tomalo State Park, say Deschutes County sheriff's officers.

Sheriff's deputies said Monday the dead animals were discovered during the weekend by Mark Donaway, 21, who was walking near the Deschutes River about 300 yards north of the park. Donaway also found a dog caught in a leg-hold trap near the puppies and took the animal to a veterinarian for treatment of the injured leg.

Donaway found the dog's owner,

John Thwaitts, Tumalo, Ore. He said the animal had been missing for two days.

Deputies said they were searching for the trapper after finding that the puppies had apparently been beaten on the head before being placed in a circle around the dead cat. They said four leg-hold traps, hidden beneath dry grass in a circle around the puppies, were set on the west bank about 30 feet from the water.

"Sounds like a rank amateur," said State Police Game Officer Luke Scarlett. "Coyotes or mink would never go into a trap like that. All they could catch with bait like that was dogs."

Spokane delays decision

SPOKANE (UPI) — The Spokane City Council put off for one year a decision to ban on-street parking on several north-south arterials through downtown Spokane.

The plan was suggested to help clean up the air and facilitate traffic flow through the center.

Downtown property owners had sought the delay, saying the removal of some 270 parking spaces would hurt business.

The group also pointed out that Spokane's record of nonpollutance had improved dramatically over the past few years, suggesting the ban was not yet needed.

In another surprise move, the council denied a building permit for a high-density apartment complex near the entrance to Fort Wright College.

Builder Larry Kohler now must scale down the proposal if he wants construct units on the site.

Butz ikes grain cutoff

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Earl Butz, who served as agriculture secretary under two Republican presidents, says Democrat Jimmy Carter made a good decision by prohibiting grain exports to the Soviet Union.

President Carter issued the grain embargo following the Soviet military invasion of Afghanistan last month.

Butz told the 45th Annual Grocers Association Convention Monday "the U.S. is just beginning to understand the powerful weapon of food."

"I think Carter used the strongest lever against the Russians he has short of military action," he said.

"If I had to do it all over again, I would still authorize grain sales to Russia because it makes them depend on us for grain to feed their cattle."

The former agriculture secretary said he would have imposed the embargo on all goods, rather than excluding some of the items Carter exempted from the embargo, such as computer equipment and some medical supplies.

"When you're engaged in this kind of conflict, you should discipline them across the board," Butz said.

Mower drill teams really cutting up

By STEVE HARVEY
The Los Angeles Times
PASADENA, Calif. — Just who deserves the title of World's Premier Precision Lawn Mower Drill Team, anyway?

That perplexing question arose after a Lake Bluff, Ill., man wrote to the Wall Street Journal to protest an article that reported that the No. 1 team on the planet had motored in Pasadena's recent Doo Dah Parade, the parody of the Tournament of Roses Parade.

The World's Premier Precision Lawn Mower Drill team is not in Pasadena, nor has it performed there; it only performs at the Lake Bluff, Ill., annual Fourth of July Parade, wrote Harold Hay, the commander of the Lake Bluff squad.

Not true, responded Jim Foster and Judy Gray, co-captains of the Doo Dah entry, dubbed Toro! Toro! Toro!

(after a lawn mower company named Toro).
"We had to march behind an equine unit," pointed out Foster. "It took unbelievable precision to maneuver around, and only occasionally through, all the miniature."

Gray scoffed at the significance of the fact that Lake Bluff's team was founded five years before Toro!

"That doesn't mean they were the first," she said. "Isn't there a theory that thousands of years ago astronauts from another planet landed here and formed precision lawn mower teams on the island of Atlantis?"

Although each side lays claim to the same title, one bears little resemblance to the other.

Toro! featured nine identical whirling red lawn mowers (loaned by the company) while Lake Bluff's a suburb of Chicago favored a motley assortment of 12 cutters, two of which were found at a city dump.

Toro's nine yardwork artists performed their figure-eights in uniforms festooned with garden hoses in lieu of military braid, under the command of a man who substituted trash can lids for eyeballs.

"Metal ones, too," said Foster. "The're hard to find these days. Most trash cans are rubber."

Lake Bluff's mowers, who wear different costumes every year, showed up as shinks last July 4, apparently to dramatize what good mileage lawn mowers get.

Hay, of Lake Bluff, thinks his team's greatest accomplishment was turning down an offer to appear on the Mike Douglas Show.

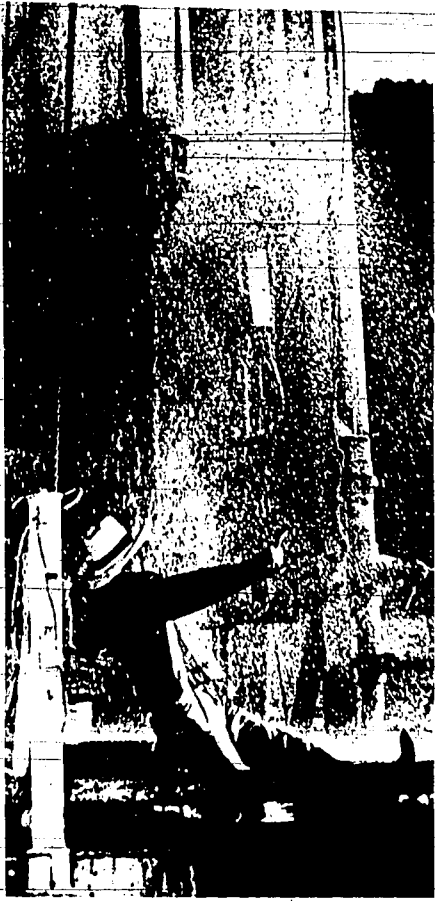

"The producer just couldn't believe a bunch of rum-dums like us would say no," he recalled with a chuckle.

In his letter to the Wall Street Journal, he proposed to solve the rival claims to the Lawn Mower Throne by having a National Mow-Off.

Toro! has accepted the challenge in principle, and both sides are searching for sponsors. Two lawn mower companies and one advertising agency have expressed interest.

Possible neutral sites for the duel have been mentioned (the White House Lawn, Forest Lawn, etc.), but both sides seem more interested in a home-and-home series with Toro! traveling to Lake Bluff for the Fourth of July Parade and Lake Bluff coming to Pasadena for the Doo Dah.

Toro's Gray and Foster are worried about the gasoline situation, though. "My mower is even," says Gray, "and Jim's is old."

Earning his pay

Stuntman Jerry Willis didn't have to act to bring across a scene from the movie "Roughneck." A violent scene — a torrent of mud driven by natural gas escaping through the floor of a drilling rig — came off stronger than expected and sent Willis flying. He was unhurt but thoroughly plastered by the muck. The scene was shot in an oil field near Venice, Calif.

Rallies on campus oppose new draft

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Students staged a "death-in" chanted slogans and cheered anti-war activists at campus rallies across California in the first major protest against renewed draft registration.

The statewide gatherings Monday were reminiscent of the Vietnam era protests of a decade ago, but lacked much of the enthusiasm.

Many of the speakers, however, elicited loud cheers from the crowds. Daniel Ellsberg told a rally at Berkeley: "I commit myself to encourage, counsel, aid and abet those who stand in non-violent resistance" to the draft.

More protests and "teach-ins" were scheduled for today at Harvard and other East Coast universities.

Demonstrations took place Monday at 15 California campuses from San Diego to Sacramento, but one of the biggest was at Berkeley, where Ellsberg warned a crowd of thousands against the kind of unquestioning obedience to the Rev. Jim Jones that caused more than 900 Peoples Temple members to die in a murder-suicide ritual in Guyana in 1978.

"Like a generation of parents who sent their sons to war unthinkingly without asking why does my son have to go and die, like Jim Jones, we keep hearing: 'This is only a drill, trust me,'" Ellsberg said.

"Thrice born Jimmy Carter is reborn again as President Jim Jones. We all live in Guyana now."

Following Ellsberg's talk, some of the students followed rally organizers' instructions to "lay down on the ground and pretend you're dead as a symbol of how the world will look if there is a nuclear war."

Some 1,500 people turned out for a rally at the California State University at Sacramento.
"You can stop a war, you can topple anyone who tries to shove a war down your throat," political activist Tom Hayden said to thunderous applause.
"Where's the draft for the war against energy waste? We do not have to die for oil, we do not have to go into thermonuclear war in order to keep our autos running."

Another 1,500 students attended a low-key anti-draft rally on the University of California at Davis campus.

At UC San Diego, scene of violent anti-Vietnam war demonstrations during the late 1960's and early 70's, a new generation of students chanted, "Hell no, we won't go" as they rallied and marched through the picturesque campus overlooking the Pacific Ocean.

An estimated 2,000 people, the vast majority students carrying signs bearing anti-Carter slogans, attended the emotional rally at Revelle Plaza to listen to David Harris, a major voice in the anti-Vietnam movement of the 60's.

Harris told the students, "Don't let it happen again."

"The president has proposed suspending the Constitution for people under 26," he said. "If conscription happens, you cease to become people, you become property of the U.S. government."

Boisterous students attending the rally carried signs reading: "If Congress and Carter want war, let them fight it;" "Draft beer, not people;" "Mr. Carter, you said I love you all, prove it;" "Would you die to re-elect Carter?"; and "War is good business, invest your son."

Anti-draft rallies at UCLA and UC Irvine attracted less than 200 students each, but a similar protest at UC Santa Barbara swelled to nearly 2,000 people before it was forced to move because of a bomb threat.

At UCLA, students lounged on sun-drenched lawns and ate lunch while a half-dozen speakers attacked Carter.

Not all the students at the UCLA rally opposed the draft. Several students carried banners that declared, "Stop Soviet Imperialism," and "When Russia Runs out Of Backyard-Nations — You are Next!"
UCLA junior Sharon Stahl, who stood near the protest but did not participate, said campus sentiment was strongly against a possible war with the Soviet Union.

"I don't think anybody here wants to go somewhere so far away and fight," the 20-year-old coed said. "But I think we might have to and I'm glad women will be included. I'm also glad I'll be too old to go."

Lights observe 100th day

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol says about 10 percent of Los Angeles-area motorists drove with their headlights on Monday to observe the 100th day of captivity — American-hostage-in-

Hahn — asking motorists to drive during daylight hours with their headlights on.

Hahn was also responsible for a 24-hour vigil at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, which began at 6 p.m. Monday. A candle is being lit each hour until tonight's brief ceremony beneath the Coliseum's Olympic torch.

Inside clinics for earthquake fright

By LLOYD G. CARTER
PLEASANTON, Calif. (UPI) — For many Livermore Valley residents, the terror of the recent earthquake and aftershocks continued long after the ground stopped trembling.

Two weeks after the first tremor of Jan. 24, women were still unable to sleep soundly, they suffered crying spells, headaches and weight loss, had "dreams" and were "continually fearful and anxious."

Children suffered nightmares and had to sleep with their parents. Some were still too afraid, two weeks later, to go to school. The men, whatever they felt, kept silent.

Responding to a barrage of telephone calls following the initial Thursday quake and a weekend of two strong — aftershocks, the Alameda County Mental Health Services clinic in Pleasanton quickly organized two-hour seminars in which dis-troubled citizens could express their fears and anxieties. The first session Jan. 11 drew 31 people.

Later last week, a UPI reporter was invited to sit in on a session attended by nine women. Some of them were young housewives. Some of them were older. But all were still badly upset by the quake and the much-publicized promise by seismologists of "The Big One," the major earthquake expected to hit California in this decade.

TV and the newspapers scared the pants off me," said one older woman, who was seconded by every member of the group. That woman slept on a mattress in her hallway following the quakes because she thought it was the safest place.

One young woman recounted how she got through the initial earthquake all right but that evening, on television, watched a simulation of what a major earthquake could do to a city. She didn't sleep that night.

Two days later, on a Saturday evening, an aftershock actually larger than the original quake struck again.

"The next morning I woke up and there it was all over the Sunday paper," said the young woman. "The big one, the big one, I couldn't take it."

She left town for a week at a Sierra cabin.

"But I became afraid again as soon as I came back," she said.

Several of the women said they had been unable to take showers for fear of being caught naked. One woman with two small children said she now carries a flashlight at all times after dark, in case the lights go out.

Nixon is investigating how certain fatty acids in cottonseed and other oil seeds, and chemicals produced by molds that can grow on oil seeds, cereal grains and other foods, combine to cause liver cancer in fish.

Because of the trout's sensitivity to the chemicals, Nixon says, researchers can quickly gather data that might contribute to battles against cancer in fish.

are similar to those in rats and man, and they develop tumors more quickly than rats, produce more offspring, and they're cheaper to feed."

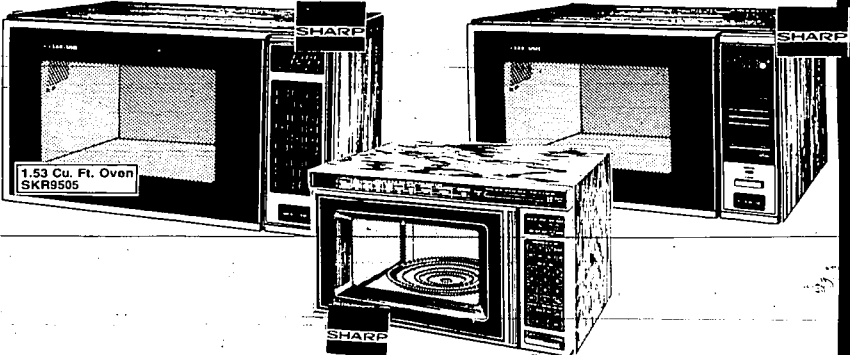

Rainbow trout, adds Nixon, have proven to be particularly helpful in studies of "aflatoxins," chemicals produced by a type of mold that can grow on cereal grains, peanuts and other foods and are thought to be powerful cancer-causing agents.

Valentine Bakery: tasty tale of Gallic humor

By STEPHANIE SCHORW
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — "Valentine" may conjure visions of hearts and sweet talk, but to Monsieur Alex Dusser and wife, the word is a private joke they've turned into a bakery.

Although "Valentine" has the same meaning in French and English, in France a kind of gateau (or pastry) is called a valentine. When Dusser, a French chef, moved to this country, he and his wife would sometimes exclaim, "Oh, it's better than a valentine," after they had nibbled an especially good morsel of American food.

Since opening La Provence, a French restaurant in Ketchum, four years ago, Dusser has frequently been asked to make traditional French pastries, which got him thinking about opening his own "gateau" shop.

Two months ago, he opened such a shop to sell croissants, eclairs, brioches, almond cakes, and chaussons aux pommes (apple turnovers).

The name: "Valentine Bakery."

"It's sweet, it's nice, and it says sweet eating," Dusser said.

Located on Leadville Avenue in a light green house, the bakery joins Ketchum's two other sweet shops, the Pastry Shop and Lyndee's Bakery.

But Valentine's Dusser says is the only one that features classic French pastries adapted with the Dusser touch, from cream puffs to fruit tarts.

"If you have nothing to do in the afternoon and you want a quiet spot, you can come here and have a cup of coffee and a pastry," he said. Two tables covered with flowered cloths offer a retreat for customers.

Antique-looking utensils hang on the walls and a marionette swings gently by the list of pastries offered.

Unlike American or Austrian pastries, French pastries use no cinnamon. Instead, they are made with lots of flour and not too much sugar. Sometimes liquors, such as rum, are added, according to Dusser.

"All French cuisine uses a lot of butter and cream. A lot of calories," Dusser rolls his eyes, "but it is so good."

Dusser, who looks like he truly enjoys his own cooking, says his shop will make to order such pastries as Christmas logs — cakes shaped like logs complete with frosted knotholes — and French wedding cakes which resemble caramel-coated snowballs piled in a narrow pyramid.

Dusser studied cooking in southwest France and served a five-year apprenticeship before moving to the U.S. 18 years ago. He worked throughout this country from New York to Washington, D.C., from Pennsylvania to Florida before he was hired as a chef for a French restaurant in Ketchum. When that closed, he opened La Provence.

Dusser declined to turn up his nose at America's much-maligned fast-food eating habits and Twinkie-type sugar addictions. "A good doughnut is a good doughnut," he said. "I like fast food, too. Sometimes I have a hamburger or a hot dog. I like it because it's fast. It puts something in the stomach, boom, boom, boom. Sometimes I like to sit and eat for an hour."

Valentine's Bakery serves both the fast and the not-so-fast crowd. It opens at 7:30 a.m. for skiers catching a quick snack on the run for the slopes.

In the afternoon, it's a spot-for-long conversations between friends over coffee, croissants and Cupid's capers.

Alex Dusser, owner of La Provence restaurant in Ketchum, responded to requests for French pastries by opening his own "Valentine Bakery." Before him sits a tempting array of extravagantly rich pastries, including (clockwise from left top) an éclair, a turnover, a Napoleon, a cream puff and an almond roll. In the center sits a cake made to resemble a peach, with leaf.

Try Chinese cooking for health, conservation

ENGLWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. — February 16, usher in the year of the monkey in the Chinese lunar year of 4678.

Chinese cooking is a wise approach to eating in the new year since it is in keeping with efforts to cut costs in these inflationary times. The cooking techniques of this cuisine make the most out of a small amount of meat, bring out the color in vegetables while sealing in flavor, and, at the same time, conserve energy.

TWICE FRIED PORK WITH GINGERED VEGETABLES

- 1 pound boneless pork
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon dry sherry
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves

Batter (recipe follows)
1 quart (about) corn oil
Gingered Vegetables (recipe follows)

Cut pork into 1/2-inch slices, about 1-inch squares. In medium bowl stir together soy sauce, sherry, cinnamon, pepper and cloves. Add pork; toss to coat well. Cover, refrigerate while preparing batter. Pour corn oil into heavy 3-quart saucepan or deep fryer; filling no more than 1/2 full. Heat over medium-high heat to 375°F. Dip pork into batter and fry, a few pieces at a time, 3 to 4 minutes or until pork is cooked and batter is golden. Drain on paper towels. Prepare Gingered Vegetables. Before serving, reheat corn oil over medium-high heat to 375°F. Fry pork, a few pieces at a time, about 1 minute or until batter is very crisp. Drain on paper towels. Spoon Gingered Vegetables over pork. Serve immediately. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Batter: In large bowl stir together 1/2 cup flour and 1/2 cup corn starch. Gradually stir in 1/2 cup water until smooth. Add 1/2 1-tablespoon corn oil until stiff peaks form; fold into batter.

Gingered Vegetables: In small bowl stir together 1/2 cup water, 3 tablespoons catchup, 2 tablespoons soy sauce and 2 tablespoons sherry. In large skillet heat 2 tablespoons corn oil over medium heat. Add 1/2 pound snow peas, 1/2 cup sliced water chestnuts, 1 red chili pepper, diced, 1 medium onion, cut into 8 wedges (layers separated), 1 clove garlic, minced or pressed and 2 teaspoons finely grated fresh ginger or 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger. Stir fry 2 to 3 minutes or until vegetables are tender crisp. Add catchup mixture; bring to boil. Stir together 1 tablespoon corn starch and 1 tablespoon water until smooth. Stir into sauce mixture; stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Spoon over Twice Fried Pork. Makes about 2 cups.

BEEF WITH PEPPERS

- 1 tablespoon corn starch
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons dry sherry
- 1 pound beef flank or round steak, thinly sliced diagonally
- 3 tablespoons corn oil
- 1 green pepper, sliced into thin slices (about 2 cups)
- 1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
- 1/2 to 1 teaspoon crushed dried red pepper
- 1 tablespoon corn starch
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons dry sherry

In medium bowl stir together corn starch, soy sauce and sherry. Add beef; toss to coat evenly. In large skillet or wok heat 2 tablespoons of the corn oil over medium heat. Add beef, one half at a time; stir fry 3 minutes or until brown. Remove. Repeat with remaining beef. Add remaining 1 tablespoon corn oil. Add green pepper, garlic and red pepper. Stir fry 1 minute. Return beef to pan. In small bowl stir together corn starch, water, soy sauce and sherry until smooth. Stir into beef mixture. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

HOT AND SOUR SOUP

- 4 dried black mushrooms
- 1/2 cup warm water
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1/2 pound boneless pork, sliced into very thin strips
- 1 package (16 oz.) soft bean curd, sliced into very thin strips
- 1/2 cup bamboo shoots, sliced into very thin strips

Soak mushrooms in warm water 30 minutes. Thinly slice mushroom caps, discarding tough stems and liquid. In 3-quart saucepan stir together mushrooms, chicken broth, pork, bean curd, bamboo shoots, vinegar, soy sauce and pepper. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 10 minutes. Stir together corn starch and water until smooth. Stir into soup. Stirring constantly, bring to bowl over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Stirring constantly, slowly pour in egg. Serve immediately. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Make a cherry valentine for George, or other loved ones

Times-News writer
The name of the dish for this week in February should be "A Red Valentine for George Washington." And so it can be. We thought sweet, cherry valentines to honor our first president's birthday would be appropriate. Never say "no," when you have such fine occasions to try the following economical desserts.

CHERRY-MACARONI DESSERT

- 1 package (16 ounces) cream cheese
- 5 tablespoons light cream
- 4 cups cooked macaroni (1 1/8-ounce package, cooked)
- 1 can (5 ounces) cherry pie filling
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon each ground nutmeg and cinnamon
- 1/2 cup walnuts

DANISH CHERRY-RICE DESSERT

- 1 package (3 1/2 ounces) rice pudding mix
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1 can (16 ounces) pitted sweet

cherries, drained, reserving juice water-added to juice to make 1 1/2 cups

2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
In saucepan, combine rice pudding mix and milk; cook, stirring, until mixture reaches boil. Remove from heat; stir in almonds. Cover; chill 1 hour. Just before serving, fold in sour cream. Serve topped with warm cherry sauce. To make cherry sauce, put 1 1/2 cups juice, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Cook, stirring, until thickened and slightly transparent. Remove from heat; stir in cherries, lemon juice, cinnamon and almond extract. Spoon over individual servings of rice pudding mixture. Makes 6 servings.

QUICK CHERRY PIE

- 1 baked 9-inch pie shell
- 1 cup cold milk
- 1/2 pint sour cream (1 cup)
- 1/2 teaspoon orange extract
- 1 package (4 serving size) instant vanilla pudding
- 1 can (21 ounces) cherry pie filling

In mixing bowl, combine milk, sour cream and orange extract. When blended, stir in instant pudding mix. Using rotary beater or lowest speed of electric mixer, beat mixture until well-blended but only about 1 minute. Pour mixture into pie shell. Chill 2 hours. Spoon cherry pie filling over each serving.

CHERRY COBLER

- 2 cans (16 ounces each) water-packed pitted red sour cherries, drained, reserving 1/2 cups juice
- 3 tablespoons minute tapioca
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 pinch salt
- 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup margarine or butter at room temperature
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup margarine to dot top

Preheat oven to 425°F. In saucepan combine cherries, the reserved juice, tapioca, 1 cup sugar and pinch salt. Let stand 5 minutes. Then cook, stirring until mixture reaches a boil. Remove from heat; set aside. In mixing bowl, sift together flour, baking powder, 1/2 cup sugar and pinch salt. With two knives cut in 1/2 cup margarine or butter. Gradually add milk, stirring until soft dough is formed. Turn out onto floured board and pat or roll to fit top of a 9-inch square baking dish. Cut a few slits near center of dough. Pour cherry mixture into baking dish; dot with margarine or butter. Top with dough; opening slits a little to let steam escape while baking. Bake 25 minutes or until crust is lightly browned and cherries bubbly. Serve warm or cool topped with whipped topping. Makes about 8 servings.

THIS WEEK'S BEST MARKET BUYS

With the high cost of fresh vegetables, frozen ones would be an excellent buy this week. Pork continues to be an economical meat source.

Public more concerned about taste, cost

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Health Editor
NEW YORK — The general public considers taste and the cost of food as more important dietary concerns than nutrition, a study shows.

The national Food Concerns Tracking Study was issued Thursday just three days after the government, for the first time, issued national dietary guidelines stressing the importance of nutrition.

The Food Concerns study directed by Edward M. Tauber, research director for the Dancer Fitzgerald Sample, an advertising agency, found that among a variety of food issues the public ranks taste first, the cost of food second and nutrition third.

The federal guidelines, issued Monday, call for less meat, less sweets, less salt and more judicious use of carbohydrates.

Tauber said 1400 women and 400 men participated in his study and were categorized based on their responses.

Those who consider nutrition and health of overriding concern were characterized as "The Don't Wants." Other categories were "The Hedonists," "The Weight Conscious," "The Moderates."

Profiles of the four segments:

Hedonists (one-fifth of the population): Want the good life. Lean to foods that taste good, are convenient and not expensive. They've no worry about the avoidance elements such as sugar, fat, cholesterol, salt. Hedonists are not calorie-conscious nor concerned about additives and preservatives.

The Don't Wants (one-fifth of the population): They avoid all of the "no-no" ingredients in some processed foods. They will sacrifice taste, convenience and pay more to obtain foods without sugar, artificial Ingredients, salt, cholesterol and fat.

The Weight Conscious (one-third of the population): Concerned about calories and fat. They are positive toward convenience foods with minor concerns about cholesterol, sugar and salt. Members of this group tend to have higher incomes than others participating.

Moderates (one-quarter of the population): These folks are average in everything. "For any food or beverage we questioned them about, their usage is neither substantially higher nor lower than the average of the other segments," the report said.

CHICAGO — "All you need is love," says the song, but on Valentine's Day it helps to have a sweet treat to give to your Valentine.

This year, try your hand at baking Valentine's Day cookies, but don't get out the rolling pin just yet.

To save time, streamline your cookie baking so all that is left is the fun part. The refrigerated dough section of your supermarket offers a selection of convenient refrigerated slice-and-bake cookie dough, which opens a wide range of Valentine's Day possibilities. For instance, make rectangular "love letters" out of the sugar cookie or chocolate chip cookie dough, then decorate with tinted frostings and candy decorations. Individualize them with names or special messages. "Mail" your love letters to friends by leaving them on their desks at school or the office, or use them as placecards for a special Feb. 14 dinner.

If your taste runs to gala desserts, create Pink Peppermint Pie with just three ingredients. The scalloped-edge piecrust is made with slices of versatile sugar cookie dough. After it is baked and cooled, fill the crust with softened peppermint ice cream and freeze.

The basic sugar cookie piecrust can be used year-round with any flavor ice cream. Try pistachio ice cream for St. Patrick's Day, or peach for a summer party. To add the Valentine's Day touch to the Peppermint Pie, decorate with whipped cream and heart-shaped sugar cookie "eyeballs." Make the pie several days ahead, if you prefer, but add the decorations just before serving.

LOVE LETTERS

Materials Needed:

- 1 roll refrigerated chocolate chip (16 oz.) or sugar (17 oz.) slice-and-bake cookies
- Pressurized decorating frosting or pastry tube and tips and tinted frosting
- Decorator candies

Directions:

Heat oven to 350°F. For easier cutting and shaping, work with part of the dough at a time and refrigerate rest until needed. Slice cookie dough into 15 slices, 1/2-inch thick. Place slices 3 inches apart, on ungreased cookie sheet. Let stand 5 minutes to soften. Press each slice into a rectangle, about 3 1/2-4 1/2 inches, using a knife or spatula to form straight edges and smooth top surface. Bake at 350°F. for 10 to 13 minutes or until golden brown. (Do not overbake.) Cool 7 minutes. While cooling, if necessary, straighten edges of rectangles with knife or spatula.) Remove from cookie sheet. Cool completely on wire rack. Decorate cookies with frosting using decorator tip and candies. Makes 15 cookies about 3 1/2 inches.

PINK PEPPERMINT PIE

Materials Needed:

- 1 17-oz. roll refrigerated sugar slice-and-bake cookies
- sugar
- 1 quart peppermint ice cream, slightly softened
- Whipped cream or whipped topping

Directions:

Heat oven to 375°F. Grease and sugar bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie pan. For easier cutting and shaping, work with part of the dough at a time and refrigerate the rest until needed. Slice dough into 6 slices, 1/2-inch thick. Using a 1-inch heart shape canape cutter or paper pattern, cut out a heart from each slice. Place hearts on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375°F. for 6 to 7 minutes or until light golden brown. (Do not overbake.) Sprinkle with sugar. Cool 1 minute; remove from cookie sheets. Cool completely on wire rack. Set aside.

While hearts are baking, gather toppings from hearts and press into a circle 4 inches in diameter. Place in center of prepared pan. Slice remaining dough into 16 slices, 1/2-inch thick and 8 slices, 1/4-inch thick. Overlap 1/2-inch thick slices around center dough piece and 1/4-inch up sides of prepared pan. Slice 1/2-inch thick slices in half, making 16 half slices. Place half slices, curved edge up, around sides of pan just touching slices below and beside them to form a scalloped edge. Bake at 375°F. for 10 to 15 minutes or until light golden brown. (Cookie crust will be puffy when removed from oven.) Cool completely. Bake remaining dough as directed on package for cookies.

Spoon ice cream into crust; spread to fill crust evenly. Cover with plastic wrap and freeze until firm, about 2 hours. Remove from freezer 10 minutes before serving. Using pastry tube, and decorator tip, outline 6 wedge-shaped sections on top of pie and edge of pie with whipped cream. Place 1 heart-shaped cookie on each outlined wedge. Cut into wedges. Makes 6 servings.

Dear Abby

What's hair compared to good health?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.
DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to say that she "was losing her mind" because she was losing her hair. I read that article as I sat beside my father's bed on the cancer floor of our local hospital.

Across the hall a teen-age girl, who was bald, lay in the final stages of leukemia. Another patient, a gentleman in his 40s, obviously wearing a hairpiece, occasionally shuffled past the door in a robe and bedroom slippers.

From the elevator emerged a young father, bringing his little family to visit their ailing mother. They were thrilled to see her. Her thinning hair made no difference to them at all.

Need I say more?
J. M. C. MIDVALE, UTAH
DEAR J. M. C.: Thank you for giving this writer, and several million readers, a renewed appreciation of good health. Your father will have my prayers.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 19 years and have two teen-age children. Our marriage has been a good one. When the children were little I was a full-time wife and mother while my husband built up his business.

Six months ago I found the stubs of two movie tickets in his jacket pocket. His "movie date" was not with me. It was a night that he had to "work late." When I confronted him, he broke down and admitted that he has been having an affair with his secretary for the past three years. He said it began when she started to confide her personal problems to him. She's a divorcee with two small children and he felt sorry for her.

He says he still loves me, but if he dumps her she will sabotage his office. She's very competent in a real "Girl Friday" way, and has been very helpful to him in his business. He says he wants their relationship to get to the point where SHE decides she doesn't want to spend any more time waiting around for a married man. That way no feelings will be hurt. He swears he doesn't love her, but he worries about the business should he let her go.

Abby: I can't believe this is happening to us. I feel blackmailed.

Am I being had?
UPSTATE NEW YORK
DEAR UPSTATE: Not yet. But you will be if you allow your husband to continue in this affair until his secretary decides she's tired of waiting around for a married man.

No one is indispensable. If your husband really loves you and is reluctant to let his Girl Friday go only because he fears she'll "sabotage" his office, he'll just have to take that chance.

I'm betting if he tells her there is absolutely no future in waiting for you to either divorce him or drop dead, she'll leave quietly. Especially if he gives her glowing recommendations.

DEAR ABBY: I have a boyfriend named Johnny who is really a sweet guy. He's a very unexciting person, and a very poor lover, but his family is in the money.

Barry is another guy I go with when Johnny is out of town (as he frequently is). Barry is a great lover, but he has no money and it is very embarrassing to be seen in public with him in his '55 Chevy that has no heat, no seat covers and is painted with a hand brush and house paint.

I'm 28 and time is running out. Which should I choose? Money or sex?

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: It's human nature to want what you don't have. If you choose money, you'll miss the sex. If you choose sex, you'll miss the money. Don't make a choice while you're confused.

Do you hate to write letters of condolences, congratulations, and thanks. It's not difficult when you let Abby guide you. In her booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Two ISU classes slated at Ketchum

KETCHUM — American Studies 202E (American in the 1930s) and Recreation 242 (Wilderness First Aid) will be offered at Hemingway Elementary School.

The two classes are being offered by Idaho State University Continuing Education. Both are three-credit classes. Registration will be held the first class meeting.

America in the 1930s, which begins Feb. 15, is an 8-week class and meets from 7:10 p.m. Fridays and from 8-11 a.m. Saturdays. It deals with the social and intellectual history of the decade and will focus on literature, both "high" literature (Steinbeck, Hemingway) and "popular" literature (rough guy writers), film, the arts and cultural issues of the times.

Six vintage films will be screened. It will be taught by Robert G. Waite, an ISU adjunct faculty member in history.

Wilderness First Aid starts March 7 and meets for 6 weeks from 4-8 p.m. Fridays and from 8 a.m.-12 noon Saturdays. It covers the learning of signs and symptoms and treatment of injuries and illness that might be encountered on a wilderness trip. It will be taught by Alexander G. Urfer, ISU Park and Recreation Management program chairman.

Credit fees are $25 per credit hour. Fees for graduate credit are $27.50 per credit hour and $15 for graduate credit. Persons over 60 pay $3 per registration. These fees do not include the cost of books, special fees, etc. Participation classes may not be audited.

For further information contact Marc Sletten, ISU Continuing Education coordinator for Magic Valley, at 733-2387.

Disc jockey raises $13,500 in record setting 'pudding sit'

DES MOINES (UPI) — The first "pudding sit" will not be the last. No sooner had disc jockey Steve Gibbons and an insurance company secretary, Lynn Kollar, emerged from their 24 1/2 hour record-setting stunt, when they declared they would do it again. The pair claimed a spot in the Guinness Book of World Records for their feat. They also raised $13,500 in pledges towards the purchase of 35

Professional program set at Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY — A program called Professionalism will be held for all health employees March 21 at North Community Hospital.

This program which deals with the values and attitudes of the health care employee will run from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1-3 p.m. Registration from 9-10 a.m.

Karen Hildebrandt, a registered nurse with a master's degree who is director of nursing at St. Anthony Community Hospital at Pocatello, will be the teacher.

Sponsors of the program are the hospital and Southeastern Idaho Center for Health Resources, Inc.

There is no charge for SICHR members and a $20 fee for non-members. For information call SICHR at Pocatello at 236-2836.

Five additional wheel chairs were donated to Camp Sunnyside — a camp for handicapped children north of Des Moines.

Early Christians made pancakes the official food for Shrove Tuesday, using up eggs, butter, lard and milk—all forbidden during Lent.

Shrove Tuesday is official pancake day

CHICAGO — Everyday is pancake day, but Shrove Tuesday is official Pancake Day. Shrove Tuesday is celebrated on the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday, and this day of merry-making and pancake eating falls on Feb. 19th this year. Early Christians first made pancakes the official food for this day. Housewives used up eggs, butter, lard and milk — all forbidden foods during Lent.

Sour Cream Pancakes will make history with your family with their light texture and rich, delicious flavors. These pancakes are made with convenient complete pancake mix, which contains flour, shortening, leavening, dried milk and eggs — all pre-measured and pre-mixed. It's a great time and effort saver.

Serve these delicious pancakes with your favorite flavored fruit preserves, maple-flavored syrup or fresh fruit. To serve several pancakes at a time, place on a warm platter, cover loosely with foil and place in a warm oven. Or heat them quickly in a microwave oven.

Observe Shrove Tuesday with Sour Cream Pancakes and enjoy!

SOUR CREAM PANCAKES

- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 cup complete pancake mix
- 1 tablespoon sugar

Beat egg at high speed on electric mixer until thick and lemon colored; blend in sour cream and water. Add pancake mix and sugar; mix until batter is fairly smooth. For each pancake, pour scant 1/4 cup batter onto hot (350°F.) lightly greased griddle; turn pancakes when tops are covered with bubbles and edges look cooked. Turn only once. Serve with preserves and confectioners' sugar, if desired. Makes 8 to 10 pancakes.

Horoscope

Aquarians should study hidden desires before continuing pursuit

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Considerable confusion and muddled thinking exists later in the day, so make a point to make important decisions earlier. You begin to see more clearly after relaxing in the evening.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Go to the right sources for the data you need. Don't take advice from those who are not cognizant of all the facts.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Obtain important information about a project you are interested in before you go ahead with definite plans. Use your wisdom.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you handle routine duties in a more up-to-date way, you get more benefits. Study a new plan before making any changes.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't neglect important work early in the day. Try to cooperate more with co-workers. Strive for more harmony.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care you don't take on any heavy expenditures of money in the evening. Allow time to engage in creative activity.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Postpone going ahead with a new interest you have in mind and wait until a better time. Evening is fine for recreation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Improve the foundation of your life so you can have added abundance in the days ahead. Get rid of annoying conditions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Iron out any problems with others in a quiet and tactful manner. Seek the company of congenials in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to use careful thought in handling monetary affairs today. Use your intuitive faculties for best results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use a different attitude in handling a puzzling situation and you get better results. Relax in the company of good friends tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have hidden desires that need more study before you pursue them. Strive for increased happiness.

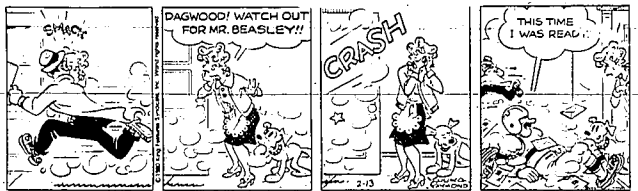

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some of your friends may have problems so be sure to give a helping hand. Show others you have practical wisdom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will be one who comprehends the problems of others and knows instinctively how to solve them. Be sure to give your gifted progeny the right education to bring out this ability. A busy life in this chart.

Steam engine powered mechanical dishwasher

Here's to Mrs. W. A. Cocker—clink!—the Shelbyville, Ind., housewife who invented the first mechanical dishwasher. While her husband died, she didn't have enough money to perfect it, though she devoted 10 years to the effort. After he died, she finished the invention. In 1889, Her big restaurant model was powered by a steam engine.

UNDERWATER HOCKEY

Q. How is that game called "Octopus" played?
A. It's a skindiver's sport. Underwater hockey with a lead puck called a squid. Players with paddles try to put the squid into the goals called gulls. And the goalies known as gulleys get a lot of contact. All the players do, in fact. Pretty rough.

Q. Anybody know what proportion of the traffic deaths are either suicides or victims of suicidal drivers?
A. About one out of 20 is the estimate of those who study such matters.

Q. What do the medics mean by a "post-prandial dip"?
A. It's that drowsy slump some get just after lunch.

POEM

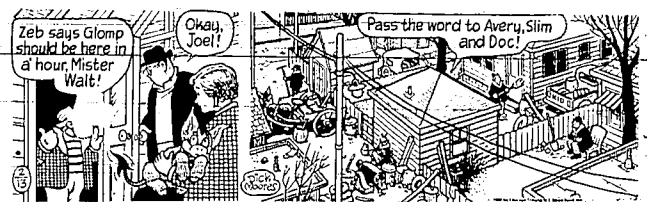

What's your stand on poetry? I like this one called "Widower" by Anonymous: "I see the flicker of your face / In single frames, staccato, strong, / It dances in the fire-place. / How have I hung on so long! / The benediction in your eyes, / Tracing from the orange flame, / Penetrates this gray disguise. / Survival isn't what they claim. / That lovely look of yours cuts through. / It's all that a really left me here. / The question isn't, where are you? / It's Where am I, my dear?"

Sweetheart cheese spread sets Valentine theme

Make an edible Valentine

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — This Valentine's Day you might like to make an edible valentine to use as a centerpiece for a party.

Heart O'Gold cheese spread will help set the Valentine theme. It's a sweetheart-of-a-recipe, ideal for teen-age or adult parties.

This savory cheese heart gets a special flip from Worcestershire sauce while prepared yellow mustard adds a golden yellow color and mellow flavor. You can make this spread shortly before a party, or well in advance.

To make the shaping easier, draw a heart, about 6 to 8 inches across on a piece of cardboard. Cut it out and cover with foil or plastic wrap; then shape the cheese mixture right on top. Whole unblanched almonds make your valentine pretty as a picture.

Zesty Beef Dip adds a tasty contrast to the cheese spread. It can be prepared in minutes right in a chafing dish or fondue pot. An envelope of taco seasoning mix combined with ground beef serves as a basis for this hot and hearty dip that's a welcome treat on a brisk winter night. Crispy corn chips are the perfect accompaniment.

Serve with your favorite punch for a casual and colorful Valentine party.

HEART O'GOLD CHEESE SPREAD
1 package (8-oz.) cream cheese, softened
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon French's Prepared Yellow Mustard
1 tablespoon French's Worcestershire Sauce

1/2 teaspoon French's Garlic Powder
Unblanched almonds, if desired
Assorted crackers

Beat together all ingredients, except almonds and crackers, until smooth. Refrigerate 30 minutes, or until firm. Form into heart shape on serving platter; garnish with almonds. Serve with crackers. Makes about 2 cups.

ZESTY BEEF DIP
1/2 pound ground beef

1 envelope (1 1/2 oz.) French's Taco Seasoning Mix
1 can (6-oz.) tomato paste
1 cup water

3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
Corn chips or taco-seasoned chips
Brown beef in medium-size saucepan or chafing dish, stirring to crumble; pour off excess fat. Add contents of seasoning mix envelope, tomato paste, water and green pepper. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Serve hot with chips for dipping. Makes about 2 cups dip.

Weddings

MR. AND MRS. DONALD JESSUP

Ostler-Jessup

JEROME — Jeri Lynne Ostler of Jerome and Don Wayne Jessup of Mountain Home exchanged wedding vows Jan. 12.

The ceremony was performed at the Bible Baptist Church in Jerome with the Rev. Richard Gosnell officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ostler of Jerome and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Jessup of Port Orchard, Wash. Bill Hereford, accompanied by Mrs. Evelyn Peterson, sang "Together in Him." Patty Johnson was organist and accompanist. Gerald Ostler as he sang "Because You're Mine," as he did at his own wedding 25 years ago.

The bride wore a gown of white sheer woven polyester over tulle. Lace applique trimmed the sweetheart neckline and bodice. The skirt, which formed a chapel length train, had lace applique edging a front pleated insert. Long sheer sleeves were trimmed with applied cuffs. Her fingertip veil of nylon illusion was fastened to a headpiece of lace and simulated pearl trim.

Lori Ostler was maid of honor for the bride. Bridesmaids were Theresa Hereford and Diane Bourquin, sister of the bridegroom.

Tim Zwiefel served as best man. Don Winnie and Roney Bourquin, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, were ushers and also lighted the candles. Jay Ostler, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall. Betty Loge and Clara Clossen served as reception hostesses. Mrs. Linda Hadam of Mackay was in charge of the guest book. Arlene Jackson and Connie and Janna Johnson were in charge of the gift table.

Sylvia Hite, Dollie Hite and Pat Hite, all aunts of the bride, cut the cake and served at the refreshment table.

Special guests were Jennie Hite, grandmother of the bride, and Edith Ostler, great-grandmother of the bride. After a wedding trip to Boise, the couple will reside at the Mountain Home Air Force Base, where he is a senior airman. Mrs. Jessup is employed at First Security Bank on the base.

Dr. Lamb

Cluster headaches difficult

Newspaper Enterprise Association Dear Dr. Lamb,
My husband is 25 years old, and he has been having severe headaches for the past two years. They usually occur at night, sometimes waking him out of a sound sleep. The headaches are preceded with dizziness, spots and blurred vision.

Recently, one of these occurred in the daytime and the doctor was able to see him during the attack and decided he has cluster headaches based on the fact that the headaches come on abruptly and are throbbing pain behind the eye on one side of the face. He sweats excessively with these attacks and the headaches last about seven hours. The headaches occur frequently for a period of time and then they don't occur at all for several months.

The doctor prescribed Caffegot with strict warnings about taking it only when necessary. Are there other medications that are effective and are safer? He has taken mild tranquilizers and aspirin but they don't help much. Will these headaches go away without returning? Some of them seem to occur after drinking. Can this be a cause?

Your husband might benefit from a better understanding of headache problems, therefore, I'm sending you

The Health Letter number 2-9, Headache - Man's Most Common Pain. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10109.

In general, cluster headaches tend to be more difficult to treat than most migraines (although some migraine headaches are pretty refractory to treatment). In both instances, an improvement in lifestyle does help. People who have migraine headaches tend to be perfectionists and strive to please. The tension this sometimes creates seems to be a factor in precipitating frequent attacks in some people. It's hard to say whether alcohol has any relationship to your husband's cluster headaches or not. It is not usually thought of as a cause of such headaches, but, of course, it is generally appreciated that if one overdoes it, one can have a rather severe headache the next morning. But those are called hangovers, not cluster headaches.

Chamber banquet set

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Barry Asmus will speak at the Chamber of Commerce 1980 annual banquet Feb. 25. The banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn. Chamber of Commerce manager, Jrv Hoyet, reported that the banquet screening committee reviewed a tremendous number of speakers before selecting Dr. Asmus. "We feel Dr. Asmus is one of the finest speakers available today," said Hoyet. Dr. Asmus holds a B.A. and

M.A. from Colorado State University. He has recently addressed such groups as the Pacific Coast Gas Association, Northwest Homebuilders Association and the Texas Nursing Home Association. The title of Dr. Asmus' talk will be "Productivity: Political vs. Market Solutions." Tickets for the banquet are available at the Chamber office at a cost of $25 per couple. The number of tickets to be sold is limited.

Cost of roses increased for Valentine's

DENVER (UPI) — The red rose whispers of passion, at least one poet has written. Naturally, they sell well on Valentine's Day. Florist John Hackett says rose growers planned for this by jacking up the price. Hackett said he was shocked that growers increased rose prices to $30 and $60 a dozen last week in preparation for the Valentine's holiday rush. "Where is this inflation going to stop? We are pricing young people out of everything else and now we price them out of expressing love in the most tender of ways," he said. Roses cost only $20 a dozen last year, said Hackett, who expects the price to drop down again after Valentine's Day. "I don't have anything against the rose growers the rest of the season. But they apparently figure that this one day of the year they can really put it to the people," he said. In protest, Hackett said he had ordered about a fourth of the roses he could sell. He has complained to wholesalers and has urged customers to buy only one rose and a bunch of white carnations.

Salmon is filling and nutritious

Chicago Sun-Times (Field News Service)

If you think there's something fishy about an entree that promises both good taste and lightning quick preparation, you haven't seen all the possibilities using canned salmon.

First of all, it's cleaned — there's no boning, no filleting, no skinning and no wasted inedible parts. Second, it's cooked. If desired it's a meal straight from the can. Third, when combined with a sauce and a starch, it's as filling and nutritious as a long-cooking stew.

Salmon shortcakes, an entree that combines the salmon with cheese, biscuits, asparagus and beans, is a protein- and vitamin-packed meal that goes from can to table in 30 minutes.

You could make your own white sauce, which would take about five minutes to the preparation time at half the price of a sauce mix. If you'd rather have a fresh vegetable, try broccoli and add another five or 10 minutes to the initial 30-minute timetable.

With the time you have left you can even prepare a carrot salad at half the price of a sauce mix. For a simple dessert treat, a package of frozen strawberries and spoon some over individual slices of pound cake.

SALMON SHORTCAKES
Time: about 30 minutes
Cost: less than $6.00

1 can 1½-cup salmon
2 cups butter/milk cooking mix
1½ cups shredded cheddar cheese, divided
½ cup milk
1 package (10-ounce) frozen asparagus spears
2 tablespoons butter, melted and cooled
1 package (1½ ounces) white sauce mix
½ teaspoon onion juice
8 slices bacon, diced, cooked and drained

Drain and flake salmon, reserving liquid. Combine baking mix, ½ cup cheddar cheese, milk and butter with fork. Knead gently 8 to 10 times on floured surface. Roll to ¼-inch thickness; cut into 4-inch rounds. Bake at 450 degrees 10 minutes. Makes 7 or 8 biscuits.

Meanwhile, start cooking asparagus spears. While they cook, prepare white sauce mix according to package directions, adding 1 cup cheese and onion juice, and substituting salmon liquid for part of milk. Stir until cheese is melted and sauce is thickened. To assemble: Split each shortcake and place asparagus spears on bottom half. Top with salmon and a spoonful of cheese sauce. Add top half of biscuit to each. Top with additional cheese sauce and garnish with cooked bacon. Makes 7 or 8 servings.

CARROT SALAD
Time: about 15 minutes
Cost: less than $1.50

6 medium carrots
½ cup diced celery
½ cup pineapple chunks
¼ cup raisins
¼ cup chopped walnuts
½ cup sliced, unpeeled apple
½ to ¾ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
Dash curry powder
Salt and white pepper to taste
Grate carrots coarsely. Combine with celery, pineapple, raisins, walnuts and apples. Add enough mayonnaise to moisten well. Season with curry powder, salt and pepper, to taste. Makes 6 to 8 servings.
