

U.S. marks progress on hostages' release

By United Press International
Iran's president said Wednesday Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has approved a secret plan to free the 50 American hostages in Tehran.

And President Carter announced "positive progress" toward their release.

The twin statements sent hopes soaring that the Americans, who have been held 102 days in the U.S. Embassy by Moslem militants, may soon be freed. But Carter cautioned against "premature optimism."

Carter told a nationally televised news conference the United States will support steps by the United Nations to form a commission to examine charges of crimes by the ousted Shah of Iran.

"An appropriate commission with a carefully defined purpose would be a step toward resolution of this crisis," Carter said.

His statement appeared to back up an ABC report that U.S. and Iranian authorities had agreed in principle on the plan that could free the hostages within a week to 10 days.

ABC said the hostages would be freed after the commission is named and formed but before it would begin its work on investigating the alleged crimes of the ousted Shah.

It also said that the hostages would be released into American hands and not handed over to a third party or an international organization. It also reported that the plan was worked out in a series of secret meetings between Iranian and U.S. officials in Paris.

Carter would not go into such details, saying, "Our efforts have been particularly delicate."

"Recently there have been positive signs," the president said. "We must be careful to guard against premature optimism."

Carter said throughout the crisis, which began Nov. 4 with the seizure of the embassy by Iranian militants, the United States has followed a course that would guarantee the safety and release of the hostages and the protection of national interests.

Iran's President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr in an interview broadcast on Paris' France-Inter Radio, declined to provide details of the plan but said, "I hope this plan will be implemented."

Asked about the views of the aging 79-year-old Khomeini on the plan, the Iranian president said, "When we presented an action plan to him, he accepted it."

Khomeini's approval is critical to the success of any deal to free the hostages. The militants occupying the embassy have repeatedly torpedoed past efforts to negotiate the hostages' release, but they have promised to abide by Khomeini's wishes "because we believe our imam."

State Department and White House officials—withheld comment on Bani-Sadr's remarks—which came hours before President Carter's scheduled 8 p.m. news conference.

The ABC report said the plan accepted by the Carter administration provided for a commission to be appointed under United Nations auspices to investigate Iran's grievances against the Shah and the United States.

Highlights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Following are highlights of President Carter's news conference Wednesday night:

The Iranian Hostages
"Recently there have been some positive signs" on securing release of the hostages held at the American embassy in Tehran.

"The United States will support steps by the United Nations to form a commission... to examine charges of crimes by the Shah."

"U.S. and Iranian officials have been in contact—secretly since mid-November in an effort to free the hostages. But Carter refused to discuss details for fear of endangering the situation."

"It would be neither 'helpful nor useful' to comment on whether the United States acted properly in helping restore the Shah to power in Iran after World War II."

The Olympics
"It is unconscionable to me that nations would send their athletes to the capital of a nation that has invaded and subjugated an innocent people."

"I will repeat, that if the Soviet Union does not withdraw its troops from Afghanistan by the 20th of this month, neither I nor the American people will support the sending of American athletes to the Olympics in Moscow."

Carter: Kennedy hampers efforts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter said Wednesday there are "positive signs" for the American hostages in Tehran.

But Carter bitterly accused Sen. Edward Kennedy of hampering the delicate efforts to free them.

In his first news conference in 11 weeks, the president gave a guarded report on the hostage negotiations, saying the United States would be willing to accept an "appropriate" international commission to resolve the situation.

At the same time, he made a stinging attack on Kennedy, his chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, saying the senator's campaign remarks overstepped "the bounds of both propriety and accuracy in the presentation of views by a responsible official."

"And Carter gave a clear signal that America will not tolerate interference—in Yugoslavia, where president Josip Broz Tito is gravely ill."

"If we are called upon to give any kind of aid to the Yugoslav people in the future, we would seriously consider it," he said.

Carter gave only small nuggets of information on the dramatic breakthrough many expect shortly in the three-month-old hostage crisis.

Carter said only, "We would support steps by the United Nations that would lead to release of the hostages if the steps are consistent with our goals and our essential international principles."

"An appropriate commission with a clearly defined purpose would be a step toward resolution of this crisis," he said, adding, "I cannot afford at this delicate time to discuss or to comment further."

The president took no such precautions in his statements on Kennedy, accusing the senator outright of hurting America.

Carter said Kennedy has insinuated that the United States must share the blame for the invasion of Afghanistan, for the hostage crisis and for the length of time the diplomats have remained in captivity.

In response, Kennedy, campaigning in New York, said, "Well it looks like we finally got his attention."

"One of the basic points that the president failed to understand is that the criticisms that I have leveled over the period of these past weeks and the past months were obviously not directed to the country but directed to Mr. Carter and his handling of American foreign policy and domestic policy."

"What we ought to have is debate and discussion of the American people make their judgment."

Insulation fire sparks evacuation

Two men check for hot spots in a burned-out potato cellar, owned by Luther and Warren Myers, some six miles southwest of Jerome Wednesday night. Jerome Rural Fire Chief Don Rupert said an electrical short started the fire about 5:30 p.m. and nearby residents evacuated the area after polyurethane insulation in the cellar caught fire. The blaze was under control by 9:30 p.m. with the only injury being one man reported under observation at St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome for smoke inhalation. No estimate of damage to the cellar was available.

Bill to strip energy office passes committee

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — A House committee Wednesday introduced a bill which would strip the Office of Energy of its fuel allocation powers.

Almost immediately the move brought a threat of a veto by Gov. John Evans and a warning by one top legislative leader that a special law-making session on energy may need to be called this year.

On an unrecorded voice vote — which was not scheduled to take place — the House State Affairs Committee introduced a measure which would transfer the Emergency Fuel Allocation Office from the Office of Energy to the Department of Administration.

The State Energy Office has been the focus of substantial criticism recently, in large part from Republican legislative leaders, who have argued the agency is fiscally irresponsible and in large part unnecessary.

Evans, a Democrat, has defended

Seniors rap legislators over CON

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Council of Senior Citizens is attacking Idaho's legislators for failing to pass CON legislation.

The bill, known as certificate of need legislation, would require hospitals and clinics to file requests with the office and even proposed it be expanded into a full state department. That latter proposal quickly died in the Republican-controlled Legislature.

Throughout this debate, however, the energy office's fuel allocation program has drawn praise from both parties. That program sets guidelines and helps distribute the state's emergency fuel supplies.

Wednesday's action indicates that program still has support but that some legislators at least want it taken out of the energy office.

state officials before purchasing expensive equipment.

The measure has been introduced in the House Health and Welfare Committee and is up for consideration today at 2 p.m.

The bill was brought to the committee by Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, the Republican Majority Leader in the House and was supported by most of the committee's Republicans.

Little said his measure was primarily an "insurance" bill. Should the Legislature not fund the Office of Energy — in which the fuel allocation program is now contained — his bill could be passed, keeping that program alive, he said.

Opposition came from committee member Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Cocatello, the House Minority Leader, and other Democratic committee members. The Department of Administration is not a proper place for a fuel allocation program, McDermott said.

"The Republican majority has consistently refused to develop an energy policy for Idaho," McDermott said. "And now they seem to resent that the governor has taken any action on his own. If this sort of irresponsible Republican action continues, it just might be necessary to call a special legislative session later this year to deal with the energy crisis."

Evans reacted sharply to the Wednesday morning action, saying the committee's move had brought him and the Legislature closer to the "confrontation."

Evans said the fuel allocation program should remain within the Office of Energy. "If it is the intention of the Legislature merely to dismantle the Office of Energy," through this measure, then the bill will be vetoed, Evans said.

The governor was also critical of the manner in which the bill reached the committee. The proposal was not listed on a posted committee agenda. Because of the failure to publicly announce the measure was up for consideration, many reporters and other interested persons missed Wednesday's debate.

Committee Chairman John Reardon, R-Boise, said the failure to announce that the measure was coming up for consideration was not an attempt to avoid publicity, but merely an oversight.

The committee's action also drew a response from Chris Smith, the director of the fuel allocation program.

"The move to transfer the fuel services program is just another part of the concerted effort to dismember the Idaho Office of Energy," Smith said.

"To operate effectively in serving the fuel needs of Idaho's people," Smith said, "the fuel services program must operate within an office that is equipped to handle the wide range of energy concerns."

"Smith said the proposed transfer would "harm both the credibility and accessibility of the fuel program." "When people have a fuel problem," Smith said, "they call the Office of Energy, not another state department. Likewise, the federal energy agencies and the state's petroleum suppliers used to and want to continue dealing with a fuel program which is rightly in an Office of Energy."

Acting Manager Courtney likely choice

City council picks new manager

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council selected a new city manager in a closed meeting Wednesday but is refusing to announce its selection until next week.

However, all indications are that the council has selected acting city manager Tom Courtney.

The council made its selection at a 90-minute closed session Wednesday afternoon.

After the meeting, Mayor Hank Woodall said the council had made a decision but would not announce it until next week.

At a meeting last week, the council considered hiring Courtney but delayed action until a unanimous consensus could be reached.

Wednesday's closed session was called to give the council the chance to meet with Courtney and try and reach a consensus.

Courtney and six council members attended the Wednesday meeting. Councilman Chris Talkington did not attend because of illness. Woodall said all six council members present agreed on the selection. Talkington last week expressed support for Courtney.

Neither council members nor Courtney would comment Wednesday on the session.

Woodall said the reason that no announcement will be made until next week is that city administrators, including Courtney, are involved in negotiations with Idaho Frozen Foods of Twin Falls over a new waste water treatment plant user contract, and an announcement might disrupt those negotiations.

When asked Wednesday whether the council plans to interview the two other candidates for the job, Woodall declined to comment.

Prior to Wednesday's meeting, Courtney appeared to have the inside track for the job.

He was one of three finalists for the position, all of whom possess master's level college degrees in public administration, have more than seven years experience in municipal administration, and are 31 years old.

Although similar in credentials,

Courtney's two years here as assistant city manager and his knowledge of city operation and problems has won him the publicly expressed support of several council members including Woodall, Talkington, Bud Cheney, and Alan Wulker. The members have said Courtney's experience and local knowledge would be valuable to the city as it prepares to meet the budget crunch expected in light of the 1 percent initiative.

The council is also considering eliminating the $28,000 a year assistant manager position, a move that could be more easily facilitated by hiring Courtney.

Following former manager Jean Milar's resignation last year, council members solicited applications from prospective candidates.

Richard Starr

Freed kidnap victim returns to U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An American Peace Corps volunteer held captive for three years by leftist Colombian guerrillas and valued at $250,000 ransom was paid for his freedom, returned Wednesday to the United States.

Starr, 34, arrived at Andrews Air Force, Md., and was taken to the U.S. Army's Walter Reed Hospital for a checkup and debriefing.

In Honolulu, columnist Jack Anderson said he had "borrowed" $250,000 to secure Starr's release.

Anderson associate Jack Mitchell said Starr "appears to be in excellent mental and physical condition, but he is going to be under examination at Walter Reed to make sure there are no lingering physical problems."

Mitchell said Starr "did not get along well with his captors at all.

He was totally bored for three years because he had no one to talk to... since the people holding him were Marxist ideologues and his own political views were incompatible with that.

"Most of the time he was in the company of four to nine armed guards and was moved around." He said Starr told him he believes he was at 16 different places during his captivity.

Mitchell said Starr "was threatened and interrogated at first because his captors believed he was a CIA agent."

Starr appeared Monday night in the remote town of Nelva, capital of Huila State, 155 miles southwest of Bogota, after his release by leftist guerrillas of the Colombian Revolutionary Armed Forces, believed to number about 800.

High technology sales probed

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The Department of Commerce is investigating more than a dozen cases in which high-technology U.S. equipment related to computers, lasers and transistors was diverted illegally to the Soviet Union and other Communist nations.

In a secret document obtained by the Los Angeles Times, investigators for the Department of Commerce alleged that U.S. companies connived, directly or indirectly, in exporting equipment to the Soviet Union that had military value.

The document, a partial compilation of cases pending through 1979, referred to "dummy firms," "items 'hand-carried' abroad without the required export licenses, and to shipments made despite the shippers' "knowing the intended destination."

The document underscored the seriousness of a problem that has become increasingly important since the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and President Carter's response to stop exporting to the Soviets the high-technology items that require a special, or "validated," license.

Of the 10 companies identified in the document who were approached for comment on the allegations, some said they had paid the penalties for diversion of the equipment and that their cases should now be considered closed.

Of the others, one firm had gone bankrupt, two had merged with each other, officials of two other companies said they were innocent and cooperating fully with the government investigation, and the rest refused to comment.

More of Cooper's loot found

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — FBI agents found wadded up $20 bills Wednesday in muck dredged from the Columbia River six years ago and said the money was part of the $200,000 ransom collected in 1971 by D.B. Cooper before he parachuted into folklore from a hijacked jetliner.

The first money from Cooper's haul was found Sunday on a sandy beach on the north shore of the Columbia 5 miles northwest of Vancouver, Wash., in children on a family outing. It totaled about $3,000 and the serial numbers checked matched numbers on the $20 bills Cooper.

FBI agent Ralph Himmelsbach said more money was dug up by agents Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning.

Waste storage running out

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The nation may have to shut down some of its nuclear power plants in the next three years unless Congress allows the federal government to establish a storage facility for burned-out atomic fuel.

That was the message carried Wednesday by the Carter administration to the Senate Government Operations subcommittee on energy, proliferation and federal services one day after the president told Congress of his plan to store spent nuclear fuel and bury radioactive waste.

"No utility in the next year will be forced to shut down because of a shortage of fuel storage," William Dirks, acting executive director of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, testified, "but by 1982, things could be different when there is a real need for a storage pool."

Guerrillas coming from Iran

United Press International

Afghan Moslem rebels based in Iran are crossing into their homeland and battling Russian troops in its western provinces, a rebel spokesman, claimed Wednesday.

Saifulla Halimi, a representative of the Hishbi Islami (Islamic Front) in the Pakistan border town of Peshawar, claimed heavy fighting has broken out in Badkhis and Farlab provinces — in Afghanistan bordering the Soviet Union.

There was no way to verify rebel claims and no independent accounts to support the reports.

Halimi said rebels fighting the Soviet-installed regime of Babrak Karmal were clashing with Russians and Afghan government troops in Farab and Herat provinces bordering Iran, and in southwestern Hermand province. Some of the rebels were based in Iran and crossed the border to attack their provinces, Halimi said.

Tito not expected to live

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Doctors said President Josip Broz Tito, 87, suffered further deterioration of his heart and kidneys Wednesday, raising fears his death was near.

"There is little hope now for his recovery," a government source said.

In Washington, President Carter did not mention any Soviet danger to the nation after Tito leaves the scene, but he said Yugoslavia is "a strong, fiercely independent courageous nation that can defend itself." But he also said it called for aid by the Yugoslavs, the United States would "seriously consider it and do what is best for them and for us."

Tito, the last of the great World War II leaders, began to talk after complications arose from a leg amputation Jan. 20.

The official medical bulletin, the most pessimistic yet, said, "The functions of the kidneys and the heart have further weakened. Intensive medical treatment is being undertaken."

"It is extremely serious," the government source said.

U.S. mulls El Salvador aid

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration is weighing plans to send $5 Army advisers and up to $7-million in military sales and credits to El Salvador this year in an effort to prop up its faltering new government and block a leftist takeover, according to official sources.

The proposed security assistance program, put together over the past several weeks to complement an emergency $50 million in economic aid also planned, had not yet been accepted by the Salvadoran parliament.

But it already has caused deep division within the State Department.

The program calls for at least three 12-man Army mobile training teams — ATTs — to instruct staff of El Salvador's three army battalions in logistics, communications and intelligence techniques. A six-person MTT was sent to El Salvador for five days last November, along with $200,000 worth of tear gas, gas masks and bulletproof vests, to give instruction in riot control.

We at Western Realty believe the 1980's will see interest rates, definitely reach their peak in the United States. The 12% rate, which was being quoted by many lenders, should in the spring start falling and possibly may drop as low as 11%. We will probably never again see a rate below 10%, but just the sheer amount of funds that are coming into the various lending institutions from the total deposits will bring interest rates down. Buyer reluctance and the obvious borrower reluctance to the 12% rate can only result in the lower overall rate.

While speculative building will be down this year, there is still an extremely active market in existing homes. One of the more recent innovations we have found in the participation of the seller in the financing. Many sellers are now realizing that it is just as easy for them to make a high interest loan on their own property when they sell it as let a bank or other lending institution make the same interest rate and the seller are usually in a particularly good position to manage the investment when it is secured by property that he has acquired.

This is particularly advantageous where the seller really doesn't have to have all of their assets out of the property.

In our opinion the home buyers will find many bargains in price selection and lower mortgage rates if they shop and are working with a real estate firm which is knowledgeable. This high money market has a very favorable side to the coin in as much that there are a number of special situations which now have arrived that can be true bargains for a discriminating purchaser.

Periods of rain and snow changing to snow

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert and Gooding-Jerome areas:
A winter storm watch is out for today and tonight in Magic Valley. Periods of snow and rain changing to snow today and continuing through Friday. Windy at times and cooler. Overnight lows in the 20s. Highs 35 to 40 today and low to mid 30s Friday.
Camas-Fairlie, Hailey and Upper Wood River Valley:
A winter storm watch is out for today and tonight. Periods of snow tonight through Friday. Snow locally heavy at times today and Friday. Gusty winds. Lows in the teens and subfreezing. Highs today and Friday mid 20s to low 30s.
Synops:
A weak storm front which has been slowly approaching southern Idaho the past several days continues to grow. This low pressure area is located in the southern portion of British Columbia and is turning into a major winter storm as it grows.
Scattered snow and rain showers were reported throughout the Pacific Northwest Wednesday and are becoming more widespread as they move south.
The greatest amount of precipitation reported Wednesday was in the north-central prairies. New snow on the ground ranged from 4 inches at Powell to 1 inch at Lewiston late Wednesday.
Strong gusty winds developed in the Upper Snake River Valley with winds up to 35 miles an hour reported at Pocatello. A winter storm watch was issued Wednesday evening for southeastern areas of the state warning of possible heavy snow and high winds.
Overnight low temperatures reported Wednesday morning were mostly in the 20s although some central mountain areas reported readings below in degrees. The coldest spot, reporting was at Fairfield with 11 below zero.
The long range outlook through Monday calls for more showers of rain or snow in low valleys and snow at higher elevations. Highs in the 25 to 35 degree range in the east and in the 30s to low 40s in the west. Lows are expected 15 to 25 in the east and 20s in the west.

More liquor store days nixed

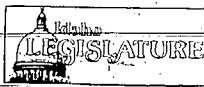

Thursday, February 14, 1980 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho A-3

BOISE (UPI) — A bill that would permit state liquor outlets to remain open on most legal holidays died Wednesday in the Idaho House.

Despite complaints by sponsor Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Coeur d'Alene, that "the people who don't imbibe really don't understand the practice," the opposition was sufficient to kill the measure.

Earlier, the House approved 40-30 and sent to the Senate a bill making it legal for the state liquor dispensary to operate more than one outlet in each city.

Ingram said the defeated bill was meant merely to increase the convenience of obtaining liquor so people don't have to plan in advance of holidays to buy liquor.

But Rep. Ernest Hale, R-Burley, protest it would mean more liquor on the roads and "we all know that's the biggest killer on the highways."

Rep. Wendy Ungrecht, R-Boise, complained that the Legislature "has been barraged with a maze of liberalizing liquor laws this session."

She said loosening Idaho's liquor laws would cost the state a great deal of money for alcohol rehabilitation. "I just can't understand the mentality of this," she said.

The Senate, meantime, passed 24-10 and sent to the House a bill the sponsor had voted down, "we can alleviate the problems with divorce in Idaho."

The divorce legislation provides court guidelines for custody and support of children, awards of maintenance and division of marital property.

In other legislative action: Without an opposing vote, the Senate passed a bill to limit state spending for any fiscal year to not over 3 1/2 percent of the total personal income of the state for that year. The measure, approved 34-0, now goes to the House.

Dredge mining controls defeated

BOISE (UPI) — Dredge mining legislation ran aground Wednesday in the Idaho Senate Resources and Environment Committee.

Committee members voted to hold bills to prohibit dredge mining on certain streams and to bring exploration with dredging equipment under the permit requirement of the Idaho Dredge Mining Act.

By a 5-4 vote, the committee held the bill to provide for prohibition on certain streams. The vote came after

Sen. Dave Little, R-Emmett, argued successfully it was nearly the same bill as one the committee held previously.

Little said only a few words had been changed.

Sen. Ken Robison, D-Boise, pleaded with the committee to consider the bill so people in attendance could testify. He moved that it remain on the agenda, but his motion tied on a 4-4 tie.

Little said if the committee allowed bills to keep reappearing that were the same as legislation members already had voted down, "we can have bill after bill" and "the process can go on for months and months and months."

Robison said the bill had been put on the agenda and it was only reasonable to let those who wanted to testify to do so.

Sen. Dean Van Engelen, R-Burley, said the bill was similar to an earlier proposal.

Senate demands delay of Birds of Prey area

BOISE — The Idaho Senate Wednesday demanded a delay in the proposed expansion of the Birds of Prey Natural Area.

By a 27-8 vote, the Senate passed House Joint Memorial 10. That measure says no action should be taken on expanding the southwest Idaho raptor refuge until an "economic impact study" on that expansion is completed.

There are many unanswered questions about the expansion, said Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-Glenns Ferry. The additional study time could answer those questions, he said.

Criticism of the expanded bird refuge also came from Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View. Existing studies of the region were inadequate and "asinine," he said.

But Sen. Ken Robison, D-Boise, said the expansion would be a good one. He said supporters of HJM 10 weren't interested in additional studies, Robison said, merely in preventing any further protection of the birds of prey.

The Birds of Prey Natural Area, which now straddles a section of the Snake River south of Boise, contains one of the world's densest nesting populations of eagles, hawks, falcons, owls, and other raptors.

Established in 1971, the sanctuary now contains 31,000 acres of land. Recommendations are now before Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus to enlarge the sanctuary to 200,000 acres of land. While most existing uses of the land would be continued in that large raptor refuge, according to legislation as it is now written, the expansion would bar any further conversion of publicly-owned federal land in the region into privately-owned irrigated farms. Those land conversions take place under the Desert Land Entry and Carey Act programs.

HJM 10, which passed the Idaho House last month, will now be sent to Congress. President Jimmie Carter and Andrus.

Panel OKs bilingual classes

BOISE — The House Education Committee Wednesday unanimously approved a bill which would allow public school students to be taught in their native language until they have learned English.

The measure is needed, said Reid Bishop, Idaho's associate Superintendent of Public Instruction, in large part because of the growing number of students in Idaho unable to speak English. Spanish speaking minority students and Far East Asian refugees frequently have had little contact with the English language, Bishop said.

The measure, House Bill 524, would allow, but not require, local school districts to teach the student in his native language until he was able to read and speak English.

Some teachers are presently using foreign language instruction, Bishop said, even though existing Idaho law requires all public school instruction to be in English. "In a technical sense the school districts have been violating the law," he said.

The measure now goes to the full House of Representatives.

Pharmacy investigations should move

The Legislature is being asked to shift a law enforcement program to the Department of Law Enforcement.

That may sound like nonsense, but it so happens the State Pharmacy Board is trying to do police work and is apparently doing it poorly. Even so, the board is fighting to hang onto the program.

The agency investigates the distribution of controlled substances in cases of illegal drug peddling.

A number of pharmacists and two of its own investigators have publicly criticized the operation.

Bert Wilson, an investigator, told a legislative committee that pharmacy officials have not acted on evidence he compiled showing possible illegal drug activity by an Ada County pharmacist.

Some pharmacists have complained, and Wilson has confirmed, that an investigation of sales of illegal drugs taken from State Hospital South at Blackfoot was hampered by the current situation.

Wilson pointed out that the former pharmacy supervisor at the hospital, who was convicted last year, still holds a license for pharmacy from the state board.

Wilson says transferring enforcement would eliminate a reluctance to prosecute pharmacists and other lawbreakers, enhance smooth operation and avoid duplication and expense. The Governor's Management Task Force estimated the transfer could save more than $25,000 a year.

This week Wilson and another investigator were called before the board after they advocated transferring their investigations to Law Enforcement.

The two feared they would be fired, and an unsigned Pharmacy Board memo made public by State Sen. John Barker of Buhl said as much.

But they were not fired, and Wilson credited the public release of the memo.

Many state agencies are in the business of enforcing laws. The Fish and Game Department polices hunters and fishermen; the Agriculture Department inspects warehouse operations.

Arrangements like these make sense because some areas of law enforcement require specially trained people. They would have to be separate operations whichever department conducted them.

But state lawmen already investigate drug cases.

Moving the Board of Pharmacy investigations to Law Enforcement can only improve them.

Los Angeles Times Syndicate

WASHINGTON — Washington has a real case of the jitters this week. With all the publicity concerning the FBI sting operation, you just don't know whom to trust any more.

The people it's been hardest on have been the real Arab sheiks who fit in and out of the capital trying to do legitimate business.

One Sheik Al-Jarim checked into his hotel the other day and ordered a bottle of champagne and a round of caviar. The waiter who brought it up winked at him as he opened the bottle of champagne. "I guess this is pretty good living for you, says," he said to the sheik. "Of course, it's all taxpayers' money."

Sheik Al Jarim said, "I do not understand what you are talking about."

The waiter poked the sheik in the ribs with his elbow. "Don't worry, Miac. Your secret is safe with me. Where did you rent the duds for the seam?"

The sheik angrily told the waiter to get out of the manager's office.

This is Sheik Al-Jarim, and one of your water's was very rude to me."

"Sorry about that, Jarim, but the Justice Department didn't tell us you were coming, but we had arranged to send you to jail. Do you need any extra TV cameras or tape-recording machines?"

"I will tell you what I need when I need it. Your hotel was recommended by my brother, Prince Ardir, as the finest in the city."

"We haven't had any complaints. But we're looked solid, so don't expect a discount just because you're using our place for a stogie."

The sheik slammed down the phone in anger. A few minutes later an American oil company executive called up and had arranged for the sheik to have dinner with a very charming lady who free-lanced for the refinery division.

A reservation had been made at one of the best Washington restaurants. The woman picked up the sheik at his hotel.

As they got to talking, a man came over and said, "My client's willing to make a deal with you."

"I have no idea what you're talking about."

"He'll blow the whistle on three New Jersey mafia capos if you erase the video-tapes of him stuffing your marked greenbacks into his joggant pants."

The sheik called over to the captain. "I don't know what this man wants, but he is bothering me."

The lawyer got up. "Okay, my guy's willing to be a pal, but we need something in exchange. How about knocking the charges down to 'taking an illegal campaign contribution'?"

The sheik turned to the woman, "I don't understand what has happened in your city since I was here the last time. I'm trying to invest $50 million in this town and no one treats me with any respect."

"I'll bet you G-men tell that to all your girls."

"What is a G-man?" the sheik demanded.

"You're really off the wall, sheik, or whatever your name is. Hey, there's a pal of mine, Sen. Dingledorf. Pocchie, you haven't called me in ages."

"Been campaigning?"

"Pocchie, this is my good friend. Sheik something-or-another."

"Stay away from me!" Sen. Dingledorf warned the sheik. "You're not going to entrap me. I don't want anything from you, and I hope I'm saying it right into your camera."

"I didn't offer you anything," the sheik said.

"You heard him, everybody," the senator yelled to the whole room. "He didn't offer me anything. He didn't take anything. You're all witnesses. The senator then ran out of the restaurant."

"I think I better go back to my hotel," the sheik said.

"All right," the girl replied. "But first tell me how you people got Dillinger."

Less talking-ton

Editor, Times-News:

Recent City Council action has spurred these comments. Some weeks ago the council went on record favoring an intensive search for the right person to fill the vacated city manager position. A job description was circulated following employment regulations of Affirmative Action Equal Opportunity Employment and three selections were made.

All well and good. Now the council seemingly has decided to move the assistant manager into the manager's position without continuing the screening process. Four council members are ready to vote without any further investigations into the qualifications of the other candidate. AW says continuing the screening of applicants would appear to only appease the people. CT wants to save $1,000 interview costs. HW says we have a local man and he should be given a chance.

Whoops! Did everyone see the railroad go by? What happened to the needs of the city? The people of Twin Falls deserve the best possible person in that position regardless of whether he is local or out of state. It should be the obligation of the council to carry out the selection process in order to arrive at the right decision. Have you stopped to consider the legality of improper affirmative action procedures? Why then have four members verbally agreed on a selection before the final screening is completed?

Is this the same kind of intelligent decision making that bought our famed sewer project? The $1,000 interview costs could be saved hundreds of times over if we can prevent another boondoggle. The city should have realized over $1,000 on salary savings from the manager's vacancy, by now, anyway. The recent election has pointed out that many people of the city are already fed up with the council form of government.

Accept your responsibility and make a thorough search for the right person. Make it clear from the start that the city manager will not have an assistant. Look at the money you would save then, CT. If our local candidate proves to be the most competitive, fine, otherwise, make your selection based on the needs of the city. Based on Monday night's activity, we need a little less talking-ton and a little more thinking-ton.

Editor, Times-News:

Although I am not inclined to writing opinions to the editors of newspapers and magazines, I feel compelled to put my thoughts into type.

Now, live in the country where the only TV receiving antenna is Channel 11. Unless you happen to put up an expensive antenna, cable is not at present available. How sad!

This being winter, with long cold nights, it seems reasonable to think that more than a few of the populace will be snug and warm at home. Maybe watching T.V. Maybe just resting and relaxing with a hot toddy. But, for those who choose to watch T.V., look out! Now a four percentage probably have 1 to 4 or 5 channels to choose from, while the rest of us must be content with just one, KMVT.

Now what, you may wonder, is all this leading up to?

I can't count on all of my appendages (or all of my friends') the number of times that I've really been in for a show or movie, just to have "we are experiencing technical difficulties" or "atmospheric conditions beyond our control are interfering with our microwave transmission from Salt Lake," or Denver or Tijuana. Considering the quality of Channel 11, I'm inclined to believe that the latter city is more like it.

Among many people I know, KMVT is considered quite the standing joke. Is it the atmospheric conditions of Southern Idaho or just outdated equipment that prohibits a decent picture? Or is it that KMVT can't keep good help? Is your station a pre-school for newscasters and engineers just starting out? What method do you use? TRI and error?

Face it, KMVT. You have got to get your act together. Put on decent shows, decent movies. We are fairly intelligent people, or didn't that ever cross your conservative minds. Quit insulting my hand with the crud you show, WKRP, MASH, and Saturday Night Live, are the only shows worth watching. And the movies? Once every three months a good one somehow slips by and you actually show it. After all the thousands of movies made, is it too much to ask to have some decent ones aired? And once, oh please, could you show a movie without a blackout, breakdown or blip?

Enough is enough. Spend a little money, upgrade your broadcasting equipment, and I guarantee, we'll all be happy.

Protect families

Editor, Times-News:

With state and federal governments waging an all out war against the family, churches and Christian schools, every right thinking American should support Nevada Sen. Laxalt's Family Protection Act now under consideration in Washington as Senate Bill S. 1099.

Today, hundreds of court cases are in progress against churches, pastors, schools and parents. Christian Law Association's nine full time lawyers are unable to keep abreast of new court cases. In California, four church buildings have already been confiscated by the state with sixty more churches in the same danger.

Parents are being sued for spanking children (this was not abuse, and some have been jailed. Pastors have been ordered for having a non-approved school in their church. Churches have been closed because of zoning or other unreasonable local regulations. In one American city, Vacation Bible School was ruled illegal in a church building where Sunday school was held each Sunday. Church related children's homes, though superior to state institutions, were sued for closure by the state.

With the anti-family and non-scriptural Equal Rights Amendment being shoved down our throats, with legislation now in Washington which would give homosexuals and lesbians the right to teach our children in public schools, with over nine million babies murdered in America in the last decade through abortion, with most public schools having over-falling test scores and increasing discipline and moral problems, and with violence and broken families an ever-increasing problem, we need Senate Bill S. 1099.

The increasing power of bureaucrats from city levels through the federal level to meddle in family and church affairs will eventually result in the loss of all our freedoms. We need to speak to our Senators and Representatives in Washington to support Sen. Laxalt's Family Protection Act.

WASHINGTON — Dr. James R. Privitera Jr., of Covina, Calif., has been convicted of an outrageous crime. He is now in prison. The U.S. Supreme Court has denied his petition for appeal. Gov. Jerry Brown has refused a pardon. But if public opinion in a free society still has influence, surely public opinion should be heard in this incredible affair.

What is the outrageous crime of Dr. Privitera? He has prescribed ampydalin, pharmacaceutically known as laetrile, for cancer patients. And under the law of California, this is a criminal offense.

This is precisely the kind of statute one finds in a totalitarian regime, where medical practice is dictated by the state. Under California law, cancer patients are effectively limited to 11 surgery, 22 radiation or 13 chemotherapy. They may be hopelessly, terminally ill. The California medical establishment could not care less. No "Unapproved" innovations are permitted. The wishes of an informed, knowledgeable patient are immaterial.

The purpose of California's Health and Safety Code may be laudable. It is to protect the people from quacks, cultists and purveyors of snake oil. Up to a point, laws intended to prevent the people from acting foolishly may be tolerated. Beyond that point, the right of the people to be wrong must constantly be protected. In the matter of laetrile, California has tossed that fundamental principle out the window.

Dr. Privitera is no quack. He is a licensed medical doctor who received his M.D. degree from the Creighton University School of Medicine in Omaha. He interned at Providence Hospital in Seattle and at Presbyterian Hospital in San Francisco. He then he entered private practice in allergy and nutrition.

His practice led to an interest in the properties of amygdalin, in combination with enzymes and vitamin therapy. He was encouraged by the results he was getting. Then, in October, 1974, he was given treatment ordinarily reserved for armed robbers. Police arrested him in the middle of the night, put him in handcuffs and took him to jail on a conspiracy charge — conspiracy to prescribe an unapproved medicine. A Superior Court Judge in San Diego threw that charge out of court, but the harassment continued.

The state brought a second charge against him, and this time got a conviction and a sentence to six months in jail. In the Fourth District Court of Appeal, Judge Robert Stanforth wrote a masterful opinion holding the California statute unconstitutional. The state appealed, and Dr. Privitera lost 5-2 in the state Supreme Court. Chief Justice Rose Elizabeth Bird adopted Stanforth's opinion as her own dissent. Let me quote from that opinion:

"So long as there is no clear evidence that laetrile is unsafe to the user, I believe each individual patient has a right to obtain the substance from a licensed physician who feels it appropriate to prescribe it to him."

"The issue here is human liberty. Can the informed cancer-ridden patient be limited in choice of treatment to 'state sanctioned' alternatives? . . . The right to control one's own body is not restricted to the wise; it includes the foolish's refusal of medical treatment. . . . To require the doctor to use only orthodox 'state sanctioned' methods of treatment under the threat of criminal penalty for variance is to invite a repetition in California of the Soviet experience with Lysenkoism. The mention of a requirement that licensed doctors must prescribe and treat within 'state sanctioned' alternatives raises the specter of medical stagnation at best, statism; paternalistic 'big Brother' at worst."

"The evidence in this case shows without exception that the cancer victims were knowledgeable persons fully aware of the state sanctioned alternatives. These are not wide-eyed country bumpkins asking to be condescended. They felt the imminence of death."

Under these circumstances, said the dissenters, to imprison a doctor who is willing to try an unapproved drug with the consent of his patient reacted "to a new depth of inhumanity." I cannot, for the life of me, comprehend the cruelty of the California law.

Lobbyists spending more, reporting less

Idaho's lobbyists are lobbying more but reporting less.

At least that's what an examination of Sunlight Law lobbyist disclosure forms indicates. As of Tuesday, a week after lobbyists were required to file itemized listings of their expenditures and lobbying activities during the month of January, 47 lobbyists had yet to turn in their disclosure reports.

The intent of the Sunlight Law was to give voters a better look at how lobbyists operate during the legislative session. The filing of itemized financial reporting forms is central part of that law.

What is known so far, according to a Times-News examination of those lobbyist reports that have been filed with the Secretary of State, is that lobbying has taken a sharp financial upswing this year.

In January of 1979, there were 256 registered lobbyists. They spent only $23,801.75 for the entire month.

This 1980 January shows a so far filed reports for this year have already exceeded that total. The incomplete total of lobbyist expenditures for January of this year is $29,675.80.

Several lobbyists recorded expenditures of more than $1,000 during January. Those lobbyists, the organizations they represent, and the totals they spent are:

- O.J. Bohne, the Idaho Manufactured Housing Association, $3,046.60.
- Barbara Gwartney, Idaho Inkeepers Association, Idaho Restaurant and Beverage Association, Idaho State-Bowling Proprietors Association, $2,500.
- Michael L. Hicks, Washington Water Power Company, $1,270.76.
- Melissa Nelson, Steve Swanson, Thomas Moffatt, J. Charles Blanton, all lobbyists for the Idaho Society of Certified Public Accountants, a grand total of $1,841.51.

- Robert Kinhorn, Idaho State AFL-CIO, $4,329.40.
- Ezra H. Moore, Idaho Association of School Administrators, Idaho Civic Union League, Canyon School District 139, ISD Cooperative Service Center, $1,322.21.
- H.W. Skip White, Associated Logging Contractors, $1,114.14.

This is the second year in a row that the Inkeepers Association and the Restaurant and Beverage Association, as well as Washington Water Power and Ezra-Moore spent more than $1,000 during the first month of the legislative session.

Sometimes you find the most interesting things in a candidate's campaign reports.

Buried in the half-inch thick stack of papers, listing the persons and organizations supporting the re-election campaign of Democratic Senator Frank Church, is a $75 donation from Boise attorney John T. Hawley.

Hawley, for those who have forgotten, was Church's Republican opponent in the U.S. Senate race of 1962. In fact, Hawley received more than 45 percent of Idaho's votes that year. In a quarter-century of attempts, no Republican has ever come closer to unseating Church.

But it was an embarrassed Hawley who talked to me this week.

"No, I'm not a Democrat. I'm supporting Symms," he said.

And the donation?

It was a ticket to last year's fundraiser for Church, attended by Vice President Walter Mondale, Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus and singer Carole King. "I went to see the stars," Hawley explained.

Maybe, big-name endorsements count for something after all.

Palestinian guerrillas, Lebanese troops trade artillery fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanon's shaky political balance appeared on the brink of collapse Wednesday with the outbreak of gun fight between Palestinians and Lebanese army troops, clashes in the north between rival Christian militias and the kidnapping of a leading Christian politician. Syrian troops armed with AK-47 rifles and rocket-propelled grenades were put on alert in Beirut, police sources said, and have reinforced their guard around all major government buildings. In the capital in anticipation of escalating violence.

Police sources said Palestinian guerrillas belonging to the Syrian-backed Salqa group Wednesday exchanged heavy artillery, mortar and machine gun fire with about 200 Lebanese troops at the Chehab army barracks near Beirut airport.

Leftists seize Panamanian Embassy and public building

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist militants Wednesday seized the Panamanian Embassy and El Salvador's public works building and took at least 63 people hostage, including the Panamanian ambassador, witnesses said.

After bloody clashes between government forces and leftists in which at least 10 people died and 16 others were injured.

Militants inside the embassy told UPI in a phone conversation they were holding Ambassador David Perez, consul Maria Barrasa and one Salvadoran domestic employee "as guarantees for their safety."

"This is a peaceful takeover. We are unarmed but we will stay here until the government releases 23 of our 'comrades' seized Tuesday and until authorities give us the bodies of the five 'League' members they murdered," a spokesman said.

At least 50 members of the leftist Feb. 28 Popular Leagues occupied the Panamanian Embassy in the western section of San Salvador, witnesses said.

These championships are sponsored by: Ullman Construction Co., Donnelley Sports, George K's Fine Foods, Clos Book Store, Professional Pharmacy, 7-Up Bottling Co., Times-News, Big Jack's Pro-Engineered Buildings.

Rival Rhodesian leaders meet

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Rival guerrilla leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo, both hoping to come to power in this month's independence elections, met Wednesday for the first time since returning to Rhodesia from years in exile.

wife runs away, what can you do?" Nkomo asked. He said Mugabe had gone off on a separate path from the Patriotic Front, "so you must ask him."

The military command announced that guerrillas ambushed a civilian bus Tuesday night, killing one woman and injuring several other peoples in the attack on the main Bindura road, about 40 miles north of the capital.

In the last day, the command said, four guerrillas were killed in clashes between security forces and rogue guerrillas.

One of the items Mugabe and Nkomo did agree on was a demand that British Governor Lord Soames remove all South African troops from the country and withdraw Rhodesian security forces which were ordered to be placed in the field.

"The two leaders, whose nominal alliance in the Patriotic Front helped bring an end to white rule in the country, would not disclose the nature of the discussions but told a news conference they agreed to meet again.

Nkomo said they discussed "serious issues," but added there was really no chance of the two patching up their political differences in time for the parliamentary elections scheduled for the last three days of the month.

HEARTS AND ...
 When Ann and Nancy Wilson turned out for a speaking engagement on the UCLA campus in Los Angeles, they got more than just a spectacular 1,500-student turnout. They got a 40-pound candy valentine from fans of their rock group Heart. The sisters — vocalist and guitarist, respectively — were the first rockers to speak on the California campus in more than 10 years. Valentine's Day marks release of their new Epic label album, "Bebe Le Strange."

WEDDING BELLS
 Tyra Persen figures she'll never be too old for one more project — so she's taken a husband. Miss Persen — one of the wealthiest women in Sweden and founder of the Foundation for Animals' Rights — Monday wed Kurt Forsberg in her home village of Los. They met when he volunteered to help her run the foundation. He's 55. She's 59.

'HEYYYYY'
 "The Fonz" may fade one day into the ratings, but his jacket, at least, belongs in the news. Henry Winkler donated the black leather trademark of his Fonzie character on "Happy Days" to the Smithsonian Institution Tuesday. It goes on display with the ruby slippers Judy Garland wore in "The Wizard of Oz" and the easy chairs Archie and

Edith occupied in "All in the Family." Smithsonian curator Carl Scheele praises "Happy Days" — says it's "not at all vapid."

SOLDIER'S SOLDIER
 With more than 68 years of service under his belt, Omar Bradley — the nation's only living five-star general — has been on active duty longer than any soldier in American history. Tuesday, he celebrated his 87th birthday at Fort Bliss in El Paso, Texas, where he was honored by about 70 guests and a 20-man chorus which sang Bradley's favorite songs — including "Doc Face Soldier," a ditty his troops, which at one time numbered 1.3 million, sang during World War II.

DON'T GO HOME
 Mark Thatcher says he's going to catch it now for sure. He's just signed up to model clothing for a Japanese firm — while foreign competition tears Britain's own clothing industry to shreds. It's London union leader Neil Kearney, "shameful and shameless" — but it's his mum, young Thatcher, fears to face. Says he of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher — "I'm — sure she'll go up the wall." He adds she may even order him out of England, and says he'd go "like a shot."

Janssen, 49, dies of stroke

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — David Janssen, star of "The Fugitive" and "Harry O" television shows, died of an apparent massive heart attack early Wednesday at his Malibu Beach home. He was 49. Paramedics who were summoned by Janssen's wife, Dani, tried to revive the actor but he was pronounced dead on arrival at Sante Monica Hospital Medical Center. "When we arrived, there was no heart beat and he was not breathing," Keno Devarney, Malibu fire captain, said. "The paramedics applied cardio-pulmonary resuscitation and forced oxygen therapy. They kept the body alive but Janssen never regained a heartbeat. "We're assuming it was a heart attack," Devarney said. "But his wife said he had no heart history and she knew of nothing which might have provoked the attack." A family friend said the actor finished the second day of filming in a new TV movie, "Father-Damien-Lepor Priest," Tuesday and apparently was all right when he had dinner with his wife that night. Mrs. Janssen summoned the paramedics from their station half a block away about 4:20 a.m. The actor was pronounced dead at the hospital shortly after 5 a.m. Janssen's long-time friend and fellow actor, Stuart Whitman, was among the first to know of his death this morning when he drove past the Janssen's beach home at 4:30 a.m. and saw paramedic and fire trucks parked at the house. "I rushed into the house and saw a bunch of men working feverishly to save David's life," Whitman said. "They finally got his heart going by mechanical means and put him in an ambulance. I took his wife, Dani, to the hospital where their doctor, Rex Kennamer, said he was dead. Kennamer attended Gary Cooper at his death and at one time took care of Elizabeth Taylor. Three months ago Janssen estimated he had appeared in more than 100 feature and TV films in a career that began at Universal Pictures where he made 32 movies, most of them "B" pictures. He broke into television in 1957 in the title role of the "Richard Diamond" series, playing a tough detective, and went on to star in three other series, "The Fugitive," "Harry O" and "Hara, U.S. Treasury Agent." In recent years he devoted most of his professional life to TV films. Last year he starred in "S.O.S. Titanic," "Fear in the City," "High Ice" and "The Golden Gate Murders." Janssen was born in Napoleon, Neb., in 1930, the son of a banker and an aspiring actress. His parents were divorced when he was a year old and the infant laured with his mother in "Rio Rita," which led to Hollywood.

Trainee abuse: a serious problem for the Army?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army is still not seriously concerned about the problem of trainee abuse, despite the deaths of two recruits at a training camp in 1978 and other incidents, a House subcommittee said Wednesday.

The deaths at Fort Jackson, S.C., were "attributable mainly to the lack of effective supervision of drill sergeants at Army training centers," the Armed-Services subcommittee said in a report.

Superior officers, including colonels and commanding generals, "also must be held responsible for abuse which occurs in their commands," the panel said.

If they are held responsible, they will soon become more concerned and take action to eliminate the practice," the report said.

Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., the subcommittee chairman, noted that no officer above the rank of captain was disciplined following the tragic

Fort Jackson deaths, "let alone being court-martialed."

"The very light sentences imposed on the sergeants found guilty of the deaths demonstrate that the Army is still not really seriously concerned about trainee abuse," he said.

The two Fort Jackson trainees — Pvt. Wayne Krasov and Lester Watts — died within hours of reporting to the base June 29, 1978. Despite the intense heat and high humidity that day, trainees in their company generally were subjected to strenuous exercise, harassment and abuse, investigations later showed.

Another incident was reported the following month at Fort Dix, N.J., where 20 recruits were subjected to systematic abuse.

"In its process for selecting drill sergeants, the Army has neither a psychological test nor a stress test to determine an individual's suitability for this demanding role," the subcommittee said.

"There are too few officers assigned to the training companies and those who are lack the experience and maturity essential for supervising the drill sergeants in the training of recruits," it said.

At Fort Jackson, one drill sergeant was convicted of manslaughter and dereliction of duty and was demoted, sentenced to six months hard labor and forfeited two-thirds of his pay for six months. The other sergeant was demoted and forfeited one month's pay.

Dogs kill two infants; territorial instinct blamed

United Press International
Two infants slain by pet dogs in separate attacks during a two-day period may have been victims of the dogs' territorial protection instincts, which "incite" them to "destroy the intruder," an expert said Wednesday. An infant girl was attacked and killed by a dog while visiting with her parents at the home of friends in in Meredith, Mich., Tuesday. On Monday, a 3 1/2-week-old boy was killed by his grandmother's dog at the grandmother's home in Milwaukee. Both attacks involved Siberian huskies.

Dr. Ward Richter, director of animal research at the University of Chicago, said the attacks appeared unusual — because they did not involve dog packs — and apparently were motivated by the dogs' instincts to protect their territory.

Police in Meredith said they had no idea why a husky attacked and killed 27 day old Shannon Marie Hickok. The dog's stomach was pumped and the content tested to determine if the animal merely mauled the child or was trying to eat it, police said. The dog was not destroyed.

"We want to determine the stomach content to see whether there was any human content in it," a police spokesman said.

The Milwaukee attack was similar.

Officials said the child — James Glen Gradecki, was sleeping at his grandmother's when the dog pulled him from the bed and mauled him. Again, police were at a loss for a reason.

Richter targeted instinctive territorial protection.

Horoscope

Pisceans have chance to display talents, impress higher-ups

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Carry through a course of action that has proved satisfactory in the past and resist the urge to change present arrangements by which you have had success and happiness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to gain your aims by using more modern methods and get fine results. A direct course is the best to follow now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Private endeavors are fine to follow now, but be sure to carry through with what associates expect of you without deviating.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have excellent plans for getting ahead, but don't be too hasty in putting them in operation. Make good arrangements first.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to be more successful in business dealings and be more productive. Be more reassuring to mate.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listening with interest to what allies have to say helps them to cooperate more with you, and you with them. Be wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Making needed changes where your work is concerned will bring more worthwhile results. The evening can be a most happy one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have had a new interest in mind for some time, so delve into it now and get excellent results. Take no risks in motion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There are conditions at home you want to clear up, but you could lose out on an important business matter, so postpone for now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Obtain important data you need from the right sources, then go ahead with plans you have made. Smile and be happy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Assets from different sources could come your way at this time. The daytime may be taxing, but the evening can be delightful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't permit anyone to force you into some situation that you know is not right for you. Be poised at all times today.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Express your fine ability when called upon to do so today and please higher-ups. Come to a fine understanding with co-workers.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can easily get along well with others, so be sure to give the best education you can afford and future success is assured. Give ethical training early in life. Sports are a must in this chart.

Remarriage statistics differ with situation

Consider that man who gets married a second time. If a widower, he most probably lost his wife after 16 years of marriage, and he doesn't marry again until he's age 44, just three and a half years after her death. If divorced, he most probably parted from his first wife after seven years of marriage, and he doesn't marry again until he's age 33, only two and a half years after the divorce. Such are the statistics in our Love and War man's files.

Why is the spin put on a billiard ball called English? So asked a client. Am now informed that can be credited to a British billiard whiz. He came over here and beat his socks off so many Americans that his nationality became the common word for his technique.

POINTED TEETH

Q. Why do some native tribespeople in Africa sharpen their teeth to points?
A. Makes it easier to eat roasted monkey meat. It's said to be like human flesh in that it sticks to the bone unless especially well done. Or so reports a gourmet with considerable experience in Africa.

Q. Do you know who invented paper cups?
A. David F. Martin of St. Paul, Minn., was the fellow. He travelled a lot. And got fed up with dirty drinking glasses. In 1910, that was. The notion made him a millionaire.

Q. How much does it cost to put a Broadway musical show together?
A. About $1.5 million.

CHANGE

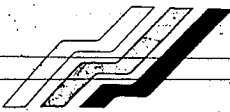

An astonishing number of depressed sickly women reverse their acts completely after the age of 45 or 50. No need to get too clinical here about change of life. Let it be enough to name such powerful performers as Saint Theresa, Florence Nightingale, Dorothea Dix and Jane Addams. Until that certain age, they were mopey, all. Then, bingo, out of the blocks they leaped.

Political scholars say there has not been a certifiably honest election in the history of Bolivia. They count 187 revolutions and palace revolts there in the last 154 years.

The old belief among the Cree was that animals let themselves be killed out of respect for the Indians.

Ivery Gepner, 79, sews a fine seam

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "God gave me hands and eyes to work with," is Ivery Gepner's philosophy.

And he intends to go right on using both of them. The fact he will be 80 in June seems almost superfluous.

A man who has done tailoring practically all his life, Gepner is scornful of retirement.

"I looked the word up in the dictionary recently," he said. "It means to quit active life and go into seclusion."

Gepner, a trim, articulate man, wants no part of that. And since he owns his own business which he and his wife operate in a modern shop next to their home, he can easily ignore prosaic retirement regulations.

At mid-life he quit a career of selling and display work (but it always seemed to include alterations, too) to join his wife in her sewing business after he realized he could "make more money working for myself."

And when they had to relocate the business about 10 years ago during the Urban Renewal project of the Downtown Mall, at an age when most people would be "going into seclusion" (or sure, he moved their business into his home shop.

The Gepners, who came to Twin Falls in 1938 from Jerome, purchased their present property 10 years later. During the early 1950's he built the entire house himself, including the electrical work and cabinets.

At that time he had the idea that eventually he would have his tailoring shop in the basement, but eventually he decided to move out of the old buildings on the lot in the 300 block of Blue Lakes Boulevard and build a roomy shop adjoining his brick home.

"I was spending money (on the construction) faster than Mrs. Gepner could make it in her shop," he laughed, referring to the years he spent in building his home, and later adding, the shop.

Gepner comes by his flair for tailoring naturally. When he was 11 years old his mother, a Swedish woman, taught him to use the sewing machine. And his father liked working with his hands.

But he credits his wife, Gladys, as the main reason for the long years of success in the Gepner tailor-business.

"She was sewing when I met her," he laughed, "and she's been sewing ever since."

As a girl herding cows in Oregon, she'd sit on the bank and do hand sewing, Gepner said of his wife. Her treadle Singer sewing machine has been in constant use for more than 50 years.

Longtime Twin Falls tailor Ivery Gepner believes in using the hands and eyes God gave him. He and his wife, Gladys, in background, have worked together for years.

Gepner is a native Kansan, being born at Idaho Falls in 1900, but when he was 2 years old his parents moved to Olympia, Wash., where his father worked as a conductor on an electric excursion type motor car.

The elder Gepner had tired of farming and was seeking an occupation where he could work with his hands. When his son was about 7 or 8 the family moved to Albany, Ore., where Gepner met his future wife.

Gepner graduated from high school there in 1917 and did a brief military stint in World War I. In 1920 he started traveling for a chain store doing display work.

He and Gladys Jones were married in Portland in 1926.

Later Gepner worked for the L.C. Penney Co. for 12 years in Jerome, where Mrs. Gepner also was employed by the firm as a tailor.

In each store in which he was employed Gepner favored a selling position because "there was more money and less work."

But it seemed he always ended helping with alterations, too, as soon as his ability was discovered. "I had all I want of stores," the tailor said with conviction.

When they moved to Twin Falls in 1933, Gepner worked for the Idaho Department Store, starting in the shoe department, handling the boy Scout department and, inevitably, working in alterations.

The next year, in 1934, Mrs. Gepner opened her own tailoring business in the Smith-Tree building, over The Paris store.

She had three women working for her but soon her husband found himself pressed "figuratively speaking" into helping out at night.

"It was nothing for us to work till midnight night after night," he said.

In the mid-40s Gepner, realizing his wife's business offered the best future, quit his job to join her in an expanded tailor shop.

They have been working together, apparently amicably, ever since.

"Where else could servicemen get their uniforms sewn on?" Gepner said.

One year Gepner did 92 conversions from double breasted to single breasted suits.

In his earlier years in the business, Gepner mainly produced tailor made warts which would cost the customer about $125.

"Now the same suits would cost $50 to $100. Gepner turns down most such requests, concentrating on alterations because of increasing costs.

"People come in and ask me what I'm going to do with all my money" he laughed, "I tell them money is no object. Look at the good I am doing, helping people who need their clothes altered."

"The Gepners have two children, Elbert Gepner of Twin Falls, who is continuing the family tradition of working with his hands in his upholstery business, and a daughter, Donna Woodall of Tampa, Fla. There are five grandchildren.

Gepner has been active in the various Masonic bodies, having held several offices in the Shriner's Club.

As a more than 40-year resident of Twin Falls, Gepner has a wide acquaintance both through his business and Masonic contacts. He maintains a lively interest in community life, while continuing to put both his eyes and his hands to good use.

Ever thought of starting your own business?

By Lou Cotlin
(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Let's add up the possibilities for achieving a happy, fulfilling, useful retirement.

We'll pass up the doubtful joy of sleeping until 10 a.m. on weekday mornings.

We'll even overlook the routine of playing games for the rest of our lives. That, too, quickly becomes boring.

Money? Yes, that question has a bearing upon our retirement happiness. In most cases, retirement means income is cut in half.

Retirement is not just a two- or three-week vacation. Inevitably, the fourth week comes along.

You can't run away from retirement. Every day is Saturday. What can you do?

What's left over from your former work experience?

"Plenty," you say. "Knowledge. Experience. Know-how. Disciplined work habits."

Remember how many times you muttered, "If I were starting this business, I'd show 'em how to operate."

Well, why not? Start a business of your own.

Get together a number of retirees — all experienced workers. Set up a plan.

Get in touch with the Small Business Administration. Present the proposal for your business. The agency can help with your project.

First a little background about the SBA:

It is a small, dynamic independent federal agency created to assist, counsel and finance small businesses. It also offers management training and help for small businesses in getting a fair share of government contracts.

The SBA was established "to promote free enterprise" by helping weak competitors. A small business is defined as one that is independently owned and operated and that is not dominant in its field.

The agency operates about 20 programs involving about $4 billion per year.

One of the ways the SBA helps small business is by forming "Small Business Investment Companies" (originally called "Minority Enterprise Small Business Investment Companies").

These companies are designed to "assist small business concerns owned and operated by socially or economically disadvantaged persons." We seniors as a group certainly fit that category.

And the SBA should begin to view us in that light.

Teachers receive the most valentines

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Valentine's Day may be the red letter day for sweethearts and lovers, but they receive far fewer valentines than school teachers.

Children outnumber adults, about four to one, in sending these missives of love. Mothers receive about as many valentines as they have children. Aunts, uncles, sisters and brothers are high on the list, all of them beneficiaries of related offspring.

But teachers receive more valentines than anyone else, mostly through the sheer number of youngsters displaying classroom affection.

This is the consensus of members of the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, Washington, D.C.

Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, is second only to Christmas as an occasion for sending greeting cards, according to Norman S. Halliday, executive vice president of the publishers' association.

"When the love bug bites, nearly everyone writes," he said.

A sampling of trends within the 55-member publishers' association indicates that men tend to purchase the most expensive and romantic valentine designs; that women are generally receptive to sending and receiving all types of valentines, whether romantic or humorous, that most youngsters prefer to deliver their valentines personally.

About 80 percent of adults prefer to mail their valentines and there is a resurgence of interest in 19th century designs embossed or lithographed with cupids, hearts, flowers and lace.

It was not always so. In the 1890's many valentines were crudely illustrated with caricatures of young ladies and their suitors. The valentines were sold for a penny apiece and, like the "blood and thunder" magazines of that era, they were aptly named "penny dreadfuls."

The origin of Valentine's Day is medieval. One legend holds that Emperor Claudius forbade his constituency to marry because it distracted men from their military duty.

One of Claudius' subjects — Valentine, a romantic Christian — ignored this directive, pairing lovers in secret marriage until he was arrested.

It is generally believed that Saint Valentine was martyred in Rome Feb. 14, 270 A.D. Since then, many writers, including Chaucer, have mixed fact and fable to mark this special date.

It is usually conceded that love and romance are baffling emotions. If these emotions aren't complicated enough, the greeting card publishers say that about a quarter of all valentine cards will be sent without a signature or with the simple query, "Guess who?"

Anniversaries

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH D. JONES

BIHLL. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Jones of Idaho will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Feb. 17. An open house is being held in their honor from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Heritage Hall, 100 N. Fillmore, in Jerome. Kenneth Jones and Pearl Drake were married Feb. 14, 1930, at St. Anthony. They have resided in Idaho 40 years of their married life, approximately 20 years in the Jerome area. The reception will be hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Perrill of Texas and Mr. and Mrs. Elyer Albertson of Oregon. They have four grandchildren. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

MR. AND MRS. JACK D. CLAIBORN

TWIN FALLS. Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Claiborn of Kimberly celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary over the Christmas holidays while visiting at the home of their son, Col. Edward D. Claiborn of San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Claiborn were married Dec. 25, 1919, at Twin Falls and resided on the Claiborn farm east of Kimberly until 1966 when they moved to Twin Falls. Jack moved with his family from Fayette in 1902 to Kimberly, where he and his sons later operated the Claiborn farms. He served as state representative from 1966-1972. He was active in the Idaho Sugar Beet Growers Association for 35 years, serving as secretary for 9 years and president for 14 years. He was president of National Sugar Beet Growers in 1968. Emily Wall came with her family from Greensboro, N.C., in 1909. After finishing school, she was secretary for the manager of Studebaker Co., where she remained until her marriage. The Claiborns enjoy golf and are active members of the Blue Lakes Country Club. They both are associated with the Kimberly United Methodist Church. The couple has four children—a daughter, Mrs. R.J. Burkey of Ogden; and three sons, William L. Claiborn of Twin Falls, Jack Claiborn of Kimberly, and Col. Edward L. Claiborn of San Francisco. They also have 10 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren.

Mardi Gras dance set

TWIN FALLS. A Mardi-Gras dinner dance is scheduled Feb. 29 at the Twin Falls Elks Lodge. The fund-raising event will benefit the Men's Crisis Center, Men's Rehabilitation Center and the juvenile outpatient program, all operated by the Magic Valley Alcoholism Rehabilitation Center. The semi-formal affair will begin with a social hour at 7 p.m. followed by dinner at 8 p.m. Music for dancing will be provided by the Dale-Plot Orchestra from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Co-chairmen of the dinner are Shauna Fuller and Cheryl Olson. Tickets are $15 per couple and may be obtained by calling 734-9001 or 734-5190. They are available at the Men's Center, Women's Clinic, Canton or at the offices of Seeley, Jones and Fuller in Jerome or they will be delivered, according to Barry H. Meyers.

Cash project tried

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Pilot projects in eight states will give cash in lieu of food stamps to some eligible elderly and disabled persons to find out if more people will be encouraged to take part in the government program. Only about half of the eligible households with elderly and disabled members now get food stamps. The Agriculture Department said Wednesday the pilot projects will begin operating in April. Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said, "We hope to find out whether providing cash instead of food stamps will encourage elderly and handicapped people to take part in the program." The project also will test whether more aged and disabled persons will take part in the program if they can apply at Social Security offices, instead of at food stamp offices.

Posse sets sweetheart ball Feb. 16

TWIN FALLS. The Twin Falls County Mounted Sheriff's Posse will hold its annual Sweetheart's Ball Saturday at the Holiday Inn.

The cocktail hour begins at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be at 7:30 p.m. A special belly dancing demonstration will be given at 8:30 p.m. followed by dancing to the music of the "Hits and Misses."

Door prizes will be donated by several Twin Falls businesses. The evening's proceeds will go to help defray expenses in search-and-rescue efforts.

The public is invited. For ticket information and reservations contact posse members or Neil Turner at Macle. Neil Turner was elected president of the Idaho State Mounted Sheriff's Posse Association and Jim Moore, vice president.

The Twin Falls County Mounted Sheriff's Posse has been selected to host the Idaho State Posse meet in June.

Locks studied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Bureau of Standards is measuring the force needed to pull lock mechanisms out of steering columns, and may recommend improvements in the systems as a result. The research was requested by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration because thieves have been removing ignition locks so they can steal cars.

Former banker, turned evangelist to address two local groups

TWIN FALLS — A former banker who "sold out to God" will speak in Twin Falls this weekend.

Douglas L. Mobley, hailed in 1966 as the youngest board chairman of a downtown Tulsa, Okla., bank, will address the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Rogerson Hotel Roundup room. He also will talk at 2 p.m. Sunday at the First Assembly of God Church, 189 N. Locust.

"First, God made me a success in business. Then he told me to sell out and serve Him with the money I made," Mobley has said in describing how he became an evangelist about three years ago.

According to Rev. Roger Loy, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church here, before Mobley began getting out of the business-world-he-owned interests in six other banks as well as serving as Oklahoma's youngest board chairman at National Bank of Commerce in Tulsa in 1965.

Now at 43, he travels throughout the United States and Canada telling people about "salvation" and "healing through Jesus Christ."

The former banker heads the Doug Mobley Evangelistic Association of Tulsa.

The evangelist has said that God told him two things: "I'm going to sell you out of business and I want you to touch people in My name."

Mobley, a Tulsa native, is a 1959 graduate of Oklahoma State University where he majored in business. After graduation he joined the management training program of Mobil Oil Co. in Dallas, working nights and weekends as a housing salesman.

Later he went into the home building business in Dallas and then in Tulsa where he expanded to operate lumber yards in three cities. Finally he had a partner had various business investments in addition to controlling interests in banks.

As a boy Mobley had accepted Christ and joined a church but later got away from it. When he got out of college his one drive was to make all the money he could.

"That was first in my life for quite a few years. My family was a distant second and God played no part at all," he said.

Then one day he began to think he had achieved all kinds of financial victories, but they left him empty.

Later as he was sitting in church, because "it was the thing people expected a successful businessman to do," Mobley said he heard God speak directly to him telling him to give his life back to Him.

Mobley did. His business prospered as never before, but he began to find time for his wife and three children. Finally he was directed to get out of business and start his evangelism work with his own funds.

Mobley still belongs to the First United Methodist Church in Tulsa although he conducts his own meetings in cities across the nation.

He has had miraculous healings, but Mobley emphasizes that the credit does not belong to him but to God.

DOUG MOBLEY Limerence is word for Valentine's

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UPI) — The word for St. Valentine's Day isn't love in Dr. Dorothy Tennov's book. It's limerence.

Ms. Tennov is the author of "Love and Limerence," inspired by her clinical work and 13 years of research while a University of Bridgeport psychologist.

"I have heard tales rivaling the grand amours of fiction. They ranged from a three-day spree in Naples to a 50-year unrequited yearning," she said in an interview.

What is this thing called limerence? "It's constantly thinking about him. Planning ways to make him care. Vividly imagining the first slip of reciprocity (a look, word, or touch). Fear of rejection. Wanting him only," she said.

"Limerence is the source of the greatest happiness known to humans. It is also the source of acute suffering and mental anguish."

Many will recognize the state. Songwriters have had a field day with it for ages. Ms. Tennov gave it a name, arbitrarily picking each letter and arriving at "limerence," and not as some might suspect, through the word "limbic," that part of the brain believed to control emotions and sexual behavior.

She calls limerence part of love's continuum. Basically, though, it's the second stop on love's joy ride after the slam-bang of initial attraction. It can last a lifetime. The average duration is six months to two years. It's apparently instinctual, a force toward mating.

Ms. Tennov says limerence is a spur to divorce as well as marriage and prompts some people to even think of suicide. Her research shows it figures in highway accidents and lost work hours. She believes it is implicated in the teen-age pregnancy epidemic.

Limerence affects the young, the old, the sensitive, the insensitive, the loving, the unloving. Ms. Tennov says she experienced limerence at 8.

"Boy crazy," her father, an Estonian tailor who became a school teacher, called it in her native Brooklyn, N.Y.

She says you can become limerent only with persons of one gender and you can only become limerent with one person at a time. Marrieds as well as singles can become limerent.

A married 42-year-old mother of two teen-age boys whose husband was indifferent found her ideal on a plane bound for Europe. Bells rang, lights flashed, she told Ms. Tennov in a candid 8-page letter she wrote in laughter after reading about Ms. Tennov's initial findings.

Heart fund chairman is named

HAMMETT — Mrs. Charles (Donna) Michael of Hammett has been named chairman of the 4980 Heart Fund campaign in Elmore County.

The appointment was announced by Lou Florence, 1980 State Heart chairman. Mrs. Michael's job will be to coordinate the activities of Heart Fund volunteers as they seek funds for the fight against heart disease, the top killer in the state and the nation.

She will be assisted in the campaign by a vice chairman, publicity chairman and treasurer, as well as heads of various divisions such as special gifts, commerce and industry, residential, professional, education, government and special events. The Job's Daughters of Glenns Ferry will also assist with the drive.

Iran optimism sends market over 900

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Dow Jones industrial average pierced the 900 level Wednesday in its highest level in 17 months in a rally spawned by Iranian peace hopes and a natural gas find. A wave of profit-taking threatened the rally.

Accompanied by the sixth highest trading in history, the Dow average, up 12 points at midday, led to gain 4.56 points to 903.84, the highest level since it finished at 906.44 on Sept. 19, 1978. It gained 9.39 points Tuesday, the Dow had been ahead more than 12 points as rumors persisted that Iran and the United States were about to reach a compromise for the release of 50 American hostages who have been held in Tehran since Nov. 4.

The early rally was sparked by Indiana Standard's report that its Amoco unit had encountered significant amounts of natural gas in the Overthrust Belt in Wyoming. Observers said the find may be one of the largest in the nation.

Against this background, the New York Stock Exchange index gained 0.26 to 67.77 and the price of a share added 14 cents.

After holding a wide trade, advanced edged declines, 904 to 745, among the 1,930 issues traded at 4 p.m. EST.

Big Board volume totaled 65,230,000 shares, up from the 48,000,000 traded Tuesday.

President Carter was expected to discuss the Iranian crisis at his Wednesday night news conference. Iranian President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr said Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini had accepted a secret plan for the release of the hostages. No details were given.

Investors, both foreign and domestic, were flocking to the stock market because of inflation and the uncertain conditions in Iran, Afghanistan and Yugoslavia.

Europeans nervously invested in American stocks as the wretched outlook about Russia, which already has invaded Afghanistan, would now that 47-year-old Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito has slipped into critical condition.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. totaled 71,778,000 shares, up from the 57,794,000 Tuesday.

The American Stock Exchange index lost 1.17 to 287.74 and the price of a share shed 9 cents. The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of OTC stocks gained 0.41 to 164.97.

Review of health district programs begins

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

TWIN FALLS — South Central Health District staff members will begin prioritizing programs and services for possible cuts under the coming budget.

Members of the district health board Wednesday afternoon asked for a review of district programs and recommendations by staff members for possible cuts in anticipating less of revenue.

increase their financial support because of a 1 percent property tax limitation.

Barry Kling, health education officer for the district, suggested the priority system, saying it may be possible for staff members to evaluate each service and program and make recommendations in time for the March or April meetings. The district board will be preparing the coming fiscal year's budget for the May meeting and hopes to have the information available. Chancy said if necessary a special board meeting can be held prior to that time.

Kling said if cuts must be made the only savings that can be achieved will be through staff and program elimination.

"I believe the thing we have to consider first in setting priorities is how the partial program or service affects the health of our community," Kling told board members.

Vera Ryalls, reporting for district medical director, Dr. Wayne Carte, said mandatory state pay raises will probably mean about 10 percent increase for local staff members with regular step raises and cost of living increases. In order to meet this, the districts will probably have to make reductions.

Gwendolyn Krahn, board member representing Carnas County, and chairman of the Physical Health committee, said her committee has also called for an evaluation of all services provided by the district as a means of possibly combining some services and jobs.

The board delayed action on a plan for the North Rim Fairways Planned Unit Development in Jerome County that would allow converting some of the single dwelling lots to condominium sites.

Joe Davidson, representing the developers, said the total project involves 120 acres and 120 building lots.

He said the developers are working with the Jerome County Club and part of the total acreage involves the fairways of the course. With this land involved, he said, the development can meet the requirement for no more than one septic tank per acre although even the condominium units would have separate septic tanks.

A motion for approval of the plan subject to an agreement with the golf course to prohibit housing ever taking the place of the fairways, and approval of the board's legal counsel failed for lack of a second. Davidson said he would withdraw his proposal and meet with the country club and developers to work out the differences and present his request at a later meeting.

Henry Schutte, county commissioner representing Jerome County on the board, urged approval of the project, saying it will mean a lot to Jerome County. He said the land scheduled for development adjoins the golf course and is rocky and not suitable for farming. He said it is ideal for housing development and there is a lot of interest being shown by home builders and residents looking for attractive building sites adjacent to recreational facilities.

Murtaugh Bridge hearing possible

HAZELTON Idaho transportation officials have taken the first legal steps toward replacing the 64-year-old Murtaugh Bridge across the Snake River.

The Idaho Transportation Department served notice that a location and design hearing for the new bridge will be held March 18 if requested. The meeting would be held at 7 p.m. at the Hillsdale Highway District Office in Hazelton.

If no hearing request is received, a department spokesman said, state and local officials will assume the project has popular support and proceed with development.

The new bridge will be located just upstream from the existing structure, and will require an approach road approximately 1,400 feet long to link it with the existing roadway, according to a department news release.

Officials estimated the cost last summer to be $25,000, half of which will be paid with federal funds. The local share, based on a property valuation, amounts to $172,500 for Twin Falls County and $60,000 for Jerome County.

Roadway plans, copies of a project environmental assessment and other pertinent information are available for inspection and copying at the offices of Edwards, Howard, and Martens Inc., a Twin Falls engineering firm.

The transportation department invited persons who believe the project has adverse impacts to request a hearing, or write specific objections to the Idaho Division of Highways or the Federal Highway Administration.

A hearing request should be mailed by March 6 to Hearing Officer, P.O. Box 7129, Boise, Idaho 83707.

Efforts to replace the old wood-and-steel bridge were stalled for several months last year while officials waited for clearance from state and federal agencies regarding historical significance of the creaking relic.

The old bridge has a maximum nine-ton load limit.

Final clearance for the project was received in January.

Fish farm arguments save CSI fish program

BOISE (UPI) — Arguments that the state should aid the booming fish farm industry in Idaho's Hagerman Valley swayed a House committee Wednesday to recommend full funding for a fish technology program at the College of Southern Idaho.

Larry Selland, state vocational education director, told the House Education Committee on Tuesday that the trout retailed in the United States is produced in the southeastern Idaho valley.

Rep. Tom Silvers, R-Twin Falls, said the $24,000 above the present recommended amount that Selland said is needed to keep the fish technology program going at the same level would enhance the booming fish industry.

"Surely that ($24,000) can be squeezed out of somewhere," said

Rep. Roger Guernsey, D-Boise. "That's a tremendous program."

The program trains people for skilled work in fish hatcheries, while the University of Idaho has a program in fish science for the more professional work required at the fish farms.

Rep. Chris Hooper, R-Boise, argued successfully that the fish farms should help fund the program. Selland and Rep. Ron Bettegach, D-Grangeville, said law firms and hospitals don't finance the training of their personnel.

The committee on a split voice vote decided to recommend to the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee that a total of $58,400 for the fish technology and other vocational programs at Idaho institutions be included in the fiscal year 1981 budget.

Restoring a Twin Falls historical landmark, the Justamere Inn, was the idea of Kent Taylor, left, and Dave Armstrong.

In downtown Twin Falls Saving old buildings saves dollars

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The economic advantage of restoring old buildings is saving many of Twin Falls' historic structures and aiding development of the downtown area as a business and professional center.

"Historically, city cores tend to develop into professional centers with specialty shops and some big local merchants," said Twin Falls designer and developer David Armstrong.

Armstrong has been involved in several recent projects including the restoration of the old Times-News Building, where he has an office, and the Justamere Inn, which he worked on with lawyer Kent Taylor. He started restoration work on the Mackenzie building recently, at Shoshone and Second Street West. And a project for a group of lawyers to restore the Magel Tire building, on Third Avenue North, will begin as soon as financing is arranged.

There are tax incentives that make restoration projects particularly attractive, according to Tom Walker Jr., a Twin Falls lawyer. Restoration expenses can qualify for an investment tax credit, he said.

The project must be a true restoration to qualify for tax credits, Armstrong said. As much of the original design and material has to be preserved as possible.

Walker and several partners are responsible for the planned restoration of the Magel Tire building. They didn't start out expecting to restore an old building. They were looking for a building to house their law firm, Walker said. But the tax credits available on a restoration project made it more economical than a new building. "It's an excellent investment," he said.

Another lawyer who was attracted to a restoration project partly because of the tax incentives was Kent Taylor. His restored Justamere Inn, across the street from the County Courthouse, was completed last fall.

Taylor said he has no immediate plans to get involved in another restoration project, but he may in the future if there is enough demand for new office space.

Armstrong said he thinks the downtown area has a bright future as a professional center. It's cheaper to turn an old downtown building into offices than to buy land and build on Huxley Boulevard North, he said.

Also, since the main office of each Twin Falls bank is downtown, lawyers, doctors, accountants and other professionals will tend to locate there if there is space, he said.

There are about a dozen buildings on Main Avenue alone that would be prime candidates for restoration and conversion if they came on the market, Armstrong said. These buildings have facades that obscure the original design of the building and empty second floors that could be remodeled for office use.

One thing Armstrong said he's learned about old buildings is that they really don't build them like they used to. "They build them better," he said.

"Sometimes there is no rhyme or reason to the design," Armstrong said. And some buildings have "questionable" structural systems. It may be that early builders in Twin Falls had to change their designs to use whatever size lumber came in on the train, he said.

One problem for any restoration project is financing, Armstrong said. Banks don't have a lot of experience with restoration projects, so they can be shy about lending money for them, he said.

Another problem is that cost overruns are typical. Until the work begins it's difficult to know exactly how much work is needed to restore an old building, he said. "You have surprises all the way through construction."

Also, without extensive engineering tests, it's hard to know how much life an old building has left, he said. Banks are wary about writing 30-year mortgages on 70-year-old buildings that might not be standing in 30 years.

Armstrong said he got interested in restoring old buildings because he was born and raised in Twin Falls and was disturbed as he watched old buildings demolished or torn down. "I was watching the history of Twin Falls slowly disintegrating," he said.

"Wide streets and modern shopping centers are probably necessary, he said. "But there are times when you can compromise. You don't have to tear down every tree and every old building."

Bodies of 2 airmen taken from crash site

HAILEY — The bodies of two navy airmen killed Saturday when their jet trainer crashed into Boulder Mountain were taken from the scene to the Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Ellis of Custer County said the bodies were removed from the 9,350 foot elevation of the mountain near Galena Summit Sunday evening. He said it appeared both had ejected from the trainer plane but only seconds before the craft crashed and burned. Both apparently died instantly when they struck the mountain. He said the doctor who made the ruling on the cause of death told officers both died of multiple injuries.

Ellis said the bodies were found about 100 feet from the wreckage of the plane. Although closer to Hailey, the crash scene was in Custer County.

Officials of the Wood River Chapel took the bodies to Mountain Home for their investigation by the U.S. Navy.

L. Frank Edwards, 30, of Stockton, Calif., and Lt. J. Michael A. Carpenter, 27, of San Antonio, Texas, were on a routine training flight and were returning from Mountain Home to the Whittier Naval Air Station near Seattle, their home base, when their A-6 jet trainer struck the mountain. Navy officials are still investigating the cause of the crash.

Twin Falls High student reported knifed at school

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls boy was listed in good condition late Wednesday night after allegedly being stabbed by another high school student.

Twin Falls Police said they received a report from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital that a boy was being treated for a stab wound at the hospital at Twin Falls High School sometime during the afternoon.

The name of the victim remained unknown at press time. Police are investigating the case and a full report should be available today, Chief Tim Qualls said.

Executive session Filer council to discuss possible personnel cuts in closed meeting Tuesday

FILER — An executive meeting will be held by the Filer City Council Tuesday to discuss possible personnel cuts.

Mayor Eldon Ryals said he is calling the closed meeting with some reluctance as he is "spooked" about holding executive sessions. He said the news media always hears about them and he is concerned with things he is supposed to have said and done.

He said no action can be taken in an executive session but the council will meet to discuss financial problems under the 1 percent property tax limitation law which may require Filer to cut police and maintenance workers from the payroll. The meeting will be held following a special council session with engineers to discuss the city's sewer improvement project.

Councilman Lee Alexander asked for a meeting to discuss the problem when the council met in regular session last week.

"We may as well face it. It's not going to go away and we have to make a decision," Alexander said.

In an earlier executive meeting, Alexander and Councilman John Giandoni recommended the four-man police department be cut in half and that one city maintenance worker be dropped. In order to balance the budget, the council met with Police Chief Randy Lammers and his officers to explain their plans but took no action at the February council meeting.

Ryals said he had been told by legislators to "sit tight" on the matter since the 1 percent implementation issue is still unresolved.

Other council members say regardless of the 1 percent the city is still in the red because of the cost of the Beans Inc. fire clean up last year and about $13,000 to $18,000 has to be recovered somewhere in order to balance the budget.

Lammers was turned down by the council on a request to allow Ron Moore, one of his officers, to attend the Post Academy police training school in Pocatello in March. He said the officer would pay his own expenses and other officers would cover for him on their own time while he is away. He would then be repaid by the city if the Law Enforcement Planning Commission approved funding of the training.

The city voted the request down, saying Moore is one of the two who may lose his job and they want to wait until a decision on personnel cuts has been made.

Correction

The owners of The Enterprise in Gooding, Robert and Margo Brown, were incorrectly identified in article Wednesday.

The story concerned proposed legal action by the Browns against the Gooding County Commissioners regarding the publishing of legal notices. The Times-News regrets the error.

Officials want to review Lewiston solid waste practices

TWIN FALLS — Arrangements are being made for a group of Twin Falls city and county representatives to Lewiston to inspect solid waste practices.

The officials are particularly interested in Lewiston's recycling program. The officials became interested in recycling because of suggestions made by county residents.

"Twin Falls officials have agreed to take a look at the recycling program in the north Idaho city before making any final commitments on a garbage incinerator plan here.

County Commissioner Chairman Merle E. Leonard said the county and city are prevailing on local pilots to fly two private planes to Lewiston with the local delegation for an on-site inspection.

Leonard said airline schedules between Lewiston and Twin Falls make it impossible for the local delegation to make the visit in one day's time. He said Robert Harney and Fred Wanzendorf of Twin Falls have private planes which would accommodate five or six local delegates.

Leonard said the officials want to make the trip as soon as possible.

He said although the city and county may go ahead and send in a letter of intent for purchase and installation of an incineration system, the action would not constitute a final commitment and the plan could be changed up to the time a purchase is made.

"I'm a firm believer in letting private enterprise handle the services wherever possible, and it may be that we will want to turn the project over to private business at some stage of the project," Leonard said.

He said city and county officials agree the cost of making a personal inspection of the Lewiston operation will be well worth the cost and more satisfactory than a telephone call.

"We don't want to overlook any possibilities. If we can recycle and save money and energy, then we are interested; but we want to find out what experience Lewiston has had and if there is a satisfactory market for the recycled products," Leonard said.

To make 'major announcement' on its future

ABC calls press conference today

BOISE (UPI) — The Anyone But Church group has called a news conference for Thursday morning in Boise to make a "major announcement regarding the future of the project."

Don Todd, director of the group, would not say Wednesday whether ABC would disband now that Republican Rep. Steve Symms has kicked off his campaign to unseat Church.

Todd last year said he would decide after Symms made his long-anticipated candidacy official whether to disband the group or continue its activities against Church. Symms has said he would prefer the group to disband and throw its resources behind him.

The ABC group in recent months has not been buying as much newspaper space and as many television and radio spots to attack Church's record as it did last summer.

State asking residents to review mining rules

BOISE (UPI) — The state Land Board is taking an unusual step to involve citizens by allowing them to review a draft copy of proposed rules governing surface mining in what one official said is an attempt to avoid criticism.

Columnist says Andrus received Mafia funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson claims that Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus received alleged Mafia money during his 1970 campaign for Idaho governor.

Anderson charged in his column Tuesday that Andrus received "a healthy campaign contribution" from an alleged Mafia-connected sports cartel, Emprise Corp., based in Buffalo, N.Y.

The columnist said the contribution was known to more than two dozen Idaho officials, state and county police and the FBI. He said the fact was included in the bureau's confidential report to President Carter in early 1977.

Anderson claims Emprise wanted to open a race track in northern Idaho in 1970, to be located within traveling distance of Spokane, which was preparing to host the 1974 Expo. He claims Emprise wanted to "spread money around where it would do the most good" in order to gain the race track.

Symms asks developers to talk to Church

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms Wednesday urged members of the Southwestern Idaho Development Association to use their influence with Sen. Frank Church to "get him to quit undercutting" efforts to pass a revised River of No Return Wilderness bill.

Church, a Democrat, sponsored legislation which passed the Senate to create a 2.3 million acre wilderness area in central Idaho, but when the measure was forwarded to the House, Symms suggested an alternative proposal.

Symms said that members of the association could do to help passage of the Symms' version.

Irrigation project hearing in March

Church backs nuclear safety programs

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, Wednesday said nuclear safety programs are necessary for the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory's future and will mean new jobs and an expanded role for the federal facility in future years.

Church said "By the same token, INEL is in the forefront of nuclear safety research associated with development of the breeder nuclear reactor."

Church also said the INEL "will have a large role to play in fusion energy — the energy of the future — is developed." He said the INEL has been designated as the "lead laboratory" for fusion safety research and "this means more jobs and more investment in future years."

Investigators keep their jobs after pharmacy board interview

BOISE (UPI) — Two Idaho pharmacy board investigators who have criticized the drug investigators by their agency, held onto their jobs Tuesday after being summoned to appear before the board.

Bert Wilson, chief investigator, and Jeff Black said, after they were called before the board by letter, that they believed their jobs were being jeopardized by their vocal disagreement with their boss, Pharmacy Board Executive Director Clifford Barnett.

The investigators have testified before the Legislature, saying they favor moving illegal drug investigations to the state Law Enforcement Department to eliminate reluctance by the Pharmacy Board to enforce Idaho drug laws. Barnett disagrees with the plan to switch the investigations to law enforcement authorities.

Earlier this week Sen. John Barker, R-Twin Falls, produced an unsigned memorandum at a Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee meeting. The memo, allegedly from Barnett to Pharmacy Board Chairman Donald Ness, recommended that Wilson and Black be terminated.

Barnett has denied writing the memo and vowed Tuesday to find out who wrote and sent it.

Black said after Tuesday's session with the board that he intends to quit his job if the investigative duties aren't switched to the Law Enforcement Department. He said he couldn't follow under the Pharmacy Board and he said he believes that, if Barker hadn't revealed the memorandum this week, he and Wilson would have been fired by the board Tuesday.

2 reporters barred from federal office

BOISE (UPI) — Two Idaho newsmen have been barred from the premises of the Boise office of the U.S. Immigration Service for what an official said was "unethical conduct" while covering deportation hearings last month for several Iranian students.

Harrison W. Rhodes, supervisory investigator, said Ann Kirkwood of United Press International and Gary Strauss of The Idaho Statesman reviewed "confidential government records without permission or authority during an intermission in the hearings."

Mrs. Kirkwood said she and Strauss attempted to obtain the correct spelling of the names of the students so their stories would be accurate. She said they were informed the information was confidential, although the students gave their names at the beginning of testimony. She said they were told the information could be obtained later in the day from the service's district office in Helena, Mont. Another newsmen eventually called Helena, but did not obtain the information, Mrs. Kirkwood said.

Mrs. Kirkwood said Rhodes approached she and Strauss and demanded their names, but "he wouldn't tell us why." She said he took them into his office, where they said they felt they were "entitled" to the spelling since the students had presented their names when they appeared before the immigration judge.

Rhodes finally gave the newsmen the spelling of the names of those students that already had appeared, Mrs. Kirkwood said.

In a letter to UPI, Rhodes said while the immigration judge and other government personnel were absent from the room, Strauss, without permission, knowing he was not entitled to do so, reviewed official immigration files at the judge's table.

"This review of confidential government records without permission or authority was accomplished with the aid of Ann Kirkwood who stationed herself in the hallway outside the hearing room as a lookout for Mr. Strauss," Rhodes said. "She signaled Strauss when a government employee approached the hearing with a whistle."

The Immigration official said he discussed the incident with Mrs. Kirkwood and she did not deny that it took place and "in fact acknowledged she was part of it."

Rhodes claimed the files the newsmen looked at were official records of individual aliens and the Immigration Service is charged by regulation to "guard" their confidentiality.

Mrs. Kirkwood said the document viewed by the reporters was one sheet of paper on which the names of individuals scheduled to appear for deportation hearings were typed. She said neither she nor Strauss looked inside the file folders that were left in the hearing room.

Rhodes said he advised Strauss and Mrs. Kirkwood that "what they did" was completely unacceptable, if not criminal.

Pine beetle hits Canadian forests

NELSON, B.C. (UPC) — The British Columbia forest industry has devised a plan to battle destructive mountain pine beetles causing havoc in a half million treed acres in the Fernie and upper Kootenay regions of the province's southern interior.

Frank Renshaw, regional manager of the ministry of forests timber range branch, said Tuesday forest industry officials will present a five-year plan to the ministry this week, requesting that over $700 million worth of timber threatened by beetle infestation be cut.

Renshaw said only lightly damaged trees and those in the path of the spreading infestation would be cut. These would be used by regional sawmills capable of handling extra-timber.

By removing the trees, Renshaw said, the beetle's life-supporting habitat would be taken away before the infestation reached epidemic proportions.

"The beetles have been a problem for the past five to six years," he said, explaining the program had been accelerated to keep up with the beetles which have already affected 500,000 acres of timber.

Anderson Lumber announces

FREE PABCO PAINT!

Buy a can. Get a can free.

Talk about a paint sale. Anderson Lumber is actually giving it away!

We've just discontinued most of our Pabco paint. And we need to clear our shelves to make room for a new line of Fuller O'Brien paints.

So, right now, all discontinued Pabco paint is on sale! If you buy a can at the regular retail price, Anderson will give you a second can of similar paint absolutely free.

This free offer applies to any size can of paint. Gallon. Half gallon. Quart. Or pint.

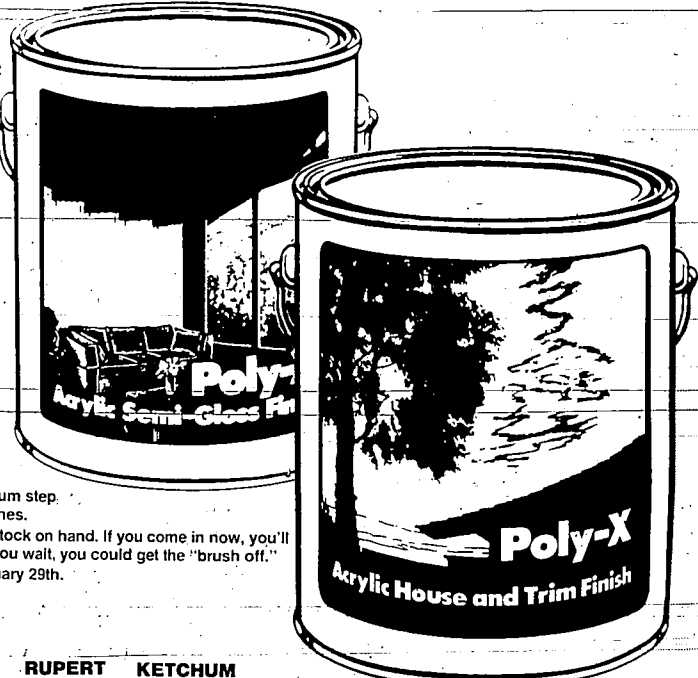

You can select different colors, too. The first can might be brown. The free can white.

If you only need one can of paint, Anderson will give you one can at 50% off the regular price.

Also on sale at big savings: Pabco painting kits, pan and roller sets, polyethylene, aluminum step ladders and assorted paint brushes.

All paint on sale is limited to stock on hand. If you come in now, you'll probably find what you want. If you wait, you could get the "brush off."

Prices effective through February 29th.

Bruins host Boise, Meridian to wrap up regular season

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

TWIN FALLS — Boise and Meridian in the Twin Falls wrap up this season this weekend but neither offered much chance for the Bruins to change game plans.

Both teams defeated the Bruins earlier in the year. Twin Falls kept pace with Boise early before bowing in the late going, and Meridian blew away to a 30-point first quarter and the Bruins weren't even able to recover.

The Bruins travel to Boise Friday night and wrap it up on the home court by entertaining Meridian and ex-Bruin Coach Donnie Haynes Saturday.

"I really don't know what we can do differently against Boise," said Coach John Astorquia Tuesday. "They are so big and have several ways to beat you. I think the only chance we have is to play them the same way this time."

That included as much pressure as possible on point guard Mark Owens, plus inside players John Swanson and Ken Spjut.

"We may try to put a little more pressure on Owens so he doesn't have quite as much time to set things up and get the offense started," he said. "We may start their offense a little earlier. But we can't extend too far or we'll be open underneath and that's where they like to take the ball."

"It boils down to we have to force (Charles) Lung and (Scott) Eisenman to beat us. They did it last time. Lung hit six out of seven from the outside and four in a row in the third quarter when they got away from us. Then Eisenman hit those four points late in the game to put us away."

"But I know those other three can beat us if we can't contain them," he continued. "Spjut, Lung, what, against Borah the other night. We've seen Owens shoot the eyes out of the basket and Swanson get 16 points against us in the second half. They all can score."

"That's why I say we have to make Eisenman and Lung beat us," he concluded.

TFHS gets new scoreboard

TWIN FALLS — Two new scoreboards will be flashing up the score Saturday night when the Bruins entertain Meridian.

The scoreboards, donated to the high school by First Federal Savings and Loan, were installed Tuesday, according to TFHS Athletic Director Duke Wiseman.

"We want to express our appreciation to First Federal for donating these boards to the school," said Wiseman who had had new scoreboards on his priority list since he became director. "It really means a lot to the school."

The solid state scoreboards replace the old ones which had been functioning at the school the last 27 years. The cost to First Federal was $4,000.

"I got to a point where the old ones would sometimes work, sometimes not. And when you have them break down during the Burley game, you've got trouble," he said.

The newly formed Bruin Booster Club was to take the scoreboards on as a project, but when First Federal "stepped forward" it became unnecessary.

A dedication of the new scoreboards will be presented about 7:45 p.m. prior to the Bruin game Saturday night.

Controlling the tempo is the big answer Coach Astorquia has for Meridian.

"You've seen how Coach Haynes can get a team ready to play. Some times his teams get started emotional zoning and they hit everything. That's what they did to us up there. They got 30 points in the first quarter and there was nothing we could do about it. What few times they missed, they put it back in. Mer—that we played fairly evenly with them but we certainly can't let them get another shot like that on us."

With the team record at 6-12, the amazing part of the Bruin statistics show opponents have outscored them by only 15 points — 1080 to 1065. Twin Falls is averaging 59.2 points while allowing 60.0.

Jim Merkle has the scoring title sowed up with a 13.7 average and 233 points going into the final two games. Lars Hovey remains in second at 10.4 and 188 while Jim Crandall is third at 9.6 and 172.

Merkle also tops the club in field goal accuracy, hitting 53 percent from the line field for the season. In rebounds with 7.4 per game. Senior Jeff Jardine actually has the best percentage, hitting 80 percent, but he has shot just 35 times. Clay Mecham is tops in free throw shooting with 82 percent.

People in sports Erving, Bird: classic matchup

By United Press International
They have already met four times during the regular season. Each encounter has been seemingly better than the last, ushering the start of not only a personalized team rivalry but of a personal confrontation to be "pressured by basketball aficionados."

Larry Bird and Julius Erving. The hybrid six-million-dollar men. A celebrated rookie and a redoubtable veteran. They might just be the two best all-around players in the game.

"He is a good player who is team oriented and comes to play every night," says Erving of Bird. "It would be a blessing if I was ever to play with a guy like that. I think we could complement each other very well. But as it is, for the remainder of my career, it looks like he's going to be the opposition."

Bird is effusive in his praise for Erving. He says he learns from the Doctor just by watching him.

"You can't do anything against him," says Bird. "He's unstoppable. I just try to contain him as much as possible. I can't get up with him in any way—shape or form. He's a great player, probably the best in the league. He's awesome."

Erving is experiencing one of his best seasons, finally free of nagging knee injuries and selfish teammates. And with Doug Collins out of the lineup, he is being relied on more and more for the ball in the basket. It is no different when the Sixers meets the Celtics.

GAYLORD PERRY of the San Diego Padres will be traded to the Texas Rangers for Willie Montañez, and the Padres will send pitcher Bob Ojeda to Cleveland for outfielder Jerry Mumphrey before the weekend, the San Diego Tribune reported Wednesday.

BEHN WILSON, Philadelphia Flyers defenseman, has been fined $700 by the National Hockey League in addition to an automatic three-game suspension as a result of a fight during a game against the Los Angeles Kings Feb. 10.

NHL executive vice-president Brian O'Neill levied the fine after conducting a hearing Wednesday in Toronto attended by Wilson, Flyers' General Manager Keith Allen and other NHL officials.

A FORMER WOMEN'S PROFESSIONAL Basketball League player—Wednesday—filled suit against the league, saying officials have conspired to fix the salaries of athletes and prevent them from becoming free agents.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court by Susan Martin of Detroit, charged the league conspired to violate antitrust laws by refusing to negotiate with her as a free agent.

BOBBY HULL was elated for content of court for filing to make maintenance payments to his estranged wife. However, was adjourned Tuesday by Mr. Justice Louis Denise.

Also adjourned was the hockey's star's motion to reduce the $3,000 interim monthly maintenance payment. An earlier contempt motion brought in by Mrs. Hull last October was dropped after Hull paid $5,000 to his wife.

MARV SARGENT of El Cajon, Calif., who has never finished higher than 20th place in 18 previous Professional Bowlers' Association tournaments, took the first round lead Wednesday in the $125,000 PBA Open at Peoria, Ill.

THE CHICAGO BULLS Wednesday traded forward Mark Landsberger to the Los Angeles Lakers for rookie guard Oliver Mack, two second round draft choices and an undisclosed amount of cash.

HECTOR CRUZ, an outfielder, and pitcher Mario Soto have signed one-year contracts for the upcoming season, the Cincinnati Reds announced Wednesday.

SCOTT GROOMS, who replaced Ohio State's Art Schlichter and developed into an outstanding quarterback at Miami Trace High School, will attend Notre Dame.

PEDRO BORBON said Wednesday he will decline himself a free agent when he receives a three-year contract from the San Francisco Giants.

DOUG COLLINS, in a surprise move Wednesday, has been restored to the roster of the Philadelphia 76ers. Rookie Bernard Toone on the injured reserve list to make room for him.

Idaho travels to Montana in Big Sky

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI) — The University of Montana Grizzlies host the University of Idaho tonight in Big Sky Conference basketball.

The Grizzlies hold a 13-9 overall record and 6-5 league title this year, compared with Idaho's 14-4 overall and 4-5 records.

In other games tonight, Boise State is at Montana State, Idaho State at Northern Arizona and Weber State at Nevada-Reno.

On Saturday, Boise State is at Montana, Idaho at Montana State, Idaho State at Nevada-Reno and Weber State at Northern Arizona.

"These are two important games for us this week," said Montana coach Mike Montgomery. "The seeding is important to us and a tie game at home this week could give us a second-place finish in the conference."

Idaho now is in second place in the conference and will be fighting to retain that position or improve on it.

Vandal guard Don Newman is one of the top scorers in the conference, averaging 17.5 points per game, while guard Brian Kellerman is Idaho's second-leading scorer with a 11.2 point-per-game average.

In baseball A's coach says he's fired

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Jim Marshall says he has been fired as manager of the Oakland A's after one year in the job.

Marshall said Wednesday owner Charlie Finley called him at his suburban Scottsdale, Ariz., home and told him his 1-year contract of last season would not be renewed.

Marshall said it was the first contact he had with Finley in months and that "the only reason mentioned by Finley was 'lack of communication.'"

"Naturally, I'm disappointed and down," Marshall told the San Francisco Examiner. "A man likes to finish what he's started and the kids were coming along great at the end of the last season."

"Our communications weren't good, but I'd been holding off on calling Charlie because of the situation over the possibility to move to Denver. There was a possibility I'd be included in that move."

Marshall managed Denver's minor-league team before coming to the A's.

"I was all set for spring training," Marshall said, adding that he had not had time to make other plans yet.

Marshall, 49, was a minor-league star player who played in the majors from 1958-62 and then played in Japan

Reds support player strike

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Three Cincinnati stars — Johnny Bench, George Foster and Tim Lincecum — say they would support a strike if one is called by major-league baseball players this season.

The players' association currently is trying to negotiate a new basic agreement with clubs on pay.

"It would be difficult for a lot of players to support a strike because it's hard for you to support something and pay the bills at the same time," figured Bench. "But as a part of the players' association, sure I'd support a strike

Said Foster, "I'm part of the association. I feel everyone should stick together. Otherwise, the owners will be getting their wish."

Knight predicted that dissatisfied, highly-paid players would be "overwhelming" in their support of a strike, but figured younger, lesser-paid players might be less willing and that is what the owners are "banking on."

"The owners want to see how far they can push us," added Knight, the Reds' player representative to the association. "Well, we're going to back our feeling."

Canyon crown on line

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer
MAGIC VALLEY — The Canyon Conference, even in the days it was the Little Five, has never done things the easy way.

That's why everyone is wondering what will happen in the closing weekend of the basketball season. Probably the best bet is a three-way tie for first because that alignment thrives on three-way ties.

It all depends on Filer, trying to pull off a streak of leading from wire-to-wire. Should the Wildcats get past cellular-dwelling Valley Friday at Eden-Hazelton and then trip Glenns Ferry on the home floor Saturday, it will be decided. Filer will be first, Declo second, Glenns Ferry, third, and Gooding fourth.

That would follow form almost exactly.

But don't count on form. Should Glenns Ferry knock off the Wildcats and no other reversals show, it's a tie among the Pilots, Wildcats and Hornets. Then it's back to the old coin flip to bracket the teams for Tuesday's opening of the 4th District A-3 Tournament in Wendell.

The other conferences, also being their first-round tournament pairings on final standings, could be shuffled somewhat but not to the degree of the A-3.

It is one of the highest closing weekends in Magic Valley basketball history, just 12 games Friday and four Saturday.

Jerome and Burley leave the area, the Tigers at Caldwell Friday night and Burley at Highland Saturday.

Minico hosts Idaho Falls in its final Southern Idaho Conference game. The next time the two meet it will be in the Gem State Conference.

But the spotlight has to return to the Canyon Conference.
Declo, currently riding Magic Valley's longest win streak at 12, will wrap up its season at Kimberly. The Hornets can't afford a stumble as it has a lock on second place now and that possibility of a tie for first. Glenns Ferry preps for its Saturday showdown by entertaining Shoshone, a team Coach Larry Messick has coming on now right when any coach wants his team peaking. Valley entertains Filer in that top-bottom matchup that Filer can't overlook while Gooding and Wendell collide in Wendell with both just looking forward to the start of the new season Tuesday night.

Buhl, piling up 13-1 mark to this point, plays host to Wood River, a team that has dropped seven of eight losses by a total of 19 points.
Murtaugh goes to Galley with a chance to secure the Magic Valley Conference championship while Hagerman and Castletford do-or-die on the home court. Both Hagerman and Castletford are one game behind Murtaugh, setting up the possibility of another three-way tie.

Castletford is looking for vengeance when Raft River comes calling, the Trojans having put the Wolves on the skids late last month just when Castletford appeared on the verge of tucking the title away. Hagerman plays host to Hansen, a team which has made its mark on the title race although it has no chance for the championship.

On the northside, Richfield will be home to the runner-up Bliss Bears.

Saturday's short schedule finds Twin Falls entertaining the Meridian Warriors while Burley is at Highland.

The big match of the night finds Glenns Ferry at Filer. Exactly what could be at stake here is a chance to get away from the two three-A-3 teams in the tournament. The champion goes into the upper tournament bracket along with the fourth, fifth and eight-place teams. That means the supposed tough teams are out of sight until the semi-finals.

Racquetball — Ballbusters to host state play in March

By GARY ELIASSEN
Times-News sports editor
TWIN FALLS — Ballbusters will host the United State Racquetball Association state championships March 20-30.

Featuring adult and junior divisions, the tournament will attract about 150 Idaho racquetball competitors.

According to Dick Rowland of Ballbusters, anybody is eligible to enter, and no qualifying rounds were held.
Sponsored by Leach and Seamco racquetball equipment manufacturers, the state tourney will feature men's and women's open, B, C and novice divisions. There will be singles in all of these, and doubles in open and C only.

There also will be competition for sub-juniors (12-under) and juniors (13-over).

The entry fee is $20 for the first event and $10 for the second event. Deadline to enter is March 21. Those who enter must be members of the USRA which costs $9.

Fifty-three trophies will be given to winners.

Rowland said some of the top contenders for the men's open crown include Robbie Wold, Gene Gibbs and Bob Cooper, all of Boise. He declined to say who might contend for the title in the women's division.

Don Rankin of Salt Lake City is the defending men's champion. Regionals will be held at Spokane April 12-14, but players don't have to place in state to take part in regional. For more information, contact Ballbusters.

Lietzke back to defend title in PGA tourney at Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Bruce Lietzke was full of enthusiasm and ready to start the New Year on the PGA Tour six weeks ago.

He didn't play all that well in the first event — the Hope Classic — but that didn't bother him because it was his first action in two months.

The following week in the Phoenix Open, he improved to a tie for 17th but in the third round he felt that old twinge around his stomach area and for a moment he thought he would have to quit. The pain in the stomach muscle went away and he finished the tournament. However, it returned the next day and he dropped off the PGA Tour to rest.

Last week after a two-week layoff, he retained the Tour for the Hawaiian Open but missed the cut. He's here now with his fingers crossed and hoping he can play back to the form that saw him win the Tucson Open in 1979 for the second time in three years.

This year's event, which carries a purse of $200,000, gets underway today at revamped Tucson National.

Last year's Tucson was played at Randolph Municipal while National was undergoing green changes and the shifting of some bunkers to make the course a little tougher.

National is the course Johnny Miller shot 61-60 in the final two rounds in 1975 — when he won the Tucson Open.

for the second time in a stretch of three straight. Miller is back on Tour after skipping last week, and since he has played the best golf of his career in Arizona, he is one of the favorites here.

Lietzke has had problems with his stomach muscle for a number of years now. It's something he has learned to live with, although it frustrates him at times. In last year's Tucson, while shooting a 68 in the third round to open up a 2-stroke lead, he pulled the muscle.

"I was scared to death," recalled Lietzke. "Here I was, leading the tournament, and maybe I would have to withdraw. That's a terribly frustrating feeling."

Sunday he came to the course, full of apprehension and, somehow, he says now, "I made my way around."

His idea of making it around was another 68 that closed out the field and sewed up the victory. Lietzke won the 1977 Tucson in more dramatic fashion, sinking an incredible 70-foot birdie putt on the third hole of a playoff with Gene Littler.

Tom Watson, who finished second to Lietzke in the 1979 Tucson, is passing this year's event in order to spend an extra week in Hawaii, where he finished seventh. Watson, the world's No. 1 player over the last three years, started 1980 at the San Diego Open with a victory, then finished in a tie for 13th in the Crosby the week before the Hawaiian Open.

BRIDGE

Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Canny defense dumps slam

Bridge score table with columns for NORTH, SOUTH, WEST, EAST and various card suits.

The Professor finally settled on the 10 of spades. South won in dummy and promptly led out the ace-king and the ace of trump. West was back on lead and faced with a really hard problem. Meanwhile East, who had played the ace of spades at trick one, had made three spade discards.

Looking at all the cards you can see that a spade lead, a club lead or the ace of diamonds lead are all fatal. The Professor worked this all out which finally led him to the killing defense. He led a low diamond.

Opening lead: ♠ 10
By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag
The Professor was a trifle surprised by the bidding, but did not even consider a double. He had too much strength. Also, he didn't know what to lead.

Bob Reese Motor Co. and The New Chrysler Corporation Team up to offer Guarantees YOU can depend on!

Bob Reese Motor Co. and The New Chrysler Corporation are changing the way Magic Valley does business.

We at Bob Reese Motor Co. have always worked hard to keep our customer's business and this commitment from The New Chrysler Corporation enables us to guarantee in writing that we are committed to you long after the new car smell is gone.

This way of doing business allows us to back our cars better, service them better, and even take care of you if you run into trouble on the road.

Bob Reese Motor Co. feels that this way of doing business will change the business.

Our customer's satisfaction has always come first and now we can guarantee it!

OUR DEPENDABLE GUARANTEE

Starting now, Bob Reese Motor Co. gives the Magic Valley car buyer guarantees no other car company has ever given.

These commitments from Bob Reese Motor Co. and The New Chrysler Corporation will cover most new 1980 vehicles. But for your personal use only. No doubt you will have many questions. We urge you to visit us for all the answers.

1. The first 30-day/ 1,000 mile money back guarantee.

Only Bob Reese Motor Co. and The New Chrysler Corporation has the confidence to back its cars with a money-back guarantee.

Buy one of our new 1980 Chrysler passenger cars. Drive it up to 30 days or 1000 miles, whichever comes first.

If you're not completely satisfied, you'll get your money back. But not the finance and insurance charges you have accrued. All you do is bring your car back to us in good condition. When we receive clear title, we return your money.

Nobody else does that.

2. The first guarantee of no-cost scheduled maintenance.

You want better service. You want your investment protected.

You'll get it from Bob Reese Motor Co. When you buy or lease a new 1980 Chrysler car or truck.

You'll receive oil changes, oil filters and other scheduled maintenance specified for each vehicle. For 2 years or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first. For 1 year or 12,000 miles on our imports. No charge.

Nobody else does that.

3. The first guarantee of no-cost motor club benefits with emergency road service.

We all drive. We all worry about emergencies on the road.

Bob Reese Motor Co. provides a two year membership in the Amoco Motor Club when you buy or lease a new 1980 Chrysler car or truck. Benefits include emergency road service, emergency towing, car theft reward. And a lot more. At no cost to you - subject to the conditions of membership.

Nobody else does that.

4. And a $50 drive offer to prove our confidence in Chrysler engineering.

Bob Reese Motor Co. and The New Chrysler Corporation are proud of the more improved quality (by 32 percent) of its products. That's what gives us the confidence to pay you to compare.

Test drive any of our new 1980 Chrysler cars or trucks. Buy one of ours. Or buy any qualifying new car or truck from one of our competitors within thirty days. Then return the test-drive certificate with proof of purchase. And the fifty dollars is yours.

Nobody else does that.

Our commitment to the customer's satisfaction has been strengthened.

The New Chrysler Corporation has made a 13.5 billion dollar commitment to build more and more fuel efficient cars for an energy short America.

The New Chrysler Corporation has made a commitment to build better cars. To back them better. To service them better.

These commitments along with Bob Reese Motor Co.'s past proven record of dependability and customer satisfaction are bound to change the way Magic Valley does business.
